STRIKE TROUBLES SPREAD

KATY FORCED TO CUT DEEP IN SCHEDULES

Trains are Annulled at Scores of Points

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 8.—Announcement by officials of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad that eight local passenger trains had to be discontinued today, marked the first serious impairment of the service of railroads in this city since the beginning of the strike of the railroad shopmen. In addition to the local trains, 30 others over the entire system were affected by the temporary discontinuation of service.

Inability to maintain a sufficient number of men at terminals to take care of the locomotives and insufficient protection for the men operating the trains were given as the cause of the temporary suspension of passenger service.

W. B. Schaff, receiver of the road, aid in making the announcement, that the service would not be restored until definite assurance of protection had been given him by Governor Hyde.

DALLAS CROWDS ACCLAIM NEFF

Governor Talks to Huge Throng

Special to the Record News

DALLAS, Texas, July 8.—Governor Neff addressed one of the largest audiences of the campaign at the fair park tonight. He appeared under the auspices of the Dallas County Woman's Democratic association and more than half the audience of 3,000 was made of the recently emancipated voters. John Davis presided and former Attorney General Robert Vance Davidson introduced the speaker of the evening, saying that he ranked with Sul Ross, O. M. Roberts and other governors of Texas.

Gives Account.

Governor Neff gave an account of his stewardship. His speech, being along the usual lines, dealt with the cost of government, the duty of the citizen, and he launched his six point program which covers education, law enforcement, public highway construction, conservation of flood waters and the reclamation of the valley lands from overflow.

He was given a most enthusiastic reception and his speech was well received. There were many prominent democrats, men and women in the audiences, and his friends assured him that Dallas county would give him an overwhelming majority at the July primary.

Youth Follows Lover to Grave

By Associated Press.

GRAHAM, Texas, July 8.—Cold in death, the body of Edward Sanders, 19, was found early today in the little Graham cemetery beside the newly-made grave of Miss Lottie Anthony, one of the victims of a quadruple drowning which occurred during a Fourth of July outing on the Brazos river.

Near Sanders' body were found an empty bottle labeled poison and the photographs of the dead girl and one of her companions in death. Sanders' father said his son was very much attached to the Anthony girl and that he had been despondent since the holiday tragedy.

New Charter

By Associated Press.

TEMPLE, Texas, July 8.—Temple voters by a majority of about 3 to 1 decided today to adopt a new charter providing for the commission-manager form of government. Adoption of the charter automatically extends the city boundary to take in a population estimated at between 2,500 and 3,000 persons. The mayor and commissioners, it is said, will resign and call an election for commissioners, who will employ an executive as a city manager.

Dunn Manages Birmingham Club

By Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 8.—Joe Dunn, veteran catcher, has been appointed manager of the Birmingham baseball team to succeed Carlton Molesworth who resigned Monday, according to an announcement tonight by President W. D. Smith of the club.

Several years ago, Dunn played with the Mobile club of the Southern league as catcher. He had previously played with Evansville, Central league, Dallas, Texas league, and Springfield in the Eastern league.

Six Trains Out of Wichita Taken off By Katy Railroad

"Existing Conditions" Only Reason Given Public for Taking Off Passengers on Road Here; Denver to Run All Trains

Cancellation of six trains running out of Wichita Falls over the M. K. & T. railroad was announced Saturday by the management. A total of 43 trains on the M. K. & T. system were annulled, according to dispatches from St. Louis.

Trains cancelled out of Wichita Falls at Numbers 1, 2, 11, 12, 47 and 48. The Dallas train, No. 48, will continue to operate until Monday, but all other cancellations go into effect Sunday.

At local M. K. & T. headquarters the only information given out regarding the cancellation of local trains was that it was done because of "existing conditions."

Workmen Engaged

Asked if the strike of the machinists and other employes caused the trains to be cancelled, it was said that "existing conditions" caused the trains to be taken off and more than that statement no information was given out. It was said that some workmen have been engaged locally and are working in places of striking employes and have not been interfered with.

Denver to Run

At the Fort Worth & Denver City railroad headquarters it was said that all trains are running and will continue to run so far as can be foretold. Officials said passenger traffic just now is on the increase and trains are running right up to the minute in schedule in most places. It was said also that some workmen have been put to work in place of strikers and that so far there has been no trouble.

Saturday morning striking railway employes were in session for more than two hours at the labor temple. The meeting was behind closed doors. From individuals information was obtained to the effect that the employes on strike are standing pat and are not weakening.

UNION CHIEF

Edward F. Grable, president of the rail maintenance of way employes.

After a conference with members of the U. S. rail labor board in which certain concessions are said to have been made, President Edward F. Grable and leaders of the maintenance of way employes have decided to withhold strike action by their union.

Man Wrapped in Bandages Limps In to Tell of Fight in Rail Yards

A man in bandages appeared in the Record News office just before daylight Friday morning.

"I landed a terrific right to a negro's jaw, then I went down. When I got wise to what had happened I was in the hospital."

The man said his fist was broken, seven stitches had been taken under his left eye and his collar bone had been broken. He was a veritable mass of bandages.

"How did it happen?"

"There were two of us hurt," explained the man, who refused to give his name, other than state that he formerly had been a switchman, working last two years ago. "There were several in our party," he continued "We were going down the Denver tracks between Seventh and Eighth street about 10:30 or 11 o'clock when we met a number of negroes in charge of one of the officials of the road. The blacks had been coupling air in the yards.

"I approached one of them and swung my right. Whether he went down or up, I couldn't say—that was all I knew—that I hit him."

"What went with other members of your party?"

"I don't know. One of them was injured, whether the others stuck and fought it out, I can't say."

At the police headquarters no report had been made of any violence in the Denver or any other yards. Rail officials dismissed the matter with: "It was just a scrap between a couple of fellows."

Maniac Loose in Office Building? Business Man Has Narrow Escape

A knife blade darting through the air from somewhere overheard cut through the brim of W. R. Couch's hat and then passed through his left ear as he walked along Eighth street at the side of the American National Bank building, just after 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

A second later a rat-tail, file came through the air and buried its point several inches deep in the wooden street paving a few feet behind Mr. Couch.

Landon H. Cullom, who was driving up in his car, saw the file fall and seeing Mr. Couch's wounds went to him. Neither of the two men saw where the missiles came from, but they came straight down as if from an office window above. The force of the knife blade was such that had it struck three inches to the right it would have pierced Mr. Couch's brain. The file, had it struck him, would have passed half way through his body, it is said.

Mr. Couch, who is one of the owners of the Tenth street drug store, said he is puzzled over the matter. He does not think he has an anemy who would waylay him and he does not think that anyone waylaying him would be up in an office building, as he has no certain times of passing that way. Police are investigating the case.

The knife blade which went through Mr. Conch's hat and ear, apparently is hand forged, about three inches long and very heavy made, suitable for guiding accurately in throwing.

Southern States Buys Nine Leases In Hewitt for Million and a Half

Purchase of the properties of Anderson & Simpson and B. A. Simpson aggregating nine partially developed leases in the Hewitt field near Ardmore, Okla., for a consideration of $1,500,000 was announced from the field headquarters of the Southern States Oil corporation, the purchaser, here Friday.

The announcement was made by Charles H. Verschoyle, Texas representative of the company. The deal was closed by former Congressman Scott Ferris, close business associate of former Gov. C. N. Haskell of Oklahoma, head of the interest which includes the Southern States.

The property will be turned over to the Sure Oil corporation, a Texas corporation operating under a permit to do business in Oklahoma, and an operating subsidiary of the Southern States, for operation.

The production on the property is from a number of sands ranging in depth from 1,500 to 1,900, with some deeper sands which are to be developed by the new operators.

Exceeding thickness of sands is characteristic of the Hewitt field, in which these properties are located—the sand on one of the leases included in this deal going 170 feet to a break of 10 feet, followed by 110 feet more of sand.

United Royalties Incorporated At Five Million With 300 Wells

After operating for two years as a trust estate with C. A. Rogers as trustee, the United Royalties company of this city recently incorporated with an authorized capitalization of $5,000,000.

Starting in a small way some two years ago in a little office, the company has grown until it now has royalty holding in more than 300 producing oil wells in Texas and Oklahoma. It is now classed among the largest home institutions of its kind and occupies a suite of offices on the sixth floor of the American National bank building.

The officers of the corporation are, C. A. Rogers, president; W. W. Gardner, vice president; Norris Ewing, secretary; J. H. Gardner, treasurer; J. D. Coombs, production superintendent, and J. A. Cook, auditor.

The directors of the company are: C. A. Rogers, W. W. Gardner, J. D. Coombs, J. H. Gardner and J. T. Harrell. W. W. Gardner, vice president and director of the company is vice president of the Wichita State Bank and Trust company. J. T. Harrel is the active vice president of the City National Bank of Commerce.

Both of these gentlemen are well known in the local banking and oil circles. The other three directors are well known among the oil fraternity throughout the entire mid-continent field.

From a royalty interest in four wells this company has grown to the point where it now received incomes from 66 different producing tracts scattered throughout the best fields of Texas and Oklahoma. The company is now preparing to acquire a number of additional properties and its rate of growth at this time is most phenomenal.

Still Goes Up

By Associated Press.

AMARILLO, July 8. — Several blocks of residents in the south end of Amarillo were thrown into a panic this afternoon when a still in the house of Martin J. Delong blew up. A 60-gallon barrel and the worm went through the roof of the house. Delong decamped. Officers are searching for him. A complaint charging him with illegal manufacture of intoxicants was filed.

Fight Train Rates

By Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 8.—Any effort on the part of railroads to increase freight rates on corn to a party with wheat will be resisted to the limit by middlewest state railroad commissions, D. N. Lewis, of the Iowa railroad commission declared today. Iowa, South Dakota, Minnesota, Missouri and Illinois commissions will be represented at a conference to be held in St. Paul, July 31, to plan concentrated opposition before the interstate commerce commission.

CANDIDATES UP IN AIR AS DAY TO VOTE NEARS

Their Managers Also Wondering What Move to Make

By H. N. F.

DALLAS, July 8.—Zach Chandler was a famous republican boss in the long ago. He was national chairman of the republican committee in the Cleveland-Blaine campaign. On election night when the electoral vote of New York was hanging in the balance, Chandler issued his famous order to his lieutenants, "Claim every damn thing in sight."

They did and the republicans the country over celebrated the election of Blaine. Twenty-four hours later the count was finished in the state of New York and Grover Cleveland was elected president of the United States. Senatorial contenders in Texas and their king campaign managers have adopted the Chandler plan.

Managers in Air

They are claiming every damn thing in sight. Regardless of this, they are up in the air. Candidates are up in the air. Managers are up in the air. Political writers are up in the air and possibly a vast majority of the voters are up in the air. There has been nothing like it in Texas politics for many years.

Judge Barry Miller unhesitatingly declared to the writer that Culberson and Mayfield would be in the run-off. W. H. Ward, the office manager of the Culberson forces, predicted a greater strength for Culberson than he mustered six years ago, when three powerful campaigners who are not in this race contended for senatorial honors. The writer has reference to Oscar B. Colquitt, Thomas M. Campbell and Dr. Samuel Palmer Brooks. Their voices are silent in this campaign. Oscar Touchstone, who is directing the Thomas forces, is quite confident as ever that Cullen F. Thomas will lead in the July primary and win the nomination in the run-off.

Thomas, it will be remembered, is the champion of all the Wilson policies and he is the only candidate in the race who has declared himself in sympathy with the railroad strikers and the 600,000 coal miners of the country who are battling against wage reduction. Mayfield is drawing large audiences in certain sections. Henry is drawing large audiences. Mayfield is silent as to the ku klux klan. Henry is outspoken as a klansman.

$15,000 Fire Here Late Saturday Being Investigated by Officials

Fire, the origin of which is being investigated by the department, completely destroyed one residence and contents and badly damaged two others in the 1600 block on McGregory street just after 6 o'clock Saturday night. Total damage to all buildings and contents is roughly estimated at $15,000.

The fire originated in the home of O. J. Norwood, 1636 McGregory. Mr. Norwood and his family are out of the city and had the house rented out. The people who reside in the house were not at home when the fire started, according to the firemen.

Neighbors Give Alarm

Flames got well under way before neighbors noticed the burning house and turned in an alarm. On account of the long distance to the house and the progress the flames made the firemen were unable to save the building or contents, but were able to save the greater portion of two other adjoining residences which caught fire.

The Norwood home was valued at $6,000 and contents valued at about $2,500, all of which was partially covered by insurance, it is said. Damage to the other two buildings and contents was roughly estimated Saturday night at $6,500.

Crash With Car

While making the run to the fire the hook and ladder wagon came in contact with a Buick touring car on Ninth street at Lamar. The result was that the Buick had two lights torn off and a wheel damaged. The occupants narrowly escaped death, but were uninjured. Firemen said the Buick was coming out of Lamar street and came directly across the street, the driver evidently not seeing the fire truck until too late to avoid the collision.

BAD WRECK IN KANSAS

Santa Fe Flier Hits Open Switch

By Associated Press.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., July 8.—Running at 40 miles an hour, eastbound Santa Fe train No. 4 (second section) ran into an open switch at Burrton, 16 miles east of here this afternoon, wrecking the train and injuring nine seriously.

Eight of the injured were passengers in the club car, the first behind the engine. It was the only wooden car in the train. The steel dining car, next behind, nosed half way through the club car, reducing it to kindling. These cars and the engine were the only ones to leave the track.

A spectacular feature of the wreck which might have been disastrous was that the engine collided with two cars of gasoline, the impact igniting them. These burned fiercely for hours.

TARIFF BILL SPLITS DEMS

Many Side in With Republicans

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—There was another and wide split today among the democrats on the tariff, a number of them joining with the republicans in joining with the lower rates on rice written into the bill by the finance committee majority. The house rates were approved on motion of the committee, which receded from its amendments.

Separate votes were had on each rate, but roll calls weredemanded on only two, those on rough rice and on milled rice.

On the first roll call Senators Ashurst of Arizona; Broussard and Ransdell of Louisiana; Caraway and Robinson of Arkansas; Jones of New Mexico; Kendricks, Wyoming, and Sheppard, Texas, voted with the majority, while Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, voted with the remaining 11 democrats in favor of the lower committee rate.

Ohio Officials Face Music

By Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 8.—Law enforcement in Ohio coal mining regions in the event of mine strike trouble was put squarely up to local officials throughout the state today by Federal Judge Sater and Governor Davis here.

Orders that United States marshals proceed to the Consolidated Coal & Coke company properties in Perry county temporarily were held up by Judge Sater. At practically the same time, Governor Davis issued a statement declaring county and municipal law enforcement officers in the mining region of Ohio "will be held to strict account" if there are strike disorders.

HELP NEEDED IN GERMANY

Teutons Face Grave Crisis

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8. — Germany, facing a political and economic situation generally admitted as most serious, must, in the view of American officials, as expressed today, look across the Rhine to France for necessary relief.

France, it was stated today, must loosen her grip upon the reparation situation to lighten Germany's financial burden or utter collapse of the former strong central power may result and a radical regime arise from the ruins.

U. S. Help

Help from the United States, it generally is maintained by officials here, only can be given Germany in the form of private capital and Germany can obtain loans only through the offer of sufficiently protective security to attract investors. Under the present reparations scheme, it appears to officials here that all of Germany's resources are bound to the wheel of allied payments and held close by the hand of France so that unless Germany can obtain concessions to permit of the pledging of some of her potential wealth as security, all hope of financial assistance from without must be abandoned.

The situation in Germany financially and economic, has been made known to officials of the American government by means of reports from American representatives in Germany of the state and commerce departments.

All of them are said to agree very closely in certain general conclusions.

Griswold Brings In 1,000 Barrel Well

The Griswold Oil company added a thousand barrel producer to South Electra's total of 1,900-foot wells on Saturday when the No. 27 Burnett, Lease A, was drilled in.

The new well, the best reported for the entire week, is in the southwest corner of the Griswold's original Burnett lease, and is the far southeast producer in the 1900-foot sand at present.

This company has two other wells on the sand. The No. 26 is on the 1900-foot sand, and the No. 8, same lease, has been deepened from the 1400 to the 1600-foot sand.

Strike Not to Stop Trade Trip Special

The Wichita Falls trade trip special will run on schedule Monday afternoon.

This announcement was made late yesterday by Hubert Harrison, following the report circulated on the streets that the strike of carmen would block the special. Mr. Harrison says he got in touch with Trainmaster Smith of the Katy after the report and was assured that the train would not be affected.

J. W. Chatham, Jr., in charge of the train, reported that it will be moved into town early Monday.

Many Guesses at Marmon Exhibit

Just a trifle less than 4,000 guesses at the weight of the miniature Marmon motor and the two miniature cars were obtained by the Fritz Motor company, distributors of the car here, as a result of the exhibit at the Shrine circus and the downtown exhibits preceding the circus, it was announced Saturday night when the awards were made.

Nine correctly guessed the weight of the motor, which was 13 pounds, and which was finally awarded to Garnett Parker, 1064 Lucile. The hats, awarded for the correct guesses on the cars, 60 pounds each, went to L. Allen, 2107 Polk, and P. M. Bameau, 1633 Elizabeth. Winners of the boys' essay contests will be announced Monday.

The final teardown and reassembling of the Marmon motor, performed Saturday night, was made in 41 minutes and seven seconds.

TROOPS READY FOR DUTY IN MANY STATES

Fatalties Reported; More Rioting Feared

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 8.—The calling out of troops in Illinois, the assembling of soldiers in half a dozen other states and the intervention of the federal courts in the nation-wide strike of railway shopmen marked the close of the eighth day of the walkout tonight.

The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad tonight secured a federal injunction here restraining picketing at the Aurora shops while earlier in the day an injunction was issued at New Orleans restraining strikers from interfering with trains on the Southern Pacific. At Council Bluffs, Iowa, the Burlington obtained a temporary restraining order directed against striking shopmen in southern Iowa. Department of justice officials at Washington were investigating reports that strike disorders were interfering with the mails.

Lieutenant Governor Sterling of Illinois tonight ordered troops to Clinton, where an outbreak was threatened following a clash between Illinois Central guards and strike sympathizers in which a boy was killed and two men, one a striker, were injured.

One bright ray appeared through the threatening strike clouds tonight when D. W. Helt, president of the Brotherhood of Signalmen, announced that he would withhold strike orders to 14,000 signalmen pending the preparation and submission of a program to the United States railroad labor board.

ONE KILLED IN CLINTON RIOTING

By Associated Press.

CLINTON, Ill., July 8.—First trouble in the railroad shopmen's strike occurred here today when a guard employed by the Illinois Central shot and killed James Fitzgerald, 12-year-old boy, wounded his father, James Fitzgerald, Sr., a striker, by shooting him through the leg and wounded a passerby, Elmer Hankinson. The latter was shot through both legs.

It is said the trouble started when the guard told a number of strike sympathizers to keep off the right of way, declaring he would "shoot the first man who stepped over the dead line." Fitzgerald, it is said, stepped over, he whipped out a pistol and invited the guard to "begin shooting."

The guard, drawing his gun, fired at Fitzgerald, witnesses claim. One of the bullets entered the right lung of Fitzgerald's 12-year-old son, who died shortly after. Another shot entered Fitzgerald's right leg and through his left foot. A third bullet went through both of Hankinson's legs just above the knee.

The mob of strike sympathizers seemed to surge forward and then if, as if on common impulse, they started for the city for guns. Word preceded them and by the time they reached the business section of the city, two of the three hardware stores in town had succeeded in hiding their stock of firearms and cartridges. Inside the third and largest store were police and deputy sheriffs. Their attempts to keep the men out were futile and the men, it is said, took every gun and cartridge in the store and started for the railroad yards.

Postmaster On Job

Postmaster Charles Cline arrived just as the men were leaving, and talked with them and asked them to stop and think before they commit murder or shed unnecessary blood. The men listened to him and returned every gun and bullet they had taken. The police immediately confiscated them. They then returned to the railroad yards their numbers increased by a hundred or so sympathizers.

Engineers Invited To Meet in Austin

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, July 8.—As a preliminary step control and economic utilization of the river waters of Texas and to prevent further destruction and devastation by floods, Governor Neff today invited approximately 250 engineers of Texas to meet with the state reclamation department and the board of water engineers in Austin on August 7. The purpose of the conference is "for a general consideration of the engineering problem involved in the undertaking," and formulating a program for carrying it out.

SEYMOUR HIT BY BIG FIRE

City Loses Lighting Facilities

Special to the Record News.

SEYMOUR, Texas, July 8.—The Seymour Mill & Elevator plant here is a total loss and the Seymour Power & Ice plant has been seriously damaged as the result of a fire of unknown origin in the elevator plant at 2 o'clock Saturday morning.

The loss to the elevator company is approximately $60,000, while the loss at the power plant is about $8,000. Both plants are partially covered by insurance.

Owners of the power and ice plant started preparations Saturday to repair all damage so that the city will not be without light any longer than possible.

KNOTHOLE GANG CIRCUS GUESTS

Band Leads Boys To Big Tent

The acrobats in the big tent at the Shrine circus performed before a very appreciative audience Saturday afternoon when the members of the knothole gang were the guests of the Shriners. The tent was kept in an uproar by the delighted cries of the gang as the clowns paraded around the arena stunting for the youngsters.

The gang met at the First Methodist church and with the boy scout band leading marched to the circus grounds. Although the band of 30 pieces has been reduced to 15 during vacation time the blare of the bugles could be heard in the roll of the drums as the happy crowd of kids entered the grounds.

H. N. F's. Mainly About PEOPLE

Bailey Tells Facts—Forget Klan, He Says—Vote For the Man—The Departed Rich—

JOSEPH WELDON BAILEY WAS one of the speakers on the program of the state bar association at its Fort Worth meeting. He reminded his fellow lawyers that they could do Texas no greater service than to demand of the legislature a change in the method of nominating men for judicial positions and remove the nomination of judicial judges from the primary to the convention. This was his argument:

"They say then the lawyers would control the judiciary and I say very well. Let the lawyers control. If I wanted a painter I would ask an artist to select one. The greatest scoundrel that ever practised law wants an honest man for judge and the dullest man that ever appeared before a court wants a wise man to save him from error.

"It has been long in Texas since we selected persons for office upon real qualifications. For 20 years we asked if the candidate was pro or anti. Now they want to know if you are klan or anti-klan.

"IT HAS BEEN A LONG TIME since men were elected on qualifications. For 20 years they did ask, 'Are you a pro or an anti?' It was a burning issue and at last the eighteenth amendment came and John Barleycorn was outlawed.

"In the old days the judges of the higher courts of Texas were among the foremost jurists of America. It was something to be a high court judge. It was something to be a district judge. Many of the ablest men of Texas were proud to serve as district judges. Now a candidate for the supreme court or the court of criminal appeals must persue the tactics and employ the methods of a candidate for justice of the peace if he hopes to get very far in the race.

"THERE IS EVERY REASON why the bar association of Texas should recommend to the voters men suitable to serve as high court judges. In the larger cities of America the bar associations go over the offerings before election day and then name those who are the best qualified for judicial positions. Texas has the direct primary, however, and the people are the masters.

"They select the lawmakers and if they wish to return to the convention system of nominating the judges all they have to do is to give instructions to that effect to the men they send to the state senate and the lower house of the Texas legislature."

ACCORDING TO PROHIBITION Commissioner Haynes, there is liquor enough in America for medicinal purposes to last another 25 years. He submits the figures. There are 38,000,000 gallons of liquor in federal warehouses. Now where is the thirsty democrat who wants liquor for medicinal purposes?

TWO RICH TEXANS PASSED on and left their fortunes behind them. They could not take with them their accumulated wealth. Samuel Burk Burnett left behind him an estate having a value of more than $10,000,000. His will was read and then it was known that his vast holdings would remain in the possession of his direct heirs. He gave a small park to his home city some years ago and he provided in his will that the sum of $50,000 should be set aside by his executors for the improvement of the park.

Another Texas millionaire, L. A. Pires was born under an alien flag. He came to America in his early youth. He fought for the stars and stripes, the flag of the adopted land that he loved.

WHEN PEACE CAME HE BEgan to carve out his own fortune. He made no ostentatious display of wealth. He was a silent man to the friends that he made and to the business associates who had come into his career during a long business life. His will revealed the humane side of this alien from over the seas. He had accumulated an estate having a value of over a million dollars.

He directed that the sum of $200,000 in four equal parts should be relatives and friends and that $800,000 in four eual parts should be given to the Masonic bodies to which he belonged, the Southern Methodist university, St. Paul's sanitarium at Dallas and Buckner's Orphan home. When he made his will he remembered the orphans, he remembered the stricken sick, he remembered the cause of education and he did not overlook the vast philanthropies of the great order of which he was a member before the sable messenger called him home.

PRESIDENT HARDING IS SAID to have bowed his back as well as his neck. He would rather the miners and the operators start producing coal peaceably under a mutual agreement, it is said, but if they persist in their deadlock over terms, then the chief executive will not hesitate to make good his implied threat of government seizure of the mines and government operation.

Should the president take this drastic step, he will be as roundly criticised and as severely censured by the operators and their spokesmen as Woodrow Wilson was when he signed the Adamson law. There is a coal famine coming unless the deadlock is broken. Now why should the American people, the consumers of the country, be the victims of a deadlock between the operators and the miners?

CANDIDATES—

many places, having decided that Mayfield was the choice of the majority of the klansmen, insisted that Henry should retire from the race. Henry refused to be eliminated. Regardless of this, klan leaders who are for Mayfield are hopeful that the rank and file will vote for Mayfield on primary election day. Henry is gigging Mayfield in every speech that he makes. Sterling P. Strong is attacking the prohibition record of Mayfield. Strong was for years superintendent on the Anti-Saloon league of Texas and he says in the past when there was fighting to be done for prohibition Mayfield was a weak brother. In those days Henry was a bitter anti-prohibitionist. If Henry has a change of heart and gets out of the race, the prediction is made that Mayfield will get the solid klan vote and the klan has a voting strength, it is said, ranging all the way from 50,000 to 70,000 in the entire state. There are powerful klan leaders who are said to be for Henry. Judge Clark of Waco is one and W. A. Hanger of Fort Worth is another. There is a bunch of prominent klansmen who say that if Culberson and Mayfield are in the run-off, Mayfield is certain to go down in defeat and that Henry would have a chance to run first in a race with the senior senator, despite the fact that Henry fought prohibition and woman's suffrage to a finish, and never bowed to the inevitable until the coming of this senatorial campaign. Culberson voted for the nineteenth amendment and Minnie Fisher Cunningham and other equal suffrage leaders are flooding Texas with literature thanking Culberson for his splendid services when they needed his vote at the time the nineteenth amendment was pending in the senate.

Ferguson Drawing

James E. Ferguson is another contender who is drawing large audiences. He demands the repeal of the federal reserve act. He demands the repeal of the Esch-Cummings act. He demands the return of wines and beer. He is for the closed and not the open shop. He is for organized labor and collective bargaining. He is for Maj. Fred Rogers and against Pat Morris Neff. He is the only senatorial candidate who has declared himself in the gubernatorial contest. A few days ago the Philadelphia Public Ledger made a survey of political conditions in Texas and its 300 correspondents placed Culberson far ahead in the race with Ferguson second.

Another survey was made from Washington by Bascom M. Timmons, a former Texan who is a Washington correspondent for certain Texas newspapers. He placed Culberson first and Ousley second. Where did they get their dope? Most of the candidates themselves concede that Culberson will be in the run-off, but it is all guess work. Culberson has fighting friends in every county in the state; Thomas has the same kind of an organization. Mayfield has been railroad commissioner 10 years and all the shippers like to be on friendly terms with the railroad commissioner and there are many shippers who are silent in this race.

Mayfield Has Organization

Mayfield has an organization. It is admitted everywhere that Ferguson is strong in spots. Joseph Weldon Bailey is going to vote for Clarence Ousley, but he is making speeches for Fred S. Rogers for governor. Neff defeated Bailey for governor. Thomas was on the stump against Bailey during the entire spring and summer of 1920. Bailey would like to see Neff and Thomas go down in defeat. And he is willing to take any man in the senatorial race who gives promise of the ability to place Thomas in his political grave. He has the same high regard for Neff. If it is Culberson and Thomas in the run-off then the Bailey people will go to Culberson. If it is Mayfield and Thomas in the run-off, they will go to Mayfield. If it is Ferguson and Thomas in the run-off, they will go to Ferguson. No doubt they prefer Ousley to any man in the race, but political conditions are such that they do not see where Ousley will be able to muster sufficient votes to get in the run-off, although they are hopeful that something may happen before primary election day that will push him to the front.

PHILATHEA CLASS TO GIVE PLAY AT BURK

Those who were so unfortunate as to miss seeing the comedy entitled "Old Maids association," which was given on the 30th of June by the Philatheat class of the First Methodist church, will be given the opportunity of witnessing a repetition of the playlet on Friday night, July 14, to be given at the First Methodist church in Burkburnett.

Wichita Falls, Texas,
July 10th, 1922

To the Republican Voters of Wichita County:

In compliance with the law, and with the instructions of State Republican Executive Committee, and of the Republican Executive Committee, of this County, a delegated convention of the Republican voters of Wichita County is hereby called to meet in the City of Wichita Falls, being the County seat of said county, at 2:00 P. M., on the 29th day of July, 1922, at the following location:

THE PURPOSE OF THIS CONVENTION IS:

First: To elect delegates and alternate delegates to the Republican State Convention to be held on August 8th, 1922.

Second: To elect delegates and alternate delegates to each of the various Republican District Conventions to be held on August 8th, 1922.

Third: To nominate a complete County Republican Ticket for all County and Precinct offices, as designated.

Fourth: To transact such other and further business as may properly come before said Convention.

Each election precinct will be entitled to one vote in this county Convention for every twenty-five votes, or major fraction thereof, cast in such precinct for Jno. G. Culbertson, Republican candidate for Governor in 1920; each precinct in any event being entitled to one vote in such convention.

Republican Precinct Primary Conventions will be held in each election precinct in this county on Saturday, July 22nd, 1922, and due notice of the hour and place for the holding of such Precinct Primary Conventions will be duly posted in each Precinct by the Republican Precinct Chairman thereof.

All Citizens who are qualified voters under the law regardless of past political affailiations, who believe in the principles of the Republican Party, and who will pledge themselves to support its nominees in good faith, are eligible to participate in said precinct and county convention, and they are cordially invited so to do.

