School Census Lists 1641 for Coming Year

The 1960 school census lists 1541 students, according to B. W. Beaird, county superintendent.

This is the number certified to the state department of education, but it does not include those students who will be transferred into county school districts from Childress and Donley counties.

The current census fell below the 1959 figure by 56, dropping from 1597.

Gains were shown in two dis-

New Highway Office, Storage Shed Planned

Construction of a new office and an equipment shed by the Texas State Highway Department was announced this week by Clyde Drake, resident engineer.

The office, for the resident engineer, will be of concrete block with brick trim, and approximately 28 by 60 feet.

The equipment and storage shed will be of sheet iron construction with steel framework and concrete floor. Both buildings will be on a 150 foot tract immediately east of the highway barn, bought last year from J. T. Slay.

Upon completion of the building, curb and gutter will be put in and the entire grounds landscaped, Drake said.

Bids on the construction will be let April 14 by the Highway Department.

Henards Ship 700 Steers to West Coast

Henard Brothers last week shipped 23 cars of feeder steers to California feed lots, over the Fort Worth & Denver.

The shipment included 720 steers, Edd Henard said.

Most of these were mixed breed, brought in from Louisiana last fall and wintered here. They were bought by Henard Brothers from several local cattlemen.

They were contracted to California buyers in December.

8 Inches Rain for Winter

March Weather Ends With Hail Monday

Collingsworth barely shucked off its snow togs before it began dodging hail stones — big ones at that.

And the month of March, that produced both winter and summer moisture, also accounted for the coldest and warmest temperatures recorded during this unusual winter.

Moisture Monday totaled .32 inch, according to the weather bureau rain gauge at the State Highway Department. In the Wellington area, hail fell briefly, in spots nearly half covering the ground. In town, most of the hail was marble-size, but in Midway community hailstones from two to three inches in diameter fell. Several of these were brought to town later by Charley Caldwell, who reported they were imbedded several inches in the field.

Altogether, 1.26 inches of moisture fell during March. Since mid-December, when the wet cycle began, Wellington has recorded 8.02 inches, with more than half of this, 4.19 inches, coming during the last two weeks of December.

Snow and rain accounted for 1.23 inches in January, and 1.24 in February. Beginning with .20 inch on March 2, other moisture included .04 inch on March 8; .03 inch on March 14, and again on March 15; .64 on March 25, and the .32 inch on March 28.

Collingsworth felt the bottom drop out of the temperature when only 4 degrees above zero was registered on March 3, and on the next day the minimum was 7 degrees. For the remainder of the month, the minimum readings were mostly in the 20s and 30s.

To end the month, the maximum temperature soared to a summery 80 degrees before the shower Monday, March 28. Sunday it was only two degrees cooler, 78. Most of the month, however, saw the maximum figure in the 60s.

January temperature ranged from a low of 8 degrees on January 19 to a high of 69 degrees on January 10. February temperature dropped to 8 degrees on the 25th, but earlier in the month, February 1, it rose to 70 degrees.

E. W. Blain, Banker, Farmer, Dies Thursday

E. W. Blain, banker, rancher, farmer and business man whose career spanned 50 years in Wellington, died at his home at 1615 Childress street Thursday, March 24 at 6 a.m. He had been ill two months.

Mr. Blain was 80 years of age.

He was president of the Wellington State Bank, an institution in which he had been a stockholder since 1909, and which his father, the late A. W. Blain, helped to establish in 1906.

Mr. Blain became president in 1954. He was a director for two periods, first in the early years of his association with the Wellington State Bank, and again when he was elected to the board in January 1953.

His father was also president of the bank, having been elected to that place in 1914, and serving until his death several years later.

Mr. Blain owned and operated a ranch south of Erick, Okla. and had extensive farming interests here and at Vernon.

