Maize Days has been a success. We are certainly proud to announce it.

In sort of a "now it can be told" voice, we want to admit that we were scared about Maize Days. Would people come? Would everyone work together so that a good show could be put on? Would everybody have fun—or would the whole thing flop?

Well, it most certainly didn't flop, and it made an especially remarkable performance considering the weather. We think Maize Days, or something on that order, is here to stay. At least, there is every evidence that people want it to stay.

In a sense, the weather helped. Enough rain had fallen on Thursday to end harvesting and give farmers nothing to do but come to town and join in on the fun. However, this advantage was probably overshadowed by the wind, the drizzle, and the cold of Friday and Saturday which were very discouraging for anything outdoors. Again, we must say that Maize Days went over with a bang.

Why were we scared about possibilities? Our figuring was that last year, when the 50th Anniversary Celebration was held, most everybody would notice something that big, and would come to it. After all, it never happens but once!

However, for just an annual harvest-time promotion (and with a title never before tried)—well, we just didn't know what the reaction would be. However, it was good, and we're sure glad. To everyone who worked so hard to make things turn out so well we certainly offer our congratulations.

* * * *

From now until mid-April, farmers, businessmen, and individuals are going to be concerned to a greater or lesser degree with annual taxes.

They are payable now to the city, the school, the state, and the county, and will soon become due and payable to Uncle Sam in various forms. The individual who is used to having a bite taken out of his weekly or monthly paycheck hardly recognizes the change in the seasons, but for the property owner it's a different matter entirely.

Ad valorem taxes are leapfrogging all over Texas to meet increasing demands for revenue to run the various activities of the state, county, and local governments. Especially painful hereabouts are the property taxes required to pay for expanding our school systems. And many believe that "You ain't seen nothin' yet."

If our population doubles within another 10 or 15 years, these prognosticators will be about correct, because the bonds now drawing little more than interest and due to be repaid in the distant future will be like millstones around taxpayers' necks if the indebtedness had to be doubled soon.

As an editorialist, we have always favored paying for schools on the local level, and we still do. However, taxpayers are doing some real soul searching about whether they could stand to pay DOUBLE their load if conditions demanded it.

The answer to this question lies in an analysis of the entire state system of property taxes, which are as inequitable and unjust as anyone could imagine them to be. The theory of present property taxes is that a man should be assessed according to his ability and not according to his need for or use of the facilities or services the taxes are being raised for. Our present system of property taxation is directly comparable in principal to the idea of graduated income taxes, which penalize an individual just because he is successful.

An examination of the rolls of the Friona or any other school district will show that men and women who are up in their years and have finally accumulated some property are the ones who are paying to educate the public's children.

Often, the man who has eight kids owns little or no property and in effect gets his children educated at the expense of others. This is right or wrong depending on your outlook.

Personally, we feel that the man who places such large burdens on the educational system should be asked to share part of the load he is responsible for.

"Sales tax" are the two ugliest words ever devised in Texas, and it will take some real effort to brainwash nine million citizens of this sovereign state who proudly declare they don't have any such nonsense. However the fact remains that a sales tax is one of the few really equit-

Maize Days Makes Big Hit with All

Friona's Maize Days, held in chilly, moist weather Friday and Saturday of last week, is considered a success by participants, planners and spectators.

From the opening of the two-day celebration with the parade Friday morning to the closing event, the fiddler's contest Saturday afternoon, good participation is reported in the events and attendance is considered to have been good considering the unfavorable weather.

Estimates based on plate counts for the Friday afternoon barbecue place the number of persons who turned out for the community feed at 2,500.

Winners in the parade Friday in the commercial division were Hurst Department Store, first; Friona State Bank, second; and Ware's Department Store, third.

In the clubs and churches division, Black Community won first, Lakeview was awarded second, and Rhea Men's Club of the Lutheran Church placed third.

Seniors of Friona School took first in that division, Friona FFA won second, and the queen's float won third.

Little Galen Brewer, with his "beard," hat and cart displaying a "Maze Daze" sign won first in the kid's section of the parade. The Wells-Fargo group was second, and Gay Welch, third.

The most original float entered in the school division went to the Lazbuddie FFA, composed of a promotion of research and education for maize.

The Friona Star's float, "Russia has the Sputnik but Friona Has the Star," was chosen most original float of the parade.

Men's tractor driving contest winner was Billy Sifford whose first place time for the event was three minutes. The course included backing a four-wheel trailer into three slots.

Other places in the men's tractor driving went to Bob Riethmayer, Florian Jarecki, and Doyce Barnett.

Winners of the tractor driving contest for ages 14-18 were Floyd Reeve, first; Mike Ellis, second; Jim Roy Wells, third; and Charles Bass, fourth. To win the event, Reeve backed a two-wheel trailer into three slots, taking two minutes and 17 seconds for the course.

The Hub Pony Express team made good their threat and won the event, coming ahead of the other teams by a good two minutes, on the eight-mile course.

The winning team, composed of Paul Call, Robert Louis, and A. L. Black, took 19 minutes, 22 and one-fifth seconds to reach the finish line at Friona City Park.

Lakeview finished second with a time of 21 minutes and 44 seconds, and Friona finished third, and clocked a time of 23 minutes and 22 seconds.

Among beard growers, Walter Cunningham was judged to be the best for the 1957 Friona Maize Days, and Thomas Parsons, who says he did not touch a razor during the growing period, was designated as having the wooliest beard.

Ray Strickland, who trimmed his beard to a maize stalk with green leaves and a red head, won the title of being the most original beard grower.

Grabbing first in the community float division was the entry from Black. Lavohn Dean's beautiful dress is made of maize heads. The seniors won first in the school float division, but a picture was not available.

G'burg Says Thanks

Bob Ginsburg, under whose direction the 1957 Maize Days was held, this week expresses his appreciation to other workers in the celebration.

Ginsburg says, "Thanks to all of the committee members and everyone who assisted in any way with the Maize Days held in Friona last Friday and Saturday. It was only with the cooperation of everyone that the event was such a success. In addition, many thanks to everyone who entered exhibits and to all those attending Maize Days.

"It was indeed gratifying to see all the interest shown and the fine crowds that were in attendance. I am deeply appreciative of everyone's cooperation."

Local Ministers Form Association

Initial steps toward forming a ministerial alliance of Friona ministers was taken Wednesday of last week. A group of ministers met in the study of the Friona Methodist Church and elected Rev. Hugh Blaylock as temporary president, and Rev. L. A. Sartain as temporary secretary.

A meeting to organize on a permanent basis will be held in the near future, the alliance announces.

The U. S. Mint at Philadelphia has been in continuous operation since 1793.

Roberts County Deputy

Announcement was made this week by Sheriff Chas. Lovelace that Jim Roberts has been hired as a full-time deputy sheriff for the county. He is to begin his new duties on November 1 and will be stationed in Friona.

Roberts, who has been a county and city officer in Bovina for the past six months, will be the first full-time county law officer in Friona. Prior to going to Bovina, Roberts served as a part-time county deputy in Friona and was also a city officer.

Approval of another full-time deputy in the county was given by the county commissioners' court last week. Roberts will be the second county deputy who devotes all his time to county law enforcement. The other deputy is Tom Atkins of Farwell.

A replacement will be hired for Roberts in Bovina, the sheriff says. In Bovina, the deputy's salary has been divided equally between the county and the city. Sheriff Lovelace hopes to fill this position by November 1.

Miss Massie Dies In Wichita Falls

Anna Julia Massie, who was a Friona resident for many years, died Tuesday afternoon in Wichita Falls, where she had been in poor health for some time.

Funeral services for the deceased were held here today at Claborn Chapel, Rev. Hugh Blaylock, pastor of Friona Methodist Church, officiating.

Miss Massie was born December 15, 1881, at LaGrange, Ky., and moved to Friona in 1914. She lived here until recent years, when ill health forced her to be in Wichita Falls.

She is survived by two brothers of Friona, Ed and Bill Massie, and also a brother in Claude, Jess. Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. D. M. Ballard of Eads, Colo., and Mrs. Laura Pollard of Oklahoma City.

Burial was in Friona Cemetery.

City Gives Three Building Permits

The following building permits were issued by the City of Friona during the week ending October 22:

W. A. Foster, repairs to roof, 517 Main Street, $75.

Genaro Gonzales, 310 Woodland Avenue, moving building and converting to residence, $750.

City Court Drops Fines

City corporation court of Friona is now on a schedule of payment for fines for traffic violations. The schedule replaces the standard $16.50 fine which the court used for a short time recently.

Fines for violations as designated by the schedule are as follows:

Failure to grant right-of-way, $10.

Following too closely, $10.

Improper passing and cutting in, $10.

Failure to signal, $5.

Improper turn, $5.

Disregard stop and go light, $10.

Disregard stop sign. $5.

Disregard warning signal, $10.

Improper parking, $5.

Improper start from parked position, $10.

No tail light, $5.

No inspection sticker, $15.

No driver's license, $10.

Leaving scene of accident, $25.

Operating unregistered vehicle or fictitious license plates, $25.

Excessive noise, $10.

Following fire truck or parking in block where fire truck is parked, $10.

The court is recommended by the city commission along with the above schedule of fines to feel free to raise any fine listed if the circumstances in any case would warrant a heavier penalty.

The commission also recommends that the fine be doubled for the second offense during the same year, and tripled for the third offense of the same year.

Chiefs Jump To AA

The Friona Chiefs are playing in their last season of Class A sports this year, and next year will be elevated to Class AA, an announcement to school officials said this week.

Other schools to be in the same district with Friona will be Dimmitt, Dalhart, Canyon, and Tulia.

