

BASTILE AWAITS THOSE WITHOUT WESTERN GARB

The shadow of the rodeo fell across Big Spring Saturday and sent a generous portion of the population scampering for western regalia.

For on Monday, those who appear in the downtown area sans cowboy attire—it's got to be the kind the movies made popular—will be liable to incarceration in the tiny bastille perched on the northeast corner of the courthouse square.

Although the deadline time was 36 hours away, late Saturday afternoon there was more so-called western apparel on parade than ever before in the history of the town.

The demand was so heavy that stores exhausted most of their supply.

THIS PICTURE POINTS A MORAL—Cal Boykin, Grover Dunham and Jimmy Greene were those "baldouts" threatening the other day to refuse to wear western regalia as advertising for Big Spring's forthcoming rodeo. They got their bluff called, and Charley Adkins, city patrolman acting on mysterious orders, clapped them in the calaboose on the courthouse square.

ply of night-marish shirts, cute bandanas, pseudo-sombreros, and other similar articles. Only very odd sizes in the popular western style straw hats remained on hand. Shirt stocks were riddled and bandana piles took a licking.

The book business was good, but, of course, prices necessarily precluded any great rush in this direction. Nevertheless, many who never straddled a horse, limped uncertainly about on the high-heeled footgear. So, barring a major miracle downtown Big Spring Monday will see more unrestrained color than even nature can produce in her wildest autumnal flights. Everybody will be wearing the garb from bankers to shine boys. They will wear it and like it for the sake of the sixth annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo on June 23-25.

Meanwhile, other plans for boosting the event are taking shape

TEN-GALLON HATS ARE THE BOND—The recalcitrants were released from the hoosegow only after sending friends and relatives on a mad dash for their cowboy hats. Once they had on the western skypieces and neckerchiefs, the three were released. It'll be the same jolt, so the general warning goes, for anybody not wearing some sort of "cowboy" attire from Monday until the rodeo. (Kelsey Photos.)

on a wide front. Eighteen of the 30 towns pledging cowgirl sponsors for the rodeo had announced the names of their representatives Saturday.

Burke Summers had around 30 floats lined up for the rodeo parade June 23 and urged other businesses, organizations and individuals to file their applications with the chamber of commerce.

More than 30 automobiles were listed by the Lions club, sponsor of the first of three motorcades, for the rodeo boosting caravan due to make a northward circle on Wednesday morning.

The rodeo association completed arrangements for all stock, had Chester Byars, Fort Worth, signed for a sample of his world championship trick roping, and had engaged other specialty performers to top off a six performance show that will post cash and other awards amounting to nearly $2,500.

Report Hitler Has Appeasement Plan

REVIEWING THE
BIG SPRING
WEEK

BY JOE PICKLE

It may mean a harvest for the rodeo association a little later in the month, but Saturday merchants rate the killing on this pre-rodeo western attire idea. There was such a rush to secure cowboy hats, Levi pants, neckerchiefs, loud shirts, boots, etc., that most places virtually exhausted their supply. By the time the rodeo calaboose is put into operation, what little stuff left on hand will move.

Incidentally, the rodeo is to get a world of boosting in the next 10 days when three motorcades swing into the surrounding area. It kicked Saturday as if the Lions club will have around 40 cars in the first of the motorcades. Also gaining momentum is the parade under direction of Burke Summers.

Of much more lasting importance than a rodeo will be the annual Feeders' Day program here Friday. The crowd will be small, but ranchers and farmers attending the affair at the U. S. Experiment Farm can gain a lot of beneficial information on how to profitably market West Texas feed through West Texas cattle.

June is to be a month of outstanding gatherings for Big Spring. On June 22 the three-day convention of the Texas Post-

May Put Proposal Before Democracies Soon

By the Associated Press

European diplomats heard Saturday, after another week of inconclusive diplomatic dickering, that Adolf Hitler would come forward with a specific proposal for world appeasement.

Reports reaching Paris from well-informed B-1111 quarters said the fuhrer would unfold his proposition to the United States, Britain and France within a month.

There was no hint of the supposed nature of the plan and sources close to Hitler professed to be in the dark.

Speculation in the French capital was restrained pending determination whether the reports from Berlin might be designed to sound out the possibilities of concessions following British expressions of

TEMPERATURE DOWN SATURDAY AFTER A PEAK OF 105 FRIDAY

The weather seemed positively cool Saturday to Big Spring citizens who, although they fought dust, welcomed a wind that kept the temperature down to a mere 92 degrees.

That was the high mark of the day, as registered at the DCC bureau at the airport—far under Friday's scorching 105. The Friday reading was the hottest of the year, being two degrees higher than a 103 maximum in May.

Continued fair weather was in prospect for today and Monday.

Work Moves Rapidly At Powell Dam

Would Be Ready To Catch Water Within A Few Weeks

The Powell Creek dam—one of two being constructed as a part of the city's half million dollar PWA waterworks improvement program—is rapidly assuming the appearance of a structure capable of impounding a sizeable body of water.

Two Shifts a Day

Working two shifts a day, dirt moving crews are throwing up 3,500 to 4,000 cubic yards of clay loam into the dam structure during the 14-hour period.

At the rate work is now progressing, the dam proper is due to be finished within the next month. There will be a sizeable amount of finishing, shaping and rip-rapping, enough to require an additional two or three weeks. But should rains come after three weeks, the dam will be in condition to trap water.

Before long, part of the heavy equipment will be shifted to the Moss Creek dam site where last of the clay core building work is being done. The change will be made when construction on the Powell Creek structure reaches a point that the abundance of equipment will create a congested condition.

Conduit or the controlled spillway and intake point for the Powell Creek dam is in place and during the week clay was puddled around it and the dam built over it. On the Moss Creek job forms for a similar structure twice the size of the original one are being constructed while part of the concrete has been poured. Pumphouse at Moss Creek is nearing completion.

How well steel sheet piling shut off water flow in the Moss Creek channel is evidenced by the exhaustion of water supply in the gravel stratum immediately below the dam.

Otis N. Key, resident PWA engineer, kept his completion estimate at September 15, and barring adverse weather, contractors may even beat that date.

Use of a heavy duty elevator on the Powell Creek project enables big dump conveyors to take on eight yard loads without even stopping. They dump the load the same way, making a loop without pause. This does not apply to those loaded by a yard and a half revolving shovel scooping out the emergency spillway area.

At the southeast end of the Powell Creek dam, dirt work is within a foot of the grade level, according to J. R. Alewine, engineer for Freese and Nichols, engineers for the city.

When completed the dam will impound a lake within 10 feet of the dam top. At this point excess water drops into the concrete spillway. Should abnormal downpours shut more water into the basin than the center spillway can expell even with increasing head, the extra water will go around the emergency spillway when it reaches a point within four feet of the dam top.

The arrangement is the same at Moss Creek, only twice as large because the lake will hold twice as much water. Because the Powell Creek lake is a shallow one, the city plans to pump it as rapidly as possible to avoid evaporation loss.

Urge Reservations At Goodwill Dinner

Big Spring business and professional men were reminded Saturday by chamber of commerce officials to make reservations as soon as possible for the good will dinner at Richland on Tuesday evening.

The dinner is to be informal and those attending are asked to wear cowboy regalia or go in shirt sleeves. Some 40 men have made reservations for the affair and that many more are needed.

Calvin Boykin, chamber of commerce president, will be master of ceremonies and Dr. E. O. Ellington will be toastmaster. Entertainment will feature the Melody Maids—Juanita Cook, Beatrice Peck and Mrs. Marie Barid—the Sunnyside Quartet, composed of Wayne Nance, Vernon Payne, Woody Cason and Tilman Bryant, and the Nix Bros. string band. The Richland P. T. A. under the direction of Mrs. J. S. Norris will serve the meal.

NEW MANAGER FOR AMERICAN AIRLINES

A new manager of the Big Spring station of American Airlines arrived Saturday to assume duties. He is W. H. Scott, who has been transferred here from Abilene to succeed Glenn Golden.

Scott has been with American Airlines for 10 years, going into the service at Atlanta, and later serving at Detroit, Chicago, Springfield, Ill., and other points. He has been at the Abilene station for the past six months.

Golden is going into the piloting end of the game, and at present is at the company's pilot training school in Chicago. He has had some preliminary work in Fort Worth, and after another six-weeks training, will take tests for a co-pilot's job. Mr. Golden is remaining in Big Spring until he is given a definite assignment.

FARMERS FACE CROP SURPLUS, DWINDLING FOREIGN MARKETS

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—A curtailed foreign market for their products confronts American farmers as they move well into a new crop season with prospects of production considerably in excess of domestic needs.

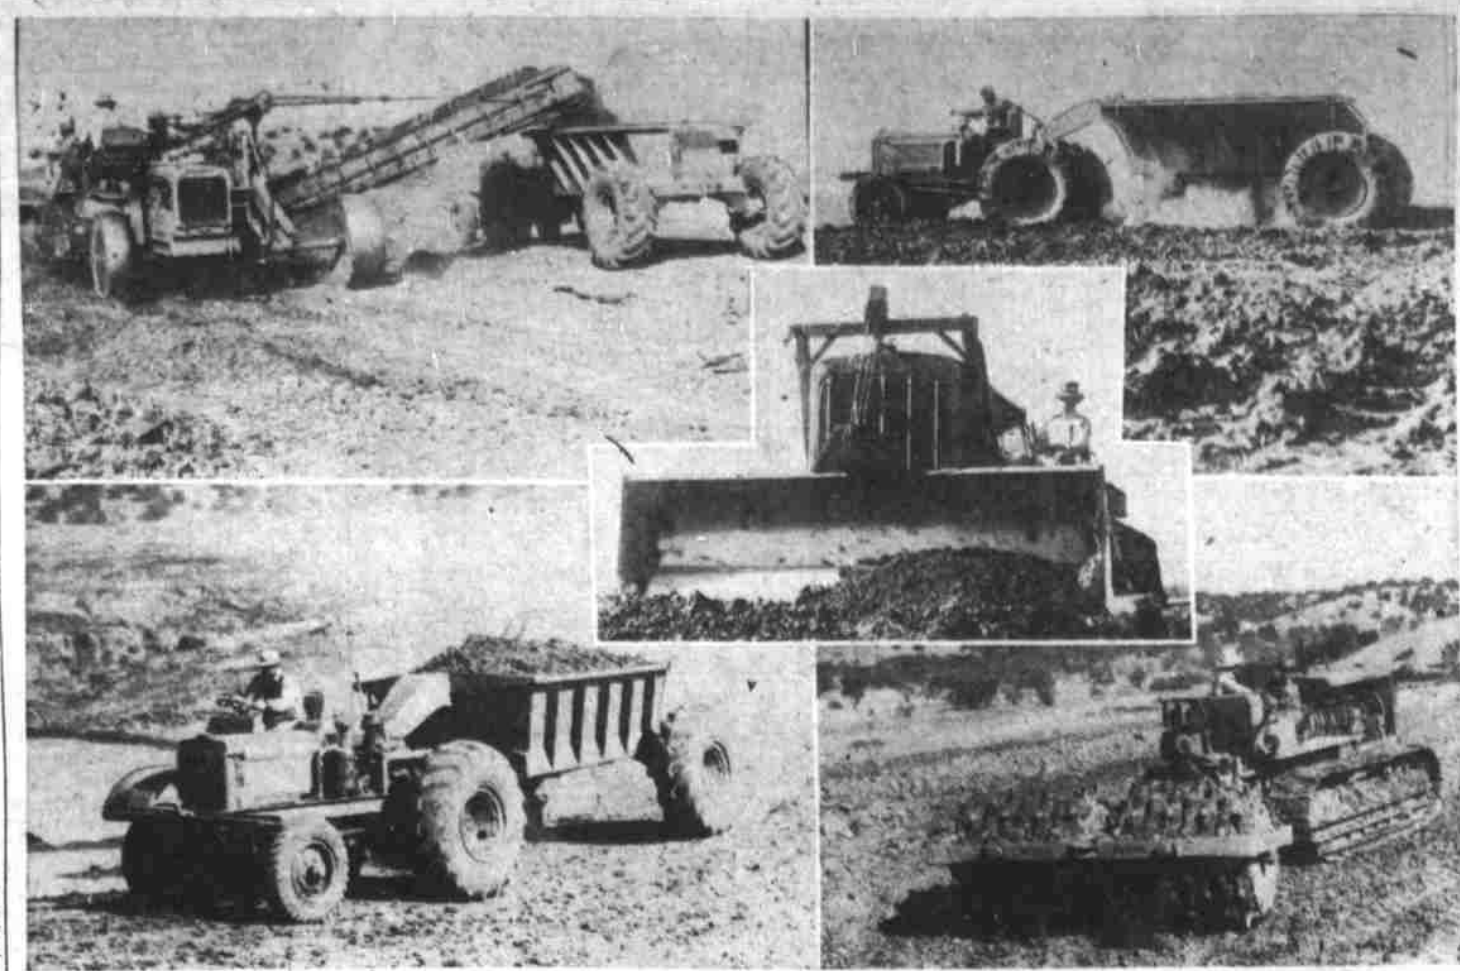

The agriculture department's foreign service reported today that exports of agricultural commodities during the first 10 months of the current fiscal year were 21 per cent lower in value than in the comparable period a year ago.

