No decision yet, but ISD board eyeing 2 concepts

By Wade Warren
Staff Writer

While no final decision has been made, it appears that a proposed bond election for the Snyder ISD will include some new construction.

Trustees met for 3½ hours Monday evening, and following some spirited discussion, pared the project to two concepts.

Both include closing Central Elementary as well as major renovations at Snyder High and Snyder Junior High. Also included in both would be improvements to the agricultural farm and Travis Gym.

One concept involves building classroom "pods," or adding wings at Stanfield, West, East and Northeast elementaries. These additions would house the student population which now attends Central.

The estimated cost of that proposal is $20,897,000.

The other concept involves building two new elementary facilities with what architects term, "maximum" reuse of existing East and West Elementary buildings.

The original proposal called for Stanfield Elementary to be the site for special education, pre-kindergarten and kindergarten, but many board members believe Northeast would be the better facility.

Central, and either Stanfield or Northeast would be closed in this scenario.

The estimated cost of that project is $23,276,000.

While the grade configuration remains to be decided, discussion on the pod concept keeps the grades in the same buildings they are in now, with the third grade moving to Stanfield from Central.

The new construction concept prompted discussions of grades 4 through 6 at West and 1 through 3 at East, with the lower grades at the remaining school.

Neither plan calls for moving the sixth grade to the junior high school campus.

The board had hoped to reach a decision Monday night on the proposed bond issue. That didn't happen, but could when the board meets again at 5 p.m. Friday.

The two concepts the board seems to have settled on are not without opposition.

Trustee Janet Stribling said she still favors keeping Central Elementary open and performing major renovation on all campuses.

Richard Chambers said he also favors keeping Central open. He said he believes closing it will create a financial hardship for the residents in the area whose children attend the school.

"It looks like we're pitting east against west," said Chambers.

But trustee Luann Burleson said she is tired of hearing the suggestion that the board is pitting one area of town against another.

"I'll vote for what I see is best for all the kids," she said.

Board president Charles Anderson said unless the board pares some of the costs, the district will have some of the highest taxes in the state, providing the bond passes.

Mark McCormick countered by saying that the reason for the high taxes now is because they were so low for a number of years.

"We're having to pay now for something that should have been done 20 years ago," injected trustee Mike Levens.

McCormick added that he is surprised at the number of people who have expressed an interest in the proposals which include new construction.

"I think they feel we need to do some long-term planning and take in consideration the needs of our kids," McCormick said.

Glenn Clarady said he, too, feels it is time for the district to move ahead with some new construction.

With the proposal of major construction at two elementary sites before them, trustees asked if there are items that can be cut out to narrow the $2.4 million difference.

Supt. Gayle Lomax presented the board with some $430,000 in cuts which affect every campus, but added that it will be difficult to eliminate $2 million.

Additional cuts were to be considered during today's noon meeting.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The cost of living is the difference between your net income and your gross habits."

Watch out for a scam! Who me?

A current telephone scam could end up costing you thousands.

AT&T has confirmed that a scam is being used by inmates in prisons and jails to rip off telephone customers and the phone company.

It works like this:

A homeowner receives a telephone call from an individual identifying himself as an long-distance service technician who is running a test on your telephone lines.

The caller states that to complete the test, the homeowner should touch nine (9), zero (0), pound sign (#) and hang up.

If you don't smell something fishy by now, you may become a victim.

Telephone company officials reveal that by pushing 90#, you end up actually giving the calling individual access to your telephone line, allowing them to place unlimited long distance telephone calls with all the charges appearing on your next bill.

Many such calls are originating from jails and prisons — some from as far away as California.

The public is urged to be suspicious of anyone making such requests. More information is available by contacing AT&T Global Accounting in Pittsburg, Pa.. The number is 412-642-7023.

Who me?

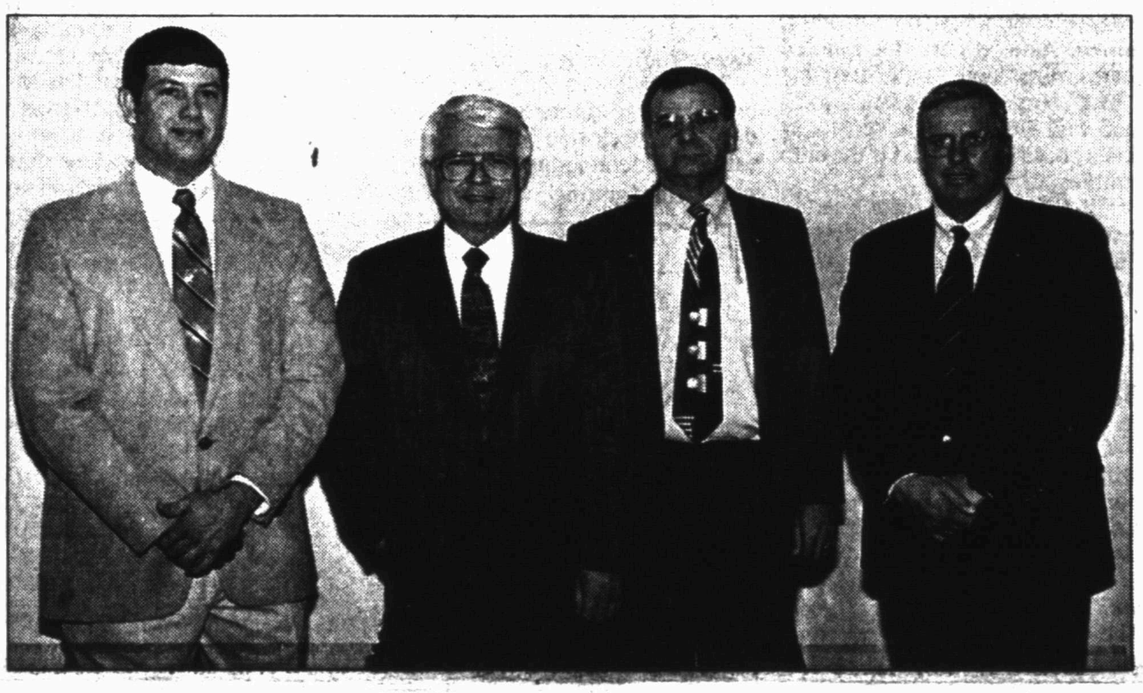

That's the same reaction given during a poll asking what share of Americans earning more than $100,000 per year considered themselves to be rich.

