Will Take 150,000 Agents To Guard Borders, He Says; Missouriian Says No Honest Effort Is Made

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—With the opening of general debate on the billion dollar treasury-post office appropriation bill in the house today, wets and drys indulged in their annual battle over prohibition enforcement. The measure carries $12,500,000 for dry law enforcement.

Laguardia, republican, New York, started the row by charging there was no desire by the administration to enforce prohibition laws in dry states and if the drys really wanted to continue the "noble experiment" that $250,000,000 and 150,000 agents would be required to guard American shores and borders.

Need Somebody to Watch

"Then after you have employed these 150,000 agents," the New Yorker declared, "you will have to have 150,000 others to watch them."

He pleaded for the right of each state, especially New York, to solve its own problem and attacked what he said was the "low" practice of agents of employing their wives to tempt to break laws. He was interrupted by a dry, and the only other speaker on the subject, declared that while he was for national prohibition, the federal government had not made an honest and sincere effort to enforce it.

Red Cross Drive Gets Under Way

Red Cross Pins Are In Evidence Over City As 100 Workers Swarm Business District; Continue Today

Red Cross pins were in evidence everywhere in Lubbock Thursday, even on men and dresses on coats being altered by them to the number of several hundred, as a result of the annual red cross drive to raise $5,000 for work of the Lubbock chapter of the American Red Cross, which began yesterday morning.

Approximately 100 workers were canvassing every office and store in town, from about 10 a. m. for the remainder of the day, under the direction of George F. Kuykendall, general chairman of the drive. Twelve teams, headed by captains, put in the day at this work and will report at the chamber of commerce this morning at 9 o'clock.

Hope Completion Today

Following a report of the day's work of Thursday, the teams will continue the drive, if portions of the city remain unworked, and it is hoped that the entire amount asked for will have been raised today.

Every cent of the $5,000 asked for will be utilized in caring for strictly local Red Cross work here in Lubbock.

Local School Is Recognized By Educational Organization; School Is Well Represented In Meet

PORT WORTH, Dec. 6. (AP)—The recognition of the state's two newest educational institutions, Texas Technological College, at Lubbock, and South Texas State Teachers college, Kingsville, featured the opening session today of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of Southern States being held here. The annual banquet of the group was held tonight.

Texas was depicted in the Southern educators today in the welcoming address of President H. T. Benedict of the University of Texas as a state containing all manner of people from "gun totin' desperadoes" to "self-sacrificing preachers." His address mainly humorous, turned to the history of the state and in closing he termed Texas as "Land of the underdog" not yet in possession of its full voice, but predicted that it will "speak in loud tones in the next generation or two."

Stock Market Has Setback Thursday

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (AP)—The "bull" market, soaring into new heights almost daily since election day, crashed with a terrific thud today as the price of more than 100 stocks dropped as to $2.00 a share on the panic-stricken liquidation of a large army of speculators throughout the country.

Measured by the Associated Press averages of 30 leading industrial and 20 leading railroads, which dropped $9.45 and $4.25, respectively, it was one of the quickest and most drastic shake-outs in recent market history.

The marking up of the call money rate from 9 to 12 percent, the highest level in eight years, started the flood of selling orders which cut down or wiped out paper profits of thousands of small traders and left countless others with large losses staring them in the face. Many of the gains of the last three weeks were wiped out in the last hour of selling.

Iowa Farm Boys Share Honors In Chicago Contests

Clarence Goecke, State Center 12-Year-Old Sells Champion Steer In Auction For $8,000

Gets $7 Per Pound

His Prizes Total More Than $9,000; Paid Only $55 For Steer; Exposition Is Greatest In History

CHICAGO, Dec. 6. (AP)—Two young farm boys from the same county in Iowa have flaunted tradition and placed their names indelibly on the records of the International Live-stock Exposition alongside state universities and veteran cattle raisers.

These lads are Clarence Goecke, 12, of State Center, and Keith Collins, 13, of Lincoln, both in Marshall county, Iowa, who shared premier honors of the exposition in the two chief classes of competition against the nation's best. It was the first time youngsters have won these highest prizes.

New Record Price Paid

Goecke made the old timers sit back as his grand champion steer of the show went off the auction block today for more than $8,000 at $7 per pound, almost doubling the previous high price for king of the steers. Other prizes brought his total to more than $9,000.

Rivaling the 12-year-old champion was Collins in the carcass class, one representing the pinnacle of success in steers on the hoof and the other the apex of animals slaughtered.

Paid $55 For Steer

Young Goecke had paid only $55 for his steer, buying it last year from his father.

The entire show has been the greatest in history. Attendance records being broken with as many as 50,000 persons visiting the amphitheater in a day.

Farm Leader Sees Defeat of Measure

Chairman Haugen Has A Grave Doubt For Passage Of Adequate Legislation At This Session

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—Farm relief was discussed for an hour today by the house agriculture committee and after the session Chairman Haugen of the committee said that grave doubt existed as to possibility of passage of adequate legislation on the problem at this session.

Even friends of agricultural aid were divided in opinion, he said, regarding the possibility of enacting a comprehensive and effective farm law in the three-month session of congress.

New Bill Not Discussed

The new bill introduced by Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, was not discussed at the committee. This measure described as designed to meet administration views on farm relief, does not contain the provisions for features of the twice vetoed McNary-Haugen bill. It is not considered adequate by many house members.

Atwell, without leaving his bench, wrote a letter to the United States District Attorney's office in Fort Worth, ordering an investigation.

Marvin Jones Appeals To House For More Use of South's Cotton Crop

Texas Congressman Explains Need for Real Farm Relief That Is Using Products; Says Cotton Takes Place Of Silk Now; Tells of Industrial Possibilities

(Should To The Avalanche)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—Congressman Marvin Jones, of Texas, today delivered a speech in the House on the subject of "The New Kingdom of Cotton," in which he particularly stressed the recent miraculous achievement of modern chemistry and manufacturing in making from cotton a cloth that closely resembles silk.

The Texas congressman reviewed in detail the many centuries during which the Chinese possessed the secret of how to manufacture silk, later the secret becoming known to India and these two nations for many years selling to America more than $400,000,000 worth of silk each year, hundreds of ship loads of this material being brought to the shores of America to satisfy the demand of this nation for it.

Revolution Is In Progress

"An industrial revolution is in progress," said Congressman Jones. "For years chemists have been searching for substitutes for high priced luxuries. A German chemist, after years of toil has found a process chemically analogous to that used by the delicate consumer of the mulberry leaf. It is an artificial silk altogether different from Rayon, which latter is made from wood pulp, and other plant fibre. Strange to say the commodity that is being translated into this marvelous fabric is none other than our own familiar cotton, of which the South produces two-thirds of the world's supply.

"For years, as a member of the committee on Agriculture, I have

Trial Closes After 4 Days of Testimony; Rancher Now Faces Indictments for Cattle Rustling Also

LAMESA, Dec. 6. (AP)—A jury which had deliberated almost 24 hours late today found Will Luman, 40, guilty in the fatal shooting of Marvin Breeding, 23, in a theatre at Post, Texas, in 1927 and fixed the penalty at three years.

The verdict was returned after it appeared the jury was hopelessly deadlocked.

Breeding died three days after being shot as he stood in the aisle of the theatre. Luman, who had called Breeding from his seat, declared he fired after Breeding had made a "hip-pocket motion."

The defendant accused Breeding of having made improper advances to Mrs. Luman.

Hoover's Policy of Immigration Is Given Opposition In Senate; Brings Revival Recent National Campaign

Names of Political Candidates Crop Up In Debate Over Changes In Immigration Provision

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Herbert Hoover's advocacy of repeal of the national origins provision of the immigration act was opposed in the senate today by a republican, Senator Reed, Pennsylvania, in a debate which brought the first revival in congress of the recent national campaign.