These schools have been in the AA class for several years, and this competition is expected to be rough for the entering Chiefs, says Coach Colie Huffman.

THEY KNOW ABOUT HUB

Maybe the mapmakers don't know where Hub, Texas, is, but some post office officials do. Mr. and Mrs. Otis Neel of the Neel Grocery and Market at Hub received a letter recently that was mailed in Lubbock. It was addressed simply, "Mr. and Mrs. Otis Neel, Hub, Texas."

When Mrs. Neel was asked about it, she said, "I wouldn't have thought it would have been sent directly to us, but it was. It didn't have any postmarks to indicate that it had been missent, and it was mailed one day and we got it the next. That is as quick as we get letters mailed to the correct address."

ATTEND CONFERENCE

Lawyers, accountants and businessmen from throughout Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma attended the fifth annual Texas Tech Tax Conference which was concluded Wednesday. Those registering from Friona were Bob Ginsburg and Steve Messenger.

Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Lloyd, Mrs. Olita Hinkle and Rodney Hinkle attended funeral services for Burns Odom of Burleson in Alvarado last week. Mr. Odom was Mrs. Lloyd's uncle.

FIRST LETTER TO SANTA CLAUS

The first letter of the season to Santa Claus was received recently in the Star office. Although it is a little bit early, we will soon be forwarding it to the North Pole.

We invite all our little friends to write letters for our Christmas issue.

Dear Santa:

I would like to have some skates and a tiptoe doll. And I would like a big doll.

Drive For CROP Comes Tonight

A different kind of trick or treat, participated in by young people of the city, is slated for tonight.

The drive is for donations for Christian Rural Overseas Program, a share-the-surplus plan whereby goods are sent to needy foreign countries. The goods are distributed to rural people to allow them a chance to help themselves.

The young people will not ask for candy or cookies, but for a donation for CROP. The Friona Ministerial Alliance is sponsoring the drive.

Comish Okays Radio

Friona city commission Monday afternoon authorized purchase of a base radio station for the Friona Police Department. This will put the police department in position to call surrounding towns without using the unit now being furnished by the county sheriff's office.

Expected cost will be about $1,500, half of which will be furnished by Civil Defense.

Application for approval from Federal Communications Commission has been made for several months, and approval is expected in the near future, according to Roy Wilson, city clerk.

Also taken up at the meeting was the second reading of the ordinances granting rate hikes to the gas and telephone companies, formalities in the process of establishing an ordinance.

Two Plead Guilty In District Court

Two criminal cases were tried in district court at Farwell Tuesday afternoon, and both persons pled guilty as charged and were sentenced by Judge E. A. Bills.

Pablo Baca, Clovis, was convicted of stealing money at a place east of Farwell, and was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary. Bill Dawkins, Anton, was placed on probation for two years on a forgery charge.

He forged a check on A. J. Woltmon, farmer near Friona, last spring. The check was passed in Friona.

Both Baca and Dawkins had been indicted by the last Parmer County grand jury.

The Tuesday court session was the first in Parmer County since the forming of the new 154th judicial district the first of September. Bill Sheehan, Friona, was prosecuting attorney.

District court will again be conducted in Farwell next Friday, November 1. Also, a grand jury is scheduled to be called in Parmer County some time in the near future, say county officials.

Three cases are presently pending for grand jury investigation.

Friona Police Get Print Equipment

The Friona police department has received additional fingerprinting equipment and is now equipped to do fingerprint checking at scenes of crimes as well as printing persons for checking with other police records, reports Police Chief Ben Moorman.

Included in the supplies for fingerprint taking at the scene of crimes is a box of powders, brushes, and pads for picking up and recording the prints found.

Chiefs Start In District Play Against Farwell

The Chiefs of Friona Friday night at 8 p. m. meet the Farwell Steers in the first district game of the season. Meeting in Friona, the Chiefs have two wins for the season to Farwell's five wins and one loss.

The Chiefs still have about 12 players of the leading twenty-two out with the influenza. Larry Fairchild, who had been a mainstay at halfback until a knee injury during the Whiteface game four weeks ago, stands a chance to get back into action against the Steers, but it is doubtful, says Coach Colie Huffman.

The Steers, after their first loss of the season to Morton last week, are expected to be in good shape again this week.

Being hampered by unfavorable weather for the earlier part of the week, the Chiefs took to the cover of the gymnasium for practice, padding the floor with mats.

Last week's game with Bovina was cancelled by Bovina, and a game was scheduled with the Clovis "B" team. Then, sickness among the Chiefs made it impossible to field a team to fairly represent the school, so the game with Clovis was cancelled also, Huffman says.

Report From Frio Draw

Dear Editer,

I jest can't see any use in the United States sendin' up another moon to watch the Sputnik that the Russians set off. Accordin' to my notions, a moon has got to be seen before it can do any good.

On the other hand, ef'n these artificul moons which is being sent up will be any more accurate to go by for planting than the old moon, I reckon there might be some benefit to them after all.

Yours truly,

Flu Turns School Out Wednesday

Friona Schools were dismissed Wednesday afternoon until Monday morning next week due to an increasing percentage of students absent with influenza, reaching the proportion of 25.6 percent, considered an epidemic.

School Superintendent Dillie Kelley announced the dismissal Tuesday afternoon after finding 261 students absent, out of the enrollment of 1019.

Besides the students, three teachers were at home or in the hospital with the ailment, including Baker Duggins, Weldon Talley and Dempsey Watkins.

The school was dismissed on the advice of Dr. Paul Spring, county health officer. Dr. Spring advised that the influenza percentage would probably be decreased if the school would close for as long as five days.

The percentage of students absent started Monday with about 20 percent. Much higher percentages were tabulated in rooms and grades, with several classes having only a few students absent, while others were heavily hit.

"When the percentage of students absent reaches these proportions, the average daily attendance of the school starts suffering heavily," Kelley says.

Nearly all teachers and staff members at the school had taken shots to prevent the disease spreading to them.

WRECKS RIFE AROUND FRIONA

Three traffic accidents, involving about 40 persons, occurred in the Friona area during the past week, but no serious injuries were reported.

A two-car collision involving cars driven by Mrs. Mary McLean Dixon and Sonny Rando happened Sunday at 6:55 p.m. at the intersection of Seventh Street and Summit Avenue, near the Friona Baptist Church parsonage. Heavy damage was reported to both cars.

Rando was charged with failure to yield right-of-way.

A bus transporting cotton harvest workers was struck by an auto driven by Alfred Webb of Bovina Wednesday of last week. Webb was carrying a younger brother, Samuel Franklin Webb, to Parmer County Community Hospital when the accident occurred. Mrs. Bessie Webb, mother of the boys, was another occupant of the car. She and Samuel Webb were hospitalized after the accident, which occurred near Plains Farmers Gin on Highway 60.

The bus, carrying about 36 cotton pickers, overturned and about 12 of the passengers were treated and released from the hospital.

Driver of the bus, Tommie Lee Spikes, was charged with left turn without safety. Webb, driver of the car, was charged with driving on left side of road at intersection.

Another bus and auto accident happened Tuesday morning near the Friona School bus barn. Leslie Homer Weis, driver of the bus, was backing the bus across the street to a parking position and collided with a car driven by Mrs. Wanda Jones.

Weis was charged with careless collision.

THE STAR'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

Start For Next Year Now

Following the closing of the 1957 edition of Friona Maize Days, right now is the best time to start planning next year's celebration.

Having worked on the celebration for this year only a little more than two and one-half months, the committee did an admirable job, and the success of the celebration was unusual, considering the disparaging weather experienced during the two-day event.

Committee members who served this year have gained much valuable experience, and will be in position to know how best to handle the various events for next year. These same committee members, if it is decided that they do not want to serve on the planning committee next year, could work with the chosen committee members, and give advice on how to handle the program.

We in Friona can really make the skeptics rearrange their thoughts, as testified by the manner in which the events were handled this year. The most abounding success was noted in the barbecue, as well as other events, because not a single gripe has been registered with this writer, and many compliments have been noted.

Let's make Maize Days a bigger and better maize country's celebration.

Two Good 'Uns

Two of the three proposed amendments to the state constitution which Texas voters will be marking ballots on November 5 deserve the support of every thinking citizen.

The other amendment, which has to do with expanding the state employee retirement system, needs more study than can be given here, and will be taken up in a succeeding editorial. It is of a rather technical nature.

Amendments which we are wholeheartedly in favor of are the ones which would set up a state-wide water program and increased state assistance to the aged, the blind, and dependent children.

H. J. R. No. 3, which has to do with the water program, first and foremost is a self-perpetuating and liquidating program that will not cost the taxpayers anything. It is the simple granting of authority to the state to sell $100 million in bonds, which would be in turn loaned on local levels wherever water development projects may be needed.

This is an approach to the long-time water problems of the state that is essentially local in nature, and therefore much to be desired over programs of state or national scope that so often fail to take into consideration local conditions.

This would be a new source of money for this very community, for example, should it need to expand its water system. Cities, counties, and other legal divisions could borrow to build dams, drill wells, lay pipe lines, or any other facility needed for water. They would repay with interest to the state from revenues arising from these improvements.

Limitations: No loan could be for more than one-third of the total cost, or $5 million, whichever is less.

There has been much talk about a water program, but nothing has been done. This is the most sensible approach yet offered. Let's accept it.

H. J. R. No. 2 provides for increasing state expenditures for old age assistance, aid to the blind, and aid to dependent children from $42 million to $47 million per year, and slightly increasing the limit allowed to individuals.

The maximum payment out of state funds to each needy aged person could be as much as $25 per month, (increased from present $20), but state contributions could not rise above $21 unless matched by federal funds—which they probably will not be.

