Toll Of Life And Property Exacted As Terrific Gales Sweep Over Great Britain

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Violent westerly gales which have been sweeping Great Britain since Friday night have resulted in 21 deaths and the injury of scores of persons in addition to heavy property losses, traffic delays and broken communication.

The effect of the storms was felt in South England, but was more in the north counties, while Ireland tonight was cut off from England by interrupted cables.

The fatalities were widely scattered, largely being the result of the collapse of walls and small buildings while others were due to strong winds that blew pedestrians and cyclists in the paths of heavy vehicles.

Proofs, chimneys and telephone poles were razed in the blow which reached a maximum of 85 miles an hour as officially reported at Holyhead.

Sanatorium Flooded.

How Will You Spend Today?

Today, recognized by the majority of the people as the day set aside for the day of rest and worship, will be spent in many different ways as usual. Will you spend it? Will you worship at some of the churches in this city, or will you carry out the plans of yesterday or maybe a week ago, to start on some trip to a distant city or possibly a long journey to some other state. Or will you put in the entire day on the golf grounds, or out in an automobile hunting, or will you just lounge around and fuss with the family all day, or loaf on the streets of Lubbock wasting your time.

It is up to you to decide. Why not attend religious services at one of the churches today. Most of them have Sunday school and preaching services before noon and again in the afternoon and evening. Avail yourself of the opportunity. You will feel benefitted and more ready for a good week's work tomorrow morning. The churches invite you.

STATE CONCLUDES IN MILLIKIN CASE

MOODY MOVES UP DATE OF ELECTROCUTION TO ALLOW A FINISH

(By Associated Press) LOCKHART, Texas, Oct. 29. (AP)—A world trial, replete with bizarre efforts to prove himself insane and escape the electric chair for murder of Mrs. Virginia Petty, reached its climax Saturday night when District Attorney Fred Blundell gave his last state witness a 3,000 word cue to say "no."

The "cue" was a tortuously winding, 25 minutes, hypothetical question as to whether Dr. Joe Wooten, alienist of Austin, the witness would consider insane a mythical man fitting Millikin's description, action and deed, as seen by Blundell since the date Millikin was convicted of murder. It was all one sentence, the prosecutor reading part time while jurors yawned.

AUSTIN, Oct. 29. (AP)—Governor Dan Moody Saturday moved the scheduled electrocution of Avery V. Millikin up to November 4 in his third reprieve proclamation for the convicted slayer of Mrs. Virginia Petty, San Antonio business woman, to allow time for completion of Millikin's sanity trial at Lockhart.

Monday, October 31, was the date for expiration of the second reprieve, but the governor was informed by the state attorney, Lockhart, that the sanity trial probably will last until the middle of next week.

FISHING BOAT IS SLICED IN TWAIN BY GREAT LINER

MIX-UP OF SIGNALS IS CAUSE OF COLLISION OFF CAPE COD
SINKS IN 4 MINUTES

(By Associated Press) BOSTON, Oct. 29. — A mysterious misunderstanding of a routine "course signal" was given tonight as the apparent cause of the loss of the Gloucester Fisherman, "Avalon", with 11 members of her crew.

The schooner was cut in two off Cape Cod this morning when rammed by the Cosulich liner "President Wilson", in a dense fog.

In a statement issued after consultation with Captain Antonio Martignoli the agent for the line here declared the liner's course had been altered when a white light was reported dead ahead and that a signal was given to show that the steamer's course had been changed.

"For some unexplained reason the fishing schooner changed her course in a similar direction," the statement said, "and came across the beam of the President Wilson, which at that time was almost stopped, precaution having already been taken to slow her up."

The schooner sank in four minutes but not before efforts had been made to lower two dories. One overturned.

The three men—only survivors of the crew of fourteen were in this boat.

According to the story of the survivors as reported by Medical Examiner George B. McGrath, after he examined the men aboard the steamer on its arrival here, the schooner had come across the bow of the President Wilson and was on the starboard track when the steamship struck her amidship. The sharp prow ploughed through the frail craft and she went down before the men could take to the boats.

The three survivors were picked up within a few minutes. The President Wilson hunted for others but found only the two bodies. The crash occurred before daylight shortly after four o'clock. According to the story told by the survivors, the schooner's running lights were in good order but a heavy fog cut down visibility.

Rescue Hope Abandoned

The steamer remained at the scene for several hours but hope of rescuing any others of the crew finally was abandoned when the headed for Boston where the three rescued men were put ashore and sent to a hospital.

The Avalon was a two masted auxiliary schooner owned by the William R. Jordan company of Gloucester; she was typical of the fishing fleet which works that port manned by a hardy crew, old and young, and fisherman from the Canadian maritime provinces. She had braved the storms of the Atlantic seaboard for nearly a quarter of a century.

SMITH CONTINUES HIS ONSLAUGHT ON UNIVERSITY

ASIDE FROM COUNTING POINTS AUSTIN LADS LEAD THE PARADE

(By Associated Press) DALLAS, Oct. 29.—Southern Methodist University of Dallas continued its victorious march through southwest conference teams today when the Mustangs defeated a great fighting machine from the University of Texas 14 to 0.

Three times the Longhorns, who fought with a new spirit on the green turf-backed Owney oval before 22,000 spectators, came within striking distance of the Mustangs' goal, but the Ponies bucked in true broncho style and held the going Longhorns.

Fifth Win For S. M. U. It was the first victory for the Mustangs this season, as they had lost a dilatory game at Shreveport to Centenary, and had won from the North Texas Teachers, Howard Payne, Rice Institute and Missouri University.

Texas came on the field probably not so strong physically as in spirit. The Longhorns battered away at the stubborn Broncho defense and the Mustangs drove the Mustangs within the shadow of their own goal, but each time lost their hard fought for opportunity to lasso the Mustangs.

The new spirit that pervaded both the Longhorns and the Mustangs' long contest was a "never say die" spirit which was the customary willingness to the field at one full pass, as a result the Mustangs were satisfied to ride round the 14-point lead by playing a defensive game during the last three quarters.

Joe Bauer, Art Spring and the Navy substitutes defeated the University of Pennsylvania today after the first line Naval forces had to be satisfied with a tie. The score was 12 to 6, a forward pass netting 76 yards in the final period deciding the issue.

Joe Bauer, Art Spring and the Navy substitutes defeated the University of Pennsylvania today after the first line Naval forces had to be satisfied with a tie. The score was 12 to 6, a forward pass netting 76 yards in the final period deciding the issue.

Neither Bauer nor Spring was in evidence when the game started. They were buried under big blue navy blankets on the sidelines and Coach Ingram made no move to take them off until late in the third period.

The Navy had slipped off in front with a touchdown in the first period only to see the game made all even when a Pennsylvania player saw a fumble and claimed it for his own, and the game was getting on its last legs with the score tied and no indication that it would be anything else today.

Yale Team Takes Win From Flashy Dartmouth Stars

NEW HAVEN, Conn. Oct. 29. (AP)—Opportunity smiled at Yale today and the Big Blue eleven, quick to grasp it, shattered Dartmouth's championship hopes with a stunning victory, 19 to 0, before a colorful crowd of 60,000 in the Yale bowl.

The Indians from Hanover, unbeaten previously and with an array herald as fit successor to their 123 titleholders, found their pet weapon, the pass, turned against them and their defense repeatedly pierced by a fast charging Eli attack that swept to three touchdowns. It was a case of nearly everything Dartmouth tried going wrong while Yale was making the most of every opportunity and "break."

Garvey is Hero Yale's highly geared attack, functioning much more smoothly and powerfully than Dartmouth's, was started on its way by the fleet, elusive Eli star, Bruce Caldwell but his understudy, Johnny Garvey of Stratford, Pa., was the hero of the Blue triumph. Garvey, stepping and slashing his way through the green defense in the most approved Caldwellian manner, scored Yale's first two touchdowns, in the second period, and came within a foot of tallying a third after he had replaced Caldwell.

A tremendous punt by Garvey, downed on Dartmouth's three yard line paved the way for the second touchdown, which came as the climax of a 25 yard advance.

Caldwell in the third period supplied the finishing touch by leading a 22-yard march to Dartmouth's goal, made possible by Charles Smith's recovery of a fumble by Mylee Green halfback.

FIGHTING LINE BALKS VISITING ELEVEN; LESLIE SMITH IS STAR IN EVERY DEPARTMENT OF GAME

BLACK, WICHITA QUARTER, ALSO LOOKS FINE AS MORAL VICTORY FOR WESTERNERS

(By Associated Press) WICHITA, Okla., Oct. 29.—The championship hopes of Bud McCallum's scrappy and flashy Coyotes, of Wichita Falls, were dimmed here yesterday as the plucky, battling, Westerner eleven cylinder machine fought his team to 12 to 12 tie game before 1,200 howling and frenzied fans on the Texas Technological College field. While the Coyotes' spirit were smothered, the Westerners' rating in the conference standing stood a little higher, even though they failed to score victorious over the visitors—for if any thing can be said one way or another it was a moral victory for the Westerners.

It was another one of those Leslie Smith days. The racy fullback who is making one of the most successful applications for all-conference fullback in the Panhandle class "A" loop, again was a triple threat demon passing, kicking and charging for consistent gains a yard against a rather strong line from a southeasterly direction, during the second and third periods stood out strong. He averaged more than 40 yards for the afternoon in punting.

Smiling Harvey Black, McCallum's general of football tactics, was equally as spectacular as he ripped, crashed and charged through the Westerner defense at periodical stages of the tilt. Black demonstrated his shiftness and stiff back by charging for the yard several times, and got lower 300 yards, tumbling Westerner tackles over the field as he continued with his attack. Williams' fleet halfback, who was sent into the game for Captain Mitchell, was a potential drive in the visiting backfield combination and counted in numerous gains. Kenneth Mills was the defensive ace of the game until he was removed, a battered and rammed hero. Three times before Mills was taken from the game Coach McCallum chose to leave the bulky backfield man in play. Mills is a gritty grinder who is reluctant to be taken from the game but his condition finally demanded his removal as he was badly shaken. Although he came out of the game the Wichita lad deserves considerable credit for checking the drives of Les Smith and Ernest Dowell in the line plays for it was his defensive work that crumbled the offensive drive time and again and forced the Westerners to the air and punt.

Substitutions—For Lubbock, Williams for M. Smith, Penney for Williams, Bell for Leggett, Williams for Mitchell, Weiler for Mills, Harvey for Williams, Leggett for Bell, Chewing for Powell.

Officials—Ettlinger (Washington and Harvard) referee; Beport (North Texas Teachers) umpire; Masey Hart (Texas) head linesman; Goodman (Texas) field judge.

Penalty Imposed On Interference

BY E. J. O'BRIEN Famous Football Referee

In rule 15 we read that before the ball is put in play the opponent must not interfere in any way with the snapperback, nor touch him nor the ball. It further states that before the ball is put in play no player shall lay his hands upon or in way delay an opponent from putting the ball in play.

When the teams have lined up, no player of either team can encroach upon this zone. This rule was brought about several years ago, because some teams when in possession of the ball had a line shift in which the men passed from one side of the line to the other. In so doing this, they would unconsciously, or otherwise, tramp the fingers and hands of the defense lineemen. Now, if they shift they must change positions behind their scrimmage line, for, if they step into that zone they should be penalized five yards.

One of the tricks of some smart defense centers has been to just touch the center or flick the ball an instant before the ball was passed or snapped back by the center. You can readily see where a center would immediately make a bad pass.

Players will try this trick, and if the referee and linesmen are not there with both eyes open, they are apt to get away with almost anything. This is most likely to happen at critical moments down near the goal line, when inexperienced officials are too anxious to watch the ball and forget that the players have a bag of tricks up their sleeves for just such places.

Georgia Tech Is Defeated Easily By Irish Eleven

(By Associated Press) SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 29. (AP)—Georgia Tech's vaunted Golden Tornado struck Notre Dame today, but proved to be little more than a small, concentrated storm against the great Hoosier eleven, being turned back on the football field by a 26 to 7 score. The stubborn southern defense wilted before the powerful thrusts of the Notre Dame's all-Americans, Flanagan, Riley and Collins, and five consecutive first downs upon their entry into the fray at the beginning of the second period foretold what was to happen. The Notre Dame second string men had been held virtually on even terms in the first 15 minutes by the Gentlemen from the South.

