US, W. Germany Sign New Arms Agreement

Top Defense Chiefs Meet

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will build three guided missile destroyers for West Germany and will buy a new 20 millimeter automatic gun from that country under agreements signed today by the defense chiefs of the two countries.

A communique of meetings conducted here by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and West German Defense Minister Kai-uwe von Hassel announced this among other results of the conference.

On the subject of a NATO nuclear fleet, the communique said that the two defense chiefs "agreed that their respective defense establishments should be prepared to implement the concept as soon as possible after the requisite international political decisions have been made."

This referred to the controversy among several NATO countries, including France and Britain, over the fleet, a controversy which has delayed a decision on creating it beyond the hoped for time of late this year.

The communique said that "Pending these decisions, discussions were limited to reviewing the status of planning for the surface ship multilateral force with particular attention to the specific problems of manpower, production, financing and training that will require resolution in order to make this an effective force, as well as an instrument of unity."

The proposed nuclear fleet is generally called a multilateral force because it calls for international crews.

The communique said that the U.S. and German defense departments which previously had agreed on joint future development of a new main battle tank, now have agreed upon the characteristics for this tank.

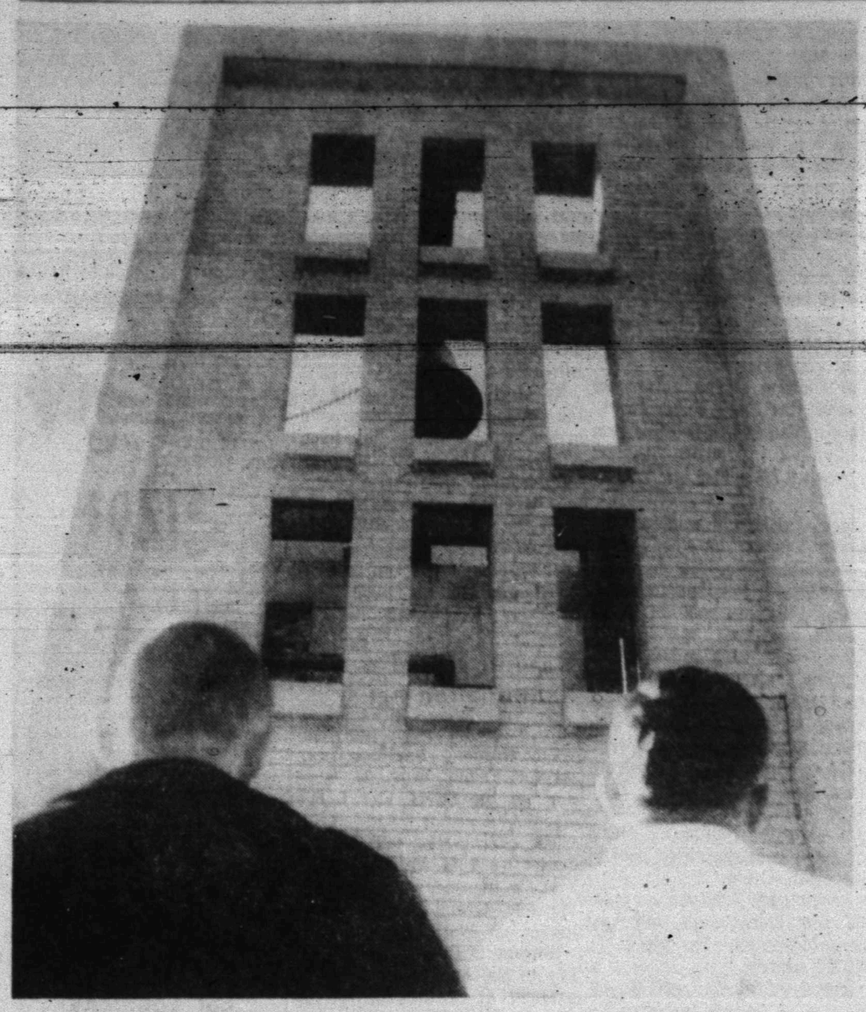

These characteristics would provide a big jump in tank capabilities. The tank is generally expected to be of about 60 tons.

The communique said that the U.S. Defense Department has had "considerable interest in equipping" U.S. forces with a 20mm gun now used by the West German forces.

The German army has adopted this design to match the large quantity of 14.5mm machine guns with which Russian forces are armed.

"The U.S. Army had been testing the gun for the last year and as a result plans to purchase substantial numbers of this weapon beginning in calendar year 1965, assuming that adequate progress could be made in the solution of certain problems developed in the testing period," the communique said.

"The U.S. Army is optimistic that these problems can be resolved during the course of the next 12 months."

HIGH IN THE SKY over Snyder High School is the Victory Bell. Snyder students Robert Foree and Larry Anderson gaze upward at the bell, knowing that it will ring to tell the town of high achievements of the various departments of the school.

Victories Are Tolled By Snyder High Bell

When the bell in the Snyder High School tower began to ring Friday evening, even those folks who weren't at the ball game knew who'd won.

And those folks who were at the game, even though they knew the score, felt a little better when they heard the bell because it was expressing their feelings out loud — feelings that they might have felt a little silly in expressing themsleves.

The bell that rings is a 600-pound bronze bell — 80 per cent copper and 20 per cent tin. It hangs from a beam at the very top of the tower — a beam placed there especially for the bell by the maintenance department of the Snyder schools.

But the bell is more than just a piece of metal hanging from a wooden beam. It represents an achievement, because the raising of the $1,550 cost of the bell plus the $300 for its installation isn't easy when it's done a dime, a quarter, or a dollar at a time.

The inscription on the bell is richly deserved:

SNYDER SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL
by
STUDENT COUNCIL OF '62, '63, '64
and
SENIOR CLASSES OF '62, '63, '64

It was the students of these classes, and the clubs to which they belonged that raised the money. And, of course, some of them donated knowing that they would be gone before they ever heard the bell ring.

The bell is rung electrically. A button in the bell tower, or a button in the stadium press box can be pushed, and the bell will ring. Or it can be set to ring automatically.

This is fine, but after a little experience it was found that it also posed a problem. When a bell is rung electrically, the bell is mounted in a fixed position. The clapper is made to move and strike the bell.

But a bell's sound is better distributed if the bell is swinging — throwing its sound out as it comes to the top of each swing. If the bell remains fixed, the sound is pretty well sent straight down.

And that's why, in order to get the amount of sound that the bell should really give, another $300 was raised by Snyder students to put an amplifier on the bell. Now folks can hear its happy sound in the area it was first expected to cover.

Some policies have been set up for the ringing of the bell by a student committee — policies that were approved by the school administration.

The most obvious of course is the sounding of the bell for 10 minutes after the winning of an A Team football victory, whether at home or away from home.

For B Team games the bell is rung for 10 minutes after a home victory, and at 8 o'clock the following school morning for out-of-town games.

In basketball games at home, the bell is to be rung for a short period between A and B games if the B team wins, and the regular 10 minutes after the A Team victory. For out-of-town non - conference basketball games the bell is to be rung next school mornings for both.

UF Wrap-Up Effort Set

Plans for a final wrap - up effort in behalf of the Scurry County United Fund Campaign have been announced by Bill Seale, campaign director.

Special service club days have been scheduled during the coming week, at which time members of the participating service clubs will help work the remaining contact cards in the campaign.

The day will be "Lions Club Day," Wednesday will be "Kiwanis Club Day," and Thursday will be "Rotary Club Day." At their respective luncheon meetings, members of the three service clubs will take United Fund cards, make contacts immediately and submit their reports.

At the same time, Scurry County was one of two counties in the district which had no personal injury accidents on state and federal highways during last month.

ON DISPLAY—This picture, "Apache Ambush," was painted by George Phippen in 1950 and was purchased by the Diamond M Foundation in 1952. It is among the works of Phippen which will be on display at the Diamond M Art Center here next Saturday when the artist makes a personal appearance.

Artist George Phippen Due Here At Diamond M Event

Scores of out-of-town guests are expected at the Diamond M Foundation Art Gallery in Snyder next Saturday, Nov. 21, for a special showing of paintings and sculpture by George Phippen.

Phippen himself will be present for the showing.

C. T. McLaughlin, founder of the Diamond M Foundation, has invited local residents to attend the event between the hours of 2 p.m. and 4 p.m.

George Phippen was born to a family of livestock raisers in Iowa in 1915. At an early age, he moved with the family to Kansas where he grew up in a ranching area.

After finishing school, he traveled the West until he entered the Armed Forces (Coast Artillery) in 1941. Upon his discharge after World War II, he and his wife and children went to Arizona where Phippen could pursue the arts of painting and sculpturing western life.

Phippen entered the world of art by illustrating stories and doing covers for western magazines, as well as doing oil paintings for the galleries. Since 1948 he has sold his paintings through the Taos Art Gallery in Taos, N. M.

In the winter of 1952, Phippen signed a contract with Brown & Bigelow, the largest calendar company in the world. He has been doing the western hanger since 1956. His western calendar is selling in the top 10 calendars of the world.

In the last eight years he has been having his sculpture pieces cast in bronze. These too depict the cattle industry and cowboy life. Living in the heart of the cow country at Skull Valley, Ariz., Phippen is painting and sculpturing the riding man, his life and equipment of past and present with the love only a cowboy at heart could do.

Phippen makes no claim to being a top hand as a cowboy, but he does claim to be a top observer. His paintings and sculptures are included in many of the largest and finest collections of western art in the world. They also may be seen in many homes in America, plus many other countries.

US Guard Fires On Reds In Incident Near Nuernberg

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP) — A Soviet military mission sedan was fired on by an American guard when it failed to obey orders to halt, U.S. Army headquarters in Europe announced here today.

The incident occurred Wednesday when the car approached a restricted U.S. military area near Nuernberg, the Army said.

The vehicle's two occupants, a Soviet colonel and an enlisted man driver, were detained for about seven hours and then released.

The Soviet military liaison mission is attached to U.S. headquarters. The United States has a similar mission attached to the Soviets in East Germany.

U.S. Army headquarters has protested to the Soviet military liaison mission located in Frankfurt, that the Soviet car violated a well-marked restricted military area.

The Soviet sedan entered the resrestricted area at around 2 p.m. Wednesday despite signs in English, Russians and German warning against trespassing.

The sedan's occupants ignored repeated orders by a U.S. guard to halt, the Army said.

It added when a warning shot was fired into the air, the vehicle attempted to leave the scene. A member of the guard then fired at the vehicle's left rear tire.

The statement did not say whether the car was hit.

The Soviets stopped the car and said they had the Army military guard to halt the car," the Army said.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My beloved mother passed away recently, so I called the minister and asked him for the wording of some prayer I could say for my mother, and he said, "I'm too busy — and a lot of good prayer will do her now!" You see, Mamma went to church long ago, but my father never liked to go, so Mamma finally quit going. Abby, I can't believe that Heaven is open only to church members. I've called all the book stores in town and they say there aren't any prayers for the dead in any of the prayer books they have. I've heard there are places where you send a few dollars and they pray for the dead, but I don't know their addresses. Abby, I'd be so grateful if you would print a short prayer I could say for my mother before I go to sleep. Any faith is acceptable. I can't let you send it to my home because my father looks over the mail first and I'm sure I'd never get it. Please don't turn down my odd request. It means the world to me. Thank you, and God bless you, Abby. Sign me —

A PRAYER FOR MAMMA

DEAR PRAYER: From a Hebrew prayer book: "I remember thee in this solemn hour, my dear mother. I remember the days thou didst dwell on earth, and thy tender love watched over me like a guardian angel. Thou hast gone from me, but the bond which unites our souls can never be severed; thy image lives within my heart. May the merciful Father reward thee for the faithfulness and kindness thou hast shown me; may He lift up the light of His countenance upon thee, and grant thee eternal peace. Amen."

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 56 and I am 55. We have been married thirty years and aside from the usual differences other married couples have, we have had no major marital problems. Yesterday my husband came home from a business trip and flatly announced to me that he was "impotent"! Naturally, my first question was, "How do you know?" He turned red, never said a word, and walked into the other room. Did I do anything wrong?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: No. But he probably did.

DEAR ABBY: I am an attractive middle - aged woman who lost her husband 7 years ago after 20 years of happy marriage. (No children.) I hold a good position and have an adequate income. The first five years of widowhood I threw myself into my work and shut myself off from the world, socially. Then I started to go out occasionally. Two years ago I met a man I could really love. We had everything in common and it was just like a young first romance. Here's the catch. He told me from the start that he had been deeply hurt once in marriage and he will never marry again. He repeatedly tells me, how much he loves me, but marriage is out. He could replace me in a minute because he has much to offer. I know no other man who could compare with him. Am I wise to end it right now?

