Conditions In Many Towns Of Pennsylvania Described By Woman; Policy Of Using The C Of C Is Flayed

By SAM BLEDSOE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. — The labor program of the recovery administration was called a "grisly farce" today by Mrs. Gifford Pinchot in a renewal of the charges pelted down upon NRA.

Other witnesses had said the same thing in a milder fashion but the red-haired wife of the Pennslyvania governor caused the somewhat sparse attendance at the forum on labor complaints to sit up with her vigorous assertion that defiance of "Weir, Budd and others has been taken by the lesser fry as a signal that they could cheat and chisel without being called to account."

Refers To Leaders

Mrs. Pinchot was referring apparently to Ernest T. Weir, president of National Steel, and head of the E. G. Budd manufacturing company of Philadelphia. Both concerns have been charged with preventing their workers from joining unions of their own choosing.

So effective was Mrs. Pinchot's presentation that Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor and aide to Hugh S. Johnson, the NRA administartor, broke in, not to halt the recital but to cheer it.

Others Give Views

At the same time, other witnesses at other meetings were telling what they thought was wrong with NRA as a prelude to the meeting next week to begin the task of correcting mistakes made by the recovery unit.

Among the protests were assertions that small business was being oppressed; that price-fixing provisions in codes were an evil; that code enforcement was not what it should be.

Johnson has put forward his own 12-point program for the reform of the recovery organization but Mrs. Pinchot, who has freqeuntly done picket duty along strikers' lines, said his program did not go far enough.

Raps C. Of C.

She said in many Pennsylvania towns chambers of commerce were given the task of organizing compliance boards for codes.

"One might as well put the guarding of sheep into the hands of a committee of wolves," she snapped.

Mrs. Pinchot assailed Johnson's program for its silence regarding section 7-A, the proviso which gives

Texas' Quota On CWA To Be Cut

AUSTIN, Feb. 28. (AP) — Texas' quota of CWA employes will be reduced weekly during March and eliminated entirely May 1, the Texas relief commission today was advised by Harry L. Hopkins, federal administrator.

A maximum of 100,000 men will be employed by the CWA in Texas on March 9, Hopkins advised the commision, after which the rolls will be reduced to 85,000 men March 16, 70,000 men March 23, and 55,000 men March 30.

On February 23, CWA projects furnished employment to 151,000 men in Texas.

The reductions were not applied to federal and emergency education projects.

New Empire Is Created As Pu-Yi Claims Throne

Broker Is Slain

Gerald W. Peck (above), Chicago financier, was shot and killed by a disgruntled farmer, Tom Halloman, sr., at a meeting in Seguin of the board of the Texas Hydro-Electric company, of which Peck was president. Halloman had quarreled with the concern over payment of damages for the flooding of some of his land as a result of construction of a dam.

Aged Traditions Are Selected By Young Emperor Himself

HSINKING (Changchun), Manchukuo, March 1. —(Thursday) —A new empire was ceremonially created today in the ancient domain of the Manchus with the enthronement of young Henry Pu-Yi, the last of his dynastic clan.

Clad in gorgeous ceremonial robes of silks in ancient pattern, he left the imperial palace at 8 a. m., beginning ceremonies which made him Emperor Kang Teh of the Japanese-advised Manchurian empire, which henceforth will be known as "Ta Manchou Ti Kuo."

Wife Becomes Queen

The emperor's wife Yueh Hua did not participate in the ceremonies owing to delicate health, but the installation of her 28-year old imperial consort as ruler of the world's newest empire automatically raised her to the dignity of queenhood.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the ceremonies had been completed and the booming of 101 guns proclaimed to the assembled multitudes in the capital the establishment of a new regime.

As an infant of less than three years, Pu-Yi was called from his toys to sit upon the gorgeous dragon throne of the celestial empire at Peiping, only to be evicted from it three years later when China became a republic.

Ruler Of 30,000,000

Today he becomes ruler of 30,000,000 people under the military protection of Japan with a salary and a civil list of approximately $1,750,000 a year.

The young emperor himself chose the rituals, combining centuries-old traditions of the Chou Dynasty of China with modern practices in which American automobiles, American movie operators, Japanese airplanes and broadcasts figured conspicuously.

The ceremony was in two portions. As Pu-Yi left the palace for the newly constructed altar of heaven, where the religiuos rites were held, even the weather seemed to moderate in favor of the auspicious occasion. A bright sun had dissipated the last vestiges of snow in the city.

Soldiers On Guard

Unbroken lines of soldiery, watchful lest an attempt be made upon Pu-Yi's life, gave the capital an aspect of a besieged city. Besides the soldiers, hardly a mortal was visible in the main streets. All houses were closely guarded. American newspaper correspondents, attired perforce in full dress with silk hats

Show Leaders Are Selected

Jim Frank Potts Is Chosen As Manager Of Annual Engineering Display To Be Held On April 13 And 14

Officers of Texas Technological college's annual engineering show, to be conducted April 13 and 14 during a district Interscholastic League meet here, were announced yesterday.

Jim Frank Potts of Lubbock will be manager and Fred Fairly, also of Lubbock, his assistant. Chick McElya, Lubbock, is publicity director.

Directors Chosen

Departmental directors will be:

Al Simmons, architectural engineering, Santa Anna; Ray Watts, civil engineering, San Antonio; Narl Davidson, electrical engineering, Portales, N. M.; Henry Godeke, mechanical engineering, Lubbock; William Wilder, textile engineering, Pampa; Houston Hinson, geological engineering, Lubbock; Arledge Stokes, chemical engineering, Abilene; Eugene Watkins, engineering drawing and graphics, Santa Anna.

Plan Special Showing

A special showing will be made during a meeting of the Southwestern Division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science here during May.

A total of about 5,700 persons attended the show during 1933, and the student management anticipated a larger attendance this year.

France's New Program For More Strength Is Underway

PARIS, Feb. 28. (AP)—France's new program to strengthen its land, air and sea forces gathered momentum today with a proposal for construction of a new "man of war" of 26,000 tons, an answer to Germany's 10,000 ton "pocket" battleships.

This government-sponsored plan was placed before the navy committee of the chamber of deputies, along with proposals for two additional submarines and a torpedo destroyer.

Banquet Held At Levelland

Three Lubbock Men Principal Speakers At Annual Affair; Four New Directors Chosen; 175 In Attendance

(By Staff Correspondent)

LEVELLAND, Feb. 28. — M. E. Heard, textile engineering department, Texas Technological college; Homer L. Pharr, judge of 72nd court, and Garnet Reeves, publicity manager, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce were principal speakers here tonight when 175 Levelland and Hockley county people gathered for the annual Levelland Chamber of Commerce banquet.

C. H. Elders, secretary of the organization reported on activities during 1933 and sketched the program of work laid out for 1934.

Directors Are Chosen

Four new directors were elected for the new year: Carl Ratliff, Randel Alexander, Everett Webb, and Gene Birdwell.

J. H. Jones, was toastmaster at the banquet held in the basement of the First Methodist church and served in first class fashion by members of the high school home economics department.

The invocation was given by Rev. Chas. Fike, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Miss Margarette Rose Adams gave a reading. A brass quartet was played by John Paul Godwin, O. C. Leddy, Hames Wyatt, Douglas Fry, members of the Levelland high school band.

Music Furnished

Music was furnished at intervals by the Shannon stringed orchestra.

Impromptu talks were made by county agent W. T. Magee, home

Final Changes Considered To Aid The Needy

Mass Treatment Of All Types Of Relief To Be Abandoned By Government; Specialized Efforts Are Planned

To Replace CWA

Hope For Millions Whose Jobs Have Disappeared Now Held; Impoverished Farmer To Be Included In Program

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. — A broadly drawn plan to meet the immediate emergencies of unemployment relief was laid down today by President Roosevelt in a statement regarded as providing a pattern by which a permanent change in one portion of the nation's economic life might be effected.

The president said the relief plans were drawn to meet the situation arising from demobilizing the civil works administration and to reshape the present formula in accordance with the results of nine months of relief experimentation which had shown that "the unemployment problem must be faced on more than one front."

Specialized Treatment

The broadly drawn plan, yet to be worked out in detail, calls for aid to distressed families in rural areas, aid to the "stranded populations" whose jobs permanently moved away or died, and aid to the cities' unemployed. Mass treatment of all types of relief is to be abandoned for specialized treatment in each field.

A part of the $950,000,000 that congress recently appropriated for relief was expected to go to the subsistence farming program, directly "nking the latter agency with the activities of the relief administration.

Shelter Ten Million

Back of this move is an administration theory for creating a niche in the economic wall sufficient to shelter something like ten million persons whose unemployment some officials say promises to become permanent under the existing industrial system. The administration holds that the long range problem of these ten million is part of the immediate relief question and should be so considered.

Generally, the plan is for the relief administration to furnish the

Slaying Suspect Nabbed In Raid

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28. (AP)—Ed Davis, wanted by federal authorities in connection with the slaying of five men last June 17 at the Kansas City union railway station, was arrested here today by detectives during a raid. He was wounded slightly in a struggle with Detective Lieutenant E. E. Slope.

Ed Davis

Davis, who first gave his name as Clifton F. Joe, was arrested with two other men and two women in a raid on an apartment. He was wounded in the arm when during the struggle with Slope, the officer's revolver was discharged accidentally.

The raid on the apartment, Slope said, followed information from "underworld sources" that the place was the headquarters of a "high powered mob." Arrested with Davis were men giving their names as William Morris, 43, and John Richards, 28, and the two women, Nellie Morris and Ruth Spurgeon, both 24.

Texas Tech's Expedition Into Yaqui Domain Gets Under Way Early Today

Generous Lubbock Is Behind Undertaking In Material Way

LUBBOCK business firms, civic clubs and individuals interested in Texas Tech's expedition into the Yaqui Indian country of Sonora, Mexico, have rallied to the aid of the party in typical 'Hub of the Plains' fashion.

Slender finances raised by party members and much of which have been spent in making arrangements and contracts for the expedition leaving today, have been augmented by many a donation—with more to come.

Holden Offers Thanks

Doctor William Curry Holden, the expedition's leader, told The Morning Avalanche last night that both the college and himself appreciate what has been done. Further, he furnished a list of his patrons for publication.

Davis and Humphries Wholesale Grocery company, operated by J. M. Davis, W. E. Humphries and Olen Stewart, in co-operation with national manufacturers, literally loaded the truck with food supplies, Doctor Holden said. Operators of Piggly-Wiggly stores, they not only donated all the food asked for but piled on more for good measure.

Among the items donated for the party of seven for a six weeks period, were:

Well Known Brands Used

Del Maiz corn, Carnation milk, Libby's spinach, deluxe peaches, apricots, pears, tomato juice, pineapple and mustard; Old Manse jelly, preserves and maple syrup; Skinner's raisin bran and macaroni; Cream O'Wheat, C. and H. sugar, Morton's free running salt, Folger's coffee, Hershey's cocoa, almond and milk candy bars; Gold Medal flour and meel; Snowdrift, Lipton's tea Calumet ...ing powder, Brookfield butter, Brown Saltine flakes, Shilling's spices, Comet rice, Post Toasties and Post bran.

Propeller Goes To Pieces And Flier Crashes To Death

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP) — Captain Wendell H. Brookley, air corps, was killed and Captain Merrick G. Estabrook, Jr., was injured when their plane crashed south of Bolling Field late today.

Both officers were attached to the office of Major General Benjamin Foulois, chief of the air corps, and were making a routine training flight.

They were flying low when suddenly the airplane's propeller went to pieces and the plane crashed to the ground.

Local Man Killed In Car Crash

One Lubbock man was killed instantly and two others were injured, one seriously, in an automobile wreck five miles west of Sweetwater about 12 o'clock last night, according to a report received here shortly after 2 a. m.

J. M. Marshall, 1208 Avenue U, was dead and J. E. Vickers, living five miles north of town, and a Mr. Watson, local gin man, were injured.

Dr. C. A. Rosebrough, of Sweetwater sanitarium, in a telephone conversation with the Morning Avalanche, gave meager details of the accident. Dr. Rosebrough stated that Vickers suffered a dislocated shoulder while Watson suffered a large scalp wound, abrasions and possible concussion of the brain.

Mr. Marshall, who had resided in Lubbock about ten years, was an attorney and formerly was a partner with Hill Stewart friends here stated this morning. The body was held at Gates Undertaking parlors at Sweetwater.

According to Dr. Rosebrough, the car, owned by Marshall, failed to make a curve after going through an underpass on the Sweetwater-Roscoe highway. Rain, obscuring vision of the driver, was believed to have been responsible.

First Ballots Against Beer

Two Out Of Three Persons To Mark Absentee Ballots Here Declare They Are Opposed To Brew In Lubbock

Two out of three persons marking absentee ballots in the county clerk's office declared they were voting against legalization of beer in Lubbock county, Deputy Clerk Louie Moore said last night.

The ballots, sealed by the voter, will not be opened until Saturday by election judges, but Moore explained nearly all 25 persons marking absentee tickets before the deadline last night indicated how they were voting.

One Man Emphatic

"I don't think Lubbock county ought to legalize beer and I don't care who knows I vote against beer," one man said while he voted Wednesday afternoon.

If the number of absentee ballots is indicative of interest in Saturday's election, the total vote will be small. In other elections, the preelection voting generally foretells whether many people will go to the polls.

Boxes for each of the 33 election precincts in the county have been prepared for the judges. County Clerk Ed D. Allen said. Judges may procure the boxes at Mr. Allen's office.

A 72nd district court grand jury, instructed by Judge Homer L. Pharr to investigate purported sales of beer here, adjourned after commissioners court called the beer election. The grand jurors will meet again March 12, and if Lubbock county for the second time opposes 3.2 per cent brew, the jurors probably will resume their beer investigation.