The response was zero.

In the same poll, those earning more than $100,000 a year were asked if they resented the rich.

Again the answer was unanimous — zero.

If beauty is in the eye of the beholder, we have to conclude that wealth is in the hands of holder.

Peace officer banquet is tonight

Comptroller John Sharp, Rep. Counts among dignitaries

Citizens who just can't seem to stay out of trouble might want to avoid Scurry County Coliseum tonight.

It will be the setting for the annual Northwest Texas Law Enforcement Appreciation Banquet, hosted by State Rep. David Counts.

John Sharp, State Comptroller of Public Accounts and Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, will be guest speaker when the banquet gets underway at 6 o'clock.

Master of ceremonies will be Rep. Counts, D-Knox City. Other state officials will be in attendance.

Mayor David Holt will make the welcome address and Sheriff Darren Jackson will give the invocation.

Dinner music will be provided by local vocalist Cindy Nix and a group from Abilene Cooper High School, the "Cooper Fiddlers," will provide the evening's entertainment.

Jerry Baird and his cooking crew will prepare the steak dinner.

The banquet is open to all law enforcement personnel and their spouses, including police departments, sheriff's departments, Texas Rangers, Department of Public Safety employees, justices of the peace, Texas Department of Criminal Justice officers and employees of the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Lone Star Gas bills to see minor hike

By Bill McClellan
Managing Editor

Lone Star Gas customers will see an increase in their gas bill beginning this month, but it's not likely to send anyone to the poor house.

Meeting Monday evening, Snyder City Council approved the price hike, along with a couple of resolutions to meet grant requirements and bids for road materials.

Council members also heard a wrapup on the recently-completed water treatment plant, appointed a cable television performance review committee and made two reappointments to the water district board.

Lone Star requested, and received, a 17-cent per month gas hike, beginning with this month's billing. The increase amounts to $1.96 over a year's time, per customer, and is the result of Lone Star's annual cost of service adjustment, which has been in place since 1985.

Locally, customers have seen a decrease in their set monthly fee for the past three years, said Daryl Thomas, Snyder manager for TU Electric and Lone Star Gas.

After tailoring the wording slightly, council members approved a resolution establishing rules and regulations regarding the use of excessive force during non-violent civil rights demonstrations.

The resolution, required to comply with a Texas Capital Fund grant for use at the industrial park, also prohibits demonstrators from blocking the entrance to a building.

A second resolution approved by the council provides a $5,000 grant to Snyder Police Department for extra duty officers during Memorial Day, Independence Day and Labor Day.

Sgt. Trevlyn Pitner said officers will concentrate on infractions of seat belts, child restraint and speed during those periods.

"It's nothing we're not already doing, it just puts a blitz out there during those three holidays," Pitner said.

The council accepted two bids for street paving material. Approved was a bid from CSA Material Inc. of San Angelo for a minimum of 1,500 tons of aggregate, delivered, at $24.95 a ton. At 1,500 tons, that totals $37,425.

Also accepted was a bid from Fina Oil and Chemical in Big Spring for a minimum of 100 tons of asphalt at $175 a ton. At the minimum amount, that would total $17,500.

WTC trustees ready to reorganize board

Western Texas College trustees will consider mostly routine items in a meeting set for 7 this evening, but they will get a preliminary look at the 1998-99 budget and elect officers for the next two years.

Approval of a food service contract and tuition and fee variances for workforce education courses are among the items of new business.

First order of business tonight will be to canvass returns from Saturday's election, which saw Dr. Jay Kidd and Carolyn Barbee retain their places on the board. They will receive the oath of office, and trustees will then elect officers for a two-year period.

Currently, Dr. Kidd serves as president; Barbee is vice president.

Trustees will also consider funding the rodeo team's trip to South Dakota for the College National Finals Rodeo in June.

Under personnel, the board is expected to accept the resignation of Steve Tate, instructor with the Golf, Landscape and Technology program.

Informational and discussion items before the board tonight include a report on the Kids Campus summer program as well as a proposal from Coca-Cola. An administrative policy regarding the upward evaluation of supervisors is another report the board is scheduled to hear.

Pre-bid information will be supplied to trustees on the purchase of a vehicle and repairs or replacement of the gymnasium floor.

Trustees will also get a glimpse at a balanced budget for 1998-99. It sets in motion the process of determining just what programs, expenses and the like the board wants to include for next year, and which they want to eliminate.

Following those items, trustees will convene in executive session for the first meeting of what will become an annual process — evaluation of the college president. The evaluation was among a list of suggestions made this school year by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

7 indicted on Monday

Seven indictments were handed down Monday by a Scurry County grand jury, including ones for forgery and theft.

Thirty-three-year-old Guy Nelson Montgomery of Mineral Wells was indicted for theft, a third-degree felony. Montgomery, a former automotive dealer, is accused of acquiring seven Chevrolet trucks from Big Country Autoland on Aug. 20, 1996, and failing to pay for them. Bond was set at $5,000 for Montgomery, who remains at large.

Joelda Hester, 23, of 1312 North Ave. R was indicted for a March 18 offense of forgery by passing. She is charged with writing a $50 check in someone else's name. Bond was set at $5,000.

Price Daniel Unit inmate Joe Sidney Jaramillo was indicted for possession of a dangerous drug in a correctional facility. Jaramillo is charged with possession of Doxepin on Feb. 17 at the unit. Bond was set at $5,000 for the inmate, who is in custody.

Eric Lee Pace, 29, of 308 32nd St. was indicted on an April 9 charge of forgery. He allegedly

STAR program review planned

Members of Snyder City Council, Snyder ISD board of trustees and Scurry County Commissioners Court will get an update on the STAR Program when all three entities meet Wednesday morning at 7 in the Travis Gym.