This year, 224,311 persons in the state were receiving an average of $44.77 each in monthly old age assistance, 23,267 families with needy children were getting an average of $71.03, and 6,477 blind persons were receiving an average of $48.65 per month.

True, there are aways abuses to programs such as this. Undeserving as well as the deserving get some of the money. However, there is no gainsaying that the state and federal aid program is a humanitarian effort, and, in spite of its abuses, is worth continuing. Those who take advantage of the public's goodness will eventually have their own reward anyway.

Soil Conservation District News

(Editor's Note: Unfortunately, this column was crowded out of last week's special Maize Days paper by late-breaking news that announced major changes in the celebration schedule. However, the thought behind the column is just as timely this week as it was last week, and we are printing it late because of its general interest. It was submitted by Floyd Crume, work unit conservationist of the Parmer County Soil Conservation District).

* * * *

By FLOYD CRUME

This week we are saluting agriculture in Parmer County and well we should. It is the backbone of our financial structure in this area. Many of us are learning and using new ideas about farming and are becoming progressively better farmers.

I overheard a business machine salesman make the statement the other day to the effect that every job, no matter how good it was now being done, could always be improved upon. For a while I questioned this statement in the light that we were doing a good job now and that there was little room for improvement.

I finally became honest with myself though, and had to admit that he was right. Every job can be improved upon and when we reach the point that we think it cannot we will stop progress and go backward.

The question we as farmers need to ask ourselves is: Will our farming operations we are practicing leave us in better shape in the future than we are now, or worse? We are answering this question with the type of farming we are now practicing and practice in the years to come.

It seems some of us are living just for today. We do not think of the future in terms of, What will I leave my children to farm on? Will I conserve water so that they too can irrigate, improve the land to take care of the ever increasing population, and in general make life worth living for them?

Or on the other hand, Am I running tail water or running water too far or practicing other types of water waste, mining the soil today for myself and making no effort to keep the land productive many years to come, and in general only thinking of myself? How can we as stewards of the land answer this important question? The conservation of our natural resources cannot be over emphasized.

There will be at least twice as many people in the United States 50 years from now as there are at present, and the land area for food production will be cut in half per person at that time. When people mine a country of its natural resources as arid as ours, they leave a desert when the resources are all gone.

We live in a country of freedom, and none of us would change this. The initiative of conservation must come from within each of us and not by law of force. It's up to us.

Poll Tax Time In County Again

Property tax paying time is being impressed on the minds of residents of Parmer County again, but many overlook the fact that it's also time to pay poll taxes.

Hundreds of Parmer County "eligible" voters will be anything but that if they don't arm themselves with a receipt showing they have paid the yearly $1.75 fee.

In 1958, county officials whose staggered terms will be up for election include:

County judge, county attorney, county and district clerk, county treasurer, commissioner Precinct No. 2 and commissioner Precinct No. 4.

Also, there will be school and city elections across the county, to say nothing of the primaries. In addition, there is always the possibility of a special bond election or other election that everyone would like to express his opinion on.

Those who need to pay poll taxes to vote are all citizens between the ages of 21 and 60. Those who are 21 and have never voted may obtain an exemption certificate by requesting one prior to the first election in which they intend to vote.

Persons over 60 who live outside a city of 10,000 or more do not need an exemption certificate.

The cat is apparently resistant to botulism, but it can carry the disease—causing organisms and spread the disease after death if the carcass comes in contact with animal feed, the American Veterinary Medical Association says.

The first, and as far as we know, the only Maize Days celebration is now history. Don't know for sure whose idea it was, but think it was a wonderful one. As we stood and watched the parade go by Friday morning, the thought uppermost in our mind was, "Who would have ever thought that there were so many different things that could be done with maize?"

As the floats passed by, each one presented a new, different and beautiful idea of incorporating maize heads, fall colors, and locally grown plants into an interesting and attractive finished product. Feel sure the judges had a difficult time picking the winners in each division.

After seeing the float made by residents of the Black community, none of us need ever say, "I just don't have a thing to wear." Their candidate for Harvest Queen, Lavohn Dean, had a beautiful dress made of maize heads.

We do appreciate all the compliments which have come our way on the Star float; however, they do not really belong to us. Our editor, W. H. Graham Jr., was looking around for some outside talent to build a float for us and we were fortunate enough to secure the services of the Seniors Scouts and their leaders, Mrs. Russel O'Brian and Mrs. S. V. Chitwood.

In spite of the inclement weather, epidemic of flu, and a few other minor interruptions, the events scheduled went off in an orderly manner. There were a lot of out-of-town visitors and just about everyone in our area who was able attended one or more of these events. Stories of the Maize Days have been in several neighboring papers. Perhaps the Pony Express race attracted more attention than any other single event.

As the large crowd was gathered around the City Park waiting anxiously for the first horse to cross the finish line, a freight train crossed the south end of Main Street. Someone was heard to remark, "Freight trains are one interruption the early Pony Express riders never had to cope with." A bystander replied, "Well, maybe not freight trains, but they had herds of buffalo and other obstacles to get around."

Hope those of you who did not get to attend are around for the next one. A lot of remarks have already been heard about "What we will do next year."

The Friday evening barbecue was well attended and the food was well prepared. Bouquets should go to the volunteer firemen for the efficient serving of the food. There was order in the lines that formed near the serving tables and the behavior of the children and younger persons in the crowd was very good.

In fact, the only things we could see that could be criticized were the absence of containers for the disposal of plates, napkins, uneaten food, and forks, and the manner in which these things were scattered over the park and nearby sidewalks and streets.

One of the most interesting company publications which comes to our office is "The Gas Jet," which is published by Pioneer Natural Gas Company. We were expecting to see a story and some pictures of the opening of the new office in the October issue. Perhaps the magazine had already been sent to the publisher before the opening and these will come later.

There was, however, an interesting paragraph about our city in an article concerning the origin of the names of different towns throughout the Panhandle and South Plains areas. Most of the readers probably already know how Friona received its name, but for the benefit of those who do not, we are reprinting that paragraph.

Friona was named after Frio Creek which runs near-by. First named "Frio" the town had to change names since another post office in Texas already had the name. Therefore, "na" was added to Frio, making it Friona. Frio is the Spanish word for "cold."

Most of us refer to the Frio Creek in the paragraph as the Frio Draw.

This draw, when filled with water, resembles a river more than it does a creek. Newcomers can hardly believe the stories they hear and the pictures they see about what happens "when the draw comes down." It has been several years since we have had an overflow, but those of us who have seen one are never surprised when the draw begins to widen.

The damp weather we have been having has slowed our harvest and the maturity of the crops. Some farmers are beginning to worry about the outcome and after thinking about the amount of work, money, planning, etc., they have put into their crops, it is easy to understand why they would.

It is doubtful that the moisture received has been of much benefit to our sub-soil moisture, but it has helped the growing wheat. Several fields are beginning to turn into beautiful green spots along the roads.

Looking south from our house there is a beautiful sight. There are rows after rows of shocks of sorghum almum which resemble Indian teepees. Whoever shocked them did a good job setting up the shocks and also spacing them. Think the crop was grown by Harold Joe Wells on a partnership deal with Bob Jones.

The Floyds have enjoyed seeing it grow and now are enjoying looking at the "city" over there. Haven't seen any figures on the financial outcome, but feel sure they would prove interesting, too. The controversy over whether this comparatively new crop in our locality is good or bad is interesting, too, and we always read both sides of the argument.

The Hugh Blaylocks have a different twist on the parakeet story. Instead of losing one, they have found one. One day recently a noise was heard on the outside of the window nearest their parakeet's cage. Upon investigation it was learned that a bird identical to theirs had found its way to the window and was trying to start a conversation. When asked about the color, Blaylock said, "Well I don't know exactly. It must be a yellowish-green."

If any of you have lost a parakeet answering this description, you might stop by the Methodist parsonage and see if it is there. The Blaylocks are anxious to return it to the rightful owner.

Now that our Maize Days celebration is over, things may seem a little bit dull and slow. However, there is still harvest, conference football games, Thanksgiving, the beginning of basketball season, and the Christmas holidays to look forward to.

If it is news, we want to know about it whether it is spectacular or not, so don't forget to call us at any time. The office telephone number is 2291 and our home phone is Parmer 3418.

Organize Police Reserve

With the organization of a six-member police reserve for the Friona Police Department, Friona probably has the largest police force of a town of its population in the area.

Police Chief Ben Moorman announces that the following persons have indicated that they want to become members of the reserve force: Ralph Shirley, Lee Campbell, Ruben Taylor, Danny Mac Bainum, Glenn Reeve Jr., and Walter Cunningham.

The reserve will be sworn into the department, and have the same authority and privileges that any full-fledged law enforcement officer would have.

They will train in service for four hours a week and meet one night each month for study, Moorman says.

The reserve members will be assigned to duty during heavy traffic periods such as ball games, and be on call for service during any emergency, Moorman says.

MRS. GERALD DAY

Betty June Euler, Gerald Day Are Married In Tucson

A single arrangement of white gladioli and pom-poms flanked by candles graced the Celtic cross on the altar of Trinity Presbyterian Church, Tucson, Ariz., Saturday evening, Oct. 12, when Betty June Euler and Gerald Irving Day repeated their wedding vows. Rev. George R. Hinshaw officiated.