Notre Dame showed over its first touchdown after Collins ripped off a 26 yard, Dahman had taken a 15-yard pass from Riley and a 15-yard dash by Collins over the line. Dahman missed the try for goal.

DAILY MARKETS

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—While early advances in the cotton market today were not fully maintained, prices were generally higher on apprehensions of a cold wave in the south over Sunday and covering by recent sellers.

After selling up to 20.64 or 20 points net higher, January reacted to 20.17, but recovered part of the loss and closed at 20.37. The general market closed steady at net advances of 2 to 2 1/2 points.

The opening was steady at advances of 18 to 20 points on week-end coverings, combined with some trade buying which was supposed to include price fixing of European accounts. The market acted as if the heavy selling of yesterday had left it in a stronger technical position, and fear that freezing temperatures might work down into the belt over Sunday, no doubt stimulated the covering movement. December advanced to 20.54, while

March sold up to 20.81 of 43 points, to 33 points above yesterday's closing quotations during the early trading. The more urgent demand then seemed to subside, and there were sharp reactions under a renewal of yesterday's selling movement, which again appeared to be connected with an unsettled tone in the stock market and a feeling that it might reflect a less favorable view of the general business outlook. December broke to 20.05, while March sold off to 20.33, making declines within 1 and 4 points of Friday's closing quotations. The pressure then tapered off as if the liquidation of long accounts carried over the break of the previous day had pretty well run its course and there was a sharp recovery on a removal of the week-end covering movement. December sold up to 20.49, but the late fluctuations were very irregular and last prices showed reactions of about 23 to 24 points from the best.

Some of the buying may have been promoted by reiterated rumors that preliminary reports to one of the private crop reporting agencies pointed to a falling off in the crop indication, and there was also bullish comment on a private report that shipments to October 18 '27 losses could hardly be considered as representing less than 70 per cent of the state's crop. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance was estimated at 156,579 bales against 256,592 last year.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 20 (AP)—Advances on an unfavorable weather outlook were followed by a decline in the cotton market today when the official forecast pointed to fair weather over the week-end. December sold off from 20.52 to 20.40 but rallied in the final trading on week-end covering and closed at 20.55, 24 points net up. The general market closed steady at a net advance of 21 to 23 points.

The market opened steady. First trades showed gains of 14 to 21 points, due to relatively steady Liverpool advices. Prices continued to advance after the start when the weather map showed indications of unfavorable weather over the week-end. At the end of the first hour, January had reached 20.90 and March 20.87, 47 to 53 points.

The official forecast proved to be favorable and a long distance forecast promised good weather during the coming week. As a result prices turned easy and before the offerings were absorbed January traded to 20.45 and March 20.57, 40 to 45 points below the high.

Shorts covered rather freely in the late trading seemingly on a disposition to carry commitments over the week-end. December rallied to 20.57 and March 20.72 and closed a few points under the best of the rally.

Exports for the day totaled 71,412 bales.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—The cottonseed oil market was dull today. Trade was of a character and devoted largely to week-end evening up. Sales 2,500 barrels. The close was net unchanged to 15 points higher. Prime crude $12 1/2-1 1/2; turbine summer yellow spot 18.55; December, closed 16.75; January 16.87; March 11.95; May 11.13.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Oct. 20 (AP)—The hog trade today was generally steady. Sows and pigs were unchanged. The cattle and sheep markets were nominal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—Cotton goods were quiet today with gray cloths slightly irregular. Yarns were a little unsettled by the course of cotton markets. Burlap markets showed a better tone in trading. Raw silk was unchanged.

CHARLESTON DANCE CONTEST

Judged by England's Leader

Miss Leslie Sutton, chief judge of the Charleston contest for England, writes: "My unique position in the dancing world today would never have happened if I had not taken care of my health. I constantly had that tired out, depressed feeling, with sick headache, indigestion, biliousness caused by the poisons of constipation. Your mild laxative has been of valuable assistance in keeping my system in a daily healthy condition."

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF SOUTH PLAINS IS GOOD

FARMERS FACE HARVEST SEASON ANKER STATES

CONFIDENCE OVER THIS SECTION BEST IN FIVE YEARS

Farmers of Lubbock county in the South Plains in general are in better financial condition than in any five years, and are entering the harvest season in an era of prosperity almost equal to that of the early 1920s. This is the statement of F. A. Anker, president of the Citizens National Bank of this city, who since his connection with the institute, has been an observant of the financial condition of the farmers of this section. He stated that farmers have learned their lesson in the past two or three years to the advantage of prosperity. In his opinion, has placed them in a position to take full advantage of the prosperity that is now being realized. The financial condition of the farmers of this section is the best in five years, and is the result of the fact that farmers have learned their lesson in the past two or three years to the advantage of prosperity. LOCAL BATTERY WILL FIRE BIG CANNONS TODAY

JOHNSTON RANCH WILL BE SCENE OF FALL PRACTICING

Recalling days of 1917-18 when the shriek of the shrapnel drowned out the buzz of industry, members of Battery "C", the local unit of the 11th Field Artillery of the Texas National Guard, will present their annual firing exhibition on the Johnston ranch, 12 miles southeast of Lubbock, Sunday morning beginning at 9 o'clock and lasting for four hours. Two hundred rounds of 75 millimeter caliber shrapnel shells will be fired during the shoot, and 200 rounds of machine gun bullets, including tracer bullets. The firing site will be located just off the caprock about a mile below the ranch house and parking room for more than 1000 automobiles will be available allowing each a good view of the targets.

Tests Aid School Program In Canyon

CANYON, October 29.—Giving intelligence tests is a regular part of the routine work in Canyon public schools. Superintendent Jim Webb stated a few days ago that the records of the school now show the chronological, mental, and physical ages of each child from the first grade through the high school. It has been found in Canyon that intelligence tests make it much easier to arrange class work so that every child will have an opportunity to do his very best work. The "intelligence" which is gathered through these tests makes it possible to place the unusually bright child where he will not become indifferent or lazy and at the same time place the child of slower mentality where he will not be discouraged by his slowness or being discouraged.

TEXAS CROPS THIS YEAR WILL BRING MORE THAN A BILLION DOLLARS; BIG YIELDS REPORTED ALL OVER STATE

More than a billion dollars! This is the estimate of the value of crops in Texas alone this year made on the basis of the yield estimate of the crop reporting board, sold at current market prices. This is the third time in history that Texas crops will bring more than a billion dollars in return. No other state has yet approximated this production of wealth in farm products, and it is seldom that any two states combined have had so large a total. The Lone Star State is credited with 37 per cent of the 1927 cotton crop of the entire nation, while Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, and New Mexico combined will produce only 19.5 per cent more.

Miss Thompson's body was found a few feet away. Erwin, 45, a farmer, saved James Jeffrey, also a negro, 31, from suffocating at Mount Sylvan, February 13, 1925. Jeffrey was overcome by gas in a 55-foot well. Erwin was lowered on a windlass rope fastened around his hips. Holding his breath, he removed the rope from himself and fastened it around Jeffrey, then held to the rope and climbed the wall as the rope was drawn up. Jeffrey was revived. Slaton Women Hostesses To County Federation; John T. Orr, Dr. Paul W. Horn And Mrs. Warner Speakers

With addresses during the day directed to subjects of particular interest to club women at this time, the Lubbock County Federation members attended one of the most successful meetings in the history of this organization yesterday at El Paso.

Among the speakers were John T. Orr, of Dallas, president of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association, who brought greetings from that association; Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the Technological college, who made a comprehensive talk on "Vocational Education"; Mrs. W. E. Price, of Lubbock, president of the seventh district of Texas Federated Clubs, whose address was "What the Federation has meant to me"; and Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner, of Claude, who spoke on the subject, "The Next Step in Women's Clubs" giving an inspirational address.

Interspersed with these talks were musical numbers, readings and shorter addresses.

125 At Luncheon

At noon the Slaton club women were hostesses at a luncheon in the Slaton club house and served about 125 guests. A program was given during the noon hour under the direction of Mrs. R. W. Ragsdale, president of the Wednesday study club of that city.

Mrs. R. A. Baldwin, president of the County organization, presided during the day and at the luncheon. The program was given at the First Methodist church.

The morning session opened with invocation by Rev. W. M. Lane, pastor of the Slaton Methodist church, after which Mrs. S. H. Adams, of Slaton, welcomed the visitors. Mrs. W. H. Meador, of Lubbock, responded for the county.

Miss Mae Murfee, who went to California on an expedition studying cooperative marketing reported upon her trip and Mr. Orr, and Dr. Horn spoke. Mrs. R. L. Douglas, of Lubbock sang two selections.

Program at Noon

At the noon program Mrs. Bessie Jenkins, of Pflugkade, district chairman of County Cooperation, spoke on the work of her department, and Miss Blanche Bean, of the Avalanche-Journal, made a short talk on "The Press and Women's Clubs." Howard Hoffman played two violin selections, accompanied by Miss Grace Bailey, L. A. Wilson sang a solo, selections by Miss Janette Ramsey, Miss Margaret Stone played a violin solo accompanied by Miss Vera Murfee, and Miss Alene Phillips gave a reading, responding to applause with an encore.

Distinct officers and other distinguished visitors were introduced. Among these latter were Mrs. Elmo Caudle, of Hale Center, district chairman of motion pictures; Mrs. Elias Maggard, of Hale Center, district chairman of credentials; and Mrs. Lon V. Smith, of Pflugkade, district chairman in arranging for the entertainment of the General Federation in San Antonio next spring.

Hear of Biennial

The afternoon session opened with the club collect said in unison, after which Miss Frances Guffin, of Slaton, played a violin solo, accompanied by Miss Jeanette Ramsey. After an address by Mrs. Price, Mrs. Smith spoke on "Our Coming Biennial" and Mesdames H. B. Hawkins and I. F. Holland, of Lubbock, sang a duet.

Following Mrs. Warner's talk, Miss Louise Baird, County Home Demonstration agent, talked on "The Work Ahead of Us." Misses Bailey and Ramsey, of Slaton, played a piano solo just preceding a general business meeting.

Delegates who had registered at noon Saturday included the following from Lubbock, in addition to those appearing on the program: Mesdames E. G. Moore, Paul W. Horn, E. L. Robertson, Sam Lightfoot, R. G. Shelton, J. C. Grandberry, George Field, Elmer Conley, G. C. Wolfarth, Russell Myrick, W. C. Stevens, H. T. Kimbrell, J. S. Johnson, W. H. Meador, Kenneth Kimbrell, Clementine Vaughn, T. E. Zellner, F. V. Brown, R. T. Campbell, C. Y. Partain, L. S. Harker, George R. Bean, E. R. Haynes, G. M. Conroy, and Hub Jones.

Other registrants were as follows: See SLATON WOMEN, Page 3

The Woman's Day By Alene Summer

Somewhat the selections of Eva La Gallienne, actress and organizer of the Civic Repertory theater, as the outstanding woman of 1935, the woman who has achieved most for America, leaves the mass of people a little cold though they acclaimed some previous awards such as to the woman who won the title one year for her work with drug addicts, etc. The point is that heart rather than head rules. People in the mass get a much bigger kick out of service to other human beings, bodies than they do to their souls and minds.

ELOPES WITH OFFICE GIRL

Here's a wagger that many a wife as she reads the morning paper didn't like the looks of that. Can't she get a woman's name out of her head? About Mrs. G. Candler, Jr. heir to a fat share of the Coca Cola fortune, being the third Candler to rap her, being the third Candler to do the same thing. Laugh as you will at the idea, most wives have a firm belief that all women in their husbands' offices, constituting a menace to their homes and happiness. And probably they'd feel even worse if they knew the truth which is that the average female office worker feels sorry for the woman who has to be married to her boss. Sour grapes, maybe, maybe not!

