Calf Scramble To Be Added To Tot Rodeo

Officials of the Top o' Texas Rodeo Association announced today that a special feature attraction will be held this year in the form of a Beef Calf Scramble. This attraction will be held on Friday night, August 8.

4-H Club and F.F.A. members in Gray, Roberts, Hemphill, Wheeler, Carson and Ochiltree counties will be eligible to participate. The age limit is 13, 14, 15, and 16. The boy must have reached his 13th birthday by or on August 1, 1958. Only those boys interested in agriculture and the feeding of beef cattle will be eligible.

Clyde Carruth, chairman of the Beef Calf Scramble Committee, said that the contest will be limited to 50 boys and a time limit of 15 minutes has been set for the contest.

This event, which is held in a few of the major rodeos of the Southwest, including Houston, San Antonio and Ft. Worth, has always been a very popular and entertaining event.

All applications in the Scramble Contest must be made through the County Agent and F.F.A. Advisor in the respective counties listed.

All boys who are successful in catching and haltering a calf in keeping with the rule will be required to show his animal at the 1959 Top o' Texas Fat Stock Show, at which time he will be required to make a report on the animal relative to feed costs, etc.

The Scramble Committee has investigated and cleared all technicalities relative to eligibility in this type of contest. The Inter-scholastic League State Executive Committee, in cooperation with the State Board of Vocational Education, has approved contests of this type and there is no danger of impairing the amateur status of any body who might participate.

Any 4-H or F.F.A. boys falling in the eligible age bracket who might be interested in entering the Scramble Contest should contact their County Agent or F.F.A. Advisor as soon as possible since the number of boys will be limited.

The Scramble Committee is now at work securing donors for the calves to be used in the Scramble and as soon as their work is complete, full details will be released, according to Bob Adnis, president.

Since this is the first time an event of this type has been held in the Top o' Texas area, a brief description is as follows:

A number of calves, for practical purposes we will say 12, will be turned loose in the arena. All boys entered in the contest will be furnished a rope halter. At the sound of the referee's whistle the contestants will try to catch, halter and lead a calf across the finish line in the allotted 15 minutes time. When the boy has successfully done this in keeping with the rules the calf will be awarded to him. He will feed and groom the calf, bringing it back to show at the Top o' Texas Fat Stock Show in 1959, at which time the animal will be sold and any profits derived from the sale will belong to the boy.

Stolen Car Is Reported Here

Prentice said that he parked his car in the parking lot at 4 p.m. when he reported for work and at 6:30, when he was leaving for supper, he found his car had been stolen.

The car is a 1954 two tone green Bel Air Chevrolet and bears Texas license plate numbers AV-1087.

All voices will join in the opening and closing choruses under the direction of A Capella's Bill Hunt.

The A Capella Choir and the Boys' and Girls' Choirs, all Pampa High School's, will sing from their wide repertoires when they appear singly with Hunt.

Ninth Grade Choir and in another presentation, combine the Junior and Senior High School groups.

Austin; Mrs. Dan Johnson, Woodrow Wilson; Mrs. John Branham, Horace Mann; Mrs. Claudie Gallman, Baker; Miss Eloise Lane, Sam Houston; Mrs. Joe Page, Lamar; Miss Patsy Stovall, Seventh Grade; and Mrs. Hope Rush, Eighth Grade.

See Fireworks In Congress' Committees

WASHINGTON (UP) — Routine business was scheduled for the floor of the House and Senate today, but fireworks appeared probable in congressional committees.

A question possibly to receive a partial answer was whether President Eisenhower won any new support from Republican members of Congress for his defense reorganization, foreign aid, and reciprocal trade proposals.

The House Armed Services Committee today was scheduled to continue its review of defense reorganization.

A subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee was scheduled to tackle the question of foreign aid anew behind closed doors today.

The House Ways & Means Committee, meanwhile, gave the administration until Monday to come up with compromise proposals for the reciprocal tariff-cutting bill.

Democrats put off voting on the measure in the committee Tuesday. Democratic leaders say the bill is in grave danger of being riddled with Republican-backed amendments that would impose drastic new restrictions on U.S. imports.

The bill would extend the President's tariff-negotiating authority for five years after June 30, with power to reduce tariffs by 25 percent over that period.

House farm leaders were pressing for approval of a bill authorizing a cut in price supports for extra-long staple cotton. It may get on the House floor for debate today. The farmers who grow the crop requested the price support cut in order to remain competitive with growers in other countries, mainly Egypt.

Space problems continued to intrigue House and Senate committees today. The House Space Committee sought to determine whether anything but force could stop a nation from claiming the moon or Mars. International space laws appeared the alternative.

The Senate Space Committee was to deal with the administration's space program, and hear from Undersecretary of Defense Donald A. Quarles.

Chief Counsel Robert F. Kennedy of the Senate Rackets Committee said evidence would be presented today which may interest the government in starting extradition proceedings to bring labor figure Ben Lapsensohn back to the United States. The former Philadelphia has been a central figure in the committee's current investigation of Teamster Union skulduggery.

Agreement Reached By Firm, Union

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Tentative agreement on a two-year contract between Lockheed and a lodge of the International Association of Machinists early today raised hopes of avoiding a paralyzing nationwide aircraft strike set for midnight tonight.

The agreement, announced jointly by Lockheed and IAM Negotiators covered 16,000 employees in the company's Burbank, Palmdale and Maywood, Calif., plants.

