Banner Christmas Business Is Indicated For Lubbock

Good Holiday Activity Seen By Merchants

Buying Is Already Reported To Be Larger Than Last Year With Season Not Started; Sales Show Gains

Stocks Are Larger

More And Better Class Of Merchandise Is Purchased For Christmas Season; Costlier Items Being Bought

CHRISTMAS business for Lubbock mercantile establishments is starting earlier than ever; stocks are larger; merchandise is of better quality and sales are larger than for a number of years, six or seven at least.

In brief, this is the consensus of a score of local business men and women, representing a number of different lines. They were asked yesterday afternoon concerning prospects for December and how their stocks compared with those of last year, and other years.

Prepared For Sales

Most of those interviewed expressed the hope that the present buying spell would continue. "We are prepared" was the general statement.

Business for the holiday season should run from 10 and 15 per cent to as high as 50 per cent, several stores reporting indications were their volume would be half as much more as for the 1935 season.

"We have kept adding to our stock all year and we have the largest, by far, we have ever had," said one hardware merchant. "Our toy stock is large, but the other items represent four fifths of our Christmas business anyway."

Stock Third Larger

"Our stock is a third larger than last year and I believe we will sell it all," said a department store manager. "We should do a better business this year, the way it is starting off."

"Christmas trade is opening up much better than before," said a ladies ready-to-wear manager, our stock is staple merchandise—we do not have a great variety of exclu-

BEST SINCE 1929

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP) — The Nation's economic machinery hummed with the greatest holiday business since 1929 as Secretary Roper reported today depression-clogged channels of "luxury buying" were opening up.

From many sources came reports of the quickening business pulse, bringing upturns in employment, payrolls and production and pointing toward a 15 per cent increase in department store sales this Christmas over 1935.

Reports to the commerce department, Roper said, "give evidence that people throughout the country generally are in a much more prosperous condition now than has been the case for the last seven years."

Reciprocal Trade Agreement Is Signed With Costa Rica

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—The state department announced today the signing of a reciprocal trade treaty with Costa Rica, whose agreement to extend reciprocal trade benefits brings to 15 the number of countries with which such treaties have been announced.

Negotiations have been opened with Italy, Spain and Salvador for other reciprocal pacts.

State To Need More Taxes In Next Biennium

Claude Teer, Chairman Of State Board Of Control, Says It Will Be Impossible For Expenses To Be Kept Down

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 30.—Claude Teer chairman of the board of control, said today it apparently would be impossible to hold the state's running expenses the next biennium as low as they were in this period.

"The people are demanding more and more services from the government," Teer said, "and these services cost money. We are going to have to have more taxes or less government and the trend unquestionably is toward more taxes."

Additional Taxes Necessary

State Auditor C. B. Sheffield said in a report a few days ago that additional taxes would be necessary to cut down the huge deficit in the general fund even though there was no increase in expenditures.

"Our budget recommendation to the governor," Teer said, "will be higher than it was two years ago. We are going to recommend that the salary cuts in 1933 be restored approximately 90 per cent. But for the deficit, we would ask for 100 per cent restoration. The state is having a hard time keeping efficient men under existing salaries."

There was a possibility the legislature would appropriate around $1,000,000 for a state office building in addition to the usual appropriations.

Farm Income Is Reported To Have Hit $886,000,000 Total

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—The flow of dollars into farmers' pockets from sale of their products was reported today by the agriculture department to have mounted to $886,000,000 in October, well above both the September total of $752,000,000 and the $802,000,000 figure for October, 1935.

At the same time the department said the general average of prices for farm products November 15 was 120 per cent of pre-war levels, down a point from a month earlier but 12 points higher than a year ago.

Million Persons Cheer Roosevelt In Buenos Aires

Greatest Mass Welcome In South American Nation's History Is Given President Roosevelt As He Arrives For Peace Conference; "Vivas" Echo Through City's Streets

(By The Associated Press)

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 30.—One million Argentines gave President Franklin D. Roosevelt the greatest mass welcome in their nation's history when he arrived today to open conferences by which 21 American republics hope to build a citadel of permanent peace in the new world.

Argentine secret service men said the wild ovations which lasted far into the hot night exceeded those accorded England's King Edward VIII when, as Prince of Wales, he visited Buenos Aires in 1931.

"Vivas" Are Echoed

Spontaneous salvos of cheering and "vivas!" rolled about the presidential party for 15 minutes without interruption tonight when he drove to the Casa Rosada to pay a formal call on Argentine's President Agustin Justo.

Some who broke through police markets in attempts to reach the presidential car felt the blows of police clubs as their excited disorder threatened to tie up the 11-car procession of the United States and Argentine officials.

On the Plaza San Martin, mounted officers rode at the crowd with drawn sabers, forcing the spectators back behind lines.

Shouts Are Heard

Along the whole route there were shouts of "Roosevelt! Roosevelt!"

United States and Argentine officials declared they viewed the reception of President Roosevelt a good augury for the success of the Inter-American parley.

He already had stirred Latin-America with his speech before the Brazilian congress in Rio de Janerio Friday when he declared the "false gods" of dominations, coalitions and balances of power had no place in the western hemisphere.

To Deliver Address Today

President Roosevelt, who proposed the conference in notes last winter to other American governments, is to deliver the opening address when the first session gets under way at 6 p. m. tomorrow.

President Justo, who called the conference at Buenos Aires, is scheduled to open the meeting an present the United States executive.

Garner Silent As He Returns To Washington

Vice President Returns From Texas Home Early But Refuses To Answer Questions Regarding Reports

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. — Vice President Garner returned to the capital tonight silent on the cause of his early arrival and the widespread speculation it had stirred.

A heavy summer's tan showing through a day-old stubble of beard, the vice president arrived from his Uvalde, Texas, home with Mrs. Garner and two battered suit cases.

"I just came back to see what the old town looked like," he said. "I don't know what business I'll have to attend to until I look around awhile."

Won't Confirm Reports

He refused to confirm reports that he had been summoned to Washington by President Roosevelt, to be on hand for any emergency that might arise during the chief executive's trip to South America.

The Garners were met at their hotel apartment by Representative Rayburn (D-Tex.), a candidate for the already heated race for the floor leadership of the house, strengthen-

JASPER, Ala., Nov. 30. (AP)—Speaker William B. Bankhead today discounted possibilities of serious breaks within the huge Democratic majority in the 75th congress, but foresaw a "long session."

He said he would confer with the president on a legislative program shortly after Mr. Roosevelt returns from South America December 17.

Bankhead said he expected continuation of "a spirit of fine cooperation between the congress and the president on major questions of public policy."

Increases In Wages Revealed Monday

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (AP)—The International Harvester company announced today wage increases to factory employes that will add more than $5,500,000 to the company's annual payroll.

Sydney G. McAllister, president, said the pay increase becomes effective at once throughout the United States and Canada. At all principal works the increase is in the form of an additional five cents an hour for all factory employes, men and women alike. Wage increases have been made at other works with some differences in the basis of adjustment as called for by local conditions, he said.

Bridges Trial Begun Monday

Defense Motion For Change Of Venue Is Denied; Four Men Selected For Jury Service Monday Afternoon

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, Nov. 30—Completion of a jury for trial of Mont Bridges, killer who formerly lived at Lubbock, is expected before noon Tuesday and testimony in his trial on indictment charging murder of Bertha Gordon of Post July 1 1934, will begin immediately afterward, said District Attorney Truett Smith.

Four jurors E. B. Warren, V. O. Key and J. H. Atwood, all of Lamesa, and Jim Brooks, whose post-office address is Big Spring, were chosen late this afternoon after Judge Gordon B. McGuire had overruled a defense motion for a change of venue. All are farmers.

All Europe In Race To Gain Arms, Treaties

Spain's Civil War Is Fading In Background As Great Powers Play Bigger Game; Peace Is Endangered

Choosing Up Sides

Struggle Between Communism And Fascism Is Becoming More Pronounced; Italy Is Boasting New Strength

BY JOHN EVANS
Associated Press Foreign Staff

SPAIN'S civil war is fading from the picture as the great powers play a bigger game.

The siege of Madrid is a temporary stalemate. Two weeks battle for the capital is where it started.

FRANCE SEEKS PACTS

PARIS, Nov. 30. (AP)—France, looking at a rearmed Germany on her border in the Balkans beyond, today sought Fascist European bloc.

Specifically France strove to line up with Great Britain and in Belgium mutual military assistance pacts if either should be attacked.

Foreign observers felt the United States might be urged at least to demonstrate sympathetic if not actual adherence.

Spain's fight was a reason or an excuse for other countries to talk of war spreading, but none seems now to need an excuse. They have concrete facts of their own to trouble them.

All Europe In Race

All Europe is in the armament race.

All Europe is struggling for alliances.

Italy, Russia, Germany and France have boasted of their war strength. Great Britain, seeking the role of peacemaker, is as energetic as any in arming herself, but sees a marked difference between pacts to maintain peace and alliances for defense in war.

Some other nations look less at the meaning of words. Russia, for instance, brands the Japanese-German agreement against international communism as a threat against the Soviets. France takes much the same view.

Brought Into Open

Spain's war brought into the open the growing world division into Fascist and Communist camps. Italy, Germany and Portugal freely sympathize with the Spanish insurgents. Soviet Russia and part of the French population backed the Madrid government, now composed of Socialists, Communists and syndicalists. Each side accused the other of sending in vast munition supplies. There has been a good deal of evidence that both sides got outside aid, but the amount never was determined.

Spain is left for the moment to fight her own fight.

The big powers are in the Fascist-Communist line-up but that is only one angle of the European morass.

Italy, Germany and Portugal are the Fascist leaders. Soviet Russia stands for Communism, but gets

Threats, Dares And Hot Words Fly In Hearing

County Judge Dillard Threatens To Lock Up Tom Abel, Sheriff, In Officer's Own Jail; Abel Risks Contempt Charge And Invites That Proceedure

RELATIONS of the sheriff's department and the county judge's office, admittedly strained several weeks, burst bounds of decorum and into fireworks last night, when Sheriff Tom Abel refused to produce a prisoner at a habeas corpus proceeding and Judge J. J. Dillard threatened to clap him in the sheriff's own jail.

Appearing for the hearing without the man he had been commanded by writ served by Constable J. C. Roberts to produce for showing cause why the man should be restrained of his liberty, the sheriff said:

COUNTY JUDGE DILLARD
. . . "Don't get too peart; I have the authority to lock you in your own jail . . . !"

