U S CONTROL OF REFINERY RUNS ORDERED

SUPPLY, DEMAND WILL BE BALANCED IN EACH DISTRICT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (P)—Secretary Ickes, the oil administrator, today issued an order looking toward control of refinery runs as a part of the administration's program to balance supply and demand for both crude oil and its refined products.

The order directed the interior department to divide the nation into refining districts and set up proper ratios between gasoline inventories and sales for each district.

The planning and coordination committee under the oil code, composed of leading oil men, was authorized by Ickes to recommend to all refiners the amount of crude runs necessary to maintain the proper ratio in the various districts. Violation of these recommendations would be declared an unfair trade practice in violation of the oil code.

The text of the order follows:

LANGER SAYS TROOPS WILL ENFORCE EMBARGO

WHEAT SHIPMENTS TO
BE HALTED, SAYS
GOVERNOR

BISMARCK, N. D., Oct. 19 (P)—Wheat moved across the North Dakota border today despite the embargo of Gov. William Langer, who told his adjutant general to call out national guardsmen to enforce his edict.

As the railroads announced their belief that the embargo was illegal and chose to obey the laws of congress respecting interstate commerce, Gov. Langer said he would call out the national guardsmen to enforce his edict.

Railroad executives said they would continue to accept wheat in North Dakota and ship it until interfered with, when recourse to courts by them or a shipper was probable.

Langer, in reply, said his troops would halt shipments as soon as a direct report of violation was made. Railroad men at Fargo said wheat was moving into Minnesota from there.

Presidents of four railroads serving the state sent Langer a message reiterating that the carriers must abide by federal laws despite the embargo.

The message, signed by W. P. Kenney, the Great Northern and Charles Donnelly of the Northern Pacific, said: "We fully realize the paramount necessity of higher grain prices for our farmers and if the people of North Dakota obey your command, common carriers will in no way be involved in this matter."

The reference was to shippers withholding consignments and not offering them. An offer, however, meant the railroads must accept the grain, they said.

SCORES NRA

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 19 (P)—Agricultural areas today were described as a "seething mass of unrest" by Gov. Chas. W. Bryan in a general attack on the entire national recovery program.

Bryan, brother of "The Commoner," William Jennings Bryan, said he did not know what the farmers' unrest might lead to but thought it was "bringing on a condition we can't shut our eyes to."

U. S. To Widen Investigation In Lindy Case

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (P)—Recent success in rounding up kidnappers has prompted the department of justice to undertake a fuller, coordinated investigation of the 20-month-old Lindbergh kidnapping.

Sanctioned by President Roosevelt in his desire to consolidate all kidnapping investigations under the justice department, the move follows disclosure of the withdrawal of the lone income tax investigator that has been working on it.

This agent, Frank Wilson, of Capone income tax investigation fame, was taken off the case this week by Elmer L. Irey, chief of the internal revenue bureau's intelligence unit, and returned to his former duty with the unit's field office in Baltimore.

They refused to discuss the matter further, but it was learned Wilson's withdrawal had White House approval.

At the same time Attorney General Cummings, after conferences with the president, ordered J. Edgar Hoover, director of the justice department's division of investigation, to assume jurisdiction over federal activities in the Lindbergh case, with a view to giving New Jersey authorities full benefit of data on known kidnappers amassed by the division since passage of the federal kidnapping law.

Justice investigators offered their services at Hopewell during early phases of the Lindbergh tragedy, along with other federal officers of the various departments, but they withdrew from the case many months ago.

GARNER, WILL ROGERS AND FARLEY ATTEND OPENING OF WAGGONER RACE MEET

Austrian Troops Guard Border

IN THE GRIP of a war scare because of Germany's withdrawal from the League of Nations and Disarmament Conference, Austria, fearing a repetition of 1914, is hurriedly strengthening her frontier defenses by stringing barbed wire along the frontier and sending soldiers to exposed outposts. 'MA' FERGUSON AND MRS. W. T. WAGGONER DISCUSS CHILDREN AND HAY FEVER ON BACK PORCH

'Ma' Wanted Son To Follow in 'Pa's'
Footsteps

FORT WORTH, Oct. 19 (P)—Grandchildren, hay fever remedies and the view from the back porch of the hostess' home monopolized conversation today when Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson went calling on Mrs. W. T. Waggoner, wife of the Fort Worth capitalist who built Arlington Downs race track.

Waggoner, who is recovering from a paralytic stroke suffered sometime ago, and Mrs. Waggoner received the governor and her husband informally. The capitalist, though not completely recovered, was taken to the Downs for the opening of the meet today.

While James E. Ferguson, husband of the governor, brought to Waggoner the greetings of the state legislature, the governor and Mrs. Waggoner chatted intimately in an adjoining room. The talk turned to grandchildren.

"I have a grandson whom we think is a most precious child," Mrs. Ferguson said. "He's only 13 and in high school. But, of course, we always think our crow is the blackest."

"And what do you think of this for a grandchild?" Mrs. Waggoner said, taking a picture of her five-year-old granddaughter off the piano.

When the conversation turned to kindergartens, Mrs. Ferguson expressed her approval of this institution as a means of furthering democracy by giving every child a chance to "rub shoulders" with the other children in the community.

Speaking of her own children again, Mrs. Ferguson said that she always had been sorry that she didn't have at least one son "to follow in his father's footsteps."

Most of the visit was spent on the porch of the Waggoner home so that the governor might be in the sun.

"A little sunshine might help your hay fever," Mrs. Waggoner suggested. The governor was suffering with an attack of hay fever.

SPEECHES MADE AT 'COWTOWN' EVENTS

Garner Pays Tribute
To President
Roosevelt

BY R. W. BARRY,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 19 (P)—Vice President John N. Garner and James A. Farley, postmaster general, were off to the races today.

They were guests of W. T. Waggoner at Arlington Downs for the opening of a race card at that fine plant, constructed by the pioneer Texan, Waggoner.

At Arlington Downs they were greeted for the first time on the trip by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson.

Garner and Farley were guests at a largely attended breakfast tendered by the young democratic club of Tarrant county. They, plus Will Rogers, the humorist, who flew here from Hollywood for the occasion, and other notables, made addresses.

The Fergusons were stopping at the hotel where the breakfast was in progress, but they did not attend.

Raymond E. Buck, president of the young democratic club, said no special invitation was extended to the governor and her party.

"They were invited just like anybody else," he said. "This is a public meeting."

The crowd that sought to eat breakfast with the party was so great that it overflowed the main dining room, two adjoining eating rooms, into the lobby and out on the sidewalks. Loud-speakers, however, carried words of the distinguished guests to all listeners.

Rogers told the breakfasters that "whenever you see a stranger stomping around town, just put him down as an assistant postmaster general, and guess at his number."

"All these assistants are here, except number three, I believe, and he is in Washington looking after the mails," Rogers said. "He stayed there to see that you get your letters. These other fellows do not even get their own mail. All they do is to dispose of office seekers. The only way John Garner got to be vice president was he wanted to be postmaster at Uvalde."

Garner made a brief talk. "I never wrote a speech in my life, and doubt if I could write one," Garner said.

Next at the White House has a heart as well as a brain. The greatest impression Franklin Roosevelt has made on me is that he has the courage to do what is right. He may make mistakes, but he is going to do the best he can, and if he fails he is going to be the first to admit it."

Turning to the vernacular of the poker table to explain his confidence in President Roosevelt, he said:

"I argue with him, persuade him, and sometimes I've sold him a stack to try to bluff him, but when all is said and done if he goes down to perdition, I'll be right by his side."

Farley, in his breakfast speech, referred "to some of the great Texans who are occupying important places in the executive branch of the government in Washington."

"I cannot leave this meeting without telling you how great an affection we have in Washington for the leaders whom you have given to us in the nation's capital and have done so much since March 4."

PLAY'S HERO HAS MASTERED ART OF MAKING LOVE IN 1890 STYLE

THE LITTLE Theater is breathing easier now. The hero of the 1890 melodrama, "Gold in the Hills or The Dead Sister's Secret," to be presented Monday and Tuesday nights in the city auditorium, is now making love to the satisfaction of all the cast. For Charles Barrett (Jack Dalton in the play) has learned to tell Nellie, the farmer's daughter (Beth Blythe) that he loves her—and in a sensational manner.

Like the heroes who were popular a half century ago, Charles gestures melodramatically, grabs his temples, gets on his knees, knocks down the villain in the first act, and chokes him in the third. In the second he is equally active for then he rescues Nellie from a dive on the Bowery, but he refuses to go with her because "that would be too much! Too much!"

Now as for Nellie—well, Miss Blythe is the "find" of the Little Theater. The tones she employs and her gestures "put over" the play as much as any other thing. In the last act, Miss Blythe will wear an expensive silk waist with puffed sleeves and high collar, owned by Mrs. P. C. Ledrick, that was worn in the 90s. The 27 members of the cast will wear costumes popular 40 years ago.

Miss Virginia Rose as Barbara, sister of Nellie is prepared to give a sensational performance. Her scream when she sees "the face at the window" is the best, says Neal Bean, that has ever been heard in the Little Theater. Miss Rose will sing "The Vagant Chair" and "I Cannot Sing the Old Song." Mr. Bean will say five pages of what is called bartender-voice of his before he sings "Two Little Girls in Blue" in the bar-room manner.

Price of admission will be 45 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

JUDGE FLAYED BY GOVERNOR IN LYNCHING

NEGRO IS TAKEN FROM JAIL, HANGED AND THEN BURNED

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (P)—The state executive committee of the socialist party of Maryland today adopted a resolution calling for the impeachment of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie for "criminal neglect of duty."

The resolution followed the lynching in Princess Anne last night of George Armwood, a negro. The committee also resolved that Judge Robert F. Duer and State's Attorney John B. Robins, of Somerset county, where the lynching took place, be removed from office and "prosecuted on charges of second degree manslaughter."

Gov. Ritchie directed Judge Duer, a member of the bench of the first judicial district, and State's Attorney Robins "to take immediate action to set in motion the necessary legal machinery for the apprehension of those who were responsible for or who participated in the lynching."

Armwood, brought back here from Baltimore less than 17 hours earlier to face accusations of attacking an aged white woman, was wrenched from the prison for the state policemen last night and his body was finally left in a gasoline-soaked pyre on the main business corner.

The mob of more than 1,000 men, women, and youths, stopped temporarily by a tear gas attack from the state police, stormed the jail, battered down the heavy steel doors and, after ripping most of the clothes from his body and fastening a rope around his neck, dragged the negro into the street.

Judge Duer, interrupting his dinner to drive to the scene, made a personal plea to the mob to let the negro remain in jail—promising a speedy trial for the prisoner. Dr. George W. Jarman, prominent physician, also spoke informally to the mob but he, also, was received with jeers.

Shortly after their departure, the mob began pressing the police lines around the jail. The officers appeared to the jail door and then tossed tear gas bombs at the attackers.

Pausing only a few minutes, the mob got two large pieces of timber from a nearby lumber yard and rushed toward the outer steel doors, battering them down. The second jail doors were opened from the inside.

Deputy Sheriff Norman Dryden, warden of the jail, said some men took the keys out of his pocket, adding "I was just scared they were going to get the wrong man."