The exports were valued at $12,778,000 compared with $77,284,000 a year ago.

The decline was due largely, the service said, to a fall in shipments of cotton, the major item of trade. Exports of cotton dropped 44 per cent in value and 39 per cent in quantity while total exports of all other farm products decreased by 8 per cent in value.

Factors contributing to this loss in foreign sales were said to include sharper competition, political and economic uncertainty in Europe and the Orient, and higher prices of some American products, particularly cotton, which has been held above world levels by the government price-

PICTURE STORY OF HOW DIRT IS BEING MOVED TO MAKE A DAM

These pictures illustrate how a great volume of dirt—more than 3,500 yards per day—is being moved as work goes on apace at the Powell's Creek dam, unit in the city's new water supply system. UPPER LEFT, a huge elevator scoops up dirt, conveys it to a dump truck, which is filled without the vehicle ever stopping. LOWER LEFT, the big truck zooms up the embankment with its load, and UPPER RIGHT, dumps the dirt on the top. INSET, along comes a big bull-dozer to smooth out the heaps left by the trucks, and LOWER RIGHT, a heavy sheep's foot roller completes the job of packing the dirt after it has been given a thorough wetting. Royalty At Hyde Park For Rest After Thunderous N. Y. Greeting

Roosevelts Again Hosts

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 10 (AP)—The ancestral home of President Roosevelt offered a welcome retreat tonight for King George and his queen—worn but happy over the tremendous, day-long ovation with which New York City's millions greeted them.

After a swift ride up the Hudson river through a light but steady rain, the royal couple turned into the president's quiet estate at 5:41 p. m. (CST) there to be greeted once again by Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt.

With the president and his wife when the royal party swung up the tree-shaded drive were the president's 84-year-old mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, and his son, James.

The president's wife stepped forward first to welcome the queen with a handshake, then turned and introduced her visitor to her mother-in-law, after which she could be presented to him.

It was only yesterday in Washington their majesties and Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt parted after a long round of formal affairs, but the hours must have been long to their majesties, for they had been on the go since early morning when they left their royal bus special train at Red Bank, N. J.

SMITH PURDUM TO REPRESENT P. O. DEPT. AT SESSION HERE

Smith W. Purdum, fourth assistant postmaster general, will be official representative of the department here when the Texas Postmasters association convention convenes June 22-24. Nat Shick, host postmaster, said Saturday.

James A. Farley, postmaster general, advised Shick that Purdum would be his representative. "May I extend to you as host postmaster best wishes for a successful convention," added Farley.

In addition to Purdum, K. P. Aldrich, chief inspector, will come from Washington. Bert Smoot, Salt Lake City, Utah, a former president of the National Postmasters association, is to appear on the convention program.

From Fort Worth will come F. L. Clamplitt, inspector in charge; C. J. Taylor, superintendent of railway mail service, and Alvin Page, inspector.

Letters and invitations have gone out from Shick to 2,200 postmasters in the state, urging them to attend the annual gathering here.

The number of replies from postmasters who never before have participated in the state convention indicate that a near record attendance may be expected here.

Let Contracts At Hospital

Contracts totaling $30,034 have been let on two buildings at the Big Spring State hospital, Dr. George T. McMahon, superintendent, announced Saturday.

Balfanz Construction Co., Abilene, was low bidder on general contract for the laundry and mattress factory buildings for the hospital. The bid was for $17,250 on the laundry and $4,862.67 on the mattress factory structure.

Roche-Newton, Lubbock, bid low on the plumbing and heating work with $2,200 for the laundry and $4,800 for the mattress factory. M. R. Russell got the electrical contract for $874 on the laundry and $57.50 on the mattress factory.

Materials for the erection of an elevated water tower costing $8,750 were on hand Saturday and this work will be pushed to completion rapidly since footings are already poured.

Dr. McMahon said he anticipated an early start on the two new structures, both of which were provided for in an emergency appropriation.

Meanwhile, the hospital moved into its regular schedule of operation, taking in some 60 patients during the first week its doors were open to the mentally ill of this area.

Millions Pay Warm Tribute

NEW YORK, June 10 (AP)—In six hours thunderous with the welcome of more than 2,000,000 residents of a city lost long ago to his vast empire, King George and Queen Elizabeth paid a historic visit today to this metropolis of the West and bowed at the New York World's fair to a moving demonstration of affection for them.

Then, after a brief call at Columbia university, the royal Britons left at 3:15 p. m. (CST) for Hyde Park to rejoin President Roosevelt for a Sunday visit before returning to Canada for their trip back home.

Through 51 miles of city streets they rode, smiling to a roaring salute from the people and to the almost continuous roll of drums and the blare of brasses.

Before the end, the tanned, slight king appeared weary though profoundly affected.

But the queen—who had brightly answered "Isn't that a lovely thing for you to say" when the mayor's secretary had told her on her arrival "All New Yorkers are in love with you already"—looked in the highest of spirits and vigor through it all.

In the long procession to and from the fair the king rode not on the queen's right, as is customary abroad, but on her left. He was understood to explain, with a remark that was characteristic of the easy behavior of both:

"It's more American. Let us do it that way."

During the great pageant there were many such human touches. The king skipping his luncheon cocktail but the queen taking hers... both omitting their dessert to hurry things up... the cavalcade having been made late because the queen, happy at the presence of such vast crowds, had asked that the procession go slower than had been planned.

Then, as they stepped upon a terrace of the fair's Federal building, standing easily and with no silk-hatted personages with them, there was such a tumult of affectionate shouts from the crowd that the queen blinked her eyes rapidly to hold back the almost visible tears.

There was no smile upon the king's lips; he looked solemnly conscious of an extraordinary tribute. Despite the demonstration at

KIDNAPING SUSPECT MAY GET SANITY TEST

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10 (AP)—A sanity test appeared in prospect today for Margaret Polly Well, 18, who kidnaped 8-year-old Krehe Osborn for $1,500 ransom but soon got caught.

Gerald Kenny, public defender, said the girl refused to consent to a plea of innocent by reason of insanity and expressed a desire to plead guilty to a straight charge of kidnaping, under which she was held in $50,000 cash bail.

Kenny, however, asked Municipal Judge Peter Mullins for authority to transfer the girl from jail to a detention hospital for mental observation. Judge Mullins asked him to delay a formal motion until Monday.

28 Cars Lined Up For Trip

With 28 cars already pledged, the first of three rodeo motorcades Saturday was an assured success. C. E. Rowe and H. P. Steck, in charge of the Lions club sponsored trip, said that they had tentative agreements from several others and that they looked for a 40-car caravan when the northward swing is begun Wednesday at 8:45 a. m.

The West Texans trio composed of Mrs. Ruby Reed, Mrs. Alona Blount and Ruby Bell, will accompany the trippers. It was announced. Arrangements are being made for a public address system.

Steck and Rowe were seeking to have signs painted on cars in the motorcade so that there would be no doubt about the sixth annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo dates. They also were insisting that all rodeo directors cooperate by entering a car in the motorcade.

Big Spring Lions will hold a joint luncheon with those at Snyder. In the evening the trippers will attend the Big Spring-Lubbock baseball game in a group. Anyone not contacted by trippers but who will enter a car in the motorcade.

'Juarez,' With Muni And Bette Davis Starred, Headlines Program At Ritz

Story Deals With Colorful Era Of Old Mexico

Something of a high mark in the season's program may be established at the Ritz theatre this weekend as it presents "Juarez," ranking historical film starring Paul Muni and Bette Davis. Over a year in the making, the picture has been acclaimed as a strong bidder for Academy awards. It is at the Ritz today and Monday.

Warner Bros. announced their intention to film "Juarez" in September, 1937, with Jack L. Warner, vice president in charge of production, Hal B. Wallis, executive producer, and Henry W. Blake, associate producer. Writers were assigned to develop the screen play at that time. Paul Muni was to play Benito Pablo Juarez, savior of Mexico's democracy and the greatest popular hero that republic ever has known. Bette Davis was to be co-starred, as the tragic Empress Carlota, and the plot theme was to be confined to those years between 1833 and 1897, the period during which Mexico had both a president, Juarez, and an emperor, Maximilian.

Aeneas MacKenzie, research historian first assigned by Producer Henry Blake to the story, found at once that sources available in Los Angeles and Hollywood were woefully inadequate. Book conflict with book, printed fact with printed fact, and there were many lapses not touched upon at all. Warner Bros., through Dr. Herman Lisauer, erudite head of the studio research department, cabled book dealers and scholars throughout Europe, sent men to Mexico City, there to gather facts.

Within a month MacKenzie, together with John Huston and Wolfgang Reinhardt, now working with him on the script, had more than 300 volumes for research and reference.

Around Muni and Bette Davis a brilliant cast of famous names had been assembled. Brian Aherne for Maximilian, Gale Sondergaard for the Empress Eugenie, Claude Rains for Napoleon III, Donald Crisp for Porfirio Diaz, Gilbert Roland for Colonel Lopez, Joseph Calleia for Urquiza, the traitor-on and on through the 50 principal parts required to tell the story.

Director Dieterle filmed more than 250 tests during the month before the picture started to assemble this hand-picked group of actors. He wanted more than just acting ability. Each player had to resemble the historic figure he or she was to portray as closely as nature and the makeup department could contrive it.

In Muni's case it meant weeks of preparation, a lengthy trip to Mexico, an exhaustive study of photographs, busts, life masks and old records available in the National Museum in Mexico City. Perc Westmore, head of the Warner Bros. makeup department, and Hollywood's wonder worker in the craft, finally, laboring with Muni, accomplished the perfect result. The same care was given Bette Davis' transformation into the lovely and fragile Empress Carlota, 23-year-old, raven-haired daughter of the Belgian king. Nothing about her face was touched except a slightly smiling cupid's bow at the lips. But her hair was completely transformed.

During those last few months of final tests and casting, all other departments of the huge studio hummed with the activity of preparation necessary to a picture of such magnificent scale.

A rehearsal meeting of the Big Spring high school municipal band has been called for Monday morning at 9 o'clock at the high school auditorium, and all members are urged to be present. It is possible that all or some members of the organization will be called upon to accompany the rodeo boosters on their forthcoming advertising trips, and it is important that plans be made for these excursions, leaders said. All players are urged to be present Monday morning.

Southwestern Life Agents To Meet In Colorado Springs

DALLAS, June 10—Agents of the Southwestern Life Insurance company will meet for the first time in the company's history beyond the borders of Texas when the 35th annual convention of the Southwestern Life club is held in Colorado Springs, Colo., June 15, 16 and 17, President C. F. O'Donnell announced.

More than 300 agents and their wives, bringing the anticipated attendance to approximately 500, will attend. Southwestern Life representatives, by producing a specified volume of business during the previous year, win the right for themselves and their wives to attend the company's annual conventions with all expenses paid. The Broadmoor hotel, resort mecca of Colorado, will be convention headquarters.

The following Big Spring people will go to Colorado Springs for the convention: Mrs. Belle R. Black, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Higginbotham, and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Stegner.

Charlie Chan Chases Reno Murderer

The justly renowned Charlie Chan runs up against a fascinating killer in his most fascinating case in his latest 20th Century-Fox mystery, "Charlie Chan in Reno," which plays today and Monday at the Queen theatre.

In "the biggest little city in the world," the capital of quick divorce, the Oriental sleuth meets his love-lust—and deadliest—adversary. It's decidedly one of the most exciting stories since Earl Derr Biggers' lovable sleuth came to the screen 17 pictures ago.

Sidney Toler is the redoubtable Chan in the new series and in this film he establishes himself solidly as the finest choice possible for the character. His portrayal is completely convincing and he is supported by an excellent cast, featuring Ricardo Cortez, Phyllis Brooks, Slim Summerville, Kane Richmond, Sen. Young, Pauline Moore, Eddie Collins, Kay Linaker, Louise Henry and Robert Lowery.