SHERIFF TOM ABEL
. . . "By . . . you haven't done anything until you do . . . !"

"He's in jail drunk and I won't produce him."

"Don't get too peart; I have the authority to lock you in your own jail," the judge fired back.

"By —, you haven't done anything until you do—just get started," said the sheriff.

The statement was amplified and, later, to a reporter.

"I'm getting tired of trying to enforce the law and your serving me with habeas corpus writs for producing drunks and bootleggers and other violators of the law right after my department locks them in jail.

Wants "Cooperation"

"I have to have cooperation. If I can't get it I don't want to be sheriff of Lubbock county."

Judge Dillard, telephoned late in the night by the Morning Avalanche, was inclined to attribute his own action in the verbal exchange to "losing my head for a minute."

"Yes, I did sort of threaten the sheriff with imprisonment in his jail—and I am authorized by law to do it, and I will do it some of these days if they keep messing around," he said.

After an explanation, however, that based his action in issuing the writ of habeas corpus to L. A. Howard, Lubbock attorney, on a "humanitarian reason," he laughed over the telephone and said:

"We'll Get Along, Though"

"We'll get along, though. I'm just trying to do the right thing for everybody concerned, and I sort of lost my head."

The whirlpool centered about a farmer about 45 years old of five miles southwest of Lubbock and who had been arrested about 5 o'clock that afternoon on the highway about a mile from his home. He had been charged by Grady Harris and Cap Moore, deputies sheriff, with drunkenness. The authorities had gone out

Textile Industry Is In Its Biggest Rush In Past 6 Years

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—The textile industry is in the midst of the biggest rush it has experienced since before the depression.

Nazis Said To Be Trading In War Supplies

Article Of Treaty Is Being Openly Violated, Officials Of League Declare; Sale Of Arms, Munitions Cited

Figures Increase

Total Known World Trade In Armaments Is Reported At $43,600,000; Footnote On German Report Omitted

(By The Associated Press)

GENEVA, Nov. 30.—League of Nations officials charged today Germany was trading in arms and munitions of war in open violation of the Treaty of Versailles.

Germany sold munitions worth 10,340,000 reichsmarks $4,136,000 in 1935, the league reported, and bought arms of war to the value of 215,000 reichmarks $86,000.

Article 170 Violated

Article 170 of the Treaty of Versailles that ended the World war prohibited Germany from exporting and importing arms as war material.

Nearly all of the major provisions of the Treaty of Versailles, except for the rearrangement of European boundaries, have been considered by Germany to be void.

League officials, listing the total known world trade in armaments as $43,600,000, pointed to Germany's report to the 1935 edition of the "statistical year book on the trade in arms and ammunition" as evidence to support their charge.

Heretofore, officials said, Germany accompanied her arms trade figures with a footnote describing them as "arms for sporting purposes."

This year the footnote was omitted.

Former Mayor Of Lubbock Dies In Wichita Falls Hospital On Monday; Services To Be At 4 O'Clock This Afternoon

Last rites will be read at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the First Presbyterian church and at Lubbock cemetery for J. J. Clements, 59, prominent Lubbock contractor and former mayor.

Death was early Monday afternoon in a Wichita Falls hospital, where he had been treated 14 months for a mental illness.

Rev. W. P. Jennings, pastor of the Plainview First Christian church and an old-time friend and Rotary brother of the Lubbock contractor, will officiate.

Body Rests In State

The body was brought to Rix chapel early this morning and will lie there until time for services.

Clements, said by several friends to have been a Spanish-American war veteran, had been director of Panhandle-South Plains Fair association in 1928, 1929 and 1930, and at one time was president of the Lub-Lubbock Rotary club.

In his administration as mayor, which office he conducted until 1934, when he retired without seeking reelection, underpasses begun prior to his tenure were completed, and taxes were reduced from $1.25 to 95 cents in 1931 and to 60 cents in 1932 to 1934.

Services Were Numerous

It was his work in conjunction with that of Judge E. L. Pitts that resulted in formation of County-City Welfare association.

Illinois Man Awarded Prize For Most Distinguished Service To Onion Eaters

By EDWARD J. NEIL

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—There are days when the only thing you can do about an onion fanatic is just listen to him, so crank up the merry-go-round, grandpa, here we go again.

The Onion Anti-Defamation committee, designed to promote better relation between those who love onions and those who don't, made public today its first annual award to the man who has performed the most distinguished service of the year to onion eaters.

The recipient is Robert C. Stubbins, of South Holland, Ill., a grower of onions, and he gets the prize for writing an ode to onions entitled "Modesty." The prize? A bag of onions.

"We would give him money, if we had any money," said Arthur Lockwood, secretary of the Onion Anti-Defamation committee, "but on the whole we feel it better to keep the thing on an amateur basis, more of a labor of love than a commercial proposition. We do not feel that we can risk corrupting onion lovers with money."

The ode, in part:

"I am small but I am mighty
"They speak of my virility and strength
"I am known from ocean to ocean
"As a giver of health and happiness
"I provide for earth its first beautiful
"Mantle in spring, I am hardy yet mild
"Women shun me—yet love me
"While men glory in my friendship."

DEATH ON THE HIGH ROAD

TERENCE MAHONY was bored.

The company of his friend Billy Ross bored him. It had bored him for the last seven days. That astonished Mahony. It had never occurred to him that some day Billy Ross would bore him.

The two young men had been friends for ten years. A certain carefree lawlessness common to both of them had drawn them together while they were still at school, and the friendship had continued after they left school.

On one occasion, at considerable personal risk, Ross had saved Mahony's life. The matter was never referred to between them, but Mahony remembered it.

And now Ross was boring him. He felt rather uncomfortable about it. Still, there it was. Oh, well, reflected Mahony philosophically, no doubt time and fate and change had been at work in their well-known manner during the last four years, and this was the result. But it annoyed him.

He had returned from a four years' stay in China a week previously, and had been staying with Ross at his London flat. During the whole of that week he had found Ross nervous, fidgety and irritable—quite unlike the happy-go-lucky

THE END NEARS

NOTHING grows remote so suddenly as a holiday. Already it seems months since Thanksgiving Day. And speaking of the growth of time, do you realize that today starts the last month of the year? Have you accomplished all that you meant to do when 1936 was ushered in? Don't feel too badly about it; you have loads of company.

AFTER THE GAME

TECH'S main need at football games last fall was more gridiron enthusiasts, Misses Evelyn Jones and Mildred Boone who noted the condition following the Longhorn-Aggie game in Austin Thanksgiving Day, believe. After the annual struggle between the noted teams, many spectators remained in the stadium cheering, others rushed out on the field, they said. And the bands continued their stirring music, "just like in the picture shows," said Evelyn.

At Tech the only evidence of a victory is the ringing of the victory bells, which sounds a bit mournful. The band begins to leave before the final gun and hundreds of spectators have left their seats, especially if the home team is getting the worst end of the deal.

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT

IF THE above paragraphs sound half in the present, half in the past, think nothing of it. We can't realize another football season is over, having lived with scores, criticisms, praise, re-hashing of games, both good and bad, and opinions of players since early September. We find it impossible to get away from football, even if we don't know what a line of scrimmage is, with working at a newspaper office and living with three brothers.

Our sigh of relief at the season's end and promise of more interesting topics was short lived. We discovered the topic of conversation for the ensuing months will be deals for baseball players and the "hot stove league." (Does that make you happy, too, Mr. Wicks of Ralls?)

BUYING GIFTS EARLY

WE WONDER if merchants will re-plenish their stocks which are being so rapidly depleted by early Christmas shoppers? Saturday afternoon the department and dime stores were crammed with buyers and in our unofficial survey we heard more than once that disarming statement: "Sorry, but we're out of that." And the clerks didn't seem to know whether there would be replacements.

If you would get the Christmas spirit, drive downtown, or better, go for a window shopping tour some evening. It seems that this will a red Christmas, rather than a silver and blue one, if we are to judge from store decorations.

Two Hundred Women Meet To Discuss Fate Of Eleven-Year-Old Organization And Hear Historical Talk

The Church Women's federation will not disband, voted 200 women meeting in final quarterly session for the 1936 year Monday afternoon at Cumberland Presbyterian church.

The attendance was by far the largest of the year, a total of 123 women having attended the three other meetings. A nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. J. S. Penney of St. Paul's Episcopal church, chairman, and Mrs. G. W. McCleary, First Presbyterian, and Mrs. Joe Coursey, First Christian, was appointed to recommend officers for 1937 and the women voted to empower the executive body to elect the leaders.

Miss Boone Talks

The meeting was opened with a devotional program presented by the Asbury Methodist Women's Missionary society, followed by a resume of early religious history of this area by Miss Lalla Boone of St. Mary's Catholic auxiliary.

Prayer and a devotional talk were by Mrs. A. M. Dupree. Miss Ruth Dupree played MacDowell's "To A Wild Rose" as a piano solo and played accompaniment for a vocal solo, "Open My Eyes That I May See," by Miss Christia Cowan.

Tells Anecdotes

Miss Boone gave a general discussion of major historical facts concerning advent and development of various religious beliefs in West Texas and New Mexico and described in detail the religious situation in the original Lubbock and the introduction and development of the major churches in the city. She told many amusing anecdotes and described early day circuit riders and other pioneer religious workers.

Minutes were read and a financial report presented by the secretary, Mrs. O. W. English of the First Baptist Women's Missionary society. Mrs. W. T. Milan gave a summary of the federation's welfare work, its main project, during 1936.

Benediction was by Mrs. T. W. Boone of the Church of the Nazarene. Eight church women's societies were represented.

Question About CARDUI

HOW IT HELPS WOMEN

Women who are run-down, weakened, nervous, from not getting sufficient strength from the food they eat.—Thousands and thousands and thousands have found that Cardui increased their appetite, improved their digestion, thereby promoting better nourishment and the consequent strengthening of the whole system.

And women who have suffered from functional pains of menstruation have found that, by ing Cardui just before and during the periods, this purely vegetable sedative and antispasmodic seemed to save them much discomfort. This action of Cardui is highly esteemed because the relief credited to it comes in an entirely beneficial way. Cardui is purely vegetable; nothing in it to be afraid of.—Adv.

