J. A. Coffee, 89, Community Builder, Dies Sunday

J. A. Coffee, 89, who was instrumental in getting the first bridge put across Salt Fork River north of Wellington, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday, September 9, at 4:50 p. m. Mr. Coffee had suffered a stroke early in the year and his condition was critical for a number of weeks.

His health improved, however, until he was able to come to town and visit with friends, but he became critically ill again a few days before his death.

Since he retired from farming in the Lurie community, Mr. Coffee and his family had made their home in Wellington.

Throughout his long life, Mr. Coffee had been a builder of rural communities and a worker for their improvement.

John Alvin Coffee was born May 3, 1862, in Murry County, Ga., the son of Epperson and Martha E. Stamford Coffee, both natives of Tennessee. He too, moved to that state, living until he came to Texas in 1888. He lived in Willbarger County until 1901, serving as postmaster at Wheatland. He then

Reunion Honors City Man

T. B. Starkey at 85 Looks Back on Sixty Years of County History

T. B. Starkey, 85 year old Collingsworth pioneer, was the central figure at a family reunion September 1 and 2, which brought together his own family and those of the Whites, Neeleys and Burchmans, relatives of the late Mrs. Starkey.

Held at the Baptist encampment, this is an annual reunion. Originally planned to fall on Mr. Starkey's birthday, July 25, it is often postponed a few weeks on account of hot weather.

Saturday evening was given over to cooking supper in the open and younger members swam and played volleyball ball. Sunday morning the 75 members of the family visited, and at 1:00 p. m., following lunch, the group met in the tabernacle for a program, directed by Mr. Starkey's youngest daughter, Mrs. Raymond Powell of Perryton.

Religious songs were led by Dr. George Kollmer, who then told of his work and studies in San Jose, Costa Rica. Songs were sung in Spanish by his daughters, Karen and Martha Kollmar, including "Jesus Loves Me," "I Will Follow Jesus" and "I Will Make You Fishers of Men." These little girls are three and five years of age. Miss Dorothy Starkey, Miss Reba O'Hair and Miss Sonja Atkin-

DODSON CO-OP GIN IMPROVEMENT

The first cotton burr sterilizer, in the lower picture, in this section of the state has been installed by the Dodson Farmers Co-op Gin, enabling their patrons to take home and put back on the land their cotton burs. This sterilization is necessary, since the county is under pink boll worm control, otherwise the burs must be by law destroyed. In the top picture is seen the new concrete block office building, put up this summer. Ed Crowder is gin manager.

Report From Washington

Rogers Tells of Work On Farm Problems

"Instead of stockpiling 2,000,000 bales of cotton, we should stockpile 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 bales. We'll need it. It's a good thing that what happened to cotton in the Panhandle this year didn't happen to the whole country," The Hon. Walter Rogers, representative from the 18th District, told the combined membership of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs Wednesday, September 5.

Mr. Rogers talk, one of a number made in his district during the three-week recess of the House of Representatives, was in the nature of a report from Washington, in which he touched on farm problems and child labor as it pertains to farm workers, his efforts to stop the enlargement of bureaus and boards, and the preparedness program and Korean War.

He assured the group they could forget about Congress passing bills on socialized medicine, federal housing and the FEPC, for those issues are "dead pigeons," and he assured them Congress is alert to the passage of those things slipping into legislation clothed in strange language.

Mr. Rogers told the Wellington business men that he will do whatever has to be done to work out the farm parity problem. "We hope to get cotton parity price to where the farmers can realize sufficient to farm workers, his

Group Pushes Dairying in Quail Area

A dairy enterprise is being given consideration by several farmers and some of the agricultural agencies in the Quail area.

President Jack Gibson of the Chamber of Commerce stated that the problem was discussed during the recent County Mobilization Committee meetings and that the farm operators have requested the aid of the agricultural agencies in this reorganization.

Agencies which have studied this problem and are working together on the solution are Farmers Home Administration, Extension Service, Greenbelt Electric Co-operative, Inc., and the Chamber of Commerce.

R. B. Johnson, Greenbelt Electric representative, reviewed the agricultural problem for the board members. He stated that a portion of the county which is made up of a very sandy soil would be greatly helped from the production standpoint through a livestock enterprise along with the row crop.

Agricultural agencies are in agreement that the major source of income in this area can most profitably come from dairying or some other livestock program.

A report from Arrell Cummings, County FHA Supervisor, which was read to the group, stated that the dairying program appears to be a profitable enterprise for Collingsworth County since county farmers can raise any variety of feed that may be needed such as grain sorghums, alfalfa and sweet clover.

Mr. Johnson said that Farmers Home Administration has been asked to aid in financing the program since all the farmers' will need financial help. Local funds will not be sufficient to establish the temporary and permanent pastures, nor the buildings and livestock which will be needed.

In approaching the problem, Mr. Johnson reported that farmers in the Lillie and Salt Fork Communities have been contacted and found to be interested in milking from six to 10 cows. Creameries have assured their interest in buying both grade A and grade C milk and real estate men have reported that a market for farms in

Football Tickets Available at Two Drug Stores

Season football tickets are on sale at Parsons-McDowell Drug and Cochran Drug, Supt. C. T. Roberts announced today. Sales have been good so far, but good seats are still available, he said.

One side of the Hollis high school stadium will be reserved for Wellington fans Friday night, September 14, when both teams play their opening game, and admission will be by general admission only.

A block of reserved seat tickets for the Shamrock-Wellington game on September 28 at Shamrock will be sent here and will be on sale September 20 at both Cochran Drug and Parsons-McDowell Drug.

SPEAKS HERE

Dr. Robert F. Ricketson, long-time missionary to China who is now living at Hollis, will speak at the First Methodist Church Thursday evening, September 13, at 8:00 p. m. Dr. Ricketson was in China under communist control until February of this year.

General Rain in County Brightens Prospects for Late Feed, Cotton

Rain, general over the county between Friday and Tuesday, broke completely the drought that had burned cotton and feed since mid-July.

Reports from all parts of the county were that late feed will be greatly benefitted; late cotton will be helped some, but there is some cotton on the tight land that is too late to benefit.

With the rain came a sharp drop in temperature. After a full month of 100 degree weather, cooler weather prevailed during the week end, and Wednesday at 10:00 a.m. the temperature stood at 74.

Wellington received a total of 1.77 inches for the three rains: .10 inch Friday night; .67 inch Saturday night; and one inch Tuesday between 5:00 and 6:00 p.m. This was the first rain that had fallen since July 14, when .96 inch was recorded, and two weeks prior to that, July 1, the city received .5 inch, J. M. Strong, who has the official rain gauge here, said.

The temperature, which Mr. Strong was not official, registered 100 degrees or above every day in August. Two days showed 110 degrees, several days 108 degree weather, and on a number of days the thermometer stood around 106.

Rainfall at Dodson measured two inches Saturday night and around one-half inch Tuesday. No moisture was received Friday. Some late feed in that area will benefit greatly by the rain, Floyd Teutsch of the First State Bank said, and young cotton will be helped, but about all it will do for cotton on the tight land is mature the bolls already on the stalk. Cotton picking has started in that section, and approximately 40 bales had been ginned.

Around two inches fell at Quail Tuesday, Mrs. Tom Crabtree said. Since much of the cotton and feed in that section is late, it stands to benefit greatly. The Quail section this year is producing its best cotton crop in several years, and the moisture sent prospects even higher.

Zook Thomas reported .90 inch of rain in his gauge at Lillie. "It will sure help the feed and the late cotton some. On the older cotton, the bolls will be larger. It will help definitely," he said.

Samnorwood area received 1.50 inches Saturday night and .8 Tuesday, a total of 2.20 inches. This area had received rain a week earlier, and altogether late crops should be helped considerably, Dalton Vaughn, high school principal said.

There is some tight land in that section, however, on which crops are too badly burned to benefit, he added. This includes both cotton and feed.

At Dozier, the rain Tuesday measured around one-half inch, but was heavier to the south. Friday's rainfall measured 1.3 inches, and this section also received good rains two weeks ago.

Funeral Here For John M. Hull, Former Resident

John M. Hull, a former resident of the Swearingen community, died Tuesday, September 4, in a hospital at Duncan, Oklahoma, where he had been receiving treatment following a fall in which he received a broken leg.

Mr. Hull was visiting in the home of a son, Hugh Hull, in Bennington, Oklahoma, when the accident occurred.

He had farmed in this county for 17 years, before going to Sunray to make his home with another, Wayne Hull.

Born November 25, 1871, in Red River County, Mr. Hull was 79 years, 9 months and 9 days of age at the time of his death.

Funeral services were held at the Church of Christ in Wellington Thursday, September 6, with Minister Bob Copeland of Clarendon in charge. Following the service

RESPONSIBLE FOR PARK IMPROVEMENT

These boys, members of the Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church taught by Dr. E. W. Jones are responsible for building three tables, a serving table and barbecue pit at Ellison Park. It is the only group which responded to the City's request for help in its park improvement program. Located near the south side of the park, two of the tables are 12 feet long, and the other is 18 feet and built with seats. All are of brick and concrete construction. This work was done in the spare time of the boys and their teacher. Dr. Jones also bought and gave to the park two drinking fountains, which were installed by the City Water Department. Shown are, back row, Billy Wauer, Leland Finley, Bobby Timmy, Joe Raburn and Dr. Jones. Bottom row: James Slay, Jack Hunter, Leon Roy, and Harold Cooley. If there's a hungry look on any face, that's natural. The barbecue pit was full of chicken when this picture was taken.

