BEAUTY IS WHERE YOU FIND IT and if an experiment by the City of Snyder is successful, a number of these concrete flower boxes will replace parking meters around the city. City employes W. A. Cooper and A. M. Roberts are shown placing one of the boxes on a sawed-off meter post. If the plants are permitted to thrive in the two or three experimental locations, many more boxes will be installed on the old meter posts.

LBJ Speaks At Job Camp Dedication

By FRANK CORMIER

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson said today, "The hope for peace is real" at this time but cautioned that no one should misjudge America's commitment to defend freedom.

Johnson, in a speech prepared for the dedication of the Southwest's first antipoverty job corps camp, said:

"We believe that this is not a dark and dreary hour for mankind — but, rather, we are convinced that this is a bright and precious time when the hope for peace is real, when the chance for progress is great, when the light of liberty can shine forth more brightly than ever in all of history."

The President, who never made direct reference to the conflict in Viet Nam, said that while peace is the American purpose, "Let no man in any land misjudge our course by our cause."

Johnson said, "We love peace and we hate war but our course is charted by the compass of honor." He said Americans know that eternal vigilence is the price of liberty.

"That price we are able—and willing—to pay," he said.

Johnson, who got his college education at Southwest Texas State College here, flew to his ranch home some 50 miles away after a mystery-marked flight from Washington Friday night.

He and Mrs. Johnson are spending the weekend in Texas. Sunday he is considering signing the just-passed $1.3 billion education aid bill in the tiny schoolhouse near his ranch where he got his early education.

Soviets End Shutdown Of Berlin Autobahn

Red Maneuvers Are Cancelled

BERLIN (AP) — The Communists called off military maneuvers ahead of schedule today, ending five days of shutdowns on the autobahn that brought confrontations with the United States and Britain.

The United States sent four convoys of 452 men in 103 vehicles over the autobahn and the Russians waved them through. The Communists had closed the 110-mile lifeline intermittently since Monday, saying it was needed for military maneuvers.

A joint Soviet-Communist East German announcement said that in the military maneuvers "all training tasks set for the troops in the exercise were fully accomplished." Previously the Communists had said the maneuvers would end Sunday.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the maneuvers ended after a display of "a high standard of combat training and military skill."

The Communist harassment came to a head Wednesday when the West German Parliament met in West Berlin. To protest the meeting, the Communists closed the autobahn and Soviet MIGs buzzed Western airports, the air corridors and the hall where Parliament was in session. Other MIGs shattered the sound barrier with sonic booms.

Communist officials on the autobahn said the shutdowns — and earlier slowdowns which began a week ago Thursday — were to protest the meeting of Parliament. The Communists say West Berlin is a separate entity and Parliament has no right to meet there. Bonn says West Berlin is part of Germany.

The announcement of the end of maneuevers made no mention of the shutdowns on the autobahn.

The Russians also lifted restrictions on the movements of the U.S. military mission at Potsdam. No Communist planes interfered with commercial planes in the air corridors.

The East Germans sped the movement of civilian traffic, which had been delayed for hours this week. By midafternoon, trucks and cars were moving at a practically normal rate over the autobahn.

The U.S. convoys began showing up early in the day at Helmstedt, the checkpoint at the western end of the autobahn.

The first troops were from the 4th Battalion of the 18th Infantry Regiment, normally stationed in Berlin. They have been training in southern Germany.

It was understood that their return had been moved up two days in order to test the readiness of the Communists to let them through.

Other smaller military convoys have been held up for periods up to five hours this week while the Communists closed the autobahn and harassed air traffic to Berlin.

The Communists shut down the autobahn for three hours Friday night while Soviet tanks and East German personnel carriers rumbled through. Long lines of civilian traffic waited to enter the highway, but no Allied military traffic was reported at the barriers when they were lowered.

Soviet jets refrained from buzzing in the three air corridors to Berlin Friday. When the West German Bundestag (lower house of parliament) met in West Berlin Wednesday despite MIGs roared a few feet over the meeting hall and scattered windows when they broke the sound barrier.

A Western diplomat said the United States, Britain and France would not permit any more plenary sessions of the West German Parliament in Berlin. Under Allied pressure, the Bundesrat (upper house) abandoned plans to meet in Berlin April 30.

More Marines Land On Viet Nam Shore

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Another 1,400 U.S. Marines waded ashore at Da Nang today as the United States continued to beef up its combat muscle around the big air base, just 120 miles south of Communist North Viet Nam.

U.S. Navy and Air Force planes carried out new strikes in North Viet Nam today, knocking out the Kin Cuong highway bridge about 150 miles south of Hanoi and attacked road convoys.

All aircraft were said to have returned safely. Pilots said no Communist aircraft were encountered and antiaircraft fire was light.

Peking said Communist Chinese jets drove eight American aircraft away from Hainan Island Friday. American pilots had reported a brief dogfight with Communist jets 35 miles from Hainan and said one of the Soviet-built MIGs was believed downed. They did identify the MIGs as North Vietnamese or Chinese.

U.S. officials in Washington expressed belief that if there was a U.S.-Red Chinese encounter it was probably a passing brush rather than a deliberate action.

The Leatherneck battalion landed at Da Nang reinforces some 3,000 Marines already based there.

Brig. Gen. Frederick Karch, commander of the 9th Marine Expeditionary Brigade, said another battalion would arrive in the next few days and be assigned to the Hue area, north of Da Nang and only 50 miles from the border.

Boles Rites Set At Clyde

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Clyde for Mrs. Jenny Boles.

Mrs. Boles, a former resident of Borden County, died Friday morning at Colorado Springs, Colo. She was a sister of Billy Askins of Snyder.

Other survivors include two sons, Lloyd Boles of San Diego, Calif., and Don Boles of Clyde; two grandchildren; two other brothers and one sister.

The funeral service will be held in the Clyde Baptist Church.

Valerian Zorin Takes Post As Ambassador

PARIS (AP) — A hard-line Russian takes over today as the Soviet ambassador to France and Westerners see it as the opening of a diplomatic offensive on Germany.

Valerian Zorin, former deputy foreign minister and specialist on German affairs, succeeds Servei Vinogradov who was generally considered a better dinner partner than a diplomat.

Special machines and apparatus are being developed for use in this new field. Miss Goodpasture came to Cogdell Hospital from Methodist Hospital in Lubbock.

UP THE COLORADO

E. Texas Water May Wet West

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Richard White, D-Tex., sees a possibility of channeling water from the Sabine and Neches Rivers in Southeast Texas to often parched far West Texas.

Tentative plans for such an undertaking were outlined Friday on Capitol Hill, he said.

White recently suggested such an undertaking to the Interior Department and asked for a report on its feasibility.

He said Reclamation Bureau engineers consider the idea meritorious to the extent that the bureau plans to ask the House Appropriations Committee for $200,000 to make a more careful study.

As now conceived, White said, water would be diverted from the Sabine and Neches Rivers in the Beaumont area southwestward to the lower Colorado River. Then by a series of lifts and through several existing reservoirs on the Colorado, it would go to the vicinity of Robert Lee, north of San Angelo.

This would raise the water about 1,000 feet above sea level and move it about 500 miles from the Gulf Coast.

Next it would be transported by pipe 400 miles to the El Paso area, which is more than 4,000 feet above sea level. Some of the water would be released for use by various communities along the way.

Rough estimates indicate water could be delivered to the Odessa-Midland area at about 15 to 20 cents a thousand gallons and to the El Paso area for 35 to 40 cents, White said. Water now costs about 25 cents a thousand gallons for general household and industrial use in El Paso, he said.

White said no over-all estimate of the cost of such a project was available.

He took the idea up with the Interior Department after hearing of proposals to divert water from the Columbia River Basin into the Colorado River Basin of the Far West for ultimate use in Southern California.

If that proposal is feasible, he said, "I would think that transporting water from East Texas, where it is in abundant supply, to West Texas might also prove practical."

Braniff Joins Request For Additional Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—Braniff Airways has joined Dallas in asking more time to decide on a North Central Texas regional airport site.

Killed In Mishap

ODELL, Tex. (AP) — Bob Kester, 19, was killed Saturday in a one-car accident on a farm road just outside this North Texas town. Richard Pilcher of Chillicothe, the driver, was not hurt.

The car overturned several times at a curve.

Actress On Critical List

CHICAGO (AP) — Actress Linda Darnell, the glamorous heroine of many movies, was in critical condition today with burns covering 80 per cent of her body.

The 43-year-old stage and screen star suffered second- and third-degree burns over the upper part of her body Friday in a fire at the suburban Glenview home of Mrs. Richard Curtis, her former secretary with whom she had been visiting.

Miss Darnell was taken to Cook County Hospital's ultra-modern burn treatment center, where fluids and blood plasma were administered. A tube was inserted in her windpipe to aid breathing.

SNYDER AREA OIL

Sinclair Oil & Gas Co. has scheduled re-entry of the former Hiawatha Oil & Gas Co. No. 3 - GHO L. M. Wilson, a depleted San Andres producer in the Diamond M pool of Scurry County, to plug back to 1,980 feet for wildcat tests of a higher San Andres formation.

It is 12 miles southwest of Snyder, 990 feet from north and 339 feet from west lines of the southwest quarter of section 183, block 97, H&TC survey.

It produced from the San Andres pay topped at 2,380 feet and originally was completed in 1957.

George M. Blair of Midland No. 1 Quinn is contracted to 8,000 feet to try for production in the Pennsylvanian reef lime in Howard County, seven miles southwest of Big Spring.

The wildcat location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 38, block 34, T-1-S, T&P survey and it is 2¼ miles southwest of the shallow Moore field.

* * *

Humble Oil & Refining Co. No. 4 Slaughter Estate is projected to 9,000 feet as an Ellenburger prospector in Garza County, 13 miles southwest of Post.

The location is 594 feet from south and 1,870 feet from east lines of section 4, block 30, TW&NG survey and ¾ mile southwest of the one marginal producer in the O'Donnell, Northeast (Mississippian) reservoir.

Sun Oil Co. has staked location for the No. 2 W. M. McLaury as a location southwest outpost to the Boomerang, South (Strawn) pool of Kent County.

The 6,700 - foot operation is seven miles north of Clairemont, 1,000 feet from south and 1,700 feet from east lines of section 8, W. P. Wilson survey.

Basin Oil Co. has staked a shallow test, the No. 29 L. R. & W. N. Reed, in the Howard-Glasscock (Santa Rosa) area of Howard County.

It is scheduled to 1,050 feet, six miles east of Forsan, 660 feet from north and 1,200 feet from west lines of the northeast quarter of section 141, block 29, W&NW survey.

John A. Coffee of Big Spring No. 4 Tom Morrison is slated to drill to 3,283 feet in the Westbrook (Clear Fork) pool of Mitchell County.

Location of the shallow project is 1,655 feet from south and 1,656 feet from west lines of section 36, block 29, T-1-N, T&P survey, five miles northwest of Westbrook.

* * *

Sun Oil Co. has completed No. 1 W. M. McLaury as a ½ - mile west extender to the Boomerang, South (Strawn sand) reservoir in Kent County.

On the 24-hour potential test, it produced 155 barrels of 40.2-grayity oil plus eight barrels of acid water, flowing through a ½-inch choke from a series of perforations between 6,580 and 6,600 feet.

The formation had been stimulated with 500 gallons of acid and flowing tubing pressure was 80 pounds, gas - oil ratio was metered at 475-1.

Location is 1,800 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 8, W. P. Wilson survey, seven miles north of Clairemont.

Two Local Bands Win Sweepstakes

The Snyder High School Black and Gold Band won its 12th sweepstakes award in a row here Friday at the Region II University Interscholastic League contests in concert playing and sight reading.

The local band was one of five in the three classes of competition to rate Division I in three categories of competition. The scores in concert playing and sight reading contests Friday were joined with scores in marching contests held last November at Abilene to determine over - all scores.

Snyder High had the only sweepstakes band in Class AAA, rating Division I in both contests Friday and Division I in the earlier marching contests.

Hamlin and Winters were sweepstakes winners in Class AA while Abilene Cooper and San Angelo Central won sweepstakes in Class AAAA.

Meanwhile, Travis Junior High's Blue Devil Band won a sweepstakes award by rating Division I in concert playing and sight reading contests Friday at Abilene. The contests at Abilene for Class A, Class B and junior high schools of the region were held simultaneously with those for the upper classes in Snyder. Travis had Division I rankings in both concert playing and sight reading, and also had rated Division I in marching. Lamar Junior High's Texan Band rated Division I in concert playing and Division II in sight reading. The Lamar band also had rated Division II in marching contests last fall.

Complete results of the judging here Friday, with concert playing and sight reading scores, in order, were:

Class AA — Colorado City II and II; Hamlin I and I; Anson IV and IV; Haskell III and II; Ballinger II and II; Cosco II and I; Winters I and I; Brady II and I; Dublin III and IV; Mason II and III; Comanche II and I.

Class AAA — Coleman III and III; Breckenridge III and V; Stephenville IV and IV; Sweetwater III and II; Snyder I and I.

Class AAAA — Abilene Cooper I and I; Abilene High I and II; San Angelo Central I and I.