Oil Industry's Position Good

Charles F. Roeser, Ft. Worth, President Of Independent Association, Cites Status In Oklahoma City

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 30.—The nation's oil industry is in the best financial position it has been for years, with all factors pointing to increases in the price of oil, Charles F. Roeser, Fort Worth, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, said today.

The official's optimism was disclosed as he opened the 1936 convention of the organization here with oil men expecting more than 1,000 representatives of the industry to be registered before the meeting closes tomorrow night.

Five States Represented

Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, California and Michigan already were represented in the list of delegates with more still arriving.

Roeser, reviewing the past year in the oil industry based his prediction of higher crude prices on:

One—A reduction in oil imports to more nearly a ratio where they can be absorbed by American consumers without upsetting the price of oil.

Excess Oil Moved

Two—Movement of excess oil in storage during the last year without unbalancing the price structure.

Three—Reduction in wastes of oil and gas production activities so that net profits to the companies will be larger.

Use of domestic asphalt, in competition with the foreign product, has shown a sharp increase, Roeser reported.

He cited the reduction of the number of suggestions for nationalization of the oil industry in order to prevent waste of an irreplacable natural resource. He urged the oil men to continue methods for production waste, for keeping oil in natural storage beneath the surface until needed, and conserving resources.

Roeser urged the oil men to consider their responsibility as industrial employers to use their new prosperity to put men to work.

While Federal Government's Taxes Were Bringing In A Total Of $2,000,000,000, States Got $1,000,000,000

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. — A treasury study of over-lapping taxes disclosed today that while the federal government was raising more than $2,000,000,000 from six sources of revenue last year, the states obtained more than $1,000,000,000 from the same sources.

The report embraced a study of eight state levies, six of which are duplicated by federal imposts. Both state and federal revenues from the six taxes—those on estates, individual incomes, corporate incomes, gasoline, liquor and tobacco—totaled $3,321,300,000 in 1935.

Statistics Given

Of this aggregate, it was shown in the report and other treasury statistics $2,271,400,000 or about two-thirds, went to the federal government and $1,049,900,000 to the states.

Revenue to the st tes from the entire eight taxes, was set at $1,654,800,000 last year, compared with $1,262,800,000 in 1930.

In both years, gasoline taxes accounted for a major portion of the revenue with receipts from this source reported at $589,200,000 last year and $470,000,000 in 1930.

Three couples of ages averaging 72 years were married in Salem, Ore., recently at a single wedding.

THE WHOLE NEIGHBORHOOD LOOKS BETTER SINCE WE PAVED WITH CONCRETE

"I WISH we had put concrete on our streets long ago. Aside from being the best to drive on, it keeps itself clean, looks better, and has made our neighborhood more desirable. Property values are up."

That's not half the story. Your own experience tells you that concrete helps you to drive safely; that it effectively checks skidding; that its light-grey surface helps you see at night.

And concrete saves you money because it is moderate in first cost, low in upkeep and long lasting.

Be guided by your experience and observation. When your streets come up for paving—insist on concrete.

Deep in the jungle fastness of Central America amid the ruins of a lost city . . .

Lawrence T. K. Griswold (right) has headed expeditions to Tibet, Komodo, the Amazon, and the lost cities of the ancient Mayas. He lists Camels as one of the necessities on the trail. "At best, eating in the jungle is no picnic," says Griswold. "I've found that smoking Camels is an aid to my digestion. Camels ease tension and give me a 'lift' in energy when I need it most. They never get on my nerves."

A FLIGHT DISPATCHER. "I often eat my meals on the job," says H. G. Andrews, TWA flight dispatcher. "Camels help my digestion behave itself. Being mild, Camels don't get on my nerves."

THIS CO-ED SAYS: "Camels set me right. Mental work often has an effect on digestion too," adds Miss Josephine O'Neill. "During meals Camels are a big aid to digestion. After meals they make food seem twice as good."

Minnesota Rated By Experts As No. One College Grid Team Of 1936 Season

L. S. U. Named Second; 'Bama In 4th Place

Northwestern Drops To Place No. 7 In Poll Of A. P. Grid Experts; Pitt Named Third And Washington Fifth

BY ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—Minnesota's Gophers hold their place as America's No. 1 college football team by a decisive margin over Louisiana State, champion of the deep South, in the final national ranking poll conducted by the Associated Press for 1936.

Results compiled this week in the seventh country-wide consensus reveal Minnesota the choice among 25 out of 35 experts. Nine placed L. S. U. at the top of their list. One first-place ballot was cast of Santa Clara, the nation's only major unbeaten and untied team.

The final rankings with points tallied on a basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

FIRST TEN	POINTS
1. Minnesota	332
2. La. State	309
3. Pittsburgh	227
4. Alabama	218
5. Washington	216
6. Santa Clara	155
7. Northwestern	130
8. Notre Dame	107
9. Nebraska	69
10. Pennsylvania	34
SECOND TEN
11. Duke	33
12. Yale	22
13. Dartmouth	13
14. Duquesne	12
15. Fordham	11
16. Tex. Christian	10
17. Tennessee	8
18. Ark. and Navy	6
20. Marquette	4

It is interesting to note, in connection with the pending post-season pairings, that Louisiana State is rated tougher opposition than Alabama, reported to have the "inside track" for the big money Rose Bowl game on New Year's day.

Hardin-Simmons And Fresno State To Wichita Falls

FRESNO, Calif., Nov. 30. (AP) — Fresno State's intersectional football game Saturday with the Hardin-Simmons university of Abilene, Texas, will be played in Wichita Falls, instead of Abilene, the switch being made today at the request of officials of Hardin-Simmons who expect the game to attract a much larger turnout in Wichita Falls.

Fresno's squad of 26, including coaches and officials, will leave tomorrow night for Texas. Coach Jimmy Bradshaw said all of his regulars are in shape.

Japanese Swim Champion To Wed Man Chosen By "Prexy"

TOKYO, Nov. 30. (AP) — Hikedo Mayehata, 23, Olympic champion of the women's 200-meter breaststroke, is going to marry Masahito Hyoto, 28, a young surgeon—chosen as her husband by a university president.

Miss Mayehata had many suitors—among them millionaires and peers. Unable to make up her mind which one to accept, she finally appealed to Masaji Sugyama, president of the University from which she was graduated.

After long and careful consideration he selected young Hyoto, a comparatively unknown surgeon, who has seen Miss Mayehata only twice.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—The troupe that will escort Fred Perry, former world amateur champion, on his first professional tennis tour of the country, starting Jan. 6 in Madison Square Garden, was completed today.

Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., former ranking amateur star who became a pro in 1931, has been signed by co-promoters Frank Hunter and Howard Voshell, who previously obtained the services of Ellsworth Vines and George Lott jr. after Perry quit the amateur division.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 30. (AP)—The Arkansas Razorbacks started preparations today for their game Saturday with the Texas Longhorns despite a cold rain.

The Porkers also listened to scout reports on the Texans.

Ralph Rawlings, leading scorer of the team, was the only member remaining on the injured list.

Longhorns Prepare To Storm Arkansas Porkers Saturday

AUSTIN, Nov. 30. (AP)—The University of Texas Longhorns, fresh from a three-day rest after their 7-0 victory over Texas A. & M. Thanksgiving, today prepared for their Arkansas invitation next week-end.

The Steers will leave Austin Thursday morning for Little Rock, where they meet the Razorbacks Saturday in their season's finale.

Tech Gridmen Preparing For 'Last Mile' Of 1936

Crippled Outfit To Leave Wednesday For Tucson Go

The football "workout" season at Texas Tech is just about over, as is the season itself.

The Red Raiders have another game to play (they wish they didn't) and there must be some form of preparation, but railbirds at Tech's workout yesterday might have been surprised. Except for light limbering up exercises, a bit of a signal drill, and some punting and passing practice, there was no hard, rigorous scrimmage one might expect after the team comes home after losing its third game in a row.

"Not Able To Practice"

"We can't do much practice," explained Head Coach Pete Cawthon, "because we haven't enough boys able to practice, and we're taking no chances with the ones in shape to work out hard."

A rather forlorn individual is Coach Pete Cawthon. It has been some time since one of his clubs lost three games in a row, and appeared on the verge of losing a fourth.

"The boys have done the best they could," he philosophized yesterday. "I can't kick about the way they have played, knowing the circumstances as I do. We're crippled, worse than we've ever been by physical injuries.

Still Have Spirit

"There's a big consolation, though," Cawthon said. "The boys still have the old fighting spirit. That doesn't win ball games by itself, but it helps. If we had our original strength with our present courage and fighting spirit, we'd be hard to stop. But I only hope Tex Oliver will be kind to us next Saturday and tell his University of Arizona boys to hold the score down."

Cawthon's biggest lament now is lack of a punter. "I don't see how we're going to keep Arizona away from our end of the field," he mourned. "We haven't anybody left who can kick the ball. Jim Neill hasn't been able to do it lately. Charley Duval is out, because the New Orleans team blasted him on the kick-off of the game last Thursday. Miles Chapman is too slow about getting his kicks off, and Ed Smith can't go. So we're in a mess for punters. I don't know what we'll do."

The Tech coach really is taking it hard, and seriously. But not as in the old days before his teams accepted his psychology and appeared to "lie down on the job." He realizes the boys are doing their best, although handicapped by physical injuries and lack of natural ability, and he isn't carrying the fight to them. He is pleased with the show of spirit, in the face of defeat, and he is moaning low only because of the bad breaks that had to come.

Three Key Men Lost

The loss of three key men through injuries—J. W. West, right end and star blocker, pass catcher and defensive man; Charley Duval, all-round back, ace blocker of the club and possibly the best punter, and Tox Wiginton, key man of the defense, stout center and great pepper-upper—broke the back of the ball club. Replacements were handy but not adequate. It isn't an alibi for Tech's recent losses—it's a reason.

Another light workout is scheduled for today. Tomorrow the team boards a bus for Sweetwater. There it will climb into a chartered Pullman on the Texas and Pacific and be transported to Tucson, Arizona, arriving early Friday. The game with University of Arizona, only Border conference game on the schedule, is booked for Saturday.

Trade Winds Pick Up Baseball News As Meeting Nears

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—Trade winds began to skiri a gale of rumors and guesses today as major and minor league baseball nabobs, shrewd fellows who could make David Harum look like a hick at Coney Island, headed toward Montreal for their annual shopping and swapping tour.

