Rep. Holmes Registers Guilty Pleas, Fined

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Rep. Tom Holmes of Granbury has pleaded guilty to three misdemeanor counts, bringing the total number of legislators convicted of criminal charges this year to six.

Only former Rep. M. Moyer of Amarillo remains to be tried on a charge he was fined $5,040 worth of postage from his House contingency fund. His trial is scheduled for Dec. 4.

All seven defendants were indicted for felonies, but those, including Holmes, the charges reduced to misdemeanors in exchange for guilty pleas.

FELONY TRIAL

Holmes' felony trial charge of theft by false check had been scheduled for next Monday.

He pleaded guilty to three misdemeanors — "to account for money on

After the felony charges were filed, Holmes was defeated in the Democratic primary in a race against Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells.

The other legislator who got his felony charge reduced to a misdemeanor after agreeing to plead guilty was Rep. John Allen of Longview. He and former Sen. David Ratliff of Stamford were charged together with conspiracy to commit theft.

Allen and Ratliff allegedly hired each other's children without intending to require them to do any work. Allen paid a $1,000 fine on the misdemeanor charge of nepotism.

Ratliff was convicted on a charge of theft of a state warrant and received a 10-year probation sentence. Because of that conviction, Dist. Atty. Bob Smith said he would not prosecute Ratliff on the conspiracy charge.

Blind Woman Weeps For Joy Over Gifts

SAINT ANTONIO (AP) — The Christmas and Thanksgiving spirit was in the air here as a blind woman wept with joy over gifts from her family.

The woman, who is 72 years old, has been blind since she was 10 years old. She lives alone in a small apartment in the city.

Her family, which includes her husband and three children, has been generous to her. They have given her many gifts, including a new television set, a new refrigerator, and a new car.

"I am so happy," she said. "I have everything I need now. I can see the world through my eyes again."

Soldiers' Turkey Day In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — In the mess hall at Camp Alpha, where hundreds of thousands of American soldiers have been processed in and out of Vietnam, there was unanimous agreement: Thanksgiving means home.

And there was little doubt too, that this would be the last Thanksgiving for American forces in Vietnam — that next year's turkey would be eaten at the family table.

The Army chefs laid out a lavish feast starting with shrimp cocktail and ending with pumpkin pie, mincemeat pie, fruit cake and fresh fruit.

"The only thing everybody's griping about is that they put off the fans so the candles won't blow out," said Air Force Sgt. Ronald E. Smith of High Point, N.C., sweat dripping down his cheeks. "The food's pretty good."

He added: "I think we ought to be thankful for Henry Kissinger and Le Duc Tho. Why not? Nobody else is trying."

Kissinger and Tho were negotiating secretly in Paris on the draft cease-fire agreement.

In both the enlisted men's and officers' dining rooms, there were paper turkeys and pilgrims on the walls, orange crepe paper and pumpkins hanging from the ceilings — and an exquisitely garnished bird sitting alone on a serving cart in the center of the hall. For dinner itself, the cooks served canned turkey.

Thanksgiving Many Things

What is Thanksgiving?
It's our only truly American holiday.
It's turkey, pumpkin pie, fruits, vegetables, and Grandma's best cooking.
It's the gathering of the clan when both small and large families get together.
It's football games and parades on televisions or a day to make a special trip to a big game.
It's the day the college kids come home, often for the first time since the fall term began.
It's a day when elementary children bring home pictures of Pilgrims and Indians and turkeys which abruptly remind us of the First Thanksgiving.
It's the official beginning of what we have learned to call the holiday season.
It's a tipoff that Christmas shopping will soon begin in earnest.
It's good odors from the kitchen and laughter at Grandpa's oldest tales.
And it's a time when we all finally sit down around a heavily-laden table and remember to say, "Thank you, God."

Mechanics Of Joint Buying Discussed

A committee of city and county representatives discussed the mechanics of joint purchasing in the County Commissioners Courtroom Wednesday afternoon.

Consideration was given to joint purchases of office equipment and supplies, road equipment, gasoline, automobiles for law officers, tires and other items.

Bob Butler, city purchasing agent, would be authorized to make purchases for the county on many standard items. For unique items, county officials would continue to buy through Mrs. Virginia Black, county auditor.

Butler disclosed that soon city employees will have a specific day for obtaining office supplies from the warehouse. Setting a particular day for county requisitions was spoken of.

FARTHER AHEAD

Under the new proposed system, county officials will be required to plan purchases farther in advance, it was said. Those at the informal meeting felt joint, volume purchases of standardized items will save tax money.

Mrs. Black mentioned possibly starting the operation under a joint purchasing agreement at the first of 1973.

If the county contracts with the city for some purchases, first large, joint purchases may be for automobiles used by the Sheriff's office and Police Department.

Scheduled replacement of cars for both law agencies coincided, but Butler called "cycling of replacements" of large equipment a big problem.

To be economical, city and county road equipment purchases, among others, need to be made at the same time, it was established.

Cost to the county would be two per cent with bills arriving monthly.

Robert Massengale, city finance director, said the county could discontinue buying from the city at any time by going elsewhere for purchases.

Butler explained how information about purchases are recorded by computer at City Hall with both a numerical and alphabetical index. Commissioners Jack Buchanan and Bill Crocker were among those attending.

'Whispering Bill' Talks About Hell's Angels Orgy

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP) — An all-night Hell's Angels drug orgy began with LSD-spiked drinks and ended in the beating and strangling deaths of two motorcyclists from Georgia, says an informant who was granted immunity to testify.

Silently pouring out his story through a lip-reader, William "Whispering Bill" Pifer, 41, appeared at a preliminary hearing Wednesday in Richmond Municipal Court for four bikers charged in the case. Four others also charged in the case are still at large.

BEER SPIKED

Pifer's testimony is scheduled to resume Monday after the long Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

Pifer, whose vocal chords have been removed, says he may have just six months to live because of throat cancer and demanded immunity before testifying — "Because of the time left, I want on the streets."

Pifer said that in the spring of 1971 the two bikers from Georgia, Thomas "Big Tom" Shull, 24, and his companion, Charlie Baker, 30, were invited guests at the Richmond Hell's Angels clubhouse where Pifer was a member.

Pifer said the Angels snuffed cocaine and Shull's coffee and Baker's beer were spiked with LSD. Pifer said Shull became violent when someone pretended to him that Baker was a drug agent.

HOG-TIED

"He started swinging," said Pifer. "Richard (Barker, then president of the local Hell's Angels chapter) said, 'grab the son of a bitch,' and everybody tried to hold him down. That guy was strong."

He said that Shull finally was subdued after prolonged beating and was hog-tied and taken to a bedroom where Pifer said he found him 10 minutes later, dead.

Then, he said, it was decided that Baker had to die too because he had witnessed what had happened to Shull. Pifer said William John Moran, 38, ordered him to kill Baker, but that he refused, and Moran himself then tried to strangle Baker first with his hands, then his belt, and finally succeeded with a rope.

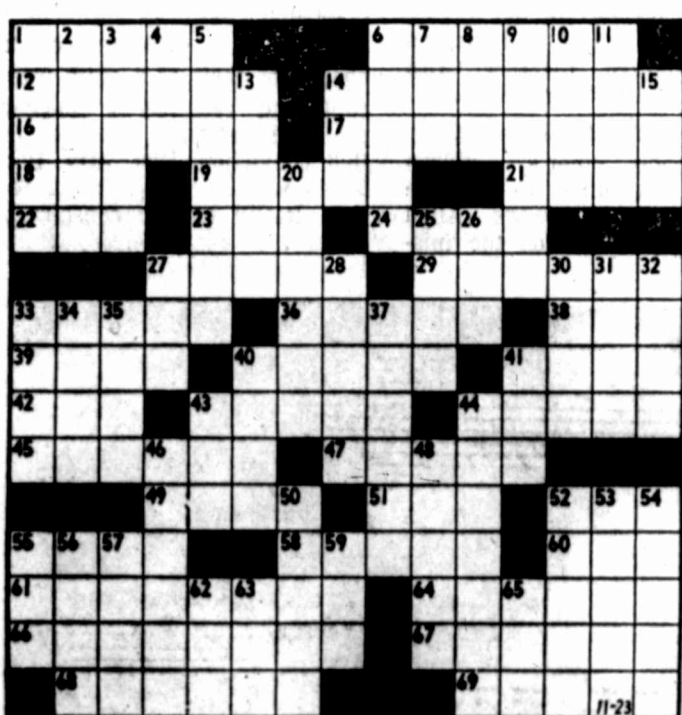

Moran and Edward Junior Carter, 24, pleaded innocent to charges of two counts of murder each. Chester "Festus" Green, 29, and William Mark "Zorro" Mitten, 32, pleaded innocent to charges of being accessories to murder.

The bodies of Shull and Baker were found Oct. 30 on a ranch 100 miles north of here, too decomposed for the cause of death to be determined.

'I GUESS I'M THANKFUL JUST TO BE ALIVE' Most Texans Grateful For Blessings

By RENA PEDERSON

Most Texans—say they have a lot to be grateful for this Thanksgiving. Some others are just glad things haven't been worse.

"It sounds corny but I do feel very grateful for my blessings," said Mrs. Wessie Thompson, a 25-year-old Austin housewife with a beaming smile. "I'm most thankful for my good friends, good health, a loving husband, my family—oh, I could go on and on."

ALMOST TOO MUCH

"This year has been almost too much," she admitted. "I'm particularly grateful for the prospect of peace. I'm going to have a baby in January and I don't want my child to grow up with the Vietnam War."

The hope of peace was mentioned by many as a blessing of a kind.

"I am already thankful about the war being over because I want so much for it to be over. I do have a feeling the overseas hostilities are about through. Even with the doubts in the air, I am still hopeful," said actor King Donovan of Dallas.

Donovan and wife Imogene Coca will be spending Thanksgiving in Amarillo, where they are appearing in a play.

"We take our holidays where we can and we're always grateful we're together," he noted.

Bill Bailey, a radio newsman in San Angelo, knew right away what his big blessing was: "I'm grateful to be out of the Army. I got out in March and I still can't believe it. That's about it right now. That's more than enough."

HE'S A JOY

Then he added, "I'm glad they're trying to get that thing over there in Vietnam. I don't relish any guys having to follow me."

Politics seem to bear directly and indirectly on most Texans.

"I'm sure thankful that George McGovern didn't get elected," said Mrs. Jean Schmidt with a good laugh.

Mrs. Schmidt, who works at the Plate and Platter shop in San Antonio, said she doubted if she and her husband would have the usual big turkey dinner because three of their children are "grown up and gone."

"But we still have a 14-year-old and we're thankful for him."

He's a joy," she said. "We have a great deal to be thankful for."

Mrs. Nancy Barnes, wife of former lieutenant governor Ben Barnes, reported they have settled "quite comfortably" in a Brownwood home now that the elections and special legislative sessions are over. She said they and their four children—Scott, 20; Brian, 16; Greg, 14, and Amy, 10, will spend Thanksgiving in Austin "so we can see the Texas A&M game. We're big fans."

"We have a lot of things to be grateful for. We are very pleased and excited about our new life in Brownwood. It's been a hard year, but a good year. We have a lot of friends and people that we enjoy knowing and we are most grateful for them. We've had the opportunity to meet a lot of people in this year and win or lose we'll always remember them and be grateful."

OPPORTUNITY

Miss Barbara Jordan, who just won a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives from Houston, said, "I am so grateful for life, for reasonably good health and the opportunity that people have given me for national service."

She said she will be attending a political seminar at Harvard University and may celebrate Thanksgiving with some friends in Boston. "It's been interesting to note—I think people are generally solemn this Thanksgiving," she said. "Most of them have a sense of gratitude that things are as well as they are."

Jackie Rascoe, 20, stopped work at Jim and Les' Texaco station in Amarillo to think

Life, Influence Of Latins Latest NTSU Courses

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — The latest of three courses concerning the life and influence of the Mexican-American in America is scheduled for the spring semester at North Texas State University.

Mexican-American Politics has been included, along with already-established Mexican-American History and Culture and the Mexican-American Community. Students from any department may use the courses as electives toward a major or first minor.

"The purpose of the course is to try to place the Mexican-American as a group and to find the group's location in the political process," said Neftali Garcia, a San Antonio graduate student.

Garcia, working toward his doctoral degree in political science with emphasis on American government and politics and public law, is scheduled to teach the course.

Garcia said the course was initiated in response to requests by Mexican-Americans for electives geared toward their ethnic backgrounds.

about Thanksgiving. "I guess I've got a future to be grateful I'm thankful just to be alive. Things look pretty good just being here able to work," this year if we can clear up the war situation. It could be he said.

Rascoe said he and his wife, who is expecting a baby, will be getting together with their families for the holiday. "I guess thankful for this year," said

MY BOYFRIEND?
"I can't find much to be thankful for this year," said

Ginger Lancelos, 26, of Port Arthur. She said she could still laugh about it, but her luck was wearing thin. "My car's broken and I can't find a job and my boyfriend—? I guess I'm thankful I have all my senses intact."

Lynn Rogers, 21, said she was grateful she at least has a job selling animals at Paradise Pets in Dallas. "But I'm lonely. I miss home. I just moved here from Virginia. Right now, I've just got my health. I'm grateful for that."

Mrs. Jan Amos, a mother of three, said she was delighted to be in Texas for Thanksgiving this year. "I am back in the United States after living in Europe seven and a half years. You know, the United States is the only place in the world you can have Thanksgiving."

"Thanksgiving doesn't mean so much if you're the only one in town celebrating it," she said. "I mean, have you ever tried a bowl of pasta for Thanksgiving dinner?"

Everybody seems to take it for granted I'm going with him, but I'm not. They want to know everything, like "Did Bill ask you to go to the dance with him?" or "Did Bill call you last night?"

I like him and if it turned into something bigger I could like that too. But I think the "F.B.I. bunch" is fouling up our friendship. What do you think? — Grilled in Michigan.

(A.) Do not assume anything. If this serviceman does not write you and does not date you in the accepted sense of the word, then you are not officially "going with" him.

This status could change, but do not wait around for it to do so. Go with other boys you want to go with. And, if you wish, start going steady with one.

Then, when the Marine comes home and assumes you are available, tell him, you're sorry but you are going steady with David — or whatever the boy's name may be.

UNASKED: (Q.) This guy is a Marine. He's 19 and I'm 18. When he is home

Youngsters In Cee City Helping Clean Up Town

COLORADO CITY — "Helping Hands," an organization for school children between the fourth and seventh grades, is serious about wanting to help its community.

Last week, 19 of these youngsters gathered to pull weeds and pick up trash in a downtown area that they considered particularly offensive. "We don't want people passing through to think Colorado City is just another dirty little old town," one of them stated.

They have organized a club with an adult sponsor and have many projects in mind. They are going to paint barrels to be placed in strategic spots around the city for people to place their litter.

They also plan to help older people wash their cars, wash

HC Bulls, Heifers In Futurity Sale

Howard County bulls and heifers will be entered in the Hereford Futurity sale at San Angelo Nov. 28.

Leland Wallace has a pair of bulls sired by Diamond Anxiety A-48-A, a classy bull whose offspring so far have averaged $1,300.

Buchanan Hereford Farms has four heifers and three bulls entered.

The sale will have 50 bulls and 16 heifers consigned. The Wallace entries are brothers to the reserve bull of the Concho Valley sale Oct. 31. At that sale, Wallace had the six highest selling bulls.

This week at Lovington, N.M., he had the reserve champion pen of three bulls, all by Diamond Anxiety A-48-A, and one of which brought $1,400. Wallace plans to enter, for the first time, a bull in the Denver show in early January, 1973.

Joint Service Lures Crowd

"We Gather Together to Ask the Lord's Blessing" applies to a very small percentage of Big Spring even though what is considered a good crowd turned out for the Union Thanksgiving service at the First Presbyterian Church this morning.

The annual joint service is sponsored by the Ministerial Alliance and ministers from various churches around the city took part.

The Rev. Edwin Beasley from the First Church of God, as one of Big Spring's newest ministers, brought the message. Topic was "Thanks I Needed That" and he pointed out that all human beings are of a nature so that they need to receive thanks for what we do. He added that we also need to give thanks to God and our fellowman.

He then pointed out the special gifts of God for which we can be especially thankful.

"Come Ye Thankful People" and other traditional hymns of the thanksgiving season combined with the traditional Psalms of praise completed the service.

Wheat Growers Say Conspiracy Cost Texas Farmers $60 Million

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Several West Texas farmers who believe they got the chaff on the Russian wheat deal have gone to court.

Five Panhandle wheat growers have filed a class-action suit naming seven defendants—six grain companies and one individual—and claiming that a conspiracy between the seven cost Texas farmers $60 million in payments for their crop.

During July and August, American grain companies sold more than 400 million bushels of wheat to the Soviets. Named in the suit filed with U.S. Dist. Judge H. E. Woodward were Continental Grain

Co., Bunge Corp., and Garnac Grain Co., all of New York; Cook Industries of Memphis, Tenn.; Louis Dreyfus Co. of New York; and Cargill Inc. of Minneapolis, Minn.

Also named in the petition is Clarence Palmy, formerly assistant secretary of agriculture for international affairs and commodity programs who is now a vice president of Continental Grain Co.

"This is very similar to a price-fixing suit," said Bryan Poff, a state representative and lawyer representing the farmers. "We believe that Palmy

"The men who had it made didn't come back," said the Rev. Caleb Hildebrand. "They were much like we are today."

The Rev. Hildebrand, addressing a joint meeting of the Downtown Lions and the Kiwanis Clubs Wednesday at the Settles, drew his Thanksgiving message from the passage in Luke which tells of Jesus healing 10 lepers. All had enough faith to do as He bade them, and thus were healed; only one had enough gratitude to turn back and give thanks.

"It's all too easy for us today to put ourselves among the nine," he added. He quoted Carl Barth, theologian, as having observed that "all sin is simply ingratitude."

Jim Lemons, president of the Lions Club, presided. Archie Adkins, chairman of the Lions mop and broom sale, said it appeared the club's sight conservation and blind fund might benefit by nearly $600 from the project a week ago. Student guests of the two clubs were Brenda Thomas, Patricia Trevino, Tom Sorley, Carl Smoot, Victor Garcia and Nat Hart.

Wheat Growers Say Conspiracy Cost Texas Farmers $60 Million

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Several West Texas farmers who believe they got the chaff on the Russian wheat deal have gone to court.

Five Panhandle wheat growers have filed a class-action suit naming seven defendants—six grain companies and one individual—and claiming that a conspiracy between the seven cost Texas farmers $60 million in payments for their crop.

During July and August, American grain companies sold

more than 400 million bushels of wheat to the Soviets. Named in the suit filed with U.S. Dist. Judge H. E. Woodward were Continental Grain

Co., Bunge Corp., and Garnac Grain Co., all of New York; Cook Industries of Memphis, Tenn.; Louis Dreyfus Co. of New York; and Cargill Inc. of Minneapolis, Minn.

Also named in the petition is Clarence Palmy, formerly assistant secretary of agriculture for international affairs and commodity programs who is now a vice president of Continental Grain Co.

"This is very similar to a price-fixing suit," said Bryan Poff, a state representative and lawyer representing the farmers. "We believe that Palmy

"The men who had it made didn't come back," said the Rev. Caleb Hildebrand. "They were much like we are today."

The Rev. Hildebrand, addressing a joint meeting of the Downtown Lions and the Kiwanis Clubs Wednesday at the Settles, drew his Thanksgiving message from the passage in Luke which tells of Jesus healing 10 lepers. All had enough faith to do as He bade them, and thus were healed; only one had enough gratitude to turn back and give thanks.

"It's all too easy for us today to put ourselves among the nine," he added. He quoted Carl Barth, theologian, as having observed that "all sin is simply ingratitude."

Jim Lemons, president of the Lions Club, presided. Archie Adkins, chairman of the Lions mop and broom sale, said it appeared the club's sight conservation and blind fund might benefit by nearly $600 from the project a week ago. Student guests of the two clubs were Brenda Thomas, Patricia Trevino, Tom Sorley, Carl Smoot, Victor Garcia and Nat Hart.

EL TORO MARINE STATION, Calif. (AP) — Two Marine officers were missing and presumed dead after a T44 training jet crashed in the Pacific Ocean, a Marine spokesman said.

The jet went down 40 miles south of San Clemente Wednesday during a routine training flight from El Toro, he said.

The victims were identified as Maj. J. B. Ezell, 36, of Fort Worth, Tex., and Capt. Kenneth C. Crouch, 30, of Colorado Springs, Colo.

TURNED ON STAR GAINED 43 POUNDS TO PLAY WIFE

How Showboat Queen Found Happiness

Copley News Service
NEW YORK — Yellow is Kathie Nolan's favorite color, "because it's really definite," and Kathy Nolan is certainly a definite Irish lass. Flaming red hair and sea-green eyes are only the surface of the actress whose stardom began as Kate McCoy on the long-running television series, "The Real McCoys."

WONDERFUL THING
Kathy is a champion of underdogs, whether its disturbed children, women's rights or wives of prisoners of war.

"It's a wonderful thing," she said, settling into a sofa in a penthouse apartment on New York's Sutton Place, "when you can combine something you believe in with the work you do."

Kathy has just finished filming "Limbo," the Mark Robson film about POW wives, and she was bubbling with the fiery enthusiasm that has carried her from childhood days on a Mississippi showboat to the glamorous life of an entertainment queen.

"I really believe in 'Limbo,'" she said. "I think it has a chance of being a really important film, and it is especially meaningful to me."

FOR 'LIMBO'

Kathy is interested in all of the problems of wives who are left at home while their husbands go off to war.

"I think the picture gives a very fair presentation of where these women are at," said Kathy, "because there are different ways that different women think, and it is important that all of the various beliefs and positions are told in a realistic way."

For "Limbo," Kathy gained 42 pounds to play an Irish Catholic housewife with four children, and she made an exception in her usual approach to acting by partially living as the character lived.

"The woman I portray is alone, of course, and I insisted on living alone throughout the filming in Miami. Everyone else lived together." She smiled her definitely Irish smile. "My idea of a beautiful way to live is not in a communal way."

She became "very much involved" with the kids who play her children, and she asked the man in her life not to come and visit too often. "We discussed it and he understood that I wanted to be alone, I didn't want him there when I was working. It was kind of an isolation period for me."

ISOLATION

Isolation is an unusual thing for

Kathy. She heads a committee to re-examine women's roles in the entertainment industry; she is working to ban reruns in prime time on television; she was a delegate to the Democratic Convention in Miami, and she was one of the first stars to go on an entertainment tour of Vietnam for the State Department, for which she received a Presidential Citation.

"I like activity," she said, "and I like to do things on my own."

Like many women, Kathy feels the Women's Movement has changed her life considerably.

"I used to think I was this very special kind of woman," she explained. "I was dealing in a man's world, working, talking about serious subjects with men, and I felt that I was set apart from the woman who stayed home and took care of her children."

SO TERRIFIC

Today, she realizes that this just isn't so.

"I never bothered to know about other women before," she explained, "and now, I think they are so terrific, it's just really exciting."

Kathy's enthusiasm for new ideas and projects, from skydiving to history and painting, sets her apart from many actresses.

"My life has been so terrific," she smiled. "I can't imagine anything better."

"I grew up on a showboat on the Mississippi, and I've been to the White House three times. I've been all over the world. I've met heads of state and top leaders in industry."

WHERE ELSE?

"Where else could a little girl from a mining town in the West find happiness?"

KATHY NOLAN — Not just another pretty face, actress Kathy Nolan is involved in everything from Women's Lib to Democratic politics.

Newsman Farr Free Few Days

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Newsman William Farr is free at least until Monday because the judge who originally ordered the reporter jailed indefinitely has granted him a reprieve.

Farr, cited for contempt of court for refusing to disclose the source of a story he wrote while covering the Charles Manson trial, on Tuesday had been headed for jail after a state appeals court rejected a legal attempt to keep him free.

But Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older ordered that Farr remain free until a new hearing Monday, when Older plans to question the six attorneys involved in the Manson murder trial.

Older said he would ask the attorneys for the second time to answer under oath whether they supplied Farr the information for a story that violated the judge's "gag" order. The order prohibited publication of confidential trial information.

Meanwhile, Farr's attorney appealed to the California Supreme Court to overturn the 2nd Court of Appeal rejection of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

The appeal contended, as the original writ petition had, that Older lacked jurisdiction to cite Farr for contempt and that the judge had misled the reporter about his rights.

The appeal also asked for Farr's continued freedom until the court hears the arguments.

Farr was held for 4½ hours last Thursday after refusing to tell Older who gave him the information for a story he wrote while covering the Manson trial for the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner in 1970. Older issued the jail order after the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear Farr's appeal.

But the state appeals court freed Farr on his own recognition pending its decision on the writ of habeas corpus. The story told of an alleged plot by the Manson clan to kill such celebrities as Richard Burton, Elizabeth Taylor and Frank Sinatra.

Big Spring Optimists Clubs — both the Morning and the Noon — again will conduct Christmas tree sales starting after Thanksgiving.

Trees already have arrived and soon will be put in place on the two lots.

One, formerly at the College Park Center, has been moved to 808 East Fourth (the Bill Tune car lot), and the other will be at the corner of 10th and Gregg as in former years.

Most of the trees are either Scotch pine or Douglas fir and vary in sizes.

All net proceeds from the sale go to the Optimists' work with youth and other humanitarian projects.

Gov. Maddox Will Bike Backwards

TEL AVIV (AP) — Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, known for his ability to ride a bicycle backwards, says he will demonstrate his prowess by performing for the people of Israel.

Maddox arrived in Tel Aviv on Tuesday with a 200-member group of tourists. He told newsmen that the bicycle he had with him was to be given to a Baptist school in a Tel Aviv suburb. Maddox said, however, that he would not make the presentation until he had given a demonstration on how to ride it.

It's Different

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would or lack of knowledge — the best you explain arthritis-itis? My advice I can offer, in fact the doctor says it is different from arthritis. In what way? Is there a cure? I'm 40 and have had this trouble 11 years. The arteries are affected on my left temple and above the eye. — J.S.

It's arthritis — and distinctly not arthritis, arthritis being an affliction involving joints, while arteritis involves arteries. Best description of it would be "inflammation of the arteries," and yours evidently is the form of it known as temporal arteritis, with arteries around the temple being primarily involved.

Technically, arteritis is one of the group of ailments known as collagen diseases, which perhaps isn't of much help to you. The collagen diseases involve the connective or supportive tissues of the body. Frankly, we don't know nearly as much about the collagen diseases as we would like to know or as we need to know. In fact, the cause of the collagen diseases is not known — including arteritis.

Essentially, what we know is that these diseases exist, and we know pragmatically that drugs of the cortisone type can lessen the discomfort and reduce the tendency to recur. Such treatment has to be on a long-term basis.

