Tragedies Follow Bitter Cold; Measure Of Relief Is Reported In Midwest

(By The Associated Press)

TRAGEDIES accompanied bitter cold that had settled down Thursday in sections of the northern states from Maine to Montana.

Although a measure of relief came to the midwest there were plenty of frigid temperature reports, such as 42 below zero at Bolsters Mills, Me., 40 below at Cook, Minn., 30 below at Duluth, and 33 below at Pembina, N. D.

Lake Superior claimed the lives of three workmen when a heavy snow plow used to make a trail across St. Louis bay between Duluth and Superior, Wis., crashed through the ice.

Three fishing crafts still were missing off Portland, Me., after a fourth, the Sunapee, reported safely. A coast guard ice tug cut through six miles of ice in Lake Michigan off Chicago, located a schooner missing two days with a crew of three, and towed it to safety.

A dozen cities reported finding bodies in the streets of victims who had died of exposure.

Snow storms which had reached a maximum of two feet in some sections turned into flurries over the eastern Great Lakes, and there were blizzards in the Adirondacks. Roads were piled high with drifts in some of the New England states.

It was the coldest in three years in New York City, the minimum being 8 above. It had risen to 29 above at 3 p. m. Chicago had a high of 14 above, but it began dropping as night approached. Weather forecasters said temperatures "more near to normal" might be expected in Chicago and most of the midwest tomorrow.

Death Comes To 75-Year-Old Rancher At Colorado; Vast Fortune Left, Estimated At One Time Over $50,000,000

WEST TEXAS last night mourned for W. L. Ellwood, one of her foremost pioneers.

The 75-year-old Lubbock multi-millionaire and owner of the famous Spade ranch died unexpectedly of a heart attack early Thursday in a Colorado, Tex., hotel His body this morning will leave the section which, during his life time, changed from a ranching section to a vast agricultural empire.

Funeral Set Sunday

Funeral services will be conducted Sunday at DeKalb, Ill., former home of Mr. Ellwood, and burial will be there. The body will be sent by the Texas and Pacific railway to Fort Worth and from there to DeKalb.

Friends of Mr. Ellwood had hoped funeral rites could be conducted at Lubbock. Such an arrangement, however, would have inconvenienced members of the bereaved family, it was said.

Perry Ellwood, DeKalb banker, who with his family had been spending the holidays with his brother at Renderbrook ranch, near Colorado, and Otto Jones, manager of the ranch, will accompany the body, leaving Colorado at 8 o'clock.

Go To Colorado

Several Lubbock persons went to Colorado yesterday. They included T. B. Zellner, Ellwood secretary, and Lloyd Zellner; R. C Hopping, sales manager for the Ellwood interests; A. J. Delahunty, O. L. Culwell, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Arnett, Len McClellan, C. E. Casey, Tom Arnett, F. A. Butler, Charles Middleton, Sam Arnett.

Mr Ellwood had breakfast at 7 o'clock yesterday morning at the hotel at Colorado, and afterwards he sat in the lobby smoking while he read a morning newspaper. He first complained of a pain in his right shoulder, and he was accompanied to his room by his chauffeur, June Stalnaker. Mr. Ellwood frequently had suffered pains in the shoulder, as a result of an automobile accident several years ago.

Calls His Ranch

Mr. Ellwood later called Jones at Renderbrook ranch, 23 miles south of Colorado, telling Jones that he was not feeling well but that he

Whitey Walker Being Sought For Robbery Of Marlin Bank

MARLIN, Dec. 28. (AP)—Investigation of the $41,000 holdup robbery of the First State bank of Marlin turned tonight to a search for W. H. (Whitey) Walker and Irvin (Blackie) Thompson, notorious bank robbers, after a suspect arrested last night at Fort Worth was questioned and released.

Walker's photograph was identified by Peter Bayer, Marlin tailor, as the man he saw in a cafe at 6 a. m. yesterday shortly before the robbery and the abduction of M. V. Bradshaw, 50, vice president of the bank; Miss Andrew Peyton, 28, bookkeeper, and Lee Humphrey, negro porter. Humphrey identified a photograph of Thompson as the other robber. The banker, bookkeeper and porter were released unharmed last night.

Pennies Valued By This Kiddie

LORAIN, O., Dec. 28. (AP)—Attilla Kranyak is only 5 years old, but he's an accomplished spendthrift.

He found a hidden roll of $125 in the home of his father, a restaurateur, mounted his tricycle, rounded up some playmates and started on a spending spree.

Some of the bills overflowed the leather tool kit of his vehicle—but he stuffed those in his pockets.

The gang visited parks, candy stores, soda fountains—then Attilla began showering his little friends with bills. He got rid of $80 before Daddy Kranyak caught up with him.

Attilla, the father explained, realized the value of pennies, nickles and dimes, but paper money meant little to his youthful mind.

Texas Bankers Will Aid Sale Of Bond Issue

Active Organization Will Be Set Up; Fred Florence Of Dallas Is Named Chairman Of Two Groups

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec 28.—Texas bankers, representing all sections of the state, met here today and after a conference with Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and other state officials decided to actively set up an organization for the purpose of selling $2,750,000 of state relief bonds.

Fred F. Florence, president of the Republican National Bank and Trust company and of the Dallas Clearing House association, was elected chairman of two groups, an executive committee of 13 members and a general advisory committee of approximately 150 members, to handle the sale.

Others Are Chosen

George Waverly Briggs, vice president of the First National bank of Dallas, and J. L. Lafferty of the Fort Worth National bank, were chosen vice president and secretary, of the voluntary operating association.

The Fort Worth National bank was designated the fiscal agent of the organization. It will supervise the mechanical operations necessary to distribution of the bonds.

Meanwhile, the Texas relief commission, distributor of relief funds, which will handle proceeds of the bond issue, planned to realize cash as soon as possible on approximately $1,300,000 of the securities which already had been sold by the state bond commission, agency designated by the legislature to attend to details of selling the bonds.

Estimates Of Relief

The commission voted to allocate the money to the various counties on a prorata basis. Lawrence Westbrook, director of the relief commission said that about $1,600,000 had been spent in November and that

Six Navy Seaplanes Are To Attempt Long Mass Flight

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28. (AP)—Six navy seaplanes will attempt a mass flight from San Francisco to Honolulu probably next month, navy headquarters announced definitely today, the first flight in more than five years over the longest all-over-water airline in the world.

They will be permanently stationed at Pearl Harbor, the navy's big mid-Pacific base on the Hawaiian island of Oahu.

Strict Orders Are Issued To Bring In Gold

Only Five Exceptions Allowed Under New Order; Morgenthau Says Action Is Necessary To Protect Currency

Gold Held By Federal Reserve Banks And RFC To Be Exempt; Small Holders Are Affected By Morgenthau Order

By WILLIAM L. BEALE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Acting Secretary Morgenthau, with President Roosevelt's approval, today issued a rigid command for payment into the treasury of gold coins, bullion and certificates.

Virtually the only important monetary exception to the order was gold held by federal reserve banks and the Reconstruction Corporation.

Act For Protection

Following the wording of the emergency banking act, Morgenthau's order said "in my judgment such action is necessary to protect the currency system of the United States."

The only official explanation forthcoming was that the step "further carries out the purpose of congress as expressed in the emergency banking act of March 9 to mobilize the gold coin, gold bullion and gold certificates of the country to protect the currency system for the benefit of all citizens."

"It applies to the small holders and to those few relatively large holders who have not complied with the law," the treasury head said of the new order.

Exemption Is Removed

Officials insisted to newspapermen that the only purpose of the order was to supplement and tighten President Roosevelt's previous prohibition against gold hoarding by removing the $100 exemption then allowed.

The other change that they considered important related to the penalty for violators. Under earlier negotiations, this had been a $10,000 fine, 10 years imprisonment or both. Morgenthau's new order would subject them to a fine amounting to twice the value of the gold or yellow backs held by those failing to comply.

The order was issued at a time when latest treasury figures gave the circulation of gold at $311,044,985 and the gold certificates at $217,486,829.

The order was interpreted as not

Judge Rebels At Peanut Crackles

YORK, S. C., Dec. 28. (AP) — Since oldest residents can remember, audiences at York county's periodical court terms have munched peanuts, bananas and apples but henceforth they must enjoy their legal proceedings without refreshments.

It was the crackle of goober hulls that got on Judge E. C. Dennis' nerves and he ended the ancient custom with sudden verbal outburst.

"This court house is no lunch room," he exploded, "If there's any more eating, somebody will have to pay a fine or go to jail."

Gunman Takes Cash Here In Hotel Robbery

Police Report Good Clues In Connection With Robbery Of Hilton By A Lone Bandit At 3 A. M. Thursday

Police last night reported "good clues" in connection with the robbery of Hilton hotel by a lone bandit at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. The leads were being developed.

A 35-year-old Lubbock man arrested yesterday afternoon for liquor law violation will be questioned in connection with the hijacking. Failure of witnesses of the hijacking to give good descriptions of the robber hampered police investigation.

Escapes In Cab

The bandit scooped up $163.96 and escaped in a waiting cab.

Night Auditor Bill Mayhew, and Assistant Night Clerk Arthur Griffith of the hotel, and Loal Derrick of the Ford Taxi company were seated near the telephone switchboard behind the desk. A radio announcer at Cincinnati called the time, 3 o'clock Thursday morning. A muffled figure strode to the desk, aimed a heavy revolver at the back of the cab driver's head, and ordered the group to "up with your hands."

Ordered Into Vault

The startled trio hesitated. "Get in that damn vault," muttered the visitor, whose face and figure were concealed by a heavy overcoat, the collar of which was turned up around his ears, and a low-hanging cap of "bowery" design. He repeated: "I said get in that vault."

Still aiming the gun and constantly watching the retreating employes, the bandit leaned over the desk, pulled out a cash drawer, and withdrew with a gloved hand nearly all the bills and most of the silver of a $200 cash reserve "bank"

"Prohibition, contrary to what many seem to think, is not regarded by the people as the principal issue of the coming campaign," Senator Small said, "but every candidate, nevertheless, is going to be required to make a clear cut statement regarding his stand on it.

"I think the people ought to be given a chance to vote on it as soon as possible, and I shall therefore advocate a quick submission of the question."

Substitute For League Given By Chief; Birth Anniversary Of Woodrow Wilson Observed As President Speaks

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—President Roosevelt said tonight that his country did not contemplate becoming a member of the League of Nations and that as a definite policy the United States would be opposed to armed intervention in the affairs of another nation.

Speaking at the observance of the 77th birth anniversary of Woodrow Wilson, the author of the League of Nations and the man under whose sponsorship he entered the national political arena, Mr. Roosevelt offered instead of the League his own three point program for world peace.

Work Is Praised

While he rejected the idea of United States membership in the League, Mr. Roosevelt praised its work.

"The League of Nations", he said, "encouraging as it does the extension of non-aggression pacts, of reduction of armament agreements, is a prop in the world peace structure."

President Wilson's "gallant appeal" to banish future wars, Mr. Roosevelt said, "meant little to the imagination or the hearts of a large number of the so-called statesmen" gathered in Paris for the peace pact of 1919.

League Handicapped

"I saw that with my own eyes and heard it with my own ears," Mr. Roosevelt said, referring to his work abroad as an assistant secretary of the navy during the war and post-war days.

"Political profit, personal prestige, national aggrandizement attended the birth of the League of Nations and handicapped it from its infancy by seeking their own profit and their own safety first."

"We are not members and we do not contemplate membership," he said.

The president, in outlining his own three points for a universal peace, said he had told "every na-

New Mark Is Set By Women Fliers

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 28. (AP)—Frances Marsalis and Helen Richey tonight broke the world's endurance flight record for women and flew on over Miami, piling up additional hours beyond the new mark of 8 days, 5 hours and 5 minutes.

They set the new record at 6:08 p. m. eastern standard time, bettering by an hour the former mark of 196 hours and 5 minutes which they had equalled an hour earlier.

Mrs. Marsalis, in a note dropped shortly after equalling the record, said the women had no intention of landing tonight, provided the plane and its motor continued functioning.

Suggesting 1:03 p. m. Saturday, exactly ten full days from the time they took off from the municipal field as a possible landing time, she asked counsel from her co-workers of the ground crew.

Solution Of Carlsbad Mystery Must Await A Report Of Missing Persons

(By The Associated Press)

CARLSBAD, N. M., Dec. 28.—Solution of Eddy county's mystery involving shouts in the dark, revolver shots, pieces of splintered bone, bloodstains and empty cartridge tonight was destined to await the receipt by officers here of reports on missing persons.

Sheriff W. L. McDonald and his deputies have been searching since Tuesday for the body of a man who is believed to have been killed near the Willow Springs hunting and fishing club on the Carlsbad-Pecos highway, 25 miles south of here Christmas night. The sheriff said the search had been abandoned at least until reports have been received on missing persons.

The only clues to the supposed crime, and those given to officers 12 hours after it is believed to have taken place, were pieces of bone described as being from a man's wrist, bloodstains in the sands near the highway and an empty .30 caliber shell. All three were reported to officers by J. L. Stribling, caretaker at the hunting club, who said he and his family heard shouts on Christmas night, then two shots but thought nothing of them until Tuesday.

Sheriff McDonald said a bloody hat found near the railroad tracks at Lovington, N. M., apparently had no connection with the case.

Young Girl Confesses She Mutilated Body Of Child; Gruesome Story Told

(By The Associated Press)

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 28—District Attorney Frank H. Coyne tonight said that 13-year old Mary Kavala confessed that she killed Josephine Waropay, the 8-year old girl whose body was found Christmas eve strangled, stabbed and beaten.

Coyne said the Kavala girl confessed she lured Josephine to the rear of St. Matthews Lyceum near the shantytown section of Hastings-on-Hudson where the girls lived, and beat the younger girl unconscious with a stone.

Then, Coyne said the girl confessed, Mary tied Josephine's hands with cords from a kitchen mop and strangled the child with a piece of rubber from an inner tube.

Mary allegedly said in her confession that she multilated the younger girl's face and covered the body with a sled.