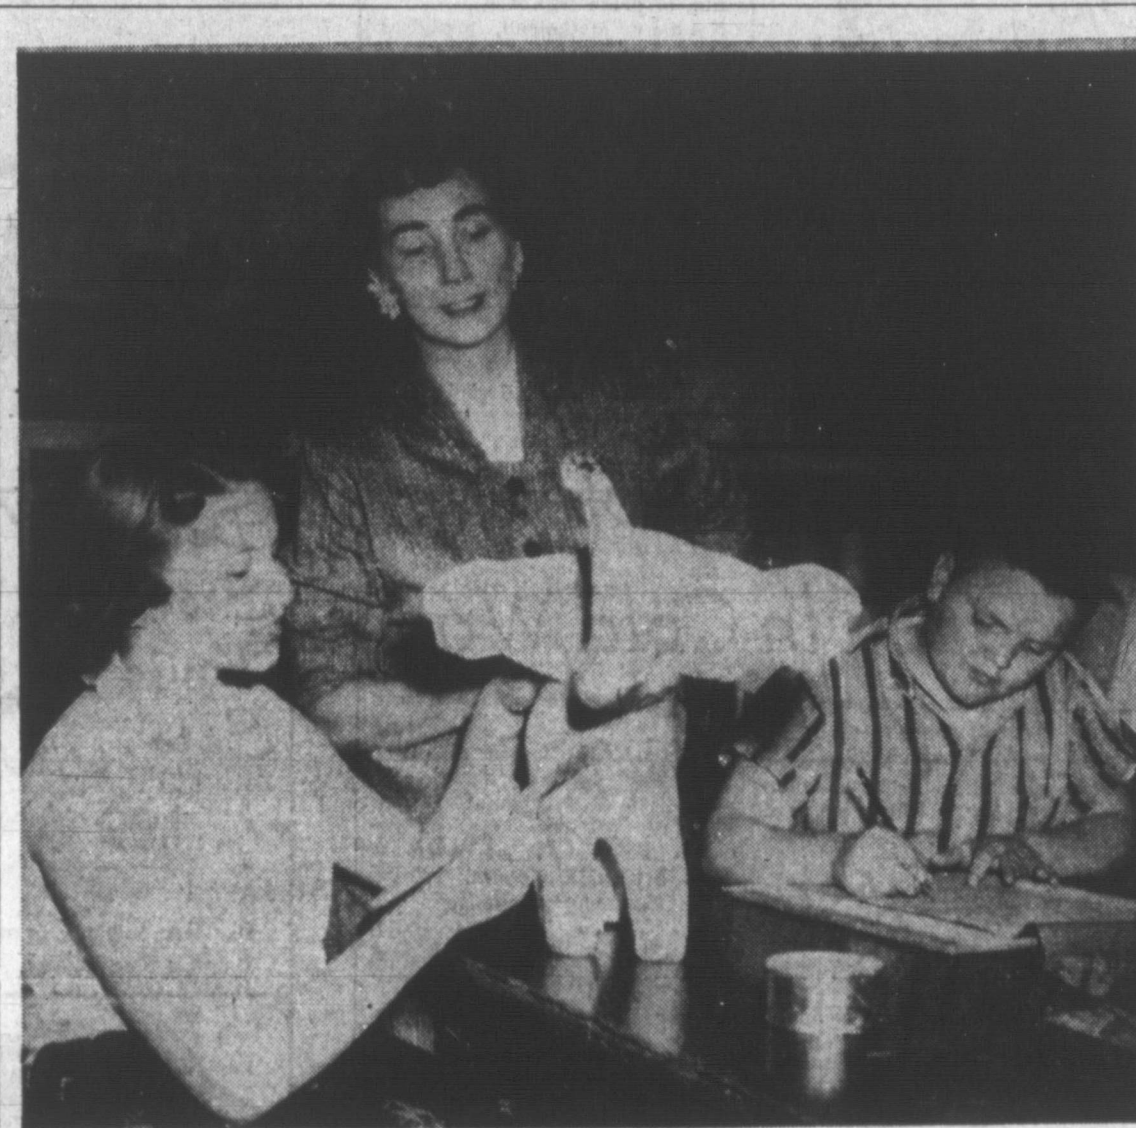

The pact, if approved by IAM Lodge 727, would increase wages on an average of 22 cents an hour.

The announcement was made by Donald Wilder, Lockheed's California division industrial relations director, and John Snider, president of IAM Lodge 727.

Snider said he would report details of the agreement to Lockheed employees attending a union membership meeting to be held "as soon as possible."

The agreement, first in 1955 aircraft and missile negotiations, was seen as a possible pattern for settlement of the other wage talks the IAM and the United Auto Workers are conducting with North American, Convair and Douglas.

Lockheed employees, who had not had a cost-of-living plan in their old contract, had higher demands than employees of the other companies.

Scientists Return From Balloon Trip

DUBUQUE, Iowa (UP) — Two Navy scientists, who soared in a balloon eight miles into the stratosphere for a telescopic look at the heavens to help pave the way for manned satellites, landed southeast of here today unharmed.

The balloon, launched Tuesday night, came down shortly before 7:30 a.m. c.d.t., in a clover field on a farm six miles east of Dubuque in Illinois.

The two scientists jumped out of their open basket gondola and gulped down hot coffee after their frigid night-long flight. The men experienced temperatures as low as 76 degrees below zero at the eight-mile altitude.

They were taken by helicopter to the Dubuque airport, from where they were flown by plane to Minneapolis.

They were to be bedded down on their arrival in Minneapolis, awaiting in time for a news conference at 7 p.m. at the Minneapolis Naval Air Station.

The scientists were the first to view stars and planets through a telescope in the stratosphere. The experimental flight also tested the reaction of the scientists to the thin air and the cold temperatures of the lower stratosphere.

The Navy billed the flight as a forerunner to observing man in future flights around the earth in a satellite.

The strato-lab gondola balloon was launched from an iron mine pit near Crosby, Minn., at 7:50 p.m. c.d.t., and reached its ceiling altitude of about 42,000 feet at 8:30 p.m., over Mora, Minn.

The men then brought the gondola down slowly during the morning hours, pausing at various altitudes to make further astronomical observations, and then drifted at 11,000 feet awaiting daylight and a chance to land.

The men wore heavy clothing and breathed mechanically supplied oxygen in the rarified stratosphere.

Navy spokesmen at Minneapolis, who maintained contact with the scientists via radio, said the flight was "successfully executed with no failures reported in the tests or measurements."

The spokesmen said it would take some time to evaluate the scientific data obtained.

Aboard the gondola were Alfred H. Mikesell, an astronomer who became the first man ever to view the heavens through a telescope from above the earth's atmosphere, and Cmdr. M. D. Moss, an atmospheric physicist and pilot of the balloon.

The Navy said another first in the flight, one of a series which have been conducted by the Office of Naval Research, was the extensive equipment aboard to relay the effects of the flight on the men.

Dennis Crosby Charged By Young Mother

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Newlywed Dennis Crosby, baldish 32-year-old son of crooner Bing Crosby, Tuesday was named by a pretty, 25-year-old divorcee as the father of her six-month-old daughter.

The charge, made by Marilyn Scott, a switchboard operator and stenographer, added to young Crosby's already mounting troubles growing out of his marriage Sunday night in Las Vegas to showgirl Pat Sheehan, 26.

Mrs. Scott, who was reported to have used the name of Miller professionally in pursuing a career as an actress, claimed Dennis fathered her daughter, Michelle Denise Scott, born Nov. 24, 1957, at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

The sensational claim brought no comment from father Bing Crosby, who said he had no knowledge of the charge.

The word from Dennis and Mrs. Scott after the original claim that young Crosby was a father.

Dennis' troubles started a few hours after his Sunday night marriage to Miss Sheehan, a divorcee and mother of a six-year-old son, when the couple learned they had been married by a Protestant minister at the Gretna Green Wedding Chapel instead of a justice of the peace.

Dennis, a Roman Catholic like his father, his twin Philip, and brothers Lindsay and Gary, issued a joint statement with his statuesque bride, an Episcopalian, saying they were "sorry" for the mistake, that they had intended to be married by a justice of the peace.

The bridegroom said he would attempt to reconcile the wedding to Miss Sheehan with the Catholic Church. He had no sooner said it than Mrs. Scott made her claim.

Art Club To Sponsor Exhibit Here

Under the sponsorship of the Pampa Art Club, two Junior High School art classes will stage an exhibit and working demonstration at Lovett Memorial Library over the week end.

The Junior High Art Show will open at 1 p.m. Saturday with a demonstration of painting and crafting techniques that will run until 5 p.m. The exhibit will continue Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

Seventh and Eighth Grade artists will be in the Exhibition Hall Saturday to put over the active part of the show.

Mrs. Willetta Olds' Seventh Graders will do on-the-spot enameling, experimental painting and actual paper mache. In the enameling operation they will use the class room kiln.

Mrs. Roy Riley's Eighth Grade showmen will carry out a program of brush painting with water colors, spontaneous chalk design and clay modelling.

On the exhibit level will be the tin can mobiles, clay figures, glass work, water colors, masks and what not that the youngsters have been working on all year.

The women of the Pampa Art group and the Junior High School art faculty invite each and every citizen to see what the Junior High has produced.

Western Big Three In Reply To Reds

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UP) — The Big Three announced today that other Western nations, such as Italy, may take part in an East-West foreign ministers' meeting or a summit conference.

The United States, Britain and France announced this in a brief joint statement issued as the NATO foreign ministers meeting neared its end.

The statement said:

"The three countries conducting the preliminary diplomatic contacts with the Soviet Union indicated that they did not consider that they would necessarily be the only Western nations to take part in a possible conference of foreign ministers or in a possible summit conference. Other countries, as for instance, Italy, might then be included."

Counter Soviet Claim
The Western statement obviously was intended as a reply to the Soviet demand that such Russian satellites as Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia should be given seats not only at the summit conference table but also in the current preparatory diplomatic talks in Moscow and at a possible foreign ministers' conference later.

The Soviets put forward this demand with the object of enforcing what they called the "principle of parity" in future East-West negotiations.

The West has flatly rejected this Soviet claim. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles pointed out that the NATO council this week that it contained the risk that Russia ultimately might win a position for itself in the United Nations General Assembly in which it could veto all Western moves as it already can in the Security Council.

His views ran directly counter to those of Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga.), 74, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. Vinson's committee is considering the President's proposal and is poised to remodel it from stem to stern.

