These three join candidates filing earlier: Dan Shelton, for mayor; Lucia "Pat" Loflin, Ray H. Patterson and James Metzger, for aldermen; Prentice L. Elder, for marshal.

Candidates had until today, Wednesday, March 7, to file for the Fulton election at the county clerk's office.

Only One Voting Place In Rockport

Rockport City Secretary Herman Johnson reminds city voters that there will be only one polling place for the April 7 election: city hall.

The city's two wards, divided at Laurel Street, have voted in separate places in past elections, but due to the light turnout at the last general election, only one place was authorized by the Justice Department for the April election.

Rockport Services For Jonestown Victim

Oreen Armstrong Poplin, 84, who died in Guyana last November with hundreds of other followers of the Rev. Jim Jones, was buried in Rockport Cemetery Monday, March 5.

She is survived by several nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Poplin moved to San Francisco several years ago. It was not known when she went to Guyana.

Jones apparently convinced his followers to kill themselves in a mass suicide. Many did so, and investigators said others were forced to take cyanide.

Mrs. Poplin is apparently the third person from South Texas who died in Guyana.

Watercolors On Display At First National Bank

A magnificent collection of watercolors by Jack Martin-Ehrlich, Fulton artist, is being shown at the First National Bank for the month of March.

A painter in oils as far back as he can remember, Martin-Ehrlich has only in recent months taken a serious interest in watercolor. "I wanted to be professional about it," he commented, "so for the time being I'm working exclusively with watercolor."

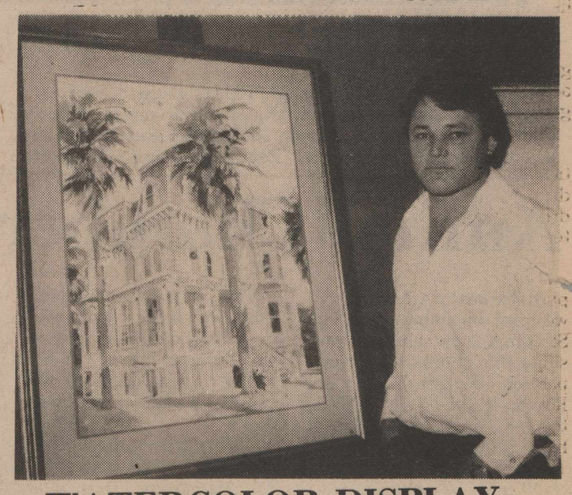

Although he won't admit to having a favorite subject, he says that living on the coast has provided many of the scenes in his paintings. "I've sailed, surfed, fished and swam these waters," he said. "Sometimes I find myself becoming uncomfortable when I do have to go inland."

Some of that time spent inland was Martin-Ehrlich's study of architecture, which adds incredible realism to his works; however, some of his paintings are impressionistic.

Other works by him can be seen locally at The Potpourri.

Living with his wife on Timothy Street in Fulton, Martin-Ehrlich produces much of his winter art from his bedroom studio. He says, though, he prefers to paint outside, explaining that colors can only be interpreted correctly by direct, close observation.

Martin-Ehrllich was selected as First National's artist of the month by Mrs. Gladys Gibson, chairman of the bank's art committee. He studied watercolor under local artist Al Barnes, whom he considers "about the best around." He claims, nonetheless, he "can still beat Barnes in a sailboat race."

WATERCOLOR DISPLAY

Jack Martin-Ehrlich, Fulton, displays one of several watercolor paintings he is exhibiting at the First National Bank in Rockport. The paintings are on display in the lobby and can be viewed during bank hours.

You Have One Year To Live!

Meet and Hear Captain John LeVrier!

Captain LeVrier of the Houston Police Department learned in 1968 that he had cancer and doctors at M.D. Anderson Hospital told him he had one year to live. Extensive cobalt treatment and an operation kept him alive until 1971. In February 1971 he was healed by The Lord while attending a Katheryn Kuhlman meeting at The Shrine in Los Angeles. Today he is healthy and takes no medication.

Healthful Hints

Most Often-Asked Questions On Nutrition

Q. I have arthritis and would like to treat it with vitamins, but from what I've read and heard, really large amounts of vitamins are needed for this. I've always avoided taking too much medicine, and I don't want to become a "pill-popper" now! What do you think?

A. I think that you are making the same mistake that many people make. They think that because most vitamin and mineral supplements come in tablet or capsule form (pills), they should be thought of in the same way we think of drugs. Nutritional supplements are not drugs! They are more like food and should be considered as such.

