Grand Jury To Reconvene To Assess Results

The grand jury was scheduled to reconvene Thursday morning, Feb. 6 "to determine what implementations of our recommendations (to help solve youth problems) have been accomplished."

The grand jury was summoned by District Judge John H. Miller in keeping with the request made by the jury in its report Dec. 23 following investigation of excessive drinking and drug use by a small group of Aransas County youths.

In its original report the grand jury found "problems and inadequacies in the area of law enforcement in Aransas County; that each of such problems and inadequacies has been investigated and studied; and that solutions have been sought for the purpose of making their recommendations to the proper public officials and officers for active improvement in this specific area."

The grand jurors further stated that the specific recommendations "which we feel will aid in solving such problems and correcting such inadequacies have been made directly to each public official and officer responsible in the particular area involved."

"We further find," the grand jurors stated, "that all citizens of Aransas County must of necessity lend aid, support and cooperation to law enforcement officers, public officials and the courts if any real measure of ideal conditions are to be attained in the area of enforcement of the law."

"We would, therefore, recommend to all citizens that they immediately report criminal activity, willingly serve as witnesses and jurors, lend aid and support to attain adequately trained and equipped law enforcement officers and officials, and demand effective and efficient enforcement of the law."

Members of the grand jury were foreman Russell W. Itschner, Col. Frank Kirk, Theodore Tiffin, Tom Rogers, Lt. Col. Walter Falk, Del McLain, M. D. McNorton, L. D. Nuckles, H. T. Bailey, Jr., Joe Bush, Max Simpson and Jack Baird.

The program supplements the two-year 1969-70 program adopted by the Commission in December, 1967. That program totaled $389 million for work on 1667.6 miles of U. S. and State-numbered highways, and purchase of right of way along 557 miles of the highway system.

The supplementary program includes construction and reconstruction of 1511.3 miles of roads and highways to cost $205.8 million. In addition, $8.2 million will be devoted to purchase of right of way on 313.4 miles.

Congress appropriated $8 million for construction of this new highway after the Chamizal strip was ceded to Mexico to end a long-standing border dispute resulting from relocation of the Rio Grande River in El Paso. The Congressional appropriation was intended to finance all of the right of way and part of the construction cost, which probably ultimately will be financed on a 50-50 cost-share basis.

EDITOR'S VIEWPOINTS

MAN ALSO IS A PREDATOR

You may not know it but the emerald green Puerto Rican parrot is facing extinction and there are two U. S. agencies riding to the rescue. Only about 200 of the parrots remain alive, and all of the known birds are found in the 28,000-acre Caribbean National Forest in Puerto Rico.

The Forest Service of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture and the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Dept. of Interior, have undertaken a joint project to save the speci from extinction.

The combined enroachment of man and predators has steadily reduced the numbers of these parrots. Actually, the last census of the birds was in 1950 when the 200 were counted. Pessimists fear that number may have been dwindled by now to 50, about the size of the current whooping crane flock.

Consider that, if this type of effort had been undertaken years ago, we still might have do-do birds around.—Topeka State Capital.

CAMPUS PROBLEM

We have no doubt of the truth of the FBI's warning that the New Left movement, as spearheaded by the Student for Democratic Society on all too many college campuses, has "mushroomed into a major security problem." The bitterest irony in the whole New Left movement is the grim misnomer of the organization. Students for Democratic Society, whose tactics on so many campuses are those of a totalitarian rather than a democratic society.

The real answer to the problem will have to come on the campuses themselves—from the wakening majority of students and faculty members who believe deeply in the institutions of freedom and are determined not to let any gang of totalitarian-minded revolutionaries subvert them by storm-trooper tactics.—Buffalo Evening News.

THE STAFF OF LIFE

Bread made from wheat is generously supplied with energy-producing carbohydrates and muscle-building proteins. It tastes good, is easy to digest and is the least expensive of basic foods.

Wheat is rich in Vitamin B, an important source of Vitamin E and Vitamin A is also present in small quantities. Such vitamins in bread are an important contribution to the health of people, and particularly those who do not have a high standard of living and a varied diet.

It has been calculated that 60 pounds of wheat will make 64 pounds of bread. There are 1,200 calories in a pound of good bread—approximately 65 calories per slice. At $2.00 a bushel the cost of wheat in a pound of bread is a little more than 3½ cents. No other food yields so great a percentage of energy at so low a price.

