Ford Is Facing Pressure

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON AP—President Ford faces increased pressures from both left and right, from Democrats and Republicans, as a result of last week's off-year elections.

And the cross-currents already developing could complicate his 1976 election plans, should he carry out his announced intention of seeking a full presidential term.

On one hand, Democrats contend that their sweeping electoral pickups were the result of voter demand for more forceful leadership in government, particularly in dealing with the nation's troubled economy.

They seem certain to push that view when the 94th Congress convenes in January, and there are indications the liberal wing of Ford's own party will lend some support.

On the other hand, Republican conservatives led by retiring California Gov. Ronald Reagan were already restive because of Ford's selection of Nelson A. Rockefeller for vice president and his proposal for conditional amnesty to Vietnam-era military dissenters.

Although the biggest losers in the election were hard-line GOP conservatives, Sen. James L. Buckley, Con -R-N.Y., insisted Friday "there is no evidence that conservative positions were in any way questioned by the voters."

For the moment, Ford is standing pat. Top officials say they son't see any plan to change the administration's approach to the economic situation.

Over the longer run, that stance could bring trouble in Congress and with the public. If Congress develops any momentum for economic initiative at all, Ford could wind up in the position of seeming to block it, unless he comes up with proposals beyond those offered to date.

But if Ford begins to act by adopting such proposals as wage-price guidlines to curb inflation or stepped up federal spending to meet recession, he faces problems with the Republican conservatives.

Whatever their fate last Tuesday, Republican conservatives still command considerable strength within the GOP as a result of the gradual shift of Republican power toward the South and the West.

Reagan himself plans to embark on a nationwide speaking tour next year. He is hinting a 1976 presidential bid, regardless of whether Ford runs.

There are some doubts that Ford will run if economic conditions are poor.

Despite White House pronouncements that his candidacy is "probable", Mrs. Ford's recent breast cancer operation could give the President a perfect "out" if he doesn't want to run.

Reagan then might be nominated at a conservative-dominated GOP convention, according to that possible scenario.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Nov. 11, the 315th day of 1974. There are 50 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1918, World War I ended with the signing of an armistice in Marshal Foch's railway car in the forest of Compiegne, France.

On this date:

In 1620, the Pilgrims signed a compact aboard the Mayflower while anchored off Cape Cod.

In 1851, the first patent for a telescope was issued to Alvin Clark of Cambridge, Mass.

In 1889, Washington was admitted to the union as the 42nd state.

In 1921, the Washington Disarmament Conference convened.

In 1933, the first of the great dust storms of the 1930's swept across North Dakota.

In 1942, in World War II, the Germans occupied all of France.

Ten years ago: West Germany's ruling Christian Democratic party came out in favor of a delay in German participation in an Allied nuclear fleet proposed by the U.S. but opposed by France.

Five years ago: Anonymous critics of the Vietnam war and what they termed "big business" claimed responsibility for bomb explosions in three New York skyscrapers.

One year ago: Egypt and Israel signed a cease-fire agreement sponsored by the United States and began discussions to carry out the pact.

MIA Ruling Is Sustained

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today sustained a lower-court decision upholding the law under which the government decides whether to declare men dead after they have become missing in action.

The court sustained without comment the decision of a three-judge federal panel in New York which declared the act unconstitutional as it had been previously administered, but which said that proceedings could continue if the next of kin were given notice and an opportunity for a hearing.

The wives or mothers of five American servicemen missing in action in Southeast Asia appealed that decision, calling it an "exercise in judicial legislation."

They contended that, having decided the act was unconstitutional, the court exceeded its powers by "the addition ... of hitherto nonexistent provisions for notice and hearing."

As a result of the court's action, they said, proceedings under the challenged legislation have continued.

Named as defendants in the legal action were the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force, who make the determinations of death.

Lawyers for the families of the missing men said the service secretaries have power under the challenged legislation to "completely restrict and control the participation of family members who wish to oppose a determination of death."

In other action today, the court:

—Refused to hear a challenge to an Oklahoma law prohibiting the display of the names of war dead in antiwar demonstrations without family permission.

—Refused to grant an order saving former Army Capt. Howard B. Levy from serving nine days in jail while he is appealing a conviction for antiwar statements and conduct while he was in the Army.

—Denied the bids of defendants in three separate obscenity cases to have their convictions reviewed by the Supreme Court.

—Declined to hear a challenge to U. S. Postal Service policies designed to persuade older employes to retire early at the time that the Postal Service was reorganized as an independent agency in 1971.

—Declined to review a series of lower-court decisions upholding state laws permitting repossession of goods purchased under installment contracts without court action or a hearing.

Coal Miners Strike To Begin Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nationwide coal strike will begin just after midnight but most mines already were shut for the holiday. Union and industry negotiators are optimistic about reaching a new contract.

Another bargaining session was scheduled today. While both sides say they are making progress, a settlement appears unlikely before midweek at the earliest.

"I certainly feel we're not too many days away from a settlement," said Guy Farmer, the chief industry negotiator. "We're getting closer ... but I can't say when," said United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller.

Each day of delay will further prolong the strike, now expected to last at least two weeks. That's the estimated time required for miners to vote on any tentative pact.

The government says a walkout of any longer duration will begin to force production cutbacks in other industries and result in layoffs of thousands of workers.

A strike is unavoidable because of the UMW's "no contract, no work" tradition, and because ratification of any settlement would require about 10 days. Thus, the length of the walkout depends on the negotiators' ability to hammer out a new agreement that will win rank-and-file approval. The current contract expires at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday.

After furious last minute stockpiling Saturday, most coal mines were idle Sunday and are expected to remain so until the union's 120,000 members approve a new contract. Were the mines to work today — Veteran's Day — the companies would have to pay triple wages under holiday provisions of the current pact.

The negotiators met until 11 p.m. Sunday before recessing for the night, the latest they have worked in nearly a week.

As he emerged from the talks, Farmer said he thought it would be midweek before a settlement was worked out. Earlier, he had been hopeful of an agreement over this past weekend.

Several industries — notably railroads and steel companies — are expected to feel the initial effect of the strike.

The Norfolk & Western Railway, the nation's second largest coal hauler, has already announced plans for layoffs once present coal stockpiles at mines have been shipped. And, the Penn Central, the largest rail carrier, says it stands to lose $5 million a. week during the strike.

Interior Department officials say a strike of only two weeks would cut steel production by 25 per cent, with a cutback of up to 70 per cent forecast if the walkout continued into December.

A drop in steel production would ripple through the auto, appliance and construction industries. Electric power companies have coal reserves of several weeks but a long strike would eventually begin to have serious consequences.

The government estimates that 400,000 workers will lose their jobs after four weeks of a coal strike and 1.7 million after eight weeks.

The United Way

The Scurry County United Way has reached the three-quarter mark in its 1974 campaign and hopes to conclude the drive by Nov. 21.

This was announced this morning at a general report session at city hall.

A tabulation following the reports from workers this morning showed contributions and pledges totalling $34,431.74, which is 75.6 per cent of the $45,000 goal.

This leaves $10,568.26 to be raised within the next 10 days to put the campaign over the top. The United Way supports operations of 13 participating agencies.

All divisions in the campaign were represented in tabulations this morning. The Branch House Division, with a total of $1,700 sets the pace, since its goal was $1,000. Three other divisions are approaching their goals and all except one are in striking distance of their respective goals. The Utilities Division has reported $3,935.82, just $64.18 under its goal; the Rural Division has reported $1,362.40, just $137.60 under its goal, and the Advance Division has reported $12,566, just $434 under its goal.

Other reports include Commercial Division, $5,283.02, with $3,216.98 to go; Educational Division $3,497.75, with $1,502.25 to go; Oil and Industry Division, $4,765 with $3,235 to go; Public Employes Division $1,121. 75 with $878.25 to go; Professional Division, $200 with $1,800 to go.

Jack Cummins, general campaign chairman, urge workers to complete their assignments as quickly as possibly and for all to be prepared to make final reports by Nov. 21.

Pilot Dies In Crash

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A light plane piloted by Donald W. Lessmyer of Las Cruces, N.M. crashed late Sunday in the Franklin Mountains east of here, killing Lessmyer.

Rescue workers reaching the remote site described the wreckage as being "rolled up like a twisted beer can."

Seven Die In Mine Accident

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Hundreds of tons of mud today washed down a shaft at the Impala Platinum Mine, the world's second biggest, killing at least seven miners, a companyspokesman said.

A spokesman said the dead included two white miners and "not less than" than five black miners, but he denied reports that 2,000 to 3,000 miners were trapped.

An Impala official said the slime poured into the shaft after heavy rains forced a dam to burst at the mine in Bafokeng, near Rustenburg 100 miles from here.

The official said the mud caused considerable damage to surface installations.

Between 2,000 and 3,000 men were working underground when the mud and slime poured over the lip of the No. 4 shaft. But mine officials said almost all managed to reach the surface through another shaft which remained clear.

Bi-District Game Set For Nov. 22

The Snyder Tigers and the Brownwood Lions will play their bi-district football game at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 22, in Shotwell Stadium in Abilene.

Coaches and other officials of the two schools made plans for the playoff game this morning at a meeting in Abilene.

The Tigers, who will represent District 3-AAAAin the bi-district game, will be the home team, and Snyder fans will sit on the west side of the stadium.

Tickets for the bi-district game will be priced at $3 each for adults in the advance sale, and $3.50 each at the gate. Student tickets will cost $1 each in the advance sale and $1.50 at the gate.