These were his business enterprises through the years. But many years ago he also owned the Blain Hardware in Wellington for a long period of time, and he was an appraiser for the Federal Land Bank three years in the early 1920s. A few years later he entered the automobile business and at one time had agencies here, in Shamrock and in Fort Worth.

Throughout this time, however, he continued to make his home in Wellington.

Edward Wingfield Blain was born December 30, 1879, in Seward, Neb. He was about 10 years of age when his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Blain, brought him to Texas. The family traveled by wagon, and settled in Wilbarger county in 1890.

Mr. Blain attended school at Vernon and was graduated from the high school there. He held two degrees from the University of Texas, a bachelor of arts degree and a bachelor of civil engineering. Mr. Blain was an accomplished musician also. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

Mr. Blain was married here in 1911 to Miss Jean Bigham She preceded him in death 10 years later, in 1921.

In spite of his 80 years, Mr. Blain, until his illness, retained the physical and mental vigor and strength of a man many years younger. He did much work around his farm and he gave his personal attention and direction to every phase of his business.

A man of quiet ways, Mr. Blain chose to remain away from the spotlight of affairs, but he inspired loyalty and devotion in those whom he knew which invariably endured for long periods of time.

Funeral services for Mr Blain were conducted Saturday, at 2 p.m. at First Methodist Church by the Rev. Frank Weir and the Rev. J. F. Michael.

Pall bearers were men who were associated with Mr. Blain in the operation of his land at Vernon, some of them of the second generation of families associated with him. They were H. B. Dockery, Bert Dockery, Elihu Dockery, Chester Brant-

Collingsworth Bank Deposits Continuing Upward Stride

Collingsworth county bank deposits now stand at more than $125,000 above last year's deposit figures, and around $325,000 above the deposits two years ago, the call issued by the Federal Reserve Bank and State Banking Commissioner on March 15 show.

Beyond this, Collingsworth county residents have on deposit in their three banks 625,000 more than they did three years ago.

All other figures follow this trend.

Combined assets on March 15 were $6,766,646.36, compared to $6,599,729.99 a year ago, and $5,917,360.27 three years ago.

Deposits at the current call were $6,249,736.67, while a year ago that figure was $6,122,210.28.

Demand deposits of individuals and corporations are $5,416,254.72, almost $200,000 above the 1959 figure of $5,223,045.77 and more than one-half million dollars above the figure of three years ago.

Loans and discounts are approximately $300,000 above last year's loans, now standing at $3,242,729.01 compared to $2,938,675.32.

Undivided profits are up also, now standing at $153,781.53 compared to $114,451.55 last year.

The solidarity of the county's financial condition is pointed up by the fact that the capital structure of the three Collingsworth banks totals $513,781.53.

Mrs John Coleman Receives "Woman of Year" Award

Mrs. John Coleman was named Wellington's first Woman of the Year at the recent Chamber of Commerce banquet and in a ceremony that was a surprise to her, she was presented a plaque from the Wellington Business and Professional Womens Club, which sponsored the award.

The presentation was made by Mrs. Lottie Brock, vice president of the B&PW. Although Mrs. Coleman is president of that organization, she was not aware of her selection.

In presenting the plaque, Mrs. Brock said:

"Before moving to Wellington, three months prior to the Pearl Harbor attack, this woman organized the first permanent Parent-Teacher Association in Channing and was its first president. There she was the first woman to be elected to their school board, serving as its secretary.

"She is now a member of the League of Women Voters at large, of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary and of the Church of Christ.

"This year she is chairman for the membership drive for American Red Cross, president of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, vice president of Domestic Science Club, chairman of the civic improvement committee for the Chamber of Commerce.

Spending Big Sums on Residences Error for State College Regents

Two years ago, State Auditor C. H. Cavness called attention of the Legislature to the fact that three state colleges had built unduly expensive homes for their presidents. Residences costing from $69,643 to $91,109 had been erected at Stephen F. Austin State College at Nacogdoches, West Texas State College at Canyon and Southwest Texas State Teachers College at San Marcos. A legislative committee was authorized to examine into these activities and the upshot was a rider to the 1959 appropriations bill prohibiting ths type of expenditure without the approval of the governor who, in turn, was to be advised by the Legislative Budget Board.