The names of Mr. Hoover and Governor Smith cropped up as republicans and democrats in turn attempted to question each other on the immigration views of their respective presidential candidates. The debate also disclosed a distinct senate cleavage over the national origins provision which will go into effect next July 1, unless repealed.

Based On 1920 Census
Under the national origin proposal the quota for each nation would be based upon the 1920 census instead of those of 1890, and the dispute over it has been based on the contention that this change would favor one part of Europe over another. A tentative quota arranged on the 1920 basis finally has been drawn up and Senator Reed declared opposition to it already was coming from German, Irish and Scandinavian peoples whose quotas would be reduced. Great Britain, he said, would benefit most by it.

Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, asked Senator Reed if he would oppose a recommendation by Mr. Hoover such as he made in his acceptance speech for repeal of the national origins provision.

"Mr. Hoover speaks for himself," Reed replied. "I speak for myself. We have votes now and he has not and I will vote against any attempt to kill the provision."

Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, who fought Governor Smith, came into the free-for-all to declare that the democratic presidential nominee favored unrestricted immigration and "the whole Tammany crowd voted against the national origins provision."

Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor Minnesota, then took the floor and assailed the national origins provision as unworkable and recalled that the officers named to establish it had been unable to agree on it. Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, and Haines, republican, Wisconsin, protested against the inflow of immigrants from Mexico, suggesting that federal prohibition forces on the border be used to stop immigrant smuggling.

Damage Suit Here Ends In Hung Jury
For Second Time Case Of Grove Against Sharp Is Deadlocked; Sharp Files Counter Suit

For the second time, the case of John Grove versus Mike Sharp resulted in a hung jury Thursday, in the Ninety-Ninth district court. The same case was tried before Judge Clark M. Mullican several months ago.

The case is a suit for recovery of a string of oil well drilling tools, which the plaintiff alleges were loaned to the defendant, in 1921, until such time as plaintiff should demand their return, and that recovery of same was demanded on March 5, 1927, but refused.

Wednesday, a suit was filed in the Seventy-Second district court by Mike Sharp, against John Grove, in which Sharp asks damages of $10,000, of which $5,000 is for actual and $5,000 for exemplary damages, alleging that his reputation was injured because of slanderous statements made about him by Grove. This cross-action involves the same tools as the one resulting in a hung jury in the other district court.

New Sights Lie Before Mrs. Hoover On Tour

On her South American tour with the president-elect, Mrs. Herbert Hoover (left) will see modern, as well as quaint sights. The Lima country club (above) in Peru is one of the finest on the southern continent. Of interest in Argentina are the outdoor classes in the schools, such as that shown at the right.

By SUE McNAMARA
(Associated Press Feature Writer)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Adventure, something she is accustomed to, will be the lot of Mrs. Herbert Hoover on her trip to South America.

In line with her unusual experiences in China and other distant places with her mining engineer husband will be this voyage on a battleship, a distinction accorded but few women, into some of the most interesting countries on the globe.

See Bird Life
Cruising along the South American coast she will see some of the most remarkable bird life in the world, especially interesting to her as a lover of nature and the outdoors. Magnificent scenery will surround her when she crosses the Andes on the highest railroad in the world. Summer sports and social life, smart Parisian costumes, viing with the bright colors of native dress, will be seen on all sides. For when the Hoovers are south of the equator the season will be equivalent to the North American summer. Country clubs, beach hotels, racing courses, golf, polo and soccer football will offer diversions.

One of the finest country clubs in South America is situated on a concrete road stretching from Lima to the sea.

Clothing Must Vary
For the trip Mrs. Hoover needed an extensive assortment of clothing, for she will swing from tropical heat to the snow covered top of the Andes, where furs and woollens are required. Evening gowns for dinners and receptions in Rio de Janeiro and other large cities, sports clothes for events in Santiago and Valparaiso, must be augmented by clothes for travel by boat and train. At the races and country clubs in Chile and Brazil Mrs. Hoover will see Parisian styles which women in this country will be wearing next summer. She can go to the most modern of hair-dressing shops, for the wealth and fashion of Europe adorn the South American capitals and Paris spreads the choicest luxuries and conveniences in the shops there.

Mrs. Hoover's enthusiasm for football is well known and she probably will attend games of soccer football, popular among the Latin Americans.

Of interest to Mrs. Hoover will be the activities of children in Chile and Peru. Gymnastics are an especial part of the school training and hundreds of agile youngsters in white participate in drills and dances. Many of the classes in various subjects are held outdoors.

Crosbyton Sees Much Building In Past 11 Months

Thirty New Residences And Several Brick Business Houses Are Built; Gas And Sewers Installed

(Special To The Avalanche)
CROSBYTON, Dec. 6.—The contract has been let and construction started today on two $3,000 brick veneer homes here. They are being built by O. B. Seward who has built three other homes in Crosbyton this year. The four store brick building on the southwest corner of the square recently completed by R. H. Fralin is now occupied by Mr. Fralin's drug store in the corner building. Collier Barber shop and the Quinary Abstract company occupying two of the others, and the fourth will be occupied by S. H. Williams & Son dry goods merchants recently moved here from Chillicothe. The completion of these new business houses make a total of nine new business bricks to be built here this year, two new bricks having been built on the northwest corner of the square and three on College Ave. The Crosbyton post office has been given new quarters in one of the buildings built by E. H. Hendricks on College Ave. About thirty new residences have been built this year. The building of more and better homes was stimulated by the installation of natural gas and the sewer system.

Building Permits Climb Higher Here

December's building totals soared another $13,600 Thursday with the issuance of two permits for that amount, both for fine residences. Hugh Taylor secured a permit for erection of a 16-room brick veneer residence at 2207 Broadway, cost of which was given as $8,500. M. W. Thompson being named contractor. The other permit was taken out by L. E. Thomas, for a seven-room brick veneer residence at 1924 Twentieth street, cost $6,000 and W. B. Adkins as contractor. This month's total now is $36,500 for nine permits, while that for the year is $3,134,666, for 639 permits.

TO REVIEW BOOK

A book is to be reviewed by Dr. Jack M. Lewis Sunday evening when the First Presbyterian Endeavor meets at the church.

The house on Massacott street makes many of us wonder, too. If the substitute which we have been able to find for the old-fashioned, prosaic, home-living which makes us all rush to modern apartments, is a real substitute at all as far as personal happiness goes.

The Coolidges want to think that a big inconvenient house to tend to worth their while even if they must have many more inner capacities for more diversified interests than most of us!

The house is big, but most unpretentious. It looks rather old and sprightly and inconvenient, and though its many shuttered windows, porches and vines that clamber up its side spell sunlight and air and brightness, one knows that the man and woman who would choose such a home put little premium upon the "modern conveniences" which lure those of us who can into apartments where somebody else tends to such prosaic matters as stoking furnaces and hauling forth ashes and lighting the hot water tank and raking up dead leaves and shoveling snow from the walks.

Somewhere the picture of the sprawling frame house does not speak of many servants. It distinctly announces that Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, now the president and the wife of the president of these United States of America, will return to pretty much that scale of living which they accepted before they became tenants of the nation's most famous house.

Like Old Home

True, this new home probably rents for a little more than $30 a month as did the one from which they came. But they return to small town, middle-class, without frills, living.

When the Coolidges went to the White House there were many stories about Mrs. Coolidge's thrift and housewifely abilities. We were told here she made her own shirts-waists, so a neighbor confided, cut down her husband's shirts for the two boys. We were told of her cooking and preserving skill, her cookie recipes, her complete adherence to all the traditions of the womanly woman on Pennsylvania avenue, the fact remains that Mrs. Coolidge is admitted by even political opposites to be just that very thing.

Their plans for their lives as private citizens are not at all threatened for them. But soon and considered how many of those in the high places are willing to return to the old and humble standard of living after graduation from their pinnacle.