Both Teams Untried

Rockets Open Season Against Hollis Tigers Friday Night

The Wellington Skyrockets open their 1951 football season with the Hollis Tigers Friday night, September 14, on the Tigers Field — in what Wellington coaches believe will be a hard game that starts a hard season schedule.

This is the opening game for both teams, and little advanced information of the Tigers' strength has leaked out into Texas.

"Hollis is big and rugged and always tough for us to beat, especially on their home field," Rocket Coach Maxey McKnight said Tuesday. "They are using the single wingback formation, but we just don't know what they have to offer."

Tiger Coach Joe Bailey Metcalf and Assistant Don Royal say that it's the Rockets that are the threat. The Tigers last year had a disastrous season, with injury after injury dogging the team. Then graduation robbed them of both weight and experience. So far a roster of players has not been received here.

The Rockets are in good shape for the opener, and only minor injuries have been suffered on the team so far, McKnight said Tuesday. He and Assistant Donald Briggs have not picked their starting lineup, and it is doubtful if this will be announced before game time.

The Rockets will not be wearing their new uniforms, due to a conflict in colors, but will play for probably the last time in their old white jockey satin suits.

The game time is 8:00 p.m.

The new uniforms, which the Wellington boys will use in their first home game, depart from the traditional red and white, for the practical reason that the white has been too hard to keep that way. The '51 Rockets will be wearing red nylon jerseys with grey numerals and Northwestern stripes on their sleeves. The trousers are two-way stretch red Ar-

To Live at Samnorwood

DP Family, Out from Behind Iron Curtain, Finds Freedom Here

By MRS. C. W. FRITTS

A couple whose country disappeared behind Russia's Iron Curtain in 1937, was captured by the Germans in 1943, and liberated in 1945, is finding the freedom they so long wanted on a farm at Samnorwood.

Brought to the United States as a displaced family, they are working for Mr. and Mrs. Orville Cunningham and are living on the Cunningham farm three miles south of Norwood.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Iwan Tankonah and their three small children, six-year-old Nickolaj (Nicklos in the English Language, it was explained), and his two sisters, four year old Tatina and two year old Wallentina.

The Tankonah family reached Childress Wednesday night, September 3, from a displaced persons camp in Germany two years after the Cunninghams had made application for a D. P. family, requesting that this one be sent them. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham and their daughter, Karen, were waiting at the depot, as Mr. and Mrs. Tankonah stepped off the train, puzzled and pointing in the different directions. It had not occurred to them, the later said, that someone would meet their train, and they did not know which way they should go.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham had arranged for a Childress cafe to serve their meal, family style, rather than the usual plate servings. Of the fried chicken and potatoes, they ate every bite, but green beans and spinach they did not touch—they have not had these vegetables they said.

Fortunately, there is not a problem of language between the newcomers and their employees. Upon learning they would come to the United States, Mrs. Tankonah began studying English in the DP Camp, and she can speak fairly fluently. Mr. Cunningham can talk with them in German, which both speak, and Lawrence Skystad, high school English teacher at Samnorwood, who was born and grew up in Norway, speaks several European languages, and talks with them easily.

The house in which they will live was another surprise — two stores with six 20 x 20 rooms. Six or eight families would live in it in Europe, the Tankonah's said. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham had furnished it, even providing a supply of groceries, but it did not occur to them the new arrivals might think these were possessions of another family. Next morning, when they drove to the farm, hardly a thing had been touched.

Something of their story was learned a few days after they arrived.

Laan-Tex to Drill New Test on Bailey Land

A wildcat test will be drilled by the Laan-Tex Oil Company of Dallas on a block assembled northeast of Wellington, it was announced late last week by W. L. Clary, land department attorney of the company.

This well will be located in the northwest quarter of section 49, block 11, five miles north and two miles east of Wellington, on the Arthur Bailey land. The test will be known as the Laan-Tex No. 1 Arthur Bailey.

Leases on this block were originally taken more than a year ago and the drilling block came into the hands of Roy Wolf and associates. They forfeited their rights, and Mr. Clary, for the Laan-Tex Oil Company re-assembled the block with a new drilling contract for a test, the latter said.

Mr. Clary said Tuesday that a contract has been made with Kimberlin and Tanner, drilling contractors of Pampa, Oklahoma City and Dallas, to put the well down. Excavation work was to begin Wednesday on the new pit, and hauling material for setting up

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

(Intended for Last Week)
Ruidoso, N. M. — We are up here by a lovely stream just resting and it is a certainty that Louise deserves a rest after the busy summer we have had. Our schedule is simple. It consists mainly of cooking, eating and sleeping with a pony ride in the morning and a wade in the river each afternoon for Henry. The rest of the time is spent in sitting and walking and looking at the trees.

We do our own cooking, and have eaten out only one time since we have been here. We bought our groceries in Wellington before coming up, and it is startling to think of the difference in price of the same items in this resort area.

I cook most of the breakfasts, because I can cook a far better breakfast than my wife. At least she has taught Henry to say so—it may be her way of getting out of work. Of course I make twice as big a mess in the kitchen as she does; but that does not bother me for I don't wash the dishes.

Sunday morning we had prune juice, boiled hominy grits with cream, thick slices of crisp bacon, scrambled eggs, toast, honey, maple syrup, milk and strong black coffee. Monday morning we had about the same except there were fresh sliced peaches, fried hominy grits and eggs with the sunny side up.

There is a man here named W. M. Scott who formerly lived at Odell near Vernon and later at San Angelo. He spends about seven months of the year here and the rest on the coast. He raises the largest dahlias I have ever seen even at the flower shows. They do wonderfully well here in this cool climate and the quality of the blooms is remarkable as well as the size.

We spend most of our money with G. V. Boykin, who operates a pony ride. We have been such good customers that he lets Henry ride free in slack periods. He is a member of the New Mexico legislature and also works for the railroad (sounds familiar). He raises Shetland ponies and conducts the rides as a hobby. On Sunday before Labor Day his horses made 510 rounds. The price is 25 cents for two rounds or 50 cents for five rounds so you can figure it up yourself. Ordinarily he stays open until 6 p.m. but his horses were so tired that he shut down at 5 p.m. Sunday.

Our next door neighbor is George McGinnis Lee of Fort Worth. He is a cousin of Charles Broughton of Childress. He works at Consolidated and she works for the FHA. They live on a small farm 14 miles out of Fort Worth and milk four cows and raise turkeys and chickens. They get up at five in the morning. Each one milks two cows, then they tend to the turkeys and chickens and have breakfast and drive to work. They get home at six in the afternoon and repeat the performance. They have no hired man although they did get a man to take care of the stuff while they are on vacation. They said that a number of their turkeys and chickens died in the intense heat this summer although they were in the shade and had plenty of water. They thought of moving into Fort Worth proper last spring, but the rent was so high on rental properties and the taxes so high on stuff that they could buy that they thought they could not afford it. I don't know what their aim is; but it sounds to me like they are working up to paying out some fancy doctor bills in their old age.

Another of our neighbors in the mountains were Mr. and Mrs. Jack King, who are farmer-stockmen people near Abilene. They have two well-mannered sons named John and Jerry. They are seven and nine; but our roughneck Henry took them in charge and started directing operations. I presume that he has a guilty conscience about not carrying the pillow down the aisle at his sister's wedding. Anyhow the two King boys had played all of his games until one morning Henry sat down on a rock and started thumping his fingers on the back porch of the cabin and announced: "I'll be Benny and play the organ and you can march down the aisle." John, the elder, took it in stride; but Jerry, the seven year old, suddenly revolted. "No," he said, "we ain't going to get married to each other." That ended that bit of imagination — a realist had exercised his common sense.

Jack King was a buddy of Bynum Hightower, of Dodson, in the fighting in the Pacific in World War II. He tells a tale on Bynum; and my wife, who tried to teach Bynum at Kelley, says that it sounds probable. The unit to which King and Hightower were assigned were sent up into the mountains to fortify a position—at least hold it—and they started digging foxholes. Bynum dug his deep enough to suit himself; but the noise of the other diggers got on his nerves, so he went off and found a shady spot on the trail and lay down and went to sleep. Noon came and mess was called. One man was missing. The Lieutenant sent out a patrol to find the missing man dead or alive. They found Bynum sleeping in the shade of a tree on the trail. (In that region no man was supposed to go anywhere alone.) When he learned the details, the Lieutenant grew livid in the face and shouted: "Don't you know that you are inviting a Jap knife in your back by going out on that trail alone."

A small fire started in the valley below us Monday morning; but the volunteer fire department from Ruidoso got there in a short time and put it out. It is against the law to build any unauthorized outdoor fire; and Mr. Boykin told me that he supposed somebody would catch hell if they could find out who was responsible for starting the fire. The forests are tinder dry and a fire once out of control could wreak untold havoc. Mountain people fear a forest fire worse than we do a tornado.

We have not had the radio on since we arrived and have bought few daily newspapers; but we have been trying to catch up on our reading. And I ran across a condensed version of "Signal Thirty-Two" that irritated me as much as if I had been reading all the dailies and had the radio on full blast all day. It was a story about the police of New York City; but the chapter that got me down was the manner in which immigrants are pouring in from Puerto Rico. They arrive one day and the next they are on relief. They do not pretend to find work. How long do you think that France would allow such immigration from her territories? How utterly silly can we become before we fall as a great nation?

And then I read in The El Paso Times about the hard, hard financial bargain made by Australia and New Zealand before they would consent to become parties to our settlement of peace with Japan. Why those countries would have been overrun and devastated beyond all belief if it had not been for American blood and American might. Yet they sit back and drive as lopsided a bargain as if the South had secured indemnities from the North at the end of the War Between the States; but our administration is so weak kneed on foreign policy that it swallows the deal whole and without protest. Again I ask, how weak and foolish can our leaders become before we turn them out in an effort to save our country.