Also expected are representatives from Nolan and Mitchell counties, said Captain Pete Barrera.

Barrera said the program is to focus on the community service projects of the alternative education program.

"We'll have figures available on how much money has been saved by the taxing groups by those in this program doing community work," he said.

Single European currency means big market for U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The European Union's effort to challenge U.S. economic and monetary dominance by launching a common currency next year offers American exporters a huge, unified market.

Most private economists doubt Europe will create a currency that would rival the dollar — the world's dominant money for nearly 60 years. But some worry that if the changeover fails, America's largest trading partner could slump, destabilizing global exchange markets.

Eleven nations on a continent that has been torn by two hot wars and one cold one this century agreed over the weekend to abandon their national currencies and cede monetary authority to a European central bank.

The single currency could be a boon for American tourists, especially those traveling to multiple European destinations, who will be able to exchange dollars for one currency and not have to juggle German marks, French francs and Italian lira.

Tourists will not see the bills and coins of the new unit, called the euro, until Jan. 1, 2002, when they are due to start circulating, but existing currencies will be locked into fixed exchange rates against the euro starting next year.

The founding countries are Germany, France, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Austria, Finland and Ireland. Greece is expected to join by 2001 while Britain, Sweden and Denmark plan to remain out for now.

In Euroland, which is what economists call the new monetary zone, the 11 nations comprise 300 million people and account for nearly 20 percent of the global economy, roughly comparable to America's 270 million people and 22 percent of worldwide output.

"American companies are used to dealing with a large market — 50 states but one currency. This monetary union removes a level of complication that they never particularly liked and will allow them to do business the way they are used to doing it," said Willard Workman, vice president for international trade at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

The Clinton administration says the United States has nothing to fear from the successful launch of the new currency.

"Economic strength, stability and vitality in Europe is in the United States' national interest," Undersecretary of State Stuart Eizenstat said Monday. "A strong European economy will benefit U.S. exports and American economic interests in general."

The European Union represents America's largest foreign market — twice the size of Canada and Japan combined. Trade flows between the United States and Europe have been roughly in balance for a quarter century, unlike Asia, where the United States runs huge trade deficits.

But some economists worry that last year's Asian currency crisis could be repeated if the euro tumbles in value.

"If Europe falls apart it could result in a severe recession in Europe, which would damage our economy," said David Wyss.

PROCLAMATION SIGNED — Borden County Judge Van York and Scurry County Judge Ricky Fritz signed a document declaring April 26-May 3 as Soil and Water Stewardship Week, with the focus on "Wonders of Wildlife." Looking on are, standing from left, Max Jones, Ted Crenwelge, Jimmy McMillan, Myron Calley and Kevin Wright. The week emphasized the district's responsibility to provide technical assistance when requested relative to proper soil use and treatment, erosion control practices, solving drainage problems and assisting farmers and ranchers with crop, range, pastureland and wildlife management. Salvage company says...

Titanic wreckage off limits

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — You've seen the movie "Titanic," read the books, maybe even watched the musical. Now, stay away from the real thing.

That's what a company that owns salvage rights to the legendary shipwreck said Monday after asking a federal judge to bar sightseeers from getting too close to the site 2½ miles below the surface of the North Atlantic.

RMS Titanic Inc. of New York City is seeking a preliminary injunction to keep Deep Ocean Expeditions Ltd. at least 10 nautical miles from the wreck "for any purpose."

Deep Ocean Expeditions has lined up 45 customers willing to pay $32,500 each to visit the shipwreck in a three-man submersible vessel. According to RMS Titanic, the trips would interfere with a salvage expedition planned for August and September.

Keep the opponent at bay

As mentioned yesterday, when in a no-trump contract, one cannot stop an opponent's torrent of winners, because there are no trumps with which to ruff. So, you must try to stop an opponent from running his suit. The simplest countermeasure is the holdup play, which is highlighted in today's deal.

As declarer, what is your initial routine after the dummy appears? How do you plan the play?

If you use the 16-18 no-trump, North should bid game immediately. Whenever the minimum combined count is 25, go for game. However, if you use the modern 15-17 no-trump, North should raise to two no-trump. Then South is happy to bid three because he has a good five-card suit and excellent controls (aces and kings).

Always start by counting your top tricks. Here, there are five: two spades, two hearts and one club. The other four tricks will come from the diamonds, but West has struck at your weakest spot: clubs. If you win the first trick, you will go down. East will grab trick two with his diamond ace and flash back his remaining club. West will overtake and run the rest of the suit.

You must duck the first trick, winning the second with your club ace. Then play a diamond. If West wins with the ace and cashes three more club tricks, you may console yourself in knowing there was nothing you could do. At least you weren't doubled!

If East wins with the diamond ace and has a club to return, presumably the suit has split 4-3, so you are still safe. Here, though, East wins with the ace and has no club left, so your contract is home free.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) -- A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis," and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis, relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis, is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new roll-on lotion form. Arthur Itis, is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Doctor's discovery may end obesity

HILTON HEAD, S.C. -- A doctor has discovered that an ingredient found in a small fruit grown in Asia, combined with an ingredient praised by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, can help cause significant weight loss.

In a study reported in a prestigious American medical journal, Dr. Anthony A. Conte, M.D. reported that the formula, now called Bio-Rex 3000, caused patients to lose more than twice as much weight as a control group on the same fat reduced diet. Neither group was instructed to decrease the amount of food they ate or to increase their exercise levels. An article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition confirms that you don't have to reduce the amount of food you eat to lose weight, provided that you limit the fat.

Scientists suggest that the mechanism behind the weight reduction may include decreasing sugar cravings and interruption of the "Krebs Cycle", an important step in the body's fat storage process. "The best part of this unique discovery is that it is not a drug, but a safe dietary food supplement" says Dr. Conte. The Asian fruit, called garcinia, is similar to citrus fruit found in the United States with one big exception -- it may help some people fight obesity! While Dr. Conte's study may be preliminary, the exclusive North American distributor, Phillips Gulf Corp., is calling the Bio-Rex 3000 supplement "Nature's Ideal Diet Aid."

