No Beards For Students

The Men's Participation Division of the Aransas County-Rockport Centennial, in its proclamation published in last week's Pilot, failed to state that "no males attending public schools are eligible to participate in the beard, mustache or sideburn growing contest." A spokesman for the Men's Participation Division said this was in accordance with policy of the the Aransas County Independent District.

The troop can now tell anyone approximately how many truckloads of litter may be found on any given city block or stretch of highway.

The boys selected the anti-litter campaign as a service project for Boy Scout Week.

The boys interrupted their Saturday project to enjoy a lunch prepared by the troop committee at Peninsula Oaks park.

Bob Mosier Replaces John Ross As Centennial Secretary

Several changes in the executive structure of the Aransas County-Rockport Centennial organization were announced at a meeting of the Centennial Executive committee in the office of Security Real Estate, Inc., Monday afternoon.

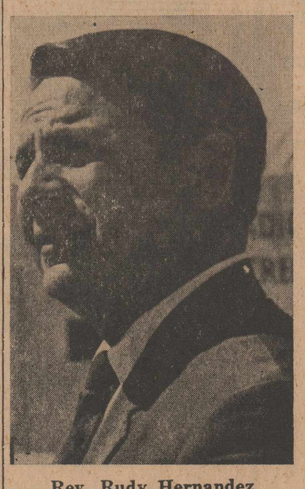

Bob Stroot, general chairman, reported that Bob Mosier had been named as secretary of the sponsoring non-profit corporation, replacing John Ross who has been transferred out of Rockport. Mary Taylor of Key Allegro succeeds Mosier as chairman of the Revenue division. It also was reported that Bill Stubbs, comptroller of the Rockport Yacht and Supply Co. had volunteered to serve in the ticket section of the historical spectacular which is to be an important feature if the Centennial celebration.

Mosier reported that a number of minimum sponsorship contributions to the cost of the souvenir historical booklet had been received. However, he emphasized that many more larger contributions, especially from business firms, are needed to make the booklet a success. Deadline for sponsored ads originally set for Feb. 28, has been extended indefinitely.

He also reported that only about 40 of the 200 two-coin commemorative sets remain available at $15 a set. Each set includes a sterling silver and a bronze coin, each numbered. Single bronze coins are now available at about 20 local business houses at $1.50 each, he added.

The committee agreed to recommend that the recently published Jolly Rogers proclamation be amended to exclude high school students from the beard growing contest until a later date.

Day Care Center To Open Aug. 17

Aug. 17 was set as the tentative opening date for a child day care center here at a meeting Sunday afternoon in the Sacred Heart convent building. The decision was reached by an informal committee representing local churches after a series of meetings in recent weeks.

The center is designed for the pre-school children of mothers who must work outside their homes and are unable to pay the normal cost of child care. The center will be operated in the convent building which has been offered by Sacred Heart Catholic Church on a year's lease without charge.

Solicitation for pledges and money on which to operate the center will be started at once. The budget committee has reported that a total of $21,000 will be necessary for opening expenses and first year costs. It was stressed that sufficient money must be raised to assure a first class operation before the center will be opened.

Contributions of play and educational equipment, both indoor and out, also will be sought. This will include slides, play and exercise devices, as well as toys and other indoor play and training equipment.

A survey is underway to locate qualified workers, both paid and volunteer.

A corporate structure under which the center will be operated is being put together, and a governing board will be appointed as soon as possible.

The next meeting of the committee is scheduled for March 22 in the convent building.

All reading areas of interest to students will be represented, including science, nature, biographies, adventure stories, classics, fiction, crafts, mystery and reference books, wonderful books to read or to give as a gift.

T.O.P.S. News

By Betty McMeredith

We seem to have settled down into our calorie conscious existence again of the Christmas upheaval. Proof of this will be noted by our figures (there is a pun there, somewhere).

In February the club total loss was 118¾ pounds. Queen of the Month was Mrs. Joyce Bliss who lost a month's total of 14 pounds. She also was Queen of the last week in February with a two-pound loss.