One South Plains county, Cochran, Tuesday turned "thumbs down" on 3.2 per cent beer sales. Drys won by a majority of 60-odd votes, election officials said.

Defense In Dean Trial Is Closed; Story Is Related

GREENWOOD, Miss., Feb. 28. (AP) —Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean today told her murder trial jury that she "unfortunately loved two men."

She chose to marry one, she said, and the other died soon afterward of a strange ten-day illness.

And that, the handsome 36-year old woman physician told the jury, was all she knew about the death of Dr. John Preston Kennedy, Greenwood surgeon, whom she is charged with murdering with a poisoned whisky highball. The defense rested its case on her testimony.

Mrs. J. T. May Dies In City

Funeral Services For Woman Who Had Lived In Section Since 1905 Will Be Held At 3 O'Clock Today

Mrs. J. T. May, who had lived in this section since 1905, died on her 78th birthday yesterday afternoon at the home of a daughter, Mrs. W. W. Royalty, 1635 Nineteenth street.

Funeral services will be conducted in First Methodist Episcopal church at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Burial, directed by Stahler Funeral home, will be in Lubbock cemetery.

Born In Arkansas

Mrs. May, whose maiden name was Tina Manley, was born in Clarksville, Ark., in 1856. She was married 56 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. May and their family moved to the Plains in 1905, settling north of

Indian Charm To Be Carried Along By Party's Leader

TEXAS TECH'S expedition into the Yaqui country of lower Sonora will get under way this morning at 8:30 o'clock — rain or shine.

Last night's precipitation did not dampen the spirits of members of the party. Instead, it prepared to send them away happier than they've been for a long time because once again it has been proven that it can rain—if only a little bit—on the South Plains.

A Rabbit's Foot

Dr. William Curry Holden, Tech archeologist and leader of the party, will bear with him a beaded rabbit's foot made in the Yaqui country and used by Mrs. R. L. Slaughter, jr., of Lubbock, when she made her way from being kidnaped by the Indians in 1927. The Yaquis took Mrs. Slaughter from her husband's Sonora ranch and held her for payment of a ransom of 34 horses, three dozen pairs of trousers and three dozen jumpers which Mr. Slaughter had to order from El Paso.

Mrs. Slaughter who was held less than 24 hours by the Indians, gave the rabbit's foot to Doctor Holden last night and said that although the Indians treated her well "that rabbit's foot saved me one time Take it. It may help your party."

The Slaughter ranch is located where renegade Yaquis often pass on their raiding parties.

Two Cars Leave

The heavily loaded truck, bearing supplies of the expedition—Tech's first major scientific effort — was packed early this morning with all manner of supplies. It is in charge of W. G. McMillan and Bennie McWilliams. Other members of the party, made up of Doctor Holden,

Word From National Chiefs Awaited On Railway Strike

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 28. (AP) — Word from the national chiefs of the big four railroad brotherhoods was awaited here tonight on whether to call off a strike of trainmen of the Kansas City Southern railway ordered for 6 p. m. tomorrow.

Charles E. Johnston, president of the road, opened the way for averting a walkout by agreeing in Washington late today to postpone until April 1 the new plan of wage payments and working rules which he had ordered into effect tomorrow.

Prisoner Here Gets 12 Years

T. A. Young Convicted Of Burglary Under Habitual Criminal Act; Nelson Trial Is Scheduled Today

Convicted of burglary under the habitual criminal law, T. A. Young was sentenced to 12 years in the state penitentiary by a 72nd district court jury yesterday afternoon.

The offense, the jury held, was the second burglary Young had committed. Automatically, he drew the maximum penalty for burglary. J. H. Dumas, tried for theft recently in 72nd district court, received a life sentence under the habitual criminal act, the jury finding it was Dumas' third offense.

Andrew H. Nelson, charged with automobile theft and with burglary, is to be tried in 72nd district court today before Judge Homer L. Pharr. District Attorney Daniel A. Blair and Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney, will conduct the prosecution.

Varying Fall Reported For Wide Section

First Moisture To Visit The Lubbock Area Since Fall Is Seen; Reports Are Received From Other Towns

Thought Spreading

Light Sprinkle Starts Here Early Last Night; Additional Precipitation Promised West Texas Today

SLOW, soaking rains were falling over much of the South Plains last night. Rainfall was believed to be spreading to the remainder of the section.

Farmers and merchants, professional men and laborers all hoped that drouth conditions, which had prevailed since last fall, had ended.

Begins Here Early

A light sprinkle began in Lubbock about 7:30 p. m., and by 9:30 o'clock a good shower was falling. Rain stopped here shortly after 10:30 o'clock.

Reports to the Morning Avalanche indicated that similar showers were falling in an area bounded by Post, Lamesa, Seagraves, Brownfield, Levelland, Plainview, Floydada, Crosbyton.

Heavy Clouds Reported

Heavy clouds were reported at Olton, Littlefield, Morton. Fine mist was reported at Muleshoe, Plains, and Spur.

At least a quarter inch of rain had fallen in Tahoka at 10:30 o'clock, and the rain continued at that time. A shower fell at Meadow, continuing late in the night. Rain started at Slaton about 9 o'clock. A good shower was reported. Ralls had a shower.

South To San Angelo

Rain, similar to that in Lubbock, was reported by the Santa Fe railway south to San Angelo.

A bus driver reported rain from Brownfield to Lubbock, with dirt roads slippery.

Local rains were forecast for West Texas today.

The mercury at Municipal airport at 10 o'clock last night was a half degree below freezing. Minimum of 24 degrees was registered at 7 a.m., and the maximum, 38 degrees, at 5:20 p. m.

Surgeon Admits Altering Of Records In Case Of Officer

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 28. (AP)—Major Clyde C. Johnston, senior flight surgeon at Fort Sam Houston, told a military court trying Major William C. Ocker, veteran army pilot, on charges of derogatory remarks to a superior officer, today that he had altered Ocker's physical records, which removed him from "flying status."

Under defense questioning designed to show that certain officers had discriminated against Ocker, Major Johnston admitted changing the report but said he acted in the presence of another officer and because he thought the ratings were too high.

Weather Report

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy to cloudy, light local rains Thursday; Friday partly cloudy.

OKLAHOMA: Partly cloudy, warmer Thursday; Friday partly cloudy.

EAST TEXAS: Cloudy, occasional rains, warmer Thursday; Friday partly cloudy, occasional rains in east portion. Light to fresh easterly to southerly winds on the coast.

NEW MEXICO: Occasional rain or snow Thursday; somewhat warmer; Friday probably fair.

Tools For Escape Are Uncovered As Lubbock Officers Search Jail Cell

A PIECE of iron from a cell bunk, a safety razor blade fastened in a tin handle were found this week in a cell occupied by W. E. (Bill) Doupe, Ed. (Perchmouth) Stanton and other prisoners, Sheriff Tom Abel said yesterday.

The sheriff said three saw blades and a "long knife" were taken from the same cell about 10 days ago.

Doupe faces trial Monday for robbery in the hijacking in which Robert Tharp was killed in Oct., 1932. Stanton is under death sentence for murder in Swisher county.

A large hole had been punched in the ceiling of the third floor of the jail, presumably with the piece of iron taken from the bunk, the sheriff said. The hole had been concealed by paper. The iron had been suspended by a string in the drain pipe of the cell shower bath. The razor blade was described as a dangerous weapon.

Cells, "shaken down" at least every two or three weeks, frequently yield prohibited instruments, the sheriff said.

Mother-In-Law's Day Has Struck The Fancy Of Nation; Response Is Great

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Feb. 28. — Mother-in-law's day has struck the fancy of a nation.

So great has been the response that Mrs. N. S. Griggs, president of the mother-in-law's day club of Texas, which will hold its first observance March 5, today called on the press to help her answer the thousands of queries which she is receiving from "everywhere."

The most frequently asked questions are "How can we participate in the observance, and why did you exclude mothers of married sons?"

To the first question, Mrs. Griggs replied: "It is the hope of our club that every community in the United States will set aside March 5 as a day of appreciation of mothers-in-law. Put on a program for them, or as an individual write, wire or phone your mother-in-law, send her some flowers, take her to dinner, or a show, or just go to visit her.

"Our club has no dues, and every mother-in-law is eligible.

Timmie's Missing And Owner Doesn't Know Whether To Cry Or Just "Cuss"

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 28. — "Timmie," blue ribbon "dognaping" victim, was still missing tonight and his owner, Louis Rudginsky, Boston tire merchant, fidgeted about his hotel room awaiting for a call from Timmie's abductors.

"I don't know what I'll do," said Rudginsky, who was midway between tears and profanity.

Last night a friend received a call demanding $500 ransom for the dog, a 13-pound purebred which had won three dog shows recently. Earlier someone called Rudginsky with the same demand.

"The darn little dog," Rudginsky said as he wandered around a hotel room. "He wasn't worth five cents unless you like dogs, you know? I wouldn't take $10,000 for him, if I had $10,000.

"All the dogs in the world aren't worth what he's taking out of me."

Tonight Timmie's owner was losing hope, patience and his appetite. He waited in his hotel room all day for further word from the dog snatchers.

A couple of detectives stood around Rudginsky's room, ready to dive into the case should the dognapers call or write.

TWENTY-ONE birthdays in ninety years. That is A. B. Mason's record. He was in Wednesday to state that he would be having a birthday about this time if February had 29 days. As it is, he just announces that he is now ninety years of age and no one is quite sure just when the anniversary occurs.

Mr. Mason is going to vote dry in this coming election. His mother, so he says, influenced him to become a dry years ago and he has remained one since.

Mr. Mason, who is one of the regular callers at this desk, is a living example of the theory that age does not mean that one loses interest in what is happening, for he keeps up with municipal, state and national affairs as the rest of us and is just as interested.

You know, I think we have reason to envy those who are older than we. They have more experience and must be able to look at things and judge them better in this light. What is a thing entirely new to us may be something that was a problem to them a generation or so ago.

EXTRA PUBLICATIONS

THE wise use of our money is something of which we hear considerable. It appears that one wise use of much of it would be to discontinue the publication of several hundred lodge and other organization publications.

Much of the mail that comes into this office and is not wanted goes into the wastebasket near this desk. During the years it has not been difficult to observe that many fraternity and other organization publications land regularly, unopened, in the wastebasket. Or, if they are opened, they are thrown in the wastebasket just the same.

The chances are that you have several lodge or club papers coming to your house regularly that are never read. Yet, these magazines or papers cost money. There is the paper that is used. Ink and other printing materials are employed and some one is usually paid to do the editing.

These things create employment but it doesn't appear to be very wise use of money and time.

There is something to be said for organization publications but I don't believe that very many are widely read. Even ex-student publications lose interest after a few years. Some time after you quit college you discover that you don't know one person in a hundred who is mentioned in the alumni news. It is a natural thing if your alma mater has been an institution of any size at all. For the several hundred graduates each year, not to consider the students who attend and do not gradaute, soon count into the thousands. And most ex-student publications are devoted to the activities of certain cliques or prominent ex-students.

These publications have their good points. But there are, so it seems to me, an awful lot who do no more than clutter up the mails and the wastebaskets of the nation.

But the little girl she used to be

With nothing glamorous hovering near
Save the glint of a woman's frozen tear."

Five Needle Clubs Are Entertained Wednesday Afternoon

Club Election Features Meet

Lucky 13 Needle Club Elects Officers; St. Patrick Motif Is Chosen By One Hostess; Visitors Attend

Five needle societies were entertained Wednesday afternoon. An annual election of officers featured a meeting of the Lucky 13 club. Others that met were the Wednesday Needle, N. R. A., Loyal Sisters, Lucky 13, and 1916 Needle clubs.

Mrs. Sidney Oglesbee, 1903 Seventeenth street, was hostess to the Lucky 13 club. Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Burton S. Burks; vice-president, Mrs. A. K. O'Kelley; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Joe Telford; reporter, Mrs. Allan Hill.

Other guests were Mesdames Robert L. Stewart, R. O. Short and E. F. Alford.

In Atkins Home

Loyal Sisters Needle club members were the guests of Mrs. D. A. Atkins in her home north of town. Mrs. Atkins used the St. Patrick's day motif in appointments.

Guests were Mesdames H. W. Cherry, E. F. Huff, D. A. Davis, John Hall, W. T. Trice, N. A. Payne, J. G. Oslin, Ralph Moore, C. A. Faulger and J. A. Hodges.

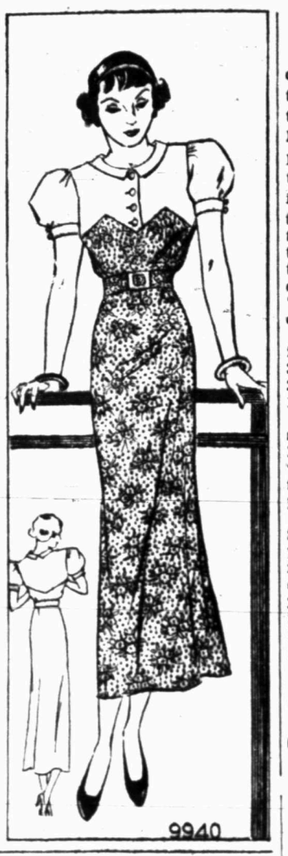

Mrs. James Kimmell, 1308 Avenue L, was hostess to the 1916 Needle club in her home.

Members of the Wednesday Needle club were the guests of Mesdames S. C. Wilson and A. W. McKee in Mrs. Wilson's home, 1615 Tenth street.

Those present were Mesdames M. B. Hilburn, Frank Maddox, T. W. Thomas, Gus L. Ford, Fred C. Litton, Robert Allen, T. B. Duggan, W. D. Rushing, L. C. Ellis, W. A. Jackson.

The NRA Needle club met with Mrs. M. B. Cranford, 2012 Fifteenth street. Guests were Mesdames Bill Whittaker, T. S. Cranford, Everett Price, F. W. Martin, Misses Louise Blake, Jennye Mae Whittaker, Flora McClellan.