We have a tradition which says that the cares of public life are so onerous that the man and his family who have known the limelight are only too glad to sink into oblivion. But turn the pages of history and see how many of the great and near-great you can find who, after tasting the sweet of power and fame, and living by an accordingly high standard, ever really returned to the sphere of living and thinking from which they started.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton ©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

Biologists, psychiatrists and psychologists are discovering more things each day about children.

Theories are advanced, tried out and discarded.

But the one thing that they all seem to agree upon, is that too much mother is not good for children.

A child to be perfect, according to the newest theory, should have not one mother, but several. These "mothers" should rotate, each being able to give the child one thing in which she is scientifically perfect.

In this way the child will have no dependency—no complex, no inhibitions, no mother fixation; the latter we are told, is about the worst thing that can happen to anybody.

I am on the side of these learned gentlemen to this extent—that I am convinced a good many misguided mothers are ruining children by kindness and weakening them by day their ability to depend on themselves or to be happy anywhere out of their mother's sight.

We all know the mother who has to resort to tricks to get out of the house if she has an errand or a day's shopping to do, or wishes to go to a party.

Indeed, we even know the mother who won't go out at all unless she can take Betty or Tommy along. She trusts no one and refuses even a temporary separation.

Mothers Blameless

Now these mothers are not to blame. Their intentions are the finest in the world. But somewhere in generations past someone gave out the idea that a little child didn't thrive—quite so well out of his mother's company, even for short periods. She also believes that Betty or Tommy love her so well that she can't bear to make them suffer, even for an hour or two.

I shall try to break the news gently to these ladies that the reason their children scream themselves blue in the face when they see her put her hat on, is about one part love to ten parts anger that their comfort is going to be interrupted.

"Mother" is associated with contentment and comfort just as the man in the gray uniform associates blue in his mind with letters.

Tommy wants her there so he can get at her if he needs her. He wants her there to think for him; he likes to know that somebody is around to whom he comes first; he wants someone to be ready to kiss the sore place if he gets hurt; he wants petting.

If she goes away all this is interrupted. He has to come second for a little while with somebody else—or even third. He knows he is not as important to anybody else as he is to his mother.

Every mother should accustom her children to the sight of her leaving them when necessary. It is understood, of course, that she provides for their safety and comfort while she is gone.

Jerry said to Leontine, however, and word was passed that she and Alester were "missing fire." But the only really important thing, in the girls' estimation, was to get to his party and find out what the favors were.

A strange silence fell upon Jerry as she drove to her hotel with Evelyn. She had no intention of going to the party. What she had said to Leontine had been intended to keep Alester from using her further. It wouldn't have done so had Leontine repeated it truthfully. "She wants to go to her hotel first," she said to Alester. "To dress, I think. You'd better come along—some of your guests will be waiting for you. Besides, I want to know why you're so late."

Her voice was fraught with a significance that Alester did not care to ignore. They went out to his car and as they drove to his hotel he made up some excuse for having broken his date with her. It did not approach the truth and Leontine knew it, but she was too wise to question him.

Her hold upon him was growing very slender—timeworn, she called it. But he had not yet reached the point where her fascination failed to appeal to him. At times he forgot Jerry when he thought of Leontine. But she had tricked him and he'd discovered it; since then she had held him only by the fullest exertion of her charm.

Tonight neither of them wanted to quarrel. Alester wasn't ready to break and Leontine was fearful of it. But Jerry always rode uppermost in his thoughts when she seemed most remote.

When an hour had passed after his party was well under way in the suite of reception rooms he had engaged for the occasion and she had not arrived, he went in search of her.

Jerry was in bed and no amount of pleading over the telephone could induce her to get up and dress. Evelyn offered to lend her the new evening gown she'd never worn but Jerry steadfastly refused to attend the party.

Alester went back to his guests with a cold anger rising within him. Leontine glided to his side and put her hands on his arm. She was dressed in cloth of gold, a sheer fabric into which pure gold had been sprayed, and her skin was covered with tawny makeup. Her black hair was tight against her shapely head and her big black eyes were pools of emotional depths.

As she leaned against Alester and smiled up at him, he was reminded of a Bengal tiger. Black and gold. "Golden skin and a black soul," he laughed.

She was a woman for a man—not that little kitten with her prim "don't touch me" attitude. He put an arm around Leontine's HIGH FLIGHT. "Gee! Gal 3 waist and walked with her to the improvised bar. They drank cocktails. There was a room for dancing. Leontine swayed in rhythm with the music.

"Drag me around," she said, putting down her glass. In the "dance she made love to him. Her perfume, her eyes, her laughter—she used them all, and an arm about his neck, caressing fingers stealing up to his ear.

At supper she had made him forget Jerry completely. He gave her Jerry's place beside his own. And he gave her something else that he had meant for Jerry. It was a square case that Leontine opened with eagerness.

A jade bracelet, set with a priceless emerald, lay on the white satin lining. Leontine emitted a cry of admiration and slipped the jewel upon her arm.

"Here," Alester fumbled in his pockets for the jade and emerald ring. He'd have given that to Leontine, too, had it not been in the pocket of the suit he'd worn down from New York.

Leontine admired the bracelet and thought what a fool Jerry was. Jerry, asleep with her head on a pillow beneath which she had tucked a precious piece of paper, was dreaming of a man with dark blue eyes and a very, very stubborn chin. He was going to kiss her.

That part of her dream Jerry remembered very clearly in the morning, but she could not remember why he hadn't.

Evelyn had called to her suddenly and sent her dream recollections out of her head for the moment with the demand that she look at the paper.

Evelyn had read it quietly up to a certain point. Then, "Oh, Jerry," she cried and jumped out of bed to run over and shake Jerry by the shoulders. "Jerry, you've got a position! Listen to what the critics have to say about you."

Luque And Donohue May Don Giant Uniforms In 1929

Eight Class A High School Elevens To Clash On Gridiron This Week-End

Trades Fly Thick And Fast At Big Baseball Meeting

Draft Question Is Postponed Until Later Date; Minors Favor Broadening Scope Of Draft

(By Associated Press)
TORONTO, Dec. 6.—While the minors were talking of the draft and other things behind closed doors today, a rumor arose that either Adolfo Luque, Cuban pitcher, of the Cincinnati Reds, or Pete Donohue, also of the Reds, or both, will wear New York Giant uniforms next year. The rumors did not specify the New York talent to be transferred to Cincinnati.

Herschel Bennett, outfielder, of Springfield, Mo., has been sold by Milwaukee, of the American Association to Birmingham, the Southern Association.
Fred "Red" Bennett, another outfielder, who played last season with Tulsa and then was sold to Milwaukee, has been sold to Wichita Falls in the Texas League by the Home Brews.

Fred, who hails from Arkansas, is not related to Herschel but both played with Tulsa at different times.

Gabby Street, former battery mate of Walter Johnson, and later a minor league manager, signed today with the St. Louis Cardinals and will be assigned a managerial post somewhere in the Cardinal chain.
Clarence Rowland, former White Sox manager and American League umpire, was tendered a position as manager of the Nashville Club and took the offer under advisement.

The draft question, of consuming interest to this convention, was postponed and probably a special meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues will have to be called to consider it.

A resolution was adopted this afternoon calling for a conference at West Baden, Indiana, early in January at which committee representatives of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues and the unaffiliated draft will meet with committees from the leagues of small classification which are unanimously in favor of amendments proposed at this convention to widen the extent of the draft.

Try To Arrange A Meeting Next Year

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 6.—The vexing matter of the draft, or selection of baseball players, by the majors from the minor leagues will not be decided at the 1929 convention of the National Association. The question, which has been the subject of the convention late today and with comparatively little discussion was postponed to an indefinite date.

