THREE OFFICIALS KILLED IN MEXICAN REVOLT

Temperature Records For Season Broken As Texas And Oklahoma Sizzle

MERCURY HERE CLIMBS TO 106 DEGREES

Childress Proves Hottest Town in Section With 110 Mark

HEAT HELPS COTTON

Altus Reports Temperature Of 109 to Lead In Oklahoma

Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma sizzled under a blazing sun which sent the mercury skyrocketing to the highest point of the season Wednesday. Wichita Falls baked along with her sister cities, the thermometer climbing to 106 degrees here in mid-afternoon. Childress carried off the questionable honors, however, when her official indicators pointed to 110½ degrees, despite the cooling effects of a light shower late Tuesday.

Night Brings Relief

The light breeze which swept the section was a shade too warm to be enthusiastically received through the day, but sunset brought overcast skies and a welcome drop in temperatures.

Farmers over the section still found the heavy rains of two weeks ago adequate for the present needs of crops and cotton was definitely helped by the sweltering sun, but the foresighted admitted that a few thundershowers within the next few days would be welcomed.

In Wichita Falls the mercury was six points above the previous high point of the year. Twice, on April 1 and June 24, Tuesday, thermometers reached the century mark, but summer settled down in deadly earnest Wednesday and the heat got within two points of last's year's record for the season.

General Heat Wave

The heat wave was general over the section. Altus was a runner-up on Childress with 109 degrees registered; Seymour tied with Wichita Falls at 106. Frederick reported 104½ degrees; Graham 104; Clarendon 103; Lawton 102; and Floydada 101, all record breaking for the year.

HOOVER TO AXE VETERANS BILL

House Sends Disputed Measure to White House

WASHINGTON, June 25. (US)—President Hoover will veto the world war veterans pension bill and send it back to congress before noon tomorrow.

"The house will sustain the veto," Speaker Longworth declared as one of the dramatic climaxes of the session was being planned.

Tonight the pension bill, as passed by the senate and concurred to by the house today, was before the president. He was preparing a veto message in vigorous language.

Longworth told the house that the president would veto the measure. After declaring the house would this time sustain the president, preparation was made for swift passage of a substitute bill, the Johnson-Swick measure.

Under a gag rule adopted debate on the substitute will be limited to a total of 40 minutes. Thus the house expects to have the substitute passed tomorrow afternoon. In the senate, however, the outlook for veterans legislation was not so clear cut.

The senate probably will override the president's veto of the $102,000,000 measure. But if the house sustains the veto, the senate finance committee probably will report out a bill along the lines of the Connally-Walsh measure which would fix $60 instead of $40 per month for total disability and begin disability payments of $10 instead of $25 per month. It would run up $200,000,000 a year.

STATE BUILDS CASE AGAINST E. S. HEMBREE

Succession of Witnesses Weaves Web of Circumstantial Testimony

DEFENSE DEFEATED

Two Attempts to Secure Mistrial in Attack Case Fail

Special to The Record News

DUNCAN, Okla., June 25.—A web of circumstantial evidence was woven closer about E. S. Hembree, pardoned murderer accused of attacking Leota Bosley, Loco teacher, as state witnesses followed each other to the witness stand in rapid succession Wednesday afternoon.

Defense attorneys lost two attempts to declare a mistrial at a dramatic session Wednesday morning. A spectator applauded when Chad Thurman, Miss Bosley's escort on the night of the alleged attack, positively identified Hembree as one of the attackers.

Object to Testimony

James Mathers, defense attorney, asked a mistrial. The defense also objected to testimony by County Attorney S. H. Singleton because his name was not endorsed on the complaint. Singleton identified a bullet taken from Miss Bosley's chest.

The state was near the end of its case when court recessed for the night. Singleton hopes to rest early Thursday morning.

The state contends the trail of a car wrecked near the scene of the attack led to the Hembree home.

Elmer Clay, farmer living near the scene of the attack, testified Hembree and his brother, A. Y., also charged with assault, visited his home March 9 and left about 10 p. m. The alleged attack occurred about 10:30 p. m.

Hears Car

Clay said he heard an automobile turn around in his yard before the Hembree brothers left. Miss Bosley and Thurman previously had testified they turned around in a farm yard shortly before the car bearing the attackers overtook them.

Edgar Poe, Loco, a member of the posse which trailed the attackers, described the appearance of automobile tracks on the scene of the attack. Tires taken from the car found at the Hembree home were later introduced in evidence by Deputy Sheriff Jim Brown. Poe also described the scene where a car had been wrecked near the attack scene and identified pieces of a windshield found on the spot. Brown later introduced a broken windshield taken from the Hembree car.

Superintendent Testifies

Ashley Sills, Loco school superintendent, testified he had been present at the county attorney's office when Hembree admitted the broken pieces of windshield were from his auto.

E. L. Conn, filling station owner living northeast of Duncan, testified he sold Hembree gasoline about 2 a. m., May 10. A half dozen other witnesses were used to corroborate other testimony and to cover minor details in the case. The sultry courtroom was packed throughout the day.

Fangs will not be extracted from the snakes' mouths. Instead, promoters have promised a physician will be in attendance to give immediate attention to any "contestant inadvertantly bitten."

MAJORS ASKED TO JOIN CUT

Cranfill Outlines Program Of Independents Here

Hope of obtaining early and material improvement in the crude oil market through gaining the cooperation of major companies in curtailing the supply was expressed by Tom Cranfill of Dallas, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of Texas, at the Wichita club Wednesday afternoon as that organization and the North Texas Oil & Gas association joined hands in a campaign to relieve Texas independent producers of some of their recent marketing difficulties.

60 Members Enrolled

Mr. Cranfill came to Wichita Falls immediately after a visit to Houston to confer with W. S. Farish, Humble Oil and Refining company president.

He quoted Mr. Farish as promising to confer with New York officials of the Standard Oil company this week relative to the attitude and proposals of the Texas independent producers with a view to obtaining a reduction of that concern's inportations of gasoline and crude oil. At the conclusion of the meeting, which was attended by about 125 local oil men, approximately $1,500 in membership fees, representing more than 60 members, was subscribed to the Independent Petroleum association of Texas for continued state and national activity.

In order to provide local machinery for the cooperation of the state association with the North Texas Oil & Gas associaiton, made up of independent producers in the Wichita Falls area, a committee consisting of J. A. McCarty, Ernest Fain, Walter Campbell, Chester Wynne, and Roy Riner was appointed by Clifford Mooers, chairman, and approved by the membership present. The committee will serve in an advisory capacity, "to report and advise state officers on curtailment of drilling operations, so that development may be kept within bounds, and production handled in accordance with the general proration sentiment of the country."

The North Texas Oil & Gas association will appoint a like committee, it was said, the two bodies to meet jointly to give consideraton to developments concerning the production of crude oil in this area.

OCEAN FLIERS TELL STORY OF DARING TRIP

Kingsford-Smith and Three Companions Recount Battle in Fogs

ATLANTIC IS 'WORST'

Australian Adventurer of Air to Proceed to New York at Once

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, June 26. (US)—(Thursday)—Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three transatlantic flying companions were preparing early this morning to take off for New York in the Southern Cross.

If all goes well, the ship will arrive in New York about noon today. The ship was refueled with 400 gallons of gasoline and 12 gallons of oil yesterday for the flight.

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., June 25. (US)—Refreshed by more than seven hours sleep, Maj. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his flying companions this afternoon told the story of their flight across the fog-bound North Atlantic in the Southern Cross. Major Kingsford-Smith said:

"The flight was the most tempestuous of my career. It was a hard trip. Most of the time we relied on our instruments to determine our position, so dense was the fog.

"Had it not been for our wireless outfit and the good work of Stannage (the ship's radio operator) the flight probably would not have been so successful. Particularly was this true during the last 500 miles when our compass failed to function and we had to 'fly blind.' Through the radio we determined our position and were invited to land here, which we gladly accepted.

Atlantic Is Worst

"I have flown over every other ocean and thought I had encountered the worst in storms, but the North Atlantic beats them all. It was a hard trip from the start."

The flying major said that he had originally planned to land at Roosevelt or one of the many other fields in the vicinity of New York and believed he would have accomplished it had the compass not failed. He was emphatic in crediting the success of the flight to the use of the ship's wireless outfit.

Capt. J. Patrick Saul, navigator of the ship, said the trip was the most trying and hazardous of his career, adding:

"I never want to stay in the air for 31 hours again and not be able to see the ocean below or the sky above. The visibility was bad from the start and when our compass failed we flew blindly for hours.

Completely Lost

"Between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning we were completely lost and things took on a more serious aspect. If we had not had the radio—well, it probably would have been just another famous case of too bad."

Captain Saul said that shortly after daybreak land was sighted which the flyers presumed to be in the vicinity of Harbor Grace. He said when they sighted the shipping wharves and the waiting crowd at the airport they circled the field and landed.

When the Southern Cross, conquerer of the Pacific and Atlantic, was set down at the airport here, an inspection showed there was

PRYOR WINS ANOTHER TRIAL

State May Ask Rehearing On Reversal

Sam B. Spence, district attorney, Wednesday sent a request to the court of criminal appeals at Austin asking that an opinion be sent here on the court's holdings in reversing and remanding the eight-year sentence imposed upon Ed Pryor, former Electra constable, by a jury which found him guilty of robbery after trial in district court here several months ago.

Mr. Spence said his department would go through the opinion to determine whether there existed grounds to justify the filing of a motion for a rehearing of the case before the higher court.

Pryor Under Bond

In the event grounds for such action are not found in the opinion, he said, immediate steps will be taken to remand the case to trial and return Pryor here for what will be his fourth trial in district court. In the event grounds for the motion are found and the rehearing granted, Pryor will then have 10 days in which to file a motion for a rehearing on his own behalf, Mr. Spence explained.

The opinion handed down by the higher court Wednesday held that the state relied upon accomplice testimony in securing Pryor's conviction and that the trial court committed reversable error in failing to grant a continuance asked by Pryor because of the illness of his wife. Mrs. Pryor was described as the principal witness in support of the accused man's alibi that he

Goodspeed Counsel Undecided On Appealing 5-Year Murder Term

Special to The Record News

HENRIETTA, Texas, June 25.—Attorneys for Carl Goodspeed were uncertain Wednesday night as to whether they would enter an appeal from the five-year sentence assessed against him Wednesday morning for the murder of A. R. Gooch, Nocona city marshal. A motion for a new trial must be filed in the 97th district court here some time Thursday unless the defendant is prepared to accept the verdict as read at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The case, which had been on trial for nine days, reached the jury shortly before 10 o'clock Tuesday night. Twelve hours later the jurors returned their verdict.

The second trial sliced 15 years off the punishment assessed in Goodspeed's first hearing, later reversed by the court of criminal appeals. The Nocona officer was shot to death when he attempted a search for liquor in the Goodspeed home in Nocona in 1929. Goodspeed pleaded self-defense.

MAJORS' IMPORTS FLOODING CRUDE MARKET, SAYS CRANFILL

INDEPENDENTS PLAN FIGHT

Public Opinion Back of Oil Men, Says Speaker

As discussed in Wednesday afternoon's meeting, the two committees will serve as a medium through which the local and state associations can be directed in serving the best interests of independent producers.

Economic "Squeeze"

"The oil producing industry is sick; very sick," said Mr. Cranfill, in opening his address, "with a variety of diseases. We are in the midst of an economic squeeze, commonly called hard times, and that is a large part of our trouble. Not all of it, however, for while we have struggled desperately, many of us, in 1929 for enough to pay the boys off regularly, the big companies continued to make money. One big company admits openly to a profit of $33,000,000 in Texas alone."

Curtailment of production by independent producers has been sought for many years by the larger oil concerns, the speaker said, through extensive distribution of propaganda designed to show the country on the verge of exhausting its oil reserves. This program has been followed over a long period, he emphasized, with the result that independents accepted the caution urged upon them without much thought as to the reasons for it.

"There is no danger which we can discern of our running out of oil within the next century or more," he continued. "Your area, here in Wichita and surrounding counties, will yield many times more oil in the future than it has thus far.

"I believe the big oil companies have done this for the purpose of creating an opening for cheaper crude from foreign countries." Mr. Cranfill declared. "While independents have curtailed, importations have increased appallingly. Up to the present time, this year will show an increase of 217 per cent over the importations of last year."

Realizing that curtailment was not general throughout the industry, the speaker said, independent producers staged the first general uprising in January of this year when a cut in prices was posted. The conference at Tulsa which was held soon afterward marked the beginning of a concerted effort toward protection of independents, he said. Referring to the defeat of the proposed oil tariff legislation, Mr. Cranfill said:

"We were told that our exports must be protected. Accurate figures show that the United States produces 68 per cent of the world's supply of oil, and consumes approximately the same amount. Any overproduction, therefore is represented by importations. Our best export market is Canada and the Orient—and importations of oil are not from those countries. According to Wirt Franklin, who led our fight at Washington, a bill providing a tariff on oil will be passed by congress the next time the independent oil men send their representatives there to demand it, because public sentiment will support them."

Tariff Likely

Mr. Cranfill said that there was a tacit understanding, when the recent tariff bill was passed, that in a future session of congress "tariff would be fixed on any product which could demonstrably be placed on the market here from foreign territory more cheaply than from domestic production." He added that the state association is now preparing to demonstrate that fact with reference to crude oil.

"I do not expect a tariff on crude within the next few months," the speaker said, "but you have observed that the American people will give you what you have a right to have, if you get the information properly before them. That is what we are doing."

