Officials Fix Conference Games In District 3-A

Rockets To Open Season Against Wheeler Here September 27

Although the football season for 1940 is still more than six months away, coaches and superintendents of the 3-A grid district began plans for the fall playing last week at Memphis, when officers were elected for the coming year and the conference schedule fixed.

Chairman of the district is H. T. Burton, Clarendon superintendent of schools, while Emil Hutto, Clarendon coach, was chosen secretary-treasurer.

The group voted to accept Lefors into the conference loop for the 1940 season, again boosting the circuit's strength to an eight-club conference. Wheeler was also voted into the competition. Although this team has been a regular member of the conference for several years, the low enrollment forces the yearly voting upon the team.

Under the fixed schedule the Skyrockets will open their conference play September 27, when they meet the Wheeler team here. Only one non-conference game has been scheduled for the local team, John Williams, coach, said late Tuesday evening, although two other non-conference games are expected.

The schedule at present includes:

Date	Team	Where Played
Sept. 27	Wheeler	Here
Oct. 4	Perryton*	There
Oct. 11	Lakeview	Here
Oct. 18	McLean	Here
Oct. 25	Clarendon	There
Nov. 1	Memphis	Here
Nov. 8	Shamrock	Here
Nov. 15	Lefors	There

*Non-conference.

Funeral Rites For Joe Hardy Held At El Paso

Long Time Druggist Dies Of Injuries Received While On Duty

Joe Hardy, beloved Wellington druggist for 25 years, died at 6:30 o'clock, Saturday evening, February 10, of injuries he received when he fell from a taxi while in pursuit of his duties as an agent of the state liquor control board. The accident occurred Tuesday night, February 6, at about 10 o'clock. Although he was rushed to an El Paso hospital immediately, he never regained consciousness.

At the time, Mr. Hardy was on duty at the International Bridge, between El Paso and Juarez, Mexico, where he collected the tax on liquor brought across the international border. A car had failed to stop and pay the tax, and Mr. Hardy, riding in the taxi, was following the car. Driver of the taxi stated that as they came upon the car, he brought his machine to a stop, and looking back, saw Mr. Hardy lying on the street. Whether the latter fell from the moving car, or jumped before its speed had slowed sufficiently, is not known.

Mr. Hardy had been at that post for about two and a half years, going to El Paso shortly after he sold the Hardy Drug Store here.

Funeral services were held Monday morning, February 12, at El Paso. Burial was in an El Paso cemetery.

Few men in the county had made more friends than Mr. Hardy during the time he lived here. His jovial disposition and his friendliness drew people in all walks of life to him and to each person with whom he came in contact he had some pleasant remark. He enjoyed his contacts with his cus-

First Druggist In City Buried Here Tuesday

H. W. Holbert Came To Texas As Cattle Raiser 63 Years Ago

H. W. Holbert, who operated the first complete drug store in Wellington, died in a local hospital Monday, February 12, after an illness of about ten days. He was 84 years of age. In addition to his business here, he also operated drug stores at Dodson and later at Quail.

Other than being Wellington's first drug store owner, Mr. Holbert was one of the group which organized the First Christian Church, and it was he who bought the lot and donated it for the church building.

Although Mr. Holbert had not lived in Wellington for the last twelve years, he still referred to it as home, and often expressed the desire to return here. He had visited here numbers of times during the years to renew old acquaintances and to spend a short time talking with those who had been his customers in other years.

During the time he lived here, he gained innumerable friends who loved and respected him. He was keenly interested in those around him, and sought to help and cheer those whom he could.

Mr. Holbert was born in Baldwin, Miss., on April 24, 1855, and at the time of his death he was 84 years, 10 months and five days of age. He was the son of Kelly and Sarah Smith Holbert. More than 60 years ago, at the age of 21 years, he came to Weatherford, Texas, where he engaged in cattle raising. He later removed to Chico, where he entered the drug business.

In 1905 Mr. Holbert with his family moved to Wellington. Buying the drug stock of a general merchandise store he moved to a building at the southwest corner of the square. After operating the store here for a number of years

FFA Boys Invest Much In Projects

Boys who have proved themselves business men in their own right are the members of the Wellington Future Farmers. A recent survey of the group by the earnings and savings committee of the chapter revealed that the members have an average of $65.78 invested in the projects now being carried out. Since the chapter now has approximately 80 members, this investment totals around $3,500.

The projects include livestock raising and feeding, poultry raising and the maintaining of dairy cattle.

The highest amount invested by a single member was made by John Calvin Harper, who put $369 into his project, which includes thirteen head of Hereford beef calves.

Water From Flowing Well Found Suitable For Crop Irrigation

Assurance that water from the flowing well on the I. T. Goodnight farm seven miles west of Wellington is suitable for irrigation purposes was made this week by G. S. Fraps, state chemist, following the analysis of the water at the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas.

R. H. Goodnight, operator of the farm, who had the analysis made, stated that the report shows mineral content as follows: carbonate of lime, 98 parts per million; sulphate of lime, 1862 parts per million; sulphate of soda, 435 parts; sulphate of magnesia, 281 parts, and chloride of soda, 69 parts. No gypsum was shown in the analysis.

Following the analysis report, Mr. Fraps gave his opinion that the water could be utilized for irrigation, but added that the soil on which it is used should have good underground drainage.

Upon the receipt of this report, Mr. Goodnight stated that he planned to make arrangements for 10 acres of garden to be raised on the farm and that he planned also to raise four acres of alfalfa during the coming season as an experiment in the use of this water for irrigation purposes.

Interest In Event Higher Than At Any Time In Past Years

Initial plans have been laid to make the annual Project Show of the 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers and Future Homemakers the most outstanding event in the history of the show here. The show is set for Saturday, March 2.

Sponsoring the show again this year is the Kiwanis Club and Rotary Club working with the county agent, vocational homemaking, agriculture teachers and 4-H sponsors. This show in former years has been known as the 4-H-FFA Fat Stock Show.