Wheat bread has been the staff of life for untold millions of people around the world over many, centuries. "Give us this day our daily bread" is the plea incorporated in the principal prayer of all Christian denominations—the Lord's prayer.—Brooks (Alta.) Bulletin.

Johnny has decided not to go into politics since he read how congressmen were locked in until they voted for a bill. He says he's already had enough of being kept in after school.—Topeka State Journal.

The local chapter of the Future Teachers of America attended the spring convention Feb. 1 in Refugio. Forty-one members from the Rockport-Fulton School attended. After the meeting was called to order, R. L. McDonald, Supt. of Refugio Schools, gave a cordial welcome.

The Mr. and Miss FTA contest was then held. There were six boys and 13 girls competing for the title including Miss Susan Ballard, representing Rockport-Fulton School. Each candidate presented the audience with a speech on education, "America's Dream." The scores were tallied by three judges. Miss Susan Ballard from Rockport-Fulton, placed third.

They became fascinated by a window display along the main street of the city. For a long time they stood watching a demonstrator place a bunch of laundry in a washing machine with the resulting swarming and splashing of water.

This and That

JOHN KINSEY

If anyone doubts that the Rockport area has a great future, he should spend some time at the Chamber of Commerce and hear what visitors and prospective residents say.

Last Thursday afternoon, Friday and Saturday morning, several persons came in and raved about the natural beauty, the nice weather, and the fact that the area is not crammed with people.

One gentleman was an architect from Santa Fe, New Mexico. He explained that he and his wife came here for a vacation and that both of them "fell in love with the place."

"We have eight children," he said, "and I know they would be most happy to live here for many reasons, one being the water and the opportunity to sail, to fish and swim."

This man is so interested in moving here that he asked for, and was given, the names of local contractors, subdivision developers, real estate people and bank officials. He then proceeded to visit many of these individuals to ask whether there would be enough work for a local architect to earn a good living.

A second visitor, who lives in another Texas city, stopped in and he intends to buy 20 acres of property just this side of the Copano Bay Causeway.

