The no-hitter by Burt Hooton, rookie just off the University of Texas Campus, overshadowed another spectacular pitching performance by a Texan and former Snyder resident in Sunday's major league baseball games.

Bill Grief, who played Little League baseball here several years ago and later was a football and baseball star at Austin Reagan High School, shut out Atlanta on six hits for the San Diego Padres.

Grief was brought up for a "cup of coffee" stop with the Houston Astros last season and performed rather well in his brief appearances, but later was sent back to the minors in Oklahoma City and then was dealt to San Diego. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. (Doc) Grief.

The family lived here several years when young Bill was growing up.

That unusual view of the planet Venus and the moon on Sunday night is not actually rare, according to astronomers. It happens 17 times a year, said Dr. Bart J. Bok of the University of Arizona, but most times it occurs during daylight hours and is not visible on earth.

The view from earth Sunday evening made it appear that Venus was about to collide with the moon. But of course it is much farther from earth than the moon, and much larger. As someone noted, it would be about like viewing London, England, in proximity to Rotan, Tex., from here, with Rotan representing the moon and London the planet Venus——that is, if you could see all the way to London.

Every time you buy a gallon of gasoline for your automobile in Texas, you pay seven cents in taxes—five cents in state tax and two cents in federal tax. This is an unusual tax in that it virtually all is used for highway construction and maintenance. In other words, those who use them are paying for the roads.

There is a move on now in the federal Department of Transportation to divert highway trust funds to help big cities solve their mass transit problems.

"This money is collected from a special type of taxpayer, the motorist, the user of the highway system, and to divert it to other forms of transportation is a breach of faith," declares A. C. Taylor, a retired regional highway engineer for the Federal Highway Administration.

As the old saying goes, he is "right as a fox." If the big metropolitan centers need some gasoline taxes to feed into the mass transit systems, let them levy their own just as many cities levy their own sales tax.—WACIL McNAIR.

Today is Tuesday, April 18, the 109th day of 1972. There are 257 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1775, Paul Revere began his famous ride in Massachusetts to warn American colonists: "The British are coming."

On this date:

In 1847, U. S. Gen. Winfield Scott captured Cerro Gordo Hill in Mexico. It was the first point of resistance in Scott's march on Mexico City.

In 1906, an earthquake rocked San Francisco and touched off fires that nearly destroyed the city.

In 1942, in the Pacific war, U.S. bombers led by Lieut. Gen. James Doolittle attacked Tokyo and other cities in Japan.

In 1945, American war correspondent Ernie Pyle was killed during fighting on an island off Okinawa.

In 1946, the League of Nations officially went out of existence.

In 1955, physicist Albert Einstein died in Princeton, N. J., at the age of 76.

Ten years ago: The United States presented a three-stage disarmament program at an international conference in Geneva.

Five years ago: South Vietnam proposed a withdrawal of troops from the demilitarized zone between South and North Vietnam to help create a climate for peace talks.

One year ago: South Vietnam's Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said at a Saigon news conference it would be 15 to 20 years before South Vietnam could defend itself.

Today's birthdays: Conductor Leopold Stokowski is 90 years old. Actor and producer Robert Hooks is 35.

Thought for today: In the land of promise a man may die of hunger. Dutch proverb.

State Oil Allowable Held 100%

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Railroad Commission answered rising demands for Texas oil today by holding the statewide oil allowable for May at 100 per cent for the second consecutive month.

Production in the rich East Texas field, however, was restricted to 86 per cent again to avoid possible waste.

The commission order followed a request by major buyers of Texas crude oil for 3,638,278 barrels a day next month, an increase of 83,312 from April.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines forecast May demand for Texas crude at 3,390,000 barrels daily, an increase of 70,000 from each day this month.

Five of 16 major purchasers asked for more oil in May than April, 10 sought the same amount and one wanted less oil next month.

Texas is operating under a 100 per cent market demand in April—the first time since 1948 that it has been that high.

In ordering all-out production again in May, commission chairman Byron Tunnell said the regulatory agency would continue surveillance of oil fields to prevent waste.

He said one instance of gas flaring had been found, and that if it is not stopped at once, production in that field will be curtailed.

Although Texas' crude oil stocks are 12.7 million barrels lower than a year ago, Tunnell said the state is still producing oil at the rate of 1.25 billion barrels a year and "can continue to produce great amounts of petroleum if we manage our affairs properly."

The commission has not yet estimated how much oil can be produced in a month at 100 per cent, since the April allowable has not had a full test run.

Texas Files Appeal On School Financing

WASHINGTON (AP) — An appeal by the State of Texas may set the stage for a Supreme Court ruling that changes the way 49 states finance their public schools.

Eventually, the San Antonio case may rival in importance the 1954 Brown v. Board of Education case that led to the desegregation of schools in Southern and border states.

Texas filed its appeal late Monday. It is one of five states to be told by a court that its school-financing system is illegal. The others are California, Minnesota, Wyoming and New Jersey.

Though the California decision came first, the Texas case is the first to reach the Supreme Court's doorstep. If the justices agree to hear it, the result would be a ruling in about a year having a major impact on the quality of education and on where Americans locate their homes and businesses.

In every state except Hawaii, public-school financing is based to a large degree on the local property tax. Though the states and the federal government provide supplementary money, the kind of education a child receives is directly related to the tax revenue from property in his district.

In the Texas case, known as Rodriguez v. San Antonio Independent School District, a special panel of three federal judges declared last December that the system violates the 14th Amendment's guarantee of equal protection of the laws.

That is, said the three judges, Texas' financing system makes educational expenditures a function of local wealth, discriminating against children in poorer communities.

Crawford C. Martin, the attorney general of Texas, set forth a five-point argument for reversal. He said the judges had limited the freedom of states to govern themselves. Although a different financing system would improve education in poorer districts, Martin argued, it would cause education in other districts to suffer.

The Texas official noted that the public school system already is under heavy pressure from those who resist desegregation. Now, he said, children in wealthier families would be likely to flee to private schools.

In Texas, about 40 per cent of school revenues come from local property taxes. The average for all the states is 55 per cent.

The case began with a suit filed on July 30, 1968, by 15 parents and children in the Edgewood district in San Antonio, a Mexican-American community that is one of the poorest in the city.

The judges found that in one year Edgewood property was producing $21 a pupil while Alamo Heights, another district with lower property taxes, was raising $307 a pupil. "Any mild equalizing effects that state aid may have do not benefit the poorest districts," they said.

The judges said Texas could adopt whatever other system it chooses so long as the quality of public education is not dependent on wealth.

HURTLE TOWARD MOON

Spacemen Solve New Problems

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 16 astronauts overcame troubles with their guidance system and a radio antenna today and soared on toward Wednesday's rendezvous with the moon.

The guidance difficulty, caused by an unexplained electrical field, temporarily locked the spaceship in one position for 45 minutes early today. But it was overcome by trouble-shooting in Mission Control and by the astronauts.

In mid-morning the spacemen were awakened an hour early to deal with the antenna problem which at times blocked radio communications between earth and Apollo 16.

This was quickly corrected by resetting a series of switches in the command ship.

They were the third and fourth problems to confront John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II on their two day-old journey to the moon's mountainous highlands.

None posed any threat to the astronauts or to the mission as Apollo 16 hurtled closer to its target. In late morning, the craft was about 190,000 miles from earth and some 50,000 miles from the moon.

Earlier, they reported paint flaking off the lunar lander Orion and that one of 12 latches connecting the command and lunar ships was not fastened properly.

As Mattingly was taking star sightings early today on the planet Jupiter, a red warning light flashed in the cabin. Something had happened to the guidance and navigation system, preventing the spaceship from moving left or right.

"I don't know what happened," Mattingly, the command module pilot, radioed. "I was down looking at the optics and all of a sudden I just saw a warning light and I got no attitude (position) and a gimbal lock light ... It looks like the platform might be frozen."

He referred to the inertial guidance system platform.

The spacecraft has a backup system that would get them home if the primary guidance failed.

LBJ Doing Fine After Flareup

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson is in "good spirits and his progress in recovery is considered satisfactory," his doctor said today after a brief heart flare-up Monday afternoon.

Johnson, who suffered a heart attack 11 days ago, experienced a brief burst of extra heart beats Monday.

"President Johnson has rested quietly through the evening and night, and there has been no recurrence of rapid heart action," since Monday afternoon, said his personal heart specialist.

The specialist, Dr. J. Willis Hurst of Atlanta, flew here Monday night and said he probably will be here "several days."

Hurst emphasized that the extra heart beats were not unusual but that special precautions had to be taken since the former President is a heart attack victim.

Hurst also said he is still optimistic about Johnson's recuperation.

A statement released by the Army's Brooke General Hospital said Johnson "has had no chest pain or difficulty with breating and he slept well (Monday night).

Watches N-Viets

SAIGON (AP) — President Nixon has suspended U.S. air attacks on the Hanoi-Haiphong area to see if North Vietnam backs off from its general offensive in South Vietnam, U.S. military sources reported today.

The thrust of the American air war returned to the South, and U.S. pilots flew more than 1,000 strikes there Monday and today.

Following Sunday's heavy raids on targets around Hanoi and Haiphong, Nixon ordered all air action suspended above the 20th parallel of latitude, 60 miles south of Hanoi, the Saigon sources said.

However, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today in Washington there is "no substance" to the report of attacks being suspended north of the 20th parallel. He said air strikes were continuing in North Vietnam, but did not specify how deep the raids were.

