Davis prosecutors want 'Allen Charge' to be quoted to jury

HOUSTON (AP) — Prosecutors in the Cullen Davis murder conspiracy trial asked State District Judge Wallace Moore today to advise the jury, which has been deliberating for almost 40 hours, that it should continue its efforts to reach a verdict.

The state requested that the judge employ the seldom-used "Allen Charge," which means he would advise the jurors that if they fail to reach a verdict, the case will have to be tried again with the same evidence and testimony presented to 12 other persons. The name comes from the defendant in a Supreme Court case.

The defense objected and attorney Phil Burleson said there was no need for the "Allen Charge" because "the jury is deadlocked at 8-4 and has been since their first ballot on Wednesday morning."

"Instead, I suggest, Judge, that the jurors be polled to see if it is possible to get a verdict."

The "Allen Charge" is commonly called by attorneys the "dynamite charge." It is used to prod a deadlocked jury to reach a unanimous decision.

Prosecutor Tolly Wilson said he had been advised by the Tarrant County district attorney's office that the case definitely would be retried if a mistrial is the final result.

Therefore, Wilson said, "the judge should advise the jury of this."

The jury met for four hours Sunday and then recessed to watch the Super Bowl game between the Dallas Cowboys and the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Before ending the Sunday deliberations, the jury asked to listen to testimony involving conversations between Davis and his attorney, Hershell Payne.

The jury took one more vote Sunday, its 10th, and the vote was the same as it was last Wednesday morning when the panel took its first vote.

Moore said his next step after a mistrial because of a hung jury would be a hearing to release the Fort Worth millionaire on bond.

In that event, Moore said, he would consider setting a bond for Davis somewhere in the neighborhood of $25,000 to $30,000.

The defense said it expects the jury to stay at the 8-4 split and give Davis, 45, the chance for freedom after several months in jail.

"We have the funds available to post any bond... whatever," defense lawyer Mike Gibson said. It was not an idle boast.

Davis posted $1 million bond on Aug. 20, 1977, for a weekend of freedom during his trial in Amarillo on a charge of murdering his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn. He was acquitted after the longest, costliest murder trial in Texas to date.

Both prosecution and defense attorneys agreed a verdict was unlikely.

"I am disappointed that the jury has not reached a decision," prosecutor Jack Strickland said. "I do not think it is the time to declare a mistrial. They still need additional time to deliberate all of the evidence presented during about 10 weeks."

FIREMAN CARRIES LITTLE FIRE VICTIM — A Jersey City, N.J. fireman carries the body of a small boy, one of Seven die in another N.J. fire

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Seven persons, including a mother and her five children, were killed early today in a tenement fire that was deliberately set, authorities said.

Victims were seen rapping on a window shortly before firefighters arrived, but apparently were overcome when they tried to reach a fire escape, said Deputy Chief Dominick Cardillo.

It was the second fatal apartment building fire in New Jersey in three days. At least 19 persons were killed early Saturday in a fire in Hoboken, which authorities also suspect was caused by arson.

A Jersey City police spokesman said today's fire was located about four blocks from a three-alarm warehouse blaze that occurred just over 24 hours earlier, and about two miles from the Hoboken blaze.

Police declined to speculate whether the fires were connected.

They said there had been no arrests.

There were reportedly seven families living in the four-story brick building that burned today. Six families escaped, apparently without injuries, officials said.

Fire Director Raymond Maloney identified the dead as Maria Gonzales, 35, her five children Papo, 12, Edward, 11, Albert, 10, Susan, 3, and Anita, 1.

An unidentified male adult was found with the family, Maloney said.

The seven victims were trapped on the third floor, authorities said.

Fire officials said a woman living in the building told them she heard a noise in the hallway, and saw a young man pouring something on the stairs when she went to investigate.

Construction of hangar will continue

Lockheed underbid on Navy job

By EILEEN McGUIRE

Clyde McMahon Sr. verified at a news conference at 11 a.m. today rumors that Lockheed Aircraft Service had been underbid in its attempt to gain the Navy FA-J contract.

McMahon said that it had been announced late Friday afternoon that Hayes Aircraft of Birmingham, Ala., had submitted the lowest bid. The decision, however, is not yet final and he voiced a slight hope that Lockheed could still gain the contract.

"Hayes Aircraft has already been awarded two naval contracts and there are rumors that it may be delinquent on one contract. There is a very slight chance that Hayes won't pass the pre-award survey."

In that event, McMahon said that the contract may be awarded to the second lowest bidder which will remain a secret until Friday when the contract is awarded.

"However, it's difficult for the contract not to be awarded to the lowest bidder," McMahon stated, adding that bypassing its bid could lead to some protests on the part of Hayes Aircraft.

If the contract had been awarded to Lockheed, more than $1.5 million would have been paid to the city of Big Spring during the four-year, 10-month contract that would have involved 18 buildings in addition to the new hangar at Industrial Park, he noted.

"But we still have a lot of good prospects lined up and will begin working on them after the final announcement Friday."

McMahon explained that the hangar now under construction has attracted interest from another major company which is interested in beginning operations within 90 days should it locate here.

Construction of the hangar will continue on schedule, he said, with April 1 as the target date for completion.

Even if Lockheed does fail to net the naval contract, construction of the hangar at this time is a wise investment for the city, McMahon said.

"If we hadn't begun construction,

Lockheed wouldn't have even considered locating here as it needed facilities that could accommodate seven airplanes by April 12.

"Also, at the time construction began, we were running out of time to take advantage of a $1 million government grant to help with the costs."

The hangar, which will not be finished on the interior until the facilities are rented, is costing $1,100,000 for its basic construction.

McMahon expressed optimism for the future, with or without Lockheed, stating that he is hopeful that the facilities will be leased within the next 60 days.

Water rates boost likely

The first step in raising the city's water rates may be taken at the regular meeting of the Big Spring City Council, 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Proposed amendments of the rate would raise prices for 2,000 gallons or less to $5.60 a month for a home inside the city limits. Charge for water in excess of 2,000 gallons would rise to 85 cents per 1,000 gallons.

For a commercial building inside the city, the price for the first 2,000 gallons would rise to $5.60, with a $5.10 charge for each additional unit connected with the business. Charge for water in excess of 2,000 gallons would also cost 85 cents for each 1,000 gallons.

The city's Water and Sewer Fund is presently $124,808.15 in the red. Officials have blamed declining water sales for the drop in revenue, and claim that rates must be adjusted to compensate.

"I can't really come up with a reason for the decline in sales. But the rates were based on projected sales, and we were really off," said Tom Ferguson, city finance director.

Carter sends 'lean' budget to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today sent Congress a "lean and austere" budget for 1980 that he said will increase outlays for defense and the poor while helping to throttle the government's voracious appetite for spending.

But there are controversial cuts in jobs programs and a freezing of other programs for states and cities that are certain to cause problems for Carter within his own Democratic Party. The administration also declined to make a commitment to continue revenue-sharing beyond 1980.

The budget totals $531.6 billion and includes a deficit of $29 billion. It sets aside $2.5 billion to be paid to American workers as inflation insurance in 1980, if Congress approves.

Spending would be equal to $2,416.85 for every American.

The current 1979 budget provides for spending of $493.4 billion and a deficit of $37.4 billion.

Carter said his 1980 budget, for the fiscal year beginning next Oct. 1, emphasizes spending restraint and fighting inflation and makes "the federal dollar work harder and better." It also will ensure continued economic growth, although at a slower pace than last year, he said.

"We must reduce the growth of total federal spending while protecting the security of our nation and the well-being of the American people," Carter said in a message to Congress.

But the president did not repeat his past promises to balance the budget by 1981, saying only that he will "achieve a balanced budget as soon as economic conditions permit." The 1980 deficit will be the 19th in the last 20 years.

Five apprehended in narcotics raid

Five suspects were arrested at 12:25 a.m. Sunday at a Forsan residence by Big Spring Police Department Detective John Burson, Texas Ranger Eddie Almond, and three state narcotics officers.

Law enforcement officers had been working for several days on a tip prior to the raid, in which a quantity of methamphetamines were seized.

Arrested and charged with possession of a controlled substance were Steven Darden and Stephen Mundell, Forsan; James Thomas, Midland; Stephanie Ewing and Marsha Thurman, both of Abilene.

Q. I'm having trouble finding a line of tires called Dean Winter Ranger. They're snow tires. I need an adjustment on a tire, and no one in town seems to know who handles them.

A. The easiest way to find out who makes a certain brand of tire is to call the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's toll-free number (800) 424-9393. The NHTSA keeps track of all auto-related products and monitors recalls in the auto or tire industries.

African violet club hears talk on trees

Mrs. Paul Guy presided over the business meeting of the Texas Bouquet African Violet Club Jan. 17 at the Dora Roberts Community Center in Comanche Trail Park.

Mrs. O.S. Womack, Mrs. J. F. Sanders, Mrs. Guy and Mrs. C. R. Moad will assist in decorating the tables for the Chamber of Commerce Banquet.

Slate of officers presented by Mrs. Cass Hill include Mrs. Tommy Hubbard, president; Mrs. J. F. Sanders, vice-president; Mrs. Moad, secretary; and Mrs. Hill, treasurer. Each member was encouraged by Mrs. Womack to participate in planting a tree for observance of Arbor Day.