DISTRESSED

DEAR DISTRESSED: Yes. When a marriage - minded woman is told by the man she loves that marriage is out because he was "hurt" once, she should head for the nearest exit and never look back. His excuse is a poor one, but it always works. Some "deeply hurt" men have been known to recover quickly when they learn that the lady won't have them on any other basis.

DEAR ABBY: I'm tired of reading letters from these tramps who are "in love" with married men whose wives don't understand them, and they're just staying married for the sake of the children.

Maybe a wife knows that her husband is no prize, but the love of a mother for her children takes first place over everything else. If any "other woman" is willing to wait until my children are educated and on their own, she's welcome to my middle - aged old goat, or what's left of him when I'm through with him.

Red Plane Brings Arms To Rebels

By ROBIN MANNOCK

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — A Soviet-built IL18 cargo plane has landed supplies, believed to be ammunition, in Uganda for the Congo's Communist-backed rebels, according to reports reaching Leopoldville today.

Diplomatic sources said there was "a 100 per cent probability" that the reports were true. They said the plane, with all its markings painted out, landed three truckloads of supplies at the Ugandan town of Arua, close to the Congo's northeastern border, on Oct. 31.

The crew of the four-engine turbojet plane was white and was believed to be Algerian, the reports said. They added that it was believed the aircraft had flown to Arua from Tanganyika.

The reports said the trucks, laden with small boxes resembling crates of small arms ammunition, left immediately in the direction of the Congolese town just inside rebel-held territory.

Observers here noted that the flight followed a desperate radio appeal by Christophe Gbenye, self-proclaimed president of the "Congolese People's Republic" in Stanleyville, calling for help from Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella and four other African leaders.

Gbenye demanded help "within the next few hours" from Ben Bella, Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah, Guinea's President Sekou Toure, President Modibo Keita of Mali and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic. None is known to have replied openly to Gbenye's appeal.

The reports dated the landing at Arua a few days before Tanganyikan President Julius Nyerere had formally denied that his country was being used as a base for subversion of other independent African states.

Council Oks Unity Schema

By GERALD MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — With an overwhelming 1,870 to 82 vote, the Vatican Ecumenical Council approved today its Christian unity schema, clearing the way for its proclamation as a full church decree by Pope Paul VI. It pioneers a new path for Roman Catholic relations with other Christians.

The schema is the first to be completed in this third council session.

Council fathers in St. Peter's Basilica approved minor textual adjustments in the third and final chapter of the schema "De Ecumenismo" (on ecumenism) with the vote.

It is likely the Pope will promulgate it as a decree before the council recesses a week from today.

Only two other schemas have been completed in previous sessions of the council, which began in October 1962.

Railroad Commission Lists Completions

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission said Saturday 165 oil wells were completed in Texas during the week, bringing the year total to 7,405.

During the same period in 1963, a total of 7,653 oil and 2,169 gas wells were completed. Gas well completions this year total 2,397, including 37 during the week.

A total of 162 wells were plugged during the week, including 99 dry holes.

Six gas and three oil wildcats were drilled.

The statewide total average calendar day allowable is 2,928,468 barrels, up 3,581.

VICTORIES

A and B victories; or just A team victory.

For conference basketball games the bell is to be rung immediately following games when both A and B Teams win; or just A Team victories. In tournaments the bell is to be rung the following school morning at 8 o'clock only for winning the tournament, A or B teams. The Canyon Reef and Snyder B tournaments are regarded as home games.

In baseball and volleyball, the bell is to be rung immediately following victories at home, and at 8 o'clock the following school morning for out-of-town games.

In track victories, the bell will be rung the following school morning for winning out - of - town meets, and will be rung immediately following the winning of the Canyon Reef Relay.

For tennis, golf, forensic and UIL literary victories the bell will ring the following school morning after winning a tournament.

The bell will also ring at 8 o'clock the following school morning when the band or choir win first division ratings, or when school publications make first division ratings in their contests.

Cast by the Buckeye Bell Foundry in Ohio, the bell is guaranteed for 20 years, but it's expected to last a lot longer than that. And when students go to school for years to come, glance up at the tower and see the bronze bell quietly gleaming in the tower, they may not have a conscious feeling, but they'll know that their bell is there — waiting to ring if, by their excellence, they are able to make it do so.

Makes 1st Appearance With Replaced Arm

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Cheerful and smiling, Bob Swafford greeted photographers for the first time Friday since the accident which ripped off his right arm.

A spokesman at University Hospital said the surgically rejoined arm continues to show "satisfactory improvement and there is less chance of infection than there was."

The 6-foot-9 Oklahoma State basketball player has begun passive therapy on the arm to prevent deterioration and the stitches have been removed though bandages and splints still cover most of the arm.

The arm was severed when it was caught in a commercial laundry water extractor machine Nov. 1 and was rejoined that night in a six-hour operation by a team of surgeons at the University Hospital.

Co-Op Drops Plans For New Generator

GILMER (AP)—Upshur-Rural Electric Co-Operative has dropped plans to build a generating plant near Ore City.

J. L. Johnson, the manager, said the Southwestern Electric Power Co. had made a new contract offer to the co-op with power which would save $700,000 in 10 years.

The co-op serves 11 counties in East Texas.

Films Selected By Heart Unit

Selection of three films was the main order of business for the Scurry County Heart Association at its regular monthly meeting Wednesday. The local group received the award of the films from the Texas Heart Association when it was designated as having "the best program or continuing program - by a council of the Texas Heart Association." The local program receiving this recognition is the "School Heart Survey" which has been conducted in the elementary grades of the schools in Scurry County.

The films selected are "Your Heart," an animated film which illustrates the function of the heart, "Mr. Pump Takes Heart," narrated by the late Eddie Cantor, a film which corrects common misconceptions about heart disease and shows the folly of self - diagnosis, and "Coronary Heart Disease," illustrates the structure of the coronary arteries, how they nourish the heart, what happens when a heart attack occurs, and the problems of management after a heart attack.

It was noted that none of the films have been viewed extensively by local audiences. It is estimated that they will require a total of about 20 minutes viewing time, and that they should provide informative and useful material as a program for interested organizations. As soon as these heart films are available locally, an announcement regarding their use will be made.

In other business, the group reviewed, with gratitude, the generous response in recent months to the Scurry County Heart Association's memorial gifts program. Memorial gifts chairman for the Scurry County Heart Association is Mrs. Badger Robertson. Contributions may be mailed to her at Route 1, Box 207, Snyder; or, call HI-3-3660 for further information.

Believes Rail Strike Can Be Averted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although members of six unions are ready to strike most of the nation's major railroads Nov. 23, the head of a presidential emergency board which studied the dispute said he believes there will be no strike.

Former Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth was quoted by radio station WRCV-NBC in Philadelphia as saying that the dispute would end up in the White House and that the strike threat is "just formal negotiation tactics."

Federal mediators plan to continue talks with both sides in the dispute over wages and fringe benefits Monday in Chicago.

The six shop unions, numbering more than 150,000 members, are free to walk off their jobs after midnight Nov. 19 when a 30-day mandatory waiting period expires.

They represent machinists, boilermakers, sheet metal workers, electricians, carmen and firemen and oilers.

Five other unions, representing clerks, maintenance of way employes, telegraphers, hotel and restaurant employes and signalmen, are also involved in the dispute but have made no strike plans.

All of the nation's major railroads are involved except the Southern and the Florida East Coast.

Snow, Rain Fall In Eleven States

By The Associated Press

Snow fell today overportions of 11 mountain states and rain fell over a section of northern New England, but elsewhere there was no easing in the critical shortage of moisture.

At Craig, Colo., the snowfall measured 12 inches shortly after midnight. Elsewhere the fall measured from a thin cover to six inches in Utah.

The Weather Bureau said the snow will spread later today into the plains states and southward into the Texas panhandle.

The mountain snow was heavier over skiing areas. In southcentral Colorado, two feet of snow lay on upper slopes for skiers, and at Aspen and Vail, upper slopes had 18 inches of snow.

There was little, if any, rainfall in the country except in northern New England.

Ten thousand acres of farm, brush and woodland were destroyed by a fire in northern Indiana. Illinois closed state forest lands to hunters.

In upper New York State, civil defense equipment was being used to tap standby water sources. Many new fires were reported in the area.

Massachusetts authorities estimated dairy and produce farmers had lost $6 million because pasture feed crops had dried up.

Elsewhere in the northeast, water supplies continued to drop and conservationists were hunting alternative sources to tap.

Mishap Reported

The Snyder police department reported a two - car mishap at 6:44 p.m. Friday at Avenue S and the Deep Creek bridge.

Snyder Students Donate To MacArthur Freedom Shrine

The Snyder High School student council last week voted to donate $25 to the Douglas MacArthur Academy of Freedom at Brownwood.

Governor John Connally issued a proclamation in which he commended "a grass roots movement . . among the school children of Texas to collect funds for erection of a statue of General MacArthur at the entrance to the Academy."

Governor Connally also said "It is fitting that a memorial to one of our Nation's greatest soldiers and statesmen will be established through the efforts of young people who admire and emulate the dedication to duty, honor and country which motivated the General's life."

The MacArthur Shrine and Academy of Freedom at Brownwood is designed for the study and preservation of our American heritage and is also designed to perpetuate our cherished freedom. The statue, when completed, will stand at the entrance of the Shrine.

The Academy is the only institution to which General MacArthur lent his name. He said of the Academy, "Words can but inadequately express the sense of honor and distinction I feel at having the Academy of Freedom bear my name. May the students who pass through its portals do so in the determined and relentless search for the means to shore up and revitalize that cherished heritage which they hold."

as a Pennsylvanian discovery.

It is 17 miles northeast of Snyder, and 1½ miles southeast of the Cogdell, East (Canyon) pool. The location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 209, block 97, H&TC survey.

The venture drilled to 7,000 feet and set 4½-inch casing on bottom. That pipe then was perforated at 6,866-68 feet. The perforated interval was swabbed dry naturally and was washed with 250 gallons of mud acid. After the load was returned, it was swabbed and flowed for two hours at the rate of four barrels of oil per hour.

The formation then was treated with 500 gallons of acid. After recovering the load and acid residue, the prospect swabbed 11 hours for a recovery of 147 barrels of fluid with a shakeout of three per cent basic sediment and water.

In addition to the perforated interval, the No. 1 Fuller Brothers also had shown possible production on two drillstem tests between 6,733 and 6,798 feet.

CRMWD Storing Supplies Again

Injection of lake water into the dewatered zone of its well field in Martin County has been resumed by the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The program is the result of an experiment last autumn and winter when the district put approximately 160,000,000 gallons of lake water into the well field and withdrew it during summer months when water demands were at a peak.

The recharging is being accomplished through two wells said O. H. Ivie, assistant general manager, and is at 1,360,000 gallons per day, a slightly slower rate than a year ago although the 160,000,000 gallons is still the target amount of storage to be achieved. So far the operation is progressing smoothly.

By storing the lake water in the portions of the underground gravel where water has been withdrawn, the district accumulated it for more intensive pumping which is practical because from the Martin County well field to Odessa the district has parallel pipelines. From Lake J. B. Thomas to the well field, however, there is only the single pipeline, and this must be utilized during winter months when it is not operating at capacity.

The district will begin Monday sinking test holes on portions of the J. C. Sale ranch north of the district's well field. On the results of this, the district will effect and an agreement with Sale for water rights. This will provide for the production of some additional water, but more importantly it will furnish a broader base for the district in its future efforts to store surface water during winter months.

What's the catch?
There isn't any.
Plunk $1701 into Frank Winterhalter's hand and he'll plunk you into the seat of a new 1965 Volkswagen Deluxe Sedan. (Give him $30 more, and you'll be plunked into a Volkswagen with matching leatherette upholstery.)
Of course, you'll have to buy license plates and pay local tax. But that is it.
Sound a little too simple? Perhaps. But then the Volkswagen is a simple little car.

United Fund Campaign Needs Final Big Push

The Scurry County United Fund Campaign has reached a crucial point, and developments within the next few days will determine the degree of its success.

The campaign still is short of its goal, but campaign leaders have given no indication of throwing in the towel. In fact, the very opposite is true.

Bill Seale, the volunteer campaign director, is not easily discouraged, and his enthusiasm and optimism have a habit of "rubbing off" on his fellow workers.

This has led to plans for a final big push in behalf of the Scurry County United Fund. It involves the cooperation of three service clubs in the city whose members have responded in the true tradition of such organizations.

Consequently, next Tuesday will be "Lions Day," next Wednesday will be "Kiwanis Day," and next Thursday will be "Rotary Day," in the United Fund's final wrap-up effort. Members of the three clubs will take United Fund cards at their respective luncheon meetings, make their calls and report back immediately.

