President Renews Demand For Controls

HST Warns Solons Of Possible Slump

By J. W. DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The fight over inflation surged to a new height of bitterness today with President Truman accusing Congress of "blind disregard of the dangers that beset our path."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), sharp tongued spokesman for Republicans in the Senate, shouted back that Mr. Truman actually doesn't want to stop inflation.

Instead, Taft told the Senate, he is "making political speeches to Congress."

Barkley Scores Taft

Senator Barkley (D-Ky), vice presidential running mate of the President, got into the quarrel by saying Taft himself was making a political speech. Taft talked of winding up the special session a week from tomorrow.

While all this was going on, Congress committees heard:

1. From Secretary of the Treasury Snyder that he doesn't like price controls any more than he does castor oil, but that in an emergency resort must be had to distasteful remedies.

2. From presidential assistant Paul A. Porter, former OPA chief, that petroleum and petroleum products would be among the items to get "first consideration" if Mr. Truman should induce Congress to approve price controls. Porter previously had included in this group meats, dairy products, clothing, building materials, steel and some other metals.

Filibuster Rages On

Meanwhile, the quiet southern filibuster against an anti-poll tax bill droned on in the Senate.

Today's fireworks on inflation were set off by a bristling letter Mr. Truman sent to Capitol Hill along with the midyear report of his council of economic advisers.

The report told of peacetime or all-time records piled up in employment, wages, production and trade. It recorded, too, the dizzying climb of prices.

Mr. Truman said that heavy spending for defense and foreign aid, third round postwar wage boosts and the probable wiping out of the government's money surplus within the next year are contributing strongly to inflation.

Says Warnings Disregarded

"We are in the very midst of gathering inflationary forces, which day by day are imposing additional hardships upon countless families," he told the lawmakers.

"But thus far we have shown a blind disregard of the dangers that beset our path. Despite my repeated warnings and recommendations, we have not adopted adequate legislation for controlling in-

Livestock Price Rise Continues

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP)—Prices bobbed over the whole course today. While livestock rushed higher—hogs setting all-time records at some terminals—stocks, cotton and grains plunged.

Reasons for the ups and downs were similarly divergent. In the case of livestock, a week of sharply curtailed fresh supplies from the country caused meat men to bid vigorously for what was available.

New Price Boosts Ordered

But grains and cotton still suffered pressure from excellent crops, and dealers in stocks appeared downcast by possible anti-inflation action in Washington and uneasy situations overseas.

A sidelight to the general price situation was announcement by the International Shoe company at St. Louis, Mo., of wholesale increases averaging 10 cents a pair effective Monday.

From Boston came a report by the Massachusetts division on the necessaries of life that the purchasing power of the dollar had reached an all-time low in the state of 60.9 cents. The cost of living increased 1.5 percent this month, 9.7 percent over last July, and 66 per cent since January, 1941, the department said.

Active price changes supplied the off-midway sounds for Washington discussions between congressional committees and administration members as to whether price controls or rationing were needed.

Hog Prices Hit High

At Chicago, hog prices slammed out a top mark of $31.00 a hundred pounds, or 50 cents above the record of last September. The general market was up 75 cents to $1.00. Baltimore reported a new record at $31.50, Kansas City the highest for the year at $30.00, and Peoria a new peak of $31.00.

Cattle and sheep also were strong to higher. Beef steers at AMARILLO, July 30 (AP)—Billy Ray West, 18, was fatally injured here today when his motorcycle got out of control and smashed through a plate glass window.

JUMPS TO DEATH

NEW ORLEANS, July 30 (AP)—Kirby Newburger, 46-year-old cotton broker, ended his life here today with a 100-foot plunge from the Huey P. Long bridge into the Mississippi river. He was rescued in grave condition shortly after the jump by the crew of the federal barge lines tugboat "Missouri," but died about three hours later in the hospital from cerebral hemorrhage and shock.

Texas Demos Are Set For Battles Today

By MAC ROY RASOR
Associated Press Staff Writer

THE battle of the 'crats—Dixie and Demo—is slated for county Democratic conventions throughout the state today.

Most delegates from last Saturday's precinct conventions were expecting to thrash out two questions:

1. Should voters be permitted to ballot at the second primary Aug. 28 on whether Texas' electoral support should go to Truman and Barkley or to Thurmond and Wright?

2. Should electors chosen and instructed for party nominees at the state Democratic convention in Brownwood last May be retained, replaced or reinstructed?

In at least two counties—Harris and Tarrant—there were reports that opposing conventions would be held. The two counties have a large number of votes in the state convention at Fort Worth Sept. 14. The county meetings will name delegates to the state convention.

Dixiecrats Urge Referendum

Simultaneously with the Democratic county conventions, other political parties in Texas—the Republicans and the Progressives—were also scheduled to hold their county conventions.

This week the Dixiecrat followers of Thurmond and Wright have been circulating mimeographed resolutions designed to resolve county conventions in favor of the Aug. 28 referendum.

A. H. Rowan of Fort Worth and Palmer Bradley of Houston called on Gov. Beauford H. Jester to use his influence with the Democratic executive committee to get the referendum on the ballot.

Jester promptly replied the following day by directing a letter to all members of the committee expressing his firm opposition to the proposal. Before the precinct conventions the governor by letter had urged close friends to participate in precinct and county conventions to assure that friends of the Jester administration would be in control at Fort Worth in September.

Rayburn Urges Party Loyalty

Democratic executive committee chairman Bob Calvert quickly backed up Jester's referendum stand. But new national committeeman Wright Morrow took an opposite stand, expressing favor for the referendum.

Morrow, a Texas Regular leader in 1944, was chosen national committeeman in May after a coalition between Jester's middle-of-the-roaders and Texas Regulars was formed to beat down a strong

Fireworks Seen In Local Meets

Lubbock County Democrats and Republicans may stage a couple of post-season Fourth of July fireworks sessions when they meet in their biennial July conventions this afternon in the courthouse.

The Republicans will meet at 2 p. m. in the county courtroom on the first floor and the Democrats at 3 p. m. in the third floor district courtroom.

"Fireworks" will probably pop in both sessions, due to the clash of pro-Truman and anti-Truman forces among the Democrats and the Hopkins and Creager groups among the Republicans.

Blows Were Struck

In the recent May convention of the Republicans, blows were struck by County Republican Chairman John L. Vaughan in a vociferous argument between the two groups.

The county GOP leader refused to speculate on the possibility of a repetition of the May session's trouble in today's session and said he hoped everything would be conducted in an orderly manner. Principal business will be the selection of delegates to the state Republican convention at Waco in September.

County Democratic Chairman L. C. Ellis also would not comment on the possibility of trouble

Ohio Governor Seeks Way To End Bitter Dayton Strike

DAYTON, O., July 30 (AP)—A new burst of fighting, smothered in tear gas, brought Gov. Thomas J. Herbert of Ohio here today to try to help find some way to end Dayton's bitterest strike.

City officials already had asked and then canceled a plea for the governor to send troops to prevent more violence in the 86-day old strike of the United Electrical workers at the little Univis Lens Co. plant.

The governor brought Adjutant General Chester W. Goble for an afternoon meeting with Mayor Louis Lohrey, City Manager Russel E. McClure, police chief Rudolph Wurstner, city law director Herbert Beane and Montgomery county sheriff Ben Smith. The governor hoped to talk to Lou Kaplan, burly director of the strike, and other union officials later.

Dallas Women To Fight High Prices

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, July 30—Several hundred Dallas housewives will arm themselves with telephones Monday to battle high meat prices.

Their strategy was planned by Mrs. R. D. Vaughn, former insurance saleswoman and now president of the Dallas Women's Chamber of Commerce.

"Starting Monday, we will ring every phone in the book and give housewives our little motto: 'We are asking you to refrain from buying meat for one week'," she said today.

Mrs. Vaughn said she got the idea after she was quoted two days ago in an interview as saying it's up to the women" to stop buying fresh meat to force prices down.

So many women have called since then to agree with her, she said, that she has "to leave the house to get a rest." When the ladies call, Mrs. Vaughn asks them to enlist ten others and take sections of the telephone directory for campaign work.

The housewives will be asked to start the week-long boycott on Aug. 9.

FALL HEAVIEST EAST OF CITY

Cool Front Breaks Heat Wave, Brings Rains To Plains Area

A cool front that weather observers said was running slightly behind schedule broke a five-day South Plains heat wave and brought rains to the eastern portion of the area.

Friday, according to records at the weather station north of town, was the "coolest" day since May 27. Friday's maximum was 73 degrees, with the minimum 68 coming shortly after noon. Thursday the maximum was 102 degrees.

Thunderstorms stirred up by the advancing cool air poured about two inches of rain on part of Crosby county, with a measured .76 inch falling in Ralls and an inch in Crosbyton. Matador, below the caprock, reported .75 inch falling there Friday. An inch of rain was reported at Slaton.

Lorenzo reported .25 inch. Idalou received about .15. The rains in the Crosby county area and in Motley county were described as "slow falling" rains that were of great benefit to crops.

T. B. Ralls, reporting on the Ralls rain, said the precipitation covered the entire county so far as he could check, extending north as far as Blanco canyon and south to the line.

Ralls said that crops were in excellent condition to receive the moisture and that it came at a time to "do the most good."

