State to Spend More To Reroute Texas 35

An additional $754,000 will be involved in costs of improving Highway 35 under a revised alignment aired at a public hearing held here June 28 by state highway officials.

Approximately 60 persons attended the hearing, which dealt both with proposed geometric design of the 23-mile-long project and changes in two sections over the original route recommended at a hearing last year.

The project extends from just east of Gregory to the Copano Bay causeway and is estimated at $11,294,000. The earlier costs were projected at $10,540,000.

Two residents in the vicinity of the route change planned near Rockport opposed the revised alignment and one of them, Miss Sue Stinson, said after the hearing that a petition with some 30 names will be submitted within the 10 days allowed for written comment.

Danny Adams also protested the location of a new Copano Bay causeway west of the existing one. Adams, manager of the fishing pier leased from the Texas Highway Department, said the fishing pier would be put out of business since the projected westerly location would reduce considerably the amount of parking area. He said motorists also would be endangered by fishermen casting sinkers.

Miss Stinson said proposed alignment of Texas 35 along a path west of the Aransas County Airfield will take the highway within three or four doors of her home in Copano Bay Village.

She said she spent 15 years "working and saving" to get out of freeway traffic in the Dallas area "so I would move down here where it was nice and quiet." Miss Stinson said she was dismayed to learn that she would virtually be placed on a major thoroughfare.

The revised route also would disturb both wildlife and woods, she said. The deer which roam the area will also be displaced, she remarked.

Assistant District Engineer Beswick Wray of Corpus Christi, who presided at the hearing at the VFW hall said the earlier recommended plan to take Texas 35 improvements along the existing route (and south of the airfield) was abandoned because of the displacement of both local people and winter and summer residents in the Fulton area.

He said also that the through traffic in the Fulton area would only compound existing traffic congestion.

"So we went west and north of the airport ... fewer people will

'Art for Cancer' Project a Success

The special fund raising project, Art For Cancer, came to a successful conclusion at the annual Rockport Art Association Art Festival. Last minute donations raised the total to $750.

The Art For Cancer project was made possible through the donation by Steve Russell of a characted portrait entitled "Little Girl". Steve's young son, Joseph, performed the honors pulling the winning stub from the box. Mrs. Lois Mosier was the holder of the winning ticket.

Lois was subjected to a great deal of good natured ribbing when she stepped forward to claim her prize. Lois did not mind since she got what she wanted -- the painting! Mrs. Lou Harrelson, the Special Event Project Chairman of Art for Cancer, is to be commended for her work in coordinating the project through to a successful conclusion.

Sales Tax Receipts Show Increase

City Secretary Herman Johnson reports that the city's share of sales tax receipts for the last quarter totaled $19,636.19, which was an increase of $891.13 over the same quarter a year ago.

Fish Fry Planned At Key Allegro

A fish fry will be held at 7 p.m. Saturday, July 7 in the Community Building at Key Allegro Island. The charge is $5 per person, including cocktails, with all proceeds going for channel lights.

The channel entrance from Aransas Bay is going to be lighted. People will be able to plan that boat cruise, hunting trip, or fishing excursion without worrying about returning after dark. They can go night fishing in the flats below Rockport with the comfort of knowing the channel entrance can be located from miles out.

This project was first conceived by Red Leggett, Key Allegro's all-time undisputed champion of fish catching and fish cooking. Now a group of his friends are donating this party to raise the funds to erect these lights in his memory.

The channel markers are to be two green and white flashing beacon lights, mounted high on five pilings each. They will be in operation continously and permanently maintained by the Coast Guard. The total cost of the installation is estimated at $2500.

Summer Band Camp Aug. 12-15

Summer band camp will be held this year at LaJunta in Hunt, Texas for all Rockport-Fulton High School band members (freshmen through seniors) from August 12th through August 15th.

The fee for this trip is $15 per band member. This money is to be turned in by July 15th to either Mrs. Porter or Mr. Randow at the Administration Building at high school.

The buses will leave from the band hall August 12th at 1:30 p.m. for La Junta. They will leave LaJunta August 15th at 1:30 p.m. for the trip back home.

Bank Assembling Historical Data

With the $600,000 new building project well under way, First National Bank staffers are beginning to plan for a community-wide opening celebration when the building is completed early next year.

Although plans are still in the discussion stage, it is anticipated that historical aspects of the bank's founding and its service to the community during the past 90 years will be emphasized, possibly through publication of an historical booklet.

"At present there is a lack of information and pictures covering the bank's early years," James H. Sorenson, Jr., president, said. "For example, we have little concrete information about the bank's first building, whether it was the three-story masonry building which once stood at Main and Water Streets opposite the present bank building or whether there was an earlier building," he explained.

"Because of storms and the passage of time, early records of the bank are sketchy," Sorenson said. "However, we believe that more specific information about the bank's early years and its first building, even a photograph, may be available among local family records. Memories of some of our senior citizens also might be helpful.

"If information of this sort is available, we would very much appreciate an opportunity to see it and perhaps use it in connection with the dedication of our new building," Sorenson added.

Rep. Leroy Wieting Addresses Rotary

A report on activities of the recent sesssion of the state legislature and his participation in them was given by Leroy Wieting of Portland, who represents Aransas County in the House of Representatives, at a luncheon meeting of Rotary Club June 27 at Corky's restaurant.

