DAVIS MAKES VICTORY CLAIM

Republic Is Not Going To Hell Yet

But, Just the Same, Go and Vote; Settle Policies At the Ballot Box and Elect Servants At the Polls.

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

POLITICAL insurgency is more or less rampant from ocean to ocean. This insurgency is based largely on economic causes or on racial and religious prejddices in spots. It may play hades with the national democratic party in the north and keep it out of power for years to come or it may cut down the republican elephant at the knees and throw the election into the hands of the national lawmakers.

* * *

TEXAS, politically speaking, has been a jud handled affair. That is the democratic party has been too heavy and the republican party without a leg to stand on since Edmund J. Davis was kicked out of office in the long ago. Wise men admit that conditions would be ideal if there could be an aggressive minority party in the state, that a higher type of officeholder would be one of the products, that wiser lawmakers would be another product and that the state would command more attention when it insisted upon a voice in national affairs.

* * *

MANY times the republican elephant has attempted to overthrow the democratic donkey. Republicans joined hands with the populists when populism was in flower and attempted to carry the state for McKinley for president and Kearby for governor. And the republicans were overwhelmed in that year. Time rolled on and then the mongers of the republican party named as their candidate for governor Col. John N. Simpson, a lifelong democrat, a successful businessman, a pioneer rancher who had been a gallant soldier in the army of Lee. Simpson was snuffed out.

There are 125,000 negro republicans in Texas. At that election the colored brother did not appear on election day and he hasn't appeared in any fierce political contest since the burial of Simpson. Two years ago the republican chieftains joined hands with democratic insurgents, to send to the senate George Peddy, a world war veteran, a pro democrat, a Methodist churchman and a native Texan.

Democratic insurgents contributed $30,000 to the Peddy campaign fund. Mayfield was elected and Peddy scarcely made a dent on the political map. Four years ago James E. Ferguson organized an independent political party. He dragged 100,000 democrats out of the party. Republicans were delighted. They felt that they saw an opening in the distance. When the votes were counted the same old brutal democratic majority was there. Ferguson and his army didn't create a ripple on the political ocean.

IT must be true that without opposition or without an incentive a political party or an individual succumbs to dry rot, and decay and dissolution finishes the dry rot. Aggressive opposition should be welcomed by any political organization. Then the leaders are placed on their mettle and the followers catch the spirit from afar and get in fighting trim. There is a heavy campaign on now, and all the splendid political preachers as well as many professors or interpreters of dead and living languages are making frontal attacks on the democratic donkey. This has dragged the donkey out of his trance and he is kicking as vigorously as he did when Andrew Jackson was his idol and leader.

There are 1,425,000 qualified leaders in Texas. Less than 800,000 participated in the run-off primary where Mrs. Ferguson won and Felix D. Robertson was sent back to the bench by a brutal majority of 100,000, while Red Headed Dan Moody won in the same runoff over his opponent by 25,000 majority. For years and years thousands of democrats had remained away from the polls on primary election day and never ventured near the polls on general election day. When the finals were settled in the democratic camp there were 625,000 qualified voters in Texas who remained out of the scrap and away from the polls.

Now what they are, politically speaking no man knows. A noted business man of New York has said:

* * *

"THE obligation to vote was laid on you by the men whose bleeding feet made red the snows of Valley Forge. Many of them gave their lives to win freedom. Can you refuse just one day to preserve it? Is it worth no little to you to live under the stars and stripes, to be secure in your home and business, to worship God in your own way, to have full share in governing the land. From the time of King John down, too many men have lightly neglected the vote as if it were merely a right or a privilege. In the main, it is neither. The vote is the duty of citizenship in a democracy and unless all of us recognize that duty and faithfully perform it we subject ourselves to the danger of control by a selfish and self-seeking few."

The man who said it is a republican. This writer who applauds every word of it is a democrat who votes the ticket straight. All men and women of Texas who are qualified voters should go to the polls in November. All those who voted in the democratic primary should go to the polls. All the 625,000 who did not go near the democratic primary should go to the polls in November and cast their ballot.

All democrats should vote. All republicans should vote. All progressives should vote. All independents should vote if they are able to find candidates who appeal to their convictions or their conscience. This is

Butte Clatters To Get U. S. Job Demos Assert

Knows He Cannot be Elected Governor, Williams And Hatchitt Declare At Palace Theatre Rally.

George C. Butte knows he cannot be elected governor of Texas and is making "all this noise and clatter with the hope of attracting enough attention to get a federal judge's appointment and a life of short hours and long pay."

Such was the charge made last night by two speakers, J. R. Hatchitt, chairman of the Wichita County Democratic club, and Guinn Williams, congressman from the 13th Texas district, at another democratic club rally which thoroughly excoriated the republican party. A fair sized crowd at the Palace shivered in the chilly room while Williams, Hatchitt, Judge Guy Rogers and Judge P. A. Martin plead that Texas remain in the democratic columns on November 4.

Discusses National Angle.

The field of national politics was included in last night's rally when Mr. Williams, but lately returned from Washington, presented a few of "the national scandals that have made the national capitol a hotbed of corruption and a fitting monument to republicanism." His address dwelt in large measure on the national angles of the political world today; on what he termed indisputable evidence of graft and political treachery he declared by men in the republican-ruled capital; on the history of the republican party which "has always stood for special privileges and domination of the majority by the favored minority." He did, however, take time to roundly assail the republican candidate for governor in Texas.

The evil of bolting the party ticket, the "moral degeneracy which permits a man to proclaim that a moral obligation is 'not binding;'" the emptiness and futility of a campaign conducted on a platform whose only plank is the oath of office were all touched on at some length. Mr. Williams also warned the democrats that they had been having things "too easy" for last six or seven years and that they must not now quail under the punishment being administered by the republican foe.

Coolidge Is Flayed.

In his remarks on conditions in Washington he bitterly flayed President Coolidge for "being entirely in the grip of the big moneyed interests and for being at the mercy of the greedy and graft-ridden politicians who believe in exploiting the masses for the benefit of the classes."

At one point in his address, and plaintly with all sincerity, Mr. Williams declared:

"When I came back from Washington to take up this fight for the democratic party a friend of mine said 'Guinn, I'm sorry you've come back; I wish you'd have stayed away; I'm afraid you've made a mistake.' But the man that said that to me insulted me. There's nothing that could be further from the truth than that I am here for any reason save that of service to my party. I mention that because I know there are some people who will say Guinn Williams is looking out for himself and is back here at an opportune time.

"I'm not thinking about two years from now; I don't even know whether I'm going to run for congress again and if the time ever comes when the

To Be Traduced By Ferguson Part Of Game Says Butte

Republican Candidate Replies to Jim's Hill Co. Speech

WEATHERFORD, Oct. 24.—More than one third of the 5,000 voters of Parker county tonight heard George C. Butte, candidate for governor reply to Jim Fergusons Hillsboro address.

"James E. Ferguson has taken the stump," declared Butte, "at last the mask is off and my real opponent is revealed. His first speech is a defense of his own record, which of course, is the outstanding issue of this campaign, now that he is on the stump. Apart from his attempt to explain his official record, he does not make a single constructive suggestion, nor does he say a single good word for the democratic party of which he now claims to be a noble representative. He slings some mud and that is what he has done in every campaign since he entered Texas politics. He insinuates things which are unjust and untrue. But, my friends, to be traduced by Mr. Ferguson is part of the sacrifice I knew I would have to make for Texas.

"It is unnecessary for me to strike back, for the public records of this state will do that for me."

MORE THAN EVER BEFORE, WOMEN ARE IN POLITICS

'Ma' Ferguson Started Something When She Got Texas Nomination

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—As might be expected, more women than ever before are candidates for state and national elective offices this year.

There are two women nominees for governor, both democratic. Mrs. Miriam M. Ferguson, now nationally known as "Ma" is carrying her party's banner in the gubernatorial race in Texas. When she won out in the primary it looked as if she was almost certain to be elected, but the situation has so changed that this is now extremely doubtful.

Wyoming democrats nominated Mrs. Nettie Taylor Ross, widow of the late William B. Ross, for the office of governor, from which he husband was removed by death.

A "Bloc" in Pennsylvania.

The number of women candidates for congress is large. The exact number has not been ascertained. In Pennsylvania women are attempting to elect a "feminine bloc."

Ohio has the largest list of women candidates. Four women were nominated for state senators: Mrs. Nettie M. Lougheed, Miss Bettie Wilson, Mrs. Claude C. Waitts, Mrs. Mary M. Tilden. Fourteen women won for the house of representatives: Mrs. Nettie M. Clapp, Grace E. Makepeace Mrs. Clara Wood Derr, Mrs. Olive Joy Wright, Mrs. Viola D. Romans, Mrs. Jennie P. Rubrecht, Mrs. May M. Van Wye, Myrtle H. Clark, Mrs. Lottie Cornell, Mrs. Clarence H. Wells, Mrs. C. J. Ott, Miss Ona Penny, Mrs. Margaret M. Allman and Mrs. E. S. Rejdez.

Minnesota Large List.

Cain, Mabeth Hurd Paige, Mrs. Myra Griswold, Sue M. Dieber Hough, Mrs. G. A. Petrie, Miss Elsie W. Williams, Hannah J. Keuppler and Mrs. Etta Miller.

North Dakota has nominated Minnie J. Nielson for state superintendent of public instruction, and Arkansas, Mrs. Frank Thompson for representative.

Nettie M. Cline is a congressional candidate in Kansas.

Six women are candidates for representative in Maine: Martha E. Maher, Isabella Hemingway, Annie L. Dearing, Carrie J. Farnham, Elizabeth W. Whitney and Lula R. Thornton, and Helen N. Hanson is on the ballot for judge of probate.

Mrs. Donald Clark for secretary of state and Mrs. Tom Gates and Dr. Harriet B. Jones for representative are West Virginia's contribution to the women's cause.

The petition related that the couple were married on July 5 of this year and lived together as man and wife for just one week. The plaintiff then found, it is alleged, that her husband had not secured a divorce from his first wife, as he had led her to believe. She immediately "divorced him from the house" and has lived apart from him since then, the petition stated.

'DEEP SECRET' COVERS PROBING OF SLUSH FUND

Two Men From Chicago Give Sensational Story Is Report

CALL THE DIGEST

Committee Wants to Know How Straw Vote Is Taken

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Senate investigators of political campaign contributions set the machinery in motion today in an effort to corroborate circumstantial stories told by two men from Chicago, which, it was indicated might have a profound effect upon the republican national campaign if they are substantiated.

Meanwhile the nature of the stories is a secret carefully guarded alike by members of the investigating committee and Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, and Samuel Untermyer, of New York, counsel for Senator Robert M. LaFollette, the independent presidential candidate, who has made charges of a "slush" fund for use on behalf of the republican national ticket.

Informing the committee in open session that he was independent "of the information given by the Chicago men," Mr Untermyer said that because of the possible effect it might have on the republican campaign he would hesitate to take the responsibility for spreading it before the country until the committee had had an opportunity to run down the "leads" that could be furnished.

After the committee had acted unfavorably upon a suggestion that the Chicago men be heard behind closed doors, counsel presented the information to the senators in executive session and asked that certain persons be subpoenaed. This request was complied with, but the names of the prospective witnesses were withheld.

Texan's Son Cast Bottle Into Sea As His Ship Sank

CLAIM HULK ROTTEN

$100,000 Is Sought of Chas. W. Morse for Death Of Son

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Messages found in a bottle cast off on the Orkney Islands seven years ago were admitted in evidence today during trial of a $100,000 suit brought against Charles W. Morse and others by Mrs. Adelaide G. Nelson of Philadelphia, whose son, Lawrence, with 29 other sailors, went down with the steamship Frederick and a cargo of war munitions in January, 1917.

