

News can be good and bad. Newspaper men usually hear about it when they print something people consider "bad publicity."

Rarely does anyone say a word about good publicity when it does come along.

Olton has had some of the good kind lately, and it ought to be pointed out.

The community can thank its school system, in general, for the kind words. Specifically, the thanks should go to science teacher James Caley and one of his students, Barry Prestridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barton Prestridge.

Barry made some headlines recently because of his fine showing at the 14th National Science Fair-International.

A FRIEND of ours, Mary Lasswell, who writes a daily column for the Houston Chronicle, is a regular reader of the Olton Enterprise.

Mary, a well-known novelist, has a soft spot in her heart for Olton, I guess. She's written about our town on a couple of occasions.

Just last week, she had this to say:

"Olton, Texas, is in Lamb County on the South Plains in the Texas Panhandle. It is one of those 'little towns of Texas,' but little in population only and long on schools and brains.

"ONE OF ITS younger residents has brought national and probably international acclaim to Olton. Barry Prestridge, a 19-year-old Olton High senior, has been named one of 10 high school students in the nation to receive the Atomic Energy Commission Special Award."

Mary described Barry's project and how it survived the competition of more than 400 other exhibits. She told how two other Texas students, one from Dallas and another from Abilene, also made the top 10.

"THERE has been a lot of progress since Burro School was established in 1903," Mary wrote. "It was named so because a herd of burros froze to death beside it in a blizzard. It was relocated in Olton in 1908 when the town became the county seat....."

"THERE may have been donkeys 'beside' the schoolhouse in 1903, but the quality of the instruction in Olton today makes it unlikely that there are many donkeys 'inside' the high school. Barry Prestridge and the two other Texas students who won commendation for their exhibits are a credit to Texas, their parents, and their teachers."

WE'RE certain Mary won't find any argument there, not in Olton, anyway. And we're grateful for the plug!

Students See Driver Wrongs

Olton drivers for an hour Tuesday morning were under keen surveillance. Pencil and paper carrying groups of drivers training students did the observing.

Most of what the students saw, they will attempt not to duplicate.

Divided into four groups by instructor Gene Riddle, the young drivers stationed themselves at busy intersections about town.

They saw more violations in the hour of street scanning than they had fingers and toes to count.

Staked out at the main street stop light were Jim Smith and Roger Thompson.

"We counted 226 drivers," said Thompson "and 89 of them committed violations within the block."

Draw Awaits Lamb, Castro

Only Castro and Lamb Counties have not taken steps to share costs of a proposed planning party for the Running Water Draw Watershed Project.

When Farmer County Commissioners voted Monday to ante their share of $12,500, added pressure was put on the two abstainers.

Castro County has been asked $8,333 for two dam sites. Lamb County's costs of one structure amounts to $4,167.

Funds allocated thus far by the counties affected by the watershed project include $12,500 by Curry County, New Mexico; $12,500 by Hale County and $20,000 by the city of Plainview; and $12,500 by Parmer County.

It was indicated in a meeting held in Plainview that the State Soil Conservation Board would meet in June. No definite date has been set.

Father Of Year Deadline Near

Entries are streaming in as the deadline nears in the "Father Of The Year" contest. Sponsored by the Enterprise only two days remain to submit reasons for "poppa" being the best.

The contest ending Friday has a 5 p.m. deadline.

Boys and girls must write in a form found in the Enterprise why they think their father is special. Entries must be confined to 25 words or less.

Most common fault was lack of hand or blinker signals.

Of the number of offenders, 44 were men and 45 were women.

Smith said, "several persons stopped short of the stop light, some turned out of the wrong lane and others were speeding."

Thompson counted two men and a woman who ran a red light. "They just pulled right through it," he said.

Other violations were driving in the wrong lane, jay walking and parking too far from the curb.

Six girls who say they weren't prejudiced, thought the women were more cautious.