The rainfall in Lubbock varied. The weather station measured only .02 inch all day Friday, .4 was measured at Texas Tech, and about .37 inch at Central fire station

MOLOTOV 'OUT OF TOWN'

Delay Looms In Talks With Russia On Berlin Question

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 30 — Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov is out of town, U. S. Ambassador Walter B. Smith was told today when he sought an appointment to discuss four-power negotiations over Berlin and Germany.

When the embassy called the foreign ministry for the appointment, the response was that Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin was on duty.

Ambassador Smith, in company with Frank Roberts, private secretary to British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, returned to Moscow only yesterday from London where high-level strategy conferences were held among American, British and French diplomats on new approaches to be made to Moscow.

Reports concerning these conferences have been prominently published abroad for a week, along with reports that the three-power proposals probably would be ready for presentation to Molotov late this week. The Soviet press has not published anything concerning these reports, however.

Informed sources here yesterday said the chances were good that a four-power conference on the foreign minister level would be held in Paris in September to iron out the Berlin deadlock and other German disputes between East and West.

Western diplomats have stated, however, that a condition to a conference was the lifting of traffic difficulties to Berlin.

May Approach Stalin

(The Socialist press in Berlin said Molotov's "vacation" was a delaying tactic.

(Diplomats in Washington speculated that if Molotov's absence continued for many days an attempt would be made to approach Prime Minister Stalin directly. Washington officials considered the issues too important to be taken up with lesser Soviet authorities.

(A State department spokesman refused to say whether Molotov's

'Get Tough' Policy In Berlin Okayed By Most Americans

BY GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 30—Whatever decision U. S. diplomats and occupation authorities make in the present crisis in Germany, a poll of American people on the Berlin issue produces new evidence of overwhelming support for a "tough" policy toward Soviet Russia.

In a nationwide survey just completed three days ago the Institute asked this question of representative voters in all 48 states.

"Do you thing U. S. and her Western European allies should stay in Berlin even if it means war with Russia—or should the U. S. give up Berlin to the Russians?"

The national answers:

Stay in Berlin	80%
Give up Berlin	11
No opinion	9

The voters of this country want peace, but in every poll taken by the Institute in this field, the people have been shown to believe that the road to peace lies in a firm handling of our relations with the Russians.

For instance, in today's poll the principal reason given by those voters who want to see us stay in Berlin is that there is more chance of avoiding war with Russia by a firm policy than by a policy of appeasing Moscow. "If we give in," says one voter whose views are typical of the majority, "then Russia will increase her demands."

Those voters who want to see us get out of Berlin take the view that the Berlin issue could touch off a new war, and that war must be avoided even if we lost a little face.

In the words of Secretary Marshall, America "will not be coerced or intimidated in any way . . . At the same time we will proceed to invoke every possible resource of ne-

Senate Stalled By Filibuster

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 30—Southern opponents of the anti-poll tax bill chalked off their second successful day of delaying tactics in the Senate today.

A weekend recess, running until Monday noon, gave them time to develop their strategy and seek new recruits.

They were able to take things easy for two hours today. It took that long for the clerk to read a renewed demand from President Truman for inflation controls, and for the Republicans to criticize his recommendations.

Continuous Session Urged

Before the Senate recessed at 3:33 p. m. (CST) Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the acting Republican floor leader, said his side would keep pressing a motion to bring up the bill "until we can pass it favorably or proceed on it in some other manner."

He didn't say what other manner he had in mind. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told the Senate that the Republicans will try hard to get action on the bill by the middle of next week. He suggested that Congress may be able to quit by Aug. 7.

Senator Morse (R-Ore) urged that the Senate try to get around the impasse by staying in continuous session 24 hours a day next week. He called filibusters an evil which threaten majority rule.

Filibuster Denied

Most Southerners officially insisted the extended debate was merely an educational campaign Republican Taft said too that he didn't understand that a filibuster was in progress—he had always believed there should be two or three days of general debate on any important bill.

Nevertheless, to old connoisseurs of filibusters, there was something mighty familiar about the speechmaking.

Senator Maybank (D-SC), third of the embattled southerners to talk against the bill, ranged far and wide in his discussion. He worked pretty well through the alphabet, touching on finance and foreign affairs, highways and housing, schools and steel.

He held the floor for a little

Allies Defeating Berlin Blockade

BERLIN, July 30 (INS)—Record-setting Anglo-American planes thundered into Berlin with 3,350 tons of supplies today in the ever-rising air shuttle that is defeating the Soviet ground blockade.

The hostility of Berliners toward Russia also increased today—only two days before start of the Soviet plan to offer 100,000 tons of grain to western Berliners—if they cross into the Soviet sector and pay for it with rival Soviet-issued currency.

The Russians are shipping this grain to Berlin in what western officials say is an obvious attempt to placate Berliners and win the political struggle against the west.

The Soviets say it comes from Moscow. But a German political refugee named Doepling who crossed into the western occupation zone today made a signed statement saying the Russians are confiscating German supplies in the Soviet zone to ship to Berlin as "Russian grain."

Doepling named dates and towns where he said Russians are confiscating grain and flour and arresting German resisters.

In a new infiltration move the Russians tonight offered to supply power to any industry in western Berlin affiliating with the newly-organized and Soviet-controlled "commercial society of greater Berlin."

This was regarded as another

6,000 MILES

B-36 Carries Record Load

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, July 30—A United States Air force B-36 bomber, carrying the heaviest load ever lifted by an airplane, has completed a 6,000 mile test mission under simulated combat conditions at an average speed of more than 300 miles per hour.

The announcement of the flight was released here today by the Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft corporation and the Air force. The B-26s, world's largest land-based bombers, are being built by Consolidated-Vultee in Fort Worth.

The B-36 took off at a gross weight exceeding 300,000 pounds, the announcement said.

New Landing Gear Used

The mammoth six-engined bomber took off from Lindbergh field, San Diego, Cal., home plant of Consolidated-Vultee, cruised north to Seattle, Wash., back to San Diego, westward off the California coast, eastward to Fort Worth, then north to Dayton, Ohio, and finally landed at Fort Worth.

The B-36 used on the record-breaking flight was one of the regular production models built in Fort Worth now equipped with newly developed four-wheel main landing gear. The new gear distributes the bomber's weight over a greater runway area than single or dual wheel gear.

This type landing equipment, the announcement continued, will allow the B-36 to operate from any base which can accommodate a B-29 Superfortress.

To Be On Display

Before the development of the four-wheel landing gear, it had been feared that the effectiveness of the huge B-36s would be curtailed because of a lack of landing and take-off facilities.

Today's announcement was the first made by the Air force that B-29 bases could accommodate the B-36.

The B-36 bearing the name "City of Fort Worth," the first combat B-36 delivered to the Air Force, landed at New York International airport, Idlewild, Friday afternoon on a flight from Carswell Air force base, Fort Worth.

The bomber will be on public display during the international air exposition at Idlewild airport until Aug. 8.

Eight B-36s have been delivered to the Air Force thus far by the Fort Worth Convair plant. Four of the planes have been asisgned to undergo testing and four are on combat status with the Seventh bombardment wing of the Eighth Air force at Carswell Air force base.

Italy Faces Threat Of New Uprisings

ROME, July 30 (INS)—Italy again veered toward political violence tonight when Communist partisan leader Luigi Longo threatened civil war to try to oust Premier De Gasperi's regime.

De Gasperi, livid with anger in a riotous chamber of deputies session, shouted at the No. 2 Communist:

"If the Cominform expects to use this formula to suppress this government in the East-West feud, then we say the Italian people won't permit it.

"We will use all state forces to repress an insurrection and if that is not enough we will throw in our own breasts."

The abrupt flare-up, most serious since the Communists lost the April elections, came when Longo in a two-hour speech accused the De Gasperi regime of "main responsibility" in the recent attempt by a Sicilian student to assassinate Palmiro Togliatti, top Communist leader.

Accused Man Testifies Today

By FREDERIC TUTTLE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 30—Blonde Elizabeth Bentley today identified William Remington, chief of the Commerce department committee supervising exports to "iron curtain" nations, as a wartime Soviet agent.

Commerce Secretary Sawyer immediately ordered Remington suspended indefinitely "until the matter is cleared up."

Vassar-educated Miss Bentley identified Remington as she told a Senate investigating committee that she headed a wartime Russian spy ring in the U. S., one member of which "had a position at the White House."

Official To Take Stand

Miss Bentley said that her spy ring had people "planted" in almost every government agency who could "pull the strings" and get Communists jobs.

Miss Bentley, said to have furnished information that led to the recent indictment of 12 key U. S. Communist leaders, testified before a committee headed by Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich).

Remington immediately denied the charges of the slim "mystery woman," who also told the committee she had collected Communist party dues from Remington and his wife.

Ferguson announced as the hearing ended, that Remington would be the first witness to testify tomorrow.

Included Federal Workers

Miss Bentley said her spy ring was largely composed of government employes.

She asserted that the Red network obtained political and military secrets for Russia even during the U.S.-Soviet war alliance.

She testified she turned over her information at first to Jacob Golos, Russian-born business man, and, after he died, to a Russian she knew only as "Bill."

Miss Bentley testified that she was in love with Golos, and that this was one of the reasons the Russians trusted her.

She told the committee that Remington had turned over information concerning U. S. plane production when he worked for the War Production board.

Miss Bentley testified that her Air Force "contact" during the war was a former Treasury department worker who eventually

TRUMAN, DEWEY TO SHARE REVIEWING STAND TODAY

U.S. To Show Air Might

By JACK LOTTO
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 30 — The greatest demonstration of U. S. air might since World War Two will be put on at Idlewild International airport tomorrow before the eyes of President Truman and an expected 100,000 other spectators.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican presidential nominee, will share the reviewing stand with Mr. Truman.