He said much of the first 60 days of the session were spent on so-called ethics and reform proposals. Actually, quite a bit of "reform" was accomplished in the last election when only about half of House incumbents were returned to office, he asserted.

However, lobbying, campaigning and open records bills were passed. Also, the legislature passed an ethics measure in the final days of the session, as well as penal code and family code bills. In all, the legislature approved 680 bills, many of them of minor importance, he said.

Two of the more important measures were a two-year appropriations bill and one to insure that state departments spent funds only on projects for which they were appropriated by the legislature, Wieting added. He believes that one of the keys to adequate funds for schools is to see that all departments start with zero funds instead of following the practice of adding money to existing funds "just to make sure there is enough."

Also, he believes millions of dollars in additional revenue will be available from the sales tax if sufficient effort is made by the state to collect all the

County Commissioners Rap Councils of Government

The Aransas County commissioners court went on record in opposition to councils of government on June 29.

The court also at its regular end-of-the-month meeting authorized County Judge John D. Wendell to sign a contract with Franklin F. Kelly of Sinton, giving Kelly an exclusive permit to operate solid waste transfer facilities in the county.

Expressing alarm over what was said to be the increasing "super government" form taken by councils of governments, various commissioners said COGs have gone far beyond the earlier prescribed function the organization was to perform.

The court's action was sparked, in part, by a recent communication from Tarrant County Commissioner George "Skett" Richarson, who has mounted an attack on the North Texas Council of Governments.

Comments by Aransas County commissioners Friday indicated that they are in agreement with Richardson's belief that local governmental authority is being "usurped" by the councils.

Commissioner Raymond Owens, Aransas County's representative on the Coastal Bend Council of Governments, said he was opposed to the powers the state legislature has given COGs, without making them accountable to the people.

The contract with Kelly is similar to the one recently negotiated by the city of Rockport which will participate with the county in furnishing Kelly with a site for a solid waste transfer facility.

Under the contract approved by both governmental entities, Kelly will make a monthly charge of $1.40 a cubic yard for compacted solid waste material deposited by the city or independent garbage collectors operating in rural areas.

A miniumum charge of 25 cents was established for individual garbage deposits in amounts up to a 25-gallon can. Proportionate fees will be charged for garbage deposits in amounts over 25-gallon cans.

The present sanitary landfill in the county must be closed down by Jan. 1 in compliance with state and federal agency directives. The high water table in the county has been cited as the reason.

Kelly proposes to transfer the solid waste material to his sanitary landfill facility in San Patricio County.

In other business, the court awarded a contract to Closner Equipment Co. of San Antonio, for a 44,000 pound capacity trailer. Closner submitted a bid of $5,729, the low of three received.

The court decided to dispose of dirt deposits created by construction of a drain ditch on Trailer Avenue by making the dirt available at no charge to adjacent land owners provided they use it on their property. The rest will be sold for 25 cents a yard.

A contract with T.Y. Pickett & Co., Inc., for oil and utility valuations was renewed, and the appointment of Gene Garcia to the public library board to replace John Kinsey, who resigned, was approved.

Monthly bills were approved by the court, with the exception of two submitted by District Clerk Agnes Harden for travel expenses to Sinton and Corpus Christi, and a third for tractor repairs.

Officials Survey Civil Defense Capabilities

Two officials, one from the federal government and one from the state, were here twice last month conducting an on sight assistance survey to determine civil defense capability and needs and the ability to function during emergencies.

Making the survey were John F. Barber of Denton, regional field specialist with the U. S. Civil Defense Preparedness Agency, and R. D. Gamble, Corpus Christi, regional liaison officer with the Texas Department of Public Safety, Division of Defense and Disaster Relief.

Their survey covers all of Aransas County and included conferences with County Judge John D. Wendell, local Civil Defense Director Herman Johnson and other local officials.

The visiting officials are asking local residents to contact either Judge Wendell or Johnson with any suggestions for improving emergency preparedness planning in this county.

Attending Marine Science Institute

Kenneth Locklin of Fulton who has just graduated from the University of Texas at Austin is enrolled in the first portion of the summer session at the University of Texas Marine Science Institute in Port Aransas.

Locklin and 22 other students from across the country are participating in the various field trips, lab sessions and formal lectures on such subjects as: ecology of fishes, marine meteorology, and adaptive physiology of marine organisms. The first portion of the summer session lasts until July 12.

In addition to sessions at the Institute students are able to participate in research cruises aboard the 80-ft R/V LONGHORN, the 40-ft. R/V LORENE and in specimen collecting trips to various specialized environments nearby the Port Aransas facility.

The summer session, which is now in its 15th year, also serves as an introduction to general marine science research. Most of the 11 currently enrolled graduate students working on the research phase of their M.S. or Ph. D. degree first visited the Institute as a summer student.

Plumbing Thefts Being Investigated

On June 26 Chief Deupty E.A. Stautzenberger and Deputy Joe Williams investigated a burglary of a residence leased by Vic Stuart. The theft reportedly involved a large amount of various plumbing and household items. After investigation by the officers it was learned that the items had been removed the same day, but were removed by persons involved in a bankruptcy suit that involved the property. The case is still under investigation.