Cannon's blast, delivered to the House Tuesday, drew an ovation from the 100 or so members present, indicating a sizable body of opinion favoring the Eisenhower plan. But Vinson still sat in the driver's seat, guiding the committee which will write the bill.

Vinson has said he fears the broad authority sought by the President might permit a military man to take over the country some day. Cannon scoffed at this specter of "a man on horseback."

"Can you imagine an official dictator in the United States?" Cannon asked. "How silly can you get?"

Extension Of Street Discussed

Fred Neslage, Paul Crouch and George Cree Jr. appeared before the Pampa City Commissioners yesterday in behalf of the Community Hotel Company to discuss a proposed bridge and the extension of Somerville street to Hobart.

Since commissioners Ed Myatt and Jack Vaughn were absent yesterday, the commission tabled action on the proposal until the next regular meeting, May 13.

Bush-Bearded Man In Battle With Sussex Council

SHOREHAM - BY THE SEA, England (UP) — Bush-bearded Bill Wheel today distributed propaganda leaflets he hopes will help win his battle with the Sussex County Council. He had resorted earlier to a show of force.

The council says Wheel's 5-foot 11-inch garden wall is three feet too high and blocks the sea view of his neighbors. It ordered him to trim it. He refused.

To back his stand Wheel declared war on the council, bought five armored cars from a scrap dealer and ordered three Sherman tanks he hopes will arrive today.

In the meantime he opened a war of nerves and said he would take the war to the council by distributing leaflets throughout the area.

Informed sources said the council was so upset at Wheel's resistance — the first such it had encountered — that it has not yet decided on strategy to cope with it.

3,000 Are Said Killed In Cuba

MIAMI (UP) — About 3,000 Cuban intellectuals have been systematically murdered since President Fulgencio Batista took over six years ago, a prominent Havana lawyer charged Tuesday.

Dr. Jose Miro Y Cardona, president of the Havana Bar Ass'n., said that just recently 300 such leaders of the professions and arts have been killed.

Miro, now living in Miami in exile, said: "The human reserves of Cuba are being exhausted. The people who are being killed are the best element in our republic. The longer this goes on, the fewer genuine leaders are left."

He said he had to seek sanctuary in the Mexican embassy April 15 when secret police raided the Havana Bar Ass'n. offices. Earlier he had signed minutes of a bar meeting at which members voted to petition Batista to resign and restore constitutional government.

Miro added that it is no longer possible for an attorney safely to represent a client in a matter involving the Batista regime. He said doctors have been killed for treating rebels.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: There's a woman in our office who thinks she is hot stuff. She dresses much too young for her age, but the worst part of her is that she uses a perfume that gives me a headache. When she passes my desk I can smell her perfume for hours. It's not only me. Others in the office have complained about it. How can we tell her without hurting her feelings?

THE OFFICE GANG
Dear Gang: Let the co-worker who is on the friendliest terms with the offender be the spokesman. Helpful advice of this nature must be handled with the utmost diplomacy, goodness "nose."

DEAR ABBY: I don't want to be a mean mother-in-law, but my problem is that my daughter-in-law lets her kids take her pots, pans and baking utensils outside to play with like they were toys. Then she borrows mine. Instead of asking for them back, I go out and buy myself new ones, but there has to be a limit. I have bought more baking pans, pie tins and flour sifters than you would believe. I know this isn't a matter of life or death but I wish you would tell me how to handle it.

MOTHER-IN-LAW
Dear M-I-L: Go to the dime store and buy the kids TOY baking utensils intended for playing outside. Give them to your daughter-in-law to give to her children. Tell her from now on she must keep her baking utensils for baking only. (And be sure to smile when you say it.)

DEAR ABBY: About that family where the mother is Protestant and the father is Catholic and they expect to raise all the boys Catholic and all the girls Protestant. Our family is split just like theirs. We made the same bargain and believe me, it isn't working out. Our daughters go to Protestant Church and our son goes to Catholic school. They are growing apart from each other because all they do is fight over religion. I love my husband and I love all my children the same, but if I had known what the future held, I would never have made that kind of a bargain. SORRY NOW

DEAR ABBY: What's all this fuss about split religions in the family? We have three religions in ours and get along fine. I married a widower who is a Mormon but his deceased wife was Catholic so he is raising his two daughters Catholic. I am a Baptist and practice my own religion. We have never had a harsh word in our home about religion. It is a personal opinion, like one's political belief.

CONFIDENTIAL TO UNHAPPY HAT-CHECK GIRL: You've been everything to that guy but an income tax deduction. Of course he won't marry you now. Why should he?

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Girl Scout Troop Organized Recently

An Intermediate Girl Scout Troop was organized recently in White Deer with twenty girls registering for the program. Mrs. Alvin Lewis presided as leader with Mrs. Jack St. Clair as assistant leader.

Officers for the troop were elected at the initial meeting as follows: Betty Peters, president; Lynette Williams, vice president; Virginia Shaffer, secretary; Susie Hughes, treasurer; and Pamela Traylor, reporter.

Plans were made for patrol organization at the next meeting at which time patrol leaders will be chosen and a project decided upon.

The troop will meet every Thursday after school during May in the grade school library. "At least one more assistant leader is needed for the group," Mrs. Lewis stated.

RULES FOR ROASTING
When planning to prepare a meat cut by the roasting method, you'll undoubtedly want everything just perfect. For a few suggestions to help you attain this perfection, remember that a roast should never be floured, a roast should never be covered, water is never added, the meat cut should be roasted fat side up so it helps to baste itself and a low over temperature should be used.

Sam Houston Band To Play Concert

Sam Houston PTA will meet Thursday afternoon at two in the school auditorium. Mrs. Charles Hickman Jr. will be the program leader. Mrs. Jon E. Jones will be the guest speaker.

A concert is planned by the school band under the direction of Charles Meech.

New officers for the coming 1958-59 PTA year will be installed by Mrs. Bob Andis.

A tea will be given at the close of the meeting honoring mothers, whose children will enter elementary school next fall. A nursery will be provided for those attending.

Mrs. Ivan Noblitt, outgoing president, announced that the executive board will meet at 1 p.m., preceding the general meeting.

FRUIT FRITTERS
Fritters are always a welcomed treat in many homes, especially of fruit. For a spring treat, combine ground cooked ham with when they're hiding choice morsels and pineapple mixture into a fritter. Crushed pineapple. Fold the ham batter combination composed of flour, baking powder, cinnamon, sugar milk and egg. Drop the batter by teaspoonfuls into deep hot lard and fry until golden brown.

Pampa News Women's Editor

Feel low? Need a lift? Well, we have a suggestion. Buy a chemise. Our grandmothers might have recommended a good dose of sassafras tea, but there is a more modern version currently rampaging the fashion world that is guaranteed to lift you out of the doldrums of winter-time living and set you up in the proper frame of mind for summer fun that lies ahead. It is guaranteed, too, to bring fun into your life.

The other day, we entered one of Pampa's fine ladies' apparel shops, just one hour before we had a date with the dentist for a tooth-pulling. Our main objective was to buy a morale-booster so that we would have something pleasant to look forward to the next day. At first, we idly browse through the more conventional Spring dresses, knowing all along what we really had in mind. We'd like something in black and white, we innocently advised the clerk...

...and mentioned a size. Almost immediately we saw the dress we wanted. "Oh, just for fun, think I'll try this one on. I don't even plan to buy one, but while I'm here I might as well try it." A transformation took place as soon as we stepped into the dress. The dread of the immediate trip to the dentist passed. We chuckled and bought the dress.

Next, we advise a private showing in your own home sometime when you are alone to accustom yourself to the idea, so that you may wear the dress casually and nonchalantly... as if nothing different was happening to you. Then you are ready to spring the shock on your family. If it is early in the morning that you decide to wear it, make sure first that your husband is not shaving and that your children are fully awake.

