U.N. Awaiting Word On Hungarian Relief

Passive Resistance Continues

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld awaited word from Communist Hungarian authorities today whether he will be permitted to lead a U. N. relief mission into the revolt-torn satellite.

Hammarskjöld confirmed last night that he had approached Hungarian Foreign Minister Imre Horvath on the question.

Hungary's Moscow-installed regime had rejected an Assembly proposal to send a team of observers to check on compliance with the Assembly's demand for withdrawal of Soviet forces and the holding of free elections. The Budapest government later agreed to let in relief supplies with U. N. representatives supervising the program on the spot.

Hammarskjöld delayed his departure for the Middle East to work on arrangements for the relief to Hungary. A spokesman said he would leave this afternoon.

The General Assembly overrode Soviet objections 62-9 last night and agreed to debate the Hungarian question. The delegates also voted to take up the issue directly without first clearing it through the Political Committee.

U. S. Deputy Delegate James J. Wadsworth said the United States believed the Assembly had not only the right but the duty to handle the Hungarian issue.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov and Horvath repeated the Communist assertion that Hungary's situation was strictly an internal affair and none of the U. N.'s business.

Various nations pushed relief donations for the Hungarians. U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. presented a check for a million dollars to Hammarskjöld.

In Budapest, passive resistance against Russia's puppet Hungarian government continued today throughout the battered nation. Speculation grew that Yugoslavia's President Tito may have to intervene to solve the stalemate.

Much of the revolution-wrecked country remained idle in the throes of a virtual general strike. Factories were crippled, workers stayed away from their jobs, transportation was broken down, food was desperately short, and Russian tanks remained on the streets.

Opposition to the Soviet-installed government of Premier Janos Kadar spread even to the regime's own newspaper, Szabad Nep.

Journalists and printers at the paper's printing shop joined the nationwide strike and refused to put out today's issue. The newspaper had been the only one printed in Budapest since Russian tanks rolled into the capital Nov. 4 and put the Kadar government in power.

Many middle-of-the-road Hungarian politicians looked to Tito as the only man who might solve the dilemma in which the Kadar government has been rendered impotent by the passive resistance of the rebellious Hungarians and even of diehard Communists.

The Yugoslav ambassador to Budapest went to Belgrade yesterday, while the former Hungarian Communist Premier brought to power briefly by the revolt, Imre Nagy, remained in refuge here in the Yugoslav Embassy.

Hungarian journalists, mainly Communist party members, adopted a resolution fully supporting the government Nagy formed Nov. 2 and which the Russians forced out two days later.

No More Mirrors

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—A fence will be built to shade the glass enclosed monkey house at Lincoln Park Zoo. Zoo officials said when the sun hits the house, the customers can see only their own reflection in the glass. And the monkeys presumably have a hard time seeing the people.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The prime ministers of India, Burma, Indonesia and Ceylon called in a joint communique today for the speedy withdrawal of Soviet forces from Hungary.

They also voiced "strong disapproval and distress at the aggression and intervention by the great powers against weaker countries" in the Middle East.

The communique was issued after a three-day conference convened at the suggestion of Indonesia to consider Israel's attack on Egypt and British-French operations in the Suez Canal Zone. The

BY RAILROAD

Hungarians Being Deported To East

VIENNA (AP)—Radio Budapest said today that Hungarians were being deported to the east in sealed railway cars by Russian troops trying to end the rebellion in Hungary and get the workers back to work.

The Budapest station, controlled by the Russian-imposed government of Premier Janos Kadar, made the surprising admission in a broadcast explaining why the general strike was continuing.

Reporting on the situation late today in Szolnok County, southeast of Budapest, the radio reported about 40 per cent of the workers had returned to work and that some rail traffic had started.

"But," the station added, "according to the latest reports prisoners have been transported to the east in locked railway cars and for that reason the railwaymen started to strike again."

The station added that various plants had been notified of the deportation of Hungarians and that "workers, therefore, now are leaving their jobs in increasing numbers."

Rumors that the Russians were rounding up rebellious youths for deportation have circulated on the Austrian border several days.

The Vienna newspaper Der Kurier quoted Hungarian refugees as reporting the Russians also have started deporting the wives and children of rebels in order to stamp out the last vestiges of the anti-Communist revolution.

The refugees, who crossed the Austrian border last night, said the deportations began simultaneously four days ago at Szolnok, Debrecen, Nyiregyhaza and Puskas.

In each place hundreds of women and their children were dragged into heavily guarded freight trains which afterward left in an easterly direction, they said.

Attempts of the insurgents to stop these trains broke down in heavy Russian fire, the refugees said. Some of the transports were reported to have left the country for the Soviet Union at the Zahony border check point.

Twin Accidentally Shot By Brother

Twin brothers were involved in the accidental shooting of one of the pair at 7:20 p.m. Tuesday.

According to Fred Taylor, deputy sheriff, Austin Ferguson, 16, fired a 22 calibre bullet into the back of his twin, Patrick Turner Ferguson.

Taylor said that the shooting was accidental. Austin was unloading the pistol, which had been made by sawing off the barrel and stock of a single-shot, bolt action .22 rifle — when the gun discharged.

Jimmy Clay, a companion, was a witness to the shooting and corroborated the story told the officer of the incident and its preliminaries.

The wounded youth was taken to Big Spring Hospital in a River Funeral Home ambulance. The bullet, Taylor reported, entered the middle of the boy's back and lodged between two ribs on the left side.

At the hospital it was reported that the wounded youth was not seriously hurt and was making satisfactory progress Thursday morning.

The twins are the sons of Jim Ferguson. Their address is Box 87, Route 2, Big Spring.

Civil War Veteran 114 Years Old Today

FRANKLIN, Tex. (AP)—Walter W. Williams, forage master in Hood's Texas Brigade who has seen the South outlive the North, turned 114 today.

His family canceled the usual celebration because of the illness of his second wife, 83. She is suffering from a heart ailment, hardening of the arteries and kidney trouble.

Williams, the nation's oldest living ex-soldier and one of three surviving Confederates, said he was sorry to hear last spring that the last Union Army veteran had died. But, he added, "it just goes to show what I've always said, the South is going to outlive the North."

Flowers from friends and relatives all over the nation poured in as the colorful old soldier celebrated his latest birthday in recent years.

Williams, who once said he wanted to live to be 125, has celebrated his birthdays lately with such things as an airplane ride, a trip to Houston, and the traditional gathering of relatives and well-wishers.

He shook off a siege of drowsy last August that had caused fears for his life.

Two weeks ago he put on his resplendent, gold-braided Confederate uniform to receive a gold medal awarded to all living Civil War veterans by the 84th Congress.

Uncle Walt, as he is known, has been confined to a wheel chair for several years and is blind and hard of hearing. His family says he spends most of his time sitting on the front porch of his daughter's farm home 14 miles east of here.

During his recent illness, Williams gave his secret for long life: "I get up for breakfast, turn around for dinner and go to bed after supper and fox hunt for exercise."

But the old veteran, who once hunted food so his men could go on fighting Yankees, had to give up his hunting several years ago and gave away his rifle.

House Panel Probes U. S. News Policies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House subcommittee on government information reviewed a special study of Defense Department news policies today while its chairman complained he had received no advance copies.

Chairman Moss (D-Calif.) said in an interview it would have been "much more helpful to the subcommittee" if copies of the study had been made available at least a day in advance. Moss and other subcommittee members got copies when the report was made public yesterday — toward the end of the first day of hearings by the House group.

A Pentagon-appointed advisory committee, headed by former Asst. Secretary of Defense Charles A. Coolidge, recommended among other things that when serious "leaks" of defense information occur and the military cannot discover the source, reporters be summoned before grand juries. Secretary of Defense Wilson, however, said he would have "serious reservations" about that.

The Coolidge committee also reported finding "no conscious attempt" by defense officials to withhold information which should be public. But it recommended further efforts to cure what it called defects in the system for determining what data should be kept secret. It said there is a "tendency to overclassify."

Moss said Wilson had formally accepted the report Monday. The subcommittee had asked for the findings, he added, and if these had been provided by that time, "it would have been evidence of cooperation."

The way the subcommittee finally was given the information, he said, "displays a lack of conscientious cooperation which is regrettable. It would be better if we had every cooperation."

The Coolidge committee recommended "stern disciplinary action" against any member of the Defense Department identified as a source of a security leak.

The committee said "the press is fully as loyal to the nation as any other segment of our population" and added there were instances of newsmen being beaten on a story when they voluntarily withheld it because of security considerations.

Suicide Blamed On Otto John

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP)—The Supreme Court was told today that a former U. S. intelligence official committed suicide because of the alleged defection of Dr. Otto John, former West German FBI chief, to the Communists.

John is on trial on a charge of treason.

The court heard the officer identified as Capt. Wolfgang E. Hoefler, a German-born agent of the U. S. Counterintelligence Service and a friend of John.

Fritz Wussow, a former liquor manufacturer and official of John's Office for the Protection of the Constitution, testified Hoefler indicated to him he planned to kill himself.

John is charged with leaking state secrets and denouncing three of his former officials to the Russians after crossing to East Berlin July 20, 1954.

He has denied all charges and said he was drugged and abducted. He returned last December and surrendered to West German authorities.

On the witness stand, Wussow, who had been John's driver at that time, quoted Hoefler, as saying the day after John's disappearance:

"If he has defected to East Berlin, I have to draw the consequences."

Shortly after that conversation Hoefler committed suicide, Wussow said.

U. S. authorities, on July 27, 1954, disclosed that the captain shot and killed himself one day after John's disappearance came to light.

isters had witnessed a celebration of Nehru's 67th birthday at the National Stadium.

At the time of his birthday, Nehru's foreign policy has come under more fire than at any time since India became free.

Newspapers, some government officials in private comment, and informed private citizens have widely attacked India's vote in the U. N. against a proposal which included withdrawal of Russian troops from Hungary. The critics said India's vote made it appear India was on the Communist side.

