KANSAS REDS, SOONER BLUES AWAIT BATTLE

Wichita Government Game Preserve to Be Scene Of Mighty Struggle Today

LAWTON, Okla., June 2.—In theory the red army of Kansas and the blue army of Oklahoma are at war today.

The field forces are in contact 75 miles north of Fort Sill. Tomorrow the big battle is to be fought. Actually, a brigade of field artillery, a battalion of motorized Howitzers and a skeletonized army division is in the field some 10 miles north of Fort Sill on the military reservation. Silently as it is possible for an army to move, the fighting unit left Fort Sill early this morning and moved into bivouac. Tonight the blue army will advance under cover of darkness to a new position in the edge of the Wichita mountains. Then the big battle will be on, wherein the artillery wing of the army expects to accomplish things never before accomplished in artillery fire. The air service will assist in this accomplishment, the details of the experiment being kept secret at this time, but it is to watch this method of fire that Maj. Gen. Wm. Snow, chief of the field artillery has come from Washington.

A Commander's Problem.

The situation today was one wherein a division commander was required to get his army in the field and work

ROCK ISLAND IS COMING TO WF?

DALLAS, June 2.—A high official of the Denver railway is authority for the statement here today that in all probability the Denver road will give permission, or trackage rights to the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad to operate its trains from Wichita Falls to Waurika.

Consummation of such an agreement would put the Rock Island trains out of Wichita Falls over the Wichita Valley lines of the Denver and in addition to giving that city its third trunk line railroad, likewise afford a direct route to Chicago.

The proposed plan, of course, comes as a reciprocation of the Rock Island's acquiesence to an agreement with the Denver road to operate its trains over Rock Island tracks into Dallas.

Two Men Held For Statutory Charge

What was described as a "serious" statutory case was being investigated by the city police and County Attorney Wayne Somerville early Tuesday morning. Two men were in custody at the city hall and were being grilled by the county attorney after a 14-year-old girl had preferred charges against them.

Officers declined to make public full details of the case until statements, it is understood the men were making were completed.

The girl was picked up on the streets here late at night and the arrest of the men followed a short time later.

ROOT ROT UPON COTTON WORSE THAN WEEVILS

1918 DEVASTATING

A Million Bales of Staple Lost in This State During One Season

The crown of destruction, presumed to have rested through a half century upon the head of the boll weevil in Texas, must be transferred to that of cotton root rot.

For years considered an alkali spot on a cotton field, but by recent scientific investigations proven the source of evil that it is—a fungus growth—cotton root rot in 1918 destroyed a million bales of the staple in Texas.

As far as Wichita county is concerned cotton root rot is the only menace to the cotton crop, the dry climatic conditions making inroads of the boll weevil almost negligible.

Disease Is Peculiar.

"It is a peculiar disease, this root rot," declared Jones, "being confined to the states of Texas, New Mexico, Arizonia, California, Arkansas and Oklahoma. In all the other states except Texas the areas affected are limited, but in Texas it is indigenous to the black lands and to practically all the heavy soils. Most of Wichita county is affected, but the extreme western line is at about Electra. But little root rot is found in Wilbarger county. If it was confined to cotton it would not be so serious, but it affects 31 different field crops, 58 truck crops, 18 different kinds of fruit and berries and 20 kinds of weeds—but not Johnson grass.

"It does not affect wheat, oats or corn, but does affect apples and pears. Experts have been trying since 1900

WIFE ENJOINS SPOUSE; FEARS BODILY HARM

She Also Seeks to Stop Him From Entering on Her Property

Alleging that she feared her husband would seek to return and molest her and her daughter, Mrs. Rena L. Ziegler of this city filed suit for and obtained a decree of injunction Tuesday restraining J. R. Ziegler from in any way harming or accosting her. The decree was granted by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court.

The plaintiff's petition, which also asks for a divorce on grounds of harsh and cruel treatment, alleges that she and the defendant were married June 30, 1906 and lived together until Sept. 1, 1924. By that time, the petition recites, the defendant's conduct and actions were such as to render impossible his wife's further respect or toleration of him.

Mrs. Ziegler is owner of some property here, she recites, and asks that her husband be further restrained from entering upon or handling it in any way. She wishes its benefits to be set aside for the care and education of her 15-year-old daughter, Mary.

KLAN BOGEY IN WACO APT TO QUASH JURIES

Baptist Preacher Winning His Fight Against County "Wheel"

PICKED VENIREMEN

"Americans or "White Men" Only Charged as Being Selected

WACO, June 2.—The entire jury wheel for McLennan county courts will be declared illegal, it was indicated today by County Judge James R. Jenkins in the trial of Rev. A. Reilly Copeland for libel.

Following a day of testimony relative to the manner in which the jury wheel was prepared, the judge told the defense attorneys, in open court, that "it looks like your contention is good," the defense contention having been that the jury wheel should be quashed. However, Judg Jenkins' decision has not yet been rendered, and he will hear further testimony Wednesday, beginning at 9 o'clock.

Charges Klan Controls.

That the ku klux klan completely controls the political affairs of McLennan county, the grand and petit juries, and all officers of the county except one member of the organization, is the allegation made by counsel for defense in the case of Copeland, Waco minister, charged with criminal libel, in a motion filed this morning, asking that the jury panel be quashed. The motion alleges that it is impossible for an anti-klansman to get a just trial or just verdict in McLennan county, under existing conditions.

Motion to quash the panel, which declares that the law as to the drawing of jurors has not been complied with, came after County Judge Jenkins had overruled a motion of counsel for defense for a continuance.

Recess was granted to permit County Attorney Farmer to reply to the motion to quash.

Clerks Testify.

Testimony today from deputy clerks who assisted in the preparation of the jury wheel, was that foreigners and negroes, as well as doctors, lawyers and ministers, were left out of the jury wheel, when it was prepared last August.

The deputy county clerk who assisted said that the men selected were "Americans," changing the word afterward to "white men."

In case the jury wheel is declared illegally drawn, it will not affect cases previously tried with juries drawn from this wheel, it was said by court officials. The effect will be to postpone the trial of the Copeland case, however, until another wheel is prepared in August.

Ma Opens Gates To Seven More, Various Reasons Assigned

AUSTIN, June 2.—(AP)—Pleas of three families were answered, a doubt as to guilt, poor physical conditions of two convicts, and a recommendation of citizens was fulfilled today when Governor Miriam A. Ferguson granted four full pardons and three conditional pardons to Texas convicts. She also granted a restoration of citizenship.

The full pardons were granted Marla Felder, Polk county, given two to four years for burglary, to help support her mother, Mrs. A. P. Carlisle, Hill county, two years for theft, because of her advanced age; Frank Hill, Dallas, one year for possession of liquor, because of doubt as to his guilt and to help support his mother, and to Joe Simmons, Panola, five years for assault to murder, because of his physical condition.

The conditional pardons were given Otto Neuhaus, Bexar county, on recommendation of county judge, county attorney, sheriff and other officials; Walter Day, Brazoria, one to two years, for selling liquor, to support his wife and children. Andrew Jones, Travis county, two to five years for theft, to support his widowed mother.

The restoration was granted Ennis Howell of Ellis county, who served two years for possessing liquor.

PROTEST REAGAN ELECTION

Obstructions Placed In Way of County Seat Removal.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 2.—A suit contesting the election of May 23, in which Reagan county, by a vote of 292 to 94, favored the removal of the county seat from Stiles to Big Lake, was today filed in district court at Stiles. It is alleged that if certain illegal votes were thrown out, the proposal voted on would lack the necessary two-thirds majority necessary for passage.

Claims "Balloons"

Whether Alden J. Putnam, who recently acquired a patent on the "balloon" tire, will seek to claim royalties from the various tire companies on all of the product manufactured before the granting of the patent, is still in doubt. Such an attempt would result in a gigantic court battle.

BOOTLEGGER IS CONVICTED OF INCOME FRAUD

He Must Serve Jail Sentence For Making Fradulent Returns on Profits

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—In the first conviction to be secured in the United States on charges involving taxes on income secured by illegal means, Charles J. Steinberg, formerly a lawyer and later alleged to have been a bootlegger, on a scale, was today found guilty of failing to pay his income tax for 1921 amounting to $460,000. He was released under a $25,000 bail, until Monday when Judge John C. Knox said he would impose a substantial jail sentence.

The indictment under which Steinberg was tried, charged the filing of fradulent returns and perjury in connection with them in 1920 and 1921. The government bent its efforts toward proving fraud concerning the 1921 return alone.

The conviction was obtained in accordance with a ruling of the bureau of internal revenue that all income, whether from bootlegging, burglary, gambling or blackmail is subject to the income tax.

UNIV. OF OKLA. TAKES TEXAS NOTED LEADER

President of Agricultural College Issues Statement To Board of Directors

"LARGE OPPORTUNITY"

He Goes to Sooner State After Eleven Years of Educational Service

COLLEGE STATION, June 2.—In a statement unembellished with rhetoric, but with a plainness of expression revealing depth of sincerity in declarations of appreciation of cooperation, indebtedness for help and guidance, and confidence in the patriotism and ability of the directors to continue the affairs of the institution in a serviceable progressiveness, Dr. W. B. Bizzell, presented his resignation to the board of directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical college of Texas this afternoon after 11 years incumbency in that position, to accept the presidency of the University of Oklahoma.

In terms of excessive modesty he indicated the great growth of the institution and mentioned some of the major incidents in its work during his administration but in no assertion does he give the least suggestion of criticism o fany kind. His reason for leaving Texas A. & M. as given in his own words is that "a larger opportunity is offered me and that I shall be able to serve the cause of education in a more significant way."

A Note of Depression.

The nearest approach to note of pessimism that appears in his three page resignation is two lines relating to financial support of the state institutions. "Since the war we have experienced a period of retrenchment in public expenditures which has relatively decreased our available revenues in proportion to the number of students who have enrolled in the college," he says and adds, "This situation has presented problems of great difficulty." His complete statement follows:

To the President and Members of the Board of Directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas:

My dear friends: I hereby tender you my resignation as president of the Agricultural and Mechanical college of Texas

Dallas Husbands On Mowing Strike With Chiggers in Lawns

DALLAS, June 2.—Dallas is suffering from the most vicious attack of chiggers since the year 1896, the banner year for chiggers in the southwest, according to old timers. With every lawn in the city infested, husbands have positively refused to mow them.

Everyone is exchanging formulas for "sure-cure" remedies, and one "old-timer," sees possibilities of the attack reverting to the stage in 1896 when the chiggers were so bad "friends often stopped on the streets and scratched one another's backs."

Children Are Offered Prizes By Record News To Build An Airplane and Everybody Can Win

TO the children of Wichita Falls, no matter what your age may be:

Want to build an airplane?

And if you build an airplane, do you want to win a prize

Well, listen here a minute—the Record News is starting an airplane contest. For the boy or girl of Wichita Falls who builds the best airplane the Record News will give a prize of five dollars in gold. And for the second best airplane a prize of three dollars; third best two dollars and for the next five one dollar each.

Here's how you can do it:

Build an airplane. It doesn't make any difference what size of an airplane it is; nor it doesn't make any difference how big it is. Your airplane may be a teeny, weeny airplane that you can carry in your hand and even then win the first prize.

Just build the best airplane you can from studying the picture which is shown here.

Yesterday the Record News editor called up the Mission theatre, because pretty soon—Thursday, June 11, to be exact—that theatre is bringing a mighty good movie to town called "The Air Mail." So after talking with the Mission theatre the Record News arranged to give these money prizes and what's more, TO EVERY CHILD MAKING ANY SORT OF AN AIRPLANE A FREE TICKET WILL BE GIVEN TO SEE "THE AIR MAIL" AT THE MISSION.

Deliver your airplanes ANY TIME BEFORE JUNE 11 to the lobby of the Mission theatre. Judges are to be announced later. But as soon as you deliver the air plane which you build to the Mission ask them for a free ticket, which they will give to you.

Then on the morning of June 12, the award of money prizes for the first eight best airplanes will be announced.

Get busy right away.

LAWTON, Okla., June 2.—In theory the red army of Kansas and the blue army of Oklahoma are at war today.

The field forces are in contact 75 miles north of Fort Sill. Tomorrow the big battle is to be fought. Actually, a brigade of field artillery, a battalion of motorized Howitzers and a skeletonized army division is in the field some 10 miles north of Fort Sill on the military reservation. Silently as it is possible for an army to move, the fighting unit left Fort Sill early this morning and moved into bivouac. Tonight the blue army will advance under cover of darkness to a new position in the edge of the Wichita mountains. Then the big battle will be on, wherein the artillery wing of the army expects to accomplish things never before accomplished in artillery fire. The air service will assist in this accomplishment, the details of the experiment being kept secret at this time, but it is to watch this method of fire that Maj. Gen. Wm. Snow, chief of the field artillery has come from Washington.

A Commander's Problem.

The situation today was one wherein a division commander was required to get his army in the field and work

ROCK ISLAND IS COMING TO WF?

DALLAS, June 2.—A high official of the Denver railway is authority for the statement here today that in all probability the Denver road will give permission, or trackage rights to the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad to operate its trains from Wichita Falls to Waurika.

Consummation of such an agreement would put the Rock Island trains out of Wichita Falls over the Wichita Valley lines of the Denver and in addition to giving that city its third trunk line railroad, likewise afford a direct route to Chicago.

The proposed plan, of course, comes as a reciprocation of the Rock Island's acquiesence to an agreement with the Denver road to operate its trains over Rock Island tracks into Dallas.

Two Men Held For Statutory Charge

What was described as a "serious" statutory case was being investigated by the city police and County Attorney Wayne Somerville early Tuesday morning. Two men were in custody at the city hall and were being grilled by the county attorney after a 14-year-old girl had preferred charges against them.

Officers declined to make public full details of the case until statements, it is understood the men were making were completed.

The girl was picked up on the streets here late at night and the arrest of the men followed a short time later.

ROOT ROT UPON COTTON WORSE THAN WEEVILS

1918 DEVASTATING

A Million Bales of Staple Lost in This State During One Season

The crown of destruction, presumed to have rested through a half century upon the head of the boll weevil in Texas, must be transferred to that of cotton root rot.

For years considered an alkali spot on a cotton field, but by recent scientific investigations proven the source of evil that it is—a fungus growth—cotton root rot in 1918 destroyed a million bales of the staple in Texas.

As far as Wichita county is concerned cotton root rot is the only menace to the cotton crop, the dry climatic conditions making inroads of the boll weevil almost negligible.

Disease Is Peculiar.

"It is a peculiar disease, this root rot," declared Jones, "being confined to the states of Texas, New Mexico, Arizonia, California, Arkansas and Oklahoma. In all the other states except Texas the areas affected are limited, but in Texas it is indigenous to the black lands and to practically all the heavy soils. Most of Wichita county is affected, but the extreme western line is at about Electra. But little root rot is found in Wilbarger county. If it was confined to cotton it would not be so serious, but it affects 31 different field crops, 58 truck crops, 18 different kinds of fruit and berries and 20 kinds of weeds—but not Johnson grass.

"It does not affect wheat, oats or corn, but does affect apples and pears. Experts have been trying since 1900

WIFE ENJOINS SPOUSE; FEARS BODILY HARM

She Also Seeks to Stop Him From Entering on Her Property

Alleging that she feared her husband would seek to return and molest her and her daughter, Mrs. Rena L. Ziegler of this city filed suit for and obtained a decree of injunction Tuesday restraining J. R. Ziegler from in any way harming or accosting her. The decree was granted by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court.

By that time, the petition recites, the defendant's conduct and actions were such as to render impossible his wife's further respect or toleration of him.