The Saigon informants said only a handful of strikes were flown Monday and today north of the demilitarized zone and all of these were below the 19th parallel, 120 miles south of Hanoi.

Informed of Laird's remarks in Washington, the informants here who first reported the suspension reconfirmed their information and said they stuck by it.

"The President is deliberately holding off after Sunday's strikes in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas to see what North Vietnam is going to do," said one source. "But further bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong has not been ruled out. It depends on what North Vietnam does."

The sources said the raids on Hanoi and Haiphong were political in nature, intended as a warning to Hanoi to pull back its offensive in South Vietnam.

"When you knock a guy down," said one source, "you don't want to stomp on him. Nixon apparently wants to wait and see whether he is going to get up and continue to fight or walk away."

In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman said he could neither confirm nor deny that the area above the 20th parallel was off limits again.

Military sources said there were no signs of any enemy withdrawals from the battlefields to which political significance could be attached.

The South Vietnamese command meanwhile claimed that nearly 700 North Vietnamese troops were killed in battles on three fronts Monday with heavy U.S. air support.

Sources claimed that this fighting resulted from actions initiated by the South Vietnamese.

Officers reported earlier that a new threat was developing north of Saigon, with North Vietnamese troops trying to move toward the key South Vietnamese base at Lai Khe, 30 miles north of the capital.

North Vietnam's chief delegate to the Paris peace talks said Monday that if the United States stopped the bombing of the North and resumed the regularly weekly meetings of the presently suspended talks, North Vietnamese Politburo member Le Duc Tho would return to Paris for more secret negotiations with the Americans.

But the chief U.S. delegate in Paris, Ambassador William J. Porter, indicated last week that the United States would not return to the table until North Vietnam called off its military offensive.

Daughters Of Sanders Due Here

The two teen-aged daughters of Barefoot Sanders will campaign here tomorrow for their father, who is seeking the Democratic Party nomination for U.S. Senator.

Margaret Sanders, 17, and Janet Sanders, 18, are scheduled to arrive here around 3:30 p.m. after stops in Brownfield and Lubbock. They will be accompanied here by Mrs. Jerry Kolander of Lubbock. They plan to visit several places in Snyder and hope to talk with a number of local residents.

Negotiations Are Out Says Laird

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today it would be the "height of irresponsibility" to negotiate for peace with the North Vietnamese while their invasion in South Vietnam is under way.

Laird accused the North Vietnamese of "massive flagrant violation" of a 1968 understanding in their penetration of the demilitarized zone.

"We can't negotiate with an enemy that refuses to abide by its accords, understandings and treaties," Laird said.

"If the enemy withdraws its forces invading across the demilitarized zone, if those forces are removed north of the demilitarized zone, then there would be a viable opportunity for negotiation. To talk of further treaties and understandings under present conditions is the height of irresponsibility."

Laird appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee after it voted Monday to stop all funds for U.S. combat activities in Indochina be halted Dec. 31 if Hanoi releases U.S. prisoners of war.

The committee is considering the foreign aid bill.

Laird said President Nixon's Vietnamization policy has shown progress. He said the South Vietnamese armed forces are performing well and cited reductions in U.S. military troops and air and naval activities in Vietnem since 1968.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said it appeared to him that the Nixon administration now insists upon a military victory, with "no hope of negotiating with North Vietnamese until their military capacity is destroyed."

"That is not the case," Laird responded. At this time, he said, American air forces are striking in the demilitarized zone, below the demilitarized zone and north of the demilitarized and also in Cambodia and Laos. He said the B52 force is there for tactical commanders to use as they deem necessary.

Laird said naval ship augmentation in Southeast Asia will continue as "an insurance reserve."

Laird, prior to his appearance before Fulbright's committee, appeared before a closed session of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Court Upholds Loyalty Oath

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, the Supreme Court today upheld a loyalty oath in Massachusetts that requires all public employes to pledge they will oppose the overthrow of the government by force or violence.

State employes must take the oath or face discharge from their jobs.

Delivering the 4-3 decision, Burger said the oath does not violate First Amendment freedoms since it is no more than a commitment not to use illegal force to change the system.

The three dissenters, Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., and Thurgood Marshall, protested that the oath flatly violates the free-speech guarantees.

But Burger was able to swing a majority by persuading Justices Potter Stewart and Byron R. White, to join him and Justice Harry A. Blackmun. The two later Nixon administration appointees, William H. Rehnquist and Lewis F. Powell Jr., could not participate because they joined the court two months after the case was argued.

Two years ago a U.S. District Court in Massachusetts found the oath invalid. Chief Judge Bailey Aldrich of the U.S. Circuit Court in Boston said the phrase in which the oath-taker swears or affirms that he will not "oppose the overthrow" of the government was "fatally vague and unspecific."

But Burger said Aldrich's opinion had taken "a highly literalistic approach" and he recalled that the late Justice John M. Harlan had said, "Almost any word or phrase may be rendered vague and ambiguous by dissection with a semantic scalpel."

Extra Baggage Checked

WASHINGTON (AP) — One government agency has encouraged its workers to come right out and say what critics of the bureaucracy have suspected all along: They're only so much extra baggage.

In the interest of fighting inflation, the U.S. Manpower Administration has politely suggested that some employes admit their jobs are useless and take early retirement.

"President Nixon announced a new economic program for the nation ... designed to stem the tide of rising inflation," said a memorandum sent to all agency employes last week. "As a result, federal agencies have been directed to reduce their employment levels."

Normal attrition would take care of part of the reduction, wrote Paul J. Fasser, manpower administrator, and "an accelerated rate of retirements is looked upon as another means of achieving our goals."

One way to qualify for early retirement, he noted, is to prove that you're doing a job that might just as well be abolished.

"In light of present conditions," he wrote, "you are urged to assess your personal situation."

And what does the Manpower Administration do? Find jobs for the unemployed.

The offense allegedly occurred March 14, and he was arrested by Highway Patrolmen.

Antibiotics Creating Problems

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Indiscriminate feeding of antibiotics to livestock is creating problems for human consumers of the meat, a University of Illinois scientist says.

Swine, cattle, poulty and sheep receive antibiotics in their food as well as for therapy for disease.

Producers of livestock compare the antibiotic food to insurance, Dr. William G. Hubern professor of pharmacology at the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine, said in an interview.

"But the actual benefit is one big question mark," he added.

Huber was a member of a task force for the Food and Drug Administration which studied drugs in animal feed and made recommendations for restrictions on their use.

About 80 per cent of all animals eaten have been given antibiotics, he said, and almost 100 per cent of swine receive the drugs.

Meat inspection is under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which does not test for antibiotic or antibacterial drugs in meat, except visually, Huber said. If an area of discoloration is present, it will be cut out or the meat rejected, but more sophisticated methods are needed, he said.

The USDA has sampled meat from across the country and concluded that antibiotics fed to livestock presents no problem. The meat was shipped to Beltsville, Md., and had been slaughtered 10 to 21 days before the tests, Huber said.

During such a period some antibiotics in tissues will lose their antibacterial activity, but the residues can still affect the human consumer, the pharmacologist said.

The University of Illinois has tested carcasses of 8,000 to 9,000 animals for drugs, which is more than the USDA has tested, Huber said.

Tests at the university were done two to four days after slaughtered and significant percentages of the meat were found to contain the drugs.

Some antibiotics are excreted rapidly by the animals.

Huber said 90 to 95 per cent of the problem of drug residues in animals results from the failure of growers to feed the animals on food free of antibiotics for a sufficient length of time before they are marketed.

Eckhardt Urges Galveston Port

HOUSTON (AP) — If Houston wants to keep its place as a petroleum industrial center it will have to see that a superport to handle giant tankers is built off Galveston, U.S. Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., said here Monday.

Hijacker Captured

By PENNIE SUE THURMAN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A hijacker who demanded half a million dollars and a flight to the Bahamas after commandeering a jetliner over Florida displayed no outward characteristics to tip off officials that he might be a threat, according to Delta Air Lines.

"We would have to psychoanalyze someone to know why they might make a threat like he made," said Gene Stewart, Delta's chief security officer, from the airline's Atlanta, Ga., office.

"The airlines are following religiously the requirements that the U.S. government has laid down or what they called the preboard screening of passengers," Stewart added.

A man identified by the FBI as William H. Greene III, 30, of Berea, Ohio, was captured without incident Monday less than an hour after the Convair 880 landed at a remote section of O'Haire International Airport.

Greene was scheduled to appear before a U.S. magistrate today. The FBI said Greene would be charged with air piracy, which could carry the death sentence upon conviction.

The plane, Flight 952, was carrying 91 persons. It was en route from Miami to Chicago with only one scheduled stop, in Palm Beach, Fla.

Greene was described by the FBI as a "drifter" who recently worked as a film editor in Universal City, Calif.

Pilot Carl Leming, 49, of Atlanta, said he learned of the extortion-hijack attempt about a third of the way to Chicago when a stewardess gave him a note written by the hijacker.

Leming said the note demanded that the plane fly to Chicago, that $500,000 be made available there and that the plane then take off for Nassau.

The FBI said no gun was found although the hijacker indicated in his note that he carried a weapon.