In Snyder, local season-tickets holders will have an opportunity to purchase bi-district game tickets first. Each season ticket holder may buy bi-district tickets up to the number of season tickets he holds. These may be purchased at the school administration building on Monday, Nov. 18 and on Tuesday morning Nov. 19. The tickets will go on sale to the general public on a first come-first served basis at 1 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 19.

Although Snyder and Brownwood each has one game remaining on its regular season slate, both have clinched playoff berths.

Arabs Cut Oil Prices, Hike Taxes, Royalties

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

Three Arab oil states have cut their oil prices by 3.5 per cent. But they also increased taxes and royalties charged foreign oil companies, making it unlikely that consumers will get any reduction.

Saudi Arabia, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates announced on Sunday they were slicing 40 cents off the posted price of $11.65 per barrel of crude oil. They said this would remain in effect through next July.

This applies to the governments' 60 per cent share of their countries' oil production which they sell back to the oil companies or to other purchasers. But to prevent any decline in revenue, the three governments ordered a 17 per cent increase in taxes and royalties paid by foreign oil companies on the 40 per cent of production which they still own.

The price-tax moves were announced in Abu Dhabi after a two-day meeting of the six Persian Gulf oil states. The three other countries — Iran, Kuwait and Iraq — did not go along with the price-tax shuffle. They said that any such decision should be taken by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, which is meeting Dec.12 in Vienna.

Elsewhere in the Middle East:

The United States and Egypt signed an agreement for the sale of 200,000 tons of American wheat to Egypt for $38.7 million, to be paid for over 20 years at 3 per cent interest. This supplements an earlier U.S. sale of 100,000 tons for $17.5 million. Officials said the 200,000 tons will be .4 per cent of the American harvest this year.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, in Cairo for the signing, said the United States would also provide Egypt with $10 million worth of tobacco and 60,000 bales of cotton.

The Israeli government announced a drastic austerity program to rebuild its foreign currency reserves so it can continue to buy arms. The program includes a 43 per cent devaluation in the pound, increases in the prices of food, gasoline and electricity, a wage freeze, import curbs and new taxes. Hundreds rioted in a Tel Aviv slum area in protest, but Premier Yitzhak Rabin warned that more severe measures will come soon.

"Arms have poured into the Arab countries and we have had to confront this increased strength," he said in a televised speech.

Israel's arch foe, guerrilla chief Yasir Arafat, said that only the United States can prevent a new Middle East war by halting "unconditional aid" to the Jewish state.

Speaking on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers," the head of the Palestine Liberation Organization said that another Middle East war is inevitable: "I can see it. I can touch it."

The only way to avert it, he said, is for America to "stop its joint planning with Israel." Arafat was interviewed somewhere in Lebanon.

Kissinger To China Nov. 25

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will visit mainland China Nov. 25-29, the State Department announced Monday.

The long anticipated trip, designed to maintain warming relations with Peking, will follow a minisummit in Vladivostok, Russia, between President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid Breshnev.

The China visit provides for an immediate report to Chinese officials on the results of the Ford-Brezhnev meeting. In his last visit to the mainland a year ago, Kissinger tried to reassure the Chinese that the policy of detente with Moscow was not directed at Peking. The United States then joined China in a declaration opposing "efforts by any other country or group of countries" to establish domination in any area of the world.

Ford and Kissinger will leave for Japan Sunday and stop in South Korea before going on to the Soviet Union.

Her husband claims to be 18 and single

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: First let me tell you that my husband is 38 and I am 36. We have been married for six years, after dating for eleven years. We wanted to be sure we were ready for marriage.

I was not snooping, because I am not that type, but before the Goodwill people took away an old trunk which had been stored in our attic for a long time, I looked through it, and came across about 200 letters, addressed to my husband in care of a post office box in a nearby town. (He has to go through that little town on his way to work.)

My curiousity got the best of me because these letters were in three different handwritings, all addressed to him in care of the same box number. Some were dated as far back as two years ago!

It seems he is corresponding with three young girls (13 and 14-year-olds) through some pen pal club. I don't know what he has written to them, but they think he is a single 18-year-old boy, interested in a romantic relationship.

He is college-educated and I only graduated from high school. He is a religious man, Abby, and respected in his community. Why would he do something like this? Is he sick? What should I do about it? WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Your husband could be sick. Tell him exactly how you came upon the letters and insist that he see his doctor. His behavior is symptomatic of a serious physical (and/or mental) illness which, if treated in time, can be helped.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 42 year-old-man who is normal in every respect, but I am 4 ft. 11 and weigh 115. I am single and very lonely.

I heard that there was a national convention of The Little People of America in Ashville, N.C. last July. I would have gone, but it was over by the time I learned about it.

If you use this in the paper, please omit my name and town because some normal-sized people tend to make fun of us little people although they mean no harm.

If you have any information about this club for little people, I would certainly appreciate it. LITTLE GUY

DEAR LITTLE: I'll try. Anyone out there want to do a lot of little people a big favor? Write to Abby with the information and I'll print it.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to the same man for 30 years. When he picked a wife, he wanted a church-going girl who didn't drink, smoke or dance. One who was quiet, modest and not sexy.

I was that girl. I gave him two children (now 28 and 26, both married). Now my husband has decided that he no longer loves me. Instead he wants a younger woman who is sexy, can dance and "turn him on." He doesn't care if she smokes or drinks either.

Behind my back he had divorce papers served on me. We are both 52. He never let me work because he wanted me to stay home and be a full-time wife and mother, so I have no skills. I don't want a divorce, and am contesting it. I left my home and am living with my daughter. I attend church regularly, and I still love him regardless.

The lawyers say we could live separately and come and go as we please, but that's against my way of life. I don't believe in divorce, so what do you advise?

MARRIED FOR LIFE

DEAR MARRIED: You may prevent your husband from getting a divorce, but you can't force him to live with you or "love" you. Maybe if you hang on long enough, he'll change his mind and return to you, but you have no guarantees.

In the meantime, instead of stubbornly clinging to a onesided marriage, why not find something constructive to do with your time? Like volunteer work? At 52, you are still young enough. Life is short, make it sweet.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Jury Hears June 23 Tape

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The jury in the Watergate cover-up trial, listening to a June 23, 1972, White House tape, today heard defendant H. R. Haldeman obtain the approval of former President Nixon for a plan to use the Central Intelligence Agency to choke off the original FBI investigation into Watergate.

Donning olive-green earphones, the jurors listened as Haldeman proposed that the deputy director of the CIA call the FBI and say:

"Stay the hell out of this ... We don't want you to go any further on it."

Haldeman suggests that he and defendant John D. Ehrlichman call in the two top officials of the CIA and direct them to warn off the FBI from investigating the financing of the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters.

On the tape, Nixon replies, "All right, fine."

Shortly before the tape was played, Gen. Vernon A. Walters, deputy CIA director, testified that he was summoned to the White House within a few hours of the Haldeman-Nixon meeting and ordered to persuade then acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III that CIA resources were jeopardized.

The June 23 tape also involves defendant and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Nixon asks Haldeman, "Well, what the hell, did Mitchell know about this thing to any much of a degree?"

Haldeman: "I think so. I don't think he knew the details, but I think he knew."

Nixon kept the existence of the June 23 tape secret until Aug. 5, just a few days before he resigned the presidency.

On the transcript released then by Nixon, the President is heard to summarize how the CIA would be drawn into the cover-up.

That transcript quoted Nixon as saying, "They (the CIA) should call the FBI in and (unintelligible) don't go any further into this case, period."

That quote was left out of the tape played for the jury. Watergate prosecutors have expressed fear that the pardon granted Nixon from prosecution in the cover-up case and other investigations might influence the jury's willingness to convict the five defendants.

Earlier, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica had agreed to defense requests that a crucial word on the tape be described as unintelligible on the transcript seen by the jury.

The word spoken by Haldeman is "Gemstone," the code name for the plan to wiretap the Democrats.

To at least one listener, the word "Gemstone" could easily be heard and recognized.

Sirica earlier denied a request for a separate trial and for a mistrial from two of the defendants in the trial.

Ford Is Encouraged By News

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, preparing for his first official journey overseas, says Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger returned from his 17-country trip with "very encouraging" news.

Ford and Kissinger discussed the secretary's 18-day trip for three hours Sunday at Camp David, Md. They plan to confer about two hours each day this week in preparation for Ford's Far East visit.

The President and Kissinger depart for the Far East next Sunday. Ford said he was "looking forward to a constructive trip to Japan, South Korea and to the Soviet Union."

Standing on the White House lawn with Kissinger after flying back from Camp David, Ford said the secretary of state brought back from the Middle East "some encouraging news" and that Kissinger's meeting with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev "was very helpful."

Kissinger returned to Washington Saturday expressing confidence that his trip had helped chances for peace in the Middle East and agreement with the Soviet Union to limit nuclear arms.

Ford also told newsmen that Kissinger's talks in India, Bangladesh and Pakistan had been "very helpful in redirecting our policy in that vitally important area of the world."

API Reports Cut In Oil Refining Operations

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Domestic oil refining operations have been cut back in recent weeks because of a decline in demand for petrolem products and a significant buildup in inventories.

The report came today from the American Petroleum Institute, which estimated demand for petroleum products declined 3.7 per cent the first 10 months of the year.

January-October demand averaged 16.4 million barrels a day, compared with 17.2 million a day for the full 12 months of 1973.

Oil's largest trade group also reported domestic oil production continues to decline despite a 20.4 per cent increase in well completions.

The drilling report said the four-year decline in domestic production will continue until the industry has sufficient time to install production and transportation facilities for newly discovered fields.

Domestic production the first 10 months was estimated at 8.9 million barrels a day. Last year's production of 9,181,000 barrels a day compared with a record 9,637,000 average recorded in 1970.

