Hymenial.

With only a few nearest relatives and friends to witness, a pretty wedding was solemnized Tuesday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Hodges, when their daughter, Miss Marie, was wedded to Mr. Homer Livingston.

At 10 o'clock the bridal party marched from the adjoining room into the beautiful parlor and took their places just before the divan in a cozy nook formed by a large bay window, and Rev. S. L. Batchelor performed the wedding ceremony.

The bride wore a lovely gown of Crepe de Chine and Baby Irish lace over cream silk.

The groom is a splendid young gentleman, of San Angelo, but formerly made Junction his home for many years and has many friends here.

The bride is one of Junction's most charming young ladies, loved and esteemed by all who know her because of her charming social attainments and sweet, sunny disposition, and the groom has well chosen one of the choicest flowers from the fragrant meadows of love's Eden.

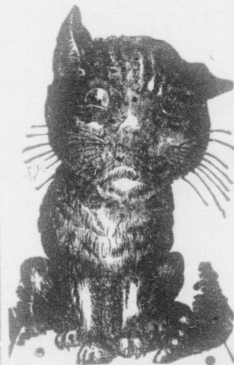

After receiving congratulations the young couple left immediately in the Livingston car to spend a few weeks at San Angelo and other points, after which they will return and make their home in Junction.

PROOF IS STRONGER AGAINST LIEUT. BECKER

District Attorney's Informants Say Plan to Kill Rosenthal on Night of July 6 Had Been Made, But Falls Through From Lack of Nerve.

New York, Aug. 8.—Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, head of the "strong arm" squad of gambling raiders who is charged with instigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal, was tonight further implicated in the plot to get rid of the gambler when Bald Jack Rose, an ex-convict, added another chapter to their already amazing allegations.

They told District Attorney Whitman that Rosenthal was to have been killed at the instigation of Becker ten days before he actually met his fate, and that the plot failed because the underworld thugs selected to do the murder lost their nerve at the last moment.

The district attorney spent the greater part of this afternoon with Rose and Becker in their cells at the West Side police station, and under the promise of leniency which the prosecutor has given them, they talked freely. They gave little additional information regarding the $2,400,000 fund which they alleged Becker had secured for police protection in the city every year, but their story of the alleged anxiety of Lieutenant Becker because of the gambler Rosenthal's threatened exposure was amplified in the district attorney, and in the prosecutor's opinion, he strengthened his evidence against Becker.

To Be Killed at Table. The plot that failed was to have been brought to its climax at the garden restaurant on Fifty-first street on Saturday night, July 6, when Rosenthal and his wife were dining there, according to the account of Rose. Two of the hired assassins were Gyp the Blood and Lefty Lewis, who are wanted for the police as two of the men who actually shot Rosenthal ten days later in front of the Hotel Metropole.

Becker at the time was demanding Rose to be commiserated. "Becker had talked with me over day. He kept saying to me, 'Why don't you kill this fellow for me?' Rosenthal would have been killed off that night if the bunch had not lost their nerve. They got the notion after they reached the restaurant that a detective was on to them. After giving up the assassination we went to Bridgie Weidner's place and there we met Becker. He discussed it all up and down. You are all a lot of cowards," he said. "I'll have to do it myself."

Rosenthal, it was recalled by the district attorney when he heard the story, had but a few days before this made his first complaint against Becker, charging that the police lieutenant was his partner in his gambling house.

Although Becker, still in the Tombs, has thus far refused to make any statement other than that he is innocent and that his plight is the result of a frame-up on the part of his enemies in the gambling fraternity, Rose, president of the district attorney today that the police lieutenant eventually would break down.

Not May Get Big Fish. The district attorney's personal conviction is that Becker would talk frankly if his evidence would open the door to the large share of Rosenthal's case, namely, the general extent of the police system, in which Rose has declared several high police officials are involved. So far Mr. Whitman has obtained little real evidence against the men mentioned by Rose as leaders of the four graft bureaus, through which Rose alleged that about $400,000 each was collected as vice protection money and distributed.

The district attorney is not relying solely upon Rose's story. He expects to call before the grand jury scores of witnesses who may have knowledge of graft relations between the gamblers and police.

TO SCREEN ANKLES OF CHOIR GIRLS

Deacon Convinces Ladies' Aid Society That Hobbie Skirts and Silk Hose Make Action Necessary.

DES MOINES, Iowa.—Young women singers, those with tight hobbie skirts, drop stitch, silk hose, and low shoes, and who sit in the choir loft of the Forest Avenue Baptist church, are to be screened from the vulgar stare of the male portion of the congregation.

