Q. — How many copies of the book "Footprints Across Scurry County" are there?

A. — Book committee members indicate approximately 1,500 copies of the limited edition were printed.

Fair week activities due to kickoff

This year's edition of the Scurry County Fair will open to the public at noon Thursday, but fair-related activity is scheduled to begin in the coliseum Tuesday.

Early in the week will feature the construction of fair booths and getting fair entries in place.

As in year's past, fair competition events cover a broad spectrum. Displays to be on view at the coliseum floor will include art exhibits, textiles, handicrafts, agricultural products, educational and community exhibits, canned goods, the flower show and baked goods

In the ag annex to the coliseum, competition animals on view will include beef and dairy cattle, breeding sheep, junior lambs and steers.

Fair activities will include a dog show as well.

Other competitions will include the popular domino tournament — with last year's winning team of Buzz Laster and Doyle Wemken returning — and a new event this year, a ranch competition.

Fair "special events" also cover a broad area of appeal, ranging this year from magic to melodrama.

The magic will be exhibited by professional magician Bob Ford, who will offer afternoon and nighttime performances Friday and Saturday.

The melodrama will be offered Thursday night, presented by members of the Snyder High School drama department.

Friday evening, the special entertainment will be local group Richard Long and Prairie Fire, and Saturday night the German Folk Dancers from Texas Tech will entertain.

New to the fair this year will be helicopter rides from the fair grounds; a dog "fashion show" Saturday; and a chicken flying contest ("Fly or Fry") Thursday.

Other special events will include the flea market, kiddie barnyard, carnival rides, chili cookoff, children's treasure hunt, kids wash, and peddle tractor pull.

The following is a complete

DEFENDING CHAMPS — A popular annual event at the Scurry County Fair is the domino tournament, and last year's winners will return to defend their title. Shown signing up last week are Buzz Laster (left) and Doyle Wemken. Taking their entry is Wanda Falls. The tournament begins at 6 p.m. Thursday with the finals scheduled for 9 a.m. next Saturday. Gunshot injures youth

A 12-year-old Snyder youth remained in guarded condition in the intensive care unit of Cogdell Memorial Hospital Saturday morning after an apparent accidental shooting incident Friday evening.

According to police reports, 12-year-old Gary Lynn Halkowitz of Rt. 3, Snyder — the son of Mrs. Lillie Halkowitz — and a 12-year-old companion were playing with a .38 caliber pistol Friday when the weapon discharged.

The gun was owned by the father of the second boy, police say. The incident occurred around 6 p.m. at the second boy's residence.

Halkowitz was taken from the scene to the local hospital by units of Aid Ambulance-Snyder. He underwent surgery here Friday night.

According to police reports, the bullet struck Halkowitz in the lower back and exited through the front of his body.

Leadership class members chosen

Membership in the second class for Century II: Leadership Scurry County was announced Saturday morning by representatives of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

Program participants this year will be Gene Cutler, Susan Neves, Jon Derouen, Paul Gilbert, Jerry Vestal, Mike Jordan, Bobby Beard, Jackie Greene, Eddie Johnson, Mike Dennis, Karen Carmichael, Lee McNair, Fred Cross, Donna Gray, Rick Cohagan, Darrell Stout and C.D. Gray Jr.

The nine-month program is designed to familiarize class members with all major areas of Scurry County: health care, law enforcement, agriculture, economic, social, governmental and voluntary organizations.

Blood drive to aid family

Tuesday's regularly scheduled blood drive for Scurry County has a special need as donors will be asked to help repay some 60 pints of blood used recently by a local family.

Donors may specify that they are giving for the Pat Brumley fund. She passed away July 17 after a lengthy illness.

The drive is set from 1 until 8 p.m. in the Scurry County Senior Citizen's Center. Co-sponsors for the event are the local advisory committee for United Blood Services of Lubbock and the auxiliary for Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Sponsors note a particular need for O-negative blood Tuesday also.

As an incentive for new donors, all those giving for the first time will be given a plastic mug courtesy of United Blood Services.

The traditional rewards of coupons for free hamburgers and six-packs of soft drinks will be offered also. All persons giving blood will receive a coupon courtesy of Whataburger. The six-packs of Dr. Pepper will be given to every fifth donor courtesy of the Dr. Pepper bottling plant in Sweetwater.

Snyder Cub Scouts are also joining the effort to aid local blood drives this time. Scouts will be assisting with the cleanup at the center once the drive is over.

Space on outdoor signs has also been donated again to advertise the event. Those donating space include Westside Phillips 66 Station, Ben Wilson Supply, Shakey's Pizza and the Pal-O-Mar Motel, Scurry County Coliseum, Burgess-McWilliams Pharmacy, Joe Brown Carpet, Gill's Fried Chicken, The Shack, Whataburger, Snyder Nursery and K-Bob's.

Cogdell event set Sunday

Open house will be observed from noon until 3 p.m. Sunday as part of D.M. Cogdell Memorial Hospital's celebration of Emergency Medicine Week

The open house will be in the doctor's lounge at the facility.

Monday, a free diabetic screening is scheduled in the emergency room from 7 until 11 a.m. A blood test is involved, so individuals are asked to refrain from eating food at least eight hours before the test.

During the week, a poster contest is planned for pre-school and Calvin Brown is the minister of the Ave. D Baptist Church. His wife, Vicki, is the women's editor here at the Snyder Daily News.

A few years ago, the church had a part-time youth director who drove to Snyder from Abilene. Since he sometimes spent the night, the church made a place in the fellowship hall for him to stay which included a shower.

One day when the Browns were in the fellowship area of the church, their four-year-old son, Christopher, saw the shower and inquired:

"Is that where God takes a shower?"

Betty Musick, secretary to Principal Ray Courtney at high school, told us about a dream she had recently.

Betty said she dreamed she arrived in Heaven and told St. Peter that she was surprised to see so many clocks.

"Oh yes," said St. Peter, "We have a clock here for everyone on earth, and when a person does something he shouldn't the hands on his clock move a little."

"There's Ned Underwood's clock, both hands still at 12. Over there is Lee Presswood's clock. The hands on his clock have moved just a little bit, but not much."

Betty was impressed with the status of the school's two assistant principals, so she looked around for Courtney's clock and asked if there was a clock for the principal.

"Oh sure," said St. Peter, "It's hanging up there. We use Courtney's clock for a ceiling fan."

Its route will follow Ave. T south to 26th St., then head back to the east to pass the south and east sides of the downtown square.

Pleas accepted

Two Snyder residents were given three-year probated prison terms after entering guilty pleas to charges of felony possession of marijuana last week.

Both 32-year-old Pilar Luna Jr. and 29-year-old Mary Ann Luna of 2804 28th St. pleaded guilty to charges of possession of marijuana in a quantity greater than 4 ounces.

Both defendants were arrested on July 2 at the residence and indicted by the July session of the Scurry County grand jury.

A&M holds closed hearing for trio

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M University officials met behind closed doors in a disciplinary hearing for three students who were present when a Corps of Cadets member who was forced to do rigorous exercises in high heat and humidity suffered a fatal heat stroke.

Officials would not disclose details of the meeting, saying only they had read the trio their rights and informed them of the charges against them by the university.

"We're protecting their privacy," Bill Kibler, assistant director of student affairs, told reporters after the meeting.

The three corps members who appeared at the 15-minute hearing were present Aug. 30 when Bruce Goodrich, 20, was overcome by heat stroke.

University officials have said Goodrich and his roommate, John McIntosh, both sophomore transfer students, were forced to run and do push-ups and sit-ups for almost an hour starting at 2:30 a.m. with temperatures and humitidy in the upper 70s.

Goodrich later died at a Bryan hospital.

Kibler said he informed the three juniors of their rights. They have been identified as Anthony D'Alessandro, Louis Fancher and Jason Miles.

Kibler held a similar hearing Tuesday for Gabriel Cuadra, the unit's senior personnel officer. At that hearing, Cuadra asked that he be allowed to cross-examine the three juniors.

Cuadra's attorney, Hank Paine of Bryan, graduated from Texas A&M in 1974 and has defended more than 20 students involved in two separate hazing incidents in the last two years.

Paine has said he doesn't expect indictments in the case.

"If they want to indict these kids, they ought to indict every football coach who ever lost a player," he said. Paine said the exercise was only intended to instill "conditioning and motivation" in underclassmen.

Alexander retires after 50 years

Louis E. "Swede" Alexander was honored on Friday evening with a retirement dinner in Big Spring. Highlight of the evening was the presentation of a gold watch marking 50 years of service with the Texas Pipe Line Company. The presentation was made by C. J. Police suspect murder suicide

DALLAS (AP) — A man apparently shot two women late Friday night and then took his own life, a homicide investigator said.

Officers found three bodies after they were dispatched at 11:08 p.m. Friday to a residence to investigate a shooting, investigator Don Ortega said.

"All indications are that we have two who were murdered and the third committed suicide at the scene," Ortega said.

All three people were killed with the same revolver, the investigator said.

Former governor may have sold to avoid ups, down

DALLAS (AP) — Former Texas Gov. Bill Clements and his family agreed to sell the company Clements founded 37 years ago probably because they have tired of the ups and downs of the offshore oil drilling business, an industry analyst said.

Clements, chairman of Sedco Inc., and the company's directors agreed Friday to support a takeover bid by Schlumberger Ltd. that will offer more than $1 billion in cash and securities to Sedco shareholders.

Schlumberger, in turn, acquires the top firm in the offshore drilling field, said Kevin Simpson, an oil industry analyst for the New York investment firm of Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc.

"It's a sensible acquisition for sure," he said.

Schlumberger, with headquarters in New York, provides geological services and contract drilling for the oil industry and makes semiconducters and other electronic equipment.

Analysts said the takeover was a surprise and could spawn other offers for Sedco or additional takeovers in the oil services industry.

Simpson said Clements, who is expected to remain with the rest of his management team, was one of the attractions to Schlumberger.

"Nobody out there has got as good a record as Clements," Simpson said. "Schlumberger has shown some indications to increase its exposure in the hostile rig area — rigs in very deep or very rough waters. If they were going to do it all at once, they got the best company."

Simpson said he was surprised that Clements, whose family controls approximately 5 million of Sedco's shares, decided to sell.

"I think these are very conservative people and they may well have decided to put their own capital into a much bigger base, a blue-chipper that has a much less cyclical record," he said.

"They may well have decided that the risk was not worth continuing to take especially when they were offered a nice price."

In New York, Schlumberger said the merger had been approved by directors of both companies and was subject to the approval of Sedco shareholders and government antitrust and tax clearance.

Schlumberger said Clements and certain other shareholders, who effectively own about 21 percent of Sedco's 22 million shares of outstanding stock, had agreed to cast their shares in favor of the merger and to receive Schlumberger stock in exchange for their holdings.

Schlumberger will offer Sedco shareholders a choice between cash or stock for their shares.

One condition of the merger is that Schlumberger stock not fall below $38 a share.

At Wit's End

by Erma Bombeck

When they talk about space travel, the good news is that sometime in this century, people will be able to travel on a shuttle to the moon.

The bad news is their luggage will end up on Mars.

Wherever travelers gather, the subject eventually gets around to lost luggage. They are not pretty stories. Like the Olympic cyclist medal winner whose bicycle did not make it home with him...not to mention his medals. Or the cardinal who flew on a commuter plane from Chicago to Dubuque, Iowa, and watched the luggage holding his vestments being unloaded in Galena.

And you don't want to know what happened to poor Roselyn Gordon of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Earlier this year, Roselyn went to Pittsburgh for the wedding of her grandson. It was a shame the wedding wasn't held in Canada, because that's where her luggage went.

The agent told her if she did not receive her luggage in 24 hours, she would receive $35 for "new underwear." The luggage did not arrive and "new underwear" was the least of her worries. All she had to wear to the wedding were the slack suit and sneakers she had traveled in. The family tried to come to the rescue. But the mother of bride was too short and too thin. Finally, they found something ot fit...a blue maternity dress. They washed out the spots and dried them with a hair dryer and Roselyn marched down the aisle between her two grandsons wearing a maternity dress and a pair of gold bedroom slippers.

End of the story? Grow up. As they were eating dinner the waitress spilled salad all over the gold bedroom slippers and the next time around she spilled champagne down the maternity dress. It was probably nothing personal...just an opinion.

My husband is in the process of filling out a two-page questionnaire on his luggage that sat in Dallas for a month while he was vacationing in New Guinea.

They want every item in the suitcase listed along with when it was purchased, where purchased and the original cost. The clothes could go out of style before he gets all the questions answered. There is no place on the form for the clothes he had to buy in Port Moresby where they stock clothes for men 5-4 or under (he's 5-11). Or how he had to endure smart remarks like, "Are you on your way to a flood?"

I find myself empathizing more and more with the non-English-speaking Yugoslavian woman I saw who boarded an airplane in Los Angeles wearing two wigs and three fur coats.

The woman obviously spoke fluent airlines.

Author: Texas looks good in high-tech age

AUSTIN (AP) — The U.S. economy is in better shape than many economists say, and Texas is in a position to continue its growth, says the author of the book "Megatrends."

"The economy is just terriffic. It's much better than most economists think. What's happening, of course, is that we're changing. We're moving into the informational-electronic-service sector. That's creating new jobs," said author John Naisbitt.

Naisbitt said that while economic growth goes on in many areas, three states account for most of the action.

"Extraordinarily, in just Florida, Texas and California today, in September of 1984, we're witnessing about 65 percent of the population growth momentum and the economic growth momentum," he said.

Add the rest of the Southwest — from California east to Colorado and south to Texas — and that quadrant plus Florida accounts "for 85 percent of the (growth momentum)."

Naisbitt's comments came at a Friday meeting called by Gov. Mark White for heads of state agencies involved with economic development.

The author said that nationally, a tremendous shift is under way from the old, heavy industries to new high-tech businesses.

While this causes high unemployment in industries such as steel and autos, it also creates lots of jobs, Naisbitt said, predicting full employment soon.

"This is an incredibly entrepreneurial-driven economy. The new economy is accelerating. We're going to have full employment within a couple of years and labor shortages for the rest of the century."

The "baby boom" from 1946 to 1964 sent 80 million people into the job market, but since 1964 there has been a "baby bust." Naisbitt said there won't be enough new workers entering the job markets. "It's a sellers' market. There will be great competition for employees."

Naisbitt said many businesses look promising — computers, health, nutrition, retailing, high-tech technicians, law, accounting, finance, travel, recreation and leisure.

While the new economy will bring lots of new companies, it also will bring lots of failures, he said.

"There's going to be a shaking out period. We're going to see thousands of companies go under, computer companies, software companies, cable companies..."

Naisbitt likened the founding and failing of new firms to the beginnings of the auto industry.

In the early 1900s, some 2,300 automaking companies were started and "today, we're down to four or five. We'll go through hundreds of thousands of computer companies to get there," he said.

Where businesses once looked for transportation, natural resources, proximity to markets and such, they now look for an appealing quality of life, Naisbitt said.

"In the new informational, electronic and knowledge service economy, we can put (businesses) wherever we want. We look for the good climate, we look for cultural offerings, we look for recreational opportunities, good schools, and so on.

Naisbitt did have a few discouraging words for Texas on energy.

"Every year for 200 years, this country used more energy than the year before. Starting three years ago, it has used less energy than the year before. Any hope energy's going to come back ... I would not bet an awful lot on that.

"Cities like Houston are in the process of reconceptualizing themselves. We didn't pay attention to the fact that our industrial base receding meant that energy-intensive industrial base was going away," Naisbitt said.

WTC cheerleading tryouts planned

Western Texas College students interested in trying out for four cheerleading spots open have until Wednesday to pick up forms in the Student Activities office.

Seminars and tryout workshops for propective cheerleaders will be held at 6:30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday. Tryouts will be Thursday.

WTC will have two returning cheerleaders from last season. They are Vera Lopez of Snyder and Loretta Morris of Colorado City. Morris worked with the All-Star Cheerleading Conference during the summer, helping conduct cheerleader camps on college camouses in several locations.

Conversational Spanish class is scheduled

A conversational Spanish course stressing learning by talking is to begin Sept. 24 at Western Texas College.

"This class is designed around the spoken word," said Robert Adams, instructor. "That's what we do–talk, talk, talk. We start very slowly and gradually increase the tempo.

"Our motto is repetition. This is how you learn a language, isn't it? Think about it. How did you learning English?"

The class is titled Farm and Ranch Spanish and will include material especially useful for persons engaged in farming and ranching. Classes will meet from 6:30-9:30 p.m. on Mondays for a total of 45 hours of instruction. Fees are $45 per person and students will be required to purchase a textbook.

"Learning is hard work," Adams says. "The amount of time that you practice will determine your progress in this course. I guarantee that learning Spanish is both useful and fun, and we welcome those who have no previous knowledge of Spanish to join this class."

Space in the class is to be reserved by calling the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, ext. 240.

Lucas says he had second accomplice

GEORGETOWN (AP) — The Department of Public Safety is investigating a claim by condemned murderer Henry Lee Lucas that an unidentified truck driver was his accomplice on part of his killing spree.