The player market, jammed with trading material, promises to be lively but without the usual accompaniment of tinkling dollars. Every club owner, though fairly flush after a great 1936 season, avowedly is out to trade and sell but not to part with hard earned greenbacks.

"We all want to swap a tooth pick for a turkey dinner, and why not?" asked sagacious Bob Quinn, head of the Boston Bees.

Foremost in the minds of the nabobs, naturally, is interest in the Bob Feller case. Most of them expect Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis to declare the sensational schoolboy pitcher property of the Cleveland Indians but they don't want to be caught short of cash in case the czaristic commissioner rules Feller a free agent and throws him on the open market.

Stratton Back In Mat League

Strong-Arm Stratton To Mix With Cummings; Moran And Parks In Main Struggle At Auditorium Wednesday

Walter Stratton, a name synonymous with great strength, returns to the Panhandle wrestling circuit this week and to a fandom that is divided between admiration and unbelief.

Local grappling fans have seen Stratton perform such wondrous feats of strength that they were torn between believing it and putting it down as showmanship. Stratton realized this, and his offer still stands to anyone wishing to prove or disprove his muscular capacity.

At any rate, the strong-man wrestler from the west coast is to be back in the ring Wednesday night in a preliminary battle with Bob Cummings, rubber-legged exponent of wrestling science, who now and then gets angry enough to make his bouts interesting.

Dale Haddock, who lost his local crown to Danny McShain last week, is appearing on the semi-final this week, meeting the newcomer from Oklahoma, George Bennett. The latter, a clean-cut scrapper who gets rough when the occasion demands but who leans over backward to be nice as long as the opposition stays that way, made a favorable impression last week, and is due to be welcomed back. Haddock was slipped up on by the dizzy Irishman, McShain who came from behind to win the last two falls in almost record time last week and who thereafter skipped these parts for a winter vacation on the coast.

Herb Parks, the slow, methodical but effective grappler from Vancouver, is on the main event this week, and it ought to click with the customers, his fight with Sailor Moran.

The Sailor came back to the circuit last week after a lengthy absence and his old-time strength, dizziness and disregard for rules, plus. He is a villain of the first water, and he'll make it extremely tough, for Parks, the blond Canadian.

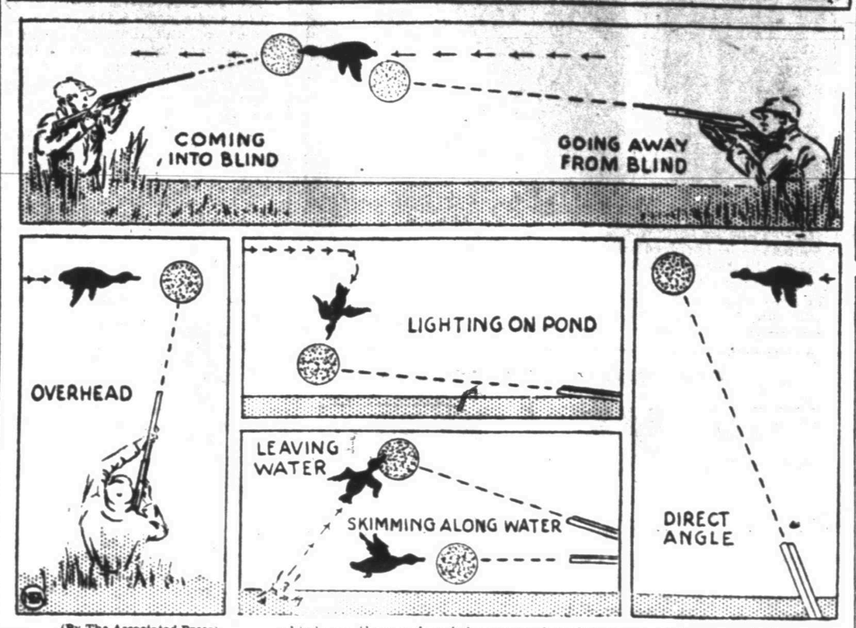
Having Trouble Bringing 'Em Down? Maybe This Will Help If You're Not Sure How To Lead 'Em



(By The Associated Press)

THE biggest difficulty of the novice—and of some experienced nimrods, for that matter—is the amount of lead to use in various shooting situations. Another mistake some hunters make is shooting too soon.

Probably more birds are lost because hunters blast away before the birds are at least 25 yards from the blind than for any other reason. The nimrod shouldn't fire until he figuratively can see the whites of their eyes.

Don't Hurry Your Shot.

Presuming you can refrain from shooting until the ducks are at least 25 yards from you, a lead of from two to three feet is about the average. In the accompanying diagram you can see just how to handle your birds as they swing into range for a shot.

Coming head on, lead the duck by aiming at his head—if a fast leader, aim a foot above the head.

In going away from a blind, the hunter should lead or aim at the duck's feet when it is not more than 15 yards away. Should the duck be rising, aim should be taken slightly above.

Direct shot at a duck crossing in front should be led about three feet ahead of the bird at a distance of 25 yards.

Flying in at a tangent, the lead on such a duck should be cut in half, or about a foot and a half ahead of the bird. The same applies in case of a duck going away at a tangent.

In shooting ducks leaving the water, hold fire until they begin to elevate. Likely they will fly straight for some distance and then zoom into the air. A foot above the duck's head is the distance of lead.

Reduced Lead On Landing Ducks

Ducks lighting should not be led more than a foot, due to their diminished speed in landing. If close, aim at a landing duck's head.

A duck traveling about three feet off the water is traveling much faster than the hunter thinks, and should be led by at least three feet at 25 yards.

A dead overhead shot is one of the most difficult in the sport, due to the angle in which the hunter must shoot. Aim quickly at the duck, and then lead about two or three feet. The average hunter finds this a tough shot, but there are veterans who can bang off overhead shots from the air blinds with uncanny accuracy.

Hunting Season In Full Swing Today With Opening Of Quail Shooting Days

AUSTIN, Nov. 30. (AP)—The opening of quail and chalchalca seasons over the state and mourning dove season in the South zone tomorrow will see thousands of bird hunters take to the woods and fields.

Nimrods were cautioned by game commission authorities to note special laws affecting certain counties on all three varieties of game birds.

The opening of the seasons on these birds found hunting season in the state in full swing, since deer and turkey seasons opened two weeks ago.

Texas Aggies Drill For Tilt With Manhattan, At Tyler

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 30. (AP) The Texas Aggies limited their workout today mostly to limbering up exercises as they started training for their game with Manhattan in Tyler Saturday. Today's drill was the first since the Aggies bowed to the Texas Longhorns Thanksgiving Day. The Cadets appeared in top shape.

Houston Lays Plans For AAU Session; Dynamite Is Ready To Go Off In Some Events

HOUSTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—Plans took definite shape tonight for the A.A.U. convention which will open Friday—prospective sizzling sessions and all.

Jack Rafferty, president of the host Gulf Association, said all plans would be complete within 24 hours and that leaders in amateur sports would begin arriving tomorrow.

The celebrated "Jarrett case," controversies over American participation in the Olympic games at Berlin last summer and other items of possible explosive nature had been named as starters, but members of the host delegation declined to discuss business matters. They said they were more interested at present in planning entertainment for delegates.

Matsuyama Wins Second Tilt In World's Billiards Joust

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (AP)—Kinrey Matsuyama, diminutive Japanese expert, won his second match of the world's three cushion billiards tournament today, defeating Jay Bozeman of Detroit 50 to 41 in 44 innings.

Matsuyama, who has beaten Allen Hall and lost to Johnny Layton in his other two starts, never was behind his opponent today.

In this afternoon's opening match, Welker Cochran of San Francisco defeated Earl Lookabaugh of Chicago 50 to 39 in a slow match of 71 innings. Cochran's high run was seven to three for Lookabaugh.

Rose Bowl Foe Still Unnamed By Washington

Huskies' Athletic Director Is Slippery Fellow; Rumor Of Contact With East Team Is Denied At Seattle

SEATTLE, Nov. 30. (AP)—This Rose Bowl business was getting more mysterious than ever today, and "U" men were becoming as slippery and foxy as "G" men.

Rumor had it that "contact" had already been made with some Eastern opponent for the Washington Huskies in the big Rose Bowl football classic at Pasadena New Year's Day, but university men refused to admit it.

Ray Eckmann, athletic director at the University of Washington, who was supposed to be "somewhere" in California today, was discovered still in Seattle. Yesterday he said he was leaving on the "4:20 train" and later his office and his residence reported he had gone.

Denies Phone Call

"So I'm discovered," said Ray. "Well I found some work that had to be cleaned up immediately, and I stayed over until today. I just forgot to say anything about it. But I'll be leaving on the 3:45 plane this afternoon for San Francisco."

Eckmann said he didn't know anything more about Alabama, Louisiana State, Pittsburgh, or any other team, as a possible opponent for Washington.

"Could it have been possible, Mr. Eckmann, that you waited over for a long-distance telephone call from the East?" was a question put to the man who has the job of selecting the Rose Bowl opposition.

"Sometime This Week"

"No, now—I just got through telling you that I had some office details to clean up.

"Nothing will be announced until after I have conferred with Stanford officials, and the Tournament of Roses football committee at Pasadena. Sometime this week we will make a formal announcement."

Pasadena Committee Is Also In The Dark

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 30. (AP)—Officials of the Tournament of Roses football committee shook their heads sadly today and admitted they didn't know any more than the next Gus H. Phan about who would play University of Washington in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

That information, said the committee, rests with athletic authorities of Washington.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

Ross whom he remembered.

Now the two of them had halted for a drink at a wayside inn on their way down to the house of Captain Ross, R. N., Billy's father, who was giving a big dinner party. Two other guests from London, whom Mahony had met, were also coming down for the party: Elsa Little, a young film actress, and Ambrose Lawson, a business friend of Billy. They were to stay the night at Captain Ross's house and return to London the next day.

As they sipped their cocktails at the bar counter, Terence Mahony wondered for the hundredth time at the change that had come over Billy. At times Billy's mouth twitched oddly; he had a pale, unhealthy look; he could not keep his hands still. Behind the bar the platinum blonde barmaid was reading an evening paper.

"Another young society girl missing from home," she observed with some relish. "I wonder what's happened to her."

Ross made a sudden irritable gesture and knocked over his glass. The liquid ran over the bar counter. "Hell!" he said in a bad-tempered voice—the voice of a man whose nerves are very much on edge. The barmaid looked up from her paper at Mahony and made a surprised face, as if to say: "There's a nasty temper for you."

