Dawes Quits R. F. C., Predicting Return Of Prosperity

BETTER TIMES ON WAY, SAYS FINANCE CHIEF

"Work Completed," General Says, and Hands In Resignation

COMES AS SURPRISE

Passage of Revenue Bill Marks Turn in Tide, Banker Declares

By SAM B. BLEDSOE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Expressing confidence the times have turned toward prosperity, Charles G. Dawes, today resigned as president of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to go back to his Chicago bank.

President Hoover accepted his resignation, effective June 15.

In keeping with his character, word that he had quit came as a surprise and started immediate speculation.

Significance Attached

The letter of resignation made public at the White House, however, reminded he had taken the job of directing the huge relief organization, with the understanding he would be relieved when its work was properly established.

The news he had quit was coincident with the information President Hoover had signed the $1,115,500,000 revenue bill. That there was a relation between the two incidents was plain as Dawes indicated strongly he had been waiting for the measure to complete its long legislative journey before resigning to devote his time to personal affairs.

Personal Sacrifice

It was known that the outspoken and able financier took the place at a heavy personal sacrifice. He quit as ambassador to Great Britain last winter to go back to the Central Trust company of Chicago, an institution with which he has been associated many years.

In his letter to the president, General Dawes said with the balancing of the budget by congress assured "the turning point toward eventual prosperity in this country seems to have been reached."

Dawes added the work of the corporation was well in hand and that loans already had been authorized for about $700,000,000.

From alarming proportions when the finance corporation was set up, bank failures have decreased until now they are no more than in ordinary times. The corporation also is given credit for preserving stability of many railroads and other financial institutions.

More Funds Sought

Proposals it be given an additional billion and a half dollars to further aid economic recovery have been made by the administration,

Dallas Show Closed When Acts Ruled 'Vile'

DALLAS, June 6. (UP)—A "no show" sign hung on the Hippidrome theater here tonight and a police shorthand expert was suffering from writer's cramp, all because he and members of the police vice squad attended the performance two nights in succession.

City Judge Paul McCarroll ordered the sign posted today after members of the vice squad told him briefly of the performances. Capt. E. V. Bunch, vice squad chief, said the performances were "vile" and he had the shorthand expert copy the gags and songs of the troupe.

New York Labor Leader Succumbs in Colorado

NEW YORK, June 6. (US)—Benjamin Schlesinger, of New York City, founder of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union and one of New York's leading labor leaders, died at Colorado Springs, Colo.

He was 56 and went west only last Wednesday to fight tuberculosis.

Apparently the trip taxed his strength and he died. His son, Abraham, was with him.

EMERGENCY TAX BILL BECOMES LAW

'King' Quits

Samuel Insull, builder of great utility concerns, Monday night resigned from the chairmanship of three big companies. He also retired as one of three receivers of another concern.

INSULL RESIGNS UTILITY POSTS

Power Magnate Retires From Companies

CHICAGO, June 6. (US)—Samuel Insull, creator of an industrial and financial empire which centered in Chicago and stretched from Texas to Maine, overflowing into Canada, abdicated tonight.

He resigned as chairman of the boards of directors of the Commonwealth Edison company, Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company, and Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

In each of these positions he was succeeded by James Simpson, chairman of the board of Marshall Field & Co., who resigned that position so that he may devote his full time and energy to the three great utility organizations.

Robert McKinley, formerly president of Marshall Field & Co., becomes the new chairman of the board.

Mr. Insull, in addition to the resignations already mentioned, announced that he had tendered his resignation as one of the three joint receivers for the Middle West Utilities company. This is subject to the approval of the federal court by which he was appointed. The remaining receivers are Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch.

Mr. Insull's formal statement given out tonight merely said that his retirement was necessitated by "due regard for my health."

He said he was giving up the chairmanship and directorship not only of the three great operating companies named but also of their subsidiaries. All of his resignations, excepting the Middle West receivership, were accepted at once and are now in effect.

The three companies issued a joint statement saying the resignations had been accepted "with regret" and that they brought to a close Mr. Insull's "long association with these companies, during which he has brought them into an outstanding position in the utility field."

In announcing the choice of Mr. Simpson as Mr. Insull's successor, the companies pointed out that he is "an outstanding Chicago man of recognized ability" who "has for many years been a director of Commonwealth Edison company." It was announced that Samuel Insull Jr., will continue as vice chairman of the three companies.

Mr. Simpson was enjoying a vacation in India when he first learned of Mr. Insull's intended ac-

Gambler Gets Term For 'Doping' Race Horse

NEW YORK, June 6. (INS)—Jimmy Meehan, gambler and pal of the late Arnold Rothstein, was sentenced to six months in jail today after he pleaded guilty to "doping" a race horse.

The technical charge was cruelty to animals. He admitted that he had ordered the "doping" of a horse named Mr. Sponge, racing at Aqueduct in September, 1931.

10 CANDIDATES SEEK POSTS IN LEGISLATURE

Variety Offered Wichita's Voters in Race For Representative

SPENCE UNOPPOSED

Demo Ticket Closed On Many Offices; County List Open to June 18

Competition for every office except that of district attorney, with a profusion of candidates for the two legislative posts, were revealed in the list furnished Monday of persons who have filed applications for places on the Democratic primary ticket to be voted July 23.

Monday was the last day for filing of such application by candidates for supreme judicial, judicial, senatorial, congressional and legislative office. The list of those whose applications were in late Monday afternoon was furnished by Bert King, county Democratic chairman.

All of 10 candidates for nomination as representatives from this district had filed, four for place 1, now held by R. J. (Bob) Long, and six for place 2. Three candidates are announced for the post of judge of the 89th district court, Judge P. A. Martin, the incumbent, having Harry Bunnenberg and Wayne Somerville as opponents. Mr. Bunnenberg staged a stiff battle for the same post in an earlier election. Mr. Somerville served several terms as county attorney.

Race for Congress

Three opponents of Guinn Williams also have appeared in the race for congressman. Dillard Hinson and W. D. McFarlane, both of Graham, are two of the declared opponents of the representative from Decatur. George W. Backus of Vernon is the third.

Albert G. Walker, state representatitve from the 112th district, is opposed by O. T. Warlick Jr. Both are of Vernon.

Those who have filed applications due by June 6 are as follows:

District Judge, 89th district: P. A. Martin, Harry Bunnenberg, Wayne Somerville, all of Wichita Falls.

Congressman, 13th district: Guinn Williams, Decatur; Dillard Hinson and W. D. McFarlane, Graham; George W. Backus, Vernon.

State representative, district 111, place 1: R. J. Long, Ralph J. Claypool, Lee McCain, and Gordon Hall, all of Wichita Falls.

State Representative, district 111, place 2: D. M. Perkins, John M. Martin, J. O. Cowart, Charles Tennyson, Early Van Deventer, and George H. Williams, all of Wichita Falls.

State representative, district 112: Albert G. Walker and O. T. Warlick Jr., both of Vernon.

Associate Justice Court of Civil Appeals, second supreme judicial district, Fort Worth: C. C. Gumm, H. S. Lattimore.

Judge, 78th district court: W. W.

Leaders Resign From New Chilean Junta

BUENOS AIRES, June 6. (US)—Dr. Carlos Davila, former Chilean ambassador to Washington, and Gen. Arturo Puga today resigned from the revolutionary junta which seized the Chilean government Saturday, unconfirmed telephone advices from Santiago stated. Davila was minister of the interior in the provisional government and General Puga, its president.

Judiciary Committee To Vote on Wilkerson

WASHINGTON, June 6. (US)—The senate judiciary committee today agreed to vote at its next meeting on confirmation of Judge James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, for a federal court of appeals judgeship.

Wilkerson, who sentenced Al Capone, has been vigorously opposed by labor because of his injunction decisions.

Byers Youth Drowns While Swimming With Companions In River

Special to The Record News.

BYERS, Texas, June 6.—Carl Tomlin, 15, drowned this afternoon while swimming with a number of youths in the Wichita river at Householder Bend, two miles west of Byers.

The body was recovered from the stream shortly before 7 o'clock tonight, almost four hours after the accident.

The youth was said to be a poor swimmer. He went under so quickly, friends said, that it was undetermined whether he was seized with cramps or had became exhausted while in midstream and was unable to proceed.

Witnesses said that young Tomlin and his companions had just stepped into the water when George Dyer, about his own age, started swimming across the river. Tomlin struck out after him. In the center of the stream the Tomlin boy went under. He shouted for help, but his companions thinking he was joking paid him no heed other than to laugh.

Rescuer in Danger

When the boy went under and came up the second time his friends realized he was in danger. Dyer went to his aid, seized the drowning boy by the hair of the head and attempted to pull him to safety.

In the struggle, however, young Dyer was pulled under and himself narrowly escaped drowning.

Then Tomlin's body went under and failed to come up.

The group of boys ran to town for help. A party of men formed and after three hours diving the body was recovered by A. S. Long.

Water Deep

Householder Bend, on the Sam Householder farm, is a popular swimming place for boys of this community. Water in the river today was considerably deeper, however, than was believed by the group of swimmers. Water was about 10 feet deep where Tomlin's body was recovered.

Funeral arrangements for the youth, the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Tomlin, were incomplete Monday night, but funeral services will be held here Tuesday at an hour to be set later.

Accused Murderer Found Insane Despite Objection

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 6. (AP)—A frequently used defense of men accused of murder was reversed in 99th district court Monday when E. R. Neagle fought—and lost—in a sanity hearing. The Hockley county cotton picker, 36, charged with an ax-murder, contended he was sane and desired to go to trial for the slaying of B. F. Driggards, 74.

The jury, after deliberating less than an hour, found Neagle of unsound mind and held that he should be placed under restraint.

"Sure, I want to be found sane," the slight, overall clad defendant said while the jury was out. "I want to go ahead with the trial." He indicated he would plead self-defense.

Tax Reform Urged By Tom Hunter at Uvalde

UVALDE, Texas, June 6. (AP)—Speaking here today in behalf of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor, Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls said he favored a revision of the tax system, economy in government and a reduction in utility rates.

He proposed altering the tax system in such a way as to "compel two-thirds of the wealth escaping taxation to share its burdens." He also proposed cutting real estate taxes by 70 per cent.

Concerning governmental economy, he expressed the belief that some of the state bureaus could be consolidated to effect savings.

Detroit 'Hunger Marchers' Storm Body Factory

DETROIT, Mich., June 6.—More than 2,000 Communist "hunger marchers" attempted to storm the gates of the Briggs Auto Body company here today, but were thrown back by police reserves wielding night sticks and tear bombs.

Many of the rioters were clubbed severely and injured in the melee and several of the officers were hit by stones and other missles.

Members of the mob also used tear gas against the police but the wind blew it back in their faces and they fell back in disorder. Several alleged ring leaders were arrested.

Allred Oil Ouster Suit Resumed With Arguments

AUSTIN, June 6. (AP)—Exceptions aimed at the "general conspiracy" section of the state's allegations directed at 17 defendants in Texas' suit to oust and penalize oil concerns for claimed violations of the anti-trust laws were argued in Judge J. D. Moore's district court today.

Arguments on questions of law were resumed after a week's recess in the case based on alleged combination and conspiracy of the defendants to control the marketing of gasoline and petroleum products.

TEXARKANA MURDER CASE.

TEXARKANA, Texas, June 6. (AP)—A jury to try John G. Harris, 27, of Bono, Ark., for the murder of Ed Royal, 55, of Port Huron, Mich., was completed today. Testimony starts tomorrow. The state will ask the death penalty.

National Geographic Society to Award Amelia Medal

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—In recognition of her lone flight across the Atlantic, the special gold medal of the National Geographical society will be presented to Amelia Earhart Putnam by President Hoover in special exercises June 21.

After the presentation Mrs. Putnam will relate to members of the society the story of her flight.

MURRAY SENDS OUT TROOPS

Guards Ordered to River To Keep Bridge Open

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 6. (AP)—The much exercised military arm of Oklahoma's governor, William Henry Murray, reached out again today to embrace the Red river crossing into Texas.

With another defy at what he calls "inferior federal courts," Murray re-established a military patrol at the free bridge south of Durant, thus renewing last summer's "war of the bridges," promptly upon hearing that Judge John C. Pollock at Kansas City, Kan., had ruled against Oklahoma in the drawn out litigation with owners of a parallel toll bridge.

Murray Obdurate

Informed that Judge Pollock had overruled Oklahoma's motion to dismiss an injunction suit brought by the receiver for the Red River Bridge company, of Texas, seeking the closing or control by the company of the free bridge, Governor Murray asserted:

"The free bridge will be kept open until the supreme court of the United States decides otherwise, Judge Pollock notwithstanding."

He immediately ordered Adj. Gen. Charles F. Barrett to re-establish a military patrol at the bridgehead and within 10 minutes Lieut. Col. John MacDonald, 180th infantry, was rounding up a small unit of guardsmen at Durant. Four men of company E accompanied Colonel

Lindy Back at Work As Airline Director

NEW YORK, June 6. (US)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today resumed his work as techincal director of Transcontinental and Western Airways, Inc., and Pan American Airways. He had not appeared at the company's offices since the kidnaping March 1. Associates reported Lindbergh has lost nearly 30 pounds and looks much older than he did before his child was kidnaped.

Colonel Lindbergh called on Police Commissioner Mulrooney and thanked him for aiding in the search for the kidnapers.

Judge Atwell Addresses Texas Tech Graduates

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 6. (UP)—Need for individual thought and action was emphasized here today by William H. Atwell, judge of the United States district court of Dallas, in the annual commencement exercises at Texas Technological college.

One hundred and sixty-two degrees were awarded to students. An audience of 2,000 persons heard the prominent Texas jurist urge the students to prove all things, then to hold fast to that which is good.

Senate Trys to Speed Passage of Economy Bill

WASHINGTON, June 6. (US)—The senate today resorted to drastic measures in its efforts to force the $227,000,000 economy bill through, agreeing to sit continuously from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. until the measure is passed.

The agreement was reached by unanimous consent late today, at the request of Senator Jones, Republican of Washington, in charge of the measure.

It is the first time this session that the senate has adopted a 12-hour day.

Bomber of U. S. Consulate In Japan Is Captured

WASHINGTON, June 6. (US)—The Japanese government today informed the state department that the man responsible for the bombing of the American consulate at Nagasaki has been captured and would be adequately punished.

HOOVER SIGNS ACT SHORTLY AFTER BALLOT

Senators Argue Imposts On Utility Charges Before Voting

OIL TARIFF REDUCED

Duty on Imported Crude Petroleum Lowered To 21 Cents

WASHINGTON, June 6. (US)—The $1,118,500,000 tax bill became a law tonight.

The president signed the measure at the White House only a few hours after it had passed the senate by a vote of 46 to 35.

Except for the peak peace-time income taxes, the corporation, estate and gift taxes, most of the new taxes in the bill automatically end on July 1, 1934. The effective date for practically all the imposts is 15 days after the president signs the bill. The income taxes will remain in force until new legislation is passed as a substitute.

Hoover Statement

In signing the measure, President Hoover said:

"The willingness of our people to accept this added burden in these times in order impregnably to establish the credit of the federal government is a great tribute to their wisdom and courage. While many of the taxes are not as I desired, the bill will effect the great major purpose of assurance to the country and the world of the determination of the American people to maintain their finances and their currency on a sound basis."

Progressives on both sides of the chamber ripped into the conference's action in changing the 3 per cent electrical power tax from a levy on the power companies to an impost on domestic and commercial consumers, to be paid monthly on the regular power and light bills. The senate had twice voted down proposals to make consumers pay the tax, holding that the power trust, making more money now than during the halcyon days of 1929, could easily afford the new burden.

CONFEREES CUT TARIFF ON OIL

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—With a tariff of 21 cents a barrel on crude and fuel oil and $1.05 a barrel on gasoline congress today adopted the conference report on the revenue measure as speedily as possible.

J. P. Morgan Retires As Steam Line Director

NEW YORK, June 6. (US)—J. P. Morgan, and Charles Steele, a partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., both retired today as directors of the International Mercantile Marine company.

Now for the first time since its incorporation in 1893, no member of the Morgan firm has any official connection with the world-wide steamship organization.

Nominations Confirmed For West Point Grads

WASHINGTON, June 6. (US)—Nominations of members of this year's graduating class at West Point as second lieutenants in the army were confirmed today by the senate.

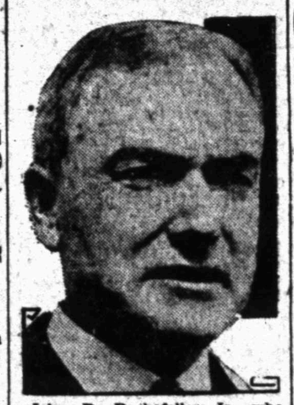
Senator Connally, Democrat of Texas, at first objected but later acceded. Graduating exercises will be held Friday.

Mexican Goes to Chair Friday for Ax Slaying

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, June 6. (UP)—Unless Gov. Ross Sterling intervenes, Estabialado Lopez will be put to death in the electric chair here early Friday.

Lopez was convicted of the ax slaying of Jesus Villareal in Lacy county after a gambling game in which Villareal won $40 from Lopez.

'Drink Increasing'



John D. Rockefeller Jr., who, with his father, long has been one of the supporting pillars of the Anti-Saloon league announced Monday night he would support Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's plan for repealing the 18th amendment and substituting a state liquor control system.

TWO FLIERS DIE IN CISCO CRASH

Plane Falls in Yard When Pilot Loses Control

CISCO, Texas, June 6. (AP)—E. E. Mosley and George A. Fox of Fort Worth were killed instantly today when the airplane in which they were flying crashed in the residential section here. Mosley, who had a department of commerce commercial license, was piloting the plane.

Witnesses said the machine nose dived while making a turn at an altitude of about 800 feet. It barely missed the home of W. D. Hazel, falling in the front yard. It was demolished.

Fox was a Fort Worth wrestling promoter. He formerly lived at Dallas.

Public Defender Fails To Give Up as Promised

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6. (US)—Public defender Frank Egan, wanted for the murder of Mrs. Jessie Hughes in a plot to inherit her wealth, failed to surrender today as his attorney promised.

At the same time police were investigating a report that the suspended official had knowledge of a crime organization, the ramifications of which are extensive.

It was rumored that Egan had fled from San Francisco by airplane. This, however, was characterized as somewhat "fantastic" and had to do with a mysterious amphibian that was supposed to have taken off from Lake Chabor in the hills near Hayward.

This report, investigated by police as a matter of course, had it that Egan had flown to a ship at sea.

Anglo-Irish Quarrel May Be Amicably Settled

LONDON, June 6. (US)—Possibility of an amicable settlement of the Anglo-Irish quarrel arising out of the Free State's move to abolish the oath of allegiance and land annuities became brighter tonight as Dominion Secretary Thomas and Secretary for War Lord Hailsham left for Dublin to confer with Eamon de Valera at the Irish president's request.

De Valera will come to London Wednesday to continue the conversations with Prime Minister MacDonald sitting in.

France Ready to Loan Funds to 'New Manchuria'

TOKYO, June 6. (AP)—French bankers are willing to lend several million francs to the newly constituted Manchurian state of Manchoukuo, it was learned today.

Alfred Massenet, director of the Franco-Asiatic bank, is here as a representative of a group of French financial houses that would participate in the loan.

Italian Soldiers Killed By Ammunition Explosion

NAPLES, Italy, June 6. (US)—Seven soldiers were killed and many others wounded today when a gun charge exploded at the St. Vincent's military jetty today as salvoes were being fired in honor of Crown Prince Humbert. The exploding charge set off other ammunition. The crown prince visited the wounded men in the hospital.