Guest attending were Mrs. Fannie Kent, Mrs. D.F. Bigony, and Mrs. Jess Talton. Hostesses included Mrs. Moad and Mrs. Womack.

Bill Crocker, manager of Mr. "G" nursery was guest speaker for the meeting. He was introduced by Mrs. Womack. His program was entitled "Care of Trees."

How to plant, when to water and when to fertilize were the important tips he brought attention to in his presentation. Trees can be used for wind breaks, to conserve energy by shading the house in the summer and in winter.

There are many trees and shrubs that are especially good to plant in the area around Big Spring, explained Crocker, namely oak, fruitless mulberry, elm, chinaberry, pine trees, Arizona cypress, crepe myrtle and fruit trees.

He stressed that trees and shrubs should be fertilized at least three times a year beginning in March or April. The fertilizer should be spread around the "drip line" of the tree.

When planting trees or shrubs, prune them. Do not fertilize them. Crocker concluded by encouraging the use of moss when planting trees or shrubs.

Auxiliary seeking new members

The World War I Barracks 1474 and Auxiliary met Jan. 14 at 10 a.m. in the Kentwood Center for a business meeting and noon luncheon.

Membership drive was the main item of business. The drive is in search of new members or old members to be reinstated.

Members discussed a new pension bill up in Congress to be voted on this month. It was not known if the bill would be to the advantage of veterans. The average age of World War I veterans is 83. The ranks are reportedly getting thinner each year. Members feel World War I men are due a more helpful pension if it is to be helpful to the veteran widows and dependents.

Plans are being made for the Annual Texas Convention in Austin, June 27-29 in the Stephen F. Austin Hotel. All officers are to be elected in April and installed by the first of June.

The luncheon followed the business session.

Synthetic suede sewing secrets

By JANET ROGERS
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT
Several sewing secrets for non-woven synthetic suedes mean homemade "ultra fashion" success. Non-woven synthetic suedes feel like real suede and look like it but have none of its problems.

They will not water-spot or stiffen — and most are machine washable. Sewing techniques are similar to those for leather. Keep fabric rolled until ready to use to prevent creasing.

Select a pattern with few pieces. Raglan and kimono sleeves are easier to handle because non-woven suede is difficult to ease.

Keep fabric nap direction in mind when cutting. Lay pattern on single thickness.

Pin in seam allowance only, because all pin or needle holes will show. Use sharp shears and cut accurately.

Use basting tape or paper clips to hold seam together before stitching. Use medium tension and light pressure on machine — with polyester or silk thread and a size 14 needle. Make stitch length 8-12 stitches per inch.

Tie the thread ends together because backstitching can make the stitching holes too large.

After sewing seams, finger press them open and fuse down seam allowances with heat-set fusibles, or top stitch them.

Make hems two inches or less, and secure with fusible fabric or top stitch them. Split darts open and fuse flat to avoid bulkiness.

To press, use a synthetic setting and steam press on the wrong side, using a press cloth.

Pot luck supper had by NARVRE

The NARVRE met at the Kentwood Older Adult Center on Jan. 18 for a pot luck supper followed by a regular meeting. R. W. Cagle, president presided.

G. P. Morrison gave the report on the annual audit as presented by the audit committee. Mrs. C.G. Varnell was appointed card chairman.

Mrs. J. W. Weidel, Mrs. E. D. Appleton and Mrs. J. J. Richardson were given a vote of thanks for their services as hostesses for the past six months. Mrs. C. F. Whittington, Mrs. G. W. Hill and Mrs. W. C. Cole will serve as hostess during the next six months.

Those present who have birthdays in January were J. H. Eastham, Mrs. C. G. Varnell, Mrs. W. E. Wozencraft and Mrs. Birdie Walker. Mrs. Hazel Lamar was a visitor. Hostess for the evening were Mrs. Whittington, Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Cole.

Songs were sung by the group after the supper and before the regular meeting. Mrs. Walker accompanied at the piano.

Next meeting will be 6:30 p.m. for pot luck supper to be followed by a regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. on Feb. 15 at the Kentwood Adult Center.

TwEEN 12 and 20 — Girl disturbed by lack of trust

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: My parents don't trust me. When I have boys over to my house, mom leaves all the doors open so she can make sure we are not making out. It bothers me!

Also she is always asking me, "Are you pregnant?" or "Do you want to tell me anything?"

I wouldn't ever do anything that would make my parents feel bad.

Also, I can't call boys. Mom says it's not proper. Your thoughts please! I'm 14 years old! — Missy, Lodi, Calif.

Missy: Many times concerned parents appear not to show trust when actually they do. I feel this is the case with your mom. But I do feel mother is wrong in always asking you if you are pregnant, and I see no reason you can't call a boy as long as you know you are not "boy crazy."

Consider yourself fortunate you are allowed to have boys over.

I receive many letters from girls older than you who are begging to be allowed to date.

Dr. Wallace: I'm newly married and my husband's job takes him to Chicago for two weeks a year. Last year he wanted to take me but I didn't go because I was working. After he returned, all he talked about was how cute the women were and how neat the discos looked, and how he and his buddies danced with all the girls.

This year I want to go but he says no because he will be working long hours. I asked him not to go to the discos dancing and he said he will do what he wants.

Please help — soon! — Brenda, Scottsbluff, Neb.

Brenda: I honestly don't know what to tell you. Your husband apparently hasn't accepted his wedding vows — so I would remind him. Stay at home but if he returns again with "tales of discos," seriously consider talking to a marriage counselor or a lawyer and not necessarily in that order.

Send questions to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20 in care of this newspaper. For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped, large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace in care of this newspaper.

Barnacle Brothers Should Be Scraped

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in our 50s and have two unmarried sons, 25 and 30. They don't live at home. Each prefers to have his own apartment, but we are still providing them with money, food, clothes, etc.

The oldest is a college graduate and employed, but seems to be in debt all the time.

The youngest had only one year of college, and goes from job to job. He's always broke due to poor judgment and minor scrapes with the law. Right now we have a lawyer trying to get his driver's license back, so here we are, bailing him out again.

We love these boys, but I am tired of having to constantly rescue them from their mistakes. At our age, my husband and I should be looking out for our own welfare, but our sons are a constant drain on us financially as well as emotionally.

What do other parents do in such a situation, Abby? And what do you suggest?

TIERED PARENTS

DEAR TIRED: At 25 and 30 it's time your "boys" were men. Perhaps they have never become responsible and self-supporting because you have always rushed in to rescue them when the going got rough.

Though motivated by "love," you have done them a disservice. You will not always be around to bail them out. Tell them that from now on they are on their own. They will respect you for it, and it might make men of them yet. I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is in the third grade and recently had a birthday party. She took the invitations to school and passed them out to the classmates she wanted. There were 29 kids in her class and she wanted only 23 of them at her party.

After the party her teacher called me and told me that my daughter should not have passed out her invitations at school unless she invited all the kids in her class.

Since when does a schoolteacher have the right to tell a pupil whom to invite to her birthday party? I would like your opinion in print.

OUTRAGED

DEAR OUTRAGED: Three cheers for the teacher! She is obviously much more understanding than you. The pain of having been left out will remain with those six uninvited children long after the fun has been forgotten by those who attended.

DEAR ABBY: I know a couple who live within blocks of his widowed 80-year-old mother.

They never visit her during the year. They call her on the phone maybe a couple of times a year.

On Mother's Day they send her a card with some money in the envelope. On the card is written: "Buy yourself something."

If you were that mother would you accept the money?

CLOSE RELATIVE

DEAR CLOSE: That would depend on how I felt about the givers.

Drilling the feds

CAMARILLO, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Stephen Brewster, a dentist, found out recently that he shares more than an interest in healthy teeth with one of his patients.

He asked the woman for her Social Security number for an insurance form, and she replied, "That can't be your number," he said.

"Why not," asked Duane Wilkins. "Because it's my number," Brewster said. They compared cards and discovered the same numbers: 363-14-9879.

"The odds of this happening must be a billion to one," said Brewster, who said he obtained his card in Michigan in the early 1930s, "right after they first came out."

Ms. Wilkins, 18, has lived all her life in Camarillo, 40 miles northwest of Los Angeles. She obtained her first Social Security card six or seven years ago, but lost it three years ago. She received a new card from the Social Security Administration, but says she doesn't know if it is the same number as her old card.

Informed of the coincidence on Friday, Maria Marshall, branch manager of the Social Security office in Oxnard, said, "I would think that would be a virtual impossibility."

Ms. Marshall said numbers are screened at the Social Security data processing center in Baltimore, Md., to avoid duplication. "I would never say it would not happen, though," she said.

Calling for help

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP) — Residents of the Quad Cities apparently needed more than snowshovels to help them make it through last week's blizzard.

The Rev. Fred Marsh said Sunday that calls to the city's "Dial-A-Prayer" number increased 125 a day to a total of 275 daily as people sought divine help in the face of the storm. The area was blanketed with more than a foot of snow, in addition to the 14 inches already on the ground.