Peter Flanigan Agrees To Appear

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House aide Peter M. Flanigan agreed conditionally today to appear before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

He would appear, Flanigan said, if his testimony is limited to his involvement in hiring an independent financial consultant for the Justice Department in its deliberations of an antitrust case against the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

In a letter to Chairman James. O. Eastland, D-Miss., Flanigan said "if the committee feels that my testimony ... would be of assistance in its consideration of Mr. Kleindienst's confirmation and the scope of my appearance is limited accordingly, I would welcome the opportunity to appear and testify before your committee."

Flanigan had refused previous committee requests for him to appear before the committee which is considering the nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst to be attorney general.

His refusal and the report that the White House would invoke executive privilege if he should be subpoenaed have caused Democrats, especially Sens. Sam Ervin of North Carolina and Robert Byrd of West Virginia, to say they would attempt to block Kleindienst's nomination first in the committee and then on the Senate floor.

Flanigan said he would expect the committee, if it accepts his offer, to limit the questioning to his involvement with Richard McLaren, now a U.S. District Court judge in Chicago and his meeting with Harold Geneen, president of ITT.

Democrats on the committee contend the Justice Department misused a consultant's report which administration officials have testified was a key factor in settlement of the antitrust suit against ITT.

PUREED CELERIAC

Use a food mill to puree celeriac, also called celery root or knob celery.

2 large celeriac, about 1½ pounds
3 cups water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Salt
3 tablespoons butter
Freshly ground pepper to taste

Scrub celeriac in cold water; cut away root fibers and pare with a swivel-blade vegetable peeler; cut into cubes-there should be about 4 cups. Into a 3-quart saucepan pour the water; add lemon juice and 1 teaspoon salt; over medium heat bring to a boil. Add celeriac, cover and boil until very tender—20 to 25 minutes. Drain if water has not cooked away. Puree celeriac through a food mill; add butter, ¼ to ½ teaspoon salt and the pepper. Reheat over low heat, stirring, until puree is very hot. Makes about 1½ cups-3 to 4 servings.

Blind Musician Leads Normal, Active Life

By PEACE MOFFAT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When Wayne and Marin Foster talk about their life together they have to remind each other not to sound like a mutual admiration society. He's blond, stocky, handsome. She's slim, curly-haired, pretty. He plays the piano, organ, accordian, guitar. She plays bass guitar, drums and sings. They run a family business that consists of six bands, and he conducts one of those bands himself. Their four daughters are musically inclined.

From all appearances, it's a happy family, but there's one hitch. Wayne Foster has been blind since he was 10 years old. How can a blind person lead such an active life?

"The more I live with him the more I find out he can do everything but see," Marin says. "People tell me I describe everything to him, but I'm not even aware of it. The children are great with details though—they'll describe someone and include details, like wing-tipped shoes, or a pinch pleated skirt.

"Thera isn't a line between Wayne's role and mine," she goes on. "When the children were little, he'd change the diapers sometimes. Now, if he wants to cook, he cooks.

"Our offices are attached to our home. We've decorated together and instead of hanging a lot of pictures we have sculpture. In fact, when each of the children brought her first art home from school, it was all in relief."

"We even have codes in our work," Foster explains. "For instance, if everything is going well, and people are dancing, Marin says, 'green.' If there's a problem, she says 'red'."

Foster says he was interested in music since he was 2, encouraged by his musical family. He learned to play the piano first, and later took up the accordion because he needed something portable. He started his first band when he was 14.

He and Marin met at a dance when she was 16. He was attending Adelphi University and working weekends. Marin learned to sing so it would be easier to stay awake during the long hours while the band was playing.

Foster is not shy about his blindness. He admits his family encouraged him to start a band because he was "socially inactive," and he points out that it is important for a blind person to be concerned about his appearance.

"It's a very unfortunate situation, but it's how the world sees you that matters," he says. "And a significent fact I can dwell upon is that it is most important for a blind person to find a friend who can guide him to an attractive way of dressing."

The Fosters feel, in their life, as well as their work, they should emphasize the positive. For that reason, they stay away from gloomy songs.

"We try to play happy songs as opposed to ones that sing the blues," Foster says. "Our job is to make people happy."

Constructive criticism better than slow death

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the daughter who didn't know how to tell her dear, sweet old mother that she had a very offensive body odor prompts this letter, and I welcome the opportunity to write it.

My own mother, age 67, was immaculate about her person, but suddenly several of us noticed a very strong, offensive body odor about her; no one wanted to tell her for fear of hurting her feelings.

Finally, a young cousin who was a registered nurse urged me to get my mother to a doctor at once. My mother had not seen a doctor for years. I finally had to tell her why I wanted her to go in order to get her there.

A physical examination disclosed that my mother had advanced cancer of the female organs. She had surgery, but it was too late to save her, because she had let it go too long. The odor was the only clue. She had had no pain whatsoever.

Abby, please urge your readers to have checkups periodically, and where a persistent body odor exists to tell the person! [Many aging people lose their sense of smell.]

If I had read this letter in your column two years ago, my mother might be alive today. FAITHFUL READER

DEAR READER: Many others wrote offering the same valuable information. Thank you for writing!

DEAR ABBY: I usually agree with you, but I couldn't go along with your advice to DANNY'S GIRL. [She said Danny wore his hair down to his shoulders, was slight and had very delicate features, so he was mistaken for a girl a lot. She suggested that Danny cut his hair; but he said he didn't want to. He did, however say he would listen to some other suggestions.]

You said, "Tell him to grow a mustache!" Well, that wouldn't work. He would look like a girl with a mustache.

If a guy wants to emasculate himself [figuratively] by wearing a feminine coiffure, he should be prepared to accept the consequences. LIKES MEN WHO LOOK LIKE MEN

DEAR LIKES: I received many interesting suggestions for Danny. Among them were: 1. Go topless. 2. Go bottomless.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for the benefit of all those poor guys who feel rejected if a girl doesn't kiss them on the first date. I used to be like that.

I met a girl a few months ago, and I asked her out. We had a great time, but when I tried to kiss her goodnight, she said, "Don't rush it." I felt like an idiot. I figured she didn't like me, so I didn't call her for a long time. Then I got to thinking that maybe it was to her credit that she didn't jump at the chance to kiss a guy she'd only known a few hours. Anyway, I called her up and asked her out again.

She accepted and we had a wonderful time. This time I didn't try to kiss her, but when we said goodnight, she gave me a hug, which meant more to me than a kiss.

My advice to guys who don't get kissed on the first date is to call the girl for a second date. Don't feel rejected. It's nice to know that there are still some girls who place a high value on their kisses. I really appreciate a girl who's hard to get. HANGING IN THERE

DEAR HANGING: And it's nice for a hard-to-get girl to know that she's appreciated.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Two-Car Garage Is Requirement

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The two-car garage, once a symbol of affluence, will be required by law under new zoning ordinances in Green Township.

The garages must be included in all new homes in 11 of the township's precincts beginning this week.

City fathers say they want to reduce on-street parking on narrow subdivision streets.

Ira Wins Trophy In District Meet

IRA — Ira High School put another district championship trophy in its trophy case this year at University Interscholastic League literary contests.

It was the eighth district title in the past 10 years for Ira, as the Ira High entrants rolled up nearly twice as many points as their nearest competitors.

In the past 10 years, Ira has won it all, except for 1969, when it was nudged out by Roby by half a point, and in 1970 when Jayton won the title.

During this period, Ira has sent several students to the state finals and to state championships, and the faculty and community supporters feel that the events have been helpful in giving Ira students the background to do well in college.

Sixty-five per cent of the Ira students have gone on to college after high school graduation in the past decade, and 80 per cent of this year's graduating class of 12 have announced intentions to enter college.

Pat Nixon Is Hostess To DAR

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Pat Nixon has held an open house for the Daughters of the American Revolution, shaking some 1,700 hands for more than two hours.

Monday's gathering was the third year in a row Mrs. Nixon held the gathering at the White House for the DAR, which is holding its annual continental congress at Constitution Hall.

At least one member suffered a fainting spell while waiting to meet the First Lady. The White House refused to disclose her name "because it might embarrass her frightfully."

Knowles Favors Salaried Doctors

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. John H. Knowles, former director of Massachusetts General Hospital, says the incidence of surgery among members of some prepaid health groups is as much as 50 per cent lower than that of the general population.

"Apparently where fee-for-service is involved, the physician may admit patients unnecessarily or perform unnecessary surgery," Knowles said. "When doctors are on salary, there is no such vested economic interest."

In an interview, Knowles, who will become president of the Rockefeller Foundation July 1, said prepayment and salaried physicians are needed to reduce medical costs in the United States.

Trout are at their best in water that is high in mineral content, but they can thrive in swamp-water ponds, soft-water lakes, and rushing creeks of high rainfall areas.

Burst Waterbed Floods Room

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Sunday wasn't the day for sleeping late at the Mike Picchionni home.

Shortly after 11 a.m. a frantic call summoned firemen and neighbors to his home.

A fire truck, specially equipped with a vacuum hose and used mostly to combat grass fires, rolled up to his bedroom window, and firemen and friends pitched in to their task.

A waterbed had burst and the vacuum hose was needed to bail out the flooded Picchionni bedroom.

Price Controls On Food Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson told Congress today the commission is considering putting price controls on food products.

And, he reported, the commission is also considering a major change in the Nixon administration's price-control strategy:

"Concentrating Price Commission manpower on the largest firms ... while decontrolling large portions of the economy."

In testimony prepared for the Joint Economic Committee, Grayson did not comment further on what specific conditions would cause the new policy moves to be implemented. Nor did he indicate when decisions on them might be made.