Too, we have found that the chemise has opened up a new world of etiquette... rules on how to walk, how to sit and even how to stand. To cover the first rule of walking, don't wear one when you are in a hurry to get some place, because the narrow hemline is not conducive to long steps. And it takes a little more time to get into and out of your car. You will find that a lady-like mincing step is more compatible to the new style. Second, in sitting down in a car, we found that you can't just hop into it. A recommended procedure is, approach the car, open the door, then as if you are going to drive side-saddle sit down in the seat with your legs still on the outside and gently turn around to driving position. In sitting down in a chair, ease the dress just a bit to avoid splitting seams or popping off buttons.

We had sort of a Baptismal by Fire, the first day we wore Our Dress. We had an appointment at Junior High to take pictures of the new PTA City Council officers being installed. The appointment was timed, inadvertently during the students' break. The sidewalk, crosswalks, and school-yard literally teemed with youngsters. Our adventure of wearing the chemise for the first time could have resulted in putting Our Dress in the farthest, darkest corner of our closet, never to be worn again, but it really had the opposite effect. It conditioned us for wearing it anytime under any circumstances. The young people weren't rude; they were just outspoken. For instance, "Look at that dress!"...

"She could carry her camera in the back".... "Wonder if she has a parachute in there".... "Looks like a backward kangaroo". With these belted in front, balloon in back dresses, we get the distinct feel that we are being followed, hence there is never a feeling of loneliness in these "Most fun" fashions. And let us add, we think that they are a lot more flattering to the average woman than she will at first believe.

Yesiree, the chemise is one of the best things that has happened to women since Lydia E. Pinkham's.

IT TAKES TIME
A boneless rolled roast takes approximately 10 minutes per pound longer to cook than the same roast with bone in.

SUMMER TIME KABOBS
Boneless lamb is often used to prepare kabobs, but for a novel change use frankfurters or cubes of canned luncheon meat.

PLANKING
Planking is a popular method of meat cookery being employed more and more by the American homemaker. Steak... sirloin and porterhouse... maintain their popularity for planking. As a change, try planking lamb leg steaks.

CANNED MEAT ON MARCH
Purchase a 12-ounce can of corned beef and escort it to the table, after heating, with parsley dumplings. Corn-on-the-cob and a tomato-onion salad complete this summer feast.

PAN-BROILING JARGON
When pan-broiling steaks or chops, use a low temperature and do not cover the meat. Pour off the fat as it accumulates.

Worthwhile HDC Has Weight Topic

The Worthwhile club met in the home of Mrs. Lester Reynolds, 420 Crest, recently.

Miss Helen Dunlap, HD County Agent, gave the program on "Maintaining Normal Weight." Miss Dunlap stated the way to have and keep normal weight is to use the Texas Food Standard. "Smaller servings could be used if the person should reduce. Larger servings, if they should gain weight."

"Enjoyable meals should be served, thrift should be practiced, and time and energy should be saved. The body needs protein, minerals, water, calcium, iron, vitamins, and starch. Three meals should be eaten a day, even if reducing."

Miss Dunlap went on to say the Medical Association approves of the following menu as a reducing diet: Breakfast: orange juice or orange, 2 eggs, 1 slice of bread or toast, 1/2 tablespoon of butter, and glass of milk. Lunch or supper: 1/2 lb. meat, milk, two thirds cup of vegetable or salad with dressing and potato. Dinner: 1/4 lb. meat (liver), two thirds cup of vegetable, butter, 1 slice of bread, canned or fresh fruit and milk.

Members present were Mmes. J. L. Carlton, O. G. Smith, Bert Smith, W. G. Kinzer, Stella Wagner. Visitors were Mrs. Pearl Ferguson and Miss Dunlap. Refreshment hour.

Church Women To Sponsor Film

First Christian Church was the meeting place for the May Fellowship Luncheon recently, with Lamar Christian Church, as hostess. Women of nine Pampa churches attended.

Mrs. Bill Craig, First Christian Church, had charge of the program.

Mrs. De Lea Vicars discussed "Fellowship," and stressed fellowship of all churches.

Mrs. Jim Webb sang "The Love of God," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. John Gill. Mrs. W. R. Campbell gave the thanks for the offering.

Mrs. H. J. Pickett conducted the business meeting in the absence of the president. The churches that had not paid their pledge, were asked to send it to the treasurer, Mrs. Howard Johnson.

Mrs. William West reported that the film, "Albert Schweitzer," could be brought to the Pampa Theatre now. It was noted to sponsor it. The tickets will be sixty cents per person if bought from the United Church Women.

BEEF CURRY ON RICE
Purchase boneless beef, cut in 1-inch cubes. Braise as usual except add just enough curry powder to give that extra flavor finesse. Serve over hot rice.

Joe Brown Vs. Ralph Dupas In Lightweight Title Match

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—Champion Joe Brown puts his title on the line tonight against speedy Ralph Dupas in a 15-round boxing match for the lightweight championship of the world.

It will be the fourth defense of the title Brown won from Wallace (Bud) Smith at New Orleans Aug. 24, 1956.

For Dupas, 22, it is the first chance at a title.

Both Brown and Dupas wound up heavy work Monday and exercised only lightly Tuesday.

Brown, 31, broke up his training camp at a YMCA camp 23 miles from downtown Houston and motored into the city for the night. Dupas, followed by newsmen, left his downtown hotel for a 12-block walk late Tuesday afternoon.

The challenger was relaxed as he strolled through city streets. His trainer and co-manager, Angelo Dundee, predicted the fight would go the distance with Dupas winning a decision with his speedy jabs and footwork.

"Brown doesn't take Dupas very seriously," Dundee said, "and he's going to be in for a shock. Dupas can knock him out if he nails him—and he may nail him tonight."

Lou Viscusi, Brown's manager, stopped figuring the gate which he hopes will reach $60,000 long enough to predict a knockout by Brown in the middle rounds.

"Those light punches of Dupas, won't matter," Viscusi said. "Brown will catch him and then it will be all over." Viscusi predicted the contest would shape up as "a boxer versus a slugger" with Brown eventually catching the fleet Dupas.

A host of New Orleans boosters knocked down early 2 to 1 odds in favor of Brown Tuesday although both men are from New Orleans. It appeared the odds would be at even money when the two men square away at 8 p.m. c.s.t. The fight will be televised over ABC stations with Houston blacked out for a 100-mile radius.

Silky Is Still Leading Horse In Popularity

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP)—Silky's still trailing Tim Tam—but not in the popularity league. Silky Sullivan, the West Coast colt who disappointed so many of his fans in the Kentucky Derby, arrived here from Louisville Tuesday night to begin preparing for the Preakness, the second jewel in thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown classics.

Traveling with Gine Fishin', another West Coast colt who also fared badly in the Derby, Silky got here quite a few hours after Tim Tam, the Derby winner, but to a far more splashy welcome. Approximately 150 fans were on station when Silky's train arrived, but it wasn't until an hour later that the horse car bearing the "people's choice" pulled up to the siding. Children and adults alike waited patiently despite a drizzling, cold rain.

The spectators included more than 30 members of the nation's oldest Irish-American organization, the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick of Baltimore. The crowd stood patiently by as photographers took picture after picture of the flaming red colt who finished 12th in the 14-horse Derby field. Children in the crowd bore placards bearing such slogans as "Hooray For Silky," "We Still Love You" and "Good Luck in the Preakness."

By contrast, there had been practically no spectators on hand when Tim Tam made a quiet arrival several hours earlier at the same station. Even Gine Fishin' went unidentified as his handlers walked him down the train ramp onto a waiting van. No pictures were snapped.

Martinez Eyes Scrap With Akins

BOSTON (UP)—Stylish Vince Martinez looked forward confidently today to his welterweight title scrap with Virgil Akins in St. Louis next month after shaking off the rust with an easy TKO win over former Canadian lightweight champ Armand Savoie.