It's the first time the estimable Chan has had the pleasure of being surrounded by so many beauties (viz., the Misses Brooks, Moore and Henry) but then the investigation takes place in the playground of beautiful women. While glasses clink, trombones moan and merry-makers dance, a glamor girl's life is cut short with a pair of scissors and Chan is called upon to fly halfway around the world to solve the case of the murdered divorcee.

CRUDE STOCKS SHOW A SLIGHT INCREASE

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—The bureau of mines today reported the April total of all oils at 538,739, 000 barrels, or 152 days' supply. This compared with 554,122,000 barrels in March and 592,120,000 in April, 1938. The April increase over March was 4,617,000 barrels.

Motor fuel stocks stood at 93,015, 000 barrels in April, compared with 91,842,000 in March and 96,238,000 in April a year ago.

Daily average production of crude oil was the highest since October, 1937. The April average was 72,900 barrels higher than in March and 93,600 higher than in April, 1938. Daily output in April averaged 8, 517,000 barrels.

Most of the increase, the bureau said, was due to abandonment of the Saturday shutdown in Texas, where daily average output increased about 70,000 barrels. This, the bureau said, was a five per cent increase rather than an anticipated 17 to 18 per cent increase.

Group Of Legislators Always May Be Counted On To Make 'News'

AUSTIN, June 10 (AP)—In sessions of the legislature—the current one is no exception—some representatives and senators consistently make headlines.

They may not be the most powerful members of the body which formulates laws for Texas. Many legislators of much influence and recognized ability move so quietly their names appear in print infrequently.

Some simply do things and say things that interest newspaper readers and therefore are "news." In reviewing the "headliners" of this longest session in Texas history, 15 names would be found on anyone's list of nominations.

Excluding Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, Speaker Emmett H. Morse and Lieut. Gov. Coke Stevenson, who often break into news columns largely because of their positions, Senator Joe Hill of Henderson easily led all the rest.

Bulldogish in appearance and style of speaking, Hill made headlines, big, black ones, by a scathing attack on Governor O'Daniel early in the session. As the session lengthened, he returned again and again to the assault, sometimes on the senate floor, sometimes on the radio.

His exchange of oral blows with Senator Jesse Mann of Fort Worth, who answered Hill's first public denunciation of the governor, was a classic in invective and vituperation. In the capitol, they still talk about it.

Youngsters
Twenty-six-year-old G. C. Morris of Greenville, serving his third term in the house, developed news repeatedly by his admittedly brilliant leadership in the bitter fight against "S.J.R. 12," the proposed constitutional amendment favored by Governor O'Daniel.

E. H. Thornton, Jr., of Galveston, another house youngster and third-termer, throughout the session has had his words and actions publicized because of his position as chairman of the very important appropriations committee and his activities in behalf of the O'Daniel-blessed amendment.

Other outstanding "headliners" have been: Senator Clint C. Small of Amarillo, dean of the senate and an unquestioned leader among conservatives on old age pension and tax matters.

The Hardin "twins," Senator Does, author of the law which greatly liberalized Texas old age assistance program, and Rep. Ross, who sponsored the pension liberalization bill in the house and authored the house-approved bill to levy a tax on gross receipts of merchants.

Rep. W. J. Galbreath of Wharton, a blacksmith, who startled the legislature with the first blast of the session against O'Daniel.

Rep. Abe Mays of Atlanta, who supported O'Daniel in his campaign, was mentioned as a likely O'Daniel selection as secretary of state, and subsequently became one of the governor's sharpest critics.

Rep. Alfred E. Peisch of Fredericksburg, one of the principal advocates of S.J.R. 12.

Rep. Joe Keith of Sherman, who also battled the constitutional amendment, was co-author of the omnibus tax bill passed by the house and proposed partial disfranchisement of old age pensioners.

Rep. Albert Darden of Marlin, another author of the omnibus tax bill, ardent advocate of higher taxes on natural resources and critic of O'Daniel and S.J.R. 12.

Rep. J. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene, whose oratorical powers were hurled into the fight on floor and on the air against S.J.R. 12.

Rep. Bailey Ragdale of Crockett, author of the soil conservation law enacted and of an unsuccessful proposal to legalize horserace betting on a county option basis.

Senator R. A. Weinert of Seguin, author of S.J.R. 12 and chairman of the senate state affairs committee.

Senator Morris Roberts of Pettus, chairman of the senate appropriations committee.

Deeper Pay Is Indicated In Ector County

SAN ANGELO, June 10.—Striking oil deep Permian lime oil in amount promising production by Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1 O. B. Holt, west outpost to the North Cowden field in Ector county, opening possibilities of pay below many fields, was the outstanding West Texas oil development this week.

Lena Star Gasoline Co. No. 1 Humble-Page, promising to become Schleicher county's first commercial oil producer, southeast of two gas and distillate wells, in heading oil last week from 5,746 feet, cemented five-inch outside diameter casing at 5,096 feet and was pulling big pipe. Shell Oil Co., Inc., started a test one mile to the west, No. 1-B Page, 660 from the north, 1,950 feet from the east line of section 41-1-GH&SA.

Gulf moved in materials for a scheduled 7,500-foot wildcat in southeastern Ward county, No. 5 Wriston Bros., while the opener of West Texas' third Ordovician lime producing area and Pecos county's first, Anderson-Prichard Corp. and Monte Warner No. 1 M. J. Master-son, was completed at 4,595 feet for a natural 24-hour flow of 133.87 barrels of 42.8 gravity oil and a gas-oil ratio of 985-1. The official gauge was through an 18-44 inch choke on two-inch tubing.

Being Deepened

Striking oil from 5,155-57 feet, the total depth, Gulf No. 1 Holt in northern Ector county swabbed 10 1-2 barrels of oil and bailed eight gallons of salt water in 3 1-2 hours. It deepened one foot without increase and in 12 hours swabbed 16 barrels of oil and bailed eight gallons of water. The water was believed coming from upper formations. Drilling to 5,167 had brought no increase, and continued.

The oil was encountered 1,318 feet in the Permian lime and 961 feet deeper than in Sinclair-Prairie No. 1 Fay Holt, half mile to the east, which marked a three-quarter mile west extension to the North Cowden field. Gulf No. 1 Holt found the regular North Cowden pay section virtually barren. It is 330 feet out of the southeast corner of the west half of section 1-A-1. Acreage on which leases were dropped as the result of the failure of tests that sought linking of the North Cowden pool and the Goldsmith field to the southwest may attain value as the result of the deep oil showing.

Humble No. 1 W. T. Caswell

South central Gaines county wildcat, in the southwest corner of section 10-A24-pst, showed no formation oil on a swabbing test at 4,695 feet and prepared to test at 5,002 feet in lime, two feet past contract depth.

Yokum Completion

Shell No. 1 Waples-Platter, 1 1-4 mile northeast outpost to the Bennett field in Yokum county, was completed at 5,309 feet, plugged back from 5,380, pumping 151.63 barrels of 29 gravity oil in 24 hours plus 33 per cent water. It is in the northwest quarter of section 616-D-John H. Gibson, Hudson and Million No. 1 J. D. Webb, wildcat 4 1-2 miles southwest of Plains, in the southwest quarter of section 545, prepared to core from 6,120 in lime to test the zone found productive in Bond & Bohago No. 1 West, small discovery well two miles to the southwest. Its solid lime top, 4,640 feet, 955 feet below sea level, was 95 feet lower than in the Bond & Bohago well.

Two wells in the Slaughter field in Hockley county were completed while two tests struck oil. Western States Gasoline Corp. No. 1 Humble-Coons on the south edge of the pool, in the northeast corner of section 11-X-1st, rated 1,266.48 barrels daily at 5,094 feet after acidizing. Texas Pacific No. 1 Lauhoff, in the northeast corner of labor 65-40-Maverick, was completed at 4,995 feet after a shot with a daily potential of 698 barrels. Honolulu No. 1-10 Mallett filled 400 feet with oil in 16 hours at 4,974 feet and drilled ahead, and Texaco No. 6 Slaughter logged its first oil showing at 4,885 feet and continued drilling.

18 Sponsors For Rodeo Selected

The first cowgirl sponsors' contest staged in the six years of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo will find an array of West Texas pulchritude and riding talent on hand.

Saturday 18 of the 30 towns pledging sponsors had named their representatives and others were due to be selected within the week. In addition to a round of entertainment during the rodeo on June 23-25, the visiting cowgirls will have a chance at a $125 custom-built saddle and other prizes going to winners.

Sponsors and their towns include: Faye Marburger, Abilene; Sylvia Yokley, Canadian; Dorothy O'Daniel, Coahoma; Mrs. J. E. Northcut, Colorado; Mrs. Jack Young, Crane; Pauline Friend, Fort Stockton; Walter Fay Cowden, Midland; Mrs. Dorothy Roberson, Pecos; Anna Lee Spies, Roscoe; Mary Beth Todd, Water Valley; Mary Catherine Bird, Post; Elizabeth Miller, Miller Bros. ranch, Borden county; Fern Sawyer, Cross Roads; N. M.; Bobbie Harris, Rankin; Loveta Shuler, Brady; Marjorie Mayes Beck, Coleman; Mrs. Wiley Kinard, Vincent; and Peggy Hagena, Anson.

Much Activity In Palo Pinto Pay Sector

ABILENE, June 10.—Activity in the Palo Pinto producing areas of Jones and Shackelford county, with more than 20 active rigs in the Avoca, Ivy and Griffin fields, maintained the hottest pace for West Central Texas this week.

The Shackelford county Ivy field recorded its largest producer, and the original Avoca townsite gained its heaviest flush well.

Largest of the wells on the Shackelford county side of the area was completed as the Fortson & Polk test, Ungren & Frazier et al. No. 3 J. E. McCown, south offset to a recent three-quarter mile west extension. The well made a railroad commission potential of 2,250 barrels daily by flowing natural 435.5 barrels in four hours and 28 minutes through 1 1-2 inch choke. It had Palo Pinto lime at 3,144 feet and heavy saturation at 3,190-92 feet, total depth. Location is in section 158-BBB&C survey.

200 Bbls. Per Hour South offset to the Fortson & Polk test, Ungren & Frazier et al. No. 3 J. E. McCown, was running tubing in preparation for taking a railroad commission gauge after flowing unofficially at the rate of 200 barrels per hour. It is in the same section, and operators will move to an east offset 300 feet from the south and 1,062 feet from the east line of the north half of the southeast quarter of section 158-BBB&C survey.

Third producing horizon for the Ivy area was developed in the Iron Mountain Oil company's southeast edge well which had found water in the Palo Pinto lime at 3,235 feet, and plugged back depth.

In the original Avoca townsite, the Bourn, Bradstreet and Barkley No. 1 Richardson established a railroad commission potential of 1,450 barrels daily natural, a record for wells within the townsite, based on a flow of 299 barrels of oil in four hours and 25 minutes. It is in section 21-14-TC.

Pay was from 3,246 to 3,260 feet, total depth. Operators skidded rotary rig 800 feet to the north for spudding No. 2 Richardson, the two wells to force three offsets by Ungren & Frazier on the T. L. M. Culwell tract and another by Armer, Armer and Garrett M. Smith of Fort Worth to the south on the Rachael Cox estate where two producers have already been completed.

On the east side of the field, the Bert Fields No. 7 J. T. Taylor established a rating of more than 3,000 barrels daily with a gauged flow of 445 barrels of oil in three hours and 30 minutes. The test had top of the Palo Pinto lime at 3,237 feet and struck saturation at 3,250-57 feet, total depth. It is in section 199-BBB&C survey.

A southern Shackelford county wildcat was staked to test for the Ordovician with rotary at 4,200 feet on location about two miles east of Moran. It will be drilled by C. H. Schuster of Fort Worth as No. 1 Ella DeWitt et al. 150 feet from the east and 660 feet from the south lines of section 56-University lands survey, and is scheduled for spudding by July 1.

Brokers Welcome The King, And Do Little Trading

NEW YORK, June 10 (AP)—The British took New York today and with it the stock market. Traders deserted the exchange floor and boardrooms in large numbers after the opening in order to welcome King George and Queen Elizabeth on their first visit to the metropolis.

The result was that dealings slowed to a crawl near the close and final plus and minus signs, mostly fractional, were about evenly divided.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was unchanged at 48.5, but up 1-2 points on the week. In the day's price shifts 184 stocks were up, 177 down and 162 unchanged. Transfers for the two hours amounted to 254,930 shares.

"God the Preserver of Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday,
June 11.