In passing, arteritis can involve such symptoms as loss of weight, rheumatic-type pain, and fever. In view of the present state of knowledge —

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Are the following true or false?

1. One should drink water BEFORE having orange juice, otherwise the orange, being an acid drink, will harm the stomach.

2. No one should drink water or other liquids at dinner or any other heavy meal. The stomach liquids can digest foods better without the liquids. — W.M.

Neither one makes any sense.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What could make a feeling like something rising up in the center of my chest? It isn't painful but makes me weak and takes my breath if I don't do something. I have learned that if I start to inhale deeply the moment this starts I can whip it out.

What is angina pectoris? Is it dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about angina pectoris, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of his helpful booklet, "How To Handle Angina Pectoris." In passing, arteritis can involve such symptoms as loss of weight, rheumatic-type pain, and fever. In view of the present state of knowledge —

Daniel Hasn't Decided On Chairmen Of Committees

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Wide-spread Capitol rumors to the contrary, Speaker - apparent Price Daniel Jr. of Liberty says he has made no final decisions on next year's House committee chairmanships.

"I am not going to make any final decision on any appointments until after the election," Daniel said in a telephone interview.

In fact, he said, making appointments before he is elected speaker might come close to violating the speaker's oath of office which he probably will take Jan. 9.

LIBERAL
Daniel apparently has all the votes he needs to become speaker when the legislature convenes, and he has no organized opposition.

The most persistent report is that he will appoint Rep. Neil Caldwell of Alvin chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. Caldwell was an early supporter of Daniel and is a member of the committee now.

A liberal who has served some 12 years in the legislature, almost entirely under conservative speakers, Caldwell has held no major House chairmanships.

"He is one that is being considered. A lot of people have suggested him," Daniel said.

Rep. Joe Allen of Baytown is another longtime Daniel backer mentioned for a major chairmanship. Allen has "expressed interest" in the House Revenue and Taxation Committee, "but I don't think it would be fair to say he is being considered."

BIG INTEREST
Daniel said Allen's "big interest" was in the House Administration Committee.

Another name that has come up for the administration committee chairmanship is conservative Rep. Ben Bynum of Amarillo, and Daniel said he is one of several who are "being considered."

The name that occurs most often in speculation about Daniel's committee appointments is that of Rep. W. S. "Bill" Healy of Paducah, crusty, sometimes domineering former chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

When former Speaker Gus Mutscher resigned and Rayford Price—a Healy enemy—took over as speaker, Healy resigned the chairmanship. He later endorsed Daniel for the job.

As various rumors have it,

Healy will serve on the appropriations committee, be a member of the conference committee that writes the next state budget or serve on the Legislative Budget Board.

Intruder Meets Princess Anne

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne was attending a memorial service at a London church when a young man claiming to be "from God" slipped through tight security and knelt down beside her.

The man, wearing sneakers and a white sweater, made two attempts to enter the Church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields at Trafalgar Square on Tuesday before he finally got inside.

The intruder took his place in the pew alongside Anne, who was sitting with Prince Philip, her father, and Prince Charles, who was not identified, was quietly hustled out of the church. Police said that since he had done nothing wrong he would not be charged.

"Healy has not asked me for a thing ever, at any time," Daniel said. "I am not going to let his experience go down the drain. On the other hand, he will not play a prominent role in my administration."

Daniel said Healy was "too controversial" to be given an important role.

He said Healy has enough seniority to go on the appropriations committee if he asks to.

NEW RULES
"As far as who goes on the conference committee, that is so far off that I have not even thought about it," Daniel said, adding that he also had not "even thought about" budget board appointments.

Daniel said he is thinking about committee assignments "without making any particular decisions." He said he expects to name committee members—essential before bills can be considered—about a week or 10 days after the session starts.

He also said he expects the House to decide quickly on new rules that he has proposed.

"I doubt there will even be a fight," he said.

Thanksgiving

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: If I were to set down all the things for which I have to be thankful this Thanksgiving Day, I could fill this page. But I would like to share with you a few unpublished letters. And for these, I am truly thankful:

DEAR ABBY: Because you answered my letter I have regained some of my confidence in people in general. I had my doubts about an answer from you; I guess you showed me. You wouldn't believe what a difference your few words of advice have made in me. I am much more sure of myself now, and maybe that was the trouble all along. I think I must have just wanted someone to listen to me.

I have decided to try very hard to become a happy, carefree person and enjoy what is left of my senior year in high school. Now that I am meeting people halfway, I find they want to be friendly as much as I. Thank you so much, Abby. And may God bless you, too. Peace.

Love, GINNY

DEAR ABBY: Through your column, I discovered ALANON — the organization which helps the families of alcoholics learn how to live with an alcoholic. My husband was an alcoholic for many years, but he wouldn't admit it to himself, so of course he had no reason to go to a meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous.

Through my association with ALANON, would you believe my husband agreed to attend an A.A. meeting, and now he is sober and has been for seven months? Don't tell me miracles can't happen. It happened to us. May God bless you. MORE THAN GRATEFUL IN L.A.

DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column signed "TOO LATE." It was from a woman who had time to go everywhere but to visit her elderly parents who sat alone night after night. Only after they died did she realize how selfish she had been, and she went to visit their graves and wondered if God would ever forgive her.

Well, thank God, I am not too late because I, too, was too busy to visit my elderly parents, but that letter woke me up, and now I am trying to make up for my selfishness. Bless you for printing it.

NOT TOO LATE IN SEATTLE
DEAR READERS: If you have no special "grace" for your Thanksgiving meal, please use mine:

O heavenly Father:
We thank Thee for food and remember the hungry
We thank Thee for health and remember the sick
We thank Thee for friends and remember the friendless
We thank Thee for freedom and remember the enslaved
May these remembrances stir us to service
That Thy gifts to us may be used for others. Amen

Have a happy, healthy Thanksgiving. ABBY

Couple Honored For Golden Anniversary

WESTBROOK (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Byrd were honored recently with a reception in their home in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Byrd were married Nov. 4, 1922 in Estelline, later moved to Morton, and to their present home in 1952. In addition to their three children, the couple has five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

More than 80 guests attended, registering from Morton, Hamilton, Ropesville, Burnett, Estelline, Fort Worth, San Angelo, Panhandle, Westbrook, Colorado City, Snyder, Dunn, Midland, Odessa, Hermleigh, Littlefield, San Diego, Calif., and Lewisville, Ark.

Hosting the occasion were the honoree's children, Herbert Byrd, San Angelo; Mrs. L. F. Forbes, Panhandle; and Mrs. Virginia Wade, Dunn.

PTA Speaker Cites Child Welfare Need

"There are about 400 cases of child dependence, due to neglect or actual abuse, reported in Howard County each year," said Mrs. Charles Dennison Tuesday to Marcy Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association.

"These are accountable cases," she continued. "There are probably many, many more that we never hear about." Mrs. Dennison said that although the number is not excessive for a county this size, it still represents 400 children that need the services of a child welfare agency or caseworker in the county.

Mrs. Dennison outlined the work done by Child Study Club and American Association of University Women in trying to obtain an agency or caseworker for the city county. A requisition for a caseworker must come from County Judge A. G. Mitchell, who, according to Mrs. Dennison, won't authorize the program without more "specifics" pertaining to neglect cases.

A welfare agency is organized to help children whose home situation is unbeneficial to them," said Mrs. Dennison. "It deals in foster home care, neglect and abuse of children, care and welfare of the unmarried mother and her child, and in protection of children up to the age of 16. There is not even one foster home in the county. The only phase of child welfare we have is for the physically handicapped, offered through the wonderful programs at Dora

T. Fryars Have Holiday Guests

Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Fryar, 4001 Wasson, are Lt. Col. and Mrs. Carl Wyrick and Cheri, Topeka, Kan.; David Barnes, Ackerly; Mr. and Mrs. Perry McMillan; Mrs. Helen Monroe and Mrs. H. W. Killingsworth, all of Big Spring.

Thanksgiving Holidays Bring Guests To Area

FORAN (SC) — Guests of the J. D. McDonalds for Thanksgiving are her mother, Mrs. Jess Roberts, Shawnee, Okla.; and her half-sister, Mrs. Karen Cossac and son, Oklahoma City, Okla.

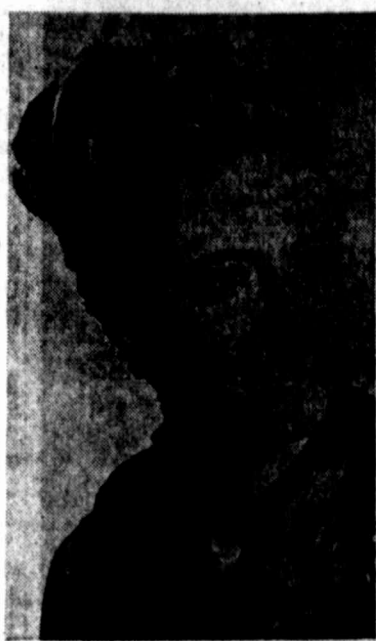

The G. L. Monroynes have left for Villa Grove, Ill., where they will observe the golden wedding anniversary of her brother and sister-in-law, the Paul McCoy's, as well as spend the holiday weekend with the McCoy's.

Mrs. Vera Harris is spending Thanksgiving with her daughter and family, the J. H. Craigs, Robert Lee.

Thanksgiving guests of the Mac Robinsons, Seagoville, are her parents, the J. W. Overtons, her sister, Mrs. Tom Evans, her grandmother, Mrs. T. A. Rankin, and the J. L. Overtons. The J. L. Overtons will also visit the Carl Flores of Grand Prairie before returning home.

Mrs. J. H. Cardwell left Tuesday for Fort Worth to spend the holidays with the H. M. Cardwells.

Mrs. Ida Mae Camp left Tuesday for Skiatook, Okla., to spend Thanksgiving with her daughter and family, the Pat Bruntons.

MRS. CHARLES DENNISON

Roberts Rehabilitation Center." Mrs. Dennison said the state will finance 50 per cent of a welfare operation in the county. She mentioned the recent attitude poll distributed by the Jaycees, and said the 100 responses received indicated the apathy of people who complain about situations, but don't try to do anything about them.

"The objects and aims of a PTA are geared toward protection of all children," said Mrs. Dennison. "Working for a welfare agency in our county is in direct relationship to our purpose."

Bill Schobert, Marcy carnival chairman, announced winners of turkeys awarded at the carnival. They were Ronnie Crumpler, Daniel Sundry, John Conley, Donald Doyle, Ronald Firkins and Shirley Brown. Mrs. Dennison, president, and W. R. Dawes, principal, expressed appreciation to officers, chairmen, parents and students who worked to make the carnival a success.

Mrs. Dennison discussed highlights of the recent PTA state convention in Fort Worth. She and Mrs. J. D. Hyden were delegates, and she said the speakers emphasized the need for "action" projects sponsored by PTAs.

The Rev. R. Earl Price will be guest speaker at the next meeting, 7:30 p.m., Dec. 19 in the school cafeteria.

Man Not Dead; Just Forgetful

Kenju Yamamoto, 29, KOCHI, Japan who wandered around 54 days after being stricken by amnesia, returned home to find his wife and son in mourning.

Yamamoto became unconscious while diving in the sea off Okata on Shikoku Island. He was rescued by a fishing boat, but on regaining consciousness was unable to remember who he was or where he came from.

After nearly two months, he regained his memory and returned home to learn a funeral service had been held for him the previous week.

Opening lead: Jack of ♣ South went down to defeat in his four spade contract because he failed to take steps to anticipate an unfavorable trump division.

West opened the jack of hearts which held the first trick when declarer played low from the dummy and East signalled encouragement with the nine. West continued with the ten which was ducked again and South ruffed with the five of spades. South began drawing trump, however, when East showed out on the second round, it became necessary for the declarer to use up every one of his spades to exhaust West.

Dummy was entered with the king of clubs to try the diamond finesse. When the ten of diamonds lost to the king, West returned a heart thru dummy's queen, and since all the trumps were gone, East was able to cash enough heart tricks to set declarer on the deal.

South surrendered control of the hand when he ruffed the second heart. He should have taken steps to protect himself against a four-one division in trumps by attempting to sever his opponents' line of communications—hearts. If one of the defenders does hold four spades, he may have less hearts than his partner.

Observe the effect, if the declarer permits West to hold the second heart trick, discarding the eight of clubs from his hand. If West continues with the eight of hearts, South ruffs and proceeds to draw all the trump. Now when he crosses over to the king of clubs to take the diamond finesse, West is out of hearts and is unable to put his partner in. South wins the return and has the rest of the tricks. In all, he loses two hearts and one diamond.

Since South has to lose a club trick in any case, it can hardly cost to give it up early, in order to better his odds.

Historical Society Group To Visit In CC Dec. 9-10

By MARJ CARPENTER
COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City museum will be another one of the 21 area museums in a "Visit Permian Basin Museum" tour being conducted Dec. 9-10.

All of the participating museums will open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days and encourage residents to visit their facilities. Many small town museums ordinarily have rare hours when their museums are open, since they usually have only part time help.

Officials of the Permian Historical Society will visit all of the museums and they visited in Colorado City Tuesday morning, getting ready for the tour.

The Colorado City museum is easily accessible from the main part of town and is located on the south side of Third Street between Oak and Walnut directly across from the city buildings and across the street at an angle from the Mitchell County Courthouse.

FENCED-IN
 It is surrounded by a fenced-in yard that includes a historical marker and also some large artifacts. Mitchell County has so many historical markers that they have published a booklet showing the interested historian how to get to all of them.

They give directions and a map on how to reach such colorful sounding locations as Lone Wolf Mountain and Bone Hollow as well as the Rensselaer-Spade Ranch Rock Gate and the Seven Wells Centennial Marker.

In the city alone, the once famous West Texas city has ten building medallions, two site markers, eight subject markers and three grave markers. They are historic in Colorado City.

Among the historical remarks they feature in their marker pamphlet are such topics as telling of the first herdsmen to locate in the Colorado River vicinity. They claim they were George W. Waddell and associates, who in July 1877, established ranch headquarters about nine miles southeast of the present townsite. At that time, it was the land of the buffalo hunters, which were still plentiful on the river.

They also tell of Clay Mann who ranched along the Double Fork of the Brazos. His brand was "88". One of his employees, the late John Wallace, a Negro, was known by the old timers as "80 John". One of the historical markers is named after him.

FIRST STORE

The brief history also tells about A. W. Dunn building the first store and about John Birdwell, for whom Big Spring's Birdwell Lane was later named, coming from Fort Griffin, hauling in a ready-made house and put in the first saloon nearby.

The earliest store in the entire area was for many years a trading store for buffalo hunters on Deep Creek in Scurry County 25 miles north of Colorado City. The store was later moved into Colorado City.

The tales of the early days include one favorite story where some 200 roundup forces from up and down the river converged at Birdwell's saloon and ended up forcing a railroad construction worker to mount a goods box and entertain the crowd with a dance. To make sure that the performance did not lag, a pistol shot was aimed near the entertainer's toes from time to time.

NOT PUSHED AROUND
 But when the railroad men grew in numbers, they were not so easily pushed around, according to the history in the marker's pamphlet. The first train pulled into town on April 6, 1881. By that time, the town had three hundred inhabitants and a newspaper.

They also had one of the first bands in West Texas — as early as 1891. In 1897, its Stockmen's Band furnished music at the West Texas Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth.

There is no way they can crowd all of Colorado City's history into a small museum building. This is the reason for the pamphlet and the historical

Hanson May Get Permanent Post

Astronaut Lovell Planning To Leave Space Program

HOUSTON (AP) — The astronaut who has spent more time in space than any other American says he plans to leave the end of the year, he said. Capt. James A. Lovell said "This is not something that I would choose to do under other circumstances but, let's face it, there are not enough slots for us guys who want to remain in the operations end of space flight."

Reportedly the most likely opportunity for Lovell will be with Cecil Hayden of Houston, who among other interests operates the Bay Eastern Towing Co.

Popular Youth Crusader To Speak Here Dec. 8

David Wilkerson, successful youth crusader in the tough poverty pockets of New York City, will be speaking in the Big Spring City Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 8.

He tells the tale of fighting a long battle with a group of New York hoodlums.

When the gang took their Bibles to the police to be autographed, Wilkerson knew that he had finally arrived.

He was just a country preacher from Pennsylvania when he started working among the teenage gang members, drug addicts and prostitutes in the tough part of the city.

People thought he was, at best, naive and at worst, absolutely crazy.

He fought an uphill battle for many weeks and then one night one of the youths whom he had befriended told him "Preach you're trying too hard."

Wilkerson stated, "It was then that I realized I wasn't bringing the Holy Spirit to the gangs. I was bringing David Wilkerson. I knew right then that all I could do was make the introduction and step aside."

He broke through when he asked a tough gang to collect the offering. They were headed for exit out of the place when they realized that the preacher trusted them. So, the gang leader directed his gang onto the stage and almost reluctantly handed the collection money to Wilkerson.

It was the service that night which saw at least 30 of the audience's toughest members come forward to accept Christ.

YESTERDAY'S STARS TODAY

'Red' Barry No Fan Of 'Relevant' Westerns

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — When Donald Barry trotted out on the field for the first time with the Jefferson Davis High School football team in Houston, and heard the roar of the crowd, he knew he wanted to be in show business.

The mass adulation got him. Just like that. He was hooked by the cheers and was instantly, passionately hungry for more of the same.

RED RYDER

He feasted on them later, thanks to Republic Studios in Hollywood where he became Don "Red" Barry, hero of the "Red Ryder" serial and all-around cowboy star. But his feast didn't come for quite a while.

For reasons Don can't quite remember, the All-Stars were invited to meet an All-Southern California high school team in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

The Texas kids lost 21 to 14, but Don, who'd performed well, wasn't depressed, because, after the game, actors Mickey Rooney and John Wayne who'd been in the stands came to the locker room to congratulate him.

They not only told him he'd played a nice game of football but suggested that, should he ever want to get into movies, he should look them up.

BACK TO EL PASO

Nevertheless, he went back to Texas to attend Texas Western University in El Paso. In the summers he went back to Hollywood where he kept up his contacts, and, finally, a trip West paid off. Don was asked to play Rooney's older brother in "Boys' Town" with, to his huge delight, Spencer Tracy.

"To me," the actor says, "Spencer Tracy was like God. Well, I sat around the set for about six weeks, and then it was time for my first scene — with Tracy.

COULDN'T SPEAK

"He read his lines, but, when it was my turn, I couldn't speak!

"Realizing that I was actually face-to-face with the man I idolized affected me so that my voice left me.

"I stood there gawking with my mouth open for a minute or two, and then we broke for lunch, and, before lunch was over, they'd replaced me.

TAIL BETWEEN LEGS

"That was embarrassing, since the papers back home — the ones I'd delivered as a newsboy — had run stories about my movie debut. Still there was nothing for me to do but go back to Texas with my tail between my legs."

Still, Barry didn't abandon his dreams of becoming an actor, so he kept coming back to the coast. One day, he was sitting at the counter in Schwab's Drug Store when a stranger accosted him with, "I hear you are Don Barry and you want to be an actor? Would you like to read for a part?"

RIGHT NOW

"Sure," Don said. "When?"

"Now," the man said. "Come with me right now."

"That man," Barry tells, "was George Sherman, the director-producer, who was casting 'The Wyoming Outlaw' starring John Wayne. I got a part in the picture, and, out of that, I got a 10-year contract with Republic."

At Republic Donald Barry became Don "Red" Barry (despite the fact that he hated the nickname "Red"), hero of a Western movie series.

ANOTHER GAGNEY

Then Fox borrowed him for "Purple Heart," wherein he performed so well that Darryl Zanuck wanted to buy him.

"I'll make him another Gagney," Zanuck told Herbert Yates of Republic.

Yates said, "No, I'll make him another Gagney myself." At that point, Barry was a hotshot, a rich man with a box-office following. But the bottom was about to fall out.

JUST NO OIL

"I lost $1.5 million in an oil deal with an uncle of mine," he explains. "There was nothing dishonest about the thing. There was just no oil. "With that loss, I had to start over. Friends offered me bit parts, and I took them."

Slowly Barry recouped, in part by adding writing and producing to his bag of accomplishments.

He works as an actor when the right part is available, but currently he's focusing most of his attention upon a script he's written, "A Gun for Billy Rio," which he plans to produce in association with his old friend Sherman.

GET THE MESSAGE

No great fan of so-called "relevant" westerns, he says his will be more entertaining if fan shocking.

"You were once told," he ruminates, "Be good, and things will go right. Be bad, and things will go wrong."

"Now you get the message, 'Be bad, and things will go right. Be good, and you're a nut. Marlon Brando made one picture that set westerns back 400 years."

Little Poorer After Encounter

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Debts and credits concern Franklin County Treasurer Phillip Goldsleger. Joseph Martin's business also was debts and credits before he retired as an accountant.

Their paths crossed here this week — and Goldsleger said the county will be a little poorer for the encounter.

Martin enclosed a self-addressed envelope with his property tax payment so he could get a receipt. Goldsleger advised him a stamp on the self-addressed envelop was needed.

Martin checked the Ohio Revised Code and found no stamp was needed — only the self-addressed envelope.

Goldsleger said he had known about the law "all 24 (years) I've been here." He admitted he had been asking for the stamps, as did his predecessor. The stamps will cost the county $15,000 a year, he said.

Said Goldsleger, "We're on an austerity program, you know."

Forest Land

In the continental United States, most of the commercial forest land is in the eastern half of the country.

Floury Dustoff First For Fellow

NEW YORK (AP) — C. Jackson Grayson says the floury dustoff he got from two young women protesting rising food prices was a first for him in his job as chairman of the Price Commission.

Grayson was speaking to the New York Society of Security Analysts when the women, Susan Steinman, 22, and Sharon Ayling, 21, invaded the meeting and threw handfuls of flour around the room.

They shouted that the price of flour was too high and asked why Pillsbury had been granted an 11 per cent price increase. They were ejected but no charges were preferred.

When things were calmed down and cleaned up, Grayson said he sympathized with the demonstrators but that controls on food prices could inhibit production.

Briscoe Is In Star Spotlight

Rancher, banker, businessman and soon to be chief executive of Texas, Gov.-Elect Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde is the prototype of the hometown boy who made good.

In the Nov. 26 issue of the Texas Star, Weldon Hart outlines the political and business career of Briscoe and spotlights his major campaign promise to the people of Texas.

Also in the Star, hints on hunting are reported by guest comment columnist Clayton T. Garrison, executive director of Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. For the hunter, Garrison notes hunting dates and details some of the game and range conditions expected in the field this year.

Slap Banker With Charge

HOUSTON (AP) — Govie Ernest Waller, former president of the Angleton Bank of Commerce, was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges he misappropriated $47,000 of the bank's funds in 1970.

The indictment alleges Waller made loans totaling that amount through another man.

Waller acquired controlling interest in the Angleton Bank of Commerce in 1961 after selling his interest in the First State Bank of Aransas Pass. Previously he was associated with the First National Bank in Houston.

In 1963, Waller was appointed to a six-year term on the board of directors of the Brazos River Authority by then Gov. John Connally.

Foy L. Knipp, former vice president of the Angleton Bank of Commerce, was indicted last March 22 by a federal grand jury on charges of causing the Angleton bank to make a loan of $44,000 in 1970 to an Austin bank for his own use and benefit and of making false bank entries.

NBC's 'Ironside' Worrying About Bomb Instead Of Bird

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Network television, which like a ward boss gives the citizenry a free turkey now and then, is refraining from the custom during prime evening time this Thanksgiving Day.

Its nighttime programming isn't much concerned with Thanksgiving. It has no regular shows or specials that use as a theme the day's traditional feast of turkey.

BANG BANG

For example, NBC's "Ironside" will be worrying about a bomb instead of a bird. CBS is displaying "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang," the 1968 box office hit about a car that flies and floats.

ABC comes the closest to a Thanksgiving theme with a three-hour show about the wish-bone. The Wishbone T formation. As used by the Texas Longhorns in their football fight tonight with the Aggies of Texas A&M. The game starts at 9 p.m. EST.

The business-as-usual motif prevailed in the daytime at ABC, save for another college football game — Oklahoma versus Nebraska.

NBC and strikebound CBS, on the other hand, scheduled some morning Thanksgiving specials to amuse the folks before settling down to the serious business of pro football.

THAT'S TV

NBC was taking its traditional three-hour look at Macy's annual Thanksgiving Day parade here with a cast of hosts that included Joe Garagiola of the "Today" show, Lorne Greene of "Bonanza" and Betty White. Then came the New York Jets-Draft Struck game.

CBS, which was struck by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers 13 days ago, gamely proceeded with plans to telecast not one but four Thanksgiving Day parades in the morning — the Macy's parade here and similar events in Philadelphia, Detroit and Toronto.

The strike caused no problems for a one-hour CBS noontime special — an animated version of Daniel Defoe's "Robinson Crusoe." The show had nothing to do with Thanksgiving, but that's television for you.

DONNY RATS HOLE MONEY

HOUSTON (AP) — Donny Firsching, 11, couldn't figure out what happened to the $10 bill he earned during the summer by helping a relative operate a movie house.

Then he remembered he put the bill next to a cage holding his two pet rats. Inside the cage he found the tattered remnants of the bill.

His mother, Ruth Firsching, took the leftovers to Houston banks and negotiations failed. She then mailed the bits of paper to the U.S. Treasury Department in Washington. A $10 check came as a replacement.

Recaptured After Stroll

HOUSTON (AP) — Sheriff's officers here were notified today that San Antonio authorities have recaptured Ronnie L. Foster, 19, who strolled out of jail in Houston earlier this week under another man's name.

Harris County deputies said they would go to San Antonio and return him.

Officers said Foster, held under bonds totalling $150,000 on robbery charges, answered to a call for another prisoner whom a bondsman came to bail out on a misdemeanor traffic charge. He broke and ran after they stepped outside, they said.