The reason we eat food is to provide the body with its nutritional requirements and keep it functioning properly. However, these days, many of our available food products are over processed, which robs them of needed nutrients. Many of us have higher requirements for some nutrients due to being exposed to all sorts of toxic pollution in our air, water and food and due to the stress and pressure we live with. Therefore, we need more vitamins and minerals than we can get from our food and must rely on nutritional supplements to meet our bodies' needs. Meeting these needs by taking vitamin supplements does not classify you as a "pill-popper"!

Q. What is the connection between niacin and tryptophan? I know there's something, but I can't remember what it is.

A. Niacin is one of the B vitamins. (One should remember that, if taken singly, it should be backed up with the complete B-complex. Also, large doses of niacin, usually 100 or more milligrams, may cause itching and flushing of the skin. Another form of niacin called niacinamide does not have this side effect.) Tryptophan is one of the amino acids (protein is made of amino acids). It is converted into niacin by the body; 60 milligrams of tryptophan yields 1 milligram of niacin.

Until next week, Folks, stay happy and healthy! It's a beautiful world!

Gos-Pills

By David Billeiter
Pastor
Fulton (Charismatic) Baptist Church

Is it God's will to heal? Notice the statement of the leper in Mark 1:40, "If thou wilt (will), thou canst make me clean." Now notice the reply of Jesus, vs 41, "I will; be thou clean." So be it forever settled-It is God's will to heal.

I meet people who will argue that point. I see them in the hospital and they say, "It's God's will that I'm here." If it is God's will for them to be sick then why do they have God's will surgically removed. Think about it! Let us accept the word of God and believe God to heal. I Peter 2:24, "Who his ownself bare our sins in his own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness: by whose stripes ye were healed."

On Feb. 24, 1785, John Adams was appointed by Congress as Minister Plenipotentiary to Great Britain.

Cooking Corner

There is a growing rebellion against foods of little nutrition, a turning to whole grains and natural foods.

It's because we are learning not just what elements food contain, but what those elements can do for us. For instance, whole grains are rich in the B-complex vitamins, and this is part of their functions:

Vitamin B-2 (riboflavin): Helps keep eyes healthy, and the skin around the eyes and mouth healthy and smooth.

Vitamin B-6: Helps keep skin, digestion and nervous system healthy.

One of the whole grains that has alot going for it is oats. Oats are high in fiber, protein and other nutrients.

Here are some recipes:

ROMANO ADD-A-CRUNCH

(This nutritious nut-like topping can be kept in the refrigerator, ready to be sprinkled on favorite foods.)

- 2 cups quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
- ½ cup margarine, melted
- ⅔ cup grated Romano or Parmesan cheese
- 1 tsp. basil
- 1 tsp. oregano
- ¼ tsp. garlic or onion salt.

Combine all ingredients mix well. Bake in a jelly roll pan 15½ by 10½ inches at 350 degrees for about 18 minutes. Cool store in covered container in refrigerator up to three months. Sprinkle over tossed green salads, soups, casseroles or vegetables. Makes about three cups topping.

When ground oat flour is substituted for white flour as a thickener, the soup, gravy, sauce or stew is given a nutrition and flavor bonus. Here's an example:

SEAFARE CHOWDER

- ¼ cup green onion slices
- 3 tbsps. margarine
- 3 cups water
- 2 cups carrot slices
- ¾ tsp. salt
- ½ tsp. dill weed
- ¼ tsp. paprika
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 pound frozen fish fillets, cut up
- 1 cup milk
- ½ cup ground oat flour
- 1½ cups shredded Cheddar cheese
- 3 tbsps. sherry or lemon juice.

Saute onion in margarine in a four and one-half-quart Dutch oven. Add water, carrot and seasonings. Bring to a boil. Cover, simmer about 10 minutes. Add fish. Cover continue cooking about five minutes. Gradually add combined milk and oat flour, stirring constantly. Cook over medium-high heat, stirring frequently, about five minutes or until thickened. Add cheese and sherry, stirring constantly until cheese is melted. Makes about eight one-half cup servings.

Aluminum Drive Continues In Copano Cove

The Copano Cove Volunteer Fire Department will hold their monthly aluminum scrap and can drive Saturday, March 10.

Over an 11-month period they have collected an average of $55 per month on this project.

Those wishing to participate who live in the Copano Cove area, can leave their aluminum by their driveways for pick up.

The monthly drives are held on the second Saturday each month. Accepted are aluminum cans, foil, old lawn furniture or anything made of aluminum.

The February drive was disappointingly light, according to Roger Larimore. He pointed out that "if the weather is bad, we will merely postpone the drive by one week. Please don't forget us. We wish to thank you for your past cooperation and hope that you will continue to help us grow."

Tennis A Game Of Rhythm Or Timing

By ED COLLINS
Copley News Service

Tennis is based on rhythm and timing.