The Paterson, N.J., cutie stopped the veteran Savoie at 0:48 in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Mechanics Building Tuesday night in his first bout in nearly three months. Martinez, who weighed 148 to Savoie's 144½, battles Akins June 6 for the crown vacated by Carmen Basilio.

Martinez left—jabbed the Canadian through six rounds, never being touched himself, and stopped him with a left-right combination followed by a right to the head that sank Savoie into the ropes.

"I feel very strong and in good shape," Martinez said after the fight. "I intend to be in the best shape of my life for the Akins fight."

SMITH TO CUBS
SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, here for a series with the Giants, Tuesday sent utility man Paul Smith to the Chicago Cubs for the $20,000 waiver price. Smith appeared in 81 games for the Pirates last year after a two-year hitch in the Army and batted .253.

Pampa Thumps Palo Duro Dons

The Pampa Harvesters snapped a four game district losing streak yesterday to pound out a 4-3 win over the Palo Duro Dons in a District 3-4A baseball game.

The victory bought the Harvesters' district record up to an .800 per cent at 4-4 and their season record to 12-6.

The district race is now in a three-way tie for third place. Pampa stands 4-4, Palo Duro 5-5, and Lubbock 3-3.

Mike Conway was the big Harvester yesterday. Playing as catcher he threw out four men trying to steal second. Then the senior took over the PHS pound duties to scoop a Palo Duro rally in the last frame.

The Dons had scored only two runs off Keith Yager, starting Harvester pitcher, in the first six innings but had rapped him for nine hits. They were trailing 4-3 as the Dons' Gene Kelley led off the seventh. He was safe when third baseman Ruben Strickland booted a roller. Conway went to the mound and Clovis Whipp replaced him behind the batter's box. Batting for Buddy Miller, Richard Ashby pounced up. Ronnie Covington struck out. Richard Barker tripped to cut the difference to 4-3. Conway walked Robert Beene, and then walked Paul Hyatt intentionally to fill the bases.

But Strickland took Harold George's grounder and stepped on third to force Beene, ending the game.

Paul Hyatt, Don pitcher, allowed only six hits but the Harvesters jumped ahead with two runs in the first. Robert Langford homered with Bobby Stephens on base. The Harvesters added another in the second when Strickland scored on Yager's single.

Pampa meets the second place Borger Bulldogs Friday at 4 p.m. and winds up the season with Amarillo here Saturday.

Frank Lane

Kills Talk Of Transfer

NEW YORK (UP)—General Manager Frank Lane of the Indians today knocked down speculation that the club may be transferred to Minneapolis with the assertion that "baseball is still a sport in Cleveland."

"It's not strictly business," Lane maintained. "The men who own this club have a great deal of pride. I have no doubt that Hank Greenberg (Lane's predecessor) would like to move the club. But the men in control have no desire to do so."

The volumnic Lane made his remarks in reply to reports that if the Indians' attendance declined drastically this season, the team would likely be shifted to Minneapolis, which has a ready-made major league ball park awaiting.

And while commenting on this subject, baseball's most active talent-trader also got these other matters off his chest:

—He gave an early-season vote of confidence to Manager Bobby Bragan.

—He tabbed the Indians "an entertaining young ball club with a good chance to make the first division."

—He rapped Commissioner Ford Frick for not permitting him to send sifting pitcher Bob Lemon to San Diego.

—He twitted manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees for "crying with a loaf of bread under each arm."

—And he admitted he doesn't have "a darn thing in sight" in the way of prospective player trades.

Regarding the speculation on shifting the Indians to Minneapolis Lane said:

"If the wordy possessions of the men who own the Indians were tied up solely with the ball club, of course they'd be had business men not to move elsewhere if conditions warranted it."

"But Mr. Daley (Chairman of the Board William R. Daley) and the other principal stockholders are very rich men. Why, they give away millions each year to charity. So it's not a matter of losing money to them. There is a great deal of pride involved. In Cleveland, baseball is a sport."

Allison Team Has Banquet

(Special to The News)
WHEELER—The Allison PTA sponsored a Basketball Banquet Saturday evening in the Allison Gym. D. L. Malin, superintendent of schools, gave the welcome and Clyde Dukes gave the invocation. Otto Mango, fifth grade teacher of Pampa, acted as master of ceremonies. He reviewed many incidents in the basketball history of the Allison Gym and congratulated the Allison school for the remodeling that has recently been completed and the fine girls basketball team that completed a successful year by claiming the title of District Champs.

Mango introduced Borden Price, head basketball coach of West Texas State College, Canyon, who gave the main address of the evening. He showed movies of the West Texas-Santa Clara game.

Pepay Helton and his Four Music Makers from Amarillo completed the evening's entertainment.

A menu consisting of tomato juice, baked ham, creamed potatoes, green beans, tossed salad, hot rolls, butter, fruit salad, cake and iced tea was served by members of the grade school girls basketball team.

Proceeds will go toward the purchase of a school piano.

and power, they haven't touched the hustle and dash of the little bald man with the based in nose. Slaughter never forgot that lesson he learned at Martinsville. And nine years later it paid off in a World Series triumph for the man who taught it to him. For by 1956, Enos was already a veteran outfielder, with the St. Louis Cardinals when Eddie Dyer, his old manager that first year in the "bushes," took over the Redbirds. And in the deciding game of the World Series against the Boston Red Sox, Slaughter roared all the way home from first on a single to score the winning run.

Slaughter was with the Cardinals 13 years, and when Augustus Busch took over as the new owner in 1954, the first man he signed was old Enos. The country boy smiled happily when Busch told him:

"This is the first Cardinal contract I've ever handled. I want you to know that you'll be here as long as I am."

"As long as I am" lasted until just a few days before the 1954 season got under way. Slaughter, one of baseball's "hard guys," broke down and cried when he was told that he had been traded to the Yankees.

Long Time Cardinal
To most other players, going to the Yankees would have been a source of delight and potentially greater profits. But Country had been a Cardinal for 13 years and expected to play out the string with the team for which he had always been the flying clutchman.

Still, as usual, he gave it all he had and, when traded to Kansas City in 1955, quickly became one of the A's favorites as he batted .315. The "big try" for which he is famed paid off again in another unusual development when, in August of 1956, Enos was taken back by the Yankees.

Slaughter hit .350 in the series as he helped the Yankees to victory over the Dodgers and held his place with the world champions through another season and another series last year. But the talent-packed Bombers are overloaded this season, have used the country boy hardly at all and the whisper is that he will get his walking papers within the week.

Braves Half Game Out of First Cub Rookie 'Itches' To 'Make Good'

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer
The Milwaukee Braves are ignoring those pseudo-contenders cluttering up the first division because they've quietly moved into a position where they soon can take command of the National League race.

The Braves are pretty much on their 1957 pennant-winning schedule after walloping the St. Louis Cardinals, 12-8, Tuesday night with a 13-hit assault on seven pitchers. They're only a half game out of first place and their 11-7 record compares favorably with their 13-5 getaway last season.

But the real key to the Braves' start is that they are within easy striking distance of the lead whereas three of the other four so-called contenders—Los Angeles, Philadelphia and St. Louis—are holding up the rest of the league in sixth, seventh and eighth places.

Cubs In Front
The front-running Chicago Cubs dealt Cincinnati its seventh defeat in 15 games when Glen Hobbie's four-hitter throttled the Redlegs, 4-0; the San Francisco Giants whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-0, and the Los Angeles Dodgers edged out the Phillies, 7-6, in 14 innings in the other National League games. The Boston Red Sox beat the stumbling Chicago White Sox, 7-5, in the only American League game.

Frank Torre and Bob Hazle, two of the key fill-ins last season, drove in three runs each for the Braves, who piled up a seven-run lead in the first two innings and clinched the game with a five-run burst in the ninth after the Cardinals drew to within one run. Bob Bohl received credit for his fourth win although Don McMahon and Gene Conley finished up.

The loss was the sixth in a row and 13th in 16 games for the Cardinals who are now 7½ games off the pace in last place. Stan Musial stretched his hitting streak to 10.