More than 1,200 of the nation's mightiest, fastest and newest airplanes—bombers, jets, transports and fighters—will roar through the skies to mark the opening of a nine-day "International Air exposition."

Military spokesmen said there would be enough bombers in tomorrow's airport-dedicating sky parade to level every major city along the Atlantic coast if their mission was "a real effort."

Three six-engined, 140-ton B-36 bombers, the world's largest air goliaths, which can carry 10,000 pounds of bombs 10,000 miles nonstop, are expected to "do their stuff" over the airport.

Many other craft never before shown in public will be put on display.

Army officials said the first four-jet bomber in the world—a B-45—will fly in from Wright field, Dayton, O., to take part in the American show of strength.

The Air force said it will put 900 planes over the huge, $20,000,000 airport at one time, blacking the sky with low flying craft, forming a sky ladder starting at 500 feet.

The Chief Executive is expected to arrive at the world's largest commercial air field from Wash-

Nazis Sentenced For War Crimes

NUERNBERG, Germany, July 30 (AP)—An American military tribunal today sentenced 13 directors of the I. G. Farben chemical combine to serve prison terms ranging from 18 months to eight years. The penalties were the mildest yet imposed in the series of war crimes trials here.

A few hours later a dozen of the directors walked out Nuernberg jail, free men for the first time since their industrial empire crashed along with Hitler's third reich. None had specific plans but several said they expected to be back in their scientific jobs with the Farben chemical combine in either the American or French occupation zones.

Seven Face Long Terms

Ten of the defendants who walked away free were acquitted outright on all war crimes charges. Two others were convicted but their sentences were so light that credit for the time they already had served in jail meant their immediate release. Actually only seven of the industrialists will remain behind bars for any length of time. The sentences will be served in Landsberg prison.

Those convicted were found guilty of plundering Germany's neighbor countries or using Hitler's slave labor program to further their own ends. There were 24 defendants when the trial began 11 months ago. Later Max Brueggermann was severed from the case because of illness.

Louisiana Judge Dissents

One of the court's four judges, Paul M. Hebert of Baton Rouge, La., protested the judgment was too lenient and served notice he would file a dissenting opinion.

He said he felt 20 of the defendants should have been convicted of mistreating slave labor instead of the five actually found guilty on that count.

Members of the court, in addition to Hebert, were presiding Judge Curtis G. Shake of Vincennes, Ind.; James Morris of Bismarck, N. D., and Clarence F. Merrell of Indianapolis, Ind.

The following sentences were imposed on the slave labor charge:

Carl Krauch, chairman of the board of the once-great, billion-dollar firm, six years; Fritz Ter Meer, seven years; Otto Ambros, eight years; Heinrich Buetefisch, six years; Walter Duerrfeld, eight years.

On the charge of plundering and despoiling Nazi-occupied countries the following sentences were imposed:

Hermann Schmitz, four years; George Von Schnitzler, five years; Ernest Buergin, two years; Paul Haefliger, two years; Max Ilgner, three years; Friedrich Jaehne, 18 months; Heinrich Oster, two years; Hans Kugler, 18 months.

Ter Meer was the only one convicted on both counts.

Last Of Dunlap Scholarship Tests To Be Given Today

The last of the Dunlap scholarship tests being given at Texas Technological college will be given to 36 honor students from high schools in Lubbock and its eight touching counties today, Dean James G. Allen, dean of men has announced. Of the 65 students already tested, 17 scholarships have been awarded.

The 36 students to be tested today are those who were unable to come to Lubbock on either of the other two occasions when the tests were offered. The three top students from each high school in the nine-county area are given opportunities to take the tests, and the student of each school who shows to have the highest college potential is awarded a scholarship of $100.

State Threatens To Step Into Denton, NTSTC Water Dispute

AUSTIN, July 30 (AP)—Attorney General Price Daniel said today that the state is prepared to file an injunction suit against the City of Denton if it cuts off any more water from the North Texas State Teachers college there.

"We can't enjoin them from cutting off the water at the college's athletic system today because they say its because of a water shortage," Daniel said.

"But if they cut off any more water on the grounds that a contract between the college and the city is invalid, then we'll file an injunction suit," he added.

Daniel said he had conferred with W. L. Kerr, chairman of the board of regents of the Texas state teachers colleges, and regents H. L. Mills of Houston and Walter Woodul of Houston.

The attorney general said the board members didn't want to enjoin the city in the present water shortage problem but were interested only in continued water supply for the college's actual needs under an existing contract.

Czech Takes Top Olympic Honors On Opening Day

Cochran Beats Hurdle Record

OLYMPIC STADIUM, Wembley, England, July 30 (AP)—Except for some sparkling advance work which promises to produce a victory or two tomorrow, Uncle Sam's Olympic track and field forces fell flat on their sun-burned faces in Empire stadium today.

Touted to sweep the high jump as they had in every Olympiad except two since 1896, the American athletes could do no better than third in that event. Three times the band saluted a new Olympic champion with a national anthem, but it never was the Star-Spangled Banner.

Greatest individual hero of opening day was Emil Zatopek, a blond Czech army lieutenant, who ran away from a host of rivals to set a new Olympic record of 29 minutes, 59.6 seconds in the gruelling 10,000 meter run.

Finishing three city blocks ahead of his nearest rival, Zatopek was accorded a continuous ovation by the crowd of 65,000 as he sprinted the final lap to beat the former games mark of 30:11.4 set by Janusz Kusocinski of Poland at Los Angeles in 1932.

Cochran Breaks Record

Roy Cochran, the 29-year-old University of Southern California instructor, and Rune Larsson of Sweden were the others who gave the crowd a taste of record-shattering at the outset of the games.

Each won his second heat of the 400-meter hurdles in 51.9 seconds, compared to the Olympic record of 52 flat established by Glenn Hardin of the United States in 1932.

Harrison Dilliard, until recently mainly noted as the world's greatest hurdler, flung out a genuine challenge for the 100-meter title when he twice spun the classic sprint in 10.4 seconds in winning his preliminary heats.

That is only a tenth of a second behind Jesse Owens' record of 10.3 seconds, set in winning the event at Berlin.

Patton, Ewell Pace Hurdles

Mel Patton of the University of Southern California also ripped off a 10.4 in winning his second heat. And Barney Ewell of Lancaster, Pa., twice did 10.5 without being hard-pressed.

Of the nine other sprinters who came through the prelims, Lloyd La Beach of Panama appeared the most likely to fight it out with the American trio in tomorrow's semi-finals and finals. He twice hit the tape in 10.5 to win his heats.

The blow that really rocked the Americans was their complete breakdown in the high jump, which eventually was won at the indifferent height of 6 feet 6 inches by a bank clerk from Australia, John Winter.

B. Paulson of Norway took second at 6 feet 4¾ inches, while Dwight Eddleman of Illinois had George Stanich of UCLA and to be content with equal third.

McGrew Gets Nervous

Vern McGrew, the 18-year-old Rice Institute star who captured the American tryouts with a leap of 6 feet 8¼ inches, appeared to suffer a bad case of nerves before today's great crowd and went out with the bar at 6 feet 3¾. He missed badly on all three attempts at that height, running under the bar the second time.

The first victor of the 1948 games proved to be a pretty French girl, Mlle. M. O. M. Ostermeyer. While the men were running off their heats furiously all around her, she fluffed her hair and threw the discus farther than any of 20 rivals—137 ft. 6½ inches.

Gentile Cordiale of Italy took second place at 135 ft. ½ inch. The two American entries, Frances Kaszubski of Cleveland, Ohio, and Dorothy Dodson of Mundelein, Ill., failed to get the dish out far enough to join the last six qualifiers in the event.

In the 10,000 meters Edward O'Toole of Brooklyn was finishing a modest 10th and Fred Wilt of Anderson, Ind., 11th. Herman Goffberg of Philadelphia gave it up as a bad job at about the halfway point.

Whitfield Turns In Top Time

Of the 24 runners who qualified from six heats in the 800 meters, Mal Whitfield, a staff sergeant in the U. S. Army air force, turned in the best time. His 1:52.8 in the final heat gave him the honor over Arthur Wint of Jamaica, who had turned in a fine-looking 1:53.9

Another American hope, Herb Barten of Michigan, won his heat in 1:55.6 while Bob Chambers of U.S.C. scraped in by finishing third in his heat, which was won by Neils Holst Sorensen of Denmark in 1:54.2.

ROCKETS GAME SCHEDULED

Pampa Defeats Loboes, 13 To 12

PAMPA, July 30 (Special)—Bob Belford worked Lamesa hurler Chet Zara for a walk with the base paths loaded in the bottom of the twelfth, to give the Pampa Oilers a 13-12 victory over the Loboes here tonight.

The Lamesans had deadlocked the count at 12-12 in the ninth, but Belford's free pass in the third extra inning, following a double by Joe Fortin, a single by Tony Range and a walk to Dave Teymea, ended the three and a half hour struggle.

Howard Bass, who took over hurling chores for Pampa in the ninth, was credited with the mound win. Zara was charged with the defeat.

Broyles, Ivy Lead Wichita Falls Play

WICHITA FALLS, July 30. (Spl.)—Jake Broyles and Glenn Ivy of Texas Tech reached the semi-finals in men's doubles competition today in the annual Northwest Texas Open tennis tournament, knocking out Charles Hodge and Jack Long of Dallas.