Coyne asserted the only reason the older girl gave for the slaying was that little Josephine had been "talking about" Mary and that she killed the child in a "fit of temper."

HINTS for housewives, picked up here and there: If you want to serve something different try this: Beat the whites of as many eggs as necessary for the number of people to be at the meal. See that the white is good and stiff. Add salt and pepper. Drop several spoonfuls on pieces of toast, hot and waiting. In the center of each mound put an unbroken egg yolk. Put in a quick oven until the white is a warm, deep brown. Serve at once with touches of parsley.

FOR YOUR CAKE

IF fruit cake becomes very hard it can be wrapped in a cloth saturated with orange or spiced peach juice and stored in an air-tight box.

If cake is very hard it can be made into a delicious pudding by steaming 30 minutes in double boiler and serving hot with any desired sauce—hard, creamy, foamy or fruit.

YOUR CLOTHING

THE character of your suit can be changed by using different kinds of blouses. They can be made of almost any material from soft Scotch plaids in woolens to the finest silks.

Children's clothing should be liberally supplied with pockets large enough to hold things without likelihood of losing them, we are told by experts. Useless shallow pockets should be replaced by adequate ones before garments are worn. Sometimes pockets can be sewn on the bloomers of little girls' costumes when they are not appropriate on the dress. (And even grown-ups can applaud such ideas, for who can't use pockets?)

AND FOODS

DO not fail to eat fruit and vegetables as regularly in winter as in summer, advises the bureau of home economics. The citrus fruits—oranges, tangerines, grapefruit, lemons—are rich in vitamins. Raisins, prunes, dried apricots are exceptionally important for their iron content. Carrots, turnips and cabbages are cheap and easy to store.

Have you any cucumber pickles in your larder? If so here is a sandwich suggestion. To six tablespoonfuls of chopped hard boiled eggs allow a teaspoonful of chopped capers and tablespoonful of chopped cucumber pickle. Spread with mayonnaise.

The flavor of lamb combines especially well with certain relishes and vegetables, says the U. S. Bureau of Home Economics. Relishes that may be used include mint sauce or jelly, currant and guava jelly, spiced conserves and pickles and horseradish sauce. Grind together equal parts of carrots and peanuts, using medium knife. Mix with mayonnaise. Place a small mound of the salad in center of salad plate and fairly close around it put a circle of sliced stuffed green olives. Put another circle of the olives on the flange of the plate. One or more olives may be placed on the salad. This does away with the inevitable lettuce.

MEAT CASSEROLE

HERE is a way to use up left-over vegetables. Use two-thirds cup of diced cooked meat, one-third cup diced cooked celery, one-half cup cooked peas, one tablespoon chopped onion, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one-half cup gravy or milk, one-half cup mashed potatoes.

Mix two tablespoons milk with mashed potatoes, spread over rest of ingredients which have been placed in buttered shallow pan. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. Serve in dish in which baked.

Other left-over vegetables can be used in place of the peas. One tablespoon of chopped green pepper can be added if desired.

Delicate Brain Operation Will Be Performed Friday

BALTIMORE, Dec. 28. (AP)—After a second examination today Dr. Walter E. Dandy, noted surgeon, said he probably would attempt a difficult brain operaiton of five-months-old Sue Trammell, of Houston, Tex., tomorrow.

He certainly would not perform the operation before that, Dr. Dandy declared.

The child was flown 1,400 miles from Houston to Baltimore arriving here early yesterday.

The blue-eyed baby, cooing in her crib at the hospital, was described by attendants as showing no indications of suffering. Another child of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Trammell, her parents, died several months ago of the same ailment.

Byrd Flagship Creeps Into Seas Strewn With Icebergs

ABOARD ADMIRAL BYRD'S FLAGSHIP, Off Antactica, Dec. 28. (Via Mackay Radio) (AP)—The flagship of the Byrd Antarctic expedition this afternoon crept at reduced speed through iceburg-strewn seas, after high winds which had buffeted her for 36 hours subsided this morning.

Until 6:30 a. m. today the vessel was still headed into a northwest gale, in order to give the big seaplane cradled aft the benefit of the lee of the midships deckhouse.

When the sun broke clear for a few minutes and the wind abated, the flagship was swung around and headed east at full speed. Admiral Richard Byrd was anxious to make up for four days lost on account of fog and storms. Later the speed was reduced because of icebergs.

It was the first sight of the sun since Friday.

World Peace Plan Offered

President Says United States Will Be Opposed To Armed Intervention In Affairs Of Another Nation

tion in the world something to this effect:

Eliminate All Weapons

"1—Let every nation agree to eliminate over a short period of years, and by progressive steps, every weapon of offense in its possession and to create no additional weapons of offense. This does not guarantee a nation against invasion unless you implement it with the right to fortify its own border with permanent and non-mobile defense: and also with the right to assure itself through international continuing inspection that its neighbors are not creating nor maintaining offensive weapons of war.

"2—A simple declaration that no nation will permit any of its armed forces to cross its own border into the territory of another nation. Such an act would be regarded by humanity as an act of aggression, and, as an act, therefore, that would call for condemnation by humanity.

All Must Cooperate

"3—It is clear, of course, that no such general agreement for the elimination of aggression and of weapons of offensive warfare would be of any value to the world unless every nation, without exception, enter into the agreement by solemn obligation. If then such an agreement were signed by a great majority of the nations on the definite condition that it would go into effect only when signed by all the nations, it would be comparatively easy matter to determine which nations in this enlightened time are willing to go on record as belonging to the small minority of mankind which still believes in the use of the sword for invasion of and attack upon their neighbors."

To President Wilson Mr. Roosevelt gave credit for the first enunciation of "a definite statement that the United States will never again seek one additional foot of territory by conquest."

Opposed Intervention

"President Wilson went further," Mr. Roosevelt said, pointing out with special reference to our Latin American neighbors that material interests must never be made superior to human liberty. Nevertheless and largely as a result of the convulsion of the world war and its after effects, the complete fruitation of that policy of unselfishness has not in every case obtained.

"It therefore has seemed clear to me as president that the time has come to supplement and to implement the declaration of President Wilson by the further declaration that the definite policy of the United States from now on is one opposed to armed intervention.

"The maintenance of constitutional government in other nations is not a sacred obligation devolving upon the United States alone.

Concern Of Each Nation

"The maintenance of law and the orderly processes of government in this hemisphere is the concern of each individual nation within its own borders first of all.

"It is only if and when the failure of the orderly processes affects the other nations of the continent that it becomes their concern; and the point to stress is that in such an event it becomes the joint concern of a whole continent in which we are all neighbors.

"I believe that I express the views of my countrymen when I state that the old policies, alliances, combinations and balances of power have proved themselves inadequate for the preservation of world peace.

"The League of Nations, encouraging as it does the extension of non-aggression pacts, of reduction of armament agreements, is a prop in the world peace structure.

"We are not members and we do not contemplate membership. We are giving cooperation to the League in every matter which is not primarily political and in every matter which obviously represents the views of the good of the people of the world as distinguished from the views of the good of political leaders, of privileged classes or of imperialistic aims."

PWA Allotments

development have been transmitted through the state department.

The present allotment provides for work on the American side of the river only. Public works officials estimated it would provide about 13,000 man-months of employment.

Is Fine Present

Representative Thomason (D-Tex.) who has been interested in this project for more than 20 years, said tonight the allotment was the finest new year's present the federal government could give to the people of Texas.

Rectification of the Rio Grande in the El Paso valley was urged in order to relieve adjacent towns and farming lands from the threat of floods. The stabilization will help define the international boundary line which constantly changes because of the wandering course of the river.

Woman Is Subpoenaed As A Witness In Houston Theft

BEAUMONT, Dec. 28. (AP)—Percy Foreman of Houston, assistant district attorney, served a subpoena on Mrs. Adele Pipkin of New York here tonight as she stepped from a train, ordering her to appear before the Houston grand jury tomorrow morning as a witness in the probe of the robbery of $34,500 from her Houston attorney.

The money was a part of her settlement in a divorce from Jean Pipkin of Beaumont, and was taken from her Houston attorney, Charles E. Heidingsfielder, sr., at his office Christmas night. He said he was to carry the money to her New York personally.

Hotel Robbery

that is provided the night shift. In less than two minutes he had walked casually out of the east entrance, entered a waiting taxi, and been whisked away.

C. H. Rowden, driver of the waiting cab, summoned later by police, said he carried the man to the vicinity of a tourist camp across the canyon on East roadway. The Domino Taxi company had received a telephone order for a cab at the east door of the hotel a few minutes before the robbery.

When the cab arrived, a man stood beside the door and told the driver to wait a moment, that he had to "go back in the hotel for something." The unsuspecting cabbie kept his motor running, and soon the man reappeared, asking that he be driven out East Broadway. The driver said he was under no coercion, and having delivered his fare, he returned to the taxi stand in the 1100-block of Broadway.

Officers Called

City and county officers were called to the hotel immediately after the bandit disappeared. A check of taxi companies by telephone soon found the driver who apparently unwittingly had helped in the escape.

Queried by officers, Mayhew said the robber appeared to be a "smallish" man, but "I could not tell you whether he was a negro or a white man." Griffith, who had noticed the man when he first entered the building, had remarked: "Well, what's this going to be, a holdup?"

About five minutes before the lone man entered the building, Griffith had brought down in the passenger elevator six men, apparently guests of the hotel, who walked out without passing the desk. Two minutes after the holdup, two guests of the hotel entered the south door.

Officers, following the tip of the Domino taxi driver, went to the tourist camp and returned with a man and a woman, guests of the camp. They were questioned at the hotel, but released.

The loss was covered by insurance, a hotel representative said.

Although evidently thoroughly familiar with practices of the hotel, the heavily coated gunman, however, did not go to the vault, where guests' jewels and money had been put for safekeeping.

the cost of relief for December would be about the same. He estimated slightly in excess of 100,000 families were on the rolls, each receiving about $16 monthly.

Earl P. Adams, of Athens, member of the commission moved that the relief allotments to the counties be decreased to such an extent the $2,750,000 would care for needs of the distressed for three months. He did not get a second to his motion. Westbrook estimated that the $1,300,000 expected to be made immediately available would care for the situation a little more than three weeks.

Protest Filed On Gas Plans

Lubbock City Officials Are Opposed By West Texas Gas In Hearing Before Advisory Board Of PWA

FORT WORTH, Dec. 28. (AP) — Lubbock city officials were opposed by the West Texas Gas company in a hearing today before the Texas advisory board of the public works administration here on Lubbock's application for a loan and grant of $1,700,000 to install a gas system in Lubbock and to build a pipe line from that city to the Jal, N. M., gas field.

Application for the loan and grant had previously been filed with the PWA by Lubbock city officials in the name of the Natural Gas Supply company. The city was represented here today by W. H. Rodgers, city manager; E. L. Klett, city attorney and M. R. Smith, city engineer. Rogers told the board the project would 'save the city of Lubbock more than the cost of the new system in rate savings in a comparative short time."

George W. Dupree, attorney for the opposing company, filed a formal protest. He said the West Texas Gas company has furnished gas to Lubbock since 1927 and has an $8,000,000 investment in that area. Others who attended to protest were C. C. Crenshaw and former State Senator W. H. Bledsoe. Dupree said Lubbock cannot support two gas systems and that the citizens had not been consulted as a whole before the application was filed.

Additional Funds Will Be Asked For Canning In Texas

AUSTIN, Dec. 28. (AP)—The Texas relief commission today authorized Governor Mirian A. Ferguson to apply to the federal surplus relief corporation in Washington for an additional $1,000,000 for the purchase of cattle in Texas and the processing and canning of beef.

Texas already has been allotted $500,000 for this phase of relief work. The relief commission was advised that this amount will have been exhausted about January 15 next and that the surplus beef processed and canned would be dissipated by March 15, next.

Author Of Kidnap Book Is Dead; Succumbs In Texas

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 28. (AP) —Sam Irby, 43, of Shreveport, author of the book, "Kidnaped By The Kingfish," died December 24 in the city-county hospital in San Antonio, Tex., his wife said here tonight.

Irby in his book, published several months ago, claimed that he was "kidnaped" for political reasons during the windup of the hot campaign for the United States senate in 1930 between Senator Huey P. Long and the incumbent Senator Joseph E. Ransdell, which Long won.

Many Plants Available For Road Beautification Work

DALLAS, Dec. 28. (AP)—J. M. Ramsey of Austin told directors of the Southwestern Nurserymen's Cooperative association, at the close of a two day meeting today, that survey of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana showed a large amount of plant and tree material available at prices lower than in any other section of the country, for public beautification projects.

"We have made a survey of the whole situation," he said, "and are ready to cooperate with the Texas highway commission and other public agencies to give advice on the selection of plants, shrubs and trees adapted to specific locations.

"The Texas highway commission will release in January a call for bids on several beautification projects. Now is the time to beautify roads already built. Next week, the University of Texas will let a contract for landscaping its 40-acre campus, at a cost of about $26,000."

Gold Order

affecting the Reconstruction Corporation's purchases. The corporation has paid out $18,785,000 for newly mined domestic metal, beginning at a price of $31.36 an ounce and gradually increasing it to $34.06. Other sums have been spent for foreign gold.

Another explanation for the new order advanced in some quarters were recent legal tests of the president's anti-hoarding proclamation. A New York federal court held the original order should have been issued by the head of the treasury instead of the president. The new order was believed to meet that objection.

Rumors immediately spring up that the move foretold early devaluation of the gold dollar lacked any official confirmation. In this connection it was emphasized the largest portion of monetary gold stocks still is held by the reserve banks.

Five Exceptions Made

Morgenthau made five exceptions to a general order. They were:

Gold bullion held under federal license.

Rare and unusual gold coins valued by collectors but not including the $2.50 gold piece.

Unmelted scrap gold and gold sweepings not exceeding $100 belonging to any one person; gold possessed for industrial, professional or ornamental use.

Gold coin, bullion or certificates held by reserve banks and the Reconstruction Corporation.