Authorities previously thought that Ottis Toole was Lucas' only accomplice during the spree that left about 170 people dead. Toole is on death row in Florida.

Williamson County Sheriff Jim Boutwell said Friday that Lucas told him this week that "there was another man he had travelled with.

"But he was not able to give us a whole lot (of information). He said he was a cross-country truck driver, and that he liked to pick up young female hitchhikers and kill them. He could still be killing people," the sheriff said.

Lucas did not know the man's name, according to the sheriff.

EMT course set in Colorado City

Training for persons interested in becoming Emergency Medical Technicians will be offered in a 120-hour course scheduled by Western Texas College in evening classes starting Oct. 9.

Classes will meet from 6-10 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the C.C. Thompson room of City National Bank in Colorado City with Ray Dillard as instructor. He will be assisted by Donnie Phillips as skills instructor.

Members of the class will learn management and control of bleeding, treatment of shock, and how to work with persons suffering heart attack, storke and suffocation. Students who complete the course can be certified by the Texas Department of Health in CPR (adult and infant). They will qualify for job opportunities such as technicians for emergency medical services.

Fees for the course are $135 per person plus $25 for the required textbook, a total of $160. A minimum enrollment of 10 will be required to form the class, with maximum enrollment 18.

To reserve space in the class, students are to call the WTC Continuing Education office at 573-8511, ext. 240.

WTC plans class in investments

Investments will be the topic of an 18-hour Continuing Education course scheduled by Western Texas College starting Oct. 2.

Classes will meet from 6:30-9:30 p.m. on Tuesdays through Nov. 6 with Tim Riggan as instructor. Riggan is a limited partner with Edward D. Jones & Co. in Snyder.

Fees will be $25 per person and students will purchase a textbook costing $9.

Investments to be discussed during the course are stocks, bonds, corporate bonds, government bonds, municipal bonds (tax free) bond trust funds, mutual funds, real estate limited partnerships and oil and gas limited partnerships.

One of the questions most often asked by persons considering enrolling for this course is "Do I have enough money to invest?" Riggan said. If the prospective investor has as much as $250, he has enough, Riggan added, pointing out that it is extremely important for an investor with small amounts of money to know what is available because he cannot afford to take high risks with his investment capital.

"We will be talking about what types of investments are available to the individual investor, how safe different types of investment programs are, how the investor might be able to increase his income by moving investment dollars to different investments, and how to invest to let inflation help increase assests," Riggan said.

Edward D. Jones & Co. is the largest investment firm in the United States according to the number of offices. It was established in 1871.

To pre-register for the investments course, students are to call the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, ext. 240.

Lactobacillus acidophilus is a bacterium normally found in the bowel of healthy persons. It produces B vitamins and acts to inactivate 'herpes simplex.' Two Baltimore oral surgeons reported that 38 out of 40 patients whom they treated with L. acidophilus tablets, achieved relief from pain within 48 hours; 36 reported total disappearance of lesions within 5 days of treatment. Their patients took from 2 to 4 tablets, three times a day. Discuss this treatment with your doctor.

Air Force: soldiers getting fair shake at lab

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An Air Force investigation of a military drug detection laboratory shows problems with quality control but overall indicates the lab has dealt fairly with soldiers accused of drug use, a military official says.

Maj. Gen. John Ord, commander of the Aerospace Medical Division at Brooks Air Force Base, said if lab procedures at Brooks resulted in any soldier being falsely accused and discharged, the military "would make it right."

Ord held a news conference Friday to announce results of three Air Force investigations of the Brooks AFB Drug Detection Laboratory.

The lab has been under scrutiny because of allegations by workers that sloppy testing procedures have resulted in soldiers being falsely accused of drug use.

The lab runs tests on urine samples from thousands of Air Force and Army personnel to detect drug use. Positive results can lead to discharge.

Ord said Brooks tests on urine samples of 33,000 soldiers were reviewed and of those, 6,500 showed testing techniques not up to the highest standards.

Army officials said some of the 6,500 were discharged after being tested. Both Army and Air Force officials said the dismissed soldiers would be allowed to request a change in their discharge status to "honorable" rather than a lower rating.

Those discharged also could ask for reinstatement, but each would be reviewed on a case-by-case basis.

Ord said the lab tests on the 6,500 urine samples "were accurate in saying marijuana was present. The problem is in only the technical sufficiency of the records for court action."

To correct any deficiencies at the lab, Ord said operating procedures have been revised and a full-time lawyer has been assigned to handle requests from defense attorneys.

Ord, reading a lengthy statement, said the Air Force investigation showed "that the laboratory has done a good job of urine specimen analysis... All have found areas where administrative improvements can be made."

Ord added the investigations showed "Air Force members have been treated fairly by the work of the laboratory in the past."

The commander admitted the investigations showed problems with quality control in the lab, but he said those difficulties had been corrected.

The probes also disproved allegations of undue command influence on lab personnel, he said.

A military judge earlier ruled Brooks officials wielded unnecessary influence on lab workers in the case of two soldiers assigned to Patrick AFB in Florida. The judge threw out drug charges against the men.

In a similar case at Brooks in June, another military judge found that lab supervisors denied evidence to defense lawyers. That judge, however, refused to dismiss charges.

An Air Force investigative team, Ord said, "found there was no unlawful command influence."

"The workload placed on the laboratory by legal activity was extremely great," he said, creating confusion and frustration among lab workers and defense lawyers.

Ord said the quality control allegations made by chemist Joseph David Whitson Jr., who claimed to have an "out-of-control file" containing faulty lab results, "were very, very carefully reviewed. They were entirely without basis."

Whitson, the so-called whistleblower at the Brooks lab, has been reassigned since making the allegations. He claimed he was demoted for complaining about the lab procedures. Ord said a decision has not been made on Whitson's future.

Ord said the investigations are the last the Air Force plans on the Brooks lab. The laboratory was reviewed by an Army blue ribbon team last December, earning high ratings.

Defensive driving classes scheduled

Adult education courses at WTC to resume

Adult education classes which help students prepare for GED tests have resumed at Western Texas College.

Classes meet from 6-9 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the Learning Resource Center. Students may enroll at any class meeting and select the subjects they want to study. Instructors are Howard Sawyer, who is also coordinator for the program, Elizabeth Jenkins and Esther Clarady.

Purple Sage Salutes... Emily Freeman. Eight years ago Jerry and Emily Freeman moved to Snyder from Haskell, Texas. Both their children, Susan Marie, 8-years old and Robert Lynn, 6 years old were born in Snyder. Emily has been working in the housekeeping department of the Purple Sage Motel for the last 3½ years. She has since worked her way up to head maid.

One of Emily's responsibilities is inspecting the rooms. This is an especially important job since the Purple Sage is listed in both the AAA Tour Book and the Mobil Travel Guide. Each of these organizations has special guidelines which must be followed to be approved by them. Only the top 20% of hotels and motels are accepted.

Emily is not only responsible for insuring the rooms are clean and comfortable, she must check everything. There are requirements concerning: storage, beds, desks, fire protection - even the wattage of light fixtures.

Art and Helen Feinsod, owners of the Purple Sage, rely a great deal on Emily to keep the rooms ready for the yearly spot inspections by representatives of AAA and the Mobil Travel Guide. Because of the fine effort of employees like Emily Freeman, the Purple Sage has now had an increase in their rating in the Mobil Travel Guide.

Art and Helen are thankful for your patronage and look forward to being of further service.

Importance of volunteers to be subject of program

The importance of volunteers in the community will be stressed by Dr. Thomas Scannicchio in a brief program Tuesday morning in the Senior Center.

Scannicchio, who is assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum for Snyder Public Schools, will mention specifically the role of volunteers in local schools. He will be speaking at 11:30 a.m. in the center's dining room.

Surplus commodities will be distributed in the Senior Center Wednesday. Persons who are to receive the items are asked to enter through the north door.

Senior citizens are reminded that the Scurry County Fair scheduled for Sept. 20-22 has a special division for their crafts projects. Persons who would like more information about entering their handwork in the fair are asked to call the Senior Center at 573-4035.

Books for homebound senior citizens planned

Senior citizens who cannot visit the Scurry County Library because of physical handicaps are invited to take advantage of a new book delivery project being planned by the library and the Senior Center.

Books from the library will be delivered to the home of the participating senior citizens by VIVA volunteers at two week intervals. The homebound reader can request books by name or indicate areas of interest from a printed sheet and let the VIVA worker select books. The book borrower will use his or her library card for the checkout service. Persons who do not have a library card can obtain one through the VIVA book delivery person.

Senior citizens who would like to obtain books through the home delivery program are invited to call the Senior Center at 573-4035 or the library at 573-5572. No date has been set for the start of the service but the names of interested persons are being listed so planning can proceed. Senior Citizens who would like to donate their time to the project through VIVA are invited to contact Billie Smith, VIVA coordinator, at the Senior Center.

Struggling airline reports losses of $300,000 per day

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff Inc., struggling to win enough travelers to avoid continued massive losses, reported some more bad news in its second quarter statement.

The airline said Friday it lost $26.4 million in May, June and July, less than the $30.6 million it lost in its first two months of operation but still nearly $300,000 each day.

Braniff reorganized in federal bankruptcy court with a $70 million Hyatt Corp. investment and resumed service March 1 as a smaller, leaner carrier than its flamboyant predecessor, Braniff International.

The airline in six months has recorded a net loss of $70.5 million.

The continued losses prompted Braniff last week to ditch its "high-class" strategy and become a no-frills carrier in a move to attract travelers.

Some industry analysts called the tactic a "last-ditch effort" and questioned how long Hyatt will tolerate continued losses. But vice chairman Pat Foley has said Hyatt is committed to Braniff "until we make it successful."

Your Birthday

Sept. 17, 1984

This coming year, you should be quite lucky in establishing helpful contacts who will show you ways to increase your earnings or add to your resources.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Success is likely today in situations where you are unselfishly motivated. However, you might suffer failure in matters where you're too "I" centered. Want to find out to whom you are best suited romantically? Send for your Matchmaker set by mailing $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Reveals compatibilities for all signs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Before speaking today, weigh your words carefully. Blurting out cutting remarks could provoke an avoidable argument.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If someone wants to borrow something from you today, have a clear-cut understanding that you expect it returned in the same condition in which it was loaned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Both you and your mate must make a concerted effort today to show each other the same thoughtfulness and consideration you give to outsiders.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You are likely to be quite industrious today. However, if you have to tackle heavy or difficult tasks, be sure to line up the proper assistants.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your convivial mood may impel you to seek out fun activities today. That's well and good, but be wise enough not to make too much of a good thing.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You might experience desires today to make changes in your surroundings. Don't undertake a major renovation, because you may run out of steam before it's finished.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try to associate today with persons who are supportive of your ideas, rather than those who are always critical. Encouragement inspires you to new heights.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You should be quite competent in managing your own material affairs today, but you might not do equally as well if you attempt to handle the resources of others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make every effort to be supportive of your mate today. If an occasion arises where you have to take sides, back him or her up 100 percent.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Co-workers could be a trifle disagreeable today, but if you look for ways to compliment them rather than correcting them, their frowns will turn to smiles.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do not be demanding of friends today, even those who you think are indebted to you for favors you did for them in the past. Reminders could provoke resentment.

Sept. 16, 1984

In the year ahead it's important that the goals you set be truly meaningful, or you could end up working very hard for something that isn't worth the effort.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There is a possibility today that you might unwisely alter your course just when an important goal is within your reach. Stay on track. The areas in which you'll be the luckiest in the year ahead are revealed in your Astro-Graph predictions for the coming year. To get yours, mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you espouse unpopular issues today, you are not likely to gain any converts. Gauge your audience carefully so that your ideas are in harmony.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Do not be hesitant to speak up today if you think you are getting the short end of a deal. You can rectify the situation tactfully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do not make any important decisions today out of frustration or anger. These factors must not be permitted to cloud your judgment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The results aren't apt to be satisfactory if you leave tasks until the last minute today. Use common sense in scheduling your agenda.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There's a possibility you might become involved in a social situation today with people of whom you're not overly fond. Try to make the best of it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be on guard today so that small family disagreements aren't blown out of proportion. If you see this coming, serve as the peacemaker.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Instead of thinking for yourself today, you might be overly impressed by the thoughts of others. Unfortunately, their ideas may lack substance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try to avoid involvements today that contain financial risks. The rabbit's foot may be working for the other guy, rather than for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is one of those days when it will be easy to make promises or commitments, yet later they could be difficult to fulfill.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Any problems with which you might have to contend today are apt to be of your own making. If you're aware of this, they can be sidestepped.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Steer clear of an acquaintance today who you know from past experience always twists things you say and creates turmoil between you and others.

Classic Designs

by Jeana Duke, Assoc. ASID

Today, in Interior Design as well as the fashion industry there is much emphasis on COLOR. There are no wrong colors in nature or the color spectrum. However, there are several things to consider when choosing your color scheme. Consider your "personal" colors, colors you like and enjoy wearing, colors you will enjoy living with. Avoid faddish, trendy colors as seen in magazine photographs or in furniture display. These colors can best be used in accent pieces that are easily changed. Try to select some overall color concept for the total interior. Each room needs to have an individual character, yet repetition of color helps unify the space of home or office.

Ready to work on your interior's color scheme? We'll be happy to help you with color combinations for your home or office at CLASSIC DESIGNS, 2502 Avenue Q, 573-1701. We provide in-home consultation, and will work to incorporate your color, furnishing and accent pieces for a harmonious scheme for comfortable living. Open 9:30 to 5:30 Mon. through Fri. or by appointment.

Hinckley's father is speaking out

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Jack Hinckley says he's spreading the word about mental illness in hopes that his son's shooting of President Reagan can help others afflicted with mental disorders.

"I want something good to come of John's sickness and tragedy," the elder Hinckley said Wednesday.

Through a book on his family's experiences and other projects, Hinckley said he hopes to raise $600,000 next year for education and research on mental illness.

Hinckley, who formed the American Mental Health Fund, is to speak at a mental health conference today.

Riders will meet

The Sundowners Riding Club will meet Monday at 7 p.m. at the clubhouse.

All members are urged to attend.

A fund has been established at West Texas State Bank to help defray medical expenses for Vickie Jones who suffers from acute kidney disease. Donations can be made directly to the bank.

SPORTS INJURIES ON THE INCREASE

Synthetic surfaces may in part be responsible for turf injuries.

Although many health authorities tend to blame the problem directly on the characteristics of the surface, the American Chiropractic Association points out that much of the problem is the increased speed of the game which results from artificial surfaces.

For example, in football, the synthetic turf increases running speed and foot gripping action. Thus, it sets the stage for higher collision forces between players, with resultant increase in the severity of the injury sustained.

In timed straight line and slolom dashes, it has been reported that synthetic surfaces are approximately 20% faster than natural turf.

While speed is one factor, two other factors are not to be overlooked which reflect their presence in injuries. Players are bigger, heavier and stronger than they were ten, twenty or thirty years ago. This is true in every stage of athletics—from grade school through college and into professional sports.

With more and more new stadiums being built, and even high school and college fields being covered with synthetic turf, the problem will no doubt increase.

The major threat is not to the well-cared-for professional, but rather to the overlooked amateur, especially the child. A structural injury can affect a child's growth, development and achievement.

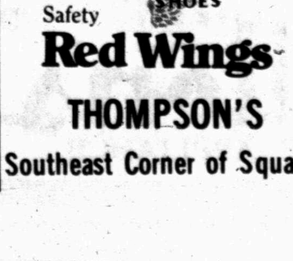

Of course, it is impossible to stand in the way of progress. We wouldn't want to outlaw sports; we can't breed smaller players; and, it's doubtful that we will go back to pock-marked natural turf. The answer then is closer supervision, a tightening of playing rules, more protective safety equipment, and a greater attention to health maintenance in every phase of sports activity. This should include spinal health examinations on a regular basis.

UAW official: issues led to strike at GM

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Local issues including more than 2,000 unsolved grievances led the United Auto Workers Union to strike the General Motors Corp.'s Arlington assembly plant, a UAW official said.

UAW Local 276, representing 4,500 workers, walked off the job at 11 p.m. CDT Friday as the national union and GM continued talks aimed at averting an overall strike against the world's largest manufacturer.

The Arlington plant was one of 13 struck by the UAW in selective strikes in nine states, taking 59,000 of the UAW's 350,000 GM workers off the job, officials said.

Larry Hartman, international UAW representative from Detroit, said management in Arlington was especially rigid in negotiations with the union and that led to the walkout here three hours before the normal shift ended.

He said little progress was made during the past two weeks.

"This is one of the plants furthest away from settlement," Hartman said. "Local management has taken a very rigid stance on local issues."

The local issues included more than 2,000 unsettled individual grievances, health and safety items and a dispute over what constitutes a normal work pace for employees, Hartman said.

John Childers, the president of Local 276, said the local first contacted the national union about the possibility of a local strike two weeks ago.

As negotiations continued on the national and local levels, the word came at 11 p.m.

A whistle blew inside the plant and Childers, who was standing outside, said: "That's it. Tell them to come out."

