PIRATES PLAY HORNETS FRIDAY

By BOB CRAWFORD

Although winless going into tomorrow night's action against Flour Bluff, the Rockport-Fulton Pirates appear to be on the brink of winning their first game of the year after losing a close game to Calallen 36-25 last week.

The Pirates finally got their offense on track, but Calallen, featuring much of the same deception Refugio used a couple of years ago when Coach Teddy Gray was there, riddled the Pirates' pass defense for touchdown after touchdown.

This week the Pirates, if they can benefit from mistakes made in the last two weeks, should match up well against the Hornets, a passing team. The Hornets are led by Junior Quarterback Kenny Adams.

The Pirates travel away tomorrow for the game.

—Voted to buy a new police car through the Corpus Christi Police Department which buys its police cars on a fleet basis providing a savings as compared to buying one police car from a dealer.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS ADVISED OF FINANCIAL AID FOR COLLEGE

High school seniors who plan to enter college or other institutions of higher learning in the fall of 1974 and who wish to seek scholarships or other financial aid are advised to begin early.

Pat Padgett, High School Counselor, prepared a memo for the seniors taken from Compendium of Texas Colleges and Financial Aid Calendar explaining financial aid and outlining the necessary steps. The memo is quoted below in the hope that parents of students will encourage the students to seek the financial aid that is available.

Except for individual, industry/business and professional organization-sponsored, company/union-sponsored, or foundation-sponsored scholarships, fellowships, loans, etc., approximately ninety percent (90%) of all financial aid available to students from undergraduate to postgraduate and post-doctoral levels is channeled through the offices of the Financial Aid Officer at a college or university.

Recommendation is made that you contact the Financial Aid Officer at the institution you wish to attend to find out what is available to you. To secure this information from him, you will be required to complete his Application for Financial Aid, and you will probably be required to submit information regarding you and your family's finances, by completing a standardized family or individual financial information statement.

These documents are necessary for the Financial Aid Officer in determining your remaining financial need.

Total College Costs for an Academic Year less Expected Personal/Family Contribution equals Remaining Financial Need.

These documents are necessary also for the Financial Aid Officer in determining financial aid forms (scholarship, loan, part-time work or a combination thereof) for which you may be eligible.

Secure the Application for the Financial Aid form early; complete it and return it together with other required documents or information early. The Financial Aid Officer is a highly qualified professional with very specialized training in his field. He is indeed your friend, and you must be guided by his advice and decisions.

Since Financial Aid is dependent upon admission, it is recommended that you contact the Admissions Officer also at an early date.

In many instances, the college Financial Aid Officer offers what is called a "financial aid package" or "package deal". This consists of two or more interrelated forms of financial aid: scholarships, grants-in-aid, loans, and part-time work. Under a package deal, therefore, a student can finance much of his college expenses by being awarded a partial scholarship, accepting a long-term, low-interest loan (a part of which he may not have to repay), and working a few hours a week. Availability of funds and eligibility to participate are determined in all cases by the Financial Aid Officer at the college/university.

Two Charged With Money Order Thefts

Sheriff Robert Hewes reported the arrest of two Corpus Christi residents in connection with the theft of several money orders from Maverick Markets, Inc.

Charged were Antonio Garcia and Irma Torres. Sheriff Hewes stated that the case involved the thefts and attempted cashing of the stolen money orders. Both were placed in Aransas County jail pending bond.

Sentenced For Threatening Officer

An eighteen-year-old Rockport man was found guilty in County Court of threatening the life of a police officer. Phillip Hernandez was sentenced to thirty days in the County Jail and fined $95.00. Hernandez pleaded guilty to the charge resulting from an incident involving Deputy Sheriff Mike Webb.

The City Council Monday approved a request by Aransas Natural Gas Company to increase the current rate by slightly less than seven cents per thousand cubic feet of gas.

On a minimum bill for 3,000 cubic feet or less, the new schedule will increase the bill about 20 cents per month.

When Gas Company officials asked for a rate hike at the September 24 City Council meeting they were told to appear at the October 8 meeting and present data showing the rate of return on the company's plant equipment at the present time and what it would be after the proposed increase.

At this week's meeting, Gas Company representatives presented financial data which listed present rate of return at 6.36 per cent, and 7.31 per cent after the rate increase. The legal limit is 8 per cent.