Gold bullion and foreign gold in the possessions and territories except Alaska owned by persons not domiciled or doing business in the United States.

Morgenthau said in his order that gold coin and certificates would be paid for in an equivalent amount of other forms of "coin or currency." Bullion will be paid for at the mint price of $20.67 an ounce instead of the highest price for newly-mined gold.

Federal reserve banks and their members were designated as agencies for receiving the gold.

Latest treasury figures put the United States monetary gold stock at $4,323,000,000. Today's federal reserve condition statement listed gold reserves of the 12 banks at $3,568,786,000.

Under the original gold hoarding order, approximately $40,000,000 was returned to the treasury.

Romance Again Overtakes Widow Of World Explorer

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28. (AP) — Romance has again overtaken Mrs. Aloha Wanderwell, whose husband, Captain Walter Wanderwell, the world wide wanderer, was mysteriously shot to death December 5, 1932 on board his yacht Carma at Long Beach, Calif.

Mrs. Wanderwell and Walter Baker were married in Gretna, La., on Tuesday, December 26, it became known today.

BAILEY LOSES FARM

KENOSHA, Wis., Dec. 28. (AP) — Harvey Bailey, serving a life term in the Leavenworth penitentiary for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, lost his 160-acre farm in Kenosha county today when Circuit Judge E. B. Belden ordered foreclosure of a $14,000 mortgage held by Mary K. Peterson of Burlington, Wis. Bailey purchased the property several years ago under the alias of Thomas Brennan.

Ensign Lincoln O. Denton received the Henry Fernberger trophy for general aviation efficienty in 1933, for his work in searching for the lost dirigible Akron.

Because of high tariff on foreign shipments of automobiles, a low-priced car in this country usually ends up as a middle-priced car in other countries.

Electrocutions

into the death chamber.

Plays Rustic Tune

Mitchell was playing the rustic tune as Hunt walked steadily to his death. As he stepped into the death chamber, he noticed Sheriff R. A. Schmid of Dallas county standing by the outer door and said:

"Smoot, I want to give you this."

Hunt handed the sheriff a cigar.

When asked if he had anything to say, Hunt said, "I want to thank all of my friends for what they've done for me—one and all. That's about all I've got to say."

Protests Innocence

About an hour before the electrocution a newsman asked Hunt if he wanted to talk any more about the case for which he was convicted. Hunt said he did not. The newsman then asked him if his protestation of innocence still stood and Hunt replied that it did.

The men ate oysters for supper in the "death house" last night and smoked their last cigars. Governor Miriam A. Ferguson did not act to reprieve them.

Hunt scoffed at the idea that he would "need anyone to hold him up" as he walked to the electric chair.

"Don't try to tell my folks," he said, "they'll hear about it soon enough."

Mails Folks A Letter

Warden W. W. Waid asked him who they were and where they lived.

"I don't want to be short, warden," Hunt said, "but I'd rather not tell you. I mailed them a letter tonight." He said vaguely they lived in "western Tennessee."

The oysters he had ordered for his supper he left almost untouched. Convicted on circumstantial evidence of killing Samuel Cole, Dallas street car operator, the night of Nov. 3, 1928, Hunt had fought his case through two district court trials and finally to the United States supreme court. Last minute appeals of his attorney, Albert Baskett, and of Mrs. Pauline Doherty, social worker, to Governor Ferguson, failed to elicit an order of commutation of his sentence.

Girl Fails To Arrive

Cornelia Wilkerson, the Dallas girl who has never seen Hunt except through the bars of a jail or prison, failed to arrive in Huntsville last night to see him, as she had planned.

"No," Hunt said slowly, "a man in my position has no business being in love."

He said he received three letters from her Thursday, in which she still professed hope he would be saved from execution.

"I have nothing more to say, except that I'm innocent," Hunt said. He added, "I'm ready to go."

The other two condemned men, both negroes—Carl Stewart, 23, and Clarence Booker, 25—laughed and chatted with prison guards as they waited for the fatal midnight hour to come.

In India last year 1068 tigers weke killed by men, while 1,033 men were killed by tigers.

Witness In Murder Mystery Says He Was Kidnap Victim

CHICAGO, Dec. 28. (AP)—John Van Pelt, 69-year-old witness in the Wynekoop murder mystery who has been mysteriously missing for the last ten days, appeared at the Fillmore police station tonight and told police he had been kidnaped.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 28. (AP) — Mrs. Stella Williams, 35, formerly of Wichita Falls, Texas, was drowned Monday in an automobile accident, a coroner's jury found today, as the result of the negligence of her companion, Edwin R. Brecher, 37.

Charged with manslaughter, Brecher gained his freedom on $2,500 bond. The car in which the couple was riding plunged into a yacht basin.

Brecher said he became confused on a dead-end street ending at the water's edge. He said he did not know how he freed himself from the automobile after it turned over in about eight feet of water.

A Real Advance in Motor Car Engineering

De Luxe Fordor Sedan. One of eleven handsome new body types, all with V-8 cylinder motor

New Dual Carburetion and Dual Intake Manifold add to power and economy of the New Ford V-8 for 1934

LIKE a pair of lungs for this powerful motor, this new system of carburetion and intake supplies vaporized gasoline evenly to all eight cylinders. Two distinct advantages result from it:

1. More even compression of fuel, giving still greater power, faster acceleration, quicker starting and smoother performance in cold weather.

2. More complete utilization of fuel, more miles to the gallon of gasoline, with consequent economy. Crankcase dilution is reduced to a minimum, thereby conserving oil with still further economy in operation.

Increased efficiency at less cost is a notable achievement. Yet it is only one of many improvements which distinguish this new and greater Ford V-8 for 1934.

Clear-vision Ventilation. Constant Supply of Fresh Air without Drafts or Obstruction to View

As perfected in the New Ford, this system of ventilation operates efficiently at all speeds, winter or summer.

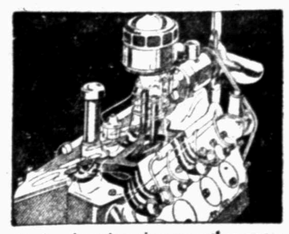

In cold or stormy weather, the new adjustable window ventilators can be opened the desired amount to provide fresh air. Individual control on front door and rear-quarter windows enables passengers to obtain desired ventilation without causing discomfort to others. Windshield and windows do not fog when ventilators are opened.

In warm weather, the windshield—which opens—and the cowl ventilator provide additional fresh air.

Congressional Leaders Declare Against Recovery-Tinkering Measures

Business Will Be Big Theme

Fine Banking Outlook Seen By Government Aides; Chairman Of Chase National Says Conditions Improving

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Congressional leaders today declared themselves against recovery- tinkering efforts and promised President Roosevelt a short, business-like session devoted almost exclusively to the enactment of the necessary budget measures.

As this well defined administration program emerged, President Roosevelt neared a conclusion of his round-up of the national situation which brought a report from government fiscal aides of a "fine" banking outlook.

Conditions Improving

Winthrop Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank, joined in the White House business review and said conditions were "gradually improving."

Speaker Rainey sounded a keynote of "short, harmonious and constructive," for the congressional session opening next week. He made his prediction at the White House after a talk with the president.

"We are going to have a very important session," said the speaker, "but it will be a working one rather than dramatic. We will pass the supply bills, the tax bills, the liquor measures and adjourn early in May."

Excludes Rail Legislation

Rainey's program excluded the much discussed permanent legislation to regulate railroads and stock exchanges, along with attempts to amend the recovery program that was enacted in the special session last spring.

Senator Connally of Texas, a Democratic member of the finance committee, assured the president of support for his dollar devaluation monetary program.

Rainey said there was very strong sentiment on Capitol Hill for additional aid for the silver industry and predicted some action "if any encouragement comes from the president."

New Moves Expected

None of today's White House callers would discuss the monetary program but the president kept close contact with those involved in the money situation and there were renewed anticipations of new monetary moves.

In a brief survey of the banking situation, the president talked with Acting Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury, Governor Black of the federal reserve board, J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency, and Walter Cummings, head of the Bank Deposit Insurance corporation.

"The banking situation is perfectly fine," said Governor Black. "Everything is in fine shape," said Morgenthau.

Much congressional attention was centered on the appropriations and revenue bills as Mr. Roosevelt turned to the preparation of his first budget message to congress.

Seek More Funds

Signs came from high quarters that he would seek a government collection of funds sufficient to devote about $1,000,000,000 above ordinary expenditures for a continuation of the recovery drive and emergency agencies.

Rainey said the first order of legislative business in the house would be the liquor control bill for the District of Columbia. This will be followed by the general liquor revenue bill establishing a tax of $2.00 a gallon on whiskey. The supply bills will follow.

Rainey said he believed some or possibly all of the 15 per cent pay cut for government workers would be restored.

Senator Connally proposed that the treasury take over the gold of the federal reserve system in pursuing its dollar devaluation plan and predicted legislation to this effect.

Connally also predicted that cattle would be included as a basic commodity under the farm act.

Two Mexicans Are Charged In Slaying Of A Patrolman

EL PASO, Dec. 28. (AP) — Ramon Rico, 27, and Fidel Ortega were charged with the slaying of Border Patrolman Bert G. Walthall, 34, in a complaint filed in justice court today by Sheriff Chris Fox.

Walthall and Jose Estrada, 30, an alleged smuggler, were killed, and Patrolman Louis A. Smith, Rico and Ortega were wounded in a liquor fight near the international boundary last night.

Two of the men held are wounded, one shot through the hand and the other in the right eye.

The men were arrested in a house several blocks from the scene of the battle.

Lay Groundwork For New Congress

That Washington is busily preparing for the convening of the 73rd Congress on January 3 is indicated in the signs of activity here recorded by the cameraman in his rounds of the capital. Roosevelt Says Nation Enters A New Year With Realization That We Have Crossed The Threshold Of A New Era

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP) — President Roosevelt expressed the view today that "we enter the new year with a realization that we have crossed the threshold of a new era."

This was contained in a letter he wrote to Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The letter said:

Always A Challenge

"The dawn of a new year always is a challenge. It suggests new opportunities. It is characterized by inventories, accountings of past performances, making of new estimates and resolutions.

"We enter upon the new year with a realization that we have crossed the threshold of a new era. We have the opportunity of improving conditions and making our country a better home, materially and spiritually, for more than 120,000,000 people.

"To do this will require the concerted aid and continued efforts of many forces—of government, federal, state and local; of social spiritual, industrial and financial agencies.

Expresses Thanks

"I welcome this opportunity to express my thanks for the splendid cooperation which you and members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs have given to me and the government.

"Your support of the measures initiated by the government to end the terrible depression and to establish social justice and economic security for all of our people has been and is a real influence for the good we have been able to accomplish.

"I ask that we, men and women of the present and the new generations, continue to work together. With such united effort, we can attain strength and force necessary to cure existing ills and give us a new national health and prosperity."

Approximately 15,000,000 people in the United States are receiving relief aid.

Evasion Of Processing Tax By Hog Buyers To Be Halted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP) — Secretary Wallace today threatened to use all powers of the farm administration to prevent the evasion of processing taxes by local hog buyers.

In a statement, the secretary declared that local hog buyers, small processors, and other purchasers of live hogs for commercial slaughter have been reported to be deducting part or all of the processing tax from the market price quoted to farmers selling hogs.

The secretary urged that the names of hog purchasers who deduct the amount of the tax from the price they pay to farmers be sent to Dr. A. G. Black, chief of the corn-hog section of the farm administration.

Hockey Club Owner Is Being Held On Bad Check Charge; Accusations Made

TULSA, Dec. 28. (AP)—Kay Iversen, owner of the Tulsa American Hockey association club, was held in jail here today on a Wichita, Kan., bad check charge as his attorney hurled accusations of an attempted police shakedown for free hockey tickets and prepared a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

Iversen was arrested last night at the coliseum while the Oilers were beating out a 4 to 3 victory over St. Louis in an overtime game.

Captain George Stewart made the arrest 12 hours after arrival of a telegram from Wichita saying a warrant was being mailed here. Iversen had refused to admit the bulk of the police force to the games free.

The telegram said Iverson had given a "no funds" check to a hotel where the Tulsa team stopped while playing the now disbanded Wichita team. Guy Manatt, Iversen's attorney, said the hotel was told by Iversen the check was not good at the time but would be redeemed this week. Manatt said efforts to reach the hotel management by telephone last night failed and the check could not be paid by wire.

H. W. Porter, pass gate attendant at the coliseum, also was arrested after he refused to admit three plain clothes officers free. The charge filed was "resisting an officer." Porter later was released without bond.

Joseph and Steven Montgolfer, on June 5, 1783, gave the first public demonstration of balloon flight. Their balloon was made of paper and was inflated with hot air.

W. L. Ellwood Death Victim

Funeral Services For Lubbock Multi-Millionaire Will Be Conducted At Former Home In Illinois Sunday

would drive to the ranch as soon as he felt better.

About 8 o'clock as he sat in bed, he said, "Catch me, I am gone." He died before a physician who had been called arrived.

Hopping said Mr. Ellwood had suffered three or four heart attacks within the past 60 days. When the wealthy landowner left Lubbock Friday he apparently was in good health. He went to Sterling City Wednesday, purchasing a herd of bulls for his ranch-lands.

Survivors Are Listed

Surviving Mr. Ellwood were two daughters, Mrs. R. Leland Keeney, Summerville, Conn., and Mrs. Frank Chappel, New London, Conn.; two sisters, Mrs. S. G. Bonney, Denver, Colo., and Mrs. E. L. Mayo, DeKalb, and the brother, Perry Ellwood. Mrs. Ellwood died several years ago.

The pioneer was one of the wealthiest men of West Texas, his holdings at one time being estimated to value more than $50,000,000. One of his associates yesterday estimated Mr. Ellwood's individual fortune at more than $20,000,000. His brother and sisters also are interested in the Spade ranch, most of which was the original estate of his father.

Made Home Here

For the past several years, Mr. Ellwood had made his home with Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Arnett, 4 miles west of Lubbock.

