WAGONS

Do you want to own an "Owensboro?"

They are best, because---

The wheels are made of the very best grade whiteoak timber with extra deep felloes. "A" select and second growth spokes; extra large whiteoak hubs. Each wheel is saturated with linseed oil before being painted.

The gears are made from strictly clear whiteoak and nothing but up-land second growth hickory is used for axles, single-trees, double trees and neck-yokes. All parts extra large and well proportioned.

The ironing on the "Owensboro" you will find heavier and better than on any other wagon. The tires are bolted and set hot under hydraulic pressure.

These are just a few reasons why the "Owensboro" wagon is the best wagon for you to own. We are anxious to show you the wagon ITSELF.

Will you come in and look at it?

We Are Particular.

Never to make claims in our advertisements that we can't prove, and we are just going to make a few plain statements and if you will give us a chance we will convince you of the truth of what we say.

We have just bought a lot of goods that we believe are way under regular prices and believe we can sell them to you on the same basis. This lot of goods will be in inside of the next week and will be ready for inspection. We have in this lot of goods quite a nice line of shoes, work and dress shoes. Gloves and suspenders, and lots of other articles that we are ready to show you and prove that we will sell them to you cheaper than you can get them elsewhere. Come and see for yourself and be convinced.

Respectfully yours,

Mrs. R. P. White Dead

Mrs. Mattie Menefee White widow of Dr. R. P. White, deceased, died at her home in the Fairview neighborhood, Monday morning, after a long period of bad health. She was 73 years old, and was a daughter of George Menefee. She was a life long member of the Methodist church, and she had lived at the same home for about 50 years. She was buried at Fairview this afternoon.

From Mexico

San Antonio, Sept. 20.—General Lucio Blanco has been captured and is now a prisoner held in jail by General Obregon, says an official dispatch to the Light from Vera Cruz today. The same dispatch declares Eulalia Guterrez, once president of Mexico by election of the Aguas Calientes convention, has surrendered to General Obregon at Saltillo. He recently was wounded in an encounter with Carrera Torres. These dispatches are based on reports made by Obregon to First Chief Carranza.

Negro Sentenced to Death

Angleton, Texas, Sept. 18.—After being out 15 minutes and upon the first ballot the jury trying Chestnut Williams, a negro, for the murder of a fellow convict, inflicted the death penalty.

Williams cut the throat of John Williams while they were confined for the night at the Ramsey state farm on August 19. Williams was serving a life sentence for the murder of his wife.

Williams will be remembered here as the negro who murdered his wife near the depot several years ago and received life sentence in the penitentiary. He escaped several years ago and was recaptured by Sheriff Spradley and returned to the penitentiary officials.

The Nacogdoches District Conference of the C. M. Church will meet with Pisgah Church on Thursday night before the 2nd Sunday in Oct. 1915.

W. M. Keeley Dead

Mrs. W. M. Keeley received a telegram Wednesday morning in words as follows: Pine Bluff, Ark. Sept. 21, 1915 9:03 p.m.

Mrs. Ida Keeley, Nacogdoches Texas. Will passed away at 8:45.

Mamie.

Mr. Keeley lived here many years, and was well known. He was last here in July 1914. He has been traveling in search of health for years.

He was recently in West Texas, but returned to Pine Bluff where he was born and raised and where his relatives still live and where he ended his earthly career.

William M. Keeley was forty six years old, and is survived by a father, one brother and one sister at Pine Bluff, and by a sorrowing widow whose home is in our town where they were married about fifteen years ago. She is a relation of the Finleys and Whitakers of Douglass the home of her early days.

It can be said of Mr. Keeley that he was a genial, generous and kind hearted man, without enemies.

Cotton Hits High Mark at Garrison

Houston, Sept. 18.—Cotton sold at Garrison today at 11 1-8 cents, and cottonseed at $28. As a result of which, says a dispatch from point, "farmers are hauling in from every direction, and selling right and left."

Eleven Cents Cotton.

The market price of cotton is unquestionably a most important and interesting fact to this county, and almost to the world. The papers are full of the subject, discussing its many angles. The Sentinel is not a fit paper for much of this, but we can't fail to see it.

Tom Prado of Woden was in town Wednesday with two bales of cotton. He was offered 10.75 but he threatened to take it to Garrison where it sells for 11c. but Isaac persuaded him to don't do that, but to wait here for 11c.