Vernon Kleybas, operations manager of Aransas Natural Gas Company, outlined the rate increase as follows:

Calallen Outlasts Pirates 36-25

By BOB CRAWFORD

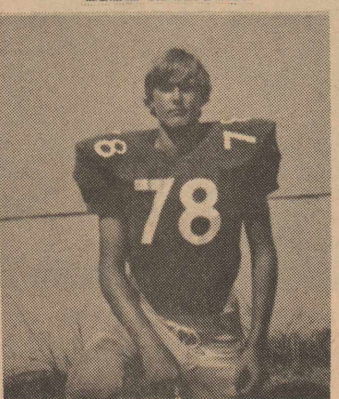

After going three games without scoring, the Rockport-Pulton Pirates scored 25 points last Friday night, but Calallen dropped their fourth straight game at Calallen.

In the first period of play the Wildcats connected on the first of five touchdowns by the way of passes to take a 6-0 lead.

The Pirates stormed back on the next possession with

BILL MERCER

MARCUS CARLETON

Denzell Bardwell scoring the Pirates' first TD of the year from four yards out. David Brooks kicked the extra point to give the Pirates a 7-6 lead. That drive was kept alive by a 21 yard dash by halfback Bill Mercer.

Calallen went on to an 18-13 lead when the Pirates came back again and quarterback Scott Gillis punched over from the one yard line behind the interior blocking of Peden Rogers, David Mundine, and Danny Cox.

In the third period the Wildcats jumped out ahead 30-13 and the Pirates came right back in the fourth period on a pass from Gillis to Mercer, and on another sneak by Gillis to cut the margin to 30-25. The Pirates again got the ball, but the drive was stopped by an untimely interception.

Offensively the Pirates were led by the 171 yards gained by Rickey McLeister. Fine blocking was provided by the entire Pirate line and other backs, but outstanding jobs were done by Rusty Morrison and Bob Gillis.

Defensively, Mercer, Gillis, Ricky Littleton and Marcus Carleton led the way.

Junior Varsity Falls In Heartbreaker

By BOB CRAWFORD

The failure to get a punt away proved to be the downfall of the Junior Varsity Pirates in a 6-0 loss to Calallen last week.

The Pirates drove to the Calallen 9 yard line in the third period but a penalty and a fumble stopped that threat.

The game proved to be a defensive struggle with the breaks providing the only score.

Bill Smith and Roy Nava were the leaders on defense.

Freshmen Pirates Drop Game 22-8

By BOB CRAWFORD

The Freshmen Pirates darted ahead 8-7 at one point only to see Calallen race back and take the game 22-8 at Pirate Stadium last week.

At one point in the scoreless first half the Pirates seemed to get the break that would open up the game's scoring when defensive back Horatio Rodriguez intercepted a Calallen pass and returned the ball 50 yards before being hauled down from behind at the Calallen 20 yard-line.

In the third quarter the Wildcats took the second half kickoff and marched 67 yards for the score.

On the next series of plays the Pirates went to the air on passes from Dickie Ballou to Ronnie Ormand and Rey Guerrero to move the ball 62 yards, with Guerrero taking the ball on the end of a 27 yard play. Ballou galloped around the left end behind fine blocking for the two extra points, and the Pirates led 8-7.

Calallen scored two other touchdowns and a safety in the 4th period.

Parks and Wildlife U. of T. Biologists Return from Africa

AUSTIN - With visions of hot showers and home-cooked meals dancing through their heads, Parks and Wildlife Department biologist Bob Chew and University of Texas zoologist Dr. Clark Hubbs returned Sept. 6 from six weeks in Africa. Chew and Hubbs visited 11 African countries in search of a place to study the Nile perch. The large fish is being considered for possible introduction into some Texas waters which are heated by electrical generating plants.

The biologists narrowed the search down to two lakes as having the best potential for study: Lake Tanganyika in Tanzania and Lake Rudolf in Kenya. Tanganyika is the world's seventh largest lake with 12,700 square miles of water. It is 420 miles long and is 4,710 feet deep in places.

Rudolf is the 25th largest lake in the world, 154 miles long and has 2,473 square miles of surface area. Its deepest point is some 200 feet. Chew returned to the U. S. very optimistic and impressed with the potential of the Nile perch and the value it might have in Texas lakes.

"We went out in both commercial and sports fishing boats," said Chew, "and observed large numbers of perch being harvested on both lakes. To cite an example, between 4 and 6 p.m. on Lake Rudolf, I observed three fishermen catch a total of 370 pounds of perch, the largest of which was an 86-pound fish."

Chew said that they were catching perch in 10 feet of water using large plugs and 50-pound test monofilament.

The largest reported Nile Perch taken by rod and reel from Rudolf weighed 225 pounds.

According to Chew, the fish grows 15 pounds in its first year of life in African waters. The flesh is eaten throughout Africa and he described it as

"excellent."

