2 U.S. Officers Killed As Reds Shell Quemoy

TAIPEH, Formosa, Sept. 4—UP—Shells from Russian-made artillery killed two American lieutenant colonels during a two-hour Communist barrage of Nationalist-held Quemoy Island Friday, Nationalist headquarters announced.

Communist artillery pounded the Nationalists' biggest and most important outpost again Saturday in what appeared to be a "softening up" process.

The threat against the island, 15 miles off the Chinese mainland, was considered growing so great that top-level Nationalist Chinese leaders held two urgent meetings in 15 hours. Unconfirmed reports said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek attended the second conference.

(In Washington, the State and Defense departments confirmed that the two officers were killed in Friday's attack on Quemoy. They were identified as Lt. Col. Frank W. Lynn, 39, medical corps, husband of Mrs. Eleanor Lynn, Chicago, and Lt. Col. Alfred Medendorp, 47, infantry, son of Cornelius Medendorp, Grand Rapids, Mich.)

(Informants said the men were assigned to the U.S. military advisory assistance group, headquartered on Formosa. They were understood to have been the only two American military personnel on Quemoy during the artillery attack.)

two officers. No further details were available immediately.

The resumption of the artillery duel was announced by Nationalist headquarters. It said Nationalist artillery, dug into deep cement pillboxes, returned heavy fire when the Reds opened up Saturday.

Nationalist air force planes flew repeated patrols over the tiny island, and the Peiping radio claimed in a propaganda broadcast that Communist anti-aircraft batteries shot down a Nationalist F-47 and damaged another off the South China coast.

600 PERSONS HIT

Sleep Sickness Probed In Valley

EDINBURG, Tex., Sept. 4—UP—Insect experts from Kentucky and Utah were trying Saturday to determine which of nine types of sleeping sickness it was that may have felled more than 600 persons in Hidalgo county in the last few weeks.

The experts are Leslie D. Beadle of Logan, Utah, and Roy Hayes of Kentucky. There are at least nine types of sleeping sickness or encephalitis and the type abroad in the Lower Rio Grande Valley has not been identified.

State Health Officer Henry Holla announced Friday, however, that the disease had been generally diagnosed as a "form of infectious encephalitis of undetermined origin."

Light Rain Hits W-Tex.

By UNITED PRESS

A few light sprinkles of rain dampened sections of extreme West Texas and along the Gulf Coast Saturday, but elsewhere over the state the weather picture was monotonously the same — fair and hot.

Dr. Charles H. Miller, health officer of Hidalgo county, suspects that mosquitoes may spread it and announced plans for a mammoth campaign to wipe out mosquitoes.

He said 25 cases of infectious encephalitis were recorded by Hidalgo county doctors this week and the mere suspicion that mosquitoes are responsible justifies the anti-mosquito campaign.

A team of public health service experts has been given permission to examine the more than 600 persons who have been stricken.

Canadian Story Told Today

What does it do to a city of 2700 to lose over 100 families and a payroll of almost $1,000,000 annually?

The City of Canadian is facing that situation today. In some respects it is a gloomy picture, but the community leaders have expressed confidence in the future.

The Pampa News paid a visit to Canadian one day last week to talk to businessmen about their town on the eve of the Santa Fe Railroad's closing down its terminal there.

The Canadian story, with pictures, will be found on Page Two.

Jap Fisherman Out Of Coma

TOKYO, Sunday, Sept. 5—UP—A Japanese fisherman who suffered atom burns from dust particles in March 1 American hydrogen bomb test, rallied from a week-long coma Saturday.

However, doctors refused to predict that Akichi Kuboyama, radio operator on the fishing boat "Fortunate Dragon" was on the road to recovery. Kuboyama and 15 other crew men of the fishing boat were atom-dusted last spring by the hydrogen test.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Sept. 4—UP—Gen. James A. Van Fleet said Saturday night it would be "folly" for this country to rely on the United Nations as an instrument for collective security.

"I feel the road to collective security lies with the United Nations in respect to the Monroe Doctrine," he said.

Wheat Supports May Dip

Many Questions In Flexible Supports

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—UP—The support price of next year's wheat crop may drop to about $2.06 a bushel under the new farm law, government experts said Saturday.

There are several "ifs," however. For example, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson has authority to peg prices higher than the minimum 82½ per cent of parity called for in the new law.

Parity Explained

Another question is whether next year's crop will add to current surpluses which were supported under the old 90 per cent of parity price formula.

Parity is a formula calculated to give a farmer a fair return on his crop.

The newly enacted flexible price support law requires the secretary of agriculture to take into account, in setting support levels for the coming crop year, the size of the surplus already on hand. In the case of wheat, this surplus is large enough — even after 500 million bushels have been set aside in a special reserve — to indicate a support level of about 75 per cent.

However, Congress wrote into the law a provision forbidding Benson to set a support level lower than 82½ per cent of parity on five basic crops, including wheat. Therefore, next year's minimum support price would have to be at least $2.06 a bushel, compared to the $2.50 a bushel offered this year under the old law pegging supports for basic crops at 90 per cent of parity.

Announcement Required

Benson must announce next year's supports soon. Winter wheat is being planted and the law requires him to fix supports before all the seed is in the ground.

One official said next year's set aside figure may be announced along with the support price. He said that since prices are going to fall below the minimum anyway, the department may not put the entire 500 million bushels in the set aside.

Shivers Took 156 Counties

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 4—UP—Gov. Allan Shivers carried 156 of Texas' 254 counties in winning renomination and certain reelection to an unprecedented third consecutive term in the Aug. 28 second Democratic primary.

The total number of counties which gave the governor a majority in the runoff was 22 higher than he carried in the July 24 first primary, the Texas Election Bureau announced Saturday.

Shivers' total vote was 773,923 to 623,315 for Austin attorney Ralph Yarborough, the TEBS said. Total vote in the runoff was 1,456,238, a record for a Texas primary.

IT'LL BE INTERESTING TO SEE HOW THE ARMY SOLVES THIS ONE

FORT MACARTHUR, Calif., Sept. 4—UP—An Army nightmare came true here Saturday with the arrival of two men.

Both are named Leon Wallace. Both arrived the same day. Both are captains. Both are medical officers. Both entered the Army the same month. Both were born in New York. Both served on the staff at Los Angeles General Hospital before entering the service.

To further complicate matters, neither has a middle initial, and they are about the same height and have "similar features," the Army groaned.

Upon arrival, they immediately started receiving each others' mail and telephone calls.

Auto Deaths 2 An Hour

By UNITED PRESS

Traffic accidents killed holiday motorists at the rate of two an hour Saturday night which was well below advance estimates of safety experts.

The death rate indicated that many weekend drivers had become safety-conscious after safety appeals by President Eisenhower and the National Safety Council.

Between 6 p. m. Friday and 9 p. m. Saturday 72 persons had been killed in traffic accidents. Four persons drowned and six lost their lives in miscellaneous accidents for a total of 82.

The Safety Council had estimated that 390 would die in traffic accidents during the weekend which ends Monday midnight, at a rate of five deaths per hour.

Weather Hot

The weather over most of the nation turned hot and new heat records were set for the day in scattered sections of the Midwest.

Chicago had a sweltering 95, a record for the day. Other records were set at Springfield, Ill., with 100 degrees, at St. Louis, Mo., 104, and at Indianapolis with 98.

Holiday weather in the eastern half of the nation, however, was near-perfect with temperatures remaining in the 70s and 80s.

Michigan and Wisconsin ordered out National Guardsmen to help patrol the highways as safety experts watched the experiment.

By Saturday night Wisconsin had recorded three traffic deaths, Michigan five, but only three of them on patrolled highways.

The Safety Council's death estimate was lower than in recent years. A spokesman said the traffic fatality rate has declined this year and holiday travel has shown a tendency toward lighter volume.

President Eisenhower said in a personal appeal:

"Let's be careful this weekend. Let's stay alert. Let's remember the simple rules of the road. Let's fool the experts. Let's all be alive next Tuesday."

Michigan, which recorded the nation's worst traffic record for the July 4 holiday, imposed near-martial law to cut the accident rate.

With stores closed Monday, along with county, state and federal offices, banks and what have you, there was an air of peace and relaxation reigning over the city, at least until Tuesday.

Heavy bus line business was reported on east and west runs Friday and Saturday by John Gilliam, bus station manager.

J. R. Oglesby, ticket clerk for Santa Fe, said "Quite a few people left by train Friday night, going east. In fact, it seemed like half of Pampa was leaving."

According to the Merchant Activities Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, a few drug stores, filling stations and food stores will be open Monday.

No special activities have been planned today by organized groups, but a ball game with Plainview and the Top of Texas Golf Tournament are on tap.

Early this morning there had been no reports of serious accidents in the area. This followed a nationwide trend as the highway death rate was well below advance estimates.

Two Men Charged After Armed Threat

Assault with intent to murder charges have been brought in Justice of the Peace Court here against two Estelline brothers involved in a plot to extort $25,000 from Wade Thomasson, Pampa realtor.

The two, Homer Edward Bell, about 51, and Jesse Calvin Bell, 49, were arrested Friday night in Memphis and brought to Pampa by Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan and Texas Ranger Frank Probst, Amarillo. They were arraigned Saturday afternoon by JP John V. Andrews and released on $7,500 bond each.

Thomasson Saturday night related the events of his two-hour nightmare ordeal which was spent under gunpoint and frequent threats of death.

"I was stopped at the intersection of Hobart and Francis for a traffic light," Thomasson said, "when Homer Bell got into the car, and ordered me to drive on." He described Bell as one of two brothers with whom he had had business dealings early this spring.

Thomasson said he complied when he noticed the man had a gun pointed at him. "I wasn't scared so much because I didn't think about him going to extremes."

Ordered To Drive

After driving a few blocks he said he tried to stop near Brown and Hobart when Homer Bell told him, "No, you're going on." After some indecision he said Bell ordered him to halt and said he was going to talk to his brother who was following them in a late-model Chevrolet station wagon.

Jesse Bell, Thomasson said, who was driving the other car, stopped behind them and came up to the left side of the car and began berating him and jerked him to the window of the car by the shirt collar ripping off a button.

At this point Jesse Bell got into the car. Thomasson recalled, and ordered his brother to follow them in the station wagon.

Pulled Trigger Back

"As he got in the car he took the pistol and I saw him pull the trigger back," Thomasson related. "Then he began cursing me out and saying he was going to kill me as I drove on. At one point he said 'If I wasn't afraid of (See VICTIM, Page 3)

U.S. Starts Korea Pull-Out Monday

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 4—UP—The mass withdrawal of United States armed forces from battle-torn Korea will start Monday with departure of elements of the 25th Division, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commander of ground forces in Korea, announced Saturday.