Actually there were five queens that week with an identical weight loss, so there had to be a drawing and Joyce won it.

Some of our members will be traveling to Houston in May for their K.O.P.S graduation ceremony and to attend the I.R.D. For the uninitiated, K.O.P.S is Keep Off Pounds Sensibly. I.R.D. is International Recognition Day.

Discussions on what to wear, how much to spend, and what to do at the Houston meeting have been a major part of our agenda at the last few meetings.

We had two gift-giving events during February. The first was a White Elephant exchange of gifts, and the second was a fancier procedure but none the less exciting. Gifts at both meetings were varied and tasteful. One lady went home with a dashing pink boudoir bonnet to cover her attractive beehive hairdo. Another received a beautiful cushion, hand made by one of our Teen Tops. And I'm sure the Parish Hall never smelled the same after all the sprays of gift perfumes were tried out on each other.

More news next month. By the way, there is one doctor in town who gets a smile from grateful patients wherever he calls to them, "Hi, Skinny."

Art Guild Gatherings

By JAN WENDELL

A painter must (if he is to do something worthwhile) overcome two large stumbling blocks in executing a good painting. The first stumbling block is starting and the second is stopping. This may seem very silly to the layman, but to the painter, it is serious business. You may say, "Anyone can start a painting, it's making it look like something that is the hard part." Well, this is true to a degree. But the hardest part for the painter is to know in his mind just what the finished product will look like before he takes that first stroke.

A truly good painter knows exactly what he wants to accomplish and how he is going to do it. The how part consists of many preliminary sketches, workups of color combinations, size consideration and mood experiments. There is absolutely nothing worse to the painter than that large white blank canvas that is staring him in the face, just daring him to ruin it. It is extremely difficult to get a good under painting, that is something on which to build the rest of the painting. A bad stroke here and a careless line there will result in just those very strokes and lines in the end.

There is enormous leeway in painting in oil, for a number of small mistakes may be obliterated by overpainting or adjusting or adjusting strokes and lines. This saving point is not the case in watercolor. Once there, the damage is done. Usually you just start over and mark one up to experience.

The middle part of the painting is the easiest part because by this time there is something to see. That great white blank is covered with beautiful paint and the painter spends his time working up this, adjusting that—bringing up this intensity and taking down that one.

Now we come to the stumbling block—stopping. You may also say, "Anyone can stop painting." This is true to a degree again. But the painter has to consider at just what precise moment is he to stop painting. This is truly the very dangerous part, for by this time, most painters have fallen in love with their own work. Now you may think this is conceited and silly, too. But why would a painter attempt to convey something to the viewer if he didn't like it himself in the first place.

With the painter, the end of the painting can loom large in his eyes. At last, the tree has leaves and small branches, or the house has its shingles on, or the bloom is in the cheek of the child. But the painting needs just a little here—a tiny dab there. Those little dabs here and there are what ruin paintings. In laymen's words the painting is overdone, too busy. Therefore, too much loving care on a painting is very dangerous.

Most truly great art paintings are left a little bit underdone. They leave something to the imagination of the viewer—it is just like a beautiful story that could have two or three lovely endings, it is up to the reader to decide which one he likes best. A story scene may also be viewed as a lovely moonlit night; a smiling portrait may also be seen to have a small hint of a tear in the eye; a quiet pastoral scene may be reminiscent of a lovely surburban childhood. It is all in just what the viewer wants to see. And as George Santayana said, "Beauty as we feel it is something indescribable; what it is or what it means can never be said." I would like to add, "Maybe it can be painted."

The regular monthly meeting of the Art Association will be postponed until Monday, March 16th at 7:30. Members are asked to check their reminder cards or to watch for the place of meeting in this paper. This month the meeting will be held in a member's residence.

The association will sponsor an Art Festival—the first of its kind in Rockport—during the Centennial. The Festival is open to all artists for a fee of $15 per artist with no commission charged by the Association for paintings sold. The artists and their work will be displayed up and down Austin St. and reservations must be made in advance so that available space may be assigned.