Preceding the double-ring ceremony, Dr. Robert Lamm, church organist, played pre-nuptial selections including Ava Maria, Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life, Bless This House, and Because. Miss Eleanor Pratt of Pasadena, Calif., sang Through the Years, O Perfect Love, and The Lord's Prayer.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Euler of Summerfield, was given in marriage by her father. For the formal rites, Betty June chose an exquisite ivory white silk brocade gown fashioned along empress lines. The lines were also carried out in the jacket with stand-up collar and back design dipping to a point. Buttons were self-covered and the long sleeves tapered to points below the wrists. The smooth front skirt fell into back pleats which tapered to a chapel train.

Silk tulle was gathered to a clasp of simulated orange blossoms forming the waist-length veil which also tapered to a point. Her only jewelry was pearl earrings—a gift from the groom. She carried a bride's prayer book with a white orchid and cascades of stephanotis.

Miss Marianne Schafer of Tucson was maid of honor, and Miss Doris Ryan of Alhambra, Calif., and Miss Sheila Ann Malone, Tulia, served as bridesmaids. The three attendants wore turquoise chromespun taffeta gowns fashioned with skirts similar to the bride's. The high boat necks tapered to deep points in the back, and small matching head bands held short veils. Their flowers were white carnations.

Don Acers of Lancaster, Mo., served as best man. Ushers and groomsmen were John Doyle and Harold Lim of Tucson. Serving as candlelighters and ushers were Bill Campbell and John Martin, also of Tucson. The men were attired in white dinner jackets.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving G. Day of Metuchen, N. J., parents of the groom, were present for the wedding and reception which followed at the church patio. The mother of the bride chose a heather blue dress for the wedding. Mrs. Day wore beige. Both had white orchid corsages.

Mrs. Bill Campbell presided at the guest book, and Mrs. George B. Hinshaw cut the four-tiered wedding cake. Serving at the punch bowls were Mrs. Robert Tiffany, Questa, N. M., sister of the bride, and Miss Olga Korn of Tucson. Around three hundred guests attended.

Miss Euler was graduated from Hereford High School and received a degree in fine arts from West Texas State College. For several years she was a teacher in the public schools of New Mexico. She also did graduate study at Colorado State College and the University of Hawaii. She got her master's in guidance at the University of Arizona and has been a counselor at Alice Vail Junior High School the past three years.

While at West Texas, Miss Euler was a member of Alpha Chi honor society, Student Christian Assn., Student Senate, Art club, chorus, newspaper staff and was elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. She is also a member of Pi Lamb Theta educational honorary, Beta Sigma Phi, and the American Assn. of University Women.

Day attended New Jersey schools and served with the army in Korea. He studied at Union Junior College, Cranford, N. J., and was graduated from the University of Arizona. He is doing graduate research in wild life management while employed as biologist with the Arizona Game and Fish department. As a member of the Arizona Game and Protective service, he also is affiliated with the Range Management and Tucson Bow Club.

For her wedding trip, the bride wore a heather blue sheath dress in raw silk with orchid corsage. After the wedding trip to Hermonsillo, Mexico and points south, the couple will be at home at 3414 East Lee Street, Tucson.

Out of town guests for the wedding included the parents, Misses Pratt, Ryan, and Malone. Mr. Avers, Mrs. Tiffany, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Euler and children of Summerfield, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Euler and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Euler of Friona, Mr. and Mrs. George Guampel of Metuchen, N. J., and Ken Stark of Phoenix.

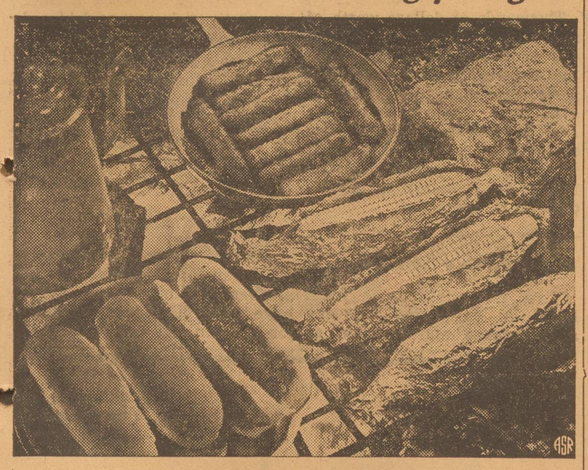
Land a Favorite with Hungry Anglers



Want a campfire meal that cooks in jig time? When you do, serve Barbecued Fish Sticks in Buns. Hungry picnickers, or anglers, will choose fish in the pan to casting for an uncertain catch. These precooked fish sticks, popular for outdoor cooking, are purchased cut to size.

Prepared as Barbecued Fish Sticks, everyone sniffs in anticipation as the aroma of this savory dish blends with the scent of hickory coals. The barbecue sauce, made in advance, is heated in a skillet until it bubbles merrily. The fish sticks are added and allowed to just heat. For easy out-of-hand eating, place the "sticks" between buttered, split bakers' buns or slices of enriched bread. Roast fresh corn on the cob, which has been seasoned, buttered and wrapped in aluminum foil and served as the vegetable.

Barbecued Fish Sticks In Buns

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ¼ cup finely chopped onion
- 1 cup finely chopped celery
- ¼ teaspoon thyme
- ¼ teaspoon rosemary
- ⅞ cup or 1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 package frozen, precooked fish sticks
- 5 sliced frankfurter buns

Melt butter in a small skillet. Add onion and celery and saute until tender. Blend in thyme, rosemary, tomato sauce and lemon juice. Simmer for 30 minutes. When thick, pour sauce into jar with tight cover. At picnic site, put sauce and fish sticks in small skillet. Heat through. To serve: Place 2 fish sticks and a little lemon barbecue sauce between bun halves.
Yield: 5 Barbecued Fish Sticks in Buns

A Camera Goes to Camp

It's the wise parent that makes sure Junior is equipped with a simple camera along with all the gear required by the camp management when he takes off for a stint of outdoor living.

Going to camp is a big event in his life, and both you and the camper will be glad to have snapshots—you for information, he for remembering. In most camps the youngsters are happy to take turns behind the camera and counselors are most cooperative.

Suggest to your camper that he make a deal with another one so that they will shoot picture stories of each other's camp activities. It won't take much time, and he can proudly show his pictures to his friends when he comes home.

A word of caution about care of film and camera may be required, especially if the youngster has not done much picture taking. Keeping both film and camera dry, cool, and clean is perhaps the most important thing. Leaving them lying around in damp spots, or in the open sun all day isn't the way to help them give good pictures.

Just don't make the youngster afraid of using the camera for fear he'll do something he shouldn't. Considering the magic they perform, cameras are pretty rugged and take an amazing amount of punishment. But, the dry, cool, and clean treatment is important.

Smiles will greet the arithmetic teacher in Ethiopia because of a science teaching project of UNESCO, called "Numbers and Colors." Two men stood in a hotel lobby in Washington following a conference and watched as two pretty girls met and kissed each other affectionately.

Former Residents Tell Of Island Living Conditions

The following is part of a letter from Mr. and Mrs. David Estes which was received this month by the Pete Mimms family. Mr. and Mrs. Estes taught school two years in Lazbuddie and we think bits of the letter would be of interest to their friends here. They are now teaching school on Kwajalein, one of the Marshall Islands.

* * * *

We are here and are very happy in our new situation. Everything is much better than we expected and there is more to do than you can imagine. We already have a collection of shells. Although Kwajalein would only stretch from your house to the corner by Shirley's house (two miles) if it were straightened out, it is a very challenging place. It is all made of coral which is the dead bodies of millions of tiny coral polyps.

We are only 20 feet from the ocean at high tide. Our house catches the breeze just right but we keep EVERYTHING that will rust, mildew or corrode in the hot locker. We even get rust on our clothes and the floor!

We live in a duplex which has large rooms and is made of concrete blocks. Our living room is about 20' x 20' and it has sliding doors opening out onto a lanai (porch) which is 10' x 20'. Everything is furnished, but it costs $90 per month.

We are learning to skin dive and to sail a lightening (18') sailboat. We have a bomb crater out on the reef behind the house (big enough to put your house in) and it is always full of beautiful tropical fish when the tide goes out. We also see many beautiful fish when we go swimming in the lagoon. We can't eat them because too many are poison. They eat certain kinds of coral growth which may or may not be poisonous, depending upon the season.

We also have "killer clams" which sometimes weigh up to six or eight hundred pounds, but most only weigh three hundred pounds. This lagoon is the only place in the world where they grow.

Our school buildings are very poor and we have limited supplies, compared to Lazbuddie. Our working hours are shorter though (because of the heat). School is out at 3 p. m. and there is no bus to drive.

We do not have the energy here to do as much as we did there—almost everybody is in bed by 10 p. m. unless there is a party or something.

Carrell Family Attends Funeral

The Thomas Carrell family attended the funeral of Mr. Francis Lee Jackson at Dimmitt last Tuesday. Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Carrell are sisters. Mr. Jackson was 29 years of age. He is survived by his wife, Twila Ruth and three children, Jimmy Eugene, 3 months; Marsha, four years; and Kimber, age seven.

Clifford Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. Oland Kirby and two children, Debbie and Jan, and Mr. and Mrs. Hulon A. Kirby and daughter, Sharon Kay, all from Palo Alto, Calif., brothers of Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Carrell, were here for the funeral and remained here for a few days to visit with relatives.

Weekend guests in the T. W. Bewley home were H. C. Rooker from Dale, Okla., and John Robinett from Shawnee, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Elliott and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Elliott and family, Carol Scott and Buzzy Allen visited the Carlsbad Caverns on Saturday. Monday, Buzzy Allen was taken to Clovis to return to his home at Firebaugh, Calif. He had been here visiting relatives for the past few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Finis Whitten from Los Alamos are visiting this week in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Glaze. While here, the Whittens are also attending a state Baptist convention that is being held in Clovis.