Nevertheless, they counted 70 persons who didn't give turning signals, 12 speeders, 12 not stopping at stop signs, one U-turn in the middle of the street and three driving on the wrong side of the street.

Girls in the training group were Gayle Truelock, Charla "Sissy" Smith, Valda Jones, Judy Kemp, Barbara Marshall and Donna Robertson.

Dale DeBerry and crew were observing drivers near the post office.

With DeBerry were Jimmy Schreier, Joe Fincher, Larry Neinst and David Aigaki.

Among poor driving practices they observed were parking in the middle of the street and taking up more than one parking place when parking, speeding, illegal U-turn, no signals and backing up without looking.

DeBerry said, "One person backed around a corner and several backed from the post office to the bakery to turn around."

The students stated that all the driving wasn't bad.

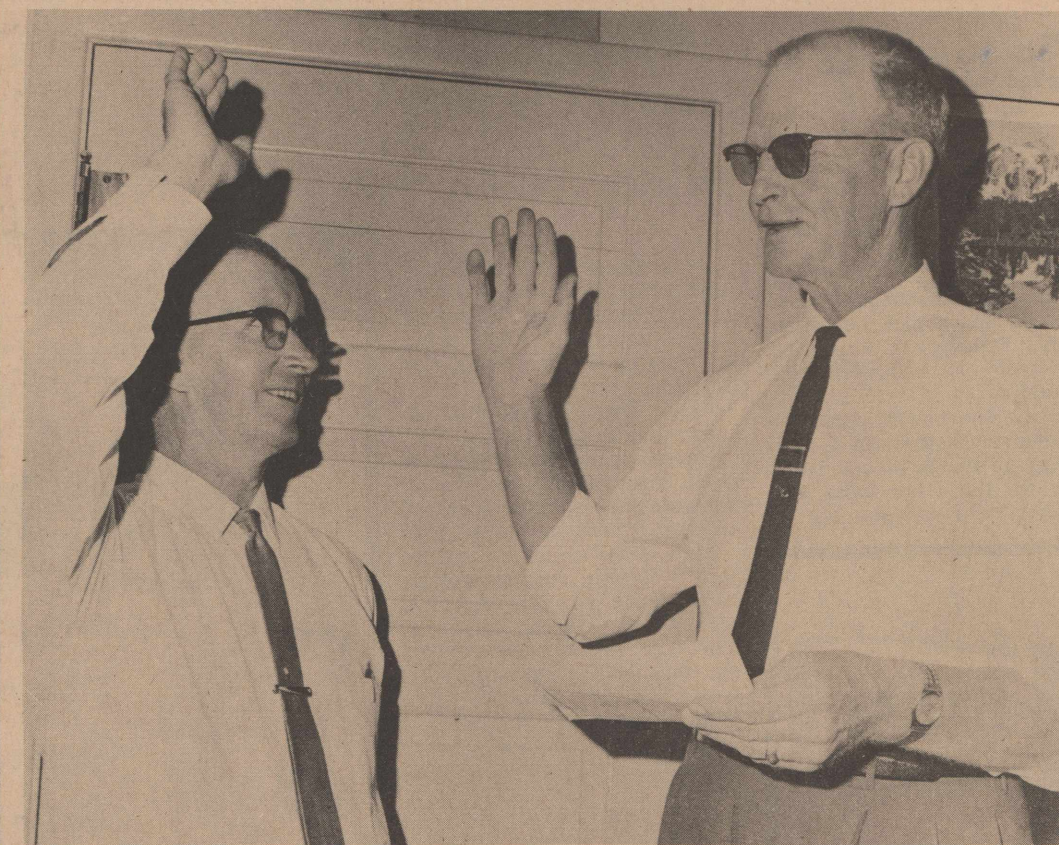

"We did see some pretty good drivers," one of the boys commented. He kidded, "they were men."

