The meetings are being held as a result of the Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act of 1977 (RCA). Under the Act, Congress directed USDA to appraise the condition of the nation's renewable natural resources and to propose programs to guide future conservation activities of USDA.

As a result of RCA, three documents have been published that can be reviewed at USDA offices. These include Parts I and II of the appraisal and a summary of the appraisal, national conservation objectives for selected resource areas, and seven alternative strategies.

The purpose of the alternative strategies is to provide a selection of the best and most acceptable method of achieving national conservation objectives set by USDA.

Anyone interested in reviewing the documents before, or after, the meetings in Lubbock and San Antonio should contact local USDA Soil Conservation Service or Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices.

Written comments will be accepted at the meetings or they can be sent to the Response Analysis Center, P.O. Box 888, Athens, GA 30603.

Men Complete Training Workshop

Roy Fewell, code specialist at the department of community affairs, Austin, Texas is completing a training course here.

As codes specialist Fewell provides Texans with building code information and technical assistance and keeps them abreast of changes in the standard codes. He maintains the division's communication with municipal inspector associations around the state providing them with training, educational resources and any other assistance they may need.

The code specialist assists municipalities in establishing codes or in revising existing ones.

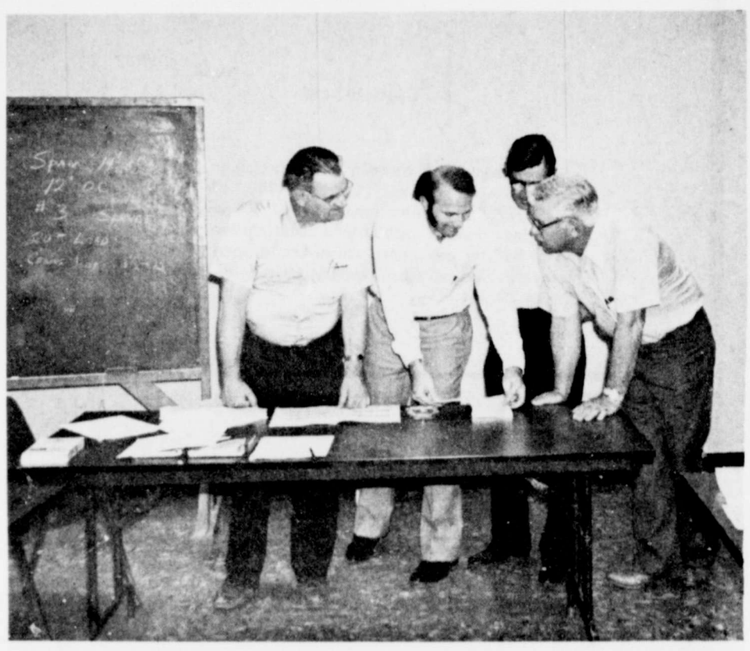

The recent seminar held at Floydada City Hall for code inspectors is coordinated with the Texas A&M Engineering Extension service. This involves training the code inspectors for certification, monitoring the exams which are given regionally and finally working with the model code congress in granting certification.

An examination for combination inspector certification is scheduled March 6 at city hall.

This certification, according to Fewell, will help improve skills and will give identifiable credentials to the persons involved.

The tests will be graded by Southern Building Codes Congress.

Area men from Floydada, Dalhart, Hereford, Wellington, Levelland, Fritch and Littlefield participated in the recent seminar here.

Chamber Banquet Monday

Floydada Chamber of Commerce Banquet is scheduled for March 3, 7 p.m. at the Duncan Elementary Cafetorium. Serving will begin at 6:45 p.m. Prime rib dinner is on the menu.

Melvin Lloyd, 1979 Chamber president will emcee the event.

The program includes introduction of new directors for the chamber of commerce and also for the womens division of the chamber.

The employer of the year award will be presented.

The Floydada Chamber of Commerce's choice for speaker of the annual spring banquet is the reigning Miss Texas, Lex Ann Haughey of Houston.

A junior business administration student at North Texas State Universtiy, Miss Haughey had been an outstanding scholar and award-winning musician throughout her high school and college years. In 1977 she was chosen as the top flutist in the nation. She was named Miss Sam Houston State University in 1978.