The Lubbock stalwarts will meet Gus Craigo and James Schultz, last year's doubles winners, Saturday afternoon.

Joe Wheatley, young Texas Tech star, ran afoul of Schultz this afternoon, after having upset Bill Brown of Oklahoma City in a brilliant performance this morning. Schultz won over Wheatley by a 6-2, 6-2 count.

Qualifying Rounds In Country Club Tourney Slated Next Week

Qualifying rounds for the annual Lubbock Country club championship golf tournament may be shot next week, instead of the Aug. 6-7-8 dates previously set, Pro Herb Schroeder announced Friday night.

Entries will be allowed to start qualifying for the meet as early as Sunday, Schroeder said, and the deadline for posting qualifying scores will be Aug. 8. All entries must report to the pro shop before shooting their qualifying rounds.

Match play in the tourney is scheduled to open Monday, Aug. 9, with the complete bracket to be run off in just one week

Haskins Singles In Winning Run

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche Sports Editor

The Hubbers, aided and abetted by Umpires Gatlin and Evans, stole a ball game from the Abilene Blue Sox last night 6-5, although due credit must be given to the superior bit of relief hurling by Chris Haskins, as well as his hitting.

Haskins came on to relief of Lefty Fred Pollack in the third and, after pitching up a two-run single to Losing Pitcher Fred Fazzio, shut out the losers on four hits. He fanned seven batters, slipping a called third strike past Joe Clardy to end the game, and walked only two men.

The former Lamesa hurler also made sure that he won the game by singling home the winning tally in the three-run fifth inning. Shortstop Len Glica presented life to Virgil Richardson on a silver platter, when he dropped the Hubber batter's high infield loft. Floyd Walker looked at one ball and then leaned into a good curve, sending it over the centerfield fence for two runs.

Don Moore walked and Chick Fowler laid down a perfect sacrifice. Frank McAlexander walked to put two men on the bases. That brought Haskins, who already had one hit, to the plate and he lost no time in poking a clean single through short and third to score Moore.

After that Haskins, with some fine help by the Hubbers and the umpires, contrived to hold the Sox runless for his ninth victory of the year and his first in Hubber livery. He also tagged Fazzio with his eighth defeat of the season.

Abilene took advantage of Hubber shakiness in the first three innings to score all their runs. They scored three times in the first on a single, two walks and an error coming when it should have ended the inning with only one run. An error and three singles scored two runs in the fifth, when Pollock and Haskins combined to retire the Sox on strikeouts.

Three singles and a double play gave the Hubbers a run in the second, while two walks, a double and a single brought in two markers in the third to lower the score to 5-3. After that it was up to Haskins and he came through to the satisfaction of some 850 fans.

Tonight the two teams meet in the second of this three-game series, with the Hubbers now holding a six-game margin over the Blue Sox.

Officials Cancel Legion Junior Game

A scheduled American Legion junior baseball clash between the Lubbock "B" nine and Brownfield Friday afternoon at Chapman field was cancelled by officials after rain made play on the diamond impossible.

H. J. McCabe, Lubbock Legion baseball director, said the tilt would not be made up at a later date.

Mills, Lesnevich Return Bout Set

Middleweight Champ Tony Zale Meets France's Marcel Cerdan On Same Card

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—The tournament of Champions, announced it would hold two international championship fights on one card in September.

Promoter Andy Niederreiter triumphantly gave out the news at a press conference that light heavyweight champion Freddie Mills of England would defend his newly acquired title against dethroned Gus Lesnevich on the same card which matches middleweight champion Tony Zale and Marcel Cerdan of France.

The show will be held at Ebbets field in Brooklyn on either September 23, 24 or 25. Niederreiter said, with Sept. 23 the most likely date.

Niederreiter pointed out that while he had agreements from all four fighters the whole thing still was unofficial pending approval by the New York State athletic commission.

First, Niederreiter said, he had to get a license to promote in New York State. The T. of C. started in the boxing business last June with the Zale-Graziano middleweight title scrap in Newark, N. J.

To get the Mills and Lesnevich return go, the T. of C. got the 175-pounders $150,000 to split between them. Mills probably will collect $100,000 and Lesnevich half as much.

Joe Vella, manager of Lesnevich, and Ted Broadribb, manager of Mills, cabled their acceptance of the terms from England.

Four TSL Players Hitting .300 Mark

SAN ANGELO, July 30. —A rash of no-hit and low-hit games by some of the finest hurlers in the state has chopped to four the number of men hitting .300 or better in the nine-team Texas Softball League.

Jackie Nell, the old master from Lubbock, hurled the loop's sixth no-hit job and the first perfect tilt against Cosden's Pipeliners last week. It was the second no-hitter for Neel and he also ran his strikeout total to 220 for 15 games.

Neel, however, may meet his match in Don Ashley of San Antonio when Ashby hurls for Nathan's against Bluebonnet at San Angelo Saturday night. Ashby has pitched several no-hitters this year.

Only three doubleheader series remain for each team, counting this week's play, and the first division still is a wide open race for all teams except first and last place. Bluebonnet already has assured itself of the No. 1 slot in the Shaughnessy Playoffs for the loop's first year title.

THERE'S A CHOICE

Votes, Or Results?

NO true American favors discrimination against anyone in the armed forces because of race, color, or religious creed.

But when President Truman said the other day he intends to end segregation of races in those forces because such segregation is "discriminatory," he did worse than invite trouble. He set his judgment above that of career military leaders who have found from long experience in this and other nations that segregation makes for a better, more efficient fighting force.

Mr. Truman's implications are unmistakable as to how he would end present segregation practices, under which most units in the armed forces either are predominantly white or predominantly negro.

This, he says in effect, is all wrong. He implies that colored people can't improve themselves by associating with each other. His remedy for the condition is to mix races. His idea seems to be that discrimination occurs unless those assigned to specific units, barracks and duties consist of some who are white and some who are colored.

This ignores the military practices of generations. Even in the Civil war, the Union army organized escaped slaves and other colored recruits into their own companies—usually under white command because negro officers were not available. The plan has been followed ever since, because people, in or out of the army, are better satisfied and more content when most of their associations are with those of their own race.

But Mr. Truman would place his own ideas above those of military leaders. The reason for the conflict of views seems rather obvious. Mr. Truman desperately wants votes which might return him to office. Most military men are interested only in creating the best fighting force possible for this nation.

A Bad Bargain

FOR the latest proof of the axiom that crime does not pay, consider the three Shelton brothers, Southern Illinois gangsters.

They rode high for years. They seemed to be above and beyond the law. They enjoyed the power and "respect" they inspired by terror. They flashed thousand dollar bills as loosely as most people handle small change.

Then the law caught up with one of the brothers and he was hanged. The remaining two, after living by lawlessness, died typical gangster deaths—shot down from ambush. Both knew long in advance their numbers were up. The nightmare their lives must have become to them, beset by such knowledge, can be imagined better than put into words.

At one time, and for a long time, they seemed to be one hoodlum trio who made crime pay in terms of material things. But if they could, they doubtless would have been the first to acknowledge at the final counting that they made a wretched bargain when they sold out to and for a career of crime.

(THE STORY: Playboy Marcus Sterling owes Harry Bindle a gambling debt of $10,000 he cannot pay. His wealthy wife, Miriam, has refused him the money. He comes home late after dodging Bindle all day. Miriam is out. Bindle phones that he will be over at 11 to collect. Marcus is desperate. Miriam comes in, wearing her fabulous diamond necklace. In order to get her out of the library before Bindle arrives, Marcus gives her a doped drink. Keyed up, he speaks crudely. Miriam, wounded, takes her drink to her room. At 11 on the dot, Bindle shows up. He demands the money under threat. Marcus, cornered, gets an idea. He goes up to his wife's room. Miriam is asleep. Marcus takes her diamond necklace from a wall safe. To make it appear a burglary, he also takes a sealed packet, then scatters things about. Bindle accepts the necklace as security only on the understanding that Marcus will pay up by Saturday. Bindle leaves.

IN the library, Sterling went to the bar, rushed a drink, taking it straight. He was peculiarly aware of a sharp mental alertness, an uncanny sense of planning, in sharp contrast with his earlier despair.

Sterling moved quickly, with decision. He scanned the room. He picked up the tray he had provided for Bindle and returned it to the bar, putting the bottle among other bottles, the used glass with other glasses he had used, set the thermos aside and restored the tray to its usual position. From his coat pocket he took the fabric gloves he had worn while in his wife's room and taken off after closing her door. He slipped his hands into them.

Selecting the middle pair of casement windows in the alcove overlooking the driveway, Sterling held aside the heavy drape and loosened the latch. He drew in one sash. Doubling one gloved hand into a fist, he hit flatly, sharply against a corner of the small pane directly opposite the latch. The sound of the blow was slight. The splintered glass scattered on the rug noislessly. Sterling closed the sash and fastened the latch. Studying what he had done, he was pleased with results. A hand easily could reach through the jagged opening and unfasten the latch.

In a closet off the kitchen Sterling found a pair of shoes he had discarded. Carrying them with him, he went out the front door, fixing the catch so that he could get back in without removing his gloves to use his key. He rounded the corner of the house into the shadow between the two parked cars and the library windows.