The reports were released as the institute, which represents all segments of the domestic industry, opened its annual two-day meeting.

John E. Hodges, director of statistics, said inventories of crude oil and petroleum products totaled 1.1 billion barrels at the end of October or 8.9 per cent above the comparable year earlier level.

He said domestic refineries processed 3.4 per cent less crude oil the first 10 months of the year but that the buildup in inventories caused October operations to be cut to 12.2 million barrles a day or 4.8 per cent below the same month in 1973.

Hodges described the first 10 months as a unique period for industry statistics because of the Arab embargo.

"The supply-demand constraints resulting from the embargo invalidate that period as a basis for a comparison with previous periods," he said. "For a more accurate assessment, we must compare April-October periods."

Hodges said April-October demand was only two per cent less than the same 1974 period as opposed to the 3.7 per cent decline indicated by the 10-month comparison.

"The two per cent decline doesn't tell the whole story either," Hodges said, adding that such a trend must be weighed against the substantial increases of recent years.

The Arab embargo disrupted an annual consumption growth rate that had been approximating five per cent.

Israel Warned Of Tougher Austerity

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Slum dwellers rioted in protest against the government's new austerity program, but Premier Yitzhak Rabin warned that more severe measures will come soon.

The premier said in a televised speech Sunday that since the war last year, "arms have poured into the Arab countries and we have had to confront this increased strength.

"This will not be the last step," he declared. "We have to face all the struggles — military, political, economic and social. I do not claim for a minute that we have solved these problems."

To halt the drain on Israel's foreign currency reserves, the government early Sunday devalued the pound 43 per cent; increased the prices of food, gasoline and electricity; froze wages; put a six-month ban on imports of cars, shoes, television sets, tape recorders, beer and cement; levied new taxes on overseas travel, banks, insurance companies and capital gains.

The price of milk jumped from 15 to 25 cents a quart. Sugar tripled, from 16 to 48 cents a pound. Gasoline increased from $1.53 to $1.75 a gallon.

The pound dropped from 4.20 to 6.00 to the dollar.

Treasury officials said the program would add about 17 per cent to the cost of living, which already has risen 34 per cent this year.

Many people expected something of the sort and for the past week have been stocking up at supermarkets and gas stations. But in Tel Aviv's Haktiva slum area hundreds of rioters smashed windows Sunday, looted stores, wrecked 10 buses, stoned police and chanted slogans against the austerity program.

Dr. Butler At Seminar

Dr. Leslie D. Butler has returned from Dallas where he attended an advanced health care seminar conducted by the Parker Chiropractic Research Foundation.

Based in Fort Worth, the Foundation has reached international acclaim in the past few years, attracting doctors and their assistants from all over the world to bimonthly seminars devoted to concentrated studies in the development and improvement of the chiropractic profession.

The Nov. 7-10 seminar stressed specialized curricula in neurological and orthopedic examination, and detection and care of spinal disorders. Special guest lecturers included Dr. Russell Erhardt, internationally recognized authority in the field of chiropractic X-ray examination and interpretation.

In his closing banquet address to the more than 1,000 doctors, wives, and assistants, Dr. James W. Parker, founder and president of the Foundation, praised today's Doctor of Chiropractic.

"As members of the world's largest natural healing profession, you are challenged daily to provide conscientious and competent service to a society that is beginning to seek new avenues to good health. Our nation is undergoing a true crisis of drug indulgence. Needless surgery causes thousands of deaths every year. Chiropractic claims no part in the problem - we must increase our vital role in the solution."

Demonstration On Nuclear Energy Set

Nuclear energy and its uses will be demonstrated Nov. 21 at Snyder High School.

A program titled "This Atomic World" will acquaint Snyder students with basic principles and sources of nuclear energy. Its role in agriculture, industry, medicine and research will be explained.

Ed L. Kasper will conduct the 40-minute demonstration-lecture sponsored by Texas A&M University's College of Engineering.

Using student terms, Kasper will explain structure of atoms, nuclear reactor operation and concepts such as radiation, fission and fusion.

He will employ special electronic equipment to show how nuclear energy is harnessed to generate electricity, along with other applications. Use of radioisotopes in life process studies and disease diagnosis and treatment also will be depicted.

In a chalkboard talk to Snyder High science classes, he will go into extra detail on atomic structure, radioactivity, radiation biology and nuclear science careers, among other topics.

Specially trained in nuclear science, Kasper has bachelor's and master's degrees from Texas A&M.

TAMU cooperates with Oak Ridge Associated Universities and the Atomic Energy Commission in presenting "This Atomic World."

Pleas Heard In District Court

Two guilty pleas were entered in 132nd District Court Friday.

Ralph Lane Johnston pleaded guilty to five counts of burglary with intent to commit theft. He received a 5-year prison term on each count with the sentences to run concurrently. The offenses occurred Sept. 18, 28 and 29. He was arrested by City Police.

B.D. Hughes pleaded guilty to theft by check. He received a 5-year prison term. He was arrested Oct. 26 by Sheriff's Authorities.

Mishap At Dunn

Highway Patrolmen investigated a minor collision at Dunn at 2:30 p.m. Saturday. Involved were the 1972 Model Chevrolet of Sims Palmer of Colorado City and the 1972 Model Lincoln of Oscar Garcia of Plainview. Damage was minor and there was no injuries.

3 Mishaps Are Reported

One occurred Sunday at 4:05 p.m. of the parking lot at the Cinema Theater. Police said an unidentified motorist fled the scene after his vehicle struck a parked 1964 Model Chevrolet owned by Bethel Oil Co., knocking it into the parked 1969 Model Pontiac of Billy Wayne Watkins.

Two mishaps occurred Saturday. The first one occurred in the 2800 block of Avenue X at 9:50 a.m. Police said a 1972 Model Ford pickup slipped from its parked position and rolled into a chainlink fence at 2811 Avenue X.

The other mishap occurred at Eleventh Street and the Old Lubbock Highway at 5:28 p.m. Involved were the 1967 Model Ford of Calvin Dehart of Dyess AFB, Abilene, and the 1968 Model Chevrolet of Antonio Nieto, 1810 Eleventh Street.

Prices Provoke Consumers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Record high sugar prices have provoked consumers in the United States and some other wealthy countries to cut consumption, the Agriculture Department says.

Retail sugar prices have climbed sharply in the United States and show no sign of retreating soon. Five-pound bags of sugar that cost about 70 cents a year ago were selling for $2.20 or more last week and were expected by some retail officials to climb to over $3 per bag in the near future.

L.C. Hurt, a specialist in the Department of Agriculture's Foreign Agricultural Service, predicted that world sugar output in the crop year which began last May 1 will be a record 81.1 million metric tons, but world consumption will take practically all that is produced.

LETTER TO EDITOR

To The Daily News:

For two hundred years the American farmer has been an independent breed. Farmers, wake up! That way of doing business is obsolete. It has come to that time, if you are going to continue farming, you will have to organize. We are going to quit marketing our cotton in the two months at harvest time, pool the cotton and market it twelve months out of the year.

We need to hire a marketing specialist to market our crops. He can hedge on the futures and get us a better price than we can being independent. As late as May of this year, cotton could have been sold short for fifty-two cents a pound.

We cannot look to Washington for help. The city vote is eight to our one vote. We can either organize are be independent and go the way of the buffalo and the do-do bird.

Lawyer As A Sleuth

ENTER THE CORPSE. By Sara Woods. Holt, Rinehart and Winston. 181 Pages. $5.95.

Antony Maitland, barrister, is the protagonist in Sara Woods's series of suspense novels. He appears in "Enter the Corpse" to clear the name of his friend Roger Farrell and of Roger's wife, Meg. It's all because of the corpse.

It appeared in their home shortly before the arrival of Roger's godfather, Hubert Dunning, who had been in prison.

Maitland must establish a motive for the murder, and clear friend Roger of suspicion of involvement in a series of bullion robberies.

Complexities of plot are interwoven with clues to the solution.

There's a great big plus when you conserve energy around the house. You save money!

Even when a suggested course of action entails an initial expenditure, the ensuing savings will offset the cost over a period of time and continue to pay dividends indefinitely.

Insulation retards the passage of heat. When the house is warm, it keeps the heat on the inside. When the house is cool, it keeps the outside heat from coming in.

Insulation, therefore, is essential to the successful operation of both your heating and air conditioning equipment. It enables the furnace and the air conditponer to work less to produce the desired results, which cuts down on the use of energy.

The mathematical formula for determining how much you save on heating and cooling costs is extremely complicated, taking into consideration the construction of the house, the efficiency of the heating and cooling equipment, the average climate in your area, the amount and kind of insulation and many other factors.

Undeniably, though, insulation is probably the most important individual element preventing the loss of heat through the walls, floors and ceilings of your house. It can range from a heat-loss prevention of 75 per cent to one of 35 per cent.

Your house is already insulated. How well it is insulated depends on the practice of the builder as well as the federal and local requirements at the time the house was built. These standards change frequently, with the tendency in recent years to require more and more insulation regardless of the type of heating, but especially where there is an electric heating system and-or an air conditioning unit.

There are four basic types of insulation: flexible, loose fill, reflective and rigid boards. The flexible comes in batts and blankets. Batts are short lengths of insulated material precut to fit between studs and rafters. Blankets are similar except that they are available in bags and bales and are poured into place. Rigid boards come in various widths and lengths. They are installed as walls or to existing walls much like wood paneling is. Reflective insulation has foil surfaces that reflect heat.

It is not easy to determine how well your house is insulated unless you had it built to order or bought it new and inquired about its construction before the purchase, the latter an unlikely possibility with most house buyers. But if you have had the house for a few years, you have probably already discovered whether it is well insulated, either through the very act of living in it or from a neighbor or someone who knows what went into it.