They are not asking anything for themselves, or for United Fund Campaign leaders, only support of the United Fund and its participating agencies.

If they call on you, your prompt response will make their task easier, and it will improve the climate for enthusiasm and optimism in the community. Moreover, it will provide the sustenance for worthwhile agencies here in our own community.

Plays Smart —And Dead

WHITEFISH, Mont. (AP) — Montana hunter Halbert Harvey played dead, and he credits the corpse-like pose with preventing him from becoming one in a fight with a grizzly bear.

The 60-year-old Whitefish lawyer, hunting north of here Wednesday, had just passed a big spruce tree when he heard a noise, turned and saw the grizzly charging.

The silvertip's first swipe spun Harvey's rifle away and sent him sprawling.

There he stayed as if dead, his faced pushed into the hillside, while the grizzly bit and clawed him. The bear finally walked away.

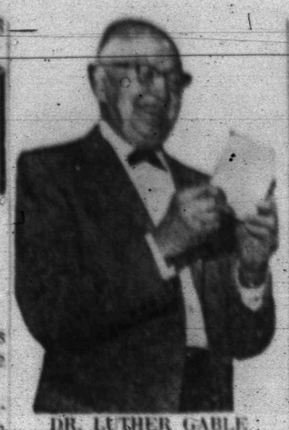

Hunting companion Don Siers, some 300-yards away, heard the commotion and hurried to the spot to find his injured friend.

Harvey was in good condition in a hospital here today after doctors took 50 stitches to close wounds in his scalp, hand and foot.

DR. LUTHER GABLE

Scientist To Be K&F Speaker

Space travel and developments presently being planned for permanent fixtures in the sky which together form one of the modern world's most intriguing and fantastic subjects in many respects, will be discussed by one of the nation's research scientists, at the next meeting of the Snyder Knife and Fork Club.

Luther Gable is the scientist-speaker who will lead the discussion during which current progress will be reported. Dr. Gable was formerly a member of the faculty of the American Television Institute of Technology.

Gable gives a thrilling demonstration calculated to bring his audience up - to - date on scientific developments, some of them so astoundingly new and almost unbelieveable as to make fiction writer Jules Verne a mere amateur in the world of make believe.

A member of the Federation of atomic scientists, the Illinois Adventurers club, Dr. Gable has spent almost half a century in the field of science. In his address he emphasises his material with the use of fluorescent exhibits in Black Light.

The Knife and Fork Club meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Monday, Nov. 16 at the Snyder Country Club. Telephone reservations will be accepted by the club secretary, Mrs. Ruby Anderson, until 8 a.m. Monday. Mrs. Anderson may be reached at HI 3-9975.

Boll Weevil Topic Of Area Meet

Fall spraying for the control of the cotton boll weevil and participation in the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers Inc. will be the topics to be discussed at a 7:30 p.m. meeting Monday night, Nov. 16, 1964 in the District Courtroom in Snyder.

Don Rummel, Area Extension Entomologist who has been closely associated with "diapause" or fall spraying of the boll weevil for the High Plains will discuss the program being conducted there as well as other aspects in the control of boll weevils in this area.

Also appearing on the program will be Mr. Gene Howard, who is Secretary - Treasurer of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., who will discuss the organization of this association and outline the proposed program for these Rolling Plains Counties.

All cotton producers are urged to attend this meeting, because each one will have an active part in any boll weevil control program.

Students In Area Make 'Who's Who'

ALPINE — Johnny M. Griggs of Snyder and Larry Gene Doyle of Gail are among 24 students at Sul Ross State College who have been named to "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges."

At Sul Ross, selection to "Who's Who" is made by a vote of the faculty and the student council. The process is under the direction of the college committee on student scholarships and recognitions. The committee has set up minimum standards for selections and students who meet the standards are submitted for consideration.

Among qualifications are at least 60 semester hours of credit with a cumulative grade average of at least B. Leadership, character and other traits also are considered in the selections.

HAROLD VANCE

Plate For Medallion Is Awarded

An official Texas Historical Building Medallion plate has been awarded for the historic Harrell ranch home in Scurry County, John Ben Shepperd of Odessa, president of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee, has announced.

The interpretive plate, to be placed with the official Texas Historical Building Medallion awarded a year ago, is sponsored by Myrtle Harrell, who, with her sister, Fay Harrell, restored the ranch home several months ago.

The awarding of the Medallion plate signifies that the structure is a Recorded Texas Historic Landmark worthy of recognition, appreciation, marking and preservation because of its significance to the history of Texas. The sponsor will receive a certificate of this designation.

The plate states that the home is a typical homesteader cabin, built in 1883. It shows the pioneer way of life with the basic room of fieldstone for protection from blizzards. The shed rooms attached gave storage and extra room. After the turn of the century, and better living was possible, the owner added three rooms, double fireplace, hall and porch.

The Medallion and accompanying plate marker are part of the five-year program of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee to Record, Appreciate, Mark, Preserve and Survey (RAMPS) history in Texas. The marker is designed to recognize and interpret the historical, cultural or architectural significance of the homes and buildings of Texas and cite them as worthy of preservation.

Clay-Liston Match Postponed 6 Months

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay underwent a successful operation for a hernia Friday night that forced an indefinite postponement of Monday's scheduled rematch with Sonny Liston. It is unlikely that the bout will be held within six months.

Clay was stricken Friday night after dinner and was rushed to Boston City Hospital where Dr. William McDermott of Harvard performed an "easy" one-hour operation that he called "common but serious."

Dr. McDermott said Clay could resume fairly normal physical activity in about a month and would have to lay off any heavy labor for three months. The 22-year-old champ would not be ready to box in competition until after another long conditioning process.

"The championship bout will be held in Boston when Clay is fit," said Herman Greenberg, chairman of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission. Representatives of all parties involved indicated they were in agreement.

When Liston first heard the news at his Plymouth, Mass., training camp, he commented, "no wonder he got a hernia running up and down like a wild man." Later, after the operation, he added, "it could have been worse. It could have been me."

Clay had just finished eating dinner in his hotel suite with Drew (Budmi) Brown, his friend and assistant trainer, when he became ill.

"He got violently sick and started to throw up," said Brow. "His stomach swelled up the size of a football. I wanted to call a doctor but Clay said 'no, get me to a hospital quick. I'm in bad pain'."

An ambulance rushed the champion to the hospital while wild rumors began to spread in press headquarters downtown.

Sam Silverman, the local co-promoter with Inter-Continental Sports, Inc., hustled to the hospital. Shortly afterward he announced the fight had been postponed indefinitely.

Garland (Bill) Cherry, attorney and also a stockholder in Inter-Continental, said there was no insurance carried on the fight.

Frederick Brooks, president of Sportsvision, the closed circuit firm that hoped to fill 600,000 theater and arena seats with this telecast, was unable to estimate his losses immediately. Asked if it could be as high as $250,000, Brooks said, "it could be somewhere around that but I couldn't even guess. There are so many things involved."

The delay was particularly aggravating to Liston who admits to 30 years. The former champion had hoped to regain some of the prestige he lost Feb. 25 when he lost his title to Clay while sitting on a stool when the bell rang for the seventh round. Liston said he had injured his left shoulder in the Miami fight.

Liston's camp had to decide whether the fighter should wait for Clay to recover or take another bout with some other contender. It was not expected that he would risk his rematch by boxing anybody else.

While Clay was waiting for the surgeons to decide if an operation was necessary, Dr. McDermott said one of the nurses asked the champ: "You're the greatest, aren't you?"

"Not tonight," was the answer.

Dr. McDermott said Clay had been suffering from an incarcerated groin hernia with a congenital defect in the abdominal wall.

Lions Will Try To Stall Browns

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dennis Gaubatz will be the man in the middle Sunday when the Detroit Lions try to extend their National Football League mastery of the Cleveland Browns.

Gaubatz, a second-year pro making his 1964 starting bow, has a pair of big assignments in the pivotal inter-division game at Cleveland—replace all-pro middle linebacker Joe Schmidt and stop all-pro fullback Jimmy Brown.

If the 23-year-old LSU alumnus has any success, the underdog Lions, who never have lost a regular season game to Cleveland, may be able to stall the Browns' Eastern Division championship drive and keep themselves in the Western Division title picture.

Division crowns in the American Football League can be all but wrapped up too Sunday when the Buffalo Bills risk their perfect record against the Boston Patriots and the San Diego Chargers meet the Kansas City Chiefs. The Bills are 2½ games in front of the Patriots in the East and the Chargers have a two-game bulge over the Chiefs in the West.

Detroit and the Los Angeles Rams trail Baltimore by 2½ games in the NFL's Western race. The Colts, riding an eight-game winning streak, may have trouble with the Minnesota Vikings, who upended them 34-24 in the season opener. The Rams meet the often-tamed Chicago Bears at Los Angeles.

The St. Louis Cardinals, two games behind Cleveland in the East, get another shot at the New York Giants, 34-17 upset winners in the teams' first meeting. Green Bay is at San Francisco, Philadelphia at Dallas and Washington at Pittsburgh in other NFL games.

The New York Jets visit the Denver Broncos and the Oakland Raiders play host to the Houston Oilers in AFL games.

The Lions' Schmidt suffered a dislocated shoulder early in last Sunday's loss to Green Bay. Gaubatz, a 6-foot-2, 220-pounder, inherits the middle linebacker's watchdog role against Brown, who needs only 66 rushing yards for his sixth 1,000-yard season. He romped for 121 yards against Washington last week.

Buffalo, only unbeaten pro club, goes after victory No. 10 before a sellout crowd at War Memorial Stadium. The Patriots topped the Bills 26-8 last season in a playoff for the Eastern title. The play each other again in this year's finale.

San Diego has won five straight behind the passing of John Hadl and Tobin Rote while Kansas City has taken two in a row, with quarterback Len Dawson hitting for 10 touchdown passes.

The Jets, who dropped a 20-7 decision to Buffalo last week, face elimination in the Eastern race with an injury - riddled defensive secondary. They drubbed Denver 30-6 two months ago.

The Houston-Oakland rematch shapes up as an aerial circus, with the Oilers first in the AFL in passing yardage and the Raiders second. Oakland has slipped from a 10-4 record in 1963 to 1-7-1 this year. The rebuilding Oilers have dropped seven of nine.

Boxer Looks Like Rocky Marciano

NEW YORK (AP) — He looks like Rocky Marciano, he punches to the body like Marciano, but he doesn't hit as hard as the former heavyweight champion.

That's a quick sizeup of Oscar Bonavena, the undefeated heavy from Buenos Aires, who won his seventh straight Friday night with a one-sided 10-round decision over Dick Wipperman of Sloan, N.Y. in the main event at Madison Square Garden.

Marciano saw the fight from ringside and said afterwards of the South American: "I like him very much, but it's hard to judge against a guy on defense."

Judges Bill Recht and Joe Armstrong scored it a 10-0 sweep for Bonavena who turned pro only last January. Referee Petey Della had it 8-2 giving the last two rounds to the lad from the Buffalo, N.Y. suburbs. Wipperman opened a cut under Bonavena's right eye in the ninth and made Oscar give ground in the 10th with sharp jabs.

Bonavena's next fight may be against big 6-foot-8 Jim Beattie of St. Paul who stopped Wipperman in the seventh round of their Garden go last month.

Lineup For Playoffs Set In 71 Schoolboy Districts

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Seventy-one of 96 districts have determined champions or representatives in the playoffs, these including two defending state champions—Garland and Petersburg — as the Texas High School football season rolls through its final stages.

Garland, the Class AAAA king, returned to the playoffs with a 51-7 lashing of Denton. The Owls survived an upset by Highland Park inside the district.

Petersburg, the Class A defending champion, also managed to ease through its district despite a loss to Idalou. Petersburg wrapped up the title with a 36-24 thrashing of Crosbyton Friday night.

Two other champions didn't fare so well. Rockwall, the Class AA defender, went down 26-7 to Plano ending a 22-game winning streak and losing the district title.

Corsicana, which won the Class AAA state crown last year but was in Class AAAA this season, fell to Waco Richfield 29-15 and was eliminated in the district race Friday night.

Sixty district champions or representatives were determined in Classes AA and A, which start the state playoffs next week while Classes AAAA and AAA have another week to go in the district races.

There were ties for district titles in four instances and these all will be determined today by the flip of coins.

Amarillo Tascosa, Garland, Nederland, Galena Park and San Antonio Highlands made it to the playoffs in Class AAAA and another title may be decided tonight if San Antonio Burbank should beat San Antonio Lanier. That would leave 10 to be determined next week.

Six champions are ready in Class AAA — Dumas, Andrews, Sweetwater, Vidor, Cypress-Fairbanks and San Marcos. The other 10 district titlists will be decided next week.