WEALTHY AIDE OF DRY LEAGUE CHANGES VIEWS

Veteran Teetotaller And Temperance Crusader Sees Failure

WRITES TO DR. BUTLER

Millionaire Oil Magnate Backs Proposals Of Columbia Head

By ROBERT ST. JOHN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, June 6.—John D. Rockefeller Jr., lifelong and staunch advocate of temperance, tonight branded the 18th amendment a failure and urged that it be repealed.

He expressed an earnest hope a repeal plank, providing ratification by state conventions, would be incorporated in both the Republican and Democratic platforms, "this taking the question out of the field of partisan politics."

"When the 18th amendment was passed," he said, "I earnestly hoped, with a host of advocates of temperance, that it would be generally supported by public opinion, and thus the day be hastened when the value to society of men with minds and bodies free from the undermining effects of alcohol would be generally realized.

That this has not been the result, . . . I have slowly and reluctantly come to believe."

Dramatic Letter

In a dramatically-worded letter to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mr. Rockefeller told the president of Columbia university "my position may surprise you, as it will many of my friends."

"I was born a teetotaler; all my life I have been a teetotaler on principle," he added.

He said neither he, nor his father and grandfather had ever tasted a drop of intoxicating liquor.

He told of his family's long fight for temperance and their hope that prohibition would succeed.

Women Were Crusaders

Rockefeller then related how his mother and his grandmother were "among those dauntless women of their day, who, hating the horrors of drunkenness, were often found with banks of women of like mind, praying on their knees in the saloons in their ardent desire to save men from the evils that so commonly sprang from those sources of iniquity."

He told how both he and his father had supported the Anti-Saloon league, contributing since 1900 a total of $350,000 to its work.

He said he had hoped, when the 18th amendment was adopted, that it would be generally supported and bring temperance.

Instead, he said, "drinking generally has increased," and that "the speakeasy has replaced the saloon, not only unit for unit, but probably two-fold if not three-fold.

Pictures Crime

Rockefeller pictured a "vast army of law-breakers," who, he said, had been recruited and financed on a "colossal scale."

He wrote that "many of our best citizens, piqued at what they regarded as an infringement of their private rights, have openly and unabashed disregarded the 18th amendment."

As "an inevitable result" of these effects, he said, "respect for all law has been greatly lessened."

He expressed a belief the benefits of the 18th amendment are far outweighed by "the evils that have developed and flourished since its adoption, evils which unless promptly checked are likely to lead to conditions unspeakably worse than those which prevailed before."

Repeal Necessary

"It is not to be expected," he said, "that repeal of the 18th amendment will in itself end all those evils and restore public respect for law. I believe, however, that its repeal is a prerequisite to the attainment of that goal."

The letter to Dr. Butler was an endorsement of the resolution the Columbia president 24 hours earlier had announced he, as a delegate to the Republican national convention would fight to have incorporated in the party platform.

"With this resolution I am in complete sympathy," Rockefeller wrote.

The Butler plan provides that "congress will submit a proposal to repeal the 18th amendment, which proposal shall be submitted for ratification by conventions of the people of the several states."

It also pledges the party, in the event of repeal, to secure the adop-

Bonus Army Ousts Commander And Selects New Leader After Split

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—The bonus army of nearly 4,000 now in the capital split sharply tonight over its leadership, unseated its commander-in-chief and replaced him with another to carry forward its demand for an immediate payment of the service certificates.

A quorum of the legislative committee gathered at one of the encampments and voted George Alman, Portland, Ore., out of the office of commander-in-chief. Alman had held the position less than 24 hours and had assumed it when Walter W. Waters, originator of the marchers' movement, resigned. Alman's radical tendencies had excited antagonism of the conservative wing of the veterans.

The committee elected W. C. Cox, Portland, as commander of the bonus expeditionary forces, and A. F. Taylor, Portland, as vice commander with Alman.

Since Alman had been arranging the details of tomorrow night's parade in conference with Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, his ouster led to considerable confusion which the new leader sought to overcome by an immediate executive session to shape policies.

All efforts of the leaders were directed tonight to getting every possible man into the parade scheduled for tomorrow night. In mapping the route Glassford plans to have the White House and capitol building avoided to preclude the possibility of overt acts or outward demonstrations.

Dr. C. W. Stevenson Named On Hospital Board by City Council

Dr. C. W. Stevenson was appointed a member of the Wichita General Hospital board by the city council Monday night to succeed Dr. C. R. Hartsook, who resigned several days ago after approximately five years of service.

Dr. Stevenson was recommended by the medical staff of the hospital, members of the council said, and also was approved by Jack Barnard and Judge Harvey Harris, members of the board. Dr. Stevenson also is president of the Wichita Medical association.

The council authorized the transfer of $40,000 from the water fund to the general fund, and authorized the city clerk to advertise a public hearing Monday, June 13, on the applications of S. W. Baker for permission to erect an open frame building at 1305 Eleventh street for a watermelon, fruit and vegetable stand.

Jack Ballard, local attorney appeared before the council to ask that the existing ordinance prescribing a 25-cent minimum taxi fare here be repealed.

All members of the council were present. Wilmot Hunt, who acted as mayor last Thursday when DeMolay members occupied all city offices, sat with Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., throughout Monday night's meeting, completing his one-day tour as mayor of the city.

Negro Church Presents Chorus in Concert

Members of the Mount Pleasant Baptist church (colored) presented a chorus of more than 50 voices in an impressive concert at the church Monday night. The program included solo, quartet and chorus numbers, all of them negro spiritual and jubilee songs.

The program drew a large attendance, with a special section set aside for white persons. The pastor of the church expressed appreciation for the support given the singing and declared it would be made an annual affair. W. W. Silk, responding to the talk, praised the progressive work of the colored people of Wichita Falls, particularly in preserving the songs and music of the race. These songs, he said, could be matched by no other people.

EVEN AS ADAM

LONDON, England.—Once each year, on the edge of the moors in Calder Vally, the oldest club in the world meets. It is of necessity a secret society, attendance requiring all of its members to tiptoe out of their homes, and scuttle fearfully through alleys until they reach the moorland hamlet. The name of this queer organization is the Henpeck club, and its members claim Adam, the first henpecked husband, as the founder.

Boy's Letter To Sterling May Win Pardon for Negro

AUSTIN, June 6. (AP)—A negro trusty at the Texas state penitentiary may soon be given his freedom on recommendation of an 11-year-old boy.

Gov. R. S. Sterling received a letter today written by the lad in his childish scrawl pleading for "automatic clemency" for the negro.

The boy, a son of a prison official, apparently wrote and posted the letter without the knowledge of his parents.

The letter, written with pencil, was as follows: "Hon. Govnor, I beg to say that this nigroe prisoner John Bell, record No. 48426 has been taking care of me for 2 year. I take great pleasure in recommending him for automatic clemency." The boy noted his age at the end of his signature.

Governor Sterling ordered the negro's record looked into and indicated the boy's appeal would be granted.

Piano Students Appear in Recital

Pianistic art of impressive quality featured the recital presented Monday night at the Woman's Forum by pupils of Miss Annette Walsh before an audience of about 200 persons.

Those appearing on the program responded admirably in their playing to the high musical standards represented by the compositions chosen for recital use. A satisfying command of feeling and theme, combined with clear and precise technique, was apparent throughout the series of numbers given.

Particularly refreshing were the two brilliant numbers of Mrs. Carl Taylor, who played Boutelle's "Pan Dances" and Eastwood Lane's "Crapshooter." Miss Geneva Taylor also contributed an unusually pleasing interpretation of Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumble Bee." Depth of feeling, beautiful legato expression of melody, and graceful delivery of lengthy cadenzas featured Miss Anna Bell Perkins' playing of Liszt's "Liebestraum."

Completing the recital program were effective numbers by Misses Marian Miller, Louise Lincoln, Mary Frances Lincoln, Mary Helen Perkins, Mary Harrell, Ruby Chestnutt, Mrs. Tom Cozby, Miss Martha Marcel and Mrs. Russell Gilbert of Electra.

Miss Walsh announced that she will leave next week for Chicago, where she will serve again as a member of the summer faculty for the Chicago Music college. She will return to Wichita Falls Aug. 15.

'Flaming Passion' To Open Tuesday

First showing in Wichita Falls of the startling jazz picture, "Flaming Passion," will be held at the State theater Tuesday with a "women only" sign up, George Watson, State manager announced. The admission price for the picture is 40 cents. Mr. Watson pointed out that earlier announcements had erroneously listed the admission at 35 cents.

The picture will be shown for women two days and beginning Thursday the signs will be changed to "men only" for two days.

It is described as an all talking, singing and dancing play dealing with present day social problems.

Ad Club to Elect New Officers Today

New officers and directors will be elected Tuesday noon by members of the Wichita Falls Advertising club in a meeting to be held at the Holt hotel.

Nominations have been prepared by a committee consisting of W. S. Abbott, A. E. Kelly and T. A. Bradley, all past presidents of the organization. Regular semi-monthly meetings of the club were resumed recently, and will be continued hereafter under the new administration to be inaugurated Tuesday.

R. E. Shepherd, the retiring president, will conduct Tuesday's election.

DAWES QUITS AS RFC HEAD

Finance Chief to Retire To Private Banking

and members of both parties have promised the move their support.

General Dawes, Eugene Meyer and directors of the finance corporation were week-end guests of President Hoover at his Rapidan camp. Out of their deliberations came further recommendations for relief and economy.

Presumably, there Dawes told Mr. Hoover he felt it was time for him to quit. In accepting the resignation, President Hoover expressed intense regret and told General Dawes that he was personally under "great obligations" to him for his "accomplishments" in governmental problems during the last three years.

Successor Unnamed

At the White House there was no intimation any consideration has been given the selection of a successor.

At the senate over which Dawes once presided, Vice President Curtis learned what had happened and quietly passed the word to members on the floor.

The news came as a surprise there also. There was an immediate gathering into groups to discuss its import.

Before going to Great Britain as ambassador in 1929, he helped frame the plan for payment of German reparations which bore his name. His intimate knowledge of international finances made him particularly valuable. After the economic slump causing finances to become the world's most pressing problem, he figured in the negotiations and conferences which led to the one-year debt holiday.

Energetic Despite Age

Sixty-seven years old, Dawes has shown in the last few months that intensive work has made inroads on his energy. However, he still is able to go at a pace that exhausts many of the younger men who work around him.

The text of General Dawes' letter of resignation said:

"My Dear Mr. President:

"Now that the balancing of the national budget by congress is assured, the turning point toward eventual prosperity in this country seems to have been reached. The work of the Reconstruction Finance corporation is now well on its way with loans already authorized for about $700,000,000 and its operations are now properly systematized and effective.

Asks Release

"It has been a privilege to participate in the earlier stages of the organization of the corporation and its work, and to cooperate in your well considered and constructive plans for the betterment of existing conditions in the country.

"In taking my position with the corporation I interrupted my formerly announced plans to re-enter the banking business in Chicago, which I now desire to do. In accordance with our understanding when I became associated with the Reconstruction Finance corporation that I would be released when its work was properly established, I now ask you to accept my resignation as a member of the board and its president, effective as of June 15.

Hoover Regretful

"I thank you for your confidence and for your constant help and guidance during my stay here."

In reply, President Hoover wrote: "I regret intensely that you find it necessary to leave the work of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

"There is little need for me to express the gratitude which I know the whole country holds for this great service now added to a lifelong devotion to public welfare. I am indeed personally under great obligation to you for your cooperation and great accomplishments in many of our most important government problems of the past years."

Senate Unaware

Word of the resignation of Dawes swept through the astonished senate membership. Apparently none of the leaders was aware of his intentions.

Frequent reports of conflict within the Reconstruction Finance corporation have reached the capitol and the question was immediately asked if this was behind the latest dramatic move of the fiery Chicago political and business leader.

A note telling of the sudden action by Dawes was passed around in the senate chamber from Vice President Curtis to all leaders.

Groups of senators quickly formed on the floor, speculating upon the development.

Dynamic Manner

Long one of the most interesting figures in public life because of his dynamic manner, colorful choice of words and underslung pipe, General Dawes' recent public life has been one sudden shift after another.

Although his resignation as ambassador to the court of St. James long had been rumored, the tendering of it came without warning. He then intended to go to the Geneva arms conference for the preliminary work as head of the American delegation, but almost on the eve of his sailing he was named instead head of the reconstruction corporation.

Commissioners to Select Seven Members of Welfare Board Monday

Seven Wichita county citizens to comprise a county child welfare board will be named by the commissioners court next Monday in compliance with a request registered Monday by the county council of parent-teacher associations, it was announced by members of the court.

Formation of the welfare board in Wichita county will be carried out in accordance with recommendations made by the state legislature in creating the welfare division of the board of control. The child welfare division is now established at Austin. The committee to be appointed here, it was explained, will work in conjunction with the children's aid society here as well as the state board in providing the maximum care and education for dependent, delinquent, and illegitimate children.

The resolution presented to the court Monday was signed by Mesdames R. L. Underwood, Wichita Falls; M. W. Majors, Burkburnett; and John C. Murphree, Iowa Park.

The county auditor was authorized to advertise for bids for furnishing drugs, including prescriptions, to the county for the current year ending March 31, 1933. Bids are to be opened on July 11.

Reports of T. W. McHam, county treasurer, for May were received and filed. They covered not only the county treasury, but those of the two drainage districts.

Activities of the county home demonstration agent's office during the month of May were reflected in the reports submitted by Miss Ethel Luise Webb. It was shown that 65 members of the home demonstration club had made attractive house dresses at an average cost of only 76 cents each. The club bought 1,000 canning tins for distribution among the members at actual cost. Mrs. C. C. Burrows was reported as having raised all of 433 gallons of dewberries and blackberries on one-fourth acre of ground. Mrs. R. W. Thomas, another club member, is having her prolific crop of vegetables canned by neighbors on the share—she taking one-third and giving two.

Reports also were given of bedroom contests for both women and 4-H club girls, designed to effect improvements in bedrooms. Material results were shown. Miss Webb's review of the month's work shows 1,218 miles traveled, 30 visits to club demonstrations, attendance at 25 meetings, and the writing of 82 letters.

Oil Tariff Cut In Tax Measure

senate, was announced by the conference committee today. The house conferees receded from the provision in the house bill carrying a flat levy of 42 cents a barrel for all petroleum imports, and agreed to the senate amendments.

Oil Men Disappointed

Independent producers, who for three years have fought bitterly for protection from cheap imports, were frankly disappointed in the low rate provided on crude and fuel. The increased rate on gasoline, however, was offered as some compensation.

Just what the American oil industry as a whole will benefit or suffer from provisions of the new tax bill was uncertain. To offset the gain made by the approval of the import tax were several domestic excise levies imposed upon the industry, all of which were strenuously opposed by all factors of the trade.

Chief of these is a one cent a gallon federal gasoline tax. This levy was placed in the bill by the senate over the objection of Senators Elmer Thomas and Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, who contended that gasoline is now carrying more than its share of the taxation burden through state levies. Opposition to the tax was also based on the theory that the gasoline levy should be reserved to the individual states, who first adopted this means of raising money.

Pipe Line Levy

The bill likewise carries a four per cent tax upon oil pipe line carrying charges, which was opposed by the American Petroleum institute and the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, as well as independent producers. This rate, however, is a compromise between the original eight per cent voted by the house of representatives and the three per cent adopted by the senate.

The third excise tax which was protested by the Domestic industry is a four cent a gallon levy on lubricating oil.

Final Import Duties

The provision of the bill carrying duties on imported oil specifically provides:

Crude petroleum, one-half cent a gallon; fuel oil derived from petroleum, gas oil derived from petroleum, and all liquid derivatives, except lubricating oil and gasoline and other motor fuel, one-half cent per gallon; gasoline or other motor fuel two and one-half cents per gallon; lubricating oil, four cents per gallon; paraffin and other petroleum wax derivatives, one cent per pound. The provision carrying a 10 cents per hundred pounds levy on asphalt was rejected from the bill.

Cliff Sutter Takes Lead In Clay Courts Battle

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 6. (AP)—Cliff Sutter, New Orleans, moved easily through two matches today to reach a round ahead of the field in the first day's play of the national County courts tennis championship.

His brother, Ed Sutter, took the first match of the tournament from Johnny Lippitt, Memphis, 6-1, 6-0.

Cliff Sutter, seeded No. 2, next to George Lott, Chicago ace, took a second round match from Elim Hastings, Tulsa, 6-3, 6-0, and came back later in the afternoon to eliminate John D. Muse, Jackson, Tenn., 6-1, 6-0, in a third round encounter.

Lott took the measure of Evan Fellman, Memphis product, 6-2, 6-1.

tion of "such measures for the control of the liquor traffic by the several states as will promote temperance, effectively abolish the saloon, whether open or concealed, and bring the liquor traffic itself, where not prohibited, under complete public supervision and control."

Commenting on this plan, the millionaire oil man wrote he strongly approved "the simple, clear-cut position you are proposing to recommend and which I shall count it only a duty but a privilege to support."

Many Want Change

He said there were many, like himself, who felt the 18th amendment had not accomplished its object and who would willingly favor its repeal were some alternate method that gave promise of better results offered as a substitute."

But he added that in his judgment it would be difficult for the country as a whole to agree in advance on what the substitute should be, "and so unlikely that any one method will fit the entire nation, that repeal will be far less possible if coupled with an alternate measure."

In event of repeal, he wrote, sufficient time ought to be given before actual repeal became effective to permit various states to set up "new safeguards or methods" so they could handle the liquor problem in the way each thought best.

He concluded the letter with the expression of a hope that "the tremendous effort put forth in behalf of the 18th amendment by millions of earnest, consecrated people" would be continued in support of "practical measures for the promotion of genuine temperance."

"To that cause," he said, "my own efforts will ever be devoted."

Wichitan Injured In Crash With Official's Car

Rudolph Fincher, 404 Seventh, suffered numerous painful lacerations about his face, arms and body at 9:20 o'clock Monday night when the machine he was driving crashed into the automobile of City Councilman J. N. Prothro, 1010 Bluff, as Mr. Prothro got into his car to leave a council meeting at the Memorial auditorium. Mr. Prothro's car was parked at the curb.

Fincher was taken to the Wichita General hospital by his brother. The injured man refused aid at the scene of the accident and drove to his brother's home.

Murray Orders Troops to Bridge

MacDonald to the bridgehead and bivouacked for an indefinite tour of patrol duty.

"I don't care what they do about that toll bridge, but I am concerned with keeping that free bridge open," the governor declared, adding: "They can better understand my attitude by reading section 2, article 3 of the United States constitution and the 11th amendment."

The toll bridge company's injunction suit seeks the closing or control of the free bridge until alleged damages of $250,000 are obtained through tolls. Since the free bridge was opened by Murray last July 27, the pay span has remained open but virtually inoperative because of the lack of business, motorists taking advantage of the nearby free structure which parallels it.

To Test Validity

Judge Pollock ordered attorneys for the state of Oklahoma and the bridge company to file briefs by Saturday in federal court at Muskogee to test the validity of the Chickasaw franchise under which the toll span has operated. In case the franchise, granted years ago by the Chackasaw Indian nation, is found to be valid, Judge Pollock will try the case at Muskogee before a jury to determine whether any damages are due the bridge company.

An application for a court mandate, included in the Texas company's suit, asks that the receiver for the bridge company be placed in chage of the free bridge until $250,000 in tolls is obtained.