The older your house is, the less likely it is that it has sufficient insulation by modern standards.

Panovs Make Debuts In Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Valery and Galina Panov, the Russian-born ballet stars who struggled for two years to leave the Soviet Union, have made their debuts in Israel.

The 38-year-old Jewish dancer and his non-Jewish wife are now Israeli citizens. Israel has only two small modern dance companies and a fledgling classical ballet troupe.

Paraguay is probably the only country today without coins. It has paper money only.

NINE KILLED IN CRASH—Nine persons, including four children, were killed Saturday when this car in which they were riding left Interstate 20, careened through a guard rail on an overpass and landed upside down on the ground 60 feet below. The victims included Curtis Carter Jr., 44, Lenora Carter, 42,; their son Larry, 21, the driver; daughters Quinzola Carter 11, Patricia, 13 and Tisha, 2, and grandson Deon Carter, 6. The Carters were from Midwest City, Okla. Also killed were Virginia Sullivan, 19, and Johnny Agers, 21. (AP Wirephoto)

Single Crash Accounts For 9 Of 20 Fatalities

By The Associated Press

Nine deaths in a single one-car accident on an East Texas highway contributed heavily to the state's violent death toll during the weekend.

Altogether the Associated Press tabulated reports of 20 fatalities, including 16 in traffic and four homicides, between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

State patrolmen said the nine motorists were killed near Longview before daylight Saturday as a car soared off an Interstate 20 underpass and crashed upside down on the ground 60 feet below. Officers said the driver, Larry Carter, 21, apparently nodded at the wheel while the vehicle was traveling 100 to 115 miles per hour.

They listed the other dead as Curtis Carter, 44, father of Larry; his wife Leonora, 42; Quinzola Carter, 11; Patricia Carter, 13, Tish Carter, 2; Deon Carter, 6; Virginia Sullivan, 19, a family friend, and John Ray Agers, 21, a relative. Except for Agers, whose home was at Waskom, Tex., all were from Midwest City, Okla. The victims were en route to visit relatives close by at Elysian Fields, Tex.

These were among the other dead:

Marvin Green, 43, was found shot to death early Sunday in his mobile home at Amarillo and a woman, 42, lay outside with gunshot wounds. She was taken to a hospital in critical condition. Police said part of the mobile home was damaged by a fire, apparently set by an intruder who shot the two.

Ralph Ellsworth Jacobs, 53, manager of an automotive parts store in Houston, was shot to death in a robbery Sunday, homocide detectives said. Jacobs was found behind a counter. He had been shot in the chest, stomach and shoulder with a small caliber weapon, police said.

Lloyd M. Small, 63, of Splendora, was killed Sunday in a car which ran off a road and hit a tree about 16 miles east of Conroe. The driver of the car was injured, police said.

Shirley Miller, 18, and Janice Brown, 20, were killed early Sunday in a one-car accident near Wharton.

Joe Bandy, 15, was killed Saturday night in a two-car accident near Denver City.

Silas Edward Swayze, 18, of Hemphill, was found stabbed to death Saturday on a Houston parking lot. Police charged Winston Ennett, 25, of Houston, with murder.

Ricky Short died of burns suffered Friday night when his truck collided with another truck and caught fire on Interstate 35 in Denton.

A Dallas man, Eldridge Brooks Jr., 32, was fatally shot Friday night during a saloon argument, police said.

Samuel L. Grant, 20, of Houston was killed Friday night north of New Braunfels when his car hit a bridge and fell into a creekbed. Donna A. Manosos, 17, of Pasadena was injured.

Jesus Vasquez, 23, of Marlin was killed Friday when his car struck an embankment at a highway intersection in Waco.

Six Races Are Still In Doubt

By The Associated Press

Six days after the elections, two races for senator, one for governor and three for the House of Representatives are still undecided and will remain so until recounts are completed.

Here is a state-by-state rundown:

NORTH DAKOTA: Republican Sen. Milton R. Young holds a 240-vote lead over former Gov. William L. Guy, a Democrat, in the race for Young's Senate seat. Five of the 53 county canvassing boards have yet to turn in official tabulations, but are expected to do so by Tuesday. Young, 76, said Sunday: "The uncertainty of it all is the worst part."

NEW HAMPSHIRE: In the Senate race, Republican Rep. Louis C. Wyman held a 335-vote lead out of 220,000 cast over Democrat John A. Durkin, a former State Insurance Commissioner. They face a recount.

ALASKA: Jay Hammond, a Republican, had a 661-vote margin over Democratic Gov. William A. Egan, whom he is seeking to unseat, as questioned ballots in the Anchorage area were counted. Still unreported were a few absentee ballots and the returns from four villages.

LOUISIANA: Officials have refused to certify the race in the 6th Congressional District and say they will refuse to do so until there is a court ruling on a count from a voting machine that may have malfunctioned. If the machine's tally is allowed, Republican W. Henson Moore would defeat Democrat Jeff LaCaze by five votes. Without the machine's vote, LaCaze would win by 195 votes.

NEBRASKA: Virgina Smith, a Republican, leads by 24 votes over Democrat Wayne Ziebarth in the state's 3rd Congressional District. However, votes from heavily populated Lincoln and Hall counties remain to be tabulated. Neither is the incumbent.

MAINE: David Emery, a Republican, leads by less than 600 votes over four-term Democratic Rep. Peter N. Kyros in the state's 1st District. Lawyers for both men have agreed to a recount which will begin today and is expected to take a week to eight days.

Lady Is Fired For Being Fat

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — She was efficient, cheerful, typed 70 words a minute and took shorthand at 90. But the City of Tacoma told Tracy Kay Natcher that wasn't good enough.

Two weeks after taking a receptionist's position with the Tacoma Human Development Department's Youth Services Bureau, the 18-year-old woman was fired. Her problem: 50 pounds.

A person of her 5-foot-4 inch height must not weigh more than 148 pounds, city standards specify.

"If they gave me a probation period, I know I could lose the weight within a couple of months.

"I could understand it if there were some job junction. But all I did was sit and type and answer the telephone," she said.

She has submitted a complaint to the Department of Human Rights.

The greatest number of honorary degrees awarded to any individual is 89, given to Herbert Clark Hoover (1874-1964), former President of the U.S.

SEN. BUCKLEY IS TOLD

Kremlin Has Increased Harrassment Of Jews

By GEORGE A. KRIMSKY
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin has increased its harassment of Jewish dissidents since the announcement in Washington of an agreement to let more Jews emigrate from the Soviet Union, leading Jewish activists have told Sen. James L. Buckley.

The conservative New York Republican met for an hour and a half Sunday night at the home of scientist Alexander Lerner with 16 of Moscow's most active Jewish leaders, most of whom have been denied permission to leave the country.

They told Buckley that all the telephone lines over which the dissidents communicated with the West have been cut since Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D.-Wash., announced on Oct.18 that the Soviet government was liberalizing its Jewish immigration policy to obtain trade concessions from the United States Congress.

The Jews told Buckley that for the past three years some of their phones were shut off periodically, but several were usually left open. Now all of them have been shut off, they said.

One of the group, Alexander Luntz, said reports from Minsk, the capital of Byelorussia, indicate that not only those Jews who apply to emigrate but those who receive invitations from Israel are being subjected to searches and confiscations.

Luntz said that after a recent trip to the Caucasian republic of Azerbaijan, police detained him and confiscated documents and film on the Jews of that region.

"We have seen that not the volume but the kinds of persecution have enlarged, and most of it is taking place where people are not able to inform either you or me," Luntz told the senator.

The Jewish leaders put much emphasis on their need to maintain phone and mail communications with the West. They said constant contact would provide one of the best means of ensuring that Soviet authorities adhere to the emigration agreement.

Buckley, a leader in the congressional drive to force the Kremlin to liberalize its emigration policies, arrived in Moscow Saturday afternoon and vigorously pursued the dissident community for information. He has been ignored by the Soviet government, and there has been no mention of his visit in the press.

Christmas Seals For Both Sides

There are two sides to every envelope and the Christmas Seal Association advised the public today to make good use of both of them. One way to add extra cheer to Yuletide cards and letters and help fight lung disease at the same time is to seal the flap with Christmas Seals, according to the Association.

Another is to adorn the address side with the colorful Christmas postage stamps. Three of them have been issued this year: a self-stick, precancel stamp showing a dove of peace weather vane from George Washington's Mount Vernon home; a second depicting "The Perusis Altarpiece" from a masterpiece at New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art; and a third based on a Currier & Ives print, "The Road–Winter."

In 1974 Christmas Seals, designed by Mrs. Rubidoux Johnson of Fairfield, Conn., represent the "Joys of Christmas." They depict children on an old fashioned sled, Schnauzer pups frisking under a Christmas tree, a postman laden with gift packages, and youngsters building a snowman.

Dr. Robert L. Clinton reminded the public that while the Christmas postage specials cost 10 cents a piece, Christmas Seals have no fixed price. Recipients of Seals are invited to make voluntary donations, and to use the Seals on letters, cards, and packages to help the Lung Association in its battle to prevent and control emphysema, chronic asthma, TB, cigarette smoking, and air pollution.

"Although Christmas postage stamps and Christmas Seals are serving different purposes," Dr. Clinton said, "Christmas Seals owe much to the post office both in their past and present."

"The major portion of the Lung Association's support comes from the mailing of Christmas Seals to thousands of homes, businesses, and organizations in this area to help combat a spectrum of diseases that attack the lungs," Clinton said. "History can repeat itself and much can be done to bring these ailments under control. That's why it's a matter of life and breath to answer your Christmas Seal letter today.