"More interest is being shown in the show this year than ever before," the sponsors said. "This reflects, we believe, a growing interest over the county in livestock raising in general, and in the work which our youth are doing."

Two committees have been named from the Kiwanis Club, and one from the Rotary Club, to assist in working out plans for the event. Members of the general committee are C. V. Griffin, Ben Hurst and Dewey Ellis, Kiwanians, and Tom Campbell, Jack Watson, Fred Cox and W. K. Cottingame, of Rotary. Members of the finance committee are J. B. Castelberry, Mr. Ellis and Tom Bryant.

The show this year is to be held in two divisions, W. K. Cottingame, county agent, announced early this week. One division will consist of projects worked out by members of the 4-H Girls' Clubs and the Future Homemakers. These will be exhibited in the display windows of various merchants around the square, who have consented to donate space for the articles. Prizes will be awarded for outstanding work.

As in the past, the boys' division will consist mainly of fat stock projects. Three main sections of this were also announced by Mr. Cottingame, and include the following classes:

In the calf division, three groups are included: senior fat beef calf under 850 pounds; senior fat beef

Ranchers To Hear Of 1940 Program

All ranchers of the county will meet Friday, February 16, to hear a detailed outline of the 1940 range program as outlined by W. K. Cottingame, county agent, and C. V. Griffin, administrative assistant to the A.C.A. program. At the same time a list of conservation practices which each rancher intends to carry out will be taken.

"All ranchers who expect to participate in the 1940 range program are urged to be present, since each is financially aided under this government program, and since it is compulsory to submit to the county committee a list of practices which are planned for the year to draw government pay," Mr. Griffin said.

All developments on the range program will be discussed since Mr. Cottingame and Mr. Griffin were scheduled to attend a district range meeting in Amarillo on the Wednesday preceding.

The local meeting will open at 3 o'clock in the district court room.

WPA Pushes Road Work In Section During 5 Months

Director Outlines Expenditures In Panhandle For Period Closed

AMARILLO. — Improvement of highways, roads, and streets was stressed by Panhandle sponsors of WPA projects during the six months period ending December 31, according to a report issued today by A. A. Meredith, district director.

Road and street improvements, including work on a number of farm-to-market travel routes, accounted for expenditures of $417,135, more than forty per cent of the total WPA program in the Amarillo territory during the final six months of 1939, Meredith stated.

Construction of public buildings, including several schools, constituted the second largest item of WPA expenditure for the period, $52,292 having been expended on this type of work. Dams and similar conservation works were carried forward at a cost of $48,657. On such recreational facilities as parks, playgrounds, and athletic fields there was expended $18,738.

Producing garments and other articles for distribution to the destitute, WPA sewing rooms provided employment for hundreds of women wage-earners at a cost of $148,422. Of this amount, $121,200 went directly to the workers in the form of security wage checks.

Grouped under the general heading of professional and service projects, which accounted for expenditures of $177,318, are such works as the survey of native mineral resources, study of underground water supplies and other geological surveys, all supervised by authoritative state agencies; preparation and serving of hot school lunches to undernourished children; rendering of library assistance to existing libraries and establishment of new library units; extension of assistance into the homes of the underprivileged by housekeeping aides; renovation, indexing, and repair of school, city, county and other public records.

Other outstanding WPA activities were listed by Meredith as follows:

Distribution of surplus commodities, including food and WPA-manufactured clothing to the destitute, $15,633.

Community sanitation and public health programs, $47,764.

Canning plants for the preservation of food products, $14,144.

Conducting of municipal recreational activities under the direction of trained WPA supervisors, $13,697.

Summing up his statement, Meredith reported that a total of $954,286 has been expended on WPA projects in the 26 counties administered from the Amarillo office during the final six months of 1939. Of this amount, cities, counties, and independent school districts have provided $313,535, or almost one-third, as their share of participation in the program of public improvements and services.

Counties comprising the Amarillo WPA district and covered in the report are Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Childress, Collingsworth, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Donley, Gray, Hall, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Roberts, Sherman, Swisher and Wheeler.

A Background To Meet Today's Problems

The accumulated experience of the Wellington State Bank covers 34 years. During that time the bank has seen the nation pass through many business cycles, each with its succession of complicated economic factors. During those same years it has seen this county pass through dry years and years of abundant crops. It has seen low prices and high prices for farm products. Each of these phases in turn has created its own special problem.

The Wellington State Bank takes pride in the fact that through these changing times it has been able to render a consistent and understanding service. It was founded by men whose entire interest was in Collingsworth County and throughout the years this bank has been managed by the same sort of men who know the problems of the people they seek to serve. The long and valuable experience of this bank is applicable to the problems of today.

Childress FFA Boys Inspect Norwood Work

Field Trip Takes Visitors Into Homes Improved By "Ag" Students

Members of the Childress Future Farmer Chapter made a tour of inspection among projects of the Samnorwood F.F.A. members Thursday, February 8.

Beginning their tour at the school, the boys saw cabinets built by the vocational agriculture students in the homemaking department of the school, and other equipment in both the high school and grade school. Following the inspection of the agriculture shop and equipment, members of the second year class of Samnorwood gave brief talks before the group on their projects and project plans.

A baby beef project under way by Joe Alex Coleman, in which 19 calves are being fed, was the first stop on the field trip, followed by stops to see Herman Oldham's two beef calves and Jack Lowe's three calves. The noon hour was spent at the high school.

The afternoon inspection included was begun by brief reports from Samnorwood third year vocational agriculture members, describing their projects. Visits were made to the home of Mrs. Grant Jolley to see a kitchen cabinet and to the home of Mrs. Frank Gulley, Sr., to see cabinets installed by her sons, Frank Gulley and Elton Gulley. Here the group also inspected the steers which Frank Gulley is feeding out.

Not only did the Childress Future Farmers express their pleasure at the visit, but members of the Samnorwood chapter commented on the enjoyment which the trip had given them, and the splendid ideas that had been exchanged by the group.