Next time you're out watching a good singles match, played by two steady baseline players, close your eyes and listen to the sounds of the game.

Listen long enough and you'll hear (and begin to feel) the rhythm of the game.

Later, open your eyes and narrate the action: When the ball bounces, say 'bounce;' when it is hit, say 'hit.'

The lessons you will learn (unconsciously) concern footwork. You will learn where, in the ball's bounce, you are to make contact. Since most groundstrokes are played at waist height, and since most shots are played when the ball is descending, you will learn to move deep enough behind the bounce to make contact.

This is an important lesson, especially for inexperienced players, who have the habit of running too close to the spot where the ball bounces. This forces them to play the ball when it is rising – a tough proposition.

At the top levels of play, playing the ball at the top of its bounce, or even on the rise, is often preferable.

The desired result is an underspin shot – one which clears the net by only a foot, and has a low sliding bounce.

The strategy is to send a topspin forehand deep to the opponent's backhand, then move in a step or two, anticipating the short return; when it comes, the player hustles in, catches the ball on the rise, and plays an effective underspin approach shot. (The quick footwork and early contact gives the opponent less time to react to the shot.)

If all this is unrealistic, and you're still at the stage where getting the ball back is a thrill, then spend some time watching, listening and learning.

Sit behind the player and notice when, after determining with which stroke to play the ball, he draws the racket back. Then watch him quickly move into position, step forward and stroke it over the net.

After the hit, notice how he slides back into position and bounces as the ball is hit by his opponent.

Watch long enough and you'll learn when to react, where to go, when to swing, how to swing, and what to do afterwards.

TEXAS FLAG FLIES AT CITY HALL

Rockport now has a Texas flag, thanks to the Aransas County Texas Exes and Elsie Barton. During ceremonies to honor Texas Independence Day March 2, Richard Beck, president of the Exes, left, presented Elsie Barton with a Texas flag in memory of her late husband, Rev. Josef A. Barton, a UT alumnus. Mrs. Barton then presented the flag to Mayor Walter Falk, second left, for the city's use. Jim Fowler, right, stood by, ready to raise the new flag. After the flag-raising ceremonies, the Exes signed a "Declaration of Dedication," pledging continuing support of the University. The declaration will be sent to President Lorene Rogers during Exes Round-Up, March 30 and 31 in Austin. [Pilot Photo by Sarah Durdin]

BRIDGE BEAMS PLACED

Workmen from J.D. Abrams Co. of El Paso, under the direction of Superintendent Don Appleby, prepare to drive a 64-foot test piling which will become part of the new bridge across Port Bay on FM 881. Working last Saturday, they drove the 16-inch square reinforced piling using 28,500 pounds of impact with the framed-in device held up by the 70-ton crane at left. Three pilings will be placed, and tested for bearing weight in preparation for work to be done on a new bridge this summer, under the direction of Highway Department District Engineer James Johnson. A floating barge, at right helped guide the piling, which must be placed within a two-inch margin. Work will continue this Saturday, with the road to be closed all day.

Heart Fund Drive Continues

The annual fund drive for the Aransas County Division of the American Heart Association is almost complete, according to chairman Roy W. Olbrich.

"The response has been encouraging," Mr. Olbrich said, "however, more money will be needed to reach the projected goal set for the year.

A concerted effort has been made by volunteers to contact everyone in the area personally. If anyone has not been contacted, and wishes to make a tax-deductible donation, there is still time to do so.

Those wishing to help may contact Paul Keith at 729-0710 or mail donations to: Roy W. Olbrich, 2011 Cochran, Rockport, Texas 78382.

Heart diseases still account for half the deaths in the United States, points out Mr. Olbrich, adding that research projects sponsored by the Heart Association help make progress in stamping out this killer.

"Our motto for 1979 is 'Give, it will do your heart good'," says Olbrich, who said a list of principal donors will be published later. He added, "It's still not too late to get your name on the list."

Points on Pets

Q. I have a 14-year-old German shepherd who cannot stand any loud bangs. Every year around the 4th of July someone has constantly got to be with him. He has gone through windows, drywall, wrecked door, just trying to get away from the noises of fireworks.

Last year I left him in a kennel. I have no idea how he reacted when I was not there. But in the short two weeks he was there he had mange so bad he had to be medically treated. So in addition to the kennel fee it was a very costly 4th.

So far no one has come up with any constructive suggestions. What do you think I should do this year? Thank you. — J.C. Costello, Stanton Calif.

A. You could try a reconditioning program. This would require some time, patience and maybe some sedation. You will probably have to work with a trainer at a shooting range. You start with start with low noise sounds while giving positive reinforcement. Gradually over a period of days or weeks you increase the noise level until he is tolerant.