On our way up here we stopped at Hereford to visit the Jimmie Gillentines. Henry had such a good time playing with Buzz in the basement of the Gillentines modeled home that he thought he had reached the end of his journey. First he did not want to leave and the next morning he wanted to turn around and go back and play with Buzz.

I can hear a rain crow among the pine trees; but there is no rain in Ruidoso.

Why is it that you look at lovely women in shorts in the mountains a lot longer than you do equally well built but more scantily attired females on the beaches. Perhaps it is like the two tramps who came across a young woman swimming in the nude. "My, ain't she beautiful," observed the first one. "Yeah," said the second, "but I sure would like to see her in a sweater."

Ropers Win Four Way Contest

A Wellington team won the roping contest between teams from Pampa, Perryton, Canadian and Wellington Monday at Canadian. Taking part from this county were Gene Glynn, Bill Towns, J. H. Oldham, Eddie Smith, N. C. Beam, Doc Guynes, Travis Somerville and Leon Roberts. Wellington and Perryton were high clubs during the afternoon performance, with Wellington winning in the rope-off Monday night. The Canadian Club entertained the other clubs with a steak fry Monday evening. The Wellington ropers also won over Clarendon in a matched roping Thursday night at Clarendon.

Mrs. Vesta Watson and Mrs. Rolly Fisher spent the week end in Roswell, New Mexico, visiting their sister, Mrs. L. T. Asher; and in Lovington, New Mexico, visiting another sister, Mrs. W. H. Castleberry.

Announcing our appointment as Dealer for FERTILENE LIQUID FERTILIZER

We are proud to make this announcement in the interest of our customers who are always looking to us for better methods of improving their yields. We are convinced that with the use of the new liquid fertilizer FERTILENE you might increase your production from 10 to 300 per cent.

Recent scientific tests by university experiment stations and farmers show evidence of marked increases in small grain yields when seed grain is treated with liquid fertilizer before planting.

Fertilene liquid fertilizer is a highly concentrated compound made of the finest raw materials needed for plant growth. It is a "super-charged" solution containing 7% Nitrogen, 14% Phosphorus, 7% Potash, plus trace elements of Boron, Magnesium, Manganese, Zinc, Calcium and Iron.

Tests Suggest That Phosphate Soaked Into Seed Is "60 TIMES MORE EFFICIENT"

Than When Applied To Soil In The Regular Way

By applying Fertilene to your seed grain, you add a great deal of nourishment—ready for the seed to use immediately after germination. This helps develop better root structure and top growth in the early stages. It makes possible an impressive increase in your yield. Fertilene is not a cure-all. But where either the soil or the seed is deficient in elements necessary for growth-building, the results have been outstanding.

COSTS LESS THAN 60¢ PER ACRE

One gallon of Fertilene is diluted with 1/2 gallon of water. It will treat 12 bushels of wheat, oats, rye or barley seed. The cost is generally less than 60¢ an acre.

EASY TO USE— NO SPECIAL EQUIPMENT

It is easy to apply Fertilene. Just sprinkle over your seed grain, mix thoroughly on barn floor, tarpaulin or in cement mixer, and allow to dry before planting. Treated seed runs freely through the drill. Fertilene is safe from freezing to 40° below zero.

WHEAT GROWER SAYS:

About your fertilizer, have noticed that the wheat came up faster and grows faster than the unfertilized. And also the best stand I believe I ever had so far. For example, my neighbor planted 80 acres and used the fertilizer and it came right up and kept growing. And in the center he ran out of fertilizer, so he went ahead and planted without the fertilizer. It took that wheat (untreated) about a month to come up to where it looked like any stand at all, and very slow growing. My, what a difference."—G. Mayes, Tergarden, Okla.

LANGDON, NORTH DAKOTA, EXPERIMENT STATION

Superintendent, Victor Sturlaugson, says: "Recent tests showed a 41.7 bu. per acre wheat yield with application of liquid fertilizer to the seed and 39 bu. per acre from untreated seed—an increase of 2.7 bushels per acre."

CAP Stages Practice Rescue Mission Here

A practice search and rescue mission was held by members of the Wellington Civil Air Patrol Squadron at Marian Airpark Sunday afternoon, September 9.

Object of the search was a plane known within a given five-mile square area. Locating the plane and calculating its position on the map for the ground rescue group was the mission of the air search teams.

J. M. Moore, operations officer, presented the search mission, and Jack Strong, engineering officer and check pilot, directed the air search. Ground rescue operations were directed by Raymond Horton.

Four pilots, four instructors and seven observers participated in air search and the remainder of the group accomplished the ground rescue.

Pilots for the mission included Hiram Cudd, Bill Hughes, Max Graben and Beryl Faulkner. William McClaskey, Ray Wolf, Weldon Cleveland and Herman Claude Terry were the instructor-observers. Observers were Dora E. McClaskey, Priscilla Chase, Joan Flint, Donald Green, Mr. Horton, Willie B. Harwell, and Charles Caldwell, Jr.

After the mission was accomplished iced watermelon was enjoyed by everyone.

New meeting dates of the squadron will be the first and third Mondays of each month at 8 p. m. and the second and fourth Sundays at 4 p. m., the commanding officer Captain Hughes has announced.

The Pullman Cafe was re-opened this week, after being redecorated, and at the same time a new dining room was put in, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hood, the owners, announced.

During the time the cafe was closed, a number of other improvements and changes were made for the convenience of their patrons.

Curry to White Buick Company

Fletcher Curry, veteran Wellington mechanic, has been employed by the White Buick Company, Earl Hunter and Elzie White, owners, announced this week.

Mr. Curry has been employed in the mechanical departments of motor companies here for a number of years, and in addition has had training in the factories of General Motors cars.

The owners of the Buick agency announced at the same time that their mechanical department is now in a position to work on trucks and tractors, as well as cars.

At the next regular meeting, Monday night, September 17, a first aid review will be held in preparation for the examination. All members are urged to come out and enjoy these classes and missions, by the training officer William W. McClaskey.

Judge Raymond Horton, justice of the peace, officiated at a double wedding September 4, when two brothers were married to a mother and daughter. The quartet came from Chickasha, Oklahoma.

The marriage licenses were issued by the office of County Clerk J. M. Moore to Hugh Woodford Garrett, who gave his age as 31, and Mrs. Lillie Belle Clouse, 34, and to Conrad Andrew Garrett, 21, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Clouse, 18. The ceremonies took place in Judge Horton's office.

And court house personnel is still trying to figure out who is related to who, and in how many ways.

Dining Room Opens Thursday

Mrs. S. L. Lindsey this week announced the opening of Mrs. Lindsey's Dining Room, located one door south of the Ritz Theatre.

Formal opening will be Thursday, September 13, when cookies and coffee will be served all persons visiting the new business, which is in Mrs. Lindsey's home.

Meals will be served twice daily, from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. and from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Food will be served family style.

"This is the only dining room of the type in Wellington, and I feel that there is a demand for the service which it will offer," the owner said.

"In order that you may see for yourself the type of dining room this is, I am extending a cordial invitation to the public to visit on the opening day, as well as in the months ahead."

George E. Jones Dies at Canyon

George E. Jones died September 8 at 1:00 a.m. at Neblett Hospital in Canyon of a heart ailment. He had been in poor health two and one-half years, but entered the hospital only a few hours before passing away.

Mr. Jones moved to Collingsworth County in January 1916 and made his home there until 1941, except for a year and a half he was in the armed service during World War I. He spent a year overseas and was on the firing line when the armistice was signed.

He returned to Collingsworth County and bought a farm in the Rolla community, living there until he moved to Canyon, where he worked on the Parker ranch until his health failed, about two years ago.

Surviving relatives are his wife, Mrs. Ella Jones of Canyon; one daughter, Mrs. Bob Steele of Denver, Colorado; one brother and six sisters, Pete Jones of Clovis, N. M., Mrs. Sallie Service of Plainview, Mrs. Annie Bird of Canyon, Mrs. Pearl Craft of Dal-las, Mrs. Viola Mayfield of Clyde, Mrs. Bess Hays of Clovis, N. M., and Helen Jones of Muleshoe; and a large number of nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Dreamland Cemetery, Canyon.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Kersten and Vicky of Dumas spent the Labor Day week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kersten and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bennett.

Additional Street Surfacing Begins

Approximately 20 blocks of Wellington streets will be surfaced or resurfaced during the coming week, City Manager Bura Handley announced Tuesday. Work will be done by the Watson Construction Company of Perryton.

El Paso Street and Graham Street south of 15th will be surfaced, and a seal coat will be put on already-surfaced streets at different points over town. Some of these streets were surfaced as relief work projects, and others were laid down at a later date.

Total cost was estimated by Mr. Handley at less than $5,000. This will include material, furnished by the city, and labor.

Tax Rate Unchanged

New F-M Road Program Under Consideration

The Commissioners Court, meeting Monday, September 10, set the tax rate at $1.00 per $100 valuation, and in a second meeting Tuesday, September 11, met with Palmer Massey of Childress to discuss the county's next farm-to-market road program, County Judge R. L. Templeton said.

The tax rate remains the same as last year.

"This is in spite of the fact that the county is in hard shape, but the commissioners figure the taxpayers are in hard shape, too," Judge Templeton said, referring to a $3,000 deficit which exists in the approved county budget.

All members of the court were present and the meeting was a harmonious one, he added.

In the Tuesday meeting, each of the four commissioners presented one or more roads for Mr. Massey's consideration. These will be studied by the State Highway Department, and the court will be notified later, possibly in November, as to which road will come next on the program and what the mileage will be.