Melvin Montgomery directs the Snyder High School Black and Gold Band. He is assisted by Charles Shaw. Jerry Pickens directs the Travis Junior High Band, while Don Eiring is Lamar Band director.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband talks too much about me! I always thought that what went on between a married couple was supposed to be private, but my husband broadcasts the dardest things to all his co-workers. The wife of one of the men down at the plant even "kidded" me about what I slept in! Not only that, but last summer I had a little surgery. It wasn't very serious, but it was rather embarrassing (you know, the kind you just don't talk about). Well, everybody at the plant knew all about it. When they have get - togethers for the workers and their families, I don't feel like going because everyone knows so much about me. What's wrong with my husband? Or is it me? And how can I shut him up?

NO SECRETS

DEAR NO: It's your husband. And he, Madame, is a clatter-trap! Teaching a grown man discretion is no small task, but he's your man and he's broadcasting YOUR secrets. So, it's time you had a long talk with him about what he's not supposed to talk about.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am worried about becoming an old maid. I am 15 and have had only one date in my whole life. I am not bad looking. I've seen worse with boy friends. I have a good sense of humor and enjoy doing things most teen-agers enjoy doing. I act my age and don't try to be something I'm not. I would appreciate a few pointers on how to attract a boy's attention. Please don't tell me to wait until the right boy comes along. I've waited long enough already.

15 AND NO BOY FRIEND

DEAR FIFTEEN: I receive at least 100 letters a day from girls between 13 and 19 asking the same question. And here's the answer: Personality and character are far more important in the long run than "looks." But "looks" is what makes a boy look twice across a crowded room. So, first check your packaging.

Are you neat and clean? If you wear makeup, is it applied artistically? Do you overdo it? (Many boys say that most girls do.) How about your hair? Do you keep it fragrant, combed and shiny? How's your weight? (This is important!) If you're too fat, slim down. If your looks are all right, what about your personality? As I say in my book, DEAR TEEN-AGER, "Personality isn't just the ability to chatter away and say things that will keep your friends amused. Personality starts INSIDE you. It's a genuine interest in other people. It's being able to see someone else's point of view. It's inner warmth and a pleasant disposition even under the most trying circumstances. Personality is extending your hand in friendship in a way that silently says, 'I like you.' It's the smile on your face and the twinkle in your eye. The people with personality sparkle and bubble so naturally that you can't tell where personality ends and charm and good looks begin."

Do you make a boy feel comfortable in your presence? Are you too quiet? If so, read more. Then you'll have more to talk about. If he's quiet, keep the conversation going. If he's chatty, keep still and let him entertain you for a while.

Are you too forward? Nothing drives a boy away like an aggressive girl.

Do you call boys on the phone? Or send them "messages" through your friends and his so that everyone in school knows you like him? If so, forget him. You'll never get him. Do you aspire to spiritual goodness? Do you value personal integrity, and respect your fellow man? Are you respectful of your elders? If so, it will shine through and you will be completely lovable to someone who is worthy of your love. Which, after all, is the reason every girl wants to attract a boy's attention, isn't it?

Love,
ABBY

Stranded Fisherman Saves Own Life

PORT SIMPSON, B.C. (AP) — Charlie Sankey says he's "a real outdoorsman."

That's probably what saved him when the fishing boat Topaz struck a log and sank Tuesday night.

Sankey, 32, swam about a mile to an island, built a raft, then drifted six miles to another island. He walked 11 miles across that island, found a boat and rowed 14 miles across open sea to this Indian village 15 miles north of Prince Rupert.

The body of one of Sankey's companions was found Friday. A third man still is missing.

Bootlegging Charge To Be Filed Monday

Charges of illegal transportation of alcohol in a dry area will be filed Monday against Luther (Crip) Tucker of Snyder, according to officers of the Scurry County Sheriff's Department.

Tucker was arrested at 10:25 Saturday morning 17 miles north of Snyder on the Clairemont Road.

The arresting officer confiscated four cases of beer in quarts, one case of wine in fifths, 11 half-pints of bourbon, and three half-pints of vodka.

Rodeo Cowboy Needs Skill, Plus Luck And Recklessness

By MIKE COCHRAN

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — "And now, ladies and gentlemen, we have the most hazardous, the most exciting event—"

As announcer Cy Taillon spoke, a slender young man with lots of freckles and very red hair slipped beneath the Coliseum stands and moved along the outer fringe of the arena.

At the chute, he climbed up the rails and got his first look at the massive bull, already snorting brusque signals of anger in the confined space.

Bill Kornell casually appraised the heaving animal, a sleepy smile fixed on his face. He had been in this spot too many times to feel much fear. Despite his college boy looks, Kornell specializes in one of the most dangerous occupations on the professional rodeo circuit — bull riding.

Kornell is a quiet, confident fellow who is intensely proud of his ability. He is a married man, and, by the standards of his nomadic clan, well off financially.

Despite his youth, he is considered a veteran bull rider. And, say his colleagues, "a helluva good one."

In the world of the rodeo cowboy, this description is all-inclusive. No elaboration is necessary.

Kornell drifted into this semi-nocturnal world at age 15. It is a world devoid of security, paid vacations, expense accounts, weekend leisure. Home is motel or a car seat.

The rodeo circuit demands skill, courage, stamina and a degree of recklessness.

Luck is essential, mental lapses are expensive, mistakes can be fatal and cowardice is intolerable.

The lure?

"Money," Kornell had said earlier.

Now he peered down at the bull, which was squirming in the pen, eager to get on with it. Out of a nearby chute shot another bull and rider, only to be quickly separated.

It was the midway point of the Southwestern Exposition Rodeo, and all was not well in the world of Bill Kornell. His first bull ride had produced only 49 points.

A spectacular second effort was now required to gain the finals and a chunk of the $72,000 in prize money.

Kornell theoretically is a "two-event" man, a virtual necessity in this belt-buckle battle. He also rides bareback broncs, but so far without great success.

"You gotta compete in two events to qualify for the all-around championship. And if you are a two-event man you can make and save more money.

"If you are good."

Kornell has been fortunate. He has escaped serious injury.

Among the ingredients of a succesful bull ride are balance, timing, coordinatuon and courage. There is no time for doubts.

"Most of all, a lot of guts," Kornell had said. "You can't panic. You can't let that getting hooked bother you."

Kornell married in December. "She gets nervous," the young Palm Springs rider admitted. "But she knows how it's gotta be. And she accepts it."

Flood-Weary Areas Brace For More

By The Associated Press

More rains appeared headed for flood-stricken areas in the Midwest today as weary workers battled to contain overflowing rivers and streams that have forced thousands from their homes.

Property damage, the heaviest in Minnesota and Iowa, was extensive, running into millions of dollars.

More than 10,000 persons in Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin have been affected by floods which erupted this week after heavy rains and warm weather melted snowpacks. Also threatened was areas in Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Ohio.

Mankato, a city of 32,000 on the Minnesota River in southern Minnesota, appeared the hardest hit community. Some 8,000 persons have left their homes as the river surged more than 10 feet above flood stage.

National Guardsmen and state police barred all visitors and sightseers from the city. Some 6,000 volunteer workers filled sandbags to protect the dikes. The Red Cross estimated about 450 houses and business establishments have been flooded. The waters have not reached the downtown business section.

April Meeting Set By Waterflood Assn.

The April meeting of the West Central Texas Waterflood Association will be held Wednesday at Abilene.

A social hour sponsored by Corrosion Coating Co. will begin at 6:30 p.m. and the dinner will follow at 7:30. The session will be held at the Abilene Country Club.

Jim Jennings, Expando Corp., Wichita Falls, will speak on "Performance of a Shallow Callahan County Flood." Persons interested in attending should contact Joe Stephens at Box 2311, Abilene, or telephone OR 2-8484.

Educational Meetings Are Set On Cotton Production

A series of cotton production educational meetings, set - up especially for the Rolling Plains cotton producing area, will be presented in April by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

According to Extension Service Director John Hutchison, the meetings will feature a concentrated program designed to bring latest prediction information to Rolling Plains cotton producers.

Dates for 13 county meetings in the area have been set so far. Cotton acreage in the area is in excess of one million acres and it is one of the mainstays of its agricultural economy.

Hutchison said a "cotton - team" of Extension Service specialists will be featured on the program. Among them will be headquarters staff members Fred C. Elliott, cotton specialist; Beverly G. Reeves, cotton ginning and mechanization specialist; and John Box, agronomist. Assisting them will be area specialists, county agricultural agents and personnel from other organizations and agencies.

According to Elliott, cost - cutting and the newest practices on efficient production will be presented at the meetings.

Results from more than 65 Texas Agricultural Experiment Station projects and experiences of numerous grower - demonstrators will also be discussed.

Topics to be covered include soil fertility, cultural practices, varieties, insect control, harvesting and marketing.

Hutchison said the meetings were planned in cooperation with County Program Building Committees.

The Rolling Plains Cotton producing area is bounded by Donley and Collingsworth Counties on the north, Scurry and Mitchell Counties on the west, Clay County on the east and Schleicher County on the South.

Scurry County cotton producers may want to and are encouraged to attend the meeting to be held in the Roscoe School at 7 p.m. Tuesday. Information presented at this meeting will be valuable for management decisions that must be made during the coming crop year.

Regarding safety, Denny was especially complimentary of the district which had logged only six chargeable traffic mishaps, all minor, in over six million miles of driving.

Spain Imposes Controls To Pry British From Gibraltar

By HAROLD K. MILKS

GIBRALTAR (AP) — A curtain of Spanish red tape casts an ominous shadow over Gibraltar, the British-held rock which long ago proved immune to Spanish cannons.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's government has imposed stringent frontier controls. The aim is to force the British to discuss Spain's claims to sovereignty over the stronghold they seized in 1704.

The made-in-Madrid red tape may turn out to be more effective than any of Spain's military efforts toward that end.

Gibraltar is a rocky point four miles long an less than a mile wide. A low isthumus connects it with the southern extremity of Spain. For centuries it was considered a strategic naval base for Britain.

Today Gibraltar is being seriously hurt where it hurts most — in its economy. Residents admit it freely.

For six months the Franco government has been tightening frontier controls.

Trade and tourism are the means by which Gibraltar lives, now that its importance as a military outpost has dwindled. Both are being cut by the regulations Spain has imposed under the excuse of combatting Gibraltar-based smuggling.

Gibraltar is tied closely to Spain by both blood and commercial relations. Now it faces the possibility of reorienting its economy completely or of giving in to Spanish demands that Britain discuss Spain's ancient claims to sovereignty.

The Gibraltar for minister for ports, tourism, and trade, A. W. Serfaty, sets the note of reaction to Spanish pressure when he says:

"We may have to reorient our trade policies, but we will never give in. Nobody here wants to see Gibraltar become a part of Spain. There must be some means by which we can exist and work together."

Like many other prominent Gibraltarians, Serfaty has a Spanish wife. He regarded Spain as his second home until the latest Spanish campaign began.

"We had 700,000 tourist visitors last year and an income from tourism of over $11 million," said Serfaty. "The way it looks now we will be lucky to get 5 per cent of that number this year."

Thousands of tourists used to fly to Gibraltar or came by ship, then rented cars and left for holidays in Spain.

"That business is now dead," says Serfaty.

Nearly 9,000 Spanish workers and a number of domestics from the mainland still work in Gibraltar, traveling either by bus to La Linea or by ferry to Algeciras.

Gibraltar officials claim these workers are being harassed not only by strict customs controls but by other activities aimed at getting them to leave their jobs.

Serfaty listed these restrictions imposed by the Spanish government:

—A customs slow-down by which cars attempting to leave or enter Spain are delayed for one hour each, which means those cars are in line the last will have to wait 10 hours.

—British or Gibraltar businessmen and workers living for years in Spain and traveling to and from their jobs on special passes were forced to move into already over-crowded Gibraltar when the passes were revoked.

—Imports from Spain delayed or cut off entirely including Spanish wines.

—In-bond shipments to foreign diplomats in Spain by Gibraltar export firms suspended by Spain.

—Shipments from Gibraltar to U.S. Navy forces at the Rota (Spain) base cut off.

—Imports by truck of fresh vegetables and other foodstuffs from Spain curtailed; all transfers across the frontier must now be handled by hand-trucks.

Serfaty called unfair a statement attributed to the Spanish information and tourism minister, Manuel Fraga Iribarne, that Gibraltar "buys more American cigarettes than all of Germany."

"Fraga made that statement to support Spanish claims that we are a nest of smuggling," said Serfaty. "He forgets that Gibraltar is not only a center of export of cigarettes and such products to other areas but that we supply many ships which call here with what they need. At least five-sixth of all our cigarette purchases go out through these channels, and most of the remainder goes to the military and the 25,000 inhabitants of the rock."

Despite economic reverses resulting from the Spanish siege, a tour of Gibraltar shows many people support the slogan of "British We Are and British We Remain." Big signs have been painted on several houses supporting the British position on Gibraltar. One says: "260 Years and Still Going Strong."

Thus far the United States, Serfaty observed:

"We had expected a little better support from the United States in our dispute with Spain. Frankly, we have been disappointed."

Lad Finds Prize In Box Of Cereal

KIMBERLEY, B.C. (AP) — "There's something else in here," said Kevin May, 6, of nearby Marysville, as he shook a near-empty box of cornflakes Friday.

Out popped a wallet.

It contained $59 and personal papers of George F. Langley of London, Ont.

The wallet and contents are on their way to Langley, but Kevin's still wondering how they got into his cornflakes.

1.3 Million Safe Hours Recognized

Employes of the Abilene District of Sunray DX Oil Company were honored at a dinner Thursday at Lamar Junior High School.

