LIFE COMPANIES FORMED BIG POOL

Purpose Was To Look After Legislation

SCHIFF ACCUSES HYDE

Banker Declares There Was Too Much One-Man Power in the Equitable

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—When the legislative committee on the insurance investigation adjourned yesterday until next Tuesday it concluded a week in which greater progress had been made than any week since the investigation was begun. Testimony of witnesses that have been called during the week have been replete with sensations and yesterday was no exception to the rule.

It was during the afternoon session yesterday when Alfred Maine, an assistant auditor of the Equitable Assurance Society, was called to the stand that it was disclosed that the Equitable Life, the Mutual Life and the New York Life had formed a pool to look after legislation before the various state legislatures.

Andrew Hamilton, to whom President McCall of the New York Life paid several checks, the purpose of which the counsel for the committee, Mr. Hughes, has not yet brought to light, was one of the chief members of the legal staff for those companies and was employed and received money for the services of the Equitable. Mr. Maine told of the division of the country to be looked after by Mr. Hamilton in conjunction with E. L. Short and W. P. Thummel.

Witness presented vouchers for moneys paid by his company to Mr. Hamilton and these showed that in eight years from 1895 to 1902 the sum of $65,596 was paid to Mr. Hamilton for legal services. Mr. Maine could not give any details of the duties performed by Mr. Hamilton, nor of the committees he appeared before, beyond that Mr. Hamilton looked after legislative matters for all three companies in the states west of Ohio.

Witness told of an agreement whereby special counsel was employed by one company in its territory and the expense was shared by all. He was asked if campaign contributions came under his observation and he replied that they did not. He never heard of money being paid to influence legislators. He was excused, but will be called again to submit transcripts of accounts giving information he was unable to supply.

Cost of Paris Building

He was followed in the afternoon session by Edward I. Devlin, the real estate manager of the New York Life for the United States and Canada. Mr. Devlin was called to testify as to the cost of the building in Paris. He had only the transcripts for the reports his department made to the home office, but it was brought out that the Paris building was carried on the books of the company at a valuation of $1,102,604, whereas, with the original cost and improvements to the building, actual money to the amount of $2,533,197 was paid, over $1,000,000 being charged off the valuation on the books of the company.

Mr. Devlin said the net income on the building to the New York Life was 1½ per cent on the actual amount invested on the building, or between 3½ per cent on the amount for which the building was carried on the books of the company. Mr. Devlin was on the stand when adjournment was taken, but he will be called again to submit the transcript of records to supply further information.

Not the least important development of the day was the appearance on the stand of Jacob H. Schiff, head of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Mr. Schiff was the first witness of the day and he remained on the stand until 2 o'clock. Mr. Schiff had been waiting in the committee and session chamber for a day and a half, being under subpena, and when the usual time for recess arrived Mr. Schiff desired to proceed, as he had an engagement for the afternoon.

Mr. Hughes explained the situation to the committee, and it was decided to continue until Mr. Schiff had concluded his testimony. Most of the time Mr. Schiff reclined leisurely in the chair of the witness stand, but as one point after another was brought forth, he grew excited and vigorously defended his attitude while a director of the Equitable Society, and claimed his firm had acted in a conscientious manner in all its dealings with the society.

Banker Schiff Excited

At the conclusion of his testimony and before the committee could adjourn, Mr. Schiff asked to be allowed to make a statement. He was permitted and stepped briskly forward on the platform toward a small table and made an impassioned attack on the state superintendent of insurance, and statements he had made concerning Kuhn, Loeb & Co. during the investigation of the Equitable. Mr. Schiff emphasized his remarks with rappings on the table, and frequently he raised his voice until it was almost a shout. During his charge, too, Mr. Schiff made the charge that the minutes of the finance committee regarding a certain meeting was false. He later qualified this, however, by saying if the transaction under consideration, one in Union Pacific preferred, was actually made, he did not hear it, though he was present at the meeting. Again during his testimony regarding the power of the finance committee of the society, Mr. Schiff waxed warm in his discussion and said that the entire committee was at the mercy of one man.

"It was all Hyde," said Mr. Schiff, "all Hyde and Alexander. Mr. Hyde wrote the messages regarding the offers made by my firm for participation in syndicates, Mr. Hyde signed all the receipts, Mr. Hyde wrote all the letters."

In the matter of the James Hyde and associates syndicate, Mr. Schiff hotly accused Mr. Hyde of trying to shield himself. He said the position of a director of the Equitable was that of a negligible quantity, and that the directors were mere figure-heads. He said further, that he had never asked any favors of the Equitable Society.

"I have granted many favors," he said. "I have not done, as a director of the Equitable, any wrong of commission. I may have done some of omission. It is a case of hind sight and not one of foresight, but my conscience frees me of my bond. I have been as good a director as I know how to be, and I did my duty."

In reply to a question by Mr. Hughes as to whether he did not think there ought to be more supervision of insurance companies, Mr. Schiff said:

"There is no doubt of it, but no law can secure it. Do you expect every director to have accountants at his disposal to examine the accounts at every bank, insurance or trust company?"

Mr. Schiff said he understood that the Equitable Society was audited only by two of its executive officers, Mr. McIntyre and Mr. Jordan, and that Mr. Hyde appointed them.

Said Mr. Schiff: "I think he made a mistake because he actually kept a board of directors absolutely at the mercy of one man."

Mr. Schiff said he would like to see an insurance company looked after as strictly as his own banking firm, and its executive officers held to a strict accountability as his own cashiers.

Mr. Hughes asked him about campaign contributions by the Equitable Society. Mr. Schiff said in reply that Cornelius N. Bliss had told him that Mr. Hyde had contributed to the last campaign, but he did not know whether it was the society's money.

Taking up the transactions of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., with the Equitable, the witness testified that the names of the firms from whom contemplated purchases were under advisement were never mentioned in the committee room. When Kuhn, Loeb & Co. had any proposition to make to the Equitable, Mr. Schiff usually presented it to George H. Squire, who in turn presented it to the executive committee, and then it was passed upon by General Lewis Fitzgerald. Witness said it was sometimes three weeks before he could obtain replies to the offers of his firm. These transactions continued until General Fitzgerald retired, and then Geo. H. Squire passed upon the offers of bonds. Mr. Hughes went into a line of questioning that brought from the witness a description of how the syndicates are formed, managed and closed.

"You don't have to beg life insurance companies to go into these syndicates do you?" asked Mr. Hughes.

"No, indeed," witness replied.

"It's a pretty good thing to be let in, ain't it?"

Witness smiled and nodded, and Mr. Hughes continued: "I mean they are good things to be let in?" whereat Mr. Schiff smilingly nodded.

STILL NO ARREST IN SECURITIES ROBBERY

New York Police Have Only Theory Regarding Man Who Secured Bonds Worth $359,330

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—While no definite statement has been made by the detectives in the case, it is believed in certain quarters that the arrest is imminent of the men behind the plot by which $359,330 worth of securities was stolen from the National City bank on Wednesday by the presentation of a forged check for the amount of the loan for which the securities stood as collateral.

Numerous reports, all lacking confirmation, were circulated last night. One was to the effect that an attempt was being made by the forgers to negotiate for the return of their plunder. It is believed by the detectives that back of the whole plot will be found a man who has an international reputation as a get-rich-quick swindler and whose record in Wall street is as well known as the alphabet.

This man was behind the somewhat similar transaction some years ago. In that case the securities were taken from a messenger, who asserted that they had been stolen from him. The bank was successful in keeping the thing absolutely quiet and pretty soon an offer was made for the return of the securities. This offer the bank accepted and the case was closed.

Three Persons in Plot.

In the present case, although the National City bank officials and members of the brokerage house are earnest in their assertions of belief in the innocence of their respective employes, yet the detectives are satisfied there was collusion with at least three persons in the plot. This collusion was between some person whom indications place within the bank, an "outsider" who could be any one of several hundred messenger boys in the district and a third person—the master mind to devise the plot and work it out with an elaboration of detail unprecedented in criminal attempts in Wall street. This third person is identical, according to the theorists, with the swindler previously mentioned. For years he has been in the Wall street district, and every year has seen his name involved in some swindle, either by means of a spurious corporation or by a bucket shop concern or discretionary pool syndicate. He has been indicted a half hundred times, and has been twice convicted. A boast said to have been made by this man some time ago was reported to the police and they began a watch at once. "Watch," he is reported to have said, "and you will hear something that will dazzle you."

HEBREWS ALLOWED TO OBSERVE FEAST

New York Postoffice and Municipal Officials Give Holiday to Employs Wishing to Participate

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Celebration of the Jewish New Year began last night and crowded every one of the 300 synagogues in this city. Today is marked as the beginning of the year 5666 on the Hebrew calendar, and the festival of Rosh Hashovah will be observed in every Jewish home. Preparations for the holiday began at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when every Jew who could do so laid his work aside and made ready to visit a synagogue.

Orthodox Jews will religiously keep the first two days of the new year, during which time they will suspend all work. Most of the big wholesale houses on Broadway will be closed.

For the first time Hebrews who hold positions in the postal service and those employed in the municipal departments are accorded the privilege today of absenting themselves from duty without loss of pay.

WOULD OMIT ORCHESTRA

New York Theater Managers Think Music Unnecessary

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—At a meeting of theater managers of this city, held yesterday, the subject of abolishing orchestras in the large play houses where "straight" dramatic performances are given, was discussed at length. Definite action was deferred until the next meeting.

Many of the managers of Broadway theaters where only dramatic entertainments are given expressed the opinion that music between acts is unnecessary.

They assert that as a great portion of the audience always leave their seats between acts, the music is practically lost and therefore an unnecessary expense.

ROOM 13 WAS DEATH TRAP FOR THREE MEN

Drunken Sailor Believed to Have Caused Fire in New York Lodging House

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Two men were burned to death as they slept, a third so badly burned he died in an hospital, another is in a dangerous condition and several others suffered serious but probably not fatal injuries in a fire in a two-story saloon, restaurant and lodging house at Nos. 211 and 223 West street. The men who lost their lives occupied room 13, in the rear of the building. They were overcome by smoke and were burned to death in bed. All the occupants of the house were sailors and longshoremen. Those who suffered death and injury were suffocated and burned within a few minutes, the fire being extinguished before the damage exceeded $3,000.

The dead: John McMahon, 30 years of age, longshoreman, burned; Robert Vaughan, 22, longshoreman, burned; William McClelland, 32 sailor, escaped from room with clothes on fire, died in hospital.

The fire is believed to have resulted from the carelessness of a drunken sailor who is known to have entered the stairway to the upper floor early this morning. The first known of the fire outside was when McClelland, his clothes on fire, dashed downstairs from the lodging house and ran into the saloon. The bartender threw his apron around the flaming man and finally succeeded in smothering the flames. McClelland was so badly burned he died within an hour.

Four of the lodgers who were unable to reach the windows had a narrow escape from death in the flames. They made their way to the roof of the building through the skylight, only to find the burning building separated from those adjoining by chasms a dozen feet in width on both sides. None of them dared to attempt a leap, which might have landed them safely on another roof or sent them crashing to death on the stone paved court below. They were surrounded by flames and the roof upon which they stood was scorching their bare feet when their plight was called to the attention of the firemen and they were rescued.

PRES. HILL TALKS OF NEW RAILROAD

Great Northern President Says Portland and Seattle Line Will Be Rushed to Completion

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 30.—James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, and party reached this city late yesterday and in the evening were entertained at the Rainier Club.

During the evening Mr. Hill made a speech in which he took occasion to criticize the people of Washington for the creation of the railway commission.