PUTTING his hands into the shoes he carried, he stooped down just outside the window pane he had just shattered. The strip of grass between the driveway and the house was still damp from a recent shower. The soil around the low shrubs at the base of the building wall was soft. Sterling worked the shoes on his hands against the wet grass, into the soft dirt, producing the effect of scuffled, undistinguishable footprints. Reaching up, he scarred the window-sill with the stained shoes. That task accomplished, he stooped again, taking care to disfigure his own footprints with the shoes on his hands.

Back in the house, he unlatched the casement window and drew in both sashes, leaving a wide opening. He used the muddy shoes for further disfigurement of the sill and then scuffed them along the rug leading toward the door into the hall. With that operation completed, he found old paper, wrapped up the shoes, and added the parcel to the contents of his bag in the front hall.

Sterling returned to the alcove, surveying what he had done. Every move he had made had been in answer to a question constantly running through his thoughts: What would a burglar do? Upstairs in Miriam's room, he had left complete evidence of burglary. Down here he was producing the essential complement of that setting.

He pictured the burglar having pushed open the window, boosting himself through the opening. The heavy drape would be swept back. It might . . . it would knock over the ebony tabaret and the tall statuette clock mounted on top of it! Knocked far enough, the cord would be pulled loose from the socket in the baseboard under the drape. The clock would stop. That would fix exactly the time of the burglar's entry!

STERLING bent to the clock. The hands were at 11 minutes after 12. He found the small setscrew at the back of the clock . . . turned it until the hands pointed to just a trifle past 1:30. From the window side, Sterling gave the drape a vigorous push. The tabaret went sprawling. The clock skidded along the rug even beyond it, pulling its cord through the tubular opening in the tabaret. On the floor, Sterling saw that the plug of the cord had been jerked free of the baseboard socket. The little clock had stopped, its hands immobile at a trifle past 1:30.

Sterling stripped the gloves from his hands, made a wad of them and put them in a coat pocket. He went to the telephone. Consulting a small household directory, he called a nearby taxicab office.

"What time could you have a cab here to take me to Edgecraft Country Club?" he asked, after giving his address. Anxious to establish the time of his call, he said, "It's almost a quarter after 12 now and I'd like to get there as soon after 12:30 as possible. It's not more than a 20-minute drive at this time of night." A cab was promised within five minutes.

Sterling turned off the lights in the library, darkened the hall except for the small night bulb at the head of the stairway. He had on his hat and topcoat, waiting inside the door, when the taxicab drove up.

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

"LET 'em eat cake!"

That crack uttered by Queen Marie Antoinette is supposed to have brought on the French Revolution.

The people of France wanted bread and meat, not cake. The Queen said cake was all right for them—and so she lost her head.

BRANDEIS

I am certainly not a Communist.

I have written enough stuff about Communism to be high up on Joe Stalin's black list — although that may sound conceited.

But I do advocate a revolution.

I advocate a revolution of radio listeners, those millions of us who are sick and tired of the sugary, oozy, indigestible cake of ridiculous contests and prizes and want the plain simple bread and meat of honest-to-goodness entertainment instead.

The thing is getting sillier almost every day.

Radio huksters and their accomplices must be lying awake nights thinking up new idiotic stunts by which the more of a moron a person is the greater the prizes.

Not that all winners of radio fortunes are morons.

Lady Luck is impartial. She is liable to smile even at a perfectly normal individual.

But, to win one of those questions and answer affairs, being a moron, while not absolutely necessary, certainly helps.

The thing that really gets my goat, though, is this latest telephone thing.

You are called on the phone —if you are the lucky one out of about twenty-two million numbers—and you are asked to unscramble a garbled phonograph record.

"Whose voice is this?" asks the M. C.

Then come a lot of noises, and if you guess correctly that it is the voice of Joe Doakes of Tripp Corners, Alaska, you are the winner. You never heard Joe Doakes' voice—but anybody might guess correctly.

So you are the winner.

NOW here is the idea—and this is taken from some actual cases.

Your husband works in a factory. He makes just about enough money to support you and your four children.

You live in a three-room flat over a store in the crowded section of a big city.

So this is what you win, because you identified Joe Doakes' voice:

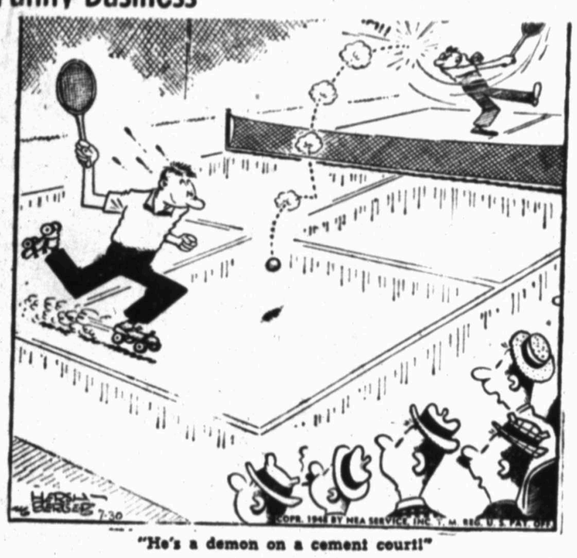

A $5,000 mink coat (to wear over that old gingham dress of yours). A private airplane (two miles to the gallon). A $6,000 de luxe eight-cylinder limousine (chauffeur driven). A two week's trip to South America by plane, with stay at the finest hotels (where they dress every night). A de-luxe trailer. A complete set of living room furniture (forty pieces).

And a package of the cookies manufactured by the program's sponsor. His name? The name of the cookies? I really don't remember. And the entertainment, which to hear I bought my radio? I forgot.

Naturally you can't use any of that stuff. So you sell it. And you pay a lot of taxes. And you lose a lot of time. And you go nuts.

Let 'em eat cake!

DEMOS LOSE SUPPORT

Labor Vote May Split

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—"I have read many stories, including yours," writes M. A of Brooklyn, N. Y., "about labor's reaction to the two presidential tickets. In view of the tremendous influence of this vote, how do you think it will go next November?"

Answer. I do not believe that there is a solid or maneuverable labor vote except in such years as 1932 and 1936, when they lined up almost unanimously behind Roosevelt, or in 1940, when the late Sidney Hillman's enrollment drive and factory registration booths got them to the polls in large numbers. In those years they were definintely for Mr. Roosevelt because of his efforts on their behalf.

TUCKER

Before discussing this question in detail, I would say that President Truman will get a smaller labor vote than the Democrats have had at any time since 1932. One reason will be the presence of Henry A. Wallace in the race, for he will win the Communist and leftist groups. The other will be the fact that Governor Dewey and Governor Warren, as labor leaders in their respective states admit, have good records.

SIGNIFICANT: Two recent developments, however, suggest that there are more compelling reasons for a split of this influential element of the electorate. They escaped general notice because they happened during the exciting period of the Democratic convention, but I regard them as extremely significant.

Philip Murray, C.I.O. president, did not attend the Democratic affair as a delegate or speaker because he had more important business on hand. He was engaged in successful negotiations for wage increases for his several hundred thousand steel workers. And the important fact is that he obtained raises totalling more than $200,000,000 a year without any help from the Administration.

In short, he did it on his non-political own.

FOLLY: When John L. Lewis was asked to comment on the Democratic platform's demand for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, he replied gruffly that labor itself would handle the job of wiping that measure off the statute books.

In view of the fact that it was passed over Mr. Truman's veto, he apparently does not feel that the latter's election will be of any help in this respect.

Labor, as I see it, now feels that it is strong enough to stand on its own feet, and no longer needs the White House crutch that F.D.R. furnished in the dark years. Their leaders, especially John L., also believe it folly for them to place their trust in political princes—or Presidents.

CYNICAL: Mr. Truman says that labor will be "ungrateful" if it "passes the Democrats by" at the polls next November. But the leaders I have talked to since the convention make this reply:

"He seems to forget that he would not be where he is now except for our votes. The accounts are balanced."

I realize that my discussion may strike some eyes as cynical, but American politics has never been a playground for Little Lord Fauntleroys.

INFLUENTIAL: The Truman-Barkley combination should win a majority of the votes of one big group of workingmen which is extremely influential when it wants to be. That is the railroad brotherhoods.

President Truman would not be in the White House now except for them. When he ran for Senate re-election in 1940, the Pendergast machine had been smashed, but his early association with that crooked organization was hurting him. He had a terrific primary battle.

But the loyal brotherhoods found his record satisfactory. They sent a special edition of their ably edited weekly, Labor into Missouri, and he squeaked through by only 8,000 out of 500,000 votes cast.

LAWS: The brotherhoods did the same thing for Senator Barkley when he was hard pressed for the Senate in 1926. In the House he had fathered the measure which established the Railway Labor Board, as well as many other laws on behalf of the men who work on the railroads.

In this connection, Governor Warren's father was a roundhouse worker. As a youngster, the Republican vice-presidential nominee did odd jobs along the tracks.

COST: An economy minded reader, V. S. of Concord, N. H., wants to know how much the special session called by President Truman will cost the taxpayers.

Answer: It is hard to estimate the exact amount. The special railroad mileage bill alone will be about $227,000, but that is only a beginning.

There will be extra outlays for electricity, telephones and telegrams, charwomen and all other attaches who are not paid on an annual basis. The House and Senate restaurants, which usually lose money, will have to reopen. So will the barber shops, the underground Senate railroad, the gymnasiums, and all the other activities which cater to Congressional happiness and health.