"There's no doubt about it, that cabin fever is a reality and people are depressed when they're shut in and unable to get around," said Marsh, of the First Christian Church, which has sponsored the service for 12 years.

"I think people are down and want some help getting up. They want to hear an encouraging voice," he said.

Home energy management meetings booked by TESCO

If you are interested in staying warmer this winter, if you are planning to build a new home or remodel your current home, if you want to reduce your energy bills, then this is the meeting for you.

In order to help customers get more for their energy dollar, Texas Electric is sponsoring public meetings on Home Energy Management. The meetings will be held Tuesday 7 p.m. until 8:30 p.m., and Jan. 30, 1 p.m. until 2:30 p.m., in the Texas Electric Reddy Room, 409 Runnels.

They are designed to be of interest to homeowners of all ages as well as apartment tenants and managers. Topics concerned include: No Cost-Low Cost Ways to Save Energy, Tighten Up Procedures, Minor Investments in Energy Saving Materials and information on insulation, storm windows (how to make your own), weatherstripping, and caulking. Also discussed will be how to read your own electric meter, the electric bill, and how to do your own home energy audit.

The meetings will be presented by Sandra Kilough, TESCO Home

Economist, and Russell Tidwell, Customer Service Representative. Time will be allowed for a question and answer session. The public is encouraged to attend.

For the record

An article in Sunday's Herald listed the Glasscock County Junior Livestock Show as Sunday and today, when in fact, it will not be until the coming Sunday and Monday, Jan. 28 and 29.

Judging of the swine show will be at 1 p.m. Sunday, with lamb judging beginning at 7 a.m. Monday and being immediately followed by steer judging. The barbecue will be at noon, with the premium auction to follow. All activities except the barbecue will be in the heated Glasscock County Independent School District bus barn. The barbecue will be in the High School cafeteria.

The Herald regrets any inconvenience caused by the error.

$34 million flood control project in line for Texans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas is in line for a new $34 million flood control project but, like other states, should feel the pinch of President Carter's "lean and austere" 1980 budget proposal.

Carter's 2,206-page shopping list — including three volumes of explanation and analyses — officially arrives on Capitol Hill today.

The "lean" portion of Carter's budget calls for slicing 158,000 jobs nationwide under the Comprehensive Employment and Training program, cutting by $97 million funds for highways, railroads and mass transit systems and replacing the $1 billion anti-recession aid program to states, cities and counties with a $150 million program targeted to help cities with especially high jobless rates.

Also, the president proposes an across-the-board cut in Justice Department personnel that will cost the country 43 Drug Enforcement Administration agents, 281 FBI agents and 574 Immigration and Naturalization Service agents.

The president did note, however, that the INS, FBI and DEA would shift remaining personnel to top-priority areas: white-collar crime and investigation of illegal drug rings.

On the other hand, Texas should fare well in areas of defense and education spending. Carter has proposed a record $122.7 billion defense budget, and Texas ranks second only to California in receiving defense-related monies.

Texas would also be a prime recipient of bilingual education funds, which were tabbed for a $23 million increase.

Almost immediately, Congress will begin its annual fight with the White House over the spending of tax dollars.

When the 1980 budget goes into effect — Oct. 1, 1979 — Carter and Congress will have determined which programs — and states — emerged as winners in the budget battle.

Last year, Carter and the Democratic-controlled Congress differed sharply on public works. The president wanted Congress to fund new projects in one lump sum; Congress wanted to continue authorizing new project funds on a year-to-year basis.

Carter branded Congress' public works bill — which contained 27 more new projects than the president requested — as inflationary and vetoed it. The enraged House leadership tried to override the veto but failed.

The $34 million Baytown project — one of nine proposed new projects nationally — and a $32 million flood control project at Lakeview Lake top the Texas list.

Texas gets almost 6 percent of the proposed $3 billion Corps of Engineer budget — ranking the state sixth behind Oregon, Louisiana, Arizona, Alabama and Illinois.

Ironically, three of the four Texas projects that were branded as "inflationary" by Carter last year, received requests for funding in this year's budget. The three are navigation projects at the mouth of the Colorado River and another at Brazos Island Harbor, and a flood control project at Three Rivers.

Regarding other Texas items specifically listed in his proposed budget, Carter wants:

— more than $15.4 million for continuing construction at the Choke Canyon Dam on the Nueces River;

— more than $2.56 million for the Palmetto Bend Dam and Reservoir;

— $1 million for foundation work at the Twin Buttes Dam near San Angelo.

Forsan trustee election called for April 7

In its regular meeting, the Forsan School Board officially called a trustee election for April 7, 1979, to fill two places on the Board. The terms of Robert Roberson and Hamlin Elrod will end in April and candidates for those positions may file for aplice on the ballot in the office of Nova Scud-day, Tax Assessor and Collector for the Forsan Schools.

Roberson who is completing his second term on the board and his second year as president, has filed for re-election. He also served as secretary of the school board for two years. Roberson is presently comptroller for Grammer Murphy in Midland. His wife is a legal secretary for Hamby, Thompson, and Mouton.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberson are parents of twin boys, Don and Ron, graduates of Forsan High School in 1978, and presently students at Howard College, and Laurie, a first grade student at Elbow Elementary. Both Mr. and Mrs. Roberson were students and graduates of Forsan High School and have lived in this area all of their lives except while he was an accounting student at Texas Tech and employed for a short period in Lamesa as an accountant.

Larry Bristo, director of Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, has indicated that he will offer his name for election. Bristo moved to the Forsan School District from Abilene in the summer of 1978. His wife, Alta, is a certified homemaking teacher. They have two sons, Daniel, a 7th grade student at Forsan Junior High and James, a 10th grade student in Forsan High.

In other action the board extended Superintendent J.F. Poyner's contract through June 30, 1982, and hired Ronnie Taylor to fill the head football coach's position recently vacated by George White. White resigned all coaching duties but remains with the school as a science teacher. Taylor is in his fourth year as a coach and history teacher at the Forsan Schools. He has been assisting in high school football and coaching junior high boys basketball, football and track.

Trouble is brewing in Philippines

Are the Philippine Islands the next trouble spot on Planet Earth?

The Philippines may have to stand in line to get some attention from a world that has known nothing but unrest, distrust and dissension for many years now, but all the ingredients are present in the Philippines now for a first class brauhaha—not the least of which is repression.

PRESIDENT JIMMY CARTER, in the wake of anti-American demonstrations which have taken place in Iran and in view of his stand on human rights, would be wise to lend some thought to suggestions directed to him by Diosdado Macapagal, a former president of the Philippines concerning continued support for the regime of the iron-fisted regime of the incumbent PI leader, Ferdinand E. Marcos.

Macapagal bluntly suggested that the American government cut its ties with Marcos pointing out that Marcos had ruled by martial law for six years, had countenanced violations of human rights and had mismanaged the economy of the nation.

Billions of dollars borrowed from the World Bank have been spent "largely for non-productive inflationary and frivolous purposes like hotels, resorts, giant buildings, foreign trips, lavish gift-giving and high-style living," according to Macapagal.

Some parallels are to be drawn between the situation in Iran and the conditions that prevail in the Philippines. The beleaguered shah in Iran was a big spender, as is Marcos. Each had a cold regard for human rights—there is no telling how many people in each of the countries were smuggled in the middle of the night to be tortured, imprisoned or shot just because they dared to voice some complaint about living conditions.

Each managed to alienate significant portions of his constituency. In addition, there is telltale evidence of governmental corruption in each country.

THERE is a big difference between the two situations. Whereas the shah is in retreat, Marcos appears to be in no trouble and may be ensconced as long as America continues to support him. There is a persistent Muslim insurgency with which he must deal, but there is no rioting in the streets, and there is no indication that Marcos' government is about to crumble under its own weight.

Who would have thought, however, that the shah would have been considered unassailable a few months ago?

America is not going to be able to get out of Iran without a black eye. It's best then that we cut our losses to a minimum and assume low profile.

America's support for heavy-handed regimes that show utter contempt for the rights of the individual are so contrary to the beliefs that gave birth to this country. What is there about tyranny that so fascinates America's state department?

Long, hectic day

Around the rim

Carla Walker

Saturdays can be hectic at the newspaper.

As I write this, it is 10:30 p.m. Saturday, and I have just finished up my part of Sunday's paper.

Because the Herald is a small-staffed newspaper, the news-side reporters and editors switch out on Saturdays, with only a sports editor, one reporter and one news editor on duty. (Except that Tommy Hart doesn't believe in five-day workdays for himself and shows up almost religiously every Saturday to help out.)

WHAT FOUR REPORTERS and four editors do on weekdays, three people do on Saturdays for the Sunday edition.

Sometimes, things go nice and easy, with little to report from the major news sources—the city and county law enforcement offices.

Other times, things can get really wild. Each reporter recalls his own busiest Saturday—mine was last July, when the National Domino Tournament, Junior Rodeo and several other activities happened on the same evening.

Today was almost as hectic. The normal duties, checking police and sheriff's activity sheets, writing the many two-paragraph "blips" about activities in the community and other duties consumed a good deal of time, and then there was the Big Spring Kennel Club dog show.

Taking and printing a photo from that activity required some time, and I regretted not being able to get out to take a photo of the Best in Show. But, by 5 p.m. when the judging was to be completed, I was wondering how I was going to have time to finish everything else.