"LITTLE WOMEN'S FATHER"

The father of the "Little Women" made famous by Louisa May Alcott's book by that name has been lauded at as an impractical dreamer. But the picture which Honore Willis Morrow draws of a woman about in her new book, "The Father of Little Women," makes one wish that all fathers would take as much interest in their own offspring.

Among his papers Mrs. Morrow found a tablet after tablet filled with the father's analyses and wonderings about his children, "a father's love, a father's guidance, a father's instinct yet unenlightened by love." The majority of fathers assume that mothers will do the investigation, if any of their children's souls.

COLONEL'S LADY AND JUDY

The highest of officials must have written over our rich folks, never have the magazines been so filled with endorsement ads from this Lady Goodwife who always sleeps on a blank mattress, and that Lady Woosie who never retires without greasing her chest with Blank Kurets Kroup.

It's the same old story of everyday living in live according to a standard of living which they can't afford, and trying desperately to get the funds somehow. Mrs. John Smith tries to give lobster party luncheons on her husband's $175 a month salary, and Lady Woosie throws a Versailles week-end party with gushing fountain champagne, and all the trimmings, costing as many hundred thousand dollars as her year's income, and one lady is just about as worried as the other.

DON'T LIKE GILDA

"Poland," a magazine issued by American Poles, used a picture of the famous Polish actress, Gilda Gray, on the cover. Gilda's pictures in previous issues had always been serious men like Paderewski or a great Polish general. The Poles "got all worked up about it" which may or may not prove that the Poles have better sense than some other nations which would rather say claim to be Gilda Gray than a Paderewski. In proof thereof observe our own magazine covers.

Man-Created Feathers And Fuss Have Their Purpose In Styles Of The Fall Fashion Moves To Minimize Woman's Increasing Masculinity, Experts Think

BY BETSY SCHUYLER
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 29—I heard a well-known society woman venture the opinion the other day that the new, lavishly beautiful modes for women had been designated by men courtiers—for a purpose! They want to make women more old-fashioned, womanly again. "Give women ruffs and feathers and they just can't be as stridently masculine as some of them have become of late."

There may be some such hidden purpose in the new modes. But what of the styles that have not been so indisputably attractive nor so flattering since anyone alive today can remember.

Perhaps more dignity and femininity in costumes will make the debutantes let their hair grow and their eyes become charming again. Having seen some of the most ravishing of gowns lately, I'd say women should take heart.

The Season's Major Theme

This new formality, however, and the feminine interpretation of it, is the season's major theme. Sports frocks, lingerie, shoes, hats, gowns, coats and wraps all catch this theme and add their own notes to the symphony of dignified, formal beauty in women's costumes.

All the costumes worn so far by the Parisian "Vanderbilt" recently arrived from Paris with her husband, sound this formality in their cut and trimming. I saw her on Park Avenue strolling with Mrs. Vanderbilt in a charming beige costume—dress, cape coat and hat all with just that chic touch that the ordinary costume never achieves.

Her coat, for instance, had a plain neck, a flaring cape collar that covered the sleeves and dipped slightly in the rear, and then fluffy fur cuffs. Her pumps were of the new Brazilian brogue suede to match her cuffs and the banding on her soles had a touch of the same tone. A black velvet dinner gown she wore the other night was elaborately studded with steel. Even tweed coats had the more formal note of the season. Mrs. Ogden Mills wore a stunning new model at the Empire Rock Horse Show that had the newest touch of curly lamb on its collar and vest.

The tweed had various tones of gray and green in it, with only a fleck of black. It was, however, a model that slenderized her figure, a quality that tweed never used to have.

But even street suits conform to the season's demand. I saw a group of debutantes stepping into the Ritz for lunch the other day. Among them was Jean Ickelheimer, in a tan and beige tailored suit that featured the new "Vanderbilt" eight-point collar. Her revers and stufferings down the front that ended in neat arrows of brown. Her skirt had three box pleats from its yoke, one in front, one on each side.

Collar Hang Down the Back

With a few more of the new dress blouses—beige, soft, hand-dipped with bandings of the dull material for trimming and a scarf collar that tied and hung down her back.

Edna Brokaw's new fall coat of mixed brown material sponsors a new use for one wide hand-dipped down the front and across the back of the collar and a flaring cape back edged in fur.

Evening gowns, in their décolletage and hemlines, are showing infinite variety and sometimes daring charm.

A modified oval back on the white chiffon and crystal frock Mrs. Marcus Daly wore to the Embassy club lately was quite new. It was narrow but extended well to the low waistline.

Neckline Framed in Strass

Mrs. James Deering looked stunning in a white moire evening gown with strass outlining the usual neckline and the complicated folds of the slightly bouffant gown. A plain tailored belt with a huge sparkling buckle added a different note.

Even sports clothes are growing more careful of their strass. A yellow and oxidized combination of color in jersey and tweed was startlingly lovely on Miss Martha Hennessey at a recent horse show. The jumper took unto itself a high neck which added dignity to the whole costume and the tweed skirt was trimly pleated all the way around.

All children in the public schools of Lubbock are to be given physical examinations within the next few weeks and the Parent-Teacher council of the city is planning a follow-up campaign, in an effort to promote the best interests of the children physically. It has been announced by Mrs. E. W. Camp, president of the city P-T-A.

Miss Mary Worster, a health nurse, is in the city for several weeks, having been sent here from Austin for this examination work.

In examining the children, she fills out cards which will be kept in Lubbock and which will be shown to parents of the children with suggestions of how to correct deficiencies. Mrs. W. R. Potter, Candidate For State Club Presidency, Announces Policies; Is To Stress Education

Mrs. W. R. Potter of Bowie, candidate for the presidency of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, on the eve of the El Paso convention and State election, announced certain definite policies she will carry out if elected.

Her first objective will be, she has stated emphatically on a number of occasions, a fair, democratic government with a board membership that will be thoroughly representative of every district in the state. Mrs. Potter sees into the election free from any and all campaign promises. Her friends have given her glad and royal support because of their firm belief in her ability to serve the Federation as its leader and because of their conviction that her record of service merits, as does that of few women in the State, recognition by the women whom she has served faithfully, efficiently and devotedly for eighteen years.

Elect Envoys To Club Convention

With delegates being elected for the annual convention of the State Federation of Women's Clubs in El Paso November 7 to 11, and reports being made out by club women to be sent to this convention, interest is becoming paramount locally.

Price, 1708 Broadway, president of the seventh district. The second district, which includes Dallas and is usually one of the strongest at conventions, probably will not be as well represented as these two larger districts this fall, she said.

Tomorrow Is Halloween: Juvenile Element Of City Romping Through Anticipatory And Carnival Even

The ghosts will take their annual and proscribed stroll tomorrow evening to the particular delight of the juvenile element of the city, who have anticipated this event with numerous and merry parties during the week-end.

Better even than Christmas, that the occasion is less formal, Halloween when one may dress costume and frolic with a carelessness that is peculiar to one season of the year.

No other event leaves us in to the imagination in the way of costumes and fantastic decorations as does this event all over the world, and the carnival spirit found in the mass costume parties.

In order that all hosts and hostesses might have an opportunity to entertain during the one week-end, the children are free to their books for a few evenings, parties have been given since Thursday.

Merry Party Given Home Of Cecile Home Friday

One of the most pretentious of the week-end parties given during the week-end was in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecile Home, 1602 Avenue X, Friday evening. Misses Cecile Home and Elizabeth Camp were hostesses.

The guests gathered in appropriate and bizarre costumes, were met at the door, lighted candles furnishing the light for entrance. Fortunes were told during the evening, the usual Halloween games played and refreshments served.

Guests were Misses Ruth Milder, Mylander, Ruth Reed, Frances Gunn, Virginia Smallwood, Margaret Hughes, Betty Hamilton, Melba Mae Tatum, Nancy Collier, Jean Shelley Jennings, Louise Galloway, Helen Stark, Lena and Doris Perkins, Martha Alice Penney, Ruth May, Elnora Henderson, Avena Scott and Mary Beth Sheel, and Floyd Gunn, Lyle and Lynn Hardgrave, Max Wagborne, William Johnson, Ronald Smallwood, Frank Maddox, Carroll Weaver, Lottin Haug, Ray Johnson, Jimmie Roberts, Robert Crawford, Dallas Chesler, Homer Duncan, Charles Adams, Marvin Bann and William Thomas.

Fortune tellers were Misses Olive Nager and Ruth Forbes.

Jack Moxley Is Host Celebrates Ninth Birthday

Celebrating his birthday on Halloween jointly, Jack Moxley, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Moxley, was host yesterday afternoon to a group of friends. Halloween games were played, favors were whistles on each plate where Halloween cakes were served with moon candles. As the little boys frolicked through the afternoon, each was wearing a fantastic cap, presented to him by the host as he arrived.

Mrs. Moxley was assisted in giving this party by Miss Virginia McLean and guests were Jim and Ed Shaw, Robert Reeves, Walter Myrick, Ed T. Leidigh, Douglas Blocker, Bobbie Robertson, Elmer Holman, Duke Moreman, Herbert Leaverton, Jim Bob Brewer, Clarence Symes, Buster and John Robert Moxley.

Miss C. Ratliff Is Hostess To Class With Party

About 40 youngsters attended, dressed in costumes favoring the Halloween season, and were served lollypops, apples, soda and popcorn balls.

The Ratliff home was gay with Halloween decorations and lighting.

A New Addition To Our Service. Equipment For Cleaning And Blocking Hats Is Now Ready. Ever mindful of means by which we can increase our service, this new equipment is now ready to give the very highest character of service in allowing men to get more wear out of their hats at a cost that is at a minimum. Hats worn by men today, because of the softness of the fabric, and light colorings, easily get soiled and out of shape, but with the installation of this new equipment, they are restored to their original shape and color, without any offensive odor remaining. Have You Tested Our Dry Cleaning Facilities? No Dry Cleaning Plant could give you better work and if you haven't tried us as yet, you're missing a service that adds beauty and good appearance to your wearables at an economical price. WOMEN OF CITY PLEASSED WITH MRS. CHITWOOD'S TEACHINGS IN COOKERY; RECIPES PRACTICAL AND DIFFERENT

Another of Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood's cooking schools has closed in Lubbock, larger than any other with an approximate attendance of 2300, and attracting more interest than any such school in the history of the city.

FAVOR HER RETURN

A question at the last class of this year's school as to whether or not those attending wished this year to return, brought a hearty affirmative response, and expressed the opinion of women who attended were that they had benefited from the lessons taught at the school and that they would return if she comes back to Lubbock.

WOMEN OF CITY PLEASSED WITH MRS. CHITWOOD'S TEACHINGS IN COOKERY; RECIPES PRACTICAL AND DIFFERENT

Mrs. Chitwood is a nationally known food expert, home economist and scientist and she works out many of the recipes given in her schools during a few weeks spent in a laboratory each year. The remainder of the year is spent in conducting schools throughout the nation. She went to Buffalo, N. Y., from Lubbock this year and is conducting a school for the Buffalo Times this week.

RAILROAD CENTER OF SOUTH PLAINS NEVER CONTENT TO STAND STILL, IS BUSILY ENGAGED IN IMPROVING CITY

By JACK HAWKINS

Avalanche-Journal Staff

VIEW, Oct. 29.—Back in 1911

the "iron monster" first roaring its newly laid riders of the South Plains, railroad has paused for a brief moment in the southern part of the country and now it is on their railway map

division plan for the south branch of the Panhandle and Fe.

In such a beginning—and in short space of 16 years—has the now thriving little city of Slaton, whose 5,500 inhabitants are all citizens, and whose population is growing at the rate of 100 per cent a year, is a proud possession of the South

Plains.

Payroll is Large

Slaton began as a railroad town, and it still is, with the city walls of the largest Santa

Fe. station on the Panhandle division. The Santa Fe

is an impressive one on the northside of town, with these shops and a large cotton mill, and employment for 600 men amounting approximately $1,

through its annual payroll of $1,000,000.

With these large shops

and the total railroad investment of $4,000,000—the existence of a flourishing business, a large cotton mill, and other institutions which indicate the business importance of the town, and the substantial wealth of the vicinity.