Major roads presented were:

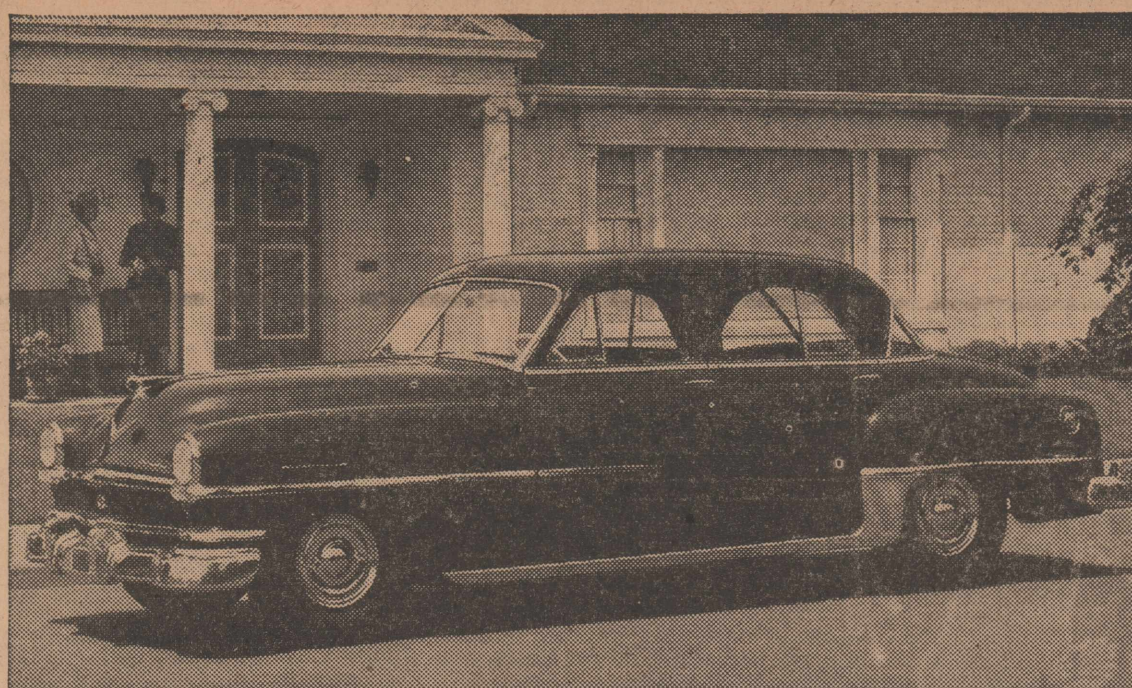

Precinct 1: Commissioner Jack Brewer submitted two miles of roads at Dodson, one mile east to the Oklahoma state line and one mile south; also approximately four miles of road in the Fresno community leading off the Dodson highway; also the road four miles south of the southwest corner of the town section, into the House-log community.

Precinct 2: Commissioner Alfred Knoll presented the road starting at the end of surfaced FM Road No. 1439 four miles east of Lutie, and extending five miles east to the Needwood school. This was the only eligible road from Precinct 2. It was also approved for surfacing at the time bonds for the county's four-year post-war road program were voted by county taxpayers, but later a traffic count by the State Highway Department revealed that traffic over the east 5-mile section was now heavy enough to justify the pavement. Since then, however, traffic has picked up considerably over the road.

Precinct 3: Commissioner Pat O'Hair presented two roads. The first of these would start at Rolla, where FM Road 338 ends, and extend through the Swearingen community, then south to the county line, approximately 7 miles. The second road as requested would begin three miles west of town, where FM Highway 338 turns

CHRYSLER INTRODUCES SARATOGA MODELS

New in the 1951 Chrysler line is the Saratoga model powered by the 180-horsepower FirePower V-8 engine, which previously has been available only in the longer wheelbased New Yorker, Imperial and Crown Imperial models. With a wheelbase of 125½ inches, the Saratoga will be available in the six-passenger sedan pictured above, eight-passenger sedan, limousine, club coupe and the Town and Country wagon. Saratoga models will be available in a wide choice of standard colors and two tone color combinations.

south, and extend four and a half miles into the Buck Creek community.

Precinct 4: Commissioner Cortez Barnett presented three roads: The first would begin in the Plymouth community, at the point where FM highway No. 1548 ends, and extend east four miles to Highway 83. The second is an alternate of two or three miles either north or south of the point where FM Highway 1036 ends west of Abra. The third road submitted would begin at Abra and extend six and one-half miles south to join the five miles of FM highway north of Quail already approved. This stretch of road, however, would involve the building of an expensive bridge over Salt Fork River.

T. B. Starkey - (Continued from Page One)

county was organized. He filed on section 8, block 16, in what was then known as Bradley Flat, later Plymouth, and now Sannorwood. After digging a half dug-out, two and one-half miles from his nearest neighbor, Bill Bradley, an uncle, he returned to Wilbarger county for his family.

Not a man to live in the past, Mr. Starkey can, if pinned down, tell vividly about a Collingsworth County that was truly a frontier country. There was the matter of getting mail from Aberdeen, for instance. He and the Bradleys alternated on these trips, and upon returning, a white sheet hung outside the dug-out meant "You got some mail, come and get it." This was prairie country then, covered with tall grass that cattlemen like to dream about.

Mr. Starkey is one of those who can remember what a paradise for wild game Collingsworth was. They hunted deer and quail and wild turkey for the market. Up at Mobeetie, prairie chicken brought from $2.50 to $3.00 per dozen, and venison six or seven cents per pound. An old cowtrail up to Mobeetie ran through Mr. Starkey's land. Most of the people in the Bradley Flat traded at Memphis or Salisbury.

He remembers, too, when loafer wolves killed four fine young colts one night in a pasture near his home. These wolves killed many cattle, too, and sometimes a horse,

Mr. Starkey learned. Men and boys hunted these wolves, not for sport but of necessity, with wolf hounds and stag hounds. They could catch the biggest wolf or deer, but they couldn't kill a wolf. It took 10 or 15 years to clean out these wolves.

On his first trip to Collingsworth, Mr. Starkey and the Bradley boys found the skeleton of an Indian, buried with his bride and other trappings. Years later, in San Antonio he met an old Indian fighter and described the place where the skeleton was found.

"We had a real fight right there," the fighter replied.

Thomas Benjamin Starkey was born July 25, 1866, near Fort Worth, the son of Napoleon and Matilda Castevens Starkey. They moved to Montague County about 1870 and to Wilbarger County in 1887, remaining until 1891, when Mr. Starkey came to this section. He attended school in Montague County, first at Starkey School and later Fox School. Mr. Starkey was married to Miss Alice Davis September 5, 1888, in Montague County. Mrs. Starkey died a few years ago, and one of their children died in infancy, and was the first person buried in the Plymouth Cemetery.

Mr. Starkey helped to organize the first church and Sunday school at Bradley Flat — he had been a member of the Baptist Church since he was 16 years of age — and he also helped to organize the Lake Creek school, serving as a trustee for 15 or more years.

He has no intention of retiring from active work, and at 85 operates a seed store, now located in his home in North Wellington, where he lives alone. He knows considerably more about seeds and plants and making things grow than most people.

Mr. Starkey underwent a major operation earlier in the year, but made a remarkably quick recovery, and has no intention of stopping any of the activities that give him a great deal of pleasure in living.

ficient return to justify their planting the acreage the government asks," he said.

He explained that he is working with Bob Poage of Waco in an effort to get the parity formula revamped or to get the support price up to serve the same purpose, but in this, he pointed out, it is necessary to go in with the Department of Agriculture.

The problem of changing the child labor law to permit children under 16 to work in agriculture during school hours is still before Congress, Mr. Rogers said. He has introduced an amendment to the law which would place the excusing of children to pick cotton or do other farm work in the hands of the superintendents of schools. Eight other amendments are now before the House Committee on Education and Labor for consideration.

This problem is being attacked on a state level also, he pointed out, and he is working with Representative Andy Rogers of Childress and Senator Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo in an effort to get an amendment to the Gilmer Aiken Law which would ease the stringency of the law.

Mr. Rogers discussed a bill he is working on which would take away the power of many boards and put it back in the courts where it belongs. He explained that through the years, as the country grew in population, there was not a corresponding increase in the number of courts needed to handle the problems of the people. To care for the increase, boards or bureaus were set up, and these have now grown to the extent that action needs to be taken.

The representative expressed confidence in the growing preparedness of the nation. "It won't be long until we will be in a position that the picture will be as clear as to whether we will have to have a showdown," he said.

Turning to the Korean War, he expressed the belief that a truce will depend on Russia and Red China not being able to settle their difference on Russia furnishing a lot of material and arms which Red China will have to have to continue the war, for Russia is farther out on a limb than she ever expected to get.

For Careful and Efficient Ginning

Bring Your Cotton to the West Texas Gin

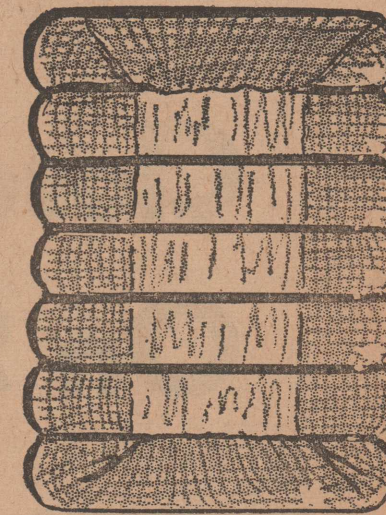

For the best sample and turn-out we invite you to bring your cotton to this gin. We have put it in first class condition in every part with a complete overhaul of all equipment.