"Once a year on Lake Rudolf," said Chew, "a Nile perch fishing contest is held with a minimum allowable size of 20 pounds."

"Last year, 17 boats participated in the tournament and caught 9,000 pounds of fish in three days."

Most of the fishing activity on Rudolf is by sportsfishermen but Lake Tanganyika supports a large commercial fishing industry with perch sold in local markets.

"Tanganyika is a very clear and deep lake," said Chew. "Local fishermen work at night with lantern boats and set their nets from the surface to a depth of 300 feet."

"The lights from the boats draw the fish closer to the surface and a successful night's catch is 3,000 pounds of perch."

Tanganyika is the biologist's first choice for further work on the Nile perch because of existing laboratory facilities on the lake and its relative accessibility.

The lake can be reached by a once-a-week flight in a DC-3 or a 40-hour train ride from Dar-es-Salaam on the Indian Ocean.

The next step in the Nile perch study is contacting the governments of both Tanzania and Kenya to obtain permission for a Parks and Wildlife Department biologist and a University of Texas biologist to spend 14 to 18 months in Africa studying the fish in its native environment and evaluating its potential for importation to Texas.

Also, Chew said that he has received numerous letters about "Nile perch" already found in Florida waters.

"These people are confusing the tilapia with the Nile perch," he said. "Tilapia have become quite a problem in Florida but are different from the perch."

The tilapia is a small, bream-like fish whereas the Nile perch is shaped like its close relative the snook.

Potato chips have sharp edges and can damage a sore throat. Normally, potato chips will not affect a healthy throat, but they can cause serious trouble when the throat, glands or tonsils are already swollen and tender.

Although honey is often used to soothe a sore throat or ease a cough, it should never be given to someone who is allergic to pollen.

All normal skin contains at least three types of coloring matter or pigments. Differences in skin color are mainly the result of how much of each pigment is present, and how they are blended together.

Hammett to Attend Military Event

In 1933, forty years ago, A. B. J. Hammett, of Fulton, was one of the hosts representing the city of New York on the arrival of General Italo Balbo and His Squadron of Italian Flyers who made the first mass trans-Atlantic sea-plane flight from Rome, Italy to Chicago, landing their sea-planes in Lake Michigan. The occasion was the Chicago World's Fair.

During the past forty years and throughout World War II, Admiral A. B. J. Hammett has maintained a constant relationship with this military group of flyers and he has received word from Rome, Italy advising of the first reunion and anniversary of this historic trans-Atlantic flight.

The surviving Italian flyers and the relatives of the deceased visited Chicago and New York, arriving on October 7th. There were approximately eighty Italians making this historic trip.

Reception committees, etc. were composed of the (Order of Sons of Italy), (Joint Civic Committees of Italian-Americans), (The Chamber of Commerce of Italy, Chicago and New York), (The Bank of Rome, Chicago and New York), and many others.

Many parades and civic functions were scheduled. Admiral Hammett has been extended an invitation to join with his friends in these celebrations and he will be reunited with them in New York City.

Woman Needs Much Help

The Women's Missionary Union of the Calvary Baptist Church is sponsoring and coordinating a relief fund for a local lady.

She is seriously ill with cancer, and is a charity out-patient in M.D. Anderson Hospital, Houston. Every twenty days she must go to Houston for treatment. Each round trip costs approximately $40.00 for lodging, meals, and gasoline. She is unable to work, and has no source of income.

For this reason the Women's Missionary Union is seeking donations to pay for her trips to Houston. All donations will be acknowledged, placed in a special account and disbursed as needed to her for the sole purpose of meeting this expense.

Your help and your prayers in this matter will be greatly appreciated. Please send all donations to the Women's Missionary Union in care of the Calvary Baptist Church or bring your donation by personally.

If you desire further information, please call C.J. Molmen, Pastor.

Few people realize just how big a problem the state parks of Texas can be. Each year the number of visitations sky-rocket to new heights, and each year the need for more and better parks grows more acute. Park sites are acquired for their scenic beauty, their historic background, some unique feature, or their recreational potential, and their geographic location is a consideration too. In any event, every attempt is made to preserve, to enhance, of the facilities we must provide. Attempts are made to blend all these things into their surroundings, as much as it is possible, but the planners must give careful consideration to the location of these facilities. They must be situated so that traffic, both foot and vehicular, will not create a menace to the natural beauty after the park is in use by the public. In some cases obstacles must be erected to maintain traffic flow in the desired direction. Many times this can be done with natural materials, such as large rocks placed in such a way that they don't look as though man had anything to do with their placement. Dense plantings of native plants can also be used in this way. Garner State Park is a good example of how rocks can be worked into a natural setting, and seneca has been planted to guide traffic in some places at Falcon State Park.