Mrs. Ziegler is owner of some property here, she recites, and asks that her husband be further restrained from entering upon or handling it in any way. She wishes its benefits to be set aside for the care and education of her 15-year-old daughter, Mary.

KLAN BOGEY IN WACO APT TO QUASH JURIES

Baptist Preacher Winning His Fight Against County "Wheel"

PICKED VENIREMEN

"Americans or "White Men" Only Charged as Being Selected

WACO, June 2.—The entire jury wheel for McLennan county courts will be declared illegal, it was indicated today by County Judge James R. Jenkins in the trial of Rev. A. Reilly Copeland for libel.

Following a day of testimony relative to the manner in which the jury wheel was prepared, the judge told the defense attorneys, in open court, that "it looks like your contention is good," the defense contention having been that the jury wheel should be quashed. However, Judg Jenkins' decision has not yet been rendered, and he will hear further testimony Wednesday, beginning at 9 o'clock.

Charges Klan Controls.

That the ku klux klan completely controls the political affairs of McLennan county, the grand and petit juries, and all officers of the county except one member of the organization, is the allegation made by counsel for defense in the case of Copeland, Waco minister, charged with criminal libel, in a motion filed this morning, asking that the jury panel be quashed. The motion alleges that it is impossible for an anti-klansman to get a just trial or just verdict in McLennan county, under existing conditions.

Motion to quash the panel, which declares that the law as to the drawing of jurors has not been complied with, came after County Judge Jenkins had overruled a motion of counsel for defense for a continuance.

Recess was granted to permit County Attorney Farmer to reply to the motion to quash.

Clerks Testify.

Testimony today from deputy clerks who assisted in the prpearation of the jury wheel, was that foreigners and negroes, as well as doctors, lawyers and ministers, were left out of the jury wheel, when it was prepared last August.

The deputy county clerk who assisted said that the men selected were "Americans," changing the word afterward to "white men."

In case the jury wheel is declared illegally drawn, it will not affect cases previously tried with juries drawn from this wheel, it was said by court officials. The effect will be to postpone the trial of the Copeland case, however, until another wheel is prepared in August.

Carlisle, Hill county, two years for theft, because of her advanced age; Frank Hill, Dallas, one year for possession of liquor, because of doubt as to his guilt and to help support his mother, and to Joe Simmons, Panola, five years for assault to murder, because of his physical condition.

The conditional pardons were given Otto Neuhaus, Bexar county, on recommendation of county judge, county attorney, sheriff and other officials Walter Day, Brazoria, one to two years for selling liquor, to support his wife and children; Andrew Jones, Travis county, two to five years for theft, to support his widowed mother.

BOOTLEGGER IS CONVICTED OF INCOME FRAUD

He Must Serve Jail Sentence For Making Fradulent Returns on Profits

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—In the first conviction to be secured in the United States on charges involving taxes on income secured by illegal means, Charles J. Steinberg, formerly a lawyer and later alleged to have been a bootlegger, on a scale, was today found guilty of failing to pay his income tax for 1921 amounting to $460,000. He was released under a $25,000 bail until Monday when Judge John C. Knox said he would impose a substantial jail sentence.

The indictment under which Steinberg was tried, charged the filing of fradulent returns and perjury in connection with them in 1920 and 1921. The government bent its efforts toward proving fraud concerning the 1921 return alone.

The conviction was obtained in accordance with a ruling of the bureau of internal revenue that all income, whether from bootlegging, burglary, gambling or blackmail is subject to the income tax.

UNIV. OF OKLA. TAKES TEXAS NOTED LEADER

President of Agricultural College Issues Statement To Board of Directors

"LARGE OPPORTUNITY"

He Goes to Sooner State After Eleven Years of Educational Service

COLLEGE STATION, June 2.—In a statement unembellished with rhetoric, but with a plainness of expression revealing depth of sincerity in declarations of appreciation of cooperation, indebtedness for help and guidance, and confidence in the patriotism and ability of the directors to continue the affairs of the institution in a serviceable progressiveness, Dr. W. B. Bizzell, presented his resignation to the board of directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical college of Texas this afternoon after 11 years incumbency in that position, to accept the presidency of the University of Oklahoma.

In terms of excessive modesty he indicated the great growth of the institution and mentioned some of the major incidents in its work during his administration but in no assertion does he give the least suggestion of criticism o fany kind. His reason for leaving Texas A. & M. as given in his own words is that "a larger opportunity is offered me and that I shall be able to serve the cause of education in a more significant way."

A Note of Depression.

The nearest approach to note of pessimism that appears in his three page resignation is two lines relating to financial support of the state institutions. "Since the war we have experienced a period of retrenchment in public expenditures which has relatively decreased our available revenues in proportion to the number of students who have enrolled in the college," he says and adds, "This situation has presented problems of great difficulty." His complete statement follows:

To the President and Members of the Board of Directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas:

My dear friends: I hereby tender you my resignation as president of the Agricultural and Mechanical college of Texas

Everyone is exchanging formulas for "sure-cure" remedies, and one "old-timer," sees possibilities of the attack reverting to the stage in 1896 when the chiggers were so bad "friends often stopped on the streets and scratched one another's backs."

SWASTIKA'S DISCOVERIES SELL LEASES

C. B. Christie Purchases Good Luck Syndicate's Production

C. B. Christie has purchased the holdings of the Swastika Oil Syndicate in Swastika and the Ragle area consisting of two or three pieces with a number of wells making something better than 100 barrels a day for a consideration understood to be in the neighborhood of $80,000.

The deal throws out of the producing class the company that drilled the first big oil well in South Archer county, the Swastika discovery. This same company has from time to time disposed of other of their holdings at nice figures and have reaped with a fair profit the harvest from the few thousands planted in their first south Archer venture.

Atlantic, Zipperle

The Atlantic was drilling early yesterday at about 1,280 feet and expected to be on the sand some time today in their No 5. Zipperle, a location east and north of the southwest corner of their 40 acres in the south west quarter of section 80, block 14. H&TCRRCO survey, South Vernon Wilbarger county.

Atlantic, Mitchell

The Atlantic Oil Producing company had started up again yesterday after a slight shutdown and was reported drilling below 1,700 feet on its No. 1, Mitchell, a northeast offset to the Howell et al discovery well southwest of Iowa Park, Wichita county.

Harris et al, Coleman

Jack Harris and others have almost finished erecting the derrick for their rtest on the Coleman farm, just east of the northwest corner of the south 40 acres of the Coleman farm, east half of block 233, TE&LCO survey, southwest of the Litchfield pool and east of Olney, north Young county. The location for this test was formerly in the northeast corner of the least and a derrick was erected there. The derrick was torn down and rebuilt on the crest of the ridge that runs across the property.

The test is located in a spot that has been passed up heretofore, little drilling having been anywhere near save in the Litchfield area and in other holes some distance away.

Simms, Cassidy

Simms Oil company is rigging up rotary on its No. 1, Cassidy Commission company, 1447 feet east and 150 feet north of the southwest corner of their 166-acre tract in lots 89, 87 and 88, Jefferson county school lands, about two miles and a half north and east of the Major pool, southwest Archer county.

Wells, Waggoner

Wells et al are shut down again on their No. 1, Waggoner, at a total depth of 1,500 feet with the 6 5-8 on theb ottom, well located in the southeast of the northwest quarter of section 21, block 14, H&TCRCO survey, eastern Wilbarger county.

Jansen, Hunt

Jenson Oil company was reported preparing to bail late yesterday in its No. 1, Hunt, block 240, TE&LCO survey, north of Olney. A couple of feet of sand had been taken at a reported depth of 1,064-68 feet in the form of a core which showed some oil.

Winnipeg, B-H-W

Winnipeg Oil company's No. 7, Bond-Hawkins-Williams, a south offset to the Lawson completion of last week, has drilled about nine feet more sand around 2,300 feet, and was said to have a 1,100-barrel well yesterday. The well is more than a month old and was drilled deeper this week in an effort to increase the flow. It is located on a ten-acre tract in the northeast corner of section 100, block 14, South Vernon.

Oil Gossip

Gulf Production is sending its map makers to Cooke county to work out plats of the Grayson-Cooke sectors. There is considerable drilling going on in this section, but with the exception of one show in the Big Indian well near Callisburg, little has ever been uncovered. The Gulf's map project is merely a protective measure. Any activity the company may ever undertake there will under their present arrangements be carried on from the Wichita Falls office, where jurisdiction extends to Lamar county on the east.

Gulf keeps two map makers in the field all the time, somewhere or other.

Gulf should spud today on its second well in the Gulf pool, eastern Wilbarger county, northeast quarter of section 50, H&TCRRCO survey, block 14. The hole is located about 525 feet west of the No. 1 and is the third of a series of tests getting going around the discovery, others by Humble and Consolidated.

Gulf has had a little better luck in this well than have other companies in the so-called successful Waggoner wildcats. The hole is still pumping better than 75 barrels a day from an 1,800-foot sand.

C. Rhader, Texhoma Oil and Refining company, has departed the Shamrock country, Wheeler county, for a few days in the Shackelford district, near Albany.

Pending his return the Texhoma's well in Wheeler county is shut in with the gas bradenheaded off and the oil pay, a granite wash, penetrated from 2,235 to 2,43 feet.

Resumption of the ball games yesterday found the oil offices the last place to look for the oil man again. A list of those present at yesterday's game would show a sizeable proportion of the Wichita Falls operators.

Magnolia, Waggoner

The Magnolia Petroleum company was down 2,260 feet and drilling yesterday afternoon on their No. 1, More-Waggoner, located in the northwest corner of the south half of the southwest quarter of section 59, block 4, H&TCRRCO survey, Wilbarger county. It is expected to carry the hole to about 2,500 feet.

Simms, Cheeves

The Simms Oil company has about a 100-barrel pumper in its No. 1, Cheeves, in the southeast corner of its forty acres, in the H. B. Akles survey, abstract 5, north side of the Litchfield pool, northeast of Olney, north Young county. The well is being swabbed at better than 250 barrels a day from sand at 1,012-26 feet.

The Simms No. 3-A, Carpenter, in the northeast corner of the Carpenter lease A, TE&LCO survey, block 237, has spudded and is down 200 feet.

Continenta, Zipperle

Continental Oil company was down 2,038 feet yesterday in their No. 4, Zipperle, second location north from the southwest corner of the southwest forty of the northwest quarter of section 80, block 14, H&TCRRCO survey, east South Vernon. The hole passed up a show that would have made a small prodccer at about 1,850 feet.

The No. 6, second location east from the northwest corner of the same forty acres is drilling at about 600 feet.

Prairie, Waggoner

The Prairie Oil and Gas company No. 1, Waggoner, in the southwest corner of the southeast forty acres of the northeast quarter of section 45, H&TCRRCO survey, block 4, Wilbarger county, almost due west of the Noble well two or three miles was reported yesterday drilling at a depth of 1,950 feet after passing up two feet of lime pay showing lots of oil at 1,937-39 feet. Considerable oil was actually bailed from the hole, but the show was only enough to make a small producer.

Beatty, Waggoner

Beatty had drilled 14 more feet of sand yesterday at 1,952-60, 60-74 feet and had not seemingly helped his well at all. Tubing was being run once more to give a test, according to reports, before going deeper. The initial showing in the well gave hope of a big producer, the well making several flows over the top of the derrick, but it has not shown so well on the pump. The well is located in the northwest corner of the south half of section 47, block 2, Wilbarger.

Roberts-Hill-Craig

Roberts-Hill-Craig No. 2, Mitchell, second location east from the northwest corner of their forty acres, and second location east from the Howell et al discovery well, southwest of Iowa Park was down to 1,510 feet early yesterday with no sand yet and the well regarded as dry. It is the third definition that the pool has received since its inception. Hester-Hawkins and Atlantic having previously chalked if off to the north and northeast.

Travis, Zipperle

The Travis Oil company has spudded and is drilling at about 250 feet on its No. 2, Zipperle, second location east from the southwest corner of the northwest forty of the northwest quarter of section 80, block 14. H&TC RRCO survey, Wilbarger county.

Fidelity Locations

The Fidelity Oil company has made two new locations on their stuff recently acquired in the Roberts and Hill pool from Bass and Dillard, both wells to be located on the north line and twins to the 1,600-foot wells. Both will go to the 1,700-foot horizon.

Yeggmen Blow Safe But Nothing Taken

GRAHAM, Texas, June 2.—Yeggs did a perfect job in blowing open the safe in the office of the C. D. Shamburger lumber yard here at 3 a. m. Monday but did not finish the robbery. Nothing was taken from the safe, however, checks, silver and currency being left untouched. The yeggs evidently were frightened into a quick departure without re-entering the building after the charge.

LOSE $50 OR WIN $1500

During the Next 30 Days

If you are willing to gamble $50 where you will either lose it or win in the neighborhood of $1,500 during the next 30 days the following deal will appeal to you as it is the biggest bargain in the local fields and it has an exceptionally good chance of winning. The details are as follows:

A local man must have $500 cash today and in order to raise it he must sacrifice part of his interest in a well drilling on 40 acres one mile east of one new pool and one and one-quarter miles north of another pool that has just been brought in. In order to be absolutely certain that he will raise the money today he is dividing his part into 64ths, offering each 64th at $50 each. This is at the rate of less than half the amount necessary to drill the well, without figuring anything for the 40 acres, and makes the biggest bargain in the country. It has a mighty good chance of hitting.

The well is now drilling and down 1,275 feet, all money for drilling is up in the bank and well will be drilled to 1,800 feet. A 200 barrel well on this 40 acres will make it worth in the neighborhood of $100,000 which will make each 64th interest worth over $1,500. A $100 speculation here has a good chance of winning $3,000 for you. Must have the money today therefore this big sacrifice. If you feel lucky and have the money to spare this makes the best bet you will ever have a chance at for a big, quick profit.

Phone me and I will bring you out to the well and you can buy any part from 1-64 to 1-4th. Will not sell the balance. If after seeing the well you are not well pleased you will be under no obligation. This offer is for today only as the money must be raised today. Phone me.

and its branches to take effect at the earliest possible date, and not later than September 1, 1925.

These words giving formal expression to my decision to leave the college do not convey in any sense the emotions I feel in reaching this decision. I came to the college on September 18, 1914, and I am therefore completing my eleventh year as president of the institution. Many changes have taken place since that time. The physical plant has greatly increased, the student body has grown in numbers, the number of departments and schools has multiplied and the standards of instruction have been raised. The state has established two branch colleges that have become important assets to the educational system of Texas. The experiment station system has increased in the number of branch stations and in the number on its scientific staff. The extension service has had its beginning and a remarkable development during this period.

I regard it as a high privilege to have had a part in the varied growth of this institution. However, important changes have not only come to this institution, but to all educational institutions during the period of my incumbency of the presidency of the college. All institutions of higher learning have experienced great increase in attendance. We have been through the critical experience of the world war which resulted in the transformation of our college campus into a training camp and completely disrupted our work. Since the war we have experienced a period of retrenchment in public expenditures which has relatively decreased our available revenues in proportion to the number of students who have enrolled in the college. This situation has presented problems of great difficulty.

Throughout the period of my connection with the college I have had the loyal and sympathetic co-operation of the members of the board of directors, the Former Students' association, the officers and faculty of the college, and the student body. Perhaps few men have had a greater degree of co-operation than I have had. The growth of the college and its increasing usefulness to the people of Texas are due to this co-operation. I freely acknowledge my lasting obligation to all of those who have in any way contributed to the progress of the institution.

I would freely acknowledge also my indebtedness to the members of the legislature and the several state administrations for courtesies extended and encouragement offered from time to time. I shall never forget the friendships I have established with state administrative officers and members of the legislature as I have come in contact with them through the years.