The event commemorated 1,300,121 man - hours worked without a time-lost accident.

This total consisted of 345,728 man-hours, or nine years, for the District field employes and 954,393 man-hours, or seven years, for the Snyder Gasoline Plant. The total was achieved on Mar. 1.

Bruce Denny, formerly of Snyder and presently of the Abilene District Office, acted as master of ceremonies at the dinner. E. J. Mills, also formerly of Snyder and presently of the Division Office in Midland, was also present.

Mills thanked the District employes for their friendship and help over the years that he had been associated with them, and announced that he would soon be moving to the company's Tulsa office.

At the dinner, A. E. Meissner, Southwest Division Production Manager, presented service awards to N. C. Hillhouse, Snyder Plant Superintendent, for 40 years of service; R. O. Hollister for 20 years of service; and to Carl Chronister and A. L. Lewis for 15 years of service each.

Supervisory personnel from the Abilene District Offices were Bruce Denny, Chronister, and H. W. Reynolds; from the Division Office in Midland were Meissner, Mills, Max Smith, E. J. Pierce and H. E. Hadden; from the Home Office in Tulsa were A. L. Summers of the Employe Relations Department, G. E. Hillhouse, Director of Operation Research, and D. D. Stone, Manager of Employe Relations.

Weather Remains Drawback For Many Texas Farmers

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Few Texas farmers are happy about the weather.

More rain in the eastern half of the state limited field work. Dry weather plagued farmers in the west and northwest, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Preplant irrigation, he added, is heavy in the dry areas. Grazing prospects improved in favored areas and livestock feeding is slowing down. Hutchison said, in all but the driest sections.

The entire Panhandle needs rain. Irrigation is under way. Ranges are still dormant.

The entire South Plains district is very dry and irrigation is heavy. Ranges are below average. Dryland wheat is in urgent need of rain. Irrigated wheat looks good.

Moisture is needed in all the Rolling Plains. Drought and insects are slowing grain. Mite infestations are general and range from medium to heavy. Irrigation and feeding continued. Goat shearing started. Stock water is need d in some counties.

Light rains hampered field work in North Central Texas where top dressed grain looks good.

Feeding dropped sharply in Northeast Texas where pastures are now providing grazing. Some corn has been planted. Some tomatoes have been set in the field. Peach prospects are good.

Moisture was short in far West Texas where ranges are trying to green-up.

A general rain is needed in West Central Texas. Insects are damaging small grains in the Brady-San Saba area. Sheep shearing has started. Pastures are green but grazing is too short for cattle. Sheep and goats are in good condition; the lamb and kid crops are excellent and the lamb market is strong. Farm labor is adequate in most counties.

Light showers to excessive rains plagued Central Texas. Flood damage to crops and fences was reported in Falls and Limestone counties. Warm and sunny weather is needed for planting. Some corn and grain sorghum are up. Bloat problems from grazing clover was reported in Milam County.

East Texas moisture is adequate to surplus. Oats and clover are making good growth. Corn and some cotton are being planted.

Southeast Texas work was slowed by bad weather. Much rice, sorghums and corn have been planted. Cotton planting is increasing.

South Central Texas rain is adequate except in Karnes, Wilson, McMullen and Refugio counties. Wet fields delayed planting. Some cotton will be replanted due to cold damage. Bloat is a problem where clover is grazed.

South Texas rain is short to adequate. Cotton planting is about complete except in the Winter Garden. Destructive hail hit Uvalde County Tuesday. Labor is generally adequate though some shortage has been noted in the Valley.

Missouri Mother, Son Collide And Die

BOONVILLE, Mo. (AP) — A mother and her son, driving in different cars from opposite directions, died in a head-on collision Friday night.

Mrs. Bertha Bonen, 57, was returning home to Blackwater, Mo., apparently after visiting her daughter-in-law and new grandson at St. Joseph Hospital here.

Her son, Ronald Wayne Bonen, 22, was driving from Blackwater to Boonville to see his wife and son.

Held For Wife's Death

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Raymond Sledge, 40, was held without bond today in the shotgun slaying of his former wife.

A mutual acquaintance telephoned Sheriff Bill Hauck and arranged for Sledge to surrender Friday afternoon. Officers had been searching for him since Mrs. Henry Taylor, 40, was shot shortly before midnight Thursday.

She died several hours later. Her husband was wounded in a struggle which followed the shooting of Mrs. Taylor.

Police said Sledge crawled through a kitchen window into the couple's apartment. Mrs. Taylor pointed an unloaded pistol at him and he fired a 20-gauge shotgun at both.

Justice of the Peace A. A. Semaan refused to set bond for Sledge on a murder charge. He scheduled an examining trial Monday.

The nation's corn crop for 1964 is estimated by the Dept. of Agriculture at 3,548,604,000 bushels.

Crash Fatal To Trio

HEREFORD (AP) — Three Hereford men died in a truck-pickup crash Friday on a farm road 6 miles west of here in the Texas Panhandle.

They were Francisco Landin, 34, Rosenda Landin, 30, and Ramond Gonzales, 65. Two other persons were injured.

Tigers Take District Lead

The Snyder Tigers baseball team knocked the Lamesa Tornadoes out of the undefeated ranks here Friday, to the tune of 7-2. In winning, Snyder took over undisputed lead in district play with a record of two victories and no losses. Lamesa is now 2-1, as is Levelland. Brownfield and Sweetwater are winless in two outings each.

The Tigers continued to show improvement in the hitting department in Friday's contest, with 8 players getting one hit each. Five of the blows were for extra bases. J. N. Wall and Leslie Brown had home runs, while Roy Kizer, Jay Williamson and David Holt each had a double.

Wall went all the way on the mound for the Tigers to gain credit for the win, as he limited the Tornadoes to 5 hits. He struck out 10 and walked only 2.

Snyder jumped out to a lead in the bottom of the first as leadoff man Brown poled one over the fence. Before the inning was over the Tigers had scored another as Drew Bullard got on base on a fielder's choice, stole second, and came in on Kizer's double.

Snyder iced it down in the 5th by scoring 5 big runs, on a homer by Wall, an error on the Lamesa shortstop which allowed Kenny Gay on base, doubles by Williamson and Holt, and a single by Mack Galyean. Lamesa scored single runs in the 6th and 7th innings.

Snyder's next action will be Tuesday, also in Towle Park, when the defending champions, the Brownfield Cubs, come to town. The contest is slated to start at 4 p.m.

Aggie Nine Tries For Third Place

By The Associated Press

The Texas Aggies, who have been doing only so-so this season, will try to take over sole possession of third place in the Southwest Conference baseball race at Fort Worth today.

The Aggies swamped the hapless Texas Christian Horned Frogs 7-0 Friday to run their conference record to 4-3 and move into a third place tie with Texas Christian.

A&M and Texas Christian play again at Fort Worth today in the only scheduled conference game and a repeat victory could move the Aggies ahead of the idle SMU Mustangs.

The University of Texas lengthened its lead in the conference race by squeezing past Rice 2-1 Friday as second place Baylor edged the University of Houston 8-7 in an 11-inning non-conference battle.

Texas is now 6-1 and Baylor is 5-2. The Friday losses dropped Rice to 2-6 and Texas Christian to 0-6.

Golf's Big Three Tied For Lead

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The pressure increased today as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player shared a one-stroke lead going into the third round of the Masters tournament, once a cozy gathering for the golf elite.

Since Horton Smith won the first tourney and $1,500 in 1934, the Masters has mushroomed into an immense, colorful multi-million dollar spectacle.

It is televised nationally during the last two days and lures an estimated 40,000 to 50,000 spectators for each of the final days.

Palmer, the defending champion and four - times winner, Nicklaus and Player were shooting for a $20,000 first prize out of a more than $100,000 purse and the prestige of winning a sort of golfing Olympic, which draws the outstanding pros and amateurs of the world.

They were bunched at 138, six under par for the 6,980-yard course that turned killer again Friday after being a soft touch on Thursday's opener.

The Saturday telecast by CBS-TV was set for 5 to 6 p.m. EST, and the Sunday telecast of the windup was scheduled from 4 to 5:30 p.m. EST.

When the final group of 49 went into the final 36 holes, the course became tougher because of gusty winds, hard, fast greens, and difficult pin placements. The cutoff point was 148.

Close behind the co-leaders were Dan Sikes at 139, Tony Lema at 140, Tommy Aaron and Doug Sanders at 141, Bo Wininger at 142, and George Bayer at 143.

BIG BORE SHOOTERS—Canyon Gun Club members will break out their big bore rifles Sunday at 1:30 p.m. for a shoot at the club range. Open to anyone who wants to shoot, the match is for 25 caliber and up, bench rest at 100 yards, 10 shots, with rifle weight limit of 10½ pounds and 6-power scope. Trophies will be awarded to the three top shooters.

Nellie Fox Makes Biggest Hit Of All

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

President Lyndon Johnson in Houston and Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. in Atlanta made big hits in helping dedicate $50 million worth of new baseball stadiums, but it was a 37-year-old retired player who provided the biggest hit.

The President and Mrs. Johnson joined a crowd of 47,876 that saw Houston edge the New York Yankees 2-1 in 12 innings Friday night at the Astros' $31.6 million domed stadium. It was the first professional baseball ever played indoors.

Mayor Allen was on hand for a reception welcoming the Milwaukee Braves home, then watched with 37,232 fans as the Braves defeated Detroit 6-3 in the $18 million Atlanta Stadium.

The biggest hit, though, was the one that won the game for Houston.

It was a single off the bat of coach Nellie Fox, acting as a pinch hitter with two out and Jim Wynn at second base. The hit, off Pete Mikkelsen, blooped into center field, sending Wynn around with the winning run.

President Johnson, a Texas native, received a huge standing ovation when it was announced he had arrived. He and the First Lady waved from a window of the plush, private suite of the Astro owners, located high above the right field section.

The President wasn't around for the finish, though. He saw Mickey Mantle homer for the Yankees in the sixth and left three innings later with the game tied 1-1.

In Atlanta, Mayor Allen greeted the Braves, who will move there next season, by saying it was "the happiest occasion for Atlanta since General Sherman decided to head South in 1864" — after burning most of the city.

The most popular Braves during a parade through the city were veterans Ed Mathews and Hank Aaron. It was another Aaron, however, who sparkled in the first game at the Braves' future park.

Hank's younger brother, Tommie, clouted a three-run homer in the first inning that started Milwaukee on its way. Joe Torre later socked a two-run homer and a run-scoring double.

In less glamorous proceedings, home runs by Zoilo Versalles and Harmon Killebrew gave Minnesota a 2-1 triumph over the New York Mets while Floyd Robinson led the Chicago White Sox to an 8-3 victory over Cincinnati with a triple and two singles.

Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh 5-4 on homers by Wes Covington, Richie Allen, Tony Taylor and Tony Gonzalez, and Boston scored three unearned runs in the 10th inning for a 7-4 decision over the Chicago Cubs. Tony Conigliaro's two-run homer capped the winning rally for the Red Sox.

Rain washed out San Francisco and Cleveland.

Bill May Be Signed In Stonewall

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — A former schoolmate said today that President Johnson will sign the newly passed school bill in the little building where he attended grade school classes.

The White House would neither confirm nor deny that this was planned.

Mrs. Lydia Bohls said she and others who went to school with Johnson had been invited and the signing was set for 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

She said one of their teachers, Richard Merz, also would be there. Merz now is a retired farmer.

Formerly known as the J unction School, the building consists of a single 20-by-40-foot room with tin on the outside, wood inside and a shingle roof. It has since been converted into a home owned by Bert Alford of Walton, Okla.

Johnson attended the school seven years along with his brother and sisters. It is beside the Pedernales River and a few hundred yards from his birthplace.

Mrs. Bohls and her husband now operate a small button factory in Stonewall.

She said Johnson's father and mother often went to the school to observe the classes. Johnson's father, then a state legislator, sometime held spelling bees.

Mrs Bohls said the boys had to bring in wood to keep the stove burning in the winter.

She recalled Johnson as a lanky boy, relaxed and cheerful.

The whole Johnson family was interested in politics and history, Mrs. Bohls said.

Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris of the New York Yankees are the only active American Leaguers to have hit 50 or more home runs in a single season.

Former Pro Player L. B. Gatewood Dies

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A former Baylor and Tulane football star who later played for the Green Bay Packers professional team died Friday at the Federal Aviation Agency Research Institute after experimental exercises by the former heart attack victim.

He was Lester Boyd Gatewood, 43, who collapsed after trotting around a gymnasium as part of an exercise research program at the FAA's Civil Aeromedical Research Institute. He reportedly suffered two coronary attacks in recent years.

A physician at the institute said attempts were made to revive Gatewood with external cardiac massage.

Gatewood played football with Baylor in 1941-42 and Tulane in 1953. He was with the Packers in 1946-47.

Texas Orange Squad Edges Whites 13-12

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Orange squad staged a second half comeback and overcame a 12-0 deficit to defeat the Whites 13-12 in the final University of Texas spring football game Friday night.

The Whites dominated the first half and forged ahead on a 3-yard touchdown run by Tom Stockton and Robert Leach's 12-yard run for another tally.

Phil Harris scored on an 84-yard punt return for the first Orange score while quarterback Gregg Lott's 3-yard pass to Bill Sullivan for the second touchdown. Frank Bedrick kicked the extra point that proved the margin of victory.