A bank in Mt. Pleasant agrees to loan 75 per cent. of the value of cotton at 5 per cent. per annum. That breaks the record.

The tremendous loss in the papers about the proposed loans to Great Britain is amazing. Depositors, big and small, business and pleasure, owned by Germans or their supporters.

Quit worrying. It is the worst kind of habit and reacts on your health. Train yourself into good mental habits and be philosophical about the troubles you can't help.

The Shelby Optimist has temporarily suspended on account of the protracted illness of Editor George K. Gibbs. The Sentinel extends fraternal sympathy and good wishes.

Medical authorities now teach that malaria is always conveyed and injected by a mosquito that has obtained it from a person infected. This kind of mosquito is a night hawk called anophelis.

And now also again already yet comes Great Britain and complains that Uncle Sam is feeding Germany. And twenty million dollars worth of feed and food are held up or taken over or sequestered.

The gutter top is not in the lime light here. If you are from Missouri call at the Sentinel office and we can show you a sample raised by M. M. Graham on Otton hill. "There are others," and Sudan grass, too.

A big convention of Women is in session in Frisco on the suffrage issue. They are split into two factions, one contending for a constitutional amendment and the other for state control of voters.

The war in Europe and its side squabbles over the high seas go bravely on. The fighting is as fierce as ever and the fields are broad. The tone is not so loud on German victories. The Russians and their allies are more effective in resistance.

The old pistol had but one load in it, and was rusty, and had been often snapped, and of course it waited for this time when the boy fooled with it. He wanted to try it. They carried him to Palestine for a ray to find the bullet.

Thursday, Sept. 16, was Mexican Independence day. It was celebrated along the Rio Grande by numerous fireworks. They glory in any kind of a frolic, or fuss. The Americans stood off and looked on. They keep watch incessantly.

The great causeway that extended across the bay from Galveston to the main land, was destroyed by the great hurricane on Aug. 17, and it is to be rebuilt at once. It will cost about 1,500,000. Its utility for all purposes is of incalculable benefit and value.

There is now on foot a scheme to have W. J. Bryan go to Europe to advocate peace. If he goes he says he will pay his own expenses and donate his work. If he can stop the war, by all means let him go. This recalls his great lecture on "The Prince of Peace."

One of the speakers at the Institute talked about keeping the boys on the farm. Yes, the country boys said he had learned him how to work, but failed to learn him how to love it. Boys work hard in going a fishing or playing ball, but they draw the line on books and farms. What about it.

That big loan in question to be obtained from the United States banks by Great Britain and France is a big theme for discussion, and is occupying largely the minds of men on one side or another. It may be considered as a local option. Take your choice and pay the price.

The Teachers Institute in Shelby county resolved unanimously. Here is one "resolvement" we would like to see the school board adopt.

"We recommend that every Rural teacher in Shelby county study carefully the requirements of the Million-dollar Fund and it possible secure a portion of same."

Certain it is that there never was a religion that was not beaten for the world in its time that now is in it all. Truth, honesty and unselfishness have been taught alike by the priests of the Druids and the medicine men of the Moquis. His religion keeps the Hindu clean and the Turk sober and makes the Parsee an early riser.

Prohibition in South Carolina is elected by a large majority, to take effect Jan. 1st. So there is only one more jolly Christmas coming over there. And the governor of North Carolina will say unto the governor of South Carolina: "Neighbor, we are mighty close together, but it is a long time between drinks. Come across."

President Yuan Shi-kai has contributed nearly one-third of his salary for this year to charity and public works. The Chinese President receives 360,000 silver dollars a year, which is about $144,000 in gold. He recently gave 100,000 for the establishment of a model primary school and contributed $15,000 for the relief of flood sufferers in the various southern provinces which have suffered disaster.

An educational campaign in behalf of preparedness for war has been going on in the United States ever since the European war began, and these efforts are bearing fruit.

President Wilson, who was adverse to the proposition in the beginning, has been converted to it, as well as many other leading men of the country. The next Congress will, in all probability, make appropriations for gigantic increases in both army and navy, and the people of the country had just as well make up their minds to stand the burden.