L. B. Kinsey, 92, of Long Beach, Calif., is visiting his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Kinsey, who live in Peninsula Oaks Subdivision.

Coastal Bend COG will receive $23,814 for continuation of the regional law enforcement officer training program, which provides basic training to new police officers and advanced training for veteran officers. CBCOG contracts with Del Mar College to provide most of the training.

The COG also was awarded a $33,400 planning grant to continue employment of a criminal justice coordinator and a part-time assistant and provide for their expenses. The planning grant is contingent on a new congressional appropriation.

Sheriff's Dept. Solves Theft of Jewelry

The Sheriff's Department investigated a theft of jewelry from a Key Allegro residence June 24. The theft involved various jewelry valued around $2,000. An investigation was immediately initiated by Chief Deputy E. A. Stautzenberger and Deputy Joe Williams.

The case was pursued on a full time basis by both officers, and led to the recovery of the jewelry June 30. According to the Sheriff's Department the jewelry consisted of watches, rings and other items. Several Rockport youths were reportedly involved. Formal charges of felony theft are pending.

BATTLING FIRE — Members of the Rockport Volunteer Fire Department are shown above trying to save a home at 15 N. Live Oak Street that caught fire June 27. While helping to battle the flames, State Highway Patrolman Rick Brush was overcome by smoke. He is shown below receiving oxygen applied by fellow firemen. Rick felt O.K. a few minutes later.

Fire Destroys Local Home

Fire of unknown origin on June 27 virtually destroyed an unoccupied home at 15 N. Live Oak Street owned by Mrs. Alberto Pena of Corpus Christi.

Members of the Rockport Volunteer Fire Department responded quickly as soon as the blaze was reported but the fire had spread so rapidly by the time the firemen arrived that they were unable to save the structure.

However, they were successful in bringing the fire under control and preventing the flames from spreading to other nearby homes.

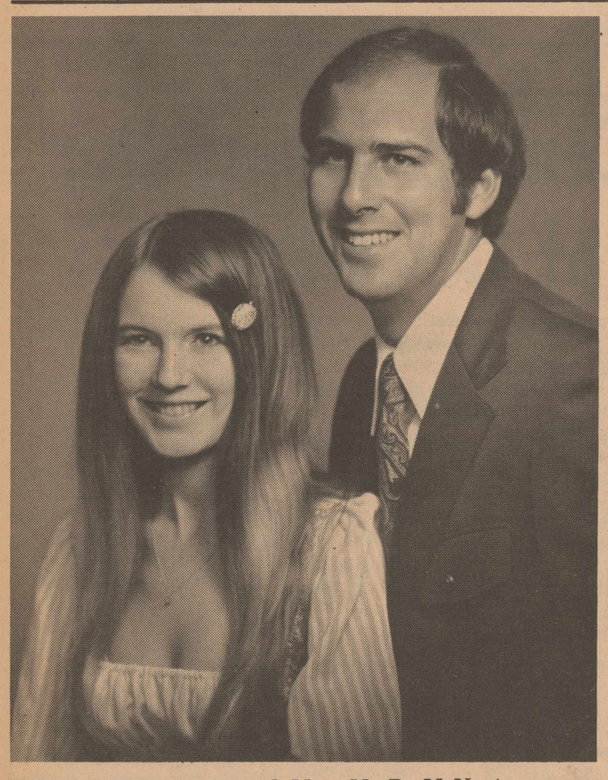

One of the fire fighters, State Highway Patrolman Rick Brush, was temporarily overcome by smoke but was quickly revived by oxygen applied by fellow firemen.

A second fireman, Gene Howland, also was treated for smoke inhalation.

It was reported that during the week preceding the fire, Mrs. Pena had employed workmen to enter the unoccupied home and do some repair work and fix up the interior for possible occupancy.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. M. D. McNorton announce the engagement of their daughter, Margie Evelyn, to John M. McDavid, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John McDavid. An August 11 wedding is planned. be relocated, though construction costs will be higher," Wray explained.

Another route revision is planned near Aransas Pass, calling for improvements to be carried out along a route closer to the existing Texas 35 and more along property lines. Wray said the original "Route A" recommended would have caused more property bisections.

Al Holguin, administrative assistant at Aransas Pass, asked for the addition of on and off ramps in the vicinity of the city. He noted that no specific interchange to serve the city was included in the plans.

Emory M. Spencer of Rockport, commented that the westerly swing of Texas 35 around the Aransas County Airfield, would not have an adverse effect on operations or growth of the facility as some had feared.

James Johnson, resident, engineer at Corpus Christi, said that the route west of the airport was not presented at the hearing last year because it was not considered feasible in view of planned runway extensions.

In the interim and due to objections made to the southeasterly swing, conferences were held with county and state and federal aviation officials, he said, with the result that proposals to extend the NE-SW runway have been scaled down from 1,500 feet to 1,100 feet.

Concern over the environmental impact as a result of the westerly swing was expressed by Harry Baumgardner of Houston. Saying he also had a "selfish" interest too, since he has property in the area, Baumgardner said "beautiful live oak trees" will be felled in the highway path proposed, that bird feeding grounds will be endangered, and that other wildlife will be disposed.