EMS Report

The Emergency Medical Services report for the week beginning Monday, February 26 shows a total of 19 emergency runs. Units traveled a total of 920 miles during the week, with an average response time of four minutes and 47 seconds.

Those receiving emergency service are reminded that bills due for such service may be paid at the Rockport Chamber of Commerce office.

PERHAPS THE PUBLISHER RATHER THAN I should be writing the next couple of paragraphs.

Please open the daily newspaper which you read. Likely as not you'll find a column by James Reston and another by James Kilpatrick on the same editorial page. A reader of liberal bent will become so incensed by Kilpatrick that he'll verbally blast the daylights out of the paper, and of course vice versa. Actually the editor deserves to be praised for presenting divergent views.

But how then decide the political stance of a publication? Simply read the newspaper's own editorials which do actually represent the position. Many people also make judgment on news stories which are carried, the way they are headlined, length of the reports and size of headlines. Those things, too, can be meaningful, but not always. Generally my own experience indicates that only a totally objective, unbiased reader can make a reasonable judgment on those premises. People in that category are few indeed. Thank heaven, because if they were, all readers would be thorough going intellectuals or total non-entities. The same circumstances apply to all other publications, including weekly newspapers. The Pilot is no exception.

Happence or not, only the publisher could tell you whether this newspaper is conservative and so accepts this column. Would he publish this column were it of a liberal bent? He and only he can answer. I am only casually acquainted with the gentleman, but I rather suspect that to add to the spice of life, he might even welcome a local Reston. As a matter of fact, some of the views expressed by Tom Ward in his "Thinking Things Over" may be regarded by some as being on the liberal side. Ha, conservative that I am, I happen to agree with his real or imagined liberal views.

AND SPEAKING OF VIEWPOINTS, A SURVEY BY People Magazine shows that Jimmy Carter is the most trusted man in our national politics, and Ted Kennedy second. My reaction is that judging from the people whom I know in South Texas, they are far afield from the national view. To briefly clarify the point, I'd not say that Carter is not to be trusted, instead, no one has either faith or confidence in the man. As to Ted Kennedy, I wouldn't trust him with a half empty book of matches.

MY STANCE ON THE ROCKPORT SAILING CLUB plan to develop a sailboat harbor at the end of Rockport Beach is well enough known, so it needs no defining. I mention the subject for the sole purpose of praising the conduct of local citizens on Tuesday a week ago when the U.S. Corps of Engineers conducted a hearing. Frankly, I have been to more Corps hearings than I care to recall. Although agitators are always quickly and firmly put down, there are often hecklers and those who attempt to interrupt others when they are making statements. Here last week there was not a single instance of that. I believe the Corps representatives must have been impressed.

If there was fault in the hearing it was of a nature that always happens. People on both sides frequently had a tendency to depart from the subject stipulated for the hearing. Both talked of matters irrelevant to the subject at hand. Objectives of the hearing were clearly outlined in writing and expressed verbally by the official in charge, Col. Jon C. Vanden Bosch. However, as usual at such hearings, speakers had pre-conceived ideas as to what they would say and ignored the written and spoken directives. In that regard, I beleive the sailors did somewhat better. But I am, of course, prejudiced.

In any event, and here praise the Corps for being politely tolerant, the hearing would have lasted half the time had everyone stuck to the subject at hand.

Should a newcomer to this column be reading it for the first time, he may ask why do I not outline the subject. And the answer is that it has been aired too often and to a large degree to no avail. Summing up, I have a feeling that parties to both sides of the debate left the auditorium confident that they had deported themselves well. Now we must await the decision of the corps. Naturally, both sides can't be made happy, else there would have been no hearing in the first place.

Meanwhile, directors of the Aransas County Navigation District, as a result of the lease granted to the Sailing Club, have been placed in a position that's in the middle. Accordingly, I'd like to respectfully suggest that thoughtful, serious people on both sides borrow a copy of Vernon's Statutes and read the few pages which define the duties and responsibilities of a navigation district.—ahab

A total of 72 emergency runs was recorded by the Aransas County Medical Services paramedics during the month of February, according to a report by Bill Aston, paramedic director.

The calls were evenly divided with 36 each in the city and county.

Heart attacks and strokes again led the list of reasons for emergency runs. A total of 22 heart attacks and three strokes were handled. The Life-pak heart machine was used in 27 cases, and two patients were defibrillated.

Auto accidents (11) and motorcycle accidents (2) also accounted for emergency runs.