At 9 p.m., the final news page was completed, and the last sports page was only waiting for two late basketball games. Ah—time for this reporter to go home.

Not so.

A MAJOR ACCIDENT occurred, which meant that I had to run out and take pictures and try to get enough information for at least an article identifying the injured. (Danny Valdes showed as well, so I was able to concentrate on getting information for an article.) There was no time for a photograph to get in the paper, since the news pages were already turned in and ready to go on the press.

In the rush of trying to get back, wait for Officer Troy Hogue of the Big Spring Police to get all the names (without his help, I'd have never gotten enough information soon enough to get it in the paper), I never got to say the famous line:

"STOP THE PRESSES!!!!"

THAT LINE belongs in the movies only. All I had time to do was say—"Gotta remake part of Page One!"

The accident put the staff to a little extra trouble, and at the time, getting the paper out was uppermost in our minds. I don't believe, however, that our human compassion got lost in the rush of meeting deadlines. The fact that the presses were held up a few minutes was unavoidable, unless we were to ignore the accident until Monday. Worst of all, was that four people were hurt, possibly seriously.

Perhaps I've wandered slightly throughout this Rim, but it's been a long, hectic day, and like the Rim, it ended rather abruptly and sadly.

Jewish defection

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON—Leaders of the American-Jewish community are showing unexpected resistance to the new strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT II) based on Soviet failure to live up to previous agreements, particularly on human rights and the plight of Soviet Jews.

That fact, deeply disturbing to the Carter administration, is becoming apparent to high officials now lobbying American-Jewish leaders—along with other groups of citizens—to line up pro-SALT support for the bitter Senate battle ahead.

The depth of Jewish resistance to the new treaty, expected to be ready for signing in the spring, is another hurdle for the president's long-stalled SALT II hopes: few if any groups of Americans are better qualified to judge Soviet performance on past agreements than the American-Jewish community.

THERE IS not likely to be public opposition to the new treaty, but private hostility. Such leading and influential organizations as the American Jewish Committee, the American Jewish Congress, B'nai B'rith, the National Conference on Soviet Jewry and others have no intention of taking a hard-line, public posture against SALT. "We're not about to get out front," one influential Jewish leader told us. "SALT is not a peculiarly Jewish issue but an American issue. We just won't be doing anything to help."

That shades the hard truth that any new agreement with Moscow is, in fact, of more intense interest and concern to Jews than to non-Jews. The reason: Soviet restrictions on the emigration of Russian Jews, plus what officials of Jewish organizations here describe as "growing anti-Semitism" in the Soviet Union.

Soviet conduct toward the West and particularly Soviet performance on carrying out previous agreements with the U.S. have great importance on how the influential Jewish community reacts to any new agreement, SALT or other, with Moscow. As of today, the reaction is strictly negative. That argues for formal neutrality in the bitter Senate battle now looming, a neutrality that will cloak opposition.

One showcase that dramatizes this anti-SALT attitude was a paper prepared by the National Conference on Soviet Jewry at the specific request of Sen. Howard Baker, the Senate Republican leader, for his talk with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev early this month. Baker took the paper with him to Moscow, but decided at the last minute not to use it in the long session he and fellow senators had with Brezhnev.

Baker told us he felt his generalized warning to Brezhnev Jan. 10 that the Senate would definitely invoke "linkage" in studying the new SALT treaty was enough to make his point. "Linkage"—disavowed by the Carter administration—means that such Soviet actions as staging a coup in Afghanistan, subsidizing a Cuban mercenary army in Africa or exploiting turmoil in Iran will be fully considered by the Senate in deciding whether to approve the new SALT treaty. Approval requires a two-thirds vote.

IN ADDITION, Baker and other senators with him left on a Kremlin desk the almost ritualistic list of pressing cases of Russian Jews denied emigration visas to leave the country.

The paper establishes this premise: that "evaluating Soviet credibility in adhering to a strategic arms limitation document" depends on "an examination of past Soviet performance on international accords."

Joggers beware rubber suits

By Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have been contemplating going in for jogging and am hoping to lose the weight I have to. I have heard of people wearing rubber suits while jogging. I suppose to increase weight loss by perspiration. Do you recommend it?—Mr. H.A.

I certainly do not. I was glad to see in a recent national jogging publication that its editors also strongly discourage this. As a matter of fact, it is not wise to wear any garment that restricts evaporation. Increased sweating does not, contrary to popular thinking, cause any permanent weight loss. Natural thirst to replace the liquid lost will quickly put back the temporary loss. Otherwise, athletes who must perform vigorously on a regular basis would be mere shadows of themselves in a few days.

The real objection to air-tight plastic or rubberized clothing is that the sweat cannot evaporate and may cause a rise in internal body temperature, which can cause more sweating. The temperature may soon rise to dangerous levels. More than one death has occurred from such activity.

If you are over 30, have a thorough check-up before beginning a jogging program, another recommendation of the National Jogging Association. You can write to the association at the following address: National Jogging Association, 919 18th Street, N.W., Suite 830, Washington, D.C. 20006. They have many sensible tips for those who care to take part in this new national sport. As to your uniform, anything that is comfortable and not restricting is fine. You don't even need a jock strap, for example. Jockey shorts should provide all the support you need.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Is there a 100 percent foolproof way to tell whether a person is going to have a stroke?—Mrs. W.O.

Doctors wish there were such a test. Nothing can be 100 percent sure in medicine, especially where the blood vessels and the brain are involved, which they are in stroke. There are some pretty solid indicators of impending stroke, though. The chief one is decreased blood flow through the carotid arteries. Those are the vessels in the neck that supply blood to the brain. Blockages can be reliably detected. One study at the Tucson Medical Center showed that listening to the carotid blood flow through special sound detectors has been 90 percent accurate in telling if there is blockage. Another test involves observing the blood pressure in the eyes.

Other self-evident predictors of stroke are the so-called TIA's, the transient ischemic attacks. Those are fleeting episodes of faintness, vision disturbance, numbness, etc. and can indicate temporary blockages of brain blood supply.

Much can be done to change the course of things when such signs are recognized soon enough and problems treated, which they often can be.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What do you think of chewing one's food 60 or 70 times? I have heard some people even chew till it's liquid, then spit out what isn't liquid before swallowing. How helpful is this?—M.D.

It is always well to chew food sufficiently, but I think 60 or 70 times is going a bit far. There was a fad in the 19th century involving just the method you mention, in which food was believed best when liquified. When the gentleman who led this "chewing" crusade died, chronic constipation was felt to be a contributing factor. It was a silly idea then and it is now. I hope your letter doesn't portend a revival of it.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have a friend who still breast-feeds her two-year-old. I find it quite disgusting and needless. What is your opinion?—Mrs. C.

Usually weaning is done much earlier. So long as the child is getting some solid foods, which he or she should be by this time, it is perfectly harmless. The mother must be very tolerant of the teeth to prolong nursing this long.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My doctor is giving me Trilisate for my arthritis, but a friend tells me he is taking it for an acid stomach. Will you please explain what Trilisate is, and also if Trisogel is the same thing?—Mrs. W.B.

They sound the same but are not. Trilisate is a form of buffered aspirin, which may be used for arthritis. The Trisogel, made by a different company, is an antacid consisting of magnesium trisilicate and aluminum hydroxide gel. It is used for stomach trouble.

Dear Dr. Ruble: With TMJ syndrome would the pain be on one side of the head or both?—M.C.

TMJ stands for temporomandibular joint, the jaw "hinge" joint located just in front of the ear. Of course, there are two of these, one on each side. Pain is usually one-sided (in about 90 percent of cases from reports I've seen). However, head pain is easily radiated as a general headache, even with only one joint affected. It is also possible for both joints to be affected. Bruxism (grinding) of teeth can cause the problem, and is often associated with tense individuals, which I suspect from the rest of your letter you are.

CONFIDENTIAL TO H.A.—Less than 15 percent of hiatal hernias (in the gullet where it passes through the diaphragm) require surgery, according to studies. If you cannot accept your doctor's evaluation, get a second opinion. Physicians in general are happy for you to have another opinion. As to your other question, yes, switching to less constricting girdles can have a noticeable effect on hiatal hernia, as can weight reduction when needed. Surgery is indicated only after all other efforts fail.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Life is such a burden to me that I sometimes wonder if it wouldn't be better to end it all.—B.L.

DEAR B.L.: It is in your power to take such a drastic solution, but I want to tell you with all my heart that there is hope. I have known many people who felt as you feel, and yet today they have learned the joy of life which God can bring.

Your letter does not indicate what has brought about this feeling of misery in your life. Perhaps you are lonely, or you think you are beset by impossible circumstances. Perhaps you do not know the reasons for your depression.

It never ceases to amaze me, however, to realize that God is bigger than the problems we face. No matter what circumstances we have in our lives, He is able to help us. That does not mean all problems vanish necessarily, but He can give us a new strength and a new hope for the future.

How do I know that? I know it because I have put my life into the hands of Jesus Christ. He has saved me, and His Holy Spirit has been given to me. Furthermore, He actually wants to help you. He did not create you so you would be miserable. Instead, He sent His Son to reach out to you and give you a new life. Jesus said, "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly" (John 10:10).