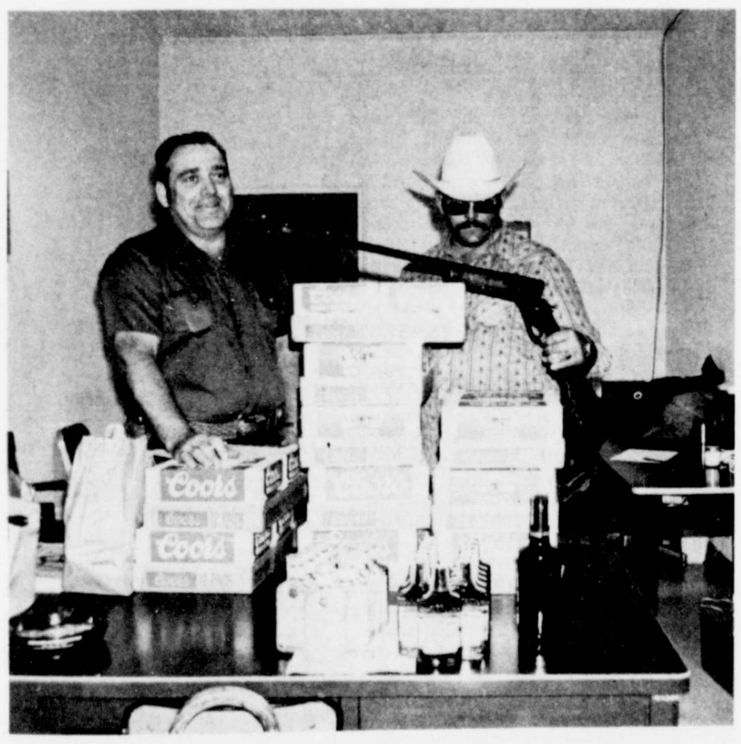

She lists as her hobbies jazz dancing, reading, cooking, and poetry. Her favorite sports are tennis, swimming, jogging and water skiing.

The 21-year-old Miss Texas and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Curry of Houston, enjoy activities which they can share. They belong to the Trail Motorcycle Club in Houston and have raced motorcycles together.

Boating has been another of their family activities. Lex Ann helped her dad build an air boat they named the "Grasshopper."

Lance Barrow, chamber manager, tells us there are plenty of tickets still available.

Approximately 450 tickets were sold for the 1979 banquet. Lance Barrow tells us he and the chamber are looking forward to an equally fine turn-out this year.

ILLEGAL BOOZE confiscated Friday afternoon about 3 p.m. James Hale, left, Floyd County deputy sheriff and Joe Simpson, also a Floyd County deputy display a 20-gauge shotgun that was also brought in with the illegal liquor. LaVada Garrett Named Mental Health Bellringer

John Stevens, president of the Texas mental health association recently announced that LaVada Garrett, of Floydada, has been named mental health bellringer chairperson.

"The bellringer chairperson is a vital part of making our organization work," said Stevens.

The mental health association is a voluntary citizens organization, funded entirely by private contributions. The association needs the donations from the bellringer in order to continue its work.

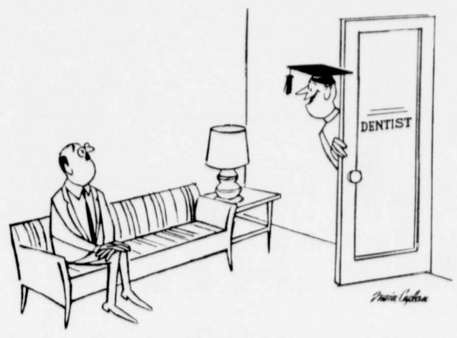

"This year the association's major goal is to improve the care for the discharged long term mentally disabled," said Stevens.

The association is promoting self-help groups for former patients and for the families of persons with mental health problems. The association is also working to see that housing opportunities are available in communities for discharged patients.

For free information about mental health topics contact: Mental Health Association in Texas, 103 Lantern Lane, Austin, Texas 78731.

New Rules Mean More Meals For Day Care

More Children will be able to get federally subsidized meals through day care centers and homes as a result of new rules published today by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"We're making more money available to cover the costs of providing meals to children in day care," said Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman. "As a result, we'll be able to make more meals and better nutrition available to children from low-income families. More day care facilities will be able to join our federal food program and day care providers already using the program will have more money to provide meals."

The new rules for the department's child care food program implement a 1978 Law (Public Law 95-627). Under the rules, people providing child care in private homes can be reimbursed by the federal government for more of the costs they incur in providing meals. In the past, day care homes had to either accept a standard rate of payment or maintain complicated records of their expenses, Foreman said.

