Developments In Bridge Fight Come Fast; Company Denied $165,000 Damages By Travis Judge On Friday

Inquiry Is Held

Contract Made With Firm Held Invalid; Competition Cited As Grounds For Claims Asked By Contract Holders

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 15.—Developments in Texas' controversies with owners of three toll bridges spanning the Red river and joining the Lone Star state and Oklahoma, provoked by construction of parallel free passages by the two commonwealths, came fast today.

Judge W. F. Robertson of Travis county district court announced he would deny the Red River Bridge company relief sued for, $165,000 damages claimed caused through opening of the Denison-Durant free bridge.

Inquiry Conducted

The state attorney general's department revealed that it had ascertained the Texas highway commission had paid the Terral Bridge company $15,000 in settlement of claims for losses sustained by opening of a free bridge between Terral, Oklahoma, and Ringgold, Texas.

Attorney General James V. Allred held a court of inquiry in a Travis county justice of the peace court to develop details of the settlement with the Terral Bridge company.

Allred severely criticised the highway commission for negotiating the settlement without the knowledge or consent of his department while a suit for $50,000, brought by the bridge company, was pending.

Consider Settlement

Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer, stated the commission had not settled a claim for damages made by the owners of a toll bridge across Red river between Gainesville, Texas, and Marietta, Okla. He said he expected the commission to consider a settlement involving the Gainesville-Marietta bridge next week.

Five Are Hurt In Crash Here

Minor Injuries Suffered By Occupants Of Two Cars In Friday Mishap; All Taken To Local Hospital

Five persons suffered minor injuries when a parked automobile was struck by another machine near the municipal airport at about 7 o'clock Friday evening. The victims were dismissed from West Texas hospital after treatment.

Most seriously hurt was Manson Lambright, 21, who suffered three broken ribs on the left side. Others injured were: Kenneth Lambright 18, a gash on his head; A. J. Ammons, severe cuts on his face and neck and injuries to his right knee; his son, Alton, a scalp wound to the skull; Mrs. Ammons, a scalp wound.

Knocked Unconscious

The quintet was injured when an automobile driven by Alton Ammons struck the parked automobile of the Lambrights, who had stopped to repair the car. Manson Lambright, who was walking around the side of his stalled machine to crank it, was knocked unconscious. He suffered possible internal injuries.

Four adults and one baby were in the Ammons' car, which was being driven north. Mr. and Mrs. Ammons gave their address at West Texas hospital as route 3, Lubbock. The Lambrights who have been living at a local tourist camp nine weeks, came here from Haskell to pick cotton. Besides Manson and Kenneth, others in their car were their father, J. M. Lambright, and their brothers, Grady, 16, and Orvil, 14.

Now Pat Is Real Hero To Kids

"Oh, Well," Patrick Sighs, And Then—

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Until two weeks ago, Sergeant Pat Kelly of Summit, N. J., was just a big policeman—quiet and huge, 6 feet 5 inches, 384 pounds.

Every Christmas he played Santa Claus at the Summit home for children; every summer he won the cup for the largest man in the state Elks' convention parade. At home he wiped the dishes for his wife, "Peaches," 5 feet 4 inches, 98 pounds.

But now—all on account of the power of the press—he is "The biggest cop in the country." He says so himself.

It started when Patrolman Harold Freeman, of Greenport, Long Island, weighed in at 333 pounds and started bragging.

Then H. C. Morris, who drives a Black Maria at Huntington, W. Va., put in a bid. But he weighs only a paltry 314.

Summit citizens promoted Sergeant Kelly and his 384 pounds.

Right away somebody urged "Tiny" Gardner, of the Dallas police cohorts, to get on the scales. He registered 388, and Dallas said he was biggest.

Pat Kelly looked at the newspaper picture of him, noting great coat, puttees, gun, handcuffs, and all.

"Oh, well!" said Pat.

He donned regalia, and went back to the scales. They groaned —407 pounds!

So Pat issued a statement today. "Hard work and clean living," he said, patting his big chest.

Federal Fund For Relief Is Sought

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP) — A bill calling for $375,000,000 for direct federal relief to the needy was introduced jointly today by Senators La Follette, Republican, Wisconsin, and Costigan, Democrat, Colorado.

It represents the result of extensive hearings recently concluded in similar measures which they had introduced separately. Senator La Follette said it represented a "remodification" of both, making changes in the setup for distribution of the money while seeking the same ends.

The money would be allocated to the states by a "federal emergency relief board," under the new measure.

Hiccough Victim Improves; Convulsions Are Infrequent

Condition of Isaac B. Greer, 52, who has been suffering of hiccoughs for several days, was quite favorable Friday night, his physician said. Mr. Greer had an hour's natural sleep Friday afternoon and last night was hiccoughing only occasionally.

Improvement was noted in Greer's condition at 5 a. m. yesterday and he was able to take nourishment naturally during the day. The spasmodic convulsions frequently were separated by ten minutes Friday, as compared to eight and ten times each minute Thursday when the man was moved to West Texas hospital.

Japanese Are Forced From Tahushan By Chinese Raids

TIENTSIN, China, Jan. 15. (AP)—Chinese troops have driven the Japanese out of the focal city of Tahushan on the Peiping-Mukden railway, Chinese newspapers said today, and have inflicted 100 casualties in a battle still progressing in southwest Manchuria.

Japanese newspapers agreed with the vernacular publications that Japanese detachments have been forced to retreat from many positions they occupied on their march to Chinchow and have lost many dead and wounded in defeats during the past few days.

Minor Injuries Suffered In Coast Guard Collision

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 15 (AP) —Only a few minor injuries were suffered by the crew of the coast guard destroyer Herndon when she was in collision with the Collier Lemuel Burrows today, a radio received tonight said. The message was to commander J. F. Farley, acting chief of staff of the destroyer force.

The coast guard patrol boat Boutwell from New York reached injured vessel at 5:30 o'clock. Three other service vessels, the patrol boat Acushnet from Woods Hole, and the destroyers Wainwright and Wilkes were expected alongside within a few hours, ready to offer aid.

Three Sharing Spotlight For Voters' Favor

Curtain Is Up And Events In Prologue To Presidential Campaign Marching Briskly Across 1932 Stage

Hoover, Roosevelt And Smith Are Mentioned As Favorites For Nominations; President Is Out In Open

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The political curtain was up, and events marched briskly today across the stage in the prologue to the 1932 presidential campaign.

Twenty-four hours of increased activity that opened up almost simultaneously on both sides ended tonight with three figures in the spot light—President Herbert Hoover, Governor Frank D. Roosevelt, and former Governor Alfred E. Smith.

Campaign Under way

President Hoover's campaign for Republican re-nomination was under way. Former Governor Smith was cheered again today by crowds in Boston, where at last night's "victory" dinner he was adjured not to throw his brown derby away. The Roosevelt boom had been formally launched by the Democrats of North Dakota, and his formal announcement momentarily was expected.

Actually, President Hoover, was, of course, the only one of the three publicly a candidate for his party's choice. Neither the former nor the present governor of New York has made any statement. Even the closest friends of Smith say they do not know where he stands, but they believe last night's developments may have strengthened the efforts of his supporters to have him become a candidate.