Publication of the Congressional Record at $700 a page will be a major item. So will extra stationery and similar appurtenances.

Should the session last two weeks, the overall expense will reach $500,000. A month's sitting would mean at least a $1,000,000 bill.

As V. S. may have noted, the Republicans have already charged that holding a special session at taxpayers' expense means a saving of money to the almost bankrupt Democratic National Committee. That consideration may react against President Truman.

Economists confuse us writing about "hard" and "easy" money. Our experience is that any kind of money is both hard and easy—hard to get and easy to spend.

HOUSEWIVES PUT GOP ON SPOT

High Prices Are Major Concern

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—President Truman may have shown intuition when he deviated from his prepared speech to Congress during his discussion of inflation and, talking off the cuff to members before him, reminded them that most of them are not rich men, that they live on salaries, and perhaps they should talk to their wives about how prices have gone.

If their wives are like other wives then the gentlemen of Congress probably have had an earful already. By his suggestion the President elevated America's housewives to a really important role, which is certainly their due. They may be the key factor not only in this inflation business but also in the November election. Lots of them are boiling mad and lots of them are going to vote.

STOKES

Listening in on the conversation of some housewives in the last few days have been very revealing. They have a simple and direct approach to this special session of Congress and its obligations.

Action Is Demand

They cut right through political niceties and intrigue. Some among them have been anxious for the "change" that Republicans promise, having got tired of the same faces and of reading about the same people in the society columns, but now they do not seem too sure. Some of their observations and conclusions are very interesting, to wit:

They liked President Truman's message to Congress and thought it very sensible.

They brush off as of no consequence all the outcry about the President "playing politics." They don't care why he called Congress back into special session. Congress is here, prices are going out of sight, and they want something done about it.

Nor do they have any patience with all the breast-beating from politicians of both parties as to who is to blame. That's not important now. Women are inclined to be practical and not theoretical. What they are interested in is getting something done now, regardless of who was to blame originally. Congress is here and Congress ought to do something.

They are completely unstirred by all the complaints from congressmen about having to come back here and work in the heat of summer.

We pay them pretty well, don't we? Our husbands work every day and where would this family be if Bill marched up and told the boss he was being "political" in asking Bill to work when it would be much pleasanter to go off and fish or play golf?

Mr. Thomas E. Dewey, governor of New York and Republican candidate for President, comes into the conversation, too.

Why doesn't he speak up and say something, himself? He wants to be President, he's been nominated for it, the political writers tell us he has a good chance to be President, and it's his party that runs Congress. He ought to tell the members of his party in Congress to do something and do it quick.

Don't Want Excuses

It does no good to explain to the women that Mr. Dewey isn't President yet, or to remind them that there's a certain delicacy and a certain etiquette in the dealings of a man who still is a candidate with the leaders of his party in Congress. Nor to point out that Governor Dewey's mouthpiece, his secretary James Hagerty, has announced to the press that Governor Dewey has told Republican leaders in Congress over the telephone that they should consider President Truman's recommendations carefully and should do something about inflation. Why doesn't he speak out in his own right?

President Truman did. He didn't use the telephone. He went right up to Congress and told them to their faces and that took something because he knew they wouldn't like it and they weren't very nice to him. Nor does the explanation that Governor Dewey is being smart politically by keeping out of all this directly appeal to the women.

"This is a time for our leaders to take sides and tell where they stand," is the feminine retort.

Perhaps Republicans have only themselves to blame. Maybe they have over-advertised the importance of Congress and what Congress can do. When they won the 1946 election they said that Congress was to be restored to its proper role in government and they promised that Congress would fix things up.

Maybe it isn't quite fair for the women to take them at their word.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 30. (AP)—Cotton futures moved lower today under pressure of commission house liquidation and local selling. The decline was influenced partly by easiness in securities and sentiment that the special session of congress will adopt some measures to curb the inflationary trend. Offerings were absorbed through mill buying and short covering.

Continued favorable crop reports also contributed to the easiness in futures.

Futures closed 5 to 50 cents a bale lower than the previous close.

No Signs Of Oil, Gas Found In Test On Andrews Wildcat

Sinclair Prairie Oil Company No. 1 Stevenson, wildcat in the Shafter Lake area of North-Central Andrews County, 10 miles north and west of the town of Andrews, and 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 13, block A-36, psl survey, ran a one and one half hour drillstem test in the Devonian at 10,440-490 feet.

Recovery was the 2,970-foot water blanket, and 5,640 feet of sulphur water. There were no signs of oil or gas.

This exploration entered the Devonian at 10,325 feet, with an elevation of 3,154 feet. That zone has not logged any shows of petroleum.

It is low, geologically, to the Devonian producers in the Shafter lake field. The prospector is takink a Schulemberber survey.

The Texas Company, Humble Oil & Refining Company, and Ralph Lowe No. 1 Jenkins, Southwest Gaines County deep prospector, 662 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 4, block A-25, psl survey, was bottomed at 11,705 feet in granite material, and was waiting for orders.

It drilled through the Ellenburger without finding any signs of petroleum. There was a small show of oil in the Devonian, and there is a possibility that a string of casing will be run to allow testing that section. No official information on that possibility was available at the time this report was prepared.

Hundreds Without Water As Severe Shortage Hits Houston

HOUSTON, July 30 (UP)—Hundreds of Houston families were without water today as the city faced its worst water shortage in its history.

Residents of the Lockwood and Wallisville road area reported only "trickles" of water during most of the day. Other additions on the outskirts of the city said the water shortage was "critical."

Water pressure in all of the city's 33 wells was cut 10 pounds from the normal 70 pounds, as water-sprinkling throughout the city threatened storage supplies.

St. Josph's Infirmary complained to city officials that water pressure was not sufficient to supply the fourth and fifth floors of the hospitals. Upper stories in tall buildings with no room storage tanks were without water yesterday, and pressure was still low this morning.

Proposal To Elect State Board Of Education Draws Fire, Praise

By BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, July 30.—Strong differences of opinion were voiced today on a Gilmer-Aikin subcommittee's recommendation that the state board of education be elected by popular vote instead of appointed by the governor.

The subcommittee also recommended that the state superintendent of education be made an appointed instead of elected officer.

Dr. J. W. Edgar, superintendent of Austin public schools and co-chairman of the subcommittee which presented written recommendations on management of the public school system, offered the report. It was heard by the full Gilmer-Aiken committee on education and members of statewide advisory committees.

Cousins Opposes Proposal

"I can see no more reason for election of the state board of education than for election of the state highway commission," said R. B. Cousins, jr., of Austin, a member of the education board. He denied that his present position on the board influenced his opinion.

"There is not a single member of the board today who would make a statewide or district race for election on the board. It's an expensive job to acquaint the people of a district with the candidate," he argued.

Ghent Sanderford of Austin, a former member of the board, agreed with Cousins.

"I wouldn't want to run for the job. A poor man couldn't run. It would be too expensive. If he did run, he'd have a system on the other side who would have the backing of the people who have business interests before the board," Sanderford said.

Give Opposite View

T. W. Ogg, Freeport superintendent of schools, differed.

"I deal with the people—all kind of people—in my district, and I've got faith in the people. I might handpick the members and get a slightly higher caliber board, but that's not democracy" he declared.

Rep. Claud Gilmer of Rocksprings sided with those who preferred election of the board.

"I'll go with that popular vote idea too. That just happens to fit a basic belief of mine," he said.

Report To Be Studied

Henry W. Stillwell, Texarkana superintendent of schools, predicted failure of the Gilmer-Aikin committee's attempt to tighten up management of the public school system unless an appointive system is used.

Dr. Edgar said he and Stillwell were "just alike except that we're opposite. Henry started out in favor of an appointive board and ended up for an elective one."

Mrs. R. H. Wilins of Freer favored election of the board.

No objection was heard against the recommendation that the state board appoint the state superintendent.

The 2-page report presented by Dr. Edgar suggested election of nine board members by regions in order to give all parts of the state representation.

The report which will go from the Gilmer-Aikin committee to county committees for study and recommended changes, said the state superintendent's term of office should be indeterminate after a probationary appointment of two or three years.

Poll On Berlin

gotiation and diplomatic procedure to reach an acceptable solution to avoid the tragedy of war for the world."

Voters in each of the major parties see eye-to-eye on that policy as is shown by a comparison of the views held by Truman and Dewey voters on the Berlin question:

	Truman Voters	Dewey Voters
Stay in Berlin	82%	83%
Give up Berlin	9	11
No opinion	9	6

Even people who say they are going to vote for Henry A. Wallace are inclined to favor the present Berlin policy, despite their candidate's demand that the United States pull out of the German capital immediately. While more Wallace voters favor giving up Berlin than members of the major parties almost half say America should not retire from the city.

Veterans of World War II are more adamant in their attitude than the rest of the county, 87 per cent wanting the U. S. to hold its lines at all odds. The women of the country, supposed by some to want a "peace at any price" policy, hold almost the same views as male voters.

Today's poll shows once again that support for firm Russian policy does not come solely from business interests as Communists in this country constantly charge. Even the nation's manual workers vote overwhelmingly in favor of staying in Berlin, and they are only slightly less inclined to feel that way than professional and business people.