Taylor said that after the bulk of the U. S. fighting strength has pulled out of the peninsula, part of the U. S. Eighth Army headquarters may be moved back to Japan for the first time since the Korean war began in June, 1950.

In his first press conference in three months, the Eighth Army commander said the first 25th Division shiploads departing Monday will consist mainly of vehicles. The rest of the 25th division will leave late this month and early in October.

The Second Infantry Division will leave "toward the end of the month," the general said. A total of four U. S. infantry divisions, a regimental combat team and large numbers of supporting troops will leave in the mass American withdrawal, along with the Fifth Air Force's combat air wings.

The withdrawal of U. S. troops will leave a three-division United Nations task force, including two U. S. divisions, a British Commonwealth brigade, and other UN units.

CANADIAN — Santa doesn't live here any more.

That is to say, the Santa Fe Railroad has closed shop as a division point here and has moved to the big city — Amarillo.

It happened Saturday, climaxing about two years of controversy, and speculations.

Thus for the first time since 1887, this historic community does not count a railroad payroll as a principal figure in its economy. Actually the change is not as abrupt as that. The railroad families, an estimated 120 to 150 of them, are moving out slowly — some may not move at all — so the result will be that Canadian's economy will actually have ample time to adjust itself to the new situation.

What does it mean to a community of 2,700 to lose three or four hundred people from its population?

Gloomy Picture
Stories spread through the Pampa area have painted a gloomy picture for Canadian as a result of this exodus, and in truth, activity has all but stopped in certain phases of the city's business life.

But, in Canadian today, with the battle to save the division point already a lost cause, most businessmen are looking to the future with far more optimism than the stories abroad would indicate.

"There is some bitterness on the part of the townspeople who feel perhaps they were not treated fairly by the railroad."

Most of them recognize the business aspects of the railroad's bid to eliminate the stop at Canadian where train crews were changed and where a new work day began for railroaders.

Overplayed Importance
But now that it is all over, the town's leaders admit they "overplayed" the importance of the railroad economy in their efforts to save it.

This isn't to say that the businessmen will not be hurt by the loss of the Santa Fe payroll, estimated at $600,000 to $1,000,000 annually. They know it will hurt, but they are confident they will be able to overcome that loss.

Ben Ezzell, who publishes The Canadian Record, one of the most decorated weekly newspapers in the state, sums up the situation thusly:

"The principal economy of this area has always been based on wheat and cattle, and it will always be that way, unless we get some oil play — which will be most welcome."

Ezzell says the town is not going to die simply because one part of the economy is taken away.

Need Good Rain
"I still say there's nothing wrong with this area that a good rain won't cure," he added.

The newspaperman talked of developing the city as a trade center for the area and of building its economy on a more diversified basis.

Bob Derby, who manages Best Way Grocery, one of the larger stores in Canadian and who serves as the president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, was glib in his comment on the situation.

"We're going to lose a lot of nice folks. But that's about all," he said.

Clyde Pinson, owner of Pinson's Department Store, was taking inventory on some new stock.

"It's going to take a while before we can tell just how much it will hurt. But I don't think we will suffer too much. You folks down there in Pampa will feel it about as much as we will. Lots of folks here went to Pampa two, three times a week."

May Hurt Barbers
Barber H. D. McAdoo, who manages the Palace Barber Shop, was a bit downcast. "It's gonna hurt barber shops and grocery stores about as much as anyone. It's gonna be gradual."

McAdoo came to Canadian in 1928. "I used to work in the shops here," he said. "They were talking about moving the terminal when I first came here. Folks didn't pay much attention until the diesels came along, then it began to look like they really could move out."

The talk was labeled the real menace to Canadian by grocer R. N. Matthews who owns a small store on the highway near the city limits.

"The talk's what's hurt us, not the move," Matthews quipped. "When they started talking move, everything just closed up, people afraid to do anything."

Most Damage Done
And what has been the effect on Canadian's economy to date?

Mayor Malouf Abraham says the principal damage was done when the arguments started about 18 months ago.

"The last new home built in Canadian was the Frank Shaler residence, about 18 months ago. The real estate business is just dead," he pointed out.

This situation, of course, has its effect upon building supply firms, building trades, insurance, and the reaction is felt on down the line.

But the mayor is optimistic, and he pointed to a few steps already taken by the city government to counteract some of the gloom.

"We have cut our light and power rate from 15 to 25 per cent," he said "to give the consumers a saving of $20,000 a year. We have had to hike our water rate to bring about $5,000 more a year, but that gives the people a net expense out of $15,000," he said.

The mayor explained the cut was possible because of the conversion to diesel of a gas engine used to produce electricity. "This conversion will save us $15,000 a year, so we are passing it along to the consumer. Soon we will convert another engine and bring about another saving," he added.

"We have one of the prettiest towns in the country here," he said "and there is a lot we can do in the way of tourist attraction. The thing is," he explained, "we've got to quit singing the blues and go to work."

AF Charges Sergeant Took Bribes

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 4.—UP—The Air Force Friday ordered a staff sergeant accused as an "influence peddler" to stand general court martial.

The airman, identified as S.Sgt. Joel D. Graalum, 25, of Valley City, N. D., was charged with giving and taking bribes from other men to keep them from being ordered overseas.

Major Gen. Charles Born, commander of Crew Training Air Force, headquartered at Randolph Air Force Base, referred the charges Saturday to a court martial at a date to be determined.

Graalum is charged specifically with violating articles 81 and 134 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

He was accused of accepting $50 from a Randolph airman on Aug. 15, 1953, to have the airman's overseas transfer cancelled; then, six days later giving $20 to another airman apparently in a position to cancel the transfer.

Graalum also was charged with "conspiring with an airman second class on Jan. 14, 1954, to commit the offense of soliciting a $60 bribe" from another airman the two apparently approached after learning he was scheduled to receive overseas orders, and offering to get the orders cancelled.

The Air Force said the case of the "airman second class" still was under study.

Sought 30 Years By FBI, Theft Ring Leader Caught

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—UP—A Brooklyn Navy Yard machinist sought by the FBI for the last 30 years was put behind bars Saturday as the alleged "Leonardo Da Vinci" of a $5 million auto theft ring.

Authorities said Joseph H. Fliscina, 58, has changed the numbers on thousands of automobiles for a major auto theft ring. He was arrested Friday night at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, where he has worked as a machinist since 1917, and was arraigned Saturday.

Throughout the years, the FBI has known a master machinist was changing motor numbers on cars, but they did not know who he was. After going down one blind alley after another, they only recently learned the identity of the alleged artist.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jerome Lewis said Fliscina was the "main cog of one of the most vicious auto theft rings in the country."

Thank You!

"With many children on vacation with their parents, we can expect some late enrollees," Roberts said.

Tokyo said a flight of four Nationalist F-47s raided Amoy, on the mainland, early Saturday morning and dropped two bombs. Red anti-aircraft batteries immediately shot one into the sea and damaged the other, the broadcast said.

There was no indication here what measures, if any, the U.S. Seventh Fleet was taking in the face of the new Red threat.

lary spokesmen refused to disclose the effect of Friday's two-hour bombardment, during which Quemoy was peppered with "thousands" of shells. The artillery was fired from the mainland and near-by Communist-held island.

"It is most unlikely they would have moved in so much artillery for nothing," a Nationalist spokesman said. "We are sure that something will probably happen, but think we will be able to handle the situation."

SICKNESS

sons who "may have the disease." It is not possible to tell exactly how many persons have sleeping sickness unless blood samples are taken from them.

The reason is that the symptoms of the sleeping sickness, and polio are similar—headache, fever, stiff neck, drowsiness. Until two weeks ago, physicians thought the Rio Grande was having a sharp increase in the polio rate.

But then, they began to get suspicious and Holle's report showed that most of the suspected polio cases probably were sleeping sickness victims.

Most of them recovered. But polio or sleeping sickness has taken the lives of 13 persons who were brought to Valley Baptist Hospital in Edinburg and sleeping sickness probably was the main culprit.

Dr. Holle said there was "no great extension" of the infected area.

"Then, allowing time for staff work and mature consideration, the committee perhaps can reach its conclusions and file a report within a fairly short time," Stennis said.

Man Kills Self After Shooting Wife 3 Times

STILLWATER, Okla., Sept. 4.—UP—Miri Kilgore, young Morrison, Okla., tavern operator shot and killed himself in his tear-gas-filled "curse-in" tavern Saturday night surrounded by some 35 officers.

A short time before he shot his wife Polly three times, leaving her in critical condition. She had left the tavern with her suitcase when Kilgore fired at her through a window of his tavern.

A passerby saw the wounded Mrs. Kilgore on the roadside but was afraid to help for fear Kilgore would shoot him.

Highway Patrol Lt. Bill Smith arrived in answer to a telephone call and found Mrs. Kilgore sitting up and screaming, "help me."

She was taken to Perry Memorial Hospital where her doctor said she has a "fighting chance" to live.

Highway patrolmen and officers from several counties surrounded the tavern. Tear gas, brought by patrol car from Ponca City, was fired into the building.

Noble County Sheriff Merl Harman said apparently Kilgore shot himself as the next to the last of six tear gas shells and two gas bombs were fired. He said he heard a sharp "crack" at that time. Kilgore was found shot through the left temple.

Neighbors said he apparently shot his wife because she was leaving him. The tavern is located on U. S. 64 twelve miles north and three east of here.

Wife Killed, Husband Shot By Gunman

LEXINGTON, Miss., Sept. 4.—UP—A Negro gunman shot to death a white woman and critically wounded her husband Saturday and a suspect was captured a short time later after a wild chase on State Highway 17.

Robert Goldsby, 28, of St. Louis, who was enroute to the Gulf Coast on a vacation with his family and friends, surrendered to Holmes County Sheriff Richard A. Byrd.

Mrs. B. S. Nelms, about 35, was shot and killed instantly and her husband wounded in the face and hip about 8 a. m. after a man identified as Goldsby drove up to the Nelms cafe two miles north of Vaiden. Nelms was taken to a hospital in Grenada and doctors said he was not expected to live.

Carroll County Sheriff H. E. Ashmore said two witnesses to the shooting gave this account:

The Negro drove into the cafe parking space and "almost turned over." Nelms saw the Negro and his passengers had been "drinking," and ordered them to leave. When they refused, Nelms had his wife bring him his shotgun. The driver produced a pistol, fired two shots into Nelms and turned the gun on Mrs. Nelms.

Women In The Church

In an effort to assist the widows of the Seoul area in financial distress, the YWCA has set up an advisory committee. The committee is headed by Mrs. E. L. Briggs, wife of the United States ambassador to the Republic of Korea. A counter has been set aside in the Seoul Post Exchange, and widows may sell their products there, if they wish, provided that the work is up to standard. The widows of the Pusan area have no large central PX in which such a plan is feasible. However, in a recent all-day bazaar in the United States Information Service building, fifteen non-Catholic work centers (including the YWCA farm school) sold over $1200 worth of the work of nearly 6000 women. This bazaar proved that widows have two distinct markets for their products: one, for products of interest to Koreans, and the other for products found attractive by non-Koreans.