Workers followed the orders and filed outside the plant, some shouting "Yea, union!" and honking horns as they left the parking lots on their way to union headquarters about three miles away.

"What we're doing right now is something that has to be done or else we might as well stand out in traffic and let them run all over us," said Richard Baldwin, 37, of Fort Worth.

He and his wife, Peggy, both work at the GM plant and are both on strike. Baldwin has worked there 15½ years and is a veteran of the last coast-to-coast walkout against GM in 1970.

Baldwin said that during this strike he would have to do the same odd jobs that he did 14 years ago, roof work and painting.

Another worker, Randy Hogue, 38, took note of the horn-honking and shouts as his colleagues left the plant.

"These guys who think this is a vacation had better take advantage of it tonight. When it settles in, they'll realize that it's a long wait," Hogue said.

Local 276 prepared for the strike throughout the day Friday, Childers said, readying picket signs and informing workers about benefits such as the $85 a week they will receive in strike benefits.

UAW President Owen Bieber and chief bargainer Donald Ephlin said in a joint statement shortly before 11 p.m. CDT that "the failure to reach agreements at the local level at some locations has made local strikes unavoidable at 13 GM facilities."

The statement said the union was "still making progress in some areas. However, we will continue the national negotiations and work without a new national agreement."

PUC calls for further study of high voltage power line

AUSTIN (AP) — The Public Utility Commission wants a proposed 400,000-volt power line built, but it doesn't want it constructed through an Episcopal camp in Grimes County.

The commission voted 3-0 Friday to call for a more detailed study of the 155-mile line that three companies want to build from near Huntsville to the South Texas Nuclear Project near Bay City.

More than 1,700 people protested in writing to the commission. Residents along the route complained of possible health hazards.

Many of the letters were sparked by the Rt. Rev. Maurice Benitez of Houston, an Episcopal bishop. The church owns Camp Allen, a 781-acre religious retreat on the proposed route.

Commissioner Dennis Thomas said Friday, "I can see no way that the public interest is served by routing this transmission line through that natural area and, frankly, I am very surprised at that routing decision."

The commission's order says:

— Houston Lighting & Power, Central Power & Light and Southwestern Electric Power Co. (who proposed the power line) must work out a route that avoids the camp. Also, the companies were asked to figure out if the line could be built so that it would not come within 500 feet of homes and businesses.

— Additional testimony on the possible adverse health effects must be collected.

"Put briefly," said Thomas, "it does not appear to me that we have finished our work."

If approved, the line would become part of the "interconnect" system that allows companies to share power. It's a concept the PUC has endorsed.

"The critical factor in my mind is the fact that we do have here a project which potentially has significant benefit to the state of Texas as a whole," PUC Chairman Phil Ricketts said.

Thomas said, "We want this interconnection to take place ... We want the consumer to get the cheapest and most reliable power possible." But Thomas added he is concerned about the possible health problems.

More than 200 opponents showed up at the August hearing on the proposal.

Lonnie Estes of Hempstead, whose home is within 500 feet of the proposed line, said after Friday's ruling, "For the time being it gives us a little peace and quiet. We thought we'd be able to live out our lives without a powerline overhead."

The line "would certainly destroy any resemblance of happiness," he said.

Chuck Machen of Corpus Christi, CP&L director of communications, said his company was "disappointed" with the delay.

"The longer it takes us to get it done, the less benefit it is to the people of Texas," he said.

Jane Fonda not invited to hospital

BRISTOL, Pa. (AP) — Jane Fonda was never invited to receive an award from a hospital that has canceled plans to honor her for contributions to health and physical fitness, says a publicist for the actress.

"It's a comedy of errors," Steve Rivers said Thursday from California. "We had no idea that there was an award."

Marian Moran, spokeswoman for the Delaware Valley Medical Center, said the hospital board decided Tuesday to withdraw its invitation.

Witness testifies Galveston beaches aren't rebuilding

AUSTIN (AP) — Hurricane Alicia pushed the vegetation line along West Galveston beach so that the remains of a damaged home are now on the public beach, a key state witness has testified.

Dr. Robert Morton, associate director of the Bureau of Economic Geology at the University of Texas at Austin, was the state's first witness Friday in its civil suit against Robert Matcha.

Matcha, a University of Houston chemistry professor, and 11 other home owners whose beach homes were damaged by Hurricane Alicia in September 1983, are being sued by the State of Texas.

Attorney General Jim Mattox claims the remains of the Matcha home are now on public beach because the hurricane shifted the vegetation line landward. The vegetation line is the public beach boundary.

Morton said he had been studying and surveying beaches along the Texas shoreline, including Galveston, since 1973. Since Alicia, he has made numerous trips to Galveston to record any signs of recovery from the hurricane damage.

Morton showed more than 40 color slides to the six-man, six-woman jury. A number of slides, including some made as recently as three weeks ago, were of the Matcha property in the Sea Island subdivision.

"The vegetation line is now landward of the Matcha house," Morton testified concerning a slide. "I would estimate the vegetation line was 25 to 30 feet seaward, in front of the Matcha house, before the hurricane."

Morton was asked how far the vegetation line moved inland at the Matcha house during the high winds and water of the hurricane.

"The vegetation line retreated 125 to 150 feet at that point," Morton said.

He said other slides showed the public beach boundary moved only about 50 feet.

Big plays stake Dunbar past Snyder's Ragin' Tigers, 28-7

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

LUBBOCK – Dunbar's Panthers put together a series of big plays to scoot past Snyder in Class 4A non-district football action here Friday evening, 28-7.

For the Ragin' Tigers, it was a night Coach Dennis Tomlin will likely ask his team to forget. Nightmares were made of this.

Snyder dominated early play, but still found itself mired in a 22-7 deficit at halftime as Dunbar scored on a 76-yard punt return, a 22-yard pass and a 30-yard run. The Panthers topped off the scoring with an 80-yard pass play in the fourth quarter.

In all, Dunbar touchdown plays amounted to 132 of the 253 total yards the hosts accumulated - and that does not include the punt return.

In contrast, Snyder rushed for 146 yards in the first two periods, but was stymied more than once by penalties. The climax seemed to hit as the squad was poised on the Panther 1-yard line when time ran out in the half.

In the second half, Snyder held the hosts to a meager 15 yards on the ground and three first downs, but the damage had been done.

Snyder, now 0-2 for 1984, will return home to look again for win number one next Friday, when the Tigers entertain Brownfield at 8 o'clock. Brownfield, also 0-2, lost to Lamesa on Friday, 14-8.

The Tigers came into Friday's contest with enthusiasm, and it grew as tailback James Powell took the opening offensive play - a pitchout - and rambled 80 yards to score. The senior back went down the sidelines, dogged by Dunbar's Victor Roberson most of the way. Roberson caught Powell at the 20 but couldn't bring him down, then grabbed him again at the 5 and both players tumbled into the end zone. Paul Thompson booted the conversion, and the Tigers led 7-0 for the second time in two weeks.

But Dunbar was able to retaliate quickly. After both teams failed to advance on their next possessions, Dunbar's Ed Smith took a Snyder punt and ran it down the west sidelines 76 yards. The extra point attempt appeared doomed after Smith - also the holder on conversions - bobbled the snap, but the 145-pound senior regained composure and with 4:31 left in the first period, ran it in to give Dunbar an 8-7 lead.

Dunbar's second TD came after a one-yard boot from Snyder punter Ricky Hunter, who faced a strong wind and an active Panther punt rush most of the night. The Panthers took over on the Tiger 22-yard line and went the distance in one play as quarterback Michael Freeman hit Willie Rogers on an almost perfect pass. Snyder's Jay Mayo was on the scene, but Rogers nabbed the toss with the defender practically draped over him.

This time Brian Jones got off the extra point try. It was good, and Dunbar led 15-7.

Snyder came back undaunted and marched from its 19 to the 47 before Dunbar's defense held and forced another punt.

Set up on their own 34, the Panthers got 10 yards on two carries by tailback Clyde Davis, but it was fullback Nelson Pearson who did the damage. Pearson dodged and darted for 26 yards on the third play of the drive, then took Dunbar's version of student body left 30 yards to the Tiger end zone, scoring with 6:08 left in the half. Jones again kicked the conversion, giving Dunbar a 22-7 lead.

Neither team was able to move the football consistantly the rest of the half, but with 1:16 left, Jimmy Hunter gave Snyder field position at the Panther 17 when he fell on a Dunbar fumble. Runningback Justin Webb immediately ran off eight yards on first down, but time was ticking away for the Tigers, who had called several time outs earlier in the half. Three plays later Webb broke away for another eight-yard gainer to the 2-yard line. With 16 seconds showing, Snyder elected to try an off-tackle play. Webb was stopped at the 1-yard line, and the Tigers were unable to get off another play before time ran out.

The second half was a defensive struggle - with the exception of the 80-yard toss from Freeman to Rogers which came at 10:12 in the fourth period. Jones' kick gave the game its final 28-14 score.

For Snyder, the second half was a lesson in futility as the Tigers tried to pickup fourth down yardage of 2, 5 and 5 yards but were stopped short each time.

The visitor's best drive came in the third period, starting from their 45 and reaching to the Dunbar 19 before a fourth and five play went awry. Snyder also stopped a Dunbar scoring threat at the Tiger 28.

Snyder completed the night with 257 yards and 12 first downs while Dunbar had respective totals of 253 and 9. Snyder outrushed the hosts 211 to 137, but Dunbar won the passing game 116 to 46.

Snyder's Webb was the game's leading rusher with 114 yards on 24 carries. Powell picked up 83 on 12, and Kyle Freeman led in receptions with two for 19 steps.

Pearson had 67 of Dunbar's yards on 9 carries. Davis picked up 61 on 16 - far less than his 187 of a week earlier.

GAIL – Coach Duke Frisbie's Borden County Coyotes ran over Three Way 32-15 for their second straight win of the budding Six-Man football season here Friday night.

Three Way opened the scoring in the first quarter, earning six points on a two-yard run by Wayne Williams. The PAT pass from Brett Steagall to Williams was good, giving the visitors a 7-0 lead.

Borden answered later in the period as Chris Cooley dove over from a yard out. Kirby Williams kicked the two-point conversion to provide the Coyotes with a slim 8-7 advantage.

Still later in the quarter, Cooley ran in from 54 yards out. Kirby Williams again booted the PAT and the hosts led 16-7.

Cooley figured in both of the Coyotes' second-half touchdowns as well, hitting Mickey Burkett for a 14-yard strike in the third quarter, then running in himself from five yards out in the fourth. Kirby Williams kicked both conversions.

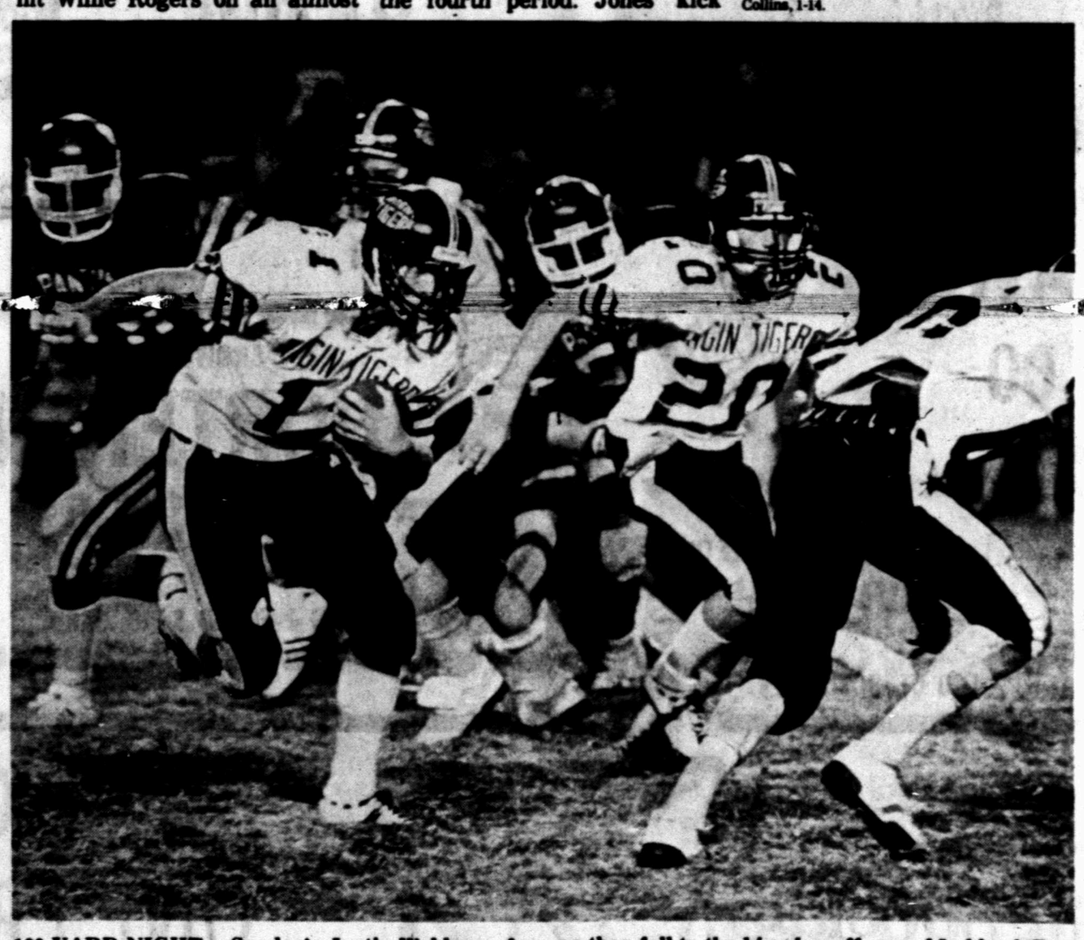

Three Way's final touchdown came early in the fourth when Steagall found Wayne Williams on a 40-yard touchdown pass. Steagall kicked the conversion.

Borden County ran up 329 yards on the ground as Cooley had 224 yards on 23 carries, Bric Turner 67 on 11 carries and Dennis Buchanan 38 on 8 carries.

Coach Frisbie said the strong winds Friday didn't hurt his Coyotes' defense any.

"Our defense limited them to just 80 yards rushing and forced them to pass, but passing is what

100-YARD NIGHT – Snyder's Justin Webb ran for 114 yards on 24 carries Friday and teammate James Powell picked up 83 on 12, but the Tigers were able turn the yardage into only one touchdown as they fell to the big play offense of Lubbock Dunbar, 28-7. CHRISTOVAL – Ira's Bulldogs weren't particularly happy with their 20-20 tie with Christoval here Friday, but they certainly showed they are a force to be reckoned with in 4-1A South Zone competition this year.

"We couldn't put the ball in the end zone. We made a few mistakes that killed ourselves," said Ira Coach Mitch Lee, whose 'Dogs dominated the game statistically. "But I'm sure the spectators got their money's worth."

The contest was hard fought as the teams swapped leads in the second half, ending in a deadlock when Christoval's Robert Chavez missed a 23-yard field goal with seven seconds left to play. Ira did get off a deep pass in one last shot at winning the game, but it fell incomplete.

"I think we learned something but at the same time we felt like we should have won the ballgame. What they say about a tie being like kissing your sister is true. Our offensive line did a good job blocking, especially on sweeps. We just killed ourselves with bobbles or mistakes. We had three or four fumbles that we recovered, but they killed drives," added Lee, whose team had eight penetrations to Christoval's four.

Neither team tallied in the first quarter, but Christoval found the end zone with 9:55 to play in the half when Edward Garcia scored on a 12-yard run. Chavez kicked the PAT. Then, 30 seconds before halftime, the hosts struck again on a 25-yard field goal by Chavez, taking a 12-0 lead into intermission.

Christoval's other TD came after Ira had taken a 14-12 lead on a 1-yard run by Jay Clark and a 2-yard run by Bruce Strickland, both in the third quarter. Strickland booted one two-point conversion. Christoval regained the lead when Steve Fava broke free for a 55-yard touchdown

2-4A grid roundup

Week number two in District 2-4A football produced a four-four split among loop schools, with Fort Stockton, Lamesa, Monahans and Pecos remaining as the only unbeaten teams.

Fort Stockton romped over Alpine 27-9, Lamesa edged Brownfield 14-8, Monahans thrashed Hobbs, N.M. 28-0 and Pecos topped Carlsbad, N.M. 23-7.

On the losing side, Midland High popped Andrews 20-7, Abilene High outlasted Sweetwater 18-7, Lubbock Dunbar punched Snyder 28-7 and Killeen Ellison whipped San Angelo Lake View 13-0.

Snyder and Lake View remain the only 2-4A teams without a win in the young season. The Ragin' Tigers hope to rectify that next Friday when they entertain twice-beaten Brownfield in their final non-district tilt. Lake View must take on the big-play offense of Dunbar, a 2-0 squad.

Sweetwater and Andrews, who lost after stepping up from 3A opponents to 5A opponents this week, are both 1-1. Sweetwater steps back down to 3A next week to entertain Breckenridge while Andrews entertains winless Levelland.