Bracero Ban Will Hurt

Elvis Hatley, head of Olton's bracero work program, said this week cotton and cucumber farmers would suffer without the bracero farm labor law. Legislation killed the bill in Washington last week which would have extended the program two more years.

Effective Dec. 31, 1963, there will be no more laborers from Old Mexico working the land. "It looks like we won't have any pickles grown here next year," Hatley said.

He added that Muleshoe farmers would probably lose their tomato crops.

Banker Advertises For Hot, Dry Days

Does it pay to advertise?

Banker Owen Norfleet is putting The Olton Enterprise to the supreme test this week.

"Our farmers need some ideal weather on their cotton--about 30 days of hot, dry weather without wind, rain or hail," said the banker.

Enterprise publisher Bill Turner is constantly sounding off about the value of advertising in the Enterprise.

So Norfleet decided he'd test the paper.

He's running a large size want ad on the back page today's paper.

"If we can get some good weather, it'll be well worth it," says the banker. "We just have to have it."

Baseballer Connects--But Good!

Young Virginia Moss, age 7, had her skull cracked last week by an 11-year-old neighbor lad. The accident occurred when the boy was showing off his new baseball bat, saying, "this is the way the coach showed me to bat." He swung and connected.

Kenneth Moss, 13, Virginia's brother, saw his sister crumple to the ground after the blow caught her high on the left temple.

He carried her into the house, where Mrs. Dick Moss began applying ice packs.

From there Virginia was taken to Community Hospital and Clinic. X-Rays showed her skull to be fractured.

The little girl still has headaches and slight fever.

Mrs. Moss said, "the doctor told us to keep her still and quiet."

Virginia walks easily around the house. She says, touching her head, "It's still very sore."

She told the doctor, "I thought he hit me twice."

VIRGINIA Moss, age 7, holds the bat that a neighbor lad cracked her skull with. The boy was showing off his new baseball bat, saying, "This is the way coach told me to bat." Virginia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Moss.

Court Tosses Out Illegal Ballots

W. E. (Bill) Thomas, after battling more than two months to prove he was elected Olton's mayor, was sworn into office in less than a minute Tuesday night.

Thomas took the oath of office from David Maxey, Olton justice of the peace, putting the finishing touch on a legal fight which was climaxed Monday with a court ruling declaring him the winner of the April 2 election.

The brief ceremony came at a regular city council meeting, moments after the court judgement in the Thomas contest was read into the city records.

Court action transformed Thomas' one-vote loss to Gene Wilson into a one-vote victory.

Thomas, following the tense wait for Judge Pat Boone's ruling Monday, had turned to his wife and said with relief: "I'm glad it's over."

Tuesday night, with the anxiety out of the way, he made this statement:

"I'm going to try to lay aside personal differences and act as mayor of Olton for the best interest of the town of Olton and our citizens."

Installation of Thomas as mayor came after a full three months of bickering which saw the community split down the center on its city politics.

The argument over who was rightfully Olton's mayor was settled abruptly about 2 p.m. Monday when Judge Boone ruled that six votes were cast illegally in the election.

Before that, the contest could have gone either way.

Turning point was when Judge Boone ruled five absentee votes legal. Wilson, in his answer to Thomas' petition, had contested these votes, asking that they be thrown out.

His attorney, Hank Gowdy of Littlefield, contended the votes were illegal because absentee voting was conducted by the city secretary rather than the county clerk.

Judge Boone, however, ruled that a statute interpreted this method as being legal.

He then instructed District Clerk Ernest Owens to find the stubs of two ballots which had been declared illegal. Stubs of the other four illegal votes had been sought and found at the May 23 hearing.

At this point, Gowdy told the court: "Your honor, if you'll give us about five minutes we might save you a little trouble."

Gowdy then went into conference with his client, Wilson. They returned shortly, with Gowdy announcing his client would stipulate that four of the six illegal votes had been cast for Wilson.

That changed Wilson's vote total in the April 2 election from 291 to 287. Two from Thomas' total changed his from 290 to 288.

