American Losses Heavy In Communist Ambush

By RICHARD MERRON

PLEIKU, South Viet Nam (AP) — American cavalrymen today claimed at least 300 North Vietnamese killed during a Communist ambush of U.S. forces in the Ia Drang Valley.

The ambush was also costly for the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division, which may have suffered the highest American casualties of any single engagement of the war in Viet Nam. One company was virtually wiped out and some other units of a reinforced battalion of the cavalrymen suffered serious losses.

(A U.S. spokesman in Saigon termed American casualties in the action moderate. He said U.S. troops still held the battleground today.)

Skirmishinig persisted tonight. U.S. sources said an enemy force estimated at one platoon — perhaps 30 or 40 men — fired mortars and small arms at one group of cavalrymen. Another U.S. force came in light contact with the Communists about six miles away there was no immediate report of casualties.

U.S. B52 bombers struck Communist positions overlooking the valley for the fifth and sixth times today to support the American troops.

After 6½ hours of hard fighting, dozens of dead Americans lay on the battlefield Wednesday night beside bodies of enemy dead. Wounded Americans crowded aid stations in Pleikum

U.S. patrols reported they counted at least 300 dead Communists on the battlefield, and a spokesman said the enemy toll appeared certain to rise. Previously, U.S. spokesmen had reported 890 North Vietnamese killed in the fighting which has raged in the valley in the central highlands since Sunday.

No U.S. casualty figures were announced, in accordance with U.S. security policy. But before battle had caused the heaviest American losses in the war.

Elsewhere, in South Viet Nam, Viet Cong battalions destroyed five U.S. spotter planes and inflicted moderate casualties on Vietnamese Rangers defending the Tan Hiep airfield 35 miles southwest of Saigon. A U.S. adviser said 28 Viet Cong bodies were found. There were no American casualties.

The North Vietnamese in the Ia Drang Valley lay in the underbrush and hid in trees to ambush a battalion from the U.S. 1st Cavalry. A relief force reached the scene at nightfall, and fighting was heavy during the night.

Dozens of wounded were flown to Pleiku, 25 miles to the north. The relief force found American dead lying beside dead enemy troops and the wounded screaming in fear and pain.

The battalion was ambushed as it marched from the tiny helicopter landing zone three miles away where two air cavalry battalions had beaten back wave after wave of enemy attacks since Sunday. An estimated 1,500 enemy troops are in the area, 220 miles northeast of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

In advance of a B52 bombing attack on Communist positions on Chu Phong Mountain, the two battalions had pulled out of their position at the foot of the mountain. Helicopters flew one battalion to an artillery base about three miles to the southeast. The other battalion hiked north.

Northeast Bears Brunt Of Storm

By The Associated Press

A storm hovered over the Northeastern United States today, packing strong winds, snow and cold.

The storm struck the Lake Huron area Tuesday before it swung over the coast of Maine Wednesday night.

Southern California, after a brief respite from four of the area's rainiest days on record, waited for another expected two-day deluge.

Below - freezing temperatures penetrated as far south as Georgia.

Rain fell from the Pacific Coast inland to the Rocky Mountains, and bitter cold gripped the Midwest.

But the brunt of the attack today was in the Northeast.

Meadville, in western Pennsylvania, reported 9½ inches of snow on the ground. A 62-year-old woman was killed when her car slid across a slushy highway and hit a tree.

Blairsville, Pa., reported 3 inches of snow. Temperatures were below freezing across all of Pennsylvania.

High winds toppled a 20-foot cinder-block structure in northeastern Pennsylvania, killing a construction worker.

Gale warnings were up along the Atlantic Coast from Maine to Cape Hatteras, N.C. Heavy-snow warnings were in effect in sections of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

In the early-morning hours, 9 inches of snow covered the ground at Newport, Vt. Seven inches of it fell within six hours.

Jet Output Is Threatened

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Machinists at McDonnell Aircraft Corp. are preparing for a strike at midnight that would halt production of Phantom jet fighter planes used in Viet Nam and could delay two Gemini space shots.

Some 11,000 members of District 9 of the International Association of Machinists jammed a downtown auditorium Wednesday and overwhelmingly rejected a company contract offer. The rejection is tantamount to a strike vote. The McDonnell plant has 35,000 employes, 17,000 of them machinists.

A strike would immediately hit production of the Phantoms, used by the Navy, Air Force and Marines in Viet Nam. About 50 now are on McDonnell production lines.

The walkout also may reach to Cape Kennedy, Fla., where about 500 McDonnell employes, including some machinists, are working on the launch of Geminis 6 and 7, scheduled for Dec. 4 and 13.

Machinists at the Cape voted to accept the contract proposal, but union officials said the local is closely aligned with the St. Louis local and might be tied in with what is done in St. Louis.

William Rollins, president of the union's District 9 said in St. Louis pickets will be set up at the McDonnell plant in St. Louis and at the Cape.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Houston said the effect of a strike on the Gemini launchings could not be forecast "until we know its extent and duration."

Eugene Glover, machinist union vice president, said the union must "take into account the situation at the Cape."

He said he would confer today in a three-way telephone hookup with union officials in Washington and representatives of the Cape Kennedy members. One of the points to be discussed, he said, is a possible dispensation from striking for machinists working on the Gemini launchings.

Federal officials in Washington expressed their concern.

"The national interest requires that immediate further efforts be made to resolve the dispute," Director William Simkin of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said in a telegram to company and union officials. He asked them to meet with him Friday in Washington.

Aid Speeds To Vessel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—While a Coast Guard plane circled overhead, rescue vessels sped today to a Norwegian cargo ship which called for help when 650 miles southwest of San Francisco.

The ship, the 552-foot Martha Bakke, radioed she was endangered by shifting deck cargo.

A Coast Guard plane from San Francisco said at daybreak the 11,440-gross-ton ship did not appear to be sinking or taking water, although she was not under way.

Coast Guard headquarters here said the main danger apparently came from 12-foot Pacific Ocean waves, the result of a storm off the California Coast.

The closest merchant ship was about 10 hours away—150 miles—from the Martha Bakke.

FORT WORTH (AP)—Searchers recovered the body of Harvey Armer, 8, early today from Benbrook Lake. He drowned Sunday when a boat overturned.

Many Local Residents Greet Mahon

Rep. George Mahon, Congressman from the 19th District of Texas, was renewing acquaintances in Snyder today.

He and Mrs. Mahon greeted scores of local residents at a coffee this morning at the Snyder Savinigs and Loan Association community room and Rep. Mahon was scheduled to address a joint meeting of Snyder service clubs at a noon luncheon.

Rep. Mahon, Scurry County's Congressman for some 25 years before this county was switched to the 17th District several years ago, is slated to resume his role as Scurry's representative in the House next year under the recent redistricting plan adopted by the Texas Legislature.

"It is good to be back in Snyder," Rep. Mahon said this morning. "Although this has been a sort of foreign territory to us for several years, you have always been close enough for us to keep up with things in Scurry County."