A committee from the "AA" and "A" leagues will try to arrange a meeting with a committee from the majors at West Baden, Ind., early in January to seek a compromise by which the leagues, now operating under only a restricted draft, may be brought under the full force of unlimited selection.

Any broadening of the scope of the draft will be agreeable to the class "B," "C" and "D" leagues and a majority of the "A" leagues.

If there are changes to be made in the operations of the draft they will have to be approved by mail or at a special convention as the next convention will not be held until the first Wednesday in December, 1929, at Chattanooga, Tenn., selected today as the next convention city.

Other amendments submitted by the major-minor advisory council, dealing with baseball affairs other than the draft, will be taken up at a meeting tomorrow. Most of these proposed changes deal with technical administration.

At today's session the convention ruled that the existing territorial rights of ten miles from cities in leagues in the National Association should be maintained regardless of intervening state lines. The subject

Strolling Down Sports Lane

With Allan Carney
Avalanche Sports Editor

Coach Henry Frka of Lubbock high has recently been negotiating with Sherman High school officials for a post season game between the Westerners and Bear Kats, runners-up for the championship in District Five. Sherman boasts a powerful football aggregation this season, having lost the district title to Greenville last week in an uphill battle by the score of 12 to 6.

The Bear Kats can be brought to Lubbock if the fans of this city show sufficient interest in the contest. A game between the two teams would undoubtedly draw a large number of football enthusiasts from the surrounding section and should prove an interesting spectacle. Above all, it would furnish an accurate comparison for the class of football played in West and East Texas. Let's have some opinions on the matter!

If the game is set for next weekend, both teams will have ample time to prepare for the contest. The Westerners have just recently hit their stride. Each game toward the close of the season has brought a marked improvement in their style of play. A post season game will give Lubbock fans another chance to see the outstanding members of the squad in action for their last high school appearance. What do you say, we out it over?

According to Boyce House of Ranier, the Abilene Eagles are the weakest team that ever represented the Oil Belt district. If the Elephant's are as weak as this Ranier scribe indicates, Amarillo should have a set-up when the two teams meet in Abilene Saturday. On the contrary, a number of experts who have seen the Eagles in action this season insist that Coach Dewey Mayhew has a bone crushing aggregation that is several touchdowns better than Amarillo.

All of which sounds like sour grapes on the part of the Ranger sport writer. We have not seen Abilene play this season but others have told us that the Eagles have a powerful team. His statement that Abilene is the weakest team ever to represent District Two can certainly be questioned. In 1926 the Oil Belt was represented by Ranger, and there were not less than a half dozen class B teams in the state at that time that could have defeated Ranger.

Here is what he says in part: "Abilene has almost no pass defense. They have almost no forward passing attack. Their punting is ordinary, and as far as carrying the ball is concerned, the Eagles have a two man backfield."

The reason that they have won the district crown—as do doubtless everyone is familiar—is because they are carrying the ball after completely smothering Cicco, 13 to 0 and rounding outplaying the Eagles in a 19-19 draw, were deprived of their star backfield man, Lee Hammett, quarterback, the best passer and center in the district and one of the best ground gainers in the district."

Despite the wallings of this Ranger scribe, the game Saturday should be a thriller all the way. Abilene's line is much heavier, more came up in connection with a suggestion that the Western League might place a club at Kansas City, Kans., if the law permitted. This would be a violation of the rights of Kansas City, Mo., a member of the American Association, unless a stipulation could be passed that the ten mile limit should not prevail when a state line was passed.

Eastern Players Named to Play In East-West Tussle

Twelve Stars Have Accepted Invitations To Represent East In Annual Charity Game On Coast

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Twelve football stars have accepted invitations to represent the east in the annual east-west charity game at San Francisco December 23.
Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern university will collaborate with Coach Andy Kerr of Washington and Jefferson in coaching the eastern team, said invitations had been extended to 10 more and that favorable replies were expected.

The twelve who have accepted: End, Barabae, New York university; guards, Thomson, Lafayette and McMullen, Nebraska, Fox, Pittsburgh; halfbacks, Strong, New York university; Weston, Boston college; quarterbacks, Harper, Carnegie Tech and Levison, Northwestern; tackles, Novack, Illinois and Raskowski, Ohio State; fullbacks, Tormer, Northwestern and Howell, Nebraska.

The eastern team will assemble at Northwestern university on December 15 to be outfitted and will leave for the Pacific coast that night, Hanley said.

Ralls Gridsters Awarded Letters

Twenty Members Of Jack Rabbit Squad Receive Recognition For Work During Season

(Special To The Avalanche)
RALLS, Dec. 6.—Twenty members of the 1928 Jackrabbit football squad were awarded their letters by the Ralls high school at a convocation this week in recognition of their season's work.

This has been a most successful year for the Ralls Jackrabbits. Out of nine games played, only one was lost. The last game of the season was lost. Victories were registered 12 to 0; Hale Center, 33 to 0; Paducah, 18 to 7; Idaho, 12 to 0; Littlefield, 14 to 13; Idaho, 12 to 0; Croshon, 6 to 0; Floyd, 6 to 6. The Jackrabbits lost to Post, 39 to 7.

The Jackrabbits are now giving their attention to basketball. Coach "Proctor" Lovorn reports between 25 and 30 men out for practice and prospects are bright for a winning quintet.

PUEBLO GETS SHORTSTOP
PUEBLO, Colo., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Spencer Abbott, manager of the Pueblo baseball club of the Western league sent word here tonight from Toronto, where he is attending the baseball meeting that he had sold Shortstop Knutson to the Kansas City club for Shortstop Chatham and some cash.
He said that the Western league would abolish the split season and that many more deals in the Western league are pending. Abbott has been appointed chairman of the schedule committee.

powerful than the Sandie forward wall, and may force the Panhandle team to resort to the overhead game almost entirely. It will be the first red test for Coach Smith's aggregation.

Tomorrow in Dallas, the Cleburne Yellow Jackets meet Sun-High for the championship of Sections 3 and 4. Marshall, having been given a clean slate by the district executive committee, will also go into bi-district competition, meeting the Greenville eleven or the latter's gridiron. Main Avenue of San Antonio will go to Port Arthur Saturday to decide the honors for South Texas. Both are comparatively weak teams and are destined to fall rather hard in the semi-finals.

Six Years With Reds—A Record

JACK HENDRICKS
MANAGER OF THE CINCINNATI REDS

SPORTS CARICATIST-Writer for Central Press and the Morning Avalanche
Jack Hendricks has just signed the papers which qualify him to manage the Cincinnati Reds for the 1929 season, his sixth with the club, thereby setting a record.

No other manager of the Reds has lasted that long.
Since Charles Gould managed the Cincinnati Red Stockings, in 1876, the club has had 18 field bosses. Only two of these lasted five years. There were William (Buck) Ewing, who reigned from 1885 to 1889, and the late Pat Morgan, who gave the Reds their only pennant. Pat reigned from 1919 to 1923.

Hendricks succeeded Morgan in 1924 after having had some success as pilot of the Indianapolis outfit in the American association.
Though he has won no flags for the Reds, Hendricks has made a good showing, considering the numerous misfortunes he has had to contend with. Like Moran, Hendricks has won the respect and liking of Cincinnati, and in that town it means a whole lot.

Expect 10,000 At Bi-District Clash

Cleburne Yellowjackets Are Picked To Win Over Sunset Eleven In Dallas Today; Games Scheduled

(By Associated Press)
DALLAS, Dec. 6.—At least 10,000 persons are expected to see the Bi-District football game here tomorrow between the Cleburne Yellowjackets, district 4 champions, and the Sunset Elisons, titlists in district 2.

Some observers are picking the Yellowjackets, conquerors of Corsicana last week, to down the Elisons, named representatives of district 2, only after Forest Avenue had been ejected from the race for infraction of eligibility rules.

Another quarter-final tussle scheduled tomorrow puts the Greenville Lions, district 5 champs, against the Marshall Mavericks, winners in district 6, at Greenville.