Lamesa, off to a solid start, hopes to win its third straight game as Seminole calls on Friday (Sept. 21), while Fort Stockton is the only 2-4A team on the road, at El Paso Ysleta. Pecos and Monahans have the night off.

4-1A grid roundup

Borden County and defending state champ Highland remained the only unbeaten, untied teams in District 4-1A's South Zone Friday night, while McCaulley still has not found a victory.

Borden's Coyotes stopped Three Way 32-15 while Highland conquered Divide 52-24.

Ira is still undefeated after two weeks of play, but the Bulldogs' 20-20 deadlock with Christoval leaves them at 1-0-1.

Meanwhile, Dawson squeezed past Grady 40-36 and Guthrie smashed McCaulley 39-6.

Next Friday, Borden hosts its third straight opponent, Wellman this time, while Ira welcomes Divide, Grady entertains Christoval, Highland entertains Blackwell and McCaulley is at Novice.

Ira came back to tie it all up with 5:42 left in the game when Strickland scored from a yard out. His PAT kick went awry, however, leaving the game deadlocked.

Chiefs, Giants place win streaks on line

by The Associated Press

The Kansas City Chiefs and New York Giants put their unbeaten streaks on the line Sunday, and both are underdogs - perhaps owing to their long tradition of being National Football League doormats.

The Chiefs, who haven't made the playoffs since 1971 when Len Dawson was the quarterback, come home to Arrowhead Stadium, which is expected to pack a crowd of 78,000 for their confrontation against the Super Bowl champion Los Angeles Raiders, also 2-0.

The Giants, with quarterback Phil Simms providing the offensive thrust in victories over Philadelphia and Dallas, are off to their best start since going 4-0 in 1968. They visit the Washington Redskins, who surprisingly have dropped their first two games.

Four other teams are unbeaten - Seattle, Chicago, San Francisco and Miami.

In other Sunday games, Seattle visits New England, Chicago journeys to Green Bay and New Orleans is at San Francisco.

Elsewhere, Detroit is at Tampa Bay, Philadelphia at Dallas, St. Louis at Indianapolis, Cincinnati at the New York Jets, Denver at Cleveland, Houston at San Diego, Los Angeles Rams at Pittsburgh, and Atlanta at Minnesota.

Cowboys look for Dorsett to have big day on Sunday

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Going back to the 1983 season, it's been two games since Dallas running back Tony Dorsett has produced a 100-yard day but the Cowboys feel they can correct that problem Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles.

To have your running game going you really have to be coordinated," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "Everybody has to do their job.

"Right now Tony is running as well as he ever has run. He probably would have rushed for 100 yards easy if we hadn't fallen behind the (New York) Giants 21-0 last Sunday. We hope to pickup our running game."

Dorsett rushed for 95 yards on 15 carries in that 28-7 loss and is just 85 yards away from becoming the sixth leading rusher in NFL history.

Dorsett has 8,512 career rushing yards, shy of Jim Taylor's 8,597.

In the past three Dallas-Philadelphia games, Dorsett has been held to 92, 51 and 69 yards. He last gained more than 100 yards against the Eagles on Dec. 13, 1981 when he had 101 yards on 28 carries.

The Cowboys are 37-2 in games where Dorsett registers 100 yards or more.

"We've been doing a lot of shuffling in our offensive line but I believe things are settling down," said Dorsett. "We'll start running the ball pretty good."

Dallas and Philadelphia, each 1-1, collide Sunday at Texas Stadium in the Cowboys' home opener. The Cowboys are rated an eight point favorite with the oddsmakers in the 3 p.m. CDT tilt.

The Eagles have a pretty good running back of their own in Wilbert Montgomery, who didn't play against Dallas last season because of injury.

"Playing Dallas will always be something special to me," said Montgomery, who was a running back at Abilene Christian before the Eagles drafted him in the sixth round in 1977.

"That playoff game in 1980 was the highlight of my career."

Montgomery beat the Cowboys for 194 yards rushing to ignite the Eagles to a 20-7 National Football Conference championship.

He missed 11 games last season with a knee injury, including two against Dallas, and didn't play in the Eagles' first three exhibition games this season.

Montgomery rushed for 98 yards last week in a 19-17 victory over Minnesota to become the Eagles' career rushing leader at 5,860 yards.

Dallas is 0-2 against Philadelphia in Texas Stadium.

Midland wins first WJCAC tourney with score of 274

SUNDOWN -- Midland College, led by Randy Winn's four-under par 66, took an early lead in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference golf standings here Friday.

The Chaparrals shot a six-under 274 to win the 18-hole tournament by three strokes over defending conference champion New Mexico Junior College, who turned in a 277. Midland received six conference points for the first-place finish; New Mexico got five.

Western Texas College finished in sixth place with a 288, earning one conference point.

"It (288) is a good score anywhere but at Sundown," said WTC Coach Dave Foster. "You have to have a couple of people play under par, and we were not able to do that. Overall we played well. We're looking for a higher finish when we host the next tournament."

Western entertains the second WJCAC tourney on Sept. 22 at the college course.

The first tournament was played at Sundown because the grounds at Levelland - home of host South Plains College - were under repair.

Odessa college placed third here with a 279 and earned four points while New Mexico Military Institute shot a 281 and received three points. South Plains, bouyed by Brad Boynton's medalist-tying 66, shot a 283 and took two conference points.

"Out of 36 players, 14 were even par or under," said Foster. "The conference this year will be tougher than last year. Everyone has a shot at it (the title)."

Dusters have what it takes to stand out in '84-85 season

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

As one who has been coaching for better than 10 years, Joe Cushing knows the dangers of expecting too much. But as one of the top junior college coaches in the country, the WTC Dusters' coach also knows the makings of a fine team when he sees it, and he believes in 1984-85 he has one.

"I know the conference will be tough. I think we'll be picked to win it. But right now, that's the furtherest thing from my mind," said Cushing, whose teams have never finished below second in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference. He can boast a .746 winning average in his six years as coach of the Dusters.

Excited is the word to describe Cushing, who returns seven sophomores - including three starters - from last year's record-setting 27-8 squad.

"The most impressive thing about this team is its leadership and number two, its intensity level. I just can't believe how intense these girls are," said Cushing. "And number three, the dedication."

Not only does the team have experience, leadership, intensity and dedication but it has an abundance of talent, in both its sophomore and freshman ranks.

It includes 6-2 all-conference, all-region selection Clara "Speed" Campbell of Dallas, who led the conference in blocked shots with 116 last season while averaging 14.8 points and 9.4 rebounds.

Also returning are defensive standout Renvy Evans, 6-0 from Midland Greenwood, who averaged 9.2 points and 5.1 boards, and key floor director Rhonda Hoelting, 5-6 from Nazareth.

Others back are 5-11 Lyndy French of Sonora, 5-11 Judy Wiseman of Sudan; 6-1 Patti Hayes of Florida and 5-8 Beth Elliott of Lubbock. French, Hayes and Wiseman saw considerable action last season. Despite a fine group of freshmen, Cushing is counting on great things from his sophomores, including French.

"In terms of confidence, ability and leadership, Lyndy is probably the most improved player we have back," said Cushing. "She has really progressed."

And there is Evans, who also has the potential of being one of the best players ever to don a Dusters' jersey.

"Without a doubt Renvy Evans is the best defensive player I've ever coached," the coach said. "I'm talking about technique and reaction. She's phenominal."

The group of freshmen includes 6-5 Jill Rippentrap from Little Elm, 5-10 Renee Raemakers of Nazareth, 5-11 Lenetta Richardson of Spur; 5-7 Rhonda Chisum of Lubbock and 5-8 Diana Quincy of Ralls.

Others include 5-11 Leslie Rose of Loraine, 5-6 Kim Harris of Spur, 5-10 Debbie Moore of Crosbyton and 5-10 Charlotte Carter of Anson.

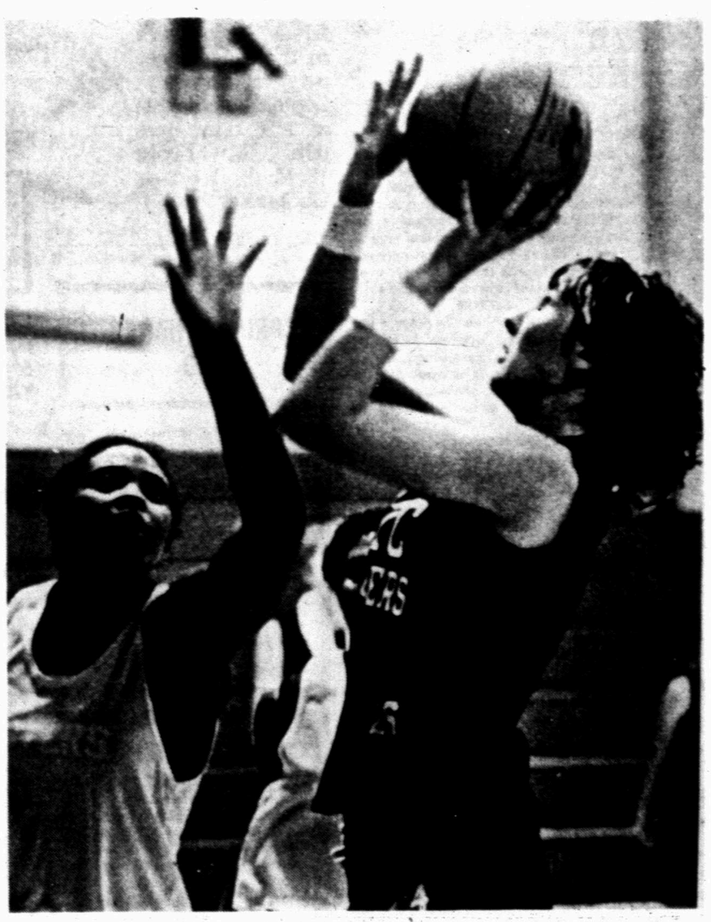

"Renee Romakers, Rhonda Chisum and Lenetta Richardson, all three are really looking good," beamed the coach. "I had a feeling they would but everyone has an adjustment period. I feel like they've been here a year already. They all have knowledge of the game and the fundamentals to go with it. Richardson is probably the quickest of the newcomers and already is an extremely quick defensive player. She has very quick hands.

"Our 6-5 freshman girl (Rippentrap) is progressing every day, getting more confidence. We'll bring her around slowly but she may have to step in and help out. I think she'll be able to handle it," said the coach.

If Rippentrap or another player can pick up the system quickly, it will be an added bonus to the squad.

"If we have a weak spot, it's (experienced) depth at the post. We have quality, but not much depth. We can count on Clara and Patti and Jill will come along so it could turn out to be real solid," said Cushing. "Leslie Rose could help us there, too. It's just a question of time with her."

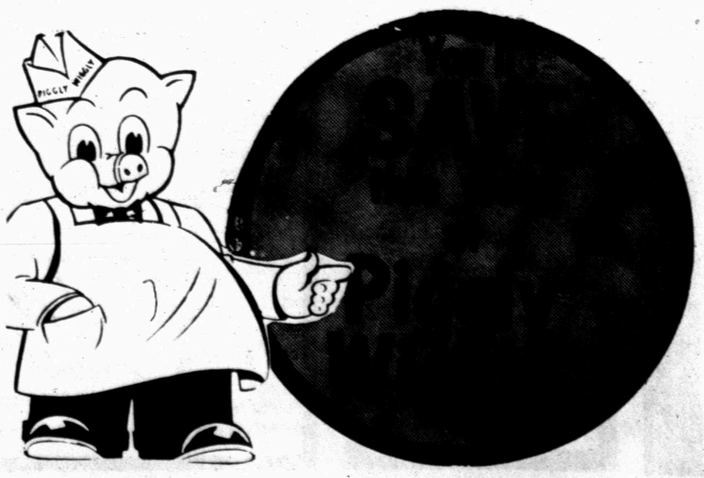

With the first game not scheduled to start until Nov. 1 and the first WJCAC game not until the 27th, time is something Cushing has a little of. And unless some unforseable tragedy occurs, the 1984-85 Dusters are only going to get better and better.

Big plays stake Dunbar past Snyder's Ragin' Tigers, 28-7

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

LUBBOCK – Dunbar's Panthers put together a series of big plays to scoot past Snyder in Class 4A non-district football action here Friday evening, 28-7.

For the Ragin' Tigers, it was a night Coach Dennis Tomlin will likely ask his team to forget. Nightmares were made of this.

Snyder dominated early play, but still found itself mired in a 22-7 deficit at halftime as Dunbar scored on a 76-yard punt return, a 22-yard pass and a 30-yard run. The Panthers topped off the scoring with an 80-yard pass play in the fourth quarter.

In all, Dunbar touchdown plays amounted to 132 of the 253 total yards the hosts accumulated - and that does not include the punt return.

In contrast, Snyder rushed for 146 yards in the first two periods, but was stymied more than once by penalties. The climax seemed to hit as the squad was poised on the Panther 1-yard line when time ran out in the half.

In the second half, Snyder held the hosts to a meager 15 yards on the ground and three first downs, but the damage had been done.

Snyder, now 0-2 for 1984, will return home to look again for win number one next Friday, when the Tigers entertain Brownfield at 8 o'clock. Brownfield, also 0-2, lost to Lamesa on Friday, 14-8.

The Tigers came into Friday's contest with enthusiasm, and it grew as tailback James Powell took the opening offensive play - a pitchout - and rambled 80 yards to score. The senior back went down the sidelines, dogged by Dunbar's Victor Roberson most of the way. Roberson caught Powell at the 20 but couldn't bring him down, then grabbed him again at the 5 and both players tumbled into the end zone. Paul Thompson booted the conversion, and the Tigers led 7-0 for the second time in two weeks.

But Dunbar was able to retaliate quickly. After both teams failed to advance on their next possessions, Dunbar's Ed Smith took a Snyder punt and ran it down the west sidelines 76 yards. The extra point attempt appeared doomed after Smith - also the holder on conversions - bobbled the snap, but the 145-pound senior regained composure and with 4:31 left in the first period, ran it in to give Dunbar an 8-7 lead.

Dunbar's second TD came after a one-yard boot from Snyder punter Ricky Hunter, who faced a strong wind and an active Panther punt rush most of the night. The Panthers took over on the Tiger 22-yard line and went the distance in one play as quarterback Michael Freeman hit Willie Rogers on an almost perfect pass. Snyder's Jay Mayo was on the scene, but Rogers nabbed the toss with the defender practically draped over him.

This time Brian Jones got off the extra point try. It was good, and Dunbar led 15-7.

Snyder came back undaunted and marched from its 19 to the 47 before Dunbar's defense held and forced another punt.

Set up on their own 34, the Panthers got 10 yards on two carries by tailback Clyde Davis, but it was fullback Nelson Pearson who did the damage. Pearson dodged and darted for 26 yards on the third play of the drive, then took Dunbar's version of student body left 30 yards to the Tiger end zone, scoring with 6:08 left in the half. Jones again kicked the conversion, giving Dunbar a 22-7 lead.

Neither team was able to move the football consistantly the rest of the half, but with 1:16 left, Jimmy Hunter gave Snyder field position at the Panther 17 when he fell on a Dunbar fumble. Runningback Justin Webb immediately ran off eight yards on first down, but time was ticking away for the Tigers, who had called several time outs earlier in the half. Three plays later Webb broke away for another eight-yard gainer to the 2-yard line. With 16 seconds showing, Snyder elected to try an off-tackle play. Webb was stopped at the 1-yard line, and the Tigers were unable to get off another play before time ran out.

The second half was a defensive struggle - with the exception of the 80-yard toss from Freeman to Rogers which came at 10:12 in the fourth period. Jones' kick gave the game its final 28-14 score.

For Snyder, the second half was a lesson in futility as the Tigers tried to pickup fourth down yardage of 2, 5 and 5 yards but were stopped short each time.

The visitor's best drive came in the third period, starting from their 45 and reaching to the Dunbar 19 before a fourth and five play went awry. Snyder also stopped a Dunbar scoring threat at the Tiger 28.

Snyder completed the night with 257 yards and 12 first downs while Dunbar had respective totals of 253 and 9. Snyder outrushed the hosts 211 to 137, but Dunbar won the passing game 116 to 46.

Snyder's Webb was the game's leading rusher with 114 yards on 24 carries. Powell picked up 83 on 12, and Kyle Freeman led in receptions with two for 19 steps.

Pearson had 67 of Dunbar's yards on 9 carries. Davis picked up 61 on 16 - far less than his 187 of a week earlier.

GAIL – Coach Duke Frisbie's Borden County Coyotes ran over Three Way 32-15 for their second straight win of the budding Six-Man football season here Friday night.

Three Way opened the scoring in the first quarter, earning six points on a two-yard run by Wayne Williams. The PAT pass from Brett Steagall to Williams was good, giving the visitors a 7-0 lead.

Borden answered later in the period as Chris Cooley dove over from a yard out. Kirby Williams kicked the two-point conversion to provide the Coyotes with a slim 8-7 advantage.

Still later in the quarter, Cooley ran in from 54 yards out. Kirby Williams again booted the PAT and the hosts led 16-7.