Rail Connections Good

Excellent rail connections, no doubt, have had something to do for the growth of Slaton. Connections are available to Floydoton, Lamesa and Hildeso-

ville, and to the terminus of the Panhandle branch, at Amarillo.

The Lamesa branch runs

direct from Slaton.

A program of expansion awaits completion of the Santa Fe line this year. The program will cost a total expenditure of more than $200,000, and calls for a substantial increase in track, a new table, additional machinery in shops, and other improvements.

The yards, as the shops and facilities are collectively designated by the Slatonites cover a wide area—a half mile or more.

Slaton is Superintendent

The superintendent of the shops is J. C. Barton, formerly of Wichita, Kansas. Charles Taylor is the chief clerk; Gus Miller, master mechanic at the shops, and W. H.

Smith the local Santa Fe agent.

Attesting the large yield of cotton annually experienced in the region lying about Slaton, there are compress, cotton oil mill, and five gins located in the city limits, poultry and egg industry.

"The poultry and egg production hereabouts has approximately doubled in magnitude this year," averred the above mentioned Mr. Wilson.

Poultry Show to Be Held

Indicative of the interest shown in this "side line" as some farmers are inclined to characterize it, a poultry show is to be held here on December 1, 2 and 3. One thousand entries are expected for the display, plans for which are now in the formative stage.

The livestock industry is negligible around Slaton. Most of the farms have a few beef cattle and some hogs but in practically every case it is a side line rather than a main source of revenue. Recently, however, there has been more of a tendency toward an increase in the number of dairy cattle.

A ready market for milk and cream is furnished through the three cream shipping stations operated in Slaton.

Plenty of Water Available

Irrigation has not yet been utilized as a means of cultivation. However, an abundant supply of water is found at a depth of from 90 to 200 feet. It is from this underground source that the municipal supply is derived. Electric pumps are utilized by the city.

There are several wholesale businesses of considerable magnitude in Slaton. One of the largest is the Slaton Wholesale Grocery, of which

W. E. Hestand is manager. Another is the Williams Auto Supply company, a wholesale auto accessory house. Floyd Williams is manager. Then there is a wholesale bottling work the name of which is the Lockney-Elliott Bottling company, and the owners of which are C. T. Lockney and M. L.

Elliott.

Improve Phone System

Silent testimony of the prestige

now enjoyed by Slaton is found in the fact that at the present time

Rubber Boomerang Hits England In Retaliation For Panic In The U. S. In 1923 Elusive Market That Snapped At American Buyers Strikes Back At British

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Early in 1923, it was America. Now it is England that has become alarmed about rubber.

Again there is too much of it on the market, prices have dropped, profits have become smaller and dividends have, therefore, been cut.

Worse yet, the future presents

even a less rosy picture to the British rubber growers. Here are the facts:

The United States is the world's greatest consumer of crude rubber. The bulk of the rubber comes from Malaya, Ceylon, and the Dutch East Indies. With the free and unrestricted growing of all the rubber that the plantations could produce there was this market condition: More production than consumption—low price for crude rubber.

In 1923, the "Stephenson scheme" was put into practice.

Under this all the British rubber plantations were to restrict their output to a percentage of the average growth. This was to bring about:

Less production than consumption—high prices for crude rubber.

British Debt Repaid

At first this worked beautifully. America paid the piper.

It has been said that the increase in prices America had to pay for rubber equaled what the British government is paying us in squaring up its war debts.

How well the Stephenson scheme worked can be shown by a few figures:

1923—Consumption, 420,000 tons;

production, 413,000; average price,

31 1-2 cents per pound.

1924—Consumption 470,000 tons;

production, 421,000; average price,

29 cents.

1925—Consumption 522,500 tons;

production, 414,200; average price,

68 1-2 cents.

1926—Consumption, 546,000 tons;

production, 417,000 tons; average price, 50 cents.

It will be seen that last year more had been made nervous by the

MOTORISTS, PARENTS AND TEACHERS URGED TO DISCOURAGE "LIFT" PLEA OF SCHOOL CHILDREN; DANGER CITED

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 29—

"Gimme a lift, Mister."

This plea, says a statement issued by National Headquarters of the American Automobile Association

today, again is echoing and reaching down the streets and highways of the Nation as millions of children troop daily to and from their schools. "The appeal of a child,

this type like all the others, is hard to resist but the interests of safety demand that the motorists be firm in his refusal to accede to it" says the statement.

Clubs Asked to Aid

Directed specifically toward the 939 clubs that comprise the membership of the A. A. A. and general public with heads of schools and teachers as a whole, the statement asks that the cooperation of all agencies and individuals concerned with street and highway safety be "entailed in a continuance of the campaign launched last year by the A. A. A. to stamp out the practice of children of asking for lifts, one of the greatest menaces to child safety that exists today."

This cooperation was sought and given in all parts of the country last year. The A. A. A. heads declare. When attention was called to the grave hazards involved in this thoughtless practice of school children, motorists, parents and teachers generally, called behind their motor clubs, and the result of this unity was a marked success of the campaign, the statement says. The summer, however, saw a let-down in this sphere of activity, and the reopening of schools has created a need for renewed effort, it is pointed out.

Enormous Dangers

"A. A. A. clubs, concerned with the interests of both the motorist and the general public, should take the lead in the movement to break up this practice," says the statement. "The club will find that once it points out the enormous dangers incident to this child action and the ways in which motorists, parents and teachers can be helpful in bringing it to an end

these groups will be quick to meet their respective responsibilities.

The part of the motorist is to drive carefully when passing through school zones and to refuse rides to those children who ask.

This is difficult to do, but the constant refusal on the part of all motorists soon will discourage the lift-seeker and this is the greatest kindness the motor car owner could do any child. Drivers should remember that they are responsible in case of accidents involving their youthful passengers.

One Lift Leads to Another

"They do not need to be reminded of the dangers of perpetuating this practice by catering to it. Once given a lift, the child repeats his request daily. At first, he may have

42 STATES CHANGE COLOR OF PLATES

THOUSANDS OF FACTORIES ARE BUSY ON LICENSING FOR 25,000,000 AUTOS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 2.—With thousands of factories going full tilt on the production of license plates for America's 25,000,000 motor vehicles in 1928, the American Automobile Association announced today that forty-two states have adopted a new color combination scheme.

This decided preference for change, whether blonde, brunette, or the mahogany shades betwixt, between and beyond is shown by an examination of 1928 license plates received at A. A. A. headquarters and now on parade there.

As told, there will be twenty-three different color combinations, six states and the District of Columbia retaining last year's color, but reversing them as to background and letter-numerals. No single color motif can be said to prevail, but whether by preference or accident two combinations tied for first place in popularity, six states selecting a dark blue background with white letter numerals and six selecting green background with white letter numerals.

Five states selected white background with black letter numerals; four selected yellow and black, and four selected orange and black. The combination of orange and black which was popular for many years on account of the claims of visibility made for it, has apparently suffered a sharp diminution in popularity, according to the A. A. A.

The 5,650 ships that passed through the Panama Canal during 1926 paid a total of $24,289,603.36, of which the United States government made $16,267,845.40 in profit.

Great New Chrysler "62" at $1095 gives you more in performance, beauty, comfort, safety and long life than cars of other makes costing many hundreds of dollars more.

Impossible, you say! But a careful comparison of its features against features of sixes of other makes costing even up to $2000 will speedily convince you!

How can this be done, you ask? Chrysler's engineering and manufacturing plan of Standardized Quality, passes on to its cars of lower price the important developments of its own cars of higher price.

As a result in the "62" you get a combination of fine-car features which previously cost several hundred dollars more even in a Chrysler and which are still not available in any other make unless you pay very much more than $1095.

It's easy to convince yourself of this. See the Great New Chrysler "62." Ride in it. Test it in any way you choose. Above all, check these features with those of any six of other make, even up to $2000. You will then readily understand the reason for its most sensational public preference.

S. S. VAN DINE, The Narrator

Suspicion falls on Miss St. Clair when her gloves and handbag are found at the scene of the murder, but Vance demonstrates by measurements that the murderer must have been approximately six feet tall. Mrs. Platz tells of a box of jewelry she had seen on the table and which has since disappeared. Pfyfe tells Markham that Captain Leacock had once threatened to kill Benson.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV
Pfyfe looked at him coldly, but only a vacant countenance met his gaze.

"I am acquainted with the gentleman," he replied haughtily. "Was Colonel Ostrander present at this delightful little social affair of yours?" Vance's tone was artlessly innocent.

"Now that you mention it, I believe he was," admitted Pfyfe, and lifted his eyebrows inquisitively.

But Vance was again staring curiously out of the window. Markham, annoyed at the interruption, attempted to re-establish the conversation on a more amiable and practical basis. But Pfyfe thought long and hard before he gave information to give.

He insisted constantly on bringing the talk back to Captain Leacock, and, despite his eloquent protestations, it was obvious he attached more importance to the threat than he chose to admit.

Markham questioned him for fully an hour, but could learn nothing else of a suggestive nature.

When Pfyfe rose to go Vance turned from his contemplation of the outside world, and, bowing slightly, let his eyes rest on the other with inexpressible good-nature.

"Now that you are in New York, Mr. Pfyfe, and were so unfortunate as to be unable to arrive earlier, I assume that you will remain until after the investigation."

Pfyfe's studied and habitual calm gave way to a look of oily astuteness.

"I hadn't contemplated doing so. It would be most desirable—if you could arrange it," urged Markham, though I am sure he had no intention of making the request until Vance suggested it.

Pfyfe hesitated, and then made an elegant gesture of resignation. "Certainly I shall remain. When you have further need of my services, you will find me at the Ansonia."

He spoke with exalted confidence, and magnanimously conferred upon Markham a parting smile. But the smile did not spring from within. It appeared to have been adjusted upon his features by the unseen hands of a sculptor; and it affected only the muscles about his mouth.

When he had gone Vance gave Markham a look of suppressed mirth.

"Elegance, facility and golden cadence." But put not your faith in posey, old dear. Our Chocronian friend is an unmitigated fashioner of deceptions.

"If you're trying to say that he's a smooth liar," remarked Heath. "I don't agree with you. I think that story about the captain's threat is straight goods."

"Oh, that? Of course, it's true. And, of course, Markham, the knightly Mr. Pfyfe was fully disappointed when you didn't insist on his revealing Miss St.

less in inflection and unadorned, like those of a man discussing a neutral matter; but all of us, I think, received the impression that he had a strong personal dislike for Pfyfe.

"Now that you mention it, I think he did make some motion of the kind."

"Did you see the gun?" pursued Heath.

"No, I can't say that I did. Markham pursued the next question. "Do you think Captain Leacock capable of the act of murder?"

"Hardly," Major Benson answered with emphasis. "Leacock is a cold-blooded man, and with whom the fit occurred is more capable of such an act than he is."

A short silence followed, broken by Vance.

"What do you know, Major, about this class of fashion and mold of form, Pfyfe? He appears a rare bird. Has he a history, or is his presence his life's document?"

"Leander Pfyfe," said the major, "is a typical specimen of the modern young do-nothing. I say young, though I imagine he's around 40."

He was pampered in his upbringing—had everything he wanted, I believe; but he became restless, and followed several different fads till he tired of them.

"He was two years in South Africa hunting big game, and I think wrote a book recounting his adventures. Since then he has done nothing that I know of. He married a wealthy show woman some years ago—for her money, I imagine. The woman's father controls the purse-strings, and holds him down to a rigid allowance. Pfyfe's a waster and an idler, but Alvin seemed to find some attraction in the man."

GRAHAM TO BUILD NEW LIGHT TRUCK

HALF TON DELIVERY CAR IS ADDED TO MAKE FIVE DIFFERENT CAPACITIES

Graham Brothers, the truck division of Dodge Brothers, Inc., today announces the addition to its line of a 1-2-ton panel delivery car that is said to be a revelation in appearance and sharpness of performance. The new car is a quick pick-up that makes a peculiarly adaptable to operation in heavy city traffic. Other features are the economy in which it can be operated, a front wheelbase which permits turning in a circle with a radius less than 20 feet and the convenient way in which the body is built to facilitate loading and unloading.

