COMING SUNDAY

Changing part

On Jan. 1, Southwestern Bell will no longer be allowed to sell or lease telephone equipment. A six- part series beginning Sunday will look at the telephone revolution caused by the break-up of AT&T, and detail many new phone services.

Changing heart

Canine heartworm is approaching epidemic proportions in Midland for reasons that aren't commonly associated with animal diseases: commercial and residential development. Read about it in Sunday's Reporter-Telegram.

Changing start

If you had a little too much to drink New Year's and are finding your drinking continuing too comfortably nowadays, Midlander Robert Netherland has some words of wisdom for you in this Sunday's "Speaking Out" column.

Poland's martial law ends

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The communist government suspended martial law 24-hours ahead of schedule today, trading military restrictions for new civil controls designed to bar repetition of the upheaval inspired by the Solidarity movement.

The suspension, at midnight Thursday, caught many Poles unawares. Others appeared indifferent to the edict relaxing one year and 18 days of martial law.

"I thought it was supposed to be tomorrow," an elderly woman told a reporter.

The regular midnight newscast by state radio contained a one-paragraph announcement that martial law was suspended, but there was no explanation for why it came 24 hours before Jan. 1, the suspension-date previously announced by the government.

After the terse announcement there were no outward celebrations in Warsaw. The capital's streets were nearly deserted.

"This suspension is a lot of nothing," said a middle-aged woman walking her dog downtown.

The government declared the "state of war" — its term for martial law — Dec. 13, 1981 to crush the Solidarity union and end 16 months of political and social upheaval that followed the birth of the first independent labor movement in the Soviet bloc.

Under martial law, Solidarity was suspended and its leaders interned. Parliament officially outlawed the union Oct. 8 under a new labor law that sharply curbs workers' right to strike and establishes a network of tightly-controlled state unions.

The government cemented its post-martial law rule on Dec. 18 when Parliament passed legislation giving it wide powers of social control to prevent any more political threats.

Martial-law chief and Communist Party leader Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, who also is premier and defense minister, has warned that the harshest measures of the military crackdown could be reimposed without warning.

Jaruzelski has set no date for full lifting of martial law, and the 21-man Military Council of National Salvation, which he heads, will remain as a watchdog over the civilian government.

Vice Premier Mieczyslaw Rakowski, addressing a meeting of regional administrators and the military commissars who will continue to supervise them, said, "in Poland bitter all-out struggle is being waged for the shape of the country's polity, for the preservation of the socialist contents of our system, and it will go on over the next several years."

But BBC radio monitors in London also quoted Rakowski as saying Solidarity leader Lech Walesa was doing "everything in his power for us to treat him as a partner," indicating the regime may be willing to come to terms with the union chief. Walesa has said he is willing to cooperate but only if the government grants amnesty to union activists jailed or fined for political reasons and returns to the accord that established Solidarity.

The New York Post quoted Walesa as saying that with the suspension of martial law he had "high hopes that the situation will improve and things will get better for all of our people." He also said he looked forward to visiting the United States in the near future.

Making tracks

A little snow didn't keep Al Vogel of Midland from his appointed rounds on the track at Memorial Stadium this morning. An inch of snow was recorded in Midland overnight, with more expected tonight and Saturday.

New Year storming in

The New Year will storm into West Texas as a cold, icy day of white which will leave holiday travelers facing hazardous roads throughout the area.

A 60 percent chance of more snow tonight may result in 1-2 inches of the whiteness in addition to that already accumulated on the ground, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport. New Year's Day will see cloudy and cold conditions with a 30 percent chance of more snow.

Midland streets were sloshy but passable this morning, as the NWS officially recorded one inch of snow in the early morning hours.

There was one weather-related accident this morning as a car apparently slid off the road and rolled over near the intersection of Highway 80 and Interstate 20 east of Midland. Three persons were injured in the one-car mishap. They were undergoing treatment at Midland Memorial Hospital at press time.

Areas to the north experienced heavier snow accumulations. Snow continued to drift downward this morning in Andrews as well as in Lamesa, where three inches already had been recorded.

Other area cities reporting snow including Stanton with two inches and Big Spring with light flurries. Mist was reported in Rankin, Big Lake and Crane.

The Department of Public Safety reported this morning that West Texas highways were open but slick and hazardous. "The highway department will be out to sand bridges and keep things moving," said a DPS spokesman.

A spokesman in the control tower at Midland Regional Airport reported this morning that flights were arriving and departing with "no problems."

The NWS forecast for Sunday and Monday calls for partly cloudy skies and slightly warmer temperatures.

The high Thursday of 41 was but half the record high for the date set in 1951, while the low of 29 was a bit more bearable than the 14 of 1976.

Temperatures should be in the middle 20s tonight and rising to the low 40s Saturday.

Miami's Overtown looks calm

MIAMI (AP) — Police restrictions have been relaxed in the city's Overtown section, but officials promised special precautions for tonight's Orange Bowl parade, which will come within three blocks of the riot-torn neighborhood.

At least two police officers received minor injuries Thursday during what authorities said was a quiet day.

A contingent of up to 200 officers assigned to the embattled area since Tuesday, when a Hispanic policeman fatally shot a young black man in a video arcade, was reduced by about one-third late Thursday.

The police perimeter was halved from 192 square blocks to about 90 square blocks and bans on the sale of gasoline and liquor within the barricaded zone were lifted effective this morning, said City Manager Howard V. Gary.

"We really do believe the worst of it is over," said police spokesman Raymond Lang.

But officials promised special care would be taken to guarantee the safety of tonight's parade, which precedes the Orange Bowl football game to be played January 1.

"Due to the events of the last couple days, we will be doubly vigilant and on the lookout for potential problems," police spokesman Angelo Bitsis said.

Officers remaining on perimeter duty just north of downtown would halt all post-parade travelers trying to get on the interstate highway system by driving through the Overtown neighborhood, Bitsis said. "We don't want anyone getting lost or going the wrong way," he said.

"A few roving small groups of young males" caused two disturbances shattering Thursday's calm, said police Sgt. Jack Sullivan. The incidents, both outside Merlin's Liquors, resulted in five arrests.

The worst disturbance occurred about noon when 40 youths broke from a crowd and stormed the liquor store, tossing bottles onto the sidewalk and looting it. Some of the youths used the liquor bottles — many of them full — as weapons against police and onlookers.

Baton and shotgun-equipped officers returned the fire with at least a half-dozen tear gas canisters.

When a crowd of 100 youths reappeared three hours later, officers swept the area, arresting four men for unlawful assembly and refusing to disperse.

Two officers were injured slightly outside the store. One was cut, and police gave no details on the second injury.

"From the beginning, our policy has been to avoid confrontation," Bitsis said. But he added, "We don't want crowds building — that's where problems start."

Early today, police said their records showed 43 arrests since the disturbances began Tuesday night and 26 injuries, including four police officers. Two deaths have been reported, the man in the arcade and an alleged looter also shot by police.

Officials turned their focus on making sure Orange Bowl festivities, a major winter tourist attraction, came off without a hitch.

The route of the parade, slated to begin at 7:30 p.m., takes marchers within three blocks of the southeast corner of the original Overtown perimeter.

Officials said that while police would be especially alert tonight, there would be no extra contingent due to the parade.

Effects of tax bill's third installment won't be felt until July

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal income taxes for a family of four earning $20,000 annually will drop $143 in 1983 under the third installment of a bill passed last year that cuts the tax rate.

The lower tax rates — a bit less than 10 percent in most cases — will cover earnings for all of 1983. But people won't begin to feel the benefit until July, when employers begin withholding less of workers' paychecks.

Taxpayers with high incomes will get much more savings, while lower-income Americans will get less because they have less taxes to cut. The example of the typical family earning $20,000 a year assumes only one adult is working.

The new cut has nothing to do with the tax payments millions of families will be making in the next few months before April 15. Those payments are taxes on 1982 earnings.

Other 1983 changes include:

—Help for married taxpayers who both work. They will get a deduction that could total as much as $1,500 for relatively high earners. Legislation aimed at eliminating the "marriage penalty," will allow married couples to deduct up to 10 percent of the first $30,000 earned by the lower-earning spouse. The deduction for 1982 tax payments is 5 percent.

—Higher Social Security taxes for earners who make big salaries. The tax rate of 6.7 percent stays the same in 1983, but it will affect the first $35,700 a wage-earner makes rather than the first $32,400 as in 1982. That means a tax increase of $221 for someone who makes $35,700 or more. Someone who makes less than $32,400 will pay the same as in 1982.

—Less chance to deduct medical expenses. For 1982, families generally can deduct uninsured medical costs that total more than 3 percent of their adjusted gross income. In 1983, that threshold changes to 5 percent.

—Rising excise taxes. The federal tax on cigarettes will be doubled to 16 cents per pack, the tax on telephone service tripled to 3 percent. The excise tax on airline tickets already went up last Sept. 1.

Changes that will take place later in the year include raising the federal tax on gasoline by 5 cents per gallon on April 1 and beginning federal withholding of taxes on stock dividends and savings account interest over $150 on July 1.

PUC grants Bell half rate hike request

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas telephone customers will see a decrease in their phone bills by mid-January, even though the Public Utility Commission has given Southwestern Bell a $243.8 million rate hike.

The increase approved by the PUC Thursday is about half of the $471.5 million increase Bell originally sought. The company put a $292 million rate hike into effect under a bond Nov. 9.

Although residential phone bills will be up to 90 cents higher than the official 1982 rate, customers will see about a $2.50 reduction in their monthly bill because of the higher bonded rate that is no longer valid.

Business rates will range from 5 cents above the bonded rates in Houston to $2.40 below the bonded rates in small cities.

Bell also was ordered to refund the overage that customers' have paid since Nov. 9.

Bell Vice President Paul Roth said the refunds would show up in customers' bills in about six months. Most residential customers can expect a total refund of about $5.

Roth said the company was "deeply disappointed" with the PUC decision and said there was a "strong possibility" Bell would appeal the case, as it has its last two rate cases.

Two of the commission's three members voted to adopt a PUC hearing examiners' report that supported the final rate figure. Commissioner T.G. Smith was absent due to illness, Chairman Moak Rollins said.

Texas Municipal League attorney Don Butler said intervenors were "not deliriously happy" with the decision, but found it acceptable.

Midlanders to pay about $8.50 with new Bell rates

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Charges for local residential telephone service in Midland will be in the range of $8.45 to $8.50 per month under rates approved Thursday by the Public Utility Commission for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

A PUC hearing examiner had recommended $8.55 per month, but that recommendation was altered by the PUC in adopting its final order.

A spokesman for Bell say it will be "sometime next week" before the exact rates are known because "we're having to re-run everything."

Bell had put bonded rates of $10.90 per month into effect for Midland, and had requested rates of $12.25 per month.

Rates prior to the start of the bonded rates were $7.65 per month.

Those rates are based on one-party service and do not include instrument charges.

The rates for local business telephone service came to $20 per month under the examiner's proposal, compared to the bonded rates of $21.80, and the prior rates of $18.15.

The PUC's action will result in a rate of around $19.95 per month.

A mid-morning traffic accident near the Interstate 20-U.S. 80 overpass this morning sent the three occupants of this compact vehicle to Midland Memorial Hospital's emergency room for treatment. While details of the accident were still sketchy at presstime, hospital personnel did confirm the three unidentified people were being treated late in the morning. The Department of Public Safety indicated it received the initial call on the accident just after 9 a.m.

EPA to resume soil tests in Missouri town

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency plans to resume soil testing Monday to determine whether dioxin in the town of Times Beach spread to homes and businesses during a recent flood.

The EPA took 114 soil samples from roadways in the eastern Missouri town earlier this month, before the flood. Four of the samples showed dioxin levels of more than 100 parts per billion, said Morris Kay, EPA regional administrator.

The federal Centers for Disease Control says exposure to more than one part per billion may be hazardous.

By midweek, at least three five-man teams will take more than 200 additional soil samples, which will take two to three weeks to analyze, Kay said.

Officials feared the mid-December flood may have dispersed the dioxin.

Kay made his comments after a meeting of officials from Times Beach, the EPA, the Federal Emergency Management Agency, the Missouri Division of Health and the Missouri Division of Natural Resources. The meeting was to discuss the sampling results, and to hear EPA plans for more sampling.

"We're satisfied they are operating in a satisfactory manner," said Charles R. Schultheiss, a volunteer acting as a spokesman for Times Beach residents.

Eight of the 114 samples already analyzed showed dioxin levels between 30 and 100 parts per billion, and the remainder of the samples indicated levels of less than 30 parts per billion, or undetectable levels, Kay said.

Only 36 of the 114 samples had been verified fully, Kay said, but verification of all the samples should be completed by early next week.

EPA spokesman William Landis said he did not know the total number of the 114 samples that had levels higher than 1 part per billion.

During the early 1970s, the streets of Times Beach were sprayed with waste oil to control dust. The oil apparently was contaminated with dioxin, a byproduct of herbicide production.

The Atlanta-based CDC warned Times Beach residents Dec. 23 that the the town was too dangerous to live in. Following the CDC warning, the Federal Emergency Management Agency announced it would provide temporary housing for flood victims.

Up to 300 Times Beach homes are occupied at night, and other residents return during the day to work on their flood-damaged property, Schultheiss said. The town has a population of about 2,200, with about 800 households.

An EPA prohibition against moving house trailers out of the town remained in effect. However, Schultheiss said residents have not been stopped from taking trailers into town to retrieve their belongings.

The EPA has ordered cleanup of dioxin sites with 1 part per billion or more.

More rain due for flooded Mississippi

By DEAN FOSDICK
Associated Press Writer

Forecasters said it may take two weeks for floodwaters to recede in the lower Mississippi Valley, where swollen rivers already at record levels continued to rise with more rain due today.

Freezing rain and snow fell today in New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle, while unseasonably mild weather lingered in New England, leaving ski slopes green and resort operators seeing red.

More than 2,300 Louisiana families have been affected by recent flooding and tornadoes since Christmas with many rivers not expected to crest until this weekend, officials said. Gov. Dave Treen has placed 16 of the Louisiana's 64 parishes on the flood disaster list and was to tour some of the hardest hit areas today.

Officials were trying to determine a statewide damage total, but figures will not be available until the waters begin to recede, Treen said. Forecasters said it may be two weeks before the waters recede.

"That water is not going anywhere for a while because the delta is so flat and the water is spread out everywhere," a weather service spokesman said Thursday. "The rivers and creeks are still extremely high and with the Mississippi River rising, there's no place for the water to go."

In Mississippi, more than 600,000 acres were under water as overburdened rivers and streams surged over the saturated countryside. As much as 12 inches of rain has fallen during the week in some areas, forcing the evacuation of approximately 1,000 homes in the state, officials said.

Hugh Crowther, a National Weather Service forecaster in Kansas City, said more rain was expected to move into the region this evening or early on New Year's Day.

"We expect it to be on the light to moderate side so it shouldn't affect the level of the rivers there as much as hamper everyone's efforts at cleaning up," Crowther said.

John Davis, a spokesman for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, said flooding in the Mississippi Delta already has exceeded levels expected only once every 100 years.

In the Northeast, it was unseasonably mild weather that had ski area operators adding up their losses. Since Thanksgiving, temperatures have been above 50 degrees for 10 days and above 60 for four days in the New England mountains.

Although there are no precise statistics, this week is traditionally the busiest for Eastern ski areas, accounting for up to one-third of the season's revenues.

Fewer than 30 of the more than 100 downhill ski areas in New England were operating by Thursday and only about 13 percent of the trails were open, according to a survey by the National Ski Areas Association.

"The major areas may be losing $100,000 a day," said Scott Van Pelt, marketing director at Stowe in Vermont. "But then there's the trickle-down to rooms, meals and gasoline, so that the whole area of Stowe may be losing half a million dollars a day right now. A loss like this really affects every citizen in Vermont."

Ten states to get 65 percent more highway funding

WASHINGTON (AP) — All 50 states will get more highway construction money from the nickel-a-gallon gasoline tax increase, but some will fare much better than others, Transportation Department figures show.

The average increase will be about 43 percent this fiscal year, but one state will more than double its federal highway money, while a number of others will have to be satisfied with increases of 25 percent or less.

In all, the federal government will make available about $3.34 billion more than last year when federal assistance totaled $7.6 billion for all types of highway construction.

The administration says the federal 5-cent boost in the gasoline tax, coupled with increases on various truck fees and taxes, are expected to generate $5.5 billion a year over the next four years. About 20 percent of that goes to mass transit with the rest going into the federal highway trust fund.

But revenue for this fiscal year, which ends next October, is expected to be much less than $5.5 billion since the tax hike from 5 cents to 9 cents a gallon does not go into effect until April 1. The new truck fees do not take effect until Jan. 1, 1984.

The money is distributed under a formula established by the just-ended 97th Congress. Among the factors taken into account are highway miles, population and volume of highway travel.

The preliminary figures obtained by The Associated Press show that while some states will receive increases of no more than 25 percent, eight states will see at least 65 percent more money this year than last.

Indiana, for example, will receive $237 million this fiscal year, compared to $109 million last year, an increase of 116 percent. The seven other states with increases of at least 65 percent are Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, and Texas.

On the other hand, Louisiana, which received $249 million last fiscal year will get only an additional $40 million, a 16 percent increase. Rhode Island, Hawaii, Alaska, Idaho, Massachusetts, Virginia, Washington, Minnesota, Vermont, Kentucky and Maryland all will get less than a 30 percent increase over fiscal 1982.

Officials of the Federal Highway Administration attributed the wide range to changes Congress made in the formula used to distribute money for primary roads and to a new requirement that each state receive at least 85 percent of the amount accounted for in federal highway taxes.

In addition to the $11 billion that will go to states under the Congress-approved formulas, the government also has another $500 million in a discretionary fund for special high cost interstate and bridge projects.

Ten states will get $4.9 billion of the $11 billion allocated through the formulas. They are: California, Texas, New York, Pennsylvania, Florida, Illinois, Maryland, Georgia, Louisiana, and Ohio.

Those same states also account for about 47 percent of the fuel and truck taxes collected by the federal government, according to the Transportation Department.

Varied New Years festitivites likely

By KIM MILLS
Associated Press Writer

Ending a year characterized by belt-tightening, New Year's revelers around the country prepared to let loose tonight with balloon bouquets, dining, dancing and even some Western-style shooting.

Sometime around 10:30 tonight, Detroit police say their helicopters will be grounded to get out of the way of a local tradition — shooting guns into the air.

"People throughout the city fire their weapons and you can hear the sound of gunshot fire," said Wayne Roberts, a public information officer for the police department.

Nobody can pinpoint when the custom started, and city officials, sensitive about Detroit's image probems, try to downplay it.

"A couple of days prior, there'll be quite of rush of people picking up ammunition just for the occasion," says Scott Green, who works in Neumann's Gun Shop.

Police say guns blasted into the air are not a problem because they don't have the range to hit a passing helicopter, but just to be safe, the department plans to ground its five choppers.

Celebrating began early by an unknown prankster in Milwaukee who released 6,000 multi-colored balloons Wednesday by untying the knot that held them in a net at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

A team of hotel employees took about five hours to gather the balloons and hoist them back up in time for tonight's festivities, said Debra Pawlik, hotel public relations director.

By midnight there should be 10,000 balloons in the net, Ms. Pawlick said. Hotel workers had been blowing them up since Monday and had another 4,000 to go.

City officials in New York planned two fireworks displays to welcome 1983 with a bang. Thousands of revelers were expected to jam Times Square to watch a 6-foot-wide, 200-pound "big apple" descend at midnight. It is the apple's second appearace, but the 75th year for the event, which previously used glowing white balls.

In Pasadena, Calif., those who planned to spend New Year's Eve staking out a viewing spot for the Tournament of Roses parade were warned to bundle up.

An advance guard of several hundred already was gathering along the 5½-mile parade route Thursday, said Mike Guerin, Pasadena Police Department spokesman.

Overnight campers would be allowed to warm themselves with hibachis, campstoves or small barbeques, but no alcohol or overly loud noisemakers were permitted, he said.

In Salt Lake City, artificial heart patient Barney Clark was planning a quiet day of recovery, welcoming a year he was not expected to see.

And police in Miami said they would guard entrances to the riot-scarred Overtown section to make sure no one from tonight's Orange Bowl parade wandered into the area accidently.

New Year's revelers who drink and drive risk jail, as several states planned to beef up enforcement of drunk-driving laws.

Both state police and volunteer "drunk spotters" will be keeping their eyes peeled for errant motorists on northern Illinois' 256 miles of toll roads this New Year's holiday, officials said.

California makes its blood-alcohol tests more stringent as of Saturday, and in New Jersey a higher minimum drinking age, 19 instead of 21, takes effect.

Following a 24-year tradition, gas stations and restaurants along the New York State Thruway were serving free coffee to promote highway safety.

About 400 could die on highways

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents during the three-day New Year's holiday weekend may claim between 300 and 400 lives, the National Safety Council estimates.

The holiday period began at 6 p.m. Thursday and ends at midnight Sunday.

There were 342 New Year's weekend traffic deaths last year. The record is 564 fatalities in a three-day, 1965 observance.

The death toll was 345 during the three-day Christmas weekend.

On a three-day, non-holiday weekend this time of year, about 360 traffic fatalities can be expected, the council said.

Clayton Hall of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration in Washington said that on an average weekend night after 10 p.m., one of every 10 drivers is legally drunk, and that ratio will increase during this holiday period.

A survey showed that drunken driving kills as many as 25,000 people a year in this country, he said.

Spuds win converts

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — U.S. producers and growers say the potato, a staple of the American diet, is winning converts among foreign palates as well.

Although U.S. potato exports are only a fraction of the total market, producers say they are making inroads abroad with the help of fast-food hamburger stands that serve french fries. The greatest potential seems to be the Far East, where rice long has been the traditional food staple.

Processed potato products, the U.S. producers say, have been their major success overseas.

The Agriculture Department, meanwhile, recently reported the potato "now ranks as a favorite vegetable that's low in calories and high in nutrition with both U.S. shoppers and with consumers as diverse as those in Japan, Hong Kong, Western Europe and Latin America."

Roger Jones, a potato processor and member of the Idaho Potato Commission, said that 10 years ago, none of his crop was exported. Now, about 40 percent, eight million or nine million pounds, is sold outside the United States.

Japan grows nearly as many potatoes as Idaho, which produces more than one-fourth of the total U.S. crop. China grows more potatoes than the United States, officials say, but Asians traditionally have used potatoes as animal feed and to make paper.

However, the Japanese now are eating more beef than ever, and potato growers are pushing spuds to go with the steaks and hamburgers. The Japanese now are the leading importers of U.S. potato products.

"The Far East is our major market today," Jones said. "That will grow because of Westernization."

Although foreign markts are expanding, U.S. producers face some obstacles. Japan, for instance, imposes import restrictions on processed potato products, and European nations grow potatoes that compete with imported spuds.

Arab countries show some promise as potato consumers, Jones said, but sales to South America are in question because of the political instability of some countries there.

J.R. Simplot Co., which supplies McDonald's with french fries, says its marketing program abroad is in its infancy.

Harold Butler of Simplot International said that in past years, the company has struggled just to keep up with the domestic demand. But with domestic demand leveling out, a small staff has been assigned to cultivate foreign markets, he said.

Joe French of Ore-Ida Foods Inc., another potato products giant, said fast-food restaurants in the Far East buy french fries for their customers. "They are extremely eager to adopt Western, fast-food lifestyle," he said.