City-Air Force Talks On Utility Lines Sought

Attempts are being made to arrange a meeting of Air Force and City of Big Spring officials for next Tuesday for talks on water and sewer lines which will be necessary for the military housing project to be constructed southwest of Big Spring.

City commissioners discussed the water and sewer problem last night, and the matter also came up at the school board meeting. The school district is worried about provision of school facilities in the vicinity of the project, and has received permission to tap the housing area's water line — if one is ever constructed.

Construction is expected to begin not later than January, 1957, on the 400-unit housing project. That's according to Maj. L. W. Haberle, executive officer, Family Housing Division, Directorate of Facilities Support, the Air Force. He supplied the information in a letter to Supt. Floyd W. Parsons of Big Spring schools.

Polish Boss Seeks More Freedom

BERLIN (AP)—Poland's new Communist party boss, Wladyslaw Gomułka, left for Moscow today to negotiate for more Polish independence from Soviet control.

The departure was announced by the official East German news agency ADN, which quoted the Polish news agency PAP. It said he headed a delegation representing the Central Committee of the Polish Communist party and the Polish government.

The visit had been scheduled for last month, shortly after Gomułka returned to power and placed Poland on a "nationalist" course. But the departure was delayed by the crisis in Hungary.

As a prelude to Gomułka's departure, the Warsaw government announced a widespread cabinet shakeup, including the "resignation" of the Soviet consul for Poland, Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky. He had been deputy premier and defense minister.

More changes in the government were expected after Gomułka's return from the Soviet capital.

Rokossovsky, born in Warsaw but long regarded as the Kremlin's top representative in the Polish Communist leadership, was removed from the Polish Communist party Politburo Oct. 21. He was a chief target of demonstrations during the October unrest that resulted in the election of Wladyslaw Gomułka as head of Poland's Communist party.

Since being booted from the Politburo, Rokossovsky had officially been "on leave" from his defense minister and deputy premier posts. His removal had been expected.

Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz announced the resignation at the first televised session of the Polish Parliament. He said Gen. Marian Spychalski had been named to succeed the marshal.

Herbert Whitney, city manager, told the city commission Tuesday night that he had talked to Col. Charles M. Young, Webb commander, who said that he was trying to get men from Washington out here next Tuesday to talk to the city. He added that he was trying to get men who had the authority to make an agreement.

The trouble has been that the men sent out did not have authority to make an agreement, Whitney said. Five different groups, from Connelly AFB at Waco, Scott AFB in Illinois, and Washington, have talked to the city, but none

Cold Front Due In State

A Pacific cold front pushed rapidly toward Texas from the north-west Wednesday, bringing a threat of freezing weather and scattered thundershowers.

The front was due to reach the Panhandle Wednesday afternoon.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said it should stir up dust storms and thundershowers as it moves across the state. Freezing weather was forecast for the Panhandle Wednesday night.

Strong winds developed ahead of the front as it pushed through northwestern Texas. The Weather Bureau said thundershowers are likely ahead and along the front. The cold air mass was expected to be as far east as North Central and Central Texas Thursday morning.

Showers fell early Wednesday around Austin and Palacios. Rain fell for the 4 hours ended at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday included .02 of an inch at Wink; .01 at Austin and a trace at El Paso, Palacios, Big Spring and Galveston.

Alice reported the high temperature Tuesday, 88 degrees. It was 68 at Salt Flat.

Ike Says U.S. To Oppose Intervention

By The Associated Press

An Arab source in Moscow said today Egyptian ambassador Mohammed El Kony has been instructed by his government to request the immediate dispatch of Soviet "volunteers" to Egypt.

The Soviet government has said it would permit Soviet citizens who volunteered for service to the Middle East to go there if their presence was requested. It was taken for granted the Kremlin would put no obstacles in the way of the volunteers' departure.

El Kony said this week more than 50,000 Soviet citizens had applied for permission to fight for Egypt.

(President Eisenhower said today the United States would oppose — probably through the United Nations — any intervention in Egypt by Soviet or Communist volunteers. He said the nature of the U. S. opposition would be determined by specific circumstances.)

The report that Egypt is now asking for Soviet volunteers came as U. N. police units marked time at their assembly base in Italy before going on to the Suez Canal zone to patrol a cease-fire.

Egypt has been demanding immediate departure of all Israeli and French-British troops from Egypt, and insisting that the U. N. police army have no part in control of the Suez Canal. This has run counter to the stated intentions of the Israelis and the British and French.

A week ago, the White House issued a statement saying that the introduction of any new armed forces into Egypt "would violate the U. N. charter, and it would be the duty of all U. N. members, including the United States, to oppose any such effort."

In the light of that statement Eisenhower was asked today what form U. S. opposition would take under such circumstances.

He replied it was impossible for him to say at this point.

Then he commented that the U. N. is not restricted, as he put it, to adoption of resolutions.

Eisenhower said this country certainly would lend support to any U. N. action. It was at this point that he added that the action need not be restricted to adoption of resolutions.

The President said there was one case in which the U. N. did more than pass a resolution. Although he did not say so, Eisenhower presumably was referring to U. N. intervention in Korea.

Reports that Egyptian President Nasser would decline to allow U. N. police troops to remain in Egypt, except on the 1949 Israeli-Egyptian armistice line, and then only so long as Egypt should decide, had been interpreted by Western sources in Moscow as bringing the possibility that Soviet "volunteers" would pour into the Middle East.

Thus could be starting a situation something like Korea when Red China's "volunteers" went to the relief of north Korea's Communist regime.

"If Nasser won't permit the U. N. to take over the canal zone it's unlikely the British and French forces will pull out," one Western diplomatic source said last night.

POWER WHEEL GETS REVENGE

WACO (AP)—Waco City Secretary Otis Dehay started across an intersection when a truck bumped the rear fender of his car. It did little damage, but jarred Dehay sideways. He accidentally gave the steering wheel a twist, the power steering took over, and the car swung in a circle around a highway sign and banged into the side of the truck, smashing the car's radiator.

Dehay reported the high temperature Tuesday, 88 degrees. It was 68 at Salt Flat.

Another Case Of Rabies Diagnosed

The second case of rabies in less than a month has been diagnosed here, and health authorities and veterinarians are issuing new warnings to beware of strange or suspicious animals.

Second case of the disease was found in a cow from the herd of Alvin and Elmer Lay north of Sand Springs. The animal's head was sent to Austin for examination after she died under suspicious circumstances.

The report came back Tuesday. The cow was a victim of rabies. She was probably the third victim of rabies here in the last four weeks. A calf from the Lay herd died recently and it displayed the same symptoms as the cow, according to Dr. Akin Simpson.

Dr. Simpson sent the cow's head to the State Health Department laboratories for examination. He had suspected rabies because of her behavior.

First case of rabies diagnosed here in recent years was reported Oct. 16. Dr. H. F. Schwarzenbach sent a dog's head for examination after that animal died of symptoms similar to rabies. The dog was owned by Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Wallace, 1801 Donley, who said they knew of no one the animal had bitten. However, Dr. Robert A. Hale, director of the Big Spring-Howard County Health Unit, recommended that 20 persons take anti-rabies injections because they had been in contact with the dog.

The rabies serum, injected before symptoms of the disease develop, is the only means of combating the condition which results in death in almost 100 per cent of cases.

Any "warm blooded" animal, including humans, can be infected with rabies which is usually transmitted by teeth or claws of a rabid animal.

In addition to their warnings against association with strange animals, the veterinarians here urged dog owners to have their animals vaccinated against the disease.

And Jesus answered him, The first of all the commandments is, Hear, O Israel; The Lord our God is one Lord: And thou shalt love the LORD thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandment. (St. Mark 12:29-30)

Many Happy Returns Of The Day

Mamie Eisenhower, who doesn't mind being called Mamie — after all, Dolly Madison delighted in being called by her given name — reached the age of 60 today. Actuarial records show that the life expectancy for white women at 60 is almost 20 years, so Mamie can look forward to a prospective ripe old age.

Her predecessors as a presidential wife lived on an average of 66 years, but that average was lowered by the several First Ladies who died young. Martha Jefferson died at 35, Hannah van Buren before 40, and the first Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt before she was 25.

Four former mistresses of the White House are still with us. Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Harry Truman are both in their early 70s. Mrs. Coolidge is in her late 70s, and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson is in her 80s.

Altogether 28 presidential wives celebrated their 60th birthdays, as Mamie Eisenhower is doing, and 16 of them celebrated their 70th. The other 11 went on to celebrate their 80th birthdays, including the nonpareil of charm and beauty, Dolly Madison, who fled the White House just before the British applied a torch to it.

Five of the presidential wives went beyond 85 — Mrs. William H. Harrison, Sarah Polk, Lucretia Garfield, the second Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, and the second Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt.

The nation, without regard to politics, will wish Mamie many more years of health and happiness.

Winter Tips For Living Longer

The customary heavy run of fatal winter fires is beginning to yield shocking headlines. Over the past weekend an apartment house fire in Cincinnati claimed eight lives, seven of them children. Many others have been reported since summer turned to fall; alas, still more will be recorded as the winter approaches and intensifies.

There are many hazards peculiar to the winter season from fires and suffocation.

We are warned against deadly carbon monoxide, called "a wolf in sheep's clothing," since you can't see it or smell it or feel it. Motorists are advised never to go to sleep in a standing vehicle with the motor running; keep fresh air constantly circulating in the car while driving, and check on any motor fumes you might smell.

To these might be added: don't start and "warm up" your motor in the garage with the door closed; don't place sleeping children on the back floor or back seat of the car unless you're sure there is ample ventilation.

In the home, never go to sleep with the furnace or stove on without raising a window to provide ventilation. Be careful when bathing on a cold day if your bathroom is shut up tight and a gas stove is burning.

That's because of the danger of carbon monoxide, which is caused by an incomplete combustion of carbon.