These are in the playoffs in Class AA—Phillips, Iowa Park, Floydada, Denver City, Stamford, Alpine, , Dublin, Fredericksburg, Nocona, Grapevine, Plano, Marlin, DeKalb, Atlanta, Cooper, Canton, Cameron, Taylor, Columbus, Katy, Cleveland Port Acres, Humble, Boling, Palacios, Floresville, San Antonio Randolph, Devine, Sinton, Bishop and Freer.

Los Fresnos, Edcouch-Elsa and LaFeria finished in a triple tie for the district 32 crown and will decide it today.

Class A's playoff teams determined are Stratford, White Deer, Springlake, Petersburg, Coahoma, Van Horn, Big Lake, Goldthwaite, Baird, Archer City, Keller, Clifton, Frisco, Honey Grove, Jefferson, Wills Point, White Oak, San Augustine, Rosebud, Hubbard, Lexington, Weimar, Hull-Daisetta, Waller, East Bernard, Three Rivers, Bandera, Ingleside and Rio Hondo.

Plains, Seagraves and Wink tied for first in district 5; Cedar Hill, Midlothian and Forney in district 14 and Alto, Elkhart and Grapelane in district 21. They will decide the state representatives today.

Only 21 undefeated, untied teams are left in the state. Three fell out Friday night—all in Class AA. The most notable was Rockwall. Atlanta knocked out Gladewater 28-6 and Devine downed Hondo 21-0 to erase the other two.

Class AAA—Dumas, Andrews, Vidor, Clear Creek.

Class AA—Phillips Iowa Park, Denver City, Alpine, Dublin, Atlanta, Canton, Palacios, San Antonio Randolph, Taylor.

Class A—Coahoma, Clifton, Hull-Daisetta, Three Rivers.

Canton rolled on as the only unscored on team in the state. The East Texans finished the district campign with 10 straight victories, scoring 290 points.

END WINNING SEASON—The Hobbs Junior High Panthers won their eighth and final game Thursday evening when they downed McCaulley 49-14. The undefeated season was all the more remarkable since last year the team had an unimpressive 1-6-1 record. In the front row are Rene Martinez, Jackie Clements, Ruben Reyes and Ricky Williams; center row, Richard Molano, Maurice Clements, Lorin Pearce, Vollie Shipp and Brad Maule; top row, Coach Bernard Weems, Louis Ortiz, Ronnie Kincaid, Ross Aguilar, Roy Herrera and Bill Coldewey.

Meeting Set In Battle For Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP) Officials of Milwaukee County and the city of Atlanta plan a conference on a neutral field Sunday to discuss the battle for the Braves.

County Board Chairman Eugene H. Grobschmidt and Atlanta Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. agreed Friday to meet in Chicago Sunday afternoon.

Grobschmidt, a fiery leader in the fight to keep the Braves in Milwaukee, said Aller a prime mover in Atlanta's lure to the club, asked for the meeting.

"He didn't say what he wanted, but I can just imagine," Grobschmidt said after inviting County Corporation Counsel Robert Russell and two county supervisors to accompany him to Chicago.

The Braves voted to move to Atlanta Oct. 21, but were stopped the same day as Milwaukee County obtained a circuit court order temporarily restraining them from further action.

The club tried to get the case moved to U.S. District Court, but that failed. The National League then ordered the Braves to fulfill their Milwaukee contract in 1965, but gave permission for a move to Atlanta in 1966.

With Atlanta's $18 million stadium nearing completion, the Braves went ahead this week and signed a 25-year lease. Club officials and Atlanta authorities expressed hope Milwaukee would accept a settlement to allow the Braves to move for next season.

"They'll play here next year," Grobschmidt insisted when informed Thursday of statements by Braves Executive Vice President Tom Reynolds that the team still hopes to play in Atlanta in 1965.

Snyder Tigers Blast Littlefield 33-13

Kincaid Boots Two Long Field Goals

The Snyder Tigers scored in every quarter here Friday night as they romped over the Littlefield Wildcats 33-13 in their last home game of the season.

The Snyder scoring parade was led by seniors Leslie Brown and Tom "The Toe" Kincaid who combined for 27 points between them. Brown scored TD's on runs of 14 and 71 yards, while Kincaid tallied on a 33-yarder, and kicked two field goals and 3 extra points.

The win brought the Snyder season record to 6 victories and 3 defeats, and the district record to 4 wins and one defeat. The Tigers will wind up their season next week when they travel to San Angelo to do battle with the Lake View Chiefs. All hopes for the playoffs vanished for the Tigers when Sweetwater edged Lamesa 12-7 to cinch a spot in the playoffs. Snyder could still win a share of the crown, however, if the Mustangs fall to Levelland this week and the Tigers defeat Lake View.

TIGER OFFENSE

In besting Littlefield the Tigers racked up a total offense of 353 yards, with 290 of it coming on the ground and 63 through the air. Meanwhile the Tiger defense limited the Wildcats to 41 net yards rushing and 86 yards passing.

The Tigers took the opening kickoff and mounted a march that looked like it would end in a score. With Kincaid, Williamson and Brown alternating on the ball - carrying chores, Snyder drove from its own 37 to the Littlefield 10 where the Tigers fumbled and the Wildcats recovered.

The tough Tiger defense held Littlefield to 3 yards in 3 downs, and a 4th down punt was gathered in by Rice who returned it 16 yards to the Wildcat 38. From that point it took the locals just 3 plays to chalk up their first score. Kincaid rambled for 17 and then for 7, and Brown took it on in from the 14. Kincaid kicked the point and Snyder led 7-0 with 3:41 showing on the clock in the first quarter.

Jery Owens kicked off for Snyder and the Wildcats still couldn't make a first down, in spite of having two completed passes, and the Tigers took over on a punt which Brown returned 15 yards to his 40.

This time the Tigers were held, and Brown punted with the ball going off the side of his foot and going out of bounds 12 yards down the field. The Wildcats started filling the air with passes, as Ronald Sitton and Larry Coffman took turns in doing the throwing. They managed for one first down before being forced to punt, getting off a poor one that was good for only 8 yards.

Littlefield got the ball back moments later as Richard Wright intercepted a Snyder pass, but the Wildcats probably wished they hadn't as they were thrown for 3 successive losses of one, 5 and 11 yards. Leading the Tiger defense in this series were Jay Williamson, Reed Robinson, Roy Miller and Larry Jones.

BROWN SCORES

The Tigers scored on a beautiful play moments later after Littlefield punted and the ball rolled dead on the 29 yard line. On the next play Brown carried on a counter, went to his right and streaked 71 yards for a touchdown, as he outran several would-be tacklers. Kincaid again kicked the point and Snyder had a 14-0 lead with about 8 minutes left in the half.

Minutes later the Tigers hit the scoreboard again. They had taken over on the Littlefield 38 after Brown had returned a punt 22 yards helped by several key blocks. They drove to the 24 where they were stalled and Kincaid kicked his first of two field goals for the night. The ball was put down on the 31, which made it a 41-yarder, since the goal posts are 10 yards beyond the goal line.

The Wildcats tallied their first score with 8 seconds left in the half as Sitton took it over from 8 yards out. Larry Schovajsa kicked the point and Snyder led 17-7.

TIGERS COME CLOSE

The Tigers almost scored another as they took over on their own 46 where the Littlefield kickoff had gone out of bounds. Richard Waters heaved a prodigious pass, which Brown gathered in, but he was tackled about the 2 yardline. The play was good for 52 yards. Time ran out before Snyder could get another play off.

Snyder scored once in the 3rd period, with just 52 seconds left after getting the ball when Kincaid recovered a fumble on the Littlefield 32. Brown carried for 6, Kincaid for 7, Brown got 13 more and Kincaid and Williamson took it on down to the 3. From that point Jackie Rice took it up the middle for the TD. After Kincaid had kicked the point the Tigers led 24-7.

The Tigers drove 59 yards for their last touchdown in the final period. The scoring play covered 33 yards as Kincaid blasted his way to pay dirt, aided by a key block by Brown. Kincaid's kick for the point was good, but the Tigers drew a 15-yard penalty and the next try barely missed, and Snyder led 30-7.

KINCAID BOOTS FG

Snyder was not through scoring yet, as the Tigers got the ball on the Wildcat 19 when on 4th down the Littlefield punter saw the snap from center go over his head. He picked it up but was tackled by a hole host of Tigers for a 16 yard loss. Moments later Kincaid kicked another field goal, this one a 36-yarder and Snyder led 33-7.

The Wildcats pulled a bit of trickery on the Snyder kickoff following the field goal as Sitton ended up with the ball after an exchange and streaked 95 yards for a score. The try for point was blocked by Robinson, and that was the scoring for the night.

Jayton Tops Hermleigh

JATON — The Jayton Jaybirds fumbled away 5 scoring opportunities here Friday night, and finally hit pay dirt on an intercepted pass to defeat the Hermleigh Cardinals 8-0 in a district 8-B contest.

The Cardinals were never able to get inside the Jayton 30 yardline, but managed to stop one Jaybird threat after another, as they recovered 5 Jayton fumbles.

The only touchdown came in the final period of play with about six minutes left when Jayton quarterback Kenny Judy intercepted a pass at midfield and returned it for a touchdown. Eddie Morales ran for the two points.

Champion Leads In Bowlers Open

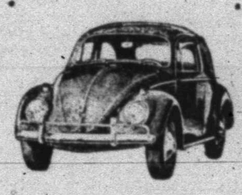

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two-time Masters champion Bill Golembiewski of Detroit rolled a six-game 1,468 Friday night to grab the lead in the Professional Bowlers Association Open Tournament.

He leads 16 qualifiers into match play Saturday as a top cash prize of $3,000 goes up for grabs. Golembiewski's 24-game qualifying score was 5,481.

Second was Gene Rhoda of Valparaiso, Ind., who rolled a record six-game total of 1,532 Thursday.

Rhoda had a 1,451 Friday night to boost his qualifying score to 5,468.

Veteran Ray Bluth of St. Louis had led through the first three six-game blocks but slipped to third when he posted 1,451. Bluth's score included a perfect game in the first day of competition.

What's the catch? There isn't any. Plunk $1701 into Frank Winterhalter's hand and he'll plunk you into the seat of a new 1965 Volkswagen Deluxe Sedan. (Give him $30 more, and you'll be plunked into a Volkswagen with matching leatherette upholstery.)

Of course, you'll have to buy license plates and pay local tax. But that is it.

Sound a little too simple? Perhaps. But then the Volkswagen is a simple little car.

Lay Leads Hobbs Over Hornets 49-24

HOBBS — The Hobbs Panthers, led by junior Tommy Lay, romped over the Highland Hornets 49-24 here Friday night in a six-man football game. It was the last home game for the Panthers who will end up their season Friday night when they meet McCaulley in Rotan Stadium.

Lay scored 42 points for the Panthers on 6 touchdowns and 6 extra points. The rest of the scoring for Hobbs came on an 18-yard run by Freddie Martinez, and an extra point by Donald Hull.

Highland went out in front in the first period when Ronny Krejci kicked a 20-yard field goal good for 4 points in six-man ball. Hobbs came back in the same quarter when Lay scored on a 30 - yard run, and the Panthers were never behind from then on.

Lay tallied two TD's in the 2nd quarter, one on a 15-yard pass from Hull and the other on a one-yard run. Highland got one touchdown that same period when Krejci went in from 5 yards out and kicked for two points.

There was only one score in the 3rd period, and it came when Lay went in from one yard out.

Hobbs scored 3 times in the final period and the Hornets tallied once. Lay tallied twice on runs of one and 20 yards, and Martinez got his TD in this period. Highland scored when Krejci passed for 18 yards and a TD.

Sweetwater Gains Place In Playoffs

The Sweetwater Mustangs cinched a playoff birth Friday night as they came from behind with less than 3 minutes to go in the game to edge Lamesa 12-7. The Mustangs will have to win over Levelland next week for an outright championship, provided Snyder beats Lake View. Sweetwater would still play bi - district on the basis of having defeated Snyder early in the season.

In other District 3-AAA contests played Friday night Levelland won its 3rd conference game of the season by downing the Lake View Chiefs 24-8 and Snyder trampled Littlefield 33-13.

The Mustangs were bested by the Tornadoes in the statistical department, but capitalized on two Lamesa mistakes to score both of their touchdowns. The first one came when Danny Rivera intercepted a Lamesa pass in the 2nd quarter and returned it 99 yards for a TD.

Lamesa took the lead in the same period when they marched 71 yards, with Phil Russell taking it over from the one and Jim Anderson kicked the point. This is the way it stood until late in the game. The Mustangs tallied with 2:54 left in the game, after having recovered a fumble on their own 33. Foust took it over from the one.