According to a spokesperson for the company, Bio-Rex 3000 is now available through pharmacies and nutrition stores or call 1-800-729-8446 or internet at www.phillipsgulf.com/biorex3000.

Bio-Rex 3000 is available locally at:

Ex-Jaybird accepts reins of Bulldog basketball program

IRA — After accepting the resignation of Russell Gee following a 16-9 season, Ira began recruiting a head basketball coach.

The Bulldogs believe they've found their man.

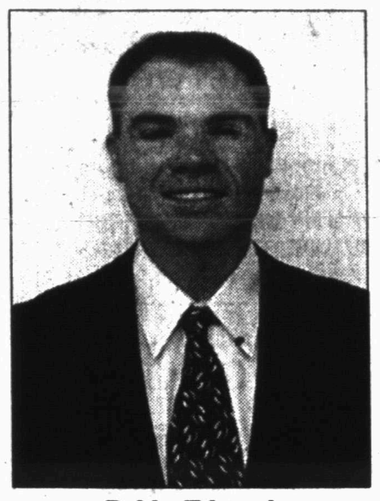

William "Bubba" Edwards was named boys basketball coach this morning at Ira High School.

Edwards, a 1996 Texas Tech graduate, takes over for Gee who resigned following a 1-9 football season and a 16-9 year on the hardwood.

Edwards, who has been a basketball assistant at 2A Crosbyton the past three seasons, said he was looking forward to coaching in a small community.

"I grew up in Jayton and I liked the close-knit community," he stated. "I wanted to get back to that kind of atmosphere where you have support from inside the school as well as outside."

Ira superintendent Rick Howard said Edwards' experience

Bubba Edwards

at Jayton will benefit the Bulldog program.

"I think his Jayton experience lines him up well with our community," Howard remarked. "I think it's going to be a great situation.

"Other applicants we got were from larger cities or larger schools. But Coach Edwards knows how things work at six-man schools and I think he'll fit great with our other coaches."

In addition to his basketball duties at Crosbyton, Edwards has been the Chiefs' head baseball coach for two seasons.

At Ira, Edwards inherits a junior class with two years of varsity experience.

"I knew coming in that there was some talent here," he said. "And I went to college with two of the other coaches here, so I think we'll make a pretty good team."

The first plan of action is to get back to fundamentals, according to Edwards.

"I want to make sure the kids understand the fundamentals of basketball," he stated. "I think we can continue to win if the kids understand the basics of the game."

Playoff destinations to be decided today

Snyder will be involved in two district title games today, as the baseball regular season winds down.

The Tigers battle Frenship at 7 p.m. in Seminole for the 2-4A crown, while Abilene High squares off with Midland at 5 p.m. at Moffett Field for the 4-5A championship.

Snyder, 23-5 on the season, finished league play knotted with Frenship (21-7) at 8-2.

While Snyder will send Kyle Beck and his 1.70 season ERA to the mound, Frenship will take a different approach.

FHS, who will rest ace Stephen Leist, is likely to start Tommy Potts or Trace Vineyard. The two pitchers have combined for only 22 innings this year.

The winner of today's match-up gets a first-round bye before facing the winner of Thursday's El Paso Burgess-Big Spring contest in the area round of the playoffs.

The loser will play the winner of today's Amarillo Caprock-Pampa affair for bi-district later this week.

The battle at Moffett Field also has a first-round bye on the line. Abilene and Midland finished the 4-5A schedule tied at 8-4.

Tensions running high between Rockets, Jazz

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Jazz and the San Antonio Spurs agree that their Western Conference playoff series will be won under the boards.

"It's going to be decided inside," Utah center Greg Foster said Monday. "It might be an ugly series, because they won't back down inside and we won't, either."

Tensions are running high between the two teams since their March 8 game, when Karl Malone knocked out David Robinson by slamming an elbow in his face.

After Robinson was helped off the Delta Center floor, he spent the night in the hospital and missed San Antonio's next three games with a concussion. He also strained his knee falling to the court.

Malone, who apologized to Robinson and said the elbow was unintentional, was suspended for one game, snapping his NBA-best streak of 543 consecutive starts.

At the time, the Spurs threatened revenge on the Mailman.

"If it gets to the playoffs and we're up against them, it's going to be a whole different game," rookie of the year Tim Duncan said after the game.

But Robinson says the playoffs are about team play, not tag-team play.

"If certain things come up in this series where it gets kind of physical, we'll have to answer to that. But stuff in the past, we have to let that go," the Spurs' star center said.

"We can't go in there with some kind of attitude where we have a chip on our shoulders. We have to go in there with our minds clear because they're going to be ready."

After practice Monday, Malone refused to talk about the fallout from elbowing Robinson, but he did say both teams will be prepared.

"It's important for us to do our thing and not worry about the other issues," Malone said. "They stand up for themselves, and we stand up for ourselves."

"With San Antonio, we're talking about bigger guys that are younger," Utah coach Jerry Sloan said. "That's a bad combination."

Arkansas phase of probe near complete

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — After a second indictment of Susan McDougal, Whitewater prosecutors are signaling that the Arkansas phase of their probe is wrapping up even though unanswered questions remain about a check she wrote marked "Payoff Clinton."

Prosecutors said evidence gathered here, which includes information about Hillary Rodham Clinton's billing records, could easily be taken up by a grand jury in Washington.

Mrs. McDougal, who was a business partner of the Clintons in their 1980s Arkansas land dealings, was charged Monday with three felonies for refusing to tell a grand jury what she knows about the first family's business activities, including the previously undisclosed check.

The indictment was handed down up a grand jury here that this week finishes two years of Whitewater-related investigation.

Whatever decisions remain will "now be moved up to Washington," where prosecutors are looking into the Monica Lewinsky matter and allegations of obstruction of justice, according to Charles Bakaly, a spokesman for Whitewater prosecutor Kenneth Starr.

"One option certainly is that certain evidence gathered by this grand jury could be made available to another grand jury that would also have venue over potential crimes," Bakaly explained.

While his prosecutors wrapped up work in Arkansas, Starr was handling some private legal work today, arguing a case before a federal appeals court in Richmond, Va., for a client, Meineke Discount Muffler. The company is appealing a $390 million judgment against it.