The two other quarter-final tiffs will be run off Saturday, with Abilene, district 2, meeting Amarillo, of district 1, at Abilene, and Main Avenue High of San Antonio, champion of district 8, playing Port Arthur, district 7, at Port Arthur.

Christy Flannagan, former Notre Dame star, has been coaching the Port Arthur backfield and those who have seen the coast city's eleven in recent games declare it has an attack comparable to that of any high school team in the state.

Texas U. To Play Giants And Yanks

AUSTIN, Dec. 6.—(AP)—With football laid aside for the season and basketball soon to pass on, the candidates for places on "Cude" Billie Disch's Loughorn baseball team are now limbering up preparatory to the spring training season.

Disch has announced an interesting schedule, including games with the world champion New York Yankees, the New York Giants and the fast Oakes team from Japan. Either Babe Ruth or Lou Gehrig, the home run wallowers, will be in the game at Clark field, one of the two clusters it has not been definitely determined. The Yankees will be split into two teams for training season games and one of the star fence busters will be with each section, precluding the appearance of both in the lineup at Austin.

Disch's schedule will be as follows: March 6, New York Giants at Austin. April 3, New York Yankees at Austin. March 27 and 28, T. C. U. at Austin. April 8 and 9, S. M. U. at Austin. April 15 and 16, Texas A. and M. at Austin. April 17 and 18, Baylor at Waco. April 26 and 27, Baylor at Austin. April 30, Oakes team of Japan at Austin. May 3 and 4, T. C. U. at Port Worth. May 6 and 7, S. M. U. at Dallas. May

Oil Belt Will Be For Amarillo In Contest Saturday

Ranger Sport Scribe Says Other Teams In District Are Down On Abilene; Courtroom Winners

BY BOYCE HOUSE
(Sports Editor, Ranger, Eastland)
The Amarillo Sandstorm will not be lacking in well-wishers in this section when they sweep out on the gridiron at Abilene, Saturday—and not all the friends of the Panhandle champions will be folks who come on the special train from Amarillo, either.

Heretofore, the team winning the Oil Belt district championship has had the wholehearted and enthusiastic backing of all the fans of the other cities.

The feeling is widespread that Abilene is a district courtroom title winner and that the Ranger Bulldogs rightfully should represent the oil belt—if the representatives were chosen on their gridiron strength, Ranger walloped Cicco, 13 to 0 and the Lobos only one time during the game reached the Bulldogs' 20-yard line. Abilene, playing the already-beaten Lobos, won, 19 to 13, and was mighty lucky that Cicco receivers, with an open field dropped two passes squarely in their hands. Either pass would have been a touchdown and the extra point would have meant a victory for Cicco. In the game between Ranger and Abilene, the Bulldogs were on the aggressive most of the time and out-played and out-gained the Eagles in the 19 to 19 tie.

Abilene Had Part
Rightly or wrongly, correctly or incorrectly, many fans believe that Abilene had a part in the rooming of the Hammett case after the season was all but over and after the district committee had twice voted that the Ranger quarterback was eligible. That Abilene was in sympathy with the vote to take Ranger's great backfield star from the team was evidenced by the threat made by a representative of the Abilene school that his team would refuse to play Ranger but would claim there was no championship if both Abilene and Ranger completed their schedule without a defeat.

On Thanksgiving day, the Ranger band went over to Cicco to play stirring tunes on the Abilene side. The band was forced to pay admission. It has been the custom in Ranger and every other admission, this writer has advanced the suggestion that Abilene will probably next be charging the opposing team a dollar per player to get in and that the referee and umpire will have to buy tickets. Nominally, all both fans are for Abilene, the oil belt representative but if Amarillo should defeat this year's Eagles there will not be any tears shed.

Not To Be There
The chances are that Ranger's band will not be at Abilene Saturday—once is too much, under some circumstances. In view of Abilene's enthusiasm for charging any and every admission, this writer has advanced the suggestion that Abilene will probably next be charging the opposing team a dollar per player to get in and that the referee and umpire will have to buy tickets. Nominally, all both fans are for Abilene, the oil belt representative but if Amarillo should defeat this year's Eagles there will not be any tears shed.

DALLAS, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Announcement of the acquisition by the Dallas, Texas, League Steers of third baseman Bill Huber from Chattanooga and Outfielder Moore from Kansas City was made in a dispatch to the Dallas News tonight from Robert Tarleton, business manager of the Steers, attending the annual baseball meeting at Toronto.

The message also announced, sale of Glenn Darrough, left-handed pitcher, and Jodie Tate, third baseman, by the Dallas club. Darrough goes to Little Rock in the Southern Association and Tate to the San Antonio Bears of the Texas League.

It reminds us of the westerners, Herr Hamburger, beats Terrible Terrence in Omaha, and loses to him in Chicago. One can almost guess by following the matches for a couple of months, whose turn it is to win next.

Arnold Rothstein never bet on a football game. For an entirely different reason, gamblers dislike like races, wrestling and professional serial marathons. The football can not be fixed and the others can't be unfixed.

How Perfectly Chilling!

With a thud as master of ceremonies and their classmates divided into cheering sections, the freshmen of Trinity school in Philadelphia saw the annual football game from the high and mighty seats, leaving the upper galleries all wet after driving the dead end. Here you see the turning point in the battle, for a cold shower like this would discourage anybody's resistance.

A Quick Start
certainly!
but a lot more, too

YOU expect a quick start from Conoco Ethyl Gasoline and you get it. But you get a lot more, too.
Since Conoco Ethyl is composed of Conoco, the triple-test gasoline, and Ethyl Fluid developed by General Motors, it combines quick starting with all the other qualities of an ideal motor fuel—rapid acceleration, extra power, smooth, quiet running under practically all motoring conditions.
Conoco Ethyl costs a few cents more per week than ordinary gasoline, but it more than pays for itself in freedom from the expense of carbon removal, elimination of the engine wear and tear that "knocking" causes and more power from every gallon.
Drive to the Conoco Ethyl pump and convince yourself.

Contract Basis For Suit Filed

Operators of Dow Printing Plant Broke Contract, Is Claim of Two; Total Sum Asked Is $3,384

CONTRACT BASIS
Suit for rescission of contract and damages to the extent of $3,384, was filed in the Ninety-Ninth district court Thursday afternoon, styled J. H. Newton, R. D. Sterne versus W. Wester and R. E. Wester.

The original petition of the plaintiffs to this suit alleges that misrepresentations were made by the defendants to them, pertaining to the business of the former Dow Printing company, which they were operating, and further claim that salaries of $100 per week were to be paid both Newton and Sterne when the firm of the West Texas Printing company was organized, on September 4, until Newton and Sterne left the firm. The petition also states that the firm was organized under the name of the West Texas Printing company for the purpose of publishing a newspaper and doing commercial printing.

Of the damages, Newton claims $1,384 which he claims was paid by him in cash on contract with the defendants, and $1,300 salary due him for 13 weeks at $100 per week, while Sterne lays claim to $800 due him for salary for eight weeks.

The legal firm of Lockhart and Garrard and F. D. Brown filed the suit for the plaintiffs.

Is Judgless Trial Judge and Jury Are Absent In Case

BEAUMONT, Dec. 6.—(P)—Trial of a case in the Sixteenth district court here proceeded without judge or jury.

When a case of L. F. Matthews for $32,000 damages from the Rio Bravo Oil company came to trial, jurors, clerks, lawyers, witnesses, bailiff and stenographer were present but no judge. It was learned that Judge J. D. Campbell was at the bedside of his wife, who was ill, and with consent of the attorneys he ordered the case to proceed. Lawyers gathered around the official court stenographer and questioned witnesses, made the usual objections and exemptions and this evidence will later be read to the judge and jury, such as the judge permits as evidence.