Security Tightened At OAS

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The headquarters of the Organization of American States, where a bomb blast broke windows and punched a hole in the ceiling, will be under tighter security and closed to the public this week.

"We're augmenting our guard force and we've asked police for a bit more protection," said Stuart Portner, assistant secretary for management.

He said the OAS headquarters, formerly known as the Pan American Building, would remain closed to the public for at least a week, beginning today. The building is a tourist attraction located about three blocks from the White House.

Thomas J. Stone, press attache for the OAS, said the person who planted the bomb which exploded Saturday night had entered the building "just like a tourist."

He set the damage estimate as between $30,000 and $75,000. There were no injuries in the blast, caused by an explosive device placed inside a telephone booth in the Hall of Flags on the second floor of the building.

A caller who telephoned The Associated Press after the explosion said a group calling itself "Cuba Movement C4" was responsible for the blast.

An FBI spokesman said the bureau has never heard of the group.

Kleindienst Is Working For Algeria

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst says he is employed to represent the interests of Algeria in the United States.

Kleindienst, who has practiced law since his resignation in April 1973, serves as "legal counsel for business circles, congressional relations and relations with the various official government bodies in Washington, D.C., and the rest of the United States," according to documents on file in the Justice Department.

Agents for foreign powers are required to register with the department.

Algeria has maintained no diplomatic relations with the United States since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Kleindienst said his Algerian work is shared jointly with former Defense Secretary Clark Clifford.

Kleindienst declined to say how much he was paid, but the Chicago Daily News reported his fee was $120,000 a year, plus a $24,000 annual expense account.

Melina Mercouri Enters Politics

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Melina Mercouri, star of "Never on Sunday" and numerous other plays and movies, has entered politics.

The 49-year-old actress is running on the Pan-Hellenic Socialist Movement ticket for a seat in the Greek Parliament. The Nov. 17 election is the first in Greece in more than a decade.

Western Men Ranked First In Cage Race

The pressure has been put on Coach Mike Mitchell of the Western College Westerners before his second year at the WTC men's basketball helm as even begun.

Coaches in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference of which WTC is a member have chosen the Westerners to win the conference cage crown this season in a pre-season poll.

"Their choice reflects the fact that we have more returning lettermen than anyone else," said Coach Mitchell, "But any one of five or six teams could win the crown. The conference again will be well-balanced."

Mitchell admits the Westerners' strong point will be experience.

"Our top 6 or 7 men are sophomores," he pointed out. WTC finished fourth in conference last year--Mitchell's first at WTC—and the team went to regional with a 21-10 record.

The Westerners have three returning starters from last year's fine squad. They include Eugene Harris, a 6-7 sophomore forward from Hattiesburg, Miss.; Ken Fowler, 6-2 sophomore guard from Austin; and, Norman Barnes, 6-8 sophomore post man from Richmond, Va.

Most of the men on the Western squad made at least all-district, and many of them won other honors. For instance Harris' Blair High School team at Hattiesburg won state, and he made all-state.

Another lad who was on the squad last season but who did not letter is Elisha Thomas, 5-9 sophomore guard from Anton.

Mitchell recruited six new men this year, including two sophomore transfer students from West Texas State. They are Bob Miller, a sophomore guard from Seaford, New York, and Dick Torpey, a 6-6 sophomore forward, who made all-state at Goddard High School in Roswell, N.M.

The other recruits are James Smith, 6-8 freshman forward from Richmond, Va., who made all-city in high school; Tyrone Clopton, 6-6 freshman post man from Washington, D.C.; Harrison Johnson, 6-2 freshman guard from El Paso; and, Stanley Covington, 6-0 freshman from Washington D.C.

Mitchell said if he had to name a starting lineup now it probably would include the three returning starters--Fowler, Harris and Barnes--and Miller and Minor.

The WTC Coach said the Westerners have looked good on defense and at rebounding during pre-season scrimmages.

"Defense and rebounding are definitely the strongest parts of our game so far," he pointed out.

With good height, Mitchell plans to employ a triple post offense to take advantage of his three big men.

"Hopefully, we can utilize our size advantage," he said.

The coach pointed out you have to sacrifice some in speed when you have that much size, but he thinks the Westerners will have adequate speed.

"—Adequate, but not exceptional," he said.

"We'll try to get our big guys under the basket," he added.

Defensively, Mitchell plans to press a lot--either man to man or zone about 90 per cent of the time.

"Our main concern now is shooting," Mitchell declared.

He pointed out the Westerners have lost their top two scorers of last season. They are Danny McDaniel, who averaged 22.6 points a game, and Harold Ward, who averaged 16.6 points per tilt. McDaniel now is attending Baylor, and Ward is on the Sam Houston team.

"We have some potentially good outside shooters," Mitchell said, "But they haven't done it in a game."

Mitchell said South Plains also has an experienced squad with their top 7 men returning. They will be led by 6-9 John Joseph, and they also have two outstanding freshmen.

"Howard County and Amarillo always are good," Mitchell continued. "Harold Wilder (coach at Howard College) and Bill McDonald (coach at Amarillo) both are good recruiters and good coaches."

Mitchell says New Mexico Junior College will be tough. They have perhaps the best player in the conference in Mike Russell, a post man, who made high school All-American.

"New Mexico Military will have the best team they've ever had," Mitchell concluded.

Mitchell wouldn't predict a championship, but he concedes the Westerners are one of the five or six teams that could win the top prize.

The Westerners open the season in the Scurry County Coliseum Nov. 14 against the Lubbock Christian College junior varsity. All home games begin at 7:30 p.m.

Pokes Win 4th Straight

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

On a day when two National Football League quarterbacks bordering on 40 years of age were pitching it up there with the best of them, young Ken Anderson proved to be just that — the best of them.

Anderson, who was eight years old when Sonny Jurgensen and Len Dawson each stepped back into the NFL pocket for the first time in 1957, put on a dazzling display of passing accuracy to lead the Cincinnati Bengals to a 17-10 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday.

Anderson, 25 and in his fourth pro season out of tiny Augustana College, completed 15 of his first 16 passes to set a consecutive completion record of 16 over two games and 20 of 22 passes — a new NFL efficiency record.

"Anderson was superb," said Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown. "But then, that's the way he usually is."

But threading his passes through the Steelers' defense wasn't all Anderson was called on to do. He also sprinted to the sidelines to make a victory-saving tackle on Mike Wagner after the Steeler safety had scooped up a loose ball in the fourth quarter and was racing toward the game-tying touchdown.

The Bengals now trail league-leading Pittsburgh by one-half game in the AFC Central.

And all this came after Pittsburgh's Glen Edwards had temporarily knocked Anderson out of the game with a vicious tackle.

In the rest of the NFL, it was Dallas 20, San Francisco 14; Washington 27, Philadelphia 20; Denver 17, Baltimore 6; Green Bay 20, Chicago 3; Oakland 35, Detroit 13; Los Angeles 21, Atlanta 0; Miami 21, New Orleans 0; Houston 21, Buffalo 9; Cleveland 21, New England 14; the New York Jets 26, the New York Giants 20 in overtime, and San Diego 14, Kansas City 7.

Minnesota meets St. Louis tonight in a battle of National Football Conference leaders.

Redskins 27, Eagles 20

Sonny Jurgensen, whose aching knees and damaged thigh probably make him feel older than his 40 years, still has a spry right arm. He hit Charley Taylor with a 30-yard scoring pass in the fourth quarter to rally Washington past Philadelphia.

Taylor, who grabbed nine passes including the game-winner with 2:15 left in the game, became the third all-time leading receiver in the NFL.

Chargers 14, Chiefs 7

Lenny Dawson, who has celebrated 39 birthdays, had a day worth celebrating if only his team had won. Dawson passed for 381 yards but was beaten by rookie Jesse Freitas' 71-yard tie-breaking touchdown bomb to Gary Garrison.

Dolphins 21, Saints 0

With the Dolphins' victory, paced by Bob Griese's three first-half touchdown passes and a hammerlock defense, they're back on top with an eye on their third straight Super Bowl crown.

"Our defense was outstanding," said Miami Coach Don Shula. "Our offense was great in the first half."

Jets 26, Giants 20

If nothing else, the Jets proved to be the better New York club on Sunday, Nov. 10. But it took five periods to decide this intra-city squabble between a team from Queens, N.Y., and another from New Haven, Conn.

Gimpy-legged Joe Namath, who passed for 236 yards — to Giant quarterback Craig Morton's 237 — uncharacteristically rolled four yards for the game-tying touchdown, then passed five yards with 6:53 gone in the overtime for victory.

Rams 21, Falcons 0

"It didn't look to me like there was a 21-point difference," said Atlanta's Marion Campbell, making his head coaching debut. But only Campbell; replacing the fired Norm Van Brocklin, and the point spread bettors will see it that way.

James Harris fired a pair of touchdown passes and the Los Angeles defense paralyzed the Falcons' attack.

Cowboys 20, 49ers 14

Calvin Hill set two Dallas club records with 32 carries and 153 yards rushing. He scored two touchdowns, including the game-winner on a six-yard run late in the fourth quarter.

Bears 20, Packers 3

Rookie Steve Odom's 95-yard punt return set a club record and snapped a 3-3 tie.

Lamesa Whips JV

The Lamesa junior varsity whipped the Snyder JV, 26-14, here Saturday afternoon. Although they lost, the local JV finished the season with a fine 8-2 record.

In the opening period, David Rice and Pat Dryden combined on a 45 yard pass and run play for a Snyder touchdown. Rickey Beard kicked the extra point. The march covered 60 yards.

Just before halftime, Lamesa tied it up on an 80 yard run by the quarterback and an extra point kick.