Thomas and his attorney, Gene Owen of Plainview, conferred

Councilman Election Set

With the mayor contest decided, Olton's city council Tuesday night attempted to turn to new fields of discussion.

There was no escape, however, from elections.

Councilman G.H. Buchenau, who has moved from the city, handed in his resignation, leaving the need for the election of a councilman to fill his term, which expires in April, 1964.

The council set Tuesday, July 23, as election day. Polls will be at the city fire station.

An innovation to be used at the polls for that vote will be past board boxes.

Make-shift voting booths will be set up with the paste-board, insuring voter privacy.

W. G. Finney was named election judge.

Before the election was called, the council went through procedure necessary for the installation of W. E. (Bill) Thomas as mayor.

Councilman Russell Rucker moved that the judgement of 154th District Court declaring Thomas mayor be accepted and entered as part of the permanent records of the city. The council approved, unanimously.

Turning to other items, the council:

1. Appointed a board of equalization including Bill Turner, Basil Sherman and Bob Harber, with Lefty Hollingsworth and Percy Parsons as alternates.

2. Voted 2-1, with one abstaining, to keep the justice of the peace office in the city hall.

3. Appointed Basil Johns to check into pay scales of other cities this size for city employees. This came after Rucker proposed raises for a number of employees.

4. Appointed Fire Chief Tom Smith to investigate possibilities of establishing a civil defense unit here.

Much of the discussion Tuesday night centered around complaints of city officers leaving the city limits in co-operating with state officers.

"If our officers can be of some service at a wreck until the highway patrol gets there, that's okay, but I'm against the city having anything to do with their radar traps," said Councilman Bill Kemp.

"It's not the city's place to have anything to do with that," said Johns.

Councilman Bob Gullett added his thoughts: "This is not the place for the JP's office, either."

Police Chief Emmett Burrows told the council: "The only way I've assisted (the state on radar traps) is when they have called me and asked me to bring one (a violator) in."

JP David Maxey added: "Sometimes the state officers call when no other officers are available."

Kemp said: "Let 'em hold 'em out there until they're ready to bring 'em in. They're just taking advantage of you boys."

Johns told the group: "The whole problem is that people don't understand why a city police is there in the first place. That ties the city into it, when we don't have a thing to do with it."

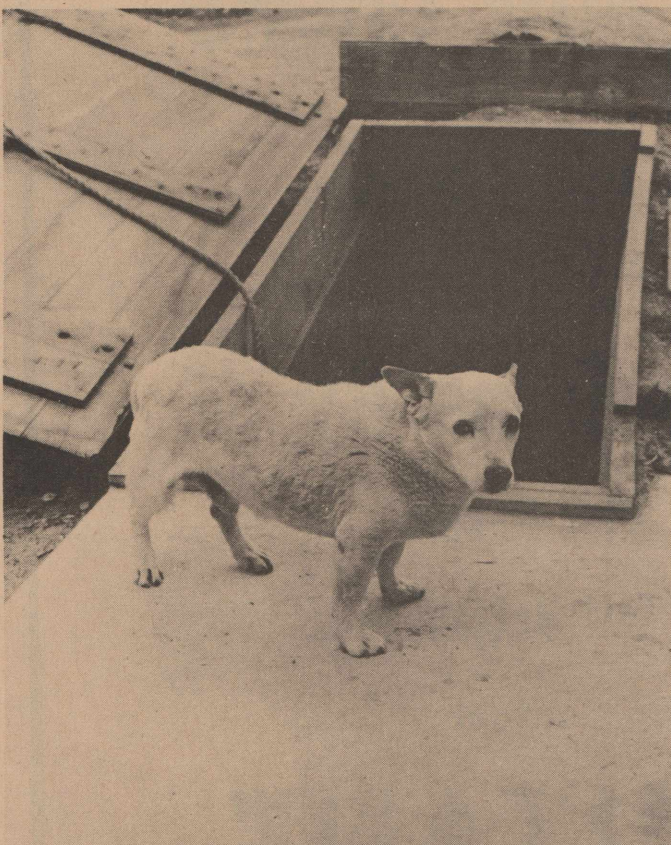

Mayor Thomas stressed the fact that co-operation between the state and the city works both ways.