Astro Boss Hopes For Bad Weather

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—"I'm going home tonight and pray for the stormiest, windiest, rainiest day that's ever hit Texas. I'm going to pray like I never prayed before."

This was not the plaintive voice of a distraught farmer in the scorched wastelands of Judge Roy Bean's pecos country. It belonged to Luman Harris, manager of the Houston Astros.

Not even Friday night's 2-1 victory in 12 innings over the New York Yankees in the steel-domed stadium's unveiling could lighten glum Lum's heart.

"Please, sun," he pleaded, raising his head toward the skies. "Stay away from the park tomorrow."

Harris is a hardy soul with the tough, weather-beaten face of a man who has endured much. But he acknowledged sadly that he was sick over the spectacles he had witnessed the past two days inside this unbelievably magnificent $31.6 million structure.

Fly balls lost in the sun's glare through the maze of skylights, fused with the complicated jig-saw type latticework that comprises the dome, caused havoc among the outfielders and made playing in the daytime a hazard.

Consequently, there was grave concern among Houston officials for the afternoon exhibition games today and Sunday against the Baltimore Orioles and Yankees.

The players Friday experimented with orange painted baseballs and sun glasses of various hues but none proved satisfactory.

"We may have to blacken the dome and play with the lights on," said general manager Paul Richards. "This, of course, would kill the grass. But we could always bring in synthetic grass. That would be all right. I think synthetic grass would be better, anyway."

Should the engineers decide against it, Richards would like to turn all 21 day games to night. But he would need the permission of the league and the players.

"We showed 'em how a game can be played in the stadium," said Harris. "But that was tonight. You'll see a different game tomorrow."

An intra-squad game Thursday and an afternoon workout by the Astros Friday left no doubt in anyone's mind that baseball, in any recognizeable form, simply cannot be played under the dome in the daytime under present conditions.

The players simply cannot follow the ball when they have to look into the 4,596 skylights of transparent lucite.

Club President Roy Hofheinz and Richards, embarrased that this one flaw should mar their otherwise perfect air-conditioned stadium, have been searching frantically for a solution. None has been found as yet.

"I don't care if you stripe the balls or paint 'em with polka dots," grumbled Harris. "I just don't believe any colored baseballs or any kind of glasses will help.

"When the sun is shining you might as well forget it. There's nobody in the world that's gonna catch 'em. Not even Willie Mays.

"It's embarrassing. I won't be at all surprised if the other clubs take their men off the field."

Of some consolation to the Astros is the regular season playing schedule. Opening game Monday against Philadelphia will be played at night. The first of 21 daytime home games is scheduled for Sunday, April 25, against Pittsburgh.

Hofheinz and Richards, who spent days conferring with architects of the engineering company that built the stadium, hope to have a solution by then.

Houston officials reported they had received hundreds of letters, telephone calls and wires offering solutions.

"Why not take off the dome and make it a regular park?" said one.

Judge Hofheinz almost swallowed his cigar.

Ira Girls Track Team Wins Meet

The Ira High School girls track team warmed up for the district meet scheduled this coming Thursday, by winnig the Forsan Relays last Friday. The Ira team chalked up 86 points in taking the meet victory San Angelo Central was second with 59, followed by host Forsan with 58.

The Ira girls scored heavily in the relays, by winning two firsts, one second and one third for 60 points. Running on the winning sprint relay and 240 yard Shuttle relay were Jean Byars, Mary Jo Bryant, Janice Bishop and Oneta Rogers. These girls also ran on the 160 yard shuttle relay which placed second. The 300 yard shuttle relay, which came in third, was composed of Bishop, Rogers, Byars and Patsy Jones.

Those who placed in individual events were Golda Autry, who won first in the shot put and third in the 60 yard hurdles; Patsy Jones, who placed first in the discus and the standing hot - step -jump, and second in the shot; and Mary Jo Bryant who took second in the high jump and the 220 yard dash.

The meet Friday was the second one for the Ira girls this year. They placed second in the meet at Aspermont last week with 71 points. They were edged out by Forsan by one point.

High School girls track teams are organized on a statewide basis this year. It is expected that the organization will become a part of the Interscholastic league in the near future.

The state is divided into two classifications. There are at present 12 districts. The local district is comprised of 28 counties, which will probably be reduced as more schools start participating.

The district meet Thursday will be held in Snyder's Tiger Stadium, with 10 teams competing. They are Anton, Smyer, Roby, Aspermont; Forsan, Highland, Sands, Fluvanna, Hobbs and Ira. Preliminaries will get underway at 9:30 a.m. Field events finals will begin at 1:30, while the finals in the running events will start at 3 o'clock.

Events that will be staged include the 60, 100 and 220 yard dashes, 80 meter low hurdles, 440 and 880 yard relays, shot put, discus, high jump, broad jump and the standing hop - step - jump.

Eagles Host Abilene

The Snyder Eagles will play Abilene in a baseball game at 1 p.m. Sunday in Winston Park. Buford Thompson will start on the mound for the Eagles, and Charles Popnoe will be behind the plate.

The Eagles defeated the Lamesa White Sox last Sunday 16-6. Jack Bobo Newsome was the winning pitcher.

The 1965 all star baseball game will be played in the home park of the Minnesota Twins on July 13.

Baseball Season To Open Monday With Nine Games

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Washington and Cincinnati will share the opening day with seven other cities Monday in a unique nine-game baseball program that will include the first official major league indoor game at Houston's controversial domed stadium.

Except for Houston, where the humidity is controlled by the air conditioning system, weather will be a determining factor in attendance. It is expected that 268,000 fans will turn out Monday, plus 35,000 more in the lone Tuesday opener at Baltimore.

Another wild scramble is predicted in the National League where the St. Louis Cardinals won by a whisker last October. Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Milwaukee, San Francisco and possibly Los Angeles and Pittsburgh think they can push the Cardinals. Chicago is talking of making the first division for the first time since 1946. Houston is some crazy and the Mets still hope. There is hope for everybody in the National where nobody has repeated since the 1957-58 Braves.

Even the perennial champion New York Yankees must fight off American League challenges from Baltimore and Chicago, with a possibility that dark horse Cleveland, Detroit or power-laden Minnesota might make trouble. There is new hope for Yankee haters in the club's spring training problems and the improvement of the Orioles and White Sox. Los Angeles and Boston may be annoying factors, with Washington and Kansas City generally expected to bring up the rear.

The Yanks are odds-on favorites but the boys have had trouble separating the Cards, Phils' Giants, Reds and Dodgers in the National. The pre-season poll of baseball writers by The Associated Press had the Yanks and Cards the winners on a point basis but both the Phillies and Reds had many more first place votes than St. Louis.

Among the old faces in new places are ex-Boston player Dick Stuart, now at first for the Phillies who also have Ray Herbert, former White Sox pitcher, and Bo Belinsky, ex-Angel problem child. Washington is playing Frank Howard and Ken McMullen, ex-Dodgers, and Bob Chance, former Indian. Cleveland has Chuck Hinton, acquired from Washington, in a new position at first base and Rocky Colavito, home again after side trips to Detroit and Kansas City, in the outfield. In fact, the Indians are starting Ralph Terry, a former Yankee, as their opening day pitcher.

Houston opens in the dome in a night game with the Phillies in which Bob Bruce of the Astros is supposed to pitch against Chris Short.

In National League day openers it will be the world champion Cardinals with Bob Gibson, their Series hero, facing the Chicago Cubs and Larry Jackson, the majors' top winner with 24, at Wrigley Field in Chicago. The Dodgers will send Don Drysdale against the Mets' Al Jackson at Shea Stadium. Tony Cloninger will work for Milwaukee against the Reds' Jim O'Toole at Cincinnati. Juan Marichal will pitch for San Francisco against strikeout king Bob Veale at Pittsburgh.

The Yanks will open the season at Minnesota. Jim Bouton probably will face Jim Kaat in a day game.

President Johnson is to throw out the first ball in the Washington game where Phil Ortega, a former Dodger, is to pitch for the Senators against Boston's Bill Monbouquette.

Kansas City will open at home against Detroit in a night game with Charles O. Finley unveiling his Missouri mule as John O'Donoghue squares off against Mickey Lolich. In another night game Cleveland's Terry will oppose the Angels' Fred Newman at Los Angeles.

In the lone Tuesday opener, Chicago plans to use Gary Peters against the Orioles' Steve Barber at Baltimore in an interesting clash of the Yanks' top challengers.

Lamar Tech Tries To Keep Title

DENTON, Tex. (AP)—Lamar Tech will be fighting off four schools in the university class in an effort to retain its North Texas Relays crown here today.

Brian Davis, Lamar's outstanding quartermiler, is also expected to run the half mile distance in the Beaumont's school's lively competition with Tulsa, Texas, Texas Christian and North Texas State.

Eight schools will be represented in the freshman-junior college division with athletes from Baylor, Lamar Tech, North Texas, Southern Methodist, Texas Christian and Texas Tech plus Cisco and Ranger Junior Colleges.

Richardson's track and field powerhouse forged out ahead as the high school division opened the two-day relays Friday.

Richardson took four of the six final events and amassed 37 points. Garland and Denton were far behind in second place with eight each.

The Eagles set two new records. They took the sprint medley relay in 3:31.1 with Tom Maupin doing the anchor half-mile lap in 1:54. Butch Walden took the other first day record, clearing 14 feet and one-quarter inch in the pole vault.

West Texas Varsity Slows 'Pistol Pete'

CANYON, Tex. (AP) — The West Texas State football team bottled up "Pistol Pete" Pedro and other former Buffalo stars as the varsity beat the alumni 52-13 in a spring practice game Friday night.

Pedro was held to 18 yards in 10 carries. The two alumni touchdowns were made by Charles Wright and Dennis Flanagan.

Freshman quarterback Steve Haterius and Don Dennus each scored two touchdowns for the varsity.

76ers Win Over Boston Celtics To Tie Series

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maybe the Boston Celtics won't win an unprecedented seventh straight championship in the National Basketball Association after all.

The Philadelphia 76ers came from behind to defeat the Celtics in overtime 134-131 Friday night and square their best-of-7 Eastern Division final playoffs at two games apiece.

The Baltimore Bullets also came from behind to beat the Los Angeles Lakers 114-112 and even the Western Division final playoffs at 2-2. Don Ohl scored the winning basket on a jump shot with 48 seconds left.

A sensational 35-foot shot by Hal Greer with just one second to go gained the 76ers an 118-118 tie in regulation time before 9,293 at Philadelphia. The 76ers opened a five-point lead in the overtime and stayed on top after breaking a 123-123 tie on Lucious Jackson's shot from the side.

Wilt Chamberlain scored 34 points, grabbed 34 rebounds and handed out three assists. Sam Jones' 36 points for Boston was high for the game.

The series now shifts back to Boston Sunday afternoon where the fifth game will be played with a national television audience looking on. "Sunday's going to be the day," said Dolph Schayes, Philadelphia coach.

The fifth game in the Baltimore-Lakers series also will be played Sunday with the Lakers back home in Los Angeles where they won the first two games of the series.

A Baltimore turnout of 10,642, the best of the season, saw the Bullets overcome a 112-108 Los Angeles lead in the last two minutes. Ohl, who finished with 28 points, also tied the score at 112-112 before he sank the winning basket.

Jerry West threw in 48 points for the Lakers who played with the injured Elgin Baylor and Dick Barnett. This upped his four-game point total to 193, but the former All-America from West Virginia tired and missed four shots in the last two minutes.

Giles Predicts History's Greatest Pennant Race

By WARREN C. GILES
President National League
(Written for The Associated Press)

CINCINNATI (AP) — Never in my 29 years in the National League — and more specifically during the 14 years as president — have I seen more justified optimism than that which permeated the spring training season this year.

I've become known as the perennial optimist in recent years but the type of pennant races we've been enjoying has made such optimism widespread throughout the National League.

But now, as we prepare for our 90th season I can honestly say that all the ingredients are present for what could be the greatest pennant race in history. That was the unanimous opinion of all the persons with whom I visited on a tour of the training camps.

Most baseball personnel, writers and broadcasters said much the same thing in discussing the 1965 National League season:

"I just don't know which club to pick."

Naturally, that's the key factor in anticipating an exciting and hard-fought pennant race. The wonderful balance of power which has existed in our league in recent years is best evidenced by he fact that no club has won two straight pennants in the last five years and that five different clubs have won the flag in that period.

Red Schoendienst, manager of the defending champion St. Louis Cardinals, knows this fact of life as do his players. They know, that with the steady improvement of the Mets and Astros, there is no soft touch in the league and that the stiffest possible competition will be forthcoming from the Phillies, Reds, Giants, Braves, Dodgers, Pirates and Cubs.

It might be too much to hope for a repetition of the finish we had last year when four clubs still held a chance to win, or tie, on the second last day of the season.

However, I do believe we may enjoy a better over-all race from start to finish this year. Remember that the Phillies were so far ahead of the second-place club in 1964 during all of August and half of September, that there really wasn't too much excitment in the race. They held leads of four games on Aug. 15, 5½ games on Aug. 31 and six games on Sept. 15. I don't look for any club to open up such gaps this year.

The fans have responded to our thrilling races in recent years by making the turnstiles spin. We've seen an attendance record set during each of the past three seasons and have drawn a mighty impressive total of 34,787,576 paid admissions in those three years.