Although facilities of the same type are basically the same at all state parks, the materials from which they are constructed can vary widely. This is another attempt to match the facilities with the natural setting in the park. A screen shelter down near the Mexican border might be made of concrete blocks and wood, in the hill country they might use native rock and wood, while in the piney woods the shelters would probably be made of split pine logs.

All the newer parks, and many of the older ones, have nature trails. You would be surprised at how many people, especially families, are content to just wander down these trails, learning about the native flora, and just looking at the beauty they find there. Sometimes a great deal of work is necessary to construct these trails in such a way that they will be safe, interesting, informative, and beautiful.

Many wild flowers are planted in our state parks, and, of course, much care is taken to plant flowers that will do well

FELLOW AND HIS FRIEND are visitor Scott Hafen, 5, of North Las Vegas, Nev., and one of the permanent residents at California's tourist mecca, Knott's Berry Farm. Scott is the 1974 March of Dimes National Poster Child. Born with multiple defects, including open spine, he represents many children with similar problems benefited by March of Dimes-financed research and treatment.

In that particular location. Because of these flowers, you may notice some of our parks looking a little ragged in the summer. This is because mowing operations have been suspended in order to let the flowers mature, bloom, and scatter seeds for next year's crop. All these things, and many more, are done in order to provide the people of Texas, as well as visitors from outside the state, with places they can go where every attempt has been made to preserve the natural beauty of the countryside. However, the biggest problems we have are the people themselves. Too many feet can wear away the grass down to the bare earth, then pack the earth so tightly that no water can soak down to the roots of the trees. Shrubs can literally be worn out by a steady stream of people brushing against them. All this happens during the growing season of the spring and summer, and the vegetation simply cannot make a comeback during the more dormant periods of fall and winter. Bare ground is eroded away by winter rains, weeds replace grass, trees die, and the parks are just being worn out by too much use.

We have been talking about the natural aspects of a park and haven't discussed the wear and tear on the facilities provided for the people. In one park not long ago, the showers in the restrooms were not turned off for four consecutive days. There were always people waiting to use them. Water pumps burned out, faucets developed leaks, and disposal plants were overloaded. The other facilities of the park received the same kind of wear. Nothing can stand up to this kind of treatment.

Although we are always building new parks, it is not a speedy process. It takes a long time to acquire the land, plan the park, get the money, build the facilities, and put the park into operation. Park usage is growing faster than our park system, and something must be done.

Several things have been considered. The park entrance fees could be raised in hopes this would reduce visitation, but a serious objection to this suggestion is that the very people who need the state parks most, the lower income groups, would be the ones kept out. The length of stay allowed in the park could be shortened to a few days, but a great many families like to camp in one place for their entire vacation. After all, who wants to break camp, load up, drive to a new location miles away, and set up camp again every few days? The plan most seriously considered is to determine how many people can use a particular park without damaging it, then, on a first come-first served basis, turn away all in excess of that number. It is quite possible that we'll come to this in the not too distant future. A lot of people will be disappointed, sure, but this would allow us to preserve the parks we have until we could get enough new ones into operation to take care of all the people.

RETURN SCHOOL ENROLLMENT VERIFICATION SAYS VA

The Veterans Administration today cautioned institutions of all types providing services to eligible veterans that enrollment verifications must be returned at once to avoid delay of VA payments.

A. A. Hunter, Director of the VA Regional Office in Houston, said that veterans will not receive their October educational allowances until the verification of enrollment is received for all veterans who received advanced payment of benefits when they enrolled at the start of the fall semester. Hunter described the enrollment verification as a small yellow IBM card which reflects general information about the veteran's status, including any changes in number of hours attendance since the veteran started school.

Book Describes Old Road Here

Memories of the shell-topped coastal road that ran through Rockport in the early years of this century have been revived in a book by a local writer. "The Old Beach Road" by Mrs. Winifred E. Lowther, has recently been published by the Naylor Co. of San Antonio. Through a series of vignettes, the author reconstructs the way of life she knew while growing up on the Texas coast. The old road, long vanished, represents one of the central threads of that existence.

Born in Corpus Christi, Mrs. Lowther moved to the Coastal Bend area near Rockport at an early age. She returned here after spending much of her adult life elsewhere in Texas. She is the author of two other books, both published by Naylor. Her writings have won recognition from the Texas Press Women and the National Federation of Press Women.