The new Graham Brothers delivery car follows the latest trends in design and construction. It is built to give the appearance of length and lowness, riding comfort and ease of control for the driver have been emphasized in its construction. It is powered by the famous Dodge motor which is recognized by Dodge Brothers in its cylinder line. Exceptionally high acceleration and great speed are claimed for this motor when incorporated into the Dodge Brothers cars. These qualities were recently proved when a Dodge car won the stock car race on four cylinder cars on the "At-City" speedway with an average speed of 67.45 miles per hour.

The allowable speed is 45 miles per hour which is recognized for this type of vehicle. This motor develops 35 to 40 like horsepower and features advances in design as the five-bearing crankshaft, light aluminum expansion, water pump at rear of the motor and box spring folding. The engine is equipped with air cleaner.

Smith Boy To Try For Big Trip

HEREFORD, Oct. 28.—Herford, fourteen, is making a bid for a free trip to the International Stock Show at Chicago, which is being offered by the Santa Fe railroad. Young East has been nominated as Deal Smith county's representative club boy for 1927, and in his record book Wednesday to A. and M. college for instruction.

Herford exhibited the Grand Champion Hereford bull at the Smith county fair in September, with his fine bred Anxiety 4th Herford calf, and also won a free trip to the Dallas Fair for exhibiting the best Hereford calf at the show.

Last year Ralph Wolfe of Hereford won the coveted trip to Chicago, and young East's record in many ways is better than the one established by Wolfe last year, according to County Agent R. O. Gamble.

NASH DONATED TO SWEDISH PRINCE

SCANDINAVIAN WORKMEN AT FACTORY VISIT CAR ON RECENT VISIT

When Prince William of Sweden visited Kenosha, Wis., recently on his tour of the country, His Royal Highness was presented with a Nash Ambassador by Scandinavian workmen of the Nash Motors company. The gift, a complete surprise to the prince, apparently touched him deeply.

"I, why, really, I don't know what to say," said Prince William when he had been informed that the new car which silently glided up in front of him was to be his. The informal presentation was made by W. H. Alford, vice-president of the Nash Motors company in behalf of the Scandinavian employees, and the royal guest, recovering his composure, addressed the men who had played an important role in the building of the car and had participated in the presentation.

"Nothing that I can remember has ever touched me more deeply than the gift of this fine automobile from you Americans of the Scandinavian race," he said. "It is not often that a man receives so fine a present as a splendid automobile and every time I step on the gas, as you express it over here, I will recall this happy occasion. I cannot help but feel proud of the Scandinavian in America; everywhere I go on my tour of this country I find they have given a good account of themselves and that in America as at home they are splendid citizens."

SERVICE

ALSO I heard the voice of the Lord saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I; send me.

God's call to service is universal, going out to every man and woman with its challenge of love and its promise of a reward that is rich beyond all human imagination.

The call to service reaches us in various ways and through all manner of channels. To Elisha, one of the greatest of God's servants, the call came while he was engaged in his routine farm work.

There are many who steadfastly refuse to listen to God's call to service because in their own estimation they are unfitted for any kind of service which would be acceptable to the Lord.

OUR CAREER There is something almost pathetic in the wistfulness and the demanding eagerness with which young people challenge us to give a word of counsel.

Whether the young man and the young woman really believe that anyone can solve the problem for them is a question. Perhaps somewhere in the background of the mind there is a sense that the best any friend can do is just to let it be brought out and turned around in discussion.

is a spiritual direction toward what we were meant to be, and in this sense what we were meant to be is usually just what we are; we would not be anything else.

The whole question is suggested by two persons who were recently seen. One has come late to his career. For nearly a quarter of a century he has kept himself ready to use his opportunity when it came.

It is rather difficult to say to such a person (probably it is unnecessary even to try to give youth a glimpse of middle-age experience) that all this straining at the tether, all this brilliant impatience, all this generation of high effort, is not solid performance at all, but practice, training.

And one of the matters which we understand and which may perhaps be reduced to words in such a form as to help those who are on the brink of life, and those who are wondering why things do not immediately respond to their imperious command-one of the elements of experience which may perhaps be passed across from the more mature condition to the less mature condition is this: Life is a series of plantings, and what your restive desire may be planting now will take root and grow and come to flower at a time when it may be you have forgotten that you ever planted it.

What a man sows he shall reap-it is not a threat, it is a promise. And earnest, ambitious people are sowing all the time. One of the surprising qualities of life is that men reap things they have forgotten they ever sowed. They plant the seed of desire and expectation, but because they do not immediately see the fruit they grow weary of waiting and turn their attention elsewhere; but the seed is a living thing and grows-forgotten or not, it grows, and in due time it comes to flower and fruit.

COURTESY, GRATITUDE The two cheapest things in this life are Courtesy and Gratitude. Perhaps it is because we are prone to despise things that cost nothing that we use so little of both these essentials to politeness.

How often in your daily relation ships do you say "Please"? Do you say it to your wife or to your children? Do you use it in talking to your parents or the other members of your family? Why not? I know a business man, who if for no other reason I count among my rarest acquaintances, who has spent thousands of dollars in time and money just saying "Please."

There is another man who always says "Thank you." He makes a particular point of saying it to people who are paid to give him service. He can call over the telephone to operators who have not heard his voice for months and the operator will answer him by name because his unfeeling courtesy establishes his identity.

Montaigne, in his "Essays," which you will find very good reading and a storehouse of much wisdom, says: "Courtesy is like grace and beauty in the body, which charm at first sight and lead on to further intimacy and friendship, opening a door that we may derive instruction from the example of others, and at the same time enabling us to benefit them by our example if there be anything in our character worthy of imitation."

SO THINK WE

We think that when the 8,000 fans attended the Texas A. and M. Texas Tech game here last Friday they gave indications of the desire for "big time" football.

We think that if a man's credit is good it is due to the fact that he seldom uses it.

We think that prize fighting is a cruel game but at the same time a million dollars will buy a lot of armica.

We think that the fellow who says his rent has to hustle. The one who doesn't has to keep moving.

We think that a man never gets too old to think of his boyhood days and especially now since the hunting season of the year is on.

We think that the average youngster these days has plenty of ambition and desires to be at the top of the ladder in his work; but the trouble is that the greater part of them want to begin their work on the top.

We think that after a little experience with them we can readily understand why it is a fellow will get angry at being called a flat tire.

We think that many men can tramp over a golf course all day who are unable to shove a lawn mower for even ten minutes.

We think that the most perplexing question about the Mexican situation is whether there will be a local housewive or the candidate of Mexico's candidate generals.

We think that the merchant who takes his advertising seriously finds his store patronized by serious buyers.

We think that time is money but there is no occasion for saying either unless you know what to do with them.

We think that it's a safe bet that if any woman shies her hat into the local housewive it will be one of the old ones.

We think that minds are like parachutes, that is they function only when they are open.

We think that will never be any danger of America losing its martial spirit. Fifty per cent of our time-expired soldiers re-enlist, and 80 per cent of our divorced men re-marry.

We think that if your wife laughs at your joke it must be a mighty good one or you have a mighty good wife.

We think that the bitterness of life is caused by our leaving the sweetness out of our daily lives.

We think that the value of an education can not be figured in mere dollars and cents.

We think that the Lubbock housewives were the guests to the Avalanche-Journal's most successful cooking school all last week. The greatest attendance ever shown by the local housewives at a cooking school was given throughout last week.

We think that when the flying course is started in Texas Technological college the enrollment for the course will be a large one as aviation is one of the greatest transportation facilities of the modern day.

We think that the Board of Regents of Texas Tech readily endorsed the move for this college to join the state's strongest conference.

We think that an oldtimer is the fellow who can remember when the entire family ate breakfast at the same time.

We think that some fall in business because they fail to pay their bills while others fail to keep from paying their debts.

OPINIONS

SUGAR

In her cooking school talks Mrs. Chitwood has been telling the women of this section of the country that sugar is the word down in this part of the country. A lady reader of this paper and one who has been attending Mrs. Chitwood's school as the Lyric Theatre has written Mrs. Chitwood the following reply to her statement that "Sugar is the word."

Dear Mrs. Chitwood: You say "Sugar is the word" down here.

I am a native, but don't like that word, Sugar? It is gritty? It is made from cane that has to be "pressed out" crushed. It is boiled down by fire, it becomes hard, is ground and bleached by chemicals that are poisonous. It causes kidney troubles that poisons the whole system.

Honey, that smooth, clear substance that is gathered little by little by patient bees from the nectar of beautiful fragrant flowers (words and deeds) is stored in the hive (heart) to ripen and to be used in the future. It has a melting flavor not found elsewhere. When conditions are heated and irritating it has a cooling, soothing effect. If used at the right time and in right proportion, a little goes a long way. Too much is nauseating.

So, "Hun From Honey" is my word.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that it is indeed a short lane where you don't meet another car.

It is reported that this is the open season for parents who have forgotten how to work algebra problems.

It is reported that it has fully been demonstrated that spasms of advertising will lead a merchant into epileptic bankruptcy.

It is reported that the Texas Tech Board of Regents have endorsed the move for the Matadors to enter the Southwestern conference.

It is reported that the big attendance given to Texas Tech's first big football game was indication enough for the college authorities to be convinced that the fans of this section are ready for big football games.

It is reported that the Indiana coal strike has been settled which will surprise the people who didn't know Indiana had one.

It is reported that the greatest attendance ever given to a cooking school was shown throughout last week as the local housewives attended the big Avalanche-Journal's fourth annual school.

A SHORT SERMON

We remember in the parable of the prodigal son, after the father had welcomed the son home again, the command was given, "Bring forth the best robe and put it on him." (Luke 15:22.)

We think that the clothing he wore as he returned from the "far country" where he had been kept from starvation by feeding the swine, was not very desirable. It was fitting and right, after having been forgiven and welcomed home, that he should wear the clothing suitable to his new surroundings, and no doubt the rags were eagerly laid aside, and the new garments speedily put on.

There is spiritual significance in all this. It is interesting to trace some of the messages in the Bible that speak of salvation as a garment, probably because it is a simile that can be easily understood. Thus we have in Isaiah several references. We read, "Awake, awake; put on thy strength, O Zion; put on thy beautiful garments, O Jerusalem." (Isa. 52:1.)

Then again, as if to enlarge upon the subject, we read as one of the prophecies concerning the mission of the prophet Messiah, "To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness." (Isa. 61:3.)

Zechariah, the prophet, also had a vision, which whilst dealing primarily with the Jewish people, brings the same lesson for the individual. Thus we read of the vision of the high priest standing before the angel of the Lord, also Satan there to resist him. Then came the robe to Satan and the words, "Is not this a brand plucked out of the fire?" "Now Joshua was clothed with filthy garments, and stood before the angel. And he answered and spake unto those that stood before him saying, 'Take away the filthy garments from him. And unto him he said, Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will clothe thee with a change of raiment.'" (Zech. 3:2-5.)

So that although centuries have rolled by since the prophets brought their message to the people we find we can still understand the deeper spiritual meaning, which is ever the same. When at the foot of the Cross the burden of sin has rolled away, the old life must be laid aside. There are beautiful garments awaiting the forgiven soul. There is a spiritual direction toward what we were meant to be, and in this sense what we were meant to be is usually just what we are; we would not be anything else.

The whole question is suggested by two persons who were recently seen. One has come late to his career. For nearly a quarter of a century he has kept himself ready to use his opportunity when it came.

It is rather difficult to say to such a person (probably it is unnecessary even to try to give youth a glimpse of middle-age experience) that all this straining at the tether, all this brilliant impatience, all this generation of high effort, is not solid performance at all, but practice, training.

Spots Before the Eyes Usually Unimportant

BY DR. MORRIS FISHEIN Editor Journal of the American Association of Hygienists, the Health Magazine

One of the most common symptoms complained of by many people is a sense of spots floating before the eyes. Scientifically, these are called "muscae volitantes."

The specialist in diseases of the eye attaches little significance to these spots, unless such spots can be seen on special examination of the eye with the ophthalmoscope, the instrument with which the specialist looks into the eye.