Highway officials say the cost for the 23-mile project includes $692,000 for right-of-way and $474,500 for utility adjustments with these two expense categories to be shared 50-50 between the state and county governments. Relocation assistance is estimated at $52,000, while engineering and construction is expected to cost $10,075,500, with financing of these two costs by state and federal governments.

It is anticipated that acquisition of the first parcels of right-of-way is 18 months away and that four years will be required to make all land purchases. Construction will start soon after part of the right-of-way is acquired, to be carried out in increments as funds are available.

The project calls for completion of the freeway between Portland and Gregory, with most of the remainder to be divided two-lane highways.

Approximately 16 miles of the highway project will be at a new location creating new bypasses around Aransas Pass and Rockport, the remainder to follow the existing Texas 35.

Otherwise, the existing SH35 will be designated a business route.

Apartment Complex In Aransas Pass

Jackson Square, a 52-unit apartment rental complex in Aransas Pass, has been completed and is now ready for occupancy. Owners are Hugh Jackson and Rich-Robin, Inc.

The project includes 16 one-bedroom apartments, 32 two-bedroom, and 4 three-bedroom units.

"This is the largest and most modern apartment complex in Aransas Pass," Jackson said.

He added that facilities included in the complex are a swimming pool, large play area, laundry facilities and a spacious parking area.

Fulton Lions Fish Fry Aug. 19

The date of Sunday, August 19, was agreed upon, by voice vote, as the date of the annual Fulton Lions Club Fish Fry this year according to an announcement made by President Dave Ogle following the semi-monthly dinner-meeting of the club on Monday night of this week.

The fish fry will be open to the public from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. that day at the Fulton Yacht Basin and tickets will be sold at $1.75 each, Lion Ogle said.

Lion D.C. Phelps, Secretary-Treasurer of the club, was appointed chairman of the event by Lion Ogle.

Also discussed at the meeting was the hoped-for Lions Blood Bank which so far has failed to get off of the ground because of a shortage of donors. It was pointed out by Bland Davis, Chairman of the Blood Bank Committee, that 75 donors are needed to form a blood bank, in which case all members of the donor's household would be eligible to receive blood when needed in an emergency. To date 34 donors have signed up and all others interested are urged to call Lion Davis at 729-5900.

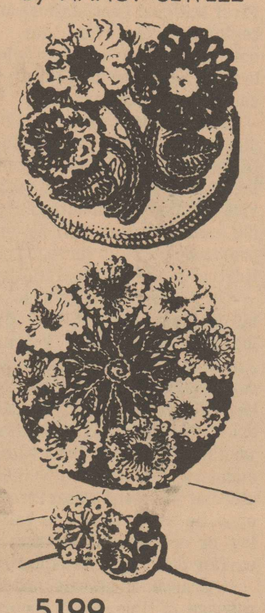

WINS PAINTING — Mrs. Lois Mosier (left) won this painting in the "Art for Cancer" project at the art festival last weekend. Also shown are Philip Hearn and Mrs. Lou Harrelson, project chairman.

Spending the week in the home of Mrs. Marie Cornelsen were her sisters, Miss Martha Bergen and Mrs. George Kliewer from Weatherford, Oklahoma. They expressed their notice of the important growth and found their sightseeing most rewarding, expecially in the beauty of the bays and the wind sculptured trees.

sales tax paid by consumers. The legislature did pass a bill designed to accomplish this.

Wieting called attention to a new workmen's compensation law which he believes would work an unnecessary hardship on employers without benefiting employees substantially. He explained a procedural reform measure which provides that each committee of the legislature be divided into working sub-committees of manageable size which will hold hearings on bills and report to the full committee for approval or rejection.

Wieting reported the Constitution Revision Commission which is holding hearings throughout the state and will report its recommendation in November. Next January the entire legislature -- both House and Senate -- will convene as a constitutional convention to consider proposed changes in the Texas Constitution. Wieting said he did not anticipate any very drastic changes.

In closing, he urged Texans to become more deeply involved in the legislative processes, asserting that more people should get in touch with their representatives to let them know their thinking on public questions. He said it was particularly important to let committee members know their position, either in person or by letter, and that all legislators appreciate and value this information.

She was born in Columbus, Ohio, and was graduated from Ingleside High School. She also attended Del Mar College. She did secretarial work and bookkeeping before joining the local firm.

Mrs. Diegel and her husband, Richard who is an electrician, live in Ingleside, They have three children, Mark, 7; Sheila, 6, and Shann, 15 months old.

She is a member of the Catholic Church and of Beta Sigma Phi. Her hobbies are sewing, art and other crafts.

Almost 600 Visits Homes

The first annual Rockport Historic Homes Tour, last Saturday and Sunday, was a "rip-snorting success which went beyond all expectations," according to the Rev. Lester Hill, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, sponsors of the tour.

"Believe it or not," Father Hill said, "we already are planning our next homes tour which may include more Rockport homes, some of which may not be entirely on the "historic" level as much as on the "unusual level."

The tour last week-end saw 589 person go through the three historic homes open to the public -- the Mathis House, the Bruhl House and the Hoopes House. At the same time $785 worth of $1 tickets were sold for the drawing on the whooping crane water color done by Dr. Eleanor Valentine.

Little Anita Simpson, granddaughter of T. Noah Smith, Jr., present owner of the Hoopes House, drew the winning ticket from the glass bowl on the lawn of the Hoopes House at 5 p.m. Sunday, in the presence of Dr. Valentine, and the water color went to James Heldenfels of Corpus Christi.

