Panel Can't Agree

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the second time in three days, a Senate appropriations subcommittee failed to reach agreement on President Carter's controversial proposal to scrap 18 water projects.

During a recess in the subcommittee meeting, Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., told reporters there was no chance the panel would decide today whether to eliminate funds for the dams and other water projects. He said another meeting would be scheduled early next week.

Rosalynn Tactful

BOGOTA, Columbia (AP)-"We're wearing the same dress," Rosalynn Carter exclaimed as she shook hands with President Alfonso Lopez' stepsister.

"It looks nice on you," Mrs. Carter told Olga Samper at a reception Thursday night given by Colombia's First Lady, Cecilia Caballero de Lopez, at the presidential palace for the First Lady of the United States.

Mrs. Samper said she thought Mrs. Carter was "so nice, so young and so sweet" to make the comment.

The lines of the polyester blend cocktail dresses were the same, but Mrs. Samper's was shrimp-colored and Mrs. Carter's was in aqua. The Colombian woman said she bought hers at a New York department store.

CLAIMS KNUCKLING UNDER TO LOBBIES

Carter Attacks Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter accused Congress today of knuckling under to the oil and auto lobbies and said the American people will be the ones to suffer...and the ones who will pay."

Carter's reaction to a series of votes by House panels that struck down key parts of his comprehensive energy plan was reported by White House Press Secretary Jody Powell.

Powell said angrily and sarcastically that a House Commerce subcommittee's approval Thursday of immediate and full decontrol of natural gas prices amounts to "a paltry $71 billion rip-off."

Referring to decontrol, Powell vowed that the administration will do its best "to kill the damn thing."

The subcommittee rejected Carter's plan for a phased removal of federal price controls from natural gas and voted to drop regulation entirely.

The House Ways and Means Committee killed Carter's standby gasoline tax Thursday, struck down his proposed tax rebate on high-mileage cars, and put off any penalty taxes on gas guzzlers until the 1979 model year.

"The people of this country will be the ones to suffer if our hopes for an energy plan are thwarted" Powell quoted the President as as saying. "They will be the ones to pay for yesterday's special-interest victories."

Powell said Carter was refering to oil companies, automobile manufacturers and their lobbies.

Powell said Carter is concerned that the congressional actions are evidence "of a trend in the Congress not to face up" to difficult energy decisions despite reports from the Congressional Budget Office and the General Accounting Office, which are congressional agencies, that the President's energy proposals should be strengthened, not weakened.

Carter's concern is focused specifically on votes scheduled for next week on his proposals to increase the well head tax on oil and to require factories to convert from oil to coal.

Weevil Control Reaps A Payoff

Last year's diapause program resulted in an estimated $2.2 million increase in cotton production in Scurry County, according to the results of a study examined Thursday night at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

The study was conducted by the Scurry County office of the Agriculture Stabilization Conservation Service (ASCS) and reflects the economic and agricultural benefits derived from the diapause boll weevil control program on a county-wide basis.

The exact figure calculated by the ASCS office in estimating the economic benefits of the diapause spray program is $2,198,196.

The report shows that 59,653 acres were planted in cotton during 1976 and that 58,313 of those acres were harvested. Some 44,446 bales of cotton were produced in Scurry County during 1976, the report shows.

The report also shows that operators participating in the program produced 370 pounds of cotton per acre as compared to the 307 pounds of cotton produced by those operators not participating in the program.

With 489 pounds of cotton per bale selling for about 63 cents per pound, the county's farm cornucopia was boosted by $2.2 million. The report indicates the county gained 7,137 bales of cotton in increased production by the participants of the diapause program.

About 13 per cent of the producers in the program claimed disaster payments as compared to 26 per cent of the producers claiming disaster payments who did not participate in the program.

Bill Henry, executive director of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, called the diapause program a "direct benefit to farmers."

Briscoe Inks Anticrime Bills

AUSTIN (AP)-Gov. Dolph Briscoe signed into law Friday a package of anticrime bills that he said would "improve the protection of life and property of each individual in this state.

Briscoe said he was proud that 10 of the 11 anti-crime bills he recommended were adopted by the legislature. A bill on legal wiretaps failed.

"We passed more law and order bills this session than any of the eight previous sessions I have been here," said Speaker Bill Clayton.

Chamber Plans To Sell Building On Property

In a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce held Thursday night, board members discussed the disposition of some Chamber-owned property and heard reports concerning industrial and housing activities.

The board members decided to sell the metal building located across the street from the Chamber on Ave. R. The property formerly was owned by C. L. Noble.

The only stipulation carried with the sale is that the lot the structure is located on be cleaned. Bids for the purchase must be submitted to the Chamber of Commerce no later than noon on June 17.

In other property disposition discussions, Executive Chamber Director Bill Henry noted that the Wickes building is unoccupied but the Chamber, he said, still receives reports of prospective industrial tenants.

Henry also noted that the financial note on the Wickes building is due in October, not July as was first believed.

Plans are still being readied for the construction of a 60-unit housing project, Henry told the board members, to be located south of the Scurry County Coliseum on 37th St.

Henry said he expected to receive information within the next few weeks on the funding of the project. The funding of the housing project, he continued, has gone beyond the "if" stage to the "when" stage.

Board members also discussed the reply to a telegram sent several weeks ago by Chamber President Henry Clark to the Texas Air Control Board.

Clark sent the telegram to the TACB critizing its policy of not allowing potentially polluting industries to locate in relatively pollution-free areas and possibly increasing the

Some Tips On Keeping That Energy Bill Down

The air conditioning season is upon us again, and that means higher electric bills. But Texas Electric Service Co. says costs can be held down with a little effort.

"The easiest way to lower bills is to raise thermostats," according to Texas Electric local manager, Henry Clark. The company recommends a setting of 78 degrees as the best balance between economy and comfort.

People with window air conditioners should use an indoor thermometer to set their temperature control rather than relying on what "feels right," he said.

If the house is to be empty all day, raise the thermostat setting five degrees. If the house will be empty for several days, turn the air conditioner off unless something inside would be damaged by the heat.

The weather may send electric bills higher this summer than in recent years. "We've enjoyed two cooler-than-normal summers. If this turns out to be a hot summer, air conditioners will be working harder and using more electricity," he said.

The area that offers the greatest potential for saving money is insulation. "Properly insulating a house that had no insulation can lower cooling costs 40 per cent." Clark said.

Insulation is measured in terms of its resistance to heat flow--called its "R value." Texas Electric recommends ceiling insulation of at least R26 upon the type of insulation used. For instance, R26 insulation in the ceiling requires about 12 inches of blown-in fiberglass or nine inches of blown rock wool.

"Most insulation contractors are happy to give you a free estimate on insulating your attic to a specified level, "Clark said.

"Attic insulation can cost as much as several hundred dollars, but with today's higher energy prices it can pay for itself in only a few seasons," he said.

Another way to cut cooling costs is with weatherstripping and caulking. This is inexpensive and easy to do, but can lower costs noticeably if a house has many air leaks.

The usual culprits are around doors and win-

hatch act needed

The U. S. House of Representatives—led by the liberals-have overwhelmingly approved, 244-264, revision of the Hatch Act.

The Hatch Act, enacted in 1939, prevents federal employees from participating in politics and from running for office.

We think the Hatch Act has and still does serve a useful purpose in curbing the powerful bureaucrats. The liberal's liberal—Rep. Moe Udall of Arizona led the successful fight for revision in the House of Representatives.