I urge you to give yourself to Christ. It also would be good for you to contact a pastor in whom you have confidence, and speak frankly with him about your needs and feelings. But learn to trust the promises of God, and realize just how much He loves you and wants you to live for Him.

Threat of sharks are overplayed

One of the great movie grossers of all time was "Jaws," which promoted the idea that it might be dangerous to put one's foot in bath water anymore, until shark nets have been placed at each end of the tub.

Man-eating sharks can be dangerous but not "that dangerous." In reality, more people die from bee stings every year than those who succumb to attacks by sharks.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JAN. 23, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unusually good time to expand your activities far beyond their present boundaries. Think in terms of what your greatest development can be in policy directions and then study these so that you make the best possible use of them. Be outgoing.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good day to plan in detail a trip you have in mind. Cultivate new acquaintances and turn them into good friends. Avoid a tendency to exaggerate and all goes better for you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study obligations and know how best to discharge them. Friends and kin are most cooperative now so make the most of this.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get in touch with persons with whom you have joint interests and see how to make them more operative. Any community work you do now can be very remunerative.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Fine time to study work conditions and know how best to improve them. Talk over with fellow workers how to have more cooperation and harmony.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Meet friends socially and have a fine time. Put new creative ideas to work that need a little more attention as to detail.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try a different attitude at home and establish more harmony there. Establish good credit and feel more secure.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are now able to get your work done more efficiently, so don't procrastinate. Try to be of help to friends in their aims.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are able to add to your abundance now by some unusual methods. A good time to make repairs, or plan for them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do those things you really like to do and advancement comes easily for you. Be with as many friends as you can at entertainment places.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take time to be alone and think out a course that will help to make your life easier and more affluent. Confer with a clever adviser and gain his views.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A good day to be your gregarious self and see as many friends and acquaintances as you can. State your aims and ambitions and gain their cooperation for gaining them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Look to those in power for expressing your finest talents with their assistance. Get into community work that will add to prestige.

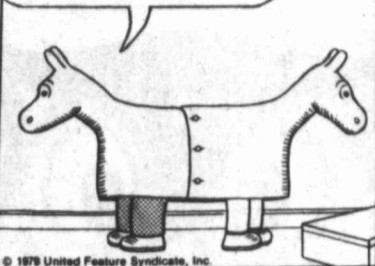

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will do well in any profession that deals with humanitarianism or social service which could entail much travel in foreign countries. Teach early to think before speaking and then this becomes a successful chart.

Final plans disclosed for Chamber banquet

Final plans have been released for the Chamber banquet which will be held next Saturday in the Big Spring High School Cafeteria at 7:00 p.m.

After a meal of rib-eye steak and all the trimmings, the annual report will be presented and will include the awarding of "Builders Awards" to special companies who have shown unusual growth, expansion, or contribution to the community through its business endeavors.

The slogan contest winner, whose winning entry is the banquet theme, will then be recognized.

Recognition of several important people will be made including some out-of-town guests, politicians, and special friends. Also past presidents of the Chamber will be recognized.

The retiring directors will also be cited. They are: John Arrick, Richard Atkins, Roger Brown, Ralph McLaughlin, Bill Read, and Andrew Swartz.

New directors and officers will be introduced along with ex-officio board members.

Presentation of Man and Woman of the Year will be one of the highlights of the banquet. Past recipients of this recognition include: 1972 — Clyde McMahon, Sr.; 1973 — Dr. J.E. Hogan and Dr. P.W. Malone; 1974 — Adolph Swartz and Dorothy Garrett; 1975 — Joe Pickle and Janell Davis; 1976 — Pearl Pittman and Polly Mays; 1977 — Winston Wrinkle and Johnnie Lou Avery.

Master of Ceremonies Wade Choate will introduce the humorous speaker for the evening, George McKinney, a widely known entertainer around the banquet circuit. He has a reputation of making his audience laugh from beginning to end of his talk.

Ambassadors are handling the banquet ticket sales. Those still needing tickets may call any Ambassador or call the Chamber office at 263-7641.

Minnelli legs honored

NEW YORK (AP) — Liza Minnelli is a leg up on the competition — in fact, two legs up, according to Forum magazine.

The magazine says in a story on "The 10 Most Sensual Pairs of Legs" that Miss Minnelli's rank No. 1. They are "legs that epitomize the beauty of human limbs," the magazine says.

Standing in Forum's line after Miss Minnelli are, in order: actresses Angie Dickinson, Shirley MacLaine and Jane Fonda; tennis star Chris Evert; first lady Rosalynn Carter; jetsetter Bianca Jagger; golfer Nancy Lopez; actress Cheryl Ladd and former Miss America Bess Myerson.

Opera superstar fired

NEW YORK (AP) — Opera superstar Joan Sutherland hasn't been fired, but she won't be singing arias with the Metropolitan Opera next season, a Met official says.

David Rubin, a company spokesman, said a report Sunday in the New York Daily News that Miss Sutherland "has been relieved... of all planned forthcoming engagements" was "very misleading."

"That's not true at all," he said. "We do not have long-term contracts with performers; our contracts run season to season."

Rubin said the Australian soprano will not perform at the Met next year because of a "scheduling conflict."

"We are in negotiations with Miss Sutherland for future years," Rubin said. "There's been no rift, we are talking."

Miss Sutherland appears tonight at Avery Fisher Hall in concert with another opera superstar, Luciano Pavarotti.

Ford defends commission

NEW YORK (AP) — Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping may get a part in a television special during his visit to the United States.

Teng and President Carter are expected to attend a special program on contemporary American culture at the Kennedy Center on Jan. 29.

"An American Entertainment" will be broadcast live by the Public Broadcasting Service, and will include scenes from the Joffrey Ballet's production of "Rodeo" and the Broadway musical "Eubie."

The program will be beamed by satellite to China, where as many as 200 million people may see it, PBS says.

Chinese premier featured

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Former President Gerald Ford has come to the defense of the Warren Commission.

In an interview published in Sunday's Grand Rapids Press, Ford said it is "pure speculation" to say President John F. Kennedy was the target of a conspiracy and added that the evidence compiled by the Warren Commission "proves Lee Harvey Oswald was the assassin."

As a congressman, Ford was a member of the commission, which concluded that three shots were fired, all by Oswald. The House assassinations committee concluded recently, on the basis of acoustical evidence, that a fourth shot came from a second source.

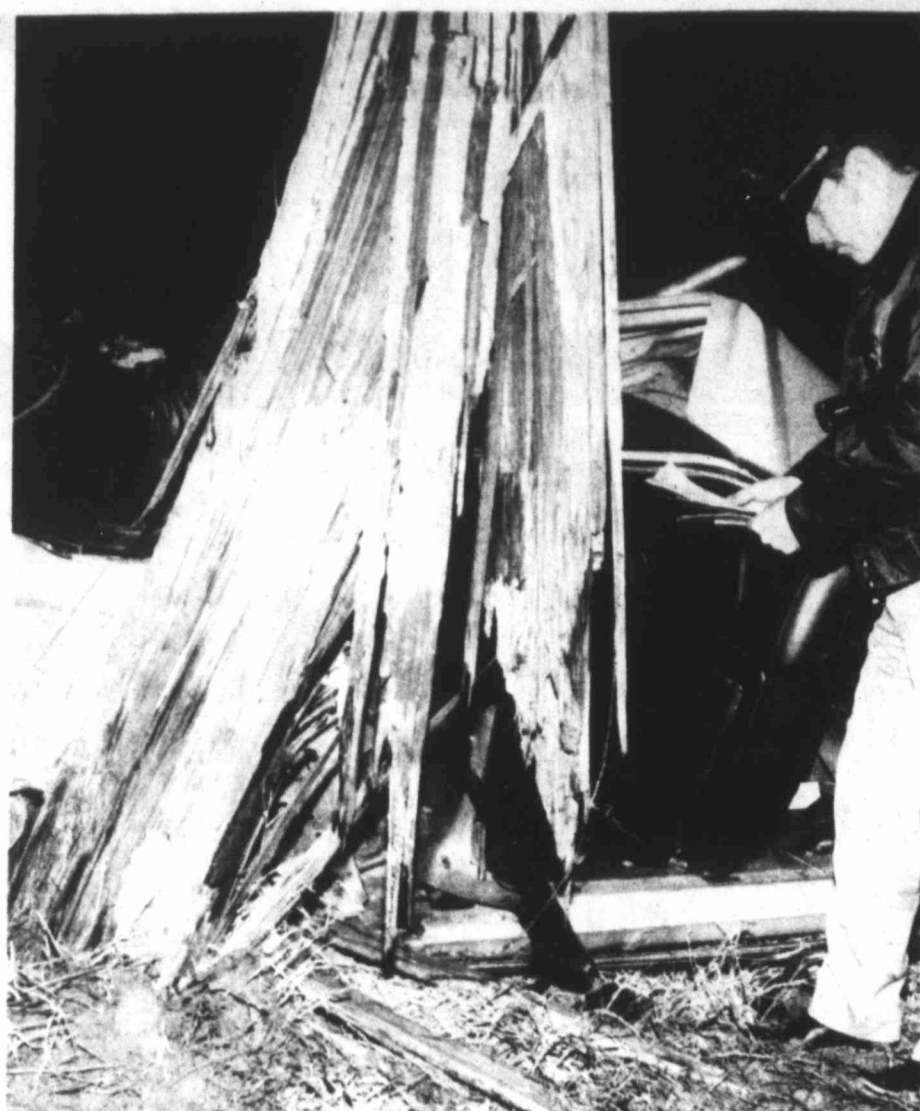

"It's utter speculation," said Ford. "We have all the physical evidence. There is pure speculation."