The Golden Text is: "Thy righteousness is like the great mountains; thy judgment is a great deep: O Lord, thou preservest man and beast" (Psalms 36:6).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Hear O
Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord: And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might" (Deuteronomy 6:4, 5).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:
"Having no other gods, turning to no other gods, turning to no other but the one perfect Mind to guide him, man is the likeness of God, pure and eternal, having that Mind which was also in Christ"
(page 467).

Seamen Will Vote On Going Back To Work

NEW ORLEANS, June 10 (AP)—

The end of a National Maritime union strike against five oil companies involving 14 gulf ports was foreseen today by a union official who said a vote would be taken Monday night on the question of a return to work.

Members of the union, a CIO affiliate, struck April 17 but Charles De Gress, secretary-treasurer of the gulf district of the organization, said:

"There is no longer any strike.
We have been locked out by the companies who are now using one ship to transport the oil formerly carried in two vessels. It's now a question of us getting our jobs back."

The vote, he said, would be taken among gulf district locals.

De Gress said the strike originally had been called against seven companies 17 days after they refused to renew union contracts which expired April 1.

The companies still affected, according to De Gress, are the Standard of New Jersey, Standard of New York, C. D. Mallory Steamship, Tidewater Oil and Petroleum Navigation.

A strike had been called against the Pennsylvania Shipping company and the Gulf Refining company, according to De Gress, but they later signed contracts.

The union struck, De Gress said,
for increased wages, a closed shop,
and improved working conditions and quarters.

De Gress said "The strike was called at the wrong time. It came too close to the coal strike."

Mrs. Hanshaw Hostess To Re-Deal Club

Mrs. Wayne Seabourne was included as the only guest when Mrs.
W. L. Hanshaw entertained the Re-
Deal club in her home Friday.

Mrs. Jack Hodges, Jr., won high score and refreshments were served. Others attending were Mrs.
Glen Queen, Mrs. T. H. Neel, Mrs.
W. O. Queen, and Mrs. H. C. Hamilton. Mrs. Hodges is to be next hostess.

SOARING MEET TO BE CONCLUDED TODAY

WICHITA FALLS, June 10 (AP)—
The Southwestern Soaring meet will end here tomorrow with a big show, spot landings, efficiency flights and bomb dropping to give the public a taste of the week's excitement.

The meet, in its second year, has set new American distance records for two-seaters and single passenger ships.

My Savings Account Has Provided For My Old Age

How grateful I am to the young bank cashier who, 40 years ago, convinced me of the value of a savings account. For 40 years I have saved a part of what I earned at the First National Bank. Of course, at the beginning I didn't earn much. But as I grew older, I was able to save more. Now that my accumulating years are over, I am able to enjoy life without being dependent upon anyone. A savings account at First National has given me a happy old age.

tryside without delay, once the party was through with its engagement at Columbia university. Although Riverside drive in New York City was crowded with cheering thousands, the crowds thinned out as the party sped upstate, mainly because of the rain.

Within the century-old home of the president, the royal couple found quiet and an informal restfulness.

It was expected King George and Queen Elizabeth would find the repose of the president's 1,200-acre estate in striking contrast to the pretentious grounds and palaces of Britain's sovereigns.

In the cool study of the stone and stucco house, with ivy clambering over its walls, president and king had their first chance to speak of more than pleasantries.

Mr. Roosevelt already had indicated that he and the king probably would touch on international affairs. While he said the conversations would not be of special significance, foreign affairs the world over watched, but with almost certain futurity, for any clue to what might pass between the heads of two powerful nations.

One bedroom each was set aside for the British monarchs. And they could retire as early as they wished, because no entertainment was planned after dinner—to which 30 guests were invited.

Mrs. Roosevelt told reporters there would be two tables because the dining room is small. Her sons and their wives were to sit at the smaller one.

The Roosevelt home, almost cluttered in spots with bric-a-brac, books and furniture of various periods, is impressive chiefly for its air of "livability."

It is spacious enough for the family, but most of the British royal party had to remain on the king's blue and silver special train at nearby Poughkeepsie. Only two ladies in waiting, two gentlemen attendants of the king, and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada were able to share in its hospitality for the night.

For three hours tomorrow afternoon, Mrs. Roosevelt said, George and Elizabeth "can do just what they please." They will be invited to drive about the state or countryside or to swim in a sparkling blue-lined pool two miles through the woods near the president's Butcher's Hill cottage.

Those three hours of respite will be sandwiched between a picnic at the cottage and dinner at the "big house."

The morning, however, was reserved for the president and king, first lady and queen, to add the spiritual ties of worship at St. James Episcopal church to the bonds of friendship between England and America.

caravan is urged to call the chamber of commerce office.

An abundance of room is indicated and those who do not have cars but who wish to make the trip are invited to be on hand Wednesday morning before departure time.

The schedule calls for the cars to move out of Big Spring at 8:45 a. m. Arrival and departure times on the itinerary are: Ackerly 9:20 a. m. and 9:35 a. m.; Lamesa 10:05 a. m. and 10:25 a. m.; Gail 11:10 a. m. and 11:25 a. m.; Snyder 12:10 p. m. (lunch) and 2:10 p. m.; Post 3:05 p. m. and 3:25 p. m.; Tahoka 4 p. m. and 4:30 p. m. m.; Lubbock 5:15 p. m. and remain for ball game.

Pledging cars are H. W. Smith, Harry Hoeckendorf, Grover Dunham, Allen Cox, C. L. Rowe, Boyd McDaniel, Alfred Collins, Carl Mercer, Elton Taylor, Johnnie Nail, H. P. Steck, R. E. Satterwhite, W. R. Satterwhite, Lawrence Robinson, Tom Cook, Jess Slaughter, Cliff Wiley, Lloyd Guiley, Big Spring Hardware company, Harvie Clay, A. F. masters association will open. One day later the rodeo opens. On June 16 young people of the Christian churches in this area will open an encampment in the community center at the City Park.

About 50 boys from Big Spring and Comstock will leave Monday morning for their annual camp at Barkdale on the Nueces. Several, seeing the value in such camps, have made it possible for boys to attend. One anonymous giver provided for six lads. These are probably good investments.

Reservations are needed for the Richmond good will dinner Tuesday evening. With farming conditions none too bright at the moment, a large attendance might be taken as a gesture of confidence on the part of business men.

The many thousands of people who turned out last weekend to inspect the Big Spring State hospital well argued for the appreciation of the general public, especially to local leaders and officials who had a part in making it possible for Big Spring and Howard county.

While the situation is critical as to cotton, the general crop outlook is slightly better than the same time a year ago. However, it will take a general rain soon to keep it that way.

Back to the rodeo regalia business. If there is a prize for the biggest hat, Mrs. Reba Baker wins hands down. That sombrero of hers covers more area than a brush arbor.

willingness to consider a world conference on Nazi colonial demands if Germany would renounce a policy of force.

Germany, meanwhile, continued to face a grave internal situation in Bohemia-Moravia, where stern punitive measures had been taken because of the slaying of a Nazi policeman. It was believed that German police had solved the case to their satisfaction.

German officials had announced additional measures would be imposed at 2 p. m. yesterday in the Kladno district, where the German policeman was slain, if a solution had not been reached. Announcement that these measures would be withheld was made just before expiration of the deadline.

Shortly after, the German officials issued a communique disclosing that a Czech policeman had been slain in a quarrel with German police.

The semi-official mouthpiece of the foreign office in Berlin accused foreign powers—Britain especially—of fomenting unrest among the Czechs who of late have shown mounting dissatisfaction at German rule.

Will Greet Cowgirls at Stamford

Mrs. W. J. Bryant, wife of one of the city aldermen, will serve as hostess to the cowgirl sponsors who will represent the various Texas towns and cities at the tenth annual Texas Cowboy Reunion in Stamford July 3, 4 and 5. Horsemanship contest, parades and social events make up a busy three-day program for the sponsors.

Tribute

the fair, the number who saw their majesties there was much less than had been expected; the official attendance just before they left was put at a little more than 147,000. The great turnout was on the streets of New York—hundreds of thousands of obscure men and women and children who stood patiently to gaze at and to cheer the young titular rulers of an empire of 300,000,000 people.

They landed near the site where the statue of another George—the third—had been melted down by the angry colonists to make bullets to fight a war for independence nearly two centuries ago.

But they landed in friendliness, in a scene where the old quarrel was forgotten in the memories of the long peace since, to welcome as impressive, if not more noisy, than ever was given to any other man and woman reaching these shores.

As the destroyer Warrington—upon which they rode from nearby Fort Hancock, N. J., to Manhattan's tip at the Battery—pulled by the Statue of Liberty, the king, slender and serious, went from starboard to port and stood stiffly at salute. The queen stood rigid beside him.

The harbor, lying under a light haze in the intense sun, burst into tremendous noise and life.

Coast guard cutters racing ahead scattered the pleasure craft from the area of the Battery pier. The whistles of harbor craft boomed out a rising bass roar; overhead cruised a fleet of the U. S. army's mighty "flying fortresses."

The city's fireboats spouted their shining streams; blimps went softly back and forth in the sky. Across the water, the army's batteries on Governors' island boomed out the 21-gun salute.

Bands, perspiring in the heat, burst forth with the old hymn of the empire, God Save the King, and with the national anthem, The Star Spangled Banner.

Their majesties walked across a wide red carpet in disembarking and were met by two top-hatted representatives of this city and state—Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia and Gov. Herbert H. Lehman.

There was handshaking all around, and then Mrs. LaGuardia presented to the queen a bouquet of red roses. Her majesty wore a pale blue dress with a cape, a hat of the same shade turned up at one side, and carried orchids.

The king, in an Oxford gray cutaway, doffed his handsome gray top hat and extended his hand.

With the queen he entered a limousine, whose glass windows were bullet proof, and set out on the ride to the fair. The band burst into "Rule Britannia" as the procession moved off slowly, under a rain of ticker tape—Lower Manhattan's traditional gesture of welcome but one which the authorities had sought to avoid.

Upon the roofs of the nearby buildings stood policemen armed with rifles, and on all the 61-mile route through the city picked detectives examined rooftops and overpasses.

The procession fell quickly behind schedule.

King George personally was responsible for slowing down the royal progress to a speed far less than that called for in the program.

Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine twice sent word back to the king's car that the "road was clear" only to get word by courier that his majesty and the queen had agreed they should travel slowly through the city to give the people a chance to see them and for themselves to see the city.

The king and queen saw most all of the city—its tenements and mighty skyscrapers, its best and its worst.

Cotton Crop At Crucial Stage

Weather and time have combined to place Howard county crop prospects at the critical point, a survey showed Saturday.

In order to have assurance of normal production, general rain is needed within the next 10 days. Otherwise, the thousands of acres up to a stand would be hard hit and the many thousand unplanted would likely have to go to feed or be left fallow.

No such condition is felt in feed production, for plantings of grain sorghums can be safely attempted up until July 20. Early feed may be hurt or even lost, but it could be planted again.

A survey Saturday indicated that around 75 per cent of the county's cotton acreage was up to a stand. There is no block "dry areas" but rather a scattering of small drought areas all over the county. Cotton is holding up well in the sandy territories but it is looking sick in some of the tight land sections.

Prospects are generally a bit better than last year when late dashing rains on June 20 caused those who had cotton to replant. As a result, all cotton was late and an early frost nipped production sharply.

Assault Cases Are Set For Trial At Midland

Two murder and two assault to murder cases are included in the criminal docket called for trial in the 70th district court Monday at Midland.

W. S. Gunter, W. S. Gunter, Jr. and Herman Gunter, indicted jointly on an assault count, have their case set for Monday. They are charged with shooting T. L. Box on a Midland street a month ago, presumably in retaliation for the fatal shooting of a son and brother, Hurschell Gunter, last year.

John Garner will go to trial for fatally beating a 79-year old man with his fist, said District Attorney Martelle McDonald. Dave Garner, a brother, faces an assault to murder charge for shooting a Mexican with a shotgun, and James Burleson, negro, is to be tried for killing another negro. Several other cases have been called for a hearing.

fit into the regular routine of the camp program.

One hundred men and boys from over the 15-county council area have been at Camp Faucett during the past week. Sixteen new and reconditioned tents have been pressed into service to accommodate the group.

Al Stiles, area executive, had Dr. Stanley of Camp Wood make a physical checkup on all those in camp. Only three showed any defects—minor cases of sore throat—and were given prompt treatment.

Also insuring sanitation in the camp is the closely supervised preparation of food and dish washing. After dishes are thoroughly washed, they are placed in perforated tube and submerged in boiling water for several minutes.