Attorneys for Mrs. Nelson sought to show through the testimony of witnesses and the corroborative testimony of the bottled notes that the Frederick was a rotten hulk when she put to sea and that her sinking was due to unseaworthiness and not, as the defense maintained, to a German submarine or floating mine. A message penned in English, with letters blurred and water-stained read:

"Dan Watson—going down on the S. S. Frederick within half an hour. Last call. Notify Daniel Watson, 305 West Tenth street, Austin, Texas."

It was signed "Bob Watson, his loving son." Robert Watson was recorded as a member of the Frederick's crew who perished when she foundered.

Earl Garland, a marine engineer who brought the vessel from Baltimore to New York to be fitted out by Morse and his associates for a trip to Archangel, Russia, with war supplies, testified he quit the ship here because he knew she never would reach her destination.

DEMOCRATS TO WIN AT POLLS HIS ASSERTION

Bases His Prediction On "First Hand Information"

BIG REGISTRATION

Declares This a Certain Sign Citizens are Demanding Change

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The flat statement that "the democratic party will win the presidential election" was made tonight by John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, upon his return here from a final campaign tour of middle-western states.

Mr. Davis, in a formal statement, declared further that "personal contact with the voters has demonstrated that they will not excuse the corruption and maladministration that has prevailed at Washington during the recent years of republican mis-rule."

It was also positively asserted that, in the victory he claimed for the national ticket, the democrats "will control congress, thus ensuring putting into effect our promised reforms just as soon as legislation to that end can be framed and passed."

Among the "reforms" promised by Mr. Davis are revision of the tariff, reduced taxes, international cooperation, improved waterways and farm legislation.

Claims Necessary 266.

Efforts of his political opponents to bolster up their cause by suggesting danger of the election going into the house, Mr. Davis said, had been investigated with the result that "more than the necessary 266 votes necessary to elect the president already are assured." That announcement was supported, he declared by the "drift in the west and the central west."

"The democratic party will win the presidential election," the statement said. "I am fully convinced of this. I make my claim only after a very careful investigation into the situation —a first-hand inquiry which has taken me more than 12,000 miles. My opinion is not based on what politicians have told me. It comes from direct contact with the individual voters themselves. x x x

"The people are making ready to order a change. This is indicated probably more than anywhere else in the greatly increased registration reported from one end of the country to the other. It does not take any great familiarity with political affairs to understand that such heavy increases bode ill to the party in power. When the voters are satisfied it is a very hard task to get them to take an interest in politics. x x x

STONES INJURE CANDIDATE

Lady Astor and Others Forced to Stop By Rowdies.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Stones flew last night in a demonstration against H. C. Hopkin, liberal candidate of Battersea, who suffered a painful injury of one eye. The same rowdies hooted and howled at Hopkin's wife.

Sir Auskland Geddes, formerly ambassador to the United States, was forced to abandon his address at a Tory meeting at Hulme when disorders broke out.

Tables and chairs were overturned and a free for all fight took place at political speeches after Sir Robert Horne had been howled down at Glasgow. In a fight at a meeting at Lambeth an usher was slashed with a razor and was taken to a hospital in a critical condition.

Lady Astor sparred with hecklers for an hour, then was forced to give up the attempt to continue a meeting at Plymouth, where she is a candidate for re-election to commons.

The crowd shouted, "raise the red flag, then we will listen to you," to which Lady Astor retorted: "You won't listen, because you don't want to hear the truth."

Meanwhile children had torn the Tory banners from Lady Astor's car and put up labor banners in their place.

Ex-Premier Asquith encountered such a blast of heckling at Lambeth that he was forced to suspend his meeting for a time.

The counsel of modification offered at labor headquarters apparently has been without result.

The bar association had already telegraphed its recommendation to Acting Governor T W. Davidson.

During the day, Charles H. Theobold, county attorney, was offered the appointment by Mr. Davidson, but he declined.

Davis Surprises By Gains Made In Digest's Poll

Striking Gains Are Made By Democratic Candidate In Last Few Days

COOLIDGE FAR IN LEAD

Independent Runner Slipping As Straw Vote Moves On Toward Climax

Striking gains for John W. Davis, the democratic nominee, are the feature of the return given this week in the Literary Digest poll of the nation on the presidential race. Davis' total now is very close to that polled for LaFollette.

Kentucky for Davis.

Davis scored a gain of approximately 105,000, while LaFollette's total grew less than 64,000 during the week Coolidge gathered in more than 230,000 ballots during the week's tabulation.

Oklahoma is one of the states in which Davis has a good chance to overhaul the republican nominee. Kentucky swung to the Davis column by a bare score of votes this week. The Oklahoma vote is 17,929 for Davis to 21,378 for Coolidge with the third party leader trailing.

266 Necessary to Win.

If the various states should go in the ways shown by the Digest poll, Coolidge would have a safe margin over the needed majority in the electoral college without any resort to the house of representatives. Even when the straw vote figures for Coolidge are slashed by one-third, in answer to democratic criticism, the president still carries enough states to give him more than 300 electoral votes while only 266 are necessary for election.

FINDS MOTHER—34 YEARS

Man Kidnaped When a Baby Discovers Parent in Illinois.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Oct. 23.—After being kidnapped when two years old, Leon Humphrey, 26, found his mother, Mrs. Carlee Collins of Kincaid, yesterday in Taylorville.

Humphrey was abducted by a man thought to be his father, and deserted in California. He lived with several families in the west and finally became a soldier.

people of the 13th district don't want me, I don't want the job. I've put myself in the hands of the democratic leaders of Texas; I am doing their bidding; my every thought and word from now until the fourth of November will be that the democratic party in Texas must prevail; and all I ask of you now is that you remember you are democrats; act like democrats and vote the democratic ticket."

Denounces Republicanism

J. B. Hatchitt, introduced as "the man who rose up as a leader when Wichita county was in the grip of the ku klux klan, organized the democratic forces and routed the invisible autocrats" devoted his address principally to a vigorous denunciation of the republican party. He interspersed his remarks with frequent humorous sallies, all of which had a direct bearing on the ill repute in which he held all things smacking of republicanism.

"I was almost grown up, in fact I had got to the point where I had to wear shoes and stockings before I learned that the term republican did not refer to disease. Then I learned that I was in error and that it only meant calamity," declared Judge Guy Rogers of the 78th district court in opening his address. He thanked his hearers for the honor bestowed on him in electing him to a district judgeship and then assailed republicanism in general and Newberryism, Fallism, Forbesism and Daughertyism in particular. He also expressed confidence that democracy in Texas was still safe.

Judge P. A. Martin presided at the rally and in an opening address vigorously denounced George Butte as being the 'pliant tool of the ku klux klan."

CAREY FLOWS 520 BARRELS.

Although rated at first conservatively as a 300-500 barrel well from sand encountered at 1,116 feet and penetrated including breaks to a reported depth of 1,138 feet, E. S. Carey's No. 1 Pollei, southwest corner of lot 7, Thomas McCoy survey, south Archer county, the well actually flowed 520 barrels in slightly less than 24 hours after the drill stem had been taken from the hole, according to reports received here late last night. The Texhoma hooked into the well early yesterday with their pipeline and oil was run from the lease during the day.

Completion of a well of this calibre at this location was entirely unexpected, and sheds a new light on development in that area.

LOUISIANA TECH VICTOR.

Little Rock College Blows in 12 to 0 Defeat.

RUSTON, La., Oct. 24.—Louisiana Tech defeated Little Rock College today by a score of 12 to 0. The Arkansans put up a game fight and executed some pretty end runs and forward passes but were unable to score.

Tech played a fine defensive game, twice stopping Little Rock inside the bulldog three-yard line. In the last quarter Arkansas had the ball on the three-yard line but Tech held them for downs and punted out of danger.

Tech scored in the second period on a clever 40-yard pass, Bass to Rex, Hogg failed to boot the place kick for extra points. The bulldogs scored again in the third quarter by straight football from their 48-yard line, O'Brian carrying the ball over on a line duck. Rex missed the place pick for extra points. Murphy, Merioni, Cook and Franz excelled for Little Rock. For Tech, Read, O'Brien, Bass and Thompson played well.

Mrs. Mary T. Norton is the democratic nominee for congress in the twelfth district, New Jersey. It looks as if she will be elected, as she is in a democratic district. This would make her the first congresswoman from the east.

Marion Griffin, member of the house of representatives in 1923, is running for the state senate.

This is not all of the feminine candidates for state and national officers. And there are scores of women seeking election as mayor, city councilmen, etc.

This republic isn't going to hell. This commonwealth isn't going to hell, but the place to settle policies of government is at the ballot box and the place to elect servants of the people is at the polls.

"Yes! thank you."

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition.

You may have a good appetite if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S. purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a clear complexion and will be strong, cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up one day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and ambition. Hearty eaters are the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy! Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically run-down condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood-cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood-cells,—the spark that rejogs your system. Carefully selected scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.

Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

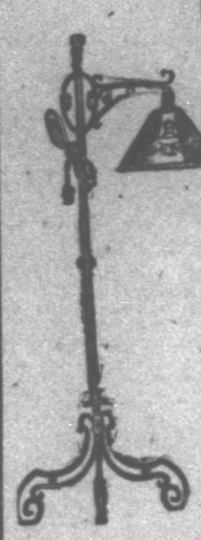

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

OLNEY, Oct. 24.—Knight and Hines are shut down waiting for water at about 1,147 feet in their No. 1, Neely, SE corner of TE&LCO survey, abstract 423, southwest of Olney, after passing through 14 feet of loose dry sand at 1,075-89 feet, and failing to make a producer from that horizon.

Litchfield, Campbell

OLNEY, Oct. 24.—Litchfield et al are drilling again after being shut down for water on their No. 1, Campbell, TE&LCO block 236, just east of Olney, north Young county, last reported depth being 600 feet.

Texas Company, Jeske

The Texas company is setting casing and will test a sand encountered at a depth of 1,123 feet in their No. 1, Jeske, SE corner of lot 6, Thomas McCoy survey, offsetting Carey's Pollei well to the west, south Archer county.

Maer-Staniforth-Gwynn

Maer-Staniforth-Gwynn et al are laying a two-inch pipeline from their production in the Marland-Marchison-Fain-Golding pool, southwest of Swastika, Griffin land to the Texhoma Oil and Refining company's pipeline station, just east of Swastika, a distance of about three and one-half miles. A Texhoma gang is laying the line.

Texhoma Pipeline

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company is laying a two-inch pipeline from their Carey well line southeast to the Grisham-Parks-Shaw-Rathke Davis production, and will take the oil from that lease when completed. The line will be about two miles long.

Nelson et al, Wilson

Nelson et al are drilling past a last reported depth of 1,400 feet in their No. 1, Wilson, just east of Archer City, between the Texhoma test and the old Holmes and Haskell hole, J. Scott survey, abstract 850, after passing up several tight sands in the 1,300-foot horizon, none of which showed well enough to set casing and test.

Southern Exploration

The Southern Exploration company is building a wooden derrick over their Kinder ranch location east of Archer City after partially erecting a steel derrick and finding certain essential parts missing. Rather than delay spudding by two weeks while the parts were being shipped the derrick was torn down and a wooden one is being put up in its place. The test will use a portable gasoline rotary machine, believed to be the first ever used in this district.

Texhoma, Burnett

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company has set casing in their No. 6 Burnett, SA&MGRR survey, abstract 271, southeast of Fowlkes Station, Wichita county.

Petroleum Producers

The Petroleum Producers were rigging up and expected to spud yesterday afternoon on their No. 2, Dill, east of the gasser, section 84, H&TC-RR block 14, Wilbarger county.

A six-inch rotary drill stem is being used in this test, the first to enter the Wilbarger county field where the need is exceptionally great due to the hard drilling below 1,200 feet.