Man With Razor Victim Of Bullet

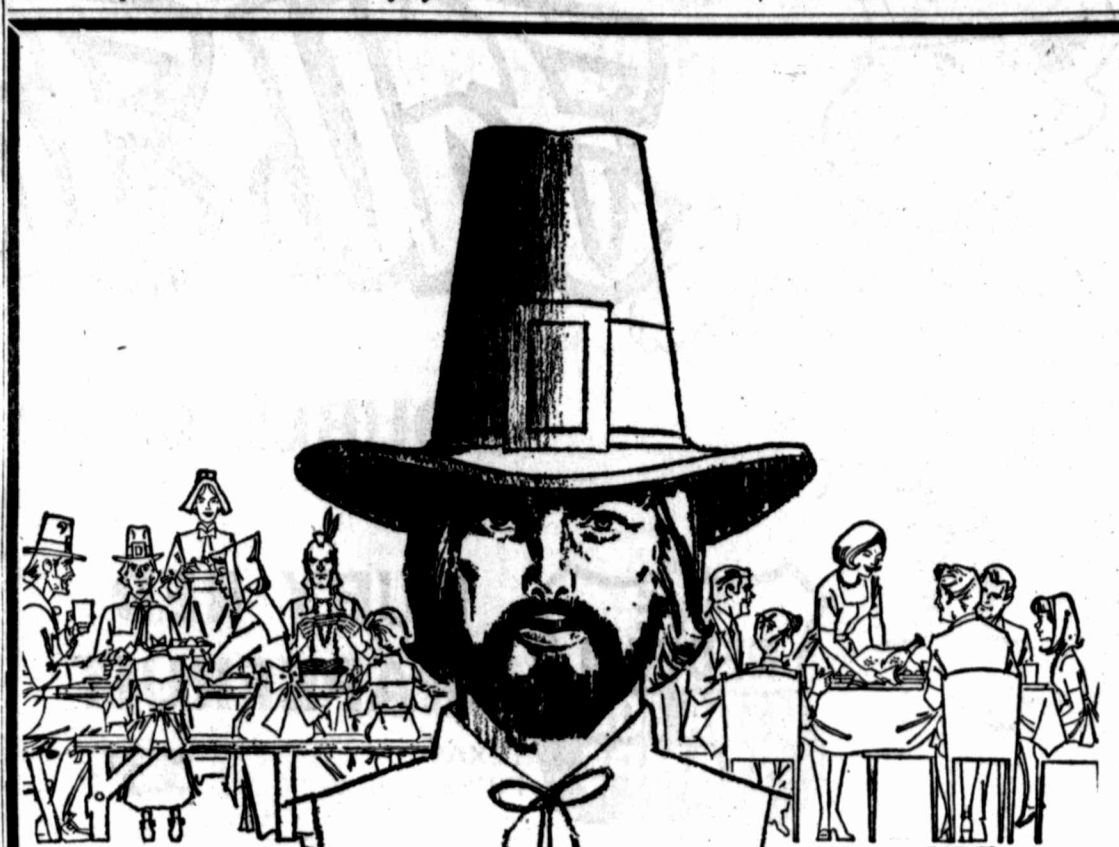

HOUSTON (AP) — Two men argued at a residence Tuesday night, one drew a razor and the other a pistol—and the razor man lost, police reported.

Robert Lee Martin, 19, died of .22-caliber bullet wounds. Officers said the other man was held without immediate charge and the case would be referred directly to the county grand jury.

Blind Man Guns Down 2 'Possums

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) — George Taylor, 78, of Palestine, has been blind 13 years but no pesky o'possum better try to raid his poultry at night.

Two 'possums did try to their sorrow. Taylor took his rifle and his flashlight out to the yard each time, had his wife focus the flashlight along the rifle barrel in the varmints' eyes. Taylor pulled the trigger.

Scratch two pesky, fowl-eating 'possums.

Taylor was mail and baggage porter for the Missouri Pacific Railroad here 17 years ago when he was disabled in an accident on the job that cost him his eyesight and left his hip out of place and his back permanently injured.

His vision gradually diminished after the accident until 1959, when he lost what remained of his eyesight.

He was pulling a four-wheel mail cart loaded with mail order catalogs across the tracks at the Missouri-Pacific station while others pushed it. A metal wheel of the cart caught on the track, causing him to fall. His head struck the concrete of the station platform and his back and hip were wrenched.

Totally blind for the last 13 years, he has received no state aid.

"Wonder if I could get some help?" he speculated.

Taylor's second wife works to help make ends meet. He's the father of 13 living children by two wives.

In addition to chickens and turkeys, he is trying to build up a small herd of cattle, now numbering 13 head, including a bull. He rents a pasture and is having a hay barn built on one of the three lots he owns.

An ingenious system of wires lead from near his back door out to the chicken and turkey houses and pen. Walking with the aid of a cane, he holds to the wire with the other hand when he goes to feed his turkeys.

Taylor was born on the Col. Henry Swanson place east of Palestine and has lived here all of his life. He has lived at his present home 22 years.

WHEN KIDS ARE GONE, PARENTS FACE WOES

'Empty Nest Syndrome'

By EDWARD NEILAN
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — For virtually all of the 22 years that Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Byrnes have been married, there have been children in the house.

Until this year.

Now the Byrnes, with both daughters married and living elsewhere, are going through a readjustment period that is confronting many couples across the land.

The "empty nest syndrome," as some sociologists call it, is hitting more and more couples with sometimes devastating impact.

GET ACQUAINTED

"We always had children around to be the focus of attention," said Mrs. Byrnes, 44. "Now Larry and I are confronted with each other 24 hours a day."

Prof. John L. Thomas of Georgetown University believes the empty nest syndrome is more of a problem today than in previous years.

"Today's increased life-span, earlier marriages and the trend toward family limitation have lengthened the 'empty nest' period," Thomas said. "The average life-span in 1900 was 46, so by the time children had grown and left home, parents had about had it as a couple. Over half of marriages by that time had been broken by death."

Now what? Today, according to Bureau of Census statistics, the average life-span is over 70. That means that after the last child has left home, the average married couple can expect at least 12 to 15 years of married life together — just the two of them.

After 20 years or more of married life a couple is often faced with the question: "Now what?"

The partners often find that they've grown apart. If both are retired, they are both "hanging around the house all day" and "getting in each other's way."

Thomas says the best way for a couple to prepare for the strains of the empty nest period is to concentrate on "couple-ness" all during their marriage.

In other words, he says, the husband and wife should do things as a twosome once in awhile — tete-a-tete dinners, weekends in the mountains or at the beach — and not to include the kids in every outing.

IMPORTANT PERSONS "In a sense, children are terribly important as persons," Thomas said. "The best way to show this is not to smother them and to remember that husband and wife are persons, too."

Marriage counselors seem to agree that one of the best ways to prepare for the empty nest period is for each partner to develop new interests.

The Georgetown professor said "whatever works should be pursued. Broaden interests and widen horizons, whether social interests or travel or reading or community service."

"BE YOURSELF" "Outside experiences help to reinforce the couple's basic relationship."

Thomas said the main thing for marriage partners to learn is to "be yourself."

He said the worst thing to develop is a feeling that marital and sexual relations are some sort of duty or test of masculinity. The partnership should be a means of unity and mutual support.

"If the marital experience is regarded as a performance," said Thomas, "you're in trouble."

Oregon Elks Due Tax Bites

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Oregon governments may begin collecting taxes on property owned by fraternal groups with restrictions on membership because of a federal court decision.

State officials estimate that as much as $2.3 million a year in taxes is involved.

A three-judge panel ruled here that the Oregon Department of Revenue cannot allow the Elks an exemption without violating the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Clifford McGlotten, a 26-year-old former Reed College teaching intern, and 33-year-old Michael Falkenstein, a juvenile court counselor, brought class action with the help of the American Civil Liberties Union.

In 1970, Elks Lodge No. 142 in Portland rejected McGlotten as a member when he was put forward by Ken Keller, a Portland lawyer and then a member of the lodge, at Falkenstein's urging. McGlotten is black.

"By granting these exemptions, Oregon has placed its stamp of approval on the discriminatory policies of the Elks Lodge," the court said.

$1,000 Award

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Teaching excellence at the University of Texas at Austin Graduate School of Business will be rewarded with a new $1,000 annual award.

Established by Foster Parker of Houston, executive vice president of Brown & Root, the Joe D. Beasley Award honors a former partner of the Houston office of Arthur Andersen and Co., an accounting firm.

They Seek Liberty

LIBERTY, Tex. (AP) — Three prisoners escaped from the Liberty County jail in this Southeast Texas town Wednesday.

Officers identified the three as David McClure Jr., 21, and Mandel Angelo, 19, both charged with armed robbery; and Andrew McCoy, charged with burglary. All are from Houston.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Clay Autery said the men used a hacksaw to cut through bars. They then lowered themselves from the third-floor jail with blankets tied together.

STEAL BLIND WOMAN'S TURKEY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Thieves swooped down on the home of sightless Carlotta Castillo and took the ingredients of her Thanksgiving dinner Tuesday, police said.

Mrs. Castillo told police burglars entered her house while she was at a doctor's office. They took a turkey and trimmings she purchased with her November aid-to-the-blind check, she said.

She said her next assistance check, her only income, is not due until the second week of December.

Writer Tells Brooklyn Bridge Story

By PHIL THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For most people, the Brooklyn Bridge is what hayseeds buy and daredevils jump off.

But for writer David McCullough the great span hurdlng New York City's East River has "a curious magnetism — people have gone to it on their honeymoons, have carried newborn babies across it, and have scattered the ashes of their dead over its sides." McCullough, whose recently published, 636-page "The Great Bridge" tells the story of the building of the bridge, first felt its magnetism when he and his wife moved into an apartment in Brooklyn Heights some years ago.

"THE GREAT BRIDGE" "We used to go out on it on Sundays and walk," he recalls with a smile. "It was a marvelous place to get out of the city while still being in the city. It's the only bridge with a promenade above the traffic. Its builder intended it that way. It was designed for people to enjoy."

people that built it? My book, you see, is really a story of people and not just a bridge." McCullough began work on his bridge book some five years ago — working as a magazine editor by day and on the book at night and on weekends.

QUIT HIS JOB "I did that for about two years," he says, "and then I realized that I'd chosen a subject that was so big and the material for it was so far ranging and plentiful that the only way I could do the job properly was to concentrate all my efforts on it. So I quit my job — which isn't easy when you have five kids ranging from 16 down to 3 — and a lot of people thought I was mad. But I believed this was an important story, and I had a compulsion to do it."

Researching the book meant digging through a lot of old newspapers as well as through a vast amount of material in the libraries of two colleges, McCullough says, "but having such abundant raw material to work with gave me the chance to bring my characters alive."

TOUGHEST BOSS McCullough, 39, who now lives with his family in West Tisbury, Mass., says the five years he spent on the book was about evenly divided between research and writing.

"On a book like this you gather much more than you use," he says with a laugh. "As long as this book is, it could have been a great deal longer. "I worked very, very hard on this book. At one point, I tore up 50,000 words and threw them away because they weren't right and started over again. "I'm the toughest boss I ever worked for."

'Don't Fence Me In' Writer Dies

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — Robert H. Fletcher, 87, Western poet and writer best known for his song "Don't Fence Me In," died Monday in Escondido, Calif. He retired in 1964 from a post as public relations manager for the Montana Power Co.

McCullough, a former magazine writer and editor and the author of "The Johnstown Flood," says it was while he was enjoying the bridge that "I realized here is this very famous bridge — but how did it get here, why was it built, how long did it take to build? And, most of all, who were the factories. A whirlwind drew a column of water more than 100 feet high from the River Po at Casalmaggiore, North Italy, recently, damaging a hospital, homes and

X-Rated Vote Machine Quiz

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A Republican Party complaint that a voting machine at a Brownsville precinct during the general election operated in a faulty manner proved to be legitimate.

Frances Lipe, ballot security chairman for the Republican Party in Cameron County, had forwarded a list of complaints of voting irregularities to U.S. Atty. Anthony J. P. Farris in Houston. One complaint was that at Precinct 8 in Brownsville, U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., received no votes at all.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Raul A. Gonzalez and FBI agent Jim Wilson Tuesday checked the machine and determined that no matter how many times the lever was pulled for Tower the machine registered no votes.

When the lever was pulled during the test Tuesday, an "x" appeared as it should, but no matter how many times the lever was pulled it still registered "zero".

Buying For Christmas Is Started Early By Stores

In the busiest merchandising season, stores will be kicking off their campaign for Christmas dollars now that Thanksgiving has arrived.

Hemphill-Wells Co. budgets about twice as much for advertising before Christmas as any other comparable time span during the year, Mrs. Milton S. Knowles, advertising manager for Hemphill-Wells here, said.

Planning starts in June. Buyers attend New York and Dallas markets beginning the same time.

For White Stores Inc., advertising in Big Spring runs about 50 per cent higher in December than in other months of the year, Lane Hinton, store manager, said.

December sales are usually first followed by the vacationing month of June and third place November.

Pre-Christmas inventories are about 20 per cent larger than inventories in other times of the year. Management tries to get peak inventories in October.

Group Leaving For Seminar

Members of the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses are leaving this weekend to attend the three-day Bible seminar of the group at the High School Auditorium in Sweetwater, according to James Watkins, local presiding minister.

Delegates are expected from points as far distant as Alpine and Brownwood. Peak attendance at the assembly is expected to swell to 1,500 by Sunday afternoon when John P. Sutherland, District Supervisor for the Witnesses in the area, discourses on the topic, "Is This Life All There Is?"

According to Watkins, the four meetings regularly conducted at the Kingdom Hall over the weekend will be cancelled in favor of the Sweetwater engagement. All of the sessions at the Sweetwater assembly are free of charge. There will be no collection plate passed. The public is cordially invited.

ANCESTOR HUNTERS

Opening Of Old Census Records Stirs Dispute

WASHINGTON — The National Archives and the U.S. Census Bureau are battling backstage over the philosophical and legal issue of whether the census returns of 1900 should be made public after 72 years.

The genealogical and hereditary societies are awaiting the outcome. They draw heavily on the decennial returns from 1790 to 1880 for their ancestral research.

The 1880 census return is the latest open to the public. It became available in 1952, or 72 years after the enumeration. The 1890 return was largely destroyed by fire.

LIKE KIDS — Researchers have been waiting like kids for Christmas or the Archives to open the 1900 census this year. It promises to be a treasure trove for ancestor hunters.

All but buried among the bulletin board notices in the Archives' microfilm research room is a June 29 release from the General Services Administration saying it had agreed that day to "suspend the opening of the 1900 census" at the request of the Department of Commerce.

GSA has the Archives under its wings just as Commerce oversees the Census Bureau.

"The records will remain closed pending resolution of conflicting questions of confidentiality of census data and public access to this information," said GSA. "The records were to be made available this month for accredited research in accordance with a 1952 agreement between the Department of Commerce and GSA."

Shrimp Dying In Good Cause

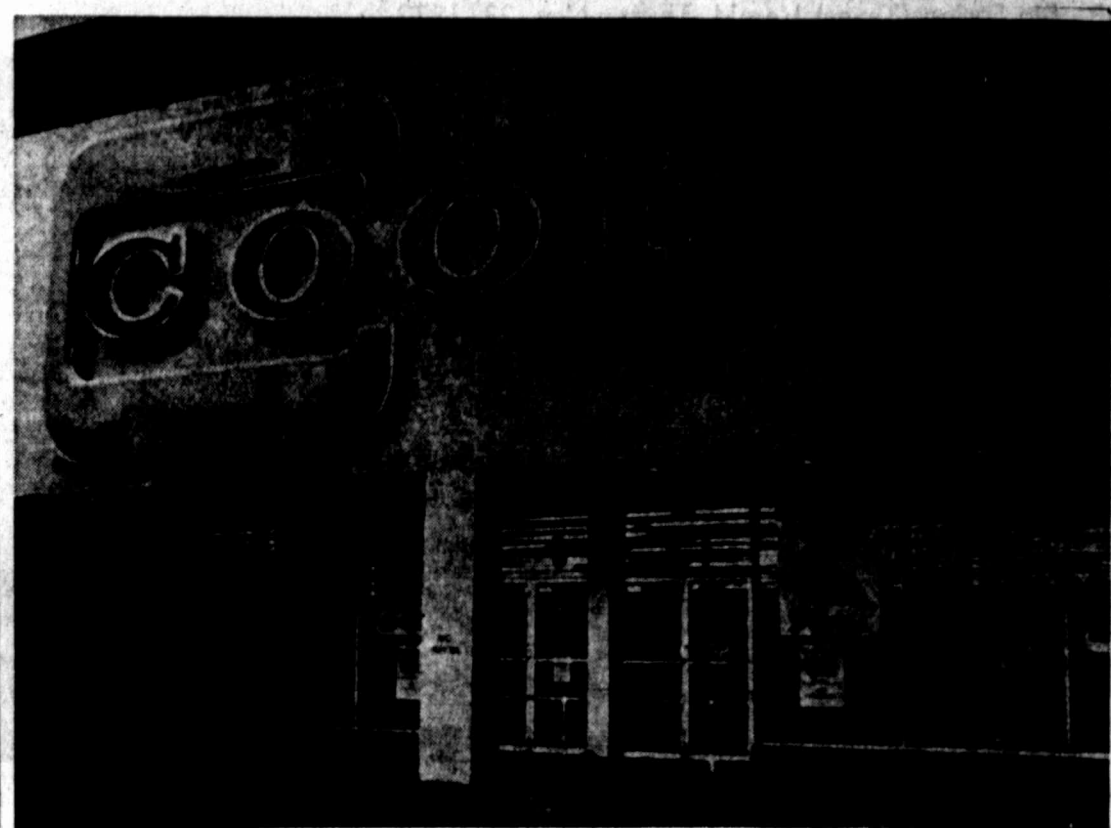

HOUSTON (AP) — Dozens of young shrimp are being killed deliberately each week here by a group of federal and state technicians.

The shrimp are dying in a good cause. They are testing the toxicity to marine life of the polluted wastes being discharged by different Houston industries. Most of them fail to survive the tests.

The tests are being conducted by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Texas Water Quality Board in the new laboratory and office quarters the EPA recently occupied here.

Shrimp fatality rates in the bio-assay tests will help determine the new pollution limits being set for industries discharging waste into the Houston Ship Channel and the Galveston Bay system.

Since the EPA moved into the quarters last July, the federal-state team has run tests on about 16 companies. The lab ultimately plans to test 63 industries that account for 95 percent of the waste load going into Galveston Bay.

Overcrowding Of Inmates Worry To British, Too

LONDON (AP) — Martin Wright leaned back in his chair, took a sip of tea and mused: "The potential is there, but so far, there haven't been the provocations."

Wright is the director of the Howard League for Penal Reform and he referred to the potential for trouble in British prisons.

A recent report on the work of the prison department showed there were 39,389 inmates in the 111 jails and juvenile detention centers or borstals in England and Wales—a drop from the 1970 figure, but still large enough to cause massive overcrowding.

A spokesman for the Home Office, which supervises the prisons, estimated that 25,000 inmates are housed in 19th century buildings.

William Cahn, president of the U.S. National District Attorneys Association, recently described the overcrowding as "a short fuse on a long stick of dynamite."

Cahn was one of 50 district attorneys who spent a week studying law enforcement in Britain.

CONTRASTS
To an American, the British prison system seems at once more stringent and more lenient than that of the United States.

The age of the prisons, the amount of time men spend locked in tiny cells, the old-fashioned industry in some prisons and the often-gloomy physical appearance of the buildings combine to make one think of a description from a Victorian novel.

In contrast, however, there are a few ultramodern prisons which resemble an industrial complex more than a jail; about 10 per cent of the inmates are housed in "open prisons" with virtually no barrier to escape; guards—like British police—carry no weapons.

One of the showpieces of the British prison system is Coldingley.

Opened in 1969, the prison is designed to test the hypothesis "that for a certain type of prisoner, the most important part of his training is to learn to work in an efficient well-managed industrial organization, to have to work under supervision and against the clock in achieving economic levels of output and quality, to earn more or less money according to how hard he works and his own abilities will allow."

The prison does not coddle its inmates. "Outside the fence it's a hard, wicked world," said the official, and the prison tries to imitate that world as much as possible.

The men are allowed a certain say in their lives—but they also must accept responsibility for their decisions.

At present, Coldingley has 222 inmates. The final capacity is 296. Men from the region are sent to the prison when there are job vacancies providing they meet certain criteria. They must be over 21, they must have between nine months and three years left of their sentence to serve, they must be physically and mentally able to work a 40-hour week and they must have the potential to develop work habits.

From a distance, the low, modern buildings of Coldingley resemble a college campus more than a prison. It is only when a visitor approaches the institution that the fences topped with barbed wire become visible.

LIKE FACTORY
With the industrial buildings, the atmosphere is that of a factory. There are no uniformed officers, only civilian foremen. Step outside the buildings, however, and there are uniformed officers patrolling with guard dogs.

Coldingley is a training prison—one to which sentenced prisoners are transferred after initial assessment in a local prison.

Training prisons usually provide more in the way of industry, education and rehabilitation for inmates, but only about half the prisoners ever get to these facilities.

For the other inmates, the time in prison means at least 11 and probably 16 hours spent in cells some 12 feet long, 9 feet wide and 18 feet high.

There are no toilets in the cells, only chamber pots.

When he does work—usually at unskilled tasks like sewing mailbags—the prisoner earns an average of $1.30 per week. The maximum wage at Coldingley, in contrast, is about $4.70.

Both reformers like the Howard League's Wright and the government agree conditions must be improved. They disagree about what should be done and how serious the threat of riot or rebellion really is.

"We have the odd fracas, but nothing really serious," said a Home Office spokesman. He said there was little racial antagonism and "not even many accusations of brutality by prisoners on officials."

Why hasn't there been the same kind of trouble there has been in the United States?

"You can't answer that just in terms of prisons," said the Home Office spokesman. "You must do it in terms of the whole society. Perhaps a better question would be: 'Why have you got the trouble and we haven't?'"

Some people feel the answer lies in the differing traditions of the two countries—the frontier attitude of the United States versus the more settled British heritage. They point to the general level of violence in America, particularly in the big cities and note proudly that you can walk around almost any area of London at any time of the day or night without fear of criminals.

Discussing the question of why there have been no riots in British prisons, Wright said, "There's already been a certain kind of rumbling from a certain element, but the inmates aren't a united force yet."

Why hasn't there been the same kind of trouble there has been in the United States?

"You can't answer that just in terms of prisons," said the Home Office spokesman. "You must do it in terms of the whole society. Perhaps a better question would be: 'Why have you got the trouble and we haven't?'"

Some people feel the answer lies in the differing traditions of the two countries—the frontier attitude of the United States versus the more settled British heritage. They point to the general level of violence in America, particularly in the big cities and note proudly that you can walk around almost any area of London at any time of the day or night without fear of criminals.

Discussing the question of why there have been no riots in British prisons, Wright said, "There's already been a certain kind of rumbling from a certain element, but the inmates aren't a united force yet."

SHOPPING FOODWAY IS JUST LIKE GETTING A RAISE

'Pray And Give Thanks'

One of the besetting sins of our time is notion that we are indebted to nothing other than our own ingenuity and enterprise for all the affluence that surrounds us.

We are blind to all that has gone before us; we are forgetful of the source of all blessings.

And yet we are the product of the labors of our ancestors, and of the providence of God.

The prophet admonished the people in olden times, when they were puffed up and forgetful, self-satisfied and complacent, that they have debts of gratitude to be acknowledged.

"And it shall be, when the Lord thy God shall have brought you into the land which he swore unto thy fathers . . . to give the great and godly cities which thou buildest not and houses full of all good things which thou filledst not and wells digged which thou diggest not, vineyards and olive trees which thou plantest not.

"When thou shalt have eaten and be full, then beware lest thou forget the Lord."

In another passage, we are told of the man who reaped such bountiful harvests that he was obliged to build additional barns, then settled back to gloat over what his ability and foresight had wrought. He was pronounced a fool, for at that very moment his soul was required of him. He made a perennial discovery — he couldn't take it with him, and therefore it didn't really belong to him.

How much better would it be, on this Thanksgiving day, if we would meditate upon what we owe to those who have made our contemporary blessings possible, and to remember the ultimate source of what we think we possess.

Perhaps we might as did Daniel, "pray and give thanks before God."

Worth Pursuing

Israel, which has pioneered in the field of desalination, recently announced it was giving up on its nuclear-powered projects because of high costs. Israel's efforts in desalination of seawater were made possible by the Johnson administration, which proposed a $200 million joint nuclear desalination plant. With subsequent cost estimates outrunning expectations, however, that idea was dropped.

But Israel has new hopes. Its scientists are studying a new distillation process to take the salt out of seawater. A test plant, to convert a million gallons of water a day, is designed to produce fresh water 10 to 15 per cent cheaper than the most modern units in the West.

Now Israel hopes to expand its advances, building — with American aid — a plant capable of producing 12 million gallons a day by 1975. In the following decade, it hopes to be able to pump 100 million gallons a day.

The United States, in the Foreign Assistance Act, has authorized spending $40 million on a joint desalination plant in Israel. As the Israeli research begins paying dividends, the investment looks good. Advancement in the field of desalination, particularly in lowering costs, has application worldwide; certainly this government should provide all the assistance it can.

Well Smoked Dinner

Marj Carpenter

It's Thanksgiving and my landlady might be delighted to know that I do not plan to have a smoked turkey this year.

IN ANDREWS last year, I was busily preparing a big holiday dinner with all the trimmings for a neighbor family and us. I had the table set with the best china and had fixed the fruit centerpiece and had baked the pumpkin pie, prepared the fruit salad, the vegetables and was just finishing. Then I took the turkey out of the oven.

I spilled a small amount of juice as I removed the pan and suddenly, the entire oven was on fire. We found out later that it was a short in the thermostat but at that point, I only knew I had quite a fire.

MY COLLEGE DAUGHTER, thinking of soda, grabbed flour instead, and threw it on the fire. This made more fire.

My teenage son, with an eye for the Thanksgiving dinner began to carry all the cooked food to the neighbors. We tried to put out the fire ourselves, but when it began to lick around the oven door to the wood cabinets, we broke down and called the fire department.

My college daughter stood on a picnic table in the backyard and gave a blow by blow description. "Here comes the fire truck, here comes the police and here come all the neighbors."

At that point, she went out and joined the crowd out front and asked "Who lives here anyway?"

THERE REALLY wasn't much damage. Lots of smoke and lots of commotion and a turkey dinner with a decided smoked taste. But that's the hard way to get smoked turkey.

Things I am especially thankful for this year — that we're not having smoked turkey . . . that the Presidential advertisements will not be run again for four more years . . . that the people in Big Spring, my new home, are turning out to be such a friendly bunch. Have a good Turkey Day.

Le Jour De Merci

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — As has been our custom through the ages, we always honor Thanksgiving Day by explaining it to the French people, who, through no fault of their own, have no holiday to compare with it.

One of our most important holidays is Thanksgiving Day, known in France as le jour de merci donnant.

Le jour de merci donnant was first started by a group of pilgrims pelerins who fled from l'Angleterre before the McCarran Act to found a colony in the New World le nouveau monde where they could shoot Indians les Peaux-Rouges and eat turkey dinde to their heart's content. They landed at a place called Plymouth (now a famous vulture Americaine) in a wooden sailing ship called the Mayflower (or Fleur de Mal in 1620).

But while the pelerins were killing the dinde, the Peaux-Rouges were killing the pelerins, and there were several hard winters ahead for both of them. The only way the Peaux-Rouges helped the pelerins was when they taught them to grow corn maïs.

The reason they did this was because they liked corn with their pelerins.

In 1623, after another harsh year, the pelerins' crops were so good that they decided to have a celebration and give thanks because more maïs was raised by the pelerins than pelerins were killed by Peaux-Rouges.