Visit Splawns

Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Splawn were Mr. and Mrs. Woodie Splawn from Whiteface; Mrs. Glen Splawn, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Splawn and children, Arthur, Kenneth and Pam, and Benny Splawn, all from Muleshoe; Mrs. Bill Collins from Clovis; and Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Brown and girls, Sandy, Judy and Jody.

Mrs. Mike Pavalus and son Mikie from Friona spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. James H. Jennings and family.

J. R. Jackson from Olney recently spent a week here visiting in the home of his daughter and family, the J. D. Carpenters. Mrs. Carpenter returned him to his home over the weekend and remained over for a few days visit.

J. W. Gammon, Pete White and Aaron White were in Delores, Colo., last week deer hunting. Mrs. J. W. Gammon and girls, Sarah and Cindy, visited her mother, Mrs. G. W. Harwood in Canyon, while J. W. was gone.

Mrs. Frank Spitler, Mrs. Frank Donald Spitler and son, Greg, and Mrs. O. D. Spitler and girls, Darla and Denise, attended a pink and blue shower last Tuesday in Levelland, honoring Mrs. Dale Lavender.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brown from Slaton were Sunday visitors in the home of their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Brown and Sonya.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Haskins from Wolfforth attended the funeral of Mr. Brick Whitt in Muleshoe last week. Haskins was formerly superintendent of the school here.

Mrs. Barnes Leads WMU Program

W. M. U. of the Baptist Church met Monday afternoon at the church building for a program on royal service. Mrs. Wesley Barnes had charge of the program which was entitled, "An Open Door." Parts were presented by Mrs. Alton Morris, Mrs. Ira Wimberley, Mrs. E. A. Redwine, Mrs. Wesley Barnes, Mrs. F. W. Greene, Mrs. Raymond Houston and Mrs. Allen Grusendorf. Mrs. Weldon Slayton was also present.

Mr. and Mrs. Linley Hugg and children, Charles, Hoyt and Linda, from Amarillo visited Sunday in the home of his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Tice Hugg.

Mrs. Ed Engram accompanied her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. John White from Clovis, to Las Cruces to spend the weekend with another daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Williams and family.

FFA Float Wins Prize At Friona

Lazbuddie FFA boys and their teacher are to be complimented on the attractive float they entered in the Friona Maize Days last Friday. "New Products Through Student Research" was the theme of the float. A first prize was awarded this float in the school division on originality.

The float was made up of a mock chemistry work table where the boys were working and then showing the new products that can be produced from maize through this research. Some of the products shown were syrup, flour, and starch. On the back of the float was a huge triangle to represent the mountain of surplus maize. In this triangle were the letters "F. F. A." made of maize heads colored silver with the surrounding heads copper-colored.

* * * *

The school won a second prize on the window display that was made in the Ethridge-Spring insurance agency. This was an arrangement of silver-colored maize heads and open cotton bolls and surrounded by plumes of Pampas grass. The floor in front of the wall decoration was covered with black and orange, the school colors, and some of the agricultural exhibits from the school fair were on display. It also showed 10 large heads of maize representing 6,500 pounds of maize to the acre, showing a net income of $17, while on the other hand, 10 ordinary heads of maize with a yield of 3,500 showed a loss of 90 cents per acre, thus proving the necessity of good management.

There will be a football game here at home this Friday night with Happy and it will be a conference game.

Has 80th Birthday

Mrs. Ella Warner was honored with a birthday dinner in her home on Sunday, marking her 80th year. Helping Mrs. Warner to celebrate were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Amerson and Mr. and Mrs. Orby Jarmon and Gene Paul, all from Muleshoe; Mr. and Mrs. "Chick" Otwell from Springdale, Ark.; and Mrs. Lorene Wilson and Leon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Light from Olton were weekend guests in the Bob Kimbrough home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lancaster visited Thursday in Olton with her sisters and families, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gray.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Robinson from Muleshoe were Monday guests in the Bill Lancaster home.

The Lazbuddie School has not been hard hit as yet with the flu, but there are very few families in the community that have not had at least one in the family who has been sick with it, and in some cases the whole families have been ill. With that and the rains, the community has been pretty well hobbled.

Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Weir visited last Wednesday at Wilson with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Traweek. The Traweeks are former residents of this community. Traweek has been ill for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ches Horsley and family from Snyder spent Saturday night in the home of his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Horsley.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE, ON WAY OUT

Drab, forbidding orphanages where abandoned children used to be sent, may soon be a thing of the past. A United Nations study on institutional care of children deprived of normal family life has pointed the practical way to achieve the best environment for them.

Adoption or permanent foster home placement is considered best. If that is impossible, the institution should be made up of small, family-like units in cottages with houseparents.

Cold cream can be made by melting 4 ounces of white wax in one pound of almond oil and mixing with a pint of rosewater.

Thespian News

By Luellen McLean

Thespian Troupe 1379 of Friona High School, which has been one of the most active clubs in years past, has kept up its standards by being one of the busiest of this year.

At the first of the year, new officers were elected and installed at an informal backyard barbecue at Joy Crow's house. The new officers elected were Jerry Hinkle, president; Pat Cranfill, vice-president; Margaret Mabry, secretary; Billie Rae McKee, treasurer; Gerald Daniel, reporter-scribe; and Ted Sanders, sergeant at arms.

The major activity of the club is the Thespian play. The date for this year's play is November 14 and will be presented on that night barring complications. The play has not been selected yet, but several meetings have been held to read and consider prospective plays.

One of these meetings was held at Gene Ledbetter's house. He is the speech teacher and Thespian sponsor. The other was held at Monty Baker's home.

The most exciting thing that has happened this year was the attendance at a play at Lubbock, "The Rivalry." This play starred Agnes Moorehead and Raymond Massey and depicted the Lincoln-Douglas debates before the Civil War.

Six girls, Jan Edelmon, Luellen McLean, Janiece Bock, Pat Cranfill, Junita Schwabb, and Catherine Chang, along with the sponsor, attended this play.

After the play, these students were lucky enough to collect autographs and Jan Edelmon, at the request of the photographer, had her picture made with the stars.

The Life-Giving Word

"Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorrupible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever"—(I Peter 1:23).

The best evidence of the divine inspiration of the Bible is the Word itself, and the above test of the life-giving Word is an outstanding example. As in natural propagation, life only can produce life, so spiritual life must be and is produced by the "seed," the word of God—(Luke 8:11; I Peter 1:23). In it God has planted the germ of spiritual life.

Perhaps it is not so simple after all, for, as scientists have never been able to see the germ of life in a kernel of grain, so no man is wise enough to discern how God puts into His Word, His spirit and life, true as we know this to be—(John 6:63). Romans 1:16 declares the gospel of Christ to be the power of God to save. No wonder of earth is more profound than that of a wicked man converted to Christianity by the word of God, which by faith he has received into his heart. Once worldly and evil, he is now holy in life, charitable in heart and his life is a benediction in his community.

THE SINNER MUST OBEY THE FOLLOWING COMMANDMENTS OF GOD'S LIFE-GIVING WORD IN ORDER TO BE SAVED FROM HIS PAST SINS AND BECOME A CHILD OF GOD: BELIEVE—Mk. 16:16; John 8:24; Hebrews 11:6; REPENT—Luke 13:3; Acts 2:38; 3:19; CONFESS CHRIST—Matthew 10:32; Romans 10:9-10; Acts 8:37; BE BAPTIZED—Mark 16:16; Acts 2:38; 22:16; Romans 6:3-4; I Peter 3:21. THE LORD NOT ONLY SAVES THE PERSON FROM HIS PAST SINS WHO OBEYS THE ABOVE COMMANDS FROM THE HEART, BUT ALSO ADDS HIM TO HIS CHURCH—Acts 2:47.

NEWS FROM

BLACK

MRS. DICK ROCKEY

With Maize Days over, I think everyone from Black took in one or more days of celebration. We didn't place in the queen contest but would like to say congratulations to Betty Agee who reigned as the Maize Days queen. We did place first on our float and third on the window, so feel quite lucky.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Dunn and Cris from Rocky, Okla., spent a few days last week in the home of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elmore.

Mrs. T. J. Presley had a birthday dinner Sunday in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Woodrow Whitaker. Those to help her to celebrate were Woodrow and Dwight and Mr. and Mrs. Presley.

Mrs. Ellis Tatum, Mrs. J. R. Braxton, Mrs. Dick Rockey, Mrs. Ralph Price, Jeffery Price and Lavohn Dean all enjoyed Mexican food at Clovis Thursday. In the afternoon the group all went shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Prewett and Ann attended the ball game at Lubbock Saturday between Baylor and Tech and visited their son, Graham, who is a freshman student there.

Judy Barnett was admitted to the Deaf Smith Hospital Saturday with a bad cold and sore throat. She is getting along fine and will be home in a few days if she continues to improve.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Pat Deaton on the birth of a son last week. Mrs. Deaton will be remembered as the former Phillis Allman. The proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Deaton.

Mrs. Beatrice Brady from Clinton, Okla., arrived Sunday for a visit in the home of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Presley.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Braxton and sons, Jimmie and Ray Gene, visited in Mrs. Braxton's parents home Sunday, the P. O. Southalls.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Rockey and Mrs. Neil Rockey of Muleshoe spent Sunday at Levelland visiting with Mr. Rockey's sisters and families, the John Keys and Dale Reids. There was also present another sister and family of Farmington, N. M., the Homer McDonalds, and also W. G. Rockey from Lubbock.