In the third period, Lamesa took the kickoff and drove in for a score. The kick for extra point missed, but the visitors were ahead, 13-7.

Snyder took the lead again early in the 4th quarter as Beard tallied on a 15 yard run to climax a 70 yard drive, then kicked extra point.

Lamesa recovered a fumble on the Snyder 8 and tossed a pass for a touchdown as they went back ahead, 19-14.

With less than a minute in the game, Lamesa got its last TD on a 75 yard run. The kick for extra point was good.

Snyder had a good team effort, although they fumbled four times inside the 10 and had five passes intercepted.

Booster Club Sets Meeting

The Tiger Booster Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the West Elementary Cafeteria to see films of last week's triumph at Sweetwater and to hear scouting reports on Brownfield, this week's opponent.

It's A Whole New Ball Game For WTC Women

"It's a whole new ball game," declared Sid Simpson, athletic director at Western Texas College and coach of the Dusters, the first women's basketball team at the school.

"It's a new program," pointed out Simpson, "And none of the girls have had experience playing college basketball. We play under the same rules as the boys--that is, full court with five players."

He pointed out that under the high school rules all of his candidates have played under, the girls played on a divided court with six players.

"There's as much difference in college women's basketball and girls high school basketball as there is between 11 man and 6 man football," Simpson explained.

Simpson has a fine coaching record with men and boys, and he has over 20 years experience. But the last time he coached a girls team was in high school in Arkansas and that was over 20 years ago.

"I treated them just like boys, but that was a different situation," he said.

"All of the girls lived at home, and I saw them every day. In college, the girls have to make a lot of adjustments, and they live in dormitories," he added.

The Dusters will compete in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference this season against Clarendon, Howard College and South Plains. At least the other schools are in the same boat with the Dusters since none of them competed in women's basketball last season. Clarendon had a women's team two years ago, but they didn't compete last year.

"I really don't know how we'll do," Simpson declared. "I don't know thether we're 20 points better or 20 points worse than West Texas State."

Simpson said the Dusters have ability and potential, but that it remains to be seen what they can do.

There are only four sophomores on the squad, and all of them attended WTC last year. None of them has any college playing experience. The four are June Sterling, 5-4 guard from Coahoma; Cindy Klepper, 5-7 post from Roscoe; Judy Simmons, 5-6 guard from Ackerly; and, Debbie Sharp, 5-9 post from Wylie.

Most of the girls made all-district in high school, and two of them--Theresa Beal and Melisa Taylor--played in the Coaches All-Star game at Brownwood last summer. Theresa, a 5-10 freshman post from Coahoma, also played in the Texas-Oklahoma all-star game. Melisa is a 5-7 freshman forward from Gail.

Other girls on the squad--all freshmen--include Dale Mitchel, 5-8 guard from Coahoma; Deanna Michulka, 5-7 guard from Crosbyton; Darilyn Stewart, 5-7 forward from Tarzan; Bobbie Jones, 5-11 post from Clint; Rhonda Teel, 5-7 forward from Big Lake; Marilyn Payton, 5-11 forward from Lubbock; and, Sandra Jimenez, 5-9 forward from Victoria.

Teresa Bigham is the manager.

"We'll try to fast break as much as we can on offense," said Simpson, "And basically we'll use a zone defense."

The veteran coach said the Dusters have good team speed, but that rebounding is his main concern. They have adequate height, but have a lot of problems adjusting to the full court style of play.

Summing up the prospects, Coach Simpson said: "The material is good. If the girls will really dedicate themselves we can have a good team. Women are not as intense about playing as men, and that can be good, but we will have to show more dedication than we are presently showing in order to have a really successful season."

He urged local fans to come out and watch the Dusters play.

Four Local Teams Play

There will be four football games involving local teams this week, and three of them will be held here.

The combined Travis 8th grade and Lamar 8th grade squads will host Lamesa 8th grade at 5 p.m. Thursday on the Travis field, followed by the Lamar 9th-Lamesa clash at 6:30 p.m. Also Thursday, the sophomores host Coronado at 7:30 p.m. in Tiger Stadium.

Friday, the varsity Tigers will be at Brownfield for a 7:30 p.m. contest in the last district tussle of the season. There are no local teams scheduled for action Saturday.

Elsewhere in District 3-AAA, Estacado and Dunbar collide in Lubbock and Lamesa hosts Sweetwater Friday night.

On the area scene, Hobbs hosts Paint Creek Friday night.

People More Somber With Economic Change

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The economic climate has changed. As with the approach of fall, the mood of the people grows more somber with the developing coolness. They think of security. They reflect rather than act.

Many families are paying off bills and declining to use their credit cards, concluding that this isn't the time to begin new projects. Business too is curtailing its spending for expansion and improvement.

Talks of layoffs are rising. The latest jobless rate, for October, was 6 per cent, but it is probably higher at this date. Many of the big concerns have slowed or ceased hiring.

Merchants are holding sales. In New York City, some men's clothing retailers have pared 50 per cent or 75 per cent from their prices, and that isn't just shoptalk. They're hurting.

Another sign of declining economic activity is the type of talk you hear from the merchants and manufacturers. As Christmas approaches they're trying to convince the public that a buyer's market exists.

In some instances this is true; in others it's merely promotional. Convince the people we're hurting, they say, and the people will move in for the kill. They'll think in terms of distress prices and fantastic bargains.

No amount of encouragement is going to lure certain customers out to shop because they're too busy trying to make ends meet.

In sympathy with their customers, the recognizing that resistance to prices is also considered patriotic, some food chains have been telling their customers to boycott items, notably sugar.

All is not bleak, however, if you look beyond the recession to the future, perhaps to the fall of 1975 or even before.

Interest rates will be lower. Real estate speculation will have lessened. Shortages might be alleviated.

Some economists still argue that recession is good for the economic soul, purging it of excesses and abuses. They view it as a diet or a penance that will set things right again.

Few people will argue that these are indeed some of the results of recession. Few people will disagree that millions of Americans had developed the notion that they were owed a living.

But for the most part, recession as a cure for inflation is considered a medieval concept, it being too torturous a process, and perhaps too damaging in the long run.

And that brings us to the questions never answered by the economists, who claim to have so many answers: If recession are unacceptable, why then do we suffer them rather than avoid them?

Junior Editors' Quiz on CRUSTACEANS

QUESTION: What are crustaceans?

ANSWER: Crustaceans are a primitive group of animals known as shell fish. All crustaceans are covered with a heavy crust-like skin. This covering is sometimes like bone, sometimes tough and leathery and sometimes thin and transparent. All crustaceans have segmented bodies and an external skeleton. Growth involves molting or shedding the old shell for a new one. They reproduce by means of eggs which are usually hatched in water.

Crustaceans number about 25,000 species. Marine species vary from almost microscopic forms to giants with legs 5 feet long. The large crustaceans, such as lobster, crab and shrimp, are of great commercial value. The smaller species are important in the marine life cycle. They are eaten by fish which man uses as food.

Networks Did Well On 'Calls'

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Last week's election night drew from the networks a total of 202 "projected" or "estimated" winners, by their count. How do they feel the night's calls now hold up? First, the breakdown.

ABC says it projected winners in 34 Senate and 35 gubernatorial races and called a number of House candidates "apparent" winners. We're ignoring the last, since "apparent" is bet-hedging and not a firm call.

CBS says it declared 29 senatorial and 30 gubernatorial candidates and Rep. Wilber D. Mills, D-Ark., "estimated" winners, which I'd define as those CBS considered the victor at the time of the call.

NBC says it projected 26 Senate, 29 gubernatorial and 18 House candidates as winners on election night.

ABC says none of its definite calls was wrong, except maybe in the Ohio gubernatorial and North Dakota U.S. Senate races. NBC says all its calls were right, except maybe in the Ohio race, while CBS has posted a "maybe" sign in North Dakota while saying all its other calls were on the mark.

In either state, the "maybe" is an important qualification because, the networks say, pending official counts and recounts still could prove their original calls correct.

In North Dakota, GOP Sen. Milton R. Young, whom CBS and ABC initially declared the winner, was in a virtual dead heat with former Democratic Gov. William L. Guy, according to unofficial returns.

In Ohio, incumbent Democratic Gov. John T. Gilligan, whom NBC and ABC initially declared the winner, trails former Gov. John J. Rhodes by an unofficial margin of about 15,000 votes.

The Associated Press initially declared Guy and Gilligan winners—the latter after a big lead and a premature Rhodes concession speech —and shortly afterwards had to withdraw the calls.

If ABC's Gilligan declaration, which by my clock came at 10:45 p.m., survives the canvass and recount, the network can thump its electronic chest in pride. It stuck with the call until its coverage ended at 2 a.m.

But it could use only one fist for chest-thumping on the Young projection, which it gave at about 10 p.m., only to revise its opinion on the late returns and say "too close to call" at 12:17 a.m.

CBS, which insisted the Gilligan-Rhodes race was too close to call all night, estimated at 9:04 p.m. that Young had won re-election. But it noted at 1:35 a.m. the victory might not be certain, with Walter Cronkite cautioning, "We don't miss many of them, but it is possible."

NBC, the last of three networks to end its election night program, did so at almost 2:30 a.m., having declared the Young-Guy race still too close to call, but leaving its 7:51 p.m. Gilligan projection unchanged.

Royal Family Honors War Dead

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II and other members of the royal family have participated under the watchful eye of the police in ceremonies honoring the dead of World Wars I and II.

Uniformed and plainclothes police were present at the Cenotaph, a monument in Whitehall, to guard against terrorist bombs. More than 20 persons have been killed in England in the past year in such bombings, attributed by police to the Irish Republican Army.