With the opening of the fabulous new Domed Stadium in Houston this year, and the anticipation of another National League dogfight, I have every reason to hope that we might set an attendance record for the fourth consecutive year. The Astrodome was the No. 1 topic of conversation everywhere I visited this spring and everyone is looking forward eagerly to seeing baseball played indoors. I certainly am.

Ortiz Risks Title Against Panamanian

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP)—Almost a year to the day since his last defense, Carlos Ortiz risks his world lightweight championship tonight against the confident Panamanian challenger, Ismael Laguna.

A sellout crowd is expected for the scheduled 15-rounder at Olympic Stadium.

Ortiz, a 28-year-old Puerto Rican from New York who outpointed Kenny Lane in San Juan on April 11, 1964 in his last title defense, is favored in the betting although Laguna is the sentimental choice of his countrymen.

The challenger goes into the fight with a 37-2 record, but virtually all of his bouts have been in Panama against little known opponents.

Ortiz hopes to make this, his fifth title defense, his 13th straight victory. He hasn't lost since he lifted the crown from Joe Brown in Las Vegas three years ago. His over-all record is 44-4 and one no-decision in 49 bouts.

Bob Farrington of Richwood, Ohio led harness racing drivers with 312 winners in 1964.

Matson Sets New Record In Shot Put

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Randy Matson, the youthful Texas A&M giant, heaved the shot 67 feet, 11¼ inches and the discus 190 feet, 7 inches Friday night — and that, according to veteran observers, is bound to be the greatest double in track history.

The shot throw bettered Dallas Long's world record of 67 feet, 10 inches. The discus toss came within two feet, nine inches of the national college record.

And Matson, the 260-pound sophomore, has only started to work on the discus this year and made it secondary to the shot.

But there are indications that you haven't seen anything yet when it comes to such double feats.

Matson threw the shot 67 feet, 9 inches at the Texas Relays, and thus added 2¼ inches within a week. He had tosses of 66-1, 62-2½, 65-3, 66-10, 66-9½ and then his 67-11¼ performance on the last try.

Everything had been checked according to specifications so there would be no danger of the mark not being recognized.

Matson probably will pay more attention to the discuss now that he has attained the world shot put record — something he had announced as his goal this year. Even so, he didn't expect to get it as quickly as he did.

Matson, second in the Olympic Games, is considered the best prospect to attain 70 feet in the shot who has come along.

Boy Begins Job Training With Nickel, Yen To Learn

Editor's note: A big weapon in the government's war on poverty is the Job Corps, designed to give a second chance to the poor who lack the skills necessary to get a good job. Some 300 already have started training at Gary Job Corps Center. Here is a report on a typical Job Corps man, selected at random.

By RONNIE THOMPSON

SAN MARCOS (AP)—Teddy Teasley, a teen-aged mountain boy, got off the train after a three-day trip from Virginia with a nickel in his pocket, a suitcase in his hand, and an opportunity in his grasp.

Teddy wants to make lots of money some day so he joined the Job Corps.

He is typical of hundreds of boys, 16 to 21, pouring into Job corps centers set up by the government to fight poverty.

Teddy's background may differ from others, but his desires are the same. He wants to learn a trade. Otherwise, he knows, he'll probably never be able to get a high paying job.

The Job Corps pays while you learn.

"It's nice to get paid for going to school," Teddy said as he counted the first $15 he was given to buy essentials such as toothpaste. In addition to $15 every two weeks, he gets $50 in a savings account which is his when he leaves.

Teddy, 17, and several other boys arrived about noon on March 30. All were delighted to be here.

"I never expected to see a big place like this," Teddy said of the center, a converted Army base three miles from San Marcos. "This is just like a town, except there ain't no girls."

Back home in Norton, Va., Teddy shared a bedroom with six brothers. Here, like all the Job Corpsmen, he has a room and shares a bath with two others.

"Boy, this is pretty nice," he said, eagerly surveying his small room, furnished with an Army cot, Army blankets, wall locker and chair. "I ain't never had a room by myself before."

A bushy-haired lad of 135 pounds, Teddy talked readily in his slow Southern drawl about his mountain home, where his father operates a small coal mine.

He dropped out of school when he was 15 after attending 10 years, and making it only to the seventh grade. "I just couldn't get along—couldn't seem to get around to doing my homework.

"And, boy, you just can't get a good job in that little ol' town," he said, leaning back on his cot.

Early in March, Teddy related, a welfare worker in Norton talked to him about the Job Corps and "how they'd train me in a trade."

He was working then as a bellboy from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m., six days a week, for $16.47 a week. "Tips were good, though. Sometimes you'd get $8 or $9 in tips in a week."

The Job Corps appealed to Teddy. "I liked the idea right off," he said. "I hated to leave home, but you can't be a bellboy all your life. Anyhow, I always wanted to come to Texas."

Teddy said his family is neither poor nor unhappy. He has 13 brothers and sisters.

"We weren't poor, and we weren't rich. Lots of people ain't got all they want, but they ain't poor."

After quitting school, Teddy had a scrape with the law and spent some time in a reform school. (Gary officials say only a few of the corpsmen have had trouble with the law before coming here.)

Teddy spent his first days at Gary in the style of an Army recruit, going from building to building getting his clothing issue, his spending money, and taking various tests.

Gary officials urged the boys to stay well-groomed and neatly dressed."

"Gee, I thought they were talking about me when they said we ought to keep our hair cut," Teddy said, brushing his hand through his long, black hair.

As soon as he got back to his room, he tried on all his new clothes—trousers, shirts, shoes and underwear—then put them carefully into his duffel bag and wall locker. He especially liked the red, white and blue patch on the sleeves which carried the "Job Corps" insignia.

Gary is one of three Job Corps centers set up by the government to teach "urban" skills. It trains unskilled and unemployed youths no longer in school. Many students are school dropouts, although some are high school graduates who can't get jobs.

The corpsmen have a choice of studies that includes auto and diesel mechanics, machine shop, welding, commercial art, retailing, basic automotive electricity, and drafting.

The center has a budget for the first 18 months of $8.1 million. It is operated by Texas Education Foundation, Inc., a non-profit agency under contract to the federal government's Office of Economic Opportunity.

Teddy went through the first day of classes with mixed emotions. He liked the idea of three hours of diesel mechanics in the morning. He was apprehensive about science, arithmetic, citizenship and health classes in the afternoon.

Admittedly a little bewildered after the first hour, spent going over charts of various tools, Teddy lighted a cigarette and declared:

"I didn't know them tools had all those names. I've worked on cars just about all my life—since I was real little. I didn't have to know the names of everything."

"My sister told me they need diesel mechanics in Michigan," he told the boys standing beside him. "I bet when I get out of here, I can get a good job up there."

Teddy can leave anytime he wants, even though the full course at Gary lasts two years.

"I might take a job before the two years is up if I thought I knowed enough," he said. "If I didn't think I knowed enough, I wouldn't.

"One reason a boy might not stay is 'cause he can't get friends. And he maybe can't get along with the teachers; I think I'm gonna like them."

$1691

What's the catch?
There isn't any.

Plunk $1691 into a salesman's hand and he'll plunk you into the seat of a new 1965 Volkswagen Deluxe Sedan. (Give him $30 more, and you'll be plunked into a Volkswagen with matching leatherette upholstery.)

Of course, you'll have to buy license plates and pay local tax. But that is it.

Sound a little too simple? Perhaps. But then the Volkswagen is a simple little car.

AMUSEMENT

'Kitty' Loses; Gunsmoke Back

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Amanda Blake lost another case of bourbon. "Gunsmoke" will be back next season.

This makes the third year running that the carrot-haired Amanda has bet a set worker the series won't be renewed. She defended her rashness: "It just isn't logical for a series to keep going on and on like this. I'm bound to win one of these years."

Don't get the idea that Amanda is anxious to see "Gunsmoke" fold. She is as loyal to the Dodge City drama as anyone. But as a 10-year veteran of the series and as bride with homes in three states, she is understandably weary of the rigors of putting out the hour-long film.

"This year we end this season's shows on April 6 and start next season's on April 7," she remarked.

She does manage to get some time off during the season's shooting, but not as much as she would like. As the wife of cattleman Jason Day, she divides her off-duty time between her house at nearby Calabasas, his house at Scottsdale, Ariz., and his ranch near Bryce Canyon in Utah.

Her husband pilots her between those places.

Despite her bets about "Gunsmoke's" demise, Amanda retains a fiercely loyal attitude toward the show, and she has her own ideas about how it should proceed. She does not approve of the introduction this season of guest stars like Jean Arthur and Betty Hutton.

"The people who tune in 'Gunsmoke' aren't interested in guest stars," she reasoned. "They're not even interested in Jim Arness, Amanda Blake, Milburn Stone or Ken Curtis. They want to know what is happening to Matt, Kitty, Doc and Festus."

Nor does she anticipate a return of Dennis Weaver as Chester, now that his own show, "Kentucky Jones," has gone down the drain. "The show has progressed since Dennis left," she said. "It would be a mistake to go back."

On another matter she has mixed feelings. Recently she did a show in which Kitty believes Matt dead. When she finds out he is alive, she gives him a clinch more passionate than they have ever known on the show.

"I've only been kissed three times on 'Gunsmoke' in 10 years," she commented, "and never by Matt. That scene was a charge of emotion that really got to me, and I think it will startle the viewers. But I was uncomfortable doing it, mostly because I know Jim doesn't like to do those scenes."

Another case-of-bourbon bet for her next season?

"Yes, a couple of people named Amanda Blake and Milburn Stone come up for contract renewal next season, and that pair is going to want so much money that CBS will think twice about continuing the show."

United To Get New Jets

NEW YORK (AP) — United Air Lines said today it will buy or lease 144 new jets at a cost of about $750 million, mostly from the Boeing Co.

W. A. Patterson, chairman of the board, said "this will be the largest order for commercial aircraft ever placed by an individual airline."

Patterson told a news conference that United, the nation's largest airline, would be fully equipped with jet aircraft by early 1970.

Most of the new jet equipment would be used in short range trips.

The new jets included 40 Boeing twinjet 737s, 26 Boeing three-jet 727s, six of them convertible to cargo carriers, and nine Douglas DC8s.

United also took an option to buy 30 more 737s, five DC8s and nine Boeing cargo-passenger 727s.

The company said it would also lease 25 Boeing 727s.

H. L. Hunt's Son Reveals Engagement

DALLAS (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hunt announced Saturday the engagement of their son, Ray, to Miss Nancy Ann Hunter, the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Elmo Hunter of Kansas City.

Mrs. Hunt said the couple would be married June 19 in Kansas City.

Both are SMU seniors. Hunt plans to go into the oil business. Miss Hunter studied to teach school.

They will live in Dallas, Mrs. Hunt said.

H. L. Hunt, an oil operator, is one of the world's richest men.

Reds Bring Home Renewed Polish Pact

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin returned today from Warsaw where they renewed the Soviet treaty of friendship with Poland for another 20 years.

The party arrived in Moscow by special train.

Mancini Is Fast Worker

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Henry Mancini composes hit songs the way some people dash off a letter to mother.

The Oscar-winning composer took all of a half-hour to write "Dear Heart."

It took him a little longer — but not much — to compose the music for "Moon River" and "Days of Wine and Roses."

"I don't think I've ever spent more than an hour on any one song," says Mancini, "but that doesn't count the thinking that goes on beforehand."

At the moment he is scoring "The Great Race," a picture that runs about three hours. It takes him a whole week to write all the music for a movie that long.

That's why he is so much in demand to score movies — it costs a lot of money to hire musicians by the week.

Mancini has to write songs fast in order to work in all his other jobs.

In an era when big bands are scarce, Mancini plays dozens of college concerts per year. His record albums are big sellers, especially among the college crowd.

Doubts Wisdom Of 'Hollywood Movies'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer Larry Jackson wonders if Hollywood is wise to make movies about itself, such as the Jean Harlow story.

Jackson believes the Harlow story, as done in Irving Shulman's best-seller, painted a sordid picture of the town.

"Hollywood has spent millions to get rid of the sinful city image, to play down the eccentricities of some of its stars," says Jackson. "Then a book about the town becomes a best-seller and producers fight to film it."

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — Now here's one that's maybe a little involved but I can't help feeling sentimental about it. A lady from Tyler, Texas, writes, "I read your column every day in our local newspaper. . ." Just think of that. She reads it EVERY DAY and I hope the Tyler editor appreciates his hometown people with such distinguished taste.

Anyhow, she wants to know should the family come to Mexico City by train and hire a car and a guide here or bring their own car? Also, would we happen to know of somebody interested in trading homes with this lady for a week or so.

It's like this, ma'am: if you are running on a budget you should drive your own car. Guides and chartered vehicles will cost more. Thousands of people who never got south of Kansas City drive to Mexico every year and they make out fine. You will discover an awful lot of things set up for the tourist industry and will have no trouble reading maps.

Are there any schools of black magic in Mexico?

Heavenly days. They had one here some time back but the law put a chain on the door. Clients who went there to commune with the Other World in a dark room complained the spirits were making off with their pocketbooks.

* * *

Am driving to Mexico City and would like best route: Monterrey through Ciudad Victoria and Valles or via Saltillo, Matehuala and San L uis Potosi?

The Monterrey - Victoria route is shortest. It is scenic and full of mountains that sometimes are foggy. The route through Saltillo is much faster, practically mountain - free although you see them on both sides as you sweep up the long, rising valley. Take your pick.

Is deer season open the year around in Mexico? Best places to hunt and is there a limit?