Complied With Mandate

Another part of the injunction action seeks to restrain interference with the operation of the toll bridge. However, Governor Murray complied with a federal court mandate to that effect last year, but withdrew troops from the toll span only after the approach had been plowed up.

When Governor Murray stationed troops at the free bridge last summer, Gov. Ross Sterling of Texas used Texas rangers to enforce a federal court order to keep the southern end of the same bridge closed for a time, but the order later was vacated and the rangers were withdrawn.

tion and of the desire of the directors that he should take up the task.

Hurrying home to Chicago, Mr. Simpson traveled by air, land and water, completing the journey in the record-making time of 14 days.

In announcing his retirement as head of Marshall Field & Co., Mr. Simpson said he had given 41 years of his life to that firm.

He added that he is retaining his "substantial interest" in the common stock of Marshall Field & Co., which is, he said, "in as sound and liquid a financial position as any business in the country."

Total assets of the three great operating companies from which Mr. Insull has withdrawn were certified at the end of the last fiscal year as $947,307,639. Of this amount, Commonwealth Edison reported $470,079,092, Public Service $243,344,363, and Peoples' Gas $233,884,184.

SOUTH TEXAS COURT 'BROKE'

Trials Delayed as Judge Seeks Funds

HOUSTON, June 6. (AP)—The federal government, particularly the United States marshal's office as paymaster, is "in the red."

In consequence Judge T. M. Kennerly today was holding in abeyance the June term of federal district court at Galveston, pending approval by the attorney general at Washington of additional expense money necessary to operate the court.

In addition, the marshal had no money with which to pay a number of witnesses. The court bailiffs, likewise, were looking for their pay but thought it would not be forthcoming before July 15, the beginning of the fiscal year.

An additional $600 was allotted the U. S. attorney's office in order that it could carry on the term of court at Corpus Christi two weeks ago. But this amount has been spent and no more additional funds are in sight before July 15.

Telegrams were sent to the attorney general at Washington today seeking additional expenses for the Galveston term. However, the attorney general's office had not replied.

The United States marshal's office said it was without money. How it would hold out until July 15 was a matter of conjecture.

Rice Institute Given $35,000 in Donations

HOUSTON, June 6. (AP)—The Rice Institute here today announced receipt of donations totaling $35,000—$15,000 from the Carnegie corporation of New York and $20,000 from Mrs. Carrie B. Carter of Houston.

The Carnegie donation, payable $5,000 annually, will be used for purchase of books. It was made on the recommendation of the advisory group of the corporation on college libraries, headed by Dr. William W. Bishop, librarian of the University of Michigan.

Mrs. Carter's gift will establish the Samuel Fain Carter fellowship in memory of her late husband, Samuel Fain Carter, pioneer lumberman and banker.

Northern California Cities Shaken By Earthquake; Woman Killed

Four Shocks Starting After Midnight Cause Heavy Damage In Many Towns

EUREKA, Calif., June 6. (AP)—An earthquake shook the coast region from Klamath Falls, Ore., to San Francisco early today, bringing death to a woman, injuries to three other persons and damage to numerous buildings in this vicinity.

Four shocks at about 12:40 a. m. in rapid succession toppled chimneys, broke water mains, windows and crockery here, and razed several shacks in Arcata, seven miles away. Residents compared it to the shock of 1906 which resulted in the destruction of San Francisco by fire.

A chimney, torn loose by the quake, crashed through the roof of a residence, fatally injuring Mrs. Walter McCutcheon and causing less serious hurts to her husband and small daughter. The other known victim was a bakery employe whose wrists were broken when the shocks brought two bread trays together.

Klamath Falls, 155 miles north of here, reported the quake was "very strong." It was felt in some parts of San Francisco. Redding, Calif., 85 miles east of Eureka, reported it severe.

Reports of leaks in gas mains here resulted in a fire department warning against the use of fires until connections could be examined.

Electra News

ELECTRA, Texas, June 6.—J. W. Crump has returned to his home in Blue Mountain, Miss., after visiting his son, Rev. E. B. Crump and family.

Mr. and Mrs. K. S. Rippy and children, Ramah Lou and Iva Dell, are visiting relatives and friends at McLean, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Jones of Plainview spent Wednesday night and Thursday with Mrs. Jones' mother, Mrs. M. J. Turner.

Leverett Proctor of Lubbock, former resident of the Barwise community, was an Electra visitor Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Chesher who live in the Sunshine Hill community spent the week-end in Lawton, Okla.

Miss Lorena Chesher is the guest of relatives in Henrietta.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Culpepper and small daughters are the guests of Mr. Culpepper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Culpepper. Mr. Culpepper has been teaching school at Rosebud during the past year and plans to attend North Texas State Teachers college at Denton this summer.

Misses Florence and Clara Hughes were week-end guests of Miss Doris Horton at Oklaunion. Miss Eunice Griffith was a guest in the Horton home Sunday also.

Miss Margaret Owens returned Sunday from Lubbock where she has been attending Texas Technological college during the past year. Miss Marjorie Beasley, formerly of Electra, who has been attending the college, stopped over in Electra en route to her home at Tyler. Miss Frances Orr who had been visiting the girls returned home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. McLaughlin and Miss Myrl Jarrell were in Dallas Monday where they visited station WFAA.

M. N. Midgett of Grapevine and grandson, Joel Midgett of Henderson, transacted business in Electra Friday. They are former residents of this community.

Miss Elizabeth Barrow returned last week from Fort Worth where she has been a student at Texas Women's college. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Barrow.

Mrs. B. A. Shofner is able to be up after undergoing an operation several weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Gibson of the Barwise community entertained with a musical Friday night. Old time melodies were included on the program. Refreshments consisting of iced tea and doughnuts were served to Messrs. and Mesdames R. K. Shirley, Sam Marshall, Jack Marshall, E. B. Robinson, Reno; Mrs. Anna Stonecipher, Tommie Rowe, Kenneth and James Gibson, Mrs. Edmondson, Haynes Robbinson, George Bickley, the host and hostess.

A group of young people motored to the City lake Thursday night where they enjoyed a picnic. Games were played until a late hour, and a delicious picnic lunch was served to Alma Bates, Mary Jo Bates, Onetta Culpepper, Lois Chesher, Edna Edwards, Josephine Fetters, Lorena Chesher, Ruth and Ruby Snow, Irene Chesher, Fannie Turner, Catherine McClure, Keith Williams, Onie Chesher, Frank Lane, John Gibson, Howard Patton, Robert Chesher, Ben Herman Peters and Keith Wilson.

The senior young people's class of the Church of Christ held its regular meeting Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Those on the program were Josephine Peters, Rose Orr, Onie Chesher and Alma Bates.

TO SETTLE ISSUE

Elephants Labeled 'Wet' And 'Dry' to Stage Tug of War

CHICAGO, June 6. (AP)—Delegates to the Republican national convention will get a chance to see what two live elephants, symbols of the party, will do. One is labeled "wet" and the other "dry."

A tug of war between the two elephants will be staged in the court of the hall of science on the eve of the convention as part of the program of entertainment arranged for the delegates by officials of the 1933 century of progress exposition.

Tennessee Demos Fail to Act Upon Vote Restrictions

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 6. (AP)—The Democratic state primary board failed to take action today on a resolution signed by five of the six candidates for the governorship and designed to bar negroes from the primary Aug. 4.

It also was the design of those sponsoring the resolution that the Democratic party in Tennessee be officially designated as "the white man's party."

Speaking in opposition to the resolution at a meeting of the primary board, Mitchell Long of Knoxville, said:

"I can imagine nothing that the American Civil Liberties union would rather than that we have passed this resolution, for they could say Tennessee's busted loose again."

"Although we are 60 years removed from Appomattox and the passing of the 14th and 15th amendments, we still think we can deprive the negro of his vote."

Science Still Seeking Drug Addiction Cure

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—Dr. Walter L. Treadway of the U. S. public health service today informed the conference of state and territorial health officers there is no specific cure for drug addiction.

His statement disagreed with a recent announcement of Dr. Wilder D. Bancroft of Cornell university who said he and two colleagues "believe it is possible to cure any drug addict" who has no complicating physical ailments and really wants to be cured. Bancroft and his associates claimed the craving for drugs could be stopped by the action of sodium rhodanate.

TWO DROWN ON CLASS PICNIC

Girl and Chaperon Die In Oklahoma Stream

M'ALESTER, Okla., June 6. (UP)—A Sunday school picnic at Dow lake, five miles from here, ended tragically today when a 12-year-old girl and her chaperon were drowned.

Mrs. Floyd Sandlin, 25-year-old wife of a Hartshorne barber, was drowned when she waded into deep water to rescue May Frances Bost and another girl. She rescued one of the girls but Miss Bost lost her life.

Mrs. Sandlin was supervising a picnic of members of the Christian Sunday school of Hartshorne when the accident occurred.

FARMER AND SON DROWN AT MAYPEARL

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, June 6. (AP)—Leonard Wynn, 35, farmer, and his son, Charles, 4, were drowned in a pool near Maypearl when the father, who had been swimming with the boy on his back, was stricken with cramps.

Another son of Wynn, aged 7, witnessed the tragedy from the bank of the pool. He ran home and told his mother, who rode with a passing motorist to the pool. In her haste she fell from the running board of the car and suffered a fractured arm.

She plunged into the pool in a vain effort to rescue her husband and son, but was unable to bring their bodies ashore. Wynn and his boy were buried today at Files Valley after double funeral services at Maypearl.

Kleberg Proposes Beer Tax for Veterans Aid

WASHINGTON, June 6. (INS)—A tax of 3 cents per pint bottle of 2.75 per cent beer to meet the interest and sinking fund on the bond issue included in the bill of Representative Patman, Democrat, of Texas, for payment of veterans' adjusted service certificates, was advocated by Representative Kleberg, Democrat, of Texas, today.

Kleberg pointed out the bond issue would leave the budget with an annual deficit of $175,000,000.

Fire Fatal For Arson Suspect

CHICAGO, June 6. (INS)—A terrific explosion and fire early today brought death to a suspected arsonist and imperiled several occupants of an apartment building.

All of the tenants were rescued by firemen who carried six persons down ladders. Two children were tossed by their parents from the roof of an adjoining building to the arms of policemen.

The sole victim of the blast and fire was an unidentified man whose burned body was discovered in the rear of a confectionery store on the ground floor of the building. Investigators said indications were that this man had caused the explosion by setting fire to inflammable materials and that he had been trapped in the blaze.

GAS HEARING SET

AUSTIN, June 6. (AP)—C. V. Terrell, chairman of the Texas Railroad commission, announced today there would be a hearing at Laredo June 28 to determine a fair gas rate to consumers of that city. The commission has set June 17 for considering a motion for rehearing of the Borger Gas company from a decision of the commission fixing the Borger rate at 40 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. The Borger rate formerly was 50 cents.

FEELING FRIENDLY

NANKING, June 6. (AP)—It was learned today that the Nanking government, at a secret meeting last night, had approved in principle resumption of the diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia.

AGENTS SEIZE LIQUOR PLANE

Two Men Arrested After Border Chase

SAN ANTONIO, June 6. (AP)—Two men arrested in McMullen county yesterday in connection with the seizure of an airplane loaded with alcohol were in San Antonio awaiting arraignment before United States Commissioner Paul S. Lockhart Monday.

The pair was arrested by D. S. Connor, of the treasury department, working with the customs service here, after Connor had sighted a plane flying northward from the Rio Grande.

Connor and his pilot followed the ship until it landed in a pasture in McMullen county. Connor arrested the pilot of the ship and a man who was waiting with a load of airplane gasoline, presumably to refuel the ship.

In the ship was 130 gallons of Mexican alcohol in metal containers. The alcohol and the ship were confiscated.

"B. C." Relieves Headaches and Quiets Nerves

Realizing that no one drug can relieve all headaches, as they come from so many causes, a North Carolina pharmacist has developed a combination of several ingredients, so blended and proportioned as to relieve almost any headache in a few minutes. You can get this formula wherever drugs are sold under the name "B. C." 10c and 25c packages, and when you have one of those violent, nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes, "B. C." will give you soothing relief in three minutes. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of muscular aches and pains, common colds and neuralgia, reducing fever, and for quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit forming drugs. —Adv.

Do you inhale?

"We're not asking you —we're telling you!"

7 out of 10 smokers inhale knowingly —the other 3 inhale unknowingly!

DO you inhale? Lucky Strike can meet the issue fairly and squarely. For it has solved the problem. Luckies' famous purifying process removes certain impurities that are concealed in even the choicest, mildest tobacco leaves. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Of course you do. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

And since you do inhale, make sure—make absolutely sure—your cigarette smoke is pure—is clean—that certain impurities have been removed, protect those delicate membranes!

Answers to Questions

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

This is a special department devoted to the handling of inquiries. You have at your disposal an extensive organization in Washington to serve you in any capacity that relates to information. Write your questions, your name, and your address clearly, and enclose two cents in coin or stamps for reply. Send to The Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—What is file powder made from?—E. H.

A.—It is a yellow powder made of sassafras and is used in cookery as a thickening agent.

Q.—When did baseball players start to use mits?—A. R. R.

A.—Unpadded gloves were introduced by Charles C. Waite in 1875. Padded gloves were introduced in 1891.

Q.—Are Decoration day and Memorial day the same?—P. G.

A.—Both names are now applied to May 30. A generation ago Decoration day was May 30, while the preceding Sunday was Memorial day. Upon this day veterans of the civil war usually attended church.

Q.—Has the use of wooden pegs been discontinued in constructing frame buildings?—A. K.

A.—They are still used to a considerable extent in rural districts. The method is still in use where wood is plentiful and labor is cheap.

Q.—What are the land, sea, and air speed records?—L. R.

A.—For one mile they are: 14.175 seconds, automobile, Campbell, 1932; 82 seconds, motor boat, Wood, 1932; 8.8 seconds, airplane, Stainforth, 1931.

Q.—Is bamboo a tree or a grass? —H. S.

A.—It is classified as a grass. There are more than 200 species of about 20 genera of these perennial, mostly tree-like, tropical and subtropical grasses.

Q.—How much have real estate values dropped in the last few years?—E. F. K.

A.—The National Association of Real Estate Boards says that it doubts if any information along this line is available. Urban real estate values have been receding since 1926. Farm land values have been receding since 1922. In spite of this fact aggregate totals of value as shown by tax valuations have been consistently increasing, due to growth in population and urbanization.

Q.—What is the difference in alcoholic content of beer by weight and by volume?—J. R. S.

A.—The bureau of prohibition says that the difference is as follows: Alcoholic content by weight is less than by volume. For instance, 50 per cent alcohol by volume would average 45 per cent alcohol by weight. Therefore, 2¾ per cent beer by volume would equal 2.47 per cent alcoholic content by weight and 4 per cent beer by volume would equal 3.6 per cent beer by weight.

Q.—Are most of the accidents caused by automobiles which are not in good condition?—C. D. G.

A.—The Travelers' Insurance company reports that more than 90 per cent of the motor vehicles, which in 1931 were involved in personal injury accidents were in apparently good condition at the time of the accident. The ratio is 95 per cent as respects total vehicles in accidents; 92 per cent as respects vehicles in fatal accidents; and nearly 96 per cent as respects vehicles in accidents resulting in non-fatal injuries.

Q.—What German dialect is considered the standard pronunciation? —G. E.

A.—In Germany there is no standard of pronunciation that is acknowledged and absolutely followed by the mass of intelligent people. The so-called standard of some people is the pronunciation of the stage, which again, is divided into the pronunciation of tragedy and comedy. In the latter, of course, is heard the more natural pronunciation of everyday life. The sectional differences are very marked but in general there is a North German and a South German pronunciation.

The Record News Offers Booklet on George Washington

How much do you really know about the first president of the United States? The average American knows about the cherry tree, the winter at Valley Forge, crossing the Delaware, and the fact that Washington commanded the revolutionary forces and then became the first head of the government, and little more, and he's not sure of his dates and details about that. Here is a booklet that tells the complete story of the Father of His Country, with many anecdotes about him that illustrate his character.

War Songs

PRACTICALLY every English-speaking soldier in the world war knew about Mademoiselle from Armentieres.

Knew about her, that is to say, in song. For the most famous of all war songs, beyond a doubt, was that highly improper ballad which had the catch-line, "Hinky-dinky parlez-vous," which told of the adventures of this fabled damsel from Armentieres.

Mademoiselle herself remained shrouded in mystery, until just the other day; and then an American composer, who is in France making a study of world war songs, announced that he had found out some things about the lady and had learned how the song came into being.

There was a cafe at Armentieres, it seems, and mademoiselle worked there. She was a very proper young lady, and one day a general, attempting familiarities with her, got his face roundly slapped; and at a regimental sing a few nights later some inspired songster introduced a ditty dealing with the incident.

And that, it seems, was the start of it; and the anecdote leads one to muse about soldiers' songs, and to wonder how they originate, and what it takes to set fighting men chanting the same chorus.

The world war soldiers sang this ditty about the girl from Armentieres. But what did other soldiers in other wars sing? They sang songs from music halls, of course—but they had their own special songs, too, and those songs never got in the anthologies, and they have been forgotten. The Roman legionnaires, it is said, had a ribald song about a girl named Lalage, who doubtless was a prototype of this Armentieres charmer; and it would be worth a good deal to know how the song went, and what its tune was.

Men who march off to fight must sing. They will sing everything and anything, except the pompous patriotic pieces which the stay-at-homes like; and usually they evolve their own pet songs, and, singing them, march off to die—at Ypres, or Chickamauga, or Waterloo, or Saratoga, or wherever it may be; and all we get is a tantalising reminder that somewhere back of each song there was some flesh-and-blood figure like this mysterious girl from Armentieres.

A Change for the Better

THE recent fracas at the Cleveland American league baseball park, in which a group of Chicago White Sox players indulged in a fistic attack on Umpire George Moriarty, was news because it represented a very rare occurrence; and for that reason it emphasizes the way in which baseball has changed.

Actual physical encounters are rarities in big league baseball these days. The players seldom come to blows with one another. The umpires seldom have to be protected after the game ends.

Yet such things used to be commonplace. A baseball player not only had to be a capable athlete; he had to be handy with his fists as well. The steady patron of a ball park usually could count on seeing at least one good fight a week, if not more.

The game itself hasn't changed. But the conditions under which it is played, and the character of the players, has.

The Philippine Problem

A WASHINGTON correspondent the other day remarked that independence for the Philippines now is virtually certain. In fact, he remarked, congress may be in such a hurry to get out of the islands that it will cause their economic ruin.

Laying aside, for the moment, all arguments as to whether the Filipinos ought to be granted their independence, it does seem fairly obvious that if they do get it the United States owes it to them to make the transition as easy as possible.

The Philippines have been a United States possession for some 30 years. If they are to be put on their own, the United States must take every precaution to make sure that chaos will not follow. American responsibility would not cease when the American flag came down, unless America had first prepared her charges for complete freedom.

The Penalty of High Office

NOW that Mayor Walker's examination by Judge Seabury has receded into the background a bit, it is possible to see that regardless of any questions as to the man's fitness for the office of mayor the whole business has re-emphasized one old but often forgotten fact—that a public official must keep his financial and business affairs above even a hint of suspicion.

What would be proper for a private citizen to do can be highly unwise for a public official. He must not only avoid corruption; he must avoid anything that remotely looks like corruption. It is not enough for him to be upright; he must see to it that no one has the slightest reason for implying that he isn't upright.