Cooley figured in both of the Coyotes' second-half touchdowns as well, hitting Mickey Burkett for a 14-yard strike in the third quarter, then running in himself from five yards out in the fourth. Kirby Williams kicked both conversions.

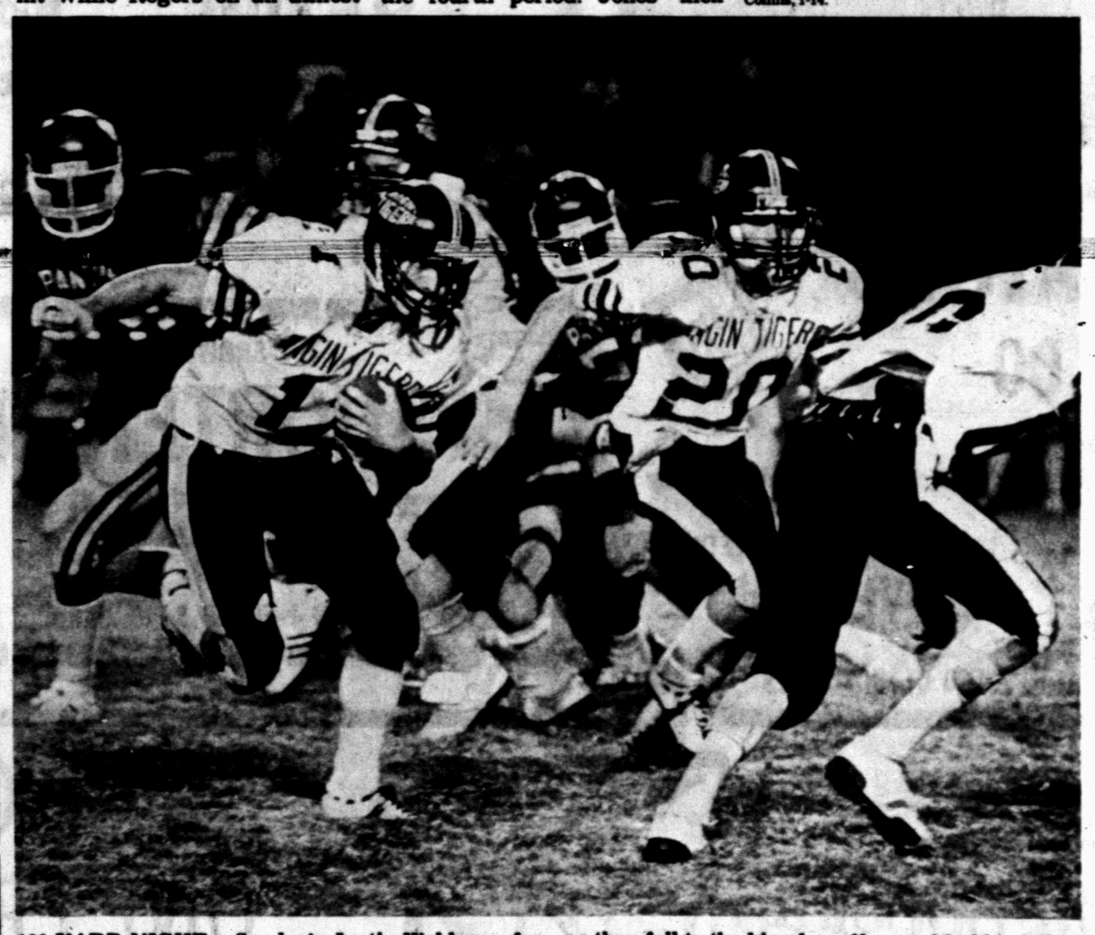

Three Way's final touchdown came early in the fourth when Steagall found Wayne Williams on a 40-yard touchdown pass. Steagall kicked the conversion.

Borden County ran up 329 yards on the ground as Cooley had 224 yards on 23 carries, Bric Turner 67 on 11 carries and Dennis Buchanan 38 on 8 carries.

Coach Frisbie said the strong winds Friday didn't hurt his Coyotes' defense any.

100-YARD NIGHT – Snyder's Justin Webb ran for 114 yards on 24 carries Friday and teammate James Powell picked up 83 on 12, but the Tigers were able turn the yardage into only one touchdown as they fell to the big play offense of Lubbock Dunbar, 28-7. CHRISTOVAL – Ira's Bulldogs weren't particularly happy with their 20-20 tie with Christoval here Friday, but they certainly showed they are a force to be reckoned with in 4-1A South Zone competition this year.

"We couldn't put the ball in the end zone. We made a few mistakes that killed ourselves," said Ira Coach Mitch Lee, whose 'Dogs dominated the game statistically. "But I'm sure the spectators got their money's worth."

The contest was hard fought as the teams swapped leads in the second half, ending in a deadlock when Christoval's Robert Chavez missed a 23-yard field goal with seven seconds left to play. Ira did get off a deep pass in one last shot at winning the game, but it fell incomplete.

"I think we learned something but at the same time we felt like we should have won the ballgame. What they say about a tie being like kissing your sister is true. Our offensive line did a good job blocking, especially on sweeps. We just killed ourselves with bobbles or mistakes. We had three or four fumbles that we recovered, but they killed drives," added Lee, whose team had eight penetrations to Christoval's four.

Neither team tallied in the first quarter, but Christoval found the end zone with 9:55 to play in the half when Edward Garcia scored on a 12-yard run. Chavez kicked the PAT. Then, 30 seconds before halftime, the hosts struck again on a 25-yard field goal by Chavez, taking a 12-0 lead into intermission.

Christoval's other TD came after Ira had taken a 14-12 lead on a 1-yard run by Jay Clark and a 2-yard run by Bruce Strickland, both in the third quarter. Strickland booted one two-point conversion. Christoval regained the lead when Steve Fava broke free for a 55-yard touchdown

2-4A grid roundup

Week number two in District 2-4A football produced a four-four split among loop schools, with Fort Stockton, Lamesa, Monahans and Pecos remaining as the only unbeaten teams.

Fort Stockton romped Alpine 27-9, Lamesa edged Brownfield 14-8, Monahans thrashed Hobbs, N.M. 28-0 and Pecos topped Carlsbad, N.M. 23-7.

On the losing side, Midland High popped Andrews 20-7, Abilene High outlasted Sweetwater 18-7, Lubbock Dunbar punched Snyder 28-7 and Killeen Ellison whipped San Angelo Lake View 13-0.

Snyder and Lake View remain the only 2-4A teams without a win in the young season. The Ragin' Tigers hope to rectify that next Friday when they entertain twice-beaten Brownfield in their final non-district tilt. Lake View must take on the big-play offense of Dunbar, a 2-0 squad.

Sweetwater and Andrews, who lost after stepping up from 3A opponents to 5A opponents this week, are both 1-1. Sweetwater steps back down to 3A next week to entertain Breckenridge while Andrews entertains winless Levelland.

Lamesa, off to a solid start, hopes to win its third straight game as Seminole calls on Friday (Sept. 21), while Fort Stockton is the only 2-4A team on the road, at El Paso Ysleta. Pecos and Monahans have the night off.

4-1A grid roundup

Borden County and defending state champ Highland remained the only unbeaten, untied teams in District 4-1A's South Zone Friday night, while McCaulley still has not found a victory.

Borden's Coyotes stopped Three Way 32-15 while Highland conquered Divide 52-24.

Ira is still undefeated after two weeks of play, but the Bulldogs' 20-20 deadlock with Christoval leaves them at 1-0-1.

Meanwhile, Dawson squeezed past Grady 40-36 and Guthrie smashed McCaulley 39-6.

Next Friday, Borden hosts its third straight opponent, Wellman this time, while Ira welcomes Divide, Grady entertains Christoval, Highland entertains Blackwell and McCaulley is at Novice.

The Coyotes take their 2-0 record into next week, when they entertain Wellman at 7:30 on Friday.

"We have played two physical football games. We're real pleased," said Frisbie. "We've gotten good effort from the kids."

scamper with 1:50 remaining in the quarter. Chavez's kick made it 20-14..

"That 55-yard run kept them in the ballgame. We had him in the backfield but he broke the tackle and he got away down the sideline," mused Coach Lee.

Ira came back to tie it all up with 5:42 left in the game when Strickland scored from a yard out. His PAT kick went awry, however, leaving the game deadlocked.

Strickland led Ira with 25 carries for 154 yards. Darren Hughes had 26 carries for 135 yards. Lloyd Goswick had eight tackles, Strickland and Reyez Juarez seven each, and Chris Reyna six. Hughes also caught five passes for 41 yards.

The Bulldogs, now 1-0-1, entertain Divide next Friday at 7:30.

Chiefs, Giants place win streaks on line

by The Associated Press

The Kansas City Chiefs and New York Giants put their unbeaten streaks on the line Sunday, and both are underdogs - perhaps owing to their long tradition of being National Football League doormats.

The Chiefs, who haven't made the playoffs since 1971 when Len Dawson was the quarterback, come home to Arrowhead Stadium, which is expected to pack a crowd of 78,000 for their confrontation against the Super Bowl champion Los Angeles Raiders, also 2-0.

The Giants, with quarterback Phil Simms providing the offensive thrust in victories over Philadelphia and Dallas, are off to their best start since going 4-0 in 1968. They visit the Washington Redskins, who surprisingly have dropped their first two games.

Four other teams are unbeaten - Seattle, Chicago, San Francisco and Miami.

In other Sunday games, Seattle visits New England, Chicago journeys to Green Bay and New Orleans is at San Francisco.

Elsewhere, Detroit is at Tampa Bay, Philadelphia at Dallas, St. Louis at Indianapolis, Cincinnati at the New York Jets, Denver at Cleveland, Houston at San Diego, Los Angeles Rams at Pittsburgh, and Atlanta at Minnesota.

Cowboys look for Dorsett to have big day on Sunday

IRVING, Texas (AP) - S[illegible] back to the 1983 season, it's been five games since Dallas running back Tony Dorsett has produced a 100-yard day but the Cowboys feel they can correct that problem Sunday against the Philadelpia Eagles.

"To have your running game going you really have to be coordinated," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "Everybody has to do their job.

"Right now Tony is running as well as he ever has run. He probably would have rushed for 100 yards easy if we hadn't fallen behind the (New York) Giants 21-0 last Sunday. We hope to pickup our running game."

Dorsett rushed for 95 yards on 15 carries in that 28-7 loss and is just 85 yards away from becoming the sixth leading rusher in NFL history.

Dorsett has 8,512 career rushing yards, shy of Jim Taylor's 8,597.

In the past three Dallas-Philadelphia games, Dorsett has been held to 92, 51 and 69 yards. He last gained more than 100 yards against the Eagles on Dec. 13, 1981 when he had 101 yards on 28 carries.

The Cowboys are 37-2 in games where Dorsett registers 100 yards or more.

"We've been doing a lot of shuffling in our offensive line but I believe things are settling down," said Dorsett. "We'll start running the ball pretty good."

Dallas and Philadelphia, each 1-1, collide Sunday at Texas Stadium in the Cowboys' home opener. The Cowboys are rated an eight point favorite with the oddsmakers in the 3 p.m. CDT

The Eagles have a pretty good running back of their own in Wilbert Mongtomery, who didn't play against Dallas last season because of injury.

"Playing Dallas will always be something special to me," said Montgomery, who was a running back at Abilene Christian before the Eagles drafted him in the sixth round in 1[illegible].

"That playoff game in 1980 was the highlight of my career."

Montgomery beat the Cowboys for 194 yards rushing to ignite the Eagles to a 20-7 National Football Conference championship.

He missed 11 games last season with a knee injury, including two against Dallas, and didn't play in Eagles' first three exhibition games this season.

Montgomery rushed for 98 yards last week in a 19-17 victory over Minnesota to become the Eagles' career rushing leader at 5,860 yards.

Dallas is 10-2 against Philadelphia in Texas Stadium.

Midland wins first WJCAC tourney with score of 274

SUNDOWN – Midland College, led by Randy Winn's four-under par 66, took an early lead in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference golf standings here Friday.

The Chaparrals shot a six-under 274 to win the 18-hole tournament by three strokes over defending conference champion New Mexico Junior College, who turned in a 277. Midland received six conference points for the first-place finish; New Mexico got five.

Western Texas College finished in sixth place with a 288, earning one conference point.

"It (288) is a good score anywhere but at Sundown," said WTC Coach Dave Foster. "You have to have a couple of people play under par, and we were not able to do that. Overall we played well. We're looking for a higher finish when we host the next tournament."

Western entertains the second WJCAC tourney on Sept. 22 at the college course.

The first tournament was played at Sundown because the grounds at Levelland - home of host South Plains College - were under repair.

Odessa college placed third here with a 279 and earned four points while New Mexico Military Institute shot a 281 and received three points. South Plains, bouyed by Brad Boynton's medalist-tying 66, shot a 283 and took two conference points.

"Out of 36 players, 14 were even par or under," said Foster. "The conference this year will be tougher than last year. Everyone has a shot at it (the title)."

Dusters have what it takes to stand out in '84-85 season

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

As one who has been coaching for better than 10 years, Joe Cushing knows the dangers of expecting too much. But as one of the top junior college coaches in the country, the WTC Dusters' coach also knows the makings of a fine team when he sees it, and he believes in 1984-85 he has one.

"I know the conference will be tough. I think we'll be picked to win it. But right now, that's the furtherest thing from my mind," said Cushing, whose teams have never finished below second in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference. He can boast a .746 winning average in his six years as coach of the Dusters.

Excited is the word to describe Cushing, who returns seven sophomores - including three starters - from last year's record-setting 27-8 squad.

"The most impressive thing about this team is its leadership and number two, its intensity level. I just can't believe how intense these girls are," said Cushing. "And number three, the dedication."

Not only does the team have experience, leadership, intensity and dedication but it has an abundance of talent, in both its sophomore and freshman ranks.

It includes 6-2 all-conference, all-region selection Clara "Speed" Campbell of Dallas, who led the conference in blocked shots with 116 last season while averaging 14.8 points and 9.4 rebounds.

Also returning are defensive standout Renvy Evans, 6-0 from Midland Greenwood, who averaged 9.2 points and 5.1 boards, and key floor director Rhonda Hoelting, 5-6 from Nazareth.

Others back are 5-11 Lyndy French of Sonora, 5-11 Judy Wiseman of Sudan; 6-1 Patti Hayes of Florida and 5-8 Beth Elliott of Lubbock. French, Hayes and Wiseman saw considerable action last season. Despite a fine group of freshmen, Cushing is counting on great things from his sophomores, including French.

"In terms of confidence, ability and leadership, Lyndy is probably the most improved player we have back," said Cushing. "She has really progressed."

And there is Evans, who also has the potential of being one of the best players ever to don a Dusters' jersey.

"Without a doubt Renvy Evans is the best defensive player I've ever coached," the coach said. "I'm talking about technique and reaction. She's phenominal."

The group of freshmen includes 6-5 Jill Rippentrap from Little Elm, 5-10 Renee Raemakers of Nazareth, 5-11 Lenetta Richardson of Spur; 5-7 Rhonda Chisum of Lubbock and 5-8 Diana Quincy of Ralls.

Others include 5-11 Leslie Rose of Loraine, 5-6 Kim Harris of Spur, 5-10 Debbie Moore of Crosbyton and 5-10 Charlotte Carter of Anson.

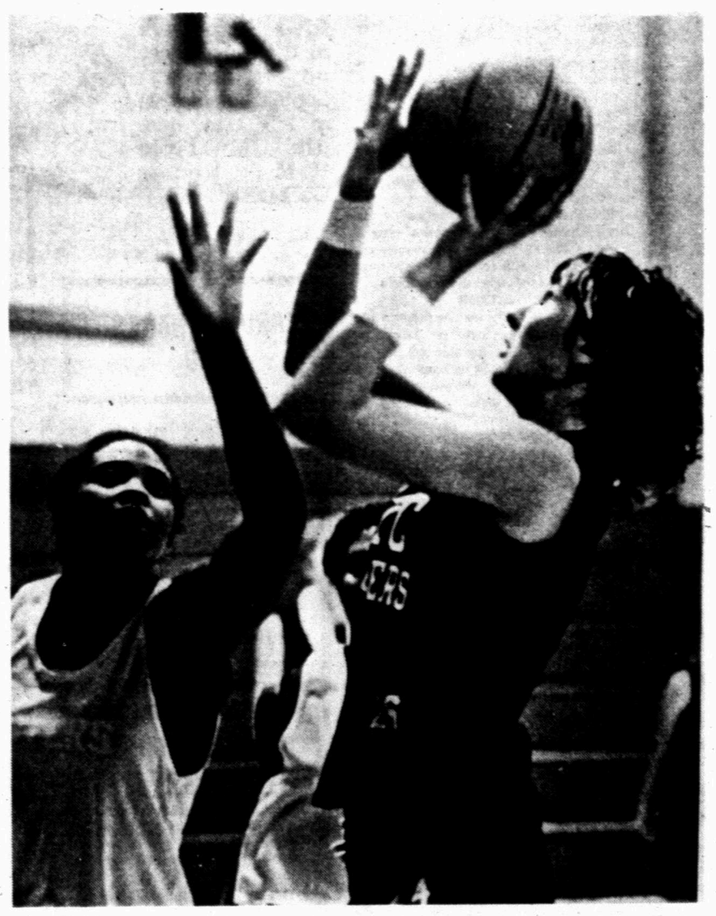

"Renee Romakers, Rhonda Chisum and Lenetta Richardson, all three are really looking good," beamed the coach. "I had a feeling they would but everyone has an adjustment period. I feel like they've been here a year already. They all have knowledge of the game and the fundamentals to go with it. Richardson is probably the quickest of the newcomers and already is an extremely quick defensive player. She has very quick hands.