Last November, on petition of the board of regents of state teachers colleges, the attorney general ruled the Legislature had exceeded its constitutional authority in attempting to control building money because these funds derived from the 5-cent state property tax. Following upon this opinion, the board of regents proceeded with plans for another expensive college home, this time at Sam Houston State College at Huntsville.

It is understandable that the Huntsville school should wish to have its plant on par with other state colleges. However, in the light of the furor raised over lavish spending at the other institutions, it seems the board of regents of state teachers colleges used rare bad judgment in pushing for its legal rights as defined by the attorney general. For one reason, the board of regents has been currently campaigning to stir up public sentiment in favor of greater appropriations for support of institutions of higher learning.

How can the board convince Texans they are being niggardly with their universities and colleges when they casually toss away $90,000 for a residence, and this sum excludes cost of land, furnishings and architect's fees. Certainly there are homes in Houston sheltering the affluent which were built for half the cost, and untold numbers of fine homes that cost one third as much.

Armed Services Waste Billions While Crying for More Money

In this frightening era of the cold war and rival worlds building up their arsenals of atomic weapons, the American people have been told time and again that we must spend billions annually to keep abreast of the enemy. Thus there has been little complaint against defense budgets running into $40,000,000,000 and more each year. However, there keep coming to light facts and charges which show we actually have cause for complaint.

To begin with, the armed services have shown no sign they are on the elert to avoid waste in expenditure of the huge funds placed at their disposal. A defense committee staff report pointed to one example when it accused the armed services of failure to complete standardization of its supply systems, an omission which is costing $450,000,000 a year. As Raymond Moley said in a recent Chronicle article: "While the behemoths in the armed services are telling Congress how they are being starved under the President's budget, the bureaucracy over which they preside goes its way-ward, wastful way."

Moley accused the Navy of spending hundreds of thousands more in putting ships in condition to be given to friendly countries than it costs to fix our own fighting ships. In another transaction, three ships for foreign use were equipped with enough spare parts to supply 48 ships.

Now comes Comptroller General Joseph Campbell and flatly says the Navy spent $607,800,000 for planes and radar equipment known from testing to be "incapable" of carrying out their assigned military missions. These faults, the report said, "were not recognized or considered by the Navy to be of sufficient importance to terminate, suspend or reduce volume production; instead, additional quantities were ordered."

The American people certainly do not want necessary defenses to fail for lack of funds. But the very magnitude of the sum needed should make it obligatory on the part of the armed services to see that waste is avoided and economy rigidly practiced.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where some friction has developed between a New York preacher and the government, which is trying to make him forsake his religious scruples.

Seems that our Washington collection agency wants the parson to pay income taxes, which same is strictly against his religion.

My pious neighbor says he must belong to the same church but has heretofore thought it was just shameful love of money that was tormenting him, when all the time it has been his conscience that hurts when he pays taxes.

I see where the Department of Agriculture has got out a new pamphlet to coach the people on "Frying Muskrats in Wine."

My soil banker neighbor says he appreciates the government's farmer-saviors going to all of this trouble and expense trying to culture his eating habits to match his new location on the hog.

But says this wine-fried rat will have to be mighty tasty to beat good old pre-price support jackrabbit stewed in muddy water.

I see where Mr. Eisenhower wishes to take down some of our immigration bars and open U.S. jobs to more assorted foreigners.

My us-first neighbor says this seems like a very charitable attitude, but maybe not hardly the right medicine when there is a population explosion threatening to go off.

But says maybe the planners aim to make room for more imported citizens by holding down domestic production with proration, family allotments, or by paying our home talent for not raising kids.