Mitchell probation program begins

COLORADO CITY — A new adult probation program will be initiated in Mitchell County Feb. 1.

The announcement of the program was made at a special session of Mitchell County Commissioners Monday. The program had been explained to the commissioners by Noel Wofford of the 32nd Judicial District Adult Probation Department in Sweetwater during a Sept. 11, 1978, meeting.

Caddo Matthews was named to the position of adult probation officer. He will complete his coaching contract at Loraine School this year. Teresa Reynaud has been hired as his secretary.

The Martin County program will be part of a uniform adult probation system which was begun in Texas Sept. 1, 1978.

As of that date, adult probation was handled on a state basis rather than by judicial department as it was previously.

The statewide program is being effected with some $17 million approved by the state government.

Bradshaw 'steels' show

MIAMI (AP) — The noise Tom Henderson ultimately heard was not his own. It was the turbulence churned up by Terry Bradshaw's passes.

Hollywood Henderson had played his big scene too early in the drama. But Bradshaw saved his best for last — for the final curtain in a decade of Super Bowls. And, when the last cheers faded, the Pittsburgh Steelers were proclaimed unquestioned champions, 35-31, over the Dallas Cowboys.

No one had ever thrown more than two touchdowns in one of these National Football League extravaganzas.

Bradshaw threw four of them.

No one had ever thrown for more than 250 yards in one of these games.

Bradshaw threw for 253 in the first half alone and wound up completing 17 of 30 passes for 318 yards, more than he'd ever thrown for in any pro game.

And no one — not legendary Vince Lombardi's Green Bay Packers, not Don Shula's once-perfect Miami Dolphins, not Tom Landry's defending champion Cowboys, not even Chuck Noll's Steelers — had won this Hope Diamond of pro football more than twice.

Henderson, the loudmouth Cowboy linebacker, was distraught — but unbowed — by the defeat. "As you can see, I'm a little sad," he said, letting tears flow freely. But he vowed that his brassness would continue to flow just as freely.

And Noll, when asked in the postgame bedlam about Henderson's pregame bragging literally leared as he replied, "Thomas who?"

In a Super Bowl XIII that turned out to be Super Rematch I, Bradshaw and the Steelers re-enacted their drama of three years ago, once again using the Cowboys as foils. Once again they grabbed the seemingly insurmountable lead — and once again they held their collective breaths before hanging on for the narrow four-point victory.

And once again, Lynn Swann, the Nureyev of wide receivers, was on the receiving end of Bradshaw's game-winning touchdown pass. Last time, it had been a 64-yard bomb and a 21-17 victory. This time it was an 18-yard coffin nail for the final points.

That made it 35-17 with less than seven minutes to play.

Roger Staubach, who also completed 17 of 30 passes but unlike Bradshaw did most of his throwing in the second half, found Billy Joe DuPree on a 7-yard scoring pass with 2:23 to play. Then he connected with Butch Johnson on a 4-yarder two minutes later after Dallas had pulled off a successful one-side kick.

The only way the Cowboys could win, of course, was to get the ball back once more on an on-side kick and pray for a miracle. It didn't happen.

Rocky Bleier's jumping catch of Bradshaw's third scoring pass of the day, a 7-yard looper 26 seconds from halftime, had put Pittsburgh in front for good. The task of keeping the Steelers there also fell to Bleier, who pounced on Dallas kicker Rafael Septien's soft roller with 22 seconds to play. Bradshaw then fell on the ball twice more to run out the clock.

The first big play that was costly to Dallas came only moments before Septien's 27-yard field goal, the only points scored in the third period, and shaved Pittsburgh's lead to 21-17.

Jackie Smith had spent 15 years in a St. Louis uniform, waiting in vain for a trip to an NFL championship game, and he finally made it with Dallas following a brief retirement. And there he was, all alone in the end zone, poised to make a game-tying catch.

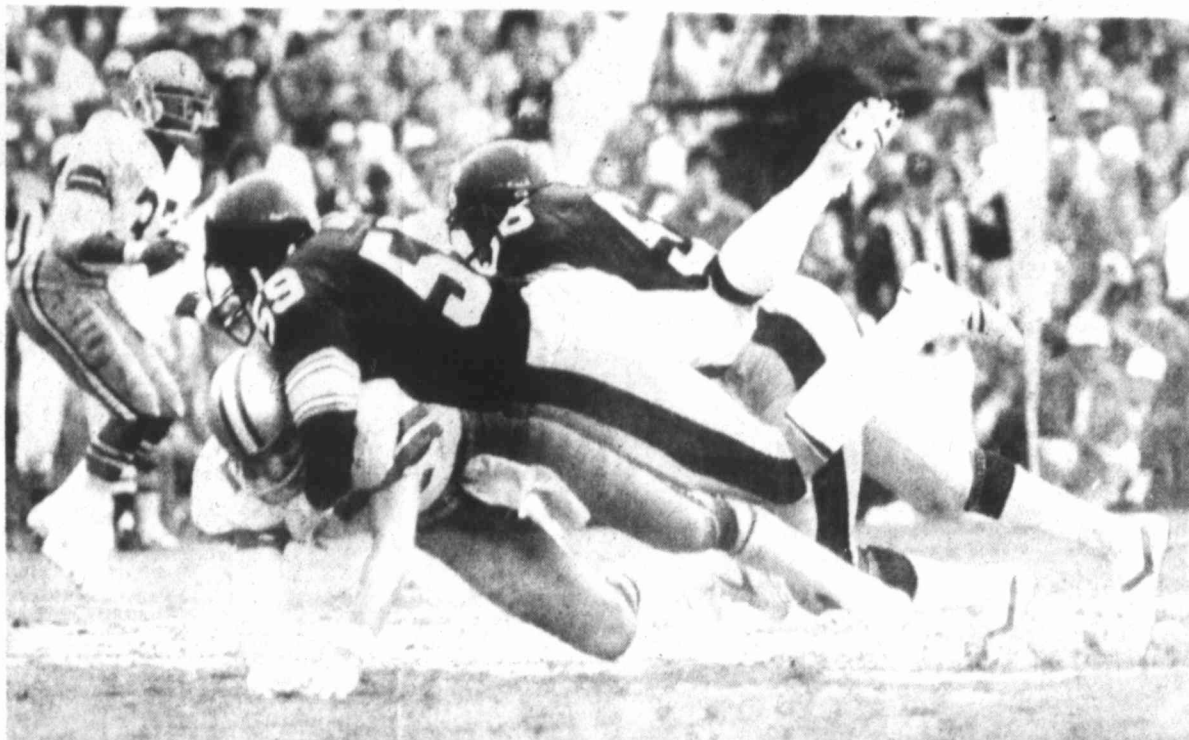

Staubach was shielded from Pittsburgh's thundering line, linebackers and defensive backs. They said they were expecting a run on the third-and-three situation. The quarterback flipped the ball almost — but not quite — perfectly.

And Smith dropped it.

The next play in the series of Cowboy back-breakers came with the score still 21-17 about four minutes into the final period. Swann, who caught seven passes for 124 yards, sprinted down the right side, almost stride for stride with cornerback Benny Barnes. There was contact and they went down in a tangle of legs and arms.

"There was a blitz and no pickup on it by our guys. And I knew it, so I just put the Hail Mary on it," Bradshaw said, alluding to the now-famous Hail Mary pass by Staubach that went for a touchdown in a playoff game against Minnesota.

This one didn't go for a TD — but it went a long way toward one.

STEELERS JUMP ON STAUBACH — Pittsburgh Steelers Jack Ham (59) and Robin Cole take Dallas Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach to the ground after Staubach got off a pass in Super Bowl game in Miami Sunday. Steelers won, 35-31.

Henderson's heart broken?

MIAMI (AP) — Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson flunked the final course Sunday in his self-taught Muhammad Ali School of Boasting. Hollywood couldn't back up his mouth.

The big-mouth of Super Bowl XIII, riding a heady tonic of correctly predicting a 28-0 demise of the Los Angeles Rams, was reduced to sobs, head bowed and even to moments of silence.

"I felt I gave all I could," Henderson said tearfully. "Right now, I'm on the verge of a heart attack."

Henderson was the next-to-last Dallas Cowboy to enter the dressing room after the Pittsburgh Steelers' unseated the defending World Champions 35-31 in a classic.

Steelers fans crowded around a ramp near the Dallas dressing room, shouting insults. Some printable ones included, "Hollywood, what happened to your mouth?" and "Hollywood, any more predictions?"

Henderson slumped heavily over the bench and snipped away rolls of tape, two hands swollen from fending off Steelers' blockers. He tried to speak and then broke down and said, "I'm not ashamed I'm not ashamed."