The difference in the 7th grade game was two long scoring passes by Calallen. Calallen's first touchdown came with 3 seconds left in the 1st half on a 50 yard pass. The second touchdown came late in the fourth quarter as an 30 yard pass play.

In the 8th grade game the "Bucs" were stunned on the opening kick-off by a 70 yard touchdown run. The extra point was good and the Bucs trailed 8-0. The Bucs came roaring back on a 70 yard touchdown drive to even the score 8-8. Late in the second quarter the Bucs punched over another score to lead at half 16-8. The 3rd quarter was dominated by the Bucs, but they were unable to put any points on the board. Meanwhile, Calallen came back to add another touchdown making the score 16-14 Bucs.

Midway through the fourth quarter Richard Menchiola got things going for the Bucs, when he broke 60 yards up the middle for a Bucs touchdown. The final was Bucs 22-14 over Calallen.

The leading rusher for the game was Richard Menchiola with 17 carries for 133 yards. Bobby Lewis carried 16 times for 89 yards.

Outstanding offensive players were Leland Knox, Shawn Wendell, Sam Solis, Earl Schoepf, Bruce Barre, Jerry Lewis, Randy Hackney, Darryl Green and Leslie Jones.

Outstanding defensive players were Knox, Bobby Lewis, Schoepf, Solis, Green, Jerry Lewis, Benno Wilke.

Fidelis Class Installs Officers

The Fidelis Class of the First Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Jewel Blair Monday night.

Mrs. Josephine Cox, class president, presided at the business meeting.

Mrs. Mary Scrivner gave the devotional. In keeping with the Halloween theme, she discussed the "ghosts" and fears that arise in the lives of adults.

Mrs. Olga McLester read the minutes of the last meeting.

The new class yearbooks, boasting beautiful hand painted covers, created by Mrs. Myrt Russell, were distributed to the members by Mrs. Ethel Brown and Mrs. Chris Chrisman who had worked very hard composing the contents of the book.

Mrs. Josephine Cox presented the officers of the new year as "Vessels" of God in a unique ceremony.

A short social followed the meeting and refreshments of homemade cake and punch or coffee were served to the following members:

Mesdames Mary Scrivner, Ethel Brown, Edna Yount, Olga McLester, Chris Chrisman, Lillian Sorenson, Estle Turner, Ruby Mundine, Bessie Edgar, Jannetta King, Eva Lutz, Vida Thorman, Josephine Cox, Jewel Blair, Sheila Roach and Louise Shults. Two guests were Mrs. Helm and Mrs. Walker.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN — How "used" is a used car?

If its vintage is stated accurately, the prospective buyer received an honest statement of its mileage; the working parts are in working condition, and the price represents the fair market value of the specific vehicle involved, then it's entirely up to the consumer to decide if a certain used car is a good buy.

But a misrepresentation as to year of model, or a purposeful misstatement of mileage accrued would constitute a deceptive trade practice under the 1973 Texas Deceptive Trade Practices — Consumer Protection Act.

An alteration or resetting of an odometer—the instrument on the car which indicates its total mileage—also is prohibited under the new Federal Odometer Law, which requires that each transferor of a vehicle make a certificate attesting to the mileage.

The certificate must identify the vehicle transferred by its make, model, body type, serial number and last license plate number. It must include the transferor's name, address and signature, and the certificate signed has to refer to the fact that the giving of incorrect information may result in civil liability.

The alternative to the person or dealer transferring ownership of a motor vehicle would be to state that the actual mileage is unknown—if he really cannot attest to it.

The enacting of state and federal prohibitions on odometer "rollbacks" were affirmations of the long-held enforcement philosophy that this practice does work a fraud on consumers.

For instance, in Texas, the Attorney General's office in 1972 obtained 39 court injunctions prohibiting used car dealers and auto lease services from setting back odometers under an umbrella prohibition against deceptive trade practices.

We thought that it ought to be spelled out, and the Texas Legislature agreed, so odometer rollbacks were added to the specific list of trade practices outlawed under the 1973 act.

It is easy to understand that there may be circumstances in which an individual trading in an old car or a used car dealer selling one may not be able to swear to the actual mileage—because the car has had so many owners, or because of mechanical difficulties.

So the state law (and the federal act) include the language, "with the intent to defraud."

Deceptions, frauds and misrepresentations are the blocks we want to remove from the consumers' path to an equal footing in the marketplace.