Enthusiasm Shown

Friends of Governor Roosevelt said today he had as yet received no formal notification of his indorsement by North Dakota Democrats. Twenty five hundred members of the party attending the "victory dinner" at the Hotel Astor last night gave him an enthusiastic reception but there was no public reference

General Coxey To Enter Race

Grizzled Campaigner Declares He Will Seek Presidency On Same Platform He Advocated Back In 1894

(By The Associated Press)

MASSILLON, O., Jan., 15.—"General" Jacob S. Coxey, who went to jail in Washington 38 years ago, would like to go back there in state —as president of the United States.

Coxey, grizzled campaigner for "money at cost" and now mayor of Massillon, today announced himself a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

To File Petition

The gaunt, gray-haired "general," now in his 76th year, said a "wide circle" of friends would file his petition in the North Dakota presidential preferential primary of March 15. His platform will be the same he advocated in 1894 when he led his famous "army" of the unemployed to Washington and was jailed for trampling on the lawn of the capitol grounds.

He will advocate the sale of non-interest bearing bonds for public improvements, issuance of legal tender by the government against these bonds, relief of the unemployed and a return to prosperity.

Prohibition Leaders Call On Supporters To Defeat "Wets" In 1932 Election; Foes Unite

King Winter Perpetrates A Weather Hoax

(By The Associated Press)

YEARS hence, many a grandchild may hear about Jan. 15, 1932, as the day when Mr. (King) Winter, prepetrated the biggest weather hoax in history.

Here's how the yarns will run:

Los Angeles had a "snow storm" for the first time since its 54-year-old weather bureau was established and a good snow-balling was had by all.

Lake Placid, N. Y., had its most embarrassing moment. Rain wiped its internationally famous bob-sled course clear of snow, forcing an Olympic "winter sports" committee to go into a flushed huddle. Normally in January the town is buried in ice and snow.

Then a more sinister tale of how another levee broke under the impact of "spring rains," and sent warnings and boats through the Tippo basin in South Mississippi.

And yet another story of a coast destroyer and a freighter colliding off New London, Conn., in a "November" fog so thick you couldn't see the bow from the bridge, and not a life lost.

And then a gentler tale of dandelions and green grass sprouting all along the Atlantic

McBride States That "We Must Shun Pitfalls Of Partisanship;" Richardson Selected League President

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. — The anti-saloon league convened here today and received a warning from one of its leaders that prohibition can be won or lost in the November election.

Meanwhile foes of the dry laws in the house agreed to support a move to return liquor control to the states.

F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the league, opened its four-day, biennial convention asserting "we must shun the pitfalls of partisanship" and seek the support of the "drys in all parties for the maintenance of prohibition.'

Richardson Is Head

Bishop Ernest G. Richardson of Philadelphia was elected president, succeeding Bishop Thomas Nicholson of Detroit.

In the house, Republican and Democratic anti-prohibition leaders joined to introduce a prohibition amendment seeking restoration of liquor control to the states, with the government to supervise only interstate shipments.

The measure was introduced by Representatives Beck, Republican,

Suit For Damages Settled Hurriedly In Court Friday

Within an hour after Mrs. Mary Putty filed suit for $10,000 damages against Delbert Foster Alcorn in 99th district court Friday, she received judgment for $3,000.

Parties to the suit had agreed to judgment before the petition was filed and waived witness and jury service. Judge Clark M. Mullican, after hearing testimony, signed the judgment and Mrs. Putty was paid $3,000 for damages allegedly suffered when a truck struck and killed Laverne Putty, 16, her daughter, on the Slaton highway one and one-half miles south of town. Alcorn owned the truck, the petition set out.

Disturbance Quelled After Policeman Fires At Rioter

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 15. (AP) — Disturbances by approximately 400 stable hands at Hialeah park race track, who went on strike when they were denied privileges of sitting in the grandstand and paddock, were quelled today after a policeman fired his pistol at a negro who threatened him with a pitchfork. The negro was not hit.

A number of stablemen were ejected from the park by police and deputies who had sent in a call for tear gas bombs.

Large Death Toll Is Feared As River Wins Battle

(By The Associated Press)

SWAN LAKE, Miss., Jan. 15. —A new 10-foot flood swept down on a thousand Tippo Basin homes tonight as the families, unaware of the danger, slept in their already surrounded houses.

Three major breaks north of here at dusk gave the signal that the rampant Tallahatchie river had won its five week's battle for the Tippo Basin.

Turn To Rescue

It also was the signal for men who have relentless sought to choke the river into its artificial banks to turn as actively to rescuing the thousands of persons in the path of the released waters.

Fear was expressed that the sudden rise may trap many families and cause a heavy loss of life. Most of the home in the basin were surrounded by water from a break at Sharkey last week. Yesterday the water was deepened considerably by crumbling of the levee across from Glendora three miles down the river.

$100,000 Needed For Relief Work

GLENDORA, Miss., Jan. 15. (AP)—A Red Cross estimate of 30,000 persons driven from their homes and $100,000 needed for immediate relief work in the north Mississippi flood area was made today as the rivers were reinforced by new rains and threatened a breakdown of the dyke system.

Levees, battered by high water for four weeks trembled under the pressure of the rushing rivers, spouted water through cracks between the sandbags, and overflowed at a dozen points in the Talla-

Arkansas Woman Near Death As Result Of Attack; Husband Surrenders; Steak Hammer Used As Weapon

TEXARKANA, Ark., Jan. 15. (AP) Mrs. L. P. Mason, 35, was near death tonight from head injuries received when she was beaten with a hammer at her Foreman, Arkansas, home.

Her husband, a prominent land owner and real estate dealer, surrendered to officers. He was held for investigation at Ashdown.

Negro Prisoner Is Wounded In Attempt To Break Away

SWEETWATER, Jan. 15. (AP) — Theodore Scruggs, Dallas negro, was recovering tonight in a hospital from a bullet wound in the abdomen, received last night when he was shot by an officer while attempting to escape.

Scruggs, held here for Lubbock officers, was said by Patroiman Bland to have broken away from the officer as the latter was taking prisoners from the jail to a "soup kitchen" for their evening meal. Bland said he pursued the fleeing negro and cornered him. The officer said he shot when Scruggs turned on him with a piece of lead pipe.

Jurors Refuse An Indictment

(By The Associated Press)

MILLERSBURG, O., Jan. 15.—A grand jury today refused to indict a father who killed his baby because it was incurably ill.

Fifteen men and women who have pondered the case since Monday, recommended that James Stenhouse, a stone cutter of Killbuck, near here be given a sanity test and if found insane be committed to an asylum. He had confessed to slaying his 2-year old son, David Oscar.

The "merciful killer" maintained "I know I did right." He said the baby was suffering with a brain disease which the doctor said was incurable.

Shouts Defiance And Demands Longer Term; Declares She Will Not Keep Quiet After She Is Released

(By The Associated Press)

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 15.—Mahatma Gandhi's wife, a little old lady of sixty, went to jail today for six weeks because she had taken up where her husband had left off in the nationalist campaign for independence.

The comparatively short sentence they gave her touched her pride.

"Why do you send me away for only six weeks?" she cried as a court attendant led her out. "Do you want me free again so quickly to take the lathi blows with the rest of my countrymen? I won't keep quiet even after I am released. Give me the same sentence you gave my sister."

Judge Is Helpless

But the judge only shook his head. "What's done is done," he said. "I am helpless."

The court imposed a sentence of 3 1-2 months at hard labor, with a fine of 100 rupees, on Miss Manibeh Patel, daughter of the imprisoned president of the nationalist congress, for taking part in an unlawful assembly.