Grayson cited possible extension of controls to food and the tightening of existing food-price controls in a list of several policy changes he said are under current analysis and evaluation.

Grayson's comments came a day after he said current controls are beginning to bite into price increases. He said in an interview Monday that a decision on tighter controls might not be made for months, if ever, and that he was willing to cast his vote in favor of stricter profit-margin controls if inflation figures showed they were needed.

In his prepared testimony, Grayson said the wage-price controls are slowly reducing inflation toward the target level of 2 to 3 per cent by the end of this year "without impeding the recovery of our ailing national economy to prosperity and full employment."

Those two points drew criticism from Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., committee chairman, who said after studying the record of the last six months, he can come to no other conclusion than that Grayson and the commission have "struck out" as inflation fighters.

Grayson disagreed. He said the Price Commission has lived up to its presidential mandate. And he asserted that "the economy in April 1972 remains free, dynamic, growing and productive."

In other economic developments Monday:

—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., termed the present wage-price controls inadequate and called for further controls.

"I believe the program of controls needs to be made more comprehensive and especially that it needs to further restrict price increases," said Mills, who is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and a Democratic presidential contender. He was speaking at a conference sponsored by Institutional Investor magazine.

—The Treasury Department's chief economist said the nation's economy is in the midst of a "solid and rather vigorous expansion."

NO-HOLDS-BARRED-FIGHTING

Candidates Beginning To Anticipate Inevitable

By ELOY AGUILAR
Associated Press Writer

Candidates for statewide offices are beginning to anticipate some no-holds-barred fighting as the May 6 primary elections draw near.

Most of the activity in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination race in the past two days has consisted of personal charges and countercharges.

Only Gov. Preston Smith, who is seeking re-election, held back Monday on attacks on his opponents, but he told a Brenham reception that the unpublicized accomplishments of his administration surpass those of any other.

And in Fort Worth, a Republican candidate for governor, Tom McElroy, said that many conservative Texans really belong in the GOP.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes was in Abilene celebrating his 34th birthday and doing some campaigning in his race for the governor's chair.

He told well-wishers that he expects a "hate campaign from his opponent, Gov. Smith, in the last days before primary day.

"Smith would almost rather defeat me than win re-election himself," Barnes said. "I predict it will be the most vicious hate campaign ever waged in a Texas governor's race."

Another candidate, Rep. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi, attacked Barnes as the "representative of the big special interests groups," and said that Uvalde rancher Dolph Briscoe "is riding on the coattails of our reform movement."

Briscoe was also hit by a Barnes supporter, Sen. W.T. Moore of Bryan, who brought back charges that a 13-mile state road built in Dimmit County leads only to Briscoe's hunting lodge.

Moore said that Briscoe's explanations regarding the reasons for the road "have more holes that the state maintenance crews will ever allow in that infamous highway."

Briscoe, however, came back saying that the accusations by the Barnes group was "a publicity stunt that blew up in Barnes' face like a trick cigar."

Furthermore, the rancher stated, "Barnes is so used to his own special interest deals that he cannot tell the difference between honesty and dishonesty, and perhaps does not realize that others can."

In Austin, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin rejected an offer by opponent John Hill to appear on a 30-minute television show in Corpus Christi, at Hill's expenses, to discuss the issues.

Martin dismissed the offer saying he would not give Hill a chance to get some publicity.

In the battle for the nomination for lieutenant governor Sen. Wayne Connally of Floresville announced that his brother, Treasurer and former Gov. John Connally, would campaign for him just before the primary elections.

"And no one else," he added, dismissing speculations that Connally may come back to Texas to campaign for Barnes.

Connally's opponent, Sen. Ralph Hall, lashed at him saying that he voted against the minimum wage bill "while representing an area of Texas rampant with economic poverty."

Hall also criticized another opponent, Bill Hobby of Houston, saying Hobby "shakes his fist on television saying he wants to crack down on drug users, yet he tells students at Texas University that there should be no penalty for private use of marijuana."

McElroy told a Fort Worth luncheon audience that "the only real requirement for becoming a Republican is personal political conviction."

"By that criteria," he went on, "a vast majority of Texas conservatives belong in our party."

In the race for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, candidate Barefoot Sanders said in Liberty that he opposes a renewal of wage and price freeze legislation.

"I do not think the freeze has been effective," he said. "It has been enforced with a confusing and chaotic set of regulations which are very hard, if not impossible, for a businessman to understand." His opponent, former senator Ralph Yarborough, said in Pampa that the Nixon administration is holding up money for approved domestic projects to use it in Vietnam.

He added that Nixon is also holding up money for Texas projects because Texas did not vote Republican in the 1968 election.

Revenue Sharing Closer

WASHINGTON (AP) — States and cities are a step closer to sharing in $5.3 billion of new federal aid with few strings attached.

The House Ways and Means Committee approved the revenue-sharing bill by a 17-7 vote Monday, sending it to the House floor where a vote may come next week.

Supporters say it will pass the House easily.

The administration favors the measure although it differs somewhat from the legislation originally sought by President Nixon.

Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills opposed many aspects of the Nixon bill, chiefly a provision severing all federal strings on the money granted to states and cities.

The powerful committee chairman's opposition obliterated the chance of Ways and Means approval of the legislation in the form Nixon first proposed a year and a half ago.

Adding enough strings to satisfy Mills, the committee approved a version providing $1.8 billion to be divided among the states and $3.5 billion for local governments.

Grants to the states would be apportioned according to a formula based on the state's ability to raise revenue, with special rewards for those with state income taxes.

States could spend the money any way they chose.

Grants to local governments would be based on population and per-capita income, and spending would be restricted to the fields of public safety, environmental improvements and transportation.

Sentence Given

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Patrick O'Neill, 28, has been sentenced to 15 years in jail for possessing what a Belfast judge called "a tremendous arsenal" of arms and explosives.

Found at his father's farm were a submachine gun, 32 shotguns, 15 rifles, three revolvers, two pistols, 12,000 rounds of ammunition and a quantity of gelignite, the judge was told Monday.

Earl To Manage Opera House

LONDON (AP) — The Earl of Harewood, cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, has been named managing director of Sadlers Wells Opera in London.

Sadlers Wells is London's popular opera, with performances which traditionally are given in English.

The 49-year-old earl, appointed Monday, previously has held jobs as a director of the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, and artistic director of the Edinburgh International Festival.

SALT Round Postponed

HELSINKI (AP) — A session today of the U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation Talks—SALT—was postponed until Thursday, and a U.S. spokesman indicated the request for delay came from the Russians.

No reason was given, but there have been unconfirmed reports that the chief Soviet delegate, Vladimir Semyonov, visited Moscow during the weekend. Members of the two delegations made a weekend trip to Lapland but Semyonov canceled out, pleading "professional duties."

The current round of SALT negotiations is expected to complete an agreement for President Nixon to sign with his Soviet hosts when he visits Moscow next month.

Businessmen Planning Often Educated Guess

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — To businessmen, the future is that part of the road up ahead that disappears into a fog of shapes and mysterious, indiscernable signals, in which it is equally dangerous to slow down or speed ahead.

Even in an age of pinpoint surveys, planning is often just an educated guess.

In the footwear industry, for example, who could have foreseen the various factors that conspired to produce a situation that industry officials now claim will result in price increases of $1 to $6 a pair?

First, the hide market shifted. Demand rose for leather jackets and coats, each of which consumes enough leather for several pairs of shoes. At the same time there developed a rage for wide, wide leather belts.

These changes developed shortly after Argentina, one of the world's biggest hide exporters, decided to drop from the market so as to build up its breeding stock. Europeans, who usually buy 9 million Argentine hides a year, began placing their orders in the United States.

At the same time, rising living standards in Japan led to a greater demand for leather from that country, which normally takes 40 per cent of U.S. hide exports.

All this, say the shoe people, adds up to higher prices—or does it? For hides, to be sure; already the price has risen from 18.5 cents to 31.5 cents a pound in one year. For shoes? The answer might be different.

Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson called industry leaders to a conference in Washington, the purpose being to keep any increases within a range acceptable under Phase 2 guidelines. A $6 increase might be excessive.

But shoemakers, represented by the American Footwear Industry Association, claim they have no choice unless a ban is placed on hide exports. They seek a presidential order to enforce the ban.

The situation in trucking is similar in some respects.

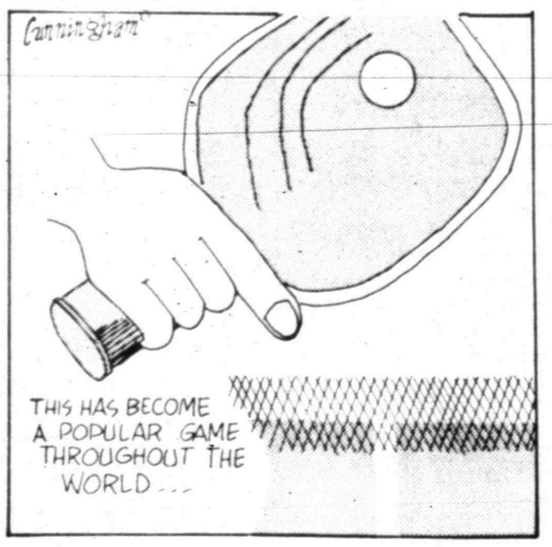

Truck sales are booming, and it now seems possible that 2.5 million units will be sold this year. Nobody foresaw it. Equally surprised are industry officials and stock market analysts.