Making the trip from Childress were J. T. Austin, R. L. Austin, H. W. Brittain, C. O. Bradshaw, Robert Copeland, Robert Albright, Eugene Etter, Joe Moore, C. B. Sullivan, C. L. Reeves, Leroy Reeves, T. P. Roberts, A. J. Rodgers, John B. Sutt, N. C. Mills, Frank Mitchell, Howard Mitchell, Albert Tolar, Crawford West, Bill West, John Smith, W. R. Neagle, Ted Mink, Fred Evans, Jimmie Blakemore, Carl Tipps, Joe Witt, Harley White, Harold Anderson, R. E. McCoy, J. Frank Inman, Bill Collins, Jack Brown, Fred Mardis, Glenn Schoefer, Leroy Grosialose, Allen Grusendorf, and Mr. Ingram, advisor.

Quails Winners In Donkey Ball Game

A donkey basketball game staged at Quail Wednesday evening, February 7, proved a sensation among both riders and spectators. A team representing the Kiwanis Club of Wellington, colorfully dressed in boots, chaps, spurs, ten gallon hats and bandana handkerchiefs, lost to members of the Quail faculty, trustees and bus drivers by the narrow score of 10 to 8.

Spectators, however, were less sure as to the winner, and wondered if the small donkeys who outwitted many of the riders throughout the game, did not come out with the best end of the game.

Progressing more or less along the rules of official basketball for the first three quarters, the last quarter of the game became practically an indoor rodeo.

Approximately 825 fans witnessed this game, Carl Chaudoin, Quail superintendent said, and after all expenses were paid, $80 remained to be placed in the athletic fund for the school.

Players for the Quail team included B. O. Currin, Verbyl Gosnell, Frank Coleman, Tom Crabtree, Orval Smith, Ernest Maxwell, John Turley, Ben Morris, Carroll Blevins, Guy Bell, Z. J. Neeley, and George Graham.

Kiwanis players included A. J. Butler, C. V. Griffin, Cliff Campbell, Fleet Pruden, Dewey Ellis, Cameron Beam, James Sullivan, Barney Glenn, J. M. Moore and Logan Cummings.

Area Vocational Ag Judging Contests At Lubbock February 24

LUBBOCK.—Rules for the fifteenth annual vocational agriculture judging contest on Texas Technological campus February 24 and April 6 have been mailed to 150 West Texas teachers of vocational agriculture. Final instructions and entry cards will be sent to vocational teachers February 10, said Ray L. Chappelle, superintendent of the contests.

Events are the meats, dairy products, cotton and dairy cattle contests. The second division of the competition, tentatively scheduled for April 6, includes contests in livestock judging poultry, farm shop, crops and horticulture.

Ribbons, medals, banners and cups will be awarded. The high five men in each part of each contest will be awarded ribbons, and gold, silver, and bronze medals will go to first, second and third men in each contest. A banner will be given to the winner of each contest.

All students enrolled in all-day vocational agriculture in high schools and secondary schools of Texas are eligible to enter. Chappelle said, provided they have never participated in the same contest before; have never practiced judging on college material that is to be used in the contest; have never taken part in inter-state or statewide competition in the same contest.

Only one team of three men may be entered in any one contest from the same school.

QUAIL F.F.A.

The Quail F.F.A. chapter for the past few weeks has conducted a pest eradication contest among the members. Score cards were kept, and for each pest killed, a certain number of points was allowed. As proof of the killing, a foot, ear, leg, or some part of the animal was brought in.

Included among the list of pests were jackrabbits, cotton tails, skunks, moles, sparrows, pigeons, hawks, crows, blackbirds, ground squirrels, prairie dogs, field rats, snakes, barn rats, mice and coyotes. Coyotes proved the most valuable, as each counted 100 points, while mice, ground squirrels, pigeons and sparrows counted only 10 points each.

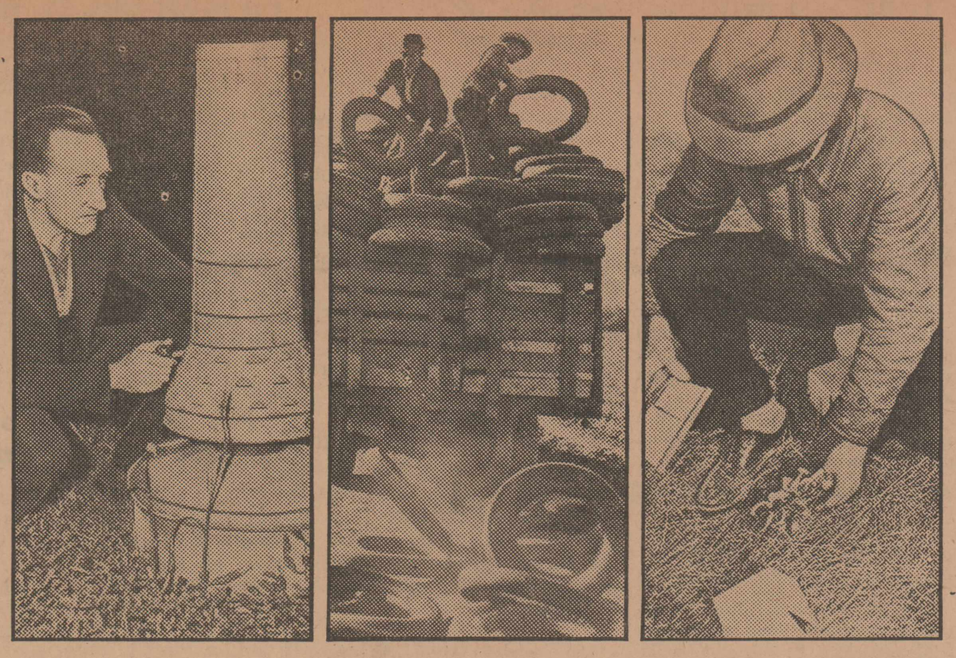

A total of 4,725 points was made. Leroy Robinson was high point man with 2,600 points. Raymond Creed was second with 795, and Truman Brewer third with 695.