You are assured of careful ginning when you bring your cotton to us. We do not run our saws so fast that it tears your cotton up and in this manner the staple is preserved and our modern cleaning system assures you of a good sample.

This type of ginning means more money to the grower. We will continue to turn out your cotton promptly and without rush. There is no loss of time and no waiting around when you bring your cotton to the West Texas Gin. Give us a trial and you will know why so many farmers are finding this a satisfactory place to trade and keep on bringing their cotton back year after year.

WE BUY COTTON

We will pay top prices for your cotton and your cottonseed. In fact we'll pay as much for cottonseed as anybody in town at any time. Come to see us.

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

MAYBE you've noticed that dollars don't seem to talk as loud as they used to in a lot of places.

But you ought to hear what they say about this Buick.

They say—here's the big thrill—big mileage—big power of a valve-in-head Fireball Engine—eight-cylinder performance at the price you'll pay for most sixes.

They say—here are size and room and comfort that are hard to match at anywhere near the price tag this Buick SPECIAL is wearing.

They say—here are such things as an oil filter, air cleaner, vacuum booster, built-in summer ventilation—not as "extras" but yours at no extra charge.

They say that "smart buy's Buick"—by a wide measure.

But a smart buyer will also let this dashing darling speak for itself.

He'll take the wheel and feel how it snugs to the road on turns—holds its course on the highway with big-car assurance.

He'll touch off the power of its Fireball Engine and get firsthand the lift of its nimble response.

And he'll find out how coil springs on every wheel level out what he thought were bumpy roads.

Want to know more? How about coming in first thing tomorrow?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.

DP Family -

rived during an afternoon visit by Mr. Cunningham, Dalton Vaughn, high school principal, Mr. Sky-lstad, Charlie Bradley and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Frittes.

When the rich Ukraine Valley was overrun in 1937, Mr. Tankonah's parents were taken to Siberia as slave laborers and nothing has been heard of them. He, a brother and two sisters were not in their home village and were not taken away, neither did the Russians ever try to locate them.

Mr. and Mrs. Tankonah were married in 1942, not long before the Germans invaded this area. Her parents, four sisters and a brother older than she, were taken by the Germans and she has never heard of them. Her father was a well-to-do farmer whose property was taken.

This family worked as slave labor on farms during the war, going to work at 3:30 a.m. and working until 11:00 o'clock at night, walking a long way to and from their work. At Samnorwood, he was distressed at his work, there was so little of it, and he was afraid, until he was reassured, that he had not been put on the payroll.

During the War, they received fair treatment in that they were never beaten, but their bosses were hard on them. The food was potato soup, but they did have plenty and were not hungry, and their clothing was sufficient to keep them warm. Mr. Tankonah has always done farm work.

After the close of the war, in the DP camp, they worked for private citizens, were paid a small wage and lived in a tiny attic that had no beds. One farmer for whom they worked milked 18 cows, but they never had any milk to drink.

The consul who persuaded them to come to the United States told them how grand Texas was, but they were expecting everyone to be a cowboy, for they had seen pictures of Texas cowboys.

They were placed in quarantine in April for the required shots before coming over. As the time for the sailing drew near, their four-year-old daughter became ill with pneumonia, and they were delayed.

Now that they are here, they are a bit confused, for they can't figure so many phases of our living.

Mr. Tankonah has no desire to return to Europe on a boat, they were so sick on the voyage over, but he does hope to get his brother and sisters to the United States as displaced persons. The brother is now in a DP camp being processed. Mrs. Tankonah hopes to be able to live to go back some time after Stalin goes out of power and try to locate some of her family she believes are still living behind the iron curtain.

They say they have nothing but their children, but they hope to be happy here and eventually own a home and educate their children. He can not realize that a man like his employer, who owns two farms which seem so large to him, will sometimes do his own farm work. It is just unbelievable!

Both are eager to learn American ways and to speak our language.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham first learned of this family through friends of his brother, who has employed a DP family. Visiting these new Americans, Mr. and Cunningham explained the type of family they wanted and asked that some family be recommended to them. The Tankonah's were.

The parents and older children are in good health, but the baby is suffering from rickets, for her mother, due to her meager diet, could nurse the child only until she was three months old. Afterward, she was fed potatoes and cabbage, principal items of the family diet.

After listening to the stories my cloth with gray stripes down the side. Old helmets have been renovated and a few new ones bought. Altogether, the new uniforms will be much more durable than the old ones have been, the coaches believe.

Turning their attention to District 2-AAA affairs, optimism bounced upward Friday night, when dozens of Rocket fans watched the Shamrock Irishmen down the Childress Bobcats 6-0 on a sloshy field. Rated at the strongest team in the district, the Bobcats proved to be not unbeatable.

Only one of the four district teams won its game, Paducah defeating Chillicothe 19-0. The Rockets will meet Chillicothe about mid-way through the season, and Paducah in the last game of the season, November 16.

In the opener, Memphis dropped a non-conference game to Tulia 27 to 7.

Rain and mud are thought to have been an important factor in the defeat of Charles Churchill's Bobcats, but the loss hurt. The Cats will stick their necks out again this week when they play Amarillo Sandies, in the latter's opening game. Amarillo is a AAAA team.

Paducah, rated second to Chillicothe, was hindered by the rain and mud in the Chillicothe game, or their win might have been even more impressive.

Memphis, rated as last in the district, was definitely outclassed by Tulia.

moved to Randall County, where the family lived until 1906, when they came to Collingsworth County. During his time there, Mr. Coffee served as a county commissioner of Randall County.

the rig was to start Thursday.

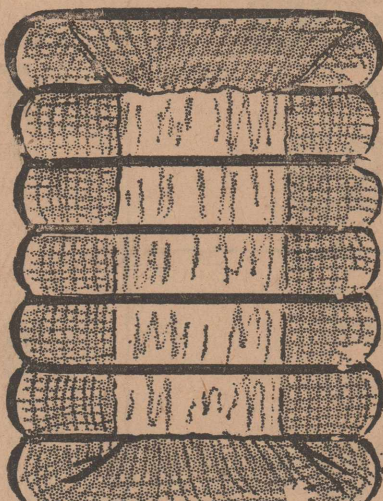

"The test is being drilled on a well-known geological high, recognized as such by the United States Geological Survey," Mr. Clary said. This area was seismographed about 12 years ago, and magnetometer and gravity meter tests have been run. All these are recognized methods of picking out favorable locations.

It will take about five days to get ready to spud in, and the company expects to get started by September 17, Mr. Clary said. Around-the-clock operations will be maintained and from 20 to 22 men will be employed.

The contract depth is 5,500 feet for production before that and Mr. Clary said that he will remain here until the well is completed. Al Tanner will represent his drilling company here.

The project is receiving support from British American Oil Company, of which Winston Churchill and Lord Beaverbrook are two of the owners; and from Leonard Brothers, Fort Worth, and a group of West Texas business men.

Reproach Beyond Acceptance

by Ned H. Dearborn
President, National Safety Council
in Public Safety Magazine

Sometime this year, probably about the middle of December, the 1,000,000th traffic death will occur in the United States—unless there is mass determination to postpone that fateful date.

It is shocking to realize that since the turn of the century, since the first automobile chugged and hissed to the derision and excitement of a horsedrawn era, the lives of almost 1,000,000 men, women and children have been equandered in one of the most senseless and tragic wastes of modern times.

But even more shocking than the toll is the inescapable fact that few Americans feel any real personal concern. As their fellows perish about them, they look on with a detachment and complacency that is difficult to understand and even more difficult to alter.

There rests the keystone of the entire traffic safety structure — personal concern. The duty of every responsible citizen is to strive for traffic safety as a voter, as a volunteer worker in whatever capacity his interests and abilities direct, and as a driver and pedestrian. Even the relatively small percentage of accidents caused by mechanical failure of motor vehicles could be reduced if owners would make sure their cars are in safe condition.

Two years ago the well-loved Margaret Mitchell was struck down on a street in Atlanta by a driver who, while personally culpable, was only the product of his city's apathy. The blood of Margaret Mitchell was on the hands of everyone whose indifference set stage for tragedy. Shocked into action, Atlanta today is making impressive strides in accident prevention.

But what will it take to spur the nation into action? Will 1,000,000 deaths the day of seven-figure reckoning — do it? If so, the dead will endure to some purpose and memorialize a new hope.

One million deaths, then, can be more than a morbid milestone on a road without ending. It is a place to examine the failures of the past and to plan for the future.

For more than a decade the techniques of traffic accident prevention, tested and proved by the National Safety Council and other organization by any city or state, have been the result?

OTHER EDITORS SAY:—

What Happens to Decency When Drivers Starts His Car?

Beyond Our Poor Powers of reasoning is why a perfect decent gent will turn into an auto madcap every time he gets behind the wheel of an auto. This fellow will bash your fenders and if you protest bash your nose; he is a bird without feeling who would grind you and yours to a bloody pulp, then argue about who had the right-of-way rather than call a medic.

Take this fellow away from his glass encased blitz wagon and you have a well mannered chap; the first guy to say "I'm sorry" if he bumped you at the Post Office — first to offer you a hand in sorrow or distress.

A couple of these pied characters tried to squeeze four cars into a three car area on Buffalo Street last Saturday. The cops pinched one for reckless driving and were half right — they should have arrested both on lack of manners. That's silly, isn't it, but either driver could have waited until the other fellow drove through the narrow channel between the parked cars.