Bill Webster, president of the National Potato Promotion Board, said exported potato products account for only 4 percent of the annual potato production of about 300 million hundredweight. (A hundredweight is 100 pounds).

The promotion board which funds potato promotions, is administered through the Department of Agriculture. Most of the money goes for domestic promotions, but Webster said the board can do more for the spud in foreign countries.

Prices stay same

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Pemex, the state petroleum monopoly, is estimating that oil exports in 1983 will reach $16.9 billion dollars compared with $14 billion this year.

Pemex director Mario Ramon Beteta made the prediction when he announced that Mexico will not change its oil prices for the time being.

The government company has not revealed its marketing plan for 1983.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, January 1, 1983

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Happy Birthday and a Happy New Year! Two famous American patriots were born on this date: Paul Revere and Betsy Ross. Also sharing your birthday: Senator Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg, Senator Ernest Hollings (D-S.C.) and actor Frank Langella. Improved work conditions and more fulfilling romance will soon be yours. Count on a new relationship changing your lifestyle for the better. Loved one's positive attitude is catching! You find it easier to present your ideas.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Avoid making New Year's resolutions that you know you will not keep. You need to be discreet when discussing romance and your personal plans. Be on time for a family dinner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A family get-together starts the year off with a bang. You gain new insights from someone you never seriously talked with before. A child has a positive influence on your career.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Do not leave your valuables around when having an "open house" party. Someone could find them too tempting. Distant relatives bring good luck with them when they come to dinner.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): It is a good idea to have more than one romantic prospect if looking for a date. There could be a confrontation when family members get together later today. Defuse tensions by remaining calm.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The holidays have been such fun you do not mind any travel inconveniences. Relatives say things in anger they do not really mean. Show as much understanding as you can.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Inspiration comes easily today. Ignore a former friend who is spreading false rumors. A romantic reconciliation gets 1983 off to a promising start. Happy New Year! The future looks rosy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Set yourself some New Year's goals that you know you can reach. Family members will be very supportive. This is not the day to start a diet. Begin tomorrow!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You now participate in activities you haven't engaged in since childhood. Forget your cares and concentrate on pleasing romantic partner. Work, business will have to wait until Monday.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Make 1983 a great year by designing a plan that will help you achieve your career goals. You will want to earn extra cash. Be open to suggestions from your family.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): This is not a good day for decision-making. Instead, get some much needed rest. You relax in the company of good friends. Go out to dinner and a movie.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Older people feel young again when visiting their children and grandchildren. Continue to pursue the object of your affections. A romantic refusal may not be permanent. Speak from the heart.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Put family first, but spend time with others who have influenced you too. Some of the resolutions you make today will be difficult to follow. A far-fetched scheme sound reasonable today.

Dutchman whacks away at computers for a living

RUMPT, Netherlands (AP) — By his own reckoning, Jan Meijers took a sledgehammer this past year to more than 50 computers that time and technology had pulled the plug on.

Computer advances that can make last year's technological marvel next year's junk have given him a new career, prospecting for precious metals in data processors headed for the scrap heap.

Deep in the silent recesses of obsolete mechanical brains, some of them weighing many tons, Meijers probes for the telltale gleam of gold, silver and platinum, as well as more exotic space-age metals such as titanium, vanadium, germanium, and palladium, all used in computers.

After 10 months in business, he calls himself either a "computer-wrecker" or "the first Dutch computer metal recycler," depending on his mood.

The Netherlands Association of Computer Users said Meijers is the only computer salvager it knows of. Although there is a small second-hand computer market, obsolete models are usually sold as steel scrap, according to industry spokesmen.

As Meijers, 36, tells it, he had left his last job as a chemical trader for a British company in March, and was crossing the English Channel to his native Holland without a way to support his wife and three children in this southern Dutch village.

"Sitting in my underpants, with a glass of whiskey in my hand, I started to wonder 'What am I going to do?'" Meijers recalled.

He realized computers could be a cheap, untapped source of valuable metals for anyone who knew where to look.

"Many of the companies which at the end of the '60s and the '70s had automated, and in the meantime have purchased a new computer, are stuck with a disposal problem," said Meijers.

"The old computer is too large. The cost of maintenance is sometimes more expensive than the purchase of a new system.

"It's got no more second-hand value, and the garbage man doesn't want it in his truck."

So Meijers started taking out ads in computer magazines and asking around for old computers.

His first find was a Gamma 55, a one-ton model from a nearby factory that took him and his wife, Beertje, five days to strip.

"There's a lot more to it than just taking it apart with one screwdriver and one hammer and a laughing face," said Meijers, whose biggest project, a 12.5-ton Philips P1175, took him 15½ hours to hack apart with a steel-cutting power saw and cart down from an eighth-floor office, and another two weeks to pick it apart for its valuable metals.

Sometimes the junk computers cost nothing. The owners are just glad to get rid of what has become a white elephant for them and a storage problem as well.

Sometimes the old computers cost money. Meijers recently bid between $14,400 to $18,500 for a 30-ton IBM.

After he finds the computer, Meijers cuts it apart and hauls it home by truck to his small rented shop near his home.

Then comes the detective work to find the valuable metals, sometimes involving acid tests, according to Meijers, and even guesswork.

But, as far as computers go, Meijers knows the difference between a diode and a triode.

"There's titanium alloy in the top of the printer section," said Meijers. "Vanadium is in the revolving section that punches cards. There's germanium in the electrical diodes. There's tantalum in the condensators."

He's found gold in some transistors, and small amounts of silver and platinum.

The metals he salvages are sold to refiners in Belgium, Germany, England and France.

"You can't buy a Cadillac every month," but so far he's making a living, says Meijers.

There are more career clouds on the horizon, however.

The development of microprocessors and miniaturization means that new computers will be smaller and smaller and have less and less of the metals Meijers mines, and he says he'll be out of job five years from now.

What makes a world champion? Perhaps foremost, the ability to defend accurately. Watch Californian Mike Lawrence, who has several world titles to his credit, at work on his deal from the Open Pairs event at the recent World Olympiad in Biarritz, France.

South's hand improved noticeably when North responded one spade to the one heart opening bid. North's jump preference to hearts at his next turn convinced South to continue on to game.

Lawrence was playing with Eddie Kantar of Los Angeles. He led his fourth-best club and declarer ruffed Kantar's king. The spade finesse lost, and East persevered with clubs. Declarer ruffed and now made a slight error — he led a low heart to the queen. Since East could not have the ace of hearts (he was a passed hand and had already shown up with the king of spades and ace-king of clubs), declarer should have led the king of hearts from hand to retain control. He could then win any return, draw one more round of trumps and then play winners until someone ruffed with the last trump. He would lose only two trumps and a spade.

Declarer now could not lead another trump — the defenders would be able to collect all the rest of the tricks but two — and Lawrence was able to profit from the error. Declarer started cashing his winners.

On the third spade Lawrence discarded a diamond, and on the last he sluffed a club. Declarer tackled diamonds, but West still refused to ruff. He parted with clubs on the first three diamonds, and when declarer led a fourth diamond from hand, he let go another club. But this time Kantar was able to ruff with the four of trumps. So after making six successive discards, Lawrence was able to score the last two tricks with the ace-jack of trumps!

Note that, if Lawrence ruffs at any point, declarer prevails. He wins any return by Lawrence, leads a trump to crash both outstanding trumps, and scores the rest with his last trump and the good diamonds.

Man arrested in cyanide poisoning

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A man who had blamed his wife's near-fatal poisoning on cyanide-tainted Anacin capsules was in jail today, accused of trying to kill the woman he admitted hitting "a couple of times."

Richard Ray Bowen, 29, was taken into custody Thursday on charges of attempted murder and willful poisoning of medicine. No bond was set and an arraignment was set for Monday.

Police Sgt. Bob Burroughs said Thursday that Bowen's wife Susan was poisoned with cyanide, but that the poison was not contained in Maximum Strength Anacin-3 capsules as Bowen had claimed.

The poisoning incident, which occurred Nov. 28, triggered the removal of the pain reliever from hundreds of stores in five states.

Wife of Tylenol suspect free on bond

CHICAGO (AP) — Leann Lewis, wife of Tylenol extortion suspect James W. Lewis, was free today after her father posted his suburban Kansas City house to guarantee her $100,000 bond.

Mrs. Lewis was accompanied by her father, Charles Miller, when she left the federal Metropolitan Correctional Center about 7:45 p.m. Thursday night. They were to spend the night in Chicago before returning today to his home in Kerney, Mo., according to her attorney, Michael Monico.

U.S. Magistrate James Balog ordered Mrs. Lewis not to leave the Kansas City area without court permission.

Earlier, Balog reduced Mrs. Lewis' bond from $5 million after a federal prosecutor said the government does not plan to charge her in connection with the Tylenol murders.

Nation's first test-tube baby 'normal'

Elizabeth Carr

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — While America's first test-tube baby cooed and waved her hands from her father's lap, her doctor said a checkup shows the child is a normal, healthy 1-year-old.

Elizabeth Jordan Carr "has a very bright and happy future," said Dr. Fred Wirth, the pediatrician who attended the baby's birth at Norfolk General Hospital on Dec. 28, 1981.

He said the examination at a nearby children's hospital Thursday showed that the toddler is developing normally at her Westminster, Mass., home, and is even advanced for her age in some areas.

The baby's health proves "the safety of this needed process" of in-vitro fertilization, Wirth told a ntws conference.

Brown-haired, blue-eyed Elizabeth sat with father Roger Carr calmly watching the cameras click away as Wirth spoke, but she began crying and was gathered into her mother's arms near the end of the 15-minute session.

The Norfolk General hospital staff presented Elizabeth with a huge birthday cake, which she sampled by sticking her fingers into the icing.

The child was conceived and born at Norfolk General, home of the country's first in-vitro fertilization clinic, which is run by the Eastern Virginia Medical School.

Plastic heart implanted one month ago

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Ending a month as history's first permanent artificial heart recipient, hospital officials said Barney Clark would quietly usher in a New Year he never was expected to see.

The 61-year-old retired dentist from Des Moines, Wash., was near death with cardiomyopathy, a degenerative disease of the heart muscle, when he was wheeled into a University of Utah Medical Center operating room on Dec. 1. But following a 5½-hour surgery, Dr. Williams DeVries replaced Clark's weak natural heart with a fist-sized plastic pump.

Today, Clark's 30th day on the compressor-driven heart, was to be a quiet one, said medical center spokesman John Dwan. Clark remained in serious condition early today, said a hospital nursing supervisor.

Out-of-work pilot attempts hijacking

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An out-of-work pilot pretending to have explosives tried to hijack a jet carrying 77 people, but changed his mind when told the airliner was low on fuel, authorities said.

Michael James Will, 30, was arraigned early today on state charges of endangering the lives of others and making terrorist threats by trying to commandeer a plane to Washington, D.C., police said.

Will told a flight attendant on United Airlines' Flight 702 Thursday night that the black satchel he carried contained explosives, authorities said.

"He indicated that if his instructions were not complied with, he would detonate the bag he was carrying," said William Weiner, the agent in charge of the Pittsburgh FBI office.

Prison hostage recalls her ordeal

WALPOLE, Mass. (AP) — A 31-year-old social worker, held captive for 28 hours by a knife-wielding inmate at Walpole State Prison, says she was frightened but never lost hope of leaving alive.

"I can't say I ever lost hope," Donal Murphy recalled in a television interview Thursday, a day after the ordeal ended with her escaping unhurt.

"I think that...in a situation like that, if you lose hope, all is lost," she said. "Throughout the whole thing, I had to believe I was going to come out of it alive.... I had visions of myself leaving the corridor and who I was going to see and what I was going to say. I kept on thinking that over in mind.

"I never once pictured the end to the situation to be my being killed. I couldn't do that," she told WCVB-TV of Boston.

Prison authorities said the inmate pulled a knife while being escorted down a hallway and ran into Ms. Murphy's office, where he held off guards for the next night and day.

Tavern's janitor 'rescues' burglar

SOUTH TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Clarence Dillon, a janitor at a tavern, told police he heard muffled pleas for help when he arrived to work in the morning.

But he couldn't figure out where they were coming from — until he looked up.

What Dillon saw were a man's legs dangling from a ceiling exhaust vent at the Paddock Bar, police said.

Officers and firefighters extricated the man, who they said had been stuck for several hours early Thursday.

Jay W. Leahy, 27, was booked for investigation of third-degree burglary and possession of burglary tools, police said.

Bond set for teen prankster

ADDISON, Ill. (AP) — A judge set bond at $1.5 million for the older of two teen-agers accused of putting a concrete-filled milk can in the middle of a road, causing a car crash that killed three people.

Cook County Circuit Judge William Saracco set the bond Thursday for Ricardo Morelos, 18, after he was charged with three counts of involuntary manslaughter. A 16-year-old friend of Morelos' was charged in a juvenile petition with involuntary manslaughter. Both are residents of Leyden Township in Chicago's suburbs.

Sheriff's Lt. Frank Braun said the two suspects were arrested after Morelos went to a police station Tuesday to report overhearing other youths talking about the accident involving the 3-foot milk can, which weighed 100 pounds after it was filled with concrete.

Teen survives in Los Angeles airport

By JACKIE HYMAN
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES — A teen-age mute who spurns help from outsiders has lived at Los Angeles International Airport for two years, sleeping on benches and begging for spare change or returning luggage carts for 25 cents apiece to buy food.

The youngster has been placed in foster homes, but leaves them and returns to the airport, officials say. He sometimes becomes lost, turning up hundreds of miles away.

Mary Hayes, a spokeswoman for the Los Angeles County Department of Public Social Services, said Thursday that a worker would be sent to the airport to assess the youth's situation and determine whether he is eligible for any aid.

"Either way we would try to ensure that he had food and clothing and shelter," she said.

"He may have found a way to survive out there but it is something that can endanger his safety and certainly his health," said Virginia McKinney, director of the Center for Communicative Development, who first learned of the youth through her son, a former airport employee.

Mrs. McKinney has named the youth Juan. She said he is about 4-foot-5, appears to be in his late teens, does not speak and seems to be hard of hearing — but not totally deaf.

"The fact that he's able to survive is no reason you should leave a helpless human being out there for the rest of his life to live like that," she said.

Mrs. McKinney said the teen-ager has been found as far away as Fresno, 200 miles northwest, and San Diego, 100 miles southeast, and once disappeared for three months. He carries a card in his pocket with her telephone number on it and she arranges for his return, Mrs. McKinney said.

"My son said that some of the people thought he might be a refugee who lost his guardian there at the airport and wouldn't leave," said Mrs. McKinney.

"I feel that while he may have some learning disabilities, it is very possible that he could learn to communicate and eventually tell us where he's from."

Wayne Henrichs, executive director of Travelers Aid of Los Angeles, said his office has known about Juan for two years and has referred him to other agencies for help, but he always turns up again.

He said volunteers have tried dozens of languages hoping to find one that Juan understands, but without success.

"Actually I think someone like this would have to be put into a protective environment," Henrichs said. "Someone would have to work with him to determine what makes this man tick, what is his past. It's almost like the version of the wolf man who grew up with animals.

"He always finds his way back to LAX (the airport)," he said. "What hold is there here? Was he abandoned here?"

Airport spokeswoman Virginia Black said she hadn't heard of Juan or seen him mentioned in airport security reports.

Mrs. McKinney said Juan has survived by returning luggage carts for the 25-cent deposit, and through the kindness of others, especially Mellie Thompson, who worked as a custodian at the airport until placed on unpaid leave this month because of arthritis.

Ms. Thompson occasionally brings Juan home for short visits. She said she would like to adopt him but financial problems and cramped living space make that impossible.

"He's a very bright young man," she said, noting that he is possibly of Spanish-Indian heritage. "He doesn't speak but we have our own way of communicating. Like if he needs a clean coat, he pulls on his jacket."

"Juan represents a real challenge because he will not accept help," Mrs. McKinney said.

Mrs. McKinney said she is worried that the kind of care Juan needs may not be available through a foster home.

Reagan aides: Andropov's comments not call for summit

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Aides to President Reagan say the new Soviet leader's overture to the United States should not be interpreted as a "formal call" for a summit conference between the superpowers.

Larry Speakes, the deputy White House press secretary, said Thursday he saw nothing new in the comments Yuri Andropov made to Hearst newspapers indicating an interest in a summit after "good preparation."

Reagan, meanwhile, was preparing to celebrate the arrival of the new year at a black-tie dinner at this desert resort area, as he has for more than a decade.

Before tonight's party, Reagan was meeting with Secretary of State George P. Shultz and National Security adviser William Clark.

Speakes said the overall scope of U.S.-Soviet relations would be a likely topic at the meeting, but he did not know if the Andropov's remarks would be discussed specifically.

Clark accompanied Reagan here for the New Year's holiday, and Shultz was coming for the annual New Year's Eve party given by Walter and Leonore Annenberg, at whose 200-acre estate the president and Mrs. Reagan are staying.

Annenberg, a millionaire publisher, was the U.S. ambassador to Britain during the Nixon administration. Mrs. Annenberg was Reagan's chief of protocol in 1981.

Among those expected to attend the formal party were Attorney General and Mrs. William French Smith and several members of the "kitchen cabinet" of wealthy California businessmen who helped Reagan get started in California politics. Some served as advisers early in the administration.

The traveling White House was provided with a transcript of Andropov's remarks Thursday morning.

Andropov, in written responses to questions transmitted through the Soviet embassy in Washington, was reported to have said he "certainly" believes the two nations can reach a nuclear arms reduction compromise.

According to the report, he showed a willingness to meet with Reagan after "good preparation" to assure success — a requirement similar to that voiced by Reagan for two years.

Watt gives himself high marks for job

WASHINGTON (AP) — James G. Watt, grading his stormy first two years as head of the Interior Department, says he's done a first-rate job of managing America's public lands and preparing the country to meet the 21st century.

Watt, in a meeting with reporters called Thursday to unveil his annual report to the president, said he enjoyed his job and even found some good things to say about his environmental opponents.

"I think environmental groups have been helpful ... because of their success at public relations activities every member of the (Capitol) Hill knows who Jim Watt is and what I am doing," he said. "We have won (Congress') support on all but a few issues and we couldn't have had that success if we hadn't been able to get Congress to focus on the issues."

Justice for too many

If you've ever felt wronged and considered filing suit to obtain just compensation for damages you suffered, you're not alone. In fact, says a recent article in U.S. News & World Report, you would merely be exhibiting traits of "our suing society."

While specific figures are not readily available from the Midland District Clerk's office on the number of civil suits filed annually, the magazine noted that nationwide "earlier this year, for the first time in a 12-month period, civil suits exceeded 200,000 — a 14 percent jump over the previous year."

"The surge of lawsuits, building for decades, shows no signs of peaking," said the U.S. News & World Report article. That fact should give Americans pause because the most tangible effect of the current lawsuit binge is economic. It pushes up prices for products involved in lawsuits, insurance rates and taxes.

And, of course, there are the negative effects on the judicial system to consider. The obvious questions that arise from the litigiousness developing in American society is "Can justice be found in a judicial system engulfed by lawsuits?" and "Are the courts truly intended to arbitrate each individual disagreement that arises?"

Already the flood of lawsuits has sparked change in the judicial system. Says the magazine, "Among ideas being studied or tried are requiring certain cases to be submitted to arbitrators or mediators, forcing the losing side to pay the costs of any legal maneuvering judges find to be frivolous and increasing the filing fees to reflect more closely the actual cost of processing a case."

Each of these ideas has potential merit and potential pitfalls. But viewing the voluminous growth in lawsuits, it's obvious something must be done to save the integrity of the American judicial system. Whatever that action may be, it should be taken with the intent of keeping "justice for all" a respectable phrase while rendering "see you in court" a little less appealing.

Japan relents ... some

A Japan grown rich on exports to Europe and the United States cannot expect to keep its own doors closed to the foreign imports necessary to make free trade a two-way street. Accordingly, the Japanese have been under mounting pressure for years to lower tariffs and other barriers to the entry of Western goods.

The pressure has grown understandably more intense as recessions in Europe and the United States drive up unemployment and increase resentment of Japanese imports.

A year ago, Japan responded by cutting tariffs on 1,653 items. Six months later, more than 200 additional products were added to the list of potential imports facing lower tariffs and fewer of the niggling bureaucratic barriers that have helped keep Japan a semi-closed market.

The Japanese government recently announced plans to reduce or eliminate tariffs on an additional 47 agricultural commodities and 28 industrial products. This is especially good news because it seems to indicate that Japan's new prime minister, Yasuhiro Nakasone, intends to make good on his promise to push for free-trade policies at home as well as abroad.

Unless the Reagan administration can find a magic bullet to end this recession, Congress will be under growing political pressure from the public next year to adopt protectionist measures. Never mind that those measures would do more harm than good in the long run.

Prime Minister Nakasone seems to recognize these political realities. And the recent announcements on further liberalization of Tokyo's trade policies suggest that his government is capable of resisting its own domestic pressure for protectionism.

Still, all of the Japanese concessions announced to date will not be near enough to erase Japan's $16-billion-per-year trade surplus with the United States and its $12-billion-per-year surplus with the European Economic Community.

While these surpluses are not entirely Japan's "fault" — who can blame the Japanese for exporting high quality at very competitive prices? Still, something closer to a trade balance must be struck eventually if protectionism is to be held at bay.

Another View:

Crime and appearance

For obvious reasons, anti-crime legislation, whether drafted carefully or not, is difficult for legislators to oppose. So it came as no surprise that an anti-crime package known as the Armed Career Criminal Act easily passed Congress near the end of the lame-duck session.

But we agree with Justice Department officials who have reservations about the bill and who may urge President Reagan to veto it, although they concede that rejection of the measure would create an "appearance problem" for the White House.

One provision of the bill would make it a federal crime for a twice-convicted robber or burglar to commit a third offense with a gun, but local prosecutors would have to [illegible] federal prosecution. That section appears certain to create an area of conflict between federal [illegible] divert a stream of convicted offenders into the already overburdened federal prison system.

The bill would create a Cabinet-level drug-law enforcement official to direct as well as coordinate federal narcotics-enforcement programs. That provision would confuse the lines of authority between the new official and the attorney general, and would undermine the latter's power. A senator supporting the provision argued that federal drug-enforcement efforts cannot be strengthened "until we put somebody in charge ... to command all the troops." But that official should be the attorney general, who could, if necessary delegate direct authority to a subordinate directly responsible to him.

Other sections of the bill are unobjectionable, if perhaps not imperative. One would set penalties up to life imprisonment for tampering with drugs such as Tylenol. Another would raise fines for drug traffickers. The real enforcement problem in this area is with catching such offenders rather than with any difficulty in prosecuting them and imposing punishment.

The [illegible] of the bill would revive federal [illegible] grants to local and state [illegible] $110 million through fiscal 1984. The grants would go chiefly for programs that had been shown to be effective when funded by the defunct Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

Yet, because of deficiencies in the legislation, the president should veto it. Reagan's anti-crime posture is sufficiently strong for him to overcome the "appearance problem."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Ethics chairman is a reluctant 'watchdog'

WASHINGTON — Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., a lanky, Yale-educated cattle rancher, is no Marshal Dillon in his role as guardian of the Senate's morality. The Ethics Committee chairman is a reluctant watchdog at best.

Jack Anderson

At one point, Wallop criticized the whole idea of a code of ethics, saying, "It's bad for the morality of the Senate and bad for the public's perception of the Senate." He suggested that senators should not have to disclose all their personal financial holdings, but only potential conflicts of interest. Indeed, he felt that the individual senator should judge his own potential conflicts.