Independent counsels are legally entitled to work in the private sector, and Starr has worked for such clients as the tobacco industry, the NFL Players Association and Chiquita Brands International.

Mrs. McDougal's attorney, Mark Geragos, said today his client remained in good spirits and that the indictment likely would harden her resolve not to be "bullied" by Starr.

"I think that this has probably increased her resolve. She feels like this has shown that this guy is totally out of control," Geragos said on NBC. " ... She's not going to be bullied by this guy."

Geragos threatened to subpoena Starr and his top deputy as witnesses at Mrs. McDougal's trial.

Thefts mark police reports

Investigating thefts was the main order of business for law enforcement personnel on Monday.

Mildred Nobles reported the theft of a lawnmower at 7:55 a.m. from the 800 block of North College Avenue. An offense report for Class B theft was submitted.

Dennis Gartman told officers at 10:58 a.m. that someone had entered his residence and stolen a 20-gauge shotgun and a 12-gauge shotgun. He said the burglary occurred as long as nine months ago.

Erin Fry told officers at 5:15 p.m. that someone had taken a license plate from the inside of her vehicle while it was parked in the 3100 block of Crockett. An offense report for burglary of a building was submitted.

In other activity, the fire department responded to a grass fire behind Rhodes Welding on the Lamesa Highway at 3 p.m.

Also, a deputy was requested at a location on Round Top Road at 5:09 p.m. in reference to a possible assault. No charges were filed, but a criminal trespass warning was issued.

Authorities say...

Women refused to leave abusive family

ONEIDA, N.Y. (AP) — Though two mentally disabled women were treated "worse than you would treat an animal" by their foster family, social workers couldn't persuade them to leave, authorities say.

State police said Melinda Vinson, 52, and her 24-year-old daughter, Beverly, were held captive by an upstate New York family, who abused them and cashed in their disability checks.

Beatings with metal canes and rubber tubing were common, and the family left the two tied to a box spring in an unfinished bedroom for days without food and water, Capt. John Wood said.

"It accelerated over the past year to the point where these people were treated worse than you would treat an animal," he said.

Vinson was found Monday in a rescue mission in Florida. She was hospitalized in fair condition and police said she had suffered "significant physical injuries." Her daughter was found Thursday at the bus station in Syracuse.

State police have charged John E. Dennee, 47; his wife, Kathleen, 44; and their daughter, Janet Lynn, 26, with felony unlawful imprisonment. All three were being held in Lewis County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bail.

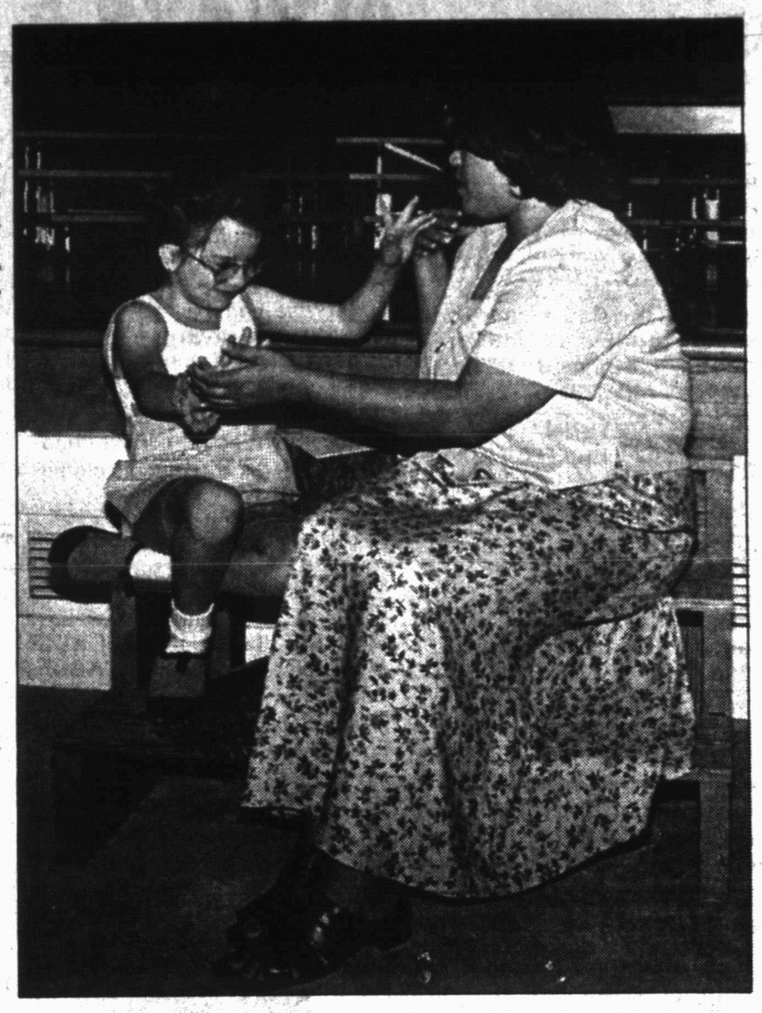

County social services commissioner Dorrance E. Moshier said Monday that county workers tried unsuccessfully for months to persuade the two women to leave the Dennee home, located in Greig, N.Y. The town is on the western fringe of the Adirondack Mountains about 60 miles northeast of Syracuse.

But the women were judged by caseworkers to be competent to make their own decisions and couldn't be forced to leave, Moshier said.

Vinson and her three mentally disabled daughters moved to Lewis County from Florida with the Dennees in 1988. There was no indication of abuse with the other daughters, who moved on to other foster homes in 1993.

Wood said the abuse apparently started in "small increments."

On Wednesday, an anonymous tip sent state troopers and social workers to the Dennee home, but the family refused to let them in. Police returned the next day with a search warrant and discovered the women had been placed on the bus bound for Florida.

Gutierrez speaks on abuse at Snyder ISD elementaries

Pre-kindergarten, kindergarten and first grade students heard Estella Gutierrez speak to them during April, Child Abuse Prevention Month.