Sheriff Luther Daugherty appeared on the scene and tried to persuade the invaders to leave but they pressed on to the second floor and soon returned with the negro. He was gagged on the head and chest but made no outcry.

Partly pulling him on a run and partly dragging him in the road, the mob led him out the main street to the home of Judge Duer. There was no large tree there so they threw the rope over a limb of an oak tree on the adjoining lawn.

Armwood was limp when the mob reached the tree and apparently was dead.

After men failed in an attempt to set fire to what remained of his trousers, the negro was dropped to the ground and dragged to the main intersection where the body was saturated with gasoline and set fire. The rope was cut into short pieces and distributed as souvenirs.

The body laid in the street several hours as local undertakers refused to touch it. Finally state police put it in a truck and took it away.

Judge Duer later said he was "badly mistaken in my judgment of what would happen," but State's Attorney Robins could not be reached.

Gov. Ritchie, in Annapolis, said: "I am shocked beyond expression at this horrible lynching."

PAMPA TOPICS OF OUR CITY By O.E.H.

TWINKLES
Slow settlement of America after its discovery may have been due to lack of Florida land agents or chambers of commerce.

It was a political sin for Ross Sterling to win his first fortune. And many Texans will never forgive him for making a comeback in oil after being defeated for governor.

We owe thanks to John B. Hesse, who, annually journeys down to the L. L. Palmer orchards north of Amarillo and brings us back a jug of apple cider.

Deception and prosperity have always gone together. Fake sales schemes are popping up all over the country. And the ladies are taking to wearing of false hair again.

Up in New York, writes our correspondent, the natives get a lot of fun out of heckling the radical soap-box orators. And out here, it seems, we take them too seriously.

Our official medical adviser says that "there is no better cure for all the evils under the sun than laughter. But then there are laughs, and laughs, and laughs."

The West Foster grouch says that just as soon as some jobless folk start to earning money again they will worry over fear of not keeping their jobs; whereas, not having any jobs, they didn't have to worry over losing them.

BREVITIARIALS

Taking a cue from the successful prognosticating of Collier Paris in the Lubbock Journal, we give our readers the benefit of this exclusive dope on the Pampa-Amarillo football game:

Pampa will defeat Amarillo 12-12. We get it in this way: There are 16 letters in "Pampa Harvesters," and there are 16 letters in "Amarillo Sandies," indicating a very close game. Add the number of letters in "Germany" which is 7, to the number in "France," which is 6, and you get 13. Subtract the price of middling cotton

GIRLS WILL BE SEEN IN GRID FEATS FRIDAY

High School Party Is To Be Clever
Affair

CLEVER entertainment is being arranged for the high school party and football rally to be held at Green's pasture tomorrow evening.

It is rumored that a girls' football team will show the Harvesters a thing or two about the game.

The party, arranged by a group of parents and managed by Mr. and Mrs. John Moyar, will be for all high school students and their parents. It is not a community rally. The food will be provided by a group of business men.

Buses will leave the high school campus at 5:30 p. m. Friday to take the big group. Other buses will pick up students and parents at Harvesters park after the Gorilla-Amarillo Yarnigan football game. Those who wish coffee should take tin cups. Winers, buns, and pickles will be served.

The high school band will play and there will be cheering and stunts by the girls' pep squad. The party will be one of a number sponsored by the parents' committee on student recreation. Parents will help serve the refreshments.

Famed Official May Referee In Amarillo Game

Final arrangements for the Pampa-Amarillo football game here Armistice day, with the exception of final selection of officials, were made at a meeting of Pampa and Amarillo school officials in Amarillo last night. Supt. R. B. Fisher, Principal L. L. Sone, Coach Odus Mitchell, Business Manager Joe Smith, and C. P. Buckler, member of the school board, drove to Amarillo to the meeting.

It was agreed to set the admission price at 75 cents for adult admission and 25 cents for students' general admission. Reserve seats will be 25 cents extra. Both main grandstands will be reserved, with the ticket sale starting the morning of October 30. Most of the tickets to the east grandstand will be sent to Amarillo. No individual will be allowed to purchase more than 10 tickets.

The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock. Both boards said they would not take any part in sponsoring a broadcast, but that they would let the Pampa board decide.

An effort is being made to secure Benny Lee Boynton, William and Mary college, to handle the game. Boynton is one of the best referees of the Southwest conference. The other two officials have been tentatively named.

WHITEY WALKER IS ACCUSED OF $4,800 HOLDUP

Escaped Last August
To Go On Fishing
Trip

STILLWATER, Okla., Oct. 19 (P)—Two life term convicts—"Whitey" Walker and "Blackie" Thompson—who got out of McAlester penitentiary to go fishing and didn't come back, were accused today of a $4,800 robbery of Stillwater's farm community sale.

Victims of last night's fairgrounds robbery identified pictures of Walker (W. J.) and Thompson (Irvin) as resembling the men who strode into the sale building, each swinging a sub-machine gun and pistol.

Two small boys who approached during the holdup were prodded with machine guns and told to "keep quiet."

One of the robbers scooped the money into a canvas bag tied to his waist, while the other kept the crowd lined up against the wall. Bob Parker, who just had purchased a pet rabbit, held the frightened animal high overhead. Then the robbers escaped in a motor car.

Permitted outside state's prison walls to go fishing last August 31, Walker, a convicted bank robber, and Thompson, sentenced for the slaying of a Drumright policeman, fled in a taxicab with Ray A. Johnson, another life termer whose death sentence for the killing of Stephen Mann, Medford night watchman, was commuted.

Of last night's loot $1,800 was in cash, the rest in checks.

Civic Clubs To Aid Cafeteria— Need Is Growing

With school enrolment in the Pampa independent district as large as it has ever been and with many pupils coming from jobless homes, breakfasts will have to be furnished the children at several schools, it was reported to the Lions club today by President Clyde Fathereese.

The civic clubs will assist the cafeteria but will not be able to bear the entire burden of the expense.

Music entertainment today was furnished by Mrs. R. A. Webb and Mrs. Robert Sowder, who sang vocal duet numbers, and by Howard Zimmerman, baritone. Mrs. Webb played the piano accompaniments. Olin Hinkle was principal speaker, giving an outline of German-French relations and the Hitler government. Dr. R. A. Webb was program chairman.

Guests today included Congressman Marvin Jones. Others were M. K. Brown, C. P. Buckler, J. H. Blythe, C. T. Hunkapillar, Ralph Kennison, Judge Newton P. Willis, W. J. Smith, John Moyar, R. W. Walker, C. E. McGrew, W. R. Frazee, Frank Hill, Al Lawson, and Dr. W. Purviance.

DECISION ON PRICE CONTROL IS EXPECTED

ROOSEVELT EXPECTED TO TAKE ACTION TODAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—A presidential decision which may influence prices in a million and a half retail stores was expected today from the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt's task was to define the government's policy toward price regulation in a retail distribution code. Before him were arguments for and against minimum price mark-ups over invoice costs.

Hugh S. Johnson, recovery chief, said 99 per cent of the country's retailers wanted this form of price stabilization. Secretary Wallace was vigorously opposed. He said, however, an agreement submitted to the president would prohibit sales below invoice costs in order to ban the "loss leader" practice.

While President Roosevelt studied the retail issue the labor department announced an upward trend in wholesale prices began in March had "continued unbroken" through September with a two per cent advance in the weighted index of 784 commodities.

Based on 1926 average prices as 100, the department said the index went from 95.5 in August to 70.8 in September, averaging above 70 for the first time since November, 1931, and representing an 18 per cent increase over last February's low.

"Between August and September," it said, "increases were reported in 194 instances, decreases in 152 other instances, while in 338 instances no change in price was shown."

At NRA offices plans were advanced for enforcing President's order providing a $500 fine and six months imprisonment for violators of blue eagle regulations. These regulations, issued by the president last night and supplemented by Johnson, forbid the display of the blue eagle by persons not complying with its provisions and require its removal on Johnson's order.

Victim Out-Talks Kidnapers

William Walton Hall, young Chicago law student, heir to $200,000 was reunited with his young son, Elly, shown in the picture, and his wife, yesterday while his story of having been kidnaped by three men was investigated. His release, he said, was effected when he spent all day Sunday impressing upon the lone jailer left to guard him, the seriousness of the crime of kidnaping.

Floyd Presents Surrender Terms Governor States

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 18 (AP)—"Pretty Boy" Floyd, a name temporarily crowded out of Oklahoma's crime news by the "Machine Gun" Kellys and Harvey Rayley, was back today, linked with a story of wounds and a spurned offer to surrender.

Gov. William H. Murray said the desperado, wanted for murder and bank robberies of not-so-recent date, had offered to "give himself up" through an emissary after a state operative had wounded him in a gunfight near Coalgate, Okla., several weeks ago. But the surrender offer, said Murray, was on condition the state would not seek the death penalty.

"I couldn't make a deal like that," he governor added. "We'll get him, though."

Murray, who disclosed neither the name of the Floyd intermediary nor the identity of the officer who, he said, yesterday wounded "Pretty Boy" in the leg and shoulder, declared the outlaw was hiding in the southeastern Oklahoma hills.

Although he was blamed for the murder of Rev. Kelly, former McIntosh county sheriff and a wave of bank hold-ups in 1931 and 1932, little has been heard from Floyd since George Biedwell, his chief lieutenant, was shot to death in a bank raid in the all-negro community of Beley, a year ago.

Former Abilene Attorney Slain, Woman Is Killed

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 18 (AP)—Verdict of a coroner was awaited today in the deaths of Miss Lillian Wells, 31, bank employee, and Sam J. Cleeton, 38, former Kansas City attorney, whose friendship of more than a year's duration ended yesterday in a double shooting in a hotel room here.

A hotel detective sent scurrying to the room when a woman's cries were heard over the house telephone found Miss Wells lying on a bed, shot to death, and Cleeton face downward on the floor, dying. Near his hand lay a pearl-handled revolver inscribed: "From Chief Sibley to S. J. Cleeton."

Miss Francis Wells, sister of the slain woman, heard newsmen crying headlines about a shooting, as she worked in a store a block from the hotel. She bought a paper and became hysterical when she learned her sister was the woman killed.

Officers learned the pistol was given to Cleeton by Police Chief Rusk Sibley of Abilene, where Cleeton formerly lived. Cleeton was a native of Moberly, Mo., practiced law in Kansas City for a time, after the world war; and successively lived in Florida, Abilene, Hobbs, N. M., Tyler, Tex., and San Antonio.

Police said Miss Wells told friends before going to the hotel to meet Cleeton that she planned to end their friendship. Funeral arrangements for Miss Wells were delayed pending return of her mother from Hobbs, N. M., and officials still were attempting to locate relatives of Cleeton.

A NATION-WIDE NAZI ARMY IN AUSTRIA FOUND

STORM TROOPS DRILL REGULARLY IN FORESTS

VIENNA, Oct. 18 (AP)—A nationwide Nazi military organization has been developed in Austria, it was disclosed today, despite the handicap of the party's dissolution in this country.

The widespread movement came to light as government investigations continued into alleged Nazi plots at the Linz garrison and elsewhere to seize arms for use in "further action."

Outstanding in the disclosures is the fact that Nazi storm troops no longer are being organized by civilians, but are in the hands of Austria army officers—either active or recently retired.