Phan said, "We want all of these boys who have been practicing Little League Baseball to get a chance to play, but they won't get that chance unless we get some managers for our farm teams."

Anyone interested in managing one of these teams is asked to report to Lion's Club park any afternoon this week. The Lion's park is located in back of the Steer-In cafe on Brown Street.

16 games with two hits but even so his average dropped a point to .516.

Hobie, acquired in a much-criticized deal with Milwaukee for Bob Rush, struck out seven Redlegs as he won his second decision for the Cubs. Bobby Thomson hammered a three-run first-inning homer off Joe Nuxhall to provide the big blow for the Cubs.

Mike McCormick, $85,000 bonus lefty, yielded only three infield hits to win his second game of the season for the Giants. Rookie catcher Bob Schmidt capped a five-run San Francisco rally in the first with a bases-filled double and rookie first-baseman Orlando Cepeda banged out his eighth homer. McCormick, only 19, struck out four and walked one.

Dodgers Last Longer
The Dodgers outlasted the Phillies in a four-hour and six-minute struggle that ended when Charlie Neal scored on a long single off the left field fence by Carl Furillo. Neal had walked after receiving a "life" when catcher Stan Lopata dropped his foul pop up with two out. Don Drysdale, who had lost five straight decisions, picked up his first win in relief while Dick Farrell, ace Philadelphia reliever, suffered his first defeat since last June 5. The Phillies took the lead with a six-run sixth-inning rally but the Dodgers tied the score in the ninth when Duke Snider collected the third of his four hits.

Managers Needed

John Pharr of the Pampa Optimist club announced today that Pampa's Little Leagues are in great need of farm team managers.

Phan said, "We want all of these boys who have been practicing Little League Baseball to get a chance to play, but they won't get that chance unless we get some managers for our farm teams."

Anyone interested in managing one of these teams is asked to report to Lion's Club park any afternoon this week. The Lion's park is located in back of the Steer-In cafe on Brown Street.

NEW YORK — Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.), in saying this country should stop allowing Russia to assume the United States would not act until attacked:

"This gives her the tremendous advantage of choosing the time, place and method of dealing surprise blows at the free world."

LA PAZ, Bolivia — Vice President Nixon, in refusing to comment on speculation as to his chances of being named GOP presidential candidate in 1960:

"I have a theory that in the United States those who seek the presidency seldom win it. This is one office in which circumstances rather than a man's ambition determine the result. If he is the right man for the right time, he will be chosen."

LITTLE ROCK — Harry S. Ashmore, executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette and winner of a Pulitzer Prize for editorial writing on the Little Rock integration crisis:

"I am fortunate in being associated with the owners and staff of a newspaper that expects its editors to face a tragic situation in its own highest tradition."

Polio Foundation Is Planning For Future

By DELOS SMITH

United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which has engrained "The March of Dimes" into every American mind, is making plans for its own future after polio is wiped out as an epidemic disease, which may well come about this summer.

Those plans involve applying its scientific know-how and its close-knit organization of volunteers to some other public health problem which now seems as impossible to lick as polio seemed 20 years ago, or even a few years ago before the Salk vaccine was perfected.

The plans are not "jelled" and there will be no public announcement for several months. But they are in the works and this reporter has an idea that they will have to do with the virus-caused diseases in general. They all offer unsolved problems whose solutions would save lives and prevent illnesses by the millions.

Leading Virus Scientists
The viral pneumonias, for instance, influenza, for another, and even the common cold. Measles is another and right now, there is an unexplained, heavy increase in cases of measles around the country—36,869 cases for the first 16 weeks of the year, as opposed to 20,794 for the same period last year.

In licking polio the foundation has organized a large group of scientists who through their work on polio have become the leading experts on viruses of the world. The scientific director of the foundation is an outstanding virus scientist—Dr. Thomas M. Rivers. Among the others are men who have intimate knowledge of influenza viruses including Dr. Jonas E. Salk himself.

Before the Salk Vaccine could be developed, the viruses which caused it had to be identified. They turned out to be three in number. Then techniques had to be devised to grow these viruses in the laboratory. Then they had to be studied so they could be used as a vaccine to prevent the very disease they cause.

Bear Down on Polio

All this was done, largely with "March of Dimes" funds, and the scores of scientists who build upon one another's discoveries and thus, in a sense, produced the workable and safe vaccine as a team, know a fabulous amount about viruses collectively. If they are kept at work in an organized way they could accomplish for public health is all but incalculable.

Whatever the new foundation work is, it will be added to polio. The foundation is going to bear down on that disease not only for as long as there are unvaccinated people around, but for as long as there are crippled victims of pre-vaccine epidemics around in need of help.

These victims number some 100,000. Many of them can be benefited by surgery and by various other methods. As Basil O'Connor, president and organizer of the foundation, put it — the "wounded" are not going to be abandoned after the battle is won.

White Deer School Bonds Sold

(Special to The News)

WHITE DEER — School bonds in the amount of $150,000 were sold at the rate of 2.43 per cent to the Columbia Securities company of Amarillo at the May meeting of the Board of Education of the White Deer — Skellytown Independent Schools.

The bonds were approved by a vote of 150 to 51 in a recent election. Macon Carder, Amarillo architect, is now working on plans for the addition of three new classrooms to the White Deer Grade School building, three to the high school, and one to the vocational agriculture building.

According to Supt. Huelyn Laycock, construction will probably begin in June and is expected to be completed in September or early October.

At the Board meeting, Harold Sharpe of Skellytown took the oath of office as a member of the Board of Education. A production foreman for Skelly Oil Company, Sharpe has been appointed to succeed A. D. Parsons, who is moving to Spearman.

In the organization of the Board, following the reelection of Ed Harmon and C. R. McConnell, McConnell was elected president; Virgil Moore, vice president; and Harmon, secretary. Other members of the group are Ray Lowe, John Kotara Jr., and L. C. O'Neal.

Well, man, we sure have a pile of it down here we're just itching to hand out to someone like you — and we hand out plenty! Why do people like us like they do? Maybe it's because every man at S.I.C. has had to have a loan himself, sometime in his life to bail out of a jam. And LOOK, $25.53 a month (24 months) repays that S.I.C. $530 loan. 'Taint' Of Profit

There has grown up in this country thru the passing of the years, a strange and amoral conviction, namely, that commercialism is somehow wrong. Much of the impetus behind this conviction can be traced directly to the communist or socialist doctrine which has so long advocated "production for use rather than for profit."

Marx had it that "any dollar of profit is an unpaid wage."

Thus, to the general public, it has seemed that anyone seeking a profit carried an automatic "taint of commercialism."

With this odd and totally illogical conclusion echoing thru many rather empty minds, it is no wonder that so much commercialism has been placed upon charity in recent years. And even the businessman, himself dependent upon profit, has come to feel a measure of guilt and often seeks to assuage his conscience by pouring out sums of money to various non-profit societies.

While it is not wrong, per se, for a person to give, provided the giving is voluntary, it ought to be readily apparent to even the most childlike mentality that the only persons able to give anything are those who have something. One does not draw water from a dry well.

So if, as so many believe, charity is a great virtue, the making of profit ought to be considered an even greater virtue, since without profit there could be no charity. And where does this leave us as we consider the "taint" of the profit seekers?

Of course there are those who will quickly rise to claim that an act of charity should not emanate from profit, but should, instead, emanate from capital. The theory here is that if a person gives from a surplus, there is small virtue to be gained. It is only when the giving hurts, when it cuts down something the giver actually wanted for himself, that true charity is discovered.

But if this is true, then it would follow that the means of subsisting, let alone of making a profit, would be quickly dissipated. If we give of our seed corn to our neighbor to assuage his hunger, will it not be true that neither of us can have a harvest next year? And if neither of us can anticipate a harvest, won't we now have two recipients of charity where only one was before? If this process were continued it would not be long before all of us would be beggars and there would be none from whom to beg. Surely this cannot be the ultimate aim of charity, to reduce everyone to an equal state of poverty.