Mr. Ellwood moved to Lubbock in 1918 after making his home most of the time at the Spade headquarters west of town. He built a home about a mile and a half west of the city. It is now located on Nineteenth street and was formerly the Ellwood hospital. For many years, it was one of the showplaces of West Texas.

To Texas In 1887

Mr. Ellwood came to Texas in 1887 with his father, Col. Isaac L. Ellwood from Illinois. His father, originator of barbed wire, desired to purchase ranch holdings and they made their first purchase near Colorado City. A tract of land comprising 200 sections was bought as the original Spade ranch.

Four years later, they moved north to the South Plains and purchased additional land from D. H. and J. W. Snyder in Lamb, Hale, Lubbock and Hockley counties. This body of land was 22 miles long and eight miles wide and covered 128,000 acres.

In the next ten years, their holdings were increased to 265,000 acres on the South Plains and the upper Spade ranch soon became the most famous of West Texas with its herds of thousands of cattle. At times, more than 10,000 head of cattle grazed on its vast ranges and together with the lower Spade holdings in Mitchell county, the Ellwoods had more than 25,000 head of cattle.

Col. Ellwood's time was occupied with his barbed wire business in DeKalb, Ill., and he appointed his son to manage his Texas holdings. The task assigned Mr. Ellwood was the improving and stocking of his ranch.

Improvements Made

Permanent improvements were made on the ranch, two headquarters being built. Materials had to be hauled a great distance, yet the best that could be obtained was placed upon the ranch. The headquarters were made complete in every way; water was piped into the house—a rarity in this section in those days—bath tubs, carbide lighting systems and other conveniences were installed. One of the headquarters was located north of Anton and the other twenty miles west of Lubbock.

Col. Ellwood knew that he had found an ideal country, his son said his father told him. In speaking of its future to his son, the elder Ellwood said, "I may not live to see it, but you will. Some day this country will be solidly farmed and bringing from forty to fifty dollars per acre".

Added To Holdings

With all this in mind, he decided to block up a body of this land while there was such a large expanse of territory from which to choose. Under the advice and direction of his father, Mr. Ellwood added first one choice tract of land after then another to its already large acreage.

The last purchase to the Ellwood holdings was made in 1906 when 12 leagues were bought from the Lake-Toom Cattle company comprising approximately 265,000 acres.

On Sept. 11, 1910, Col. Ellwood died at his home in DeKalb and ever since his son has been in complete charge of the ranch.

Following the prediction of his father that this section would some time be a rich farming area, Mr. Ellwood retreated from his vast ranges with his cattle and made place for the man with the plow and hoe. In 1923, he began to open up his South Plains Spade ranch for colonization and a picture taken of that last roundup on the Spade ranch is now one of the most famous in West Texas. Several thousand head of cattle were sold at that time.

Was Widely Known

Mr. Ellwood was known to practically every cattleman west of Fort Worth and had a large acquaintance throughout the middle west. He made purchases of cattle from many of the leading ranchers of West Texas.

Years ago, it was quite an occasion for Lubbock and surrounding territory when the Spade shipped its cattle to market. It required several days for the vast herds to make their way across country to the railroad.

The arrival of the "Spade gang" in town always caused a stir.

A pioneer at heart, Mr. Ellwood still cherished the memory of those early days on the Spade ranch and he often recalled them with keen enjoyment to his friends and associates. It was with a great deal of satisfaction that he watched cattle roam over the broad expanse of grazing lands and it was with deep regret that he realized the passing of the cowman.

The picturesque cowpuncher of other days has disappeared, yet the original ranch which he and his father purchased in Mitchell county, now named Renderbrook ranch, still is stocked with thousands of head of Whiteface cattle.

Land Sold For Homes

The farmer came quickly and the past ten years have seen a total of 140,000 acres of the Spade range cut up into farms of less than a section.

Colonization of the Spade range has been under the direction of Mr. Hopping.

Now only about 125,000 acres of the South Plains holdings remain open for farms. Mr. Ellwood's death is expected to bring about quick colonization of this land.

Mr. Ellwood became interested in colonization of his ranch properties and offered special inducements to farmers to settle on the land. Farms were sold in 80, 160, and 320 acre tracts.

He took cotton as payments on the land and at one time sold nearly a trainload of the cotton to the Texas Cotton Co-Operative association.

Mr Ellwood had been interested in the Citizens National bank almost since its founding. He became an active member of its board in 1931 when he was named chairman of the board of directors. His time the past several years had been divided between re-establishment of his Mitchell county ranch and his South Plains holdings.

He had maintained an office at 1214 Broadway but had left most of his business dealings to a group of associates.

Panhandle Residents Interested In Prediction Made By Smithsonian Man

AMARILLO, Dec. 28. (AP) — The second driest year, to date, in weather history ending December 31, residents of the north Panhandle are interested in the theory of Dr. Charles G. Abbot, of Smithsonian institution, that weather repeats itself every 23 years.

If Dr. Abbot's theory proves correct, the Panhandle, in the vicinity of Amarillo should receive above normal rainfall in 1934. In 1911 the total precipitation was 22.73 inches, or slightly above normal.

The year 1933 in the Panhandle paralleled 1910, which was the driest in the last 42 years during which records have been kept by a government weather bureau. The total rainfall in 1910 was 11.15 inches. This year's total, up to the middle of December, was 12.22 inches.

During every month of 1933 temperatures were above normal and precipitation was below normal.

Tech Matadors Open Cage Season With Oklahoma Bulldogs Here Tonight

New Season To Start At 7:30 At Tech Court

Rankin Williams' Charges In Final Workout Last Night With Matadors At Tech Gym; To Play Two Nights

After a fall spent watching football in various kinds of weather, sport followers here will take a new lease on life in the Texas Tech's steam heated gymnasium tonight as they view the Matador and Southwestern Oklahoma Bulldog dribblers in the first of two games that officially knock the wrappings off Lubbock's 1934 basketball season.

Here since the middle of the week, the Bulldogs last night went through the last of several joint workouts held with the Tech team.

Place To Be Heated

Tonight the interior of Tech's "old grey gym" will be heated, but last evening it was colder than the inside of a Russian church, and the visiting basketeers were heard, from time to time, muttering something about sleds and sled dogs being in order. "Cripes!" said a big Sooner venturing out on the frigid floor in his scanties and then ducking back in the dressing room for his sweat shirt and hood.

Today at noon following a dinner for the team, Coach Dell Morgan is to name Tech's basketball captain for the year.

Alvin Crews and Henry Loter at forwards, Lawrence Priddy and Trueman Green at guards, and Polk Robison at center will undoubtedly get the nod for the starting positions on the Matador opening lineup.

Facing them for Oklahoma will be Gordon Kaiser and "Short" Francis at the forwards, France Young and Cotton Vickers at guards, and probably Junie Cooper at center.

Francis and Kaiser, veterans of the Sooner outfit are slightly taller than Tech's Crews and Loter, who are both six-footers. Cooper is about the same size as the Matador pivot man, Robison. However, Junie, who also plays forward on occasion may be replaced by long, lanky James Duncan, six-feet, three-inch first year man who has a distinguished high school career behind him. Cooper is a smooth working all-around performer, but he is a little short tempered and too ready to sling a duke in somebodies' face for Coach Rankin William's taste.

The opposing guards tonight will be of about the same height but of different avoirdupois. Tech's defenses, Green and Priddy, are both about five feet 10 in height and weigh around 160. Southwestern's guards, Young and Vickers, are roughly the same height and Young weighs 165 pounds but Vickers approaches the 200 mark.

Both teams use the man-for-man checking defense "system". Southwestern, on the basis of a previously played game rules a slight favorite to cop tonight's game.

Proceedings get under way at 7:30 o'clock and admission is 40c for everybody.

Parker Enters Quarter-Final In National Junior Net Tilt

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. (AP)—Frank Parker of Milwaukee, national clay court tennis champion and No. 1 favorite in the annual natonal junior indoor tennis championship at the Seventh Regiment armory, forged into the quarter-final round today, by defeating Barclay A. Kingman of East Orange, N. J., Yale freshman, as the third day of play came to a close.

Parker disposed of the Yale player in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1.

All of the other seeded players joined Parker in the quarter finals by virtue of straight set wins.

Joseph L. Abrams of New York, No. 2, defeated Dick Lements of Choate school, 6-4, 6-2. Russell Ball and George Ball, of El Paso, Tex., representing Northwestern university, both advanced easily, Russell defeating Charlton Rood, of Brooklyn, 6-3, 6-3, and George eliminating Lyman Middleditch, jr., of Cornell, 6-3, 6-2.

Jack Behr of Roxbury school, seeded fifth, Gilbert Hunt, jr., of M. I. T., seeded seventh, and Robert Madden of Pittsburgh, No. 8, won easily, Madden having the hardest match in defeating Carl Nesbit of New York, 7-5, 6-4.

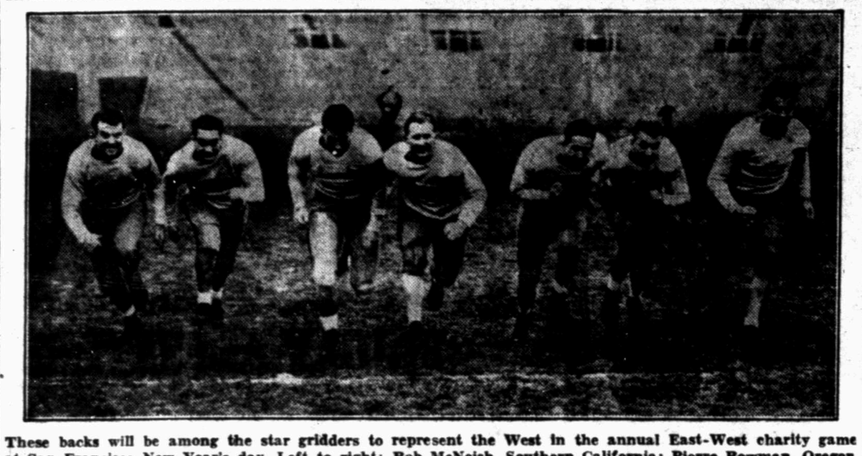

Amarillo Badgers Honored As Feature Race At Epsom Downs Dedicated To Champs

HOUSTON, Dec. 28. (AP) — The gridiron warriors of a junior college in the opposite corner of the state from Houston were honored in a feature race at Epson Downs here yesterday. The race was in honor of the Amarillo Badgers, junior college champions of the state.

Gift of Roses, with Wayne Wright up, came in first and the four year old filly's owner, J. P. Ebelhardt, received the $1,000 purse. The filly outdistanced the field on the muddy track notwithstanding that she was carrying the top impost of 115 pounds. Her time for the six furlongs was 1:12 1-5.

Sobieha finished second and Cutie Bass third.

Why Stanford? The Indians Have Lost One, Too! Tight Battle Is Predicted

May Count On Lou Little To Show Surprise Play

ON THE SIDELINES by Edward J. Neil

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28. — The Rose Bowl game, to be played at Pasadena, New Year's Day, probably will be the most unusual in the history of the classic—

Because both teams have been beaten!

Heretofore teams playing in Rose Bowl contests have had spotless records as a general rule. But Stanford, western representative in the contest has been defeated by Washington State. Columbia, bearing the east's colors, went down to defeat at the hands of Princeton.

Despite these defeats and the reported inferiority of Columbia when compared to the strength of the mighty Stanford horde, the game offers prospects of being a tight struggle.

Columbia rated the underdog, can count on Lou Little to spring some surprises on "Tiny" Thornhill's crew. If the surprises can be frequent enough, the story will be a lot different than the one the boys are telling now.

West Has Won Eight

Football teams representing the west have won eight of the Rose Bowl games, the east five and there were three ties, only one of which was a scoreless affair. In the sixteen games, the western teams rolled up 243 points to the east's 142 points, while the east was handed four goose eggs and the west but one, the latter occurring in 1931 when Alabama defeated Washington State, 24 to 0.

Only six western squads have played in the annual classic, while the east has been represented by 12 teams. For the west, Washington State, University of Washington and Oregon University have played twice, California and Stanford three times each, and the University of Southern California four times. The Trojans were the outstanding defenders of coast honors, winning all four starts.

For the east, Brown, University of Pennsylvania, Harvard, Ohio State, Washington and Jefferson, Penn State, Navy, Notre Dame, Georgia Tech and Tulane each have played one game, Alabama and Pittsburgh have represented the east three times each, Pitt dropping all three of its tilts, while Alabama won two and tied another.

Oddly enough, two of the west's highest scores over the 16-game period were handed out by the Trojans against one rival, Pittsburgh. In 1930, the "Thundering Herd" defeated Pitt, 47 to 14, and on last New Year's Day beat the same team, 35 to 0. Notre Dame's 27 to 0 nod over Stanford in 1925, and Alabama's 1931 defeat of Washington State were the best the east could do in rolling up touchdowns.

Starts n 1916

The Rose Bowl series started in 1916, though the idea was born in 1902 when Michigan was invited west to play Stanford. In 1918 and 1919, the intercollegiate series was interrupted by the war, but service teams filled the gap and furnished two thrilling games. In the first tilt, the U. S. Marine Corps from Mare Island, Calif., defeated Camp Lewis aggregation, 19 to 7. In the 1919 game, a team from the Naval Training Station at Great Lakes, Illinois, defeated the Mare Island Marines, 14 to 0.

Pasadena's Rose Bowl, scene of the annual encounter, was dedicated on January 1, 1922, and is one of the oldest stadia in the west. It was originally planned to be in the shape of a horseshoe, but has since been enlarged and revamped until it stands today as a perfect ellipse, with a seating capacity of 85,511.

The bowl is situated in a dry river canyon lying along the western limits of the city. More than 60,000 automobiles can be accommodated on land immediately surrounding it.

Old "Slew-Foot Pete" the grandpapa of all deer in Florida's Gulf hammock, will tear through the palmetto thickets no more, but the hunter who finally laid him low will remember the hand-to-hand encounter to his dying day.

Thus opens a communication from Mr. Dillon Graham, our chief southern operative. It sounds like quite a story. Let's read on and see, remembering only that it belongs exclusively to Mr. Graham. That much I insist upon.