Higher officers, it appeared, either are not involved or as a matter of policy are being shielded from compromising themselves. Lieutenants and captains make up the active membership.

A second fact is that these Nazi storm troops are officered by army men and drill regularly.

Kuernerberger forest, near Linz, for example, has been the scene of such Nazi maneuvers.

A curious detail of these drills, investigators say, is the use of "Fascist Heimwehr" sentries surrounding the drill ground in the middle of the forest to keep away casual hikers. These sentries of course are all Nazis disguised in the paraphernalia of Prince Von Star Hemberg's unoutlawed home guards.

They customarily assemble at daybreak, arriving inconspicuously in small groups and departing similarly.

"The third fact uncovered in the investigations, it was said, is that the under cover military organization—enlisting civilians but organized from within the army and allegedly preserving contact with Germany—is divided into brigades.

(Lieutenant Franz Fritsch of Alpine regiment seven, arrested in connection with the Linz garrison plot, was acting commander of the upper Austrian brigade of Nazis.)

A Bird Can't Fly With One Wing

'Ladies Must Love' At LaNora Today

Goldigger Musical, Rumored to be the Novelty Expose of the Season Starts Today.

What are the details of the private lives of New York's gold-digging damsels? What goes on in "Ladies of the Evening"? What are the secrets of Broadway's professional purveyors of pulchritude?

The answers of these interesting questions are provided in "Ladies Must Love." Universal's gay musical picture which runs today and Thursday at the La Nora theatre with June Knight, Neil Hamilton, Dorothy Burgess, Mary Carlisle and Sally O'Neil in featured roles.

In the story the three latter girls are seen as out-and-out gold-diggers, loving 'em and leaving 'em when they run out of money, but the more charitable Miss Knight, who shares their luxurious Park Avenue penthouse, exhibits traces of a conscience, and refuses to accept the lavish gifts of the wealthy Neil Hamilton. It is when this situation strikes rough water and June loses her man through a misunderstanding, that the other three girls, each blaming the other for the loss of a promising meal ticket, stage a knock-down and drag-out fight that entirely wrecks their apartment.

With Miss Knight as the principal soloist, "Ladies Must Love" abounds with tuneful songs, which have already become popular over the country. These include "Tonight May Never Come Again," "I've Got Personality," "I'd Worship Him Just the Same" and "Three Little Maids"—the latter sung by the other girls in a riotously active beer garden, scenes of their first real work in a long time.

"Ladies Must Love" is said to be the ultimate in gay, wise-tracking, intensely modern screen entertainment.

U S CONTROL OF REFINERY RUNS ORDERED

SUPPLY, DEMAND WILL BE BALANCED IN EACH DISTRICT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Secretary Ickes, the oil administrator, today issued an order looking toward control of refinery runs as a part of the administration's program to balance supply and demand for both crude oil and its refined products.

The order directed the interior department to divide the nation into refining districts and set up proper ratios between gasoline inventories and sales for each district.

The planning and coordination committee under the oil code, composed of leading oil men, was authorized by Ickes to recommend to all refiners the amount of crude runs necessary to maintain the proper ratio in the various districts.

Violation of these recommendations would be declared an unfair trade practice in violation of the oil code.

The text of the order follows: "Pursuant to article 4 of the code

LANGER SAYS TROOPS WILL ENFORCE EMBARGO

WHEAT SHIPMENTS TO
BE HALTED, SAYS
GOVERNOR

BISMARCK, N. D., Oct. 19 (AP)—Wheat moved across the North Dakota border today despite the embargo of Gov. William Langer, who told his adjutant general to call out national guardsmen to enforce his edict.

As the railroads announced their belief that the embargo was illegal and chose to obey the laws of congress respecting interstate commerce, Gov. Langer, of Minnesota, formally declined Langer's invitation to join in the embargo. He urged federal control of production, marketing, and price fixing to aid the farmer.

Railroad executives said they would continue to accept wheat in North Dakota and ship it until interfered with, when recourse to courts by them or a shipper was probable.

Langer, in reply, said his troops would halt shipments as soon as a direct report of violation was made. Railroad men at Fargo said wheat was moving into Minnesota from there.

Presidents of four railroads serving the state sent Langer a message reiterating that the carriers must abide by federal laws despite the embargo.

The message, signed by W. P. Kenney of the Great Northern and Charles Donnelly of the Northern Pacific, said: "We fully realize the paramount necessity of higher grain prices for our farmers and if the people of North Dakota obey your command, common carriers will in no way be involved in this matter."

The reference was to shippers withholding consignments and not offering them. An offer, however, meant the railroads must accept the grain, they said.

SCORES NRA

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 19 (AP)—Agricultural areas today were described as a "seething mass of unrest" by Gov. Chas. W. Bryan in a general attack on the entire national recovery program.

One of the robbers scooped the money into a canvas bag tied to his waist, while the other kept the crowd lined up against the wall. Bob Parker, who just had purchased a pet rabbit, held the frightened animal high overhead. Then the robbers escaped in a motor car.

Permitted outside state's prison walls to go fishing last August 31, Walker, a convicted bank robber, and Thompson, sentenced for the slaying of a Drumright policeman, fled in a taxicab with Ray A. Johnson, another life termer whose death sentence for the killing of Stephen Mann, Medford night watchman, was commuted.

Of last night's loot $1,800 was in cash, the rest in checks.

This agent, Frank Wilson, of Cape Ponine income tax investigation fame, was taken off the case this week by Elmer L. Irey, chief of the internal revenue bureau's intelligence unit, and returned to his former duties with the unit's field office in Baltimore.

They refused to discuss the matter further, but it was learned Wilson's withdrawal had White House approval.

At the same time Attorney General Cummings, after conferences with the president, ordered J. Edgar Hoover, director of the justice department's division of investigation, to assume jurisdiction over federal activities in the Lindbergh case, with a view to giving New Jersey authorities full benefit of data on known kidnappers amassed by the division since passage of the federal kidnapping law.

Justice investigators offered their services at Hopewell during early phases of the Lindbergh tragedy, along with other federal officers of the various departments, but they withdrew from the case many months ago.

'MA' FERGUSON AND MRS. W. T. WAGGONER DISCUSS CHILDREN AND HAY FEVER ON BACK PORCH

'Ma' Wanted Son To Follow in 'Pa's' Footsteps

FORT WORTH, Oct. 19 (AP)—Grandchildren, hay fever remedies and the view from the back porch of the hostess' home monopolized conversation today when Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson went calling on Mrs. W. T. Waggoner, wife of the Fort Worth capitalist who built Arlington Downs race track.

Waggoner, who is recovering from a paralytic stroke suffered some time ago, and Mrs. Waggoner received the governor and her husband informally. The capitalist, though not completely recovered, was taken to the Downs for the opening of the meet today.

While James E. Ferguson, husband of the governor, brought to Waggoner the greetings of the state legislature, the governor and Mrs. Waggoner chatted intimately in an adjoining room. The talk turned to grandchildren.

"I have a grandson whom we think is a most precious child," Mrs. Ferguson said. "He's only 13 and in high school. But, of course, we always think our crow is the blackest."

"And what do you think of this for a grandchild?" Mrs. Waggoner said, taking a picture of her five-year-old granddaughter off the piano.

When the conversation turned to kindergartens, Mrs. Ferguson expressed her approval of this institution as a means of furthering democracy by giving every child a chance to "rub shoulders" with the other children in the community.

Speaking of her own children again, Mrs. Ferguson said that she always had been sorry that she didn't have at least one son "to follow in his father's footsteps."

Most of the visit was spent on the porch of the Waggoner home so that the governor might be in the sun.

"A little sunshine might help your hay fever," Mrs. Waggoner suggested. The governor was suffering with an attack of hay fever.

SPEECHES MADE AT 'COWTOWN' EVENTS

Garner Pays Tribute To President Roosevelt

BY R. W. BARRY,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 19 (AP)—Vice President John N. Garner and James A. Farley, postmaster general, were off to the races today.

They were guests of W. T. Waggoner at Arlington Downs for the opening of a race card at that fine place, constructed by the pioneer Texan, Waggoner.

At Arlington Downs they were greeted for the first time on the trip by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson.

Garner and Farley were guests at a largely attended breakfast tendered by the young democratic club of Tarrant county. They, plus Will Rogers, the humorist, who flew here from Hollywood for the occasion, and other notables, made addresses.

The Fergusons were stopping at the hotel where the breakfast was in progress, but they did not attend.

Raymond E. Buck, president of the young democratic club, said no special invitation was extended to the governor and her party.

"They were invited just like anybody else," he said. "This is a public meeting."

The crowd that sought to eat breakfast with the party was so great that it overflowed the main dining room, two adjoining eating rooms, into the lobby and out on the sidewalks. Loud-speakers, however, carried words of the distinguished guests to all listeners.

Rogers told the breakfasters that "whenever you see a stranger stomping around town, just put him down as an assistant postmaster general, and guess at his number."

"All these assistants are here, except number three, I believe, and he is in Washington looking after the mails," Rogers said. "He stayed there to see that you get your letters. These other fellows do not even get their own mail. All they do is to dispose of office seekers. The only way John Garner got to be vice president was he wanted to be postmaster at Uvalde."

Garner made a speech in his life, "I never wrote a speech in my life, and doubt if I could write one," Garner said.

"The man at the White House has a heart as well as a brain. The greatest impression Franklin Roosevelt has made on me is that he has the courage to do what is right. He may make mistakes, but he has the time and again that he is going to do the best he can, and if he fails he is going to be the first to admit it."

Turning to the vernacular of the poker table to explain his confidence in President Roosevelt, he said: "I argue with him, persuade with him, and sometimes I've sold him a stack to try to bluff him, but when all is said and done if he goes down to perdition, I'll be right by his side."

Farley, in his breakfast speech, referred "to some of the great Texans who are occupying important places in the executive branch of the government in Washington."

"I cannot leave this meeting without telling you how great an affection we have in Washington for the leaders whom you have given to us in the nation's capital and have done so much since March 4."

PLAY'S HERO HAS MASTERED ART OF MAKING LOVE IN 1890 STYLE

THE LITTLE Theater is breathing easier now. The hero of the 1890 melodrama, "Gold In The Hills Or The Dead Sister's Secret," to be presented Monday and Tuesday nights in the city auditorium, is now making love to the satisfaction of all the cast. For Charles Barrett (Jack Dalton in the play) has learned to tell Nellie, the farmer's daughter (Beth Blythe) that he loves her—and in a sensational manner.

Like the heroes who were popular a half century ago, Charles gestures melodramatically, grabs his temples, gets on his knees, knocks down the villain in the first act and chokes him in the third. In the second he is equally active for then he rescues Nellie from a dive on the Bowery, but he refuses to go with her because "that would be too much! Too much!"

Now as for Nellie—well, Miss Blythe is the "find" of the Little Theater. The tones she employs and her gestures "put over" the play as much as any other thing. In the last act, Miss Blythe will wear an expensive silk waist with puffed sleeves and high collar, owned by Mrs. P. C. Leadrick, that was worn in the 90s. The 27 members of the cast will wear costumes popular 40 years ago.