The mayor of a great city can have no "private life." That is one of the penalties of holding high office.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

(Copyright, 1932, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

(During illness of Mr. Winchell this column is being conducted by Paul Yawitz)

Interview
(Or Winchell Returns as Crowds Groan!)

Q.—Well, well, well, Mr. Winchell! Welcome home and all that sortathing! When did you get back to town—and why?

A.—Oh, now—no hero worship, please.

Q.—Very funny thing the other night. Jack Osterman was the first to announce you were back. He got a long and loud laugh when he said that he saw you and that you looked better than your enemies hoped.

A.—Please go away. There's all that mail to read and throw on the floor. And fevvensakes take that police card out of your hat!

Q.—But you must have dozens of things to tell us about your holiday. Howja like California, Hollywood and soforth?

A.—Very much, lovely place, go away, please.

Q.—Notice much change in Broadway—or the natives?

A.—No, just as dull as ever. Those groups of nobodies, however, are still sitting around complaining about those who get the juicy breaks—or telling those who are clicking how it ought to be done.

Q.—Texas Guinan, you know, is back, too.

A.—I know. Broadway manages to function without us.

Q.—What happened to you, anyway? Gosh, you should have heard all those wild legends about your sudden retirement!

A.—I did hear them. That's why I came back. I figured that if I hurried home I'd make thousands of people a little ill. They had me paralyzed in both legs, dead, shot by gangsters, run out of town by them, and all sorts of wild reports.

Q.—I didn't hear all those things. The alleged low-down, however, is that you were supposed to have been promised faithfully by the Lindbergh baby kidnapers that you were going to solve the crime. Thus crowning your career with the great achievement. Then, the story went, they crossed you, and you collapsed from a broken heart and ran away.

A.—I heard that one, too. The truth is that after nearly a dozen years of striving to be clever, I got a little weary.

Q.—Did you see Garbo in Hollywood, or did she leave you alone?

A.—She was grand. I thought at first she might bother me the way I bothered her when she came here for a little privacy.

Q.—Is it really true, Winchell? I mean about Garbo being indifferent to people even out there in Hollywood?

A.—She has her friends and avoids all others. I understand her better now. Edmund Goulding, the director; Mrs. Goulding, the former Marjorie Moss, the dancer; Adrian, her male dressmaker and two or three others are her intimates. Zasu Pitts who dwells next door, has never met her. And Greta won't even let her servants and gardeners swap the time of day or any wordage with the Pitts attaches. And for a mighty good reason. Almost everybody out there peddles things to magazines and papers about anybody.

Q.—What's all that talk about Jack Dempsey carrying on with Lina Basquette and George Raft and Billie Dove?

A.—Dempsey is playing the field. I saw him with his ex-wife, Estelle Taylor, at the Cocoanut Grove there one night. And Estelle was holding his hand and pointing out various beauties she thought would appeal to him. She still uses the Dempsey name, though. He's still a big-timer. Billie Dove is having herself a time with the crowd. And Bobbe Arnst feels terrible because the New York press tried to alienate Weissmuller's affections.

Q.—Did you see my favorite, Barbara Stanwyck?

A.—Yes, she's high on my list, too. She can't wait to get to New York to see Len Hall, who writes pieces for photoplay mags. Hall it appears, wrote a devastating story about her husband, Frank Fay. And Stanwyck, who hits too hard, is plenty burned about it. She took an oath that as soon as she saw Hall she was going to flatten him.

Q.—Talk about writers being slugged, oh boy! Some of the local yokels are going around socking columnists. Jerry Wald, frixample.

A.—Yeah, I heard about that. One wag suggested that Jerry change his title to "The Walds Have Cauliflower Ears!" One of the boys was straightened out with some mobsters the other night, and I understand that Helen Hayes' husband is after Skolsky?

Q.—Oh, well, you shouldn't make fun. How's Earl Carroll?

A.—The only reason I'm not giving you a hard shove is that there isn't a flight of stairs behind you.

Q.—Tell me more about Garbo and Hollywood.

A.—The MGM studio executives would have listeners believe that Greta ranks 4th on their list of box office attractions. Dressler first, Crawford, second; Shearer, third, and Greta, fourth. They say that Garbo is big-time at the box office only in the major cities.

Q.—Why Dressler has had only two great pictures!

A.—That's what I said. At any rate, Greta is supposed to leave for Sweden soon to remain there a year at least. Then, if she feels like it, she will return, but won't agree to any sort of a contract. She will work on a picture to picture basis at $250,000 a flicker. If paid, it will mark the highest wage ever paid a movie star. John Barrymore got $200,000 and Constance Bennett 150Gs.

Q.—What happened to the Wheeler-Woolsey duet, anyway?

A.—They got on each other's nerves. Woolsey said that the gags ran out and Bert told me he wanted to quit while on top. He has plenty. Bert and his wife, by the way, are definitely done. Mrs. W. will get their daughter and he will establish a trust fund of $125,000 for the child.

Q.—Do you believe that story given out by Harry Bannister and Ann Harding on why they decided to divorce?

A.—Of course not. The Carlotta Monti gossip was wrong, too.

Q.—What was the low-down on Margaret Perry's "broken heart?" We heard here it was over a sour notice on her first picture.

A.—His name happens to be Joel McCrea.

Q.—What's the dope on the Gibson-Ellers sitch-ee-ay-shun?

A.—The patch-up between Hoot and Sally isn't. Under California law, if Sally started suing Hoot, she would automatically get custody of Lois, Hoot's child. As Hoot loves the girl, Sally, who also adores her, doesn't want to take her away from him. So Hoot and Sally are "together" so they can figure a way for Hoot to keep the baby.

Q.—Did you bring back any of those funny gags about all those movie moguls who have such comical dialects?

A.—That's another Hollywood legend. The only dialectician out there whose comments smell of herring is Samuel Goldwyn. Dot Donnell, the editor for one of the movie mags, rates an orchid, however on her title to a story due soon. It will reveal the fascinating friendship, as it is called, between Dietrich, her husband, Rudolph Seiber, and J. Von Sternberg. The magazine article will be amusingly christened, "Von for all—and all for Von!"

Q.—Thanks very much, Winchell. In return I'll say in my story that you're a nice guy and can't possibly have many enemies.

A.—Don't be inaccurate. Merely insert the adverb "important" before your very last word. See you around.

EXPLANATION OF YE STERDAY'S CABTOON

A MOUND OF EARS—The Mimidsuka rises over the spot where the Japanese buried the ears of 10,000 Korean soldiers, the casualties of a single battle in the Japanese-Korean war of 1598. Japan invaded Korea at the instance of the Taiko Hideyoshi, whom the Chinese call Saru Kuan (The Crowned Monkey). The Japanese were prevented from annexing Korea by the interference of a Chinese army. But to "save their face" they carried away with them 10,000 pairs of Korean ears as a symbol of their triumph.

LAND BANKER TOURS AREA

Wichita Collections Good, Says Gossett

Representatives of the Houston Federal Land bank in the Wichita Falls area of North Central Texas are maintaining an unusual record of efficiency during the current economic conditions with collections amounting to 80 per cent of loans due, President M. H. Gossett of the bank said in Wichita Falls Monday night.

Mr. Gossett arrived early Monday and held a conference with 20 secretary-treasurers of this area, covering a 75-mile radius, at the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce offices in the Hamilton building. Mr. Gossett is in the city in connection with foreclosure sales to be held Tuesday.

The federal bank head expressed himself as pleased with the loyalty and cooperation of representatives in this district with the bank. "It is gratifying to officers of the bank that officers of the farm loan associations in this part of Texas are meeting current installments, maturing in the spring and early summer months," Mr. Gossett said.

Murder Charge Filed Against Negress Here

Cleo Thomas, negress, was charged with murder in a complaint filed Monday morning before Justice of the Peace O. L. Gibbs following the death of Theodore Ellis, negro man, Sunday afternoon from knife wounds received Saturday night.

The complaint was taken Sunday afternoon by George Anderson, assistant district attorney, after the woman had surrendered to city officers following the negro's death.

End Piles Quick

No Salves—No Cutting

Your itching, bleeding, protruding piles will go when you actually remove the cause—bad blood circulation in the weak, flabby parts—and not one minute before. Salves or cutting can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record right in this city, that Allison's Drug store says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile agony or money back. —Adv.

Golden Jubilee Celebration To Honor Pioneers

Pioneers of Wichita Falls will be honored in the "golden jubilee" celebration to be staged here in September, Walter D. Cline, chairman of the committee in charge, told members of the Kiwanis club at the Wichita club Monday noon.

Mr. Cline sketched the program which is to be followed. It will open with a religious service, and will include a daily parade. An historical pageant will be one of the outstanding features of the celebration, depicting the history of this section of the state, he said.

Rodeo and parades are expected to finance entirely the three-day celebration, Mr. Cline stated, although a group of local citizens is underwriting the golden jubilee association. Prior to the opening of the party, Mr. Cline said, at least 500 residents of this city will have been enlisted in committee work in preparation for the event.

Songs by the Kay Bible class male quartet, composed of Luther Thurman, James S. Minton, J. W. Akin Jr., and Grover C. Bullington, featured the program of entertainment furnished by W. E. Young. The quartet was accompanied by Mrs. Akin.

14 Complaints Filed In County Law Court

Fourteen complaints were taken Monday by the county attorney's office, according to information given The Record News, with convictions registered during the day on two of them through pleas of guilty.

Charged with aggravated assault as a result of a cutting scrape, a Mexican pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs. The other party to the affair has been charged with disturbing the peace.

The second conviction resulted from a charge of driving a car with the wrong license plate on it. The defendant was fined $1 and costs.

Three complaints were filed against negroes. One is accused of theft by bailee, another with theft, and the third with aggravated assault. The latter is charged with having struck another negro on the head with part of a broken bottle.

Remaining complaints taken are four for swindling by check, and two for vagrancy.

GRAND JURY RESUMES WORK

20 Complaints Submitted For Investigation

Investigation of about 20 felony charges was begun Monday by the April grand jury reconvened before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court for its third and final session.

George W. Anderson and Mike Anglin, assistants district attorney, assisted the grand jury in its work. They announced that a report probably will not be returned before Thursday.

District Attorney Sam B. Spence was in Graham Monday where the Young county grand jury also began work before Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, June 7.—It is something more than a coincidence that four potential candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination hail from Ohio and two others from New York. It has to do, according to Senator Millard Tydings of Maryland, with a national "political psychology" that makes presidential favorite sons from big states so utterly different from their comrades who go up to nominating conventions backed only by the favor of small states.

ALBERT C. RITCHIE

As he stated it, the Marylander's exposition of political first principles could not have been very encouraging to Gov. Albert C. Ritchie's hopes, let alone those of President Hoover's Maryland opponent, Dr. J. I. France.

The senator was explaining why he had referred to his own state of Maryland as a "little state."

"It is very difficult for a small state, no matter how meritorious the claim of one of its citizens might be in a larger sphere to receive recognition, for the presidency, for example—and I say this with no one particularly in mind—such as would be accorded to a citizen of Ohio or New York or Massachusetts or Illinois," Tydings said. "The same thing applies to the citizens of western states.

A Matter of Geography

"A man who lives in New York or Ohio might readily be nominated for the presidency, whereas if the same man lived in Nebraska it would be very difficult for him to secure the nomination. I merely referred to my state as a little state to show its unfair position in the scheme of things, political psychology being what it is."

Assume that Ritchie had been four times elected governor of New York, Ohio, Illinois or any other of the big states which have special place in the politico-geographical chart. The point of the Tydings remark leaps out at you.

Ritchie would certainly have been a presidential nominee before now. Yet even Tydings seems to doubt that the political lightning is going to strike either of the Maryland aspirants this year.

Going back through the 30 men who have sat in the White House, including President Hoover, five were Virginia born, seven native Ohioans, six New Yorkers, two from Massachusetts, two from New Jersey, two from Tennessee, two from North Carolina and no other state with more than one. That is merely where they were born.

Picking the Right Spot

Check against the states where they resided and reached political eminence and take into the picture also the states which presented their defeated opponents for presidential honors and the basis of the Tydings analysis of geographical presidential availability relativities sticks up like a sore thumb.

Clearly, after selecting a log cabin to be born in, persons ambitious to become president should hasten to a big state to live.

Mrs. Spragins Speaks On "Women Of Korea"

Mrs. C. A. Spragins addressed members of the Floral Heights Methodist Woman's Missionary society in their all-day meeting at the church Monday on "Women of Korea," prefacing her subject with a detailed account of the central council, which is a connecting link between the general conference of America and the autonomous churches of Korea.

The Korean church, Mrs. Spragins stated, is the first in Methodism to recognize the equality of manhood and womanhood of the church. Though Koreans were prone to look upon their women as a minor factor in life, the speaker said that with Christianity, woman has come into the light. She emphasized the loyalty shown by these Christian women, saying that they were workers in many ways; they sell eggs, chickens and other produce; they secure and sell medicinal roots to enable them to pay their missionary budgets.

There is no more outstanding program for these untiring women, Mrs. Spragins said, than their plan to train the youth of the church in the proper way.

The expression of thanks given by Mrs. Marvin Smith was voiced for the entire society. Mrs. Spragins' lecture was filled with human interest and given in the beautiful manner for which she is noted.

Mrs. Smith's leadership in mission study was complimented by Mrs. Henry W. Barton, president of the society and the assembly gave a rising vote of thanks. The morning session was closed by prayer by Mrs. Claypool.

Opening Service

Mrs. S. E. Trevathan led the song service and Mrs. Smith directed the final lesson from the study book, "Korea, Land of the Dawn." She read the 23d Psalm for the Scripture lesson and offered prayer, giving an inspiring talk on love and gratitude in the church as her devotional theme. Various members made short talks of appreciation of the missionary endeavor and Mrs. Trevathan closed the devotional hour with prayer. Impressive statistics concerning Korean Christianity and workers there were read by Mrs. Smith preceding her presentation of Mrs. Spragins.

Luncheon Served

Members of circle six served luncheon and Mrs. M. T. Clements gave the invocation. New members and guests were introduced.

Mrs. Henry Will Barton presided, when the group reassembled at 1 o'clock for a business session and Mrs. W. J. Stuckler led the song service with Mrs. R. A. Sanders at the piano; Mrs. P. S. Richardson offered the opening prayer. The spiritual devotional was given by Mrs. John C. Kay who stressed the profit always brought by spiritual investment. She closed her lesson with prayer.

Following regular business reports, the local auxiliary voted to have a special prayer room and Mrs. Charles Crowell was announced as chairman of this work. The treasurer's report, given by Mrs. M. E. Faulks, showed splendid financial progress for the first six months of the year.

Mrs. Leon Deaton reported for the Federated Missionary society to which Floral Heights church was hostess in the recent quarterly meeting and Mrs. Trevathan expressed her thanks for the hospitality of the society, and for their cooperation in the federated work.

Reports Given

Mrs. John Taylor made a brief address, urging members of the society to visit the sick and shutins and Mrs. M. T. Clements, superintendent of children's work, gave a resume of what had been done, stating that there were two new life members in the baby division; that the juniors are concentrating on study of work among negroes and recently gave a shower of fruit and cookies to the colored day nursery. With a project of Bethlehem houses for the present quarter, she said that a box of toys, airplanes, cut-outs, dressed dolls and handkerchiefs made by the junior members was to be sent to the Bethlehem center, Nashville, Tenn. Gifts from this organization in other projects, will include a handkerchief shower to children in a factory school at Wousi, China, gifts to the Janie Chauncey Memorial school supported by the adult society of Floral Heights church.

Mrs. Clements announced Mrs. Jack Ralston as the new superintendent of children. A rising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Clements for her leadership in the work.

Mrs. A. B. Gough announced 41 subscriptions added to the World Call in the past month. Mrs. Lester Jones reported a nice increase in the social relations activities.

June 12, 3 to 5 o'clock was designated as the day when Floral Heights society will give a guest program. Every member was urged to come and bring interested friends so the mission program might be placed before the entire church.

Circle treasurers gave splendid reports and the annual report from the Janie Chauncey school in China, read by Mrs. Hal Yeager, made the society realize what an investment in Christianity this school is.

A rising vote of thanks was given the hostess circle and 110 members said the Lord's prayer in unison to close the service.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Speaking of farm products and demonstration clubs and such like, as we did, you may remember, Monday morning, we had a woman in town suggest to us the other day that the farmers' wives who raised chickens, could realize a profit if they would go in for caponizing.

◆ ◆ ◆

"I have caponized 20 roosters," she said, "and I have 18 fine ones. If women have the large chickens (it being agreed that White Leghorns are no good for the purpose) they have to sell the roosters when they weigh about two pounds and get about 16 cents a pound at that time. If they caponize them the meat is as tender as a turkey's and if they can't be sold locally, there's a great demand for them in the East, and when they weigh 10 or 12 pounds they can get a minimum of 20 cents per pound."

◆ ◆ ◆

That is an idea to spread among rural women. Where women have gone into canning to such an extent that they can beef and duck and lay by a cellar full of food for the family, they can add a bit of extra cash by caponizing the rooster, who grows tough as he grows old. (It's a habit of the male).

◆ ◆ ◆

"Chicken feed is cheap," one woman remarked, when I told them of the Wichitan's experience. "Yes," another said, "you never know what the price of anything is going to be." "And some people say next winter is to be harder than last," her friend responded. "Well, that all depends," was the answer. "If any one wants to ask me if the winter will be harder, let them wait until after election. I can tell them then. If we elect a Democrat, it won't be." Which statement, even though it put a terrible responsibility on a probable Democratic president's shoulders, sounded good to us, born as we are of Democratic ancestry.

◆ ◆ ◆

It was at this point, we remember, that some one remarked they were sorry the Democrats quarreled so among themselves. "Why do they do it?" she asked. The hostess, who looked at life with a twinkle in her eye, said, "Why, that's why they are Democrats. Each man has a right to his opinion."

◆ ◆ ◆

But back to the caponizing. It sounds like a good bet. We have never been able to understand why infertile eggs should bring a higher price than fertile, though owners of poultry farms have cashed in on the theory. But we can see how $2 beats 32 cents for a fowl, with a very small bit deducted from the $2 for chicken feed. It doesn't take so much to feed chickens in summer as in winter, either.

◆ ◆ ◆

Women have helped in more ways than can be told in the past two years. And we think they deserve laurels for keeping up the morale of despondent husbands in many cases.

◆ ◆ ◆

We know of one woman who has a very small garden and wants to can everything for the winter, who is investing in a steam pressure canner and is going to can on shares. And when she is ready we want some of the "shares."

◆ ◆ ◆

The time has passed when women might only be housekeepers, teachers or seamstresses and yet be gentlewomen. Occupation in these days has nothing to do with "gentle blood." Our forefathers are not restless about it in their quiet graves. If they know of the world they know the world has changed.

Tickets on Sale For Valley Tour

Ticket sales for the third annual business men's tour of the irrigated valley were launched Monday and will continue until June 14. The trip will be made in buses and accommodations for 100 men have been made at $1 each. The tours are sponsored by the Valley Development association in the program to acquaint Wichitans with the potential development of the valley.

The trip will open at 10 a. m. and close at 6 p. m., covering a 150-mile route with arrangements made to feed the tourists at points in the valley. The itinerary has not been completed but agricultural leaders and valley board members have been studying the irrigated valley closely to present every phase of the valley's possibilities and proven assets.

Oral Jones, a member of the development association board and of the ticket sales committee, purchased the first ticket Monday. Other members of the committee are B. B. Greever, Darrold Kahn, publicity director of the tour, Harry Gray, Dilliard Anderson, J. H. Allison, J. N. Sherrill, Wilburn Page. Tickets also may be secured at the chamber of commerce offices or at KGKO.