D. T. BACON, Republican County Chairman.

75,000 WITNESS SHRINE SHOW; TRAIN TO COUNCIL ASSURED

All-Steel Special to Take Maskat Crowd To Washington for June Conclave of Nation's Shriners

Seventy-five thousand people passed through the gates of the Shrine circus during its run and as the result of the phenominal success of the circus an all steel train to be the best equipped and finest in every detail that ever crossed the borders of Texas has been ordered to take the Wichita Falls Shriners to the supreme council in Washington next June.

This information was given out Saturday night by Recorder C. O. Fritz after he had watched for two hours the throngs of thousands pouring into the circus grounds and made a hurried check of total attendance.

City to Get Advertising

"The circus has been a success beyond our greatest hopes," said Mr. Fritz and as a result Wichita Falls is going to get the best advertising that any city in the country ever had. Every cent of the money is going to be spent to advertise greater Wichita Falls and there will be none of it spent to any personal or individual advantage.

"We already have ordered the special train to go to the imperial council in Washington next June. It is the first time in the history of the country that a special train has been ordered so far in advance and we have been assured we will get the newest and best of all steel equipment. It is going to be the finest train in every way that ever crossed the borders of Texas and will be the one biggest advertisement any city ever had.

Send Envoy to Washington

"In a few days a representative of Maskat temple will go to Washington to make arrangements for sumptuous quarters during the council for the Shrine patrol Shrine band, divan and all who go on the special train.

Mr. Fritz said that summing up the whole thing the local Shriners are simply going to put over one of the biggest stunts ever pulled off by any Shrine temple and it is all going to be for the benefit of Wichita Falls.

The tremendous crowds which poured into the circus grounds on the last night surprised even the most optimistic Shriners. An abundance of tickets for all shows and for the gate had been printed but at the last every available ticket had to be dug up to accommodate the throngs. Old, middle aged and young folks were out to te salehedisaTSeketjabt were out for the last night of the big circus. They poured into the maintenance of the big top until it took three ticket takers to handle them. They stacked up ten deep at the booths and worked in relays to see Lucile. They were everywhere so thick that there was scarce standing room on the ground.

Mr. Fritz said it had been the most orderly event of the kind he had ever seen. There was ample police protection ready but not once, said Mr. Fritz, did an officer have to be called. He said with all Shriners he sincerely appreciates the patronage given the big Shrine circus which was an epoch making event in the history of Wichita Falls.

SEC. DAVIS' FLIVVER A NATIONAL DISGRACE

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The efficiency of the economy experts now at work among the government departments received a tribute the other day from one of the colored porters of the White House. The secretary of labor was much amused when he heard of it.

"Dey suttingly has cut down hahd on appropriations," the porter observed. "Look at dat ram-shackle ol' thing de sec'et'y of labor drives into dese heah grounds ev'y cabinet day! Dey won't git him a real one. Dey won't let him buy one for hisself. And for a bus like dat to be seen in dis yeah place—it's a national disgrace, da's whut it is!"

CARDS LUCKY, LOVE UNLUCKY

MRS. MILDRED SANDERS

LOS ANGELES, July 5.—Now, according to Hoyle—but Mrs. Mildred Sanders cared nothing about that justly celebrated gent and so she trumped her husband's ace.

Curses! Lots of them.

That play, commonly termed a "boner," lost the game, but it won a divorce for Mrs. Sanders.

In fact, that play landed the pretty motion picture actress right in the divorce courts.

"He was cruel to me, your honor," Mrs. Sanders confided to Judge Tim L. Fitzpatrick. "We were playing cards in our home, just two months after we were married. I played the wrong card. It angered him. He upbraided me fearfully, and then he struck me.

"I threw down my cards and left him then and there. Since then I've been playing a lone hand.

Building Gin

HARROLD, Texas, July 8.—Work is being rushed on the Farmers Cooperative association gin at Harrold with expectations of completing the plant during the present month. When finished this will be one of the most modern and thoroughly equipped gins in the county.

Now That's Rather Odd

CHICAGO—Blood was shed and hats were smashed when members of the veterans of foreign wars escorting Chicago Elks to a railroad station on their way to Atlantic City enforced respect for the American flag which was carried in the parade. Frank R. Kermann, a color bearer, was the prime mover in forcing on-lookers to remove their hats. He was reinforced by several curbstone spectators. Several dissenters were badly beaten. A negro who failed to remove his hat was knocked unconscious.

CHICAGO—A baseball game tomorrow will decide whether bobbed hair or long tresses shall be in vogue in the offices of S. W. Strauss and company, feminine employes announced today. A team of "bobs" challenged a team of "longs" and the contract provides that the losing team shall submit to the edicts of the winners in the style of hair dress.

A Baby Drinks 500 Quarts of Milk It's First Year

Think of the importance of having that milk fresh and pure. In hot weather the danger from stale milk is very grave. It kills more babies than any other single cause.

Keep Your Refrigerator Well-Iced!

It is the only safe way of keeping milk and perishable food. When the ice gets low the temperature rises and bacteria begin to breed. It pays to take ice steadily.

BUSINESS GOOD IN WICHITA COMMERCIAL LEADERS PROVE

Chamber Gives Hard Facts to Back Up Its Bold-Faced Statement That the Town Already Is Around Corner of the Turn

"Business is Good."

This is the front-page "banner" of the publication "Wichita Falls Today," published by the chamber of commerce. "Not back to the 'good old days,' but on to better days is the spirit that prevails in business in Wichita Falls," says the article, supplanted by hard facts collected under the direction of General Manager Harrison.

"'Business is better' is no longer an optimistic phrase uttered to put heart and courage into fellow-suffers, but it is a truthful statement backed by substantial proof in fact and figures.

"The E. W. A. Rowles company of Wichita Falls, dealers in church and school supplies, reports an increase in the volume of business of 80 per cent over the year of 1921. They now have contracts for supplying high school and city auditoriums with equipment in several cities in the Wichita Falls trade territory, including Breckenridge, Weatherford, Plainview and Fort Worth. The company has just completed filling a large order for the Sam Houston army post chapel at San Antonio.

"The Wichita Motors company, manufacturers of commercial motor vehicles, has resumed regular production. They recently secured an order from South America for 200 trucks to be delivered within the next six months. They have had shipments to Honduras, India, Chile and Australia and in the past 60 days have delivered approximately 50 trucks to Mexico.

"The wholesale grocers are not exactly worried either. Business in this line usually experiences a seasonal slump during the hot summer months but contrary to customs and conventions, this summer shows a marked increase in volume of sales. Beginning with January of this year, Carroll-Brough-Robinson-Gates have had a steady increase each month over the preceding month, with June showing the largest increase, approximately 30 per cent. If cash sales continue through July as heavily as they have begun, July will be a much better month than June.

Collections Good.

"Goodner Wholesale Grocer company states that, in addition to the exceptionally good business they are having this season, collections have been unusually good.

"Wichita Falls is smiling when it comes to the sale of lumber and building supplies, too. Dealers in this line report an increase of from 25 to 30 per cent of sales for the month of June over the month of May.

"But when it comes to automobiles, Wichita Falls laughs right out. For Wichita Falls is holding a good place in the "comeback" year for automobiles. The McFall Brothers, dealers in Dodge cars, say that all of their dealers in the Wichita Falls trade territory covering ten counties are entirely sold out, and that it will be thirty days before they can make deliveries on orders taken now.

Keim Busy As Ever.

"Other automobile dealers have equally as good things to say. June has been the biggest month in the history of the Keim Motor company. It doubled the month of May in the sale of Studebakers. The Studebaker factory is 20,000 cars behind orders now, and deliveries consequently may be held up here. The Keim Motor people have sold more cars in the six months of 1922 than they did in the whole year of 1921. They are having no trouble with collections either.

"Automobile dealers in Wichita Falls are realizing the advantages to be derived from the excellent shipping facilities this city offers in drop shipments, L. S. L. rates and in practically over-night delivery.

"Other people are recognizing the advantages of living in Wichita Falls, too. Real estate and insurance companies report an increased demand for homes. They are receiving several inquiries from people in other cities who want to exchange their property for Wichita Falls property. Other firms state that prices in real estate are becoming more firm and, whatever movement in price there is, is an upward movement. More insurance is beng written up and collections are good. A large amount of insurance has been written up on new business.

"Hornsby Heavy Hardware company reports a 10 per cent increase of June over May with bright prospects for the future.

Who Can Beat It?

"And ask Bert Bean, who owns the most modernly equipped coffee roaster in the Southwest, what he thinks of business. Mr. Bean received a shipment of 90,000 pounds of coffee in the last month, which he will roast and distribute to the trade territory.

"'Business is looking up,' also say the banks. The total clearings for June, 1921, were $7,824,885.06 and for June, 1922, were $8,262,111.87. Deposits have increased more than $600,000 during the last six months. On December 31, 1921, the call for statements showed a total of $19,548,027 on deposit, and on June 30 this had increased to $20,156,530, a gain of $608,500.

"An easy money market; the cut in freight rates; increased oil production; increasing speculative, commercial and industrial activity; increasing commodity prices; lower labor costs and decreasing unemployment; good crops in prospect; national economies and a general optimistic sentiment in the larger industries make business secure in the domestic market. With Europe prosperous, business will have all that it takes to bring on an unprecedented revival. But right now Business Is Good."

FIND SKELETON

(By International News Service.)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 9.—While workingmen were digging in a cellar in a field at the corner of Channing and Mt. Auburn streets, in this city, they unearthed the skeleton of a revolutionary war hero, who is believed to have been killed in action during the American war for independence.

The field, once a part of the James Russell Lowell estate, was used in revolutionary times as the site for an American army officers' hospital. It is believed the skeleton found was that of an officer who died in the hospital and was buried there.

MAY SEND DAD TO GALLOWS

Lillian Condon and her father, Michael Condon, whose life depends on her testimony.

CHICAGO, July 5.—Did Michael Condon wield the knife which killed his wife, Lillian, in the living room of their home here?

Just two living persons know. One is Condon himself; the other, his 14-year-old daughter.

Upon the testimony of the child hangs the thread of Condon's life.

Will his daughter's version of her mother's death send Condon to his death by the noose? The state says it will. But Condon is confident that it won't.

And while able attorneys for the state and defense indulge in a battle of legal wits, little Lillian, apparently unaware of her position, plays in a corner of the courtroom.

As soon as the jury is completed the state expects to put Lillian on the witness stand so the jurors may hear from her childish lips the tale by which it hopes Condon will be called upon to give a life for a life.

Lillian is said to have told the state's attorney that she heard sounds of a scuffle and leaped from her bed in time to see her father strike the fatal blow.

Wins Suit

LONDON, July 9—Miss Doris Thomas was awarded $500 damages in a London court for having been dismissed from a touring "Afgor" company.

The manager who dismissed Miss Thomas attempted to shaw that she had been dismissed for wearing too few clothes during her perforance. He didn't succeed.

Irish terriers are used at night in Westminister cathedral to assist in guarding the valuable articles in use there.

150 TOTS HAVE GREAT PICNIC

Salvation Army Host To Youths

All the glamour and glory of a full fledged picnic was unloaded in generous portions Friday on 150 tiny Wichitans who availed themselves of a Salvation army invitation to romp at will in the Haven park grounds. Nothing was left undone that would contribute in the least to the joy of the youngsters and it was a tired but happy throng hat clambered into big trucks late in the afternoon and made the return trip to the city.

Merchants throughout town cooperated with Salvation army officials in staging the affair. Ample provisions for stocking picnic baskets were donated without cost and were transformed by army cooks into orthodox picnic supplies. Three local transfer companies provided motor trucks in which the party was taken from the citadel to the park and back.

Captain Hicks, Lieutenant Thorn and Cadet Lancaster, who were in charge of the picnic were more than pleased with the success of the undertaking and were confident that the annual outing, which is an event of importance to many who find all too infrequent opportunities for such good times, would be even more popular next year.

COP COURT SNOOZES

Police court attaches at the city hall cocked their feet up on official chairs and tables at 8:30 Saturday morning and enjoyed dignified slumbers for the rest of the day. Even the telephone joined in the spirt of the occasion and interrupted things only occasionally with an impertinent jangle.

All o fwhich is an involved way of saying that the court docket was exceedingly light and that nothing else of importance transpired.

One $10 fine for a minor traffic violation was assessed by acting Judge Caldwell during the brief session.

BOOZE CHARGE FILED

A federal complaint charging possession of intoxicants was filed Saturday against R. Vaughn, 1501 Travis street, following a police raid on his home Friday night. Officers Shook, Bebout and Bob Miller visited the place and after a brief hunt found a small quantity of whiskey buried underground at the rear of the house.

NO CHANGE OF PLANS IN ENCAMPMENT

AUSTIN, July 8.—There will be no change in plans for the Texas national guard encampment here July 28 to August 30 on account of present difficulties in Austin's water supply, Adjutant General T. D. Barton declared Thursday.

HALL FAILS TO ANSWER CHARGES BY ROGERS

Special to the Record News.

AUSTIN, July 8.—Charges made by Fred S. Rogers, candidate for governor that Ed Hall, state banking and insurance commissioner, has written a letter to his department employes asking payment of 5 per cent of their salaries to aid Governor Neff's campaign for re-election went unchallanged today when Mr. Hall declined to answer the assertions, made by Rogers in a speech at West Wednesday, near Waco, or to deny that he had written such a letter.

"I don't wish to be quoted in any way on the matter," Mr. Hall said, adding, "It is Governor Neff's campaign and I do not wish to enter into any argument with anybody about it."

The letter, bearing the name "Ed Hall," which Rogers was purported to have shown, Mr. Hall did not disclaim.

BONDS APPROVED BY ATTORNEY GENERAL

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, July 8.—Breakwater bonds amounting to $50,000 of the city of Rockport were approved by the attorney general. The bonds bear 51-2 per cent interest, and are payable serially.

Other bonds approved include: Brazoria road district No. 20, $140,000, payable serially, 5 1-2 per cent interest; Kerens independent school district, $35,000, payable 40 years, bearing 5 1-4 per cent interest; Thornton independent school district, Limestone county, $40,000, payable 40 years, redeamable 5 years, bearing 6 per cent interest.

AUSTRALIAN BEETLES TO SAVE CITRUS TREES

Special to The Record News

AUSTIN, July 8.—Australian lady-beetles, to be used in extermination of Cotton cushion scale, which destroys citrus trees, ornamental shrubs and other plants, which scale has been found to exist in infestations of several years standing at Beaumont, Port Arthur, Houston, San Anonio and other points, have been secured by the state department of agriculture through the efforts of E. E. Scholl, chief of the orchard and nursery inspection division. Two hundred of the beetles have been shipped from California.

Part of the shipment of beetles have been placed on the scale—infected trees trees in San Antonio, and the balance will be shipped to Port Arthur and Beaumont. It is hoped the beetle colonies will increase so other areas can be supplied.

KEMP IS GRANTED CUT ON KEY RATE.

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 8.—The town of Kemp has been granted a 15 per cent fire insurance key rate cut affective on policies between June 28, 1922 and February 28, 1923. The credit was allowed on the low fire loss record of the past three years.

TAX VALUES ON ROADS ARRANGED.

Special to the Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 8.—Intangible tax values of Texas railroads, bridge and ferry companies, will be completed by State Tax Commissioner John G. Willacy within the next few days, it is expected. Senator Willacy's annual report was recently just about ready for the printer when floods in the Brownsville country washed out or put out of operation parts of lines affected, as well as bridges and ferries, so that changes have been made necessary.

The state tax commissioner fixes the intangible tax value of each mile of road in Texas, and annually prepares a statement covering this data.

NEFF TO ADDRESS FARMERS AT A. & M.

Special to the Record News.

AUSTIN, Tex., July 8.—Governor Neff is scheduled to address farmers of Texas, in the farmers' short course at A. & M. college July 24, according to announcement made by A. & M. extension department officials.

Charles E Baughman, state commissioner of markets and warehouses is also on the program for a talk, July 27. Dr. A. P. Harrison of the state health department will speak or rural sanitation work before the farmers assembled at College Station, July 28.

HIT WILD BALL FOR HOME RUN

In a California baseball game the pitcher delivered the ball behind the batter, who turned quickly and batting lefthanded hit it for a home run —something Babe Ruth hasn't done. California fans wish to know if the hit is legal. It is. The batter was in the box when he hit the ball and there is no rule against striking at wild pitches.

Grain Problems To Be Investigated

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Robert McDougal, president of the Chicago board of trade, today appointed a committee of seven men to make a study of the grain trade problems and suggest means of improving nation-wide marketing facilities.

The committee was recommended yesterday at a conference of representatives of grain exchanges, millers, exporters, farmers, grain dealers, the department of agriculture and chamber of commerce of the United States. Its report will be acted on at a second general conference next fall.

The committee is composed of Joseph P. Griffin, former president of the Chicago board of trade, L. L. Winters and G. E. Marcy of Chicago; Frank M. Crosby, of Minneapolis, representing the millers; J. W. Shorthill of Omaha, of the farmers national grain dealers association; A. E. Reynolds of Toledo, of the grain dealers national association, and George F. Powell, St. Louis, merchants' exchange.

Keene Hurls Spudders to First Win of Split Season

TEAM RESUMES HITTING GAME AND SMOTHERS GASSERS WITH AVALANCHE OF HEFTY BLOWS

Weiss Gets in Game and Shows Well; Summa Poles Homer to Complete Big Day; Many Runs Come as Result of Batting Spree; Pitchers Are Traded; Twin Bill for Today

Special to The Record News.

SHREVEPORT, La., July 8.—The Spudders hit their stride today and smothered the Gassers with 14 hits, winning the third game of the series 10-5.

A revised line-up including Weiss and Keene, players recently obtained from the Cubs, seemed to add punch to the Wichita Falls machine, and they were unbeatable.

Hitting in the pinches chased runners across in five of the nine innings. Three doubles, a triple and Summa's homer, were largely responsible for the runs counted.

Summa had a great day at bat, and the Gassers seemed unable to get him out. Four hits out of five trips to the plate were his day's work. His homer, a terrific drive over the right field came in the ninth with one runner ahead counted the last Spudder runs.

Weiss went to center field and handled five chances with the grace of a finished outfielder. He lambed out a single and double in five trips to the plate, facing Texas league pitching for the first time.

Keene pitched a nice game, but retired in the seventh in favor of Ruth after the game was comfortably won. He held the Gasser hitters well in hand and although he was hit for five runs, he was never in danger.

The gasser attack was led by Felix who was credited with three hits for the day.

Team Plays Great Game.

The Spudders showed a highly aggressive team today, and five times were runners sacrificed along. The plays were perfectly executed and the visitors looked like pennant contenders. Fast fielding, terrific hitting and abundant fight showed them a different team from that seen here the past two days.

Johnson and Burns both went to the mound for the Gassers but were unable to check the onslaught of Spudder bats.

Ruth worked the last three innings for the Spudders and did not allow a hit. He seemed to have everything on the ball, with perfect control. Only nine hitters faced him during his tenure of the hillock and none reached first base.

The first Spudder run came in the second inning, when Weiss singled to center and came home when Beck doubled against the right field fence.

Three in the fourth came as a result of terrific hitting. Summa beat out an infield hit to third. Weiss doubled to right and Summa went to third. Beck again doubled against the fence and both runners counted. White sacrificed Beck to third and a perfect squeeze play by Kitchens scored the runner.

Spuds Cinch Game.

The fifth saw three more runners score. Bescher opened with a triple and scored when Tanner singled through short. Adams fanned, but Summa singled to center sending Tanner to second. Weiss flied to right and Tanner took third on the play. Summa then stole second. A passed ball scored Tanner and Summa moved to third. A moment later he stole home as Beck was being run down between first and second after he had been passed.

One run in the seventh brought the total to eight. Hartford threw low to first on Tanner's grounder and the runner was safe. Adams sacrificed him to second and he scored when Summa singled to center.

The final two markers came in the ninth. Adams singled after two were out and scored when Summa poled one over the right field fence.

Prior to the game, Manager Salm announced a trade which sent Bowman to the Gassers in exchange for Pitcher Flaherty.

The two teams will play a double-header tomorrow, the result of a postponed game earlier in the season.

GUNNERS HOLD BEST MEET OF YEAR

Deatherage Sets New Ground Record In Doubles

By "SPIKE" COOPER

Possibly the most successful weekly shoot in the history of the gun club was shot Friday afternoon.

Climaxing the day's program, A. G. Deatherage set a new grounds record when he smashed straight through on event of doubles, breaking 24 straight for a perfect score. Although there have been many champions on the course in the past few years, even in the state meet held here two years ago, the feat had never before been accomplished.

In the 50 target single, eight shooters tied for honors with a perfect score. The handicap scale affording many a chance to compete with the better gunners who have held a monopoly over the trophies offered weekly. Hunter, Lyon, Deatherage, Rhodes, Nabb, Dempsey, Harper, Kiddy and Baker all were credited with their full card.

Baker, a professional(representing the Remington Arms and Ammunition company, smashed his entire allotment in the singles event, another exceptional score.

Big Entry List

More than 30 shooters participated in the meet, including a number of novices, who are determined to learn the game, and from the start exhibited, will not require long in doing it. Taylor, shooting for his first time, broke 22 of the 25 shot at in an event.

Three novices shot their first frame of doubles and turned in scores which were very creditable, beating those of several of the older shooters. Harper, Donohoo and Cooper each broke 17 of the possible 24 targets in the event.

Scores for the 50 sinble rise targets from the 16-yard rise mark were:

Baker, 50; H. Lyon, 50; Deatherage, 50; Rhodes, 50; Nabb, 50; Dempsey, 50; Harper, 50; Kiddy, 50; Winston, 49; Greenburg, 49; Leslie, 48; Adams, 47; L. I. Lyon, 47; Landon, 47; Gallagher, 46; Gotcher, 45; Colburn, 44; Soderland, 43; Bergen, 42; Donohoo, 42; Reinhart, 40; Cooper, 38; Hughes, 29; Sharp, 28; Beeman, 26; Taylor, 22; (25 targets.)

In the doubles event, Adams was high with 21; H. Lyon, 20; Deatherage, 20; Gallagher, 19; Winston, 19; Nabb, 18; Greenburg, 18; L. I. Lyon, 17; Donohoo, 17; Harper, 17; Cooper, 17; Rhodes, 16; Winston, 15; Baker, 14.

Big Meet Thursday

Next Friday is the date for the regular monthly registered shoot, but since Thursday is an off day with the Spudders, it has been decided to hold the meet on that day.

The "jackrabbit system" will be followed in the meet, which allows each shooter a chance to share in the winnings, there being a refund for all targets broken.

Possibly one or two extra events will be called for on the program also. Plans are under way to shoot a "miss and out" event, starting with all those present.

The revived interest in the club is showing more and more each week, and one visitor was heard to remark that there were almost as many gunners on the ground as participated in the state shoot at Houston last month.

Bosses Fighting to Strengthen Spudders for Coming Battles

RECENT DEALS SHOW TEAM FORFTIFIED AGAINST CATS IN LAST HALF OF PENNANT RACE

Bowman Goes to Shreveport for Flaherty; Weiss Joins Club; Alex Freeman Expected Daily; Keene Comes Through for His First Win; Looks Like Spudders in Last Half

By "SPIKE" COOPER

SHREVEPORT, La., July 8.—Weiss joined us today. Traded Bowman for Flaherty. Boys working hard to win. WALTER SALM.

The above telegram was received yesterday from the Spudder boss.

Despite the showing of the home team during the past week, the win yesterday shows that the old fight is still there, and that the old slump has seen its doom.

The Spudders have had pitching, good pitching, in several of the games dropped, but lacked the punch to get over the hill. It's different now.

Weiss was sent to centerfield and showed a bit of real baseball. He handled his chances cleanly and hammered out a single and double as his contribution to the Spudders attack.

Many fans rejoice at the acquisition of Flaherty. He has been considered by many as one of the leading hurlers of the league, and has shown lots of pitching so far this season.

Bowman Not Right

Bowman was one of the big Spud winners last year, but could not seem to get off on the right foot this year. He pitched the Spudders to a great win over Dallas in the second game of the season, allowing but one hit, a fluke hit over third by Nat Shandling, in the eighth inning. But since that time, he has not shown the old time stuff. He has won several of his starts since, but it has taken several runs to do it.

Of course the Spudders have managed to get their runs over, the records showing that many more Spud runners have chalked up at the pay station than any other club of the league.

Hurlers Look Good

Lack of efficient pitching is attributed to the showing made in the first half, but with Keene, Wheeler, Freeman, Perdue, Flaherty and either Ruth or Mokan, the Spudders should win at least three-fourths of their games in the last half.

They were caught in a slump as the hospital list swelled on the eve of the present road trip, and lost many games that would never have been dropped otherwise, but that is history now.

They're fortified against disaster. They're fortified against Texas league hurlers, and best of all, look fortified against Texas league hitters. It looks like winning the last half.

Letters From People

To the Editor:

Your "Mainly About People" column is uniformly a very readable department of our forging-to-the-front morning journal, and most Wichitans doubtless fail not to read and inwardly digest the carefully prepared contents.

As one of your readers I wish to thank you for the very timely and sane exhortation carried in said column today, touching the tense industrial situation confronting our country.

For emphasis and to encourage a re-reading of the sensible utterance, I ask that you reproduce same here. With sincere regard,

W. A. BETTS.

502 Bridge street.

SALVATION ARMY MAKES PROMOTIONS

In the recent issue of the War Cry, official organ of the Salvation Army, a large number of promotions in the army ranks are announced and three of them are of special interest in Wichita Falls. Cadet Leia Thorne of this city, formerly an office worker has been promoted to a lieutenancy and assigned to duty here. Cadet Nettie Bowling also of this city has been promoted to a lieutenancy and assigned to duty in Milwaukee. Cadet Lloyd Cellan out of Burkburnett has been made a lieutenant and assigned to Houston.

ACTIVITIES ON INCREASE AT GOLF CLUB

Local Followers Of Game Show Much Interest

By "SPIKE" COOPER

With the tournament season now well under way, local golders are watching the big events throughout the country with much interest.

The Wichita club, although one of the youngest in the state, is gaining recognition through the work of several of its members.

Two cups have been added to the collection already this season. Tow Cochran returned from Fort Worth with his second Texas cup and Dudley Golding captured the president's cup at Kansas City.

The big tourney held over the local course on July 4, called out most of the local golfers and an unusual day marked the activities.

The excessive heat of the past few days has kept many off the course, but several excellent cards were turned in during the week.

Golding Scores Eagle

Golding opened the eyes of the gallery Tuesday when he scored an agle on No. 1 a 370-yard hole. His drive was better than 300 yards and a mashie shot to the green trickled into the cup for a duce on a par four hole. It was one of the greatest pieces of play seen on the local course since established.

Eyes this week are turned on the national open tournament at Chicago.

Local Man at Chicago

It is expected that Chick Evans will be there, but at the same time, as an amateur he will face the strongest professionals of America. Just what his showing will be against the other champions is the conjecture of local "bugs." George Reppy, local golfer, will follow the matches in the gallery.

There is also a bit of discussion over the recent rumor that English authorities are considering a move which will bar the American back-spin iron clubs. True enough, the English do not shoot a club of that type themselves, but American course men feel that they might just as well cultivate the club, since the excellent scores of the Americans in the championship play just passed was attributed largely to the use of this type of irons.

Any way, although it is too hot for much activity over the local course, there is ample room for "fanning" amongst the devotees here.

OIL BELTERS REORGANIZED

New Schedule Made For Split Season

At a meeting of the managers held in Burkburnett Friday, the Oil Belt league was reorganized and a new schedule adopted. The Burkburnett team withdrew from the circuit some time ago and this caused the schedule to be abandoned. Under the new organization, Iowa Park will fill the vacant place.

The season was split to enable the new team to take its place on an equal footing with the other teams of the league. This split will be made July 16 with prospects of the Magnolia team winning the first half as the games forfeited by Burk gives them a wide margin.

The latter half of the season promises to be a close race as the teams have all been strengthened and given new life by the reorganization. With the strong Iowa Park nine in the race, the contenders will have to play fast ball to stay in the running.

Today the Northwest Field crowd will meet the Iowa Park team at Iowa Park. Both are strong and have met before. In the last series the games were divided, the oilers being the only team to win over the Iowa Park crowd this year.

The Magnolia company is slated to meet the Humble company in Burkburnett and has high hopes of cleaming them on their home diamond. With both teams greatly strengthened with new players, the game should be a snappy one.

SHIMIZU BEATS GARLAND IN TENNIS

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 8.—Zenzo Shimizu, Japanese Davis cup player, defeated Charles Garland Jr., Philadelphia, former American Davis cup team member, 6-7, 6-1, 6-2, in the semi finals of the senior singles national clay court tennis championships here today. Shimizu will play William T. Tilden II, Philadelphia, world champion, in the title round Sunday.

In fourth round senior doubles play today, William T. Tilden II, Philadelphia, and Sandy Weiner, Germantown, Pa., defeated Parks and White, Ardmore, Pa., 6-4, 6-9, 6-4; John Hennessey, Indianapolis, and Walter Wesbrook, Detroit, defeated Wray Brown and Karl P. Kammann, St. Louis 7-5, 6-2 and Ralph Brudick and Fritz Bastian, Indianapolis, defeated Willis Fulton and Leonard Keith, Cleveland, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Tilden and Wiener play Bastian and Burdick and Hennessey and Wesbrook meet Zenzo Shimizu, Japan and Beals C. Wright, Boston, in the semi-finals.

SISLER'S LEAD NARROWED BY TY COBB

Hornsby Continues Leader Of National

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Tyrus Raymond Cobb today is making his bid for the batting leadership of the American league, with the prospects of giving George Sisler, the St. Louis star, a desperate fight.

Within a week, the noted Georgian batted his way from sixth to second place in the list of leaders for an average of .391, just 24 points above his mark of a week ago. The Detroit leader's remarkable batting resulted in slashing out 17 hits in his last seven games, while the best Sisler could do was nine in five games. Sisler, however, is entrenched in the lead with an average of .430. The figures include games of Wednesday.

Sisler also is clinging to the lead in base stealing with 27, while Kenneth Williams, the 1922 home-run marvel, is second with 23. Williams smashed out his twentieth homer and is being trailed by Walker of Philadelphia, the runner-up, with 17. Ruth, Heilman of Detroit and Miller of Philadelphia each have connected with 13.

Other leading batters for 50 or more kames; Heilman, Detroit, .366; Speaker, Cleveland, .366; Witt, New York, .357; O'Neill, Cleveland, .356; Blue, Detroit, .354; Schang, New York, .350; Miller, Philadelphia, .349; Bassler, Detroit, .345; McManus, St. Louis, .339.

Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis star, with an average of .390 is 23 points ahead of Hank Gowdy of Boston in the National league batting race. Gowdy is hitting .367 with Miller of Chicago third with .350.

Hornsby is on even terms with Williams, his St. Louis rival, in home run hitting, and is tied with Southworth of Boston for second place honors in base stealing, with 12. Carey of Pittsburgh continues to lead in this department with 18.

Other leading batters for 50 or more games: Daubert, Cincinnati, .356; Bigbee, Pittsburgh, .356; Smith, St. Louis, .350; Johnston, Brooklyn, .348; Grimes, Chicago, .348; Hollocher, Chicago, .348; Duncan, Cincinnati, .345.

SHIMIZU AND TILDEN MEET

Jap Star Plays Great Game

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 8.—William T. Tilden II, Philadelphia, world champion, will meet Zenze Shimizu, Japanese Davis cup player in the singles, and Ralph Burdick and Fritz Bastin, Indianapolis, will play John Hennessey, Indianapolis, and Walter Wesbrook, Detroit, in doubles in the title round of the twelfth annual national lay court tennis championships at the Woodstock Country club here Sunday.

Shimizu won his way into the finals today by defeating Charles Garland, Jr., Pittsburgh, former American Davis cup player, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. Tilden defeated Wesbrook in the other semi-final match Friday.

EUROPE SWAYS STOCK SESSION

Rails Recede From Week's Advance

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Selling for both accounts during today's short but active stock market session was largely inspired by the more critical conditions in continental Europe.

Rails forfeited the better part of their mid-week advances, pressure being especially marked against Louisville and Nashville and several of the grangers, coalers and trans-continentals at extereme decline of one to five points.

Domestic oils were heavy throughout and attempts to revive that group under cover of a demand for Mexicans were unavailing, final quotations showing substantial leases.

Independent steels were buoyed for a time on intimations that all "merger" difficulties had been overcome, but these issues reacted later on comparatively small offerings. Coppers, equipments, shipings and popular miscellaneous issues were included in the general recessions att the heavy to weak close. Sales amounted to $385,000 shares.

Again excepting the rate on London, all allied foreign exchanges were lower, while the German mark fell to a new level of depreciation at a fraction under .018, rallying to a point slightly above .019 before the close of the market.

HUN TROUBLES EFFECT MARKET

Grains Show Big Declines

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Effects of the situation in Germany were apparent in the action of the grain markets here today and values were lower all around. At the finish wheat was down 1⅛@2 3-4c, with July 1.12 to 1.12 1-8 and September 1.10 318 to 1.10 5-8. Corn was off ⅛c@2 1-8c, oats showed a net loss of 1 3-8@ 1 5-8c, and provisions ranged 12½ to 55c lower.

At the inside figures September wheat showed 2 1-2c under yesterday's close. Concerns that usually act for seaboard account did some buying and local brokers were figuring on liberal quantities for shipment to the east presumably to fill old sales abroad. Exporters were after wheat in the southwest although no new business was claimed at the Gulf. Crop reports from the spring wheat territory continued favorable and country offerings of grain to arrive remained light, except in sections where banks have been pressing producers to pay up notes.

Corn and oats were under pressure in sympathy with wheat. Weather conditions generally were favorable for corn.

Provisions were easier with some scattered liquidation in evidence in July lard. What support there was came mostly from local shorts.

NEW YORK BONDS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—A new high record for liberty 4s at 100.10 and weakness of several of the foreign offerings, notably French government 8s at a decline of 1¾ points, were the only features of today's dull and uncertain bond market.

Prices were higher in the main, with especial firmness in several of the domestic rails and utilities. Fractional improvements were shown by Wabash first 5s, St. Louis & San Francisco adjustment 6s and Kansas City Southern 5s, with a 2-point gain in Southern Bell Telephone 5s. Total sales, par value aggregated $10,749,000.

COTTON BREAKS TO LOW LEVELS

Decline Follows Strong Opening

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—After ruling steady in the early trading today an dmaking advances of 7 to 18 points on the more active positions, the cotton market turned soft and in the late trading broke to levels 27 to 40 points under the close of yesterday, October first rose to 22.42 and then slumped to 21.85. Much of the selling was due to rumors of another political assassination in Germany and to the report that exporters were reselling cotton originally intended for shipment to France. The close was somewhat steadier at net declines for the da yof 13 to 28 points. October closed at 21.97.

In early trading the most noticeable feature was the scarcity of contracts. A very moderate demand served to put prices up, but after the first demand was satisfied the market commenced to sag.

After falling to about five points under yesterday's final prices the market held steady for a while, but late in the session it responded very quickly to an increase in offerings.

IF YOU ARE SICK

PROFIT BY THE EXPERIENCE OF OTHERS

Consult
Dr. Schultz
THE RELIABLE SPECIALIST

For scientific treatment of chronic, nervous and special diseases of both sexes, catarrh of all mucous membrane, stomach, liver, kidney complaints, blood and skin diseases. Hemorrhoids and prostatis complications treated without the knife, by a safe and humane system of scientific treatment.

If you are sick of experimenting, sick of failures, sick of being sick, come to me. I invite sick people who contemplate taking treatment to come. Special attention given in the combination of curative powers, modern electricity, vibrations, etc., with the scientific administration of selected Specific Medicines. I endeavor to do everything to promote the welfare of my patients.

IF YOU NEED A SPECIALIST WHY NOT THE BEST?

Are you a nervous wreck? Are you worn out and broken down? Are you suffering from vicious Blood and Skin Diseases, that destroy bone tissue, and disfigure for life? Backaches and kidneys give you all-gone feeling? Whether these conditions were caused by early excesses, or contracted by inoculation, it does not matter, for they will all respond to my treatment. Consult Dr. Schultz, the Reliable Specialist, who is well equipped by long experience that enables him to offer his service on a basis that no other can; his charges are lower for cures than the average physician generally charges for failure.

Those who have wasted time and money, and failed to get rid of their ailments, are especially invited to consult FREE. I am giving the benefit of over 30 years' honorable experience; some of my cures are truly wonderful, yet I do not work magic; I do not make the old younger, nor the blind see; I simply apply the knowledge my years of honorable experience have given me, and I do this honestly and intelligently.

State of Texas, County of Wichita:

Before me, the undersigned authority, a notary public, on this day personally appeared C. W. Reid and D. A. Lundien, who, being duly sworn, upon oath state that they are the President and Secretary-Treasurer respectively of the Wichita Falls Building & Loan Associaiton, a corporation, and that the facts given in the above report are true and correct to the best of their knowledge and belief.

(SEAL)

C. W. REID, President.
D. A. LUNDIEN, Secretary-Treasurer.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this, the 8th day of July, 1922.

MABEL M. KAVANAGH,
Notary Public, Wichita Co., Texas.

ON THE BASIS

of the above annual statement of the Wichita Falls Building & Loan Association every individual in this city is solicited very earnestly to start saving some of their earnings through this institution, not only because of its safe and convenient plan, but for the most excellent reason that mortgage money to finance home owning is in great demand and every loan made is but a further step toward a greater and better Wichita Falls. Your particular attention is directed to the fact that every person saving money through this institution in the past year has received 10 per cent interest on the amount which they have saved.

YOUNG MEN AND YOUNG WOMEN should use this institution as one of their means toward saving a portion of their earnings.

EVERY PARENT should take out an account in their child's name and let the small amounts so saved increase through interest earnings for the child's benefit at some later date when it will be greatly appreciated for educational purposes or otherwise.

BUSINESS MEN who require plant equipment should start a sinking fund whereby monthly sums will provide replacement costs as equipment wears out.

PROFESSIONAL MEN may use this institution very readily to acquire a cash reserve outside of their business.

PERSONS WHO DESIRE a home may save and earn interest thereon while accumulating an equity that the Association may further assist them through a real estate loan in their great ambition. This institution will help any reputable man to own a home.

MEMBERS OF THE BUILDING TRADES should especially endeavor to save a portion of their money through the Wichita Falls Building & Loan Association because every dollar that it loans is either to pay for the former construction of a building or for the present erection of one, which provides them with employment of every description involved in the erection of a house and the sale of every form of building material.

AGENTS AND OWNERS engaged in the real estate business should save a portion of their money through this institution because it is a certain friend to them on every reasonable occasion through furnishing the money to enable them to sell property and the consequent good general business conditions that result when real estate is active, for it is the basis of all wealth.

THIS BUILDING & LOAN ASSOCIATION is a friend to all the people and its good influence will be felt in direct proportion to the number of citizens who use it as a splendid medium through which to save money. Please consult with its office today.

TROOPS GUARD STRIP MINES

Riots Threaten in Kentucky

By Associated Press.

BARBOURVILLE, Ky., July 8.—Governor Edwin Morrow, late today ordered troops to move from Hopkinsville and Livermore to Madisonville, when county authorities at that place advised him the situation at a strip mine there poved threatening and that local authorities would be unable to handle the situation if trouble developed as they anticipated.

Governor Morrow was reported tonight enroute to Frankfort leaving here after a brief business visit. A total of 55 men were due to arrive in Madisonville early tomorrow morning. The cavalry troop from Hopkinsville will be equipped with machine guns, while the infantry from Livermore will carry its regular field equipment.

Wichitan Sends Money to Riga

There are some people in destitute Russia who are thankful that they have a faithful friend living in Wichita Falls.

Over in Riga, Latwi, Russia, Frank Snidlow has several friends whom the misfortunes of Russia have left without funds except a very meagre living.

Remembering them in their time of trouble Mr. Snidlow sent them $49 in money and various articles of clothing to a total avlue of $100.

He has received word that the money and clothing have been received there and were appreciated beyond expression. The money and clothing he sent kept his friends from suffering for want of food and from the cold. Mr. Snidlow will send some more articles to Russia next month through the American relief branches.

Twelve Hurt in T. P. Road Wreck

By Associated Press.

MARSHALL, Texas, July 8.—Twelve passengers were slighly injured today when the Sunshine Special of the Texas & Pacific railroad was wrecked a half mile east of Grand Saline. The baggage car and two coaches left the track. The accident was caused by the engine splitting a switch, railroad officials declare. The track is being cleared tonight, and it is expected trains will be running through within a few hours.

Guards at Slater

SLATER, Mo., July 8.—Deputy United States marshals guarded the Chicago & Alton shops here tonight under command of I. K. Parshall, United States marshal for the western district of Missouri.

Marshall Parshall explained to city officials and newspapermen that he had come here under telegraphic instructions from the department of justice at Washington and that his orders are to prevent infraction of federal laws. Interference with interstate commerce or mails will not be tolerated, Mr. Parshall, said.

DESERTION OF WIVES NEAR EPIDEMIC

An epidemic of wife desertion apears to have broken out recently in this city if woeful tales unfolded to heads of charitable bureaus are any criterian by which to judge. One woman presented herself Thursday morning with a story that her husband had left her destitute, two told similar accounts Friday and one such case was reported Thursday.

Proper authorities are investigating the situations when they are merited.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

The honest man never has to waste much time telling about his honesty. The other kind hires a publicity agent.

Practice what you preach, unless you need the money.

Many a divorce suit has started with the bread mother used to make.

As for the man who lives on easy street he's away from home a good deal.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
The State of Texas, to the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon unknown heirs of James A. King, deceased, by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the courthouse thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in September, A. D., 1922, the same being the fourth day of September, A. D., 1922, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the tenth day of May, A. D., 1922, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 12747-B wherein T. B. Noble is plaintiff and Eddie King, a widow, and the unknown heirs of James A. King, deceased, are defendants and said petition alleging; That on or about the 14th day of August, 1919, the said James A. King, made, executed and delivered to Mrs. C. B. Staton his four promissory notes for the sum of $1,000 each, due on the 14th day of August, 1920, 1921, 1922 and 1923, each respectively, payable to the order of the said Mrs. C. B. Staton, bearing interest at the rate of 8 per cent per annum from date until paid and stipulating for 10 per cent on the amount of principal and interest then due as attorney's fees in case suit is brought on same or if placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, whereby the said James A. King became bound and liable to pay and promised to pay the said Mrs. C. B. Staton the sum of money in said note specified, together with all interest and attorney's fees due thereon, according to the tenor and effect thereof. That said notes were given for a part of the purchase money of the following described real estate and premises, situated in the county of Wichita, Texas, to-wit: Lot No. 4 in block No. 161 in the original town of Wichita Falls, Texas. That on the 14th day of August, 1919, said property was conveyed by Mrs. C. B. Staton to James A. King, deceased, by her deed of writing, in consideration, among other things of the four notes herein described and that in said deed of conveyance a lien was reserved thereon to secure the payment of said notes and a lien to secure said notes was reserved in said notes. That after the execution and delivery of said notes for a valuable consideration, the said Mrs. C. B. Staton, by her written endorsement upon the backs of said notes, transferred the same, together with the lien upon said property securing said notes to said plaintiff and this plaintiff is now the legal owner and holder of said notes. Plaintiff alleges that the first of said notes is entitled to the following credits on the dates herein alleged, to-wit; Sept. 6, 1920, $10; Sept. 5, 1920, $70; Oct. 1, 1920, $60; Nov. 12, 1920, $126.27; Nov. 29, 1920, $75; Dec. 17, 1920, $50; Jan. 1, 1921, $64; Jan. 7, 1921, $11; Feb. 10, 1921, $50; Feb. 28, 1921, $75; April 4, 1921, $50; May 2, 7921, $50. That note, No. 2 bears on the back thereof the following credit: Sept. 6, cash $80, interest paid to Aug. 14, 1920. That note No. 3 bears on the back thereof the following credit: "Sept. 6, cash $80; interest paid to Aug. 14, 1920;" that note No. 4 bears on the back thereof the following endorsement: "Sept. 6, cash $80; interest paid to Aug. 14, 1920." That default has been made in the payment of the first two notes hereinabove described, save and except the credits herein alleged and the plantiff by reason of the default in the payment of said notes elects to declare all four of said notes due and payable, and the defendants, though often requested, have failed and refused to pay said notes, each or either of them, or any part thereof, except the credits herein alleged and the same still remain due and unpaid. Wherefore, plaintiff prays that said defendants be cited to appear and answer this petition, and that he have judgment for his debt, and such other and further relief, special and general, in law and in equity, that he may be justly entitled to.

Herein fail not, but have before said court at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 29th day of June, A. D., 1922.

A. F. KERR, Clerk, District Court, Wichita County, Texas.
By EUNICE JACKSON, Deputy.

GIRLS TO CAMP NEXT SATURDAY

Groups Of 15 Can Be Accommodated

All is in readiness for the opening of the 1922 Y. W. C. A. summer camp on Saturday, July 15, at the Seventy-Seven Fishing club grounds, according to announcement from the Y. W. C. A. offices Saturday. There will be camping accommodations for groups of 15 at a time, with an unlimited capacity for breakfast, luncheon and supper parties.

The possibilities of the Seventy-Seven club for good times, with the splendid natural sand bottom swimming pool, the big lake for boating and fishing, and the other joys of camping, made the Y. W. C. A. 1921 summer camp an unqualified success and a similarly delightful time is expected.

Reservations should be made in advance this week, if possible, Miss Josephine Mann announces. Miss Mann is to have charge of the camp, and in preparation has just attended a special camp conference of Y. W. specialists in Dallas.

For the first week a group of Girl Reserves have made reservations, but there is room for still others. Miss Mann would also like to hear from those wishing to have camp breakfasts or suppers, as far in advance as possible.

The camp will be open to all women and girls of Wichita Falls who are interested. Membership in some of the Y. W. C. A. activities is not necessary to take part in the camp pleasures, it is announced, but it is hoped that through the camp the scope of the Y. W. C. A. activity may be still further widened.

The camp schedule has been arranged as follows:

6:30—Reveille.
6:45—Morning dip and setting up exercises.
7:30—Breakfast.
8:45—Flag raising.
Morning recreation.
1:00—Luncheon.
Rest hour.
3:00 to 6:00—Rest and handcraft work.
7:00 to 8:00—Supper hour.

The prices will be the same as last year. One dollar a day for those who stay for a period of days. Thirty cents for breakfast and 35 cents for luncheon and supper for the guests at meal times.

MORE MONEY FOR POOR KIDS

Checks Come In As Campaign Ends

They have heard The Record News' call for aid to the unfortunate kiddies of Wichita Falls all the way to Detrott, Mich., and from that city a check has been received to be added to the fund. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clayton, who are in Detroit now, wrote that they saw an account of the milk and ice fund in The Record News and did not want to be left out, so they mailed their check for $5.

Although the closing of the fund was announced Friday morning, another substantial check came in the mail from Wichita Falls Saturday morning. It was for $15 and the donors name was not given. Both checks will be turned over to Mrs. E. B. Gorsline, Jr., treasurer of the fund, to be added to the $360 already turned in. The money sent in and the free donation of ice has come as a blessing to many helpless, suffering children in Wichita Falls.

Ode to Nursery

Babes in toyland, happy and gay,
While mothers are working the live long day,
Think what it means to each wee child,
To have care and food, a shady sandpile.
The pleasures and joys that are childhood's rights,
A fair start at least, to win life's fights.
And think what it means to the mother who works,
Laboring and toiling for the means to live,
To know that her child is happy, care free,
In the ablest of hands, at the Day Nursery.

14 CONVERSIONS

The meeting being held under the leadership of Pastor W. L. Nelson of the Walnut Street Baptist church in the locality of the brick yard is proving to be a good one in the results obtained. Friday night service was one after the old fashioned order. There were 14 conversions and 12 additions to the church at this service. The meeting will continue through the coming week and all are invited to attend the services.

DYANSHINE TO THRILL TONIGHT

Daredevil Performs At Lake Wichita

Daredevil Dyanshine is all ready for his "death defying ride" toniht at 7 o'clock at Lake Wichita. The road selected for the "drag of death" has been examined, and the car that will drag Daredevil Dyanshine which is furnished by the King & Weaver Auto Co., has been tried out and everythin is ready for the staging of the biggest thrilling exhibition ever performed in Wichita Falls.

Daredevil Dyanshine is under a $10,000 wager with the Barton Manufacturing company of Waco, Texas, to make a trip to Bangor, Maine, and this is his ninth performance in nine days since leaving Waco. Daredevil Dyanshine is working his way by stunts of different description, he performs in addition to the death drag, such stunts as the human fly, iron jaw mid-air, straight-jacket escape, parachute jumping, airplane exhibitions and he also allows himself to be handcuffed and shackled and thrown over board while he makes his escape under water.

Daredevil Dyanshine has been performing stunts since he was ten years old. His first exhibition being a parachute jump from an old gas bag balloon.

Daredevil Dyanshine was born in Providence, R. I. and was placed in the orphans home at the age of three. He ran away from there at the age of nine and has been out on the road ever since.

To Tour World.

Daredevil Dyanshine is figuring on a trip around the world immediately after his trip is over, one he says will take him at least five years as he intends to visit every country on the globe, a special car for this trip will be built so as to carry spare parts, extra gasoline tank, etc.

Close Call at Burk.

When asked if he ever expects to get killed in this line of work, he invariably replies that he believes in fatalism, what will be, will be, and that he won't go until his time comes. He has performed his death-defying stunts all over the state of Texas and two years ago under his own name he had a very close call at Burkburnett while performing off the top of the oil derrick there beside the Pershing theater.

A four by four which he was hanging from, collapsed and just through the quickest and present of mind of the performer was all that saved him.

He says that the people of Wichita Falls that want to be thrilled will not be disappointed today and one of the largest crowds that the lake has ever had on a Sunday evening is expected to witness Daredevil Dyanshine performance being dragged down the street at the rate of 60 miles per hour while he makes his escape from a strait jacket.

Revival Bringing Many Into Fold

The revival spirit is accomplishing untold good in Wichita Falls, according to reports from various church organizations, and the work is continuing on an enthusiastic basis. Rev. W. D. Cook of the Evangelical church made the following report Saturday of the revival being conducted at his church:

"The interest in the revival at the Yale Avenue Evangelical church continues to grow and on last Friday evening we had an interesting and real spiritual time. There was two real old-time conversions and a general uplift of those who professed to be Christians and many gave their names as determined to attach themselves to one of the churches of the city and become real workers in the Master's vineyard.

"Dr. Knickerbocker brought us a great message. His subject was the two thieves and the text was taken from the gospel of Luke 23:43 and he told in part how the thief, who was believed, believed on Christ under very great difficulties and how we could believe on him after the proof of His divinity was made manifest and that there was not any excuse whatever for us to doubt the divinity of Christ. And he told how inconsistent it is for us to live a life of sinfulness and then in the end expect Christ to take our place when it came to the hour of death or in the day of judgment.

"Everyone is invited to these services, which will continue over Sunday and all next week; beginning each evening at 8:15 o'clock. Come and feel at home, as this is the Lord's work and every true follower of His is invited to take an active part in each service.

Sunday school at 9:45. Morning sermon, 11 o'clock. Junior Y. P. A, 4 p. m. Senior Y. P. A., 7:30 p. m Evening sermon 8 o'clock

"Everyone come and bring some one with you to these services and above all be sure that you bring the spirit of the Lord with you and then we will have the victory in the name of the Lord."

DAUGHTER HAD TO HELP MOTHER

Now Can Do All Her Housework Alone Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Jasper, Minn.—"I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it because I was having such pains in my stomach and through my back that I could not do my work. I had tried other medicines, but none did me the good that your Vegetable Compound did. Now I am able to do all my work alone while before I had my daughter staying at home to do it. I have told a number of friends what it has done for me and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. JESSE PETERSEN, Route 1, Jasper, Minn.

There is no better reason for your trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than this—it has helped other women. So if you suffer from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or are passing through the Change of Life remember this splendid medicine. What it did for Mrs. Petersen it may do for you.

The Vegetable Compound stands upon a foundation of nearly fifty years of service.

Poor Woman Wants to Take In Washing, But She Has No Tubs

Unable financially to purchase even the cheapest equipment with which to start in the laundry business, a widowed woman with two small children dependent on her appealed to Mrs. E. B. Gorsline Jr., welfare council secretary, Saturday for aid in securing a small oil stove, two wash tubs and a wash board.

Second hand articles, she said, would enable her to take in washing and thus earn at least a meagre sustenance for herself and babies.

Anyone having articles that they would be willing to part with are asked to communicate with Mrs. Gorsline at the city hall.

You Depend On Us For Your Comfort

Our business is producing and transporting natural gas to be distributed in 43 communities. We are wholesalers and bring the gas to your city gates, whence it is distributed by your local company.

Our enterprise, judgment and investment are centered upon the delivery to your local distributing company of the gas upon which depends the comfort you enjoy in cold weather, as well as your daily convenience in the use of the best of all fuels.

Preparing for Winter

We are sensible of the responsibility this places on us, and this year have drilled many new wells, bought other wells, and added thirty new compressors to our transporting facilities.

No one can guarantee you all the gas you may want in extreme weather, because no one can foretell how much gas you will want or when you will want it, but so far as we can foresee provision has been made for a sufficient supply of gas at your city gates.

Our responsibility ends there. The great investment and the conscientious efforts we have put forth in your behalf as well as in our own, make our system of gas supply one of the best in the country. You may rely upon our doing our full share the coming winter toward your comfort and well being.

8,000 KU KLUX COMING TO BIG WICHITA FETE

Public Invited to Ceremonial Friday Night

Between 7,000 and 8,000 klansmen will gather at Bug's Point on the south side of Lake Wichita Friday night, July 14, to stage one of the most elaborate ceremonials in the history of the organization in Texas, according to information which has reached the Record News.

Besides members of the ku klux klan in Wichita county at least 4,000 are expected from Fort Worth, Dallas and other points, it is said.

In a published notice of the meeting, it is stated that the public is invited to the ceremonials and that one of the most prominent speakers in the south will address the public on the principles of the klan. The name of the speaker has not yet been announced.

It is reported on the streets that the ceremonials next Friday night will be one of the most spectacular ever seen in the state and that one of the largest crowds ever assembled in Wichita county is expected to gather at Bug's Point to witness it. The klan fires will be lighted, it is said, and complete ceremonials of naturalization will be carried out.

Youth Crushed By Wagon to Recover

Joe Cason, age 8, of 400 Travis street, who was crushed by the wheels of an ice wagon which he was driving in the 700 block on Austin avenue Friday morning, was reported Saturday to be resting well and his complete recovery is expected. The child sustained a broken nose and had body bruises.

It was at first feared that he might have sustained internal injuries but physicians said Saturday his condition would not indicate that such injuries had been sustained.

Coleman Assigned To National Guard

Special to the Record News.

AUSTIN, July 8.—Lieutenant Colonel Willis P. Coleman of the United States army, has been assigned as permanent instructor for the Texas national guard, Adjutant General Thomas D. Barton announced on his return from a conference with Major General John A. Hulen, 36th division commander at Houston. Colonel Coleman will be stationed at Houston, it was stated, but will attend the national guard encampment at Austin July 28 to August 30. His appointment to the post was announced as soon as report of completion of the 36th division effective June 30, reached Washington.

BUILDING GOING UP GRADE HERE

$134,100 Invested In Real Estate

By virtue of construction started on several arge structures, the building permits issued last week by City Clerk George Thorburn reached a total far in excess of that for any previous seven day period in 1922.

A financial investment of $134,100 is represented in buildings gotten under way, according to records.

Heading the list of permits issued is one for $80,000 given to the Wichita Golf and Country club for erection of a new club house on the association grounds south of the city. Two other large projects, one a residence started by P. P. Langford at 1300 Tilden street and costing $40,000 and the other a $10,000 home being erected by C. H. Foley at Avenue F and Grant streets help to swell the total.

Other permits issued include those to E. U. Smith, residence at 2005 Avenue N, value $1,000; W. L. Ellis, business building at 1022 Tenth street, value $1,500; M. E. Stephens, residence at 1809 Filmore, value $500; M. E. Stephens, residence, 1503 Brittain street, value $200 and D. Burleson, repair on residence at 708 Denver street, value $300.

Paving Finished

The one block stretch of paving on Van Buren street between Tenth and Eleventh, was finished Friday afternoon, according to word from the city engineer's office. The only other paving project now contemplated is about 100 feet in an alley way at the side of the Bauch Leather company on Seventh street.

Both the Van Buren and Seventh street jobs are of reinforced concrete.

Wilson to Henrietta

Judge H. R. Wilson of the 30th district court leaves Monday to open a special term of court at Henrietta. He will probably be gone the entire week.

A meeting of the local bar will be held Monday at which time a special judge will be named to occupy the 30th court bench during Judge Wilson's absence.

City's Injunction Suit Set for Trial Tuesday Morning

Diplomatic Legal Verbage and Rather Hot Discussion in Vogue for Over Hour When Matter Is Taken Before District Court

Following an hour's discussion Saturday afternoon, replete with legal side bar remarks between opposing counsel, the injunction suit brought by the city of Wichita Falls against J. P. Jones et al was set for trial at 9 o'clock next Tuesday morning by Judge Wilson of the 30th district court.

The suit was filed by the city in an effort to stop paving operations carried on under the supervision of the county commissioners court pending a decision as to routes to be followed by the new paved highway to Henrietta. Surveys have been made and grading started on Fort Worth street east from Lamar to the city limits, this route, the county contending, being the most feasible as an outlet to the country stretch. City officials are attempting to secure a pavement east from Lamar on Jalonie street to the city limits.

Seek to Halt Work

City Attorney E. M. Mann and Judge W. J. Townsend, representing the municipality, endeavored to obtain a decree halting all work on the road pending the outcome of Duesday's hearings but this was not obtained and the work may proceed or be discontinued at the discretion of the county authorities.

Judge Wilson, who opens a special term of court at Henrietta Monday, will make a special trip to this city to hear the case Tuesday. He intimated that he would ask Judge P. A. Martin of the 78th district court and Judge Ed Napier of the 89th court to sit with him during the proceedings.

TRADE MEETING AT IOWA PARK

Merchants to Cut Prices Down

Iowa Park residents are preparing for a big farmers' and townsfolks' sale week beginning July 21 and continuing through July 29. It will be a week in which the farmers and the townspeople will mingle and will each dispose of their goods to the other at low prices.

Every merchant in Iowa Park is expected to have his wares down to rock bottom prices for the week of trading and the farmers will bring their products in town and sell them cheap to the townsfolks. It will be what is known generally as a profit sharing week, according to information from Iowa Park and there will be some special events of interest during the week.

54 INDICTMENTS ARE RETURNED

Report Is Not Made Public

A total of 54 true bills of indictment were returned by the grand jury in a partial report to Judge H. R. Wilson of the 30th district court early Saturday afternoon. The indictments were not made public inasmuch as none of those billed were under arrest. In a partial report made two weeks ago 20 true bills were returned.

In dismissing the grand jury Judge Wilson took occasion to compliment the jurors on their work and to assure them that their efforts were appreciated.

None of the indictments drawn in the last report were credited as covering important cases.

Masons Prepare Busy Schedule

A busy schedule of instruction has been announced for next week by Wichita Falls Lodge No. 635 A. F. and A. M. The work will go through the greater part of the week beginning at 7 p. m. and ending at 0 p. m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Following is a schedule of other work to be carried on:

Work in entered apprentice degree, Monday 6 p. m.; work in fellow craft degree Tuesday 6 p. m.; work in master's degree Wednesday 6 p.m.

Wichita Falls Commandry No. 59 announces work on commandry degree at 4 p. m. Thursday, followed by a dinner at 6:30 p. m.

Warner Will Use Radio In Campaign

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Texas, July 8.—Harry T. Warner, candidate for governor, will broadcast a speech Tuesday evening at 7:30 from the Paris station, which has a radius sufficient to cover Texas. He is the first of the state wide candidates to make use of the radio in his campaign.

Woodmen Celebrate

Wichita Falls W. O. W. No. 3001 celebrated Friday night with a special meeting at which scores of Woodmen, their wives and sweethearts were present and refreshments served. The feature of the meeting was an address by Rev. J. H. Stephen of Austin non "Woodcraft and the value of W. O. W. insurance."

Work Begins Wednesday on Byers-Waurika Rail Extension

Outfits of teams, scrapers and other equipment are on the road from Dallas, Fort Worth and other points to start work on the Byers-Waurika railroad, according to Capt. H. F. McFarland, and the first work is expected to be started Wednesday of next week. Concrete culverts are expected to arrive on July 12 and 13 and on July 15 the first shipment of 20,000 ties is expected to start reaching the point of construction.

The public celebration of the road in which residents of Waurika, Byers and Wichita Falls are expected to join will not be held until the work is launched, according to Captain McFarland. Some particular piece of work will be started for the occasion and the event will be announced in time for all persons along the line to be there.