Getting so driving is like eating mushrooms — you don't know if it's safe

While most states have a statute requiring examination for a driver's license, only a few administer the law strictly enough to give it meaning. Thousands of drivers lack the skills physical faculties and mental attitudes for safe driving. Re-examination of older drivers or those who have been involved in accidents or violations is virtually nonexistent.

Enforcement of traffic laws will be necessary to curb the irresponsible minority. Yet in most cities far less than the minimum standard of 25 per cent of the police power is devoted to traffic.

The finger of accusation has been pointed repeatedly at the teenage driver. Yet only a third of our eligible students are receiving driver education, and far less than that number are offered behind-the-wheel instruction.

Only 13 states permit tests of blood alcohol to be used in court against the most reprehensible motorizing miscreant, the drinking driver. Yet scientific tests are the only sure measurement of intoxication.

Engineering and road building have fallen far behind the demands of the motor age. Lack of funds is the common excuse, yet billions of dollars in gasoline taxes have been diverted into channels of political expediency.

Automatic revocation of a driver's license for serious misconduct is invoked all too seldom. Jail sentences are few. The system of fines and penalties throughout the nation is a hodgepodge of improvisation, the temper of the court and the stature and legal counsel of the defendant.

Officials can act effectively and decisively only within the limits of public support. Only a few states and cities have organized public support groups of influential citizens who can arouse the interest and crystallize the opinion of the community. And many of those that do exist are merely letterhead donations to the public good.

These are but a few of the more obvious holes in the dikes of traffic safety. They can be plugged, but only through the aroused interest and insistent support of people who care.

A little time remains before the 1,000,000th victim is counted. At best, that somber date can be pushed into 1952 — if 1,000,000 ghosts are a reproach beyond acceptance. Are we going to do something about it?

Open Season on Birds

The Buck Creek Philosopher

Editor's note. The Buck Creek Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Buck Creek has an extra odd idea this week. He must not be feeling well.

Dear editor:

Since it was Friday and I don't like to start a new job on that day and there are some jobs the day ain't been invented yet I'd like to start em on, I was sittin out here on my Johnson grass farm at Buck Creek propped against my favorite tree doin some global thinkin, the man who gets up the earliest, plows the hardest and winds up the tireddest at sundown ain't necessarily accomplish the most these days, it takes thinkin too, a man can apparently be dozin in the shade but his brain can be racin, how much Johnson grass has Einstein ever hoed?

And I got to thinkin . . . Washington seems to be on its toes, it's takin nearly every step humanly possible and tryin some that ain't to meet whatever emergency the global situation may present, from a rain of atom bombs on American cities to bacteria in the drinking water to salt in the sugar, but there's one item Washington seems to be neglectin and I will appreciate you usin your influence to call it to its attention.

The point is this: while personally I don't believe civilization is gonna be destroyed any time soon, we ain't carried it to a high enough point of perfection yet to invent the bomb to do it with, I'm goin ahead and making plans for another crop next year, still and at the same time a man can't be sure, some scientist workin late on a new soap formula may stumble on a chain-reaction idea tonight that'll loop the whole world together in one big whoosh, capable of wipin out all the gadgets we got and all the plants to make em in, along with the people who made em.

All right, say it happens, ten thousand atom bombs and five thousand hydrogen bombs and some newer kinds all go off at once, civilization is wiped out and all that's left is a few scattered families back in the hills, a few people whose bomb shelters miraculously held up and they was in there sweepin out at the time, and a straggler here and there who came out maybe only singed around the edges.

The whole burden of startin civilization all over again would be on them, and here's my point: they wouldn't be equipped to it. Starve to death as soon as the last can of food they could dig out of the rubble was gone.

I know we got a lot of bureaus in Washington, so many you can come times get elected to a precinct office on a platform of knockin half of em in the head, but they ought to make room for one more. We need a bureau to set out now teachin the people how to get along under pre-historic conditions, how to flake a flint arrowhead, with no tools except a deer horn and no deer horn unless you can stumble on one; how to spear a fish; how to skin a rabbit and save the pelt; how to sew a pair of moccasins; what to sew em with; how to keep a fire goin in a cave for years on end; how to hollow out a canoe; how to dry bear meat in the sun; how to swing a war club; how to paint pictures on cave walls, etc.

Right along with first aid courses and lessons in gettin out of a buildin without confusion and returning to a city after it's bombed, the government ought to be instructin the people in these fundamentals. What we need is a Bureau of Pre-Historic Culture.

I tell you, Washington is sure gonna be in for a lot of ugly criticism if this thing happens and these people emerge from their caves and shelters without even any arrowhead know-how.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Bible Comment
FOR SEPT. 16God Delights in Mercy,
Writes Prophet

Many think that the climax, the highest point in the seven chapters of the prophecies of Micah that have come down to us, is the prophet's definition of religion.

His rightly famous explanation of religion: "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" would seem to be the epitome of all his writings.

But there is something higher, the real climax, in the closing verses of the prophecy, Micah 7: 18-20, in which the prophet describes the pardoning grace of God.

God is not only merciful, says Micah, but He delights in mercy. Could God, asks Micah, require that man practice mercy without being merciful Himself? Certainly not, as that would be contrary to righteousness and logic.

This part of the Hebrew prophecies should be well studied, and never forgotten.

It is true that evil was rebuked with such sternness that a hurried, unintelligent reading of Micah's messages might incline us to regard them as harshly unyielding and pessimistic.

But beneath all was a note of mercy, the eager willingness of God to forgive all transgressions and iniquities.

Micah and his fellow prophets almost invariably pictured what they liked to believe was a "forgetful" God measuring the rebelliousness of the Israelites with a deep sense of foreboding. But complete despair was never part of the picture. Always there was the underlying current of hope, and the board theme was that of reconciliation.

The entire story is told in this, the climactic message of Micah: "Who is a God unto Thee, that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of His heritage? He retaineth not His anger forever, because He delighteth in mercy. He will

Looking Ahead With George S. Benson

A DANGEROUS SITUATION

Nearly every edition of every daily and weekly newspaper in the nation has several news dispatches on its front page reporting on activities or issues that involve the economic welfare of every citizen. Yet economics is a subject on which few people are well informed. In other words, a great deal is happening and a great many things are being proposed in our nation today, affecting our welfare and mine, on which only a comparatively few people feel really qualified to pass judgement.

This is a dangerous situation. It could permit drastic fundamental changes to be made in the American way of life and severe injury to our living standard. An awareness of this situation has led me to continually expand the Harding College National Education Program to get widest distribution of economic education materials. In the past 10 years general knowledge on what makes the American system tick has been vastly improved but ignorance of the simple basic facts of economics still extends to millions of Americans and constitutes a critical situation.

THE BROOKINGS REPORT

The Alfred P. Sloan Foundation last year commissioned the Brookings Institution of Washington to make a study of what's being done in our schools and elsewhere to improve the population's understanding of economics. After 10 months work, Dr. H. G. Moulton, Brookings president, and C. W. McKee, Chairman of the Department of Economics of Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa., have just recently made their report to the Sloan Foundation. It begins by defining "economic education" as: "helping people to gain understanding of the forces and factors that produce higher standards of living."

Here are some major Brookings findings of vital interest to every American:

1. "Only a very small percentage of our high school students get any real grasp of the economic factors and forces that are responsible for higher standards of living. Scarcely 10 per cent take the equivalent of a semester course in economics."

NO REAL APPRAISAL

2. "Five out of the six most widely used high school textbooks devote some space to a description of the principal features of the capitalistic, socialistic and communistic systems. None of them, however, attempt a real appraisal of the merits of the several types of economic systems."

3. The most widely used single textbook was written by an author "who is clearly sympathetic with the regulatory trends of recent times in the U. S. — though he points out that too much government control may stifle business initiative."

4. "The professional preparation of the economics teachers seem incredibly low. Indeed, a great majority of the schoolmen interviewed said that it was virtually impossible to get a person well trained in economics."

SHORTCOMINGS EMPHASIZED

5. "Only one out of every four college students completes one or more economics courses."

6. "None of the textbooks most widely used in American colleges gives a strong exposition of the virtues of free enterprise. Instead, most of them emphasize the shortcomings of private enterprise without stressing the good points. Some, while admitting the significant contributions of private enterprise in the past, question whether it can bring equally fruitful results in the future."

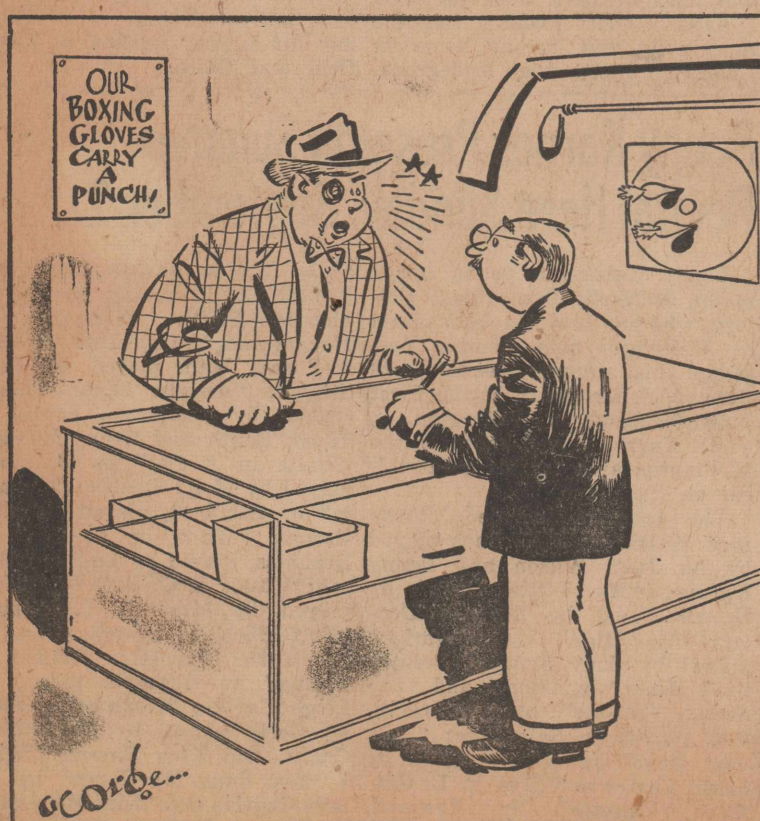

7. "It is clear that the organized educational institutions have not adequately met the educational requirements for intelligent citizenship."