Keeping Things Neat. You plant a rosebush by your door and morning glories three or four; you grow the lawn when whiskers green upon its countenance are seen; you take the dead cats to the dump, and fix the fence and paint the pump, and trim the figtree and the vine, and make the doorknob fairly shine.

And neighbors who have gone to whose lots are grown with grass and weed, will soon observe your game, and feel a sense of burning shame. They'll say, "That fellow's place, so neat, is quite the smoothest on the street, it makes ours look like also rans, so we'll adopt that smarty's plans, and prove to him that other ways can well deserve the public praise." I've seen a neighborhood that lay all ragged, gone to brush and hay, brags up and bloom to beat the band because some pilgrim, tools in hand, cleaned up his lawn, and pruned his trees, and bought some flowers and bumblebees. Thus good examples spur the souls of men who've crawled into their holes, content to let the whole world slide, the tail connected with the hide.

What We Look For. It is true that we find always the thing we look for. To the woman whose mind is cluttered with little cares, the patch of neighborhood park she passes on her way to market on a summer's morning is a sordid gathering place for loafers, idlers, and treading children; to the woman who has paused on her doorstep to take a deep breath of the wonderful morning air, and feel glad in every vein that she is alive, the friendly green bushes of the little park the shady seats under quiet trees, the fragments of soft greensward, and the open spaces which show the lapping lake beyond, are a bit of beauty.

So it is with the circumstances of our life. If we expect hardship, disappointment, emptiness, we may find them even in smooth, untrodden ways; if we have faith in joy, it will come to us over every obstacle. Perhaps we can't always crowd out the thistle, but we can look for wild roses until the air about us is sweet.

Letter to a Teacher. To The Shelbyian: Tonight I print a note received by a public school teacher there:

"Dear Miss. You are me about whipping Sammie. I have given you permission to beat him up at any time it is necessary to learn his lesson. He is just like his father—you have to learn him with a club. Pound noogie into him. I want him to get it and don't pay no attention to what his father says—I'll handle him."

A fishing lake in the northern part of Liberty county known as Palmer Lake, which was a very popular resort had all the fish in it destroyed by the recent great hurricane, except red perch. The stench from the great abundance of decaying fish was so great that people left their near by habitations.

Choosing Brides. Choosing Japanese brides by picture is so long a desirable, according to S. Yamakami, a Japanese newspaper man of Seattle, who has just returned to the United States with eleven girls who will marry Japanese emigrants. Eugenics is the basis of selection now, he holds. In former days the custom was to select for the emigrant to send for the girl whose picture he liked.

When Mr. Yamakami reached Japan he received applications from twenty-nine girls who wished to go to America to marry Japanese emigrants, and he selected eleven prospective brides from among them. Mr. Yamakami considered the old picture-bride arrangement. He made a thorough examination of each would-be bride as to education and physical conditions. He chose only robust women.

Mr. Yamakami laments the fact that promising young Japanese men are liable to deteriorate after having amassed "wealth" in America, and he attributes this demoralization to the difficulty of finding suitable wives.

By supplying wives of the better class he proposes to help the moral conditions of the Japanese emigrants in America.

Money Made. The old sayings about money being the root of all evil, and so on, are now being brought to mind by a great number of people in connection with the big money talks, because Great Britain wants to borrow great billions from the United States to use in carrying on the war, and Germany is not confined to official heads, but there are many rich Germans and German bankers in this country who are hot about it. Then all hands want to pull for their own side, and kick and growl when things don't suit their wishes. To an ordinary observer it looks like a ball game, and outsiders may squall while insiders play ball, all the same, and every player gets all he can.

Tyler and Houston banks say they are prepared to advance $35 per bale on cotton when properly warehoused and insured, and charge at rate of 10 per cent. annually. That's the proper spirit. When all the banks in the cotton states do this it will be a very great asset to the cotton producers to hold their cotton and not dump it on the market at a low price, when there is no demand for it.

The Far West. Hon. Joseph W. Bailey has given it out that he may become a candidate for United States Senator in 1918. His friends keep on insisting to succeed the Hon. Morris Sheppard. And the Hon. Morris Sheppard has given it out that nothing will afford him more pleasure than a contest with the Hon. Joseph W. Bailey. And the News wants to predict right here that with these two men in the running the Hon. Morris Sheppard will run himself out of the last office he'll ever hold at the hands of the people of Texas.