A look at Wallop's record may explain his views on the code of ethics. My reporter Jock Hatfield has checked the senator's financial holdings against his legislative activities in the Senate.

The investigation shows that Wallop, who is also chairman of a key public lands subcommittee, has consistently promoted legislation that would enrich oil companies listed in his own stock portfolio.

Wallop's financial ties to the oil industry are substantial. He owns between $50,000 and $165,000 of Exxon, Chevron and Standard Oil of Indiana stock. He has also received more than $80,000 in royalties from Getty Oil since 1978. Last year he got $4,000 in speaking fees from oil-related organizations, and Big Oil pumped $115,000 into his campaign chest during 1981-82.

Despite this financial interest in the oil industry, Wallop has not shied away from legislation affecting Big Oil. And under the anything-goes spirit of the ethics code as enforced by Wallop, the legislation he has championed is considered only "incidentally related" to his personal finances. You decide:

— Wallop's Wyoming Wilderness Bill would open up 300,000 acres of public land, including the pristine Gros Ventre proposed wilderness area near Jackson Hole, to oil and gas leasing. Getty Oil has been battling in court for the right to develop an estimated $2 billion in oil and gas reserves there. If Wallop's bill passes, the court case may be moot.

— A shale-oil bill was co-sponsored by Wallop and reported out of the Energy Committee with his help. It would dramatically expand shale-oil leasing on federal reserves in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming. Chevron, Standard of Indiana, Getty and Exxon all have shale tracts on or near the 300-billion-barrel federal reserve that Wallop's bill would open up. Standard of Indiana has publicly listed the bill as a top lobbying priority.

— Wallop orchestrated a law that opened up more than 600,000 acres of land in Utah for tar-sand mining. It allowed companies with oil leases in the area to take over valuable tar-sand rights, free of charge. Chevron is planning a $1-billion tar-sand project on a 2,000-acre tract there — 700 acres of which was opened up by Wallop's legislation. Standard of Indiana has oil leases on 9,700 acres within the newly opened area, and has applied for tar-sand rights under the law.

— Wallop has also pushed for a $250 million tax-credit measure for shale-oil companies in the Senate Finance Committee.

Wallop sees nothing wrong in all this. "My personal financial holdings are a matter of public record," he said. "They create no conflict whatsoever ... Specifically, I have no knowledge of what energy stocks I may own and no control over them. Such stocks are held in irrevocable trusts created years before I came to the Senate."

Wallop added: "My personal financial record has never influenced or affected my legislative record in any way."

Footnote: Wallop's stocks are indeed held in trusts, but the trusts are not "blind" — though the senator may be. His oil stocks were listed on the financial disclosure statement that Wallop signed.

ROYAL PEN PAL: King Hussein of Jordan, who visited Washington last week, has a habit of writing long, personally revealing letters to President Reagan. Sources who have seen the monarch's missives say that on occasion he has confessed to feeling "depressed."

In other letters to Reagan, Hussein comes across as a bit paranoid. He has complained to the president that "Zionists" have infiltrated the White House and are actually running the United States. The royal ruminations, White House sources say, are generally regarded as so much "nut mail."

WATCH ON WASTE: I reported earlier how the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta has been flooded by requests for laboratory analysis from state and local governments and even private physicians. The reason: The center's lab services are free.

The same bargain prevails in the testing of medical diagnostic tools — like a blood-sampling device, say, or a diagnostic process to detect venereal disease or pregnancy. Manufacturers of these medical items can have their products tested free at the Atlanta facility.

There's an additional reason: The center's prestige can be a big boost to a manufacturer. If the product passes the CDC's rigid lab testing, this can help when it comes before the Food and Drug Administration for the review and classification required before it can be marketed.

The center's service to manufacturers costs the taxpayers a bundle. In fiscal 1981, for example, the CDC tested more than 1,000 commercial products, at a total cost of $438,000. Government auditors have recommended charging fees for the service.

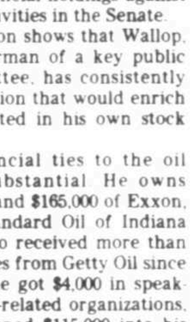
INSIDE REPORT:

'Liberal tide' gives Mondale lead in Texas

AUSTIN, Texas — In the wake of the broadest liberal election sweep in Texas history, liberal stalwart Walter Mondale is close to putting an early lock on this conservative state's big delegation to the 1984 Democratic national convention.



Robert Novak

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's dropout enabled Mondale to corner liberal-labor activists who dominate precincts vital to delegate selection here. But the former vice president also has made remarkable gains among conservative Democrats. The result is a universally-recognized lead in Texas over Sen. John Glenn that some politicians call "overwhelming."

That is bad news for Glenn, whose presidential strategy conjures a sweep of Southern, Western and Border states where Democratic leaders presumably consider Mondale a sure loser against Ronald Reagan. Such feeling in Texas has been softened by Mondale's quiet years of missionary work here and reduced by the state's 1982 Republican election fiasco. Still, even some of Mondale's newfound friends privately question his general election prospects, in Texas and nationally, if there is significant economic recovery.

Their drift to Mondale is partly a commentary on Glenn. "My gut feeling would be for Glenn," a Mondale-leaning conservative told us, "but he has done no organizing in Texas, and I can see no signs he plans to do any." An example: Mondale was on the telephone to Texas on election night congratulating election winners; Glenn was not.

Glenn's sole tangible asset here is Lt. Gov. William Hobby, a moderate conservative who is one of the most powerful figures in state government but equally [illegible] sponsored a post-election Glenn fund-raiser in Houston and can open doors to state big Texas money. But against Glenn's Hobby, Mondale has a dozen movers and shakers.

State AFL-CIO president Harry Hubbard, who told Kennedy to his face in Houston this summer that he could not carry Texas, sees labor unified for Mondale. Former senator Ralph Yarborough, more prestigious today than before his defeat in 1970, is aggressively pro-Mondale. Soon also may be State Controller Bob Bullock, a rough-and-tumble political operator.

Active support from State Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple, unsuccessful candidate for governor, gives Mondale a ready-made statewide organization and entree to big money (Temple's father, tycoon Arthur Temple Sr., is vice chairman of Time, Inc.). Former state Democratic chairman Calvin Guest is a Mondaleite linked to Gov.-elect Mark White, raising speculation that White eventually will climb aboard.

White's intimates insist he will stay neutral, unless some serious presidential candidate poses a special threat to Texas — a shrouded warning that is Mondale's only cloud here. That threat, they suggest, could be a 1984 version of Adlai Stevenson's 1952 Tidelands oil stance that cost him the state. Centrist White was furious over President Jimmy Carter's "windfall profits" tax on oil and would not be happy about Mondale support for such a levy on natural gas.

Texas conservatives [illegible] Mondale, consequently, are anxious to tidy up his energy posture. State Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace, an energy conservative who likes Mondale, plans to discuss natural gas with him. There is speculation about a compromise energy position leading to Mondale choosing a Texan for vice president: probably Sen. Lloyd Bentsen (considered pro-Mondale), but possibly White.

Even without such Texas trimmings, however, the only way to trip Mondale here may be to stop him in early primary states. In Texas, a liberal tide and Mondale's superior campaign have given the liberal standard-bearer a surprising early edge in a conservative state whose electoral votes always have been essential to elect a Democratic president.

CHARLEY REESE

Don't blame unions for the economy

Two things you hear often these days. High priced union labor is to blame for the ailing auto industry. American products have priced themselves out of the market.

Charley Reese

Both are as false as antlers on a doe. I write about union excesses and abuses and both occur sometimes, but American unions are not responsible for the state of the economy today.

Let's look at facts. American workers are not the highest paid in the world. They rank about fourth. A large majority of American workers are non-union. In fact, the average hourly wage is $6.70 in 1982 dollars which translates into about $3.35 in purchasing power as measured by cost of living index.

Foreign imports, which are now about 30 percent of the market, have beaten American cars on quality, not price. And quality control is a management function, not solely the responsibility of the assembly line worker. Design and engineering are totally under the control of management.

As for who's greedy, is it the assembly line worker or is it management which sells a big car for twice the price of a small one even though production costs are almost the same? Or is it the bank which charges 15 or 16 percent to finance the car?

Two factors cause our problems. One is the flood of foreign imports of all kinds and the other is the banking industry's high interest rates. Plenty of still-working Americans aren't buying homes or new cars simply because interest rates are too high.

These two factors have caused a depression in the auto and home-building industries and when that happens, the bad effects ripple out. Unless the Congress finds the courage to dam the flood of imports and put a cap on interest rates, more than the presently estimated 2 million Americans will be roaming the highways in search of work.

There are a lot of complacent people in the upper-income brackets. They like to talk about how the dumb unions are getting what they deserve and how poor people bring on their own troubles. They love to philosophize about free-trade principles and chat about how our economy is shifting from industrial to service and how, of course, that is a painful process (to other people).

Be careful. Anger piles up in drifts out there. People aren't as ignorant and as docile as they used to be. And there are plenty of people like me who, if forced to choose between philosophying and helping people, will go with the people.

Not long ago, a seven-year-old girl froze to death in the family car because they had lost their home. This should never have happened in America. We cannot and will not tolerate it.

You want a fight? A revolution? Okay. Just keep on not caring about children dying while multinational corporations move jobs overseas and the Congress hides behind nonsense for fear of tackling the banking industry.

Let me tell you what is more important than profit margin and rate of return on investment. Human life and human dignity. The greedy people who are the cause of our economic woes don't carry union cards. They carry briefcases and American Express.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Friday, Dec. 31, the 365th and last day of 1982.

Today's highlight in history:

On Dec. 31, 1879, inventor Thomas Edison gave the first demonstration of his incandescent light in Menlo Park, N.J.

On this date:

In 1890, Ellis Island in New York was opened as a center to receive immigrants.

In 1943, there was a near-riot of bobby-soxers in New York's Times Square as Frank Sinatra opened a singing engagement at the Paramount Theater.

In 1946, the end of World War II was officially proclaimed by President Harry Truman.

Five years ago: President Carter met with the shah of Iran in Tehran, and it was announced the two men had taken "constructive steps" toward a Middle East settlement.

One year ago: The Reagan administration announced a change in its plans for deploying the MX missile, saying it would place 40 of the missiles in existing Minuteman silos on the northern High Plains.

Today's birthdays: Singer John Denver is 39. Fashion designer Diane Von Furstenburg is 36. Singer Donna Summer is 34.

Thought for today: "Always remember that your own resolution to succeed is more important than any other one thing" — Abraham Lincoln (1809-1865).

Stars' discarded togs sold at Cinema Glamour Shop

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A young woman pirouettes before a store mirror in a black taffeta party dress that once belonged to entertainer Mary Martin.

The size 8 design, which had been tailor made for the star who leaped to fame as Peter Pan, cost a modest $45.

At the Cinema Glamour Shop, one can "rub shoulders" with the stars and get a bargain in the process.

The modest thrift store might have an evening dress once worn by entertainer Julie Andrews, a pantsuit discarded by actress Lana Turner or a tuxedo that belonged to comedian Don Rickles.

"I come here as often as I can, about once a week," says Gary Krakower, a 35-year-old actor who recently paid $10 for a suede jacket that once belonged to director Blake Edwards.

"You can buy some very nice things here, but it's like all thrift stores. It's hit and miss."

The thrift shop dates back to the 1930s when silent screen actress Mary Pickford decided to raise money for the Motion Picture Relief Fund by having fellow stars donate their second-hand apparel and goods. She called the store the Screen Star Thrift Shop.

The store was revived in 1968 by Lillian McEdwards, mother of Blake Edwards of Pink Panther fame, whose recent films include "Victor, Victoria," "10" and "S.O.B." He is also married to Julie Andrews, a major contributor to the store.

The shop still donates its proceeds to a worthy cause, the Motion Picture and Television Country House, which is a rest home and medical facility for the film and TV industry located in Calabasas, Calif.

Browsing through the store's well-tended racks is like leafing through a movie magazine. There's a black pajama set for $80, once owned by actress Leslie Ann Warren. A beige wool jersey dress with a $40 price tag was contributed by entertainer Carol Burnett, who wears a size 10.

Miss Andrews had parted with a size 10 pastel chiffon evening dress, selling for $60.

The store's inventory is constantly replenished, depending on who is cleaning house.

A load of clothes belonging to actress Faye Wray, best remembered for her role in the original movie version of "King Kong," is a recent arrival. Among the actress's discarded togs are a size 10 black velvet cape to be sold for $40, a green skirt and sweater outfit selling for $30 and a black Hermes skirt with leather trim, a steal for $40.

"We ask our donors to send things in mint condition," says store manager Betty Huff. "We get some beautiful things."

About 50 percent to 75 percent of the store's inventory is donated by actors and actresses, Ms. Huff said, while the rest is contributed by people working in the movie industry.

None of the clothing is labeled as having belonged to a particular celebrity, but the store's staff can tell customers who wore what if they ask.

Actress Rhonda Fleming is the store's biggest donor, Ms. Huff said. Other major contributors include actors Robert Mitchum and Louis Jourdan and their wives, Rickles, comedian Bob Newhart, actress Paula Prentiss and her husband, actor Richard Benjamin.

Many of the customers tend to be associated with the entertainment industry.

Gerry Bachrack, a free-lance accessories designer and pet designer, said he has been frequenting the store for years.

"I bought (the late comedian) Jack Benny's cashmere sweaters and neckties after he died," Bachrack said. "I also bought (the late actor) Edward G. Robinson's trenchcoat he wore in all his movies. It had his initials inside and a pocket for his gun."

Harvey Rae, who manages the household staff at the home of producer Alan Ladd Jr., was milling around the store. He purchased a pair of white enamel Polish pots and pans for $2 a piece and some towels.

"I come here whenever I can," he says. "The merchandise is beautiful...plus it's fun. It's more fun than going to a department store."

Penny's worth quarter of million dollars

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — A penny may no longer be worth the copper it's made of but one cent was all that stood between Jodi Gold and a quarter of a million dollars.

That's what Ms. Gold would have won had she guessed the amount in a radio station's contest jackpot, but she missed the total by one cent, while the correct answer was on a slip of paper in her purse.

Instead, she ended up with a cash settlement for an undisclosed amount from radio WHYI-FM after a 19-month legal wrangle.

The dispute began in April 1981, when a disc jockey spotted the station's promotional bumper sticker on her car. He called her over and asked how much money was in the WHYI "Rainbow Connection" jackpot.

Ms. Gold hesitated. She knew she had the winning number written on a piece of paper in her pocketbook, but the disc jockey refused to let her go get it. So she guessed on the spot: $251,357.20.

AA members sell mock booze

By The Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

LOS ANGELES — "We will serve no wine before it's tame," reads the sign over the cooler in Canoga Park's New Way Beverage Co.

The pun is intended. But it's no joke. All the wine and all the beer and all the liqueurs on the shelves of the new establishment are, indeed, tame: Nothing in the place has an alcohol level above 0.5 percent.

"If you drank 24 gallons of our wine in an hour, I suppose you could get tipsy, among other things," said Laurie Fernandez, one of the three co-owners of the store, which is in its sixth week of business.

Her partners are her husband, Frank Fernandez, and their friend George Gunning. Frank and George are both recovering alcoholics and members of Alcoholics Anonymous.

But both still like the taste of wine and beer, and that is how they came to start what they believe is California's first teetotally nonalcoholic "liquor" store.

The idea is that people who are alcoholics, or who eschew alcohol for health, religious or other reasons, also may share the liking for the taste of beer, wine or liqueurs.

"I drank for over 30 years," Gunning said, "and I couldn't handle it. I've been in AA for the last five. But I love to have a bottle of wine with dinner."

So these days Gunning frequently has a bottle of red or white de-alcoholized wine with dinner, and possibly a nonalcoholic (but virtually identical-tasting) version of a Harvey Wallbanger after dinner. On a hot day he'll have a couple of cans of nonalcoholic beer from Texas. And there is never a hangover.

All toll there are about 70 different kinds of wine, beer and liqueurs to choose from in the store. Most are imported from Australia, others from Germany and Italy and a couple from Missouri.

Gunning said drinking mock booze does not, in his mind, violate Alcoholics Anonymous ideals, and he does not believe taste-alike wines will knock him off the wagon and put him back on the hard stuff. "I don't feel threatened at all," he said.

But not everyone is convinced that drinking make-believe booze is such a good idea.

Scott Marshall, director of the Alpha Alcoholism recovery unit at Glendale Hospital, was not enthusiastic. "On the surface, there appears to be nothing wrong with it," he said. "The problem is that anything that is a facsimile for alcohol could trigger responses, especially for someone newly into recovery, that could lead to drinking real alcoholic beverages again."

A spokesman for the Central Los Angeles office of Alcoholics Anonymous said that while his organization would neither endorse nor condemn the nonalcoholic store, he was upset by Fernandez and Gunning "going public" about their AA membership.

Trucker cited for heroism

HOUSTON (AP) — A trucker who rescued a trapped driver from a flaming wreck on a Houston freeway has been cited for heroism by a national philanthropic group.

The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission gave Carl J. Bolt of Houston a Carnegie Medal and $2,000 for saving Lyle D. Motok, 21, from a burning tow truck March 1.

"I'm real proud of it," Bolt said of the medal, one of 97 passed out by the Pittsburgh group this year. "But I wasn't expecting anything like this. I don't believe in pay for something like this, but I do appreciate it."

The commission said the 55-year-old Bolt "ran to the burning tow truck and twice reached inside for Motok, the second time pulling him through the broken windshield. Motok was aflame. Bolt rolled him on the pavement and tore off his clothing to extinguish the flames."

Motok died 10 days later. Bolt suffered second-degree burns on his hands and arms.

Also among those honored by the commission were three Louisiana men who rescued three people from the fiery crash of a small plane in Houston March 21, 1980.

One of those honored, Don Rey Alonso, 35, of Pineville, La., a corporate pilot said, "Has anybody ever been able to give you a reason for this kind of thing? Really, I don't know why. I'm sure I'll never find an answer I've thought about it a lot."

He said he, Gale Galloway and Gerald Boyer, both of Lafayette, La., "watched this accident happen. Kind of unanimously, we agreed, 'Let's go help and do what we can,'" Alonso said.

Alonso said he was the sole survivor of a small airplane crash in 1977, "and there was no one there to help me."

The three men saved Samir Foteh and Willis Jackson. Virgil Savoy, who also was pulled from the plane, later died.

Japanese economic presence felt strongly across Southeast Asia

By MORT ROSENBLUM

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — "We have a past but no memory," said a Filipino merchant, before driving off in his Toyota through a neon blaze attesting to Japan's new conquest of Southeast Asia.

Across this sprawling archipelago, as in Indonesia, Singapore, Malaysia and Thailand, the Japanese presence is written large in lights: "Sony," "Datsun," "Pioneer," "Toshiba."

In Burma, signs are more discreet, but Japanese goods, investments and aid stand out sharply in a country that until recently lived on hand-me-downs from British colonizers.

Desperate for raw materials, Japan seized Southeast Asia by bloody assault in World War II, establishing by force the Greater East Asia Co-Prosperity Sphere that later crumpled under the Allies' advance.

News Special

Now Japan is back, peacefully and more permanently.

Southeast Asian trade with Japan was $38.6 billion in 1981, a 465 percent increase from 1975. Japanese investment in the region is estimated at $7 billion, more than the U.S. total.

NOW, UNDER U.S. pressure, Japan is considering additions to its navy to take on a role in defending Asian waters.

If some Southeast Asians remain bitter over Japanese death marches, prison camps and occupation, many dismiss World War II as a "negative military adventure," as one Japanese professor put it in a recent seminar on Japan and Southeast Asia.

And for most, Japan is a model they cannot afford to ignore.

Launching a "Look East" policy, Malaysia sent 136 youths to study factories in Japan. Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamed quipped that if they went to Britain, Malaysia's former master and model, they would learn only to strike and carry signs condemning capitalism. "Looking East does not mean total Japanization or a complete break with the West," he said recently. "But it certainly means that the almost total dependence on the West will be replaced by a more balanced attitude."

President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines, who fought Japanese troops in World War II, has welcomed Japanese commerce. But on a recent U.S. visit, he noted Japan had outpaced the United States in trade and investment in the region and could be a threat if encouraged to rearm.

"IF WE ALLOW the situation...to continue as it is, Japan will sooner or later, perhaps sooner than later, dominate," he said. "Japan has moved forward fast enough and far enough to be in a position to decide in her own time when to assert her political and military preeminence."

He added: "Considering the sad chapter...during World War II, the Japanese economic designs (for Southeast Asia) must necessarily be pursued with caution, prudence and sobriety."

President Suharto of Indonesia, on an October trip to Tokyo, worried aloud about a Japanese defense build-up. Outgoing Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki told him "Japan regrets it has caused neighboring Asian countries a lot of trouble in the last war" and assured no future threat existed, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

Later, U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger assured Suharto the U.S. proposal for Japan to help patrol sea lanes was limited to 1,000 miles from Tokyo Bay, well above Indonesia.

Despite assurances, some Southeast Asian strategists remain uneasy.

WESTERN POLITICAL analysts express little concern that Japan might harbor secret designs on the area it once conquered, but few dispute the importance of its economic presence.

Japan contributes a third of all aid granted to Thailand, Indonesia, the Philippines and Malaysia. Aid to Burma of $200 million last year equaled that of all other sources.

Massive joint ventures build ships, produce energy and develop high technology. Japanese run hotels and services. Businessmen and tourists from Japan fill sushi bars and tempura joints across Southeast Asia.

Many Southeast Asians are grateful for the jobs and prosperity, but some complain the Japanese already are acting like landlords.

"That thing isn't here because they like us," grumbled Mayor Aquilino Pimentel of Cagayan de Oro in the Southern Philippines, pointing to a Kawasaki plant for treating iron ore. "It's here because the Japanese won't have it at home. It pollutes too much."

SOUTHEAST ASIAN leaders seek to learn Japanese methods to duplicate Japan's success without yielding too much of their own economy to foreign investors.

But Japanese officials react guardedly to enthusiasm of would-be imitators, avoiding overly close ties that might cause political — or economic — problems and complicate their delicately balanced foreign policy.

In 1974, Prime Minister Takeo Tanaka's tour of the region sparked violent riots in Bangkok, Thailand, and Jakarta, Indonesia. Since then, Japanese officials have sought to keep their profile low.

Brazil to withhold loan payments in order to avert insolvency in March

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Hoping to avert insolvency in March, Brazil says it will withhold more than $800 million in principal payments due on loans from U.S. and other foreign banks.

"There doesn't exist any alternative," Jose Serrano, international director for the Brazilian central bank told reporters Thursday. International bankers were told of the plan last week in New York.

If Brazil's plan for rescheduling principal payments due in January and February is not accepted by international bankers, Serrano said, "We will enter into de facto insolvency on March 1."

Brazil has the world's ninth-largest economy and is the Third World's largest borrower with $90 billion due foreign lenders. It owes $446 million in principal on loans in January and a similar amount in February, Serrano said.

In Sao Paulo, central bank president Carlos Langoni stressed the procedure involved only repayment of principal and interest payments would continue to be made on schedule.

Serrano said the central bank has given 686 creditor banks a proposal to turn the January-February principal into deposits that lenders would have to leave in Brazilian banks, which would in turn deposit them in the central bank. He said a "good portion" of the foreign banks had responded favorably, but not a majority. He said Brazil would go ahead on its own and withhold payments to any foreign bank that does not respond to the plan by Saturday.