Every year on the jour de merci donnant, parents tell their children an amusing story about the first celebration.

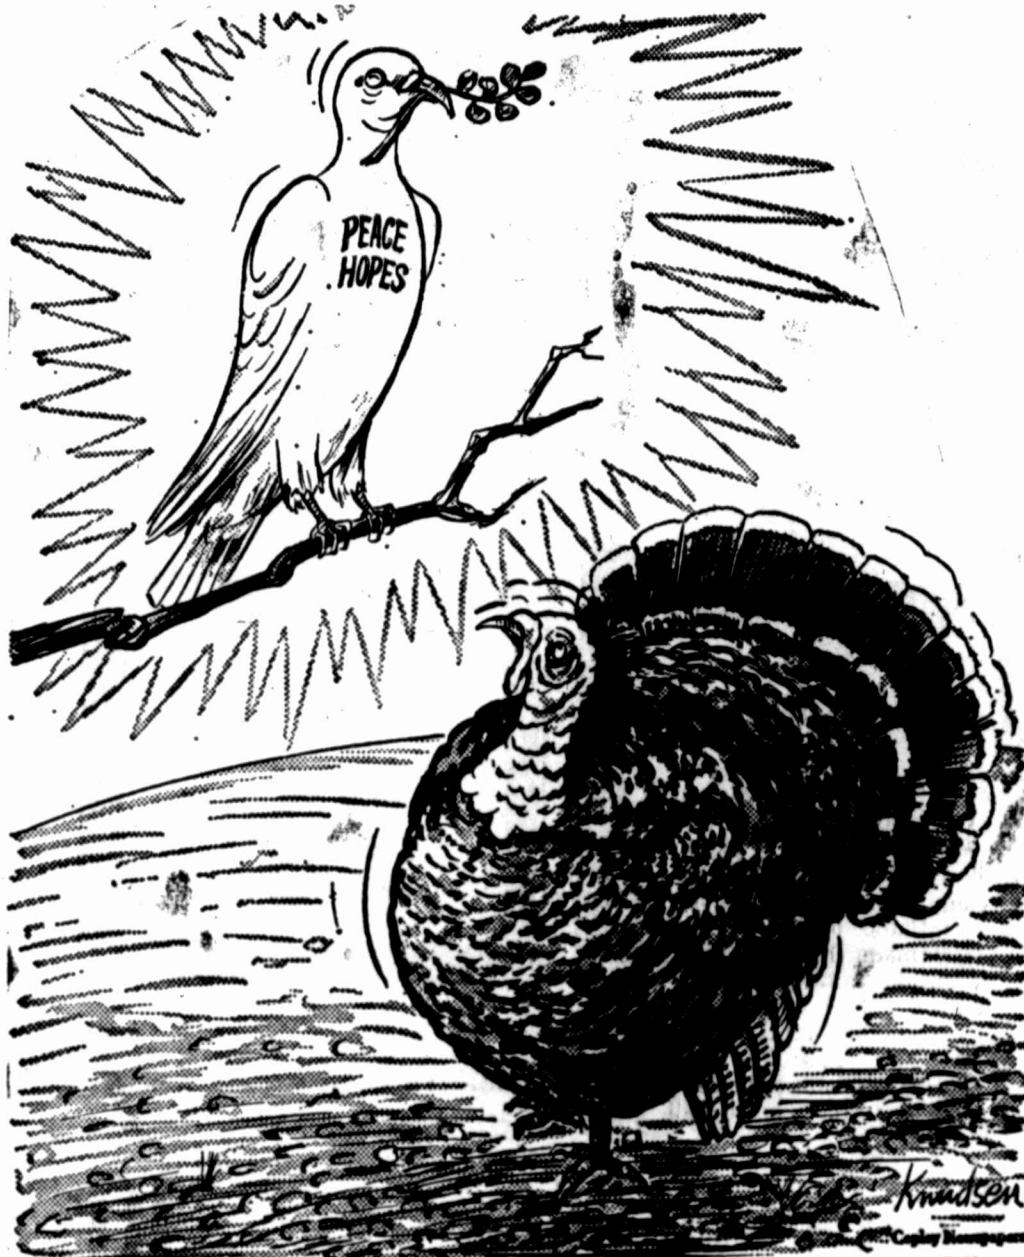

It concerns a brave capitaine named Miles Standish (known in France as Kilometres Deboutish) and a young, shy lieutenant named Jean Alden. Both of them were in love with a flower of Plymouth called Priscilla Mullens (no translation. The vieux capitaine said to the jeune lieutenant:

"Go to the damsel Priscilla (allez tres vite chez Priscilla), the loveliest maiden of Plymouth la plus jolie demoiselle de Plymouth. Say that a blunt old captain, a man not of words but of action un vieux Fanfan la Tulipe, offers his hand and his heart, the hand and heart of a soldier. Not in these words, you know, but this, in short, is my meaning.

Although Jean was fit to be tied convenable a etre embaile, friendship prevailed over love and he went to his duty. But instead of using elegant language, he blurted out his mission. Priscilla was muted with amazement and sorrow (rendue muette par l'eonnement et la tristesse.)

At length she exclaimed, interrupting the ominous silence: "If the great captain of Plymouth is so very eager to wed me, why does he not come himself and take the trouble to woo me?" (Ou est-il, le vieux Kilometres? Pourquoi ne vient-il pas aupres de moi pour tenter sa chance?)

Finally Priscilla arched her eyebrows and said in a tremulous voice: "Why don't you speak for yourself, Jean?" (a chaun son gout?)

First Thanksgiving

John Cuniff

There was a time when even schoolchildren were taught that there was a real reason for holidays. From the very first primer, school readers contained stories which emphasized the events in history which were celebrated on certain days. And somehow, constant reading about them made the people involved seem very real.

The idea of moving a holiday around so that everyone could have a long weekend would have been regarded with disapproval, to say the least. You celebrated on a certain day because certain events happened on that day or were connected with it in some way and the celebration centered around those events. Even the schools had plays and recitations and songs which were as historically accurate as possible and helped to fix the significance of the day in the children's minds.

So every schoolchild knew the story of the first Thanksgiving, and Miles Standish, Gov. William Bradford and Massasoit were old friends.

Not that this was any deterrent to a bountiful Thanksgiving dinner. People enjoyed roast turkey and plum pudding and pumpkin pie just as much fifty years ago as they do today — perhaps even more, because such fare was usually reserved for special occasions. But they never lost sight of the meaning behind the dinner.

Today many people sit down to a loaded dinner table, eat as much as they can, spend the afternoon watching a football game on TV, and so far as most of them are concerned, the Pilgrims might never have existed.

But suppose you could turn time back to the year 1620, what would you see? Just four days before Christmas, a little band of people had landed on a cold forbidding shore.

There were no highways or department stores or supermarkets — only a vast wilderness inhabited by a strange and sometimes hostile race.

The new arrivals had to chop down trees to build log cabins to live in and a stockade to protect them from the Indians. They had to go into the forest to shoot game for food, and they had to contend with bitter cold weather, sickness and near starvation. Half of their number died the first winter.

The dead were buried as secretly as possible and in the spring their graves were leveled off and grain sown over them so that the Indians might not know how many had died.

But the next summer was good to the colonists. Their crops prospered and the harvest was plentiful. And in gratitude, Gov. Bradford proclaimed a day of Thanksgiving. There was to be a feast for all the people, and Massasoit, Chief of the Wampanoags, who was friendly to the white people, was invited to attend with part of his tribe.

Power Struggle

By JAMES CARY
Copy News Service

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's slowly emerging second-term plans for restructuring the government in the wake of his re-election victory point toward major new power collisions with a still Democratic-controlled Congress.

Information provided by White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, plus Mr. Nixon's own remarks in a copyrighted interview with the Washington Star-News, indicate the President is planning major cutbacks and changes in both government programs and employment.

THIS FITS into the context of moves he had already made to withhold and impound perhaps up to $8 billion worth of funds provided by Congress in order to hold spending this fiscal year close to the $250 billion level.

Presidential aide John Ehrlichman has said the restraint is necessary to fight inflation and avoid a tax increase which the White House contends is violently opposed by most of the American people.

A test of the President's inherent powers to deal in this fashion with funds voted by Congress was already in the making. Congress has required, in legislation already approved, that Mr. Nixon report early next year precisely how much money he has impounded and is refusing to spend. Other presidents have impounded and withheld funds from use before but never to the extent Mr. Nixon is openly contemplating.

ONE SCHOOL of thought holds that Mr. Nixon is certain to lose eventually if this issue is fought through to a finish, but in the meantime sufficient time will have elapsed — perhaps a year or more — to give the President a victory of sorts anyway.

By the time the President's power to act in this fashion is clarified the current budget period and perhaps part of a second will have expired and the financial pressure on total spending will have eased.

Now, it is possible that Mr. Nixon's still not clearly defined plans for restructuring and reorganizing the government will lead to an even more direct collision with Congress over presidential powers

IF HE tampers with agencies and programs established by Congress and already in operation, or if he cuts back so severely on personnel for carrying out those programs that they cannot operate as Congress intended, then a first class constitutional powers battle could emerge.

Certainly Mr. Nixon has made it clear he feels the Office of Economic Opportunity for example — once called the poverty program — offers little return for the dollars invested. His economy ax might fall heavily there.

Similarly he is not pleased with results obtained with federal money in subsidizing housing and urban development.

And he obviously would like to rework federal welfare and health programs along more conservative lines he believes in.

Precisely how far he could go in doing so without new legislation is a major question, but he obviously intends to try.

Ziegler told newsmen at Key Biscayne, Fla., where the President rested after the election, that the President is planning "a very extensive shakeup" of the federal government. He said Mr. Nixon had asked for the resignations of more than 2,000 officials, from Cabinet members to middle management bureaucrats.

MANY WILL not be accepted, of course, but presumably a large number will.

Ziegler said Mr. Nixon had received a memo from his Office of Management and Budget outlining how far he can go in reorganizing the government without congressional approval.

The President had submitted legislation to drastically reduce the number of Cabinet agencies and combine many major governmental functions but it died in Congress. Congress also failed to act on his welfare program, special revenue sharing, and health insurance proposals.

NEW ORLEANS — Three jet-powered speedboats splash down a meandering bayou, playing havoc with the tranquility of the picturesque surroundings.

A wedding party is in progress on the lawn of a bayou estate. As the lead boat heads toward this property, instead of veering to the left with the course of the water, it leaps the bank, skids along the grass and back into the bayou on the other side. One of the pursuing boats tries the same stunt, but with less success. It runs smack dab into a big wedding cake, then on into the refreshment tent, which promptly collapses on the boat, rendering it hors de combat.

This is sampling of the type of action you will be seeing in the next James Bond adventure, "Live and Let Die," which has been filming in and near New Orleans.

"It is what our audiences have come to expect of us," said the director, Guy Hamilton, who is working on his third Bond picture, having previously directed "Goldfinger" and "Diamonds Are Forever."

"The one thing Bond fans believed they have been guaranteed when they put down their money for tickets, is plenty of fast action that is both authentic appearing and different," Hamilton said.

The director acknowledged that such scenes as the boat chase could be done with miniatures or with the process known as rear screen projection, but that today's audience, sophisticated about such film trickery, would realize what was happening, and the difficulty of prying them away from their television sets would be even more testing.

Of course, this type of authenticity has its dangers and it can be costly, but the producers of Bond pictures never quibble about expense, having profited into the multimillions with the series.

"We had 27 boats when we started," Hamilton said. "We are now down to three, so the scene had better work or we are in serious trouble."

"Actually, we expected a certain amount of attrition. This isn't, you know, a scene about a gentleman taking a leisurely Sunday ride in his punt. We had to prepare for it by trial and error. Nobody had ever tried to run a boat on dry land before. We weren't sure exactly how it would work. Most of the boats that were lost were broken up during rehearsals," the director explained.

My Answer

Billy Graham

I have had a wonderful relationship with my son, his wife, and their two-year-old daughter, and I love them all dearly.

Recently, the little girl took a stubborn spell, and wouldn't allow her mother and me to dress her before they went home. I HELD HER, HOWEVER, FORCED HER CLOTHES ON, AND GOT HER READY TO GO. Her mother just gave in to the child as usual.

Now, they are angry with me, and I'm afraid this incident has come between us. I am so depressed! Please help me. F.S.A.

It seems like an insignificant incident, one that often happens in dealing with a child, but perhaps, as you seem to indicate, it pointed up a broader and deeper disagreement over how to bring up children.

Here's one area where the generation gap is most obvious, but you must realize that raising that girl is not your responsibility. Logically and legally, they are the boss in setting standards, and in determining conduct. Grandmothers are important, but never to replace the function of the parents.

Evidently, you were a disciplinarian, and your son knows it. There's no need to continue to prove it. He will have to develop his own philosophy of family discipline, because as Matthew Henry put it "a family without government is like a house without a roof, exposed to every wind that blows."

More importantly, however, I'm concerned about what you're doing to settle the disagreement. The Bible says in Ephesians 4:26, "Don't let the sun go down on your wrath." Your duty is to make peace, to ask for forgiveness if that's involved, and to build harmony in every way possible. With the innate wisdom that God gives mothers, you'll know how best to accomplish that.

A Devotion For Today

It is good to give thanks to the Lord. (Psalm 92:1)
PRAYER: Forgive us, Father, in the midst of so much good fortune we often have eyes only for what disappoints us. Let thankfulness to You free us for effective work and wise service. In the Master's name. Amen.

RECOMMENDED RECIPES

Of Mrs. Jack Fair

SPONGE CAKE

10 large eggs, separated
13 tbsps. sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
10 tbsps. flour
1 lemon and rind

Whip egg yolks with 10 tablespoonsful of the sugar and vanilla. In another bowl, whip egg whites, add remaining three tablespoonsful of sugar, flour, lemon juice and grated rind. Continue beating. Fold egg whites and egg yolks together. Pour batter in tube cake pan, and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes, until golden brown. Invert to cool. A favorite Latvian cake; so good it needs no frosting.

PIRAGI

(Bacon Rolls)

2 pkgs dry yeast
1/2 cups lukewarm water
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup lukewarm milk
1 tsp. sugar
2 tps. salt
1/2 cup butter
1 cup shortening
7 cups flour
2 lbs. bacon, cut in small pieces
1 onion, chopped
1 tsp. pepper

To make dough, combine dry yeast and 1/2 cup lukewarm water. In another bowl, combine eggs, 1 cup lukewarm water, lukewarm milk, sugar, salt, butter and shortening. When thoroughly mixed, add to yeast mixture. Add flour with a wooden spoon, and whip until smooth. Knead dough, form into loaf, and brush with vegetable oil. Let dough rise for 1 1/2 hours.

In a skillet, saute bacon and onion with pepper (this can be done the night before in order to avoid greasiness in the finished bacon roll).

To form rolls, divide dough into three or four sections, and roll out on a floured surface.

Use cutter to make as many circles as dough permits, and put small amount of bacon mixture in center of each circle. Fold dough over, making sure edges are sealed. Place rolls on baking sheet and allow to rise about 30 minutes. Bake tops with mixture of a little water and a whole beaten egg. Bake rolls at 450 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes, or until rolls are golden brown. Makes five to six dozen. Great with brunch, beer or bouillon.

POTATO PANCAKES

1/2 cup milk
2 eggs
3 cups diced raw potatoes
1 small onion, grated
3 tbsps. flour
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. baking powder

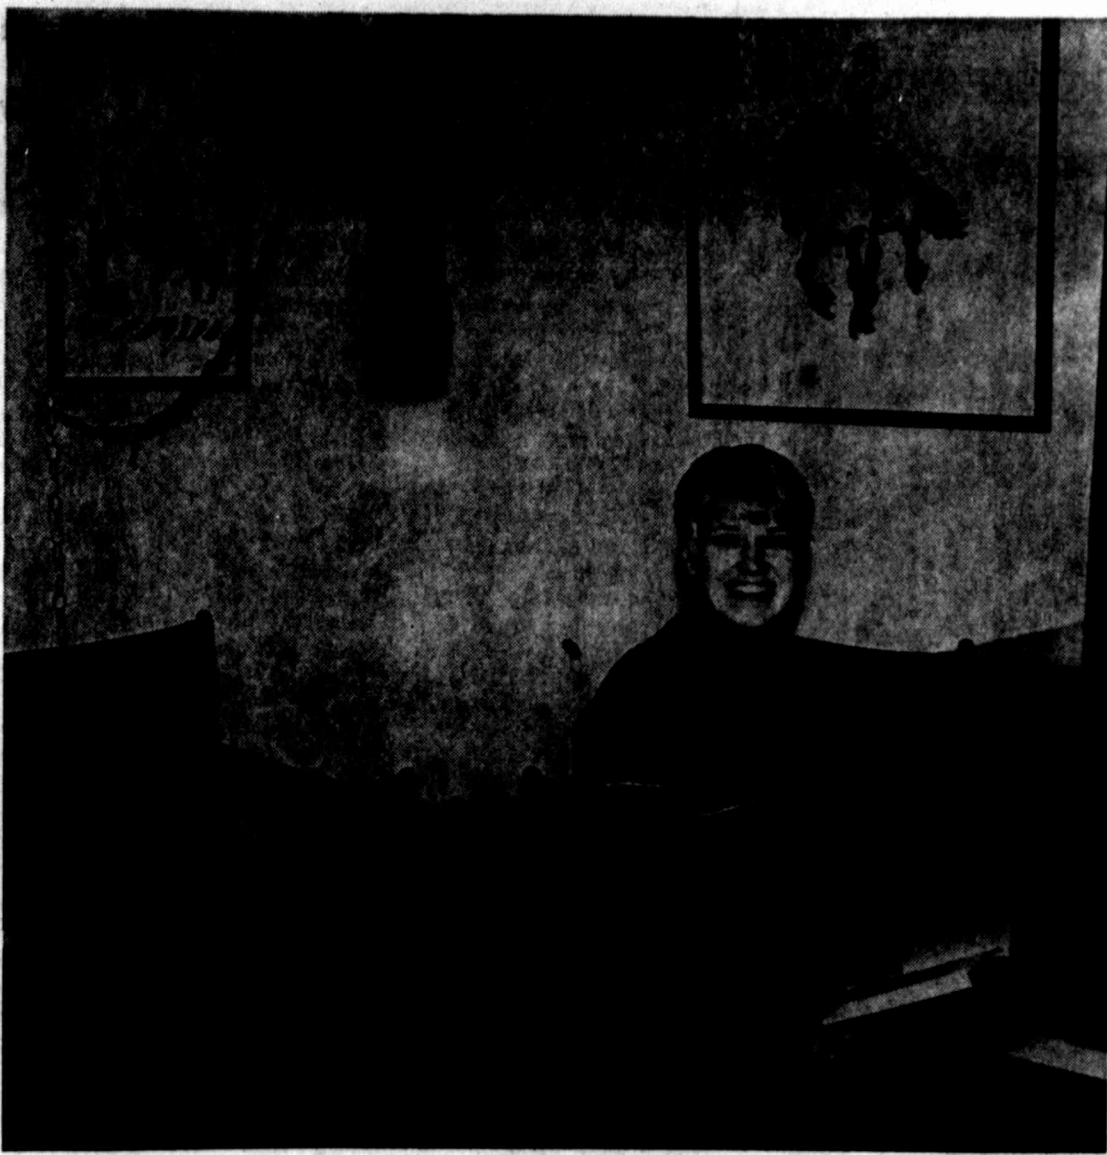

Blend all ingredients in a blender. Fry on a moderately hot griddle, and serve with applesauce.

RASPBERRY MOUSSE

2 1-oz. pkgs. frozen raspberries or strawberries, thawed
4 tps. unflavored gelatin (one envelope plus one teaspoon)
2 cups heavy cream
1/2 cup confectioner's sugar
3/4 cup vanilla
1 tsp. fresh lemon juice
1 tsp. confectioner or other orange-flavored liqueur

Drain berries and reserve juice. To one cup of juice, add gelatin. When gelatin softens, place mixture over low heat and stir until dissolved. Set aside until cool and syrupy.

Whip the heavy cream until stiff, blending in sugar. Add vanilla, fresh lemon juice and liqueur. Fold in berries, saving a few for garnish. Add gelatin mixture and combine thoroughly. Pour into a five-cup mold and chill until set. Unmold and garnish with berries. Serves 10.

MRS. JACK FAIR

Both Do 'Fair' Share In Decorating Home

By BARBARA LORD

During 8 1/2 years of marriage, Capt. and Mrs. Jack Fair have had seven homes. At each one of them, they have put their talents and imaginations to work in making it a home they would enjoy, regardless of how long they were to spend in it.

The Fairs' longest stay at any one place was for 2 1/2 years in Germany. They are approaching that mark at Webb Air Force Base where they have lived for almost two years. Capt. Fair is assistant section commander for 3560th Pilot Training Squadron. The couple has two children, Mara, 6, and John, 3.

Military housing is often known for its "sameness" in appearance, both inside and outside, but the Fairs have decorated their home at 80 Ent in a unique style that defies imitation and offers a comfortable and casual atmosphere for guests. Black and white is the dominant scheme in the living room which is furnished with black leather and teak furniture, set off with a long gray and white shag carpet.

BRIGHT COLORS

"Jack majored in art in college," said Mrs. Fair (Milda), and I was a biology major. Not many people realize it, but I'm convinced you have to be half artist to make it in biology. The two really are connected. You have to at least be able to transfer designs." The balanced decor and personal touches in the Fair home evidence their art abilities.

Swinging blue louvered doors lead to a brightly decorated kitchen which features blue and black tulips on the white back-grounds of Mrs. Fair's cabinets, table and appliances. Matching shutters make the dining area a pleasant place to have morning coffee. The family room is an area not common to the housing at the base. It started as an open patio, but Capt. Fair put his carpentry skills to work and enclosed it. It now has a swinging wicker chair, black bean-bag chair, homemade bar and an old refrigerator which contains a keg of cold beer always on tap for guests.

There's more to the Fair home than modern furniture and bright colors. Its "personality" is acquired mainly through decorative accents made by the couple. A hanging lamp in the living room was made from a Gatling gun from an aircraft flown by Capt. Fair. In the dining room there's another hanging lamp made by Mrs. Fair from a shellacked beach ball, encircled with twine, with the beach ball removed when the twine acquired a hard form. Black and white sketches and other paintings done by Capt. Fair are used throughout the home.

LATVIAN BORN

Mrs. Fair was born in Latvia, and although she left the country at the age of two, she still has several Latvian recipes which were given to her by her mother.

"I was reared on gourmet foods but never realized it," said Mrs. Fair. "Caviar and herring were common to us, but they weren't considered anything special." Today, she eats very little of the exotic foods. Her husband prefers steak or prime rib above anything else, and the family is seldom served a casserole.

"The only time I get to make anything out of the ordinary is when we're entertaining," said Mrs. Fair. "Jack is pretty good about trying everything when we have guests, but, otherwise, he won't let me serve any kind of conglomerate food."

Capt. and Mrs. Fair entertain frequently but always on a very informal basis, and the fare usually consists of sliced ham, turkey or roast and light snacks. They dislike cocktail parties and formal occasions.

The onset of winter is a delight for Capt. and Mrs. Fair who learned to ski during their years in Germany. Even Mara has tackled some small hills and, no doubt, John will learn at an early age. The couple also likes to bowl and play bridge.

When Mrs. Fair left Latvia, her family moved to Germany, followed in 1950 by a move to Omaha, Neb. She met her husband while both were students at Omaha University.

Got Some Turkey Left? Fix Hot Turkey Souffle

Leftover Thanksgiving turkey provides a lot of good eating long after the holiday itself. If you'd like something besides those delicious cold or hot turkey sandwiches, try this unique recipe, compliments of Mrs. Dale Green, 2642 Ann.

HOT TURKEY SALAD

Serves 6
6 slices white bread
2 cups diced, cooked turkey
1/2 cup onion, chopped
1/2 cup pepper, chopped
1/2 cup celery, finely chopped
1/2 cup mayonnaise
3/4 tsp. salt
dash pepper
2 eggs, beaten

1 1/2 cups milk
1 can mushroom soup
1/2 cup sharp cheese, grated
Cube two slices of bread and place in bottom of an 8 by 8 by 2-inch baking dish. Combine turkey, vegetables, mayonnaise and seasonings, and spoon over bread cubes. Trim crust from remaining bread and arrange slices atop turkey mixture. Combine eggs and milk, and pour over entire mixture. Cover and chill one hour, or overnight. Spoon soup over top, and bake in slow oven, 325 degrees, about 1 hour, or until set. Sprinkle cheese over top during last few minutes of baking.

Leftover Turkey Helps Perk Up Waldorf Salad

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

AP Food Editor

Here's a great way to use that leftover turkey. Put it, along with in-season Emperor grapes, in a popular Waldorf Salad.

Originally Waldorf Salad, when it was introduced in New York at the turn of the century, consisted of nothing more than apples, celery and mayonnaise. But through the years cooks have found that other additions make delightful contributions to this salad.

We think you'll like the inclusion of turkey and grapes in Waldorf Salad as much as our tasters did. And we have still another delicious changeabout for you — Old-fashioned Cooked Dressing is used instead of mayonnaise in the following recipe.

Emperor grapes are an excellent choice for this salad because although their texture is on the crisp side, their skins are not tough.

TURKEY-GRAPE WALDORF SALAD

2 1/2 cups diced cooked turkey
2 cups diced celery
3 cups halved, seeded grapes
1 1/2 cups unpeeled diced red apple
1/2 tsp. salt
Dash of white pepper
Old-fashioned Cooked Dressing (see recipe)
Lettuce

In a large mixing bowl, toss together the turkey, celery, grapes, apple, salt and pepper. Add enough Old-fashioned Cooked Dressing to moisten and flavor — you may wish to use all of it. Arrange on lettuce. Or do not add the dressing to the salad, but pass it separately. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

OLD-FASHIONED COOKED DRESSING

2 tbsps. flour
4 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. dry mustard
1/2 tsp. salt
1-16 tsp. white pepper
Dash of cayenne pepper
3/4 cup milk
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 large egg, slightly beaten
2 tbsps. fresh lemon juice
2 tbsps. cider vinegar

In a heavy saucepan (1 to 1 1/2-quart size) stir together the flour, sugar, mustard, salt, white pepper and cayenne pepper. Gradually stir in the milk, keeping smooth. Cook and stir constantly over moderately low heat until thickened and bubbly; lift the pan off the heat several remove from heat; stir in butter until melted. Gradually but vigorously stir some of this hot mixture into the slightly beaten egg; stir back into remaining hot mixture. Gradually stir in the lemon juice and vinegar. Return to very low heat and, stirring constantly, cook briefly until thickened. Do not boil — Grape Waldorf Salad.