The revision question must now go before the U.S. Senate and we strongly hope that the Senate will kill the measure – and observers feel there is a good chance. However, President Carter has voiced his support of the Hatch Act revision and so a veto—if passed by both chambers—is unlikely.

Organized labor is in full support of the revision. In 1939 the purpose of the act was to prevent intimidation of government employees by their bosses.

The Hatch Act prevents a "spoils" system of government in which government employees are hired on a patronage basis and who then are obligated to support and work for their bosses in a political manner.

We still contend that government employees have the right to vote as they choose and if they want to seek public office, they should take at least a leave of absence and campaign—just like anyone else.

To revise or repeal the Hatch Act would open an unwanted and unneeded can of worms.

lessons unheeded

Demands by Gov. David Boren of Oklahoma that a report on natural gas indicating that abundant supplies could be made available if it were economically feasible to produce it raises yet another interesting question concerning the enery situation.

The control proponents undoubtedly will say that if it is available at any price, it sould be available at the price set by the government. But the industry, which, unlike the federal government, must live within its means and must answer to stockholders, is not likely to embark on any big production campaign unless there is a reasonable profit in it.

That brings us to another situation. Congress has indicated that it may look with favor on President Carter's request for a cabinet level department of the federal government to deal with energy, but it is not willing to put price controls in the hand of the head of such a department.

This expression from the House is encouraging, but the big mystery is why the Congress, the President or anyone else believes that controls over an industry that on its own produced plenty to make us a gas-fired and gasoline-propelled nation would do better under price controls set by a czar, or a committee. Many already have pointed out the fact that our downward trend in energy supplies began with the advent of federal price controls on inter-state natural gas over two decades ago. We seem to have too many in Washington who are dead set against heeding the lessons of experience.

your chamber in action

AT WORK

What would you do if someone called you by phone tomorrow and said, "How far is it to Atlanta, Georgia, and what is the best route to take?"

What would you do if that same morning you got a letter in the mail in which the writer asked, "What is there to see; what are the industries and what is the population? I would also appreciate it if you would give me full information on the housing situation."

What would you do if a few minutes later a stranger stopped in your store and asked you for literature and a city map?

What would you do if throughout the entire day the phone rang and the questions flew thick and fast.. How far is it to---? What has charge of---? Do you know where I can rent---? Where can I find---? What is the best way to---?

GO NUTS

You know what you would do--go nuts! But the Chamber of Commerce? Well, the Chamber of Commerce answers each phone call, each letter and each personal call. It gives the good people the information they want. It is set up to do just that. But, that is the part that doesn't show. That is the regular day-to-day services of the Chamber of Commerce that most people overlook unless they, themselves, need some information.

The part that doesn't show is one of the greatest parts of Chamber of Commerce service. You, in your store or office, couldn't or wouldn't do it. None of the service clubs could or would do it. The schools wouldn't or couldn't do it--the community's letters it answers, the community's telephone calls it handles and the community's customers it waits on. (Our visitors are our customers.)

There you have the part that doesn't show. It is one of the most valuable and important jobs YOUR Chamber of Commerce does for you. Yet it has no glamour; it has no romance; it can't and doesn't make the headlines; it is seldom even mentioned, but you will have to admit that if the Chamber of Commerce did nothing else, this service -- unhonored and unsung as it is -- would be worth the entire investment you make in YOUR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

taiwan uncertainties

NEW YORK (AP)-"Taiwan isn't going to disappear. We are going to stay right here, to stay alive and do all we can."

The words are those of Ambassador James C.H. Chen of the Republic of China, more often called Taiwan these days by those who wish to distinguish it from the People's Republic of China on the mainland.

Chen spoke in response to a question about the security of U.S. investments in Taiwan should the United States recognize the Peking government. The question was one that too often is politely left unasked.

Taiwan maintains it is the real China, and the someday it will return to the mainland, now controlled by the Communists. The United States isn't as certain; it has studied the possibility of recognizing the Communists.

If it does so, will that mean dropping diplomatic recognition of the Taiwan government? Abrogating the defense treaty? Removing military support? All these the Peking government has said it wants.

The uncertainties leave American businessmen in a predicament: Should they continue to invest in the thriving economy of Taiwan and perhaps find themselves some day without the security of diplomatic recognition?

Many U.S. businessmen remain confident of their investments and, in fact, are adding to them. So too are companies from all over the industrialized world, who poured more than $140 million into the island republic last year.

Much of that total, up 20 per cent from 1975, came from nations that already had dropped diplomatic recognition of Taiwan. But investment by firms based in the United States, which continues to recognize Taiwan, dropped to only half the 1975 total of $41 million.

Chen's comments, made in Dallas recently at the 4th Annual International Trade Conference of the Southwest, provide some insight for American businessmen.

"We are not going to discourage foreign investment, and I am sure the guarantees and assurances will remain intact," he said, "but just the same, we hope that your government will handle the question very, very carefully."

How the issue is handled, he said, clearly affects the image of the United States as well as Taiwan's security.

"It affects all neighboring countries and also affects the credibility of the U.S.A. as a dependable ally and friend," he said. "If I were in Peking I would question the sincerity of U.S.A." he commented.

Recognition of mainland China by the United States, Chen summarized, "will certainly add to our difficulties," but he made clear his nation would survive.

"I suppose for a while the people would be uncertain to see how the people on Taiwan would handle the situation- whether they are going to collapse like what happened in Vietnam, or are they going to overcome."

His message was clear: Taiwan, strong militarily and industrially, won't sink into the sea. The Chinese might need time to settle their problems, but meanwhile Taiwan seeks investments and trade, and is willing to work for both.

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA)- The cash and checks may look quite similar, but in the arcane world of campaign finance "hard money" and "soft money" are two very different commodities.

That distinction is especially important to the political operatives of the nation's labor unions, which dole out millions of dollars in every even-numbered year to support the candidates of their choice.

"Hard dollars" are the ostensibly voluntary contributions made by union members to the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE) and similar political action committees established by many individual unions.

That "hard money" can be used for any lawful purpose, most notably direct contributions to the campaign committees of favored candidates.

"Soft dollars," on the other hand, are derived from dues and assessments paid by workers into a union's general fund or treasury. They can be used in federal elections only for technically nonpartisan activities such as voter registration and get-out-the-vote drives.

Both the Smith-Connally Act of 1943 and subsequently the Taft-Hartley Act of 1947 specifically prohibited the use of the "soft money" dues payments for the purpose of influencing the outcome of elections to federal office.

Federal statutes contain a similar prohibition against the use of corporate funds in campaigns for federal office, but a loophole was created by the 1974 and 1976 amendments to the Federal Election Campaign Act.

Those amendments legitimized the long-standing union practice of using dues money to promote, within the membership, candidates preferred by the leadership. At the same time, corporations were given the right to use money from their treasuries to solicit the support of stockholders and employees on behalf of candidates favored by company officials.

In 1976, the first election year the changes were in effect, corporate officials were very chary of taking advantage of the opportunity, with good reason. They feared stockholders' suits which would question the use of shareholder funds to intervene in a partisan political election.

Indeed, all of the country's corporations reported to the Federal Election Commission that they spent a cumulative total of less than $50,000 in support of then-President Ford.