Lineup Predicted For Bowl Games

DALLAS (AP) — Nebraska will face Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl New Year's day and it will be Alabama vs. Texas in the Orange Bowl, the Dallas News predicted today.

The paper said representatives of the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association would be on hand at the Arkansas-Southern Methodist game at Fayetteville and at the Nebraska-Oklahoma State clash at Lincoln.

Current national rankings place Arkansas third and Nebraska fourth.

Orange Bowl officials will be at Fort Worth to attend the Texas-Texas Christian contest.

The News said a source "extremely close" to the Texas team related that the No. 8 ranking Longhorns will play in Nebraska this fall.

SWC Cross Country Meet Set Monday

AUSTIN (AP) — Defending champion Texas, Arkansas and Texas A&M are the favorites for the Southwest Conference's 43rd annual championship cross country meet here Monday.

Ira Stampedes Over Divide 69-19

DIVIDE — The Ira Bulldogs trampled the Divide Trojans 69-19 here Friday night in a six-man football game. The victory gives the Bulldogs a 5-4 season record and a 3-1 record in district competition.

Ira scored early in the initial period after kicking off and getting the ball on an onside kick, recovered by Woody Allen. The Bulldogs drove to the two and Jack Payne carried it over from that point. The extra - point try was no good, but Ira led 6-0.

The Trojans tied it up moments later when Gary Rotan scored on a run of about 30 yards, and the point try was no good.

The teams exchanged scores again in the first quarter, with Payne going 50 yards for Ira and Shipp scoring on a 30-yard pass play for Divide. Rotan tallied the extra point to give Divide a 13-12 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Larry Holladay pulled Ira ahead in the early part of the 2nd quarter with a 55 - yard scamper, but the point try was not good. Then Buchanan of Divide scored to put the Trojans back ahead, 19-18.

From that point on it was all Ira as the Bulldogs scored 5 more touchdowns in the 3rd quarter, and two TD's in the final period.

Holladay got one more on a 15-yarder, and Payne got two, one on a 40-yard scamper and the other on a run of about 50 yards. Larry Wiggins scored on runs of 40 and 15 yards; Allen on a 45-yard runback of an intercepted pass; and Ray Sorrells on a run of 20 yards.

Payne ran for one extra point, Holladay ran for two and kicked for two, and Grizzle kicked for 4 points.

The Bulldogs will end their season Friday night in Ira as they host Highland. It will be the final game of the year for both teams.

Injured Hermleigh Player Mending Well

Hermleigh High School football player Donnie Ray Kubala, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kubala who was injured in football practice six weeks ago, is reported to be recovering well.

Kubala, who suffered a severe knee injury, was taken to Abilene Thursday by Bolger Ambulance where the cast was removed. He will spend two more weeks in bed, but then will be able to start walking again, according to his doctor in Abilene.

The Giants of 1933 won 91 games and took the National League pennant. Two years later the New York team won the same number of games but finished third.

November 15 Remembered As The Day Atlanta Burned

By JACK STILLMAN

ATLANTA (AP) — When Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman began his devastating march through Georgia 100 years ago, he promised to make Georgia howl.

On Nov. 15, 1864, more than 60,000 soldiers watched Atlanta burn. Sherman supervised the destruction. As the troops marched out of the city, the 33rd Massachusetts band played.

Sherman didn't leave until the next morning when the 14th Corps pulled out. Another band played and the troops sang, "Glory, Glory Hallelujah."

"We turned our horses' heads to the east," Sherman wrote later. "Atlanta was soon lost behind the screen of trees and became a thing of the past that seemed like the memory of a dream."

The march was a part of the Georgia campaign and was a major contribution to the end of the Civil War.

The march actually was begun in May, when Sherman began his move on Atlanta from Chattanooga. Before the year ended, Sherman had blazed a path of destruction to the Atlantic Ocean, cutting the Confederate States of America in two.

Atlanta was left smouldering — virtually destroyed. Only about 60 families remained. The city's earlier population had been more than 20,000.

When the Confederates under Gen. John Bell Hood abandoned Atlanta Sept. 1, they blew up locomotives, a foundry was set afire and ammunition which could not be moved hurriedly was exploded.

Sherman occupied the city for about two months, and finally telegraphed Gen. U.S. Grant that the Confederates were so harassing him that it was impossible to protect the roads around Atlanta.

"The utter destruction of their roads, houses and people will cripple their military resources," he said. "I can make this march and make Georgia howl."

What the Confederates had left of Atlanta, Sherman destroyed when he abandoned the city.

Sherman's army moved in four columns, cutting a path to Savannah about 40 miles wide and 250 miles long. He had about 63,000 infantrymen and artillerymen and about 5,000 cavalrymen. Only a few thousand Georgia militiamen stood in his way.

Sherman concentrated on the destruction of rail lines. He ordered factories, shops and warehouses burned. He ordered anything of military value destroyed.

The army was composed of the toughest of the lot and to them the destruction became a lark. They fought a little, pillaged a great deal, looted, stole whisky, started fires and burned their way to the seas.

But there was no organized force to oppose the Union onslaught. The South had used up its manpower. Young and old had long gone to war.

For his plan to succeed, Sherman needed a seaport, as the old base at Chattanooga had to be abandoned and the practical separation of the Carolinas from the gulf states could be accomplished by the destruction of the railroads in Georgia.

The general line of Sherman's march was between the Ocmulgee and Oconee rivers, although he sent his right wing at first along the Macon Railroad to deceve the enemy cavalry under Gen. Joseph Wheeler. The greatest distance between the advancing forces was never more than 50 miles.

Sherman entered Savannah Dec. 23, and sent these holiday greetings to President Lincoln:

"I beg to present to you as a Christmas gift the city of Savannah with 150 heavy guns and plenty of ammunition, and also about 25,000 bales of cotton."

In his official report, Sherman estimated the damage to Georgia and its military resources as a result of his march at $100 million.

AMUSEMENT

LONDON MEDICAL STUDENT Phillip Carey (Laurence Harvey) works up nerve enough to ask tearoom waitress Mildred Rogers (Kim Novak) to go to the theater with him in this scene from "Of Human Bondage." It is coming to the Canyon Drive In Theater here Sunday, Nov. 22.

Late Viewers Get A Better Variety

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The classic prescription for late-evening television has been either a re-run of an old movie, or an informal variety show composed of comedy, conversation and commercials plus a little music.

Jack Paar, when he presided over NBC's "Tonight Show," sometimes observed that many of his fans could not recognize him unless they saw him between their toes.

Obviously there are still millions of viewers whose nightly lullaby consists of NBC's usually low-key show, now in the hands of Johnny Carson.

But insomniacs and night people have greater choice. There is the week-old "Les Crane Show" on ABC.

"Television has become emasculated, particularly as far as talk shows are concerned," Crane said. "There's too much chit-chat and relaxing. If viewers want to get to sleep, they'd better not tune in my show. I'm not going to be soporific. I want to stimulate them, make them think hard and I don't care if they can't close an eye until 4 a.m."

Crane spent more than a month before the show's premiere racing around the world gathering bits and pieces of material. He scooped up taped interviews with Bertrand Russell and Kim Novak in England; caught Carroll Baker aboard the Queen Mary just before she sailed; flew to Hollywood to gather more star dust.

Crane, 30-year-old ex-disc jockey, expects to inject controversy, culture, news-makers and perhaps even a little sensationalism into late-evening television.

"I'd like to have Segovia come on and let people who think these pop singers are playing a guitar see what guitar-playing really is," he said. "I would like to gather some experts — generals, the guy who dropped the bomb and others, and discuss whether Hiroshima was a crime or a great service."

But whatever Crane or the competition does, the audience is limited. According to television studies, the mass audience starts to drop off from a peak at around 9 p.m. By 11, there is left a hard core of stay-awakes which numbers around 12 million.

Carson probably has an audience of around four million. Other millions are amused by the old movies, usual program fare on local stations. Crane's new show is seen on some 100 stations, while Carson has close to 180 outlets.

NBC's "Tonight," which runs along serenely and profitably, is a lineal descendant of "Broadway Open House," launched 14 years ago. It lasted long enough to make a national figure of a busty blonde called Dagmar.

Four years later, Steve Allen took over the late-evening spot and did so well he vaulted to a variety show in prime evening time.

Young Singer Is 'Miss Teen-Ager'

By PEGGY SIMPSON

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Carolyn Mignini, a sparkling lyric soprano from Baltimore who wants a Broadway singing career, is the new Miss Teen-age America.

The 17-year-old beauty with a dimpled smile looked dazed but didn't cry when Bud Collyer, emcee of the 90-minute CBS show, named her the winner.

A straight A student at the Institute of Notre Dame High School, Carolyn is a "real sweet, down to earth girl," her mother said. "You can also say that I'm the happiest mother in Maryland and Texas."

Kathleen Frances Ross, 17-year-old from Pittsburgh, who was everybody's friend during the week-long pageant, was selected for an award of excellence. She will take over the title in the event Carolyn gives it up. Kathy did a humorous song and dance as Eliza singing "Wouldn't it be Loverly." She said she was "sky-high happy" after the show.

Other finalists were Andrea Lynn Ayers, 16, Greenville, S.C.; Linda Diane Lieciardi, 17, San Francisco, and Debra Dietheim, 15, Toledo, Ohio.

The $10,000 college scholarship will enable Carolyn, one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Joseph Mignini, to attend Julliard School of Music next fall. She wants a degree before entering stage productions and doesn't plan to marry until she's about 27.

Carolyn entered the competition for the fourth annual pageant after her father, a clothes cutter, brought her a clipping telling about the scholarship and other prizes and said "Hi, hon, How would you like to be Miss Teen-age America?"

In addition to studying voice for five hours every Saturday at Peabody Preparatory School, Carolyn models for a Baltimore department store, works with the Baltimore Actors Theater and charity groups.

"She dates a lot and has many friends . . . she's really a joy of a daughter and that's no put-on, that's the truth," her mother, a hair stylist who was chaperone, said.

Carolyn has large dark brown eyes, weighs 105 pounds, and stands 5'3". Her favorite sports are tennis, swimming and horseback riding. In men, she looks for "consideration, a sense of humor, and gentlemanliness."

Hope To Emcee His 11th Oscar Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Hope will be the master of ceremonies for the 11th time at the annual Academy Awards next spring.

It's a great honor for Hope but a sad one.

"It means once more," says Robert, "that I'm not going to get an Oscar. And I do some of the best acting in Hollywood, smiling when all those winners come up."

Ugliest Man Can't Stand Ringo Starr

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Harry Wilson, who has billed himself for years as the movies' ugliest man, can't stand Ringo Starr, the Beatle with the hangdog face.

"All the women go for Ringo because he is so ugly," laments Harry. "It could ruin my whole career."

For 42 years, Harry's face has graced more than 800 movies.

The gentle, London-born actor has a face that could have been copied from one of Coney Island's distortion mirrors.

"It's my fortune," says Harry proudly.

Producer Walter Seltzer recently hired Harry for a key scene in "The War Lord." In doing so, Seltzer paid Harry this tribute:

"In Hollywood's constant search for new faces, we mustn't overlook the fact that some faces fit their owners so exactly they seem everlastingly new. Lincoln had such a face. So did Queen Victoria. So does Harry Wilson.

"We could search the earth and find no one better able, in one quick flash of craggy ugliness, to convey the atmosphere of terror we needed."

TRAVEL TALK

By Hulin Fowler

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Fowler returned last week from a trip to South America. This is the first in a series of articles on the three major cities visited. Write to Mr. Fowler in care of this newspaper for answers to travel questions.

The beautiful harbor of Rio de Janeiro appears before the air traveler suddenly, majestically — a sight that perhaps is unequaled anywhere in the world.

Our big Brazilian jet had droned steadily on for 10 hours on the 4,600 - mile trip from New York. We had passed over the mouth of the great Amazon and the last several hours saw nothing below but green jungle, a sea of green without a break in the monotony.

Then, as the jet began to let down for our landing at Galeao Airport, we looked down on the famed Copacabana Beach circling around a bay of beautiful green water dotted occasionally with white caps. By night, from the sea or from the air, the lights of the apartment houses seem to ring the bay with a string of pearls.

Rio, former capital of Brazil before Brasilia was built at great cost by former President Kubitschek, is a drab city even by South American standards since — despite the country's fame for its modern architecture — many of the downtown buildings are old.

But the city is surrounded by more natural beauty than any I've seen in extensive travels throughout Europe, Asia and the Middle East.

First occupied by the Portuguese in the 15th Century, the city was built with no thought of modern traffic problems. It rambles through mountains, and sometimes tall hills ("morros") of solid rock through which streets and tunnels have been cut and terminates abruptly at Copacabana Beach.