Santa Sack Contest Presents Chance For Earning of Christmas Fund; Full Particulars of Contest Are Announced

If you want to eliminate that pestilential "financial bugaboo" that presents itself about Christmas time every year, providing you have not already entered into the "Santa Sack" cooperative contest, now is the time to start. The contest is being conducted by the Avalanche-Journal publications and local merchants.

Leading merchants and their newspapers, throughout the United States and Canada are fostering "Santa Sack" contests, full particulars of which have appeared in the Avalanche and Journal last Sunday and Wednesday. We will publish these again on December 9, 12, 16 and 19.

Prizes totalling $300 are being offered locally, plus national prizes of $2,000, winners of local prizes having opportunity to win in the national ones. Local prizes are to be divided as follows: First, $100, second, $50, third $25, fourth $15. There will be 11 prizes of $10 each in addition to these.

The following are the rules of the contest:

Santa Claus' Sack holds $2,300 in cash prizes for those who present the most attractive exhibits of the pages comprising the "Santa's Sack Contest."

Local prizes as above outlined. National prizes offered amount to $2,000.00.

The requirements are simple. Anyone may enter—man, woman or child. All that has to be done is to write plainly and neatly the name of the "Santa's Sack Item" on each package appearing on the Santa Sack pages. They will be found in the advertisements appearing in the Avalanche-Journal papers under the name of each firm whose name appears on the packages seen falling from Santa's sleigh. Turn to the advertisements and you will find in each item followed by the word "This Is The Item for Santa's Sack." "Santa Claus Special." "Santa's Item" or some similar wording indicating clearly the item to which each firm refers. It is not possible to make a mistake.

No Drawings Accepted.

The prizes will be awarded for the best appearing set of pages sent in. Color them if you wish. But they must be original pages that appear in this paper—no special drawings will be eligible. Do not send them separately, but wait until you have completed the last one on December 19th, and send them all in to us. All entries mailed in to this office must bear first-class postage.

See that your entry has your name upon it, and be sure that it is delivered to the Editor, Santa Sack Contest, care this paper by December 20, as that is the day we will close the contest, so that prizes may be awarded before Christmas.

Don't forget that the Santa Sack pages and the advertisements bear-

Automobile License Plates

The time of year has rolled around again, that automobile owners must purchase a license number for the old car or else park her in the garage and leave her there until a time that she may feel able and willing to invest all the way from $15.00 up to the privilege of running the car during 1929. The plates are on hand at the tax collector's office and you can get them now without having to wait very long, but unless the people of Lubbock county are different to what they have been in the past, and are much different from other people in the different counties, there will be few of them bought till the very last minute, and the time to discard the old number and put on the new will have arrived, and past before the new number is obtained.

In connection with this annual automobile license payment we are reminded that before it can be issued owners must present to the tax collector a certificate evidencing compliance with what is known as the headlight test law. That is, before applying for license the owner must go to some authorized station to have the lights tested and adjusted in accordance with provisions of the law. When that is done license will be issued, and, judging by the past, the headlight law goes back on the shelf until taxpaying time comes around again.

The purpose of the law was to promote safety on the highways. It is well known that blinding lights are responsible for more accidents than any other cause. It was to safeguard the public from this menace that the law was enacted, but like many other traffic regulations its enforcement is practically a dead letter. That this is true every auto driver who ventures upon the highways after dark knows. Not only are blinding lights seen but numerous cars with but one light burning and no tail light at all bear convincing testimony to a widespread traffic neglect that is not only inexcusable but dangerous in the extreme.

Assuming that enforcement of the law is a hopeless proposition we see no reason why it should not be repealed and car owners saved the fee, small though it be, for having lights adjusted that can be and in many instances are changed before they are driven a dozen blocks. That would place every car owner on a level, whereas now, the owner who complies with the regulation operates his car at a tremendous disadvantage; the road hog is able to and does blind the driver of an approaching car with lawful lights to such an extent that he either has to come to a stop or go in the ditch.

CREATING BEAUTY

You may laugh when you read this heading but this can be done. It is being done in every progressive town in the country—in the nation. The homes are made beautiful inside and out. The town can be made beautiful too. The railroad stations and yards can be transformed from an ugly, unsightly place to one of beauty and pleasantness. Too many of the towns and cities are careless about the appearance of the vacant lots and the back alleys, and even some of the main streets. There is no reason that a town is naturally pretty like Lubbock is, should be anything less than beautiful. The streets and alleys can be kept clean, neat and attractive to the appearance of any city. The trees should be trimmed and kept in good condition, and this will add much to any street or yard, and the school grounds can be kept clean, and the grass and weeds can be raked together and burned. This means a long step in the right direction. Lubbock has many vacant lots, and they become very unsightly when the grass and weeds are allowed to grow tall during the summer and remain there in this dead condition during the winter, catching the loose papers and other trash that blows about over the town. Let's have a grass-cutting or burning campaign, and clean up all of the vacant lots that mar the looks of the city.

WANTING RICHES

We find very few people who do not think they would be happy if they were only rich. This seems to be a sort of universal feeling, but it does not always work out that way. We read in a newspaper a few days ago an account of a sturdy old plainsman, who was about 70 years old, and had worked hard and endured much, raised a large family, and had many hard struggles to make ends meet. He had succeeded, however, in getting a perfectly good title to several sections of land in a portion of West Texas and the oil drillers came along and punched a hole down deep into the ground on one of these sections, and tapped the liquid gold, and the old plainsman came to realize that he was immensely rich. He had already managed to escape any trouble, so he got in court, but when these great riches came upon him he was brought into court on some sort of suit and heard his life story in the court room, before a curious public. He won the suit, so the story goes, but we presume that he will have others, so it seems that when a man has something that

A Washington Bystander

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—When—ever—the Nicaragua canal is built and the United States establishes a protective naval base off the Mosquito Coast on Great or Little Corn Island, personnel assigned to that station will find a people still talking the English of the days of Good Queen Bess. They are lineal descendants of the British buccanniers who once made letter-of-mark warfare on the fleets of Spain, lumbering up from the south to beat their slow way through the Yucatan Strait and so into the open seas and Eastward-ho for Spain. The two Corn Islands, some 60 miles off the Nicaraguan coast, were the extreme southwestern outpost of the curious double chain of buccannier settlements flanking both sides of sea approach to the bottle neck of the strait itself.

Buccanner Inheritance.
Captain Sherby Hopkins, whose roving spirit led him to remote corners before he settled down to the peaceful business of a Washington law office, has been all along these island reminders of the halcyon days of the Spanish Main. He is authority for the statement that Elizabethan English, still embellished with seventeenth century idioms, is the prevailing tongue among the inhabitants, white or slave. The island population, off the beaten highways of travel for nearly three centuries, have known only slow change in custom or manner of life. They are a sea keeping people, famed for their skill in navigating the swift schooners they build.

Descendants "Reformed."
Incidentally, the name "buccannier," now redolent with deeds of blood and daring on the high seas, synonymous with piracy and the black flag flown by the "brethren of the coast," had no such sinister background when the Spaniards breathed it in fear as they sought safe passage through this zone of terror. In the original Spanish, it was "bucanero," meaning simply wild hog hunters. That was the occupation of the wandering sons of Old England who first settled the islands.

Then came the Anglo-Spanish clash that set them loose to rove the narrow southern seas in search of treasure laden galleons, the swift mobilizing, stinging "mosquitoes" of the Spanish Main. Now-a-days, their descendants are good. Methodists, having been converted by missionary efforts more than a century ago. Captain Hopkins insists that they held prayer meetings every night, and he adds:

"They are dry, too—really dry, not just legislatively speaking. They don't allow liquor on the islands."

On occasion they have reverted to type. The captain tells of a time when an Honduran official touched at one of the islands and made off with a white girl, stolen from the beach. The fishermen mobbed for war as had their forefathers, dashing out in swift schooner to overtake the government cutter and string the offending official to his own signal balyards. It was thus he sailed back to the mainland.