Among those greeting Rep. and Mrs. Mahon at the coffee were Scurry County Democratic Chairman Frank Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, along with other local party leaders and public officials.

The Snyder Rotary Club, which holds its regular weekly luncheon meeting on Thursdays, was host to members of other local service clubs at the luncheon today for Rep. Mahon's address.

Rail Strike Delay Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Mediation Board reported today it has stepped in to seek postponement of a railway clerks strike against the Santa Fe Railway Co., and there are indications the walkout will be deferred.

That would involve a recess in a stoppage already ordered into effect. The 9,000-member Brotherhood of Railway Clerks walked out in a dispute involving demands for changes in work rules, pay scale adjustments and fringe benefits.

The mediation board, which handles railroad and airline labor disputes, said it asked both labor and management to postpone action so a federal mediator can seek a settlement.

A board spokesman said indications were that the strike would be deferred. He said there had been no formal word of a postponement, but those indications came in telephone conversations.

Work Begins On New Rights Law

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again the Justice Department's civil rights machinery is gearing up to meet presidential demands for tough legislation aimed at securing the rights of Negroes.

Two years ago it was sweeping civil rights legislation. Last spring it was a law aimed at guaranteeing the ballot to Negroes.

And now the object is a bill aimed at taking racial discrimination out of the jury box at all levels of the judicial system, from county to federal.

President Johnson ordered the department this week to come up with a measure to present to Congress "clear in its purpose and specific in its aim ... to prevent injustice to Negroes at the hands of all-white juries."

High - level department sources indicated Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach is starting from scratch in his attempt to draw up a bill that will meet the President's demand.

"It's just too early to begin discussing the possibilities," one official said. "Right now what we've got to do is study the Southern jury system as it is today. And then we're faced with a whole batch of problems in coming up with legislation that will do the job without violating the Constitution."

Under the 1964 Civil Rights Act, the government already has intervened in several suits charging officials in Alabama counties with systematic exclusion of Negroes from juries. But without further legislation that is the limit of federal action in this field.

West Plans War On Subversion

By LEWIS GULICK

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Foreign ministers of the Western Hemisphere set up working groups today following a strong call by Brazil's president for them to update inter-American machinery to combat infiltration and subversion.

"It is urgent that we, the members of the inter-American system, rethink our concepts and preconceptions in the light of the new realities," President Humberto Castello Branco declared in formally opening the special inter-American conference Wednesday night.

The Brazilian chief chided past hemisphere parleys for "academically mulling over principles and provision that, when a dispute comes up, we do not show any inclination to obey."

Stoutly defending the intervention in the Dominican Republic, Castello Branco said the hemisphere defense system was devised in the early postwar years to protect against direct armed aggression. Now aggression threatens more subtly "through infiltration and subversion" and "it is therefore imperative that we take a new look at the concepts of aggression and intervention," he said.

His keynote rang harmoniously with a theme sounded by President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk after Washington ordered troops into Santo Domingo to save lives and prevent a Communist takeover. Of the five Latin-American nations which sent troops to join the Americans in the peace force formed by the Organization of American States, Brazil sent the biggest number.

Rusk, heading the U.S. delegation to the conference, declined public comment on the Brazilian's proposal at this time. He planned to deliver the American speech early next week after some other delegates have had their say.

Texas Railroad Commissioner Byron Tunnell, principal speaker at the annual meeting, told the PBPA members that their association has responsibilities in the industry similar to those of citizens in their community.

He traced the history of trade associations, noting that they were typically American. He said such organizations first appeared in this country prior to the Civil War and thereafter they multiplied rapidly.

As for the oil industry specifically, Tunnell said that its welfare demands an end to disunity among groups within the industry if it is to solve its problems.

PRESIDENT OFFERS WITTY ADVICE TO PRINCESS MEG'S HUSBAND

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was "Everything's Coming Up Roses" as President Johnson launched the dancing with Princess Margaret at a candlelit White House party honoring the royal British visitor and her husband.

The gay, informal festivities, also marking the Johnsons' 31st wedding anniversary — went on until 2 a.m. and the frug and waltz shared equal billing in the East Ballroom.

The princess and her husband, Lord Snowdon, were enjoying themselves "wildly," said lady-in-waiting Elizabeth Cavendish.

He said: "I have learned that only two things are necessary to keep one's wife happy.

"First, let her think she is having her own way. And second, let her have it."

Johnson declared he was beginning his 32nd year of marriage "with the most wonderful woman in the world." And the dinner guests burst into applause.

The President was taking his first turn on the dance floor since his gall bladder operation Oct. 8, and he showed no signs of difficulty.

The dancing got off to a slow start when many guests seemed unsure whether royal protocol permitted cutting in on a princess. "It's quite all right," the princess' lady in waiting and U.S. chief of protocol Lloyd Hand assured inquirers.

In her toast, the princess said she would take home "superlatively happy memories of all that we have seen and done."

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My brother Joe passed away last January and was buried in a plot with an empty plot beside it. I was told the other plot was for Hilda. (Hilda is his second wife.) I knew Joe had bought a double plot when his first wife, Zelda, died, and I was surprised that Joe wasn't buried next to Zelda. However, I didn't say anything. Just yesterday my brother, Hymie, who was in charge of all the funeral arrangements, told me confidentially that in Joe's will he asked to be buried next to Zelda, but the will wasn't read until after the burial. I told Hymie that I didn't think this was right, and we should take steps to do something about it. Hymie said, "Oh, what's the difference? Joe and Zelda are both dead now, and it might hurt Hilda." What do you think?

THE "SISTER"

DEAR SISTER: Let the sleeping man lie. No good will come from exhuming the issue.

DEAR ABBY: Virgil and I have been married for 14 years and we have three children. Our problem is our families—on both sides. They have made nervous wrecks of my husband and me. On the advice of several doctors we have decided to quit associating with all our relatives, but they refuse to leave us alone. They drop in all the time and irritate us by bringing up subjects they know we don't care to talk about. If they give us Christmas gifts this year, should we accept them or not? If you advise us to accept them, we'll have to give them gifts—right? I hate the thought of such hypocrisy. There is no getting along with these people. They have stirred up nothing but trouble ever since our marriage. What is your advice?

VIRGIL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I advise you to follow your doctors' orders, and quit associating with all who irritate you. But let these people know of your intentions so they won't continue to drop in and annoy you. Once you have done this, you won't have to worry about any Christmas gifts.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest your answer to the roomer who had noticed things missing from his room and later found it was the nine-year-old boy who had taken them. I liked the answer you gave him, and hope for the boy's sake your advice is heeded.

If this roomer could sit down and visit with some of the 12- and 13-year-old boys in a Training School or Reform School, he'd learn that most of these boys blame their teachers and parents for letting them get away with small things until they were finally caught by the police, and then it was too late for parents to intervene.