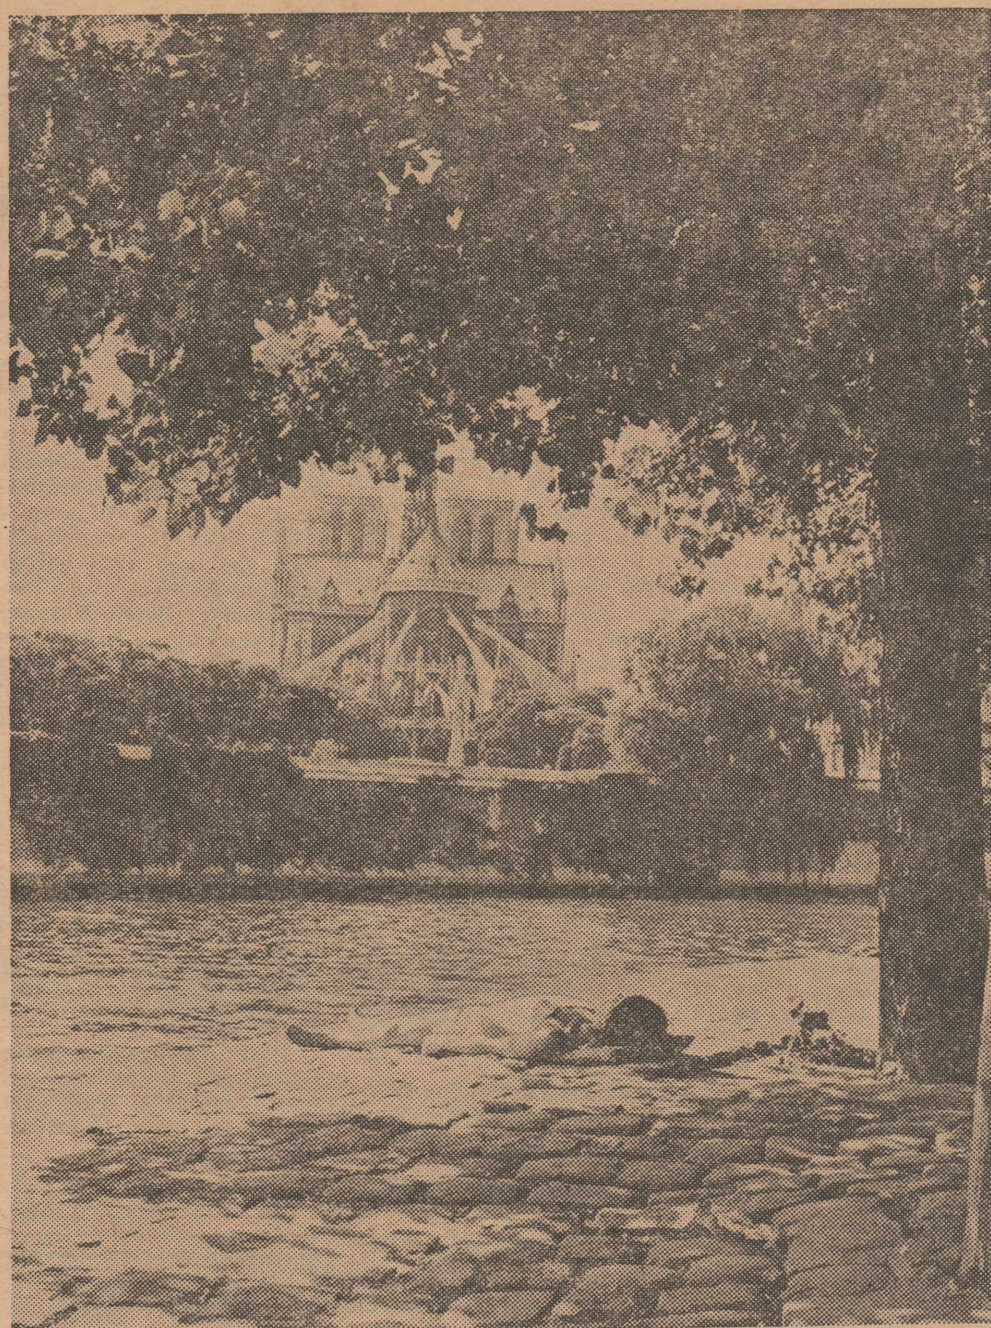

He said he hasn't decided exactly what he will build on the property but is considering a condominium, a subdivision or possibly a large motel.

The architect and the prospective land buyer were introduced and they proceeded to extol the great potential that the Rockport area offers. "It can't fail to grow and prosper," they agreed.

Lady Pirates Win, Lose

The Jr. Varsity Lady Pirates basketball team was defeated by the Ingleside Fillies Friday night in Ingleside. The Score was 34 to 16. Patricia Henderson was high scorer with 9. Linda Ballou and Jacki Sharp were outstanding guards. Betsy Aldridge was high for the Fillies with 15 points.

The Lady Pirate Varsity girls defeated the Ingleside Varsity by a score of 38 to 30. Pat Ramsey was high for the Pirates with 19 points. Sue Clark, Donna Hadley and Pam Hill were outstanding guards. Jane Aldridge was high for Ingleside with 10 points.

STRETCHED OUT on the stones along the bank of the Seine, a Parisienne basks in the warm afternoon sun, taking advantage of one of the last remaining opportunities before cooler weather sets in. Notre Dame Cathedral is in the background.

GREYHOUNDS CINCH TITLE

The Taft Greyhounds clinched the District 28-2A championship Tuesday night with 61-39 victory over Rockport-Fulton High School.

The win gave Taft a 10-0 district record and 24-3 overall. Taft now leads Calallen and San Diego, each with 6-4 records, by four games with only two left to play.

Taft had four players in double figures, Johnny Mayo leading with 21, followed by Bubba West with 15, Frank Davis with 13 and Jimmy Miller with 10.

Rep. Leroy Wieting Receives Appointment

Austin—Sp—State Representative Leroy J. Wieting of Portland has been appointed Chairman of the Committee on School Districts by House Speaker Gus F. Mutscher of Brenham.

In announcing the appointment, the Speaker expressed his pleasure in Wieting's acceptance of the chairmanship and said the Representative's six years prior service have provided him with wide legislative experience that will prove invaluable to the Committee and to the House of Representatives.