These floating spots have been attributed to irritations of the eye, a congestion of the tissues of the eye, and various constitutional ailments. Generally speaking, they are not of importance in most instances; if the person concerned has the right kind of glasses and keeps himself in good physical condition, the spots will disappear.

Sparks and Flashes Many persons complain also of sparks or flashes of light. These are sometimes due to disturbance of the circulation of the blood in the eye.

In cases in which one of the lining membranes of the eye may be inflamed the sensation of dazzling flashes of light of various colors may be very pronounced.

Some people complain particularly of constant showers of gold-colored dust or of large numbers of black specks floating in front of the eyes or of stationary spots of large size. In many instances these are due to difficulties of color vision or of vision generally.

Sometimes the wearing of blue-colored glasses which cut off the red rays will relieve the person concerned of his symptoms.

See Doctor Annually It is, no doubt, the best advice that can possibly be given to people generally to see a competent specialist in diseases of the eyes at least once each year and not to take lightly any disturbance of vision.

The eye, once damaged, does not recover with ease; neither does any other highly specialized organ of the body. Disturbances seen early are treated to better advantage than if there is considerable damage.

Foreign Missions

Seventh day Adventist clergyman throughout the United States who attended the fall convention of denominational leaders in Chattanooga, Tenn., has returned home to begin the working out of plans as far as their home church is concerned. E. T. Wilson, president of the Texico Conference of which Lubbock is a part, says, all the churches in his conference will be notified of these plans and will be asked to cooperate in working them out.

One of the biggest propositions of the convention, according to Mr. Wilson, was the appropriation of $4,228,261.68 for foreign mission work during 1934. This is an increase of more than $200,000 over the foreign mission expenditures of 1932.

Africa will receive $295,175; the far eastern division of the general conference, $113,753; the international division, $294,478; the South American division, $242,901; the southern Asia division, $400,914; and the European division, $728,409.

Of the total amount $1,258,358 will be devoted to educational and evangelistic work among the negroes of the southern states. Oklahoma Junior College, at Huntville, Ala., will receive $29,248 of this amount.

Through the efforts of the home missionary department a total of 70,000 old and young lay members of the church were engaged in some form of missionary work the past year, whose efforts were reported in the conversion of 7,500 new believers.

Vast quantities of clothing were given away, large boxes have been shipped to the Near East for the relief of suffering men, women and children, and to other parts of the world where destitution has come as a result of the war. Nearly 1,000,000 Bible readings were given; 1,500,000 missionary visits made; 12,500,000 pieces of literature circulated; 100,000 subscriptions to periodicals on gospel subjects taken; 750,000 books on the gospel distributed, and 35,000 missionary letters written, all by lay members.

In Europe last year a total of 1,100,000 harvesting gathering papers were circulated. "Great Britain is the only country over there," he said, "where Adventists are allowed to circulate these magazines, yet the work of spreading the gospel through this means is being carried forward in many of the countries, in spite of these unjust and unwarranted prohibitions." Good results are coming through similar efforts put forth in India and South America.

A vast program is being carried forward in what is known as the missions extension fund, according to Mr. Wilson, in the interest of publishing, educational and medical facilities. He said a site for a dispensary has just been purchased in Calcutta, a new printing plant in Calcutta, and a school is also being conducted; so a dispensary in Persia, while Abyssinia a new printing plant been started. The French printing plant near Paris has been enlarged, and $100,000 has been expended for printing plants in Buenos Aires and Sao Paulo, Sao America; $40,000 is invested in publishing house in India. This fund, land has been purchased in 19 countries, 13 institutions in this country have given printing machinery; twenty dispensary have been erected and 17 different schools in foreign lands have been helped.

The delegates also adopted a markedly prepared statement of moral standards for the young people of the denomination, playing dance, theaters, ragtime and roudge and the lipstick, and "pet" The statement emphasized the chief of the leaders that they advanced into those days which the scriptures warn us of, a perilous condition, because a love pleasure rather than God, a document will be circulated among the churches of the denomination throughout the world.

The convention also declared unanimously against the cigar habit and the use of intoxicant liquors.

The delegates, said Mr. Will expressed alarm over the fact of their youth throughout the fact of their denomination because of prevailing influence is a spirit of abandon and self-indulgence.

A series of recommendations were passed urging that the clergyman give more serious consideration to the problems of the youth. It was suggested that the denomination is facing a tremendous task the salvation and training of 150,000 children and youth between the ages of 6 and 25 years who for the preachers a mighty challenge. Seventy-thousand of them are between the ages of 15 and 20. It was said, 26,000 of whom are members of the church. Thousands of those who are members are as needy spiritually as those who are not members, it was further clarified.

The first attempt to reach North Pole by air was made Salomon August Andre, a Swedish scientist, on July 11, 1897. Two companions, he left Spitzbergen in a balloon and was never heard from again.

THE MOTORIST

EDITOR'S NOTE: There is more than one kind of motorist. Like everything else there are some people who get hold of the steering wheel of an automobile who are just as polite as anyone else and there are others who are just the opposite. Eddy Guest, the well known poet has seen fit to write a poem about the polite motorist and we pass it on to you with Mr. Guest's compliments:

"In spite of what may come to me I'll be a gentleman," said he, "This is not in law that safety helmet or being quick or being wise. We'd quickly set the world aright if all were kindly and polite."

With this determination good He left his peaceful neighborhood To reach his office in his car, But had not traveled very far Before he stopped and waited while These women passed in single file

He did not find the going hard Until he reached the boulevard, "Now," thought he, "I'll surely find Drivers who are polite and kind In time some one my plight will find And stop and give a chance to me Now if men saw him waiting there They rushed along and didn't care An hour went by and still He of honking autos in a stream Rang in his ears, but ne'er in sight Appeared a motorist polite.

At noon his wife sent out the word That nothing of him had been heard Since early morning, and began A search to find the missing nut But still he sat and waited there To cross the busy thoroughfare. Dusk came, night fell and still he throng Of automobiles rushed along. "I'll die," said he "right in my seat Before I'll try to hog a street." And if he hasn't forced his way Across that road, he's there to

NORFLEET

The Manhunter's Own True Story

As told to Gordon Hines

WHAT HAS BEEN TOLD:

Frank Norfleet, a Texas rancher, lured out of $45,000 by a confidence man, resolves to break up the confidence game in California and Florida to search for his men in California and Florida. After several disappointing adventures with the police in some cities Norfleet gets a tip a ring is operating at Sanford, Fla. as a prospective purchaser of a celery farm, using the name of Johnson. Norfleet meets an outcast of the ring who introduces him as Johnson. Johnson induces Norfleet to accompany him to Daytona where the investment opportunities are greater. Struggling to meet a man named Johnson, Norfleet places a bet on the horse races and makes winning for Johnson. He then goes to Johnson and Norfleet explains to him the "Club House" where the facilities are better for big winnings. They driven to the spot where the "Club House" is located, a high hill, overlooking the sea. Steel tries to shoot the chair but Norfleet threatens him and forces him to flee. Inside Norfleet finds a fitted for stock exchange of money reports and a list of names. Before the bet begins Steel receives a note which electrifies the atmosphere. Steel realizes that it probably is to him and that he must get this way out. Steel lunges to him grasping his right hand, and swings up the most powerful shot in the man's hand. Steel goes to the floor writhing in pain. Johnson and Steel with a shooter and the others with automatic Norfleet forces them to his automobile. Johnson and makes a getaway. Norfleet realizes that the man who is to take the money is no real charges against him is very much perplexed and like that who are ruining our town and state! Kill 'em by all means!"

"So you think I'd better kill 'em, 'ee?" I asked, giving him a wink. "Yes," he thundered, quite seriously, "I would appreciate my attempt at a joke. 'Kill 'em!'"

The man was almost bursting with righteous indignation. I could appreciate his anger; it would have been easy to let myself go in a fit of vengeful ire, but that wouldn't help me along a bit. My identity would be revealed and that would spoil my chances for catching Spencer and Furey. If Johnson and Steel are alive today, they'd better be thankful that it was I and not Hughes, who held the guns.

"All right! I will!" I cried.

At this statement, both of the crooks broke into wild cackles for mercy, waving their arms heavenward in a hysterical manner.

"Don't take a brain storm, man! Thieves seem to have their own vernacular. There was that word 'brainstorm' again. Furey had used it when I pulled the gun on him in the Fort Worth hotel, at the time I was swindled. 'Oh for the love of humanity—don't take a brainstorm and do a rash act! For God's sake! Wait! Think!'"

I failed to see how "suffering humanity" could be blessed by my inactivity toward them, but it was worth considering. I brandished my guns for a bit and let them beg like trained puppies. Then I relaxed slightly and turned to Hughes. I could see a disgusted look on his face, as he saw me apparently weaken.

"I'm afraid they've outtalked me," I said and Hughes let out an oath under his breath.

"If you'll only let us go we'll leave this town in 15 minutes and the state in two days and we'll never come back!" came a plaintive wail.

I hesitated, then decided, although I was sorry to disappoint Mr. Hughes.

"Go! Go! You dirty thieving cowards!—and never let me see your faces again!"

By the time the words were out of my mouth, they were ten feet away, leaving the contents of their pockets on the ground.

"Hold on!" I cried after them. "Come back here and get your money!"

Hughes was all the more disgusted and the two men stopped reluctantly. They looked at me, as if afraid that I was playing a joke on them. They wanted distance between us more than the money that lay there.

"Make it snappy! Come back before on these persuaders takes a coughin' spell!"

Hughes "damned" my foolishness a time or two and the frightened pair came back quickly and began scooping up their belongings. Their trembling fingers could hardly gather up the things fast enough without hithering about a few small trinkets they turned and made another dash for freedom—one tall the other short, bounding up and down like a pair of badly matched pistons. We watched them fade into the distance.

I bade Hughes good-by—I believe he actually hated to shake the hand of such a blamed fool—and left the park. I went to the little baggage where I had spent the night and got my suit case. As I came from the house, I saw an automobile approaching, with a familiar fraternal emblem on its radiator and I halted the driver. He stopped.

"Brother, I would like a lift into town, if you're going that way." I judged that he was headed toward the city.

He looked at me uncertainly, then at two fashionably dressed ladies in the tonneau. The front seat, beside him was piled high with luggage. I could see he wanted to favor me, but that he hated to put such a disreputable looking old codger in the back seat with the ladies. I grew afraid of his decision, so I hastily opened the door nearest me, threw in my grip and climbed in. The ladies drew haughtily aside and made room for me. I looked at them, with sideways glances. I might not look as stylish as they did, but I had come mighty near being as beautifully dressed and trimmed a short time before.

"I've positively got to get to town," I said and he one-sided a word as the driver started the machine and increased its speed.

I asked to be allowed to get out at the railroad station when we reached the city and then, for 60 miles, not a word was spoken. When we finally reached the station I thanked the driver profusely and he stammered, embarrassedly, that it was all right, that he was glad if he had been able to help me. The train was pulling in and I left the car abruptly, leaving its wondering occupants looking after me. I expect they were debating as to whether or not they should report me to the sanity commission.

When I was settled comfortably in my Pullman, I remembered the crumpled little note and drew it from my pocket, smoothing its crease as I read.

"That is Norfleet, himself. Don't get him started. If you do he'll kill every damn one of you. Don't let him get away boys. Don't let him get away—Joe!"

So Furey knew I was there. Surely he had seen me and I had passed by unaware. What ugly fate was sharpening his eyes so keenly and blinding me? Everything seemed to work in his favor. One thing was sure—it would do little good to go back. He would be far away by this time.

I got off the train at Palm Beach, going directly to Sheriff Baker, to whom I confided my mission.

He was very agreeable and desirous of helping me. He endorsed my warrants, giving me full authority to execute them anywhere in his jurisdiction. Before I left, he gave me the names of some parties who might be able to help me.

Particularly did he mention Peg Humble and his wife who were registered at the Royal Poinciana hotel. Humble was quite a noted hotel detective. I called on them and they were much interested in my case. Humble said that he knew Furey and he gave me several side lights on the man which I had not heard of before.