Editor Went to School From Thursday's Daily.

This editor has been going at the College, like he used to go, or rather, to the Teachers Institute at the High School Auditorium, on his old time school campus. It brought up memories of the past, but it presented changes of the present. The progress of education was brought before him in sundry respects.

The 155 enrolled teachers sitting and listening to instructive talks, was one of the novelties seen. And the addresses and discussions were relations to the olden time student.

Notable was a talk of Joe R. Day on music. It was meritorious in its mentality, in its practical and simple common sense and especially in its audibility. He could be heard and also understood. And Joe Day is only a plain home made man from the country. But to teach music he is able, and to talk it also. This is merely said as an illustration of what the Institute is doing.

'First Chief Will Yet Be Praised As Lincoln'

San Francisco, Sept. 18.—"Carranza will be praised by the American people as they praise Lincoln today," said Gen. J. M. Cabanillas of the Carranza Army, who is here today to recover from wounds sustained on the battlefield.

A campaign of falsehoods in the United States has placed Carranza in the role of a common bandit, seeking only to despoil the Mexican landowner of his wealth. Carranza will give the wealthy Mexican equal chance, but will not let them exploit the peons. The first chief's motto is "equality to all, irrespective of wealth or creed."

Intervention by the United States would net nothing, according to Cabanillas.

"Peace will come quicker to my troubled country," he said, "if Mexico is allowed to work out her own destiny."

Peaches To Garbage

At Chicago entire carloads of peaches from neighboring states have been carted off to the garbage heap, a total loss, because no market could be found for them, according to reports of commission merchants. Instead of receiving profits they expected, the growers were called on to pay the freight and cartage charges. One commission man, who telegraphed a shipper that he owed $18.50 for cartage, received this reply: "Have no money, but will send another car of peaches in settlement." "Hold the peaches," wired the commission merchant.

Death of Medical Men

The death of medical men in the United Kingdom is not only serious at present on account of the war, but it will continue for years afterward, in the opinion of The Lancet, the organ of the British medical profession.

That our medical schools will go very short of students is certain, and this will mean a dangerous small staff of medical practitioners to minister to the needs of the country in the near future.

The two modern drinking fountains just put in at the college were quite a show to the school children who had never seen such propositions. They amused themselves by testing and inspecting them in every possible way. Some of the smaller chaps had to learn to step up to reach up. They all enjoyed the fun of the thing.

Jim Summers complimented his friend, Hal Tucker, who leaves for Georgetown Sunday, with a six o'clock dinner, Friday evening.

A lovely six course dinner was served to six couples. The rest of the evening was spent in having a general good time.

Mrs. R. O. Watkins and little daughter, Esther, left Wednesday night for San Antonio, where they will remain during the winter, being located at the Argyle Hotel.

Members of the Cherokee county commissioners court, including Judge C. F. Gibson and Commissioners E. D. Spinks, Gray, Long and Ray, also County Clerk E. D. Spinks and Sheriff Forest Reagan, returned several days ago from a trip to Terre Haute and Indianapolis, Ind., where they were in company with the members of the commissioners court of Houston county to figure on the purchase of some steel bridges.

As a result of their visit we are informed that a steel bridge 100 feet in length was purchased for use on the old San Antonio road where it crosses the Neches river between Alto and Crockett. The price of this bridge being $250, erected. Of this amount Houston is to pay $1200 and Cherokee the balance.

Three 40-ft. steel bridges were also purchased for use in this county, the delivered price being $350 each. One of these bridges is to be used on the Churchill branch, one mile east of Jacksonville, at a point just below the new reservoir, one is to be placed on the Rusk road near the Halbert place and the other on a creek near Troup.

Miscellaneous Shower.

Miss Willie Cason entertained, in compliment to Miss Lizzie Floyd, Friday afternoon.

The beautiful home was artistic in its floral adornment for the occasion.

After an enjoyable musical program, including selections by some of the talented guests and the Victrola, the express man called, and left a package for the guest of honor, which proved on examination to be a miscellaneous collection of gifts for the surprised bride to be.

The hostess, assisted by her mother, her sister Miss Emily, and Miss Mary Williams, served the guests a tempting and delicious salad course.

Miss Clemens of Longview was an out of town guest.

Tropic Storm.