The Black 4-H Club had a slumber party Saturday night at the community house. The girls had a wonderful night. From what we hear they didn't close an eye all night. Those present to enjoy the night were Jimmie Lou Wainscott, Mrs. Ellis Tatum, Mrs. Ralph Price and Mrs. Giles Cobb, Marie Roberson, Andrea Milligan, Iva Ben Parr, Rose Ann Greeson, Sharon Dean, Brenda Deaton and Thelma Faith.

We were disappointed in seeing so many paper napkins and trash turned loose in and around Friona.

We, here at Black, are very conscious of trash blowing around, since being in the Rural Neighborhood Progress contests the past two years.

Black's float was dismantled right after the parade. The wire and Kleenex were rolled up and taken to the junk yard.

POINT OF VIEW

To be happy with a man, you must love him a little and understand him a lot; to be happy with a woman, you must love her a lot and try not to understand her at all.

Drunk Fined

B. R. Stedham represented the only arrest made by Parmer County law officers over the past weekend. He was picked up by Deputy Jim Roberts in Bovina Friday night and was charged with drunkenness. He was fined $26.55 in J. R. Thornton's justice of peace court Monday.

First coeducational college in the U. S. was Oberlin College founded in 1833 in Ohio.

It is estimated that the U. S. population annually consumes 12 pounds of coffee per capita.

Maize Days Makes Hit

noon contest included Delmar Shirley, first; Bud Queen of Bovina, second; and Leon Hawkins of Illinois, third.

Betty Agee of Friona was selected queen of Friona Maize Days in the pageant Friday night. Chosen for second place was Kay Hartzog of Bovina, and Nancy Outland of Friona was chosen third among the queen candidates.

Contest winners in the races for kids included Harry Goetz, who won the sack race; Billy Don Thomas, who carried an egg to first place in the 10-14 ages egg race; and Ruben Ramos, who was the only entrant who didn't drop the egg before breaking the string in the 8-10 ages egg race.

A team composed of Dwight O'Brian and Tommy Tatum took first prize in the three-legged race for ages 10-14.

In the ages 8-10 three-legged race, Darreil Anthony and Richard Biggers crossed the line first.

Winners as the best pie eaters, for ages 10-14 and 8-10 respectively, were Phillip Varner and Larry Hollis.

In ladies left-handed-nail-driving contest, Mrs. Betty Renner was the first to drive the three assigned nails into a board.

Johnny Mars, succeeding over four other contestants in the men's needle threading and button sewing contest, took first in the contest for his knack of the art.

CRACKERS—

Other states (including New Mexico, which by Texas standards is dirt poor), are running rings around us with their school systems. Their system is one of the best in the nation, thanks to a sensible tax system, and the Indian who fathers 13 children for the community to educate pays just as much proportionately, as the bachelor who has accumulated a fortune in oil property.

Placing a special tax on Texas beer or cigarettes or natural gas or sulphur or something else will only add to the tremendous inequality of taxes that already is giving the state a black eye.

Taxpayers had better think this over the next time they rise to shout "Never!" when someone suggests a sales tax to finance our skyrocketing school needs.

The Lazbuddie school board favors such a tax, and has recommended it in writing. So has the Parmer County Farm Bureau. It's got to come.

* * * *

"Boy, we need to do something to get some more of that Lazbuddie community trading here." That's an oft-repeated remark among local businessmen.

It is a curious fact that Friona, Bovina, Farwell, and Muleshoe all claim Lazbuddie as being in their "trade territory" but actually, we wonder just who does get most of the trade from that part of the county.

More than likely, Muleshoe gets the biggest end of the business. The Bailey County merchants have a pretty well developed retail area and they have a geographic advantage to other communities, although not much of one in this day of fast travel.

Lazbuddie is a big, open farming community whose boundaries are pretty hard to define with accuracy. Some of those who regard themselves as Lazbuddians are outside of the Lazbuddie school district. Some go to Muleshoe, some to Friona, and a few to either Farwell or Bovina.

Some Lazbuddians get their mail from Friona, some get it from Muleshoe, and a few get it from a Bovina route. We think the route from Farwell comes to the Lazbuddie community door, too.

It's a hard thing to start to analyze, because generally speaking, people have a natural incentive to do their trading where their kids go to school, where they attend church, and where they get their mail. That's human nature.

Small wonder that merchants long for Lazbuddie business. Their area has good land, shallow irrigation water, and a healthy cotton allotment. They have been developed for a long time and don't have as big a farm debt as is average around here.

These are a few of the reasons why the Star tries very hard to have regular news space reserved for Lazbuddie each week. We are trying to build interest and circulation in that area.

* * * *

By now you've gotten your annual shipment of tax statements. There sure are a bunch of them, aren't there?

Although paying taxes is never a pleasant chore, it's a necessary part of the American way of life. We sometimes make it plain that we think this part of our American life is overdone considerably, but we never deny the need for taxes.

This is especially true in the case of local taxes, which go to build our school, our cities, and to pay for things our county needs. Of course it would not be possible to have only local taxes, but in reality, those are the only ones where the taxpayer can actually exercise any intelligent control.

The money that is paid in taxes to build Friona is spent so close to home that it is no problem for any taxpayer who is interested to see where every penny of it goes.

The Friona city and school district taxpayer can easily investigate to his own satisfaction every expenditure made, and incidentally, we believe that if he is a forward-looking individual, he will be convinced that local taxes are well worth it.

It is possible, of course, to get local taxes to such a high level that new businesses and new residents are discouraged from locating here.

However, there are numerous good examples here on the Plains that show without qualification that the average person's preference is to live in a city where taxes are levied and collected for necessary purposes.

While the average person deplores extravagance in public spending, who is there who would say that the city sewer system, the water system, the fire department, the school buildings, the paved streets are not worth what it cost to acquire them, and what it costs to maintain and operate them?

It is a common practice for sharp-minded salesmen to approach businessmen, with the "You're paying for this whether you have it or not" sales pitch. It's effective because it's true.

Friona would be paying for a sewer system if they didn't have it simply because of the loss of payroll and individual buying power from people who are here today who would not have come if Friona was such a backward town it decided it couldn't "afford" a sewer system.

Property owners would be paying for a good water system and an efficient and well-equipped fire department whether the city had one or not, through insurance premiums.

The next time you blow off about taxes, think about these things a little bit. Cuss the federal taxes if you want to, but think twice about local assessments.

Low Temperatures, More Wet Weather Puts ? on Crops

More wet weather—plenty of it—has put a big question mark over crops of the High Plains during the past week. The soggy days returned last Thursday, and soupy weather closed in for almost six straight days before breaking temporarily Tuesday afternoon of this week.

Coming with the dreary days were low-hanging clouds that produced an almost continual mist. Rain fell, too, although gently, and most points got their second round of showers in as many weeks. During the period, rainfall measured up to and slightly over one inch generally.

Farmers, already edgy with late crops, weren't happy over the weather that was no good for anything but wheat and ducks. They are exceedingly anxious to proceed with their often-interrupted harvest. Millions of dollars of grain sorghum is standing in the field, awaiting reaping.

Other millions are at stake in the cotton crop, which could be a good one or a very poor one, just depending on what the weather does in the next few weeks.

County Agent Joe Jones reports that the rain is damaging cotton some. "But it's too early to tell just how much we're being hurt, and it will depend on how the weather turns out," he says.

Cotton that is open is staying too wet to pull, and the moisture is believed to be hurting grade some, as reports of staining have been heard. Also, the rain and fog is keeping plants green and soppy, delaying late-season maturity, and yet the weather is too cool for the plants to go ahead with their normal boll-opening activity.

No frosts have been reported, and for this cotton farmers are glad. Some of the fields are beginning to pass the crucial stage where a freeze would be very damaging, but still, the bulk of the crop needs warm, dry, sunny weather worse than anything else.

* * * *

Grain sorghum producers are complaining about the rain primarily because of the fear that a sudden freeze might send portions of the crop to the ground. A freeze that would kill the plant and weaken the stalk might easily let the big heads fall over and be impossible to recover with a combine.

This is especially true in the case of this type of weather where icing and high moisture content would add weight to what the stalk has to bear already, and also because sudden squally winds might increase the threat of falling.

Then too, prolonged wet weather always brings with it the threat of pre-germination—sprouting of the grain in the head. That would really be hard for farmers to take. However, the coolness of the weather may preclude this eventuality.

Wet heads are usually more susceptible to diseases, also, and farmers recall 1955 when serious infestation of a fungus-type disease affected the yields of late-season feed. The fungus was especially troublesome in the "green head" varieties that mature later and carry a high moisture content. Light grain was the result of this trouble.

One other worry of continuing rain at this stage is that of causing discoloration to the grain itself. Color is one determinant of the grade of the grain and is reflected in the price it brings on the market.

* * * *

All the news is not bad, though. Farmers having sowed wheat are excited about early prospects for this crop. Fall-planted wheat is getting its best start in years on the High Plains, and the crop looks as if it knows it.

Prospects for much early-season pasture are good, and are already showing up in the price of calves and yearlings that will be due to hit the range within coming weeks.

Most farmers believe that grazing wheat down when it goes off as fast as it has this year is almost necessary to protect against a serious freeze that might turn rank wheat back in the late winter or early spring.

Dryland wheat for the first time since 1949 is looking the equal of wheat that has been either pre-irrigated or watered up, producers declare.

Hartzog Attends Meeting

Directors of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association held their meeting this week in Amarillo. Seventeen directors and committeemen were present from 12 of the 17 counties in Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico.

R. G. Peeler, Hereford, President, and Frank Moore, Plainview, legislative representative, reported to the board on the recent commodity group meetings in Washington which they attended. Peeler indicated that another conference of the commodity groups would be held in Omaha in November.