Shamrock, Boren

The Shamrock Oil company is drilling below a last reported depth of 1,564 feet on their No. 2, Boren, R. Carey, Pollei

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company is making connections with a two-inch pipeline with the Carey Pollei producer, reported to be still flowing at about 350 barrel rate. Sand depths as given on this well follow: Sand showing little oil 1,116-19 feet, shale break 1,119-30 feet, oil sand 1,130-38 feet.

Texhoma, Hausler

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company is drilling below a reported depth of 775 feet on their No. 2, Hausler, east of their No. 1, which is located in the northwest corner of block 16, Thomas McCoy survey, south Archer county.

Panhandle Well Makes Good Flow

The Plains well, No. 1 Weatherly, section 17, south Hutchinson county, was given a shot in two sands at about 2,000 feet Thursday and is reported to have responded with a flow of about 50 barrels in 45 minutes. This well is located in be heart of the Hutchinson county producing district. It is reported to have every appearance of making a good producer now. Pipeline connections are being made with the Pantex line, and a definite report on what the well can do should be available soon.

Just two miles east of this well the Western Development company's No. 1 Smith-Capers is drilling in the gas formations below 2,000 feet and has already had two shows of gas. The lime was encountered here at about 1,000 feet, just 70 plus feet higher than in the old Holmes-McGee-McElroy gasser on the Smith-Capers ranch about a mile north, now running four drilling rigs on gas from the braden-head.

THE APPEAL TO REASON.

While the republicans and LaFollettelstas lambaste one another and appeal to class prejudices and passion and group selfishness, the democratic presidential nominee continues to address his appeal to the reason of the American voters. Taking the picture of the situation as it is drawn by the opposing spokesmen, Mr. Davis pointed out, at St. Louis last Saturday, that by the opposition's own showing there seems no possibility this year of a restoration of responsible party government under either of his opponents. The republicans are divided against themselves, Mr. LaFollette has no party, but leads instead a loose and motley alliance of self-seeking groups. If the country wants to get away from the "sorry spectacle" of a disorganized and leaderless government, its only recourse, Mr. Davis argues, is to elect a democratic president with a democratic house and senate.

The facts of the situation support his argument, and the campaign developments have brought them into plain view before all voters. The followers of LaFollette wear the republican livery in so many states and districts that a "republican" majority, if returned to congress, would divide against itself on almost every national issue of importance. The breach between LaFollette republicans and Coolidge republicans grows wider and more bitter day by day. National republican control would result in continuance of the "cat-fights" staged by the present congress. Mr. LaFollette has no thought of setting up a responsible and orderly party government at this time. Even if he desired it, that achievement is, for the purposes of the present campaign and the next four years, utterly beyond his power.

For those voters then who desire "a government acting in harmony, in uniformity and in unison," there is, as Mr. Davis points out, only one present avenue, one way of march. "There is but one party today that stands before the American people harmonious and undivided." Hope of the restoration of effective party government for the next four years depends upon the election, therefore, of a democratic president and a democratic congress.

What Today Means to You

SCORPIO.

Today's planetary aspects are negative in character, and suggest an attitude of calm, without any attempt being made to accomplish anything of a startling nature. Poise and equilibrium will be required to go through the day without regrets, and anything savoring of impulse should be discountenanced. It is a propitious occasion for reviewing past work, and for scanning arguments or plans "in the making." In the home circle, self-restraint and control must be exercised, so as to avoid disagreement and argument.

A child born today will be more than usually subject to infantile ailments. These, however, can all be successfully combatted by proper care and vigilant attention. Its character will be "easy going"; its disposition, lackadaisical; its mentality, if it can be persuaded to use it, quite above the average.

Although the child will suffer much from illness in infancy, its chief ailment, in after life, will be laziness and lack of either purpose or ambition. It must at no time be indulged, as indulgence will aggravate its defects. Only by forceful discipline, as well as by frequent rewards for youthful success, will it be possible to cure this child, and convert laziness into industry, and indifference into working capabilities.

If today is your birthday, you, if you are well circumstanced, are not generously disposed materially, and if richly endowed intellectually, are niggarding in the sharing of your natural gifts with others.

The possession of ample means is an honorable trust, and you fail, as a trustee, if you do not seek to help those who need it and who are not like yourself, comfortably circumstanced. Wealth is not given us, nor should it ever be striven for, only as a means of gratifying our own desires, or for the sake of hoarding it. It should be distributed, not promiscuously, but with generous thought and consideration for other's needs. "To give is more blessed than to receive," is no illusionary sentiment. If you do not experience a greater thrill from alleviating the wants of others than from the successful outcome of a good financial coup, your character is warped and your spiritual growth stunted.

The hoarding of learning is just as harmful in its way as the hoarding of wealth. Nature has endowed you with exceptional gifts of observation and intellect. This has been done with a purpose, and nature's purposes are never devised with loss as a goal. There are many, right around you, who would be benefited by your advice and instruction, and the giving of it might ultimately furnish those who needed encouragement to keep on struggling and striving for the end they wish to accomplish, and you will be amply rewarded for your trouble.

A SCOT'S FAREWELL TO A GOLF BALL

Gude bye, auld ba', for meny a year
I've sent ye whirlin', you an' hither,
But, puir, wee friend, I sairly fear
We'll nae mair play at gowf togither.
Ye willna last the summer through
As I ha' earnestly been hopin',
For ye are bidin' here the noo
All bruk wide open.

I swung at ye wi' might an' main,
I thocht to send ye fairly flyin',
An didna see the ledge o' stane
Beneath the sand whaur ye were lyin.
I was o'erhasty, for I meant
To stand a wee bit closer to ye,
But, pressin' ower much, I sent
My niblick through ye.

Ye bore full meny a dent an' scar
An' cut an' mashie mark about ye,
Bye, mon! ye'd travel fast an' far
Whenever I would brawly clout ye,
Full oft'n the time ye've hid yersel
Amang the gorse an' broom around ye,
But I ha' hunted lang an' well,
An' always found ye.

A bonny time for gowf, the Fa'!
But noo—an' sairly I deplore it—
I needs must buy anither ba'
An' pay a precious shillin' for it.
The game is my one lone delight,
But it grows costly, past a' reason,
Puir, broken ba', I hoped ye might
Last oot the season.

ON GOING TO SCHOOL.

Recently several million children started to school. This imposing event in our national history took place without any advertising or blowing of horns. It is the most significant thing that has happened of recent date.

It has more influence upon the future than anything that is taking place just now in politics. These children now going to school will be running affairs in business and in statesmanship in the future years. What that business and statesmanship will be will depend upon the knowledge and character possessed by these children.

The country is not yet awakened to the importance of the school teacher. We are accustomed to saying that the public school is the most vital thing in our possession and to brag a good deal about Americans all having the opportunity to attend. But the question has never yet been taken seriously enough.

There are thousands of people throughout the south who do not go to school at all and thousands in our great cities who attend part time. Our school facilities are inadequate and the whole business has not received enough public attention to secure a better quality of teachers.

Education is the principal business of a nation. A minister of education should have his seat in the cabinet and we should recognize the training of the young as our most important business.

We are here but for a little while and the net result of our influence is how we affect the coming generation.

That generation needs to go to school. There is no greater crime that can be committed against a boy or a girl than to deprive such a one of proper training for the time is rapidly coming when the untrained man will be crowded off the earth. There is less and less room for a man who has only his hands to work with. And there is a greater demand every year for schools of some kind.

The public school is the laboratory of the future. Sending a boy to school is much better in the way of national defense than sending him to the army later on. He becomes an intelligent citizen and the more intelligent citizens a country has the better it is enabled to defend itself.

We need not only more schools but better schools and better teachers. We need to realize that one of the most inviting professions for a man or woman is the profession of teaching. And that there is room in it for all of the ability that anyone may possess.

FROM MY SCRAP BOOK

I keep a scrap book of quotations that I am fond of reading, and as I was pasting something new in it the other day, I was struck with the thought you girls might benefit by reading one of them. I think this article is excellent, so I pass it on to you.

"Work is the law of our being—the living principle that carries men and nations onward.

"It is idleness that is the curse of man—not labor. Idleness eats the heart out of men as of nations and consumes them as rust does iron.

"Burton in his quaint and curious book describes the causes of melancholy as hinging mainly on idleness.

" 'Idleness,' he says, 'is the bane of body and mind, the nurse of naughtiness, the chief mother of all mischief, one of the seven deadly sins, the devil's cushion, his pillow and chief repose.'

"An idle dog will be mangy; and how shall an idle person escape? Idleness of the mind is much worse than that of the body; wit, without employment, is a disease—the rust of the soul, a plague, a hell itself. As in a standing pool, worms and filthy creatures increase, so do evil and corrupt thoughts in an idle person.

"He or she that is idle—let them have all things in abundance and felicity that heart can wish and desire, all contentment—so long as he, or she or they are idle, they shall never be pleased, never well in body or mind, but weary still, sickly still, vexed still, loathing still, weeping still, sighing, grieving, and suspecting, offended with the world, with every object, wishing themselves gone and dead, or else carried away with some foolish phantasie or other."—Written in London, in the year of 1878 by Samuel Smiles.

A BUSINESS GIRL

By MARK ALLERTON

"Yes, you may think it a small matter. I apologize for troubling you, if you do. You remember telling me about Rutland and your friend, Miss Linwood?"

Kennedy's expression hardened.

"Well?"

"That night Rutland told me he was taking her to some theater or other. I saw her."

"Well?"

"I was coming up Central Park West. It was quite late—about midnight. I chanced to look inside a taxi that passed. I saw Rutland and Miss Linwood."

"Naturally he would drive her back."

"Wait a bit. Something made me glance after the cab. It drew up. Before it stopped the girl sprang out. She nearly fell. I made to hurry back to help her. She flew like the wind down the street. I followed. I was nearly up to her when she got into another cab. That's all. I thought you ought to know."

Alan Kennedy's face was pale as ashes.

"Why didn't you tell me this before?

"I've had to be in Connecticut till this morning. It's not a thing I cared to write about. It might mean anything—or nothing—"

"To you it meant—?"

"That she was trying to escape that cad's attentions."

Kennedy's breath came quickly.

"To think," he painted, "that I've left her all this time—to him. My God! if I should be too late!"

CHAPTER XVI

The Importunate Man.

After the visit of Max Rutland, Barbara waited three days for a miracle to happen.

In two days the decks were cleared of the work on hand. The third day was spent by her small staff in idleness while Barbara flew round the town canvassing for work.

She went first to the firms whose work she had been forced to refuse. From these she received the information, in perhaps pardonable curtness, that they had made other arrangements. Other likely firms on which she called told her that they had no work to give out.

One fact that was impressed on her was the prodigious number of typewriter offices in town. The marvel was, not that her day was totally unproductive, but that she had even got any work at all.

That evening she broke the news to her two yawning assistants. It was the hardest task she had tackled.

"I'm awfully sorry to tell you," she began falteringly, "that I can't keep up this office any longer."

There was a dead silence. Barbara longed for the floor to open and swallow her.

The older girl raised her eyebrows. "Do you mean to say that you are giving me notice?" she ask coldly.

"I am giving myself notice, too," said Barbara, weakly. "I—I'm really most awful sorry. I can't afford to keep on.

"But this is very extraordinary, isn't it?"

Barbara had no reply. She felt rebuked.

"I mean to say, when you engaged me you gave me to understand that this was a going concern," cried the other angrily. "If I'd had any idea that the show was going to bust in a few weeks, of course I'd have had nothing to do with it."

"I'm awfully sorry," was all poor Barbara could say.

"It's no use being sorry," snorted the other. "When do you want me to go?"

"This week, I'm afraid."

"You know you can't do that," was the sharp retort. "You must give notice. I'm not sure but you can't be made to give a month's notice."

"Oh, that's quite impossible,' cried Barbara.

"Mr. Rutland could pack this office with work if you asked him," cried the aggrieved one. "Of course I know that you and he have quarreled. I heard you at it. There's no reason why I should suffer because of your quarrel. Mr. Rutland's a sport. You get him to keep the office open."

