NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Anstin, Massed in the east gallery of the house of representatives, lobbying brains that are paid perhaps $250,000 a year and expenses to influence Texas lawmakers, smirked at each other last Thursday night, as they watched the hands of the big house clock move ponderously to the midnight adjournment hour. Thruout the evening, they watched the house anti-sales tax majority, snarled in a parliamentary tangle, struggle futilely to extricate the revenue bill from a hopeless conference deadlock. Speaker Coke Stephenson ruled that nothing could be done about the dying tax bill unless the conference committee reported formally a deadlock, so a new committee could be named that would bring in a tax bill without a sales tax, as the house had instructed its conferees.

The lobbyists cheered as they heard this ruling; they cheered as they heard Bob Calvert, Hillsboro legislator, regarded as an administration spokesman, who has always opposed the sales tax, waver and offer a resolution instructing the conference committee to take a "reasonable sales tax on luxuries." They cheered again as Calvert's resolution went down to defeat, but by a narrow margin of only eight votes. They had cheered previously, when Walter Woodul, the lieutenant governor, broke a tie vote in the senate, and put the sales tax into the revenue bill.

These developments marked the denouement of the lobbyists' plan, outlined two weeks ago in this column, of offering the house the alternative of accepting a sales tax or passing no tax bill at all. The house took no tax bill. The governor announced another special session for January to raise revenue. The lobbyists immediately began making plans for their biggest push in January. Opponents of the sales tax began making plans to force thru an income tax along with the sales tax. They recognized that Texas will have a sales tax next year, unless a miracle happens and the people turn loose tremendous pressure on the legislators in the next 60 days. They do not believe that will happen, because the people are unorganized and the sales tax lobby is highly organized.

The house, which changes its mind often than the most fickle woman, will indulge its mania again for investigating by probing the public safety commission and its administration of the rangers. It first voted down a resolution by Sam Hanna of Dallas, a former house clerk, and next day adopted one by Lon Alsop of Carthage. Anti-administration forces were elated at their "victory," until they learned that Albert Sidney Johnson, commission chairman, had quietly passed the word to Anstin that the commission was fully prepared to take care of itself in any legislative investigation of its official acts. Enough administrative votes were quietly shifted to pass the probe resolution. Now the investigation sponsors are wondering if they have been trapped. The dismissal of Tom Hickman, ex-senior ranger captain, brought on the investigation resolution.

Hint of possible friction in another state department was seen in the action of Rep. J. W. Yungblood, Fort Worth, who put into the record in connection with House Resolution 25, as the session closed, a vigorous denunciation of Chief Highway Engineer Gibb Gilchrist, whom he accused of "lobbying to death a bill providing for establishment of a minimum wage on state highway work" defeated in the regular session. Meanwhile, the highway department let another $1,800,000 of contracts Tuesday.

Rule Coming Here Thanksgiving Day

Loraine is to have a football game Thanksgiving Day to help celebrate the occasion. This will probably be the only game in this section on that day and a large crowd is expected to see the game which will be the last one for this season. The game is to be called at 2:30 and will be between the Loraine Bulldogs and the Rule High School team. The two teams should be about evenly matched since they rate about the same standing in their respective parts of the district, and since both of them are new in the football sport.

To increase attendance and enthusiasm for the game the school is planning a homecoming for ex-students during the day with a special program at the school house during the morning.

NEW PASTOR SENT HERE BY METHODIST CONFERENCE

Rev. Hamilton Wright, who has been pastor at Coahoma, was sent to Loraine by the Methodist conference at Plainview last week. Rev. Wright and family have already moved into the parsonage and have begun the work of the pastorate. The citizens of the town join us in welcoming them to our city.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Pierce and little son of Colorado spent Sunday here with Mr. Pierce's mother, Mrs. I. J. Pierce.

The death from pneumonia last week of Dave Nelson, Orange business executive and civic leader, after only two weeks at his new job as manager of the prison system, leaves a large gap for the prison board to fill. It cut short a sweeping experiment in rehabilitation of felons, planned in detail by Nelson, by which he hoped to return hundreds of one-time offenders back to useful citizenship. Nelson was no dreamer, but a practical executive and an ex-soldier who demanded discipline, but knew how to get it without brutality. His passing was mourned by all who knew anything about the complicated prison problem.

Local option elections thruout Texas will probably be in order during the next few months, so that communities may determine their status under the new liquor law. Many obviously dry communities probably will remain dry without a test, but changes of sentiment have occurred during the lapse of years since national prohibition came, and many local tests of the will of the voters will be ordered by commissioners' courts on their own motion or by petitions of electors. Saloons are doomed in all communities where local officials are willing to enforce the laws. Package sales only may be made in licensed stores where local option permits.

Final requiem for federal oil control agitation was sung last week at Los Angeles, when the American Petroleum Institute seconded the sentiment of the Independent Petroleum association at its earlier Dallas convention, declaring the state compact plan the best practical method of achieving conservation of oil. Col. E. O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas railroad commission and original proponent of state control of oil—back in the days when it wasn't popular—was accorded the place on the API program occupied at the 1935 Dallas convention by Secretary Ickes, father of the federal dictatorship for oil plan. Thompson reported the Texas oil industry prospering under the compact, written by Gov. Alfred, and administered by representatives of the oil producing states, with Thompson as Texas' representative.

School Homecoming Thanksgiving Day

The senior class of Loraine High School is sponsoring a Thanksgiving Homecoming of ex-students of Loraine High School. Anyone who has ever attended Loraine High School is invited to come and enjoy the program and reunion. The citizens of Loraine are also invited to come. The ex-graduates are especially invited to come as they are to be our honor guests.

The senior class of 1936 has sponsored several things that have always been a success and we feel that with your cooperation, this will be a success also. There have been several graduates of Loraine High School that have accomplished much since their graduation and we believe that you will enjoy being with them as well as other graduates. The class is providing a very interesting program for all who will come.

The coming senior classes will sponsor a homecoming from year to year and with your cooperation it will always be a success. The classes will meet at 9:30 A. M. Thursday morning, November 28. The program will begin at 10 o'clock and will last until eleven, then you will have time to go home and enjoy your dinner and get back in time to see a football game at the local gridiron which begins at 2:30. This game will be the last game Loraine will play and we urge everyone to be present and see a real football game.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL ADDS 48 TO LIST THIS WEEK

Mrs. W. L. Hester, general chairman for the Red Cross roll call in Loraine, announced Wednesday that 48 had joined since the report last week, making a total of 66. The roll call period will end on Thanksgiving Day and those in charge are hopeful that at least 100 memberships will be secured here to equal the record for last year.

Mrs. Hester turned in the following memberships in addition to those published last week: Judge Stevenson, John Mahon, Kirk Taylor, Butsie Hall, J. W. Howell, Frank Crowner, Guitlin, Bruce Hart, Clint McCollum, J. W. Cline, W. P. Mayes, T. R. Bennett, Hall Hooker, Richard Phillips, A. A. Gabler, Mrs. Ledbetter, Tom Morison, Mrs. R. E. Bennett, O. I. Griffin, A. Phillips, E. P. Kuck, Mrs. E. P. Kuck, W. L. Hester, Mrs. W. L. Hester, E. Wilson, Mrs. Earnest Meadows, A. R. Miles, Jim Sheddick (colored), G. A. Hutchins, Wilbur Coffee, Mrs. Annie Taylor, Miss Fannie Jarratt, Mrs. Lee Walker, Otto Hackfeld, Jeff Parker, Marvin Martin, L. Schwimmer, Mrs. Claude Spikes, Mrs. J. W. Fairbairn, R. K. Thornhill, Roy Edwards, Oren Leggett, Olen Mayes, Stanton Hutchins, E. A. Narrell, Huse Narrell, Joe Hester, Jack Tillison.

OLD AGE PENSION BILL BUT NO MONEY TO PAY

The Texas legislature passed an old age pension bill before it adjourned recently providing the payment of $15 monthly to needy people over 65 years of age, but failed to pass a bill for needed revenues to pay the pensions. Governor Allred says a third session will probably have to be in January to pass the necessary money bill.

HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Peterson in the east part of town was completely destroyed by fire early Saturday night. Only a few pieces of furniture and articles of clothing were saved. The fire is supposed to have started from an oil stove. And was under such headway when the fire department arrived there was no chance to save the house or its contents.

Snyder Defeated Loraine Friday

The Loraine Bulldogs were completely overwhelmed by the Snyder Tigers at Snyder Friday afternoon, losing by the decisive score of 18 to 0.

Bo Moffett, powerful Snyder back, had pushed over a touchdown in the first five minutes of play after Loraine had received the kickoff on their own 32 yard line and then punted to Snyder's 37. The half ended with the score 6 to 0.

The third quarter was also scoreless but Snyder worked the ball down to Loraine's 2-yard line when the quarter ended. Two tries after the opening of the fourth quarter Moffett had again pushed over for the second touchdown. Moffett was also responsible for the third touchdown by slinging a pass to an end in the end zone.