To the representative of the Associated Press Mr. Hill made the following statement:

"The Portland and Seattle railroad will be rushed to completion. It is being constructed for business purposes and the Great Northern and Northern Pacific are jointly interested in this new line.

"The Oriental trade passing through Puget Sound is increasing all the time and we are receiving plenty of freight for our ships. The question of building other ships to engage in the Oriental trade is a matter for the future.

"At the present time we have 2,000 men at work on the construction of the Victoria, Vancouver and Eastern and this line is to be rushed to rapid completion, as we are building up a trade in the British Columbia country which demands the use of the branch lines in the immediate future.

"The name of the Great Northern has been associated with the projected Victoria, Westminster and Yukon line, but this rumor is without foundation. In fact, the first I knew of this proposed railway movement was since reaching the coast."

STUDENTS ARE UNRULY

Mayor of Madison, Wis., Prepared to Use Violence in Subduing Disturbances

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 30.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Madison, Wis., says:

"My men are all provided with weapons, and while we would deplore any bloodshed, yet I have given my officers instructions to shoot in case they are assaulted by students or in case the students resist arrest. Any attempt to rescue an arrested student also will be met with a reception calculated to inspire respect for authority."

These words were spoken yesterday by Mayor W. D. Curtis over the telephone to President Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin, who called up the mayor and thanked him personally for breaking up a boisterous demonstration the night before. President Van Hise declared that he heartily would co-operate with the city authorities in suppressing student violence and that he has asked Judge Donovan of the municipal court to show no discrimination toward students, as has been the time-honored custom of the past. He announced that any student arrested would be suspended pending disposition of his case and on conviction would be expelled from the institution.

SHOT SELF TOO SOON

Landlord Thought He Had Killed Former Lodger

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Victor Walkowski was detected by his former landlord last night while he was trying to remove his trunk through a window. He fired three shots at the man and, believing he had killed him, ran to the street and shot himself twice in the head, dying instantly. Walkowski was 19 years old and until last Monday boarded with Frank Garowski. He fell behind in the payment of his board and left the place, the landlord holding his trunk for security. Garowski was not injured.

SUIT CASE MURDER NO NEARER EXPLANATION

Boston Police Now Said to Be Seeking Druggist Missing Since Discovery

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—The state authorities and city police are understood to be searching for a south end druggist in connection with the Winthrop suit case tragedy. This druggist who is said to have been missing about a week is thought to answer closely the description of a man who bought from Joseph Berkman, a pawnbroker, the suit case in which the torso of the woman was found. The druggist is alleged to have associated with south end physicians who have been suspected of irregularities.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 30.—Miss Nathan, daughter of Mrs. Louis Nathan of Baltimore, came here yesterday and requested the police to show her the torso of the woman which was found in a dress suit case near the Winthrop Yacht club on Thursday of last week.

The coming of Miss Nathan has a possible bearing on the Winthrop mystery, although the police do not attach great importance to it. Miss Nathan is a sister of Mrs. Maurice Schapiro, who has been missing for nearly three weeks. Mrs. Schapiro is the wife of a former west end doctor, who has also been missing for some time. In the search for clews that might lead to a solution of the case the attention of the police was called to the missing doctor and his wife, and an investigation was instituted and apparently concluded to the satisfaction of the officers.

It was given out that the officers knew the whereabouts of Mrs. Schapiro, and it was understood that such information had been conveyed to Mrs. Nathan. Miss Nathan now asserts that she does not know where her sister is, that the police must have been misinformed and that she has come to look for her. Miss Nathan will attempt to identify the torso, but as there are no marks or blemishes upon it identification is doubtful.

Last night two fishmongers of T wharf in this city found a dress suit case in the water close to the wharf piling. They grappled for it with boat hooks and brought to the surface the upper portion of the case. Their attempt to recover the other part of the case was not successful.

From the part secured it would appear that the dress suit case was a comparatively new one and of inexpensive quality. The police theory is that two suit cases were used in the disposal of the body, but the officers are not inclined to connect the case found tonight with the Winthrop tragedy.

GOULD THOUGHT TO BE BEHIND ROAD

Presumably Electric Line From Oxnard to Los Angeles, Cal., Declared Party of Western Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 30.—A dispatch to the Examiner from Los Angeles says:

George Gould is already building his line from San Francisco to Los Angeles, which will form a portion of his Western Pacific system. Where the efforts are to be seen is in the construction of the Bakersfield and Ventura railroad, now being built from Oxnard in the direction of this city. The line is supposed to be for an electric road, but is being constructed with heavy steel, standard gauge, so it can easily be operated as a steam road.

It is rumored Henry Oxnard is behind this enterprise, but this has been officially denied. From an authoritive source the statement comes that the road is part of George Gould's plan to practically duplicate the Southern Pacific system in California.

SUSPECTED NEGRO ESCAPES CAPTORS

MILLIONAIRE ENDS LIFE WITH BULLET

William R. Travers, Son of Celebrated Wall Street Wit, Found Dead With Revolver by Side

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—William R. Travers, a millionaire man of leisure, son of the celebrated wit and Wall street operator, William R. Travers, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself through the head, in his apartments on Madison avenue.

The suicide is inexplicable. Mr. Travers being in the prime of life, in fair health and the possessor of a large fortune. Mr. Travers married Miss Lilly Harriman, a sister of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt Jr. The couple separated three years ago. Mrs. Travers going to Paris to live. Mr. Travers was an uncle of Mrs. Clarence Mackay. He had two sisters, Mrs. James S. Wadsworth of Genesee, N. Y., and Mrs. Walter Gay, now living in Paris. Since his separation from his wife he had lived entirely alone under the care of his valet, Martin Moon.

When Mr. Travers arose this morning he appeared to be in excellent spirits, and after breakfast told his valet he would not require his services during the day. Shortly after noon a maid found Mr. Travers lying dead on his bed with a revolver by his side. He had placed the muzzle of the weapon in his mouth, sending a bullet through his brain. He left several letters, all relating to business affairs and giving no clew to the cause of the suicide.

Mr. Travers, who was 49 years old, was a member of the Knickerbocker, New York, Athletic, Tennis and Racquet, and many other clubs.

HUNGARIAN OUTLOOK NOW LESS TURBULENT

Chance of Serious Disturbances in Budapest Believed to Have Been Removed—Seed Peace

BUDAPEST, Sept. 30.—The situation is becoming clearer and evidence is accumulating that both the coalition leaders and the king-emperor are earnestly endeavoring to find a way out of the difficulty.

Statements have been issued, emanating, it is understood, directly from the entourage of the king-emperor, denying any intention on the part of the crown of wounding Hungarian national suceptibilities, and an article from the pen of Francis Kossuth appears today, in which the leader of the coalition states that he and his associates went to Vienna a week ago with every peaceful intent, but that they were not given an opportunity to demonstrate to the king-emperor that the coalition does not contemplate any obstinate adherence to its demands, and that the Hungarian nation wishes to live at peace with Austria.

These are regarded as indications that the negotiations between the crown and the coalition leaders will be renewed with some hope of success.

It is believed by some well-informed persons that General Baron Fejervay will be reappointed premier with the right to carry on the elections on a platform calling for universal suffrage, and that by this means a government majority will be secured in the Hungarian diet.

WARSHIP MISSISSIPPI LIGHT, BUT STRONG

Has the Heaviest Armament of Any Vessel With Same Displacement in World

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—Special interest is attached to the battleship Mississippi, which is to be launched today at Cramps Ship Yard, since it will carry the smallest displacement of any battleship now being built with the exception of the Idaho, its sister ship. The displacement of these two vessels is 13,000 tons each, while all the later battleships, including the Vermont, Kansas and Minnesota, now building at other ship yards have a displacement of 16,000 tons. The Mississippi will be equal to many battleships of 16,000 tons displacement and no vessel of the same displacement in the navy of any nation carries equally heavy batteries. The main batteries consist of four 12-inch breech-loading rifles, mounted on two turrets, eight 8-inch breech-loading rifles in four turrets, eight 7-inch breech-loaders, behind the basement armor, and two 21-inch submerged torpedo tubes. The Mississippi will be 375 feet in length on the water line and the length over all will be 382 feet, with an extreme beam of 77 feet. The speed requirement is 17 knots. The ship will be equipped with triple expansion twin screw engines with 10,000 indicated horsepower, fitted with eight Babcock and Wilcox water tube boilers and a set of water-tight compartments. Except for the windlass and steerage gear practically all other manchinery will be run by electricity. A wireless telegraphic apparatus will be installed. There will be commodious quarters provided for a crew of 750 officers and men, with special attention paid to sanitary needs.

The amount of Chadwick assets which passed through the hands of the officers of the bankruptcy courts was $61,800, of which $36,800 was distributed among secured creditors, leaving a balance of $25,000 to be distributed among the general creditors.

The total fees asked for by Nathan Loeser as trustee and receiver and by the attorneys was $10,712, and the total allowed was $6,151.

Mob at Edna Furious at Officers

RIDES HORSE TO DEATH

Deputies Foiled by Barb Wire in Effort to Pursue Fugitive in Darkness

Special to The Telegram.

HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 30.—Monk Gibson, the young negro who is believed to have had a hand in the murdering of five members of the Conditt family near Edna, Texas, Thursday, is at large.

Jackson county is wild over his escape and thousands are searching. After having been subjected to frightful tortures, including five hundred lashes in order to make him confess the names of the guilty ones, the officers decided late last night to take Gibson from Edna to the Hallettsville jail.

Placed on Horseback.

He was hastily placed on a horse and Deputies Jim Powers and Tom Hays started with him at full speed. Mobs were then gathering and it was reported angry crowds were on their way from Bay City. The negro was disguised and the escape was successful from Edna. When a few miles in the country the negro suddenly wheeled on his horse and ran through two barbed wire fences, which threw the horse, gashing it so badly it died. He leaped to the ground and escaped in the darkness. The deputies tried to follow, but their horses were entangled in the barbed wire. This is the statement of Sheriff Egg.

Mob Doubts Story.

It was doubted when told and the mob was so frenzied it threatened harm to the officers. The one dead horse and other mangled horses is taken as evidence of the truth of the story. Business at Edna is suspended and all men are engaged in the hunt. Egg admits the prisoner was not handcuffed or tied.

Gibson was the only suspect held, the other negroes being released.

Feeling Is Bitter.

Feeling against the sheriff is very bitter. Bloodshed was narrowly averted in front of the telephone office when an excited crowd yelled to Sheriff Egg, "Why didn't you iron him?" The sheriff jumped to the middle of the street and said if any one wanted to make it a personal matter to step out and settle it now.

S. H. Beasley, father of the murdered woman, issued an appeal to the state of Texas this morning asking support in his intention to recapture the negro, take him from the guards over their dead bodies if need be and "burn him for a week." The people showed their approval. A spark of resistance when the negro is recaptured will cause a pitched battle between the authorities and the people, as all plans are ready for burning at the stake when the negro is caught. The negro is said to be half dead from beatings to make him confess who committed the crime and cannot escape.

NO TROOPS ORDERED

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 30.—Governor Lanham today denied the report that the troops had been ordered to assist in protecting the alleged murderer of Mrs. Conditt and family near Edna. Adjutant General Hulen said that no request had been made to him for troops. The report was printed this morning to the effect that military companies of Victoria and Cuero had been ordered out and would leave at once for the scene is without foundation. General Hulen said the fact was there were no companies at either of these places.

DEEP SENTIMENT OF ROSH HASHOVAH

Aspirations and Feelings Are Aroused by Jewish Feast Observed Today

BY DR. JOSEPH JASIN.