"How dare you speak to me like that," she demanded. "You've been listening. Even if I were keeping my office open I shouldn't have you in it—now. Please go."

"I'll go all right. And you'll hear from my cousin. See if you don't."

The two girls swept out. Presently Barbara heard the outer door bang. When she could sum up the courage she peeped into the other room. It was empty. They had left her alone.

Barbara was too dispirited, too unnerved to do anything.

Silence descended upon the office. The three typewriting machines, purchased with such high hopes, looked infinitely forlorn. Their keyboards seemed to gaze at her with mute appeal for the touch of busy fingers.

Late in the afternoon she realized that she was faint for want of food, and so went out to an A. B. C. shop close by. There she ordered milk and a bun, the fate on which so many girls fancy they can fortify themselves for the battle of business.

As the things she had ordered were set before her another girl joined her at the table.

Barbara glanced at her. The girl was plain and shabbily dressed. Her face had the pinched look of one insufficiently nourished. Barbara was struck by the expression of pathetic weariness in her eyes.

Suddenly the girl leaned forward. "You're Miss Linwood, aren't you?"

"Yes. How do you know?"

"I used to see you when you were at Kersland's. I was at Marton's, on the floor below.

"Oh, yes. I think I've seen you, too."

"Please forgive me for what I'm going to say. I was ill some time ago, and they didn't keep my place open for me. And I simply can't find anything else to do. I heard you'd opened a typewriter office. I'm so glad to hear it's a success. I wonder—could you give me a job? I don't care what the salary is. It's like that with me now. I can give you good references. Forty, and a hundred and twenty is my speed. I'd be so grateful——." The girl's voice trailed off.

For a moment Barbara could not speak.

The girl mistook her silence for annoyance.

"I know it's impertinent of me to talk to you, and to ask you this out of your office. But it is so difficult to see people in their offices. And I'm—desperate."

"What can I say," began Barbara, and she bit her lips to keep her self-control, "except—that—I'm desperate, too."

"What!"

"Yes, I'm closing down. The office is not a success. It's a failure. A horrible, ghastly failure."

"But," stammered the girl, "I heard that Kersland's—that Mr. Rutland—. She broke off, with a flush.

"Were at the back of me. They were—at the start. I don't get their work now."

HOW IT STARTED

"YOUR BELT."

The belt as a detail of dress is as old as civilization. Indeed the fact that it goes back still further is evidenced by belts made of plants, of animal skins and of straw which are worn among the Hottentots and primitive naked-going Africans today!

The belt or girdle was prescribed to the ancient Hebrews, to be worn by priests and made "of gold, of blue and purple and scarlet and fine twined linen." Its use, however, was not confined to priests. This earliest recorded reference to the belt is in Ex. xxxiii, 4, 8, 33.

Among the Greeks and Romans, men wore a broad belt around the waist which frequently served to carry money and other small articles. The "zona" of classical antiquity was a girdle worn by young women before marriage. Then there was the "balteus" or swordbelt, which formed a part of every Roman soldier's uniform and was hung over the left shoulder. Today, there is the cartridge belt and sling, and the Sam Browne belt, for soldiers and officers.

In the middle ages girdles became magnificent and expensive, being made of damask, brocade, cloth of gold and other elaborate materials, often embroidered with precious stones until sumptuary laws placing a limit on certain expenditures prohibited this.

The modern usage of the leather belt for general wear harks back to the first step in its history when belts made out of the hide of the lion were supposed to make the wearer invincible.

Tired of Baby-Tending?—Take a Night Off Every Week—Is There a Chance for an "Old-Fashioned" Young Bachelor Among the Cake-Eaters?—Will She Fall in Love After Marriage?

Dear Miss Dix—I am a married woman about twenty-seven years old and I have a little girl of two. Everywhere I go I have to take the child with me, and, as she is heavy and gets sleepy and cross, she destroys any pleasure I might have in going to places. Now, understand please, that I am devoted to my child and love to take care of her, but I am human and young, and I would occasionally like a little care-free diversion. My husband, however, holds that a mother should always lug her baby about with with her wherever she goes. Don't you think that a young mother needs a night out without her child once a week and that he husband should be willing to mind the baby while she takes a night off? L. M.

Answer: I certainly do, Mrs. L. M., and I think there should be organized an Amalgamated Order of Wives that would demand at least the privil of a nursery maid's Thursday evening off, and who would go on a strike and a lockout until they get it.

Six days a week it is but fair that the mother should toil and take care of the children and relieve her husband of the burden of them as much as possible, for that is her end of the domestic partnership. But on the seventh day she should have some respite from her labors. Furthermore, it is up to her husband to remember that he is just as much a father as she is a mother, and that his turn comes to ride herd on the kids.

The plan of giving a mother an evening off every week presents many admirable features. For one thing it gives the father a chance to get acquainted with his children as he never would in any other way. There is a lot in a howling infant besides the pain in its litil tummy, and the man who has walked the colic while mother was off at her club or the play finds out much valuable psychological information about his offspring that later stands him in good stead when he has to deal with an obstreptrous bobbledehoy boy or flapper.

Taking care of the children on mother's night off would also give a man a lot of sympathy for his wife, and forever keep him from saying to her, as so many men do, 'I wish I could take thing easy as you do, and had nothing to do but just stay at home with the children." He would know that no other labor on earth is so continuous, so monotonous and so nerve-racking as baby-tending.

Above all, for a woman to have a night off every week would break the strain under which she lives and prevent thousands of cases of nervous prostration. It would give her something to look forward to, something to enjoy remembering. It would freshen and rest her in every way and make her a better mother and wife because much of woman's unreason and irritability is nothing but sheer nerves.

I honestly and truly believe that half of the domestic misery in the world could be cured by the simple expedient of husbands and wives freely and graciously granting to each other the right of a night off once a week.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Do either men or women appreciate intelligence, industry and modesty in the opposite sex, or do they prefer flippancy, forwardness and flapperism generally?

I am an example of the former class and for that reason see a life of bachelorhood ahead of me, although I am not old, nor cold, nor ugly, nor ignorant. I just cannot make myself a silly, fawning creature with no other aim than to chase butterflies. A. A.

Answer: I think A. A., that both men and women really appreciate intelligence, industry and modesty, and certainly these are the qualities that they expect their wives to possess.

But the trouble is they are lured by flippancy and flapperism. Their eyes are snared by the outside glitter, and they never stop to inquire whether they are getting in marriage a pinchbeck or solid gold.

All of us know men, who possess very good qualities, whom girls pass up for varnished-haired youths whose brains are all in their heels instead of their heads. And we all know highly educated, domestic women, tender, loving and sympathetic, who would make the most wonderful wives in the world if they had a chance, but who never have a beau to bless themselves with.

Yet, for all this, it isn't that we prefer the flapper to the serious. It is only that somehow foolishness seems more enticing than wisdom, and perhaps the remedy for this is for the stiff-backed to unbend a little and learn how to jazz and for the highbrows to comb down a few curls over their bumps of intelligence. "The graven flower upon the sword makes not the blade less strong," and even virtue is all the better for being wreather with the charms of suavity and social graces.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am sixteen and I am to be married very soon to a man nearly ten years older than I am. Mother and father both love him as a son, but I only love him as I would a big brother.

Now here is the point of my letter: Do we not find, and keep happiness, in bringing happiness to others? Will not I, in seeing how wonderfully full I make the life of the man I marry, find contentment and peace? As I grow older will not I learn to love him?

Answer: A woman who marries a man she does not love may possibly fall in love with him after marriage, but there's not one chance in a hundred that she will. The disillusions of matrimony, the conflict of wills and clashing personalities, the restraints and sacrifices demanded by marriage all tend to make a woman or a man fall out of love instead of falling into it.

When a girl of sixteen marries without being in love, the odds are that when she falls in love it will be with some man other than her husband.

The idea of finding happiness in making your husband happy is high-faluting nonsense. You cannot play a part and pretend an affection you cannot feel.

Nor can any normal young girl satisfy herself with pale sel-abnegation. She wants something red-blooded and vital, the joy of life for herself—love, romance, possession, and these you do not get out of living for others.

Believe me, my child, you do the man you are going to marry without love injustice and you wreck your own life. Don't do it.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

WEATHERPROOFING.

The farmer who lives in a wintry climate must bring at least some of his work into the house or barn, to be done when the land has gone out of commission for a time.

The outdoor man must learn to take exercise under a roof when the storms drive him in. Otherwise his body, accustomed to walking or playing games, will soon refuse to do its internal work properly.

But there are more kinds of weather than that which is manifested in sun or rain, snow or wind.

And he who only "makes hay while the sun shines" will not become very affluent in his journey through a life that must be at least half winter.

Continuous effort, of one kind or another is necessary to the mind as well as to the body.

The youth who knocks off work to feel sorry for himself because he has bumped up against injustice, or who allows even a real sorrow to turn him from his daily tasks is not sufficiently weatherproofed to ensure the stress of the game.

I have known boys who when criticised by the man who happened to be directing their work become to sulky and downhearted that they became practically useless, and soon lost their positions in consequence.

Insufficient weatherproofing.

I have known young men who became disgusted with their jobs because they found them to be dull and monotonous at the beginning, and who spent profitless years hunting for others which entailed no drudgery.

Again, insufficient weatherproofing.

Storms will come and blows will fall.

Bad men and designing men will be met, hardships must be endured and injustices borne.

But in good weather or bad, we must carry on, as does the ship which rides out the hurricane, trimming her little try sail to keep her steady till the blow is over.

We all know the cheering effect of sunshine, and the shadow that falls across our minds when our eyes perceive that a cloud has floated between us and the light.

But we do not allow this to turn us aside from whatever we are doing.

Nor should we allow the shadows that come between us and the sun of happiness to discourage us, or excuse us to lay the job away until the sun is shining again.

There will be winters as well as summers and springs and autumns to encounter on the journey.

If we are well weatherproofed by determination and a reasonable optimism they will not much retard our progress.

But if our minds and our moods are influenced by every cloud whose shadow falls across our path we will never get very far toward either happiness or prosperity.

Have You Been Told?

That Senator Burton K. Wheeler says that Andrew W. Mellon has been president since the death of Warren G. Harding and that all intelligent men know it.

That Senator Burton K. Wheeler says Calvin Coolidge is a pawn moved hither and thither by the combination of interests that dominated the Chicago convention in 1920 and the Cleveland convention in 1924.

That Senator Burton K. Wheeler says the same interests that placed Coolidge in nomination in Cleveland also placed John W. Davis in nomination in New York "and so we have Coolidge and Davis, the Wall street twins."

That those who know him best say that Senator Burton K. Wheeler is as radical as Karl Marx, as visionary as Cyclone Davis, as eruptive as the late Tom Watson of Georgia and no more of a democrat than Victor Berger of Wisconsin.

That Cole L. Blease is the democratic nominee for United States senator in South Carolina, that he had the backing of the hilly-billyn of the Palmetto state and that Congressman James F. Byrnes, who was defeated by Blease, was looked upon as an aristocrat and a hang-over of the ancient regime.

That Blease served as governor of South Carolina for two terms before the coming of the world war and that he went out of office in a fight and a cloud.

That it is a long call from the Haynes, the Butlers and the Hamptons of South Carolina to the Bleases and their kind.

That the republicans of Maine have nominated Frederick H. Gillette as their candidate for senator against David I. Walsh and that Frank H. Stearns of Boston, the house of the Coolidge administration is said to have been responsible for the Gillette nomination.

That former Governor Frank O. Lowdop of Illinois has decided to take an active part in the campaign in the west for the republicans and push along the cause of Coolidge and Dawes.

That Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, after an interview with Chairman William M. Butler of the republican national committee, announced that he would take the stump for Coolidge and Dawes and speak wherever the committee assigned him.