It seems to us that there is a vast misunderstanding about the word profit. There appears to be a figment of the imagination that profit consist of large stacks of dollars or goods which simply cannot be justified. But the truth of the matter is that profit is simply one of the legitimate costs of doing business. And even the socialists do not advocate that a businessman seek to run a business without paying his bills.

Within the framework of a socialist's economic ignorance is still a residue of honesty. Surely every socialist would wish to see each worker paid, each service recompensed, each product paid for. He could not advocate that workers work for nothing, that services be performed gratis, and that products be given away. No, even the socialist wants everything paid for. He simply gets himself involved with the word profit because he does not realize that profit is a normal and legitimate cost of doing business.

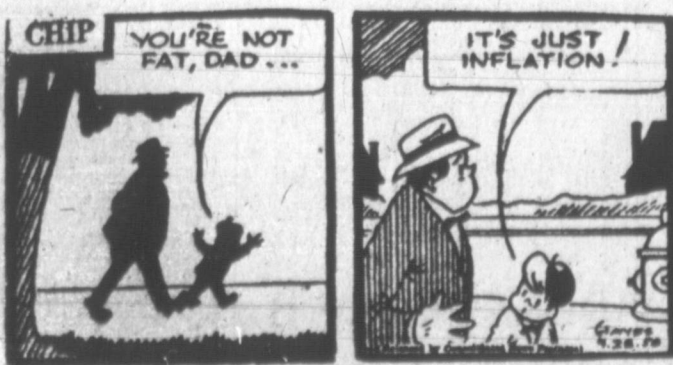

Here are the five costs of doing business. There are no other costs.

1. Cost of goods or services furnished by other.
2. Cost of wages.
3. Costs of tools wearing out.
4. Cost of government.
5. Cost of furnishing the tools.

All business relates to tools. Someone has to furnish the tools. Those who own the tools, be they stockholders or partners or individuals, are entitled to a return on their investments. These investments are rewarded either by dividends, interest or a vague sum which is left over after other costs are paid. But however it is called, these payments are a legitimate cost of doing business and constitute all the profit there is.

For if there were no dividends, no interest and no profit, there would be no inducement for the furnishing of the tools which make all the jobs and all the products possible in the first place. Likewise, the higher the profits, the more inducement there is for future investment, for more jobs and for more products.

There is nothing wrong in this country that a good sound understanding of the virtue of profit might not cure. We hold that the making of profits is one of the basic virtues. Because of profits, all production, all tools, all jobs and even all charity are possible.

"Soviet Education: Myth And Fact"

Eugene Lyons has a very interesting article in the April 28 issue of "National Review" on Soviet education. It has a sub-head "A timely warning of the danger to our spiritual values in uncritical acceptance of the myth of Soviet superiority in education."

Mr. Lyons was United Press correspondent in Russia 1928 to 1934 so he should be in a position to fairly appraise their education and culture.

He relates how Russia, like all despotic governments, specializes only on what will strengthen the state. He writes:

"... Its aim is not to produce whole men, but half-men with bulging scientific muscles for life in an abnormal society. Its masters dread imagination, creative initiative, discussion, experimentation. Their goal is not to free the mind but to contain it, to direct its powers into utilitarian channels."

Then Lyons relates: "Louis Fischer, on returning from a Soviet visit last year, reported that intellectually the country is a desert."

Lyons remarks: "Soviet education is inseparable from the odious police-state behind it. The millions of human beings 'liquidated' and the millions still rotting in hideous concentration camps, the social system that denies elementary human rights and makes independent thinking a crime, the institutions of slave labor and thought control, the concept that men and women are just raw stuff for the building of state power — such things cannot and should not be left out of the total reckoning."

Lyons relates how they even twist science. "It is limited to doing only what the powers permit. Then he relates:

Aims of Education
"A recent article in the Atlantic, by Prof. Richard Livingstone of Oxford, opens with this sentence: 'The chief task of education is to make human beings, to develop attitudes and attitudes necessary for successful living.' And the American educator, Dr. John W. Studebaker, said in a recent lecture: 'I believe we would all agree that the overriding purpose of all education should be the development of sound moral character.'"

"By such texts, which we recognize at once as valid for our civilization, Soviet education — no matter how many Sputniks and Muttniks it tosses into the stratosphere — hardly deserves the name. The man who knows the entrails of a machine or of an atom, but little else, can be called educated only by stretching the meaning of the word."

"The over-all contest between the two worlds will not be decided by weapons alone. It will also be decided — is, in fact, now in the process of being decided — by ideas and ideals, by the hunger of individual man for dignity, freedom and happiness."

"If our supremacy in technology has been opened to doubt, our supremacy in the realm of the human spirit is beyond question. We still have a clear advantage in human values, in spiritual insights, in political liberty and creative freedom. It is an advantage that weighs heavy in the scales of mankind's destiny."

He ends the article with this paragraph: "There is, of course, much truth in the statement that the first line of defense of free nations today is in the laboratory and the classroom. But it is not the whole truth. We must preserve, in essence, our kind of classroom for our kind of world. We must hold on to the values which are, in the ultimate analysis, the foundation stones of our strength. Let us not be panicked by the spectacular accomplishments of a slave state into embracing the standards of slavery, in education or any other department of our lives."

The trouble with American education during this century is that it, too, is too much of a monopoly based on coercion rather than the free enterprise system.

If we were really educated in moral virtues, we wouldn't be worried about unemployment or the changing value of the dollar and our ever-increasing crimes. They are the result of the kind of training we are getting and thinking we're getting an education.

Ike Ponders Dramatic Labor-Management Idea

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower is pondering a dramatic labor-management idea to speed the economic recovery.

It's that he summon Roger Blough, head of U.S. Steel, and David McDonald, head of United Steel Workers, to the White House and personally urge them to hold-the-line on wages and prices.

Under an agreement signed in 1946, largely through the "friendly offices" of then-Treasury Secretary George Humphrey and Labor Secretary James Mitchell, steel workers are due to receive in July an increase of approximately 20 cents an hour in wages and fringe benefits.

To meet this additional cost, the still companies are considering price raises ranging from $5 to $10 a ton.

If both sides of this basic industry can be persuaded to maintain the status quo on wages and prices, the President's economic advisers are fully convinced that it would powerfully stimulate business and employment throughout the country.

While the plan for him to personally talk to Blough and McDonald appeals to the President, he is aware it faces serious obstacles.

Foremost among them is McDonald's insistence on the July payboost.

The steel workers' chief has left no doubt about that in discussions with Labor Department officials, who sounded him out on the matter. McDonald stressed two points:

(1) The forthcoming raise is an integral part of the original agreement; (2) it can be changed only by a vote of the entire union membership.

"I couldn't suspend this increase," said McDonald. "Neither I nor anyone else in the USW has that authority. A contract is a contract, and any change would have to be submitted to all the members of our union. Only they can decide that."

Strong doubt was also voiced by McDonald that his rank-and-file would approve giving up the pay raise.

MOOT ISSUE — In the cabinet, no one stands higher in congressional esteem than Labor Secretary Mitchell, but he had a strenuous time convincing members of the powerful House Appropriations Committee that business will appreciably improve in the summer.

That forecast was sharply challenged by Representatives John Fogarty (D., R.I.), chairman of the subcommittee which handles the Labor Department's budget, Winfield Denton (D., Ind.), and Fred Marchall (C., Minn.). They vigorously questioned the basis for Mitchell's optimistic view.

Significantly, not one of the Republican Committee members present said a word in Mitchell's behalf. Representatives John Taber, N.Y., senior GOP Committeeman, Melvin Laird, Wis., and others sat silent throughout Mitchell's grilling.

"You say there will be a decided pickup in business and employment by mid-summer," said Fogarty. "I have statements here before me by businessmen and economists that real improvement cannot be expected until fall or later. On what grounds do you make your claim?"