"I'm sick of this place," went on Ross roughly. "Let's get out of it."

"As you like," agreed Mahony good-temperedly. For himself, he could see nothing wrong with the place, but if that was the way Billy felt about it . . .

They left the inn and went out to Billy's car. Though it was still early in the evening, darkness had already fallen. About twenty-five miles separated them from Captain Ross's house in Hampshire. Billy stepped into the driving-seat, Mahony got in beside him and they started.

It was a bleak, cold evening, and there was little traffic on the road. About two miles out of Bagbury, where they had stopped for their drink, they heard the booming roar of a powerful engine behind them, and the glare of strong headlights shone past them, lighting up the hedges at the sides of the road.

Ross turned and looked back over his shoulder. In the glare of the following headlights his face looked more than ever drawn and pale.

"We're being followed," he said. "I know whose car that is."

There was a harsh jerkiness in his voice; he spoke in the tone of a man suddenly awakened to a deadly peril. Mahony did not know what to say; he did not understand his friend's frame of mind.

"Is there any harm in that?" he asked placidly. "Why shouldn't he follow us if he wants to?"

Ross laughed, a short laugh that had a distinct not of hysteria in it.

"What harm . . .? he said, in a high pitched voice. "What harm . . . ? perhaps you'll find out."

That was all he said. His foot went down hard on the accelerator, and the car shot forward at vastly increased speed. The needle of the speedometer moved from forty to forty-five, forty-five to fifty-five, fifty-five — more slowly — to sixty, and there remained quivering slightly. But the booming roar behind sounded more loudly; the glare of the pursuing headlights increased in intensity.

Mahony glanced back over his shoulder. Now the pursuing car was only a few yards behind, its headlights throwing a dazzling blaze of light in Mahony's eyes. As he looked, screwing up his eyes trying to see better, there came from behind that brilliant glare a sharp explosion and a sudden distinct spit of red flame. Something went "whit!" over the top of the car.

"What the blazing hell!" exclaimed Mahony in a tone of scandalized astonishment. "The swine's shooting at us with a pistol."

Ross did not answer; he did not seem to hear; all his attention was concentrated grimly on driving. From behind came the sound of more shooting, sharp and vicious: crack, crack, crack, like a big whiplash snapping in the air.

Without warning, the car lurched wildly, straightened out for a moment, lurched dizzly again, skidded, with a wild scream of tires, broadside on for a few yards, hit the low grass bank at the side of the road, and then overturned with a tremendous crash.

Mahony, with a sensation of utter helplessness, felt himself shot bodily from his seat and flying through the air. Instinctively he raised his arms to shield his face. With the echoes of the crash ringing in his ears, he landed in a soft hedge, smashed through it, breaking small twigs and branches, and landed with a bump in soft grass on the other side of the hedge.

Shaken and scratched, but comparatively unhurt, he scrambled to his feet. The sound of the pursuer's car was fading into the distance; the wide swathe of light from his headlamps was getting farther and farther away. Ross's wrecked car, its headlights out, and its four wheels sticking ridiculously up into the air, was lying half in the grass and half in the ditch. No sound except a soft hissing came from it.

"BILLY!" shouted Mahony anxiously. "Billy!"

There was no answer. Mahony forced his way through the hedge and made for the wrecked car; he had a horrible fear that Billy was pinned beneath it.

"Billy!" he called again, and bent down by the car with the idea of feeling beneath it to find out if Billy was there.

The sound of a low groan a short distance behind him caught his attention, and he turned sharply. The sound had come from the dark bottom of the ditch, and he made his way to the place.

Ross was lying there, doubled up in an unnatural attitude. His breath was coming in short, panting gasps. Obviously the first thing to do was to move him from that ditch bottom, and get him straightened out. Mahony bent over him and lifted him; a sort of shuddering moan came from Ross's lips.

"Sorry," said Mahony.

He laid Ross gently down in the grass at the side of the road. Kneeling beside him in the darkness, he could just see his face, deathly white except for the red smears across it. As he looked, Ross opened his eyes. A slight smile twisted his pale lips.

"Hallo, Terence!" he murmured. "Glad they didn't get you too."

"Lie still," said Mahony gently. "I'll get some help, and we'll soon have you fixed up quite comfortably."

Ross shook his head.

"They've done all the fixing anyone will ever do for me," he whispered. "But I don't care. I'm better out of it."

"Boloney!" said Mahony, assuming a cheerfulness he did not feel. "I'll make you as comfortable as I can, and fetch an ambulance and the police."

"No."

There was a strenuous urgency in Ross's voice. His face had gone a curious grey colour. Little beads of perspiration were standing out on his brow and top lip. With one hand he plucked feebly at Mahony's sleeve.

"No," he gasped painfully. "You're not to tell the police. That bullet only hit the tire; let them think it was an accidental burst. If the police make enquiries, things may come out about me that will make it dreadful for my parents. Don't argue, just listen. Listen! Listen! Listen, I tell you! Listen"

"All right," said Mahony. "I'm listening."

Ross continued. His voice was a mere feeble whisper.

"Those men in that car are crooks. So am I. I was one of them. Dope and kidnapping are their games. They kidnap people and then dope them. After they've got the habit, they let them go. Then they sell them the stuff. . . ."

For a moment he paused, gathering his failing strength.

"They wanted me to help kidnap Elsa. At the Cinema Ball. I wouldn't. I couldn't let them do that to Elsa. . . ."

Terence Mahony returns to London, and adventure, tomorrow.

Miss Slaughter Like New Again; Able To Do Her Work With Ease; Neuritis Pains, Stomach Distress, Headaches Yield To New Remedy

"For eight years before I knew of Gly-Cas I had been unable to get any pleasure from my meals knowing how I would suffer afterwards," said Miss Wanda Slaughter, 408 Dakota St., Pine Bluff, Ark.,

MISS WANDA SLAUGHTER

"Everything I ate soured on my stomach, head ached terribly and my body was simply filled with poisons. Gas formed and I would bloat until I could hardly get my breath, my stomach burned and I became dreadfully nervous. Then to make my already miserable condition worse, neuritis settled in my left side, back of my neck and shoulders making me so stiff I could hardly get around at times. Of course, in this miserable condition my work was a drudgery and in spite of all I tried I could not find anyything to help me. It was discouraging and I did not know where to turn next when friends persuaded me to give this new Gly-Cas a trial—they said it was wonderful."

"I never before saw any medicine give such amazing results in my life," she continued, "My stomach and bowels were regulated easily. Those terrific neuritis pains have gone, get around with ease and my work is a pleasure feeling as I do today. Every sufferer today should profit from the use of this new Gly-Cas—it has that EXTRA ADDED POWER to get to the source of health troubles."

Hurricane Study To Be Continued

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP) — Tropical hurricanes didn't appear where the weatherman thought they would the past season so he's going to have to try again to learn more of their secrets.

Willis R. Gregg, weather bureau chief, said today special instruments installed at three southern cities in cooperation with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology were not used this fall because "fortunately or unfortunately" the tropical storms didn't reach them. They were at Jackson, Miss., Augusta, Ga., and Montgomery, Ala.

"So, we're going to leave the instruments there for the next year's storms," Gregg said. "During the winter we may have an opportunity to study winter disturbances down there.

"We really were not successful at all this year but we will again try this new plan. The instruments will let us study the upper air currents, make soundings and get other valuable information we do not now have."

Perdue Hears Sentence Read

Credit Of 222 Days Allowed On Two-Year Term By Judge Homer L. Pharr; Juries In Both Courts Excused

Convicted recently of passing as true a forged instrument and assessed a sentence of two years in the penitentiary, Fred Perdue was brought into open 72nd district court Monday morning for hearing formal pronouncement of sentence.

Judge Homer L. Pharr credited Perdue with 222 days spent in jail since his arrest and since sureties withdrew from bond he had posted.

Both the 99th and the 72nd district courts dismissed jury panels for the week Monday after Judge E. L. Pitts and Judge Pharr, had called cases set down for hearing.

Motion Is Sustained

The cause of John F. Schriver against M. F. Klattenhoff, civil jury action, was on call for 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon in 99th court. That morning Judge Pitts heard a motion of the defense asking continuance because of lateness in plaintiff's filing of pleadings, it being set up second supplemental petition had been filed only a few hours before, and pleading surprise as to new contentions. The court that afternoon granted the motion and the case was continued until the January term.

Four other cases called that morning were continued for the term.

Settlement Expected

The action of McDonough against McDonough, estate cause, was set for Thursday and, if it goes to trial, will be heard by Judge C. D. Russell of the 64th judicial district, of Plainview. Judge Pitts had disqualified himself, since he heard the case in county court. There were courthouse rumors the case might be settled out of court.

In 72nd court, Judge Pitts called four civil causes. One had been settled out of court and the others were passed for the term. Eleven cases are to be called next Monday, one of them a jury case.

Bids To Be Opened Today On Frame Buildings At College

Bids for two frame structures, a bee house and a meats laboratory, will be opened at 10 o'clock this morning in the office of W. T. Gaston, business manager at Texas Technological college, and contracts will be let.

Six or seven bids are expected, said Gaston.

The construction was authorized by the board of directors at a meeting in September.

SOONER COUPLE INJURED

McKINNEY, Nov. 30. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cox of Crowdus, Okla., were injured today when their car was struck by an interurban north of here.

Mrs. Cox suffered severe facial cuts and chest injuries. Cox received minor hurts. The couple was en route to Lordsburg, N. M.

SO much trouble is caused by chronic constipation! Headaches, upset digestion, nervousness, lack of pep are frequently caused by poisonous wastes that accumulate in the bowels. Too often people merely use some temporary relief. See for yourself if it doesn't make a world of difference in the way you feel after using a purely vegetable laxative. Lynn Storekeeper Pays Fine After Automobile Collision

Fine of $50 and costs and shearing of one coupon from his automobile operator's license were assessed T. E. McRea of Lynn county Monday afternoon by Justice of Peace J. T. Trigg upon McRea's arraignment upon a "law of the road" complaint sworn to by J. C. Keller, state highway patrolman.

Keller set out in the complaint an automobile driven by McRea, storekeeper of just across the Lubbock county line, had figured in collision with a machine driven by Ben F. Maxey of 1412 Sixteenth street, five miles southeast of Lubbock on the Slaton highway at 2:40 o'clock.