Bob Garden's regular weekly art class has been changed to Wednesday afternoons at the Gallery.

Few Tax Law Changes Affect 1969 Returns

Receipts of individual tax returns are down nine percent from last year, R. L. Phinney, IRS District Director for southern Texas, aid today.

Many taxpayers appear to be needlessly delaying their refunds by waiting for additional instructions on the new tax law. Most of the changes made by the Tax Reform Act of 1969 relate to 1970 and later years, and affect only a small percentage of individual income tax returns for 1969, Phinney said.

Changes affecting returns for 1969 that must be filed by April 15 involve living expenses paid by insurance as a result of home damage or destruction; sales of collections of letters, memos, etc.; gains from certain installment sales; depreciation and amortization; and investment credit.

Under the new law, a taxpayer whose home is damaged by storm, fire or other casualty does not have to pay tax on the insurance proceeds he receives for temporary living expenses. The amount not subject to tax is limited to actual expenses that are over and above normal living expenses.

Gains from sales made by a taxpayer after July 25, 1969 of collections of letters and documents that were created by or for him will be taxed as ordinary income rather than capital gains.

Sales of real property and casual sales of personal property made after May 27, 1969, for a price of more than $1,000 are subject to new rules in cases when the seller reports his gain in installments extending over two or more years.

The investment credit in most cases ended April 18, 1969, Phinney said. However the investment credit is available property bought, built, or rebuilt under a binding contract entered into before April 19, 1969, or in certain other transitional situations.

The use of accelerated depreciation of real property acquired after July 14, 1969, has been limited, but a 60-month write-off of air or water pollution control facilities has been added for 1969 returns.

Taxpayers concerned with these matters for their 1969 returns may find it helpful to obtain a new publication—"Highlights of 1969 Changes in the Tax Law," IRS Publication 553 — available free from all IRS offices.

JOHN KINSEY

Mrs. Wanda Sparks got a flat tire on Highway 35 South last Saturday. Who do you think came driving along, stopped and changed the tire? Dick Fox. Both are candidates for County Commissioner, Precinct 2. We're sure that Wanda was grateful, but not to the extent that she'll vote for Dick.

And speaking of grateful people, Fred C. Kleine, Jr., operates Kleine's Rattlesnake Point Fishing Camp, received the following letter signed R. K.:

"I'm the fellow with the stuck Mustang that you very kindly pulled out Sunday. I think you ought to let me at least pay you as much as if I had rented a boat from you. It was worth much more, to say nothing of the fact that you had to get out of bed with a bad back to do a favor for a stranger. That's real Texas friendliness. Thanks again."

You often hear that "Word of mouth advertising" it the best there is, but not always do you have a specific example. Well here's one:

Mrs. Kinsey and I moved here in October of 1965. We liked the Rockport area from the moment we saw it and started telling friends and relatives what a great place it is for vacations or as a permanent home.

Among the first relatives to visit us here were Mr. and Mrs. Merv Sours of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. Mrs. Sours is Mrs. Kinsey's sister. They visited us twice and when Merv retired they bought a home and moved here.

Even before moving here, Merv began telling his friends in Wisconsin about the paradise he had found in Rockport. The first dividend was a vacation trip here by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Pannkuk who arrived with their travel trailer over a month ago and are still here, staying at the Palo Alto Trailer Park. They are considering buying some land here.