The following table gives the answers by various occupational groups:

	Stay in Berlin	Give up Berlin	No Opin.
Prof. & Bus.	85%	8%	7%
White Collar	80	11	9
Farmer	80	11	9
Manual Workers	78	12	10

The findings of the Institute's poll on Berlin are closely in line with previous surveys on public sentiment toward America's overall policy toward Russia. For example, in March of this year 73 per cent of voters said that our policy was "too soft," only three per cent thought it was "too tough," 11 per cent believed it was "all right," and 13 per cent expressed no opinion.

Torpedoes Used To Finish Off Stubborn Battleship Nevada

ABOARD DESTROYER ESCORT GEORGE, July 30 (AP)—Ripped by aerial torpedoes, the stubborn battleship Nevada turned turtle and sank today after four days of battering.

The old dreadnaught—target ship of the Bikini atomic bomb test—went under at 2:34 p. m. (6:34 p. m. CST). It slipped down into the sea within one minute after the shattering blow of the torpedoes.

The ship had remained afloat in the seas southwest of Pearl Harbor despite the hammering by new secret explosives, rockets and gunfire. Then the Navy ordered the 16-inch rifles of the battleship Iowa and guns of three cruisers to see what they could do.

The Iowa opened fire from a 10-mile range and ripped the Nevada with a final salvo. A great cloud of black smoke billowed, hiding half the ship for several minutes.

When the smoke cleared the Nevada still rode proudly.

Then the cruisers Astoria, Springfield and Pasadena moved in closer and poured in shells from six-and five-inch batteries. Smoke rose again from the dreadnaught but she remained upright.

Next Navy torpedo bombers, dive bombers and submarines were sent out in an attempt to finish the Nevada by nightfall.

Truman faction.

Rep. Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.), House minority leader and a customarily strong administration supporter, urged from Washington that the county conventions name delegates to the state convention who will support all nominees of the party.

At Dallas, Dixiecrats claimed a two-to-one lead over Trumanites but saw 956 uninstructed delegates posing a possible upset.

At Austin, a firm Truman stand was expected after the Austin American-Statesman found a clear majority of Travis county's delegates from precinct conventions so instructed.

Two factions will battle for control of 510 disputed delegate votes when the Dallas county credentials committee meets this morning. The votes could tip the scales either way. They are tied up in 17 disputed precincts.

The credentials committee of the Harris county Democratic convention considered 21 precinct contests on delegations to today's meeting. The contests resulted from the fight between states' Righters and nominee-loyal Democratic factions at the precinct conventions.

At Houston both factions were reported planning a walkout, with the loyal group considered most likely to leave the convention floor. Unofficial returns from Harris precinct meetings gave the state's righters a commanding lead on delegate voting strength.

An anti-Truman spokesman in Fort Worth said labor delegates planned to hold a rump session in Tarrant county. At least six such sessions were held at July 24 precinct conventions in Tarrant county by supporters of the Truman-Barkley ticket.

The principal Tarrant county battle is likely over resolutions on the allegiance of electors. Truman supporters were expected to introduce a resolution calling for electors to sign affidavits they will support national Democratic nominees. Dixiecrats will probably introduce a resolution calling for an Aug. 28 referendum on the presidential issue.

downtown. At the experiment station east of Lubbock the measurement was .19. Most of the measurements were made early in the afternoon, except at the weather station, but little rain fell after the checks were made.

A report from the Santa Fe railroad dispatcher said light showers fell at Post, Ropesville, and Bledsoe. Meadow measured .25 inch. Floydada received several light showers.

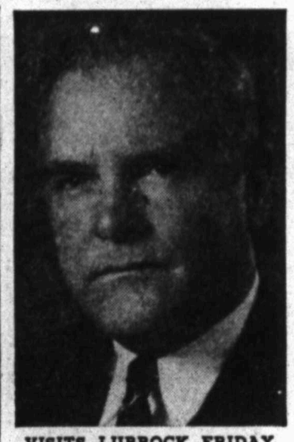

At Matador motorists reported the rain continued heavy from the Motley county seat eastward to Paducah, and indications were that rainfall was heavy some distance south of the Lubbock-Seymour route.

While the South Plains was enjoying its first "cool spell" in two months, Amarillo was racking up an 82-degree reading and Big Spring read 95 degrees as maximums.

Weather observers said Saturday would be partly cloudy with scattered thundershowers during the afternoon, and that probably it would be warmer.

A cool wave still seemed like a mental mirage in most places outside the Panhandle the Associated Press reported. The maximum temperature was 106 degrees at Presidio. Laredo's maximum was 104. Wink and Crystal City each had 102 degree readings, and it was 100 at Bryan. Most other readings were in the nineties.

With every wing beat birds empty heated air from their air sacs and replace it with cool new air.

VISITS LUBBOCK FRIDAY—A group of Waples-Platter company executives, headed by J. Clyde Jones, above, of Fort Worth, and W. L. Files, local manager. In addition to Jones and Peterson, other officials included C. B. Wendelohr, director; and Claude Ferebee, credit manager. They were on a three-day swing through West Texas, visiting seven of the company's 14 branch houses located in West Texas and New Mexico.

flation."

"A business collapse," a "depression," he said, may be the result.

He renewed his call for powers to apply controls over some prices and wages, to bring back rationing and to curb credit. He also urged an excess profits tax.

Taft Attacks Report

Senator Taft leaped to the attack. He said the economic report makes it "very difficult to see any emergency that would require the calling of the special session." He said it shows long-range housing legislation can wait.

Taft did say that he hopes Congress will pass legislation dealing with the general price question, which he termed "an emergency matter." But he insisted that Mr. Truman has not used powers he already has to check inflation and "he doesn't want to stop inflation."

Senator Barkley replied:

"The senator has accused the President of playing politics in calling Congress into session. I deny it.

"But even if we admit for the sake of argument that the President was playing politics, the Republicans could play even smarter politics by passing some of this legislation and taking this issue out of politics."

Taft said the Republicans might be willing to grant limited controls over some scarce commodities "but the President is asking for unlimited power!"

The senator said the Republicans may be willing to restore consumer credit curbs which would require a one-third down payment in installment buying with the balance in 15 months.

In suggesting that Congress probably can quit August 7, Taft said the Republican leaders will try to get action on the filibustered poll tax bill by the middle of next week.

"I am hoping we may be able to adjourn a week from tomorrow," he added. The extra session began last Monday.

Hungarian President Resigns After Son-In-Law's Arrest

BUDAPEST, July 30. (INS)—Hungarian President Zoltan Tildy resigned tonight shortly after Communist government police arrested his son-in-law on charges of espionage and treason.

Government circles said the son-in-law, Victor Csornoky, had urged Tildy to flee the country.

Csornoky who was minster to Egypt, was shot in the leg before his arrest yesterday when he tried to leave his Budapest apartment house.

Murder Charge Facing Woman

A complaint charging murder with malice was filed Friday morning against Nettie Bowles, 38, in connection with the death at 7:54 p. m. Thursday of her divorced husband, Roy L. Bowles, 37.

The woman, a cafe operator, has employed as counsel the law firm of Campbell and Adams.

Bond Is Posted

She posted bond of $2,500 at 10:45 a. m. Friday, set by C. E. Lynn, justice of peace, in binding her over to grand jury investigation.

Prior to filing the murder charge, the state moved for dismissal of an assault with intent to murder complaint filed in Lynn's court Wednesday night, a brief time after Bowles had ben shot once in the neck. He had assaulted Mrs. Bowles that afternoon at a hospital and, just before he was shot, was attempting to get into her residence, she said in a statement to officials. Bowles died in a hospital.

The murder charge was sworn to by Detective Lee Rice, jr., before assistant District Attorney E G. Pharr

Mrs. Bowles had posted $1,500 bond on the former charge early Thursday.

State Files Suit

The state, acting through A. W. Salyars, acting assistant county attorney, filed suit Friday afternoon in 72nd district court of Judge Dan Blair asking forfeiture to the state of 244 bottles and 96 cans of alcoholic beverages allegedly seized from Mrs. Bowles by the sheriff's department on July 23.

On that date, she entered a plea of guilty on the liquor law violation charge and paid a fine of $200 and county court costs.

Rix Funeral home said last night that no funeral arrangements had been made for Bowles pending receipt of instructions from relatives. It was believed that the body would be sent back to Glasgow, Ky., for burial. Bowles' father lives in Glasgow.

Fines Are Assessed

Forty-five cases of beer and approximately 12 pints of liquor were seized Friday afternoon from Robert Lee Kelly, 18, a negro, Liquor Control board inspectors said.

Kelly was fined $100 and county court costs by Judge Walter Davies.

Two other negroes were fined similar amounts in three similar charges, county court officials said. They were Roy Orsbon, 25, and Nathan Grant, 40. Grant was fined in two charges. He had pleaded innocent when they were filed in early March.

A. W. Salyars, acting assistant county attorney, represented the state.

Julia Garcia Trujillo has filed suit for divorce from her husband, Adolph Trujillo, records of the 99th district court showed. She also asked that the court issue an injunction against her husband's drawing any of $1,924.86 in community property from the bank, lest he should remove said property from the state's jurisdiction.

Reeves Camera store at 1917 Broadway reported to police Friday that two cameras, valued at $46 and $75, had been stolen from the store sometime between 12:45 and 1:45 p. m. Two suspects in the thefts were being sought for questioning.

The 34-year-old man is also charged with leaving the scene of an accident without leaving information. All three were involved in minor automobile accidents, police reports showed.

City police early today were investigating the theft of four hubcaps from a new automobile owned by G. R. Cobb, 2516 Twenty-third. Cobb reported the hubcaps were missing shortly after midnight.