Why did they err so badly? Primarily because they were looking at the old market and estimating how much it could grow. But human nature played a trick on them; it reshaped that market.

A large part of the answer is revealed by a breakdown of sales figures that show the biggest increase in demand is for smaller trucks such as vans and pickups.

And why should this be so? Thinking at the moment is that the leisure market has much to do with it.

Junior Editors Quiz on TABLE TENNIS

QUESTION: How did the game of table tennis originate?

* * *

ANSWER: Table tennis or ping-pong is an extremely fast indoor game, similar to lawn tennis on a small scale. It is played by young and old, men and women, and has become popular throughout the world. A British firm manufactured table tennis equipment and registered the name Ping-Pong in England in 1900 and in America in 1901. It sold the American rights to Parker Brothers of Salem, Mass.

Table tennis is played on a table that measures 9 by 5 feet. The table top must be 30 inches above the floor, and must yield a uniform bounce of between 8 and 9 inches when a standard ball is dropped on it from a height of 12 inches. A net running parallel to the end lines divides the playing surface into two courts of equal size. Table tennis players use small wooden paddles to hit a celluloid ball that measures 4 1/2 inches in circumference. The paddles faces are usually covered with studded rubber or other substance.

Chicago Traffic Slowest

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A recent study showed the Chicago driver sits in traffic jams longer than motorists of any other city.

Besides the usual reason—repairs, accidents and bad weather—there are a number of phenomena that exist with increasing irritation on all expressways.

These include the gaper's block.

This phenomenon occurs with frustrating frequency in Chicago. It usually occurs when the driver is already late for work or dinner but the lanes are open and traffic is zipping right along.

Suddenly, the lines begin to slow. The weather is perfect, the motorist reasons, and the road repairs were completed last year. It must be a bad accident or a temporary delay.

A half-hour and a quarter-mile later, the motorist reaches a point where two cars with nicked fenders are parked on the apron. A police car is behind them and the blue light is attracting gapers.

Sometimes, there is nothing. A quick glance at the traffic piling up in the other direction lets the driver know that the fender-bender occurred in the opposite lanes.

Then there is the crawling cop.

The crawling cop usually drives in the center lane at 45 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone.

Only bold motorists positive their speedometers are accurate dare pass the patrol. For everyone who passes, three hesitate. Before long the lanes are backed up and somewhere a mile back some driver is wondering how the traffic can be so bad at 10 p.m.

Finally, the crawling cop slips into an exit ramp and those bringing up the rear at 30 miles an hour never know why they were a half-hour late getting home.

Finally, there is the exact change toll booth dilemma.

There is first of all the feeling of worthlessness that overwhelms the driver who pulls up to the exact change booth and discovers he has no exact change. This leads to his sheepish appearance in front of a line of glowing chrome grills as he walks across to the manned booths.

Secondly, there is the driver who didn't know he was heading for the exact change booth and makes a sudden 90-degree sweep across six lanes.

The most mind-boggling of the toll booth dilemmas is the driver who lets his child fling the change from the back window. Invariably he winds up crawling under the car looking for the dimes that didn't hit the basket.

Coed's Plea Is Denied

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — A judge has denied a coed's plea to re-enter Southwest Texas State University after school officials expelled her for keeping five miniature liquor bottles in her dormitory room.

Cathy Ann Caldwell, 20, testified she had kept the bottles on a shelf since Christmas as a decoration.

Miss Caldwell said she lives on $141 social security payments since both her parents died and that she would lose her tuition, book fees and 15 hours academic work if the expulsion were upheld.

"These were just five little bottles that looked pretty on a shelf ... what is the loss to the university?" asked her attorney, Rodder Zimmerman.

School rules prohibit alcoholic or intoxicating beverages on state property although empty bottles may be used for decorations. The seals were intact on Miss Caldwell's one-ounce bottles.

Miss Caldwell also was working as a proctor-counselor for the school at $1.60 an hour, and several school officials testified she was responsible for enforcing school rules.

State Dist. Judge Terry Jacks said, "with a considerable amount of thought I have no choice but to deny the plaintiff's plea for relief. I would urge the university to give consideration to the drastic measures being given for minor infractions."

Bike Rider Is Problem

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — Carl Martin of Oshkosh likes to ride his bike.

But the times he picks for his rides and the places he goes are giving his relatives and the police some anxious moments.

Martin is 81 years old.

At 3:30 p.m. Sunday, a relative called the police and listed Martin as missing. After a 12-hour search, deputies found Martin and his bike stuck in the mud in Appleton, 20 miles away.

He has been reported missing two other times. Once he rode 35 miles to Eureka and another time 40 miles to New London.

Police say Martin's relatives have asked them to take his bike away, but they can't legally do it.

Thirty-two lettermen turned out for spring football practice at South Carolina.

Cards, Astros, Los Angles Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Would you believe the St. Louis Cardinals could win a game in which Lou Brock was picked off in successive innings for the first time in his career, in which Joe Torre was forced out by an injury and in the opposing pitcher belted a home run?

Al Santorini believes it, even though he probably has to pinch himself to fully realize that he picked up his first major league victory since April 13, 1970.

Monday's hard-earned triumph, 5-4 over Philadelphia, was the Cardinals' first of the young season after two one-run setbacks. Elsewhere on an abbreviated major league baseball schedule, Houston whipped San Francisco 7-2, Los Angeles trounced Atlanta 8-3, Baltimore blanked the New York Yankees 4-0 and Cleveland zeroed Boston 4-0.

Santorini, the fifth St. Louis pitcher, came on in the ninth inning with the bases loaded, one out and the Cards nursing a 5-3 lead. He got a bad break when first baseman Donn Clendenon dropped pinch hitter Roger Freed's pop foul but the 24-year-old right-hander recovered to strike out Freed.

Larry Bowa's sharp single made the score 5-4 and left the bases jammed but Santorini retired Tim McCarver on a grounder to second for the final out. Santorini had a 1-8 record with San Diego in 1970, was 0-4 with the Padres and Cards last year and was tagged with the loss in the 1972 opener on Saturday.

"It's been a long time," sighed Santorini, but the victory was doubly sweet—his family came down from Union, N.J., and it was his father's birthday.

Brock, the Cards' inimitable base-stealer, was embarrassed in the first and second innings by Woodie Fryman, who picked him off both times. And Clendenon, in addition to his potentially damaging error, was run down trying to score from first base on a single by Jose Cruz in the first inning.

The Cards prevailed, despite all that adversity plus Fryman's second career home run, when Ed Crosby, Torre's replacement, greeted reliever Joe Hoerner with a leadoff single in the top of the ninth and Ted Simmons doubled him home with the tie-breaker. Simmons eventually scored what proved to be the winning run on Dal Maxvill's sacrifice fly.

Torre aggravated a strained muscle in his lower back suffered in Sunday's game against Montreal.

A funny thing happened to the San Francisco Giants on their way to a repeat of their early 1971 runaway. After trimming Houston twice and grabbing a 2-0 lead Monday night on pitcher John Cumberland's fifth-inning single, they faltered and lost.

Doug Rader tied the score for the Astros in their half of the inning with a two-run homer and they took the lead in the sixth on run-scoring singles by Lee May and Bob Watson. May singled another run across before Rader cracked a two-run triple.

Two-run homers by Willie Davis and Manny Mota powered Los Angeles over Atlanta, which is having the pitching problems most experts predicted. Davis drove in a third run with an infield hit and Bill Singer, facing live hitters for the first time since March 12, hurled four perfect innings. He was bothered only by Darrell Evans' homer.

Brooks Robinson and winning pitcher Dave McNally rapped run-scoring doubles as Baltimore broke a scoreless game with three runs in the seventh and downed the Yankees. McNally, bidding for his fifth 20-game season, tossed a four-hitter.

Paul Blair opened the seventh with a single off Fritz Peterson and scored on Robinson's double as right fielder Rusty Torres fell down. McNally doubled the second run across and scored himself on Don Buford's single.

Milt Wilcox fired a two-hitter and Tom McCraw greeted reliever Bill Lee with a three-run homer in Cleveland's win over Boston. Wilcox, obtained from Cincinnati in an off-season trade, was locked in a scoreless battle with Ray Culp when Alex Johnson and Graig Nettles singled with two out in the eighth inning. Lee came in to face McCraw—lefty vs. lefty, you know—and McCraw pulled a 1-2 pitch just inside the right field foul pole.

Quarry KO's Corletti

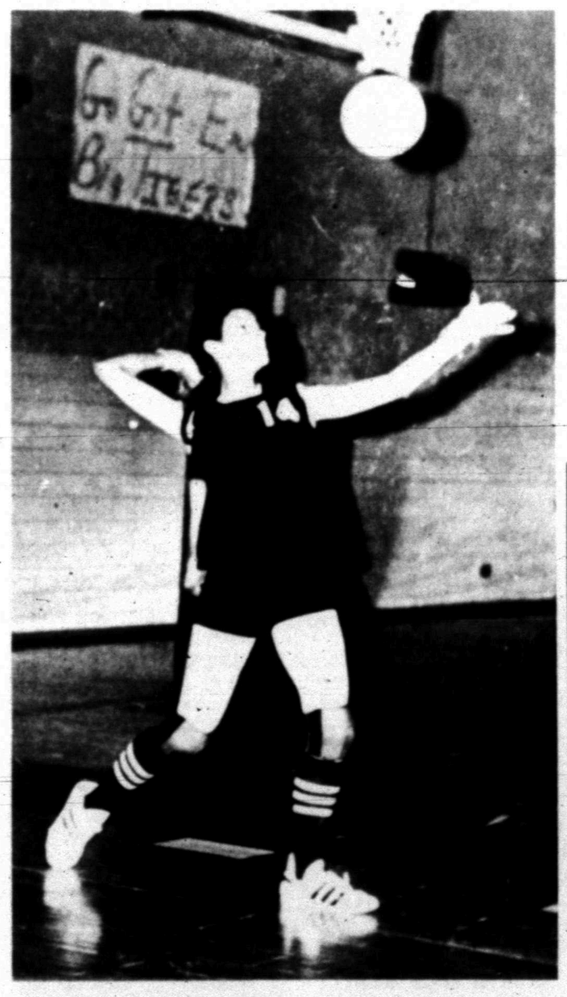

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jerry Quarry, second-ranked heavyweight contender, floored Eduardo Corletti for a mandatory eight-count and then knocked him out with a crushing left hook at 2:58 of the first round of a scheduled 10-round heavyweight fight Monday night.