Troopers, Photographers Clash At Ilsley Funeral

MIDDLEBURG, Va., Jan. 15. (AP) —Strife followed funeral services today for Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley due to a state policeman objecting to photographers taking pictures of the services.

Meanwhile, the search for two men suspected of murdering the wealthy sportswoman and her maid, Mrs. Mina Buckner, extended to the ravines and forests of the nearby Blue Ridge mountains. The clash between police and the photographers came just as the casket containing the body was borne down the steps of quaint old Emmanuel Episcopal church.

Hoover Credit Proposal Gets House Passage

Measure Is But One Step Away From White House; Now Will Go To Conferences; Adjustments Scheduled

Amendment Offered By Marvin Jones Giving $200,000,000 Of Total To Agriculture Is Given Approval

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The $2,000,000,000 reconstruction corporation bill—foremost and mightiest of the measures proposed by President Hoover for enlivening business—tonight was given the overwhelming approval of the house.

Already passed by the senate, the measure now is one step away from the White House. It next goes to conference for adjustment of differing provisions accepted by the two chambers.

To Infuse Credit

The purpose of the bill is to infuse $2,000,000,000 of credit into business channels by loans from its vast, government supported funds, to banks and other financial institutions, which, in turn are to pass the money on to industry, agriculture and commerce.

After passing the measure by a vote of 335 to 55, the house tonight sent to conference the second item on the Hoover economic program, a bill to increase the capitalization of the federal land banks by $100,000,000 and thus increase the credit resources of the farmers. The major task of the conferees will concern an amendment attached by the senate adding $25,000,000 to enable the banks to postpone mortgage payment installments.

Budget Considered

Another of the president's suggestions for helping economic recovery—a balanced budget—received attention during the day of the house ways and means committee in consideration of tax increases. It heard Chester Gray of the American Farm Bureau federation present a broad increase program calling for additional revenue totalling about $1,500,000,000 annually through levies on American investments abroad, higher surtaxes, income and corporation taxes.

Forty-three Democrats and 12 Republicans voted against the reconstruction corporation bill. During the prolonged debate this group assailed the proposal as one that would relieve big business corporations and impose additional burdens on the tax payers.

Amendments Offered

More than 50 amendments, were offered, but only four of any importance were accepted. An amendment by Chairman Jones of the

Cold Rain Falls On South Plains

Cold rain fell slowly in many parts of the South Plains and Panhandle late Friday, but the mercury last night had not dropped to the freezing point here.

Possible showers again are expected today, but warmer weather is the forecast. The temperature late Friday was 34 degrees, five degrees below the maximum of the day. Minimum was 31 at 8, a. m.

Temperatures ranged from 30 at Canyon to 34 at Midland and roads in the Panhandle were difficult, the South Plains Pipe Line company reported.

Bridge Is Not Child's Play; It Is A $250,000,000 Up And Going Business

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—Bridge is a prosperous big business, which, in the opinions of leaders of the industry expressed today, is assured of a long future.

Expenditures on bridge itself are estimated at $100,000,000 a year with some 20,000 persons making their living from it, yet its effect on other industries is far greater.

Total annual expenditures caused directly and indirectly by the game are around $250,000,000, representing employment for at least 50,000 persons.

Books describing systems of bidding and playing contract have been selling recently at the rate of $2,000,000 a year. For months bridge books, especially one master's output, have been far ahead as the best sellers in the non-fiction class. The revenue of two bridge magazines alone is $100,000 a year.

Some $5,000,000,000 a year is paid for instruction to 2,000 or more teahers to whom the game gives exclusive or supplemental income. Lessons range from $5 to $50 an hour.

Devices for self-instruction are as numerous as they are ingenious. There are bridge table covers with summaries of systems in front of each player. There are gadgets that tell what to do if a dial is pointed to a particular bidding or playing situation. Some $1,000,000 a year is paid for these.

There are large investments in 1,000 or more bridge clubs. It is easy to spend $20,000 for furnishings without being elaborate. Dues range from $50 a year up. It has increased the sale of floor lamps. The furnishings industry has been aided in many ways.

Social aspects have had effects as helping public utility companies and food industries. Consumption of electric light and ginger ale has increased. Bridge luncheons ready to eat are on sale. There is a special form of bridge cookie. Ice cream is made in molds corresponding to suits of a deck of cards. Textiles are helped by demand for elaborate card table covers and the desires of guests to look their best at bridge parties.

The Woman's Angle

ST. BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

IT MAY be hard on the business of those who manufacture cosmetics but it is refreshing to have a French beauty specialist tell us that ordinary soap and water are the best aids to beauty, after all.

That is what Madame Martine Haubret told a group of women in New York the other day—women such as Princess Obolensky, the Grand Duchess Marie, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst. "Cosmetics and the beautification of women are surrounded by hokum and other flagrant harm," according to this woman, who says that soap and water are the only agents that can actually clean the skin.

All of which probably will make little difference in the cosmetic business, even if a lot of women take her talk to heart. The average woman loves to believe that she would be more beautiful if she could have her face in a lot of expensive creams and lotions and most of the propaganda that is put out about these creams is good enough to make us believe we would be beautiful if given time and money. But it is good to have a beauty expert recommend some soap and water occasionally.

This is said while recognizing that few women in Lubbock are going to have any sort of a good complexion using soap and water exclusive of some creams and lotions. There are few skins that can stand very many washings with this hard water unless some cream or lotion is applied to counteract the drying effects that the water has. The creams are almost necessary here, but the soap and water should be included along with the other things.

All of which won't make you beautiful, but may help.

WE NEED A NAME

THIS being the New Year, we have a new decoration on our wall that the sports' editor avers is a New Mexico jack rabbit and others on the force fondly believe favor a Baylor bear. Perhaps after all, it is a deer. It does have soft eyes and we're going to choose a suitable name. All suggestions will be considered.

The horns would be excellent for punching holes in hats except that it is hung a little high. Already my eyeshade—sacrificed to markmanship—hangs up there above the reach of even the tallest in the office.

AS ANOTHER city person looking on, it seems to me that these extension course should be of inestimable value to farm people because they are designed to make home life more pleasant. During this week, a rural recreational school has been in progress in Lubbock and representatives from 13 counties in this section have been attending.

Leaders in these movements believe that many problems of the rural people can be more readily solved if home life there is made more pleasant. It is with this in view that such schools are conducted for the people. It is a short course in culture and play. Music appreciation, story telling, picnics, home play, singing, folk games and many other phases of community and family entertainment are discussed and then demonstrated for those who are attending.

These things are expected to bring farm people together and cement their friendships, which will, in turn, lead to a more understanding business association and a better general condition, these leaders tell such people as you and me.

Whether it will or not, I cannot say, but it sounds logical.

Parties Honor Visitors Here

Two Who Will Leave Lubbock Soon Are Named Honorees At Parties; Mrs. Clifton Is Feted Twice

While society during the weekend has favored formal happenings, informality marked the parties of the middle week. Some of these events were courtesies to visitors in the city and to a resident who will make her home in Dallas in the near future. Mrs. A. D. Mrs. Kelley Clifton, who leavee next week with her husband to make her home in Dallas, was honored Thursday afternoon when Mesdames E. Burdett and J. O. Ford entertained at the home of the former. The afternoon was spent in quilting a quilt which was presented to Mrs. Clifton.