Efforts of the Independent Petroleum Association of Texas are now being devoted to acquainting the major companies with the problems and purposes of independents, Mr. Cranfill pointed out, and to obtaining the agreement of such concerns to prorate their own production at least as much as the independent is prorating. The position of the independent is being put to the major company, he said, in the following proposition:

"If we prorate our production in Texas, we shall demand in return that you curtail your importations of gasoline and crude oil in the same proportion."

"My conviction is that the big companies are now inclined to meet the spirit of that request," Mr. Cranfill continued. "Our association at this time stands between an element which seems to want trouble in the state, and the big company which does not want any trouble here. Public sentiment is at such a state that I doubt that it can be appeased. The psychology of the people of Texas is fundamentally opposed to being run over on any cause, and leaders of Texas industries realize it. Our association is for peace. We want every legitimate business to make a fair profit; but we want for the producer of crude oil a fair part of the money for which it sells to the public. There must be some method devised for obtaining such a return."

Four Big Importers

Importations of crude and gasoline have been made by four companies, the Standard Oil companies of Indiana and New Jersey, the Gulf, and the Shell, according to Mr. Cranfill. Conferences with officials of those concerns are now being held, he added, with the hope of obtaining by mutual agreement material correction in conditions which now constitute serious handicaps upon the independent producers.

Following Mr. Cranfill's address, Charles Morgan of Fort Worth, secretary of the Independent Petroleum Association of Texas spoke briefly, outlining the general policies of the association, and declaring that the united front now presented by independent producers in this state will in all probability obtain alleviation of their grievances. Both speakers were introduced by Mr. Mooers. Roy B. Jones also spoke on behalf of the state association, and declared that "no independent producer can afford to withhold his membership and support from this organization."

fuel enough in its tanks for only four hours more of flying.

Although the men flew for 24 hours blind across the Atlantic, the flight did not court danger until they entered the fog-shrouded Newfoundland banks, the graveyard of many planes, and their compass failed to operate.

One Thing to Do

Some of them today expressed the belief they had been well inland over Canada at one time. With the fuel supply almost exhausted there was only one thing to do and they did it.

With Major Kingsford-Smith and Captain Saul on the flight were John W. Stannage, Taido man, and Kingsford-Smith's only other Australian complatriot aboard, who was lauded for his work in receiving and transmitting the many radio messages; and Evert Van Dyk, co-pilot of the Southern Cross.

Major Kingsford-Smith and his three companions will fly the Southern Cross to New York tomorrow, which will complete their 3,365 mile hop from Port Marnock, Ireland.

The four intrepid aviators dropped out of the misty sky here at 8:26 a. m. today (6:56 a. m., E. D. T.), 31 hours and 31 minutes after they had taken off from Port Marnock, having flown a distance of 2,150 miles over the stormy North Atlantic.

The flight was accomplished at an average speed of 80 miles an hour, although the plane at times developed a ground speed of approximately 100 miles an hour.

The flight was the first to be made from east-to-west over the Atlantic with the plane landing on a regular airport.

The Bremen flyers, Col. James Fitzmaurice, Baron Huenefeld and Capt. Herman Koehl, although the first to fly the Atlantic from east-to-west in 1928, were forced to land on lonely Greenly Isle near Labrador, a far cry from the airfields of civilization. Like the Bremen, the Southern Cross was far short of its New York goal.

The Seattle ice hockey team of the Pacific Coast league has obtained "Red" Stuart, Minneapolis center, for next season's play. Stuart was one of the leading scorers of the American association.

Court Reverses Pryor Sentence

was at her bedside at the time of the alleged offenses.

Attorneys for Pryor were Shields Heyser and T. A. Hicks, Wichita Falls lawyers. The accused man is at present farming near Kirkland, Texas, having been at liberty under bond since his application for a new trial was denied in district court here, the attorneys said.

Pryor has already faced juries here three times on charges growing out of burglaries or robberies in which he is alleged to have taken part with Tom Shook, former Electra chief of police now in the penitentiary under sentences aggregating 35 years, and Henry Shumate, who turned state's evidence in both the Shook and Pryor trials.

Defense Upheld

Pryor's first trial resulted in acquittal on a charge of burglary growing out of the alleged disappearance of property from a news stand at Electra. His second trial, on a charge of robbery in connection with Shumate's alleged holdup of the Jefferson hotel at Electra, was halted just as testimony was about to begin when word was brought to the courtroom that Mrs. Pryor was forced to undergo an emergency operation. The defense had entered a motion for a continuance before questioning of prospective jurors began because of Mrs. Pryor's illness, their plea having been denied.

The acused man again went to trial about a month later after another defense motion for continuance because of Mrs. Pryor's condition had been refused. Attorneys for Pryor contended she was the principal witness in establishing the accused man's abili and claimed she had not recovered sufficiently to appear in court. It was at the close of this trial that Pryor was found guilty and sentenced to eight years.

Shumate, according to the specific allegations of the prosecution, was the actual perpetrator of the burglaries and robberies, but he had committed the offenses with the knowledge and protection of Shook and Pryor, as police chief and constable.

Shook was also convicted and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary on a charge growing out of the Jefferson hotel holdup. His conviction was recently affirmed by the higher court and he was removed to the penitentiary last week. He is also under a sentence of 30 years for murder in connection with a slaying which took place several months after the alleged robbery, but an appeal is now pending on this conviction.

Both Pryor and Shook were arrested for investigation in the robberies when Shumate, who had been arrested and had escaped jail, was discovered at the Pryor home sharing a bed with the constable. The two former officers contended the charges were concocted as part of a frameup to cause their political destruction. Pryor was then a candidate for re-election as constable and Shook had been ousted from the office of police chief following dissention in the police department only a short time before.

Love spoke at San Angelo tonight where he attacked the present system of road bonds.

Police Seek Attic Moonshiner After Blaze Reveals Whisky Plant

A well-camouflaged whisky still which had evidently been in operation here for a great length of time, capable of producing 50 gallons of "aged" whisky each 24 hours, was uncovered by chance at a residence on Seventh street Wednesday morning when firemen were called to extinguish flames which had broken out in the attic of the house, where the still was in operation, according to the report of F. E. Summers, city detective and one of the officers detailed to investigate the case.

Police Officers J. H. Pogue and Earl Brooks were called to the house after the still was discovered. They said the plant was in operation at the time they arrived. A man said to have been the occupant of the house and the operator of the still was reported to have been at home when the fire broke out but the officers were told he had left before they arrived. The man had not been located late Wednesday night.

The officers seized the copper still, 220 gallons of whisky mash, 40 gallons of whisky in kegs, 56 pints of beer, 35 gallons of beer mash, large amounts of sugar and other commodities used in the preparation of the liquor and various pieces of apparatus, they reported.

LAREDO, Texas, June 25. (UP)—Robert Kelsay, border patrol officer, was shot and critically wounded early today by three smugglers on the Texas side of the Rio Grande.

The men ambushed Kelsay and fired upon him at close range, the bullet passing through his stomach. He returned the fire, wounding one of the attackers, he reported.

DENTON, Texas, June 25. (AP)—Robert W. Kelsay, critically wounded by rum runners at Laredo today, was well-known in this section as a baseball and football player. He played football and baseball with the Denton High school teams and later the Denton Teachers' college. He was rated as one of the best half-backs either school ever had. After leaving school, he played semi-professional baseball for a time.

Kelsay's wounding was the second tragedy in the family in six months, his brother, E. E. Kelsay, and wife, having been found shot to death at Eastland last Dec. 6.

His father, B. F. Kelsay, and brother, Fred Kelsay, left for Laredo today.

Bandits Torture Banker and Wife in Home Seeking Combination to Safe

OXFORD, Iowa, June 25. (AP)—Bandits bound and tortured Fred Rap, president of the Farmers' Savings bank and his wife in their home in an unsuccessful attempt last night to obtain the combination to the bank's safe.

The arrival of James Sherlock, a nephew attracted by the screams of Mrs. Rapp, caused the bandits to flee.

It was the third attempt in less than 12 hours gangs had made to rob Iowa banks. In robberies yesterday, approximately $11,000 was obtained from the Union Bank and Trust company at Strawberry Point and $1,200 from the State Bank at Calumet.

President Rapp said he had been awakened by two masked men who tied him and Mrs. Rapp with wire and ordered him to divulge the combination of the safe.

They did not believe his assertion the safe had a time lock. Rapp said, and started to dress him for a trip to the bank. Then Sherlock arrived and the men fled.

Compulsory Army Training Illegal

WASHINGTON, June 25. (AP)—Attorney General Mitchell sustained the interior department today in ruling that students at land grant colleges can not be required to take military training.

Secretary Wilbur had held the University of Wisconsin lawfully could place military training on an optional basis. The Mitchell opinion said land grant colleges and other institutions affected by the Morrill act and similar laws comply sufficiently with the law when they make military courses available.

Land grant colleges are those who receive revenue from land set aside by the federal government in each state to aid agricultural and mechanical education. In general, they have considered military training to be required. In 1923, however, the University of Wisconsin, under authorization of the state legislature, placed military tactics on an optional basis.

Farm Board Plans No Emergency Action

WASHINGTON, June 25. (UP)—The federal farm board plans no emergency measure at this time to stabilize the wheat market, it was indicated at headquarters here today.

Chairman Alexander Legge declined to discuss the telegram of Gov. Clyde Reed of Kansas, which he received today, urging the board to buy 25,000,000 bushels of wheat and withhold them from the market.

It was pointed out that most wheat is now out of the hands of farmers, and that the board would not consider any emergency measures until the new crop.

New York Elite Face Trial After Dry Raids

NEW YORK, June 25. (INS)—Nineteen persons who were arrested in two spectacular prohibition raids—one on the Central Park casino, the other at the Ritz Carlton hotel—were arrigned today before United States Commissioner Cotton on charges of possessing liquor. All were released on bail for hearings July 9.

Nine wealthy and socially prominent persons were among those arraigned. The others were waiters and executives. Some of them claimed they were "manhandled" during the raids on the fashionable casino and the hotel roof garden.

COMPROMISE

Senators Agree to Let Those Who Care to Use Dials

WASHINGTON, June 25. (AP)—Dial telephones for those senators who want them and no dials for those who don't was agreed upon today in the senate as a compromise of its novel controversy.

Senator Glass, who sponsored the resolution adopted a month ago ordering the newly installed dials out of the senate wing of the capitol, reiterated his objections to "this nuisance" but did not object to those senators who wanted the new phones having them.

Senator Swanson, his fellow Virginian, introduced the resolution which was adopted today by the senate authorizing the re-installation of dial telephones for those who so desired.

NEW NATIONAL HOOKUP SEEN

WOR May Be Key Station Of System

NEWARK, N. J., June 25. (AP)—Possibility of a new national radio network, with WOR of Newark as the key station, was forecast today in an announcement by Alfred L. McCosker, director, that WOR has applied to the federal radio commission for an increase in power from 5,000 to 50,000 watts.

"Many suggestions and propositions are being made to WOR for it to serve as the key station of another national network," McCosker said. "The higher power applied for, if granted, will better enable WOR to serve in this capacity, on a par with other key stations of national networks."

McCosker said he was unable to disclose from whom the proposition had come or how far negotiations had proceeded.

WOR's present transmitter, at Kearney, N. J., has a maximum output of approximately 6,500 watts, but is held to 5,000 watts in compliance with the specifications in the metropolitan area. The station has been on the air eight years.

The station is owned by the Bamberger Broadcasting Service, Inc., a subsidiary of L. Bamberger & Co., Newark department store.

Emotional Disturbance Can Disrupt Stomach

DETROIT, June 25. (UP)—A mental or emotional shock is at times so severe as to cause the same response in the gastro-intestinal tract as does shock from other causes, with the probable result that such disturbances result in ulcers of the stomach, Dr. George A. Moleen, Denver, said at today's meeting of the American Medical association.

$1,500,000 FIRE RUINS PLANES

Chicago Airport Swept by Disastrous Blaze

CHICAGO, June 25. (INS)—Friction set up by the draining of a gasoline tank is blamed by authorities for a fire at the municipal airport here early today in which 35 planes and three hangars were destroyed at an estimated damage of $1,500,000.

Hangars of the Universal and Stout lines were burned. The destroyed planes included five tri-motored Fokkers, two tri-motored Fords, eight mail planes of the Universal lines and 20 privately owned planes in the Stout hangars.

Two tri-motored ships of the Stout lines and the Stanolin, official plane of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, were saved, as were two other planes owned by Stout.

A tri-motored Ford valued at $50,000, owned by the Shell Oil company, which had been placed in the Gray Goose hangar of the Stout company only a short time before the blaze, was wrecked.

Almost all the planes had been fueled, and gasoline explosions caused the flames to spread rapidly through the structures. More than a score of Universal pilots narrowly escaped from sleeping quarters next to the hangars.

After a desperate fight firemen prevented the fire from spreading to a 10,000-gallon gasoline storage tank.

Officials of Universal announced planes from other terminals were being rushed here to prevent a break in mail and passenger service out of Chicago.

Officials of Stout lines also said service would continue as usual.

Northwest Airways, with headquarters in St. Paul, suffered only light losses and reported no delay in schedules. Thompson Aeronautical corporation and Interstate Airlines both lost ships in the blaze.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 25. The king was greeted by cheers from the populace and the throngs of foreign visitors.