Young girls look particularly charming in the new Spring frocks that emphasize high necklines and tiny puffed sleeves. This one is lovely when made of a flowered print of an all-over design, and topped with a monotone yoke, as in the picture. Buttons may match the print or the color of the blouse-top. You can use the same pattern, too, to make a dress all of the same material, either in print or plain color silk, cotton or linen. This model is especially easy to cut and put together.

Pattern 9940 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 2 1-2 yards 36-inch fabric and 1 1-4 yards contrasting.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

Order your copy of the new Marian Martin spring pattern book—a practical Spring sewing guide, offering stunning models for all occasions for grown-ups, juniors and youngsters, and for the woman who needs slenderizing lines. Price of new book, fifteen cents, book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Send your order to The Morning Avalanche Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

Whose Fault?

If a Child Won't Play with Others?
Parents who understand children know where to place the blame when a youngster mopes, keeps to himself, or is "ugly" toward others. Sluggishness ruins any disposition, and that's what is usually wrong. But it's just as wrong to dose that child with sickening cathartics. Until 15—or older—a child's bowels need but little aid—a very mild form of help. Stronger things often upset the stomach or weaken the bowel muscles. For the happy solution of this problem see what to do, in the next column:
There are happy, healthy boys and girls who have never known the bitter taste and violent action of castor oil—or similar cathartics. The only "medicine" they ever get—or ever need—to help the bowels is plain California Syrup of Figs. The senna in this fruity syrup has the natural laxative action that assists Nature as it should. Next day, the child feels and acts himself, and has a normal appetite. But use the real California Syrup of Figs, with the word "California" on the label and on the bottle.

Natural gas is worth $3 per 1000 cubic feet for refrigeration, $2.50 for cooking and $1.25 for water heating—compared to the cost of performing these services with the next least expensive form of fuel. The difference between these values and price of gas represents a 75-percent saving on refrigeration, 70-percent saving on cooking fuel and a 40-percent saving on the fuel cost for water heating. # New System To Be Opened

Radio Stations Get Benefit Of Carefully Selected News Of Day; Newspapers Are To Be Protected

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (AP)—A new system of news broadcasting, designed to give radio stations the benefit of a carefully selected and edited resume of the events of the day and at the same time to protect newspapers from unauthorized use of their news, will go into effect throughout the United States tomorrow.

The plan, worked out by publishers, representatives of press associations and of broadcasting organizations, calls for two five-minute news broadcasts, not earlier than 9:30 a. m. and 9 p. m., standard time in the city in which the broadcasting station is located. Each broadcast will be for a period of five minutes and will consist of the cream of the news gathered by the Associated Press, The United Press and the International News Service, the three largest press associations.

All Are Eligible

Every broadcasting station in the country is eligible to participate in the dissemination of the news report under the plan worked out by the press-radio bureau of the publishers' national radio committee. This bureau, with headquarters in New York and with James W. Barrett, experienced newspaperman, in charge, was organized by the publishers, broadcasters and press associations.

To the bureau and to the broadcasting of news each of the three elements is making a contribution. Each of the three press associations gives a copy of its report; the publishers consent to the broadcasting of news which belongs to them and their wire services and the broadcasting stations pay the expense of operating the bureau and of distributing the news among themselves. The bureau is to be operated on a co-operative basis, the expenses allotted among the stations participating.

Select Best News

The bureau, under Barrett's direction, will select from the whole report of the three associations the most important and interesting news and condense it into a report suitable for a five-minute broadcast. The broadcast in the morning is to be made up of news distributed to morning papers, and the night broadcast from news sent to afternoon papers.

In addition to the two regularly scheduled broadcasts, the bureau will provide the participating stations with brief bulletins—not over thirty words each—on outstanding events. These may be broadcast at any time, and will be, in effect, an "extra" edition of the radio news program. The type of news to be handled in this manner is the sort published in extra editions of newspapers.

The news to be broadcast will be sent to the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system over automatic telegraph machines. To other stations it will be sent tolls collect by commercial telegraph at press rates.

Eliminate Confusion

The whole plan was designed to eliminate the confusion and controversies involving publishers and broadcasters and marks the first effort to put radio news on an organized basis in the United states.

The Columbia Broadcasting system today set 10:30 a. m. and 11:15 p. m., eastern standard time, for the two broadcasts over its chain stations in the eastern and central time zones. The National Broadcasting company said that the same times had been selected tentatively for its stations similarly situated. Neither chain had made definite plans for the Mountain and Pacific time zones and it was indicated that these areas probably would make their own arrangements, either singly or in groups. Independent stations will fix the times of their own broadcasts within the limitations imposed.

Henry Pu-Yi, 29, last of the 300-year old Ching dynasty, who ascended the throne as a baby and was forced to abdicate in the revolution that made China a republic, today became emperor of the Japanese-advised state of Manchukuo. His enthronement took place at Hsinking, capital of Manchukuo, amid scenes of oriental pageantry. Story on page 1.

Rotarians Hold Annual Ladies' Night Program

Rotary club members and Rotary Anns attended an annual ladies' night program at Hotel Lubbock last night and heard an address on the ideals of Rotary made by the president, Dr. Bradford Knapp, a talk by A. B. Davis and a musical program. There were 125 persons in attendance.

Pete W. Cawthon officiated as toastmaster. Preceding the main program, members of the Eastern States Circus band played and Hunter W. Richardson led the group in a sing-song. A male quartet composed of Clarence Whiteside, George Slover, Culver Hill and Mr. Richardson sang.

Guy Woods of Plainview presented piano monologues and Sparkle, a trained Shetland pony with the circus, performed under the direction of Fred Burns. Henry Mott, "strong man" with the circus, also staged a skit.

Mr. Davis explained the homestead plan on the South Plains.

Dr. Knapp told of the history of Rotary and defined it as a movement that "fosters high ideals of business ethics and an international spirit of good will." He paid tribute to the women present, saying that they were the real influence back of the club.

Must Sew Too

Soldiers Have To Be Domestic

MADRID, Feb. 28. (AP)—Spanish soldiers are expected to learn to sew as well as to shoot, says a recent circular from the ministry of war.

Members of the army are ordered to take good care of their clothes, mend them and use them as long as possible because of lack of appropriation for new uniforms this fiscal year.

Repaired, disinfected garments will be issued to the soldiers whenever possible. The army is asked to do its voluntary share in this economy campaign.

It's Circus Night In Lubbock!

Eastern States Circus Will Begin A Six-Day Stand At The Auditorium; Eighteen Acts Are Included On Program

TONIGHT is circus night in Lubbock.

Eastern States circus, appearing under American Legion auspices, will begin a six-day stand tonight at the Auditorium, Texas avenue and Eighth street.

Doors will be opened at 7 o'clock. A two-hour performance will begin at 8 o'clock.

18 Acts On Program

Eighteen acts, many of which have been presented under the big tops, compose the program, which runs the circus gamut, from slapstick clowning and dog-and-pony tricks to remarkable aerial and other acrobatic repertoires.

Preparations for the first of seven performances in Lubbock were under way Wednesday in the Auditorium.

A matinee will be presented Saturday, beginning at 2 p. m.

Free dancing will follow each night performance.

Tickets On Sale

Members of Allen Bros. post, No. 148, of the American Legion, which will use its share of the receipts to sustain a welfare program, have tickets to sell. The pasteboards of admittance also may be obtained at the Auditorium.

Major circuses, Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey, Al G. Barnes, the now absorbed Sells-Floto, and others, appear in the histories of performers of the Eastern States show.

Eastern States circus band will play an overture before the performance begins.

Program Announced

The program:

1. Belle Wheeler's dogs and ponies.
2. Gladys Le Tourneau, aerial suspension: three ascensions—first poses, second Chinese silk serpentine, third spinning from ground.
3. The Lansky trio, balancing.
4. Frank Bell, slack wire: climax big swing on slack wire without net.
5. La Belle Marie, Spanish web.
6. Captain Burns' educated pony, "Sparkles," and bucking mule, "Maud."
7. William Le Tourneau balancing trapeze.
8. The Three Vivians, comedy acrobats: speed.
9. The Olympia boys, aerialists, flying trapeze: execution of all tricks of high-flying acts of larger circuses, climax double twisting-somersault blindfolded; three Olympians have appeared in motion pictures, the most recent having been "State Fair."

Intermission.

10. McMohan troupe, tight wire.
11. Clown Alley, Ike and Spike.
12. Gladys Le Tourneau, heel somersault-heel catch: one of three women in the world doing this act, only person executing forward somersault from flying trapez and catching self by heels without mechanical device on heels.
13. Fred Burns' dogs, ponies, and monkeys.
14. Don Larvola, high wire; the Cuban, on his first tour of this country, only performer to swing by nap of neck on silver thread.
15. The even American Jordans, acrobats; two men and their five sisters, a major feat by young woman, in her 20s, who supports combined weight of rest of troupe on her shoulders.
16. Iron jaw Mott, strongman: a former wrestler, who lasted more than three hours before Frank Gotch pinned him.
17. The Olympia boys, horizontal bars: perhaps the best act of the kind in the country.
18. Farmer Burn's Arkansas razorback hogs.

Relatives Of Woman Appear On Stand In Wynekoop Case

CHICAGO, Feb. 28. (AP)—Headed by Walker Wynekoop, 29-year old son of the defendant, relatives of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop today took their turns on the witness stand as the defense undertook to overthrow the state's mass of evidence implicating the 63-year old physician as the slayer of her daughter-in-law, Rheta.

The gray haired defendant heard her son's testimony in the same manner in which she did that of other witnesses, slumped down in her chair with her black felt hat pulled low over her eyes.

Tech Ring Ready For Fight Tourney; Title Battle May Go On Tonight

National Ring Champions Add Spice To Card

Matador Athletic Department Sponsors Its First Major Boxing And Wrestling Joust Friday And Saturday

Out at Texas Tech's field house tomorrow and the next day the southwest's fanciest collegiate fight units go through their paces in Tech's first invitation wrestling and boxing tournament. It should supply satisfying thrills for even the most rabid of ring fans.

Twenty five schools, comprising the outstanding teams of the section, have been invited to the meet.

A season ticket, carrying admission to all events, may be purchased for one dollar. General admission either afternoon will cost 25c, night general admissions are going at 50c, and 25c must be added for a reserved seat near the ring. Tickets are on sale at the J. and J. Sporting Goods store, and more than half of the reserved ducats are already gone.

Plenty Of Rivalry

A spirited rivalry is expected between the powerful wrestling teams of Oklahoma A. and M. and Oklahoma Teachers from Weatherford. Coached by the famous Ed Gallagher, whose teams have a record of 71 consecutive victories in the last twelve years, the Cowboys occupy the favorite's position.

However, the Bulldogs, who bring eight grapplers and a couple of boxers, also have their followers. Foy Stout, welterweight National A. A. U. title- holder, hasn't been defeated this year. Ralph Teague, National Collegiate heavyweight champion, has to think hard to recall the last time he was pinned.

Captain C. M. Woodbury, of New Mexico Military, carries a boxing team steeped in power and punch, into Lubbock today. The Bronco's star is, of course, "Wop" Chairemonte, the knockout king of the southwest, who has given Tech boxers so much trouble in the past.

Captain Woodbury, a long-time pro, will have charge of all the fight events. Gallagher will direct the mat proceedings.

Stars From N. M. M. I.

The Institute brings one of the fastest amateur grapplers in the country, Vaughan, to the meet. Vaughan, who has had easy sledding in wrestling meets of this section, may run into something tough in the shape of one of the Oklahoma matmen. For the two Oklahoma schools have consistently put out some of the best wrestling teams in the country.

The Bulldogs last year lost to A. and M., but went on to win the National A. A. U. title. And about the same time the Cowboys were taking the N. A. B. C. championship.

Jack Van Bebber, pro wrestler and Olympic middleweight champion, who got his training under Gallagher, will act as referee for all the grappling exhibitions. Bo Sexton and Burl Huffman will officiate over the boxing matches.

Oklahoma Aggie Mat Coach Is Champion Maker Of Champions

Ed Gallagher Sends Team Here Friday And Saturday

BY NEA Service

STILLWATER, Okla., Feb. 28.—A champion wrestling coach, a maker of champions, and the maker of makers of champions — that's Ed Gallagher, mat mentor of the Oklahoma Aggies.

In the 16 years this genial Irishman has been coaching his "Cowboys," he has turned out 11 undefeated squads, captured the national title four out of five times, placed men on three Olympic teams, coached two Olympic champions, and has turned out wrestlers who, in turn, have gone to other schools to coach boys who later have become champions.

Cliff Keen, Michigan coach, was one of his pupils. Keen has produced such champions as Don George, Bob Hewitt and others equally famous, George winning the 1928 Olympics and conquering Strangler Lewis.

In addition to Keen, his pupils are handling mat squads at Michigan State, Harvard, Northwestern, and seven other universities. He has even turned out a champion by correspondence, having coached James Trevinoux, Frenchman, by mail, and that grappler won second place in the 1928 Olympics.

Gallagher has coached hundreds of wrestlers in his 16 years, but his pride and joy was a little 75-pounder who timidly came to him and announced he wanted to become a wrestler.

"He had the spirit to fight, and after three years of training he had grown to weigh 165," Gallagher relates. "After his first year in college he showed he had the making of a champion, and he climaxed his fighting career by making the Olympic team. He is now a successful wrestling coach at Northwestern University—Orion W. Stuteville, one of the cleanest wrestlers and best finishers who has ever hit the mat."

Ed Gallagher, right, puts two of his Oklahoma Aggies through the paces of the half-Nelson and crotch hold.

Like all successful coaches, Gallagher has a system of his own. He covers wrestling scientifically from six angles—technique, diet, training, massage, study of leverages and psychology.