Miss Virginia Rose as Barbara, sister of Nell, is prepared to give a sensational performance. Her scream when she sees "the face at the window" is the best, says Neal Bean, that has ever been heard in the Little Theater. Miss Rose will sing "The Vacant Chair" and "I Cannot Sing The Old Song." Mr. Bean will say five pages of things in that bartender-voice of his before he sings "Two Little Girls In Blue" in the bar-room manner.

Price of admission will be 45 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

JUDGE FLAYED BY GOVERNOR IN LYNCHING

NEGRO IS TAKEN FROM JAIL, HANGED AND THEN BURNED

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—The state executive committee of the socialist party of Maryland today adopted a resolution calling for the impeachment of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie for "criminal neglect of duty." The resolution followed the lynching in Princess Anne last night of George Armwood, a negro. The committee also resolved that Judge Robert F. Duer and State's Attorney John B. Robins, of Somerset county, where the lynching took place, be removed from office and "prosecuted" on charges of second degree manslaughter.

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—Responsibility for the lynching of George Armwood, negro who was dragged from the jail here last night and hanged from a tree near the town limits, was placed today by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie squarely on the shoulders of Judge Robert F. Duer and State's Attorney John B. Robins of Princess Anne.

Gov. Ritchie directed Judge Duer, a member of the bench of the first judicial district, and State's Attorney Robins "to take immediate action to set in motion the necessary legal machinery for the apprehension of those who were responsible for or who participated in the lynching."

Armwood, brought back here from Baltimore less than 17 hours earlier to face accusations of attacking an aged white woman, was wrenched from the protection of 25 state policemen last night and his body was finally left in a gasoline-soaked pyre on the main business corner.

The mob of more than 1,000 men, women, and youths, stopped tempo- rarily by a tear gas attack from the state police, stormed the jail, battered down the heavy steel doors and, after ripping most of the clothes from his body and fastening a rope around his neck, dragged the negro into the street.

Judge Duer, interrupting his dinner to drive to the scene, made a personal plea to the mob to let the negro remain in jail—promising a speedy trial for the prisoner. Dr. George W. Jarman, prominent physician, also spoke informally to the mob but he, also, was received with jeers.

Shortly after their departure, the mob began pressing the police lines around the jail. The officers retreated to the jail door and then tossed tear gas bombs at the attackers.

Fausting only a few minutes, the mob got two large pieces of timber from a nearby lumber yard and rushed toward the outer steel doors, battering them down. The second jail doors were opened from the inside.

Deputy Sheriff Norman Dryden, warden of the jail, said some men took the keys out of his pocket, adding "it was just scared they were going to get the wrong man."

Sheriff Luther Daugherty appeared on the scene and tried to persuade the invaders to leave but they pressed on to the second floor and soon returned with the negro. He was pushed on the head and chest but made no outcry.

Partly pulling him on a run and partly dragging him in the road, the mob led him out the main street to the home of Judge Duer. There was no large tree there so they threw the rope over a limb of an oak tree on the adjoining lawn.

The rope was cut into short pieces and distributed as souvenirs.

The body laid in the street several hours as local undertakers refused to touch it. Finally state police put it in a truck and took it away.

Judge Duer later said he was "badly mistaken in my judgment of what would happen," but State's Attorney Robins could not be reached.

Gov. Ritchie, in Annapolis, said: "I am shocked beyond expression at this horrible lynching."

Pampa will defeat Amarillo 13-12. We get it in this way: There are 16 letters in "Pampa Har- vesters", and there are 16 letters in "Amarillo Sandies", indicating a very close game. GIRLS WILL BE SEEN IN GRID FEATS FRIDAY

High School Party Is To Be Clever Affair

CLEVER entertainment is being arranged for the high school party and football rally to be held at Green's pasture tomorrow evening. It is rumored that a girls' football team will show the Harvesters a thing or two about the game.

The party, arranged by a group of parents and managed by Mr. and Mrs. John Moyer, will be for all high school students and their parents. It is not a community rally. The food will be provided by a group of business men.

Buses will leave the high school campus at 5:30 p. m. Friday to take the big group. Other buses will pick up students and parents at Harvest- ter park after the Gorilla-Amarillo Yarnigan football game. Those who wish coffee should take tin cups. Wieners, buns, and pickles will be served.

The high school band will play and there will be cheering and stunts by the girls' pep squad. The party will be one of a number sponsored by the parents' committee on student recreation. Parents will help serve the refreshments.

Famed Official May Referee In Amarillo Game

Final arrangements for the Pampa-Amarillo football game here Armistice day, with the exception of final selection of officials, were made at a meeting of Pampa and Amarillo school officials in Amarillo last night. Supt. R. B. Fisher, Principal L. L. Sone, Coach Odus Mitchell, Business Manager Joe Smith, and C. P. Buckler, member of the school board, drove to Amarillo to the meeting.

It was agreed to set the admission price at 75 cents for adult general admission and 25 cents for student general admission. Reserve seats will be 25 cents extra. Both main grandstands will be reserved, with the ticket sale starting the morning of October 30. Most of the tickets to the east grandstand will be sent to Amarillo. No individual will be allowed to purchase more than 10 tickets.

The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock. Both boards said they would not take any part in sponsoring a broadcast, but that they would let the Pampa board decide.

An effort is being made to secure Benny Lee Boynton, William and Mary college, to handle the game. Boynton is one of the best referees of the Southwest conference. The other two officials have been tentatively named.

U. S. To Widen Investigation In Lindy Case

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Recent success in rounding up kidnapers has prompted the department of justice to undertake a fuller, coordinated investigation of the 20-month-old Lindbergh kidnapping.

Sanctioned by President Roosevelt in his desire to consolidate all kidnapping investigations under the justice department, the move follows disclosure of the withdrawal from the case of the lone income tax investigator that has been working on it.

This agent, Frank Wilson, of Cape Ponine income tax investigation fame, was taken off the case this week by Elmer L. Irey, chief of the internal revenue bureau's intelligence unit, and returned to his former duties with the unit's field office in Baltimore.

WILD GEESSE OVER

Signifying the approach of an early frost and a hard winter the first wild geese of the fall season were seen passing over the town Wednesday. Farmers have hopes that the geese are not good weather prophets in order that the rapidly maturing crops may be gathered in before a cold spell strikes here.

—State Line Tribune.

The weather prophet is a fine fellow who often thinks he is right in touch with Mother Nature and knows by the thickness of the fur on a cat's back that a hard or light winter is on the way. He also knows by the feathers on the breast of a hen what kind of winter is on the way. He judges the husks on the corn, the honking of geese and the rings around the moon and by all the signs and wonders of the stars speaks forth as to the state of weather the old winter will produce. The Indian, who had to provide meat for winter use, lost no time in going on the hunt for his "vision" pictured his lucky animal's spirit out in the cold or snow. The Indian studied weather conditions and was in close touch with the little people of the woods, the prairie and under world. He walked and talked with nature's children and knew their language, their signs and symbols. The medicine man might have been a fake, the superstitions he held sacred nothing but brain illusions born of ignorance, but to him a voice called and he answered. So the old superstitions that have come down through the ages somehow found their way to the new world and we today smile at the weather prophet who says by all that is high and holy that he knows by a goose feather that the winter will be hard; and when geese fly high over the town and hurry onward toward a warmer land of sunshine and food provided for their coming that a change from fall to winter is due most any time. So we watch the wedge disappear in the distance and listen for the familiar cry of the leader of the flock and hope that frost will stay away until the fodder is in the shock and the pumpkin is nice and tender and "fitten" for pie. The old world of ours is a wonderful place and filled with wonderful things that we often fail to understand.—Higgins News.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (AP)—Stocks broke in a last minute selling wave today and many leading issues touched new lows for the movement after having rallied substantially in the early afternoon. The late dip was attributed partly to the touching off of a number of impaired margin accounts. Losses of 1 to 4 or more points predominated in a heavy closing. Transfers approximated 2,700,000 shares.

Oil Wells Are Resurrected In Eastland Area

DALLAS, TEX., Oct. 18 (AP)—The ghosts of dead oil wells in the rugged, Eastland, Cisco and Breckenridge fields of west Texas, dead these twelve years since, have been revived before the research committee of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, in session here.

Resurrection of such wells in the last year was explained by Tom Petty, geologist at Cisco for the Humble Oil company. He said the treatment of oil wells with hydrochloric acid was restoring much of their apparently departed flow.

He described the pumping of several hundred gallons of hydrochloric acid into a 20-barrel-a-day Humble well in southeastern Throckmorton county, near Albany, and the well's response to that treatment by a revival of potential production at a rate of 1,800 barrels a day.

Petty's subject was the acid treatment of limestone oil reservoirs and he explained that the acid, under forced pressure, penetrated rock fissures, dissolved the rock and opened up entrances into hidden oil pools bound in very irregular spaces in the rock. He said wells treated in that manner opened up other rock bound pools and greatly increased the flow in wells more than a quarter of a mile distant.

The treatment is effective only in limestone areas, Petty said, such as the Fisher county and Noodle Creek fields of Texas, the Zwolle field of Louisiana and certain pools in Michigan.

M. G. Cheney of Coleman, Texas, vice-chairman of the research committee, asserted that "at least four-fifths of the oil in each field has not been recovered and geologists are working to turn the oil industry from a 'game' into a business."

M. K. Stratton of Mt. Vernon, O., recalls when wagon loads of barrels filled with the bodies of wild passenger pigeons were shipped to eastern markets. The bird has been extinct since about 1874.

COTTON MILLS AND OIL ARE NOW WATCHED

CONTROL OF STEEL IS EXPECTED IN NEAR FUTURE

By JAMES COPE Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—A drastic application of the industrial control principle to everyday trade is now under way, with cotton textiles, the trying ground of the experiment.

From now on no man may start a new cotton mill without approval of Hugh S. Johnson after a committee of cotton men elected to supervise operation of the industry's code have made recommendations. Not only that, but no mill owner may increase his productive machinery without the same approval, recorded in a certificate bearing the administrator's signature.

Johnson approved regulations to this effect yesterday while President Roosevelt and his recovery aides worked hours over price policies for retail stores. The president's decision on the retail issue was not expected before tomorrow.

The new rule for the cotton industry, for so long as the code continues, and the president approves, requires, in exact language, an administrator's certificate "prior to the installation of additional productive machinery by persons engaged or engaging in the cotton textile industry."

Officials interpret the regulation as closing cotton textiles to newcomers except through the purchase of existing interests and says it means production may be kept to market demand.

It is a far cry, officials recognize, from the day hardy yet gone by when any man with a will and some means or integrity could in this land set himself up to do most anything he had a mind to.

But this new order, they say, is fundamental if the ruin of plenty which has engulfed the country is to be controlled, and if reasoned planning is to take the place of industrial anarchy.

The only thing yet done that compares with the sweeping mastery of the new order is the production allocation established by the federal government over the oil industry, which, as an exploiter of natural resources, is regarded as invested with a semi-public character. Coming next is the steel industry's prohibition of new installations for pig iron or despatch steel production, a control more or less automatically enforced by the current low condition of the industry.

Officials believe this production control now is applicable only to what are described as the highly integrated industries—the ones whose figures on production, consumption, employment, costs and other basic statistics are easily learned, whose processes are substantially the same in every mill, and whose organization for self-government is so well established that there is little or no room for evasion.