McRea satisfied the judgment.

Capt. W. W. Legge, highway patrolman, and Keller, investigators, said they were told by Maxey his machine overturned. Witnesses said it apparently overturned several times. Neither driver was "scratched even," but Maxey's car was damaged badly, said investigators.

Two Execute Bond On Charges Of Theft; Several Arrested

Bonds of $500 each were posted Monday by Weldon Phillips of route 2 Lubbock and G. C. Cox, 44, of Slaton. Both were charged with theft.

Still The Best Government

DOUBTLESS in this country of ours, where the will of the people is reflected by the ballot, we have many horrible examples of governmental inefficiency.

Such examples may occasionally crop up in Lubbock county, as well as in every state in the Union, and in the various departments and agencies of the national government in Washington.

No sane man will argue that our form of government is perfect; that our public officials make no mistakes; that every office, from that of the minor precinct job to the president, is run with accuracy and machine-like dispatch.

But from all appearances the world over, the democratic form of government is still the best form of government for the individual, no matter what may be his professional or economic standing.

If democracy needs testimonials, other than those inherent in itself, one surely is to be found in the present delicate situation of Europe, balanced between war and peace.

It seems literally true that the peace of the continent depends at the moment on the judgment, will and, we may say, sanity of three autocratic rulers.

Europe could be plunged into war overnight by a single rash of false move by Mussolini, Hitler or Stalin, three men who are a law unto themselves and whose peoples, even if their influence could be made effective in decisions of state, are blinded and led by a controlled press.

The irrationality of vesting such authority and such responsibility in an individual must be plain to those of the world's peoples who still are free to think. Modern psychology has revealed how little reliance may be placed in the mental and emotional stability of any individual, under stress.

The collective judgments of a democratic nation may be fallible and even foolish on occasion, but at least on the average they are more stable, less rash, more worthy of trust than any individual's.

Turkish Student At Tech And Dawson County Girl Are Married On Thursday

Ishmael Hikmet Shukru, 21, student at Texas Technological college from Constantinople, Turkey, observed the American Thanksgiving known as "Turkey day" last Thursday when he married 18-year-old Nettie Underwood, Tech sophomor.

The young Turk was married to the Tech coed at her home at Lamesa last Thursday and only members of the bride's family attend the ceremony. Today Shukru is back in the textile laboratories at Texas Tech. The bride, who majored in home economics before her withdrawal last week, is keeping their apartment table supplied with appetizing meals that she learned cook at college.

Shukru, a student in the textile engineering division, plans to return to the former eastern empire when he graduates from college in June. He will work for the Turkish government as a textile chemist when he goes back to his native sod. Textile manufacturing is a very profitable trade in Turkey now, the student said, since the Turkish government began its industrial program. Textile imports will not be permitted in the country after a few years.

Speaking fluent English, Shukru learned the language in a school of higher learning at Constantinople. Since he left the Asiatic country several years ago, sir-names have been adopted by Turkish families. When he came to the United States, he adopted his Father's first name, "Shukru", as his sir-name that will be used when he returns to Constantinople next summer. Previously his family name had been Tuzcu (pronounced tuz-oju in English).

Turks hear more about Texas cowboys and Texas grown cotton than anything else that Texas produces, the young textile student said. He came to Texas Tech to learn the industry of textiles where wool and cotton are grown in large quantities. He formerly attended Iowa State college.

New Offices Are Ready In Building

Five offices, a cosmetic laboratory, and a second story room for a bricklayers and painters association are ready for occupancy in the Shaw building, at 1114 Texas avenue, C. D. Shaw, owner, announced yesterday. Shaw operates a barber shop at the front of the building.

Occupying the new offices are Roy Neal, manager of an auto loan company; E. Z. Hogan, real estate man; M. M. Phillips and W. L. Duke, real estate dealers; Travis Tubbs, representative of a pump company, and Representative Dovie Settle of the 144th Legislative district.

A laboratory for the manufacture of cosmetics, toilet goods, and medicine will be in operation within ten days under the management of Sam E. Webb. Lubbock Bricklayers and Painters association has leased a meeting room adjacent to a beauty shop on second floor.

A partitioned hallway has been constructed between the Shaw building and a magazine store. The building was formerly occupied by a cafe.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

VETERAN European diplomats in Washington shrug their shoulders at eager suggestions that President Roosevelt's Buenos Aires appeal for world peace may check their own nations' headlong rush toward war.

These Old World statesmen pray that the President's words may not fall on stony, bloody ground. For Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hull they have the highest admiration. But they don't delude themselves in private conversations or in confidential dispatches to their home governments.

Their check convinces them that European dictators will not stay their hands at Mr. Roosevelt's behest. Men like Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin, in their opinion, have fixed their objectives too firmly to be swerved from their purposes at this late date. Black pessimism enshrouds the diplomatic corps at Washington.

DEADLY: Ironically, advocates of international concord are privately thankful for the brutality of the Spanish belligerents. They hope that the first-hand horrors of this brother-and-brother strife may deter the peoples of Europe from playing a reckless game of following their leaders.

Street fighting and air raids have demonstrated to foreign sideline sitters to what extent the next conflict will cause a reign of terror exceding the tragedies of 1914-1918. Under-cover reports indicate that it has produced a revulsion of feeling among certain peoples, especially the French and British.

In 1914 war was a distant, romantic adventure. For the first few years the armies fought far from crowded centers of population. But modern warfare is bound to come close to home. Even the Germans are reported to have shuddered at the deadliness of the weapons which Hitler uncovered at his recent Nuremberg mobilization. Likewise the dress rehearsal at Madrid encourages certain chancelleries to feel it may be worth while to postpone the big show indefinitely.

SHOWMANSHIP: The British government is exercising extraordinary precaution to prevent an invasion of London by foreign radicals, crooks and agitators on the occasion of King Edward's coronation next May. Besides the money, purchasers of tickets to stands along the processional route must present proof of unimpeachable character and unblemished records.

10 Downing Street, however, is extremely anxious for citizens of other lands to attend the mediaeval pageant, especially Americans. The coronation committee has set aside a large batch of tickets for Yankee sightseers, and has actually dispatched salesmen to Washington and other large cities. They are doing a land office business everywhere.

The shrewd Britishers long ago sensed the average American's repressed veneration for royal pageantry and Old World display. With King Edward's induction ceremonies John Bull aims to appeal to this undemocratic instinct and perhaps bind tighter the ties between the Anglo-Saxon peoples. He's going to display some good showmanship and good business.

Secretary Ickes is revamping designs of slum clearance buildings to hammer down rental charges. . . . Maritime commission gives shipping concerns until December 10 to furnish data in connection with subsidies as substitutes for mail contracts.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

A SUBTLE but significant change has developed in the psychology of the Securities Exchange commission since election.

This agency was exercising super-caution in exerting its authority prior to the fateful third of November. Every move it made in the promulgation of new regulations or in the enforcement of New Deal laws against manipulation was subjected to mircroscopic study in advance. The commission never forgot for one moment that its every action would some day be reviewed with a critical eye by the Supreme court. In some instances it pulled its punches so completely they weren't even love taps.

What a diference now! When a distinguished Stock Exchange committee met with the SEC to discuss proposed restrictions leading towards final segregation of brokers and dealers, they expected a preliminary diplomatic interchange of ideas, as in the past. But this time the SEC didn't ask them, it told them. Its new aggressive attitude was quite a shock.

ADMIT: Stripped of technicalities, the new SEC rules about trading by stock exchange floor members and by member commission houses boil down to one essential. They take away the special trading advantages insiders have enjoyed and put them on a par with the public.

Carried to their logical conclusion, such restrictions will make stock exchange memberships virtually worthless as vehicles for personal speculation. It's no wonder that despite sustained volume of trading the price of seats is skidding—with the bottom not yet in sight. Naturally floor trading members are perturbed and extremely critical of the SEC for "meddling with legitimate business." Yet it would be a mistake to assume that the brokerage community is unanimously opposed to the policy of curtailing member trading privileges.

In fact, many of the highest grade brokers admit very privately that in the long run it should prove the healthiest thing that could happen to the Exchange.

SERVICE: These sources point out that the prevailing system works to the disadvantage of the trading public in three ways.

1. The floor member trading for his own account has a big edge over outsiders in that he is on the spot and knows at once what the situation is in a given stock at a given moment.

2. Buying and selling by these insiders tend to accentuate market rises and dips artificially, thus creating a misleading impression on the tape.

3. If a floor member is both trading for his own account and acting as a broker for others, he is likely to neglect his brokerage job—which nets him only a small commission—in favor of protecting his own interests when the market is hot. This is a plain matter of dollars and cents.

Probably many exchange members will quit and seek more profitable pastures when the SEC clamps the lid on their personal speculative activities. Seats will not be worth so much in future as they have been in the past. But the brokers who remain in business will be rendering genuine and single-minded service to their clients.

COLD: Chairman Jesse Jones of the RFC is the latest administration spokesman to join the chorus of warning against over-optimistic speculation in securities. Mr. Jones doesn't say that stock prices are too high, but he does remind the public that great care should be used in making investments.

There's some very pretty teamwork behind this campaign to prevent recovery sentiment from mushrooming into uncontrollable boom psychology. Joe Eastman of the Interstate Commerce commission has taken a crack at it, so has Chairman Marriner Eccles of the Federal Reserve board, and now Jesse Jones—each from a different angle. Jim Landis of the SEC does his bit by tightening up on inside trading.

So far the cold water treatment is working pretty well—although a natural market reaction was overdue in any case.

TARZAN AND THE LEOPARD MEN, 110

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Sobito was thunderstruck by the appearance of the giant white man. The witch-doctor was willing to believe now that he was the embodiment of a spirit, for who other than a spirit could discover the secret temple and defy single-handed this host of the Leopard Clan?

"You, Sobito, were my enemy in the village of Tumbai," the intruder continued. "You brought death to Nyamwegi, friend of Orando. "Now we meet again, Sobito. I have come to take you to dwell in the nether-world od demons, there to endure a thousand tortures!"

The witch-doctor's knees trembled beneath him. Then, recovering himself, he ran to Lulimi, trusting the powerful high priest to find some means of protecting him. Now Tarzan whispered to Old Timer; "Be ready to follow me. I'll go through the rear of the temple."