In casting my lot with the people of another state I am not unmindful that I am leaving countless thousands of friends who have been more than generous and helpful to me. I find great consolation in the fact that I am not completely breaking these long established ties. I am going to a nearby state, many of whose citizens originally came from Texas. I am going to a great state university through which I shall have many ties with the educational forces of Texas. My only reason for going is the firm conviction that a larger opportunity is offered me and that I shall be able to serve the cause of education in a more significant way. I go with the conviction that if I am permitted to contribute to the intellectual, spiritual, moral and material welfare of the state of Oklahoma, through its great state university, I shall be contributing to the welfare of my native state and nation.

I shall watch the continued progress of the Agricultural and Mechanical college and its branches with the greatest interest. I am sure that years will bring continuously increasing usefulness to this institution and no one will find more satisfaction in its achievements than the man who has been permitted to serve it during the past eleven years.

Knowing the membership of this board of directors as I do, I feel that the future destiny of the institution is in safe hands. Your interest in the cause of education in Texas, your devotion to the public service and your special concern for the welfare of this institution and its branches are ample assurance that the college will continue to contribute in a large way to the welfare of the people of Texas. I am saddened by the thought that our official relations are to be broken. Throughout the long years of my connection with the college there has never been the slightest friction between members of the board and my personal relationship with each member has been all that could be desired in the way of cordial and friendly co-operation. I cannot express in words my gratitude to each of you and your predecessors for your loyal support, unfailing encouragement and wise counsel.

The memories of this association will be cherished as long as I shall live.

Respectfully submitted.

W. B. BIZZELL.
President.

poise and mental equilibrium. Though exercise for toning up the muscles and the nerves the body gains poise and through poise, grace and beauty."

Mrs. Booth illustrated her talk with the example of nervous women who are constantly moving their hands and feet about. This she said, was caused by lack of proper toning up of the nerves and muscles until they are controlled by the person instead of controling the person. She spoke of the four needs of the body—food, water, exercise and air—and explained each in detail. She gave the causes for the "dark brown taste in the mouth" and how to get rid of it.

Then she demonstrated the art of walking, sitting, standing and showed how many women add five to 15 years to their age by the manner in which they sit or walk.

"Cows get up; people rise." Mrs Booth stated. "There are too many women now who 'get up' from their chairs. The ball of the foot is the lever that carries the body gracefully. It may be made so strong and springy that your weight seems nothing. You may extinguish or distinguish yourself by the manner in which you sit."

Physical harmonies were favored by the speaker as the best means of developing grace.

"Music," she said, "is an ideal means of exalting the emotions. It acts in a peculiar way upon the nervous system. For the highest ends of culture it is valuable and absolutely necessary. It helps to gain equilibrium through balance and poise, and the cultivated body is graceful."

"You are no older than your backbone. You are just as comfortable, more so, when the muscles and nerves are trained to support the body. Laughing is a good exercise for developing the diaphram, which is the strongest muscle in the body and floors the largest cavity, the thorax which contains the lungs."

"Laugher does eight things for us; it stretches the diaphram, illumines the solar plexus; massages the vital organs; lessens the arterial deposits; changes vibrations from negative to positive; changes the mental vision; creates spontaneity; and generates sweetness and control of temper."

She then discussed the value of the health, happiness and goodness affirmations, and said:

"We sleep, but the loom of life never ceases and the pattern we were weaving when we closed our eyes in sleep is still weaving when we wake up in the morning."

The speaker stated that scientists have recently announced that the body is renewed every eleven months instead of every seven years as once claimed, and thus we can rebuild ourselves in less than a year.

Think No Evil.

"If I were opening a beauty shop," Mrs. Booth said, "I would put this motto on the walls: 'If you would have youth, beauty, health and charm, think no evil of anyone!' Some people paraphase in practice the greatest of all commandments, 'Love ye one another,' into 'snub ye one another.' Practice of snubbing forfeits any woman's right to be a child of the great king."

"If you've battled and won in the great game of life,
"If you feel that you've conquered its sorrow and strife,
"If you've played the game square and you stand on first base,
"You don't have to tell it, it shows in your face.
"If your life is unselfish, if for others you live,
"Not for what you can get, but what you can give,
"If you live close to God in His infinite grace,
"You don't have to tell it, is shows in your face."

Mrs. Booth concluded her talk with a short resume of her experience on the stage and in dramatic work. On the stage too she studied the art of make up and as a consequence can tell by the lines on one's face what they have been thinking about, whether they are worried or happy. "True indeed is it," she said.

BRYAN AND DARROW.

William Jennings Bryan is the most noted political evangelist of America and Clarence Darrow is the best known and most successful defender of criminals the republic has known. Clarence Darrow has 126 trials to his credit and no Darrow client has ever gone to the gallows or the electric chair.

Evolution is the latest political hobby of W. J. B. He would prevent the teaching of evolution by statutory law. Tennessee lawmakers enacted into criminal statute the Bryan idea. This statute prohibits the teaching of evolution in the tax supported schools of the old volunteer state.

Scopes, a small town teacher, was the first victim. He was haled before a pustice of the peace and the foresaid justice held Scopes for trial. He did not place Scopes in a dungeon. He did not hand Scopes over to torturers. He held him for trial but permitted Scopes to make his own bail bond.

Then W. J. B. ever for the center of the stage position, wired that he would go to Tennessee as a prosecutor of Scopes. Clarence Darrow saw a chance to get in the lime light. He wired th. court that he would come to Tennessee and defend Scopes, if Scopes would accept his legal batteries.

Now the war is on. Clarence Darrow, in the good old days, was a champion of Bryan and 16 to 1. This was known as the silver craze. Now the evolution craze is uppermost in several of the southern states, and Bryan and Darrow are first pagers.

Darrow has linked the name of Nero and Bryan and Bryan no doubt will link the names of Darrow and the devil before the controversy grows many days older. Every seven years a new political craze is thrust upon the people of the south and for more than thirty years Bryan has been the standard bearer and exponent of the crazes which have come and gone.

Why not evolution as the paramount issue for the democrats in the presidential campaign in 1928? This will let the republicans in again as they were let in by the wild men who manhandled the democratic donkey in the campaigns of 1924.

CONGRESS MUST FACE THE ISSUE.

By unanimous decision the supreme court of the United States has upheld the right of newspapers to publish matter open to public inspection. Justice Sutherland rendered the opinion, and his view is that the papers are privileged to print whatever is available to the public. This is a vital point and was the very one insisted upon by the Kansas City Journal-Post an dthe Baltimore Post in the cases brought against them by the government for publishing income tax returns. But the view of the court is so obviously sound that it needs no discussion. The remarkable thing about the decision is that it construes congress' intent against congress' act.

"Information which everybody is at liberty to acquire and the acquisition of which congress seemed especially desirous of facilitating," says Justice Sutherland, "cannot, in the absence of some clear and positive provision to the contrary, be regarded otherwise than as public property, to be passed on to others as freely as the possessors of it may choose. The contrary view requires a very dry and literal reading of the statute, quite inconsistent with its legislative history and the known and declared objects of its framers."

Now this is correct reasoning, but every one knows that congress was inconsistent in passing the statute referred to and actually included language of which "a dry and literal reading" might appear to support the revenue bureau's contention that only public inspection, and not publication of income tax returns, should be allowed. Fortunately, our courts must suppose our lawmakers consistent in their purposes whether they are so or not. Congress must now face squarely the issue of publicity for income tax returns. The ruse by which it apparently declared for publicity without permitting publication has been brought to naught by a decision so clearly just that it must win immediate popular approval.

WHAT HAPPENED TO SAMUEL.

New York is a city of Arabian Night Dreams. Twenty years ago Samuel Reubel, a youth of 21, landed at Castle Garden from Russia, almost a pauper. He became a jerker in a seltzer bottling establishment and finally saved sufficient money to buy a horse and wagon. This enabled him to peddle ice.

Twenty years later or just the other day, a $25,000,000 merger was built around the Reubel Coal and Ice corporation, which has many concerns in New York and New Jersey. Samuel is responsible for the merger. He owns the property. No outside capital is involved. He operates 25 ice plants and 15 big coal yards.

This is what happened to Samuel in 20 years, and this is one of the reasons why the makers of the new immigration act shut out the brethern of Samuel who continue to live in Russia and Poland and Bulgaria. This may be a bold way of stating the facts, but it is the fact just the same.

Samuel is a keen competitor. He saves his pennies. He invests his pennies. He climbs the ladder in the business world, then he shuts out others who are not keen competitors and who scorn pennies. There are many Samuels from Russia and Poland and Bulgaria and Rumania in the great city of New York.

THOMAS JEFFERSON.

One of the justly great names in the history of the United States is Thomas Jefferson.

A movement is now on foot to raise money by public subscription in order that Monticello, his old home, should be cleared of debt and that a suitable monument to his memory be erected.

The respect paid to great men of former time is an indication of the value which a nation places upon services rendered by those men.

Thomas Jefferson has his name indissolubly bound up with the progress of freedom in the United States.

He wrote the Declaration of Independence, which has been called the greatest document of modern times.

He stood for religious freedom in an age of universal intolerance.

He was one of the first men to see that the greatest block to national wrongs was democracy, that the people could be trusted better than any kings. And at that time popular government was as unpopular as the bolshevik government is now in Russia.

Jefferson's policies were based upon the truth, upon intelligence and upon courage. All of these have been demonstrated by the course of things since his time.

The democracy which he advocated has spread from the United States throughout the whole western continent and to many places in Europe. It is undoubtedly the coming form of government in this world.

Jefferson died in want because he refused to avail himself of technicalities. He died as he had lived—a gentleman.

If the United States is to continue to prosper it must be along the lines laid down by the author of the Declaration of Indndependence.

It is right and fitting that all th people of small as well as of great means should unite in giving to support this movement.

By honoring Thomas Jefferson the people of the United States honor themselves.

He was more than a democrat, although his name is usually linked with democracy. He was an American citizen, and lived and died giving his best service to his country.

It is proposed to restore and preserve Monticello, the original home of Jefferson. This is under the care of Fiske Kimball of New York university, and others.

Houses grow old and fall into decay unless they are continually tended, even as a man needs constant attention.

The board of governors has invited all governors, mayors and heads of educational and patriotic organizations to appoint Jefferson centennial committees. The reply to this invitation has been most gratifying.

Jefferson was not only a great man, but he stood for great and fundamental ideas in America, and we shall demonstrate that we appreciate his ideas if we fitly honor him.

LIFE INSURANCE GAMES.

According to a trade paper the amount of new life insurance written during the first four months of 1925 was 12.8 per cent greater than for the corresponding period of 1924. The figures include the reports of 45 companies which care for 81 per cent of the business of the country. According to the report these companies show a gain of $3,345,528,000 over the same period of 1924. Life insurance protects business; it protects the dependent of the head of the household; it protects the credit of the individual as well as the credit of combinations of individuals. It insures against poverty or disaster and America leads the world.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

The Man Who Hired a Car.

My next door neighbor, who for many years appeared to be having a pretty tough struggle to make both ends meet, has lately been building a big addition to his house, joining a golf club, and evincing other evidences of a new prosperity.

Riding to town on the train with him the other day I learned that he had become the general manager of the company in which he was formerly an assistant department head.

"You may have noticed that I am blossoming out a bit," he said. "It is about time. I had pretty tough sledding for ten years, and I didn't know why. Now I do.

"I had an offer of a better position than the one I now hold not long ago. I talked it over with our president, but he told me not to take it. He said he expected to retire in a year or two and I would be given his place. So I am staying on, and incidentally I feel that I can make things a little more comfortable for my family without running any risks."

I had consfiderable curiosity as to how this change in him had been brought about, but delicacy forbade my asking any questions.

They were not needful however. My friend was eager to talk about it.

"It all came from hiring an automobile," he said, "not for myself, but for the firm.

"I was on a business trip in Texas, and it was necessary to visit scattered oil properties which could be more easily reached by motor. So I hired a car at the firm's expense.

"Now as soon as I had hired that car, which cost me a fixed price every day I began to think about getting mileage out of it. I was naturally inclined to loaf a good deal on business trips, to put errands off till the last minute, and to take it easy generally.

"But I kept thinking about the hire of that car going on all the time, and I kept it and myself on the jump, so that the money wouldn't be wasted.

"I got a great deal of business done on that trip, so much that I was complimented by the boss when I returned.

"That set me to thinking. I began to figure that I was just as valuable as that car and a lot more so, and that if I couldn't afford to keep the car idle on the firm's account, I couldn't afford to keep myself idle on the firm's account and my own beside.

"So every day I laid out my duties as I had planned trips for the car, and the first thing I knew I was getting about twice as much work done in a day as I had been doing.

"Well, the firm saw it and appreciated it, and I got a few little rises in position and finally a big one. And all for no other reason but that hiring a car opened my eyes for the first time in ten years of business life to the value of using time for all it is worth."

It is often necessary to receive some kind of a shock, good or bad to awaken us to our opportunities.

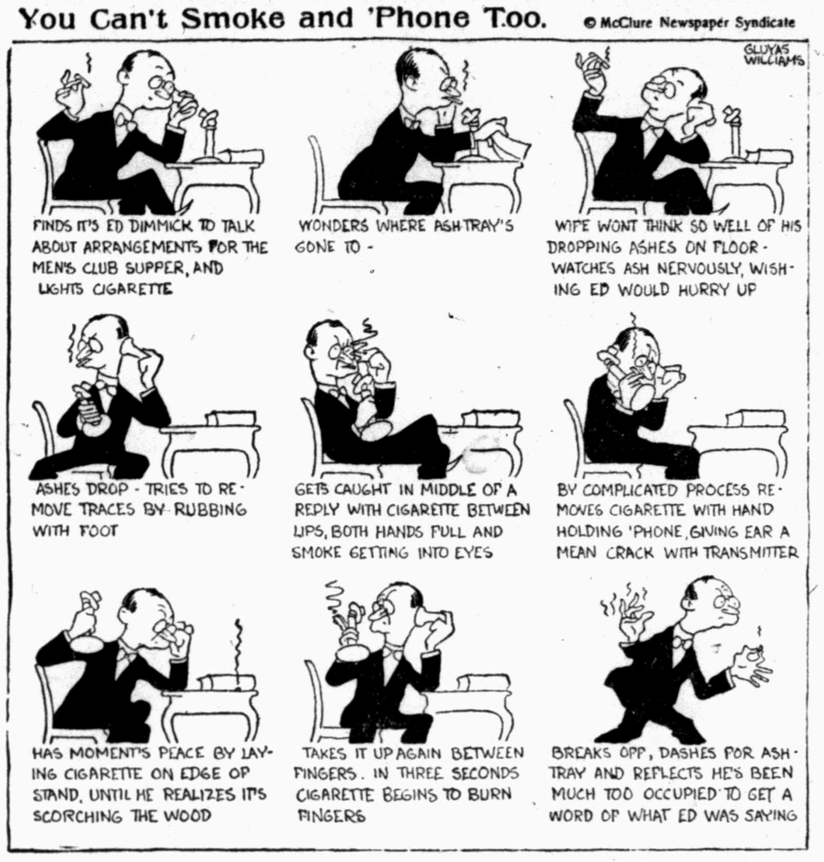

This neighbor got his shock without much of a set back. But it did the work for him.

Half the failures in life are due to wasted time—in other words laziness. The story of my friend supplies an example of one who woke up in time to cure a very bad habit.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

GEMINI.