After a brief ceremony near the waterside the king proceeded with the queen, Prince Knud and his entourage to the Danish legation.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 25. (UP)—A prediction that approximately 250,000 Democratic ballots will be cast in Oklahoma's first primary this year was made today by Secretary John E. Luttrell of the state election board.

Luttrell based his predictions on the interest which voters are now showing in the present campaign and on the total Democratic votes cast in the state primaries in 1926 and 1922.

In 1926 when the gubernatorial candidates of Henry S. Johnston and W. M. (Bill) Darnell were the chief factors, a total of 237,580 Democratic ballots were cast.

In 1922 when Jack Walton was nominated for governor the Democratic vote totaled 269,534.

Girl's Torture Story Uncovered as Hoax

PELICAN RAPIDS, Minn., June 25. (UP)—Viola Nelson's vivid story of torture, extortion and mystery today turned out to be a hoax born of her imagination by her own admission.

After three hours of questioning last night, the 18-year-old girl confessed to Sheriff O. J. Tweeten of Otter Tail county that she had inflicted wounds on herself with a pen knife so that she could get permission of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arne Holt, wealthy retired farmers, to go away to school.

TEACHER AND PUPIL ELOPE

Aged Instructor and Girl, 17, Held in Chicago

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., June 25. (AP)—Walter M. Wilson, 60, business school teacher and father of five children, today was under arrest in Chicago facing probable Mann act charges. With him is Sylvia Huff, 17, dark-eyed and comely student who says he was always so kind to her in the classroom, so willing to help with her lessons, that she knew he was the only man in the world for her and therefore decided to go to Chicago with him and vanish.

Here in Arkansas City sits Mrs. Wilson, weeping now and then but insisting that "though he is my husband and the father of my children, the law must take its course."

Mrs. Wilson, who says she was left with only a letter and a one dollar check two months ago, has been supported by three grown children. Her youngest is 8.

Wilson and Miss Huff were arrested yesterday in Joliet, steel mill and penitentiary city, 40 miles from Chicago. Federal operatives said they had been living in a Joliet hotel as husband and wife for three days. They were taken to Chicago.

"I do not care. I shall continue to love him," Sylvia said.

"I am sorry, but I love Sylvia," said her former teacher.

Dainty Old Styles Keynote In Courtesy To Bride-Elect

Among the final honors being shown Miss E. E. Miller as a popular bride-elect, was a lovely bridge party given by Mrs. Ray Hirschi and Miss Elizabeth Weldon Tuesday evening at the Hirschi home, entertaining members of the announcement party. The simplicity and quaint old fashioned note that is to emphasize the pretty ceremony Thursday was emphasized.

Pink and green, Miss Miller's chosen colors, were used in the decorative motif. Flowers in these colors were used in the home, and on the cool terrace where bridge was played, the pink and green covers were used on the tables. Tallies and score cards were in the same motif with pretty little old fashioned bouquets as decorations.

In the bridge games, Mrs. Gus Hecht was winner of high score and received a silhouette in a lovely filagree frame. As low score prize silhouettes of Martha and George Washington were presented to Miss Mary Crane Hartley, the guest of Miss Jeannette Moore. The hostesses presented the honoree with two lovely old fashioned shadow box pictures.

A delicious refreshment plate was served to the guests with sweet pea and rosebud corsages as favors. Guests were Miss E. E. Miller, the honoree; Misses Jeannette Moore, Mary Crane Hartley, Hermath Johnson, Mildred Miller, Mary Tancred, Ruth Moore, Jane Moore, Retta Barnard, Flora Bruce Greenwood, Mesdames John Akin, Gose Waggoner, Lloyd Taylor, Gus Hecht, Bob La Bauve, Misses Cindy Carter, Jewell Hammond, Happy Whatley, Dean Whatley, Marjorie Bright and the hostesses, Miss Weldon and Mrs. Hirschi.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

There's just one spot where from our downy couch we catch a glimpse of the Texas sky these early summer mornings, and the words "delusion and snare" come to us often as we look upon it.

That sky is a deep cool blue and the morning breezes flirt arrantly with the green leaves of the shrubs.

It's the same way when we pass the W. B. Hamilton home in the evenings. We wonder if there's another turf in the city so velvet green—so swept and garnished in appearance; we think the yardman manicures it. Evergreens and flowers always look so fresh and unwilted, as if it had never been hot there.

Yet we know that cool blue that woos us in the morning is torrid in the evening and no hot winds are polite enough to skip a well-cared for turf.

People get in a bad humor in the summer and who would blame them? We are not exempt. That man or woman who remarks with a smile "O, I like hot weather," is near to danger.

We would not for the world decry Wichita Falls and suspect all towns around us are hotter. But we stood in the broiling sun before Wichita Clinic hospital at 11:45 and had 17 cars pass and no one offered to bring us to town.

We remember a verse in an old school reader that began, "O for a bed in a garden of cucumbers," and we wonder why. As cooling salads, they are supreme, but leaning over in the torrid sun, picking the prickly vegetable, we have agreed with that person who once remarked, "All poets are slightly insane."

So many peculiar things happen in summer. People really supposed to have brains, make lists for the general public to read and include such things as "Goethals, Genius of the Panama Canal," "Edwards, the Fiery Puritan," (more suitable to the weather) and "Nero." Well, Nero is all right.

Summer calls for a cool drink, an electric fan and a nice readable novel—one we would say like Alice Duer Miller's "Green Isle."

In the last New York Times book review, there is a delightful review of a bookseller's view of bookpublishing and reading in the '90's.

"The Duchess," was one of the books mentioned. We read that book somewhere round the 1900's in a paper covered edition. We remember hiding it under our pillow whenever a parent appeared, but to this day, our memory says "The Duchess" is a jolly good book for summer reading.

It was a book at any rate, where characters were apt in repartee, which roused our admiration because we always think of the bright thing to say about day after tomorrow.

Pretty Shower Honors Burkburnett Bride-Elect

Complimenting Miss Louise Wood of Burkburnett, whose marriage to E. Truman Fletcher of Wichita Falls is announced as an event of June 26, a pretty shower was given her Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Knauth in Burkburnett.

Four lovely special musical numbers were given, then little Miss Janita Majors, dressed in a miniature wedding gown and veil appeared in the door, drawing a miniature float loaded with pretty gifts. The small gift bearer announced the day of the wedding and gave a toast as she presented the gifts.

Pope's Condition Still Is Critical

By PRINCE PIGNATELLI

VATICAN CITY, June 25. (US)—No doubt remains tonight that Pope Pius XI is not in the best of health, but at the same time, from sources so close to the vatican there is no denying their reliability, it is definitely stated that there is no cause for alarm at the present.

The pontiff has been unwell for some time, suffering not only from bladder trouble, as did the late Georges Clemenceau, but also from what was diagnosed as a malignant tumor of the prostate gland. Not long ago, Dr. George Marion, prominent Paris physician, diagnosed the pope's illness.

While it has been known for weeks that the holy father has been suffering slightly, vatican authorities were incensed at the alarmist reports which have been circulated about the pontiff's condition. There is no reason for an operation at this stage, they said.

Train 'Em Right On Honeymoon, Writes Miss Dix

"Train Up a Wife on the Honeymoon in the Way She Should Go, and When You Both Settle Down Into Real Business of Matrimony She Will Not Depart From It," Dorothy Dix Advises Young Husband.

Here are a few hints for the June bridegroom: Remember, son that everything depends upon getting away to a good start. The first three months of matrimony will establish your status in the family as either the head of the house or the doormat beyond all possibility of its ever being altered.

If you let your bride run you into debt buying furniture you cannot afford when you start to housekeeping you will be paying the installment man as long as you live. If you let her begin by feeding you out of paper bags and tin cans you will spend the balance of your days eating delicatessen food and taking dyspepsia remedies. If you let her discover that she can weep and pout her way into getting anything she wants you will put in the next 30 or 40 years trying to sidestep a woman's tantrums.

So, train up a wife on the honeymoon in the way she should go and when you both settle down into the real business of matrimony she will not depart from it. Begin by making her your real partner. Don't assume that you are making a chivalrous gesture in bearing all the burdens and assuming all of the responsibilities and doing all of the worrying and that she should never have to bother her pretty little head about any of the sordid details of life and that she should be given everything she wants, no matter whether you have the money to pay for it or not. And don't treat her as if she was just a doll to be dressed up or a toy to be played with.

Treat your wife as you would a man if you had gone into a business deal with him in which you had invested everything you had on earth. Talk over the money end of the proposition with her and make her see that the success of the concern depends just as much on her thrift as it does on what you earn. Show her how to budget her allowance. Teach her how to get the most out of the money she spends.

Don't put up with bad housekeeping. Any woman who can read can learn how to cook. Make your wife realize that you consider her as lazy and incompetent if she lies down on her end of the job, as she would think you if you quit on yours, and that it is just as much her part to make a comfortable home as it is yours to furnish the raw material for making the home. And don't stand for nagging. Any man who eat poisonous food and gets up and gets his own breakfast while an ablebodied wife lies abed and snoozes until noon and who is so henpecked he dare nto call his soul his own has only himself to blame for it.

Develop your wife into being a companion to you. Cultivate chumminess with her. Think of marriage as an investment you make for the long pull and on which you want to be collecting dividends in your old age. The reason so many middleaged couples are estranged is because they have never deliberately developed any mutual interest, and so when the flare of youth and passion is gone they have nothing in common and bore each other to tears.

Don't make that mistake. From the very day you are married make your wife share your ambitions and your amusement. Talk over your business with her. Talk over your plans with her. Get her to read the books you are reading and play the games you are playing. Make her feel that she has to keep up with you. You can do this if she isn't an utter fool.

And take an interest in her interests. Discuss her domestic problems with her. Encourage her club activities. Advise with her about her clothes. Don't just sit up behind a paper and grunt when she tries to tell you what she is thinking. If you are more intelligent than she is; if you are better educated; if you have a wider knowledge of the world, drag her up to your level.

Don't be one of the couples who really part company at the cradle of the first baby, the husband going into a world of business, of far-flung plans, of ambitions, of contacts that sharpen his wits and polish his manners and broaden his interests, while the wife goes into the kitchen and nursery and gets duller and stupider and narrower every day. Why, there are plenty of husbands and wives, living side by side, who are in reality so far apart that they art not in telephoning distance of each other. And the calamity is of their own making, because they never made an effort to keep together.

See that your wife has plenty to do, plenty of good, hard, interesting, constructive work that will keep her busy and occupied and healthy and happy. Most men's ideal of being a good husband is to provide their wives with so many servants that they will have nothing to do but to get into mischief. Idleness is a woman's greatest curse. It gives her too much time to think about herself and her health and her emotions. It is the rich women with nothing to do who fill the sanatoriums and the divorce courts.

Do something to make your wife happy and glad she married you. Don't act as if just being married to you was all the joy any woman could possibly want and that she must be thrilled to death cooking and cleaning and baby-tending for you and watching you sit up and snooze over the evening paper. Housework is dull and monotonous. Taking care of children is the most nerve-wearing occupation on earth. Break the strain by taking her out in the evenings as often as you can and giving her little treats and making her realize that her happiness means something to you.

Be just to your wife. Be generous. Encourage her to go about and have as many interests as she can. Make it part of your daily dozen to pay her a compliment and you will keep her on her knees thanking heaven that she got you for a husband instead of wondering what ever made her marry you.

Mrs. James Bowen Entertains With Original Party

A delightful affair of Tuesday morning was an 11 o'clock breakfast given by Mrs. James P. Bowen closing the season of a winter bridge club.

A color scheme of green and white was observed with honeysuckle trailing the length of Mrs. Bowen's long, handsome table.

Following breakfast, bridge boxes were made, a game the guests voted much cooler and more pleasant than bridge. Mrs. Bowen had ready redwood boxes that are used inside imported cigar boxes with brass hinges and locks, and these were decorated with the pretty inside of the guests' individual Christmas stationery. Each box was large enough to hold two decks of cards, tallies and score pads.

Guests were invited to attend in their painting smocks and all necessary paraphernalia except the stationary lining was waiting with Mrs. Bowen prepared to start the work on the long table spread with oilcloth.

At the close of the morning's original work, an ice course was served to Mesdames J. W. Akin Jr., Victor B. Lowery, Cloughley, Hubert Barr, Charles Watson, Robert P. Trotter, Joe B. Marlow, Ralph Peterson, James Nelson, E. C. Jordan, L. V. Abernathy, Eugene Graham, C. C. Glover, E. D. Malone and the hostess.

Lovely Bridge Is Honor For Bride-Elect Of Thursday

Shell pink and cool green of Miss E. E. Miller's chosen colors emphasized the decorative motif at the last pretty bridge party given as a pre-nuptial honor, when Miss Retta Barnard entertained Wednesday afternoon with a quaint party suggesting the quiet and lovely marriage that will take place Thursday. Only relatives and the bride-elect's young friends, will participate in the event.

Tallies were old fashioned corsages and flowers used throughout the home were shasta daisies and pink roses in fresh, natural beauty.

The pink and green colors were even carried out in the refreshments of pink and green mints and olives, with angel roll filled with pink and ginger ale iced tea poured over a ball of green sherbet. ROTARY HEARS PEACE SPEECH

Sir Henry Thornton Talks At Convention

CHICAGO, June 25. (INS)—The day of unscrupulous diplomacy is drawing to a close and the practical, peace-loving business man is becoming the arbiter of world affairs, Sir Henry Worth Thornton, K. B. E., chairman and president of the Canadian National railways, told his brother Rotarians at the silver jubilee convention here today.