"We are called to face the turmoil of our times," we have no right to cry, "Peace, peace, when there is no peace, or to overlook the very real evils of our society," says Dr. Georgia Harkness, of the Pacific School of Religion, California. "The Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Church has never stood inactive before these evils, and it will not quit in attacking them now with God's help. The best guarantee of success in this effort is to do three things at once: (1) without undue pessimism or 'calamity howling,' to see things as bad as they are; (2) without undue optimism or wishful thinking, to see what actual signs of hope—what harbingers of better days—are visible in the outward scene; (3) to look beyond both the bad omens and the good omens of our time to our hope in the gospel."

Miss Lella Anderson, of New York, national student work director of the YWCA and leader in the cooperative church movement, has been named assistant general secretary for program with responsibility for coordinating the activities of the units of the National Council of Churches. Miss Anderson assumed her duties August 25 in this newly created position. She is the first woman to be named to a top post in the Council's general offices.

Price Trend In Southwest Up Slightly

DALLAS, Sept. 4.—A higher general price trend on a large number of specific products was noted in the Southwest in August, the Southwestern Purchaser, a business survey magazine said Saturday.

A survey panel of purchasing agents noted a continuing rise in the price of steel items.

The percentage of panel purchasing agents who indicated a higher price trend was negligible all year until July, when it climbed to 25 per cent. In August, it rose to 37.5 per cent.

Only 6 per cent of those participating in the survey said the general price trend was lower; the remainder said it was the same as last month.

The magazine said its survey indicated the last half of 1954 started better than the first half of the year and that construction is holding up well.

PERRYTON.—(Special)—The city council of Perryton has approved a $1.15 per $100 valuation tax rate for the coming year, but will revise some valuations to reduce tax collections for the coming year.

In recent years two new buildings have been purchased and are being used as extra Sunday school rooms.

Texas Does Have Forests, And They're Growing, Too

DIBOLL, Tex., Sept. 4.—UP—The Texas forests are rapidly increasing in size, the Texas Lumber Manufacturers Association said Saturday.

Results of a survey the association made show southern yellow pine timber, the basic construction wood of Texas, is being scientifically grown much faster than it is being cut.

Clyde Thompson of Diboll, president of the association, said "our survey of East Texas' vast piney woods shows growth of timber now exceeds removal by more than 33 per cent."

He said that nearly 2,300 Texas lumber mills and factories are producing timber products. He placed the value of their output at $550 million a year.

Texas leads the nation in scientific tree planting. The state has 570,000 acres of timberland, 3,366,375 acres.

Sixty per cent of timber cut at a time to be announced later.

East Texas goes into lumber, the survey showed. Seventeen per cent makes pulpwood. The rest is used for a variety of purposes.

Thompson said nearly all of Texas' commercial forestland is in East Texas. More than 170,000 acres decimated by fire and cutting have been reforested, he said, by planting of seedlings and sowing of trees.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

ALL THINGS WORK TOGETHER FOR OUR GOOD. (Rom. 8:28)

We have here the Inspired Word of God concerning our well being as children of God. His Divine Providence is working in our behalf every moment. And what ever our lot it is for our benefit and His glory.

"Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ: By whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God. And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also: knowing that tribulations worketh patience; And patience, experience; and experience, hope: and hope maketh not ashamed; because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us." (Rom. 5:1-5)

He is our every help in time of need, our strength in the time of weakness, our protection in the time of danger. He never leaves us nor forsakes us for a moment.

Through our experiences in life we grow more like the Master. We are to be conformed to the image of His Son. (Rom. 8:29). We are to be like Him in glory, in love, in holiness, in beauty, in grace, in humility, in tenderness, in patience, and we shall be like Him, and with Him in eternity.

PLENTY OF ACTIVITY ON THE LOCAL sports scene today.

If it's baseball or golf you like, you certainly can't go wrong in attending one or the other attractions in these sports today and tomorrow in our fine city.

The Oilers will be playing the Plainview Ponies in a single game this afternoon at 2:30 while the second and third rounds of the Championship Flight in the Top o' Texas Invitational tournament will be on tap on the Pampa Country Club course.

Then tomorrow, fans may take in both attractions since they'll be unreeled at different times. The championship finals of the golf tournament will be played Monday afternoon while the Oilers will be winding up their 1954 regular home season schedule with a double-header against the Plainview Ponies, the first game to start at 7:15.

You'll find very few amateur tournaments where it'll take a 76 to make a championship flight of 32 players as was the case in this year's Top o' Texas Invitational.

The presence of Rex Baxter, Jr., in our tourney here for the second straight year added a lot to the popularity of the affair.

Although Baxter was known over the Panhandle when he won the tournament here last year, he has risen to national prominence since that time. His highest honor was that of winning the National Junior crown.

This honor won him an invitation to play in the rich Colonial Open in Fort Worth last May. Then Baxter only recently took part in the National Amateur where he extended a highly regarded Billy Joe Patton to 19-holes before losing his first round match.

Patton was the tourney favorite although he was upset down the line.

Well, it's nice to have you with us, Rex. We'll be looking forward to having you back for the years to come.

This goes, also, for all other of the golfers taking part in our tourney here. Johnny Austin and his gang certainly are to be commended for the fine work they do in promoting this tournament every year. That's the answer to the reason the tourney entry lists expand each year.

WONDER IF THE ILL FEELING between the Oilers and Plainview Ponies has cooled off since last Tuesday night's brawl at Plainview?

Well, the answer will probably be forthcoming in the series between the two clubs that starts today with a single game and that ends tomorrow night with a double-header.

It's a mystery why there aren't more free-for-all started over "dustoff" pitches. On many occasions it's obvious that the pitcher is intentionally dusting off the batter.

Don't believe the rule league president Hal Sayles handed down on the dustoff pitches has helped. Sayles' ruling on the matter gives the umpire a free hand in tossing the pitcher out of the game if he feels that the dustoff pitches are intentional.

We've heard only one occasion where the pitcher was chased for this reason since Sayles handed down the rule.

WHILE OUR BIG LABOR DAY week-end along the sports trail is at full blast, the Harvesters footballers continue their preparations for the coming season with regular workouts.

The Harvesters will work out under the lights at Harvester Stadium tomorrow night. They held a workout last night that lasted some two hours.

Coach Aubra Nooncaaster, who has stepped in as head man at the Harvester grid camp, is having difficulty keeping the spirits of his charges up.

"Our first game with Austin of El Paso (Sept. 17) seems too far off for them," Nooncaaster said. "They feel like they have plenty of time to get ready for the opener and they aren't bearing down in the workouts like they should," he added.

Oilers Wham Blue Sox, 12-6; Gain On Clovis

'Ladies Day' Today; Ponies To Be Foe

Five booming home runs paved the way for the Oilers' series-sweeping victory over the Abilene Blue Sox at Oiler Park last night as the locals chalked up an easy 12-6 decision.

All four of the Oiler round trippers came in the first two innings at which time the Martimmen built up a commanding 7-0 lead.

I. B. Palmer led the Oiler home parade with two circuit blasts, his 26th and 17th of the season. Rookies Louis (Slick) Johnson and Dick Hairston hit one homer apiece as did veteran Rudy Tanner.

Jose Valesquez, given a tremendous sendoff, protected the lead.

The Oilers gained a half-game on the league leading Clovis Ponies last night and are now even in the "games behind" department with the pace setting Pioneers. Clovis split a double-header with Amarillo, losing the first game, 5-2, and winning the nightcap, 5-0.

The split left the Pioneers one percentage point ahead of the Oilers, .586 to .585.

The Oilers will meet the Plainview Ponies in the first of a three game series today at Oiler Park with Sad Sam Williams to hurl for the Oilers. Game time will be 2:30.

It will also be "Ladies Day," all female fans to be admitted only for a payment of a small service charge.

The Blue Sox used three pitchers with starter Orlando Torres absorbing the loss. Torres was routed in the fifth inning after retiring only one Oiler batsman.

Back-to-back homers by Tanner and Palmer spelled doom for Torres in the fifth inning and brought on Jim Whisenant.

The Oiler bats continued to boom in the second inning when they hit two more out of the park. Johnson led off the inning with a drive over the left field fence. One out later Tanner and Palmer singled in succession and both rode home on Hairston's wallop far over the right field wall. It was Hairston's 23rd circuit smash of the season and was the fifth straight night that the burly left fielder has homered.

Abilene cut the difference to 7-3 through the fifth but Palmer sent the Oilers into a safer lead with his second homer of the night in the sixth with Johnson, who had singled, on the base paths.

The Blue Sox fought back once again to narrow the gap to three runs, 9-6, with a three-run rally in the top of the seventh but they ran out of gas at this point as Valesquez shut them out the final two frames.

Rightfielder Johnson of the Oilers made one of the finest catches seen at Oiler Park this season when he raced far to his right to snare a sinking line drive off the bat of Milt Varona.

Williamson Rates Eagles Giants Rip As No. 1 Class 4A Team Bums, 13-4

Five 1-AAAA Teams Ranked In Top 13

(Following is Part I of Williamson's pre-season 1954 survey of Texas High School football prospects):

By MITCHELL WILLIAMSON
The Abilene Eagles of District 1-AAAA are being given the top rating among 4A schools in the Williamson System's pre-season balloting for the 1954 season.

Two other 1-AAAA schools are ranked in the top 10, Odessa in seventh and Lubbock in ninth. Still two more are bracketed in the top 20, bringing the total of 1-AAAA teams in the first 20 to five. Amarillo is ranked 11th and San Angelo 13th.

Baytown of District 8-AAAA is ranked second behind Abilene in the statewide pre-season poll.

In its 1953 preview, Williamson correctly picked six of the eight district champions — Odessa, Bowie EP, Paschal FW, Waco, Lamar HU, and Port Arthur. The other two districts were won by teams which the System expected to be second — Ray and Wilson DL.

This year a number of schools are being plugged to win their respective districts who were not considered powerful contenders during the past two seasons. Abilene is most frequently mentioned as state favorite. The respective champions of Districts 5, 6, 7 and 8 are expected to provide most serious opposition and any of their winners could wear the champion's crown come December. Winners of Districts 2, 3, and 4 are not given much chance of providing a finalist.

According to Williamson's statistical dope based on the opinions of the state's coaches, following is a summary of the various districts' most powerful contenders.

CLASS AAAA LEADERS

Champion, Runnerup and "Dark Horse" are listed respectively following the district number.