Today's planetary aspects are rather obscure. They do not denote favorable conditions, nor do they indicate anything of an adverse character. Just before sundown, they undergo a very sudden change, and, while they are not prolific of signs that presage business success, they do reveal the awakening of powerful emotions, as the vibrations become distinctly stimulating. During the day it is advisable to attend to your ordinary obligations in the customary manner, avoiding, if possible, the taking of any important resolutions or the making of any drastic changes. In the evening, the best that is in you will come to the surface, and the opportunity as excellent one for putting your love to the test, or of giving some unusual demonstration of affection towards those you love and who love you.

The physical future of the child born today is not left in much doubt, given normal conditions. In spite of many ailments during childhood, it will attain physical normalcy. With regard to its character and temperament, it will be very responsive at all times to external influences, and, when mirth prevails, it will be mirthful. If sadness should be the mood of its associates, it, in its turn, will be sad. This marked characteristic of "being all things to all men" has its dangers and pitfalls, and only a person of a very strong mind can satisfactorily discharge this role.

If you were born on the 3rd of June, you are not without ambition, although you do not apparently possess the energy or persistency necessary to attain the goal you would like, by easy means, to reach. You are not imitative, and possess a great deal of originality of thought, which often leads you into the dangerous path of unconventionality, and this has, and will, often cause your friends and associates to look askance at you.

You are often imbued with a strong determination to make good at the special task you may have in hand and so long as everything progresses satisfactorily, your enthusiasm does not wane. If, however, difficulties should be encountered, and obstacles arise, you are easily discouraged, become depressed, and yield to these transitory feelings, often to the point of giving up the good fight.

HOW IT STARTED

"MOUNTAIN DEW" AND "MOONSHINE"

The nisckname "Mountain Dew" for illicit liquor may crop out in speech more frequently now than it did formerly but it is by no means a product of prohibition days. Long before the advent of Mr. Volstead's innovation liquor illegally distilled and sold was called "Mountain Dew." The obviously humorous reference was of course, to the highland districts which housed hidden distilleries, not only in our Southern States, but in Scotland, whose hills have of yore been no less well dotted with revenue-evading stills than our own Kentucky or Tennessee!

As a matter of fact, the term "Mountain Dew" is not an Americanism, but a product of Scotch familiarity with moonshine liquor and Scotch picturesqueness of speech.

"Moonshine," however, is native to our shores—or rather our mountains! In its syllables we have the story of the traditional conflict between the "revenuer" and the mountaineers of half a dozen states along the Appalachian Mountain range. The real beginning of this conflict would date from the passage of the Alexander Hamilton excise law of 1791, and it is still going on. It rested, prior to prohibition, on the fact that the unproductivity of the soil and the absence of variety of possible occupations in those mountain districts made the manufacture of corn the most advantageous occupation. If subjected to the high Federal tax, however, it becomes a less profitable resource. So the mountaineer looked upon the government agent as an invader of his rights and his natural enemy. And from his viewpoint, "moonshining," the occupation which had to be pursued under cover of night to avoid detection, lost the stigma with which we naturally associate with any evasion or breaking of the law.

CANADA WANTS NORTH POLE.

Dominion Claims All Land Immediately North of Country.

OTTAWA, June 2.—(AP)—Canada claims all lands north of the Dominion between Alaska and Greenland, even up to the north pole, Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, indicated before the house of commons last night.

A commission now is investigating Canada's title to the lands and is engaged in establishing the Dominion's right to them.

Canada, it is stated, is willing to concede the claims of other countries to territory directly north of Alaska and Greenland and therefore does not claim Wrangel island.

Irrigation

What Our Large Storage Capacity Means.

It has been variously estimated that Lake Kemp will hold, at spillway level, from 500,000 to 500,000 acre feet of water.

Such a large storage capacity means that full advantage can be taken of the years when the river is unusually high and flows more water than is needed for irrigation that yeat year. It also means that dry years can easily be passed without a water shortage.

Taking into account the large capacity of Lake Kemp and the average annual flow of the river it has been estimated that from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of land can be irrigated here when needed.

In this fact lies the hope of Wichita Falls getting her money back from the huge investment she has made. As we have shown before, out of the 4,500,000 which has been expended, only about $1,500,000 has been realized so far. This amount represents the bonds which have been turned in from district No. 2.

As the irrigation project proves more and more successful, and when it has been proved, as it will be, that irrigated lands will raise ten times more crops over a period of years than dry land, then there will arise a demand for more land under irrigation.

When this comes about it will be Wichita Falls' opportunity to step in and realize to the full on the great asset she has created.

If we can keep our project from water logging it will eventually make us a direct profit on our investment.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

ISN'T IT QUEER THAT WE DON'T INVESTIGATE OUR MATRIMONIAL PARTNERS' PASTS; THAT WE MARRY THOSE OF OPPOSITE TASTES; THAT, WHEN DEATH SETS US FREE, WE'RE EVER READY TO REMARRY?

Did you ever think how many queer things there are about marriage? To begin with, isn't it queer that we permit boys and girls to get married at an age at which they are not permitted to make any other binding contract? The law appoints guardians to look after the property of minors, and prevent them from squandering it, or being cheated out of it by sharpers, but there is no legal safeguard to save foolish girls and boys from throwing away their life's happiness on an ill-advised marriage.

At a time of life when we consider a lad's judgment too immature for him to make a thousand-dollar investment, we consider that he is worldly wise enough to pick out a life mate. At an age when we think a girl's taste too unformed and too hectic to select her own clothes, we let her choose a husband.

Isn't the casual attitude we atke toward matrimony queer?

Marriage is the most important act in our lives, the thing that not only makes or mars us, but that affects thousands of people yet to be. Compared with marriage, being born is a mere episode in our careers, and dying a trivial incident. Yet there is no other thing that we do to which we give as little intelligent, serious thought.

If we were going into a business partnership with a man in which we were going to invest our entire fortune, we would think a long time before we committed ourselves. We would consider the proposition from every angle. We would look into its weak spots and try to form an honest opinion of its chances of success. And we would investigate the past record of the man we were proposing to go into business with, and find out everything about him.

We would ascertain what sort of a life he had led, how honest and honorable he was, how much he was to be trusted, and what sort of a disposition he had, whether he was pleasant to get along with or not. Yet the worst harm that our business partner could do us would be to cheat us out of our money. He couldn't break our hearts and make our lives miserable. If we didn't like him, we could dissolve the partnership without any trouble or disgrace.

But nine times out of ten those who enter into the marriage contract, which is the most binding contract of all, do not take the trouble to make even the slightest investigation about the one with whom he or she is making a life partnership. Every day we read of people who discover that they are married to bigamists. Every day some husband stumbles into his wife's skeleton closet, and finds that the woman that he believed pure and innocent has a dark and sordid past. Every day some agonized mother looks at her deformed or idiotic child, and see that the sins of the father have been visited on her child.

The man was handsome, and he danced well, and he had a dandy sporting model car. The girl was pretty, and she had a cute trick of looking up through her lashes, or a baby stare, so they got married without bothering to find out a single thing about the kind of life each had led before they met.

They wouldn't have bought a house without having had an expert see that its title was clear and that there was no mortgage on it, but they will marry without finding out what sort of encumbrances are on the lives of their husbands and wives. They wouldn't buy a horse or a dog without looking into its pedigree and finding out what sort of stock it comes from, and whether it is sound in wind and limb, but they will pass diseased blood on to their children with no thought of the sort of heredity with which they are cursing them.

Isn't it queer that men and women fail to consider the dispositions of those they marry?

Yet that is the thing that people have to live with, and what makes marriage a sucess or a failure.

It isn't high and noble principles; it isn't truth and honor and honesty that makes or mars a man's or woman's happiness in marriage. It is the temper of their husband's or wives. A man may be a model of all the virtues, and yet if he is stingy and grouchy and gloomy, his wife will be miserable with him. A woman may be as chaste as Caesar's wife, yet if she nags, her husband will rue the day he led her to the altar.

All men and women know this, yet a girl will go along and marry a man who even before marriage gets the sulks over every little thing that goes wrong, whom she has to always walk on eggs to avoid riling, and who carries his small change in a purse with a snap lock. And a man will marry a thin, nervous, irritable girl, who is always getting peeved about everything, and who never can say a thing and let it rest. And they both wonder after marriage why marriage is a failure, and why they can't get along together.

Isn't it queer that people don't pick out the kind of husbands and wives that they want, and that will suit them?

They don't. The man who loves to eat never selects a good housekeeper for a wife. He picks out a girl who can't boil water without scorching it, and then knocks her for not being a superexcellent cook. The poor man marries a living fashion plate, and howls about her extravagance. The stick-at-home man weds a flapper, and considers himself ill used because she wants to chase around to cabarets. Yet none of these men would have bought a limousine and expected to find it a delivery truck when they got it home.

And, queerest of all is it that no matter how unhappily people have been married, when death or divorce sets them free, they nearly all want to try matrimony over again!

DOROTHY DIX.

To Be in Style In The Andes, Wear a Dress Suit in P. M.

Speaking of things none of us knew before.

Up at a far-away place in the Andes mountains there's a place where men would be considered odd and out of place if they appeared on the street any time after 1 o'clock in the afternoon unless attired in a dress suit.

Did you know that when shipping goods for export into Brazil there are 1 69 things you must not do when writing your invoices?

The governments having little agricultural support depend, to a large extent, upon the fines they can impose at a customs house, therefore they detail as many violations as possible to insure the levying of a fine when an invoice is faulty.

For instance, if a Wichita Falls exporter, shipping into Brazil, made a single abbreviation, it probably would cost him a one per cent fine.

If you are an exporter and your stenographer in making out the invoice going to Brazil makes an error and endeavors to erase it, even if the meaning remains clear, you are liable to a one per cent fine.

Unusual as it may seem, in dealing with certain nationales you must never attempt to sell them your produce. Rather, you must go visit them, go hunting or fishing with them, and be their guest, and then perhaps just as you are departing ask them if they need any of your goods. They will tell you promptly if they do.

Here's a queer thing: the other day a Wichita Falls firm got a letter from a foreign country which began something like this: "Honored Sir: Answering your letter of January 26, 1914. You see it takes a long time for mails to come and go—sometimes as much as 11 years.

Opportunity knocks but once, so they say; there is the story of a man in Seattle who, when news was flashed of the Japanese earthquake, immediately purchased 300 second hand trucks and shipped them to Tokio and sold every one of them.

* * *

But going back to the export business: Use care when exporting not to use colors. Then you are on the safe side. For instance, one Wichita Falls product once went to a foreign country painted bright yellow. It so happened that the flag of the defeated forces in a most recent revolution was yellow. The goods were refused until repainted a battleship gray.

* * *

When attempting to sell goods to the Portugese, always remember that it is much better to write your letter in English than in Spanish, for it is very apt to make a Portugese mad to receive a Spanish epistle and vice-versa.

Oftentimes inquiries will be sent a Wichita Falls exporting firm written in almost illegible hand by pencil on a postcard. Do not make the mistake of answering briefly. Return a letter of voluminous information for two reasons:

* * *

First: very often the nationale who wrote that meager inquiry is one of the foremost, wealthiest and highest rated individuals of his community.

Second: Remember that it takes a long time for manl sto travel to foreign shores or inland points and the prospective purchaser wants to know every detail of your product when the reply reaches him and not be compelled to inquire again.

Now, who said all this? Well, it was one of the best equipped men along this line in Wichita Falls. Name's John C. McDonald, general sales manager of the Wichita Motors company, before members of the Wichita Falls Advertising club at noon luncheon at the Kemp yesterday.

The luncheon was presided over by George Wilson, club president, and its business routine included discussion of plans for a membership drive following suggestions by the membership committee.

Woman Plan Legislation For 2 Years

WEST BADEN, Ind., June 2.—(AP)—Communist activities among school children of the United States were scored in a restlution presented at the first business session of the 18th biennitl council of the Federation of Women's clubs here today. The resolution urged an investigation of soviet propaganda among young Americans.

WEST BADEN, Ind., June 2.—An ambitious legislative program for the next two years was recommended today to the bienninal council of the general Federation of Women's clubs, in convention here, by Mrs. Gilbert Davis of Windsor, Vt., chairman of the legislative committee.

After reporting the activity of her committee in behalf of legislation endorsed two years ago Mrs. Davis recommended that in addition to continuing to sponsor projects already endorsed, that the federation add to the program endorsment of the Merritt "misbranding bill" now pending in congress and of legislation to dignify the position of the American housewife and place her industrially under the proper classification in the United states census.

The Merritt bill is recommended in preference to the Capper "truth in fabric measure."

The re-endorsement program recommended by Mrs. Davis includes United States participation in the international court of justice; law enforcement; education bill which provides for the addition to a secretary of education to the president's cabinet; an intensive campaign of education on the child labor amendment; consideration of child labor laws in the states with a view to strengthening them and uniform state marriage and divorce laws.

A Part of Wichita Falls Since 1906

Linking our destiny with that of Wichita Falls in 1906 it has been our privilege to grow with "The City that Faith Built" for 19 years.

From a store doing a volume of $35,000 in our first year in a village of 5,000 people we have grown to an institution, having done a maximum of $600,000 in a city of 60,000 people ranking in the cities of Texas.

We see in the future of this section opportunities greater even than those of the past.

In the future, as in the past, we will bend every effort to the accomplishment of results worthy of such an important section of the state.

An heir to the Sandeford Booterie was born to Mr. and Mrs. Sandeford Tuesday. Mother and son, too, are doing nicely.

"These proud papas are all right," said a friend of Homer's yesterday, "but there's a limit to all things. When it comes to offering to give me the store, something's got to be done. And if Homer's pride in that youngster keeps up, he's going to spoil the child something terrible."

Montigue county shows a field or two where cutting has started as does also Clay county, although the crops are not as far advanced here as further east. This is true also of corn and cotton, the eastern counties showing corn better than waist high with the cotton fields already full of choppers.

Night Sticks, Banned In Erin, Save Irish Police Head On Visit to N. Y.

NEW YORK, June 2—(AP)—General Owen O'Duffy, whose policemen in the Irish Free State go about unarmed even as to night sticks, has been the center of two turbulent demonstrations here in as many days. New York police in one of these incidents were compelled to use their clubs which Irish police don't carry.

A barrage of eggs accompanied hissing and cries of "shame!" "traitor!" and "he's a second Benedict Arnold!" greeted the general last night as he was about to review the 15th regiment, New York national guard, whose members are of Irish descent. Twenty women, kicking and screaming, were ejected from the armory by 200 military police and detectives. Police needed clubs as warning symbols, but did not use them as all the disturbers were women.

General O'Duffy's presence Sunday at Celtic Park stirred up a free for all fight. A crowd of admirers collected about him. A man fell, crying that he had been kicked and the fight ensued. One policeman with a club was helpless, until reserves arrived.

Colonel J. J. Phelan, commander of the regiment, had been warned of the demonstration last night. Even members of the bomb squad were sent to the armory. Irish republican organizations had protested Colonel Phelan's invitation to the general. Though eggs spattered the floor about him, General O'Duffy marched undaunted to the reviewing stand and grinned. Three years ago he narrowly escaped assassination when fired upon from ambush in Dublin.

University Club To Discontinue Noon Meetings Till Fall

Sin die sounded for the University club yesterday at noon when it was agreed to suspend the weekly luncheons until the second Tuesday in September. This is an annual move. The luncheon hour was turned over to the members for a discussion of plans for the coming fall. The program committee, headed by C. A. Rogers, was authorized to proceed with the winter programs and given full power to act. One of the most important projects to be undertaken by the club this fall is the inauguration of a lyceum course here. Negotiations will be made this summer with several well known companies and a contract probably signed.

Early next fall a membership drive will be started by the club and an effort made to bring the total enrollment up to the 200 mark. The committee will also take under consideration the changing of the weekly luncheon date from Tuesday to Saturday of each week, in order to allow teachers in the city to become members.