With the harvest season on it would be expected that a hard time would be had in securing laborers to work on the road, but the outfits coming are said to be complete and so far as known there will be no shortage of labor and nothing has appeared to delay the work on the road, Captain McFarland said.

ALL ABOUT STREET WAR AND ITS CAUSE

After long drawn out wrangles that took most of the time in the city council, the question of a proper route for the Meridian highway which will pass through Wichita Falls has taken on a "higher court" aspect.

The action of the city council, meeting in special session last Thursday, places the authority in the hands of City Attorney Mann to put the entire problem in the courts.

Upon the passage of a motion, duly presented by one of the commissioners, Attorney Mann was instructed to prepare papers asking for a writ of injunction restraining the county commissioners from proceeding with their construction work on Fort Worth street.

Numerous routings for the proposed highway had been suggested to the councilmen, and the matter had been argued both pro and con. At no time during any of the meetings has either side seemed satisfied when it appeared that the council would suggest either one route or the other.

Both Jalonie street advocates and Fort Worth street advocates have presented their sides to the council in lengthy arguments. And there have been arguments by skilled and prominent attorneys for both contestants. The Jalonie street advocates have presented the argument that to go down Fort Worth street would be a detriment, since the railroad crossing is in the way, and since that would bring much trouble with the railway companies.

While the Fort Worth street property owners on the other hand have argued that they have been promised a paved street, that the work is already under way and that it should be finished.

The county commissioners, meanwhile, have refrained from taking sides in the argument other than to indicate that they favor the most direct route through Wichita Falls to the Clay county line. The highway is designated in the county survey as the "Henrietta road," a large portion of which has already been constructed outside of Wichita Falls.

Plans for the completion of the work are already drawn, it is understood, while it was announced during midweek that the Tibbetts Construction company, which is building a part of the highway, would move its plant from station 120 to station 00, near Jalonie street this week and begin to pour concrete.

With the question in the air and in the courts, it has been repeatedly stated in street comment that the county is likely to withdraw that portion of the pavement which would pass through the city, and let that part of the road go unfinished, remaining that way through time.

All of the pavement through Wichita Falls in connection with the project would be free to the city. Consequently, the city's views have but little effect on the outcome of the situation, except to deter the plans and completion.

In all probabilities, the question will likely come before the council again tomorrow night, when the councilmen meet in regular session.

KELL AND KETCH ARE HELD LIABLE

Findings favorable to the plaintiffs were returned by a 30th district court jury Saturday morning in the case of Weaver Brothers vs. Frank Kell and Frank Ketch. The suit was filed for recovery of $4,700, which the plaintiffs alleged, was due them as payment for materials furnished in the building of the Wichita Falls, Fort Worth and Ranger railroad.

The road was constructed by the late Jake L. Hamon but the jury held that Kell and Ketch as business associates of the builder were liable for the costs.

IT REALLY RAINED

Old Jupe Pluve made a half-hearted attempt Saturday morning to give Wichita Falls a cool, damp day—but after settling the dust on paved streets he gave it up as a bad job and by noon Old Sol was going strong. The thermometer hovered between the 90 and 92 mark from 12 o'clock until 2 o'clock, following which it started a slow but steady drop.

The Saturday morning shower departed as swiftly as it had come and the total precipitation was not enough to be measured. That the rain was purely local was indicated by reports from the railroad agents on all lines leading out of the city.

A trace of rain fell between here and Henrietta and there were scattered drops throughout the territory north to Byers. In other directions, however, no rain was reported.

POSTOFFICE IS NEARER WITH WORK FIGHTING

Howard Says Better Facilities Must Come Soon

The movement launched recently by Postmaster General Hubert Work designed to secure government appropriations for a nationwide public building program, has been hailed with joy locally despite the fact that immediate congressional action on the matter is regarded as a remote possibility.

While the attitude of the postal executive may have but little direct bearing on Wichita Falls' chances of landing a new federal building it at least encourages the belief that the city's right for improved postal facilities is not entirely hopeless.

No secret has been made of the fact that for the last five years Wichita Falls has fallen woefully behind the times insofar as its federal equipment is concerned.

Mail service for 40,000 people has been carried on from a plant originally intended to serve 10,000, while the operations of a federal court, internal revenue office, civil service bureau and postal inspectors department have been restricted and hampred in like fashion.

In commenting on the situation Postmaster Ed Howard declared that the local chamber of commerce and other civic organizations could map out a no more laudable program than one including an intensive fight for a new federal building.

Building Inadequate.

"The time is coming," he said, "when Wichita Falls must have enlarged federal facilities. The present building and annex occupied by the postoffice department is entirely inadequate for our needs alone, while the internal revenue office and postal inspector's department are jammed up in little cubby holes in the roof. When federal court convenes here it has to use a district court room and when we want to hold a civil service examination we are forced to go to a public school and borrow one of its rooms.

"I would like to see a three story building here compatible with other civic features of the city. Our postoffice, which handles more mail, I believe than any other office in a 40,000 population, is smaller and more antiquated than any of the others. It is high time we had improvements."

Building Put Up In 1909.

The main postoffice building at Ninth and Ohio was erected in 1909 when Wichita Falls boasted less than 10,000 inhabitants. At that time no one dreamed that the city would ever climb into the 40,000 class so no provision was made for handling such a large volume of mail. When the oil boom with its various ramifications transformed the city almost overnight into a bustling and thriving metropolis the postoffice department was taxed to capacity to render anything like satisfactory postal service. The single building was literally swamped by the influx and outgo of mail, and not until December, 1919 when the parcel post annex was completed was relief obtained.

Uncle Sam owned the site on which the annex was erected but the building itself was put up by J. A. Kemp, W. W. Silk, R. E. Huff and C. W. Reid. A yearly rental of $4,000 is still paid by the government for the structure, and this figure is a substantial reduction from that originally charged.

Parrish Started Fight.

Three years ago the late Lucian W. Parrish introduced in congress a bill providing for a $1,000,000 appropriation for a federal building in Wichita Falls; but it was never passed on. And when the Harding administration assumed office, bills calling for public building appropriations in Texas promptly took a back seat. Guinn Williams is understood to have promised his support of the measure.

Whatever the political situation, the fact remains that Wichita Falls is confronted wih a problem challenging its best efforts. To further complicate matters, the situation has hereofore been given scant attention which is all the more reason for its being taken up whole heartedly.

CALDWELL TO SIT AS JUDGE?

May Be Appointed Permanently

Who will be the next magistrate to occupy the bench in corporate court?

That is the question that is going the rounds in not only police circles, but in the circle of lawyers who appear often before the bar of justice in the city hall in defense of some person the city officers have taken in custody.

And there is also a circle of "aspirants" that are deeply interested.

Since Judge W. B. Chauncey handed in his resignation over a week ago, Judge W. H. Caldwell of the Mathis & Caldwell firm has occupied the bench as special magistrate. Judge Chauncey's resignation left a vacancy in a very serious circumstance; with the city police department reduced, and the clean-up program well under way, it was essential that Police Commissioner J. B. Fitts name some successor who would take up the reigns where Judge Chauncey left off.

According to the commissioner, Judge Caldwell was that person.

However, when the matter was first mentioned to Judge Caldwell, it became known that he was not inclined to give up his large practice for the post. Consequently Commissioner Fitts failed to suggest an appointee when the city council met last Monday night.

Judge Caldwell has remained consistently silent concerning whether he would accept the post, although it is the firm hope of Commissioner Fitts and of the police chief, J. W. McCormick, that he accept.

Judge Chauncey's resignation was forced through the illness of his son, whom local physicians had advised the magistrate needed a change of climate to better his condition. His resignation was accepted rather reluctantly by the police commissioner, who read it to the city council at the last meeting.

Commissioner Fitts made no announcement of his intentions concerning a successor to Judge Chauncey while the council was in session. He only intimated that the post would be left open for the time being, and that Judge Caldwell would be named as special magistrate until a successor should be chosen.

The local law fraternity seem highly pleased with the decision which Judge Caldwell has made during his short time on the bench. His services on several occasions before highly pleased not only the police, but the defendants brought before him, and it has been said of him at the police station that he is "firm, deliberate and quick with his decisions."

It is believed that Commissioner Fitts will again offer Judge Caldwell the post, although it is not known when this proffer will be made. Whether Caldwell will accept remains to be seen.

When approached on the matter recently, Commissioner Fitts said "the police are well pleased; the defendants seem to be and I am sure the lawyers are; Judge Caldwell carries out the work that Judge Chauncey

Children Find Really Motherly Home Where They Are Cared For

Great Hearted Men and Women of City Find Solution to the Danger Facing Tots

Brakes grind—but too late!

As the driver, fear stricken, brings his car to a stop, it is only to pick up, limp and lifeless, the tiny toddler that had a minute before suddenly darted out into the street from the playing group, by the sidewalk.

The Story Is Quickly Told.

The mother was at her work, forced through circumstances to keep the little family fed. Big brother and sister, too busy in their play, to watch the little one carefully, had failed in their mission. The street was their only place to play anyway.

Too often already has a tragedy of this sort been staged in Wichita Falls resulting in a little life crushed out and leaving with the driver of the car a terrible memory, that could not be effaced through the knowledge that the responsibility was not entirely his own.

The One Prevention.

There is one great preventative that Wichita Falls, through its great hearted men and women, if offering for the safety of little children, who must be left at home without a mother's care and watching eye and who have nowhere but the streets for a play ground.

That preventative is the Day Nursery.

Twenty-five or thirty children whose mothers must be away from home during the day, earning the living or an essential part of it, find a home here. Find all the care that the most carefully regulated home could give, a safe, shady pleasant place to play, plenty of good wholesome food, at the proper intervals and are kept comfortably clean and happy through almost all of their waking hours, from the time that mother leaves for her day's duties, until evening sees her returning.

Moves to New Home.

The Day Nursery has just moved into its very own home, at 502 Lamar into a big nice house, all newly papered and painted, and so spick and span in its newness that it defies germs to even look like they would find a resting place. Mrs. Carrington, the Nursery "mother," and the babies have been revelling in the new house this week, and showing it ever so proudly to the many visitors.

All of the baby beds have had new cots of white enamel, every piece of furniture is fixed up all new and nice to match the inside of the new home, and if the visitors go back into the kitchen they are proudly shown a beautiful new ice box, the pride of the cook's heart, which is always kept full of ice, so that the milk and other food that makes babies and children healthy and strong, will keep sweet and fresh and cool through the hot days.

Yard Is Safe.

Out in the yard under the trees in the morning, and after nap time in the afternoon, the older children play, with a big, high fence between them and the street, where automobiles go dashing by, and where chil-

VERNON PLANS EXHIBIT TO FAIR

Products Will Be Shown Here

Wilbarger county is going to have an exhibit at the Texas-Oklahoma fair in Wichita Falls and at the state fair in Dallas that will do credit to the county in every way. Porter A. Whaley, general manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce, and E. L. McCarter, field manager of the organization, started the ball to rolling in a meeting at the Vernon chamber of commerce and worked up a great deal of enthusiasm.

"I am anxious to see Wilbarger county have a real exhibit at the Texas state fair and at the Texas-Oklahoma fair at Wichita Falls," said Mr. Whaley in discussing the chief object of his visit to Vernon, according to the Vernon Times. "Of course, we have a two-fold purpose in urging Wilbarger and all other counties to send a creditable exhibit to the state fair. First it is a splendid advertising medium for the county. Nothing speaks so convincingly as properly displayed agricultural products.

"That exemplifies the method of West Texas boosting—we simply lay out cards on the barrel head and ask the other fellow to look them over, and we challenge the world to show us a better display than can be exhibited from any number of West Texas towns if the proper effort is put forth in the selection and preservation of same. Second, we want to assemble a mammoth exhibit to represent West Texas at a number of fairs throughout the country."

INSTRUCTED VERDICT

An instructed verdict in favor of the defendant was returned Saturday afternoon by a jury in the 78th district court sitting in the divorce case of Walter Haid vs. Helen Haid. Testimony brought out during the trial did not, in the opinion of Judge Martin, warrant a divorce being granted.

Dredge on Irrigation Project To Start Work in Thirty Days

Culvers on the Wichita river irrigation project is expected to be completed in time and dirt thrown in so that enough water will be collected by Aug. 1 for the dredge to start work, according to R. A. Thompson, chief engineer of the project.

It takes about eight feet of water above normal for the dredge to work, Mr. Thompson said, but with good luck he expects a sufficient amount to be accumulated by Aug. 1 so that the big machine can start working on the gigantic dam that will hold in the water.

All work on the irrigation project is right up to date, Mr. Thompson said, and the schedule will be maintained unless something unforseen happens.

People all over this section of the state are being awakened to the importance of the irrigation project, Mr. Thompson said, and are beginning to realize what it means to this entire section. Various towns that the project will serve are brinning to make plans for the time when the dam is completed and Vernon in particular is planning far ahead.

Coming Double Wedding Inspiration to Many Delightful Parties

Lawn Fete Tuesday is Looked Forward to as One of Week's Events

AS FOR several weeks past, society continues busy with its activities mostly centered around weddings and the attendant festivities which invariably precede the important event. In looking over carefully these annals of the summer months, you find here and there, in some inconspicious corner, a casual mention of an occasional man, but where indeed in all the season's joyous heralding does one see a single mention of the sweet boy graduate or the blushing bridegroom. Yet every one knows that practically speaking both walk away with the prizes.

MISSES Blanche and Leoti Clark, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Clark, whose double wedding at the First Christian church to Paul J. Pond and Clifford Deaton will be an event of Wednesday evening, have been the inspiration for many delightful parties recently, and, according to the social calendar for the coming week the days remain filled until the very hour of the wedding.

Friday afternoon Misses Suda Willis and Lurline Turner, who will act as bridesmaids, entertained with a matinee party, and Saturday morning Misses Fay Boyd and Joe Betsy Miller, two more bridesmaids entertained at the home of Miss Miller on Grant and Wednesday morning, Mrs. Clark, mother of the brides-elect, and Miss Johnnie Morgan will be hostesses at the home of Miss Morgan to the entire bridal party.

* * *

AN affair which is being looked forward to with pleasure by a large number of all ages, the lawn fete and dance at Temple Israel Tuesday evening. The affair, which will be given under the auspices of the Council of Jewish Women, will indeed be one of the real social events of the week. Mesdames A. Marks, Harry Schack, Sam Kruger, George Gordon and Charles Greenburg will compose the members of the entertainment committee, and several special features will be added attractions. Miss Juanita Kinsey who needs no introduction to the Wichita Falls' public will give a reading; Miss Anna Mae Cato will give a solo dance; little Miss Rose Marian Art will dance; and Mrs. George Gordon who has recently moved here from New York city, and who is said to possess a wonderful soprano voice, will be heard in vocal numbers.

The lawn will be attractively decorated in Japanese lanterns and young ladies who will assist in serving refreshments throughout the evening, will wear Japanese costumes. Music will be furnished by a colored jass orchestra and dancing will be enjoyed in the basement of the temple.

MISSES TURNER AND WILLIS GIVE PARTY

Among the many delightful affairs of the week given in honor of Misses Blanche and Leoti Clark whose wedding Wednesday evening to Paul J. Pond and Clifford Deaton will be solemnized at the First Christian church was the theater party and shower Friday afternoon. Misses Suda Willis and Lurline Turner were hostesses on this occasion at the Strand theater afterwards repairing to the home of Miss Willis where an informal program was enjoyed and refreshments served.

Those present included besides the Misses Clark and their mother, Mrs. Lee Clark, Misses Estelle and Anna Keevil, Florence and Katherine Tyson, Fay Boyd, Marry Sypert Clark, Joe Betsy Miller, Virginia Miller, Juanita Kinsey, Johnnie Morgan, Irene Davidson, Lillian Clossit, Mauvine Hickman, Louis Fisher, Earl Carter and Mesdames Chester Wynne, Leon Deaton, Harvey McCarty, J. A. Deaton, Rutledge, Leonard Grayson, O. E. Brown, C. H. Verschoyle, White, Gerald Pond, Ralph Pond and J. W. Pond.

PARTY AND SHOWER FOR BRIDES-ELECT

Honoring Misses Blanche and Leoti Clark, bride-elect, Misses Joe Betsy Miller who will act as one of the maids for Miss Blanche, and Miss Fay Boyd, one of Miss Leoti's maids, entertained at the home of Miss Miller on Grant Saturday morning at "42."

The house was attractively decorated in shasta daisies for the affair and the favors for high and low scores, two beautiful madeira handkerchiefs, were won by Misses Blanche and Mary Sypert Clark.

The dining table where a dainty ice course was served was lovely, a hugh cake forming the centerpiece decorated with a miniature bride and groom, and surrounded with bouquets of the daisies. A yellow and white color scheme was carried out in both the decorations and refreshment course. The lid of the cake was removable and concealed a shower of beautiful handkerchiefs for both honorees.

About 36 special friend of the families of both brides and grooms-elect and the bridal party were guests.

ROBERTS-O'BRIEN NUPTIALS SOLEMNIZED.

A wedding of interest to many friends of both the bride and groom took place Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Thompson, 1819 Tenth street when Miss Bert Roberts became the bride of E. O'Brien, the Rev. N. F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church officiating.

Both young people are well known here, where the groom was for several years connected with the Long Bell Lumber company and is now with the same company at Enid, Okla., being transferred there recently. The bride was connected wth Colonna Toggery shop.

The Thompson home where the ceremony was read, was attractively decorated with summer blossoms for the occasion and immediately afterwards, the bridal party were guests of Col Scott at dinner at the Wichita club.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will be at home at Enid.

ATTRACTIVE MATRON LEAVES

Mrs. A. H. Britain with her children, Ona Belle, Martha and A. H. Jr., are settled in Denver, Colorado for the remainder of the summer. Miss Mary Belle Smith of Mississippi a cousin of Mrs. Britain, will be a member of the house party and left with Mr. Britain who is taking the car through Saturday. The family will occupy a cottage near one of the many parks where the little folk can spend their waking hours playing in the shade of the trees.

Thursday afternoon, the Alathean class of the First Baptist Sunday school held its monthly social affair which was a swimming party at Haven park. Several pleasant hours were spent in the water and in watching the children do stunts.

Refreshments consisting of a delicious picnic luncheon was served at a late hour by Group Six, Mrs. E. W. Wood, leader, to Mesdames J. C. Walker, F. F. Cunningham, E. W. Wood, A. W. Wyatt, S. F. Greenfield, J. A. Wallace, A. E. York, B. H. Taylor, J. E. Ward, James King, C. C. Grantham, A. W. Lucas, E. L. Smith, Newton Huff, S. A. Hedrick, John Abbott, Farris Vaughn, John Moore, R. M. Wilhite, L. M. Roseberry, J. W. Eckles, C. C. Jones, B. T. Stevens, John Mansker, John Martin, Haddox, Maxberry, J. L. Gant, Albritton and Miss Coffield.

More than 40 members of this class are reported present every Sunday in spite of the many away on vacations.

CHILDREN ENJOY OUTING FRIDAY

More than 150 children enjoyed a big day and picnic at Haven park Friday under the supervision of the Salvation Army. A ball game, races in which prizes were won and a sumptuous picnic dinner were some of the features of the day.

Four trucks donated by local transfer companies and the Riley Furniture company, took the little folks to the park and they were chaperoned by Captain Hicks, Lieutenant Thorne and Cadet Lancaster.

Local bakeries furnished generous consignments of bread and cakes for the occasion.

KLAN ASKED TO EXPLAIN ATTACK

By Associated Press.

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, July 8.—County Attorney Carroll McConnell, in an official statement, has called upon the local ku klux klan to assume or deny responsibility for the attack upon Constable B. F. Clark, near here, Thursday night.

Clark was lured from his home by two men on the pretext they would give him information as to a stolen automobile. When he reached the edge of the city, according to his statement, he was pounced upon by 15 men wearing black masks, struck with a pistol, kicked and cuffed and later brought back home.

SOCIETY GOSSIP

Timely Little Talks Over the Teacups

An Individual on the Inside Impresses Her Opinions on Friend

People Peggy Piedmont Meets During Week.

DEAR KITTY—I wonder where you spent the Glorious Fourth and if you had a good time? We all went somewhere, if there was a single soul left in this town on that day I am telling you I don't know who it was. I can hear you say, well where on earth did so many people go all in one day? Well they just went every where. There were thousands who wined, dined and danced all day and away into the night at the popular Lake Wichita pavilion, (I beg to be excused, did I say wined?) Well you know I didn't mean that, I meant they drank near beer and danced, concluding the program with a grand display of fireworks. Besides many private parties were held at the Golf club and at the "77" Rod and Gun club.

✣ ✣ ✣

SAY, Kitty, I wonder if you have heard about the bobbed-hair girl making her exit, thinking of such a thing as our little bobbed-haired enticers about to leave us. Entering instead is the charming girl of the high coiffure. Aren't you glad? I've been looking ahead and seeing that bobbed-hair was doomed to a dead and forgotten past in the very near future, and that not even the wreath of leaves worn upon the head would remain atop of the grave in which the golden tresses, or black and henna ones were buried.

* * *

EVERYTHING pointed to the funeral and especially when brides all over the country began giving beautiful high combs to their wedding attendants. And not only June brides, but those of early spring started the fashion with these pretty gifts to their bridesmaids, which are responsible for checking the bobbed hair craze and bringing back high coiffures.

Some of the combs are more than six inches high, and spread out from the head like a fan. The typical Spanish comb is of carved tortoise shell. Often they are jewelled instead of carved and jewelled hairpins are also worn.

Yes bobbed hair has had its day, and someone wrote me, a tour of the smart resaturant and roof gardens substaniate this. Transformations and false braids conceal the locks passing through their growing-out stage.

Of the 25 Vassar college students, selected to carry the daisy chain at the commencement exercises, only two had bobbed hair. Despite its comfort, its convenience and the dispatch which it can be dressed, bobbed hair is declared a failure—because it reduces all women to one type.

MARIAN Hale says: "When a girl cuts her hair she robs herself of the one means she has of changing her appearance to meet moods. A change of coiffure transforms the ingenue into a vamp, the slavey into a leading lady and often a woman plays all these roles in rapid succession."

There's no use talking Kitty, the steamship companies and railroads must be doing a whopping big business, judging from the travel from Wichita Falls, never before in the history of the city "that faith built" have people taken such extensive tours. Time was when we thought we were going on a real journey when we went to Galveston, Corpus Christi or other Texas coast towns.

Not so now, sister; you must go abroad, or to the Catalina Islands, Alaska or even Europe to be considered in the list of travelers. Take for instance Miss Louise Montgomery, one of Wichita Falls' younger girls, who has recently come home to spend the summer with her parents, Judge and Mrs. J. T. Montgomery. Louise spent the winter in New York City studying constructive art and millinery because she had talent along this line and wanted to develop it. You should see some of the nifty hats she is wearing this summer that she made all by herself.

Just previous to her return home she took the most gorgeous trip accompanied by her aunt and uncle with whom she stayed. A Caribbean cruise they called it and visited such interesting places as Havana, Santiago and Jamacia on the island of Cuba, containing on to Columbia, South America and through the Panama canal where they sailed for seven days on the Pacific side. At Barranquilla, the party boarded a launch and went to Santa Mara where they were guests of a friend who owned a coffee plantation. While on this stretch of the trip they crossed marshes and saw numerous alligators. At Costa Rica they boarded another ship that took on a load of bananas at Port Lima and while there received a wireless message from Moewe, a German destroyer, that played a prominent part in the world war and was later captured by the English, now being used as a merchant ship. It was in distress, marooned on a coral reef. Dont' you think she must have had a wonderful trip? And by way of further adventure, on her way to Wichita Falls from New York City, she stopped over in Washington, shook hands with President Harding and played with his dog "Laddie Boy."

AMONG the departures for the past week was the W. B. Chauncey family who with their son, Ford, went to Long Beach for the summer. They went especially for the benefit of the boy's health and will be joined there by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Martin and their children, Berniece and Howard. The Martin family will leave Thursday of this week and both families will occupy a cottage at the well known resort and will tour the entire state in a car while there. They will also visit Vancouver, Seattle and all important places on the northern route.

Other Wichitans who have already started for California are Mr. and Mrs. T. T. T. Reese and Mrs. Reese's mother, Mrs. M. L. Reid, and sister, Miss Agnes Reid. This party left on Tuesday of last week. Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Gose will leave Monday with the Reedy party for a six weeks tour of the Pacific coast and Alaska. They intend to visit Utah, Wyoming and many other places of interest before settling down in California for the remainder of the summer.

MISS KINSEY

Miss Juanita Kinsey, one of Wichita Falls' most talented readers will be heard on the program at the lawn fete to be given at the Temple Israel Tuesday evening. Miss Kinsey's numbers are always looked forward to with pleasure by all who enjoy good readings.

COLORADO is also the mecca for many Wichitans, a large representative from here are already located for the summer. Among these are Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Harvey and their three attractive boys, Mrs. J. J. Perkins and daughter, Elizabeth and Mrs. Frank Timberlake. The three families are all sojourning in Colorado Springs, Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Timberlake occupying a cottage together.

Mrs. Jeff Waggoner and son, Gose, will leave the last of this week for Colorado Springs, also Mrs. L. W. Perham and her grandson, Herbert Price. After spending a while at the Springs, Mrs. Perham and Herbert will go to the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Culp, Mrs. Perham's daughter, near Monta Vista, where they will remain until September.

I fancy when you read this far in my letter I can hear you say, gracious me; I wonder if Peggy don't know a piece of news except about people going away. And right here I confess I don't know much of any thing else. But I must tell you about the double wedding which will take place Wednesday evening, when Miss Blanche Clark will wed Paul J. Pond and her sister, Leoti, will wed Clifford Deaton. The ceremony will take place at the First Christian church at 8 o'clock.

MANY delightful affairs have marked the approaching nuptials. Friday afternoon, Suda Willis and Lurline Turner, who will act as brides maids, entertained with a theater party. Fay Boyd and Joe Betsy Miller, two more of the brides-maids-elect will entertain Monday at the home of Miss Turner while on Wednesday morning, Mrs. Lee Clark, mother of the brides-elect and Miss Johnnie Morgan will give a wedding breakfast for the bridal party at the bome of Miss Morgan. The wedding trip will be taken in two cars especially fitted up for camping, and it is the intention of the party to enjoy an outing along with their tour which will include Colorado points. Essex Park will be the first stopping place.

Now it's truly too hot to tell you another thing, and if I do try to write another line, I might say what all the girls in Nell Brinkley's latest cartoon is saying, "My dear, I really though I should die."

But this I command you to do—if you find a cool spot on the next Fourth of July, write me, and I will come there, and if I find one I'll do the same, and you can come and spend it with.

PEGGY PIEDMONT.

TALENTED WICHITA FALLS' DANCER

Little Miss Rose Marion Art, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Art, is one of the most talented dancers in the city and will be seen at a solo dance at the Temple Israel at the lawn fete to be given there Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Council of Jewish Women. This number is expected to [illegible] the features of an exceptionally splendid program which has been arranged.

GRAYSON COUNTY MARKETS OPENED

By Associated Press.

DENISON, Texas, July 8.—Markets sponsored by the farmers union of Grayson county will be opened at Sherman and Denison early next week, where striking shopmen may secure farm produce at cost, officers of the farm union have announced.

In cases where strikers are unable to pay for produce it will be furnished free, it was said.

Texans in Washington Society

By MARGARET E. EPPLER
(Of The Record News Staff Bureau)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 8.—The dull days are with us in real earnest.

The house of representatives has adjourned until August 15th. Everyone who could has gone home. A number of the Texas members who have had business to close up remained over, but they, too, will be gone within a few days.

It gets hot at some places in Texas, but it gets hotter in Washington. Even were the degree of heat greater in Texas than it is in Washington the Texas congressman would rather be home for he finds compensation in talking with his constituents and get the home view on legislative matters to come up following the recess.

So most of the congressmen are going home. A notable exception is Congressman John N. Garner, one of the democratic leaders. Mr. Garner is a member of the ways and means committee—the ranking democrat on this committee. This makes him a conferee and after the senate has passed the bill, the senate and house must get together and iron out the differences and Mr. Garner is one of the half dozen men who will take part in this ironing out process. Naturally, he will have to stay here and keep in close touch with the discussion in the senate.

Senators Culberson and Sheppard also must stay as the senate continues in session. The Texas senators do not get much rest. For instance, in Senator Culberson's present term the senate has been in session more than 1300 days and Senator Culberson has been there six or eight hours every day it has been in session. Senator Sheppard's present term has run a couple of years less than Senator Culberson's, but the junior Texas senator shows a devotion to duty equal to that of Senator Culberson, so he had little time for vacation.

With all the charming wives of Texas congressmen away Texas circles are extremely dull.

President and Mrs. Harding have been away all week for that homecoming at Marion, and the cabinet ladies all slipped away for a cooler place. Even the government clerk hied away over the Fourth of July and using up part of her annual leave stayed the week out.

Miss Mabel Puckett and Miss Mary Bertrand of Fort Worth, have been spending the week in Washington, following a trip through Canada. They went from Washington to New York where they will take a six week's course at Columbia University.

Mrs. John H. Curby, Mrs. E. A. Stewart, Mrs. M. Maxwell and Mrs. J. Hucken forming a party from Houston, are visitors here and are stopping at the Shoreham hotel.

Miss Margaret Skillman of Texas, who has been the house guest of Senator and Mrs. Morris Sheppard has returned to her home.

The following Texans were visitors to Washington this week:

S. A. Penniman, Dallas; W. C. Barnes, Dallas; J. J. King, Fort Worth; A. F. Hawkins, Fort Worth; Miss Ruby Piercy, Waco; C. Parrott, Waco; Mrs. J. Martin Lee, Austin; Miss Marie Clark Lee, Austin; Mrs. T. B. Alderson, Fort Worth; J. A. Arnold, Fort Worth; J. T. Orr, Dallas; T. M. Edward, Dallas; J. B. Shannon, Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kelly, San Antonio.

OAKLAND TESTS ALL CAR PARTS

Local Distributor Tells Of Factory

An eight hour running block test is given every motor before it goes into the Oakland chassis. This test is made particularly severe because officials believe that defects in a motor may not be discovered until it is actually in operation.

"If there is anything out of tune it will be discovered in that time," states C. J. Nephier, general sales manager of the Oakland Motor Car company. "The motor, after all is the heart of the car, and no motor is allowed to be placed in a car in our factory until we have exhausted every human means to see that it is in perfect working order.

After the motor has been given the eight hour block test and found in good condition, it is removed to the valve grinding department, where the valves are removed from the head and all parts cleaned in the cleaning vat. The gaskets and head are replaced and the motor then undergoes a bench inspection, when oil pan and bearing caps are removed to be inspected once again.