Delegates jammed into the Chicago stadium to hear the former Hoosier's address, which struck a prevailing note—that of world peace—running through the international meeting here.

"It is only since the disaster of the last great war that there has dawned in the mind of man the conviction that war is the only game is which both sides eventually lose," Sir Henry declared.

"Peace amongst nations will only appear when a majority in which each nation is inspired by reason to strive for such an objective."

Speaking before an audience composed largely of business men including Rotarians from every corner of the earth, the famous Canadian said that the captains of industry have replaced the marshals of armies.

Today, he declared, mass production has caused a struggle for greater markets, and in this competition lies the real menace to world peace. He appealed to the business men to fight against war.

[COOKING SCHOOL NOTE]

In the cooking school conducted under the auspices of the Times-Record News, Mrs. Frances Northcross stressed modern methods of cooking. Naturally, then, she uses and recommends Crisco, the modern shortening.

Date Sticks

good for youngsters

(Mixing time: 10 minutes)

One mother I know realizes that her children need sweets. So she provides home-made confections like these Date Sticks. Made after this tested Crisco recipe, they satisfy the craving for sweets in a wholesome way. As nearly as possible all of the fuss and bother have been kitchen-tested out of Crisco recipes and a satisfaction added—the satisfaction of using a modern shortening which lends its own fresh flavor to the foods made with it.

¾ cup Crisco	3 cups flour
1½ cups sugar	1 teaspoon salt
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk	1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda	1 cup chopped nut meats
	1 cup cut dates

powdered sugar

Mix Crisco and sugar well. Add sour milk which has been mixed with soda. Then add flour which has been sifted with salt and baking powder, and fold in nuts and dates. Pour into shallow Criscoed pan and bake 20 minutes in moderate (350° F.) oven. Cut into narrow slices while still warm and roll in powdered sugar. These cookies will take the place of less wholesome sweets for the children.

Fluffy? Yes, Crisco is now so fluffy you don't have to cream it.

Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

Tulsa Detective Shot in Effort To Trap Dealers in Stolen Bonds

TULSA, Okla., June 25. (AP)—With authorities convinced that the killing late Monday of J. Rea Owen, private detective, resulted from a trap laid by him for the capture of alleged dealers in stolen bonds, interest in the case centered today in the arrests of W. A. (Bill) Strong, Boise City, and Ray Hoss, Sand Springs.

Strong, former Oklahoma legislator, and Hoss were taken to the Kay county jail at Newkirk for questioning in connection with the robbery of the First National bank of Tonkawa last April. The two men were arrested in the hotel room to which Owen returned a few hours later to be shot down by R. B. Jones, city detective, who with A. M. Smith, another city detective, was waiting in the room for other suspects.

Earlier in the day Owen, who was under contract with the Tonkawa bank to recover bonds taken in the robbery, had obtianed $36,400 worth of the bonds and had turned them over to Ray Wycoff, cashier of the institution.

When Owen cautiously entered the hotel room, the two officers said they mistook him for one of the suspects and that Owen apparently thought they were robbers or gunmen for the bond dealers who had learned Owen had double-crossed them.

Jones said he killed Owen after the latter had drawn a pistol.

Quanah Man Seriously Cut in Fall on Glass

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, June 25.—B. E. Logan, employe of Quanah Cotton Oil Mill, was severely injured when he slipped and fell while taking a shower bath at the oil mill after his day's work. A glass bottle lying on the concrete floor was crushed under him as he fell, severing the muscles of his arm. He was taken to Quanah hospital where attending physicians were unable to determine the seriousness of the injury, or whether it might be permanent. Loss of blood so weakened him that he rallied with difficulty.

A Dry Agent Quits
Patient Gatti-Casazza
Wise Dwight Morrow
A "Pillar" Collapses

By EMILE GAUVREAU

A hard working prohibition agent, Thomas F. Rice, hands in his resignation because corruption and graft in dry law enforcement are too much for his conscience. He accompanies his resignation with a denunciatory letter exposing conditions. What happens? He is promoted and rescinds his resignation on the promise by officials higher up that things will be better. Things, however, do not get better. They get worse. Rice resigns again. He challenges Prohibition Commissioner Doran to tell the senate "the whole dirty story." The country knows it whether Mr. Doran has the courage to tell it or not.

Following a friendship lasting a quarter of a century, Gatti-Casazza, director of the Metropolitan Opera company, marries Rosina Galli, premiere danseuse. It takes some men 25 minutes to make up their minds about the girl they want to marry. It took Gatti-Casazza 25 years. Everybody will agree his decision is at least a mature one. His philosophy probably is summed up in two good old proverbs: "Act in haste and repent at leisure" and "everything comes to him who waits."

Dwight Morrow reads Herodotus, the father of history, while the returns of the 300,000 landslide in the New Jersey senatorial primaries pour in. Herodotus, if he had been writing about it, might have said that Mr. Morrow is developing into a great leader of the people and will go far. The Jersey victor will find Herodotus, dead 20 centuries, a helpful influence and a fine guide in political liberties.

The ancient Greeks may be said to be more alive today than they were in their own time. In theoretic science, Plato teaches Einstein. In philosophy, Heraclitus and Democritus enlighten Bergson. In art, Praxiteles inspires Mestrovic. And on Broadway today, Lysistrata, a Greek play, leads all others as the outstanding offering of the season.

Bishop Cannon apparently is not the only ecclesiastic who gives the church a black eye. William F. Groves, Sunday school superintendent and militant defender of prohibition in Elizabeth, N. J., is another sanctimonious gentleman in disrepute. He is charged with embezzling the funds of a loan association amounting to $17,000. This money was entrusted to him because he was "one of the sturdiest pillars of Elizabeth society."

Some interesting information might be gathered as a result of an investigation of all the militant defenders of prohibition throughout the country.

Mystery thrillers at 50 cents a thrill are to be offered the American public across soda, cigar and drug counters. A new publishing firm threatens to flood the country with the concoctions of Edgar Wallace, Sax Rohmer, J. S. Fletcher and other hair-raising writers. Some books will be given away with prescriptions. Others will go free with a flagon of expensive French perfume. The invasion of the thriller has begun in dead earnest.

The question is, will this do America any good? Does America want to be thrilled sensorially to the saturation point so that it can no longer be stimulated intellectually? The outlook is dark, indeed, if Rohmer displaces Homer and the ghosts of Fletcher put Hamlet's on a stretcher. And that is quite likely to happen while this country gets all the thrills its constitution can stand.

Because of the increasing number of women in business, the word "Men's" has been stricken from the name of the Oklahoma City Credit Men's association.

When the Democrats an' Republicans down in Washin'ton huddle an' vote solidly fer somethin'—it's a cinch the country is goin' to git the hot end of it. "I had jest tuned in on the tooth paste hour when I heard what seemed to be a tire bustin'," testified Mrs. Em Moots, in the trial of Amos Bentley, charged with murderin' his wife while cleanin' a revolver.

The question arises as to whether Admiral Byrd and his men would have been more at ease in New York had they been given the cold shoulder and some icy stares, instead of a warm reception.

A Chinese matador was chased from a Madrid bull ring on his initial appearance. Proving conclusively that bull fighting is an old Spanish and not a Chinese custom.

Today's simile: As effective as an anti-trust law.

Chances are that the cop who arrested the New York newsy the other day for crying "Panic on Wall Street" during the market depression was a stanch Republican.

Schumann-Heink's Farewell

MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK, whose voice has spilled liquid magic through the years, knows that some day now she will sing her last song. Some day she must face her last audience, and for the final time bring laughter and tears and perhaps a little heartache as she sings.

But she does not intend to see that final audience leave the theater, slowly and reverently. She does not want to hear its last congratulations. Instead, her soul will be gone on the last triumphant note of song, if she has her wish.

For Schumann-Heink has said that she will sing unto the last. She wants her last breath to be a note of music. And then she would like to slip back of the stage, into the wings, and die quietly. It might embarrass the people in the audience if she died on the stage before them, she says. And she wants her going away to be as simple and lovely as her music has always been.

. . . The stage lights will shine with golden glamour, the velvet curtains will swing to with that intimate rustle, and the audience will applaud. The great contralto won't come back for an encore, though. That will be the only difference between that last concert that she has arranged for some day, and the thousands of others that she has given, if her wish is fulfilled.

The plans of the gray-haired prima donna for that inevitable departure are very beautiful. There is something queenly, something almost royal, in going to death straight from the stage of action. It makes the going away a gallant gesture.

Playing the game to the end is always a challenge. No matter how lowly the task may be, there is a fine courage in those who keep trust.

Schumann-Heink, if she has her wish, will count her last breath in songbeats, not in heartbeats. She will not spoil the concert. She will make her departure easier for everyone, as a good trouper should always do. That is the code of the game.

The famous artist has drawn her crowds from cities where music halls sent spangled lights across the sky; from villages where men and women went to do their shopping and stayed to listen to the shining, golden voice that wove wonder across the street; from small towns and crossroads; from those whose heads carried crowns, and those who wore faded hats because the cost of a new one had gone for the cherished ticket.

The world which admires the courage of those who play to the end hopes that Schumann-Heink may have her wish, that she may sing until the curtain falls.

But it wonders if there will be a moment just before, when it will sense the closing drama, that it may ring out its hail, well done, and long farewell, as her soul goes quietly away on the breath of a song.

Open Season

IN THE field of politics, the recurrent period of enlightenment is now at hand. For the next four weeks, the public will learn of what evil stuff officeholders and officeseekers really are made—the information being supplied by members of the fraternity themselves. Each will speak of the other fellow, however.

With each election, the voters select officials for subsequent terms from just such a field of candidates. If half of the rascality which they attribute to each other from the stump during the closing weeks of the campaign actually exists in their characters, we are miraculously served to have even tolerable government.

In a recent address, a local speaker declared that one of the dan- . . . to be seen in present political practices is the resolution of a campaign for office immediately into a personal fight on the character and record of some other person. If a danger signal wisely should be hoisted over such tactics, many of the present aspirants to political office apparently are quite unaware of the fact. An example of the unrestrained gunning now extant was furnished here in a political speech Monday night. Not one, but something like a dozen gubernatorial candidates were exposed as various types of malefactors.

Mike Hogg Not Out for State Senate

NEWS comes from Houston that Representative Mike Hogg will not be a candidate for the state senate against Senator Walter F. Woodul, who is seeking re-election, and now that Hogg is out of it, Woodul will be returned for another term unopposed. It appears that friends of Representative Hogg had filed his name as a candidate for the upper house, but the son of his father has authorized the statement that he will not seek the place.

Representative Hogg is said to be one of the principal backers of James Young.

Politics is an interesting game in the city of Houston and the county of Harris, and the players of the game know the cost of making a single mistake. If you are handed weak cards, play them strong in this great national sport. If you are handed high cards, play them modestly, but play them to take every trick.

Claim everything in advance and then let the judges and clerks of the precincts of the state do the counting and certify the official returns. It is a grand old game for the men who have thick skin. It is a game that carries with it excruciating agony unless the player is a sportsman and in the game for the thrills that are to be won.

WALTER WINCHELL

On Broadway

(Copyright, 1930, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Man About Town

He is a Chicago business man, but he manages to pay his respects and other fees to Broadway frequently. Last night he unfolded this tale because he never "heard of such a thing" before. The wiseys in the Loop or on the Canyon will tell you it is one of the older and better gags. He was on his way back to Chi, he said, a few weekends ago, when a stranger poked his head through his open compartment door and asked him to play poker. "Not for money," said the man, "just to keep from getting too bored."

Considering that the game was not to be for dough, he mused, what could he lose? He agreed to play awhile. After 30 minutes of playing poker with nothing to "make it interesting," it was he who suggested that they play for a two-bits limit.

But you know what happened. The ante was tilted plenty a short time after, and when the game broke up he was out $500. He didn't have that much on him, so he gave the winner a check for the amount. The winner folded the check and placed it in a lower vest pocket.

The next morning in the diner the winner said: "I feel badly about your big loss last night, old timer, and I'm afraid you feel that you were taken in by card sharps. So I am destroying your check, sir." And so asserting himself, the stranger ripped the check into bits and threw the pieces out the window. "If, however," continued the stranger, "when you reach your office and you want to look me up, here is my card. When you feel that I am all right and in business like yourself, and you want to pay your gambling debt, send me your check, sir."

Of course, he felt that they were card sharps, but he didn't want to complain. And now he realized his terrible mistake. He could feel the blood color his cheeks and he was embarrassed. He regretted, but he didn't say so, that he had been too quick to misjudge his fellow man. He agreed to look up his new friend later in the day.

The taxi hastened him to his State St. offices. The first thing he did was to check up on the stranger, and sure enough the man was listed high. "What a rotten thing to do," he thought. "I'll bet that fellow thinks I'm an awful gambler!" He sent a boy over with a check for $500.

Two weeks later when he received his canceled checks they included two $500 ones—made out to the "fast thinker," who had destroyed a blank in the diner.

They've been divorced for three years now, but they write to each other often and they swap gifts on the holidays. The other 4 o'clock in the yawning we encountered the beautiful thing as she left her hotel to get into a cab.

"Goodness," we said, to start the conversation, "where are you going alone at such an hour?"

"I'm very lonesome," she said, "and I had the willies up there in my room so I'm going to see my ex-husband."

"But does he expect you?" we inquired, "you mustn't walk in on a guy like that, you know."

"Oh, it will be all right," she replied, "I have a key to his apartment. I do this whenever the mood grips me."