ENTERTAINMENT FLURRY CALLS FOR CRAB

Foolproof Fondue Is Holiday Party Treat

Here's a delectable variation of a fondue you'll be proud to feature during the busy entertaining season ahead. Chock full of luscious bits of Alaska King crab and tiny pink shrimp, this foolproof appetizer is certain to meet with enthusiasm from your most discerning guests.

The base is a velvety mixture of cream cheese and dairy sour cream, expertly seasoned with cream of shrimp soup, sherry wine, and just a hint of garlic, dry mustard and Worcestershire. Either canned or frozen Alaska King crab is added. The fondue may be made ahead and reheated and is also delicious served cold as a spread.

Alaska King crab is the only nationally distributed variety of crab. Whether purchased canned or frozen, you'll enjoy the same succulent flavor and convenience that this choice seafood offers.

CRAB AND SHRIMP FONDUE

1 (7 1/2-oz.) can Alaska King crab or 1 (6-oz.) pkg. frozen Alaska King crab, defrosted
1 (4 1/2-oz.) can shrimp
2 (8-oz.) pkgs. cream cheese
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 (10 1/2-oz.) can cream of shrimp soup
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. garlic powder
2 drops Tabasco sauce
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
3 tbsps. sherry wine
Bite-size cubes French bread
Drain crab and slice. Drain shrimp. Heat remaining ingredients over low heat, stirring occasionally, until smooth. Add crab and shrimp and heat through.

To serve, skewer cubes of French bread on fondue forks and dip into Crab Fondue. Makes 10 to 12 appetizer servings.

Ira Set For Tilt

KNOX CITY — Ira will meet O'Brien in a bi-district football contest here at 7:30 p.m. today. Ira is the champion of District 4-B and O'Brien will represent District 3-B in the six-man grid clash.

During the season, Ira ran up a 8-1 mark while O'Brien was 9-0 for the year.

Ira won a share of the District 4-B title in the last game of the season when it defeated Flower Grove, 53-6.

Ira earned the right to represent the district in the playoffs when it won the coin flip with Bul and Hermleigh.

O'Brien will count on halfback Louis Conn and Rayland Hayes for its offensive punch. Conn scored 152 points and Hayes contributed 132 points during the scoring.

Ira's scoring machine has been operated by Dale Wiggins and Kirby Sterling. Wiggins scored 91 points and Sterling added 87 points for Ira.

Danny DelHiero will be at quarterback for O'Brien and Donald Sellers will be the signal-caller for Ira.

Delaware Tops Poll

The Delaware Blue Hens have captured a fine season on the football field and another good year in the college division poll.

After sweeping 10 opponents, the Blue Hens wound up No. 1 for the second straight year in the Associated Press' final rankings, released Wednesday.

The powerhouse Hens dominated this year's polls from the start, holding the top position every week but two, and wound up with nine first-place votes and 272 points.

The voters, drawn from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters gave four top votes to second-place Louisiana Tech. The runners-up, undefeated in 11 games, finished with 237 points.

Last year, Delaware had a 9-1 record and captured 256 points for a 23-point edge over McNeese State.

The No. 3 ranking this year was secured by Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, 8-0-1, with 197 points. A-land, 11-0, finished fourth, while Tennessee State, 8-1-0, was fifth with 164.

Sixth place was shared by South Dakota and North Dakota, who had identical 9-1 records and finished with 144 points apiece. Western Carolina and Grambling shared the No. 8 spot with 76 points each while McNeese State and Carson-Newman wound up locked in the No. 10 position with 55 points apiece.

Carson-Newman will play unranked Livingston in the NAIA Division I semifinals as the post-season games start Saturday. Four other ranked teams will be in action this weekend.

Louisiana Tech meets unranked Tennessee Tech in the Grandland Rice Bowl in Baton Rouge, La., and Tennessee State goes to the Pioneer Bowl in Wichita Falls, Tex., for a game against Drake, ranked 10th last week.

The Top Ten in the Associated Press' final college football poll for 1972, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 25-10-10-5-1-1-1-1-1-1.

1. Delaware 9-1 (10-272)
2. Cal Poly-SLO 8-0-1 (10-197)
3. Louisiana Tech 11-0 (10-197)
4. A-land 11-0 (10-164)
5. Tennessee State 8-1-0 (10-164)
6. South Dakota 9-1 (10-144)
7. North Dakota 9-1 (10-144)
8. Grambling 9-1 (10-144)
9. West Carolina 9-1 (10-144)
10. Carson-Newman 9-1 (10-144)

Longhorns To Take On Aggies

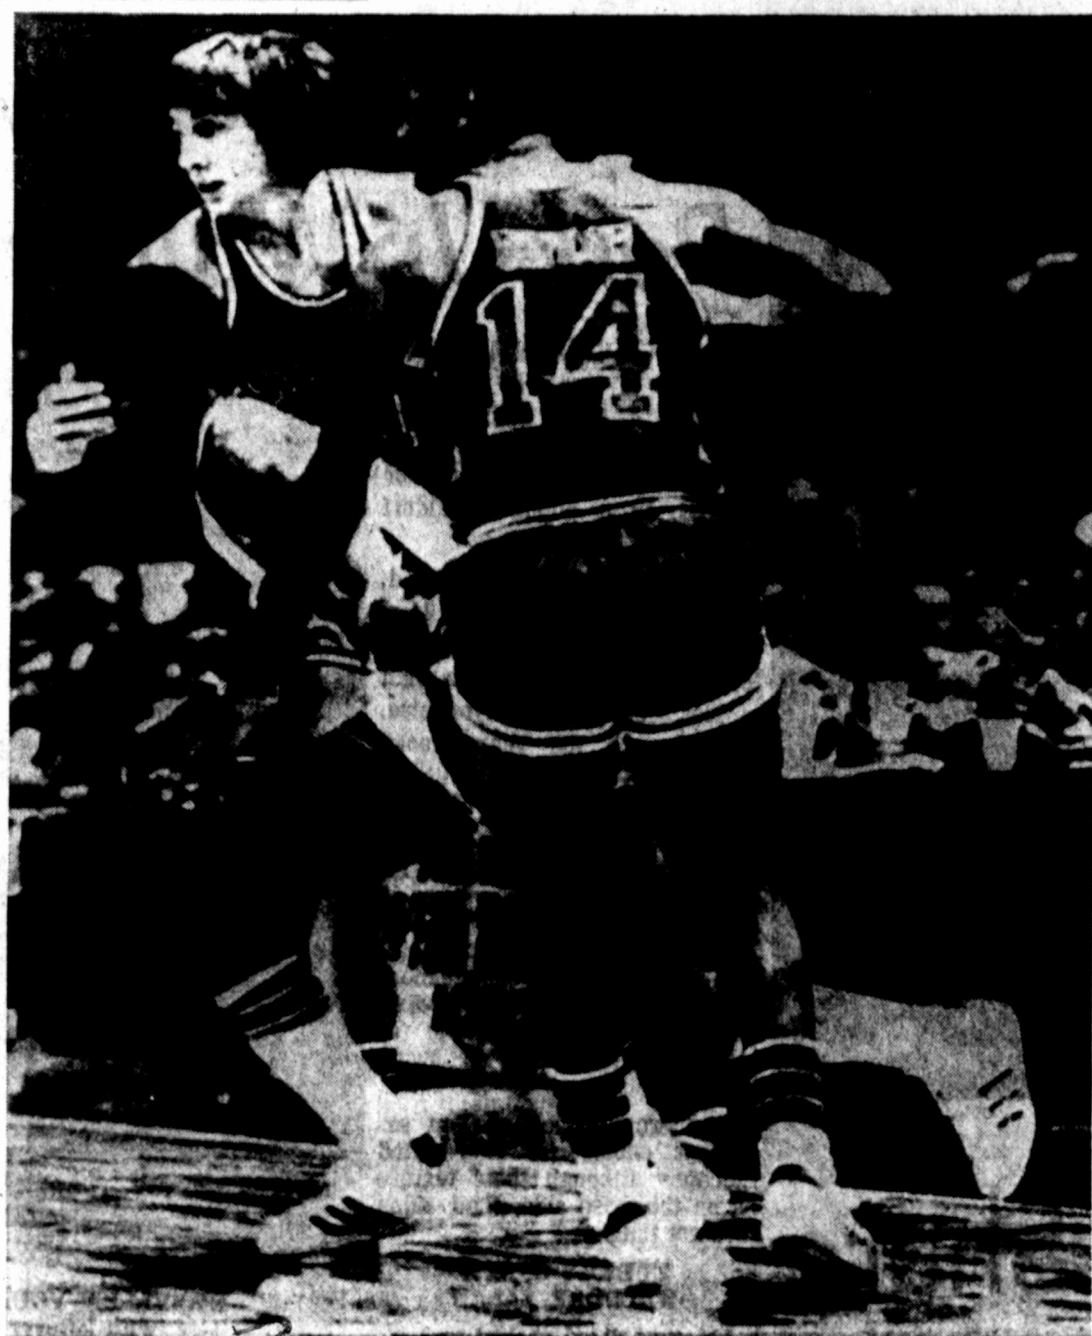

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Sev-all-America halfback Chris Gilenth-ranked Texas gets a chance to show a national television audience tonight it has 9.6-second sprinter, freshman got the talent to test No. 2 Carl Roaches, is their top long-Alabama in the Cotton Bowl distance threat. He has returned two punts and a kickoff for a touchdown this season.

The Texas defense has allowed only seven touchdowns — three rushing and four passing. A&M has not been as stingy, allowing 22 touchdowns.

There has been talk this week that Alabama chose to play Texas in the Cotton Bowl to duck a rematch against Nebraska in the Orange Bowl.

"We'd like to make people think we're a good team—good enough to play Alabama," said Texas linebacker Glenn Gaspard.

A victory would be Texas' fullback, Roosevelt Leaks, 87th in the SWC since Darrell Royal became coach in 1957—giving Royal a record for conference triumphs.

HOWARD COSELL His Mouth Is His Fortune

By DON FREEMAN
Copy Editor Service

HOLLYWOOD — If Howard Cosell didn't exist, you couldn't make him up. But you could try. Begin with a beakful of pure gall, add a test tube of undiluted ego 'along with a measure of raw, galvanic energy. Mix well and throw in equal parts of a dictionary, Roger's Thesaurus, a computer's memory bank and a voice that could cut glass.

As befits the lawyer he once was, Howard Cosell is a consummate skillful actor who has created his own role, which he plays to the hilt, enjoying every performance. And he plays Howard Cosell better than anyone, with style and flair and a helping of high good humor.

There is, contrarily, another Howard Cosell. Off-camera, the Cosell manner is almost disarmingly gentle, the voice softer, less jagged, the polysyllabic vocabulary reduced to size.

He is wearing plaid slacks and a bush jacket shirt ("It is a style I have borrowed from my distinguished confrere, Fearless Frank Gifford") and he is relaxing with a cigar and a vodka on the rocks.

He was talking about the Dinah Shore Show whereon he would guest shortly. But what recipes would he bring to the show?

"Recipes?" said Howard. "I don't have any recipes. But I can talk. That's my recipe — talking. I hope Dinah will have Burt on the show — Burt Reynolds, good old No. 22 from Florida State! Buddy Reynolds they called him then! A hard-driving, durable, running back! A legend in his own time! Surely you've heard what Burt Reynolds said about me — Burt, a humorous man who gained a certain notoriety by posing in the buff in that center-fold."

"Burt said that if I should ever want to pose au naturel, they should only cover up my mouth! No way that'll ever happen.

"I even turned down a part in Woody Allen's movie, 'Everything You Ever Wanted to Know About Sex But Were Afraid to Ask.' The role Woody wanted me to play I could only describe in the tawdriest of tabloids!"

Well, it was suggested, maybe he could sing on the Dinah Shore Show. Howard grinned. "I have a voice like a frog," he confessed. "But one song I do sing is the one Paul Anka wrote for Sinatra called 'My Way.' I told Anka he really wrote it for me without knowing it. I relate to that song. I believe in it. It's me."

Cosell, who performs in season on ABC's Monday Night Football, said some producer had an idea for a TV series in which he would co-star with Don Meredith.

"It was a western, 'I'd be the hanging judge in a frontier town and Dandy Don would be the sheriff. Each week I'd be it!'"

Chances Are Hurt

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Louisville's Howard Stevens may have lost his chance for the national football rushing championship because he gained only 67 yards last week against Memphis State, dropping to third place nationally with a 132.7 per game average.

Stevens, a 5-foot-5 running back, will need more than 177 yards this week against Drake, the Missouri Valley Conference leader, to have a shot at the national crown.

But he still places the country in all-purpose running with an average of 221.4 yards per game, almost 30 yards per game ahead of Nebraska's Johnny Rodgers.

In scoring, Stevens dropped shot. Nothing serious, just little wounds. Somehow the idea fell through.

And there's the autobiographical book he's writing now, with an apt title — "I Never Played the Game."

"When we started Monday Night Football," said Howard, "that's what they said about me — he never played the game. I've never played the game in any sense, I get tired of being called arrogant but there's no other way I can say that before I came along, sports broadcasting was 25 years of Pabulum. Dandy, Frank, me — we tell the truth and that shocks the old-time traditionalists."

"It helps that Dandy Don thinks funny. We've had some of the games we've had to call. During one game — Houston and Oakland — I said we should take the films around to high schools and show them as a lesson in futility. And Dandy said: 'All right, America. I didn't say that. Howard said

New York Clips Virginia Rookie Taylor Sparks Nets To 109-105 Win

By The Associated Press

Brian Taylor, a former Ivy League man, is giving some class to the New York Nets' backcourt.

The American Basketball Association team hasn't looked as stylish in a while.

"I'm doing what I've been asked to do, that's all," said the rookie after scoring 27 points to lead the Nets to a 109-105 triumph over the Virginia Squires Wednesday night.

What the Nets have been asking Taylor to do is fill in for John Roche, who has been all-in with a bad back.

Taylor has been the right answer for Coach Lou Carnesecca. The onetime Princeton star has helped the Nets pull out of a recent slump, aiding in four straight victories at home.

In the other ABA games Wednesday night, the Indiana Pacers ripped the Carolina Cougars 114-103; the Kentucky Colonels downed the Memphis Tams 123-109 and the Utah Stars stopped the Dallas Chaparrals 119-113.

George Carter helped Taylor with the Nets' scoring lead, pouring in 23 points. Julius Erving scored 36 points and hauled in 17 rebounds for the Squires.

George McGinnis scored a game-high 24 points to lead Indiana over Carolina. The Cougars had an eight-point lead in the second quarter, but the Pacers scored 14 straight points over the next four minutes and were hardly in trouble after that.

Artis Gilmore scored 33 points as Kentucky snapped a four-game losing streak with the victory over Memphis.

Glen Coombs, Cincy Powell and Willie Wise combined for 60 points to pace Utah over Dallas.

How do you stop a speeding

Bullet?

The Seattle SuperSonics didn't have the answer Wednesday night and as a result, the Baltimore Bullets took a 112-90 National Basketball Association victory behind speedy Elvin Hayes.

Hayes scored 23 points in a dazzling fast-break offense that powered the Bullets past the Sonics and back into first place in the Central Division.

The Bullets had an 80-68 lead entering the final period when Hayes made all seven of his field goal attempts and scored 16 of his points to put it away.

In Wednesday night's other NBA games, the Boston Celtics dropped the Portland Trail Blazers 128-107 and the Houston Rockets crunched the Golden State Warriors 132-104.

Phil Chenier aided in the Baltimore rout with a 21-point night while Mike Riordan scored 20.

Dick Snyder scored 21 points to lead the Sonics while Spencer Haywood netted 19.

Wes Unseld, the Baltimore center, had to leave the game with a strained back muscle and is a doubtful starter for Saturday's game against Milwaukee.

Led by Dave Cowens, the Celtics scored 40 points in the third period to take a "laugh-er" over Portland. Cowens scored 10 of his 33 points in that period and grabbed 10 rebounds to pace the Celtic slaughter.

John Havlicek and Jo Jo White each contributed eight points in the third-period explosion, giving Cowens plenty of help. Boston led by as much as 29 points at one time before easing up.

Sidney Wicks pitched in 23 points for the losers.

Jack Marin scored 27 points as Houston broke a seven-game losing streak with its smashing victory over Golden State.

Hull Wins Court Battle

HOUSTON (AP) — Winnipeg Jets superstar Bobby Hull says he has won another court battle and will be in uniform tonight when the Jets battle the Houston Aeros in a World Hockey Association contest.

Hull said Wednesday night a court order barring him from playing has been lifted.

Hull sat out the Tuesday night Jet-Aero game because Cook County, Ill., Circuit Court Judge Francis T. Delaney had issued an order restraining Hull from playing with the Jets until the WHA posted a $2.5 million bond with the U.S. District Court in Philadelphia.

Hull's lawyers asked the Illinois Appellate Court Tuesday to dissolve the order.

Hull said the appellate court in Chicago lifted Delaney's restraining order Wednesday for the remainder of the season.

"I think our going according to the law had a lot to do with our winning the appeal," Hull said. "When we were told by the courts to do certain things, we did them. But it was tough."

"Now we can get down to some serious business, knowing there is nothing serious in our way."

Hull jumped from the National Hockey League Chicago Black Hawks to the WHA Winnipeg team in July. He reportedly signed a $2.75 million contract but missed the first month of the initial WHA season awaiting rulings on several lawsuits filed concerning his status and the status of other former NHL players.

Texas Fans Urged To Give Support To Slippery Rock

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The strange relationship between Texas' largest university and a small college in Pennsylvania surfaced again Tuesday as University of Texas fans were urged to support Slippery Rock State College in its bowl game Friday night.

Wally Pryor, who handles the public address announcements at Texas' Memorial Stadium, has been announcing Slippery Rock football scores for years. He refers to the school as the "rock."

Three years ago, Texas fans were urged to congratulate Slippery Rock Coach Bob Di Spirito on a fine season, and the coach was surprised by thousands of wires and letters.

Slippery Rock responded by supporting Texas in its national championship "Shoot out" with Arkansas even though another Pennsylvania team, Penn State, also was claiming to be No. 1 in the nation.

Head Slippery Rock

cheerleader Nancy Zingler phoned Pryor and said that "We've watched our big brother, the University of Texas, go to the bowl games year after year. So we decided it was time to do the same. We'll be watching the Texas-Aggie game on national TV Thursday night, and you can be sure that all of Slippery Rock will again be pulling for the Longhorns as they've done in the past. The same goes for your Cotton Bowl game with Alabama."

Slippery Rock will play the University of Bridgeport, which has won 20 straight games, in the Knute Rockne Bowl at Atlantic City, N.J. Slippery Rock has an 8-1-1 record.

Texas Coach Darrell Royal, Gov. Preston Smith and others already have sent good luck messages, and Pryor said he mailed Di Spirito some Texas chili to "get his team fired up" for the game.

Cowboys To Collide With San Francisco

DALLAS (AP) — San Francisco's Steve Spurrier and Dallas' Craig Morton, two quarterbacks who spent 1972 on the bench, led their National Football League teams today in a crucial game with post-season playoff berths heavy on their minds.

Spurrier replaced John Brodie, who is recovering from a severe ankle sprain.

Morton took over last August after Super Bowl hero Roger Staubach suffered a shoulder separation and has been the Cowboys' No. 1 quarterback since, although Staubach is physically capable of playing.</

Webb Wins Grid Title

For the second year in a row Webb's flag football team has captured the Air Training Command championship at a five day tourney at Sheppard AFB, Tex.

Playing in cold, wet, windy weather Webb's Dusters finished the five-game series undefeated, with a final defeat of the Sheppard team by a score of 7-6.

Van Searcy, named the tournament's "Most Valuable Player," kicked seven out of seven possible points after touchdowns, and three field goals. Searcy also intercepted three passes on defense.

Jim Isles was the leading receiver from the Webb team, with three touchdown pass receptions, and eight interceptions. Other receivers were Willie Lowery with four TD catches, Elmo Gladden, one, Chip Oswald caught two, including the only one against Sheppard.

The championship points put Webb in second place behind Keesler AFB in the final standings for the Air Training Command Commander's Trophy. Webb is leading all other pilot training bases.

In achieving the championship, Webb defeated Randolph AFB, Tex., 22-0; Moddy AFB, Ga., 14-6; Fairchild AFB, Wash., 17-14; Craig AFB, Ala., 16-10; and Sheppard, 7-6 for the final playoff.

According to Maj. Hal Willingham, coach, the championship was a team victory in the fullest sense of the words, as three of the 16 team members were injured during the competition.

"Despite the bad weather and the high calibre of the opposition," Maj. Willingham said, "The Webb team was truly the class of the tourney."

Quarterback Jim Reese threw nine of the 10 touchdown passes for Webb. Searcy threw the other one.

In the final game, Sheppard scored early in the game with a 10-yard play. The extra point went wide as Searcy nearly blocked the kick.

In the third quarter Reese completed a 33-yard pass to Oswald to tie the score. The conversion kick by Searcy was good, making it 7-6.

Maj. Willingham said the defense played well throughout the tournament, and said they allowed less than seven points per game.

The Webb Dusters players were: Hap Maguire, Eric Stone, Dick Hoenninger, Jim Reese, Van Searcy, Robbie Robertson, Elmo Gladden, Toby Sooto, Marty Miller, Bob Campbell, Chip Oswald, Toboo Lowery, Jim Isles, Mark Shearer, Steve Lease, manager, and Hal Willingham, coach.

HOST ARKANSAS Raiders Have Incentive

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Texas Tech has a built-in incentive against Arkansas. On the surface, it appears Tech might go into Saturday's meeting against Arkansas at Lubbock, Tex., a little flat. Not so, says Tech Coach Jim Carlen.

"We've never beaten Arkansas," says Carlen, who is in his third year as head coach at Tech. "They've done a pretty good job on us the last two years. We've got to be up."

Tech is 8-2 for the season, 4-2 in the Southwest Conference and has accepted an invitation to play in the Sun Bowl. On the other hand, Arkansas, the pre-season favorite in the conference, is 5-5 for the season and 2-4 in the conference. The Razorbacks have lost four of their last five games.

Carlen says he expects the Razorbacks to "come out here loose and play extremely well."

"This is a big game for them," Carlen said.

Carlen says his team, which can clinch second place in the conference with a victory Saturday, is not the type of team "that can play average and be anybody."

"We played average in the first half against TCU and we saw what happened," Carlen said. The Red Raiders left behind TCU 17-0 and lost 31-7.

The past few weeks Arkansas has been groping offensively. Carlen says he expects the Razorbacks to "go back to the wishbone and run right at us."

"That's what TCU did," he said. Carlen says both TCU and Texas beat the Red Raiders physically. He says he has brought Arkansas to try it, too.

"That's what worries us," he said. "We're not a physically strong football team. Their offense is bigger than our defense."

He says the same thing has happened to Arkansas that happened to Tech last year. "We lost four real close games and had a four and seven record," he said.

Carlen does not see the Razorbacks of 1972 but the Razorbacks of 1971.

"They've got the same team that beat us 15-0 last year in Fayetteville, except for an offensive tackle and a tight end," Carlen said. "They still have the same abilities. Consider the wide receivers, (Dickey) Morton and their quarterbacks. And, they've got a lot of football players on defense."

An injured Joe Ferguson started at quarterback against Tech last year, but was replaced early by Walter Nelson. Nelson started last week in a 22-7 loss to SMU and was replaced late in the half by Ferguson. Scott Bull, a sophomore, played the final minutes. This week, Ferguson, Nelson, Bull and freshman Mike Kirkland have been practicing at quarterback.

Carlen says the big difference in the Raiders' offense this year has been the emergence of junior quarterback Joe Barnes.

The Razorbacks are certain to see plenty of Cliff Hoskins, a sophomore who carried 37 times for 204 yards in last week's 13-7 victory over Baylor.

Carlen says he has brought Hoskins along slowly, using him in spot situations.

Carlen says Hoskins is a "lot like" Doug McCutchen "except he's faster." Hoskins filled in against Baylor for the injured McCutchen.

McCutchen is one of five starters the Red Raiders have lost because of injury since the season began.

The Razorbacks must reduce the number of mistakes they have committed in recent weeks. In the last three games, Arkansas has lost 10 of 17 fumbles and had eight passes intercepted.

The kickoff is set for 2 p.m. CST.

Hunters Snap Mark

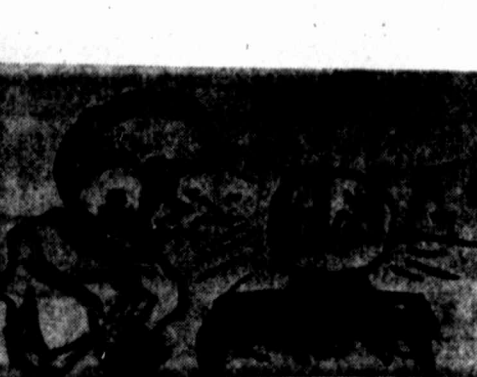

SAN ANGELO — Intrepid hunters in the true sense are those who venture forth for the big, hairy or Aoudad sheep in the crags and canyons of the Panhandle Palo Duro Canyon, but it was worth it all this year as two records previously set toppled during the November 11-17 season.

Texas Parks & Wildlife Department biologists issued landowners 153 permits since Jack Parsons, wildlife director for the area, many of which were in turn issued to hunters. Sheep hunters after the big African transplants are an intrepid group, evidenced by the 3.33 shots fired per man during the 13 hours per man spent hunting. As it turned out, it was more than worth it.

The record number of animals harvested until this year was 44 sheep in 1971, bested this year by the 45 aoudads bagged, 32 rams and 13 ewes. This number is far removed from the first year's hunt held in 1963 when nine sheep were taken following the 1957 release of 44 sheep from a New Mexico ranch.

Up until this year the largest horn measured by department technicians from the big canyon area was a huge ram boasting a 32-inch horn, this year topped by a thirty-two and three-quarter inch record for the state. The largest horn length on record for the world came from a ram found dead in 1947 in the Ennedi Mountains of Africa that measured thirty-four and five-eighths with the United States record established in 1960 in New Mexico a gigantic thirty-three and one-half inches. Texas is well on the way to producing a possibility of a horn length that may equal or surpass those previously measured.

Census records on aoudads in the Palo Duro indicate a present population that may exceed 700 animals from the original 44 liberated, and only in Panhandle counties is the aoudad declared a game animal. There are others in the state on private ranches that may be hunted at any time of the year.

Lothridge 'Unretires'

MIAMI (AP) — Billy Lothridge was switching television channels between the Miami-New York Jets and Dallas-Philadelphia games Sunday when an unfunny thing happened to Dolphin punter Larry Seiple that brought Lothridge out of retirement.

"I saw Seiple get hit," Lothridge said Wednesday after he arrived to replace the Miami kicker who was sidelined indefinitely with damaged knee ligaments. "It never entered my mind that I'd be here on Wednesday, even when they carried him off."