Sacred Heart Altar Society Closes Season

Mesdames M. M. Bates, E. J. Kennerly, M. W. Lewis and J. J. Moran were joint hostesses Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bates on Pearl street, when members of the Altar society of the Sacred Heart church met for the final meeting of the spring season.

The nominating committee offered the slate of names selected and officers for the coming year were elected by acclamation as follows: Mrs. Burk Warmuth, president; Mrs. Frank Parsons, first vice president; Mrs. Marie Oechsner, second vice president; Mrs. Caroline Honcomp, third vice president; Mrs. M. W. Lewis, recording secretary; Mrs. J. L. McManus, treasurer; Mrs. D. B. Greene, reporter.

Mrs. Frank Parsons, retiring president, presided for the last time and the minutes were read by Mrs. George Kelly in the absence of the secretary.

Committees were named to plan for the annual autumn bazaar and announcement of the meeting of the Christ Child society at the home of Mrs. Ed Riley on Baylor, was made for Monday, June 13 at 1:30.

In a social meeting following the program, Mrs. Parsons, retiring president, was presented with a handsome gift as a token of appreciation from the society for her splendid work.

Dainty refreshments were served to 39 members.

Our Children

THOSE BAD CHILDREN

Did you ever stop to think that there might be people who thought your children were as bad as those next door seemed to be to you? It might happen.

Two mothers called on the principal of a big school within an hour and each complained of the badness of the other's children. "I try my best to bring up my children but if they are to associate with such young ones as those who live next door I don't see what I'm to do.

"Their mother doesn't seem to know what is going on. Those children beat the others, they use bad words, they break up the games the others play—if you say a word to them they sass right back. Will you please see that my children don't associate with them at all? Take Billy out of that class and put him in another."

With scarcely a variation the two complaints were made in dead earnest. The burden of the story was the same, "My children are good. If it weren't for the other children in the world I could get along fine. Now you take care of the other children and mine will be all right."

If life were only as easy as that. If living alone were life in perfection, how easy that would be. Unfortunately life must be lived in common with the rest of humanity. One cannot go to a cloister and still remain in the world. Children, like grownup people, must learn to live as comfortable as possible with other people. You cannot eliminate anybody. If the children next door move away others come, and the result is the same. Friction and misunderstanding and trouble.

Why not take it all cheerfully? Why not know that one's own children are having about the same effect on the mother next door as hers have on you? Then set to work to train the children to meet life in better form and higher spirit, with laughter and good fellowship. That will be better training for what is to come by and by.

Understanding people, getting along with them, is one of the essential qualities for successful living. The man or woman who cannot get along with others is bound to be disappointed, unhappy, and a failure. The person who can make and keep friends on a wholesome human basis is a success from the start.

Instead of encouraging children to fight each other, to shun each other, help them to adjust themselves to the individuals about them. Hold them to keep a sense of proportion. Guide them to discriminate between trifles and principles, and do not say too much about the principles. Just act on them and the children will sense them underlying your life.

Teach the children the truth that all belong to one family and there is very little to choose between us when the count is made. It is better to understand than to criticise.

A quarrel is an indication of social failure. Social failure is serious. Social success is essential to happiness. Guard it.

First Baptist Women Name New Officers

Mrs. I. A. Farris was elected president of the First Baptist Woman's Missionary society during the business session of the all-day meeting held at the church Monday. Other officers are Mesdames J. L. Waggoner, recording secretary; Mrs. H. Willis, corresponding secretary and treasurer; Mrs. W. L. Hawkins, enlistment chairman; Mrs. L. T. Francis, personal service chairman; Mrs. J. L. Maxwell, benevolet chairman; Mrs. Ralph Hines, mission study chairman; Mrs. J. L. Jackson Jr., mission chairman; Mrs. A. B. Maples, assistant mission chairman; Mrs. Charles Daniel, educational chairman; Mrs. L. E. Junell, social chairman; Mrs. R. Lee Joiner, stewardship chairman; Mrs. Thomas Wynn, young people's chairman; Mrs. R. W. Morgan, teacher at the jail; Mrs. O. G. Stephens, pianist; Mrs. George Smoot, director of music; Mrs. Floyd Randel, decoration chairman; Mrs. Robert Basham, periodical chairman; Mrs. Dell Brasher, publicity; Mrs. Farris, historian, and Mrs. Charles Harr, cuisine chairman.

Members of circle three were in charge of the mission program in the morning session, with Mrs. J. H. Stanfill, leader, and Mrs. W. L. Robertson opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. R. W. Morgan gave the devotional, followed with prayer by Mrs. W. B. Davis.

Lesson Given

The subject of the lesson was "Christian Education Imperative at Home and on Mission Fields," and the first topic, "School Bells" was given by Mrs. M. Dodson, who told of the real significance of the ringing of the school bells which come from the kindergarten, grammar, high schools and from the state universities, from Christian schools in America, on continents far away and on the islands of the sea. She spoke of a nation's interest in the welfare of its youth; of the teachers giving their lives for the development of future generations, and of the parents' willingness to work and sacrifice, that their children may have a better chance in life than theirs has been. "The Must of Christian Education," was discussed by Mrs. Eddie Brown who gave as three reasons why we must have Christian education, first, because our Christian young people need it; second, because our nation needs them; third, because the kingdom of God needs them.

Schools Discussed

"Southern Baptist Schools at Home," were discussed by Mrs. A. P. Adams and Miss Abbott, and they stated that there are 92 Baptist colleges and schools in the southland. Almost every state having one or more. Southern Baptists also have five theological schools in the homeland, they said.

"Southern Baptist Schools Abroad," were discussed by Mrs. J. D. McMahon, who said, "We have three times as many schools abroad as we have at home, and in them are enrolled almost as many students. We have schools in China, Brazil, Argentina, Chili, Africa, Japan, Italy, Roumania, Hungary, Mexico and Palestine, and the purpose of all is to do mission work and save souls."

"While Baptist School Bells Ring," was given by Mrs. Martin Smith and Mrs. Price McCreary. Mrs. Smith told the story of a young man from the mountains of Tennessee who received his education for the ministry in one of the Southern Baptist schools, and Mrs. McCreary told the story of a small Chinese girl who was educated and converted in a Baptist day school. And it was through her influence that her whole family became Christians.

Message of Bells

Mrs. H. E. Bradley and Mrs. A. M. Abbott, gave the "Message of the Baptist School Bells," in two stories, "The Silent Bell" and "The Tolling Bell." They said they were silent because of lack of support, funds, etc.

The program was closed with a prayer that we may do all in our power to keep Baptist school bells ringing at home and abroad, by Mrs. A. P. Adams.

A delicious luncheon was served by members of circle four, and the tables were beautifully decorated with large bowls of spring flowers. Dr. White, pastor of the Broadway Baptist church in Fort Worth, and Mrs. White, were guests, and during the luncheon hour, Dr. White talked on the "Spirit Filled Life."

Following luncheon, splendid reports from officers and circle leaders were given, and Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the church installed the new officers in an appropriate ceremony.

The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. W. L. Robertson.

Highland Heights C. E. Has Sunday Program

Members of the Highland Heights Christian Endeavor met at the church Sunday evening for a business session when Violet Moon, president, resigned as she is moving to Amarillo. Pauline Williams was elected in her place by acclamation.

Talks of appreciation for the retiring president were made by Misses Lucile Snyder and Bettie Montgomery.

The program opened with sentence prayers and the Christian Endeavor pledge. The Scripture reading was given by Betty Jane Kolter and on the subject "How We Should Pray," talks were made as follows: "Talent in Prayer," Bernard Baxter; "Petition in Prayer," Betty Jane Kolter; "Doing Our Best to Bring Our Prayers About," Lucile Snyder; "Prayers from a Clean Heart," Miss Pauline Williams.

One verse of a hymn and the Christian Endeavor benediction closed the meeting.

Lamar Avenue Baptist Women Meet at Church

Members of the Lamar Avenue Baptist Woman's Missionary union met in an all day session at the church Monday. The program was given by circle seven with Mrs. George Cales, leader, on the topic, "Christian Education Imperative at Home and on Mission Fields."

Mrs. J. M. Tanner gave the devotional and Mrs. C. T. Walters offered prayer. The program was opened with a song. Miss Cleo Kemmerly sang "O Zion Haste," and Mrs. E. L. Kemmerly gave the topic, "School Bells." Mrs. E. S. Richardson discussed the topics "The Most of Christian Education," and "Chimes From Christian School Bells." Prayer was offered, after which Mrs. S. F. Martin gave the mission talk on the girl's school in Korea. The Southern Baptist school at home and abroad was discussed by Mrs. A. J. Catlin, and L. R. Hall gave the topics, "A Preacher Learns His A. B. C's" and "Heathen Family Learns of Jesus." Mrs. Jack Sparks talked on the subject "The Message of Baptist School Bells," and after a song, "Keep Those Baptist School Bells Ringing," Alma Catlin and Marjorie Lovelace played special violin music.

Luncheon was served at noon by members of circle one, followed by the afternoon session with Mrs. J. M. Tanner, the president, presiding. Mrs. E. F. Moore gave the devotionals, and reports were given by the officers and circle leaders. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Milford resigned as young people's councilors, and Mr. and Mrs. George Cales were elected to take the work. Mrs. A. J. Catlin was elected assistant periodical chairman.

Mrs. E. F. Moore offered special prayer for Mrs. C. F. Somerville who is ill in a hospital, and 50 members and one visitor, Mrs. Velma Sparks, was dismissed with prayer.

Wilson Memorial W. M. S. Plans Future Work

Opening the program with a song, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," members of the Wilson Memorial Methodist Woman's Missionary society met at the church Monday in an all-day session. Mrs. W. S. Martin was in charge of the program on the topic, "Testing Out Faith and the Result of the Revival on Our Spiritual Life," which she gave. Mrs. E. E. Butler gave the devotional from the parable "The Sower."

Luncheon was served at noon, and the afternoon session was opened with prayer by Mrs. H. H. Vining. A business meeting was held, with Mrs. J. W. Thomas, the president, presiding, when it was planned to send a box of rummage to the Goodwill store in Dallas. It was also planned to present the "Womanless Wedding" again at the church Thursday evening, June 16.

Officers gave splendid reports, and Mrs. C. A. Jeffers gave the closing prayer dismissing 18 members.

First Methodist Women Hear Talk By Miss Russell

Women of the First Methodist Missionary society met in the educational building Monday afternoon for a business session and to hear an interesting talk by Miss Ada Russell, missionary in China, who is at home on a furlough.

The meeting was opened with a hymn led by Mrs. Stanley M. Raub with Mrs. J. E. O'Brien at the piano, after which Mrs. W. A. McCarty gave the devotional on the topic, "International Peace." Mrs. Joseph Easley sang "Thou Art My Way," with Mrs. O'Brien playing the accompaniment. Mrs. Wayne Somerville, the president, presided.

In her talk Miss Russell said that her work was mostly that of teaching the women to read their own language, and that her territory covers two and one-half counties, each one having a different language, which proves quite a handicap in their work. "The missionaries," she said, "go out two or three months in the autumn and spring to these country towns to teach classes, as the women are too busy during the remainder of the year to attend classes. These classes usually continue from two to three weeks."

Following her talk, Miss Russell showed the native costumes of the Chinese women, and a number of interesting pictures brought from the Orient.

After the program Dr. S. S. McKenney announced that the Rev. Harold D. Cook and Rev. Sam M. Black will be the principal speakers at a dinner and entertainment to be given in the educational building of the First Methodist church Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Mrs. W. D. Cline closed the meeting with prayer concluding the business meeting and reports.

Splendid Reports Made By Christian Council

Mrs. W. H. Weaver, president of the First Christian Woman's council, was in the chair when members met at the church Monday afternoon for a program and business session. Following the opening song and prayer, Mrs. J. B. Meisner took charge of the program and gave a beautiful devotional.

Dr. H. T. Woods, the pastor, introduced in an impressive manner, Dr. S. S. McKenney, the speaker of the afternoon, who used a Scripture from Romans as his text and gave a magnificent talk on self-sacrifice.

Two beautiful hymns were sung by a quartet from Highland Heights Christian church, Mesdames John and Bob Haley, Paul Thomas and Miss Otera Childress, with Mrs. Earl Reese accompanying. Their numbers were "I'm a Pilgrim," and "Living for Jesus."

Pension Fund Paid

In the business meeting, Mrs. W. H. Penix read a letter from Miss Nunn, the council's living link in mission work, who is now in California, attending the general conference, and another from Mrs. Ola Shepherd, from headquarters in Indianapolis.

Splendid reports were made by division leaders and it was announced that the pension fund is paid up in full to July 1.

Reports showed $77.55 turned in; 245 calls made; 5,370 reading points counted and 75 members present.

The church was beautiful with spring flowers in lovely colors and punch and cake was served to the large number.

Dinner Honors Golden Wedding Day of Wichitans

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hund were honorees at a surprise dinner Sunday at their home, 1611 Ninth street, given by their daughters, Miss Helen Hund and Mesdames Burke Warmuth and L. F. Emmert in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Hund were married at Newbury, Kan., June 6, 1882, and spent the first 20 years of their married life there. They moved to Wichita Falls in 1902 and have resided here continuously since.

The table where the honor guests were seated was beautiful with a large wedding cake centering it, a miniature bride and groom decorating the cake, with calla lilies surrounding it. Four golden candlesticks holding tall tapers completed the scene. The other table was centered with a bowl of beautiful yellow blossoms.

As the guests entered the dining room, Miss Frances Oechsner played Mendelssohn's wedding march and directly after the invocation, given by Father Patrick J. F. O'Beirne, Miss Oechsner and Mrs. M. M. Bates sang two exquisite duets, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," with Miss Oechsner accompanying.

Among those present with the honor guests were six of their children and their families, including Mrs. Otto Tacheope and children from Pilot Point, Texas; Messrs. and Mesdames L. P. Emmert, Burke Warmuth and Henry Hund, and Miss Helen Hund. Mesdames J. J. Brockheuser of Roswell, N. M., and Mrs. E. J. Kennelly of Houston, Texas, two other daughters, were unable to attend.

Covers were laid also for the following friends: Rev. Patrick J. F. O'Beirne and Rev. F. J. Schlessel, Messrs. and Mesdames M. K. Emmert, George Davis, George Hund, Mesdames Elizabeth Kennelly, M. Morse, A. Schreiber, M. Oechsner, M. M. Bates, Misses Frances Oechsner and Eva May Emmert, George Emmert and James Emmert.

Mr. and Mrs. Hund received many handsome gifts and messages of congratulation.

Preventing Blood Poisoning

Blood poisoning is not a new disease; we find evidence of it when studying the bones and mummies of vanished races. It was known to the Indians who dipped the tips of their arrows in putrid meat to insure a death-dealing infection. Modern gangsters often shoot with bullets rubbed with garlic as this is thought to cause an infection which will kill even if the bullet does not. Probably the garlic not as responsible for the infection which sets in as is handling and rubbing the bullet with dirty hands.

Blood poisoning is always a serious disease and, if it develops, a competent physician should be in charge. The percentage of fatalities is so high that no layman should every try to treat the disease himself. However, in this disease as with many others prevention is easier than cure, and the saying: "It is better to be safe than sorry," applies with great force to blood poisoning.

Do Not Neglect Wounds

The best time to consider blood poisoning is before it occurs. You should never regard any wound too trifling to be the seat of blood poisoning. Many people have lost their lives from septicemia which set in from such slight wounds as scratches, burns, small blisters or insect bites. In any injury where the skin is pierced it is important to remember that cleanliness is vital. Do not be fooled just because a wound looks clean as all of the miscroscopic organisms which may produce blood poisoning are absolutely invisible to the naked eye. A wound may appear dirty and yet be free from the dangerous organisms, although they usually are present in any kind of dirt or foreign material.

Whether the wound appears dirty or clean, take no chances. Wash the wound thoroughly with water which has been boiled and cooled to a moderate temperature. All dirt, splinters and other debris should be removed. Do not be dismayed at a little bleeding as this may help to wash out the wound. After washing well with the warm water, treat the part with some good antiseptic such as iodine, mercurochrome or hexylresorcinol. Before handling any wound wash the hands thoroughly with soap and hot water. If the cut is wide, it is sometimes a good plan to bring the edges together with narrow tape but never cover the entire surface of a cut with adhesive tape as blood poisoning might occur because drainage would be prevented.

The Hot Water Treatment

If the skin of the hand or the foot has been penetrated by a sharp instrument which is likely to be septic and only a small opening is present which cannot be easily washed out or treated with antiseptic it is wise to immediately soak the affected part in very hot water.

Even if blood poisoning is actually started, it is a good plan to soak the injured part in hot water for 10 minutes then in cold water for one minute, alternating this treatment for several hours if necessary. When this treatment is used immediately, I have seen many cases where in a few days there was an expulsion of sand, splinters, glass gravel, etc., through the original opening. This hot water soaking should be done as soon as possible after the injury. Do not wait for pus to form or poisoning to set in. Often the patient does not like to sit and soak the part, but thousands of deaths from blood poisoning could have been prevented if this method had been used.

Antiseptics are valuable where the wound is of such a type that they can reach the innermost recesses of it. However, in a case of a rusty nail in the foot, for example, it is impossible for the ordinary person to get enough antiseptic inside to do a great deal of good yet the hot water treatment will prove effective in most cases.

I am giving you this method so that you will know what to do in case you cannot reach a doctor; however, in all wounds except very small ones a physician should be called immediately.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mixing Vegetables

Question—Mrs. Fred B. asks: "What vegetables may be eaten at the same meal, and what does the word 'protein' mean?"

Answer—All non-starchy vegetables may be mixed together at the same meal. A protein is a certain complex combination of carbon, hydrogen, oxygen and nitrogen with a larger amount of nitrogen than found in most other foods. Some foods containing a large amount of proteins are meat, fish, eggs, nuts and cheese.

Baby Cries So Much

Question—Mrs. Iola J. writes: "I have a baby boy who has been a cry-baby ever since he was born. He passes much gas, and is very constipated. I nurse him and I am sure he gets plenty. He is seven weeks old and weighs 10 pounds. Will you please advise me about him?"

Answer—Your baby may be getting plenty of milk, but it is possible it is not nourishing. Send for my article called "Diet for Nursing Mothers" and after following instructions for a reasonable time, if the baby continues to cry and remains constipated, it would be a good plan to wean him and put him on the milk and orange juice schedule I advise, instructions for which I will also send.

Toothache

Question—Art asks: "What can be done to stop toothache in the absence of a dentist?"

Answer—Paint the gums around the tooth with some oil of cloves or, if the tooth is hollow, pack in some cotton that has been soaked in the oil of cloves. Do not be satisfied with temporary relief but have the tooth cared for by a dentist as soon as possible.

Mrs. Sterling Feeds Eight at Governor's Mansion on 45 Cents

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, June 6.—They may need Mrs. Ross S. Sterling of the Texas governor's mansion to solve the problem of feeding the bonus marchers on meager funds.

Eight persons sat at table in the governor's mansion.

"You've richer fare than the mansion used to have," remarked former Gov. Dan Moody.

"Well, let's see." Mrs. Sterling answered. She counted up. The actual cash outlay for the meal for eight people had been 45 cents.