The past year has been a successful one for the local club. Good attendance has been a feature of the luncheon each week, and many good programs have been given. Prominent among them was the address made by Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy.

Dr. Nat F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was president of the club until mid-winter when Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of the public schools, was named as his successor.

Burton Defends League Covenant

GENEVA, June 2.—(AP)—Representative Theodore E. Burton, head of the American delegation, came into the limelight at the arms traffic conference again today when he declared that the covenant of the League of Nations was not a scrap of paper, and that it assured the protection of European countries.

The Lithuanian delegate remarked that he was rejoiced to hear such warm appreciation of the league from the chief of the Americans.

This incident occurred at a most critical moment of the conference, when it was sought to allay the fears of Russia's neighbors, who do not want to be bound by a convention until it is applicable to Russia.

Who's Who in the Story

Rosilyn Ridgeway learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an overworked little drudge in her father's inn.

Landis Ridgeway, her husband, is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother.

Florence Ridgeway, an aristocratic old lady, who saw poverty staring her in the face, and chose the easiest way out. Rosilyn, loving her husband, knows he is still in love with Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying

Steve Van Vorst, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Ridgeway. She is in Paris when the news reaches her of Landis' marriage, and she hastens back to the United States. With her goes Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, who has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and when the two reach New York, she and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby Rosilyn and Briscoe will see a great deal of each other, and Lydia will have a chance to exert her wiles upon Landis. The plan works, and Landis, finding himself often alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more.

In Paris meanwhile Van Vorst, realizing the reason for Lydia's sudden trip to America and hungering for her love, decides to use Marietta, a dancer and sweetheart of Briscoe's in connection with a scheme. These two come to New York where Marietta begins to vamp Landis away from Lydia, leaving a clear field for the elderly schemer.

Lydia, observing the turn of affairs, is none to pleased, especially when the dancer makes evident headway with Landis while Steve, seizing his chance, makes ardent love to Lydia. After a lavish revel in town the three accept Steve's invitation to a party on his yacht the next day, although Lydia would prefer to have Landis to herself.

In the country at the Ridgeway place, Rosilyn, in a fever of jealousy and anxiety over the protracted disappearance of her husband seeks the solace of the countryside. While walking she believes she sees the slumbering form of Briscoe—a few minutes later the earth opens and she is plunged in a mysterious underground passage.

On Van Vorst's yacht Marietta and Lydia engage in a verbal fusillade—Lydia's last shot being a question as to whether the dancer was interested in Landis.

Rosilyn after her peculiar accident falls deep in the earth to a sort of cavern where after futile attempts to escape Briscoe appears on the scene, apparently from nowhere. She asks him when, after consciousness returns, how he happens to be there.

What followed was a total blank, until that strange moment when she found herself being carried in someone's arms, with a rather painful, jogging motion, under the open sky and stars, with a sea breeze blowing across her torn face.

She was too tired to say one word, to think, but lay inert.

Later, she awoke to the sound of rain pouring on a tin roof. She was lying on something hard and uneven, and—

"Don't be afraid! It's only I! I found you and brought you here!" came the tones of Rupert Briscoe.

Rosilyn struggled into a sitting posture, her tired brain making a desperate effort to understand.

"You? Brought me here? How? When?" She put a hand to her throbbing forehead. "I don't remember."

"Does sound like the long arm of coincidence, doesn't it. Do you feel pain anywhere You must have had a bad fall."

"I feel stiff," said Rosilyn, hesitatingly, "but that is all. And—won't you tell me how you found me? I slipped into a sort of tunnel in the earth—"——she shivered at the recollection.

"I found you lying in a sort of hollow," replied Briscoe, glibly. "You had tripped on a boulder, I think, and knocked your head. There was no tunnel."

She stared at the dim outline of the man in the gloom of the hut.

"There was a tunnel leading to a sort of cavern," she repeated. "I fell through bramble bushes that closed the mouth of it. I couldn't possibly have climbed out alone."

"Come! Come!" said Briscoe soothingly. "You have forgotten! But we won't argue. The thing to do is to get you back to Royal Cliff."

Rosilyn started.

Mrs. Ridgeway will be terrified for me. It was hours ago when I left. Not much after 10. And now—"

"It's the round of the clock." He glanced at the luminous hands of his wristlet watch. It's just on 10 p. m. now, and we're miles from anywhere."

The girl struggled to her feet. A little cry of pain escaped her, due to the stiffness in her limbs.

"Thank heaven there are no broken bones. Here, lean on me." And the man slipped an arm about her waist.

She showed no embarrassment, no feeling. He had rather hoped she would.

The rain was coming down in torrents, making a hissing sound on the corrugated roof of the shelter.

"We'll be half drowned before we get anywhere." said Briscoe, in a matter-of-fact tone. "The best thing to do would be to wait until a party comes to find us. You're not fit to walk miles in this weather."

Rosilyn moved towards the door, away from his support.

"I must go. Mrs. Ridgeway—Landis—"

She stumbled, and he caught her again.

"Rest until our plans are made." Gently he pushed her down on the rough bench where she had lain, and then half shut the door, so that the hut was plunged into a deeper darkness.

"Please don't do that. I want air. I feel—a little—faint." The last statement wasn't true, in the literal sense, but the girl had a sudden fleeting intuition that wasn't reassuring.

Then, as Briscoe obediently opened the door wide to the wet night, she said:—

"You haven't told me yet how you found me? What are you doing in this part of the world?"

CHAPTER LII.
A Shady Explanation

He hesitated for the fraction of a moment before he answered her.

"I came down to have a look at Landis' yacht. I was going to buy it from him.

"So I came down on the 4:15. It was a bit late, but I thought I could always get a bed at Royal Cliff. When I got to your local depot I changed my mind about hurrying on by car, and strolled instead along the cliffs. I'm a bit of a naturalist, as no doubt you've heard—and there are some rare specimens of seagulls' eggs hereabouts.

"So I whiled away an hour or two, climbing about the rocks," proceeded he, "and then, realizing the awkwardness of being stranded without a place to lay my head or the night, I headed at last for Royal Cliff. It was a long walk—but I enjoy walking. Luck lead me to you. And there's the story!"

A small silence ensued, "broken only by the hissing of the rain on the roof.

"How very odd!" said Rosilyn at last.

"It was. Luckily odd, as I've said before."

"And you say you found me in a sort of hollow? Above ground, you mean?"

"Of course." He laughed as though amused. "Forget this nonsense of subterranean passages, my child. You're overstrung and small wonder, when one thinks what you've gone through."

She shivered.

METHODISTS IN FINE OFFERING OF BIBLE PLAY

"The Rock" Proves Big Success at Wichita Theatre

"I am Peter, the Rock!"

The cry is the exultant exclamation of the man who has found himself, vibrant with all the glory of the consciousness of power, and of service. It is the exclamation of Simon called Peter when his doubts are cleared away and he sees the path clear before him, and accepts the work of "fisher of men" as laid out by the Nazarene, Jesus Christ.

The Methodist Young Peoples association created an excellent characterization of the spirit of Peter and of Peter's decision to follow his Master in its "Rock," presented at the Wichita theatre last night. Raybon W. Porter, playing the part of Peter and Marguerite Fisher, of Mary of Magdala, spell out between themselves every emotion of the Judean of Christ's time. Peter is the skeptic, the fisherman, the righteously indignant, in short a Jew and a very human Jew. Mary is the woman of the streets, scoffing and skeptical, but withal filled with an intense desire to do good.

A Patient Wife.

Their story is the story of patient wife, Adina, awaiting the return of her husband, Peter, a Copernician fisherman, from the day's work. Thelma Cain is Adina, and a good Adina at that. She is patient, open to conviction, once convinced harder to move than the "Rock" himself.

Adina's wait is interrupted by a visit from Ucal, Jewish merchant, whose part is taken by Harold White. The visit is a family affair until Simon returns with a story of a miraculous catch. The Nazarene helped him, he says, as he describes the miracle and tells the assembled company that he will follow his Master wherever he is bidden.

A Foolish Decision

The decision is looked upon as foolishness by everyone: Ucal has just told Peter of an opportunity which, if seized at once will make him rich, but Peter is adamant, and leaves to find the Nazarene.

The next scene almost convinces Ucal himself. He is told by Agur, a physician, part played by Gordon Harris, that Deborah, his sister, cannot live longer than the day. His sorrow is interrupted by the appearance of Deborah (Mrs. J. S. Pitman) herself with the story of a miraculous cure by the Master.

Peter returns from his searching. He has found the Christ but left him to go his way. His wife makes him see the error of his haste and he awakes once more to the full joy of the role he has chosen, that of disciple to the Christ. The Magdalene is converted; there is mercy even for her, Peter tells her.

Th play closes with the triumphant words of Peter. "I am Peter, the Rock."

The part of Pandira, the Greek poet, is played by Baldwin Monutgomery of Titus, a Roman officer, by Emmett Bauknight. Lois Cook plays the part of a servant to Mary of Magdala.

Directed By Mrs. Pitman.

The entire direction of the play was by Mrs. J. S. Pitman. The story is by Mary P. Hamlin, who has cleverly presented every situation of the Judea of that day to show very distinctly the difficulties that Christ met. There is a character for every type in the mob that sent Christ to the cross. And the parts are played well. Mary of Magdala scoffs just as Mary would, and Simon called Peter has all the real life and fervor that could be expected of the real Simon Peter.

The play was preceded last night by a cantata with a cast of 34 children from the First Christian church, depicting the life of the child Jesus. The children were under the direction of Mrs. Wayne Holmes with Mrs. R. E. Shepherd at the piano. Rev. Leslie Miller sang a solo between the second and third acts.

NEW ORLEANS, June 2.—(AP)—The cotton developed considerable activity today following publication of the government condition report, which showed a much higher average than expected. Prices developed a sharp break right after the report was issued but it is probable that the suspension of trading five minutes before and 15 minutes after its reception prevented a more violent break. The same rule suspending trading for 20 minutes observed in all the markets, even in Liverpool.

Prior to the report prices had advanced to 23.50 for July and 22.28 for October, or 21 to 24 points above yesterday's close on receipt of the bureau's condition figure of 76.6 per cent of normal prices eased off 46 to 54 points as soon as trading was resumed and July later traded down to 22.78 and October to 21.50 or 72 to 78 points down from the highs of the morning and 48 to 57 points below the previous close. In the late trading prices rallied 18 to 23 points from the lows on short covering and the close showed net losses for the day of 32 to 38 points.

The condition average of 76.6 is the highest May 25 condition since 1918. The government in the comment accompanying the report says the present condition does not necessarily imply an annual favorable condition later in the season.

The buying by shorts in the late trading which cut down the loss for the day materially was based on covering owing to the absence of rain in the drouth sections of Texas. Very little attention was paid to any other developments but the government condition average which was a surprise to the trade. Exports today, 15,416 bales.

DALLAS SPOT COTTON

DALLAS, June 2.—Spots closed quiet, 30 points lower; sales, 50 bales. Middling fair, 24.08; strictly good middling, 23.85; good middling, 23.73; strict middling, 23.48; middling, 23.10; strict low middling, 22.47; low middling, 21.50; strict good ordinary, 21.25; good ordinary, 19.10.

STATE OFFERS TO SELL LEGION MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

AUSTIN, June 2.—(AP)—An offer to sell the Legion Memorial Hospital at Keerville to the United States Veterans Bureau for more than $1,600,000 has been made by the state of Texas, it was learned today from Chairman S. B. Cowell of the board of control, upon his return from Washington.

MARKETS

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—Reaction price predominated in the early part of today's stock market, but the demand for stocks increased as trading progressed and prices rallied briskly from the morning lows. The recovery was aided by the easing tendency of the call money market, stiffer lead, rubber and scrap steel prices and the usual crop of dividend and merger rumors.

Chief financial interest today centered, however, in events outside the stock market. These included the publication of the government cotton crop estimate, showing a condition of 76.6 per cent of normal, as compared with 65.6 per cent a year ago, whic hwas followed by a break of $1.50 to $2.00 a bale in cotton futures, part of which was later recovered: the quick over-session of the $45,000,000 Argentine loan within 24 hours after the successful offering of the $30,000,000 Norwegian issue, and the announcement that a syndicate of local bankers, headed by J. P. Morgan and company had granted a $50,000,000 revolving credit to Italy for use in the stabilization of exchange.

Maxwell Motor issues continued to monopolize speculative interest in the stock market. Maxwell Motors "B" which sold as low as 33¼ earlier in the year, soared 10 points to a record top at 120, despite the announcement that the stock exchange had started an inquiry into the trading interests. The credit which represent the stock which have been deposited under the recapitalization plan, jumped 9¾ to 119¾. The "A" stock duplicated its record high of 120 and then dropped 2 points.

Other motors were mixed. A brisk demand developed for Hudson which advanced 4 points to a new high at 62. Nash Motors jumped 4½ points to a new peak at 436 on a few sales. Jordan was heavy, dropping 2½ points to 42¼, or within a small fraction of the year's low.

Strength and activity of American Can, which was run up 3⅝ points to 191½, featured the trading in the standard nidustrials. Baldwin rallied from a low of 115½ to 118 and then sagged a point for a small fractional loss on the day. United States Steel common closed fractionally lower at 114⅝. Dupont jumped nearly 5 points to a new peak at 174⅝.

Heavy trading in the St. Paul issues and the establishment of a new record by Southern Railway at 97⅞, featured the trading in the railroad shares. St. Paul common closed fractionally lower at 8⅝ after selling above 10 while the preferred showed a net gain of 1⅜ at 15⅛.

Call money held steady at 4 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Resumption of trading in the foreign exchanges after the Whitsuntide holiday abroad was followed by the establishment of new records for the year by French and Belgian francs at 4.94 and 4.81 cents respectively. Italian lire rallied from 3.95 to 4.08 cents on the announcement of the Morgan credit. Demand sterling ruled slightly lower around $4.85⅝, or approximately the "gold export" point.

"SOUL FIRE" OFFERED AT STRAND

Richard Barthelmess Here In His Latest Offering Wednesday

Richard Barthelmess' new production, "Soul Fire," which opened at the Strand theatre, is one of the big pictures of the screen year.

The appearance of Mr. Barthelmess is always an occasion of great interest, for this star is singularly gifted in personality and ability. His new picture, however, is one of extraordinary merit.

"Soul Fire," is adapated from Martin Brown's drama of a young musical genius, "Great Music." Mr. Brown is the author of a number of Broadway hits, including "Cobra" and "The Lady," from which Norma Talmadge made a screen hit, and knows how to write effectively for the theatre.

This story concerns a young American, Eric Fane, gifted to the point of genius in music. Fane, obstructed by his parents and circumstances, has not been able to find himself. His struggles to write a great symphony leads him from Italy where he has been studying, to Paris and finally to Port Said, "the wickedest city of the world," and the South Seas.

It is not until he disentangles himself from the superficialities of civilization and gets back to the simplicity of nature itself that he can express himself brilliantly in music. Of course, the fact that he findes a great—and simlpe—love in the South Seas may have something to do with it, too.

This is a story rounded with romance and fine acting opportunities. But, best of all, it is an adventure into a new dramatic technique. For the story itself is Fane's own symphony, translated into pictures. Thus "Soul Fire" opens with a symphony concert in New York. The scene fades into the first movement of the great symphony, which is the experience of Fane in Italy.

The second movement carries him to Paris, the third to Port Said and the final movement to the South Seas, the camera swinging back between each to the symphony concert. All of which is a striking example of transferring music to pictures.

Mr. Barthelmess is surrounded by a brilliant cast. Bessie Love plays Eeita, the great love of the South Seas, and the cast includes Helen Ware, Walter Long, Charlotta Monterey, Rita Rossi, Effie Shannon, Lee Baker, Harriet Sterling Arthur Metcalfe, George Pauncefort, Percy Ames and Harry Redding.