"Why, I never heard of such a thing!" we chirped.

"Why not?" she responded in the indifferent manner, "there's nothing wrong in it. We merely found out a long time ago that there was more fun in being friends than in being married!"

One of the undraped dolls at a hot-spot on 54th St. is no more than 19, but she can handle men in the La Guinan pattern. She seemed weary last night when she wondered if she might share our table.

"You amaze me," we said, "the way you can sit with some of these pills that come in here every night. Don't those drunks and their banal chatter make you want to scream sometimes?"

"Sometimes," she replied, "but you can't be particular."

"But why sit with them all night and let them paw you," we countered, "what do you get for it—a ten or a twenty, maybe?"

"Oh, no," she replied, "I've got a check going through now for a grand."

"Gee," we gee'd, "a thousand bucks for what? I notice you manage to sneak out on them when they get plastered. How do you gold dig 'em like that, anyway?" we urged, smelling good copy.

"You don't gold dig them," she snapped, "that is, I never do. They insist on giving it to you. For instance, they say to you, 'How much do you get here a week?' So you say '$50 a week I get.' Then they always say, 'How can a girl live on $50 a week?' So then you say you don't!—and then you discover you're talking to Santa Claus, that's all."

There is a chain of exclusive specialty accessory shops in New York whose business is an absolute barometer of conditions in the stock market. The bills for purchases in this group of stores invariably go to the office address of men—and should there be two charge accounts of the same name, painstaking care is taken to make sure there is no mistake about which bill goes to the house and which to the office.

These stores know when there are quarrels and misunderstandings between their lady patrons and their rich keepers. Sales fall off then, you know. They likewise know when these tiffs are patched up by the sudden lavishing of gifts, etc. Often these shops will carry a femme client over a period of months, keeping her supplied with the smartest novelties, knowing that though she has just lost one sugar daddy she will soon annex another who will pay all back bills and contract new ones.

The books of these shops, one suspects, would unravel many a mystery if the proprietors permitted the gendarmes and others interested to see who (male) buys what for whom (female).

A Honey

You may depend upon the desperate-for-material-and-recognition "comedians" to cash in on the other lad's glory and brains. Bugs Baer, frinstance, unfolded a swifty at a sports dinner the other night, and a few hours later five comedians repeated it is as many night clubs as their own.

The Baer crack was: "I'm all in, fatigued, tired out. I've been bicycling from town to town voting wet in the Literary Digest poll!"

"SHEILA"

Love and Mystery
Humor and Tragedy
A Story of Wichita Falls
By GORDON TURNER

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Frank Sheridan, wealthy young lawyer whose hobby is the solving of crime mysteries, is making a double investigation into a safe robbery at the home of William Oliver Wilber, inventor and manufacturer, and into the strange death by electrocution of Lena Swartz, a maid in the Wilber home. From the safe was stolen a diary of Wilber's wife, now dead, which contained a secret of the birth of Sheila Wilber's daughter, who is engaged to marry Sheridan's friend, Joseph Hedley, assistant county prosecutor. Lena's death apparently is accidental, but Sheridan sees a possible connection between it and the safe robbery. Suspicion points to Riley Morgan, a burglar, who is a client of Homer Menton, an unprincipled criminal lawyer, and to Andy Masters, Sheila's wayward cousin, who for mercenary reasons wants to marry Edna Rogers, Sheila's cousin, but is entangled in a love affair with Mercedes Riverton, a stenographer in Menton's office. Sheridan gets himself invited to a party at Mercedes' apartment, where drinks are served by Ike Sellers, Andy's valet. At the party Sheridan overhears a conversation which connects Menton with the strange happenings at the Wilber home. The next day Andy, intoxicated and in a quarrelsome mood, tells Sheila she is a founding and has no legal right to Wilber's name. Sheila surprises her father into partially confirming Andy's accusation. Feeling herself disgraced, she returns her engagement ring to Hedley.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER 26

Despite the loss of sleep caused by Hedley's nocturnal visit, Sheridan arrived early at his office the following morning. He sent immediately for Chick Severn, the detective agency operative, who had checked up on the caterer's employes at the Wilber dinner. That alert young man had previously made his report on that investigation. It was negative.

"Chick, I've got another job for you," Sheridan said. He handed the Rogue's Gallery picture of Riley Morgan to the operative. "Ever see that fellow?" he asked.

Chick examined the double photo carefully and shook his head.

"You'll find his full bertillon measurement and description on the other side," Sheridan said. "He's a weazened little cuss with a stiff left leg you'll know him the minute you see him. I want you to get on his trail and find out where he lives. Get a line on his habits, where he is usually to be found at any particular time of day. I don't want him pinched and I don't want him scared, so be careful not to let him know he's being followed. When you trail him to some place where you think he's likely to hole in for a while, get me on the phone; I'll do the rest. I'll stick pretty close to the office for the next two or three days, so you'll always be able to reach me. If I'm out, make your report to Miss Brown who will know where to get in touch with me. If the trail is cold, see Detective Frisbie of the yeggs detail at police headquarters. He knows all the local jug crackers and may be able to give you a live tip, but don't let Frisbie knew you're working for me."

Chick Severn departed eagerly on his mission, but not that day was he to pick up the scent. Almost at the same moment Riley Morgan was closeted with Homer Menton in the attorney's inner office. It was the first time he had seen Menton since he had been ordered to steal Wilber's invention, although he had visited the office several times.

"This joint's worse t- crack than a time-lock bank coffin," he complained. "Th' flossy dame gives me th' stony eye and shoos me out ev'ry time I'm on the lay. What's th' guff?"

"Oh, Mercy's my burglar alarm," Menton replied laughingly. "Anyway, I told you I didn't want you to come up here until I sent for you. You're no ornament to a self-respecting law office." He fixed a cold eye on his visitor. "You've got your nerve—a nice mess you made of the Wilber job!"

"Zat so?" Riley snarled. "W't you know about it?"

"I know you were out at Wilber's last Wednesday night—at least you told me you were going to pull the job that night—and I know from the newspaper accounts you didn't get the swag. And I also know that your frail was killed. Why did you kill her—was she going to squeal?"

Riley jerked back in his chair and threw up an arm as if warding off a blow.

"'Fore Gawd!" he whined, "yuh can't lay no killin' on me. I ain't no killer. I ain't even never packed no rod. Say, boss, yuh ain't tryin' t' frame me?"

"Oh, I know the newspapers said it was an accident, but I don't believe everything I read in the newspapers," Menton replied, immensely satisfied with the scare he had given Riley. "Well, tell me what happened?"

"I don't know wat happened. I'd give up the whole lay for that matter. Th' old guy'd got wise and put irons on th' windows so's it looks like a stir an' th' house is full of johnnies an' skirts. I sweetens up this Lena broad an' she promises she'll try an' swipe th' stuff soon's there's a chance. I'm hidin' out back o' th' cook tent waitin' for th' shindig t' get over an' I could talk to Lena again. She didn't turn up an' I was gettin' ready to lam when some skirt let out a screech like a graveyard ghost an' I beat it 'round th' house. Goin' past that there lab'ratory room I seen it lit up like a Christmas tree an' I lamped through the bars an' seen Lena laying like a stiff on th' floor. Then I did lam!"

Riley wiped his moist brow and looked inquiringly at Menton.

"Say, Boss, I got t' get sonic jack," he said, "how about them 500 smackers?"

"Nothing doing," Menton replied coldly, "you haven't earned them. You fell down on the job. You did not get the cylinder. Get it, and then I'll talk business."

"Aw, that ain't no square deal," Riley protested. "I ain't going to climb in that crib again. It's the same as sittin' on the hot seat in the dance hall. Look w'at Lena got. That ain't no healthy place."

"That's up to you" said Menton indifferently, "no work, no pay."

"I done one job out there on my own and I ain't got no pay for that neither," Riley replied. There was a venomous look in his squinting eyes, which he quickly veiled as Menton looked up. "Five hundred bucks reward for that book. Gimme th' book an' I'll get the dough. I tell yuh I gotta have jack."

"Oh, can it!" Menton returned impatiently. "You can't have the book and you don't get any $500 either until I say so. D'you get that? I've got uses of my own for that book and you won't get the money until I am through with it and can collect the reward for you, and look here, Riley, I don't like the way you're talking; you'd better be a little more civil. Remember, the police are still looking for the baby who pulled the Peterson job. They don't suspect you, but a little tip dropped in just the right place—"

Riley quailed in his seat and Menton smiled.

"And if the dicks knew you were hanging around the Wilber place the night that girl was bumped off," he went on, "they might not think it was so much of an accident. Here," he dug in his pocket and flicked a bill across the desk. "Take this and beat it. Get in a hideout and lay low for a while. Write me a letter telling me where you are and I'll send for you when I want you. Now get out of here and stay out!"

Riley snatched up the money. His face worked convulsively, but he said nothing until he reached the outer office. He spat on the bank note, turned and shook his fist at the closed door.

"Yuh damn double-crosser!" he hissed in a half-whisper, "I'll get yuh for this!" Mercy Riverton gaped at him in astonishment as he shuffled into the corridor.

Though there was murder in Riley Morgan's heart, he followed Menton's advice and faded away to a safe hide-out. Chick Severn was not able to find it.

That night, while Andy was dressing preparatory to a jaunt with Mercy to a rural resort where, in addition to excellent chicken dinners, exhilarating drinks were served in coffee cups, Ike called him to the telephone. Menton was on the line and he wanted Andy to met him downtown in the Kemp hotel lobby; something important he wanted to talk to him about. Andy protested.

"I've got a date," he said. "You come out here; I'll send Ike down for you in the car." Menton agreed reluctantly.

"But first, you shoot over to Eleventh street and get Miss Riverton and bring her over here," Andy instructed Ike, "it'll save time."

So when Menton arrived, he found Mercy parked in the living room. He frowned.

"What's biting you?" Andy asked, noting the scowl.

"I thought you were alone; say, Mercy, go out in the kitchen and play with Ike; I want to talk with Andy."

"Ain't he polite!" Mercy remarked, rising from her chair.

"You sit down," Andy ordered. She sank back obediently, a smile on her lips. Andy turned to Menton. "You've got a crust," he said, "pulling the haughty employer stuff outside of office hours. Spill it, there are no secrets between me and Mercy."

"Then you're a bigger fool than I thought you were," Menton retorted angrily. "Do you mean you've told her about the Wilber affair?"

"No," Andy replied, "but what's the difference? Isn't she your own little confidential secretary?"

Menton shrugged his shoulders. "Listen," he said, drawing Andy to a far corner of the room and lowering his voice, "don't be a damn fool and tell any woman all you know. That fellow Sheridan has been hanging around here lately, and I heard something this afternoon that's got me going. I got it straight that Sheridan has been making inquiries about the safe-cracker who brought me the Wilber diary. I found out, too, he's been pretty thick with Wilber lately. What's his game?"

"Oh, Sheridan," Andy laughed, "he's as harmless as a lap dog." Andy glanced at his wrist watch. "Say, it's getting late," he exclaimed. "Mercy and I've got a date. Come on; we'll drop you downtown."

He seized his hat and propelled Menton to the door.

With Mercy in the middle and Andy at the wheel, the open-top roadster sped down Seymour road. As they approached the Hayes street intersection traveling at high speed a car just ahead of them turned directly into their path. Andy twisted the wheel desperately to avoid collision. He succeeded, but the roadster crashed head-on into a heavy delivery truck.

Amid a shower of broken glass Menton was catapulted over the windshield and fell in a crumpled heap on the pavement.

Andy and Mercy were buried in a mass of twisted, torturing metal.

Body of Nurse Taken From Lake Michigan

CHICAGO, June 25. (INS)—The body of Miss Ida May Galbraith, 63, a practical nurse, was taken from Lake Michigan today. She had committed suicide, according to the authorities, although her death at first appeared to be a murder.

Her mouth was taped shut, a cheesecloth was about her head, and her purse, containing several dollars and identification papers, was strapped to her clothed body.

At Miss Galbraith's home the police found three letters addressed to relatives, informing them that "Miss Galbraith has passed on."

Friends say she had been ill and melancholy.

This newspaper puts at your disposal a corps of trained researchers in Washington who will answer questions for you. They have access to the government departments, the libraries, museums, galleries, and public buildings, and to the numerous associations which maintain headquarters in the nation's capital. If they can be of assistance to you, write your question plainly, and send with two cents in coin or stamps to the Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—In what picture did William Powell play his first role?—J. S.

A.—With John Barrymore in "Sherlock Holmes" in 1921.

Q.—What is meant by single standard and double standard?—E. C.

A.—The terms are used both in ethics and in money. In the first case, they refer to what is known as the double standard of morals, whereby certain privileges are allowed to men that are not permitted to women. In money the double standard is a monetary standard based on both gold and silver as the material of the circulating medium, distinct from the single standard based upon either gold or silver.

Q.—How many labors was Hercules given to perform?—S. R.

A.—The classic labors of Hercules numbered 12.

Q.—How is a golf handicap determined?—F. D. L.

A.—The basic handicapping system used is as follows: Take the average of the three best scores made by the player, subtract the par of the course, and then subtract two. Thus on a course if your average best score is 88, you would subtract the par, 72, leaving 16, and then subtract two, which would fix your handicap at 14. Greens committees, however, frequently do not apply this rigid formula in fixing handicaps, but vary it because of local conditions or their knowledge of the play of the members.

Q.—Who received the pen with which the naval treaty of London was signed?—H. N.