Deer season runs from September 1 through October 31. There are deer in most parts of the country — small in the tropics — but the best hunting reportedly is in the northern states. Limit is one buck per person for the season.

* * *

Best spots for skin diving and spear fishing?

Just about anywhere on either coast. Isla Mujeres and Cozumel, just off the Yucatan peninsula, are excellent and the water is so clear you can see a mile through it. Some parts of the Gulf, like around Veracruz or Tampico, are shallow and muddy. But there are places that will qualify. The Pacific Coast has Acapulco, Zihuatanejo, Mazatlan, Puerto Vallarta and a fleet of spots on the Gulf of Baja California — all prime.

Railroad Commission Reports On Drilling

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas wildcatters struck oil 12 times and gas 10 times last week, the Railroad Commission said Saturday.

The report said 100 oil and 31 gas wells were completed, bringing year totals to 1931 oil and 924 gas wells. Last year, 2,356 oil and 781 gas wells were drilled.

Crews plugged 159 wells, 108 of them dry holes.

The commission said the average calendar day allowable was 2,899,465 barrels, up 8,482.

Rocket Fails To Return Usable Data

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — an Air Force rocket probe that carried a cargo of simulated human tissues into the heart of the Van Allen radiation belt apparently failed to produce usable data because of radio trouble.

A Blue Scout rocket propelled the 30-pound probe 15,800 miles high Friday, but the Air Force reported that radio signals became sporadic after only 11 minutes of the 3-hour, 15-minute outward journey.

Baby Witch is Expected Next Spring

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Q. Do witches have babies? A. On television they do.

If all goes according to expectations, next fall will bring the birth of what may well be the most notable baby in these precincts since the arrival of Desiderio Arnaz IV in 1953. Young Desi happened to greet the world on the precise day that his parents, Lucille Ball and Desi Arnza, were enacting the charade of the birth of a baby on their television show, "I Love Lucy."

The result was a television audience that broke all records.

A dozen years later, a like situation is brewing. Elizabeth Montgomery, star of the top-rated "Bewitched," has announced that she and husband William Asher, who also directs the show, are expecting their second child in the fall. Television schedules being what they are, there is no choice but that Samantha, the witch Miss Montgomery plays of the series, must become pregnant, too.

This is not the first time that the Ashers' family plans have upset the show's scheduling. Shortly after the pilot was filmed, she discovered she was expecting their first child, Bill Jr. The series had no trouble finding buyers, but then came the long wait until Liz had the baby. She began filming three weeks afterward; her doctor advised six.

At any rate, we'll be hearing more about the witchlet — witchlette? — come next season.

Young Writers Have Tough Time Selling To Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the time of year, with college graduation just ahead, then everybody directly or indirectly connected with television is deluged with The Question from young aspiring writers and actors—but particularly writers: How can I break into television?

Most authors report mournfully that their manuscripts are returned, often unopened, by networks with a form rejection slip. At the same time, they add, they are constantly hearing that television — networks, production studios and independent packagers — is in emergency need of new talent.

Just a couple of weeks ago, Leonard H. Goldenson, president of American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc., parent of the American Broadcasting Company's television and radio network, in a widely reported speech, addressed himself particularly to the need for developing new talent, including the underwriting of full fellowships at Yale University's School of Drama.

If television yearns for fresh, new writing talent, what then, are the chances of the average aspiring script writer?

Frankly, they are downright awful.

"It is terribly discouraging for the new writer, the unpublished writer, the writer with no professional reputation," said Ross Donaldson, director of TV's program services. "And it is particularly discouraging if the writer does not function in one of television's production centers, particularly Hollywood, where most series are made.

"In the first place, if he has an idea, it is likely the idea is not really new — there are very few brand new story ideas and everyone is constantly combing these for inspiration. It would be hard for an untried writer to bring much to this operation."

The NBC executive explained that a script writer, attempting to write professionaly at a distance from the production center, would have no way of knowing what material was planned or what problems were being encountered.

He was not completely discouraging, however, because he had one piece of concrete advice to offer: go where the action is.

"If the young writer is determined, he can go to one of the production centers and try to get a job—even if it is not exactly what he wants — which may put him in a position to be noticed. He might try to be a page for one of the studios. Even if he only carried coffee to the director and cast, he would be in a better position to know what was needed and to be noticed himself."

Utah Beauty Is Miss Wool

SAN ANGELO (AP)—A dark-eyed freshman beauty from the University of Utah, Miss Sharon Moline, 19, became Miss Wool of America Friday night.

Judges picked her over 19 rivals in the wool industry's annual pageant. Each contender represented one of the 20 wool councils in the United States.

Miss Moline, a fetching brownette who measures 35-23-35, is a ward of J. C. Burrus of Salt Lake City. She's 5 feet 8 inches tall.

Actress Jane Wyatt placed a $250,000 diadem on the new queen's head in the climax to a weeklong contest.

Judges picked Miss Linda Pagluso, a UCLA freshman from La Canada, Calif., as first runnerup, Miss Diane Reutter, an Arizona State University junior from Phoenix, was second runnerup.

Valuable Leaflet Being Distributed

As an important phase of its 1965 educational and fund-raising Crusade against Cancer, the American Cancer Society is distributing a life - saving leaflet.

"We hope the leaflet, entitled 'Answers to Questions About Cancer Which Concern You,' will reach every home in Snyder," Cliff Hale, crusade chairman, said, "If read and acted upon, we could save half of those who develop cancer instead of one out of three as we are today."

The leaflet poses four questions and then answers them.

Are we getting anywhere against cancer?

Yes, gains in diagnosis and treatment have made it possible for over a million Americans to be alive today, cured of cancer. Physicians could cure about half of all cancer patients, if people came for examination in time. With present medical knowledge, uterine cancer could be practically eliminated. Many more people could be cured of cancer of the colon and rectum and other major cancer killers.

Noteworthy progress is being made in research support by the government and the American Cancer Society.

What signs of symptoms may mean cancer?

These are Cancer's Seven Danger Signals: 1. Unusual bleeding or discharge. 2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere. 3. A sore that does not heal. 4. Change in bowel or bladder habits. 5. Hoarseness or cough. 6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing. 7. Change in a wart or mole.

If a signal lasts longer than two weeks, consult a physician.

What protection is there against cancer?

The best protection is to have a complete physical examination each year and to act promptly on Cancer's Seven Danger Signals. Against lung cancer? Don't smoke cigarettes. Against uterine cancer? Women should have the "Pap" test annually. Against breast cancer? Women should learn to examine their breasts once a month. If they find anything of concern, they should see their physician at once. Against cancer of the colon and rectum? Men and women should have a "procto" (rectum and colon) examination annually.

What progress is being made against leukemia?

As yet there is no cure, but scientists have made it possible to extend the lives of many leukemia patients for months and even years. There is great hope for the future. More research is being supported by the American Cancer Society on leukemia than on any other form of cancer.

Altrurian Club Hears Delightful Program On Japan At McKanna Ranch Home Meet

Altrurian Club members ever consider themselves informed, entertained, and rewarded for the excellency of the programs and the friendly association amongst the group.

Such a meeting, and much more, is the consensus of opinion of the fortunate members who met at the ranch home of Mrs. Edith McKanna, April 2.

Club members, honorary member Mrs. D. M. Cogdell, and guests, Mrs. Beatrice Nace of Mancos, Colo. and Mrs. Harold M. Garrett of Tulsa, Okla.

The pictures snapped, in color, by Mrs. Dewey Odom, soon after the arrival of the guests should be interesting, with the background of greenery and flowers showing through the glass of the conservatory, the varied hues of costumes of the ladies and the bevy of peacocks flounting their royal spring colors, mugging professionally.

The guests toured the house at will, marveling at the extent and rarity of the objects collected throughout the orient, often with a sigh, that each piece of caromg, each inlay of jade, each ancient screen print or figure could not be described individually and personally.

During this period Mr. Ralph J. Wesson furnished music by playing the piano forte, and the organ.

The seated luncheon was served after a consomme course in the drawing room, each plate a picture in arrangement and color. Guests were seated in the lani and dining room.

Following lunch and a short business session, Mrs. Giles Bowers introduced Mrs. McKanna, who gave the following discussion on the culture of Japan.

"For over thirteen centuries of recorded history the arts of Japan have served to transmit her customs, myths, legends, and religious beliefs, besides chronicling the everyday life and scenic beauty of the land. This represents one of the longest aesthetic traditions in the history of art. Architecture, sculpture, and painting are not the only manifestations of this extraordinary legacy. Account must also be taken of the picture scrolls, color prints, lacquers, textiles, ceramics, metalwork, masks, miniature carvings, and sword mounts. Because of the extraordinary craftsmanship traditionally lavished by the Japanese on these objects, the Western distinction between major and minor arts does not hold in Japan, and these works must be regarded as art of the first order. These subjects are often treated in a style of such subtle and suggestive simplicity that their meanings are apt to remain veiled to the uninitiated Westerner.

"Although there was no written literature in Japan before the introduction of the Chinese characters early in the fifth century, archaeological evidence indicates that Japan possessed one of the most advanced Neolithic cultures in the world, especially in the making of weapons, tools, and utensils, and in creating unusually intricate designs on pottery. Prior to the Christian era her civilization had been fairly homogeneous, but gradually there developed relations and traffic between Korea and Japan; which probably began even before the first century B. C.

A further impetus to learning and cultural development was provided by the introduction of Buddhism in the year 552. A continuous stream of priests, monks, scholars, artists, and specialized craftsmen from Korea now settled in Japan, creating the most important nucleus of Japan's cultural foundations from 552 to 645.

"All the arts began to free themselves from foreign influence and flourished as never before with a truly native vocabulary and a typical Japanese freedom of expression. This was prompted by the suspension of official relations with China in the year 894.

"The art of arranging flowers known as Ikebana or Living Flowers is an aesthetic achievement peculiar to the Japanese. The appreciation of beauty in nature is universal but the symbolic beauty the Japanese find in nature is unique. This concept of symbolism, applied to their own plant material and spiritual requirements, is the essence of Japanese floral art.

"Japan began communications with Korea and China in the first and second centuries of the Christian era. From the first to the sixth centuries were the period of unification.

"Buddhism was introduced in the sixth century. The seventh and eight centuries were called the Nara period.

"From the eleventh to the nineteenth centuries Feudalism was adopted. The Feudal system lasted until 1868 which was a period of 800 years.

"Western culture came to Japan in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Introduction of Catholicism was introduced in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries and was prohibited in the seventeenth century.

"Contact with the U. S. through Commador Perry in 1853. Prostestantism came to Japan in the nineteenth century.

"Japan has been ruled by one Empirial family throughout her history which has 124 generations of the Emperiors including eleven Lady Soveregns. The present Emperor being the 124 generation of the same dynasty."

Alma Worley Hostess To Union 4-H Club

The Union 4-H Club met Thursday at the community center. Freda Pitts, president, called the meeting to order. Roll call was answered by "My Favorite Food." Lou Alice Mathis acted as secretary.

MR. AND MRS. JIMMY MARONEY
(Photo by Craft Studio)

Double Ring Marriage Vows Exchanged By Miss Williamson And Mr. Maroney

Jane Williamson and Jimmy Maroney exchanged marriage vows Friday evening, April 2, in the First Methodist Church of Snyder. Rev. James Tidwell performed the double ring ceremony.

The altar of the church was centered with an arched candelabra banked with emerald foilage and burning white tapers. Other matching candelabra and sunburst of greenery were used in the background.

Wayne Pitner was organist and Mrs. James Tidwell was vocalist.

Candles were lighted by Jarry Scroggins, cousin of the groom, and Jerry Hatfield.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Williamson, and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Maroney, both of Snyder.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her traditional wedding gown of acetate peau was appliqued with Alencon lace on the fitted bodice and front of the sweeping skirt. The coachman silhouette was pulled into a back bustle effect with a full chapel train, accented by a swallow tail and more of the lace appliques at the hemline. The long fitted sleeves came to a point at her wrists and were accented with tiny self covered buttons. The neckline showed to advantage the single strand of pearls, which were a gift of the bridegroom.

She carried a traditional bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis, accented with English ivy and satin streamers on a white Bible.

Janice Atwood, Charlotte Stewart and Judy Richardson were bridesmaids. They wore pastel blue silk street length dresses with matching headpieces. They carried Daisy white pom poms of cascade design. Pastel shades of blue net and satin loops formed the background.

Susan Darn and Lisa Hopper, cousins of the bride were trainbearers. They wore pastel pink dresses, white gloves, and wristlet corsages of Frenched white carnations.