Even in this modern city of almost 4,000,000 people, the presence of the nearby jungle is keenly felt. Green tropical vegetation covers the mountains surrounding the city. Drive on any city street for any distance and you are soon climbing up through rows of tropical plants in myriad colors of deep red, green and brown into the mountains again.

One of the best views is from the top of Corcovado (Hunchback), a towering mountain of solid rock topped by the famed statue of Christ whose outstretched arms seem to be protecting the city. Corcovado is one of the major tourist attractions and can be reached by taxi or sightseeing bus.

Another high point of interest is Pao de Azucar (Sugarloaf), a huge granite cone at the entrance to the bay. For about $.25 a small cable car carries you precariously to the summit of the mountain.

Famed through it is, Rio is as yet relatively unspoiled by tourism. There are no more than four first class hotels even on Copacabana Beach. Buildings in Copacabana are restricted as to height to protect the beauty of the beach and no new hotels have been built in years. The people are polite, courteous and helpful, and language is no barrier as most of the hotels and shops have someone who can speak English. In a pinch, the clever Brazilians can do pretty well with your sign language.

Brazilians go to their beautiful beaches in the morning and, as early as 6 a.m., you can see them riding the huge green breakers that rush in from the sea. The beaches (Copacabana is only the most famous; there is also Ipanema and others) are clean and bikinis are not allowed. Many shops and restaurants, some of the outdoor type, afford refreshments for the bather without changing from his swim suit.

Brazil, and South America in general, offers wonderful shopping opportunities, even better in many ways than Japan. Bargains in Rio are in their gemstones, particularly aquamarines, which are less expensive than in the tates. The country is also known for its beautiful, but often crude, woodcarvings of jacaranda, a native mahogany.

In my hotel, packing to leave for Uruguay, I took a last look at the green bay and once again was overwhelmed by the natural magnificance of this historic city.

Hosts Missing At Party For 'Losers'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of the week's strangest cocktail parties was held at a club called "The Losers." Guests of honor were all the defendants Perry Mason had convicted in all the years the show has been on the air.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — Well hello there all you ranchers who want to pick up some grazing territory in Mexico. A lady reader (how about that — a reader!) of the Laredo, Tex., Times wrote in saying she is ready to do business with some fellow who has a friendly attitude toward cows.

This lady lives in Saltillo (Coahuila State) Mexico and she has a couple of spreads of about 18,000 acres each that are up for sale. And she reports it is ideal territory for raising cebu cattle. For a fact, I have eaten some mighty prime steaks that came from Coahuila (so have you but you probably thought it was Western Beef) and you cowpokes who have been writing this department for information on ranches down here can get it first hand, with price quotes, by dropping a line to Sra. Rosa P. Vda. de Peraldi, Morelos No. 312, Saltillo, Coahuila, Mexico. Mrs. Peraldi says to write in English or Spanish. And I expect an invitation for several months of steak sampling up there from anybody who makes a deal with her.

Have read that Mexico is retirement paradise where you can live like a prince for what you barely get by on in U.S. and can build modern homes for less than $5,000. Anything to this claim?

There's a basis but it is ballooned up considerably. A few years back, some sharpie advertised in U.S. newspapers and magazines that you "live in Mexico like a king on $125 a month." The Mexican government hopped him out of the country for fibbing. If you live in a place like Mexico City, Cuernavaca or Guadalajara you need about $100 a week to live well on. You can get creaky flats and eat tacos and beans for much less. In places like Oaxaca or nice little towns off the beaten path, you could get by for about half the city prices. Some people like it isolated and others want to pack for home the next day. As to houses, construction costs are lower than up home but land is pretty expensive in Mexico. Here in the city, a piece of real estate big enough to hold a small house and scarcely a yard would run about $2,500 US, in the proletariat sections of town. What are you going to build your house with?

There are thousands of retired Americans living here and hundreds of thousands come down every year to tour the country. It IS a wonderful vacation place and the cost of living here IS less than in the States. But don't let anybody swindle you into the idea that you can come down with a couple of hundred a month and eat off silver plates.

Would like to visit Puerto Vallarta this spring but understand the place is packed. Would you advise trying it?

It was packed to a big extent because they were filming The Night of the Iguana and everybody wanted to see Liz Taylor and Richard Burton chasing lizards around the beach. But the traffic should be much lighter and my guess would be you can find breathing space if you write ahead to one of the hotels.

Is my U.S. driving license all right for a trip to Mexico or do you have to get a Mexican license at the border?

Your U.S. license will be okay. [illegible] Questions on Mexico. Write John Abney, [illegible] Mexico City, D. F., Mexico.

Ag Census Draws Near

Detailed plans for taking the 1964 Census of Agriculture in Scurry County have been announced by W. F. Edwards Jr., newly appointed census crew leader for the county.

The job will be done in three stages, the crew leader said. First will come recruitment and training of enumerators to count all farms in the county. The crew will use about one enumerator for each 50 farms.

Shortly after Nov. 19, the Bureau of the Census, an agency of the U. S. Department of Commerce, will start the second stage by mailing agricultural census questionnaires to all rural boxholders in the county. This will give farm and ranch operators who are required by law to fill out the forms, a period of time to consult their records and fill in the answers to questions.

In the final stage, enumerators will visit each farm in the county to collect the questionnaires. At this time, enumerators will help farmers complete any questions with which they have difficulty. Enumerators are scheduled to begin their visits in Scurry County on Nov. 23. It will take about three weeks to complete the work, the crew leader estimated.

Under normal landing conditions the brakes of a modern jet airliner absorb enough energy to stop simultaneously 432 automobiles traveling at 60 miles an hour.

Asians In Kenya Under Bitter Attack

By DENNIS NEELD

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Kenya's 183,000 Asians, mostly Indians and Pakistanis, are coming under bitter attack in this newly independent country.

The Asians are heavily involved in business here. Most of the small shopkeepers and artisans are Indian. Some African leaders accuse them of arrogance and of dominating business affairs.

Leaders of the Indian community say their people are ready to sell out their business interests to the Kenya government.

"All we ask is fair compensation," said the president of the Kenya Indian Congress, Shivabhai G. Amin.

Indian community leaders also have suggested the Indian government might lend Kenya money to help buy them out — as Britain has helped the government buy out many European farmers.

Amin, a lawyer and former Kenya legislator, said the suggestion was put to the Indian minister for industry and supply, H. C. Dasappa, who visited Nairobi shortly before his death in New Delhi two weeks ago.

There is no accurate estimate of the value of Indian commercial interests in Kenya but it runs to perhaps $235 million.

A spate of attacks on the Asian community has been spearheaded by Kenya's justice and constitutional affairs minister, Tom Mboya. In a speech he charged Asians have become arrogant to the ordinary African. Mboya said the government could not continue to allow non-African citizens to enjoy a virtual monopoly on economic and social life.

He attacked Asians for retaining British passports, to which they are entitled as natives of a former British colony, and for not taking Kenya citizenship.

Similar criticism reportedly was voiced by Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta himself in a meeting with Dasappa.

Since Kenya's independence almost a year ago, the British high commission here has issued 35,000 British passports. Only 2,000 Asians have taken out Kenya citizenship papers.

Asian diplomats in Nairobi report this is one of the main grievances of Kenya's leaders. Another is that the Asian community does not help the small African trader and artisan come into his own.

A third complaint is that Asians are buying out European farmers anxious to leave the country, thereby keeping the land out of African hands.

Indian community leaders deny this, saying little land has been bought by Asians since independence.

Armed Jockey Robs Bank In Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—The FBI identified a man Friday who called himself a race horse jockey as the gunman who robbed the First National Bank of $18,500 last week.

Agent Gordon Shanklin said a federal bank robbery charge was filed against William L. Hudspeth, 34, who is still at large.

The FBI declined to say how Hudspeth was linked to the First National robbery. Hudspeth is also sought in the $1,500 holdup of a branch of the Bank of America in Oakland, Calif., Oct. 23.

API Plans More Emphasis On Information To Public

By MAX B. SKELTON

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Petroleum Institute showed its new format last week.

The trade group of all segments of the oil industry streamlined its organization and objectives.

"Greater emphasis will be placed upon information and education efforts," said Chairman J. D. Warren, who has headed a reorganization study group since mid-1963.

"The purpose will be to generate better public understanding of the industry's achievements and of the political and economic conditions required for the industry to make its maximum contributions to society."

Warren is president of the Cities Service Co.

One of the first results was streamlining last week's annual meeting by removing all technical discussions and cutting the number of committee sessions from 150 to less than 50.

All technical discussions have been transferred to the mid-year meetings of the API's divisions.

The streamlining cut this week's attendance to 3,122 from 5,456 last year. The new program drew general approval from most of the operators present.

"We had too many sessions conflicting with each other in the past and we are pleased with the reaction to the change," said Frank Ikard, who resigned as a Texas congressman to become president of the 7,000-member institute early last year.

A proposal to transfer the institute's headquarters from New York to Washington is up for study.

In addition to enlarging the Washington staff at once, the new chart establishes two new full-time vice presidents to serve under Ikard—one for industry affairs and one for public affairs.

Screwworm Threat Is Reported

Screwworms detected in the High Plains Saturday, Nov. 7, could pose a threat not only to other Texas Panhandle counties, but also to Oklahoma. This is the warning from screwworm eradication program authorities.

The screwworm infestation was reported 5 miles southwest of Clarendon in Donley County. This was the furtherest north screwworms have been found this year, and the closest to Oklahoma, where the livestock pest has been absent during 1964. An infestation discovered in neighboring Briscoe County in late September broke a 53-day screwworm - free period for Texas.

While eradication workers are confident cold weather will diminish any serious threat from further screwworm activity in the Panhandle, they are treating the infestation area through release of sterile flies. The first air drop of flies was to take place Tuesday.

However the danger may not be past. A continuation of the unseasonably warm weather experienced in the Southwest could present some spill-over of screwworms into nearby areas. Therefore livestock producers in the Texas Panhandle and in Oklahoma counties adjoining the border are asked to stay alert for screwworms.

Animal wounds should be treated with preventive smears and livestock should be examined regularly for infestations, says Dixon Hubbard, Area Extension Livestock Specialist. When infestations are found, larvae should be collected from deep within the wound and placed in water or alcohol. This specimen should be taken to the county agent or mailed directly to Box 969, Mission, Texas. There, at screwworm eradication headquarters, the sample is positively diagnosed and arrangements for sterile fly drops are made if screwworms are found to be present.

Ladies Hold Craft Day

The Plainview Home Demonstration Club and their guests held an all-day craft meeting recently at the Northeast community center.

This group of ladies is one of the most ambitious group of ladies around. They not only have homes and families to keep up with, but are always ready to do their part in civic activities and then added to that, do much hand work. Each year the group seems to come up with some very clever ideas they gather at various places, get together for an all-day meeting and exchange them. This not only gives them an enjoyable day together but they are a jump ahead of most in getting gifts ready for Christmas or any occasion.

Each lady brings a covered dish and they are put together at the noon hour for a very tasty meal.

PRETTY HAND WORK—Mrs. Edgar Shuler is holding a red and white doilie made from yarn that would add color to any room in the house. Mrs. W. E. Popour was smocking a pink and white checked apron and Mrs. Joe Ekke worked on her cutwork cloth, which takes much precision in making.

HAPPY AT-HOMING—Luxurious beauty plus efficiency is a fashion combination that is dear to every woman's heart. This quilted boulevard velvet brunch coat wraps up those two specifications to perfection. It's a real charmer that has a radiant effect on the complexion. Silhouette is in a free-swinging, button-down creation, with raglan sleeves cropped just below the elbow, eliminating the nuisance of cuff-catching during about-the-house activities.

GUEST SPEAKER—Miss Ruby Butts, left, presented the program for the Altrurian Daughters Club Wednesday at Martha Ann Woman's Club. She baked the homemade breads above and gave an interesting demonstration to members. Mrs. A. D. Dodson, center, was hostess, and Mrs. Adele Josephson was program chairman.

Gardener's Corner

"HOW COME my rose bush has two almost all-red roses this year when last year all the flowers were white?" we were asked.

This bush apparently is what growers term a "sport." This is a mutation which, in this case, is manifest in the color of the flower. In plants, as in humans, genetic mixups occasionally occur, showing up in different characteristics after a time.

Generally, however, sports or mutations in roses tend to be unstable and it is possible that in the next several seasons all the flowers on our puzzled planter's bush will be white again.

However, if the red persists, then he has a sport.

An example, one rose grower related, is Chicago Peace, which was a sport of Peace found in the Midwest. It is almost identical to the original Peace except in the different color scheme. Fortunately, this turned out to be a stable sport - or should we say a lasting Peace.

The dogwood club gall, an insect which deforms dogwood, may be checked with sprays of DDT or Sevin repeated for six consecutive weeks in early summer, according to tests.