Day care homes join the child care program under the umbrellas of a sponsoring organization, such as local government agencies or churches. Under the new rules, sponsoring organizations will receive additional money for their administrative costs. Previously money for their administrative expenses was tied to the number of low-income children in their programs. Now administrative money will be provided on the basis of the number of day care homes the sponsoring organization administers.

The new rules also make it easier for day care centers and homes to join the federal child care food program. To qualify for the food program, day care providers must be fully licensed by their state to provide child care. The new rules, however, make this licensing requirement more flexible.

If the state office which licenses day care providers has a back log of pending applications or doesn't license a particular type of day care provider, the state office which administers the federal child care food program can determine whether or not the day care provider meets sufficient day care standards to join the federal food program.

In addition, sponsoring organizations for day care homes will be now able to get start-up money to expand the program. "The home program has been growing slowly in day care homes," said Foreman. "This seed money for sponsoring organizations will help them start up programs for their homes."

The new regulations also specify monitoring procedures for states administering the food program. Day care organizations with serious management deficiencies will be dropped.

In addition, once a year states will be required to notify all licensed or registered day care centers and homes about the availability of federal funds.

The child care food program now provides meals to 600,000 children. Homes and centers are reimbursed for meals they provide to children based on the type of meal served and the income of the children's families.

POLLY AND FRED CARDINAL, CO-CHEFS OF THE WEEK

We received two separate phone calls last week — one suggesting the name of Fred Cardinal for cook of the week, one suggesting Polly Cardinal ... So we teamed them up, as they chose to years ago, and have a married couple as our featured chefs.

Cardinal is sheriff of Floyd County, and Mrs. Cardinal is an English teacher at Floydada High School. They have one son Louis Reid, who along with his wife Susan and son, Dusten Reid, lives in Post. He is a state trooper.

Mrs. Cardinal has selected fresh peach ice cream and asparagus casserole recipes to share with our readers; and Sheriff Cardinal's selections are for pound cake and peanut patties.

Cook of the week

Peach Ice Cream

4 cups milk — scalded in the top of a double boiler.

4 eggs — beaten — add 1 cup sugar — mix well.

Pour scalded milk over eggs and sugar. Put back in double boiler, stir constantly. Cook until custard coats the spoon.

Cool — add 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mash 1 quart fresh peeled peaches — lemon juice — add 2 cups sugar.

Mix all the ingredients, put in a one gallon freezer can. Freeze (fresh apricots may be substituted for peaches. Both are delicious.) My mother, the late Mrs. G.R. (Stella) May taught this recipe to me.

Asparagus Casserole

1 large can green asparagus spears (not cut)
1/4 pound grated cheese
1 small onion, grated
1 small can chopped pimentos
1/2 cup (or more, according to taste) chopped pecans

Make a cream sauce, add grated cheese, pimentos, pecans, and onion. Layer asparagus and sauce in a baking dish. Sprinkle top with cracker crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for about twenty minutes or until it bubbles well. Sprinkle with more grated cheese. Allow cheese to slightly melt.

Pound Cake

Cream together:
1 pound butter (2 cups, 4 sticks)
1 pound sugar (2¼ cups)
1 pound eggs (10 extra large, 12 medium sized)
1 pound sifted flour (4 cups plain, 4½ cups cake flour)
Juice of 1/2 a lemon

Beat eggs well — I have these at room temperature. Beat them until they fill the mixing bowl.

Cream sugar and butter well. Alternate eggs and flour, then add lemon juice. Beat! Cook at 300 degrees for about one hour and forty-five minutes — until a light golden brown or until a tooth pick inserted comes out clean.

This is a very special recipe given to me by my late mother-in-law, Mrs. G.R. (Stella) May.

Peanut Patties

3 cups white sugar
1½ cups white Karo
1½ cups water
1/2 cup water
1 scant teaspoon cocoa (for color)

Mix the above ingredients and let come to a rolling boil. Add 2 cups raw peanuts. Cook until it forms a good soft ball in cold water. Beat until it is creamy. Drop by spoonsful on buttered waxed paper, mold in saucers or muffin tins.

Beating this takes a long time and is very tiring but is well worth the effort. It is a delicious candy.

This was a recipe which belonged to my mother, the late Mrs. T.J. (Katie) Cardinal. It was handed down to us by my aunt, Mrs. Tate Jones, who had kept it for years.