If you are shopping for a used car, and have reason to doubt the seller's statement on mileage, there are several clues you can follow to ascertain the true figure: For one thing, examine the vehicle itself. Do the brake pads, emergency brakes or tires indicate more wear than the mileage would appear to warrant? Almost any reputable seller also will encourage you—or at least, permit you—to drive the car to your own mechanic for an even closer check. You are always free, of course, to talk to the previous owner. If he can't be identified easily, you can write the motor vehicle registration division of the Texas Highway Department—enclosing $1 and the vehicle identification number, and get a history of the title.

If a consumer suspects that mileage has been misrepresented, he can file a complaint under federal law, which prescribes penalties for violation of three times actual damages, a maximum of $1,500.

Or, a private suit could be filed under the new Texas law, and if the court determined that there was a violation, the judge could award three times actual damages.

If you have a complaint, contact your county or district attorney, or the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office.

ORDINANCE NO. 345

PUBLIC NOTICES "BECAUSE THE PEOPLE MUST KNOW"

(Editor's Note: Public Notice advertising plays a unique role both in American history and in the process by which this country's democracy is preserved. Its one premise is that people must be informed if they are to govern themselves competently. Public Notice advertising first came into being with the Congress of 1792. That body, recognizing its responsibility to the people, required the Postmaster General to advertise for bids for the construction of new post offices. From that inauspicious beginning to the complex publication requirements in federal, state and local laws today, government officials have come more and more to understand their obligations to inform the public through Public Notice advertising. Newspapers over the years have been the vehicle by which these obligations have been fulfilled. They will continue to be as long as the public demands that it be informed frequently and by the best means possible.)

The Kinsey Report

Young Homemakers Begin New Year With Dr. Levy

The new year of Y. H. T. began Tuesday, October 2 when Dr. Ronald Levy, a local dentist, discussed the necessity of developing an oral hygiene program for the entire family. A large portion of the question and answer period that followed pertained to the dental care and training of young children.

The membership tea held Sunday, September 30, was termed a success. Twenty-five area homemakers visited during the afternoon affair viewing a creative display of the chapter's purpose and com-

for the Council meeting."

Then he asked, "How was he able to stay alive after being buried?"

So, with much important business to be considered by the Council, I explained that the final scene pictured Dillon shaking hands with the gun-fighter at the gunslinger's home, indicating that Marshal Dillon, Doc Adams and the gunfighter had worked out some kind of plan making it possible for the gunfighter to appear to be killed, so other gunfighters would stop coming to Dodge City to "call" the fast draw guy.

With this important explanation out of the way, Council members then went to work, moving along fast so the Council members could get home in time to see the last part of the Dallas-Washington football game on TV.

Also, I saw Mayor Walter S. Falk, Jr., and Aldermen Charlie Garrett, Joe "Pepe" Zambrano and Murray McMillan reviewing the minutes of the previous Council meeting. Alderman N.F. Jackson had not arrived. As I walked past Kleypas, I said, "Matt Dillon was in real danger on Gunsmoke tonight, but he outdrew a gunfighter with a lightning-fast draw."

Kleypas smiled and said he was glad to hear that Marshal Dillon would still be around.

Then Mayor Falk looked up from the minutes he was reviewing and said, "Kinsey, just how did Gunsmoke end? I didn't see the final part."

So, I explained how the gunfighter (a good guy trying to reform and avoid shoot-outs) actually wasn't killed by Matt, but by pre-arrangement he acted like he was killed and later he was even lowered into a grave at the conclusion of funeral services.

At this point Alderman Garrett looked up from his papers, and said, "I watched most of the program and I even saw the gunfighter being lowered into the grave but then I had to leave munity service. Local high school Future Homemakers of America members served refreshments in the dining room while guests served themselves an assortment of fruits in the sunny breakfast room.

The chapter is happy to announce that 179 Kimberly-Clark premium seals were collected to aid in the Kimberly-Clark contribution to the Muscular Dystrophy Fund.

The next scheduled meeting will be Tuesday, November 6 in the high school homemaking department at 7 p.m. A nursery will be provided. All local homemakers are invited to attend.

He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

Pvt. Rocha received the training with Company C, 3rd Battalion, 1st Brigade.

The 18-year-old soldier is a 1973 graduate of Refugio High School. Before entering the Army he was employed by the Refugio Timely Remark.

His mother, Mrs. Adelaida Perez, lives in Rockport.

Texas Adds Four To Fish Records

AUSTIN — Kelly Pearson's fishing party was in danger of losing a hooked kingfish to a cruising barracuda.

So when the barracuda made a third pass at the king, Pearson reached overboard, gaffed the barracuda and pulled the thrashing, toothy fish on board. In doing so, Pearson earned himself a place in the unrestricted class for Texas fish records kept by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The record barracuda weighed 39 pound and was 55 inches long. Its girth was 20 inches.