What Henderson had said in one of many numerous interviews before kickoff was that Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw was dumb, that he, Henderson, would swarm all over tight end Randy Grossman, and that the Steelers would fold in the fourth period because of their lack of depth.

That made Henderson 0-for-3 since:

(A) Bradshaw threw four touchdowns.

(B) Grossman caught three passes for 29 yards.

(C) The Steelers at least tied 14-14 in the fourth quarter.

"I'm upset.... I'm a competitor," said Henderson in a barely audible voice. "They were even triple-teaming me on the specialty teams."

Henderson did contribute two sacks and one big play, pinning Bradshaw's arms so that Mike Hegman could steal the ball and run 37 yards for a touchdown.

"I thought we had won the game right there," said Henderson. "We just gave Bradshaw too much time. I was rating his intelligence, not his ability. As for Grossman, he can't block. How many yards did they gain around end? He can catch, though."

Henderson admitted: "The Steelers are world champions.... I give them their praise."

Two passes — a dropped certain touchdown pass to Jackie Smith and a controversial interference call against cornerback Benny Barnes — had the Cowboys dressing room buzzing.

Smith dropped a third-quarter pass that would have tied the score at 21-21.

"I could have punted the ball to Jackie, he was so wide open," said Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach. "As a result, I took something off the ball.... if I had thrown a better pass, he would have caught it. It was nobody's fault. We were both trying, it wasn't for lack of experience. We're the two oldest guys on the team."

BIG SPRING, TEXAS JANUARY 22, 1979

TV a winner at Super Bowl

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

NBC Sports, in a refreshing break with tradition, treated Super Bowl XIII as a football game. The cameras and the commentary concentrated on the players and the plays. No one tried to explain the Super Bowl in terms of our society or to use it as the basis for a thesis on modern America.

NBC gave viewers superb pictures of the game with a minimum of distraction. There were no shots of celebrities in the audience, no trick photography, no artists making sketching between plays, no chats with visitors in the booth. The Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders made just one fleeting appearance.

It was a well-played, exciting contest and NBC stayed with it to the exclusion of all else. The tendency in the past has been to fill the empty spaces with extraneous pictures, cutesy chatter, boring reports from the sidelines and distasteful philosophy. But NBC, perhaps because it had such a good game to work with, chose to restrict itself to the action on the field. The result was a joy to football fans.

Don Ohlmeier, executive director of NBC Sports, said before the game that the plan was to keep it simple. The plan worked. The pictures selected by producer George Finkel and director Ted Nathanson told the story, marvelous isolated shots of Lynn Swann working free and catching a touchdown pass, and of Thomas Henderson making a solid tackle here and getting taken out of a play by a crushing block there.

NBC had a separate production team to isolate on the defense and came up with a variety of telling shots, including a stunning picture of Scott Laidlaw delivering a ferocious block to Jack Lambert's midsection.

All the key plays, including the questionable interference call on Dallas' Benny Barnes and Cowboy Jackie Smith's drop of a potential TD pass, were replayed several times from different angles. NBC brought 15 cameras to the game and they were used well.

Aggies, Longhorns vie for first

By The Associated Press

Texas Aggie cagers will be looking for a way to corral the stampeding Texas Longhorns tonight when the two old rivals clash in Austin for sole possession of first place in another wild Southwest Conference basketball race.

"At this point, I just don't know what defense to run against them," said Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf. "Maybe there isn't one. They may not have a weakness offensively."

The Longhorn herd warmed up for the Aggies by trampling Southern California 87-68 in a nationally televised game Saturday.

"I couldn't believe we played that well," Texas Coach Abe Lemons said after the game. "I was real happy to play so well on a national TV game."

It's real good for our program."

Meanwhile, the 15th-ranked Aggies held on to whip upstart Texas Tech 68-63 Saturday to set the stage for the Southwest Conference showdown.

"We had to get out early and not let them sit on the ball, because they were perfect in the first half," Metcalf said after the game. "They were only getting one shot, but they were making it."

"I'm pleased with our effort and poise, but we were really playing a fine team," said Tech Coach Gerald Myers. "It's tough when you lose, but I don't feel that bad about our effort and poise."

Both the Longhorns and the Aggies are 4-1 and hotly pursued by Arkansas and Baylor, both 3-2.

Texas Tech is right behind at 3-3 and Southern Methodist is 2-2. Houston and Rice are still in the hunt at 2-4, while Texas Christian lags behind at 0-4.

Baylor stunned SMU 93-67 in a regionally televised game Saturday while Houston trounced Rice 101-75.

"We got whipped every way you can get whipped," said SMU Coach Sonny Allen. "You have to give Baylor full credit."

"I don't know how long it has been since Baylor had three players score 20 points or more," Baylor Coach Jim Haller said of Vinnie Johnson, Wendell Mayes and Terry Teague. "I know not since I've been associated with Baylor (more than six years)."

DEJECTED COWBOY — Dallas Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach looks down dejectedly in closing moments of Super Bowl XIII with the Pittsburgh Steelers at the Orange Bowl in Miami Sunday.

QB demonstrates IQ

MIAMI (AP) — The country bumpkin fleeced the city slickers.

"Terry Bradshaw is so dumb," Dallas' Hollywood Henderson taunted earlier in the week, "he couldn't spell 'cat' if you spotted him a 'c' and an 'a'."

The big, balding Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback swallowed hard, but he said nothing in reply.

"I don't want to talk about it," Bradshaw told reporters who persisted on delving into the subject of his IQ. Instead, he waited until 4:12 p.m. on a hazy, damp Sunday in Miami's spectacular Orange Bowl and carved out an answer in what might be described as invisible skywriting — a parabola of passing wizardry — that gave the Steelers their third Super Bowl victory, 35-31.

Whatever Bradshaw's shortcomings in spelling — which undoubtedly have been demeaningly overstated — the Louisiana cattle and quarter horse rancher showed a remarkable faculty for geometry and mathematics, setting Super Bowl records in territory explored and figures etched in the record books.

As a football quarterback, his chosen profession, Bradshaw was Phi Beta Kappa — a genius.

"I can't say how accurate are estimates of Bradshaw's intelligence," quipped one football buff after witnessing the most stirring of all the XIII Super Bowls. "I only know that the Rhodes Scholar was back in Los Angeles watching the game on television."

The reference was to Oxford-educated Pat Haden of the frustrated Los Angeles Rams.

Bradshaw got his education at little-known Louisiana Tech. He grew up in a rural atmosphere around Shreveport, La., where he learned to love to fish, hunt and be around cows, horses and piles of hay.

"I'd rather be out there by myself, chewing tobacco," he said earlier in the week.

Cager goes AWOL

By The Associated Press

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's struggling basketball team, already suffering under its worst conference start since 1967, has been dealt a further blow with the apparent defection of starting center Chuck Aleksinas.

Kentucky Coach Joe Hall said that he hasn't heard from the 6-foot-11 sophomore from Morris, Conn., since Saturday's 66-55 loss to Tennessee. Kentucky's fifth loss in six Southeastern Conference games this year.

Jazz come alive when Pete sits down

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Sometimes it's better not to have a star in the game.

New Orleans, Philadelphia and Milwaukee all learned that lesson in National Basketball Association action Sunday.

Pistol Pete Maravich picked up two technical fouls and was ejected with 2:59 remaining in the third quarter of New Orleans' game against Atlanta. The Jazz, leading by just two points at that time, went on to outscore Atlanta 38-19 the rest of the way and beat the Hawks 108-87.

Philadelphia was having trouble keeping up with Boston until Julius Erving sat down in the second quarter. Then, using a lineup that featured two centers, the Sixers charged into the lead and went on to beat the Celtics 91-87.

Milwaukee guard Brian Winters didn't even get to play because of a sprained ankle. But Junior Bridgeman took his place and scored a season-high 30 points as the Bucks defeated the New York Knicks 138-114.

In the only other NBA games, the Cleveland Cavaliers edged the Chicago Bulls 94-93 and the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Golden State Warriors 113-107.

Jazz 108, Hawks 87

Pete Maravich had scored 25 points before picking up two technical fouls just five seconds apart from rookie referee Bob McAllister after complaining about a charging call. He was ejected from the game and that sparked his teammates. New Orleans led 70-68, but Jim McElroy came off the bench to take Maravich's spot and scored two straight field goals that sent New Orleans on its way again. The Jazz led 80-72 after three quarters and stretched that to 23 points near the end of the game.

76ers 91, Celtics 87

Philadelphia trailed by seven points when Coach Billy Cunningham decided to sit Erving down. The Sixers, using a front line of centers Caldwell Jones and Darryl Dawkins and forward Bobby Jones, then rallied for a 49-44 halftime lead. Although Boston regained the lead briefly in the third period, both coaches pointed to the second quarter as the key to Philadelphia's victory.

Bucks 138, Knicks 114

Milwaukee, leading by just two points at halftime, took command by outscoring New York 12-2 at the start of the second half and then drew away. Marques Johnson scored 33 points and also moved from his forward spot to relieve Bridgeman at guard.

Center Kent Benson scored a career-high 24 points for the Bucks. Knicks center Marvin Webster did not play because of a sore knee.