For a decade or more (he continues) sportsmen had sought the big deer. Some of their shots struck him but "Slew-Foot Pete" took those missiles in his stride and bounded away.

The other day, however, it became the good fortune of Bill Myers, of Tampa, to bag the elusive beast. Now that it's all over, Bill likes to tell about the battle. But at the time it looked like his daring might cost him his life.

He Could Take It

"Slew-Foot Pete" boasted 13 points and weighed 180 pounds. Some believed he had a charmed life and thus he came to be regarded as an elusive phantom bounding through the nightmares of many hunters.

He derived his name from a deformity that caused the outside toe of his right front foot to lap over the inside toe. But that interfered in no way with his fleetness. Nor did numerous bullet wounds inflicted by hunters. Deep scars on his legs, hips and back bore mute evidence of his many brushes with sportsmen who never seemed able to shoot him in a vital spot.

Myers tracked the deer more than an hour and shot him through the head as he bounded across a road.

"He stood up under two or three shots and then collapsed in the underbrush," the hunter related. "As I came near, he jumped up and started running again. I shot him again in the head and he went down. I thought the battle was over, but it had just begun.

"I didn't want to shoot again for fear of ruining his head, and so I decided to stick my knife in his throat. But just as I put the point against his neck, he leaped ten feet in the air.

"Then he started for me and for the next ten minutes we played tag in the underbrush. I had laid down my gun, so I had to keep a tree between us. He charged me several times, trying to gore me with his points. Finally I slipped around to my gun and shot him a third time through the head."

Football Cheer-Leading Is Entirely Lost On Umpire Klem As He Chases Braves

THE old football cheer, "Yea, team!" didn't work very well the only time it ever was used in baseball. At least Umpire Bill Klem didn't go for it.

Manager George Stallings of the old Braves invited Percy Haughton, Harvard coach, to deliver an inspirational talk to the club. Haughton spoke somewhat in this wise:

"When one of you fellows fights with an umpire and gets ordered from the game you are hurting not only yourself but the whole team.

When you see one of the players arguing with an umpire, go to him and say 'The team, the team!' That will restrain him."

Next day Rabbit Maranville was called out on strikes and he set up an awful roar. As his argument with Klem waxed warmer and warmer, the Braves came rushing out of the dugout, led by Sherwood Magee.

"Yea team! Yea team!" they shouted at the amazed Magee.

But Bill was not to be outdone. He ordered out of the game every one of the members of the cheering section, strangely allowing the Rabbit to stay in the game. When Maranville returned to the bench, he sat down next to Haughton and said:

"Well, coach, you had the right idea. Those fellows sure kept me in the game!"

Westrope Sits 301st Winner At Epsom Race

Turfdom's Ranking Jockey In Two Victories Yesterday To Pass Own Goal; Most Winners In One Year Since 1928

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Dec. 28.—Jackie Westrope, the young, ranking jockey of turfdom, reached his goal of 300 winners this year when he booted in Outbound in the third race at Epsom Downs today, then went on to chalk up his 301st winner by riding Gallop along to victory in the sixth race.

Suspended five days ago for rough riding, the Montana ace came back early on today's program to reach a mark unsurpassed since Vincent Powers won 324 races in 1908. The all-time record of 388 winners was set by W. Miller in 1906.

Irked by his suspension, Westrope, 17 years old, at first decided last week to move to a Florida track but remained here.

He Started Early

Westrope started early in the year on his record and, favored by legalizing betting in a number of additional states, quickly ran up an impressive record. He made much headway at the Rockingham Park track in New Hampshire and at the new Texas tracks, Arlington Downs, between Fort Worth and Dallas, and the new Epsom Downs near Houston.

His outstanding feats, however, were accomplished at Arlington track in Chicago, where he competed sucessfully against the best jockeys of the nation. He also rode winners at Saratoga.

In contrast to the usual custom, where Jockeys take several years to graduate from odd jobs about stables to the saddle, Westrope took only a few months and rode his first winner early in January of this year at the Oriental park track in Cuba. He was injured a short time later and wasn't on a saddle for more than a month.

Jack Gilbert led the jockeys of last season with 212 winners.

Beattie Feathers of Tennessee intercepted five forward passes thrown by Vanderbilt and scored three of his team's touchdowns.

Henry Godman, Stanford swimmer, shaved four-tenth of a second of the Pacific Coast collegiate 100 yard free style record in practice.

Richards Has Tough Time In Disposing Of Woods In Pro Net Tournament At Philly

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28. (AP) — Meeting unexpectedly stiff opposition, Vincent Richards, defending titlist in the National Professional indoor tennis championship tournament, applied pressure in the closing sets today to sweep into the semi-finals.

Second seeded in the tourney behind "Big Bill" Tilden, the New York tennis teacher downed Charles Wood, also of New York, 5-7, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

With Richards' victory, the semi-final bracket in the lower half of the draw was completed. Earlier, Bruce Barnes, who starred for the University of Texas in his intercollegiate days, downed Russell Harned, of Newark, N. J., 6-0, 6-2, 6-1 with little difficulty.

The first round was finished during today's play when Emmett Pare former Georgetown university student from Chicago, swept into the second bracket with a decisive 6-1, 6-0, 6-2 conquest of Tom Murray, of Palm Beach, Fla.

Greenville And Dallas Squads Are Assured Of Dry Gridiron; Teams In Fine Shape For Game

Heavy Tarp Is Laid On Fair Park Field; Crowd Of About 30,000 Expected Saturday For Title Combat

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Dec. 28. — When the Greenville Lions and Dallas Tech Wolves meet at 2:30 Saturday afternoon for the Texas Interscholastic league football championship the gridiron will be dry.

A huge tarpaulin covers the playing field. This water-proof canvas will protect the field until game time. Of course if it rains during the game the field will become heavy. Today's drizzling rain failed to dampen enthusiasm for the game. P. C. Cobb, director of athletics of Dallas schools, is confident that twenty-five or thirty thousand persons will see the championship tussle. Local fans are taking advantage of the opportunity to purchase tickets for 50 cents. After Friday night the tickets will sell for one dollar.

It was announced today that a special train will bring hundreds of Greenville fans direct to the Fair Park stadium. Those aboard will not have to embark at the union terminal and ride street cars to the stadium.

Light Work Today

Except for Luke Cortemeglia's bad cold the Tech Wolves are ready for the referee's whistle. Captain Cortemeglia, one of the best backs on the team, is improving and will be ready to play. Coach Wallace Davis started tapering off his cohorts today. Only a light practice is on tomorrow's schedule. Tech's mental and physical condition is perfect. Zed Coston, 190 pound candidate for all-state center, will be Tech's driving power in the line. "Red" Ewing, plunging, smashing halfback, will be the Wolves' backfield sparkplug.

Nursing minor bruises but eager for action, the Greenville Lions are ready. Coach Henry Frnka is fighting over-confidence among his boys. He saw Dallas Tech defeat San Angelo and realizes his team has a stiff battle against the Wolves. Emmett Hussey, 194 pound guard who is receiving many votes for the eventual Associated Press consensus team, is the foundation of the Greenville front wall. He has been outstanding in all of Greenville's combats this season. Bert Marshall, 125 pound quarterback and listed on the Greenville weight list as the smallest regular on the team, will be a "marked man" in Saturday's contest. It was Marshall's ecellent all-round playing that paved the way for Greenville's impressive 32 to 14 victory last week over Port Arthur.

Lineups And Weights

Greenville's probable starting lineup and weights:

Scott, left end, 145; Hemsell, left tackle, 153; Hussey, left guard, 194; Eckols, center, 162; Sikes, right guard, 162; J. Rogers, right tackle, 160; Burnett, right end, 164; Marshall, quarterback, 125; Williams, left halfback, 133; Perry, right halfback, 145, and Luckett, fullback, 141.

Dallas Tech's probable starting lineup and weights:

Here's Looking At You

With football shunted out of the picture by basketball, squads all over the country are swinging into action in anticipation of increased popularity in sports heralded by the climb in football attendance this season. This unusual shot shows the New York university squad in practice.

Texas Highway Department Has No Indication Of Depression In 1933

Huge Building Program Opens

Texas Received Large Share Of Federal Funds For Use On Roads; Progress Told By Highway Engineer

BY GIBB GILCHRIST
State Highway Engineer
(Written for the Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 28.—While the nation wide depression continued in 1933, there was no indication of a depression in the state highway department during the year. In the fall of 1932, a $15,000,000 construction program was let, consisting of a $7,500,000 federal emergency appropriation which was matched dollar for dollar with state funds. These contracts were practically all let prior to January 1, 1933, and very few additional contracts let from January to June, 1933.

Under the $3,300,000,000 national recovery act, $400,000,000 was apportioned to the states for highway construction. Texas' share, allotted on a basis of mileage and state population, amounted to $24,244,024, of which 50 per cent was to be spent on federal aid highways outside corporate city limits, 25 per cent on federal aid highway inside corporate city limts, and the remaining 25 per cent on secondary roads on the state highway system or on feeder roads. The first contracts covering national recovery projects were awarded in August, 1933, and from that time on lettings have been held and contracts awarded every one or two weeks, or just as fast as plans could be prepared and submitted to the bureau of public roads for approval. From January 1, 1933, up to and including the present time, contracts amounting to $19,918,558.46 have been awarded, comprising the following consolidated types:

Types Are Shown	Mileage	Amount
Grading, structures	1,028.35	$8,014,605.31
Gravel, shell, ect.,	132.41	672,462.21
Asphalt surface	831.56	3,360,995.88
Concrete and brick	247.09	5,568,220.57
Structures		2,302,274.49
	2,239.42	$19,918,558.46

From January 1, 1933, to November 30, 1933, cash disbursements made for construction alone amounted to $22,123,538.47, which, when added to the estimated expenditure for the month of December, gives a total for year of $23,637,821.87. On November 30, 1933, the following consolidated types of highway were under construction:

	Mileage	Amount
Grading, structures	1,027.40	$8,913,745.08
Gravel, shell, etc.,	147.69	1,024,698.23
Asphalt surface	679.57	2,811,984.40
Concrete and brick	187.60	4,012,431.16
Structures		1,825,419.51
	2,041.26	$18,588,223.38

Note: Cost based on estimated quantities at contract price.

General Maintenance

Of $10,407,357.22 spent for maintenance, approximately $6,000,000 was on general or ordinary maintenance on the 19,609 miles on the state highway system. The balance was spent on betterment work performed by maintenance forces. The cost of general maintenance per mile for the state as a whole has decreased steadily in the last several years due to several thousand miles of high type surface having been laid each year and also to a continued high type of maintenance.

Included in the construction projects completed during the past year have been several outstanding projects such as the bridges over the Frio rivers and the Nueces between San Antonio and Del Rio on state highway 3—U. S. 90. Also 32 miles of concrete pavement from San Antonio to San Antonio on state highway 3, U. S. 90. McLennan county's system of concrete highways embodying many miles of highway and including a new bridge over the Brazos river on state highway 2, is rapidly nearing completion. State highway 1, U. S. 80, east and west of Dallas, has been improved. Grading and drainage structures have been completed and a contract for concrete pavement from Dallas to the Tarrant county line has been let.

Gaps Are Filled

Many gaps in the primary highways on the state highway system have been filled in and the past year has seen the highway department engaged in several relief undertakings not in the usual line of work. Flood conditions in East Texas necessitated rebuilding many bridges and many miles of highways. The disastrous hurricane in the Rio Grande valley in the fall of 1933 necessitated rebuilding the Corpus Christi causeway and many miles of highway throughout the Rio Grande valley.

One of the major achievements of the state highway department during the past year was the building of the new 8-story state highway building located opposite the capitol in Austin.

During the calendar year 1933, up to December 19th, 1,226,211 motor vehicles were registered in the state of Texas. When this figure is compared with 1,239,102 registered in the calendar year 1932, a decrease of 7.78 per cent under 1931, it will be seen that there will very likely be little or no decrease in the past calendar year against 1932.

The national industrial recovery projects, of which, at the present time, more than 50 per cent of the contracts have been let, are giving employment to thousands of people throughout the state. This program was so arranged that each county in the state would receive at least one project. The work created by these projects will extend throughout the year 1934, and it is hoped that this work will be supplemented by additional federal aid.

Once A Vamp, But Now Comedienne, Betty Blythe Tries Comeback Role

BY HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28. — Betty Blythe used to live in an impressive mansion.

In those days she collected a fancy salary because she was one of the movies' foremost "vamps."

Today she lives on a 10-acre orange "ranch" (which hasn't had a crop in two years), several miles from Hollywood.

Today, also, she is attempting to become a name again in pictures. Not as the slinky, scheming "heavy", so essential to silent era sex dramas —she has turned comedienne.

Miss Blythe's's story has a familiar ring. Like many other stars in silent pictures, she failed to foresee that characters of the type she played would not always b popular.

Moreover, like many others (by her own admission) she made unwise investments.

Broke And Jobless

"I had a lot of money, so I thought the thing to do was to spend it," she confesses. "I don't throw it away on baubles or on ridiculous finery. I invested money in anything. I bought real estate all over California, because people told me it was as good as a government bond.

"It took all the money I'd saved to keep up payments and special assessments and taxes on these properties. The first thing I knew I was broke. And I didn't have a job."

With her husband, Paul Scardon, formerly a director, Miss Blythe went to live on her little ranch, the only piece of property that was her own, because it was clear of obligation. There, for the last two years, the Scardons have been living—a simple life in contrast to their former one.

"My experience has taught me an invaluable lesson," says the still attractive Betty. "Literally and figuratively, I've come down to earth. I know what an empty, egotistical existence I led when I could have anything I desired."

Character Change

A few months ago Miss Blythe began making the rounds of the casting offices. She got a small role in "Pilgrimage."

When the Fox company was casting George O'Brien's new picture (adapted from "The Heir to the Hoorah") Betty Blythe's bit in the former picture was remembered.

Now she's playing one of the principal roles in a comedy on the very stages where, 12 years ago, she was the star of a serious picture, the well-remembered "Queen of Sheba."