Agricultural Group Adds Four Members In Meeting Friday

Added proof of the growing interest in the Collingsworth County Agricultural Association came at the meeting of that body Friday, February 2, when four new members were enrolled. These were Dee Coleman, C. D. Buerger, W. H. Vaughan and C. W. Roberts.

"If I had known that the Association was doing the kind of work that I've found out it is, I would have joined it a long time ago," Mr. Roberts commented following the meeting.

Florida Farmers Turn On Heat To Battle Frost

Frost in Florida has meant farmers there must create their own warm weather to save crops in which fortunes are invested. In orange groves heaters like one at left were turned on to raise temperature about ten degrees when emergency arose. Truck farmers, lacking modern heaters, dumped old tires, straw and sawdust in roads to be burned for a two to four degree rise. Growers protected their strawberries from frost by capping them with baskets.

County Judge Is Kiwanis Speaker

In observance of Abraham Lincoln's birthday, which fell Monday, February 12, members of the Kiwanis Club heard Judge C. C. Bishop, county judge, recount the life of Lincoln at their regular luncheon meeting Friday preceding his birth date.

"Better than any other American, he typifies America, its rugged strength, its boundless opportunities and its deep idealism. He was a man in whom the qualities of genius and common sense were strangely mingled," Judge Bishop told his audience at the beginning.

The poverty of Lincoln's early life was recalled, as was his military service, his rise as a lawyer, his marriage and his work.

"In the presidential campaign in which Lincoln was elected, Texas cast 13,011 votes for president and Lincoln did not receive a single popular vote. He did not receive a single electoral vote from a slave state," he said.

Mr. Bishop closed by telling of the various memorials which have been dedicated to Lincoln.

Visitors at the meeting Friday included W. B. Dryden, field representative of the A.A.A., E. R. Duke of Amarillo, state wheat insurance supervisor for the A.A.A., H. H. Marshall of Amarillo, assistant supervisor, J. C. Emmert, Bud Manzer and S. R. Pinkston.

What Makes People Like Our Bank

People like a bank—for the large or small—for the same reason they like an individual. If the bank shows a respect for their efforts, their wishes, their opinion; if it makes them feel at ease and at home, if they can trust it to protect their interest, they like that bank and will fight to uphold it at any and all times.

Perhaps these facts explain why the First National Bank in Wellington has received such wholehearted support in recent time. This is the bank THAT ALWAYS TREATS YOU RIGHT. Furthermore, it is one of the banks in this county whose deposits are guaranteed up to $5,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Besides friendly service there is also security for the customers, depositors and stockholders of this bank. These are the things that are bringing new customers to the First National every week. Deck's DIDACTICS

By H. D. W.

I was shocked when I heard of the accident, and sad when later I heard of the death of Joe Hardy. In spite of his ugly map and his high temper, I liked Joe Hardy very much. He was the sort who would stand by you when you needed help the most. Mr. Hardy and I did not see eye to eye on a number of questions especially some concerning politics, but I did enjoy stopping by and giving him a good argument. When that look came into his eye and he started chewing his cigar right fast, I began to get ready to leave and I always left just before he swallowed the cigar completely. I can see his jaws working now. It was simply a physical accompaniment of a tremendously active mind and a highly courageous spirit. In case you are one of those in whom he trusted, you folks that owed him an account can still pay his widow.

In this same issue, there is also the account of the death of H. W. Holbert, a quiet and kindly man. He was a druggist in the early days, and if he ever harmed or offended any person I never heard of it. There were many wisecrackers in those early days. Due to the fact that he simply grinned when someone told a joke on him, Mr. Holbert's inclination to attend strictly to his own business was used for a number of these that are still classics. People keep alive jokes about people just as they do about other memories. It is human nature to let the unpleasant ones die quickly. Folks loved Mr. Holbert, and that is the reason you still hear the tale of him not wanting to sell his last bottle of tonic because he would be out of stock. It is the reason you still hear the story where he was asked to express his preference if a certain man and a nigger were running for office, and he replied that he was in business and would not say. Two of our former citizens are gone. Both were men of good hearts. Both were druggists. I have said nothing in these two short paragraphs about their real service; but if I were a druggist, I would be proud to be a member of the useful profession of Mr. Hardy and Mr. Holbert.

Bob Goodnight has received, finally, a report on the free flowing water well located west of Wellington. The water is suitable for irrigation. If other wells as strong can be discovered in that valley, it will be a tremendous asset to Wellington. It will also bring prosperity to the people who own that type of land. Water is and has been the limiting factor to production in this county.

By the way, a man who has made a study of it, told me in McLean last Thursday that we are in for eleven wet years.

How do you other parents answer all the questions your children ask? It is a night and day affair at my house. The latest concerns the income tax. Diane asked her mother why she was working on the books at home. After many questions and answers concerning the fact that you must report your earnings to the government, my daughter finally figured out a solution of her own. She said: "Well, I would just hide it."

* * *

Monday I was talking with a salesman for a wholesale grocery firm. He mentioned the fact that all of the regular men had been taken away from the military camp at Fort Sill near Lawton. He asked a grocer there when he expected them back. The grocer told him that the men did not think they were coming back until they had first been to a war. I doubt the accuracy of this statement, but it does show how some people are thinking. Just as I told you last week, they are going to try to drag us in. England and France will stop at nothing to try to get us involved, for they know that we will come in on their side if at all. Again I tell you we must stay out. For the good of our country, for the good of the world, we must remain strong. We must not sacrifice our best young men in a European war, which does concern us, but whose basic quarrels were not of our making and which we cannot solve by slaughter. When peace comes, we may solve them by trade.

Judge C. C. Bishop made a speech on Abraham Lincoln at the Kiwanis club last Friday. It was such an excellent talk that he was asked to repeat it at the Wellington High School on Monday and again before the Rotary club on Tuesday. Even the Rotarians praised it highly, and Bishop is a Kiwanian.