My task is to convey to the reader the meaning and suggestions of the phrase "Rosh Hashovah," the Hebrew for "the new year," or more literally "the head of the year."

The scholar approaches a subject like the present from several points of view. First he determines, if possible, the etymology of the words. Then he traces out the origin, or origins, of the institution itself, following up its historical evolution from the most primitive days up to modern times. He also discusses in detail the references to his subject which are found in ancient and modern literature. He states facts and cites authorities. Indeed, if he is a scholar of the older encyclopedia type, he nearly always tells everything about his subject except that which the reader wishes most to know.

I am not writing a scholarly article. I am attempting the more difficult task of describing to others some of the sentiments and emotions that stir the hearts, the yearnings and aspirations which are associated with this day in the souls of the children of Israel.

And what a task it is! How well-nigh impossible of genuine fulfillment! For how can one mind, by employing the cold written word make real to another mind those intangible, evanescent things which we call sentiments and emotions? As Emerson says, speaking in a similar sense: "Every man's words . . . . must sound vain to those who do not dwell in the same thought on their own part."

Yet though our task be extremely delicate and our tools crude and imperfect, it is not for us to stand by in mute and idle despair. In all things we must forever strive for perfection and forever be resigned to imperfect results.

At the outset, however, and in order to have a foundation, I shall compromise with the scholar's method. This because some of the mere facts in the case are curious ones, and curious facts appeal even to the unscholarly.

Not a New Year

First of all I shall state, not as a paradox, but as a cold dry fact that the Jewish "New Year" is not a "new year" at all. It falls according to the Biblical injunction (Numbers 29:1) on the first day of the month of Tishri, the seventh month of the year. The first month in the Jewish calendar, the month of Nissan, is in the spring, where it should logically be, where it really was among the Romans and among all the primitive peoples who were close to nature. If we can at all single out any season of the year as being "new," it must certainly be the early spring season, when nature casts off her somber winter robes and clads herself in beauteous flowers and foliage; when God's universe is filled with sunshine and music; when life and joy abound and death and sorrow seem scarcely real. No matter what custom or tradition may declare, nature decrees her own New Year season; and the primitive children of nature understood and accepted that decree. Hence the spring festivals which are a part of each and every ancient form of religion.

How comes it then, we may ask, that among the great historic religions Judaism and her daughter Christianity have shifted their New Year's celebrations so far away from the time decreed by nature and recognized by all ancient peoples? This is not the place, nor have I the authority, to trace the evolution of the Christian New Year, though this would make an interesting study. As for Rosh Hashovah, there are many theories to account for its origin. Nearly all of them are ingenious; most of them are pure guess-work. The one that accords best with the other facts in the case is this:

Establishment of Feast

The Jewish religion, in common with every other historical faith, has inherited from the past, much which it has later spiritualized and transformed to its own uses. Let those who would discredit religion in general on account of the superstitious origin of some of its institutions remember that chemistry has evolved from alchemy, astronomy from astrology, and much of what is highest in art has grown directly out of ancient mythology and the worship of idols. Among the institutions which ancient Judiasm borrowed and spiritualized was the new moon festival, one of the most important of all nature worshipers, and a prominent festival in the Judaism or old.

Another thing which Judaism borrowed, and which has been transmitted to Christianity, is the belief in the sacredness of the number seven. (Young's Concordance refers to six hundred passages in the Old and New Testaments, containing the word seven, generally as a sacred or symbolic number). The week has seven days. The seventh is sacred. The seventh year is likewise sacred. At the end of seven times seven years came the great jubilee year, in which all debts were wiped away, all men made free, and all economic inequalities destroyed. Jacob serves seven years for Rachel. Pharaoh dreams each time of seven kine, signifying respectively seven years of plenty and seven years of famine. The sacrificial blood is sprinkled seven times. Balaam commands Balah to build seven altars and prepare seven bullocks and seven rams. Before the overthrow of Jericho it is ordered, "And seven priests shall bear seven trumpets of ram's horns before the ark, and the seventh day ye shall compass the city seven times," etc. Samson had seven locks of his wonderful hair, etc. In the New Testament we read of the miraculous seven loaves which were fed to the multitude from which seven basketsful of broken pieces were left. We hear often of seven spirits, seven devils, etc. Revelations is full of this mystic number. There are the seven golden candlesticks, the seven stars, seven lamps, seven seals sealing a book, seven angels, seven trumpets, seven thunders, seven plagues, seven kings, etc. Lack of space compels me to refrain from citing many other striking illustrations. But I believe I have already made my last point plain.

Now combine the sacredness of the new moon feast with the sacredness of the number seven, and is it surprising that the first day or new moon of the seventh month came in time to be regarded as one of the most solemn and holy days of the year?

The Bible does not speak of this day as a new year. Only in much later times did this secondary significance attach to it and become forever inseparable from it. Therefore it is not the "new" year, but the "head (or climax, as it were) of the year." I recommend the reading of Nehemiah, chapter eight, to those who desire to get an idea of the sacredness in later times of this great day, and to all who wish to enjoy a beautiful description of a beautiful historic scene which occurred on that day.

Significance Today

Thus much for the historical and critical side of the subject. The question still remains, not how or whence did Rosh Hashovah originate or do we think it originated, but what is it now and today in the spiritual life of the Jew?

The world moves rapidly nowadays, even in the conservative sphere of religion. Things which but a few years ago were matters of common knowledge and universal practice must be explained today as curiosities and antiquities. This is true of the practices of every faith. It is especially true of some of the practices of traditional Judaism, which in the past two decades have either fallen into entire neglect or are only perfunctorily observed.

Most Jewish adults, especially those of European nativity, still remember the overwhelming solemnity of the "Ten Days of Repentance" between the Rosh Hashovah and the Yom Hakkipurim (the day of atonement), "Days of awe," they were called, and such in fact they were. In external nature "the melancholy days had come, the saddest of the year," and within every Jewish heart there was a feeling corresponding with this melancholy aspect of the physical environment. Weeks before Rosh Hashovah there were heard throughout the land the weird notes of the ram's horn. A ram's horn is at best a difficult instrument from which to extract any dignified music, and much practice must be had every year before they could be used in the Rosh Hashovah service as commanded in Numbers 29:1.

As soon as these notes began to be heard every Jewish heart was thrilled through and through. They were reminded that the "Ten Days" were fast approaching when everyone should be judged according to his deeds, and that on the last of these days it should be recorded in the Great Book what was to be the fate of men during the coming year. Some to die, and some to live; some to be raised and some to be cast down; some to perish by fire, some by water, by the sword, by famine or by any of the innumerable accidents of fate to which man is subject. The tragic uncertainty of life was emphasized in many ways. "But"—came the triumphant cry of faith, repeated yearly with what indescribable fervor! "But repentance, prayer and charity avert the evil decree."

There was the keynote to the season ushered in by the Rosh Hashovah! Man stood face to face in yearly judgment with his own conscience. A great rabbi once gave as the wisest maxim of life this warning: "Repent one day before your death." Ah, the wisdom and the faith of it! We are blind creatures of fate, all of us. Every day may be our last for aught we know. Therefore, the wise man will repent always, and be constantly mending his ways. During the season of "Ten Days" when all Jews were thoroughly under the influence of this solemn thought, many broken friendships were again cemented, enmities forgotten, brotherhood and justice were everywhere manifest, and all hearts were filled with a sincere desire to amend in the present and future the misdeeds of the past.

This is not an overdrawn picture of the "golden past." Within recent years even this was a universal Jewish custom and is still very common in Eastern Europe. Even in this country many Jews refrain during the "Days of Repentance" from frivolous pleasures, and on the first and last of these days, Rosh Hashovah and the Day of Atonement, almost every Jewish proprietor closes his office or place of business and the synagogues are thronged to overflowing by multitudes who never enter a house of God at other times.

Effect of Feast

Was the improvement thus brought about in the hearts of men of permanent quality?" It requires but little knowledge of human nature to surprise that after the uplifting influence of this holy season had given way to the less refining influences of everyday life the rascal went back to his rascality, the rogue to his roguery and moral delinquents generally to their neforious practices. It is also a hard relentless fact, though not so well recognized, that men simply cannot eradicate from their hearts and from their lives all the evil they have done. What is past is past beyond recall. Even the sincerest repentance and the most soul-rendering remorse cannot make spotless white of that which has been besmirched with the black stain of vice. Otherwise sinning would become too safe and the cost of forgiveness too easy.

"The moving finger writes; and having writ
Moves on; nor all your Piety nor Wit
Shall lure it back to cancel half a line,
Nor all your tears wash out a word of it."

But let the scoffer and cynic say what they will, these days of revival, of spiritual "housecleaning," were of inestimable value. Many a man during these periods saw to his eternal gain what every man so shrinks from seeing—he saw himself, his naked soul bared of hypocritical pretension, standing in judgment before the All-Beholding One, who slumbereth not nor sleepeth. And that sight, though full of terror, is also full of spiritual healing.

A spiritual "housecleaning," to use again our homely metaphor, is as necessary and as wholesome as a physical one, though in each case there is another accumulation of rubbish which must again be removed.

Sentiment Alive

In the hearts of Jews the world over the Rosh Hashovah sentiment is not dead but merely asleep, in spite of the appearance of indifference to the external practices formerly connected with that day and with the solemn season it ushers in. Too long has this sentiment served its blessed, uplifting purpose to be ruthlessly cast aside. It answers to a deep-seated fact in human nature and therefore cannot die.

It cannot die, I mean, until that great day for which all faiths and sects are longing and praying—the day whereon the knowledge of God shall fill all hearts at all times, and men shall no longer need special reminders and inducements to right faith and righteous living.

May that day not be far distant for humanity at large and may we all do what in us lies to make it a present reality in our lives!

HOW TO FIND OUT

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in The Fort Worth Daily Telegram. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SPORTING SALAD

In tones sepulchral one Robert Fitzsimmons utters a defi to Marvin Hart and offers to fight him for the heavyweight championship of the world at any place—barring Salt Lake—at any time, winner take all or part. "Kid" McCoy has said good-bye to the prize ring. His big electric sign at Fortieth and Broadway has disappeared, and McCoy is preparing to lead the simple life. McCoy is 32 years old and still in good condition, but his mental works tell him there is nothing elevating in slugging the life out of another fellow, he says, and that's the reason he's going to cut it out. As a matter of fact, Mrs. McCoy is responsible for the "kid" side-stepping the game.

There is no dearth of material at Pennsylvania. At one time recently four football teams were at work on Franklin field, with 22 candidates on the side lines. Such a condition never before existed at the college.

A corps of Chicago cops has again swooped down on the floating pool room and carried off the cash in the safe. One man—they booked him as Smith—was arrested. The bookies might try Knabenshue's airship next as a means of foiling the hard working police.

Benny Yanger will resume ring work next month in a limited round bout with Willie Spracklin, a Detroit featherweight. Yanger was to have met George Dixon, but Dixon's poor showing against Murphy put him beyond the range of possibility.

Ten days ago Eugene Hildebrand, the jockey, could place an earning estimate of $20,000 a year on his services. Now that he is set down for life by the stewards it is doubtful if he could earn $10 a week.

It is as difficult to bring Artful and Sysonby together as it is to arrange a meeting between two champion pugilists.

Up to date New York sporting writers have advanced 3,246 different reasons why the Giants will beat the Athletics in the coming world's championship series. All of the industrious thimble riggers are not loitering along the byways seeking to induce the rural populace to locate the shell that conceals the elusive pea; a vociferous contingent of the gentry are parading the prowess of the Giants.