He teaches three times as many holds as any other coach. He has 500 variations of holds and counters, and 300 more that are kept secret. He drills his men in one hold to as near perfection as possible before giving them another.

Every man who goes on the mat for Gallagher knows five or six different things he might do to get out of a tight spot during a match. That accounts for the fact that his men are hardly ever down more than an instant.

Guy Lookabaugh, the most colorful wrestler Gallagher ever developed, offers an example. He could slip out of any hold easier than an eel. He beat the western champion in 27 minutes, and 20 minutes later beat a 175-pounder in 14 minutes, although weighing only 158 himself. Another time he pitted his 158 pounds against Polly Wallis, Iowa's All-American center and Big Ten mat champion, and wrestled a draw with him.

Gallagher isn't content to stand pat on his present system. He is constantly in communication with wrestling masters of France, Germany, England, India and Canada for information concerning their technique. This dope he incorporates in his schedule and, as a consequence, has the most advanced knowledge in the country.

Loughran-Carnera Fight Now Set For Tonight; Rains May Cause Further Postponement

Fighters Stay In Camps When Weather Causes Title Bout To Be Moved Up From Last Night; May Be Monday

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 28. (AP)—As if the situation wasn't bad enough on its own behalf, gusty blasts of rain forced postponement today of Primo Carnera's 15-round heavyweight title defense against Tommy Loughran and threatened to keep putting it off for some time to come.

Technically the match is set now for tomorrow night, delayed only 24 hours, but the weather reports offered so little encouragement that the Madison Square Garden promoters considered the possibility of another postponement until Monday night.

Rain May Continue

The weatherman said it was rainy and blowy, which one look at the skies confirmed, and he explained that fresh easterly winds, blowing at a velocity of 22 miles an hour, would continue through tomorrow at least. Rain was predicted through the night and if the winds continue there was little prospect the showers wouldn't.

The situation was particularly bad inasmuch as the Madison Square Garden stadium, where the match is scheduled, is a wide open wooden arena and now is thoroughly soaked by the rains of the past three days. It is frankly no place to take the sports-clothed fandom of a pleasure center until at least one full day of boiling sun has dried it out.

The postponement came early enough today to prevent Tommy Loughran, the 185-pound challenger, from motoring down here from his training camp at West Palm Beach to weigh in with the 260-pound champion. Carnera promptly hustled into a gymnasium and did enough shadow boxing, bag punching and calisthenics to keep him in physical edge while Loughran did the same at his camp.

Strangely enough, the sale of tickets, which so far has set a new low record for modern heavyweight title fights, might be helped rather than hindered by the postponement if the weather eventually turns fair. The box offices reported that very few tickets had been rereemed by people who could wait here no longer, and that there was a possibility the gate would go to $60,000.

The effect of the postponement on the gladiators was argued freely today as the experts had nothing better to do than sit and watch it rain. The opinion seems to be that Loughran's chances have been hurt more than Carnera's by the delay and the champion already is a 3 to 1 favorite to win.

It will be Dempsey's first appearance here. He is scheduled to arrive Sunday night or Monday morning.

Ticket sales are increasing daily, according to reports from the J. and J. Sporting goods company, handlers of advance ticket sales. About half of the total ringside tickets offered for sale have been sold, as well as a large number of general admission ducats.

Six Westerners Get Cage Letters

Six men lettered on the 1934 Lubbock high school basketball team, according to an announcement yesterday from Coach Swede McMurry.

Andy Smallin and Leo Patterson, senior forwards; Glenn Jones, junior center; Othis Upton, James Chase, and Dayton McWhorter, sophomore guards, were the squad-members to win letters.

Green and inexperienced, Coach McMurry's troupe had a rather hard time of it this season, only occasionally showing brilliant flashes of the correct court form. Four of the boys, however, will be back next year, together with a capable collection of reserves. Glenn Jones, tall center, especially will be counted on next winter.

The Westerners, after a not very bright showing in preliminary games, advanced to the second round of district tournament to be eliminated by Morton.

For the first time, Lubbock competed in a regular conference this season, with the Class A high schools of the Panhandle, and found the pace too swift for their stride. Although dropping all but one of their conference contests, the Westerners were on only two occasions thoroughly outclassed.

LUMBERJACKS WIN

NACOGDOCHES, Feb. 28. (AP) — The Stephen F. Austin Lumberjacks went into a tie for the Lone Star conference basketball championship tonight by defeating the Sam Houston college Bearcats, 40 to 34. The deadlock will be settled in a three-game play-off, the date to be determined later.

The Lumberjacks gained a lead of 11 to 2 early in the game and by the half were ahead, 27 to 15. The Lumberjacks made many of their points on long shots, nearly from mid-field. Williams was deadly on his long throws.

Lubbock Track Squad Drilling

Coach Goober Keyes Guides 35 Westerner Athletes Through Paces Daily; Stanfill And Patterson Look Better

With thirty five men out for the team, Lubbock high school track squad is drilling daily under the direction of the Weserner's new cinder coach, J. G. "Goober" Keyes, former Abilene Christian college athlete.

No meets have as yet been scheduled, and it is too early in the season for predictions, but Coach Keyes believes that he has a foundation for a strong track and field unit this spring.

A Rough Track

Graham Stanfill, stellar mile man of last year, is clocking well in tryouts on the Westerner's practice field on the southe edge of town. That practice field is, itself, a large handicap to the high school puff and pant boys. A half dozen vacant lots covered with cactus and telephone poles to vary the monotony of buffalo grass, it looks more like a hog pasture than most hog pastures do.

Little Leo Patterson is the likeliest prospect on Coach Keyes' list of dash men. Patterson gallops the 220 and 100 distances in a very pleasing manner. Rolly Vermillion may also run the 220, and is something of a discus tosser. Long Joe Jackson, out for his first service on the track team, is, however, the most promising discus thrower.

Griner Hurts Self

Andy Smallin will probably be used in the hurdle and pole-vault events. Campbell is leading the field in the middle distances, and is also a high jumper of considerable ability.

Vergil Griner, one of Coach Keye's better prospects re-hurt an old football injury yesterday and will probably be out for the season.

Aggies Win Thrill Battle Over Owls

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 28. (AP) The Rice Owls scored 18 points in a frantic rally during the last nine minutes of their thrill-packed game with the Texas Aggies tonight but failed to overcome the wide lead taken by the Aggies before the Houston players got loose. The Aggies won, 40 to 36.

The massed Aggie cadet corps cheered wildly as the final gun ended the game and the accurate long range goal shooting of the Owls.

Actually, the Aggies' victory was based on dropping in foul shots. The Cadets sank ten out of 13 tries from the free throw line, while the Owls scored only six out of the 14 shots they tried on fouls.

Jack Wakes Up--And Wins!

Sleep Hold Gives Mueller Opening Wrestle Fall

At that, Jack's little snooze might have been just what he needed. Because he came back, after breaking the entangling holds of old Morpheus—with the aid of a couple of physicians and some ringside fans—and wound up the match in rapid order.

If there are any skeptics among Lubbock's wrestling gentry in regard to Doctor Mueller's sleep-producing applications, they don't feel that way today. It required the better part of half an hour for the Austin chiropractor-wrestler to work Van Bebber into position, but finally it came, and the Texas Tech wrestling coach, who carries more national and Olympic laurels than his belt will hold, was out like somebody who had been drunk under the table.

It's no fakery, folks, this sleeping business. The Doc did it by pressing nerves or muscles or something at the base of Van Bebber's neck, and it was fully four minutes before he regained consciousness.

The Lights Go Out

The first fall saw them go at it hard and fast, with Jack having the upper hand with his superior muscular powers and managing to keep on top most of the time. Several times he fixed holds that seemed sure to result in a fall in his favor, but the uncanny Mueller would apply a little jui-jitsu and Jack would jump away as if stuck with a pin. The Doc found "funny bones" all over Jack's body. The climax came in 27 minutes. Mueller applied his mysterious hold, rolled Jack over and pinned him without effort, because Jack was not only asleep, but in the throes of a nightmare.

The Doctor, making his first appearance here, had no chance in the next two falls. Jack rushed him and rushed back, and flung him over the ropes to the floor below. It stunned Mueller, and when he got to the mat again, Jack was waiting. There was a terrific slam, and Jack was on top for an easy fall in three minutes.

They came back and Jack was completely refreshed. He eluded Mueller's pet hold, but it required all the energy he possed to outjump the chiropractor. He finally fixed a flying scissors, turned it into a leg-nelson and pinned Mueller in 3 minutes, 30 seconds to win the match.

Detton Beats Bauer

Dorry Detton and Joe Bauer furnished most of the action in their 43-minute semi-final. Detton won with a head-scissors and body smother after the two had pegged away at each other in a well-balanced, crowd-pleasing contest. Bauer, as usual, put on a great comedy-drama; consciously or unconsciously, the big, sad Hitlerist from Coblenz is funny any way you take him. He gave Detton considerable punishment and received plenty in return. Detton's famous airplane spin was applied, but it didn't work on the German, who twisted as he fell and brought Detton to the mat with him.

The fall came after Bauer had tried to cut Detton's head off between the ropes. Referee Charley Heard, who is making a success as a mat official, pulled him away, but took a nose-dive to the mat for his interference. Heard, no mean wrestler himself, grabbed on again and slammed Bauer flat. Detton fell on the writhing German and smothered him for the fall.

Sailor Jack Woods, self-admitted champion of the navy, made his debut last night a pitiful demonstration with Bill Cazzell, Amarillo matman. As a wrestler, Cazzell is a fine referee, and if Woods represents the navy, Heaven pity the gobs who have to watch sailor wrestling. He appeared out of condition and out of shape, wobbly and sluggish. Cazzell, who has been known to give his fans some nice wrestling, couldn't make a show out of it. To Wood's credit, it must be recorded that he was able to stand a lot of toe punishment. He never fixed a serious hold during the 20-minute time limit, but he didn't give up to Cazzell's toe-holds and semi-Japanese crab holds.

Snow Braved By Fans To Attend McGraw Funeral

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (AP)—New Yorkers to whom his name and baseball were synonomous today crowded St. Patrick's cathedral to its doors to pay final tribute to John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants for 30 years, who died Sunday after a week's illness.

From all walks and stations of life they came through the snow and the cold to listen to the calm, sonorous Catholic ritual for the dead and stand bareheaded in near zero weather while a hearse bore his body toward a train for Baltimore and final interment there.

Men who had fought with and against him during his turbulent career as player, manager and magnate of baseball, personages of the stage, the screen, the bar and official city life made common cause with bleacher fans to do him final honors.

The great stone church on Fifth Avenue was filled and hundreds more stood in the cold outside. His body had lain in state in the home to which he retired two years ago to live out his days removed from the strife of the diamond.

Stage Stars Present

Banked on either side of the entry way as the big front doors swung open to let in the funeral party were the honorary pallbearers—William H. Terry, to whom McGraw turned over the management of the Giants in 1932 when his health first began to fail, George M. Cohan, DeWolf Hopper and Sam Harris of the theater, John McCormack, representatives of all the National League clubs, Hans Lobert, old Giant player, newspapermen who had covered many a Giant training camp, former Police Commissioner Edward P. McGrooney, and half a hundred others.

A color guard from American Legion post 307 preceded the casket into the church, and following it the mourners. Mrs. McGraw, her face veiled, was supported by her brother Frank Sindall and her nephew, Sindall Schuyler. Directly behind were McGraw's two sisters and only surviving close relatives, Mrs. Frank Gray, of New Canaan, Conn., and Mrs. James F. Donnelley, of Camillus, N. Y. Mrs. Christy Mathewson, widow of McGraw's greatest pitcher and a close family friend for over 30 years, was a member of the party as were Charles A. Stoneham, president, and Edward T. Brannick, assistant secertary, of the Giants.

Pays McGraw Tribute

The mass concluded, the Rev. Henry Hammer, assistant rector of the cathedral, delivered an eulogy in which he said:

"John McGraw, probably more than any other man, taught the youth of this land to play well. Truly, he is one of baseball's immortals."

Father Mulry blessed the body, the organ again softly boomed through the great, vaulted church and the casket was carried out the door into the brilliant noonday sunshine and swiftly borne away.

Francis Schmidt Gets Warm Welcome At Columbus; Will Discuss Coach Job Today

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28. (AP) — Francis A. Schmidt, football and basketball coach at Texas Christian university, received a warm welcome when he arrived here tonight to discuss whether he is to become director of football at Ohio State university.

He was greeted at the station by L. W. St. John, Ohio State's director of athletics, and Professor Thomas French, chairman of the athletic board.

St. John indicated that the athletic board may meet tomorrow morning to discuss engagement of Schmidt to fill the vacancy created when Sam Willaman resigned to become coach at Western Reserve university.

The athletic director said, however, that he hoped Schmidt "would stay a few days for several conferences before he returns to Texas Christian."

Because people objected to the clumsy name, London Passenger Transport Board, it has been simplified to London Transport.

Tech Champion To Fight Here

Harry Guthrie To Meet Vernon Monday Night In Semi-Final Of Jack Dempsey Show; Jack To Arrive Sunday

Joe Vernon, light heavyweight boxer who claims Pampa as his home but who appears on main events and semi-windups in big time boxing centers, will meet Harry Guthrie, champion of Texas Tech's light heavyweights and heavyweights, in the semi-final fight of the Jack Dempsey show Monday night at the Armory.

Dempsey, the former world's heavyweight title holder and one of the most popular men of modern sports, will referee this bout and the main event, which is scheduled between Mickey Dunivin, Oklahoma City puncher, and Jack Thompson, who bills out of Amarillo. They are middleweights, and come recommended by Dempsey and a number of fight critics.

Sell-Out Anticipated

Sponsored by the National guard here, with Ben Condray acting in the role of promoter, the fight is expected to attract one of the largest indoor crowds ever registered in Lubbock.