Amazing Story Of Theft 80 Years Ago Is Told By Professor Of Archaeology

TORONTO, Dec. 28. (AP) — Toronto professor of archeology reveals an amazing story of the theft 80 years ago from an obscure Turkish monastery of the "codex sinaitious," which has been sold by the Soviet government to Great Britain for $500,000.

Professor C. T. Currelly, director of the Royal Ontario museum of archeology, visited the monastery, near the sacred mount of the law in Sinair, Turkish territory, and got the story from monks there.

A Russian Bible student named Tischendorf, according to the tale told to Professor Currelly, was given shelter at the monastery in the early 1850's. There he discovered the copy of the scriptures (consisting of a large part of the old testament and the epistles of Barnabas, written in Greek).

The monks in those days, said the professor, were allowed no fires to warm them in winter because "the wood of the neighborhood was poisonous and would kill them if they burned it."

Tischendorf complained of the cold at the monastery and asked if he could take the book to Suez, where he could copy it in the home of the Russian consul there. The monks agreed, and assigned one of their number to accompany the Russian.

"When they arrived at the Russian consul's," said Professor Currelly, "Tischendorf seized the book, stepped across the doorway and declared to the monk: 'I am on Russian soil. You can do nothing.' The monk was forced to return to the monastery to tell the fate of the codex sinaitous."

Professor Currelly said the head of the monastery, a bishop, took the matter up diplomatically with the Russian government. And when it was settled, "the czar made a present of 50,000 pounds ($250,000) to the Turkish authorities and the bishop was made an archbishop."

He said the monastery and its library still exist and not a book has been added to the library since the Norman conquest.

Negro Folk Songs Shown In Survey

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28. (AP)—John A. Lomax, collector of folk songs, told distinguished scholars of literature here today that the world knows little of the "really revealing folk songs of the negro."

In a paper read before the comparative literature section of the semi-centennial meeting of the Modern Language association of America, Lomax told of a 16,000-mile trip he made through negro convict camps in the South collecting 200 "new tunes of what seem to us pure negro creation."

The songs convinced him, he said, that little is known of the "really revealing songs of the negro that grow out of the surge and throb of labor—songs that treat of the things that touch his daily life—his work, his woman, his appetite, his contact with the white man."

Without books and without radio the negro convicts turn to the best negro spirituals and secular songs to relieve the monotony of prison life, he said.

United States is the only country equipped to turn out military dirigibles like the Macon. Zeppelins, such as the Germans build, are of little use in time of war due to the high inflammability of hydrogen gas.

Another Pioneer Passes

FATHER TIME swung his scythe quickly again Thursday among the rapidly-thinning ranks of that hardy band of pioneers who came to this section in the Eighties and claimed the life of William L. Ellwood, ranchman, banker and land-owner.

Mr. Ellwood's passing reminds us that within a few short years, all of these old-timers who blazed the trail for civilization and development of this vast agricultural empire will soon join him in the great beyond. The years have weighed heavily on their shoulders and ever so often, another drops by the wayside until now only a few remain to prepare for "The Last Round-up."

W. L. Ellwood came to the South Plains when it was only a broad expanse of land with its waving coat of Gramma grass where buffalo, antelope and deer roamed at will along with stray Longhorn steers and mustangs. He and his father saw the potentialities of this section and set about to see their dreams come true. The elder man failed to see any of his visions realized but his son survived what he termed "another age."

He saw the farmer rapidly and persistently take the place of the cowman. Cattle were sub-ordinated to cotton and row crops as the picturesque cowpuncher disappeared, along with the "chuck-wagon", "remuda", "tarp" and "suggan". It was with deep regret that he saw the passing of the "ranch age" and the open country but he did not stand in the way of development of this vast area.

Remembering the prediction of his father, that this would some day be the heart of one of the most productive farming sections of the nation, Mr. Ellwood stood ready to let his vast ranching properties go when the time came for colonization. And there was no greater cow country in Texas than the Spade ranch. Cows, weighing twelve hundred pounds and four-year-old steers, weighing four-teen hundred pounds, had been shipped off its grass.

But even though it called for almost complete cessation of his vast ranching business, Mr. Ellwood turned over this choice tracts of land for colonization and in the past ten years witnessed the sale and cultivation of more than 140,000 acres of it. He saw the plow turn the rich prairie expanse into fields of cotton, maize and hegari and he aided in every way possible. His vast herd of cattle on the ranch was rounded up and sold and for several years he was practically out of the cattle business.

But recently, he turned to his old love and set about re-stocking his Mitchell county ranch and making it resemble one of olden days. Good cattle were turned on its ranges and additional land was purchased.

It was with a great degree of satisfaction and pleasure that Mr. Ellwood watched cattle roam at will over the broad expanse of the grazing lands of his ranch in its early days but associates declare he got as much pleasure out of watching the country settle up with farmers, saw the establishment of schools and churches and even towns on Spade lands.

Many friends and associates mourn the passing of "Uncle Bill". He was acquainted with practically every cattleman of note throughout the southwest. His passing leaves a vacant spot in the ranks of builders of this section.

HIGH COST OF BAD HEALTH

Louis I. Dublin, health statistician, asserts that the total economic value of human beings in the United States—their revenue-producing value—is about 1,500 billion dollars, as opposed to all material and animal wealth in the country of 321 billion dollars.

He asserts that the economic loss by preventable deaths is six billion dollars yearly, while 2¼ billion are lost through illness sufficient to incapacitate the sick from working.

It is clear, without raising the question of humanity, much, less sentimentality that public money spent for health protection and education will be repaid many times over by reducing unnecessary deaths and sickness.

Splitting an atom is like splitting hairs, only more so.

HARD TO PLEASE

"They are like children sitting about in the bazaar and calling out to one another, 'We have played the flute for you, and you would not dance! We have wailed and you would not weep!'"—Luke 7:32.

Jesus was talking about "the men of this age." It was rather a harsh thing to say about children, but Jesus was not saying that all children are like that. He was saying that "the men of this age" are like those children who acted like that. They were foolishly hard to please.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

HUEY LONG says this business of an income tax case against him has been brought up 750 times and each time just before congress was to convene.

Nevertheless there is a fair chance the government will make some move against the Louisiana Kingfish before March.

That is the month when the statute of limitations runs out on some of the senator's returns that investigators think might be revised so the federal treasury would benefit by better than a quarter of a million dollars.

Washington expects the Kingfish to put up an exceptionally lusty squawk when the blow falls.

Huey has an obvious defense. His Louisiana political empire has crumpled just about 100 per cent in the last weeks and he can charge pure and unadulterated persecution by an unfriendly administration.

Officials here vehemently deny this. They say privately the word was passed over a month ago to press the investigation of Long's tax returns to a conclusion regardless of how the chips fell. One of Henry Morgenthau's first actions after taking over the treasury was to order an exploratory operation reaching the heart.

This was before Huey's erstwhile lieutenants ran out on him—at least publicly. They had been getting their hand-bags ready for some weeks.

Federal sleuths first cast an eye on the method Long used in computing his taxable income back in the summer of 1932.

Ogden Mills, running the treasury then for Herbert Hoover, finally decided against action presumably because it then would have looked too much like political persecution.

Now, everybody being Democrats together, the bitter end is in sight. Nothing personal of course.

JUGGLERIES: Before the winter's snows melt some of our most nationally-known names are expected to be answering in court to explain away trick returns. These will include both Democrats and Republicans of first water.

Disclosures before the senate stock market committee as to the slick way in which some of our wealthiest men juggled their incomes and paid anything from nothing to very little have riled the public considerably.

The Roosevelt administration so far has been detecting heart beats almost before they pulsate. Hence some big-shot prosecutions seem inevitable. When the populace turns a thumb down the emperor always orders blood.

SWAG: Senator Bob Reynolds, who was elected as a wringing wet from North Carolina, which later voted to retain the 18th Amendment, is worried about the revenue his and other dry states are going to lose.

As he sees it, it isn't just a question of the money people from dry territory spend buying whiskey in wet states. Reynolds's heart already is aching about all the gasolnie and food and other things they'll purchase while on the thirst-quenching expedition.

Senator Bob is preparing some comprehensive data on the subject and plans to spring it soon.

ROUBLES: Former Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York does not spend his time loafing in Paris.

Long before the United States recognized Russia Jimmy was busy lining up several American firms who would like to trade with the bolsheviks. His relations with the Paris representatives of the Kremlin are more than cordial.

When the Russian manna starts flowing the Honorable James J. Walker will have a full-time business agent in New York.

NEW YORK

LOCAL insiders will tell you that Professor Rogers' star is rising in Washington while Professor Warren's is falling. Rogers has never been particularly keen on the Warren theory—although they have nominally worked together—and it may soon be his turn.

The main point at issue between them is that Warren believes the price of gold is the determining factor in commodity prices while Rogers holds that the sterling-dollar exchange rate does the trick. Charts compiled since the Warren gold program began seem to bear out the Rogers theory.

Warren's friends counter this evidence by saying that his system hasn't had a fair trial because actual gold purchases have been on too small a scale to count. They insist that aggressive buying would be necessary under the Rogers scheme if England is not to recapture a dominant position in the world currency markets.

RUSSIA: Details of a new credit arrangement with Russia will probably be announced in a week or 10 days. The Russian system which insists upon balancing cash imports and exports has prevented any growth of trade to date because we have shown no craving for Soviet goods.

Meanwhile the Russians are making a careful check-up between the articles they export and the articles we import from other countries. The object is to induce us to buy from them rather than from nations with less capacity for absorbing our products. For instance they would be delighted to establish an outlet here for their newly-founded silk industry at Japan's expense.

WHEAT: Farm circles say that the Argentine depreciation of currency is having wide repercussions on the wheat problem. It looks as if the Argentine is planning to use the lower peso as an excuse to disregard the world wheat agreement and sell her surplus harvest. This is estimated at about five million quarters more than her agreed allotment. Wheat experts say her only alternative would be destruction of superfluous grain.

FASCISM: Insiders are watching the growth of Fascism in Britain. Mosley—Black Shirt leader—claims a million followers and is out after Parliamentary politics again. It is believed that he will carry a number of seats in the next election.

ARMS: New York understands that Germany's big industrialists are focussing their attention on the possibilities of early war in the Far East. Their chief worry is that France and Britain may jostle them out of the arms market. If Germany cannot get a political agreement with France she wants at least an industrial agreement to divide up the Oriental arms trade. The industrialists are strengthening their control over the Nazi state and the necessity of opening up export markets is behind Germany's whole foreign policy at the moment.

THE BLIND NATURALIST

Francois Huber of Switzerland (1750-1831) lost his eyesight at the age of 15. In spite of this affliction he devoted himself to the study of the life and habits of the bee. The result of his observations, in which the lack of sight must have been a heart-breaking obstacle, were incorporated in a book, which is considered a classic on the subject.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader found dead in his apartment?

DAVID BANNISTER, author, former newspaper reporter, undertakes to find out.

Police are searching for an "unknown blond" who visited King shortly before his death. Bannister has seen this girl, but she has disappeared since.

HERMAN SCURLACH, who wrote King a threatening letter, is in jail. He declares his innocence. Bannister works on the case with J. RANDOLPH GAINEY, star reporter of the Post. In the dead man's apartment Bannister picks up an old-fashioned wedding picture which he keeps.

AL DRUGAN, friend of King's, says the orchestra leader had been having trouble with JOE PARROTT, his former vaudeville partner, and accuses Parrott of the murder.

Gainey and Bannister go to see wealthy DENISE LANG, King's fiancee. PARKER COLEMAN, an old friend, also calls. While they are there Denise's father appears and angrily demands that the newspaper men leave.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVII

Captain Oliver McNeal brought the front legs of his chair to the floor with a resounding whack. "Well!" he exclaimed, "will you look who's here—?"

Bannister grinned from the doorway. "Hello, Cap," he said. "Hope you don't mind callers." J. Randolph Gainey, just behind, edged into the room and slumped into the nearest chair.

McNeal was on his feet now. "Davey, my lad!" he said, grasping Bannister's hand. "I thought you were in California! I thought you were away making a big name for yourself. What in blazes do you mean, turning up in my office? Looking fine, you are—"

"And you're looking terrible." Bannister told him, well aware that this was the proper answer. "Well, Cap, I'm back on the job. Understand you've got a little murder case on. Getting a little slow on your feet, aren't you, letting 24 hours go by without bringing in the guilty person?"

"Back on the job?" McNeal eyed him dubiously. "You mean you're working for the Post again?"

"That's it." Bannister told him.

"Uhm!" McNeal grunted. "That's different!" He scowled. "Thought we'd got rid of you, once and for all. What'd you want to come back here for?"

"Don't take it too hard," Bannister urged, still grinning. "You see, it isn't permanent. Jim Paxton told me he was short-handed and I agreed to go to work for him for a while. Wanted to see just how slow you and your staff of gumshoeers will be clearing up this murder—"

McNeal dropped back in his chair. "Just as much lip as ever," he announced, shaking his head. But there was admiration in the blue eyes raised to Bannister's. Admiration and liking. The exchange of mild insults meant merely that Captain McNeal and David Bannister were old friends.

Bannister seated himself on the edge of the desk. McNeal, he thought, looked exactly as he had six years before. He wore a felt hat and a blue suit—the same sort of hat and the same sort of suit he had always worn. His hair was no grayer. The gray hair seemed, surprisingly, to accent the youthful alertness of that round and ruddy face. Possibly the captain of detectives was a little heavier than he had been six years before. The military set of his shoulders, though, was as pronounced as ever.

"Well—?" Gainey, across the room, removed his hat and inspected its less than perfect outline. "What's the dope now? Got a confession from Scuriach yet?"

McNeal shook his head. "We're keeping him locked up, just the same."

"Think you'll get one?" Gainey persisted.

"I don't know. We've got a line on another suspect—"

"I know," Gainey said languidly. "You mean Joe Parrott. Do you think you'll find him?"