That Senator Robert M. LaFollette had hoped that the Idaho senator would declare for the progressive ticket and go along with the bloc senators taking pot luck wherever he found it.

That the crazy election laws of Texas will not permit the state executive committee of the democratic party to name a candidate for the Amarillo court of civil appeals and that the vacancy must be filled by reserving space on the official ballot in order that the voter may write in the name of the candidate of his choice.

Four Men Pay Supreme Penalty for Murder And Holdup

HANGED FRIDAY

Speeding Auto Crashed Into Telephone Pole Ending Pursuit

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—Louis Morel and Frank Gambino, murderers of Henri Cleroux were hanged at Bordeaux at 4:58 this morning. Guiseppe Serafeni and Tony Frank followed them to the scaffold and were executed three minute later at 4:59 a. m.

Gambino's last words on the scaffold were addressed to Executioner Ellis, whom he enjoined to "go easy."

Mass was said for the condemned men shortly before they walked to the scaffold. All the men spent the hours immediately preceding the execution in prayer. They had a light lunch at midnight. Morel wrote two letters, one to his daughters and one for publication in the newspapers after his death. The letter penned by the ex-detective in the grim prison cell and headed with the words "for the journalist," follows:

Leaves a Note.

"To by creator:

"I offer you my death in a spirit of reparation for all the sins of my life: Lastly, I offer you my death as an act of perfect love, as a last act of love for earth. I pardon all and I implore thy Holy Virgin to appease the anger of God and to preserve Neiri from eternal malediction."

With the execution of four slayers of Henri Cleroux one of the most sensational robberies in Canadian Criminology, is brought to a close. Of the six men convicted of the slaying four have paid the death penalty and two others are serving life sentences.

On April 1 of this year eight masked men held up the money car of the Bank of Hochelaga under a railroad bridge and without warning opened fire upon the car's crew. Cleroux, the driver, fell dead. Overpowering another bank employe the bandits seized $162,000 and fled, followed by a hail of bullets.

Crash Into Pole

Speeding away the bandit automobile crashed into a telegraph pole and was wrecked. Seven of the robbers fled on foot, but the eighth, Harry Stone, internationally known as a narcotic smuggler, was killed. Burned in the ruins of the machine was found $40,000 of the bank's money.

Within 24 hours police arrested six men and two women and announced that $6,000 found on the suspects had been identified as part of the bank loot.

On June 23 six of the suspects were found guilty of Cleroux' murder. They were: Leo Davis, Tony Frank, Louis Morel, Mike Valentine, Guiseppe Serafini and Frank Gambino.

Gebhardt Offers Table Delicacies As Menus Show

Cooler Days of Autumn Demand a Tang For Our Appetites

DELICIOUS FLAVOR

Mexican Offerings Go Well When the Outside Air Is Crisp

With the tang of cooler days of autumn, healthy appetites turn to a change of food. A dinner served of foods with that delicious flavor of Mexican delicacies will satisfy the most exacting person.

A delightful meal of the great southwest may be made of the following menu: Brown Fricasee of chicken, rice, carrots and peas, cabbage and nut salad, fruit pie, coffee.

Recipes

Brown Fricassee of Chicken: Jointed chicken (fat hen), 4 tablespoons fat, garlic clove, flour, 1 to 2 tablespoons chili powder, 4 cups cold water. Salt chicken, using 1 teaspoon to the pound. Rub each piece with the minced end of garlic clove, then roll in flour. Brown in the hot fat in deep skillet. Remove chicken as soon as brown (make no attempt to cook done). Add 4 tablespoons of flour and the chili powder to fat in skillet, and when smooth, pour in water and boil several minutes. Return the chicken and simmer slowly until chicken is well done. The gravy will cook down and the whole will be the right consistency to serve together.

Oyster Cocktail Sauce.

1-2 cup catsup, 1 tablespoon horseradish, 1 tablespoon lemon juice 1-2 teaspoon salt, 4 drops chili powder. Blend chili powder with lemon juice, then mix all other ingredients. Chill before adding oysters.

Mayonnaise.

(About one pint)

1 whole egg, 1 1-2 cups oil, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice, 2 teaspoon chili powder. Use wheel beater and bowl tapering to small bottom. This shape holds the emulsion better. Drop in whole egg and 1-2 cup oil and the vinegar. When thick add rest of oil and the seasonings, beating well. Put on ice before using. Any of the vegetable salad oils are good. Many insist that pure olive oil makes the very best.

The Famous Gebhardt Toyah Salad.

Two cans of deviled chili meat, four cups of chopped celery, one small green pepper, three small pickles (sweet.) Cut celery, pickles and pepper into cubes; mix all thoroughly with any good salad dressing. Serve on lettuce leaf or cut top off of one dozen small tomatoes, remove pulp, fill with above mixture, arrange on a crisp lettuce leaft and garnih with parsley or radishes.

Tartar Sauce.

Especially fine for fish.

1-2 cup mayontaise, 4 tablespoons chopped olives, 1 tablespoon capers, 1 table spoon minced parsley, 2 tablespoons diced sweep pickle, 1 tablespoon diced onion, 1 tablespoon chili powder. Blend chili powder with a small amount of the manonnaise first, then add the whole amount. Mix in all other ingredients and set on ice ready to serve. Usually one tablespoonful with each serving of fish, no matter how cooked, is a welcome relish.

Tomato Sauce con Chili

(For chops, fish, steaks, etc.)

2 cups tomato juice with pulp, 1 small onion, ground, 1 green sweet pepper ground, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons chili powder. Blend butter, flour and chili powder. Melt, then add other ingredients and simmer 20 minutes, stirring occasionally to cook smooth.

Quotes Comedian as Leaving Wealth to "Widow of Unknown Soldier."

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—Sir Thomas Lipton, who is here on business, is telling two new stories about his friend Harry Lauder. Here they are:

"I was walking along Piccadilly with Lauder one morning, when we came to a big sign which read: 'One thousand pins in a package for 3 pence.' The comedian went in and purchased a package and left later for Glasgow. When he met me on his return to London he said: 'There were three pins short. I'm going back to that shop.'"

Income Lists Show Big Business Not Only One to Pay

Artists, Singers and Writers Are Big Contributors To U. S.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—"Big business" is by no means the only source of yearly income which during their recipients to the revenue offices annual with thousands upon thousands in taxes, perusal of the published list of tax payers in the second and third internal revenue districts reveal.

The artists, singers, writers, and actors in the main, book and newspaper publishers, lecturers, prize fighters, lawyers and auctioneers vied with bankers, railroad builders and merchant princes, brewers and mine owners in income taxes that run into the thousands.

The younger Rockefeller, John D. Jr., heads the list in the matter of amount of 1923 income tax paid. The sum total he poured into Uncle Sam's coffers stands at the head of the column like a beson light. John D. Sr., paid a sum far less than his son.

There follows a glittering array of names compiled into what might be termed America's blue book of the gilded ones, for the second and third districts, comprising all of rich Manhattan, has more money makers than any other similar area in the world.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24.—The cotton market was a pre-bureau affair today with light trading and rather a narrow range of fluctuations. Evening up of commitments in advance of the government reports due tomorrow furnished practically all the business done although at one time there was some covering by belated October shorts. Although cable news was good and frost in the cotton belt reached extensive proportions the market was not responsive to favorable influences, being dominated by fear that the government report will show a larger crop forecast and heavy ginning totals tomorrow.

At the start prices were 8 to 10 points up on better cables than expected and the showing of heavy to killing frosts on the weather map. December advanced to 22.79 and January to 22.83 which proved to be the high points of the session. October rallied to 22.95 on covering by belated shorts in that month which goes out at noon tomorrow.

The market eased off gradually during the day. The close showed net losses for the day of 20 to 35 points.

Today being last notice day for October deliveries in the northern market much interest attached to the number of notices issued there. According to dispatches they totalled 72,400. Exports totalled 28,943 bales for the day and 116,155 for the week.

Flowerree's New York Survey

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24.—Large tenders in New York and weakness in October there acted as a damper on buying today. This coupled with the uncertainty over the two government reports tomorrow, made traders more inclined to even up than to take on new commitments, as a result the market was generally dull and averaged 10 to 15 pounds under the previous finals.

Heavy to killing frosts were reported over most of the northern and central parts of the belt and light frost to the middle gulf coast. These low temperatures have undoubtedly reduced the crop outlook materially but were without effect for the time being as most traders were inclined to await the government's estimate before fudging their effect on the crop.

The average of the private bureaus is for a condition of 54.2 and crop around 12,557,000, but the general expectation is for an estimate in excess of 12,600,000. Two weeks ago the government's estimate was 12,499,000 bales. The general expectation is also for ginnings around or in excess of 7,500,000. Opinions are valueless until the two government reports are out of the way. Frost damage reports may then prove helpful.

Fenner and Beane to Flowerree and Co.

Flowerree's New York Survey

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Cotton ruled easier on pre-bureau liquidation, the contracts being taken by traders. About 85,-000 baley were tendered but considerable of it was sold out again causing a drop in the premium over December of a full cent, but it rallied towards noon when the contract expired. The stock here now is about 193,000 bales. The general idea is that it will be tendered on December but may be merchandised in the meantime, but this idea is largely a guess. There was light to heavy frosts, minimum temperature being 28 to 31 at scattered stations in northwestern Texas. The average guess was 12,576,000 so if the report come 12.6 or over the market will probably sell off, the extent of the decline depending on the weight of open buying orders in the ring for the trade.

GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—All grain prices underwent a sharp setback here today, owing more or less to the closing out of big spread trades in wheat between Liverpool and Chicago and to announcement of the first arrival of new corn here this season. The wheat market here closed heavy, 1¼ to 2¾c net lower; December 1.41⅛ to 1.41⅝ and May 1.46 to 1.46⅝, with corn 3¼ to 3¾c down, oats 2¼ to 3¼c off and provisions varying from unchanged figures to 62c decline.

Corn and oats weakness was largely the result of sympathy with wheat weakness.

Provisions were responsive to the downward tilt of grain.

Flowerree's Grain Survey

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Wheat: Selling was persistent and indicated some foreign selling as continued liquidation by discouraged holders. There was buying that suggested a fair volume of new export business but it was insufficient to turn the trend of prices. Receipts here estimated 141 cars. Cash basis relatively firm. About million bushels worked at seaboard for export. The market ran into considerable stop loss selling which carried prices under previous lows for December and created considerable bearish sentiment locally. We would not like to follow the short side of this break.

Corn: Dyg ran into stops, while buying was largely confined to resting orders. There was a report that 400,000 bushels had been worked here for exporters on basis 4½ cents over December, CIF Buffalo, but this did not stimulate buying. There was scattered liquidation which tended to keep the market in an unsettled condition greater part of the day.

Oats: Heavy with declines running into stop loss orders that caused drastic and rapid decline. On the breaks there was buying on resting orders but some of this buying turned into selling as prices dropped. Weather unfavorable.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 24.—The livestock trade today was active and prices generally were upward. Steer receipts were unimportant and values were called steady. Sheep receipts consisted of 1,354 feeder lambs that had been ordered and sold at 11.00, a price that looked good. Other receipts were estimated at 2,000 cattle, 1,000 calves and 500 hogs.

WOOL

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

The strength of the raw wool market persists undiminished. While the stagnation among the retail and wholesale clothiers leaves very much to be desired, the manufacturers evidently are looking ahead to better business and already are buying considerable weights of wool on January 1 dating.

The news of spreading contracting for the 1925 domestic clip is of special interest. In Wyoming 42½ and 43 cents is understood to have been paid with rumors of 45 cents refused. Elsewhere attempts have been made to contract with some success, while in Texas the fall Kerrville wool is reported to have been sold at slightly above 45 cents, or rather on the upper side of $1.25, clean basis, landed Boston.

The financial difficulties in Boston have been settled and the market is slightly firmer.

Mohair is firm.

Quotations:

Scoured basis: Texas fine 12 months selected 1.45@1.50; fine eight months 1.30@1.34.