The Miracle Of Flowers

Sometimes a simple idea can turn aperson's life around. Father James Harvey, a prison chaplain from Brooklyn, is changing many lives for the better and he's doing it with flowers.

He saw the need for some creative intervention in the lives of neglected and rejected kids - those who were getting in trouble and coming before the courts as first offenders. He knew what the future would hold for them if something wasn't done to help. So he conceived an ingenious plan, an exciting non-profit program called "Flowers With Care."

He enlisted the help of a group of florists. Now, with their support and the support of skilled counsellors, the program helps these young men to learn the art of floral design.

Since its creation in 1974, more than 90 percent of those who have entered the program have made good professionally, becoming florists, nursery men and women and flower shop managers. Only one of the program's graduates has gotton into further trouble.

The training program is nine months long, and it involves on-the-job guidance with experienced florists. Participants learn everything from basic botany to marketing, design, pricing and bookkeeping. The trainees range in age from 16 to 24. They receive the minimum wage at the start of the program with raises in the third and eighth month. At the end of the course, "Flowers With Care" provides for placement, giving the young people a job with a future and the first real security they've ever known.

The program even provides a place to live, warm clothing and medical care for those who need it. In return, there are high standards to be met.

Trainees must be drug and alcohol free and remain so. They must develop good work habits, punctuality, cooperation with fellow employees, and a readiness to follow orders. The whole thing is working so well that the courts and the school authorities now refer youngsters to Father Harvey.

How do you turn a life around? How do you give a person pride, responsibility, hope and the opportunity for economic security? Ask Father James Harvey, he's doing it. I call it the miracle of the flowers.

Special guests were Mrs. Tommy Assiter, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Ray Gene Carthel, mother of the future bridegroom, and Mrs. Annie M. Webb, grandmother of the bride-elect.

Other guests were the bridal attendants for Miss Assiter's forth-coming wedding, Miss Tana Tyer, Jonna West, Dara Carthel and Mrs. Toni Summerville.

The couple plan to be married March 8, in the First United Methodist Church in Floydada.

El Progreso Hold Auction

El Progreso Study Club of Lockney met Wednesday in the home of Ann Del Quebe with home-made items to sell. Roll call was answered with "What am I bid?"

Young auctioneer Earl Broseh auctioned the items.

Chicken served to Alice Mitchell, Pauline Sams, Bobbie Kellison, Faye Ferguson, Hazel Johnson, Ann Brock, Josie Taylor, Cornelia Johnson, Arla Copeland, Dimon Schacht, Faye Holmes, Jeanette Marr, and visitors Juanita and Earl Broseh, Mrs. Thompson, and Martha Stewart.

Mrs. Reue Hostess To Wesley Anns

Mrs. Ella Reue was hostess to the Wesley Ann Circle Monday night.

Margie Fowler and Lorena McKinney gave the program on the Middle East. The love story of Miriam and Amon was given. The two met in Jerusalem when Miriam was doing Mission work there. They fell in love and Amon asked her to marry him, but she felt bound to her work. He told her he was lonely, but she told him, "That's not love." He was broken-hearted, but later he became spirit filled and he became satisfied."

Refreshments were served to madames, Opal Ashton, Julia Baker, Margie Fowler, Diana Glover, Juanita Henry, Ethyl Hinson, Bennie Leibfried, Jewel Martin, Lorina McKinney, Cora Lee Shipley, Ann Smith, Helen Solomon, Margaret Springer and hostess Ella Reue.

Keeter Carlton Vows Pledged In Austin

Marriage vows were pledged Saturday evening in Austin by Mona Sue Keeter and James Edward (Jim) Carlton III. The ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Don Bybee in Hyde Park Baptist Church.

Their honeymoon destination was Puerto Vallarta, Mexico.

A graduate in 1975 at Plainiew High School, the bride received her bachelor of journalism from the University of Texas. Bridegroom obtained a B.S. from Texas A&M University and a B.B.A. degree from the University of Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Olan Anderson Keeter, 223 SE 8th, Plainview, are parents of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Carlton Jr. of Shreveport, La., are parents of the bridegroom.

Vows were recited in an altar area featuring a greenery-enhanced brass arched candelabrum bearing white tapers and flanked by brass spirals marked with bows. Bouquets of white chrysanthemums and carnations were held on marble stands on each side of the setting.