Washington, Sept. 17.—A slight break in the heat wave in the Middle Atlantic and New England states is indicated today in the weather bureau forecast. Showers and thunder storms have helped to lower the temperature somewhat in the Gulf States and Mississippi Valley.

A disturbance of minor intensity was reported to be central this morning, near the west end of Cuba and apparently moving toward the northwest. Although the storm has exhibited no intense features, shipping in the Gulf and South Atlantic waters has been notified of its existence.

Market For Spanish Peanuts.

Several thousand acres have been planted this year in Nacogdoches county with Spanish Peanuts, not only for a feed crop, but also as a market money crop. The soils and climatic conditions are adapted to the growth of this crop, the forage produced is equal to alfalfa in feeding value, while we all know that the peanuts themselves are fine feed for hogs. Now that the crop is gathered the question is which is the most profitable way to dispose of the crop. As far as the forage is concerned, it will pay the farmer best to feed this to his stock, either work animals or dairy or beef stock, and return the manure to the soil. The greater part of the nitrogen content is in the leaves and stem, and about 75 per cent of this nitrogen can be returned to the soil in the form of barnyard manure, the other 25 per cent going to make animal tissue or butter fat. The peanuts themselves can be harvested in various ways, where a man has large quantities of hogs, the vines can be cut off for hay and the nuts left in the ground to be rooted up by the hogs. This feed will quickly fatten hogs and a little corn just prior to shipment will firm the flesh. Fort Worth is a good near by market for hogs and it is one good way of selling the peanut crop of the county.

For those who do not care to use this method, there remains the market for the nuts themselves. We have in Nacogdoches a concern that is in the market for all the peanuts produced in the county at, I believe 60c a bushel, this may be a lower price than what our farmers have been in the habit of receiving, but we must take into consideration that when we sold a few bushels of peanuts at $1 a bushel to the local grocery store, or to a neighbor we did not come into competition with the world's market for these peanuts. Now we have entered into the peanut industry upon a commercial scale we will as far as the selling price is concerned be governed by the law of supply and demand. I have heard that our peanut growers are not satisfied with these prices, and will only grow enough next year for their own use. I do not believe our farmers have figured out what the peanut crop cost them to produce, or compared it with the cost and returns of their cotton crop.

Now let us consider for a moment what are the returns from an acre of peanuts compared to the returns from an acre of cotton at the present prices, and I believe the conclusion will be drawn that there is more in an acre of nuts at 60c a bushel than in an acre of cotton at 10 1/2 cents a pound.

An acre of peanuts should, on the average, produce 80 bushels of nuts and one ton of cured hay. On the Experiment Station we produced 87 bushels of nuts and one ton of hay to the acre. At 60c a bushel for the nuts and $15 a ton for the hay we will have the following results of $38 gross returns per acre. It takes on an average of three acres in this county to produce a bale of cotton, therefore if cotton is selling at 10 1-2 cents per pound, a third of a bale would be valued at $21, there would be 381 pounds of seed from the third of the bale of cotton at $20 per ton would be $3.81 or a total of 24.81 for the cotton and seed raised on the acre, or $9.19 in favor of the peanuts.

Another consideration also enters, in favor of the peanuts. Cotton will occupy the land the entire year, while peanuts can be planted in June after a crop of oats. Therefore at the local price of 60c per bushel offered, our farmers can make more than they can out of cotton with less labor besides gathering an oat crop off the same land.

Therefore it is evident that those peanut growers who are growing at 60c for peanuts, have not figured the proposition out.

Grow peanuts by all means. They are good feed, good fertilizer, and a ready money crop that pays either in the form of fat hogs or nuts at 60c a bushel.

Geo. T. McNess.

The Money Goes.

Poor father often has the blues, the stricken soul within him groans; the children need eight pairs of shoes, and he has only seven bones. The good wife needs a Sunday gown, with flimsy gussets, seams and tucks; he'd send her shopping through the town, but he has only seven buck. The boys are all in need of suits, to clothe their shapely limbs and trunks, and he himself wants rubber boots but he has only seven plunks. The blizzards from the Arctic pole will soon be rolling down again, and how can he buy wood and coal, when he has only seven yen? And there are taxes he must pay, and bills for oil and bills for gas, and bills for prunes and bills for hay, and bills for pills and window glass. Expenses face him every hour; what wonder if tired father yips, what wonder if his face is sour, when he has only seven chips? But somehow he will do the trick, and feed the tribe that on him leans, for good old father is a brick, although he has but seven beans.