"No," Captain Hopkins says, "nobody troubles those people very much."

DEVELOP THE CHILD'S FOOD HABITS EARLY

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER

Editor Journal of The American Medical Association

And of Hygiene, The Health Magazine

The child who when young learns to eat the proper foods will have no difficulties with his diet later in life.

If through infancy it receives its meals at regular periods and these meals consist of the right kind of food properly prepared, the child will have an appetite at the proper time and eat at the proper time. Regular periods of feeding aid in the establishment of self-control.

In his consideration of this subject, Dr. Lawrence F. Royer emphasizes the importance of regularity in feeding through life. Meals should be served punctually, and intervals permit the stomach to empty, which promotes better digestion and gain in weight.

Hastening Meals.

Meal times must not be hastened. In this regard breakfast is the worst of all the meals, since children tend to sleep late and gulp their breakfast in order that they may get to school on time. Many schools which have a regular 9 o'clock school establishment occasionally one day in which the beginning of school is advanced for one hour. Here the tendency is again to hasten the breakfast on that day, and thus to interfere with the regular eating habits of the child.

If the child is properly fed at meal times, there is little reason for feeding between meals. Indeed, few mothers really know whether or not children eat between meals and how much they eat at such times. The mother should have a record of such feeding in order that she may guide the diet properly and understand the occasional loss of appetite at dinner time.

To Eat or Not to Eat.

Children tend early in life to develop certain food prejudices, including among other things, liver, spinach, cabbage and carrots as foods which they avoid for one reason or another. It is unfortunate perhaps that nature has placed in some of the least tasty food substances the important vitamin factors that are necessary for proper growth.

Doctor Royer suggests that as soon as the infant has reached the age when it can begin to take semi-solid and solid food, the food should be placed before it and the child left to eat the food or not as it determines for itself.

If the child refuses to eat, he should be allowed to leave the table at the end of the meal, but should not be fed again until the next regular feeding time. No matter how hungry it becomes. In this manner of handling the child is persisted in, it will soon learn to eat the things placed before it.

Farmers who raise animals for showing at fairs feed their animals selected diets at regular intervals. The human being's interest in developing prime stock should be at least as scientific as is the farmer's.

... three quarters of the current argument against prudery or modesty in clothing leads ultimately and inevitably to wearing no clothes at all.—G. K. Chesterton.

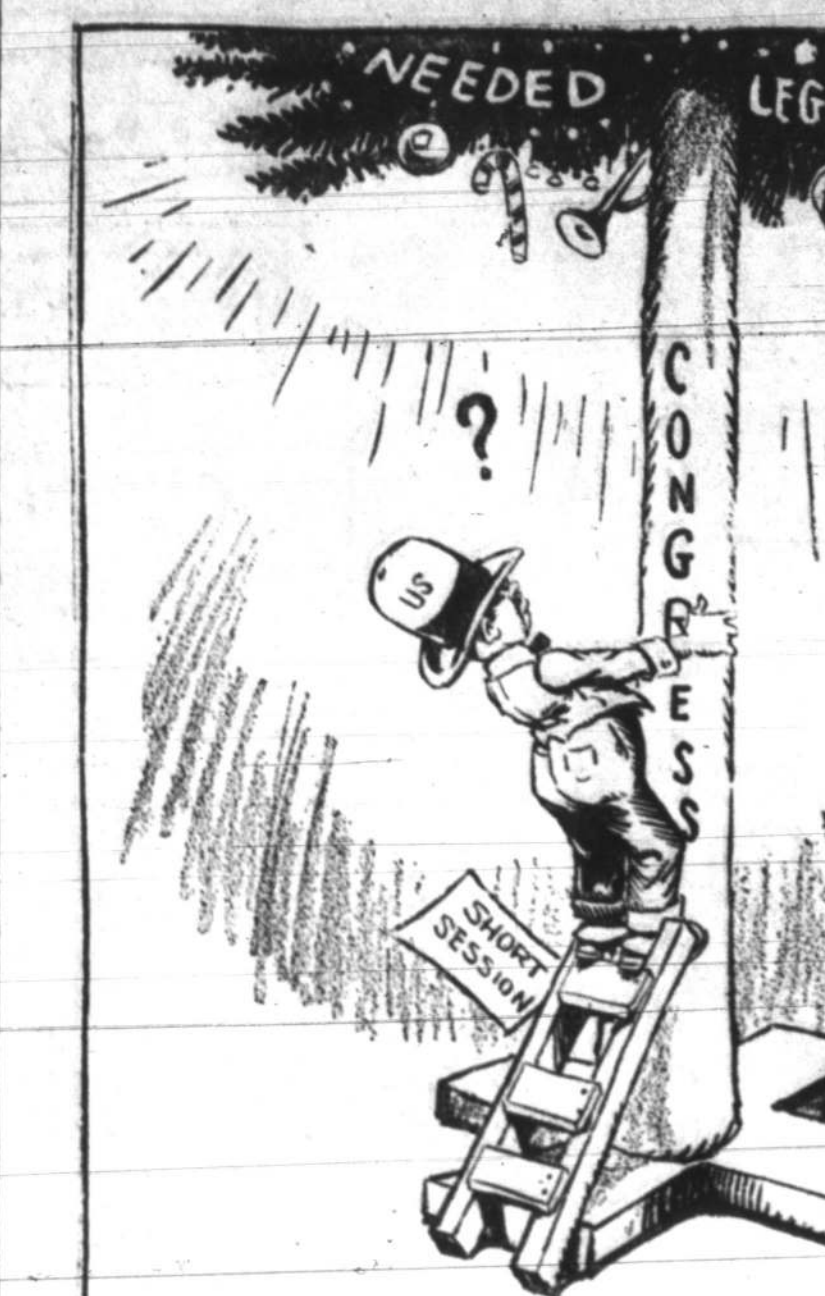

A Thought.

V. S. philosophizes as follows: Thrift makes you save your cake until you are too old to enjoy it. The ideal plan cuts a slice while you all have an appetite.

Other people want they always find some way to try to get it, and if they do not succeed they cause a lot of trouble. Being rich is not always what it is thought to be, by those who are not possessed of much money.

NEEDED LEGISLATION

The Way Of The World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

LITTLE EXCITEMENTS
Excitement, which is enthusiasm in an extreme form, may be a highly desirable thing when matters of high importance are confronted. No so with little matters. Little people are the ones who are most excited about little things. Excitement produced by no adequate reason is merely a demonstration of the lack of self control. And a lack of self control is fundamental and fatal.

CONDENSING

To say it all in a few words is a great art. Henry Chester Tracy, writing an important book called "English as Human Experience," says this:

"Civilization began when things began to be more beautiful than they need be."

Here we have, as one might say, a history of the whole idea of civilization. It is said there are more than 400,000 words in the English language. Understood and interpreted, these words would be a terrible thing if anyone was smart enough to use them all.

SEEKING THROUGH

Seeing things and seeing what things mean are two different experiences. Hearing facts and having the power of analysis to discover what facts mean are different experiences. For instance, at the time of an election the uninformed or thoughtless person is impressed with the first election returns he hears. It makes no difference what state the returns come from, he thinks they tell a story. The thoughtful person takes into consideration every fact bearing on the case and discovers for himself whether the returns indicate a trend. So with all facts. To be understood and interpreted, they have to be related to other facts. If we don't know these other facts the new ones can mean little to us.

PROVINCIALISM

Each part of our country thinks something is provincial. The New Yorker is frequently astonished to find things happening in the rest of the country that he never thought would happen. The westerner, on the other hand, is astonished by what New York thinks and does. The New Yorker says the West is provincial. The westerner says New York is the most provincial city in America. And the same preconceived notions exist in the North about the South and vice versa. Now we are all Americans, and America is a very broad country. It is the most natural thing in the world that our intensive interests are centered in a small section. Provincialism is to be expected.