Loraine never seriously threatened to score, in fact they never made but three first downs and one of them was a 35 yard sprint by Eldon Mahon around left end. One of the other first downs was a pass to Land Chubby James, quarterback, evidently decided that it was useless to try to gain ground either through line plays or passing and elected to punt on the first or second down every time Loraine got the ball. Snyder made 19 first downs. Loraine attempted three passes and completed one. Snyder attempted 14 and completed 4.

MISS PRINCESS MARTIN RECOGNIZED AS WRITER

Miss Princess Martin, a graduate of Loraine High School, who is at present employed in the system, has been recognized for her writing ability by the Southwest, a Journal published for Writers, Artists, and Study Groups, at Dallas, Texas. Miss Martin received first place as a writer of poetry in the Southwest for November and received the special award. A number of her poems have been published. The following poem was published in the Southwest in November.

SWAN SONG

By Princess Martin
Death holds my face between his pointed fingers,
And gives me one last song to say good-bye,
One thing to last when nothing—nothing lingers:
One song to keep you faithful when I die:
How can I bring you death who knew hut love?
How can I bring you tears who knew hut laughter?
How can I let you know I'm thinking of
A soft, dust-thickened sleep into Hereafter?
Your proud young eyes are heavy with their tears,
While mine are dry and shining in this pain
Of knowing that Eternity's slow years
Can bring no instant's flash of joy again.
Eternity! Dark . . . silent . . . desolate . . .
And choking with my love, I'll lie . . . and wait.
LIFE

By Princess Martin
Life is the shadowy cobweb
To which we sway,
Weeping to see Time's whisk broom
Brush it away.

WILL ROGERS MEMORIAL

A campaign is under way thruout the United States to raise money for a memorial to the noted writer and humorist, Will Rogers, who died in an airplane crash in Alaska last summer.

So far as we know no one has been appointed in Loraine to receive funds for this purpose but if there is anyone who cares to donate to it this newspaper will be glad to handle it and forward it to the proper committee in charge of the fund. Your entire donation, whether it be large or small, will be forwarded to the committee.

Bulldogs Go To Rotan Friday Night

The last conference football game for the Loraine Bulldogs will be fought out at Rotan Friday night of this week. The game is to start at about 7 o'clock.

This will be Loraine's last chance to win a conference game this year and the boys are going into it with the determination to win if possible. At the present time the Bulldogs occupy the cellar position in the conference and they want to climb out of it if possible. Should she defeat Rotan and should Snyder defeat Colorado on the same date it will place the Bulldogs a half game ahead of Colorado and a half game from the cellar since Loraine has tied one game and lost three. Colorado has lost three and won one.

Coach Ed Williams is hopeful that a large delegation of fans, including the school band and a pep squad, will accompany the boys to Rotan Friday night. The boys came through the Snyder game in fairly good shape. Will Albright was hurt in the Snyder game but will be able to play Friday night. Eugene Roberts will be out of the game. He left Monday for New Mexico. Coach Williams has not decided yet who will take his position in the line.

Lets all go to Rotan Friday night and help the boys win the game and get out of the cellar.

DRIVERS LICENSE LAW EFFECTIVE NEXT APRIL

The drivers' license law, passed recently by the Texas legislature, will not become operative until April 1, 1936. The law was pushed through the legislature with great difficulty despite growing alarm over the increase in automobile fatalities.

License will be supplied without cost by the State but possession will be mandatory. Drivers would be suspended automatically on conviction for:

1. Negligent homicide resulting from use of a motor vehicle.
2. Driving while intoxicated.
3. Use of an automobile in commission of felonies.
4. Failure to stop and render aid after a collision.
5. Two convictions within one year for violating traffic laws.

The initial suspension would be for six months with subsequent violations punishable by suspension for one year.

TEACHERS IN CAR WRECK

Three teachers in the Loraine school, Misses Ruby Lee, Roxie Hoskinson and Mrs. Fred Ison, sideswiped a truck parked on the highway between here and Roscoe Saturday morning while on their way to attend a teachers meeting in Abilene. The accident happened because of the heavy fog that morning. Miss Hoskinson, who was driving, did not see the truck until she was right at it and in turning around it the side of her car hit the back of the truck. Her car was badly damaged but neither of the three was hurt. The driver of the truck, however, was seriously injured and was taken to Roscoe for treatment.

AUCTION SALE AT LONE STAR

There will be an auction sale at Lone Star Wednesday afternoon at 7:30.

The Loraine School Band will play.

PAPER WILL BE EARLY NEXT WEEK

It is the intention of the publishers of The Mitchell County News to publish the paper on Wednesday of next week in order that we may close for Thanksgiving. Those who have news items and advertisements for the paper next week will confer a favor on us if they will get them in on Tuesday.

J. M. Dorn of Colorado visited his daughter, Mrs. T. J. Coffee, Thursday.

Community Will Have Xmas Tree

A community Christmas tree and an appropriate program, with old Santa Claus himself here in person, is to be staged in Loraine some time between now and Christmas, the time to be set by a committee in a few days, according to announcement made Monday after a meeting of business men. The tree is to be placed on some vacant lot in the business section for several days before Christmas. It will be well decorated and lighted and will be large enough to hold a present for every little boy and girl in the community.

A committee has been appointed to work out a suitable program and to make arrangements for the occasion. The committee is to get together in a few days and formulate the plans and set time. The committee is composed of Ed Williams, chairman, O. I. Griffin, Kirk Taylor, J. B. Mahon, Mrs. Ed Williams, Rev. A. C. Hardin, Mrs. John Johnson, and Miss Birdie Robertson.

After the committee has had its meeting a full announcement of the program will be published in this paper.

Loraine merchants are asked by the committee to think the proposition over thoroughly and be ready to do their part when the committee calls on them.

LIQUOR REGULATION LAW PASSED BY LEGISLATURE

The second session of the Texas legislature finally passed liquor control law before adjournment last week. The law became effective as soon as Governor Allred signed it last Friday.

The bill prohibits the sale of liquor in unbroken packages and sets up a control board of three members to administer it. Revenues from liquor sales and license fees were estimated at $10,000 daily. The governor ordered Orville S. Carpenter, state auditor, and R. B. Anderson, tax commissioner, to study the act so regulations could be prescribed and collection of dealers' license fees and taxes started with a minimum of delay. The law levies a tax of 80 cents a gallon on whiskey and distilled liquors and smaller taxes on beverages of light alcoholic content.

THREE BREAK JAIL AT COLORADO

Colorado, Nov. 19.—Two prisoners who sawed their way out of the Mitchell county jail Monday night remained at large Tuesday night. Men escaping were Lenyuelle Young of Watonga, Okla., and Ed Gray of California. Young was to have faced trial Tuesday morning on charges of stealing trailers in Mitchell county several days ago.

A third man, Clyde Bradford, who escaped with Young and Gray, walked into the courthouse Tuesday morning before the session opened and surrendered to authorities. He was quoted as saying he wanted to "come clean" and stand trial. He told officers his companions were heading for Oklahoma. After leaving the jail the three men spent the night on the Colorado river northwest of town. Bradford told officers.

Bradford and Young were indicted by the grand jury last week on a charge of stealing three trailers here recently. The trio was arrested in Watonga, Okla., two weeks ago and returned to Colorado. The two who were indicted last week were to have gone on trial Tuesday.

COTTON REPORT

At seven o'clock Wednesday night the four gins in Loraine had ginned a total of 3,367 bales of cotton this season. Cotton has been moving faster this week than it has any time this fall. The entire week has been fair and warm enough to pick.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Thompson of Coahoma visited Mr. Thompson's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Thompson, Sunday.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Quezon Inaugurated First President of Philippines—Coordinator Berry Has Troubles—Reassurances for Business Men—Armistice Day Celebrations.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union.

SELF-GOVERNMENT became a reality for the Philippines on November 15, according to schedule, and it is now up to the islanders to utilize their independence wisely and safely, with only general supervision by the United States. In the presence of a great throng of distinguished persons in the magnificent legislature building at Manila, Manuel Quezon, veteran advocate of independence, was inaugurated as the first president of the commonwealth. Representing the United States were Vice President Garner, Speaker Byrnes and a large party of senators and representatives with their wives. Many foreign governments sent unofficial observers, and the leading statesmen of the islands were present.

Manuel Quezon

After Quezon had taken the oath of office, Sergio Osmeña, vice president, and the members of the new unicameral legislature were sworn in. President Roosevelt was personally represented by Secretary of War Dorn, who made a pleasant speech and read the proclamation, simultaneously issued in Washington, terminating the old government of the islands and establishing the commonwealth government which is to lead to complete independence of the archipelago in ten years. A cablegram of congratulation also was received from Mr. Roosevelt.

Because of the danger of outbreaks by the extremist followers of Emilio Aguinaldo who have opposed Quezon, the constabulary was out in full force, thousands of its members being brought in from all over the archipelago. The day before the inauguration the legislature held its final session and Frank Murphy, the last of the governors general, appeared before it to review the accomplishments of the American regime that lasted 36 years. "Having found democracy good for itself, America believes it will be good for the Philippines," he said. Mr. Murphy was then sworn in as high commissioner of the new government.

The entire American delegation attended a grand reception and ball given by Mr. Quezon in honor of Mr. Murphy.