I've worked with boys in trouble, and most of them tell me they never had a father who cared enough to punish them unless he was drunk, and then he used his fists or a club. I know of some cases where the boy continued to steal until he tried the one "big job" which cost him his life with a bullet in his head or a car wreck while fleeing the police.

Maybe if you print this letter, parents and teachers will realize they owe the young people entrusted to them the time and effort to make sure they are punished for all wrong acts before it is too late.

Copper Is Released To Hold Prices

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The [illegible] copper from its stockpile. It says the aim is to nip the climb [illegible] shortage of the metal.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced the decision Wednesday night, saying the world copper situation threatens a disruption which could lead to strong inflationary developments.

The announcement came one week after similar government proposals had forced a price-rise rollback in the aluminum industry.

There was no immediate comment from major copper companies as to whether they would follow the aluminum pattern and cut back prices.

Most U.S. copper producers increased their prices 2 cents a pound — from 36 cents to 38 cents — during the early stages of the aluminum controversy. Only Kennecott Copper Corp. held firm at the lower level. The defense chief said speculative market prices in London and New York have been running between 67 and 70 cents a pound.

McNamara said the release plus three other actions affecting the metal had been discussed with leading U.S. copper companies.

Power Cells May Delay Gemini 7

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —Trouble with power-producing fuel cells threatens to delay the [illegible] astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr.

Sources said any postponement probably would be for two days. There was no indication when a decision would be made.

A National Aeronautics and Space Administration official said there was a possibility of keeping the Dec. 4 schedule by working on Thanksgiving and weekends, normally off days.

A NASA spokesman said that during a test Tuesday, pressure apparently built up and forced liquid hydrogen into the two fuel cells, which combine hydrogen and oxygen to produce electrical power. The spokesman said the cells may not have been harmed, but to be on the safe side for the intended 14-day mission, the decision was made to replace them.

If Gemini 7 is delayed, the companion Gemini 6 flight, to be launched nine days after Gemini 7, also would be postponed.

Bergen Acts, Wants To Photograph

By VIVIAN BROWN

Now that she's an actress blande Candy Bergen 19, spends a good deal of time trying to figure how she can be a photographer.

"That's really my first love," she explains. "That's what I want to be more than anything."

The chances are slim, she realizes. She hadn't even finished making her first picture, "The Group." She thought of it as a summer job. Then she was signed to do "The Sand Pebbles."

"I worked as a photographer when I was going to the University of Pennsylvania," she says, "and I've just done a story and lots of pictures of people in the cast for a national magazine."

At first she didn't enjoy making the movie.

"I kept wondering why I had gotten into it, but then decided it was sort of silly to give up something before I knew what I was doing. Now that I'm working with a lot of fine actresses who do not depend on Hollywood publicity stunts to keep them going, I have more respect for the movies."

Candy has been around the theatre since childhood, backstage with her father, ventriloquist Edgar Bergen. She always thought of dummy character Charlie McCarthy, as her little brother.

"Lots of times because of my father, people have offered me jobs on television and shows, but I didn't get involved until I had some education. One big break is that "and Pebbles" will be made in the Orient, the part is small and I'll be able to do photography while I'm there."

She has already gotten a magazine assignment to photograph Taiwan and Hong Kong, something she has always wanted to do. She hopes to moonlight.

Candy has been to schools in California, Washington, D. C. and Switzerland for two years. She didn't go back to the Swiss school because her mother was having a baby. Her brother is 4 years old.

"But if I hadn't left California when I did, I'd probably be a parking lot attendant," she says.

It is very hard for her to learn to be cooperative with people, she says.

"I can't accept the fact that I can't say what I think," she says. "I've always been outspoken, maybe to the point of being rude, but lots of times you say something humorous, and people make you sound like an idiot. My parents and everyone are always lecturing me about what I say."

Candy and her father have a lot of fun when they are together.

'Sometimes he pretends he's someone else waiting to see me. When I get my hair curlers out and into my dress, there's daddy just throwing his voice around, trying to pretend my date arrived early."

Tomato Artistry Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

THE FRESH TOMATO is an engaging thing — just right for camouflage cookery. What cook can resist, on occasion, fashioning a tomato into a mushroom, carving it into a rose, or slicing it into a poppy?

TOMATO MUSHROOMS

We first found tomato mushrooms shown in a colored illustration in an old cookery book by Madame F. Nietlispach. Madame's directions for "Tomatoes as Button Mushrooms" are:

"Use small firm tomatoes and hard - boiled eggs. Make a thick bed of mayonnaise on a salad plate. Cut off a little of the pointed end of the egg so that it will stand firmly in the mayonnaise. Cut the tomatoes in half, scoop out the pulp and place the caps carefully on the eggs. Shake a tablespoonful of chopped parsley over the mayonnaise and arrange little spots of mayonnaise on the tomato caps."

We have several suggestions to add to the Nietlispach directions. First, use the rounded end of the egg for the base. Second, use wooden picks to fasten the tomato half to each egg or the tomato mushroom cap may slip off the egg mushroom stem! Third, use salad greens to simulate the grassy base and accompany "Tomatoes as Button Mushrooms" by a savory dressing.

TOMATO ROSES

To carve tomatoes into roses, choose tomatoes of medium size; wash and dry them. Hold a tomato, stem end up, in your left hand. With a sharp paring knife, remove the peeling, cutting it spiral fashion in a 1-inch wide continuous wavy band from the top to the bottom of the tomato. The band [illegible] as thick as the wall of the tomao, or thinner if you like. Now, beginning with the stem end of the band of peeling, curl it to resemble a rose. Fasten with a small piece of toothpick, if you need to do so.

The tomato rose will make an engaging garnish for a plate of canapes, hors d'oeuvre or tea sandwiches; or it can garnish a chicken or seafood salad or a bowl of mixed green and ripe olives.

TOMATO POPPIES

To slice tomatoes into poppies, choose medium or large tomatoes; wash and dry them. Cut out the stem ends. With the sharp end of a toothpick, mark a continuous line of connecting V's exactly around the center skin of the tomato. (Make sure you mark the center so that both halves of the tomatoes will make even - size poppies.) Now, using a small sharp paring knife, follow the toothpick marking and cut deeply toward the center; pull the halves apart.

If you wish to use the tomato poppies for salad, scoop out the seeds with a teaspoon or your fingers. Fill the centers with seafood or hard - cooked egg salad; arrange on salad greens and garnish each poppy with a parsley sprig.

To broil the tomto poppies, don't scoop out the seeds. Instead, generously sprinkle the cut surfaces with seasoning salt, crushed basil leaves and light brown sugar; dot with butter. Broil until the sugar bubbles. These broiled tomato poppies may be used to accompany broiled pork or lamb chops; they may go on a mixed grill; or they may be served with broiled chicken or turkey.

Tomato artistry? It's fun!