The camp program follows the axiom of "early to bed—early to rise," and includes tent passing, swimming, hiking, play periods, various crafts, marksmanship, trips to Turkey Pen caves and Dr. Eads' campsite, and campfire programs. Tents are pitched above the Nueces river against a background of mountains and in the picturesque scenery of the Nueces canyon.

Good Progress On Athletic Plant, Park Project

Two WPA projects here are going steadily forward to assure the Big Spring Independent school district of a new athletic plant and the city an improved municipal park.

Sodding of the playing field at the new athletic plant site at the northwest corner of Highland Park is all but complete, Edmund Notestine, business manager, said Saturday. Footings for stands are to be poured this week and soon the moving of seating equipment will be started. Indications are that the new unit will be ready for use by the time football season rolls around.

At the city park six of the CCC buildings have been moved from the scenic Mountain state park and are being grouped for community center. One more building is to be moved on the location, according to B. J. McDaniel, city superintendent of operations.

One other building, now on the high school campus, will be moved to the A.B.C. West Side park. Stone is being quarried at the city park for use on the buildings and for completing the amphitheatre.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pickle had as their guests Friday Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Duke, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. P. Baker and Mrs. Lila Cason of Lamesa.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wasson and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rix are spending Sunday on an outing in the Davis mountains.

SOME REPLACEMENT WORK ON PAVING

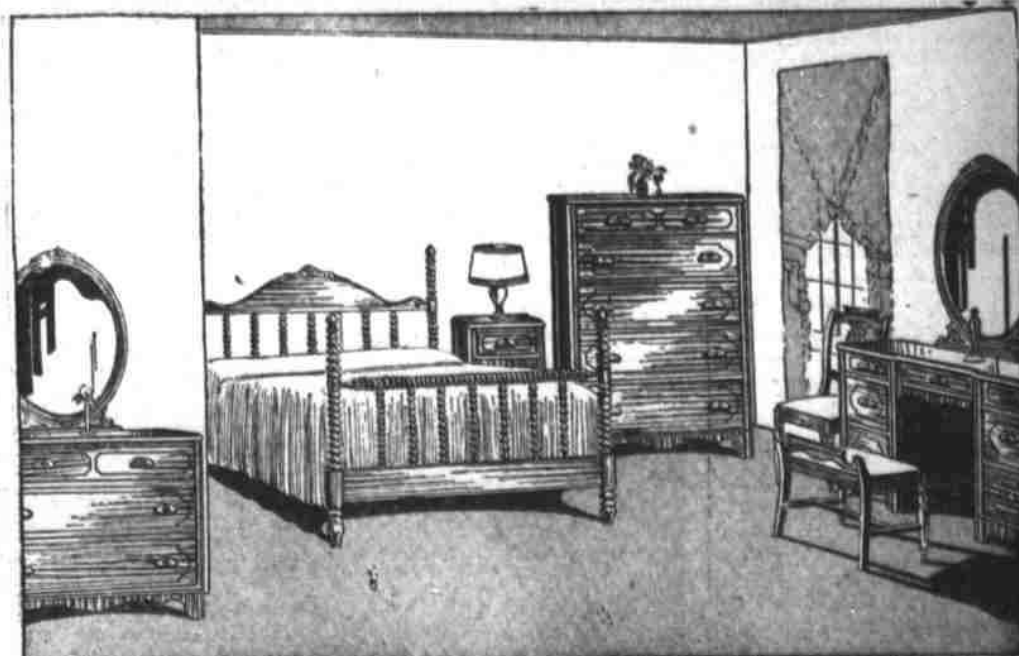

Repairing of street damage from floodwaters in the downtown area progressed satisfactorily Saturday, but the rush to open refinshed sections to traffic was necessitating doing a small part of the work again.

Because of the lack of uniformity in the base, the topping varied in depth and consequently did not completely dry in spots. This caused of the new pavement to "crack," and such areas are to be replaced. Billy Kent, Ralph Shedd and Henry Jones left Saturday for Mountain Park, N. M., to spend several weeks in the Y.M.C.A. "Skyline" camp at that place.

Summer days are play days, and the various recreation and sports facilities in and around the municipal park are occupying the interests of feminine Big Spring. Dust storms and hot weather didn't seem to affect traveling conditions for local citizens and their guests this weekend. Although many returned from visits with relatives and friends a goodly portion began their vacation.

Mrs. R. L. Price returned Friday by airplane from a month's visit in St. Louis, Dallas, Memphis and Tulsa, Okla. She visited with friends and relatives en route to St. Louis.

Mrs. R. C. Hitt and son, Richard, returned Saturday from a week's visit with her mother, Mrs. W. W. Smith of Greenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Winslow and daughters, Ann and Nan, accompanied by Miss Mabel Nelson, are here from Fort Worth as guests of Mrs. Dovie Buzbee, mother of Mrs. Winslow, and of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Winslow, parents of Mr. Winslow.

H. Ray Buzbee of Dallas is spending the weekend here with his mother, Mrs. Dovie Buzbee, and with Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Arthur. He recently completed his sophomore work at Baylor Medical college in Dallas.

Mrs. Carl Strom is visiting her daughter, Gloria, at Camp Walde-mar this weekend.

Mrs. Aaron Taylor has as a guest her niece, Elsie Janet Willis of Sweetwater.

Mrs. T. A. Stephens, who is attending Hardin-Simmons this summer, spent the weekend here.

Harold Talbot, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Talbot, who has been at A. & M., returned home Thursday

Charles McQuinn, who is working in Odessa, is spending the weekend here.

Mrs. S. P. Jones and daughter, Mildred, are visiting in Dallas for two weeks.

Mrs. Charles Watson and children, Billie Bob and Jane, left Saturday for a two weeks' visit in Austin.

Mrs. Connie Wooten and sons of Dallas stopped en route to California to visit with Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Wooten. They left here Friday.

Mrs. W. G. Wilson, Jr., returned Friday from a 10-day visit in Texas, Ark. She was accompanied home by Mr. Wilson.

Mrs. Fred Stephens and daughter, Rozelle, returned Saturday from Dallas where they visited Mr. Stephens' sister, Fannie Stephens, and made plans to enroll Rozelle in S. M. U.

Mrs. Joe Kuykendall and daughter, Eloise, accompanied by Elizabeth Northington, are spending the weekend in Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Wills To Celebrate Their 50th Wedding Anniversary With Open House

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Wills, 200 Nolan, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary Monday with an open house to be held from 6 o'clock to 9 o'clock and while they have sent out no formal invitations, they ask all old friends to call.

They have also stipulated that there are to be "no presents, please." They just want their friends to feel free to call on them to help celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Wills, who was Miss Laura A. Boswell of Fort Worth, was just a little over 15 years old when she met and married Mr. Wills who had moved to Fort Worth from Iowa. He was a telegraph operator and came to live next door to the Boswells.

Of their first meeting, Mrs. Wills says she knows it must have been "love at first sight" because she got so excited she couldn't eat her dinner for looking at him. At this time, Mrs. Wills was working in Mrs. C. D. Brown's Ladies Fashionable Dress Store.

The couple was married by Dr. Lober in the Christian church of Fort Worth. They lived there for over a year and then they came farther west for Mr. Wills' health. They lived successively in Fayette, Mrs. Shaffer will also visit his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Shaffer, in Detroit, Mich. They will tour the eastern coast to visit points of interest and return home about July 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Joye Fisher have gone to Lafayette, Ind., where they will be joined by their daughter, Betty Jean, student at Purdue. They plan to visit along the way and return in about 10 days. Mrs. J. Eckhaus, who accompanied them, will spend the summer there.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Gardner of Fort Worth will leave Monday after a visit of several days here with Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Fisher. The Gardners are former residents of Big Spring.

Edna James returned this week from a visit of several days in San Antonio and Laredo and brought as her house guest, Lois Smallwood of San Antonio. Miss Smallwood was joined by her mother, Mrs. Ruby Nipper of Omaha, Neb., and accompanied by another sister, Mrs. Allen Ray, Jr., of Laredo left Friday for Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Bailey and sons, Bubba and Billy, returned Saturday to their home in El Paso after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pickle. They were accompanied by Judith Pickle, who will attend the summer session of the School of Mines at El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Higginbotham and daughter, Joan, will leave Monday for Colorado Springs, Colo., where they will attend the Southwestern Life Insurance convention. Others to attend are Mrs. Jim Black and son, Jimmie, and daughter, Lennah Rose; and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Stegner and son, Jimmie. The Blacks left Saturday and will go by Carlsbad Caverns before attending the convention. The Higginbothams will visit in Wichita Falls before returning home and the Stegners will return through Kansas and Greenville to visit her people. The convention is to be held from Thursday until Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Long had as guests until Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lee of Edgewood and sister, Mrs. Sallie Lay of Willis Point.

Miss Beatrice Harris left Saturday for Wister, Okla., where she will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Harris. She was accompanied by Mrs. H. B. Webb of Stamford.

Carl Blomsheld will leave Monday for Camp Barkdale to inspect Scout camp.

Mrs. Mamie Prichard of Fort Worth is here for a two-week visit with Mrs. J. L. Prichard.

Mrs. C. B. Sullivan, 1605 State street, has returned from Malone and Hogan Clinic where she underwent tonsillectomy and minor surgery. She is reported to be doing fairly well.

TO VISIT BELL RANCH IN MEXICO

Miss Inez Sellers, above, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sellers, left the last of the week for a month's visit on the Bell Ranch at Yermoland, Durango, Mexico. Miss Sellers is a close friend of Mrs. Raymond Bell, Jr., having attended Sul Ross college with her. The ranch known as Hacienda de Atonilco is one of the largest in Mexico. She will visit in El Paso before returning here.

chance. She reads history and has considerable luck with amateur photography. Her one "sin" she says, is her liking for bridge.

Mr. Willis, who will be 80 years old in September is interested in topics of the day and keeps up with happenings in the world. His "sin," according to Mrs. Willis is his secret delight in reading detective stories. His retirement from the railroad has not lessened his interest in the line and he keeps up with the company and railroad people.

Mr. Willis and the children have presented Mrs. Willis with a diamond wedding ring for the anniversary and have helped plan Monday's open house.

Their children include Mrs. L. D. Myers of Fabens, Mrs. Charles G. Scharf of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Vera Knight of Chowchilla, Calif., and Benny Willis of Fresno, Calif. Grandchildren are Mrs. Lloyd Freeman, Miss Alice Jean Myers and Don Knight.

Their recipe for happiness was summed up by Mrs. Willis who says she believes young people ought to "live up to their part of the bargain" and each one should, if possible, "do a little bit more."

Mrs. Myers is to assist at the Monday evening affair and Mrs. John Clarke and Mrs. W. P. Cushing will preside at the guest book. Pouring will be Mrs. Franklin D. Holmes, Mrs. Lee Rogers, Mrs. M. H. Bennett, Mrs. J. Y. Robb, Mrs. Albert Fisher and Constance Cushing.

Mrs. H. W. Leeper and Mrs. Theo Andrews will greet guests at the door. White and gold will be the chosen colors carried out in the decorations and the lace cloth will be laid over a gold background. The wedding cake which is being presented to the couple by Albert S. Darby will also be of gold and white.

Women At Work In The Grocery Business

Mrs. Jack Richards came here 12 years ago from Fort Worth to visit her brother for a few days and was offered a job at the Wooten Grocery company. She has been at work there since.

She was not yet through with a business course she had been taking in Fort Worth, but a job is a job and she just quit the course and went to work.

This has been her first and only job in the business world although she had taught music for a year before taking her business course. At first she didn't like it, Mrs. Richards explained. She knew nothing about the grocery business and was "so green" she made many mistakes. However, she must have proved satisfactory because she is the first and only woman employee the company has had.

She takes phone orders and does the banking and figures totals on orders. Her hours start at 7 o'clock and end at 4:30.

In her twelve years in the business, Mrs. Richards finds that the change in orders has been very noticeable. "People used to order in larger quantities and not as often but now they order in smaller quantities and more often. There is also more of a variety of food than there used to be. It is common now to buy cans of potato chips, jellies, biscuits all ready to be baked and all those things that mother or the cook used to prepare for herself."

"There is more canned goods than there used to be and not as many orders for bulk goods. For instance, women used to have to buy spinach and asparagus in the bulk, take it home, wash and cook it. Now, there is no reason for them to bother with all of this and most people want things with the least amount of trouble."

Most of the retail stores order their produce and vegetables in the early part of the morning and staple goods later in the day.

In her 12 years as bill clerk and cashier for the Wooten company, Mrs. Richards has come to know and like her work very much. Since she has been here, she said, "I married a grocery man, so it seems I'm definitely going to stay in the business."