Pearson, of Corpus Christi, gaffed the fish in the Gulf of Mexico near Port Aransas.

The barracuda was one of four recent entries into Texas fish records.

Gene Rader made the record book with an unusual haul from the outlet stream below the dam at Pat Mayse Reservoir — a 7.1-pound paddle fish (spoon-bill catfish).

Rader caught the record fish using a cane pole rig baited with a minnow.

He donated the fish, still living, to the Dallas Aquarium in Fair Park where it is now on display.

Miss Patt Hawn of Port Aransas is due a shark's tooth necklace soon. Miss Hawn's father intends to make the necklace out of teeth from a record mako shark caught by Miss Hawn in August near Port Aransas.

The fish weighed 325 pounds and was 8 feet, 8 inches long. It had a girth of 47 inches. Miss Hawn caught the fish on an 80-pound line while fishing from a charter boat.

Texas also has a new spinner shark record. The fish, caught by 15-year-old John Shives of Portland, weighed 145 pounds and was 7 feet long. It had a girth of 37 1/2 inches.

Young Shives caught the fish three miles N.E. of the Port Aransas Jetty on a 40-pound line.

Another fish has been disallowed by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. The applicant lost his fishing tackle when he hooked a 16-pound northern pike.

A woman fishing in the same area managed to snag the tackle and therefore help land the record fish.

Rules for record fish specify that an angler must hook and land the fish by himself.

Employment of Vietnam Era Veterans

The Veterans Administration has hired nearly 20,000 Vietnam era veterans, a gain of 4,200 over the previous fiscal year, it was reported by Administrator of Veterans Affairs, Donald E. Johnson.

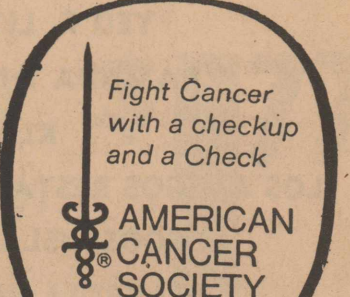

Johnson said the young women and men were hired "because they have so much to offer VA as employees and also because the agency is cooperating fully in the national campaign to provide job opportunities for returning veterans."

Vietnam veterans now make up nearly one-fourth of the 86,000 total veterans employed by the VA, Johnson noted.

The Vietnam veteran total includes 14,881 veterans hired under the Veterans Readjustment Program, inaugurated by President Nixon in 1970. Mr. Johnson said the program offers employment, coupled with job training or education, to help veterans make the transition to civilian life.

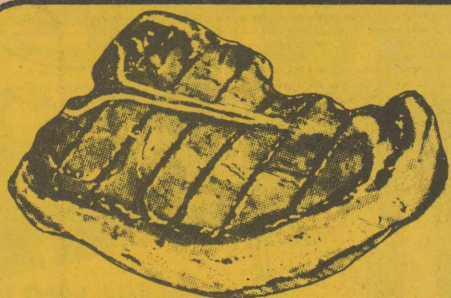

Seven percent of the Vietnam era veterans employed by the VA are women, and nearly 20 percent are members of minority groups, Johnson stated.

It was also pointed out that although the total VA workforce represents less than seven percent of the total federal workforce, VA is hiring about 17 percent of Vietnam era veterans being hired by all federal agencies. The rate of employment is about 1,000 a month, Johnson noted.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Mention a case of childhood poisoning and one generally thinks of a host of potentially lethal household substances which the child could have imbibed, not knowing the dangers involved.

But officials at the State Health Department are quick to emphasize that the dangers of poisoning are not restricted to items within the home. Potential sources of poison thrive in backyards and gardens all across Texas. The little known sources of these poisons — common, garden-variety plants.

Most plants are harmless. Many are poisonous under certain conditions. A few are poisonous under nearly all conditions. More than 700 species of plants in the United States are known to have caused death or illness. Each year, about 12,000 children in this country chew or swallow potentially poisonous plants.

The poisonous nature of a plant is caused by the presence of one or more kinds of substances. There are some substances which are themselves toxic to animals: an alkaloid, for example, is the toxic principle in poison hemlock. Other substances are initially harmless but may decompose to form toxic products soon after being eaten — an example is glucoside, a sugar produced in wild cherry which changes to form the highly toxic prussic acid. Some substances are formed by the action of micro-organisms on plants: a fungi on moldy hay forms decomposition products, some of which may be toxic. Still other substances are absorbed directly from the soil and stored in harmful quantities in the tissues of certain plants: selenium, for example, may be found in some species of locoweed, or potassium nitrate may be present in oats.