Mohair: Best combing 80@85; best carding 70@75.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Stock prices made further progress on the upside today despite some rather heavy profit taking in recent favorites and the uncovering of a few more weak spots by bear traders. Buying was encouraged by the optimistic predictions of leaders of the steel industry, gathered here for the semi-annual meeting of the American iron and steel institute; the surplus of money revealed in the bank statements and the gradual lessening of apprehension concerning the outcome of the national election.

Considerable irregularity developed just before the close. A bullish demonstration in the coalers with Jersey Central tallying 14 points and Lackawanna climbing 7½, was followed by heavy selling of rubbers. U. S. Rubber common and first preferred and Fisk Rubber first preferred, dropping 1½ to 2 points. Frisco common was run up to a new high at 38⅝ and U S Cast Iron Pipe was bid up above 116 on active buying for both accounts.

Chief speculative interest in the rails was confined largely to the second grade carriers, Lehigh Valley touched 64⅝, the highest price since the segregation of the coal properties, and Reading closed more than two points higher at 62½. Other strong spots in this group included Chicago and Eastern Illinois preferred, Norfolk and Western and Texas and Pacific.

Resumption of bullish demonstrations in the motors resulted in the Maxwell issues being lifted to new high prices for the year. Nash Motors jumped 3¼ points and substantial gains also were recorded by Mack Truck, Pierce Arrow preferred and Willys Overland preferred.

Fresh buying developed in the copper shares. American Smelting led that group by moving up to a new peak price for the year at 79⅝. Subsequent profit taking forced it back about a point from the top. New peak prices also were established by St. Joseph Lead and International Nickel.

Sugars made partial recovery from recent heaviness. American Sugar Refining, Cuba Cane preferred and Punta Alegre each closing more than a point higher. American Beet Sugar preferred broke through its previous year's low to 68¼.

Call money ruled unchanged at 3 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady with business quiet.

Foreign exchange rates were slightly reactionary, due to the pressure for grain and cotton bills. Wheat exports during the past week totalled 17,700,000 bushels, a new high record. Demand sterling ruled about ½c lower at $4.48 and French francs were quoted around 3.21 cents.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"About the most notable feature of this week's reports is the extent to which warm weather is held accountable for a further gain in corn and cotton conditions, but also for a quieting down of retail buying.

"Jobbing and wholesale trade and industry reflect the reports of quiet in retailing and also unsatisfactory features growing out of the continuance of small lot buying. Pre-election apathy is not specially stressed but seems to be regarded rather as an annoying element."

"Weekly bank clearings $8,913,532,000.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Buyers of unfinished cloths bid old prices for print cloths and sheetings today and were unable to secure much action as the mills were disinclined to sell freely in advance of the cotton report tomorrow. Yarns were quiet.

Advance wash goods business was fair on new printed materials, chiefly the very fine cloths of all combed cotton and mixed silk and cottons.

KLUXERS ROBBED CHURCH

Two Men Arraigned and Klan Organizer Held at Burlington, Vt.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Oct. 24.—Pleas of not guilty were entered in county court late yesterday by William E. McCreedy and Gordon D. Wells, both of this city, to charges of breaking into the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, August 8, and stealing vestments, candles, a crucifix and other sacred articles. William C. Moyer, ku klux klan organizer, against whom similar charges were lodged, was not arraigned, as his counsel was not present.

Trial of these cases will be taken up soon, but no definite date has been set.

THEY LET SHIP SINK

S. O. S. in Radio Play Gave Position in Sahara, But Fans Got Excited

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The "S. O. S." messages picked up Tuesday night by Parisian radio fans now prove to have been part of a play which was being broadcast in rehearsal from a French wireless studio.

The name of the ship was given in the play as the "Ville de St. Martin," and the position where she was supposed to be sinking was purposely placed in the middle of the Sahara desert to prevent distress calls from being taken seriously. Nevertheless, quite a number of radio fans got excited and began telephoning the authorities asking that something be done to help the ship.

CAPPER'S EXPENSE SMALL.

Senator's Campaign Has Cost Him Only $420, He Reports.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Senator Capper, Kansas republican, reported to the secretary of the senate today he had spent $420 in his campaign for re-election and received no contributions.

James Malone, who is opposing Senator Capper on the democratic ticket, reported he had spent $1,751 and received $419 in contributions.

MARCH FROM SCHOOL.

Principal Leads Students to Safety at Sublette, Kansas.

SUBLETTE, Kas., Oct. 24.—Fire of undetermined origin broke out in the rural high school here today while school was in session and practically destroyed the east side of the building.

The fifty-five students, who had been attending weekly fire drill, formed in the halls, and under the leadership of W. B. Brubaker, principal, marched to safety, although the flames had gained headway before the fire was noticed.

Line Plunges and Aerial Game Strong Forte Of Victors

Coach Mosley's junior college Indians, displaying a surprising reversal of form and a hard plunging attack coupled with a pretty overhead game, sent the Devol all-star dopey to defeat on the Spudder park grid Friday afternoon, 14 to 0.

The general all-around play of the Indians was far better than shown earlier in the season, a benefit produced by the past two weeks of hard drill in fundamentals and an aerial attack dished out to his mates known by the junior coach.

The ability of Captain Steve West to plough the line for substantial gains proved the foundation for the Indians' victory. However, the work of Thurman at quarter, both in selecting his plays when calling signals and in picking his man when passing, had much to do with the win. As was to be expected, the work of Keevil and Cosley, halfbacks, loomed. These men proved worthy running mates for West in advancing the ball, and were powers on defense, backing up the lines and making many tackles of fleeting Devol backs who had evaded the forward defense. Clary at center waged a stiff battle, and was more or less the bulwark of the line.

Line Fights Hard.

The Indian wingmen, Cantwell and Hezbi, played a bang-up defensive game, and were down under punts time and again to either stop the safety in his tracks or force him to the center of the field where the pack could smother him. The tackles, Zebley and Whitelaw, and guards, Coburn and Coz, presented a well-nigh stonewall offense to the Devol plungers. The all-stars finding it hard to gain through the Indian forward defense were forced to drop back to a passing game. A number of passes were completed, but the visitors failed to threaten very seriously.

Mosley's men outplayed Devol through the first quarter but could not cross the goal line. The feature of the period was a short pass made by Thurman to Keevil for a substantial gain.

Whitelaw Starts It.

The Indians tabulated in the second quarter. Whitelaw recovered a block punt, and then West plunged through for the first down. On the next play Cosley slipped through the line, and raced across for the touchdown. Thurman crossed the visitors up on the try for the extra point and passed into the end zone to Cosley for the tally.

Late in the third quarter, the Indians tore through the Devol line nearly at will. With West, Cosley and Keevil carrying the ball, the juniors marched steadily to the goal. A short buck by Keevil carried through for the touchdown. West plunged the line for the point from touchdown.

The all-stars tried desperately to stage a comeback during the last period with a passing game, but failed. A number of passes were completed, but the Devol chorus could not get within striking distance of the goal before being forced to kick out of danger.

NAVY IN POOR CONDITION

Midshipmen Severely Crippled For Game With Washington

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 24.—A crippled Navy eleven will take the field against West Virginia Wesleyan here on Saturday. This because Navy today with an announcement that Lentz, the dependable left guard, and Pippet, halfback, have fractures of the nose. Benka, a first-string back, is afflicted in like manner, and he, too, will be out of the game for some time. Furlong, too, remains idle because of injury.

But perhaps the most serious loss to the team, as far as the big game with West Point is concerned, is that of Clyde. He was a regular fullback last season and was traveling a smooth road to land a permanent berth again this year. Only recently recovered from a broken collar bone sustained in an auto accident during his summer vacation, he got into the line-up against Princeton Saturday.

PIRATES BEAT TIGERS

Southwestern Proves Way to Victory Over Trinity.

WAXAHACHIE, Oct. 24.—Southwestern university won a hard fought game from the Trinity Tigers 7 to 3 here today. Two field goals, Baker to Perrin for 20 yards and Bignil to Perrin for the same distance, gave Southwestern the victory. Trinity's only score was a field goal in the final minutes of the first half.

The Tigers were unable to break up the passing game of Southwestern. Trinity clustered around them, but failed the offensive power to carry the ball over. Southwestern's touchdowns were scored in the second period.

Frog-Owl Clash To Be Test Of Fighting Ability

No Overconfidence When These Teams Meet Today

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 24.—Rice Institute and T. C. U. will be a mere pair of opponents when they clash here Saturday. Fight has been the forte of the Frogs so far and it was that element that enabled them to drive through to their unexpected victory over Oklahoma A. & M. two weeks ago. But the Owls will have just as much as the Frogs.

Last Saturday Rice was locked out of a deserved tie with T. S. U. So the Owls are feeling mean enough to defeat anyone, especially the Frogs. The Frogs are longing to take out their bad feeling on somebody, as they were held to a 7-0 score last week by Simmons College and managed to make their long score only when one of their men got loose for a 30-yard run.

T. C. U. will be in a decidedly less advantageous condition than it was when it beat the Sooner Aggies. The Aggies were in a cocky frame of mind, while the Frogs were grim. Saturday the Frogs will meet a squad just as grim or grimmer than themselves.

Coaches Bell and James trained their crew warily this week. They are embarking Saturday on a series of five conference games, and with their small squad can not afford to take the slightest chance of injury. In one game this fall, when the Frogs were almost out on their feet near the close of the game no substitutes could be sent in because there were none on the bench. All the Frog injuries are now centered on three men and the Bell-James combination intends that they remain with that three. Any weakening of their reserves now would be fatal to the team's career through the rest of the schedule. T. C. U. will be hard pressed for men even if injury gives its lightest touch.

Only single running charging and a large portion of skull work were dosed to the Frogs this week.

Captain Linsley Jacks, Harvey Light and Donald Frazee are the three T. C. U. heroes who have taken all the injuries to themselves. Jacks and Light are definitely out for the season and it is doubtful if Frazee, the best triple threater on the squad can get into the game for two weeks yet. He may be able to enter against S. M. U. Saturday after next, but it is doubtful.

LONGHORNS ON DEFENSE.

Texas Mostly Will Try to Hold Florida from Goal, Is Belief.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 24.—A purely defensive game will probably be called on by the Texas Longhorns Saturday to stop the Florida Alligators and to make the most creditable showing which Texas can make under the circumstances. Texas' offensive power, never great, is now in such crippled condition that Doc Stewart seems to be planning, not how to win score against the Southern team, but how he can hold the "Gators" score down. The indigo cloud which settled over the Texas camp after the Howard Payne game is darker and heavier than it has ever been, and Longhorn supporters here will not complain greatly at any kind of showing against the Alligators.

The necessity of rebuilding his team completely has caused Stewart to resort again to his old standby, the secret practice. After raising the ban for one day this week, Stewart has again taken the Longhorns behind closed gates. But the only secret thus far is new counseling is just how badly off the Longhorns will be tomorrow.

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 24.—In a fast exchange the tackle caused the varsity's goal line for a touchdown yesterday. Lentz and Gouge of the scrubs' backfield showed themselves of quality caliber and may be promoted to the regulars before the end of the season.

Mustang Fans Expect Victory Over Farmers

Dallas Scribe Points Out Apparent S. M. U. Advantage

WIN VIA AIR ROUTE?

Cortemeglia Doped to Tear Through Aggie Line

By CHARLES DIXON.

DALLAS, Oct. 24.—Football enthusiasts of Dallas are divided into two classes:

The optimistic element, which feels assured that S. M. U. will defeat the Texas Aggies Saturday, and who do not hesitate to express their beliefs to the football world in general.

The second class is the pessimistic fans, who feel just as sure that the S. M. U. team will win the game Saturday, but hesitate to say so for fear that such statements might give the Farmers a slight psychological advantage, whatever that may be.