MAJ. GEORGE L. BERRY, industrial co-ordinator of the New Deal, is having a hard time co-ordinating industries. An industry-labor conference has been arranged for December 9 in Washington, but it is evident that some very considerable industries will not be represented. First, the Ford Motor company refused curtly to send a representative; then the Automobile Manufacturers' association objected to the affair, announcing its opposition to any revival of the NRA, though most of its members signed the old NRA code; and next came a sharp letter from the National Hardware Lumber association, one of the country's oldest and largest trade associations, flatly refusing to attend the conference. The letter, written by J. W. McClure of Chicago, secretary of the association's board of directors, labeled any attempt to impose a new NRA on industry as "impractical, unworkable, unenforceable, a menace to respect for all laws and therefore opposed to public interest."

Nevertheless, the conference will be held, and representatives of labor are expected to advocate a plan for licensing industry, a proposal that all government contractors comply with code provisions and the 30-hour week.

IF SECRETARY ROPER in addressing the Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America in New York was speaking with authoritative knowledge of the intentions of the administration, business men feel considerably reassured. He said "the breathing spell which we are now enjoying is to be the end of governmental regimentation." He declared business was the "scapegoat" of the depression and he upheld the profit system. Of Mr. Roosevelt's announcement of a "breathing spell," the secretary said:

"This declaration of the President is clear-cut and concrete. It means specifically that the basic program of reform has been completed. It means that business no longer needs to feel any uncertainty as to what may come in the future with respect to governmental measures."

According to a Washington dispatch in the New York Times, informal orders have been issued by President Roosevelt to administrative officials to cut federal expenditures under the 1937 budget to $500,000,000 less than the newly estimated total for 1938.

As a result, the dispatch says, the lives of many federal bureaus and agencies were reported to be hanging in the balance.

The economy wave is heightened by signs of better business, the Times says.

THAT story, originating with the Deseret News of Salt Lake City, that George Norris had said he would not seek re-election to the senate from Nebraska, seems to have been at least premature. The veteran senator says he will make his decision at election time next year, and not earlier.

"A campaign would be a small disturbance, compared to the trouble my not being a candidate has cost me," he said in Los Angeles. "I have received hundreds of letters from all parts of the United States urging me to run next year."

ARMISTICE day was celebrated in the United States more generally and elaborately than it had been since the first of those occasions seventeen years ago. Chief of all the ceremonies, naturally, was that at Arlington National cemetery in Washington, where many thousands gathered to hear an address by President Roosevelt.

Standing before the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the Chief Executive paid a brief but eloquent tribute to the gallantry of America's fighting men in the World War, set forth America's hopes and intentions for world peace, and announced the imminent signing of a trade treaty with Canada which Prime Minister King had been negotiating in Washington.

At exactly 11 o'clock the President bared his head and stood silent for a minute, as did millions of his fellow citizens all over the land. The President next placed a wreath on the Unknown Soldier's tomb. For six hours, afterward, uniformed organizations marched up the hill in Arlington and laid their wreaths at the tomb.

The celebration in the national capital was culminated by a ball arranged by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Congressional Medal of Honor men headed the list of guests, others being cabinet officers, diplomats and high officials of the army, navy and marine corps.

GOV. CYLDE L. HERRING of Iowa and Gov. Floyd Olson of Minnesota made a bet of one hog on the football game between the universities of their states. Herring lost, and paid by delivering a fat porker to Olson. That seemed all right, but Virgil Case, a vice crusader and editor of a Des Moines monthly paper, immediately swore out a state warrant for the arrest of Herring on charges of gambling, and said he would file federal charges against Olson.

Under Iowa statutes, gambling is a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum fine of $500 and a year in prison. The federal charge is a felony, Case said, punishable by a $5,000 fine and a prison sentence.

Neither governor appeared to be perturbed by the charges. Herring named Olson as his counsel, along with Senator Dan Steck of Iowa, who accompanied him to St. Paul to deliver the pig.

BRITISHERS went to the polls in the seventh general election since the World War, to elect a new parliament. Counting and publishing the vote over there is a deliberate process, so at this writing the results are not known. But there was no doubt of the victory of the government forces, though probably they would lose a number of seats. Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin was unopposed. But the Laborites made a hot fight to defeat Ramsay MacDonald and several other members of the Baldwin cabinet.

The government, in its campaign, urged support of its League of Nations activities and its program of unemployment relief and stimulation of national trade.

Liberals and Laborites took issue with the Conservative candidates on national defense questions, with Labor candidates particularly insistent on disarmament and international control of war materials.

PROMOTED by the powerful nationalistic party WAFD, riotous demonstrations against British domination in Egypt broke out in Cairo and other places. Several rioters were killed and many wounded by the police commanded by an Englishman. The WAFD party insists that Prime Minister Tawfik Nassim Pasha must resign. There is a large Italian community in Egypt, and for a long time it has been understood that Mussolini's emissaries have been stirring up discontent against Britain there.

May Yet Probe That Ohio State Football Affair

IN SPITE of soft pedaling by those Big Ten officials who became so indignant at Iowa several years ago, alumni are demanding that there be some investigation of that noisome Ohio State university football mess. Ticket scalpers who did such a tidy trade in ducats for the Notre Dame game at Columbus need not be alarmed though. Ohio's unemployment program hardly will permit any tinkering with business before December. . . . Incidentally, there seems to be no truth to the rumor that if a few more players can be added to the state pay roll L. W. St. John, the Ohio State university athletic director, will run for governor.

One reason, perhaps the big reason, why Paulino Uzcudun is anxious to offer his chin for the greater glory of Joe Louis may be the fate that befell the San Sebastian casino in Spain. After it is charged, $275,000 had been paid for protection of the gambling privileges the place opened only to be put out of business by Spanish officials 24 hours later. Uzcudun, and this will be hard for those who know what love he bestows upon each nickel to believe, is said to be the guy who sacrificed the $275,000. . . . The Kern Colgate's triple-threat back, tossed 10 passes for touchdowns last fall and has been on the passing end of many scores this year. . . . Bill O'Brien, the tennis promoter, who will conduct a Class B baseball team next year, is looking for a big-name manager.

Is Walter Okeson Headed for Gate? Do those leading football officials really mean it when they talk about refusing to handle games next year if Walter Okeson, present dictator of assignments, is kept on the job? . . . Big George Corrigan plans to visit Ireland in search of a new White Hope. . . . Mary Hirsch, the first woman trainer ever granted a license by the New York Jockey club, did not saddle a horse on the metropolitan wheel during the season. Her only horse, Captain Argo, was taken to Narragansett, where he was lost in the claiming box. . . . Siggy Wortmann and Ernie Schwarzwald nominated Henry Hunter, former coach of the Hakoah S. C. of Vienna and now coach of the Hatikvah All-Star Jewish eleven, as the best soccer tutor in the business. . . . When a horse is disqualified at Tanforan he is placed in back of the horse with whom he interfered.

Although racing has been highly profitable for New England track promoters this year, the Narragansett parliament clerks had to take a $2 daily cut. . . . Earl Moore, who is twenty-one years old and who has been totally blind since he was eight, is a 135-pound wrestler at Upsala college. He also won his letter in the sport while a member of the Overbrook school team. . . . Chick Wergles, second assistant press agent for the pro football Giants, has been on the job 11 years. Although ordinarily somewhat of a big betting man, he waited until the Bears' game to make his first wager on them—and lost. . . . Captain Bill Shuler, Irish O'Connor and Alphonse King of the Army varsity eleven are honor students. But 51 members of the original Plebe squad of 80 have been dropped for scholastic deficiencies. . . . Because no really first-class rider has been developed since stall gates came into use, horsemen are insisting that these starting devices be abolished.

What eminent group of sportsmen shiver every time the income tax is mentioned? . . . John Reed Kilpatrick, who now operates Madison Square Garden in conjunction with the William Randolph Hearst Athletic club, continues an amateur at heart. Although other members of the prettily named "amateur hockey" league wished to cut loose from the A. A. U., the Garden will continue to share the gravy from its all-for-glory team this winter. . . . This team, not to be confused with the Rangers, who, of course, get paid for their work, is the Rovers. . . . Tony Canzoneri and Jimmy Braddock receive bigger ovations than any other fighters when they visit small local clubs.

Gil Doble again is having alumni trouble at Cornell. . . . Western folks are insisting that Bob Quinn, business manager of the Brooklyn baseball club, will succeed Tom Hickey as president of the American Association. . . . In addition to being manager of the Crescent-Hamilton soccer team, Joseph J. Barriakill also is president of the United States Football (soccer) association.

CERTAIN celebrated horsemen have discovered a new way to beat the saliva tests. Immediately after a horse has been hopped they apply a brand of mouthwash which eliminates the customary trace of dope. . . . Tony Galento, the most boisterous barker among the heavyweights, gobbles from 15 to 20 hot dogs after each fight. . . . Philadelphia fans who have been so perturbed ever since it was mentioned that Dave Smukler was by no means a Nevers or a Thorpe against Vanderbilt might note that the Temple star began to improve immediately after the item appeared here. . . . Perhaps as a last subtle criticism of the umpiring supplied in the World series Charley Grimm will butcher only 30 hogs this winter. This man the Cubs' manager will have only 60 hams for sale, whereas last winter he disposed of 400.