Maranville's Head-Up Baseball Was Hard On His Head

By NEA Service

BABE ADAMS had plenty of speed as a Pirate pitcher—as Rabbit Maranville will witness.

The Rabbit got orders from Manager Stallings to get on base somehow in a game that Adams was holding the high sign over the Braves. "Get on that base even if you have to get hit," Stallings hissed in his ear.

Not without trembling, Maranville approached the batter's box and took two swift ones through the heart of the plate for strikes. Remembering Stallings' orders, he gingerly edged closer to the plate, planning to deliberately get in the way of the ball. It came with the speed of an express and smacked him in the head.

Maranville fell like a poled ox. Umpire Morgan was suspicious of the whole thing and told Maranville he'd let him get away with it if he could walk to first under his own power.

Somehow the Rabbit managed to wabble down to first and then a leather-lunged fan yelped from the bleachers:

"That's putting the wood to it!"

States Press Is Threatened

Senator Says Censorship For Newspapers Of America Is Asked In Demand For A Communications Body

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP)—Senator Schall (R-Minn.) said in a statement today that newspapers are confronted with censorship by the "demand" of President Roosevelt for a federal communications commission.

"The newspapers of the United States," he said, "are about to have themselves censored. After battling for months to force the Roosevelt administration to guarantee freedom of the press in the publishers' code they now find themselves confronted with the very same censorship by the demand of the president for a federal communications commission.

"Under such a commission every press dispatch and every cable message can be censored by the administration. What have the newspapers gained by their code fight if they permit their news dispatches to be censored?

"With such a system as suggested by the president not one word of the skullduggery committed in Washington could reach the people of the United States.

"Not a publisher up to date has sensed the danger in the demand sent to congress.

"What the newspapers and the people of the United States need most at the present moment is a legislative bureau in Washington to follow all legislation introduced and see to it that the dictatorship now in the making is thwarted."

Champions of women in Japan, who have no legal status or individual rights, are demanding greater recognition for them.

State Refuses To Block Cane Case

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 28. (AP)—An attorney for John A. Cane, avowed executioner of his wife and three children, failed today in an effort to keep the former lineman from going to trial for murder.

Sid White, the attorney, tried in vain to convince Prosecutor Lewis R. Morris of Oklahoma County that Cane, a former veterans' bureau mental patient, is hopelessly insane and should be committed to an asylum through county court proceedings.

Morris, refusing to nolle prosse the charge, insisted he would bring Cane to trial within a month.

Cane, who last Sunday showed officers where he had buried the bodies of the four during a picnic outing last June, refused to talk either to his attorney or to officers today. He also refused to pose for police pictures and was handcuffed and held in front of the camera.

Capt. Thomas S. Snyder Is Claimed By Death At Dallas

DALLAS, Feb. 28. (AP) — Capt. Thomas S. Snyder, 95, who four times drove herds of cattle over the Rocky mountains before the advent of railroads, died today at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Susie Pace.

He came to Texas in 1857 with his brothers, Dudley H. and John W. Snyder, from Missouri.

He was survived by three sons: Dudley W. Snyder of San Antonio, Thomas S., and John W. Snyder of El Paso; four daughters, including Mrs. R. W. Green of Houston, and 16 grand children.

Grand Champion Steer At Houston Brings Big Price

HOUSTON, Feb. 28. (AP)—George Kelley, Houston restaurant man, today had to bid 75 cents a pound to purchase the 975 pound Hereford steer, Ed, grand champion at the Houston fat stock show. Kelley, who has bought the grand champions for the past three years, had to pay only 50 cents a pound last year and only 45 cents in 1932.

Ed was fed by Miss Ruby Ludwick, 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Ludwick of Pear Valley in McCulloch county. Miss Ludwick is a 4-H club member.

The reserve champion, "Mason's Pretty Boy," owned by J. B. Jordan of Mason and weighing 920 pounds, was sold to Sheriff T. A. Binford at 51 cents. Binford said he would feed the meat from the reserve champion to inmates of the county jail.

Cake For President's Kin Is Uneaten After Half Century

LAGRANGE, Ind., Feb. 28. (AP) There's a cake here that's 54 years old.

It belongs to Silas Ridley and was baked in 1879 for the late Cyrus F. Fillmore—brother of Millard Fillmore, thirteenth President—in honor of Cyrus' seventy-seventh bitrhday. Mr. Fillmore was the great-grandfather of Mrs. Ridley.

The cake has a fruit-cake base, seven inches in diameter and two and a half inches high. A model of the old Fillmore home is made in icing which has turned to a soft cream color from age.

The model is complete, with four chimneys, doors, windows, shades, lattice work and windmill. The cake is kept in a large glass container.

Three Youths Are Held In Connection With Robberies

LAFAYETTE, La., Feb. 28. (AP)—Three youths arrested at New Iberia, La., yesterday, are wanted here in connection with recent robberies, and at St. Martinville, La., for a jailbreak, L. E. Leblanc, Lafayette chief of police said here after his return from New Iberia.

He said that James Champagne, who first gave his name as "Lonel Sinnot," and Francis Landry, who gave his name as "Eugene Pitou," are both of Lafayette, and that they broke jail at St. Martinville. The third youth under arrest gave his name as Cominico Molina, of Galveston, Tex. Officers said they were arrested as they were attempting to rob a store.

They are wanted here in connection with three store robberies and the theft of an automobile, the police chief said.

State Observance Talked Wednesday

DALLAS, Feb. 28. (AP)—Committee members from the Texas house and senate discussed informally today plans for a state-wide observation of the first anniversary of the administration of President Roosevelt on March 4.

The committee called on all churches of the state to hold special thanksgiving services Sunday and asked that all civic and patriotic organizations take cognizance of the anniversary during the coming week.

Among those present were T. W. Davidson, former lieutenant-governor; Burris C. Jackson of Hillsboro, Mrs. Harold Abrams and Ira P. De Loache of Dallas, Ed Howard of Wichita Falls and Stanton Bassett of Cameron.

The group planned to have the week's observance culminate in a state-wide meeting.

James Buchanan was the only bachelor president of the United States.

TRANSFER THE BEER REVENUE FROM THE BOOTLEGGER TO THE TREASURY

A source of taxation without burden, that will assist in alleviating distress, and in some measure reimburse the Federal Government for the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent in this county for emergency aid, lies within the grasp of our citizens. There are many sane arguments in favor of legalizing 3.2 beer, but one of the most important of these is the financial benefit to be derived from city, county, state and Federal taxation of the beverage. A study of the figures below should enlighten skeptics who doubt the importance of the approaching election:

Molds In Education

It seemed almost inevitable, with mounting criticisms of the educational system and the still more rapidly accumulating theories of how it ought to be remade, that sooner or later there would come a cry to "stop educating our children."

The sooner all realize that education—that is, an organized system for arranging a child's environment according to a certain preconceived pattern—will not add to the happiness of the world nor, in most cases, of the child, the better for all.

Education is merely another expression of intellectual life—like philosophical argument or the writing of plays—but the public insists on regarding it with all the solemnity of an institution and being outrageously disappointed when it does not produce all the perfect results which it demands that institutions show and that, incidentally, none of them ever do. The effects of institutionalism on college athletics have been gravely debated, but that danger of a similar institutionalism in college classrooms seems to have been overlooked.

Amateurism is demanded of scholastic and collegiate athletics, but the public seems incapable of that attitude toward education. It demands that education bring results—spiritually or politically or in addition to human happiness. On this score people show marked inconsistency. If the college graduate spurns the overalls, education has ruined him, and, if he dons the overalls, his education did him no good.

No one has yet invented that which will remake the world. Not even the modern educational system is such an invention. But that system would come nearer remaking the world if institutions of higher learning were content with being sources of ideas for seekers after ideas. Education is the opposite of shaping all minds to fit one mold.

SCIENTIFIC FEAT

As a scientific feat the isolation of vitamin C is a distinct triumph. As a medical contribution it is even more important.

This vitamin is a certain preventative and cure for scurvy, which for years was the bane of explorers' and sailors' lives. It is also a common ailment of undernourished babies.

A lack of fresh fruit and vegetables in the diet is the cause of scurvy among adults, and the only cure for it has been introduction into the patient's diet of these foods. Where they were not available the patient frequently died.

Henceforth the disease can be prevented and cured even in the absence of fresh fruits and vegetables. Vitamin C can be carried in bottles.

This scientific discovery may not seem very important to the seaman of today, who no longer sails for months without a sight of land. It would have found greater appreciation before steam supplanted sail on the high seas. But medical science welcomes the discovery and the layman will see in it another step in the direction of eating for health instead of for satisfaction.

PEANUT BY-PRODUCTS

The next time you crunch a peanut remind yourself that you are eating ink—also axle grease, wood stain and soap. Synthetic milk, cheese and breakfast food are other ingredients to toy with in your imagination.

These things and nearly a hundred others are actually present in peanuts, according to discoveries made by a Tuskagee institute scientist, George W. Carver.

Equally important is the announcement that they can be obtained in commercial quantities at low cost.

The discovery should prove of particular interest to the South, where the peanut is grown. Should the claims made be fulfilled, the industrial life of that section may be greatly quickened and new sources of income for its farmers be provided by encouraging the cultivation of peanuts on a much larger scale than at present.

Peanuts eventually may rank near coal in the value of their by-products.

Note to grand juries: It is riches that have wings—not the rich.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

Of The First Methodist Church

ALL THINGS WORK FOR GOOD

"All things work together for good to them that love God."—Romans 8:28.

This is very difficult to believe, and could be easily misunderstood. Paul was not saying, "Happiness alone, or pain alone, or death alone made for good, but all these things taken together." He does not say that all such things work for good to everyone. It is only to those who love God. The Christian uses all his experiences of morning lights and evening shadows as stepping stones to nobler living.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

IF you take a Washington lobby apart to see what makes it tick, the slender proportions of the mainspring sometimes surprise you. Yet often they make enough noise to frighten a flock of politicians half out of their wits.

For example let's look at the lobby that threatened to hold up the code for the whole automotive parts industry.

It sounded like the Marine Band for volume but turned out to be one small boy playing a tin horn into an amplifier.

The brake-lining section of the industry (as well as a majority of others) desired coordinated planning under the code—something lacking all these years.

Brake manufacturers in amicable huddle found out that 80 cents of every consumer's dollar was going into sales costs.

Under the approving eye of Deputy Administrator George Brady a provision was written into the code placing limitations on discounts allowable.

Suddenly out of a clear sky a deluge of telegrams descended on every single member of congress protesting this provision as ruinous to the accessories dealers. The shouts came from dealers in every section of the country.

In turn congress bore down on NRA telephonically and personally to ascertain how come.

Blue Eagle sleuths decided to look into the situation. Here's what they found.

BREAKS: The cloudburst of protests had been inspired by just 25 distributors out of 5,000, or ½ of 1 per cent.

Called in for conference and explanation its representatives offered to "compromise"—the compromise being that 90 cents out of every dollar go into distribution.

At random Col. Brady sent telegrams to fifty of the distributors who had wired in protests asking them what their ache was all about and upon what it was based. Two replied. They said they hadn't seen the code and so couldn't say.

The Automotive Wholesalers' association, speaking officially for the industry, has put an emphatic stamp of approval on the code as it now lies on General Johnson's desk for signature.

CHILLED: Icy winds may be howling now but it's always well to look ahead to those stifling hot months.

Senator Homer T. Bone, Washington, tossed a bill into the hopper the other day calling for an investigation of the Alaskan railroad by a senatorial committee of three, $7,500 therefore to be appropriated.

Now some of the old meanies are trying to mess this potential summer junket up by producing an exhaustive report on the very same subject, made in January, 1930, by the late Senator Howell, Nebraska. It chilled fond hopes.

NOTES: Matters now coming to light prove sharply that President Roosevelt knew what he was about when he forced political lawyers to clear out of his administration . . . Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas is believed to be slated for the Supreme court . . . The entire United States fleet will be back in the Pacific early next fall.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

GENERAL Johnson and his NRA lieutenants will soon have a new and tricky puzzle for solution. It involves the relations between organized labor and small industry. New York learns that growing resentment against union encroachments is due for an explosive airing at forthcoming complaint hearings.

Labor's broad-scale recruiting campaign has only recently reached the little fellows. Those in smaller cities are especially hot because they fear they will be left at the mercy of outside labor leaders. So far as they are concerned that famous Section 7 is an acute pain.

Here's a sample reaction. A textile firm in a New Jersey town had a hundred or so resident employees. A. F. of L. organizers are busy in the plant. The firm swears that if its workers vote to join the federation it will move bag, baggage and machinery to a new idle factory in a large city. "If they strike on us we're sunk. In a big town we at least have a chance of hiring substitutes if they pull a walkout."

SHOWDOWN: This situation may develop into NRA's severest headache to date. Conservative scouts report similar protests from California to Massachusetts. The South is especially affected. Johnson's dilemma lies in the fact that complainants are not immense corporations to be smacked down to public applause. Small business men comprise an important part of the public themselves.

Meanwhile large concerns with labor problems of their own grin at the prospect of a showdown that may help and can't hurt them.

WOLMAN: New York sources, who should know state that Leo Wolman—labor leader and admittedly one of the ablest members of the National Labor board—will resign from that body within a few weeks.

Wolman is rated an able realist and a sincere champion of labor. He is privately reported as believing that the A. F. of L. is hurting its own cause by sending out organizers of the ward politician type and trying to do a five-year job in as many months. He is definitely out of sympathy with forcing tactics.

Insiders say his departure would weaken the Labor board to the point of practical futility.

SILVER: The inside dope has it that Secretary Morgenthau's inquiry into the silver holdings of individuals and institutions was preparatory to a government bid for all privately owned silver in the country at a uniform price. Such a step would be necessary to forestall immense speculative profits from devaluation.