Graham Cracker Torte

2 cups packaged graham cracker crumbs
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup finely chopped walnuts
¼ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup sugar
1 large egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup milk

On wax paper, thoroughly stir together the graham cracker crumbs, baking powder and walnuts. In a medium mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar; thoroughly beat in the egg and vanilla. With a spoon, thoroughly and alternately beat in the graham cracker mixture and milk. Turn into a well - greased 8 by 8 by 2 inch baking pan; bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 45 minutes or until torte shrinks well away from sides of pan. Place on wire rack to cool; cut in squares and remove with a wide spatula; serve warm with sweetened whipped cream flavored with vanilla and sherry. Store any leftover torte in a tightly covered container and serve as cake.

CAMOUFLAGE COOKERY will entertain both the cook and her guests: fashion fresh tomatoes into poppies, season and broil along with chops.

Tiny Package

There has been a saying that "good thins come in small packages," and exciting Christmas gifts are no exception to the rule. What bigger and more thrilling gift could you possibly give to a loved one than the whole wide wonderful world of sound, packaged in a tiny, modern, transistorized, miniaturized hearing aid, weighing barely an ounce! Don't let someone you love turn a deaf ear to Christmas — this year give a sound gift.

Zoilo Is MVP In American

By C. C. McGILLICUDDY
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Zoilo Versalles, the spectacular shortstop of the Minnesota Twins, was a near unanimous choice today for the 1965 American League Most Valuable Player Award.

Versalles, who sparked the Twins to their first American League pennant, received 19 of the 20 first-place ballots cast by a special committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The other first - place vote went to teammate Tony Oliva, who won the AL batting championship for the second year in a row. Oliva finished second in the voting, being picked second on 13 ballots, and the 1964 winner, Brooks Robinson of Baltimore, finished third.

The only other player named on all 20 ballots was relief pitcher Eddie Fisher of Chicago. The knucke-ball artist became the first relief pitcher in the American League ever named on every ballot.

Fisher finished fourth in the voting with 122 points, compared to 275 for Versalles, 174 for Oliva and 150 for Robinson.

Versalles' total was 100 points higher than the runner-up because each first-place vote was worth 14 points while second-place votes received 9 points and third-place votes 8 points, etc.

At Altoona, Wis., where he was appearing with a Minnesota baseball promotion group, Versalles seemed overjoyed at the news of his victory:

"Boy, oh, boy," he exclaimed in surprise, "I cannot believe I got 19 of the 20 first-place votes. This is the best thing that can happen to any ball player."

The speedy shortstop said the award came as a surprise to him. "I didn't think about it during the season. I only thought about winning the pennant."

Versalles gave credit to his manager, Sam Mele, and his coaches, "especially Billy Martin.'

He also said he was helped by each player on the team. "I think any player could have been named MVP and he'd have deserved it."

Mele, himself voted the American League Manager of the Year, also was pleased to hear Versalles had won.

The Twins manager, who had a preseason squabble with Versalles and fined him $300 for not hustling in an exhibition game against the New York Mets, said of the award: "That's terrific. He certainly deserved it."

Mele said Versalles "inspired us to a pennant. His play in the field, his work at bat and his leadership led us to the pennant."

To help the Twins to their first penant, Versalles led the major leagues in runs scored with 126, and he led the American League in total bases with 308. Batting at the top of the order he collected 666 at-bats in 160 games, a league high, and finished with a .273 average.

Versalles had 182 hits of which 45 were doubles, 12 were triples and 19 home runs. He knocked in 77 runs and stole 27 bases. His doubles tied Carl Yasterzemski of Boston for the league lead in that department.

Abe Sings Blues, Owl Morale Is High

By The Associated Press

Coach Abe Martin of Texas Christian sure doesn't like for somebody to make his team a big favorite, especially when he's playing somebody that has made a habit of beating his Horned Frogs.

Abe was more than slightly disturbed Wednesday when he heard the Frogs had been made 11-point choices to beat Rice at Fort Worth Saturday in a Southwest Conference game.

"I just hope that the kids don't believe we're that much better or we're going to be in for a sound thrashing," Martin grumbled.

Rice has beaten the Frogs 33-7 and 31-0 the past two years.

Coach Jess Neely of Rice seemed to think his team would play as well as it could regardless of what somebody else said.

"I guess the morale is as fine as any college team in the country," he said, speaking of three straight losses and a 2-6 record for his team.

He added that the running offense of the Owls had improved despite an upset last week from Texas A&M.

Neither coach was worried about morale for the Arkansas-Texas Tech game Saturday at Fayetteville when the conference title will be decided.

Coach J. T. King of Tech liked the way his boys went through their practice session. He said the drills this week had been Tech's best. But he added that the team would have to play better than ever before to beat Arkansas.

Broyles had his Razorbacks working to halt Texas Tech's passing. "It helped the pass defense to get a simulated look at what Tom Wilson will be like," Broyles said. Former Arkansas quarterback Billy Gray impersonated the Texas Tech passer.

He obviously was pleased with the results. "They're really light-footed out there in the cold weather," he observed. It was in the thirties.

The Baylor-Southern Methodist game at Waco Saturday should be a wide-open, high-scoring affair, say the experts. Baylor promised to do its share as Kenny Stockdale and Mike Marshall threw the ball to most willing and efficient receivers.

That Baylor expects wide open play from SMU was indicated by the fact that the Bears tried all sorts of defense against the multi-formation attack of the Methodists.

SMU had some injury worries —ace halfback Larry Jernigan may not be able to play Saturday because of a knee injury.

Texas and Texas A&M, who clash Thanksgiving Day in their closing game, opened preparations Wednesday after skipping a couple of days.

Texas A&M had no injuries and may have halfback Lloyd Curington back after his having missed the last four games.

Texas did have some injuries though, with defensive end Bill Sullivan and offensive halfback Robert Leach out of action and Ronnie Ehrig, defensive halfback, a doubtful starter.

Pvt. Spike Becomes Leader Of Baseball

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball's new public image began forming today behind the leadership of a new commissioner — a retired three-star Air Force general who delights in being called Pvt. Spike

He is William D. Eckert, 56, of Washington, D.C., a trim, sharp-visaged man with thinning steel-gray hair and the build of a high school football halfback, 160 pounds, 5 feet, ½ inches.

His unanimous recommendation Wednesday to the major leagues' 20 club owners ended a six-month search by a screening committee headed by John Fetzer of the Detroit Tigers and John Galbreath of the Pittsburgh Pirates. They started originally with about 20 men.

The soft-spoken Eckert, a much-decorated officer who retired from the service four years ago, was a surprise choice to become baseball's fourth commissioner. He follows a line that includes Judge K. M. Landis, who ruled with a mailed fist; A. B. (Happy) Chandler, who was ousted by owners in favor of Ford Frick, retiring at the age of 71 after serving since 1951.

Eckert's first lieutenant will be Lee MacPhail, baseball-wise 48-year-old president of the Baltimore Orioles and son of the stormy Larry MacPhail of years ago.