An American Army Mobilizes

An army of Americans is mobilizing this week and next. Its members are conscripts, but, though service is compulsory, it is performed with the utmost cheerfulness. It is typically American, says the Cleveland Plain-Dealer. Instead of constituting a threat of militarism, it is one of the best guarantees we have that militarism will never become an American vice. Some twenty millions comprise the army.

The reference, of course, is to the American public school. Last year about 19,000,000 boys and girls were enrolled for study. The number increases year by year. Next week it will reach a figure suggestive of the combined forces now engaged in that other kind of war in Europe.

It is an impressive exhibition of peace-loving Americanism and a promise. Millions of boys will be taught those things that will fit them for lives of useful endeavor. The bulk of them will go into agriculture and trades, helping to produce the world's store of wealth and getting, one hopes, a fair share of it for their trouble. Between twenty million youths in school and the same number of men fighting in trenches for they know not what, the contrast is significant.

Yet no full-blooded American will hope that anything million pupils may learn at school will make one whit less ready to defend the honor of their country, it either is assailed. The last thing a Preparedness Scored By Ex-Secretary Bryan.

Washington, Sept. 18.—This effort to create 'preparedness' sentiment is not new; it has extended through the years, but the war has been seized on as a new excuse," said W. J. Bryan tonight, leaving for Boston to speak on "The War and Its Lessons."

The exsecretary was undisguisedly angry at the interpretation placed on his preparedness statements.

"I'm only responsible for the things I say," he said. "Not for the constructions newspapers place on them. I will not say whether I oppose the administration or whether I will try to persuade it away from a national defense program. My words speak for themselves."

If Carranza Be Recognized.

Austin, Texas, Sept. 21.—"Should the United States give recognition to the Carranza faction, all that long stretch of Texas border west of Eagle Pass will be overrun by raiding Mexicans now affiliated with the Villa forces," said M. M. McFarland of Alpine, Brewster county, member of the house of the Thirty-fourth legislature from the largest representative district in Texas. The district extends from Maverick county to the county of Jeff Davis.

"People out in my section of the state are certain that recognition of the Carranzistas by Washington will endanger the bitterest feeling among the Villa followers, and an attempted invasion of this country by Villa's men may result."

Mr. McFarland was in Austin today on business with the state department, and he discussed the Mexican situation with friends.

"In the event our government should decide to recognize the Carranza government of Mexico, Villa will be unable to hold his forces, and they will rush across the border, especially in the Big Bend country."

Awful Accident

New York, Sept. 22.—Six persons were killed and between 85 and 100 others injured to day when a dynamite blast in a partly constructed section of the Seventh Avenue Subway caused an entire block of pavement to cave in, engulfing a crowded trolley car, a heavy truck and many pedestrians. A number of laborers at work in the excavation were buried under tons of debris.

Seventy-eight persons, a considerable portion of them being women and girls, on their way to business, were on the surface car which dropped 30 feet into the excavation and was partly buried under concrete, rails, heavy timbers, dirt and rocks. The dead:

Louis Krugman, 22 years old, a passenger on the car.

An unidentified woman about 60 years old, a passenger who was apparently on her way to work.

Four laborers.

Bolt Weevil
The following clip from a neighboring paper fits Nacogdoches:
"We understand that the bolt weevil is operating heavily in the cotton and grain counties. The cotton especially is being badly damaged, and in many fields the plant is large and apparently healthy, the yield will be very light."

In Smith county we note that the agricultural agent recommends turning the cattle in on the cotton fields after the crop is gathered so as to destroy as many of the weevils as possible. The following is taken from the Tyler Courier-Times:

Henry Acker, government agent for Smith county, states that the bolt weevils are here, and have been at work for some time. He recommends that farmers turn cattle in the field and let them eat up the cotton stalks, bolt weevils and all. It is impracticable to burn the stalks on account of them being wet, so the next best thing to do is to turn the cattle in and let them eat them up after the cotton has been gathered. Weevils are now going into winter quarters, and if they are not destroyed they will come out again next year by the millions.