8. "To fill the vacuum left by our schools and colleges (in the field of economic education) a growing number of private organizations have been experimenting with ways of doing the job themselves." A number of these experiments have been ill-conceived and ineffective. Some have been outstanding.

These Brookings Institution findings present two pressing challenges to American education in this crisis: (1) To create textbooks and develop teaching staffs which will give our youth an intelligent appreciation of the American system and a love of country. (2) To inform the public of the incomparable advantages of the American system and what makes it tick. These are responsibilities which are inherent, I believe, in any American educational institution. If well done they will block the progress of the fifth column in America.

Welfare Dept. Needs Workers

The State Department of Public Welfare is looking for Field Workers and Child Welfare Workers, according to Chas. S. Gardiner, Director of the Merit System Council.

The salary range for both jobs normally is $230 to $260. But Gardiner points out that the beginning salary has been raised to $240 during the present emergency.

Applicants for the Field Worker job must have completed a minimum of 60 semester hours of college work, or 30 semester hours of college work plus one year of full-time paid social work employment in a recognized public or private welfare agency. High school graduates who had two years of full-time paid employment in social work in a recognized or private welfare agency may also qualify for the Field Worker examination. The Child Welfare position, however, requires applicants to be graduates of an accredited four-year college or university.

In order to get the required number of workers, Gardiner said a system has been worked out to give examinations on the first and second Saturday of each month. On the first Saturday examinations will be given in the following Texas Employment Commission offices: Amarillo, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Longview, San Angelo, San Antonio, and Waco. In Austin, the examinations will be held at the offices of the Merit System Council and in Texarkana at the Texarkana Junior College.

Examinations on the second Saturday of each month will be held in Texas Employment Commission offices located at Abilene, Beaumont, El Paso, Galveston, Harlingen, Lubbock, Odessa and Wichita Falls. On the same dates examinations will be given in Laredo at the Laredo Junior College and in Tyler at the Tyler Junior College.

Additional information may be obtained at any local office of the Texas Employment Commission or State Department of Public Welfare.

Machinery

We have just completed renovating our gin. As you know we have a 5 stand — 80 saw Murray gin which gives us maximum capacity and enables us to gin your cotton carefully and promptly. To this we have added a 14 foot Murry Burr extractor and new 72 inch cleaners giving us as efficient a plant as you would hope to find in this entire West Texas Area. We invite all of our old customers to trade with us again this year and we solicit the patronage of new ones.

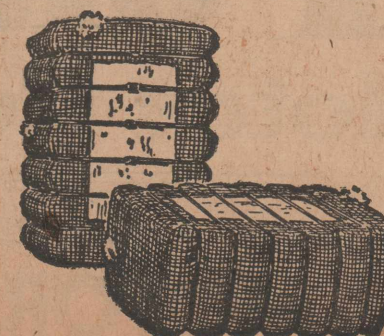

We are confident that we can turn out your cotton in a manner that will be pleasing to you and that will reflect a greater profit for you.

For More Efficient Ginning

We have arranged our burr extracting machine so that the burrs will be extracted before the cotton goes to the drier. The reason for this is that it is almost impossible to dry cotton as it should be when it is still in the burr. We believe that this will result in a distinct improvement of the average sample for the cotton grower. We invite you to come to see this new plant and see how it works.

250 Shares Offered

LONE STAR BUILDERS SUPPLY, INC.
BEGINS SALE OF PREFERRED STOCK

Permission to sell stock has been given the Lone Star Builders Supply, Inc., the company taking the lead in pushing Wellington as an ideal location for small industries. This company is the manufacturer of celocrete and vol-crete building blocks.

"Re: The Lone Star Builders Supply, Inc. Application to qualify $25,000 aggregate amount of preferred stock for above corporation approved for issuance today. Permit will follow." Harry E. Hilgers, State Securities Commissioner, wired.

Underwriting the issue is H. L. Shaffer & Co., dealers in municipal bonds and investment securities.

"The company will offer for sale 250 shares of preferred stock with par value of $100 per share, to receive dividends at the rate of $5 per annum and will participate with the common stock up to $10 per share. The stock is redeemable at $110 per share," H. L. Shaffer, who heads the investment company, said.

Successful sale of this stock issue will make possible expansion of Lone Star Builders Supply, Inc., to include installation of new machinery, resulting in considerable added value, not only to the company, but to the city of Wellington.

"This new equipment will enable Lone Star Builders Supply, Inc., to have four times the present output," Mrs. Jennie Williams, secretary-treasurer of the company, said.

"Steam rooms and boiler will enable us to steam cure our building blocks, making them one day and selling them 24 hours later. Natural drying and curing takes from 28 to 30 days.

"Of the two types of building blocks made by Lone Star, the celocrete blocks are made from steel mill slag — a material making one of the strongest building blocks in the industry. Equally strong is the vol-crete block, made from volcanic cinders. Each type block has a specific use in the building trade."

H. L. Shaffer & Co., the firm chosen to sell this stock issue, has done business in the Panhandle for 20 years, and has handled millions of dollars in bond and stock issues for municipalities, schools, corporations, etc. In 1949 the company bought the $75,000 bond issue of the Collingsworth County Road District No. 1, and the same year refinanced the Road and Bridge Fund for Collingsworth County.

"The growth of the building block industry in recent years has been fabulous — and there is an even greater future ahead," Mrs. Williams declared.

Pointing to some advantages of celocrete and vol-crete blocks as a construction material, she continued:

"You can build with these blocks for from 30 to 40 per cent less than with lumber — and the construction is permanent. It will be there just as long as you want your building to stand.

"This material is adaptable for any type construction you wish, homes, barns and sheds, and business buildings. Structures of celocrete or vol-crete are fire proof and termite proof. They are cooler in summer and warmer in winter, resulting in saving on your heating and air conditioning bills for years and years to come."

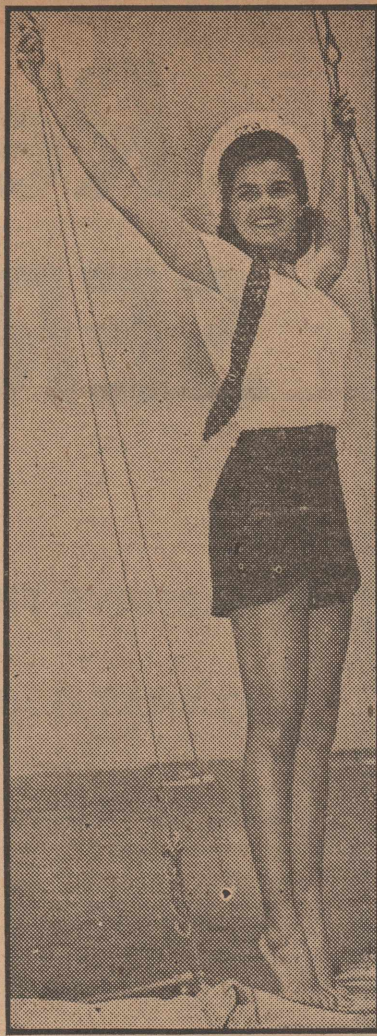

Lone Star Builders Supply, Inc., has firmly established itself in Wellington and is setting the pace in the manufacture of building materials in the Tri-state area. It was organized in the spring of 1947 with Mrs. Jennie Williams as owner.

In less than four years it had so outgrown its facilities that enlargement was necessary, and on June 24, 1951, it was incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000. Also $25,000 common stock has been subscribed and paid for.

President of the company is Dr. E. W. Jones, senior member of the Jones-Watkins clinic. H. S. Riggs, former county judge and now a Wellington accountant, is vice-president, and Mrs. Williams is secretary-treasurer.

Directors are Judge Luther Gribble, judge of the 100th judicial district; Dr. Jones; Steve Owens, distributor for Phillips "66" Products, Wellington; J. H. Parker, Hollis, Okla., owner of the Parker Furniture Co.; Luther Pierson, Pampa, owner of Trans-Mix, Pampa, and the Turkey Creek Sand and Gravel Co., LeFors; Kelly Pigg, Wellington, owner of the Collingsworth Motor Co.; H. S. Riggs, Wellington; H. L. Shaffer, Amarillo; R. D. Wiley, Wellington, president of the First National Bank; and Mr. and Mrs. R. Martin Williams of Wellington.

Win Trail Seeker Rank

CAMPFIRE GIRLS CLOSE SUMMER
WITH NIGHT SWIM EXHIBITION

Campfire candidates for the rank of trail seeker took part in a swimming exhibition in a colorful setting at Marian Airpark Pool Tuesday night, August 28. This climaxed the summer objective of the Waywaste tribe that each girl become a good swimmer during the summer.

The Wohelo call was made at 8:00 p.m. as Molly Ann Denley, Sally Beth Lee, Betty Elliott, Linda Singley, Peggy Henry, Elizabeth Hurst, Mary Beth Kelso and Sandra Faulkner dived from the one-meter board and swam in pairs up the pool, accompanied by "Indian Love Call" played as an accordion solo by Mrs. Lowell Wells. They joined Sherrie Smith, Alicia Ham, Carolyn Keller, Judy Smith, Novelle Branch and Sonja Stall in the council circle at the west end of the pool.