Relatively few quality now, but as more and more industries come under codes—nearly sixty are now covered and hundreds more are awaiting approval of proposed compacts—it is regarded as possible and likely that control of output will spread.

The one concern of the administration is that coded industries shall not run wild in the suppression of competition. For that reason administration scrutiny is assured in every case presented.

Mexicans Grant Student Demands

MEXICO, D. F., Oct. 19 (AP)—Despite rumors of impending political troubles, minister of war Pablo Quirón declared today that "absolute calm prevails throughout Mexico."

Three battalions of troops were dispatched to the presidential palace yesterday and all federal district police were ordered to their headquarters.

But, it was explained officially, these moves merely marked precautions against possible disorders in a scheduled demonstration of striking national university students.

Meanwhile, the chamber of deputies passed and sent to the senate a bill which would make the university completely autonomous.

The measure would grant the university 10,000,000 pesos (currently about $2,800,000) over the next four years, after which the government subsidy of 4,000,000 pesos ($1,120,000) would be withdrawn.

This was seen as a challenge to the students to end disorders which have kept the institution in a tumult for days.

A MATTER OF WOOD SUTTONS BAY, Mich., Oct. 19 (AP)—It's going to be a "green" winter. Jake Chippewa, descendant of old Chief Wa-Son-King, of the Chippewa Indians, bases his forecast on the low houses built by the muskrats, indicating little ice; the small quantity of nuts stored by squirrels; light moss on the trees; a yellow hunting moon and the dullness of deer's hooves.

Confidentially, Jake adds that he has to predict an open winter each year so his wife won't insist that he cut up more fire wood.

Outrageous Fortune

—By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

SYNOPSIS: The first step toward proving that her cousin Jim is not Neta Riddell's husband is, Caroline thinks, to trace Neta's marriage record. She starts to London to do it, pondering meanwhile, Neta's further statement that Jim has stolen the Van Berg emeralds and shot Elmer Van Berg, Jim himself cannot be sure what he did, for his memory is mostly gone. In the train a Mrs. Rodgers drops the information that the police are taking fingerprints from some glasses, found in the Van Berg library. And Jim does remember drinking with Van Berg! Caroline hastily follows Mrs. Rodgers from the train.

Chapter 26
FINGERPRINT BOOK
Caroline had the sensation of having made a horrible error. That she should have followed her old nurse's sister was a piece of the most devastating bad luck. Perhaps she didn't know her.

"I knew you at once, miss, although I could see as you didn't know me. You haven't changed a mile since Harry 'ud bring you in for a cup of tea and some of my mint honey. I've put on a bit since those days so I made sure you did not know me."

"I'm a-going to tell you what Mrs. Henry told me, and I'm not a-going to ask you why you want to know, because maybe I know already and maybe I don't—and anyway least said, soonest mended."

"What I said in the train is neither here nor there. There isn't a servant up at the Hall. As I don't know there was a tray and glasses in the study the night Mr. Van Berg was shot, and the housemaid seen with her own eyes how the police took the finger-prints—a clapper-tongued woman if there ever was one—so there ain't no secrets there. No—it was the butler told Mrs. Henry what I'm a-telling to you."

"What did she tell you?"
"When they had finished taking the finger-prints and all the rest of it, the inspector he sees all the servants separate, and then he has the butler back and he says, 'I understand,' he says, 'as Mr. Van Berg kep' a book with all his friends' finger-prints in it.'"

"That's right," says Jackson, "that's the butler's name, 'well, says the inspector, 'I want to see that book.'"

"And Jackson, he says, 'It's always a-laying on Mr. Van Berg's table, and whenever he has a visitor or he gets him to make his mark and sign his name.' And the inspector laughs and says, 'Very handy for us, Mr. Jackson.'"

Caroline's eyes widened.
"And then it wasn't so handy after all," said Mrs. Rodgers—"for he and he'd and the book wasn't nowhere to be seen."

The blood came back into Caroline's cheeks with a rush.
"And where was it?" she demanded.

"Pushed right down be'ind all the books at the back of the bookshelf. They went on looking till they'd

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly fresh and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. If it should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your blood daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out—your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't take for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name "Carter's Little Liver Pills" on the red label. Resist a substitute. Read the drug store.

BEER, CIGARET AND RACING TAX MONEY REPLENISHING TREASURY

"And I'd better have held my tongue. No need to tell me that." "Oh, I didn't mean that—I didn't truly. Oh, dear, Mrs. Rodgers—I didn't mean anything like that."

Mrs. Rodgers relaxed a little. "In for a penny, in for a pound. What did I say?" "Something about Mrs. Van Berg's maid."

"A French 'ussy," said Mrs. Rodgers. "And if Mrs. Van Berg 'ad 'arf of the things that 'ussy's been 'int'ing—Not that it's only foreigners that's given to it, for that there Miss Russell that's housekeeper at the Hall she's the worse of the two, and the dear knows how Mrs. Henry's stood it, for I wouldn't."

"What did the maid say?" "Miss Louise, they call her. Well she don't say nothing. That's just her aggravatingness—she'll 'int and 'int until you're sick, sore and sorry. And then she'll slip out of the whole thing and pretend she never said nothing."

"What does she hint?" "Mrs. Rodgers gave a sort of short."

"Tut? She's as good as said it wasn't no secret to her what name was tore out, and then went back on it."

"How could she know what name had been torn out?" "There isn't much goes on in the house as she don't know—picking, and prying, and 'int'ing! 'Orrid, I call it! Letting on she knows things about Mrs. Van Berg too!"

"What sort of things?" "She's a wicked 'ussy," said Mrs. Rodgers. "and I wouldn't repeat what she says, if it weren't for a warning. You might know someone as wanted warning, or you might not. If you don't, there's no harm done. Now, my dear—whether the police have got wind of it or not, I don't say but what that 'ussy keeps 'int'ing is just this, that her mistress, Mrs. Van Berg, knows a sight more than she lets on."

"A gentleman quarrels with another gentleman about a lady and shoots him—what a good idea 'to hide the emeralds and say a thief has done it' she says. And when Mrs. Henry and me presses her, she says she's talking about a story he has been reading in a magazine—and how I kep' my hands off her, I don't know and I can't say."

Caroline got up a little uncertainly. She held to the cross bar of the stile and leaned against it. She wanted to get away from Mrs. Rodgers before she said anything else.

Jim wasn't in love with Susie Berg—it couldn't be true that he was, or that he had quarreled with Elmer Van Berg and shot him, and hidden away the emeralds to make it look like a burglary.

She said, "there'll be another trail—I must catch it."

Mrs. Rodgers got up too. (Copyright 1933, J. B. Lippincott Co.) Mrs. Rodgers divulges one more terrible bit of news, tomorrow.

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (AP)—Texas is beginning to replenish her long-time-in-arrears treasury with beer, cigarette, boxing and racing tax money.

It never was against the law to smoke cigarettes in Texas, but the smokers have not been paying duty on "cotton nails" so very long. It is a comparatively new thing to plank down three cents for every package of 20 "ready mades" bought over the counter.

Until just a few weeks ago it was unlawful to buy beer, box for money or race for money. Now it is perfectly legal and proper to do any of these things. If your conscience permits you may bet your dollars on the races.

Texas has been in the red financially for a long time. The legislators, not to mention the governor, other state officials and employees, have been obliged to discount their warrants in order to get spending money or pay for groceries, gasoline, molasses, shoes, clothing and the other necessities of life.

The old cash box is coming back, though, and it may not be very long before warrants drawn on the state treasury of Texas will bring one hundred cents on the dollar.

Back to beer, cigarettes and boxing! The first 15 days of the legalized beer season brought to the coffers approximately $168,000 in taxes. The cigarettes during September realized $346,000. Boxing and wrestling, $10,000 in cash for Texas during the first month (September) those sports were permitted under state law.

The racing season is just beginning. With permit and license fees for racing plants, jockeys, trainers and other race track attaches stepped up, as they would be in a new regulatory bill pending in the legislature the red figures on the general revenue fund ledger would fade to a fainter pink.

COTTON GINNING LESS
There were 366 bales of cotton, counting round as half bales, ginned in Gray county from the 1933 crop prior to October 1, 1933, as compared to 566 bales ginned to October 1, 1932, according to Royal H. Wilson, collector of cotton statistics for the bureau of the census.

RECENT CHURCH GROUP PROGRAMS ARE OF UNUSUAL INTEREST

PRESBYTERIANS TO ENTERTAIN GUEST GROUPS

TWO MEETINGS WILL BE HELD HERE NEXT MONTH

ENTERTAINMENT of two groups of visiting church members was planned by the Women's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church in a meeting yesterday afternoon.

One will be an inspirational meeting for the entire church on Nov. 7, with Rev. Mr. McMillen of Memphis, the Rev. Frank Travis of Childress, and a representative of the Presbyterian as guests. The Auxiliary will serve a covered dish luncheon.

Women to Meet.

The second meeting will be on November 15, when Presbyterian women from LeFors, McLean, Panhandle, and White Deer will be entertained here.

Mrs. Fraut was leader of a missionary program. She spoke of work in progress in India, while Mrs. L. L. McCollin discussed missions in Alaska.

Mrs. Frank Smith, a former member who is visiting here from Artesia, N. M., contributed a vocal solo to the program. Mrs. Smith was one of five visitors present with members for the meeting.

Mrs. James Carl Jones and Neely were hostesses for the afternoon, and served a delicious refreshment course during the social hour.

Twenty Kid Band Members to Get Fresh Uniforms

Twenty members of Woodrow Wilson Kid band were measured Tuesday for new uniforms. The tailored suits, red and white, will be ready for appearance of the band on programs here and in response to invitations from other cities.

Other activities at Woodrow Wilson school have centered around fire prevention week recently. Posters made by the pupils are to be sent to the state fire convention, Mrs. Annie Daniels, principal, announces.

Fire drills have been emphasized also, and the 300 students are now able to leave the building in order, in 47 seconds.

Public speaking classes, new in the school this year, are still proving of interest to pupils who are practicing various kinds of talks, plays, and readings.

Skit and Music On AAUW Program

A dramatic skit and music will be on program for the American Association of University Women dinner this evening. The meeting will be at the Schneider hotel at 7:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Earl O'Keefe will give the invocation, and orchestra music will follow. A dramatic skit arranged by Ben Guill will be presented. Miss Lorene McClintock will play a piano solo.

Mrs. Tom Rose will conduct a brief parliamentary drill for members.

Reports for the attendance contest under way in the club indicated that the group captained by Mrs. Henry Thut is leading.

Carolina Waif Going To Texas And Glad Of It

GREENVILLE, S. C., Oct. 19. (AP)—James Aken, 13-year-old Aurora, Ill., lad was a homeless waif a long way from home yesterday, but today he wouldn't trade place with the "poorest little rich boy" in the world.

It all happened this way: He was walking along the streets here when a show wagon operated by Hank Farris, of Conroe, Tex., caught his eye—especially the license plate on Farris' wagon or, more properly, truck.

"Mister, are you from Texas?" asked the boy, envisioning a land where men are men and, no doubt, where cowboys are still cowboys.

"Yeah, son, I'm workin' back toward Texas."

"Mister, can I go with you?" he implored tremulously.

"No, I don't know about that," reckoned the showman. "You know, there's so much talk about kidnapping these days. But—"

Well, it ended in their going around to Mayor John Mauldin's office.