Another courtesy to Mrs. Clifton was the party given by Mrs. J. W. Smith Wednesday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. A. Kleinschmidt, 2118 15th street. At this time she was presented the quilt which had been pieced by 56 women.

The honoree was presented with a gift by Mrs. Smith and guests registered in a book which was later given to her. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Kleinschmidt and Mrs. Ford in serving a refreshment course. Guests were Mesdames Clifton, E. B. Ford, Tobe Burdett, E. Burdett, J. V. Martin, C. S. Spikes, E. B. "The Apple Cart," To Be Shown Here Monday, Will Appeal To All Persons

Bernard Shaw has jazzed his philosophy in his latest play, "The Apple Cart" which will appear at the Senior High School Auditorium on Monday night at 8:15 o'clock. Weaving his socialistic theories in a comedy to the accompaniment of verbal saxaphones, he has produced a play that is not only highly amusing, but one that gives you much to think about.

He hides the real intent of writing the play, that of predicting what England's political future may be, in situations that are almost farcial in nature but full of epigrams and the usual witty Shavian dialogue. It is a play which will appeal to the intellectual, but it is also a play which has an appeal to everyone who wants to be amused.

King Magnus, played by Boyd Irwin, is the clever politician, who is endeavoring to maintain a certain amount of equilibrim in a kingdom where he is harrassed by ministers, both men and women all opposing him politically and trying to deprive him of his power. How he outwits them in the end, provides a great audience entertainment.

One of the most daring things in the play is the interlude between the King and his mistress, Orinthia. She wants the king who is rather henpecked to divorce his wife and marry her. But the king, whose Queen Jemima bores him at times with her bromidic conversation, realizes that she is rather essential to him, but nevertheless admires Orinthia for her cheek.

YOU CAN BANK ON THE SAME EXQUISITE FLAVOR IN EVERY POUND OF HILLS BROS COFFEE

MEAL AFTER MEAL—day after day—even year after year, you'll get the same pleasure from Hills Bros. Coffee. It never varies in flavor! Here is why:

Instead of roasting in bulk—the common practice—Hills Bros. use their patented Controlled Roasting process. The blend of choice coffees flows through the roasters in an even, continuous stream . . . a little at a time.

Variation prevented by Controlled Roasting—Hills Bros' patented process

"A little at a time"—instead of in bulk—permits uniform roasting all the time

The roast that results can't be equalled for accuracy! No berry is underdone nor overdone—all are roasted to the same perfect degree . . . with a marvelous, unvarying flavor. It is a flavor no other coffee can have, because Hills Bros. patented the process.

Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

Make a cup of Hills Bros. Coffee. Inhale that wonderful fragrance rising in curling steam. Then sip—and see what a finer flavor Controlled Roasting makes! Order Hills Bros. Coffee by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

Sixty South Plains Herefords Will Be Shipped To Ohio As Result Of Transaction Here Announced Friday

Sixty South Plains Hereford steer calves will be shipped to Ohio for distribution among four-H club boys and girls as a result of a sale by Fred Snyder of Lubbock to Bart Saxbe, an order buyer, of Mechanicsburg, Ohio, the two announced late Friday.

The calves will be fed until next December by the largest four-H calf club in the United States and then will be sold at auction in New York City. Saxbe motored 1,700 miles to find premium calves suiting his purpose and was directed to Lubbock by Jimmie Dertz of Kansas City, Mo. Wertz formerly was a buyer on the Kansas City livestock market.

Price Not Revealed

Price paid for the 60 calves was not revealed, except that a heavy premium was paid. One calf will be given to each of about 200 Ohio club boys and girls, purchases in other sections being added to the calves bought here.

Snyder, several days ago sold a carload of calves to Frank Fredericksen of Andover, Ia., and the Iowan expects to feed them until next fall, when they will be sold at the International Livestock show at Chicago, the Lubbock raiser said.

Church Mergers Will Be Talked

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 15. (AP) — A plan for union of the Methodist Episcopal church and the Methodist Protestant church has the approval of commissions representing the churches.

The commissions agreed on a basic plan for the union at a meeting last night. Details were not disclosed. The report will be submitted to the general conferences of the churches.

Meanwhile, another Methodist Episcopal commission discussed a proposed merger with the Presbyterian church of America and the Protestant Episcopal church. Final action will await a decision on the Methodist union.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: JESUS AND NICODEMUS

Scripture Lesson: John 3:1-16

1. Now there was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews;

2. The same came unto him by night, and said to him, Rabbi, we know that thou are a teacher come from God; for no one can do these signs that thou doest, except God be with him.

3. Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except one be born anew, he cannot see the kingdom of God.

4. Nicodemus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter a second time into his mother's womb and be born?

5. Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, except one be born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

6. That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit.

7. Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born anew.

8. The wind bloweth where it will, and thou hearest the voice thereof, but knowest not whence it cometh, and whither it goeth; so is every one that is born of the Spirit.

9. Nicodemus answered and said unto him, How can these things be?

10. Jesus answered and said unto him, Art thou the teacher of Israel, and understandest not these things?

11. Verily, verily, I say unto thee, We speak that which we know, and bear witness of that which we have seen; and ye receive not our witness.

12. If I told you earthly things and ye believe not how shall ye believe if I tell you heavenly things?

13. And no one hath ascended into heaven, but he that descended out of heaven, even the Son of Man, who is in heaven.

14. And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up;

15. That whosoever believeth may in him have eternal life.

16. For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have eternal life.

GOLDEN TEXT: God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have eternal life.—John 3:16.

Time: April 11-17, A. D. 27, in the first year of Christ's public ministry.

Place: Jerusalem or the Mt. of Olives.

INTRODUCTION

The opening chapters of John's Gospel deal with the first things in Christ's ministry, the events of the first year, incidents recorded by the beloved disciple alone. We have already studied the choice of the first six disciples. A call afterwards confirmed when the Twelve were formally summoned at the time of the Sermon on the Mount. After this, our Lord returned to Galilee, and there he worked at the marriage in Cana near Nazareth, his first gracious miracle, the turning of water into wine.

Next John records a visit of Jesus, with his mother and brothers and disciples, to Capernaum. And then the evangelist relates a visit of Jesus to Jerusalem on the occasion of the first passover of his ministry, a passover signalized by his driving from the temple the money-changers and the traffickers in sacrificial animals and birds who were desecrating the courts of the Lord's house. During the three years of Christ's ministry this profitable business crept back again into the temple, so that the scene of mighty wrath was repeated during the last week of the Saviour's life. At this passover Jesus worked many miracles quietly and won many followers thereby

JESUS AND NICODEMUS

The first public appearance of Jesus in Jerusalem during Passover, 27 A. D. (Usher), must have made a wide and deep impress, for it reached through the masses into the Sanhedrin winning even there a secret disciple of the Messiah in Nicodemus who had a memorable night interview with Jesus. Many notable conversations have been reported to the world, such as those of Socrates, and of Samuel Johnson and his friends; but none of these compares for a moment, in weight of thought, beauty of expression, and vital importance, with the conversations of Jesus recorded in the Gospels; and of these conversations the chief, as probably all Christians will agree, is that with Nicodemus which we are to study today.

"A MAN OF THE PHARISEES," v. 1.