Then the motors are removed to the "allent" test rooms, where each motor is run for a considerable time to detect any noises. An inspector then corrects ny defect that may be indicated by any noise outside of the usual motor "purr." After the motor has been okayed as perfect, the final parts are put on such a: the fan, etc., it is given a serial number and sent to the assembly rooms, where it is assembled in the chassis.

After the final assembly, the car is then put on an actual road test —in which is encountered practically every road condition the average motorist finds—for a distance of from 10 to 100 miles, depending on how much driving it might require to get all the parts in perfect running condition.

In these tests wheels and tires and special test bodies of the Oakland Motor Car company are used so that these parts come to the ultimate purchaser in perfectly new condition.

Arthur Huff Motor company, successors to Marshall Huff Motor company, are Oakland distributors for this section.

BLOW-OUTS

Al Booth of the Overland Motors company, returned from San Antonio and Austin with the other members of the Shrine baseball team. Al says they poured it on the Nobles down south and that the Muskat team showed up like a million dollars. He also says they were hospitably treated by the San Antonio and Austin Shriners and everyone was well pleased with the trip.

Jim Moulder of the Wilhelm-Moulder company says they have been making some mighty good sales in Chandlers and Clevelands for the last few weeks. Used cars especially, are becoming more scarce down on that end of Indiana.

Homer Crawford, live wire salesman for L. O. Brown of the Victory Motor company, has a nice line of new sales to his credit this month on both Packard and Oldsmobile cars. "Among the recent sales reported by the Victory Motors are: Two new single saxes to Landon H. Cullum of Wichita Falls and Frank Cullum of Electra, a Packard roadster to George Burkshalter of Burkburnett, not to mention several Oldsmobiles and used car sales.

McFall Brothers are making extensive improvements at their place on Ohio. The contract has been let to E. A. Cox, contractor. Manager Cregor states it will be several weeks before everything is again in readiness.

There was a good attendance at the banquet Friday and everyone there felt repaid after viewing the moving picture "Ask Them to Buy." Credit for this program is due to George Parks and A. E. Weissenborn, for their efforts in securing the picture for presentation here. It was constructive, as well as interesting and much enjoyed by the members present.

S. Bemrod Motor and Supply Co., are now located in their new home on Scott street. The building is much better suited to the needs of the company and is much larger than their former quarters.

D. L. Fritz booth at the Shrine circus attracted considerable attention all last week and hundreds of the circus visitors saw the Marmon tear-down demonstration.

E. B. Ebner of the Overland Motors company, reports a continuation of the good sales being made by the Overland crew of salesmen. The new Jewett, too, is making a big impression and several sales are reported, as well as a number of live prospects lined up.

MARMON BOOTH PLEASES MANY

Motorists Learn Of Engine Parts

The Marmon tear down exhibit at the Shrine auto show for the past week has been attracting large crowds and favorable comment. The minature models have been the means of drawing many people who would not otherwise have stopped to see the exhibit. This is the same demonstration that was the sensation of the Chicago auto show of this year.

It is really a mechanical education to watch Lafkin and Kerley completely tear down and rebuild this standard Marmon motor in less than an hour. Every detail of the tearing down and re-assembling of the engine was fully explained each time by S. V. Harding, the Marmon factory expert from Indianapolis. Not only were Marmon owners enthusiastic about this demonstration, but many an owner of another make of car expressed his approval of Marmon construction and easy accessibility. Altogether D .L. Fritz, the local Marmon dealer, feels very well satisfied with the week's exhibit.

No doubt many people were won over to the Marmon car by this demonstration, but the real value in this kind of an exhibit. Then such an exhibit makes a great impression on the youngsters and in that way makes them wish for a Marmon when they grow up. Having the good will of the future generation is a sure path to success.

MONTENEGRO COUNT BECOMES A RANGER

(By International News Service)

MINNEAPOLIS, July 7.—Minneapolis' best-known nobleman, Count William Rudolph Martinovich von Rovingo, nephew of the former king of Montenegro, is on his way to the wilds of northern St. Louis county to adopt a new avocation, that of forest ranger. He is to be joined there this summer by Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., "millionaire reporter."

Count Rovingo, democratic in spite of his titles and known to numberless friends in this city and at St. Paul as "Buddy," has hunted big game with Buffalo Bill and Theodore Roosevelt and accompanied Gen. Lesson No. 14.

The Alternating Current Transformer

The articles on electromagnetic induction explained that a pulsating current in a coil, induced an electromotive force in another coil placed in close proximity. If the coils of lesson No. 13 are wound upon a core of soft iron or annealed steel, we have what is known as a closed core transformer (T) shown in diagram below.

Closed Core Transformer

Transformers are mutual induction coils used for the purpose of raising or lowering the voltage of a pulsating or alternating current circuit. The coil or wining (P) receives current from an alternating source, such as the alternating current generator (G), and is known as the primary winding. The winding (S) in which an alternating electromotive force is induced is known as the secondary winding. The core of soft iron offers an easy path to the magnetic lines of force, generated by the magnetic field of the primary as shown in dotted lines. If the primary winding (P) connected to the generator consists of a comparatively few turns of fairly coarse wire and the secondary winding (S) is composed of many turns of fine wire, the electromotive force induced in the secondary winding will be greatly increased and connected in this manner it is known as a "Step-up" transformer. If, on the other hand, the conditions are reversed so that the winding with many turns is connected to the generator, then the voltage, induced in the winding with few turns, will be greatly lowered. Connected in this manner it is known as a "Step-down" transformer. For the purpose of the radio transmitter the transformer is used to greatly increase the impressed voltage of the alternating current generator.

The action of this portion of the circuit is as follows: Alternating current from the generator (G) flows through the primary winding (P) and causes magnetic lines of force to flow through the iron core. In accordance with the alternations of the impressed current, the lines of force pass back and forth across the secondary winding (S) and induce an electromotive force in the secondary winding. If the secondary circuit is closed, a current will flow in an opposite direction from the current in the primary and the magnetic field generated by this induced current opposes the field created by the primary current.

The lessons to follow will explain other important features of the alternating current transformer.

TAHOKA WILL HAVE NEW FIRE STATION

Special to The Record News

TAHOKA, Texas, July 8.—Work is being pushed on the erection of the new fire station. With fire fighting apparatus, new hose and other equipment the Tahoka department has received additional reductions in its fire key rate. Fire plugs have been installed in the residence and business districts.

For more than 30 years the City National Bank of Commerce has been in alliance with West Texas business men, helping to finance their activities and counselling with them on business and investment matters. It will work with and for you in the same helpful manner.—Adv.

MOTORISTS LIKE SMALLER CARS

Chandler Bodies to Be More Sociable

That modern motorists have a decided preference for the more sociable four or five passenger car is evidenced by the increasing demand for cars of this type as compared with the seven passenger models, states James Moulder of the Wilhelm-Moulder company, local Chandler and Cleveland dealers.

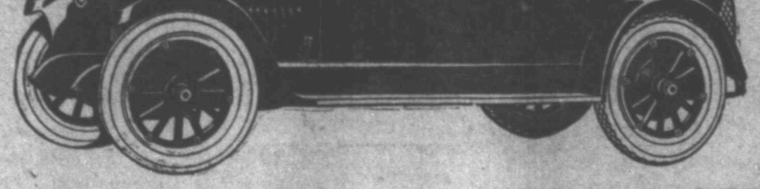

Since adding its five passenger touring model at the beginning of the year, the Chandler company has brought out the Metropolitan, a close coupled five passenger sedan and the four passenger Royal Dispatch, both of which have found an unusually responsive market.

The demand for the seven passenger touring car and the seven passenger sedan always will be well defined among those whose families require large cars, it is pointed out, but where that element does not require consideration, cars of smaller passenger carrying capacity have have the call.

The Metropolitan sedan, founded on the same rugged chassis as the seven passenger Chandler models, is a car of striking beauty with four unusually wide doors, a rear trunk rack with vertical aluminum bars and individual cast aluminum steps.

The four passenger Chandler Royal Dispatch is one of the distinctively smart sport models of the season. With its rear trunk rack, aluminum protecting bars, and two spare wire wheels placed at the rear of the front fenders, this model finds its fullest measure of appreciation among those who are young and those who wish to keep young.

Owing to the intense heat of this climate, it is very important that motor oil that will stand the highest temperature without thinning down quickly should be used,

100% Pure Pennsylvania Amalie Motor Oil

Stands the highest temperature of any oil on the American market because it is manufactured from Pure Pennsylvania Crude Oil. Chemical analysis will show Pennsylvania Motor Oil thins down less between a temperature of 100 degrees and 212 degrees than motor oil made from any other crude.

100% Pure Pennsylvania AMALIE Motor Oils are all made from Paraffine Base Pennsylvania Crude and contain, therefore, a minimum amount of free carbon.

The Mucker

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Billy wondered what the second floor was utilized for. He saw soiled hangings at the windows which had aroused a hope and a sudden inspiration. There was a sign above the entrance to the second floor; but Billy's knowledge of the language had not progressed sufficiently to permit him to translate it, although he had his suspicions as to its meaning. He would learn if his guess was correct.

Returning to the bar he ordered another bottle of beer, and as he drank it he practiced upon the bartender some of his recently acquired Spanish and learned, though not without considerable difficulty, that he might find lodgings for the night upon the second floor of the bank building.

Much elated, Billy left the saloon and walked along the street until he came to the one general store of the town. After another heart-rending scrimmage with the language of Ferdinand and Isabella he succeeded in making several purchases—two heavy sacks, a bruce, two bits, and a key-hole saw. Placing the tools in one of the sacks he wrapped the whole in the second sack and made his way back to the bank building.

Upon the second floor he found the proprietor of the rooming house and engaged a room in the rear of the building, overlooking the yard. The layout was eminently satisfactory to Captain Byrne and it was with a feeling of great self-satisfaction that he descended and sought a restaurant.

He had been sent by Pesita merely to look over the ground and the defenses of the town, that the outlaw might later ride in with his entire force and loot the bank; but Billy Byrne, out of his past experience in such matters, had evolved a much simpler plan for separating the enemy from his wealth.

Having eaten, Billy returned to his room. It was now dark and the bank closed and unlighted showed that all had left it. Only the sentry paced up and down the sidewalk in front.

Going at once to his room Billy withdrew his tools from their hiding place beneath the mattress, and a moment later was busily engaged in boring holes through the floor at the foot of his bed. For an hour he worked, cautiously and quietly, until he had a rough circle of holes enclosing a space about two feet in diameter. Then he laid aside the brace and bit, and took the keyhole saw, with which he patiently sawed through the wood between contiguous holes, until, the circle completed, he lifted out a section of the floor leaving an aperture large enough to permit him to squeeze his body through when the time arrived for him to pass into the bank beneath.

While Billy had worked three men had ridden into Cuivaca. They were Tony, Benito and the new bookkeeper of El Orobo Rancho. The Mexicans, after eating, repaired at once to the joys of the cantina; while Bridge sought a room in the building to which his escort directed him.

As chance would have it, it was the same building in which Billy labored and the room lay upon the rear side of it overlooking the same yard. But Bridge did not lie awake to inspect his surroundings. For years he had not ridden as many miles as he had during the past two days, so that long unused muscles cried out for rest and relaxation. As a result, Bridge was asleep almost as soon as his head touched the pillow, and so profound was his slumber that it seemed that nothing short of a convulsion of nature would arouse him.

As Bridge lay down upon his bed Billy Byrne left his room and descended to the street. The sentry before the bank paid no attention to him, and Billy passed along, unhindered, to the corral where he had left his horse. Here, as he was saddling the animal, he was accosted, much to his disgust by the proprietor.

In broken English the man expressed surprise that Billy rode out so late at night, and the American thought that he detected something more than curiosity in the other's manner and tone—suspicion of the strange gringo.

It would never do to leave the fellow in that state of mind, and so Billy leaned close to the other's ear and with a broad grin and a wink whispered: "Senorita," and jerked his thumb toward the south. "I'll be back by mornin'," he added.

The Mexican's manner altered at once. He laughed and nodded, knowingly, and poked Billy in the ribs. Then he watched him mount and ride out of the corral, toward the south—which was also in the direction of the bank, to the rear of which Billy rode without effort to conceal his movements.

There he dismounted and left his horse standing with the bridle reins dragging upon the ground, while he removed the lariat from the pommel of the saddle, and, stuffing it inside his shirt, walked back to the street on which the building stood, and so made his way past the sentry and to his room.

Here he pushed back the bed which he had drawn over the hole in the floor, dropped his two sacks through into the bank, and tying the brace to one end of the lariat lowered it through after the sacks.

Looping the middle of the lariat over a bedpost Billy grasped both strands firmly and lowered himself through the aperture into the room beneath. He made no more noise in his descent than he had made upon other similar occasions in his past life when he had practiced the gentle art of porch climbing along Ashland Avenue and Washington Boulevard.

Having gained the floor he pulled upon one end of the lariat until he had drawn it free of the bedpost above, when it fell into his waiting hands. Coiling it carefully Billy placed it around his neck and under one arm. Billy, acting as a professional, was a careful and methodicl man. He always saw that every little detail was properly attended to before he went on to the next phase of his endeavors. Because of this ingrained caution Billy had long since secured the tops of the two sacks together, leaving only a sufficient opening to permit of their each being filled without delay or inconvenience.

Now he turned his attention to the rear door. The bar and bolts were easily shot from their seats from the inside, and Billy saw to it that this was attended to before he went further with his labors. It were well to have one's retreat assured at the earliest possible moment. A single bolt Billy left in place that he might not be surprised by an intruder; but first he had tested it and discovered that it could be drawn with ease.

These matters satisfactorily attended to Billy assaulted the combination knob of the safe with the metal bit which he had inserted in the brace before lowering it into the bank.

The work was hard and progressed slowly. It was necessary to withdraw the bit often and lubricate it with a piece of soap which Billy had brought along in his pocket for the purpose; but eventually a hole was bored through into the tumblers of the combination lock.

From without Billy could hear the footsteps of the sentry pacing back and forth within fifty feet of him, all unconscious that the bank he was guarding was being looted almost beneath his eyes. Once a corporal came with another soldier and relieved the sentry. After that Billy heard the footfalls no longer, for the new sentry was barefoot.

The boring finished Billy drew a bit of wire from an inside pocket and inserted it in the hole. Then, working the wire with accustomed fingers, he turned the combination knob this way and that, feeling with the bit of wire until the tumblers should all be in line.

This, too, was slow work; but it was infinitely less liable to attract attention than any other method of safe cracking with which Billy was familiar.

It was long past midnight when Captain Byrne was rewarded with success—the tumblers clicked into position, the handle of the safe door turned and the bolts slipped back.

To swing open the door and transfer the contents of the safe to the two sacks was the work of but a few minutes. As Billy rose and threw the heavy burden across a shoulder he heard a challenge from without, and then a parley. Immediately after the sound of footsteps ascending the stairway to the rooming house came plainly to his ears, and then he had slipped the last bolt upon the rear door and was out in the yard beyond.

Now Bridge, sleeping the sleep of utter exhaustion that the boom of a cannon might not have disturbed, did that inexplicable thing which everyone of us has done a hundred times in our lives. He awakened, with a start, out of a sound sleep, though no disturbing noise had reached his ears.

Something impelled him to sit up in bed, and as he did so he could see through the window beside him into the yard at the rear of the building. There in the moonlight he saw a man throwing a sack across the horn of a saddle. He saw the man mount, and he saw him wheel his horse around about and ride away toward the north. There seemed to Bridge nothing unusual about the man's act, nor had there been any indication either of stealth or haste to arouse the American's suspicions. Bridge lay back again upon his pillows and sought to woo the slumber which the sudden awakening seemed to have banished for the remainder of the night.

And up the stairway to the second floor staggered Tony and Benito. Their money was gone; but they had acquired something else which appeared much more difficult to carry and not so easily gotten rid of.

Tony held the key to their room. It was the second room upon the right of the hall. Tony remembered that very distinctly. He had impressed it upon his mind before leaving the room earlier in the evening, for Tony had feared some such contingency as that which had befallen.

Tony fumbled with the handle of a door, and stabbed vainly at an elusive keyhole.

"Wait," mumbled Benito. "This is not the room. It was the second door from the stairway. This is the third."

Tony lurched about and staggered back. Tony reasoned: "If that was the third door the next behind me must be the second, and on the right;" but Tony took not into consideration that he had reversed the direction of his erratic wobbling. He lunged across the hall—not because he wished to but because the spirits moved him. He came in contact with a door. "This, then, must be the second door," he soliloquized, "and it is upon my right. Ah, Benito, this is the room!"

Benito was skeptical. He said as much; but Tony was obdurate. Did he not know a second door when he saw one? Was he, furthermore, not a grown man and therefore entirely capable of distinguishing between his left hand and his right? Yes! Tony was all of that, and more, so Tony inserted the key in the lock—it would have turned any lock upon the second floor—and, lo! the door swung inward upon its hinges.

"Ah! Benito," cried Tony. "Did I not tell you so? See! This is our room, fr the key opens the door."

The room was dark. Tony carried forward by the weight of his head, which had long since grown unaccountably heavy, rushed his feet rapidly forward that he might keep them within a few inches of his center of equilibrium.

The distance which it took his feet to catch up with his head was equal to the distance between the doorway and the foot of the bed, and when Tony reached that spot, with Benito meandering after him, the latter, much to his astonishment, saw in the diffused moonlight which pervaded the room, the miraculous disappearance of his former enemy and erstwhile friend. Then from the depths below came a wild scream and a heavy thud.

The sentry upon the beat before the bank heard both. For an instant he stood motionless, then he called aloud for the guard, and turned toward the bank door. But this was locked and he could but peer in through the windows. Seeing a dark form within, and being a Mexican he raised his rifle and fired through the glass of the doors.

Tony, who had dropped through the hole which Billy had used so quietly, heard the sing of a bullet pass his head, and the impact as it sploshed into the adobe wall behind him. With a second yell Tony dodged behind the safe and besought Mary to protect him.

From above Benito peered through the hole into the blackness below. Down the hall came the barefoot landlord, awakened by screams and the shot. Behind him came Bridge, buckling his revolver belt about his hips as he ran. Not having been furnished with pajamas Bridge had not thought it necessary to remove his clothing, and so he had lost no time in dressing.

When the two, now joined by Benito, reached the street they found the guard there, battering in the bank doors. Benito, fearing for the life of Tony, which if anyone took should be taken by him, rushed upon the sergeant of the guard, explaining with both lips and hands the remarkable accident which had precitpitated Tony into the bank.

The sergeant listened, though he did not believe, and when the doors had fallen in, he commanded Tony to come out with his hands above his head. Then followed an investigation which disclosed the looting of the safe, and the great hole in the ceiling through which Tony had tumbled.

The bank president came while the sergeant and the landlord were in Billy's room investigating. Bridge had followed them.

"It was the gringo," cried the excited Boniface. "This is his room. He has cut a hole in my floor which I shall have to pay to have repaired."

A captain came next, sleepy-eyed and profane. When he heard what had happened and that the wealth which he had been detailed to guard had been taken while he slept, he tore his hair and promised that the sentry should be shot at dawn.

By the time they had returned to the street all the male population of Cuivaca was there and most of the female.

"One thousand dollars," cried the bank president, "to the man who stops the thief and returns to me what the villain has stolen."

A detachment of soldiers was in the saddle and passing the bank as the offer was made.

"Which way did he go?" asked the captain. "Did no one see him leave?"

Bridge was upon the point of saying that he had seen him and that he had ridden north, when it occurred to him that a thousand dollars—even a thousand dollars Mex—was a great deal of money, and that it would carry both himself and Billy to Rio and leave something for pleasure beside.

Then up spoke a tall, thin man with the skin of a coffee bean.

"I saw him, Senor Capitan," he cried loudly. "He kept his horse in my corral, and at night he came and took it out saying that he was riding to visit a senorita. He fooled me, the scoundrel; but I will tell you—he rode south. I saw him ride south with my own eyes."

"Then we shall have him before morning," cried the captain, "for there is but one place to the south where a robber would ride, and he has not had sufficient start of us that he can reach safety before we overhaul him. Forward! March!" and the detachment moved down the narrow street. "Trot! March!" And as they passed the store: "Gallop! March!"

Bridge almost ran the length of the street to the corral. His pony must be rested by now, and a few miles to the north the gringo whose capture meant a thousand dollars to Bridge was on the road to liberty.

"I hate to do it," thought Bridge; "because, even if he is a bank robber, he's an American; but I need the money and in all probability the fellow is a scoundrel who should have been hanged long ago."

Over the trail to the north rode Captain Billy Byrne, secure in the belief that no pursuit would develop until after the opening hour of the bank in the morning, by which time he would be halfway on his return journey to Pesita's camp.

"O' man Pesita'll be some surprised when I show him what I got for him," mused Billy. "Say!" he exclaimed suddenly and aloud. "Why the devil should I take all this swag back to that yellow faced yegg? Who pulled this thing off anyway? Why me, of course, and does anybody think Billy Byrne's boob enough to split with a guy that didn't have a hand in it at all. Split! Why the nut'll take it all!

"Nix! Me for the border. I could not do a thing with all this coin down in Rio, an' Bridgie'll be along there most any time. We can hit it up some in li' ol' Rio on this bunch o' dough. Why, say kid, there must be a million here, from the weight of it."

A frown suddenly clouded his face. "Why did I take it?" he asked himself. "Was a crakin' a safe, or was I pullin' off something fine fer poor bleedin' Mexico? If I was a-doin' that they ain't nothiu' criminal in what I done—except to the guy that owned the coin. If I was just plain crackin' a safe on my own hook why then I'm a crook again an' I can't be that—no, not with that face of your standin' out there so plain right in front of me, just as though you were there yourself, askin' me to remember an' be decent. God! Barbara—why wasn't I born for the likes of you, and not just a measly, ornery mucker like I am. Oh, hell! what is that that Bridge sings of Knibbses:

There ain't no sweet Penelope somewhere that's longing much for me,
But I can smell the blundering sea,
And hear the rigging hum;
And I can hear the whispering lips that fly before the outbound ships,
And I can hear the breakers on the sand a-calling "Come!"

Billy took off his hat and scratched his head.

"Funny," he thought, "how a girl and poetry can get a tough nut like me. I wonder what the guys that used to hang out in back of Kelly's 'ud say if they seen what was go.n' on in my bean just now. They'd call me Lizzy, eh? Well, they would not call me Lizzy more'n once. I may be gettin' soft in the head, but I'm all to the good with my dukes."

Speed is not conducive to sentimental thoughts and so Billy had unconsciously permitted his pony to drop into a lazy walk. There was no need for haste anyhow. No one knew yet that the bank had been robbed, or at least so Billy argued. He might, however, have thought differently upon the subject of haste could he have had a glimpse of the horseman in his rear — two miles behind him, now, but rapidly closing up the distance at a keen gallop, while he strained his eyes across the moonlit flat ahead in eager search for his quarry.

So absorbed was Billy Byrne in his reflections that his ears were deaf to the pounding of the hoofs of the pursuer's horse upon the soft dust of the dry road until Bridge was little more than a hundred yards from him. For the last half mile Bridge had had the figure of the fugitive in full view and his mind had been playing rapidly with seductive visions of the one thousand dollars reward — one thousand dollars Mex., perhaps, but still quite enough to excite pleasant thoughts. At the first glimpse of the horseman ahead Bridge had reined his mount down to a trot that the noise of his approach might thereby be lessened. He had drawn his revolver from its holster and was upon the point of putting spurs to horse for a sudden dash upon the fugitive when the man ahead, finally attracted by the noise of the other's approach, turned in his saddle and saw him.

Neither recognized the other, and at Bridge's command of, "Hands up!" Billy, lightening-like in his quickness drew and fired. The bullet raked Bridge's hat from his head out but not unscathed.

Billy had wheeled his pony around until he stood broadside toward Bridge. The latter fired scarce a second after Billy's shot had plugged so perilously close—fired at a perfect target but fifty yards away.

At the sound of the report the robber's horse reared and plunged, then, wheeling and tottering high upon its hind feet, fell backward. Billy, realizing that his mount had been hit, tried to throw himself from the saddle; but until the very moment that the beast toppled over the man was held by his cartridge belt which, as the animal first lunged, had caught over the high horn of the Mexican saddle.

The belt slipped from the horn as the horse was falling, and Billy succeded in throwing himself a little to one side. One leg, however, was pinned beneath the animal's body and the force of the fall jarred the revolver from Billy's hand to drop just beyond his reach.

His carbine was in its boot at the horse's side, and the animal was lying upon it. Instantly Bridge rode to his side and covered him with his revolver.

"Don't move," he commanded, "or I'll be under the painful necessity of terminating your earthly endeavors right here and now."

"Well, for the love o' Mike!" cried the fallen bandit. "You?"

Bridge was off his horse the instant that the familiar voice sounded in his ears.

dren who suddenly decide to cross the street, might be so frightened at the approach of an automobile, that they couldn't get back to the sidewalk in time. It's a safe, beautiful yard, with swings, sand piles, and games under the trees.

Mothers who leave their children here when they go to their work in the morning, know that the little soft arms will go around their necks in loving greeting, when evening comes, and work is over. And their day is not filled with wonder and fear as to where the children are, whether they were fed their dinners at the right time and whether they were taking a nap, as all children should in the afternoon.

Two Years Old.

In the almost two years that the Day Nursery has been a Wichita Falls institution, there have been many little bits of happiness brought into the lives of mothers and fathers, for some time it is the motherless home that sends children to the Nursery. The Day Nursery has meant to several mothers the difference between giving their previous baby, or baies up to an orphans asylum, and of keeping them with them, to love and fondle when the day's work is over, sometimes to live for, and to work for.

Some of the babies have been sick, and the friends that have made the Day Nursery possible again step in. If it is a sickness that would be a menace to the other babies in the nursery, or the sickness is very, very bad, and more constant care is needed, then the small patient is taken to the hospital. In just ordinary tummy ache cases, or kindred youthful ailments, Mrs. Carrington has the proper remedies to administer.

In this substitute home there is to be found even the love that a child heart craves. It may not be possible for thirty children to get just all of the petting from two or three grownups that they might get at home, where they are the only ones to be loved, but the Day Nursery children get their share of petting. The Nursery mother, the cook and the helper all have a real love for their little charges, and dispense their caresses freely. The babies get a double share of petting, for the larger children love the little ones, and sometimes get too demonstrative in their affection, so expressive is the child nature.

It's a very, very happy place, the Day Nursery.

MEXICAN OIL STILL LEAPING

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Conferences between Adolfo de la Huerta, Mexican minister of finance, and American oil executives, relating to a plan for the development of "wild cat" oil territory in Mexico, have ended without an agreement. Senor de la Huerta, who issued a statement yesterday announcing his mission consisted only in hearing the propositions made by the companies through their representatives, declared later that he regarded his mission as a successful one. At the office of one of the five companies involved, it was stated that "reasonable progress" had been made.

A BUSINESS COUPE FOR BUSINESS MEN

This car represents a new and important achievement in commercial transportation.

For the first time in motor car history, business men are enabled to buy a closed car, the body of which is built throughout of steel.

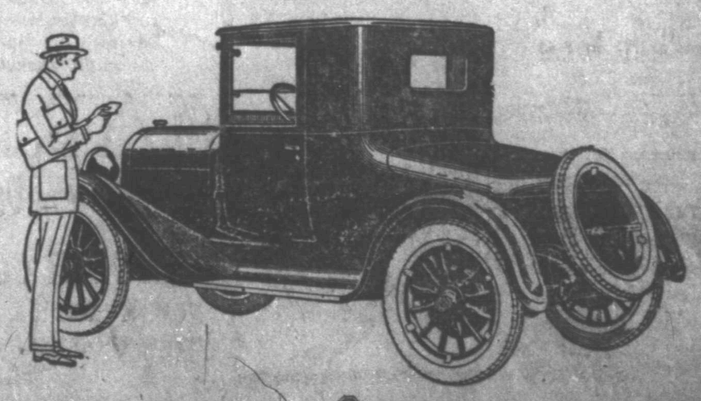

The advantages of this all-steel construction—reserved until now to open cars—are particularly marked in a coupe built to weather the wear and tear of hard commercial usage.

Immediately you will be impressed with the beauty and lightness of this coupe. Time will convince you of its unusual stamina. The doors snap neatly shut. Body squeaks are eliminated. Dodge Brothers enamel is baked on the surface of the steel—a permanent lustrous finish, impervious to wear.

The interior is roomy and thoughtfully equipped with every appointment necessary to the owner's comfort and all-weather protection.

Business houses that equip their salesmen with motor cars have been quick to recognize in this coupe a very unusual investment.

OWEN MOORE IN THRILLER

"Reported Missing" Has Comedy Too

Hailed as a hurricane of melodramatic comedy, the showing of "Reported Missing" at the Olympic theater this week is eagerly anticipated by picture fans who like their pictures full of thrills, romance and laughter. Owen Moore is starred in this production which deals with the attempt of a Far Eastern capitalist to obtain possession of a huge fleet of ships owned by an American shipping company.

The high lights of the picture are a race between a hydroplane and a hydroaeroplane, a shipwreck, a rough and tumble fight in the villain's house, a series of comedy scenes made only as Henry Lehrman, master of laughter, knows how to make them and the gowns worn by the statuesque Nita Naldi and the flapper like Pauline Garon.

"Reported Missing" is a moving picture that moves every minute. It is crowded full of action and excitement. It assays a real, honest to goodness laugh a minute. It is one of those amusement mediums which lift people from the dull drab of everyday existence into a world of laughter and romance.

Tom Wilson, as a valet, gives the comedy performance of his career. The scenes in which he attempted to wreak vengeance on a group of Oriental schemers operating against his master are masterpieces of comedy. Tom surely wields a wicked razor. He could trim the Three Musketeers single handed by just shaking his weapon in front of their faces.

AGNES AYRES

Agnes Ayres and Jack Holt Coming

Two Paramount stars, Agnes Ayres and Jack Holt, who were featured respectively in "The Sheik," "The Call of the North" and "The Lane That Had No Turning" play the two principal roles—those of Robert Stafford and Virginia Blaine—in "Bought and Paid For" the William de Mille production which will be featured at the Olympic theater next week.

The role of Virginia Blaine was created on the stage in George Broadhurst's notable play, from which the picture was adapted, by Julia Dean.

The cast is notable for the ability of the players embraced therein. Walter Hiers, a rotund, polite comedian inimitably plays "Jimmy" which was enacted by Frank Cravens in the original stage production. Others are Leah Wyant, George Kuwa and Bernice Frank.