MacPhail was named to head a so-called cabinet as administrator in the commissioner's office. The new-image baseball government also will have departments encompassing player affairs, public information, television-radio and amateur baseball that includes Little League, American Legion, high school and college levels.

For the time being, at least, headquarters will remain in New York.

Whether directors of each of these branches will be named is yet to be decided, said MacPhail, who signed a three-year contract at $40,000 annually.

Eckert was given a seven-year pact at $65,000.

The new commissioner admits [illegible] little of the inner workings of baseball and that his first action will be to confer with as many club owners as possible and the presidents of the American and National leagues, Joe Cronin and Warren Giles.

Cronin was mentioned prominently as Frick's successor but eliminated himself Wednesday by accepting another seven-year contract as American League president at a salary increase.

Frick will be Eckert's conferee for the next three months and will aid in officiating at the baseball meetings in Miami next month. A year ago in Phoenix, Frick was successful in getting owners to restore the commissioner's power which had been clipped after the death of Landis.

He urged restoration of autocratic powers in order to broaden public confidence and maintain the honesty and integrity of the game, warning that baseball was in danger of losing its coveted public image.

Eckert, a native of Freeport, Ill., whose only close connection with baseball was playing first base and the outfield for Madison, Ind., High School and on West Point intramural teams, said he was a great admirer of Landis.

"But I don't intend to be a czar and at the same time, I don't intend to live in an ivory tower," said Eckert, who admitted he knew he was being considered for several weeks. "Each person operates differently. Landis was a great commissioner and I had the highest regard for him.

"My authority will be exercised by analyzing, studying and considering. I will not use it dictatorially. I will call the signals and I see them."

Eckert said he was nicknamed Spike at West Point when he was a plebe because of his interest in sports.

"Baseball men can call me Commissioner or General, but I get a kick out of being called Private Spike," he smiled. "That's the name I'm known by in a Washington youth organization of which I'm president."

Since his retirement, Spike has served on many industry and defense advisory boards but plans to leave most of them to devote nearly full time to his new post.

At the U.S. Military Academy, where he graduated in 1930, he was on the equestrian team and played polo. He still is active in horseback riding, tennis, squash and golf.

Spike was one of two young pursuit pilots selected to attend Harvard graduate school of business and got his master's degree there.

During World War II he commanded the 452nd B17 bomb group, 8th Air Force, in the European theater of operations. Then followed a series of promotions taking him into the fields of Air Force business management. At the time he won his third star, he was the youngest lieutenant general in all the services.

Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates had 20-game hitting streaks last season.

Wilt Sinks 46, But 76ers Lose

By The Associated Press

Come sometime in February Wilt Chamberlain probably will become the all-time career scorer in the National Basketball Association [illegible] to 21,000 points.

The Big Dipper, as the 7-foot-1 former Kansas All-America prefers to be called, became the No. 2 all-time scorer Wednesday night when he tossed in 46 points against the Cincinnati Royals.

There was just one flaw. Wilt's team, the Philadelphia 76ers, lost the game 131-115 as the Royals won their seventh straight and replaced the 76ers a the Eastern Division leaders.

Jerry West also scored 46 points in pacing the Los Angeles Lakers, the Western Division leaders, to a 125-115 victory over the Boston Celtics in the other NBA game scheduled Wednesday.

Chamberlain got his 46 points on 18 field goals and 10 of 12 free throws. This gave him a career total of 19,263 and he needed only 33 to pass Dolph Schayes career total of 19,249. Schayes now is Chamberlain's boss as coach of the 76ers.

Bob Pettit of St. Louis, who retired after last season, is the NBA's No. 1 career scorer with 20,880. Chamberlain can catch up and pass him by averaging 30 points per game for the remaining 69 games of this season. This is well within Chamberlain's capability.

President Shows Business That He Means Business

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Same technique, but faster this time. And President Johnson has made his point: He means business with business. He wants prices steady. If he has to play rough to keep them that way, he will.

He did this last week with the aluminum industry and now this week with he copper industry. In both cases he never said a word. He didn't have to. His technique was simple.

He stayed in the background and let his top aides do the talking and the rough stuff. But business could never have any doubt who was pulling the strings.

Although he had previously made clear he wants business to avoid price increases to prevent inflation, the aluminum industry ignored him and raised prices.

He must have hoped the industry would reconsider because for several days his aides hemmed and hawed and stumbled around with vague hints of what they might do while never saying it had any connection with the price boost.

Then the ax fell. The government has so much aluminum in its stockpile that it considered 1.4 million tons a surplus it wanted to get rid of.

Then on Nov. 6, Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense, announced the government would get rid of 200,000 tons of its aluminum.

With that much aluminum turned loose, the industry's sales would suffer and it would have to cut prices. Still deadpan, naming no names and calling none, McNamara said the extra supplies on the market should "relieve price pressures." The industry got the message and cut prices.

Meanwhile, the copper industry, as if it had never heard what happened to the aluminum industry, raised its prices. It did this shortly before Johnson's showdown with aluminum, but it kept them there.

Then Wednesday night McNamara came back into the picture suddenly by calling a news conference to make an announcement. Unlike the government's performance with aluminum, there had been no hint of what was to come.

But McNamara disclosed the government, which also has more copper than it needs, would release 200,000 tons of it and would take other steps to put a brake on rising copper prices.

McNamara said Johnson concurred in his actions, although it was hardly necessary to say so.

Johnson had been criticized after his victory over the aluminum industry. His administration, which had mumbled for days before forcing the showdown, had been accused of fumbling and indecision and other things.

This kind of criticism seemed ridiculous for it was clear enough, when the administration finally decided to turn loose 200,000 tons of aluminum, what had been behind the delay and the huffing and puffing.

Anyone who has watched Johnson — a master politician who avoids name-calling, head-on clashes if they can be avoided, and unpleasant showdowns unless as a last resort — could have figured his tactics with aluminum.