"Now there was a man of the Pharisees." v. 1 The leading sect among the Jews of Christ's time was that of the Pharisees. Their name means "Separatists," those who kept themselves separate from everything that might contaminate, a man closely akin to that of the Puritans of England during the seventeenth century. They were close students and observers of the Mosaic law, to which they had added many hair-splitting refinements. The Pharisees scorned all who did not join their body, and bore themselves arrogantly in public places, making their religion as conspicuous as possible. They looked ardently for the prophesied Messiah, who was to be, they held, a secular conqueror and a deliverer from the foreign oppressor, but they did not accept Jesus as the Messiah.

"VERILY, VERILY," v. 3

"Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee." "Verily" translated the Greek word, "Amen," "So be it," a strong affirmation. A single "Amen" in the synoptic Gospels, a double "Amen" in John's Gospel, marks one of Christ's utterances of special earnestness and importance. "Except one be born anew, he cannot see the kingdom of God." By "see" is meant partake of it, become a citizen of it, be incorporated in God's realm of righteousness and peace and love.

ALL MEN NEED THE NEW BIRTH, v. 3

Nicodemus needed the new birth, and we all need it. D. L. Moody said: "I am so thankful that our Lord spoke of the new birth to this ruler of the Jews, this doctor of the law, rather than to the woman at the well of Samaria, or to Matthew the publican, or to Zacchaeus. If he had reserved his teaching on this great matter to these three, or such as these, people would have said, 'Oh, yes; these publicans and harlots need to be converted, but I am an upright man, I do not need to be converted.'

"You might as well try to lift yourself by pulling at your boot-straps as try to generate within yourself the quality of life that will lift you into the kingdom of God."—Rev. William E. Biederwolf, D. D.

"You must take Christ — you must let Christ take you and draw you down into him, that you may see everything in him. The life that you then live in the flesh, you will live by the faith of the Son of God. You will have been born again; you will have entered into the kingdom of God."—Phillips Brooks.

THE ONE THING NEEDFUL, v. 7

Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born anew." "A sculptor spent months in carving a statue of physical perfection. When he had completed his work, he invited a friend to view his finished product. Removing the veil from the marble statue he said, with an air of pride, 'Is not that perfect?' 'No, it is not,' replied the friend. 'It lacks one thing.' 'What is that?' asked the sculptor manifestly disappointed. 'Life,' answered the friend. 'You may have everything else-education, money, friends, and yet if you do not have spiritual life, you have nothing.'"—Rev. Milford Hall Lyon, D. D.

"THE SERPENT IN THE WILDERNESS"

"And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness." The reference is to an act of the great lawgiver whom Nicodemus venerated above all others, who, when a plague of poisonous serpents came upon the Israelites in their wilderness wanderings (Num. 21: 4-9) to punish them for their complaints against God, was bidden by Jehovah to make a brazen serpent and elevate it on a standard. This he did, and all who were bitten by the snakes, if they looked on the brazen serpent, lived. "Even so must the Son of Man be lifted up." "The Son of Man," a term derived from the prophecy of Daniel, was Christ's favorite name for himself, signifying the incarnation of Deity in man, so that Christ was representative man and yet was God. He was lifted high on the cross of shame and agony. "And I, said Christ later, "if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto myself," referring to his crucifixion. (John 12: 32).

THE BIBLE'S CENTRAL VERSE, v. 16

"For God so loved the world." This verse is the greatest sentence in the Bible. Inasmuch as the Bible is king in literature, this is, therefore, the greatest sentence in all literature."—Rev. James G. E. McClure, D. D. Luther called this verse "the Little Gospel" or "the Little Bible." Henry Morehouse once preached for seven consecutive nights on the one word "So," contained in it. Dr. Alexander MacLaren calls this clause "so loved," the Lake of God's love; "that he gave His only begotten Son" is the River through which we discover the lake; "that whosoever believeth" is the Pitcher limiting the operation of the love of God; and "should not perish, but have eternal life" is the Draught, the individual appropriation of the Lake. God is love! "Let us tell it out among the nations, and let us not selfishly cling to this priceless possession, but share it with all the children of men."—Rev. Hugh T. Kerr, D. D. "That he gave his only begotten Son." "We may be puzzled at the suffering and the pain of the world But, then, let us remember that at Christmas was born the Prince of sufferers, that he came into the thick of the world, and bore the worst." Concerning the Prince of sufferers the verdict of God rang clear. "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."—Bishop A. F. W. Ingram.

An evangelist reduced this verse to an acrostic:

G-od so loved the world, that he gave his
O-nly begotten
S-on, that whosoever believeth on him should not
P-erish, but have
E-ternal
L-ife.

Amherst Tax Collector Says Business Now Is Picking Up

(By Staff Correspondent)

AMHERST, Jan. 15. — Tax collections are picking up some according to M. L. Payne, city secretary, who estimates his collections for 1931 will be as good as they were in 1930.

"We collected about 75 per cent of our 1930 roll and I think we will do as well this year," he added. "Since the close of the year we have collected some delinquent taxes. I think we will get a lot more."

There has been an increase in taxpaying since the holidays, due to better conditions, Mr. Payne added. Crops, especially cotton, are moving and people seem to have more money than in the early fall.

Matadors Seek Revenge After 1931 Lickings

Sad Sam Burton Sends Canyon Buffs Against Bullfighters Monday And Tuesday Evenings In Opening Series

Coach Sam Burton, he of the doleful expression, rotund figure and championship basketball teams, will arrive in Lubbock Monday with a crew of his West Texas State Teachers college Buffaloes and will send them against the Tech Matadors that evening in the first of a two-game series about which nothing can be done at present.

When he gave his enlightening lectures and illustrations on basketball before 300 of the nation's coaches here last August at the Tech Coaching School, Coach Burton demonstrated with a team of basketeers that knew his system and had the fundamentals down to a fine point. Burton's points would go anywhere, it was pointed out at the time, where a coach was blessed with the talent which graces the Canyon college campus. And at that time, returning to the subject at hand, Coach Burton announced that he would have this season the best basketball team that every represented the Buffalo institution.

The season has come, the time is at hand when the Buffs must prove or disprove that statement. So far they have proven it, although the team must be mighty good to be as good as the one last year, and it must be almost perfect to be any better.

Tech Pretty Good, Too

The Matadors of 1932 may not be the best cage aggregation to represent the school; it may not be as good as last season's team, but fans can expect a scrap when they meet the Canyon Buffs at the Tech gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening, and at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. They lost every game played with the Canyon team last year and still came out ahead with a majority of games won at the end of the season. The same crew that lost to Canyon last year is back again this year, perhaps more improved, certainly more anxious for victory. But it is to be remembered that the same crew is back at Canyon, just as anxious to continue as the leaders of collegiate basketball in West Texas, or anywhere else.

Season tickets to the games played at Lubbock this season are on sale at the business manager's office in the administration building on the Tech campus. They are going for $2.50 each, which represents a saving of more than 50 per cent, it is pointed out by mathematical genii, on the season. Single game tickets for the Canyon games and for other games will be fifty cents per each.

Tech officials are anxious to fill the gymnasium for the Canyon games, and the fans should need no further urging than the news that two fairly good teams are going to play basketball.

Frank Kimbrough, coach of the Wayland College Jackrabbits, whom the Matadors defeated twice last week, is to officiate at the games here.