S. M. U. Under Cover All Season.

Due to the fact that S. M. U. has played under cover so often this season failing to run up high totals on any team, Dallas sportsmen are not willing to offer points on the game. They prefer to offer odds of 3 to 2, which to them appears quite a bargain. Casting aside all the natural prejudice we might have concerning the game, we fail to see how the Texas A. and M. team can hope for victory, unless that victory is won on the flukiest of flukes. Granting the A. and M. will be 30 per cent better today than she was when she met Syracuse here two weeks ago, the advantage would still go to S. M. U. and if the College Station team plays no better against the Ponies than she did against Sewanee then the game of Saturday is likely to terminate in a rout for the conference's greatest team of 1923, and the southwest's greatest eleven of 1924, none other than Southern Methodist university.

Cortemeglia Will Star.

We look for S. M. U. to have its forward pass weapon Saturday only as a threat. Cortemeglia, Walling Reiser and then Cortemeglia again will no doubt be able to go over and around the Aggies often enough to score enough points to win. It won't take many, for the Farmers have no offense to speak of.

Our optimism, if it can be called that, is not based on a foundation of sand. Didn't S. M. U. go to College Station last year, and on the Aggies' home field, not only defeat but humiliate the A. and M. aggregation in the first conference game of the season? Didn't the greatest passing team in the conference toy with the Aggies, as they won by a score of 10 to 0 without the aid of a single pass?

S. M. U. on Home Field.

The 1923 Aggies had the advantage of playing on their home field. They had won all of their games with ease prior to this game, just as has been the case this year. It is practically the same team the Aggies will meet this year. A. and M. but by graduation more strength than S. M. U. lost. The advantage of playing on the home field will be shifted to the Mustang side Saturday. A. and M's strong line will be matched by a line just as strong. It is doubtful if there is a man in the Aggie backfield who could make the grade had he been on the S. M. U. squad. The Mustangs have a super backfield, one that can do everything in an offensive way, well, and a pair of ends that can catch forward passes in their hip pockets if necessary.

S. M. U. All the Way.

Under the circumstances how then can a neutral critic, an Aggie critic or an S. M. U. critic figure an even chance for the A. and M. team here Saturday. By ripping the Texas line to pieces last week Cortemeglia gained the confidence he needed. We look for him to do much better against the touted Aggie defense, and in doing so prove that the scribe of the Daily Texan knew what he was talking about when he made the broad statement that the Wonderful Wop is the greatest line plunger the conference has ever seen. He is, but he has not even begun to show his real ability as a plunger yet. Folks who come to see him in action Saturday will get an eye full.

Did You Know That— By Feg Murray

Did you know that Johnny Sudenberg of Nevada once knocked Dempsey down seven times in one round? This all took place in Reno in 1915, when Jack was what you might call a novice. Jack wouldn't stay down, however, and finally earned a draw decision. Several years later he knocked Mr. Willard down seven times in one round, and still later Mr. Firpo.

Curved baseball bats were used in the major leagues in 1911, and were supposed to revolutionize baseball. The bats had a concave side and a convex side, and were manufactured by Emile Kintz of Chicago. Pat Dougherty used one in the All-Chicago world series. "Chief" Bender also.

Iowa, Enigma of Big Ten, Ready for Gophers Today

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 24.—Iowa, enigma of the West college conference, is tuned up for its game with Minnesota here Saturday,—the game that will establish Iowa's strength and probable place in the Big Ten race this year.

The game will also give Iowa adherents their first real chance to size up the team—the first effort of Burt Ingwerson, who succeeded Howard Jones "the man who beat Yale," as coach.

Iowa played Ohio State a couple of weeks ago but the season was still very young and neither team uncorked much in the way of versatile or unusual play. The game ended in a scoreless tie. Iowa had defeated Grinnell 20 to 7 the week before and had shown fair attacking power and a better defense. The team's last game was against Lawrence and ended in a 13 to 5 victory for Ingwerson's boys.

Iowa should render a good account of itself in its remaining games—Minnesota, then Illinois, Butler, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Jones left Ingwerson considerable of a legacy. First of all was Leland Parkin, captain and one of the outstanding backfield men of the country last year.

Among the other 14 vets on whom Ingwerson has based his hopes for a winning outfit are Rouse, Olson Fischenstein, Krasucki, Otte and Hancock on the line and Fry, Yerkes and Scarthebury in the backfield.

Neither Iowa nor Minnesota has yet a conference game to date, although both have battled to ties. Minnesota and Wisconsin fought a 7 to 7 deadlock. The winner in the forthcoming battle, therefore, will still have a clean slate and a chance to win the title.

Both play Illinois later this season, however, Iowa meets Illinois Nov. 1 at Urbana and Minnesota tackles the Grangers Nov. 15 at Minneapolis.

Featherweights To Decide Title In Tournament

Six Logical Contenders To Battle for Dundee's Throne

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Rules under which contenders for the world's featherweight boxing crown will fight in the quest for the title left vacant by the resignation of Johnny Dundee, former champion, were defined by the state athletic commission today.

The six most logical contenders, in the opinion of the commission, will meet in an elimination tourney to be conducted by the commission, all of them meeting on the same card in three 10-round exhibitions. The winners will then meet and the champion determined by the process of elimination. The pairings will be determined by a draw to be held at the office of the commission. This plan will be put into operation as soon as a promoter can be obtained to stage the tourney.

JUNIOR COLLEGE PEP SQUAD STRUTS STUFF

The "pep" squad at Junior college strutted its stuff Friday afternoon when the college team played against the Devol All-stars. Dressed in maroon and white, the college colors, the squad made a dash of color across the field.

Lemuel Peters is leader of the pep squad. He has just returned from Dallas where he attended an all-collegiate circus, getting new ideas for the rooters here.

Coyotes Invade Electra for Tilt This Afternoon

Followers of Crimson And Black Still Expect To Win

MANY REGULARS HURT

McCallum's Squad In Sore Plight, but Crew Of Optimists

The crippled Coyote grid squad will invade Electra today for the second class A interscholastic league tilt for the Wichita Falls team and the first for Gilstrap's Tigers.

Rated the weaker eleven due to injuries the Coyotes nevertheless are taking the game in a more or less optimistic mood. Unable to practice with any regularity the past week because of casualties and poor weather the first of the week the Crimson and Black is in sore plight. But McCallum and his lads are not worried in the least. The power of the Electra team is realized fully, but the Wichita Falls youths hope to outfight their opponents, and thereby rate a victory

Rooters Will Be There.

Twenty members of the squad will travel overland today about noon for Electra. They will be followed by a detachment of loyal high school rooters who still believe their team one of the best regardless of the bitter 20 to 0 defeat served up by the Vernon Lions last Saturday at Spudder park.

Win or lose, student bodies of both the high school and junior college will join tonight at 8 o'clock at the junior college building in a huge pep rally.

A large bonfire is to be built, weiners and marshmallows toasted, and an enthusiastic party staged. Yells, songs and stunts will be given around the fire.

Short on Subs.

The probable starting lineup for the Coyotes will find Mount at left end, Wainscott left tackle, Downing left guard, Hobbs center, Copeland at right guard, Pierce right tackle, Howle on left end, Lawson at quarter, Curtain and Woodson halfbacks, and Powell at full. Of these men several are not in the best of condition but are recuperating from injuries. McCallum will find himself handicapped in the matter of substitutes, too. Although there will be nine reserve men present at the game not more than two or three are experienced enough to wage the brand of ball the Wichita Falls coach needs to put his eleven over for a victory.

Electra fans seem prone to overlook declarations that the Coyotes are not in condition, but the absence of many of the regulars will be noted this afternoon when the squad takes the field.

ST EDWARDS WINS AGAIN

Junior Collegians Defeat Daniel Baker in Hard Game, 7 to 0.

BROWNWOOD, Texas, Oct. 24.—St. Edwards college won from the Daniel Baker Hill Billies here this afternoon, 7 to 0 on passes. Straight football was played, the teams being about evenly matched. The St. Edwards score came in the second period when Meredith passed 20 yards to Dorrenberger for the only touchdown.

Virtually every long pass of the St. Edwards team was completed. M. Stuessey, captain of St. Edwards, was the outstanding player with his line bucking, end runs, and passing. The Hill Billies threatened to score several times. Lemay played the best game for Daniel Baker.

Mehlhorn And Diegel to Play Exhibition Here

Famous Golf Pros to Lock With Cochran And Golding

Bill Mehlhorn and Leo Diegel, internationally famous golf professionals, will play a 36-hole exhibition match on the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club course Nov. 1, next Saturday, according to officials of the club.

The exhibition had been arranged for later in the month, but due to an enforced change in the golfers' schedule it has been decided to entertain them here the coming week-end.

Tommy Cochran of Wichita Falls and Dudley Golding also of this city, two amateurs who themselves have won no small amount of fame on the links, probably will be the opponents of the visiting stars.

Mehlhorn is the western open champ while Diegel captured the Canadian open recently held. The two are making a tour of the nation playing exhibition matches.

GIANTS BEAT WHITE SOX

National Leaguers Rally in Ninth to Win, 3 to 2.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox, in their second exhibition game in England today gave several thousand British "fans" a real demonstration of big league baseball. The Giants won a thrilling game, 3 to 2, with a ninth inning rally.

Among the interested spectators were the Duke and Duchess of York. The son of King George was received by Ambassador Kellogg and introduced to John McGraw, the Giant manager. In addition the duke met the players and insisted on shaking hands with each of them.

The score by innings:

Giants	010 000 002—3
White Sox	000 020 000—2

Bentley, Nehf and Henlin; Lyons, Faber and Picinich.

George Taylor, center on the junior high school football team, broke two ribs in scrimmage Friday, and will be out of the game with Strawn next week-end.

Taylor joins the hospital list with Toilet, tackle; Skeen, tackle, and West, fullback. This latest addition to the injured crew lowers the Coyote Pups' chance to cop in the contest with Strawn. A defeat means total elimination from the state high school class B races.

BAN'S JOB IS CERTAIN

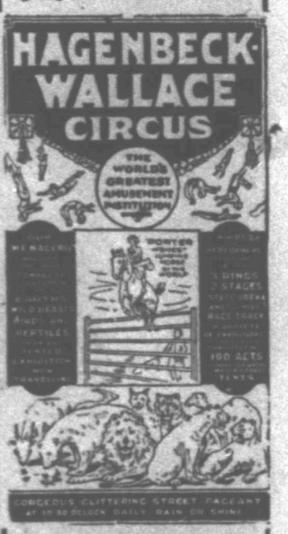

Ruppert Declares Johnson Will Not Be Supplanted

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Jacob Ruppert, president of the New York American baseball club, said today that Ban Johnson had a lifetime job as head of the American league.

The statement was made as a comment upon a report that a campaign was under way to supplant Johnson with Col. T. L. Huston, former part owner of the Yanks.

BILLY WHISKERS

BY FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

Billy thought he saw his chance to escape from the moving picture people when he saw an auto about to be driven out of the stable.

In a second Billy was in the car, having jumped clear over the side of the automobile and landed in the bottom, where he crouched still as a mouse. He heard the man coming back, talking as he came. He reached the car and just as he was about to open the back door, a man somewhere in the stable called to him to come and see the new gun he had just bought. So instead of opening the door and hanging the blanket on the rod in its place, he carelessly threw it in. It fell on Billy's back and completely covered him.

"I see my usual good luck is still with me," said Billy to himself. "Here comes the man and unless he brings some one with him or fixes the blanket, I am safe."

The man jumped in and started the car without so much as looking in the tonneau. Away they sped out of the garage and down the street.

"I wonder where he is going," mused Billy after they had been driving for ten or fifteen minutes. "From the jolting I am getting, he must be going over poorly paved streets. We must be in the suburbs of the city or on some back streets, or we might be out in the country for I hear no sound as when driving on cobblestones or pavements. Gee! if he takes me out in the country, I'll never be able to find my way back to Stubby and Button and they will wait and wait in vain for me. But after a certain time they will probably go back to the studio to see if the patrol wagon did not take Toodles and me back there, or to listen and see if they can't find out from the talk of Snub and Nick where I am.