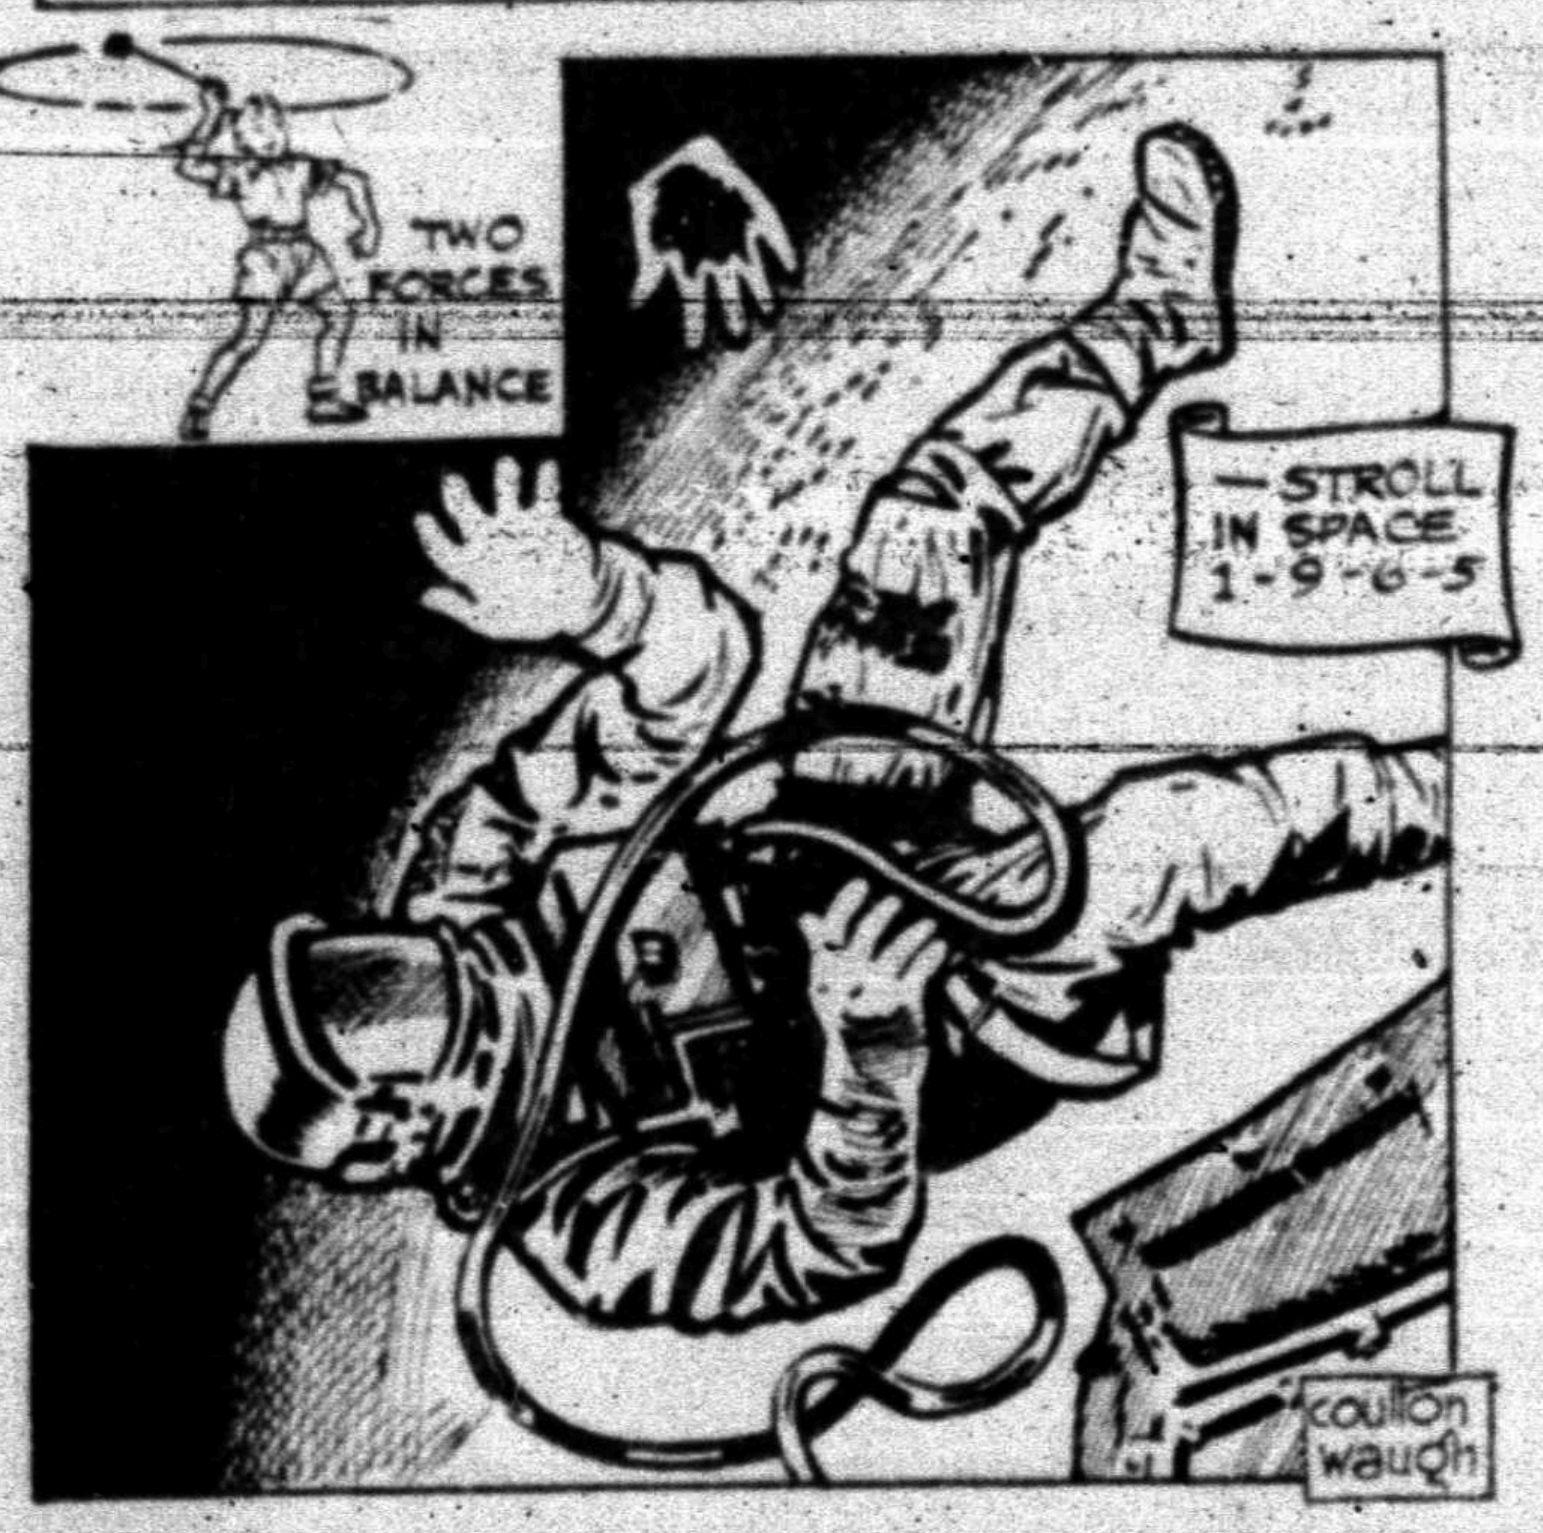
If the industry took the veiled hints his aides were throwing out — before the McNamara announcement about the 200,000 tons of aluminum — maybe it would drop its price increase.

But the industry wouldn't yield until forced to. With that lesson in mind, the administration didn't go through the same routine with the copper industry.