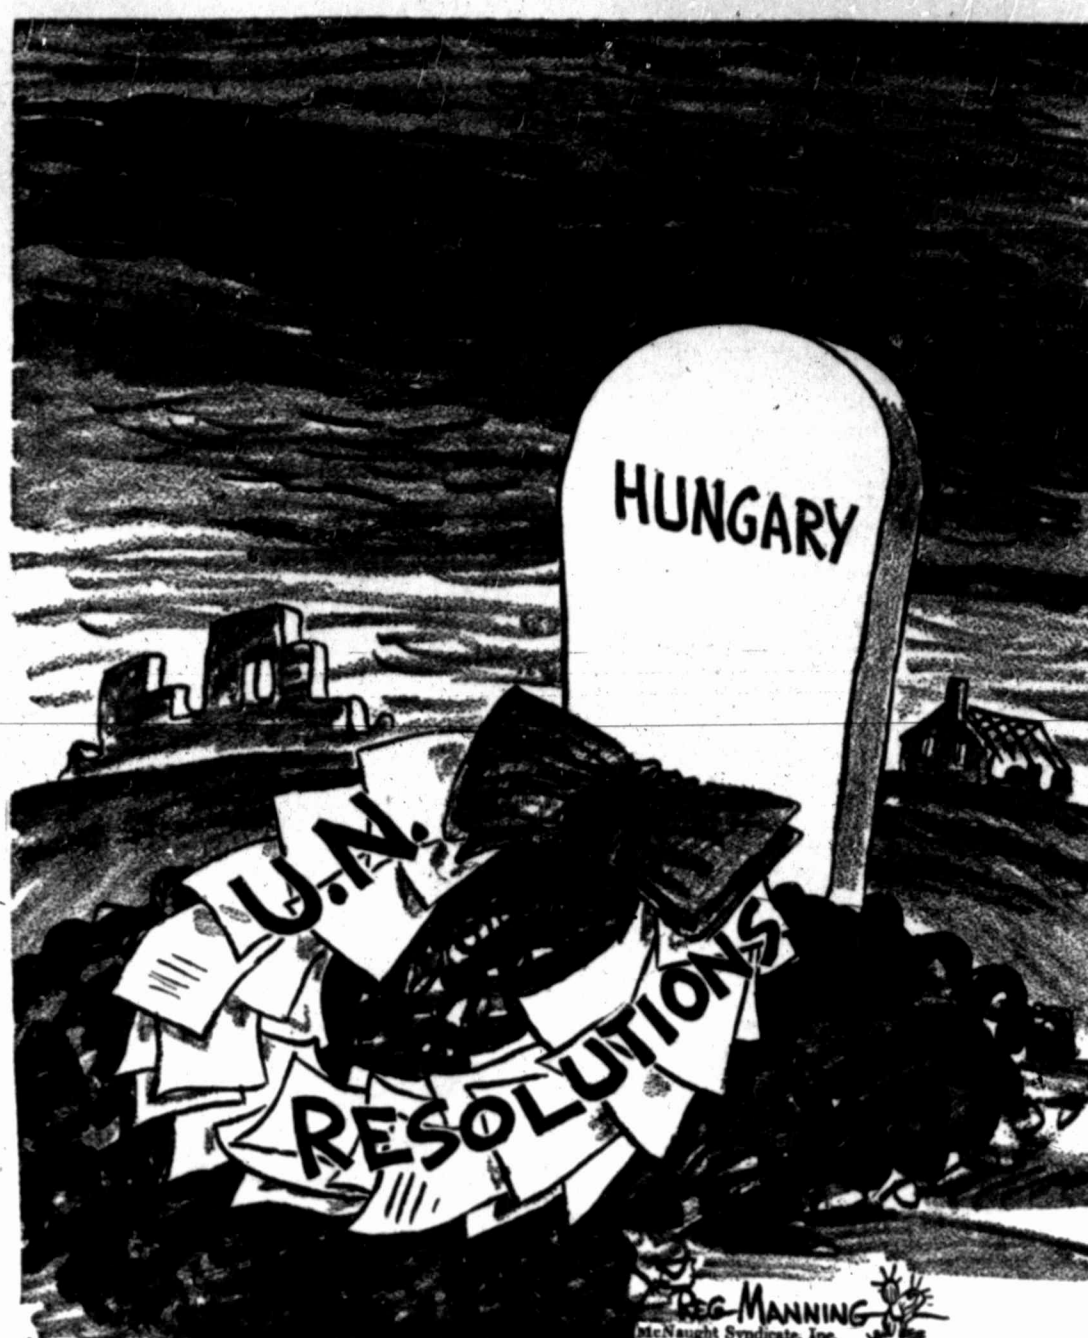

Be sure all your gas connections are tight and secure. If you must use rubber hoses, watch them carefully; better throw them away and use copper tubing to be safe. Just plain heating and illuminating gas can cause death from suffocation or explosion. It is a wonderful fuel, but you can't be careless with it. The same goes double for other forms of gas.

Keep your premises clean of rubbish; don't store oil mops or rags in closets. Spontaneous combustion is a frequent source of fatal fires.

Be sure your household electric circuits aren't overloaded — a problem more than ever dangerous in the wintertime when more lights are burned for longer periods of time. An overloaded wire becomes a hot wire — literally — and if a wire gets hot enough it sets off a blaze.

For many people winter is the pleasantest time of year, but it is a good idea to remember that hazards to life are intensified — even in highway and street traffic.

Don't take chances with your life and the lives of others.

Funeral Wreath

James Marlow Supreme Court's Path Is Plain

WASHINGTON (AP)—There can be no doubt now where the Supreme Court is going, whether or not the South likes it, protests it or defies it.

It is going straight down the line in banning racial segregation in all fields of American life which involve public utilities, like buses, or the use of tax money, like public schools.

The court has banned segregation in public schools, in public swimming pools, parks and golf links; and on buses which cross state lines. And yesterday it extended its ban to buses which operate entirely within a state.

Whether the nine justices will go so far as to outlaw segregation in privately owned enterprises which cater to the public — like a restaurant — is something for the future to show. They face no such decision soon.

Nor are they likely to. For Negroes, fighting segregation, will have their hands full for some time trying to get racial discrimination ended in the various areas where tax money is used.

The court no doubt — judging from the consistency of its opinions, although a test case hasn't reached it yet — will in time ban segregation in public housing.

By the same reasoning the court may eventually extend the ban to any housing development built with government loans or financing since that money comes from tax revenue.

And, since the court has banned segregation on buses which operate within a state or cross state lines, it can hardly avoid — when confronted with a test — banning segregation on all railroad trains, whether or not they cross state lines.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, undoubtedly taking its cue from recent court decisions, ordered railroads and bus companies last Nov. 25 to end segregation in interstate travel and banned segregation in waiting rooms.

But 13 states have laws requiring segregation of whites and Negroes who intend to travel across state lines. The ICC ruling does not invalidate these laws in so far as travel within a state is concerned. This mixes up the picture.

A test of the ICC ruling will have to go before the Supreme Court for a final ruling and clarification.

Yesterday's decision — which knocked out segregation on buses in Montgomery, Ala. — set the precedent for all buses everywhere, within every state. The other Southern states will not comply immediately, of course, any more than they did in desegregating their schools.

They will fight individually but in the end, in view of the court's position, they cannot win. The most they can do, unless the American government breaks down, is to delay compliance.

All He Wants For Christmas Is 2 Good Eyes

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Many children going to school today are thinking of what they'll get for Christmas. All 12-year-old Joey Fillar wants is to be able to see like other kids.

Joey won't get his wish this year. But he may get it by Christmas 1957.

He lives at nearby Wilmerding with his widowed mother, a brother and two sisters. Each morning before attending classes at St. Leocadia's Roman Catholic School, he goes to Mass and says a prayer that his operation will "come out okay."

Joey's sort of a frail boy and he's shy. But he's not nearly so shy as he was a year ago when a Lions Club in his community became interested in him, saw to it that he had the finest pair of glasses obtainable and then arranged special eye treatment.

Mrs. Mary Fillar, Joey's mother, said the outlook wasn't good for Joey until the Lions Club came to the family's aid. Her husband died last February after being bedridden five years by arthritis. Joey's right eye was injured at birth. His eyelid sagged pathetically and for years, especially after starting to school, he endured the stares of the curious.

Around The Rim Pickles Couldn't Bear To Say Goodbye

After nearly 15 years on Dixie Street, our family has been transplanted across town in the rolling terrain of Western Hills. The move was accomplished in less than a day.

Actually, it wasn't as simple as that. In 15 years you sink some roots mighty deep; you get to know your neighbors intimately and love them dearly. You manage to invest some blood and sweat and hide in the gradual change of your premises.

But most of all you build a lot of memories. While they may be like flowers out of their habitat, you can take them silently with you.

It seems such a little while ago that we acquired the house at 18th and Dixie. Tommy was just a toddler then, and even before we were able to occupy the house, we set about trying to level and back yard, to transplant a hefty walnut tree that had ceased to be a pleasant sapling at the backdoor. Later we planted a garden — and it did marvelously well, too. When Johnny Johansen went away to war, he gave us some grapevines which have grown to cover an arbor in profusion.

The little switches of fruit trees have grown to considerable proportions, and we have lived to observe with pride that no other fruit is quite so delicious. The border plants have grown and spread and the twin walnut sprouts Mama bound up to get out of the way turned out to be a big tree. Gradually, the back yard with big holes turned into a back yard.

The family grew. Gary came and years later Paul David, who almost instantly became Wiggy. After Mama's parents died, our home became a sort of gathering point for the family. These became times of joy — and of sorrow.

We watched the neighborhood grow. At first there were the Harringtons across the street, and later the McDonalds to the south. Then Chick and Faye Baird built their house: Wacil McNair built adjacent to us and later the Wayland Yates' took over the burden of living next door. Grammy Glenn moved in to the north and later Bob Whipple to the south, and Dixie Street became "Herald Row." There were the Salts, the Adams, the McElraths, the Walls, the Adams, the Koutzes. Face-tiously, we dreamed up the Dixie Street Improvement League.