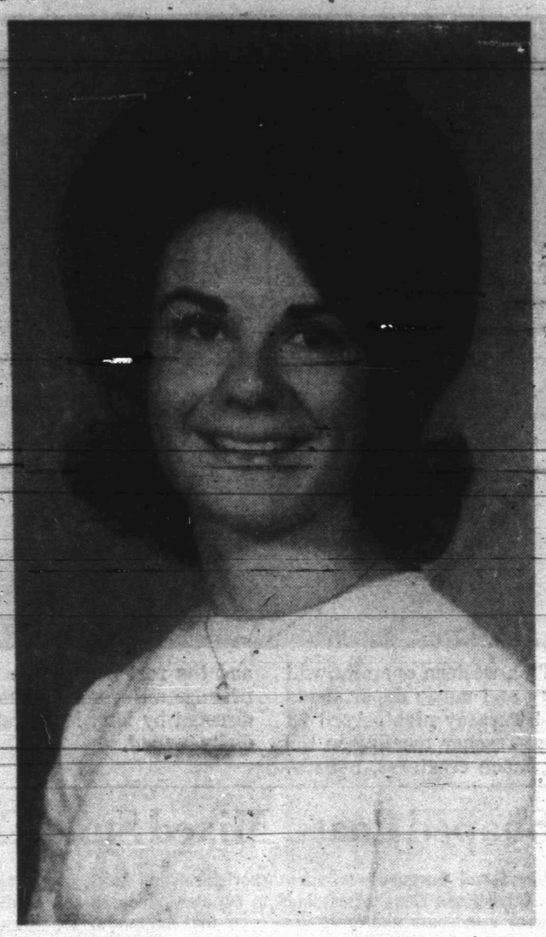

Ronnie Maroney, brother of the groom, was best man. Gary Steed and Richard Newman were groomsmen. Jay Williamson, brother of the bride, and Don Mitchell seated guests. Jodi Williamson, also a brother of the bride, carried the rings.

A reception in Wesley Hall followed. The bride's table was covered with a white organdy floor - length cloth, centered with a bouquet of white carnations and white pom poms. Dana Falls presided at the three tiered wedding cake and Teri Alexander poured punch. Mrs. Delbert Hopper, aunt of the bride, registered guests.

For her wedding trip to Dallas, the bride chose a two piece beige linen suit with beige accessories. Her corsage was a white gardenia taken from the bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School, attended one year at Howard County Junior College, and one-half semester at Stephen F. Austin State College. The groom attended Odessa Junior College two years and was employed with Kerr and McGee Oil Co. in Las Vegas for one year. The couple will make their home in Odessa.

Out-of-town guests were from Oklahoma City, Okla., Vernon, Sweetwater, Sterling City, Westbrook, Odessa, Big Spring, Albany, Anson and Lubbock.

JUNE WEDDING DATE—Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Cummings, 2401 Avenue H, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lea, to James (Jim) Spradlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Spradlin, 2302 Forty - first Street. Marriage vows will be exchanged on June 12 in the First Baptist Church of Snyder. (Photo by Craft Studio)

Newcomb Conveys 'Presence'

IWO JIMA. By Richard F. Newcomb.

Just 20 years ago the United States Marines launched the biggest and most costly battle in the Corps' 168-year history, an amphibious assault against a little five-mile rock called Iwo Jima, smack on the route to the Japanese homeland.

The generals had hoped to blast the Japanese out of their fortifications and caves within 10 days. The battle was officially over in 26 days and 9 hours — with mopping up still a problem. The Marines had 4,189 killed in action and total casualties of 19,938.

As one officer of the supporting force put it, Iwo was "the most expensive piece of real estate the United States ever purchased. We paid 550 lives and 2,500 wounded for every square mile. . ." But Iwo was needed as a bomber base.

The viciousness of the combat was such that one unit "in nine murderous days had moved 3,000 yards."

Newcomb presents a tremendous flow of hour-by-hour developments, filled with individual stories of the men and officers, the medics, the bulldozer operators, the frogmen, pilots and spotters, ammunition carriers and all the other participants.

He begins with the Japanese preparations for defense, carries through the assembly of the task force, describes fully the carnage of D-Day, relates the famous flag incident on Suribachi, and then details the grinding struggle up across the airfields to the top of the island.

His text is supplemented with photos, maps and a whole set of appendices.

But the most remarkable thing about the book is the "presence" it conveys, the on-the-spot, you-are-there feeling. The author achieves this by telling what hundreds of individuals (even including some Japanese) experienced; their acts of hefire, their grim jokes in the face of death.

Newcomb, who has written two other accounts of Pacific fighting, "Savo" and "Abandon Ship!", served in the U.S. Navy as a correspondent. He has combined diligent research and a graphic narrative for this story of a great battle.

Essays To Tickle The Fancy

THE FULLY PROCESSED CHEESE. By Norman Ward.

Ward gives us an easy stroll down one of the bypaths of reading.

His book is a collection of very brief essays in the astringent, amused vein which used to characterize the old Talk of the Town pieces in the New Yorker magazine.

Naturally, he cocks a quizzical eye at the whole problem of human beings trying to cope with other human beings. Or not coping, as when the individualist wages his war against people-ness.

He ranges through some of the more awkward aspects of domestic crises, house repairs, politics and polls; the pomposity of tycoons, the contradictory aspects of sports and an art exhibit. He meets such assorted characters as scientists, models, a man who stole the government's radioactive chickens and another who found that a properly cooked cat is delicious.

The author happens to be a professor of political science in Canada, and has some inside views of academic bureaucracy, finances, athletics and undergraduates, in several pieces about "Coyote College."

Ward's humor is entirely different from the sort usually dubbed hilarious. It has a nice, mild, gentle way of tickling the fancy.

Hysaw, Davis Make Plans To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Willie D. Hysaw, Route 3, Seguin, Texas announce the engagement of their daughter Martha Lee to Royce Gene Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Royal Davis 1112 Thirtieth Street, Snyder.

The date set by the couple is June 8, 1965 at 8 o'clock p.m. at the Refuge Church of Our Lord, 410 North Guadalupe Street, Seguin, Texas. Bishop J. P. Steadman, pastor, will officiate the ceremony.

The bride's father will present her in marriage. Miss Ella Mae Hysaw, sister of the bride will be maid of honor, and Mrs. Iva Naomi Maxey will be matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Ernestine Hysaw, Evelyn Coleman, Helen Smith, Seguin; Veronica Ann Davis, Snyder; Ella Ruth Barnett, Midland; and Gwendolyn Mitchell, Houston.

Best man will be Irodell Bell and groomsmen will be Clarence Banks, Adolph Sutton, George Ball, Leon Reggins, Willard Williams and Marvin Hasting.

The flower girls will be Gwendolyn Calvert and Michelle Fennell and Bubba King, ring bearer.

Soloists will be Mrs. Estelle Priestley and Mrs. Jeanette Matthew, San Antonio.

The bride - elect is a 1959 graduate of Seguin High School and received her AA degree from St. Phillip's College, San Antonio, Texas, 1961. She received her bachelor of Science Degree in Home Economics from Incarnate Word College, San Antonio, Texas, in 1963. Since that time she has entered graduate school at Southwest Texas State College, San Marcos, Texas. She is presently employed as English and home-Making teacher at Lincoln School, Snyder.

The bridegroom graduated from Farmington High School in Farmington, New Mexico, where he participated in sports. He will graduate from New Mexico Highlands University this summer with a biology and Elementary Education major.

The couple will reside in Las Vegas, New Mexico after a wedding trip.

Toperettes Plan For Convention

Snyder Toperettes met Tuesday in Stanfield cafeteria, with approximately 26 members weig 'ng in.

New groups were formed. The state convention to be held April 23-24 was discussed, with 10 or 12 members expecting to attend. Over $90 is in the fund to help pay expenses for delegates. The committee for the banner to take to the convention, headed by Alzada Middleton is progressing nicely.

Edna Holmes and Betty Woolridge are still in the running for the KOPS towel contest. Fay Stansell won the towels for TOPS. Any member who has material or pictures of any kind, who would like to have them added to the scrapbook is asked to bring them to the Tuesday meeting.

Bissell Gas It Up

STILL CIRCLING MOOSE JAW. By Richard Bissell.

Bissell is a gag man. Name your brand of humor — quip, pun, nonsequitur, parody, burlesque drollery, ridicule, satire and even whimsy. Bissell, like a bartender in a well-stocked salon, will whip out your choice in a twinkle (3 oz.)

His specialty in this novel is wiseacre conversation. His characters spray each other with jibes, insults and taunts with all the staccato rapidity of a Thomas gun.

The book is like an over - loaded Christmas tree. Under all the baubles and glittering trinkets of gags, there is a sort of story, after all.

There's this jerk named Wally Dixon, 49, who has the knack of making money, so now he's a millionarie, senior division. He hates his wife Peggy, his daughter, who married a simple soul, and his son, who joined the Peace Corps.

Like a middle-aged brat, Wally works at being a playboy, and takes off for Tampa, Fla., to see Angela, with whom he'd had an affair eight years and two months ago.

To keep his hand in the money pool, he gets involved in negotiating for some of Fidel Castro's surplus tobacco. Then he has to fly down to Belem, Brazil, to retrieve some hot cement that Fidel wants.

Naturally, there is a wild collapse of the whole expedition, which has about as much stability as an Alabama mobile. To the sputtering firecrackers of farce and irony, Wally gets his upcommance.

While reading all this japery, you may notice that you can almost hear the pit orchestra blasting away at the old Palace Theater.

Moon dust may be sprayed toward the earth when a meteror smacks into a lunar mountain.

"COWBOY ON THE MOON", a western operetta, will be presented by the primary and music departments of North Elementary School Tuesday night, April 13 at 7:30 o'clock at the Parent-Teacher meeting in the speech arts room. Cowboys, moon creatures, Indians, and the real live people of Bow - and - Arrow town promise an evening's entertainment. The program is directed by Mrs. Margaret Pilcher. The public is cordially invited.

Men Swing To Shaped Coats, Mixed Suits, Colors For Fall

DALLAS: Emancipation from the dark shades and uniform styles men have been wearing the past several seasons, will be seen in many ways, this fall.

First glimmer of the new trends in colors and fashions will be viewed at the coming fall market of the Southwestern Men's and Boys' Apparel Club, Apr. 25-28 at the Apparel Mart in Dallas, Texas. Said to be the largest of its kind in the country, it draws merchants from 16 states and Mexico. The April event, biggest of the three shows in the year, is in advance of the fall season. It will include over 1,500 apparel and accessory lines and is expected to draw an attendance of over 3,000 merchants and buyers.

There'll be masculine sighs of relief when men see the new blues and browns this fall, many with stripes from a pencil line and up, designed to wean them from the sombre blacks and olives that have been uniforms of anonymity. The natural shoulder suit gives ground to what was a threat this spring but blossoms fully the coming fall in the "shaped coat," lightly pinched at the waist, a forward pitch to the shoulders with light padding and fullness to the chest to give a man a "masculine" look.

The sports suit consisting of a sport coat and co - ordinated slacks which has grown in pop becomes more interesting with the introduction of a "mixed suit for business wear. The coat is of a pattern and color tone that is repeated lightly or in part in the pants in colors and fabrics to compliment the coat.

The dark blue and black blazers that made a hit the past year, make more interesting news with the addition of bottle green, burgundy, new gold and brown tones. The new season will see a return of the double-breast blazer too — with slacks to co-ordinate with them.

To add spice to sportcoats, there is a reappearance of the expansive gusset at the shoulder and back to give more freedom of movement. In colors, sportswear designers have come up with "Whiskey," running from light scotch to dark bourbon tones. They are a fresh revival of once "camel's hair" colors but running from bright gold and tan to brown shades and black and burgundy mixtures.

Other fresh ideas include knitwear sportcoats and vests in a bright variety of weaves, patterns and mixtures. Topcoats too, take a turn to revived lines with the appearance of a "shaped" Chesterfield and double breasted models.

The young business executive and Joe College will have their own version of the new striped suits with pencil lines and wider on burnished iridescent backgrounds. The continental model will continue to have the slightly suppressed waist and will appear in two and three button models. Coats will be shorter and pants continue snug.

Suits in hopsack and herringbones and "color within color" mixtures of blue, brown, grey and green are heavily featured in the young man's wardrobe. For sport coats, he will express himself in barleycorns, herringbones and stripes. His blue blazer is joined by grey slacks and to keep them company, colors in blazers will include gold, camel tan, dark green and burgundy. And he will have his double breasted blazer too.

Outside of the continental models, slacks are fuller. The permanent crease that captured the cotton slacks market this spring is breaking into better and dressier fabrics in many lines. The challenge of color in the new sportcoats for fall is reflected by slacks in "beefy" fabrics with colors running to rust, gold and browns.

Something new in the outerwear line is the C.P.O. navy blue wool shirt with big pockets and anchor molded buttons. An informal idea tht is worn like a jacket, it should be a hit with the campus and casual crowd and will be seen in Hudson Bay stripes too.

In sweaters, the Henley neckline that took so well in spring sportshirts and knits, shows up in sweater pullovers and cardigans that button to the neck. And in sweaters, the flat look and brushed knits take over from the rough and bulky look.

Not yet a dim memory, the pin collar on dress shirts returns this fall with tabbed and round collars. In sportshirts, the cottons will be in tweedy and brawny patterns. And on the subject of sportshirts, the shirtjac goes right on from its spring popularity to show up for fall in stouter fabrics and long sleeves.

It's hard to recollect when a single man influenced a style as much as Rex Harrison in "My Fair Lady." His cloth hat has started a run on hat departments for its image, that will hit the heights this fall. Manufacturers are designing whole lines around it. A man will have his choice in a big variety of fabrics, patterns and colors in both cloth and leather in addition to the ever - present fur felt.

Season white sauce with grated Parmesan cheese and pour it over poached eggs in small (individual) baking dishes; top with buttered crumbs and more cheese and broil until golden brown. Have the eggs poached firm so their texture will contrast with the sauce.

Prohibition No Success In Kuwait

By WEBB MCKINLEY

KUWAIT (AP) — Every Thursday, at the start of the Moslem weekend, thirsty Kuwaitis by the thousand race across the border into neighboring Iraq.