1-AAAA, Abilene, Odessa, Lubbock; 2-AAAA, Bowie EP, Austin EP, El Paso High; 3-AAAA, North Side FW, Paschal FW, Arlington Hgts.; 4-AAAA, North Dallas, Wilson DL, So. Oak Cliff;

5-AAAA, Wichita Falls, Tyler, Waco; 6-AAAA, Brackenridge SA, Miller CC, Ray CC; 7-AAAA, Austin HU, Lamar HU, San Jacinto HU; 8-AAAA, Baytown, Port Arthur, Pasadena.

Abilene is expected to win District 1 but will need a few breaks to get by Odessa, Lubbock, and perhaps Amarillo, all of whom are expected to field strong eleven.

In District 8, Baytown looks strongest with most serious opposition provided by Port Arthur and Pasadena.

Dear Sparks Rangers

Perryton Clips Bucks In Opener

PERRYTON, Sept. 4 — (Special) — The Perryton Rangers, performing before the largest home crowd in several years, broke loose with a second half scoring barrage here Friday night to down the White Deer Bucks, 31-6.

An estimated 4,000 fans witnessed the non-district clash.

Don Dear was the man of the hour for the Rangers. He scored one touchdown and passed for three others.

The battling Bucks, making their debut under Coach Otis Holladay, played the favored Rangers on virtually even terms the first half when they were trailing by a mere six points, 6-0.

But James Peterson's Rangers got their scoring machine in high gear in the second half and won going away.

Dear opened the scoring in the second quarter when he dashed 15 yards to climax a 65-yard Perryton scoring drive.

Dan Pearson made it 12-0 in the third quarter when he raced 20 yards after taking a lateral from Dear.

The Rangers moved ahead by 18-0 midway through the third when Pearson passed to Bill Thrasher for 37 yards and a TD.

Perryton scored again before the third quarter ended when Bill Farrington took a pass from Dear that netted 50 yards, sending Perryton ahead, 24-0, at the three-quarter mark.

The two teams traded touchdowns in the final period. Dear passed to Bill Farrington for 28 yards for Perryton's fifth touchdown of the night. Bill Thrasher converted to make it 31-0.

White Deer retaliated to score their lone touchdown on a 68-yard drive, climaxed by one-yard plunge by Ray Eller.

Most of the difference in the statistics was told in the passing game.

The balling Bucks, making their debut under Coach Otis Holladay, played the favored Rangers on virtually even terms the first half when they were trailing by a mere six points, 6-0.

But James Peterson's Rangers got their scoring machine in high gear in the second half and won going away.

Dear opened the scoring in the second quarter when he dashed 15 yards to climax a 65-yard Perryton scoring drive.

Dan Pearson made it 12-0 in the third quarter when he raced 20 yards after taking a lateral from Dear.

Wertz Nominates Himself For AL's 'Goat Of Year'

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 — A thoroughly depressed Vic Wertz nominated himself as baseball's "goat of the year" Friday but no one could be found to second the motion.

"I'm to blame if Cleveland loses the pennant," muttered the crestfallen first baseman after he was charged with two costly errors that helped the Yankees defeat the Indians 3 to 2 Thursday.

"You can put me down as the goat of the year," he added, "and nothing anyone can say will make me feel differently."

But Wertz, converted from an outfielder only three months ago, was giving himself all the worst of it, according to losing pitcher Bob Lemon, Manager Casey Stengel and Al Lopez, Yankee Coach.

Bill Dickey, and even Umpire John Fisher.

The whole trouble for the Tribe and for Wertz started in the sixth when Mickey Mantle leg off a homer that tied the game at 1-1. Joe Collins followed with a smash that bounced off Wertz's glove and was ruled a two-base error. An infield out, an intentional pass and Andy Carey's single produced the Yankees' second run.

Pinch hitter Eddie Robinson then drilled a wicked one-bouncer which Wertz stopped but couldn't hold. It was called an error and allowed the third New York run to cross.

"Heck," snarled Lemon later, "I know a lot of guys who played first base all their lives who wouldn't have come up with either of those two balls. Both of 'em could have been scored as hits. Vic shouldn't feel lousy. He's been terrific for us all along."

There were many who questioned the second error charged to Wertz on Robinson's sizzling shot. "It should have been a hit," Stengel said. "Robinson hit the livin' daylight outta that ball."

Lopez said it the same way as Stengel.

No Action Upcoming
CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 4 — UP — National League President Warren Giles said Saturday he will take no immediate action on the eighth-inning slugfest between the Milwaukee Braves and the Cincinnati Redlegs Friday night. The Braves won the game 3-2. Braves' Shortstop Johnny Logan and Redlegs' Outfielder Jimmy Greenhouse exchanged punches following a close play at second base.

Montreal Hit on Wrist
MONTREAL, Sept. 4 — UP — Charlie Templeton, 22-year-old pitcher from Fort Wayne, Ind., was brought up from the Class D Kitty League by the Montreal Royals of the International League Saturday. Templeton, who had a 7-2 won-lost record with the union city club, may start in one of the Labor Day games, Manager Max Macon said.

Braves Nip Reds On Crandall's HR
CINCINNATI, Sept. 4 — UP — Del Crandall's second home run of the game and his third of the current series in the 11th inning Saturday gave the Milwaukee Braves a 5-4 victory over Cincinnati, although they lost the services of rookie pitcher Gene Conley, who suffered a back injury.

Crandall, who hit a home run in the ninth inning of Friday night's stormy game to send it into extra innings, connected Saturday against Little Jackie Collum and sent his drive to the roof of the laundry back of left field. The blow left them 6½ games behind the New York Giants but moved them within 1½ of the Dodgers.

Conley, who had been shooting for his 15th victory, had to retire when Cincinnati came to bat in the fourth inning. It was not known whether he would miss his next turn.

The intense feeling that blew up into a free-for-all in Friday night's game, hadn't cooled Saturday and in the eighth inning umpire Bill Stewart banished Manager Charlie Griffler, pitcher Lew Burdette and outfielder George Metkovich from the Braves' bench for heckling.

Twins Alternate
The twins have been alternating in right field, Mick said. Roy has played in 37 games and Ray in seven.

Roy had a .303 average with 37 hits in 122 times at bat — 12 of the hits for extra bases. Ray had a .353 average with six hits in 17 tries, including one home run.

Both throw right-handed, but Roy bats left-handed and Ray right-handed. Mick said Roy had "dabbled" at switchhitting but has not done any for McAlester.

Both Six Footers
Both are more than six feet tall and weigh 180 pounds.

"One thing they have in common with Mickey is their speed," said Mick, a former Kansas City Braves player and Yankee farm system manager for six years.

"They're very athletic and have a considerable amount of power," he said. "But they haven't learned to pull to the short field and things like that."

The manager said he did not know whether the twin Mantles would return to McAlester next season or be moved up.

"That's a decision to be made by the New York front office," he said. "It has to do with their performance."

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 — UP — Hank Thompson's grand slam homer touched off a seventh inning seven-run rally which powered the Giants to a 13-4 landslide over Dodgers Saturday and all but wiped out Brooklyn's slim hopes to defend the National League pennant successfully.

By beating Carl Erskine, ace of the Dodgers' staff, the Giants registered their second straight victory in the crucial three-game series and stretched their lead to five games over the witting Dodgers. The Giants also reduced their "magic number" from 19 to 17.

Gomez Gets Win
Ruben Gomez, the Giants starter, was credited with his 13th victory, although he was relieved by Marvin Grissom in the seventh inning after Junior Gilliam had slammed his 12th homer with Don Zimmerman on base to narrow the Giants' lead to 4-3.

Grissom gave up the last two of Brooklyn's nine hits, including a harmless bases-empty homer by pinch-hitter George Shuba in the ninth.

The Giants produced what turned out to be the decisive run off Erskine when they increased their lead to 4-0 with a pair of runs in the fifth. Ray Katt, who belted a two-run homer in the explosive seventh inning, singled to lead off the fifth and after Gomez popped up and was declared out under the infield fly rule even though Pee-wee Reese let the ball drop, Whitey Lockman singled Katt to third.

Thompson was hit on the arm by a pitch to fill the bases and Willie Mays followed with a single to center that scored Katt and Lockman.

Game Iced in Seventh
But the Giants put the game on ice by knocking out relief pitchers Jim Hughes and Preacher Roe with their seven-run burst on five hits and two walks in the seventh.

Grissom walked and Lockman and Alvin Dark each singled to fill the bases and chase Hughes. Roe was greeted by Thompson's 23rd homer into the upper right field seats, scoring Grissom, Lockman, and Dark ahead of him.

A walk, a sacrifice, and Don Mueller's single added the fifth run in the frame and brought in Pete Wojciech, Davey Williams flied out but Katt drilled his eighth homer into the right field seats to complete the carnage.

Dodger Manager Walt Alston, conceding that the game was "a vital one," insisted nevertheless that "the Dodgers won't give up" despite Saturday's top-heavy defeat. He said he will send southpaw Johnny Podres against 20-game winner Johnny Antonelli Sunday in an effort to salvage the final game of the series.

Mickey Mantle's Twin-Brothers Show Baseball Promise
McALLESTER, Okla., Sept. 4 — UP — Mickey Mantle's younger twin brothers, winding up their first season of professional baseball, have a "good chance" of moving up in the game, their manager said Saturday.

Ray and Roy Mantle, identical twins and brothers of the New York Yankees star, are hitting more than 300 with the third-place McAlester Rockets, a Class D Sooner State League farm team of the Yankees.

Manager Bunny Mick said the 18-year-old Mantle boys from Commerce, Okla., have been with the Rockets only since the first of August and he "wouldn't want to pass judgment on them."

"But I'd say they have a good chance in pro baseball," Mick said. "They're making good progress, but they're not Mickey Mantles yet by any stretch of the imagination. They're still green."

Mickey Mantle played 80 games for a Class D league independence, Katt, one season in Class C ball at Joplin, Mo., then moved to the Yankees' center field post.

But the McAlester manager said Mickey was "one in a million," and the younger Mantle boys won't move that fast.

Twins Alternate
The twins have been alternating in right field, Mick said. Roy has played in 37 games and Ray in seven.

Roy had a .303 average with 37 hits in 122 times at bat — 12 of the hits for extra bases. Ray had a .353 average with six hits in 17 tries, including one home run.

Peg O' Pampa

MY, OH MY! It sure was exhilarating to see all the youngsters traipsing back to school this week. Peg understands it as much of a thrill for the teachers as it was for the children. Lovable Mrs. John Bradley was all spruced up for the occasion. Some of her friends say she once stated that the beginning of school was a bigger thrill each year. She started her 28th year of teaching this term. Isn't it wonderful to be so enthusiastic after all these years. Too bad everyone doesn't have the same zest for their jobs.