On some occasions, the neighborhood would drift over to the front lawn and just sit and talk. We loved to recall how we poured our concrete driveways after paving had been laid — and how, when the street was torn up, that was the winter that it rained, and snowed and rained until we couldn't get in or out. There was serious talk; there was laughter, especially when the Bairds' black Cocker, Sambo, indignantly mistook my back for a fireplace.

Once we called Cecil McDonald at 3 a.m. to "surrender"; he had killed a skunk upwind at that unearthly hour. During the war years Herald employees tried to raise a garden next door; it failed, and colleagues accused me of getting my lot cleared.

Yes there are a lot of memories such as Mother Baird offering to pray for Gary's Soap Box Derby coaster, and then hobbling across to explain that maybe she hadn't cut to bother the Lord with such small matters. Or like the night we worried so when little Terry McNair's fever got to 105. Or the ritual of stuffing and sewing Matt Harrington's turkey and listening to the Christmas Carol.

We didn't tell anybody goodbye when we moved; we couldn't face it.

Finland Stands On Razor's Edge

With your kind permission, I would like to have the floor today for a few kind words for Finland.

It seems odd that this small, sturdy nation of four million persons, who electrified the free world by standing up to the Russian colossus in 1939-40, should need understanding friends today.

But she does, for harsh words have been spoken and written about Finland since she abstained in the United Nations' General Assembly from voting to condemn Russian aggression in Hungary. This left one of the most truly democratic nations on earth in the uneasy company of the Arab bloc.

So, let's look at the record. During the first winter of the Second World War, there were a few illusory and inspiring months when it seemed possible that a democratic David could lick the Soviet Goliath.

In the end, the giant won. But, in the interim, the world saw in Finland — as it has just seen in Hungary — what men can and will endure to remain free. In death and destruction, Finland paid a fearful price, even as Hungary.

Somehow, she managed to preserve her national identity, although burdened by a tremendous ($300,000,000) indemnity and deprived of Porkkala, Karelia and her rich nickel mines.

By chance, I was in Finland 14 months ago when the Russians returned Porkkala to its rightful owners. The return followed a visit of Finland's then president, Juho Paasikivi, to Moscow, to which the Kremlin had summoned him. The Finns were terrified that the Russian summons of Paasikivi meant new Russian demands.

"We live always on the razor's edge," many Finns told me at that time. "There is no certainty or security for us. We know now from experience that the willingness of a nation of 4,000,000 to fight and die is not enough against a nation of 200,000,000."

"We are conscious always that Big Brother is watching us, like a cat with a mouse. We are glad that Porkkala is again ours. But we are not deceived. The Russians no longer need it as a base. Modern war has outmoded it. But if they should ever need it again, we do not fool ourselves. They will take it."

The razor's edge is not a comfortable place for permanent residency, but that's where the Finns live. They have been members of the United Nations scarcely a year. Many foresaw their difficulties in that international body. Many Finns were opposed to membership.

"We do not dare take sides," their arguments ran. "We must maintain our balance on the edge of the razor or perish. We can never openly follow our hearts and our convictions, and continue to exist."

This deeply democratic, gallant people walked the razor's edge of the other day, and found itself in the company of strange bedfellows. But who, searching his conscience and the Finn's position, can cast a stone?

Walter Lippmann Firm Notice From The Russians

It is not yet clear whether the Soviet notes to Britain and France were in fact what they seem to be — a threat of Soviet intervention in the Middle East. They contained the sentence which, as broadcast by Moscow, says that "We are fully determined to crush the aggressors and restore peace in the East through the use of force." And this sounds as if "we" — namely the Soviet government — were fully determined etc. etc. If this were what the notes meant, they would in fact be an ultimatum, though without a time limit, threatening war against France, Britain and Israel.

However, when the notes were given out for publication, the official spokesman of the Soviet Foreign Office in Moscow said in answer to questions from the correspondents of the New York Herald Tribune and of "The New York Times" that the "we" referred to the United Nations. This would seem to mean that the Soviet government will intervene with force in the Middle East if the United Nations authorize it. The United Nations has not authorized it.

The two interpretations are as far apart as night and day, and it looks very much as if the Soviet government had intended it to be that way. It looks as if they had meant to give the appearance of an ultimatum for its popular effect and yet not to make a commitment which could not fail to precipitate a world war. For there can be no real doubt in anyone's mind in the Kremlin that if Russia tried to "crush" our allies, Russia would have to deal with us.

We are not, however, entitled, I think, to conclude complacently from this that the big words of the Soviet threat can be discounted as sheer bluff. The basic fact is that in both of the two crises of recent weeks — the East European and the Middle Eastern — there has been a deep challenge to the vital interests of the Russian empire. Had the Hungarian rebellion succeeded, and had it spread by the contagion of its example, the satellite orbit would almost surely have been not Titoist and neutral but anti-Communist and anti-Russian. Had the British and the French succeeded in knocking out Nasser, they would have knocked out the center of Soviet influence in the Middle East.

Eastern Europe has for more than two centuries been in Russian eyes of vital interest to them. The Middle East has for at least a century been an object of Russian imperial ambition. Under Stalin — Hitler started — the Russian imperial power became the master of all of Eastern Europe. Under Stalin's successors, Russia has for the first time in our history succeeded in winning a place of power in the Middle East.

In the past few weeks the whole post-war gains of Russia have been put in jeopardy, and for the past week Moscow has been reacting violently to this situation.

There are ominous signs, though they are no more than signs, that the men who are now top-dog in the Kremlin may not stop at the subjection of Hungary. There is less promise than there was a few weeks ago of a stabilization of Russian intentions about Poland. There are storm warnings which cannot safely be ignored. We should take great precautions. We should use strong measures against propaganda from our side of the Iron Curtain which could be treated by the Soviets as a provocation or as a pretext for intervention. And we should do all that we can to keep on reassuring Moscow that they have nothing to fear for their security in Gomulka's Poland.

In the Middle East the Soviet government will, we may be sure, find ways to intervene, short of the kind of intervention which would precipitate a world war. They will be using the crisis to expand their influence in the Arab states and with his followers in the other Arab states. The notes addressed to Britain and France on Monday may not have been, were probably not, an ultimatum in the full meaning of the word. But they are on notice that the Soviet Union means to act in the Middle East, and that its aim is to be the dominant power in the settlement.

Banks Reap Reward

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Public Museum picked up a little cash when it staged an exhibit of five small mechanical banks at a new savings and loan company office.

After the exhibit closed it was discovered people had dropped pennies into all of the banks to watch them work.

Total take was 16 cents.

Lost And Found

TRUMANN, Ark. (AP)—Milford Davis could not find his automobile. He reported the car stolen.

Later that day Davis met auto dealer Bill Kinard and told him of the theft.

"Why your car is at my place," Kinard said. "You told me a couple of days ago to pick it up this morning and do some work on it."

Vote Canvass Is Completed

Official canvass of the general election vote cast last week was completed Tuesday afternoon by the Howard County Commissioners Court.

Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, said that no material revision in previously announced election results developed from the recheck of the votes.

In a few races, the totals were changed by a half dozen or so votes but none of the corrections were important enough to affect the overall results.

Commissioners will be called upon next week to make another canvass of votes — this time the matter being the election of Tuesday of this week on an amendment to the state constitution.

Warren Rites Set For Today

Brief rites were to be said at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday for J. A. Warren, 52, who died suddenly Tuesday in Andrews from a heart attack.

Mr. Warren, rig builder for Marks Construction Company, had made his home here for the past three years.

After services conducted at the Nalley-Pickle Chapel by the Rev. Jack Power, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church, the remains will be sent to Henderson. There services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in the West Main Baptist Church with the Rev. L. L. Pruitt officiating, assisted by the Rev. Power. Burial will be in the Henderson Cemetery.

Mr. Warren leaves his wife; two sons, Richard Warren, Big Spring, and Donald Warren, Washington state.

Vandals Smash $100 Window

Vandals heaved a rock through a window at R&H Hardware Tuesday night, causing about $100 damage.

Police investigators said that they checked the stock with owners and found nothing missing. The officers thought it was just an act of vandalism and not an attempt to burglarize the store.

The $100 estimate of damage was made by the store.

City Employees To Get Long Holiday For Christmas

City employees were granted two working days off for Christmas by the commission Tuesday night.

Mayor G. W. Dabney asked that the employees be given from Saturday noon until Wednesday morning off — with the exception of the fire and police departments (emergency workers) — for Christmas.

He said that since Christmas fell on Tuesday this year, very little city business would be transacted on Christmas eve Monday, and by giving Monday off, the employees would have three and a half days off at a stretch.

He felt that this was much better than a day and a half off, a day of work, and then Christmas off.

Commissioners agreed and voted to give the time off.

Felony Theft Complaints Filed

Three complaints charging as many defendants with theft of over $50 have been filed by the district attorney's office in the court of Walter Grice, justice of the peace.

Named in the complaints are Fraylon F. Lopez, Manuel Marquez and Richard Marquez.

Individual complaints are drawn in the cases but it was said by Guilford Jones, district attorney, that all three men are involved in the same incident. They are accused of stealing batteries and other property from James Webb.

Reaction Varied In Segregation Ruling

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—"We were badly treated on the buses but now they've given us justice."

That was the reaction of one Montgomery Negro woman to the U. S. Supreme Court's decision yesterday that bus segregation is unconstitutional. The woman, Mrs. Susie McDonald, and three other Negro women brought the suit that broke city and state bus segregation laws.

White officials across the South took a strong stand directly opposed to hers.

Leaders of the 11-month-old bus boycott in Montgomery indicated the decision would bring the protest to an end, its purpose now removed.

Calling the decision "a glorious daybreak," the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. said "everyone was very happy" at a meeting of boycott leaders last night.

The governors of Mississippi and Georgia, U.S. and state senators, a state attorney general and other officials were among those sharply criticizing the decision.

The Montgomery City Commission, named in the suit, had no immediate comment. Alabama's Atty. Gen. John Patterson, who had filed an appeal to the Supreme Court of a special three-judge federal panel, was not available for comment.

President Jack Owen of the Alabama Public Service Commission said that "to keep down violence and bloodshed, segregation must be maintained."