Of unusual interest is the fact that Mr. Broadhurst, author of the play, and William de Mille, who produced it for the screen, worked side by side in the old days and in one year they had two of the biggest successes in New York stage history running side by side—Broadhurst's "Bought and Paid For" and de Mille's "The Woman."

New Park Viewed

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—A bill providing for the establishment of a 2,000-acre "all-year national park" in the Mescalero Indian reservation, New Mexico, was passed today by the senate. Under the measure the secretary of the interior would be instructed to select the park acreage from lands within the reservation and to provide proper houses for the Indian residents.

D. D. D. CLUB HOLDS SOCIAL AT BURK

Special to the Record News.

BURKBURNETT, July 8.—The members of the D. D. D. club spent a pleasant evening at the home of Miss Myrtice Jones, 639 East Main street. A business sesion took up the first hour of the meeting followed by a social period during which the hostess favored the members and guests with a delicious two course refreshment treat.

On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock the club will be entertained at the home of Queechy Childress, 220 East Fifth street.

Those present Monday evening were Misses Mary Kate Ellis, O. B. James, Queechy Childress, Mamie Huffman, Myrtice Jones, J. W. Musgrove, Katherine Knauth, Corine Hoke, Ruby Lee Rose, Mildred Keeth, Freeda Owens, Maybell Parker and Katherine Douglas. Out of town guests entertained: Misses Jewell Hatfield, Suda Mae Girvin, Pauline Mount, Gracie Cross and Lola Smith.

VERNON TAKES GOOD CARE OF TOURISTS

Special to the Record News.

VERNON, Texas, July 8.—Vernon now has a good camping ground for auto tourists. It has been supplied with plenty of pure water, ovens to cook on, lights and shower baths. It is situated about one mile west of town in Fair Park. Many tourists are passing through daily and the installation of the new camp is filling a decided need.

One of the best assets for an enjoyable vacation is a carefree mind. Place your valuables in the fire and burglar-proof vaults of the City National Bank of Commerce and you will rid yourself of all worry regarding their safety while you are away. Adv.

ACTOR ADOPTED BY RED SKINS

Henry B. Walthall Is Now "Cree"

Henry B. Walthall, hero of the Vitagraph big special production "Flower of the North" which will be shown at the Gem theater Saturday, is now a full fledged Indian brave. During the filming of the production in which Mr. Walthall heads the cast with Pauline Starke, a tribe of Creek Indians joined the unit to act a big fight scene which is one of the most stirring of the picture. These Indians were loaned to Vitagraph by the United States government, and given permission to leave the reservation.

Mr. Walthall was fond of playing with the copper skinned little papooses, and made frequent visits to the Indian camp. He soon won his way to the hearts of the Indian warriors and was looked upon as a great white father by the squaws.

One evening while sitting around the campfire smoking the calomine and relating incidents of his motion picture career, the prophet approached the group from his great white tepee and the chief of the tribe arising, informed Walthall that he was about to be adopted into that particular tribe of Creek Indians. The cemenoy of adoption was one of unusual nature. Walthall was first taken to the river and washed to take as the Indians say, his white blood from him. Then fallowed the transfusion of blood which an Indian always insists upon. During this time the Indians danced a weird dance while others of the tribe played tom-toms and went through an uncanny incantation.

Gloria Swanson Says She Didn't Go to Europe to Escape Hollywood

Gloria Swanson has indignantly denied making any statements while in Europe which were in any way a reflection upon Hollywood. She had been back only a few days at her California home when some of her associates in the Paramount organization questioned her about remarks which had been attributed to her in French newspapers.

"I never gave out any sort of an interview in Paris," the Paramount star declared, "let alone one attacking Hollywood. Why, rather than detesting the place, I love it so much that I am starting to plan a new home here which I hope will go into construction within a few months. Travel has made me more firm in my regard for Hollywood as a place in which to live.

"They quote me as saying I went to Europe to 'escape' from Hollywood. I went overseas for a change, a rest and to absorb foreign atmosphere for my new picture which has many scenes laid in France. It was a vacation, not an escape.

"Some of the dearest friends I have live in Hollywood. It is the abode of serious, hard working people. I owe a great deal to my work in this city and it was a great shock to return and find that words derogatory had been placed in my month by some one I did not even see."

Much rested by her trip, Miss Swanson has begun work on a new Paramount picture entitled "The Impossible Mrs. Bellow." Her travels in France are expected to prove of value in the making of his production, a part of which is laid in the famous watering place at Deauville.

WON FIRST PRIZE IN PARADE

The above picture is the Day Nursery car which won the first prize $50 offered by the Shriners, which marked the opening of the Shrine circus the past week. The car is a seven passenger Buick and is decorated to represent a chariot, drawn by a white stork, and covered with white and amber crepe paper with the words "Day Nursery" in bronze across the back. In the car are Mesdames Benny Hyatt Donald, C. H. Featherstone, Ben G. O'Neal, Grady England and G. L. Shapard all dressed in white and wearing large picture hats of the amber crepe paper.

Truth Stranger Than Fiction

The saying that truth is stranger than fiction was given added support during the filming of the Hodkinson release, "Free Air" which comes to the Strand theater next Thursday for an engagement of three days, when old mother nature furnished a better stage setting than any stage carpenter or property man could have manufactured.

One of the scenes in the picture shows a high-powered roadster stuck in a mud hole. The continuity called for a mud hole axle deep and specified that the roadster should be sunk to the hubs. The company was out in Montana working on locations when this part of the scenario was reached, and the director was faced with the problem of meeting the specifications of the scenario.

One morning Director Griffith and the camermen started out in one of the work cars looking for a place where they could "build" a mud hole. After they had been riding about 20 minutes they came to a soft part in the road. As they progressed the roadbed became softer and a few rods further on they came upon what appeared to be a genuine mud hole.

"If that was deep enough, we could use it," said Mr. Griffith, "but I'm afraid it won't do. Guess we'll have to investigate farther along the road."

Common Sense About Eczema and Eruptions!
Here's Something About S. S. S. That You'll Be Glad to Hear.

You might just as well know it right now—the cause of skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, boils and so on, is right in the blood. There is no getting away from it. Science has proved it. We prove it. You can prove it.

When the cause of skin troubles and eruptions is in the blood, it isn't common sense to simply treat the skin. A bottle of S. S. S. will prove to you what is happening in your blood. S.S.S. is a scientific blood cleanser,—it drives out the impurities which cause eczema, tetter, rash, pimples, boils, blackheads, blotches and other skin eruptions. When these impurities are driven out, you can't stop several very nice things from happening. Your lips turn naturally rosy. Your eyes sparkle, your complexion clears, it becomes beautiful. Your face looks like that of a prosperous, ruddy, well-fed, refined gentleman, or if you are a woman, your complexion becomes the real kind that the whole world so admires. S.S.S. is also a powerful body-builder, because it builds new and more blood-cells. That's why it fills out sunken cheeks, bony necks, thin limbs, helps regain lost flesh. It costs little to have this happen to you. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical

MAJESTIC HAS COOLER HOUSE

Better Productions Will Be Shown

Beginning Monday the Majestic theater will be lifted up in a class with the very best shows in the city, the cooling system has been enlarged, and will be in working order, making this theater as cool as any theater in the city. With Mrs. Hardy at the organ to furnish the music, of course the best is assured.

The feature pictures, beginning Monday, will all be especially selected, and of the very best, all first run, besides the feature picture, short reels consisting of comedies, new reels, etc., will be shown.

The opening feature Monday will be Jane Novak in "The Belle of Alaska" a story of the Alaska gold fields, just the sort of a picture to enjoy these hot days. In fact you will keep cool without fans, in watching this picture. It's the story of a Kansas farmer who sells everything and moves to Alaska to get rich. His struggles are vividly shown in one of the most gripping und interesting stories ever shown on the screen. Supporting Miss Novak in this picture, is Noah Berry who made such a hit in "I Am the Law" at the Olympic last week.

On the same program will be shown the usual short reels consisting of screen snap shots, and a comedy entitled "Taking Things Easy."

Government Attitude Toward the Shopmen's Strike

In His Address at Marion, Ohio, July 4th, President Harding Declared—

"The foremost thought in the constitution is the right to freedom and the pursuit of happiness. Men must be free to live and achieve. Liberty is gone in America when any man is denied by anybody the right to work and live by that work. It does not matter who denies.

"A Free American has the right to labor without any other's leave.

"It would be no less an abridgement to deny men to bargain collectively. Governments cannot tolerate any class of grouped domination through force. It will be a sorry day when group domination is reflected in our laws. Government and the laws which government is charged with enforcing, must be for all the people, ever aiming at the common good"

The United States Railroad Labor Board has declared the strike of Railway Shopmen to be in effect against the authority of the United States Government, and the Labor Board accordingly adopted the following resolution, July 3rd:

"Whereas the six organizations composing the Federated Shop Crafts have notified the Railroad Labor Board that a very large majority of the employes which they represent have left the service of the carriers, and that the members of said organizations are no longer employes of the railways, under the jurisdiction of the Railroad Labor Board or subject to the application of the transportation act, and,

"Whereas, in the future submission of disputes, involving rules, wages and grievances of said classes of employes of the carriers, it will be desirable, if not a practical necessity, for the employes of each class on each carrier to form a sort of association or organization to function in the representation of said employes before the Railroad Labor Board in order that the effectiveness of the transportation act may be maintained; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, that it be communicated to the carriers and employes remaining and the new employes succeeding those who have left the service to take steps as soon as practicable to perfect on each carrier such organization as may be deemed necessary for the purpose above mentioned; and be it further

"Resolved, that, on any carrier where either of the above named organizations by reason of its membership severing their connections with the carriers, ceases to represent its class of employes procedure similar to that above suggested in the case of the shop crafts is recommended; and, be it further

"Resolved, that the employes in the service and the new ones entering the same be accorded the application and benefit of the outstanding wage and rule decisions of the Railroad Labor Board, until they are amended or modified by agreement with said employes, arrived at in conformity with the transportation act or by decision of this Board; and, be it further

"Resolved, that, if it be assumed that the employes who leave the service of the carrier because of their dissatisfaction with any decision of the Labor Board are within their right in so doing it must likewise be conceded that the men who remain in the service and those who enter it anew are within their rights in accepting such employment; that they are not strikebreakers seeking to impose the arbitrary will of an employer on employes; that they have the moral, as well as the legal right, to engage in such service of the American public to avoid interruption of indispensable railway transportation, and that they are entitled to the protection of every department and branch of the government, state and national."

President Harding has announced that the Labor Board has the full backing of the government and the full power of the government will be employed to support its policies. For these reasons, patriotic and law-abiding citizens everywhere must regard the strike as directed at the United States government and should support the declaration of Chairman Hooper of the Labor Board that

The Katy's daily earnings

Cash paid over the counter by passengers and shippers is a railroad's sole source of operating revenue. The average gross revenue per mile of the M. K. & T. Lines in 1921 was $45.70 a day. In the first five months of 1922 the average gross revenue per mile was $36.78 a day.

To serve the public satisfactorily, the M.K. & T. management must keep the cost of train service, up-keep of roadway and equipment, wages, taxes and rents within this revenue, and maintain a margin between expenses and earnings that will attract additional investment, as need develops for enlarged transportation capacity.

The M. K. & T. Lines represent a property investment, recognized by the Interstate Commerce Commission under the Transportation Act, of more than $60,000 a Mile. In the first five months of 1922, after paying expenses and taxes, the M. K. & T. Lines earned a net operating income per mile, on an investment of more than $60,000 a Mile, of $7.65 a day. Most enterprises with like investment enjoy greater income. None perform an equivalent public service with less income.

The Katy is proud of it's service to the Southwest. The compensation it enjoys will bear public comparison with that of any other business or industry.

Two New Sands Opened in Original Electra Pool Is Feature

ARCHER ALSO LOOKING UP

Wildcat Makes Nice Well At 1440

Opening up of the two new sands in the original South Electra pool, slight extensions from the Gulf's Jennings well, and interesting developments in the south and west of the South Electra field featured the week's developments at Electra.

Archer county claimed a large share of attention of oil operators, with the wildcat of Freeman and Hampton on the Ferguson, 2,000 feet from the old abandoned well of the Alberta Oil company, making a nice well in a new sand, 1440 feet.

Planet Opens Pool.

The Planet gets credit for opening up the 1500 foot sand in the original South Electra pool, of which the Planet was one of the pioneer companies. This well ws swabbing between 500 and 600 barrels, according to the reports on flush production, showing up for a remarkably nice well for the sand-deep sand.

Bridwell and Heydrick's No. 15 Waggoner, the far west well of the original pool got a sand at 1755 and drilled to 1762 the well showing up for a 200 barrel producer or possibly better.

There are two new wells in the 1900 foot sand north of the Gulf's discovery well on the Jennings, and the Black Cat well, to the west, reported as showing for a fair producer last week, is reported a 125 barrel well. The Dale and Green No. 1 Jennings, on the Beaver-Electra Refinery yard is showing up for the best producer in the pool, swabbing at the rate of 300 barrels daily when drilled in Thursday. The Gulf's No. 1 Douglas, about 2,000 feet north of the No. 1 Jennings, is about a hundred barrel well, showing up for approximately the same production as the discovery well, which is still making only slightly under 100 barrels daily.

Shamrock Gets Two.

In the south end of the main pool the Shamrock Oil company has two new wells, the No. 2 and No. 3, the first is reported a 200 barrel well, and the No. 3 which is now being tubed to pump, is estimated good for 300 barrels.

In addition to the new 1500 foot well, the Planet has another 1900 foot producer, the No. 47 Burnett, good for 300 barrels.

The Texas Company's No. 217 Burnett is the wek's best well, making 750 barrels in the 1900 foot sand.

Bridwell and Heydrick's No. 11 Waggoner is reported a 40 barrel pumper in the 1900 foot sand.

Several On Sand

There are several wells on the sand, at various depths in the main pool, as well as the extension to the west, and they are to be brought in in the next few days. Included in this number are about a half dozen wells for the Texas Company on the 1900 foot, and on some of the shallower sands.

The Nos. 1 and 2 on the John O'Neil Rio Bravo lease are drilling again, since the No. 3 the rotary test, found the 1900 foot sand, and is showing ofr nice producer, extending the deep sand a half mile west.

The No. 6 Rio Bravo of Harvey and Cullum is on the 1900 foot and The No. 1 Fee of the Rio Bravo Oil company is drilling around 1700 feet, going down to the 1900 foot sand. This latter test offsets the No. 6 of Harvey and Cullum.

The No. 7 on the Harvey and Cullum lease is drilling around 1800 feet and the No. 8 is drilling around 730 feet. The No. 11, a shallow well is drilling around 300 feet. No. 2 and No .10 are locations that will be drilled to the 1900 foot sand.

Griswold Has Two on Sand.

The Griswold Oil company has two wells on the 1900 foot sand, due for completion immediately. These are the Nos. 26 and 27. The No. 8 drilled down from the 1400 foot sand is on the 1600 foot sand, and preparing to drill in.

The Griswold's No. 1 E Waggoner offsetting the Shamrock new producing lease, on the Gibson survey, is drilling around 1,000 feet, and the No. 2 is rigging up.

Bridwell and Heydrick's No. 14 Waggoner is on the 1900 foot sand, and preparing to complete.

The Texas Company drilling summary shows the followoing activity:

No. 19 Waggoner pulling 5 3-16 inch casing; No. 220 Waggoner drilling around 1800 feet; No. 221 Waggoner, drilling around 10000 feet; No. 223 Waggoner drilling in, 1900 foot sand; No. 225 Waggoner, standardizing 1930 feet; No. 226 Waggoner, drilling around 600 feet; No. 227 Waggoner, bailing sand at 1515 feet; offsetting Harvey-Cullum 1500 foot well! No. 229 drilling around 1450 feet; No. 230 Waggoner, drilling at around 1630 feet; No. 231 Waggoner, drilling around 1900 feet; No. 232 Waggoner, cementing casing at 1800 feet; No. 233 Waggoner, drilling at around 1860 feet; No. 234 Waggoner, drilling around 1570 feet.

The No. 85 Stringer is waiting on cable tools at 1350 feet.

The Heydrick and Flowers No. 1 Waggoner, in section 28, about a mile northwest of the Grisham, McCalister and Brown well, has opened up the 1400 foot sand to the west of production, and is reported a 35 or 40 barrel pumper.

In section 29 the Sure Oil corporation is testing out the 1600 foot sand in their No. 1 Waggoner. Both of these tests promise more drilling operations for this immediate vicinity, south and west of the Rio Bravo lease, where a pool that is beginning to take on size, has been opened up recently.

Tool Company Gets Decision In Court

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 8.—Certain lubricator patents owned by the Hughes Tool company of Houston, Texas, are being infringed upon by the Reed Roller Bit company, according to a decision of the United States circuit court of appeals, which confirmed the findings of the Texas district court announced here today.

The suit, instituted by the Hughes company, in which it was charged that certain oil drilling machinery being manufactured by the Reed Roller Bit company, was an infringement upon the plaintiff's patents, was tried in the United States district court in Texas and resulted in a decree by Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson, enjoining the Reed company from further infringement.

The case was appealed to the United States circuit court of appeals, and arguments on the appeal were heard in this city last November. The decision announced today, sustaining the lower court, permanently enjoins the Reed company from including the patented lubricator device in their machines.

SMOOT NEW FINANCE HEAD

By Senator McCumber's defeat La Follette moves up and Senator Smoot succeeds to the chairmanship of the finance committee. Smoot is strong for the sales tax, although the country isn't, seeing that it helps theowners of big incomes to escape taxes and helps to put more fo the war debt on the not-rich. Mortality in senate leadership has been unusual this year. Penrose died, Kenyon resigned and New and McCumber have been defeated for renomination.

ELECTRA POOL HAS TEN SANDS WITH TWO ADDED LAST WEEK

Planet Opens Up 1,500-Foot Sand With Well Swabbing 500 Barrels; Bridwell and Heydrick Get Producer at 1,700 in Waggoner No. 15; Formation Permits Many Wells

Two new producing sands were added to the original South Electra pool this past week, a 1500 and a 1700 foot sand, both making better than ordinary wells. With these new additions, the main pool has ten distinct sands, while the number in the South Electra field, from the Wilbarger county line, to a few miles west of Iowa Park, is raised to thirteen.

The Planet Petroleum coompany has the distinction of opening up the 1500 foot sand. their well making between 500 and 600 barrels on the swab.

While not such a heavy producer, the No. 15 Waggoner of Bridwell and Heydrick, the 1700 foot discovery well, is reported better than a 200 barrel producer, and in addition gives a nice little extension westward. It is the far west well on the Bridwell and Heydrick lease.

The nearest 1500 foot production is the No. 1 Waggoner of the Cline Oil company, a mile south of the new Planet well, which is credited with being a discovery well for a new south pool, since there are dry holes between the older pool, and the new well.

The Cline well was originally intended for a 1900 foot test, but the 1500 foot sand was so promising that the drill stopped here, and the production, flush, was around 150 barrels daily.

In the scattered new operations, to the west and northwest of the older pool, the 1500 foot sand has been encountered, and has been developed on the Harvey-Cullum lease, section 31.

The first showing of the Planet well would indicate that the 1500 foot sand will rank among the heavier producing sands. Wells producing from sands from 1600 to 1900 feet will vary in producing from 50 to 1,200 barrels. There have been no 1900 foot wells completed to date with less than 150 barrels flush production. The 1600 foot sand as a rule is a heavier producer than the 1800 foot sand, but not as heavy as the 1900 foot sand.

The producing sands on the hill that constitutes the original pool now include 500, 900, 1020, 1250, 1,400, 1,500, 1,600, 1,700, 1,800 and 1,900 feet. Wells producing in these sands are found on the Gladiolus, Planet and Griswold leases, which constitute the original shallow pool, opened up four years ago, in section 5.

West of the older pool, on the Petroleum Producers and neighboring leases in the Waggoner pasture, section 33, the 400 foot sand has been developed, and further northeast, in section 31, the 700 foot sand has been opened up. These sands, with a 300 foot sand, have been producing in pools to the east of the older pool for some time.

The South Electra district, from the Wilbarger county line, where operations are now extending, to the shallow pools, east almost to Iowa Park, no whas thirteen producing sands. The new developments, like those of the earlier days, seem to be running to a series of small pools but with a good chance for the next sand, if one proves non-producing. There are several hundred acres already proven with as many as nine different sands, while other pools have several sands, though not as many have yet been opened up, as in the original south shallow pool.

The 1900 foot sand, which has been furnishing small proodcers for several years on what has now been established as the north and south lines oof the original pool, is the principal objective at present in all drilling operations, because of the really sensational producers that have been drilled, on some of the leases. However, the operators show a disposition to stop whenever the drill shows a sand that will make a 75 or 100 barrel well in a shallower sand, for it is very easy to skid the rig 50 feet and put down a deep test. The productivity of all of the sands, as a rule, is such as to justify several wells on one location, and these are frequently found.

The railroad commission rules prevent drilling closer than 300 feet from another well, in the same age depth, but within that 300 foot square as many different wells can be drilled as the pool possesses different sands. The number that can be so drilled is one of the South Electra's pool chief points of difference from the other pools of the country.

South Burkburnett is the only rival, but there the deepest developed sand at present is 1400 feet.

WELLS SHUT IN

Special to the Record News.

TAMPICO, July 8.—International Petroleum of Maine, a subsidiary of Mexican Seaboard, has closed wells Nos. 2 and 19 in the Toteco pool and pinched all others. Daily production will be reduced to 100,000 barrels, Gulf Oil will pinch wells Nos. 5 and 19, which show emulsion. Huastech Pettroleum—Mexican Petroleum—has pinched and cleared because of emulsion, wells Nos. 7 and 11. These produced 100,000 barrels July 4.

Shutting in of the wells means greatly restricting the amount allowed to flow from the wells in the hope that clean oil may be obtained.

A READY RESOLUTOR

Every community has its noted resoluter who is usually named as chairman of the committee on resolutions. In the old convention days there was one in Franklin county. At one particular convention where as usual he was named to save the country, he majestically arose and in a deep and solemn voice said: "Mr. Chairman, what kind of resolutions do you want? Do you want to point with pride or view with alarm? I have both kinds in my pocket."

SOUTHERN SUBSIDIARY GETS TEXHOMA WELL

Southern State's oil's subsidiary, Columbia petroleum, reported completion of well No. 11 on the Camp lease in the Texhoma field, it making over 100 barrels daily. Columbia is drilling a number of other wells in the same locality.

OKLAHOMA WILDCAT

Special to the Record News.

PAULS VALLEY, Okla., July 8.—Rig is being built for a new wildcat in Garvin county which will be drilled by R. M. Weaver Jr., and K. W. Reynolds, both of Wynnewood, on the White farm, southwest of southwest quarter of 24-1n-2w, seven miles east of production in the Robertson pool. Rotary tools will be used, with the contract calling for a total depth of 2,500 feet if necessary.

M'GEE WELL TO BE SHOT

Operators Favor Gas Sand At 2,600

PANHANDLE, Texas, July 8.—McGee well being drilled by Holmes, McElroy and McGee in the southern part of Hutchinson county has been shut down at 3170 feet for ten days awaiting a decision from the owners as to the advisability of shooting the 60 feet of lime at 2825 feet or continuing from the present depth. Six inch casing was carried to a short distance below the oil bearing lime and the 250 feet of open hole is caving badly as all other wells at a similar depth in this field.

The McGee well is being drilled on a solid block of 1100 acres and will be shot at the 2825 foot level, late this week; the pipe being pulled at this time. A lime around 2600 feet is producing ten million feet of gas daily in this well.

Two wells are being drilled in Gray county, Silk Bullington and Clark spudded in their number one Medley on section 43, block B-2 on June 29 and drilling is progressing satisfactorily. This test is 35 miles southeast of the producing wells in Carson and Hutchinson counties and eight miles northwest of the Harvey well at Alanreed, Texas.

The Harvey well is shut down at around 2400 feet. Little information can be secured from the operators of this well and it is thought that the present delay in development is due to the title not being clear to interested parties, on a portion of the acreage surrounding the well.

Aside from the interest created this week by the shooting of McGee well in Hutchinson county, three other wells in this county are attracting attention. Cooble-Heywood, Coble No. 1 in the northeast part is drilling in very encourgaing formation near 3700 feet after shutting off gas, oil and salt water with six inch casing at 3080.

Gulf No. 1 Dial is drilling into oil lime after removing perforated joint of six inch from the bottom of casing. This joint was used in making a test of the well, the experiment proved to be unsuccessful, due to the perforations filling rapidly with sand. After a few feet further drilling, a further pump test will be made of the well. The estimation of the present production of the well is 300 barrels of 38.8 grafite crude with a gasoline content of 34 per cent.

Whittington No. 1 Stanford has resumed drilling at 300 feet on section 82, block 46 in Hutchinson.

The Silk well is one mile nearer Panhandle than the Gulf No. 8 Burnett credited with a production of fife hundred barrels per day. This well is encountering the same formation found in Gulf well with the exception of an additional lime showing oil. Silk is now in the sand from which the Gulf well is producing and will be completed before the end of the present week. Completion is delayed due to the necessity of fitting a liner to prevent caving; this is being done at present.

Work is being pushed on four Carson county wells, Tipton, McConnel No. 1 on the west side of Carson county is underreaming from 1000 to 1800 feet to case off caving with ten inch pipe.

Gulf Production company Noo. 1 Wynn, six miles east of Panhandle is drilling at 1250 feet after shutting off much water and quick sand with fifteen inch at 1200 feet.

Texas Company No. 1 Burnett is attempting to run their second string of ten inch casing to 2650 feet. A fire consuming the derrick and all tools delayed this test for several weeks; and fishing for ten inch collapsed casing consume much time which has greatly delayed completion of this weel.

Humble Company No. 2 Burnett is making an effort to recover 1500 feet of ten inch casing from a 2975 foot hole. Many million feet of gas has been killed in this test with 1100 feet of water. Indications for oil in this test which is 12 miles north of Panhandle, very promising, though, it is thought that the completion of the well is extremely doubtful, due to the condition of the pipe.

Activity is renewed in Potter county though littl acreage is changing hands. Greater Amarillo Oil company is drilling around 2500 feet after passing through oil showing. Amarillo Oil company number 3, Bivins, drilling at 800 feet on section 13, block M-20. The same company is rigging up their Masterson No. 3 at 2200 feet to drill deeper on section 102 block O-18. This well has been shot in as a gasser for more than a year. It is thought that many of the gaint gassers in Potter county will be deepened since oil has been found beneath the gas in Carson and Hutchinson counties.

SEYMOUR PLANS NEW BUILDING

$200,000 In Bonds May Be Voted

Special to the Record News.

SEYMOUR, July 8.—Seymour expects to vote around $200,000 in bonds in the next two months. An election has been called for August 8 to vote $40,000 in bonds for a city hall and auditorium; $5,000 for water improvement.

Subscriptions are now being taken for a $30,000 to $35,000 Masonic temple, with prospects good of success.

A petition is also being circulated for a Baylor county memorial hospital to cost with equipment $100,000. An election to vote these bonds will probably be held in the latter part of August or early part of September.

ABILENE WELL FLOWS

ABILENE, July 8.—The Anderson Oil well, seven miles southeast of Abilene on the Protosi road, broke loose Wednesday afternoon and gushed oil half way up the derrick and all over the surrounding ground.

R. C. Lewis and W. W. Middleton who recently took the well over with a contract for cleaning it out, have built a 50-foot derrick and had been at work cleaning the well when it commenced to flow. Workmen were fishing for a plug which had been driven into the hole and lodged at a depth of 45 feet. They had succeeded in breaking off a piece of the pdug when the gas and oil became too much for them.

CHILDRESS GETS WATER SYSTEM

City Lets Contract For Plant

Special to the Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, July 8.—The city council has let the contract for the filtration plant in connection with the new waterworks system being installed here. The contract price was $30,000. The plant will have a daily capacity of a million gallons which may be supplemented easily and economically by additional units. It is said that the monthly payroll in connection with the building of the new lake will be $25,000 and the dam will be completed about December 25. Hundreds of laborers and artisans are being given steady employment.

STRIKERS HELP BROTHER IN NEED.

Special to the Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, July 8.—Striking shopmen on the Denver railroad when informed of the serious illness of Claude Tucker, a farmer on the J. L. Holden farm, went out en masse to the place and after a day's labor weeded the 60 acres farm. Automobiles for the party were furnished by local citizens, ice was given by the local plant, and cigars provided by a local confectioner.

CHILDRESS, Texas, July 8.—Laborers are being assembled here for the purpose of relaying steel on the third and fourth divisions out of Childress. It was announced today. Heavier rails will supersede the present. The work will mean a large outlay of funds. When completed the Denver will have one of the best railroads in the southwest.

MERCHANTS FAIL TO FEEL STRIKE.

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, July 8.—No decrease in volume of business for merchants is reported due to the strike of over 400 shopmen in the local Denver shops. The shopmen are very orderly and have ordered their body to remain off the railroad right of way pending settlement of the strike.

STRUGGLING ARTIST WINS BIG PRIZE

Alfred Floegel, artist, was just like the painters in the story books. He was struggling, all of them do, with talent unappreciated, and his income weaker than a signal from Mars. Story book landlords are cruel, hard-hearted creatures, and Floegel's was all of that. In fact, not realizing that he harbored hidden genius beneath his roof, he was on the point of moving Floegel's belinging into the street. Floegel pleaded for time, just a few days until success crowned his latest effort. But the landlord was adamant. The eviction was about to start. Flogel's artistic temperament was shocked, but it mattered not to the landlord. Then came the climax. A letter came. It bore Italian postmarks. The usual story book ending—Floegel had won the famous Prix de Rome. He was a genius. The prize meant a three-year course in the Academy of Rome. Fine, for Floegel, but how about the rent. The prize also carried with it an annual income of $1,000. Now landlord and artist are satisfied.

FARM LOAN IS FIGHT STARTS

Chamber Takes It To Washington

Special to the Record News

STAMFORD, Texas, July 8.—National farm loan associations of West Texas counties which recently refused to pass resolution No. 282 of the national farm loan board, and which as a result have been denied, it is alleged, certain privileges that might have been granted if they had so adopted it, will have their cases carried higher up by the Washington office of the West Texas chamber of commerce, it was announced here today by the general offices of the organization.

The resolution voted down inhibits the payment of more than $650 annually to the secretary-treasurer of a national farm loan association. Since the associations are community units and their directors are responsible for such loans as are made, it is declared that they have a right to pay a competent salary to such an officer. It is further pointed out that unless such a secretary-treasurer is paid more than $650 per annum he can not give his time and attention to the ramified duties of such a responsible post.