Squabs, serving as the meat course, had been sent to Mrs. Sterling by a friend. Tomatoes and butter and eggs came from Mrs. Sterling's home place at LaPorte. The mistress of the executive mansion had bought 25 cents worth of black-eyed peas, 10 cents worth of parsley and 10 cents worth of rice. Flour for the biscuits ran but a few cents.

A statistician with a pencil figured if a roast, at present prices, had been purchased, instead of the squabs, still the meal would have cost less than $1.20, or less than 15 cents per person.

Mrs. Sterling takes keen pride in the butter, eggs and vegetables grown at the family home place, and often sent to Austin for the executive mansion table.

FOUR AMERICANS SURVIVE FIRST TESTS IN BRITISH OPEN

SARAZEN, SMITH TURN IN 73'S

Armour and Sweeney Both Take 75's

SANDWICH, England, June 6. (US)—Four stalwart American club swingers came off the wind-swept Sandwich courses tonight with cards placing them among the 18 high scorers in the first qualifying round of the British open championship and certain of entering the 76-hole play-off beginning Wednesday.

Sarazen, Smith Break Par

Gene Sarazen, New York professional seeking his first British open title, and MacDonald Smith, fellow New York pro, finished the Prince's course in a drizzling rain with a brace of par-cracking 73s.

Tommy Armour, Detroit's long-hitting defending champion, walked off the St. George's course with a 75, one over par. Bob Sweeney, American amateur resident in Britain, duplicated his performance.

The way for Sarazen and MacSmith was blazed by nine home products and one French invader. A. R. Bradbeer, unheralded pro from Somerset, led the field with a 2-below par 70 for St. George's. Archie Compston, Britain's long-range artist, and Arthur Havers, former title-holder, collared 71s. Compston was 1 below par on St. George's and Havers 3 short on Prince's.

Britons Lead Parade

Then came seven 72 cards, with Marcel Dellemagne, of France, among them, before the four leading of the 12 Americans popped up.

Britons shot the fireworks, while the Americans tried to content themselves with good qualifying golf but Sarazen, MacDonald Smith, Armour and Sweeney were the only four who could manage this. They have several strokes to spare for tomorrow's 18 holes after which the first 100 and ties go into the play-off.

With a 157 total expected to be the maximum for qualifying, Walter Pursey of Seattle with an 81 card today, Stuart Scheftel, American resident in Britain, with an 80; Douglas Grant, also British resident, with an 80; and Ross Thompson, Uniontown, Pa., amateur, 80, are conceded a chance, but an outside one.

TEXANS QUALIFY FOR U. S. NATIONAL OPEN

DALLAS, June 6. (AP)—Francis Scheider of the Dallas Brook Hollow Country club and Levi Lynch of the Dallas Crescent club qualified for places in the United States open tournament from district six here today. The field carried 21 entries who competed for two places.

Scheider, professional at Brook Hollow, toured his home course in 136 strokes. On the first 18 holes he put together a 36-32—68. On the afternoon round he shot another brilliant round of 33-35—68. Par over the 6,655-yard Brook Hollow course is 70. Scheider on the 36 holes, was four strokes under.

Levi Lynch won his place after a play-off with Gus Moreland of Dallas, Texas amateur champion. Lynch posted a 140 and then came moreland with another 140. In the extra hole play-off, Lynch shot a perfect par four, Moreland two putted for a five. On 36 holes, Lynch had 71-69—140. He is a professional.

Wichitan Beaten In Austin Net Tourney

Wichita Falls' entry in the Texas district amateur tennis tournament at Austin met with defeat in the first round of play yesterday, according to Associated Press dispatches to The Record News. He was Ralph Anderson, who lost his match to George Dullnig of San Antonio in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2.

Dolph Mulheisen of San Antonio, former national intercollegiate singles champion, not included with the seeded players because of his belated arrival and Charles Sloan, Houston champion, were regarded as favorites to win the singles event.

Rest of the second round of the men's singles, junior singles and a portion of the men's doubles were on the program for Tuesday.

Seeded players, victorious Monday, were ranked in this order: Sloan, John Barr of Dallas; J. B. Adoue Jr., of Dallas; Hal Surface of Kansas City; Donald Longcope of Houston; Allen Gwynne of Fort Worth; Charles Ewell, of Fort Worth and Lucian LaCoste of San Antonio.

Others still in the running were David Peden, Houston; Albert Love, Austin; Billy Bird, San Antonio; Jesse Pfeiffer, San Antonio; Charles Davis, Norman, Okla.; Howard Key, Eastland; George Duliing, San Antonio; Lasker Ehman, Austin; Joe Bill Bralley, Austin; Lieutenant Heber, San Antonio; W. T. Caswell, Austin; John Hill, Waco; Weldon Litzy, Fort Worth, and Gordon Peace of San Antonio.

Buren Reynolds Wins Dalhart Golf Tourney

Special to The Record News.

DALHART, Texas, June 6.—Buren Reynolds, local player, won the annual Dalhart Country club tournament here today in a flashy finish to defeat Earl Riffe of Stratford two up in a 27-hole match. S. Wilkerson of Borger failed to hold his own with the champion although his long drives were a feature of the contest. Beginning the last nine Riffe was down three but four beautiful birdies won him a draw on the 18th but he three putted the 17th to go two down.

In the consolation first flight, Paul Gore of Amarillo defeated Lee Griffith of Dalhart three up. D. C. Chism beat Kenneth Lovell, Dalhart, for honors in the fourth flight and Pete Riffe of Stratford won the third flight, beating Ralph Bennett. Reynolds also won medalist honors with a par 72.

Guy Green of Beaumont Signed by Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 6. (AP)—Guy Green, veteran pitcher of the Beaumont club, Texas league, was signed by the Travelers today.

Green will replace L. S. Terhune on the local staff when the Travelers leave tonight on a 17-day road trip. Used almost exclusively as a relief pitcher last season by Beaumont, Green had one of the best earned run averages in the league, officials said.

Pressnell Holds Houston Buffs To Four Hits as Cannibals Win, 1-0

LONGVIEW, Texas, June 6. (AP)—The Longview Cannibals defeated the Houston Buffs 1 to 0 here this afternoon in the opening game of a short series.

Forrest Pressnell held the slugging Buffs to four hits and was in trouble only on three occasions, pitching out of each expertly.

Longview scored the only run in the first inning when Moss was touched for singles by Bejma, Garms and Fuss.

It was the first shutout here this season. Score:

BUCS 11, SPORTS 0

TYLER, Texas, June 6. (AP)—Hammering the offerings of Milt Steengrafe on the mound for Tyler all over the lot, the Galveston Buccaneers won, 11 to 0, in a one-sided slugfest here today. The Tyler team failed to tally a single time and only gathered seven hits off Preacher Thurman of Galveston.

The Bucs gained headway for their victory in the third when McGhee banged out a homer with Governor and Allen abroad.

Steengrafe started alab duty for Tyler but was relieved by Lefty Willis after one down in the fifth. Three runs already had been scored in that inning and one was on base.

Willis had a bad inning in the seventh, allowing four hits and three runs. An error by Long, Tyler catcher, let in a run at the plate.

The Sports displayed the raggedest ball they have played since making Tyler their home three weeks ago.

The teams will play a double-header tomorrow, which will be "George Washington Day" celebrating the slugging centerfielder's return to the lineup. A large number of Cass county citizens is expected here. Washington is from Atlanta, Texas, and has been out of the line-up more than a week nursing a bruised hand. Score:

INDIANS 3, STEERS 1

DALLAS, June 6. (AP)—Pitcher George Murray failed to collect his 10th victory of the season tonight when his own fielding misplay gave the San Antonio Indians a 3 to 1 victory over Dallas.

Murray's failure to handle Fitzgerald's grounded properly in the sixth left him open for a single by Baker that scored two runs with two men out. Score:

SHIPPERS WHIP CATS

FORT WORTH, June 6. (AP)—Beaumont increased its lead over the Texas league field to three and one-half games by defeating Fort Worth 5-2 here tonight. Houston, its nearest rival, had previously lost to Longview.

Buck Marrow held the Panthers well in hand in all but one inning, the sixth, when a wild streak plus an error helped them to their two runs. The Exporters treated Tom Estell, the starting Cat hurler, roughly and were not much easier on Clarence Pickrel, his successor, collecting a total of 14 hits. Score:

PHILS DRUB ROBINS, 15 TO 7

Victors Bang Out 21 Base Blows

PHILADELPHIA, June 6. (AP)—Back at their home park, the Phillies today plastered a 15-7 defeat on the Brooklyn Dodgers in the only game played in either major league.

Joe Shaute, Babe Phelps and Lefty Heimach all felt the wrath of the Phillies bats, which manufactured 21 hits, including Chuck Klein's 14th home run, and piled up 14 runs in the first five frames.

Phil Collins, meantime, had the visitors baffled until the sixth inning, when the first of Hack Wilson's two home runs brought in a pair of tallies. The next inning saw the Dodgers score five more runs as Wright, O'Doul and Wilson hit for the circuit and also saw the last of Collins. Ray Benge hurled scoreless ball from there on.

Hack Wilson's two four-baggers were his ninth and 10th of the season and gave further indication the pudgy slugger is regaining his 1930 form.

Don Hurst, big first baseman, led the Phillies assault with four singles and a walk in five trips and scored four runs. Mallon, Klein, Whitney and George Davis contributed three hits apiece, while driving across four runs. Score:

OZARKA BEATS HIGHWAY, 5 TO 4

Blue Wins Pitchers' Duel With Delaney

Big Everett Blue kept the Ozarka Water company team in the race for the first half crown by besting Carl Delaney in an airtight pitchers' battle and the Waterman downed Highway Garage, 5 to 4, on Debus field yesterday. Blue allowed only four hits off his delivery while Delaney was touched for eight safeties. The automobile doctors got away to a three-run lead on one hit, two hit batsmen and two errors, but Ozarka fought back from behind to nose out the victory.

Jumping Joe Deal made a sensational catch in the outfield off the bat of Leroy Lynch in the second inning, and R. McShan robbed Deal of a hit in the fourth with a sensational one-handed stab of his liner over first. Jiggs Hill led the attack for Highway with two hits while the Ozarka battery, Earl Smith and Everett Blue, each got two hits in three trips to the plate. Score:

DIXONS 3, FOUR WAY 2

Norvan Presley pitched Dixon Sign company to a 3 to 2 victory over Four Way Filling station Monday afternoon on the country club diamond. Presley won his own game with his hitting, getting two hits to account for two of the three runs. Only four hits could be made off the curves of Hubert Scott, one of the greatest pitchers the league has ever known, and Presley connected for half of these. H. Scott pitched baseball that would have won nine out of ten games, but Presley's three-hit pitching shaded him.

After Four Way had taken the lead on a double by Craig and two infield errors, Presley tied the score in the third inning with a lusty home run wallop to right field, his fifth home run of the season. Presley's single in the seventh added the winning tally. Score:

Texas Pros Open Tourney At Fort Worth Today

FORT WORTH, June 6. (AP)—The annual tournament of the Texas Professional Golfers association will open over the Ridglea course here tomorrow afternoon. The tournament will be opened with the annual pro-amateur event in which the pro-entries will team with Fort Worth's outstanding amateurs for an 18-hole round of medal play.

The battle for the state title will open Wednesday morning. Thirty-six holes of medal play will be reeled off that day and on Thursday the final 36 holes of play will be staged. The player with the lowest totals for the 72 holes will be declared the state champion and will represent Texas in the national P. G. A. in July.

Among those already entered are Francis Scheider, Hugh Carpenter, Tom Sockwell, Larry Nabholtz and Lefty Stackhouse, all of Dallas; Tony Butler, Corpus Christi; Ray Mangrum, Dallas; John Bredemus, San Antonio; Willie Maguire, Houston; Oren Williams, Longview; Roy Boone, Corsicana; Irwin King, Waco; Ted Longworth, Texarkana, and many others.

Dick Metz, formerly of San Angelo, winner of the tournament in Harlingen last year, will not be entered this season. Metz is now a professional at a New Jersey club.

Mangrum, Butler and Hogan were among the money winners in the winter tournaments this year. All three have been shooting great golf and will be among the favorites. Mangrum burned up the course today with a 69, two under par.

Fishermen Meet Again Tonight At Courthouse

The campaign for better fishing in the big lakes will be continued tonight at a second meeting of fishermen and sportsmen in the 78th district courtroom at the courthouse here.

Like the meeting last Tuesday night, tonight's gathering will be sponsored by the local chapter of the Izaak Walton league, with Ben G. Oneal, president, in charge.

A report from a committee headed by Dr. Q. B. Lee on a plan to obtain a permanent income to repair present rearing ponds and build new ones, probably will be read at tonight's meeting. The plan discussed at some length last week, embraces a tax on all fishermen enjoying privileges of the two big lakes in the Waggoner estate.

Meanwhile the campaign to obtain a temporary fund to make much-needed repairs on present rearing ponds continues, with more than $200 chipped in by fishermen to date, according to Bill Lee, Walton league secretary.

Cochet Wins French Singles Championship

AUTEUIL, France, June 6. (AP)—Henri Cochet shelled George de Stefani of Italy, off the courts today to win the French tennis singles title and in so doing served notice he is in top shape for defense of the Davis cup.

The little French ace defeated De Stefani, 6-1, 8-4, 4-6, 6-3 and kept for France a title no foreigner ever has won.

It was Cochet's fifth French singles title, a crown he, Rene LaCoste and Jean Borotra have kept among themselves since the French championships were thrown open to all comers in 1925. Cochet has won it four times in the past eight tournaments, LaCoste three times and Borotra once. Cochet's first victory was scored in 1922 when it was closed to Frenchmen.

OILERS ADD TO LEAGUE LEAD

Vernon and Frederick In Runner-Up Positions

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, June 6.—Electra's fast-flying Oilers continued to pace the race in the first half season of the Red River Valley Baseball league following Sunday's contest, with Vernon and Frederick's Boosters holding down the runner-up position waiting for the loop leaders to falter. These three teams with Crowell, won Sunday's contests as the first half flag chase advanced steadily toward the end, with but three more games for each club to play.

Electra held its one-game lead over the two second-place clubs by taking a 10-inning tilt from Oklaunion, 2-1, when the Cardinal infield fell apart in the eighth and 10th frames allowing Electra a score in each inning. Vernon hit its winning stride again by trouncing Quanah, 12-2, here in a game featured by Bland White's excellent hurling and a home-run barrage. Unofficial reports gave Frederick, Okla., a slugfest from Chillicothe's Cubs, 19-9, at Frederick, while Crowell's Wildcats were taking Tipton, Okla., 6-5, at Crowell.

Bert Williams hurled an excellent game for Oklaunion, holding the Oilers to two hits until the eighth inning. Infield errors allowed the Electrans a run in both the eighth and tenth frames, however, and Williams' fine pitching performance went for naught. The game was similar to that between the two clubs at Oklaunion one week ago when Cardinal errors enabled the invading club to win by 7-4 score.

Bland White, Vernon's new pitching addition from the Marines, turned in a well-pitched game in defeating Quanah, the team which knocked Vernon from first place last week in winning a protest. The youthful ace, hurling his initial game in an Orphan uniform, scattered seven Quanah hits, many of them of the scratch variety, struck out nine batters, and allowed two runs, both unearned.

The largest crowd to witness a baseball game here this season took advantage of a new price schedule offered by the Vernon club. Vernon's batters slammed out 11 hits to ice the game.

Sait Jo Wins Over Tipton 3-1

Special to The Record News.

SAINT JO, Texas, June 6.—The only run that Spanish Fort was able to get off Saint Jo was when Tipton caught a fat inside ball for a home run and Saint Jo won, 3 to 1. Phillips scattered the seven hits off the Fort boys, never letting two hits come in the same inning except once. Saint Jo go only six hits but they were able to hit in the pinches and made one run in the fourth and two in the fifth. Howard for Spanish Fort struck out one and walked two, but the Saint Jo hitters were not able to do much with his underhand delivery. In the fourth, Pedigo walked, L. Phillips singled, then on a double steal, Pedigo scored and Phillips went to third on a misue at second. In the fifth singles by S. Pedigro and Davis followed by a double by Hundley netted two more runs. J. H. Phillips, Saint Jo twirler, passed one and whiffed nine. The Fort boys were able to get more hits off Phillips than any other club in this league this season. The result of this game gives Saint Jo first place in the percentage column in the Montague County Red River Valley league.

Caps Corner subdued Montague 10-2 in a slow game at Montague Sunday. This win gives Caps Corner a better hold on third place as Bulcher was idle Sunday.

Saint Jo Club to Play Marietta Nine Wednesday

Special to The Record News.

SAINT JO, Texas, June 6.—The Saint Jo ball club will go to Marietta, Okla., Wednesday for a week day game with the fast Southern Oklahoma league team, according to Manager George Hundley of the County Red River Valley league Saint Jo club. As the Montague has only five teams now, there will be open dates which Manager Hundley hopes to fill with fast independent clubs. Saint Jo has played a total of seven games this season and lost only two—one to the Gainesville All-Stars and one league game.

VERNON NET TEAM BEATEN

Childress Battlers Spring Upset to Win

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, June 6.—In a sharp upset, Vernon's tennis team, second place holders in the Inter-City Tennis league, was routed by Childress racqueteers in a meet cut short by a windstorm at Childress Sunday afternoon. The Wilbarger netmen dropped two matches while failing to garner a single victory.

The defeat failed to oust Vernon from second place in the league standing, however, the Wilbarger racqueteers having been firmly entrenched behind the pace-setting Wichita Falls tennis team.

Vernon's netters, top-heavy favorites to sweep the three scheduled matches with Childress, failed to click in the Sunday tilts during a high wind and had dropped two matches and were well on their way to losing a third when an increase in the wind forced suspension of the play.

Captain Charles Lutz, ace of the Vernon team, suffered a straight-set defeat at the hands of the left-handed No. 2 player of the Childress team, succumbing by 9-11, 3-6. Jimmy Lutz, playing No. 2 singles for Vernon against Woodrow Carter, Childress, took but one game in losing 1-6, 0-6. Jimmie Martin, No. 1 player and Childress captain, did not compete.

In the doubles, the Lutz brothers dropped the first set, 3-6, to the Carters, but were leading 5-3 on the second set when the match was stopped.

A FRANK CONFESSION

—A STATEMENT BY THE GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR COMPANY

THE Gillette Safety Razor Company feels called upon to make a confession and a statement that are undoubtedly unique in the annals of American business. It is with deep regret and no little embarrassment that we do this in order to tell you frankly what actually happened when we introduced a new Gillette razor and blade.

Soon after this was done, we found that, although the great majority was pleased, some users complained quality was not up to standard.

We learned why. Our equipment had not been equal to the task of producing millions of blades at high speed without a certain variation in quality that affected a small portion of our output. As a result some blades that left the factory were not as good as you had a right to expect. Immediately we directed our principal effort toward the achievement of uniformity. Everything within our power was done to end variation. More than this—impossible as it seemed of accomplishment at the time—we set out to develop or find a better production process, having as a major requirement the elimination of varying quality.

We discovered and purchased for our exclusive use and at the cost of millions of dollars a manufacturing process that was amazingly superior to our own.

By this method, modern and automatic, millions of blades can be made at top speed without variation in quality.

We incorporated refinements of our own invention and installed the new machinery, throwing out all of our old equipment.

Now we announce today's Gillette blades, made by the new management. The usual superlatives have no place in this sincere statement of ours, so we will let the quality of the blades speak for itself. The green Gillette package remains unchanged, but the blades are new in every respect, quality, performance, and method of manufacture.