Langoni said the money deposited in the central bank would be repaid to the foreign banks under new terms similar to a regular eight-year loan, beginning with a 30-month grace period in which no payments would be made.

The central bank will pay interest on the money and the foreign banks will have the option of reloaning the money to a Brazilian client, rather than leaving it in the central bank, Langoni said.

Brazilian reports say large U.S. banks were agreeing to the deal but smaller regional American banks, along with European and Japanese lenders, were balking.

"If the majority accepts, the minority will have to go along," Serrano said, adding he was certain the majority of banks would accept the deal.

Two Brazilian bank directors attending a meeting Wednesday where the plan was discussed said it amounted to a unilateral rescheduling of Brazilian debt by the government.

"It is a bit high-handed," said one of the directors, who asked not to be identified.

There was little immediate reaction from U.S. bankers. Citibank of New York, one of the major lenders to Brazil, had no comment Thursday. At the National Bank of North Carolina in Raleigh, a small lender to Brazil, senior vice president William Vandiver said he was awaiting clarification from Brazil, but insisted the plan "is not being jammed down anybody's throat."

Blast rocks nightclub in downtown Stockholm

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A powerful explosion and fire gutted a downtown nightclub and blew out hundreds of nearby windows early today, moments after police received a bomb threat against the popular establishment.

"There appears to be no casualties but the material damage is substantial," Police inspector Lennar Miedel said. The Fontainebleau was closed at the time of the early morning explosion and all the workers had left.

No other people were believed in the five-story building housing the club, police said.

Bulldogs post 64-52 4-5A victory over Rebels

Midland High rallies from 12-point deficit

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Midland High's never-say-die girl's basketball team shook off a 12-point first half deficit at the MHS gym Thursday night, ending up with a 64-52 haymaker to the chin of the Midland Lee Rebels.

The 24-point turnaround gives the Bulldogs what appears to be the upper hand in the early District 4-5A race. MHS is now 2-0 in league play after beating one of the teams picked to make a strong run at the title.

For a while Thursday, it looked like Lee might roll away to an easy victory, using a stingy press of ball hawking supremecy. Stacy Harmon, who had 11 of her 14 points in the second period, scored seven unanswered points for the Rebels to give Lee a 25-13 lead with four minutes left to the half. It was the high water mark in what turned out to be a disaster for Lee.

MIDLAND HIGH opened the second half with 21 third quarter points while Lee produced a mere eight with the high scoring duo of Felicia Farias and Yshun King both setting on the bench with foul trouble.

MHS took advantage of the situation as Shelia Christian, who was held to a mere three first half points, canned seven in the third quarter to go with five by Orvetta Johnson. Christian ended the game with 14 points while Johnson had 17. Margaret Stanley, who was deadly at the free throw line, added 10 points to the cause while Cindy Besek and Penny Griffin did the defensive duties with flare.

Lee led by a 29-24 margin at the half, but Farias and King, both of whom ended with 11 points, were tagged with a fourth foul early in the third period. Trailing 35-28, MHS began its rally with Griffin hitting a three-point play, Christian two free throws and a 36-35 lead on a three-point play by Johnson. Later MHS ran off 13 unanswered points for a 15-point lead at 52-37 with 5:30 left. MHS once led by 17 points in the fourth period, putting an end to the ugly first half start.

"Lee's press hurt us in the first quarter and we couldn't buy a rebound," noted an elated MHS coach Jane Young. "We slowed down our offense and began to beat the press and we rebounded much better in the second half. Lee is a very good basketball team, maybe the best in the district, so this was a big win for us. I'm sure they will really come after us the next time we meet."

LEE IS now 12-5 on the year and 1-1 in district play while MHS is now 10-7 on the season. Still, there were some worried moments for Midland High's Christian. "I was scared when we were 12 points down, but I play scared anyway, even when we have a lead," she said.

Lee coach Shirley Stephenson said, "Obiviously the fouls hurt us. With our two best players on the bench, we didn't handle things well. I'm really disappointed over this game."

Midland High was red hot from the field, hitting 62 per cent on a 21 of 34 performance. Lee didn't come close to that mark and it proved to be the difference in the game. Lee hit 20 of 53 shots for a 38 per cent effort.

Johnson was a big spark for the Bulldogs, scoring in every quarter and hitting six in the final period. The Bulldogs also seemed to handle the ball better than Lee after a slow start against the Lee press. However, as effective as the Lee press was, it did get the Rebels in foul trouble and they never seemed to regain that momentum once it was lost.

District play resumes for the two teams Monday. The Bulldogs will host Odessa Permian at the MHS gym Monday while Lee travels to Odessa High.

MHS also won the junior varsity outing Thursday with a 48-35 win over Lee as Darla Smith led the way with 11 points. Elena Duran led Lee with eight points. The MHS JV is now 10-3 on the year while Lee is 12-5.

Florida State rips West Virginia in 38th Gator Bowl, 31-12

Georgia going for national title against Penn State on New Year's night

By FRED GOODALL
AP Sports Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden took hold of the Gator Bowl championship trophy, hoisted it high into the air and exclaimed: "This is for the team!"

He didn't deny that the Seminoles' 31-12 triumph over 10th-ranked West Virginia in the 38th Gator Bowl Classic Thursday night had been satisfying. But he insisted it wasn't because it came against the school he coached for six seasons before moving to Florida State in 1976.

"I got no thrill whatsoever in the fact that we beat West Virginia," he said. "I am happy because we won the Gator Bowl."

Bowden said the victory, which boosted Florida State's record to 9-3, was more important to his players because it halted a two-game losing streak.

"We needed this game real bad because if you don't watch it, you can destroy all your confidence," said Bowden, whose team lost the last two games of the regular season to plunge out of the Top Twenty.

"I'm extremely proud of the way we responded to this challenge," he added. "It was very important to wind up on a positive note."

FOR WEST Virginia, meanwhile, it was a disappointing end to what has been described as the school's greatest season.

Third-year Coach Don Nehlen said the 9-3 Mountaineers were simply a victim of too many game-breaking plays.

"Boy the big plays bothered us," said Nehlen. "Just like Bobby said all week, when they make the big plays they win and when they don't they lose."

Billy Allen ignited Florida State by returning a kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown and Greg Allen scored on runs of 29 yards and 1 yard as the Seminoles stopped West Virginia's four-game winning streak.

"It was wonderful because it was a sparkplug for our offense," Billy Allen said of his return. "We started slow, but that picked us up and we went on from there."

Florida State was in command from start to finish.

THE SEMINOLES began their first three possessions from the West Virginia 35, 38 and 33-yard lines after blocking a field goal attempt, partially blocking a punt and intercepting a pass. But the Seminoles could only generate three points.

West Virginia drove 36 yards for the first of two Paul Woodside field goals, a 48-yarder with 14:14 left in the half, but the game shifted dramatically on the ensuing kickoff.

Billy Allen took the ball at his own 5 and started up the left side of the field. He found a huge hole, crossed to the right sideline and glided to the end zone for a 10-3 Seminole lead.

"It must have been meant for me to do that," he said. "We were in a formation to the left, but once I got over on the right it was clear sailing."

Bowden conceded that the kickoff return was a big boost, but said he thought two other sequences were more significant.

Quarterback Blair Williams tossed a 27-yard touchdown pass to a leaping Dennis McKinnon just before the half ended. And, the Seminoles' defense kept West Virginia off the scoreboard after Willie Drewrey returned a punt 82 yards to the Florida State 7 early in the third quarter.

"That told us we could win the ball game," said Bowden.

GREG ALLEN, the nation's leading scorer with 21 touchdowns during the regular season, led all rushers with 138 yards on 15 carries.

Williams completed 16 of 30 passes for 202 yards, while West Virginia quarterback Jeff Hostetler hit only 10 of 28 for 118 yards and two interceptions.

Backup quarterback Kevin White directed the Mountaineers' only touchdown drive, a 9-play, 96-yard march that he completed with a 26-yard scoring pass to Darrell Miller.

The national championship probably will be decided New Year's night in the Sugar Bowl, where the only unbeaten and untied major college team, top-ranked Georgia, faces No. 2 Penn State. The Bulldogs, who won the national title by going unbeaten two years ago, are led by Heisman Trophy winner Herschel Walker and a staunch defense.

Penn State, 10-1, also has a star tailback in Curt Warner and quarterback Todd Blackledge leads a potent air game. The Nittany Lions also have a tough defense and enter the game a slight favorite.

IN THE Orange Bowl, also on New Year's night, No. 3 Nebraska, 10-1, pits its high-scoring offense against Louisiana State's rugged defense. The Cornhuskers, whose only loss this season came in the final seconds at Penn State, are hoping for a tie in the Sugar Bowl, combined with their own one-sided victory over the Tigers, 8-2-1 and ranked 13th. Given those circumstances, Nebraska could sneak to the top of the final rankings.

Southern Methodist, 10-0-1, is the host team against Pittsburgh, 9-2, in the Cotton Bowl on Saturday afternoon. The fourth-ranked Mustangs, champions of the Southwest Conference, have only a tie with Arkansas to mar their record and feature the rushing of Eric Dickerson and Craig James. No. 6 Pitt moves behind the quarterbacking of Dan Marino and a powerful offensive line.

The Rose Bowl on New Year's Day has Big Ten champ Michigan, 8-3 and rated 19th, with All-American wide receiver Anthony Carter, against Pacific 10 winner UCLA. The Bruins, 9-1-1 and ranked fifth, won at Michigan earlier this year but lost to the Wolverines in the Bluebonnet Bowl a year ago.

THE FIFTH New Year's game is the Fiesta Bowl, with No. 12 Oklahoma, 8-3, against Arizona State, 9-2 and ranked 11th. The Sooners have a super freshman running back in Marcus Dupree, who will test the Sun Devils' stingy defense.

Vanderbilt, 8-3, played Air Force, 7-5, in the Hall of Fame Bowl today. Iowa, 7-4, took on Tennessee, 6-4-1, in the Peach Bowl and, in a night game, it was No. 14 Arkansas, 8-2-1, against 8-3 Florida in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Perils of bowl picking: We like Horns over Heels

BATTLE SCENE

It's tough enough trying to beat the point spread during the regular season when continuity is the handicapper's ally.

With a month, or even two weeks lay off, bowl games are a mine field of booby traps. Look at last week's Sun Bowl game. After Texas licked Arkansas, 33-7, in the regular season finale, folks were labeling the Longhorns the "uncrowned Southwest Conference champions." Stumbling, bumbling North Carolina, on the other hand, staggered to the season's finish and seemed relieved it was all over.

The game had all the makings of a rout, but 26-10 Texas, not North Carolina.

We would have picked Texas and given points.

Forewarned of the perils, the reader proceeds at his own risk in the year-ending bowl classics...

Gator Bowl—Florida State minus 2 over West Virginia. Seminoles fared better against stern opposition. Or so we recall. The season's end was so long ago.

Hall of Fame Bowl—Air Force plus 9½ over Vanderbilt. The Falcons' football team has a higher-scoring average than its basketball team, well, would you believe hockey team? The only thing certain about this game is that, win or lose, Air Force will score 30 points. They have all year, no matter what the opposition. So, let's see, that gives us a 39½ point jump before they even kickoff.

[illegible] but so are Vols. SEC is supposed to be stronger than Big 10, so this ranks as an upset.

Bluebonnet Bowl—Florida plus 3½ over Arkansas. That Texas loss still sticks.

Fiesta Bowl—Football games are won by defense, especially when the home team possesses it. In flagarant defiance of "the book," we like Oklahoma minus 2 over Arizona State. Any team that couldn't put away Arizona with a Rose Bowl invitation at stake...

Cotton Bowl—Pitt over SMU in a game rated as a tossup. After what Penn State did to Pitt on national TV last month, it may be difficult for the Mustangs to take Panthers that seriously.

Rose Bowl—UCLA minus 3 over Michigan. The Pac-10 has so dominated this game of late, some feel that the Granddaddy of Them All is suffering a loss of prestige in continuing its obligatory arrangement with the Big 10. It's not the same league it was when the old PCC finally got the Big 10 on the dotted line back in the 1940's.

Orange Bowl—LSU plus 10½ over Nebraska. The bigger odds might be whether either makes it to the game in view of the rioting in the area.

Sugar Bowl—Georgia plus three over Penn State. Apparently, the guys who put their money where there mouth is, don't think much of the "experts" who rate these teams. No. 1 Georgia is listed as a three-point underdog to No. 2 Penn State. We like the points.

Rattlers rally to down Lee

CLOVIS, N.M. — The Tucumcary Rattlers posted a big fourth quarter rally Thursday night to defeat the Midland Lee Rebels 55-48 and in the process claimed third place in the seventh annual Clovis Holiday Basketball Tournament here.

Rattlers Rod David, Mike Downs and Rusty Wilcox each broke into the double digit column with 17, 16 and 12 points respectively while Lee was paced by Alvin Henry with 18 and Derek Westbrook with 12. Rebel Tod Brown, who scored four points in the final night of the three-day tournament, was the only Lee player named to the All-Tournament team.

Lee trailed Tucumcary 17-16 after the first quarter of play but came back in the second to take a 34-28 lead and extended it to 44-36 after three. The fourth quarter was a disaster for the Rebels as the Rattlers ripped off 19 points while holding Lee to only four to claim the 55-48 victory.

Greenwood girls rip Lake View, 59-38

Belinda Duke's 24 points, combined with 16 more from teammate Renvy Evans, set the pace for a Greenwood girls victory Thursday night against San Angelo Lake View, 59-38, and upped the Rangers season record to 15-1.

In junior varsity action, Lake View turned the tables for a 57-38 victory.

On Tuesday, Greenwood will host Iraan at 6:30 p.m.

Many financial corporations invest in international markets — Paris — London — the Orient. Money deposited in a money market fund may earn a good rate of return, but if it makes the French Connection, Paris benefits — not Midland.

A minimum balance of $2500 in a First National Money Market Account allows you to earn money market rates while your dollars remain at home, working as hard as [illegible] secured by [illegible] insurance.

Break the connection. Earn money market rates, securely at First National. Keep your investment home, for good!

Memphis State escapes Mississippi, 63-58

By The Associated Press

Coach Dana Kirk and his undefeated Memphis State Tigers may have had a little too long to think about this one.

Idle for a week, the second-ranked Tigers escaped with a 63-58 victory Thursday night at Mississippi, and Kirk said defense had been a point of worry in this slow-starting contest.

"Ole Miss is a very good team, and Coach (Lee) Hunt has done an excellent job with the basketball program," Kirk said. "They play a very intense man-to-man defense. We thought for several days about what type of defense to use against them."

The Rebels trailed by just three points, 61-58, with five seconds left on a 20-footer by Carlos Clark. However, the Tigers hit two free throws after Mississippi was forced to foul as time dwindled.

"I think this game will give us some confidence," Hurt said. "Memphis State is ranked second in the nation, and we played them right to the wire."

Forward Bobby Parks led Memphis State with 17 points, while sophomore Keith Lee was held to 12. Clark led the Rebels with 22 points, despite getting only four shots in the first half.

"Our man-to-man defense was the key to this game," Kirk said.

Mississippi's last lead was at 8-6 with 9:41 left in the first half. Lee gave Memphis State the lead for good 41 seconds later, and the Tigers led 27-19 at the half.

The rest of the nationally ranked teams in action Thursday night were involved in tournaments. Top-ranked Indiana won its own inaugural Hoosier Tournament, beating Nebraska 67-50, and fourth-ranked Virginia captured the Richmond Times-Dispatch Invitational with a 75-59 victory over Old Dominion.

Defending champion North Carolina beat No. 12 Missouri 73-58 to win the Rainbow Classic. No. 16 Villanova downed San Diego State 63-57 in the title game of the Cabrillo Classic, while No. 19 Tulsa was upset 96-80 by Florida State in the consolation game.

Top Ten

Randy Wittman scored 19 points and helped Indiana run away from Nebraska in the final 10 minutes of first half of the Hoosier Classic at Indianapolis. Indiana, 10-0, finished the first 20 minutes with an 18-4 burst that took the life out of Nebraska, 7-2. Indiana led 28-17 at halftime, and the Huskers trailed by 11 points with 12 minutes left in the game. But 7-foot-2 Uwe Blab came off the bench to score nine points in a 20-10 spurt that carried the Hoosiers home.

Virginia got 21 points, 15 rebounds and seven blocked shots from Ralph Sampson en route to an easy victory over Old Dominion in the title game of the Richmond tournament. Sampson's seven rejections gave him 400 in his career. Virginia, 10-1, reeled off 11 straight points during a 3½-minute stretch in the first half to take a 13-3 lead, and never looked back.

Second Ten

Sam Perkins scored a game-high 22 points to lead North Carolina over Missouri, which had beaten the Tar Heels earlier in the season. The North Carolina center, who won most valuable player honors, got support from forward Michael Jordan, who scored 19 points.

Missouri, which fell top 9-2, was led by guard Jon Sundvold with 20.

Freshman Waymon Tisdale scored 44 points as Oklahoma whipped host Hawaii 96-85 in the consolation game.

Center John Pinone scored four of his 22 points from the foul line in the closing minutes to help Villanova tame a San Diego State rally and win the Cabrillo Classis at San Diego. The Aztecs trailed 59-55 with about seven minutes left before Pinone went to the foul line to keep the Wildcats, 6-2, in the lead. Ed Pinckney added 16 points, and John Martens paced San Diego State with 16.

Vince Martello scored 23 points in Florida State's upset of Tulsa, which dropped to 5-3 with its second loss in two nights. Florida State outscored Tulsa 22-5 in the final 13 minutes of the first half to break a 29-29 tie and lead 51-36 with 20 minutes left.

Tournaments

Vern Fleming scored 23 points to pace Georgia to a 90-69 victory over Western Kentucky in the title game of the Cotton States Classic at Atlanta. Russell Cross scored five points from the free-throw down the stretch to help Purdue to a 61-60 victory over previously unbeaten Stetson for the championship of the Tangerine Bowl at Winter Park, Fla.

Camp Goldbolt hit a 15-foot jumper with 51 seconds left, then sank two more free throws to boost Holy Cross over Iona, 66-65, in the championship game of the Shawmut Worcester County Classic. Harold Keeling's 21 points paced Santa Clara to a 90-72 victory over American University for the title in the Cable Car Classic in Santa Clara, Calif.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Young recruited to coach Army

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Jim Young, former head football coach at Purdue University and the University of Arizona, was named the new head coach at the United States Military Academy Thursday.

Young, 47, becomes Army's 30th head coach, succeeding Ed Cavanaugh, who was dismissed after the Cadets posted a 4-7 record in his third year.

"We are happy to have Jim Young," said Carl Ullrich, athletic director for the military academy. "He received an extended contract, perhaps the longest one ever given to an Army coach."

Young posted a 69-32-1 record in nine years as a head coach. He was 31-13 from 1973-76 at Arizona and then 38-19-1 from 1977-81 at Purdue. He took the Boilermakers to three bowl games and won all of them.

Seven Cowboys on Pro Bowl roster

DALLAS (AP) — Seven members of the Dallas Cowboys have been named to the National Football Conference roster for the 1983 Pro Bowl.

Five of the all-pro selections will start in the Feb. 6 contest, which will be played in Honolulu.

The honorees include quarterback Danny White, who will be making his first trip to the post-season contest.

Offensive starters will be running back Tony Dorsett, currently the leading rusher in the National Football League, and tackle Pat Donovan, who will be playing in his fourth Pro Bowl. It is the third time Dorsett has been named to the team.

Cowboys' starters on defense will be end Ed "Too Tall" Jones, tackle Randy White and second-year cornerback Everson Walls, who made the team in 1981 after leading the NFL in interceptions during his rookie year. Walls again leads the league in pickoffs heading into the final week of regular-season play.

Jones will be making his second Pro Bowl appearance. White has been named to the team five times previously.

Danny White will back up Joe Theismann of Washington at quarterback for the NFC. Bob Breunig, making his third appearance in the Pro Bowl, is listed behind the New York Giants' Harry Carson at middle linebacker.

Rozelle turns down Modell's request

CLEVELAND (AP) — A request by Cleveland Browns majority owner Art Modell for a rule change to prevent a tie in the Buffalo-New England game Sunday has been turned down by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

If Buffalo and New England tie Sunday and the Browns lose in Pittsburgh, Cleveland would be eliminated from the NFL playoffs.

Okie gas flares lit up the sky

OKLAHOMA OIL
Fifth in a Series

By BILL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY — The natural gas that produced such spectacular gushers in the Oklahoma City field was nothing but a bother to the early oil men who preferred to get rid of it quickly and pump their oil.

Although the Egyptians and Greeks had piped gas to their temples to fuel the eternal fires as much as 2,000 years ago, it was not until the 1800s that natural gas was used commercially in the United States, according to "Drill Bits, Picks, and Shovels," a publication of the Oklahoma Historical Society.

In 1821, gas from a 27-foot well fueled 30 burners in Freedonia, N.Y., and in 1872 Titusville, Pa., became the first community in the nation to be piped for natural gas.

In addition to not wanting to use the gas to push the crude oil out, there was no technology available at the time to store the tremendous amounts of gas found in many Oklahoma oil fields.

Although the first pipelines were constructed in Indian Territory by the turn of the century, the trend until the 1930s was to get rid of the gas by letting it escape into the atmosphere.

In the Cushing Field, the venting produced dangers since the gas would collect in low areas, particularly on damp, cloudy days. Automobiles often would ignite these pockets with deadly results, and signs were posted to warn motorists of the possibility of gas pockets ahead.

There were estimates that 1,200 trillion cubic feet of natural gas had been wasted in the Oklahoma City Field by 1935, nearly as much as had been shipped to customers by the nation's natural gas industry the previous year. By 1940, the field had produced 800 billion cubic feet of natural gas, well below what reportedly was wasted up to 1935.

"Many producers flared the gas as they concentrated on crude oil production," the Historical Society's publication says. "In fact, nighttime in many active pools would almost appear as light as day, illuminated by the massive burning of gas in the area."

A number of small companies were set up to produce "casinghead gasoline," also referred to as natural gasoline. This consists of liquids found in "wet" natural gas.

"Wet" natural gas is that which is produced in combination with crude oil, while "dry" natural gas is not produced in association with crude.

The advent of mass production of automobiles overtaxed the ability of refineries to produce gasoline, and a demand was created for "casinghead gasoline."

Some of this "casinghead gasoline" condensed at the wellhead and could be used without further treatment. But usually it was necessary to process the gas to extract the liquids, and this most often was done by small companies operating near the oil fields.

This wild "casinghead gasoline" then was shipped by rail to refineries where it was blended with naptha or kerosene to produce gasoline.

Tanker cars were not built to handle such a volatile liquid and numerous explosions occurred. The worst was on Sept. 27, 1915, when one or more tank cars of casinghead gasoline exploded at Ardmore, killing 47 people, injuring more than 500 and wrecking the downtown area.

By 1929 the technology for long-distance, high-pressure lines had been developed, and these ultimately would open the Northeast to Oklahoma's natural gas.

Magnatex gears up, buys properties

Magnatex Corporation of Midland has completed its reorganization of the company and has acquired oil and gas properties from certain partnerships and joint ventures previously organized by the oil division of the company.

The move is expected to increase the company's oil and gas revenues by approximately 40 percent, "creating a broader base for expansion of the company," said Charles H. Priddy, president and chief executive officer.

The amount of the transaction was not disclosed.

The changes were made in order to capture current income and place the company in a better position to make other acquisitions and for possible future public financing, William C. Morrow, executive vice president, said Thursday.