"Because of the shortness and tightness of the hobbie skirts worn by the young women today and the display of hosiery which is evident in the choir loft, I move that a twenty-inch curtain be hung from a brass rod around the choir loft," said Mrs. George F. Reinking, president, at the latest meeting of the church ladies' aid society.

The motion was carried unanimously. A deacon, venerated for his years and his piety, was directly responsible for the action taken by the church women. Realizing that those seated at favorable angles in the church auditorium were given a spectacle more like that of a tony chorus, in a comic opera than a prim young women's church choir, the deacon took a committee of women to various vantage spots and significantly pointed out the space between the base rail of the choir loft and the seats of the choir. They took one look and were convinced of the necessity of immediate action.

"EIGHT-YEAR-OLD" BECOMES HORSETHIEF

Pennsylvania Lad Doesn't Stop to Consider Who Owns the Horses If He Wants to Use Them—Under Arrest for Second Time, and This Time He Is Locked Up in Prison.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 8.—"Bertie" Lovelle, aged 8 years, the champion horse thief of these times, whom police have recently named "Bertie, the Angel Child," jumped into the spotlight again this week by stealing two horses and driving away after he had succeeded in outwitting the probation officers and escaping from the scrutiny of his parents in McKeesport. Last week he stole two horses in this city and also made his temporary escape from the probation officers in Juvenile court while waiting for his case to be heard before Judge Carnahan.

The eight-year-old boy, who was arrested by the police on Fifth avenue, He drove into the town town district and saw the horse and buggy to another boy. The police have not yet learned whether Becker has remained his property. After enjoying himself for the greater part of the day "Bertie" decided he would not return home. He was still shy of the necessary car fare and so appropriated a horse and delivery wagon owned by J. H. Henner, a dealer of Oak Wylie Ave., and driven by Charles Merchant colored. The latter was delivering groceries in Watson street and when he returned found his horse and wagon gone and disappearing in a cloud of dust out Forbes street.

Give Chase to Young Thief. Merchant induced a passing auto to give chase and captured Bertie and the stolen outfit at Forbes and 61st streets. "Bertie" was applying the lash vigorously to the horse and only halted when he was yanked off the seat and turned over to Police Lieutenant William Cowles. He was locked in Central station, where he charged his horse, which is now being kept in a stable. When asked who he had stolen two horses in one day he said: "Well, I was at home and wanted to take a ride into town and I didn't have any fare, so I took the first thing that came to hand. These things are wanted to go back home so I just took another horse and wagon and started. That is why I took two in one day."

MADE HIM MOVE 29 TIMES. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—If a man is compelled to live in the same room with three in the same room, some of his married life, is it ground for divorce? W. P. Crawford of this city thinks so, and how soon he will get the court grant him divorce from his wife. In his petition he declares that the "moving habit" contracted by his wife has become so excessive that she "went home" with the broom, and that he gave all his earnings to his wife, who sent them forcing him to borrow from his brother to provide for his needs.

SUSPECT A LUNATIC OF GIRL'S MURDER

CARMEI, Maine, Aug. 8.—The discovery of the body of 14-year-old Naomi Etta Mitchell in a cornfield near the town, her throat cut and much of her clothing torn away, brought to light a murder which the authorities believe to be the work of a madman.

A search is being made for a farm hand who was seen in the vicinity just before the crime was committed. He was at one time an inmate of the Bangor insane asylum. This man has not been at his home since the murder.

The child, a daughter of Phineas Mitchell, a farmer, had been sent to the grocery, a mile distant, after supper. She made her purchases and started home. That was the last time she was seen alive.

Searchers came across the body in the cornfield. The girl's hands had been tied behind her back and a gag placed over her mouth. There were many indications of a struggle. Her bundles were found piled up by the roadside, and $14 which she had on her person was untouched.

The man for whom search is being made was in the store when the child made her purchases, and followed her down the road. He is an expert woodsman and has a camp in the woods, where it is thought he may have taken refuge.

Public feeling has been aroused to a high pitch, and threats of summary vengeance should the man be caught, were freely made in the village.

Physicians who examined the body declared the girl was the victim of a criminal attack before she was killed.

The boys are in the Muskogee jail and laugh at the efforts of the officers to convict them on a charge of kidnapping.

GETS AUNT SERVANT, HELD AS KIDNAPPER

MUSKOGEE, Okla.—Though housewives of America have discussed and worried about the servant problem, it has taken Will Edwards, a youth who lives with his aunt, Mrs. Lee Edwards, on a farm near here, to solve the question. Mrs. Edwards needed a hired girl and could not find one.