Shelton Believes That Terry County Will Have Huge Crop

Terry county will have a cotton crop of around 30,000 bales in the opinion of J. E. Shelton, secretary of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce, who was here yesterday on business.

"Our last report showed over 26,000 bales on December 13," he said. "I have been told by ginners that 85 per cent of the crop has been picked. We would have had not less than 35,000 bales if we had not had some storms that lost at least 5,000 bales for us."

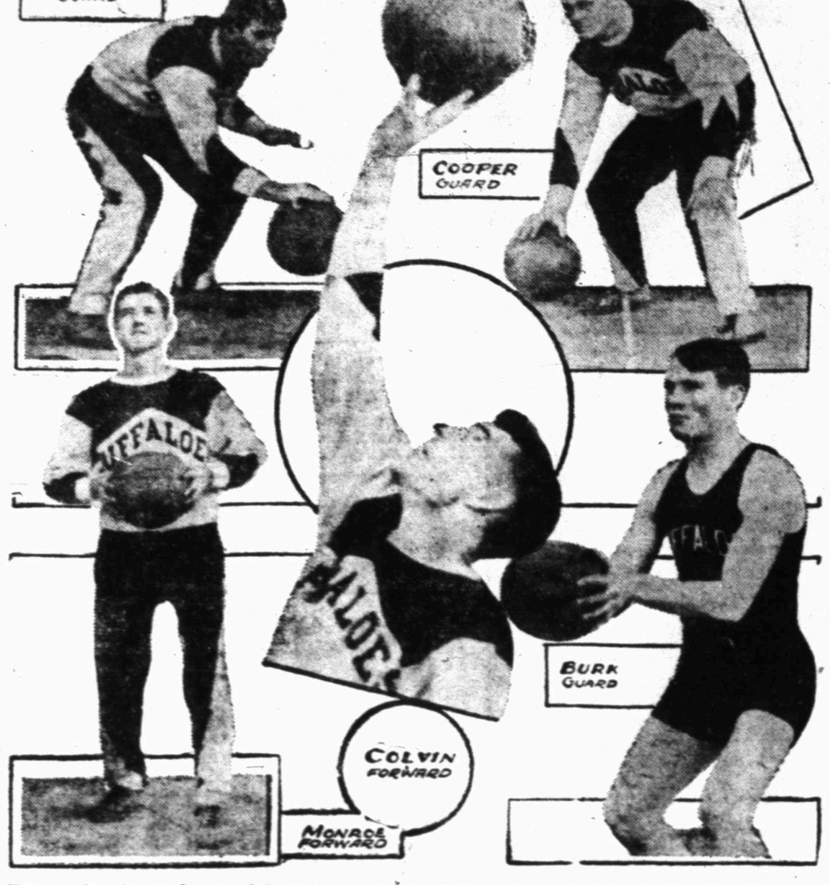

General conditions are good in Brownfield, he said. Business men are looking forward to the annual meeting of the chamber of commerce on February 8 when directors will be announced. H. W. Nelson, local druggist, is president of the organization.

Muldoon Needs Only Little Anaesthetic For Operation

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP) — William Muldoon, New York state's "grand old man" of sport, needed only a part anaesthetic for a serious glandular operation this afternoon, despite the fact that he is nearly 87 years old.

Afterward, the three doctors who officiated said his "post-operative condition is very satisfactory."

They Cavort On Tech Floor Monday

Terror lodges in the hearts of Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association teams when the team represented above steps onto the basketball court. These West Texas Teachers Buffalo cagers from Canyon, reputed to be the strongest in the history of the school, will be here Monday and Tuesday night in a pair of games with the Tech Matadors. Colvin and Burk are regular players, veterans of last year. The others are veterans and are likely to see service here in the series.

Browns Scouts Sign Eighteen Spud Recruits

Wichita Falls Evidently Means To Retain Franchise; Plans Go Forward For Big Season As Scouts Keep Busy

WICHITA FALLS, Jan. 15. (AP)—The Wichita Falls sector of the Texas League battlefront already is resounding with baseball gossip, let the field goals and free throws fall where they may.

In quantity at least, the street corner orators have plenty to talk about. Scouts of the St. Louis Browns, Spudder parent club, are making careful observations in those fruitful localities where the hoe handle and the sandlot are closely allied, and already no less than 18 rookies, most of them inexperienced in organized baseball, have been signed. And the Browns' scouts have just started to work, says Guy Airey, Spudder secretary.

A towering left-handed pitcher, Floyd Isekite, is being hailed at present as the best prospect in the litter of 18 recruits. The big fellow toiled last year in the semi-pro Timber League of the far Northwest, winning 19 of 21 games, and now is pitching in the Pacific coast winter leagues.

Eight Other Pitchers

There are eight other pitchers in the group, four of whom are regarded as more than promising. Tom Conlan, right hander, late of St. Mary's University of Oakland, Calif., who pitched with Springfield of the Western Association part of last season, is rated highly.

Harry Saller, a southpaw, product of the University of Colorado, who spent last season in the Browns' bull-pen, showed his superiors enough stuff to warrant a try-out with the Wichita Falls club. Doyle Taylor, also a southpaw, will be back for another trial. Taylor, a Californian, failed to make the grade here last season. Dorris Byram, a six-footer weighing 180 pounds, completes the array of pitching standouts.

Holdover pitchers from last year include Dick Fiorrid, Fred Vincent, Lester White, Forrest Pressnell, Roland Flinn, optioned to San Antonio last season and Howard Taylor.

The new Spudder manager, Hank Severeid, head an array of six catchers now on the roster. Holdovers are Herbert Bryant and the veteran Art Bradbury. Of the three rookie backstops on the list at present, Firman Owens, who hit .303 in 62 games with Greenville on the now defunct Palmetto League last year, seems the most promising. The other two are Walter Taylor and James Powell.

Art Scharein, nimble fellow who handled the short-stopping job very capably last season, is the only returning infield veteran.

A veteran outfield will return this season in Debs Garms, "Red" Badgro and Bob Fuss. But the scouts have signed up a couple of recruits anyway—Treaber Douglas and Fred Baldwin.

Baseball Fuss Takes Holiday

All Is Quiet Once More When Bill Terry Remains Silent, Babe Ruth Goes Golfing And Col. Ruppert Takes Weekend

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP) — Things quieted materially on the baseball front today for the first time since Bill Terry fired his broadside at the Giants.

The Yankees, the Giants and Brooklyn around whom the storms have blown enjoyed a day of blissful quietude. Club officials generally preferred to believe the main explosion incident to the general slashing of salaries had passed, but others sensed a lull before another cloudburst of discontent.

Babe Plays Golf

Babe Ruth, the most celebrated holdout of them all, made no move toward getting together with Col. Jacob Ruppert, the man who yesterday offered him a trifling $70,000 to perform for the Yankees this summer. The Babe, who is set on getting $80,000 for a one-year contract or $70,000 for two, enjoyed another round of golf. The colonel left town for the week end.

Brooklyn dispatched its 1932 contracts yesterday.

The Robins, it was learned authoritatively, have not made anything like the drastic salary cuts expected. They anticipate no great difficulty even with Babe Hermann, who beat the barrier by refusing to take a cut before his contract was mailed.

So far, all the Giants know about their crop of holdouts is what they read in the papers. They have not yet received direct word from Terry, who rebelled at a 40 per cent cut, or from Mel Ott or Fred Fitzsimmons, who likewise have served notice they do not like their 1932 terms.