A.—Acting as spokesman, M. Briand presented the gold pen to the British prime minister.

Q.—Do all Catholic nuns vote in American elections?—G. A. T.

A.—Only non-cloistered nuns vote. These have been registering and voting ever since women were given the right to vote.

Q.—How does the number of musicians in the United States compare with the number of lawyers and doctors?—T. W. N.

A.—The 1930 census figures are not yet available. In 1920, lawyers, judges, and justices numbered 122,519; physicians and surgeons, 144,977; and musicians and teachers of music, 150,265.

Q.—Why has crime decreased so remarkably in England?—W. J. D.

A.—In Britain the apparent decrease of crime that followed the world war was due to causes independent of the moral well-being of the community. The Borstal system for the treatment of young offenders and the probation act had come into force a few years before the outbreak of war, and both have undoubtedly had some influence in reducing the volume of professional crime.

Q.—When was ostracism introduced into Greece?—B. P.

A.—It was instituted by Clisthenes about 510 B. C. Aelian says that Clisthenes was the first to be ostracized. In 487-457 B. C., Hipparchus was exiled, and a few years later Xanthippus and Aristides were banished in this fashion.

Q.—In using the expression, filet of sole, should the word be spelled with one l or two, and how is it pronounced?—E. K.

A.—Filet is a French word and is the one generally used. It is pronounced fee lay. Fillet is the English word and is often used. It is pronounced fil let, short i, short e, the t sound is given, and accent is on the first syllable.

Q.—What is the origin of the expression "castles in Spain"?—G. C. B.

A.—Castles in Spain is from the expression chateau en espagne, found in 1400-1600, occasionally as a Gallicism in modern times. It appears that the phrase at bottom meant only to build castles in a foreign country where one had no standing ground. Spain being finally taken as the nearest Moorish country to Christendom, or perhaps with some reference to the arms of Castile.

Q.—What does the word Graf mean in the name, Graf Zeppelin?—W. J.

A.—The German word "Graf" is from the middle high German grave, which is the same as a count or the English earl. It is also related to the Latin Comes. The title originated in Germany during the Frankish and Caroligian times and was given to special officials appointed by the king. The title Graf occurs widely among the German nobility.

Q.—How much cheese is manufactured in Pennsylvania?—H. C.

A.—About 5,000,000 pounds of cheese is manufactured yearly in Pennsylvania.

SERVICES HELD FOR BOY SCOUT

Troop Mates Pay Honor to Harry Billingsley

With members of the Boy Scout troops of Wichita Falls acting as a guard of honor and a bugler from his own Troop 11 sounding the impressive notes of "Taps" as the casket was lowered into the grave, funeral services for Harry Billingsley, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Billingsley, who was drowned in the waters of Diversion lake Tuesday, were held from the Floral Heights Methodist church at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with Dr. Claude M. Simpson officiating.

Twelve members of the Wichita Falls Boy Scout council attended the funeral in a body, in tribute to the departed boy's work as a scout. Jerome Allen, bugler for Troop 11, blew "Taps" at the grave. The scout guard of honor formed about the casket in the church and at the cemetery. Interment was in Riverside with arrangements under the direction of the Merkle Undertaking company.

Active pallbearers were F. H. Whitley, J. N. Sherrill, P. A. Newell, C. H. Evans, George Winburne and Thomas Hamilton. Honorary pallbearers, all members of Troop 11, to which the boy belonged, were Turner Mangum, James Hamilton, Kenneth Watson, Frank Rush, P. B. Cox Jr., John Lawson, Grayson Nelson and Gwan Riley.

The youth was attending the annual Boy Scout camp at Diversion lake Tuesday at the time of the tragedy. With a large group of the scouts at the camp, he went in swimming and was last seen to wade out into deeper water and to dive beneath the surface.

Allred Club Formed to Help Elect Wichita Man Attorney General

Speakers, Including Candidate, Express Confidence in Outcome of Fight on Bobbitt

With pledges of active support voiced in telegrams from all sections of the state and the presence of delegations from Henrietta, Burkburnett, Electra and Iowa Park attesting to support in Wichita and Clay counties, friends of James V. Allred, candidate for attorney general, met Wednesday evening at the Kemp hotel to form the working organization of an Allred-for-Attorney-General club and to hear an address from the candidate.

With Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., acting as temporary chairman, the approximately 75 persons present elected A. H. Carrigan chairman of the club by acclamation. Mayor Nelson was elected secretary-treasurer and these two officers were empowered to select from the citizenship of this section a group of committeemen to carry on the active work of Mr. Allred's campaign. Mayor Nelson occupied the chair during the meeting in the absence of Judge Carrigan. Speakers in addition to Mr. Allred were Mayor Nelson, William M. Bonner, Bert King, N. H. Martin and Donley Suddath of Henrietta.

One Disadvantage

Mr. Bonner, in introducing the candidate, said Mr. Allred had one disadvantage in his campaign, which was the fact that "he does not live within the charmed circle about the capitol at Austin from which most candidates for state offices are elected." There is not, he added, a single valid objection to his election and there is every reason in favor of his election. Mr. Bonner pointed out the bar of Wichita county is practically solid in support of Mr. Allred.

In his address, which was broadcast over station KGKO, Mr. Allred attacked the sectionalism and discrimination shown in the Rio Grande valley districts in favor of the candidacy of Robert Lee Bobbitt. He quoted a Brownsville newspaper as having stated Bobbitt would be "a kind of a special representative for the valley country in the attorney-general's office."

"I do not want the people of West or Northwest Texas to support me simply because I happen to be a native of this section," Mr. Allred said. "The holder of the attorney-general's office should be a man without sectional inclinations, a man cognizant of the needs, problems and rights of every section of our far-flung Texas.

Benefited by Defeat

"One of my opponents has boasted that he would carry Wichita county over me. I do not believe that. I recall that in the last election I carried this county and the others in my section of the state by huge majorities and that I was defeated by only a small margin over the entire state. I don't know but what it did me good to be defeated four yaers ago. I know what it means to be defeated like that, and I know that I can make you a better attorney-general now than ever before. I believe I would be in favor of making it requisite that every attorney-general shall have been defeated at least once before he takes office. It would be good for them.

"I withdrew from one race after I had received the assurance of Tom Pollard in writing that he would finish out his term and be a candidate for re-election. I did this rather than oppose him for a second term. But he withdrew in spite of this. The present attorney general is the choice of one man, while I earnestly believe I am the choice of 352,000 Texas voters. I consider Dan Moody my friend but I still maintain that Mr. Bobbitt is his choice alone.

"It has been reported that the present attorney-general has the inside track in this race. I believe that report emanated from his publicity agents, but I am glad that they thus reminded all of you that I am the under-dog in this race and he is the lucky dog. I am glad that I have no machine of special prosecutors and department employes to promote my campaign. I believe the July 26 primary will see an end to this race for attorney-general."

Bert King Speaks

Bert King in a short talk said Mr. Allread, in the last election was like the homing pigeon which flew half around the world with his message and then dropped dead just before reaching home. "If the people of Texas could grasp the meaning of this comparison, Jimmy Allred would be elected by a 150,000 majority," he said. He described Mr. Allred as "a lad without substantial support or resources" in the last election and said "he would have made a better attorney-general than Pollard did make."

N. H. Martin was called upon for a talk. He urged an intensive campaign throughout the state in support of Mr. Allred and said his election would not be difficult if the people of his own section "who know him and his abilities" would throw their efforts into his campaign by writing letters to their friends in all the other sections.

Donley Suddath of Henrietta, who headed a delegation from that city, gave promise of active support in Clay county and urged that the citizens of this vicinity take part in the work of Mr. Allred's campaign.

BAILEY WINS THIRD TRIAL

Conviction of Ward County Man Reversed

AUSTIN, June 25. (AP)—Leah Bailey, sentenced to serve 99 years in the state penitentiary for the murder of Dan Horn, Ward county peace officer, today won a third trial when the court of criminal appeals reversed and remanded the judgment of the Midland county district court. At the first trial held in Ward county, the defendant was sentenced to 99 years but this judgment was reversed and the cause remanded to Midland county for retrial.

The second reversal was granted because of misconduct of the jury in discussing the sentence that had been imposed when the case was originally tried, although no evidence of this penalty had been introduced at the second trial.

Horn was alleged to have been shot while searching a rooming house occupied by the woman. The defense claimed the shooting was self-defense and that Horn had threatened to strike the defendant. The shooting occurred March 25, 1928.

Values of Natural Milk Extolled Here at Meeting of Producers

Members of the Dairyman's Association of Wichita county heard the values of natural whole milk extolled by J. B. Loggins, executive secretary of the Natural Milk Producers' Association of Texas, at the courthouse Wednesday night, and were invited by Mr. Loggins to affiliate with the state association.

Mr. Loggins' address was devoted to a semi-technical exposition of the food elements resident in natural milk, and to an explanation of their various functions in supplying the needs of the human body.

Nature's Perfect Food

"Milk is nature's only perfect food," he said, "the only food which nature provided containing all of the elements necessary for perfect maintenance of the body. It contains protains, carbohydrates, fats and minerals as well as the vitamins, enzyms and harmones not only in perfect proportion to meet all requirements but in a form in which they are totally assimilable."

Importance of feeding fresh, natural milk to infants was stressed by the speaker. All the nutritive elements for rapid formation of the body are provided, he said, as well as vitamins in sufficient quantity. The speaker quoted from a recent speech of a member of the Texas Livestock Sanitary commission the following opinion:

"If the time ever comes when the world ceases the liberal use of natural milk—milk in its natural condition as it is taken from the cow—if the world ever ceases a liberal use of this product, at that time civilization will have reached the peak of its attainment, and will turn down the scale to ultimate disintegration."

That pasteurization does not make milk entirely safe for human consumption was claimed by Mr. Loggins. It is used for the purpose of permitting transportation of milk to distributing centers without souring, rather than for purifying it, he said.

Pasteurization Questioned

"Pasteurization has fallen short of many of its claims," the speaker said. "Spores are usually not destroyed by the ordinary methods used in pasteurization, and only extreme cold prevents these spores from developing. Milk must be held at temperatures of 158 to 178 degrees to exterminate bacteria which may prove harmful to the human body; but it can not be brought to that temperature in pasteurizing, because the fat globules would be broken up, and the rising of the cream prohibited. Natural milk, produced under skillful veterinary inspection from tuberculin tested cows, is undoubtedly the best food for children."

Mr. Loggins stated that in large centers of population, processing of much of the milk supply is necessary because of slow delivery. He emphasized that where milk is produced under sanitary conditions, handled properly, taken from clean, healthy, adequately tested cows, by clean, healthy workers, chilled immediately and kept at a low temperature from time of production until time of consumption, processing is not only unnecessary, but is harmful because some of the vital elements are destroyed.

Members of the local dairymen's association were told that upon their applications for membership in the state association, an inspector for that organization would inspect their dairies and if they comply with the association's requirements, membership would be extended. No definite action was taken by milk producers here Wednesday night relative to affiliation with the state organization.

ATHLETE'S FOOT

It is estimated that about 10 per cent. of all adults either have now or have had athlete's foot. This disease has only recently come to public attention, and so little is known about it that most of those who have it do not know what they have.

Athlete's foot begins as an itching spot between the toes. The skin turns red, scales and cracks, peels off and blisters form. The toes are tortured with a peculiar itching which becomes more pronounced during the summer heat or after any exercise which increases the perspiration of the foot. The trouble usually begins quickly and gradually becomes worse until checked. When the nails are involved they may turn yellow.

The disease is contagious, and one person who has it may infect many among his group.

Athlete's foot is really ringworm of the feet, and is due to a vegetable parasite with a long name, the "tinea trichophyton." This fungus parasite is commonly found on the floor in gymnasiums, swimming pools, locker rooms, along the tiles in public showers and in public bath houses. For this reason this disease is found more often among the leisure classes than among the poor. The parasite is picked up through walking in such places with bare, warm, moist feet.

Now that summer is coming on, the epidemic will probably become more widespread than before. To protect yourself in public pools it it a good plan to avoid walking around the floors in bare feet. It is a good plan to wear your own rubber shoes.

It is pertinent to know that men have this trouble more than women do, because women more often wear bathing shoes than men. When examining the feet the students in a university it was found that 78 per cent. of the men had ringworm of the feet, while only 17 per cent. of the women were affected.

The wearing of hot, heavy shoes during the summer which clog up the skin of the feet, causing excessive perspiration to form between the toes, undoubtedly lowers the resistance of the skin and causes a predisposition to athlete's feet. By changing the hose daily, washing the feet often, and wearing suitable summer shoes, a resistance of the skin may be increased. The treatment consists principally of using some antiseptic solution to kill the parasite. Ultra-violet light treatments will also kill all parasites on the surface, and the same effect may be obtained through sun-bathing the feet for a long time. The feet should be exposed on all sides for about an hour in the summer sun, the patient keeping other parts of the body covered part of the tme so as to prevent itching.

In curing the itching toes you must persevere until the condition is absolutely cleaned up, for if one spot is left unhealed it will cause the rest of the toes to become infected over again. If you have been wearing woolen golf hose while the infection was present, you may reinfect your toes by wearing them again, since wool cannot be boiled thoroughly.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Incipient Tuberculosis

Question—M. L. Asks: "What are the first signs of tuberculosis?" If a person is not subject to colds or coughs, he is not too subject to it, is he?"