Sponsored by the Safe Child Program in the school curriculum, this program builds on what the children already know and teaches them to stop a touch they don't want before it becomes abuse without suggesting that they might be hurt by someone they love and trust.

According to statistics, 85 to 90 percent of all sexual abuse occurs with someone the child knows and trusts. "While we must teach skills which prevent abuse, it is not necessry to make children feel anxious or afraid of the very people they count on for nurturance and love," said Gutierrez.

This program gives children the ability to act based on what they feel. It gives them permission to speak up and includes specific techniques to stop what's being done to them. In addition, it fosters their ability to communicate effectively so they can get help should they need it.

Kids at Easter Egg Hunt Pick Up Lessons for Life

DEAR ABBY: I would like to contribute the enclosed clipping from my local newspaper. Add it to your collection of good deeds; I cried when I read it. We see so many stories about bad kids in the media, such as children killing other children. This proves there are good kids out there, too. Sign me ...

A BIG SOFTY IN EUGENE, ORE.

DEAR SOFTY: The article brought tears to my eyes, too. And I'm pleased to share it with my readers:

"We took four of our younger children to the Sheldon Community Center for an Easter egg hunt. Jessica is 9 1/2 and totally blind. She felt it was more fair to hunt with kids her age, rather than with younger kids. At first I wasn't sure this would work; there were many 9-, 10- and 11-year-old kids, gathered in a group, anxiously waiting for the horn to sound. Two girls went out on the field ahead of time. It took a little convincing by the head guy to get them back to wait with the others.

"The horn sounded, and the kids all ran out, picking up eggs like a huge street cleaner. Jessica had her cane ready, but it's hard to slide a cane back and forth on wet grass 'looking' for eggs. There weren't any eggs left for my daughter.

"A father and son were nearby. The boy reached into his small bag, took out a plastic egg and placed it near my daughter. She felt all around her and found the egg. Her face lit up as she placed it in her bag. The little boy then took out two more eggs and placed them around her. One could see the joy he felt in sharing with my daughter.

"Soon, more kids came along, each placing an egg near Jessica. It was hard for me to even thank the kids because my throat was tight and tears tried so hard to escape from my eyes.

"One child came along with a huge bag of eggs and reached down to grab one of the eggs Jessica hadn't found yet, one that was about two inches away from Jessica. Two of the other kids quickly said, 'They are hers!' She gently put the egg back within Jessica's reach. That young girl learned a little that day — a little about herself, a little about sharing.

"As kids learn to reach out to others, at this young age, they acquire a habit that will last a lifetime. This warm feeling will spread from child to child and will truly help to make this a better world."

DEAR ABBY: Long ago, my lovely wife solved the problem cited by "Frank B. in Chicago," who objects to his wife putting her hair in curlers before she goes to bed.

My Marge laid down the law before we were married: If I wanted her to look good the following day without using curlers the night before, I could jolly well pay for her weekly visit to the beauty parlor.

Expensive as it was at the time (we were only 22), I accepted. That's the way it has worked, to the satisfaction of both of us, for 53 years.

WILBUR W. IN ATLANTA

DEAR WILBUR: Far be it from me to knock anything that has worked for 53 years!

Report: Child poverty worst in the West and the South

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The South still has millions of poor children, but advocates say the West has caught up.

More than one out of five children in each region live in poverty, the Children's Defense Fund announced Monday. It was the first time the South did not lead the nation in such a survey.

Nationally, 20.5 percent of children — nearly 14.5 million — were classified as poor in 1996. That's up from 14 percent in 1969.

"The majority of these children live in working families, so ending welfare as we know it, which has been the political cry in this country, will not help them," said Marian Wright Edelman, president of the defense fund.

The nonprofit advocacy group placed the poverty line at $12,516 per year for a family of three and $16,036 for a family of four.

In 1996, 5.5 million children were poor in the 16 states of the South, including Washington, D.C. Some 2.6 million were in extreme poverty, with incomes of about $120 a week for a family of three.

The news comes amid an economic boom that has brought budget surpluses to many Southern states.

In 1969, 22.3 percent of children in families in the South were poor. In 1996, 22.9 percent of all Southern and Western children — including those in foster care, living on their own, or with a nonrelative adult — were living in poverty.

The Midwest had the lowest percentage of impoverished children among the four regions, 11.5 percent, followed by the Northeast with 19.2 percent.

Since 1969, the South has seen a slight rise in the percentage of poor white children — 13 percent to 16 percent — and a decline in the percentage of poor black children, from 49 percent to 40 percent.

The defense fund and other child advocacy groups are gearing up for a new push for more federal and state help to reduce child poverty. They want a commitment from Congress for $20 billion in the next five years for early childhood education, child care and other such programs.

The children can be helped, Edelman said, if their families can get decent jobs, health care and child care.

Unabomber's case ends with life sentences

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Charles Epstein gently laid his mangled hand on the shoulder of a fellow Unabomber victim, seconds after a judge sentenced Theodore Kaczynski to spend four lifetimes in prison.

"It's all over," Epstein said softly to a tearful Jan Tuck, sister of slain timber lobbyist Gilbert Murray.

Only minutes before, Epstein — a geneticist working on Down syndrome in children when he opened a package bomb — had stared into Kaczynski's eyes and called the 55-year-old former math professor a coward.

He ridiculed Kaczynski for agreeing to a plea bargain rather than going ahead with a trial that would have served as a forum for his anti-technology creed. It also could have ended with a death sentence.

"In the end you showed you would rather save your life than risk your neck for the cause you say you believe in," Epstein said Monday.

The sentencing was never in doubt: U.S. District Judge Garland Burrell Jr. gave Kaczynski four life sentences plus 30 years, as set out in a plea bargain reached in January. The plea spared him the chance of a death penalty and a trial in which his lawyers planned to portray him, against his will, as deranged.

Given a chance to address the court, Kaczynski, the man whose 35,000-word manifesto against the evils of technology filled eight newspaper pages, briefly complained that the government put false and misleading statements in its sentencing memo.

In that memo, released last week, the government said Kaczynski wrote in his journal that his "motive for doing what I am going to do is simply personal revenge."