Investigators of football graft should take a gander at the Fordham Ram. The Maroon mascot is so tough that photographers have to feed him a pack of cigarettes before he will pose for a picture. . . . Tom Gibbons, once one of the best heavyweights, now is a sheriff in St. Paul and father of nine children. . . . What racing commission is failing to check up on rumors that a trainer bet $200 for an assistant starter so that a horse, notorious as a bad actor at the post, might be assisted in getting off smoothly? . . . Included in the horse won. . . . Eddie Donaghy, one of the best of all soccer referees, was a member of the Bethlehem Steel eleven which won the American cup in 1914. He scored the goal that beat the Tacony F. C.

They Finally Decide Braddock Is Champ Now that the William Randolph Hearst A. C. and Madison Square Garden have agreed to kiss, make up and share the profits there seems to be a sudden realization that the Irish Jimmy Braddock, quoted at 1,000 to 1 as long ago, really is heavyweight champion of the world. . . . One reason why Al Barabas of Columbia came to life against Michigan was that he overcame a recently developed habit of spinning around on one leg while dodging through the field. This rendered him extremely vulnerable to tackles and might eventually have resulted in a broken leg. . . . Henry Harrar, treasurer of the German-American Football (soccer) association, is a certified public accountant. . . . Del Bissonette, who is thirty-six years old and who performed at first base for the pennant-winning Montreal club last season, plans to quit baseball.

The buck-passing and the "hoiler than thou" business is even better than usual in the Southern conference this year. Several weeks ago Maryland, also slightly vulnerable earlier in the season, protested the eligibility of a North Carolina player named Johnny Sniscak. After a quick investigation the Tar Heels discovered to their vast surprise that Sniscak had played some very good football for several other colleges before becoming one of them. So he was barred from the team and, overcome by a zeal for righteousness which would have been more convincing if it had arrived some months earlier, the university authorities now have decreed that he must also be tossed off the campus. That last, incidentally, in spite of the fact that the youngster pleaded to be permitted to stay and pay his tuition so that he might graduate in June.

Only one eminent racetrack plunger is a heavy plunger. He is Jimmy Owens, known to his intimates as "Yaller." OCEANS AND HILLS SLOW DOWN EARTH: DAYS LENGTHENING French astro-physicists are completing a series of calculations which prove this world of ours is slowing down, like a wobbly top, as it spins around its polar axis.

The loss of speed is estimated by scientists at the Meudon observatory, near Paris, at one-tenth thousandth of a second a month at the present time, which means that in 1,000,000 years our 24-hour day will be lengthened to a 41-hour day.

This phenomenon is caused partly by the fact that the earth is losing the perfect streamlined curves of its early days and is becoming wrinkled with mountains and volcanoes which impede its whirling.

The main factor, however, is stated to be found in tidal movements. Working under the combined influence of sun and moon, oceans bulge out and act as brakes on the rotation of the earth. Another important cause is found in geological disturbances brought about by the shifting of internal masses. This flinging about of the world's contents, like so much loose baggage in a freight car, tends to detract from the constancy of the earth's spinning.

OCEANS AND HILLS SLOW DOWN EARTH: DAYS LENGTHENING

Calculations to date show this loss of speed increases progressively so that 100 years hence the earth's rotation will have suffered a loss of 18 seconds, and within two centuries, one minute and 12 seconds. In 2,000 years it will be one hour and 50 minutes behind its merry-go-round schedule.

This lengthening of the day is explained by the longer time it would take for the earth to complete one single turn on its polar axis.

The majority of these calculations are based on the studies of tidal actions on planets and their satellites carried out by the astro-physicist, M. Antoniadi, and his collaborators at the Meudon observatory.

This clocking of the speed of the globe's rotation is entirely apart from computations regarding the changes in time that it takes the earth to revolve around the sun every year.—Detroit News.

Do You Ever Wonder Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE? Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this: You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

Roasting the Thanksgiving Turkey

FIRST, select a plump, well-fattened turkey. Either a young or an old turkey can be made excellent eating, but you must know which you have, for it makes a difference in the way you cook it. Allow from one-half to three-quarters of a pound in the weight of the turkey as you buy it for each person to be served—remembering that in the larger kinds you will get more meat in that proportion to bone. With a 15-pound turkey, for instance, you can get 20 very generous servings.

The dealer will usually draw the turkey for you, but certain things have to be looked out for at home. Cut off the oil sac, take out the windpipe and lungs, pull out any pin feathers and singe off hairs. Do this quickly so as not to darken or scorch the skin. Wipe the body cavity with a soft cloth wrung out of cold water. Scrub the outside with a wet cloth and soda or corn meal. Rinse off quickly and wipe the bird dry inside and outside. Never let a turkey or any other poultry soak in water. You lose flavor and food value.

Rub the inside with salt before putting in the stuffing. Slip a crusty end slice of a loaf of bread into the opening near the tail to hold in the stuffing, tuck the legs under the band of skin left for that purpose, and sew up the slit with soft white twine. After stuffing and trussing the turkey, rub the outside all over with butter, salt and pepper and pat on flour. Lay a piece of turkey fat over the breast. Place on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not put any water into the pan. Water in a roasting pan makes steam, and steam around a roasting turkey or any tender meat draws out the juices.

Have the oven hot (about 450° F.) when you put the turkey in. Brown it lightly for half an hour in this hot oven and after the first 15 minutes turn the bird with the breast down so it will brown all over. Then reduce the oven heat to very moderate (325° F.). To cool the oven down quickly leave the door open a few minutes. Turn the bird from time to time, basting it often with turkey fat and butter.

If the turkey is young, continue the roasting at this moderate temperature with no lid on the pan until the bird is done. Baste with pan drippings about every half hour. In turning, be careful not to break the skin. A young 10-12 pound turkey will need about three hours in the oven.

For a turkey a year or more old, after browning in the hot oven, put the cover on the roaster, and continue the cooking in the moderate oven (about 325° F.). You will probably need to allow 4½ hours for a 15-pound bird a year or more old.

To test the "doneness" run a steel skewer or a cooking fork into the thigh next to the breast. If the juice does not show a red tinge, the turkey is done. Make gravy with the giblets and drippings.

The bureau of home economics, United States Department of Agriculture, which gives the foregoing suggestions, also supplies this recipe for a savory stuffing:

5 quarts dry bread crumbs
1 cup fat, butter and turkey fat
1 small onion, chopped
½ cup chopped parsley
1 pint chopped celery
2 tsp. salt
1 to 2 tsp. savory seasoning
Pepper to taste

In the melted fat cook the onion, parsley and celery for a few minutes. Add the bread crumbs and seasonings and stir all together until the mixture is thoroughly heated. Pile the hot stuffing lightly into the turkey, but do not pack.

Garth himself was ready to quit when, in the twilight, they came down to where the steep pitch eased off on a small patch of tundra. He opened his pack and spread the blanket on the dry gravel in a hole under a pile of boulders.

At sight of the fat with the frozen caribou and smoked moose meat in the pack, Lilith at once gathered dry moss. This time the raw caribou flesh was seared over a fat-fred fire of the moss before being eaten. After the meal, Garth opened the gold-mounted cigar case and handed one of the Havanas to its owner.

Mr. Ramill hastily bit off the end and lighted the cigar in the flame of the fat and moss fire. As he put it to his lips he hesitated, then, with a perceptible effort, he turned to offer it to his daughter.

"Uh—ladies first, my dear."

Lilith started to thrust out her hand. Something seemed to catch it. She glanced at Garth and stood up.

"You need it more than I do, Dad. Good night, everybody. I'm dog tired."

Her father and Huxby looked at each other in astonishment. Garth was less surprised. He smiled to himself as he put more moss and fat on the fire and coiled up beside it.

The short nights were already getting longer and darker. When awakened by the chill of midnight, Garth saw Huxby lying on the other side of the fire hole. The fire had burnt out. He built a new one. As its small flame lightened the darkness, he saw the half-inch stub of the cigar clutched in Huxby's fingers.

Before sunrise, Garth was again awake. He filled the little pot with ice and set it in the edge of the rebuilt fire, then began cooking caribou meat. The others awakened almost too stiff to move. But all managed another big meal of the meat. To top it off, Garth had Lilith boil a little tea in the water from the melted ice.

After the hot drink, even Mr. Ramill managed to hobble down the now fairly easy slope. The exercise gradually warmed and relaxed stiffened muscles.

The end of a long day's hike at last brought the party down the miles of tundra slopes to the edge of timberline. There was no trail—none at least that the city dwellers could detect. Time and again Huxby declared that Garth was lost no less utterly than the rest of them; that he was wandering at random. To silence the caviler, Garth began foretelling small landmarks before they came into view. This at last forced the engineer to realize that their guide was following his former trail through the forest maze as surely as if it were a beaten path. The most positive proofs of all were the mounds of dirt-covered ashes where Garth had smothered his camp fires going to the lost valley and returning from it to the Mackenzie.

He predicted they would reach canoe water on the seventh day. But during that morning Mr. Ramill turned an ankle. Even after much soaking in a cold spring and tight bandaging by Garth, the sprain held the millionaire down to a slow hobble. An aspen staff enabled him to travel slowly until the noon meal. After that the pain overcame him. He refused to move.