Quarry took command at the opening bell and punished Corletti with heavy body punches before scoring the first knockdown after one minute.

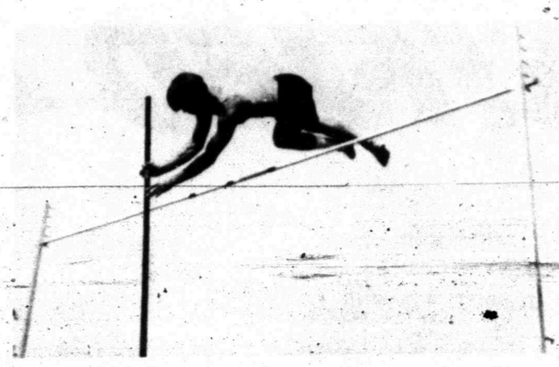

Quarry then drove his opponent into a corner and connected with a right hand to the body and then put him down with the left hook.

The referee stopped the bout after the final knockdown.

Eric Blind, brother of Pimlico starter, Eddie Blind, rode in the 1926 Preakness at the Baltimore track.

SERVES BALL — Snyder High School's Penny Jones is shown here serving the ball. She is a member of the Tiger team that won the regional girls volleyball tournament at Lubbock last Saturday. The Snyder girls will meet Dulles of Stafford at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in the first round of the state tournament. The other first round match pits Berkner of Richardson against Gregory Portland at the same time. The winners will collide at 2:45 p.m. Saturday. All games will be held in Gregory Gym at Austin.

UP AND OVER — Snyder High School's Troy Hall clears the bar at 12-3 to take second place at the District 3-AAA Track Meet here Saturday and qualify for the regional meet in Odessa Saturday. He has consistently vaulted over 12 feet this season and cleared 13-3 once.

Bucks, Lakers In Must Game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks and Los Angeles Lakers have each won the games they really had to win.

But tonight's match at the forum is a MUST game for both. The teams are tied 2-2 in the best-of-7 series for the National Basketball Association's Western Conference championship.

The nationally televised game starts at 10 p.m., EST. The Forum is a 17,500-seat sellout and, with Los Angeles blacked out for home television, five sites will carry closed-circuit telecast.

In Monday night's only pro basketball action, Utah moved out to a 2-0 lead in their West Division final series against Indiana by whipping the Pacers 117-109.

Willie Wise poured in 30 points for the Stars, including 11 in the third quarter, when Utah turned a one-point halftime deficit into a nine point lead. Zelmo Beaty, playing despite a broken finger, scored 23 points and hauled down 25 rebounds for the Stars.

George McGinnis led Indiana with 28 points, 21 of them in the second half.

The third game of the series will be played Wednesday night at Anderson, Ind.

The other ABA playoff series, between Virginia and the New York Nets for the East Division title, does not resume until April 24. The Squires hold a 2-0 edge.

In the NBA Eastern Conference finals, the New York Knicks hold a 2-0 edge over Boston. Game No. 3 will be played Wednesday night in Boston, and the Celtics need that one to climb back into contention.

Recapping the Bucks-Lakers series:

The Bucks blasted the Lakers in the Forum, 93-72, in the first game, but Los Angeles came back to win a thriller 135-134, also at the Forum.

Los Angeles went to Milwaukee needing at least a split of the two games there to maintain any home-court advantage. The Lakers won the third game, 108-105.

Then came Sunday's fourth contest, which Milwaukee needed to win or face a 1-3 deficit in the series. The Bucks won in a walk, 414-88.

West Heads All-Pro Team

DETROIT (AP) — Jerry West of the Los Angeles Lakers heads the 10-man list of 1972 All-Pro basketball players in a poll of fans sponsored by Basketball Weekly, a 30,000-circulation newspaper published in Detroit.

Wilt Chamberlain, West's teammate, also was selected along with Kareen Abdul-Jabbar of the Milwaukee Bucks.

Other National Basketball Association players picked were John Havlicek of Boston, Walt Frazier of New York, and Spencer Haywood of Seattle.

Finn Runner 1st In Boston Race

BOSTON (AP) — Olavi Suomalainen, an engineering student in Helsinki, returned the Boston A.A. Marathon championship to Finland today in extending foreign domination of the 76-year-old distance run for a handful of prizes and a bowl of beef stew.

The 25-year-old Suomalainen, moving up to the marathon distance for the first time, surprised a starting field of 1,081 by winning the 26-mile, 385-yard Hopkinton-to-Boston test Monday in 2 hours, 15 minutes, 39 seconds.

His 18-second victory over the fast-closing Victor Manuel Mora of Colombia was Finland's first in 10 years. It also marked the 24th triumph by a foreigner since World War II, the only breaks in the string being Johnny Kelley's victory in 1957 and Abrose Burfoot's triumph four years ago.

Suomalainen, normally a 25-kilometer runner, charged into the lead with less than five miles to go and had enough to withstand Mora's belated challenge to win by slightly more than 100 yards.

Former Connecticut track star John Vitale set the early pace before Mexico's Jacinto Sabinal passed him after 14 miles.

Then came the hills, a couple of small ones and then famed "Heartbreak," leading up to Boston College.

Suomalainen caught up to the Mexican at the fifth checkpoint just below the college and 21.6 miles from the start. Then he gradually built his advantage as Sabinal faded and finished third in 2:16.10.

Mexico's Alfred Penazola and Pablo Garrido, each running in the BAA for the third time, finished fourth and fifth in 2:18.46 and 2:19.50, respectively. Bruce Mortensen of Rochester, N.Y., was the first American finisher, placing sixth in 2:19.59. Jeff Galloway of Tallahassee, Fla., was right behind in 2:20.3, followed by Colombia's Alvaro Mejia, the 1968 winner in 2:18.45.

Bowing to Women's Lib for the first time, the BAA conducted a special marathon for women. Nina Kuscsik, a 33-year-old mother of two from Huntington, N.Y., topped a field of nine in 3:08.58, a time which would have been good for 391st place among the men. Elaine Pedersen of San Francisco was second in 3:20.35, and Kathy Miller of Syracuse, N.Y., third in 3:29.50.

Was Death Grid Connected?

DETROIT (AP) — A question of whether or not the death last October of Detroit Lions' flanker Chuck Hughes was connected with his job as a pro football player may force his widow to go to court to collect workman's compensation.

A pretrial examination is set for May 5 before a compensation referee in Detroit on the matter.

The compensation petition filed by the widow, Mrs. Sharon Hughes, contends that her husband died on the job. She is seeking compensation which could reach as high as $90,000 if she elects to take weekly payments until her two-year-old son, Brandon Shane Hughes, reaches 21.

Economic Stabilization Questions and Answers

Internal Revenue Service

This column of questions and answers on the President's Economic Stabilization Program is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked about wages and prices.

Q. Do you have any publications that explain the posting requirements for retailers?

A. Yes. IRS Publication S-3, "Retailers' Price Posting Requirements," explains which retailers are and which are not required to post and describes the rules governing accessibility and content of posted information and availability of non-posted prices. It can be obtained free by dropping a postcard to your IRS district office.

Q. I rented a brand new apartment on Nov. 1, 1971 for $200 per month on a month-to-month lease. The construction of the apartments was completed after Aug. 15, 1971. Now my landlord wants to increase rent to $250. Is this a violation of stabilization regulations?

A. Since the construction of the apartment was completed after Aug. 15, 1971 and the unit was offered for rent for the first time after that date, rent for that unit is exempt from controls and an increase does not violate stabilization regulations.

Q. My employer deposited agreed-upon wage increases held up by the freeze in an interest-bearing account until the question of retroactivity was decided by the Pay Board. Now that we're able to receive our retroactive pay, can we also receive the accrued interest on the wages?

A. Yes. Your employer may pay the accrued interest to his employees. The fund is similar to a "forced savings" program and interest in such a program accrues to and is payable to employees. In addition, the cost to the employer is not increased beyond the amount of the retroactive increase.

Q. Is there a booklet available that contains all the regulations issued under the stabilization program?

A. Yes. A new booklet, entitled "Title 6 - Economic Stabilization" of the code of Federal Regulations, is a handy reference for all aspects of the stabilization program. In addition to the regulations issued by the Cost of Living Council, the Pay Board and the Price Commission through Feb. 29, 1972, the volume contains implementing regulations and rulings of the Internal Revenue Service.