A caravan of about 40 cars loaded with Ku Klux Klan members toured Negro residential areas of Montgomery last night, horns blowing, but police said they had no reports of violence.

Gov. J. P. Coleman of Mississippi said that his state's segregation laws "are not involved" in the decision and would still be enforced.

The senior judge on the special panel, Richard T. Rives of the 5th U.S. Circuit in New Orleans, said the Supreme Court's upholding the panel would set a precedent for other cases.

Alabama's senior senator, Lister Hill, said "every lawful means to set aside the ruling" should be used.

Herman Talmadge, senator-elect of Georgia, called again for congressional limitation of the Supreme Court's power.

Georgia's Gov. Marvin Griffin said his state would oppose application of the decision by all legal means.

Jurors to try a civil damage suit were being selected in 118th District Court Wednesday morning.

A jury panel had been excused last Monday with instructions to report back to court Wednesday morning.

On trial today is the case of Wallace Carr versus Edmund Burke. The litigation grew out of a car accident in the 200 block of Scurry Street. The petition recites that the accident occurred on May 5 of this year. The plaintiff asks that he be awarded $31,000 damages.

It was said at the court house that trial of this matter would be rather lengthy. Several other cases are set for trial this week if time permits.

Judge Charlie Sullivan is presiding.

Huge Crop Of Oats Produced Each Year

By RAMON COFFMAN

Many magazine and newspaper accounts appear about wheat and Indian corn, but it is somewhat rare to read of oats anywhere except in farm publications. Oats, nevertheless, rank among the important grains of the world.

Q. How large is the world's crop of oats?

A. About four and a half billion bushels each year, or enough to provide almost two bushels for every man, woman and child on earth.

A large part of the oat crop goes for livestock. People also eat a vast amount in the form of oatmeal. Proteins make up one sixth of the food value of this popular breakfast cereal.

Q. Which are the leading countries in the production of oats?

A. The United States, Russia, Canada and France. Other strong producers are Germany, Great Britain, Poland and Argentina.

Saskatchewan leads all Canadian provinces in the production of oats. Alberta, Ontario and Manitoba also have heavy crops.

The leading American "oats states" are Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Q. What was the original home of oats?

A. This grain is believed to have grown first in Asia, but there are indications that oats were raised in northern Europe during the Bronze Age.

Crops of oats are gathered in many parts of the world, but they do better in a northern than in a southern climate. The first crop in Oats on the plant.

Great Britain appears to have been raised only seven centuries ago.

Q. How many kinds of oats are grown?

A. About 100. They go under various names in Great Britain, Canada, the United States and elsewhere. They are white oats, gray oats, yellow oats and red oats. The varieties of "open-headed" oats include gray winter, black winter, sandy black bell, aurora and golden rain.

Conflicting Stories Told In Shrimp Boat Shooting

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP)—Mexican coast guardsmen and Texas shrimp fishermen tell conflicting stories of the latest shooting incident in the Gulf of Mexico. The Mexicans charge the Texans with fishing in their territorial waters; the Texans deny it.

Capt. Tom Wilson of the shrimp boat Pescadora, wounded by rifle fire from a Mexican cutter in the fracas Monday, was reported in good condition in a hospital here. He may be flown home to Brownsville, Tex., today.

U. S. Consul George D. Whittinghill said Wilson suffered "a light wound" and would be "up and around in a few days."

A formal hearing will be held today to determine if the Pescadora and its two other crewmen should be seized and tried or released immediately.

Mexican officials did not seem inclined to push the case too far. An informed official source said he believed the boat and crew would be released without charges and without loss of their catch.

The Pescadora was escorted into Tampico yesterday by the Mexican coast guard boat G28, which fired on the shrimp Monday night off the Mexican coast.

The Mexican coast guard version of the incident was that the Pescadora, out of Brownsville, was fishing inside the nine-mile limit Mexico sets on her territorial waters and tried to escape when ordered to halt. After a third warning, the Mexican cutter said it opened fire, wounding Wilson.

The Pescadora crew said they were well outside Mexico's nine-mile limit and trying to move farther out when the G28 opened fire.

Mrs. McDaniel's Rites Scheduled

Funeral for Mrs. C. H. McDaniel Sr., 86, who died here Tuesday, will be held at 3 p.m. Thursday at the First Presbyterian Church. Her pastor, Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, will officiate, and interment will be in Trinity Memorial Park beside the grave of her husband, C. H. McDaniel, who died in 1951. The John A. Kee Rebekahs will conduct graveside rites. Arrangements will be in charge of Nalley-Pickel Funeral Home.

Mrs. McDaniel had been a resident of Big Spring since 1922. Surviving her are one daughter, Mrs. W. W. Moerser, Big Spring; four sons, Ollie McDaniel and C. H. (Hank) McDaniel Jr., Big Spring; Boyd J. McDaniel, Abilene, and Otis McDaniel, Dallas.

Palbearers will be Dewey Martin, Lloyd Brooks, Truett Thomas, J. N. Young, James Lamar, H. W. Whitney, Lee Porter and Joe Pickel.

Deputy Goes For Sinton Prisoner

Fred Taylor, deputy sheriff, is en route to Sinton to take custody of Morris Harrell, arrested in that city on orders of Howard County. Harrell, according to Sheriff Jesse Slaughter, is wanted in Big Spring to answer charges of car theft.

Youth Ordered To Gatesville

Juvenile Judge R. H. Weaver Tuesday ordered a 16-year-old Latin-American youth taken to the state training school for boys at Gatesville.

The youth, who had been under probation in Howard County for the past year, was arrested recently in Glasscock County.

He was alleged to have stolen a number of batteries and other equipment from an irrigation project. Glasscock County authorities surrendered him to A. E. Long, county juvenile officer.

Judge Weaver heard the evidence and ordered the probation revoked and the boy sent to Gatesville.

Editors Told Hungary Proves Maxim Of 'Blood For Freedom'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 23rd annual meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. was told today that the Hungarian revolt has emphasized a maxim that "once you lose freedom, you regain it only through bloodshed."

In an address prepared for the convening session in historic Congress Hall, APME President V.M. Newton Jr. of the Tampa (Fla.) Tribune said this "was driven home to all of us three weeks ago as the Hungarians shedding the blood of thousands of lives on the altar of liberty, cried out for freedom of speech and freedom of the press as they rebelled against their Russian masters."

Newton said that in the United States the greatest current struggle involves what he described as efforts by government agencies to withhold from the press the facts and figures of their "inner workings."

He said that this year the representatives of all 19 government executive agencies called before the congressional committee on government information "admitted that they freely withheld news of government from the people, and several testified that they had the 'inherent' right to do this."

"When a free people bestow freedom upon its press," Newton said, "they also bestow the obligation and responsibility of printing all facts of free government at the time and not after the fact, when too often in history it has been too late."

Mason Walsh of the Dallas Times Herald, chairman of the APME Freedom of Information Committee, said in a prepared address that "a few champions" have played a major role in battling all efforts to curtail freedom of the press in this country.

"The evil day of reckoning, when the press — and consequently the people, no longer are free would have arrived long before now," he said, "if it hadn't been for the existence of a relatively few stalwart fighters for freedom."

"This fight for freedom of information, this battle for the people's right to know, is a contest that all of us must share in, a crusade that all of us must actively support."

"That's the way it stands today. The victory was hollow," Fred W. Stein of the Binghamton (N.Y.) Press cited the Youth Court Act passed by the 1956 session of the New York State Legislature. This measure, to become effective Feb. 1, would allow a court to deal in secrecy with any first offender under 21, charged with any crime other than kidnapping or murder.

The months remaining before the law's effective date, Stein said, "have given us time to tell the public of its many inherent evils."

"It has always seemed to me that one of our fundamental duties as newspapermen is to expose rotten legislation, and here we failed to do this until after legislation had passed into law."

"We owe no greater duty to the public than to do our utmost to crush any movement whose aim it is to clamp the lid of secrecy on the public's business."

200,000 Par. Amendment To Aid Disabled In Texas

By The Associated Press

An estimated 200,000 Texans straggled to the polls Tuesday to approve a Constitutional amendment granting financial aid to the permanently disabled.

The balloting, held a week after the general election because of a Legislative error, cost an estimated $200,000.

Some 1,940,000 voted last week. The Election Bureau said in its last unofficial count at midnight returns from 169 out of 254 counties, including 51 complete, showed 106,216 for and 13,352 against.

The next total was due at noon Wednesday.

Nine counties, Bee, Bell, Ellis, Freestone, Grimes, Sabine, Stone-wall and Walker, did not hold an election Tuesday. Freestone County commissioners voted not to ballot because of a lack of funds. Brazos County voted on the amendment last week, passing it 5,706 to 711.

Tarrant County voters approved the amendment 5,151 to 1,690, but rejected a proposal for an $800,000 bond issue to provide voting machines 5,953 against to 1,675 for.

The Brazos County commissioners tacked the aid to disabled amendment onto eight others approved last week. The commissioners said the county couldn't stand the expense of another election. Whether the vote was legal is unsettled.

The Legislative Act calling for the vote said it would be held on the "second Tuesday in November." It should have read the "first Tuesday after the first Monday."

Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont introduced the proposal.

Action Put Off On Tax Survey, Jr. High School

Action was postponed last night on the two major items on the school board agenda — taxable property revaluation and construction of a new junior high school.

Trustees decided to wait until after the county commissioners court is reorganized Jan. 1 to make a move toward a survey of taxable values.

School officials hope the county board will then decide to participate in a general property revaluation. If not, they will urge that the school district and city of Big Spring join in such a program.

The present commissioners court has voted against a county-wide re-evaluation. Two of its members will be replaced Jan. 1, however, and school trustees hope the new court will have a balance in favor of the project.

Supt. Floyd Parsons reported that architects are progressing with plans for a second junior high school. He estimated that $750,000 may be required to provide a complete plant for 750 students, and asked trustees to start consideration of whether they want to construct a complete junior high or provide only the basic units at the outset.