I also tried to get a copy of a talk that Judge R. H. Cocke made on self sufficiency before the Rotary recently. From what I hear it was one of the most moving and thoughtful speeches made in Wellington in recent months. The truth of the matter is that both of these service clubs can sling the bull right freely. If you are in business here, it might be well for you to ask yourself why you are not a member of one or the other.

Here is a story that smells. Naturally the lady that told it does not, for she is a gracious person and a good business woman. Mrs. Creed Hill had an idle stock tank on one of her farms. She decided to put it into use and sent some men to repair it. When they got to the windmill they found 14 skunks and two badgers in the tank. The varmints had been able to get in, but they were not able to get out. The odor was terrific. Mrs. Hill had the tank washed, scrubbed and cleaned but the cattle still won't drink out of that particular tank. They must know something.

Mrs. Walter Campbell, Mrs. Cliff Campbell, Mrs. John W. Harper, Mrs. Dick Richards and Mrs. J. Frank Johnson were in Wichita Falls Friday to attend the showing of "Gone With The Wind."

Mrs. Von Bowen was confined last Wednesday to a local hospital where she underwent a minor operation.

Misses Virginia Lee Fortenberry, Louise Whisenant and Mary Nell Scruggs and Bud Scruggs and Victor Williams, all of whom are students at W.T.S.C. in Canyon, spent the week end here with their parents.

"Golgotha" Seen Here On Monday

"Golgotha," a talking picture dealing with the last days of Christ upon earth, was featured in two presentations in Wellington Monday, February 12, under the auspices of the women of the Christian Church. An afternoon performance was given primarily for school children, while in the evening the picture was shown at the Christian Church.

This picture is the first ever made of the Passion Play, and brings vividly to the audiences a story which but a few have seen acted.

"Golgotha" has been shown in a number of towns in this section during recent weeks.

Valentine Banquet Given For Belles Lettres Club

Members of the Belles Lettres Club entertained Tuesday evening with a banquet honoring their husbands. The banquet, which had a Valentine theme, was given in the parlor of the Methodist Church, and dinner was served by the Women's Missionary Society. Centering the table was a beautiful arrangement of red leaves and red and white candles. Old fashioned lace Valentines were placed on the table and the individual place cards were made of Valentines. Menus and programs were placed inside the place cards.

Opening the program was W. K. Cottingame, who gave the invocation. Mrs. Jack Hurst gave the welcoming address, followed by accordion selections, "Modern Love Songs," by Miss Mildred Collins. Round robin introductions were next made, with each person introducing the person who sat on his right. "Old Long Songs" were given by a vocal trio composed of Mesdames Esdle Bartlett, W. K. Cottingame and Miss Collins, accompanied by Mrs. A. C. Williams. "Object of the Kiwanis" was the subject of a talk given by Logan Cummings. Miss Helen Hudson read "Love in the Ghetto." Jack Hurst next told of "Objectives of the Rotary Club," followed by Mrs. J. M. Stowell, who gave a short history of the objectives of Belles Lettres. Closing the program was the song, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

Dinner was served to: Messrs. and Mmes. Bert Starkey, Cecil Leggitt, Cottingame, Velman Warrick, Esdle Bartlett, Hurst, A. C. Williams, W. S. Puryear, Logan Cummings, Mrs. J. M. Stowell, Miss Hudson and Miss Collins.

MEMBER TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

A HEALTHY SIGN

Bankers organize to further the work of the banking business; newspapermen form press associations knowing that what an individual paper cannot get, a group of papers working together can secure; lumbermen and grocerymen and hardware merchants organize for reasons not unlike these.

Farmers, too, are coming to know that as an organized group, they can secure benefits for themselves that no amount of work on the part of a single individual could accomplish. All this is leading up to the point that the new interest among local farmers in the Collingsworth County Agricultural Association is most gratifying both to the officers and to the members.

Taking its stand as representative of Collingsworth County farmers, the association is supporting the movement of the County Agricultural Conservation Association and ginners in their efforts to secure a change in the cotton loan program for counties of this area. It is boosting Congressman Marvin Jones in his effort to uphold the part of the farmer in the economy fight in the national congress. Later local problems will be tackled.

No bar is put up on membership in this association—every farmer, whether a landowner or tenant, and every business and professional man may become a member, for essentially everyone of us is dependent upon agriculture, in some way or another.

If you join the association now, or if you join during the April membership drive, the officers feel that your opinion will be that of one man who recently became a member: "If I had known what kind of work the association was doing, I'd have joined a long time ago."

OBSERVANCE OF LENT

The Lenten season, which is observed by the Roman and Greek Catholic churches, as well as in some degree by the Church of England, the Protestant Episcopal church in America and others, began on Ash Wednesday, February 7, and will continue until Easter Sunday, March 24, a period of forty days, not counting Sundays.

In the early days of the Christian era the fast of Lent was observed for varying periods, by some only one or two days and by others for a longer time, according to the writings of Irenaeus, Greek Bishop of Lyons, in the second century. Pope Leo I, in the fourth century, recommended the fast of forty days as having apostolic authority. This period was taken to commemorate the forty days' fast of Moses, of Elijah, and especially that of Christ.

Theoretically, at least, the faithful abstain from food on fast days until evening. Worldly amusements and secular celebrations are to be avoided and marriages are held to be undesirable during Lent.

The duty of fasting is modified with respect to laboring people, children, and women under certain conditions, but increased diligence in works of charity is enjoined upon all, as well as extraordinary attention to all religious observances, throughout this period.

TONS OF CHOCOLATE

From a small beginning by a firm in Boston in 1770, the manufacture of chocolate in the United States has grown to enormous proportions, consumption now reaching about 225,000 tons a year.

Chocolate is a product of the caco tree, grown principally in the tropical climates of Central and South America, the West Indies and Africa. This tree is indigenous to the warm countries of the New World, and Cacao beans are said to have been first introduced into Europe by Columbus and other early explorers.

At present the Gold Coast of Africa is the greatest producer of cacao, with Brazil ranking second and Ecuador third. It is not raised commercially in this country, but specimens of the tree may be seen in the experimental gardens of the Department of Agriculture at Miami, Florida.