What a good thing for narrow columns it is that Mr. Pappapaheodorokoummounttourgeotopoulos of Chicago is not playing in one of the big leagues. A new scheme of setting box scores would have to be devised or they would have to blue pencil about seven yards of his name.

Eddie Santry and Pat Keneally will box ten rounds at South Bend, Ind., Oct. 5.

Don Nichols, star halfback of the Crimson two years ago, will not be able to join Harvard after all. His physician has declared him unfit to play football again. His shoulder was badly injured in a scrimmage last year.

Cornell scrubs plowed through the varsity line in practice in a way that made Coach Warner's blood turn cold. More beef needed and fleeter backs.

They are awake in Philadelphia now. Comiskey has shaken all thoughts of slumber out of the town.

St. Louis fans presented Geo. Stone with a solid gold watch when he was leading the American League in batting. Then he lost his eye and tobogganed into the .200 class. Every time he would go to bat in St. Louis and fail to make a hit some peevish fan would chirrup "Give us back that watch." Now, it's even unsafe to ask Stone "What time is it?"

McGinnity will be given a good rest in hopes of getting his arm in shape for the world's championship series.

Hugh Gillis, the oarsman, is being tried for tackle on the Yale eleven.

"It is a mistake to think that the punch is the only thing in a fight," writes Battling Nelson. "The man who can only hit hard will be worn down by the agile exponent of cleverness in the ring. The victory goes to the fighter who combines cleverness and the punch."

BROTHERHOODS AFTER SHORTER WORK DAY

Concerted Action Among Railroad Men During the Coming Winter

It is learned here that there is a concert of movement among the four railroad brotherhoods in this country to secure a reduction of the present working hours for railway employes all over the United States. The movement has already been discussed in the grand councils of the brotherhoods, and is expected to assume definite shape within the next two months. Nothing definite can be learned here regarding the matter.

It is known, however, that grievance committees of the various organizations will gather in Chicago in December to discuss desired changes in working conditions. At the same time the schedule governing wages and hours will expire on at least three western roads—the Northwestern, the Burlington and the St. Paul. According to plans now laid, the opportunity will be seized to broach the proposed demands of the employes.

The present hours of work on the railroads range from ten to fourteen, but in no case are they fixed. This is due to the nature of the employment.

The brotherhoods, it is said, have no intention of appealing for a limited workday. They have planned rather to seek a general reduction which shall be proportionate in all branches of the railroad service.

THE CARNEGIE LIBRARY

One of the greatest blessings that has ever been vouchsafed to Fort Worth is the handsome educational institution available through the liberality and munificence of Andrew Carnegie. The library building is a handsome one and a constant source of pride to every progressive citizen of this city. It is pointed out among the very first objects to the visitor, and many of our people daily bless the name of the Laird of Skibo. The library is a very popular institution, numbering among its patrons people in every class of life. These come to the library and are permitted to enjoy its privileges under the usual rules and regulations, and the work that is being done by this great institution is of the most valuable kind. It opens a treasury of knowledge and a mine of information to every citizen of Fort Worth, and is invaluable to those who are not able to indulge in the luxury and blessings of a complete and comprehensive private or individual library.

Realizing these facts, the liberal minded and progressive citizens of Fort Worth should fully appreciate the responsibility that rests upon them in this connection. It is not expected that Fort Worth's Carnegie library will ever be complete or its mission finished. And while there is a fairly good assortment of books embraced within its shelves, there is a crying demand for more. There are thousands of new and additional books that should be added to the present supply. Our Carnegie library should always be thoroughly modern and up to date. As new books are necessary, or as additional works should be added, means should be provided for the purpose. There should be enough public spirit rife in Fort Worth at all times to insure this being done without the necessity of making an appeal for the funds in a public manner. Citizens of Fort Worth who feel the proper interest in this great institution should keep an eye steadily on the situation and as more books are needed they should be promptly and ungrudgingly supplied. This is what Andrew Carnegie expected when he made the library possible, and we owe it to him, as well as to ourselves, to do all the things necessary in the premises.

The Telegram is not saying these things on account of any remissness on the part of our people in the past. It is done simply for the purpose of reminding Fort Worth people of their plain duty in the premises, so as to obviate unsatisfactory conditions in the future. The welfare of the library should be dear to the heart of every citizen of this live and progressive city, and as Fort Worth grows and prospers, so should the Carnegie library feel the weight of the same impetus and grow and prosper in due proportion. This is necessary if we are to keep the library to the front as a continual source of pride and source of general information. Our duty in the premises is as plain as it is possible for duty to be mapped out.

ADVISING THE PRESIDENT

A. B. Stickney of Chicago, president of the Great Western railway, says that President Roosevelt does not know what he is about in the matter of railway rate regulation, and he says further that the interstate commerce commission is composed of cowards who dare not insist on the enforcement of existing laws. President Stickney made these remarkable declarations in a Chicago court, where he was called to give testimony in the cattle rate case conducted by Judge Sam H. Cowan of this state. His remarks were incited by a question from Judge Cowan to the effect that traffic frequently moved under exorbitant rates. His reply to that question was that such might be the case, but that the rate which would give the railroad the greatest net revenue would under existing conditions be the best for the country, provided such a rate could be established.

Asked what he thought about prospective legislation with a view to placing the control of the rates in the government's hands, Mr. Stickney said: "President Roosevelt does not know what he is driving at. He does not understand the rate question, and he is groping in the dark. The President is simply trying to do something to please the people, without knowing what it is or what should be done. His suggestions thus far have been devoid of any remedy for the evils which afflict the transportation world."

"What do you think is needed?" was asked.

"I can answer that partially by telling of an automobile ride I recently had with a friend. As we drew near a city there was a long, straight stretch of road, and he ordered his chauffeur to 'let her go.' Peering ahead, my friend asked me if I saw a policeman anywhere. Now, the law was there to prevent his 'letting her go,' but where was the policeman? It is the policeman, so to speak, who makes the law operative. The application is that in the railroad world we have no policemen, and therefore the laws are inoperative and inefficient. What we need first in the railroad world is the policemen."

"Then new laws are not needed?"

"Yes, they are, but the first one should be a law creating the necessary machinery to enforce the present laws."

"What machinery is necessary, in your judgment?"

"The government should have, for example, a complete railroad accounting department, containing auditors competent to examine the books of the railroads and report correctly. Such auditors would be able to tell positively whether the railroads were paying rebates and whether the rates were excessive, unjust, discriminative or unreasonable.

"Take the interstate commerce commission, for example. It is a part of our machinery for enforcing the laws, and yet that body is made up of cowards who dare not enforce the laws. The interstate commerce act provides that tariffs shall be printed that are plain enough for any one to tell what the legal rate is. This is not done. On the contrary, the commission is aware that during the early efforts to enforce this provision tariffs were such that the official at that time in charge of the Northwestern's traffic admitted that he could not tell what a legal rate was until he had asked his tariff clerk."

As President Stickney well knows, a method of enabling the interstate commerce commission to enforce the rates it makes, is just what the cattlemen of the country are seeking in the big fight they are making for the perfecting of the existing law. Through the manipulation of railway managers who have taken a perniciously active interest in congressional matters, the commission has been shorn of its real powers, and its inability to enforce the law is not the result of cowardice, but of the strings that have been tied to the situation by the railway influence. President Roosevelt is fully cognizant of this fact, and is in thorough sympathy with the effort that is being made by the cattlemen for the needed relief. He is not groping in the dark, but understands the situation fully. The men who are fighting for this reform have seen to it that he was fully informed, and the railways would doubtless be astonished if they realized the extent of his information.

It is realized that President Roosevelt has a hard fight ahead of him in the securing of the desired legislation. But he has the democratic party and the people generally behind him in what he has undertaken. Before starting on his trip abroad, William J. Bryan, the great democratic leader and idol of the masses, addressed an open letter to President Roosevelt that well reflects popular sentiment. In that letter Colonel Bryan said:

"You have the contest of your life before you," he says, "and I desire to render you all of the assistance in my power. You have asked congress to enact a law so enlarging the powers of the interstate commerce commission as to permit it to fix and enforce a reasonable freight rate, and the railroad lobby was strong enough to stop in the senate the bill passed by the house. The railroad magnates expect to block the passage of the bill again.

"The railroads will try to persuade you. If they fail in this they will try to scare you; if they fail in this also they will try to defeat your recommendation.

"It will embarrass you to have strong party leaders against you. In this fight your strength lies in the fact that you have a majority of the voters of all parties with you.

"Pass over the railroad representatives and appeal to the people. Compel the opponents of railroad legislation to meet the issue in the open. There is no logical or even plausible argument against the legislation which you recommend.

"The right of the people, acting through organized government, to control according to their own pleasure every corporation created by them must be conceded and the necessity for the exercise of that control is clearly demonstrated. Extortion in rates, unfairness, discrimination against persons, discrimination against places, midnight tariffs and rebates galore—all these iniquities have resulted from lack of regulation.

"They will tell you that effective rate legislation will disturb the harmony of your party. You can answer that a refusal to respond to the just demands of the public means not harmony, but political death."

President Roosevelt realizes that these things are true. He knows that he is going contrary to the wishes of railway managers and republican party bosses. But at the same time there is the consciousness that he is right, and this only adds to his stock of determination.

The man who never forgets has been heard from. He says George Clark wants to go to the state legislature to better serve the corporate interests he has so long represented. That man evidently believes George Clark will go to a corporation heaven when he is through with the affairs of this earth.

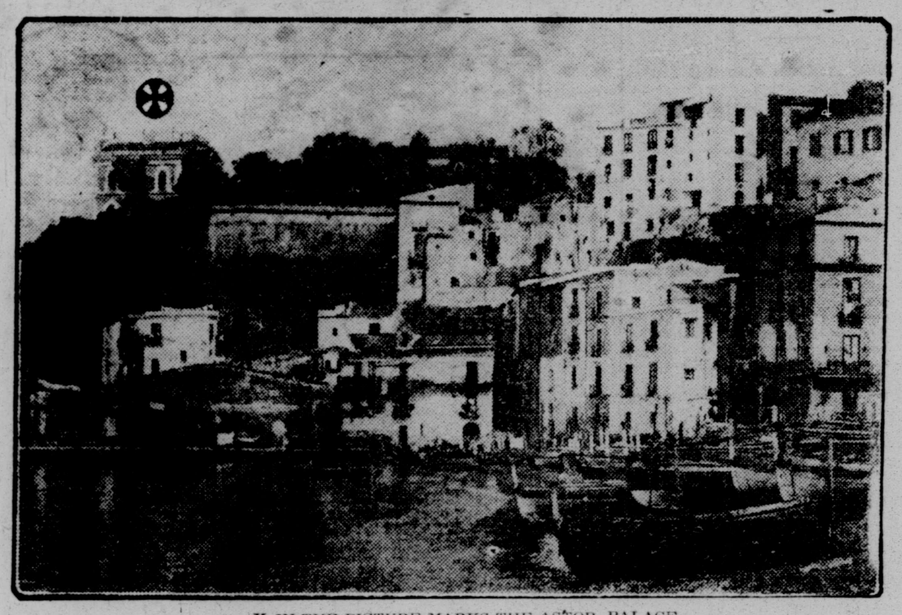
There are 128 members of the lower house of the Texas legislature to be elected next year, and this affords the people of the state opportunity to name 128 real patriots and men of unquestioned ability.

Land Commissioner Terrell still has a nice job lot of West Texas school land for sale to the actual settlers. The September sales have not operated to retire the state from the land business.

September has about ended its days, and russet-hued October is near at hand—one of the most thoroughly delightful months of the entire year.