Only about $500,000 is available now for junior high school construction. Parsons said he thinks that will be sufficient for a school that wouldn't include cafeteria, auditorium, gymnasium or music department.

City Names New Street, Changes Two

The city commission made plans to change the name of two streets and give a name to another.

Herbert Whitney, city manager, reported to the commission Tuesday night that the street between Third and Fourth on the west end of the city had been opened across the D. E. Weatherly property. It is now open, but the city plans to stabilize it in the near future.

Although the street is now open, Whitney reported that it had not been named. He said that someone had thrown up a board with Price Street written on it.

Roy Bruce said he would be in favor of naming the street Price and also a one-block street now designated as Second Street. The commission agreed that the street named Second — which runs north and south — would be changed and also a Third Street which is parallel.

Although the Second Street does not line up with the new street, Bruce favored making them both Price Street. He then mentioned changing the one-block Third Street to Valley.

Valley now runs from First to Third and almost aligns with the north-south Third.

Whitney said the actual changing would have to be in the form of a city ordinance and he would have the document drawn up and have it ready for the next meeting.

The "basic areas" which the superintendent said probably can be provided for $500,000 are administrative offices, two special science rooms, woodworking shops, two-room commercial department, library, 20 classrooms, visual education room and a homemaking department.

Trustees put off a decision on whether to go ahead with the funds available or attempt to secure the additional $250,000. Parsons said postponement of a decision would not delay architectural work.

The audit of school records by Merle Stewart was approved. The auditor reported all tax and administrative records were found "in good condition." He was employed to perform the audit again in 1957.

Board members took no action on a proposal from Sound Photo Equipment Company for installation of a new sound system in the high school auditorium. They decided after considerable discussion that the old system is performing satisfactorily.

Contract with Tidwell Chevrolet Company for a pickup for the vocational agriculture department was approved. The truck provided by the dealer will cost the school district not more than $175 for the year, according to the contract. Similar pacts will be signed for two driver education cars furnished by the school by Tidwell and McEwen Motor Company.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon rested here today from his successful election campaigning. He plans to be here until Nov. 25. Mrs. Nixon and their two daughters expect to join him later.

Traffic Amendment Sets City, School Zone Speed Limits

Traffic problems came in for discussion at the meeting of the city commission Tuesday night, and the group passed an amendment to its traffic ordinance regulating traffic in school areas and throughout the city.

Until the meeting Tuesday night, the city did not have an air-tight ordinance regulating speeds.

The amendment passed was declared an emergency measure and takes effect immediately.

It calls for a speed zone anywhere in the city of 30 miles per hour and 20 miles per hour in school zones, with the exception of emergency vehicles on call.

It provides, however, that signs must be erected around schools to notify citizens when they are in a school zone.

Until Tuesday night the legal speed in the city was 20 miles per hour.

The new amendment does not call for any period of the year on the school zones; it applies to the entire year.

The city also considered four proposals from the Citizens' Traffic Commission but approved only one—the CTC recommended the ordinance change.

The other three requests from CTC were (1) study of proposals drawn up by Floyd Parsons, school superintendent, on traffic conditions around the junior high school, (2) annexation of the part of Farm Road 700 that is not in the city so as to make a common speed limit on the road, and (3) making Birdwell Lane from the north end of the HJC campus to Eleventh a no-parking area except where the college has off-the-street areas.

The commissioners said the proposals submitted by Parsons needed additional study, and they thought the other two requests would cause as much trouble as they solved.

Parsons recommended making Tenth Street from Johnson to Main a one-way street, with traffic going east. He also advocated a street light at Tenth and Runnels and parallel parking on the south side of Tenth between Main and Johnson.

Ward Hall questioned adding parts of FR 700 so as to make all of it in the city limits. He asked what it would help. "Who," he asked, "is complaining of the way it is now?"

The city previously had asked the State Highway Department to make a survey of traffic on the road and recommend speed limits. The survey advocated no less than six different speeds, so the city decided to leave it as it is now.

In another matter, Roy Bruce mentioned about delivery trucks double parking on Third and Fourth Streets early each morning.

He said it created a traffic hazard, because cars would pull up behind the parked vehicles and then have to pull into another lane to continue.

Dr. Lee Rogers seconded Bruce's statements and added the same thing was occurring on Second Street.

The commission authorized Herbert Whitney to write business firms, here letters explaining to them the hazards of double parking, and if the practice continued to have police officers issue tickets for the violations.

In another matter, the commission voted to let the DeMolay

Chapter sell Christmas trees on the city lot just north of the VA Hospital on Gregg. The approval came with the provision that the area be cleaned after its use.

Commissioners extended Clay Carey's contract 60 days on completion of the filter plant work. Freese and Nichols, engineers from Fort Worth, requested the addition of time, stating that Carey was held up on equipment which he ordered and not because of slow work. His time would have been up next Tuesday.

Corn Starch, Lamp Black

Syrian secrets are told by Nephru Malout to Lydia Lane in today's Hollywood Beauty. Among these are a method of using corn starch as a cleansing agent and lamp black as eye make-up. Nephru has appeared on NBC's "Matinee Theatre."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Syrian Beauties Have Own Special Secrets

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Nephru Malout came to Hollywood from Syria and I met her for the first time when I visited the "Matinee Theatre" set at NBC. This soft spoken young lady with dark luminous eyes invited me to her dressing room for a cup of coffee.

"If you don't tell me some exotic beauty secrets I'll be disappointed," I said right off.

"My mother taught me to use corn starch as a cleansing agent," Nephru explained. "After she creams her face she powders with corn starch and then removes this carefully being sure there is no residue left in the pores. I find this very helpful as a final check after I've had make-up on all day."

"Eyes, to Syrians, are the most important feature of the face," she continued. "We avoid using much lipstick because we don't wish for the mouth to compete with the eyes. But we keep our lips soft with cream."

"Instead of using an eyebrow pencil to outline my eyes I prefer to rub a paint brush on lamp black. I can get this same effect by holding a match under a saucer until it is smoky and using this on the eyelids. It gives a deep rich black. I find I can achieve the effect I want much better than with an eyebrow pencil."

Nephru confided that she loves Hollywood now that she has learned how to reduce.

"I had a terrible figure problem and I was very unhappy and unsuccessful trying to count calories. I found I was thinking much too much about food and though I dieted I didn't lose."

"One's mind has much more power than is generally recognized and I decided that I was willing myself to be overweight so that my dieting was defeating my purpose. So I decided to use my mind constructively. I told myself that no matter what I ate, my body would dispose of it properly so that it would not store up body fat. I felt this so strongly that I suddenly knew I was going to lose weight. Without taking my calorie count into consideration I dropped three pounds the first week. This was the beginning. I knew I was on the right track. What a wonderful release this gave me! Food no longer was of prime importance to me and I lost twenty pounds in three months."

"Before I realized that it was my fear of gaining that made me gain I was very unhappy. Now I have no fears and no weight problem," Nephru concluded.

Reisel Says Union Power Is Growing

FORT WORTH (AP)—Labor Columnist Victor Reisel said yesterday the combined forces of the AFL and CIO have become a tremendous political and financial force "that should not be ignored."

Reisel, blinded last spring when acid was thrown in his face, apparently at the order of labor racketeers, spoke at the Conference of Texas Industry sponsored by the Texas Manufacturers Assn.

Reisel said the merger has joined the forces of 16,000,000 laborers and 70,000 locals. He said labor unions today have control of about $35,000,000 in various funds.

"When this kind of money is accumulated, labor has a tremendous power," Reisel said.

Roy Simmons of Brownwood succeeds George Armstrong Jr. of Fort Worth as president in January.

Other officers are D. O. Tomlin of Grand Prairie, statewide vice president; C. H. Elliott of Houston, treasurer; and Ed Bussis of Houston, who will serve another term as executive vice president.

Departmental vice presidents are A. R. Watson of Amarillo, Ben Sloane of Point Comfort, Luther Evans of Freeport and Howard McKenna of New Braunfels.

Seven regional vice presidents also were named. They were W. C. Pool of Longview, O. L. Gibson of San Antonio, Thomas McCoy of Port Neches, Lawrence Jones of Dallas, Paul Ashley of Cleburne, Harry Frank of El Paso, and Harold Hinn of Plainview.

Twelve Texas firms were honored as winners in competition to pick the best annual company reports to stockholders.

Winners in the category for non-manufacturing firms of 500 or less employees were:

Fort Worth National Bank, first; Frost National Bank of San Antonio, second; and Texas Bank and Trust of Dallas.

Republic National Bank of Dallas won first in non-manufacturing firms of more than 500 employees. First National of Dallas was second and Texas and Pacific Railway of Dallas third.

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil, Fort Worth, was first for manufacturing firms of 500 or less workers. Second went to Rio Grande Valley Gas of Brownsville and Walker-Austex was third.

Girl In Coma For 6 Months Is Due Back From Hospital

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Suzanne Payette, still in a coma after nearly six months, will be brought home today from the Sister Kenny Memorial Hospital in El Monte.

Seventh Day Adventist organizations said they had arranged to provide equipment and some supplies needed for her care at home.

An offering will be taken next Monday in all Seventh Day Adventist elementary schools in this area and given to her father, Lyle G. Payette, Thanksgiving Day.

The Payettes' finances have been exhausted by medical expenses since Suzanne fell into a coma when her heart stopped for several minutes during a tonsillectomy May 31.

Huge Enrollments Said No Handicap

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Pennsylvania educator said today that huge enrollments foreseen for the nation's colleges may not prove to be such a handicap to the student after all.

Already, said Dean Harold K. Schilling of Pennsylvania State University, mass education "has set in with a vengeance" at the graduate school level of some universities.

'Unwritten Law' Is Slaying Defense

PALO PINTO, Tex. (AP)—Walter Vaughn, charged with the murder of the Rev. Chester Stevens at Weatherford Dec. 17, 1955, testified yesterday he went to see the minister the day of the shooting "to learn the truth" about the pastor and Mrs. Vaughn.

Vaughn testified his wife had told him the former pastor of their church had been intimate with her and that he had so much faith in the minister that he thought his wife "might have lost her mind, and I wanted to find out the truth from him."