YOUTH IS HELD

LAREDO, Jan. 15. (AP)—Francisco De La Rosa, 18, was bound over to the grand jury today on a charge of murder for the death of Andres Ortega, 18, who died yesterday of an abdominal cut. Officers said he was cut with a piece of glass while scuffling with De La Rosa in a bakery. De La Rosa's bond was set at $500.

Frnka's Wingman Enrolls At Tech

Another outstanding man who made quite a name for himself in the torrid 1931 Texas Interscholastic league football race has cast his collegiate lot with Texas Tech.

He is Harold Prather, 170-pound end who played regularly on the Greenville High school team, semi-finalist in the state race, and who was named by many as all-state wingman. Tutored by Coach Henry Frnka, former Lubbock High coach, Prather comes to Tech practically fitted for a football uniform. He is about the same build as Tech's style of wingmen, on the order of Yancy Price and Matt Hitchcock.

Prather was awarded a diamond studded gold football by a prominent Greenville sportsman as reward for being "the most spirited player" on the Lion team.

Ralls Tourney To End Today

Eight Teams Left; Lubbock Is Loser In First Round Game To Dickens; Plainview Seen As Favorite To Win

RALLS, Jan. 15. (Special)—Eight teams survived the opening rounds of the first annual Ralls basketball tournament today and will enter the second round play Saturday morning at 8 o'clock.

In the final first round game last night, a detachment of Lubbock Westerners were defeated by Dickens, 30 to 17, in a game that was more closely played than the score indicated. Joe Lewis and Wilkerson for Lubbock were the team's point men with half a dozen each. Mortin, Hawk and Cobb with eight points divided honors for the winners.

In the first game this morning, Plainview's Bulldogs got away to a start by defeating Daugherty, 53 to 14, in an easy game. Lakeview defeated Estacado, 26 to 24, in an extra period. The score was tied at the close and Lakeview got away for a lead in the overtime.

Slaton defeated Cone, 39 to 8, in another easy game. Coach Wright using ten men in the game. Crosbyton took a victory by default when the Wilson team failed to show up. Floydada also won by default from Wolfforth.

In the first afternoon game Ralls defeated Farmer, 45 to 5, with a better game than the score indicates. Farmer put up a strong defense in the first half to hold the Ralls score to 15 points while Farmer tallied its five points. Roby defeated Abernathy, 34 to 10, in another slow game.

Tonight in the last first round game, Dickens defeated Lubbock. Farmer defeated Cone, 28 to 2, in a consolation game tonight.

In tomorrow's pairings, Plainview meets Lakeview at 8 o'clock. Hourly thereafter, Crosbyton will meet Slaton, Floydada will oppose Ralls and Roby will clash with Dickens. Consolations will start at 2:30 with two games scheduled, after which the semi-final and final games will be played. The tournament will come to a close tomorrow night.

Tijuana Valley Flooded And Caliente Golfers Flee For Shelter In Midst Of Plan For Third Round Play

AUGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Jan. 15. (AP)—Torrential rains swept down Tijuana valley today, forcing a complete and disorderly rout of golf's conquistadors as they plotted a third round campaign in Agua Caliente's $15,000 open championship.

Although the necessary delay was scheduled only for the day, weather reports pointed to further rain tonight and again tomorrow, which boded ill for the already saturated course. It was planned to play the final round of the 72-hole tournament Sunday.

The drenching left the greens virtually unplayable, and sand traps and bunkers became water hazards.

Hamas Knocks Out Tommy Loughran In Round Two

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP)—Steve Hamas, Passaic, N. J., sensational young heavyweight, scored a knockout victory over the veteran Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia tonight in the second round of a 10-round match at Madison Square garden. Referee Gunboat Smith stopped the bout as Loughran reeled on the ropes after twice being knocked down.

Hamas weighed 186 1-2; Loughran 185 3-4.

Kessell store early this month it was said. About $125 of merchandise identified as taken from the store has been recovered, the sheriff's department said.

One-Legged Men Of Texas And Iowa Plan Golf Match; Both Shoot In 70

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. (AP)—An intersectional golf match between two one-legged public officials may be arranged as the result of correspondence between E. L. Brookins, clerk of the municipal court here, and John M. Biggerstaff, auditor of Hopkins county, Tex.

Despite the fact that each was only one leg, both claim to shoot in the seventies.

Biggerstaff, in a letter to Brookins, suggested a match or a series of matches next summer, one to be played in Sulphur Springs, Tex., his home, another in Des Moines, and possibly others in various cities.

"Sure, I'll Win 25 And The Cards Will Win Pennant," Dizzy Announces

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 15. (AP)—Jerome Herman "Dizzy" Dean, the young right handed pitcher who stands a fine chance of earning a job as a regular with the world champion Cardinals this year, signed a Redbird contract today after conferring with Branch Rickey, vice-president and business manager. The amount for which Wean signed was not divulged.

"I'm all set now and I'll win 25 games at least for the Cards next year," Dean said in characteristic fashion after the conference.

"Do you think you'll be more effective as a result of your year in the Texas League?" Dean was asked.

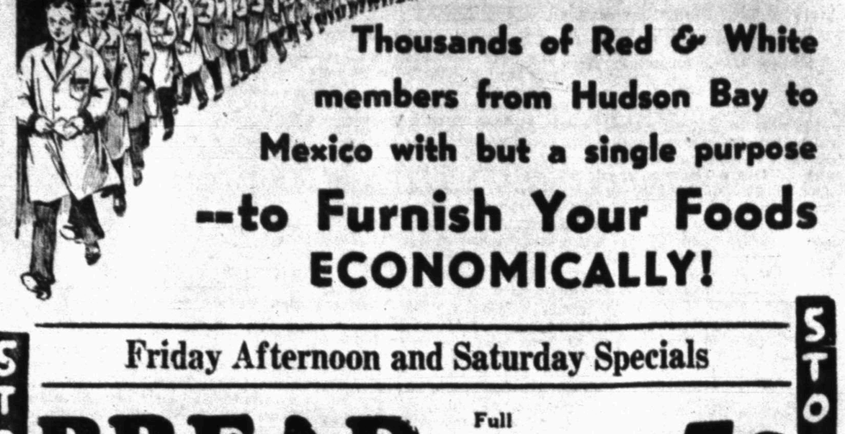

"No sir," he replied. "I couldn't be any better. I'd have been a winner for the Cards last year, but they'll be glad they've got me the coming season. I'll see that they win another pennant."

Does Much Hunting

"I've spent most of the winter hunting," Dean said, adding he was in fine condition and eager for the opening of another baseball season.

"You ought to see my brother, Paul," Dizzy explained. "He is as tall as I am and weighs more than 200 pounds. What a pitcher he is going to be!"

Young Stars Of Movies Are Looking To Megaphone In Search Of Careers

BY ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15. (AP)—The hierarchy of the megaphone is still the goal of movie actors young and old in search of a career that the wrinkles and double chins of age cannot obliterate.

Antonio Moreno, these many years a popular leading man, recently completed the first film of his career for which he was behind the the camera telling others what to do instead of in front of it being told. He made it down in Mexico, a Spanish talkie.

Reginald Denny is preparing to direct his first film for M-G-M, where Ramon Novarro is also privileged by contract to direct and where Robert Montgomery, newly risen to stellar fame, has aspirations toward that eventual end.