Answer—"Some of the first signs are extreme weakness, afternoon temperature, and a slight cough, but in some cases the onset is quite sudden and develops from a hard cold. Everyone should have periodical examinations made so that such diseases can be discovered in their incipient stages. One who is not subject to colds or catarrh is less likely to develop tuberculosis, but one may just as readily develop some other disease to which there is a latent predisposition.

Foods Beneficial to Hair

Question—Mrs. P. R. asks: "What would cause a constant loss of hair? Also I wish to know which foods contain minerals beneficial to the hair. Does the violet ray help to bring blood to the scalp?"

Answer—A loss of hair may result from several causes, such as fever toxemia during a fever, poor circulation of the scalp, diseases of the scalp; or a lack of mineral elements in the diet. The mineral that is usually lacking is silicon, and it is found most abundantly in the following foods: Asparagus, cucumber, lettuce, bran, dandelion, parsnips, fruit skins, strawberries and beets. If the hair roots are not entirely dead, a well balanced diet containing a good proportion of these foods accompanied by a vigorous massage of the scalp and any other treatments which will increase the circulation should be beneficial. The violet ray, while not specifically helpful to growing the hair, might assist in increasing the local circulation. I have usually found that the ultra-violet ray is more satisfactory for this purpose. This ray is also present in sunlight and it is now not an unusual sight to see men going without their hats the year round, as they believe the sunlight prevents their becoming bald.

CHAMPIONS OPEN SECOND HALF WITH 4-3 VICTORY

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Today's Pome

Some say that poets are fibbers
And doomed to consuming fires.
Their only comeback, it seems to me,
Is for them to smite the lyres.

The season is off to a new start, mates, with the scoreboard wiped clean. It will be long before we forget how that scoreboard looked at the end of the second half. The figures ought to be clipped, framed and remembered: Out of 76 games played, the Spudders won 53 and dropped 23, making the final percentage .697, three points below the .700 mark.

The season is off to a new start, mates, and you couldn't find a more determined bunch of fellows than the Spudders at the opening of the second half. With Skipper Carl Williams more confident than ever at the head of his troops, the first half champs have plunged into the fray with the pennant at stake. The preliminary skirmishes are over. Now comes the real battle.

And as troops at the battlefront need the moral support of the folks back home, so the ball team needs loyalty from its home town fans. The Spudders will need every inch of backing they can get during the rest of the season. And the fans apparently have started in right. The ovation the team got yesterday no doubt sent the blood zipping anew through the veins of the players. And those gifts the merchants presented each member of the team no doubt made each one resolve to keep his stride.

The season is off to a new start, mates, and boy we're going to win that pennant!

And how different the atmosphere is today from what it was last April 9. Then we were rated so low by the experts. Now we enter the second half top-heavy favorites to repeat!

One sports editor wired us the other day asking "what players the Spudders are going to add to strengthen the team for the second half."

Great Scott, what more do we need?

Rosenbloom Wins Lightweight Title

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 25. (US)—Maxie Rosenbloom, of New York, cuffed and slapped his way to what is generally recognized as the light-heavyweight title here tonight by defeating debonair Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, in a 15-round bout at Bison stadium.

Rosenbloom weighed 170½, Slattery 166½.

The bout was given international recognition in that the "Harlem Harlequin" was recognized as light heavy champion by the N.B.A. while Slats was handed the crown by the New York State Boxing commission.

Chisox Split Double Bill With Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, June 25. (AP)—The Chicago White Sox held the world's champion Athletics to an even split in a double-header here today taking the second game 7 to 2 after the Athletics had an 8 to 1 romp in the opening contest.

Ted Lyons was walloped hard in the first affair while George Earnshaw was limiting the Sox to seven hits. Chicago finished Rube Walberg in four innings of the second game. Hunnefield hit the left hander's first pitch of the game for a home run. Scores:

START MARKED BY CEREMONIES

Players Presented Gifts on Diamond

By FRED D. THOMPSON

History repeated itself down at the foot of Seventh street Wednesday afternoon. The crowd was there—not as many as came last April 9, but some 2,000, at least—the Shreveport Sports were there. Mayor Nelson was there to pitch the first ball, Fire Chief J. L. McClure was there to receive it, and the Spudder championship flags flew in the breeze—what there was of it—over the lot.

And, to cap the climax, the Spudders, champions of the first half, repeated their performance of last April 9 and gave the Sports a beating to start the second half off right.

Wiltse Wins Decision

The score was 4 to 3. It was a brilliant game, a tight decision. Hal Wiltse went the route for the Spudders, giving up 10 hits, exactly the number the Spudders got off Estrada and Tuero, both aces of the Shreveport staff who were called into action in a futile attempt to whip the Williamsmen.

The Spudders entered the fray with hearts made happy with gifts from merchants of the city who were represented by Judge H. F. Weldon at the presentation. Each player received at least two gifts, some of them as many as four.

Opening day, however, was marred by one accident. Walter Euller, star third sacker of the Spudders, sprained his ankle in the third inning after he had participated in a sensational double play. Had Euller not injured himself in the final throw after the double killing had been registered, a triple play likely would have resulted.

Tight Defense

The game opened with both teams well prepared for a tight duel, and double plays by each side figured in the closing of the first frame. The Spudders started the scoring in the third inning, when Charlie Geygan, Spudder utility infielder who replaced Euller at third, singled to center and was driven in by Storti's double to left. The Sports got their first tally in the fourth when Hutson doubled to left, took third on Perry's infield out, and scored on Woods' single past first. The Spudders returned in their half of the inning to score another and take the lead. This time it was Bettencourt's double to left and Crouch's single to right.

The Sports went scoreless in the fifth, but Storti, first up for the Spudders in their half, connected for a home run over the left center field palings. The rest of the inning was uneventful.

In the sixth the Sports scored for the second time. This time it was on Hutson's second double to left, and Perry's hot one through the box which scored Hutson. The Spudders went scoreless in their half.

The last tally managed by the Williamsmen came in the seventh when Levey doubled, took third on Storti's sacrifice to center, and scored on Fitzgerald's double to right. The Sports pushed their total to three runs in the eighth when Baker hit for the circuit, the ball sailing over the left field wall.

The teams meet today in the last game of the short series.

Fans Give Champions Reception And Parade on Return Back Home

Bearing the laurels of first half champions of the Texas league, and conscious of the struggle ahead to keep these honors for their own, the Wichita Falls Spudders came home yesterday. They landed down at the same old depot, and stepped off the train to be welcomed by the home folks just like they were when they came back from their recent lengthy and successful road trip. Then they came home victors, but yesterday they came home champions. A milling crowd of some 1,500 fans was on hand to greet the boys, and Paul Seeds and his Playground band played stirring ditties.

Skipper Carl Williams surprised everybody by being one of the crowd of welcomers. The skipper left the team at Beaumont last Saturday to visit his home in Santa Anna, leaving Howard Fitzgerald in charge of the Central Texas firing line. He arrived in Wichita Falls about 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon after an overland trip from Santa Anna.

Following the reception down at the depot, Fire Chief J. L. McClure took charge of matters and arranged a parade through the business section. The players were hoisted into automobiles and the trek started with Paul Seeds' band and a fire truck in the fore.

League President J. Alvin Gardner and William E. Huff, president of the Spudders, rode in the parade. Skipper Williams rode beside a bundle of smiles who goes by the name of Hal Wiltse. Most of the players were accompanied on the triumphal tour by their wives or girl friends. There were spontaneous outbursts of cheers from the boulevards as the team rode through the city and down to the ball park, where further welcoming ceremonies were carried out before the scheduled battle with the Shreveport Sports which opened the second half of the season.

Walkup, Urban Sold by Panthers

FORT WORTH, June 25. (AP)—Jimmy Walkup, veteran southpaw hurler was sold to Beaumont by Fort Worth today, at the time Nick Urban, regular third sacker last season and the first half of the present campaign was sold to the Dallas club. He was slated to handle short for the Steers.

Walkup came to Fort Worth from Okmulgee in 1924 and has been here since with the exception of a brief trip to Detroit and Newark in 1928.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 25. (AP)—Early declines in cotton attributed to near month liquidation and selling of later deliveries on relatively easy cables and favorable crop advices, were followed by rallies during today's trading.

July after selling off to 13.00 rallied to 13.38 on covering and closed at 13.33 while the new October contract which had sold off to 12.55 early, advanced to 12.80 and closed at 12.72 compared with 12.70 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 20 points on July, while the old January contract was 2 points net lower, and other new crop months showed net advances of 2 to 8 points.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of 4 to 12 points in response to the relatively easy cables, and liquidation of July incident to the issuance of notices. The notices, according to current estimates, amounted to about 117,200 bales, including deliveries at Savannah and their circulation brought out some scattered selling.

New crop positions meanwhile were sold rather more freely after the publication of the weekly weather report, and there may have been some selling on a private report pointing to an acreage of 45,518,000 acres and an indicated crop of 14,959,000 bales.

Later, covering by near month shorts became a little more active with offerings light. The old October sold up to 13.05 and the new December to 12.95. The close was a few points off from the best under realizing.

The late afternoon advance was accompanied by reports of a firmer basis for spot cotton in the Carolinas and there was some covering by early sellers who may have been influenced by rather better late reports from the stock market.

Liverpool cables said that calling and covering had been supplied by Bombay liquidation in that market. Port receipts today, 4,798; U. S. port stocks, 1,658,751. Exports, 4,248, making 6,626,172 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 25. (AP)—The cotton market was fairly active today. Main interest centered about the liquidation of July the first notice day for that month both here and in New York. Notices for 34.80 bales were issued here.

After declining to 18 points on the notices and on a favorable weekly weather and crop summary prices rallied 18 points on covering and on the report that tenders had been called for. July advanced to a new high 48 points above the low while October advanced 25 points from the low. The general market closed at net gains of 7 to 29 points.

Liverpool came in as due to 3 points worse but the market ignored the cables owing to the large issues of notices and first trades showed losses of 8 to 12 points. The market continued to ease after the start and July finally traded to 12.55, down 19 points while October dropped to 12.80, down 13 points.

The market later rallied on the report that the notices had been cared for which induced covering and July advanced to 13.27, up 18 points from the lows, while October advanced to 12.74, up 15 points.

The market rallied sharply in the late trading on covering and the stopping of the notices. July traded up to 13.03, or 45 points above the low and October advanced to 12.84, up 25 points from the low. The market closed at the top, 29 points net up on July and 24 to 25 net up on new crops.

Market Develops Strength at Close After Pressure Forces New Lows

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 25. (US)—Stock prices today finished the day several points higher than the previous close, after being subjected to additional pressure which resulted in new lows being established. The selling, however, failed to get far and ran into dullness. Demand picked up on this demonstration of an oversold condition having developed in the market and most leading stocks enjoyed a strong close with the final prices about the best of the day. An Iron Age review of Steel conditions, which assumed the most cheerful tone in many weeks, quickly found reflection in quotations. The afternoon witnessed a steady improvement from the lows recorded during a secondary drive by the bear element which established the lows for the day. The recovery from the lows was fairly substantial, among the industrials net gains amounting to over four points on the day. Railroad stocks continued under pressure while Utilities held firm. Volume increased to 3,389,200 shares against 2,865,900 shares Tuesday. Call money renewed at 2 per cent, equalling the low record of March.

The day's quota of news was somewhat more cheerful, particular significance being attached to the Iron Age remarks that curtailment of buying may have been overdone and that signs of recovery are gradually developing. It is understood that the most important leaders in the Steel industry are agreeably surprised by the ability of the trade to maintain operations as well as it has thus far. One of the most prominent steel men had expected a rate around 65 per cent by now, whereas the current operations exceed 70 per cent. Steel common reached a new low at 151¾, but rebounded to close at 155¾, for a net gain of 2¾ points. Other leading issues showed similar gains. Radio closing up 8¼, American Can 3, American Telephone & Telegraph 2¾, Westinghouse 3¾, Public Service 3¾, and Consolidated gas 1½.

Some of the midday selling seemed of precipitate nature but the constructionists stepped aside and permitted the liquidation to take its natural course, after which buying increased and brought about the rally which was maintained to the close. Some of the selling was induced by continued nervousness over possible developments at settlement time tomorrow in London, in which connection certain English houses had been reported in difficulties. Powerful American financiers now in London disregarded such nervousness and were substantial purchasers of stocks on the New York exchange. Included in the stocks this group bought were Public Service of New Jersey, Anaconda and American Smelting. Continued heaviness in the Railroad shares as a group was attributed to increasing short selling, a good deal of which is amateur in character.

This column's repeated request business leaders declare their optimism on the outlook has uncovered a courageous industrialist in Philip D. Wagoner, who was listed among a number of well-informed business giants whose views were valued. Mr. Wagoner forecasts an early general revival in business, basing his prophesy on the trend of his own company's affairs.

George W. Hill, president of American Tobacco company, another industrial giant listed with Mr. Wagoner, makes an emphatic and concrete declaration of his faith in the outlook. His directors today voted a $4 extra on the company's stock, will split the present shares two-for-one and increase the regular dividend.

A few more such declarations and expressions of confidence in the outlook would dissipate the thick gloom which obscures the future of American business.

It is understood that the Diamond Match company is likewise planning a handsome "melon" for its shareholders. Stockholders probably will be informed of the directors' plans in the near future.

Action tomorrow on the Anaconda dividend will be watched closely by the market. The good news today included the Collins & Aikman report for the first quarter showing improvement of 130 per cent in net over 1929, with the per-share income of $1.01 against 24 cents. Extent of public liquidation was reflected in one Wall street house's statement that its interest of U. S. Steel common amounted to only 100 shares net long, whereas six months ago its clients were holding 8,000 shares. This is undoubtedly a most exceptional case, but stocks undoubtedly have passed in large quantities out of the public's ownership.