"Where are your father and mother?" the mayor wanted to know.

"They are dead, sir—buried in Aurora, Ill."

"If you are alone in the world," the mayor decided, after hearing his story, "I see no reason why you shouldn't go with this man to Texas or elsewhere."

Whereupon he reached in his pocket and pulled out a dollar bill. "Here, take this with you."

And City Clerk B. F. Dillard, standing by, adding a quarter to the lad's purse—or, rather, pocket.

MAKING A MOOSE WILD

DOVER-POXCROFT, Me., (AP)—A "shot" in the leg has cured the sick moose of Moosehead lake.

The beast spent the summer gazing docilely at tourists and nibbling crackers out of their hands.

Game wardens decided this was no behavior for a representative of Maine's wild life. So they lassoed the critter and a veterinarian injected a serum.

Now the moose is wild again.

Abe Daneiger of Tulsa is transacting business here for a few days.

Sally Rand was getting along fine with her fan dance at a New York theater when authorities decided that her fan was not enough. Well, here she is in frilly panties, and she hopes that the authorities are satisfied.

CISCO'S LINESMEN WILL OUT WEIGH HARVESTERS TEN POUNDS TO THE MAN

LOBOS HAVE BEEN BEATEN THREE TIMES

GAME ADMISSION HAS BEEN REDUCED TO 50 CENTS

The Cisco Big Dam Lobos will come to Pampa Saturday with a line that averages 174 pounds or 10 pounds to the man more than the Harvesters. The Lobo backfield is light, averaging only 146 pounds to the man.

Admission to the game has been reduced to 50 cents with reserved seats 25 cents extra. The price of admission had previously been set at 75 cents but the athletic board met this week and decided to reduce the price to 50 cents so that more fans can see the important tilt.

Both Pampa and Cisco have played four games with each team in the win column once. However, the Harvesters have a tie game while Cisco has three defeats. Neither team has showed scoring ability, the Harvesters having made 32 points to 20 for their opponents. Cisco has 34 points to 53 for the opposition.

Cisco opened the season with a 12 to 0 win over Gorman. Then San Angelo pulled a surprise 28 to 7 win over the Lobos. Brownwood nosed out Cisco 7 to 0 and the McMurry Freshmen only defeated the Lobos 19 to 14. The Harvesters tied McLean 6 to 6 in the opener and then lost to Capitol Hill of Oklahoma City 7 to 6. The Harvesters then defeated Spring 20 to 0 but last week lost to Shawnee 7 to 0.

Cisco's team is made up mostly of veterans. Rutledge, an end, weighs 175 pounds while Page, also an end, tips the scales at 165 pounds. Captain Latch and Brown, the two tackles, each weigh 180 pounds. Timmons, one guard, goes 190 pounds while Blackburn, another guard, weighs 175 pounds. The only small man in the line is Littlepage, center, who weighs only 150 pounds.

The Cisco quarterback is a mid-get but a little powerhouse. He is Harrison and weighs only 135 pounds. The halves, Parker and St. John, weigh 150 and 140, respectively. Fullback McMahon is a 160-pounder. Coach Shelly will bring eleven substitutes with him, one for each position on the team. The team will probably arrive here tonight or early tomorrow morning so that a workout can be started tomorrow afternoon to get the boys used to climatic conditions.

Individually, and out of Coach Mitchell's hearing, the Harvesters are not worried about the Cisco game, but Coach Mitchell's anxiety is no less now that it is before any game. The boys, it is plain to see, are looking ahead to the Amarillo game. There was a noticeable change in their demeanor Monday after they watched Amarillo rub out Sweetwater.

They have been vicious in scrimmage all week. They sit tensely in the dug-out and analyze the work of their mates on the field.

Yesterday there was a partially satisfactory scrimmage. For a while touchdown after touchdown sparked. A forward lateral pass was a beautiful thing to see. Gone was the momentary dallying that was so noticeable in the Oklahoma City game and McLean game. The whole team hits like a bullet. There is both power and speed.

Sartin was injured again yesterday, hobbling off the field with a bad leg.

The scrimmage yesterday looked vicious, but the boys said it was nothing to what they were used to. Despite the cool west wind sweat streaked the boys' faces and backs.

"I know that there is no more cordially loved person in Washington than the man who directs the work of the United States senate and who did so much to put across the great emergency legislation in the last special session of the congress."

"I want to say to you that every person connected with the administration is grateful for what the vice president has done and I want to pay a tribute to the man whom the nation and whom you know as the vice president of the United States, but whom I prefer to call my friend 'Jack Garner'."

"In these trying times when one of the most important parts of the president's recovery program is the re-financing of American business and making it possible for business, large and small, to fly the Blue Eagle, one of the men in Washington who is doing the most to help in this great work is another great American and also a great Texan. I want to pay tribute to a man who has done much for the nation and for the democracy party, one of President Roosevelt's right-hand men, the chairman of the reconstruction finance corporation and a native of your neighboring city of Houston—Jesse Jones."

CISCO WILL FACE THESE HARVESTER STARS SATURDAY

HANER

Bill Haner will replace Ray Eldridge in the Harvester starting lineup against Cisco at Harvester park Saturday afternoon. Eldridge is still nursing injuries received at Shawnee, Okla., and may not get in the game. Harold Gregory is the Harvester booter and a tricky ball carrier. He is celebrating his first and last year with the Harvesters. Orville Heiskell can take his place at fullback and also at center. Heiskell will probably carry most of the full-back duties Saturday because of Marbaugh's injury in scrimmage yesterday afternoon. Preston Owens is star end. He is fast and a hard hitter, and can snare passes as well.

MICKEY WALKER REMEMBERS BATTLES HE HAD WITH GREB

Fighters Danced All Night After 15-Round Bout and Then Fought On Street.

By EDWARD J. NEIL

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (P)—Mickey Walker, the toy bulldog from New Jersey, may be getting old as fighters go. Ring lights have glared down on him as welterweight champion, middleweight king, heavyweight title contenders.

The bright lights of other places have shone on him just as long, leaving him an expert both in the ways of the ring and the wayward. He fights Maxey Rosenberg, who likewise has achieved some fame in both directions for the light heavyweight title in Madison Square Garden, Nov. 3.

Now Mickey is willing to concede Rosenberg's reputation as a prize fighter. A champion, naturally, stands for progress among the saulfoolers. But as flowering bloom among the primroses, Rosenberg, he insists, cannot qualify.

"Harry Greb," sighs Mickey reverently, "there was a man."

"I fought him fifteen of the toughest rounds anyone ever lived through in the Polo Grounds in 1925. I thought I won but they gave him the decision and when it was over I headed for Broadway and a lobster shop I knew. I was all bunged up."

"In walked Greb as soon as I was settled and he had a girl with him. He insisted that I join his party. Then when we were through he wanted to go dancing. I had to go along. Either that or fight him all over again."

"We must have danced for hours. In fact we danced so long Harry's girl disappeared. Finally it was getting light and we stumbled out into the morning air."

"All of a sudden Harry grabbed me by the back of the neck. Up to that time we hadn't mentioned the fight."

"Just to show you I can lick you any time, anywhere. I'm going to give you another walloping right now," he said. Before I could even argue he squared off and made a rush for me."

"I stepped back and let him have a left hook on the chin as he came in and he staggered some but came right back winging both hands. In a second we were all over the street. A cop came running down the sidewalk, swinging his night stick. I saw him lift it high over his head. 'Hey, I yell at him. 'I'm Mickey Walker and that's Harry Greb. We're just kidding a little. Don't hit us.'"

"Well, there's the morning newspapers full of the fight we'd had the night before in the ball park and of all the people in New York who hadn't heard about it we have to pick one, this policeman. He didn't hit us but he bundled us off the block. Before Harry could get at him, I shoved him into a cab and told the driver to take him home."

"I was just getting into bed when the phone rang."

"Mickey," says Greb at the other end, "I'm sorry for what I just did, but don't forget I can always lick you."

"I guess maybe he could, at that. But this Rosenberg... pay no attention. He doesn't either smoke or drink."

Government Routes Siamese Rebel Army

BANGKOK, Siam, Oct. 19. (AP)—Reports both from the north and the south centers of the insurrection which broke out last week indicated today that the government forces have triumphed over the rebels.

In the north, the rebels who attacked Bangkok have fled, while in the south the revolt at Petcharabun has been suppressed.

The rebel leader and a number of others were arrested, including high army and civilian officials.

The anxiety of the foreign communities was relieved, as business returned to normalcy and rail services were resumed.

The Siamese rebellious movement began last week with the mutiny of two up-country regiments and the seizure of the Donnang airbase, the headquarters of the Royal Aeronautical Service.

Earl Worley of Canadian was in the city yesterday afternoon.

WITH THE HARVESTERS

By HARRY E. HOARE

Wouldn't it be funny if a nice big rain fell just before the Amarillo-Pampa football game Nov. 11? Where would that Amarillo passing attack be then? I heard a couple of fans arguing about something to bet on this morning and one of them was wagered that the game would be played on a wet field. The other one looked the bet. The Harvesters failed to show that they are a mud team Friday night, when they slipped badly in Shawnee. Little Bert Stevens was on his head more than he was on his feet until he was hurt.

Dick Hughes has devised a plan to stop the Amarillo attack Nov. 11 and he plans to present it to Coach's Odis Mittenell and Argus Fox this afternoon. Dick has decided that the Harvesters should use a five-man line and a seven-man backfield with each of the backfield men carrying two butterfly nets with long handles. When asked what he would do if the Sandies kept to the ground Dick remarked that a five man line could stop the Sandies ground attack—wonder.

Pampa fans are wondering where the Cisco football team, get the name "Big Dam Lobos." But whatever the name may be, Coach Shelly will bring a team to Pampa that will show football knowledge far above the ordinary. Shelly will be remembered as one of the greatest backfield men ever turned out of Texas university.

I met Bill Ragsdale, former Harvester, in Shawnee last Friday. Bill, Walton Heard, and Clinton Adair, all former Harvesters, are in a re-forestation camp near Chickasha. The day before the game Bill dropped his tractor through a bridge and got four days leave of absence. The drop wasn't on purpose, however.

The idea of making the game with Amarillo Nov. 11 a homecoming affair is a meeting of minds and a meeting of minds will be called soon. "Grads" interested in the event should call Ray Wilson at the county auditor's office in the courthouse and talk over the matter with him. He already has a list of 75 graduates and there are doubtless many others who will be anxious to attend, but whose names have been forgotten.

Papa Carnera Has Charge Of Primo's Camp

SEQUELS, Italy, Oct. 19. (P)—A standard size boxing ring with all its surrounding facilities and a stern admonition to the youth of the village to "let Primo alone" is the contribution Santa Carnera, father of the world's heavyweight champion, has made toward his son's success in the coming fight with Pauline Uscudini.

The "Gran Sasso" or big rock, as Primo is sometimes called in his home village, was promptly taken under the paternal wing when he arrived to start training for his scrap with the European title holder at Rome next Sunday.

Some fight fans here fear an upset but Santa Carnera is confident of the outcome. At the village camp, where he is a personage, he never tires of telling about that terrific smash that humbled Jack Sharkey last June. And if the Ambling Alp shows any tendencies to shirk at his workouts, Papa Carnera says he won't be above taking a stick to him.