But early Wednesday, with an unseasonably cool (60-degree) wind at his back, Lothridge was booting 60-yards at the Miami Dolphins' workout.

Lothridge, a 6-foot, 200-pound kicking specialist, punted for eight seasons before being cut by the Atlanta Falcons last September.

Don Shula, coach of the only undefeated team in the National Football League this season, called Lothridge Monday and offered him Seiple's job. But Lothridge said he didn't jump at the chance.

The Dolphins clinched a playoff spot by winning their 10th straight Sunday, but Lothridge noted, "There's so much uncertainty. I could be here until Tuesday, or a month or till the end of the season. Larry could come back for the playoffs, but there's no sense talking about that because we really don't know yet."

"It was a tough decision," he said. "I have obligations to my family and my business partners and you just can't pull up stakes and move out."

But he decided to take a chance Tuesday night, and Shula put Seiple on the wounded list and released defensive back Mike Howell from the taxi squad to squeeze Lothridge on the roster.

Lothridge said he didn't expect when the first college player drafted by the Broncos was a fellow named Roger LeClerc, a center from Trine University, a center from Trine University.

He did not last beyond his first season in what was then little better than a semi-pro league.

It should not be said that Denver always flops in the draft. The Broncos did select Floyd Little in 1967. He is the defending National Football League ground-gaining champion.

Denver also was wise enough to draft Merlin Olsen, Charlie Cowan, Kermit Alexander, Bob Brown and Dick Butkus. Let's make that Denver was wise enough to properly evaluate the immense talent of Olsen, Cowan, Alexander, Brown and Butkus. It was not wise enough to draft these gentlemen before the AFL joined the club.

Naturally this wisdom displayed by the front office was further shown in the selection of head coachner Frank Filchock, Jack Faulkner, Mac Speedie, Jerry Malavei, Lou Saban and Ray Smith have led the Broncos. These are household names . . . in their own households.

Faulkner was coach of the year in 1962, when he came up with a 7-7 record. He was fired during the 1964 season. Saban had more than five years remaining on a 10-year contract

STANTON SPLIT END McAlister Picked Top Lineman

Split end Paul McAlister caught eight passes against the Reagan County Owls to earn "Lineman of the Week" honors for the Stanton Buffaloes.

McAlister finished his high school football career in fine style as he led District 7-AA in pass receiving. During the season, McAlister pulled in 29 aeriels for 515 yards — despite drawing double coverage in nearly every game.

Senior Halfback Dwayne McMeans was chosen Stanton's "Back of the Week" for his performance against Reagan County. McMeans also finished high in the league's list of rushers. He rushed for nearly 700 yards during the season.

Quarterback Alan Davis was named "Back of the Week" by the Big Spring Steer coaching staff for his performance in the Big Spring-San Angelo game last week. Davis, a senior, came off the bench to direct the Steers to their only touchdown of the first half. In addition to his quarterbacking chore, Davis handled the team's punting.

Guard Rob Lawlis was named "Lineman of the Week" by the Steer coaches. Lawlis was termed the Steers' "most consistent offensive lineman" by Head Coach Clovis Hale.

Willie Williams was named "Defensive Back of the Week" Senior Nate Pass received the "Steer Award" for his performance in the loss to San Angelo. Pass, who led District 7-AA in pass receiving, intercepted a pass and ran 102 yards for a touchdown against the Bobcats.

Quarterback Roland Beal, who scored both touchdowns in Coahoma's season-ending win over the Crane Golden Cranes, was named "Back of the Week" by the Bulldog coaching staff. Beal, a senior, will direct the Bulldog offense in Friday's bi-district clash with Alpine.

The Coahoma coaches were unable to find any offensive lineman who was more outstanding than any other, so the entire offensive line was named "Linemen of the Week." The interior offensive line for Coahoma is comprised of tackles Dean Wood and John Best, guards Kyle Kiser and Steve Fraser and center Joe Elmore.

Mike Murphy doubled as a quarterback and defensive halfback and turned in a "real good job" at both spots to earn "Back of the Week" honors at Forsan.

Offensive tackle-defensive tackle Dennis Day was chosen "Lineman of the Week" by the Forsan coaching staff for his performance against the Bronte Longhorns.

Halfback Garland Williams was named "Back of the Week" and Audrey Brummett was named "Lineman of the Week" by the Borden County coaching staff for their performances in the Coyotes' win over Sterling City last week. Both players are expected to spark the Coyotes against Goree in Saturday's bi-district clash.

Contrary to what Costa and Jackson think, he is a flexible man. Except when it comes to losing. He's much more comfortable winning — and there could be a lot of that ahead for the Broncos.

As general manager-coach when he quit last season. Coaching in Denver does this to people.

Enter John Ralston as general manager-coach.

Along with coaching, Ralston has found time to be an author. His "Coaching Today's Athlete" came out a year ago.

"I think anyone reading my book would come away with one big thought," he says. "At least I hope it would be bigger than any other. It's that we (football coaches) probably are dealing with a more involved athlete, one involved politically and socially. We must reactively and with everyone else. You can't coach the same way you did 10 years ago. You have to be flexible."

Ralston gained attention at Stanford University, in Palo Alto, Calif., by allowing his players freedom "to do their own thing." He also coached Stanford to the last two Pacific-8 Conference titles.

Additionally, these championship teams won in the Rose Bowl against Ohio State and Michigan.

The 3-6 record Denver now possesses is not especially impressive. However, Denver followers will tell you this is a much improved edition of the Broncos.

For one thing, Ralston did not turn out to be the low-key man they expected. He moved right in and established himself as the boss. When Dave Costa and Rich Jackson, leaders of a strong defensive front four, continually questioned his authority, Ralston sent them packing. This is one of the benefits of the professional league over the undergraduate game. There are no four-year scholarships in the NFL.

The play of Denver has picked up. The Broncos are a team that easily could have a 6-3 record. They hold a 36-23 victory over Oakland and a 10-10 conquest of the Los Angeles Rams. They were not embarrassed when they lost to Minnesota (23-20), Cleveland (20-17) or the New York Giants (23-17). All the false hopes of the early days have been gone for a long time. But John Ralston has given life to fresh contrary to what Costa and Jackson think, he is a flexible man. Except when it comes to losing. He's much more comfortable winning — and there could be a lot of that ahead for the Broncos.

Horoscope

CAROL RIGTER

FRIDAY, NOV. 24, 1972
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to consider what you can best do to have more well-being at home and with your family, so do something special in this vital realm of your existence. You are able to handle properly matters in such a deliberate and sensible manner that you have a greater income, enough and to spare.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Keep busy of duties important to do at home or for kin and show you are devoted. Improve plans for the future. Don't lose your temper, or be impatient with others and get into trouble.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Make appointments that are necessary so the future will be brighter. Tell partners of your ideas, how to solve pending problems. Correspond and get the data you need. Take it easy tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Find better ways to add to present income and show you are most efficient. A wise adviser can help you become more successful. See to it that you keep calm in the face of any emergency that may arise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Figure out angles to use so you can achieve the aims that most are good to deal to you and be well prepared to take action tomorrow. Listen to a new contact you don't really like, but who has the data you want. Be happy with what you have.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make a plan of campaign that will help you rid yourself of obligations of work, be sure you please most. Find the proper mental meeting ground. Though views may differ from yours, you can make new arrangements with associates that will bring good results in the future. Know what you are progressing, where you are headed. Take the bait. Keep calm.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get busy of all the work that must be done. Instead of just what you want to do, and then you please higher-ups. Go over the matter, meeting ground. Though views may differ from yours, you can make new arrangements with associates that will bring good results in the future. Know what you are progressing, where you are headed. Take the bait. Keep calm.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) After you have done important work, you need to go out for amusement to relieve anxieties and boredom, and to be able to enjoy life. Perfect your hobby with good friends is also good. The evening can be very amusing.

Sampling Is Far Ahead

The USDA cotton division classing office of Abilene reported 20,100 samples were classed in the week ending Nov. 17, bringing the season total to 47,500. Only 3,140 had been classed at this same time last season, reported B. B. Manly, in charge.

The average grade of the cotton was some lower, compared to last week, caused mainly by bark in the samples. Average staple length showed little change this week. Twenty per cent of the samples were in white grades; 69 per cent, light spotted; and 11 per cent, spotted. The predominant grades were 42 and 52 with 35 and 30 per cent respectively. Thirty-four per cent was reduced on account of bark.

Predominant samples were 30 to 30 per cent; 31 at 41 per cent; and 32 at 19 per cent.

Cotton continued to sell on the basis of quality, with the higher grade, premium micronaire cotton in greater demand. Prices for the predominant grade, 42 with 31 staple; ranged from 18.50 to 20.75 cents per pound. Prices strengthened as the week progressed. Grade 32, staple 31 cotton sold for about 21 cents per pound. Buyers generally discounted cotton reduced in grade because of bark, by one-half cent per pound.

JIM PRITCHETT'S WIVES

Three Blondes Share Love Role

Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Actor Jim Pritchett was talking about his wives. In the last 10 years, he's had three of them, all blondes. And he hasn't divorced any of them.

That calls for an explanation. Pritchett was referring to the actresses who play his wife in "The Doctors," an NBC-TV daytime serial.

PRIVATE LIFE

In private life, he is married to Cynthia Pritchett, whom he met while doing summer stock in Augusta, Mich. She is his first and only wife.

Now about "The Doctors."

"I've been in the show since the beginning, playing Dr. Matt Powers," he explained during a recent interview.

"At first I was a widower, but then the writers decided I should have a mate. So I became married."

"But after a few years, the actress playing my wife, Maggie, left the show."

"So I had a new girl playing the role. The viewers didn't seem upset about it, seeing a new person in the part."

"I've had Wife No. 3 for the last four years. That isn't bad."

ON TALL SIDE

"All have been blondes and on the tall side," he recalled. "I remember the first girl had short blonde hair, the second one, long hair, and the third one had to wear a wig for a while to match the other's long hair."

Did the parade of "wives" make any difference in his characterization, he was asked.

"Yes, I suppose it did," he answered. "Each actress is different, so my character probably changed unconsciously to match each of them. One of the actresses was softer, for example, and another, more dynamic."

Since "The Doctors" is a five-day-a-week series, how was Pritchett able to get away from New York City?

"We tape two shows every Wednesday so we can have some time off," he reported. "Our Wednesdays are 12-hour days. We go in at 7:45 in the morning, tape the first show at 1:30, then begin rehearsing the second one at 3:30 and finally tape that one at 7:30 in the evening.

"I'm on a little promotional tour. So far, I've been in San Francisco, San Diego and Los Angeles, and after I leave here I go to Phoenix."

IT'S A RETREAT

Pritchett lives on 74th Street, in a brownstone, in New York City, and spends the weekend with his family in a small farm in the Catskill area.

"It's a retreat, a place where we can get away," he commented. Although he met and married his wife while they were in summer stock, she has abandoned the stage to be a housewife and mother to their three children.

"She did have one role on 'The Doctors,' I remember," Pritchett said. "She played a mute nurse."

Their two daughters, Laurie, 14, and Shelley, 12, also had solo appearances on the show. Both were patients.

Playing the role of a doctor is ironic, since he is a law school graduate and actually practiced law for two years. But the call to acting was stronger than the appeal of the courtroom.

Pritchett is happy about the choice he made.

Turkey One Of Best Buys, Trimmings To Cost More

By DON KENDALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — That fine old bird, the turkey, is rated as one of the best buys in the supermarket, but some of the trimmings are going to add to family food bills this Thanksgiving.

A 21-pound turkey in the Washington, D.C., area is selling this week for an average of 39 cents per pound, which is unchanged from the past three Thanksgivings, the Agriculture Department reports.

At $7.80 for a typical bird, the turkey is usually the single most expensive item on the dinner table, depending on how fancy the other fare is.

The department limited its retail price survey to the Washington area and said there was no national estimate. However, retail food prices generally are running about 4 per cent higher than last year.

Some items cost more this Thanksgiving. Ready-mixed stuffing is 35 cents per pound, compared with 33 cents a year ago. Fresh cranberries, averaging 29 cents a pound, are unchanged. Sweet potatoes are up one penny from 14 cents per pound a year ago.

Turkeys have become a year-around feature at supermarkets, not just a holiday treat as they once were. One big reason is that farmers have learned to produce them more efficiently and on a full-time basis.

The Agriculture Department says a record 128.4 million turkeys were raised this year, up 7 per cent from 1971.

Consumers increasingly have turned to turkey and other poultry as prices have gone up for beef and pork. This year, the department says, each American will eat an average of 8.9 pounds of turkey.

In 1960, by comparison, per capita turkey consumption was 6.1 pounds.

Man, You're No Cowboy

Molded Feeds Are Peril For Pigs

LUBBOCK — Have you ever heard of "Mycotoxins Russian Roulette"? You may not have, but chances are you're playing that deadly game if you feed molded feeds to your pigs.

According to Dr. Gene Cope, extension veterinarian, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Amarillo, mycotoxins is a two-dollar word which means "poisoning of the host following entrance into the body of one or more toxicants produced by a mold." While the condition has been recognized for many years, serious research was not initiated until the last decade.

Research indicates that animals which eat feeds contaminated by mycotoxins suffer from a variety of debilitating and lethal conditions such as hemorrhaging, anemia, cancer, poor growth rate, poor feed conversion and others.

Some molds produce a toxin which elicits similar responses in sows as the hormone estrogen, points out Dr. Cope. In sows this response to the toxin may be one of swollen mammary glands and prolapse of reproductive organs.

NEW YORK (AP) — It sounded improbable, but that's what the man calling police said he saw — a cowboy holding up Harvey's Radio Co. on 15th Street off Fifth Avenue.

Police arrived, sirens screaming, and took into custody a man with a buckskin jacket, jeans, Afro haircut, silver-studded holster and what looked like a Colt .44.

Police said he'd been waving the six-shooter in the store, with customers and employees ducking for cover, and when arrested told police: "Hey man, I'm from North Worth, Tex., and I'm a cowboy."

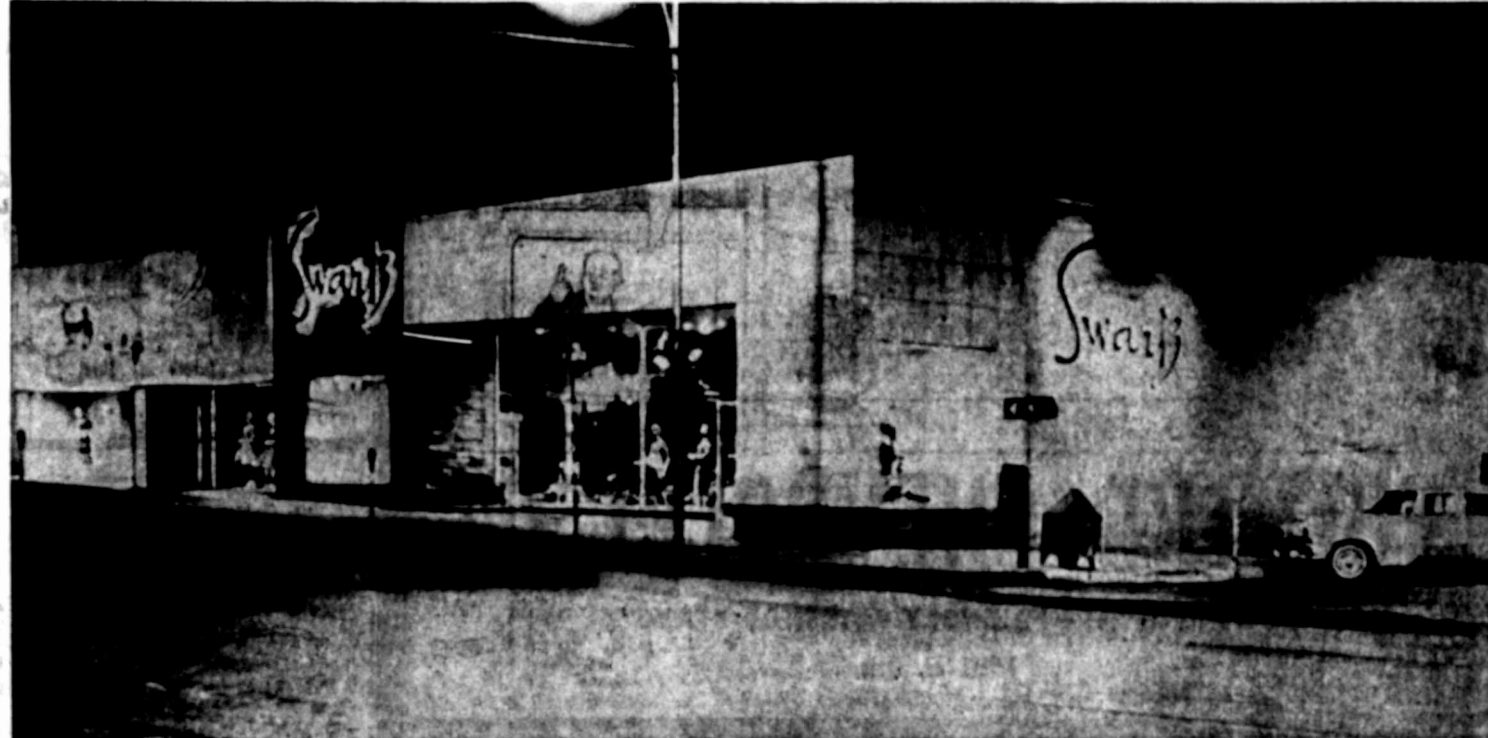

He turned out to be Sylvester Stewart, 28, of San Francisco — also known as Sly Stone, leader of the rock group Sly and the Family Stone. The group is in town for appearances at Madison Square Garden tonight and Friday night.

Police charged him with threatening people with an imitation gun and confiscated the toy gun and the holster. He could be fined $25 on the charge.

Outnumber Fems

According to the FBI, arrests of males for all criminal acts, except traffic, outnumbered arrests of females by six to one during 1971.

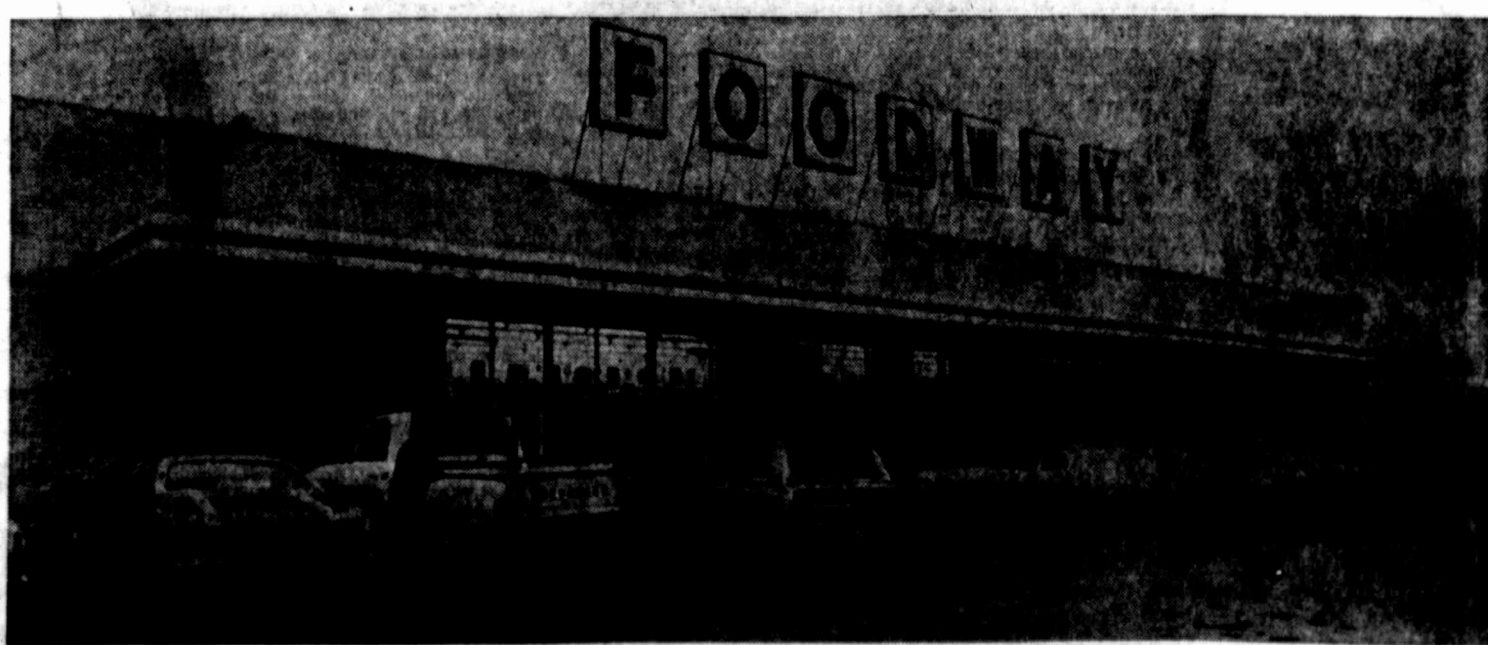

However, arrests of females increased 7 per cent while arrests of males were up 3 per cent over 1970.

In The Spirit of
let us pause, this Thanksgiving Day, to reflect on the many blessings that the Almighty has showered upon this country. Let us consider how we have used these gifts, and endeavor to utilize them for the good of all his creatures. We have much to be grateful for . . .
we have much to achieve in years to come. We thank the Creator for providing us with the resources and the will to work for prosperity for all

ADVANTAGES OF DUAL CITIZENSHIP

Pregnant Pilgrims Motives

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — they wait — all night, if necessary — for the bus to take them to downtown San Diego, the women, perhaps 15 a month, make their pilgrimage north.

They walk through the dirt and dust a mile or more to return home. Their children, born in the most modern of medical facilities, are U.S. citizens. Since the families are destitute, the cost is born by San Diego County. The only price may be revocation of the border crossing card that permits the women to enter the United States.

"The immigration law says that when a person becomes a public charge, that person is unsuitable for admittance," says Frank E. Small, who runs the San Diego office of the U.S. Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization. "A woman who incurs a medical bill that must be paid by the county becomes a public charge."

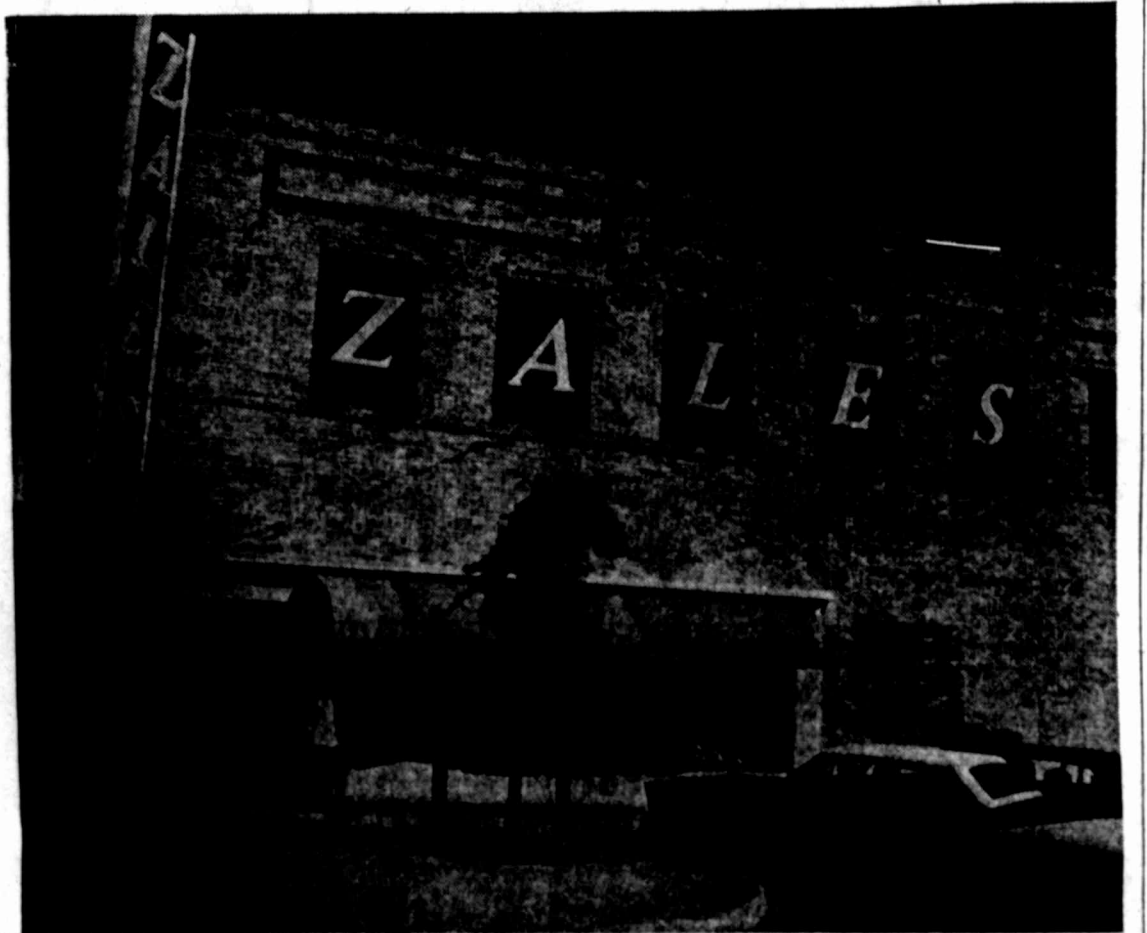

UNSUITABLE
The cards are collected at the hospital when major expenses are involved, but there are exceptions, Small says. "Often the holder sends the card back across the border with a friend, or says it has been lost."

In that case, he says, immigration officials can do nothing to prevent a woman from returning to bear another child at the hospital, which is required to care for medically indigent persons under its contract with the county.

The San Diego hospital's strongest lure is American citizenship for the children born there, offering a family hopelessly mired in poverty a chance to improve the lot of its children.

Tijuana on the Mexican side has hospitals and several public health centers, including a small maternity clinic run by San Diego-based Project Concern. Yet social workers say most women are unattended at birth. Maternity sickness and infant mortality are rampant.

Of the estimated 15 Mexican women who give birth in University Hospital each month, not all come here for that reason, says Ken Weed of the county welfare department.

TEACHIN' AND MAKIN' ONE-NIGHT CONCERTS

Stan Kenton Still Groovin'

By ANDY CRAWFORD
Capley News Service

LOS ANGELES — Stan Kenton, a warm, sophisticated, six-foot-five package of nervous energy, is still looking for new horizons.

Over the last two years Kenton, the nation's leader in progressive jazz for over 30 years, has made over 200 one-night concerts around the country. He's also taught high school and college students about jazz and made recordings.

CHANCE TO BE FREE

Unlike most band leaders, Kenton, now 60, thrives on this hectic schedule.

"It gives me a chance to be free, to be my own man," he said.