Garth looked doubtfully at the none too large supply of food that was left. His pack now weighed little more than the platinum alloy in Huxby's wolf-skin knapsack.

He had allowed everyone to eat without stint. That had been necessary in order to keep up the strength of the chechachos. But, as he had foretold, the country was barren of game. There was none too much meat left in his pack.

"If you can't carry on, Mr. Ramill, you'll have to stay here and keep bathing your ankle in this rill," he said. "We're too short of food, though, to lose any time. The stand of birch at the stream is so small that I'll need a full three days to build our canoe. The three of you follow down this brook as soon as you can."

When he picked up a few pieces of meat and the rifle, Huxby spoke: "I should have the gun to protect Miss Ramill."

"There's nothing here to attack you," Garth replied. "Just possibly, I may find game at the stream."

"Could another pair of hands be helpful in making the canoe?" Lilith asked.

"Well—yes."

The girl looked at Huxby. He did not speak or move. She stood up. "Dad, you'll be all right with Vivian. I am going to help Alan."

Her father shook his head. "You should stay here with me. Let Vivian go."

Huxby rose, frowning. He looked at Garth with cold rancor. "I see no need for anyone to go. I certainly cannot permit my fiancée to accompany you."

"She might have helped. You'd be only a hindrance," Garth replied.

He swung away at a rapid pace. But behind him he heard the girl speak sharply: "Don't be silly, Vivian. Get out of my way."

After that came a quick patter of moccasins. Garth kept on for some distance as if he did not hear the sound. Then he halted behind an alder thicket to face the girl. She was so close behind that she almost ran into him. He smiled into her eager eyes.

"This is a happy surprise, Lilith."

Her eyelids sank, and her cheeks crimsoned under their coat of pitch-and-grease mosquito dope. "You needn't fancy I'm running after you. It's only because I want to get out of this beastly North country of yours—and be rid of you, too!"

"So that's it. Well, you're a good hater, but you're a real sport. You're game. Tag along, if you wish."

He set off again at a pace twice as fast as the best her father had been able to travel. An occasional snap of a twig behind him told that the girl was still following. Yet he did not once slacken his gait or look back until, three hours later, the brook began to meander through a stretch of muskeg.

At the edge of the swamp he stopped beside a game trail. Lilith came up beside him, breathing deeply from the long and rapid walk. He pointed to the big water-filled hoof prints in the mud.

"We may be in luck. Moose passed here yesterday—the water is clear in the tracks. They may not have gone too far. Stay here, or be quiet."

An upstuffed leaf showed that the wind was in his favor. He started along the trail. The tracks were still a day old when they turned out into the muskeg toward a lily pool. A mother swan and her brood of cygnets were swimming around the lily pads.

Garth skirted along the border of the swamp to where a bend of the stream twisted in close to dry ground. Here was the grove of birch of which he had spoken. He pointed to the fringe of willows below the birch.

Those bitten twigs—still white. They've been eaten off less than an hour ago. Stay here."

After another test of the wind, he went ahead alone, silent as a lynx. Luck was with him. As he rounded the bend he saw the immense antlers of an old bull moose rise above the willows on the bank. Before the startled beast could plunge into the water Garth dropped him with a bullet through the brain.

At the crash of the shot, three moose cows with calves broke cover beyond the bull. The distance was considerable and brush obscured Garth's aim. He had to shoot four times to bring down one cow and her calf. But that was enough.

His shout brought Lilith on the run. She looked delightedly at the bull. "Oh, no chance now of starving!"

"That's not all," he said. "I can build a nice canoe in two days; a better one than can be made from those small birches."

When, a day later, Mr. Ramill came limping after Huxby to the smoke-marked camp, Lilith was still hanging moose meat on alder poles over the smudge-fire.

Huxby dropped his full-stuffed knapsack and wiped his sweaty forehead with the back of his hand.

"Pah! To think I've lugged all that old meat, and he's killed again. Why didn't he come back and tell me?"

The girl gave him an odd glance. "We've been too busy, old dear. Where's the blanket?"

"I couldn't pack everything. If I'd known, I could have left this confounded smoked moose and brought the blanket instead."

"Why not have left your load of meat? Didn't you consider that Dad and I will get far more than fifteen thousand dollars' worth of comfort out of that blanket?"

His lips tightened. "Sorry, darling. The thought of a common dirty blanket as against all the platinum—I did not even think of it. Now of course I realize. But it's too late."

"Yes," she agreed, "it's too late. Dad, you were a real sport not to wait for Alan to come back and carry you."

The millionaire had slumped down to rub his swollen ankle. He looked up at Huxby, with a bantering smile. "We couldn't permit our girl to elope with a woods vagabond, could we, Vivian?"

The engineer did not smile. His face went blank. "Where is that roughneck, Lilith?"

"Down in the willows, working hard for us. Won't you be glad when we're rid of him?"

"Won't you?"

"Well, I'm not so sure as I was. At present he is far more agreeable company than you are."

Huxby stiffened and went off towards the willows, without any reply. Mr. Ramill peered up shrewdly at his daughter.

"That was pretty hard even from you, Lilith. Try to keep in mind how matters will stand as soon as we get out of this damnable mess. Remember that Vivian is my partner in the profits of all our Northwest Territory deals. Garth is responsible for our being marooned in this woods hell. He set the plane adrift to go to smash over those falls."

For a long moment Lilith Ramill stood silent. She looked down at her grimy tattered sports suit, at her bloodstained hands and broken finger nails. The dimmed glitter of the diamond in her engagement ring failed to hold her gaze. It passed on down to her foxskin leggings and moosehide moccasins.

"Squaw," she murmured. "Dirty squaw! He certainly has put us through the mill. And more to come! We're not yet out of the woods. Dad, do you still have Vivian's pistol?"

"Why, no. He asked me for it this morning. Said that the less weight I carried, the better for me."

She reached down a hand to help him to his feet.

"Listen, Dad. No matter how much we hate Alan Garth, we'll never get out of the muskies without him. Haven't you noticed Vivian's eyes? You must ask him to give you back the pistol."

"But—it's his. And to rasp his self-esteem with such an intimation of distrust—"

"What's more important—his feelings or Alan's guidance—if anything happens to Alan—Make some excuse."

Mr. Ramill got to his feet and limped beside her down to the stream bank. Huxby stood with his morose gaze fixed upon Garth, who was tying willow ribs on the gunwale of his canoe frame with rawhide thongs.

The millionaire spoke in a casual tone: "How long will it take to put on the birch bark?"

"We'll use the moose hides, sir. They weigh more but will be much stronger. You might ask Huxby to chop down a birch and cut it into five-foot lengths. We'll have to split the wood to make paddles."

"So?" Mr. Ramill turned to his prospective son-in-law. "You may as well return the pistol to me, Vivian."

"Squaw," She Murmured. "Dirty Squaw!"

It will hamper your chopping, and as we're now in a canoe, its weight will not bother me."

Huxby sat motionless, taken aback. He could think of an excuse to refuse, he met Garth's coolly inquiring gaze. He turned away and drew the pistol from inside his tattered coat, with a show of careless indifference. In the same offhand manner, he picked up the belt-ax and went back at the base of the nearest birch tree.

Another day saw the canoe complete. The cow and bull hides, gummed and sewn together, formed the cover, hair side in. The result was a craft large enough for the party but shorter and broader than the average canoe.

At Garth's suggestion, Lilith had begun tanning the calfskin. Mr. Ramill tended the smudge-fire. After cutting the birch billets, Huxby had at first sat around brooding. Then, suddenly, he went off up the brook. He did not come back until after the canoe was finished. But he brought the abandoned blanket.

Garth was beginning to shape into paddles the slabs of wood that he had ripped from the birch billets. He glanced from the blanket to the clouds overhead, and from them to Lilith's tattered skirt.

"Not half bad, Huxby. That blanket will soon be needed. Two splendid surprises this morning. We're in for a storm. Miss Ramill, that calfskin is cured enough for you to wear. Make a skirt of it."

"How about Vivian's shoes?" she asked. "He's walking on his uppers."

"He's welcome to my old moccasins. They may last out our portages."

Though Huxby's ears reddened, he accepted the castoff footgear of the man from whom he had sought to bilk a claim worth at least a million dollars. He could not refuse. His thick shoe soles had scuffed through on the rocks that the pliant rawhide moccasins passed over with slight wear.

When Garth launched the canoe, he fastened it to the bank with a line made from the trimmings of the moose hides. For anchor he used the wolf-skin knapsack with its weight of platinum alloy.

"May as well make it useful," he met Huxby's look of moody protest.

"You are to have the bow seat, and so can continue to guard my 60 per cent, along with—"

A clap of thunder and the swish of a wind gust through the birch tops checked Garth's banter. He spoke a quick order: "Leanto the blanket on that knoll between the trees, front this way."

A glance at the onrushing black clouds of the thunderstorm sent even Huxby hurrying to help the others. While they tied the upper corners of the blanket with rawhide thongs and weighted the back edge with logs, Garth pulled the canoe ashore and placed it bottom up over the smoke racks.