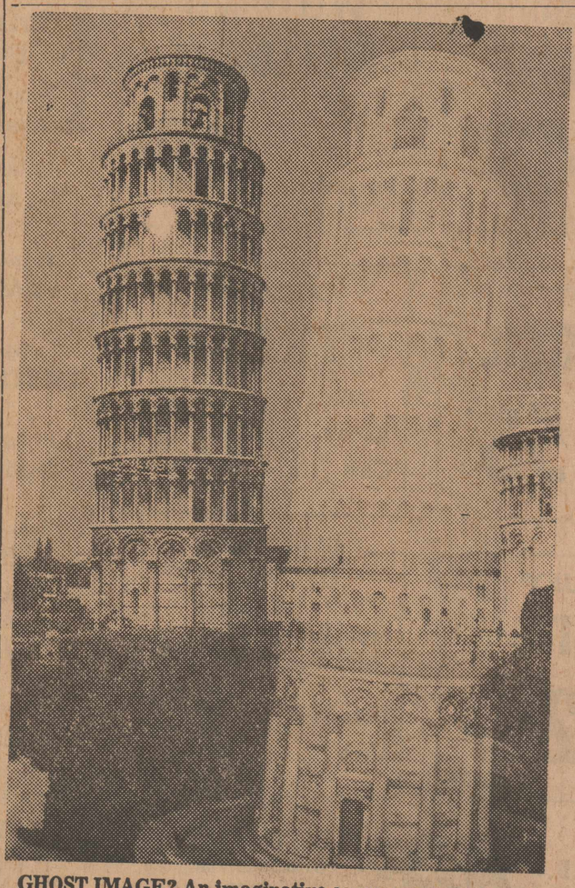

Now comes word that two other Wisconsin Rapids couples soon will be coming here to look the place over. One of the men is the president of a bank and the other is an executive with a large manufacturing company.

Merv, keep that "Word of Mouth" advertising going.

What Needs To Be Done After A Fire Strikes?

DALLAS, Feb. 19—If you are careless in your house about following the common sense rules of fire prevention it might be a good idea to learn what to do after a fire strikes.

The Insurance Information Institute says that most fires are caused by carelessness. As a result, a fire occurs on the average of every 47 seconds in the United States, and a person is killed in a fire on the average of once every 47 minutes.

Preliminary estimates indicate that total fire losses were $1,950 billion for 1969, compared to $1,829 billion for 1968, or an increase of more than six per cent, the Institute said.

So, if you insist on collecting combustibles—old newspapers, magazines, discarded clothing, broken furniture, old paint cans and other things on which a fire will feed—you are inviting a fire into your home. Similarly, you're risking a fire by continuing to use electrical appliances and heating systems that are in poor condition and needing repair.

You're really flirting with a disastrous fire by allowing your children to play with matches. You've heard about the dangers of careless smoking, particularly smoking in bed.

So now that you realize the likelihood of having a fire in your house, it is a good idea to learn what to do after the fire department has doused the fire and left you standing in the smoldering ruins. Here are a few tips from the Institute:

1. Get in touch with your insurance agent or broker at once. Waiting only causes delay in settling the claim. Furthermore, your agent or broker can give you valuable advice on how to minimize further damage. He will also help you find temporary quarters for your family, if needed. Often the agent will be able to obtain a temporary emergency check for a family left short of cash until the total loss is settled.

2. Contact your utility company to make sure gas is turned off. You may also want to have an emergency electric line run into the house. Telephone calls can usually be re-routed to another number by arrangement with the phone company.

3. If the fire occurs in winter, arrange for emergency heating of the house to prevent freezing of pipes or wet walls. Water sprayed on a fire will often collect between walls and will greatly add to overall damage it if freezes. Portable heaters of various types can be within the house to minimize freezing damage.

4. Make temporary repairs to protect against further damage from the weather. This may involve an emergency patch to the roof or boarding a few windows to prevent wind and rain from causing even more damage.

5. Choose a competent contractor to do the repair work on your house. An inexperienced contractor may overlook damage done to the electrical system, furnace or plumbing.

At about this stage you will appreciate the important inventory you may have made before the fire. The smart homeowner makes an inventory of everything of value in each room of his house, places copies of the inventory list with his insurance agent and in a safe deposit box, and is thus in a position to prove to his insurance company the extent of loss from a fire. After a fire is too late to try to remember everything of value in your house.

SOCIAL SECURITY REPRESENTATIVE TO VISIT ROCKPORT

You may obtain information about your rights and duties under the Social Security Act. Eligible persons can secure assistance in applying for old-age, survivors, or disability insurance payments, and for Medicare benefits, from the representative at that time.