MRS. JACK RICHARDS (Photo by Bradshaw)

Outside of her job, Mrs. Richards follows a hobby—that of working on contests and puzzles. She takes some good natured ribbing from co-workers because of her attention to these, but she has won a few contests, and she figures she might as well keep on trying until she wins a big prize.

East Fourth Baptist Group Has Visitation; Party

For visitation and a game party, members of East 4th Baptist young people's department met Friday in the home of Mrs. J. E. Miles.

Members visited with sick and absent young people and then met again for refreshments in the Miles home.

SUMMER'S COMING! Warm sun—deep shade—buzzing bees—long, lazy days inviting you to take it easy!

Gonna fall for that? Well, maybe—if that car in your driveway is just a run-of-mine job. But suppose it's a Buick—then what?

Then, good sir, you're in for an active summer. A summer of going places, seeing sights—and having some honest-to-goodness fun!

You'll boss around a brilliant Dynaflex straight-eight engine as thrilling to handle as a flyrod.

You'll go exploring over the little-traveled back trails—and soft springs of coiled steel will cradle every jolt and jar. You'll look out to the far horizons through windows wider, and bigger—there's as much as 412 square inches more space to make your outlook easier.

Yes, you'll pilot a carriage that's staunch and snug and firm beneath you—yet every nudge of your treadle foot gives instant-quick action that'll bring a grin of deep delight.

This far-ranging beauty is not only the car of the year for performance, but the value of the year. It's priced lower than a year ago—lower than you'd think to see it—lower even than some sixes!

And when you check all of the standard items that you're asked extra for elsewhere, you find that Buick costs less in the end even than some cars with lower advertised prices!

ONLY BUICK HAS IT! This sure-fire direction signal that flashes warnings of turns at a flip of a switch! Shows day or night. Standard on all models!

"Better buy Buick!"

Why Unbalanced Budgets

Texas is not the only state with financial troubles. Practically every state in the Union is in similar condition. One example is the state of Michigan which elected a republican governor to succeed Murphy, the democrat, the platform promising to curtail New Deal spending and balance the budget with no new taxes. The budget is still out of balance 12 millions of dollars.

The reason? Just the same as in Texas. Refusal of legislators to reduction of employees and bureaus and to increase of taxes on the general public. That is political. On the other side is the increased and increasing demand for millions for direct relief, old age assistance, schools and other purposes. The budget cannot be balanced under such procedure.

In Michigan, which, by the way, has a wealth per capita nearly a thousand dollars greater than the wealth of Texas, there is a budget of 216 millions of dollars for the coming two years, and more than half of these millions is for public school aid, old age assistance and direct welfare relief. And they are items that are demanding increases instead of standing a decrease or even doing on what is allowed in the budget.

There is more hope for Michigan however than for Texas under the present setup. Michigan's governor, Lauren Dickinson has advocated economy in government and has gone as far as he was able in attaining it. He says he regards the plight of the taxpayer as of equal importance to that of the family on relief, the aged persons and the school children, because he feels that an increase in the tax load will result in adding to the relief and pension rolls.

And Michigan is not the only state that will suffer that predicament if present trends continue.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Despite the legendary troublesomeness of sailors on shore-leave there is seldom any horseplay observed in the Seamen's Cafe, an all-night rendezvous for men of all ships on the Manhattan waterfront. The rough stuff isn't tolerated there and any man caught trying to make himself unpleasant is promptly collared by an efficient staff of waiters, ex-sailors themselves, and heaved into West street.

Sometimes you see seamen from British, Italian, Dutch, and French ships dawdling with their beers over the same bar. Though they do little fraternizing, neither do they resort to eye-gouging, or other simple tactics by ugly practices attributed to sailors.

It is, by and large, a quiet, orderly place where even a pedestrian may go without fear of a beating, a sort of hangout where members of the crews rest between cargoes and content themselves with scribbling postcards to their sweethearts and loafing until their shore leave expires.

There used to be another seamen's restaurant over on the east side, but sawed-off chairlegs played such a lively part in the nocturnal festivities that finally it was closed. The East river waterfront has always been the other side of the tracks in New York.

It was this now vanished cafe, known, I believe, as the Crippled Hen, which used to employ an imaginative fellow who was a sort of combination boss and bouncer. He would lean against the door and shout recitals of the sensational life of life to be observed within, and his spels brought many patrons, usually tourists, to the till.

He was at this business of shouting one evening when a group of us came off a cutter after meeting the Bremen down in the Narrows. He gave us a wink and said, "Come on in, boys, and meet the royal princess."

In we went and after several rounds of "grog" one of the scribes demanded o b shown this bit of feminine royalty.

"It's like this, boys," he said, with another wink, "a few more slugs of this stuff and you'll think you're seeing the whole royal family."

Such was the Crippled Hen, a vivid vignette of the hard side of waterfront life. It is gone now and in its place is an instrument of the church where Bibles and rosaries are sold.

Errol Flynn, that traveling Irish Don Juan, is rapidly becoming something of a problem to those who make a business of checking the whereabouts of celebrities. Like Cleek, the man of the 40 faces, he seems to be everywhere at once.

The other day I was thumbing through a newspaper and found his picture, showing him having lunch in a New Orleans restaurant. Two hours later his voice came booming in from the Pacific coast on a coast to coast broadcast. And late the following night I wandered into a Village cabaret and found him sitting at a table against the wall with two other fellows, grinning contentedly at the floorshow. Two Mexican girls were singing, and after while they came over and while one of them placed a huge sombrero on his head the other draped a blanket around his shoulders. They took his picture that way and laughed delightedly when they learned he knew how to converse with them in Spanish.

The Thrill That Comes Once In A Lifetime

THE DAYS WHEN YOU RELIEVED EVERYTHING

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

Chapter Five HARD HEART—COLD HEART

"The meter's in the cellar," said Miss Patricia North. "At least I suppose it is."

"So the meter's in the cellar?" echoed Tacks brightly. "Well—er—which way is the cellar?"

Packy froze a little. "I'd suggest," she said coldly, "that if you want to find the cellar, you go downstairs. That's just a thought, but take it for what it's worth."

Tacks grinned. "Thanks. I wouldn't be surprised if you were right. Well, I guess I'd better be going down there."

"I guess you had: If you want to read the meter?"

"Well, goodbye," said Tacks. "And thanks a million."

"Don't mention it! Goodbye!"

The door came perilously close to shutting. Tacks stopped it just in time by exclaiming: "Oh, just a minute, please!"

Packy's head came around the door. "What now?"

"I just wanted to tell you," said Tacks resolutely, "that I inadvertently heard you singing. You—you've got a swell voice."

Packy thawed a little. This was nice hearing even from a meter reader.

"Thank you!" she said.

"Not at all!" said Tacks handsomely. "I—I don't suppose you'd sing that song over again for me, would you?"

A startled look crossed Packy's face. "Certainly not! Why should I?"

"Well, why shouldn't you? Look here, if you can bring a little sunshine into the life of one who has to spend his days in dusty, dusty cellars reading meters..."

"I think," Packy interrupted, "that you're crazy. I don't want to be impolite, but I wish you'd go away. I've got work to do."

Tacks took a gambler's chance. "You could slam the door in my face," he pointed out.

"I've just told you I didn't want to be impolite!" As Packy said this a whole host of grinning little imps began dancing in her mind, mocking her. Unwillingly and wholly to herself, she was beginning to admit that she liked talking to this person. He was the broad-shouldered, slim-waisted type. There was a clean look about him. He might, she guessed, have been a light fast and sometime. And now that she scrutinized him more closely, he didn't seem at all like a reader of meters.

"Please!" Tacks said.

"Please what? Slam the door?"

"No. For Heaven's sake, no! Sing the song."

Coming Clean

"Most decidedly not! You've got plenty of nerve! If I had any sense, I'd call the superintendent and have you thrown out."

Tacks grinned. "Now just between us," he said, "do you honestly think the superintendent could throw me out?"

Packy tossed her head. "I'm sure of it." But she wasn't in the least. The superintendent was short, round, fat and bald-headed.

Tacks summed up the situation quickly. This angel in negligee had actually been talking to him for some minutes when there was no visible reason why she should have. At any time during the conversation she could have closed the portal and left him standing out in the cruel world. But had she? She had not. She had even shown a distinct preference for bandying words with him. What could he therefore conclude? That she liked talking to him? Him! It seemed phenomenal but, on the other hand, it just might be. Suddenly all the gambling spirit in his nature surged to the fore.

"Look here, Miss North," he said, "I'm going to come clean and tell you why I'm here."

"That's extremely good of you," said Packy. "I've been wondering for a long time."

"To begin with," Tacks went on, "I'm not a radio man."

"I never believed you were," said Packy.

"Neither do I read meters."

"You appear," said Packy, "to have a sort of divine gift for saying you're things which you're not. Would you by any chance be a liar?"

"Not a real one. Only a white liar."

"I'm greatly relieved to hear that."

"Now what," pursued Tacks, "do you think I am?"

"I'm not in the least interested. But, if you want an offhand answer, I'd say you were a young man with more nerve than good sense."

"Those are hard words, Miss North."

"I meant them to be hard. You deserve them."

"You think I should be punished for lying? Crucified for..."

"Oh, Good Heavens, I don't think anything about you. Won't you please go on about your business?"

"It's my business to keep you from thinking badly of me. Listen, I'll tell you what I am. I'm just a fellow who's been hit so hard he doesn't know whether he's coming or going."

"I'm very sorry."

"You ought to be. You hit me. I hit you? What on earth do you mean?"

Quite Impolite

"Well," Tacks said, "it's like this: The first time I saw you I made up my mind that I simply had to get to know you."

"A quick make-up, I'd say. Considering that the first time you saw me was ten minutes ago."

Tacks wagged a finger at her. "Ah, but it wasn't. I've seen you before."

"You have? Where?"

"Er—in the street."

"What street?"

"When was that?"

"Last night."

"Oh!" Packy looked at him sharply. "You saw me last night, did you?"

"Absolutely," said Tacks glibly. "You were going into this house. And..."

"Just a minute! What was I wearing?"

"Er? Wearing? Gee, I don't know. Your clothes, probably. It was sort of dark and I couldn't see awfully well."

Packy nodded meaningly. "Not very well, I expect. So I was coming into this house, was I? Last night?"

"Exactly."

"Let me confirm something," Packy said. "Yesterday was Sunday, wasn't it?"

"You're one hundred per cent right. Sunday. And when I saw you..."

Something stopped him. It was the look in Packy's eyes.

"Listen, Mister I-don't-know-your-name," she said, "this has all been highly entertaining. But, for your information, I left New York very late on Saturday night for the week-end and I didn't get back until ten o'clock this morning. I'm sorry to disappoint you, but, if you saw some girl coming into this house last evening, it wasn't I. And now, having tried for a long time not to be impolite, I'm going to give in and be it—just as impolite as I know how. Goodbye!"

"Hey!" cried Tacks, finding voice.

But too late. The banging door drowned him out.

Hotels Have A Special Week

The hotels of Big Spring are joining other hotels throughout the United States in the observance of National Hotel Week, sponsored by the American Hotel association, and assisted by the Texas Hotel association in Texas. The purpose of this campaign or program is that of selling the hotel as an institutional service in the community and in the entire country.

National Hotel Week is being observed on June 11-17, and as part of this program, hotel men everywhere are reminding their patrons and the public in general that hotels make a substantial contribution to their respective communities because they help every other business through the purchase of supplies, equipment, substantial payment of wages, by attracting conventions and visitors to the community, etc.

The spirit of the campaign is typified by the slogan adopted by the American Hotel association for the first annual observance—"An Asset to the Community and Service to the Nation."

The cooperation the hotels are receiving in publicizing hotels and this National Hotel Week program is appropriate evidence that the public appreciates this, the seventh largest industry in America.

Hotels in all parts of Texas are cooperating toward a successful state celebration of National Hotel Week, according to reports from R. Bruce Carter, general manager, Rice hotel, Houston, and Texas chairman of National Hotel Week.

Factors which give the hotel an important role in the life of the community which it serves are many, operators point out. Hotels pay taxes in large amounts; hotels employ many citizens of the community; hotels offer congenial meeting places for social and business purposes; and hotels afford accommodations to visitors to the community who in turn spend money with local merchants.

Many have recognized the fact that good hotels are excellent advertisements for the community. Hotels attract conventions, and a larger portion of the convention dollar is spent elsewhere in the community than is spent in the hotel.