"Our 6-5 freshman girl (Rippentrap) is progressing every day, getting more confidence. We'll bring her around slowly but she may have to step in and help out. I think she'll be able to handle it," said the coach.

If Rippentrap or another player can pick up the system quickly, it will be an added bonus to the squad.

"If we have a weak spot, it's (experienced) depth at the post. We have quality, but not much depth. We can count on Clara and Patti and Jill will come along so it could turn out to be real solid," said Cushing. "Leslie Rose could help us there, too. It's just a question of time with her."

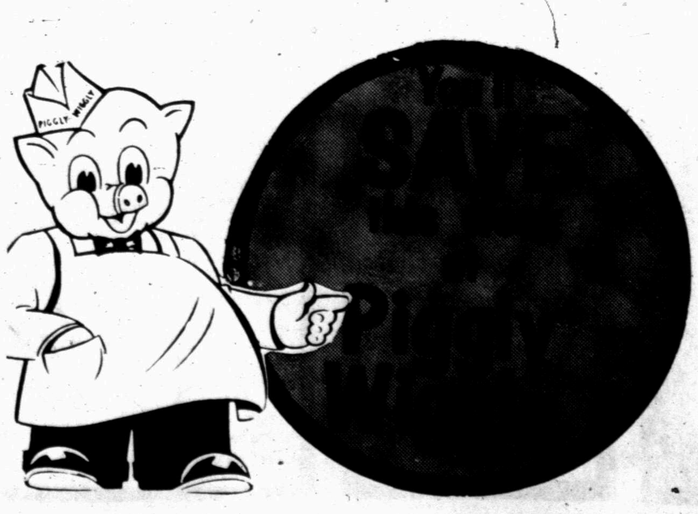

With the first game not scheduled to start until Nov. 1 and the first WJCAC game not until the 27th, time is something Cushing has a little of. And unless some unforseable tragedy occurs, the 1984-85 Dusters are only going to get better and better.

elementary-age youngsters. Entries must be submitted no later than Friday at 3 p.m. and supplies are available at the ER desk.

The week will include a range of health-related medical exams offered free of charge.

County residents may receive exams designed to test for diabetes, sight problems, blood pressure as well as the compatability of prescription drugs.

In addition, hospital staffers Thursday and Friday will offer classes in life-saving training which will enable class members to become certified in CPR.

A mock disaster drill is planned Wednesday also.

Locals wishing more information about any of the week's activities should contact Elissa Clay, a registered nurse and the ER supervisor, at 573-6374.

The following is a complete schedule of events planned during the week.

—Sunday: Open house at the emergency room from noon until 3 p.m. Refreshments will be served in the doctor's lounge.

—Monday: a free diabetic screening is scheduled in the emergency room from 7 until 11 a.m. Individuals are asked to refrain from eating food at least eight hours before the test.

—Tuesday: A drug compatability screening by John Johnson, head of the hospital's pharmacy department. County residents may bring all medications to be checked to insure they are compatible together. They will be advised also if further consultation with a physician is needed.

—Wednesday: A mock disaster drill is planned to illustrate the recent advances in emergency care. Residents are advised not to become alarmed as a realistic scenario is acted out. Emergency vehicles will be in operation.

—Thursday: A basic CPR life-saving class will be offered free of charge from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. It will be taught by in-service director Yvette Sickler, a registered nurse. Class enrollment will be limited to 10. Certification for taking the course will be given. Persons or groups interested should contact Sickler at 573-6374, ext. 288; or Elissa Clay at ext. 225. Also Thursday, local firemen will demonstrate the "jaws of life" extrication device at the Kmart parking lot at 4 p.m.

Friday: the basic CPR life saving classes will repeat Friday. Times will be the same with a class size limitation of 20. In addition, a free blood pressure screening clinic will be offered at the emergency room from noon until 3 p.m. Also, the drug compatability screening will be repeated from 11:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. in the ER waiting room.

—Saturday (Sept. 22): Free eye examinations will be offered in the ER lobby from 8 a.m. until noon.

4 workers killed when explosion rips through oil rig

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Four workers were believed dead and an unknown number of others were injured Friday when an explosion and fire tore through an offshore drilling rig in deep Gulf of Mexico waters about 120 miles southwest of New Orleans, the rig's owner said.

Three of the injured were airlifted with critical burns to West Jefferson General Hospital and the others were taken by crewboats in the area to another nearby Zapata Offshore Inc. rig, said Barney White, a spokesman for Zapata Offshore in Houston.

No identities were released immediately.

The explosion — its cause still unexplained — happened about 1 p.m. CDT aboard the Zapata Lexington 26, an 80-foot tall, natural gas exploration rig standing in seas 1,465 feet deep, White said.

He said the fire was extinguished soon after the explosion and conditions were good enough to put nine men back aboard the rig.

Four sets of twins attend k-classes

FREMONT, Neb. (AP) — A class full of anxious new kindergartners could make any teacher see double.

But there is no trick of the eye fooling Bonnie Havekost, a teacher at Howard Elementary School.

Mrs. Havekost greets four sets of twins each day.

"In 25 years I have never seen more than one set of twins in a kindergarten class," says Harlan Spangler, the principal.

"We've had no problems at all. They're all quite individual so I don't notice any difference at all," said Mrs. Havekost.

Fortunately, none of the twins in her class are identical.

And instead of double trouble, Mrs. Havekost has the makings of a lesson plan at hand.

"It's as exciting for the other kids in the class as it is for me," she said. "It makes a good chance for us to study what twins are. The kids just ooh and aah about it."

Mrs. Havekost has one set, Todd and Tara Petrzelka, in her morning class.

Distribution of cheese set

Cheese and butter will be distributed Wednesday at the Scurry County Senior Center, 2603 Ave. M.

Times will be from 9 until 11:30 a.m. for those whose last name begins with the letters A-L. The distribution will be from 1 until 4 p.m. for those with last names beginning with M-Z.

New applications will be accepted all day. To apply, persons must bring personal identification, some item proving residence in this county and any award letters if any other kind of aid is received.

New directives have been received and persons previously not qualified may now be eligible.

One new rule is a post office box number is no longer considered a sufficient address. In addition, a child under 18 that lives at home and is employed should not declare his wages with the other family members as their total income; and a person 21 or under going to school at least half-time does not count his income in the family total.

Individuals who are homebound and who have not received cheese and butter by next Friday may call the senior center for assistance. The number is 573-4035.

There will be no makeups this months. All recipients are to enter the north door of the center.

juries forced her to give up the sport of hunting. Her husband suggested she start "shooting" animals a different way. Even though she had never owned a camera, she took up photography.

The self-taught artist now spends several months out of every year on the road, exhibiting her photography in shows throughout the country.

Several more months are spent in the wilderness and taking pictures. Her collection of more than 7,000 slides includes wildlife from Europe, Scotland and the United Kingdom, as well as the Pecos wilderness, Grand Cayman, Mexico and most of the southern and mountainous states.

Sunday's exhibit will also feature two bronze sculptures by Dr. Robert Taylor.

The exhibit will be in place through Oct. 16. Information about special tours may be obtained by calling the museum staff at 573-6107.

Restaurant cash reported missing

Snyder police are investigating the theft of a money bag from a local restaurant Friday night.

According to reports, Don Gressett, owner of the Lota Burger on College Ave., called police at 10:17 p.m. Friday.

He told investigators a money bag containing an undetermined amount of cash and numerous checks had apparently been taken from the restaurant earlier in the evening.

In other action, city officers jailed three subjects for public intoxication and two for DWI Friday evening. One of the DWI suspects was also charged with unlawfully carrying a weapon.

Scurry County Folks...

By Vicki Brown SDN Society Editor

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-root Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters were familiar household names in the late 1800's and early 1900's.

To G.A. Parks Jr., the bottles are still current — prized possessions in his collection of old glass bottles and jars.

Parks began collecting bottles about 25 years ago after visiting a museum owned by a Mrs. Schultze. Fascinated by her husband's bottles which came mainly from old Army forts, Parks decided to start hunting for them too. Today he has over 500, some displayed in his home and others stored in the attic.

Some people collect bottles because they like the variety of colors glass manufacturers have used. Some like antiques. Parks collects primarily for historic value. Born and raised in Scurry County, he prefers bottles that reflect its people and events.

How can a bottle reflect area history? Since a glass company's product is its own advertisement, a bottle will reflect that company's history. Many glass makers put a company mark on their items, such as a name or a symbol. Ball fruit jars is one example.

Generally a bottle will reveal more about the company who filled it than the one which made it. Among Parks' most valuable items are two bottles manufactured by the Snyder Bottling Works located between 24th and 25th Streets beside the Roscoe, Snyder and Pacific tracks. The first can be dated between 1879 and 1892 because the company used the Hutchinson stopper patented April 8, 1879. "Pop" became the popular name for soda water because of the Hutchinson design. Since the bottle was sealed with a washer inside the lip, the consumer had to strike the top to force the seal open, making a popping sound. A wire attached to the top allowed the washer to be pulled back up to reseal the contents.

His other prized bottle can be dated between 1892 and 1904. In 1892, crown stoppers like those used today replaced the Hutchinson design. Since Parks second bottle utilized the crown stopper, it had to have been made after 1892. The bottle's side seams disappear before reaching the lip which indicates that it was made prior to 1904. He said, "The halves were made in a mold then given an applied lip. In other words, the lip was made separately, the two halves were put together, then the lip was put on top."

He also has a third Snyder bottle embossed with "Big Boy" and "Snyder, Tex." made after the plant became Big Boy Bottling Company and moved to 26th Street on the site of West Texas State Bank's parking lot.

Parks also has bottles representing Grayum Drugs, the Rotan Bottling Works and City Drug Store, which was operated by Woodrow and Charlie Stimson.

Sometimes the history of the bottle lies, not in its maker or its use, but in its owner. A keepsake perfume bottle labeled "Locust Bloom Mellier" was found in a trunk belonging to Pete Brady. Associated with the First State Bank, Brady left town when the bank folded in 1932 leaving his trunk with T.B. Scribner.

Even though Parks usually has no idea who used the bottles' contents, he enjoys speculating about the people who discarded them. "I found a Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine bottle near the site of the old Ennis Creek Schoolhouse," he remarked.

He has several patent medicine and bitters bottles. Bitters was an acceptable way to drink alcohol, according to H.E. Putnam in his book, "Bottle Identification." He says, "King George the Second of England increased taxes on all beverages and limited the number of 'Pubs' allowed in each village. This tax was evaded by making BITTERS which was supposed to be a tonic or medicine. It was 60 percent alcohol with just about anything in it that would make it taste like medicine instead of whiskey." The concoctions became popular in this country.

A bottle is considered rare either because only a few of its type were made or because only a few are found these days. One of the rarest Parks owns is a poison bottle he found under an

Couple exchange vows at First Methodist

Tammy Michelle O'Day and Toby Roy Neves exchanged wedding vows at 7 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 18 in the First United Methodist Church. Rev. Miller Robinson, pastor of Colonial Hill Baptist Church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bob O'Day and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Neves, all of Snyder.

The altar was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and carnations flanked by two brass rainbow-arched candelabra, each holding fifteen tapers. Two nine-branch candelabra trees adorned with English ivy completed the setting. The family pews were marked with white satin bows and lily of the valley.

Prior to the ceremony, Jane Womack played piano selections including "The Way He Makes Me Feel," "Nadia's Theme," "The Homecoming," "Theme from On Golden Pond" and "Theme from Ice Castles." Following chimes on the hour, the grandparents and mothers of the couple were seated to "Sunrise, Sunset." Mike O'Day and Tracey Williams, brother and sister of the bride, lit the candles to "Clair de Lune."

Susan Clark and Darrell Collins sang "Almost Paradise," and Collins sang and played an original composition, "Love Stepped into My Life." During the ceremony Clark sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and Collins sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Womack played "March for Maria" on the organ as the attendants entered, and the bride and her father entered to the traditional "Wedding March" by Wagner.

The bride wore a Mori Lee gown of white matte taffeta and re-embroidered Alencon lace adorned with seed pearls. The dress featured a Queen Anne neckline with a sheer yoke and dropped waistline flowing into a full skirt with a cathedral-length, scalloped train trimmed in Alencon lace and taffeta bows. The two-tiered illusion veil with scalloped edging had a short blusher and was attached to a small Juliet cap of re-embroidered lace and pearls.

She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, carnations and baby's breath with aqua and white satin ribbon streamers. She also carried a white lace handkerchief which her maternal grandmother had carried at the wedding of the bride's parents.

For something old the bride wore her great grandmother's gold bracelet which had been worn in previous family weddings. Her gown was new; she borrowed her mother's diamond earrings; and she wore a blue garter. She also wore pennies minted in the years of the couple's births in her shoes.

Tracey Williams, the bride's sister, served as matron of honor. Bridesmatrons were Janet O'Day of El Paso, sister-in-law of the bride, and Susan Neves, sister-in-law of the groom. Bridesmaids were Lisa Henry of Amarillo and Melanie Kinney of Spearman, two of the bride's Chi Omega sisters, with Karin Bates, cousin of the bride, as flower girl. Each wore a full-length aqua taffeta gown featuring a fitted bodice with a sweetheart neckline and full sleeves. The dropped waistline topped a full skirt.

The bridal attendants carried colonial nosegays of aqua and white carnations, stephanotis and dendrobium orchids with aqua and white satin ribbon streamers. They wore baby's breath in their hair. The flower girl carried a white lace basket filled with silk rose petals.

The groom was attired in a white tuxedo with tails and a white rosebud and stephanotis boutonniere.

Roy Neves, the groom's father, served as best man with Tommy Peek of Austin, Wesley Kruger of Lewisville, Scott Neves, cousin of the groom, and Mitch Stone of College Station as groomsmen. Mike O'Day of El Paso served as usher with the groomsmen. Ryan Neves, nephew of the groom, was ringbearer. The male attendants and the father of the bride wore silver gray tuxedos with white carnation boutonnieres. The ringbearer carried a white lace, heart-shaped pillow.

The bride's mother wore a long-sleeved aqua lace formal with a taffeta sash while the groom's mother wore a taupe formal with a matching jacket. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

Kristi Brewer of Mansfield, the bride's cousin, registered guests at a table decorated with an antique, rosepoint lace cloth over a floor-length white skirt.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents hosted the reception in Wesley Hall.

Covered with an aqua cloth over a white floor-length skirt, the bride's table was centered with a silver candelabra holding aqua tapers and adorned with baby's breath and greenery. Elegant scrollwork and green leaves trimmed the four-tiered white cake topped with white silk flowers. Punch was served from a silver punch bowl and mints were on an antique silver cake stand. Melanie Kritzer of Dallas and Michelle Williams presided.

The groom's table was covered with an aqua fringed cloth over a floor-length skirt. Susan Kruger of Lewisville served the hexagonal shaped German chocolate cake trimmed with the Texas A & M insignia. Jane Ann Billingsley served coffee from a brass service.

Members of the houseparty included Anne Adams, Linda Sellers, Wanda Short, Jo Ann Peek and Jo Ann Littlepage with Sandra Robinson as wedding director.

Melissa and Matt Pherigo passed out rice and birdseed from straw baskets lined with aqua cloths.

Out-of-town guests attended from Hondo, El Paso, Sugarland, Mansfield, Lewisville, Austin, College Station, Amarillo, Dallas, Spearman, Jayton, San Angelo, Kermit, Odessa and Abilene.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Spanish Inn.

Both the bride and the groom graduated from Snyder High School in 1980. A 1982 graduate of Western Texas college and a 1984 graduate of West Texas State University, the bride is a registered nurse at St. Joseph Hospital in Bryan, where the couple will live following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M. The groom will continue his studies in petroleum engineering at Texas A & M University.

Vows solemnized in double ring service

On Aug. 3 at 7 p.m., Brandi Shawn Campbell became the bride of David Roy Thompson.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Don Campbell of Fluvanna and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thompson of Snyder.

The candlelight, double ring ceremony took place at the Fluvanna Church of Christ and was officiated by the bride's father, minister. A large, white, wrought iron candelabrum entwined with greenery and small silk flowers centered the altar. A large bouquet of silk assorted flowers in the bride's rainbow colors of pink, yellow, blue and green and accented with large white satin bows stood on each side of the cabdelabrum. Smaller candelabras also entwined with greenery and small silk flowers completed the setting. White satin bows enhanced the pews.