Oblivious to the ethical and constitutional questions raised by the use of a member's dues in support of a candidate not necessarily preferred by the worker, the labor unions were far less reticent. They reported spending more than $1 million to promote President Carter-and that figure is a very conservative one.

The Supreme Court, in an opinion handed down late last month, ruled that a group of Michigan teachers "may constitutionally prevent a union's spending a part of the required service fees to contribute to political candidates or to express political views."

In 1961 and again in 1963, the high court handed down similar decisions in cases involving two railroad unions. In the latter case, it specifically held that those who object to the use of their dues for political purposes should receive a rebate.

The almost universal reaction of organized labor, however, has been to either ignore the Supreme Court or establish a dues structure which offers dissenting members a preposterously low rebate-often only a few cents a month-if they insist upon a refund.

It should require no great wisdom on the part of Congress to recognize that the arbitrary expenditure of a union member's dues on behalf of leadership-favored political candidates is a serious abridgment of First Amendment rights.

government by courts

Warren E. Burger, chief justice of the United States, has uttered one of the most quotable quotes of the year so far.

Speaking at an American Bar Association conference at Columbia Law School the other day, he warned that unless new substitutes are devised for traditional courtroom procedures -- and done rather quickly -- "we may well be on our way to a society overrun by hordes of lawyers hungry as locusts competing with each other and brigades of judges never before contemplated."

Burger was referring to minor legal disputes, and the lawyer-encouraged predilection of Americans filing suits against each other at the drop of a tort. Some observers of the nation's legal system would object that he did not go nearly far enough. The problem of private litigation jamming the courts pales into insignificance compared to the increasing activism of judges, who are more and more assuming the functions of lawmakers, they say.

In what has been called the greatest expansion of judicial authority since Chief Justice John Marshall established the principle of judicial review in 1803, federal and state courts have taken over the day-to-day operation of prisons and hospitals in a number of cities and counties and a school district in Boston. They are not only interpreting the law but in some cases have virtually told legislatures what laws to enact.

"The judiciary has become the primary lawmaker in our society," says Philip Kurland, professor of constitutional law at the University of Chicago.

Harvard sociologist Nathan Glazer has coined the phrase, "the imperial judiciary," and the cry has been taken up by others.

In a just-published book, "The Courts and Social Policy," legal scholar Donald Horowitz notes that "in the past few years, courts have struck down laws requiring a period of in-state residence as a condition of eligibility for welfare...Federal district courts have laid down elaborate standards for food handling, hospital operations, recreation facilities, inmate employment and education, sanitation, laundry, painting, lighting, plumbing and renovation in some prisons; they have ordered other prisons closed...They have eliminated a high school diploma as a requirement for a fireman's job. They have enjoined the construction of roads and bridges on environmental grounds..."

"The courts have become a fundamental force in shaping and reshaping American education," says Dr. Franklin B. Walter, state superintendent of public instruction in Ohio.

The situation is reaching a point where, in the words of Dean Roger Cramton of the Cornell Law School, it is becoming a crucial question of "how government by nonelected officials can be squared with representative democracy."

All too often, however, while they may complain about it publicly, elected officials and lawmakers have privately been more than happy to shift the burden of their responsibilities onto the shoulders of the courts. If a judge orders a prison or hospital renovated, for example, and taxes have to be raised as a consequence, they are off the hook. "Don't blame us," they can say. "Blame the courts."

State officials are "punting" their problems to us," says one judge.

Other defenders of judicial activism point out that the landmark civil rights cases of the 1959s and 1960s, which seem to have started the current trend toward judicial social-policy-making and priority--setting, had to be fought through the courts in the first place because of the failure of the people's representatives -- and the people who elected them -- to address these problems.

One thing agreed on by both opponents and supporters of judicial activism is that there is not likely to be any turning back to pre-intervention days.

If the people are not getting the kind of government they deserve, they are getting the kind of government they apparently want, even if it means "hordes of hungry lawyers and brigades of judges.'

letter to editor

To The Daily News:

In response to the Roy E. Bailey's second letter: Yes, most of our teachers are women and from the way some of them are rearing their children we know our children aren't learning anything from them; there is neither teaching nor abuse. They let them do as they please, they only want their check for being there.

Teachers who make the children sit up and take notice, listen and obey are a Godsend. They are the kind children learn from. Teachers know whether the children are being disciplined at home by the way they act in the classroom and on the playgrounds.

You spoke only of mistreatment in your first letter. This verbal abuse is all uncalled for and the teacher should be discharged immediately. I believe they failed in what they were majoring in, so they dropped back to teach our children and are taking their failure out on our children by their verbal abuse. They are so frustrated with themselves for having failed they use profane words and those kind can eventually harm a child, or children, and should never be allowed to teach in any kind of school.

Vacation Meals With Small 'Budget Bite'

COLLEGE STATION -- Vacation meals with a small "budget bite" depend on a little preplanning in proper storage and equipment, says Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist.

Always remember to keep cold foods cold, hot foods hot, and refrigerate leftovers to prevent food poisoning.

Basic equipment includes a large airtight cooler, folding grill or other heat source, disposable plates and cups, resealable storage bags, aluminum foil, small kettle and pan, she said.

Miss Haggard is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Her "small-budget" menus start with tap or heated water -- to create instant beverages, such as tea, fruit drinks, cocoa and coffee.

Heat water in the small kettle on the grillor with a small one-cup coil heater plugged into an electrical outlet or cigarette lighter.

Mix instant nonfat dry milk in a container and store on ice in the cooler, she advises.

Try a breakfast of milk, fruit drink, coffee, cereals, rolls and fresh fruits.

Midday meals give cooks a break. Either eat them "out" -- since the noon meal is usually cheaper than the evening meal -- or serve sandwiches made with canned meats, which keep better than fresh luncheon meats. Add fresh fruits and chips.

Opening lead -- Q ♥

By Oswald & James Jacoby

It is a cinch to make four spades. It is almost as easy to lose the contract.

West leads the queen of hearts and the contract hinges on the very first play from dummy.

If you cover the queen with the king, East will win with the ace and lead a heart back. You will have to ruff and go after trumps. East will win the first trump with his king and lead another heart. You will have to ruff again.

West will win the next trump lead and lay down his jack of hearts. You will have to ruff for the third time and will be left with just one trump against West's two. West will score another trump trick and you will be left to complain about 4-1 trump breaks.

If you just let West's queen of hearts hold the first trick, the birds will sing for you. If West continues hearts dummy's 10 will knockout East's ace. You will ruff and go about your business without the need to ruff three times. If West shifts you will have even less trouble

Ask the Jacobys

A Missouri reader wants to know if the bidding has gone one heart-double-redouble is partner of the doubler supposed to bid or is it correct for him to pass if he has no convenient bid.

The general rule is that the partner should pass unless he has some convenient bid, whereupon the doubler gets out of his own trouble as best he can.

State Baseball Finals Tonight

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) – Houston Sharpstown will battle Duncanville tonight for the Class 4A schoolboy baseball championship, and Uvalde will meet Pecos for the 3A crown.

Sharpstown won the honor by dumping Fort Worth Southwest 10-4 in Thursday's semifinal. Earlier, Duncanville whipped Victoria Stroman 11-5 to earn the other playoff spot.

Uvalde edged Waco Midway 4-3 to earn its half of the 3A championship tilt while Pecos downed DeSoto 7-3.