The gall (or swelling of tissue in new growth) is caused by larval infestation. The orange-yellow maggots winter on the soil surface under the trees as mature larvae. In spring, the tiny midges lay eggs among the small terminal leaves of new growth. The young larvae work into the base of the tiny leaves, causing curling.

Flowering and leaf buds beyond the balls usually die.

A new approach to the fight to save the elm has been reported by plant pathologists. They have subjected the Dutch elm disease fungus to chemicals that appear almost effective in killing the fungus without injury to the tree. Among these materials are mixtures of isomers of aminotrichlorophenyl acetic acid; which investigators say do not act as ordinary fungicides do.

Experts at the Connecticut Agricultural Station and in Wisconsin report the compound causes changes within the tree that mechanically block the spread of the fungus. They are seeking the exact nature of this blocking action.

For the spot that gets little sun, we suggest ferns, pink or white, astilbe, fancy-leaf caladium, impatiens, coleus or tuberous begonias. These should do well in pots plunged into the earth or peat moss. Try hanging tuberous begonias, fuchsias and trailing lobelias, ivy - leaf geraniums and strawberry geranium in semi - shade. Strawberry geranium (Saxifraga Sarmentosa) forms small plants at the ends of runners.

Altrurian Daughters Program On Holiday Food

The Altrurian Daughter's Club had their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. Guests were Mrs. Martin Goldstein, and Miss Ruby Butts, who gave a very enjoyable program on holiday foods.

She served samples of a holiday bread and demonstrated stages in its preparation. She said in part:

"To give successful dinner parties or plan enjoyable holiday meals requires no magic. Any home maker who really wants to can do it. The secret is in the planning.

"Make your plans early and organize your work so that when your guests are in your home you can be with them. Write a brief outline of things to be done in advance so that you can check things off as they are done.

"First decide who you'll invite and plan the food with these people in mind. Are some of them on special diets? Are they working hard at holding the waist line? Do they have special food likes or dislikes. You will endear yourself to your guests if you serve foods they can enjoy and that their doctor approves of too — food that they will not be sorry they ate tomorrow.

"Its a nice idea to keep a notebook with lists of the food likes and dislikes, or special diet problems of frequent guests.

"Frequently families have certain things that are traditionally a part of a Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner. If you start from there and plan foods the family likes around those, both the menu planning and the preparation for family celebrations are simplified.

"In general, men like familiar foods. If you're just dying to do some unusual things women guests are more likely to appreciate them.

"Don't try out a new recipe for your special meal; even if the recipe works, the time required may not come out as you had expected. You'll be surer of being a relaxes hostess if you try the recipe in advance.

"Plan your menu so that there are not too many things to do at the last minute. Perhaps you can prepare some things easily and freeze them.

"Shop early for the things that can be bought in advance. Be sure that any unusual ingredient will be available.

"A menu that allows you to do a minimum of last minute preparation and yet serve a delicious meal is one that will help build your reputations as a hostess.

Wycoller Is Fading

WYCOLLER, England (AP)—The village that Charlotte Bronte knew is in danger of extinction.

Once a thriving center of the Lancashire cotton weaving trade, Wycoller is down to its last half dozen people In the days of hand loom weaving, more than 300 families lived there.

The village contains the ruins of Wycoller Hall, believed to be Ferndene manor of Miss Bronte's "Jane Eyre." It's a draw for visitors from all over the world.

Now a local campaign has started to popularize the idea of living here. Said the campaign leader, Councilman D. E. Barber: "Lots of people are interested in obtaining the freehold of houses in the village. It would be quite easy to put some of them into a decent state of repair."

There's one hitch. The village is now owned by the Municipal Water Board — and the board doesn't want to sell.

Some good cooks like to add a little mayonnaise to a regular chili sauce, horseradish and lemon juice sauce to serve with shrimp or other seafood. If you do add the mayonnaise, stir in a little extra horseradish for savory flavor.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — Mrs. T. E. Pettitt of 700 Twenty-eighth Street announces the engagement of her daughter, Zetta, to Cpl. James Claxton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Claxton, 414 Twenty-ninth Street. Cpl. Claxton is stationed in North Carolina with the U. S. Marine Corp. The couple will exchange vows on December 28th., at 7 o'clock in the Avenue D Baptist Church.

Parmer, Bowen Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Parmer, 2180 Twenty - ninth Street, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Linda Dianne, to Mr. James Lee Bowen of El Paso, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Gregory, 3104 Avenue B, Snyder.

The couple have set their wedding date for November 27th.

Many Misses Will Be Mrs. In December

The joys of a wedding and the festivities of the holidays make a magical combination for the bride-to-be. Each year, more and more brides choose December for that very special ceremony.

In fact, no event in history is more surrounded with tradition and curious customs than the wedding ceremony. In China, the bride wore red. . .in Switzerland she superstitiously carried a handkerchief (else her marriage might be tearful). . .in Lapland she was liable to be on the receiving end of a traditional gift — a reindeer!

In the 14th century each French bride threw her garter as an omen of good luck. As time went on more bashful brides changed this custom and tossed their bouquets.

From Egypt came the wedding ring, from the Orient the bridal veil. Far Eastern brides, fearful of the 'evil eye,' began this custom of the veil now adopted by the Western world. It was young Nelly Custis, adopted daughter of George Washington, who first wore a long sheer scarf pinned to her coiffure at her wedding.

Today's December brides are still tradition bound. The modern marriage - go - round finds age 18 the magic year — about half of the bridal gowns and wedding bands sold for first marriages are for very young women under 20. And these girls begin filling their hope chests with everything from towels to toasters in their teens. So, by the time the wedding march is played, today's bride - to - be has accumulated a valuable amount of wordly possessions.

Then there are wedding gifts: we doubt, seriously, whether our young American homemaker - to-be has the slightest desire for a Lapland reindeer wrapped as a wedding gift! Silver candy dishes and tea towels somehow seem more suitable. But today's young bride, thanks to family and friends, is usually well - equipped to set up housekeeping before the wedding bells ring out. What the young couple doesn't receive, they go out and buy (surveys reveal that each couple spends close to $15,000 (cash or credit) for such items as housing, furniture, appliances — and this doesn't include the cost of ring, rice or wedding roses!)

These first personal possessions are important to the couple, both from a poignant and a practical point of view. Today's bride, teen or older, is interested in a variety of products from a do - everything detergent to an insurance program that will protect her new possessions, her new home.

Hero Goes Downhill All The Way

YARBOROUGH. By B. H. Friedman.

The hero of this novel, Arthur Skelton, is an aimless man who fritters away his life because he can find no sense of values, no direction, no goal.

His only progression is from bridge prodigy to bridge bum.

At the age of 6, Skelton was beating adult bridge fans. But even in his card games he was more interested in perfecting a system than in winning trophies, though at 17 he won a national tournament prize.

Skelton was the type who let opportunity slide. In prep school his grades would have made him valedictorian, but he turned down the chance. In college he was doing well and headed for law school, but dropped out because he could see no point in continuing. He had numerous affairs, but was not interested in marriage.

He was always trying the effects of drugs - he started on mairhuana as a teen-ager — but found only transient solace in them. Even as a professional bridge player he merely drifted, sneering at a man who was ambitious enough to become a national authority.

All this downhill chronicle of a man who lacked motivation and couldn't find his own identity is told against a background of clubs, night life, sex and disillusionment. There is a great deal of bridge talk — readers who do not play the game will have to do some skipping - and a preoccupation with narcotics.

Friedman writes well, but his material may not appeal to a wide audience. It's hip.

If you like homemade fish chowder thickened and don't want to make a white sauce, soak crackers in some of the milk and add toward the end of the cooking.

For a crumbly topping for a one-crust apple pie, stir a cup of pie-crust mix into half a cup each of granulated and brown sugar; cut in several tablespoons of butter or margarine so particles are tiny.

When you finish painting the outside of your house, you look it over and congratulate yourself on a job well done. And usually the passage of time gives you no reason for changing your mind about the fine result you got. But occasionally, you feel like coughing up those self-congratulations three or six or nine months later.

You get those second thoughts when that seemingly fine coat of paint begins to develop peculiarities of appearance, some of which resemble the face of an old man who spent most of his life in the sun. On the old man, this outer layer may look fine, but you don't exactly appreciate it on the exterior of your house.

These paint failures, as professional painters call them, are not accidental. There's always a reason why a paint job doesn't last as long as it should. Sometimes it's a combination of reasons, ranging from inferior quality paint to careless application, with a variety of causes between.

Possibly the most common paint failure is blistering, the formation of tiny bubbles on the surface. Moisture is trapped inside these bubbles. It got there because the painting was done while the surface was damp or because it came from the inside of the house and pushed its way under the paint film.

This latter condition can be corrected only by permitting the inside moisture to escape some other way than through the walls. Houses which have insulation with a vapor barrier usually escape this trouble. But the moisture still must be given a chance to get out of the house via exhaust fans, ventilating louvers in the walls or some type of dehumidifier.

Poor quality paint or the failure to allow sufficient drying time between coats or, occasionally, using too much thinner will result eventually in an alligator surface. In fact, the condition is known as alligatoring. Where this occurs very slightly, it is called checking. The causes are similar.

Spotted surfaces come from uneven absorption of the paint. It means the painter either failed to prime the surface properly or tried to stretch the paint too far, or both.

When the outer paint coat takes on a splotchy appearance, sometimes in separated areas, the paint was probably put on over grease, wax or some other foreign material.

Cracking, which is what the term implies, means the paint was of poor quality or poorly mixed. Wrinkling mostly comes from applying too heavy a coat.

Despite constant warnings to prepare the surface properly — by scraping off lose paint, etc. — many persons don't bother. The result: peeling. This also can come from painting over a damp surface, but blistering will usually occur first.

QUESTION: We have an old house, with asbestos shingle siding over two previous layers of wood siding. Some time ago we had to make some attachments to the side of the house, but found that the siding split every time we nailed into it. We had the same experience when we decided to use a portable electric drill, alothough the splits were not as pronounced as when we nailed directly. Now that we have some further nailing to do, we don't want to make the same mistake. Can you help us?

ANSWER: You probably would have no trouble if you used screws instead of nails. But if you want to use nails, do the drilling with a brace and bit or one of those breast drills that look like old-fashioned egg beaters. Be sure you don't make the holes larger than the heads of the nails. There are special nails for siding.

QUESTION: I recently spilled some paint thinner on an asphalt tile floor. By wiping quickly, I was able to get most of it off. But one spot, about the size of a dollar bill, resisted all my efforts. The tile is black. Can the spot be removed?

ANSWER: There isn't too much you can do about this, since the thinner by this time has done its damage. But you might try steel-wooling the area lightly. In any case, because the tile is black, you should be able to touch it up with some black paint so that the stain is inconspicuous. Another solution is to break up that particular tile with a cold chisel and hammer, scrape off all the dried adhesive and install another tile in its place.

Library Notes

New and excitingly different are several high interest stories received recently by the Scurry County Library. These children's books are for read-aloud time in kindergarten and in primary grades. Two prominent speech therapists have teamed up to write these books designed to help children, at the earliest ages, hurdle troublesome letter sounds.

Jan Slepian and Ann Seidler collaborated in these well executed books to help children develop auditory discrimination through captivating stories in which the main characters must learn the correct way to say the problem sounds. The child, by his interest in the main character of each book, is encouraged to listen, hear, and compare the correct and incorrect sounds, and finally to select the correct sound. The story and illustrations in each book are so imaginative and exciting, that children who do listen, hear, and speak correctly enjoy the books as much as those who do not.

"Lester and the Sea Monster," tells a story of a little merboy who longed to join the mermaids and mermen in singing the warning songs that guided ships safely past the dangerous rocks in the sea. But the merpeople couldn't spare time to teach Lester to sing. They were too busy outwitting the evil sea monster. The way Lester gets into the swim of things will bring cheers from all children.

"Mr. Sipple" will delight youngsters every time they read this interestingly funny book. Mr. Sipple, a singing seal, was so well loved for his funny songs and tricks that when he tried to put a naughty princess to sleep with a serious lullaby she only laughed. In this tale, the princess inadvertently taught Mr. Sipple to sing a lullaby, and in so doing fooled herself.

A lonely and wistful dragon, Rodrigo, is the hero of "Roaring Dragon of Redrose." Rodrigo was a dragon who couldn't even frighten a mouse, nonetheless he was determined to scare away the robbers who plagued the good people of Redrose. His solution will delight children and parents alike.

Filled with suspense that children love, the book "Magic Arthur and the Giant, holds children spell - bound. Of all his large magician family, Arthur was the only one who couldn't say magic spells. Yet when only a magic spell would save his family and the beautiful princess from the terrible giant, Thundermouth, Arthur and a magic mirror came to the rescue.