Incidentally this applies to anyone who may try to woo Primo from his labors.

Since the big champion came home the village itself has been full of strangers. They drop in from everywhere to watch Primo at

L'FORS LOSES 7 PLAYERS ON EVE OF GAME

SCHOLASTIC STANDING NOT MAINTAINED BY REGULARS

L'FORS, Oct. 19. (P)—A spirit of gloom has settled over the haven of the L'Fors Pirates, as they prepare for their second conference game, which will be played in Canadian Friday afternoon, against the Canadian Wildcats.

The Pirates have emerged from their practice games with only one loss, 20 to 7, to Shamrock. Otherwise they have not been scored upon, but this confidence is not so assured in the Canadian game.

The Wildcats, although they have not shown great offensive power thus far this season, have shown a very strong defense. They were defeated 12 to 0 by the Spearman Lynx, 1932 district 1 champions. This game shows the caliber of the team that the Pirates will have to battle this week-end.

The reason for the gloom in the Pirate camp is due to the fact that the Pirates will be minus the services of several of their regular players. "Hick" Bagwell, big fullback, and the offensive power of the Pirates, Wilson, left half; Lowe, end; Stone and Cobb, 175-pound tackles; Flynn and A. H. Combs (1932 all bi-sectional guards), will be out. Of these Wilson and Flynn may see some service, but the others are definitely out because of their scholastic standing.

Coach Duncan is not discouraged, however, as he realizes the task that the team will have in overcoming the odds that are against the Pirates in the Canadian game.

In the backfield he has a number of younger and lighter men to draw from, including Still, Walters, and Robertson, Harold Combs, M. Williams, Stansel Hall, and W. Williams.

On the line will be found Berg, Bonner, and Godwin at ends; while on the tackle positions will be found Captain Wood, Moore, and Howell; on the guard positions will be Willis, Malness, and Dykes. The pivotal position will be taken care of by Brown and Harrison.

Although the Pirates will miss the men who will be out of Friday's line-up, materially the power will not be hurt. The backfield is much lighter with Bagwell and Wilson out, but it has speed and deception. Harold Combs, although he lacks experience, shows ability of being the greatest ball carrier that has been developed by the Pirates thus far; Walters and Robertson, like Combs, lack in experience, but they are fast and good blockers.

The line, although it has lost some weight, will not be weakened a great deal, as the men who are out have not had a cinch on their positions, although they were making the others who will start Friday work very hard.

The possible starting line-up of the Pirates: Godwin and Berg, ends; Wood and Moore, tackles; Willis and Malness, guards; Brown, center; Still, quarter; Combs or Robertson and M. Williams, halves, and Walters or Hall, fullback.

ROMANCE COMES TO CIRCUS ALVA, Okla., (P)—The man on the flying trapeze saw Claradell Reiman among the spectators and decided she was the girl he wanted. After the circus the aerialist, Marion Pardo Mazi, made his way through the crowd to the Claradell, who was swept off her feet by his ardor. That night, she became his wife.

V. P. Edwards of Dallas is a Pampa visitor this week.

work in his father's yard.

Meanwhile, Carnera's regular managers are gleeful over the prospective gate receipts. Preparations at Rome indicate the Carnera-Uscudini fight will draw a minimum crowd of 60,000. The fight will be held in the woodland amphitheater known as Piazza di Siena.

Railroads all over Italy have offered to extend special tourist privileges, including numerous excursion trains and low fares, to Italians from the hinterland who wish to see their champion competitor in action against the tough Basque.

Allred Shocked When Suits Are Ordered Dropped

AUSTIN, Oct. 19. (P)—James V. Allred, Texas attorney general, was terribly shocked when District Judge J. D. Moore threw out of court his anti-trust suit against a group of oil companies, but he was hardly more surprised than some of the attorneys for the defense.

In private conversations some defense attorneys confidently expected Judge Moore to overrule defense demurrers that the NRA code for the oil industry had superseded Allred's suit and wiped out his cause of action, if any.

Some of defense counsel, in anticipation of this ruling were making arrangements to settle in Austin for several months while the voluminous testimony was introduced. It was estimated it would require a minimum of six months to try the case.

One of the more apprehensive went so far as to express an opinion that Judge Moore not only would overrule the demurrers but would enter judgment from the bench in favor of the state.

This attorney, although he firmly believed in the defense position as set out in the demurrers, was sure the arguments would not convince Judge Moore that he ought to dismiss the suit.

"I thought we were sunk when Allred concluded his final argument and Judge Moore retired to chambers to think it over," he said. "Imagine my surprise when he ruled in our favor."

The lawyer in point, incidentally, dropped a few dollars to a speculative observer on the decision.

Allred professed that the decision made him groggy. Defense attorneys who had argued every law point stubbornly since the case was started almost two years ago, were jubilant and shook hands and clapped each other on the back.

The point was regarded as an extremely close question of law.

The state argued the NRA code could not nullify a suit charging an offense that allegedly occurred prior to its adoption. The oil companies contended that the things of which Allred complained had been legalized by the code and that they did not stand charged with anything on which the state could maintain a suit.

The interesting point has not been finally closed.

Allred believes Judge Moore ruled wrong and served notice he would ask the higher courts to pass on it before admitting he is defeated.

TRACY COX IS RECOGNIZED AS TEXAS JUNIOR WELTER CHAMP

Is First and Only Legalized Boxing Champion In State—Given Belt By Flynn.

BY BILL PARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Texas has its first legalized boxing champion. He is Tracy Cox who Thursday night, October 5, at Dallas, won a 10-round decision over Willard Brown to be crowned the Texas junior welterweight champion. With the approval of Jack Flynn, Texas boxing commissioner, Cox was presented with a diamond-studded belt by Promoter Bill Caples while an estimated crowd of 4,000 fans stood and cheered the new, and to date, only legalized champion in the state.

Cox is a champion worthy of the honor. Rugged for a 140-pounder, he is a terrific puncher with his left or right. He likes to stand toe to toe and slug it out with an opponent. A lighter hitter than Cox, Brown knew his chance depended on out-boxing Cox, but this he failed to do except in the first and third rounds—the only two Brown Uscudini fight will draw a minimum crowd of 60,000. The fight will be held in the woodland amphitheater known as Piazza di Siena.

RACING WILL START TODAY AT ARLINGTON

VICE - PRESIDENT AND FARLEY WILL BE ON HAND

FORT WORTH, Oct. 19. (P)—Thoroughbred horses stamped impatiently today for the start of the signal at Arlington Downs, where all was in readiness for racing with pari-mutuel betting to come into its own in Texas again after banishment since 1909.

The inaugural of the 21-day program brought realization of a dream to W. T. Waggoner, aging cattleman and oil man who spent $3,000,000 on the elaborate racing plant, and on hand to join in the cry, "They're off!" were Vice-president John N. Garner, Postmaster General James A. Farley, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, and an assemblage of civic and political leaders. Will Rogers, former smelter of Beverly Hills, Calif., telegraphed he hoped to arrive in time for the races.

A dozen sleek, well-trained stars of the equine kingdom awaited Starter Harry Morrissey's signal for the opening race of the seven-event program for today.

Waggoner, the "Master of the Downs," planned to be there, although he had not completely recovered from a stroke that threatened his life several months ago, and the aged cattleman's sight has dimmed until he could not expect to distinguish between the horses. Two of the stars of his "Three D" string were entered.

Featuring the opening day program was the inaugural Arlington handicap, a 6-furlong dash for two-year-olds for a $1,200 purse, added. Barring late scratches, fifteen of the outstanding juveniles of the American turf were entered, among them Waggoner's money getter; the Newman Church entries, Ima Court and Riskulus; the Lone Star stable entries, Skunner and General Pulaski.

Listed for the Lone Star handicap, for three-year-olds and up, at six furlongs, were Mr. Sponge, Trinchera, Rubio, Quatre Bras, Second, and Sundot and Desert Call.

McLEAN, Oct. 19.—Donkey baseball has hit McLean. Before a large crowd Tuesday afternoon, business men of McLean and those of Wheeler played a game of donkey baseball which was full of thrills and spills. The score was 2 to 1 in favor of Wheeler.

Players from McLean were Horace Brooks, Alva Alexander, Lee Wilson, Clint Doolin, Creed Bogan, D. C. Carpenter, Ercy Cubine, Pete Ballard, N. H. Greer, Harris King, A. R. McHoney, Wilson Boy, Chas. E. Cooke, Sammie Cubine, Oscar Sullivan, Allen Wilson, J. W. Butler.

For Wheeler Harry Wofford, O. B. Miller, D. A. Hunt, C. C. Filmore, Bronson Green, Glen Porter, Temple Hooker, C. Louis, John Wofford, and John Lewis.

Dr. Nicholson of Wheeler had charge of that team, and Johnnie R. Beck supervised the McLean. Ten per cent of the proceeds went to the benefit of the Parent-Teacher association.

Home Stadium Jinx and A Great Team Gives T.C.U. Edge Says Writer.

BY BILL PARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

PROGNOSTICATIONS Texas Christian beat A. & M. Southern Methodist to beat Oklahoma A. & M. Centenary College to beat Texas University.

Baylor to defeat Simmons. Rice Institute to beat Creighton. Arkansas to beat or tie Louisiana State.

Not definite, just a few prognostications on Saturday's football games which will be played by Southwest conference teams. Having been successful in naming five winners out of five played games last week, the task of picking the first under the finish wire this week-end was made easier because of refreshed confidence.

The Southwest conference battle between Texas A. & M. and Texas Christian will be a torrid one. The Aggies are favored by the majority of critics. The Horned Frogs get the call here because of their strong team, the "jinx" they hold over the Aggies, and the fact they are to play in their stadium. This looms as a 14 to 7 win for Texas Christian.

Southern Methodist's speedy running attack, balanced by a splendid aerial offense, shouldn't have much trouble against the Oklahoma Aggies. It looks like a Mustang victory of about 19 to 6.

The Centenary College Gentlemen are favored to take the University of Texas Longhorns, weak line and all, to the tune of 13 to 0.

The Baylor Bears, slight favorites over Simmons, probably will finish in front about 14 to 0.

The Rice Institute Owls, if their long passes are clicking, promise to bring back an interconference victory from Omaha where they will play Creighton university. Rice should win by at least a touchdown margin.

A state-wide poll revealed that critics favor Louisiana State over Arkansas, but not here. The Razorbacks have displayed enough power in two Southwest conference games to prove they have plenty of scoring punch. It will be a close game with Arkansas favored to win or at least get a tie.

How did they finish last year? Centenary college beat Texas, 13 to 6; Louisiana State beat Arkansas 14 to 0; Texas Christian beat Texas A. & M. 17 to 0; Rice Institute beat Creighton 41 to 7. Simmons did not play Baylor last year and Southern Methodist did not play Oklahoma A. & M.

GARNER FETED AT PARTY BY AMON CARTER

BREAKS HIS RULE OF RETIRING BY 9 O'CLOCK

BY R. W. BARRY,
Associated Press Staff Writer.
FORT WORTH, Oct. 19 (AP)—Vice President John N. Garner went to bed an hour past his 9 o'clock retiring time last night.

His delay was due to the pleasure he was having at a party Amon Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, tendered him and James A. Farley, postmaster general of the United States, and their traveling companions on a good-will trip through Texas.