Like a lightning flash, the ape-man leaped to Old Timer's side, hurled the priests from him and lifted him swiftly to his feet. "Quick!" he commanded. But now Lulimi's fear had turned to frenzied anger. "Seize them!" he screamed to his taloned warriors. "Kill them!"

WHAT IS PUPIL DILATION AND HOW IS IT PRODUCED? Nature provided muscles to regulate the size of the pupil to control the amount of light entering the eye in proportion to the intensity of the light. Excessive light is very injurious. Reaction of the pupil is to contract, reducing the amount of light entering the eye. Light of less than normal intensity necessitates more light entering the eyes, to maintain normal or near normal vision. These muscles act involuntarily.

Fixed abnormal pupil dilation is produced by a drug instilled into the eyes which paralizes the muscles hence Nature is interferred with, preventing the regulation of the size of the pupil as required by light stimulation. In this condition, eyes cannot be used for near work. Remember this, no drug can refract light or the human eye.
Our Modern Scientific Optometrical Eye Examinations Are Safe and Free From Pupil Dilation.

NAMED FIRE CHIEF

SNYDER, (Special)—N. W. Autry, for several years chief of the Snyder volunteer fire department, was renamed to that post by members. W. W. Smith was chosen president for another term; M. M. Gideon, vice president and Emmitt Butts, secretary succeeding A. P. Biggs. Rev. Lawrence Hayes was re-elected chaplain.

FDR Not To Run 3rd Time

George Creel, Writing Article In Collier's, Says President To Retire To Private Life In Four More Years

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. — President Roosevelt was represented today as standing firmly against seeking a third term.

George Creel, a former co-worker of Mr. Roosevelt in the Wilson administration, quoted the chief executive, in an article to be published in Collier's magazine, as saying:

"On —January 21, 1941, when a new president takes over, I will be in Hyde Park having the time of my life."

Article Said Authoritative

The publishers of the magazine described the article as authoritative.

Creel, who headed the bureau of public information while Mr. Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy, wrote that "undoubtedly a major effort during the first part of the second term will be the consolidation of gains."

He listed the chief of these, "in the president's opinion," as the Social Security act, the holding company legislation, the Wagner labor relation act, the tax on undistributed net income of corporations, soil conservation, the Tennessee Valley authority, the banking act and the securities and exchange act.

Armament Race

encouragement from her alliance with France, still a Socialist government.

There are many other divisions in Europe.

Germany and France, each with friends or allies, are hostile "friends" or potential enemies. If France or Russia is attacked by Germany, each is obligated to aid the other.

Seek To Extend Influence

Germany and Italy have sought to extend their influence in the Danubian area, or southeastern Europe where France thought she was the directing force through her allied Little Entente (Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia). If Germany, as some statesmen predict, should seek enlargement of her territory in that region, the Little Entente has pledged itself to resist with war. Italy, under a new understanding with Germany, may have agreed on a program or may be free to have her say when the time comes.

Japan and Russia frequently have clashes that may develop into a war.

Italy New "Big" Power

Italy is the new "big" power. Italy is her empire.

Mussolini has more than a million men under arms and he vaunts Italian strength as a "forest of 8,000,000 bayonets." If an European war starts, Italy might be the balance of power, a role England played for generations.

Great Britain, the peacemaker, struggles to avert war. The nonintervention committe at London pledged most of Europe to keep their hands off Spain. The committee officially white-washed Germany, Italy and Soviet Russia of charges they sent arms to the belligerents but Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden Nov. 19 commented "I cannot say categorically that I think there are other governments more to blame than those of Germany or Italy."

Soviet Russian officials said they considered that "provocative" before diplomats concluded Eden sent Russia.

All of which might be construed by the average man as indicating the cost of whitewash was very high.

Presbyterian church during his 12-year residence here and was on the board of deacons.

As a contractor, his activities had been known at Lubbock more than a decade. His family had lived here six years, removing from Safford, Ariz. The family home is at 1808 Sixteenth street.

Employes To Attend Rites

Mayor Ross Edwards, who succeeded Clements to the mayorality, and City Manager W. H. Rodgers, appointed in the Clements administration, said city employes might attend funeral services even though offices with which they are associated ordinarily do not close that early. Those offices will remain open however, through agency of a shift of employes. Expressions of regret were voiced by administration officials and other employes, alike.

Structures erected at Lubbock by Clements included the Temple Ellis building, destroyed by fire, and the Conley building at Broadway and Texas avenue.

Survivors Are Seven

Pallbearers for the funeral will be Neil H. Wright, R. D. Moxley, Dean James M. Gordon, City Manager Rodgers, J. J. Graham, and Fire Chief W. E. Twitty.

Survivors are the widow; two sons, Robert, 21, and Frank, 17; a daughter, Dorothy Mae, 3; two brothers, Joe Clements of Cisco and Henry Clements of Kilgore, and a foster brother, Tom Graves of Lubbock.

"We cannot have a common language with Fascism whose dangers neither exaggerate nor underestimate."

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—Old line leaders retired to the rear ranks in today's stock market and, despite independent strength of specialties, the closing was generally fower.

While the majority of declines ranged from fractions to around a point or so, with a few wider recessions, the setback was accompanied by no increase in the trading volume.

Brokerage quarters had a number of explanations for the reversal. Among these were some nervousness over the labor outlook, with strikes under way in different parts of the country; the confusing foreign political scene, with threatened repercussions from the spanish conflict, and the growing belief governmental authorities will take further action to keep stock dealings within bounds.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues receded 3 of a point to 71.6. Transfers totaled 2,128,740 shares against 2,276,730 last Friday.

Analytical quarters noted the liveliness of low-priced stocks. Of the day's 20 most active performers, nine were quoted at least than $10 a share. Participation of the so-called "small" buyer was said to have grown appreciably of late.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30. (AP)—Under the impetus of good buying from trade interests cotton prices gained 4 to 8 points today.

The market was higher from the start and at one time was up 50 cents a bale for later options. Part of this advance was cancelled, however, and Dec. finished at 11.86, Mar. at 11.78, May at 11.64 and July at 11.51 bid.

The advance was traced to good foreign markets and the growing belief that the government will continue crop restriction through next season.

Liverpool was bullish before the New Orleans opening, reporting a good trade demand.

With this year's crop being snapped up as quickly as it is ginned, many in the trade were beginning to ponder on what plans the government has for releasing the 3,000,000 bales of loan cotton now held.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—Near month strength on trade covering and pressure in next October featured cotton trading today.

March rallied from 11.77 to 11.85 and closed at 11.83 with final prices generally 8 points net higher to 3 lower.

Hedging and liquidation appeared on bulges in later deliveries and after the first hour prices reacted partially from the best at the opening high of 12.02 for December, the month was the best since Oct. 17. Pressure in October was credited to uncertainties over new crop plans as well as fears of hedging against outside growths.

At the close, the premium of December over October had widened to 43 points compared with 45 points a week ago.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 12.21 cents a pound.

Group Of Demonstrators In Front Of Embassy Arrested

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP) — Police arrested a group of about 50 demonstrators today in front of the German embassy and charged them with parading without a permit. There was no violence.

Police said the demonstrators were members of the International Seamen's union. They carried placards calling for release by the German government of Lawrence Simpson, American sailor, imprisoned in Germany.

Bridges Trial

dicted for four deaths in slightly over a decade.

Faces Another Sentence

Pleading the "unwritten law," said Smith, he was absolved of a slaying at Post about 14 years ago. At the time he was indicted for the death of Miss Gordon a bill charging him with murder of Jay Donaldson the same night was voted. Since, he has been indicted for the death at Borger of Fred English, rooming house proprietor. For that offense, he was sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary at Stinnett, county seat of Hutchinson county.

Bridges, about 35, has been in the state penitentiary since July on the Borger case conviction.

Bridges had received 50 years at Post for the Donaldson slaying. The case was reversed and remanded, then brought here on a change of venue. The jury here gave him 20 years.

Bodies of Miss Gordon and Donaldson were found on the roadside about eight miles from Post. This is Bridges' first trial in the death of the girl.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (AP)—Highest prices in more than 2 years accompanied active buying of wheat futures here today, largely reflecting disturbed European political conditions.

Adding impetus to the upward swing of values were export purchases of 2,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, making the total in the past week about 9,000,000 bushels, the largest amount witnessed in months. After 1¼ cents a bushel rise, however, lively profit-taking sales here caused a moderate late reaction, but failed to cancel gains entirely.

Chicago wheat futures closed firm at the same as Saturday's finish to ⅝ higher, Dec. 126⅛@1.30¼, May 1.17⅞@1.18, July 67⅛@67½, corn also unchanged to ⅜ up, Dec. 108⅜@1.05¼, May new 100⅛@1.00¼, July new 96¼@96⅝, oats at ½ decline to ¼ advance, Dec. 45¼, and rye ⅜ to 1 cent buige, Dec. 96. provisions results varied from 7 to 35 cents gain.

Corn, oats, rye and provisions sympathized with wheat strength. Prices of May new corn equaled the old season's high. Rye, as well as wheat, outdid previous top price records.

No deliveries whatever on Chicago December wheat and corn contracts were announced.

Christmas Buying

sive Christmas items, but our business so far is very satisfactory."

Left Over To Be Small

With Christmas goods not yet displayed in its windows, a department store head said his sales so far, exceeded those of this time last year, and in other years when the goods were on display. "We will sell everything," he added." What we will have left the morning after Christmas will be the smallest we've ever had."

One drug store manager declared: "We are about as busy today as we were last year at the rush time. Our sales should be from 33 to 50 per cent greater."

Furniture To Sell

A furniture dealer sees good sales of his lines for Christmas presents. Mother may buy father an easy chair and he may buy her a bedroom suite or a dining room suite or something, but a good many Lubbock homes will have new pieces of furniture Christmas morning.

One chain department store reported a larger staff at one time last week than the store has had in any previous rush of the season. "This store will do at least a third more business in Lubbock than in any other year in the store's history," he explained.

"We have put away in our safe more merchandise than we have ever done at this time," said a jeweler. "There are more watches now in that safe than I have ever seen at Christmas time. Our sales averages are larger than ever and people are buying the costlier items now, instead of later."

Another chain store manager predicted his busiest and best season, the way trade was starting. "Our rush began today, you might say," he went on. "Sold more today than last week."

People Are Buying Now

"People are not shopping now—they are buying, said a hardware merchant. "In fact, we haven't had a chance to display so much, we have been too busy selling."