Campbell Kid Holds Lead At NAIA

BAY CITY, Mich (AP) – Jim Bromley of Campbell College, N.C. had a five-stroke lead at the 54-hole mark in the National Association of Inter-collegiate Athletics NAIA national golf tournament.

Bromley had a three-round 212 to hold the edge Thursday over Jimmy Franklin of Gardner-Webb, NC., in their race for medalist honors.

Gardner-Webb, however, held the team lead with an 893 going into today's final 18 holes at the Bay Valley Golf Club.

Others in the top 10 were: Sam Houston State of Texas, 894; U.S. International of California, 907; Indiana of Pennsylvania, 908; Cameron of Oklahoma and Campbell College, N.C., both 915; Southern Benedictine of Alabama, 919; aylor of Indiana, 921; St. Ambrose of Iowa, 922; and Eastern New Mexico and Texas Wesleyan, both at 924.

NCAA GOLF TOURNAMENT

Stark Still Holds Individual Mark

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) —Lanky junior John Stark of Houston held a three-stroke lead going into the third round of the NCAA golf Championships here today after posting a two-day total of 142.

Arizona State continued to lead the team competition in the four-day tournament at Colgate University's Seven Oaks golf course.

Tied for second in the individual competition at 145 were Lee Mikels of Arizona State and Dan Pohl of Arizona, whose 71 Thursday was the low for the day.

Stark, 21, from San Antonio, Tex., playing in a daylong drizzle, turned in matching scores of 36 to add to his first-round score of 70 from Wednesday.

Tied for third at 146 were Joe Walter of Georgia, defending champion Scott Simpson of Southern California and Sam Trajan of Florida.

Steve Waugh of Georgia Southern had a 72 for a two-day total of 147, while Payne Stewart of Southern Methodist University, Lindy Miller of Oklahoma State and Watkins of Arizona State remained in contention with 148s.

Arizona State, led by the play of Mikels, Bill Loeffler and Scott Watkins, had a 592 team total, followed by Houston at 598, Georgia at 602 and Georgia Southern at 605.

"The course definitely favored the long ball hitter, while the greens held better after the rain," Stark said after his tour of the course Thursday.

The first and only cut of the tournament takes place after competition today. Saturday's final round will feature individual players who have posted scores within 10 strokes of the tournament leader.

Little Plants LPGA Lockup

NORTH MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) -- South Africa's Sally Little, a leggy 5-foot-8, says she had to learn to "plant myself" before hitting a golf ball on a windy day.

Plant herself she did Thursday, and it paid off with a five-under-par 67, good for a tie with Joyce Kazmierski after one round of this week's Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament.

"This is the only time I wanted an extra 30 pounds," said the willowly Miss Little after coastal winds gusting to more than 25 miles per hour sprayed golf balls all over Bay Tree Plantation's par-72 gold course.

PRACTICE DOES IT – Girls attending Western Texas College basketball camp learn by doing. Above, two groups of students play a game in the WTC Gym. The girls are rehearsed on rules, offense and defense, and style of play. Unlike years past, the girls here are learning full-court play, which will be in effect soon. In the past season, girls played six to a team, three on offense, three on defense. The camp ends tonight, following scheduled games. (SDN Staff Photo)

Slew Shapes Up As Triple Champ

NEW YORK (AP) – So-ns listed as Slew's owner, meon at the draw for post positions for the 109th running of the Belmont Stakes wondered why Johnny Campo had bothered to enter two horses against unbeaten Seattle Slew.

But Campo was not in attendance, so Mickey Taylor, whose wife Karen stepped in. "It's like Campo says, 'I know there's one horse I can't beat, but I can beat the rest.'"

A field of 10 3-year-olds was entered on Thursday for Saturday's third jewel of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown. If Seattle Slew can overcome that large field, he not only will be the first undefeated Triple Crown winner, he also will have overcome a larger field than any of his nine predecessors.

But Taylor does not believe the large field indicates there still are those who question the colt's ability. "They want to put up the money," he said "and it makes no difference to us how many enter. Iron Constitution, Run Dusty Run, Sanhedrin, they deserve to be in it. The rest have high hopes."

The Campo entry of Max Gluck's Make Amens and Hey Hey J.P., owned by Campo and his wife, likely will not make it to post at about 5:38 p.m. EDT intact, however. Campo is expected to scratch Hey Hey J.P. and run him in the Keystone Handicap on the same day as the Belmont, leaving nine in the field.

Regardless, Taylor is not worried about Seattle Slew's competition. "I don't worry about the other horses. I never have. Slew can gallop faster than most horses can run," he said. "And this is our playground this time. We're the home team."

Seattle Slew, the winner of his first eight starts – four of them in New York – including the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, under jockey Jean Cruguet, drew the No. 6 post position for the 1½-mile Belmont, which will be worth $183,800 if all 10 go. The winner would earn $110,280.

In order of post's position, the Belmost entries were Golden Chance Farm's Run Dusty Run, Sandy Hawley; Harry T. Mangurian Jr.,'s Iron Constitution, Angel Cordero Jr.; Hey Hey J.P., no boy; Make Amends, Ron Turcotte; La Luna Stable's Sir Sir, Gustavo Avila; Seattle Slew; Elaine Brodsky's Leading Scorer, no boy; Darby Dan Farm's Sanhedrin.

dows, but other trouble spots can be around wall electrical outlets, attic doors and through-the-door mail slots.

"Of course all the weatherstripping in the world won't help if outside doors are being opened repeatedly. Hot air rushes in every time a door is opened," Clark said.

An "open door" that people often forget about is the fireplace damper. A fireplace draws air whether there is a fire in it or not. If the damper if left open all summer, a lot of cool air and money will be going up the chimney.

Another way to save air conditioning costs is to operate the air conditioning equipment properly. That includes cleaning or replacing air conditioning filters regularly.

Outside, air conditioning equipment should be given room to blow off its hot air. Shrubs or grass too close to the compressor unit will restrict air circulation and cut efficiency.

Landscaping can be used to the homeowner's advantage, however. Trees and shrubs should be planted so that they shade the house as much as possible.

Extra effort should be made to shade east and west windows, which receive direct sunlight. In addition to trees and shrubs, awnings or outdoor blinds should be used to block the sun's rays.

Inside, draped and blinds should be kept closed to keep heat out and cool in. Installing storm windows or double-pane windows is another good way to conserve energy.

Other summer saving tips include:

--Keep lamps and other heat-producing appliances away from thermostats.

--Use kitchen and bathroom exhaust fans to remove excess humidity, but not for so long that they begin pulling out cooled air.

--When possible, wait until evening to do ironing, cooking, washing, clothes drying, bathing and other heat-producing activities.

Anyone buying a new air conditioner should check the unit's Energy Efficiency Ratio (EER) rating. The higher the number, the more efficient the air conditioner. Texas Electric recommends units with an EER rating of 7 or higher.

"The units with a higher EER rating are going to cost a little more, but they'll use less energy and end up saving you money in the long run," Clark said.

Texas Electric's "Tips" booklet suggest dozens of ways for conserving energy in the home. The booklet is available at any Texas Electric office or can be requested on the comment portion of the electric bill.

"Another good way to smooth out high summer bills is with our average billing plan," Clark said. The plan doesn't lower costs, but spreads the cost of high summer usage out over lower winter bills.

"The local Texas Electric office would be happy to give anyone details on the average billing plan," he said.

pollution level.