Father Hill reported than in the two days, St. Peter's Church received a net amount of $1,673.16 from the homes tour and the water-color raffle.

"No wonder we want to do it again," he said.

While a large number of persons contributed to the effort, Father Hill did mention the following committee chairmen:

Mathis House - Barbara Armstrong, who was greatly assisted by Arthur Mathis.

Bruhl House - Dorothea Montgomery, who had the charming assistance of Gladys Gibson, Bruhl descendant and owner of this lovely home.

Hoopes House - Tony Harden, who was ably assisted by T. Noah and Mrs. T. Noah Smith, Jr. and a batch of happy, loveable Simpson grandkids.

James H. Sorenson, Jr. was in charge of the highly successful drawing.

Class of 1963 graduates of Aransas County High School wish to express their appreciation to the Rockport Rotary Club for the use of a projector during the class' recent reunion.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Ramiro Zuzuarregui of Guadalajara, Mexico, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Emma Rosa Zuzuarregui, to Rodolfo Enrique Nava, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Nava, Sr., of Rockport. The wedding will take place Aug. 3 in Guadalajara.

LOUISA'S LETTERS

Dear Louisa,

I am a high school student but I would like to work during the summer and save up my money for my college fund. My mother doesn't think this is a good idea because it will interfere with me accepting invitations to the beach and where ever. But my father thinks it is a good idea because he says every girl should learn just how much work it takes to make money.

My parents are well-to-do and it is not absolutely necessary for me to work as far as finances are concerned.

What do you think about this?

Lola B.--N.C.

Answer:

I agree with your father that it is a valuable experience for every girl to have a job and understand the value of money. So if you can find a job with good people it will not only mean money in the bank but it will give you something interesting to do during the summer months. You will probably meet interesting people under such circumstances--those you might never know, otherwise.

Very often, when young people have nothing to do, they get bored and do things for excitement that they wouldn't do if they had something sensible to occupy their time. So look for a job but do not expect certain privileges just because having one is not for your financial necessity.

Louisa

Dear Louisa,

We have been married for six years and have three children. We never have the good times like we used to have because we have to stay home with the children and what money we have goes for the necessary things of living.

Now our children are all three nice normal children and we love them and we do enjoy them but we would like a change and to be able to go dancing or to the games like we use to. I get very tired not seeing other people and I know my husband does too. What do people like us do to make marriage more fun?

D.B.--Miss.

Answer:

There are many ways you can make life more enjoyable. A portable grill is not so expensive and you can invite a neighboring couple, who have children, the same ages of yours, over for hot dogs or hamburgers some evening or merely have them over for a cool drink and cookies.

Some couples exchange baby sitting with their neighbors and take turns keeping the children one night.

Help is so hard to get and so expensive that today I see many young couples who take the children with them on outings and the young fathers seem to be very helpful and considerate in helping with these children.

Get out of a rut and arrange some interesting things for your family to do.

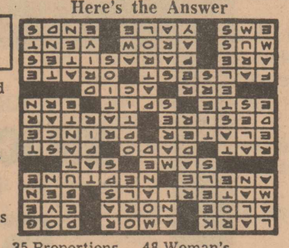

Louisa.

OUTDOORS 'n things

by L. D. NUCKLES

You rarely hear anyone mention quicksand these days. When I was a kid you heard a good bit about it, but now people don't seem to realize that this deadly ooze, which may have a thin curst of dry, innocent looking sand on top of it, exists in many places in Texas. It's fairly common along the Brazos, Guadalupe, and Rio Grande Rivers. After hard rains it can be found on nearly every creek and dry wash from Amarillo to Brownsville. It may be found around any marshy slough and East Texas has its share.

Because it's hard to imagine a more terrible way to die than sinking slowly down into the smothering ooze, fiction writers have, down through the years, exploited its possibilities. The realities of quicksand can, however, be every bit as horrible as the writers portray it.

One of the leading authorities on quicksand, Gerald H. Matthes of the U.S. Geological Survey, said, "Anyone who ever steps off the pavement should know about quicksand." Because his work was such that he spent a great deal of time exploring wilderness areas, he had rather extensive experience with quicksand. Several times he found himself alone and sinking in the deadly ooze. Each time, by remaining calm and taking proper action, he managed to save himself. Once he broke through a crust into quicksand early in the morning and the sun was setting when he managed to escape. It had taken him eight hours to work himself 10 feet back to solid ground.

Few people realize how common quicksand is. It is reported in every state in the Union and not all of it is on the surface. It was found 60 feet deep in the middle of New York City when they were building the $100 million Chase Manhattan Bank building. Solidifying chemicals were put into it so that it would support the thousands of tons of concrete and steel.

Not too much is known about quicksand and what causes it, but it is known that it does not suck objects down into it. Its victims sink into it as they would into water. Much more slowly, of course, but just as surely. You can float on quicksand just as you can float on water, but you can't float in an upright position. A person who finds himself sinking in quicksand should throw himself flat on his back in the direction of solid ground, get rid of any object that would tend to pull him down and spread out his arms, then yell for help. If help arrives and they can get a rope or a long sapling branch out to you, don't let them try to pull you out too fast. If your legs are down in the muck they will come out very slowly; too much pressure, applied too rapidly, could break your legs. Even if no help arrives, remain calm, keep spread out so you'll float, and work your way slowly toward safe ground.