Other calls were for the following: industrial accidents,4; falls, 3; assaults, 3; and one each of recreational accident, drug overdose, emergency childbirth, stabbing, drowning, and diabetic complications. There were also 18 runs of a miscellaneous nature.

Total miles for the month: 2,710, with a total of 40 patients transported.

Q. The house we recently purchased has an addition with a flat roof. The roll roofing is smooth, but leaks along the seams. The roof itself seems in good condition, Could this be painted with a roofing compound or would it be better to put on a new roof? — Boyd N. C.

A. Leaks of this type usually are caused by inadequate nailing and cementing, or loosened nails, or buckling at the seams. Suggest you try repairing first, before roof replacement. Sweep out the seams to remove accumulated dirt and then insert roofing cement into the seams, pressing the edges down firmly and renailing at two-inch intervals.

Questions on building, home maintenance and repair may be sent to Here's How, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

Joe Wyatt Reports From The Capitol

By Congressman Joe Wyatt

On March 1, the President unveiled and sent to Congress his plan for emergency gas rationing should our domestic supplies reach a critically low level. The President also unveiled plans for weekend gas sales restrictions, building temperature restrictions, and advertisement lighting restrictions.

The problem of short energy supplies is one which concerns all of us, and we should all be willing to pitch in and share the burden. Supplies are short for a number of reasons. No one can deny that. Iran's oil fields have been out of production for some time, and some wells have been permanently damaged. On top of that, we are not sure how much oil, at what price, the new government of Iran will be willing to sell.

Saudi Arabia may cut back on its production by a significant amount because it feels it is depleting its fields too fast. Mexico is currently flaring its gas waiting for the administration to accept its package deal of gas and oil.

There are many countries around the world where blame for the shortage of energy in the United States can be placed. Before we go spreading blame though, we need to look at our country and its energy policies.

The simple fact of the matter is that we in the United States pay a price for our energy that is too low to allow the oil companies to explore for new oil fields, and to produce it once it's found. This may be a little hard to swallow, but the government's recent policy has been to keep the price at a level which we have been used to, an artificially low price. The government regulations which have kept prices unrealistically low have not had new exploration and production in mind. It would seem that the regulations only have political popularity in mind.

I know that saying energy prices must go up is not popular, but popular or not, I believe it is the truth. Any of you who have been in business, large or small, know that you cannot expand that business, cannot try new and innovative things, if you do not have an increase in your capital. You simply cannot finance these things out of thin air. The oil companies are no different from you as a businessman.

Government regulations have kept the oil companies' capital at such an unrealistically low level that they cannot afford to provide us with new sources of energy.

Instead, the government is now preparing to ration our gasoline, restrict our driving on weekends, tell us how to heat our schools, churches and businesses, and restrict our business advertising.

Let's look at the Department of Energy's emergency energy plans. Their estimate is that gasoline rationing will cost $350 million to start and $400 million every three months to operate. The amount allocated would amount to about two gallons a day for every registered vehicle. Exceptions would be made for emergency vehicles, farm vehicles, public transportation, and a few commercial uses.

The weekend restrictions would limit the hours of operation for gasoline stations on weekends and require another layer of paperwork for station owners.

The temperature restrictions would not let us raise the heat in our schools, churches and businesses above 65 degrees in the winter or lower our air conditioning below 80 degrees in the summer.

The time may come when measures such as these are necessary. At that time I will willingly comply and urge all those I can reach to comply. But until that time I would much rather see an increase in the price of gasoline go toward new exploration and production than toward financing a government restriction on our driving habits, heating habits, and business practices.

Until it is clear that the President has exhausted all means of increasing production at his disposal, I will find it very hard to support any restrictive plans such as these.

SPRING HAS SPRUNG

Although it may be cold where many Winter Texans come from, it is really starting to warm up along the coast. Spring flowers have started to bloom in profusion around the Rockport-Fulton area. This particular set of blooms, complete with visiting butterfly, was seen outside the Rockport Racquet and Yacht Club. (Pilot Photo by Carl Hoit)

Tourist Association News

There is only one word to describe the first annual craft fair and sale held at the Tourist Association Building on Saturday, March 3, and that is "successful." I don't think anyone expected the turnout of people that we had and it was all very encouraging, both for the Association and the craftspeople.

Our hosts for the covered dish supper on Wednesday, February 28, were Alfred Edge Realtors, and the supper was followed by the very popular "Ladies Style Show" with narration by Charlotte Rolland of Taylor Oak Trailer Park. On Wednesday, March 7, Sandpiper Realty will be our hosts and they are planning on preparing spaghetti and meat sauce so plan to bring a dish to accompany that basic menu. Following the supper there will be a "Gong Show" and from what Lois Gurley, program chairman for Wednesday evening entertainment, has said, this should be a Gong Show to beat all Gong Shows. Tickets for the covered dish dinner are available from members of the Tourist Association and the meal starts at 6:30 with the doors opening at 5:30 p.m.