In court, he said he would explain his motives later. Until then, he said in a high-pitched nasal voice, "I ask only that people reserve judgment on me and the Unabomber case."

The Unabomber, so named because he targeted university professors and airlines as well as others in an anti-technology terrorist campaign, killed three men and injured 29 others in 16 attacks between 1978 and 1995.

The attacks ended with Kaczynski's capture at his Montana shack in April 1996. He was caught after his brother notified the FBI that Kaczynski's letters bore a resemblance to the Unabomber manifesto published under pressure in The Washington Post and The New York Times.

The plea bargain covered the three deaths and the maimings of two scientists. As part of the plea bargain, Kaczynski acknowledged responsibility for all Unabomber attacks.

Another charge of discrimination leveled at Denny's

BALTIMORE (AP) — Denny's restaurant chain, four years after settling a racial discrimination lawsuit for $46 million, was stung again by a group of black sixth-grade students and their chaperones who said they were denied service at a Florida restaurant.

The group, on a trip to Disney World from Baltimore, entered a Denny's restaurant in Ocoee, Fla. on Thursday night and were not greeted or seated, officials at Ashburton Elementary-Middle School said.

"The way we were greeted, actually entering the restaurant, we were not welcomed," chaperone Peggy Brown told Baltimore television station WMAR-TV.

After seating themselves, the students waited 20 minutes before some received menus. The group left an hour later without being served. Meanwhile, white customers who entered later were served, school officials said.

Principal Frances Ellington said school officials were gathering information and planned to file a complaint.

"We want the children to know first of all that they were OK. We want them to understand that they didn't do anything wrong," Ms. Ellington said.

The incident will be investigated, said Ray Hood-Phillips, chief diversity officer for Spartanburg, S.C.-based Denny's. The post was created following the 1994 settlement.

"If we find that discrimination has occurred, it doesn't matter if it's a company store or a franchise unit, we take swift action," Ms. Hood-Phillips said.

Dr. Gott

By Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 43-year-old man with impotence and waning sexual interest. I easily achieve an erection with self-stimulation but fail miserably when performing with a partner. What's wrong with me?

DEAR READER: The fact that you readily achieve erections in certain situations means that you do not suffer from a physical cause for your impotence. In my opinion, you might be helped by counseling. However, I think it prudent for you to be examined first by a urologist, just to make certain that there is no unusual physical cause for your problem. I'll bet that the urologist will find you free of diseases such as diabetes and advanced arteriosclerosis, two common causes of impotence.

To give you more information, I am sending you my Health Report "Impotence." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I would really like to travel, but I get violently motion-sick on boats and in planes. I have unsuccessfully tried all the nonprescription remedies. Is there any hope for me?

DEAR READER: Transderm-Scop is a patch that prevents motion sickness. Although it was briefly removed from the market, it is available once again by prescription for travelers whose trips are spoiled by the nausea and vomiting induced by cruising or flying. Ask your doctor about this.

DEAR DR. GOTT: In one of your columns, you stated that healthy adults do not have to consume extra fluids unless they are thirsty.

I read a lot of health magazines in which alternative practitioners recommend at least eight extra glasses of water a day. They believe that by the time a person is thirsty, he is already dehydrated. Who's correct?

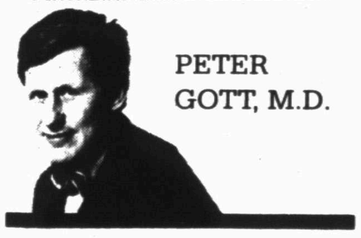

DEAR READER: Silly you should ask. I am.

Thirst is nature's way of reminding us to increase our fluid intake. There is nothing magical about consuming six or eight glasses of water a day. If you engage in this practice, you won't notice any particular health benefits. Moreover, you'll urinate a lot. Most of us obtain appropriate amounts of fluid by following a regular diet. Obviously, in the presence of summer heat, strenuous exercise and other factors, increased fluid consumption is mandatory. But again, the sensation of thirst will tell us what to do.

By the time a person feels thirsty, he is already dehydrated — but not dangerously so; he can correct the problem quickly by drinking water.

My comments apply only in a general way to healthy adults, for whom the ritual of fluid supplements is unnecessary. There are instances in which additional fluid (beyond that mandated by thirst) is entirely appropriate: for example, in patients with failing kidneys, in people taking certain medicines, and in the instances I cited above.

Astro-graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Wednesday, May 6, 1998

In the year ahead you might be showered with an abundance of opportunities, but the best ones aren't likely to be long shots. Stick to the traditional kind of sure thing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today you might be inclined to cater to your tendency to overindulge, physically and materially. Uncontrolled appetites in these areas generate regrets. Taurus, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper. P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not succumb to your restlessness today by starting to make important changes merely for change's sake. Dissatisfaction could result in unsound reasoning.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Refrain from attempting to embellish your achievements today. Your credibility will suffer if others catch you telling tall tales.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're a person who seldom counts his chickens before they hatch. Today, however, you might bank rather heavily on something that's not yet a reality.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A clever acquaintance who is aware that you can be manipulated through flattery might lay it on a bit thick today in order to subdue you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your good looks and charm won't guarantee your success today. If there is something important you hope to accomplish, be prepared to roll up your sleeves and work for it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It might be wise today not to subject yourself to a social function with several persons whose company you don't enjoy. It you do attend, have an excuse ready for an early exit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do not take bows prematurely today for something you have not yet accomplished. A competitor who would like to trip you up might ask to see the finished product.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Most of the time you like to play things by ear, but today if you don't have concise plans for each step of the way you may experience some turbulence.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Joint endeavors might be difficult today, especially if your counterpart is ineffective in looking after your collective interests. Keep close tabs on everything.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be very careful today if you have to negotiate a delicate matter. You may go in thinking you have the edge, but that may not be the case.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Usually you're a reliable individual, but today you might pretend you took care of something for another when, in reality, you didn't. The truth will out.