He compares the one-nighters with a long booking in a hotel ballroom.

"The tours are much better for us," he says with the zeal of a missionary. "The audiences are great! The people come to see us only because they like our music. This is a far cry from working in most hotels."

"Thank goodness, no one walks up to the bandstand, and asks for a little two-beat, or for some of the old Tommy Dorsey or Glenn Miller sounds!"

TRUE TO FORM

True to form, he also feels he would be too confined if he were to become musical director for a television network.

"There would always be some idiot producer around to tell me all about the music business," he says scornfully.

Kenton was equally unconventional when his first band burst on the scene in 1941. Born in Wichita, Kan., and raised in Los Angeles, his early training in the classics was apparent with his big break. His first appearance was at the Balboa Beach ballroom, located at a resort about 40 miles south of Los Angeles.

He had several early highly stylized recordings, including "Adios" and "Taboo," and a rehash of "St. James Infirmary." More popular were his 1943 recordings of "Eager Beaver" and "Artistry in Rhythm," later to become his theme.

FLOWED LIKE WINE

Affita O'Day, an all-time great jazz singer, joined the band the following year. She recorded the popular "And Her Tears Flowed Like Wine," among others.

Shortly thereafter June Christy, bright, friendly and talented, joined the band. She was followed by Chris Connor on many of the postwar recordings. Both had singing styles similar to Miss O'Day's.

Many big bands folded in the late '40s, but Kenton kept going, despite frequent changes in personnel. He kept assembling larger and more complex bands. He aimed for concerts, appealing to those who came to listen, rather than to dance.

In the '60s, he recorded the popular "West Side Story," from the movie.

He later showed his diversity by recording eight compositions of classic composer Richard Wagner on one album, and music from the show

"Hair" on another.

More recently, he completed the first film on jazz to be used as an educational supplement in schools, titled "The Substance of Jazz."

Throughout his career, Kenton's style has reflected musical compositions or total arrangements, rather than individual performers. Several musicians have proved the exception to this general rule, including trumpeter Maynard Ferguson, drummer Shelly Manne, bassist Eddie Safranski, tenor saxophonist Vido Musso and trombonist Kai Winding.

Kenton did much of the early arranging himself. Later, he was aided by Pete Rugolo, Shorty Rogers, Gerry Mulligan and Bill Holman.

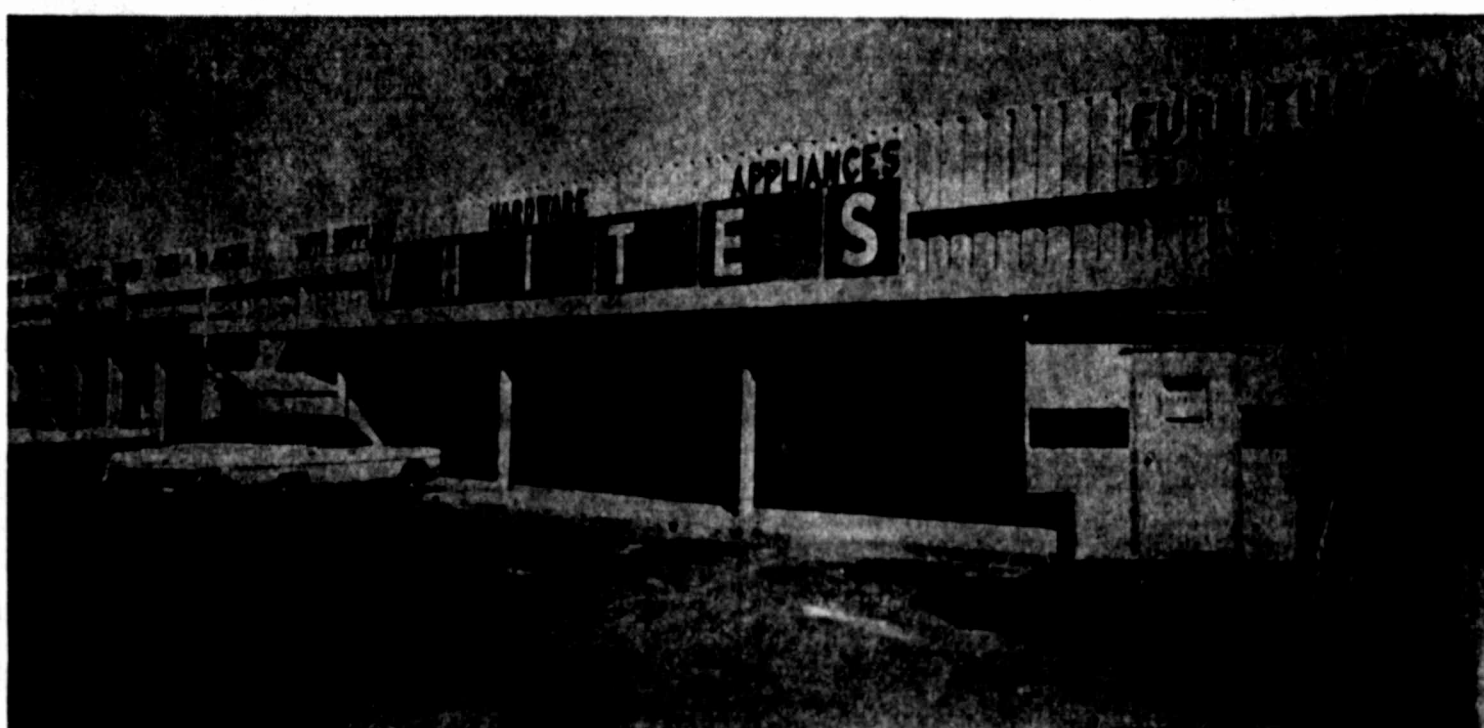

Many current arrangements lean heavily on Latin rhythms. He plays "Love Story" in a style far different than the score in the movie.

Among other current arrangements are "MacArthur Park," played in much the same manner as his trademark version of "September Song." Also included are "Bogota" and the perennial "Mile High."

HOPE HE'S RIGHT

Kenton has missed several important recent engagements, notably the 1972 Monterey, Calif., Music Festival, due to illness. His manager, Dennis Justice, says the problems are minor, and that Stan would be fully recovered shortly.

The millions of fans that still treat Stan Kenton with awe certainly hope he's right.

Choose Constructively In Picking Kid's Toy

Toy buying can be downright frustrating! Buying the right toy for the right age preschooler is a difficult task for parents and grandparents. But for someone with little experience with children or unfamiliar with toy lines, the myriad of merchandise in toy departments at holiday time can present quite a challenge.

Playskool Research, pioneer in developing educational play tools, cautions about the importance of selecting the right toy for each child on your Christmas list. Children during the preschool years grow faster and learn more than at any other time during their lives. Toys are the textbooks by which they learn, the tools of their work and play. That's why it is important to select the right toy for the right age child — to insure that the toy will be helpful to his growth and development.

To help the novice toy buyer or anyone going toy shopping this season, Playskool suggests making up a special "Toy Gift List" specifically for the youngsters to whom you will be playing Santa. In columns after each name note the child's age, general personality, special interests and achievement levels (such as reading ability, manual dexterity, etc.). Take your list with you when you go shopping. There will be a clerk to help you select the right toy for the right age child.

As a general guide for toy selection for pre-schoolers, Playskool Research offers these suggestions by age group:

THE INFANT. Baby's first toy should be a hanging object

Phone Man Idea Proved Popular

The first Christmas tree to be lighted electrically was conceived by a telephone man.

He bought a handful of tiny electric lamps such as those used on telephone switchboards; then, in his spare time at home he soldered the lights into wires and strung them on the family tree. Result: the world's first Christmas tree lighted electrically... and increased safety for homes everywhere at the festive Yule season.

which he can follow with his eyes. Later he can grasp simple objects and respond to bright colors. A rattle, cube or ball is an ideal toy, but they should be large enough to prevent swallowing.

THE CRAWLER. He has enough muscular control to enjoy toys he can take apart and put together again, like stacking blocks and discs. Many a so-called "destructive" child at this age simply hasn't had toys that let him exercise this natural curiosity.

THE TODDLER. Push-pull toys help him exercise his muscles and learn coordination. Pounding sets, wooden trains and trucks are good toys for this age.

THE MIDDLE YEARS. The child especially likes toys that sense of accomplishment. He enjoys building, puzzle plaques, parquetry blocks, drop boxes, wagons and blocks in variety shapes are especially good. He also likes the mobility of: door play.

THE OLDER PRE-SCHOOLER. Developing rapidly physically and mentally, this child has greater self-confidence and needs toys that let him use and master new skills and imagination. Activity tables and play desks with double purpose crayon and magnetic boards provide hours of varied play. Pegboard sets, hammer and nail sets, toys that let him create village and roadways have many long play values for this age.

More detailed guidelines for proper selection of toys for pre-schoolers are found in a booklet, "Playtools to Shape a Child's World," free on request from Playskool Research, Box 3431, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

White Knight Has Friend In Dad

Newest status symbol for Father's workshop is White Knight, a high style hand saw with a taper ground blade that prevents wood from binding when sawed and bevel file sharpened teeth that make sawing easy. An etched heraldic design, the S & J monogram with a crown and Maltese cross makes White Knight a good looking wall decoration. The heraldic design is repeated on the solid beach saw handle. NOT JUST FURNITURE — Carter Furniture, at its new location of 202 Scurry St., can help you refurnish your home for Christmas. But they also offer a number of gift items, including lamps, pictures, barometers and MaLeck woodcraft goods. What about a Lazy Boy Chair for Santa Claus?

House Gift Is Most Welcome

A new trend in Christmas gift-giving is gaining popularity with people in the know who welcome a switch from the old gift clichés. More and more shoppers are passing up the personal doodad for the tabletop radio or for the table itself, the cardigan sweater for the elegant silver candle snuffer and the proverbial black lace negligee for a dressing table or headboard. The 'in' gift of the year is the house gift, one that can be used and enjoyed by all.

It opens up a whole new area of Christmas gift possibilities. For her, there is china, crystal, pictures, to name just a few. And for him, consider gourmet cooking equipment, an easy chair, power tools, electric blanket, desk or desk accessories or the always welcome bar.

The choice is vast, and this year furniture as well as department stores are displaying intriguing house gifts from the country's leading manufacturers to please friends and family. The House Gift concept is such a growing trend, as predicted by House Garden magazine years ago, that many decorating authorities in furniture and gift departments are prepared to assist with selections. This year, a wide range of special items, many tagged as House Garden House Gifts, will be on display.

The variety of selections will be vast, encompassing absolutely everything one can imagine, from mind-expanding works of art to zebra rugs and zithers. Look for House Gift Boutiques and Gift Centers in many stores.

Education Of Infants Aided By Playtententials

Now children's education begins literally in the cradle, as soon as baby is three weeks old. Dr. Burton L. White, director of Harvard's Pre-School Project, after ten years of research with infants in home environments, has created and tested Playtententials, the first progressive series of toys designed to help baby discover himself weeks earlier, and develop the habit of being alert, inquisitive and confident.

In cooperation with Kenner, who pioneered baby mobiles, Dr. White has created two groups of Playtententials. The first group of unique toys is designed to help infants between three weeks and three and one-half months reach their full potential. The second group of Playtententials is planned to match exactly the growing sensory abilities of babies between three and one-half months and six months or longer. Each of the Playtententials is planned to entertain the crib occupant, invites him to explore, and has a specific developmental goal.

Based on intensive research by Dr. White, the first series of Playtententials are positioned on a Dura-Stand so that they are precisely in baby's limited area of vision. For the three to ten week infant group, Dr. White recommends Bat and Feel toys and Faces and Forms Mobiles. These toys develop experience in sight, sound and touch and guide Baby's random hand motions into purposeful activity. From nine to fourteen weeks, Animal Grabbie is added to the Dura-Stand. Dr. White finds that infants from nine weeks to six months or older, enjoy looking at themselves in the unbreakable Baby IMAGE Mirror which he also positions on the Dura-Stand.

When baby is three and one-half months old, Dr. White suggests introducing him to a second series of Playtententials. This includes a color Play Windmill which teaches cause-and-effect action when he pulls the handle. There's a Handi-Pal with six little hands for Baby to discover and grasp. Play Chimes give him the opportunity to make things happen by reaching and fingering: his efforts produce soft, pleasing sounds. An alternate for positioning on the Dura-Stand is Trapeze Teether and Exerciser, which will help him strengthen his muscles by reaching, grasping and pulling. Between five and one-half and six months, Dr. White suggests Pull-Me-Up, a stirrup-like strap which attaches to the crib rail and helps baby learn to sit up. Thumpy, a bouncy jingly rabbit is designed to give gentle kick back action. Find-Me Booties are provided for use with Thumpy to make Baby quickly aware of his feet.

Cameras Popular At All Times

Holidays are camera days: According to an Argus study, thirty per cent of family cameras are used "any time, all the time," ten per cent are used "now and then," five per cent "when there's film," and fifty-five per cent "on holidays, vacations, special occasions." Camera sales rate high on the wanted-gift list for Christmas.

Smart Santas Get Ready Early For Busy Season

All tied up for the holidays? Great! There'd no need to be become tied down with last minute details, particularly in the fashion and beauty department.

Smart Santas begin early to get ready for the Christmas crush. There's still time to enroll in a needlework class and make special gifts for some of your closest friends. Or to take that cooking course you've been putting off and make your own fruitcake this year. Perhaps your local department store gives a quick lesson or two in gift wrapping packages that just shimmer to be opened.

Heed these suggestions from experts at the Lilt Beauty Service:

If your children are old enough to participate, why not plan an old-fashioned Christmas tree? The rule is, though only homemade decorations allowed. Bake and decorate cookie ornaments to hang on the tree. Make balls from bits of crinkly aluminum foil. Cut pretty pictures from magazines or last year's Christmas cards to add color. And, don't forget the old stand-bys like popcorn ropes, chains of colored paper, and candy canes.

You, of course, don't want to overlook yourself while planning holiday gaiety for your family. Best bets here are to start early, and plan beauty short cuts that allow you to breeze through the holidays, looking your loveliest with a minimum of time and effort.

Hair, always an important part of any "look" is even more so during the holidays. You'll want to look special, without spending hours in the beauty parlor or sleepless nights trying not to muss a fussy coif.

And you can have flair without fuss if you give yourself a home wave before the holidays. There's a Lilt Home Wave designed for every type of hair, to achieve every type of style. Choose super, regular or gentle Lilt for hard-to-wave, normal or easy-to-wave hair. With all Lilt Style Kits, you can use the Soft Wave Method that gives the soft, loose curls necessary for today's feminine styles and waves.

Or, if you just want control in hard-to-manage areas, such as tendrils, guiches, bangs, or ends, choose the push button type. This dispenses the waving agent as a soft, aerosol foam with no messy dripping — just the thing for "here and there" curls where ever you want them.

After your holiday hair is in shape, choose a pretty accessory, like a "new as now" choker. You can buy one — or if you want to follow through your "homemade Christmas," make one. Sew snaps on a ribbon that matches a favorite dress and add a pretty pin. Or, tie a Christmas bow around your neck.

So if you're an up-to-date Mom, treat your family to an old-fashioned Christmas and a new-fashioned you!

Angels Appeal

Newly available in card shops are decorative, stand-up angels. 11" tall, with pleated gowns of holly. Norcross suggests using them as the centerpiece for a children's holiday party. Small versions are available and these can be used as place cards and party favors.

Scissors? Why Not As Gift?

How many times have you heard Mother exclaim "what has become of my good pair of sewing scissors!"

Hardly a day goes by that someone in the house doesn't handle a pair of scissors or shears, of one type or another. And the chances are that Mother's favorite pair for sewing usually gets mislaid in the borrowing process, or just plain worn out by performing tasks for which they were not intended.

The J. Wiss & Sons Co. solves the problem with a beautiful array of sewing sets that will provide years of sewing pleasure. Representing Wiss craftsmanship at its best is the set called Heritage which should be high on your Christmas gift list because here are all the scissors and shears she needs the most: 9" pinking shears, 8" dressmakers' shears, 6" sewing scissors and 4" embroidery scissors.

Sewing and embroidery scissors are used for numerous light cutting tasks such as ripping, snipping, darning, cutting light material, wrapping gift packages, and can also be used for decorative finishes. Completing the gift set is a pair of dressmakers' shears made with bent handles which permits the blade to rest flat on the table, making it easier to follow a pattern outline precisely.

Christmas Lore Serves To Enrich The Season

Christmas traditions warm the heart and make the whole world kin. We've been collecting Christmas lore and find it lovely! Did you know that on Christmas Eve the wood carvers of Oberammergau ski down the mountain slopes of Austria with flaming torches in hand, singing as they go? Doesn't that conjure up a picture? Time was, in Sweden, when the prettiest girl in the family played the role of Lucia on December 23rd — her "privilege" to wait on everyone else for that entire day! Do you suppose they still do it in 1972?

Flowers are used in Spain and Italy instead of evergreens and holly. In Sicily, a Christmas tree is decorated with apples and oranges. In England the Yule log must be big enough to last until New Year's Day. And Santa Claus goes by many names in many places. He's Julevisen in Denmark. Pere Noel in France, and the "Abbot of Unreason" in Scotland. In Italy he is Befana, an old woman on a broomstick, who brings gifts on the 19th of January.

In many countries, the "more blessed to give than to receive" tradition, gifts are exchanged twice during the Yuletide season. On Christmas Eve in Italy, while waiting for Befana, young and old draw gifts from a jar known as the Urn of Fate. Pere Noel comes on Christmas Eve in France, and gifts are again exchanged on New Year's Day. And, of course, the day after Christmas is Boxing Day in England where tradespeople and household help are remembered with boxes of money!!!

An old romantic Swiss tradition has it that the boy or girl who takes three sips from nine different fountains, while the bells are ringing for midnight service on Christmas Eve, will find their future mate standing at the Church door. A regular courtship will begin at once if the spell has worked.

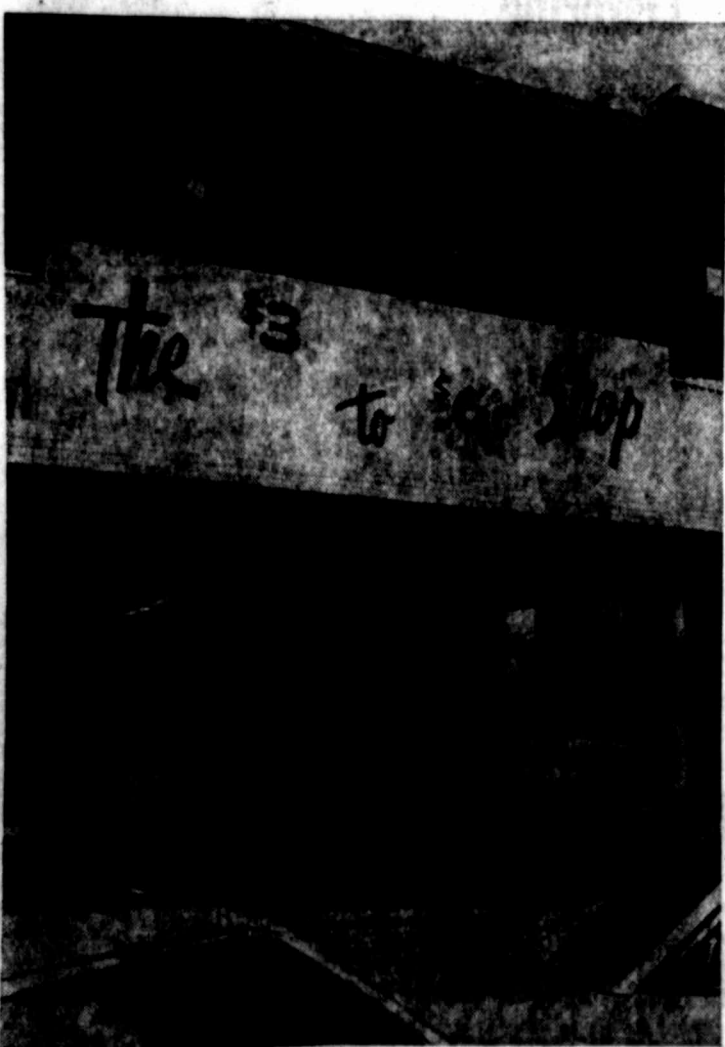

Fragrance at Christmas time casts many a romantic spell, too, from the days of myrrh and incense, to the almost traditional gift of the 20th century, of perfume or cologne to at

Auto Racing Units

A spokesman for a plastics firm foresaw the perfection of auto racing game units. They will reproduce actual championship courses and the toy auto racing cars will be reproduced in greater detail.

Right Togs Make The Vacation

This year, there's more and more experimenting with lengths... long coats, dresses and skirts for any resort be it down on the beach, or up where it's cold. Resort-cruise fashions will show more bare midriffs, more one-piece swimsuits — more complete beach costumes... with more short and long pants, soft free-swinging skirts, soft little dresses and contoured jackets. The body is all-important and clothes that are body-conscious are more important than ever. And, there will be much more interest in fabrics... from quilts and textures including embroidery to an infinite variety of knits, especially cotton knits... to more sheer fabrics and more shiny fabrics (naturally, "wet look").

THRIFTY ITEMS — If your Christmas money is running shorter than your gift list, drop by the $3 to $6 Shop at the corner of Fourth and Main and select an item of sportswear or other apparel for the lady in your life.

Casette Music Has Grown Up

Cassette music is this year's holiday example of a toy that grew up.

Cassettes invaded the U.S. scene five years ago primarily for portable voice recording. Today, cassettes are welcome in the home and on the go as a convenient and compact source of stereo music.

There are two main reasons for the acceptance of cassettes in the home, according to Ampex, a leading producer of cassette equipment and tape.

Design and engineering advances since the first cassette recorders and tapes have improved the quality of cassette sound. And a wide range of musical selections are now available on tape, ranging from classical and semi-classical to popular and rock and featuring the world's leading artists.

Cassettes are tiny reels of magnetic tape encased in slim plastic boxes that merely slip into the recorder and start with the push of a button. Recording or listening is a soft touch without tape handling.

The cassette offers many advantages as a home entertainment device. It is much simpler to operate than traditional open reel recorders which require tape handling and tape threading. It permits home recording, which is not possible with record players, and tapes can be erased and reused numerous times.

Introduced in the mid-1960s, cassette recorders and players are available in a wide range of models from under $30 to approximately $300. For the last two years, U.S. sales of tape recorders (more than half of them cassette models) have exceeded record player sales.

For home listening, a favorite is the Ampex Micro 90, an attractive stereo model which includes a cassette changer. Six cassettes may be stacked to play up to six hours of music without handling. It is available

Christmas, 1847, Was Happy Time

Christmas 1847 was a happy time for Captain John Sutter.

Sutter, known throughout California as a gracious host, decided to have a Christmas party, and invited over two hundred guests, including former Commodore General of Alta California, General Mariano Vallejo.

Christmas Day, people arrived from all parts of the valley — some from as far away as San Francisco.

After dinner, the party danced to the strains of a violin, guitar and piano 'til the sun lengthened the shadows to the peaks of the mighty Sierra. As the Christmas party ended, General Vallejo, impressed by the energetic and industrious Americans, predicted that because of them the future of California would indeed be bright. Only a month later, his prediction came true . . . for gold was discovered.

Rating High Is Gift That Nobody Ever Heard Of

Everyone loves a gift that (1) nobody ever heard of; (2) is useful as well as good-looking.

Robot Dolls Have Come Onto Own

..Would you believe . . . children's robot dolls? These and many other wonders represent the toy world for the 70s. Astronauts will be sharing the spotlight with aquanauts and moving robot dolls.

The continuation of the space craze, the growing popularity of undersea exploration and the arrival of life-like dolls were among predictions for new toys made by a panel of industry leaders at a press conference held in February. The session served as a prelude to the 67th annual Toy Industry Fair held in March.

Space toys were big last year but they'll be even bigger this year, according to one manufacturing representative. He said there will be a switch in emphasis this year from toys aimed at blasting off to the moon to toys that explore the moon's surface.

(3) keeps on giving all year. What we're saying is that a new easy-to-install shower head called Body Toner could be your Gift Gimmick of the Year!

This beautifully designed shower accessory boasts three swirling jets which toss triple streams of diffused droplets in a rhythmic pattern . . . thus creating a massaging sensation on neck, shoulders and back which is simultaneously invigorating and calming. Finger-flick settings range from springtime sprinkle to drumming deluge . . . obviously great for facials and shampoos as well as showers.

Should your beloved giftee happen to be a member of the family, won't it be nice to share that new-found sense of well-being the shower accessory promises? Self-cleaning, it is guaranteed clog- and corrosion-proof. Attractively packaged and ready to gift wrap, this extraordinary contrivance comes in chrome, harvest gold, porcelain white or avocado green. Body Toner makes a gift of the "first water".

Share Smiles, Good Cheer

ing: friendships, smiles, gifts and good cheer. A table set with Champagne Tea Punch will give a warm welcome to guests, who e'er they be. An invitation to a gathering at your house can be elegant without being elaborate. Deck a table with a red cloth, add a garland of greens, some bright ornaments and festive foods and you'll make the mood merry. Use your favorite punch bowl for the center of attraction, but instead of punch cups substitute your finest, thinnest champagne glasses. This glowing amber but won't be diluted.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Thurs., Nov. 23, 1972 7-C

people on your shopping list, or if you're searching for a last-minute gift for your favorite holiday hostess, you might keep in mind that a gift of fine tea is always sure to please. Choose a canister of one special tea or a selection like Bigelow's attractive library assortment of 14 Great Teas of the World.

Sterling Silver Is Right Gift For The Bride-To-Be

For those girls on your Christmas list who will soon become brides — as well as those who are just beginning to dream of marriage and a home — sterling silver is a delightful gift.

Any female with an eye for beautiful things loves sterling — and if you're young, impressionable and romantic, this glamorous gift takes on special meaning. For nothing else has quite the elegance of sterling, or seems so symbolic of the continuing happiness which the future seems to hold.

When your gift prospect is a bride-to-be, it's an easy matter to learn the pattern she's picked, for any girl contemplating a holiday or Spring wedding has probably already registered her sterling selection at the store where she chose the pattern. The bridal gift consultant can tell you not only the name of her pattern but the pieces she wants to receive and those which she's already acquired either through self-purchase or function. For the bride-to-be, it registry performs a most helpful as gifts. In this way, the gift duplicates gifts, and for the gift eliminates the possibility of giver, it acts as a kind of guarantee that the gift is a much-wanted one.