The resolution, it is said, was promulgated by Mr. Lever, who until recently was a member of the farm loan bank. He has since vacated this post and been succeeded by Governor Cooper. Lever's ruling on compensation was so inflexible that many of the associations declared it was impossible for the beneficiaries of the system to derive any benefits. Since Cooper has taken up the work, the association feels that with pressure brought to bear upon him by influential organizations, senators and congressmen, he will order that the resolution be stricken out and each association permitted to govern its own affairs insofar as they do not conflict with the rules and regulations ofo the farm loan board and federal land banks.

The dollars you receive today buy more than those you handled a few months ago and their worth, judged by their buying power, is steadily increasing. When you save with the City National Bank of Commerce you profit by the growing value of your money as well as by the 4 per cent interest which it earns.—Adv.

Greenwich Village Tells the World How to Dress

Artists and Craftsmen (Mostly Craftswomen) Hold Their First Annual Show in a Campaign to Divert a Hitherto Unenlightened Public to the Batik, Tied-and-Dyed and Painted-Leg Schools of Costume Design.

Zentil, of the Owl Studio, Uses an Eyebrow Pencil to Applique Optical Designs on Bare Expanses of Tarzanne's Knees — When Tarzanne Walks the Eyes "Wink!"

GREENWICH VILLAGE, long celebrated as the sanctuary of free speech and free spirits, has now yielded the very latest designs in women's dress. Under the patronage of Kate Seabrook, the Village designers, weavers and modistes recently lifted the bushel measure from their shining light and put the world wise to the real thing in wearing apparel.

Mrs. Seabrook is the owner and operator of a coffee house in Waverley Place, New York. Not everybody knows where it is, for no sign is out and no effort to bring in a general patronage has ever been made. On this account the coffee house has more the atmosphere of a club than an inn. It is principally a place where the bobbed-haired intelligentsia of Washington Square may invite their souls, roast chestnuts and debate the difference between mutation and evolution.

Not long ago the girls in the Village decided they were tired of being sartorially misrepresented to the Philistine world. It was the impression north of Fourteenth street and out in the wilds of Iowa and the steppes of Georgia, that a Greenwich Village lassie was all dressed up for anything from a Grande Bal to a shower bath when she was wearing a pair of horn-rimmed spectacles, a calico smock and a set of sandals.

So the dressmakers decided they would put on a show. And it was only natural that "156" should be the theatre of their sartorial parade. Plans were laid. Tony Sarg, of marionette fame, and Ethel Plummer drew posters. Achmed Abdullah, novelist and playwright, volunteered as stage director, and Sybilla Lamont supervised the details. Mrs. Antonio de Sanchez served cigarettes. Professional models displayed gowns and materials.

Mrs. Seabrook presided in a blue-green and silver dress and long jade earrings. The show ran for three nights. The coffee house was crowded. The cognoscenti of Sheridan Square were jostled a bit by slicked-up Philistines from uptown and out-of-town, but on the whole it was a great party from first to last.

Each model did a slow patrol up and down the length of the room while the spectators lounged at their ease on all sides, drank coffee and smoked. Sometimes beautiful batiked silks were draped carelessy over the sylphs and when the patrol pirouetted the silks floated aft. At such times the male spectators forgot to lounge at ease. Then at intervals the parade halted, and Bobby Edwards twanged a ukulele to the words of "The Sultan's Wives Have Got the Hives" and "Down in Greenwich Village Where the Old Maids Go for Thrillage," or Aleta Crump did chansons, chocolate choruses, and chastouschki (Russian folk songs).

The gowns, wraps and lingerie managed to be startling and practical at the same time. There were various kinds of tea-gowns—some severely simple in color; others veritable bursting bombs of batiks. Silken house dresses, virginal white at the tops, gradually shaded off into soul-searing purples, scarlets and methylene blues. And there were evening gowns like the aurora borealis.

Generally speaking—though generalities are dangerous when you are talking about the Village—the styles in frocks ran to modest shortness of skirt, long and voluminous sleeves and simple lines. Dresses for the most part were in one-piece and negligees were slashed to the hip.

Afternoon gowns were made largely on long lines and were interesting as to their sleeves of batik. Several colorful hand-woven fabrics were shown in straight-line sports dresses and capes, often worn with gay homespun scarfs and hats.

Perhaps the most fetching of these was a cherry-colored, fringed apron of homespun worn over an accordeon pleated slip in the same shade.

Several effective pajama suits were shown, one a simple model elaborately batiked, another showing long harem pantalettes of red satin under a black satin smock.

A white Spanish lace shawl was effectively draped on one model to exhibit its possibilities as an evening gown. An unusually colorful Paisley with a rich edge of self-fringe was worn shawl-fashion as an evening wrap. Under-garment novelties included black velvet-trimmed gingham step-ins and a cherry-colored georgette chemise.

Style exhibits were not confined to clothes. There was a girl named Tarzanne, of the Greenwich Village Follies, who showed the ladies what they might do when it was necessary for their knees to be bare. Tarzanne was wearing a bathing suit cut low above the waist and high below.

In fairness, it should be stated that her legs, as such, needed no adornment. But for the benefit of those not so well satisfied with unrelieved nature, she exhibited on her legs a black line drawing. When her knees were pressed together the audience saw the portrait of a man. His right eye was mounted directly on top of her right patella and by manipulating her knee muscles in a way that wasn't explained she would wickedly wink this right eye.

Anna Mae Cliff of Mme. Frances's, Hildred of Lucille's, and Alden Gay of Tappe's showed how effectively the Village clothes should be worn just as they are used to showing Mrs. Fifth Avenue how she might look if Mrs. Fifth Avenue looked like Anna Mae Cliff et al. The exhibitors included a number of such typically Village institutions as Ann's Shop, Billie's Personality Shoppe, Kraftwoven, Reiss Studios, The Treasure Box and The Village Weavers. The show will be a semi-annual affair, for the Village thinks it has a mission in the world.

Vest and Step-in of Tangerine Voile Bound in Black, by Billie; and Batiked Tea-Gown Shading from Palest Apricot to Deep Red-Orange, Realized in Fokina Satin by Hugo and Irene Robus. Pose After Poster by Ethel Plummer.

Tarzanne in a Masquerade Dress Made Entirely of Paper by Pearce. A Grease-Paint Design Twined Where the Paper Didn't.

An Artist's Smock, Perfectly Plain Castor Color Except for Wool Embroidery.

Studio Costume of French Blue, Gray and Deep Orchid Dyed in Geometrical Designs. Batik by Robus, Cartoon by Tarzanne.

Kate Seabrook, a Character Sketch by Ethel Plummer.

Around the Clock in Apparel Made and Designed in the Village—May Rowland Retires in Batik Pajamas; Maxine Sawyer in a Morning or Garden Dress of Plain and Plaid Ratine; She Later Goes to Lunch in a Linen Costume Decorated in Near East Peasant Embroidery; Hildred in a Simple Black Afternoon Frock with Sleeves Batiked in Light Colors; Alden Gay in a Batiked Evening Gown of Graceful Line Done in Quiet Tones, Gray, Green, Black and White.

TRIALS OF MARRIAGE WRECK HIS ROMANCE

TRENTON, N. J., July 8.—Jack Norworth, stage comedian, is booked to put on an act here shortly—but it won't be in a theater.

Mary Johnson will play opposite Norworth in the new skit which probably will be called "The Trials and Tribs of Matrimony."

The audience will consist of one judge and—perhaps—twelve good men and true.

For Mary Johnson, or Mrs. John G. Knauff, better known as Mrs. Jack Norworth No. 3, has filed suit for divorce from the comedian who was christened with the unromantic name of John G. Knauff.

This is the third time Norworth has been haled into court to play the defendant role in a divorce action.

The first time was in 1908 when Louise Dresser decided that as a husband he made a fine comedian. The judge agreed with her.

In 1913 Nora Bayes decided that comedians didn't make ideal lifemates, so she too was granted a divorce.

Mrs. Norworth No. 3 now claims that he deserted her and her two children, Edward Fields, eight, and John Robert, eleven.

OLDEST LIVING EX-SENATOR

On the eve of celebrating his one hundredth birthday anniversary, ex-Senator Cornelius Cole, the oldest living United States senator, recently visited Washington. It was his first visit to the capital in 30 years. He chatted for some time with Samuel Shortridge, the present senator from Cole's home state of California. Cole was in the senate during the Lincoln administration and sat in the stand with Lincoln when the latter made his memorable Gettysburg address.

ARMY AVIATORS DIE IN FLAMES

Two army fliers defied death for charity in the presence of 3,000 persons at Louisville, Ky., at a benefit air circus. Their plane fell after rising but 200 feet, caught fire and cremated them. The men were Lieut. Robert E. O'Haney, 26, commanding officer of the seventh photographic section, air service, Camp Henry Knox, and Sergt. Arthur Opperman, oldest air photographer in point of service. The cause of the plane's fall is unknown.

DIFFICULT TO TELL APART

Mr. and Mrs. John Barrymore as they were about to sail for Europe.

The Barrymores, John the actor and his wife the writer, looked almost as much alike as two peas in a pod when they boarded the S. S. Mauretania for a two months' tour of Europe. Barrymore has been appearing lately on the screen. His wife is well known under her pen name, "Michael Strange."

Gid-Ap Napoleon

Georges Carpentier out for his daily lesson.

"MATTY" HEAVES ANOTHER

After recovering from tuberculosis contracted in France, Christy Mathewson, idol of American fandom, recently pitched the first ball in a game at his home near Saranac Lake. It was a two year fight for the greatest hurler ever in the game, but he won in health, just as on the diamond, through clean, conscientious effort.

Romance Broken

Mrs. Angelo Scarpa Foster

Mrs. Angelo Scarpa Foster, wife of the adopted son of Mrs. Nona McAdoo Foster, sister of the former secretary of the United States treasury, is suing her husband's foster mother for $50,000 for alienation of her husband's affections. She says she got a license on a dare from her husband and later was cautioned not to disclose the wedding.

PERSHING IN NATTY CIVVIES

Gen. John J. Pershing and his sister, Miss Mary Pershing, at Atlantic City.

Gen. John J. Pershing is a soldier even without the uniform and trappings of his high rank and he attracts attention under any circumstances by his soldierly bearing. He recently spent a short vacation at Atlantic City with his sister, where he monopolized the attention of every one from beach flappers to the stately matrons as he promenaded on the boardwalk.

D. A. R. TO PURCHASE HOME

The Daughters of the American Revolution have just announced their purpose to raise a fund of $30,000 for the purchase of "Kenmore," at Fredericksburg, Va., the former home of Col. Fielding Lewis and his wife, Betty Washington, George Washington's sister. Aside from the historic associations connected with this old colonial mansion which Washington visited frequently and where he was entertained for long periods at a time, the fact that many of the artistic frescoes were designed by young George Washington adds interest. At that time the ornamenting of ceilings and mantels was all handwork and Washington sent two Hessian prisoners, artisans, captured at the battle of Trenton, to carry out his designs.

CHAIN BANDITS TRAIN WINDS UP IN PEN

A career which bid fair to outshine those of the villains of the dime thrillers was cut short, according to authorities, when a sheriff's posse wounded and captured Fred Brown, alleged Omaha "chain bandit" after a chase across two states. Brown is alleged to have captured two Omaha women and held them prisoners. In his flight he is alleged to have stolen several autos, committed murder and captured a deputy sheriff and town marshal.

VESSEL TOWS DISABLED 2,000 MILES

American S. S. Ala., towing the ass sted Eastern Dawn in North Atlantic, photographed from passing ship.

The towing feat of Capt. H. H. Boye and the crew of the American S. S. Ala., is the talk of shipping circles. Finding the S. S. Eastern Star disabled, 700 miles off the Irish coast, Boye towed the ship for 12 days and delivered it safely in Baltimore harbor. It was a 2,000 mile tow. During the trip the ships were buffeted by storms repeatedly, but the line held and port was reached at last. The crew of the Ala., are hoping for a salvage reward.

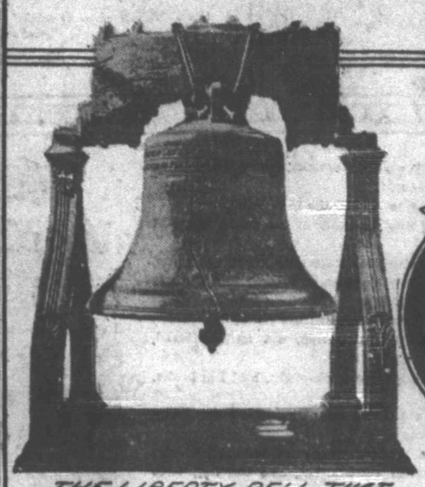

Mistakes About the Day We Celebrate

SIGNING THE DECLARATION

DRAFTING THE DECLARATION—FRANKLIN, JEFFERSON, HANCOCK AND JOHN ADAMS

THE LIBERTY BELL THAT RANG FOR INDEPENDENCE

INDEPENDENCE HALL, PHILADELPHIA

THOMAS JEFFERSON, AUTHOR OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Many Accepted Ideas in Regard to the Declaration of Independence Have No Basis in Fact—Truth As Opposed to Fiction in the Story of American Liberty.

By RENE BACHE

IT is remarkable how things get mixed. The Declaration of Independence is by no means ancient history, and yet many alleged facts in regard to it, which are not facts at all, are generally accepted and even endorsed by school books.

For instance, there is the notion that the Declaration was signed on the fourth of July, 1776. It wasn't at all. The signing did not take place until August 2. Even then all the members of the Congress did not sign it. Five signed it at later dates, and seven never signed it at all.

It was not by the Declaration that the American colonies cast themselves loose from the sovereignty of England; they did that by the Resolution of Independence, which was passed by the Congress on the second day of July—two days before the Declaration was adopted.

There was no "tumult in the quaint old Quaker town" on the Fourth of July. The meetings of Congress were held behind closed doors, and it was not until four days later that the Declaration was read in the yard of the State House (now Independence Hall) to an assembled multitude of patriotic citizens.

That was really the first celebration of the Declaration. Cannon were fired, drums were beaten, and the Liberty bell was rung in joyous peals for two hours. It was then in fact that the bell was cracked—not on July 4, as so often alleged. As for the grey-haired bell-ringer, sitting with one hand ready on the clapper until he heard a young voice cry, "Ring, grandpa, ring, oh, ring for liberty!" he seems to be a myth.

Story Of The Bell

The bell, by the way, of bronze, was originally cast in England, and was landed at a wharf in Philadelphia in 1752. On the voyage it suffered an accident, and was so damaged that after its arrival it had to be recast. Then it was that it received the inscription, "Proclaim Liberty Throughout the Land to All the Inhabitants Thereof"—a bidding most strangely prophetic!

When, in 1777, capture of the city by the British was imminent, the bell was taken down from its belfry and sunk in the Delaware River. After the war it was brought back to Independence Hall, where, as everybody knows, it is now preserved as a precious relic.

When, on the second day of July, the Resolution of Independence was passed, one member from Delaware and two from Pennsylvania voted against it. One of the thirteen colonies, New York, refrained from voting, its delegation having been instructed to oppose the movement for separation from Great Britain. A week later, however, the provincial council of New York, having received the news, changed its mind and directed its representative members to acquiesce.

Every effort was made to keep the proceedings of the Congress secret during this period when vital decisions were in process of incubation. Nevertheless, everything of importance that was done became known immediately to the British, and it was manifest that there was a traitorous "leak" somewhere. Evidence pointed to a member named Zubly, from Georgia, who escaped arrest only by taking flight and seeking sanctuary on board of a British sloop of war.

It should be realized that up to that time there had been no general agreement of views in regard to American policy in the quarrel with England. The colonies, while making vigorous war, had not thrown off allegiance to the British crown. Again and again they suspended hostilities long enough to protest that they were not rebels but "petitioners in arms." It was an anomalous situation.

The Resolution Of Independence

When the Congress came together in the spring of 1776, sentiment in that body was divided. On one side was a strong body of conservative men who dreaded a formal separation from the mother country; on the other was a "radical" group who were eager to bring about a final breach.

This was the status of affairs when, on June 7, Richard Henry Lee, spokesman for the Virginia delegation, arose and said that he had been ordered by a unanimous vote of the council of Virginia to present the following resolution: "That these united colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all connection between them is totally dissolved."

The resolution was seconded by John Adams. It was opposed by a number of men of unquestioned loyalty, including John Jay, Robert R. Livingston, and James Duane. Six of the thirteen colonies—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, and South Carolina—disapproved it. Thus one sees how very far from united was public opinion on the subject even a few days before the fateful decision was reached.

After three days of debate, during which it became apparent that the conservatives were in a minority, the latter obtained a postponement of the final vote until July 1. In the meantime a committee of five (which included Franklin and Adams) was appointed to prepare a Declaration suitable to lay before the world, stating the grievances which drove the colonies to assert their independence. The job of writing the document was assigned by the committee to a member from Virginia, Thomas Jefferson, who had made a considerable reputation as an expert in political literary composition.

Writing The Declaration

Jefferson was boarding at that time in the house of a Mr. Grats, on the corner of Market and Seventh streets, in Philadelphia, where he occupied a small parlor and bed room on the second floor. It was there that he wrote the historic paper, which, in the original draft, underwent some alterations as a result of consultation with Franklin and Adams. This draft, showing corrections and interlineations, is still preserved in the national archives. Jefferson wrote out a fair copy, which was laid before the Congress June 28.

That legislative body took it up and debated it clause by clause, tearing it to pieces rather mercilessly. It struck out a paragraph charging the King with "inciting treasonable insurrections among our fellow-citizens" by promises to bestow upon them such rebel property as might be confiscated. It eliminated some biting remarks about the "tyranny" of the King. It deleted a paragraph which accused the monarch of backing the slave trade and refusing to allow the Americans to suppress it.

Naturally enough, Jefferson's pride of authorship was hurt by the ruthless treatment accorded to his work. He is said to have "writhed in his chair" while the debate went on. But he took no part in it, saying not a word.

How The Signing Was Done

The fact of formal separation from the mother country was accomplished by the passage of Mr. Lee's resolution, July 2. On the evening of that day John Adams wrote to his wife: "The 2nd of July will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America. I believe it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival."

Two days later, on the fourth of July, Congress adopted the amended copy of Jefferson's draft. On the evening of that day the Secretary of Congress handed a copy of it to a printer, who set it up to be printed as a "broadside"—i. e., on one side of a large sheet. In this shape, bearing only the signature of the President of the Congress, John Hancock, it was sent out all over the country, being distributed as widely as possible. It was read from all pulpits, and wherever people could be gathered together, and everywhere awakened the wildest enthusiasm.

On July 6 it was printed in the Pennsylvania Packet. As already stated, it was publicly read on July 8 in the State House yard, where a great throng was assembled. In the meantime messengers were passing between Philadelphia and White Plains (N. Y.), and the colony of New York gave its indorsement to the Resolution of Independence in time for its delegation to make the vote unanimous July 9.

On the nineteenth day of July Congress ordered the Declaration to be "fairly engrossed on parchment," and that "the same when engrossed, be signed by every member of Congress." The document thus prepared was laid before Congress August 2. It was laid on a table in Independence Hall, and John Hancock, in appending the first signature, in great letters with a big flourish, said, "There! John Bull can read my name without spectacles!"

Pushed By Public Opinion

It had not been thought desirable to have the Declaration signed at an earlier date, because of the importance of obtaining its unanimous approval. By a little waiting and manoeuvering this might be accomplished. An overwhelming popular sentiment had pushed Congress to the point of breaking away from England, and it was now so strong that individual members of a still-disapproving minority could hardly resist it.

Nevertheless (as said above) seven never did sign—though history does not tell why. Richard Henry Lee, Oliver Wolcott, and Elbridge Gerry were not present on August 2, and their signatures were not appended until the following month. Thornton signed in November, and Colonel McKean not until 1781.

The original Declaration, bearing the autographs of the signers, was kept for some years in the office of the Secretary of the Congress. In 1789 it was handed over to the Bureau of Foreign Affairs (now the Department of State), which retained possession of the precious document until a short time ago, when it was placed in the Library of Congress.

AMONG THE MOVIE STARS

ANITA STEWART AND HER HUSBAND, RUDOLPH CAMERON IN "ROSE O' THE SEA"

SHIRLEY MASON

BETTY COMPSON AND MACEY HARLAM IN "ALWAYS THE WOMAN"

NATACHA RAMBOVA (WINIFRED HUDNUT) AND MME. NAZIMOVA PLANNING SCENES

HERBERT RAWLINSON (CENTER), VIRGINIA VALLI AND BERT ROACH IN "THE BLACK BAG"

ELINOR FIELD IN "THE JUNGLE GODDESS"

EDDIE POLO IN "CAP'N KIDD"

Shirley Mason—"Rose O' the Sea"—"The Black Bag"—"The Jungle Goddess"—"Always the Woman"—A Screen Romance—"Cap'n Kidd".

SHIRLEY MASON says she hasn't much of a biography; one couldn't possibly have when one wasn't alive until 1902. Shirley was born in Brooklyn. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Flugarth, and a sister of Viola Dana and Edna Flugarth, also screen favorites.

Shirley's talent was apparent in her early childhood—for she began her stage career at the age of three. When she was thirteen years old she started in pictures and at fifteen adopted the name Shirley Mason.

Her latest plays are "Little Miss Smiles," "Ragged Heiress," "Very Truly Yours," "Lights of the Desert."

"Rose O' The Sea"

"Rose O' the Sea" presents Anita Stewart in the role of a girl who slips away from the little New England fishing village in which she was raised to enjoy the life and sights of New York. Rose soon finds that earning one's own living in the metropolis is just one continuous struggle. She is fortunate in securing a nice position, but to a young girl bubbling with the joy of existence, work represents only the drab side of life.

Then romance arrives and melodrama, comedy, pathos and near-tragedy all take part in the development of the plot prior to the final happy fade-out.

Rudolph Cameron, the star's husband plays opposite her.

"The Black Bag"

Willy Kirkwood goes to New York for a vacation. He meets Dorothy Calender and is interested at once. A necklace is stolen from Dorothy and after a series of exciting adventures Billy recovers them.

In the meantime, however, Dorothy suspects Billy of taking the jewels and when he appears he is arrested and taken to the Calender home, where after various complications the mystery is solved to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Herbert Rawlinson is the star. Virginia Valli plays opposite.

"The Jungle Goddess"

Elinor Field plays the title role of "The Jungle Goddess," and her utter fearlessness and willingness to take desperate chances with the wild beasts has won for her the admiration of even the most hardened animal trainers at the famous Selig Zoo, where the serial was made. Her adventures carry her across Africa to India, thence to China and back to Africa. In her role as a jungle girl she was forced to act bare-armed and limbed. Her body is a mass of bruises as a result of her strenuous work.

"Always The Woman"

For a brief time at the beginning of the photoplay Miss Betty Compson appears as Neco-Tokris, a queen of ancient Egypt, but soon thereafter she is seen as a slangy American vaudeville performer on board a ship bound for Egypt.

She is recognized by Mahmud, an Egyptian mystic, as a reincarnation of the Queen Neco-Tokris. Others in her entourage soon emerge as the reincarnation of other personages involved in an ancient love tragedy and the story begins to re-enact itself in modern times and terms, but is deflected into a happy ending by the atonement of the reincarnated priest whose jealousy in ancient times caused him to bertay his Queen.

A Screen Romance

When Mme. Nazimova appeared in "Camille," she had for leading man, Rodolph Valentino, who played Armand to the Russian star's "Lady of the Camellias," and for art-designer, she had Natacha Rambova, but she had no idea that she was to be, unwittingly, the sponsor of an off-screen romance.

Valentino often came to the Nazimova home to talk over their screen work and here he frequently met Natacha Rambova (Winifred Hudnut). Their friendship ripened into love and they were recently married.

"Cap'n Kidd"

The story of "Cap'n Kidd" centers around a hunt for buried treasure—replete with romance and adventure, its local stretching from England, to the Mediterranean Sea, the New England Coast, the Islands of the Pacific.

Eddie Polo, known as The Screen's Hercules, is the hero of this serial. He has been a gymnast, horseman, swimmer—in fact he has done everything in the way of athletic and unusually daring stunts; even to the extent of wild animal training. Kathleen Myers is the heroine.

FROM THE CAPITAL

By Herbert Corey

OF course, one needs a key to thoroughly enjoy the senate's more or less daily performance. One must be en rapport, as we learned to say while saving civilization. One must preserve a perfect open mindedness. If what is going on upon the floor is funny one should not be afraid to laugh. The senate is not necessarily solemn. There are moments when the senate is as unsolemn a body as there is.

One thinks of Newberry in this connection. The gentleman from Michigan, one suspects, has the same chance in this assembly of hardboiled—not to say heavy-handed, toilers—that a cat would have in a bench show. Mr.—that is, Senator—Newberry is an elegant and cultured gentleman and he has moldly money put away in trunks. But what he needs is a hide like an armadillo. He is too easily disconcerted. There is too much static in his ether.

Behold Mr. Newberry. One likes his looks at sight. In the press gallery the ribald profess to discover a resemblance between Mr. Newberry and one of the more popular works of art. At least, it used to be popular. In these latter days one sees it less often. When Mr. Newberry steps upon the floor some scoffer in the gallery is almost certain to say:

"Newberry. That's all."

And the other scoffers grin. But it isn't right. It is wrong. He really doesn't look that way. Or at least he doesn't look that way very much, unless you have an imagination. Which is veering from the thread of this story. Mr. Newberry—"that's all"—eases himself gingerly into his seat. He casts a hasty glance about. He sees that no stools or anything have been maliciously set in the aisle. Then he listens. One seems to discover a strained, almost a rapt attention in Mr. Newberry. He seems to be adventuring under the barbed wire into a peculiarly unpleasant No Man's Land. His ears do not precisely prick forward, nor do they tremble in search of the vagrom breezes of oratory. But there is beyond question a certain waitfulness in his ears. It is as though he heard the picks of the counter miners:

"This corruption"—says some senator.

Mr. Newberry has heard enough. It may be that the corruption only has to do with the gasoline horror. It may be the speaker has reference to the soviet inquity. It may be anything. But Mr. Newberry quietly rises and slips for the smoking room. There are senators—fiends in human form—who put this kindly gentleman to this trouble two or three times a day. It is cruel. It is indefensible. It brings the tears of sorrow to the eye of sympathy. It makes the blood of the kindly looker-on boil. It practically makes the blood boil, anyhow.

That is why one should approach an afternoon in the senate in a sort of a barn-door open-mindedness. One should be ready to laugh, of course, but when one sees a kindly gentleman—especially a kindly gentleman who is surrounded by an aura of glorious reminiscence—subjected to needless pain, one should deprecate and mourn.

Also persons who laugh in the senate galleries are poked out by unkindly sergeants-at-arms.

BIGGER COTTON ACREAGE

ACCORDING to the government reports cotton acreage is 10 per cent more than it was in 1921 or an increase of 3,174,000 acres. Last year the American production was 7,953,641 bales. According to the government report as to the condition of the crop June 25th, heavy rains in Texas and Louisiana and Arkansas aggrevated the boll weevil menace. On that date the crop was 71.2. A condition of 73 to 74 per cent had been expected by the trade with an indicated total production of 11,065,000 bales. A year ago the boll weevil played havoc with the cotton crop in Texas and other states. In certain sections of Texas the drouth played havoc.

There is no drouth to speak of in west Texas this year and the boll weevil has established his frontier line in the county of Montague. He may be moving westward but it is impossible to convince the farmers of the panhandle and the plains country or the farmers in the Wichita or upper Brazos valleys that the weevil will be able to invade that country in coming years. There are crop sharps who say that the weevil is a native of Egypt, that he made his way from there to Mexico.

Then he crossed the Rio Grande into Texas and since his coming he has cost the American cotton grower more than a billion dollars. A Texas legislature was in session when the news come that dozen counties in the Lower Rio Grande valley had been captured by the invader. Those who knew his history and his ravages advised the lawmakers to make a suitable appropriation in order that a campaign of extermination should be inaugurated without delay. Their appeal fell upon deaf ears. Lawmakers ridiculed the proposition, ignored the suggestion and characterized the agricultural scientists who knew what was coming as bugologists who were light in the head or as alarmists who wished to use the money of the people for experimental purposes. All the predictions of the bugoglists came true. This happened many years ago. Boll weevils and pink boll worms became costly pests and the producers suffered losses beyond the billion dollar mark.

That the cause of labor has the right to organize and when organized the right to deal collectively with the employer there can be no question—Governor Neff.

Results must be had. Our farm products must not rot in the field and our fat beef cattle must have an open drive to the markets of the world.—Governor Neff.

Stories that the former kaiser is plotting a come-back would sound more convincing if he didn't need the advertising to sell his book.

THE PROSPECTOR

By ROBERT W. SERVICE

(From "Ballads of a Cheechalo" Copyright by Barse & Hopkins. Published by special arrangement with the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

ILLUSTRATED BY HUBERT MATHIEU

I STROLLED up old Bonanza, where I staked in ninety-eight,
A-purpose to revisit the old claim.
I kept thinking mighty sadly of the funny ways of Fate,
And the lads who once were with me in the game.
Poor boys, they're down-and-outers, and there's scarcely one today
Can show a dozen colors in his poke;
And me, I'm still prospecting, old and battered, gaunt and gray,
And I'm looking for a grub-stake, and I'm broke.

I strolled up old Bonanza. The same old moon looked down;
The same old landmarks seemed to yearn to me;
But the cabins all were silent, and the flat, once like a town,
Was mighty still and lonesome-like to see.
There were piles and piles of tailings where we toiled with pick and pan,
And turning round a bend I heard a roar,
And there a giant gold-ship of the very newest plan
Was tearing chunks of pay-dirt from the shore.

It wallowed in its water-bed; it burrowed, heaved and swung;
It gnawed its way ahead with grunts and sighs;

The solitary seeker with his grub-stake on his back,
The restless buccaneer of pick and pan.
On the mesas of the Southland, on the tundras of the North,
You will find us, changed in face but still the same;
And it isn't need, it isn't greed that sends us faring forth—
It's the fever, it's the glory of the game.

For once you've panned the speckled sand and seen the bonny dust,
Its peerless brightness blinds you like a spell;
It's little else you care about; you go because you must,
And you feel that you could follow it to hell.
You'd follow it in hunger, and you'd follow it in cold;
You'd follow it in solitude and pain;
And when you're stiff and battened down let someone whisper "Gold,"
You're lief to rise and follow it again.