The Gillette Blue Super-Blade

The $2 Kroman De Luxe blade has been withdrawn from production. We offer the Blue Super-Blade as its successor. This sensational blade is far superior to the Kroman and costs considerably less. You pay only a few cents more than for the regular blade and get unmatched shaving comfort. Its extraordinary shaving performance will convince you that the Blue Blade is the sharpest ever produced. A blue color has been applied to the blade for easy identification. It is contained in a blue package. Cellophane wrapped.

You can try today's Gillette blades without risking a cent. If you don't agree they are superior, return the package and your dealer will refund your money. Our reputation depends upon the proof of these claims. Being absolutely certain of the quality of these Gillette blades, we do not hesitate to make this statement over our signature.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—Saturday's advances were just about lost in cotton today as a result of renewed liquidation, combined with some reselling by buyers of late last week and scattered selling promoted by the decline in wheat and the heaviness of the stock market.

July contracts sold off to 5.07 or 23 points net lower and closed at 5.12, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 18-20 points.

Last prices showed rallies of 3 or 4 points from the lowest on most positions.

Except for some talk of too much rain in extreme northwest and southeastern sections of the belt, the weather was considered very favorable for the development of the crop. Some thought that conditions were also favorable for spread of the boll weevil, but it was considered rather too early for the situation in that respect to outweigh the satisfactory development of the plant.

Houses with Liverpool and continental connections were among the sellers here during the early trading and there was little southern selling here during the day, as well as further near-month liquidation. Exports today 22,193, making 8,093,576 so far this season. U. S. port stocks, 3,756,131.

Futures closed steady, 18 to 20 lower. Spot quiet; middling 5.20.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 6. (AP)—The cotton market was only moderately active today and prices developed a downward trend due to unfavorable foreign news, weakness in wheat and lower stocks which induced liquidation by recent buyers. After opening 3 to 5 points lower prices declined steadily until they showed losses of 21 to 23 points from Saturday's close. The market rallied slightly around midsession but eased off again near the end closing steady at net declines for the day of 18 to 20 points.

The market eased off gradually in late trading owing to a downward trend in stocks and July dropped to 5.11, October to 5.32 and December to 5.47 or 14 to 16 points under the highs of the morning and to within 2 to 5 points of the day's low points. July closed 17 points net lower for the day, October 20 points net down and December 18 net down.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 2 penny points down.

Port receipts 7,769; for week, 10,224; for season, 9,736,032; last season, 8,851,372. Exports, 22,193; for week, 50,262; for season, 7,928,601; last season, 6,262,426. Bond Prices Show Improvement As Stocks Move Down to Close Lower

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 6. (US)—Bond prices, on the average, today improved upon last week's closing rally. Stocks closed lower, presumably responding to the more sober judgment of last week's events.

It became increasingly evident that immediate beneficial results, if any, must find reflection solely in bonds. Stocks may have to wait for a clearing of the financial skies or actual betterment in business, the latter, of course, not yet being visible.

The action of bonds was distinctly encouraging, especially since the opinion was widely held that a moderate setback would be entirely logical in view of the sharpness of last week's rally. Ability of the list to improve on the former prices was taken to mean that confidence had enjoyed a distinct revival over the week-end.

In the day's news the most disturbing developments were a decline in wheat for some rather difficult-to-uncover reason, and the Chile revolution. But they mainly affected stocks and perhaps they were merely readily accepted as explanation for the quite normal action of the share market in yielding somewhat.

There was less of the wild talk concerning the latest endeavor to stabilize bonds. It became more universally accepted as a fact that the new stabilization group will devote itself exclusively to bonds, except under the most unusual circumstances. That any program will be entered into with stabilization of the stock market as its objective was generally disclaimed.

The major objective of the new bond group probably will be the absorption of any sizeable blocks of well-rated bonds which fail to induce independent bids. To think that the new corporation will buy indiscriminately is entirely unwarranted. One of the major concerns of its management quite naturally will be to maintain its liquidity and in this way maintain the assurance of an every-ready bidder for sound bonds.

Heavy selling in Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit issues disturbed the whole market. Their weakness let loose a veritable flood of disturbing stories, most of which have their origin in idle gossip. The preferred stock of the company is reported finding anxious buyers happy at the opportunity of taking advantage of the current selling in the issue. The manner in which the selling is being conducted suggests necessitous liquidation, presumably of a bank loan.

Public utility shares still were under pressure of selling which last week was blamed on nervousness over the proposal in congress to tax electrical energy. Last week the markets worried over their understanding that the proposed 3 per cent tax on gross revenues would fall on the utility companies.

Today the senate upheld the contention that the tax is to be passed along to consumers, but the utility shares failed to rally. It may be, however, that the news came too late for the markets fully to appreciate it. In any event the entire list closed lower.

Genuine betterment has taken place, from the domestic standpoint, in the last 10 days. The whole bulwark of the nation's financial fabric has been greatly strengthened to meet whatever demands are made upon it by European developments.

Naturally, under such circumstances, there is a materially better sentiment in responsible circles. At the same time, broad buying of stocks is being delayed pending achievement of definite stability in bonds.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, June 6. (AP)—A sale has been reported on combing 56s fleece wool similar to Ohio at 15@16 in the grease or 28@30 scoured basis. The volume of wool involved was rather moderate. The market generally, however, reflected only a very limited interest from users of wool. Receipts of domestic wool at Boston during week ending June 4, estimated by the Boston Grain and Flour exchange, amounted to 3,264,900 lbs. as compared with 1,995,000 lbs. during the previous week.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, June 6. (AP)—A good demand for wheat and a fair demand for other grains was reported on the Fort Worth cash grain market Monday.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis carloads freight paid, delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points:

Wheat—No. 1 ordinary hard milling, 54½@55½c; No. 1 hard, 13 per cent protein, 55@56c; No. 1 hard, 14 per cent, 56@57c; No. 1 hard, 15 per cent, 57@58c; No. 1 hard, 16 per cent protein, 58@60c.

Barley—No. 2 nominally, 31@32c.

Sorghums—No. 2 yellow milo or white kaffir per 100 pounds, 70@71c.

Basis delivered Texas common points, or group three:

Corn—No. 2 mixed, 38½@39c; No. 2 white, 38½@39c; No. 2 yellow, 46@47c.

Delivered Texas common points:

Oats—No. 2 red, 22½@23c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 6. (AP)—Sensational new breaks in grain values plunged some cereals down today to below any bottom reached since 1897.

Sacrifice quotations resulted in European importers buying as much as 5,000,000 bushels of wheat from North America, mostly Canadian, but led at the last to only a fractional rally here from the day's low point. Waves of stop-loss selling accompanied evidence of severe unsettlement of markets at Liverpool and Winnipeg, with Canada under-selling both Argentina and the United States, and with indications that Canadian farm holdings were being liquidated wholesale to anticipate stoppage of the Canadian government wheat bonus of 5 cents a bushel.

Wheat in Chicago closed nervous, 1¼@2¼ cents under Saturday's finish, corn ⅝@⅞c down, oats ⅝@1¼c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 5c.

Wheat, corn, oats and rye all quickly outstripped previous low price records for this season. News from Winnipeg told of early fresh tumbles of more than 4c a bushel making 8¾c drop in the last two days. Allowing for difference of exchange, Winnipeg July wheat went to 5c under Chicago. Under the extraordinary dearth of buying support was apparent in the Chicago market, and trade comment at this juncture was that if the Winnipeg upset indicated determination by the Canadian growers' pool to sell its wheat regardless of prices, trouble would result in disposing of the United States surplus.

Heavy downpours both in Canada and the United States further emphasized bearish sentiment, and there was much notice taken of possibility of a 500,000,000 wheat crop this season in Canada. Splendid rains were reported in Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma.

Corn, oats and rye responded chiefly to the impact of breaks in wheat.

Provisions sympathized with grain weakness, despite hog price upturns.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, June 6. (US)—Foreign buyers took advantage of the panicky selling of wheat in Chicago and Winnipeg today and export sales ran into large figures. There is a need abroad for large amounts of wheat between now and the harvest of the new crop.

Shortage of reserves in many countries has not brought any serious buying of wheat, owing to low prices and the anxious selling here, but there has been a steady demand, inasmuch as a week's requirements abroad if not filled with shipments result in a sharp decline in the passage of stocks. Decreases in the latter are not comfortable to the importer's peace of mind under the present situation.

Importing countries absorbed approximately 19,000,000 bushels of wheat the past week, there being a decrease of 4,168,000 bushels in ocean stocks despite world shipments of 14,853,000 bushels.

Unfavorable weather which will retard crop development now prevails in the United Kingdom, cables report.

Charters were made today for shipment of 100,000 bushels of wheat and 100,000 bushels of corn from Chicago to Buffalo.

MONEY QUOTATIONS

NEW YORK, June 5. (AP)—Call money steady, 2½ per cent all day.

Engineer Killed When Fast Train Leaves Rails

DURAND, Ill., June 6. (UP)—A trainman was killed and 17 persons were injured when a Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad passenger train jumped the rails two miles east of Durand today.

The locomotive of the Southwest Limited, en route from Kansas City to Milwaukee, overturned, crushing Engineer Harvey P. Roe, 72, Elkhorn, Wis.

Five of the six coaches it was hauling also were derailed. Ten passengers were among the injured.

A washout caused by heavy rains, was blaimed for the wreck which occurred while the Southwest Limited was traveling 65 miles an hour to make up lost time.

THIS IS THE LIFE!

LONDON, England.—Once a leader in English society, the Hon. Mrs. Swainston Strangways, cousin of the Earl of Ilchester, is now happy tending boats for hire and mending fish nets. To recuperate after four years of nursing during the war, Mrs. Strangways came to the little village of Babbacombe. The simplicity of her new neighbors and the quiet, peaceful life charmed her, and she has remained ever since.

"Bring 'Em Back Alive"
By FRANK BUCK with EDWARD ANTHONY

Dead animals mean nothing to Frank Buck—he brings 'em back alive! He hunts them barehanded; with snare and coil; in jungle, and mountainfastness, in wildest Africa, in darkest Thibet—but always he brings 'em back alive. Many of his living trophies can be seen today in the New York Zoological park, in the Lincoln park zoo in Chicago, in municipal collections all over America, in circuses throughout the world. He has crossed the Pacific 40 times, encircled the world five times, knocked out an orang-utan in fair fight, walked the width of Borneo, and delivered to the city of Dallas one complete zoo.

Buck has just obtained, in Singapore, the largest orang-utan ever captured. He asks the natives how they accomplished the capture. Buck has just witnessed a battle between a tiger and a buffalo. Buck's friend, Wendell, who works for a rich Indian maharajah, invites him to witness a cruel performance staged for the potentate's amusement. A tiger's claws have been pulled out.

For 18 exciting years, Frank Buck has been gathering live animals, reptiles and birds for American zoos, circuses, and dealers. He hunts them barehanded in jungle and mountain-fastness, in wildest Africa, in darkest Thibet—but he always brings 'em back alive.

He now tells about a 16,000-mile journey into the interior of Nepal to capture, at the order of Dr. William T. Hornaday of the New York Zoological park, a great armor-plated, single-horned Indian rhino—rare as the unicorn of fable. He obtains help from General Shum Share, a nephew of the Maharajah of Nepal, Buck's plane are frustrated by the Ganges river which is on a rampage. He starts back for Singapore.

CHAPTER X

The day we arrived in Singapore was a regular circus day for the residents there. Fourteen large bullock carts and two motorlorries transported my cages and animals from the dock out to the compound, followed by the four elephants.

Thousands of natives and not a few whites followed us through the steers. A few times, when we had to stop for traffic, the curious crowded around us in such mobs that we could hardly move.

With the vast Singapore collection augmented by this big shipment from Calcutta, I now had the biggest collection of live animals and birds ever assembled in one place with the possible exceptions of the big zoos in New York, Philadelphia, London and Hamburg.

This is not the place for details of my return to America with this record-breaking shipment. This, after all, is the story of those two Indian rhinos.

On my return to America I disposed of my great collection. With the various animals and birds on the way to their proper destinations, I breathed easily again and decided to visit Dr. Hornaday in New York before returning to Nepal.

I called on him and made a full report. He was delighted to learn that I had located an Indian rhino for him and one for Dr. Penrose. He was the soul of patience; his sympathy with my problems was complete. And I recall how he marveled over my casualness in discussing a second long journey so far away Nepal after the disappointments of the interrupted trip from which I had just returned.

Several weeks later I again found myself in India, on the way to Nepal via Mokamaghat, with Lal assisting me in the matter of guarding my fortune in rupees at night (for I was again forced to carry cash), and with Johereim attending my wants during the day. The damage done by the monsoons and the great flood had been repaired and travel was again normal.

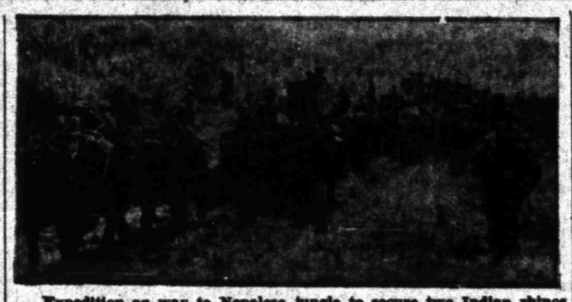
At last, after many months, I found myself in Raxaul! I looked around for a dak bungalow (government rest house). I had been told that I should find one here. I learned that my information was incorrect and that there was no such accommodation.

A small railroad bungalow not far from the station and just outside the limits of the native town was the only possible habitation where a sahib might put up. In these frontier towns the Indian railroads maintain what are known as "railroad bungalows" so that when their division superintendents or other British railroad officials find it necessary to remain overnight in the out of the way places, where suitable homes or hotel accommodations are not to be found, the bungalow is at their disposal. A native servant is in charge, keeping the place in order and ready for occupancy whenever these officials arrive.

While I checked and sorted my luggage which had been set out on a platform at the railroad station, I sent Lal to interview the servant in charge of the railroad bungalow to ask permission for me to put up there. The servant sent back word that one of the railroad sahibs would be arriving in an hour or two from Bhikna Thore and that I should have to get his permission. However, he suggested that the luggage be brought over to the bungalow veranda as it was beginning to get dark. While the coolies were carrying my boxes and bags across from the station, I inspected the bungalow. It was quite a comfortable house of plastered adobe walls and high roof of thatched rice straw, built on a cement platform wider than the bungalow itself so as to constitute both a floor for the bungalow and a veranda. There was a large center room and two smaller ones on either side. The large room was furnished with a handmade wooden dining table, three plain chairs and a wicker couch. One of the smaller rooms was comfortably furnished for a sleeping room. There was a connecting alcove which contained a galvanized bathtub (wherever there's an Englishman you'll find a bathtub of some kind) and a big stone jar of water with a dipper. The other room was unfurnished.

I sent Johereim to the nearby bazaars to buy a chicken. He returned with a likely looking one and with this and some of the stuff from my provision boxes he and the bungalow servant started preparing dinner for me. The idea uppermost in my mind was to take a bath. I was grimy after the trip and the galvanized tub looked pretty good to me.

I entered the little alcove and started undressing. I suppose I should have waited for the Englishman's permission before taking a bath but it didn't seem important enough.



Expedition on way to Nepalese jungle to secure two Indian rhinos for American zoos.

Lal Bahudar and a ton of Indian rhino.

I draped my clothes over a stool near the tub, placing a gun on top of the heap. I had removed the small percentage of gold contained in the silken sash in which I carried my money around my waist. The gold I had placed in my trousers pockets and the sash containing the thousand rupee notes I now wrapped around my neck. After tying it securely so that it clung to my neck like a great plaster, I proceeded to wash myself. Two or three times I reached over to see if I could grab my gun quickly if I needed it, and, finding it within easy reach, I went on scrubbing myself.

I had done a good job, except on the neck, which on account of the peculiar circumstances that prevailed, I was unable to scrub. I was about to start drying myself when I heard some one enter the bungalow and start raising hell with the servant in charge.

The newcomer was the English railroad official. What he didn't tell that poor bungalow servant wasn't worth telling. How dared he permit strangers to usurp his quarters? Who was this American who had the gall to walk in with his servant and promptly make himself at home? Where was the fellow any how? He had a few things to say to this brazen intruder.

I could hear the servant, who seemed to be sobbing as he spoke, say that I was taking a bath.

"Taking a bath!" roared the Englishman. "Who told him he could take a bath?"

Then I could hear my genial host stomp over to the alcove where I stood stark naked, with nothing on but a neckband stuffed with money.

"I say!" He started as he eyed me in bewilderment and rage. "What does this mean?" For a second his eye rested on my revolver, then he looked up at the peculiar arrangement around my neck.

I saw nothing to worry me in this irate Englishman, who looked as if he might be a decent sort when he wasn't blowing off steam, so I picked up a towel and started drying myself.

"You'll excuse me, I hope, for not having some clothes on," I addressed him. "I wasn't expecting you quite so soon."

"I wasn't expecting you at all," he retorted. I thought that was pretty fair sarcasm and decided at once that this growling bear wasn't half bad.

Then I explained what I was doing there. I had expected to find a government dak bungalow, and, failing to find one, had temporarily located here. I hoped I hadn't put him out in any way. The Englishman grunted a few times as I told my story but he seemed to be calming down. He stared hard at the decoration round my neck, so I decided to make an explanation. "Sore throat," I said. "Damned nuisance."

And it was, too—the money, not my throat, which was a good throat and quite a help in breathing and swallowing.

Perhaps this affliction of mine softened my involuntary host. After telling me, with a kind of sternness that didn't sound very convincing, that he wasn't used to having strangers walk in on him in this fashion, he relented and told me I could use the unfurnished part of the bungalow.

I invited the Englishman to share the dinner which had been prepared for me but he declined my offer. "I've got my own food," he said. "My mistake," I replied. That's all the conversation that took place during the meal.

I believe he would have appreciated some of the delicious hot food which Johereim served me but he was suffering from a familiar ailment, British standoffishness, and this prevented familiarity on so short an acquaintance; so he sat opposite me at the table moodily mincing at his cold cuts while I enjoyed a first class meal.

After dinner the Englishman thawed out. With pipes lighted and a whisky peg before us, we talked well into the night. He seemed interested in my experiences with animals and I got a great kick out of his stories of railroading in this strange and wild country. He was in charge of that division of the Bengal and Northwestern railway which runs along the border of Nepal from Raxaul to Bhikna Thore and a hundred miles or so further on.

As we prepared to go to bed, he said to me out of a clear sky, "Be careful with your money."

"What money?" I asked, with a start.

"The money you had round your neck in the tub. You remember—your sore throat." He smiled as he said this. So did I, foolishly. I was amazed. How in blazes did he know I had money in that sash? I didn't ask him, and he didn't tell me. To this day I haven't the faintest idea how he found out.

He broke into a laugh, a pleasant laugh. "I'm careless with my money, too," he said. This was as ironic as it was amusing. I thought I had been so careful!

"If you've got much of it on you," he added, "keep it out of sight. The blighters here are very fond of money." With this he was off to bed.

The next morning I saw my English friend off. He was on his way up the line to a point between Raxaul and Bhikna Thore. His method of travel was nothing if not picturesque. His conveyance was a railroad hand car. A heavy armchair was placed on the car and he seated himself in this. Two natives seated themselves on the floor of the car. Two other natives got behind to push. The Englishman explained as he opened a parasol that this was his favorite method of getting around. When the two pushers grew weary, the boys on the car relieved them. They would alternate until they reached his destination. He had traveled thousands of miles in this fashion, he explained as he was off with a wave of the arm—the boys sending the car down the tracks at a merry clip.