After the guests were seated, Mrs. Arlie Eickie, Mrs. Ross Preston, Mrs. Mark Musselman and Carla Jones sang "The Wise Men." As the groom seated the mothers, an accapella chorus consisting of Jones, the Eickes, the Prestons and the Musselmans sang "The Wedding Song." As the candles were lit, the Eickes sang "Just You and I." The chorus sang "The Wedding March" as the bride entered with her father. She presented a single, long-stemmed red rose to her mother after she entered. After the couple was pronounced husband and wife, the Eickes sang "Sunrise, Sunset." The chorus sang "The Wedding Recessional" following the presentation of the couple to the audience. Then the bride presented the groom's mother with a single, long-stemmed red rose.

The bride wore a silk peau de soie wedding dress that her mother had worn in her own wedding 22 years earlier. The fitted bodice, fashioned of chantilly lace, featured a sabrina neckline adorned with pep pearls and iridescent sequins with traditional calla lily sleeves. Lace appliques were scattered on the skirt which had a front of silk peau de soie over lace. Formed of triple tiers edged with hand clipped lace, the skirt back fell into a sweeping chapel train. Her chapel-length veil fell from a crown of chantilly lace and was enhanced by hand clipped lace around the edge.

The bride carried a large bouquet of white silk lilies, roses, rosebuds, baby's breath and needlepoint iyy with white satin and white lace streamers atop a white satin Bible given to her mother by her aunt.

In keeping with tradition, for something old the bride chose her dress and something new was her veil. She borrowed diamond earrings belonging to Mrs. Don Jones of Fluvanna. Her garter served as something blue. She also wore a garter of ecru lace and satin with a gold heart engraved with the couples names and date of the wedding given to her by the groom's mother. In her shoe, she wore pennies minted in the years of the couples births and the year of the wedding.

The maid of honor, Diana Martin of Fort Worth, wore a floor-length pink slipper satin dress which featured a square neckline, large elbow puffed sleeves and a matching, wide satin ribbon and bow. The bridesmaids dresses and the flower girl's dress were made in the same style but of different colors. Bridesmaids and their colors were Connie Henderson in mint green and Teresa Tate in yellow. Each carried white lace fans covered with silk lilies, baby's breath and rosebuds in rainbow colors and accented with silk flowers to match the dresses. Long satin streamers of rainbow colors completed the bouquets. Flower girl Kasi Campbell of Fluvanna, the bride's sister, wore blue. She carried a white wicker basket accented with a satin bow in rainbow colors and white baby's breath and filled with rainbow-colored silk flower petals made by the bride's grandmother. A halo of silk, white baby's breath and small blue and white silk flowers accented with blue satin ribbon formed her hair piece.

Jeff Murphree stood as best man with groomsmen Danny Proctor and Mark Thompson, brother of the groom. Proctor and Thompson also served as candle lighters and ushers. They wore black tuxedos with white pleated shirts and bow ties and cummerbunds to match the bridal attendants' dresses. Their boutonnieres were white silk carnations.

The groom wore a white formal tuxedo with tails, a white pleated shirt, white leather shoes and a single, white silk rosebud boutonniere.

The mother of the bride wore a street-length dress of pale mint green accented with pearl buttons, and the groom's mother chose a street-length dress of teal blue. Their corsages were white silk roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Guy Murphree of Odessa registered guests at a table laid with an ecru floor-length cloth covered by an ecru, hand-crocheted cloth from East Berlin, Germany, belonging to the groom's great grandmother.

The couple and their parents welcomed guests to a reception held in the Fluvanna Community Center. A floor-length, white satin tablecloth overlayed by a white lace cloth covered the table which was centered with a brass tiered candelabrum holding two white tapered candles and the bride's bouquet surrounded by her attendants' bouquets. A cut glass, heart-shaped antique bowl held rainbow-colored chocolates and small round, cut glass bowls held nuts. The bride's three-tiered cake, made by Mrs. Danny Moore of Lubbock, was covered with white fruit-flavored icing. Rainbow lattice work, small rainbow flowers and white roses accented the cake with the tiers separated by glass pedestals. Each layer was centered with a large bouquet of white icing roses. A Precious Moments music box featuring a bride and groom that rotated to "The Wedding March" graced the top. Punch was served from a cut glass bowl. Tammy Phipps of Lubbock and Jamie Harbin presided at the table.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner catered by Gann's Bar-B-Q in the Fluvanna Community Center.

A recent graduate of Snyder High School, the bride is employed by the J.C. Penney Company. The groom is also a graduate of Snyder High School and is employed by Murphree Tool Company.

After a brief wedding trip to the Dallas area, the couple had made their home in Snyder.

old house near Snyder. Its three sides were ridged to make it easily distinguishable in the dark.

Some of his other finds include bottles which were made of clear glass, but which have turned amethyst-colored over the years. According to a story in the March 1971 edition of "Texas Co-op Power," the "amethyst color in a...jar indicated age, for amethyst is the result of the glassmaker's attempt to produce clear glass by adding manganese to counteract iron in the sand."

He also has a graduated baby bottle which lays almost flat on its side. The baby drank from a nipple on the end of a glass tube extending to the bottom.

Another bottle in his collection is a Watkins extract bottle with a "trial mark." According to Parks, Watkins allowed its customers to use an extract down to the mark. If unsatisfied with its quality for any reason, an individual could return the rest for a full refund. In 1973, the Watkins Company reproduced that bottle including the trial mark, a cork stopper and the applied lip. Of course, Parks has one of these too.

Not only does he collect bottles, he gathers information and old advertisements about them and their contents from old newspapers and magazines.

If old bottles are rare, where can they be found? Parks noted, "I've gone to a few meets and shops, but I prefer to hunt for them in old trash piles and dumps and under old houses. You can find unbroken bottles in remarkably good shape under a house, particularly if the house was built before it was popular to underpin them. Used to, when people finished their pop they would simply kick the bottle under the house."

Collectors normally don't tell anyone where a stash might be, so that they can return to the site several times.

Once while looking under an old house for bottles, he found a ledger from a Colorado City store dated 1895. Reading through the book he discovered entries for several Snyder residents including J. Wright Mooar and Pete Snyder.

His interest in history extends beyond his bottle collection. He and his wife Aline were early local supporters of the Ranching Heritage Center in Lubbock. Aline was also one of the editors and writers of three publications released by the Ranch Headquarters Association, "The Coming West" in 1970, "First Cattlemen on the Lower Plains of West Texas" in 1971 and "Early Ranching and Water Sources in West Texas" in 1972.

In addition to helping her with some of the research, Parks has served two terms on the board of directors for the Scurry County Museum. He and his wife have two children, Paula of Houston and Whit of Snyder.

The state of Washington's San Juan Islands are home to one of the largest colonies of breeding bald eagles in the continental United States.

I became a member of Hope for Tomorrow back in 1978. I was very fat, had high blood pressure and I needed desperately to lose weight. So, with the Lord's help and Pat Dennis' help I made up my mind to get it off. The book that Pat gave me said that Nothing is impossible with God, so I stayed on the program and walked 1½ miles every day and swam a lot and lost 54 lbs. Then Pat gave Hope for Tomorrow up and so did I. Then I gained 43 lbs. back. So Pat started Hope for Tomorrow back and I was the first one at her door for night class in May of 1983.

I have lost down to my goal and with God's help I will stay there. We must learn to eat right for our body is the temple of God. There is more to being slim than being slim. There is good health which money cannot buy.

I would like to encourage all young girls and boys that are overweight to learn how to eat and what to eat to get the weight off and keep it off. It is much easier to do it now than when you get older. As for the older ones, do it now. It is not too late. You will feel better, look better and live longer.

Just remember that in Philipians 3:14 it says, "I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." And remember when you get discouraged that when the Lord taught us how to pray he said to give us our daily bread. He did not say to eat enough for a month, just live one day at a time.

Learn from Yesterday,
Live for Today, and
Hope for Tomorrow
I love all of you.

Above the Fold

By Donny Brown

Hands shaking like the palsy, we annually reach for the "Fall Preview" edition of TV Guide.

That's the one that splashes out information regarding the new lineup of TV shows.

We approach it much like a recovered alcoholic must view a bottle of good Kentucky bourbon — for like the alcoholic we are still "recovering" from an early addiction to TV.

It wasn't our fault. We were exposed to it at an early age before people realized its evil side effects and addictive powers.

Folks born in the late 1940s first approached television as heaven's gift.

From that point, our lives were changed as a new constant companion illuminated the living room with its flickering blue light.

During the day, the house must have been quiet as school and jobs took their requirements. Around 5 p.m., the one-eyed beastie was clicked on, and it was locked in that position until sleep had claimed its last victim.

Of course there were occasions when the TV was off, but these were special events when its comforting solace wasn't required. On your average evening, TV was the boss.

On the odd occasion that the television was absent due to repairs, we still remember the unsettling quiet. The vague sense that something was wrong because something was missing.

TV heebie-jeebies were taking a toll.

By the time we hit bottom, we were probably throwing back six or seven hours of the stuff a night, more on the weekends. Morning would find us fuzzy headed from too little sleep and too much TV.

It's a habit that can kill.

Our first spell on the wagon came cold turkey. TV was taken away by college, then the Army.

We were clean for several years. But with the first few years settling into married life, the old habits came creeping back. Supper with the boob tube.

But like a miracle the final cure began to take hold — and it's been holding fairly constant since the Saturday night monopoly of Mary Tyler Moore, Bob Newhart and the Carol Burnett Show was forced into divestiture.

The answered prayer was television got bad. Not just bad, but lousy.

And TV programmers got dumb as the shows worth watching were shuffled so often that the final bonds of habit were broken.

Still, with lingering feelings of panic we purchase the TV Guide every fall to see what they're going to tempt us with.

Flipping through the edition this year, we're struck by beautiful women with beauty contest smiles, hunks in open-necked Hawaiian shirts or tattered leather jackets and slicker hunk's in T-shirts and silk coats.

Plus some familiar faces formerly associated with bionic people, wonder women, "I" spies, deep "Sea Hunt" divers and that goofy Bert Convey.

We suspect our reputation is safe for another season.

John Dunnam

It has been said that a person should never ask another person if he is from Texas. The reasoning being, that if he is from Texas, he will surely announce it. If he is not, there is no call to bring it up and embarrass the poor fellow needlessly.

I've also heard that while traveling abroad, Americans will tell the locals that they are from the United States, unless they are from Texas. Then, when asked, simply reply, "Texas."

Not everyone has such a lofty opinion of the Lone Star State. After journeying across Texas in 1866, General Philip Sheridan observed: "If I owned Texas and all hell, I would rent out Texas and live in hell."

What is it about this place that causes unthinking loyalty on the part of natives and mixed reactions, to say the least, on outsiders?

Books have been written to explain the Texas Mystique. Since by definition you can't explain "mystique" they generally fail. The National Geographic was on target when they began an article: "You cannot reduce Texas to words. ...it is an immensity too great, a variety too diverse."

Indeed. I left a blizzard in Amarillo one gusty March dawn and by dusk was picking up bruised grapefruit off the motel parking lot in tropical McAllen. While Houston and Dallas are bursting at the seams, schools close in West Texas for lack of students. We even have our own way of talking. We say practically "eva thang" differently.

Even as Texas changes, it remains the same. In the space of two generations, we have went from 80 percent rural to 80 percent urban. Yet, it is still Texas with the same chili, barbecue and Friday night football. (The last count I heard, there are still more cows than people here.)

Most books grappling with the "mystique" theme trace it to the fact that we were an independent nation for 10 years. In my mind, that doesn't wash. Who remembers? The key for outsiders to understanding, even surviving, Texas is in the history all right, but all of it swallowed at once. That is a tall order unless it was bred into the genes, then you got it, but are totally unaware of it.

Except for five years by the French, this territory was ruled by Spain from the year 1519 to the Mexican revolution. Under Mexico, Texas suffered from unstable military rule. The Texas revolution surprised no one (except that we won and could govern ourselves) and we entered the expanding U.S. as the 28th state.

Prior to and during Mexican rule Texas was too forboding to be settled by civilized people, even when the term civilized was loosely interpreted. While leary of the expanionist policy of the U.S., the Mexican government allowed settlers hoping to check the Indians, who routinely plundered Northern Mexico and terrorized the Mexicans.

To land-hungry Americans, Mexico's terms were irresistible. Each family received 4,428 acres for a few pennies per acre. Colonists were immune from custom duties for seven years and other taxes for ten. My how time changes things.

Mexicans were outnumbered by 10 to 1 by 1835. Texas became a country the following year.

It took a special kind of idiot to settle in Texas. There were other places that were ... let us say, less challenging. Many early Texans had received the choice of go to prison or go to Texas. It was a tough choice.

Due to the isolation and size, I think we developed a frog-in-a-well outlook on life. I trust you have heard the story of the frogs at the bottom of the well, looking at the stone walls around them and speculating on rumors that there are other worlds elsewhere, although it be of little concern to them.

Willie Nelson, whose music defies neat cataloguing, epitomizes the native Texan. He looks more one way, sings more the other. As opposed to say, Boy George, Willie has no gimmicks.

Letter to the Editor

To the editor,

My family and I would like to express our thanks and appreciation to the fantastic persons who conceived the idea of "Footprints Across Scurry County." The many, many hours, days, nights, weeks and months reading, writing, advertising, almost begging people to write about their loved ones. The book is simply beautiful from front cover to back cover. For all who have it, it is an added treasure to our home for our children and grandchildren. Thanks again.

Take Extra Precautions Driving Alone at Night

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Driving home tonight after working the late shift, I noticed a man following me in his car. He tried to get my attention at a red light, but I ignored him.

I'd like to give your female readers who have to drive home alone late at night some tips:

1. Always park by the door, or get an escort into the parking lot.
2. Don't get into your car until you've checked your back seat to be sure you don't have an unwanted passenger.
3. Lock your doors, and always keep your windows rolled up so no one can put his hand through the window and unlock your door while you're stopped at a red light.
4. Do not make eye contact with anyone you suspect is trying to follow you. If someone calls to you, don't turn your head or respond in any way. Pretend you didn't hear him.
5. Know where your local police station is and drive there if your "friend" persists in following you (which is doubtful if he realizes where you're going). Don't get out of your car. Sit on your horn until an officer comes out.
6. Never lead anybody to your home. Instead, drive to a busy area and look for a policeman.
7. Stay off deserted roads where you can be terrorized or run off the road.

This may sound paranoid, but it sure helps to know the above on a night like tonight. By the way, I lost my "pal" on the way to the police station.

SAFE AND SECURE IN LEAGUE CITY, TEXAS

DEAR SAFE: Thanks for some excellent tips. But why do you offer them for women only? Men are also followed; they too can learn from your suggestions.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have two beautiful grandchildren—a boy and a girl. They are, of course, perfect in the sight of Grandma. I do not want to state their ages because my daughter-in-law reads your column and she might recognize the situation, but I need to know something.

At what ages should a brother and sister quit bathing together?

In this case, I think it's time they bathed separately, but I don't want to be a meddling mother-in-law. Can you help?

WORRIED GRANDMA

DEAR WORRIED: Much depends on the physical and emotional maturity of the boy and the girl.

When children are very young, I think it's healthy to bathe them together. It eliminates a lot of natural curiosity later on.

But when one or the other reaches the age when he or she becomes sexually aware, modesty and privacy are recommended.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Your compassion for animals brought to mind a poem I committed to memory many years ago. I do not recall the name of the author, or even the title of the poem, but perhaps one of your readers will:

Oh, shame on the mother of mortals,
Who did not stop to teach
The sorrow that lies in dear, dumb eyes,
The sorrow that has no speech.
For the same force formed the camel
That fashioned man and king,
And the God of the whole
Gave a spark of soul
To each furred and feathered thing.

DEAR ABBY: May I air my pet peeve? I always put out pretty little hand towels for guests to use. They are easy to launder, but I never have to launder them because nobody ever uses them.

Instead, they dry their hands on the tip of a king-size bath towel, so I'm forced to launder a big bath towel rather than little hand towels that easily could be tossed into my washing machine. Instead of making less work for me, my guests make more work for me. Do other people have this problem?

ANNOYED IN GEORGIA

DEAR ANNOYED: Yes. In fact, Mabel Craddock of Ventura, Calif., grew so weary of guests who dried their hands on toilet paper, bath mats and even her shower curtain, she wrote the following poem, which I published. Her poem was embroidered in cross-stitch, and she framed it and hung it on the wall in her powder room over her guest towels. That solved her problem. So here's the poem, and be my guest:

A GUEST TOWEL SPEAKS
Please use me, guest;
Don't hesitate.
Don't turn your back
Or vacillate.
Don't dry your hands
On petticoat,
On handkerchief,
Or redingote.
I'm here to use;
I'm made for drying.
Just hanging here
Gets very tiring.