Jim Hogg has not said that he will not serve in the next state legislature. He has intimated only his desire not to be included in its official roster.

ASTOR BUYS ITALIAN PALACE ON EMPEROR TIBERIUS' PICNIC GROUNDS



X IN THE PICTURE MARKS THE ASTOR PALACE.

ROME, Sept. 30.—William Waldorf Astor has purchased a palace at Sorrento, Italy, on grounds where in the days of ancient Rome there was a Siren temple which the Emperor Tiberius used as a picnic rendezvous.

The ex-American millionaire's mansion is at the edge of a high cliff overlooking the Mediterranean sea. The walls rest even with the cliff, the top of which is 200 feet above the sea. A staircase cut in the rocks leads down to weird excavations in the heart of the cliff, where rites in honor of Neptune and Minerva were performed in the days of the Roman empire.

There are sixteen rooms in the palace, with a square central hall from which a magnificent marble staircase runs to the upper floors, and to the flat roof where a garden is being laid out. The dining hall is in the front of the house, and the side facing the sea is inclosed in glass, permitting the diners to have one of the finest uninterrupted sea views in Europe.

The whole interior of the mansion is in the hands of decorators who are fitting it up in sumptuous style, putting in wainscot panelings, parquet floors and hand-painted ceilings.

Mr. Astor has brought upon himself severe criticisms from the people of Sorrento by ordering the destruction of an old medieval church in the grounds of his palace called the Church of San Giorgio. The church is being demolished to make a bigger garden for Mr. Astor. Protests have been made that the act is one of needless iconoclasm, but Mr. Astor declines to heed these. In consequence, an attempt is to be made to boycott the Anglo-American millionaire socially when he takes up his residence at Sorrento.

AMONG EXCHANGES

Even if the movement to send the best and ablest men in Texas to the legislature should not work out there is no good reason why some care should not be taken to send good men to the legislature. Texas has suffered from the fact that almost any man who expressed a desire to go to the legislature was given the opportunity provided he got out and hustled a little. Texas unquestionably needs in her legislature men of experience, sound judgment and discretion. We have had enough freak legislation to last us for a good long time.—Denison Herald.

The people can stop freak legislation in Texas at any time they desire. It is only necessary to stop sending freak legislators to Austin.

It is stated that the old Confederate Veterans of Winchester, Tenn., have passed a resolution objecting to women appearing in their procession wearing bifurcated skirts or bloomers. These men must all be old and blind.—Bonham Favorite.

The action taken indicates the contrary. Perhaps the old vets want to see no more of the woman in the bifurcated skirts or bloomers.

The Connecticut legislature, which has just adjourned, bought 978 fountain pens and 2,682 pocket knives for 290 members. Wonder what the number would have been if they had been required to pay for them out of their own pockets?—Clarendon Chronicle.

The nutmeg legislature must have studied the purchases made by the Texas lawmakers. There is a wonderfully similarity in results.—Fort Worth Telegram.

There is a broad and sweeping reflection by The Telegram on the Texas legislature, and yet it is one of the coterie of "pa-erty" organs that have been holding their breath in holy horror because papers without the fear of political machines, state or local, before their eyes, have dared call attention to the contagion of official graft and thievery that has spread over the state, without detailing every particular instance of it. In no particular have these organs made themselves more ridiculous than in the inconsistency of their vaporings.—Hillsboro Mirror.

The Telegram has refuted the aspersions cast upon the state administration, but The Telegram has never appeared in the guise of an apologist for the sins of the state legislature. If it is ridiculous to defend the democracy of this state from the charges made by papers that have proven themselves false to the party, then The Telegram fairly dotes on that ridicule.

Dan J. Sully has joined hands with the Farmers' Union in conducting a campaign to force up the prices of cotton. Two years ago Sully put hundreds of thousands of dollars into the pockets of southern farmers, merchants and bankers, and then the bears, with the assistance of the agricultural department of the government, broke him. Here's hoping that Sully will be successful in his new campaign and that his lost fortune will be fully restored.—Beaumont Journal.

Sully has helped make cotton prices better in the past, and for that reason the farmers of the country look upon him as a friend in time of need.

It is stated on good authority that the Texas-St. Louis line of the Frisco is to be extended south from Paris, Texas, to Mexia, a distance of 175 miles. At Mexia the line will connect with the Trinity and Brazos Valley, which is owned by the Yoakum-Hawley syndicate, and is now being extended south to Galveston and Houston.—Austin News-Tribune.

Colonel Yoakum does not indulge in much hot air in his railroad building, but it is known he has some large plans maturing for the development of his Texas system. It is a safe proposition that the existing Frisco terminal will not remain much longer at Paris, but will go to Dallas, and thence to Mexia.

Railroad Commissioner Colquitt welcomes the filing of the Federal injunction in the emergency rate case as a fine opportunity to manufacture a little more political thunder.—Fort Worth Telegram.

This question is rather one of equity than of politics and it is not easy to see how in fairness political "thunder" can be drawn from it. The railroad commission evidently believes the emergency rate should go into effect. The railroads believe no doubt with equal honesty, that it will impose hardships on them tantamount to an invasion of rights guaranteed by the constitution. Evidence pro and con will be laid before the courts and a just and unbiased decision will be rendered. Should the commission be proven in error, it would be manifestly unfair to charge them with imposing this emergency rate for political effect. Should the railroads be proven in error it would be equally unjust to charge them with attempting to evade just regulation. Honest differences of opinion may and do exist. Sauce for the goose is also sauce for the gander, and Candidate Colquitt, we hope and believe, does not meditate making political "thunder" out of a matter of business and equity.—San Antonio Express.

Commissioner Colquitt is an able man and a very astute politician. He is doing what he conscientiously believes to be his whole duty to the people, but at the same time he keeps an eye cast to windward for the furtherance of his own political interests. And Commissioner Colquitt would not be a successful and up-to-date politician were his policy different.

Concerning the fines imposed on members of the beef trust, the New York American is reminded: "There is a story, so old that it is told on the vaudeville stage, of a judge who fined a pick-pocket $10. 'I've only got six,' said the pick-pocket. 'Mr. Bailiff, turn the prisoner loose in the crowd until he gets the other $4.'"—Waco Times-Herald.

And it will not require long for the packers to find the entire amount of $25,000 involved in that fine and lift it from the pockets of the consumers. An advance of a quarter of a cent per pound in the price of beef will restore it in less than one day.

James Stephen Hogg continues to denounce "the pass packers." The ponderous statesman has a long memory. In the old days the men who fought his policies were well supplied with free passes and hostile newspapers enjoyed special privileges—at the hands of the captains of industry. The ponderous statesman has an excellent memory. He never forgets.—Dallas Times-Herald.

Why should Hogg forget, when his enemies never forgive? He is fighting free passes as a matter of principle, however, as he believes they are used to debauch the public service.

Governor Hogg does not appear to favor the idea of legislature made up of the "wise ones," but if you will read between the lines of a recent interview you will see that he would not refuse it if tendered him.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Governor Hogg will never refuse to serve the people in any capacity in which his services are demanded. He is a patriot as well as a statesman.

The fall clip of wool in the Concho country will reach between six hundred and seven hundred thousand pounds. That is no small amount of wool and will make the dollars jingle in many a sheepman's pockets.—San Angelo Standard.

While stockmen in other portions of the state are despising the sheep and his ways, down in the Concho country they are hugging the wool bearer as one of their most prized possessions and are waxing exceedingly prosperous. Every ranch in Texas can carry a bunch of sheep with much additional profit.

Not more than one out of ten of us appears without a chip upon his shoulder, and there are nine out of every ten ready to knock it off.

We wear the gloves by day and sleep with them hanging on the bedpost.

If the rich men don't spend enough of their money to suit us we pitch into them, denounce them as mercenary, selfish, close-fisted. If they do spend their money, we pitch into the money, call it oily, greasy, tainted.

Whenever we see a man idle, loafing or squandering his time, we go at him as a class and fall upon him hammer and tongs.

If women attend too many clubs we hold them up as examples of home-wreckers. When the women stay at home and attend to the cooking and the dusting, we go at them for not getting out and keeping up with the times.

If men go out to play billiards at night we rave around about the evils of the wicked game. Let them stay at home and shut themselves up night after night and we scorn them because they are not good fellows, not all-round men.

If the society women dance all night and sleep all day we attack them because they are frivolous.

The president of the United States even is not free from irate denunciations.

The laws of our country come in for their share. Let the laws against gambling remain unenforced and the first thing he knows the mayor is held up by a dozen good citizens who want, then and there, to fight the matter out. Let those same laws be rigidly enforced, let race-track betting be included under the gambling laws and let it be stopped, there are just as many good citizens looking for the mayor, the governor or whoever is responsible. They are just as hot-headed, just as ready to fight against, as for, the enforcement of the law.

Our politicians wear the gloves, our editors wear the gloves, men, women and children at home and away from home are ready at any moment to pitch into something or someone, anything and anyone in opposition to their opinions and beliefs.

Even the pulpit has been turned into a roped arena. The clergy of today fight anything that gives them an opportunity to pitch into someone.

It's a mighty sight easier to fall upon the faults and weaknesses of another and wipe them out of existence, than it is to use the gloves upon our own weak spots.

Nevertheless, if we were to go about with fewer chips on our shoulders, if we were to leave others' faults and weaknesses alone and have a few prize fights with the devils inside ourselves, we might be surprised to find how easily the president could exercise the powers of chief executive, how easily the millionaires could save or spend their own money and how happily we ourselves could see the world roll round.

COWBOY'S ANNUAL BALL

SPRINGER, N. M., Sept. 30.—Last Friday was the day of the cowboy in Springer, the cowboy of the old days as well as of the present.

They had everything their own way, for it was their special occasion, the day they had set apart for their fourth annual big cowboy ball, and it was big, both in enjoyment and attendance.

At 9 o'clock in the evening the large, spacious floor of the Floersheim opera house was completely packed and then it was that the big round-up of partners took place, ready for the stampede, or in society parlance, the grand march. The merriment ran at a high pitch, assisted by the best music obtainable on these ranges, until shortly after 12 o'clock, when some one yelled "chuck." This part of the program consisted of coffee, cold ham, roast beef, bread and butter, salads and pickles, and everybody helped themselves and enjoyed it even as the hungry cowpuncher after a ride of the range all day, at intervals pulling out a bogged animal, arriving at camp late with an appetite like a hungry wolf or a half-starved Indian. There was plenty for all and to spare and no one went away hungry. But even at this important period of the evening the dance went on, as only a per cent of the guests could be seated at a time.

As has been the custom, the cowboys made no charge for anything.

In the grand march there were estimated to be nearly 100 couples, and the number of couples who actually participated could safely and conservatively be placed at 125, with no doubt as many visitors in attendance.

Many were here from over the northeastern part of New Mexico. The cowboy that rode the range twenty and thirty years ago again loosened up his stiffening and rusty joints and hit the lumber and swung the maiden as of yore when it was the fashion to declare the dance closed sine die by shooting out the lights. He enjoyed himself, it was indeed a pleasure to see him do so, and he swung the gals as easily as the later inhabitants of the plains and the brakes.

CATTLEMEN WANT RELIEF

CARLSBAD, N. M., Sept. 30.—There is considerable dissatisfaction among the cattlemen over the orders recently issued by the bureau of animal industry, requiring all cattle east of the Pecos river to be dipped, because there was discovered a few cattle with scabs in that section last spring.