Cavaliers 94, Bulls 93

Terry Furlow scored 17 points, including a 25-foot jumper with 43 seconds left, as Cleveland beat Chicago to snap a five-game losing streak. After Furlow's basket made it 94-91, a layup by Chicago's Charles Dudley brought the Bulls to within one before Mickey Johnson missed a wild jumper from deep in the right corner at the buzzer.

After the game, which started at noon, EST, in deference to the Super Bowl's 4 p.m. start, Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch was in a hurry.

Lakers 113, Warriors 107

Jamaal Wilkes scored a season-high 28 points and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added 26 while Norm Nixon handed out 17 assists as Los Angeles dealt the Warriors their sixth consecutive loss. Golden State has not won at home in 11 games going back to January 1976.

Cowboys lose, Martina wins anyway

HOUSTON (AP) — Martina Navratilova, a devout Dallas Cowboys fan, overcame the shock of the Cowboys' Super Bowl defeat in time to advance to the finals of the $125,000 Women's Pro Tennis tournament here for the fourth straight year Sunday.

And if the fluctuations in the Cowboys' successes and failures mean anything, Navratilova should capture her fourth straight championship in the Houston stop on the women's tour in the final tonight.

"I lost in the Washington tournament and the Cowboys won," said Navratilova, who defeated Dianne Fromholtz 7-5, 6-0 Sunday to gain tonight's championship finals. "Now the Cowboys lost and I won."

Second-seeded Virginia Wade of England will challenge the top-seeded Navratilova for the $24,000 first prize. Wade defeated Wendy Turnbull of Australia 6-3, 6-2 in Sunday's other semifinal match.

Her Super Bowl prediction wasn't accurate, but Navratilova has another for tonight's title match with Wade.

"I look for a slugfest," said Navratilova, who has won 13 of 14 matches on the tour this year. "You should see a variety of shots. It just depends on who is doing better. You never know who will win when the top players meet."

Fromholtz and Navratilova played an entertaining first set that went down to the 12th game before Navratilova, leading 6-5, broke Fromholtz after two deuces to win the set.

Fromholtz fell behind love-40 in the sixth game of the first set before winning five straight points to hold service.

Navratilova struggled in the 11th game before holding service after two deuces. Fromholtz crumbled in the second set, although she took the final game to five match points before losing.

"I was just hitting out and not worrying about it going in," Navratilova said. "I was just concentrating on where I wanted to put it."

Wade broke Turnbull in the seventh and ninth games to win the first set. After the pair traded service breaks in the fourth and fifth games of the second set, Wade again cracked Turnbull's serve in the sixth and eighth game win complete the match.

"I didn't really have to many complaints with my game," Wade said. "I didn't make many unforced errors."

The women's pro tennis circuit is sponsored by Avon Products.

Clements loves initiative and referendum

Will Farabee take heat to gain gratitude?

By SCOTT CARPENTER

and JIM DAVIS

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Gov. Bill Clements is pledging to bring initiative and referendum to Texas, and his minority-party status may aid his effort.

He's going to need all the help he can get to get the Senate to go along with the idea.

Initiative allows citizens to put proposals on a ballot by petition and to make them into laws by majority vote.

Referendum lets voters petition against and reject laws passed by the legislature.

Californians used initiative to get Proposition 13 into law.

Clements loves initiative and referendum, calling the system a key goal of his administration.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby hates

the idea. He says initiative can lead to poorly worded laws that haven't been scrutinized for ramifications.

The Senate turned down such a proposal during the tax relief special session called last summer by Democratic Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

If left alone, most senators would do the same this time. But Clements isn't the kind to start a fight and back off.

And his determination on initiative and referendum is worrying some senators. Twenty-seven of the 31 senators are Democrats.

Clements is a Republican and wouldn't mind seeing those Democratic senators in political hot water. He is in a better position as a Republican to take his case to the people — trying to build up public pressure on the Senate.

Senators don't like that forum. In fact, they don't like controversies that could become future hot campaign issues.

Hobby may have helped the senators out by appointing Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, as chairman of the Senate Jurisprudence Committee.

Farabee hates initiative and referendum as much as Hobby does, and his committee is the one that will decide if the matter ever gets to the Senate floor. If Farabee takes the heat and kills the matter in committee, he will gain the gratitude of senators who don't want a record vote on the controversy.

It's hard for an opponent to develop a campaign issue without a record vote.

 Lt. Gov. Hobby comes across to some persons as a quiet, dry sort, but he obviously has a strong sense of humor.

For the inaugural parade Hobby dressed in a coachman's outfit, including a top hat, in the mode of the horse drawn surrey that carried him down Congress Avenue.

On Hobby's lapel was a political button that must have made Gov. Clements do a double take. It said: "Hobby for Governor."

But a closer inspection showed the picture on the button was Hobby's father, former Gov. William P. Hobby Sr.

 The Senate Finance Committee was reviewing state mental health-mental retardation programs, and Sen. Raul Longoria, D-Pharr, wondered aloud why the cost has grown so much over the years.

MALDEN AND HALEY HONORED — Karl Malden, left, has a word with author Alex Haley, Friday evening in Munich after a West German magazine presented both of them with "Bambi" awards. Malden's award was for his role in the television series "The Streets of San Francisco" and Haley's award was the television serial, based on his best-selling novel, "Roots."

We need each other

By Bill Albright
Executive Vice President,
Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce
Industrial Growth and Development

"Yes, but what have you done for me lately?"

When asked of the Chamber of Commerce, that somewhat humorous — more often, deadly serious question is a true indication of a real need for better understanding. It also evidences an absence of appreciation. A need for better understanding, because the Chamber is organized to provide opportunities for "citizens to do something good for their community."

Oh, I know most of us have the natural tendency to say "I'm lookin' out for ole no. 1, me!" — "What do I get out of it?" — "Why should I be expected to help?" Well, regardless of how independent we sometimes like to feel, we are interdependent on most segments of our society. Realizing that we do rely on others, it should be natural for us to want to make things happen that will benefit those around us — our family, friends, neighbors, members of our social groups and of course, our fellow citizens in our community. And, regardless how affluent or influential we may be, there are many desirable activities that we just can't do for ourselves on an individual basis. We need each other and we need the benefits and advantages that a cooperative society provides.

That's where the Chamber comes in. First of all, the Chamber is all of us working together to improve the total living condition for our community. Each of us, or even several of us, in small groups would have little effect on the overall improvement of our situation. But, together, with purpose, goals, resources, determination and leadership, we have proved that we can accomplish unprecedented results.

As Inez and I were returning from the Coahoma State Bank Open House last Sunday, we heard one of our local citizens say on the radio, and this is not a quote, but rather the thought, "I'm not sure why our economy has held up so well and why so many people are moving to Big Spring. I'm just glad it's that way." Well, I'm glad too, but I'm disappointed that the speaker wasn't sure why it was happening. That reflects absence of appreciation, appreciation for the efforts of our whole community — with the guidance and direction of local citizens who comprise the leadership of the Chamber of Commerce. We have created through a positive program an image which broadcasts optimism, spirit and prosperity. That's what it is all about.

The Chamber, which is you and your neighbors, is working for you and your neighbors to make the Big Spring Area a better place for you and your neighbors. Instead of, "What have you done for me lately?" — wouldn't it be more appropriate to ask, "What have I done for my community lately?" I hope you'll be comfortable with the answer you get.

SHOP THE BIG SPRING AREA FIRST

With both the state and federal legislative bodies back in session in Austin and Washington, we can expect an increase in the action we will be required to provide here on the local scene. I think we can all agree that we have far more government than we really need.

The first item of business and a real challenge to our national approach to representation, will be the attempt to ratify an amendment to the constitution to allow the city of Washington, D.C. two U. S. Senators and at least one U.S. Congressman.

The bureaucracy in our nation's capitol is far reaching enough as it is, and the additional weight of a couple of Senators and a Representative seems to me to be an insult to the sovereignty of each of our 50 states. This sort of legislation emanating from Congress is a perfect example of Big Brothers getting bigger and Big Government getting too BIG!

If we don't want to get "hustled" out of our American Way of Life, we're really going to have to HUSTLE!!!! HUSTLE!!!! HUSTLE!!!!

Three die in Austin car crash

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — About 2 a.m. Saturday, a 1972 Ford Pinto with six occupants pulled away from a nightclub on Texas 71 on the south edge of Austin.

A 1970 Buick, with its driver and one passenger, also pulled out of the parking lot.

Seconds later, the Pinto was re-ended as it moved at about 25 mph in the west-bound lane of the divided highway, police said.

The Pinto's gasoline tank burst into flames, engulfing the vehicle in fire, police said. Three passengers burned to death, and officers said the other three were saved only because passers-by pulled them from the burning car.

The two passengers in the Buick suffered minor cuts.

Police jailed the driver of the Buick, pending further investigation. No charges were filed Sunday.

The Pinto is one of 1.5 million Pinto and Mercury Bobcat sedans from the 1971 through 1976 model years recalled last June by Ford for modification of their fuel tanks.

The occupants of the other car, Jose Gonzales, 25, and Miguel Rosales, 34, both of Austin, suffered minor cuts.