The wheat market was somewhat firmer, while corn and lard were off, but firmness prevailed in other commodities. Foreign exchanges were generally steady, with the exception of Spanish pesetas which again broke sharply on political developments.

TRIPLE HOLIDAY

NEW YORK, June 25. (AP)—A triple holiday in the financial district over July 4th was assured today by the action of the boards of governors of both the New York Stock and Curb exchange in voting to close the exchanges Saturday, July 5. The Cotton and Rubber exchanges already have voted to observe the day as a holiday and most of the commodity markets are expected to close, banks, however, will remain open.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, June 25. (AP)—Good demand was reported for wheat Wednesday on the Fort Worth cash grain market. Exporters were said to be bidding around 90½c basis ordinary export wheat delivered Texas gulf ports. Mills were bidding 90¾@91¼c, delivered Texas common points. The day set a 1930 record for receipts here with 331 cars estimated on tracks. Other receipts were: Corn, 5; oats, 5, barley, 1 and sorghums, 3.

Fair demand was reported for corn and oats but trade in barley was small and sorghums were very slow with prices nominal.

Bids and offers ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 91@92c; No. 2 white 97@98c; No. 2 yellow 93@96c.

Oats—No. 2 red 42½@43½c.

Barley—No. 2, nominally, 60@61c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo, nominally, $1.92@1.95; No. 2 kafir, nominally, $1.65@1.70.

Dealers also quoted as follows, basis delivered Texas group one points: No. 2 mixed corn 89@90c; No. 2 white 94@95c; No. 2 yellow 93½@94½c; No. 3 white oats 46½@47½c, to which add one cent for delivery group three.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 25. (AP)—Grain exchange tradition collided squarely today with the recent habit which some commodities have acquired of breaking low price records almost each successive 24 hours. Largely as a result of the tradition that this was a calendar date to purchase wheat and corn, wheat values averaged higher notwithstanding that wheat, corn and rye temporarily touched new bottom levels.

Wheat made its advance in the face of distress reports from the Southwest that exhausted offer of elevator space for wheat in that section is imminent, with harvest progressing fast and export demand inadequate.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 3@3½c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ½@¾c off, oats ½@¾c up and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 17c.

Action today by Governor Reed of Kansas, looking to federal farm board purchase of 25,000,000 bushels of wheat as a relief measure to offset wheat price depression apparently was not a factor in today's wheat dealings. News about the governor having telegraphed to Chairman Legge of the farm board was not received in Chicago until after the wheat market had closed for the day.

On the other hand, however, incentives to obtain profits from speculative selling ventures were minimized by the fact that farmers were reported as obtaining as little as but 59c a bushel for newly harvested wheat in some parts of the Southwest.

"Calendar" purchasing of wheat future deliveries was in accord with a widespread belief which frequently influences many grain traders either to buy or sell, and is based on long time experience of past dealings and of worldwide seasonable developments as to crops and shipping needs rather than on any arbitrary assumptions as to luck or the reverse.

Weakness of corn was ascribed largely to talk current that high prices of corn as compared with other cereals could not be maintained barring a calamity to the new corn crop. Oats were influenced by the government weekly crop report which said the oat crop was heading short in some sections.

Provisions averaged lower because of liquidating sales by holders of July lard contracts.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, July 86@91c; Sept. 89¾@94c; Dec. 95¼c@$1.00; corn, July 73¾c@76c; Sept. 72¾-¾@74¼-¾c; Dec. 66¾-67@69¾c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, June 24. (US)—There is a growing number of traders who believe that most of the long lines of speculative wheat have been liquidated and that this wheat has gone into the hands of cash interests and speculators able to hold it at present levels. This group is inclined to consider most of the selling in the past few sessions as extension of an already large short interest.

Broomhall made his first estimate of European requirements, which of course is purely an estimate pending outcome of the crops abroad. In his guess he figures season's needs at 544,000,000 bushels, of which he estimates Russia and the Balkans will furnish 48,000,000 bushels each, North America 300,000,000 bushels and the southern hemisphere 150,000,000 bushels.

Heavy sales of flour, as indicated by the Northwestern Miller, forecasts possible purchases of futures by the mills as they may be unable to buy cash wheat in sufficient quantities to cover their sales.

Nebraska bankers estimate that 15 per cent of last year's corn crop is in farmers' hands in that state.

Harvesting has already commenced in the wheat districts of Italy, but early yields are disappointing, cables state.

Leviathan Chief Does Own Steering

NEW YORK, June 25. (INS)—When the giant S. S. Leviathan arrived off Ambrose channel lightship today Capt. Harold A. Cunningham ignored the pilot boat standing by and himself piloted the great ship to her pier in the north river.

It was the first time in history that the master of a big ship has ever defied the law, written and unwritten, which requires that only a member of the pilots association should be at the helm of a vessel coming into the harbor.

Officers of the pilots association were up in arms today over Captain Cunningham's action. They declared that, though the law requires the shipmaster to use a pilot, there is nothing in the statute which makes failure to do so a criminal offense.

"Nevertheless," said an official of the board of pilot commissioners, "if Cunningham thinks he will save his owners pilots fees by taking his 50,000 ton ship and 562 passengers through the riskiest channel in the world without a pilot, he is mistaken. The owners will have to pay the pilot's fee in any event."

The pilot's fee on a ship of the Leviathan's tonnage exceeds $1,000.

HOT WEATHER HELPS COTTON

Texas Crop Advances in Heat Wave

WASHINGTON, June 25. (UP)—Government's weekly weather report issued today said:

"The warm weather during the week was mostly favorable for the cotton crop and cultivation made good advance generally with mostly fair weather prevailing. Rain is needed, however, especially over late planted cotton in some central sections of the belt.

"In Texas, weather was generally favorable with improvements reported from most districts but the crop is still late though early planted cotton is fruiting well. The first bale was marketed in this state on the 21st of June.

"In Oklahoma progress was mostly very good with some early plants forming squares. In most of Arkansas, the advance was mostly good to excellent, a few blooms being reported.

"In other sections of the belt rain is needed in a good many sections especially for late planted cotton. In the Atlantic coast states there was too much rain in parts of the north but in general weather was favorable with progress of the crop mostly good.

"Cotton shows improvement in all sections of Georgia with squares appearing to the extreme northern part."

Bandits Spared in Battle Captured

TOLEDO, Ill., June 25. (UP)—Their companion killed by a sheriff's posse, three bandits, who were captured after an all-day chase by aroused citizens and peace officers, maintained a stubborn silence in the county jail today.

An inquest was scheduled to be held over the dead bandit, who was identified tentatively as Jack Dane, Urbana, Ill. The other suspects gave their names as Harry Adams, Eddie Meyer and Jack Dunken.

When the four men held up the First National bank of Nobile near here yesterday, Charles Coen, cashier, pressed a button which sounded an alarm and brought out the Nobile home guard, an organization recently formed to protect the town from bandits. The bandits escaped under rifle fire with $10,000 in cash and $30,000 in bonds, and later were overtaken in woods near here.

Freeland to Seek Sheriff's Office

M'ALLEN, Texas, June 25. (AP)—F. B. Freeland, former mayor of McAllen and active as a member of the executive committee of the Hidalgo county good government league, today announced his candidacy for sheriff subject to action of the good government party convention July 26.

T. G. Murrow, McAllen farmer, announced for county commissioner at the same time, these being the first aspirants for office in the good government league.

The Democratic faction had 48 announced as candidates in the primaries among which are three for the sheriff's office, now held by A. Y. Baker, long-time political leader in the county, who is retiring. They are Earl Hersh and John Bales of McAllen and Bob Daniels of Mission.

Midwest Looks for Tax Relief Scheme

CHICAGO, June 25. (INS)—Members of 15 midwestern state legislatures returned to their homes today after meeting here to study means for reducing the general tax burden.

Claude McKenzie, Minnesota, the chairman of the session, said the chief problem was finding new sources of revenue to supplant general taxes.

"Values have been taxed out of property, especially homes and farms," he said. "Many farms are being abandoned."

He recommends a 50 per cent reduction in property taxes.

Frank Hawks May Try To Regain Air Honors

WICHITA, Kan., June 25. (UP)—Speculation was rife in air circles here today over the possibility that Capt. Frank Hawks might attempt to regain the transcontinental speed record which he lost to the Lindberghs several weeks ago.

Captain Hawks arrived here yesterday to receive delivery of a specially constructed monoplane said to be capable of a sustained speed of 225 miles an hour.

Delinquent Pledges To Chest Total $8,000

Only $5,825.23 of the $13,000 due the community chest as payments for the month of June has been collected to date, according to Miss Myrle Neely, executive secretary. At least $2,000 more is needed in order for the chest to pay bills due July 5.

"There will be no money to take care of the co-organizations for the next month, if the installments are not paid before July 5," Miss Neely said.

Plans are under way for the employment of a collector to begin work on the delinquent payments, Miss Neely said.

MAJESTIC: "Young Man of Manhattan," with Claudette Colbert, Norman Foster and Charles Ruggles putting on a show we would designate worth five stars in a private estimation. Just for fun, "The Dancing Gob," also Paramount news.

STRAND: Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in "High Society Blues." Liberty gives them three stars. Talking comedy, Paramount songs feature and sound news.

STATE: Buster Keaton still talking in "Free and Easy," with audience still laughing. Felix the Cat and Pathe sound news.

GEM: "Rio Rita," with Bebe Daniels and John Boles, also talking comedy.

No better summer resort than the Majestic today! Oh, of course, the Strand is also cool inside but we were in the Majestic.

If you like clean comedy, with touches where you get a lump in your throat and plenty of youth and beauty, be sure to go see Claudette Colbert and Norman Foster in "Young Man of Manhattan."

The story as it came out in the Saturday Evening Post is not to be compared with the play. But one could not visualize "Ann's" pretty face there.

The young man "Toby" who is an all-round sports editor on a New York newspaper and does his love-making just as speedily as a good sports editor does all his work, doesn't dream of having anything of the green-eyed god in his makeup.

But it does not fit in with the proper scheme, for the girl for whom he meant to do things to be the money maker of the family.

Then "Puff" steps in—the flirty little flapper who thinks of Toby as "Big Boy" and who didn't mean a thing in his young life until—in the line of business. Ann goes out to dine with the man for whom she is doing a series of articles.

Toby entertains Puff in the home apartment in Ann's absence. Puff sings "I've got 'it' but 'it' don't do me no good," with flirtatious eyes and what with jealousy and booze, Toby winds up drunk.

Toby and Ann are such clean young people. Toby tells his wife everything as long as he thinks she loves him and she laughs at his pecadilloes so long as she knows he is telling her.

She has to go west to write some features; he has to go south to summer training quarters and he goes so brokenheartedly, he forgets his whisky in the apartment. When she comes home, knowing nothing of his whereabouts, she drinks—and is blind.

That's quite enough to tell. Your eyes get teary when Toby goes in the closet and loves his wife's clothes. But there are more smiles than tears.

If you haven't the price, do like Toby's friends did for him, borrow it. Maybe you'll be inspired like Toby to do real work. And there's a remark we must reiterate, it is so delightfully cool in the Majestic.

COLLEGE BOND ISSUE URGED

Cantwell and Harrell Address Optimists

Continued pleas for support of a campaign now being inaugurated to provide a junior college permanently in this community were voiced before members of the Optimist club Wednesday noon by Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of the city schools, and J. T. Harrell, chairman of the committee appointed recently by the chamber of commerce directorate to work out a solution of the problem.

Impossibility of continuing the operation of Wichita Falls Junior college more than one more year under its present financing was stressed by Dr. Cantwell after he had reviewed briefly its history. The college was established in 1922.

"Maintenance of the college can be provided only by a bond issue by this county, or a group of counties," Dr. Cantwell said. "Universities declare that junior colleges are absolutely necessary to relieve them of a surplus of under-classmen, and we no longer have any room in the high school building for Junior college classes. Members of the board of education, after thorough study, believe that a county school is the only solution."

Efforts are being made by members of the chamber of commerce committee, it was said, to convince citizens of surrounding communities that creation of funds for a new college building, and maintenance, is indispensable.

Mr. Harrell declared that crowded schools are an indication of good times, and should be welcomed as a desirable condition. He urged the need of early action to provide a new college for high school graduates in this and surrounding counties.

Frank Dinkins entertained Wednesday's assembly with piano solos, and R. D. Ford led a club singsong.

Loss of Cotton Crop Claimed in $3,175 Suit

Wichita County Water Improvement districts were again involved in a suit for damages Wednesday when a suit asking $3,175 damagas was filed in the 89th district court against district No. 2 in behalf of John W. Thomas on a claim growing out of alleged damage to a cotton crop on land owned by Mr. Thomas in July, 1928.

Mr. Thomas' petition states he had planted 100 acres in cotton and that the irrigation district had offered use of its canals for watering the land. After the cotton had reached a good stand, the petition reads, dry weather caused Mr. Thomas to request that the water be turned into the canals for irrigation, and it was agreed the water would be provided the next day. Eleven days passed, however, it is alleged, before the water was turned on, repeated requests having been made because of the damage due to dry weather. The water was then turned on with such volume, the petition states, that the canals were unable to hold it and an extensive overflow caused further damage. Mathis & Caldwell, local attorneys, are representing Mr. Thomas.