Officers told the group that they prefer to have the highway patrol investigate the more serious accidents inside the city, because the patrol is trained for that work.

JP Maxey turned the topic to the question raised by Gullett: "Let's get it settled now about my office down here."

Gullett said: "The only objection that I have is the heat that's put on the city by it. People feel like the city has something with it (fining by the justice of the peace)."

The council later voted on the question, with Rucker and Johns for keeping the office in the city hall, Gullett against, and Kemp abstaining.

Old Dog Goes To Cellar In Storm

Time is no respecter of age. Be it man or some other member of the animal kingdom.

Old "Corky", beloved dog of the W. M. Smith family, is falling victim to the malady.

He no longer can hop on the tractor seat and go to the field with Bill or Billy. He's slowed now by rheumatism and his 13 years.

"He's been the family pet since a pup," said Mrs. Smith. She added, "He's almost human, really one of the family."

What's so unusual about an aged dog, especially if it's only a mongrel?

Have you ever known a dog that scanned the sky for storm clouds and headed for the cellar when they approached?

"Corky" does.

Are you acquainted with a dog that only eats his eggs and bacon from a plate?

If not you don't know "Corky".

Ever hear of a dog that quit his favorite chair in his master's bedroom when the room was no longer occupied?

"Corky" did.

"When Billy got married six years ago," said Mrs. Smith, "Corky" quit coming into his room."

The pet now sleeps under the house.

"When kinfolks come, he recognizes them with a different bark than he announces strangers."

She added, "'Corky' has given us all an abundance of pleasure and laughs."

Continuing, she said, "he goes to the cellar by himself, but he's so old now, my husband has to help him out." He only goes when a storm is approaching.

Mrs. Smith said the dog was terribly jealous and would sulk when it didn't get its way.

"But he's the most affectionate fellow I've ever known," she added.

She told how the pet had been spoiled by being treated as a member of the family.

"I'm afraid we're going to find him dead some morning," confessed Mrs. Smith, "and it's going to be mighty sad around here."

13-YEAR-OLD "Corky" has a mind of his own when it comes to storm clouds. When he sees a bad one approaching, he heads for the cellar. The old fellow has rheumatism that hinders him from climbing out though. He belongs to Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Smith.

Running Water Philosopher Against Standard Work Week For Farmers Around Country

Editor's note: The Running Water Philosopher on his care-less weed farm on Running Water Draw discusses work this week, a subject he doesn't mind talking about, if you follow us.

Dear Editor:
I was looking through a farm magazine the other night and ran across a letter by a farmer with a curious problem.
He wanted to know why farmers can't have a standard work-week like city people. "Why can't we have a standard," he asked, "so when we quit work at 6 we won't feel like we're loafing?"

This question brings up so many answers I hardly know where to start attacking it. In the first place, I've never had any trouble knowing when to stop working. I've sometimes had trouble knowing when to start, but never when to stop. Maybe city people have to be told when they're tired, but I've never had that shortcoming. This farmer went on to say he'd like to know what work hours other farmers put in around the U. S., on the grounds a uniform standard could be established and a man could get off his tractor at a certain time each day without feeling sheepish about it.

A man who has to watch his neighbor to know when to stop plowing is in the wrong business. On the other hand, any neighbor who watches me to learn when to start will go broke. But this idea of a standard work week for farmers worries me. You let somebody in Wash- ington hear about it, and it won't be long before he'll come out with some new legislation called an Hour-Control Program, with government checks cut if you go over or under it.