"I think I will just stick my head out from under this blanket and see where we are."

At the very moment he decided to do this, the man on the front seat decided to look in the back of his car and see if his blanket was still there. When he turned and saw the blanket slowly raising up of its own accord, his eyes nearly popped out of his head. And when two big eyes, a long beard and a pair of horns appeared he gave a jerk to his wheel that sent the car into a ditch. He himself turned a somersault into the mud and water of the ditch, while Billy landed higher up on the embankment, all rolled up in the blanket. However, it only took him a few seconds to shake the blanket off, jump up and [illegible] in a deep woods the other side of the road where he was unseeded from the road. He waited to see if the man was really killed. After some minutes had passed, he heard faint groans, so knew he was alive. Then Billy's curiosity got the better of him and he went out of the woods on the road, where he could look down and see how badly hurt the man was.

(We'll have to be patient until tomorrow to find out if the man was badly hurt and what Billy did next.)

COLOR CUT-OUT

Betty and Billy Cut-out sat on the back porch, working very busily. Joan came up in the yard and stopped for a minute, wondering what they were doing that they seemed so very serious.

"Come on up, Joan," called Betty. "You can help Billy and me make Jack-O-Lanterns. We're going to make a lot of them. It's such fun making eyes and noses and mouths in these big yellow pumpkins."

"Oh! What's that?" Joan jumped, as a black streak ran around the house. After the streak went Bouncer, Billy's dog.

"Here, Bouncer. Stop that!" Betty called back her dog. "Why that black thing you saw is 'Midnight', my uncle's big black cat. He brought him into town yesterday, so we could have a real black cat at our Hallowe'en party!"

Further Delay Met in City's New Tax Plans

Will Wait Another Week While System Is Being Studied

MATTER IS DISCUSSED

N. H. Martin and C. I. Francis Talk On Question At Business Council

Another delay of at least a week in the move to acquire a modern tax equalization system for Wichita Falls loomed yesterday when Mayor Frank Collier agreed to hold over until Nov. 3 the opening of bids for the installation of the Somers or other unit system of tax assessment and valuation. The delay is contingent on permission from two out of town tax experts who come to Wichita Falls at considerable expense to themselves and were given to understand that bids they had submitted would be definitely acted on next Monday night. It is expected, however, that they will agree to the delay.

Mayor Collier accreded to the postponement at the request of several business men here who have voiced opposition to the unit system of taxation and asked for more time in which to study the proposed plans. Their requests was made through the directors of the chamber of commerce who in turn presented it to the mayor.

Grounds on which opposition to the tax system is based were revealed for the first time yesterday noon when N. H. Martin, vice-president of the Texhoma Oil and Refining company, appeared before the business council of the chamber of commerce and set forth his reasons for not favoring it. Recognized as a spokesman for the opposition element, Mr. Martin declared that he was not fighting any plan that would tend to give this city a more equitable taxing system. He was, however, he said, opposing the Somers or other unit system, at least until he was certain that they would not work a hardship, unjustly, on business enterprises here.

Would "Tax Them Out."

The speaker stressed that many manufacturing concerns here were assets to the city but were liabilities on the basis of the owners and that a taxing plan such as that proposed by the unit system would practically "tax them out of business." These plants, he said, had large replacement values but were producing little or no revenue, and he understood that the Somers system would operate on the replacement value of the property to be taxed. The system might, Mr. Martin said, possess enough elasticity to be satisfactory and not prove a burden on industrial plants, but he wished to make sure of this before he could lend his endorsement to it.

Mayor Collier spoke briefly on taxing inequalities that exist in the city and the principal address in defense of a new system was given by Charles I. Francis, local attorney.

Pointing out that the inequalities of which the mayor had spoken must have had some basis of existing, Mr. Francis declared that the unit system of equalization would ferret out these causes and make possible an intelligent assessing of property values. He expressed belief that the Somers system possessed the elasticity which Mr. Martin suggested, and in an address which drew applause heartily urged its speedy adoption.

F. G. Swenson also spoke briefly in defense of the plan.

PLAN FOR AN EGG SHOW

Will Be Given in Connection With Poultry Exhibit Here.

An egg show, in which hen fruit of all sizes and varieties will be exhibited, is to be held in connection with the annual North Texas Poultry association show December 6 to 10 this year. It is expected to be one of the principal features of a large and interesting poultry exhibit.

Officers of the association are busy already in preparing for the show and it is announced that last year's entry list of over 800 birds would be greatly exceeded this season. Interest in the show is intense among poultry raisers of this section, a face evidenced by the widely scattered points from which the entries are being received.

An expert of national reputation, E. C. Branch of Lee Summit, Mo., has been secured to act as judge. E. H. Carver of this city will act as show superintendent.

The definite place at which the show will be held has not yet been decided on, but association officials are casting about for a suitable location and expect to complete arrangement in a short time.

The Old Home Town

Rev. Fred T. Dutson, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, will leave Monday for Cleburne where he will attend a two days' church conference.

A. E. Murdock of San Antonio, former resident of Wichita Falls, is here for a few days on business.

Four overtime parking cases, two drunks and a vag made up the day's business in corporation court Friday morning. Fines were assessed in all the cases.

Walter Manning, an attorney of Kansas City, is in Wichita Falls on business.

Irrigation

By A. M. McPHERSON.

WATER

The Border Method of Irrigation.

The border method of irrigation is widely used and is especially adapted to the irrigation of alfalfa, hay and similar field crops.

It is also used in connection with furrow irrigation where the fields are being irrigated for the first time or where a field has not been properly leveled.

Land properly prepared for furrow irrigation does not need borders, and they should not be used as they take up a lot of land that ought to be raising crops.

Borders are simply small levees or ridges of earth thrown up across a field. They should be run directly down the steepest slope. They are built from 6 to 18 feet high and proportionately wide at the base.

The distance they are spaced apart depends upon the unevenness of the land and the grade of the side slope of the field. They may be any distance from 30 feet to as far as 150 feet.

Most fields will have two slopes one steeper than the other. On such fields water will tend to flow down both slopes but mainly down the steeper one, but the tendency to run down side slopes is often very bothersome to the irrigator. With borders thrown up at intervals the water is confined between them and the water must flow in the way it is intended.

In irrigating a row crop the only function of a border is to take care of water that may break from one row to another. Where land has been properly leveled or where the furrows have not been run as they should such breaks often occur. Where borders are used they will prevent the fields from being washed into gullies.

Using borders promiscuously just because some one else uses them is not good irrigation practice. A field properly laid out and planted to row crops should not need borders and they should not be used as they take up good land which would raise crops.

Royal Violinist Real Artist On Wichita Program

Duci de Kerekjarto Proves Popular as Headliner On Vaudeville Bill

OTHER ACTS GOOD

Comedy and Music Found In Abundance In Week's Stage Offering

Duci De Kerekjarto, royal violinist virtuoso, gave something out of the ordinary to the program at the Wichita theatre last night. He proved to be a real artist, and was encored twice. His tone was good and his execution and technique excellent. The five numbers which he played were a real musical treat.

Stan Stanley and company in "Nature's Nobleman in the Theatre" brought their act into the audience. Their appearance off stage was something different and the whole act proved to be a surprise. The funny jokes and unexpected answers of Stanley kept the audience in an uproar.

Piano Movers There.

McDevitt, Kelly and Quin present "The Piano Movers and the Actress," a clever little sketch with a lot of funny lines and actions. The two piano movers make their appearance in a noisy fashion, their costumes are comical and they do plenty of comic things. The act proves to be a great laugh producer.

Bernt and Partner, a good looking girl and a muscular man have an act of flexibility, grace and art. They perform stunts that are exceedingly difficult. Their act is away from the beaten path of vaudeville and is a good novelty.

Sally Fields Sang.

The regular bill was preceded by The Sportlights of Grantland Rice, Felix Kat and an overture by the Wichita theatre orchestra. There will be three performances today at 2:30, 7:30 and 9:30 p. m.

ATTORNEY IS FINED

Claggett Assessed $25 for Failure To Appear.

A fine of $25 was assessed yesterday morning on Ewing Claggett, local attorney, when he failed to appear when the Tom Yancy case was called in the 80th district court. The fine was assessed by Judge P. A. Martin.

The attorney was to have represented Yancy, who is charged with theft and receiving and concealing stolen property. The case was passed over until next week.

WANTED TO SEE 'EM RUN

Drunk Turns in Alarm and Watches Fire Trucks.

He saw 'em run, all right, but it may cost him more than the fun was worth before the law gets through with him.

The police phone at the city hall jangled and Sergeant Minnick snapped to attention when a voice at the other end implored prompt action and plenty of it. There was "a great big fire down here," it seemed, and the fire department was wanted practically immediately, if not sooner. An address on Ohio avenue was given.

Minnick sent a call through channels that routed a dozen or more firemen from warm beds and a cavalcade of big red wagons was soon flying down the street.

Arrived at the address given, however, not even a gas stove could be found burning. No smoke, no fire; but on the curb a shabby individual was swaying back and forth, solemnly applauding each truck as it clanged to a noisy halt.

"Did you turn in that alarm?" demanded a fireman.

"Sure did, brother."

"Are you drunk?"

"No sir!" he was positive, and then as an afterthought, "I was—but I ain't now."

He couldn't furnish a $50 bond and is in jail to await trial this morning.

Negroes Deprived Of Suffrage Is Judge's Charge

Kennamer In Oklahoma Issues Statement On Arrests

AVOIDS CONTROVERSY

Warns That If Investigation Warrants Prosecutions Will Follow

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 24.—A statement declaring he did not wish to be drawn into a controversy with state officials over alleged election registration irregularities in Oklahoma, but affirming his belief that negroes were being deprived of suffrage, was issued here late today by Judge Franklin E. Kennamer of the United States district court.

The statement was issued after Governor M. E. Trapp, Attorney General George F. Short and W. C. McAlister, secretary of state election board, had contradicted Judge Kennamer's previous allegation that a conspiracy exists in the state to bar negroes from the polls.

"I have no desire to be drawn into a controversy with state officials over the manner in which elections are conducted," Judge Kennamer said. "My statement from the bench was occasioned by evidence as brought before me in the court.

"The defendants in the case, the registration officials from Okfuskee county, did not deny that they were preventing negroes from registering. They merely fought the jurisdiction of the federal court over this issue. Their demurrer was justified as the federal court has no original jurisdiction over such a case.

"The state election law is so constructed as to enable the registration officials to prevent persons from registering. The short time between registration and election makes an appeal to the state supreme court useless.

"If investigation warrants it, there will be prosecution of persons under the federal statutes."

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

Civic League Wants City Swept Out Before Conventions.

A "clean-up" campaign to put the city in spic and span shape before a number of conventions scheduled to be held here soon will be started next week. The movement is being sponsored by the local Civic league, with the assistance of the city health and sanitary departments.

City trash wagons will be available for hauling away all rubbish and trash collected, and it is the hope of the Civic league directors that a decided improvement can be made in the appearance of Wichita Falls.

DIVORCE FROM THE DEAD.

Russian Countess Would Remarry But Encounters Snag.

NEW YORK, Oct. —Countess Vera Androsoff, who has supported herself and her child by working as a dress designer since coming to this country in 1917, after being deported by the soviet authorities in Russia, yesterday filed suit for divorce under the "Enoch Arden" provision of the state law.

The countess stated that she was married to Count Boris Androsoff, a cousin of the late czar, at a court wedding in 1909. They lived in Russia until 1917, when her husband was killed in a munity of sailors of Sebastopol. Recently she tried to obtain a marriage license, she said, which was refused on the ground that she had not produced sufficient proof of her husband's death.