Through several subsidiaries, Magnatex is engaged in oil and gas exploration and production, real estate development, primarily along Loop 250, fuel and lubricant distribution in the Permian Basin and injection molding of plastic products.

The reorganization involved the merger of Magnatex Industries Inc. into Magnatex Corporation, a Delaware corporation formed in 1981. Magnatex Corporation becomes the new parent company.

Magnatex Petroleum Company, formerly a division, becomes the oil and gas segment of Magnatex Corp. It has activity in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Michigan, West Virginia, and the Williston Basin of South Dakota, North Dakota and Wyoming. The company operates around 25 wells in the West Texas area and has interests in 243 oil and 121 gas wells, and in approximately 50,000 net undeveloped acres, in eight states.

In recent years, about 25 percent of the parent company's revenues have come from oil and gas, but with the changes announced, company officials expect that percentage to increase.

"We feel the future growth of the company will be directed to the oil and gas exploration and production area," Morrow said.

Other Magnatex subsidiaries are Starr Gas Company and Fidelity Oil Company, which distribute fuel oil and lubricants to oil and gas exploration and service industries in West Texas and Southeast New Mexico; Texas Plastic Industries Inc., which engages in injection molding of plastic products on a contract basis and of proprietary products for its own account; and the Real Estate Division, which engages in residential and commercial development, primarily in Midland County.

The firm is responsible for Saddle Club North, Saddle Club Lakes and Saddle Club Ranch Estates, as well as developing a shopping center on the southeast corner of Loop 250 and Midkiff. Ground breaking on the latter recently commenced and construction will continue through 1983.

Magnatex Corporation is a reporting company registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission with approximately 150 shareholders.

Officers are Priddy, president; Morrow, executive vice president; Ray P. Moudy, senior vice president-real estate; Michael G. Cook, vice president-oil and gas; James M. Coalter, vice president, treasurer and chief financial officer; and Yvonne Scarbrough, secretary.

Directors are Priddy, Morrow, Moudy, and William S. Bachman, William B. Blakemore II, James Allan Clark, Sidney S. Lindley, George R. Locker, Marshall S. McCrea Jr., Herschel O'Kelley, James L. Pardue, James P. Simmons, Allen K. Trobaugh, Michael Waris Jr., and Edward B. Weyman.

Gas exec asks companies to aid poor

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The best way for Congress to help low income consumers meet rising energy bills this winter is to fully fund low income fuel assistance programs, an executive of the natural gas industry said today.

In testimony before the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, American Gas Association President George H. Lawrence emphasized that natural gas utilities have been and are continuing to be concerned over the impact of rising prices, particularly on the low or fixed income consumer.

Lawrence said A.G.A. member companies have set up private energy funds made up of either shareholder money alone, or in conjunction with contributions from industry and consumers "in order to help those people who cannot pay their bills."

He noted, however, that these private fuel aid programs could be negated by Federal Supplimental Security Income rules which reduce SSI payments to those who receive private aid funds. "There is little flexibility in the current law to allow outside payments to SSI recipients," he said. "An amendment to the SSI law is necessary to preserve both the full SSI payment and the private fuel aid program," Lawrence said.

Lawrence emphasized that A.G.A. member companies "are committed to meeting the energy needs of their customers and support full funding for the Federal fuel aid program."

He pointed to two "roots causes" of recent gas price increases. They are the depletion of old, relatively inexpensive gas reserves which must be replaced by more expensive new gas supplies and high take-or-pay obligations in contracts for new gas.

These take-or-pay clauses require pipelines to pay for large volumes of expensive gas whether or not the gas can be sold.

Donoghue's Money Fund Average (Averages for all 224 taxable funds) — 36 | 8.1 | 8.2

Yields represent annualized total return to shareholders for past seven and thirty day period. Past returns are not necessarily indicative of future yields. Investment quality and maturity may vary among funds. x average term to next rate adjustment date. Reprinted in condensed form with permission from Donoghue's MONEY FUND REPORT of Holliston, MA 01746.

Assets of the 224 taxable money funds reported by Donoghue's MONEY FUND REPORT decreased $6.4 billion to $207.8 billion for the week ending December 29, 1982.

The funds 7-day average yield declined to 8.09% from 8.15%. The funds 30-day average yield fell slightly to 8.22% from 8.28%.

The funds average maturity figure fell two days to 36 days following one week at 38 days.

Publisher William E. Donoghue says, "Money fund assets fell $6.4 billion this week compared to a record $8.6 billion last week. The eleven largest stockbroker affiliated funds continue to account for approximately one-half of this outflow. It appears, however that the brokers sales efforts may have peaked as the amount of money leaving the stockbroker money funds declined from last week.

The funds average maturity figure has dropped by three days in the past three weeks reflecting the funds need for liquidity in the face of record redemptions. Because the money funds have continually stressed their liquidity the industry has been able to handle these record redemptions without a hitch.

Seasonal factors, the high introductory rates offered in conjunction with the banks money market deposit account and the higher yields offered by some money market instruments all contributed to this week's asset outflow."

Housing industry riding comeback trail, index of economic indicators rises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The long-awaited comeback by the housing industry is here and growing stronger by the month, new government figures are indicating.

The latest evidence: a 12 percent November spurt in sales of new single-family houses.

Last month's sales level — 569,000 at an annual rate — was the highest for any month in two years, according to Thursday's Commerce Department report.

Earlier reports had shown new house construction also rising quickly as interest rates were dropping during the fall.

With prospective buyers surging back into the housing market, prices could be expected to rise, too. And they did in November — to a record median price of $74,200 for new houses.

But with home loan rates down four or more percentage points from July's level of over 17 percent, industry spokesmen indicated they did not think buyers would be scared off.

"This sales level is sustainable for a while," said Mark Riedy, executive vice president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America.

In other economic developments Thursday:

—The Commerce Department said its Index of Leading Indicators, the main government economic forecasting gauge, rose 0.8 percent in November, the seventh gain in eight months. White House spokesman Larry Speakes called the increase "an adequate encouragement that the economy will recover from the current recession."

—The Labor Department reported that Americans' initial claims for unemployment benefits rose to 544,000 in the week ended Dec. 18 from 533,000 the previous week. The new level was still far below the 600,000-plus figures reported during most of the fall.

—The Investment Company Institute, a trade group, said assets of money market mutual funds dropped $6.5 billion in the week that ended Wednesday, a decline second only to the previous week's $8.3 billion. Money fund assets now stand at $210.9 billion.

—The stock market dropped in light pre-holiday trading, with the Dow-Jones average of 30 industrials declining 12.23 to 1,047.37.

Riedy, the mortgage lenders spokesman, said the housing revival could help the overall economy toward recovery from the long recession. He noted, as have government officials and other private analysts, that when people buy houses they tend to buy other durable goods such as furniture, appliances and carpeting as well.

"This is one more piece of the puzzle" that should help bring general recovery, he said.

The November sales rate was a full 62 percent higher than the 352,000 rate recorded last July, just before interest rates began falling.

Home loan rates, which were above 17 percent in July, have now dropped under 14 percent in many communities, industry spokesmen say.

U.S. automakers finally showing black ink again

DETROIT (AP) — The domestic auto industry closes the books today on its first profitable year in the last three, with 1982 earnings expected to top $500 million despite depressed car sales, analysts said.

The last time the four major U.S. automakers reported an overall profit was in 1979, when they earned $3.03 billion, analysts said Thursday. That was the year the industry's sales slump began.

Analysts said 1982 profits at General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. will be larger than losses expected at Ford Motor Co. and American Motors Corp.

But the profits do not come from improved U.S. car sales. They stem from payroll cuts, including indefinite layoff of more than 269,000 U.S. workers, income tax credits, healthy subsidiaries and streamlined factory practices.

Car sales in 1982 were an estimated 5.7 million, off about 8 percent from 1981's already dismal 6.2 million.

In 1979, the last profitable year, U.S. car sales totaled 8.3 million. Sales have declined ever since, and the automakers lost a total of $5.5 billion from 1980 through 1981.

"They (U.S. automakers) have cut their break-even points drastically," said John Hammond, analyst at Data Resources Inc. in Lexington, Mass. "They have done more than any other industry because they have had the problems (of a sluggish economy) longer."

"It's significant," said David Healy, analyst at Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. in New York. "Next year will bring a large improvement in profits and sales" for the automakers because of a slight but growing upturn in sales and the efficiencies and payroll cuts that are in place.

In the first nine months of 1982, the domestic industry had a $510.8 million profit.

Analysts said they expect GM, with profits of $817.7 million for the first nine months of 1982, to end the year with a profit of nearly $1 billion. GM would earn at least $110 million and possibly more than $150 million for the fourth quarter, they said.

GM earned just $333 million in 1981, compared with $2.89 billion in 1979. Results for 1982 will be helped by record earnings for its finance and insurance subsidiary, General Motors Acceptance Corp., and income tax credits because of lower earnings.

Ford, the most financially troubled automaker this year, will be in the red for both the last quarter and the year, analysts agreed. Ford lost $422.5 million in the first nine months of 1982 and could lose at least $150 million in the fourth quarter, according to analysts at Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc. in New York. Healy put the loss at about $180 million.

Either way, it means Ford will lose close to $600 million for the year. Ford lost $1.06 billion in 1981 compared with a $1.17 billion profit in 1979.

Chrysler made a $266.2 million profit in the first nine months of 1982, largely by selling its profitable defense subsidiary to General Dynamics Corp. of St. Louis for $336 million in March.

Chrysler will probably end the year with about the same amount of profit because, Healy said, the automaker probably will break even in the fourth quarter.

Trading light, dollar mixed, gold lower

LONDON (AP) — The dollar was mixed early today in light end-of-year trading on Europe's money markets. Gold was lower.

Dealers said investors were nervous about Brazil's financial situation, following reports a day earlier that the nation might become insolvent by March 1, leaving its large debt unpaid.

In Tokyo, where trading ends before Europe's business day gets under way, the dollar rose to a closing 235.30 yen from 233.75 Thursday. Later in London, the dollar was quoted at 235.00 yen.

London's five bullion dealers fixed an indicative price of $448 a Troy ounce for gold, compared with $453.50 late Thursday.

In Zurich, the precious metal was quoted at a median $450.75 an ounce, compared with $460 the day before.

Earlier in Hong Kong, gold fell $3.94 to close at $452.42.

In New York Thursday, gold fell $12 to close at $449.

Silver bullion was traded in London at $11 a Troy ounce.

CITY WIDE ELECTRIC

Joe Fussell, owner of City Wide Electric Co., has based his philosophy during more than 12 years in business on quality service. Joe and his wife Linda wish to thank all their friends for their support during the past year, and pledge to continue to bring their customers the very finest in electrical repair and maintenance. Give Joe a call at 684-6621 and talk to him about your electrical requirements.

City Wide says 'thanks'

Joe and Linda Fussell of City Wide Electric Co. extend their best wishes for a happy New Year to their friends and customers. "We'd like to thank our friends for their support during the past year," says Joe, "and want them know we're looking forward to serving them in the future."

City Wide Electric Co. is a business which is based on service, and Joe has been providing Midlanders with quality service for more than 12 years.

"We do all kinds of electrical work," says Joe, "but we specialize in electrical repair and maintenance."

Joe says that calls are welcome from mobile home owners, and City Wide can take care of power hookups and wiring for your mobile home quickly and efficiently.

When you need electrical work of any kind done, call City Wide at 684-6621. Joe says that City Wide constantly strives to offer customers the latest in electrical services and techniques. This practice of keeping up with the industry means that City Wide can offer up-to-the-minute service for the most modern electrical systems. If you have an electrical problem, Joe and City Wide together can handle it. Give him a call today.

MARC for outstanding photography

MARC Camera, P9 Imperial Shopping Center offers an outstanding selection of camers and photographic supplies for both the amateur and the professional photographer. There is an excellent selection of cameras, including Kodak, Canon, Olympus, Minolta, Pentax and Konica.

In addition to cameras, MARC stocks supplies, accessories and lenses, as well as Omega enlargers. Tripods, gadget bags, books and darkroom supplies are also available.

MARC also has classes in basic photography and basic lighting. Black and white darkroom facilities are available for rent so you can process your black and white film yourself.

Linda Hannifin and store manager Jeff Wilson will be glad to help you with your selection of cameras, photographic supplies and will answer any questions you may have about them.

MARC Camera prepares instant passport pictures in color. The small photographs are also acceptable on immigration and naturalization papers and suitable for professional resumes.

MARC's local color finishin is done by D & D Photo, Inc., of Odessa. This results in quick service for developing and printing. Enlargement and slide work are done by Kodak.

If you need a quick copy print from a slide, either black and white or color, MARC has a new Pola-Priter system from Polaroid that will do the job for you in a hurry.

Wilson has had an extensive background in photography and his experience and technical knowledge are always available to help you with your photographic problems and camera needs. Come by Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Thursday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Countries plan to drill

HOUSTON — Japan and the Soviet Union plan to resume drilling next spring off the U.S.S.R.'s Sakhalin Island, in an exploration program that is about a year behind schedule because of the now-lifted U.S. embargo on the export of U.S. technology to the Soviets.

Petroleum Information International, in its Dec. 20 issue, says lifting of the embargo came too late for a resumption of drilling off the island this year because the drilling rig being used by the venture cannot operate in severe winter weather.

The Japanese are providing the exploration capital under an agreement signed in 1975. By the end of the 1983 drilling season, the Japanese will have invested between $150 million and $200 million in the venture, PI International says.

The Japanese — U.S.S.R. joint venture had planned to drill six exploratory wells this year to test the Odoptu structure, site of previous oil and gas discoveries. But only two wells were completed prior to the embargo, which had been aimed primarily at preventing the use of American technology in the construction of the pipeline that will transport natural gas from Siberia to Western Europe.

The venture's plans for 1983 call for the drilling of five or six wells, using the Ocha, a Russian-owned rig which drilled the previous wells, and possibly the Hakaryu 11, a Japanese-owned semi-submersible rig now operating in Japanese waaters, PI International says.

Of 20 wells drilled off Sakhalin Island since 1976, 12 have resulted in oil or gas discoveries.

Three anti-nuclear protesters, part of a single line of demonstrators staging a sit-in outside the U.S. air base at Upper Heyford, Oxfordshire, England, Friday, are linked by a web of wool (a symbol of their anti-nuclear movement) as they sit under the watchful eye of a policeman.

U.N. reports 42,000 children die each day

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Each day during 1982, the United Nations estimates, nearly 42,000 children died in parts of the world lacking clean water, safe sanitation and adequate medical care.

James Grant, head of the U.N. Children's Fund (UNICEF), while conceding accurate statistics are hard to obtain in the underdeveloped world, believes the estimate may even be on the conservative side.

Using all available demographic data, including births and deaths recorded at scattered clinics and hospitals, the U.N. Population Division and World Health Organization calculated that with 122 million births, 15.3 million children, from newborn infants to four-year-olds, died during the year.

Out of 10.3 million deaths of infants, up to the age of 1 year, 10 million occurred in less developed countries. Of the remaining 5 million deaths — in the 1-4 age group — almost all happened in these countries, U.N. statistics show.

Nearly 3 million of the infants, below one year of age, according to these figures, died in India alone and another 3 million elsewhere in Asia, excluding Japan and China. Africa accounted for 2.6 million of the toll; Latin America and China about 800,000 each.

EVERY SIX SECONDS somewhere in the underdeveloped world, a child dies because of diarrhea.

The illness, which induces dehydration and rapid weight loss, kills an estimated 5 million children annually, making it "by far the biggest single cause of death among the developing world's children," Grant reports.

Measles, diphtheria, tetanus, poliomyelitis and tuberculosis — for which comparatively cheap vaccines have been developed — kill another 5 million a year, tetanus accounting for a million and whooping cough 600,000.

A child in a poor community, lacking clean water and other sanitary safeguards, suffers from between six and sixteen bouts of diarrhea each year.

A vicious cycle develops. Whooping cough and measles can induce or worsen malnutrition. A malnourished child who contracts measles is 400 times more likely to die of the disease.

In a departure from the usual bureaucratic prose used by U.N. agencies, Grant wrote in his annual "State of the World's Children 1982-83" report:

"No statistic can express what it is to see even one child die in such a way; to see a mother sitting hour after anxious hour leaning her child's body against her own; to see the child's head turn on limbs which are unnaturally still, stiller than in sleep; to want to stop even that small movement because it is so obvious that there is so little energy left inside the child's life; to see the living pink at the roof of the child's mouth in shocking contrast to the already dead-looking greyness of the skin, the colors of its life and death; to see the uncomprehending panic in eyes which are still the clear and lucid eyes of a child; and then to know, in one endless moment, that life has gone."

HEADING INTO THE New Year, Grant is hoping to replace the old, heart-rending image of the starving child, with spindly limbs and bloated belly, since most of the malnutrition plaguing youngsters in poverty-stricken nations is not so dramatically apparent.

"Today," Grant wrote in his report, "an invisible malnutrion touches the lives of approximately one quarter of the developing world's young children. It quietly steals away their energy; it gently restrains their growth; it gradually lowers their resistance."

In half the cases, he wrote, malnutrition is not caused by lack of food but by intestinal parasites, fever and infection, especially from diarrhea.

For each child that died, Grant wrote, "six now live on in a hunger and ill-health which will be forever etched upon their lives."

Elaborating, Grant told a reporter: "What we are trying to say is that an underfed child is one which is less alert for learning, much more susceptible to disease — like a plant that comes up yellow."

UNICEF, in the face of worldwide recession, is aiming to reduce the number of infant deaths by at least 5 million annually by 1990.

In his report, Grant prescribed what he called four relatively inexpensive and simple measures to cut down on child deaths:

— REVERSAL OF THE "disastrous trend" from breast to bottle feeding in poor areas with unsafe water supplies and sanitation.

— Treatment with a solution of sugar and salt of children suffering from dehydration as a result of diarrhea. The addition of glucose to a solution of salt and water has been found to increase the body's rate of absorption of the fluid by 2,500 percent.

— Immunization of all children against measles, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, poliomyelitis and tuberculosis.

— Monthly weighing of children and maintenance of child-growth charts to detect cases of hidden malnutrition.

China, U.S.S.R. to begin talks in January

PEKING (AP) — China and the Soviet Union will begin talks in early January to set the date for the next round of consultations in Moscow on improving relations between the two communist giants, diplomatic sources said today.

The consultations — China says they are not formal talks — are not expected until after the Chinese Spring Festival in mid-February, and possibly not until March, said the sources, who declined to be further identified.

The first round of consultations was held in October in Peking. It was the first political dialogue since China broke off normalization talks after the Soviet incursion into Afghanistan in December 1979.

The first meetings yielded no tangible results but opened the way to further discussions, to be held alternately in Peking and Moscow.

China and the Soviet Union were close allies in the 1950s, but their relationship grew increasingly strained over ideological differences and a border dispute. The Soviets now deploy an estimated 1 million soldiers along the China-Soviet frontier.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz will visit China Feb. 2 in efforts to improve Chinese-U.S. relations, strained over U.S. arms sales to Taiwan and other issues.

Taiwan is seat of the rival Nationalist government which fled the mainland in 1949 after the Communists triumphed in China's civil war. Peking regards the island as a renegade province and has demanded the U.S. arms sales stop.

Though China says its relations with the United States and Soviet Union are unrelated, most foreign diplomats believe the Shultz visit will have an impact on how China proceeds in consultations with the Soviets.

China maintains it is carrying out an independent, Third World-oriented foreign policy. It says it will not attach itself to either superpower and will not allow Moscow or Washington to use Peking as a bargaining chip in Soviet-American relations.

"To hold consultations with the Soviets before Shultz's visit would certainly taint the atmosphere of the Sino-American talks," said one foreign diplomatic observer. "There already is some anxiety in some U.S. quarters about Sino-Soviet dialogue and China calling both the Americans and Soviets hegemonists."

The new Soviet leader, Yuri V. Andropov, has said the Soviets value good relations with Peking.

China sent a high-ranking delegation to the funeral of Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev and a high-level delegation to the Soviet Embassy to mark the 60th anniversary of the founding of the Soviet state. It did not send a delegation to Moscow but sent warm congratulations and said both sides should negotiate and take steps toward normalization.

U.S.S.R. likely to develop mobile nuclear missiles for survivability

WASHINGTON (AP) — As U.S. missiles become increasingly accurate, the Soviet Union is likely to try to make its nuclear missiles more mobile to ensure their survivability, a new study says.

The Soviet interest in mobility contrasts with the Reagan administration proposal to house the new U.S. MX nuclear missile in stationary silos, which the Pentagon says can be sufficiently "super-hardened" to permit some American weapons to survive an attack.

The Soviets are also interested in "hardened" silos, but improved technology on both sides may make stationary missiles obsolete, according to the five-year study by the Brookings Institution.

The United States and the Soviet Union have each built silos for their land-based missiles that are "hardened" to permit the weapons to withstand the shock and blast of a nearby nuclear strike and still be able to fire.

But the increasing accuracy of the Soviet missiles has made vulnerable the U.S. force of 1,000 Minuteman and 51 Titan missiles, according to President Reagan and the Pentagon.

The administration has proposed building 100 MX missiles and putting them in 100 "super-hardened" silos near Cheyenne, Wyo., in a "dense pack" formation. The theory is that incoming Soviet missiles would knock each other out.

The Pentagon says MX silos can be hardened to withstand blast pressures of up to 10,000 pounds per square inch, compared to the 1,000 to 2,000 pound limits for the Minuteman silos.

But the Soviets are worried about the same problem, the study notes, adding that "once certain accuracy thresholds have been crossed, confidence in silo hardness would become fairly low."

"The USSR is thus more likely to place emphasis on a new mobile solid-fuel ICBM that is under development," the study concluded. ICBMs are intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The Brookings study also said development of new American missiles could cause the Soviets to abandon attempts at arms controls and lead to a wide-open weapons race.

One key Soviet worry is likely to be a ballistic missile defense system, the study said.

"Undoubtedly, the desirability of deploying anti-ballistic missile defenses will be a major question in the 1980s," said the study by the Washington-based research group.

The study noted that besides the MX, the United States is developing the long-range Trident II missiles for its new generation of submarines and also plans to deploy nuclear-tipped Pershing II and cruise missiles in western Europe late next year.

Those improvements in Western nuclear forces will force a Soviet decision "as to whether the USSR should continue adherence to the strategic arms control agreements or return to unconstrained arms competition with the West," the study concluded.

The two sides have reached two agreements, SALT I and SALT II, limiting various type of nuclear weapons and new talks began last June. Even though SALT II was never ratified by the U.S. Senate, Reagan has agreed to live up to its terms as long as the Soviets do.

In addition, a 1972 treaty limited anti-ballistic missile systems remains in force.

Soviet troops fire on soldiers of Afghan regime, source says

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Soviet troops fired on a group of Afghan government soldiers at Kabul airport, apparently mistaking them for anti-communist Moslem insurgents, a well-informed source said today.

The source said the firefight occurred Tuesday, but details remained sketchy. He said he had no word of casualties, but speculated that they might be high because the Afghan soldiers returned fire.

The source, who declined to be identified, said he obtained his information from an Afghan refugee who crossed the Pakistan frontier at Peshawar.

No other details were immediately known and it was not possible to confirm the report because the Afghanistan government restricts coverage of the conflict.

The Kremlin has poured more than 100,000 troops into Afghanistan in a 3-year-old effort to aid the Marxist Afghan government in its war with Moslem fundamentalist rebels opposed to communist rule.