WASHINGTON—The latest legislation intended to hit the jackpot of hoarded savings and broadcast them into the channels of hungry business is the Mead bill providing insured bank loans for small industries.

In a broad sense it is patterned after the federal housing act under which the government insures 80 to 90 per cent of loans made by banks and loan companies for house building.

In its preliminary hearings before a senate banking committee it already is found to contain the usual grist of difficulties. Nevertheless there is better than a fair prospect that they will be met with revision in time to permit the bill to get through this session. Part of the support for the bill is from banking groups who would oppose it except for the fact it is less obnoxious to them than other credit measures that have been booted around the capital.

One such rival proposal is a bill to set up an intermediate credit bank akin to the government-sponsored agency now lending money to farmers. This would operate independently of the private banking system and the federal reserve system. It thereby runs into opposition not only from private bankers but also from the powerful reserve system under eagle-eyed Eccles.

75,000 "SMALL" BUSINESSES

Even the bitterest opponents of the legislation concede that small business enterprises have trouble just now to get money at low interest rates for reasonably long periods. Of 200,000 corporations in the country, approximately 175,000 are in the "small business" class with net earnings under $25,000 annually.

Senator Adams of Colorado, bitterly critical of the bill, says there would be no need of the legislation if business men could look with any confidence into a future free of excessive governmental tinkering and blundering. That is approximately the core of the opposition.

Supporters of the legislation include Senator Wagner of New York, Jerome Frank, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, and the author, Senator Mead. These look upon it as a means of getting banks to go in for smaller industrial loans with the billions of capital now lying in their coffers.

The biggest loan allowed would be one million.

The bill provides that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will guarantee the bank against loss on 90 per cent of a loan to a promising small business.

The bank runs its own risk on only 10 per cent. Interest would be limited to four per cent unless the bill invited a runaway borrowing spree. Four per cent is decidedly below what most such industries now have to pay. Owners of several small concerns have testified that they have had to pay private lenders 18 to 20 per cent for money to expand their plants.

BIG PROFITS NECESSARY

Such rates narrow the chances of making a go of it because they have to make such whopping profits. They could play a more conservative and safer game if they could get the money for four per cent, plus loan insurance of one per cent. That, basically, is the argument for the bill, supplemented by the hope that it might start a business revival (perhaps before next election time).

Senator Adams said the bill had no top limit and if really let loose might tie the government to untold billions in loans on everything from boom factories to airplane plants. Another weakness pointed out to the committee was failure of the bill to take into consideration local interest rates. To start a line of four or five per cent credit down South where eight per cent and up is reputedly the custom could cause tremendous industrial disturbance. Sponsors of such legislation admit that. But do you think you could get Alabama to pay six per cent while New Yorkers were getting this same "government money" at four per cent?

Solving difficulties like that is what senators are made for.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—Sydney Guilaroff rides a night mare for a living. He toys with dynamite, he braves tigers, he dangles from high cliffs with professional oblivion below. In other words, he is a stylist for women's hair.

Not just women, however. Movie women in "The Women." There are 40-odd, each with hair to be styled, in the picture. The prospect would appall a lesser man, and him jittering into retreat. Not so with young Guilaroff, who flaunts a mean comb and speaks persuasively to assorted tempers and temperaments—and usually—gets his way.

If you think hair is hair and should be worn as it comes, Guilaroff will go part of the way with you. He agrees that hair is hair. But that, he insists, is the main difficulty in his work. A dress designer, he points out, can twist a lapel here or take in a tuck there and he has something "new." With hair, there are just so many ways to treat it and that's why his (says Guilaroff) is a tough bed to lie in. A fellow in hair-styling has to step lively, thinking up things, apart from his movie duty of keeping ahead of current styles. Guilaroff, true to his word, was stepping lively all over the set. He'd no sooner finished "styling" Rosalind Russell than Lana Turner came in for a hair-do, and after that it was Charlotte Wynters who needed a re-touching.

As you'll want to be sure to avoid becoming a hair-stylist, a short history of Guilaroff will point the way. At 17 he was "sweeping up the floors" in a New York beauty shop when he bug bit. A few years later, he was one of the help in Antoine's when Joan Crawford came in, found all the other operators busy, and went to Sydney. From then on, Sydney was famous in Hollywood. Joan came back, and sent him Connie Bennett, and Claudette Colbert, and other cuties. And in time he came to Hollywood and a Metro contract.

He still thinks Joan is tops, even though she was hard to convince about the hair-do she finally accepted for "The Women." Sydney worked out on seven wigs, each a little shorter each time than Joan's own long bob, and finally evolved the "reversed wind-blown" adaptation of the baby-bob she is wearing.

Joan's hair is about an inch long now. Norma Shearer's, too, has felt the shears. Norma, the top star in the picture, has only two hair-dos. The most Guilaroff of the stars is Rosalind Russell, who has more costume changes and hence more coiffures than the others.

Mexico Seeks Financial Aid On Rail Line

MEXICO CITY, June 10 (AP)—The Mexican government was reported today to be seeking cash and credit in the United States for development of efficient rail facilities across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec which would provide a direct outlet for oil sales to Japan.

Informed sources asserted Unasas Irogoyan, former chief of the tariff and railroad section of the federal communications department, had gone to the United States to enlist the help of shipping and financial interests to back the necessary improvement.

Irogoyan was said to be representing the Mexican treasury. Official information on his trip was not forthcoming but he was expected to get in touch with both west coast and eastern interests.

The railroad across the isthmus—which runs 188 miles from the Atlantic to the Pacific side—now handles 400,000 tons of freight yearly but requires approximately $1,000,000 for immediate improvements or, one authority estimated, $10,000,000 to put it in first class condition.

Sale of oil from properties Mexico expropriated from American and other foreign concerns March 18, 1938, has been a major problem. While Mexico has completed barter deals with Italy and Germany, businessmen say these negotiations have not worked out as well as had been hoped.

Mexico has been virtually cut out of the Japanese market for oil by lack of efficient direct communications from the oil producing east to the west and of loading facilities for petroleum on the Pacific coast.

Fiddlers Contest To Be A Part Of Stamford Event

STAMFORD, June 10—Several fiddlers already are preparing to compete in the annual old fiddlers contest which will be held here July 5 as part of the program of the Texas Cowboy Reunion which meets July 3, 4 and 5. The contest is limited to musicians 50 years of age or over and music must be of the "breakdown" variety.

The contest will be held this year for the first time at the cowboy bunkhouse on the Reunion grounds instead of at the downtown auditorium. It is the Reunion's biggest free attraction. Beginning at 8:30 a. m., it usually lasts until noon.

Prizes totalling $32.50 will be awarded, first prize being $15, second $10, third $5 and fourth $2.50. No entry fee is charged. Each contestant is allowed to play two tunes of his own selection. He may play alone or select a second, but only one accompanist is allowed. Jim Stell of Stamford is chairman of the committee in charge of the contest.

Barons Lose Ten Inning Battle To Amarillo Gold Sox, 7-6

The Sports Parade

By HANK HART

One of baseball's more romantic stories has been that of Tony Rego, the Big Spring Barons' little shipper. The smooth working maskman, who can handle a pitcher as much as a catcher, has been playing on the Hawaiian Islands where he was born. The oldest of 14 children, Anthony was playing on the best island team while but 16 years old, got a chance to come to San Francisco to play independent baseball, joined the navy to go to war while in the states and went directly in pro baseball when he served his time. He's one of the few Hawaiian born players to ever reach the top.

The cowboy from Brooklyn, Bob Decker, has gained the reputation as the player with the best batting eye in the WT-NM circuit. In more than 225 times at bat, Robin has been retired on strikes but five times, on y twice has taken a swinging third strike. Gordon Nell, Pampa's Class A ball player, has whiffed no less than 29 times. Ironically, Tex Walton, Big Spring, is setting the "K" pace with 40.

Through Tuesday's games, the two principals in the Midland-Lamesa swap, Sammy Malvica and Eddie Guynes, were having an excellent time convincing their respective followers the advantages derived from the trade. Malvica was outbidding Eddie by about 50 points but Guynes had driven 42 tallies across the plate to 29 for the new Lobos.

Frankie Jacot, ex-Baron, dropped in over the weekend to visit with old friends. Now with the Texon Permian Basin league ball club, the southpaw pitcher lost a heart breaking decision to Odessa Friday evening though tossing to two men. He walked the winning run in after taking over with the bases loaded. He's due to throw against the Odessans again today. Dick Hobson, who had but one hit in eight official trips in his first two games with Lamesa, redeemed himself against Lubbock Friday night. He drove in one run and scored the others as the Lobos won, 2-1.

The scrap at Lamesa almost developed into a free-for-all. Four of the Lubbock players were ejected from the game by the umpires for carrying the arguments too far. Bob Mosel, first sacker, was the first to leave. Malcolm Stevens, second sacker, followed. Then went Boyd Watkins, center fielder, and last Hack Miller, catcher.

Developments brought out at the stockholders' meeting of the Big Spring baseball club Friday evening at the court house included the fact that all the problems in the operation of the club have not yet been worked out with Manager Tony Rego. A committee was appointed to smooth out the differences. Dixie Swartz, the diminutive righthander flinger who transferred his contract from Big Spring to Midland early in the season, has drawn his release. Rego has promised the Cowboys more mound help. H. C. Burns, the Big Spring boy who may write history with the Hardin-Simmons football team next fall, is working and playing softball in Hobbs, N. M.

Obie Bristow, the gigantic oilman, left suddenly Saturday morning for Tulsa, Okla., where he intends to compete in the Oklahoma amateur golf tournament. He carried insurance in the form of Jimmy Crossman, one of the country's better known pros who has been in Big Spring the past two weeks conducting golf lessons for members of the country club. A Scot born in the old country Crossman was one time professional New York City and later associated with a Los Angeles club.

With Nelson in and Snead blown up with a disastrous 8 on the par five 18th, Wood was the next man to come down that long, 558-yard finishing hole. The big blond from Mamarene (N.Y.) whipped out two screaming shots to be on the green in two.

Only 12 feet from the cup, he needed that putt for an eagle 3 and 283. But the ball wouldn't drop; Nelson and Wood were tied, Shute, coming up four twosomes behind, only needed to shoot three pars for his 283.

On the 17th his drive caught a trap and caught it in such a bad lie that he barely was able to play out into the fairway and had no chance at all of getting his second home. On in three, he was too far away to can the putt, and again there was a black 5 on his card.

That meant a birdie for victory or a par for a tie. With most of the tremendous gallery of 10,000 strung down both sides of the fairway, Shute poked out two handsome shots that left him 75 yards short of the green.

Mixed Fuff Shute aimed his birdie pitch and the ball stopped 30 feet from the cup. Denny stroked his putt and, by the margin of less than a foot, fell short of being crowned the 43rd U. S. open champion.

Next in line at 287 came Johnny Bulla, 25-year-old Chicago pro who shot a 68 to lead Snead, Wood, Shute and Clayton Heafner by a stroke after 54 holes with 21. Guldahl, who had come from behind to win his championships at Denver and Detroit but had five shots to make up when today's play started, finished with a pair of 72's and in a tie at 288 with Dick Metz, runner up to him a year ago.

Ky Laffoon, Jug McSpaden and P. G. A. champion Paul Runyan, 29th, home club pro Ed Dudley, Henry Picard and Harry Cooper, at 290, and Horton Smith, second to Snead at the half way mark, with 291 trailed in that order.

The $1,000 first prize will go to the winner of tomorrow's playoff, while the second man will get $600 and the third $700.

Nelson To Get Chance To Win Crown Today

Shoots 284 Along With Denny Shute And Craig Wood

By BILL BONT

PHILADELPHIA, June 10 (AP) — While Sam Snead's game was exploding in his face on his favorite holes and Ralph Guldahl was toppled from the throne he had occupied for two years, Byron Nelson, Denny Shute and Craig Wood, three veteran, seasoned campaigners, today fired their way into a three way tie at the end of the regulation 72 holes of the 43rd National Open golf championship. Each had a 284 score for the four rounds.

Tomorrow afternoon, starting at 12 noon (CST), these three will tee off over the 6,786-yard Spring Mill course of the Philadelphia country club, in the first triple playoff since Francis Ouimet, a cocky young sprout out of Boston, beat England's famed Harry Vardon and Ted Ray back in 1913.

It will be the first playoff the open has produced since 1921 at Inverness when Billy Burke beat George Von Elm in 144 holes. But tonight there were predictions that this one will be settled by the end of the 18 holes, with Nelson the winner.