Calley Still Considers Himself A Lieutenant

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — William L. Calley Jr., free on bail and unlikely to be confined ever again for the My Lai murders, still considers himself a lieutenant in the U.S. Army, his lawyers say.

Calley, 31, was released on his own recognizance Saturday by U.S. District Court Judge J. Robert Elliott, the same judge who two months earlier had overturned Calley's conviction for killing 22 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai in 1968.

His lawyers said Sunday that Calley's next legal step will be to inform the Army this week that he still considers himself a lieutenant in the U.S. Army and is available for duty.

The Army discharged Calley last spring. But his lawyers contend that the discharge was a result of his court-martial conviction and should be voided because the conviction was overturned.

"The dismissal was a direct result of his conviction; the conviction was unconstitutional; therefore, it would appear that all things proceeding from the conviction are likewise unconstitutional," said J. Houston Gordon, one of Calley's lawyers.

Gordon said Sunday that Calley will give the Army a chance to call him back to active duty before he seeks other employment to avoid prejudicing any future claims he may have on back pay, benefits or damages for three years in jail on a conviction which later was reversed.

If Calley ultimately is cleared by higher courts, Gordon said it is almost definite Calley will take legal action seeking back pay, allowances "and anything else to which he may be due."

However, Kenneth Henson, another Calley lawyer, said Calley has no desire to go into the Army "as far as I know."

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans will consider in February the Army's appeal of the reversal of Calley's court martial conviction. Both sides say they will go to the U.S. Supreme Court if they lose at the appellate level.

But Gordon, noting that the Army plans to parole Calley on Nov. 19, says, "even if the appeals court overturns Elliott's reversal, Calley will never again have to face confinement."

Meanwhile, his lawyers say that Calley plans to settle down in Columbus, an Army town near Ft. Benning, where "no one considers him unusual." Henson said, "He just wants to be left alone to live the life of an ordinary citizen."

Mexico Requests US To Choke Off Gunrunning

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Mexican government has asked U.S. officials to choke off the flow of illegal weapons now reaching terrorists in Mexico.

Treasury Department officials in Washington confirmed Saturday that Mexican authorities had appealed for help in cutting off a trickle supply system now producing a flood of firearms.

Government agents said shipments of five to 20 guns have been smuggled past border guards in cars and trucks and later exchanged for heroin or cocaine. Mexican authorities say the weapons, some of which are AR15 automatic assault rifles used by the U.S. Army, frequently are turned against police by drug dealers. Others are sold to terrorist gangs.

Treasury agents said most of the guns smuggled into Mexico are bought legally in the United States and the gun dealers do not know where the weapons are going. Drug addicts also steal weapons and trade them for narcotics south of the border authorities said.

The Treasury Department has responded to the Mexican appeal by reinforcing Customs and Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) forces along the border in Arizona, Texas, New Mexico and California. Agents said the intent is to intercept arms before they cross the border.

In return for the U.S. action against gunrunning, Mexico has pledged a drive to check drug traffic across the border into this country.

Mexican authorities report the worst threat from armed guerrillas in 35 years, a danger aggravated by rising unemployment and inflation. Gun battles reportedly have cost the lives of scores of soldiers, police officers and guerrillas in Mexico.

An ATF undercover agent in Arizona said the weapons get to Mexico because Mexican border guards fail to search cars entering the country.

"Unless you know the guy has weapons in his car, his chance of getting across undetected are good," he said.

Agents said there also is evidence that some Mexican extremists are being helped by sympathetic Americans.

Seven Americans, including three Tucson men, were captured near Guadalajara a few months ago with 23rd of September Communist League guerrillas.

Jim Dillon, regional ATF director in Los Angeles, said, "Our information is that narcotics smugglers in Mexico would rather have guns than money."

Impending Coal Strike Threatens Steel Industry

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The steel industry, bolstered by a no-strike agreement with steelworkers and headed toward record profits through the first three quarters of 1974, faces a major threat from the impending coal strike.

The consensus of industry analysts was that if the strike lasts more than two weeks, layoffs of thousands of steelworkers will begin and production will be curtailed significantly.

Coal company and union representatives have been meeting in Washington and reported progress Sunday night toward an agreement. But a settlement was not likely until midweek, after the start of a nationwide strike. The miners' contract expires at midnight tonight.

Even if a tentative agreement is reached, rank-and-file members must approve it before the strike ends under the union's no contract-no work tradition. Ratification is expected to take eight to 10 days.

The coal strike would be especially costly to the steelmakers if it causes shutdowns.

During shutdowns, the companies face rapidly rising costs for taxes, bonded indebtedness and machinery depreciation. And the cost of closing down before and restarting after a strike can be staggering.

That's why the no-strike agreement signed last spring with the million-member United Steelworkers Union was especially significant.

While most companies were reluctant to discuss their coal reserves for competitive reasons, the American Iron and Steel Institute estimated the industrywide coal stockpile at about 30 days' supply with half the steelmakers with less than 20 days' supply on hand.

Contingency plans vary among steelmakers, who consume one of every six tons of coal mined.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. says it will operate normally for the first week and reassess the situation after that.

U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest producer, plans to slow production by 25 per cent immediately and 50 per cent if the strike goes past two weeks.

The impact of the strike will be minimized in the steel industry if the mills can keep operating and avoid the costly shutdown and eventual restarts.

A cutback by steelmakers eventually would have a crippling effect on related industries, such as automobiles.

Needham Dreams Of Around Clock Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — Since his election in August 1972 as the New York Stock Exchange's first full-time chairman and chief executive officer, James J. Needham has fought to extend the Big Board's reach: both in distance and in time.

One of his dreams, he says partly in self-deprecation, is "the so-called Needham 24-hour trading bazaar," in other words, around-the-clock trading. Already, under his leadership, the exchange recently extended its closing hour to 4 p.m. and he says the next step should be a 9:30 a.m. opening instead of the current 10 a.m.

It's all part of an ultimate aim, he says, to have a worldwide stock exchange where any nation's securities can draw equally upon the capital of all countries, not just the United States.

In 1973, underlining his hope of moving the world's stock markets toward eventual unity, Needham, 48, was elected vice president of the International Federation of Stock Exchanges.

A native New Yorker who began his Wall Street career as a part-time securities messenger, Needham was appointed a commissioner of the Securities and Exchange Commission in 1969, a post he held until assuming the NYSE leadership.

His tenure covers one of the most trying periods in Wall Street history, a time of stunning drops in the value of listed issues as well as numerous brokerage house failures.

But he said during a recent interview that he remains optimistic that "a young person out of college with analytical powers can do very well in this field."

Here are some questions and answers as put to Needham:

Q: The 1974 bear market, which has halved the price of the average stock, has been compared with the 1929 crash. Are there similarities?

A: I think there are similarities, in the sense that stock prices are depressed, but we don't seem to have the failures and the personal bankruptcies that occurred during that period of time.

In terms of the over-all impact on the economy, it's not as serious as when President Roosevelt took office. President Ford has just one battle to fight: the battle of inflation. Roosevelt had to fight the problem of Wall Street, the problem created by Wall Street, massive unemployment. We don't have that yet.

Q: Mr. Needham, trading on the stock markets has shifted toward the institutions, the banks, insurance companies and pension funds. Some small investors don't feel they have a chance to compete fairly. Is that true? Is it inevitable?

A: I guess a lot of people feel that way, so I guess that makes it true. A lot of people bought new issues in the '60s they never should have bought. The SEC couldn't stop it. On the other hand, a lot of people put a few thousand into stocks of companies they never heard of on the basis of totally incompetent advice, not necessarily their brokers. There have been a lot of disappointing results. But is the individual handled fairly? As far as the trading mechanism goes, yes. Both orders are treated equally, large or small.

Q: What's your reaction to the Ford economic proposals?

A: I was disappointed the administration did not support our proposals to encourage savings in the United States. We feel this is one of the basic elements of any economic policy, Republican or Democrat. As a result of an increase in savings there will, of course, be some dislocations in terms of employment, but the over-all benefit would be that we would have a larger pool of resources to draw from in order to cover our capital outlay programs. Which ultimately would lead to more jobs.

Q: The extended tradings hours have been in effect for about a month. Has there been any feedback on it yet?

A: None at all. It's going to be very difficult to evaluate. No question about it. But we don't view this as an experiment. We will reconsider it from time to time, but we did not go into it on the basis that we would try it for six months and then end it. What I'd like to see next is to go the other way and open trading a half-hour earlier.

New Program Teaches Skills

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

"In 1971, 2 out of 3 young Americans left school or college without having learned a profession, trade or even a job skill that would enable them to compete effectively in the labor market or to capitalize on their innate talents." (Annual Report of the U.S. Commissioner of Education to Congress in 1972.)

These startling figures are open to interpretation in various ways, but few will quarrel with the assertion that enormous numbers of young people are leaving or graduating from high school and college without marketable skills.

THAT'S WHY I am glad to learn of another innovative cooperative venture between business and education. This one's sponsored by the state affiliates of the National Association of Insurance Agents (these are independent insurance agents who represent more than one insurance company). The one-year program is called IN/VEST (Insurance Vocational Education Student Training) and is now given for academic credit in some 40 high schools and junior colleges from Miami to Los Angeles. It's aimed at developing business skills through role-playing. Here's how it works:

Students spend two hours daily in a laboratory-classroom where they run simulated insurance agencies, a fictitious insurance company, and supplementary business services. Students work at and learn underwriting, accounting, office management, claims adjustment, telephone switchboard operations, policy writing and banking.

Working in teams, students solicit business from driver education classmates, parents and friends. They interview, service clients, and operate their business on a profit-and-loss basis, just like any insurance company, dependent on "income" from the sale of auto insurance. (Students are not really paid.)