"That's easy. I'll get you one," her nephew told her.

Young Edwards then secured the services of a friend, Charles Martin, and the two came into Muskogee on their ponies. On the street they passed Minnie Simpson, 15 years old. The boys saw that she was good looking, and deciding that she would make a first-class maid for Mrs. Edwards, Will took her on his saddle and to his aunt.

Mrs. Edwards was greatly pleased at the new girl, but Minnie's mother, who was planning to place her in a convent, asked the police to find the girl. They did, but she was pleased with her new home and refused to leave. The officers arrested Edwards and Martin on a charge of kidnapping.

TEXAS STATE NEWS

El Paso—Pascual Orozco declared to American Consul Edwards that he would promise to have Madero unseated and peace in Mexico in sixty days if the United States would throw down the bars and give him permission to take in all the ammunition he needed. This was his answer to Edwards' presentation of a note from the American State department relative to the recent American attitude of the rebels. Bishop Orson P. Brown of the Mormon colonies has issued a signed statement declaring that "if peace can not be restored in Mexico and the people's interests protected, then it becomes the duty of the United States to take a hand, and if the United States government falls then it becomes the duty of American citizens to do their duty, and I believe that we are at last arriving at that point when it will be necessary to act."

Gonzales—Eugene Bowers, who has been on trial in the district court for the past three days on a charge of killing Constable Jeff Tomlinson of Waelder in December, 1910, was acquitted by the jury.

Austin—Less than 1 per cent of the dairy cattle of the state are diseased, according to the estimates made from the inspection of 100 head of cattle by the state food and drug department. Commissioner Abbott expressed the opinion that the low percentage would hold good for the dairy herds of the entire state. He said that the inspections of last month had extended to every section of the state.

Dallas—Information has been given to the police here that the negro Leonard Potts, operated what was known as a "detective school" in Oak Cliff, Dallas. In this so-called "school" it is said, Potts taught negro boys how to shoot and how to protect themselves.

Austin—Hundreds of women pearl fishers are swarming the shores of Lake Caddo, in East Texas, now Robert Goodfellow, deputy state game warden at the lake, who was here on business with Gardner Cox, says that the women are just taking the rank over men at the famous pearl grove. The women were bathing suits and appear energetic and persistent. Some of them have made good finds. For instance, only two or three weeks ago a woman fished up a pearl which she sold for $1475. Pearl's worth from $25 to $100 are found most every day.

Corpus Christi—The grand jury which has been in session since July 7, has adjourned. The jury reported two bills, one being for felonies and the others for misdemeanors. The grand jury investigated rumors of shortage and mismanagement of both county and city funds and officials and branded them a political humbug. No violation of the election law during the primary held last Saturday were reported.

Dalhart—Two hundred thousand acres and 26,000 cattle of X. I. L. ranch were sold to Sheldon, Masterson & Trigg of Amarillo. The price was private. The land is located in Tallam, Hartley, Oldham and Deaf Smith counties. The sale wipes out the history of the old ranch.

Nacozoches—In a doublet between Tom White and Tom Criss brothers-in-law, eight miles north of town Criss was severely cut with a pocket knife. The trouble arose out of the ownership of a mule. White came in and surrendered to the sheriff.

Corpus Christi—The jury that will try John McCreath, who is charged with the killing of Tom Priddy, has been completed. Priddy was killed on Christmas eve night 1910, while McCreath and Priddy were attending a friend's carnival. McCreath charges that Priddy insulted his wife.

Dallas—Terrified by a supposed burglar who tried to break into her home near White Rock last week, Mrs. Ellen Fain, wife of H. V. Fain, was not able to survive the shock and died several days later. Mrs. Fain fired two shots at the man as he was tampering with the door of her house, after which she collapsed.

Houston—Sam T. Swinford, president of the Houston Real Estate Exchange, secretary of the Texas Lumbermen's association, leading figure in Texas republican political circles, and for many years among the noted business men of the state, is very ill at his home in this city. Physicians hold out practically no hope for his recovery. Mr. Swinford was stricken with pneumonia

FEDERALS GET CANNON DRIVE REBELS BACK

Monday's Battle Near Ojitos Complete Victory for Sanjines—Victory Help in Fighting.