The cattlemen say there are no facilities for dipping cattle, and that by the time vats can be arranged and the stuff gathered, winter will be on them and to dip cattle at that season would result in a great loss to them, and they want the order so modified that they can be given until next spring to dip their cattle on the ranches. They do not complain at dipping the cattle they are shipping, but say it will work quite a hardship on them if they are required to dip cows with young calves, as in many instances it will mean the loss of the calf. All they ask is that they be given until next spring in which to prepare for the general dipping. The cattlemen say there is no scabs among the cattle in Eddy county, and they ask that the department send an inspector here to make a personal investigation of the matter, and to ascertain for himself that it is unnecessary for the sweeping long distance orders of the department to be carried out at this time.

THE QUARANTINE REMOVED

LOS VEGAS, N. M., Sept. 30.—A few weeks ago that portion of Colfax county lying south of an east and west line over Eagle Tail mountain and east of the eastern boundary line of the Maxwell Land Grant was placed under quarantine and all cattlemen ordered to dip their cattle as per regulations of the territorial sanitary board and the United States bureau of animal industry.

The cattlemen in the district complained. They declared that scab and mange did not exist in the quarantined district. So persistent were they justice be done them, that further investigation was made by the board, which resulted in the quarantine being raised, and now all cattle in the district are free to move as they see proper.

Verses That Ring

AN AUTUMN PRAYER

When the dead leaves quiver earthward
In the twilight of the year,
Comes the time of love and dreaming,
When the days of days appear;
Purpling distance, mellowing sunshine,
trees aflame with red and gold,
Air brimful of life's elixir—nectar on Olympia old,
Was as water in its weakness when compared with this, methinks,
And I wish life's chain were endless with sweet days like this for links.
Music greets my every footstep in the dead leaves rustling here—
When the ripe leaves quiver earthward in the twilight of the year.

When the leaves come trembling earthward in the gloaming of the year,
Then this life's perennial sweetness seems a thousand times more dear;
Yet the million gorgeous death scenes that emblazon every wood
As the leaves in splendid shroudings quit their dying brotherhood
To return to earth that gave them in spring so tearfully
Breathe a prayer like an incense through the very heart of me;
When life's sap is flowing feebly and my rest is drawing near,
May my time for trembling earthward be the gloaming of the year."

An old negro stopped at a country doctor's residence the other day and asked the doctor if he had any work for him to do.

"Can you do gardening?" asked the doctor.

"Yes, suh," replied the negro.

"All right, then, you may fix up my lawn, paths and gardens."

The old darky started to work and after working two days the doctor looked around to see what had been done and noticed that the paths were covered with gravel. He said to the negro:

"What is the matter? Is it such a bad job that you have to cover the walks with dirt?"

"Doan yuh say noffin ter me ebout bad jobs bein' covered wid dirt," replied the darky, getting angry. "Many a bad job ob yours has done bin covered up wid dirt."

MORE CHANGES FOR SANTA FE SLATED

Galveston Auditor to Have Charge of Atchison Division. Conway Appointed

It is semi-officially announced here today that an important change is to take place in the auditor's office of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe at Galveston Oct. 1.

According to the report here Auditor J. E. Baxter, who has been with the Santa Fe in this state some time, will receive a promotion on the above date and will become assistant to the auditor of the entire Atchison system, with headquarters in Chicago.

Mr. Baxter, according to the rumor here, is to be succeeded at Galveston by Chief Clerk Shuckhart.

CONWAY PROMOTED

Returns to This City with Notice of Advancement

John I. Conway, live stock agent of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe, headquarters in this city, has returned from Chicago, where he went on a telegram from Freight Traffic Manager Gorman last week, calling him there for a conference, the object being the appointment of a successor to Eli Titus, late general live stock agent of the Atchison system.

Mr. Conway returned with his commission in his pocket as general live stock agent of the company and will enter upon his new duties early after Oct. 1. He will have headquarters at Kansas City. He will leave for that city in a few days, accompanied by his wife.

Mr. Conway's assistant will be W. A. Combs, who held the same position under Mr. Titus. A chief clerk for Mr. Conway has not yet been named, but will be in a few days.

Who will become Mr. Conway's successor as live stock agent of the Santa Fe lines in Texas has not been announced, but it is understood that if the position is not consolidated with that of the local commercial agent of the company in this city and placed in charge of J. R. Dillon, chances are pretty good for the appointment of F. S. Brooks, who is at present assistant to Mr. Conway in this city.

Mr. Dillon is now at Galveston in conference with General Freight Agent Hershey, and it is understood here that the meeting is for the purpose of considering the consolidation of the commercial agency with the live stock agency.

Mr. Conway has been with the Santa Fe system for more than twenty-five years, the greater part of which has been in the live stock department. He is probably the best informed representative of the Santa Fe on live stock matters generally, which no doubt had much to do with his appointment to the position of general live stock agent.

TIT FOR TAT

Ramsey Not Worried Over Traffic Arrangements

In reply to the statement that if the Goulds lost control the Wabash would lose a big southwestern traffic, President Ramsey points out that with its present Gould alliance the Wabash is precluded from the possibility of receiving traffic from 40,000 miles of western roads, which are naturally more or less tributary to it. To offset this under Gould control, he says that it receives only part of the traffic of the Missouri Pacific and the Iron Mountain roads, because these latter work quite closely with other eastern lines, as, for instance, the Big Four, the Vandalia and the Baltimore and Ohio. Besides, Mr. Ramsey says that the Missouri Pacific-Wabash traffic was not in many cases as profitable to the Wabash as its own local traffic, and that the interests of the Wabash were sacrificed in this way for the benefit of the Gould lines in general. The placing of the traffic of the Gould lines, Mr. Ramsey contends, resulted in a great loss to the Wabash from other sources, and that it would have been greater had he not prevented the entire control of traffic from passing from his hands. This move was really the cause of the first difficulty between Gould and himself. He says that Mr. Gould admitted the correctness of his view, and that the traffic department of the Wabash has been practically divorced from the other Gould lines by Mr. Gould's own action in the last three months.

Mr. Ramsey continued: "When I declined to let Wabash cars be taken from our good-paying local traffic to go into the joint Wabash-Missouri Pacific arrangement when the Wabash was losing money on it, I was advised by Vice President Bird that he was acting on Mr. Gould's orders."

Mr. Ramsey said that when he became connected with the Wabash in 1895, he found a deficit of nearly $900,000, largely due to the payment of dividends which the earnings did not justify, but that he should not be blamed for that condition of affairs.

TO PAY BIG DEBT

Pennsylvania Road to Hand Out $50,000,000

According to a Philadelphia dispatch notes to the amount of $50,000,000, which were given eighteen months ago by the Pennsylvania railroad, due Oct. 1, will be paid today.

More than half the money is in the treasury, and the balance of $20,000,000 will be supplied by sale of stock to that amount, which was authorized by the directors at a meeting held a few days ago. This stock will be taken by the interests who own and operate the Pennsylvania company.

Oregon Short Line Officials Slated for Promotion

Important changes are expected as a result of the resignation of T. M. Schumacher, traffic manager of the Oregon Short Line, whose position, it is thought, will be abolished. In that event, if rumors are correct, J. E. Reeves will become general freight agent, with two assistant general freight agents under him. One of these, it is believed, will be D. R. Gray, district freight and passenger agent at Salt Lake City. His advancement is expected to bring promotion to H. O. Wilson, district freight and passenger agent at Butte; F. H. Paisted, holding the same position at Boise; D. S. Taggart, contracting freight agent at Salt Lake City, and Orvin Morris, chief clerk of the freight department.

Mr. Schumacher is to come to New York as traffic manager of the United Fruit company, his appointment being effective Oct. 1.

QUARANTINE HITS HARD

Railroad Men Do Not Expect an Early Frost

Speaking of the losses to the southern railroads as a result of the yellow fever quarantine, a well-known railroad man today said that it would reach into the millions and that the losses were not yet at an end as the quarantine will probably continue for many weeks.

Hardly a passenger wheel has turned on any of the roads that enter the infected district for two months and as a result passenger traffic has been paralyzed.

It is believed here that it will be at least two months yet before frost visits New Orleans. It is given out in some quarters that frost is due in New Orleans Oct. 15, but old-time railroad men in the south say that there will not be sufficient frost before December.

AMUSEMENTS

BILLY KERSANDS' FAMOUS MINSTRELS

The Kansas City Star has the following to say about Billy Kersands' Famous Minstrels, which appears at Greenwall's opera house tonight, Sept. 30:

For a real negro to be as good a negro minstrel as a white man is, according to the general belief, impossible, and such a spectacle is uncommon. But the persons who constitute the Georgia Minstrel Company, headed by Billy Kersands, contain a number of men who are real comedians, and whom nature, as well as art, make colored entertainers of genuine merit. Billy Kersands at the Gillis this week has chiefly his commodious mouth for all his equipment, but he possesses also a vein of humor which grows richer as the years pass. His company is a very large one this season, it being the largest colored minstrel that has ever shown in Kansas City, and a half a dozen of his supporters are first-class.

Marsh Craig, announced as the world's greatest contortionist, is certainly qualified to rank among the best. His work yesterday was in some respects astonishing. Nolan T. Washington took the audience by storm with his clever imitations, and Moore, the magician, amazed them by his wonderful illusions. The Alabama quartet are men who dance exceedingly well, and they handled their new comedy stunt, entitled "Nancy's Elopement," in a manner that was hilariously funny.

Grand evening concert in front of opera house at 7:30.

PRIZE SONG SINGERS

Among the innovations on the interstate circuit which includes the Majestic theater here, will be a full corps of illustrated song singers. These vocalists have been carefully selected for pleasing qualities of voice and person, all young ladies. They will be interchanged from city to city so that every theater on the circuit will have the opportunity of hearing a "fresh" voice frequently during the winter.

Miss Jean Raleigh of New Orleans and Miss Lucille Harper of Chicago have already been engaged for this work, Miss Raleigh to make her first appearance at the Majestic in Hot Springs and Miss Harper at the Majestic in Waco. When all of the young women are appointed and enter upon their engagement, a voting contest will begin among the audiences of the various Majestic theaters, to determine which of the fair singers is the most popular. The winner will be presented a handsome prize by the management of the Interstate Amusement Company at the close of the season.

AERIAL FOOTBALL

Among the many marvelous aerial acts that are this season presented with the Barnum & Bailey show are several deserving of special mention, in consekuence of their extraordinary character. There is one where, while the daring artistes hang head-downward from the aerial horizontal bars, they throw one of their number forward and backward, catching the human ball first by the feet and then by the hands, then again by one hand, one foot, and around the body. The act has been aptly termed "the human rubber ball," and as it takes place in the air far above the heads of the audience is both a thrilling, perilous and daring exploit. Another mysterious performance is when Les Freres Ancillotti make their wonderful ride, in which they defy death and the law of gravitation to the amazement and astonishment of the visitors.

The show will be here on Oct. 11.

ALDERMAN LYDON WILL RUN AGAIN

Present Councilman From the Fifth Ward to Be Urged for Re-election

Although no official announcement has been made, it is learned that M. M. Lydon, present representative of the Fifth ward in the city council, will be a candidate for re-election.

Alderman Lydon himself has issued no statement, but admits the probability of again permitting his name to go before the people of the ward.

Speaking of the matter, a man thoroughly conversant with the situation in the ward says that opposition to be made to Alderman Lydon is based upon the question of a third term. This, however, he argues, though made a live question in state and county races frequently, has not been applied to aldermanic races, and points to members of the present body who have served more than two terms in the council, some of whom will again be in the field.