On Wednesday, March 14, there will be a repeat of the "Womanless Wedding" and everyone is requested to wear an appropriately decorated wedding hat. There will be a prize for the best decorated hat.

There are still some tickets left for the bus trip to San Antonio on Friday, March 9, price $14 each. We shall be visiting the Alamo and Breckenridge Park and Zoo. Those who want to take the river walk instead of visiting the zoo may do so. Tickets are available at the Tourist Association Building by the Airport Monday through Thursday afternoon between 2:00 and 4:00 p.m.

Our game night will continue through the end of March and those jackpots are moving up. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. and the first game is called at 7:30 p.m. so plan to attend.

To those winter visitors who are beginning to heed the call from their northern homes, we wish them a safe journey and hope to see them again next year.

For any comments or suggestions, please call Anne Murphy at 729-2388 during the afternoon.

Travel Trails

By W.C. Slacum

It is said that the jet has made the world smaller. But unfortunately, it has also made it more complicated to get from one part of it to another. If you have recently tried to make reservations on an airline on your own you have undoubtely been left more confused after talking with the airline than before.

This confusion is due to the government's deregulation of airfares which has plunged the airline companies into a mad scramble to attract the passenger. The stipulations to their ever changing fares are complicated enough to frustrate the sturdiest person with iron nerves. It is obvious that not only the passenger is confused but the effect is the same on the airline reservation agent. There is, however, someone who can make it easier to keep that dream vacation a dream and not a looming nightmare. That person is your local travel agent.

The profession is relatively quite new but is one of the fastest growing fields in today's business world. Although your agent may not know all the answers to your questions offhand, he does have the resources to all information relevant to travel.

Like everything else in our lives, prices do vary from time to time. This not only applies to airlines but also to hotels, restaurants, car rentals, etc., etc.

The question that comes to most people's minds when the subject of seeing a travel agent is; Why should I see one if I can make my own airline and hotel reservations? Besides, there's probably a fee for his services! The answer to the question is simple. The reason for seeing a travel agent is that he is more aware of what is going on in the travel field.

He knows the shortcuts in arranging trips on airlines and in making hotel accommodations. The main responsibility of a travel agent is to get the best prices for his customers. Whether it be airline travel, hotel accommodations or package tours, he must give you the best quality service for the least price. But in order to achieve this he does need your cooperation.

So do plan your trips in advance, thus allowing time to get the best prices and also increasing the chances of obtaining the accommodations you desire. As for the fee, there is none. Your agent's services are free. He makes his commission from the airline directly, and the hotels.

So by seeing your travel agent your will get personalized service at no extra cost than if you made the reservations yourself. But he may save you money and frustrations that may result if your went at it yourself.

Remember that your travel agent will not solely concern himself with your vacation needs. He can make arrangements for any travel needs, from one way trips to trips around the world. He is there to answer any question you may have, from fares to schedules and hotel locations.

He can make recommendations because more that likely he has traveled where you want to go. This alone is quite important for you know what to expect on your trip and not have it spoiled by unexpected surprises.

Energy-Saving Home Can Cut Tax

AUSTIN — Taxpayers who take certain steps to save energy in their homes can cut their income tax bills by up to $2,500, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Robert M. McKeever, IRS District Director, said that one part of the 1979 tax law provides for a tax credit of up to $300 for energy conservation materials installed in the home, with a separate credit of as much as $2,200 for taxpayers who install "renewable" energy source devices such as solar or wind equipment.

The smaller credit is figured at 15 per cent of the first $2,000 spent on such items as storm or thermal windows and doors, insulation, weatherstripping and caulking.

The "renewable" energy source credit is 30 per cent of the first $2,000 plus 20 per cent of the next $8,000 invested in qualifying solar, wind or geothermal equipment used to heat, cool or provide hot water for use in the home.

Both credits are available for items purchased and installed on a taxpayer's principal residence between April 20, 1977 and December 31, 1985. The "renewable" energy credit is available for both existing and newly constructed homes. Renters as well as homeowners are eligible for the credit.

Taxpayers need not itemize deductions to claim the residential energy tax credit. They do, however, have to file Form 1040 attaching IRS Form 5695, showing how the credit was computed. Form 5695, "Energy Credits," is available at IRS offices and many banks and post offices.

The credits for property installed after April 19, 1977, as well as the credits for property installed in 1978 must be claimed on the 1978 return. However, no credit is allowed on any return for any taxable year if the credit is less than $10. Any unused energy credits may be carried over to the extent the credit is more than the taxpayer's tax liability. The carryover extends through 1987.