MRS JAMES EDWARD CARLTON III

PRESENTED AT the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight organza and re-embroidered Alencon lace. The fitted bodice was fashioned with Queen Anne neckline intricately beaded with seed pearls. Sheer bishop sleeves, accented with lace were gathered to wide lace cuffs. Her full A-line skirt fell to a deep border of matching lace and swept to back fullness and a chapel lenth train. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and baby's breath that was centered with a white orchid.

Family sentiment was emphasized in the traditional something old, borrowed and blue. The bride wore her late maternal grandmother's wedding ring and borrowed a strand of pearls belonging to the bridegroom's mother (a gift to her from her husband when James Edward III was born). The traditional blue lace and pearl garter was added and she carried a white Bible that was a gift to the bride on her sixth birthday from her parents.

AMY JOHNSON of San Marcos was maid of honor. She and Carolyn Beamon of Houston and Janet Gorence of Lafayette, La., wore identical gowns of burgundy qiana fashioned with fitted bodice, accordian pleated skirt and completed with long sleeved jacket loosely tied at the neck. They carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations and baby's breath.

Bridegroom's father, Jim Carlton, Jr., was best man. Groomsmen were his brothers, Tim Carlton of Madisonville and John Carlton of Bryan.

Ushers were Olan Keeter and Mark Keeter of Corpus Christi, brothers of the bride, Dr. Marshall Cunningham an Peyton Kelley of Shreveport, Louisiana.

Selected music was presented by Mrs. W.C. Johnson of Plainview, the organist, and Eleanor Luecke of Houston, the soloist.

Linda Commander of Austin attended the bride's book.

HILTON INN in Austin was the scene of the reception. Assisting with hospitalities were Linda Commander, Rhonda Rogers and Nancy Horn, all of Austin, and Tricia Avis of Houston.

Bouquets of pink carnations decorated the bride's table which was appointed with silver and crystal and highlighted with a tiered white cake accented with pink roses. Bouquets of white mums decorated the groom's table which held a silver coffee service and a German Chocolate cake.

The champagne and hors d'ouvres tables also were appointed with silver and crystal. Bouquets of mums and rings of pink carnations centered with burgundy candles were used as decorations.

BRIDEGROOM'S PARENTS hosted the rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the Green Pastures Restaurant. The Forum Room at the Hilton Inn was the scene of the Saturday bridesmaid luncheon. It was hosted by the bride and her mother.

Among guests at the wedding and reception were the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Corinne Carlton, and his great-aunt, Lucille Lozano, both of Cuero.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Carlton Jr. have planned a reception for their son and daughter-in-law when the couple return from Puerta Vallarta.

The reception will be held at the Petroleum Club in Shreveport. Special guests will include the bride's parents of Plainview and her brothers of Corpus Christi.

Newlyweds will reside in Houston where Carlton is a petroleum landman with Phillips Petroleum. They will live at 16 Charleston Park.

Mrs. Carlton is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C.S. Keeter of Lockney and Mr. and Mrs. M.H. Taylor of the Cedar community.

Willing Workers SS Class Meets

The Willing Workers's Sunday School Class of the First Christian Church met Sunday, February 24, in the home of Dennis and Sue Swearngin for their monthly dinner. Several members were unable to attend because of being out of town.

Those present were: Jewel Price, Burmah Probasco, Estelle Hinkle, Blix Belew, Mattie and J.C. Wester, Jo and Ed Wester, and the host couple, Dennis and Sue Swearngin. Christi Cleveland was the guest of Bryan Swearngin.

The next dinner will be March 30 in the home of Mattie Wester.

WOODBURNING STOVES

Can you afford next winter's fuel costs?

Although Winter, 1979 wasn't a harsh one, there's no guarantee for future mild winters — or stable fuel costs. Many Texas families are arming themselves now in earnest against higher fuel costs, especially during cold winters.

Record numbers of Texas families are looking to woodburning stoves as a way to beat winter heating costs. Industry sources predict that as many as 1½ million people will install woodburning stoves in their homes this year.

Why woodburners?

Many burn wood to keep fuel costs down, while others want a wood stove as a backup in case of power failure or fuel shortages. Others are drawn to the woodburning stove simply because it's a nostalgic reminder that times have been simpler than they are today.

Unfortunately, many of these people will buy wood stoves without realizing that they demand more care and attention than the modern heating systems to which they're accustomed.