It just did the same thing to copper that it did to aluminum, without public warning.

All this should provide a good insight — particularly for American business — into Johnson: That he's highly flexible, that he's determined, and that he will stick to what he wants with a minimum of shouting.

Junior Editors Quiz on WEIGHTLESSNESS



QUESTION: Why do astronauts lose their weight while in orbit around the earth?

• • •

ANSWER: At upper left, Jack swings a stone attached to a string, around his head. As long as he keeps it swinging, the stone tries to fly outward (by centrifugal force) but the string holds it back so it keeps going in a circle. While whirling around like this, notice that the stone has kept up in the air above Jack's head.

This explains what happens when a capsule containing astronauts goes spinning around the earth. Jack had to swing the stone very fast to keep it whirling above his head, and so the astronauts' capsules have to be set moving (high above the friction of the atmosphere) around the earth at the terrific speed of about 18,000 miles an hour. Don't imagine that they overcome gravity while orbiting this way, for gravity acts like the string holding Jack's rock; it holds them to the earth so they keep spinning around. But even if gravity is operating, preventing them from flying off into space, it is not pulling them down toward the earth, as long as they keep us such terrific speed. That's why, when orbiting, astronauts appear to have no weight; they are in a condition called zero gravity, weightlessness, or free fall.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: Our picture is based on photos of astronaut [illegible] White [illegible] when he opened the hatch of the Gemini 4 capsule and slid out into space. Notice the glove which has floated out through the hatch, and orbits along with the astronaut and the capsule, at the same speed. Color Earth, behind, a light blue to get the full effect. 11-18

Trials Of Adjusting To The USA

Editor's note—Hal Cooper recently returned to the United States after 17½ years on the AP's London staff. Here's his account of his first impressions of his native hearth after long absence

By HAL R. COOPER

NEW YORK (AP) —Saloons open all day long instead of decently closed 15 hours in 24. Private cars the size of pantechnicons. Rugby matches on the Sabbath. Race horses running counterclockwise. People running every damn which way.

We have made a prodigal's return from 17½ quiet years in England. It was assumed that adjustment would be difficult, but the reality is staggering. The mind, in fact, boggles.

There is, for example, the effect on two London-born sons aged 8 and 9. The 9-year-old, whose broad A's were the pride of the household, pipes up with "what are you, Daddy, some kinda nut or something?" In the purest accents of Long Island—this after one month in America.

There is the dizzying selection of programs on television, where in England you explored the only three channels, turned the thing off and went to bed.

There are other trials

The agonizing indecision when confronted by a bar's 77 varieties of bourbon and rye after nearly two decades of no choice but scotch,

The nagging fear of injury when staggering away from the newsstand with a Sunday edition which outweighs the combined Sunday editions in Her Majesty's tight little island.

The necessity to buy an automobile whether you want one or not because everybody else has one and the kids mustn't develop a feeling of inferiority.

True, there are compensations in living in America

It is possible to buy a carton of cigarettes without first floating a bank loan—British price, 77 cents a pack.

You can go into a soda fountain and call for a chocolate malted milk and they serve you a chocolate malted milk. British reaction: "What's a malted milk?"

When it's cold outside you just pop inside somewhere and it's warm—central heating is the norm, not a novelty.

There are green vegetables the year around instead of nothing but brussels sprouts, the number of ice cream flavors seems unlimited, many highways outside urban areas were designed for the motor car rather than the horse and buggy and if you're bored on a Sunday afternoon there's the movies or pro football. In England Sunday is for church, or you can take a nice, long nap.

Everything is a little easier-going in England. Take students.

When English students are in a state of social ferment they are likely to work it off by draping a pair of black nylon panties on one of the spires of Westminster Palace, the home of Parliament.

Here, they burn their draft cards.

We take this means to express our sincere thanks to our many friends who were so kind to us in our darkest hour of sorrow (when our loved one was called away). New Bikinis Due To Be Barely There

By DORIS KLEIN

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Bathing suits for next year emerge barer than ever in the California designers' preview, so bare, in fact, that they're covered by everything from carpenters' aprons to Tahitian trousers.

There was little left to the imagination in the barely-there bikinis and clinging and cut-out bathing suits displayed at the California fashion creators' showing of resort and spring wear Wednesday.

Imagination, instead, concentrated on how to cover the swim suits.

Catalina showed a denim carpenter's apron over a brief matching bikini. A cable knit overblouse topped a matching swim suit.

But most popular of all were the knee-length, ruffled trousers variously called long jammies and surf britches.

The trousers, sometimes covering bikini trunks, at other times paired only with brief bikini bras, were patterned from the surfer trousers which first became popula in Tahiti, a Catalina spokesman said.

They turned up in the Cole of California collection as well. They date back, a Catalina spokesman said, to the roomy bathing trunks male surfers used for comfort in riding the Pacific Ocean waves.

They come striped, flowered, and polka-dotted.

The results: Windbreaker jackets in everything from waterproof fabric to cotton prints; laced trunks and cotton-knit surfer shirts for both beach and campus wear.

The bare look, spurred by the topless swim suit nearly two years ago, inspired a few daring numbers in last year's swim suit collection. This year, however, a suit which was merely lacking straps, midriff or sides, is sans all three.

Elisabeth Stewart displayed the most lady-like suits, softly clinging to the body with a natural, Jean Harlow look.

She disguised her suits with ankle-length beach dresses, tailored jackets, ankle-length skirts and sweater-like pullovers.

A pre-Columbian world map showing "Vinlanda" adds to archeological evidence that Vikings visited North America well before Columbus's voyage.

Gun-Toting Youth Tries Hijack

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An icy-nerved electronics executive and two of the nation's top space figures disarmed a teen-ager who tried to hijack a jetliner over the Gulf of Mexico.

Thomas Robinson, 16, who said he wanted to go to Cuba to help anti-Castro political prisoners fired a barrage of shots into the deck of the lounge before he was wrestled to the seat Wednesday night 100 miles out of New Orleans. He was carrying two guns.

But the two space executives and a score of other top experts — the cream of the brainpower in the Gemini program — coming here to check out spacecrafts for the United States' next space flights escaped without injury.

"We thought all along the shots were blanks," said Paul Haney, voice of the U. S. astronauts, "until somebody pulled back the rug and we counted eight big holes in the metal floor.

"At that point I got a little weak in the knees," he said. "It was one-hell of a 25 minutes."

It was electronics executive, Edward C. Haake of Seabrook, Tex., who actually got the jump on the youth, from Brownsville, Tex., by distracting him with a handful of gold coins.

"I walked through the whole German army in World War II and I wasn't convinced he was all he was trying to be," said Haake, 46, a decorated B17 pilot.

"I'm no hero," he said. "I just did what I had to do."

Haney was sitting next to Chris Kratt, who directs U. S. astronauts as they circle the globe, when Robinson sat down on the arm of the chair across the isle.