"I was shocked, humiliated, and embarrassed," Vaughn told the packed courtroom. He said he was so confused and nervous he couldn't sleep or eat.

Vaughn, an oilfield worker, said he finally decided to drive to Weatherford and talk to the minister. He said he found no one at home, so he sat in his parked car.

He said Stevens and a companion drove into the driveway.

He said he shouted at the minister. Stevens turned and asked: "What are you doing here?"

"I hardly know myself," Vaughn said he replied. Then, he said, Stevens "presented a silly and victorious grin."

"It seemed like he was saying he could do as he pleased," Vaughn said.

He said he pulled a pistol from his shirt and fired at the minister, but that he didn't remember how many times.

Stevens was hit by four bullets in the body and two in the head.

Mrs. Vaughn, whose testimony followed her husband's, said she met Stevens during a 1954 revival at Denver City. She said the two families became friends and the Vaughns family decided to join Stevens' church, the Denver City Baptist.

Several days after the revival, she said, Stevens came to their home about 10 miles outside of town and said he wanted to talk to her about some census cards she had. She said the minister spoke to her about "personal matters" and said he used "scripture and psychology" on her.

She described the pastor as a "handsome man", whom it was easy to like. She said she continued to have intimate relations with him during 1954 and 1955 at her home and other places, including the lodge room of their church.

Hefty Riders Get New Deal In Cabs

NEW YORK (AP)—Hefty riders accustomed to squeezing into small taxis with two or three companions found themselves with more elbow room today.

The City Council yesterday passed a "fat man's amendment" to a municipal law governing stock car cabs.

The amendment permits a passenger to ride in the front seat next to the driver when two pump riders overrode the back seat. The law previously allowed a front-seat rider only after three others were packed in the back seat.

Final Witness Is Heard In Benavides Fraud Trial

HOUSTON (AP)—Jose Cadena, a Benavides bank teller, testified yesterday he had cashed checks totaling $15,178.37 payable to the Benavides School District.

Cadena was the final witness of the day in the mail fraud trial of South Texas political leader George Parr and eight associates.

Cadena, teller for the Merchants Exchange Bank in Benavides, said most of the time he gave cash for the checks. Sometimes, he said, he deposited checks in an account in the bank, which was unauthorized to receive school district funds.

Earlier testimony said the checks were brought to him by school district tax office employees under the direction of a defendant, D. C. Chapa, former tax collector-assessor.

The jury heard testimony from 13 taxpayers who identified checks totaling $10,515.08 which they mailed to the tax office during the trial.

ing 1952 and 1953. Most were in charge of paying taxes for small oil companies or independent oil operators who own royalties in the Benavides district.

The government was attempting to prove the charge the mails had been used in a scheme to defraud the school district.

Ramiro Morin, a former tax office employee, testified D. C. Chapa often sent him to the Benavides Merchants State Bank to cash checks.

The government contends the money was never used by the school district but was diverted to use by the defendants.

A PLAIN STATEMENT OF FACTS REGARDING THIS GREAT SALE!
WE ADMIT WE'RE OVERLOADED!!
WE'RE DOING SOMETHING ABOUT IT

COME!... Shed a tear with us as once again we BURY our mistakes. We are cutting loose with a store-wide all-out sale that IS a sale. People still talk about the greatest sale of our career last August. Sincere, Genuine values were passed along to You and You. People by the dozens have respectfully called and ASKED when we were considering another sale of that type. We have enjoyed EXCELLENT business, but just kept buying... and buying... just couldn't say "NO" to salesmen. Consequently we again find ourselves LOADED to the rafters just a few weeks before the Chicago Furniture Market. To keep ABREAST of the times, to be the LEADER and not the follower, to keep our house in ORDER we have decided once more to unload... yes to unload regardless of losses. We have commitments for January stocks and we MUST make room. Our store only houses so much. Our warehouse is small. This new merchandise now arriving daily MUST go somewhere so something has to GIVE. We are just a couple of Country Boys trying to get along. We don't want to get rich. We believe in CUTTING our prices to just above cost, the volume we do will enable us to still make a SMALL margin of profit on a large turn over. THAT is our objective. When we say the price is RIGHT Remember our WORD is our Bond, something we shall never sell or jeopardize.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

If the San Angelo Bobcats play just hard enough to win, as Coach Bob Harrell stated for publication recently, then the Big Spring Steers may get off fairly easy this weekend.

Midland ran up the score on the Bobcats without really appearing to be trying last week, however.

Perhaps, as some one said recently, Co-Coaches Roy Baird and Harold Bentley got about all the mileage they're going to get out of the local boys. Lack of experience, thin talent almost everywhere and injuries to key personnel—as well as the fact that the boys are getting tired—contributed to the shellacking the boys took last week.

His many friends here are rejoicing over Emmett Broderson's football successes with the Whiteface Antelopes this fall.

Broderson was assistant mentor to Carl Coleman here last year, during which time he impressed everyone with his loyalty, his consistent good humor and his willingness to work.

Broderson's Whiteface team is still undefeated. Only a tie with Tatum, N. M., mars the record of the Antelopes.

His team won its fifth straight conference (4-B) game last week by sinking New Home, 25-14. In all, Whiteface has won eight decisions for one of the best records in the school's history.

Broderson's record as a head coach might get him other offers but he'd have to have a good one to depart Whiteface. He went up there with a starting salary of $6,200 per annum and will quite probably get a raise off the strength of his successes this season. Few Class B schools anywhere pay as well.

Ablene fans can't rally much enthusiasm from the grid games of the mighty Eagles.

They didn't support the team very well here and did little better against Odessa last week.

That doesn't necessarily mean the fans over there are getting complacent about victory, however. Both games were obviously in the bag for the Eagles before they were played. The fans apparently decided to save their money for the playoff trips that are sure to come.

The Eagles have been too successful for most fans to back them in every appearance away from home during the last three years of play. Such a habit would hit anybody's pocket book quite a lick.

Moser, incidentally, stated for publication last weekend that Jim Wells and Stuart Peaks are the two best linemen he's ever coached.

Chuck also assured Hayden Fry, the Odessa mentor, that the Bronchos played his club a better game than any other team this year. The final tab was 47-6, Ablene.

The Harlem Globetrotters are now claiming Meadowlark Lemon (his real name) is a better basketball come than the fabulous Goose Tatum, who no longer is with Abe Saperstein's contingent.

Lemon has been with the Trotters only one season.

Houston could conceivably wind up in the Sugar Bowl.

The New Orleans people are thinking about the Houston money, which would be sure to flow into the Crescent City if the Cougars were named as one of the teams.

The University of Houston already has ordered 500 tickets for each night of the Sugar Bowl Basketball Tournament.

AN INJURY PROBLEM

Coaches Take Few Chances With Boys

The Big Spring Steers took a comparative light drill Tuesday, concentrating on strategy, the coaches hope will puzzle and perhaps foil the San Angelo Bobcats this weekend.

Coach Harold Bentley spent considerable time setting the defenses for Angelo's famed spread, which finally routed Midland a couple of weeks ago.

There was contact work but it was held to a minimum. With three halfbacks definitely out and other boys with assorted hurts, the coaches want to take no more chances with their charges than they have to.

Walter Dickinson, one of the team's regular tackles, didn't put on pads again Tuesday. He was limping badly from a knee injury suffered in last Friday's game with Midland. He may see only limited action against the Bobcats Friday.

Jimmy Evans was running the team from the quarterback spot while Billy Johnson, the regular signal barker, was operating at halfback. Evans should pile up some valuable experience in the game. Up until last week, he has been playing almost exclusively on defense. Since he'll be back in the line, the mentors decided to give him more opportunity to work at the quarterbacking spot in the time that is left.

The mentors also worked Ed Ward Slater at a backfield spot Tuesday. He can play both in the secondary and at end. Slater is another of the boys who missed part of the season due to injuries.

San Angelo is one of the conference's two undefeated teams. The other, of course, is Ablene. Those two teams tangle for the championship next week.

Not only will that contest grab the spotlight in the district, it will probably be the No. 1 game in the state that evening.

Both Ablene and San Angelo have been rated among the top four teams in the state all season.

San Angelo has allowed only 12 points to be scored against it with the district all season. Midland managed a touchdown against the Bobcats, as did Odessa.

Fruitful Hunting Trip

Ken Martin, Don Walker and Leonard Thornton, all of Webb AFB, are shown with 13 mallards they killed on a recent hunting trip near Lake J. B. Thomas. Martin hails from Missouri, Walker from Oklahoma while Thornton's home is Temple, Texas.

Americans Approach Razor-Sharp Form

MELBOURNE (U) — American track and field athletes have recovered from numerous ills and injuries and are approaching their record-breaking form at the Olympic Trials of last June.

This was the reassuring word of Coach James Kelly today as his squad put on one of its best workouts in preparation for the Games of the sixteenth Olympiad starting Nov. 22.

Kelly was especially pleased with sprinter Bobby Morrow and half-miler Arnie Sowell, two of Uncle Sam's erstwhile "cripples."

Morrow, who has been thought to have a good chance of scoring a double in the sprints, had been ill with a virus infection but now appears fully recovered and Kelly expressed confidence that Bobby was near his peak after watching the Texas sprinter work out.

The prevailing belief is that Morrow has a good chance to win both the 100 and 200-meter dashes, particularly the 100.

"I'm feeling pretty good now," Morrow said, adding he had gained back some of the 10 pounds the virus had cost him. The tall youngster from Abilene Christian College said he was getting stronger every day.

It has not been generally known that Sowell had been laid up for a time last summer. The University of Pittsburgh track star, who is counted on, with Tom Courtney, to lead the procession in the 800-meter run, was on crutches in August. He sprained his ankle playing basketball.

Sowell's mishap cut his weight seven pounds, a serious thing for a young man whose 5-foot 10-inch frame normally carries only 135 pounds.

The Pitt star said he was feeling "real good" now and Kelly noted he seemed to have his old bounce back.