Here's a rule to remember: a wood stove must be carefully selected, installed and used — or you can get "burned."

In shopping for a new woodburning stove, seek out a reputable dealer who can answer you questions and help you choose a unit to fit your heating needs. Also, make sure the unit has approval of a nationally recognized testing agency, such as Underwriters Laboratories.

Antique stoves may have strong appeal, but the watchword is "buyer, beware." After years of use, antique cast-iron stoves are likely brittle. They may have cracks in the stove body, wobbly legs, sagging or rusted hinges, warped doors, missing grates, and louvers or dampers that don't work properly. A welder can repair many of these problems, but in many cases, older units aren't worth the risk they bring to a home.

Today's "hottest" models are those that look like the old-fashioned wood stoves, or you can find those with a modern touch that look like electric or gas heaters. Currently air-tight stoves are in big demand. These units have an air intake that restricts the amount of air entering the stove so wood burns more slowly.

One caution on air-tight units, though: there's some question of their safety, since the slow-burning wood gives off gases which form creosote deposits in the chimney. Creosote can start a chimney fire if allowed to accumulate, especially if the stove is overloaded with a roaring fire. However, frequent checks for creosote accumulations in the chimney can assure hazard-free operation.

FARM & RANCH NEWS

U.S. Wheat Sets Initial Program Directions

The Executive Committee of U.S. WHEAT ASSOCIATES met in Washington, D.C. this week, the first such meeting of the producer market development organization since it was formed a month ago with the merger of Great Plains Wheat, Inc. and Western Wheat Associates. Leo Witkowski of Hereford, participated in the Executive Committee meeting as chairman of the Texas Wheat Producers Board, a supporting member of U.S. WHEAT. According to Witkowski, the primary purpose of the Executive Committee meeting was to review the progress in consolidating the two former organizations and to provide initial policy direction to the combined staffs.

"The Executive Committee approved a tentative staffing pattern for U.S. WHEAT ASSOCIATES, subject to the approval of the President/Chief Executive Officer, a position expected to be filled in late March," Witkowski stated. The Committee also gave preliminary approval to the proposed budget for the new organization for the 1980-81 fiscal year beginning in July reflecting an increased level of market development efforts by producers. The budget will be reviewed and adopted by the full Board of Directors at the next scheduled meeting to be held March 24-26 in Washington, D.C.

In a meeting with Secretary of Agriculture Bergland, the farmer-board members reaffirmed U.S. WHEAT'S strong commitment to the development of expanded export markets for wheat and other agricultural commodities. They also expressed concern that, despite verbal commitments by administration officials toward greater emphasis on exports, especially in light of the embargo of grain shipments to the Soviet Union, very little concrete action has been taken by government to strengthen the market development programs.

The Texas Wheat leader stated, "U.S. WHEAT urged Secretary Bergland and the National Association of Wheat Growers, to actively seek improvements in the available marketing tools so necessary for the expansion of U.S. grain abroad. Among the issues being supported by U.S. WHEAT are an increase in both the level of funding and the flexibility for PL 480 and Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) export financing programs, as well as an increase in government financial support for export market development activities to match the increasing investment from the wheat producers."

Witkowski stated that U.S. WHEAT ASSOCIATES also reaffirmed its commitment to carry forward its petition initiated by Great Plains Wheat with the support of Western Wheat Associates, against the European Communities' export subsidy program. The validity of the wheat farmers legal complaint against the European Community was earlier accepted by the U.S. Government and action must be taken on the complaint by the end of July.

According to Witkowski, the Executive Committee concluded with the call for the rapid expansion of the U.S. WHEAT information program to provide the U.S. wheat farmer and foreign customers with timely information on the wheat situation and the outlook for world trade. This would begin with the employment of a "Director of Information" to coordinate and expand on the work previously carried out by the two merged organizations.

U.S. WHEAT ASSOCIATES is the consolidation of WWA and GPW, a foreign market development organization supported by wheat producers through their respective state wheat boards and commissions in Colorado, Kansas, Idaho, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Washington and Wyoming. In addition to the central office in Washington, D.C., U.S. WHEAT maintains foreign regional offices to promote markets for wheat in Africa, Asia, Europe, Latin America, and the Middle East.

Texas producers support foreign market development programs of U.S. WHEAT through the Texas Wheat Producers Board by a 1/2 cent per bushel self-assessment on their production delivered to country elevators. Since such work was initiated by the Board in 1971, the value of wheat in Texas has increased from $70 million to $552 million.