DOUGLAS, Ariz.—The first authentic report of the battle of Ojitos last Monday was brought today by courier from the Associated Press correspondent, who has reached the battleground about 100 miles south of the United States border and west of Casas Grandes district. The correspondent's account of the battle follows:

Rebels attacked the federal column under General Sanjines here and after several hours of battle captured the federal cannon and drove the rebels back. The rebels numbered about 1000. They advanced to the attack about 7 a. m. and a short artillery duel followed. The rebels' cannon being dismantled by superior fire from federal batteries. Major Alvarez, a rebel leader, was cut in two by a shell.

After the rebel artillery was silenced General Sanjines ordered a general advance. Vigil Indians numbering 124, led by Major Alvarado, with warhorns, led the federal volunteers taking the right flank. Surprised by the fierce onslaught, the rebels fled to the foothills, fighting every foot.

The federal cavalry followed the rebels toward Casas Grandes. A few prisoners and many rifles and horses were captured. The federal victory was complete.

NAME AGENTS FOR HERO MONUMENT

County Judges Have Been Requested To Name Man To Solicit Funds.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 8.—Agents are being chosen in the 249 Texas counties to represent the Texas Heroes Monument association and solicit subscriptions to the sale of tickets, by means of which the great memorial is to be erected. The number of tickets to thus be issued will be 4,000,000 and each will entitle a holder to a trip to the top of the building 800 feet high, and such other entertainment as will be provided. The cost of each ticket will be $1, but those who subscribe to them now will do so on a basis of 50 cents each and a number will be proportioned to each county equal to the population therein.

It is estimated that as soon as $2,000,000 have been subscribed the work of building the monument will be decided in a site. There is a proposition before the city council for the use of Alamo Plaza, but the holders of the first 2,000,000 tickets will decide by a referendum vote whether the city, the state or some other organization is to have control of the building when completed. It is expected the daughters of the Republic will be favored by some and in that event it might be deemed desirable to erect the monument on the site of the old Alamo fort.

As soon as subscriptions have been well started a committee composed of two representatives from each county out the state will be named to act as custodians of the fund which is to be collected through the banks.

JAPANESE EMPEROR PASSES AWAY

Yoshihito Takes Oath of Mikado at the Gates of the Palace—Dead Emperor Mutsuhito Had Made Japan a Modern, Civilized Nation.

Tokio, Japan, Aug. 8.—Mutsuhito, for forty years emperor of Japan, died at 12:42 o'clock Tuesday morning. Yoshihito Haru-No-Miya reigns under the formula provided by the constitution promulgated by Mutsuhito. "The King is dead, long live the King."
 Haru, now dowager empress, visits her place of power to Princess Sadako, the young empress, who is the mother of three sons, of whom the eldest is Yoshihito.

 Haru, now dowager empress, visits her place of power to Princess Sadako, the young empress, who is the mother of three sons, of whom the eldest is Yoshihito.

Crown Prince Becomes Emperor.

The crown prince, Yoshihito, was proclaimed emperor at the waiting imperial palace. The accession ceremony making the crown prince emperor was held at the imperial sanctuary at 1 o'clock. The shrine was decorated according to the ritual. Prince Yoshihito, chief of the imperial office, officiated at the ceremony on the sacred altar. He was assisted by a subordinate, who read a will while the offerings were being laid.
 The oath was read in the presence of the ministers of state, the councilors and other dignitaries.
 Under the household law, the ruler's cooperation of Emperor Yoshihito must be held at Kyoto. This probably will take place about a year hence.

Made Japan Modern Nation.

Mutsuhito, deceased emperor of Japan, was born in Keoto, 3, 1857. He was the second son of Emperor Meiji, who was succeeded by the throne on the death of his father. The country was then in a ferment owing to concessions which had been granted as the result of a treaty made in 1854 after the visit of the expedition commanded by Commodore Perry. American naval officer, in 1852-4. This three years' mission was to force the country to open its ports to foreign trade. It was only by force of arms that the new ruler enforced his decree and saved Japan from a reversion to primitive conditions.

shes Three Rebellions.

In 1859 the emperor established a deliberative assembly. This and other reforms ended Japanese feudalism. Everything European was eagerly adopted, including frank coats and top hats for officials.
 Opposition to these sweeping changes developed in a period from 1876 to 1884, in which Mutsuhito suppressed three serious rebellious movements. The emperor realized early in his career that Japan's first task was to develop a strong navy in order to be able to rule the seas. He therefore added modern battleships and fast armored cruisers to Japan's navy. He was the first Oriental monarch to form an offensive and defensive alliance with a first rate European power, England being the ally.

New Ruler Is Progressive.