When, three hours later, the crashing thunderstorm passed over and the heavy downpour of rain ceased, all the party were wet from the drip through the blanket. But the fire still smoldered and the half-smoked meat was dry under the canoe.

"Had you been used to canoeing," Garth said, "we need not have lost all this time. But you'll get enough drenchings later on. Wring out the blanket and fetch the meat."

He launched the canoe again, unaided, and directed the others to their places. All had to kneel, facing the narrower prow of the double-stemmed craft. First came Huxby, with his wolfskin treasure bag for knee-pad. Lilith knelt on the front part of the lengthwise folded blanket. Her father had the end of the blanket behind her. At the wobble of the unsteady craft, he squatted back on his heels and clutched the gunwales.

The others held to willow branches while Garth loaded in the meat behind his own place. He stepped aboard and began to paddle with a steady stroke that sent the canoe gliding out into the swamp stream.

A paddle lay beside each of the others. Lilith was first to dip hers overboard. At a murmured word from her, Huxby followed suit. Both of them had done a bit of amateur canoeing at the fashionable beaches. They were able to start in at once and help a little. But two days passed before Mr. Ramill gained enough balance and assurance to rise on his knees and try stroking his paddle.

Left-Handedness Occurs in Four to Eight Per Cent

There are various theories concerning left-handedness, some believing it a matter of heredity, others claiming it is due to instinct or socially acquired habit. The percentage of left-handedness among normal individuals is estimated to run from 4 to 8 per cent, says a writer in the Detroit News. Statistics published by the Journal of Heredity have shown that in families with one or both parents left-handed, a much higher percentage of the children are left-handed. Authorities have told child behavior experts that the nervous systems of left-handed persons are attuned to left-sided makeup in which the left eye dominates. To attempt a distortion of this makeup by forcing the person into right-handed action results in throwing the whole nervous system out of balance, and the child may be made "irritable, pugnacious, seclusive and tending toward theft, lying and tantrums." On the other hand, if left to work out their own left-handed destinies, these persons are fully as bright as any right-handed person. Another authority has shown that when the naturally preferred left hand is interfered with, as is often done, the general dominance of that hand is not affected by the change but may be strengthened by this action.

Bridal Bells

When the Borneo maiden becomes a bride her gown has no graceful train or entrancing veil. Instead she dresses herself in a bead garment of bathing-suit proportions. The Borneo bride is decidedly décolleté, for her bridal array covers her body only from below the armpits to the knees. Her costume for this momentous occasion is decorated solely with beads, which cover the entire gown and form designs of native origin. Boarded Wrong Ships

When the American revolution broke out Britain's admiralty offered a large money reward and three years' exemption from service to any of her seamen who embarked on board an American ship and made themselves masters of her. Unfortunately for Britain, Englishmen who sought for the rewards did not always trouble to distinguish between American and French ships, inflaming France and hastening France's alliance with America.

The Oldest Plow

What is believed to be the oldest plow in the world is exhibited at the Provincial museum, Hanover. A wooden plow discovered on a moor in West Friesland, it affords an interesting insight into the agricultural methods employed in lower Saxony in prehistoric times. Its age is estimated to be between 5,000 and 6,000 years.

2,150 Pounds Amount of Food You Eat Per Year

You will eat a ton of food this year—2,150 pounds, the statisticians say. Milk, fluid and canned, and other dairy products, will account for half of this. (Milk is heavy.) You will eat about 150 pounds of meat, and about the same amount of fresh fruit; 150 pounds of fresh vegetables, not counting 150 pounds of potatoes.

In bread and cakes and breakfast foods and macaroni, you will consume 230 pounds of flour and cereals. Sugar, 102 pounds of it, is the next most important item. Of canned fruits and vegetables, you will eat 38 pounds, states Today.

A great many people think they know all there is to know about the city in which they live. Most of them don't know half as much as they think they know. If most people in most cities really did know what was going on, there would soon be many changes for the better.

If they fully realized the needs of their city they would work together and get what is needed. A bunch of citizens being only half sold on the home city means poor business.

It means that the city will get a slow start toward better development and may never arrive. In fact, it may not get any farther than the starting point.

There is only one end for a city that takes two backward steps for every one they make forward.

LONE STAR TWINKLINGS

The Lone Star School started Monday after they had dismissed six weeks for cotton picking.

The singing school which was taught at Pleasant Valley the last two weeks by Mr. Bond was enjoyed by everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Britton and family of Hermleigh, formerly of this community, have moved to Las Cruces, New Mexico and will be missed by their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Cline Taylor and family, O. P. Blair and family of Inadale, Mrs. J. F. Bennett and Alva, and Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett were the guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Moody Richardson Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Young of Loraine spent Sunday evening visiting Mr. and Mrs. Joe Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Murrell of San Angelo spent the week end with Mrs. Mae Martin and family.

Senior Happenings During Nov. The seniors are such unusually smart students this year, that we are sure you'd like to hear what has happened to them during the month of November.

Jimmie Ruth Glass gained a pound. Rue McCauley discovered how pretty the moon was.

Bubbie Hallmark decided he liked an ex-Senior girl.

Doris Narrell decided that boys weren't so bad after all.

Aldin Lee is still sick. We miss him at school very much. Evelyn Land started reducing. Eldon Mahon decided he was really smart. Maybe he's right. Charles Reeder has studied hard all month. Lula Mae Roberts has been too smart this month.

The senior rings came in. All the lower classmen are thankful they won't have to listen to the seniors talk about them anymore.

The seniors do not intend to come to school next November. I suppose the lower classmen think that they have one thing to be thankful for.

TOO FUNNY.

The pupils were directed to write compositions of about 300 words, and the subject given was "The Funniest Thing I Ever Saw." Miss Hoskinson noticed that Edwin had finished writing in a few seconds. She took his paper and read, "The funniest thing I ever saw is too funny for words."

A chicken fancier had some trouble with her flock. She wrote the Department of Agriculture the following letter.

Something is wrong with my chickens. Every morning I find two or three lying on the ground, cold and stiff. What is the matter?

The answer was:
Dear madam. Your chickens are dead.

The Freshmen do not understand why goods sent by ship is a cargo, while that sent in a car is a shipment.

Women in Paris are now wearing coats of banana skins, says a fashion writer, as for that matter so are bananas.

SOPHOMORE NEWS

It seems as if Wilburn tried to get killed in his most famous football game Friday. But believe it or not he knew his lessons better than usual. The Sophomore class is very proud of the football boys. Even though some of them get knocked out every once in a while we are still proud of them. We hope they will be more victorious than they ever have been in the next game.

SNYDER DEFEATS LORAIN

The Snyder Tigers defeated the Loraine Bulldogs Friday 18 to 0. It was a hard fought game. The Bulldogs fought hard but it seemed as if they could not stop the Tigers. Snyder has improved a great deal. The touchdowns for Snyder came in the 1st, 3rd, and 4th quarters. All tries for extra point failed. Snyder got 15 first downs while Loraine got only 3.

The Bulldogs go to Rotan Friday night Nov. 22 for their final conference game. Loraine has not won a conference game so far and this is the last chance. We would like for every one in town to go to Rotan Friday night.

JUNIOR NEWS

We Juniors are having a hard time trying to think to bring our dues. But it will all be in soon because we get dunned for it every morning.

We have something to worry about too. This week we had six weeks exams. We hope everyone who failed last six weeks will pass this six weeks, every one who passed last six weeks will make better grades this six weeks.

We hope that every junior will make their grade this year, because we don't want to leave anyone behind next year, for we want to be Seniors together and graduate without losing anyone.

Remember that, Juniors and work hard the rest of the year.

FRESHMEN NEWS

Well, here it is time for six weeks tests again. Let's listen in on the Latin Class while taking an exam.

Mrs. Ison: "Get out your ink and paper." Truit: "I left my ink upstairs." Mrs. Ison: "Borrow some." Margaret: Read the questions, please. Mrs. Ison reads them.

Quita: May we write on both sides of our paper?

Mrs. Ison: No, one side only.

Doris: "May I move where I can see the board?"

Mrs. Ison: "Yes."

Marion: "Read the last question again."

Mrs. Ison: Translate the following Latin words into English.

R. L. Mahoney: "Do you want our papers?"

Mrs. Ison: "Of course. Why do you think we are having a test?"

Marcella: "Will you spell a word for me?"

Mrs. Ison: "No. Hand your papers in. It is time for the bell."

EL CERCULO ESPANOL

"El Cereulo Espanol" met Thursday November 14, in the band room. The roll call was answered with Spanish numbers.

Juanice Hart was elected pianist and Lula Mae Roberts was elected song leader. Lula Mae Roberts, Buddy McKay, and Juanice Hart were appointed to make a report on songs suitable to be the club song. The President appointed Opal Richburg, La Velle Jones and Irving Jarratt to be the program committee.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

The Grammar School had their assembly on Nov. 14, 1935 at 10:30 with the following program:

Song—"Work For the Night is Coming."

Reading—Gene Walker; Piano Solo—Gloria Martin; Piano Solo—Wanda Mae Smith; Reading—Maxine Hooker; Piano Solo—Doris Butler; Red Cross Proclamation—Seventh Grade; Song—"America The Beautiful."