The picture was produced by John S. Robertson for Inspiration Pictures, Inc., and is being released through First National.

"Old Home Week," Meighan Picture Concludes Wednesday

"Old Home Week" will have its last showing at the Olympic theatre tonight and those who have not seen it have this last opportunity to do so. The old time fiddler and banjo picker will also appear for the last time tonight. This team has scored a big hit with the audience every time they have appeared. They are musicians of the old square dance days and their playing of the old familiar tunes is a treat to hear.

"Old Home Week" is Thomas Meighan's latest Paramount Picture and was written for him by George Ade. It is a story of American small town life and has all the humor and romance that is true to "Main Street."

The Olympic will play Navimova's new picture entitled "The Redeeming Sin." It is a mystery play of the Parisian underworld with its Bohemia, Apaches and dens. It is said to be a true narrative of the life among these people and one that keeps the spectators on his seat's edge throughout.

Accompanying her are Lou Tillengen and fat, jovial old Otis Harlan.

Accompanying the feature is a new Christy comedy entitle "Sit Tight" and the latest Pathe News. This program will be shown through Saturday.

May Postpone State Textbook Selection Until Monkey Trial

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 2.—Plea that selection of biological text book for Tennessee schools be deferred until a decision has been handed down on the Scopes evolution case today was before Governor Austen Peay in the form of a letter from John Neal, defense attorney in the Scopes case.

By waiting until the case has been decided, the letter said, if the Tennessee law should be declared unconstitutional the text book commission would be free to select "one of the many excellent text books on the subject of biology," since, the letter declared, "every standard work on science accepts the theory of evolution."

"If, on the other hand," the letter said, "the anti-evolution law is upheld the text book commission by adopting a book accepting evolution would place the science teachers of the state in the same embarrasing position as Scopes—of either refusing to comply with his duty to teach the books selected by the legal authorities of the state or of violating the law."

KANSAS REDS

into a position from which point he would be able, by use of artillery fire, to dislodge an enemy from the nearby mountains. But tomorrow the problem will begin to assume shape and then the air branch of the service will be brought into play.

With 60,000 acres in the military reservation and even larger acreage in the adjoining Wichita national forest reserves, the army has ample room to work its big war time problem. The reservation was picked from the whole United States domain as the most ideal for artillery problems. There are thousands of acres of rolling prairies now covered with waving grass, streaked here and there by small wooded streams. Then on the western portion of the military reservation and over practically all the forest reserve there are mountains, wooded to the summits and with timbered valleys.

War Moves Are On

Early Wednesday when the red army has moved to the edge of the mountains, General Snow, accompanied by Gen. George Leroy Irwin, commandant of the artillery units at Fort Sill, and members of their staff will go into the field with forces. The airplanes will scout during the day. The air force consists of 29 De Havilands, seven Martin bombers and three "E" fives, or pursuit planes. All these planes flew here from Kelly Field under command of Capt. R. C. Candee, who has with him a force of 48 officers and 48 men of the air service trained specially in the special experiments to be made and which have neve never before been made in conjunction with artillery fire. officers say.

Because of the fact that thousands of service shells are to be fired by the artillery and real bombs dropped by the planes, the red army is to be simulated by carriages and silhouettes.

ROOT ROT

to get a cotton that is resistant to root rot. They have not succeeded. It has been proven that it spreads by the contact of one living root with another; that it is carried over the winter in this section by tie vines, morning glories and wild gourds. It can be practically eliminated from farm lands by clean farming and proper rotation of crops.

Worst in July, August.

Naming the mouths of July and August for the annual visit of root rot, Mr. Jones potnted out that damp years apparently made it spread worse than do dry years.

"From my observation last year," continued Mr. Jones. "Irrigated cotton did not suffer from root rot to any where near the same degree as did dry land cotton."

Discussion coincident to the agricultural agent's message brought out the suggestion from some members of the club that Lake Kemp water might have something to do with the fact that root rot was not prevalent on Wichita county irrigated cotton lands.

Iowa Park sent Earnest Birk to the Tech club with a message on that from eight to nine thousand acres of cotton planted could be counted on the irrigation project around that city. He estimated that there was probably twelve to fifteen thousand acres in cotton on the project this year. Last year, he said, 1,700 bales were ginned at Iowa Park. This year, in anticipation of a seven or eight thousand bale crop, two new gins have been built. He said that there were some crops outside of cotton being planted, principally oats, corn and feedstuffs.

W. M. Priddy, president, presided and before the evening closed an enjoyable program was rendered as follows: Solo, dance, Miss Isabel Waller, with Mrs. O. H. Berryman at the piano.

FARMER AVERS HE IS FAMOUS CHARLEY ROSS

Hope Renewed That Famous Crime of 1874 Will Finally be Solved

YORK, Pa., June 2.—Has Charley Ross been found at last?

Daniel Peters, a farmer of Longstown, York county, believes he is Charles Brewtser Ross, whose kidnaping in 1874 precipitated one of the most famous unsolved crime mysteries in American history.

Perhaps a thousand times in the 50 years since the boy was snatched away from in front of the Ross mansion in Philadelphia, "Charley Ross" has been found. Before he died Christian K. Ross, the father, investigated 300 such cases, ever hopeful of finding his son.

Peters tells a strange story involving a gypsy camp, a death-bed plea of a woman he once supposed was his mother, and of mysterious actions of the man he was led to believe was his father. He lately has come into the possession of evidence which, he says, supports his conclusion that he is Charley Ross, and he has begun an investigation of the mystery surrounding his origin. Friends note a resemblance between his face and pictures of the stolen boy.

Enticed by Candy.

Charles Brewster Ross, then four years old, was kidnaped July 1, 1874, while playing behind their home with his brother Walter, six, after two men in a buggy had persuaded them to go to a store for candy and fire crackers. Walter was sent into the store to do the purchasing. When he came out the buggy and Charley were gone.

On July 4, the father, a wealthy dry goods merchant, received a letter stating that Charley was being held for ransom. In two days another letter came, demanding $20,000. The father, badly advised, it is said, by friends who persuaded him the boy could be recovered without the payment of money, didn't attempt to pay the ransom immediately. This he always regretted. In four months the abductors wrote 12 more communications. Enough of the correspondence was disclosed occasionally to keep in motion a tidal wave of sympathy that surged throughout Pennsylvania and the nation, and eventually the whole world.

Month after month the case filled columns in the newspapers. Private citizens spent time and money to expedite the search. Letters and telegrams poured in on the father. Cranks began writing in, declaring they were responsible for the crime, giving the police and the harrassed father enormous trouble. The Reading railroad made up a special train that Ross might be reunited sooner with one of the more promising Charleys in the west. The Western Union gave him free access to its wires. Pictures of Charley went all over the world.

Confessed Crime.

Eventually it developed that a "master mind" had possession of Charley. He carried on a strange correspondence with Ross and the police, who answered him through personals in newspapers. He was reluctant to give up the boy until he could be certain that he would collect the money without being caught. He proposed devious ways of delivering the cash. But each time, by chance or caution, the delivery was prevented.

One Joseph Douglas, who it is believed, really knew Charley's whereabouts, confessed to police that he did, but died before he could tell what had become of the boy. He revealed that one William Mosher, a burglar, also knew. Mosher was killed outright while committing a robbery, and thus his lips were sealed, too.

The police have never come any nearer than this to the solution of the crime. In a few years interest in the case died away. It was believed Charley was dead.

PRINCIPLES IN FAMOUS CHARLEY ROSS CASE.

Sub Rosa—Mimi

By MIMI.

MARRYING THE FOREIGNER.

Dear Mimi: What do you think are the chances of success in marriage—when the man is a foreigner, and the girl is a hundred-per cent American? Do you think they always turn out badly? So many of my friends think I'm making a rash move in planning to marry a foreigner, when I might have married an American boy just as well as not. Do you think I'm foolish, too?" PEGGY.

No I don't think marriage to a foreigner is necessarily an unsuccessful business at all, Peggy.

All marriages require adjustment, and probably you'll need to do more adjusting, for a while, than most brides.

But if he is going to live here in America with you—and become accustomed to American ways and customs, there is no reason in the world why you both shouldn't be very happy.

Of course the notion that international marriages are usually disastrous originated in the fact that foreigners have always been supposed to treat their wives with less respect and deference than the American husband shows his wife.

Still the modern foreigner is not so very different after all from the modern American—and just as the practice of wife-beating has long been extinct in all civilized countries, so the habit of treating a wife as a sort of housekeeper has died out with all really nice foreigners.

So many girls, nowadays are rather anxious to marry foreigners, Peggy, that really you should be rather pleased with yourself at having annexed one.

Loads of American girls think there's nothing so fascinating as a man from another part of the world who can bring to them glimpses of a new land, and new strange customs.

If you love your husband you won't mind his having little peculiarities not found in American men. There won't be anything so radically different in him that you will be caused any worry by it.

And on the other hand, you may find in him some very delightful traits which aren't ordinarily found in the American husband.

Personally I think you're due to have a very happy future—and if his being of foreign birth is all that's on your mind, I shouldn't let it worry me at all if I were you.

Rhoda J.: Tell your mother all about your troubles. Truly you'll find it's an immense relief to get it off your mind. And then when she has had her say on the subject, come to me again.

If any of you want my special beauty exercises or "How to Overcome SelfConsciousness," or "Food for Conversation," please send me a stamped, addressed envelope, and I'll be glad to send them to you.

Governor Ross Puts Ban on Prize Fight

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 2.—Governor Nellie T. Ross today telegraphed the sheriff and prosecuting attorney at Casper calling upon them to prevent the meeting of Harvey Perkins and Captain Bob Roper, heavyweights, in a boxing bout scheduled to be held there next Friday. The governor called the attention of the county officials to a state law making the promotion of prize fights a misdemeanor with a maximum penalty of six months in jail and 100 fine.

An Empire marriage bureau has been proposed for England.

More than half of Germany's exports now are by rail.

Man Who Put Color In Gold Comes To Wichita To Demonstrate His Art

The man who has come closer, perhaps, than any other to achieving the dream of alchemists of the ages—that of making synthetic gold—has established himself in Wichita Falls and as the artisan he is devoting his talents to the service of the jewel-loving public here.

His name is Lewis Winat and while he claims no occult powers as a producer of precious metal, he was the first man to devise a process whereby the natural color of gold can be changed. It was he who invented white gold and later green gold and the other tints that are now common enough in the jewelry trade.

Mr. Winat began more than 10 years ago to experiment with the process that, after six months' work, yielded a white gold that is now the universal favorite for wedding rings. With copper, brass, aluminum, silver, antimony, bismth and other metals he is able to produce alloys of any tint of the rainbow but which, in combination with gold, contain the basic qualities of that most precious of all metals. Mr. Winat claims to be able to duplicate any shade of color known "from an egg shell to an autumn leaf."

He was born in Marseilles, France, coming from a family of jewelers of long lineage. He has traveled the world over and has gained a vast fund of experience in shops and factories in Europe, Africa, the Orient and the States.

At present he is connected with Dave Paul, prominent local jeweler, and has adopted Wichita Falls as his home in a state he has long admired.

SIGN CAUSING HOUSTON ROW IS DISPLAYED

McClurkan's Brings Dallas News Publicity Exhibit To Wichita Falls

The huge Texas advertising sign prepared by the Dallas News, the Dallas Journal and the Semi-Weekly Farm News for the edification of delegates at the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World convention in Houston a few weeks ago has been brought to Wichita Falls and is on display in a window of McClurkan's.

The sign took on considerable import at Houston when it was the cause of a squabble between an official of the convention and the Dallas News representatives who set it up in the lobby of the Rice hotel.

Objections Were Raised.

Objections were made to it on the grounds it was intrusion by Dallas and a spirited altercation raged. The sign was taken down.

Standing nearly six feet, the sign is a huge hollow box with an immense map of Texas painted on the outside. Electric lamps are set over nine of the largest cities of the state, while arranged in panels of threes on the left hand side are glass-enclosed photos of the business districts of the same nine cities. Behind each picture is a powerful electric light.

A flashing apparatus controls the lamps and starts out by illuminating the picture of San Antonio. At the same time the small bulb over San Antonio's point of the map begins to glow. These burn for several seconds and then another picture lights and the bulb for the corresponding city on the map flares out while the lights of the city just preceding is darkened.

Nine Cities Specified.

The nine cities thus arranged are San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, El Paso, Wichita Falls, Galveston and Austin.

Several other advertising plates for the Dallas News, the Dallas Journal and the Semi-Weekly Farm News are scattered along the lower edges of the sign. Across the top is a huge banner, "Wichita Falls, the Sixth City of Texas."

RAIL REORGANIZATION TOLD

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul to Come Out Again.

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—The complete plan for the reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, in receivership since March 18, last, which was made public tonight by Kuhn, Loeb and company and the National City company, as reorganization managers provides for an exchange of more than $464,000,000 in securities makes possible the liquidation or funding of all the short term debt of the road including government loans and involves an assessment of $28 a share on the preferred stock and $32 a share on the common stock.

Hospital Permit To Boost Week's Total

Another banner week in building permits was assured here Tuesday afternoon when a permit for $98,000 was taken out by Reid and Costly, contractors for the new Jones, Lee and Keil hospital going up at Eighth and Bluff. Permits for the day totaled $107,100, four other much smaller projects being started at the same time.

The permit issued for the new hospital shows that it will be of brick construction, four stories in height and 64 by 131 feet in dimensions. It is to be completed in eight months time.

PICKFORD "PLOT" SCOUTED

Los Angeles Authorities Refuse to File Charges Against Three.

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—(AP)—District Attorney Asa Keyes, today refused to issue a conspiracy complaint against three men arrested by the city police Saturday accused of plotting to kidnap Mary Pickford, film star. Keyes ordered the whole affair aired before the county grand jury. Attorney for the defense issued a statement characterizing the arrests and reported confessions of the men as "a frame up" among police informers.

EIGHT JURORS ON CARPET

They Are Alleged to Have Discussed Improper Matters.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 2.—Eight jurors alleged to have discussed improper matters in their deliberation of a civil case in the 57th district were ordered Tuesday to appear before Judge R. B. Miner and show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court. The jurors are alleged to have violated the charge of the court in discussing matters which did not apply to the case on trial and which had not been introduced in evidence.

MURDER STORY IS TOLD

Killing of Albert Stahl and Luz Casias Is Detailed.

SAN ANTONIO, June 2.—A sister and a niece of Joe Slavin, charged with murder of Albert Stahl and Luz Casias, 13, with tear filled eyes and trembling lips reviewed the story of the shooting of Stahl at the trial of Slavin in 94th district court Tuesday. Slavin is on trial on the charge of murder of Stahl and the case charging murder of the girl is pending.

COUNCIL MAY BANISH CURB GAS STATIONS

Long Talked of Action May Be Taken Following Squabbles

A move that has been discussed more or less seriously a number of times may be given serious consideration within a few months, it has been learned in connection with squabbles between the city council and several business men who wish to put in curb filling stations in the business district. There is a strong possibility, it seems, that all gasoline pumps located on curbs within the fire limits may be ordered removed.

This question is one that has perplexed the council for several years. An ordinance was passed some time ago prohibiting the installation of additional curb pumps, but various means have been devised to get around this, and complaints are constantly received that permission for operation of those already in and refusal to allow others to come in is nothing less than discrimination.

Mayor Shepherd and commissioners, however, believe that the best interest of the city will be served by eliminating filling of gas tanks right in the busiest sections. It is expected that a vigorous fight will be made by operators of such pumps to retain them, but a move looking to their withdrawal is expected in many quarters within a short time.