They work as sales representatives who compete, rate risks, help clients file claims and keep an eye on overdue premiums. Students in other curricula can become involved too – for instance, those in auto mechanics become estimators of auto damages for claims filed [illegible] IN/VEST insurance agencies.

EACH IN/VEST PROGRAM is directed by a teacher, who is assisted by real-life independent insurance agents. Mrs. Ben Coop, an agent adviser in the Atlanta, Ga., program, notes that students use modern equipment to add reality to the lab activities, such as a specially constructed insurance company office located in the high school. The mock office cost $8,000 and was financed through contributions from insurance and other businesspeople. Students also use electric typewriters, and modern calculators. The telephone company contributed up-to-date equipment including a telephone on each student's desk.

One IN/VEST grad, later employed by an insurance company and promoted to an underwriter, wrote her teacher: "Please tell the kids in the insurance lab to learn all possible because it will help them in their future. It's amazing how what I am doing now is so familiar to me because of my experience in IN/VEST. I am very grateful for that class because it helped me get where I am today."

MORE INFORMATION. For more information on Project IN/VEST, write to the National Association of Insurance Agents, 85 John Street, New York, N.Y. 10038.

Woman Hitchhiker Tours West

GUERNSEY, Wyoming (AP) — "You don't look like your usual kind of hitchhiker," said the egg farmer as he welcomed me aboard his pick-up truck.

Female, over 30, with tidy suitcase and a typewriter, I guess I didn't look like the rucksacked, bearded thumb-trippers often seen on the highways.

But setting out on my vacation to Wyoming and Montana, I decided hitchhiking would be the cheapest and most informative way to explore the West. Parents, friends and even some of my kind drivers worried about that sport's dangerous reputation, but give me an open highway instead of a bus depot any day.

How else could I have met:

—The blond teen-ager in his 1957 Chevy who went 200 miles out of his way to bring me from Lander to Casper one very cold morning. He said he was heading home for Shoshoni but didn't have much else to do anyway.

—The pony-tailed lawyer from Fort Washakie who loaned me her VW camper for several hours of sightseeing since she was too busy to show me around herself.

—The traveling salesman who treated me to the best steak dinner I've ever had, in Hudson, Wyo.

—An on-duty Indian policeman who spent the afternoon chauffering me around South Pass because it was snowing and he was worried I might not get another ride.

Hitchhiking on federal roads is prohibited in almost every state. In a study by the California Highway Patrol, there were 2,828 reported major crimes related to hitchhiking for a six-month period in 1973. In 71 per cent of the cases studied, hitchhikers were the victims rather than the criminals.

Females, whose average age was 19, were 7 to 10 times more likely than males to be victimized. About 80 per cent of crimes against women were sex-related.

"Isn't it dangerous for a woman to be hitchhiking alone?" asked a nattily dressed car salesman in one of his newest sedans when he picked me up on the road to Missoula. It was a question I was asked many times on my trip.

"Why? Are you planning to do something nasty to me?" I asked rather boldly, I thought.

"Well, of course not. Not me. But there are all kinds of weirdos around these days. I mean ..."

The conversation then usually went on to less provocative topics.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Older citizens often face special consumer problems.

Recently, attorneys from our Consumer Protection Division participated in a statewide seminar that looked into the types of consumer problems that such senior citizens experience and analyzed methods of getting information about these problems to older citizens.

We found that retired persons sometimes find themselves caught in a double bind. Their income from Social Security, pension or retirement plans, savings, or investments may not be enough to maintain the same standard of living they previously enjoyed, yet it may be enough to tempt unscrupulous merchants into using various means to relieve them of it.

A national consumer center maintained by two organizations of retired persons reports that mail order offers are a major source of complaints from older person, although mail order purchases can be a great convenience for them.

Persons who may be housebound because of health problems or lack of transportation often find it easier to shop by mail for their own needs and for gifts. But it is true that millions of dollars are lost each year in fraudulant mail orders offers.

Federal officials say that some mail order swindles are especially aimed at senior citizens. Unscrupulous merchants may try to sell them health cures; investment deals in land, stock, or franchises; retirement homes, extra income plans; or other things by mail.

Our Consumer Protection attorneys advise persons who want to purchase through the mails to deal with a reputable, established mail order house that provides written guarantees on items. Check any claims for health cures or medical devices with a doctor before purchase. Check any investment offer first through a banker, attorney, broker, or other knowledgeable person.

Always go to see any land or retirement home before purchasing, and have an attorney handle the details of the sales transaction for you to be sure papers are in order and that you will get the type of deal you expect.

Any extra income plans offered through the mail should be examined carefully. Never send money before receiving detailed information about such a plan. Many such offers require a sizeable investment of cash before you will be sent materials or instructions, and offer no assurance that you will make any money on your investment.

A better alternative might be to investigate local chapters of senior citizens who want to supplement their income. Typical positions are for family aides, seamstresses, home repairmen or carpenters, typist, bookkeepers, gardeners, and landscaping experts.

Home improvement is another area in which older citizens are often gypped. We have found that many consumer complaints about home improvements or repairs result from not getting in writing a description of the work to be performed.

Our attorneys urge senior citizens not to pay money in advance for such work. Most reputable individuals or firms require payment only after the job is completed according to specifications.

It's also very important to deal with established firms or persons with a good local reputation, since itinerant home improvement salesmen may not be around to make good on guarantees. We advise checking with the Better Business Bureau before agreeing to any home improvement project.

Our Consumer Protection Division has also received complaints from some older citizens alleging that some dance studios engage in various deceptive or misleading sales practices. Recently, we got a court injunction against dance studios which practiced "relay salesmanship," in which a team of salesman pressured persons to buy dance lessons. The studios also engaged in several other deceptive practices.

In the Attorney General's "Practical Primer for the Texas Consumer," we urge that persons be careful about high fees for dance clubs, and suggest talking it over with a friend or relative before signing a contract.

Older persons with these or other consumer problems should contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division or their district or county attorney to report complaints.

Fischer Stands To Lose Crown

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — Bobby Fischer's chess crown will go to a Russian if the dispute between the American and the International Chess Federation isn't settled by April 1, the president of the federation says.

Dr. Max Euwe said in an interview Sunday he will strip the 31-year-old American of his crown unless he agrees to defend it under the scoring rules set by the federation, which is known as Fide.

"At the moment we are in a complete stalemate," Euwe said.

At its June meeting in Nice, France, the Fide congress rejected Fischer's demand for a new scoring system for the 1975 title match. When he learned of this, Fischer sent a telegram to the federation's headquarter's in Amsterdam, saying his demands were "non-negotiable" and renouncing his title.

"We advised him that he had until April 1 to make up his mind, and appealed to him to reconsider his position in the interest of the chess playing world. But so far the world champion has not reacted to our plea," Euwe said.

Euwe, 73 and a former world champion, said Fischer "could go on claiming he is the real world champion, but that is something he should prove by playing."

"I hope, I even expect, a solution can be reached," he added. "I know Fischer to be a fair player and I feel rather confident he will drop his demands if we succeed in convincing him they are unreasonable."

Until Fischer defeated Boris Spassky for the championship in 1972, the world title was a Soviet monopoly. Now Soviet grandmasters Anatoly Karpov and Viktor Korchnoi are battling in Moscow for the right to challenge Fischer. Karpov has a commanding 3-1 lead in the 20th game of a 24-game series. Sixteen games were draws. The first player to win five games or the player with the most victories at the end of the series earns the right to challenge Fischer.

Baptists To Get Info On Hunger

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Baptists will be bombarded with information on the world hunger situation during the Thanksgiving-Christmas holiday period this year.

"There is no better time to make the point than between Thanksgiving and Christmas when most of our people gorge themselves with food," says Dr. James Dunn, secretary of the Dallas-based Texas Baptist Christian Life Commission.

Dunn's group is preparing a packet for pastors which will include a newsletter with statistical information outlining the scope of the problem, sermon suggestions, study material and a bibliography.

"I think it is important that Texas Baptists and all people realize the severity of the world hunger problem," Dunn said over the weekend.

He noted that hunger was a priority issue at the annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention of Texas in Amarillo last month.

The 2.2 million-member convention adopted a resolution calling on every Texas Baptist to miss one meal each week in 1975 and instead contribute at least $1 for that meal to the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board for world hunger needs.

If literally implemented, Dunn said, Texas Baptists would contribute more than $100 million during the year. But Dunn said he didn't think that amount would be raised.

However, he said, "The reality of the world hunger problem is that at least 10 million people will die of starvation in 1975."

Oil Spill Is Almost Cleaned Up

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Maintenance crews have almost cleaned up a weekend oil spill from the beaches of this resort city. Officials are still trying to determine the origin of the mess.

"We're giving it 100 per cent," said county bulldozer operator Jay Clark. "We're out here on Sunday with everybody on overtime."

Coast Guard officials said an apparently new oil spill was spotted Friday off Miami but they doubted that it was connected to the tar-soaked seaweed that washed onto about two miles of beach during the weekend.

The initial spill left a gooey mess along the beachfront from the Haulover Pier on the north to 50th Street on the south.

Cool weather kept most bathers away from the beach. The few who turned out had their feet and bodies soiled by the tarlike mess.

"If it had been freshly spilled oil, the beaches would have been soaked in it," said Coast Guard Lt. John Neu. "It was not flowing up on the beach; it came in lumps and it had all the appearances of being old oil—not freshly spilled from some passing ship."

He said the oily seaweed may have resulted from a natural oil seel offshore or from a sunken World War II tanker lying on the bottom of the Atlantic.