The slim ex-Texan who plays out of Reading, Pa., was a ball of fire in his final two rounds, when the pressure was toughest. Of the three finalists, he made up the most ground, with scores of 71 in the morning and a one-under-par 68 for his last round after being tied for 16th place at the half way mark. Shute had rounds of 70 and 72 today and wood 72-72.

Ward At 285 Nelson, one of the several men quoted as 10-1 second choices to Guldahl before the tournament started on Thursday, was the first to post this figure. He came in just behind Marvin (Bud) Ward, the brilliant amateur from Spokane, Wash., who shot a brilliant 72 for 285.

With Nelson in and Snead blown up with a disastrous 8 on the par five 18th, Wood was the next man to come down that long, 558-yard finishing hole. The big blond from Mamarene (N.Y.) whipped out two screaming shots to be on the green in two.

Winger And Thompson In WT Finals

Mrs. Powell Is Decided By Ft. Worthian

MINERAL WELLS, June 10 (AP) — Perennial finalist, Mrs. R. E. Winger of Fort Worth stroked into the championship round of the women's West Texas Golf tournament for the fifth consecutive time today, ready to defend her title tomorrow in a 36-hole bout with Mrs. George Thompson, Jr., also of Fort Worth.

The contrasting semi-final victories of the pair assured Fort Worth the title for the fifth straight year. Mrs. Winger, medalist, caught Mrs. W. K. Powell of San Angelo on one of her dullest days, closing out the match, 5 and 6, as her deep West Texas opponent folded after a week's fine play.

Mrs. Winger won the first four holes, halved the fifth, won the sixth, lost the seventh and captured the eighth and ninth to turn six up. She increased to seven up with a birdie at the tenth and closed down at the thirteenth, after losing the twelfth hole.

Mrs. Thompson, three down to Mrs. Woodward as far along as the eleventh hole, suddenly started steering her shots to the pin and won the twelfth, fourteenth and sixteenth holes to square matters. She won the match on the last hole when Mrs. Woodward bowed to a bogey four.

BS Woman Re-elected Mrs. E. J. Woodward of Brownwood was elected president of the Women's West Texas Golf association and Abilene chosen for the next tournament with the date to be set later.

Mrs. Woodward succeeded Mrs. Jess Rogers of Amarillo, Mrs. Logan Cresser of Mineral Wells was named vice president, Mrs. Obie Bristow of Big Spring re-elected secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Woodward, Mrs. Cramer, Mrs. Bristow, Mrs. C. L. Dean of Lubbock, Mrs. F. A. Stacey of Midland, Mrs. Sam O'Neal of Odessa, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Otto Morris of Fort Worth and Mrs. W. K. Powell of San Angelo were named to the board of directors.

Mrs. Bonnie Dean, Lubbock, defeated Mrs. Ben R. Carter, Big Spring, in third flight consolation played today.

Expects Strong Field For Semi-Pro Tourney

ODESSA, June 10 — "It will probably be the fastest and toughest district tournament in Texas this year," E. V. Anderson said today in regard to the district semi-pro baseball tournament scheduled for Odessa, June 21 to July 2.

Anderson, district commissioner for this area of Texas, moved the tournament site here because of the new park and lighting plant installed here this season.

"Teams like Texon's Oilers, winners of the 1928 Denver tournament, and the Crete Guffers, who play with the best of the semi-pro teams that take part in the national tournament at Wichita in August. It will be the first time for these two potent teams to take part in the district meet of the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress," Anderson stated.

Teams from the rugged Permian Basin League which includes Texon, Crane, Odessa and McCarney and from the Sand Hills League composed of Goldsmith, Penwell, Monahan and Stanton will be on hand for play. Other teams to come will be the Burger Hubbers, the Hamlin Refiners, Veribest Farmers from the San Angelo area, Harry Mitchell Brewers of El Paso, Hobbs-Eunice All Stars, (New Mexico), the Crete Guffers, and state tournament in New Mexico, Seagraves, Amherst, Colorado, Sweetwater, Forsan and Littlefield.

The winner here will receive 25 percent of the gross receipts and the right to play in the state tournament at Waco in July.

Entrance fee is $5 for each team and deadline is June 15 for entering. Applications may be mailed to Tony Slaughter, Odessa, before that date.

Although a slight increase was anticipated in oil valuations, there was no way of determining the approximate amount pending a tabulation by appraisal engineers.

Winner Meets Jake Morgan In Finals

Guy Rainey decided, Frank Morgan, 7-6, Saturday afternoon at the Municipal golf course to advance into the semi-finals of the Muny Spring tournament. He is scheduled to oppose O. O. Craig for the right to face Jake Morgan in a title duel sometime next week.

Having won all his matches with ease, Guy reigns as the decided favorite over "Double-O."

Morgan last week decided Lib Coffee, 4 and 2, to gain the finals.

In first flight semi-finals Bert Shive and Skeets West tangle in upper bracket play. V. V. Strahan beat C. E. Gentry, 3 and 1, during the week to gain the last round.

Second flight finale will pit Doc Young against Tom Cook.

In championship consolation Marvin House, Sr. and Tommy Neel mix for the honors. House Friday swamped Sammy Sain, 6 and 5, while Neel trimmed L. N. Million, 4 and 3, during the week.

L. B. Barber and Neal Hilliard have survived all tests in first flight consolation. Barber recently won out over Glen Hancock, 5 and 4, while Frank Duley was falling before Hilliard, 4 and 3.

George Hill and L. B. Freeman collide for second flight consolation laurels.

HUBBERS BLAST LAMESA, 16-7

LAMESA, June 10 — Lubbock's WT-NM league leading Hubbers gained vengeance for a Friday night defeat by slaughtering the Lamesa Lobos, 16-7, here Saturday night.

The Lobos tallied six runs in the first inning but George Anthor came to Mel Kramer's rescue and pitched well thereafter.

Edson Bahr Is Due To Take Hill Today

Locals Outbit Sox But Lose Big Lead In Eighth Frame

AMARILLO, June 10 — The Big Spring Barons were slated to send Edson Bahr, star righthander, to the mound today in an attempt to salvage the final game of their series with the Amarillo Gold Sox. The Sox, who won a ten inning thriller, 7-6, Saturday evening, were due to rebound with Don Thomas, who was ousted by Bahr in a duel with Big Spring last week.

Gigli and Trantham, on the hill for Big Spring, only allowed one more hit than Lynn and Millsap for Amarillo, but Big Spring contributed four costly bobbles while the Sox were charged with a pair of miscues. The Barons lead the game in the half of the eighth only to see the lead out away by a barrage of Amarillo base hits.

Big Spring 102 000 040 0-7 10 4
Amarillo 000 030 400 1-8 9 2
Gigli, Trantham, Janicek and Berndt; Lynn, Millsap and Rabe.

Apaches Lose 9th Straight Game

CLOVIS, N. M., June 10 — The Clovis Pioneers used two big innings to trample the Abilene Apaches, 13-5, here Saturday evening, handing the Texans their ninth straight licking.

STOCK FOR IRON ORE REDUCTION PLANT OVER-SUBSCRIBED

LONGVIEW, June 10 (AP)—O. H. Grison, chairman of the project, said today capital stock of $250,000 for building an East Texas iron ore reduction plant to use a natural gas process had been oversubscribed.

Capital was subscribed in 15 days by East Texas business men, Grison said. The project was initiated by an East Texas chamber of commerce committee.

Other trustees are H. P. McGaughey of Gilmer, John R. Alford of Henderson, L. N. Crim of Kilgore, and M. J. Harvey of Tyler.

Grison said steps were being taken to carry out immediately a program for building the plant and that the location would be decided by engineers.

Johnny Stone Overtakes Malvica In Batting Race

Volitant First In Aqueduct Stakes Race

NEW YORK, June 10 (AP)—After a blistering drive through the long home stretch, Volitant, flying the Saratoga stable silks of George Bull and John Morris, today won his first victory of the 1939 racing season in the One One Shevlin stakes at Aqueduct.

Before 12,000 fans, the Display colt took the $3,425 winner's share of the purse by a head from Samuel Bechrac's Golden Voyage. Mrs. Whitney's Third Degree was a belated third, three lengths behind, while Tall Story was fourth. The favored entry of Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Golden Knight and William Woodward's Challenge, trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, proved a disappointment, Gilded Knight coming in seventh after being well placed early in the race.

Volitant, ridden by Don Meade, was a 3-1 second choice and he ran the mile in the excellent time of 1:36 4/5 in his first start since the Freshness, in which he ran third to Challenged.

Conservation Dist. Planned

Steps are due to be taken within 10 days toward setting up a conservation district composed of Howard, Martin and a portion of Glascock counties, it was learned Saturday.

The move is to come from the landowners within the affected area since no government agencies have anything to do toward drafting of a district unit. Should representatives of the territory included in the proposed district decide to proceed, they will sign petitions for presentation to the state conservation board as soon as it is ready to receive them.

Later the state board would hold a public hearing to determine the boundaries of the district before the area would be eligible to the new board's services.

George Bond, Martin county agent, and O. P. Griffin, Howard county agent, Saturday expressed approval of the idea to organize as rapidly as possible. They indicated that landowner meetings would be called soon.

Included in the tentatively outlined district is the territory encompassed by the following boundaries: Eastward from the north-west Martin county corner along the line to the northeast corner of Howard county, thence south to the Concho-Colo divide, westward along the divide to the west county line of Martin county, and north to the point of beginning. The district could either be increased or diminished according to developments at the public hearing.

by coordinating and uniting the efforts of the entire cotton industry to that end.

Thus, producers, ginners, warehousemen, merchants and cottonseed crushers are being joined to intensively advertise cotton, improve its quality, promote use of cotton, encourage cotton laboratories, increase foreign exports, seek downward revision of tariffs, obtain freight rate adjustments in the south and revise maritime cotton rates, see that any processing tax on cotton is matched by a compensatory tax on competing commodities, and dispose of record surpluses.

Tex Walton Leads In Triples; Bill Capps Finishes With Mark Of .372

Johnny Stone of Lamesa, moved in on Sam Malvica to take the West Texas-New Mexico league batting lead last week. The Midland shortstop, traded to Lamesa for Ed Guynes during the week, had set the pace since the opening week of the season. Stone boosted his average to .402, while Malvica dropped off a point to .399. Emmitt Fullenwider, Lobo gardener, took some of the edge off Gordon Nell's monopoly in the slugging division by piling four homers to run his string to 13, one behind the Pampa husky. Nell led in two-baggers with 27 and runs batted in with 64. Malvica had 18 doubles for second place and Stone followed in run manufacture with 47. Tex Walton of Big Spring led in triples with seven. Lloyd Watkins had 20 base thefts to lead Manager Grover Selts of the Oilers by three.

Lee Harris, Lubbock righthander, won his fourth decision, and with Red Hay suffering a setback, took the top twirling role. Phil Margavio of Amarillo has won three contests without a loss.

Averages include all games through Tuesday, June 6:

W. H. PERRY NAMED SALES DIRECTOR BY STAMP GROUP

AUSTIN, June 10 (AP)—The Texas Philatelic association today closed its 43rd annual convention here after electing Dr. John A. Robertson of Abilene, president, and selecting Temple for its 1940 convention next May.

Other officers elected were W. Van Davier of Galveston, vice president; Mrs. Ann Stanley-Williams, Houston, secretary; and O. R. Bertram, Austin, J. F. Lentz of Marshall, and A. W. Oliphant, Jr., Austin, directors.

W. H. Perry of Big Spring was named manager of the sales department of the association to succeed J. M. Bunn of Cuero, who has served in that post for two terms. The award for the most artistic exhibit, a bronze statuette, was given to Mrs. Noel W. Conaway of San Angelo.

ATTORNEY HERE
John Ratliff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ratliff of Garden City, has entered practice here as an attorney, having opened offices during the past week. The elder Ratliff will be remembered as sheriff of Glascock county.

Others to work on AAA compliance

Four additional trained workers will take to the field Monday to assist in the compliance check begun last week in Howard county.

M. Weaver, adjustment assistant, said that those to be added Monday were Leonard Coleman, Warren Lockhart, Gerald Anderson and W. G. Bailey.

Five teams at work during the last two and a half days of the past week succeeded in checking 40 farms.

GET RIGHT-OF-WAY FOR ROAD TO LAKE

City and county officials Saturday reported "excellent progress" toward securing right-of-way and opening of a road to the city lakes in southeastern Howard county.

Tentative route for the road calls for about five and a half miles of new highway. Around three miles of pavement on old highway No. 1 east will be utilized.

In addition to connecting with the Moss Creek lake, the new road would serve some seven ranch families that have never before been reached by a public road.