Calm, unhurried action can make quicksand a terrible experience that you'll live through, rather than a death trap.

RARE CATCH — Mrs. Joe Pedigo, who with her husband is spending the summer at Trailer Inn by the Bay, stands beside a 24-pound crevalle jack he caught recently from the pier at the Trailer Inn while fishing for gafftop. The crevalle jack is reported to be a rare catch in the bays and is quite a fighter.

The National Weather Service is responsible for issuing warning of hurricanes which approach the U. S. mainland. During the summer and fall, when most hurricanes occur, forecast offices maintain a careful watch for development of tropical storms and hurricanes.

As soon as there is a definite indication that a hurricane is forming, even though it is a thousand miles or more from the mainland, the storm is given a name, and the Weather Service begins issuing advisories. The advisories are issued frequently through the day and night and tell where the storm is, its intensity and the speed and direction of movement.

If the hurricane moves toward the mainland, hurricane watch notices are included in the advisories and gale and hurricane warnings are issued. In addition, bulletins for news media are issued at frequent intervals to keep the public informed of the storm's progress.

By using the Weather Service advisories and bulletins disseminated by the news media, the location and movement of the hurricane can be plotted on this chart.

Nobody knows when the first tropical storm of 1973 will begin to blow. But it and others will be forming soon as the new hurricane season begins June 1. It will last until Dec. 1.

Residents may want to keep this chart handy to plot the sometimes erratic movements of naughty ladies of the tropics. The rings on the maps indicate the mileage from Corpus Christi. (Map Courtesy of Nixon Blueprint Co.)

C of C Happenings

As reported in the Pilot two weeks ago, the Chamber of Commerce has developed a questionnaire for distribution to tourists to find out what they think of the Rockport area, what they like and what they don't like. Information supplied from the filled out questionnaires will help the Chamber plan projects that will make this area even more desirable for vacations and as a permanent place of residence.

Mrs. Louise Zeisler, a local lady who participates actively in many community endeavors, has volunteered to distribute hundreds of copies of the questionnaire to motels, mobile home parks, trailer courts, grocery stores, restaurants, beauty shops and other places of business. At these locations, questionnaires will be given to visitors, to be filled out and returned to the Chamber of Commerce.

Refreshments for the hospitality program at the C of C Building were supplied this week by Sam Wilcox, local attorney.

TRAIN PASSES OVER BOY

EDINBURG, TEX.--Craig Washburn, 13, went to sleep between the rails of a Southern Pacific track while on a camping trip and a train passed over him. The train tore off a pocket from his pants but the teen-ager was not injured.

PROMOTED -- After completing boot camp at San Diego, Calif., Johnny Ray Garcia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Garcia, was promoted to Pfc. and transferred to Camp Pendleton, Calif., where he completed a six-week course prescribed by the commandant of the Marine Corps for personnel clerks. After graduation, he came home for 10 days and is now stationed in Okinawa where he will be for 13 months.

Fix-It Tip

Teach the children that good bike care begins by keeping the "wheels" dry and clean. Exposed parts that have become muddy and wet should be wiped off as soon as possible.

Removing the chain does not require removing the rear wheel. There is one link that snaps open and careful looking will find it. Links can be replaced individually, doing away with the need of replacing the entire chain. Repair links may be bought at a bicycle shop.

Lubricate pedal bearings often. Keep all saddle bolts and handlebars tight. Check the fork assembly since this also can become loose.

Redfish Slimmer Ole

AUSTIN -- You know the trouble with broiled fish? It looks blah.

It tastes great with a squeeze of lemon and a pinch of salt, but it does look sort of bleached out.

Mrs. Cindy Anderson, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's seafood home economist, says broiled fish lovers shouldn't resign themselves to a colorless future, and she proves it by suggesting "Redfish Mexicali," a tangy recipe with a colorful sauce.

With "Redfish Mexicali," you get the slimming effects of broiled fish and the fantastic flavor of something you know you shouldn't eat. Something that tastes this good just has to have a jillion calories. But it doesn't.

Try this recipe soon and then send off for more free seafood recipes, available from "Seafood," Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, Austin, Texas 78701.

REDFISH MEXICALI

2 lbs. redfish fillets, or other fresh fillets
2 T. salad oil
2 T. soy sauce
2 T. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. paprika
1/2 tsp. chili powder
1/2 tsp. garlic powder
dash liquid hot pepper sauce

Place fillets in a single layer, skin side down, on a well-greased broil-and serve platter, 16x10 inches. Combine remaining ingredients. Pour sauce over fillets. Broil about 4 inches from source of heat for 10-15 minutes or until fillets flake easily when tested with a fork. Baste once during broiling with sauce in pan. Garnish with lemon wedges. Makes six servings.

Medicare Medical Insurance Premium Rolled Back By 60-Day Price Freeze

The monthly premium for Medicare medical insurance, scheduled to be increased in July, has been rolled back in keeping with President Nixon's 60-day price freeze policy, according to H. M. Cleveland, District Manager of the Corpus Christi Social Security Office. "The higher amount will continue to be charged until the premium record for each beneficiary can be corrected," Cleveland said. "Refunds in full will be made at a later date. This also applies to railroad retirement beneficiaries and civil service annuitants who pay premiums for medical insurance under Medicare."