Dispute over role of U.S. in talks surfaces between Israel, Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A new dispute surfaced today between Lebanon and Israel over the role of United States in talks on a withdrawal of foreign forces from Lebanon, Lebanese officials said.

"Israel contends the talks are direct negotiations between Lebanon and Israel, with the United States participating as a witness or observer," one official said. "Lebanon insists the United States is a full participant and partner in tripartite talks."

The official, who declined to be named in keeping with Lebanese government rules, said the dispute surfaced in differing communiques issued by the Israeli and Lebanese delegations after the second round of talks in the Israeli border town of Kiryat Shmona Thursday.

An Israeli communique referred to "talks between Israel and Lebanon with the participation of the United States," while the Lebanese communique said "the three delegations resumed talks..." according to the official texts of the communiques published today.

"The discrepancy in the texts showed that Israel does not consider the United States an equal partner in the talks. Lebanon insists on American participation on equal footing," the official said.

There was no immediate Israeli or American comment on the dispute and it was not known if it would interfere with the scheduled resumption of talks Monday in the southern Beirut suburb of Khalde.

Lebanese and Israeli officials said after Thursday's meeting in Kiryat Shmona that no compromise could be worked out over the other stumbling block in the talks. The problem involves Israel's demand, and Lebanon's refusal, that establishment of normal relations between the two countries be discussed before the withdrawal and security issues.

The six-man Lebanese delegation to the talks reported on the deadlock to President Amin Gemayel and Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan Thursday night.

Postmaster announces appointment of officer in charge

Retiring Postmaster D.E. Holster today announced the appointment of Stan Sartain as officer in charge of the Midland Post Office, effective Saturday.

Holster, who announced his retirement earlier this year, said that Sartain will serve in this position approximately two to three weeks until a new postmaster for Midland is appointed by Postmaster General William F. Bolger.

Sartain, 38, has served as manager of customer services in the Midland Post Office since February 1982. Previously he had been director of customer services for the Midland Management Sectional Center which includes 168 post offices throughout West Texas.

Sartain said this morning that his being placed in charge is no indication he will be named as postmaster. Although he has interviewed for the permanent position, he expects someone from outside Midland to be named as Holster's replacement. "That's the way the trend has been going lately.

"The philosophy is that it's good to bring in fresh blood and someone with new ideas that might work a little better," Sartain said.

Announcement of Holster's successor should be made Wednesday or two weeks from Wednesday, he added. A replacement was to have been selected by the date of Holster's retirement. When officials failed to make the choice, Sartain — who is in the next highest ranking position to Holster — was chosen to fill in.

Sartain began his postal career in the Fort Worth Post Office as a substitute distribution clerk on Nov. 2, 1966. He became a management-trainee at the Fort Worth office Sept. 19, 1970, serving in that capacity until appointed assistant postmaster at College Station.

On April 28, 1973, he became assistant section center manager of customer services for the new sectional center at Bryan and served in that capacity until his transfer to Midland as director of customer of services for the Midland sectional center on Aug. 26, 1978.

He served in that position until Feb. 20, 1982, except for a tour of duty as director of customer services for the Houston Section Center from Oct. 21, 1980, to Jan. 10, 1981.

Midland has 350 postal employees serving at the Main Office and in three Classifed Stations and three Detached Post Office Box Units.

Sartain said he intends to operate the Midland postal units in a courteous, effective manner to serve the postal needs of Midland.

Stan Sartain has been named the interim head of the Midland Post Office, succeeding retiring Postmaster D.E. Holster. Midland rancher files suit over 'excessive' valuation of land

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

STANTON — A Midland rancher and his sister, whose 1982 taxes have been increased seven fold and who claim they were not duly notified of the "grossly excessive" valuation of their 27 sections of land in Martin County, have filed suit in 118th District Court here against Martin County officials and the Texas attorney general.

The suit's petition, lodged by rancher George H. Glass and his sister, Monta Jo Glass Johnson of Midland, alleges that their consitutional rights were violated by their denial of due process and equal protection of the law.

Defendants in the suit are Martin County and the county's tax assessor-collector, June Carpenter; the Stanton Independent School District and its tax assessor-collector, Corene Manning; the Martin County Appraisal District, and Texas Attorney General Mark White, who is governor-elect.

Glass claims he was not notified of the increased valuation of his ranch land, that he was not notified of the meeting of Martin County Appraisal District Review Board in May when he could have contested the valuations, and that he was not supplied with agricultural land-use forms which would have reduced valuation of his land from a high of $180 per acre for No. 1 native range land to $15 and from $144 per acre for No. 2 native range land to $7 per acre.

"THAT'S THE BEST grass land that we've got," Chief Appraiser Delbert Dickinson noted of the No. 1-rated range land. The agricultural values are based on production.

Due to the re-valuation of his land and his land not being declared under agricultural use in 1982, Glass is claiming that his combined county and school taxes here have increased from $5,491.82 in 1981 to $40,469.06 in 1982 and that the appraised value of the land has increased "well in excess" of $2¼ million. The county's appraised value increased nine times, and the school's seven times.

"Despite the substantial increases in appraised values from 1981 to 1982, Plaintiffs received no such notice of the proposed increase in appraised value," declares the petition, which was prepared by Midland lawyer Ted Kerr.

The Property Tax Code provides that landowners are to be delivered notices of the appraised values of their land and notices of the means to protest those valuations. However, the code also says that failure to receive notices does not affect the validity of the appraised land values or the taxes assessed.

Glass also claims he was not mailed Open-Space Land Application forms, which when completed and returned, would have placed his land in the agricultural-use category and would have reduced assessment of the land to $15 and $7 per acre. The assessment of agricultural land is based on productivity; otherwise, land is assessed at the prevailing fair market values.

CHIEF APPRAISER Dickinson said Thursday that he mailed 27 land-use forms to Glass at his Midland address either in late February or early March and mailed the notice of reappraisal and protest procedures in June. The Review Board met in July, and tax statements were mailed out in October.

The state of Texas only this year began requiring farmers and ranchers to formally declare their land as agricultural land if they want the built-in tax break. Otherwise, the appraised values, which in Martin County were made by Southwestern Appraisal Co. of Austin under contract with the chief appraiser, are set at fair-market values.

"It falls back on the landowner to do this (keep up with the law)," said Dickinson.

Nevertheless, the chief appraiser said he did mail the forms and notices to Glass. "But I did mail it," he said. "I don't know if Mr. Glass got it." Dickinson said he has no proof of the mailings other than the postage expense and the evidence of other landowners returning the completed land-use forms and meeting with the Review Board. However, he did admit that "quite a few" farmers and ranchers here failed to sign up for agricultural-land use for tax purposes but that several hundred landowners did declare their property as agricultural land. (Reportedly, approximately 500 landowners in adjoining Dawson County likewise failed to take advantage of that same provision.)

"All of them are in the same boat," Dickinson said. However, he noted that farmers and ranchers who did not take advantage of the agricultural land-use provision in 1982 may do so next year.

"WE SENT NOTICES to all people who had acreage," said Dickinson, who also noted that he extended the May 1 deadline for return of the forms by two months. He noted that other Midland ranchers, including Joe Mabee, Clarence Scharbauer and Frank Cowden, who have extensive land holdings in Martin County, returned land-use forms by mail or in person.

Both Dickinson and Kerr said Glass told them he did not receive the notices or forms.

Dickinson said he expected the new provisions of the tax code to be challenged.

"I knew it was going to be tried somewhere," he said.

Despite the conflict, Dickinson said he and Glass are on friendly terms. "I work for George as much as I do anybody else," he said. "I work for the people — the taxpayers. The entities pay my salary, and the taxpayers pay the entities."

"I don't take anything personal in this job," he said. Beyond following the law, "you don't have any powers at all except to listen to complaints.

"We're going to try to do what's right."

AFTER LOOKING over the petition, Martin County Attorney Robert S. Morris said: "It's the landowner's obligation" to become aware of the law and tax codes whether or not the landowner receives formal notices. "It's incumbent upon the landowner to be aware of the law.

"While we don't necessarily agree with everything in the tax code, we believe it's constitutional," Morris said. "The county will defend (its position) vigorously." Whatever the outcome of the case in trial court, Morris speculated the case "is going to be appealed either way." Presiding judge of the 118th State Judicial District Court here is Judge Jim Gregg of Big Spring.

Kerr said the Glass-Johnson suit would attack the constitutional validity of the notice provisions of the tax code ("We're really going after that.") and the out-of-line "confiscatory" valuations set on the Glass land. "I think we've got a solid point to present (in court)." The "hallmark" of the case is the concept of notice. He said Glass "swears he did not get" the notices or land-use forms.

"We hope the basic law, the constitution, will prevail," Kerr said.

The suit was not lodged "to avoid payment of taxes" but rather to protect Glass' and his sister's "rights to due process and equal protection of the law," which ensure taxpayers' right to protest "grossly excessive valuations" of land and other property.

In showing their "good faith," plaintiffs Glass and Ms. Johnson tendered payment of taxes — $5,491.82 — to the registry of the court and noted that they may be "entitled to a refund" if the amount is excessive. The tax rate decreased in 1982, although assessments were increased by law to fair-market values. The $5,491.82 payment is equal to the amount of taxes imposed on the 27 pieces of land in 1981: $4,438.27 by the Stanton ISD, which now has a tax rate of $1.16 per $100 valuation, and $1,053.55 by Martin County, which now has a combined tax rate of 34.8 cents, which includes 21 cents for operation of the county, 7 cents for the county's road-and-bridge department and 6.8 cents by the county's hospital district.

Taxes levied against the same land in 1982 are $31,130 by the Stanton ISD and $9,339.06 by the 911-square mile Martin County. The county's appraised value of the land in 1981 was $284,740 but shot up to $2.68 million in 1982. In 1981, the Stanton ISD appraised the land at $355,060. The uniform appraised value in 1982 is $2.68 million.

Kerr said he does not know if the Glass-Johnson suit is the first petition to challenge the new Property Tax Code, which went into effect Jan. 1, 1982. "I'm not sure that it is the first one or not. If there are others, they are winding their way (through the court system).

"I hope we win quickly and get it over with," he said. "Hope springs eternal."

Midlander free of back pain after chymopapain treatment

By GAIL BURKE
Staff Writer

Today Tiffany Hoffman is one of the thousands of Americans who are free from excruciating back pain after seeking medical attention in Canada.

Tiffany, who has lived in Midland since September, was one of the many back-pain suffers who crossed the border to be injected with chymopapain, a drug derived from papaya fruit. The drug, which at the time was not available in the U.S., was recently approved by the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

Although the procedure — less expensive than back surgery — has been done in Canada for several years, it has been undergoing tests in the U.S. for the last decade.

In November 1980, Tiffany injured her back during her family's move from Wisconsin to Texas. While struggling with an immovable box, Tiffany felt something "pull."

What followed was a life of pain — pain that kept the 14-year-old bedridden for three months.

"The pain was so bad that I couldn't sit," she said. "First we went to a chiropractor. He said to stay in bed for a week. Then we saw an orthopedic doctor."

Dr. Charles Zaltz, an orthopedic surgeon in El Paso where the Hoffmans were living, carefully observed Tiffany for about three months. After discovering she had a herniated, or slipped disc — a condition that occurs when the soft inner portion of the disc protrudes, causing pressure on the surrounding nerves and back, hip and leg pain — Zaltz recommended that Tiffany go to Canada.

"The doctor said since Tiffany was still growing, surgery may not be the right thing for a girl her age," Hatheway Hoffman, Tiffany's mother, said. "He consulted with other doctors. We talked about surgery and then he mentioned chymopapain."

Zaltz told the Hoffmans the drug was not available in the U.S., but said he knew a doctor in Toronto (Canada) that did thousands of back procedures with the drug.

In March 1981, Mrs. Hoffman accompanied her daughter to the Sunnybrook Medical Center in Toronto, Canada, and today the blonde-haired teenager feels some discomfort, but for the most part is pain-free.

The surgical procedure is usually done in 30 minutes under a local anesthetic. Inserting a hollow needle into the lower back, the physician locates the affected disc with the help of an X-ray machine. Then chymopapain is injected.

However, tests have shown that 1 percent of 1,400 patients had a reaction to the drug. Anaphylactic shock, a severe allergic reaction to certain medications, antibiotics or insect stings, has resulted in two fatalities, according to the FDA. But, the FDA also said this is the same mortality rate for disc surgery.

"Dr. English (the Canadian doctor) said the drug worked like meat tenderizer," Mrs. Hoffman said, explaining that the drug breaks down protein.

"And as a precaution to an allergic reaction, Dr. English gave Tiffany a counter drug through an IV," Mrs. Hoffman said.

The FDA-approved drug could save thousands of dollars for more than 200,000 Americans who have surgery every year to correct herniated or slipped discs.

"We paid $800 for this technique," Mrs. Hoffman said. "Two years ago (traditional) back surgery was $3,800 for the operation alone. Tiffany spent one day in the hospital compared to the seven days she would have had to spend with back surgery. I was elated."

Tiffany said she could get up soon after the surgery.

"I had some discomfort," she said. "But, that could have been from the anesthetic. Usually you're awake, but I panicked. When they wheeled me out of the hospital I could actually sit up for a really long time. And I don't have a scar — no marks."

The Canadian phsyician informed the Hoffmans that Tiffany was the second youngest person to have tried this technique. Mrs. Hoffman said English does about 500 procedures a year.

Although Tiffany cannot jog or ride horseback, her mother said the 16-year-old can swim and bicycle.

The drug is now available in the U.S. and a joint committee of the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons and the American Association of Neurological Surgery have scheduled training sessions to familiarize physicians with the procedure.

Sharpening up their skills in fencing for a city-sponsored class are Orlando M. Temple, left, and Gilberto Garcia. Giving instructions on the finer points of fencing is Robert Walter, background, president of the LaBelle Fencing Club which will be teaching the six-week course.

Old art of fencing can be found in Midland

Looking for a combination of exercise and a mental challenge? Then the old art of fencing is the answer. And in a "new" town of Midland, the sport can be found.

A six-week class in fencing will be offered at the Parks and Recreation Gymnasium starting Jan. 17. It will meet from 8 to 9:30 p.m. each Monday and Wednesday. Instruction will be provided by officers of the LaBelle Fencing Club of Midland and will be designed for beginners.

The $30 registration fee includes 12 class sessions and loan of equipment needed for fencing.

Fencing has been called "physical chess" and combines high intensity activity with thoughtful strategy in a blend of all one's abilities.

The class will be team-taught to provide personal attention. Instructors are Orlando Temple, Gilberto Garcia, Mike Husband and Robert Walter. Temple is a former member of Panama's Olympic fencing team. Garcia is the fencing instructor at Midland College. Husband is secretary of the Texas Plains Divisiion of the U.S. Fencing Association while Walter is president of the local LaBelle Fencing Club.

All are active competitors with plans to attend the national championships in San Francisco this spring.

To register, contact the Parks and Recreation Department, 300 Baldwin St., 683-4281, extension 318. Checks should be made payable to LaBelle Fencing Club.

Peso black market gone from U.S.- Mexican border

EL PASO (AP) — The currency traders who set up sidewalk money changing booths here have packed up and gone home because the black market for pesos has nearly vanished along the U.S.-Mexico border, El Paso peso traders say.

Business is down drastically here for the peso traders, who had a field day for three months until Mexico loosened exchange controls in December in the year's third devaluation of the peso.

Peso traders who operated out of the back seats of cars also have gone out of business, observers say.

"The black market is disappearing," says Jolie Nunez, who manages the American Money Exchange in downtown El Paso.

"There's no more black market for them," adds Alonzo Flores, owner of the Florida Restaurant in nearby Juarez, Mexico. "You won't see them anymore."

The disappearance of the traders, some of whom carried placards and set up mobile trading stands along downtown El Paso's sidewalks, was caused by the Dec. 1 free market float of the peso.

Nurse resigns over plea bargain in Texas City nursing home case

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Department of Health nurse whose complaints about conditions at a Texas City nursing home led to landmark murder indictments against the facility has resigned in protest to a plea bargain of the charges.

Betty H. Korndorffer, 52, of Dickinson, resigned Thursday after six years with the agency as a nursing home investigator.

"I just feel defeated — I don't feel effective any more," she told the Dallas Times Herald.

Mrs. Korndorffer said she alerted the Galveston County district attorney's office to conditions at the Autumn Hills Nursing Home after she was unable to get state health officials to take action.

A grand jury investigation led to the issuance of indictments alleging murder by neglect in 1981 against the home's parent corporation and eight present and former employees.

In a plea bargain approved Monday, the charges were dismissed after Autumn Hill Convalescent Centers Inc. pleaded no contest to a single charge of involuntary manslaughter and paid a $100,000 fine.

Mrs. Korndorffer said the plea bargain shows "there's no great penalty for letting all those people die from neglect."

The indictments cited the deaths of eight patients, but former Assistant District Attorney David Marks said there was evidence that the deaths of 56 patients were caused or hastened by neglect.

Marks, who headed the prosecution of Autumn Hills, was fired after he initiated an unsuccessful court attempt to block the plea bargain, which was negotiated by District Attorney James Hury. Marks contended Hury agreed to the deal for political gain.

Hury, who leaves office Jan. 1, was elected to the Texas House in November. He said the plea bargain enabled Galveston County to avoid the expense of lengthy litigation and also contended the evidence in the case did not back the murder charges.

"The system simply doesn't work — there's no penalty for providing poor care for the elderly, either through the Health Department or the legal system," Mrs. Korndorffer said.

Mrs. Korndorffer said she spent "well over 1,000 hours" assisting Marks in the case and that Hury "never asked me one question regarding my findings" during that time.

The former inspector said she quit because of the pressure of allegations leveled against her by Autumn Hills attorneys, who said she filed false reports because she was once passed over for promotion while working for Autumn Hills.

Mrs. Korndorffer denied the charge and voluminous evidence was presented to the grand jury to support her position, the Times Herald reported.

Dr. Robert Bernstein, commissioner of the Department of Health, said Mrs. Korndorffer was "an outstanding worker. Nobody's more dedicated than she is."

Bernstein said he agreed with Mrs. Korndorffer that the Autumn Hills case warranted greater punishment.

"If what the grand jury found is accurate — and I assume it is — something should have happened," he said.

The state's policing of nursing homes has improved since the Autumn Hills allegations surfaced, Bernstein said.

Bernstein also said he had recommended that nursing homes in violation of state standards lose a portion of their Medicaid funding instead of having it withheld temporarily until the violations are corrected.

Mexican government takes steps to keep cost of basic needs low by killing controls

MEXICO CITY (AP) — With the prices of most goods and services expected to jump next year, the government took steps to keep the cost of basic needs within the grasp of the thousands of poor Mexicans and give them a wage boost.

The government has eliminated price controls on most items as part of President Miguel de la Madrid's emergency program to solve the nation's worst economic crisis of the century.

The list of controlled products — whose prices are held below market level so the poor could afford them — was pared down from 5,000 items to 300, the Commerce Ministry announced Wednesday night.

Still subject to price controls will be such staples as beans, rice, sugar, milk, eggs, bread, medicine, fertilizer, soap, toothpaste, oil, some fuels and sheet metal and steel rods for construction.

An additional 2,200 items are to be monitored to avoid speculation. Some consumers have been stocking up on staple goods to avoid the widely expected price hikes.

The elimination of most price controls followed the announcement that the minimum wage which affects one third of Mexican workers will be raised by 25 percent for the first half of 1983 — considered a moderate level with inflation at 100 percent for this year.

DEATHS

Jim C. Carlson

Jim C. Carlson, 71, of 2001 W. Michigan Ave., died Thursday in a Midland hospital.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. Steve Church of the First Christian Church officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Carlson was born Aug. 27, 1911, in Alliance, Nebr., lived his early years in Pueblo, Colo., where he married Elsie Frances Swallow on Aug. 31, 1933. He began working for Continental Airlines in 1944 — the year he was transferred to Midland. He built and opened the original Continental office at what is now Midland Air Park, which then was a U.S. Army Air Force base, and was Continental's station manager and manager of passenger service. Sometime after Continental relocated from the air base site north of the city to Midland Regional Airport between Midland and Odessa, he became the airline service's regional director and held that position until his retirement in 1971.

He also was in the construction business and built homes and commercial buildings here.

He was a member of the Mason Lodge and the Bricklayers & Masons Union and was active in civic affairs.

Survivors include his wife, Elsie Frances; two sons, Russ Pat Carlson of Midland and Guss Matt Carlson of Cheyenne, Wyo.; two daughters, Mrs. Albert (Kristi) Davis of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Mrs. Kerry (Lorane) Buckner of Cary, N.C., and a sister, Mrs. Claude Mitchell of Pueblo, Colo.

The family has requested that memorials be directed to the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center at 2211 W. Illinois Ave.

E.G. 'Pat' Rogers

E.G. "Pat" Rogers, 60, of Midland died early this morning in a Midland hospital.

Services will be at 11 a.m. Monday at St. Luke's United Methodist Church with Dr. Jarrell Sharp officiating. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park, directed by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

He was born Oct. 29, 1922, in Burkburnet, spent his early life in White Oak and attended Kilgore Junior College. He was married to the former Margaret York Oct. 10, 1942, in Hondo and served in the Army Air Corps from April 1942 until January 1946. After his discharge he moved to Odessa, where he became associated with Gulf Pipeline Company. He retired in December 1979. He was a member of St. Luke's United Methodist Church and was active in scouting.

Survivors include his wife; two sons, David Y. Rogers of Midland and Mark C. Rogers of Baytown; a daughter, Julie B. Bodnar of Oklahoma City, Okla.; his mother, Mary H. Rogers of Midland; two brothers, Bill P. Rogers of Odessa and Dr. Joe O. Rogers of Edmond, Okla.; and three grandchildren.

Edith Wattenbarger

STANTON — Services for Edith Wattenbarger, 89, of Stanton and formerly of Midland, were held Wednesday afternoon at the W.Y. Goff Funeral Home Chapel in Commerce. Burial was in Rosemound Cemetery, Commerce.

Mrs. Wattenbarger died Monday in a Stanton hospital after a lengthy illness.

She was born June 15, 1893, in Hunt County near Commerce. She married Ed Wattenbarger in 1929 in Hunt County and lived in Midland from 1975 to 1976, when she moved to Stanton. She was a Baptist and a retired seamstress. Her husband died in 1972.

Survivors include a daughter, Alma Cloninger of Midland; a granddaughter, a great-grandaughter and two great-great-grandsons, all of Midland.

M.L. McWilliams

BIG LAKE — Services for Margaret L. McWilliams, 86, of Big Lake were held Monday in the First United Methodist Church here. Burial was in Stiles Cemetery, directed by Sizemore Funeral Home.

She died Dec. 24 in an Ozona hospital.

She was born July 26, 1896, in Como, Miss. She was married to Luin McWilliams May 23, 1917, in Haskell. He died May 23, 1971.

Mrs. McWilliams was a member of the First United Methodist Church of Big Lake.

Survivors include a daughter, Japson Pettit of Big Lake; two sons, Norris McWilliams and Ernie McWilliams, both of Odessa; a sister, Mrs. J.W. Stone of May; 14 grandchildren, 23 great-grandchildren, two great-great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Marshall Blocker

Services for Marshall L. Blocker, 77, of 3409 Shell were to be at 1:30 p.m. today in Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home chapel. Burial was to follow in Resthaven Memorial Park.

Blocker died Wednesday in an Odessa hospital after a heart attack.