They throng into Basra, a Persian Gulf port where date palms flourish and people swelter, and set themselves at tables in bars, restaurants and night clubs.

Arak made from Basra dates, Iraqi beer and whisky flow down the dusty Kuwaiti throats.

Loud talk and songs erupt. Flutes shriek, drums beat and desert headdresses fly.

All this is because pious members of the Kuwaiti Parliament put forward a bill banning the sale of alcoholic beverages in this sheikhdom. The Koran, they argued, forbids strong drink.

No one could deny what the Koran says about alcohol. For Kuwaitis drinking always has been forbidden. There have been no bars or night clubs in the sheikhdom, and you couldn't walk into a store and buy a bottle. But Christians and foreigners could go to one large British import house, sign a statement professing need for drink, and get it, cheap. This in one way or another often worked its way into Kuwaiti throats, and it was a relaxed sort of prohibition.

The new bill banned sale of alcohol to anyone, Christian or not. Parliament passed it, and Sheikh Abdulla Al Salem Al Sabah, the 72-year-old emir of Kuwait who doesn't drink but isn't fanatical about it, vetoed it.

The sponsors came back fighting and asked each of the 50 members of Parliament to stand up and be counted.

Parliament passed the bill over the veto, 50-0, and Kuwait last December went dry. A man seen drinking in his home could get six months in jail. Anyone caught buying or selling liquor could get 15 years plus a fine plus expulsion from the state. Only diplomats were excepted.

The sheikhdom quickly went through some agonies. By an official count 64 persons died of alcoholic poisoning. The price of eau de cologne doubled. There was a heavy run in pressure cookers and copper tubing. Stocks of a popular tonic with 9 per cent alcohol were sold out. A band of enterprising people from Goa grabbed a monopoly on the moonshine market.

The price of an illicit bottle of Scotch went up for a while to $28, and finally settled at $20.

But there was something about the lure of Basra and its bistros. It is only about 80 miles up a desert road. Basra, population 207,000, suddenly turned into the Paris of the Persian Gulf.

An average of 2,000 Kuwaitis have gone there to spend each weekend since December. The fun seekers spend an estimated $84,000 during an average weekend.

One Thursday, a particularly thirsty day, the road to Basra was jammed with 8,000 Kuwait cars. Traffic was tied up at the customs house for three hours.

Back in Kuwait, all this is frowned upon, especially by the veiled Kuwaiti wives left in the harems.

Little Real Support Greets LBJ's New Farm Program

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seldom have major farm legislative recommendations gone before Congress under the conditions that clouded proposals advanced this week by President Johnson.

First and foremost, the President's recommendations carried little warm-hearted support, even from the administration itself. Farm groups which have lined up in the past to support first President John F. Kennedy and then President Johnson and their farm proposals were sharply divided in their judgment of the latest farm measure.

Perhaps most disheartening to those who want stronger federal farm aid programs was the fact that the President sent only a partial package of recommendations to Capitol Hill.

Then too, there was keen disappointment that there was nothing in the President's letter of transmittal indicating that the White House is at all disturbed by a farm economic situation some farm leaders regard as serious.

Johnson's latest recommendations were limited to short-term measures for wheat, feed grains, rice and wool. Those looking to this session for stronger farm programs had been anxious for the President to cover the entire agricultural front. Absent were proposals for cotton, dairying and sugar crops.

Those wanting more effective government programs for bolstering and improving farm income wanted a single bill covering most all phases of agriculture — a bill that conceivably would draw all segments and sections of the country together to provide benefits for each by helping others get what they wanted.

But cotton and dairying were left out because of a lack of agreement on programs better than those now in effect.

Thus with some agricultural segments left out, backers of strong government measures are fearful that an urban-minded Congress may decide it is about time to put agriculture on its own.

The submission of Johnson's latest farm plan found two arch rivals — the American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Farmers Union — joining hands to criticize the President's proposals.

The Farm Bureau, which wants less government in agriculture, said the Johnson proposals would go too far in tieing farmers to government handouts for their future well being.

The Farmers Union, long a backer of Democratic presidents, said Johnson did not go far enough to help farmers. It charged that the White House has turned the formation of government farm policies over to the cost-conscious Budet Bureau. That bureau has been highly critical of farm program cost.

The outlook for congressional action is not helped any by indications that relations between Johnson and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman are rather lukewarm.

Johnson has been more determined to cut farm program costs than Freeman. Too, the President is known to feel that Freeman has done little to quiet criticism in the Democrats' own camp over Johnson's cost-cutting for agriculture.

The presidential recommendations went to a House Agriculture Committee which has shown very plainly that it is irked over a long White House delay in submitting farm legislative proposals. Johnson had been expected to submit such proposals a month ago.

Junior Editors Quiz on YEAST

QUESTION: How does yeast make bread rise?

• • •

ANSWER: Yeast is a tiny one-celled fungus plant, shown in the upper magnified view budding to produce new cells. Yeast can be kept as a compressed cake, with the plants dormant. When such a cake is moistened with lukewarm water, the moisture and warmth start the plants into action. Flour and sugar are added. The yeast changes the starch in the flour to sugar. This is then turned to alcohol and carbon dioxide gas. This process is called fermentation. The gas bubbles through the dough, causing it to rise up in a fluffy porous mass. Gluten, an elastic material in the dough, encloses the gas bubbles. As the bread is baked, the alcohol and gas evaporate and the yeast plants are destroyed. But the light fluffy structure made by the gas bubbles remains, allowing the heat to thoroughly penetrate and cook the dough. Making home-made bread is not easy, but the result is so delicious that many young cooks like to take a try at it. We recommend following your cookbook directions closely and getting your mother's help and advice. Remember that the yeast should be mixed with lukewarm water; if it is too hot, the yeast plants are destroyed—then the bread can't rise.

FOR YOU TO DO: Pull apart a piece of bread and look carefully into it—with a magnifying glass if you have one. You can see the little holes made by the gas bubbles very clearly.

LIBRARY NOTES

Baseball fans will find plenty of interesting reading pertaining to America's number one sport at the Scurry County Library. Since the 1965 spring training program is over and regular schedules open Monday, the most avid followers of this national pastime will begin browsing more vigorously among the many volumes on the library's shelves.

The library is chock - full of vivid unforgettable accounts of the game including great players, managers and outstanding contests of a century. Here is to be found information from the development of the game, credited by some authorities to the old New York Knickerbockers near the middle of the 19th century, to the present day.

Newest book on baseball to be added to the adult section of the library is Thomas Meany's "Baseball's Best: The All-Time Major League Baseball Team." The author, a widely known sports writer, presents his version of an all-time, all-star baseball team. He selects one manager, to wit, Casey Stengel, currently of the New York Mets, to guide a 25-player squad consisting of nine pitchers, three catchers, seven infielders and six outfielders. There is seldom universal agreement on selections of this type, and Meany 'passes the buck' to Stengel by saying, with tongue in cheek, "If for any reason, he becomes dissatisfied with his squad, let him make some trades." Each chapter is devoted to one player and includes a brief sketch of the player's career and a complete statistical playing record, together with birth date, height, weight, manner of throwing, and so on. This is entertaining reading for all Scurry County baseball fans, whether or not they are in complete agreement with choices made.

Outside of playing and watching baseball, talking about it might qualify as America's next greatest pastime. Nobody is better qualified to talk about it than Mel Allen, whose adult life has been devoted to the sport, and who has literally lived with the New York Yankees. In Allen's book, "You Can't Beat the Hours," he presents a superb collection of baseball anecdotes — heroics and comedy, pathos and guts—about stars of the diamond of all major league clubs. Reading this book is like having a ringside seat during a field day at Cooperstown's Hall of Fame, with all the greats swapping yarns and topping each other's baseball stories. The author gives classic anecdotes of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Tommy Henrich, Satchel Paige and Hank Greenberg embellished with insights and little - known slants that only Allen could provide.

Another book of interest to baseball fans is "Nelson's 20th Century Encyclopedia of Baseball," written by Murray Olderman. This is an authoritative book and gives a complete list of all players in this century with names of their teams and a summary of their records. Olderman tells about the origins and development of the game and gives readers a true picture of such giants as Mack and McGraw, Cobb and Ruth. Combining wonderfully readable history with authoritative statistics, this book can be useful to check disputes about everything from when catchers first wore masks to whether or not Roger Maris broke Babe Ruth's home run record in 1961. Olderman is a sports columnist - cartoonist, and is well known from coast to coast.

More than 250,000 youngsters in the U.S. and half dozen foreign nations are playing baseball each year under the banner of Little League. "The Official Encyclopedia of Little League Baseball," edited by Hy Turkin, gives the whole story of this fast - rising sports movement in America. The book tells how it started; how to bring a Little League to a community; official playing rules; pitfalls to guard against; gives past champions, and the best way to develop players at each position. This is a good reference for every Little League enthusiast, whether manager, umpire, player, sponsor or just plain rooter parent.

In "View from the Dugout," Ed Richter takes the reader through an entire season with a baseball team. He travels with a team through spring training and into seasonal play. The author puts the reader on a chartered plane as the team travels. In the reader's imagination he will accompany the team in hotel lobbies, on the road, and in churches in strange cities, where ballplayers worship. He covers an injury - ridden ballclub that can't get started, and one that suddenly finds itself and catches fire. Richter wanted to find out how a big league baseball club was run, so he followed the Phillies for an entire season. He found a strange new world of far - thinking strategy, astute psychology, and intricate diamond maneuvering. This book was written to show baseball as it is, and the men who make it as they are.

Youthful baseball fans have not been ignored by the library staff in the selection of baseball material. To be found in the juvenile section are such books as "Baseball Rookies Who Made Good," by Mary G. Bonner, stories of more than fourty baseball stars; "Kings of the Home Run," by Arthur Daley, covering anecdotes, stories and sketches of 20 famous batters; "Speed Kings of the Base Paths," by Ray Robinson, accounts of some of the fastest base - runners and base - stealers in the history of baseball; Sam Epstein's "Baseball: Hall of Fame," and three books by Thomas W. Meany, "Baseball's Greatest Hitters," biographies "Baseball's Greatest Players," a history in short sketches and from official records of 25 stars since the turn of the century, and "Baseball's Greatest Pitchers," depicting 25 Major League pitchers since 1900. Many biographies of individual stars are to be found also, as well as books on how to play baseball from sandlot to little league and on to the big leagues.

History of the game, from its old - time glory days to the present, is to be found in the library. For those who plan to attend a few major league games this summer, reading about their favorite stars and teams in advance can add greatly to the pleasure of seeing such stars and teams in action. For the enthusiasts who will be less fortunate, the library invites them to add to their summer's TV viewing enjoyment of the sport by boning-up on this American past time.

Small Scale Tragedy

A DROP OF PATIENCE. By William Melvin Kelley.

One fragile human life, sorely afflicted but given a little measure of fruition now and then, is the subject of Kelley's novel.

The story begins with a frightened 5-year-old Negro boy's admission to an orphanage. His skin was dark. He was blind. Surely his fate would be to hold a tin cup on somebody's street corner.

Fortunately they gave music lessons to this small fragment of humanity. At 16, he was playing in a scroungy little band in a cheap dive. But a famous singer heard him. Eventually he went North and joined the big time, learned to know his hero among the jazz musicians and became a real jazz pioneer himself.

It was his misfortune that the wrong woman fell in love with him. There was Etta - Sue, who married him back there in the South, and then used him. Much later, there was Harriet, a young woman who was satisfied with unrequited love.

But in between, right when he was at the height of his career; there was the white girl Ragan, and their doomed alliance led to his downfall.

In a story about a human being who faces the world with a dark skin and blind eyes, there can be little but tragedy. The author wisely leaves to the reader, to grasp for himself, the over - tones of moral values. Even in today's brash idiom the author has found that place where small, individual tragedies lie — somewhat less than Homeric or Shakespearean, but nonetheless strikingly human.

This is Kelley's second novel. Without being imitative, he has shown that he belongs to that small company of modern authors who possess the accomplished touch of the creative artist. His sharply etched characters and taut, moving scenes give the reader the feeling of touching life at the quick.

Wibberley Has Ability

THE ISLAND OF THE ANGELS. By Leonard Wibberley.

The scene of Wibberley's short novel is the seacoast of Baja, California, where the Mexican fisherman Francisco—a son of nature — lives like a hermit on a tiny island.

The action centers around a small waif who has fled in fear and loneliness from the coastal village of Colonia Madre, and reaches Francisco's hut nearly dead of typhoid. Francisco has to fight a storm to bring help.

There is a strong contrast between the two people he brings back to rescue the boy. One is the schoolteacher and amateur physician everyone calls Senora Revolucion, because of her single-minded devotion to socialism. The other is Father Sylvester, equally single - minded in his devotion to his faith.

So there you have two symbolic figures of civilization joining with Francisco, possessor of an elemental, primitive humanity, in the battle against death. The story takes on the tones of a parable.

It is Wibberley's gift to be able to see and communicate the essential aspects of life at the core, a type of insight which many authors lack, without even knowing it.

The unusual gift enables him to range from such fey humor as "The Mouse That Roared" to the beautifully moving parable "Stranger at Killknock." This story is close to the latter.

Adding small white onions to a veal or beef roast? They'll taste delicious if you brown them in butter or oil in a skillet before turning them into the meat pan.

Just for a treat: in making chicken salad, use only the white meat and add well - seasoned homemade mayonnaise made with the egg yolk rather than the whole egg.