The booklet can be purchased for 75 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, the Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402, or from the Regional GPO Book Stores located in ten major cities throughout the country.

Q. Are deposits on soft drink bottles subject to the Economic Stabilization regulations?

A. No. Bottle deposits are not prices. They're amounts exacted to insure the safe return of property. If the property is returned, the full deposit is returned and there is no price paid.

Q. Does the term "allowable cost increase" mean cost increases for a particular product or for the company as a whole?

A. "Allowable cost increase" applies to a particular product or product line. Of course, increased indirect costs for the company as a whole are allocated to each product. The profit margin is the test for the company as a whole. The effect of a manufacturer's price changes must not be to increase its profit margin as a percentage of sales, before income taxes, over that which prevailed during the base period.

Q. Should employers prenotify the IRS before making payment of retroactive pay increases in excess of 7 percent for services rendered on or after Aug. 15, 1971 and before Nov. 14, 1971 (Sec. 201.13 (b) of the Economic Stabilization regulations)?

A. No. These prenotifications should be sent directly to the Pay Board. If the Pay Board does not act within 14 days of receiving the application, payment may be made.

Battle Rages In Belfast Monday

BELFAST (AP) — British troops killed two guerrilla snipers in an all-day battle in Belfast Monday, then fought for another two hours during the night. The death toll in Northern Ireland's 32 months of communal warfare rose to at least 308.

There was a possibility of more violence today at the funeral of Joseph McCann, the Irish Republican Army leader slain by British troops Saturday. His death triggered a weekend of IRA attacks; and three soldiers have been killed in reprisal.

During Monday's battle, hundreds of teen-agers hurled stones and gasoline bombs at the troops, trying to lure them out of their armored cars so guerrillas could pick them off. In addition to the two guerrillas killed, three soldiers, a 9-year-old boy playing in that area and three snipers were wounded.

The IRA gunmen poured a hail of machine gun and small arms fire at army positions and the troops replied with their high velocity rifles.

Paratroopers spreadeagled on the sidewalks kept up constant fire at the IRA men on rooftops. Women fled the area, many in tears or screaming. The army at one point commandeered a house and evacuated the occupants to give it a better line of fire.

Another shootout began after midnight when troops moved in to demolish a makeshift street barricade. The army said the troops came under fire from nearby apartment buildings and houses, and the soldiers returned the fire.

The army said four of the guerrillas were dragged from the scene, but it was not known if any were dead.

Two bombs shook Belfast during the evening. One destroyed a cafe in the center of the city, slightly wounding five persons. The other badly damaged a beauty parlor, severly injuring another civilian.

Youths also hurled three small gelignite bombs into a bus depot, wrecking one bus and damaging another.

In Londonderry, guerrillas planted a 500-pound gelignite bomb next to an army post. Everyone within a half a mile was evacuated while bomb disposal experts defused the bomb—the biggest ever planted in Ulster—and separated it into smaller, less lethal clusters. Had it gone off it would have damaged houses for a quarter of a mile around, the army said.

Wallace Relaxed, Confident

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace, relaxed and confident, says he will do well in next Tuesday's Pennsylvania primary even though he hasn't spent much time campaigning here.

Wallace told reporters he expected a good popular vote next week, and thought he would do even better if he had campaigned here more actively.

"I made 10 appearances in Wisconsin and came in second," he commented. "They're not going to throw a man like me out of the Democratic National convention. I represent too many people."

Wallace said he is making plans for a big rally here Saturday night after reversing his decision against campaigning in Pennsylvania.

"He did it because he was literally bombarded with appeals to come after we read that he had decided against campaigning in Pennsylvania," said Annabelle Reilly, who has been coordinating activities of Wallace supporters.

Among those scheduled to attend Wallace's rally Saturday night are members of a city antibusing group who say they'll march to the Arena en masse.

In Pittsburgh he told reporters he would like to think he'll be the winner after the Democratic convention but even if he isn't, the party platform "will sound like George Wallace wrote it."

Wallace sidestepped a question about the current bombing raids on North Vietnam, saying he was sticking to an earlier statement that he felt that the U.S. should not have gotten involved in a land war in Southeast Asia.

"Our remaining there now is only in the interest of Russia and Communist China," he said.

Accident Kills Lubbock Man

SANTA ROSA, Tex. (AP) — Truck driver Jerry Lee Wilson, 30, of Lubbock was killed Monday night when his heavy tractor-trailer, loaded with grain, ran off the road and burned.

Officers said Wilson was hurled from the vehicle as it upset in a ditch but landed too close to escape death in the flames. The accident happened on a curve at the intersection of Texas 107 and Farm Road 506 here in Cameron County.

Smokey Is Gone But Case Not

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) Smokey, a pooch with a bite worse than his bark, died Monday of old age still waiting for his day in the Supreme Court.

The 11-year-old Weimaraner's legal troubles started back in 1969 when he nipped a Hillsborough County garage employe on the chin.

The worker, Henry Wiggins, filed a complaint with the County Commisson, which has the authority to decree that vicious animals be executed. Wiggins maintained he had to undergo medical treatment and developed a rash and an itch.

Contending the bite was nothing more than an aggressive but playful show of affection, the dog's owner, Jim Fair, went before the commission on behalf of his pet.

"He never attacked anything unless he was protecting me, my home or his girl friend," Fair protested.

Prosecutor A. G. Spicola claimed the pooch was allowed to roam free without a leash or muzzle, thus violating quarantine laws, and had bitten eight other persons within two years.

Smokey went on trial for his life before the commission and won, then sued when he was ordered put on probation for life. Meanwhile, Wiggins file for damages in Circuit Court and was awarded $7,000. That judgment was upheld on appeal and Fair has taken it to the U.S. Supreme Court, where it is still pending.

In a brief ceremony eulogizing the gray short-haired dog, Fair marked his dirt grave with a empty shotgun shell in rememberance of their hunting days together.

"He was my sole companion for 10 years," Fair said. "We went through a lot together. Smokey's not still around, but his case is."

MOTOROLA DEALER — Hoyle Dean Strickland and his wife, Pauline, are owners and operators of Strickland's TV Service, 2413 College Avenue. The firm recently took over the Motorola dealership. They have several attractive models, both console and portable, in black and white and color. A graduate of Elkins Institute of Electronics of Dallas, Strickland also provides repair service and will answer home-service calls. Just dial 573-6942 for prompt service.

Motorola Featured At Strickland TV Service

Strickland's TV Service, 2413 College Avenue, has just taken over the dealership for Motorola.

Owned and operated by Hoyle Dean Strickland and his wife, Pauline, Strickland's TV Service recently moved into its new location at 2413 College Avenue.

The firm has 15 different models of Motorola television sets, including consoles and portables. They are available both in black and white and in color and the screen sizes range from 12-inch to 25-inch. Also available are Quasar televisions by Motorola.

"If we don't have the particular model in the store that you want, we can order it for you," Strickland pointed out. The store also carries Motorola radios and automobile stereos.

The consoles carry a one-year in-home service guarantee and a two-year guarantee on picture tube and all component parts. The portables have a 90-day, carry-in service guarantee plus a two-year guarantee on picture tube and a one year guarantee on other component parts.

Strickland's TV Service also has a complete service department for all makes and models.

A 1969 graduate of Elkins Institute of Electronics at Dallas, Hoyle Dean Strickland is well-trained and qualified to work on television sets. He also is a qualified radio repairman, and he can work on stereos. He will be glad to take a television set to your home for a free demonstration.

"We have an answering service and we make home calls for repairs," he said. Strickland has been in the television business since his graduation from the specialist school in Dallas.

Born and raised in Snyder, Strickland and his wife are parents of four children: Vicki 17, Sharon 12, Teresa 9, and Mark 7. The family resides at 319 Thirty-fifth Street and attends services at Avenue D Baptist Church.

Store hours are from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. six days a week.

Credit Cards Are In Trouble

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Credit cards will be extinct by 1980 unless drastic steps are taken to eliminate counterfeiting and fradulent use of the cards, an economist at the Stanford Research Institute predicts.

Ray Zablocki estimates that some credit card companies now lose up to half their gross profits because of theft and other abuses.

Zablocki said it is quite common for a person with a stolen credit card to run up a bill of $10,000 on a two week spending spree.

He added, however, that the biggest abusers are people who have been validly issued credit cards yet never pay up on them.

Hirohito Cancels Trip To Okinawa

TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito has canceled a trip to Okinawa on May 15 where ceremonies will be held marking the island's rturn to Japan by the United States.

Sources said the decision was linked to security fears.

Hirohito, 70, however, will attend a similar ceremony in Tokyo the same day.

The government recommended last December that Hirohito make the trip to Okinawa for a tree-planting ceremony marking the occasion. But sources said the government decided against the trip Monday after learning that many Okinawans are displeased with terms of the Okinawa reversion agreement.

High Winds Prevail In West Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stiff winds flailed much of West Texas again today while occasional showers fell before dawn in southern sections of the state and southeast breezes increased cloud cover and humidity elsewhere.

The shower activity, occurring south of Corpus Christi, in the upper part of the Lower Rio Grande Valley and around Laredo, played out in early morning but a few areas of fog lingered over the Upper Texas Coast.

Winds gusted up to 30 miles per hour at times in the vicinity of Abilene, Lubbock and El Paso.

It was the second straight day of stout breezes in parts of West Texas, where clouds of dust swirled high into the air Monday from Amarillo to Midland.