The planting of cymbobal trees which has been popular in France from early times is likely to become general throughout the country this year. The first ceremony of this kind since the present war was recently held in Paris on the grounds of a hospital in the rue Oudinot, where, in the presence of a number of convalescent soldiers, sisters of charity and distinguished persons, Cardinal Amette planted a "Tree of Revenge." At the same time he invited those present to return for the day when the "Tree of Victory" might also be planted there. During the French Revolution it is said that more than 60,000 "Liberty Trees" were planted throughout France.

Bolt Weevils Everywhere
Waxahachie, Texas, Sept. 15.—Bolt weevils have made a clean sweep of the cotton, not only in Ellis county, but in every section of the county has been invaded by these pests. Farmers say there is not a sign of a worm in the field. Investigation shows that the squares have been punctured by weevils. It is believed that weevils were blown into this section of the state by the recent tropical hurricane, which swept the coast. Ellis county crop last year was 135,819 bales. Conservative estimates place this year's crop not more than 75,000 bales. Site for blind institute.

Mexican Situation
Washington, Sept. 16.—The state department's advice to Americans to leave danger zones in Mexico was being circulated today through the northern part of the republic, and United States consuls were under instructions to quit their posts whenever conditions became threatening. The advance of Carranza troops into the northern states making fighting imminent, and reports of lawlessness along the frontier, were responsible for the precautionary measures.

The Villa agency in Washington inquired of the state department for the government's reasons for the step. It declared there had been no depredations in territory controlled by Villa and that Villa had provided ample forces to safeguard foreigners.

The statement's notification has been sent through the consuls at Torreon, Chihuahua, Hermosillo, Guaymas, Nogales and Juarez, all in territory controlled by Villa.

Stefansson Safe
Nome, Sept. 17.—Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Canadian explorer, who was believed lost in the Arctic, not only is alive and well, but has discovered a new land in the North and accomplished practically every purpose for which his hazardous journey was undertaken, according to word brought here by the power schooner Ruby, which arrived yesterday from Herschel Island. Stefansson, with two companions, Storker Storker and Ole Anderson, set out from Martin Point, Alaska, March 22, 1914, over the frozen polar ocean to search for supposed new lands in the Beaufort Sea.

River Rises at Austin
Austin, Sept. 17.—The waters from the big rise in the Llano River, emptied into the Colorado, have caused a tremendous rise in the Colorado above Austin dam. The river stage was 40 feet. The water is now 68 feet high and still rising.

Although a drift stretch-back for 300 feet or more is resting against the dam, the big concrete structure is holding intact. Under the supervision of Foreman of the construction company building the dam, working are loosening the drift that it may be carried over it.

There was a sharp skirmish between a squad of United States soldiers and a bunch of Carranza Mexican troops below Brownsville Friday. The fight was across the river, and was quite lively. Horses and men were shot.

It is understood at Austin that Governor Ferguson still opposes the appointment of Prof. Battle for permanent president of the University, and favors the appointment of Prof. Keasby.

Automobiles may have equal rights with interurbans and railroad trains at crossings, but until some better means of enforcing them is found it will be safer not to insist upon asserting them.

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But Recovery.

Pomeroy, Kan., In interesting letters from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Theodor's Black-Draught, and quit taking other medicines. I decided to try his, and after I did not have any confidence in it. I have not been sick since I began using it. Theodor's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest. Get a package today. Only a quarter."

Rio Grande Troubles
The situation on the lower Rio Grande, for Mexican border is still very bad. Strange to say, those fool Mexicans persist in bushwhacking, jayhawking, murder and robbery. They don't seem to realize or care what the consequences may be, and that there is no possibility of gain for their own benefit. The mere sport and the spirit of idle deviltry seems to be their only incentive.

Now, if these few outlaws can cross over into Texas and do all this deviltry, in the very face of all the United States army, and all Texas, what would the greater population of all Mexico be expected to do if the displeased United States should intervene, and send a strong army into their country? Of course those Mexicans who know nothing more than to have "ringoes" in to rob and kill would think it fun to slip up and shoot and run in the support and would take years to quiet them.

He—They say, dear, that people who live together get in time to look exactly alike. She—Then you must consider my refusal final.

As the guests entered they were requested to register in the marriage journal, and then were ushered to the dining room, hall and sitting room.