"The Cock Who Couldn't Crow" is written as a child pleaser. If Calvin, a cock who could not crow, does not learn how, Farmer Karl must send him south for his health. Doodle, the rakish farm cat, solves Calvin's problems.

Alfie, custodian of a dream machine, got the children's dreams mixed up in trying to translate them. He let the Bad Dream Man learn the machine's secret, but when the Bad Dream Man tried to send his bad dreams to earth children, he made one big mistake. In this story Alfie capitalized on this mistake. The story will bring happy dreams to every young reader. Title of the book is "Alfie and the Dream Machine."

These books of children's adventure and make - believe are well worth the reading or hearing for all children, especially those who have difficulty speaking distinctly. These listen-hear stories provide teachers and parents with an entertaining and simple method of speech improvement for small children.

Both authors are members of the American Speech and Hearing Association and the New Jersey Speech and Hearing Association. Mrs. Slepian has been a speech therapist at the Language Clinic at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston and the National Hospital for Speech Disorders in New York., Mrs. Seidler has been a speech therapist at the National Hospital for Speech Disorders in New York and speech consultant for the public schools of Cedar Grove, New Jersey.

ANTIQUE ORGAN—This beautiful organ, over 100 years old was a conversation piece and operated during the program of the Musical Coterie Club Thursday evening. Mrs. Betty Patchell, left, and Mrs. Lynn Bethel, right, presented the program. Mrs. Frank LeFeuvre, seated, was a hostess.

Musical Coterie Club Hears Program On 'The Organ'

The Musical Coterie, a member of the Texas Federated Music Clubs, met Thursday evening at Trinity Methodist Church to participate in a program concerning "The History of the Organ," presented by Mrs. Lynn Bethel and Mrs. Betty Patchell. Molly Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Walker, and an organ student of Mrs. Patchell, assisted with background music.

A brief introduction of the topic was made by Mrs. Patchell in which she defined the term "organ" as "a musical instrument in which the sound is made by wind pressure. The word organ also describes other instruments that make organ like sounds: the pipe organ, reed organ, and the electronic organ.

"The earliest form was probably the Greek 'syrinx' or pipes of pan, a series of hollow tubes of varying lengths, across the top of which the player blew to produce the musical tones. In the second century before Christ, an engineer constructed an instrument which made use of water power to force air into the pipes, producing a hydraulus or water organ. Byzantuim, now Istanbul, became an important center of organ building in the first and second century.

"During the Middle Ages the penumatic air organ with wind supplied by bellows, first developed. The Renaissance brought rapid chances, possibly resulting from the development of instrumental music at this time. Many of the organ parts common today first appeared during this period.

"Between 1300 and 1800 the Germans led the world in organ building. During the early nineteenth century the English ranked as the foremost organ builders. The Americans introduced the first electric action organ at the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition in 1876."

Mrs. Bethel demonstrated and explained the working of the electronic organ. "Most people would like to be able to play a musical instrument, but, unfortunately many go through life without learning to play. One thing is certain, whatever your age, it is certainly never too late to begin discovering the enjoyment and feeling of accomplishment that comes from playing an instrument, regardless of type." She then demonstrated the parts of the Hammond organ and the effects that could be produced by each.

Following the program the club members and guests, Mrs. Gwen McLaughlin, and Mrs. Jo Ann Pylant, went to the Martha Ann Woman's Club where the business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Bob Clinton, president.

Mrs. Frank LeFevure and Mrs. Ed Schulz were hostesses for the evening.

New Trick Seen In Fashion Show

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When the models stepped out of their dresses in Pauline Trigere's showroom not an eyebrow was lifted: They wore other dresses underneath.

The idea of wearing two dresses at the same time, a scheme which played a major part in her spring collection Thursday, was Miss Trigere's reaction to the current tendency by American women to wear not even enough of one dress.

Models flipped off skirts and peeled away jackets on costumes called "top suits." There they stood looking ready for the cocktail hour in billowing chiffon or brilliantly colored silk prints with cowl necklines or giant scarves.

In this teaseless strip act, "top dress" was the name Miss Trigere conceived for a sleeveless V-necked wool which, with a shrug of the shoulders, fell away in favor of a voluminous soft pink silk number.

Miss Trigere has several other methods for a fast fashion switch.

One was an attached stole — actually yards and yards of white fabric ingeniously draped over certain patterned areas of a long dinner gown to disguise its original appearance entirely. Another was a shadow shift — a waistless dress transparent enough to reveal the silhouette of the figure-hugging second dress under it.

The quick-change artistry was just one aspect of the show. There were touches of Middle East influence as dark-eyed misses in bright silk draped matching harem veils over their heads.

There was a bit of victorianism in the lavish use of pin stripes, throat-hugging collars with black ribbon ties and jackets and dresses with lapel neck openings cut in a "V" to the waist and worn over modest dickeys.

But most costumes were as French and chic as Miss Trigere herself in her white mink dress.

There were narrow capes, beltless and pinch-waisted dresses, skirts that flared at the hem because of what was described as dove-tailed insets and the boldest, biggest, brightest design on silk of any collection in the garment district thus far.

While berets were jauntily perched on the model's heads as they sported their navy and white costumes and fake daisies sprang out of the oddest places, such as the side and nape of necks.

When you add fresh tomatoes to mayonnaise, it's best to skin the tomatoes and seed them before dicing.

SCHOOL BELLS are ringing, back to the classrooms they come trooping, bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, and in a reluctant mood to settle down after a summer's freedom. The educated life won't seem half so confining, however, when they're dressed in lively, bouncy knitted wools that never hamper the movements of active young bodies. Here, all ready for fun, spiced with mischief, is his handsome brushed wool and mohair pullover, with front panel of blockbuster squares and a magnified turtle collar. Her bulky wool cardigan has an eye - appealing fashion touch of a scalloped intarsia panel in contrasting color.

Collecting Guide For Less

ART COLLECTING FOR PROFIT AND PLEASURE. By Ted Farah.

In one compact package, Farah has prepared a guidebook that can open the door to art collecting for those of us with modest means, who have felt a certain timidity about entering what has seemed to be the realm of millionaries and hundred - thousandaires.

The emphasis here is on the practical - the way to get started at all levels of collecting. For the beginner, there are chapters presenting thumbnail outlines of the main schools of Western art (Old Masters and Modern Masters), and American art.

With a bibliography and a series of notes on museums and commercial galleries in major American cities, this gives the embryo collector an operating method on the road to connoisseurship.

Farah is writing from personal experience, based on years of adventuring into the environment of the museum, the gallery and even the junk shop. His account is salted with anecdotes and the sort of avuncular, inside advice which might take a beginner years to learn.

It should be noted that this book is a good example of what original paperbacks can offer. Its 72 illustrations are a remarkable incentive to the hopeful student.

Internal Conflicts Suggest Kremlin Power Struggles

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A month has passed since Nikita S. Khrushchev was abruptly dumped from the Kremlin leadership. That action possibly created more problems than it solved. Already, clearly visible internal conflicts hint at more power struggles in the offing.

One can almost see the tugging and pulling in vaguely contradictory statements being put out by leading figures in the new regime, suggesting confusion at the summit.

It would be astonishing if there were not widespread nervousness in the U.S.S.R. among the rank and file of the 11-million-strong Communist party and the big and growing middle class whose influence became a political factor in the Khrushchev era.

Khrushchev's removal Oct. 14 was a power maneuver, apparently aimed at reversing some of his economic policies and redressing some of Moscow's setbacks in world Communism because of the Soviet-Chinese dispute.

The present regime looks transitional. If the forces which ousted Khrushchev are to prevail, there must be a housecleaning of many of those the former first party secretary entrenched in the party structure throughout the country.

Indeed, there is little chance of doing anything positive about the dispute with Red China unless such a housecleaning takes place. The Chinese and their allies make it clear they believe Khrushchev was only one of many "modern revisionists" leading the U.S.S.R. toward liberalization of Marxist-Leninist doctrine.

The housecleaning could be difficult — possibly even dangerous. It would probably require cracking down on liberal tendencies in the economy, in the arts and even in agriculture.

The new first secretary, Leonid I. Brezhnev, has tossed tokens of good faith to an anxious public, indicating adherence to the general lines of the 20th and 22nd party congresses. These, respectively, involved de-Stalinization and raising industrial production in all spheres.

Similar tokens were tossed to the public in 1953 when Georgi Malenkov's nervous regime took over after Stalin. It promised abundance of consumer goods within a short period. The promise was not kept and Malenkov was soon pushed aside.

Even while Brezhnev is promising to ease the lot of farmer and consumer, Pravda is saying repeatedly that if there is to be a growth in consumer goods production, it must be "on the basis of expansion of heavy industry."

The public is told the policy of seeking relaxed tensions abroad is to be continued. But in the background the Chinese — as part of their price for muting their argument with Moscow — demand a Red unity which will make "the U.S. imperialists shudder."

The Soviet military speaks of "peaceful coexistence," with a different tone from Khrushchev's. Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's order of the day for the Bolshevik anniversary supported peaceful coexistence but added that "aggressive imperialist forces" in the world meant the U.S.S.R. had to strengthen its defense might to the utmost.

This means no cutbacks in heavy industry or military spending, and more waiting for consumer goods.

Party chief Brezhnev evidently is required to echo this line, but even as he speaks, foreigners are quietly reassured that it is not so belligerent as it sounds. It is as if party leaders were being pushed into a harder policy toward the United States against their will.

The collective party leadership consists of eight Presidium members — Brezhnev, Alexei N. Kosygin, Mikhail Suslov, A. I. Mikoyan, Nikolai Podgorny, Dmitri Polyansky, Gennadi Voronov and A. P. Kirillenko. The military appears to have much power and influence at this moment.

Another source of power, however, is the Committee of State Security (KGB) under A. N. Shelepin who, at 46, is a figure to reckon with. His influence could help bring to the top a man of his own generation, 47-year-old Polyansky, a skilled administrator and prototype of today's technocrat. Together, Shelepin and Polyansky could make effective use of pressures generated by public demands for a better share of the economy.

The military-conservative alliance seems to want sharp changes in Soviet policy, a harder anti-United States line to mollify the Red Chinese and bring at least a show of world Community unity. But many conflicts are involved.

If the U.S.S.R. backs down too much before Peking's demands, it could alienate Communists in the West. If Moscow tries to reestablish some aspects of Stalinism, it would hurt European parties who would see prospects for political gains shattered. It would cause unrest in the Communist-ruled East European nations which heavily supported the Khrushchev line.

So the new regime seems caught in a squeeze between anxiety to muffle the world Communist dispute and dangers involved in meeting Peking's price for silence. Probably a world meeting of Communist leaders would do little but aggravate the problems.

Attempts to turn back the clock — part of the Chinese price for peace — could stir strong reaction from younger generation Soviet Communists, liberalizers who grew in strength and numbers under Khrushchev.

All in all, the Brezhnev-Kosygin regime has a fragile look. It can take time, but conflicts besetting the Kremlin eventually may lead to another upheaval and produce another leader who will decide what direction the U.S.S.R. will take.

Pope Donates Gold Crown

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI donated his gold and silver three-tiered beehive crown today to the poor of the world.

Vatican officials said his action symbolized the concern of the Roman Catholic Church for those "who suffer misery and hunger."

The Pope placed the tiara on an altar in St. Peter's Basilica during a special Mass honoring ancient St. John Chrysostom, revered alike by Roman Catholics of the West and Orthodox Catholics of the East.

Archbishop Pericle Felici, secretary general of the Vatican Ecumenical Council, announced during the service that the Pope had decided to give away his crown after hearing the "many and grave words expressed in the council on the misery and hunger of these days."

Junior Editors Quiz on LAMPS

QUESTION: Both incandescent and fluorescent lamps have no air inside. Why?

ANSWER: By 1897, Thomas Edison had discovered that if you passed an electric current through a "filament" of fine carbon, it would make the filament white hot and produce light. But the oxygen of the air would quickly burn the filament out. Edison's brilliant idea was to enclose the glowing filament in a glass bulb from which the air had been drawn. The result: the electric light. Nowadays, tungsten wire is used instead of carbon, and argon and nitrogen gas are used inside the bulb to make the filament last longer, but the air has still to be drawn out of such "incandescent" lamps.

Air is an insulator. It tends to keep electric current from flowing across it. This is the reason the air must be taken out of the other kind of light, called "fluorescent." These bulbs have electric connections or "electrodes" at each end. Electricity passing between them creates invisible ultraviolet rays by acting against the electrons of the argon gas and mercury vapor with which the tube is filled. The tubes are lined with chemicals called phosphors. When the ultraviolet rays strike these, the phosphors glow and give bright light.

FOR YOU TO DO: Take something red and hold it under an incandescent light, then under a fluorescent. Notice how dull it is under the latter?