The High School had their assembly program on Nov. 15 at 1:00 with the Sophomores in charge. The program was:

Song—"America the Beautiful" Psalm 116—Lucile Jarratt; The Lord's Prayer—Audience; School Song—Led by Mrs. Hooker; Piano Solo—Wendola Martin; Tap Dance—Wanda Mae Smith; Reading—Wilford Cranfill; Class Prophecy dedicated to Seniors—Pauline Parker.

The seventh grade attended the high school assembly.

WEEKLY HEALTH LETTER

Austin, Texas Nov. 19th.—Pyorrhea is a chronic disease involving the gums and also that part of the jaw bone surrounding the roots of the teeth. It also affects the membrane which fastens the tooth to the bone and helps to hold it firmly in place, stated Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer.

Being an adult's malady it is seldom seen in children. It is most common after middle life. It begins at the gum margin. Early symptoms include swelling and redness. Moreover, the gums are prone to bleed when brushed. Usually there is no pain, even in advanced cases. If the progress of this disease is not arrested, the bone and ligament become involved, pockets are formed between the teeth and gum, and pus collects.

Uncleanliness, undue stress on a few teeth, malnutrition, and irritation produced by the accumulation of food, tartar and bacteria around and between the teeth are outstanding factors in the development of pyorrhea. Badly fitted crowns and bridges, and overhanging edges of fillings, which are direct contributors to mouth uncleanliness, also lead to irritation. Incidentally, pyorrhea is not contagious.

It is a curable disease if it is not too far advanced when recognized. Treatment is not by the use of drugs but in educating the patient in the proper use and care of the teeth and the removal of the remnants of dead membrane adhering to the root surfaces, as well as any existing tartar.

Proper daily attention to mouth hygiene is the one great bulwark against pyorrhea.

PASSENGER CAR SALES INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

Austin, Texas Nov. 18.—Passenger cars sold in fifteen representative Texas counties during October totaled 3,694, showing moderate gains over both the previous month and the like month last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. These increases were 11.8 and 6.4 per cent respectively. A total of 48,975 cars were sold in these counties during the first ten months of 1935, an increase of 15.7 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago. Sales in the lowest price bracket showed a moderate decline from a year ago, while substantial gains were registered in the intermediate groups and a market increase occurred in the highest price bracket, the bureau's report said.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK IS COVERED REFERENCE

Greenville, Texas, Nov. 18.—Inspired by the spirit of Texas Centennial activities, Miss Rachel Caughran, of Chisholm, spent her spare hours during her senior year in High School making a 600-page scrapbook of the Texas Centennial.

Miss Caughran, now a Freshman in Wesley College at Greenville, was honored by having her scrapbook placed in the college library, where it is in demand daily by other students required to write themes on the Centennial.

Material for the scrapbook consists of clippings from newspapers and other publications.

TEXAS COLLEGE LINKS ART WITH CENTENNIAL

Canyon, Texas, Nov. 18.—A series of art exhibits is being held in the new and modern gallery of the West Texas State Teachers College here as a Pre-Centennial activity.

Miss Isabel Robinson, art instructor, has been swarmed with requests from artists for the use of their works in the Canyon exhibits, following the success of the first exhibition.

The second display is scheduled for December and will show the water color collection of the late Boyer Gonzales, native of Houston.

ON TEXAS FARMS

Minnie Fisher Cunningham
Service Editor

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration will soon offer the farmers of the South a four-year cotton acreage adjustment contract. The details are not known now, but presumably the program is much the same as the present one with certain improvements.

Whatever the faults of the county adjustments of the last three years, few will deny that the vast improvement in Southern prosperity is due largely to the increased buying power of the cotton farmer.

The cotton income has been doubled since 1932. One bale of cotton now buys almost twice as much as one bale bought in 1932.

Census figures now being released by the State credit the adjustment program with making possible the greatest strides toward balanced farming ever known in the South. The use of rented acres has enabled the cotton farmer to live at home on a scale hitherto unknown.

The South has led the Nation toward business recovery. Countless figures and testimony can be produced to show that the towns have richly shared in the benefits accruing to farmers in the cotton program.

With a new cotton program coming up, the cotton farmer will have to decide whether he will follow the road of cotton adjustment, or to take a chance and grow all the cotton he can.

MAHON TRIP TO FAR EAST PROFITABLE ONE

According to word received in his Washington office, Congressman George Mahon feels that he is having an unusually profitable trip to the Far East. He arrived in Manila on November 8th with the official United States Delegation attending the celebration of the opening of independence for the Philippine Islands. Mr. Mahon is making the trip at the request of the President because of his membership on the Insular Affairs Committee of the House.

The trip is giving him a first hand picture of industrial conditions in the Orient. He is particularly interested in studying and observing conditions in the cotton and textile industries and the relationship of these industries and the relationship of these industries to trade between the United States and the countries of the Far East. He feels that the future of the cotton industry, and correspondingly the economic welfare of West Texas and the entire South, depends to a large extent upon world trade and foreign markets. Developments in the next decade. The trade relations and tariff agreements between the United States and the Philippine Islands will have a different aspect after their independence actually begins and this alone constitutes an important problem that must be worked out by Congress.

The trip has afforded Mr. Mahon an opportunity to become more intimately acquainted with such outstanding leaders of Congress as Vice-President Garner and Senator Connally of Texas, and Representative Joseph R. Byrns of Tennessee, who is Speaker of the House.

The Congressman will return to his home in Colorado on December 20. He will spend the time before Congress convenes again on January 3 making contacts throughout the District. His office in Washington is being kept open by Loyd Croslin, his Secretary, who invites the people of the District to contact him when they feel there is any opportunity for the office to cooperate with them.

TEXAS PECAN HISTORY CENTENNIAL FEATURE

San Saba, Texas, Nov.—San Saba will be the scene of the 1936 Texas Pecan Growers Association, and as a special feature a history of the pecan industry in Texas is being prepared, which will later be sent to the Central Exposition at Dallas along with prize-winning pecans.

Mrs. Neta Cantrell, of Bend, natural historian, has been appointed to compile the information. Her appointment was announced recently by W. A. Smith, the association's president and editor of the San Saba News.

Mrs. Cantrell is seeking the cooperation of Texas pecan growers in the contribution of all available data on this interesting subject.

Lubbock, Texas Nov.—William Griffith, son of H. C. Griffith, Lorraine, was one of eight new members to be admitted into the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Scholarship at Texas Technological college, where he is a senior.

Senior and junior engineers who rank in the upper ten per cent of their class are eligible of membership.

WEEKLY COTTON REPORT

There have been no pronounced changes in the proportions representing the principal grades for cotton classed each week from Texas ginnings the last several weeks. During this period the combined proportion for Middling and better grades (White and Extra White) has been approximately 50 per cent of the cotton classed each week. From 15 per cent to 20 per cent of the cotton classed each week during the past several weeks has been Strictly Middling and better grades. For the season to date, about 57 per cent has been Middling and better grades, while about 18 per cent has been Strict Middling and better.

During the past several weeks the lengths of staple reported for each week's classing have shown a trend toward longer lengths. Has steadily increased from about 2 per cent for the week ending October to over 9 per cent for samples classed this week. For the season up to this time, about 11 per cent has been 1 inch and longer. About 15 per cent of the cotton classed this week is shorter than 7/8 inch. For the several previous weeks the proportion for this short, untenderable cotton has been approximately 20 per cent each week.

Mother, I can't Study—My head hurts!

As a usual thing, he is "such a regular guy." He comes home from school full of pep and energy. Of course you want him that way always. But are you protecting his health and safety during the few short months of winter when he must spend his evenings indoors?

That uncomfortable "stuffy" feeling... dullness... lowered vitality... headache—these are some of nature's ways of complaining against improper heating and insufficient ventilation. These are the warning signals that America's Public Health Enemy Number One, the common cold germ, has found another fertile field in which to attack. For your health's sake and that of your loved ones do not wait for these definite signs of warning that the air indoors has become stale. Keep the air you breathe constantly purified with fresh oxygen through adequate ventilation in every room in the house.

Without oxygen man cannot live. Without oxygen, fuel cannot burn. Therefore, if your family "huddles" in one or two rooms around an open flame heater during cold weather with the doors and windows tightly closed, you are violating all the rules of nature, good health and good heating. Sooner or later the occupants of the room and the burning fuel reduce the oxygen content to the point where the room air becomes stale. Without adequate ventilation and circulation the air indoors may become as foul and unhealthy as that of the tenement slums of large cities, even though your home may be the most beautiful in the neighborhood.

A simple and easy method of providing a constant circulation of fresh air is found by opening a window in each room a few inches from the top and bottom. Connecting doors left open between adjoining rooms when the entire house is adequately heated provide a natural circulation of pure warm air from one room to another. Incidentally, fresh, pure air is easier and more economical to heat than "stale" air.

Guard the health of your loved ones with adequate heat and proper ventilation of pure air in every room in the house.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Theodor's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. . . . Mrs. C. W. Adams of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Theodor's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

A Cheerful Briton That German Steel We Go Up to 14 Miles Danger to Their Souls

Maj. L. B. Angus, British financier, addressing the American Bankers' association, says: "Confidence has returned to the United States, fear has declined, monetary velocity will increase. There will be an immediate boom—first, in consumer goods; second, in plant and machinery; third, in housing industries."