Chocolate prepared in various ways was used as a beverage by the Aztecs of Mexico before the discovery of America, and a very strong chocolate concoction is said to have been the favorite drink of Montezuma. A weaker brew, with sugar added, became popular later on at the royal courts of Europe.

While still widely used as a beverage, most of the immense quantity of chocolate consumed in this country is used in flavoring for ice cream, cake and candy.

WOMAN OF THE YEAR

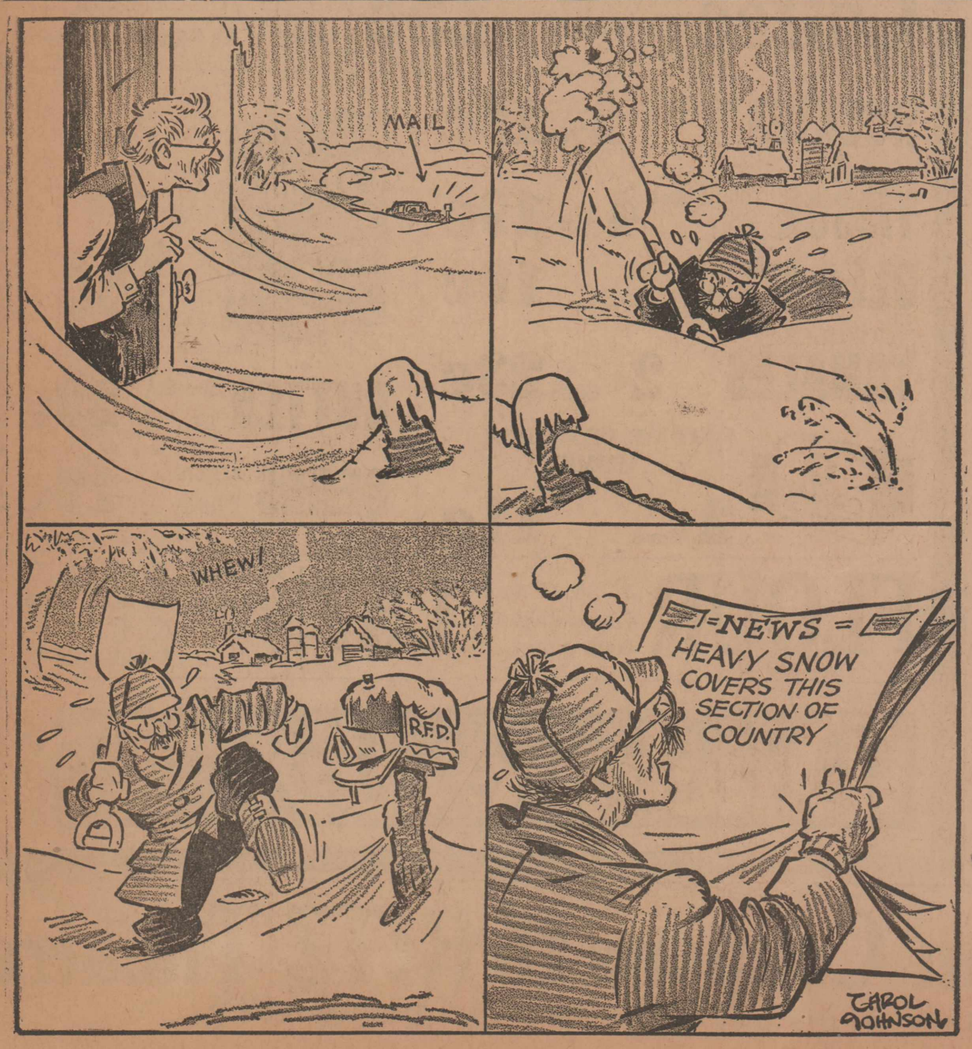

In its February issue the Progressive Farmer announces its selection of Miss Martha Berry of Georgia as the South's "woman of the year" for her historic pioneer service in providing educational opportunities for country boys and girls of limited means.

This is only one of many honors which have been bestowed on Miss Berry, who was in 1931 selected in a nation-wide poll as one of the 12 greatest American women. She has also received the Theodore Roosevelt medal for leadership of youth, and honorary degrees from six colleges and universities.

In 1902 she founded the Berry schools for mountain boys and girls, with a modest beginning in a log cabin near her home at Mount Berry, Ga. The schools now have more than 1,300 students, who attend classes four days and work two days each week. The boys learn useful trades or farming, while the girls are taught home economics and other subjects in which they are interested.

Miss Berry is still active in the direction of the schools at the age of 73, and is also the only woman member of the board of regents of the Georgia university system,

Cold Facts

Migrants Find Havens In Northwest

Men of America and their families who left their dusty farms for the dusty road are finding new hope of temporary haven in the Pacific northwest where camps are now being built to care for transient farm labor.

Newest of these is the 250-family settlement near Twin Falls, Ida. Just completed, it provides minimum housing, sanitary and social facilities for the spring's influx of homeless farmers, their wives and their children.

Here the migrants will find beds to sleep on, instead of cots or auto cushions; clean water to drink and wash with, solid roofs instead of leaky tents; real stoves, not open bonfires.

Driven from their homes in the middle west by the dread specter of water shortage and choking clouds of pulverized dirt, the dust bowl dwellers became migrants through necessity, not by choice. Loading their clothes, their bedding, their treasured belongings and all manner of living necessities—sometimes even the kitchen sink—onto their automobiles and trucks, they followed the setting sun into the west.

California bore the brunt of early migrations, for in that state were fruits and crops aplenty to be picked. Always there had been work for transient farm workers there, until the influx became too great.

Then came stories of the plight of the migrants in California, as pictures were taken and books written. Growers were accustomed to supplying tent space or temporary homes for the workers, but there weren't enough to go around when the Okies and other dust bowlers came rolling in.