Pallbearers were to be Arthur Davis, Ralph Holder, Roy Rotan, Dwayne Clary, Billy Pruitt and Don Davis.

Attorney accused of filing false claims

DALLAS (AP) — Greenville City Attorney Gayle R. Carden filed hundreds of false Medicare claims over a five-year period for his medical equipment supply business, the federal government alleges in a $1 million civil lawsuit.

Carden, 38, is accused of taking $24,766 in phony claims with the federal health care program from January 1975 to September 1979.

If he loses, he could be penalized twice that amount, plus $2,000 for each false claim, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Cheryl Wattley.

Carden, a former Greenville acting city manager and a former Hunt County court-at-law judge, owned Carden Rentals Inc. in Greenville, which rented wheelchairs, walkers, commode chairs, and similar items, Ms. Wattley said.

He could not be reached for comment Thursday. His secretary said that he was out of town on vacation, and was not expected to return until Jan. 10.

The lawsuit, filed Wednesday in federal court here, stems from an investigation that took more than two years, Ms. Wattley said.

"There are criminal statues prohibiting these practices, but I made a decision that civil fraud was more appropriate in this case," Ms. Wattley said, declining to explain further.

Armed robbery reported to Odessa police

ODESSA — Two men, one of them carrying an automatic pistol, robbed the Exxon Service Station at 1701 S. Grant St. of an undetermined amount of cash shortly after 7 p.m. Thursday, Odessa police officials said this morning.

Judy Whicker, the station clerk, told police she and her son were at the station about 7:15 p.m. when two Mexican-American men entered the establishment and one produced the pistol. She said one of the men squatted behind she and her son and the other man demanded cash.

Ms. Whicker said she took the entire cash drawer out of the register and put it on the counter. The man who had squatted behind them then stood and the two robbers stuffed the money in their pockets.

Next the robbers told Ms. Whicker and her son to give them their personal cash. After Ms. Whicker and her son complied, the robbers fled south on foot.

One of the robbers was described as 20-21 years old, 5 feet, 2 inches tall and weighing 120-130 pounds. He reportedly had long hair, wore a brown leather jacket and blue toboggan and held a towel over his face. The other was described as 20-21 years old, 5 feet, 4 inches tall and weighing 150 pounds. He held a dark scarf over his face.

No arrests have been made in the case.

Police investigate burglary in Midland

Criminal activity was slow in Midland Thursday night and Friday morning. Police were investigating only one burglary that resulted in the loss of more than $100 worth of household items.

Mark Kelly reported the burglary of his brother's residence at 4609 Mercedes between 9:15 a.m. Wednesday and 5:45 p.m. Thursday. The brother, David Kelly, and his family currently are on vacation and away from Midland, Mark Kelly told police.

At least a partial list of items missing from the residence included a stereo and speakers, .357 magnum chrome-plated revolver, 12-gauge shotgun, a number of record albums and a movie camera, police reports indicated. The items were listed as worth at least $600.

In other activity, Midland firemen responded to a house fire at a small wood-frame house at 714½ N. Jackson just after 11 p.m. Thursday. In less than an hour, firemen used 150 gallons of water to extinguish the blaze.

Fire reports indicated owner of the structure is unknown and that the fire probably was set. The house was not occupied at the time.

Local firms sponsor 'first baby' contest

Local businesses are sponsoring a contest for the first Midlander born in 1983. The baby who is the first to be born in Midland Memorial Hospital — as specified by the attending physician's exact account of the time of birth — will win a myriad of gifts.

The gifts include a $50 savings bond from Berg Motor Company; an infant seat from Western Mattress; a $25 savings bond and a 1983 tax return prepared free from L.A., Inc.; a $10 money order from Chaparral Realtors; a $25 gift certificate from Driscoll's Gifts, Inc.; a $25 gift certificate from The Calico Barn; a baby bed bumper pad from Matlock Furniture; a Borden's Elsie doll and Elsie flower arrangement from Borden, Inc.; two boxes of Pampers from M System Food Store; an 8-by-10 color portrait of the baby from Bud's Photography; a pair of leather soft sole shoes from The Shoe Tree.

Also, a $25 gift certificate from Bernard's Tortilla Factory, Inc.; a $25 gift certificate from Kids Toggery; a musical container from A-1 Floral; a $10 gift certificate from Peyton's Toys; two deluxe dinners from Monterrey Cocina Mexicana; two steak finger dinners from Texas Burger; and a novelty arrangement from Monterrey Flower Shop.

Annual 'Cowboy' party, dance to be held tonight

Midland's annual Cowboy New Year's Eve Party and Dance with "all the trimmings" will be held at 9 p.m. today in the Midland County Exhibit Building off U.S. Highway 80 East.

Featured performers will include David Price, Johnny Beck and Joe Morris, according to old-time cowboy Morris Cooper.

He and the Midland Southwest Livestock Auction Co. are co-sponsoring the dance, which will benefit the West Texas Boys Ranch.

Trimmings at the 9 p.m.-to-1:30 a.m. dance will include the traditional cornbread and blackeyed peas.

Odessa woman returns; No charges to be filed

ODESSA — Odessa Police Department officials said this morning that a 30-year-old Odessa woman reportedly kidnapped at gunpoint Monday night has returned home and no charges will be filed in the case.

Rose Ann Munoz earlier was reportedly kidnapped as she sat talking to her sister in front of their Odessa residence. A man reportedly forced the victim into a pickup and then drove away.

Now, police officials say, the case is no longer being carried as a kidnapping and no criminal charges will be filed.

Drunken driving test sobering event

By PATRICIA DIBSIE
Copley News Service

SAN DIEGO — I gulped the last few ounces of wine and ran to a waiting car. Settling behind the wheel, I turned the key and decided that a seat belt was too much trouble. I put the car in drive and burned a little rubber as the man next to me mumbled something about "taking it a little easier."

If you had been in my path Saturday morning around 11 a.m., I could have killed you. Or maybe maimed or disfigured you.

I wasn't falling-down drunk. I wasn't even slurring my words. But I had had enough wine (16 ounces in 1½ hours) to make me legally "under the influence of alcohol."

There was nothing about my behavior that would have made you question my ability to drive if you had been talking with me moments before I got behind the wheel of the car. (Even the experts thought it would take more wine to get me over the limit.) But a few minutes after I started driving, it became apparent — my overconfidence was showing.

ABOUT 140 AMERICANS will be killed in auto accidents every day according to figures compiled by law enforcement agencies around the country. Another 548 will be maimed or disfigured — half of them because someone had too much to drink.

There is little pity shown for drunken drivers who wind up in jail. In fact, there are a number of organizations working hard to get drunks off the road.

But it isn't always the "drunk" who causes the problem. It's the occasional drinker who gets a little high at a party, then gets behind the wheel.

The California Highway Patrol, San Diego Police Department and Life Flight (San Diego's University Hospital's emergency medical helicopter service), teamed up on a Saturday morning and invited six media and community leaders to drink and drive. The six drinkers were picked up at their homes at 7:30 a.m. and brought to the test site — the police academy driving course.

The idea sounded challenging. Just how much could I drink and still drive? Not much, I was to learn hours later after I came down from an incredible high and heard myself on a tape recorder. But back to 7:30 a.m.

I had followed instructions: no breakfast and no coffee. Life Flight dispatcher, Mike McClain, picked me up at home and drove me to the test site. By 8:30 a.m., the group was assembled — six guinea pigs and more than 100 helpers and professional onlookers (law enforcement, health and videotape teams.)

I WAS ALLOWED to drive through one test course sober — the "S" curve. First, I watched a police officer drive the course in 22 seconds in forward, and less than 40 seconds in reverse. Orange cones outlined the course within inches of the car's tires.

The two test cars were full-sized, four-door Chryslers (courtesy of National Rental Cars) equipped with power steering and power brakes. The course looked easy enough in forward (it wasn't) and challenging in reverse (almost impossible my first time sober). I drove the course in 36 seconds forward and two minutes backwards — taking five cones with me.

But two glasses of wine later, my confidence was high. Shortly after 10 a.m., I drove the course forward in 24 seconds and cut my time in half going in reverse (this time taking only one cone down).

I was given a field sobriety test, which I passed with flying colors. Then came the breath test — .03. When your blood-alcohol level reaches 0.10, you are beyond the legal limit for driving. Then somebody handed me a couple more glasses of wine and invited me to drink up. I did.

The second time out was my last. I sipped the last of eight ounces of wine and was eager — too eager — to get behind the wheel and beat the 22-second test run by the police officer. I turned the car radio to a station playing an old Beatles' tune and hit the gas pedal hard. My time through the "S" curve was 21 seconds. I laughed and threw the gear in reverse. Less than a minute (and eight cones) later I came to a stop and a grateful passenger (my instructor and observer) stepped out of the car.

I TOOK THE CAR around the course to the next test site (at about 50 mph) and squealed to a stop. (Later I was informed that the onlookers were moved back after watching my drive through the curve. I laughed, honked and waved as I passed the crowd.)

The second part of the test was to drive in a straight line at 30 mph and hit the brakes the second I saw a medium-sized ball roll in front of my car. I never hit the ball and this experience probably added to my overconfidence.

But I flunked the field sobriety test minutes later. I thought I was perfectly sober and even insisted that I was no more than a .05.

San Diego Police Officer Randy Resch did his job well and read my type of "high." He remained polite even when I pushed his patience to the limit. I walked the line 10 counts — heel to toe — and then offered my rendition of a high-wire act, twisting in midair and landing in the other direction for the return trip.

I tried counting on my fingers to four and then back to one — counting 1-2-3-4 and then 4-2-3-1. The breath test, administered by a specialist with the police department (a nice woman I'm looking forward to meeting again, this time when I'm not so high and can remember names) tested me at 0.10.

THEY TOOK MY CAR KEYS away. But at this point, I was thoroughly convinced that the machine was wrong and demanded a blood test to verify the results. (I should have known I was extremely high. I wouldn't agree to a needle unless my thought process was impaired, for I have a fear of needles.)

And maybe that points out the biggest problem. There is no person less qualified to make an intelligent decision on whether to drive than one who is high on alcohol. I was still walking straight lines, my words were not slurred, but my personality had changed.

So how can you tell when a person isn't fit to drive if they're not falling-down drunk?

"It's important for people to know the personality changes that come over them when they get high," said Marti Bennett, head nurse for Life Flight. "People who drive under the influence of alcohol may be more dangerous than the drunken driver. Nobody tries to take their car keys away and their confidence level is so overrated that they're an accident waiting to happen."

Dr. Jim Dunford, a physician with Life Flight, said that different people have different symptoms while under the influence of alcohol.

"Some people get quiet, others get loud. Some become shy, others become extroverts. We're not talking about exhibiting gross symptoms. Subtle personality changes offer the best clue that you shouldn't be driving."

WHY NOT ASK a friend what kind of personality changes come over you when you've had one drink too many. If he's a friend, he'll tell you. Then retire your keys at the first sign.

A living room need not be short on charm even though it is short on space. Light colors in walls, upholstery and carpeting provide a spacious background element in this setting. A block of lightly grained marble holds a glass slab for a coffee table, taking minimum visual space. Adding vertical touches to complement the low sofa are the print and the carved screen. Carpeting is by Galaxy.

Children become rebellious victims in divorce rows

By FRANK GREEN
Copley News Service

Eddie, 13, has become impossible to live with.

The eighth-grader destroys property, steals money from his mother's purse, uses profanity, throws books at his teachers and picks fights with classmates.

He slugged his school principal and was suspended for the second time this semester.

Eddie (not his real name) hasn't always been such a bad boy.

Until last summer, he was an exemplary child who earned top grades and got along well with friends.

Relatives say that he turned sour just about the time his parents decided on a divorce. He was subsequently thrown into the lurch in their battle over his custody.

Eddie, who is currently undergoing psychiatric therapy, is not alone.

AS THE U.S. DIVORCE RATE soars, so does the number of children emotionally damaged by the sometimes lengthy process of divorce.

"The most psychologically harmful experience that a child can have is to be put in the middle of a custody conflict where they are being examined by psychologists, psychiatrists, judges and lawyers, and being pulled apart by the parents in order to use them as tools and weapons in the custody conflict," says psychiatrist Richard A. Gardner, an authority on parents and children of divorce.

"Too many people today are too quick to jump into adversary proceedings which only polarize them, and especially their children, even further."

Gardner is an associate clinical professor of child psychiatry at the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University in New York.

The 51-year-old, New York-based analyst — author of "The Boys and Girls Book About Divorce," "The Parents Book About Divorce" and "Family Evaluation in Child Custody Litigation" — has noticed in the last decade a drastic increase in the number of disturbed children of estranged parents.

THE SYMPTOMS of emotional turmoil most often displayed by these young people include poor school performance, problems getting along with peers, use of profanity and a lack of respect for authority figures, says Gardner, whose divorce books for kids are among the first of their kind.

"The child is very upset because his home life is disintegrating. He is depressed and fearful that he may not see the departing parent, he's exposed to their animosity and he may be being used as a weapon within a loyalty conflict in which he is used by one parent as a spy against the other. All of these things take their toll," says Gardner. "So it's not surprising that the child is rebelling to a certain degree."

GARDNER OFFERS a number of steps for parents who are considering divorce to help soften the impact of the impending separation on their children:

* Avoid protracted litigation at all costs.
* Get a lawyer "who promises to answer your telephone calls," he says, "and if he doesn't, get another lawyer."
* If you have to resort to adversary court proceedings, hire lawyers who are mild-mannered and humane, and who recognize the importance of talking to their adversaries.
* Work toward a resolution of the conflict, not winning.
* Talk to the child about the divorce and give him the information he requests. "Otherwise, the child may have the natural assumption that the breakup is his fault, which will cause tremendous guilt," Gardner says.
* Respect the importance of the other parent having regular contact with the child. "Don't let your resentment of the other party blind you to the importance of the child having ongoing contact with the ex-spouse," he says. "If you plan to hold your child back as a way of wreaking vengeance, you're going to deeply hurt him."

Despite his misgivings about the high incidence of divorce in the United States and its consequent negative side effects on children, Gardner is not by any means against divorce. In many cases, he says, a divorce may be preferable to parents staying together in a rigid relationship.

"I'D PREDICT that the two-parent, intact marriage is going to produce the most stable child; the single-parent home that is nevertheless somewhat stable would be in the middle, and the two-parent home in which you have on-going strife and conflict will produce the most difficulty," Gardner says.

"I'm certain that parents — locked in by legal, religious and social factors — who stay in marriages that are unhappy do the most harm to their children."

Christian ship plans mercy mission to Guatemala

By TERESA SIMONS
Copley News Service

LOS ANGELES — A dozen women from a suburban San Pedro church visited one day to help can pears for the ship's crew.

About 200 teachers from the harbor area came on board to learn how they could volunteer during their vacations.

And a Santa Cruz, Calif., businessman flew down to see a project he'd heard about several years ago get off the ground.

Don Stephens, director of the mercy ship M Anastasis, is pleased with the public's response to the ship, which is gearing up for missionary work abroad.

The Anastasis crew plans to leave by the first of the year for its inaugural voyage as a mobile emergency relief center, carrying supplies to homeless Guatemalans at the request of the country's new Christian leader, Efrain Rios Montt.

From there, Stephens said, the ship will head for New Zealand where it hopes to attract more volunteers to its crew.

Then it will head for needier countries — New Guinea, the Philippines, Indonesia, Thailand, South Korea, Hong Kong and Australia — to carry out the ship's mission of evangelism, training, education and mercy ministry.

Stephens, his voice competing with the sound of workers outside his cabin, said the crew chose Los Angeles as its first port of call because "It's part of the American people to volunteer. ... We're pleased, but we really didn't know what to expect."

The ship is operated by the missionary group Youth With A Mission.

It is estimated that more than 16,000 visitors have toured the ship in the past three months and that many of them have donated money for ship operations.

As part of its outreach to the needy, the Anastasis hosted about 130 Korean youths living in Southern California the day before Thanksgiving.

In addition, Stephens said, within the past few months, several hundred people have applied for the ship's six-month discipleship training program, but only about 200 will be accepted.

The program, offered at a cost of $3,000 to each participant, is devoted to study of personal relationships and character, as well as to work with the needy.

The Anastasis' regular sources of income, financial director David Cowie said, are the volunteers' $50-per-month fees, the discipleship training students' $3,000 course fees and regular donations from the public, amounting to $10,000 to $15,000 a month in North America.

Most of the donations stem from word-of-mouth advertisement. The Anastasis does not have a large fund-raising mechanism, Stephens said. Still, some of the crew members actively seek donations.

The two medical doctors on board, for example, are combing the Los Angeles area for supplies and equipment for the ship's 18-bed medical unit.

The majority of the surgeries are expected to be for cataracts, cleft palates and club feet — common medical problems in developing nations.

Because the crew is non-salaried and lives simply, Cowie said, fuel is the ship's only major recurrent cost.

Maintaining it is "very economical" to house YWAM volunteers on a ship, Cowie said costs average $3 per person per day in port and $12 per day at sea.

About 80 percent of the time, the Anastasis will be in a major port, Stephens said.

Stephens and Cowie say less than 5 percent of the Anastasis' income goes toward administrative overhead; the rest has been devoted to ship operations and improvements.

While still preparing for its first voyage as a mercy ship to Guatemala, the Anastasis crew already has shipped supplies to the Central American country, where, due to ongoing guerrilla warfare, thousands of natives are resettling in different parts of the country.

A local shipping company sent off one load of supplies to Guatemala for the Anastasis free of charge, Stephens said.

Operation Lovelift, an arm of Gospel Outreach in Eureka, Calif., is coordinating the Guatemalan effort, with the Anastasis as the transporting vehicle for several missionary organizations.

Items the Anastasis is expected to transport include seed, tools, building materials and medical supplies.

The Anastasis also has assisted:

— Other YWAM workers in Cambodia, where the missionary group has a hospital.

— In Thailand, where YWAM regularly feeds and clothes 8,000 people and, under the auspices of the U.S. Embassy, provides banking and postal services.

— In Somalia, where the group runs an orphanage for 150 children.

— In Poland, where food and clothing has been sent for the last nine months.

In many of these countries, YWAM works closely with the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees.

Through a YWAM project, the Anastasis has volunteers of all ages on board. "We have a lot of second-career people," Stephens said.

Stephens, 37, has worked with YWAM for 14 years, mainly in Europe.

"I find it very rewarding when you can truly help someone so you can continually better their situation and give them a belief in someone greater than themselves."

Rich Mackey, a former Squaw Valley (Calif.) Ski Corp. director who recently came on board the Anastasis as the ship's project planner, explained his new lifestyle and the missionaries' dependence on charity.

"We're not foolish people, but until you have the opportunity to see these principles put in your own life ... (God) takes care of His people. It seems an illogical and foolish way of doing it ... but all I can say is, it works."

The ship's captain, New Zealander Ben Applegate, who has been a commercial ship captain for most of his life, said that when he and his wife became Christians 20 years ago, they talked of using his nautical training "for some kind of Christian enterprise."

Ten years later, he said, he heard of YWAM's desire to acquire a ship for use as a mobile emergency relief center.

The Anastasis crew appears excited as it prepares for its first voyage as a mercy ship.

Sarah Pannell, a native of Zimbabwe and a typically open, friendly and optimistic crewman, told a small group touring the ship, "We're at the brink of a waterfall.

"It's been rough at times and the current has sometimes been against us, but when the water goes over the falls, it rises in power."

THEN and NOW!

To discover the origins of cosmetics one has to turn the clock back to the Egypt of 5,000 B.C. for the earliest recorded uses of beauty aids. Over the centuries women — and men, too — have tremendously expanded the art of beauty to the point where anyone can look and feel good regardless of social station.

THEN When Howard Carter opened King Tut's tomb, who ruled around 1350 B.C., he uncovered many excellent specimens of the art of the ancient cosmetician. The find brought to light quantities of aromatics still elusively fragrant and housed in exquisitely executed alabaster vases.

Hard on the heels of the Egyptians were the Greeks and Romans who refined the art of cosmetics. Cosmetics were used in Biblical times, as this passage from the Old Testament reports:

"Thou didst wash thyself, paintedst thine eyes and deckedst thyself with ornaments."

NOW Today, consumption of cosmetics, fragrances, toiletries and jewelry in the United States has created one of America's major industries.

Fish: Economical, delicious, nutritious

Copley News Service

There are many advantages of food from the sea. It is a food very low in fat and calories. Most fish has a mild flavor which lends itself to the tastes of the sauces with which they are served. Generally, the price of fish is quite low, considering the fact that the weight of heavy bones and fat are not in question.

With fish as the recipe base, a number of cooking methods are possible: The home chef can bake, poach, broil, fry, steam, oven fry, simmer, barbecue and saute fish, which is available whole or in the form of filets, steaks, and chunks for skewering. Considering the possibilities, you're smart to consider fish when planning meals.

Speaking of smart, people still hold the idea that fish is "brain food." Actually, the idea that eating fish enhances your brain power dates back to a 19th century Harvard University scientist. He discovered that compounds containing phosphorus are abundant in the brain, and he urged people to eat fish which is rich in phosphorus, reasoning that by increasing the intake of that element, intelligence would be enhanced. Although phosphorus is an important nutrient, the concept of IQ improvement has been dropped by nutritionists and scientists alike.

BARBECUED SALMON WITH AVOCADO BUTTER

Salmon steaks
1 lb. butter, softened
½ ripe avocado
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped

In medium-sized bowl, cream butter, ½ avocado and chopped garlic until completely mixed. On a piece of aluminum foil, arrange the avocado butter in a 4-6 inch cylinder shape. Gently wrap foil around butter mixture and refrigerate. Make the avocado butter at least 5 hours before serving for flavors to blend and butter to firm.

Heat barbecue. Cook salmon steaks on the barbecue, making a cross-hatch pattern with the heated grill if desired. Open the firm avocado butter and slice rounds of it to place on top of the prepared fish. Slice the remaining half avocado into 6 pieces. Place the avocado slices on edge on the rounds of avocado butter.

CURRIED TUNA RICE SALAD

2½ cups cooked long-grain rice, cooled
1 can (6½ ozs.) chunk light tuna (with 50 percent less salt preferred
1 cup sliced celery
10 oz. frozen green peas, thawed
½ cup sliced green onion
¼ cup diced red pepper (optional)
2 large tomatoes, sliced
1 egg, hard-boiled
Curry dressing (see below)

In large bowl, combine rice, flaked tuna, celery, peas, green onion, and rd pepper. Mix together lightly. Cover and chill up to 3 hours. Slice tomato and hard-boiled egg for decor. To serve, garnish plate with lettuce. Mound tuna rice salad in center of lettuce and surround with tomato slices. Top with slices of hard-boiled egg and Curry dressing.

Curry dressing: In a bowl, combine ½ cup each mayonnaise and unflavored yogurt, 2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh mint, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon curry powder, ½ teaspoon each salt and dry basil, and a dash of cayenne; stir to blend. Cover and chill up to 3 hours. Makes about 1 cup.

FISH SPINACH BAKE

4 frozen breaded or battered fish portions
1 10-oz. pkg. frozen chopped spinach, thawed and drained
½ lb. fresh mushrooms, chopped
2 green onions, finely chopped
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. white pepper
¼ cup dry white wine
1 cup fresh bread crumbs
1 tbsp. chopped fresh chopped fresh parsley
¼ cup butter, melted

Drain spinach thoroughly, pressing to remove excess liquid. Combine spinach, mushrooms, onions, salt, pepper and wine. Spoon this mixture over bottom of a buttered 11x7x2-inch baking dish. Mix bread crumbs with chopped parsley. Sprinkle half crumbs over vegetables, drizzle with half of melted butter. Arrange breaded fish over vegetables. Sprinkle with remaining bread crumbs and drizzle with remaining melted butter. Bake in a 375-degree oven for 30-35 minutes or until piping hot. Serves 4.