SPEAKING OF SCHOOL, the college set will soon be taking off for their respective alma maters. Some for another year and some just starting out. Do you remember how "green" you felt as a freshman? To name a few: Adelaide Skelly to Allegheny College in Pennsylvania. . . Paty Darby to the University of Southern California. . . Jean Sims to Colorado Women's College. . . Steve Burdette to Stanford. . . Don Cook to McMurry at Abilene. . . Carter Burdette to Amherst. . . Don and Larry Duenkel, Judy Nancy and George Whitten to Texas Tech, Lubbock. . . John Warner and Alton Flynn to Texas A&M at College Station. . . Frankie Turpen, Janice Baker and Bill Duncan to West Texas State in Canyon. . . Ivan Peacock to California to learn photography. . . John McBride, Jean Martindale, Baery Oates to the University of Texas. . . Mary Ann McPeak to Lubbock Memorial Hospital for nursing studies. . . Dan Schroedel and Bill Rice to Montana State. . . Ruby Roberts to Oklahoma School of Nursing. . . Jackie Marie Goodan to St. Anthony's Hospital, Amarillo, to study nursing. . . Dale Gantz to New Mexico A&M.

THEIR MANY PAMPA FRIENDS will be sorry to see Dr. John Jermyn and family leave. . . Hear he plans to go into private practice in Dumas. . . not too far away for them to come see us now and then.

BEEN SEEING, HEARING AND READING so much about the Cabot Companies' distinguished visitor this week. . . Gian Carlo Cil-lario. . . haven't the faintest idea how to pronounce it. . . Beside being interesting, he is exceedingly handsome. . . he's in this country studying business at Harvard. . . understand he was an Italian naval officer and was an American POW at one time. . . Overheard someone say he was much impressed with our civic spirit. . . Certainly he likes our fair city.

THE A. B. WHITTENS have taken a terrible teasing this week due to a misplaced line in the paper. . . The notice of the purchase of a wedding license of their son, George, and Barbara Stockton, appeared under the "divorces issued" column in Sunday's paper. Since the couple was only married Saturday evening, people were wondering if it were the shortest marriage on record. We think the Whittens are wonderful people for taking the teasing so good naturedly and the paper offers its sincere apologies.

IT'S A GREAT DAY today for S. G. Surratt family, for St. Matthew's Episcopal Church and for Rev. Porter Brooks. The first service in the new church building will be held today—the baptism of Mr. Surratt's granddaughters from Fort Worth. What nicer way could there be to "break in" a new church building than with a baptism! The congregation and Rev. Brooks certainly have worked hard for the new building. It looks lovely from the outside—Peg is anxious to see the inside.

WHILE ON THE SUBJECT OF St. Matthew's church, Peg was told that its members presented Rev. Brooks and his charming bride with a television set as a wedding present. . . just goes to show how much people think of Rev. Brooks, his work with his church and his civic work, too.

PEG WAS TOLD attractive Billie Pulliam is leaving Pampa—or may have left Saturday—for points East. Peg's informant said she talked as if she were planning to see Doug and Jerry Nelson in Princeton, N. J. Doug was the former Presbyterian minister here and is now studying at Princeton.

SEEN AND HEARD AROUND TOWN—that Bill Harris has a Model-T car. . . we understand they're almost a collector's item now. . . Jimmy McCune in a bright yellow sports shirt. . . Little Johnny Martin, son of Oiler Manager Hershel Martin, pitching a mighty mean ball between games Wednesday. . . Bess Griffith with her attractive sister, visiting her from Denton. . . Sybil Turner and Evelyn Milam, getting back into the swing of the new school term. . . Lou Dean Cotton all excited over her coming wedding (it was Saturday). . . her future sister-in-law was just as excited. Mrs. Martin Shubbe busy collecting and making dried flower arrangements for Beta Sigma Phi. . . Peg and "Hump" Humphrey visiting Lillian and Ralph Eason.

FRIENDS OF ED NASH received a postcard from him from New Orleans where he is vacationing—he says he heard "Deep in the Heart of Texas" played "as it never was played before". . . ala Dixieland. . . that certainly would be a unique experience.

THE MARRIAGE OF BILL DUNCAN and Katherine Smith in Shamrock last week certainly was lovely—Bill's bride is so gracious and attractive—Cynthia Duncan, Glenn Tarpley, Karl Stephenson, Carl Kennedy and John Spearman were all in the wedding party. . . there was a large group of Pampans attending, too.

THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK. . . We cannot do evil to others without doing it to ourselves (Demahis). . . Lands mortgaged may return, but honesty once pawned is never redeemed (Middleton). . . Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us, to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it. (Lincoln)

THIS IS A PEACHY WAY to use that luscious fruit which is a year 'round favorite. When fresh peaches are not available, canned and frozen ones are always in the stores and that means you can enjoy this creamy and wonderful tasting dessert anytime.

The rice and milk cook together causing an extra special bit of flavor to develop, sort of a caramel flavor. Then marshmallows are added for creaminess. The peaches come next and when it's time to enjoy this dessert, some toasted almonds are sprinkled over each serving. This dessert looks as good as it tastes and you won't be able to wait to take a second bite.

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 cup uncooked white rice
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 4 cups whole milk
- 16 marshmallows, cut in half
- 2 cups peach slices, drained (fresh, canned, thawed frozen)
- 1-3 cup blanched almonds, silvered, then toasted

METHOD: Put rice, salt and milk into a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil. Turn heat as low as possible. Cover. Leave over this low heat for 20 minutes. Stir, then cover and continue to cook over the low heat 10 more minutes. Pour into a serving dish. Allow to cool somewhat. Add some of the marshmallows. If the rice is so hot the marshmallows melt entirely, wait to add the others. The idea is to have some of the marshmallows melt and the others just become soft and not completely melt. Add the peaches. Cover and chill before serving or serve warm topped with the almonds which have been placed in a greased pan in a 300 degree oven for 20 minutes or until a golden brown.

This recipe makes 10 servings.

As always,
PEG O' PAMPA

Fashion Exposition Scheduled In Dallas

For the 17th year, Neiman-Marcus will present the latest fashions of the world before an audience of thousands and honor three notable designers at the famous Texas specialty store's annual Fashion Exposition in Dallas, September 4th and 5th.

The "Oscars" of the fashion world, Neiman-Marcus Awards for distinguished service in the field of fashion, will go to a designer from Italy, Marchese Emilio Pucci of Florence and Capri, whose originality of design and flair for color have revolutionized the look of women's sportswear from Cannes to Canton, Biarritz to Birmingham; to Herbert and Ethel Levine, who step into fashion foreground with shoe designs of such architectural and sculptural perfection that they might have come from da Vinci's notebooks; and to James Galanos, a brilliant young California couturier whose clothes in their sheer beauty reflect the glory of his Greek heritage.

Formal presentation of the Awards by Stanley Marcus, store president, will precede the two showings of premier collections of the great couturiers, jewelers and accessory makers of the world. The collections have been assembled with great care to represent a "Mosaic of Fashion" which is the theme for the Exposition.

The "Mosaic of Fashion" showings will project the myriad factors . . . the cut, color, fabric, talent, labor, the man, the machine, the money, research, the inspiration, adaptation, imagination the value and the beauty . . . that make fashion the second greatest commodity market of the world.

Golden Anniversary Of Unique Industry Observed Recently

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK, Sept. 5 — UP — A widowed seamstress put an elastic waistband in a tea gown half a century ago and started something that made her a wealthy woman.

A unique fashion show at a Fifth Avenue hotel in New York Tuesday honors that tea gown design, and the 50 golden years of a new industry that followed — manufacturing maternity dresses.

Presumably resourceful mothers had thought of the expanding waistband centuries before, but until Mrs. Lena Bryant, a Lithuanian immigrant who earned her living as an expert seamstress, started making her $18 accordion-pleated tea gowns in quantities, no one had thought of making a business of dressing expectant mothers.

The fashions gathered from nine different countries for Tuesday's fashion show by Lane Bryant, as the seamstress' nationwide business became known, prove that modern maternity wardrobe designers have thought of everything.

There are balloon blouses and treader pants; low-cut evening dresses that stand off stiffly from the off-shoulder neckline to the ballerina-length hemline, and bell-shaped tunic dresses copied carefully from new styles for non-pregnant women.

These light-hearted maternity fashions are all American designs. Fashions sent over from abroad for the show indicate the United States definitely leads the way in youthful styles for expectant mothers.

The latest favorite for young mothers is the one-piece dress that flares from shoulder to hem. One new version is a black velvet jumper coat that can be worn with or without a blouse. Then there's also the evening version mentioned earlier, done in accordion-pleated nylon over taffeta.

Stiffened underslips for these dresses are made with the same shoulder-to-hem flare to guarantee a jaunty pyramid fullness.

As he explains it, as we grow older our habit patterns become more set and it makes us feel insecure to break them.

Not that we admit to ourselves that we are afraid to try something new or take a chance or get a change of pace into our lives.

We don't admit we're afraid of change. We fool ourselves by finding superficial reasons for not doing what we are actually scared to do.

RUTH MILLET

A Yale professor recently handed us adults a piece of information about ourselves that should be a real challenge. He claims that all adult learning consists of doing something one is afraid to do.

As he explains it, as we grow older our habit patterns become more set and it makes us feel insecure to break them.

Not that we admit to ourselves that we are afraid to try something new or take a chance or get a change of pace into our lives.

We don't admit we're afraid of change. We fool ourselves by finding superficial reasons for not doing what we are actually scared to do.

So we stick to the old habit patterns and old ways of thinking. The rut we are in may be boring, but it's familiar and the unfamiliar is frightening.

Just knowing that as adults we all share this fear of learning new things, and that the only way we can keep on growing and learning is to do the things we fear to do, should be a big encouragement to us.

We can admit to ourselves that we are afraid of the new and different, instead of making up silly excuses for sticking to narrow habit patterns — because we know we aren't the only ones who are afraid.

And then we can go right ahead and tackle the thing we are afraid of doing.

It may take some courage and a lot of gumption, but the only alternative is to accept the narrow little ruts we are in for the rest of our lives.

That's a pretty depressing alternative, isn't it?

Miss Jill Chapman And Orville Fisher Repeat Vows In First Methodist Church

Flanking the central arrangement were baskets of white mums and gladioli, placed before the chancel rail. Pews were marked with white mums and salal foliage.

The fitted bodice of shirred nylon net was topped with a short jacket, styled with a round collar and fastened down the front with a row of tiny, covered buttons. Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. The table was covered with a rose cloth of silk, centered with an arrangement of pink flowers, flanked by silver candelabra with pink tapers. MATURE PARENT

About six pupils from the Wilsons' house is a certain roadhouse. It is a favorite rendezvous for teen-age roisters, and has several times figured in local newspaper headlines.

One evening after their 15-year-old Linda had gone off with friends to a drive-in movie, the Wilsons were startled to learn that she was at the roadhouse, instead. Over their telephone, the mother of five of Linda's friends said worriedly, "I wish I'd forbidden Alice to go there when she mentioned the plan. I wish I knew what to do."