"Of course we'll find him!" the captain snorted. "I suppose you've been talking to Drugan, have you?" The oaths that followed were not flattering to Mr. Drugan. "I wish he'd learn to keep his mouth shut," McNeal went on. "Going around town doing all this talking! If he keeps on he's going to find himself in trouble!"

Bannister interrupted. "Drugan seems to be pretty sure this fellow Parrott is the one who did the shooting."

McNeal nodded. "We've a surprise or two in store for Mr. Drugan," he said darkly.

"What do you mean?"

"I won't say any more about it now," McNeal answered. "Wait a day or two."

Gainey leaned forward. "On the the level, McNeal," he said, "who do you think killed King?"

The captain frowned. "I'm not saying anything, he told them, "until we have that girl here."

"You mean the 'unknown blond'?" jibed Gainey. "Don't make me laugh! There never was such a girl. Somebody down here made up that fairy tale!"

"She wasn't 'made up'!" McNeal said stoutly. "And we're going to have her here." His expression was much like a small boy's in the face of tormentors.

Bannister felt that he wanted to change the subject. "Speaking of blonds," he said, "we've been talking to one—Denise Lang."

McNeal looked up, interested. "So she can talk now!" he exclaimed. "What did she tell you?"

"Not much. Didn't have a chance. Her father appeared on the scene—"

McNeal tapped the desk sharply with a lead pencil. "Say," he said, "did it strike you there is something queer about that bird?"

"There's plenty queer," Gainey put in indignantly, "about the way he treats reporters! I'd like to take a sock at him. Practically threw us out of the house!"

McNeal gave him a withering glance. "Well, that's too bad," he said tartly. "Maybe he's not so queer as I thought." He went on seriously, turning to Bannister, "Maybe you think we're not getting anywhere on this case, but we've done a lot of work. Lots of people involved. Have a talk to 'em and check their stories. Arthur Lang's a big man in this town, but that doesn't give him all the privileges he thinks it does. No, sir! Lang says he was in his office from 8:30 until 10 o'clock last night. Nobody saw him go there, or leave, so far as we've been able to check."

"You're not accusing him of shooting his prospective son-in-law, are you?" Bannister asked.

"I'm not accusing him of anything," McNeal said, "—yet. But he's got to come across with the truth. I don't believe he was in that office last night. I don't see why someone wouldn't have seen him—the elevator boy or a night watchman or someone."

"Listen, McNeal," Bannister said suddenly, "there's something I picked up this afternoon that may not be important, but I think you should know it."

"Picked up where?"

"Out at the Shelby Arms. I went out to have a look at the place—oh, not that I expected to find anything you'd missed! I just wanted to see the layout."

"What'd you find out?"

"A few things. Did you know that last week one of the other tenants quarreled with Tracy King and their voices were so loud at least a dozen people heard them? Did you know the other tenant—a woman—swore she's find some way to get King out of the hotel?"

McNeal's blue eyes widened. "Where'd you get all this?" he demanded. "I didn't hear anything about it. I was out there all morning—"

"Then I guess they were holding out on you," Bannister said. "It was this way—"

He repeated the story Mrs. Kennebec had told, the story of Melvina Hollister's quarrel with Tracy King after his cat had killed her canary bird. He told about the burial of the canary with flowers from the florists' and about Melvina Hollister's threats.

McNeal listened in silence, was silent for several minutes after Bannister had finished.

"What do you think of it?" the younger man demanded. "Do you think it means anything?"

"I think," said the chief of the detective staff slowly, "that I'll be going out there and having a talk with the Hollister woman myself. Why wasn't she around this morning. I'd like to know?"

Captain McNeal was scowling and Bannister understood why. It burned the captain up to undertake a job and then slip up on it. It was an affront to his dignity and his pride.

"Listen, Cap," said Bannister quickly, "do you mind if I go along with you? I didn't see Miss Hollister myself and I'd like to."

"Are you going tonight?" Gainey asked. "Why, it's—" he looked at his watch, "it's 10 after 9. Gosh, I though it was later than that!"

Bannister, too, had thought it was later than that. He was glad to know it was not.

McNeal rose to his feet, snapped the half-open drawer of his desk shut. "Come on!" he said crisply to Bannister. "Let's be on our way!"

Short Session Now Predicted

Harmonious Congress Meeting Is Expected By Leaders Of Nation; Greenwood Declares Crisis Is Passed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—Prediction of a short and harmonious session of congress with emphasis placed on appropriation and revenue bills was made today by Speaker Rainey after calling on President Roosevelt.

A while before, Senator Connally (D., Tex.) told newspapermen he had informed President Roosevelt that congress and the people were behind him on his commodity dollar program and would support it.

Crisis Is Passed

In a statement, Representative Greenwood of Indiana, the Democratic whip, asserted that house members believe "the crisis has been passed and that we are on the way out of the depression."

Rainey said he did not believe there would be any serious consideration given to permanent legislation, even including regulation of railroads and of the stock exchanges, as has been freely forecast. Senator Connally said he would move to include cattle as a basic commodity under the agriculture adjustment act.

Favored By Wallace

Inclusion of cattle is favored also by Secretary Wallace and legislation in this direction is generally predicted at this session.

Connally predicted congress would insist upon the reserve system surrendering its gold.

"I told the president I am strong as horse-radish for his dollar devaluation program," said Connally. "Congress and the people are behind him on his money program and will stand by him."

Anonymous Telephone Call Lends Mystery To Robbery

HOUSTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—Charles Heidingsfelder, jr., told police today that he had received an anonymous telephone call purporting to reveal who had the $34,500 assertedly taken from his father, a Houston attorney, in a robbery here Christmas day.

A check of the city and telephone directories, however, failed to disclose the name mentioned by the anonymous caller, Heidingsfelder said.

"A man who refused to identify himself called me and told me that a contractor here whom he named had the money or should have it," Heidingsfelder said. "However, there is no such name in the telephone or city directory."

Police were investigating.

The grand jury meanwhile resumed its inquiry into the case.

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. (AP)—Stocks easily took tax sales hurdles today and, in a broader advance than they had Wednesday, closed with gains of fractions to around 4 points. Volume dipped to 1,801,380 shares but the market was higher through the session and final prices were around the top.

Speculative bonds accompanied equities, though commodities were narrow movers. Dollar exchange was about steady, rising at times in terms of the pound sterling. There was no change in the now familiar treasury gold price, $34.06 an ounce.

Stock owners who wished to record tax losses had to sell for cash, making immediate delivery, and a goodly proportion of today's transactions were of that character. However, the market had no trouble handling them; on the contrary, support was well distributed throughout the list. Doubtless recent short sellers found it expedient to reduce their commitments in view of yesterday's firmer tone and the accumulating evidence of business improvement as the year approaches its exit.

Markets At A Glance

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. (AP)—
STOCKS firm; leaders advance over tax selling.
BONDS firm; secondary rails and utilities strong.
CURB strong; industrials and utilities rally.
FOREIGN exchanges steady; dollar up moderately.
COTTON steady; favorable textile markets; trade buying.
SUGAR steady; Cuban buying.
COFFEE higher; better spot demand.
CHICAGO—
WHEAT easier; cold wave modified.
CORN steady; receipts almost nil.
CATTLE steady to strong; active.
HOGS weak to 10 lower; top $3.40.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28. (AP)—Trading in cotton today was only moderate but prices tended higher, closing with net gains of 3 to 7 points, January showing the greatest advance.

The opening was rather irregular although Liverpool cables were better than due. First trades showed 1 point down to 2 up and as the stock market opened firmer some trade buying was encouraged and during the first half of the morning March traded as high as 10.38 and May at 10.41 or 8 to 8 points above the previous close.

Near noon, prices eased 4 to 5 points but during the afternoon, were firmer in sympathy with higher stocks and May traded up to 10.44 and July to 10.38 or 8 to 9 points above the previous close. In the late trading there was a recession on pre-holiday liquidation and evening up. March closed at 10.23 up 3 points net, May at 10.30 up 4 points net and July at 10.34 up 3 points net.

Port receipts 8,388, for week 133,444, for season 5,570,018, last season 5,638,342. Exports 4,625, for week 94,748, for season 4,084,665, last season 3,970,080. Port stock 4,170,542, last year 4,791,321. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans Galveston and Houston 179,138, last year 184,860. Spot sales at southern markets 9,823, last year 17,561.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. (AP)—Cotton was steady today on trade and commission house buying promoted by the firmness in the stock market and continued light offerings from the south. March contracts sold up to 10.30 in the late trading or 5 points net higher and into new high ground for the movement, but reacted slightly, closing at 10.26. The general market ended steady at net advances of 2 to 4 points.

Offerings were readily absorbed and while orders appeared to be quite evenly divided, the market worked up slightly in the late trading. January sold up to 10.15 and May to 10.45, with active months generally showing net gains of about 4 to 6 points. Closing quotations were some 2 or 3 points off from the best under realizing.

Exports today 9,625 making 4,100,015 so far this season. Port receipts 22,396. U. S. port stocks 4,163,881.

Grains

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Dec. 28. (AP)—Generally improved demand was reported on the Fort Worth cash grain market today, due in large measure to curtailed receipts, which for the day included but 2 cars wheat and 3 of oats.

Prices ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth freight paid to delivery point:

Delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: Wheat No. 1 hard 90 3-4@91 3-4. Barley No. 2 nominally 55@56; No. 3 nominally 57@58. Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. nominally 1.05@1.06; No. 3 milo nominally 1.00@1.03.

Livestock

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 28. (AP) — Lighter weight fed steers and yearlings met a generally steady to strong outlet as compared with Wednesday's general trade, but medium weight and heavy steers were slow to move at steady to 15 lower levels. Various markets listed choice yearlings and light steers at 5.85@6.50, while comparable grade medium weight and heavy beeves cashed around 5.15@6.10. General bulk of fed steers and yearlings were eligible to sell within a spread of 3.75@5.50. Receipts for the week at eleven markets numbered 88,200 as compared with 131,940 last week and 96,573 a year ago.

Hogs considered mostly 10 to 15 lower than Wednesday's average with Chicago securing a top of 3.40.

Lambs also met a 10 to 15 lower outlet in most cases with the majority of fed wooled kinds bringing 7.00@7.50 and a few of strictly choice quality up to 7.75. Shorn lambs bulked at 5.85@6.50.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Dec. 28. (AP)—Hogs 1,100; steady to 10 higher; top 3.90; 4 loads good to choice 180 to 233 lb. butchers to packers at 3.90; 180-200 lb. truck hogs to packers at 3.80; good 165-185 lb. averages 3.25@3.75; butcher pigs 225@2.75; packing sows steady 2.75@3.00.

Cattle 700; calves 700; all classes quotably steady but market poorly tested; few sales good to choice fed yearlings 4.25@4.35; few slaughter steers up to 3.50; slaughter calves strong, few good heavies 3.25@3.50.

Sheep 700; few sales around steady; shorn fat lambs 5.50; shorn lambs, yearlings and 2-year-old wethers mixed 4.50; shorn aged wethers and ewes mixed at 2.85; few feeder lambs 4.00.

Delivered Texas common points or group three: corn No. 2 mixed 61 1-2@62 1-2; No. 2 white 64@65; No. 2 yellow 61 1-2@64 1-2. Oats No. 2 red 46 1-2@47 1-2; No. 3 red 45 1-2@46 1-2.

CHICAGO REPORT

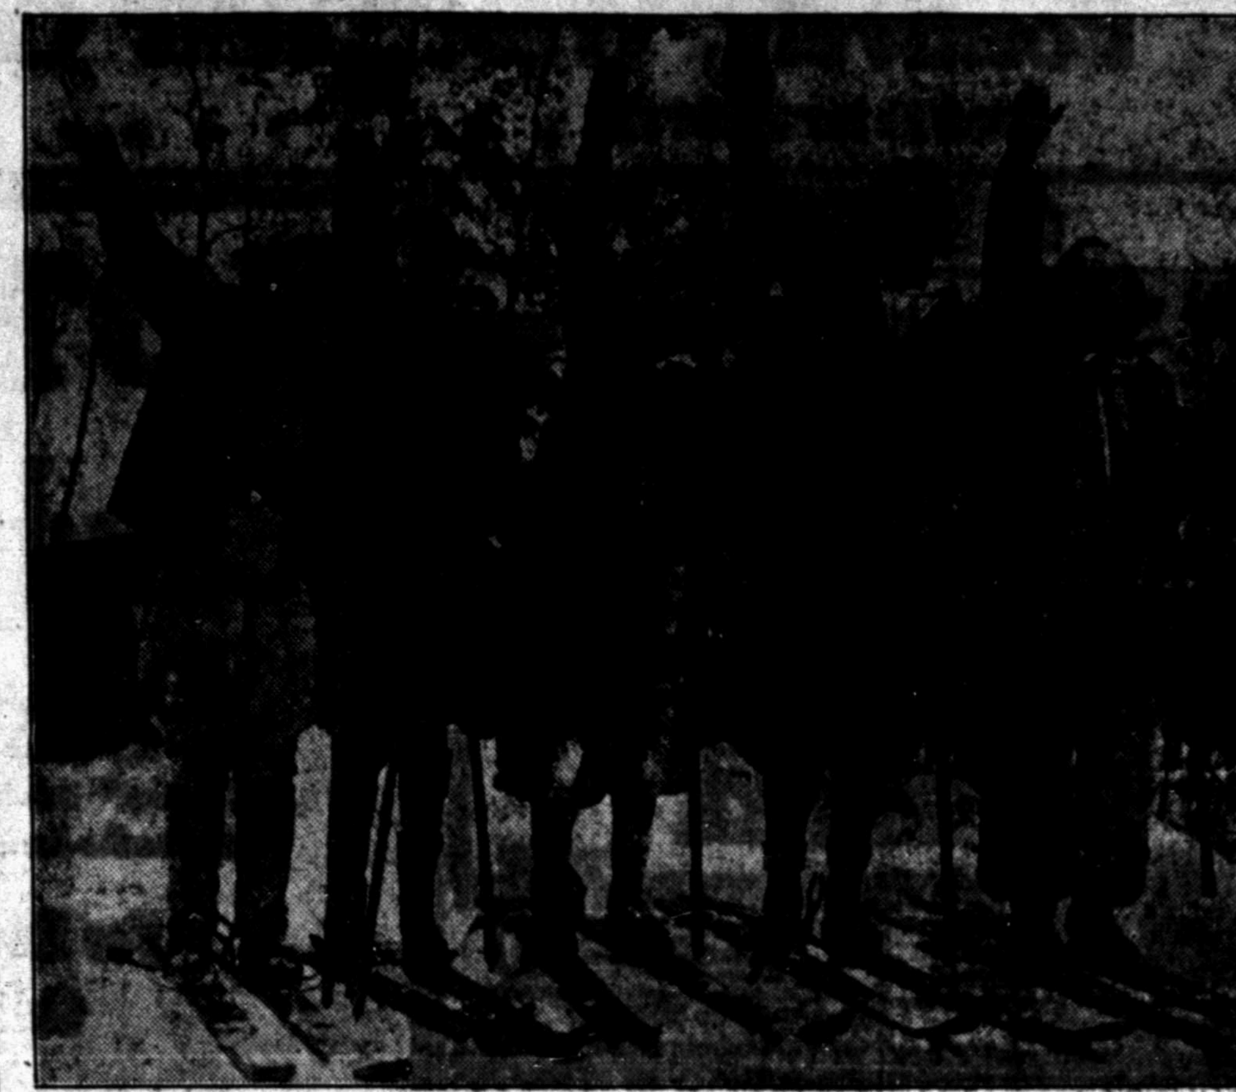

CHICAGO, Dec. 28. (AP)—Persistent backsliding characterized grain values today, although a strong stock market advance coaxed them quite often to climb.