CLIP 'N' COOK
Copley News Service

4½ cups sugar
½ lb butter
14½-oz. can evaporated milk
1 tspn. vanilla
2 cups miniature marshallows
12-oz. (or 18-oz.) package chocolate chips
2 cups chopped nuts

Mix together sugar, butter and milk; bring to a rolling boil and cook at medium heat for 11 minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in vanilla; add marshmallows, chocolate chips and nuts; mix well and pour into buttered pan. Makes about 5 pounds.

By MARJORIE RICE
Copley News Service

While I can't tell you how to feed a family of six for $1 a meal, there are some things to do to keep from spending a mint on food.

There's one formula that always works: to save dollars, spend time. In a society where more women work, and time is scarce, that's a tough rule to follow, but it works.

Spend your own time and save costs of packaged food. Cut up your own chickens and save 10 an 20 cents a pound. Make your own stock and use up odd bits of leftover vegetables and bones that otherwise would go to waste.

Cook from scratch in most cases you'll spend less. Make your own pasta (that is one case where you can spend literally pennies for heaps of food). Grow food in a garden and can and freeze the harvest. Grow your own herbs.

Coming up with good, cheap meals takes a compelling desire to save money, to conserve in a variety of ways.

Among the keys to saving money on your food budget are to avoid most convenience foods, avoid serving expensive meat and fish in large quantities, avoid liquor and wine and avoid store-bought junk food.

Yet to keep food budgets low, you need not cut meat out of your diet and eat pasta for every meal. By combining low-cost starches (like noodles, potatoes, rice and beans) with meats, fish, cheese and vegetables, you'll get plenty of tasty dishes that are low in cost.

CABBAGE ROLLS

⅓ cup rice
⅔ cup water
8 large cabbage leaves
½ cup chopped onion
1 large zucchini squash, diced (1 cup)
1 tbsp. butter
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. basil, crumbled
½ tsp. caraway seeds, crushed in mortar
3 cups grated Monterey jack cheese (three-fourths lb.)
⅓ cup dry white wine
½ cup bottled chili sauce

Combine rice and water bring to a boil cover and simmer 15 minutes.

Core cabbage. Carefully pull off leaves (run water over the cabbage to help loosen leaves). Drop into kettle of boiling water. Cook three to four minutes drain.

Saute onion and zucchini in butter until tender-crisp. Mix in cooked rice, salt, pepper, basil, caraway seeds and two cups cheese.

Divide filling onto cabbage leaves. Roll up and place seam-side-down in baking dish. Sprinkle with wine. Cover and bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Spoon chili sauce on top sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake uncovered another five minutes, or until cheese is melted. Makes eight rolls.

Beef variation: Omit cooked rice and butter. Instead, saute one-half pound ground beef with onion and zucchini until beef is browned. Continue with recipe as above.

FETTUCINE

10 ounces fresh fettucine noodles
1½ cup grated parmesan cheese
¼ cup butter
1 cup whipping cream
⅛ tsp. pepper

Cook fresh noodles in boiling salted water until just tender. Drain and return to kettle. Add remaining ingredients and heat, stirring, just long enough to melt cheese. Makes four servings.

Castaways Turn 'Junk' Into 'Gold'

By Sarah L. Durdin

The saying "one man's junk is another man's treasure" is an apt description of the Castaways Thrift store, 1011 Concho Street in Rockport.

The shop takes donations of just about anything people will donate, although some items are accepted to be sold on consignment. The division of profits for consignment sales is 20 per cent for the shop with the remaindering 80 per cent going to the seller. For consignment article from churches the shop takes only 10 per cent of the profits.

The store is an ecumenical project for the benefit of the community. Staffed by volunteers of the Methodist, Lutheran, Episcopalian and Presbyterian churches, the store is open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and to 11 a.m. Friday and Saturday.

The store traces its history back to 1970, when the Concerned Women of Aransas County sponsored a weekly rummage sale in the Sacred Heart Convent Building. Most of the merchandise was garage sale leftovers and donations to church rummage sales. Back then, if the day's total was $10 it represented a busy day.

Volunteer staffing of the sales, held in the Sacred Heart Convent Building and the First Methodist Church Youth Building, eventually proved to be such a headache that the sales were moved to the shop on Concho street. All the merchandise was then accepted as donations for the shop to sell, or on a consignment basis.

In 1976, women of the Presbyterian church joined the staff, followed by women of the Lutheran church in 1977. In the meantime, the Concerned Women of Aransas County group dissolved and the Castaways Thrift Shop has since been sponsored as a non-profit organization by the Aransas County Ministerial Alliance.