A farmer's day begins when he wakes up and ends when he goes to sleep, and what he does during those hours is his own business provided the support price is satisfactory. And any farmer who can't figure out how to spend those hours, with- out looking over the fence to make sure he doesn't work longer or shorter than his neigh- bor, ought to move to town and get a job where somebody can make these decisions for him.

I don't want anybody telling me how many or how few hours I can work a week. This is a matter I can decide for my- self, even if it takes me the first five days to decide what I plan to do the last two. Yours faithfully,
J. A.

HOUSE OF FLOWERS

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

MRS. RAIFORD DANIEL, SR.

Sand Tarts
1 cup butter
5 tbsp. powdered sugar
2 cups flour
3/4 tsp. vanilla
1 cup pecans

Cream butter, add sugar, vanilla and flour. Add broken pecans. Roll to 1/4 inch thickness. Dough should be thick. Cut in half moons, place in ungreased cookie sheet and bake in slow oven 1/2 to 1 hour, or until cookies begin to brown. Remove from oven and roll in powdered sugar while still hot. Makes 4 to 5 dozen.

Mrs. Raiford Daniel, Olton school teacher for 18 years, submitted the recipe this week.

She is a member of the Methodist Church, and teaches the Beacon Sunday School Class there. Her hobby is raising flowers.

The Daniels' have been residents at Olton for the past 20 years. They have three children, one son, Raiford Daniel, Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. Richard Snell and Mrs. Ronald Curtis both of Clovis.

Mrs. Daniel is a member of the PTA, CTA, Olton Study Club and Lamb County Teachers Association.

Election Contest

briefly, then agreed to the stipulation.

Judge Boone then declared Thomas the winner of the election. Gowdy, speaking after the contest hearing had closed, told the Enterprise: "There'll be no appeal. That's the end of it."

Wilson had submitted his resignation as mayor prior to the hearing, but the city council took no action, pending the outcome of the contest.

His attorney had told reporters Wilson did not want the mayor's job, but that he did want a full contest.

Before the contest was finished, eleven ballots had been questioned by the two sides, not including the five absentee votes.

The judge ruled four of the eight questioned by Thomas illegal. These were the votes of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Luera and Mr. and Mrs. Ben. C. Garcia.

Two of the three questioned by Wilson were declared illegal. The two were those of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Williamson.

The ballot box was never searched, as a result of the stipulation made by Wilson and agreed to by Thomas.

And no one was forced to say how he voted, although at one point Attorney Gowdy asked Williamson how he cast his ballot.

"The ballots are in the box," Williamson answered. Judge Boone ruled Williamson did not have to answer the question because the court at that time had not ruled on the legality of Williamson's ballot.

In all, 10 witnesses were called Monday and most were questioned to determine whether some of the voters were legal residents at the time of the election.

Thomas' attorney called Winston Bley, who testified in connection with an allegation in Thomas' petition that Fred De La Rosa used a sample ballot when he voted.

Bley told the court he noticed De La Rosa had a "square piece of paper just like a ballot" with the word ballot printed on it while he was voting.

De La Rosa was later called and he testified that he took no papers with him. An interpreter helped with the questions and answers.

Attorney Owen asked if he could read the names of the candidates.

De La Rosa replied that he did not know who he had voted for, that he felt a duty to vote and that he went and voted for someone.

Others called to the witness stand during the hearing were Ben C. Garcia, Louis Luera, Justo Garcia, Pat Fuentes, County Clerk Charles Jones, Williamson, Conrado Rodriguez and Guadalupe Rodriguez.

All but Jones were questioned to determine residency at the time of the election.

The contestant argued that Ben C. Garcia and his wife and Louis Luera and his wife, plus four others, were not legal residents for six months prior to the election.

Gowdy contended that some of those in question were away in temporary employment and were still legal residents. Gowdy also questioned the votes of the Williamsons, and he established that they moved to Olton on Oct. 4, 1962, lacking two days being six months.

Scouts Plan Encampment

Nature in its rugged and breath-taking form will be afforded Olton Boy Scout Troop 220 this coming Sunday.