Mr. Wilson knew exactly what to do. He got his car and drove to the roadhouse. Then he asked a waiter to deliver a note to his child informing her that he was waiting to drive her home. On the way home, he did not interrupt her outraged silence. But as they turned into their drive, he said cheerfully: "I'm not criticizing you for being angry. You went to the Pine Cone Inn because you thought it was a good place for you to be. I took you out of it because I think it's a bad place for you to be. All that's happened is that two people have done what they had to do, honey."

Later that evening Linda was ready to listen to her parents' reasons for making the Pine Cone Inn "out of bounds."

Sometimes during adolescence, children get the idea that they're the only people entitled to act upon their convictions. This idea places a heavy and premature responsibility upon them. For their convictions are apt to be as unripe as their experience of the world. When we see these youthful convictions leading them into hazardous action, it is only kind for us to reclaim temporary control of their action. We reclaim it, neither with apology nor anger. We take it back as an emergency measure, recognizing that our young person is not quite ready for total control of his life.

However, I must warn parents not to attempt to emulate the behavior of Linda's father unless they can offer their youngster similar consideration. He did not criticize his child's desire to visit a notorious roadhouse. He granted her right to a conviction that differed from his own.

Without showing her this consideration for her point of view, he could not have led her to understand his own. Nor could he have won her acceptance of the action produced by his point of view.

New Uses Named For Ground Beef

Ground beef is one of the cheapest meats you can buy these days, says the Agricultural Marketing Service.

With ground beef so plentiful, home economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have come up with some new ways to use this meat.

Here's one with a slightly Italian accent. It's called Yankee Pizza. Roll biscuit dough thin and cut into biscuits. Season ground beef to taste and brown in skillet or under broiler. Spread on biscuit; top with a slice of cheese and tomato paste or chili sauce. Bake in a very hot oven, (500 degrees F.) for ten minutes.

French beef balls make a tasty dish for lunch. Season ground beef to taste, form into balls about one inch in diameter. Then fry in small amount of fat. Slice hard-crusted fresh rolls in half. Cover bottom half with meat ball, top with tomato sauce and cover with other half of roll.

And, of course, with ground beef around, you must have a hamburger. This recipe calls for a triple-decker, just the thing for ravenous teen-agers. Season ground beef to taste and brown. Sauté onions and green pepper.

Sandra Burden And John Dee Coleman Are United In Marriage In Shamrock

SHAMROCK — (Special) — The home of Mr. and Mrs. Y. Y. Burden was the scene of the wedding of their daughter, Sandra, and John Dee Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Coleman of McLean, at 8 p.m., August 28. Rev. Frank Beauchamp, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Tall white baskets of white mums and pompons and floor candelabra with white tapers formed the altar in front of the fireplace.

Miss Mary Kay Holmes played a prelude of wedding music and accompanied Miss Joan Beauchamp as she sang "Because" by Handel. As the bridal party entered, she played "The Bridal Chorus" from the opera "Lohengrin" by Wagner.

Candles were lighted by the ushers, Bill Burden, brother of the bride, and Mario Coleman of McLean, brother of the bridegroom. Miss Peggy Doty of Wichita Falls, formerly of Shamrock, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of orchid tulle over orchid taffeta. It was fashioned with a fitted bodice, short sleeves, a low neckline and a full bouffant skirt.

Miss Gwyn Wheeler of Dallas, was bridesmaid. She wore a dress of buttercup yellow tulle designed identical to the dress worn by the maid of honor. The attendants wore matching half hats and carried colonial bouquets of pompons and rosebuds in shades of orchid and yellow.

J. D. Coleman of McLean served his son as best man.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of white lace and tulle was styled with a lace bodice, a low round neckline, and cap sleeves edged with tiny ruffles of tulle. The full gathered skirt of tulle was finished with tulle ruffles and bands of lace which formed a bustle effect. She wore lace mitts edged with tulle ruffles and carried a bouquet of white sweetheart rosebuds tied with white satin ribbon.

Rolling Office Gathers Neither Moss Nor Moths

YORK, Pa. — When business takes Ben Weiss out of the city he can go without leaving the office. He simply takes the office with him; or, more correctly, lets it take him. Weiss has a sumptuous office on wheels, a custom-built $20,000 trailer.

The mobile office-home not only is equipped with such conveniences as air conditioning, a kitchenette, bath and shower, but also boasts such refinements as cedar closets, noted for their pleasant fragrance, moth-repelling and beauty of grain and coloring. Carrying out the wood motif of the interior are attractive walls paneled in mahogany plywood.

His name is James Galanos. He's small, quiet, young and shy.

Also in line for accolades at the Monday and Tuesday night presentations are Italian sportswear designer Marchese Emilio Pucci and New York shoemakers Beth and Herbert Levine.

For Flawless Perfection Jimmy reaped his fashion Oscar for flawless perfection of design in women's apparel. And he also will take home the American Fashion Critics' award next month from a presentation at New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art.

A young lad's loving memory of his mother's beautiful festival gown of pale cream satin lined with cotton print will be presented to exposition audiences in Galanos' current collections using satin, sometimes combined with pale prints. Perhaps the gown—brought to America from the mountains of Greece—marked the start of his great appreciation for beautiful, intricate apparel.

At the age of 18 and from the New Jersey home to his Macedonian parents, Jimmy went to Madame Carnegie's salon to do his "pin picking and fabric pushing." But between his regular chores, Galanos sold fashion sketches to various New York dress design houses.

Then at the request of an affluent business acquaintance, Jimmy went West, heading a venture which never materialized. But his benefactor packed him off to Europe on a three-year scholarship.

Later he took work in the Paris salon of the famous French designer Robert Piguet.

The young hopeful worked long and hard. He returned to California with a new urge — to do designing for the motion picture industry.

However, he did take time to designed costume for one movie, "Never Wave at a Waco," and turned out some special wardrobes for a few of Hollywood's shining stars.

For Galanos, no gown is too difficult to execute or too expensive to produce in his workrooms or in his austere black and white Beverly Hills salon.

And for Galanos, there's a silver and ebony plaque — an "Oscar" of fashion — waiting.

Food Costs Lessened For Elderly Persons By Careful Planning

LINCOLN, Neb. — UP — Cost of food for elderly persons may be reduced by careful planning, a food expert says.

Miss Ethel Diedrichsen, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Nebraska, says the most expensive item on an elderly person's diet is meat. But she says often the leanest cuts are the least expensive. They may be tenderized by chopping or long slow cooking.

Flax or poultry are good substitutes for the meat, and not as expensive.

Some foods cost several times as much as others of similar nutritive value and use in the diet, she says. Carrots, some of the leafy greens and many canned vegetables are relatively low in price.

Citrus fruit has been an economical buy for Vitamin C. Milk, a "very important food in the diet of older people," is an inexpensive source of calcium. "On a tight budget, evaporated milk or nonfat dry milk may be used for cooking," she says.

Older people generally need and prefer smaller quantities of food than younger people. Thus, it pays to save waste by not buying or preparing too much of any one food," she says.

A few drops of white vinegar added to the rinse water when washing nylon curtains or plastic furniture helps reduce their dust-catching traits. The vinegar rinse reduces the static charge which causes the dust to collect.

Mrs. Farrington waged a strenuous campaign which started less than a month after her husband's death. She is the first woman to represent Hawaii in Congress. Her term runs until next January.

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

Election Results

It is certainly to the credit of the people of Gray County and other Top O' Texas counties that they realized the basic issue in the recent governor's race.

To be sure, Governor Shivers certainly is not a gilded lily but he did represent what is left in political life of a stand against omnipotent government. His opponent, on the other hand, showed his true colors when he criticized Shivers for the points which epitomized at least a shadow of principle. Even poor Allan felt it necessary to fall into the old socialist debauchery from time to time, by telling the constituents what he and his administration had "given" them. But such is the sad state of affairs with virtually every man running for state and national leadership in this day and age.

Hence, the Libertarian found himself once again in the dilemma of supporting the lesser of two evils with the governor definitely representing the "lesser" faction.

That the CIO boys and that sorry New Deal political hack, Sam Rayburn, were rebuked at the polls by the people of Texas should serve as a long, long way from being in their pocket.

Dodging The Answer

How firmly ingrained is the belief in socialistic public schools!

It is a curious thing to watch the Southern states writhing under the recent Supreme Court ruling on segregation and attempting all sorts of legal chicanery to circumvent the ruling.

But so far, and we have watched with more than passing interest, not one legislator, newspaper or spokesman of any kind has come up with the real answer to the problem — the elimination of all public schools from operation by the state.

There is, in the minds of a number of constitutional lawyers and others, grave question as to whether the maintaining of a public school system by the state — when it includes compulsory attendance and compulsory payment for the schools through taxes — is not itself a violation of the Constitution and Bill of Rights. Certainly there is nothing in the federal constitution which sets forth that the states are required to operate public schools or schools of any kind.

It appears obvious that the great majority of legislators in the Louisiana legislature are of the opinion that what is needed is to "bypass" the Supreme Court ruling and still, somehow, maintain public schools operated by the state.

What none of them seems to realize is that they would be on the best moral and legislative grounds if they were to attack the system itself. If there is any moral or legislative grounds for opposition to such things as socialized medicine, government controlled press and government controlled religion, these same grounds will provide opposition to socialized and government controlled schools. If it is immoral and unjust for one person to take from another by force for the purpose of providing the kind of education the first thinks ought to be provided, it is immoral for two or any other number to follow the same procedure. If it is immoral for the majority to require by force the payment of a government religion, it is equally immoral for the majority to require by force the payment for government schools.

As Rose Wilder Lane has pointed out:

"I am certain that parents are responsible for the care and training of their own children, and that no act of any legislators can take that natural responsibility from them. Parents cannot be responsible for schools that they cannot choose, nor control, nor resist by refusing to submit their children to them. I do advocate free schools (private and parochial). . . I have every faith and confidence in the eventual success of the American Revolution and therefore in the eventual abolition of the existing system of universal compulsory State schools, which certainly are no part of a world revolution for human rights, freedom and a classless society."

Isabel Patterson, author of The God and the Machine, adds:

"... how are children to be educated if there are no tax-supported compulsory schools? The answer is by private schools. Anyone who wished could open a school to which parents could send their children on payment of the necessary fee, which would naturally vary a good deal. . . There is no reason to suppose that children would remain untought. . . The most vindictive resentment may be expected from the pedagogic profession for any suggestion that they should be dislodged from their dictatorial position. . . the question to put to any such teacher moved to such indignation is: Do you think nobody would WILLINGLY entrust his children to you to pay you for teaching them? Why do you have to extort our fees and collect our pupils by compulsion?"