Since the shop is a non-profit organization, each year ten community service projects or groups are chosen to split the store's profits. The groups for 1979 were the United Fund, Cancer Society, Heart Association, ABC School, Concern Center, Council on Aging, St. Vincent de Paul, Ambulance Service, Emergency Corps and the Salvation Army.

BARGAIN HUNTERS

Mary Burke, left, looks on while Dorothea Montgomery, center, and Carly Heinsohn, right, discuss the finer points of shopping at the Castaways Thrift Store. The store depends on donations which they can sell, with the yearly profits going to service groups in the area.

HERE COMES THE BRIDE

June is coming soon and a thrifty bride can still have a beautiful white gown at a low price. Kay Thomas shows off the bridal gown now on display at the Castaways Thrift Store at 1011 Concho, open 9-3 Monday through Thursday, and 9-11 Friday and Saturday.

Tips On Selecting Tax Preparers

AUSTIN—Americans are a pretty adventuresome people. We like to try new products, challenge the elements, and explore the unknown. About the only thing that gives us a case of cold feet is doing our own Federal income tax return. For that, we'll throw in the towel and pay someone to take over.

If you're one of the millions who will use the services of a commercial preparer this year, the Internal Revenue Service reminds you to select that person with care. By law, you are responsible for what is on your return, no matter who fills it out. Unlike doctors and lawyers, returns preparers do not go through a licensing procedure. Although most are honest and competent, a few are not.

According to the IRS, those who are dishonest usually send out signals that should warn you to go somewhere else. What are they? One of the easiest to spot is the person who claims to have inside knowledge of the IRS computer system. Such persons may even claim to know the formula IRS uses to select returns for examination. In reality, there are only a few people who know this information, and none of them are returns preparers.

Another signal is the preparer's advertising campaign. Watch out for anyone who guarantees a refund as part of their pitch. It simply is not possible for a preparer to know whether you are legally entitled to a refund without knowing what your income, withholding, filing status and expenses are.

The same principle applies to preparers whose fees are based on the size of your refund. Because their fee increases with he amount of your check, these people may inflate your refund in order to enlarge their profit.

Beware also of the fly-by-nighter—the preparer who hangs out a shingle on January 1 and leaves town right after the filing season is over. Choose someone who will be around to answer questions if the IRS calls you in for an examination.

Never sign a blank return, one that has not been completed, or one that has been completed in pencil. Remember, it is your return and you are responsible for what goes on it. So sign only what you know is permanent and correct.

Finally, if you do have a refund coming, make sure it is sent directly to you. That way you'll know that the return that was filed was filed the way you signed it. You'll be certain that you're getting all the refund you're due.

Better Bridge

By ROBERT D. ROSENBLUM
Copley News Service

When I hear someone say they played a session of tournament bridge and made only three mistakes, I add, to myself, "three mistakes that they recongnized." I would imagine the number of calculable errors an average player makes in 26 boards approaches 50.

In his preface to "The Best of Bridge, an Introduction to the (Jan) Wohlin Collection," by Victor Mollo and Eric Jannersten (Faber & Faber, London, 1973), Mollo suggests mistakes are not primarily due to lack of technique, still less to inexperience. Rather, he attributes them to a failure to seize every available inference.

Declarer was pleased with dummy and delighted with West's opening lead. If clubs divide 3-2, he thought, I have just been given my 12th trick, unless of course the club queen drops, in which case I have all 13. So let's get it over.

So accordingly, he played low from dummy and won East's queen with the king. Next he cashed the ace and king of clubs. Then, with the contract no longer salvageable, he complained of his ill luck,

Declarer gets no sympathy from this corner. On the first three tricks he made two errors.

Two.

First of all, since the contract was six notrump, not seven, South should have made provisions against a bad club break. If the suit splits 5-0 he can manage only three tricks from it and will need the heart finesse. Cashing one high honor in dummy will disclose this.

When both opponents follow declarer now insures against a 4-1 break. He enters the closed hand with the diamond queen and leads the nine of clubs. If West shows out dummy's king is played and a third club holds East to one trick. If West follows, the nine is run, declarer unconcerned whether it wins or loses.

Here it may win for an alert West should not cover. After cashing the king declarer must return to his hand to drive out the queen. He has only one sure entry, however, the ace of hearts and therefore must rely on the heart finesse.

Which brings us to the second error (actually the first) made when declarer called low from dummy at trick one. By playing the jack he retains a later spade entry. If East produces the queen, the ten becomes an entry. If not, the jack holds and the king serves instead, to be used at the appropriate time.

Careful attention to detail produces enormous profits over the long pull.