I see where the census takers are due right away, and my obsolete neighbor says after seeing them come around six or seven decades, it gets monotonous.

Says they will be wasting their time on him, anyhow, because he hasn't chaned his name, birthdate, color nor sex since the last time they asked him, and he does not have a bath tub for them to count.

But says this doesn't mean the government needs to send out a health squad to fumigate him, on account of taxes are keeping him pretty clean.

I guess you have noticed that the candidates are already horning in on TV pretty often.

My square-eyed neighbor says it's very thwarting to get all set to watch .44 calibre justice triumph over the cattle rustlers, and see nobody get shot but the bull.

Says the candidates' speeches are a little different this year, though. They still speak highly of virtue, home, party loyalty, etc., but since the population explosion scare got out they have about quit putting in any good word for Motherhood.

I see where our State Department has scolded the government of South Africa for killing natives to make them do right.

My meddleman neighbor says our great leaders are just trying to tell the South Africans what we have learned from experience, that shooting them is a messy way to subjugate people, and smashing taxes does it more profitably.

Says, anyhow, now that we have got them whipped, we can afford to repent killing so many Indians, and swear off using this harsh means of spreading light, except in Little Rock.

At C-C Banquet

Only the People Can Stop Federal Spending, Says Munn

There is a way to stop useless federal spending, and "it begins at your doorstep, here at Wellington," Melvin Munn, Pampa insurance man, told Chamber of Commerce banquet guests Thursday night, March 17.

"It begins with your saying to useless bureaucrats, 'get out'. It begins with people denying themselves a little."

"Abolish the income tax and remove the government from business. It would, if this is done, put us on the road to sanity," Munn continued, in his dynamic speech, "America on Your Doorstep."

"During World War II, when speaking of money, we began to change one letter of one word, M to B, and we didn't realize it at all. But one billion dollars compared to one million as a $10 bill compared to a penny," he declared. To give a clearer picture, he continued:

"If the XYZ company had started losing $1,000 a day during Christ's lifetime, it would be 2726 A.D. before it would have lost one billion dollars."

Turning his attention to the heavy cost of social security, up to $144 per year for an individual, Munn added, "I am denied the right to be a bum. Uncle Sam will send me a check whether I like it or not.

"We say we are ruled by the will of the majority," he said near the end of his talk. "That is a lie. Not one-fourth of the people vote. . . . We won't get 50 per cent of the qualified voters out this year. We are ruled by a majority of the minority."

A review of the 1959 Chamber of Commerce accomplishments were outlined by the outgoing president, John Coleman, and this year's plans were discussed briefly by the new C-C head, L. B. Bratten, who put work on the Salt Fork Dam at the top of the list.

Henry Sullivan was master of ceremonies and entertainment was by King Bowen's orchestra with vocal selections by Mrs. Alton Pyburn. Guests were introduced by Richard Bailey.

Conservationist from Pakistan Visits SCD

A soil conservationist from Pakistan, Abdul Aziz Khan, recently was the guest of the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District, seeking ideas to take home and apply to conservation in the Gujrat district, where he is unit conservationist.

With Soil Conservation Service personnel, he visited a number of farms in Salt Fork SCD where there are outstanding practices that he might gain information from. He added to this with information from SCS records.

Mr. Khan's work in the Gujrat district concerns forrestry and range conservation.

The average holding of the Pakistani farmer is one acre, he said. This poses a problem to conservation work that is sometimes unsurmountable. Here a farmer may put in a complete terrace system on his own farm.

In Pakistan, one terrace may run through a number of farms. And if one farmer refuses to have it across his farm, the entire plan will be ruined, Mr. Khan explained. Recently the government has stepped in to help remedy this situation.

As a conservationist, another of his big problems is wind and water erosion, to which around 35,000 acres is lost each year.

"That means we are losing food for 16,000 people annually," Mr. Khan declared. "Then we lose another 70,000 acres due to salt and waterlogging. We are losing food for 50,000 people annually," he added.