The boys and their scout Master Kenneth Campbell will take to the great outdoors on a week's encampment at Tres Ritos.

The camp is in mountainous country near Taos, N.M.

Campbell said, "the boys will have a chance to study nature and earn some merit badges."

There will be 10 different troops at the camp, representing wide areas.

About 14 boys from Olton will make the trip.

"They will be supervised and counseled at all times," Campbell said. There will also be a full-time doctor on hand.

The boys will cook their own food over open fires, each team being assigned cooking and cleaning chores.

Lions Win Golf Awards

Olton golfers brought home three trophies from the tournament at Hillcrest Country Club held in connection with the Lions District 2-T2 Convention at Lubbock last weekend.

T. J. Roberson was low gross golfer of the tournament with a 77 on the par 72 course. He also won low putts. Roberson received trophies for both victories.

George Redinger was winner of C Flight competition and was awarded a trophy. Bob Duncan won a golfer's cap as the golfer shooting the most 5's in the 18-hole tourney.

Eighteen Olton Lions took part in the tournament.

In other activity at the convention, the Olton Club saw Dana Speer, club sweetheart, place in the top five of the District Queen Contest.

Olton Lions also backed the winner of the district governor honor, Bert Belcher of Seagraves.

Lamb Sale Near $2500

Attention Saturday at the FFA Stock Show Barn was given to the buying and selling of more than 100 lambs.

The auction, directed by the Olton Sheep Breeders Association, was the third and "most successful".

Sales netted owners $2,428. Seven area sheep breeders had lambs to sell.

At least one sheepman came from Abilene to sell his lambs. Only the finer animals exchanged hands.

Majority of the stock brought from $15 to $35.

The top lambs, both Hampshires, sold for $75 and $55 respectively. Owner was C.M. Moss.

There were 103 lambs auctioned off by W. B. Dickenson Jr.

Many of them were bought by 4-H and FFA groups from Wilson, Happy, Petersburg, Bovina, Hart and Lockney.

A spokesman for the association said the sale has improved each year.

Among breeds sold were Southdown, Shropshire, Hampshire, Dorset, Fine Wool Cross and Suffolk.

Boy Receives Severe Cuts

Charles Winder of Springlake will probably tread lightly for awhile.

The youngster cut himself severely, last week, a spokesman said, when he attempted to get to a cellar during a tornado alert.

Both of his feet were cut when the boy fell barefooted under the cellar door at the W. B. Hucks home.

Charles was taken to a Littlefield hospital where several stitches were used to close the wounds.

Damage Done By Twister

A small twister touched down near Hart Camp last week and did extensive damage in the area.

A house on the Buck Frederick farm was damaged. It is occupied by the William Johnson family.

Also shed and out-buildings were destroyed. Extensive damage was done to tractors, cotton strippers and a combine which was under the shed and owned by the J. W. Johnsons.

The Dickie Lee home also was damaged.

Earlier a barn was completely demolished on the Ray Johnson place, scattering lumber and grain over the highway.

Baseball Underway Again With Clearing Weather

Thundershowers have held off the last few days and a few baseball games have gone the limit.

The last couple of weeks in May and the first week in June were much too stormy for baseball.

The June 4, Little League game, which was rained out between Farmers Gin and Halfway's Blue Sox, was re-scheduled for June 6.

Farmers Gin, who leads the league with a 4-0 record, won the game 19-13.

A Pee Wee game played June 6 showed Cashway the victor over Olton Bowl, 3-0.

On June 7, Farmers Gin squeaked by Olton State Bank, 6-5.

Last Monday night, June 10, Thompson Implement poured it on Olton State Bank, 13-3.

On June 11, Farmers Gin whipped the Co-Op Gin, 11-3.

That same night Straw Gin's Pee Wees beat Cashway 7-6 in extra innings.

Tonight, June 13, Straw Gin takes on Olton Bowl.