It is understood Alderman Lydon's campaign will be one made by his friends showing the treatment secured by the ward in public affairs during his terms of office. In this connection, they point to the rapidity with which school accommodations were provided following the burning of the old school building and the construction of the Van Zandt school, which will be opened next Tuesday to take the place of the former building and the present temporary ones.

Water main extensions secured in the ward are also to be pointed out, the statement being made that there is not now a street in the Union Depot addition not having water service.

It is admitted on all sides that the race in the ward will be a hard one and probably one of the most closely contested in the city.

Today's Telegram the Last in Which to Find Errors in Liners

Today closes The Telegram Liner Misspelled Word Contest that has been in progress since the first of the month. Errors occurring in Telegram Liners today are the last to be added to the list already kept each day by contestants.

For the information of contestants, who must send their answers to The Telegram so as to be received before noon, Oct. 2, the rules of the contest are given:

Certain words are misspelled in The Telegram Liners each day. Incorrect abbreviations or addresses do not count. Some of the errors may be unintentional, but they count just the same. TEACHING SCHOOL NOT EASY ROAD TO WEALTH

Average Yearly Income of Tarrant County Instructors Is $320.35

"During the summer he read law in the office of a village attorney and in the winter he laid the foundations for the skill in the management of men and vast financial enterprises which is now one of his signal characteristics, by teaching school."—Specimen paragraph from biography of the average Captain of Industry."

"The average yearly salary of a school teacher in Tarrant county is $320.35."—From the annual report of County Superintendent Ramsey.

Fifty-five dollars and seventy-one cents a month, a little more than the average day laborer makes when times are good, is the average monthly salary of a school teacher in Tarrant county, according to the annual report of County Superintendent Ramsey, which has just been completed and forwarded to the state superintendent of public instruction at Austin.

The average monthly salary of women teachers falls below this—only $46.21—while the salary for men is higher—$65.21—but averaging the two together gives the figures for an average instructor of either sex.

Between the post of country school teacher and the duties of a Captain of Industry is manifestly a far cry, yet it is universally recognized that school teaching is in most cases considered as only a step to something better and that the successful teacher possesses qualifications for success in more lucrative employment.

The skill required in handling an annual income of $320.35 ought to count for something, anyway.

The county superintendent's report shows that there are in the county ninety-two common school districts, exclusive of the independent districts.

The total enrollment of the white schools is 3,188 males and 3,092 females between the ages of 7 and 17 years. In the schools are 156 males over the age of 17 years and 88 females over that age. The total enrollment of all ages is 3,525 males and 3,350 females.

The number of teachers employed is 132; 48 males and 44 females. Twenty-one teachers hold permanent certificates, 3 being males while 12 are females. Thirty-three teachers are holders of first grade certificates—21 males and 12 females. Seventy-seven second grade certificates are held—18 by males and 59 by females.

All of the teachers taught a total of 15,169 days, or an average of 115 days to each teacher.

County Schools Cost $50,644.40

An amount of $38,345.29 was credited to the various districts from the state and county funds, including a balance from the previous year. The amount of local taxes collected was $12,699.26; amount collected from tuition and other sources, $4,271.50; total amount paid to teachers, $40,320.09. Of this amount $17,999.17 was paid to male teachers, while $22,320.92 was drawn by female teachers. The total disbursements for all school purposes was $50,644.40.

Of the total number of schools in the county ninety frame buildings and one brick school are owned by deeds to the county or districts; one brick building is owned by a corporation of the district, while one brick building used for school purposes is owned by an eleemosynary institution. Four buildings not owned by the county are used for school purposes without rent.

The valuation of the school houses and grounds owned by deed to the state, county or corporation is placed at $70,650; valuation of school furniture, $11,596; valuation of libraries and apparatus, $2,301. The total valuation of all school property in the county outside of the independent districts is $84,742.

The average salary paid to the male teachers is $274.98; female teachers, $265.72; average salary paid to male teachers a month, $65.21; female teachers, $46.21. The average salary paid teachers therefore is $55.71 a month.

MANY INQUIRIES MADE

Board of Trade in Communication With Sixteen Companies

As an indication that manufacturing companies are keeping an eye on Fort Worth as the future metropolis of the southwest, it is said the Board of Trade is at the present time conducting a correspondence with sixteen different companies who desire to make a change of location and want to know the advantages that are offered by this city.

"It shows the drift of affairs," said the secretary, in speaking of the large number of inquiries.

Of course, Captain Paddock says, he is not able to say definitely how many of the plants will be located in Fort Worth, but the Board of Trade is doing what it can to bring the enterprises here.

PRESIDENT GOES BACK TO WASHINGTON DESK

Oyster Bay Neighbors Give Enthusiastic Farewell— Capitol City Decorated

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 30.—With the cheers and good wishes of neighbors and friends following him, President Roosevelt, his vacation ended, left Oyster Bay at 10 o'clock this morning for Washington. The farewell given the President by the residents of his home town was notable. Throughout the village, residences and business buildings were decorated and Audrey avenue, over which the President passed to the railroad station, was hung with large American flags at intervals of twenty feet. At the railroad over the entrance to the waiting room a white dove with outstretched wings perched on an American shield. Beneath this emblem was one word, "Peace." The whole was entwined with the national colors of Russia and Japan.

At the station hundreds of neighbors and acquaintances of the President and his family assembled. Scores of school children were massed about, each waving a little American flag. Within the part of the platform which had been roped off to enable the President and his party to reach the train were twenty young women attired in white, trimmed with ribbons of red and blue. As the President boarded the train they sang, "God Be with You Till We Meet Again." The President was accompanied to Washington by Mrs. Roosevelt and children, Ethel, Archie and Quentin.

WASHINGTON DECORATED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 30.—Delightful autumn weather augured well for the home coming welcome which his fellow citizens of the district of Columbia tendered the President this afternoon. This morning pictures were placed along Pennsylvania avenue from the Pennsylvania railroad station to the White House and the police completed arrangements for handling the crowds which packed either side of the nation's great thoroughfare. The feature of the greeting which especially pleased the President was that of the Grand Army veterans, who assembled in military formation in front of their hall and saluted the President as he passed. Flags were flying from every flagpole along the route over which the President drove. He was greeted at the station by national and district officials.

Pennsylvania avenue was alive with bunting, flags and pictures of the President. There were no formal exercises, but the streets were packed with people to greet the return of the President in a lively, patriotic manner.

VENEZUELA SUING AMERICAN COMPANY

Testimony in Action for $11,000,000 Damages Now Being Taken in United States

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 30.—Testimony was taken in this city yesterday in the suit of the Venezuelan government against the Bermudez Company, which controls the asphalt production, for $11,000,000 damages for alleged participation in the recent Venezuelan revolution. The suit is now pending in the Venezuelan courts.

Joseph Mellers of this city is special commissioner for the government, and today Rufus B. Coaing, Jr., of New York, counsel for Venezuela, and John D. Lindsey of New York appeared before him with Frank B. Stevens of South Orange, N. J. The latter was superintendent of the company's plant at Guamo from 1897 to 1901.

He was questioned as to whether he had aided the revolutionists. He said he sometimes gave food to troops, but always refused them arms and ammunition.

"I was instructed to remain strictly neutral and endeavored to the best of my ability to carry out those instructions. And I can positively say that no aid whatsoever was given to the revolutionists," Mr. Stevens said.

The attorneys later went to Reading, Pa., to take the testimony of J. L. Drake, who was resident director of the asphalt company at Caracas.

FEVER REPORTS ALL POINT EARLY VICTORY

Patterson, La., Now Declared to Be Only Place Where Disease Is Not Under Control

FEVER RECORD TO NOON SATURDAY
New cases, 12.
Total to date, 2,981.
Deaths, 1.
Total to date, 387.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 30.—The relatively small number of new foci that are now appearing in reports of the marine hospital service is regarded as one of the best signs of certain decline of the fever here. In the matter of the new cases the week ending today shows the largest measure of improvement since the fever started. President Souchon of the state board of health and Dr. White of the marine hospital services gives it as their opinion the quarantine against passengers may be safely raised after the 15th of October.

Country reports continue to be of the most encouraging character, except at Patterson, where the list was swelled yesterday. New cases are very few and there is not a single death reported. At New Orleans there were only two deaths for the day and one of these was a left-over fatality from Thursday. Only three white cases remain at Tallulah and barring Patterson there is no longer considered to be an uncontrolled nest of infection anywhere outside of New Orleans. The influx of people into New Orleans continues, many representative business men and financiers being among those who are returning. The first theatrical advance agent of the season turned up yesterday and the hotel registers begin to show a sprinkling of drummers from the north. It is estimated the money gathered to make the fight against the fever is nearly $400,000.

Railroads and State Attorneys Agree on Postponement of the Trial

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 30.—Application for a writ of injunction in the cases of the railroads against the state, in which the plaintiffs seek to enjoin the enforcement of the Love gross receipts tax bills, came up today before Judge V. L. Brooks in the Twenty-sixth district court. The court stated to the railroad lawyers he would hear arguments for the granting of the writ if so desired. After consultation this was waived, and by agreement with the state, the hearing was postponed until Wednesday, Oct. 11, at which time the case will come up on its merits. Petitions were filed today in the district's clerk's office by the sixteen railroads which are seeking to enjoin the state.

TRADE NOTES

One pound of shorts is equal in feeding value to six pounds of skim milk. They are better for pigs if fed together.

If first-class lambs are wanted, they should be fed a little grain in addition to what they get on the pasture during the summer.

The success of the stallion depends so much upon the care and management that it is not strange that some are not good breeders.

To make stock pay, there should be a breed of them, and not a lot of scrubs. Pure bred stock will bring more when put on the market, because of evenness of size and the shape and color. A permanent trade can be built up by furnishing only the best in the best condition.

A practical and scientific system of feeding should provide for an ample supply of succulent pasture grasses and forage crops for hogs throughout the spring, summer and autumn months. Combined with this the system of management should enforce exercise. The entire farm, or as much of it as possible, should be fenced for hogs.

There is no animal that appreciates water more than the horse. During the warm weather he needs frequent drinks, and when at rest a cold bath of water upon his head and shoulders is very refreshing. He will feel the work less and eat and work better.

PRESIDENT HARPER AGAIN FACES DEATH

Surgeons Decide Chicago Educator Must Submit to Removal of Large Intestine

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 30.—It has been decided by the physicians in attendance upon President Harper of the University of Chicago that nothing will save his life but a surgical operation of heroic character. It is admitted that there is no chance of saving his life unless the cancer which is killing him can be checked by the removal of a portion of the large intestine.

It is proposed by the surgeons to make an examination in a few days to decide upon the advisability of the operation. It is, however, admitted that the chances are greatly against the permanent relief of the patient if the operation is performed.

CIVIL LEAGUERS NAME WHITSITT

Committee Named at Meeting to Secure Official Acceptance of Candidacy

Regular meeting of the Fifth Ward Civic League was held Friday night in rooms over Whitsitt's drug store, presided over by George E. Nies, president.

The committee appointed to canvass the ward for the purpose of ascertaining the choice of the majority of the voters as to a candidate for alderman, reported to the league that of 108 names signed to their lists, 105 were unequivocally for Dr. L. M. Whitsitt and a motion was carried to request him to make the race.

The chairman appointed H. H. Ingrum, J. H. Sears and W. J. Williamson to wait upon Dr. Whitsitt for the purpose of obtaining his official acquiescence.

Discussion by members present showed that they anticipate a hard fight and various preparations for systematic work during the campaign were suggested.

Dr. Whitsitt was absent from the meeting by reason of illness in his family, but members present stated that he will make the race.