DEAR ABBY

Happy New Year can be built day by day

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Last New Year's Eve you published some New Year's resolutions. I cut that column out and taped it on my bathroom mirror where I could read it every morning. I want you to know that it has helped me to become a better person. I am not saying that I kept every one of those resolutions every day, but I kept most of them, and they have now become habits that have made a remarkable improvement in my personality and character.

I hope you will repeat that column every New Year's Eve. I'm sure it will benefit many others as it has me. — NEVER TOO OLD

DEAR NEVER: By popular demand, my "resolutions" column has become an annual tradition, and here it is:

DEAR READER: These New Year's resolutions are based on the original credo of Alcoholics Anonymous. I have taken the liberty of using that theme with some variations of my own:

Just for today I will try to live through this day only, and not set far-reaching goals to try to overcome all my problems at once. I know I can do something for 12 hours that would appall me if I felt that I had to keep it up for a lifetime.

Just for today I will try to be happy. Abraham Lincoln said, "Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be." He was right. I will not dwell on thoughts that depress me. I will chase them out of my mind and replace them with happy thoughts.

Just for today I will adjust myself to what is. I will face reality. I will try to change those things that I can change and accept those things I cannot change.

Just for today I will try to improve my mind. I will not be a mental loafer. I will force myself to read something that requires effort, thought and concentration.

Just for today I will do a good deed for somebody — without letting him know it. (If he or she finds out I did it, it won't count.)

Just for today I will do something positive to improve my health. If I'm a smoker, I'll make an honest effort to cut down. If I'm overweight, I'll eat nothing I know is fattening. And I will force myself to exercise — even if it's only walking around the block, or using the stairs instead of the elevator.

Just for today I will be totally honest. If someone asks me something I don't know, I will not try to bluff; I'll simply say, "I don't know."

Just for today I'll do something I've been putting off for a long time. I'll finally write that letter, make that phone call, clean that closet or straighten out those dresser drawers.

Just for today, before I speak I will ask myself, "Is it true?" "Is it kind?" And if the answer to either of those questions is negative, I won't say it.

Just for today I will make a conscious effort to be agreeable. I will look as well as I can, dress becomingly, talk softly, act courteously and not interrupt when someone else is talking. Just for today I'll not try to improve anybody except myself.

Just for today I will have a program. I may not follow it exactly, but I will have it, thereby saving myself from two pests: hurry and indecision.

Just for today I will have a quiet half-hour to relax alone. During this time I will reflect on my behavior and will try to get a better perspective on my life.

Just for today I will be unafraid. I will gather the courage to do what is right and take the responsibility for my own actions. I will expect nothing from the world, but I will realize that as I give to the world, the world will give to me.

P.S. Have a happy, healthy New Year. And pray for peace! — LOVE, ABBY

Alcoholism test coming, experts say

By BRETT SKAKUN
Hearst Feature Service

SAN ANTONIO — A test to determine whether a youngster may become an alcoholic could be developed within two decades, an expert on alcoholism treatment predicts.

"It could be used as one of the routine tests children receive in school before they reach drinking age and be a powerful tool in the primary prevention of alcoholism," said Dr. James W. Smith.

"Granted there will be some who choose to drink even in the face of such a warning. But a significant number would heed the warning and avoid exposure to alcohol," said Smith, a clinical associate professor at the University of Washington School of Medicine.

Possible test indicators may be found in an analysis of blood or spinal fluids, according to Smith, who has worked in the field for more than 20 years.

Scientists have found numerous physical and chemical similarities among alcoholics which could provide the basis for the tests.

For example, Smith said researchers have found that blood type A is found in alcoholics more often than in the general population, and alcoholics have a greater incidence of color blindness and the inability to taste phenolthiocarbimide.

"I think it (the test) is very likely," he said. "But I don't foresee this in the next year or so. I would certainly say not under 10 years but more likely within 20 years."

Research shows the incidence of alcoholism is tied strongly to genetic and hereditary factors.

Smith said studies have shown that siblings whose parents or grandparents have had drinking problems are three or four times more likely to become alcoholics. In the general population, only one in 10 people who drink are alcholics.

"Any way you slice it, the genetic factor plays a role. It's important. If a close family member was or is an alcoholic, I strongly recommend that they don't drink," he said, adding that it takes an average of up to 12 years from a person's first drink before he or she becomes an alcoholic.

In another prediction, Smith said physicians may also be able to prescribe chemicals that will be used to treat and control alcoholism in the same way that insulin is used by diabetics.

"I'm not saying we'll have something that will permit an alcoholic to be a social drinker. But alcoholism seems more to be a body chemistry disease and we are learning more and more about body chemistry and when we may (expect to) be able to correct the derangement."

Italy assumes position of mediator between West, Arab countries

ROME (AP) — For years considered the "little brother" of NATO, Italy suddenly has plunged into a more active role in major international affairs.

It has dispatched peacekeeping forces to the Middle East, was at the forefront in its support of NATO's plans to install new U.S. missiles in Western Europe and has become what one U.S. official called "America's No. 1 friend in Europe."

That is a drastic change from a foreign policy that former U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger once called an "eternal illusion" that seems designed only to give Italian politicians a chance to have their pictures taken at airport receptions.

Commented one Foreign Ministry official who, following standard Italian procedure, asked not to be named: "Our foreign policy, which was once viewed by some as whimsical, is being perceived as responsible and consistent."

U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib reaffirmed that opinion on a recent trip to Florence in which he praised Italy and France for sending troops to maintain a cease-fire in Lebanon between Israel and Palestinian guerrillas.

"The contribution of Italy to the restoration of at least some modicum of tranquillity in Lebanon...has been invaluable," Habib told a foreign policy seminar. "Without France and Italy, the U.S. would not have been able to play the role that it has played."

Italy's 1,500-man peacekeeping force in Beirut is only the latest policing action in the Middle East. It also has a medical corps with UNIFIL, the United Nations force in southern Lebanon, and minesweepers patrolling off the Sinai Peninsula to ensure peace between Israel and Egypt.

For years Italy's attempts to influence foreign affairs were hindered by its revolving door governments, battles with terrorists and staggering internal problems.

It also was difficult for some Western powers to consider Italy a reliable partner because of the fear of participation in the government by the Communist Party, the largest in the Western world and Italy's second largest party behind the Christian Democrats.

That attitude was reflected when President Carter left Italy out of a summit meeting of Western leaders in Guadeloupe in 1979, a slight that still rankles Italian diplomats.

But what seemed to have escaped notice was that despite its problems, Italy developed into the sixth largest industrial power in the world and the fourth largest arms producer.

That trade plus the country's proximity to the Middle East put Italy in a special position to act as a mediator between the West and the Arab world.

Unlike the United States, Italy has a close and prosperous relationship with Libya, and is on friendly terms with Israel and most Arab powers. It also negotiated a neutrality pact with Malta that helped the strategic Mediterranean island-nation deny its ports to Soviet navy.

Most observers agree that the change of roles started in 1979, when Italy became the first country to agree to accept 112 U.S.-built Pershing 2 and cruise missiles.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization wants to station 572 of the missiles in five West European countries to counter Soviet SS-20 medium-range nuclear missiles in Soviet Europe.

In accepting the missiles, however, Italy insisted that Washington begin serious negotiations with the Soviet Union on nuclear arms reductions. The demands by Italy and the other NATO members led to the U.S.-Soviet arms talks at Geneva, Switzerland.

Italy also has increased in importance because the Socialist governments in Greece and Spain have said they are reviewing their commitments to NATO. That leaves Italy as the only secure base in the Mediterranean for the alliance.

Another major step, diplomats say, was the Venice summit of the 10 European Common Market foreign ministers in June 1980 under the chairmanship of Foreign Minister Emilio Colombo of Italy.

The Venice Declaration that resulted was Western Europe's first unified demand that "the Palestine Liberation Organization should be associated" with an overall peace settlement in the Middle East.

"The declaration provided a bridge between the Camp David peace accords and Arab disappointment with the Israel-Egypt peace," the Foreign Ministry official said. "It also showed Italy was capable of bringing imagination and responsibility to foreign policy."

Italy's best weapon, most observers agree, is President Sandro Pertini, the 86-year-old Socialist who took office in 1978. His reputation for integrity and forthrightness has done much to restore prestige to the scandal-plagued and once ceremonial office.

Three area persons released

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Three persons convicted of crimes in the West Texas area have been released on mandatory supervision by Gov. Bill Clements upon the recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Glen Jonathan Lee Brooks, convicted in Midland County June 29, 1981, of forgery by passing, has been released to Cameron County after serving and earning three years of a three-year sentence.

Donald Murdock Jr., convicted in Ector County April 14, 1978, of burglary with intent to commit theft, has been released to Tarrant County after serving and earning five years of a five-year sentence.

Ralph Tad Richards, convicted in Coke County March 5, 1982, of felony theft, has been released to Taylor County after serving and earning three years of a three-year sentence.

Guy's life sounds like one long TV commercial

By GUS STEVENS
Copley News Service

A fellow came into the office, stricken with a bad case of the blahs.

He was very upset, but we settled him down, poured him a cup of coffee, and got him to talk about it. It turned out he was a regular sort of guy, but he simply was unable to cope with his problems. This is his story:

"My wife just burned down the garage, my dog was run over, the IRS is after me and I can't get Robert Young out of my living room. I'm afraid I got a little testy about it all. My doctor said caffeine is making me edgy.

"When I came home from work the next afternoon, my wife turned her face away. I said, 'What, no welcome home kiss?' She said, 'It's your breath.'

"After I took some onion killer she started to pour me a cup of coffee. 'Hold it,' I said. 'Half a cup is enough.' She said, 'What's the matter? I thought you liked my coffee.' I said, 'I love its rich taste. It's the caffeine I can do without.' She made a face. 'Tell me about it. Did you really have to punch out Dr. Welby?'

"I went out to dinner by myself. There was this guy in the next booth and he kept insisting that I had to have steak sauce on my hamburger. 'After all,' he said, 'What is hamburger, chopped ham? It's steak and what's better for steak?'

"I didn't need any of his advice so, wanting to get out of there in a hurry, I ate my hamburger too fast. As I was leaving the restaurant, my body turned green and began undulating, in and out. 'I've got in-di-ges-tion,' I said to the woman at the cash register.

"I drifted into this little corner bar and ordered scotch. 'You want it straight or with a twist?' the bartender asked, leering as he flicked a razor at me.

"The tavern was boring. Some fellow who called himself Lee Coca-Cola stood at my elbow yammering on about 'sticker shock.' He kept saying, 'If you can find a better car for the price, buy it.'

"Another fellow who really didn't have much to say still had everybody hanging on his words. 'Who is that guy?' I asked the bartender. 'E.F. Button. When he talks, people listen.'

"Over in the corner, these three midgets were pushing a bowl of cereal back and forth at their table. 'I'm not gonna eat it,' one said, shoving the cereal away. 'You try it.' 'I'm not gonna eat it,' said the second midget. 'Let's get Mikey. He likes it. Hey, Mikey.'

"The action started to pick up, I thought, when I saw these three chicks looking me over. I grinned and moved closer, but then I heard one whisper to her friends, 'Oh, oh, he's scratching his head. That could mean dry scalp and flaking.'

"It wasn't the first time I'd been called a flake, but I decided to stand up to them anyhow. 'My mouthwash works just as long as yours,' I said. 'Uh, uh, uh,' they replied in unison. 'Almost as long?' 'Uh, uh, uh.' 'Long enough?' 'Uh, uh, uh!'

"'I can see your smiles are just painted on,' I told them. 'A man needs all the protection he can get,' they replied.

"'There aren't any friendly skies in here,' I said. One of the women, who looked like a fish, said, 'Sorry, Charlie.'

"I felt terrible when I left the bar, so I went straight to my neighborhood pharmacy. 'I need a so-I-can-rest medicine,' I told Bill the pharmacist. 'I keep waking up my wife in the middle of the night and sending her out for things.'

"Bill lined up some boxes on the counter. 'Let's compare: 650, 650, 650 or 800. Which will you choose?' I gave him a look and walked out.

"Then I checked into a hotel where there weren't any surprises.And if the plumbing didn't work, I could stay the night free. Either way, the last thing I needed was another plumber in my life. I called home and tried to tell my wife how rotten I was feeling. 'You don't sound sick,' she kept saying. After the sixth 'You don't sound sick,' I hung up on her.

Students give Reagan high marks

Hearst Feature Service

A survey of high school students indicates that President Reagan is well-regarded by teen-agers, even by those who disagree with his cuts in social programs.

The publishers of Who's Who Among American High School Students recently mailed extensive opinion surveys to 50,000 students listed in the 1982 edition of the High School Who's Who. Some 23,000 of them filled out the questionnaires and sent them back.

Asked to list the five top areas of priority for federal spending, they replied in this order: education; environmental protection; energy resources development; Social Security; energy conservation. Defense spending came in sixth.

Yet, they are conservative. Almost 47 percent of them said they were members of the Moral Majority.

Almost all of them, 91.3 percent, believed the federal budget shold be balanced. The majority of them gave President Reagan a good overall rating; supported cutbacks in social services except for Social Security and student loans; and neither smoked, drank, used drugs, nor were sexually active. Seventy-four percent of them (68.5 percent among males; 77.7 percent among females) never had sexual intercourse.

On the other hand, they are not unequivocally conservative. Most of them gave Reagan bad marks on his handling of social programs. Seventy-seven percent said they thought the federal government should enforce equal opportunity laws (only 7.4 percent thought that ought to be the state's job). Fully 91.7 percent said they favored First Amendment rights. Most wanted to either increase or maintain current aid to public transit. And 62.7 percent said the U.S. should not get involved in wars where the U.S. is not directly threatened (55.4 percent male and 66.5 percent female).

About half (48 percent) supported the idea that the U.S. should support countries practicing the protection of human rights. And 51.5 percent said they favored the freezing of nuclear weapons production.

Ohio State University offers course on suds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Beer drinking has long been an unofficial "required course" on most college campuses but at Ohio State University, serious guzzlers can now study suds in the classroom.

A course entitled "Beers of the World" will be offered for the first time during the winter quarter.

Five years, ago consumer interest in imported beers was "practically nothing," said E.J. Jones, who will teach the non-credit class with his colleague, Dave vonFischer. Jones directs sales and marketing for Globe Wine & Spirits Co. of Columbus.

Jones said the popularity of imported beers has grown so much in recent years that his firm now handles 30 different brands of imports.

"People want to drink something with a little more mystique," Jones said.

Former Iranian hostage from Texas plans to marry Mesquite woman

DALLAS (AP) — Sgt. Johnny McKeel Jr., a former hostage in Iran who said he was happy he was released so he could "get back to chasing women," has gotten himself a marriage license.

McKeel, 29, of Balch Springs, and Vicki Dianne Kent, 29, of Mesquite, picked up the Dallas County license Tuesday.

McKeel and 51 other American hostages held hostage in Tehran were released Jan. 20, 1981, after 444 days of captivity.

At the hostages' first formal news conference, McKeel said: "As soon as they let us get home, so especially the Marines can get back to chasing women, everything will be perfect."

McKeel is stationed at El Toro Marine Air Base near Tustin, Calif.

LONDON (AP) — Stage director Jonathon Miller, Olympic decathlon champion Daley Thompson and "Chariots of Fire" director David Puttnam begin 1983 with laurels from the queen.

Queen Elizabeth II today bestowed New Year's honors on the three, along with 674 other people.

She awarded knighthoods to Shakespearean actor Michael Hordern, 70; John Pritchard, 60, the new chief conductor of the BBC Symphony Orchestra; and David Piper, director of Oxford University's Ashmolean Museum.

Dr. Olga Uvarov, the first woman president of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons, was made a Dame of the British Empire, the female equivalent of a knighthood.

Puttnam, whose "Chariots of Fire" won an academy award as the best picthue of 1981, was named a Commander of the British Empire.

The same honor went to Miller, who aside from being a leading director of operas and plays, is a British TV personality and comedian.

Thompson, 25, who won his gold medal in 1980, was made a Member of the British Empire.

The awards are granted by the sovereign on recommendation of the prime minister to reward distinguished service to the nation, and in some cases to repay political debts.

NEW YORK (AP) — Northern J. Calloway, who plays David on television's "Sesame Street," has filed a $25 million suit charging business associates with sabotaging a project to produce an animated movie for children and families.

Calloway filed the suit Wednesday in U.S. District Court asking for damages and a court order "to enforce and protect his rights as an artist, producer and copyright owner" of the project.

Calloway said he conceived and developed the motion picture project "as a full-length science fiction musical, with state of the art computerized animation, for children and family entertainment."

He said the project was tentatively entitled, "The Skyrider." But he charged his managers and lawyers conspired with others and "misappropriated" his copyright materials and violated certain agreements to deprive him of his production rights.

Among listed defendants were LMN Productions Inc., which was formed to market the project and two LMN officers, Michael B. Klein and Luis Quiros. Klein and Quiros allegedly were engaged by Calloway in January 1981 to aid in obtaining production financing.

The suit did not list addresses for the defendants, and their whereabouts could not be determined to obtain comment on the suit.

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Jerry Lewis, recovering from double coronary bypass surgery in Las Vegas, will give up smoking as his New Year's resolution, according to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Lewis has been associated with the organization for 30 years. It issued a statement from New York saying Lewis "looks forward to a very happy, healthy, and productive New Year" and plans "to crusade as vigorously as ever (for) his kids" with muscular dystrophy.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Recommended trips to ophthalmologist must for diabetic

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've been treated for diabetes by a doctor that I've got a lot of respect for. However, there is one thing he does that bugs me; he sends me to an eye doctor to have my eyes checked. I don't like this business of running around, and I don't know why one doctor can't take care of a simple case of diabetes. — Cal, Flint, Mich.

Solomon

Dear Cal: It is not possible for a single physician to keep abreast of the flow of knowledge in all areas of medicine, and to be an expert in everything no matter how much his or her patients would like that to be the case. The fact is that there is so much to know that a person may be extremely skilled in one area, but know relatively little about another.

One condition associated with diabetes is proliferative retinopathy. It is treatable but, if neglected, will lead to loss of vision. Moreover, the condition is not always obvious and can easily be overlooked.

The bottom line is that ophthalmologists are more likely to detect proliferative retinopathy than are other physicians, and routine ophthalmologic examinations for patients with diabetes may be sight-saving. This is one area where the ounce of prevention is well worth the pound of cure.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I was referred to a plastic surgeon by my internist. He had informed me that this surgeon was certified by the American Board of Plastic Surgery. Does that guarantee that I will get a good result from my operation. — Mrs. C.B., Martha's Vineyard, Mass.

Dear Mrs. B.: Healing of tissue is affected by several factors, some of which are beyond control of the surgeon. No guarantees of a perfect or even a good result can be given in any branch of medicine. Since medicine is an inexact science, results are sometimes unpredictable. The more thorough the surgeon's training, skill and experience, the greater the chances for a satisfactory result. Certification means that the particular surgeon has fulfilled at least the minimum requirements for fulltime practice as a specialist in the field.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am scheduled to have some surgery. It's not very serious but I'll be glad when it's over. What I'm writing about though is that my doctor told me not to use any aspirin for a few days before the operation, and I'd like to know what aspirin has to do with an operation. Thank you. — Denise, Charleston, W.Va.

Dear Denise: Aspirin tends to prolong bleeding time and may therefore delay wound clotting, a condition that could complicate surgery. Incidentally, the combination of aspirin and alcohol may have an even more significant effect on bleeding time.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've heard people talk of REM sleep but I'm not certain what it means and I would appreciate an explanation. — Wanda, Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Wanda: REM (or rapid eye movement) sleep is active sleep and is characterized by an increased metabolic rate and an elevated temperature. NREM (or non-rapid eye movement) sleep is quiet sleep.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've known color-blind men but I've never known a color-blind woman. Is this just my experience or is this generally the case? — Don, Houston, Texas

Dear Don: Color blindness is inherited in a sex-linked fashion that makes it very unlikely for a woman to be affected.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've heard that women who have relatives who have had breast cancer are more likely to get breast cancer themselves. But I don't know how much more likely. Has anyone tried to put together this kind of information? — Mrs. K. O'M., St. Petersburg, Fla.

Dear Mrs. O'M.: One study has revealed a relative risk of abut 2½ for women whose mothers or sisters have had breast cancer, compared with the general population. In other words, for every two women in the general population who get breast cancer, five women whose mothers or sisters have had breast cancer will develop the disease.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have read about the insulin pump that is being used by people with diabetes, and what I would like to know is whether it can be used by children. My daughter has diabetes and is getting along alright, but I'd like to know if she wouldn't do better on the pump. — Mrs. O.H., York, Pa.

Dear Mrs. H.: Dr. Robert S. Sherwin, of the Yale University School of Medicine, has suggested that insulin pumps might be beneficial for pregnant women and slow-growing children, but only if their diabetes cannot be controlled by conventional means. From what you write in your letter, your daughter is getting along well, and switching her to the insulin pump would not be indicated. There is no point in tampering with treatment that appears to be successful. Dr. Sherwin notes that the insulin pump is at least partly experimental and there are still uncertainties about its long-term effectiveness. In my medical practice I suggest it's use be limited to those patients whose diabetes is not subject to control by other methods.

Dear Dr. Solomon: People are always talking about the age of the mother and how older women may give birth to defective babies. But no one ever talks about the father. I know that it is the woman who carries the baby for nine months, but I also know that a man must have had something to do with it. Doesn't the father's age or health or anything have anything to do with the health of the baby? — Bertha, New York City

Dear Bertha: The point you make in your letter is supported by Dr. Marcia M. Wishnick, of the New York University Medical Center. She maintains that the father's age is an important consideration in a couple's risk of having a child with Down's syndrome.

It appears that the father's age may not become an important factor until he is about 44 years old, which is higher than the age at which a mother's risk of having a baby with Down's syndrome becomes important. But older fathers may indeed contribute to birth defects in their children.

(If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Argentine group receives bomb

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A bomb threat brought police to the headquarters of an Argentine human rights group headed by 1980 Nobel Peace Prize winner Adolfo Perez Esquivel.

Demolition experts blew up a package labeled "explosives, do not touch," found Thursday on the doorstep of Perez Esquivel's Peace and Justice Service.

The shoebox-sized container held only pieces of brick and cement, federal police spokeswoman Maria Vasquez later told The Associated Press.

The 1st year's payment and buyer qualification will be calculated equivalent to a rate of 8 3/8% loan to value interest will be charged at a rate of 12 3/8% for the 1st 6 months of the loan. After the first 6 months interest will be charged at the most recent 6 months Treasury Bill rate plus 4.25%. Payments on these mortgages are graduated so as to increase the principal and interest payment 7.50% each year for the next 4 years. At the end of the first 5 year period the graduation in payment will cease. A new payment schedule will be computed using a variable rate mortgage to amortize the remaining balance over the remaining 26 years of the mortgage based upon the then current Treasury Bill rate plus 4.25%. The 7 1/2% maximum increase can be more if the original loan principle exceeds 125%. At each 5 year anniversary date, the payment may be adjusted to allow the remaining payments to fully amortize the loan. ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE APPROXIMATELY 13.875%. *Principle and Interest only is calculated in monthly payment.