Fourteen women paid fines of $25 each shortly after midnight on charges of vagrancy by prostitution.

Memorial Service Set

A record total of 1,908 tons of supplies was ferried into Berlin in the last 24 hours by 323 U. S. plane flights.

The RAF landed 1,442 tons in 251 flights besides 4,800 gallons of gasoline.

U. S. military governor Gen. Lucius D. Clay says the objective is to put at least 4,500 tons daily into Berlin in the near future to resist the Soviet attempt to oust the U. S., Britain and France.

In an unprecedented demonstration, women members of three Berlin political parties, Social Democratic, Liberal and Christian Democratic will hold a memorial service Sunday for five U. S. airmen who have died in service with the "air lift task force," as the result of accidents.

Speakers will include Ernst Reuter, Berlin's elected mayor prevented from taking office by a Soviet veto.

The Soviet-licensed German news agency disclosed tonight that Maj. Gen. Johnson, Stevenson Make Plans To Resume Heated Runoff Race In State Next Week

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Former Texas Governor Coke Stevenson called his two-day "non-political" visit to Washington a success tonight and headed home.

The highlight of his talks, he said, was a meeting before noon with Defense Secretary James Forrestal. After lunch at the capitol he discussed international affairs with Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), chairman of the Senate Foreigh Relations committee.

While describing his trip as nonpolitical, the amiable Texan gave a prompt and pleasant "yes, sir" to a reporter who asked him whether he had gathered any "ammunition" for his Senate race.

Johnson To Open Drive

Stevenson and Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson of Johnson City, the Austin-district congressman, face each other Aug. 28 in run-off for nomination to the Senate to succeed Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex).

Johnson plans to leave tomorrow for Texas, where he will open his runoff campaign with a speech Aug. 6 in Center. He picked that town because it is in Shelby county, birthplace of George Peddy of Houston. Peddy ran third in the first primary election, and Johnson and Stevenson each now hopes to get the bulk of his supporters.

Earlier in the day Johnson had announced he would speak in Center Aug. 4, but his campaign headquarters in Austin sent word later of the change to Aug. 6. On Aug. 3, Johnson is to appear at a meeting of East Texas Rural Electric cooperative officials in San Augustine.

"Coke" Praises Forrestal

Stevenson said he had talked with Forrestal about the over-all preparedness program and that the latter had promised him later a factual memorandum on the subject.

High in his praise of Forrestal, Stevenson said:

"He is in a position to know all the facts regarding the foreign situation.

"As long as I have confidence in the secretary of defense, which I do, I will follow his recommendations. I think Secretary Forrestal one of the ablest men in the government."

Stevenson "Internationalist"

Stevenson described himself as an "internationalist." He said details he had learned here about foreign affairs had convinced him the positions he had taken in the first primary contest had been sound.

Johnson has referred to Stevenson as "my isolationist opponent."

One of the newsmen at the press conference held in Stevenson's hotel room late in the day asked him whether he would help the southerners in any filibuster against civil rights legislation.

Well known for brevity, Stevenson smiled and replied:

"I think I would be good in this respect. Having presided over both houses in the state legislature, I would know how to take advantage of parliamentary situations.

"I usually speak briefly out of consideration of my listeners, but if the situation demands I think I could talk a bit longer."

He said he walked the block from his hotel to the White House, where a guard at the gate informed him President Truman was out of town. He then dropped plans to try to see the Chief Executive.

in the Democratic convention, although it was indicated that an attempt would be made by one faction to present a "Dixiecrat" resolution in opposition to President Truman's civil rights program.

Who will present the resolution was not known today, but copies of it have been received by numerous Lubbock people.

Lubbock county is entitled to name 25 delegates for the "governor's convention" to be held in Forth Worth in September. Ellis said an estimated 75 to 100 delegates had been named in last Saturday's precinct conventions.

The Republican county committee is scheduled to meet an hour early to certify delegates to the county convention scheduled at 2 p. m. The Democratic executive committee will meet at 1 p. m. to canvass the vote of last Saturday's primary election prior to the county convention, set for 3 o'clock.

In the county GOP convention in May, Vaughan, who supported Gov. Dewey for the nomination, was opposed by a faction headed by M. D. Temple, who supported Taft. Two separate conventions resulted with delegates being named to the Corpus Christi convention by both groups.

At Corpus Christi, the Taft forces gained control, only to lose out in the National Republican convention at Philadelphia.

With Dewey nominated, it appears that Dewey men will have control of the state organization, but R. B. Creager, national committeeman and long-time GOP leader from Brownsville, has declared his group will retain control of the committee.

Newfoundland To Be Taken Into Canadian Confederation

OTTAWA, July 30 (INS)—Prime Minister MacKenzie King announced late today that the Canadian government will accept Newfoundland into the Canadian confederation.

Former Red Spy Tells Of Ring

became a major.

The witness was asked whether any other "contacts" of her espionage days were holding government positions at present. She replied:

"There is one left, but there may be a few more."

Ferguson earlier had first identified Remington as a source of information for the spy ring.

Later, at a news conference, the tall, slim, sandy-haired, 30-year-old Remington elaborated on his denial. He categorically denied (1) Being a Communist party member, (2) Giving Miss Bentley secret information in 1942 and 1943.

Worked At White House

He said he had given Miss Bentley information that was available to "any reporter," but none that was "secret or confidential." He explained that he met her in 1942 when he was "an extremely gullible young man." He said she was then known as "Helen Johnson."

Remington admitted that he saw Miss Bentley "about ten times" during 1942 and 1943. He said she would casually ask him to meet her "on a street corner" while she was "on her way to a train or a meeting." He declared:

"Miss Bentley apparently believes I gave her some aircraft production figures which were secret. This is not so."

Miss Bentley testified that another high administration official "who worked at the White House" had furnished one of her Washington contacts with the news that the U. S. had cracked the Russian secret code in 1944.

She said that he had given the information orally to her agent and that she had passed it along to Moscow.

Even Filmed Information

Miss Bentley added that she immediately was asked by the Russians which code had been broken. She commented to the committee:

"They (the Russians) were greatly excited."

She said her "political" information went to Earl Browder, former head of the Communist party in the United States.

Miss Bentley added that "military" information went first to the Russian-born businessman, Golos, and, after he died, to the Russian she knew only as "Bill."

She said the volume of her information became so great it was necessary to have it microfilmed. The witness related that she made trips from New York to Washington every two weeks.

Miss Bentley told the committee she carried her microfilmed material in a shopping bag or a knitting bag.

None of the persons supplying the information received pay, she went on. She declared:

"They were a bunch of misguided ideologists."

Miss Bentley said she also was unpaid, and was acting as an "ideologist."

She said her Communist idealism was shattered when she "bumped up against real Russians" who "were openly cynical about America and who acted like cheap gangsters."

Miss Bentley revealed that her superiors "put her on ice" in December, 1944. Later, she said, they wanted to send her to Russia for "training" but she declared she was "frightened to death" because she feared she had aroused suspicion.

Miss Bentley told the committee that she became a card-carrying Communist in March 1935, and later went underground.

The pretty, former language teacher and Vassar graduate said that she first became interested in Communism in 1934, after a visit to Italy, then dominated by Mussolini and the Fascist party. She said:

"On that visit I fell easy prey to the persuasions of the Communists."

The witness said that she had experience as a strike picket, participated in demonstrations against employers, and had what she called her first experience with a "fringe outfit." She identified this organization as the American League against War and Fascism.

Miss Bentley said she went underground as a "member at large" of the party. She said:

"A Communist at large is a person who becomes so secret that you cannot take the risk of meeting other Communists at unit meetings but are responsible to one member only."

Miss Bentley said that the person to whom she reported on her underground assignment was Golos, Russian-born American citizen.

Remington was identified by Ferguson during the hearing, before Miss Bentley took the stand.

Acting Commerce Secretary Thomas Blaisdell, Jr., told the Ferguson committee that he had employed Remington in February, 1947, despite reports, "a year or so back," that Remington has had Red front connections.

Blaisdell testified that Remington denied flatly the Communist front reports.

Chicago continued their $41.00 high, made most of this week and only a quarter under the all-time record of last January. Spring lambs at $29.75 a hundred pounds were the highest in nearly two weeks.

Grains, on the other hand, reached new lows for the season. Wheat finished the day's trading on the Chicago Board of Trade as much as 1¾ cents a bushel lower. Corn was down 1⅛ to 2¼ cents, oats as much as ⅜ cent less.

Cotton futures in New York closed five to 50 cents a bale lower.

In Wall street the stock market broke fractions to more than two points under the fastest trading of the week, then turned upward somewhat on smaller later volume. Some stocks reached lows five to 20 points below their Thursday close.

WEST ALLIES MAY TAKE REQUEST DIRECT TO STALIN

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) — The United States, Britain and France may seek to carry direct to Premier Stalin their new joint request for an end to the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

This possibility came in for public speculation today after the State department received word from American Ambassador Smith in Moscow that Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov is away from his office "on vacation."

Smith has just returned to Moscow from widely publicized conferences with other American diplomats in Berlin and London. He and British and French envoys had proposed to see Molotov immediately.

Some officials here suggested that the Soviet government may have preferred that Molotov be unavailable.

The State department disclosed receipt of Smith's message at a news conference held by Press Officer Michael McDermott. The note said that while Molotov was away Deputy Foreign Minister Valaerin A. Zorin would act for him.