The overhead lights were turned out as the fire lighters, Betty Elliott, Linda Singley and Sonja Stall, lighted the three lights of health, work and love, that represented the campfire by reflecting a spray of water from the pool's surface.

Along the edge, red and blue lights glimmered in the pool, as the girls swam, carrying other colored lights in a figure eight around the camp fire. After forming the circle and returning to their places, the Trail Seeker's desire was given.

Taking part in the exhibition of swimming strokes were Carolyn Keller, prone glide; Alicia Ham, back float; Sherrie Smith, flutter kick; Judy Smith, back flutter kick; Novelle Branch, dog paddle; Molly Ann Denley, Sally Beth Lee, Linda Singley and Betty Elliott, the breast stroke, back crawl and American crawl; Peggy Henry, Sandra Faulkner, Elizabeth Hurst and Mary Beth Kelso, the side stroke, elementary back stroke and simple trudgen;

Sonja Stall, surface dive; Molly Ann Denley and Sally Beth Lee, inverted breast stroke; Linda Singley, double trudgen; Mary Beth Kelso and Elizabeth Hurst, trudgen crawl; Peggy Henry and Sandra Faulkner, treading water; and Betty Elliott, surface dive and swim under water.

After the swimming demonstrations the lights were turned out and the girls swam with the colored lights to form a circle around the glowing fire, moving in close, then flutter kicking out again, the frothing water cast an array of colors. The entire program was done to a musical accompaniment by Mrs. Wells.

As the hour of the council fire drew to a close, fire extinguishers Mary Beth Kelso, Carolyn Keller and Sherrie Smith turned off the lights of work, health and love, and the girls, bearing their colored lights, swam from the pool. Beads of rank and swimming cards denoting the skill of each girl as a swimmer were presented by Mrs. John Lee, tribe guardian.

Forbis Announces Defense Bond Drive Now Under Way

The "largest possible" total of sales will be the goal of the Defense Bond Drive to be held Sept. 3 through Oct. 27, Nathan Adams of Dallas, state Defense Bond chairman, announced Thursday.

There will be no dollar quotas, Mr. Adams said in a letter to J. T. Forbis, Defense Bond chairman for Collingsworth county.

"Instead, Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder has asked us to sell as many Defense Bonds as possible, to back up our armed forces and to help resist the pressure of inflation," Mr. Adams said. He urged the local chairman, however, to set for the county a goal "high enough to be a challenge to you and your committee."

"The people want a part in the nation's defense effort," he said. "Right now the most practical way for them to help is for them to buy U. S. Defense Bonds."

Mr. Adams said that volunteers are being organized in every community of the state to conduct intensive campaigns during the drive, which is the first since outbreak of the Korean war more than a year ago. Emphasis will be placed on increasing sales through the payroll savings plan, which permits employees to buy bonds by having deductions made from wages or salaries, and the Bond-A-Month Plan, through which bank customers can buy bonds automatically.

Geriatrics

Is old age really a disease? A state of mind? Or just a natural condition? Old age should be the best part of life. Family responsibilities have ceased to exist and many old people have acquired a competence and are free from financial worries. Still many are unhappy and time hangs heavily on their hands.

Helping those in need, taking more interest in children are of great assistance in warding off senility. Following the latest discoveries of science, becoming interested in people, civic, religion, politics, etc.

Perhaps the most prominent symptom of old age is a settling of the spinal column, it actually decreases in length from one to several inches, due to the thinning of the cartilaginous cushions between the spinal bones.

This condition greatly interferes with the flow of energy supplied by the spinal nerve to the various organs, greatly decreasing their efficiency. Spinal manipulations and adjustments are of great assistance to avoid diseases peculiar to the aged.

Plain, easily digested foods, small meals and more of them to avoid taxing the digestive organs, induce well being and promote restful sleep. Keep planning and liking into the future. That is the way to postpone old age.

Can Help Solve Bee Problems

ORGANIZATION OF COUNTY BEE KEEPERS ASSOCIATION PROPOSED

By JOHN THOMAS
Would it be profitable to organize a Collingsworth County Beekeepers Association?

The beekeeping fraternity is one of the most remarkable in the world. Faith, age, sex, color or political beliefs are no barrier in membership in this brotherhood. People from all walks of life are members. It is one of the few organizations which embraces all mankind.

The sole consideration necessary for membership in this unique organization is an interest in bees and matters relating to them. There are literally thousands of people who enjoy and are benefited by their interest in bees. Aside from any financial return that may be derived there are many intangible rewards for those who keep bees. It is a hobby which leads one into many fields.

No matter what a person's training or occupation may be, he can find something his interest. Beekeeping will take you out-of-doors and will stimulate your interest in nature. A final return in the development in many instances, of a philosophy of service.

We have found four cases of American foulbrood in this county. American foulbrood is an infectious disease of the brood of the honey bee. It is the most destructive of the diseases and the most difficult to control, causing serious losses to the industry.

Through an organization such as this we can prevent the spreading of this disease and others. We can also help solve each other's problems, tell of our experiences and keep up on all new and economical means for the care of bees.

Disease of the brood are without doubt the most important of the diseases of bees. Brood diseases cause large annual losses in bees, honey and equipment and materially add to the cost of honey production. Some of the brood diseases cause only relatively slight losses and can be disregarded to a certain extent. Others are serious, and prompt treatment is required to prevent their spread. Consequently, it is highly important that the beekeeper become familiar with infectious bee diseases and be able to differentiate them. Thus he will be able to apply intelligently the proper treatment and control measures and prevent greater losses through the untrammeled spread of contagious bee diseases.

We could hold one meeting each month or one every other month. In these meetings we could make inspections of hives, give demonstrations and many other things.

Club Women in State Pageant

Collingsworth County Home Demonstration Club women, attending the meeting commemorating the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Texas Home Demonstration Association, participated in the pageant, "Twenty-Five Years of Progress" presented at Kyle Field, A&M College Thursday night, August 30.

The pageant was one part of the program at the meeting held from August 29 through 31.

Attending from here were Mrs. Hubert Mauldin, county Home Demonstration Association chairman; Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Wadley, and Miss Jo Wylie, county home demonstration agent. Altogether, 1054 club members and visitors attended the meeting.

Letters From The PEOPLE

Editor's Note. This letter came to Miss Katherine Boverie from Bessie Walker Booth, now of Farwell. Mrs. Booth was reared in the Aberdeen and Needwood communities, and stayed in the Boverie home to attend school in Wellington. She graduated in 1920.

Dear Miss Kate,
It was thrilling to read the special edition of The Wellington Leader telling all about former grads.

I was even sorer to miss the reunion after reading the paper. Thanks for your invitation, through Pearl, to visit in your home. It would be delightful to see you again and talk over the "times" we've known, together and apart.

Four of my children are grown; Ronald, the oldest, 24, is a Fulbright grantee and sails from New York on the Constitution for a year's music study in Rome; Joan, 23, is Mrs. Scott McDonold — husband in oils or petroleum engineering work — she teaches; Toby, 20, is a junior at West Texas State; Rosamond, 19, is also a junior; Mike, 8, is in the third grade, and what a live wire! I'm now teaching for the tenth term. Earl has 700 acres in farm land, his fathers, this year.

Noticed that you are a librarian. That's interesting work, from teacher-librarian experience. Regards to all your family.

Lovingly yours,
Bess W. Booth

Mr. Deskins Wells

Dear Mr. Wells,
I received a Wellington Leader dated August 9. Among many pictures I enjoyed studying there is a very good picture of my late father, John Freeman.

I would like so much to have a picture made from it. Do you recall who made the picture? Would you please let me know so I can write the studio?

I read the paper from cover to cover, and all, and thoroughly enjoyed it! There were so many people I used to know, including Miss Katie and Mr. Curry — two of the finest teachers I ever had. It brought back the happy school days of 1915 to 1918 in WHS!

Just wonder if you remember Dimple Freeman? I have many pleasant memories of you.

I have been married 32 years and have two children, a daughter, Earlene, married with one child. Our son, Bill, teaches school. This will be his third year at Robstown. George Peabody, Nashville, this spring. To whoever sent the Leader to me, may I say "Thanks."

Sincerely,

Dear Deck,
Thanks so much for the Leader I received today. I have enjoyed it so much and will enjoy it more as I read more of it.

I am enclosing $1.00 to pay for my part of your expense in sending me the paper. I would like to have the next several papers about the homecoming. I am sorry indeed I can't be there to meet my old friends. Next year if I can know sometime in advance, maybe I can be with you.

Wellington is still home to me and Ole W. H. S. has a very warm spot in my heart even though I was a member of that good ole class of '34.

We have been here for 11 years. My husband has been with Uncle Sam at Mare Island Naval Ship Yard all these years. We have two boys, Robert Dennis, (my maiden name) 13 and Raymond Lynn, 8 years of age.

We visited with the Velman Waricks and other friends in Wellington five years ago.
I don't believe you know who I am. You have my married name O. K. but in the write up of the "Class of '34" there is nothing following my name at that time, Othella Dennis.

I enjoyed seeing the names of some of my very dear school mates also their addresses. I intend to write to some of them just because you gave me their address.

May I say thanks again for remembering me with "Our" paper, and I hope to see more of them.

Don't forget to let me hear for you again, especially in time for me to plan a trip back home at the time of a homecoming party.

Yours for a big and happy homecoming.
Mrs. Bob Bledsoe