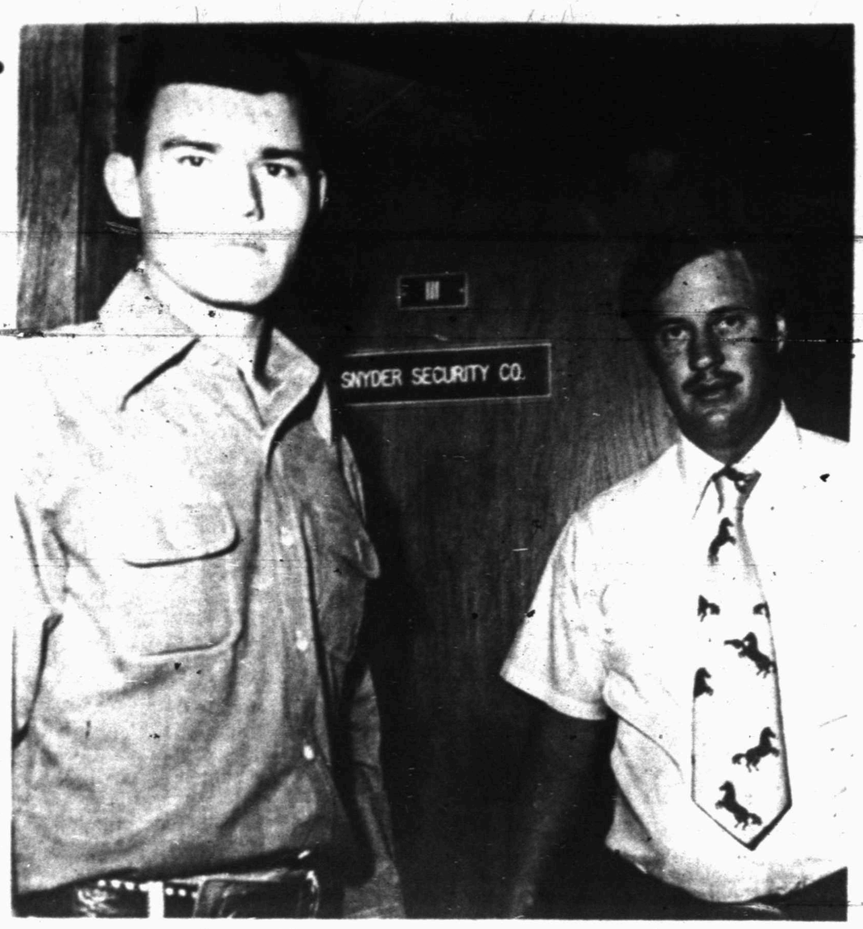

The reply, sent by the Lubbock office of the TACB, stated that the agency would not actively enforce the regulations controlling industrial development, it was reported.

Plans are still being made, it was discussed in other reports, for the National Finals of the American Junior Rodeo Association. The AJRA will be held in Snyder at the Scurry County Coliseum Aug. 9-13.

Plans for the Fourth of July celebration are also still in the mill. Roy Kidd, who chairs the July 4 planning committee, reported that the exact location for the truck rodeo has not been determined yet and attempts are still being made to obtain the temporary use of two trucks needed for the rodeo.

The tractor pull is still being planned to be held at the Scurry County rodeo grounds on the nights of July 2 and 3. A tractor pull queen will also be chosen at the event.

The only qualification needed for a queen candidate is that she be at least 18 years of age by Jan. 1, 1978. The winner chosen here will go to Fort Worth to compete for the state title of Tractor Pull Queen.

TO WOMEN, MINORITIES

Carter Hasn't Kept Promises

WASHINGTON (AP)-Despite President Carter's promises to place women and minorities in high-level positions throughout the government, 76 per cent of the top 265 jobs in the Carter administration are filled by white males.

The administration says it has hired a greater percentage of women and minorities than did previous addministrations, but a White House aide conceded, "obviously, there hasn't been a huge number of appointments" of women and blacks.

Just as obviously, representatives of blacks and women are less than satisfied with the record.

Figures compiled by the White House personnel office show that women hold 14 per cent of the top jobs, including Cabinet, subcabinet and ambassadorial positions. Blacks hold 9 per cent of the jobs and Hispanics 4 per cent. There is one Asian-American-Assistant Secretary of State Patsy Mink. There are no American Indians.

Carter said during his presidential campaign that he would increase the number of minority group members and women in top jobs.

A year ago, he said he would "make the fullest possible use of the women in America in helping carry out my program for America."

Before a women's group last October, he vowed to insist on hiring that would bring more women into the highest civil service levels.

Similar promises were made about minority groups and their roles in a Carter administration.

Now, with most of the top positions filled, Freddie Wechsler, a spokeswoman for the National Women's Political Caucus, says expectations for the number of women in decision-making roles have not been met by actual appointments.

"The indications prior to the hiring process from Carter when he was a candidate, president-elect and in the early days of his tenure was that he would do somewhat better than he's done," she said.

Poage Bounces Back

WASHINGTON (AP)— Texas Congressman W. R. "Bob" Poage says he thinks he's on the road to recovery after being released from Bethesda Naval Hospital three weeks after major surgery.

Poage, 77, the oldest member of the House, left the hospital Thursday.

Surgeons removed a malignant growth from part of his intestine in a four-hour operation May 19.

Before leaving for his suburban Arlington, Va., home, Poage said, "I can't claim to be feeling completely fine right now, but I do think that I'm on the road to recovery."

His doctor, chief of surgery William Fouty, said Poage would continue his recuperation at home for at least a week.

"After that time," Fouty said, "and if he is doing all right, I can see him then going back to the office for a limited day and then working his way up to a full schedule."

"A major part" of the colon, a section of the intestinal tract, was removed after the lesion had shown up on X-rays in early May, Poage said.

Fouty said Poage was running about a week behind in the normal six-week recovery period for major surgery of that type because of a minor intestinal swelling last week.

Once the 21-term congressman "eats good home cooking, he will really start to perk up," the doctor said, putting Poage back on his regular diet.

Poage, now vice chairman of the Agriculture Committee, chaired the panel until 1974, when he was one of three veteran chairmen ousted from their positions by the Democratic caucus.

Minor Thefts Probed Here

City police arrested three male juveniles suspected of shoplifting and investigated the reports of several minor thefts Thursday.

The juveniles were taken into custody at Munden's as they were allegedly attempting to appropriate several items. A questioning of the youths revealed their alleged involvement in separate shoplifting incidents that have occurred at Perry's, Gibson's and Safeway. The youths are also accused of taking a bicycle from the Towle Park swimming pool, according to police reports.

Also investigated by police were three reported thefts.

Elena Gonzales told officers that her purse had been taken from her car while it was parked at Towle Memorial Park. Total value of the purse and its contents was set at about $21. The incident was reported to police at 5:35 p.m. Thursday.

In separate reports, Merle Newton and Henry Holley reported that citizens band radio antennas had been taken from their cars. Total value of both the missing antennas was set at $45.

A minor traffic accident was reported to police Thursday at 4:52 p.m. and occurred at the intersection of Ave. Z and 30th St.

A 1974 AMC driven by Debbie Williams Campbell was in collision with a 1970 Chevrolet driven by Marie Zimmerman.

The metric equivaletn of one cubic inch is 16.387 cubic centimeters.