CITY TAX BOARD COMPLETES SESSION

Valuation of City Property Is Ended and Rolls Go to Council Monday

Members of the city board of equalizers held their final session in the office of City Assessor and Collector Gilvin this morning and adjourned for the year. The board has been in session since the latter part of June. Rolls will be made up at once by the assessor and submitted to council Monday night.

It is estimated the increases over renditions will be about $1,800,000 and that the total valuation will be $25,000,000.

Action was taken this morning in the case of the Santa Fe railroad rendition of $201,410, being raised $5,000.

Other railroad figures taken with this give a total valuation of $1,262,875 this year against $1,248,973 last year. Difference in cash on hand Jan. 1 has made some of the railroad valuations show a reduction over the preceding year.

As announced, assessment against banks has been increased voluntarily from $1,500,000 last year to $1,750,000 in round numbers this year.

A FORT WORTH CASE

Many More Like It in Fort Worth.

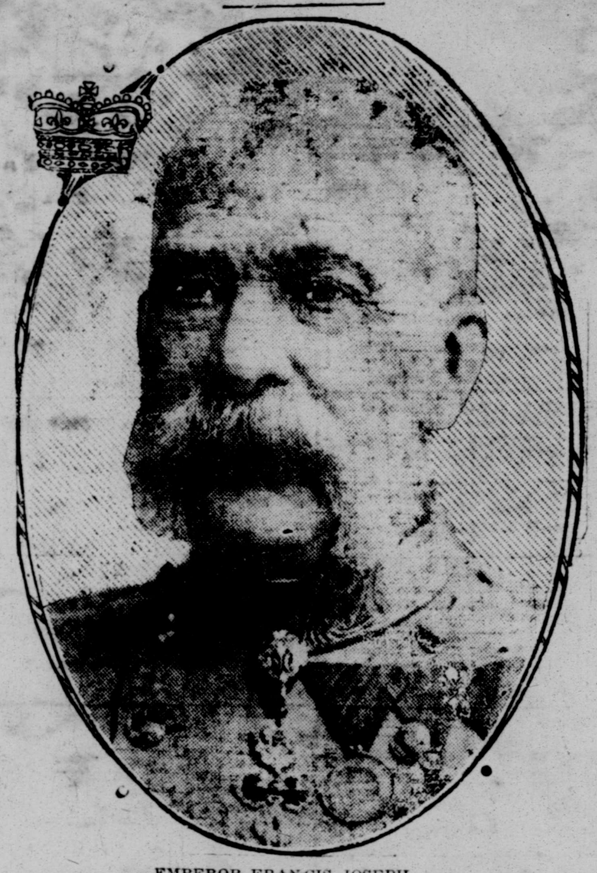
The following case is but one of many similar occurring daily in Fort Worth. It is an easy matter to verify its correctness. Surely you cannot ask for better proof than such conclusive evidence.

W. V. Gilley, who is the local agent for some of the large eastern publishing houses and who lives at 1003 East Fourteenth street, says: "A little over a year ago after using Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at Weaver's Pharmacy on Main street, I was so well pleased with the results that I gave a written endorsement of the remedy. At that time I told him that they had completely cured me of a serious case of kidney complaint, which, when I began to use the pills was in an advanced stage. I was almost used up with a lame and aching back and the condition of the kidney secretions proved positively that the kidneys were either weakened or overexcited and although I tried more than one remedy, it was like throwing away money, as far as any benefit was concerned. It was different with Doan's Kidney Pills. They went to the root of the trouble and as I said before, completely cured me. That was over a year ago and up to date there have been no symptoms of a recurrence. It is a pleasure to recommend them to other sufferers and likewise to recommend for publication a preparation which can always be depended upon."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

POLITICAL REVOLTS KEEP HIM DODGING



EMPEROR FRANCIS JOSEPH.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The wild rumors from Budapest and Vienna that political disturbances in Austro-Hungary have reached such a crisis that the King-Emperor Francis Joseph may resign the crown of Hungary in favor of Prince Francis Ferdinand are not credited here.

Nevertheless Budapest correspondents admit that the situation is becoming more serious as the following of Francis Kossuth grows stronger. The Independent party which he leads has gained over 100,000 new adherents. But conservative elements are hesitating to allow matters to be carried to a point where the situation cannot be controlled and a compromise effected. They are waiting anxiously for the outcome of the meeting of all the coalition elements, to be held at Budapest Oct. 3.

INDICTMENTS IN HASLET FIRE CASE

Death of Ed. Nerstheimer Investigated by Grand Jury. Appeals Docket

Jim Bennett and Lee Chaney have both been indicted by the Seventeenth district grand jury, charging them with murder following the recent death at Haslet of Ed Nerstheimer, who was burned to death in the home of Charles O'Neil, which was destroyed by fire on the night of Sept. 12.

Investigation of the death was had at once, but no arrests were made until a few days ago, when the two men above named were apprehended. Bennett in this city and Chaney at Haslett. The indictment was returned Friday morning.

Justice of the Peace John Terrell held a fire inquest soon after the death of Nerstheimer. The evidence adduced was to the effect that he had returned to his home late in the evening, accompanied by his two friends. The O'Neils were absent from home on the night of the fire.

Theory of robbery first worked upon by the officials was abandoned with the discovery that money was left in the pockets if Nerstheimer.

Bennett and Chaney waived examination in Judge Terrell's court and were remanded to jail. It is not known when the preliminary hearing will be had.

FINE PEARLS FOUND IN TRINITY RIVER

Mussels and Clams Yield Two Good Jewels to Expert Hunter

Pearl finds in the Trinity river are exciting the people along the stream and the report of several recent valuable discoveries is expected to be followed by a general search along the banks of the watercourse.

C. E. Rhodes, a professional pearl hunter, has just completed a prospecting trip along the river between this city and Dallas and to a point below that city. Many sand shells, mussels and clams, known as pearl bearers, were found, but few good specimens secured. The trip, however, was not entirely in vain. One good specimen is secured, which, it is believed when polished will be worth about $150, while a black pearl of about $50 value was also secured.

Mr. Rhodes has now gone to make a similar trip along the Sabine river, but myriad amateur hunters are taking his place along the Trinity.

TOO MUCH MEDICINE

THE SYSTEM CONTINUALLY WRONGED BY OVER-EATING AND OVER-DRINKING, AND THE DEBILITATED CONDITION AGGRAVATED BY DOSING WITH HARSH, NAUSEOUS DRUGS AND MEDICINES

The excessive and indiscriminate use of medicines, in these days, cannot be too strongly condemned. The food you eat if properly digested, is all the tonic you need.

Only common sense is needed. The food must be digested and the bowels must not be allowed to clog. Preserve your health by preventing these conditions.

Constipation surely leads to indigestion, biliousness, etc., and these conditions when neglected affect the condition of the blood, debilitate the system, rendering it susceptible to more serious ailments, and less able to resist such attacks.

If your stomach has been abused by overeating, weakened by drugs or sickness, you won't have to stop eating or diet yourself. All you need is something that will aid the stomach in its functions and relieve it from being constantly irritated by undigested food. The purest and simplest remedy for this purpose are the California Prune Wafers, a natural dissolvent made from the pure, fresh fruit, a general laxative and sweetener of the stomach—no other medicine is necessary.

When you are Bilious, it is a sign that your Liver is out of order, and the poisonous bile, instead of being excreted from the body through the intestines, is taken up in the blood. As a result of biliousness, the entire system suffers. There are griping pains in the Abdomen, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation, Pain in the Right Side, and sometimes the skin becomes sallow and yellowish, rough and itchy. Take two or three California Prune Wafers after meals, and in a short time your liver will be performing its proper function, driving the bile from the system. Use nothing but California Prune Wafers—no other medicine is necessary.

California Prune Wafers if taken as directed, will positively cure the most obstinate cases of indigestion, Torpid Liver, Constipation, Biliousness, etc., so as to stay cured.

CALIFORNIA PRUNE WAFERS do the work without the slightest pain, gripe or nausea. They produce natural and easy movement of the bowels, are easy to take, pure and healthful.

They are natures own remedy, better than pill or purge, better than cathartic teas that gripe and nauseate, better than anything for moving the bowels because CALIFORNIA PRUNE WAFERS are a NATURAL DISSOLVENT and not a purge, acting gently and naturally on the contents of the Bowels producing easy movement. They regulate the Liver and Stomach, cleanse the System and Purify the blood, cure all Bowel Troubles, Bad Breath, Bad Blood, Wind on the Stomach, Foul Mouth, Headache, Pimples and Dizziness. A Liver Tonic from Nature's Laboratory. 100 Wafers for 25c.

EASY TO TAKE AND WARRANTED TO CURE

Biliousness, Constipation, Indigestion and all Liver Troubles

YOU CAN EAT WHAT YOU PLEASE if you follow each meal with a CALIFORNIA PRUNE WAFER, which quickly dissolves the most indigestible food and helps to carry it through and out of the system in a gentle and healthful manner, without the slightest pain, griping or nausea. SHEEP DIPPING FOR LOCAL STOCK YARD

Materials Ordered for Equipment to Be Established About December 1

Announcement is made by General Manager W. B. King of the Fort Worth stock yards that material has been ordered for the construction of a sheep dipping vat. The new equipment will likely be installed by Dec. 1. Exact site of the vat has not been decided, but it will be convenient to the sheep division of the local yards.

Solution of lime and sulphur, as approved by the bureau of animal industry, will be used. The regulations of this bureau prohibit the shipping out of the state or from any public market, excepting for immediate slaughter, sheep infected with scabies unless dipped. Sale of thin sheep has been made necessary in this way through inability to ship for feeders. Demand is reported on the local market for both more fat sheep and feeders.

LADIES INDORSE THE CHANGE

Favorite Toilet Preparation Now Called Nadinola

One of the boldest and at the same time the most successful business changes, is that made recently by the National Toilet Company of Paris, Tenn., whose preparation for beautifying the complexion, known as Satinola, one of the leading and perhaps the best preparation on the market for the removal of tan, freckles, pimples and other discolorations, has been a prime favorite for years with women for beautifying the complexion.

It seems, however, that other preparations with names so much like Satinola appeared, and to an extent caused confusion, and the National Toilet Company, knowing that it could not afford to have so valuable a preparation confused with any other on the market, decided on an audacious change, something practically unheard of in advertising circles. They abandoned the name Satinola, on which considerable had been spent in making it known and popularizing the preparation, boldly adopted the name "Nadinola." Satinola it was—Nadinola it is—Nadinola from now on—Nadinola.

Nadinola now becomes a trade-made for the National Toilet Company, and the change has already marked a new era of prosperity for that distinguished company. Numerous complimentary letters indorsing the change of name are being received at the office of the National Toilet Company from ladies who have used their preparations, and orders are coming in freely from both the wholesale and retail drug trade for the preparation under the new name.

TERRITORIES PLAN BANK FOR CLEARING

Effort to Secure Suitable Arrangement May Result in New Institution for Kansas City

Bankers of this city have received further information of the efforts of Territory banking institutions to secure a favorable clearing point following the information in this matter recently appearing in The Telegram.

It is learned now a project is on foot to establish an independent bank at Kansas City with a capital stock of $250,000 to handle the Territory correspondence. Joseph W. McNeal, president of the National Bank of Commerce of Guthrie, has been tendered the presidency of the bank with John Gilbert of Sulphur as cashier. Mr. Dunlap put his name down for $50,000 stock, Mr. Bayless for $25,000, and C. J. Webster of the First National Bank of Sulphur for $25,000. If McNeal accepts the presidency he is to take another $50,000 stock. The plan is to place the remainder of the stock, up to $250,000, with banks throughout the two territories.