Medicare medical insurance helps pay for doctor bills and many other medical expenses of almost everyone 65 or over and disabled people under 65 who have been eligible for monthly social security disability payments for 2 years or more.

FHA Workshops End

The FHA officers and members have completed 2 weeks of planning and working on the program of work for 73-74 school year, and at the close of the workshop Sylvia Cuellar completed the first level of Encounter.

Sylvia, 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicolas Cuellar, has lived in Rockport since 1969. Sylvia moved here from Matamoros, Mexico. Sylvia's achievements in FHA include:

Attending the FHA meeting, being elected 2nd president, and being selected Little Sister of the YHT Organization.

Some of Sylvia's comments about achieving this first level were: "I did not realize FHA was a national organization and that it is not just a fun club. I learned it is an organization where you can grow and become a better person by getting to know yourself better and by learning about other people."

Price Freeze Questions Are Answered By IRS

Q: If the price on a contract made prior to the freeze which calls for delivery during the freeze is above the freeze price, what is the status of the contract?

A: Both the buyer and the seller are obligated to adhere to the freeze price and may not perform at a contract price above the freeze price. The seller may decline to perform completely if he wishes, but he may not compel the buyer to accept delivery at a date after the freeze.

Q: A supplier has long-term contracts with his customers. Before the freeze, he raised prices and charged the new price to customers who were renewing their contracts. May he continue to charge the higher price to those customers? May he charge the higher price to customers who renew their contracts during the freeze or to new customers of the same class?

A: Yes, if the supplier had made at least 10% of his shipments under these contracts at the new higher price during the freeze base period.

Q: If quantity discounts are offered, can customers who purchase large volumes eligible for discount be charged the applicable higher price if they reduce the amount of their purchase and thereby fall into a lower quantity (higher price) bracket? In other words, may prices be changed so long as the rate structure on which they are based is not changed?

A: Yes, during the freeze, customers may be charged in accordance with rate or price schedules established in the freeze base period, but may not increase charges applicable to various categories of rates or prices set out in effective schedules.

Q: Are association dues subject to the freeze?

A: Yes. Dues are a fee for a service and as such may not be increased during the freeze.

Q: Pending determination of a request for an exception or other relief from the rules of the current price freeze, may the person requesting the exemption or other relief charge a price which exceeds the freeze price?

A: No. A person who is otherwise bound by the price freeze rules continues to be bound thereby notwithstanding the fact that he has requested relief from these rules or modification of the rules as they may apply to him. It is lawful to charge a price above the freeze price only (1) to the extent authorized by the CLC Freeze Regulations, or (2) in accordance with the terms of an exception granted by the proper authority.

Q: Are hotel and motel rentals subject to the freeze?

A: The lease of personal property and charges for hotel or motel rooms are sales of services and are subject to freeze restrictions. Similarly, the rental of boat slips is the sale of a service, except when the slip was to become part of a residence.

NEW COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM — The tower shown in the photograph is part of the final step in the revision of the radio communications network for area law enforcement agencies. The tower is 175 feet tall and is freestanding, with no guidewires. It is located directly behind the sheriff's office, and is anchored into the ground with 33,000 pounds of concrete.

The completion of the tower was followed by the installation of a modern communications control panel inside the sheriff's office (shown directly in front of Sheriff Bob Hewes.) The console contains the four frequency radios that have been installed in a majority of the state's law enforcement offices.

The new system includes a coding system that enables the operator to dial in another distant or local department and converse directly with that agency, thus reducing drastically the time involved from the old method of relaying through other departments or via teletype, which Aransas County is not equipped with.

The new system has far greater distance power through the utilization of a repeater system that enables the operator to receive clearly a patrol car that may be many miles away from the base station.

All local agencies are included on the new system which has already greatly increased the effectiveness of those agencies.

Life With the Rimples

ABOUT YOUR HOME

By April Rhodes

Don't throw away the tops or tougher stalks of celery. They can be used to flavor meats and stews and discarded if desired.

If excessive rains have caused your spring-trimmed shrubbery to grow unevenly, July is the month for second trimming.

For quicker and creamier fudge, or icing, whip it with an egg-beater rather than a spoon.

To prevent pealed peaches for canning from turning brown, either drop them in hot syrup or in salt water. Use one teaspoon salt to one gallon of water.

Campers will find it easier to clean greasy dishes and pans after frying fish or other meats by adding a few drops of ammonia to the water.

A dash of cinnamon adds zest to yellow squash.

How to Save Electricity

Central Power and Light Company manager Bill Janecek announced today that a new energy conservation booklet is available at the local CPL office. The manager said the free 16-page booklet, called "The Electric Diet," shows dozens of ways to save energy and money on household electric bills.

Customers can help the nation's energy crisis and their own pocketbooks by following the suggestions in this new wise use booklet which features a houseful of ways to save on energy and their total electric bill, said the manager.

Air conditoning is one of the prime household energy users and is often not used properly, he said. Set thermostats at the highest comfortable setting, which is 76-78 degrees for most people. For every degree you go below 76, you increase operating costs by about 10 per cent. At 72 degrees, you'll pay about 40 per cent more for very little more comfort.