As an existing example of the validity of this belief we have before us in the United States today the operation of voluntary supported churches — in such numbers that there is nowhere a child that lacks the opportunity to attend the church of his (or his parent's) choice. Actually, the churches are crying for additional people to attend and help fill the yawning expanse of empty seats and all manner of effort is being made to make the churches attractive. Certainly if it can be argued that academic training, as distinguished from education, is a desirable thing and therefore ought to be required by law, the same argument may be said for religious training and compulsory church attendance and financial support through taxes is in order.

The fact that through the South today there are concerted efforts being made to "beat the law" insofar as public schools is concerned, ought to be sufficient evidence that there is something basically wrong with the system; that the point of attack should not be on a means of circumventing the Supreme Court ruling but upon the system inherent in the system itself.

The Complex Society Excuse For Need Of More Government

I have quite often heard the argument that now since society is so complex that we of course have to have more government than we did when the Declaration of Independence was written in 1776.

A friend of mine remarked to me that he had often heard that argument and that it was all a fallacy. He had written to a friend who contended that our complex and highly advanced society today was the reason we had to have so many more laws than we used to have. This friend had written to that party and I asked him for a copy of his letter. It so shatters the excuse for more government that I want to pass on his presentation. This is the way he puts it:

"This is the question. We can talk in theoretical terms, but when face to face with a problem is our belief in a society of free men strong enough to make our actions consistent with our partially-embodied theories? In my mind there is no doubt whatsoever as to the true answer. The widespread acceptance of the freedom principle (each person having the inherent right to make his own decisions and either reap the benefits or pay the penalties resulting) would indeed solve the problems arising from man's association with other men."

"What about this 'complex' society?"

"An automatic washer and dryer cut down the working hours of a housewife — she has time for other activities. Is that complex? Try substituting the scrub-board and clothes line."

"The automobile enables a man to live farther away from the city and his office — and his family to live in relatively open country or residential sections. The truck transports fresh produce eliminating the real need for a garden and the long evening hours hoeing, weeding, spraying. — more time for the children. Is that complex?"

"Is it complex to pay six dollars a month for a gadget hung on the wall which enables you to talk with your friends or business acquaintances within a 10-mile radius, without the dreary hours and days consumed to do the same thing in person on horseback?"

"Is it complex for me (and you and millions of others) to avoid the necessity of growing my own food, raising cattle for my own milk and meat, making my own clothes, building my own shelter, inventing my own radio and TV set, manufacturing my own car as required daily or as needed to keep up with the latest model and style — merely in exchange for eight or nine pleasant hours of 'office' work? Is that complex?"

"It is complex to adjust myself in an easy chair and turn a knob for a front row seat to a New York concert, or for a lecture by some learned scholar, or for the thrills of a baseball game played miles away?"

"What do these special treats cost me?"

"The radio? Now let's see. As I recall it cost me two days work in 1947, or was it 1946? It WOULD have been complex, however, if I had to invent it and arrange for someone to broadcast to me — so complex and costly it would not have been worth the attempt."

"Yes, for breakfast I eat a banana and that figuratively passes through the hands of hundreds of persons and records over thousands of miles of land and water from Central America to my home address. Yet it is NOT complex for me to open up a 50 cent bag of bananas and peel one for breakfast. Ah! But it would be exceedingly complex if I would have to walk to Central America each time I want a banana for my breakfast. You may say that one hundred persons were involved in cultivating, packing, picking, shipping, jobbing, distributing, advertising, and retailing that banana I ate. True! Complex? No, not at all. Not one of the hundred involved found his job any more complex than my daily eight hours at my regular job."

"What is it that is complex? Can it be increasing knowledge? If increasing knowledge is the definition of complexity, then life has been complex since the cave man first noticed a round stone would roll easier than a square one. Has our increasing knowledge finally crossed some mysterious line dividing the simple from the complex? If such a line exists, we must be braggards of the worst sort to intimate we have crossed it. Surely we haven't scratched the surface of Truth and Ultimate Knowledge."

"What is it that is complex now and was not before? Bigger population, human nature, more leisure time, gadgets, communication, knowledge? Just where did the basic formula change? Two times two equals four. Twenty times two equals four. Twenty times two equals four hundred. Do we still use the same formula, or is it something different?"

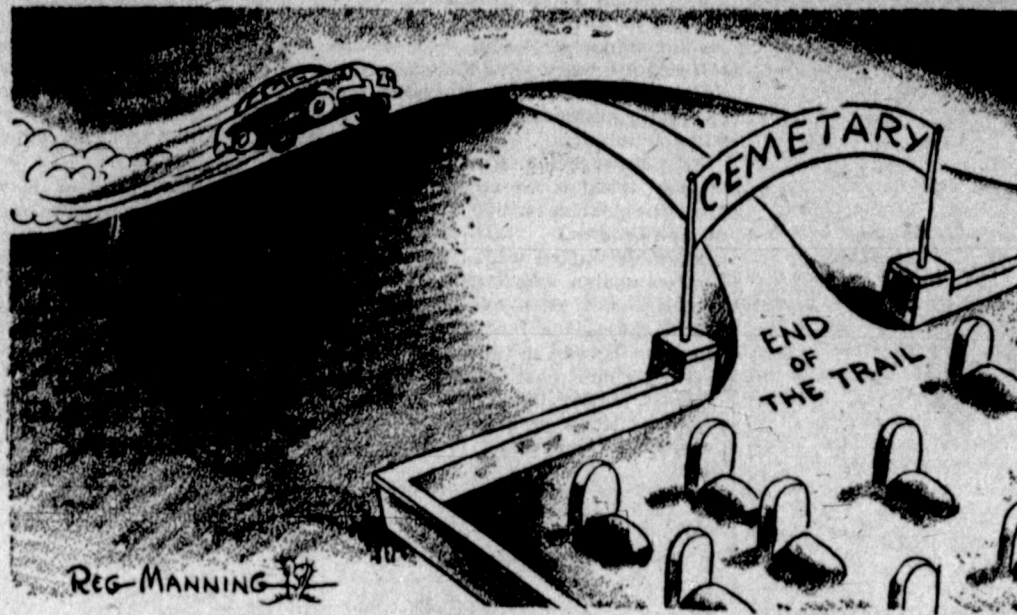

"Of course, a 1954 Cadillac is complex as a car — but we are discussing people — not machines. This complex car makes life very simple for its owner who wishes transportation in it. Which is simpler — to travel to California in a 1954 model car (complex) or on transportation available in 1854 (simple)?"

I want to continue quoting from this letter in a following article because this libertarian gets into the matter further and goes into the question of war.

National Whirligig Shivers' Election Was Blow To 'Liberals' In Demo Party

By RAY TUCKER

(While Ray Tucker is on vacation there will be guest columns by several prominent newspaper editors. Today's column is by Ed Kilman, Editor of THE HOUSTON POST.

By ED KILMAN

Texas' recent Democratic runoff primary, in which Allan Shivers became the first governor of that state to crack the two-term tradition, decided more than the election of a governor. It was a smash repulse of a terrific mass attempt of "loyalist" liberals and labor unions to knock Shivers off his perch as a rising leader of Southern conservatives, and to snatch control of the state party from the conservatives for 1956.

Shivers' resounding victory (Democratic nomination means election in Texas) strengthened his influence for conservatism, either within party or for Eisenhower if he runs again in the next Presidential race. It was a blow to the national party's liberal belt, which watched the contest closely and put in a few licks against the Texas Governor.

At the 1952 Democratic National Convention, Shivers had starred in the coup of Southern conservatives which prevented the Moody-Humphrey-Roosevelt-Williams left group from clapping an iron-clad loyalty oath upon the Dixie-fleeing delegations. On top of that, Shivers spearheaded the Democratic-for-Eisenhower drive that put Texas in the GOP column by a whopping margin for the second time since Reconstruction.

For this defection and his soaring conservative potency, the "loyalists" sought to clip his political wings at the shoulders. They thought his party truancy and his running for an unprecedented third term made him doubly vulnerable — as to a considerable degree they did. So they mobilized for the most savage assault that has been made on a candidate in Texas in decades.

Throughout the campaign, Shivers cried out that the fight against him was masterminded, powered and largely financed by outside CIO leadership and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He charged that all radical hues from pale pink to deep red were aligned against him. (Last spring he sponsored the most drastic anti-Communist state law in now in effect.)

This summer's primary results indicated that something unusual had happened to give the "loyalists" new driving force since 1952, when Shivers rolled up a majority of nearly half a million votes over Ralph Yarborough, an Austin lawyer, after a plegmatic campaign. Two years later, the same Yarborough loosed an atomic attack, and in the July primary he cut that vast majority down to a mere 23,750-vote plurality and forced the Governor into a runoff. (Two minor candidates prevented a majority.) Yarborough scored overwhelmingly in industrial areas with a large union vote, and the heavy Negro vote went almost solidly for him.

Seeing in Shivers' close squeak an excellent chance of defeating him, Yarborough returned to the fray in the runoff with redoubled fury.

Some American political oracles, viewing the Texas primary results from afar, interpreted them as

PAUSE.. FOR REFLECTION..

...with JAMES C. INGEBRESEN, President, Spiritual Mobilization

Tito, the Communist dictator of Yugoslavia, has made an interesting discovery: "People are living beings." He is thus "quoted" by Jack Raymond in an article in the Aug. 15, 1954, issue of THE NEW YORK TIMES MAGAZINE.

The article says Tito's effort to force the peasants into collectivized agriculture by legal compulsion having failed, the Slav dictator is now using economic coercion to accomplish this end. Says Raymond: "According to the (new) theory, the peasant will want to join the collectivists because he will be unable to compete with them in the free market."

In other words, having learned that "people are living beings" and not mere mechanisms that can be manipulated by official decrees, Tito proposes to let hunger and envy do what mere pushing around has failed to do.

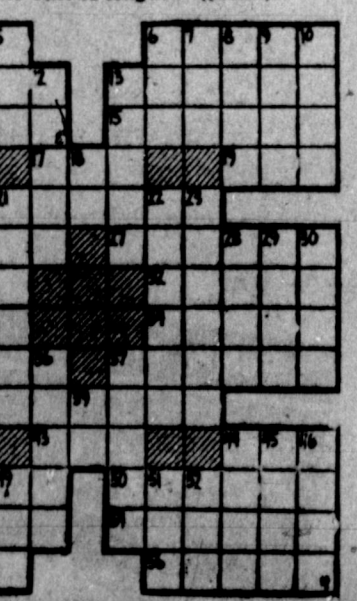

The worst part of this is that the hunger and envy are to be arbitrarily created—in part with taxes from the hard-bitten peasants used to subsidize the comparatively lush Collectives.

Apparently this is the only way Socialism can survive — even under a Communist government. Any lessons here for "free world" Socialists?