Solid silver flatware sets offer a wide range of place and serving pieces. Following are the 10 serving pieces found to be most-wanted by brides, along with their suggested uses:

Tablespoon — vegetables, a la king dishes, berries
Sugar Spoon — sugar, jams, sauces
Pierced Tablespoon — vegetables, stewed fruits, salads
Gravy Ladle — sauces, gravy, creamed dishes Cold Meat Buffet Fork — sliced meats, chops, platter salads (with the tablespoon, it makes an all-purpose serving set)

Butter Serving Knife — butter, cheese, jams Pie or Cake Server — pies, cakes, pastries, meat loaf, gelatin molds, frozen desserts
Olive & Pickle Fork — olives, pickles, lemon slices (can also be used as a butter pick)
Flat Server — sliced tomatoes, broccoli, asparagus, toast dishes
Jelly Server — jellies, preserves, cream or cottage cheese, relishes

If you prefer to help the bride-to-be toward completing her hoped for number of place settings, remember that even two pieces — such as the teaspoon and spreader, or the place spoon and salad fork — will bring her a step closer to her goal.

One or more place pieces of sterling are marvelous gifts, too, for the teenage "collector." If the girl you have in mind is typical of those recently surveyed by a popular magazine, she started to acquire her sterling when she was 14 — and ranks solid silver flatware higher than sweaters as a Christmas gift!

Sterling flatware is a very special gift, but it needn't be out of bounds as far as budgets are concerned. A single teaspoon, dessert fork or spreader is an appropriate gift for a teenager. And in terms of being a lasting reminder of affection, no better choice could be made! For sterling's made to last several lifetimes, and to be as beautiful many years from now as it was on the day you gave it. It even promises, in fact, to improve with age, for the lovely patina which can be seen on very old silver is the result of many years of use. This means there's no need for your young friend to worry about the tiny lines which form on the surface of her new sterling. They'll gradually blend together in time to produce this soft and lovely surface luster.

Sterling makes an ideal gift for a bride-to-be or a teenage girl, it could be the start of a happy gift tradition — one that might continue during future holidays, and perhaps birthdays, as well. There's not a girl who wouldn't love it!

Family Games Popular During Holiday Season

Have you ever bought a family game for the holidays — and then been bored stiff playing it yourself? Families enjoy togetherness, especially during the holidays, but find it hard to decide on an activity which will please and involve children and adults as well as family guests. There's a new kind of game that will get Junior away from the TV, Grandmother from her needlepoint and Dad from his reading to enjoy a family evening of fun.

It's called Conquiz, and it's both a game and an entertaining way to learn the sounds of 75 musical instruments and music forms. The game is played much like bingo, using as clues musical sounds on the record that comes with the game, rather than numbers. Conquiz consists of 40 different game cards, the record, markers, and the game leader's set of clue sheets. The colorful game cards have the letters MUSIC across the top, heading five vertical rows of squares. Each square contains a drawing of an instrument and its name, or an illustration of a music form such as rock and roll, cha cha, the waltz, a march or opera.

Each clue is identified to make the game easy to play. For example, the announcer on the record will say, "Under M, an instrument," and the players may hear a tuba, tenor sax, or violin. If it is a music form, this will be announced and they may hear excerpts from a rumba, square dance, or ballet.

Each player listens to the clue, and if the answer appears on his card, he covers the appropriate square with a Conquiz marker. The first player who successfully covers a line of five squares vertically, horizontally, or diagonally, calls "Conquiz." He then reads off the squares he has covered while the game leader checks the clue sheet. If he has identified all the instruments correctly, he wins.

To avoid confusion, instruments which sound very much alike, such as the trumpet and cornet, never appear in the same column on the game cards.

You'll be surprised at how many instruments you can recognize — and just how the different instruments do sound when you really listen. Parents will be delighted at the number of sounds they and their children will learn, and at their increased appreciation of music.

Conquiz is available at toy stores and from Conn Instrument dealers.

THOUGHTFUL GIFTS — Those gifts made by hand are the most thoughtful of all at Christmas. For the woman who is busy sewing up gift items, try shopping at Fabrific Fabric Center in the College Park Shopping Center. You will find an amazing selection to choose from to make that special holiday outfit.

Word Games Sell Well In Season

Family appeal is the keynote to many of the new games this Christmas. Beamed at school children as well as grown-ups, are two innovative word games, new approach to word games, which will cater to enthusiastic players of this world-wide best-seller. An attaché-like case with storage compartments makes it easy to play Yahtzee any time, anywhere. Globemaster is a new travel game which sends players jetting around the world to famous tourist spots. New for sports fans is Rose Bowl Computerized Football, the first moderate-priced game in this category. A molded analog computer read-out gives the resulting plays, as opposing teams make programmed moves.

Face The Facts, Yule Season Is At Hand

No longer can the fact be denied. It's time to begin shopping for Christmas.

Big Spring merchants officially begin the Christmas shopping season Friday morning after Thanksgiving although they have been getting ready for the event for weeks.

Some merchants actually start preparing for the next Christmas season in January while they are still recuperating from the last one.

There's not a business in town that doesn't benefit from the enthusiasm of the holiday shopper.

We immediately think of such shops as department stores, family centers, toy stores, and jewelry stores. They triple their business during the month of December. Most of them put on extra help for the occasion.

and purchase a larger inventory of gift items.

Family centers and toy stores try to provide all the answers for Santa Claus. And Santa Claus has to keep hopping nowadays to keep up.

Enthusiasm for astronaut toys has taken a slump this year, but western gear, toy pistols, sports gear such as footballs and basketballs, trains and trucks, and the old favorites seem to be back in style this season.

Thankfully little girls still like dolls. But today there are many kinds of dolls. There are dolls complete with wardrobes for changing, dolls that can talk on the phone, dolls that cry, wet, bubble, and coo. There are still Teddy bears and a large variety of other stuffed animals from wee to super-giant size.

Favorite gifts at the jewelry stores are diamonds and watches. The furniture stores sell new furniture and lots of appliances.

Even the car dealers get on the act and now and then, Junior or the "Missus" get a new Christmas car.

The clothing stores sell lots of men's wear, women's wear and even more teen-age wear. The music shops sell a large quantity of tape decks and tapes, record players and records.

Television sales are a favorite in the last few years. Some folks are still just now getting around to changing over to color.

LOTS OF SALES There are lots of sales in the sporting goods stores for the man of the house. This includes special equipment for hunting, fishing, boating, and all the many other sports activities.

Some men really convince their wives that they want some new tools and the hardware stores sell a lot of gift items.

Office supply stores feature printed stationery, typewriters, pen sets and other favorite gift items.

The specialty shops really count on Christmas. They offer the unusual item for the man or lady who has everything, and some that don't.

Flower shops love Christmas. They feature potted poinsettias, Christmas arrangements, special wreaths, holly, and that special Christmas bouquet.

There are also selections at family center stores for the people who like to build their own Christmas decorations. Tree ornaments — Christmas cards, and all of the many Yuletide extras can also be found in Big Spring stores.

Even the beauty shops capture a special bit of holiday business. There are more parties and my lady spends a little more time making herself beautiful.

Camera Fans Are In Luck This Year

The Christmas Season is famous for priceless moments... moments that you invariably wish you had captured on film. This year, don't wish — do it!

If this is the year you plan to purchase a camera for your favorite family photographer, you are in luck. You have the widest choice ever — at all prices. For instance, you can even get the unbeatable excitement of seeing your pictures right away with cameras that start under $30.

When you buy a camera as a gift for another member of the family, "cheat" a little. Try it out before you wrap it up. You might even leave it loaded with film so that the picture-taking can start the minute the package is opened.

If you already own a camera, be sure to stock up on film and flash bulbs or cubes. It's also wise to have your camera dealer check the batteries in your flash gun. And if you haven't used your camera since last Christmas, a few minutes rereading the instruction book might be in order.

Remember, too, that Christmas is a whole season; so take a whole seasonful of photos. Junior involved with yards of ribbon and tape as he wraps a present for his dad; Pop's harried expression as he tries to "join part A to section B" on Christmas Eve; Mom giving the finishing touches to her special Christmas pie. As an extra special touch to your children's thank-you notes — enclose a photo of the gift being enjoyed.

So capture this Christmas Season on film and enjoy it for many years to come.

Expectant Mother Likely To Overlook Herself

During the excitement of buying gifts, planning decorations and preparing the holiday meals, an expectant mother is likely to overlook one very important detail: herself.

If Christmas comes during that period of waiting, give yourself a special gift this year. Treat yourself to a little extra time for taking care of yourself.

"Your feelings of weariness and fatigue are quite normal and some extra rest may be necessary during pregnancy," according to "Your First Pregnancy," a new booklet for expectant mothers.

The feeling of more fatigue than usual probably stems from all of the physiological changes during pregnancy, and from the extra weight you carry during the later months. "Don't plan to stay up late at night wrapping Christmas packages this year. Go to bed a little earlier. And space out your Christmas shopping so that you can have rest periods during the day," advises Miss Mary Louise Lennon, Director of Kimberly-Clark's Life Cycle Center, publisher of the booklet.

Holiday parties will be fun, but keep in mind your usual common-sense good health rules. You'll be tempted with many seasonal treats. Be sure to follow your physician's advice concerning diet and weight gain.

"If your legs ache when you go to bed, sleeping with the lower end of the mattress raised can help," suggests the Life Cycle Center.

Normal activities are fine, as far as possible. Don't worry about the exertion of trimming the tree, shopping and wrapping holiday packages. In most cases, physical exertion won't harm the baby. In a normal pregnancy, the growing fetus lives in a very secure world. Leave the decision up to your doctor about participating in sports, or taking trips by auto or plane.

These and other helpful hints to make this Christmas a little happier for the expectant mother are included in "Your First Pregnancy," available at ten cents per copy from:

Box 551-SC
The Life Cycle Center
Kimberly-Clark Corporation
Neenah, Wisconsin 54956
After New Year's Day, you'll appreciate the extra care you took during the holidays. And remember, during the holidays next year, you'll have another member in your family!

Colorful Hobby Kits Are On Display This Season

Shopping for hobby model kits today is a revelation.

Where emphasis used to be on planes, cars and boats for boys in an age range from 8 to 14, its are now being made for every age group and for both sexes — even for the preschooler whose developing coordination sometimes makes him appear to be all thumbs.

The unique array of colorful hobby kits to be seen in stores this year start with the cementless and pre-painted snap-together cartoon-type models. From there they jump into the class of highly-detailed automotive miniatures and even cater to the space-minded who critically examine every engineering aspect of lunar craft replicas.

Some of the best examples of the revolution in hobby kits are those designed by Monogram Models' designer, Tom Daniel. For instance, his imaginative Dune Rat, the latest in a series, is a fun-to-snap-together kit that will provide relaxation for anyone from 6 to 60.

Why are model hobby kits

so appealing? Parents like them because they keep children fruitfully occupied; there is the value of extended play time because assembly work can be left standing for later attention; there is the proof of achievement; and Dad has the opportunity to work closely with his child.

The child likes hobby kits because he has the chance to emulate his older brothers who tinker with their automobile and motorcycle; there is the true pride of accomplishment; the sense of competition comes into play in wanting to build the model better than the other guy; the purchase of a model hobby kit gives the youngster the opportunity to make his own choice; and kits are educational in a way he likes to do things.

Older children and adults like hobby model kits because they can do in miniature what they would like to do in full-size but can't afford to do, such as build a car, ship or plane; the time spent on hobby kits is totally productive time; and the quiet of concentration has an amazing soothing value.

Junior Racing Fans To Get Added Thrills This Year

Boys and girls will share in the thrills when Santa's big toy pack is spread out under the Yule tree. Newest excitement for junior racing fans is SSP, Super Sonic Power, the first drag race scale model to run self-propelled without a track or batteries, accelerating after take-off like full size racers, reports Robert L. Steiner, president of Kenner Products Company. Each SSP racer has a power wheel that revs up to 20,000 RPM, with an easy pull Power T stock that uses gyroscopic principles. There's a launching pad and a ramp, a jump and a flying finish gate with a drag snag chute.

New from junior homemakers is a Super Easy Bake Oven with oven controls that really work to add new fascination to culinary adventures. This new kind of oven bakes double size cakes as well as regular size and has an extra warming oven with its own temperature controls.

Skis Appropriate Gift For Colorado People

A white Christmas is no dream in Colorado.

It's the glistening reality that holiday vacations are made of. It's ski slopes, snow shoes, sleighs, ice skates and warm drinks before a roaring fire. And in Breckenridge, 85 miles west of Denver, it's comfortable lodges or condominiums and informal restaurants for the whole family.

"More families are traveling together today — on skis," notes Donald Fowler, president of The Breckenridge Company, currently developing a new four-season village designed for family enjoyment.

"There's winter fun for everyone in Breckenridge," says Fowler, one of the founders of Colorado Ski Country U.S.A. "That's what makes it a great place for families."

For skiers, gentle knolls at the lower part of the ski area attract the "bunnies" or beginners. Intermediate slopes branch out from both mid-mountain and the summit. Two touch trails challenge the experts — among them, Breckenridge's newest resident, Jean-Claude Kilby. More experts' runs are planned.

Cross-country tours offer an opportunity to try out snowshoes in the manner of the mining pioneers who settled the area, and to enjoy spectacular views of the snow-covered Rockies.

Skating or tobogganing are other activities for those in the family who don't want to ski.

Sleigh or snowmobile tours over special trails through the exhilarating by day, or romantic by night, under bright stars and full Colorado moons. The tours are interrupted by stop-offs for mugs of bracing hot wine and often end with a fondue picnic.

Family-style chalets in the Valley, condominiums and some lodges are equipped with kitchens for at-home cooking and dining.

But parents may indulge in apres-ski entertainment while small fry in the family are cared for in the playroom-nursery which is part of the ski area services.

And at Christmastime, decorated pine trees, carols in the air and special treats on the menus in the cheery restaurants put the trimmings on a winter holiday vacation. No wonder Santa will arrive on skis for many families this year.

step of the way, this most realistic oven ever made for youngsters is operated on two light bulbs. Pans slide through a cooling chamber before eager little fingers can touch their masterpieces. The operational 15 minute timer for the baking oven ticks away when a knob is turned, and rings when the baking is completed.

New for all the family is Spiro-foil, the latest development in Spirographic arts by Kenner which uses aluminum foil to create fascinating 3-D effects. Another delight for youngsters is Rotodraw which provides continuing surprises. The child never knows what picture he's drawn until, by rotating a disc, he's drawn in all the slots.

A new kind of dry cell alkaline battery double-sealed in a metal container powers two unusual additions to toyland fun. GT racer with sleek sporty lines goes at safe walking speed, even down hill, because the motor provides braking action and maneuvers on a dime. Big Cat Loader, a new kind of ride-on truck with two motors — one for lifting and one for driving — also is powered by this safe dry cell rechargeable battery. Big Cat operates as a combination crane, fork lift, skip loader and wrecker tote.

According to listener surveys, radio is more popular at wake-up time than any other during the day. And so is the family bathroom.

But while it might seem that radios in the bathroom would be commonplace, limited counter space and the hazard of plug-in electrical appliances near standing water have made bathroom radios impractical. Experiments with small transistor sets have produced less-than-satisfactory results, because of poor sound quality.

A more unusual approach is a cordless, wall-mount radio engineered to provide good sound quality without taking up valuable space. Developed by Sears, Roebuck and Co. specifically for bathroom use, the 10-transistor AM&FM radio, is treated with special adhesive on the back for solid mounting on a wall, vanity or cabinet. The unit also can be mounted with two small screws.

The battery-powered radio has a 3-inch speaker for sound and tonal quality and a "slide-rule" dial for easy, accurate AM&FM tuning. Other controls on the front of the radio include an automatic frequency control for drift-free FM reception, and a push-button "on-off" switch that operates independently of the volume control.

The standard cabinet color is "stone-white" to harmonize with any decor. For added beauty, three custom "snap-on" cabinet styles — classic, colonial and mediterranean — are optional.

BOOKS

Golf Begins At Forty

A LITERARY APPROACH TO THE NEW TESTAMENT. By John Paul Pritchard. University of Oklahoma Press, Norman. $8.95.

Generations have praised the literary phrasing of the Holy Bible in its various translations. The King James version particularly in America has provided authors and orators with models of rolling, brilliant phrases.

But this is not what Dr. John Paul Pritchard of the University of Oklahoma means in this new book about literary approaches to the New Testament.

He seeks to answer these questions about each book: who wrote it, when, to whom, in whose interest did he write, and his motive.

New Testament writings have a lengthy and sometimes obscure history until they reached their present form. Those believing in their divine inspiration must also believe that God protected the books through centuries, preserving their essence despite translation from one language to another and frequent poor transcriptions.

Dr. Pritchard makes two important points. One is that the authors always were evangelizing, and by selection of material and construction they aimed at a particular audience. For instance, references which Jews would understand would be meaningless to gentiles. This has been obvious in some New Testament books, and Dr. Pritchard pinpoints this.

Another point is that the writing techniques are far beyond the capabilities of some of the authors as their background is known. This means they had help in writing their books, which would not be inconsistent with divine inspiration.

It is a remarkable book and will be absorbing to all those who want to know more about the Bible.

TWENTY YEARS OF LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY. By Bob Lapham. Fairway Publishing Co., Harlingen, Tex. $10.

The Life Begins at 40 Golf Tournament has become an institution in sports. It has been so successful since its beginning in 1953 that the problem now is how to provide for those who wish to complete.

Bob Lapham, author of this new book, has been fascinated by the tournament's growth as he recorded the classic from year to year as sports director of the Rio Grande Valley Group of Newspapers—The Harlingen Valley Morning Star, Brownsville Herald and McAllen Monitor.

Lapham traces the course of the classic back to the days when the valley first was a hotbed of golf and its Valley Open was a stop on the pro tour. When some of the top golfers defected to the Mexico City Open, angry sponsors closed down the valley event.

Less than three years later, the current tournament was established.

Lapham tells of the problems which arose, laced with yarns of strange and often humorous incidents.

The book contains numerous pictures of figures in the tournament, some of them in color.

THE INDIAN BACKGROUND OF COLONIAL YUCATAN. By Ralph L. Roys. University of Oklahoma Press, Norman. $8.95.

Yucatan, that gigantic peninsula reaching eastward and helping create the Gulf of Mexico, was one of the favored places when the Spanish conquered that portion of the New World.

This may have been because the Spanish took possession of Yucatan late in the occupation and they may have learned something from their excesses around Mexico City.

At any rate, the Spanish preserved local government under the current native leaders. The occupation was harsh enough, but at least some self-control was allowed.

Ralph L. Roys, known worldwide for his work in Maya linguistics, tells how the two cultures were merged. This handsome book contains many pictures and maps.

Style-Setting Is Cal's Specialty

While Southern California may not fit into the traditional picture of a white Christmas, it houses some of the firms responsible for Christmas decorative style-setting.

Post exchanges on military bases throughout the world are among the largest accounts, with shipments going to Okinawa, the Aleutian Islands, and Guam. South America has recently become a profitable market as well as Europe, the last stronghold of the strung popcorn and cranberry tree.

Accidents Happen At Rush Hours

Preparing for Christmas sometimes invites small accidents. Take precautions against spot happenings: Spread a plastic sheet or table cloth under the Christmas tree stand as carpet protector; rearrange furniture to keep valuables out of the heavy-traffic lanes; consider adding a stain-proof finish before the holiday guests arrive form a shield against spots and spills; brush up the furnishings to delicate furniture fabrics to it will be easier.

Stuffed Toy To Remain Popular As Yule Gift

Regardless of the divergence several professionals on the don't as readily manifest their desire to return. For still other women, the stuffed toy in part provides the means for a woman to "play the kitten." These women pay, or have an admirer pay, anywhere from $5 to $30 per toy copy. For some inexplicable reason tigers seem to be the Number One favorite of this group. It has been suggested that his can be construed as symbolic of the predatory instincts of a female on the prowl. Let's see who some of these women are: a swinging divorcee of 62 has a baker's dozen of stuffed monkeys and is badgering her current beau for a toy poodle (about $25 worth); an attractive secretary for a weekly news magazine has a menagerie of some twenty-five assorted animals, most of which were supplied by various males who apparently enjoy drawing out the little girl in this big girl; a model just in from England says that life in the States would be much fuller if she had not left her stuffed-animals collection at home; and a New Jersey teen-ager states that her collection of 30 Princeton tigers is "ultimately cool."

Gamettes Are Packaged Much Like Tiny Books

What's in a name? Tryce? Foll? Sum-Up? You'll be seeing these unfamiliar — if not strange titles under the Christmas tree this holiday season. And they're not books. These three challengers are part of a new line of seven 3M brand Gamettes, packaged like tiny books in boldly colored jackets.

Subject of the Gamettes range from high finance, word scramblers, mathematical equations to auction bidding and quick number strategy. Created for players of all ages, the new series will add a colorful and fun note to the current game explosion sweeping the country. The new compact Gamettes are designed to slip into suitcases, briefcases or to store on the den or recreation room shelf.

Family Portrait Could Make Hit

Solve all the "problems" on your Christmas list, by presenting each member of the family with a gift certificate for a portrait sitting at your local professional photographer's studio. (Mom included, of course.)

Dad and the children will be proud to have portraits of themselves, but as an added plus you also can create a family portrait gallery by borrowing a simple modern arrangement from art museums. Attach parallel strips of molding to the wall. Have your professional photographer mount the Christmas gift portraits on matboard sized to fit between the two strips. Then slide the finished portraits into the long "frames" rearranging and adding portraits as your initial collection grows. Why not make new portraits a Christmas tradition each year?

Dishonest People Siphon Off Funds

Each year Americans give more than ten billion dollars to charity, but, tragically, about one hundred million dollars, or one per cent, is siphoned off by dishonest fund raising efforts.

Many large cities attempt to prevent this problem by requiring solicitors to register with a special agency such as the city's Department of Social Service. It is wise to:

Always ask solicitors for their permit cards, for even if the charity is well-known and legitimate, the solicitor may not be. If you have doubts about the legitimacy of a charity fund raising drive, check with the approved agency in your town.

Never be embarrassed to tell a solicitor that you will mail your contribution to the charity's office. If it is legitimate, the solicitor will give you the address, and probably a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Puppy Makes Perfect Gift For Almost Anyone

You wouldn't give Grandma a skateboard for Christmas, or your young niece a hand-crocheted shawl.

Or would you? The answer probably depends on the temperaments of those two ladies, but at least you would give such purchases a second thought.

One of the most popular Christmas presents — a puppy — is too often bought solely on impulse, according to Felicia Ames, consultant at Friskies Nutrition Research Center. All puppies are appealing, but the one that beguiles the buyer is not necessarily right for Grandma or Gertie. You should give time and thought to this purchase to make sure that puppy, when he becomes a grown dog, will fit the temperament and habits of the person who is going to live with him. The best way to match pets to people, suggests Miss Ames, who is also author of "The

Games Will Deal With Environment

An executive of a games maker firm predicted that the '70s will usher in games that deal with the physical environment. He sees a growing popularity for games about pollution, land conservation and the beautification of cities.

Another executive expressed an opinion that toys for pre-schoolers that combine a learning value with fun to score over the "gimmick" toys on the pre-school market.

Dog You Care For", is to join the legions who are investing in purebred dogs. America's pet population has been increasing at nearly 3 percent annually in recent years, more than the human population growth, but the number of registered dogs has been growing at more than 10 percent.

The greatest advantage in the purebred when you are selecting a dog as a gift is that it enables you to buy one of predictable size and temperament. A mongrel can make a fine pet, but the mutt-pup's future is uncertain. He may look like his mother, but grow up to have the surly disposition of a distant and disreputable uncle.

In general you will find that the larger working dogs, the sporting breeds and the hounds are quieter and more placid than most terriers and toys. But big dogs need room and exercise, and some of them have appetites that could cripple the food budget. Terriers and toys are spirited, alert, highly entertaining pets that are especially adapted to apartment living. Some of them tend to be noisy and high-strung, however. The non-sporting breeds include such rugged individualists as the Poodle, the Dalmatian, and the Bulldog — superb companions, but in some cases expensive ones.

Once you have narrowed your candidates down to several breeds, you can start dog-shopping. Prices range from around $30 to the astronomical, but it is an investment that will pay off in a fine animal for a proud owner.

Appliances Can Please Milady

Clever Santas know that nothing pleases milady more than a gift that's handsome, enduring and useful every day of the year. Home appliances, like today's revolutionary types of vacuum cleaners, fit that description perfectly.

Of all household appliances considered for holiday gift se-

Series Keyed To Comfort

Parents are "progressive" if they teach their children to read at age three, "enlightened" if they prod the baby's artistic talents as soon as he can stick a fist in the finger paint.

Children are "precocious" if they can tie their shoes six months before their next-door playmates, and they're "little men and women" if they don't cry when it hurts.

Now somebody wants to loosen the lid a little.

"I'm averse to the intellectual approaches to children's toys," says Joyce Miller, designer of the new "Gramma" doll. "Children have been overstimulated by TV, parents and toys. They need security. Everything Gramma does is either comforting or loving."

Miss Miller, a free-lance advertising woman, is a former interior decorator and prize-winning furniture designer who created Gramma almost by accident, while she was sketching furniture. She happened to draw a rocking chair. "One thing led to another," she explained, until she had Gramma's Lap, a child-sized wooden rocker with cheerful face and calico dress painted on.

But Gramma isn't just another cheerful face. "She teaches children to enjoy doing, as well as the end result," Miss Miller says. "The theme is 'Are you having fun?' Just do your best. It isn't 'Be careful, you must do this right.'" lection, homemakers rated vacuums as the most important in helping them maintain a beautiful home the year around according to a national survey by the Home Care Institute.

If she is fortunate enough to find this number one helpmate under the tree, she can put it to use immediately picking up stray bits of tissue, ribbon and other debris left over after the last gift has been opened. In minutes — and with little effort — the room will be neat and sparkling again, and she'll be a relaxed hostess ready to receive holiday callers.

No matter which type of vacuum is selected, you can be certain it will protect precious furnishings and carpets, keeping them fresh and clean all year long.

One of the most popular gift selections is an adjustable lightweight cleaner. Perfect for kitchens, baths and fast effective in-between cleanups, these slim vacuums weigh less than 8 pounds and store simply.

Powerful little hand-vacs go anywhere and solve a variety of cleaning chores. They tidy up cars, carpeted stairs, clothing, upholstery and the Eureka. Whisk even has a pet grooming attachment that air cleans and combs the fur on the family cat or dog.

For homes with carpeted stairs or large areas of hard surface flooring, experts recommend a powerful suction canister cleaner. The attachments that accompany canisters take care of all above-the-floor cleaning tasks. Many models conveniently carry their attachments in a special tray under the lid or, like the Empress, in a lid-top Tool-Pak.

Upright vacuums with a Regulator pile adjustment that allows positioning of the vacuum for the proper cleaning height on any surface are best for homes with a variety of carpet piles and textures or wall-to-wall carpeting.

With such a wide choice of handsome models available there is one that is certain to meet your specific homecare needs. This Christmas — and all year long — homemaking will be happier and more convenient for the lady who receives an attractive versatile vacuum cleaner.