"THAT CHRIST MAY DWELL IN YOUR HEARTS"

Paul's beautiful prayer ends, "that you may be filled up to all the fullness of God" (Ephesians 3:14-19). There is mystery in our faith. Who can explain how the distance between God and man can be rubbed out, so that man receives the fullness of God? How can the human heart hold the fullness of God, who is greater than the universe? Man cannot explain this mystery, but he can experience it.

Paul wants Christians to know the unknowable, "the love of Christ which surpasses knowledge." God takes residence in us in proportion to our faith, love and appreciation of it. Unsaved man is alien and rebellious; only the recreated heart can be filled with God. Which is the greater marvel, that God's fullness can live in man, or that man's heart can be radically converted to be open to God at all?

Thanks be to God who gives us the power to comprehend the incomprehensible love of Christ, and who gives us the capacity to be filled with God.

How Do You Write A Classified Ad That Gets Results?

BE THOROUGH
Sure you want your ad to stand out from the rest, but don't skimp on the sort of information that sells. The item's condition, size, age, brand name, and color are some of the basics readers want to know. Without them, your ad may be passed by.

STEER CLEAR OF ABBREVIATIONS
OK, so you want to include all the important basics, now don't confuse your reader by using strange abbreviations. What is perfectly clear to you may be perfectly unrecognizable to someone else!

BE HONEST
Exaggerating your item's finer points may bring in a lot of responses, but a buyer who's misled won't appreciate it - and will take his business somewhere else.

STATE YOUR PRICE
The cost of an item is one of the most important concerns of Classified readers. Ads showing prices are ones which get results. Giving a price also serves to "weed out" those buyers not in your price range.

BE ACCESSIBLE
Including a telephone number or address puts you in touch with potential buyers. Be sure to state the hours you can be reached: a caller who can't get through the first time often won't call again.

Don't hesitate to call with any questions or problems you may have. Our professionally trained sales staff knows the ropes, and would be happy to pass their know-how on to you. That's why we're here: to help you get the results you deserve.

Both sides rest in tobacco trial

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Both sides have rested their cases in Minnesota's tobacco trial and are preparing for closing arguments amid a report that a multibillion-dollar settlement may be in the works.

Mindful of the swirling settlement talk, Ramsey County District Judge Kenneth Fitzpatrick twice reminded the jury Monday of his order to avoid news reports on the trial.

The judge's words were a veiled reference to a buzz that began with Monday morning's headline in the Saint Paul Pioneer Press: "Tobacco deal on the table."

Citing anonymous sources, the newspaper said the tobacco industry and the state attorney general's office had agreed on a settlement outline that would pay the state $5 billion over 25 years, with Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Minnesota getting $400 million.

The newspaper also said major problems needed to be resolved. Today, the newspaper said the lawyers continued to work on a deal.

Neither side would confirm the report, but they didn't deny it either.

The last witness the jury heard Monday was University of Minnesota statistics expert Brian McCall,

ONE INJURED — Big Spring resident Kevin Cooper was transported by helicopter to University Medical Center Monday afternoon following a one-vehicle rollover on CR 3236 near Lake Thomas. His condition was listed as satisfactory this morning by hospital officials. He was first taken by Snyder EMS to Cogdell Hospital, and then transferred. (SDN Staff Photo) posts, with comments on a job well done.

Council members Terry Martin, I.E. Martin and former council member Mike Post were named to a Cable TV Performance Review Committee. The purpose of the committee is to receive citizen input as Snyder begins to work toward a franchise agreement with TCA Cable.

Engineers from Freese & Nichols were on hand Monday to officially announce the completion of the expansion at the city water treatment plant. They noted that bids had been let on the project almost two years ago, on May 16, 1996.

The $2.9 million expansion allows the city to process 5 million gallons of water per day (mgd) and is integrated with the old plant, which is capable of processing 4 mgd.

Officials were quick to note, however, that the plant is not capable of producing 9 mgd — a point which caused some confusion early on in the progress of the project. Officials noted that the new water transmission line is limited to a capacity of 8 mgd.

However, officials said the upgraded plant meets current city requirements and is designed to be expanded, should the need arise.

In one other item of business, council members approved an expense allowance of $500 per trip for Mayor Pro-Tem Vernest Tippens to attend Texas Municipal League Public Safety Committe meetings.

Council members Tippens, Jerry Martin, I.E. Martin and Jerry Webb were also presented certificates of election.

The city was able to waive an election this year since there were no contested seats.

Mayor David Holt presided. Also present was councilman Dayton Robertson.

Bond issue

Out-going trustee Anderson, who will be leaving the board next Tuesday, took Monday night to express his feelings on closing Central Elementary. Anderson has served as a teacher and administrator in the system, including a tenure as the principal at Central.

He said board members and citizens who propose closing the facility should be more forthright in their reasons.

"If it's economic, say economic," said Anderson. "Let's not use scare tactics by saying the kids are not safe due to the traffic around there."

Burleson agreed, staying she wished the safety issue had not been brought up.

"We've never lost anyone in 60 years over there," said Burleson.

Anderson continued by saying he takes exception to comments made by Police Chief Lannie Lee in a public meeting last week.

Lee said he thought there was a safety issue due to the building's close proximity to the street. Lee said a child could be out of the building and in front of a car in 10 seconds.

"If he thinks it is so dangerous, why didn't he bring that to our attention earlier?" said Anderson.

Anderson also said Central serves as a tornado shelter for the neighborhood.

Anderson presided at the meeting and all trustees were in attendance.

passed a forged $50 check in someone else's name on April 9. The indictment indicates that Pace was convicted of burglary and forgery by passing on Nov. 17, 1989 in Scurry County. Bond was set at $5,000 for Pace, who is being held in Scurry County Jail on revocation of probation.

Tonya Kay Scott, 30, of southwest Scurry County was indicted for forgery. She is charged with passing a check for $1,488.12 in the name of another party. Bond was set at $5,000.

Isidoro Gutierrez, 40, of 2504 West Hicks in Midland was indicted for an April 13 offense of driving while intoxicated. Gutierrez is free on $5,000 bond. The indictment lists prior DWI convictions in April and November of 1990 in Scurry County and May 30 in Midland County.

The name of one other person indicted has been withheld, pending an arrest.