Garner, as well as Farley, and a score of other leaders in the Roosevelt administration, were new hats away from the party at Carter's Shady Oak Farm on Lake Worth. Carter gave all of them made-to-order sombreros.

The vice president said he never before had broken his 9 p. m. retiring rule but promised to arise as usual at 6 a. m. A police escort hustled him to his hotel.

Garner and Farley had a full day ahead. They planned to appear at breakfast here as guests of the young democratic club of Tarrant county and eat lunch with W. T. Waggoner and his sons, builders of Arlington Downs racing plant.

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and her husband, James B. Ferguson, were invited to meet the vice president and postmaster general at lunch.

Arlington Downs' 21-day racing card will be formally opened by the national dignitaries. From the races the party will go to Dallas for a banquet and a public meeting at the state fair of Texas.

Friday the party will fly to San Antonio and thence to the R. W. Morrison ranch for an overnight stay and a rodeo especially arranged for the easterners.

Soldiers Again Patrol Streets Of Cuban City

HAVANA, Oct. 19 (AP)—Soldiers armed with sub-machine guns patrolled the streets today as a precaution against any recurrence of disorders marked by the wounding of a sailor last night.

Government authorities announced that the seaman was shot by snipers who fired on soldiers during the night from automobiles and rooftops.

"This business has gone too far," said Chief of Police Uliceno Franco. "We will punish leaders of all acts of terrorism. We must act with an iron hand."

No indication was given of new turns in the government's drive on communism after the arrest of 34 men and six women charged with having Communist affiliations.

After questioning, the women were freed. The men were permitted to continue at work under guard.

Officials of American oil companies categorically denied a Havana newspaper story that they were refusing to ship gasoline to Cuba. The officials also denied that there was any danger of a shortage, as the newspaper alleged.

'Who's Afraid of The Big Bad Wolf Tra-la-la-la-la'

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 19 (AP)—As he told the story Loyie Dunn, 25-year-old grocery clerk, sat in his Oklahoma City home a week ago and sorted all the hearts in the deck, marked each for one of the nation's largest cities and handed them to his bride.

"Shuffle the cards, honey, and draw one," he said.

"This is fun," she exclaimed excitedly and drew, "the nine of hearts."

"That's Milwaukee," Loyie replied. "That's where we go."

They arrived here last Friday—the 13th—to build their fortune. But Milwaukee was plentifully supplied with grocery clerks.

His wife wired friends and received $20. Bus tickets back to Oklahoma were $12.50 each.

Dismayed, Loyie put two pearl-handled pistols and two wrist watches in his pocket and set out for the pawn shop. He leaned against a show window while deciding which one to patronize.

Detective Frank Doyle said he saw a card along "accidentally" brushed against Dunn and patting his hip pockets.

"Mercy me, a two-gun man," exclaimed Doyle and hauled Loyie off to headquarters.

There he told his story—he's had the weapons a long time and never fired them; the watches were won in a dice game—and was detained while police queried Oklahoma City about it.

State Street Celebrates 'Century of Progress'

New York has its Broadway; New Orleans its Canal Street; Cleveland its Euclid avenue; San Francisco its Market street. But to none of these does Chicago give way; it has its State street. Centennial of this famous thoroughfare was observed with a mammoth celebration, attended by thousands. At the corner of State and Madison, as shown in the picture above, taken at the height of the fete, 100 candles blazed on a huge birthday cake.

Eighteen years' search ended for Cy Forsythe, below, professional baseball player, in Sacramento, Calif., jail, when he found his son, under the name of Roy Menn, above, confined there, accused of murdering a Sacramento girl. The child, then 4, was left in care of friends at Topeka, Kansas, when his mother died. During the absence of Forsythe, the family moved away and all trace of the child was lost. Striking resemblance of father and son is shown in the pictures. The father will fight to save his son from the noose.

County Refuses To Bring Home Needy's Bacon

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Live Oak county board of welfare and employment got agitated recently when it was notified the government was sending 22 pounds of dry salt pork to the hungry persons of that community. There are not so many hungry folk in Live Oak county but that quantity of dry pork would not go far.

What agitated W. E. Lamm of George West, chairman of the welfare board and other members of that agency, was a circular advising the pork was on the way, a part of shipment of a million or so pounds sent to Texas by the federal government.

The letter was from Lawrence Westbrook, director of the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission, but it was only a form affair with the number of pounds of pork to be received by the county addressed left blank for a clerk to fill in.

The circular advised Lamm that his allotment of pork would be included in a carload consigned to San Antonio, whence the contents would be distributed.

"You will call with a truck at this car and get your allotment immediately after the car's arrival," read the letter.

Lamm wrote Senator E. J. Black of Victoria that "twenty-two pounds is less than the value of the gasoline that would be used to go for the bacon."

"Clearly this is one time it will not pay to bring home the bacon," commented Lamm.

New Deal Would Reduce Salaries Of Money 'Kegs'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Rooseveltian legislative experts at present are planning to throw more light on salaries paid to business and financial leaders as a means of adjusting those salaries downward.

Five federal agencies are gathering the data. It was said privately today by an important official that such information will be used as a base for legislation to curb excessive payments to executives—probably the continuous publication of those payments.

An economic theory of some administration counselors is that much money now going into high salaries should be spread in the lower wage brackets to increase purchasing power.

The federal trade commission, under a senate resolution, has addressed a questionnaire to 2,000 corporations of over $1,000,000 capital each which have securities listed on the

has a very real meaning here

For 31 years the Penney organization has been proving in actual service the soundness of today's "NEW DEAL."

ONE of the very first organizations to display this symbol of the industrial "New Deal" was the J. C. Penney Company.

To qualify required no great preparation . . . no drastic "reorganization." For the Penney stores had been conducted on N.R.A. principles ever since the first of these stores was founded . . . back in 1902.

At Penney's the "New Deal" is actually thirty-one years old! For many of the fundamentals on which this national association of locally operated stores rests are strikingly similar to those of today's great governmental program.

J. C. Penney's idea was simple. Employees were to have a chance to share in ownership. Wages would provide for real living, not bare existence. Each sale would show a small profit, but there'd be many sales. Merchandise would be plainly marked, sold for just what it was. Experience would be pooled to develop operating efficiency at rock-bottom cost. Waste would not be tolerated. Commonplace phrases today . . . but "revolutionary" in the mercantile world of 1902!

The Penney "New Deal" worked. More and more stores were required to supply the needs of a buying public that, almost for the first time, was actually sharing in economies of operation.

Penney values simply could not be duplicated. For serving (not dominating), these stores was a skilled and experienced central buying staff that knew values and where to find them.

Today there are nearly fifteen hundred Penney stores, living proof that the principles for which the "Blue Eagle" stands are sound, that the difficulties can be overcome, that cooperation will make such a plan win out.

That's why the J. C. Penney organization believes in the "New Deal." It has seen it at work for 31 years!

Marriage Bond Of Jeff Davis Is Discovered

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 19 (AP)—Belief by some historians that the marriage of Jefferson Davis and Sarah Knox Taylor in 1835 was a runaway romance seemed to be disproved today with discovery in old county court house records of their marriage bond.

The law in those days required a legal bond for weddings and that of the girl whose father later was to become president of the United States and her fiancé who still later was to become president of the Confederacy was attested June 17, 1835.

It bound young Davis and Hancock Taylor, uncle of the bride "until the commonwealth in the sum of fifty pounds (equal to one hundred and sixty-six dollars and sixty-five cents current money).

That there is a marriage shortly intended to be had and solemnized," between the young couple. The bond did not give the age of the pair, but Hancock Taylor swore the bride was of lawful marriage age.

The wedding took place before either the young Kentuckian or the then Colonel Taylor, father of the bride, had distinguished themselves in the war with Mexico.

at Dallas, which is 6, and that leaves you 7, which is the first Pampa touchdown of the game, early in the second quarter. Add the price of eggs at Chicago, making a total of 18, and divide by the French franc, which is about 6, and you get 3, but since France refused to pay the war debt, that indicates a Sandie price-kick which failed. Add the price of steers at Chicago, or 6, to get Amarillo's touchdown leaving the score: Pampa 7, Amarillo 6, for the first half. Take the number of Amarillo gamblers who succumb to the excitement, which will be 6, and that gives Amarillo's total of 12 for the contest. Right now, with inflation an uncertainty, it is impossible to see how the Harvesters will make their last 7 points. However, the outcome is sure and is arrived at in this manner: Number of letters in "Blair Cherry", 12; number of letters in "Odus Mitchell", 13. Great thing, the dope bucket.

SWAT THE QUACKS
Many millions of dollars are wasted annually by persons answering "quack" claims of miraculous cures. Unfortunately, most of the victims can ill afford to waste their meager funds.

Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, cites that cancer "cures" are among the most frequent advertised. He adds that serums, colored lights, pastes, salves, and diets have so far been found valueless. We quote his letter of warning:

"The bulwark against cancer is early diagnosis. Every case is an emergency and it is unfortunate that the majority of those with cancer do not seek medical advice until beyond a permanent cure. No hope should be placed in fake cancer prophets and their treatments. Rather, the annual physical examination and an immediate reporting to your physician of any symptoms which may be suspected to be the beginning of cancer, should be relied upon. These symptoms are: Any unusual bleeding from any body opening, any lump in the breast or any other part of the body, any persistent sore, particularly on the face or mouth, and chronic indigestion. These conditions may not be cancer, but sometimes they are forerunners of the more common types of this disease. Where cancer is suspected, do not delay, but consult your physician at once."

SAVING OUR GAME
It is quite logical that hunters should help have the game. Six million men and women annually buy hunting licenses in this country and a million more than that number buy fish licenses. In other words, about one-fourth of our adult population is contributing a sum estimated at $12,000,000 annually to save the game. About $650,000,000 is spent yearly in hunting, fishing, and related outdoor sports. The revenue is spent not only to pay wardens but to purchase and build parks, breeding places, sanctuaries, hatcheries and preserves. The courts have rightly held that the public owns game not restrained or physically possessed. The states exercise strong jurisdiction over inland and coastline game. State sovereignty gives way only to the operation of the migratory bird treaty with Canada. Sometimes the game laws are poorly adapted to seasons in local communities, as the duck season is in this section, but on the whole the preservation of game has the support and approval of those who love the sport.

Chinese Campaign Vets To Lead Jap Army Maneuvers
TOKYO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Commanders who won their spurs at Shanghai last year will lead opposing forces this month in Japan's annual grand army maneuvers.

For the purposes of the year's big military show, the forces will be divided into the north and south armies—directed respectively by Lieutenants General Aramaki and Hayada.

Under the watchful eyes of the emperor, the maneuvers will be held October 24-26 on the west coast of the main island across the sea of Japan from the Russian port of Vladivostok.

The scene of the activities also is across from the newly reconstructed North Korean port of Rashin—eastern terminus of a new rail route between Tokyo and Hsinking (formerly Changchun), capital of the Japanese-assisted state of Manchukuo.

With the emperor in the inspection group will be the flower of the high command of the army, including field marshal Prince Kenji, brother of the grandfather of the emperor and chief of the army general staff, and General Shigeru Honjo, commander of the army that ousted Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang and occupied Manchuria.