Yoshihito was born August 31, 1879. He was proclaimed crown prince November 2, 1883, and decorated with the Grand Order of Merit and Grand Insignia of the Imperial Chrysanthemum November 2, 1899. He became lieutenant general and vice admiral. He married Princess Sadako, daughter of Prince Kujō Michitaka, May 10, 1900.

CLAIMS NEW BULLET IS SLEEP PRODUCER

Washington, D. C.—Alexander E. Humphrey of Pittsburg is endeavoring to impress the war department with the desirability of equipping the United States army with his new sleep-producing bullet.

According to the claims of the inventor, the Humphrey sedative bullet is coated with a preparation of morphine which renders it painless for a time after it has entered the body.

Instantaneous pain at the moment of impact and then sweet, dreamless sleep is produced for the enemy who falls into the hands of the victors. In the war department it is stated that no officers or men of the army have yet volunteered their bodies for experiment as targets for Humphrey's pellets.

LOSES HIS BET, BUT WINS OUT.

WICHITA, Kan.,—Prof. William Holden of America, while his wife and his seven sons and daughters, their families and 8000 other relatives, fact-five in all, will take a vacation in California at the expense of Colonel Holden, who lost a bet on his prospective wheat yield. The Colonel has 25,000 bushels of wheat on his 500-acre ranch, near Amarillo, Texas. It was thought he bet with his son that it would not go twenty bushels to the acre. The average was twenty-eight. The wager was a trip to California for the whole Holden family if the wheat went to twenty bushels. The Colonel lost. The extra eight bushels to the acre many times more than pays for the trip.

THAW STILL INSANE

Judge Says It Would Be Dangerous to Liberate Him.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Harry K. Thaw, in the eyes of the law, is still insane and must remain in the asylum where he was placed on February 1, 1908, after he had killed Stanford White, Justice Martin J. Keogh of the supreme court has denied Thaw's application for freedom. The court took the ground that Thaw's release would be dangerous to public safety.

Justice Keogh said that there would be no useful purpose in reviewing the history of the present case.

"My whole duty is fully performed when I decide the single question presented for decision—namely, is Harry K. Thaw at present sane or insane, and would his release be dangerous to the public peace and safety?"

"Having listened to all the testimony, I am of the opinion that Harry K. Thaw is still insane and that his discharge would be dangerous to the public peace and safety."

The writ of habeas corpus upon which Thaw retained his temporary release from the state hospital is dismissed and the court orders that Thaw be returned to the institution. Thaw has been living at the local jail in charge of the sheriff since his case opened early in June.

Thaw presented a copy of the decision shortly after it had been rendered. He read it only with seeming indifference. "It is as I thought," he said, "in sending the sad word to my family. It would have been better had I been acquitted like Captain Alford."

WARD SEMINARY FALL COMMENCEMENT

Ward Seminary for young ladies, Nashville, Tenn., on May 20th closed its forty-seventh year with every evidence of continued growth and increased vigor.

The commencement season was one of unusual brilliancy and in some respects set a standard for future years.

The work of the Conservatory of Music was demonstrated in a series of highly artistic recitals. Music has always had a large place at Ward's and each year the Conservatory has grown in power and popularity.

Its ten teachers, most of whom have had the best European training, have attracted young women of great talent.

The department of Expression has long ceased to be a medium for the putting on of artificial frills and is now recognized for the genuineness and real literary culture of its work.

The production of Shakespeare's beautiful and difficult "Midsummer Night's Dream" gave evidence of the new conceptions which are coming to prevail in this department of education.

The play was given on the beautiful lawn at Ward place and was attended by many hundreds of Nashville's most cultured citizens.

The press notices and comments of spectators and the general impression of the community created by the whole play was highly complimentary.

On the whole, the most successful production of its kind ever given in Nashville.

The annual opening of the art exhibit on May 15th was attended by a large assemblage of art lovers. Various phases of work from the living model, still life, pottery, clay modeling and china painting were shown, with original work in design. Of especial note was the art and literary work of the students in preparing the school annual.

The display was of very high quality and gave evidence of talent and application.

The commencement sermon was preached by Rev. Jas. I. Vance, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Nashville, who gave a beautiful and inspiring message of optimism.

The commencement address was delivered by Rev. Thos. H. Gallor, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Tennessee. His address was in the form of a plea for courage, courage and personality.

The power to know the truth, the courage to believe it and live it, and the personality to cope with the environment were the three elements that he declared should enter into the making of a career and a noble life.

He urged especially the need of aristocracy, not of wealth nor of rank, nor of rank or conferred title, but an aristocracy of character, both lovers and of high personality based upon character. This address was a fitting climax to one of the most successful years in the history of the institution.