Snyder Security Firm Is Opened

The Snyder Security Co., a private investigatory company which also sells and installs security alarms, has opened here.

John McMaster, owner and operator of the new firm, said the security systems sold and installed by the company include burglar alarms, smoke alarms, and automatic garage door openers. Doug Heaster is in charge of the sale and installation of the security alarms.

McMaster heads the private investigations for the company's clients, the only service of its kind in Snyder.

McMaster is a former Snyder policeman, a former law enforcement instructor at Western Texas College and a former adult probation officer who worked in Dallas. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees in criminology from the Institute of Contemporary Corrections and Behavioral Sciences, a department of Sam Houston State University.

McMaster is bonded and state-licensed to be a private investigator.

The Snyder Security Co. is located in room 111 of the Wallace Building. The office hours are from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Persons wishing more information may contact the office at 573-8524 or McMaster at his residence at 573-8816.

Township Is Back On Map

NEW SWEDEN, Minn. (AP)-Highway department officials have relented so New Sweden is going back on the map.

The unincorporated Nicollet County hamlet, population 8, suffered the ignominy of being left off the state's 1979 road map.

But a petition drive, led by Paul Bjorklund, town clerk, led to restoration of acknowledgement of New Sweden's existence.

The petition, sent to Gov. Rudy Perpich, was signed by residents of the surrounding township.

"We've been here all our lives and we were worried about losing our town's name," Bjorklund said.

The town, along Minnesota 111, consists of a creamery building, a feed store, one house and a few outbuildings.

Firemen Extinguish Two Grass Fires

Two grass fires were extinguished Thursday by Snyder firemen.

The first grass fire occurred east of the dam at Lake J. B. Thomas and was reported at 12:20 p.m.

The second grass fire was reported at 2:35 at Hermleigh.

Fishing Tank Is In Backyard

BROKEN ARROW, Okla. (AP) -- Roland Martin, a professional angler, doesn't have to go far for fishing practice.

He has his own backyard fishing tank that's 16 feet in diameter, 4½ feet wide and holds 7,000 gallons of water. To make it look like a real lake, the bottom is covered with rocks, several large boulders, tree stumps and logs.

Martin's tank has large windows, through which he can view and film his dozen or so bass.

"I've always wanted some method where I could really study the fish, do some in-depth experiments and learn more about them than I already know," the angler said.

Probation Is Is Revoked

The probation of Geneva Hemphill Henderson was revoked Thursday in 132nd District Court.

Mrs. Henderson was serving a five-year probated prison term on a charge of burglary with intent to commit theft. She is accused of participating in the burglary of Roger's Men's Wear.

The cause of the probation revocation was listed as alleged failure to report to her probation officer.

She was sentenced to serve five years in prison.

Reagan Attacking Carter's Policies

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Ronald Reagan, who never got a chance to run against Jimmy Carter, is campaigning against him now and is emerging as the sharpest Republican critic of the Democratic administration.

In speeches Thursday in New York and Washington, Reagan attacked Carter's policies at home and abroad and accused him of violating his campaign promise to restore confidence in government.

At a $100-a-plate fundraiser here for conservative causes, Reagan said Carter promised during the 1976 campaign that he would "never become part of this city's buddy system."

But Reagan, who also campaigned on an anti-Washington theme in his unsuccessful run for the GOP nomination, said Carter has "managed to adapt rather well to this city that has become his home."

"He's been in office now for nearly six months and in that time has managed to assemble the largest and highest paid White House staff in history," Reagan said.

"It strikes me as unusual that a man who was going to restore our faith in Washington would, as one of his first acts, propose to change the election laws so that congressional incumbents will be able to tap the federal till for their campaign funds," Reagan said.

The former actor and two-term governor of California also attacked Carter's support for repeal of Hatch Act prohibitions against government workers participating in partisan politics.

"It strikes me as unusual that a man who says he is beholden to no special interests advances the repeal of legislation designed to insulate federal government workers from crass political pressure," he said.

And he opposed Carter's plan to allow election day voter registration, sounding the theme repeatedly used by GOP members of Congress. Reagan called the proposal "a scheme that would debase the franchise by opening our electoral system to wholesale fraud.

"In light of all this, I'm afraid that I can only conclude that if the American people want to cut back governments, they're going to have to look somewhere besides the White House, where the Democrats are simply doing business as usual."

Earlier in the day, in a New York speech before the Foreign Policy Association, Reagan attacked Carter's foreign policy, especially his human rights campaign.

"The new administration's foreign policy has aimed most of its human rights criticisms at governments which are no threat to others and which, despite not always behaving precisely as we might like, have nevertheless been our friends," he said.

Reagan criticized the administration for opposing chrome imports from Rhodesia while opening trade with Cuba and negotiating and canal treaty with Panama. It was Reagan, in his primary battle against Gerald Ford, who first made Panama Canal treaty negotiations a campaign issue.

Special Session Urged Now

AUSTIN (AP) -- The special session on public school financing should be held "as soon as possible," Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Billy Clayton have told Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Briscoe has said he will call a special session if assured each House will give the necessary two-thirds approval to put the measure into immediate effect.

Hobby told reporters before the meeting with Briscoe he would recommend the session start on June 20. Afterward, however, he said he mentioned no specific date to the governor.

Hobby and Clayton also said they asked Briscoe to include property tax reform and a constitutional amendment on assessing agricultural land for its agricultural value in the call for the special session.

The League of Nations began January, 1920 at Geneva, Switzerland. It was formally dissolved January 10, 1945.

Lean meat fits diets

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB -- I have a friend who won't eat red meats. She says that eating too much meat will cause cancer and that it causes heart disease too. I do know people who limit the amount of meat they eat because they are afraid of a heart attack.

Also, if meat contains so much fat how come people on some weight losing diets eat lots of meat? I thought losing weight was good for you, that it would help you from having a heart attack.

DEAR READER -- Some of what you say is true and some is not. In the first place meat does not cause cancer just because it is meat. There have been some suggestions that high protein diets may increase the chances of having cancer but the facts certainly don't permit such a sweeping conclusion. A study of the Mormons in Utah showed that they had less cancer of the digestive system than other Americans and they eat the same amount of red meat.

There has been some question about the preservatives used in some cured meats, particularly the nitrites used to prevent the growth of botulism, but the minimal amount used seems to be quite safe.

People think of meat as fat because of our tendency to eat marbled beef. The truth is that lean beef with all the visible fat removed contains less than 35 per cent of its calories as fat. That qualifies it to be used in reasonable amounts in low-fat diets. Round steak with all the visible fat removed is a good choice here. Of course how the meat is prepared does make a difference. If you cover it with a flour paste and fry it in fat the crust is likely to contain more fat than the meat. You can broil lean meats or cut away all the fat for a roast and have a fairly low-fat item. Often the fat in steaks with all the visible fat removed is less than the fat found in devil's food chocolate cake, and many bakery items that people don't realize are really sources of fat in the diet.

To give you a better picture of the good and bad points about red meats I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-12, Red Meats: Good and Bad. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. It will give you more values for different types of meat and hamburger and cold cuts.

As The Health Letter I am sending you tells you, lean meat -- the muscle part only -- is really a low calorie food. It is over 70 per cent water. A whole pound of the separable lean of round steak only contains a little more than 600 calories. That is the reason lean meats can be used on reducing diets. If you could stand it you could eat two whole pounds of lean round steak a day and consume only 1200 calories.