"One is that we have a substantially sound economy," replied

Mac Speaks Mind On Ike's Defense Plan

I write this with full knowledge of the possible consequences. Secretary of Defense McElroy has made it quite plain that anyone who criticizes the President's Pentagon reorganization plan may expect swift action.

The chances are that I'll be told to come to Washington and to be sure to wear my old World War II infantry suit. There, on the Capitol steps, I'll have the buttons ripped off, be given orders never to wear the jacket for fishing and hunting, and told to stop wearing my old overseas cap for gardening and putting around the house. I'll also be told to quit using my overcoat, or dog blanket, for just that.

It could be that Mr. McElroy will even order me to stop practicing on my old bugle — the neighbors already have — and to stay out of Fourth of July parades.

But there is one part of the reorganization plan — and I hope I have it straight — that forces me to speak my mind. That is the part which gives the Secretary the right to switch a man, or men, from one service to another. As I get it, he would have the power to use soldiers as sailors, fliers as Marines, sailors as Seabees, or engineers as Special Service troops.

As a former infantryman, I object to this. And I am sure that all infantrymen, past and present, feel the same. Just being an infantryman is tough enough without being on call to fly a plane, fire a torpedo, build a bridge, or land with a box of records under one arm and a volley ball net under the other.

An infantryman has enough to do just being himself. I am sure I speak for all infantrymen when I say that after a day of shooting at the enemy and being shot at, digging a foxhole, and going on patrol, no man wants to be summoned in the middle of the night

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

The fact that a three-day conference on animal disease and human health was held last September in New York under the auspices of the New York Academy of Sciences and the U. S. Public Health Service offers testimony to the importance of animals as a source of human disease. The disorders which are involved are vast in number and their causes range from viruses to higher forms of life, such as animal parasites (worms) and fungi.

Some of the diseases which can be spread from animals to human beings are well known, such as brucellosis or undulant fever, and rabies or hydrophobia.

Others will probably be unfamiliar to most readers under such names as leptospirosis (Weil's disease), or listeriosis.

Some of the diseases may be spread from domestic animals, some from wild animals and some from birds. Some, like Rocky Mountain spotted fever, or plague, may be carried by insects from animal to man.

A COMMON disease today on the North American continent is brucellosis, or undulant fever. This disease affects principally cattle, goats and swine, and is acquired by human beings who come in contact with infected animals or who acquire the germ through the meat or by swallowing milk or milk products in which the responsible germ is living.

Cat scratch disease in recent years has become fairly well known. This is probably the result of a virus introduced into the human body by means of a scratch from an infected cat.

Pneumococcus, on the other hand, is a disease fairly frequent among those who have parrots or parakeets as pets. To avoid the latter it is wise to purchase such a pet from an extremely reliable source.

IN GENERAL, domestic animals and pets are more important sources of human disease than wild ones, because the fact that domestic animals and pets are likely to come in closer contact with human beings.

Even man's best friend, the dog, can be responsible for human ailments. Some fungus diseases (commonly called ringworm) can be spread by these animals. Furthermore, some of the intestinal worms or parasites can attack human beings as well as the dog.

For these reasons dogs should not be allowed to lick children, and parents should be careful to avoid letting their children come in contact with dog waste in sandboxes or other play areas.

But when reasonable precautions are followed, the pleasure which children receive from pets usually outweighs the dangers of contracting disease from them.

an told to row out to a carrier and help awab the decks.

If you think this is an exaggeration, then you never have been an infantryman. Nothing is supposed to be beyond his endurance. And as there are always ten times as many infantrymen as anything else, there are always plenty of them handy.

There is also this to be considered. An infantryman would feel awfully out of place in a plane or on a ship. There he would be subjected to hot food, clean bunks, shower baths and recorded music. This undoubtedly would undermine his health.

The infantryman is accustomed to holes in the ground, water in the holes, cold, clammy food, and dirt — lots of dirt. He is a trees to duck behind, stumps to rest his head on during naps, and rain. Particularly rain. With dry feet he'd most likely go to pieces.

It's too big a risk, this switching about of men. When a man joins the infantry, or is told to join, he must at least have the satisfaction of knowing that he won't be asked to work more than 24 hours a day. That's what the baby-blue cord on his cap means — a 24-hour work day. No more!

CORNERING SPACE—Artist's drawing above depicts the corner reflector sub-satellite developed by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. The large but exceedingly lightweight earth satellite can be compactly folded for launching into orbit, and then pneumatically erected to shape by means of compressed air. It weighs only 8.7 pounds and when inflated it is 12 feet in diameter. Being in the shape of a corner reflector and covered with aluminum foil, the satellite will be the most efficient reflector of radar signals. Because of its large size, it would appear at twilight as bright as the North Star. If it were aimed so as to loop about the moon, its flight could be followed both going and returning. This would make it possible to verify calculations of the path that would be followed later by instrumental or manned space vehicles to be used for exploring space flight in the vicinity of the moon. It is constructed of Mylar plastic film 0.00025 inch thick that is covered with aluminum foil 0.0005 inch thick.

Turner, Crane Tiff On Custody Seen

News Outlook
By UNITED PRESS

United Press correspondents around the world look ahead to the news that will make headlines.

Lana vs. Crane

A knock-down, drag-out fight is shaping up between Lana Turner and Stephen Crane for custody of their daughter, Cheryl. Lana has famed attorney Jerry Giesler working for her. Ex-husband Crane hired attorney Arthur Crowley, also a courtroom wizard. Both sides promise no mudslinging, but the fight will be bitter, nevertheless. The united front both sides put up after Cheryl stabbed Johnny Stompana on Good Friday is fast cracking into separate and warlike camps.

Big Steel

The steelworkers union is after a wage increase. Efforts to convince the union leadership to forego automatic wage boosts come July as a save-the-economy measure seem doomed. Union President David McDonald doesn't care to discuss the matter, either with industry or the White House.

High Hurdle

Japan will give other nations a run for their money to try to snare the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo. The International Olympic Committee will meet in the Japanese capital this month, and Japan plans to outbid all other comers.

Red Arms

Nasser wants more arms from Russia, and the betting is he will get them after some stiff bargaining on his current Soviet tour. Best guess is that he wants the arms to provide a boost for the pride and prestige of his new United Arab Republic. Another good guess is that any arms he does get will come dearly. The Cairo economy has been hit by the high price Nasser must pay. He's been giving the Soviets cotton in exchange at bargain prices.

Missile Bases

The U.S. program to establish missile bases in Western European countries is having rough going. It will be some time before any definite agreement is announced. There hasn't even been any agreement "in principle" yet, and hard dickering lies ahead. Turkey and Italy may be the first ones to accept the bases.

Poor Indians

The Cleveland Indians, worried by poor hometown attendance, are listening to the siren song of Minneapolis. General Manager Frank Lane and club directors will heed seriously the blandishments of the Minnesota metropolis if the home town fans continue to stay away in droves. Aside from the fact that Minneapolis is ready for big league ball, there's the added attraction of a new 23,000-seat park that easily can be expanded to hold 40,000-plus cash-paying customers.

Americans socked away more money last year than ever before as savings climbed to a record $68,900,000,000, the Securities & Exchange Commission reported. The SEC noted a trend toward savings accounts and investment in corporate bonds, partly as a result of an upward trend in interest rates that persisted until autumn.

Richfield Oil Corp. and Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. reported sharp declines in March quarter sales and earnings. Goodyear also reported it is trimming its capital expenditures this year to 70 million dollars from 83 million in 1957. The Marine Corps announced award of a six-million-dollar contract to American Motors Corp. for production of a new light-weight jeep called the Mighty Mite. The contract called for production to begin immediately on 250 of the vehicles by the company's special products division in Detroit.

Allied Chemical Corp. Flintkote Co. and Certain-Tied Products Corp. raised asphalt roofing product prices 10 per cent to more than 20 per cent in 37 states east of the Rockies.