Ward's has not only grown in numbers and distribution of patronage, but it has correspondingly increased in efficiency. In the general literary work it has made more rapid gains than ever before and its record is one of the most successful years in the history of the institution.

FARM NOTES

THE BEAUTIFUL NAPA VALLEY, ITS ORCHARDS AND VINEYARDS

By Theo. Y. Hull, M. D., San Antonio, Texas.

It is often instructive to note the change in our opinions with the passing of the years. In 1843, Webster, in opposing the establishment of a trans-continental mail route, spoke of the Pacific coast region as "rockbound, cheerless, uninhabited."

A few years later, it became the Mecca of thousands, and today is famed for its fertile lands and populous cities. It is a land of hills and valleys. A recent writer described one of these valleys—and there are many of them—as a land of "flowers and sunshine, without snow or sleet or slush, with only frost enough to sharpen the air and in which 'all fruit trees' grew, 'besides vines and olives and oranges and figs, with roses lumbering over the blossoms, flowers blossoming in riotous profusion even at Christmas time.'"

But let us visit one of these valleys. We will take the steamer of the Market street, where an almost ceaseless tide of humanity flows in and out of San Francisco. As we pass out into San Francisco bay, the Golden Gate is on our left, and nearer in Alcatraz Island, now used as a small military prison, while on the right, the city of San Francisco is visible. The air is deliciously cool, and we settle ourselves for a pleasant ride of nearly two hours over the quiet waters of San Francisco bay.

San Pablo Bay, past Suisun bay, in which the waters of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers flow, and arrive at Vallejo, the outlet of Napa bay, connects the Mare Island navy yard in time to take the splendidly equipped electric railway up the valley.

We are now at the foot of Napa valley which extends to the base of Mt. St. Helena which stands like a sentinel forty miles to the north. The valley, three to five miles wide, is flanked on either side by sparsely wooded hills, and through its entire length, winds the Napa river.

When a chaser made his now famous address, the valley was covered with broad branching live oak trees, an abundance of game was on the hills, and the streams were filled with fish. Wild ducks and geese were in profusion. It was an Indian paradise in which the redmen dreamed of chase and conquest.

In a few years the conquest was over, and the white man occupied the valley to convert it into a veritable land flowing with milk and honey, from that day to this, the quiet valley, cooled by the south winds and warmed by the north, where it is rarely too warm or too cold and seldom too wet or too dry, has produced forth with the earth its annual crop of fruit and grain without irrigation, and accessible to a never failing market.

In a few years the valley was a happy and prosperous people whose pleasant homes attest the fact.

Macadamizer Road.

The means of transportation in the valley could hardly be improved, for running almost side by side from Vallejo to St. Helena are the steam railroad, the electric railway, and the electric trolley road, and finally the Napa river. But our electric trolley soon carries its through passenger, fields of alfalfa, ripened grapes and growing cereals, and orchards and vineyards in Napa valley.

St. Helena is a city of some six thousand people, who are engaged in business well attested by beautiful homes with lawns and flowers by well kept parks and clean streets, brightly lighted in the business part at night. Somehow, as you look upon these things, a quiet feeling takes possession of you that here is a place in which, after the struggle of business and professional life are over, you can settle down and enjoy the remaining years in well earned peace and quiet and yet keep perfectly in touch with the great bustling world outside.

In California the fruit grower is chased with the professional man, the transportation facilities are so good that he can live in the city and keep in perfect touch with his orchards and vineyards. It is one of the beautiful things of the time that the scientific tillage of the soil is attracting men of university training. After enjoying the hospitality of Mr. D. A. Foulger for the night, we again took the electric railway for the Dunlap ranch, nine miles further up the valley and opposite the Seyler's home. The first thing that strikes us is the commodious ranch house, equal to some of our best city homes, which was designed by the two sons, both former university students, and in which one of them lives. This illustrates another point in ranch life in California—that it is possible to have most of the comforts of city life on the ranch. When this can be more generally realized, the "back to the farm" movement will have a new meaning.

Pruce Orchard Six Years Old.

One of the notable products of the valley is prunes. Hundreds of orchards are already in bearing, and other hundreds will soon be, and still more have just been set out. While the Santa Clara valley is the center of the prune industry, it has proved very profitable in many other places.

While there are few things more prosaic, and certainly few more common to the patrons of the ordinary boarding house, than that of peaches, the article of food ranks high among the fruits. In the ripened state, its food value is equal to that of grapes, more or less than that of peaches, nearly twice that of oranges, and one and one-half that of apples, while in the dried state, its value is slightly less than dried apples, oranges and grapes.