The British major—may all he says be verified and multiplied by ten—says truly there is any amount of money in America, but it "revolves" too slowly. It will soon speed up and "revolve," or change hands thirty-five times a year.

If Lloyds would insure the accuracy of the major's prediction, a good many would buy policies.

The particularly offensive plan to buy in Germany steel to build the Triborough bridge in New York will probably not go through. It is explained by those concerned that they can buy 1,000,000 pounds of German steel piling for less than half the American price; as a further "reason" it is said "American firms submitted identical bids."

The government's blue eagle was invented to prevent price cutting; but that is not the question, nor is the difference in price or the fact that work is taken from American workers to give it to German workers the most important fact. Buying steel in Germany, helping to finance the German steel industry and Mr. Hitler's program, with American dollars, would seem to endorse Hitler's program of persecution. That is the important fact.

Officers of the American air corps, Capt. A. W. Stevens and Orvil Anderson, rose above the earth into the stratosphere to a height greater than any human being had ever reached, with the possible exception, of course, of Elijah going up in his chariot of fire. The American officers radioed: "We are at 74,187 feet, trying for 80,000 feet." They did not go higher, but broke all records.

Seventy-four thousand one hundred and eighty-seven feet is more than 14 miles, 2,000 feet higher than the unofficial Russian record of 72,200 feet.

A movie news reel photographer in Ethiopia, Edward Genock, was assaulted when he tried to make moving pictures of warriors at Harar. The Ethiopians beat the camera man, explaining afterward, "We shall lose our souls if we are photographed." That will surprise Hollywood, where the belief is the other way around. Once, it was generally believed, even by real Christians, that if you made a wax miniature figure of a man and stuck pins in it at intervals you would kill the original. Man is a superstitious biped.

Not long ago, when foreign countries were starving, America sent over American corn, and the foreign countries would not eat it. Even Russia refused.

Now, thanks to various devices for persuading our farmers to produce as little as possible, the United States imports more than 20,000,000 bushels of corn in one year.

Shortage of corn means shortage of food for hogs, and that means expensive "hog meat," pork chops and bacon. Somebody always has to pay the bill, and now it appears to be those that eat, a decided majority.

At Maryland's Pimlico race track a horse named Axican, winning the $1,000 relay steeplechase, paid $340.40 for a $2 betting ticket, 170 times the amount paid. That news will cause many unfortunate geese to lose several times $340. Nobody ever won at race track gambling in the long run. If that were possible, who would support bookmakers and tracks?

Speaking in Arlington national cemetery, the President warned the country that there is danger of war, urging "adequate defense on land, on sea, and in air."

He knows, as does everybody, that defense, first in the air, and second under the water, is most important.

President Roosevelt announced the early "consummation of a commercial agreement between Canada and the United States," referring to "our two peoples, each independent in themselves, closely knit by ties of blood and common heritage, with standards of life substantially the same."

While eleven lawyers and clients discussed the sale of a window-cleaning business in New York's Brownsville, four young gunmen entered, said, pleasantly, "Reach for the moon, gentlemen," meaning "Stick 'em up." The hands went up; the gunmen walked out with $2,261 in cash.

That was not playing the game. It is customary for lawyers to get money from gunmen, although, doubtless, these were not that type of lawyer. © King Features Syndicate, Inc. WNU Service.

Lesson for November 24

THE MESSAGE OF HAGGAI AND ZECHARIAH

LESSON TEXT—Haggai 1:2-8; 2:3, 9; Zechariah 4:6-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord. Psalm 122:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A New House for God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Building a House of Worship.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why We Build Churches.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Building Adequate Churches.

After the returned captives had settled down in the towns surrounding Jerusalem, the people were called together for the purpose of establishing the worship of the Lord God. This movement was led by Joshua the priest and Zerubbabel the governor. In view of the fact that the clearing away of the debris of the old city and temple and the erection of the new temple would take a long time, an altar was erected where sacrifices might be offered at once to God.

1. The Laying of the Foundation of the New Temple (Ezra 3:8-13).

This was an auspicious occasion and was celebrated with impressive ceremonies.

1. The priests in their official apparel (v. 10). These garments symbolized their consecration to the Lord's service.

2. The priests with trumpets (v. 10). Trumpets were used in calling the people together.

3. The Levites with cymbals (v. 10). This was according to the arrangements made by David (1 Chron. 15).

4. They sang together by course (v. 11). This means that they sang to one another responsively.

5. Mingled weeping and singing (vv. 12, 13). Some of the older men who had seen the magnificent temple of Solomon wept when they saw how far short the present foundation came of the former temple. Others were glad because of the favor of God which had brought them back.

II. The Building of the Temple Hindered (Ezra 4).

The leading adversaries were the Samaritans, a mongrel people, the offspring of the poor Jews who were left in Palestine and the foreign people who were sent into Palestine after the Jews were taken captive. The three perils which delayed the building of the temple for about fourteen years reveal the persistent methods which the enemies of God use to hinder the building program of God's people in every age.

1. An unintelligent pessimism (3: 12). Because things were not as promising as they should be, some were not disposed to go forward with a constructive program and even hindered those who possessed a hopeful outlook. Under the circumstances, a glorious beginning had been made which had promise of great things in the future.

2. Worldly compromise (4:2, 3). The adversaries said, "Let us build with you: for we seek your God." This is Satan's most common and effective method. The help of the unregenerate in forwarding the Lord's work should not be accepted by the Lord's people.

3. Open opposition by the world (4:4-24). When refused a part in the work, open opposition was resorted to.

III. Assurance of the Completion of the Second Temple (Zech. 4:6-10).

By means of the golden candlestick is represented the restoration of the Jewish nation and the fulfillment of its divine purpose. It was to be a light in the world. There were insuperable difficulties in the way of accomplishing their restoration, represented by the great mountain, but assurance was given that God by his Holy Spirit could easily accomplish their restoration. The mountain would be displaced by a plain. The two olive trees represent Zerubbabel and Joshua. The Holy Spirit was to accomplish this work through them.

IV. The Temple Finished (Ezra 6: 13-15).

Through the ministry of the prophets, Haggai and Zechariah (Ezra 5:1; Hag. 1, 2), the people were encouraged to resume the work of the building of the temple. When the temple was finished, they solemnly dedicated it to God (Ezra 6:16-22).

V. The Blessedness of Dwelling in God's House (Ps. 84:1-4).

1. The longing of the soul for God's house (vv. 1, 2).

2. The sparrow and swallow find protection in the sacred precincts of God's house (v. 3).

3. At home in God's house (v. 4). Those who have a heart for God find their chief delight in dwelling in his house.

The Future

Don't estimate your future by the little troubles that comfort you now. The black clouds which shut out your sun today will be gone tomorrow. Learn to look at life at long range and put the right value on things in general.

Religion

Some men want to have religion like a dark lantern, and carry it in their pocket, where nobody but themselves can get any good from it.—Henry Ward Beecher.

IRON DOG GROWLS

The use to which the phototube, popularly known as the electric eye, is put are literally numberless. One of the most peculiar is used by a practical joker to give voice to an iron dog on his lawn. When a visitor approaches he is startled by growls, for on his approach he interrupts a beam of light focused on an electric eye and that sets off the vocal mechanism—a big, raucous buzzer.—Oil Power.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed. How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

"Calumet sure gives you your money's worth, with that Big New 10¢ Can!"

SAYS MRS. W. W. HICKEY, OF CHICAGO, ILL.

"THERE'S a lot of good baking in that 10¢ can of Calumet," observes Mrs. Hickey. "It's worth more than a dime any day!"

"Of course, with my big family I get the full-pound can—and it's only 25¢ now. As long as I bake, Calumet will be in my pantry!"

Grandfather Rommel, who was a baker for 40 years, says: "Calumet takes the guesswork out of the job nowadays."

LOOK AT THE NEW CALUMET CAN! A simple twist . . . and the Easy-Opening Top lifts off. No delay, no spilling, no broken fingernails!

WHAT makes Calumet so dependable? Why is it different from other baking powders? Calumet combines two distinct leavening actions. A quick action for the mixing bowl—set free by liquid. A slower action for the oven—set free by heat. This Double-Action produces perfect leavening.

All Calumet prices are lower! Calumet is now selling at the lowest prices in its history... The regular price of the Full-Pound Can is now only 25¢! And ask to see the new 10¢ can—a lot of good baking for a dime—with Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder. A product of General Foods.

A BULL'S EYE FOR DAD

LATER

WHY was coffee bad for you, Dad? ... I thought it was bad just for you kids! "Oh, no! Many grown-ups, too, find that the caffeine in coffee upsets their nerves, causes indigestion or keeps them awake nights!" If you are bothered by headaches, or indigestion, or can't sleep soundly . . . try Postum for 30 days. It contains no caffeine. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It's easy to make . . . costs less than half a cent a cup. It's delicious, too . . . and may prove a real help. A product of General Foods. FREE! Let us send you your first week's supply of Postum free! Simply mail coupon.