The 17-man Committee on School Districts will have jurisdiction over bills creating, changing or otherwise affecting the public school districts of Texas.

The Portland Representative served as Vice-Chairman of the Committee on Continuing Expense during the 60th Legislature. He is the Representative for District 44, which encompasses Aransas, San Patricio, Live Oak, LaSalle and McMullen Counties.

Crabbing, as an outdoor sport, isn't very exciting. But, as a pastime, it is great for passing idle hours.

And it can't be beat when it comes to providing some choice table fare.

However, if you're planning on doing some crabbing, pay heed to a new state regulation governing the crustaceans. It simply states that "it is illegal to take egg-bearing females."

Folks familiar with crabbing in the surf and the state's many bays can recognize an egg-bearing female at a split-second glance. Under the tail shell of the crab, attached to it belly, is a sponge-like mass that ranges in color from orange to dull brown.

This sponge contains the eggs of the popular blue crab. Any crab bearing such a sponge is illegal to keep. Throw it back and allow it to help increase the crab population for next year.

Crab sex is easy to determine when the female isn't carrying eggs. For quick identification simply turn the crab on its back and note the tail shell or abdomen plate.

On the male blue crab this plate is white, narrow and pointed. On the female the tail shell, which actually tucks against the belly, is broad, round and brownish in color.

As long as the female is not carrying eggs (the sponge mass), it is legal to catch and keep.

When you're handling crabs, don't let it worry you if you should happen to break off a finger or claw. Exhaustive studies of the blue crab show that it has such small and underdeveloped brain that it is virtually immune to pain.

Furthermore, the loss of a finger or claw is only a temporary handicap for the blue crab. This crustacean, like so many invertebrates, can replace a lost member by regeneration.

In claw-to-claw battles, blue crabs lose fingers and claws everyday, but the lost member is replaced at the crab's next shedding.

After a crab loses a member, a sac-like growth starts at the point of the break, and a new member begins to develop. At the next shedding, the sac is cast off, and the crab has a new member.

True, it is smaller than before, but it is still usable. The new members continues to grow and after several sheddings it will be almost as large as originally.

The blue crab happens to be one of the many sea creatures that can both walk and swim. It uses six legs for walking along the bottom.

When swimming, the crab's one large claw is always folded against the body. The other claw, the one away from the direction of movement, is held straight out.

The crab's paddle - shaped hind legs are used for swimming. It also is one of the many sea creatures that can swim in either direction.

Folks who like to catch them will find them most plentiful during the late spring and through the summer. In cold weather they go down into the mud for protection.

There are dozens of ways to prepare crabmeat and the end result of each is a gourmet's delight.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

Believe it or not, some fish can't stand waves. They get seasick after an extended period of wave washing.

Take along an old towel or rag when you go fishing. After removing a fish from the hook, wipe the slime off your hands with the towel. Sure saves your pants.

Ever watch a butterfly? It does its tasting with its feet as it flits about from flower to flower.

Every year the Texas Gulf Coast gets a migration of humming birds. Their wings make up to 200 strokes a second, compared to only eight strokes by a wild duck.

When using a dip net on fish, put the net into the water and work the fish toward it. A sudden movement of the net will cause the fish to take another plunge for freedom and that plunge may mean the last you'll see of the fish.

Bats that frequent caverns are great insect eaters. It is estimated that those around Carsbad Cavern eat several tons of insects each night.

If you take a camera out in the fishing boat with you, wrap it in a plastic bag and cover it to keep out the spray and the direct heat. Otherwise you may ruin your film, or camera.

A bale of fresh alfalfa hay is ideal for baiting your favorite crappie tree. Lower it into the water with enough weight to hold it on the bottom. A sack of meat bones from the butcher shop is ideal for a catfish hole.

It is a good idea to whet your pocket knife before leaving.

freedom of motion than snakes. In the sparrow there are 14 vertebrae. The swan has 23.

Just go over them with a silico cloth.

Don't wait too long to give your guns a good wipe down. Frequently they sweat during the winter months when exposed to sudden temperature changes. This can turn to rust.

Wire fish baskets are ideal for small fish, but when they are left hanging over the side of a moving boat the wire can badly bruise the fish and mar the side of the boat.