As an article of commerce, dried prunes come next in importance to raisins.

The average prunes are set out one hundred to the acre. They come into bearing in a few years and thereafter furnish a steady revenue to the grower. In the case of prunes, they really contain in Napa valley, there having been no failure since 1892. The average crop ranges from eight to ten tons (gross) per acre with an occasional fifteen tons per acre. In 1906, Mr. Dunlap gathered some one hundred and seventy-eight green tons from fifteen acres of orchard, most of which were two tons per acre. The trees of this orchard were planted in 1892 and 1893. The price at which prunes sell ranges near $20 per gross ton and $100 dried. Prunes north of the bay ripen about the middle of August and are picked when ripe to secure the maximum of sugar. The prunes are packed by passing over a wire screen, are separated into two sizes to facilitate drying. They are next immersed in hot water (temperature 140 deg. F.) in which has been dissolved two pounds of concentrated lime to every sixty gallons. This cuts the outer wax coating on the fruit and hastens evaporation. They are then spread out in shallow open trays which are placed on the ground in the open field. There is no need of shelter as it never rains at this season of the year. The average time for drying is about ten days.

Vineyard Four Years Old.

Grapes do not exceedingly well in Napa Valley. Wine grapes of the resistant variety grow from five to twenty tons per acre, and cost $2 per ton for packing and the owner gets $10 to $15 delivered. This is one of the principal industries and yields quicker returns than prunes.

Cherry Orchard Five Years Old.

Cherries do exceptionally well, as do also peaches and apples.

Black Fig Trees.

An interesting fruit is the black fig. The trees grow in an enormous size. One fig tree planted 30 years ago was 24 inches in diameter.

Nothing is left to consideration. This is one of the most interesting valleys it has ever been my lot to visit. Of course, like every other part of the world, some good things grow in abundance, the price of land is high, but not excessively so and the space is limited.

Just think of a land flowing with milk and honey (the hills furnish excellent pasturage) where nearly all kinds of fruit grow naturally, and wheat and corn, high in season where three hours ride will bring you to the doors of nearly a million people and the gates of the world; and do you wonder that many have had the closing years of an arduous life?

FARM NOTES

By Theo. Y. Hull, M. D., San Antonio, Texas.

It is often instructive to note the change in our opinions with the passing of the years. In 1843, Webster, in opposing the establishment of a trans-continental mail route, spoke of the Pacific coast region as "rockbound, cheerless, uninhabited."

A few years later, it became the Mecca of thousands, and today is famed for its fertile lands and populous cities. It is a land of hills and valleys. A recent writer described one of these valleys—and there are many of them—as a land of "flowers and sunshine, without snow or sleet or slush, with only frost enough to sharpen the air and in which 'all fruit trees' grew, 'besides vines and olives and oranges and figs, with roses lumbering over the blossoms, flowers blossoming in riotous profusion even at Christmas time.'"

But let us visit one of these valleys. We will take the steamer of the Market street, where an almost ceaseless tide of humanity flows in and out of San Francisco. As we pass out into San Francisco bay, the Golden Gate is on our left, and nearer in Alcatraz Island, now used as a small military prison, while on the right, the city of San Francisco is visible. The air is deliciously cool, and we settle ourselves for a pleasant ride of nearly two hours over the quiet waters of San Francisco bay.

San Pablo Bay, past Suisun bay, in which the waters of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers flow, and arrive at Vallejo, the outlet of Napa bay, connects the Mare Island navy yard in time to take the splendidly equipped electric railway up the valley.

We are now at the foot of Napa valley which extends to the base of Mt. St. Helena which stands like a sentinel forty miles to the north. The valley, three to five miles wide, is flanked on either side by sparsely wooded hills, and through its entire length, winds the Napa river.

When a chaser made his now famous address, the valley was covered with broad branching live oak trees, an abundance of game was on the hills, and the streams were filled with fish. Wild ducks and geese were in profusion. It was an Indian paradise in which the redmen dreamed of chase and conquest.

In a few years the conquest was over, and the white man occupied the valley to convert it into a veritable land flowing with milk and honey, from that day to this, the quiet valley, cooled by the south winds and warmed by the north, where it is rarely too warm or too cold and seldom too wet or too dry, has produced forth with the earth its annual crop of fruit and grain without irrigation, and accessible to a never failing market.

In a few years the valley was a happy and prosperous people whose pleasant homes attest the fact.

Macadamizer Road.