The migration spread into the northwest, where "fruit tramps" found pickings good in cherry and apple valleys, and wheat hands were able to get harvest work.

Perplexed western states, burdened with this additional weight on relief rolls, were assisted when the federal government through FSA stepped in to aid local agencies. In California, the first of the migrant camps were established for the destitute families.

Opposition in the northwest to construction of farm family labor camps melted when hostile groups recognized the value and the inevitability of the settlements. First camps were built at Yamhill, Ore., and Yakima, Wash., fruit and hop centers.

Dust bowlers in Idaho will move into camp facilities including 224 wooden shelters with food closet and cooking stove base, and 24 farm labor homes with two bedrooms, combination living room and kitchen, simple plumbing, electric lights and a small garden plot. Families will be eligible if they are working in crops, but no single persons will be accepted.

Chains of camps up and down the coast will make it possible for migrant farm families to follow the crop harvest through the March-October cycle from south to north and back again with the comforts of home and health once more their lot.

The Great American Home

The Enemies Of Jesus

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 18.

Text: Matthew 22:15-22, 34-40.

Two incidents in the life of Jesus showing how His enemies tried to trap Him are the basis of this lesson on good citizens and good neighbors.

These enemies who came to trap Him were probably strongly opposed to the Roman occupation of their country. They showed no allegiance to Caesar, or if they did so it was merely an outward allegiance which they hated and renounced in their hearts. Yet they took this very matter of paying tribute to Caesar to embarrass Jesus and to arouse opposition to Him.

Their question was designed to get Him in trouble, whichever way He answered. If He said it was lawful to pay tribute to Caesar, the intensely Jewish patriots who were opposed to Rome would renounce and persecute Him. If, on the other hand, He said that it was not lawful to pay tribute to Caesar, they could make out a very good case to get Him in trouble with the Roman authorities.

With amazing wisdom and penetration of what was in their minds, Jesus called for a coin. It bore upon it, of course, the image of Caesar, and the Pharisees could not but acknowledge this. "Then," said Jesus, "render therefore unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's; and and unto God the things that are God's."

These words have been almost universally misunderstood and misused in our modern world. They are quoted often as the authority of Jesus for obedience to the state, and also as endorsing the principle of the separation between church and state. Obedience to the state in its just and proper demands is a civic virtue. Good laws and obedience to them are at the very foundation of a well-ordered society. But history has shown again and again that bad laws, and obedience to them, are the marks of a disordered society.

Christians have been compelled many times to protest against evil or unjust laws and to refuse to obey them for conscience's sake. Surely we must recognize that the law of Christ upholds such action.

What Jesus taught continuously is that all things belong to God. In the incident which we are studying, Jesus was taking a very practical way of confounding the Pharisees who sought to trap Him. But He was certainly not asserting that there was an authority of Caesar or of the state which is apart altogether from that of God.

With equal wisdom and astuteness, Jesus answered the question of the lawyer who asked Him to say which was the greatest commandment in the Jewish law. Here He might easily incur the hostility of those who exalted one law above another. But Jesus turned the question upon His questioner, and He took the occasion to sum up all the law in the great, positive injunction of love to God and love to one's neighbor.

"On these two commandments," Jesus said, "the whole law hangeth."

Might we not put this in modern terms by saying that in these two commandments and he fulfillment of them we have the sum and substance of religion?

A. Parsons telling a friend that he read about the Silver Shirts—the political organization—and heard about them, but not once had he been able to find out what they believed in or stood for.

Roy Willingham taking a brand new spade out of his car and then looking critically at the unspaded lawn around his new house.

Margaret Shields hurrying into the office of a friend and saying she had to write a letter in a hurry, and every time she started to write in her own office, something interfered. "And I can write it in here," she added.

Lucy Kesler saying that even though she's not in school this year, she's always busy doing something.

LETTERS From the PEOPLE

(Editor's Note: The Leader will gladly publish any acceptable article which is submitted by readers, provided the articles are signed by the readers and are free from libelous or malicious contents. The opinions expressed here, however, do not necessarily reflect the opinions of this newspaper.)

Well for the love o'Mike. What's going to happen to the farmer when the F.F.A. boys have killed off all the birds. I know some of the farmers "cuss" the birds for eating a little grain, but if it weren't for the birds the grasshoppers and other pests would eat up our crops. Birds eat millions of weed seed that would come up and of course cause us a lot of expense and hard work to eradicate.

All kinds of birds are being killed. All birds eat hoppers and weed seed. They need to be protected instead of being killed. Then, too, if we teach little boys to kill little birds, little helpless things they are not even angry at, can we blame these same boys when they are older if they kill some one they don't like? I think the schools could help our boys a lot more by teaching kindness instead of murder.

The Wellington Leader:

I just want to tell you how much I enjoy getting my copy of The Leader again this week. It was almost like seeing someone from home.

I hear you folks have been having some winter weather down there. I think you have had more snow than we have had here. The lowest the temperature has been so far this winter is 31 degrees below zero. Slightly chilly for a Texan, but as this is my third winter here, I'm somewhat acclimated.

I'm teaching in a rural school here. The youngsters have a great time during the noon hour sledding and skiing down a long hill by the school. They haven't been able to coax me onto a pair of skiis yet, but everyone says it is such grand sport, so I guess I'll risk breaking my neck and learn to ski.

And again, thanks for the good old Leader.

Sincerely,
Mrs. W. C. Waldahl
(Othella Kesler).

Among the progressive farmers in our community to buy tractors recently are John Deger and sons, Walter Deger and Austin Deger, G. D. Mahaffey, E. Smith and son, E. R. Smith, George Pounds, Clint Cleveland. As weather conditions have been favorable the past few days, tractors can be heard in every direction, with the farmers busy listing and breaking land for spring planting. No doubt as they go along, thoughts intermingle in their mind, something of this kind: "I'll turn the soil deeper, so it will pay; will insure more yield on harvest day. I've given up some 'precious nags,' Pete, Molly, Tisppie and Mag. Yes! I'll miss seeing them morning, noon and night, but will be a change all right. With no feed to wag, no harness to drag—no time will be spent for their care. So, I'll help 'wifey dear' those household duties to share."