Local bankers learn that the Chinese government is suspicious of American (and prossibly British) plans to do things to silver. Higher silver prices in the Orient would bring deflation there. Talk of an embargo on silver export from Shanghai is exaggerated but some form of export tax to discourage foreign buying is on the cards.

HOLDING: The unofficial assault on holding companies is broadening its front. It's the real reason why the Interstate Commerce commission has decided to press its investigation of Pennroad's interest in Boston & Maine and New Haven. Its findings will be part of the campaign to educate the public against holding companies.

EFFICIENCY: Even New Yorkers opposed to the New Deal admit that the Roosevelt administration is more efficient in its contacts with the outside world than is customary with bureaucracies. Communications to the White House and to most departments are handled with unusual speed and courtesy. There's a minimum of lost motion in being directed to the proper official to receive your particular request or complaint. And a maximum of speed in getting to a decision.

Few corporations are as businesslike in getting to the next thing.

TAMMANY: Jim Farley's troubles as leader of the state democracy in connection with the LaGuardia economy bill and his reluctance to play Mussolini in the city's political tangle have given the pro-Curryites in Tammany—there still are some—a new lease on life. The opposition to Curry wants Farley to kick their leader for them and he won't. Meanwhile Curry refuses to take the hint and resign.

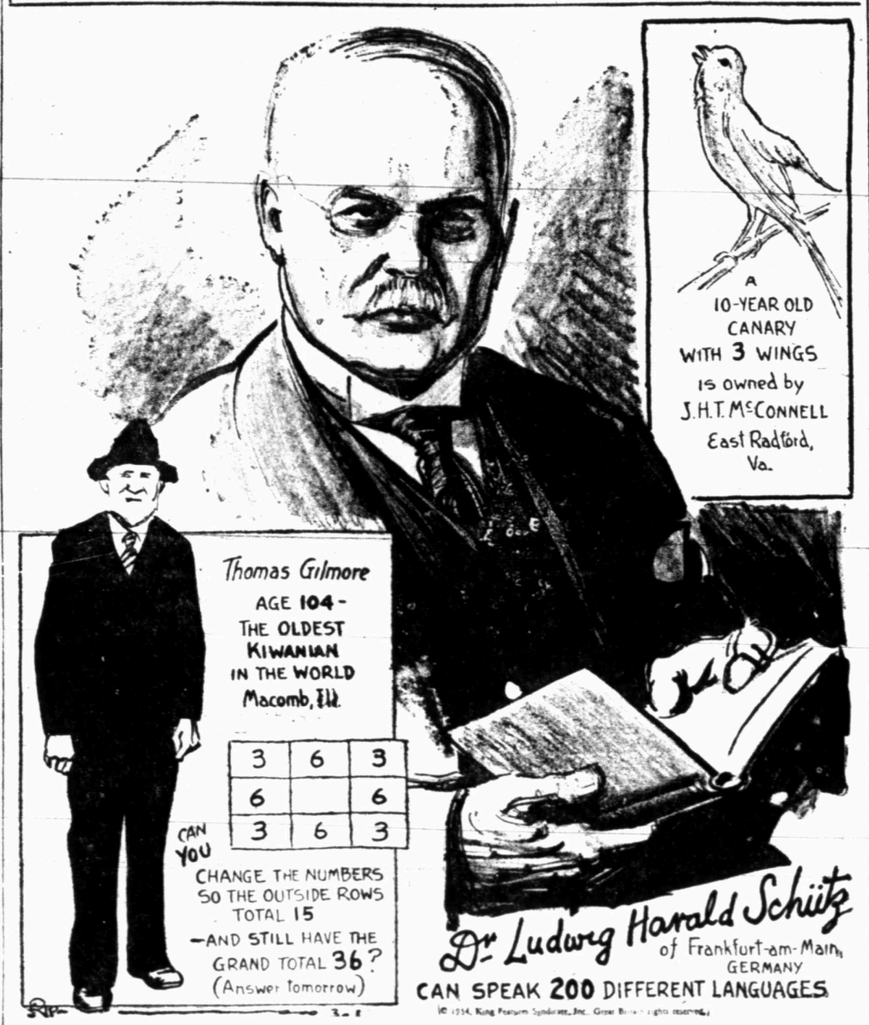

Plenty of the boys would love to kick Farley in the ear if they thought they could get away with it. Political sharps say he'd better have brass knuckles handy or some of these days he may wonder what hit him. It would be a mistake to assume that the Tammany Old Guard has permanently lost its punch.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

"STARCHY"

An old, familiar character around San Antonio, Texas, many years ago was "Starchy", whose name was really Andrew Jackson, but who was also familiarly known as "Boot Andrew."

This unique character became known as "Starchy" because of his unusual diet of nothing but starch. Among his donors were many washwomen who saved a regular quantity of starch for him each week.

The nickname "Boot Andrew" was given on account of his strange habit of wearing a pair of shoes until the soles were gone and then slipping the shoe top up over his ankles to make way for the new shoes. At times, the uppers of these shoes extended half way to his knees, being tied together with bits of wire.

"Starchy" was reputed to be more than a hundred years old at the time of his death a few years ago.

THE ORANGE PROBLEM

The volume of a sphere equals 4-3 of the product of its cubed radius and Pi (3.1416). The cubed radius of a sphere 2 inches in diameter is 1, that of a sphere 4 inches in diameter is 8, hence the ratio of 1 to 8 between the two oranges.

Married Flirts

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married the same day as LILA HOTALING and DEREK BLISS. Lila expects to live in luxury, but Gypsy intends to keep her job, teaching in a settlement house.

The first night Gypsy and Tom spend in their New York apartment VERA GRAY, an old friend of Tom's telephones. Tom asks her to luncheon to meet Gypsy, but Gypsy can't leave her work. Later Vera calls and the two girls dislike each other.

Weeks later Lila and Derek return from their honeymoon in Europe. Lila asks the Weavers to dinner. Among the guests is wealthy MARKO BROUGHTON who once asked Gypsy to marry him. He showers her with attentions which she accepts because she is jealous of Tom's interest in HILDA BLANCHARD.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

The evening, on the whole, was far from being a success for Gypsy. She tried flirting mildly with Marko, just to make Tom angry. But it was a thankless business. She didn't really want to quarrel with Tom. The very thought of it turned her just a little sick. They had been so happy. What serpent had entered, so suddenly, into their little Eden?

It was one o'clock. It was two. It was three. And the music went on and the smoke gathered in clouds and the glasses were filled and emptied, filled and emptied again. Her head began to ache and her spirits flagged. Looking from one face to another, she wondered idly how they stood it, night after night. Why, she was only 22, strong, almost without nerves, and yet she tired of it quickly. Marko, who made the social rounds so briskly, was 50, and his skin was stretched tight around his eyes, he seemed untiring. He must have unexpected stores of strength to draw upon. Marko, reflected Gypsy, was rather wonderful!

At three-ten (and how Gypsy blessed her for it!) young Mrs. Wiltford said they must go—there was something about an early start on the morrow. They were going south . . . Hot Springs. The party began to disintegrate.

Gypsy's own farewells to her hostess were the hollowest of polite lies. She hadn't enjoyed herself at all. She was tired to death, she was almost ill with annoyance at Tom and jealousy of Hilda Blanchard, she was a little ashamed of herself for her mild flirtation with Marko.

And yet she said all the correct things. Lila must come to lunch with her downtown soon. Oh, she meant that, all right. Lila was sweet, she was gay and interested, friendly.

Gypsy was almost speechless with fatigue when the taxi deposited them at their own door. Tom helped her out, without a word. Still silent, he unlocked the door and stood aside to let her into the dark apartment. Gypsy switched on the hall light, yawned, dropped her wrap into a chair. Then she hastily picked it up again. It was all very well for the idle daughters of the rich to behave so with their party clothes. As for her, she must take excellent care of the few she owned, because it would be a long time before she would be able to afford others.

When she came out of the bathroom, having scrubbed the heavy scent of tobacco smoke from her hands and face, wrapped in her woolly robe, Tom was already waiting. His own things were neatly folded and laid across a chair back. Tom, she reflected, was that rare bird, a tidy husband. At least, from all she had heard, such creatures were rare. She gave him a brief inquiring glance and saw that he still wore the frown he'd adopted when they had left the others. Was Tom going to sulk? Oh, she hoped not. Gypsy, herself, could never harbor a grievance. She had been taught never to let the sun go down upon her anger.

As she brushed her hair, she could hear Tom's vigorous splashing. She let her glance rove around the little room and what she saw she inevitably contrasted with Lila's exotic boudoir. Involuntarily a sigh escaped her.

"Don't you feel well?" Tom was beside her.

"Just tired."

He threw back the covers on his own bed. "Good night," he said, very formally. He kissed her coolly on the cheek. Gypsy wanted to cry out, to say something angry and hurtful about Hilda Blanchard and the way he had devoted himself to her all evening. But she was actually too weary to quarrel, although a quarrel might have cleared the air. She answered him in her turn coldly. Tom waited until she had got between her own neat sheets and green blankets. Then he turned out the light, flung the window wide, and got into bed.

Long after he was asleep, Gypsy lay awake. She had to get up at half past seven, she knew that. But just the same, she tossed and turned. She was tense, she was angry, she was bewildered. Just before dawn came streaking into the grey canon of the street, she fell uneasily asleep.

Breakfast was a dreary affair.

Capitol Chatter

By Charles E. Simons

Associated Press Staff Writer

Charles E. Simons

AUSTIN, Feb. 28. (AP)—Rep. Augustine Celaya of Brownsville has a good memory.

During the war days of 1917, Celaya met Rep. George Moffett in a physical examination room at an army cantonment in San Antonio. Both were trying to enlist in the armed forces. They were together about five minutes.

When Celaya came to the house of representatives to fill the term of Milton West, he was taken on a round of introductions. Coming to Moffett's desk he remarked: "I know this man. He is George Meffett."

Celaya had not seen Moffett since that day 17 years ago.

Celaya's conversation about the war days brought memories of training camp experiences to many members of the house.

Rep. Emmet Morse of Houston, was enrolled in one of the first officers' training camps. The call came for officers to direct troops going abroad. Every ninth man in the training company was to go.

Morse was one of the ninth men chosen but the man before him in the ranks dropped out and reduced Morse to eighth in line. The officer who filled Morse's place was killed in action.

Rep. R. J. Long of Wichita Falls, loses a lot of sleep during a session of the legislature in which he is actively sponsoring bills. He championed, almost single handed, the administration's bond relief bill. It cost him many hours of worry during which he was unable to sleep.

Long's change to an administration supporter has been a subject for conjecture. In the last campaign he espoused the cause of former Governor R. S. Sterling.

Another change in political allegiance was effected by Rep. J. C. Duvall of Fort Worth. During the long regular session Duvall was regarded as a Ferguson supporter. He opposed the administration in the second special session.

Deaths among infants less than a year old have fallen by half in Great Britain since the first 10 years of the century.

Prince Explains To Court He Killed "Mad Monk" For Good Of His Country

LONDON, Feb. 28. (AP)—In short crisp sentences, Prince Chegodieff Youssoupoff told a tense courtroom today in the trial of his wife's libel suit that he killed Rasputin, Russia's "mad monk," for the good of his country.

The descendant of one of old Russia's most noble families took the stand after the defense had intimated that he had not slain the powerful monk in St. Petersburg during the stirring days of the World war.

His wife, Princess Irina Youssoupoff, is suing the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures, Ltd., for $2,000,000, alleging the picture "Rasputin and the Empress," libeled her by linking her objectionably with Rasputin.

Youssoupoff claims he killed Rasputin when the latter told him he was in the pay of Germany and planned to seize the czar's throne. It was his first narration of the event in court, although he has written of it.

Meals Served In Paris Church

PARIS, Feb. 28. (AP)—The only restaurant in France operated by a church is being run by the American Church in Paris.

It serves from 30 to 40 meals every Sunday night, at 60 cents apiece, American students being the chief customers.

As part of his pastoral duties the Rev. Clayton E. Williams, formerly of Indianapolis, Se-wickley, Pa., and Poughkeepsie, N. Y., is manager of the restaurant, which is a social, financial and gastronomic success.

It specializes in such American dishes as Boston baked beans, baked Virginia ham, apple pie and corn on the cob and is a cooperative, non-profit-making affair. The workers, chiefly American students, are volunteers. Their pay is a free meal.

A SCHOOLBOY REPLIES

NEW YORK (AP)—Asked to name by natural object that never has been alive, a New York city schoolboy answered, "The Statue of Liberty." This comes from a questionnaire reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Van Evrie Kilpatrick, New York director of nature education.

THE SON OF TARZAN, No. 28

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The sound of his voice brought every head erect. Wide-eyed the children viewed him an instant, then with screams of terror fled toward the village. To the alarm came a score of warriors with hastily snatched spears. The boy halted, the glad smile fading from his face as with shouts the warriors ran toward him. Akut called to him to turn back. Instead, he reaised his hand in a gesture of peace. A shower of spears answered it.

The missiles struck all about the boy, but none touched him. Again his spine tingled and the short hairs on his neck bristled. His eyes narrowed. Sudden hatred flared in them to wither the glad friendliness that had lighted them a moment before. With a low snarl, quite similar to a baffled beast, he turned and ran into the jungle. Akut awaited him in a tree. The wise old ape urged flight, knowing the sinewy black warriors would search for them.

But the son of Tarzan held back. Rage and hatred now consumed him. He wanted to fight yet he knew he could not meet these armed men with his naked hands. Moving slowly through the trees he could hear below him the savages advancing with shouts and cries. For a mile or so he followed above them. At last they turned back. One young warrior dropped behind his companions as they went down the narrow trail. A grim smile lit the boy's face.