It was while in Humble's company that I saw the New York World's story of Kickey Aronstein's alleged five million dollar bond steal. Nicky, as the reader perhaps already knows, gained considerable publicity for himself and his loyal wife, Fanny Brice, a Broadway favorite. I was especially interested to know who had been associated with Aronstein and I read the article avidly.

There were the names: Irving Gluck, Joseph Gluck, E. J. (Big Bill) Furey. Furey! Could there be another like him?

I scanned the picture closely. The "Furey" there resembled my man a great deal. Perhaps the newspaper house detective, John Casey, formerly of New York city. He showed a number of photographs of Joe Furey and said that he knew him well. From him I learned that Furey had not been in West Palm Beach for a long time. This information made it seem advisable to move on to other towns to continue the search.

In Miami I met Charles Racken, mayor of a small city in Ontario, Canada. The day I met him he had been swindled out of a large sum by three men. I showed him pic-

HOUSTON'S WILL SHOWS INTEREST IN PUBLIC GOOD

ORIGINAL COPY OF HIS WILL IS ON FILE IN WALKER COUNTY

(By Associated Press) HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 29.—That Sam Houston was a staunch believer in his country and in its preservation; that he was strongly in favor of a thorough and right kind of education for children; that he was a loving father and husband was disclosed in his last Will and Testament which he drew up himself and signed on April 2, 1862.

Original Will Found
Houston's old original will which is on file in the county clerk's office of Walker county reads as follows:

"In the name of God, the Father Son and Holy Spirit, I Sam Houston of the county of Walker, the State of Texas, being fully aware of the uncertainty of life, and the certainty of death, do ordain and declare this my last will and testament.

"FIRST: I will that all my just debts be paid out of my personal effects, as I think them sufficient without disposing of any of the family servants.

"SECOND: I bequeath my entire remaining estate to my beloved wife, Margaret, and our children, and I desire that they may remain with her so long as she may remain in widowhood; and should she at any time marry, I desire that my daughters, should be subject to her control, so long as their minority lasts.

Education Stressed
"THIRD: My will is that my sons should receive solid and useful education and that no portion of their time may be devoted to the study of Abstract Science. I greatly desire that they may possess a thorough knowledge of the English language, with a good knowledge of the Latin language. I also request that they may be instructed in the knowledge of the Holy Scripture, and next to these that they be rendered thoroughly in a knowledge of geography and history. I wish my sons early taught an utter contempt for novels and light reading. In all that pertains to my sons I wish particular regard paid to their morals as well as to the character and morals of those with whom they may be associated or instructed.

"FOURTH: I leave to my wife as Executrix, and to the following gentlemen as my Executors, Thomas Gibbe, Thomas Carothers, J. Carroll Smith and Anthony of Branch, my much beloved friends, in whom I place my entire confidence, make such disposition of my personal and real estate, as may seem to them best for the necessities and interests, and welfare of my family.

"FIFTH: To my dearly beloved wife, Margaret, I confide the rearing, education, and moral training of our sons and daughters.

Sword is Bequeathed
"SIXTH: To my eldest son, Sam Houston, Jr., I bequeath my sword worn in the battle of San Jacinto never to be drawn only in defense of the Constitution, the Laws and Liberties of His country. If any attempt should ever be made to assault one of these I wish it to be used in its vindication.

"SEVENTH: It is my will that my Library should be left at the disposition of my dear wife.

"EIGHTH: To my dearly beloved wife I bequeath my watch, and all my jewelry subject to her disposition.

"NINTH: I hereby appoint my dearly beloved wife, Margaret, Testamentary Guardian of my children, their persons, and estates during minority. But should a wise Providence, through its inscrutable decrees see fit to deprive our offspring of both parents and make them orphans, indeed, it is hereby delegated to my Executors who are hereby confirmed, J. Carroll Smith, Thomas Carothers, Thomas Gibbe and Anthony M. Branch, to receive such disposition in regard to their welfare, as they may think best calculated to carry on the designs as expressed in this last will and testament.

"TENTH: And I direct and enjoy my Executrix and Executors that after the probate and registry of this my last will and return of inventory of my estate, the county and other court of probate, have no further control over my Executors or Testamentary Guardian or of my How's She Lifting?

By ISRAEL KLEIN, Science Editor, NEA Service

The car's headlights may have little or nothing to do with how she's lifting, but they are important factors in assuring comfort and safety for the passengers. So it is essential that the headlights be kept properly focused and in good condition. Tarnished reflectors, dirty lenses, burnt-out bulbs or poor contacts may be the cause of a serious accident.

The first essential in securing good headlighting is to see that the lenses, reflectors and bulbs are in good shape. The lenses should be taken out and cleaned thoroughly. The reflectors should be polished with a thin solution of lamp-black and alcohol, but extreme care should be taken that no scratch be left on its surface. Polishing should be by means of a light, circular motion and only in one direction. Bulbs should be checked at the same time, so that they furnish their full candlepower. Some insufficient brilliancy of lamps may be due to an over or an under-charged battery or to poor contacts. Testing the battery and the lines to the headlights is the way to check on this.

There is a fad in some parts of the country for the blue, or "day-light" type of headlight bulbs. They are bought in the belief that they give more light and at the same time do not hurt the eyes of approaching drivers. Both ideas are mistaken. The blue bulb has been found to give no more light than the clear bulb and yet use much more current from the battery. Tests have shown that clear bulbs are just as good in lighting the road as the blue lights, and in fact are even better in cases of fog or wet roads.

Focusing of the lights is simple, especially since manufacturers have provided the easiest means to accomplish this. Back of every headlamp is a screw, in most cases, or a knob or other sort of adjustment appliance. All that is needed is to back the car about 25 feet from a wall so that it stands on level ground and direct the lights at this wall—at night, of course.

A horizontal line should be drawn on the wall at the same height as the headlamps. The best assurance of proper headlighting would be filling the car in back with passengers. But where this can't be done, another horizontal line should be drawn about six to eight inches below the first, and the lights focused at this one.

The reason is that loading the car tips the lights upward and that the lowering of the lights in focusing compensates for this. Merely turning the screw or knob or other adjustment back of each lamp is enough to direct the beam into a sharp, wide light so that the top of it just reaches the lower horizontal line. If the car is empty, or the upper line if it is occupied.

It is just a matter of moving the bulb forward or backward, until it reaches the exact focal point of the headlamp.

MOODY TO SPEAK AT DISTRICT MEET

DATE SET FOR NOVEMBER 30 AT SWEETWATER; GOVERNOR MOODY TO BE PRESENT

SWEETWATER, Oct. 29.—In order to comply with Governor Dan Moody's expressed desire to attend a West Texas chamber of commerce district convention, date of the Central West Texas division meeting of that organization has been changed for the third time, and is now definitely set for November 30. Governor Moody will be a featured speaker on the day's program outlined, and will be greeted by an ex-official and the present gold medal bands of the West Texas chamber of commerce and the West Texas gold medal bands who will play during the convention are the Colorado Band and the Stamford Farmers' Band. The present official music-makers for the West Texas chamber who will play are members of the Sweetwater Municipal Band.

President R. W. Haynie and Manager Homer D. Waldo are to make addresses and a number of other prominent speakers will be on the program. The West Central convention of the West Texas chamber was first scheduled for November 14, and later changed to November 29, only to be set back two days in order to accommodate the crowded date-book of the governor which gave him only November 30 free for attending this meeting. A large attendance from many points is expected for this district gathering, and many towns have already announced that substantial delegations will come to hear and see Governor Moody.

AUTOMOBILES INCREASE

Automobiles in Great Britain now total 1,754,900. This is an increase of 174,000 over the total of last year. In the United States more people live in the city than in the country. According to the 1926 census, the total population of towns over 2,500 was 54,304,602; the rural population was 51,406,017.

PLAINVIEW GETS NEW POSTOFFICE

SPEED BUILDING IS ERECTED FOR NEW QUARTERS; COST APPROXIMATELY $65,000

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal) PLAINVIEW, Oct. 29.—Construction work on the Guy H. Speed building at Plainview which is being erected to house the postoffice is proceeding rapidly with pouring of the concrete foundation practically complete. The new building will cost in the neighborhood of fifty thousand dollars and in addition to furnishing larger and more ample quarters for the Plainview postoffice which will contain several more rooms, and the upper story will be made of several gables of offices. Contract between Speed and the postoffice authorities was signed before the contract for the construction of the building was made and the building is being assigned especially to accommodate the Plainview postoffice, which had to have additional room to handle its business.

The postoffice is now housed in the First National bank building where it has had the same room since 1916, and the postal receipts have grown from $21,574.37 in 1915 to $51,539.31 in 1926. Because additional room could not be obtained in the present location, the new contract with Speed was made.

Serving the Ever-Growing South Plains

Probably there is no other region in the Southwest that offers the average man actual opportunities for owning a home, a business or a farm, with the advantages of low cost and great possibilities, as the South Plains!

We not only believe this probable, but a fact!

And because of these unsurpassed advantages great growth is being experienced in every community of this region. New railroads are being built almost constantly and new towns are springing up with almost over-night rapidity.

The Texas Utilities Company Strives to Lead in Development

The problem of this company is an ideal—that to not only meet the public utility requirements of the nearly two score of towns we serve on the South Plains, but to build in anticipation of their constant and magic growth. Without utmost faith in the future of the South Plains it would be an impossibility to attain and maintain leadership in our service. But we have such faith and have been possessed of it for years, each year bringing to us further evidence of justification in our belief of the South Plains.

We are proud of our plants, proud of the towns and communities we serve, and shall constantly build for a leadership that will increase their growth and the worth of our services.

Major Hoople Speaks Upon Economics He Urges Everyone To Stick To Work

MAJOR HOOPLE McCORKLE, Avananche-Journal philosopher, would all take off a little and attend strictly to our own affairs, and religiously let the other fellows do the same this winter. It is a wonderful old world, and there will be few fuses and discharges and gasps would have to be their occupation or join the goldman in Russia. Everybody would have to work to do everybody else a good living and a little more, and happiness would be the result. Isn't it? We would not be very many, and the greater would be doing up a legitimate job. There are no less than 100 million mothers, for fathers would be to provide for them. We would all have time to sleep and enjoy the comforts of life. We enjoy seeing our neighbors and greed would not mar the scene.

Here's the Result
When we all quit him he will go broke. He can not pay us for his insurance and groceries. He can not buy his wife a new coat, but why should we worry? We quit selling coats and groceries and insurance long enough to break him, despite the fact he was our customer. Now he is not. We saved $3.00 laundry bill and lost a customer that would have netted us $1,000 profit. Had we attended strictly to our own business, the laundryman would still be a profitable customer. This is just a fair sample and will apply to every trade and profession as well as to those mentioned above. A man selling drugs can't hope to if he does his own printing, shaker his wife's own garden, plows his own garden, moves his lawn and orders his clothes from a small order house. The tailor, the gardener and others are depending upon him for support just as he depends upon them. If he fails to patronize them—they won't have the money. It is a matter of greed—cutting off the nose to spite the face.

Everyone Dissatisfied
But ever since God gave Adam the Garden of Eden man has been dissatisfied. If they have a dollar they want ten, if they have ten they want a hundred, and if they have a hundred they want a thousand. They are never satisfied. Some men have more money than a train car haul, but they are working day and night trying to round up a little more. Just what do they want with it? What does any man want with multiplied millions? It will not lengthen their lives or make them any happier. They must soon return to dust from whence they came, and a well built pig-a-box is about all they can call their own after they take the final jump. Greed makes us sad when we see other people prosper.

A hound dog will bury a bone, guard a second and eat a third while other dogs nearby must stare and pad as it may seem, men resemble the hound in this manner. It may be we have plenty to spare, but we seldom find ourselves rushing over to aid some unfortunate person with our possessions. No, it just isn't done.—We may fit suit against him for a debt he can't pay. We may cut off his credit and force his children to go hungry, but we are not going to say "here, brother, take this hundred dollars and buy your children some food. I have plenty myself and money to buy more. If I can help you again just let me know." No, we don't have any such feelings toward our fellow mortals. We plan some way to make a little more—even if we do have to rob the widow and the orphan to do so.