The means of transportation in the valley could hardly be improved, for running almost side by side from Vallejo to St. Helena are the steam railroad, the electric railway, and the electric trolley road, and finally the Napa river. But our electric trolley soon carries its through passenger, fields of alfalfa, ripened grapes and growing cereals, and orchards and vineyards in Napa valley.

St. Helena is a city of some six thousand people, who are engaged in business well attested by beautiful homes with lawns and flowers by well kept parks and clean streets, brightly lighted in the business part at night. Somehow, as you look upon these things, a quiet feeling takes possession of you that here is a place in which, after the struggle of business and professional life are over, you can settle down and enjoy the remaining years in well earned peace and quiet and yet keep perfectly in touch with the great bustling world outside.

In California the fruit grower is chased with the professional man, the transportation facilities are so good that he can live in the city and keep in perfect touch with his orchards and vineyards. It is one of the beautiful things of the time that the scientific tillage of the soil is attracting men of university training. After enjoying the hospitality of Mr. D. A. Foulger for the night, we again took the electric railway for the Dunlap ranch, nine miles further up the valley and opposite the Seyler's home. The first thing that strikes us is the commodious ranch house, equal to some of our best city homes, which was designed by the two sons, both former university students, and in which one of them lives. This illustrates another point in ranch life in California—that it is possible to have most of the comforts of city life on the ranch. When this can be more generally realized, the "back to the farm" movement will have a new meaning.

Pruce Orchard Six Years Old.

One of the notable products of the valley is prunes. Hundreds of orchards are already in bearing, and other hundreds will soon be, and still more have just been set out. While the Santa Clara valley is the center of the prune industry, it has proved very profitable in many other places.

While there are few things more prosaic, and certainly few more common to the patrons of the ordinary boarding house, than that of peaches, the article of food ranks high among the fruits. In the ripened state, its food value is equal to that of grapes, more or less than that of peaches, nearly twice that of oranges, and one and one-half that of apples, while in the dried state, its value is slightly less than dried apples, oranges and grapes.

As an article of commerce, dried prunes come next in importance to raisins.

The average prunes are set out one hundred to the acre. They come into bearing in a few years and thereafter furnish a steady revenue to the grower. In the case of prunes, they really contain in Napa valley, there having been no failure since 1892. The average crop ranges from eight to ten tons (gross) per acre with an occasional fifteen tons per acre. In 1906, Mr. Dunlap gathered some one hundred and seventy-eight green tons from fifteen acres of orchard, most of which were two tons per acre. The trees of this orchard were planted in 1892 and 1893. The price at which prunes sell ranges near $20 per gross ton and $100 dried. Prunes north of the bay ripen about the middle of August and are picked when ripe to secure the maximum of sugar. The prunes are packed by passing over a wire screen, are separated into two sizes to facilitate drying. They are next immersed in hot water (temperature 140 deg. F.) in which has been dissolved two pounds of concentrated lime to every sixty gallons. This cuts the outer wax coating on the fruit and hastens evaporation. They are then spread out in shallow open trays which are placed on the ground in the open field. There is no need of shelter as it never rains at this season of the year. The average time for drying is about ten days.

Vineyard Four Years Old.

Grapes do not exceedingly well in Napa Valley. Wine grapes of the resistant variety grow from five to twenty tons per acre, and cost $2 per ton for packing and the owner gets $10 to $15 delivered. This is one of the principal industries and yields quicker returns than prunes.

Cherry Orchard Five Years Old.

Cherries do exceptionally well, as do also peaches and apples.

Black Fig Trees.

An interesting fruit is the black fig. The trees grow in an enormous size. One fig tree planted 30 years ago was 24 inches in diameter.

Nothing is left to consideration. This is one of the most interesting valleys it has ever been my lot to visit. Of course, like every other part of the world, some good things grow in abundance, the price of land is high, but not excessively so and the space is limited.

Just think of a land flowing with milk and honey (the hills furnish excellent pasturage) where nearly all kinds of fruit grow naturally, and wheat and corn, high in season where three hours ride will bring you to the doors of nearly a million people and the gates of the world; and do you wonder that many have had the closing years of an arduous life?

There was church services here Sunday at 11 o'clock and in the afternoon by Rev. James Cross, of Junction; he was accompanied by his wife, a niece, a sister and brother, all of that place. We were glad to welcome them into our midst and we want you all to remember the date and come out to church next 1st Sunday. I am ashamed to confess there were 16 present in the morning and 17 in the afternoon. I think that was quite a slam on the Roosevelt community if they don't come out to church better than that; certainly we can all afford to go two or three miles when the preacher comes 20 miles.