I think people often forget that a large part of the meat and other food they get is water. It is not all just fat, protein and carbohydrates. Even butter is about 20 per cent water. Fat does contain very little water which is another reason why it contains so many calories.

Yes, keeping your weight down is usually helpful in preventing heart disease. For a meat dish I recommend alternating red meats, fish and poultry and using the lean products of all three.

Dr. Lamb will answer representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Ask Dick Kleiner
Chest question stirs readers

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: I have a question which I and my friends wonder about. Is Dolly Parton's chest real or is it silicone? Please set our minds to rest. MRS. VADA, Bakersfield, Calif.

I put your valuable question directly to Dolly, her answer: "I don't know where I'd ever get that much plastic." Of course, that's a joke, not an answer, but that's what she said.

DEAR DICK: I'm 13 and I wonder why there are no westerns on TV. All that is on is violence and nasty junk and my parents don't like me watching that. Please tell me why no westerns. LYLE BOWERS, Cladwell, Ida.

Things on TV go in cycles and right how westerns are out. No sign of them coming back, either. But you and your parents can take heart -- it looks like "violence and nasty junk" are going out, too. Look for more escapist dramas and family-type shows.

DEAR DICK: Are Tom and Jack Jones the sons of Allan Jones? Or is either one his son? I remember Allan Jones so well singing songs like "Donkey Serenade." Neither Tom nor Jack can touch him. BILLIE HEFFNER, Williamsport, Md.

Jack is Allan's son; Tom is just one of the British Jones boys. I agree with you about Allan -- he was great!

DEAR DICK: My friends told me that ABC was going off the air. Is this true? DOUG OGILVIE, Vancouver, B.C., Canada.

Hardly. Your friends are twitting you. ABC going off the air is like McDonald's giving up hamburgers.

DEAR DICK: I have heard several rumors lately that the mother (Diana Hyland) on the new program Eight Is Enough recently died. If so, please give me the circumstances of her death. MRS. JUDY SCHWEIGERDT, Acampo, Calif.

It's true. The beautiful Diana recently died of cancer, just when things finally seemed to be going her way.

DEAR DICK: Please settle a difference of opinion in my family as to who starred in Alfred Hitchcock's "The Birds." My husband says it was Lee Remick. I feel it was Tippi Hedren. Who was it? MRS. D. DAVIS, Whitefish, Mont.

It was Tippi.

DEAR DICK: Me and my brother have a $50 bet. He says Eve Plumb -- the girl on the Brady Bunch -- got all hooked on drugs and I say she has another contract with a different show. Who's right? KEVEN CULLEN, Fairless Hills, Pa.

In the first place, don't bet. In the second place, you're both wrong, although you're closer. No drugs -- but Eve has no contract with any show at the moment. She's free-lancing, taking parts like her lead in the recent "Alexander -- The Other Side of Dawn."

DEAR DICK: Did Marlo Thomas ever make 8mm. pornography movies or any other sex films? B.J., Limerick, Pa.

No, not our Marlo. She's a good girl -- and, besides, she never needed the money.

DEAR DICK: What would TV be without Betty White? She seems to be on all the game shows. Is it because the programs are hard up for contestants? I get tired of seeing her on all my favorite programs and I'm thinking of trading my TV set for a deck of cards. EDWARD D. BAYLES, Tucson, Ariz.

It isn't as easy to be a game show personality as it looks. The producers audition many who just can't cut it. Betty has the knack and the public mostly likes her, so she is frequently used. Anyhow, with your luck, if you did get a deck of cards, the Queen of Hearts would look like Betty White.

DEAR DICK: I thought I read about the death of Marc Singer, but then I saw him as John Cappelletti on "Something For Joey." Was this the same actor? Is Marc Singer really dead? RONNIE HUTTO, Orangeburg, S.C.

Marc Singer -- the actor who played Cappelletti -- is very much alive. I don't know who you've mixed him up with, but obviously with somebody else. Maybe Marc Antony.

Dallas To Get New Center

DALLAS (AP) -- Two 25-story office towers and an ice arena will be included in a $100 million business and entertainment center that is expected to be completed in downtown Dallas in 1979.

The center, named Plaza of the Americas, will be a two million square foot multi-use structure featuring the office towers, a 442-room hotel, a 1,000-car parking garage, seven restaurants, retail shops and entertainment facilities, developers announced Thursday.

An athletic club complplete with tennis and handball courts, a swimming pool and jogging track will be built atop the parking garage.

"This is the latest and a major step in the quality growth of downtown Dallas and anther sign of the rich vitality of the region we live in," Dallas Mayor Robert Folsom said.

Toddie Lee Wynne, Jr., president of American Liberty Oil Company, and Clyde C. Jackson, Jr., managing partner and president of Plaza of the Americas, Inc., announced the plans at a Thursday news conference.

Plaza of the Americas will be built on a 5½ acre site bounded by Bryan Street and San Jacinto and will front on Pearl Blvd. in the northeast sector of the central business district. Construction will begin in the early autumn of 1977.

Fords Going To Vail Resort

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP)-Jerry and Betty Ford plan to spend a couple of months in their favorite mountain resort, Vail Colo., a spokesman for the former first family says.

The Fords are building a home at this plush desert resort community and are expected to move in by February.

They also have a condominium at Vail, and the Ford spokesman said the former president and his wife will probably leave for Colorado at the end of the month.

Mrs. Ford is "progressing very nicely" in treatment for a pinched nerve in her neck and for chronic arthritis, the spokesman added.

TOGETHERNESS

When one experiences togetherness with someone he loves, it is a deeply personal thing. At play, shopping, or reading in the same room, you are together.

A little boy put up a lemonade stand in our neighborhood this spring. He promised God he would share his profits with his church. His little placard simply said: "Lemonade, Inc. Me & God, Co-owners"

That's togetherness!

God put work and joy of togetherness in the same thought when He said, "We are laborers together with God." Cooperate with God, join hands with Him in all the ventures of your life—lemonade stand or gigantic industry—and the cobwebs of loneliness and the burdens of responsibility are both taken care of by your Partner. Let the business sign of your life read: "Me and God—co-owners." You can't beat that partnership!

Bob Hope Sets Tee-Off Time

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)-This time Bob Hope set the tee-off time for his golfing date with blind golfer Charley Beswell. It will be at 1:04 p.m. Saturday.

"He set it up for midnight."

Tax Cut May Be Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)-A tax cut may be among the tax reform proposal President Carter sends to Congress later this year, his chief economic adviser says.

Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, predicted Carter's tax reform proposals "will end up with a significant reduction in taxes."

Carter and his advisers previously have said a tax reduction would be considered as part of any reform proposals. But they have said no decisions have been made to actually propose tax cuts.

Schultze, testifying before the Joint Economic Committee, also maintained the administration could achieve its economic goals, despite the doubts of some committee members.

Schultze said the unemployment rate may drop below the 6¾ per cent target Carter previously set for this year. It now stands at 6.9 per cent.

The underlying inflation rate is about 6 per cent, he said, and consumer prices should return to that level later this year.

Plains Pastor To Hawaii

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) -- The Rev. Bruce Edwards, who stirred up his Baptist congregation in President Carter's home town last year when he tried to get it to allow blacks to become members, will minister to a Hawaii congregation.

The Rev. Mr. Edwards, who resigned his post here in February, said he will take a post with the Makakilo Baptist Church sometime in July.