ACCIDENTS TO ARMY AIRPLANE REPORTED MUCH REDUCED

(By MAJ. GENERAL J. E. FECHT, Chief of the U. S. Air Corps.)
James Edmund Fecht was born at Fort Ringgold, Texas, August 21, 1877. He is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and the Infantry and Cavalry school. In 1898 he enlisted as a non-commissioned officer in the United States cavalry and has been promoted through the grades to major general. In 1927, when he was named chief of the air corps, he has been identified with the air service since 1917, principally at Kelly Field where he was commanding officer for three years. His home is in Washington, D. C.

A total of 62 airplane crashes in the army air corps were prevented during the last year due to improved methods and equipment.

The rate per thousand flying hours of accidents has been reduced from 1.5 to .5. The number of accidents has been reduced from 62 to 30. The number of fatalities has been reduced from 10 to 5. The number of injuries has been reduced from 100 to 50. The number of property losses has been reduced from $100,000 to $50,000.

The commission on personnel in the air corps has changed very little during the past fiscal year. The prospects for the betterment of the commissioned situation during the coming year are bright, provided vacancies are available in the army which will allow a larger number of graduates of the flying school to be commissioned in the air corps. Seventy-six graduates of the military academy, West Point, class of 1928, have been detailed to the air corps.

"GOLDEN SLUMBERS KISS YOUR EYES"

(From "Patient Griselle")
Golden slumbers kiss your eyes,
Smiles awake you when you rise,
Sleep, pretty wondrous, do not cry,
And I will sing a lullaby.
Rock them, rock them, lullaby.

Care is heavy, therefore sleep you,
You are care, and care must keep you,
Sleep, pretty wondrous, do not cry,
And I will sing a lullaby.
Rock them, rock them, lullaby.

Next Legislature Is Predicted To Be Texas' Longest

Highway, Prison Location, Court Reform and School Appropriations to Be Up; Special Session Likely

(By Associated Press)
DALLAS, Dec. 6.—Prediction that the forty-first legislature convening in January, will be the longest in the history of the state was made here by Representative George C. Pugh of Dallas county.

He also believes that several special sessions will be necessary before all problems confronting the legislature can be disposed of. He is certain the regular session will not be able to take up any of the appropriation bills which await action.

"The main items which await the legislature and which must be thrashed out include highways, penitentiary relocation, court reform, and civil service," he declared. "There will be some bitter contests over these."

"In addition, there will be a struggle over appropriations. Texas A. and M. college alone is asking $10,000,000, and other schools are asking proportionate amounts."

MOTORISTS "COWED"

SACUS, Mass. (AP)—One of the largest traffic arteries of metropolitan Boston was blocked by motor traffic when a cow sauntered alone down the road and stopped crosswise, disdainful of the screaming of motor horns. A motorist finally relieved the situation by leading bossy to the roadside.

Hoover To Visit Famous Shrine

One of the outstanding events of President-elect Hoover's South American tour will be his visit to the "Christ of the Andes," a world-famous peace shrine on the summit of a high mountain on the Argentine-Chilean border. The 40-foot bronze statue of Christ, commencing the auspicious settlement of Argentine-Chilean boundary disputes, is universally recognized as a symbol of international peace.

Fur Garments Adopt More Elaborate Lines

BY MME. LISBETH
New and often unusual fashions in fur garments are popular with smart women returning from abroad. These distinctive costumes include those developed with short jackets, with three-quarter length coats and those with full-length wraps. Capes and cape coats are also noted.

An unusual cape coat, pictured at left, fashioned of radium gray shaved lamb, uses moleskin for the cape, with trimming inset in the back of the radium. The hat matches the coat.

Reagan County Oil Well Is Sensation

Well Is Classed As World's Deepest; Gas Flow Is 8,300,000 Cubic Feet; Tests 52.9 Gravity

(By Associated Press)
SAN ANGELO, Dec. 6.—The flow of both oil and gas from the world's deepest producing well continued to increase today.

Group One Oil corporation's (Texon) No. 1-B University in Reagan county in the last 24 hours test flowed 477 barrels of oil, an increase of 75 barrels, and the volume of gas had risen from 8,004,000 to 8,300,000 cubic feet from an approximate depth of 8,525 feet.

One part of the oil, which is of a 52.9 gravity, is being run into a pipeline with eight parts of 38 gravity oil from 70 other Texon wells with a resultant increase in gravity to 40.

Oil Operations In Texas Are Busiest During Past Month

November Is Peak Month Of Year, Parker's Report Shows; 862 Wells Started During Period

AUSTIN, Dec. 6.—If the number of official filings correctly reflect oil activity, November operations in Texas were the greatest since April the peak month of the year, it was shown today in a report from R. D. Parker, chief of the state railroad commission's oil and gas division.

Applications for permission to perform various kinds of oil operations totalled 2,404 during November, only five less than in April and about 200 more than in any of the last several preceding fall and summer months.

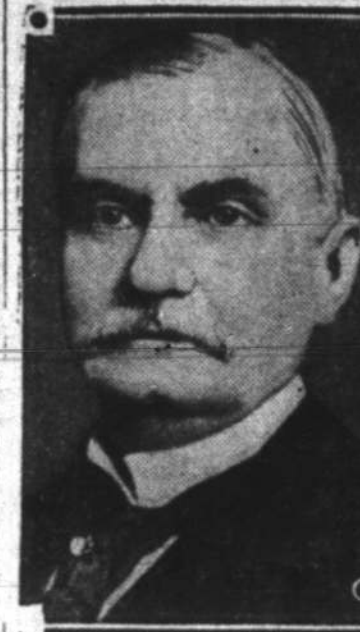

November applications to drill totalled 862, to shoot, 95; to plug, 394; A total of 426 producing wells were reported. Three hundred eleven dry wells were reported, 294 were plugged and 24 gas producers were reported.

Applications declined after April to 1, 987 in July and then began a steady rise on into November.

S.S.S. and Rheumatism

simply don't get along together

You know it cannot be rubbed away

ARE you one of those unfortunate ones who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"After suffering several years, six bottles of S.S.S. completely relieved me of rheumatism. It also cleared up a skin eruption and gave me a good appetite. I think S.S.S. is a wonderful medicine."

—E. L. Busie, Southern Railway, Knoxville, Tenn.

"I was very nervous, had hardly any appetite, and suffered with rheumatism. I tried many medicines, but S.S.S. is the one that did me the most good. I am now well, and feel like a new man."—William Osborne, 2406 Sloan Street, Flint, Michigan.

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

S.S.S. Builds Sturdy Health

Announcing important changes in Ownership and Policy

Changes of ownership and policy . . . changes that will have a very definite effect upon Lubbock's standing as an educational center, and upon those who seek a successful business career founded on a thorough training in modern business methods and practice.

Lubbock and the Plains is entitled to a Business Training Institution of the first class, and the New Administration comes with sufficient financial resources, ample scholarship and experience to perform well the task. Upon the worthy attainments and standing now enjoyed by this school, the new officials are determined to build the super-structure, an institution which shall challenge the loyal support of the aggressive business men and citizens of the South Plains.

Under the new management more faculty members will be added—Instructors of college grade only will be used, whose training, experience, and ability qualifies them as efficient teachers of modern business, and business methods.

New equipment that is thoroughly modern and found in the most efficient offices is being added, and the environment will be that of a business institution which stresses scientific methods of conducting its affairs.

New courses will be added to the curriculum to meet every business need, and courses now being offered will be enlarged in scope to prepare the student for detail handling of modern commercial affairs.

All of these factors marking the changes which this school is now experiencing will contribute toward securing for it a rating that will be highly invaluable to those who graduate.