"One question in parting – who audits yours?"

Cattle Scabies Outbreaks Reported In 11 States

Psoroptic cattle scabies continues to plague the cattle business, F.J. Mulhern administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Inspection Service, said today.

This past January, Mulhern said, there were 59 scabies outbreaks in 11 states. He listed the cases:

Arizona--one case in Coconino county.

Idaho--one case in Payette county.

Iowa--one case each in Cherokee, Dickinson, Mitchell, Palo Alto and Sioux counties.

Illinois--one case in Fulton County.

Kansas--one each in Hamilton, Hodgeman, Ness, Rush and Scott counties; two each in Edwards, Ford and Haskell counties; three in Meade county; four in Finney county.

Minnesota--two cases in Brown county.

Nebraska--one case each in Boyd, Box Butte, Dundy, Fillmore, Hall and Rock counties.

Mew Mexico--one case each in Colfax and Roosevelt counties.

Oklahoma--one case each in Beaver, Beckham, Cimarron and Texas counties; two each in Blaine and Major counties.

South Dakota--one case each in Aurora, Lincoln, Minnehaha, and Turner counties.

Texas--one case each in Dallam, Donley, Hall, Hartley, Parmer, Potter and Swisher counties; four in Deaf Smith county.

January's 59 outbreaks compare with the same number reported in January a year ago, and 41 last December. Nationwide for fiscal 1980, the total stands at 126 cases reported, the same as for this time as last year.

Scabies has long been a problem in some areas of the Southwest, said Mulhern, but now it is appearing at an alarming rate in many midwestern and south central plains states. He said the only way cattlement can keep scabies outbreaks down and prevent its spread is to check herds regularly and refrain from mixing newly acquired cattle with already established herds.

A tiny, parasitic mite causes scabies. The mite punctures the skin of cattle to feed on body fluids released from the wounds. The mites spread by contact between animals. They are killed by dipping infested animals in pesticides approved by the USDA under state or federal supervision.

Mites cause serious economic losses to cattlemen and feedlot operators but do not affect the wholesomeness of meat, said Mulhern. Therefore, he said, infested and exposed herds are placed under quarantine until the animals are treated and found free of the disease.

COTTON TODAY

A NATIONAL COTTON COUNCIL SERVICE

COTTON LEADERS NAMED: Cotton men from the Southwest were elected to key leadership positions at the recent National Cotton Council annual meeting. Top spot went to Herman A. Propst, Anson, who was named president of the Beltwide organization.

The 1980 board of directors includes Wiley Felty, Altus, Okla.; Earl Jalufka, Robstown; Eugene B. Smith, Jr., Raymond V. Cooper, and Peter Hirschfeld, Dallas; Rex Steele, Fort Worth; and Rex McKinney, Lubbock.

Lloyd Cline, Lamesa, was elected secretary of the Council's Producer Steering Committee. Wiley Felty was named a regional director, and David Stratton, Clinton, Okla., and W.B. Criswell, Idalou, are state producer chairmen.

Officers of the Texas State Unit of the Council are Jerry Harris, Lamesa, chairman; Eugene B. Smith, Jr., vice chairman; and Adolph Hanslik, Lubbock, secretary. Elected to these positions in Oklahoma are Jack Myers, Snyder; A.G. Murphy, Guthrie; and Wayne Boothe, Cordell.

HELP PROMISED ON COTTON DUST: An industry delegation led by National Cotton Council President Herman Propst has called on Agriculture Secretary Bergland to assume the lead in finding and eliminating the byssinosis-causing agent in cotton. The group presented a proposal for $9 million over 24-month period for research on the problem. Bergland complimented the industry highly, stating, "You have acted responsibly and we are going to help." The secretary indicated that he would place a high priority on the cotton dust problem and would have his top research people examine the industry proposal and would seek to obtain matching funds for the industry-backed research.

CCI WORK LAUDED: Strong buyer-seller relationships between U.S. cotton exporters and Chinese officials are paying off iwht record sales already topping 2 million bales this year. U.S. Ambassador Leonard Woodcock, in a recorded message from Peking to the National Cotton Council's annual meeting, said American cotton now has a major share of China's raw cotton import market. He said situation reflects the effectiveness of activities carried out by Cotton Council International with Chinatex, the government agency which purchases all of China's raw cotton imports. He suggested that these marketing activities be continued and expanded to maintain and service the important Chinese market.