DEAR ABBY: I am a salesperson in a large department store. If you print the following suggestions, it would make my job much easier and the customer's visit to our store much more pleasant:

1. Please leave at closing time. I will be happy to stay a few minutes longer if you want to buy something, but if you're "just looking," please come back when we both have more time.
2. Please don't complain about our prices—the salespeople do not set them.
3. Please put things back where you found them. If you don't know where they go, I'll be glad to help you.
4. Please don't bring food or drinks into the store. No matter how careful you and your children are, accidents are bound to happen.
5. If you don't think you have enough money, please ask me to total your purchases on a calculator first. It really messes up the cash register when items must be deducted.
6. If you break something, please do not try to hide it. Let me know. Most stores are insured for breakage.
7. Please do not shoplift. We have an excellent security system, and shoplifters are prosecuted to the maximum if caught.

HAVE A GOOD DAY!

DEAR ABBY: Some good friends of ours have a boy who is 14 and a girl who is nearly 11. These children share a bedroom (twin beds). We don't think this is a healthy setup for children of these ages and of the opposite sex.

We've brought up the subject several times, but our friends say, "Oh, they're both good kids—there's nothing to worry about."

The father has been talking about building another room onto the house ever since we've known them, which has been six years now, but he never seems to get around to it. (He found time, however, to build a patio and a sun deck.)

Abby, what do your experts say about this subject? If we can get a professional opinion, maybe these people will wake up.

CONCERNED FRIENDS

DEAR FRIENDS: My experts say children of the opposite sex require their privacy after age 10.

IMPORTANT FACTS FROM YOUR ECKERD PHARMACIST

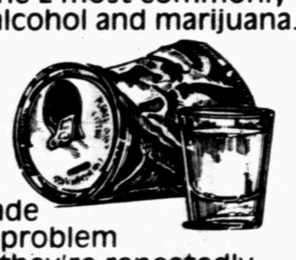

WHAT PARENTS SHOULD KNOW ABOUT DRUG ABUSE

Don't Lose Your Child to Drug Abuse

Remember when your son or daughter was born and you vowed to give him or her the best life possible? That vow is becoming more difficult today with the increasing problem of drug abuse.

Right now, over ⅓ of all kids in America use illegal drugs. The 2 most commonly abused drugs are alcohol and marijuana.

ALCOHOL IS THE MOST ADDICTING DRUG OF TODAY.

20% of all ninth grade boys can be called problem drinkers, meaning they're repeatedly drunk and having problems with school authorities and police. Over 5,000 teenagers are killed yearly in auto accidents due to drunken driving.

MARIJUANA INTERFERES WITH IMMEDIATE MEMORY AND INTELLECTUAL PERFORMANCE.

Marijuana is known to impair concentration and reading comprehension. Research has shown that extended use of marijuana can produce severe anxiety apprehension and fear of others. One out of every 16 high school seniors is using marijuana everyday.

Drugs like alcohol and marijuana are considered "Stepping Stone" drugs, which means that their abuse can lead users into other drugs like Cocaine, Speed, Angel Dust, LSD or even prescription drugs such as tranquilizers, sleeping pills and narcotics.

LET YOUR ECKERD PHARMACIST HELP YOU LEARN ABOUT THE KIND OF DRUGS KIDS ARE GETTING INTO AND WHAT YOU AS A PARENT CAN DO TO HELP PREVENT DRUG ABUSE.

THINGS TO LOOK FOR:
- Sudden behavior/appearance changes
- School grades dropping
- Loss of interest in activities that were once important to them
- Withdrawal from friends and family
- Spending time with friends they don't want their parents to meet
- Acting extremely anxious, irritable, and suspicious

HOW THE PARENT CAN HELP:
- Be aware that adolescence is a very difficult time for your child
- Visit your Eckerd Pharmacist and learn about the kinds of drugs kids abuse
- Have an open discussion with your child about drugs, how drugs can affect their lifestyle. Help them to have the courage to say NO! It could save their life.

Hixson plans to tackle Mt. Everest again

PAUL SMITHS, N.Y. (AP) — Edward Hixson got to within 1,000 feet of the top before a stroke crippled him on Mount Everest last year. The year before, a fellow climber fell a mile to her death and then blizzards forced the expedition to abandon its attempt to reach the summit.

This fall, having progressed from tentative post-stroke steps with a walker to running up 4,867-foot Whiteface Mountain, the 42-year-old Lake Placid surgeon will try for the third year in a row to reach the highest point on earth.

"I'm not going back on a death wish, or to somehow defy the mountain," Hixson said in an interview in his log-walled living room before his departure for Tibet. "Getting to the top is not an obsession ... although perhaps being part of the climb is."

Hixson blames dehydration and a lack of sufficient oxygen at high altitude for the blood clot that lodged in his brain in May 1983.

Five fellow climbers made it to the top — including an ABC cameraman and Larry Nielson, the first American to scale Everest without oxygen — but Hixson had to turn back.

Blood clots in the lungs and legs are not uncommon at high altitude, Hixson says, since the blood gets very thick.

For Hixson, even commuting to work at Saranac Lake Hospital or to the Olympic Training Center in nearby Lake Placid, where he is medical director, is somewhat of a production.

The circa-1890 log chalet on Upper St. Regis Lake where he lives with his wife, Karen, and 1-year-old, blue-eyed baby, Ted, is hidden among tall hemlocks on a high promontory. Sixty-five stone steps lead down to the dock, from which Hixson boats or skis a mile to where his pickup truck is parking.

This year's Everest expedition, which set up base camp in Tibet on Aug. 20 and is scheduled to attempt the summit via the unclimbed North Face around Oct. 1, includes 10 veteran climbers.

They include leader Lou Whittaker, 54, whose twin brother Jim was the first American to reach Everest's summit; premier Himalayan climber John Roskelley; Dave Mahre, father of World Cup ski champs Phil and Steve; and Jim Wickwire, one of the first Americans to climb K-2, the world's second-highest peak.

"We've pretty much reassembled the group from the 1982 expedition," Hixson says. On that trip, Marty Hoey, 30, who would have been the first American woman to reach Everest's summit, took a wrong step and died in a fall from about 3,000 feet below the 29,028-foot summit.

But he has that drive that compels people to submit themselves lustily to the months of physical and mental stress required to reach the summit the ancient Tibetans call Chomolungma, Goddess Mother of the World.

"It's very unpleasant," he admits. "The weather is the harshest on the face of the earth."

On the mountain, climbers are often forced to bivouac in cramped tents for days, waiting out a storm. "At Camp IV on one trip, we dug an ice ledge in the side of the mountain to pitch our tents. To go out, you needed an ice axe, ropes and crampons," Hixson says.

A major problem is consuming the 7,000 calories and five or six liters of fluid needed daily by each climber to keep from losing weight. In previous trips, some have lost up to 30 pounds, including muscle, during the three-month expedition.

As expedition doctor, Hixson has a few hundred pounds of medical gear to deal with intestinal and respiratory infections, altitude sickness caused by the oxygen-poor atmosphere above 17,000 feet, frostbite and injuries, like a knee joint penetrated by a rock on the 1983 trip.

He planned to take only 20 bottles of oxygen to the high camps this fall.

"The majority of our climbers are not big on using it," he said. "A lot of climbers feel it's an unfair advantage. It's a question of esthetics.

"On the other hand," he added, "even some superb climbers cannot tolerate the lack of oxygen at extreme altitudes. That's pushing the absolute limit of what man can do."

Compared with earlier expeditions — like the 1963 expedition which had 19 American climbers, 47 Sherpas and more than 900 porters carrying 27 tons of equipment — this fall's trip is relatively small and inexpensive, Hixson said. "It will cost about $150-200,000."

Climbers put up little of their own money for such expeditions — companies donate most of the equipment, for the privilege of saying it was tested on Everest. Money is also raised by selling promotional T-shirts and by selling films, photographs and books documenting the expedition, Hixson said.

Since Sir Edmund Hillary first did it in 1953, 160 people have reached Everest's summit. Even if he doesn't stand on the top this time, Hixson said he wouldn't feel that he had failed. "I never really felt it was a horrendous defeat last time," he said. "I felt 28,000 feet was a heck of an achievement and I know the summit was within my grasp.

"The climb is really a cooperative effort — for every one who makes it to the top, there are many who have to carry equipment. If anyone gets to the top, even if it's not me, I would feel the expedition was a success. It's a success even if we just get a good shot at it."

Photographs taken were 'voluntary'

NEW YORK (AP) — A lawyer for photographer Thomas Chiapel says former Miss America Vanessa Williams voluntarily had nude photographs taken of her and he doesn't know why "she keeps saying the release doesn't exist."

Chiapel, who disappeared after the publication of the pictures that cost Miss Williams her crown, was served with papers in her lawsuit at a Manhattan photography studio, Helene Freeman, Miss Williams' lawyer, said Wednesday.

Hides worth more than other parts

Buffalos were slaughtered, skinned, and the hides were laid out to dry. Notice the sticks used to keep the hides from curling up as they dried. It appears that meat is hanging to cure. This was probably for personal use and some may have been to sell to others. Usually, however, the hide was the most valuable part of the animal as the meat was hard to preserve and also difficult to transport.

One hunter is shown with chunks of meat ready to hang while another is preparing supper. Notice the white-stone used for sharpening the knives. This picture was made about 1878 and much of the hunting had ceased in most parts of the United States by that time.

Mapping trials of hereidty considered 'last frontier'

BAR HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Cooley's anemia, an inherited blood disease common in Mediterraneans and American blacks, can now be diagnosed before birth.

A new test alerts doctors to the birth of infants with phenylketonuria, a genetic disease that causes mental retardation if not quickly treated.

A genetic "fingerprint" has been found to identify people at risk for Huntington's disease, a nervous system disorder that strikes in middle age.

These advances mark the beginning of a revolution in the understanding of human genetic disorders that will eventually make possible a wide range of new tests and treatments, researchers say.

Such progress is being made possible in part by the techniques of genetic engineering which trace the inherited ailments to the specific genetic aberrations that cause them.

When the location of these abnormalities is plotted on human chromosomes, researchers have a map that serves as a guide to the study of hereditary diseases.

"I view the map of the genes on the chromosome as a fundamental part of human anatomy," says Dr. Victor McKusick, a pioneering geneticist and physician-in-chief at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine.

Human cells contain 23 pairs of chromosomes, tiny threads that determine everything from hair color to shoe size. Some 50,000 to 100,000 genes are believed to be located on those chromosomes.

A year ago, the locations of about 600 genes had been mapped on human chromosomes. As of July 1, the number of mapped genes stood at 730.

The defect responsible for Cooley's anemia has been found, for example, on chromosome 11. Phenylketonuria has been traced to a genetic error on chromosome 12 and the genetic defect in Huntington's disease has been mapped to chromosome 4.

Once such identifications have been made, fetal cells obtained through amniocentesis can be analyzed to determine whether the fetus carries the disease.

One day in the not-too-distant future, it may be possible through genetic manipulation to treat or even cure such disorders.

McKusick is the author of a standard catalog of hereditary illness, entitled "Mendelian Inheritance in Man," and he likes to keep that book up to date with a new edition every few years summarizing the state of the world's knowledge of human genetics.

Each summer beginning in 1960, McKusick has come to the Jackson Laboratory in Bar Harbor to help lead a course on human and animal genetics, held in collaboration with Johns Hopkins and funded by the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

The laboratory is a world leader in the study of mouse genetics, which closely parallels human genetics and contributes to the understanding of human disorders.

Many human inherited ailments have counterparts in the mouse, and frequently the genetic aberration that causes the ailments in humans is matched by an identical aberration in mice.

The gene map of the mouse, which has been keeping step with the human gene map, now also contains the locations of about 730 genes, according to Thomas Roderick of the Jackson Laboratory.

Gene maps are assembled in a couple of ways. One method is to study families that carry hereditary ailments to see whether family members with the diseases carried chromosome abnormalities that healthy family members did not.

It was not until 1959 that a human disorder was first linked to a chromosome abnormality. The disorder was Down's syndrome, and the abnormality was the presence of an extra chromosome 21.

Two other disorders were linked to chromosomal abnormalities later that year, and the list slowly grew.

At the same time, another technique was being developed that made use of the tools of gene splicing.

Researchers had discovered chemicals which, when mixed with genes, would snip those genes into an identifiable set of fragments. Each gene would show a characteristic pattern.

That is really him. He didn't find fame as much as fame caught up with him. You could not describe Willie to someone who didn't know him without making him sound weird. He's not werid.

A local performer, Cindy Hataway, has sung with this native son. She says it is difficult. "He comes in when he wants and may even sing in a another key." She said the band adivised her: "Just sing the song the way you are supposed to. That is the way we (the band) play it. Willie wil do what he wants and somehow it all works."

That is the way the whole state operates.

Anxiety shows physical signs

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor says I have nerves and anxiety. He put me on some nerve pills. But I didn't think nerves could cause you to feel this way.

My chest hurts off and on and my stomach rolls and makes noise and makes me feel sick. I sometimes have trouble breathing. When I have chest pains, I'm sure I'm having a heart attack, but the doctors says no.

I'm only 23, female and married and like my job, but I am worried about my health and being able to keep my job because of how rotten I feel. Is it true that nerves can make a person feel this way, or could I really have something wrong with me?

DEAR READER — Yes, nerves or anxiety can cause all of your symptoms and many more. Your trouble with breathing may mean you are hyperventilating, meaning overbreathing. That is common with anxiety.

That does not mean that any of your symptoms are any less real or any less important. It just means that they are not caused by heart disease, stomach disease or lung disease. It means that you have some emotional or psychological factors that are causing you a lot of real discomfort. I think it is important that you have had a good medical evaluation. Understanding that you are in good health may be important in helping you feel less anxious.

But you need some professional counseling. It is important to find out why you feel anxious and to resolve the basic psychological problem for you.

There are many reasons for anxiety, that is why it is so common. I have discussed these in The Health Letter 19-8, That Anxious Feeling, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551 Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You can also do things that will make you feel better. Don't smoke. Don't use coffee, tea or chocolate. Do exercise reguarly. But do let someone help you work through your problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been suffering with shortness of breath for two months. I have been through angiograms and a cardiac catheterization, and the only thing they found was a weak heart muscle on the left side of my heart. I am taking Lanoxin, Procardia and Lasix. The doctor tells me he feels sure this will strengthen the heart muscle. I would appreciate your comments.

DEAR READER — Shortness of breath is usually the first sign of weakening of the heart muscle. The left ventriclar muscle must pump blood to all of your body except your lungs. When it weakens, it is called heart failure. This causes blood to accumulate in your lungs because it can't enter the failing left heart fast enough. The lungs are congested, causing shortness of breath, and that is where the term congestive heart failure comes from.

At first, the shortness of breath may be noticed only with increased exertion, but it tends to progress unless you are treated as your doctor is treating you.

The Lasix will help your body eliminate fluid, relieving your lungs, and the Lanoxin, which is a purified digitalis, will strengthen the contraction of your heart muscle. Often the symptoms disappear entirely when a person uses such medicines.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I recently read this ad I am sending you about how women could enlarge their breasts. As you see, one formula contains 40,000 units of estrogenic hormones. Are these safe and do they really work? Do they have any aftereffects? If a woman used such a cream, would she have trouble getting pregnant because of the estrogen in the formula?

DEAR READER — The devices and preparations to enlarge breasts are analogous to things promoted to men to restore their "virility." I can't recommend any of these.

Breast size depends upon three things: (1) inherited characteristics or your own individual genes, (2) the production of hormones by your own body that stimulate the development or maturation of your breasts, and (3) fat deposits. Of course, during pregnancy, and if a woman nurses her baby, the size may be affected by enlarged milk glands and milk content.

Your own genes are the main factor controlling your breast size. A few women are deficient in estrogen hormones and fail to mature. Most of these women have other signs of estrogen deficiency, including menstrual disorders and lack of fertility. These women do not need some cream they saw advertised that may not provide the proper amount of hormones, but they need medical help and prescribed hormones. Usually these women are helped by their gynecologist.

The sort of cream you ask about provides limited absorption of estrogen and if your level is already normal you won't benefit from the estrogen. If your estrogen level is abnormally low, you need a doctor.

I am always surprised, in this day when women are concerned about the harmful effects of estrogen, that many will buy and use such an advertised product without medical supervision.

The answers to what you can and cannot do to improve your breast size and appearance are covered in The Health Letter 18-12, Breast Basics, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — You probably won't use my letter, but I'm hoping I am wrong. Doctors always talk about heart disease, high blood pressure and high cholesterol and try to help people help themselves with diets. But the government gives away free cheese which is very high in cholesterol and very bad for people with these problems. Aren't they making the people more prone to these problems, especially the elderly who seem to have heart diseases? I think this is terrible. Why don't you talk about cheese and all the cholesterol it contains?

DEAR READER — I'll not try to explain the government and its many complexities. But it is absolutely true that processed cheese, the type given away, is high in cholesterol. Perhaps as bad or worse is that as much as 80 percent of its calories are from fat and half of that fat is saturated fat, the kind that stimulates your own body to produce cholesterol.

But no one food need be entirely prohibited from the public diet. Some people, particularly children, have low normal cholesterol levels and need not be so concerned about the cholesterol content of their food. That also applies to many women before the menopause.

If the rest of your diet is low in fat and cholesterol, you can use some cheese and still have a satisfactory diet.