WICHITA DRAWS HOT ONE

City Swelters In One of Hottest Days Of Year.

While reports came in of deaths from heat prostrations and intense heat waves in the north, middle west and east, North Texas and Wichita Falls sweltered in a torrid spell of their own yesterday. It was one of the hottest days of the year.

The sky was motted with clouds and a stiff wind blew from morning until night, but the sun boiled down with unshaded fury and the breeze only seemed to blow the thermometer higher.

Little relief has been promised by the weather man for Wednesday.

PIONEER FIRMS IN CITY HELP ITS EXPANSION

Leaders in Finance And Business Profit Even As They Serve

Hail to the pioneer firms of Wichita Falls. They are, as one old-timer put it yesterday, the bedrocks upon which Wichita Falls measures its rise to the preeminent position is now holds among the large municipalities of Texas.

It would take volumes to tell the history of the city's pioneer firms, yet in the fleeting moment of retrospect there are dates, names and memories which ever return as the history of the city is retold.

McClurkans Serves

There is for instance, the W. B. McClurkan company, a part of Wichita Falls' mercantile history since 1906 when it was first established here. From a small and unprepossing establishment of the early days, it has grown to one of the largest, finest and most completely equipped furnishing stores in the state.

Then, in an entirely different field, is found the City National bank, which for 34 years has stood as one of the Gibraltars of finance of northeast Texas. Through sound, constructive banking service it has risen to the enviable post of one of the great banks of Texas—an institution that measures its success not alone by its profits but by the service it renders its customers and its city.

In still another field of endeavor is the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, which for a quarter of a century, has supplied Wichita Falls with that means of communication that is now as essential in its way as is food and drink. Under trying conditions, in lean years and prosperous years, the telephone company has maintained that service that means much in the development of cities.

Another Bank.

Another financial institution that has seen Wichita Falls grow—and has grown with it from humble beginnings, is the Wichita State Bank and Trust company. Since 1909 this bank has been rendering a full measure of banking service to North Texas and has reared its own reward even as it has assisted others to reap theirs.

The Noble-Little Hardware company is a firm that can remember the days when horse blankets, surrey whips, and old-fashioned wood burning stoves were principal items of hardware in place of radios and automobile parts. It started in business when the men from the wide open spaces came in to buy spurs and saddles. It has seen its merchandise shelves change from stocks of implements such as those to the modern pieces of cutlery, and it, too, has prospered in the transition while it helped others to prosper.

Cook County Tax Refusal Called Joke

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 2.—Governor Len Small today characterized the action of the Cook county board of commissioners in resolving not to pay state taxes as "a huge joke."

CHICAGO, June 2.—Because Illinois legislatures for several sessions have declined to redistrict the state to meet population changes, Cook county, comprising the Chicago area, has determined not to pay the state's portion of taxes collected by it.

Protesting against "taxation without representation," the Cook county board of commissioners unanimously adopted yesterday a resolution directing the county treasurer to withhold these funds until the state's attorney advises the board that the general assembly has performed every duty assigned to it by the constitution.

The commissioners contended that legislators' refusal to reapportion membership of the assembly violated the solons' constitutional oaths depriving the county of its right representation. The commissioners said this act has caused the members to become members of an unconstituted body.

The constitution stipulates that after each federal census steps to bring about a This has not been done since two federal censuses. The county treasurer, said withhold from the state 4. this year's taxes which is hange.

Springfield it was pointed out the statutes provide that if a official fails to comply with law in reference to tax payments and his bondsmen may be compelled to pay one-tenth of one per cent a day on the sum withheld and that he may be removed by court proceedings

Auspicious Plans For Auto Meetings Arranged by Club

The Automotive Dealers association held its regular luncheon Tuesday at the Wichita club, James King, president, presiding. A motion was passed that on the evening of Tuesday, June 16, the association would hold open house with a banquet with similar meetings every 60 days thereafter. These will be a get-together meeting in which every dealer will have his entire service and sale force present. The object is to get better acquainted with the personnel of each respective organization. The meeting will be conducted strictly along educational lines. Prominent district and factory representatives will be brought from distant points to lecture on vital points of the retail automobile industry.

212 Years Residence Is Total For 5 Prominent Wichita Falls Citizens

Speaking of "Old Home Week."

Five prominent Wichitans who have been in this city for years and who have played a conspicuous part in its advancement can look back on a combined 212 years of residence and service here.

Judge M. H. Barwise, who is now probably the oldest of the wore well known pioneers of Wichita Falls, came here with his daughter, Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, in 1880, or 45 years ago. The city then, of course, was little more than an Indian village and western cow town. They have seen it grow from that humble beginning to the point it now occupies as sixth city of Texas.

Another veteran Wichitan has also been a resident here for 45 years—T. C. Roberts, who also watched the city rise from the cross-roads store village type up through the status of a town, small city, and finally a real one.

Five years after the Barwise family and Mr. Roberts came, another figure that is now an important one in the civic and business life of the community appeared — P. P. Langford, president of the City National bank. Mr. Langford arrived in 1885 and has been here continuously for 40 years.

Mr. Langford had a three-year head start on Judge A. H. Carrigan, long one of the leading members of the bar in this city and Texas as well. Judge Carrigan came in 1888 and now has a 37-year residence here to his credit.

The Wichita county man with the greatest number of years residence in the county, so far as is known, is M. Dodson, an aged veteran who now lives in Burkburnett. Wichitans here last night do not know just how long he has lived in this section of the state, but Mr. Langford, Wiley Robertson and others asserted Mr. Dodson was conceded to be at the head of the pioneer list. He was here when the others came and was an established "pioneer" at that time.

DAWES LEADS SENATE FIRE, AVERS TEXAN

Tom Connally Claims That Senate Faces Strong Opposition

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, June 2.—The new birth of democracy and representative government resulting from the world war can be saved for the world only if America justifies her existence, Tom Connally, representative from the eleventh Texas district and member of the congressional committee on foreign affairs, declared here today in a commencement address to the graduating class of A. & M. college.

Representative Connally said that it was a singular thing that "while Europe is turning toward representative government, there should arise both in England and America attacks made on the parliamentary systems of these countries." He referred to attacks made on the senate rules by Vice President Charles G. Dawes and attacks made on congress by representatives of big business, citing statements of Judge Elbert Gary of the United States Steel corporation.

Sketched Changes.

He sketched the change in European government incident to the World war comparing the new political institutions of the old world with those of the United States. He noted the number of monarchies that had fallen before the onrush of democracy.

"No other governmental system ever has been devised that meant so much to the happiness of the people of ours," he said. "but if representative government is to be saved for the world it must be saved in America and must be worked out through the processes of constitutional and legal principles in keeping with the nature and development of the time.

"It is significant that while Europe is thus turning toward representative government, there should arise both in England and America attacks upon their parliamentary systems. And in the United States, where we live under a written constitution, violent attacks are being made on the power of the supreme court to declare unconstitutional acts of congress.

Vice-President Leads.

"No less a personage than the vice-president is conducting a campaign against the powers of the senate. Representatives of big business, like Judge Gary of the steel trust, are from time to time attacking the congress. In the face of these assaults the uestion arises, is there any system of government better than that which we possess.

"The congress, under our constitution, is the sole direct representative of the people. If it fails, representative government fails.

"If democracy is to live in the world, America must justify its existence. Here we must apply its principles. If centralization makes the federal power too cumbersome, we must demobilize it by constitutional and legal processes. If democracy is to be safe for the world, its safety must first be assured here. The educated mind of America is responsible for that safety. To that task you are now summoned.

"As the graduates of Eton, England's famous school, were credited by Wellington as responsible for the victory at Waterloo and as their achievements in literature, in dipomacy and in politics became not simply Eton's glory, but the glory of England, so will the useful careers of the students of the A. & M. college become the glory of this institution and the glory of their country."

City to Award Oil And Gas Contract

A contract may be awarded some time this week for the year's supply of gasoline and oil to be used by city-operated automobiles and trucks. The council has had before it for some time a number of bids from local and outside oil companies for supply of these commodities, but until they have been figured out and compared no definite action will be taken.

The large fleet of machines engaged in municipal work consume an enormous amount of gas and oil each year and this item is no small one in the city's expense.

Dallas Murders Three Wichita Falls Hurler s To Snare Opener

BOVINES COMB 24 SAFETIES OFF WILLIAMS, LINDSTROM AND MORGAN IN WIND STORM

Tanner Gang Routs Schuman and Conley, But Is Held in Check By Lefty Brown

By BLONDY CROSS.

Spudder bludgeoners trouped back into the home fortress Tuesday after a 16-day conquest of foreign ports apparently a bit the worse for wear, with Dallas' Herd right at their heels. The Bovines, unhampered by a stiff wind storm which nearly blew the top of the grandstand away, in fact, aided to an extent, gained an advantageous position in one wing of the citadel on its first drive of a scheduled three-game attack, toppling our hitherto proud Spudders, 12 to 8, in what proved a hilarious festival for everybody but the Tanner gang.

Three Wichita Falls pitchers met sudden and sad demise. Two Bovine twirlers went the same route.

The Dallasites punched a total of 24 cracks to the open spaces, the Spudders 11. William Carl Williams, the wily veteran, was bruised brutally in the opening stanza, and gave way to Axel Lindstrom, the Swedish right hander, before the inning was over. Lindstrom went down under the ferocious and animal-like drive of the Dallas crew in the third. Big Dick Morgan advanced to the altar, and quelled the riot for two frames but was socked wildly in the sixth and seventh, albeit many of the blows were puny punches hefted along by the scurrying zephyrs.

The Spudders, no matter how lame an excuse it may be, were very unfortunate in that the wind aided them not in the least in poling out base clouts. However, they routed Lefty Schuman from the hillock in the first to even up a three-run lead amassed by the Steers during their sally on Willard Carl. Sniper Conley, the great Dallas starboarder, was injected when Schuman passed from the picture, but the Sniper heard the mortuary knell of the undertaker's bell in the fifth. The Spudders, incidently, popped Conley with sufficient safe slaps in the fourth to again overtake a three-tally margin.

Same Clubs Today.

They'll be at it again this afternoon. Skipper Tanner probably will send Williams back into the affray. Bob Osborn is expected to return from El Paso tonight, and probably will get the call Thursday.

The Garoner herd was restless at the start, and when Carl passed Rabbit, first batter, broke off on a halfportion stampede which cluttered three Dallas markers in the run column and completely obliterated the Spuddr right hander. Bauman, second bovine up, snapped one at third, Dorman forcing Rabbitt at the keystone. Pete missed completing a speedy double play by no more than the meager span of an inch. Rhino Williams followed with a blistering bust down the port foul boundary for two cushions. Bauman tabulated. Red Kearns bruised a bloody blow to left center. It was a single, scoring Rhino. Kal Segrist advanced Kearns to third with a long single to right. Buddy rescued Carl, and Lindstrom inherited the chunking chores. O'Brien bounced to Distel just to the left of second. George fielded with one fell swoop to cut Segrist down at the keystone. Kearns scored on the play. Kahdot aviated to Bodie in left.

Tie Her Up.

Our noble Spudders couldn't be inconvinced by such a situation as the scoring of a trio of enemy chalkers, so they promptly slipped out in the domestic half of the first and knotted her up. Pungent pokes by Callaghan, Bodie, Fitz in succession along with a couple of miscuse, and a single by Golvin netted the three nuggets.

They had to send for Dick Morgan to round up the herd and head the wild rush in the second, but it was not until after the riotous cows had run over Axel, forcing Tanner to call in the ambulance again. Lindstrom departed the scene of strife bearing various and sundry hoof prints on his anatomy, a mangled but still fighting figure, while the home scorers with misgivings wrote in on the debit side of the ledger, four base knocks, including doubles by Rabbitt and Williams, and three more tallies. Morgan mounted the hurling eminence with Kearns on first by virtue of a single. Segrist, the well-known cowboy, laced to two-bagger to starboard. Kearns was held at third. There were two away. O'Brien frounded out to Distel.

They Get on Sniper.

Now Mr. Conley was highly effective for the matter of two full innings. In fact, he couldn't allow our walloping athletes so much as a lookin as far as safe raps are concerned. He walked three straight in the third after there were two down, but Dick grounded to the box for a forceout at the platter. But in the fourth, the Tanner outfit bubbled over with bops to virgin territory. Two-sack swat by Distel started it. Cal followed with a punch between first and second to score him. Bodie sent Callaghan across with a resounding smack against the scoreboard. It was a two-bagger. Fitz hoisted to right, and Ping went to third after the catch. He was held to his station when Turge bounced out to Segrist, but came in to tie the count once more on saccharine slam past second by Golvin.

The fifth round was exceedingly disastrous from a Wichita Falls viewpoint, for the Steers rocked in with a quartet of tabulations on the same number of base biffs and an error a-field. The breaks were all awry for Dick. Kahdot, the Indian obtained from Oklahoma City by the Gardner regime, pecked a fly to right squarely into the breezes. The sphereoid buzzed around dizzily through the ozons, and then corkscrewed to earth, just eluding the frantic clutches of Irish Marty, and going for two bases. Billings, old Josh himself, wafter a Texas leaguer, another scratch bingle, back of second, and the Redskin checked in. Conley stung a stiff one to right, his third safe lick. Rabbit singled to center. Fitz bobbled, and Billings scored. Sacrifice clouts to right by Bauman and Williams chased over the other two.

Out Goes Sniper.

A single by Morgan and four-ball coupon served to send Conley to the hotel in the latter half of the fifth chapter. Brown, another left hander, assumed the hurling role. He squeezed through with no casualty.

The tumultous herd continued on its rampage in the sixth, scoring a pair on four hits, one of which was of the immaculate variety and others that just hadn't oughta been. Freddy Dorman lost a pop in the wind back of third, thereby allotting Rhino Williams his third double for the matinee. Kahdot hoisted another whirring Texas leaguer to right. Brown poled a long fly to left center that the gale worked havoc with, and Fitz missed it. Then Rabbitt rifted a clean single to left.

The warring factions became suddenly subdued at the close of the sixth, and neither accomplished more than a momentary ripple until the last half of the ninth when the Spudders menaced mildly, in fact, tapped the paying counter for a pair. The scores were the direct results of errors on fly hit to center by Dorman and grounder to short by Jonnard followed with a one-cushion clip between first and second by Distel.

Marvin Knocks Out Ferguson

Tommy Marvin, Florida light heavy, stopped Joe Ferguson of Indianapolis in the fourth round of a scheduled tenrounder on the Bruce Cobb Post, American Legion, fight program at Lake Wichita Tuesday night. Ferguson had led the going up to the fourth. He was dropped with a hard right to the midriff.

Walter Varner, Fort Worth middleweight, won the referee's decision over Russ Beckwith of Clinton, Okla., in the ten-round semi-final. The fight was full of action, and went over well.

Rattlesnake was given a decision over Deep Valleq. The bout could have been called a draw without stretching a point. The two are negro welterweights.

Red Belcher's Travelers upset the dope bucket Tuesday afternoon on the Twilight diamond by defeating the American Refiners, 8 to 4. This shoved the Texhoma nine into the lead once more.

Pig Iron Murrell, well known semipro spitball artist, and recent Texhoma castoff, was the gent that stepped out on the hill and set up such a fast gait that he hent his former mates up a notch in the race. Murrell was in fine form and allowed the Refiners but five safeties, one a crashing home run by the league leading hitter, Ronie Glidewell.

Riley Rawls, Traveler outer gardner, and Coyal Francis speedy American second sacker, starred in the field. Rawls robbed Varley of a hit in the fourth with a shoe string catch of his line drive. Coyal Francis twice went back of second for one handed stabs of line drives pushed off the bats of Rawls and Murrell.