AND COTTON YESTERDAY: This year is the 90th anniversary of the movement of the boll weevil across the Texas border from Mexico.

CONSUMER PROGRAMS

"We expect this action to result in improved and more effective Federal consumer programs, consumer more responsive to the needs and wishes of the public."

This statement is quoted from page 7697, FEDERAL REGISTER, 2-4-80 with regard to Consumer Affairs Council draft consumer programs.

If government programs are used to provide economic wishes of the public, that government will surely be a socialist government. This means in effect, that government will manage the affairs of the public and it will be a government that divides the poverty. This is based on the fundamental fact that government has nothing except what it takes away from the people, less the cost of taking away and giving back. In addition to the cost of taking and giving, there is always the cost of dishonest administrators and users.

CAPPER-VOLSTEAD REGULATIONS

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced final rules of practice governing cease and desist proceedings under Section 2 of the Capper-Volstead Act which was approved by Congress in 1922 and has not been amended since that date. The stated purpose of the act is to authorize association of producers of agricultural products to collectively bargain and contract. The Act is composed of two basic sections. Section 1 outlines what these associations can do and Section 2 designates the responsibility of the Secretary of Agriculture in determining the degree to which associations may be exempt from anti-trust laws.

In summary, the rules referred to above are recorded in the FEDERAL REGISTER of January 29, 1980, beginning on page 6587. The purpose of the rules are to regulate action taken by the Secretary of Agriculture in controlling the extent to which cooperative marketing associations are exempt from the anti-trust laws.

Copies of the rules are available in this office.

FARM LABOR UNIONIZATION

The National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation news release reports from Washington on February 8, 1980 that four California farm workers are suing in a California Superior Court Imperial labor law. The farm workers claim that the California law allows Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers Union to force them into union membership in violation of their constitutional rights.

PARITY

USDA reports the January 15, 1980 parity ratio at 64 compared to January 15, 1979 parity ration of 73. Adjusted parity ratio for January 15, 1980 is reported at 65 (this figure includes government payments) compared to 73 a year ago.

Based on the government's 1967 index, the January 1980 parity is reported at 88 compared to 99 a year ago.

MEDICAL INSURANCE REGULATIONS

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL of February 6, 1980 reported that the Federal Trade Commission has decided to move cautiously on limiting the control doctors have over Blue Shield and similar medical plans. The panel voted merely to seek comments on whether a rule is needed and how inclusive it should be. The U.S. Congress is now considering legislation designed to trim the Federal Trade Commission's power in this area.

TRANSPORTATION REGULATIONS

The Railroad Commission of Texas has announced its intention to amend rules and regulations designed to remove any financial incentive to overload a truck.

The new proposal is to prohibit truckers from charging more than the applicable rate multiplied by the maximum weight allowed.

The regulation would also make the same limitation with regard to paying drivers. In other words, if a driver is paid on the basis of the percentage of the gross revenue for each shipment, payment would be limited to the percentage times the authorized charges oulined above. (TEXAS REGISTER, 2-12-80)

Joneses Receive Dairy Queen Award

Hollis and Sue Jones of Decatur, owners of Hollis Jones Dairy Queen Restaurants, have been honored with a special award by the Texas Dairy Queen Trade Association as the TDQTA members who "Opened the Most New Stores and Made the Largest Expansion in Number of Stores in 1979."

A plaque, made in the shape of the state of Texas, was presented to the Joneses as part of the festivities at the 1980 Texas Dairy Queen Trade Association Convention held this year in San Antonio.

James V. Burks of Texarkana, chairman of the 1980 TDQTA Convention Committee, is pictured on the right making the presentation to the Joneses.

The Joneses now are owners of 27 Dairy Queen restaurants including two DQs each in Decatur, Quanah and Vernon and one DQ each in Claude, Crosbyton, Denver City, Earth, Floydada, Fritch, Idalou, Lockney, Morton, Olton, Paducah, Ralls, Rhome, Roanoke, Seagraves, Shallowater, Slaton, Stinnett, Sunray, Wellington and Wolfforth.

The Texas Dairy Queen Trade Association is the largest organization of its type in the nation. Nearly 1,000 DQ restaurants are located in the state, approximately one-fourth of the total 4,500 Dairy Queens worldwide today.