Swiftly he hurried forward until he moved almost above the unsuspecting black, stalking him as Sheeta, the panther, stalks his prey. Suddenly and silently he leaped forward and downward upon the warrior's broad shoulders. As he landed, hurling the black heavily to the ground, his fingers sought and found the man's throat. The warrior struggled frantically in vain effort to dislodge the grim, silent thing clinging to him.

Runyan Wins St. Petersburg Tournament And First Money

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 28. (AP) — Wind swept the Pasadena course today, but failed to hamper Paul Runyan of N. Y., who equalled par with a 72 which he put with yesterday's 69 for a 36-hole total of 141, three under par to carry off $200 in prize money along with the St. Petersburg open golf championship.

Bill Mehlhorn of Louisville, Ky., finished second, three strokes back of Runyan with 144. Bracketed at 145 were five other pros — Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee, Wis., with 69-76—145; Walter Hagen of Detroit, 74-71—145; Ky Yaffoon of Denver, 74-71—145; Bob Shave, St. Petersburg, and Cleveland, 72-73—145, and Harry Cooper, Chicago, 70-75—145.

New Empire

and the women in decollete evening gowns, assembling for the ceremonies, resembled late homecomers from night clubs.

The religious ceremonies at the altar of heaven, consisting of three concentric circular terraces held in place by facings of brick, were short. These ceremonies conferred upon the youthful Manchu nobleman the title of "God's regent on earth."

Ascends The Altar

The raven-haired and bespectacled Pu-Yi in ceremonial robes emerged from an American-manufactured limousine of expensive make and ascended the altar, situated far outside the city. There he offered to God successive sacrifices of jewels, silks, grain, meat, wine and sacred fire.

That no mundane noises or human activity might mar the celestial quiet and solemnity of the ceremonies while the young ruler was offering prayer and sacrifice to heaven, all traffic, factory whistles, railroad communications and the hum of everyday life were hushed.

Except for a few high ranking Japanese officials, no foreigners were allowed to gaze upon Pu-Yi making his solemn ministrations to heaven.

Breathes Silent Prayer

At the altar of heaven Pu-Yi mounted the terraces and advanced slowly toward the center. Raising his eyes to the celestial dome above in profound reverence and humility he breathed a silent prayer to the creator.

It was a memorable scene. Against the barren, unending Manchurian plains, over which Tamerlane, Genghis Khan, Kubla Khan and Pu-Yi's predecessors had come and conquered, the frail frame of the emperor-elect, standing on the primitive earthen tabernacle and silhouetted against the sky seemed like a mere phantom figure on the desert.

In front of Pu-Yi as he faced south was a red lacquered wooden tablet inscribed with the name of his most remote ancestor, who was probably a primitive tribal chieftain.

Climax Arrives

The climax came when the emperor clad in his georgeous robe of vivid blue and red, raised his eyes to the sky and held aloft for heaven's consecration a great jade seal which the chief ritualist handed to him.

Then the emperor thrice prostrated himself upon the altar while an ancient Chinese ritual was intoned. As emperor, Kang Teh then silently held communion with the divinity while smoke curling up from a faggot-filled brazier symbolized the petition of the son of heaven rising to the supreme ruler of the universe. Thus ended the fifteen-minute drama.

Mother-In-Law

The sweet pea is our flower. It is our hope that clubs will be formed to make the observance nation-wide and permanent, so that future generations will forget the harsh jokes and criticism of our day."

Mrs. Griggs charged the second question to a wrong impression.

"It was not our intention to exclude mothers of sons," Mrs. Griggs said, "but many have taken us to task for doing so. I have three sons and two daughters, all married, and I love all the 'in-laws' as much as I do my own children."

PROPERTIES SOLD

DALLAS, Feb. 28. (AP)—The East Texas properties of the Falcon Oil company of Fort Worth have been purchased by the East Texas Oil and Refining company of Dallas, for a consideration amounting to $1,250,000, it was announced today.

Livestock

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 28. (AP)—An active and unevenly strong to 25 higher market on fed steers and yearlings featured the cattle trade around the mid-western circuit today. Cows were mostly unchanged, with slightly stronger prices quoted at several points. Stockers and feeders were in light supply with demand narrow.

At Chicago, choice 950-lb. yearling steers went at 7.50, strictly choice 1447-lb. beeves, 7.00; bulk of fed steers and yearlings generally from 4.75@6.75 at various markets; choice mixed yearlings averaging 732 lbs. 6.50 at Kansas City.

A top of 4.65 was reached on hogs at Chicago and bulk of the good to choice 180-300 lb. averages went at 4.15@4.60 around the circuit.

Fed lambs sold on an active and strong to 10 higher basis today. Several centers reporting a price of 10.00 paid freely with a top of 10.10 at Chicago and St. Louis. Bulk of the good to choice wooled skins ranged from 9.50@10.00, mostly 9.75@10.00. Some fall shorn Texas lambs of 77-lb. average sold at 8.35 at Omaha.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 28. (AP)—Hogs 800 including 127 directs; market weak to 15c lower; top 4.85; better grade averages 4.00 @4.75; packing sows 4.00@4.25.

Cattle 1,600; calves 500; market mostly steady trade in all classes cattle but some weakness in slaughter yearlings; strong weight fed steers 5.10; common grades 2.90 @3.50; slaughter yearlings 4.75@5.50; butcher sorts 2.75; stock steer calves 4.00@4.50; heavy fat calves up to 5.00; plainer grades around and under 4.00.

Sheep 800; wooled fed lambs 8.75; wooled fat ewes 4.75.

Advance estimates March 1—cattle 1,800; hogs 800; sheep 700.

Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Feb. 28. (AP)—Dwindling of purchase power weakened grain values at the last today, although the markets had shown unusual steadiness earlier.

Proposed Washington enactments which would apparently give the secretary of agriculture almost unlimited command over production and distribution of agricultural staple aroused much interest among traders, but owing to absence of specific details had little or no immediate market influence. Monthly unofficial crop summaries to be issued tomorrow were expected to show slight change as compared with Dec. 1, when wheat condition was estimated at around 74 per cent.

Wheat closed easy, 3-8 to 5-8 under yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to 1-4 lower, oats 1-8 to 3-8 down, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents up.

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. — A late selling flurry chipped away earlier gains in a dull stock market today. Trading was somewhat more active on the short-lived decline than during the slow advance but transactions for the session totaled only 1,317,150 shares.

At best, numerous leaders were up fractions to around a couple of points, with metals and amusements doing the leading. Steels responded mildly for a time to news on their operations aircrafts pointed higher and miscellaneous collection of stocks firmed slowly. The last hour witnessed a sudden increase of offerings which put the ticket a few minutes behind, and although selling quickly subsided it left the averages with a small net loss for the day.

Speculative interest in the metals appeared to have been stimulated by strength of silver and certain developments affecting that metal. Among them were ratification of the London agreement by China following similar action by the Canadian house of commons, and proposals for financing sale of silver to Cuba. Silver production in January rose nearly 30 per cent above December output, reflecting the higher price.

The market's cautious advance through the morning and early afternoon may have been influenced in part by further suggestions for modifying the security regulation act, although a basis for optimism was also offered by the midweek trade statistics. However, the rise in prices was very leisurely and this lack of enthusiasm no doubt had something to do with the later decision to sell.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 28. (AP)—Following a good early advance on favorable cables and firmer stocks, cotton encountered rather heavy selling in later trading today due to unfavorable reports from Washington on the Fletcher bill. There was some covering at the end and final prices were 5 to 7 points over the lows. The market closed steady at net advances of 2 to 5 points.

Initial transactions showed gains of 8 to 11 points in response to better Liverpool cables and some overnight buying orders. Liverpool reported buying there on favorable advices on the Bankhead bill and a revival of interest in silver.

In the afternoon an erroneous report that the Fletcher stock exchange control bill had passed the senate influenced considerable selling which, with some additional offerings induced by weakness in stocks carried values to new lows for the day. May sold off to 11.90, July to 12.05 and October to 12.19, or 16 to 18 points under the highs. The last minute covering brought closing prices to a small net gain for the day with July at 12.12, or 2 points net up and October at 12.14, or 5 points up.

Liverpool is due here tomorrow 3 to 4 penny points down.

Port receipts 10,188, for week 47,338, for season 6,472,280, last season 7,302,992. Exports 44,880, for week 107,585, for season 5,487,458, last season 5,538,614. Port stock 3,410,695, last year 4,582,527. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 133,475, last year 170,612. Spot sales at southern markets 5,952, last year 6,100.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (AP)—A further rise in cotton met increased offerings above the 12-cent level for May contracts today and was followed by reactions.

After selling up to 12.11 or 15 points net higher, during the early afternoon, May dropped to 11.93 in the late trading, but met a little more trade buying at the decline and closed at 11.98. The general market finished steady, net unchanged to 9 points higher.

Initial prices were 10 to 14 points on overnight buying orders and a scattering demand inspired by the relatively steady showing of Liverpool. This was supplied by selling through houses with Japanese connections combined with some liquidation or realizing.

Prices worked gradually higher during the middle of the day. March sold up to 11.99 and October to 12.37 at the best, or about 14 to 20 points net higher and from 28 to 35 points above yesterday's low level.

More selling developed at the 12 1-4 cent mark for July, and the market broke rather sharply during the last hour under realizing combined with some New Orleans and Wall Street selling, probably promoted by the action of the wheat and stock markets. March eased off to 11.83 and Julyto 12.08 with the close showing rallies of 3 to 5 points from the lowest.

Exports today 45,551 making 5,601,968 so far this season. U. S. port stocks 3,405,920.

Money Is Donated

The Lubbock Rotary club yesterday presented its donation, raised through solicitation of members, of $155.50. That was added to $150 from John W. Carpenter, Dallas, Tech director who also furnished the truck; $50 from Gene A. Howe, editor of The Amarillo News and Globe; $50 from the Avalanche-Journal; $30 from the members of the Tech faculty, and $5 from K. L. Riggs.

Members of the Kiwanis and Lions clubs have not yet announced the results of their campaigns but at least the Kiwanians will be able to report today and probably the Lions next week.

Bank Robbery Attempt Is Frustrated; One Is Slain

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb., Feb. 28. (AP) — A bank robbery attempt by three soldiers from Fort Crook, army post near Omaha, was frustrated here late today by Deputy Sheriff J. E. Lancaster, who killed one of the trio, and led a posse in the capture of the other two.

The dead robber, tentatively identified as Clyde A. Durham, private at the fort, was shot and killed as he stood in the lobby of the Plattsmouth State bank, forcing Cashier F. A. Cloidt at the point of a gun to fill a money bag.

Swansea, Wales, was recently visited by floods.

Professor Heard told of activities of the Techshire Guild at the college and exhibited sample fabrics produced by the students who are working their way through college by the use of the hand looms in use by the guild.

Accomplishments Shown

In his annual report, Secretary Elders showed a long list of accomplishments including community entertainment, relief work, cooperation with county and home demonstration agents, city beautification and park improvement, exhibiting at leading regional fairs, the securing and promotion of a cheese factory and other activities.

Outstanding in the list of accomplishments was the securing and promotion of the cheese factory, Elders declared. The factory is shipping cheese all over Texas at present and is unable to fill all orders at this time, he said.

Holdover directors include: H. E. Clingan, Major Rogers, J. A. Turrentine, E. M. Aycock.

Tech Expedition

Dr. R. A. Studhalter, Dr. Charles J. Wagner and Chas. A. Guy, all of Lubbock, and Dr. Carl Seltzer, of Cambridge, Mass., will travel in a closed car and will be joined at the border Sunday by Ross Edwards, of Lubbock, who is taking his own car. Mr. Edwards will remain with the party only three of the six weeks it expects to be out.

Doctor Seltzer, attached to the expedition by Harvard university, arrived in Lubbock last night "rarin' to go," although, being a New Englander, he didn't put it in exactly those words. He is a physical anthropologist of note.

Meet Yaquis At Tucson

The party will spend tonight in Van Horn, Friday night somewhere between El Paso and Tucson, and Saturday and Sunday in Tucson where they will meet representatives of the Yaquis. They will cross the border at Nogales, Ariz.-Sonora, Monday, push on to Hermosillo, Sonora capital, and Guaymas, on the coast, where they leave civilization for Yaqui strongholds about one week from today. First Yaqui village to be visited will be Potam—and from then on your guess is as good as anyone else's.

Each member of the party has been subjected to a thorough physical examination and has been pronounced fit.

They expect to return to Lubbock by April 15.

Final Changes To Aid Needy

Mass Treatment Of All Types Of Relief To Be Abandoned By Government; Specialized Efforts Are Planned

money out of its $950,000,000 fund and for the subsistence homestead and kindred agencies to furnish the ideas, the people and the material to put the permanent plan underway.

Self-Support Needed

In speaking of the need for furnishing a means of self-support to the needy of rural areas, Mr. Roosevelt observed that "in many parts of the country this calls for a change from commercial farming and dependence upon a single cash crop to the raising of the various commodities needed to maintain the families."

In the subsistence farm theory, the administration is tentatively fostering the idea of home or community units of production.

Included in this home and community production to date have been such plans as food canning. Textile weaving and similar projects, dependent on the type of people, the availability of material and other factors.

Hope Held Out

It is in this latter category that some administration members see hope for the millions whose jobs have disappeared. They reason that by becoming self-sustaining these people will have greater spending power and will contribute to restoring balance to the whole national economic scale.

In discussing the plans for helping the impoverished farmer, President Roosevelt said:

"No encouragement of an extension of competitive farming is contemplated, but rather the placing of thousands of persons, who have made their living from agriculture, into a relationship with the soil that will provide them a security they do not now enjoy."

Lacking In Detail

Like the other two phases of the newly announced relief program, this phase was lacking in detail, but the president pointed to such vehicles of aid as improvement of farm buildings and the provision of seed of stock for subsistence requirements with enough other work to supply "modest cash incomes."