Carter, who joined a Baptist church in Washington when he became President, supported Edwards' integration efforts.

The 30-year-old minister said he holds no grudges about his congregation's resistence to integration.

"That was something that happened, and we just try to make the best of it and go on," he said.

Dear Abby

Teen Needs Help in How to Say 'No'

By Abigail Van Buren

1977 by The Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 15-year-old girl with lots of friends, and my problem is that guys are always hassling me because I don't want to have sex. Some of my girl friends say if I don't do it before I'm 16, I'll wind up being a lesbian.

I can't say I'm afraid of getting pregnant because I could get the Pill or I could use some other method.

Please give me some reasons that they will listen to. Thank you.

HASSLED

DEAR HASSLED: What's wrong with the truth? Tell them you do not want to get into sex now. And please don't feel that you have to explain or make apologies for your decision. MANY girls your age and older choose NOT to indulge in sex because they feel ill-equipped to handle it emotionally. I say, good for them. The poorest reason for doing something is because you're afraid of what others might think. (P.S. And your friends who say, "If you don't have sex before you're 16, you'll wind up a lesbian" don't know what they're talking about.)

DEAR ABBY: I saw an ad in a New York newspaper that read as follows: "Marijuana cannot be sold through the mails, but 'grass' can. Send $5 for a full quarter-ounce."

I sent a $5 bill together with my name and address, and I received in return a quarter-ounce of LAWN CLIPPINGS!

This is clearly a fraudulent scheme. How can I get my money back?

"HAD": FIRE ISLAND

DEAR HAD: I think you would be wise to write it off as a "cheap lesson." Don't expect to find an honest dealer in a crooked deal.

DEAR ABBY: Our 14-year-old son is our problem. He has always been a good boy and a good student, but he is an introvert. He has no friends and claims he doesn't want any.

He is sarcastic and arrogant, shows no affection and seems to want none.

He could be very good-looking, but over the years he has gained so much weight he now refuses to weigh himself. He pretends he doesn't care how he looks, and he continues to grow fatter.

We have begged and bribed him, but he doesn't listen. He's an only child, and it's breaking my heart. Please help me.

DETROIT

DEAR DETROIT: An obese child is an unhappy child who is asking for help. He's built a wall of fat around himself to keep others from getting close enough to discover his imperfections (We all have them.) He needs professional help. Start with your family doctor, and don't put it off.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PLEASINGLY PLUMP AT THE BANK": Your normal weight at age 25 should be your weight for the rest of your life. How does that grab you?

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box, No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Panel Hearing Gulf's Request

By Lawrence L. Knutson
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Gulf Oil Corp. is trying to persuade House investigators to keep secret a nine-inch stack of documents allegedly proving the firm was at the center of an international cartel conspiring to boost uranium prices.

A company which builds nuclear power plants says that price-fixing activities of the alleged cartel helped drive the cost of uranium from $6 or $7 a pound in 1972 to $41 a pound.

A House subcommittee is holding a hearing today on Gulf's request that the documents be kept secret.

Gulf is being joined in its request by the government of Canada, which told the State Department that several documents are confidential records of the the Canadian Department of Energy, Mines and Resources.

Canada claims the papers are protected by the Official Secrets Act.

Last month Gulf lost a fight in U. S. District Court here to keep the documents out of the hands of the investigations unit of the House Commerce Committee.

The documents were then in the possession of the Westinghouse Electric Corp., a manufacturer of nuclear power plants. The firm has accused the alleged cartel of engineering a seven-fold increase in the price of uranium, which prevented it from meeting delivery contracts at agreed prices.

In a hearing before U.S. District Court Judge George Hart last May 5, Westinghouse attorney William Jentes said the documents are "nothing more than the minutes of these conspiratorial get-togethers of the producers...to fix the world price of uranium."

Although he was prevented from quoting from the documents, Jentes described them in some detail.

He said that in February 1972 major worldwide uranium producers met in Paris "to remedy this situation of over-supply and low prices."

He said the deal was made final at a meeting in Johannesburg, South Africa, in June 1972, when the producers "basically set a floor price for uranium which they thereafter, I might say, steadily raised."

Jentes gave these other details of the alleged scheme:

"They arrived at an elaborate allocation of the uranium market on a worldwide basis, they agreed to eliminate the competition of those that were not in the cartel arrangement, and that included Westinghouse.

"They arrived at an elaborate procedure to conceal their activities, and they set up an extremely elaborate enforcement machinery including a secretariat which kept elaborate minutes of what went on, and furthered it."

Volunteers Aid School For Deaf

NEW YORK (AP) -- More than 150 men and women volunteers are working as classroom assistants, in after-school recreational and cultural programs, as drivers and tour escorts and in offices at the Lexington School for the Deaf in the borough of Queens.

About half are undergraduate and graduate college students in special education and related fields, according to Elizabeth Kuhlman, director of volunteers. Others are women who live in the area, and retired people and adults who have experienced deafness in their families or elsewhere.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Give priority today to things that affect your own interests. This is the time to protect No. 1, because others probably won't.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your compassionate and charitable instincts are easily aroused today, but what makes it even nicer, you do good deeds without calling attention to them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The biggest kick you get today is doing things you enjoy with those you care for. There's not much happiness in being a loner.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today you may have to be more positive than your competitors. If so, don't hesitate to make yours the voice heard above the din.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Consider matters you're involved in not merely in the context of the immediate, but in their future effect. It helps to look ahead a little.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Joint ventures continue to look like your best avenue for gain at this time. If you have alliances of this nature, give them your attention first.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's possible the conclusions reached by your mate may be much more valid than yours today. Let him or her have the last word in important matters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The zeal you express in doing your job will inspire others to follow your example today. You'll pick up helpers by initiating the action.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though you may be tempted today to delegate authority in situations important to you, it would be unwise. The stakes are too high.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Familial interests should be your primary area of concern today. Other things may pull you in different directions, but recall: Home is where your heart is.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Govern your conduct by what you first feel is the right course of action today. Second or third thoughts could get you on the wrong road.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's likely that you're among the least selfish of the Sun signs, so don't feel bad today if you can turn a profit. You'll find a way to share it.

THE MOST EVIL MAN IN THE U.S.A.

A few notes on the evil he created

He found a quarter of a million "unemployables" who never could hold steady jobs.

He trained them and put them into work that pays money they never dreamed of earning before.

He's a businessman.

For poor kids who couldn't otherwise go to college, he took three hundred and fifty millions and saw to it that those who earned them got scholarships.

He gave eight hundred million to non-profit organizations for medical research, to help stamp out cancer and heart disease and a hundred other dread diseases of the world.

To build new housing for the poor and middle incomes in U. S. cities, he put up one billion and a quarter dollars, so more people can live in decency.

Sure, he's been a polluter -- as has everyone from the U. S. government to ordinary citizens. But last year he scraped up two and one half billions to fight pollution of air and water and nature. This year he plans to get up four billion more, to keep up the battle.

After that, he put up fifteen billion dollars in Social Security taxes to help provide support and medical care for senior citizens. And he added forty-one billion dollars in income taxes to help pay the bills of the U. S. A.

And all the while, he was contributing millions of hours of personal and business time to virtually every humanitarian cause you've ever heard of.

He's a businessman. The most evil man in the U. S. A.

Isn't it time somebody had a good word for this evil man who happens to do so much good for so many people?

We think so.