Dirty filters can count for an additional cost of $3 per ton of cooling from your air conditioner. Clean them every two weeks for a substantial savings.

Adequate insulation and weather stripping saves money both winter and summer in addition to making your home more quiet.

Teach your children to close doors completely. Check your home for other air leaks. Close fireplace dampers to prevent air from rising up the flue and escaping outside.

Lights and TV's add heat. Turn off those not actually being used. Ventilate your attic so hot air will not be trapped inside.

Don't waste heat by putting a small pan on a large surface unit. Match pans to unit size. Foods cook better and less heat escapes into the room.

Use your electric service wisely. Know how much electricity your appliances use. Lists showing how many kilowatt hours average appliances use each month are available at local offices.

These and many more tips in the "Electric Diet" booklet will show you how to trim your electric bill and make your appliances last years longer.

"Be a waste watcher," the CPL manager said. "Make every kilowatt count."

CPL representatives are available to help customers make the most efficient use of their electric service.

Know the Weather

Is it true that you can place your back into the wind and usually find the center of a weather disturbance to your left?

Yes, strange as it sounds, this is a rule which usually produces an accurate forecast. With your back to the wind, hold out your left arm and it will point to the center of the weather disturbance.

Why is this true? It's because low pressure systems in this hemisphere circle counter clockwise. With your back to the circling (counter clockwise) winds, your left hand extended automatically points to the low pressure center and your right hand will point to better weather.

It's a good rule for pilots to remember, on long cross country flights.

Art Festival Great Success

What was generally agreed as having been the biggest and best of four annual art festivals sponsored by the Rockport Art Association closed Sunday night after a successful two-day run in the park area south of the ski basin on the shore of Aransas Bay.

Attendance was the largest to date, being variously estimated rom 7,000 to 7,500. No accurate count of attendance was possible, but food and drink sales the first day were more than for the two days last year.

One hundred and twenty artists from all over Texas and from neighboring Oklahoma displayed the products of their talent in booths arranged in a huge semicircle. Several gaily colored rest and concession tents and perhaps a score of beach umbrellas provided a colorful setting for the art displays.

Work exhibited included watercolor and oil paintings, engravings, pottery, jewelry, wood carvings, lapidary, clay and metal sculpture, ceramics, batik and pottery. Experienced observers reported the quality of the work exhibited this year was the best to date.

Most participating artists reported sales were excellent. One artist said he sold more paintings the first day of the show than he had both days last year. He added that his sales this year totaled more than $4,000. Several artists reported sales of $1,000 or more. Educated guesses as to total sales for the show ran from $50,000 to $70,000, with more sales being made Saturday than Sunday.

Several artists expressed appreciation for the art association's successful campaign to attract commercial buyers and private collectors to the show. Personal invitations were mailed to more than 300 known buyers and collectors. Before the show closed, a number of artists inquired about reserving display space in next year's show. About 75 per cent of the artists exhibiting this year have participated in previous shows, it was reported.

This year for the first time an effort was made to expand the scope of the festival with the Rockport Chamber of Commerce and the Rockport-Fulton Tourist Bureau participating. These organizations sponsored a street dance and sausage supper Saturday night which attracted more than 500 participants. Another successful venture was a children's activity tent where a program of painting - rock, finger and body - was conducted both days with adult supervision. This enabled parents to visit the art exhibits while their children were kept occupied.

It is anticipated that in future years the art festival will be expanded to include additional activities and perhaps extended to as much as a week.

In an art festival related activity, women of St. Peter's Episcopal Church conducted guided tours of historic Rockport homes, which attracted about 600 visitors. They also conduct a drawing for a watercolor contribution by Dr. Eleanor Valentine, local artist. James Heldenfels was the winner.

A painting contributed by Steve Russell, art association president, raised $750 for the Cancer Fund. The winner was Mrs. Bob Mosier. Mrs. J. W. Larson of Houston won a metal sculpture contributed to the Whitfill Memorial Scholarship Fund by Bob Beckner.

First National Bank provided Master Charge facilities for the art association to permit purchases on credit. The association will continue this service on a permanent basis.

Observers said one of the outstanding features of this year's art festival was the cheerful and effective work of scores of volunteers who handled planning and execution of the show, manned the hospitality booth, children's activity tent, sold refreshments, assisted in setting up booths and other structures on the show grounds and helped keep the grounds clean.

Among those observed picking up litter and emptying trash containers were Russell, art association president; Mrs. Ed (Sis) Harper, chairman of the show's arrangements committee, and Bill Janecek, Chamber of Commerce president. Others were busy as early as 6 a.m. Sunday policing up the grounds. Security for the festival was provided by Rockport police and Constable Buddy McLester.

Almost 50 merchants and individuals, previously listed, contributed money, merchandise and services toward expenses of the festival. A number of merchants reported the art festival proved to be an excellent business stimulant.

Participants and visitors alike were outspoken in their approval of the site of this year's art festival, pointing out there was plenty of near-by parking space, and that the prevailing breeze off Aransas Bay kept the temperature pleasant. Officers of the art association expressed their appreciation to the Aransas County Navigation District board of directors for making the site available and expressing the hope that it will be the permanent location for the annual art festival.

Story Hour