Another recuperating athlete was Jim Lea, 400-meter runner, formerly from the University of Southern California. Lea, slowed with an ailing Achilles tendon, was held out of several of the final practice meets but ran in the last one at Los Angeles with spectacular success.

At the same time, the other Big Spring entry, Pinkie's, defeated the leaders, West Texas Reproduction, by the same margin to advance to within four games of first place.

In other matches, I. W. Hynds turned back Midland National Bank, 4-0; Basin Electric nudged Ray's Rendezvous, 3-1; Honolulu Oil and Lone Star Beer played to a 2-2 tie and Fashion Beauty turned back Pearl Beer, 4-0.

Sugar Brown paced Cosden in scoring with 207-521, followed by Olive Caudle, with 192-308.

Cosden registered combined efforts of 690-734-849-5279, while West Texas Brick and Tile compiled scores of 725-710-752-2187.

Bowl Bans On A&M And Miami Still In Effect

By TOM SHAWVER

DETROIT (U)—No postseason bowl games for Texas A&M and University of Miami football powers. Probation periods ranging from nine months to four years for North Carolina State, Ohio State, Southern California and the University of California.

Such was the stern edict issued by the council of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. yesterday as it concluded a lengthy investigation into reported athletic irregularities at member schools.

TO WIN GAMES

Vols, A&M, Irish Scribe's Choices

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

SAN FRANCISCO (U)—Taking a glance at the nation's college football teams from the opposite coast—but there is no assurance that the view is any more revealing.

Last week's Atlantic Coast inspection resulted in 34 correct selections and 13 wrong ones. That's an average of .724. The season's record is 278 right, 84 wrong and .768.

Oklahoma over Missouri: This is about as crucial as they can get in the Big Seven but Oklahoma should win by at least three touchdowns.

Georgia Tech over Alabama: Once upon a time, stars fell on Alabama—but they weren't football stars.

Michigan State over Minnesota: The Gophers must win this one to stay in the Rose Bowl picture but the Spartans, even without Clarence Peaks, are too strong.

Notre Dame over North Carolina: Here's where the Irish get their second victory of the season.

Tennessee over Mississippi: Tennessee has another crucial game, this time against the two-time champions of the Southeastern Conference. Johnny Majors to be the decisive factor.

Stanford over Washington: John Brodie has been held in check the last two Saturdays. This time he breaks loose.

Texas A&M over Rice: Jack Pardee to batter that Rice forward wall.

Skipping over the others in a hurry:

EAST: Boston College over Boston University, Dartmouth over Cornell, Harvard over Brown.

Navy over Virginia, Penn State over North Carolina State, Army over Pittsburgh, William & Mary over Rutgers, Syracuse over Colgate, Yale over Princeton, Columbia over Pennsylvania.

MIDWEST: Dayton over Wichita, Illinois over Wisconsin, Kansas State over Iowa State, Michigan over Indiana, Purdue over Northwestern, Oklahoma A&M over Detroit, Baylor over Nebraska, Tulsa over Texas Tech, Ohio State over Iowa.

SOUTH: George Washington over The Citadel, Florida State over Mississippi Southern, Kentucky over Xavier, LSU over Mississippi State, Maryland over South Carolina, Vanderbilt over Tulane, Duke over Wake Forest, West Virginia over Furman, Miami over Clemson.

SOUTHWEST: Arkansas over Southern Methodist, Houston over Villanova, Texas Christian over Texas, Texas Western over West Texas State.

FAR WEST: Arizona State over

Abilene now has two players who have scored more than 100 points each in football this year.

They are Glynn Gregory, still the leader in District 2-AAAA play with a total of 115 points; and Jimmy Carpenter, who has four more touchdowns than Gregory but who has only 102 points.

San Angelo's Phil Lane is hovering near the leaders, with an aggregate of 81 points.

A distant fourth in the individual race is Freddy Hedges of Midland, with 55 points.

The race still has two weeks to go.

Point of view on furs . . .

The world of fashion is peculiar and fast moving, and the average woman needs all the help she can get to keep up with it. A woman out of fashion is a woman badly dressed and therefore a woman not at her best. As a result, many magazines, good ones and bad, newspaper columns, television programs, and the world of advertisements, try to keep women informed of what is new and fresh and good. Still, with all the complications of fashion, women are pretty good judges of apparel. By and large, they are aware of what looks well on them and what doesn't. And they buy accordingly. There is one important item, however, that ninety nine women out of a hundred should never buy without sound advice. An inexpensive or expensive fur.

The world of furs is a world all its own. Its leaders are an increasingly small band of men who have spent their lives studying furs. There are many aspects to the study of buying and selling of furs, some of them having to do with fashion and others with make. Beautiful furs which are out of fashion will do no one any good. Beautiful skins made poorly are a bad buy. Still and all, the most important aspect of the study of furs is the fur itself. The subtle difference between beautiful skins and mediocre ones is something that only an expertly trained eye can detect—at first. A few years later, anyone can detect it. The construction of the skins into a cape or a stole or a coat is completely beyond the comprehension of the average customer. Unless she has bought from good advice or is just blind luck, she may be in for a disappointment as time passes.

Mr. Joseph Zable, in charge of all our fur operations, is one of the men who knows backwards and forwards every refinement associated with furs. It has been his policy to purchase skins and finished garments made to his own specifications. In his field, he is at the very top. If you should be thinking a fur—any fur, you'd do very well to consult Mr. Zable . . . before making a move. In the course of time, you might be extremely thankful you did.

Colorado Senator Has Lot Of Bounce

DENVER (AP)—Colorado's senator-elect, Democrat John A. Carroll, should be ready for any battles that develop in the coming session: he's Irish and he can bounce off the ropes.

He proved that by getting elected to the Senate after he was beaten twice before. What's more, he knows Washington. He served two terms as a representative and became a close friend and adviser of President Truman. In his four years in Congress he was known as a liberal.

Carroll's election a week ago yesterday in a state favored to go Republican helps to give the Democrats their slim majority in the new Senate. He defeated Republican Dan Thornton, golfing friend of President Eisenhower, by nearly 8,000 votes.

The new senator said he intends to "strengthen and support President Eisenhower's program when I feel in good conscience it is in the best interests of the West and the nation."

"I am going to Washington not to obstruct but to watch very carefully what moves the administration makes," Carroll said in an interview.

He said he plans to work closely with Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) "in carrying out an investigation of big corporations of the country which I think are fixing prices and doing great damage to our free enterprise system."

Carroll termed his win over Thornton "a sweet victory" after losing in 1950 to Republican Eugene D. Millikin, whose seat he now moves into, and Republican Gordon Allott in 1954.

Carroll, 55, and his wife Dorothy have a daughter, Diane, attractive blonde graduate of University of Colorado, who has been a clerk in the Denver District Court this year.

Yes, Thanksgiving Will Be Observed Here-Twice

"Is Thanksgiving to be observed in Big Spring on Nov. 22 or on Nov. 29?"

Yes. Strange as it may seem, this answer is correct.

It all depends on whatever decision your employer may have reached or what your particular fancy dictates.

With two possible Thanksgivings scheduled it is natural confusion should arise. One — Nov. 22 — has been officially proclaimed by the President of the United States and will be generally observed all over the nation.

The second — Nov. 29 — has been officially proclaimed by Gov. Shivers of Texas. It will be observed by some Texans and not by others.

If you are a member of Webb Air Force Base personnel you will eat your turkey on Nov. 22.

If you work in a Big Spring store or office, you will have your holiday on Nov. 22. That is the official date insofar as the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce is concerned. The stores are to be closed on that day.

If you are a city employee at the City Hall, your big day is Nov. 22. But don't count on the kids being home on Nov. 22 to help you eat that big dinner.

They will be in school. For the Big Spring city schools, the official Thanksgiving is Nov. 29.

If you are an employee of Howard County, plan to be at work on Nov. 22. Your Thanksgiving holiday will be on Nov. 29.

day will be on Nov. 29.

If you work at any of the three Big Spring banks, you'll just have to wait a few days. The banks don't know what date will be observed by them as the official Thanksgiving.

Federal agencies and offices in general will go along with the President and take off from work on Nov. 22.

Most state agencies will stick to the Nov. 29 schedule.

Things were quite up in the air about this matter at the county courthouse. Deputies, who had visions of big meals and a day of luxurious loafing, were disturbed.

"Do we get one or two Thanksgivings?" they asked.

Judge R. H. Weaver, county court, settled the matter Tuesday afternoon.

"One Thanksgiving," said the judge, "on Thanksgiving Day."

He cited the lawbooks. Under an amendment to the state statute on holidays, it is specifically stated that the last Thursday in November shall be observed as a day of Thanksgiving by all good Texans.

The old law was a little vague. It omitted all direct reference to Thanksgiving Day but did say that in addition to all other named state holidays, any special day proclaimed by the President or by the governor for the purpose of Thanksgiving should be a holiday.

This became a little difficult a number of years ago when Texas declared to go along with the late President Roosevelt in his action setting the fourth Thursday in November as Thanksgiving. Texans were used to observing the last Thursday and it didn't always work out that the fourth Thursday would be the last Thursday.

As a result, the President was proclaiming one day for Thanksgiving and the governor of Texas another.

This resulted in the Legislature getting into a huddle and coming out with the amendment which pinpoints the last Thursday in November as the official Texas Thanksgiving Day.

Federal offices, however, will probably adhere to Mr. Eisenhower's views on this matter. So there will be places closed and places open on both days.

Insofar as the county courthouse workers and a lot of other folk are concerned, they can schedule their turkey eating plans for Thursday Nov. 29.

If they get an invitation from some of their federal-minded friends to come out and eat white meat on Nov. 22 — well and good.

All they have to do is rush out, stuff themselves and then get back on the job to finish the day.

And, of course, the same rule applies in the case of city employees and clerks in the stores. It is quite possible they can work in two big feasts on the two Thanksgiving days but they can't count on but one day of idleness.

So we repeat:

"Thanksgiving Day in Big Spring will be Nov. 22 and Nov. 29."