What happens to these farmers who can no longer farm their land? Some go to work for other farmers. Some go to the cities to find jobs.

Wheat is the food crop and cotton the marketing crop of the Gujrat district. Wheat production averages 10 maunds per acre, or approximately 820 pounds, and the market price will average $3.00 per maund. Cotton production, in the English measure, is about 900 pounds per acre, which sells for $6 to $7 per maund.

He was keenly interested in the outside help soil conservation receives here, through such programs as the Fort Worth Press Awards program, in which Salt Fork SCD is competing at present.

Explaining that in Pakistan, the government finances all soil conservation, he added that if some outside source would contribute as much as $500, it would be just that much more to finance conservation.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

In the past twenty years the water table on the high plains has declined from 20 to 80 feet depending on the locality and some wells have gone entirely dry due to the lowering water level. It makes you wonder what will happen to some of our cities as well as agriculture in 40 years. Now is the time to start building dams all over the Panhandle—big dams and little dams.

The lakes are full toward Pampa and Amarillo, but Jones Singley says that he went to Lubbock last week and was surprised to find the farmers irrigating on a big scale in the Silverton-Floydada area. Evidently they have not had as much moisture as the northern part of the Panhandle.

Tommy Thompson of the Amarillo Globe-News seems to be in line for a nomination for a Pulitzer award. It couldn't happen to a more modest or nicer man.

Concerning the hearing on crime in Amarillo, Roberta Coffee, who helps us out with the housework, said: "They jus' incumbented that judge until he had to resign."

The First State Bank of Dodson is another institution that will observe its 50th anniversary this year. They did not write me, but when they sent out statements this month there was a beautiful anniversary seal on the envelope. If you count direct succession and not change in names the two hardware firms are the oldest in Wellington. The succession goes like this: Glenn-Blain Hardware, Pioneer Hardware, and Sullivan Hardware for one and for the other Morrow Hardware, Wellington Hardware, LeDerer Hardware and Wellington Hardware. Are there any other firms that are 50 years old or older?

This town needs a bus line so urgently it is pitiful. Why not encourage a couple of energetic young men to start one—one with some mechanical experience and the other with some bookkeeping and business experience? There are firms that lease busses. No great capital outlay is required for the rental payments are made monthly.

Pitts Pastor of Friendship Church

Rev. Elvis Pitts recently was called as pastor of Friendship Baptist Church in the Buck Creek community. He has been acting pastor of the church since the summer of 1959.

Rev. Pitts has lived here all of his life except for the time he was in the armed forces, and he also farms in the Rolla community.

Of Modern Design

Leader Store Has New Building Front

The Leader Department Store owned by Mack Saied Jr. and Fred Saied, has completed remodeling the front of its building, becoming one of the town's most attractive business structures.

Plate glass above a low pink brick base, was used across the entire front, with an aluminum pillar at the center. On either side are glass doors.

Narrow display space runs the length of the windows, but these are open at the back into the store itself.

"This arrangement is more pleasing to our customers and to us, and it gives considerably more room in which to arrange merchandise," the owners said.

With the completion of the front, a rearrangement of merchandise in that section of the store followed, although the basic plan remains.

The entire store is lighter and has a more spacious and open effect.

Nor is the improvement program complete.

The ceiling is now being redecorated in a new and pleasing tone to harmonize with the remainder of the building.

Track Teams Begin Spring Work Out

With a few days of pretty weather last week the Wellington track team started working out. They will meet their first competition of the season on Wednesday, March 30, when they enter the dual track meet at Hollis.

100 Yard Dash: Bill Estes, Ron Underwood, Burl Lowe.

440 Yard Dash: Lynn McLain, Craig Bergvall, Rommie Forbis and Granvel Killian.

Weldon Cleveland will enter high jump, broad jump and discus throwing. Neal Gray will represent Wellington in the pole vault.