The Association is supporting a "Surplus Reduction Farm Plan" which in general calls for a uniform level of support for all commodities; government programs for all commodities to have a uniform expiration date; and, a percentage of cultivated acres to be retired from production.

Bill Nelson, executive vice-president, indicated that farmer interest in a series of county organizational meetings had been very encouraging with 250 attending in one county, and the average attendance being near 75. One-hundred-two local grain elevator operators are cooperating with the grain producers by deducting two pounds per thousand from farmer deliveries and depositing it to the Association in support of a program of research, legislation, and market development.

Arlin Hartzog of Parmer County attended.

NEWS FROM THE

FARM BUREAU

By RAYMOND EULER

Those in charge of the Farm Bureau parade float for Maize Days wish to express their appreciation to Jonnie Hand for her willingness to substitute for Wilma Norton as Farm Bureau queen. Miss Norton and her entire family were down with the flu. Miss Hand, second place winner in the queen contest, represented Farm Bureau in the parade, and promptly came down with the flu that night. We hope both of these girls are feeling better by now.

* * * *

A recent publication in a nearby weekly paper quoted some farmers who had visited Washington as commending some of our legislators for having allowed 80 per cent loan value on farm commodities that must be temporarily stored in the open because of shortage of storage space approved by USDA.

The fact of the matter is that Texas Farm Bureau requested and got approval for open storage at a critical time four or five years ago when some elevator operators would buy, but would not store, commodities during harvest periods.

The provision, obtained by TFB President Walter Hammond, directly through then-President Harry Truman within a twenty-four-hour period, in many cases opened storage facilities to the farmer. It has since, by Farm Bureau resolution, been requested and obtained each harvest season.

* * * *

Beginning November 1, $1 will be charged non-Farm Bureau members for handling farm-used tractor gas refund papers. It has been 50 cents for non-members heretofore, and will continue to be 10 cents for members, which amount covers actual postal costs for the service. This filing and notification service is one of the most exacting operations of the office, and requires a complete review of the files at least every 15 days, to determine whether you have responded to your first notice.

We believe the new charge is very nominal, considering the time and relative expense of rendering the service. The charge will be made whether the papers are executed in the office or not, as there is no charge for the notary service.

Consider this: He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer shall be abomination." Proverbs 28:9.

Expect Large Yields

Larger yields than had been expected are believed to be in store for most grain sorghum growers this year. High Plains Farm and Home reports this as the opinion that seems to be showing up in the few, scattered, early reports of harvest.

Wet weather has stopped the harvest cold in its tracks, but on the sidewalks and in the coffee shops there is considerable talk that indicates farmers who have checked their early cuttings are surprised and encouraged with the yields.

More poor weather could change the picture drastically (see story on rain), but so far, it looks as if the Parmer County area will set a new record this year in per-acre average yield.

Better farming, more favorable weather through the growing season, and hybrids are primarily responsible.

County 4-H Party To Be At Hub

The Hub community building will be the scene of a county-wide 4-H Club party on Saturday evening, October 26, starting at 7:30.

All 4-H Club members in the county who are 12 years of age and over and their parents are invited. Each member may also invite a guest to the party.

Each girl is asked to bring three sandwiches for the refreshments and each boy is asked to bring 20 cents to help pay for pops.

Work "breaks" are as important to farmers as city workers. They'll reduce possibility of accidents and improve work efficiency, says the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council.

THE

By W. H. GRAHAM JR.

While we haven't received anything of a documentary nature from the Water District office in Lubbock on the subject of deep-lying fresh water fields, the subject hasn't been idle in our minds.

Over the weekend we got a chance to visit a wildcat oil test on location, and although we were clumsy in drawing from our limited knowledge of oilfield jargon to intelligently converse with the drillers, we obtained what was to us at least some interesting information.

This test is 11 miles north of Silverton, at the foot of the Caprock country, and is in a canyon southwest of Palo Duro Park. The rig had drilled to a depth of about 6,000 feet and was testing for oil and gas when we arrived on the scene.

Understandably, the drillers were pretty vague about progress on their test in a zone they hoped would produce oil or gas or both, but they made no attempt to hold back anything they knew about the first few thousand feet down.

Actually, it was a surprise to us to know that they often pay little or no attention to what they drill through or into as they are going down. They don't really get interested until they get to the area in which they think a strike is possible.

In other words, it is completely possible for a crew to drill through a fresh water zone of considerable strength and not even be aware of it. The geologist in charge of the testing said cuttings of formations passed through were better indicators of whether water was present than anything else.

Upon questioning, he did recall passing through a fresh water strata "at about 3,300 feet," but because the men were interested in probing much deeper—they did not stop to check on the pressure, if any, of the strata.

The man said the water he checked was not highly mineralized as is much water from such depths and that he believed it would be entirely satisfactory for domestic or irrigation use should there be enough of it.

He also told us that he knows of one instance of a well near Wink where water from about the same depth was tapped in a well unsuited for oil production, and that the owner sold the water, which flowed artesian, to oilfield rigs and also used some for irrigation. With his hands, he indicated that the stream of water from this well was about six inches in diameter.

Now, don't jump at conclusions. We don't mean to reverse our opinion that very little water, if any, is available for practical development from such depths.

But, on the basis of this story we encountered, and on the basis of others going around, it wouldn't hurt to look into things a bit further before we write off as hogwash the theory of other reservoirs besides our prolific Ogallala.

A deferred grazing system with properly used supplemental pastures is essential for maximum range recovery, advises A. H. Walker, extension range specialist. Perennial grasses are slow to recover and heavy grazing can hurt more now than during the drouth periods, says the specialist. His advice . . . breed back into the livestock business instead of restocking by buying back. This method will give good range plants an opportunity to come back.

Mute evidence of what the weatherman's "soup" has done to farming this fall, at just the time when activity should be at its highest, is this silent combine. The water filled road leading into the turn-row and the heavy fog that shroud this picture are graphic reminders of why the combine isn't running. The picture was made on a farm atop Parmerton hill.

New Bulletin on Yeast Breads

Tasty homemade breads and rolls make any meal or snack a special occasion, and the art of bread making can be learned easily.

Extension foods and nutrition specialists take the mystery out of bread making in a colorful new bulletin entitled "Yeast Breads Made at Home."

Steps for mixing ingredients, kneading the dough, shaping loaves and rolls of many kinds are clearly outlined and pictured in the bulletin.

You'll find recipes for French bread, rye, whole wheat, cheese, yeast bread, in addition to the plain white yeast bread. Refrigerator rolls, buttermilk rolls, oatmeal yeast rolls, and many other tested recipes are featured. On the sweet side, there are special recipes for different kinds of coffee cake, fruit filled rolls of all kinds, kolaches, and yeast doughnuts.

Surprise your family with some of the delicious homemade breads or rolls. Ask for the new bulletin on "Yeast Breads" at your local county home demonstration agent's office.

Clothes Closet Crowded?

Do you have to cram all of your clothes into one small closet? If you do, perhaps a good fall closet cleaning with an eye toward a different arrangement will help solve your problem.

Extension home management specialists suggest starting at the top of the closet with hats. A square hat box uses the shelf space to better advantage than a round one. Find a box as large as the shelf will take so more than one hat can be tucked into it. Liberal use of tissue paper keeps the hats in good condition. If shelf room is limited, perhaps a second shelf can be added.

Lower down, the rod for hangers might be changed from a single one, the full width of the closet, to two shorter ones installed from back to front. This arrangement adds space and convenience especially in shallow and wide closets.

On your rod or rods, hang garments by sections according to lengths—blouses to the back or end, then suits and skirts and lastly, dresses. Under the short pieces you will have storage room for boxes of out-of-season garments.

If your closet still is too stuffed, take a good look at your wardrobe. A garment you haven't worn in months probably isn't so valuable to you as the closet room.

Good closet accessories will help keep your wardrobe in good condition. You can make your own shoe bags, hat boxes, glove boxes and dress covers. Directions are given in a new extension bulletin, "FACTS ABOUT CLOTHING CARE." Copies are available from your county home demonstration agent's office.

In Korea, experience has shown that resettled refugees who receive CARE self-help tools and machines increase their earnings by 39 percent.

Bacon Burgers

1 lb. ground beef
1 cup bread crumbs
1 egg, beaten
1/3 cup catsup
1 cup grated cheese

2 tablespoons minced onion
¼ cup lemon juice
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
12 slices bacon

A new item, which will soon be on the market in most variety and hardware stores, is an ironing caddy. Every homemaker should have one or more. They can be used for hanging freshly ironed clothes or for drying garments made from drip dry fabrics. These caddies are made of lightweight aluminum and fold for storing.

There is space for 20 garments on each caddy. Besides being used as aids in the laundry, they can be used when you have guests as a clothes valet. The nationally advertised selling price will be about $3.

For creamy fudge for Christmas gifts for service men or women, children attending school, or family eating, try this recipe. It is foolproof. There is no cooking to a hard crack or soft boil stage, or any other "loophole" whereby it might not turn out just right.

Place ¼ pound oleo, 4 cups of sugar, and one tall can evaporated milk in heavy saucepan. Bring to boil, then cook nine minutes. Turn out fire and stir in one pint marshmallow cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla, and one 12 oz. package chocolate chips.

Stir until the marshmallow cream and chocolate chips have completely dissolved and pour into buttered dish. Place in refrigerator and cut into desired size pieces before it has completely hardened. Nuts may be added with the chips, cream, and flavoring.

A picture in a recent issue of a Household magazine showed a pretty doorway greeting fashioned around two ears of corn. Why do we limit our doorway greetings to the Christmas season? The recent Maize Days celebration in Friona was an example of what can be done with locally grown products.