The State will share the cost on a 50-50 basis with the Federal government of 594.9 miles of primary highways to cost $127 million, 67.8 miles of urban construction to cost $28.3 million and 283.7 miles of secondary highways to cost $31.4 million. The program is designated to utilize Federal-aid from the Highway Trust Fund which is derived from taxes levied on highway users.

The combined two year program now totals $603.4 million for construction and purchase of right of way on the State's "bread and butter" highway system. The U.S. and State-numbered highways are the connecting links between the State's major markets, and carry more than 40 percent of all motor vehicle traffic in Texas.

Upgrading the primary and secondary systems is expected to contribute materially to increased safety on the State's highways, the Commission said.

Juniors Receive Preliminary College Entrance Scores

Rockport - Fulton Juniors have received their scores on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test. This test is a two-hour version of the College Board's three-hour Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), which many colleges require of some or all applicants for admission.

Both tests measure the same kinds of scholastic ability—verbal and mathematical. Studies conducted in hundreds of colleges throughout the country have shown that these abilities are important in predicting college performance because they are basic to academic success in college.

The Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test is designed to help students in several ways. It can give information about ability to do college work and help the student make college plans.

Rocks in Mrs. Murphy's Chowder?

If Mrs. Murphy bit on a rock in a bowl of chowder and broke a tooth, she would have good cause for complaint. Ordinarily she could collect damages from the restaurant (if she ate the soup there) or from the processor (if she bought it canned). The law takes a stern view of foreign matter in food.

But not every unwelcome ingredient is "foreign."

Suppose, for instance, that you encounter a hard, unpopcorned kernel in a box of popcorn. No doubt, biting it would be an unpleasant experience. Still the kernel would not be foreign to the popcorn. A reasonably careful popcorn eater would expect an occasional kernel, and would be able to cope with it.

In other words, the law seeks to decide how "natural" the object is in the food where it is found. Consider this case:

A woman injured her throat when she swallowed a small bone in some canned chicken fricassee. But when she sued the processor for damages, the court ruled that such a bone—at least, if not splintered—was not foreign matter.

"Bones," observed the judge, "are normally left in chicken cut up for fricassee."

But the ruling went the other way when a man eating a chicken sandwich in a restaurant downed a sharp fragment of bone. Holding the restaurant liable, the court said a diner would naturally expect to find sliced chicken and lettuce in his sandwich—but not splintered bones. What if the seller of the food, as part of his sales message, gives his customers a specific assurance of safety? That could increase the likelihood of his legal ability in case of a mishap.

Thus, in another chicken bone case, the injured victim won a verdict because the product had been sold as "boned chicken." The processor argued that "boned" meant only that major bones—not all bones—had been removed. But the court replied: "The fragments of bone that remained would be 'bone' to anyone who might attempt to swallow them. 'No bones' would mean to a buyer that no bones whatever would be found."

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

That "weather eye," such as sailors of old were said to possess, did not refer to an ocular condition brought on by overlong exposure to the elements.

On the contrary, a man with a weather eye was a valuable man indeed, for he had sense enough to respect the weather and what it could do to his ship.

Today's "weather-eyed" mariner has many advantages the old-timers didn't have. For instance—quick reference to a newspaper, radio or television report on weather conditions. Furthermore, he can get a report on today's weather, tomorrow's and sometimes for several days ahead.

Before an outboard outing, it's wise to pay close attention to such weather forecasts. When you arrive at the waterfront, check sea and weather conditions first hand immediately.

Contact the nearest Weather Bureau Office . . . for sure . . . especially if you are planning a long cruise. A telephone call to them will give you the benefit of the latest official observations.

If storm warning pennants are flying, it does not mean you are forbidden to go out; it means that each boater must decide if his craft is able to cope with conditions existing or anticipated.

When afloat, keep your weather eye cocked for distant thunderstorms and squall clouds. If you see some, watch their movement. Turn back when it is obvious they are coming your way.

Increasing wind, growing waves, or both, tells your weather eye something rough is in store for you. That's when you'd better start looking for a place quickly.

It's best, of course, to return to port via areas where there's a chance to stop over enroute to your final destination . . . such as a quiet cove or a protected bay.

A good way to protect the rod tip when loaded in a station wagon is to use a rubber band to fasten it to the little clothes hook over the back door.