By evening a severe thunderstorm watch went up for a 100-mile-wide sector from near Fort Stockton to southeast of Del Rio as a line of menacing storms moved through Southwest Texas. Heavy rains fell briefly in that area and small hail peppered the countryside around Fort Stockton.

Top temperatures Monday afternoon climbed as high as 91 degrees at San Angelo and 92 at Wink in West Texas.

Readings early today ranged from 36 at Marfa in the West Texas mountains and 49 at Dalhart in the Texas Panhandle up to 75 at Corpus Christi on the Coastal Bend.

Torinos, Montegos Recalled

DETROIT (AP) — A defect which might allow rear wheels to fall off has forced Ford Motor Co. to recall 396,000 1972 Ford Torinos and Mercury Montegos for modification of their rear axle assemblies.

Monday's recall involved about 323,000 Torinos and nearly 73,000 Montegos, virtually the entire model run for both intermediate-sized cars.

Gordon H. Robertson, service engineering manager for Ford's Customer Service Division, said there have been reports of deteriorating rear axle bearings due to several factors.

He said that in extreme cases, the condition could cause the rear axle to become detached.

However, a Ford spokesman said the firm has only five reported cases where Torinos or Montegos lost rear wheels while driving.

No case of personal injury due to lost rear wheels have been confirmed, Ford reported, although one driver is claiming a whiplash injury.

Suit Filed On Sharp

HOUSTON (AP) — A suit has been filed against Frank Sharp and his Sharpstown Realty Co. to collect $849,075 of an acknowledged $28 million the realty company owes.

C.O. Beeler, a Houston contractor and former associate of Sharp, filed the suit Monday, saying an unsecured note was made by Sharp and the realty company in February of 1970 and became due six months later.

Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were brought against the realty company in October of 1971 by the Jesuit Fathers of Houston Inc., and the Beeler note was among the debts totaling $28 million the company admitted it owed.

Most of the debts were secured by stock in Sharpstown State Bank and National Bankers Life Insurance Co. or by parcels of the Sharpstown Shopping Center and Country Club.

The bank and insurance company both wound up in hands of government receivers in 1971 after Sharp and others were accused of stock manipulation in a civil suit filed by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

ON MRS. DOWDY RETAINING JOB

House Panel Decides Something 'Improper'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House ethics committee has decided that there is something "improper" in the fact that the wife of Rep. John Dowdy of Athens remains on her husband's congressional payroll while campaigning for Congress.

Mrs. Dowdy, seeking the seat her husband will vacate following his bribery conviction, is a secretary on Dowdy's staff with an annual salary of $22,600.

The committee said there is nothing illegal in Mrs. Dowdy retaining her job, but that it is improper. It added it will send a letter stating so to state Sen. Charles Wilson of Lufkin who is running against Mrs. Dowdy.

Wilson had filed the complaint originally with the ethics committee. He had also asked the committee to look into the full-time campaigning of Dowdy's press aide, Gerald Yoes, for Mrs. Dowdy.

In its draft reply now being circulated to committee members, the committee told Wilson there was nothing wrong with Yoes remaining on Dowdy's payroll and campaigning for Mrs. Dowdy—on his own time.

Dowdy contends that Yoes is taking vacation for his work in Texas.

The committee, however, noted that this policy extends only to a person "working on behalf of a candidacy other than himself."

It added: "the committee feels that when a congressional employe is actively campaigning on his own behalf the he or she would be removed from the clerk-hire roles and confine his activities to the campaign."

Two other complaints by Wilson likewise were weighed by the committee.

Wilson had said that Dowdy was mailing his newsletter outside the congressman's present district into areas to be embraced by the new district which Dowdy's successor will represent—a practice he described as irregular if not illegal because Dowdy is not seeking re-election in the altered district.

The committee said postal service regulations do not prohibit this and a congressman technically can send information anywhere in the state.

"This is not to say that the committee views this to be in the spirit of the law," the draft letters adds.

Another complaint by Wilson's was that Dowdy was mailing his wife's campaign literature under his free-postage congressional frank.

Wilson included an affidavit from a Madisonville, Tex., man who said he received Dowdy's newsletter and Mrs. Dowdy's election brochure in the same envelope.

Dowdy had denied that could have occurred. He said his newsletter was sealed here in Washington and his wife's material was sent separately from the Lufkin post office to individual addresses.

The committee tended to side with Dowdy on this matter, saying that no other instances had come to light and that the man making the complaint received Mrs. Dowdy's brochure with his specific box number on it, which would have been improbable had it come with the congressman's mailing address to "Postal Patrons, 2nd Congressional District."

The committee has not disposed of a request from two California congressmen that it investigate the possibility of recommending House action to strip Dowdy of committee and floor voting privileges.

Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex., a committee member who testified at Dowdy's trial as a character witness, has said that the committee is furstrated and divided on what action to take against Dowdy. He has said if Dowdy fired his wife, it might relieve the pressure on the committee to censure him.

Smith On TV Wednesday

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) Gov. Preston Smith will use an 18-station Smith will use an 18-station television network Wednesday to discuss the coming special legislative session on the 1973 budget and also to talk about "related matters."

Broadcast times for the 30-minute show will be announced today, Smith said Monday.

"My recommendations in the telecast will have an important bearing on state government and will vitally affect every individual in this state," Smith said.

An aide said Smith was leaning toward no-new-taxes budget.

Estimates of new taxes needed to maintain state programs at their current level have ranged around $150 million.

Smith vetoed the appropriations bill for fiscal 1973, which begins on September. 1, 1972. That made a special session necessary.

Smith Trying To Build Union Insurance Co.

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Warren J. Smith has been trying for nine months to build an insurance company—a union-backed project designed to ultimately cut protection costs on automobiles owned by 600,000 Ohio workers.

Smith's company is Unity of Ohio, brainchild of the AFL-CIO of Ohio. The idea is that Unity will grow large enough to make other insurance firms lower their rates.

But Smith, president of Unity and secretary-treasurer of the Ohio AFL-CIO, says his company may not get off the ground unless other union leaders get into the sales act and help raise $5 million before the first policy is issued.

At the AFL-CIO convention in June, Smith says he plans to put this proposition to local union leaders: Do you want to sell insurance shares or do you want to give up the idea?

He has made just two sales pitches, both in the AFL-CIO publication "Focus." From the response, more than 7,000 certificates of share ownership have been issued.

Only union members may buy shares. Only those members affiliated with the Ohio AFL-CIO may buy the insurance—if the company actually issues policies.

Smith said automobile workers are big buyers. "We tell them that if they are buying in hopes of getting the insurance they're wrong, but they keep on buying as an investment."

Since last August, Smith said, Unity shares valued at $2.1 million have been sold, more than enough under state law to begin business. But, AFL-CIO wants to be fully funded before issuing the first policy. That means $5 million.

Unity's charter forbids any sales commission, so all stock sales have been by mail.

Smith anticipates that by doing away with sales commissions Unity can shave 10 per cent off the going premium rate in Ohio.

"Ten per cent of our members," he said in predicting success once the $5 million is raised, "would switch coverage, even if we didn't save them a dime."

The AFL-CIO waged a bitter struggle with the industry and with the Ohio Department of Insurance over rates and cancellations before deciding to try to found its own firm.

Smith said Unity planned to pass along in lower premiums to policy-holders profits such as interest earned on capital surplus, unearned premium and loss reserve funds.

Ed McMahon Leaves Wife

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed McMahon, the television personality and Johnny Carson's sidekick on NBC's "Tonight" show, has left his wife of 27 years.

A spokesman for Mrs. McMahon on Monday described her as "devastated" and the couple's four children as "very hurt."

The spokesman said McMahon has decided to live alone in California when Carson moves his late night talk show from New York to Burbank next month.

Sources close to the family said McMahon had told his wife Alyce that he was "trapped by success" and, as a result, was never at home anyway.

The spokesman said McMahon has hired a lawyer to arrange a separation but Mr. McMahon hadn't sought legal counsel yet. McMahon had no comment.

Nixon To Meet Peking Team

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon meets Communist China's peerless table tennis team at the White House today in the highlight of a 14-day "ice-breaker mission" a year after the American team visited Peking.

The meeting in the White House Rose Garden reciprocates Premier Chou En-lai's welcome to the Americans in Peking's Forbidden City last year. Officials here consider it another step in careful efforts by both countries to warm up their relations.

Tricia Nixon Cox, the President's elder daughter, accompanied by Secretary of State and Mrs. William P. Rogers, turned out at the nearby University of Maryland Cole Field House Monday night to see the Chinese defeat the American table tennis team by a lopsided 10 matches to 2.

But the Chinese delegation leader, Chuang Tse-tung, said: "Victory and defeat are temporary, but friendships are permanent. What we are trying to do is to develop friendship, although we will compete our hardest."

University of Michigan Prof. Alexander Eckstein, head of the National Committee on U.S.-China Relations which is cosponsoring the Chinese team here, predicted that if the exhibition tour of the Chinese team "continues to go as well as it has thus far, it will be extremely significant. This is an ice-breaker mission for them.

"The Chinese did not know how they would be received, and they are finding that they are being received very warmly."

The exhibition matches, however, were played against the backdrop of chanting demonstrators.

There were antiwar hecklers who booed Rogers and taunted Tricia by singing "Tricia watches ping pong while her father bombs Haiphong." They unfurled a large Viet Cong flag while they sang.

Another group erupted with shouts of "Down with Mao," raised Nationalist Chinese flags and called upon the Chinese players to defect.