Mile Race: Eddie Maxwell, Oliver Bishop and John Wolf.

Relay Team for 440 Yard Dash: Bill Estes, Herbie Duncan, Burl Lowe and Doug Seale.

Mile Relay: Craig Bergvall, Glenn McLain, Granvel Killian, and Herbie Duncan.

White to Play for West Texas

Harry White, six-foot two inch, 210-pound Rocket tackle who won berths on the all district and all regional teams has signed a letter of intent with the West Texas State Buffalos last week, Coach Joe Kerbel has announced.

"We are extremely proud to have Harry sign the letter of intent with us and know the people of this area will hear a lot about him at West Texas State," Kerbel said in making the announcement.

White, son of Mrs. Gracie White and Austin White, has played football four years in high school.

Church Holds Doctrine Study

A course of study on church doctrine will be presented each Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. by the First Assembly of God Church, the Rev. L. A. Buck, pastor, has announced.

The public is invited.

E. M. Strickland of Seminole visited his parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Strickland Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams over the week end.

Forgery Charge Filed Here

Charges of forgery were filed against Louis Oudems, Negro giving his address as Haskell and Munday, Thursday, March 24, Sheriff John Rainey reported.

Oudems is accused of giving a forged check to Clark Chevrolet for $43 in payment for a regulator. After he failed to return for change due him, the sheriff's department was notified and Oudems was arrested by Childress county officers between Childress and Quanah.

Sheriff Rainey said Oudems is also wanted for forging checks in Childress county and he is wanted for forgery, theft and burglary in 11 counties.

He is in Childress county jail after failure to make $2,000 bond, although Collingsworth county has first call on him.

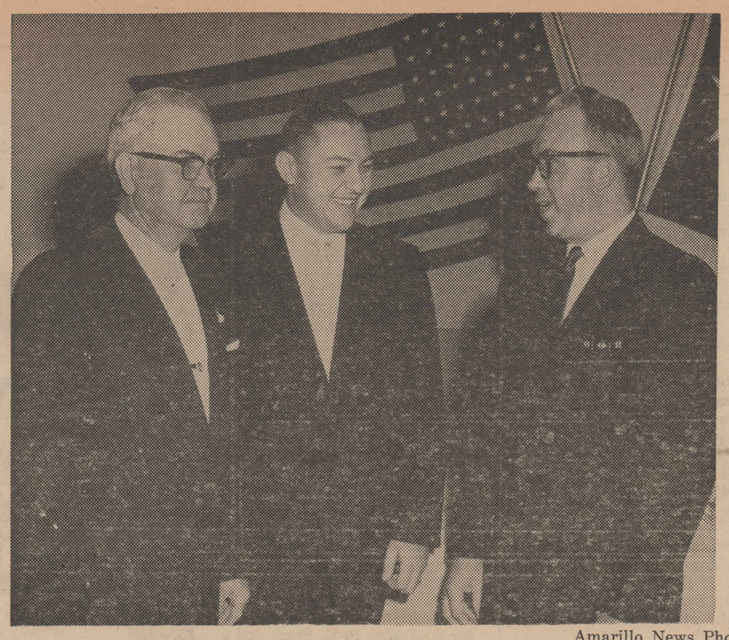

Ben Coleman, with Oudems when he was arrested, was not involved with the charge here, the sheriff said.

Tennis Teams Meet Memphis

Wellington tennis teams played their first games Monday, March 28, against Memphis here.

In doubles, Butch White and Robert Weir won over Memphis; in singles, Jackie Daves and Glenn Lacy lost; and in girls singles, Sharon Campbell and Glynel Elbert lost their games.

Others who are practicing for the district tournament to be held April 12 are Donna Curry in high school division, and in junior division are singles, Gayle Courtney, and doubles, Vicki Allen and Betty Courtney; junior boys, singles, Wayne Sweat, Raymond Sanders and Freddie Futch; doubles, Elmer Keller and Mike Dillon.