To the average person, the term "poisonous plant" suggests one that poisons upon contact, causing a mild or severe dermatitis or skin irritation. Texas certainly has its fair share of the plants known to be capable of causing such irritations, say State Health Department officials. Possibly the most familiar are the leaves, bark, and fruit of poison ivy and poison oak.

But did you know that hairy leaves and stems of parsnip and lady slippers, the milky juice of spurge, and the leaves of the cultivated primrose are also causes of dermatitis? Lily bulbs and stalks, stinging nettles, and vanilla beans likewise have toxic qualities, and are capable of producing severe skin irritations.

Most poisonous plants are harmful only when they are eaten. In the case of nitrate-containing plants, the nitrate content is reduced to the toxic substance. This substance then enters the blood stream and changes the red pigment of the blood in such a way that it is incapable of transporting oxygen to body tissues. The result is suffocation.

Poisonous mushrooms, mostly toadstools, cause more than 100 fatalities in this country each year. Daffodil bulbs, larkspur seeds, lily of the valley flowers, and jasmine berries are all harmful if eaten. So, too, are the leaves of the poinsettia and the oleander bush, and all parts of buttercups, rhododendrons, and laurels. In some plants, only particular parts are toxic. A classic example is the rhubarb which has a perfectly edible stalk, but contains a deadly poison in the leaf.

Contact poisoning can be pre-

If you are exposed to a poisonous plant, immediately wash the contact area with laundry soap and water to remove toxic resins. Measures can also be taken to prevent the accidental eating of plants. Keep children away from plants and teach them not to chew plant stems or to put plant parts, such as berries or bulbs, in their mouths.

If your child does eat a plant, and you are uncertain whether it is poisonous, immediately call a doctor. He, in turn, will contact one of the 22 Poison Control Centers near you for emergency medical and anti-

ATTENTION CIVIC ORGANIZATIONS

The Paws & Taws Square Dance Building now located on the waterfront at Fulton needs a new home. All local civic organizations are invited to inspect and make known their interest in acquiring the building for a worthwhile use. Contact any one of the Directors listed below for information or to arrange for inspection of the building.

In order that prudent and impartial decision may be reached, the following guidelines are established:

Wednesday, October 24, at 8:00 p.m., a meeting of the Board of Directors will be held at the Club Building. At that time an official representative of any local organization may present in writing their club's proposal in connection with building, to include the following information:

1. Stature of the organization — functions and purpose; what they stand for.
2. Date of organization of the local club.
3. Activities for which the building would be used.
4. Concessions, if any, which would be made for square dance activities.
5. Location to which the building would be moved.
6. Outline the research which has been made as to cost of moving and the financial and physical ability of the organization to handle the move, setting up, and maintenance.

Decision of the Board of Directors will be announced after sufficient time has been allowed for careful consideration of proposals received.

Board of Directors, Paws & Taws Square Dance Club: Jim and Edith Cruser, Ed and Eloise Drummond, J. C. and Lois Gurley, R. E. and Athalia Hardy, Ruey and Peggy Langley, Juanita Wagley. c81

FDA Q. & A.

Q -- Do pet turtles carry a disease? If so, what is the risk to humans and what is being done about the problem?

A -- Turtles can carry Salmonella—a bacteria which is transmissible to humans and can cause stomach pains, nausea, fever, and diarrhea. An estimated 280,000 cases of salmonellosis in this country annually are attributable to turtles.

Children are particularly susceptible to this bacteria. They are more likely to handle the turtles and subsequently put their fingers in their mouths or eat without washing their hands.

Before turtles can be shipped across any State line and sold, a State authority must issue a certificate declaring the turtles free of infectious bacteria. If a certified lot is mingled with untested lots, all must be reinspected by a State health authority before further shipping or sale is allowed.

The Food and Drug Administration is empowered to seize or order the destruction of any turtles uncertified or otherwise found endangering the public health.

Q -- Is it really true that vitamins A and D can be dangerous?

A -- Both vitamins A and D are necessary for good nutrition. But they can also be toxic when taken in very high amounts over a prolonged period.

Vitamin A taken in excessive doses over long periods of time can increase pressure within the human skull and may mimic a brain tumor. It can also retard growth in children. Excessive and prolonged doses of vitamin D can cause calcification in soft tissues and bone deformity in adults as well as children.

The National Academy of Sciences has recommended daily allowances (RDA) of 10,000 International Units (I. U.) for vitamin A and 400 I. U. for vitamin D. This is the reason that the Food and Drug Administration is proposing that A and D products exceeding these amounts be available only on prescription.