Forecasts of temperatures in the southwest, together with possibilities of rain or snow where needed, did much to put a stop to uneasiness which had prevailed regarding likelihood of crop damage to wheat. These factors more than counterbalanced the effect of upturns of securities, and were given emphasis by a let-up in purchases of wheat for mills and for federal relief operations.

Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-4 lower, corn 1-8 off to 1-8 up, oats unchanged to 3-8 down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.

An antogiro cannot lift vertically from a standstill unless it is facing a breeze.

Girls At Camp Tera Don't Mind The Snow

The snowstorm that swirled over the east meant suffering for some, but not for the unemployed girls and women at Camp Tera, Bear Mountain, New York. They took to their skis and had a big time. Here a group waves gaily to a photographer. Camp Tera, organized for the care of jobless women, is sponsored by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Clarity began his career as a car checker with the Great Northern railway in 1894, advancing to general superintendent of the western division. Later, he became assistant general manager of the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railway company, and during the post war years of 1918 to 1920, he was transportation assistant and assistant regional director of the central western region at Chicago.

From 1920 until he came to Rapid City over three years ago, he was given president and general manager of the Fort Worth and Denver City railway and the Wichita Valley railway, with headquarters at Fort Worth.

Low requiem mass will be at the Catholic cathedral here Friday and the body will be taken to Superior, Wis., for burial.

Witnesses In Inquiry Heard

Brownsville Man Tells Of Land Sales At Port Isabel While State Superintendent Tells Of Other Matters

AUSTIN, Dec. 28. (AP)—F. W. Seabury of Brownsville testified today before a legislative committee authorized to investigate a variety of matters with reference to administration of state government, including reports that money had been paid for promises the contributors would receive state employment.

Assistant Attorney General R. G. Waters asked Seabury about the location, use and disposition of 1,172 acres of partially submerged land around Port Isabel.

Sold By State

It was brought out that the land was sold by the state, under a special legislative act for $1 per acre to Port Isabel and later the city sold it for $2 an acre to the Port Isabel Channel Dock and Wharf company, of which Seabury is general counsel.

The committee was told that a settlement was made under the terms of which the city regained title to approximately 850 acres of the land, some distance from the deep water channel and turning basin.

Seabury testified that financial conditions had prevented development of the land as originally planned. He said approximately $7,000 was expended preliminary to passage of the bill authorizing sale of the acreage.

L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction testified concerning a power of attorney he gave during his campaign for office. Woods stated he signed the power of attorney in the hope the individual to whom it was made would be able to obtain campaign funds.

He testified that as far as he knew only $22.50 was collected by the person.

Woods said that two persons had attempted to use the power of attorney unethically. One of them attempted to force Woods to give him employment and the other, a former employe in the department of education under the previous administration, tried to force Woods to retain him, Woods testified.

Frank S. Spring of Detroit, automobile engineer, has declared that a perfectly streamlined automobile cannot be designed with four wheels. For this reason Mr. Spring predicts the automobiles of the future will have only three wheels.

One of the most unusual air express shipments was that of 74 rare Oriental birds which were shipped from Shanghai, China, to Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN, No. 59

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

It so happened that as Tarzan sprang into the river, though the Kincaid was not visible to him in the dark night, the ship had drifted almost across his watery path. As he swam he had vivid recollections of the last time he had swum in the waters of the Ugambi, and a sudden shudder shook the frame of the giant. But though he twice felt something brush his legs from the slimy depths beneath him, nothing seized him.

Then he quite forgot about crocodiles in his astonishment at seeing a dark mass loom suddenly before him. So close was it that a few strokes brought him up to the thing, when to his amazement his outstretched hand came in contact with a ship's ladder. As the agile ape-man climbered over the vessel's rail there came to his sensitive ears the sound of a struggle at the opposite side of the deck. Noiselessly he sped across the intervening space.

The moon had risen now and his keen eyes saw the figures of two men grappling with a women. The first that either of the sailors knew that there was a new force at work upon the ship was the falling of a mighty hand upon the shoulder of each. They were jerked suddenly from their prey and a deep voice questioned: "What's the idea?" Before they had time to reply, however, the woman, at the sound of his voice, sprang to her feet.

With a little cry of joy she leaped toward the newcomer. "Tarzan!" she cried. The ape-man hurled the two sailors across the deck, where they rolled, stunned and terrified, and with an exclamation of incredulity, gathered the girl into his great arms. Brief were the moments for their greeting. Scarcely had they recognized one another than they saw the figures of a half dozen men clambor over the Kincaid's rail and rush toward them.

He's Gov. Moeur To The State--Doc To War Vets

* * * *

Affairs of Arizona's executive department must take Saturday afternoons off. That's when Gov. Benjamin B. Moeur holds his clinic. Here the governor is examining Harry E. Keyes, Phoenix war veteran.

PHOENIX, Ariz. Dec. 28. (AP) — Every Saturday afternoon Gov. Benjamin B. Moeur's office in the capitol ceases to be the executive seat of the state government.

It is then that a worn kit bag comes out of his desk and the 64-year-old governor becomes the self-appointed physician to the state of Arizona, with disabled war veterans his special commission. These weekly clinics are free.

Having packed a medicine kit 37 years, Dr. Moeur found the habit strong after his election to the governorship. So, though he turned over the greater part of his practice to his son, he continued to minister to war veterans needing help to back up claims for compensation.

The veterans remember the governor as the doctor who used to ride horseback over deserts to care for their fathers and mothers before them and who used to give pills with advice to the students of Teachers' college at Tempe — the same physician who once rode across a chasm at a dam site in a cable bucket to reach the bedside of a woman at a lonely ranch.

To them he remains, not Governor Moeur, but "Doc Moeur of Tempe."

The first symptoms of the dreaded "sleeping sickness" are aching limbs and failing sight.

Woman Denies Spy Ring Plot

Mysterious Mme. Stahl Is Up For Questioning Thursday In Paris; Story Of Life Is Told To Magistrate

PARIS, Dec. 28. (AP)—The mysterious Mme. Lidia Tchekaloff Stahl, middle-aged Russian scholar whom police charge with being the brains of a huge international band of spies, coolly denied to an examining magistrate today that she was connected with espionage activities in Finland.

She acknowledged that she lived in Finland in 1915 and in 1920 but insisted that she never was connected with the alleged spies—including two Americans—recently arrested in Helsingfors in what the Finnish government claimed to be another espionage plot.

Charge Poison Plot

(Government authorities in Helsingfors announced today they believed spies there had directed a poison plot against army technical officials, killing a lieutenant colonel. Finnish police asserted the poison plot was connected with an alleged spy ring of which they declared Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Jacobson of Michigan were members. The Jacobsons are under arrest.)

The French police said the case of Mme Stahl apparently was entirely separate from that involving Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, an American couple held in jail in connection with the alleged espionage.

Story Of Life Told

In the course of her examination by the magistrate, Mme Stahl sketched the story of her life. Apparently she had wandered over much of the world, in the course of her travels picking up a master of arts degree from Columbia university, New York.

She told Magistrate Benton that she had lived in the United States in 1928 and 1932, studying at Columbia. Previously, she said, she had studied chemistry and mathematics at the Sorbonne, later devoting herself to the study of the Chinese language and civilization.

A Finnish sculptor, name not made public, who exhibited in Paris in 1928, was the man who denounced Mme Stahl, according to the police. They said he told them that she possessed a document bearing the letterhead of the French ministry of marine.

Man Is Examined

Louis Martin, former translator in the ministry of marine who also is under arrest, likewise was examined today by Magistrate Benon. The police claim Mme. Stahl received her secret information through the medium of Martin.

Martin's bank strong box was opened in his presence and revealed as its contents 90,000 francs, $100 in United States currency, women's jewels, and a quantity of silver. Martin told his questioners that this represented his savings from a salary of 50,000 francs a year and a recent bonus of 25,000 francs.

Police say the strong box was one which had been rented by Ingrid Bostrom, a friend of Mme. Stahl, before she left Paris in 1927 with police trailing her.

Stock Changes Being Planned

Listing Requirements Will Be Revised During The Year Of 1934; New And Old Listings To Be Included

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. (AP) — The New York stock exchange today announced drastic changes in its listing requirements designed to prevent corporations from influencing the market values of their own shares.

The committee on the stock list will require that:

(1) All companies listing stock after Jan. 31, next, must make monthly statements of the amount of their own shares which corporations may have purchased;

To Disclose Options

(2) After December 31, next, all corporations listing securities must disclose all existing options in respect to own securities;

(3) And after Jan. 31, the committee on the stock list will inquire into all circumstances surrounding the issue of new securities by listed companies, to prevent concentrated holdings from being inequitably distributed.

The committee also announced that these regulations would apply not only to new listings, but that all companies now having their securities listed would be asked to comply.

Action Explained

The announcement by the committee on the stock list said the committee had long urged corporations not to trade in their own shares. It pointed out, however, that starting with the panic of 1929, a number of companies, "in an honest attempt to prevent their stockholders from suffering undue losses, undertook to reacquire some of the outstanding shares." It explained, however, that when a corporation reacquires its own shares, it in effect reduces capitalization, and when it sells such shares, it increases its capitalization.

Under the new regulations, the exchange seeks to have such purchases given fullest publicity, and in order to prevent sudden dumping of such shares back on the market, will require separate listing of such shares when sold.

Whitey Walker Believed Implicated In Marlin Robbery

One of Texas' biggest bank robberies was staged in this small building in Marlin, when two bandits scooped up $41,000 and kidnaped three employes—the vice-president, stenographer and negro porter. The inset shows M. V. Bradshaw, vice-president of the First State bank. The trio was released near Rogers, Bell county, after being in captivity 12 hours. Rogers is only 50 miles from Marlin. Officers Thursday were seeking Whitey Walker, escaped Oklahoma convict, in connection with the robbery.

A lecture "The Marvel of the Ages" will be presented tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Asbury M. E. church. It will be given by Joseph MacNamee, who is in Lubbock representing the "Million Testament" campaign. Slides will be used to illustrate the lecture, it was announced.

Weapons Will Be Remodeled

Effectiveness Of Troops Will Be Greater With Changes In Gun Types; Light Machine Guns Are Planned

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—The time is coming soon when the doughboys of 1918 will be unable to recognize the weapons carried by the successors in Uncle Sam's infantry.

In place of the hand-operated magazine rifle and the automatic rifle with which the fighting footsoldiers now are armed there eventually will be substituted semi-automatic shoulder weapons and very light machine guns, according to General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the United States army.

The technical superiority of each of these over the weapon it will replace is such that the infantry will be enabled, says General MacArthur, to minimize lossed by a greater dispersion of its personnel in forward echelons.

Troops will have an increased ability to concentrate intensive fire upon critical areas and to defend themselves against low-flying airplanes.

Asks For Experiment

In his annual report on the strength of the army, the chief of staff urges that funds be provided to equip one regiment with the new weapons for experimental purposes. He says the cavalry also will enhance its fire-power in the future by the employment of light machine guns and semi-automatic shoulder arms.

"The time has arrived when the cavalry must either replace or assist the horse as a means of transportation or pass into the limbo of discarded military formations," he said.

"The need for celerity in movement is constantly growing since with every increase in the mobility of the main arm of the military, the cavalry must make at least a comparable gain," he added.

Mechanization Suggested

"Moreover, aircraft and long-range guns have compelled greater depths in battle formations than ever before and the areas necessarily covered in cavalry formations have been correspondingly increased."

General MacArthur suggests two methods of solving the problem: Complete mechanization of cavalry units or the replacement of the horse and mule by motor vehicles for practically every purpose except that of carrying the cavalry combat soldier and the weapons normally supplied to cavalry formations.

Under the latter method the artillery and a large part of the trains of the cavalry division would be motorized. To each cavalry regiment would be allotted a certain number of scout cars and possibly a few fighting vehicles.

The great advantage claimed for an organization of the second kind is that in road mobility it approaches the fully mechanized unit while it possesses a greater ability for detailed reconnaissance and for operating over difficult terrain.

Forty Additional Cows Are Allotted To Lubbock County

Lubbock county has been allotted 40 additional cows in the government's meat-canning-for-relief program, County Agent O. G. Tumlinson announced last night.

Cows, grading cutters or better, must be registered with the county agent before noon Tuesday. At that time numbers will be drawn to determine the animals which will be sold.

Mr. Tumlinson said 105 cows were registered for the previous drawing, when 38 cows were purchased by the government for the local plant. The local cannery is in operation.