Other sources of federal aid income for the hard-time farmer that were pointed out by the president include a chance to turn his hand to the more or less familiar tasks of working on highways, in the forests of national or state parks and on other public works projects peculiar to farm areas.

To meet the needs of the unemployed city worker, the president proposed work projects on which employment would be given for periods not longer than six months, administered by local relief agencies. This was the nearest direct extension of the CWA idea in the revised program of the president.

New Tariff Experiment Is Agreed Upon By Democrats

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP) — Congressional Democratic leaders agreed today to try a new tariff experiment by extending authority to President Roosevelt to change rates by as much as 50 per cent in negotiating agreements with other countries.

Mr. Roosevelt will send a message to the capitol in the next day or so requesting such power to deal with the tariff—an issue that has been the firebrand of American politics for years.

Decision to force the issue at this session was reached at a White House conference late today. The president insisted upon action now. Democratic leaders tonight anticipated considerable debate but were confident it would not prolong the session of congress into the summer.

CONFESSES SLAYINGS

DENVER, Feb. 28. (AP)—Detectives Captain William J. Armstrong announced tonight that John and Louis Pacheco had confessed they killed Clifford Smith and Bobby Griffin, at Wellington, Colo., last night, seriously wounded Mrs. Viola Smith, and attempted to burn their bodies.

Completes 25th Year With Firm

NEIL H. WRIGHT

Neil H. Wright of Lubbock has completed his 25th year as a representative of Southland Life Insurance company.

Officials of the company have congratulated Mr. Wright "upon this long and worthy term of service to the citizens of your community and to this company."

"We congratulate you on your job, and ours, of working for the greatest humanitarian institution in the world—life insurance," the statement of the company officers said.

NEWS BRIEFS

Frank Moore, Floyd county tax collector, and Tad Probasco, deputy tax collector, were Lubbock visitors yesterday. Mr. Moore is a brother of Louie Moore, Lubbock county deputy clerk.

A Slaton negro was charged with wife desertion in a complaint filed with Justice of the Peace J. S. Connell yesterday.

Fire Marshal D. A. Forbess said yesterday that a five-room frame residence destroyed by fire late Saturday at 407 Thirtieth street was insured for $2,450 and its furniture, most of which was destroyed, although some was carried out, at $900. S. S. Collett owned the residence.

A 48-year-old Lubbock man, arrested Tuesday as suspect in several minor thefts, still was held last night. Three hats found in his possession were identified as ones stolen from the Struve Mercantile company at Abernathy.

E. O. Parks yesterday said he had resigned as a deputy constable under Constable L. H. Holt and Sunday would announce his candidacy for election to the office of constable of precinct 1.

the workers the right to join unions of their own choosing.

Although Johnson was absent she addressed him with these words:

"General Johnson, I want to say with all the earnestness at my command that until men like Weir Budd and others of the big industrialists are made to obey the law of the land there is no manner of use in taking away blue eagles from little beauty shops or corner restaurants."

She said officials at Apollo, Pa., near Pittsburgh, had cancelled a permit for her to use a hall there for a speech on orders from steel leaders "who determined that no meeting to discuss NRA should be held in their town."

"Mrs. Pinchot," McGrady interrupted, "if you in the future desire to go to any place and opposition develops I would love to go with you and rip the curtain off this."

NRA, she said, had done quite a bit of good but she reminded Johnson he had told workers they need not strike to obtain recognition for their union and that the government would protect them in their rights.

"I wonder," she said, raising her voice, "if you ever stay awake at night seeing the faces of the thousands of men and women, who are packing the streets of Pennsylvania towns, jobless and desperate—because they had faith in your promises and went ahead and organized a union—and for so doing lost their jobs—and never a finger in Washington lifted to help them."

Worried About Finances? Not This Little Town In Virginia

HAMILTON, Va., Feb. 28. (AP)—Cities having trouble with their municipal finances might take a few lessons from the village of Hamilton.

Last year citizens paid no town taxes. Costs of sidewalks, electric lights and other municipal expenses were paid out of a surplus carefully built up by the council for that purpose.

If there's any destitution among the 500 residents of the community, it's kept quiet. No help has been asked from any relief agency.

Town taxes will be collected this year, but the rate is only 35 cents per $100 valuation of property.

Early Maya City Found In Mexico

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP) — The Carnegie institution of Washington announced its archaeologists had discovered ruins of an important Maya city dating from before 600 A. D. in a previously unexplored region of Campeche, Mexico.

Two great stone courts and 20 sculptured stone monuments, 15 of them still standing, were found during a preliminary exploration of the site. Dates on the monuments in the Maya hieroglyphics indicated the city was occupied during the so-called "old empire" period of Maya history. During this period the Mayans occupied many cities in Central America but about 600 A. D. they abandoned the old centers for an unknown reason and migrated north to northern Yucatan where new cities were built.

The institution said the ruins lie midway between the old empire cities and those of the "new empire" to which the Maya migrated and might furnish a clue to the reason for the migration.

Ultimatum To Chancellor Expires; No Fight Looms

VIENNA, Feb. 28. (AP) — A half dozen smoke bombs burst in Vienna today and several nazi flags were unfurled in the provinces, but the expiration of a nazi leader's ultimatum to Chancellor Dollfuss' government was marked by comparative peace.

Theodore Habicht, exiled advisor of Austrian nazis, threatened a "resumption of the fight" if, in eight days, nazis were not taken into the administration. But up to this evening there were few sights of this "fight."

Educators Plan Development Of Newer Concepts At Meet

CLEVELAND, Feb. 28. (AP)—Accused of teaching out-moded social and economic theories, the nation's foremost educators today resolved to take the lead in furthering the development of the newer concepts, and agreed the schools and colleges should "keep in step."

Highlight of the educators' trend was the adoption of a resolution urging President Roosevelt to create a special council for national social-economic planning.

BIDS ARE ASKED

AUSTIN, Feb. 28. (AP)—J. H. Walker, state land commissioner, today announced bids had been requested for the lease of 1,911 acres of state prison land, approximately 15,000 acres of submerged coastal land and 2,700 acres of state school land for oil and gas development.

STUDY LEGISLATION

AUSTIN, Feb. 28. (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and her husband-advisor studied today over the mass of legislation sent to the executive offices in the closing hours of a special session.

The session adjourned at 2:05 a. m. after a 30-day meeting.

Clyde Barrow Again Escapes

Officers Are Confident That Notorious Bandit Mixed Up In Robbery Of A Lancaster Bank Tuesday

DALLAS, Feb. 28. (AP)—Once again, investigators concluded today, Clyde Barrow has laughed at "the law" and got away—this time with the $4,138 robbery of a bank in the small town of Lancaster, half an hour's ride by electric interurban from Dallas.

Positive identification was lacking but, from a description of the robbers and their methods, officers were convinced that the three men who matter-of-factly robbed the cashier and a customer of the R. P. Henry and Sons bank of Lancaster yesterday were Clyde Barrow and Raymond Hamilton, boastful young West Dallas "hister," and another escaped convict from the Texas penitentiary.

Picture Completed

A farmer living near Kleberg, not many miles distant, told of seeing three men drive up to a car in which a woman had been waiting by the roadside several hours, get out of their machine and drive hurriedly off with her. That, to officers, completed the picture.

The woman, they surmised, must have been Bonnie Parker, Barrow's cigar-smoking "moll" and companion in many bullet peppered escapades throughout the middle west. Hamilton was freed, along with five other convicts, from the Eastham state prison farm January 16, under cover of a fusillade from a machine gun reputedly directed by Barrow. Since that time, the three have frequently been reported seen together.

The car the robbers abandoned near Kleberg was identified as one stolen Sunday night from G. Jeff Waggoner of Wichita Falls.

Married Flirts

by MABEL McELLIOTT

© 1933 NEA Service, Inc.

The Weavers were scrupulously polite to each other.

"More toast, Tom?"

"No thank . . ." Business of consulting his watch. Just a distant politeness.

"We might," Gypsy reflected gloomily, "have been married for centuries."

He came back into the living room with his overcoat on his gray soft hat in his hand to say goodby. Gypsy's lip trembled a little. This — this really was dreadful! Where was Tom? Where was her own boy? She couldn't find him in this stiff and formal stranger.

"It's Dinah night on," she told him. "Dinner at seven."

"Right. At seven." And he was gone.

She sat down and cried. She couldn't help it. Well, she had no time for this. A business woman-wife didn't. She'd have to hurry. Bath. Cold cream. Dash of lipstick. Heavens, she looked a wreck! What circles she had under her eyes!

Well, there was no help for it. Maybe the circles made her look pale and interesting. She hoped so. She lost herself as she rushed into her dark blue knitted dress, in a dream of intense dramatic interest. In the dream, she wasted away to nothing and her husband looked on, wringing his hands and begging to be forgiven.

On the subway she read her morning paper. It seemed to her there were more than the usual number of divorce stories, although goodness knew there were always enough of them. She read them with newly sharpened interest. Mr. B. . . . of Riverside Drive was marrying his beautiful secretary as soon as his Reno stay was over. Mrs. W. . . . of Yonkers was getting her decree and shortly thereafter marrying a Slavic nobleman. It was thought Gypsy, frighteningly. Didn't anybody stay married nowadays? She had never thought of divorce, before this, in connection with Tom and herself. But her thoughts were morbid this morning.

"Nonsense. Nothing has happened," she told herself, robustly. "Why we haven't even had a cross word." No, but he had discovered how angry he could be with Tom. Why last night when Hilda Blanchard had been so possessive with him, she had wanted to claw her eyes out—and Tom's too, for being such a goose.

Jealousy, Gypsy decided, was a dreadful thing. It was so unreasoning. It was such a bitter, black emotion. It was like a disease. She had had a taste of it before, when Tom had taken Vera Gray to lunch. She had told herself, when that incident had blown over, that nothing like this would ever happen to her again. She would be calm, judicial. she would use her head instead of her heart.

But apparently Tom was the sort of man women ran after. She looked gloomily down a vista in which she rescued him from dozens of affairs. "I can't stand it!" she told herself, in despair. "I won't."

That evening, when Dinah had cleared away and was clattering happily in the kitchen, dropping aluminum saucepans with vigor and slamming spoons down upon the metal topped table, the Weavers had it out.

It all began quietly. Gypsy started it with a remark about Marko. Tom said something cutting, and she flung back at him all her good resolutions gone.

"I noticed Hilda Blanchard held on to you all evening," she said bitterly.

"That's good." Tom's face was flushed. "You were listening to everything that old chap said. You didn't pay any attention to me."

It was terrible . . . terrible. They quarreled in low voices, so that they should not be heard above Dinah's clamor, but even in the kitchen, she stood to listen, hands akimbo, shaking her woolly head in sadness.

"Such nice young folks, too," Dinah mourned.

"I didn't want to go, anyway," Tom stormed. "You made me. It was your idea. We don't belong with that crowd. We can't keep up with them."

"You liked it well enough, once you were there," she reminded him. "You had a good time. You danced . . . you flirted . . ."

"What would you have me do?" Tom demanded. He couldn't, he said, be rude to the girl. She was darned attractive, anyhow.

This turned the knife in Gypsy's side.

"Easy enough for her to be attractive," she flared. "She's probably got a personal maid, heaps of clothes, charge accounts everywhere . . ."

"Oho, so that's it!" Tom stood up. "I suppose the idea is that I'm spoiling your looks tying you down to drudgery."

"No. . . no . . . I didn't mean that."

She began stormily to cry. She was so angry, so furious with everyone, the world, Tom, and herself in particular. What had happened to them both?

His manner changed. He came over and knelt down beside her, taking her small hands in his. He gave her a clean handkerchief.

"Don't cry, baby," he very gently. "We're both being such fools, and all about nothing."

Timber Fortune Lies Submerged In River's Bed

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 28. (AP)—Submerged in the waters of the Perdido river along the western boundary of Florida is great wealth—not in sunken galleons or pirates' chests but in logs.

For a century or more a lumber company used the river to transport timber to Muskogee, site of its mill. Countless logs sank on the journeys down stream but in those days of great forests, no effort was made to retrieve them.

Fresh water has little detrimental effect on the timber, foresters said, and the Perdido's treasure is believed to be in marketable condition.

Much of the oak lumber used in the reconstruction of the frigate Constitution—"Old Ironsides"— was fished from Commodore's pond near the naval air training station on the outskirts of Pensacola.

Some of those logs were said to have been in the water since the Civil war and naval records show they were as sound as timber just cut off the stump.

George Webb Loser In Race To File Divorce; Will Not Oppose Procedure

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28. (AP) — Loser by three hours and 20 minutes in competing with Esther Ralston to file a divorce action, George Webb said today he had withdrawn his complaint and would not contest the movie actress' suit.

The film director said the double filing of divorce actions Monday was a mistake. His withdrawal followed a conference of attorneys at which a property settlement, the details of which were not told, was made.

"I intended to slip my action through the court under our true name, Frey, and thus avoid any publicity which might harm my wife's career," Webb said.

He said the "separation" was suggested by Miss Ralston more than a year ago "as a means of promoting a new public interest in her as an actress and to stimulate her comeback to the screen."

"We separated publicly last August 8," Webb added, "but actually did not become estranged until 30 days ago. I never dreamed a divorce would result."

Miss Ralston charged Webb with being unreasonably jealous and with calling her harsh names.

Oriental Treasure Is Sought On South African Coastline

EAST LONDON, South Africa, Feb. 28. (AP) — Buried treasure believed to lie along the coast between East London and the Keiskama river is to be sought by a syndicate.

Records show that in the early days, when wind-jammers carried valuable cargoes to England from India, many ships were wrecked near here.

There also is a widely held theory that the first white people to land along the eastern coast were buccaneers whose wrecked ship carried bullion and gems which the survivors cached ashore.