Beautification At Holiday Beach

The Holiday Beach Property Owners Association has initiated a beautification program with the planting of various shrubs, trees and plants, many of which have been donated.

Additional plants would be appreciated, and anyone wishing to contribute trees, plants or shrubs may bring them to Mrs. Woodrow Anderson, chairman of the Beautification Committee, or call her (729-2088) so that she may arrange for the Committee to pick the plants up.

A special cleanup drive will be conducted on Saturday, March 7th, starting at 10 a.m. when several public-spirited property owners and a group of teenagers have volunteered their services, pick-up trucks, and time.

The teenagers will pick up the litter along the streets and deposit it in trucks for hauling to the dump. This group of young people will be entertained at a weiner roast luncheon at the Westside Community Park at 1 p.m. following their work party.

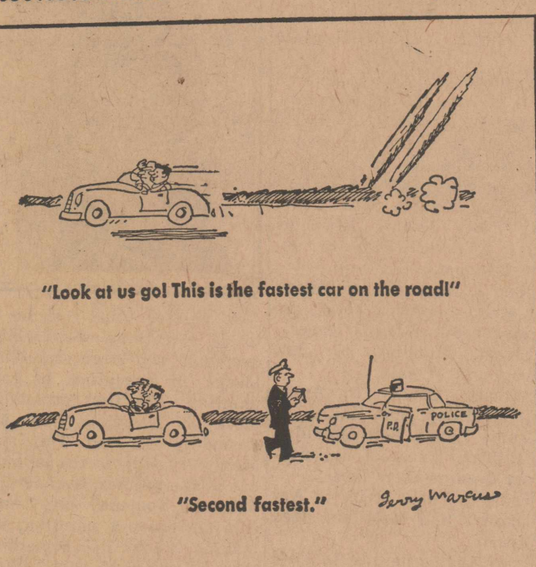

All property owners are invited to help and are urged to participate in the drive by cleaning their premises and lots. All litter and brush cuttings will be hauled to the dumping grounds by volunteer help. Property owners are asked to package or box all trash to be picked up and place it at the street in front of their property by 1:00 p.m. on Saturday, to facilitate the hauling of the trash.

Come out and help with the clean-up and stay for the regular first-of-the-month Saturnight covered dish supper, to be held at 7 p.m. at the Recreation Center.

The Holiday Beach Ladies group met Mar. 2 and discussed the beautification and cleanup project and outlined ways to participate. Present were Mesdames Jack Hardcastle, Emmett House, J. Stephens, L. P. Hodges, Carl Gribbon, W. O. Anderson and Frank Smith.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) If IRS has mailed you estimated tax forms, does that mean you are required to file one of these forms?

A) You do not have to file an estimated tax declaration for 1970 unless you meet the requirements as explained in the instructions that came with the estimated forms.

Estimated tax forms have been sent to every taxpayer who filed an estimated return for 1969 as well as to those taxpayers who may have been liable for one because they had a balance due of $40 or more when they filed their 1968 return. The forms are identified with the taxpayers name, address and Social Security number just as they appear in IRS files.

Read the instructions carefully and if you are required to file an estimated tax declaration, be sure to use the forms sent you. It will assure that your estimated tax payments are properly credited to your account.

Q) I just sent in my tax return. What records should I keep?

A) Keep the records you need to substantiate the income and deductions reported on your return. Cancelled checks, paid bills, Forms W-2 (Wage and Tax Statement) and 1099 (U.S. Information Return for Calendar Year), bank books and similar records in addition to a copy of the return, will be helpful.

Q) Will the amount my daughter receives from a college scholarship affect my dependency claim for her?

A) No, amounts received from a scholarship for study at an educational institution do not have to be included in total support in determining whether the support test for dependents has been met.

Q) My wife and I both received 1040 tax form packages in the mail because we were single and 1968. We want to file a joint return for 1969. Should we put both name labels on the return we file.