Robinson dropped a newspaper he had wrapped around a .22-caliber automatic, galvanizing the 91 passengers aboard the Los Angeles to Miami National Airlines Flight 30.

"He pointed it at Chris," Haney said. "It was only six inches off his jaw."

"What have you got there, boy?" Kraft said.

"There was a click which I thought was a cocking action," Haney said. "It did not fire. That's why I thought it was cocking action.

"The kid stood up and backed toward the cockpit door and fired three shots in the floor of the lounge.

Then he just stood there for five minutes and then he said: "'I've got a gun and I'm not afraid to use it.'

"Then he fired three more shots in the floor."

Haake was the only other person in the lounge, Haney said. The husky 6-footer talked to Robinson calmly, pretending to go along with his wild plans about going to Cuba, even though Robinson now had a revolver in the other hand.

"He even fixed him a drink," Haney said.

"Then the kid calmed down and Haake pulled out a plastic holder full of gold coins. He asked the boy if he would like to see them. The kid said he was a coin collector.

"At some point along the way, the kid lowered his hands. I think he was going to reload the gun. When he put his hands together Haake grabbed them.

"Chris and I immediately jumped. I was the first one there. Haake held his hands and I threw him against the seat.

"And while Haake held him, both Chris and I helped subdue him."

Robinson, neatly dressed in a grey-green Ivy League suit with a striped tie, was charged "with intent to intimidate the crew and influence the captain to take the plane to Havana, Cuba." At an arraignment in New Orleans, he was held on $50,000 bond.

Dr. Charles Berry, chief physician for the Gemini program who was going with the other officials to check out the spacecrafts for Gemini 6 and 7 scheduled in two weeks, said after the ordeal was over. "They could have started a pretty good Cuban space program with that planeload."

Robinson held in the Orleans Parish jail will be given a preliminary hearing Friday.

Stewardess Nancy Taylor, the first to realize that Robinson might be carrying a gun after he emerged from the restroom with the wadded newspaper, said she tried to get him to put the gun down.

"We stalled for time," she said. "We told the passengers what was going on, but without using the loudspeaker so the boy wouldn't know."

One passenger called the 35-year-old Miami resident the "real hero of this story."

The boy's father, William G. Robinson, a Brownsville businessman, said his son had called him at 2 p.m. apparently from the high school and said he would be home soon.

The next he heard was a 6:15 phone call from his son at the New Orleans airport. Robinson said his son did not explain why he had gone to New Orleans, but he sounded upset.

WTCC Plans Tour

WESLACO, Tex. (AP)—About 100 persons are expected to visit the Lower Rio Grande Valley Feb. 22-23 on an agricultural tour sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Mexico Eliminates Cotton Export Tax

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico has eliminated an export tax on cotton grown in the Matamoros area, once the country's major cotton producing section.

Rafael Urritia Millan, general director of revenue studies, said the step was taken to protect growers and boost cotton exports.

The Matamoros zone is expected to abandon cotton growing because of soil deterioration due to water salinity. The government plans to use the land for sorghum.

So hot is the core of the sun — 16 million degrees Centigrade —that a pinhead of its material would emit enough heat to kill a man 100 miles away.

Luci Wears New Diamond Ring, But Rumors Still Unconfirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new gold and diamond ring sparkled on Luci Johnson's third finger, left hand, as she danced cheek-to-cheek with boyfriend Pat Nugent at a White House party.

The ring drew new speculation that the President's daughter, 18, is engaged to marry Nugent. But the White House again would make no comment and Luci, herself, couldn't be reached.

Luci, in a strapless white faille evening dress, her hair bouffant, had a gay time at the dinner-dance Wednesday night in honor of Britain's Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon.

She danced some slow numbers romantically with Nugent and did some fast frugs with other partners during the evening to the blaring beat of Peter Duchin's orchestra in the East Room.

Before the dinner, Mrs. Johnson's press secretary, Elizabeth Carpenter, had asked the few reporters permitted to watch the dancing that they not interview Luci.

Reports circulated several weeks ago that Luci and Pat — whose hometown is Waukegan, Ill. — had flown to the LBJ Ranch in Texas for a weekend to ask President and Mrs. Johnson's permission to marry.

Neither the Johnsons nor their White House spokesmen would either confirm or deny the report. Luci and Nugent maintained that their private lives were their own and they would have nothing to say. There were subsequent rumors, though, that the President had persuaded the young couple to wait at least until Luci, a freshman at Georgetown University School of Nursing here, finished her four-year course.

Nugent is scheduled to enter military service around Nov. 28. He has been working meanwhile in the office of the District of Columbia Advisory Council on Higher Education.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — You've read statistics on sugar, cotton and coffee in Mexico. How many zillions of tons, bales or bags go to the market at which time of the year and via which route.

And a bevy of mathematicians keeps an elaborate set of charts on everything that's chartable. From toothpaste consumption in Yucatan to the number (in decimals, yet) of left-leaners per 100,000 inhabitants.

They have charts to keep track of the other charts but nobody has figured out how to devise reliable statistics on the people except when they're born, married and die.

Small wonder many Mexicans are inclined to regard us as a nation of IBM-thinkers who frequently are guided by unoriginal formulas.

The professor who takes a six month leave of absence to write a book on Mexico sees it one way. The tourist sees it another. Some business men will tell you Mexicans are excellent partners while others won't deal with them except through an assortment of lawyers.

The only thing it actually proves is that Mexicans are standard-type human beings. There is no single yardstick by which to measure everybody.

In general, they like bullfights which a lot of us look upon as cruel. We have an income tax system most of them consider barbaric.

Stop and think. You get riled at the Main Street merchant who gives you a fast shuffle in a business deal and take your trade elsewhere. But too many of us consider it impolite for Mexico to holler "crook!" when Washington handles a one-sided proposition.

Such complaints are taken as evidence of growing Communist influence.

And this is one point Mexico is trying to clear up, that anti-policy feelings are not necessarily red-tinted.

There is no question about the big social upheaval taking place south of the border. Everything is being revolutionized. But it is understandable when you consider the overwhelming percentage of peasants and low wage earners. Yet, their fellings are not anti-capitalists as you might think.

A good many Mexicans consider [illegible] everything and wants more. It's very much the same [illegible] thing [illegible] you get when you discover the corner merchant is making a whopping profit on what he sells you.

The clamor by the "have-nots" is being fought by the "haves" in Mexico just as it is in other parts of the world. Those without money want some and those with it try to keep it.

We pay Social Security to the aged and have medical insurance and a collection of fringe benefits you don't find here. The Mexican government, swamped by pleas of help from its poor, makes desperate efforts to compensate in other ways. Socialized medicine is one.

Before the era of television, easy credit and soft living the Mexicans were satisfied folks. But a few whiffs of the Yankee dollar has changed things. Individuals, political groups and professions now are involved in the scramble for status and bank accounts.

What has to be solved here today is not a question of political idealogy; it is a problem of human nature.

And this problem is one that must be solved, not fought against.