Why not take a little time, imagination, and ingenuity and fashion your own doorway greeting? Some of the things which can be used for beautiful fall arrangements are cotton burrs, maize heads, stalks of soy beans, of guar, okra pods, and weed seed pods of different kinds.

These can be used in their natural color or can be sprayed with color paint. Cockleburs would probably make pretty additions, too. Then there are all different kinds and colors of leaves. There is really no need for your greeting to be a carbon copy of any other.

Did any of you homemakers, who are farmers' wives, take time to study the displays in the window of Hurst's Department Store and Bi-Wize Drug in Friona over the weekend? There was a wonderful opportunity for you to learn how your husband can tell when driving by a field of maize what variety it is.

A careful observation of the size, shape, and growth characteristics of the heads clearly indicated which variety each of the group of heads was.

The Bi-Wize window display was a short course in the production of hybrid maize seed. A little time spent in studying these two displays would have cleared up a lot of the "fog" most of us go through when the men start talking about the different varieties of maize being grown locally.

INSURE THEIR FUTURE IN THE TRAVELERS

Maid Of Cotton Entries Sought

Wanted: A maid of cotton.

For the eighth consecutive year, the South Plains Maid of Cotton committee, in cooperation with the National Cotton Council, is conducting a search for a young lady who likes to travel, meet people, and to win friends at home and abroad for the Americon cotton industry.

George Brassell, Jr., chairman of the 1958 South Plains Maid of Cotton committee, in announcing the opening of this year's contest, stated, "This is by no means a beauty contest. The Maid of Cotton, as a representative of the 13 million people in the American cotton industry, has a tremendously important public relations job to do, and is chosen on the basis of poise, personality and background, as well as appearance."

Among the qualifications required of an applicant for South Plains Maid of Cotton, she must be between the ages of 19 and 25; at least 5 feet 6 inches tall; never have been married; not wear glasses, and have been born in a cotton-producing state.

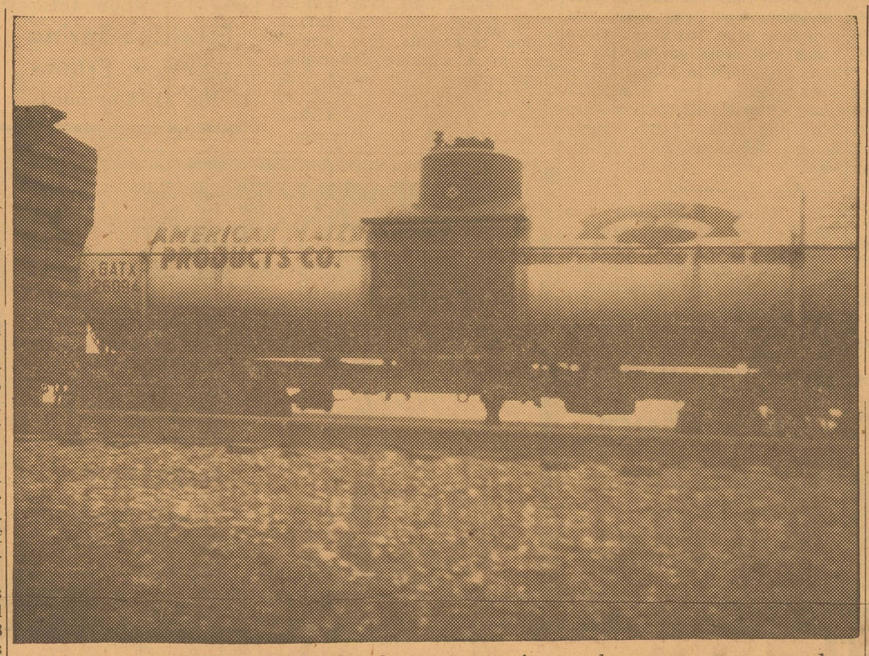
In addition, the South Plains Maid of Cotton must have a home residence in one of the following South Plains Counties: Bailey, Borden, Briscoe, Castro, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Deaf Smith, Dickens, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Howard, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley, Parmer, Swisher, Terry, and Yoakum.

Applications together with photograph, must be submitted to the South Plains Maid of Cotton committee, P. O. Box 561, Lubbock, not later than 12:00 noon, Monday, November 11, 1957. Official entry blank may be obtained at the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, 902 Texas Avenue or through directors of Plains Cotton Growers Association.

This year the South Plains Maid of Cotton contest will cover two days, November 18 and 19, 1957. The South Plains contestants will take part in a program which will include coffees, luncheons, a parade, the Cotton Ball at the Lubbock Country Club on Monday, November 18, and the glittering finals on Tuesday evening, November 19, at the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

The young lady selected as the South Plains Maid of Cotton becomes an automatic finalist in the National Maid of Cotton contest in Memphis on January 2 and 3. She will be presented a $1,000 cotton wardrobe and receive an all-expense-paid trip to Memphis for herself and the chaperon of her choice.

The winner of the national contest will be flown to New York City for a month's stay in preparation for her role as fashion and good will envoy for the cotton industry. She will receive good-grooming and modeling tips from experts in these fields and again be completely outfitted with an all-cotton wardrobe. This wardrobe will include some 40 garments created expressly for her by leading American designers.



Where'd it come from? That's what area grain sorghum growers wonder about this and other tank cars that occasionally pass through as part of Santa Fe trains. "American Maize Products Company" reads the label on the car, but High Plains Farm & Home hasn't found anyone who has ever heard of the company, or where they are, or what products they manufacture.

Irrigation Meet Set At Lubbock

An irrigation conference of interest to farmers, agricultural leaders and the irrigation equipment industry has been scheduled November 14-15 at the Lubbock Hotel in Lubbock.

This conference is being sponsored by the newly-formed Texas Inter-industry Irrigation Council and irrigation specialists from throughout the nation will be on the program.

Jack Z. Anderson, administrative assistant to President Eisenhower, will highlight the conference. He will talk on "Irrigation Farming—a Key to Better Living."

Dr. E. N. Jones, president of Texas Tech; Dr. W. N. Williamson, assistant director, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, College Station; and C. I. Wall, president of Pioneer Natural Gas Co., Amarillo; will preside over the conference sessions.

Other noted authorities on irrigation included on the program will be Guy Woodward, educational director of the Sprinkler Irrigation Association, Salt Lake City; Dr. Ivan D. Wood, irrigation consultant Denver; Dr. Moyle Williams, chief agricultural economist, National Plant Food Institute, Washington; E. V. Dignan, vice president of the U. S. National Bank in Denver; Dr. T. R. Timm, head of department of agricultural economics and sociology, Texas A&M College; Dr. Robert Hagan, chairman, department of irrigation, University of California; Dr. Marlowe Thorne, head of agronomy department, Oklahoma State University; J. W. Pruitt, irrigation farmer, Inverness, Miss.; and other officials from leading irrigation equipment companies.

Farm Program Hi-Lights—Wool

Sheep raisers who have marketed wool or unshorn lambs during the 1957 marketing year may make application for an incentive payment due them under the National Wool Act by bringing their sales receipts to the ASC office.

1957-CCC Loans

Grain producers are reminded that landlords and other lien holders are required by law to release all liens before a CCC Loan can be approved in the local ASC office. Lien waiver forms are available at the elevators in the county and the ASC office for the convenience of the farmers, that they may pick up and have signed by the lien holders to save delay in processing the loan after they have received the warehouse receipt.

Large Supplies of Grain

It is estimated that about 418 million bushels of grain sorghum will be harvested this year. This is more than double last year's crop and is 72 per cent more than the record crop of 1955. The production of corn is average. The oat crop is 20 per cent larger than last year, and the barley crop is 17 per cent larger than last year. As a result, we can expect lower feed prices during the feeding year of 1957-58.

Leaflet Available On White-Seeded Sorghum Hybrid

A white-seeded sorghum hybrid, showing a favorable performance when compared with the other hybrids, has been developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the USDA. Seed will be available in limited quantity for the 1958 crop.

This new hybrid, RS 630, is the first white-seeded hybrid released by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. In 25 tests in nine states, it yielded 67 bushels per acre—higher than any of the other hybrids tested. It is a medium-early grain sorghum hybrid that matures in 90 to 100 days after planting. The head is well above the upper leaf and dries readily, thereby permitting harvesting soon after the grain is mature.

A recently released leaflet, L-362, gives detailed information on this new hybrid. It contains sections on parentage, yield record, production of certified seed and gives a complete description. This leaflet may be obtained from the agricultural information office, College Station, Texas.

One of those "Adult Only" shows came to town recently. Some of our leading citizens condemned it, but went anyway to see how bad it was, then complained because the naughty parts were cut out.

The girl down to the new dress shoppe was showing Widow Barnes a dress she said was perfect for "after 5." Miz' Barnes allowed as how at her age all she needs after 5 is a nightgown.

When Ez Tike was fired over at the pottery works, Bill Clem applied for the vacancy. Clancy the foreman told him "Ez didn't leave no vacancy."

Corn Risks Rise

Corn growers, who have the cussedly dry and hot summers of the High Plains, in addition to ear worms and corn borers to worry about, are getting more grief from nature this week.

Their crop, although it's a good one, likes a lot of being in the bag. Over 75 percent of it is standing out in the field getting drenched, and until a dry spell comes, there's no way of getting it out.

The moisture isn't expected to damage the grain to amount to anything, but the tall stalks could easily be toppled in the present condition, and farmers are understandably impatient to get their pullers in operation. Yields are believed to be promising—but no one really knows, yet.