Plenty of Advice Given
We stand by, silently, when people all around us suffer for life's necessities. We could alleviate their pain, but we do not—it might cost us something. If some one asks us for food we give them a wind pudding in the shape of advice, but it becomes our sad duty to inform you that a wind pudding won't fill a cavity that calls for a ham sandwich. Feed a hungry man and then he will listen to you, but advice is never taken upon an empty stomach. Just remember this: If we took as much interest in our work as we should, instead of watching our neighbor he would have a chance to succeed himself. But he can't do anything as long as we make it impossible for him to earn a dollar.

Should Stick to Business
There are people for every business and profession, and a man should confine his activities to the work in his chosen field. That is a man running a grocery store should not try to sell hardware, do cleaning and painting, fill prescriptions and do landscape work. Even if he does these things for himself only he is knocking the man in other professions, and is making it impossible for them to succeed. Naturally they can not have money to spend for his groceries.

We all want too much, and it matters not how much we have we want more. Our wants resemble an endless chain.

Patronize Each other
If we all made it a point to patronize our neighbors we should enable all our neighbors to patronize us. It would mean good business for us all, for trade would be brisk. But as long as we try to "hook" the other fellow—scab on him, and then expect him to trade with us we are going to have trouble. When you go out and sneer a coat of paint on your barn rather than pay a painter to do the work you are losing and not saving. It means that the painter can not buy your groceries or your clothes. BUICKS USED BY DETROIT CAB FIRM

LARGEST MOTOR CAR FLEET IN MICHIGAN COMPOSED OF BUICK CARS

PLANT, Mich., Oct. 28.—One of the strongest testimonials to Buick's performance, reliability and low upkeep cost is the experience of the Checker Cab Company of Detroit, which operates the largest motor car fleet in Michigan and one of the largest in the country. Among the 450 cars which Checker has in the streets today, Buicks number 270, or more than all other makes combined. For in Detroit, which has the reputation of being "motor wise," the public has come to demand the same luxury and comfort in its cabs as in its private cars.

Every driver in the Checker organization is free to select the make of car he prefers. The factors which influence his choice are much the same as those which influence the private owner. They include performance and riding ease, which insure the passenger of fast, comfortable travel; style which makes him proud to be seen entering or leaving the cab; reliability, which obviates delays en route, and low upkeep cost, which enables the cab to return a profit.

The extent to which Buick fulfills all these requirements, in the opinion of Checker drivers may be gauged from the fact that 35 per cent of new cars being added to the Checker fleet today are Buicks.

Approximately 100 of the Buick models have been added to the last 60 days. Robert T. Brounham, general manager of the company, said, "We shall have 500 cars in operation by holiday time." Buick's performance in the hands of the Checker drivers who first introduced it into taxicab work has been responsible for the spread of its popularity. It was pointed out that the chance to travel in comfort. Driver after driver introduced Buicks, until today, when each driver may own three cars many own Buicks exclusively.

According to the 1926 census, the bachelors in the United States numbered 12,487,565. And there were 12,550,129 spinsters.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone company is remodeling the telephone system in the city. A total of $75,000 is to be spent in replacing the present "strand" system with a modern automatic flash switchboard. A new telephone exchange building, costing $8,000 has recently been completed.

The new telephone system will be in operation by the last part of December, T. A. White, district manager of the telephone company, was quoted as saying:
Another proof of Slaton's growth is to be found in the recent announcement of the Texas Utilities company, that the transformer capacity at Slaton was to be doubled. Natural gas was turned on a few days ago.

Takes Pride in Government
Slaton takes great pride in its efficient municipal government and city departments. The city is governed by a mayor and two commissioners. At present the mayor is S. P. King, the commissioners, J. T. Loney and J. J. Bradley. A new city hall building, modern in every way, and including an auditorium with a seating capacity of 500 in its three stories was completed in 1922 at a cost of $24,000. The city hall is in the center of the Slaton square and is surrounded by a grassy meadow and plot of trees which is a beauty spot for the entire section. Bordered by paved streets and there are 25 blocks of them in Slaton all of the main avenues of the city converge on the square.

School Enrollment Large
Slaton has a total school enrollment of 1,246, and takes great pride in exhibiting these figures. There are four public school buildings and the system represents an investment of many thousands of dollars.

The superintendent is C. L. Stone, the high school principal, H. M. Fenderson and the school principals are J. R. Caldwell and R. A. Brinker. Forty teachers are employed. All of the schools are well equipped with libraries. Supplementary, there is a county library, Miss Frances Blumell being the librarian.

In the way of civic and commercial organizations, Slaton deserves commendation. The Chamber of Commerce is very active. Its work is headed by J. W. Hood, the president, and details are efficiently executed by Mr. Wilson, the secretary. Among the projects on the Chamber of Commerce' slate for this year are the following:
A new hotel.
A grain elevator.
A wholesale produce house.
A program of home beautification.
A tree planting campaign.

Regular Meetings Held
Meetings of the Chamber of Commerce are held twice monthly, on the second and fourth Tuesday nights. Directors of the organization at present are: J. W. Hood, S. H. Stiggs, J. T. Overby, A. J. Payne, W. H. Smith, J. A. Elliott, W. R. Howard, E. B. Taylor, Jose Smith, F. H. Latham, C. P. Anderson, W. W. Uzzell, Earl P. King, P. G. Hodges and Alice DeLoar.

A home beautification contest recently carried out by this organization resulted in prizes being awarded to Mesdames A. J. Payne, J. H. Brewer, W. S. Linn and P. G. Hodges of Slaton. A new tree-planting campaign is being conducted, the planting of about 2,000 shade trees in a single year.

Another civic organization which performs creditable work is the Retail Merchants' association of which A. J. Payne is president and Miss Lee Green secretary. Slaton is at present suffering a dearth of pastors of the city churches in the city there are at present pastorless. The First Baptist, the largest, has the Rev. G. H. Holloway as minister. The First Methodist pastor is the Rev. W. M. Lane. It includes in its membership T. D. O'Brien and the First Presbyterian, Church of Christ and First Christian are now without pastors.

Retary Club is Active
Another civic group which is consistently doing a great work is the Retary Club. It has 22 members. R. E. Stiggs is its president and A. J. Payne the secretary. The club meets in the following: Ward Doctor, Alex DeLoar, Tom Overby, Sam Stiggs, Roy Baldwin, Allen Payne, Frank Miller, John Hood, Walter Olive, Jim Elliott, Joe Tenango, J. Hill Smith, Lee Taylor, Alex Kussell, Earl King, Claude Anderson, Joe Raggs, Milton Uzell, Floyd Wilson, R. B. Holloway, G. Zenas Ball, P. G. Hodges, Oscar Kern, Cypert, Walter Howard, Robert H. Todd, Joe C. Benton, Horace Sanders, Jess Smith, W. E. Gully, Johnson, H. W. Phillips and Louie Sear.

Slaton's fire department, though volunteer, is very efficient. H. R. Childress is the chief, E. W. Woodruff the assistant chief and Chester Alexander, the fire captain. A fire alarm the city hall summons the volunteer members of the force. E. E. Gault is the police chief. WITH the assistance of Jack Wooten and W. L. Turley, they see that Slaton is purged of undesirable. D. C. Hoffman is the constable and Judge J. H. Phillips, justice of the peace.

Women Active, Too
The women of Slaton are active. Among the clubs are the Civic and Culture and the Wednesday study club and the Bluebonnet club. Slaton's high school football team has made for itself an enviable record in class B circles this year. Under the expert instruction of Coach Odus Mitchell the Slaton team has rolled up the following:

STATE CHANGE IN CURRICULUM OF SCHOOL SEEN

TEACHERS TO DISCUSS PROPOSAL IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

(By Associated Press)
FORT WORTH, Oct. 28.—Proposed revision in the curriculum of the public schools of Texas probably will occupy the center of the stage when discussion begins at the annual convention of the Texas State Teachers' association at Houston, November 24 to 26.

Although the need for revision in the high schools as well as the lower grades courses of study has been mentioned at former conventions, public educators in Texas have given the problem increasing attention this year, and officials of the organization believe the Houston convention may take some positive action.

Proposals Studied
At a meeting of the executive board of the association here recently—and the board is the legislative body of the organization in which most important matters are threshed out—a sub-committee was appointed to study proposed changes in the curriculum and to prepare possible recommendations to be made to the convention.

While officials refuse to comment on changes which might be urged, J. Lee Smith, Austin, who is connected with the state department of education, in an address before the executive board here declared that one of the crying needs of the Texas public school system is broader vocational work. He cited schools which have been established by oil companies and in which employees are given technical training as proof of such need.

National Department
As has been the case in other years, the matter of urging creation of a national department of education with a secretary of education in the president's cabinet probably will come before the convention, and doubtless will receive approval of the association. Officials of the association state that while opinion as to the desirability of this creation is divided the majority of the association members undoubtedly favor the move.

The program as recently drawn up calls for two types of convention, meetings, general and sectional, with all delegates, expected to number 10,000, attending the former and teachers in specialized subjects the latter. Leading educators of the state and nation have places on the program.

Register Thursday
Registration will occupy much of Thursday morning, Nov. 24, although the program calls for an address by Dr. W. H. Burton, of the University of Chicago, who is considered a specialist in the field of elementary supervision and method.

Attorney General Claude Pollard will give the official address of welcome Thursday night, and immediately after R. D. Green, superintendent of the Abilene public schools and president of the association, will deliver the president's address. Tentative plans call for reports of the committees on nominations for president and vice-president and on constitution also Thursday night.

Governor to Speak
Governor Dan Moody will address the convention at some time, probably Friday night, according to early plans. Other speakers on the program include: T. O. Walton, College Station, president of A. and M. college; H. Y. Benedict, Austin, president of the University of Texas; Dr. Justin F. Kimball, Dallas, professor in the Southern Methodist university; Judge A. M. Frazier, Hillsboro, of the board of education; Miss Patty Hill, New York, professor in Teachers College, Columbia university, and considered an authority in elementary education; Dr. J. G. Powles, professor of educational administration at the University of Wisconsin and a leader in the field of school administration; Miss Adelaide Baylor, Washington, former assistant state superintendent in Illinois and now chief of the Home Economics Education Service, Federal Board of Vocational Education; George Oscar Bowen, Tulsa, Okla., president of the music supervisors' national conference; Professor Sarah M. Sturtevant, Columbia University; and Superintendent S. S. Richardson, Webster Parish, Louisiana, a specialist in the field of rural education.

STILL HOARDING GOLD
PARIS.—Nothing happened when the French government passed a law forbidding the hoarding of silver, but when it tried to exchange paper money for the rate of four to one, it was heavy. France needs money, money has been streaming nearly a year.

GRINDS CAMERA AS BIG BEAR CHASE
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—tioning in the mountains of Al Canada, Senator Henrik Ship farmer-labor member of congress was out with his movie camera day when he came upon two big bear cubs. He was taking a picture when the mother bear along and charged him from a distance of 100 yards. The sea there was nothing to do but on grinding. The old bear have been camera shy, for stopped 30 yards away and so did the senator.

had the caution to stand on the curb and wave his appeal to the passing motorist. Gradually, however, he becomes more and more certain of their crowd out into the streets of their bicycles, transferring traffic into a veritable madstrom. Thus, he becomes a menace to others as well as to himself.

Parents and teachers should do all in their power to discourage this habit which is so easily developed. Their duties are to point out the manifold hazards involved and place life-seeking in the category of those things that are definitely forbidden.

Safety Instructions
Schools that give instruction in safety, and their number is growing enormously, should make this lesson most prominent in their general courses. The A. A. A. believes its importance is paramount and the reopening of school provides the proper time to begin instruction so that when winter with its icy slippery streets arrives, this manner will definitely have been removed or materially reduced.

An airplane service has been established for miners in the newly discovered fields of New Guinea. The flights are on a high plateau so difficult to reach that the trip requires six days by horseback. Airplanes come from the coast in about an hour.