A) No, use only your label since on joint returns the account is primarily identified by the husband's Social Security number. You should insert your wife's first name and middle initial on your label and her Social Security number in the space provided on the return.

To make sure you are properly credited for all withheld taxes and estimated tax payments, if any, enter the name your wife used when she filed her 1968 return on the line under the address section of the form. Changes in address should be given here, too.

Q) Does the fact that a child is adopted make any difference for dependency purposes?

A) A Legally adopted child is considered your child in applying the dependency tests.

Q) Last year I sent in my return and W-2 and you figured my tax for me. Will you still do this with the new form?

A) Yes, IRS will compute the tax just as it has in the past if your income is under $5,000 and consists of wages subject to withholding and not more than $200 of dividends, interest, and nonwithheld wages. This is explained on the back of the Form 1040 you received in the mail.

Q) Our community just put in some new sidewalks and assessed the property owners for the cost. Is this a deductible expense?

A) No, assessments for benefits that tend to increase the value of property are not generally allowed as deductions. You may, however add the amount of your assessment to the cost basis of your property.

Girl Scouts

Troop 469

At our regular meeting the Sun Patrol held the opening ceremony. We discussed further what was to be brought to the outing. We prepared the fire pits. Each patrol made a paper chart for the overnight stay. It was announced that there is going to be a camp at Camp Green Hill in Mathis, April 24, 25 and 26.

A few girls were picked to meet with the Cadettes to work on the badge of Active Citizen. It was announced that all of the Girl Scouts were invited to the Church of Christ on Girl Scout Sunday, Mar. 8.

Our camp-out was a great success despite the rain. Each patrol made its own lunch. Two patrols made campfire stew, one made hamburgers and French fries. The three leaders went around sampling the food. Everyone got the OK for their food.

The next day we went on a three-mile hike to the Boy Scout wilderness hut. We're sorry to say that the hut was a wreck. Someone had torn it down and wrecked it.

Vicky Rice, Troop Scribe.

many friends, believed in doing his share and more in church, school and lodge work and in community service activities. Also, his life was an outstanding example of Christian living; he was always doing things for others, quietly and unobtrusively.

In the fields of business and conservation, Jackson played a prominent role as evidenced by his service as president of the Texas Shrimp Association and as a member of Gov. John Connally's Committee on Land Use and Environmental Control, the latter position for two years.

He attended Rockport schools, was a graduate of Schreiner Institute in Kerrville, received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Texas, and was a member of Delta Theta Phi law fraternity. After graduating from the University of Texas, Jackson was a professor in the college department at Schreiner Institute.

In 1941 Jim entered military service and was commissioned as an officer in the Army Medical Administration Corps. He was discharged in 1945 with the rank of major and returned to Rockport to enter business with his father and brother.

Surviving are his wife, Mary Elizabeth; two sons, James Gilbert Jackson who is with the Air Force in the Phillippines and Frederick Barton Jackson, a student at Texas A&M University; two daughters, Miss Nan Irene Jackson of Victoria and Miss Molly Ulrich Jackson of Rockport; his mother, Mrs. S. F. Jackson, and his brother, Norvell F. Jackson, both of Rockport; three sisters, Mrs. Evans Corbin of Ingleside, Mrs. Maynard Abrahams of Taft and Mrs. Bruce G. Davis of Houston.

Anita Griggs Qualifies For Broker's License

Mrs. Anita Griggs, associated with Sipe Real Estate, Inc. in a sales capacity, recently qualified for her Broker's license by passing the Texas Real Estate Commission written examination. Ninety hours of classroom instruction is required before qualifying to take the State examination and this was completed at Del Mar College, where she also completed 30 hours required for taking the State examination for Sales License. Anita qualified for her Sales License in October of 1967 and has been actively in real estate sales since that time.

She was Assistant County Auditor from 1958 until 1965, at which time she joined Wagley Lumber Co. as bookkeeper and three years later transferred to the real estate sales field with Sipe, Inc. While employed by the county, Anita completed a correspondence course in accounting, the equivalent of three years of college accounting, qualifying her as a public accountant.