"The Christmas trade is starting off good," another department store head explained." Better goods are being sold and people are buying more of them, that means, our volume will be larger than ever."

An electric shop handling a line of radios, reports some inquiries early, but not many sales as yet. The rush is expected later in December, about the middle of the month.

Monday Good Day

Monday apparently was a good day for local concerns. Streets were crowded, especially late in the afternoon, with package carrying crowds. Traffic turning corners was slowed up while pedestrians crossed the streets at intersections. Out of town cars were numerous.

Clerical staffs, already augmented to meet early demands, will likely see several hundred more employed the next week or two. Chain store executives seem especially well pleased with prospects. Those who commented on the seasonal outlook were impressed with the volume of business that was showing up after the greater number of cotton-pickers had left.

FDR Greeted By Argentines

One Million People Take Part In Greatest Mass Welcome In History Of Nation As U. S. President Arrives

States president to visit Argentina while in office, made his headquarters for his three-day stay at the United States embassy, a handsome structure surrounded by a beautiful park.

To Attend Initial Session

Tomorrow morning he is scheduled to take an auto tour of the city and later to receive President Justo, who is to accompany him to the legislative palace for the initial session of the parley.

As Mr. Roosevelt took his seat a large open car, he said to Justo, with a smile, "Mi Amigo" ("my friend").

Justo returned the greeting with an embrace, and a moment later seated himself on President Roosevelt's left.

The eleven official cars, heavily gaurded by Argentine police and American secret service agents, formed a line behind 350 blue-uniformed, white-epauletted horse grenadiers of Gen. Jose De San Martin, named for the Argentine who liberated the country from Spanish rule in 1812.

Mr. Roosevelt waved his high silk hat to the cheering throngs.

Verbal Fireworks

the road seeking him for serving an attachment, they said, and found him drunk.

Howard sued out the writ, he told the Morning Avalanche, so as to allow his client to make bond.

"Too Drunk" To Produce

Sheriff Abel said he did not produce the man because he was "too drunk." He said he (the sheriff), Deputy Sheriff Parum Posey, Sam Fort, police identifications officer, County Attorney Jess C. Levens, and Deputy Sheriff Bedford F. Carpenter went to the man's cell and ascertained for themselves he was too drunk before deciding not to take him before Judge Dillard.

Levens said there was no legal reason why the man should have been afforded a chance to be released, since "he was mentally incapacitated and would not understand how to enter a pleading."

Son Testifies To Drinking

Sheriff Abel said one of the man's sons took the stand in the hearing and testified his father had been drinking. Abel said he did not feel he would be doing his duty in allowing a drunk man to drive on the highways.

Judge Dillard said, however, his decision a plea before a magistrate should be allowed was based on his understanding the man and another han had drunk "only about a third of a pint—and that early in the afternoon, sometime between four and five o'clock."

Judge Dillard said:

"The man had a sick son, about 18. The boy had typhoid fever and had been sick four or five weeks. Information his father was in trouble had been imparted to him and he kept asking for his father. He was almost hysterical. The father's offense was bondable."

Action "Humanitarian"

"I acted in what I deemed was a humanitarian manner."

The sheriff's department referred to other alleged ruptures between the two departments of the official family. Sheriff Abel said a misunderstanding resulted Saturday when his deputies had arrested a man with seven and one-half cases of whisky and 18 cases of beer.

"Within 20 minutes after the man had been arrested there was a writ of habeas corpus to be served on me," he said. "The man was out with my deputies on another raid and I could not produce him immediately. Thirty minutes after I had been cited to appear with the prisoner I had filed two cases against him."

Deputy Posey Adds Voice

Deputy Posey charged the judge had refused to take a plea Monday morning of T. S. Blacknell, negro charged with assault with a motor vehicle growing out of the injury recently of C. E. McMillan, county treasurer. He said Judge Dillard asked the negro if he were guilty and that when an affirmative answer was made the judge told him to change his plea and make bond.

Posey said he, in court, said the negro "won't change his plea, make bond, hire a lawyer and be an additional expense to the county."

He charged further, Judge Dillard declined to pronounce sentence and that the negro had been remanded to custody and, Monday night, was in jail.

"Privileges Abused"—Dillard

Judge Dillard and Attorney Howard were disposed to accept the sheriff's statement that he would "stay up and take the prisoner as soon as he sobers sufficiently." At midnight, the sheriff, talking with the Avalanche-Journal, said he was preparing to "wake the man up and take him home."

Judge Dillard told the Morning Avalanche he regretted the incident but that he had given them "to understand I know a few things."

He said "some of them" have "abused privileges quite a while" but that "we'll get along though."

Search Goes On For Missing Men

SAN PERLITA, Nov. 30. (AP) — Searchers urged jaded mounts through vast ranchlands near here today determined to solve the mysterious disappearances of Luther and John Blanton, who did not return from a hunting trip Nov. 18.

Expectations that investigation of a Mexican guide's saying Saturday near Raymondville might throw light on the Blanton case were dashed when officers said another Mexican confessed the killing.

The fifty searchers, led by Rangers and county officers, pledged they would not allow the Blanton case to lapse unsolved as had a search for Jesus Rivera and Reyes Ramirez who disappeared on a hunting trip in February.

The search today concentrated on the King ranch where the Blantons went to hunt ducks, not far from their home.

Ranger Capt. Bill McMurray was not among the searchers. Intimates indicated he was conducting his investigation in another section, acting upon information known only to him.

Local Fliers To Enter Race

W. C. Breedlove, Airport Head, And Ralph Keeton, Student, To Take Part In Miami To Havana Race, Dec. 13

William C. Breedlove, manager of Lubbock's municipal airport and Ralph Keeton, flying student, will enter the American National Air races from Miami, Fla., to Havana, Cuba, December 13, announcement was made yesterday. The two pilots will leave Lubbock December 4.

The two will first go to Atlanta, Ga., to join a "cub convoy" sponsored by the Taylor Aircraft company and the Blevins Aircraft corporation and scheduled to leave Americus, Ga., December 8 on a series of hops to Miami, arriving there December 12 to prepare for the 263 mile race to Cuba, Breedlove said.

Route Of Race

The race from Miami to Havana will be routed via Homestead, Key Largo and Lower Matecumbe to Key West airport, where planes will refuel, thence along a patrolled sea route to Havana.

Information received by Breedlove indicated three United States coast guard cutters will be stationed at intervals from Key West to the half-way point between Key West and Havana, and a similar number or more of Cuban navy ships will be established at intervals between Havana to half the distance to Key West.

Each Handicapped

Each entrant will be handicapped according to the manufacturer's advertised top speed of his ship, Breedlove said he would fly a J-2 Taylor Cub monoplane.

Elaborate arrangements welcoming the air contestants are being mapped at Havana, Breedlove said, and the mayor and the Cuban Tourist commission are in charge. Three days of entertainment have been planned.

On arrival at 2 p. m. Sunday, December 13, the entrants will be met by representatives of the Cuban government. A "punch of honor" offered by the Constitutional army at the Officers' club in Military City will follow. Pilots will be taken to headquarters at the Hotel Sevilla-Biltmore, and the mayor will be host at a reception in City Hotel Palace. Jai-Ali games will be conducted and a "night in Havana" program is offered to conclude the first day.

Other Program Events

Sightseeing tours of Havana and environs and an informal farewell banquet, when prizes will be offered winners, are scheduled December 14. A cocktail party Tuesday, December 15, and sightseeing, and the following day an air parade over Havana will conclude the scheduled program.

Prizes are being offered for the convoy flight to Miami, including a large silver trophy donated by an oil company, $100 in a competitive event, and other awards not listed, Breedlove stated.

DALLAS, Nov. 30.—The last of 6,353,827 visitors witnessed in a drizzling rain early today the closing of the Dallas Centennial exposition.

Final day attendance was 48,950. Officials estimated more than one million out-of-state visitors saw the $25,000,000 display.

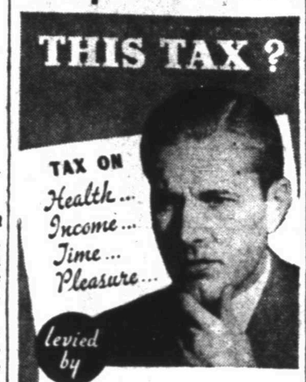
Cullen F. Thomas, nUited States commissioner general of the Centennial and referred to as the father of the celebration, said more than 4,000,000 Texans were thoroughly "Texanized" to the glories of their homeland by the exposition. He said it would result in a finer citizenship and a loftier patriotism.

Mayor George Sergeant officially closed the gates. As he gave the signal a bugler from Camp Stephen F. Austin sounded taps. The lights then faded out and strains of Auld Lang Syne floated over the grounds.

Directors announced a 1937 edition of the exposition would be held, plans for which have not been completed. The reopening date was set for June 12.

In England, during the 17th century, it was customary for gentlemen to smoke in church.

Why Not Reduce



COLDS
STOPPED-UP NOSTRILS
NASAL IRRITATION

Our government is not the only one that levies taxes. What about Old Man Winter and the colds, nasal irritation, and similar ailments which may levy their tax upon your time, income, and pleasure?

This year you can help reduce such taxation with Mentholatum. When a cold stops up your nose, a bit of Mentholatum in each nostril helps clear the nasal passages so you can breathe more freely. Or, when your nostrils are dry or irritated use Mentholatum to cool and soothe them.

Quick Relief From Distress

Texas Man Says S.L.K. Gave Relief From Stomach And Kidney Trouble With Very First Dose

Now Able to Work and Feeling Like a Person Should

INDIGESTION, gas, and bloating are the first stages in the complete disorganization of your health. Unless you correct this stomach condition, your bowels will become congested and pour poisons into your blood stream. Your kidneys will become dammed up with impurities, and you'll feel aches and pains in your back. Sufferers here will read with interest the following remarkable testimonial of Mr. J. A. McAllister, who states:

"Was troubled for some time with stomach and kidney distress; had headaches and felt run down all the time. After the very first dose of Williams S. L. K. Formula I began to get results, and on the third day was able to go back to work feeling like a person should to be able to get anything done.

"Headaches have actually vanished, and I can now eat anything without bothering my stomach. The necessity of getting up nights has been almost entirely eliminated, and that old tired feeling is gone." Mr. J. A. McAllister, 210 Clay St., Wichita Falls, Texas.