Yet look you, if I find the stuff it's just like so much dirt;
I fling it to the four winds like a child.
It's wine and painted women and the things that do me hurt.
Till I crawl back, beggared, broken, to the Wild.
Till I crawl back, sapped and sodden, to my grub-stake and my tent—

There's a city, there's an army (hear them shout).
There's the gold in millions, millions, but I haven't got a cent;
And oh, it's me, it's me that found it out.

It was my dream that made it good, my dream that made me go
To lands of dread and death disprized of man;
But oh, I've known a glory that their hearts will never know,
When I picked the first big nugget from my pan.
It's still my dream, my dauntless dream, that drives me forth once more
To seek and starve and suffer in the Vast;
That heaps my heart with eager hope, that glimmers on before—
My dream that will uplift me to the last.

Perhaps I am stark crazy, but there's none of you too sane;
It's just a little matter of degree.
My hobby is to hunt out gold; it's fortressed in my brain;
It's life and love and wife and home to me.

And I'll strike it, yea, I'll strike it; I've a hunch I cannot fail;
I've a vision, I've a prompting, I've a call;
I hear the hoarse stampeding of an army on my trail,
To the last, the greatest gold camp of them all.

Beyond the shark-tooth ranges sawing savage at the sky
There's a lowering land no white man ever struck;
There's gold, there's gold in millions, and I'll find it if I die,
And I'm going there once more to try my luck.
Maybe I'll fail—what matter? It's a mandate, it's a vow;
And when in lands of dreariness and dread
You seek the last lone frontier, far beyond your frontiers now,
You will find the old prospector, silent, dead.
You will find a tattered tent-pole with a ragged robe below it;
You will find a rusted gold-pan on the sod;
You will find the claim I'm seeking, with my bones as stakes to show it;
But I've sought the last Recorder, and He's—God.

THIMBLE THEATRE. —By Segar

WHAT THE FAIR WILL DO

THE Texas-Oklahoma fair to be held in Wichita Falls September 30 to October 4 inclusive is going to be a big thing for this entire section of the country. Oklahoma will profit by it and so will Texas.

It is not an easy task to start out and organize a fair association with a capital stock of $100,000. But it has been done here. It has been done because public-spirited men who were willing to sacrifice their own business for many hours to the interest of the community and the territory got behind it and put it over. These men are to be commended, for they have done a big public service.

With George Keith, as president of the fair association and a corps of equally as ardent workers helping him, there is no doubt but that the fair is going to be a big success. The president and his helpers will have to work mighty hard because of the very short time before the fair is to be held. But they will have a fair that will do credit to the two states it represents.

Fairs are wonderful educational institutions. They are splendid territory developers. The Texas-Oklahoma fair is going to do as much to help develop this vast territory within a radius of 100 miles as any other one factor could do.

Not a county officer of Bastrop county has opposition for the democratic primary to be held in July, the like of which has never before occurred in the county. And they are all democratis in Bastrop. There is something wrong somewhere.

DR. CRANE EDITORIAL

TERMS OF THINKING

THE important element in social evolution or intellectual evolution is to enlarge our terms of thought.

The savage thinks in terms of the individual; the civilized man thinks in terms of society.

The great problem with every mother is to induce children to think in terms of the family and not in terms of self.

And the process of evolution in politics is to get people to think constantly in larger terms.

The meeting of the nations at Genoa had for its most important product that it got them in the way of thinking in terms of Europe.

The people are finding out that the great problem of peace and prosperity is not a problem of France, of Germany, or of Russia, it is a problem of Europe and of the world.

Provincialism and narrowness are so ingrained and have been developed by so many years of struggle that many despair of any such widening of thought. They think the time will never come when the Frenchman will care for the German as much as for himself; or for the people of the United States to realize that their welfare is bound up with the welfare of Europe and Asia.

But we have only to go back in history to be encouraged by the progress already made.

It is not so very long ago that each one of these units we call the nation was broken up into fragments as bitterly hostile to each other as nations now are hostile.

It cost a desperate effort to get the people of the separate states to cease thinking of themselves as New Yorkers or Virginians and to think of themselves as Americans. The adoption of the constitution of the United States was fought every whit as bitterly as the adoption of the league of nations.

Even long after the constitution was adopted sectionalism prevailed and it took a fierce and bloody war to get the people of the north and the people of the south to think of themselves as one country.

Very much the same process has taken place in other countries. It is not so many generations ago that Scotchmen and Welchmen hated Englishmen as heartily as the Irish hate them now.

Italian unity is rather a late thing, and few of the citizens of Florence, of Genoa, of Venice or of Naples ever imagined that they would all belong to one governmental unit.

So the states of Germany were divided and men called themselves Prussians or Bavarians rather than Germans.

Before the days of Rihcelieu also there was much more talk and boasting of Normans, Gascons and Burgundians than or Frenchmen.

People really have gone quite far in the discovery of the fact that isolation is an impossibility, at least it is a contentious and expensive affair. Nobody in France would think of going back to the old feudalities, and nobody in the United Kingdom except the Irish would think of dissolving the British commonwealth of nations.

The unity of the world is in the mind of destiny, aand somehow she will accomplish it.

THE SECOND TRADE TRIP

MONDAY July 10 the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce will send a special train bearing 125 local business men into the surrounding territory and through many of the towns that look to this city as their legitimate trading headquarters.

It will not be the first time that Wichita Falls has sent such a train into the trade territory and doubtless it will not be the last time, for other trips already are being discussed.

When the trippers leave Wichita Falls they will not be on an errand of profit to this city alone. They will be on an errand which will accomplish much for the territory through which they will go, as well as profit to this city. The trippers represent the backbone of the city and they go to meet personally many people in the territory whom they have not met before and to greet again those they already know.

It is a trip of good faith as much as a trip of good business. When busy men take the time to step down from their hard work and go out among the people whom they know and want to know and with whom they do business it is a sign that they want to meet personally their fellow man and to extend to all the hand of good fellowship.

The men who go on these trade trips are men who stand four square to the wind and there can be but one result from their trade trip, that being a closer tie of confidence and good feeling between Wichita Falls and the towns and territory through which the trippers pass.

Drat the man. Every time congressmen plan a little joyous spending to tickle folks back home, Mellon makes some remark about a deficit.

"So the people shouted when the priests blew with the trumpets: and it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, that the walls fell down flat."—From Biblical Account of the Fall of Jericho—Joshua VI.: 20.

NOW Jericho was straitly shut up because of the children of Israel: none went out, and none came in.

And the Lord said unto Joshua, See, I have given into thine hand Jericho, and the king thereof, and the mighty men of valour.

And ye shall compass the city, all ye men of war, and go round about the city once. Thus shalt thou do six days.

And seven priests shall bear before the ark seven trumpets of rams' horns: and the seventh day ye shall compass the city seven times, and the priests shall blow with the trumpets.

And it shall come to pass, that when they make a long blast with the ram's horn, and when ye hear the sound of the trumpet, all the people shall shout with a great shout; and the walls of the city shall fall down flat, and the people shall ascend up every man straight before him.

And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they rose early about the dawning of the day, and compassed the city after the same manner seven time: only on that day they compassed the city seven times.

And it came to pass at the seventh time, when the priests blew with the trumpets, Joshua said unto the people, Shout; for the Lord hath given you the city.

So the people shouted when the priests blew with the trumpets: and it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, that the wall fell down flat, so that the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and they took the city.

SUCH is the biblical account of how the shouts of the multitude of Israelites under Joshua, mingling with the blast of trumpets, are said to have brought down the walls of Jericho, the "City of the Moon."

For centuries men of science have recognized the power of harmonic vibrations which some go so far as to give as the explanation for the falling of Jericho's walls at the shouts of the multitude.

There is also an ancient story about an old fiddler who had been thrown out of the castle of an angry prince. Sitting down near the moat, the fiddler proceeded to "fiddle down the bridge."

It is also claimed that avalanches in the Alps are sometimes started by so trivial a thing as a whisper. A recent report from Vivey, Switzerland, says that the tinkle of sleigh bells was responsible for a terrible fall which swept away a caravan of sleighs crossing a dangerous Alpine pass and that now the use of bells on this route is strictly forbidden.

Recognizing the possibilities of the phenomenon of the power of harmonic vibrations, Leslie R. MacDonald of Montreal, Canada, has invented a motor which turns this principle to practical use.

Merely by harnessing a pulley with a web belt attached to a small, rapidly-vibrating bar of iron, Mr. MacDonald claims to have devised an efficient source of power—a motor without armature, commutator, or brushes, and with no rotating parts except for the whirling drive pulley actuated by the vibrating bar. He says that his invention is due to an accidental discovery made while repeating a familiar experiment in physics called "Melde's Experiment." In this, a string running horizontally over a pulley is attached at one end to a small weighted pan, while the other end is fastened to a tuningfork set in motion by an alternating current.

A writer in Popular Science Monthly explains as follows the working of the MacDonald motor:

As the fork vibrates, the string, instead of moving back and forth, as one might naturally expect, vibrates up and down with a snakelike whipping motion. Against this vibrating string Mr. MacDonald placed a wooden spool slipped on to a screwdriver. The spool revolved rapidly!

Realizing the possibilities of this phenomenon, the inventor arranged to maintain the vibrations of the fork with an electro-magnet—and his new motor was born!

The perfected design includes elements for maintaining free vibrations electrically, and a flexible member so tensioned as to allow harmonic waves to be produced in it in such a manner that they perform useful work by turning a pulley.

The motor is a compact arrangement for producing vibration synchronous with the cycle of the alternating current used for power. A heavy vibrating member of laminated iron is pivoted above an electro-magnet, with the free end held between two coiled springs, by means of which the rate of vibration can be controlled. Above one end of the vibrating member is a pulley, with a web belt encircling it, and ending in a tension spring fastened to the body of the machine.

As the magnet pulls down the vibrating member, the spring and belt pull the pulley forward a fraction of a revolution. But when the current is reversed, the polarity of the magnet is changed, and the vibrating member springs back. One would expect this movement to make the belt drag back the pulley, thus neutralizing the gain previously made, but this is not the case. The same whipping action takes place, it is claimed, that occurs in Melde's experiment. The pulley not only holds the previous gain, it is said, but actually seems to move forward a trifle as the belt whips back over it. Thus far, one horsepower is about the maximum developed.

The only winding on the new motor is that of a simple, insulated wire coil. No transformer is needed, and it is said to be impossible to burn out the motor, if it is operated on the voltage and frequency for which it is designed. The motor is essentially a slow-speed machine with high starting torque.

A striking example of its ability to fit into unusual spaces is its possible installation on a sewing machine. For this purpose it is made long and flat, permitting concealment and connection with an outside pulley.

The new motor has no brushes or other parts to wear out easily, and no bearings to require oil.

"Topping" Vegetables to Preserve Them

SUCCULENT vegetables, such as radishes, carrots, beets, spring onions and turnips, should be "topped" while in the field, to prevent withering and to keep them firm and fresh for marketing. This is the conclusion of L. B. Rhodes of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, Raleigh, N. C., who recently read a paper on the subject before the North Carolina Section of the American Chemical Society.

"It is generally known that all growing plants continually give up moisture to the air from the leaves by evaporation, the phenomenon of transpiration," said Mr. Rhodes. "It seems to have never been recognized that transpiration would increase the wilting of root vegetables. According to the following explanation this would seem plausible.

"While the plant is in the ground, the soil through the rootlets supplies evaporation losses; when pulled up, transpiration continues, the moisture being supplied through the root as usual. The root, as for instance root vegetables being unable to replenish the supply, wilts as the moisture streams up to the leaves.

"In order to find out just the effect of tops on vegetables as carrots, radishes, etc., a series of experiments was made. Vegetables of the same size and variety were matched by twos. From one the top was removed; otherwise the pairs were exposed for different periods of time under like conditions, after which the moisture content of each was ascertained.

"It was discovered that by removing the top the time the vegetable would invariably remain firm and marketable, under ordinary conditions, was practically doubled, while those exposed with tops on rapidly withered in comparison. These tests were made on radishes, carrots, beets, spring onions and turnips, all of which showed more marked wilting with tops on. Any cause, as sprinkling, that tends to preserve the tops increased the wilting at the root. It is practically certain that other root vegetables would behave similarly. The difference in the per cent. of moisture after exposure of any pair examined, varied from 0.0 up to 4.93 per cent. This effect can be easily demonstrated by anyone, without the facilities of a chemical laboratory.

"From these experiments, the conclusions follow, tops of root vegetables should be removed in the field. The vegetables would remain marketable and hence could be shipped further. Space and expense would be saved in shipping. They would be of superior quality, firm and containing the soluble mineral matter as when pulled. Valuable fertilizing constituents in the tops would be returned to the soil. It is no exaggeration to say that were this practice followed thousands of dollars would be saved to those who handle the products."

RADIOGRAMS

THE manufacturers of radio outfits have received hundreds of inquiries from youthful radio enthusiasts throughout the country, inquiring whether or not a license of some sort is necessary in order to receive music, radio telephone messages, etc. Despite newspaper publicity, magazine articles and individual answers to inquiries of this sort, this question of license to receive, continually crops up. Let it be understood, once and for all, that there is no license necessary to receive wireless messages of any kind. There are no taxes necessary; there is absolutely no legal red tape of any sort to be feared in connection with the installation and operation of these radio sets.

* * *

The most unusual "radio reception" which has come to notice in some time, is the incident related of little Herbert Shattuck of New York. He took along his little crystal receiving set on a fishing trip, and attached a six-foot wire to his fishing pole, with his set at the near end of this temporary antenna. He was very much surprised to hear signals and some telephone music over his phones. He was fifteen miles distant from the nearest broadcasting station, and with the six-foot antenna at the end of his fishing pole, this remarkable performance was achieved.

A Typewriter That WRITES WORDS with ONE STROKE

A TYPEWRITER that writes words as well as letters has been invented by Wesley Henry Bennington, formerly of Bucyrus, O., now of New York.

Mr. Bennington's machine does not write all words with one stroke of the keys, for he has selected only the twenty-two words that he found to be in most common use, either alone or as syllables of ordinary words. These are: "As, 000, at, all, are, be, by, but, for, he, it, in, is, if, not, of, on, to, the, we, was, you," which, according to the inventor, constitute approximately 31.8 per cent. of the words in common use, the sentence he selects as an example being: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party," in which nine of the sixteen words may be written on his typewriter each with a single touch.

Mr. Bennington uses a standard keyboard with extra keys for these words arranged on three sides of it, as shown in the accompanying drawing.

The machine itself has several other features which the inventor claims are improvements. These are an escapement lock which makes it possible to write in any direction; a return lever which when depressed by the little finger returns the carriage for a new line, and two platen keys which feed the paper up or down by a single touch.

In describing how this new typewriter operates Marjorie Gordon Bowne has the following to say in Science and Invention, the italicised syllables being written with one stroke:

The other day a new type of instrument to increase the speed and incidentally lighten the labor of the day's work, came to my attention. It is a typewriter, which actually seems human. It does not need to have each separate key pressed in order to evolve such simple words as "and," "if," "on," "to," "the," etc. The words and parts of words are, formed thus:

It will write these words of its own accord when only one key is depressed, instead of the two or three which would be necessitated on the typewriters in common use today. To many people this in itself would be a marvel, but the machine has also been improved in many of the mechanical parts such as the roller and carriage return.

But all this is moving too fast. Let us go back and trace the construction of the new mechanism, bit by bit.

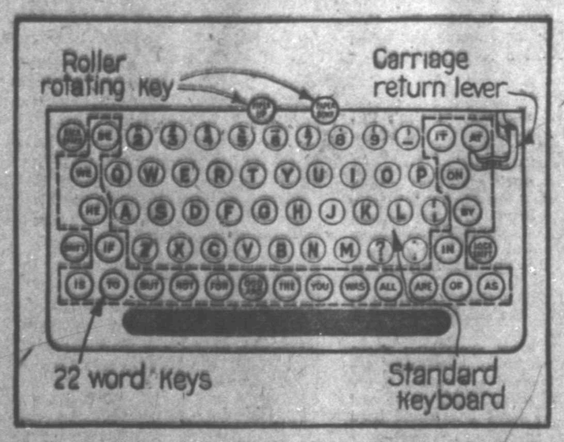

Like most great things, the evolution of this unique machine was simple. It began years ago on a little farm in Ohio where Wesley Henry Bennington was born. From the first, he had a desire to invent, but as he grew older the realization that before he could do anything he must know something arrived, and he went to the Ohio Northern University where he worked his way through, specializing in sciences and law. Immediately upon graduation the need of money drove him to a nearby law office where he worked as a stenographer.

It did not take Mr. Bennington long to note the fact that the English language has but 26 letters, and, therefore, it must of course have numerous repetition of a single letter in sentences.

Working upon this hypothesis, he eventually developed the present marvel, which works as previously described.

The word combinations will be seen in the accompanying diagram of the keyboard. These twenty-two words alone would greatly increase the speed with which the typist could write her letters, but when we stop to consider the added benefit of the word combinations such as land, hand, sand, etc., which may all be typed by merely striking the first letter and the "and" key, we realise the tremendous advance which will be marked by the inauguration of these typewriters in the offices thruout the land.

The more technical advantages of the newest invention lie in the fact that the carriage release may be worked without the typist raising her hands from the keyboard.

Moth-Proofing Woolen Cloth

WITH all of the many virtues of woolen fabrics for the making of garments they have one annoying quality in that they present a tempting titbit for one of the worst insect pests which afflict mankind—namely, the ordinary clothes moth, which finds nothing edible in cotton, linen or silk, but dotes on wool. The announcement made a few months ago by a German firm that they had perfected a treatment for woolen fabrics, making them absolutely mothproof, is of the highest importance, since it presents an opportunity for the prevention of what are at present enormous losses from this cause.

The treatment is extremely simple, since all that is needed is to place the woolen goods in a cold solution of the new chemical until thoroughly saturated. It is then taken out of the solution, hung up for a few hours, carefully rinsed with fresh water and dried.

Woolen goods thus treated, according to the Scientific American, are absolutely unappetizing to the greediest moth larva. This was conclusively proved by various experiments. Photographs of two pieces of flannel exposed to moths, one of which was untreated while the other had been dipped in Eulan F., showed that the former was riddled with holes while the latter was untouched. Again a few strands of wool were placed in two test tubes within which moth eggs were then placed. Six months later photographs showed that tube A, containing the untreated wool, was quite empty except for the excrement and pupa cases of the larvae, while tube B contained the woolen contents intact, plus the corpses of the larvae, which had quickly starved to death upon issuing from the eggs.

The circumstances which led to this valuable discovery are unusually instructive, showing as they do that an alert mind is stimulated by a mere suggestion which would bear no fruit if it fell upon less fertile soil. Dr. Ernst Meckbach, writing in Die Umschau (Frankfurt) concerning this discovery, which appears to be due chiefly to his own researches, says that he was instigated to the latter through the circumstance that he frequently heard housewives ripe in years remark sagely, "Moths won't touch green cloth." They struck him as so curious that he began to experiment, with the result that the moths ate the green stuff as eagerly as that of any other color. It occurred to him, however, that the green dyes of modern use might be different in character from those used in earlier days. Investigation proved this theory to be correct. It was found that green cloth dyed some 50 years ago actually is moth-proof. Strange to say, however, it is not the green dye which is distasteful to the insects, but a certain yellow dye—the well-known "Martius yellow," one of the first of the artificial dyes made from coal tar. The reason for the use of this is that nearly all green dyes are blue-green, so that yellow dye is commonly added to them to alter the shade. It was the Martius yellow thus employed which rendered the fabric safe from the attack of moths.

How RADIUM Makes Watch Dials Glow

RADIUM salts are used in preparing luminous paint for covering watch dials, the dials of aviators' instruments and other things so that they may be seen in the dark. The radium compound is mixed scientifically with a certain proportion of zinc sulphid, a chemical compound which becomes luminous in the presence of radium. A very minute quantity of radium goes a long way in the preparation of this paint. The zinc sulphid and other materials are comparatively inexpensive. This explains why a watch retailing for only $2 or so can be made with a radium-luminous dial, despite the fact that a tiny pinch of radium costs a fortune because the total amount in the world is so small—estimated at 140 grams.

When the dial of a watch coated with such a preparation is examined under a moderately strong lens in the dark it is found to be a seething mass of tiny light flashes. These flashes are the result of explosions of the atoms of radium in the mixture. There are some 200,000 flashes per second on an ordinary dial.

The atoms whose explosion is primarily responsible for the tiny flashes of light are extremely minute—there are something like 250,000,000 of them to the square inch of surface coated with the paint. When an explosion occurs a particle is hurled out from the atom at terrific speed. These particles are so small that they cannot be detected even with a powerful microscope but because of the effects they produce they are known to exist and to be shot forth when atoms break up. The bombardment of zinc sulphid crystals by these infinitesimal particles flying at lightning speed generates heat and as a result each blow produces a flash of light.

The glow is the combined result of all these flashes. The larger the proportion of radium the greater the number of flashes and consequently the brighter the glow. However, increasing the amount of radium beyond a certain point not only adds to the cost of the paint but makes its luminosity shorter lived. This is because the crystals of zinc sulphid will stand only so much of a bombardment—every flash represents a blow at them. When these crystals break down as they must sooner or later the luminous quality is lost although the radium is still there, almost as energetic as it was in the first place.

The SPIDER That JAZZES for a WIFE

A WONDERFUL little fellow is the zebra spider, who is so called because of the white stripes on his plump, black body. He is said to be the champion insect jumper of the world.

When in search of a mate, he wears the only suit he possesses, a very comfortable and simple one of black and white. His greatest concern is to be sure that his leg muscles are nimble and that his one-step is perfect, for his proposing is done with his legs.

Arriving at the home of his lady-love, the little fellow gets close to her until he is certain that she sees him. Then, extending all the legs on the right side of his body, he sidles off on his left legs in an extremely odd and difficult side-step.

This queer proceeding is like a curious lopsided game of hopscotch. Presently the dancer repeats the waltz in the opposite direction on his right legs.

While he is performing, Miss Spider watches him closely. She judges the depth of his love by the perfection of his dancing. A male zebra spider has been known to repeat his one-step as many as one hundred and eleven times, but few courtships last as long as this, for usually the lady makes up her mind after a few minutes of dancing.

If Miss Spider is convinced that Mr. Spider loves her, she joins him in a mad, whirling waltz and consents to be his wife. But if the dancer is awkward and ungraceful, he cannot hope to get married. Sometimes it happens that Miss Spider, enraged at her would-be lover's poor waltzing, rushes out and kills him.

The danger of losing his head at the hands—or rather jaws—of such a critical judge adds a thrill of adventure to his courtship.

Nature has given the zebra spider eight enormous eyes, which are arranged in a semi-circle around his head. They look like round windows with hundreds of tiny panes of glass in them, for each of these curious eyes is made up of many little ones packed close together. The very sight of such huge glaring eyeballs is sufficient to frighten the insects upon which he feeds.

With these miniature searchlights the hunter can see in all directions and spy out his prey long before it can see him. If man had eyes made on the same scale as those of the zebra spider he would go about the world with eyes as round and as big as dinner-plates, and have a whole circle of them around his head!

Not only is this mighty little athlete equipped with special hunting eyes, writes G. G. Clark in "Tiny Toilers and Their Work" (Century, New York), but his feet are designed to make him the champion jumper of the insect world. When he is landing from one of his enormous leaps it would be very dangerous for the tiny creature's feet to slip. A bad landing might mean a broken leg, a nasty fall, a missed dinner, or, perhaps, a severe wound from the struggling insect he was trying to catch.

Nature has provided him with a thick pad of stiff hairs at the bottom of each foot. No matter how slippery the surface on which he lands, the zebra spider never slips, for his foot-pad acts like the spikes on a football player's shoes and makes him the most surefooted insect in the world.

Broadway's "Vamp" Evangelist Who Outdoes Billy Sunday

Captain Rheba Crawford of the Salvation Army Rivals the Stage's Sell-Out Attractions, and, Winning Applause Where Other Revivalists Found Freeze-Outs, She Preaches to a Crowded Curbstone.

"Quick! Quick! A Song!"

"Women Don't Like Good Men. I Don't Know Why."

"My Religion—Each Man to His Vision! My Mission—To Make This Life a Little Easier for as Many People as I Can."

"I'm Glad Dresses Are Longer This Year. I Look Better in Long Ones."

IN a season of disappointments, low box-office receipts and frequent failures, at least one attraction along Broadway has always been sure of its crowd. This attraction doesn't feature any of the usual sure-fire hokum—neither plantation choruses, Russian costume acts, nor society queens doing a temporary turn before the footlights. It features simply a youthful, yellow-haired girl in a bonnet. And this girl, with nothing more to offer than the faith that is in her, has successfully competed with the highest paid stars in the world.

At least four times a week Capt. Rheba Crawford of the Salvation Army invades New York's white light district, summons its habitues with a drum beat, and strikes fire from their hearts. In one year she has made Broadway her own. Her following is as fixed as Elsie Ferguson's.

In and about stage doors and dressing-rooms, smart hotel lobbies and smarter tea-rooms, Capt. Crawford is known as "The Vamp Evangelist." This expression, while an eloquent tribute to her natural equipment of color, contour and personality, is never meant in a sinister sense. It is Broadway's method of saying that she has reached its heart; that she has vamped its reckless children into the ways of grace; that she has made religious observance a part of New York's night life.

Capt. Crawford's conquest of Broadway is, as a matter of indisputable fact, one of the conspicuous achievements of modern evangelism.

Broadway Wouldn't Listen

For many years the Salvation Army, together with other Christian societies, made ineffectual attempts to obtain a foothold on Broadway. The Army sent its best speakers into that blazing stretch from Herald Square to Columbus Circle and tried to turn aside, for a few moments at least, the pleasure-bent crowds.

The experience of the Broadway corps was always the same. They not only couldn't get enough collections to support the effort—they couldn't even get the people to listen. As one Army missionary declared:

"The crowds will stop for half an hour to watch a man mend a tire or a collar-button demonstrator perform in a show-window. But they won't stop more than a minute to hear a religious message."

Broadway wasn't disrespectful; Broadway was simply indifferent.

The Army finally abandoned the Broadway corps.

Two years ago Rheba Crawford, the 18-year-old daughter of Brig. Crawford, a veteran in the Army, went to New York from the South for the purpose of editing the Salvation Army's children's paper, "The Young Soldier." Miss Crawford, by virtue of whirlwind campaigns conducted in the principal cities of Georgia and Florida, had just earned her commission in the Army.

She fell to her job of getting out "The Young Soldier" with characteristic zeal. She soon found, though, that the job made far too small a draft on her energies. She longed for action. The white-hot fire of the special pleader was burning within her.

She applied to the [illegible] Officer for [illegible] and New York was available just then. Finally the question of making another effort to win Broadway came up. Capt. Crawford volunteered. Her superiors in the Army were frankly skeptical over the prospect, but she was nevertheless told to go ahead.

After her first Broadway meeting she went home and wept all night. She had attracted a crowd all right and the crowd, after its own fashion, had been pleased with her. But a peculiar atmosphere of cynicism and curiosity was about them. They looked upon her meeting as a show. When she made a telling hit someone shouted "'At a girl!" When she completed her speech they burst into applause.

As she looked out over the circle of faces that ever grew broader she noticed they represented different stages of culture and prosperity. But each face seemed to have the same expression—an expression of amusement and good-natured worldliness. She felt her voice growing flat; she repeated meaningless phrases over and over.

She heard a young man turn to a friend and say: "She's a darn good-looking blonde, all right." When she passed through the crowd taking the collection a portly gentleman asked her to take supper with him that night. She closed the meeting as soon as she could. She felt defeated and humiliated.

By the next night, however, she had got back her fighting spirit. She took off her bonnet, rolled up her sleeves, ran her fingers through her hair and went after them, horse, foot and dragoons.

There's a different spirit in her Broadway audiences now. Their cynicism has gone. They are not all believers in the orthodox sense, but they respect her faith, her message and her enthusiasm. But to this day they applaud her. She has found that Broadway insists on applauding whatever it likes.

"It's different from a congregation in a church," said Capt. Crawford. "They're not so stiff and formal, they're sort of rough and ready. But I love 'em. I know how to treat them now—and they know how to treat me."

First of all, she believes that if one lays claim to a faith that will move mountains one should stand up straight and deliver that faith with all the fire one commands. To Capt. Crawford's way of thinking a Christian soldier should never mope or languish or be too consciously pious.

As a result one finds Capt. Crawford going after her audiences with all the acrobatics of Billy Sunday plus her own tricks of expression.

She shouts and sings, stamps her feet, whirls her arms, windmill fashion, stands on one foot, leans against a wall. Sometimes when she feels that the thought she is trying to get across is too big and explosive for words or gestures she will stop abruptly in the middle of a sentence and turn to the cornet player.

"Quick! Quick! A song!" she will shout. And before he can get the instrument to his lips will start singing.

Turning Aside from Money

One night, a prominent church worker from a Western town was passing along Broadway at Forty-sixth street and stopped to hear her speak. He was so impressed with her magnetism that he sought her out after the meeting and asked if she wouldn't undertake a revival meeting in his town.

Capt. Crawford refused.

"In the first place," she said, "I don't like the idea of making too much money out of religion. In the second place, I think I can do more actual service in the Salvation Army. A revivalist only begins his work. It's easy enough to put religion in people's hearts, but it's hard to keep it there. In the Salvation Army you can follow up your work. Of course I may sometime undertake evangelical work on a larger scale, but I doubt it. I love my Broadway crowds too much."

The finer doctrinal points Capt. Crawford is quite content to leave to the professors of theology in the seminaries.

"I don't pretend to know everything about God. And I think it would be impertinent for me to give people a blueprint of heaven. I try to build up a spirit of mutual helpfulness and tolerance in this life. I can't understand hard and fast Christianity. In fact, I must confess that I don't like pious people very much. My religion is simple—Each man to his vision. My mission is simpler—To make this life a little easier for as many people as possible. I try to understand weakness because I am so weak myself, sometimes. I offended a pious person in my audience very much one night by saying that women didn't like good men. And they don't. I couldn't tell you why."

Capt. Crawford considers it only typical of Broadway psychology that she should get "mash notes" just as an actress does.

"I got an eleven-page letter the other day from a man in the Somerset Hotel," she said. "It was filled with devotion—but whether for me or for God I couldn't say. I'm sorry men are like that. But you have to take them as you find them."

While she was talking a fashionably dressed girl crossed the street.

"I'm glad dresses are longer this year," she said. Somebody asked why, expecting to hear a strictly moral reason.

"Because," she answered, "I look better in long dresses."