Although well qualified in bookkeeping, Mrs. Griggs says she much prefers real estate sales because of the greater contact with people.

Business Travel And Entertainment Expense

If you plan to list a business deduction for travel and entertainment expense be sure to have the records to substantiate these expenses, Asa L. Crow, administrative officer of Internal Revenue in Corpus Christi, said today. Estimates of these expenses are not legally acceptable for tax purposes.

In many instances, a taxpayer should keep a diary or timely record as well as receipts and invoices to back up a travel or entertainment expense.

To substantiate entertainment expenses you must establish the amount of each separate expenditure except for miscellaneous items like cabs, phone calls, tips and meals while traveling away from home, which can be added together for each day. In addition, the date of the expenditure must be confirmed, the name of the person entertained indicated and the type and location of the entertainment described.

The taxpayer's records should also show the reason for the entertainment or the business expected, the nature of the business discussion and the names, titles and business relationship of the persons entertained.

The detailed rules on how to deduct travel and entertainment expenses are given in IRS Publication No. 463, available free of charge at all IRS offices.

Youngest Rider

Troy Casterline, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Casterline, proudly displays the trophy he won as the youngest entrant to ride horseback all the way from his home city to San Antonio in the recent South Texas Trail Ride. It's 156 miles from Rockport to San Antonio. Troy and his parents were among members of the Aransas County Riding Association who participated in the Trail Ride.

Troy suffered an eye injury Feb. 26 when he was accidentally hit by a tree branch while playing with some of his pals. He underwent surgery in Doctors Hospital at Corpus Christi and came home Saturday, but will have to remain out of school four weeks.

The Capitol Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, held its annual Recognition Banquet in Austin on Feb. 27, at which time Otha L. Eaves received the Silver Beaver Award. This is the highest award given by the Council to adult Scouters.

Uncle Sam's Selective Service

Editor's note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Col. Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service Director, 209 W. Ninth Street, Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q—I am presently teaching school and have a II-A occupational deferment. Now that I am 26, I would like to know what my draft status would be if I change my occupation from teaching to sales?

A—If you change accupations, your local board will reopen your classification and classify you on the basis of your new status. Your reaching 26 does not have any bearing on your classification because you cannot go into V-A (over age of liability), since your liability was extended to age 35 when you were placed in II-A. Reaching age 26 does have a bearing on your selection. If you are placed in I-A, you would be in the fifth order of selection, which means that many men would have to be called ahead of you, principally men age 19 through 25. You would not be selected by random sequence number.

Q—My draft board is in Missouri, I now live in Texas. My local board recently reclassified me, and now I wish a personal appearance. Must I return to my board in Missouri, or can I appear before a board here in Texas?

A—Your appearance will have to be before your own local board in Missouri.

Q—I am divorced and I am supporting two children who are in the custody of my former wife. Can my former wife get any information from my Selective Service records?

A—Not without your written consent, dated and signed by you.

Texas Draft Call Is 1,564 For March

AUSTIN—The March draft call for Texas is 1,064, and no man will be selected and ordered for induction with a random sequence number higher than 90, Col. Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said Friday.

This March quota is up from 929 in February, which is being filled random sequence numbers no higher than 60.

The state quota for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in March is 8,253, down from 9,359 in February.

The Texas March quota of 1,064 is the state's share of a national call for 19,000 men, all for the Army.

Colonel Schwartz, when announcing the March quotas, that all volunteers at the draft boards must be inducted ahead of the nonvolunteers selected and ordered by random sequence number.

He emphasized, however, that doubtless the big majority filling the quota would go into uniform by random sequence number.

Local board quotas for induction and pre--induction examination in March already have been mailed to the state's 159 boards.

Any man with an early random sequence number can join a Reserve unit any time before his induction order is issued, if one is available to him, the state Selective Director said, and he can enlist in any active service at any time up to the date of induction.