Red Belcher drove out a home run in the first inning with Rawls and Hicks on the paths. Glidewell's homer came in the second. He was the first man up in that inning.

The game see-sawed back and forth most of the way until the break came in the last of the fifth when the Travelers went into the lead for the last time by counting a pair to break a four and four deadlock. Another pair in the sixth stowed the tilt away.

Glidewell was up to his old tricks in the fourth. Andree gave Delaney four wide ones and was yanked in favor of Glidewell. Gillispie singled sending Delaney to third. Ronie picked Gillispie off first and Francis nailed Delaney who made a break for the plate.

PANTHERS TAKE ANOTHER

SHREVEPORT, June 2.—Bob Tarleton in his new role of manager of the Spots, got the local team off to a big lead in the second game of the series against the Fort Worth Cats but the Shreveporters were unable to hold their margin and the Panthers made a strong comeback to win, 13 to 8. Pilot Fred Luderus left for his home in Wisconsin Tuesday and Tarleton donned a uniform for the first time since 1919 and tried to lead the locals to victory. The Sports scored six runs in the opening inning. Konetchy's homer in the fifth with a man on base tied the score. Pitchers of both teams were hit hard. The score:

GOLF LEADERS ASSEMBLE FOR NATIONAL OPEN

Low Scores Hung up In Professional Team Matches

WORCESTER, Mass., June 2—Leaders among the nation's golfers, both amateur and professional, were assembled here tonight awaiting the opening of the national open golf championship which will be played over the courses of Worcester Country club tomorrow and Thursday. Seventy-two holes of medal play will be spread over the two days' program.

By noon tomorrow, according to the program, 90 professional and four amateurs will have started on their way around the links on the first 18 holes and by evening all will have completed the first half of the tournament. Of this number, five qualified on the Pacific coast, 29 won their right to compete in the midwestern qualifying tournament and 59 qualified from the east. Bob Gardner, who qualified in the midwestern play, decided not to compete and today Isaac M. Mackie, Summit, N. J., professional, sent notice that he had withdrawn. The 94th player is Cyril Walker, Englewood, N. J., defending champion.

Par was shattered several times today—four times at once in the match in which the New York metropolitan district team defeated a picked aggregation of golfers from outside by a score of 10 1-2 points to 4 1-2.

In this match Mike Brady of New York came within a stroke of the 66 set by Bobby Jones, national amateur champion in practice yesterday. Brady's 67 was followed closely by a 68 shot by Walter Hagen, British open and national professional title holder, and 69's by Joe Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., and Jock Hutchinson of Golf, Ill. Going around in practice this morning, Cyril Walker, despite his illness, shot a 69. Par for the course is 71.

Bobby Jones did not fare so well in ten holes he played in practice today. Gene Sarazen, playing in the team match, went around in 72.

This and the other scores were made in spite of the fact that the course was heavy following rains Sunday and Monday.

CITY HAS NO PLACE TO PUT FIRE PUMPER

New Truck Due to Arrive By June 15, But New Station Not Built

With a brand new fire truck scheduled to arrive by June 15, Fire Chief J. L. McClure is wondering what's to be done with it when it does show up. The new fire station he had counted on to house it is not yet built, and activity looking to its immediate construction is anything but encouraging right at present.

The council purchased the machine several months ago and at that time contemplated putting up a new station. Ground offered them for that purpose, however, has been found unsuitable and no steps have been taken to start the building.

For a time the machine will probably be placed at No. 4, the Seventh street station, while the truck now in use there goes to the paint shop. After that, though, he firemen wonder what.

Hawaiians Like Their Dog Well Roasted, Is Latest Word to City

In Hawaii the natives celebrate by digging a hole in the ground, building a fire therein and throwing on a pig to roast. Sometimes, though, and this is authentic, the pig is not a pig at all, but a "large cur dog." In Hawaii the natives dance a dance that an American describes as "obscene!" The reason given is that the belles of the islands trip the fantaistic toe clad in nothing but grass skirts.

Such is thei nformation given in a letter received by Mrs. C. M. Reed, 809 Burnett street, from her son, Charles M. Reed, former Wichita high student and now connected with the McInerny Shoe company of Honolulu.

The letter continues:

"I had read a lot about the islands before I came over, but when you get here it's all a surprise. They try to blend east and west and it hardly mixes.

"The other night we went to a native 'luhan' which is a big feast starting on Sunday morning and ending sometime Monday." Here comes the story on the pig and dog, and is explained by "that is no joke, they like dog meat very much here."

"They have a wonder drink here called 'okahanlon;' they eat rice and tropical fruits, and fish, all colors and kinds. No other meat is eaten even by the whites for fear of poisoning.

"Poi, the great native dish, looks like mush, but it 'ain't.' The natives eat it by sticking their fingers about six inches into the sticky mess and as the stuff clings to their fingers they wrap it gracefully about their digits and lift it to their lips and the deed is done. It sounds easy, but try it."

Porker Prisoner In Jail Sleeps in Stew Cell and Drinks Milk

"They kept the pig in the jail house.
Oh, btye kept the pig in the jail house.
They kept the pig in the jail house—
And it was Morton's, too."

Meaning that Rufus captured a small but noisy porker somewhere on the wilds of Indiana avenue yesterday and for want of better accommodations locked it up in the "stew" cell at the city hall.

That wasn't the main point, though, for late in the afternoon the big cop appeared with a nursery bottle filled with milk and properly equipped for action. His pet, however, wasn't susceptible to such sissyfied dietary measures and promptly pulled the top off. Morton caught half a pint in one shoe, buried the other half way to the hell in an animated side of bacon and —departed.

It seems the cops are to have a parade before long in connection with the carnival here for the police fund benefit and Morton wanted the pig as a mascot when he went on exhibition.

NO CAR WRECKS TUESDAY

Return to New Parking Rules Brings No Disasters to Light.

Tuesday proved to be another day in which no serious automobile accidents were reported as a result of the switch back to 45-degree angle parking in the business districts. Fear had existed in some quarters that this style parking with high speed necessitated by the traffic lights might have an element of danger, but the public has fallen easily into the old way and no crashes or jams have resulted at all.

A minimum of arrests have been made for violation of the new rules.

Diary of a Famless Man

Dear Folks:

To those who did not see the introduction given me Tuesday morning by the Record News beg leave to say I have arranged with this newspaper to chronicle my experiences as "The Famless Man" during the six weeks my wife, Ethel, and four-year-old daughter, Katherine, are vacating in Iola, Kan. They left Monday afternoon.

Tuesday, then, was the first day I was without them.

Got up about 7 o'clock. Couldn't sleep any longer for it was so warm and came to town and to my office. I feel rather lost. As this is written, about 8 p. m., I am exhausted from answering the salvation of my friends "Wife's gone?" "Free once more?" and so on, until the next time anyone makes such a wise crack at me the Record News will have murder to write about.

Business was dull today—too hot. I'm dull. Feel sort of lost and aimless as it were. There comes to the married man who is so suddenly left alone in what but yesterday was a home of teeming domesticity a nervousness unexplained. He wants to break away from the loneliness of the walls and the rooms—and— Ishall break away as soon as I finish this epistle for the day. Yet, where to?

But, as for the day. I breakfasted at the Kemp. Ran into Joe Carrigan. Asked him where he had been keeping himself so long a time and said he had been busy. Sat at the counter, but ate alone. Nice waitresses, those girls at the Kemp. One with red hair waited on me. Rolls and coffee and asked me "Is there anything more." There's another there with snapping black eyes. Going to sit at her end of the counter tomorrow. Joe Huckins shows system about his grill room, especially as to the tact of his waitresses. It is a pleasure to be served by them. Especially the red-haired one.

Back to the office. Letters to dictate. Didn't have any zest for the work. That stenographer of mine—I don't know, she's getting on my nerves. Efficient and all that, but some how or another too efficient. I think stenographers to be correctly efficient should be trim in appearance, good looking and pleasant.

Didn't eat lunch. Back to the office and a call from ————. No, young fellow, no fishing for me yet. And so I close. I quote a telegram from Ethel from Fort Worth:

"Arrived O. K. Lonesome. Wish I was home. Don't forget parcel post Iola today package tan linen in rear closet special deliver."

Oh, well, one day won't hurt. I'll mail it tomorrow, and now for Tom Meighan and "Old Home Week" at the Olympic.

Yours for the day,
"THE FAMLESS MAN."

18 Acres Per Capita in U. S.

If all the land in the United States proper could be equally divided among its inhabitants, each one would have, roughly speaking, about 18 acres, based on the latest population estimate. This estimate of course included desert and mountains and other forms of untillable lands as well as the tillable and inhabitable areas.

London women now wear sombreros.

NOTORIOUS CONFIDENCE MAN TO BE BROUGHT BACK

FORT WORTH, June 2.—W. R. Spencer, member of the notorious Joe Furey confidence gang which swindled J. Frank Norfleet out of his life-time savings several years ago in Fort Worth, will be returned to Fort Worth within the next few days.

Railroad rates for iron and steel in Germany recently dropped nearly one-third.

LAST RITES OF 800 PINTS LIKE A WAR CHARGE

Sheriff's Office at Courthouse Hears Enchores Like The World War

Pop! Bang! Pst!

The sheriff's office at the court house sounded like a machine gun testing laboratory early Tuesday night as Sheriff Fred K. Smith, Joe Blocker and others performed the last rites over most of a huge choc beer catch that late yesterday afternoon netted 800 pint bottles of liquor. With the exception of enough to be used as evidence later on, all of it bubbled down nthe drain pipe of a wash basin.

The liquor was seized by Deputy Sheriff White in two raids on Iowa Park residences. Seven cases of pint bottles were found at one point and the balance of the 800 at another. Two men, M. Stillwell and J. H. Stillwell were arrested and complaints filed against them in the state courts last night. Sheriff Smith signed the charges, which allege possession of intoxicating liquors for the purpose of sale.

After the catch had been brought to Wichita Falls the sheriff was in a quandary as to what to do with it. His liquor vault was already filled with evidence captured in previous instances, so he called Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court and obtained an order to destroy all but enough to serve as evidence in the trial of the Stillwells.

Sheriff Smith applied a cap to the first bottle and a bang and spurt followed. Foamy suds shot nearly to the ceiling, bathing the sheriff's face and chest as it came. Aprons and towels were brought out and a systematic invasion begun of the tightly capped bottles.

More than two [illegible] were required to open and pour out the contents of all the bottles but the few being saved for evidence.

RIO GRANDE LEVEE BREAKS PROBABLY PREVENT FLOOD

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, June 2.—Two large breaks in levees on the Mexican side of the river, one at Tabuacha, 15 miles west and the other at Huastica, five miles east are taking large volumes of water from the Rio Grande and probably have prevented a flood in the valley. A fall of ten inches is reported at Rio Grande City.

Warm Sun Brings a Rush Day at Auto Camp in Scotland

With warm weather here in earnest, business at the municipal tourist camp in Scotland park has increased perceptibly the past few days. Ten cars were reported camped in the park Monday night and the daily quota of machines arriving from widely scattered portions of the country is slowly but surely growing.

City officials in charge of the camp's operation expept that the number of tourists accommodated there this year will greatly exceed that of last summer when the camp was opened for the first time.

In connection with the increase in activity of the camp, it was announced Tuesday that the difficulty between the city and property owners bordering the camp grounds, who was allowing tourists to camp on his ground collecting a nominal nightly fee and directing them to use water, cooking and other facilities supplied by the city on its own grounds, had been settled. The land has recently changed hands, it was said, and the new owner has agreed to keep all tourists off his property.

He will move his family to Anson in July.

CREST REPORTED PASSED AT RIO GRANDE CITY

C. M. Waggoner Case Dated For Retrial in 89th On June 29

A special venire of 150 men has been summoned to report to Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court on June 29 when the case against C. M. Waggoner, former city policeman under indictment for murder, is set for trial.

This will be the third time Waggoner has been tried. On the first trial he was convicted and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. The case was later reversed and he was given a new trial. A hung jury resulted from this attempt.

Waggoner is charged with shooting John W. Webb, a neighbor, in an altercation at their Third street home in the summer of 1922.

IF SICK TODAY! TAKE NO CALOMEL

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Straightens You Up Better Than Salivating, Dangerous Calomel and Doesn't Upset You—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee

I discovered a vegetable compound that does the work of dangerous, sickening calomel and I want every reader of this paper to buy a bottle for a few cents and if it doesn't straighten you up better and quicker than salivating calomel just go back to the store and get your money back.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your thirty feet of bowels of the sour bile and constipation poison which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable.

I guarantee that one spoonful of this harmless liquid liver medicine will relieve the headache, biliousness, coated tongue, ague, malaria, sour stomach or any other distress caused by a torpid liver as quickly as a dose of vile, nauseating calomel, besides it will not make you sick or keep you from a day's work.

Calomel is poison—it's mercury—it attacks the bones often causing rheumatism. Calomel is dangerous. It sickens—while my Dodson's Liver Tone is safe, pleasant and harmless. Eat anything afterwards, because it can not salivate. Give it to the children because it doesn't upset the stomach or shock the liver. Take a spoonful tonight and wake up feeling fine and ready for a full day's work. —Adv.

As Wichita Falls Grows So Do We

Wichita Falls Then

As we look back over a period of years, we see a wee speck of a town on the banks of the Wichita, just a mere village. The population of this little village was then only a mere handful of struggling people.

Then, too, we see the old-fashioned horse and buggies tied to the old hitch post, switching their tails at mosquitoes and other insects that infested the village. There was no idea at that time of paved streets, and street cars for Wichita Falls—it was just a small village.

Wichita Falls As It Is Today

Today we look around us and on every corner we see almost unbelievable development and growth. Large brick buildings have taken the places of the old, dilapidated frame structures. Paved streets have replaced the old bog holes of yore. The automobiles have dismissed Old Dobbin and in every nook and corner of our city we see signs of development. Wichita Falls today with its 60,000 population bids strong to be the metropolis of Texas.

Our Part

In serving the people of Wichita Falls with a big store of household hardware it has been a source of pleasure, as well as enjoying a share of profit, to be counted among the many who are contributing to the building here, a greater city.

For the liberal patronage that has made our success and growth possible we are indeed grateful and wish to assure all that in the future as in the past we will endeavor to merit the confidence shown in us.

LET'S GET TOGETHER

Over a Quarter Century of Telephone Progress

The story of the Telephone from an "Ingenious Toy" as it was looked upon less than half a century ago, to a device that, in Wichita Falls, is being used thousands and thousands of times every twenty-four hours, is too well known for retelling here.

A quarter of a century ago the Telephone company was telling its patrons how to get the most value out of the telephone. This policy prevails today with the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. In addition to providing dependable service, it is believed that the public should be kept informed about the companies' business and the obstacles it must overcome, that there may be a better understanding between the company and its patrons.

Because it has no competition in the local telephone field this company feels itself in honor bound not only to render a service that is as nearly perfect as human effort and mechanical skill can make it but to maintain a relationship with the public that is cordial and sincere.

To this end we are endeavoring to bring to the public mind the fact that the telephone instrument in your home or in your office is something far more than a mechanical device, that it has behind it an army of men and women and millions of dollars worth of intricate equipment all working in wonderful harmony.

It is a matter of great pride with the company that it has not only kept pace, and will keep pace with Wichita Falls splendid growth, but it has kept pace with the improvements which from time to time have been added to telephone equipment.

Courtesy and Personal Service

The Telephone Company is no different from any other concern that sells its products. We manufacture service and through the medium of our sales people or operators we market that service to the public.

Our operators know their business and their products and believe in them both. We want your business and we make our service as nearly mechanically perfect as the ever present human factor will allow.