I had kept the Nepalese authorities posted on my movements by telegraph. They knew I was at Raxual, stopping at the railroad bungalow, and they were to send representatives to meet me.

Not long after the Englishman's departure these representatives arrived—two Nepalese who had come down from Bilgange, in accordance with arrangements made by General Shum Shere, to escort me across the border and on to Bilgange, whence a trail led up into the foothill country where the rhino camp was located.

My escorts were mounted on small horses or mountain ponies. They had brought an extra one for me. These ponies, bred in the Nepalese hills, are diminutive in size but hard as nails.

Elephants awaited us at Bilgange for the trip from here to the rhino camp. For a hardened collector I found myself getting pretty excited as we neared the camp.

My delight on finally reaching the animals, after months and months of anticipation, may well be imagined. I fairly slid off the big elephant on which I was riding before it had a chance to kneel.

Lal was so tickled he did the Asiatic equivalent of a handspring, a cross between a somersault and a cartwheel, if you can imagine anything as crazy as that. He accompanied his acrobatics with the most joyous cackling I'd ever heard from him.

The rhinos were wonderful calves, in splendid condition. I was happier than I had been in as long as I could remember.

The animals were in big heavy crates made of logs and big limbs cut and put together in the jungle. These cages were built in a most ingenious fashion, no nails being used, the rough-hewn timbers so dove-tailed and doweled together as to be thoroughly solid. It was almost incredible that these firm, well-made cages had been constructed with only the use of an adze, mallet and a crude hand-wrought native chisel.

Treasury Not to Refund First Liberty Loan Bonds

WASHINGTON, June 6. (US)—The United States treasury will not accept its first opportunity to refund $1,933,216,600 outstanding bonds of the first liberty loan, it was learned today. Failure to exercise on June 15 the callable feature of these obligations, most of which bear interest at the rate of 4¼ per cent, has no post-war parallel.

The decision reflects official judgment that the country's credit reservoir is not deep enough to permit large scale refunding operations now, if known requirements as well as possible contingencies of the next fiscal year are to be adequately met.

Plot Against Mussolini Instigated by Exiles

ROME, June 6. (US)—Realizing he faces death with his back to a firing squad, Premier Mussolini's latest would-be assassin today confessed to police he was instigated by Italian political exiles in France and Belgium.

Defiantly, the prisoner, Angelo Sbardellotto, an Italian youth, shouted:

"I am not sorry. I wanted to avenge the political exiles and prepare the way for an Italian republic."

ALLEE SAME TO HIM

STOCKTON, Calif., June 6.—"Old Murphy," an old Chinese who made a sketchy living by singing Chinese songs of doubtful propriety, wore, all winter long, a tattered, nondescript straw hat. Then, coincidental with Mayor Franke's proclamation naming straw hat day, "Old Murphy" blossomed forth in a felt hat he had dug up somewhere. Questioned by a newspaper man regarding his action he shrugged his shoulders and said: "You no likee, I likee; no business, no new hat; you damfoolee. Goodby."

A TOOTHSOME MORSEL

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Charles Seamen is recovering after having bitten himself in the throat. No, he is not a contortioist. It was a case of his false teeth breaking loose from their moorings and lodging there. A doctor at a nearby sanitarium removed them.

Missed Your Paper?

What is more annoying than to get up in the morning, or go home in the evening, and find that your paper is not there? This may be caused by a playful dog in the neighborhood; a neighbor sometimes picks it up to read, expecting to return it before you arrive; or perhaps it was picked up by a passer-by; and occasionally it is an oversight of the newspaper boy. We maintain a delivery service to take care of situations of this kind. '32 DIRECTORY ISSUED HERE

New Edition Compares Favorably With Other Books

Containing information on 20,768 personal and business names, and classifying 320 different kinds of business and professional enterprises, Worley's 1932 Wichita Falls city directory has been issued and is now being delivered to purchasers. In size and appearance it "stacks up" favorably with previous editions, and embraces all the usual features.

Of the 320 different kinds of enterprises reported in operation here, 231 have one or more competitors, each, while 89 have no competition, being represented by a lone concern each.

Romance in Pages

The Wichita Falls directory strikes the average citizen as a dull, matter-of-fact compendium, which, like the poor, it is necessary always to have with us. Really, humor, tragedy and romance glance across the pages of this book, in the files of which the development of the city can be traced, and where one can read the rise and fall of men and families in the struggle for wealth, fame and social position. The national origins of the citizens are reflected in the surnames; in the names of buildings, streets and business institutions is reflected the reverence with which the people, past and present, have regarded and still regard the city's founders and builders.

The city directory happens to be the only book wherein every adult sees his name in print. It recognizes the obscure laborer same as the millionaire and the captain of industry. By its style and the kind of information published, it distinguishes between bachelors and benedicts; misses, matrons and widdows; householdors and roomers; tenant-owned homes and rented homes; employers and employes; corporations and partnerships, and parent concerns and branches. Using the book as the basis, the entire citizenry can be broken down into classes, such as proprietors of business, professional people, executives, "white collar" workers, tradesmen, mechanics and laborers.

The publishers explain that, as heretofore, copies of the newest city directory will be placed on file to succeed the last edition for public reference in several branches of the country-wide free directory library system operated by the members of the Association of North American Directory Publishers. In addition to the name sections of the directory, there is a statistical survey and general description of the city, designed to furnish distant inquirers with a quick picture of Wichita Falls, the publishers said. A branch of the directory libraries, furnishing outside city directories for local reference use, is located at the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Postal Directory

A feature, not contained in most city directories according to the Worley Co., is the state postal directory and the complete directory of state officials covering several pages.

The newest "roll-call" of Wichita Falls, flanked by Tobias Aaron and Norman F. Zumwalt, contains Hay and Straw, Sink and Swim, Crooks and Dragons, and—anti-hoarding authorities take note—one Miser. There is a Drought, but this is "offset" by Beer, Booze, Shine and one Still. In this list of names one can find Work, and he will see that the city has Pride. Strange to say, there is only one Car, the only Oldfather is a woman, and the directory contains only one Word. The most original business name is probably No-Man's-Land Beauty Shop.

Many Wichitans to Attend Christian Church Convention; Hines to Preside

Wichita Falls Christian churches and others of this area will be well represented at Fort Worth this week for the annual state convention of Christian churches June 7-10, inclusive. Harry Hines of the First church in this city is state president and will open the convention with an address Tuesday evening on "It's Spiritual Daybreak."

Dr. Howard T. Wood, pastor of the First church here, will speak on the convention program Wednesday afternoon and Friday morning. R. E. Shepherd will be on the entertainment program.

Delegates attending from the First church here are Mr. and Mrs. Hines, Dr. and Mrs. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Holmes, Mrs. T. T. T. Reese, Mrs. George Gutzman, Mrs. A. D. Harrison, Mrs. Ruby Trout, Mrs. W. L. Guthrie, Mrs. C. E. Stephens, Miss Laurie Glen Pattillo, Joe Steele, Mrs. W. H. Weaver, Mrs. C. G. Tevis, Mrs. F. E. McConnell, Dean Harrison and Mrs. J. L. Keevil.

Miss Pattillo, Mr. Steele and Bernard Baxter, all of this city, were named as delegates to the 47th annual Texas Christian conference at Texas Christian university. Mr. Baxter represents the Highland Heights church.

A special youth conference has been set for Thursday evening.

Miss Mary Emma Boyd and Connie Terry of Iowa Park and Douglas Roe and Landin Waits of Burkburnett, also were named delegates to the youth conference at a meeting here several weeks ago.

Delegates from the Highland Heights church will include Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Sherrill, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Montgomery and Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Curd and probably others.

STALEY HEADS SUMMER CLASS

22 Seniors Seek Diplomas In Short Session

Twenty students of the Wichita Falls High school are candidates for graduation at the close of the nine-week summer session in July, it was announced Monday. Two Junior college students also are candidates for graduation.

A joint college and high school class organization has been perfected with J. I. Staley of the college as president of the student group. Other officers are Allan Clark, vice president; Isadore Wolfson, secretary-treasurer; Yvonne Cox, reporter; and R. O. Jonas, sponsor.

The college seniors are Warren Griffin and Ernestine Wilkinson.

High school seniors include Leonard Baggett, Harry Baumgardner, Elva Bell Brown, Maline Buchanan, Ralph Chenault, Bob Daugherty, Billy Ducker, Weldon Guest, William Haggard, Mildred Hansard, Nathalene Hendricks, Kathryn Hurd, John Meredith, Harold E. Milligan, J. Lee Newland, Martha Kate Ramey, Dorothy Rodgers, Frances Towles, Veola Whitlock and Georgia Wilson.

Juries Fail to Agree In Dime Taxi Trials

Two cases against dime-taxi operators in Wichita Falls were continued Monday afternoon following failure of juries to agree in corporation court before Judge Edgar Scurry and a third case closed with a jury returning a verdict of acquittal for the defendant. The hung juries resulted in cases in which defendants were charged with operating without a license and with violation of the city's minimum ordinance of 25 cents. The acquittal verdict was returned in a case in which the defendant was charged with violation of the minimum fare ordinance. All three drivers are operating for the George C. Williams taxi service. Cases against other drivers of the service have been set for trial Tuesday.

Plane to Carry C-C Leaders to Okla. Meet

The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce delegation to attend the annual convention of the Western Oklahoma Chamber of Commerce Wednesday and Thursday at Weatherford, Okla., will leave by airplane Thursday to attend the final session of the conference. The local group will include R. E. Shepherd, Julian Montgomery and Manager John Boswell. The trip will be made in a plane piloted by Airport Manager Fulcher Armstrong.

Bank Stockholder At Bowie Named in Suit

Suit for $750 plus six per cent interest from Dec. 4, 1931, to date of payment was filed in federal district court here Monday by O. W. Sage, receiver for the Security National bank of Bowie, against B. F. Watson. The petition alleges that the defendant has failed to pay an assessment made in compliance with national banking laws upon a stockholder.

GIRL BANDIT TRACED HERE

Altus, Okla., Woman Held In $450 Hijacking

The story of the masquerade of a young Altus, Okla., woman in Wichita Falls as a man was revealed Monday in an investigation by local detectives at the request of Altus officers. The woman faces charges of robbery with firearms in Altus in connection with a hijacking several weeks ago which netted $450.

$300 Recovered

Following her arrest in Altus officers recovered $300 of the loot and she told officers about a $20 bank note which she had torn to bits and left in Wichita Falls. A search by Detectives Luke Hart and O. A. Roberson and Special Officer H. G. Ellis of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines located the bill in tiny pieces on a shelf in the room the girl had occupied here in a Travis street rooming house.

The young woman had appeared at the rooming house dressed as a man and had carried out the masquerade, even to having a date with a young woman boarder at the house, officers said. The money had been discarded because it was torn in such a manner to make identification easy, the woman told officers.

Stormy weather Sunday night did not interrupt prowling activity and Mrs. J. H. Oates, 137 Taylor, told police Monday that a screen window was forced at her home to obtain a $20 purse and $1 in money.

$200 Watch Stolen

Loss of a valuable wrist watch, missing since May 15, was reported to police Monday by an insurance adjuster. The watch was valued at $200 and was missed by Mrs. E. B. Clark, 1601 Taylor, when she left for a visit to San Antonio. She filed claim for insurance Monday. The watch contained 20 small diamonds, four sapphires and a diamond set in platinum.

Loss of an electric motor about three weeks ago was reported to officers Monday by the Southwest Dairy Products company. The motor was taken from the Sibley street cheese plant.

The Wichita Laundry company, 600 Austin, reported a robbery Monday in which two bundles of clothing, a dress, skirt, and trousers were taken.

Mrs. J. W. Scott, 1516 Blonde, told officers Monday afternoon she had lost a wrist watch in the 800 block on Indiana.

Harry Hines reported recovery of a 25-foot water hose taken from a Hines Oil company filling station Friday. The hose was located in the 1100 block on Terral. Detective George Garrett reported recovery of a lawn mower for W. A. Clemmer, 1316 Fifteenth. The machine was reported missing March 13. Detectives Luke Hart and O. A. Roberson recovered a set of mechanics tools, valued at $6, for the Fritz Motor company.

Highway Meeting At Temple, Okla., Tonight

Highway development in the Wichita Falls area will be presented at the monthly banquet of the Temple, Okla., Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening in an address by R. E. Shepherd, member of the highway committee of the local chamber. Mr. Shepherd will probably be accompanied to Temple by Chairman J. S. Bridwell of the senior chamber highway committee, President Don T. Haynes of the junior chamber and Secretary Wilburn Page of the junior group.

Eithel Allen Nelson to Present Violin Pupils in Recital Tonight

Court Fiddlers and Numbers by Miss Merrel Strong, Arthur Davis and William L. Donnell to Feature Program

Wichita Falls will be offered another evening of impressive music Tuesday night at the Junior college auditorium at 8:15 o'clock when violin pupils of Eithel Allen Nelson, teacher here for the past 12 years, will appear in recital.

Recitals given by the Nelson studio during the past several years have educated the public to anticipate performances of interest and musical brilliance. Compositions chosen for presentation invariably have comprised programs of variety and popular appeal, and students of Mr. Nelson have reflected a conspicuous degree of stage command.

Violin art of unusual finish is assured in the closing numbers announced for Tuesday night. William L. Donnell, winner of district competition here in a contest sponsored by the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, will conclude the recital with two numbers of concert classification. Mr. Donnell will be preceded by Miss Merrel Strong, whose artistry has matured remarkably during the past year. Just before Miss Strong's number, the finale of a Mendelssohn concerto will be played by Arthur Davis, whose work has featured Mr. Nelson's recitals for the past three years.

Earlier portions of the program also include performances by youthful artists whose playing in earlier appearances have established their popularity with local audiences. A number of out-of-town pupils will appear in the recital. These include Miss Josephine Killough, Vernon; Harold Knox, Temple, Okla.; Miss Edna Earle Williamson, Olney; Jimmie Curtis, Frederick, Okla., and Earl Frost Read, Nocona.

As in the past few years, Tuesday night's recital will be opened with a group of two numbers by the Louis XIV Court Fiddlers, a junior ensemble of 24 members. This organization has been active for three years and has earned a state-wide reputation for its effective musicianship.

Accompanists for the recital will be Mrs. Lucille Brooks Huff, Mrs. W. L. Underwood, Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, and Miss Fannie Noah of Olney; Miss Gwendolyn Voelcker, Miss Arline Murph, Miss Ellen Newby, and Mrs. J. R. Gossett of Temple, Okla.

The public is invited to attend the recital.

RITES TODAY FOR MRS. COX

Services at Henrietta For Pioneer Woman

Funeral services for Mrs. G. N. Cox, 61, will be held from the First Christian church at Henrietta at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with the Rev. C. A. Spragins officiating. Rev. Mr. Spragins is presiding elder of the Wichita Falls district of the Methodist church. Burial will be in the Henrietta cemetery in charge of the Merkle Undertaking company.

Mrs. Cox, a pioneer Texan, died at 1 o'clock Monday morning after a short illness at her home, 1604 Travis.

Survivors are the husband; a son, M. N. Cox of this city; and a sister, Mrs. J. T. Huffman of Austin.

Active pallbearers will be John O'Neil, Cecil Allison, Coyle Francis, Raymond Windham, Josh Corsey, Norman Rosser, Clyde Nichols, Wesley Thompson, Mike Smith, Ben McClary, Marvin Robertson and J. R. Hinds.

Honorary pallbearers will be C. A. Spragins Jr., J. W. McCormack, Fred Pryor, R. H. Waggoner, J. Paul Montgomery, Dr. C. W. Castner, Dr. Everett Jones, C. D. Whitley, O. R. Carter, Al Parker, Henry Ford, J. F. Todd and Mr. Pitts.

S. B. WILLIAMS

Funeral services for S. B. Williams, 63, of Gainesville, were held in that city Monday. Mr. Williams died at a local hospital Sunday morning and the body was forwarded by the Hines mortuary. Survivors are a brother, J. M. Williams of Henrietta, and the widow.

Bill to Bar Communist Immigrants Approved

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—The Dies bill for exclusion and expulsion of alien Communists was passed today by the house and sent to the senate.

Representative Dies, Democrat, Texas, author of the measure, explained that Communists under the bill include all who advocate overthrow of government by force and violence, assaulting of government officials, destruction of property, sabotage and setting up of a system based on common ownership of property.

Grand Jury Instructed To Probe State Offices

AUSTIN, June 6. (AP)—Judge J. D. Moore of the 98th district court of Travis county today charged his grand jury to confine its investigation to matters presented with reference to alleged irregularities of state officials and former officers.

It was indicated that evidence of claimed fee law irregularities collected by a Texas senate investigating committee would be presented to the jury.

SWIM CLASSES START MONDAY

Free Instrutcion Offered At Pool Here

The free swimming classes at Westmoreland pool will start next Monday, according to announcement by Tom Beaty, chief instructor.

Lessons will be given from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. on Mondays and Thursdays. The lessons will be free but the customary charges for admission to the pool will prevail.

Last year about 300 women and children availed themselves of the opportunity to learn to swim, and the pool management expects a big attendance this year.

Life-saving classes will also be held at Westmoreland, from 5 to 6 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Those who successfully complete the work in these classes will receive Red Cross certificates.

Truck Owners Warned Of Court Decision

Operators of motor trucks who formerly have obtained temporary restraining injunctions to protect their continued operation in defiance of the new motor truck law became subject to arrest and prosecution on Monday, according to information received by Paul Denton, state highway department inspector, from L. G. Phares, chief of the state highway patrol.

Following the supreme court's recent decision upholding the constitutionality of the motor truck law, injunctions formerly issued by various courts to operators are being dissolved as rapidly as possible, the letter stated. A list of about 150 truck operators whose injunctions already have been nullified was forwarded to Mr. Denton.

Transportation of truck loads of more than 7,000 pounds on public highways will be forbidden along with the enforcement of regulations relative to the length and width of trucks, it was said.

C-C DIRECTORS

A regular meeting of the directors of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce will be held at the offices of the organization Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock, President Albert E. Kelly said Monday.

Hearing on Taxi Suit Set June 10

Judge William H. Atwell of the federal district court will hold a meeting at Lubbock June 10 on a petition filed by J. C. Hampton, proprietor of Hamp's 10-Cent Taxi company here, asking that the city of Wichita Falls be restrained from enforcing its ordinance which prescribes a 25-cent minimum per passenger fare for taxi service.

The petition was prepared by Smoot & Smoot, and John Davenport, all local attorneys. It charges that the city's ordinance is confiscatory of property and discriminatory between business groups. A temporary order forbidding enforcement, and a permanent injunction making the ordinance null and void, is asked by the plaintiff.

A similar petition was filed recently before Judge Atwell at Dallas, but was overruled on the grounds that the amount involved within jurisdiction of the federal was not sufficient to bring the case court. The new petition alleges that more than $10,000 is involved, setting forth estimated annual incomes for the eight drivers concerned and the investment reported by the plaintiff.

School Leaders Attend State Board Meeting

Problems of the Wichita Falls public school system in meeting financial requirements of current bond issues were presented before the state board of education Monday at Austin by representatives of the local board, Superintendent H. D. Fillers, President C. H. Clark and Secretary W. W. Brown left by automobile Sunday for Austin. The group plans to return here late Tuesday.

Food for Thought

Does Wichita Falls need a dependable transportation company which will give regular schedule service?

If you think so, help the home boys by riding street cars and buses.

All money spent for riding remains in Wichita Falls.