Among those attending the Methodist quarterly conference at Samnorwood Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Shaw, Miss Modena Shaw, Billie Ruth Shaw and James Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Shaw and Geraldine, Mrs. N. E. Willard and Miss Marjorie Willard, Mrs. George Jones and sons, Howard and Harvey, and Mrs. D. G. Mahaffey.

Miss Margaret Ellen Cleveland was removed last week from a Wellington hospital to her home after being confined some eight days there, following a major operation. She is steadily improving.

Mrs. Bettie Boone of Briscoe is visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Prigmore, and Mr. Prigmore this week.

Mrs. Wesley Ammons and small son, James Wesley, were removed from the hospital in Wellington last week. Both are doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Irwin are moving from the Russell ranch in Childress County to their former home four miles east of Aberdeen this week. Mr. and Mrs. Irwin moved from here some three years ago to Montague County where they lived for one year. They moved from there to Childress County. They had made this community their home for nearly 30 years. For a number of years, Mr. Irwin had charge of the Boyd ranch near here. Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Irwin and family moved recently from the S. C. Irwin home to the Charley Graves farm home seven miles northeast of Aberdeen.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Thompson and small son of Samnorwood visited in the E. Smith home last Thursday.

J. A. Dukeminier Builds

Table Of 28 Kinds Wood

Wood from trees that grow in China—in Africa—in South America—and wood from the first courthouse in Collingsworth County—have been combined into one table that J. A. Dukeminier of Wellington finished recently.

Altogether, wood from twenty-eight varieties of trees, cut into between 1,600 and 1,800 pieces, have gone into the making of the table. Mr. Dukeminier has been working on the table at odd times for between a year and a half and two years.

The table will be used by Mrs. Dukeminier as a breakfast table.

The top surface measures 43 by 37 inches, and the tiny pieces are inlaid in an intricate geometrical pattern, which Mr. Dukeminier designed himself. Even the legs and the moulding around the edge has inlaid work.

"I didn't know what it would look like when I started," he commented. "I just worked out the pattern as I went along.

"There are between 1,600 and 1,800 pieces of wood in the table, some of them so tiny that you'd never see them unless you knew they were there. I've counted the piecs several times, but I never get the same count twice. I guess I overlooked some of the little pieces. Each leg is made from 72 pieces."

Among the woods that have gone into this table are rosewood, stainwood, and Zebra wood from Africa, teak wood from China, prima vera from South America and the better known bass wood, magnolia, birch, red cedar, bois d'arc, walnut, oak, hickory, pinyon, mesquite, cottonwood, red gum, mahogany, ebony, chestnut, ash, poplar, pecan, cherry, iron wood, gum, maple and white pine.

Beth Johnson Now Studying In Johns Hopkins Hospital

Miss Beth Johnson of Wellington, a student nurse in a Washington, D. C., hospital, is now doing fifteen weeks of special sutdy in the internationally famous John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Md., friends here have learned.

Miss Johnson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elihu Johnson of Wellington. She is a graduate of Wellington High School, and later studied in Keene, Texas, and in New England.

There are 300 doctors and 600 nurses in the hospital, and at a single meal, 5,000 people are fed, Miss Johnson reports.

"It was quite a nervous strain at first because they do give us weighty responsibilities," she commented in a recent letter, which described the life in the institution.

"It is wonderful, I think, because I like nursing so much," she concluded her letter.

THE LINEMAN is similar to the old-time cowboy in many ways. He wears spurs. His work is highly exciting—and, at times, extremely hazardous. Like the cowboy who must guard his charges against unruly elements, this modern linerider's work is increased tenfold in bad weather.

The main difference is that the cowboy tended livestock.

The lineman tends live wires and rides herd on kilowatts.

You've seen him many times, high up on 50-foot poles wherever new lines are being built or old lines repaired. His is one of the most hazardous jobs in the world.

Although his work is unusual, he lives a normal life. He is a good citizen . . . maybe he is your neighbor. Singley Bros. Now Operating Sweet Feed Mill

Molasses-Feed Mixture Is Recommended Farmers As Superior Feed

Experimenting with a new type of feed to offer stock and poultry raisers of the county, the Singley Bros. Mill recently installed a sweet feed mill, by which molasses may be added to the regularly fed ground sorghums.

With sufficient time passed in which to give this type of feed a fair test, E. A. Singley and Jones Singley, managers, this week announced that they had found the results highly satisfactory among their customers.

Pointing out that molasses is rich in food value, they added that it costs less than half as much as other feeds of equal value.

"Here are some of the pointers we have learned since installing our sweet feed mill," they said. "In addition to the low cost, a mixture of feed and molasses has proved more fattening than many other combinations. It is equally good for horses, sheep, hogs, poultry or cattle, and it cheapens the cost of producing beef, mutton, pork and milk."

The recently installed mill, it was explained, regulates the amount of molasses that goes into the mixture by the amount of feed to be used, so that a balanced ration is maintained at all times.

Our New Sweet Feed Mill Means MONEY To You

We have recently installed a sweet feed mill, and the results are proving highly satisfactory to the farmers and stockmen who have been using this superior feed. Here are a few of the reasons why.

Molasses costs less than half as much as other feeds of equal food value.
It produces more fat than corn, and is a better conditioner than oil meal.
It keeps stock healthy, creates thirst, aids digestion, helps assimilation, shortens the feeding period, is one of the best growers, flesh producers, fatteners and finishers known, and adds most to selling value.
It increases the flow of milk and overcomes bitterness and other objectionable tastes imparted to milk by vegetation eaten by dairy cows.
It is equivalent to corn grain as a feed for work mules.
It is equally good for horses, sheep, hogs, poultry or cattle, and cheapens the cost of producing beef, mutton, pork and milk.
Poultry men say it lessens disease in their flocks, and improves the texture of the plumage of their birds; that hens eat more egg-laying mash when molasses is added.