Ike's Veto Of Pay Increase Bill Rates Commendation

By THURMAN SENSING

When the head of a political party in this country — in an election year — takes a step that is very likely to alienate the affection of a lot of voters — and for reasons that are good and sound — it is an act of political courage that deserves both attention and commendation. It is certainly rare enough in these days and times — and for that reason is all the more heartening and refreshing.

Such a step was taken by President Eisenhower recently in vetoing the bill passed before the close of the 83rd Congress giving a five per cent pay raise to 1,500,000 Federal employees. He noted that the bill would have added $112 million to the cost of operating the Post Office Department alone, which is already piling up a $400 million deficit this year. (The Administration had asked for a $240 million postal rate hike as a condition for seven per cent pay boosts to 500,000 postal workers.)

This is not a question of whether the Federal employees concerned deserved a raise in pay. Maybe they do and maybe they don't. The question involved is whether the business affairs of the Government of the United States shall be operated on a sound basis. And this question is important to 160,000,000 Americans — including these 1,500,000 Federal employees.

We cannot possibly have a sound economy in this country if the Congress makes appropriations without regard to revenue. It is just such an attitude — and for the past twenty years largely at the instigation of the administration — that has brought us to the financial predicament in which we now find ourselves involved. It is just such an attitude that has caused some of our sounder-thinking Congressmen to introduce a measure requiring the Federal government to live within its income in time of peace.

In our private lives and homes, we first estimate our income and then fix our expenditures to match. This is the only sensible and decent attitude to take. We don't go ahead and spend all the money required to meet our whims and desires and then, if we don't have enough income to take care of it, go in debt for the balance. Only a government can do that. And no government can do it forever — ours included.

It is just such procedure, however, that has caused our Government to continue to pile up the so-called prosperous years since the end of world war II. It caused the debt limit to be increased recently to $281 billion in order that the government might maintain a semblance of solvency.

The President's veto caused an immediate howl on the part of leaders of organized labor. President Meany of the AFL asserted the President's action "shows a shocking disregard for the welfare" of government workers. President Reuther of the CIO called the veto "a travesty on economic justice."

Both these statements are ridiculous. It is all too often true that the labor leaders of this country that they appeal simply to the rank and file of their union members.

The revised Bricker Amendment says three things: 1) No provision of a treaty which CONFLICTS with the Constitution shall be of any force or effect. 2) No treaty shall have any effect as INTERNAL DOMESTIC LAW in the United States, unless its provisions shall be passed by Congress. The making of laws suggested by treaty shall be done by the same process that governs the making of all other laws in this self-governing republic. There shall be NO SPECIAL LAW MAKING METHOD favoring laws prepared for the people of the United States by foreigners and proposed in the text of treaties. 3) Congress shall have the power to regulate executive agreements, and NO EXECUTIVE AGREEMENT THAT CONFLICTS WITH THE CONSTITUTION SHALL BE OF FORCE OR EFFECT.

This is what the Bricker Amendment stipulates. This and nothing more. All of its provisions protect the principles of self-government guaranteed to every American citizen. Opponents of the Bricker Amendment say it would "tie the President's hands." But the President, in taking his OATH OF OFFICE, SWORE TO UPHOLD THE CONSTITUTION. If he wants to circumvent the Constitution and deprive the people of self-government, HIS HANDS SHOULD BE TIED. In fact, if he has changed his mind about upholding the Constitution, honestly should impel him to resign.

bers while completely disregarding the welfare of the nation at large. This is certainly true in the case of these two statements. It is much more "shocking" to spend money you don't have and see no way of getting than it is to do without something you might want. And to call the refusal to do this "a travesty on economic justice" — well, that's just a travesty on the word "travesty."

Without reference to politics, such action as taken by the President in this case should be applied all along the line and in all fields. It would be most commendable on the part of either party. If this particular veto costs the party presently in power votes in the elections this fall, it will certainly be of no credit to the sound common-sense of the American people. It is to be hoped that the voters — including the postal workers — will realize that action taken in the interest of a sound national economy is in the interest of ALL the people.

And so far as the operation of the Post Office Department itself is concerned, we would gladly go along with a measure to turn the whole thing over to private enterprise. It has been a money-loser from the very beginning and an outstanding illustration of the inefficiency of government operation.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

An annoying but not usually dangerous condition is the subject of today's first inquiry?

Q—My eyes frequently fill up with water though I do not cry, and cause my vision to be somewhat clouded. Sometimes the tears drip over the lids and even run down my face. What can you suggest?

A—Excessive watering of the eyes is extremely common and may arise from any one of several different causes. Tearing of the eyes is made worse by sun, wind and dust (or any other foreign body) and is fairly common in any fever and some of the other allergies. There are said to be two main types: Excessive secretion of tears, and failure of the tears to drain out through the normal passageway, or blockage of the lacrimal or tearing passages. The methods of treating these various types of difficulty are rather complicated in the severe cases and sometimes require surgery though often relief can be brought by more simple measures. Other than avoidance of sun, wind or dust, when these are reasonable, I do not know of any home remedy or easily applied method which is likely to be effective.

Q—I have a skin rash on my hands caused from strong soaps and powders I use for dishwashing and laundry. This is complicated by some other allergy present inside my own house which does not bother me anywhere else. I happen to be. As there are no pets in the house I am puzzled to know what the cause is.

Mystified.

A—This is a problem for a medical detective. It may be hard to locate the cause. In some similar famous cases a number of years ago the source was traced to the ink of the Sunday comics in the newspapers and trouble did not appear on other days of the week. You will have to seek some similar obscure cause at home.

Q—Would you please explain the difference between pulse rate and pulse pressure?

A—Pulse rate is a measure of the frequency of the beating of the heart. Each time the heart contracts it will show in the pulse and, therefore, the rapidity of the heart beat can be measured. The pulse pressure is the difference between pressure of the blood on the wall of the artery between the high point when the heart is contracting and the low point when the heart is relaxing.

Q—Please discuss the possible reaction, if any, to tetanus toxoid. Six months ago my daughter, age 6, was given tetanus antitoxin because of a bad cut and she suffered a severe serum sickness. I was advised to give tetanus toxoid now.

A—You received good advice. The tetanus antitoxin gives only temporary immunity and if your daughter needed it again she might get another and possibly even more severe reaction. The tetanus toxoid creates a much more permanent resistance or immunity and since it is prepared in a different way severe reactions practically never occur.

Q—I have an acute case of conjunctivitis. Is this caused by overstrain of the eyes or from an infection?

A—It is more likely from infection than from overstrain of the eyes. Most cases of conjunctivitis can be cured fairly promptly with expert advice involving medication, eye washes or the like.

Celebration Starts Monday

Mobeetie Will Try To Recapture Part Of Its Sparkling Past Old Timers Days

By BILL KERR

Pampa News Staff Writer

Mobeetie Old Timers' Day Monday will settle itself around the rather ancient Old Mobeetie jail where the "nobler" elements of the Queen City of the Plains "roomed" and meditated of their sinful contributions to Mobeetie society.

Old Timers' Day in the reconverted jail, now the oldest building in the Panhandle, housing the Worthington Red Post of the American Legion, will feature a program which some of the "divines" of old would enjoyably have taken part in.

Occupying the day's activities, in addition to a large barbecue to which some 1,000 people are expected to attend, will be the Old Fiddlers' and the Old Liars' Contests. Saturday night there will be an opportunity to trip the light fantastic, with dances probably a variation on a theme routinely by the old timers who ventured onto the High Plains in the 1870s.

Oldest Town in Panhandle
Old Mobeetie, whose distinction lies in more than being the oldest town in the Panhandle, was certainly no match for debauchery-wise Tascosa, its sister town in the western part of the Top of Texas. Vice reigned supreme in Old Tascosa, and though the stable elements held the reins in Old Mobeetie, there were numerous devotees of the "night" side of life who chafed at the bit for excitement.

He succeeds Leo Forrest of Hereford as director for the Plains area for the organization, which is the state association of rural electric cooperatives. This system has 78 rural systems throughout the state as members, furnishing electricity for more than 300,000 farm families.

Served 1,000 Cowboys

For a radius of 100 miles, Old Mobeetie served as many as 1,000 cowboys and ranchers who came to the Queen City for their bacon, whiskey, flour, tobacco, beans, and in verity, all the necessities of living.

Collecting these staples always included an evening on the town. Hundreds of cowpunks were tied to hitching posts near one of Mobeetie's 13 saloons during the course of a week, and the town's ride-ins were probably first cousins to our present day drive-ins.

"It was no uncommon sight to see 15 or 20 cowboys ride into town and ride right into the Exchange Saloon and order the drinks to be served them on their horses, and then they would take in the town."

Mrs. Temple Houston, wife of Sam Houston's youngest son, said, "Sometimes they would ride up and down the streets of the town by the two shooting and yelling as they could."

Mobeetie was a live "burg" in those days, and many of its most fascinating tales died on the lips of its since-deceased early-day folk.

Celebrations were begun at the slightest provocation, but when Judge Willis returned from defending himself from impeachment successfully at Austin before the Texas legislature in the winter of 1887, there was true cause for joviality. Willis was beloved by all.

A few miles out of town his coach was met by some 30 cowpunks who congratulated the judge and passed him one or two "bottles," and proceeded to escort the coach as in an entourage to the edge of town where it was met by the Mobeetie band. It was a wild night, and the town was painted red according to Timothy Dwight Hobart, a passenger on the coach, who later became one of the Panhandle's noted citizens. One member of the band later mused he had been so well supplied with firewater, "that his feet did not track, but that he did not miss a note in spite of the fact that a couple of substantial men had to hold him up while he played."

Heyday Short
But Mobeetie's heyday was almost over in the short span of 15 years from its founding. With the closing of Fort Elliott in 1890, a tornado which ruined some 30 buildings and killed several people two years before the turn of the century, the removal of the county seat to Wheeler in 1907, and the final crushing blow — being bypassed by the railroad, the once booming town of 1,200 declined steadily.

Today shows few traces of the erstwhile thriving community whose Rath and Hamburg General Supply Store once did a business of $100,000 per year.

The lament of the Tascosa "Pioneer" when it failed to be graced with the railroad summed up their as well as Old Mobeetie's situation philosophically with the comment, "Truly this is a world which has no regard for the established order of things, but knocks them sky west and crooked, and lo, the upstart hath the land and its fatness."

Mobeetie, Queen of the Plains, sang the glories of the opening of the Panhandle, just a few short years after the thundering buffalo herds were no longer seen in this country, but it heralded a new growing, and dynamic era, characterized as all frontier country by considerable turbulence.

As T. D. Hobart said, "I wrote the president of my company (New York and Texas Land Co.) describing these scenes and suggesting that in view of the hazards connected with my business it might not be out of place to raise my salary. The only comfort I received was a reply suggesting that I take out additional life insurance."

Old Mobeetie's greatness and meaning to the Panhandle will always live for it is part of the pages of history, commemorated by its Oldtimers Monday.