At Paramount, Irving Pichel is both director and actor; at Radio Lowell Sherman holds a similar dual position and Richard Dix has a yen for one; at Warner Brothers, Elliott Nugent is turning co-director with James Flood; and at Fox Kenneth McKenna, who came west to act but preferred to direct, is making good his wish.

Many other present day directors formerly were actors. Today's movie fans seldom remember that:

Ernest Lubitsch once was Max Reinhardt's principal comedian, and later a celebrated screen comic in Germany.

David Wark Griffith and Mack Sennett, veterans in their respective fields, both acted in their early films.

Cecil DeMille was a stage leading man and brother William acted too.

SERVE SOME EXCITEMENT!

SERVE DIXIE WAFFLES! THEY'RE EASY! THEY'RE GRAND! THANKS TO CALUMET'S DOUBLE-ACTION!

MAYBE you're a pretty swell waffleer already. And maybe you can't see how any baking powder could improve your waffles. But try this recipe just once—make Dixie Waffles with Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder—and you'll be a Calumet waffleer for life!

Calumet's Double-Action—there's the secret. That's what makes the difference. Here's how it works. In the mixing bowl, Calumet's first action begins. It starts the leavening. Then, on the hot waffle iron, Calumet's second action begins. Steadily, evenly, this new fresh rising swells through the batter and holds it light and fluffy until the waffle is perfectly baked. And the same thing happens when Calumet goes into your cakes and quick breads. Calumet's first action gets the leavening properly started. Then, in the oven, the second action gets on the job and carries your baking through to a super-delicate, delicious finish.

An added saving too!—The simple, tested recipe given here is a Calumet recipe. It calls for only one level teaspoon to a cup of sifted flour. That's the usual Calumet proportion and should be followed for best results. A splendid economy for you! Try Calumet—see why it is the world's largest-selling baking powder. Get Calumet at your grocer's to-day!

Calumet is a product of General Foods Corporation.

DIXIE WAFFLES

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1½ cups milk
2 egg yolks, well beaten
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

All measurements are level

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift together twice. Combine milk, egg yolks, and butter; add to flour. Fold in egg whites. Bake on hot waffle iron. Serve hot with butter and Log Cabin Syrup. Makes 6 four-section waffles.

Jelly, marmalade, honey, or brown sugar may be served instead of syrup. Or, waffles may be served buttered, with scrambled eggs and broiled ham, grilled tomatoes and cheese, broiled bacon, or creamed chicken.

Tax Offices And Paving

FOLLOWING its adopted policy of economy in all quarters; the City commission is requesting the school board to make arrangements, if possible, to consolidate the school tax office with that of the city proper.

That sounds like a good idea—and has sounded good ever since its proponents began discussing it six months ago.

The time is coming in city, county, state and national government when efforts will be made to decrease costs and that time will be here whenever the public decides it's time to do something. From the mounting costs of operation noted the nation over, it appears that it's time to do some paring in public business to keep it in line with present private practice in vogue from Maine to California—and back again.

The commission did another neat piece of work in its Thursday meeting when it ordered the paving of that three block stretch on North Avenue H between the end of the State highway slab to the city bricking at the north end of the underpass. In addition to improving an important entrance and exit to the city the project will turn some money loose and furnish a few jobs for a short time.

For a good many years the North Avenue H entrance and exit has been the cause of considerable irritation to those who live along it and also to the traveling public. Heavy traffic has frequently cut bad holes and bumps into the thoroughfare and, upon conclusion of the paving project to the Hale county line, the three-block leave-out was embarrassing, indeed.

Completion of that project will put an end to worries in that regard.

WE NEED CONFIDENCE

Wise men have long appreciated the value of confidence but the most of us are just now learning that firm belief is as desirable as almost any human attribute known to man.

A goodly percentage of the world's ills today could be cured were it possible to arouse in the populace that talent of supreme confidence in men, in governments, in religion and in the promise of the future. It is the lack of confidence which is retarding the globe-wide march back to normalcy.

By "confidence" is not meant "blind faith."

Not at all—for to improve, men must walk with open eyes and must take personal interest in all affairs directly pertaining to man's well being.

Confidence is not dumb trust. It is not engendered by the lazy thought "everything'll be all right. Let George do it."

But instead it is unshaken belief in God and man, made stronger by a touch almost Divine.

We need confidence more than an upturn in markets or an improvement in industry. Confidence is the only attribute which can lead us back alone.

DRAFTING GOVERNOR SMITH

Talk of drafting former Governor Alfred E. Smith to again bear the Democratic standard in the national elections is, as we see it, a waste of time. We don't think Mr. Smith can be nominated, in the first place. And in the second place, to renominate the New Yorker would be comparable to juggling nitroglycerine.

The Morning Avalanche has no quarrel with able Governor Smith, happy, affable, human character that he is. But we do want to see the Democratic party go back into Presidential power and we don't believe Governor Smith can turn the trick.

Times are entirely too touchy to hazard a return of the animosities which split the party in 1928. The job that beckons is one which will take the united strength and efforts of Democracy and is too big to be tackled with split forces.

Governor Smith's contribution to his party has been great. To him is owed a debt of gratitude.

But talk of drafting Mr. Smith as a candidate again is futile. Other hands can better bear the banner.

CAUSE OF INSANITY

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, And of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

INSANITY means mental disturbance. There is no single condition that can be called insanity. There are many mental diseases divided in groups according to their causes and their manifestations. In a recent consideration of the subject Doctor H. L. Levin has divided the causes of mental disease into two large groups—the predisposing causes and the exciting causes.

The predisposing causes are those which have long existed within the individual or in his surroundings. Thus, predisposing causes of tuberculosis include a constitution that gives way readily, an environment that is crowded and dark and a failure of proper nutrition.

The exciting cause is the germ of tuberculosis, which is usually conveyed from an infected person in the vicinity to one who is not infected. The exciting causes of mental diseases are usually the immediate circumstances or conditions which precipitate the actual attack.

Doctor Levin compares the onset of mental disease, therefore, to a stick of dynamite. The constitution of the stick of dynamite is a predisposing cause, but it takes an electrical spark to set it off and to bring about an explosion.

The predisposing causes of mental disease include certain stages in human existence which are unbalanced stages. These are the ages from 11 to 14, in which the child passes from adolescence to maturity, and period from 45 to 55, when the body has reached the end of maturity and begins to break down.

Another predisposing cause of mental disturbance is the strain of modern civilization. The human body is not built to go on interminably at high speed. Following a crash in the market, many human beings suffer continuously with strain, and some of them succumb.

The exciting causes of mental diseases also include physical factors such as sudden infections, poisons, injuries to the head that involve the brain and complete exhaustion from prolonged physical strain, or from hemorrhage.

In other instances mental derangement follows a sudden emotional shock such as the sudden death of a loved one, or a financial or social reverse.

A consideration of the causes of mental disease indicates at once that many, if not most, of them are controllable.

But Temporary Expedient

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The Walcott bill creating a two billion dollar—half a billion in treasury cash and the remainder in bonds — Reconstruction Finance corporation to pump enough fresh credit into the American economic balloon to get it again to floating properly "will help somewhat—temporarily," according to Chairman Peter Norbeck of the senate committee on banking and currency.

The committee had just concluded a session and its members were leaving.

Senator Peter Norbeck

Senator Smith Brookhart of Iowa, ranking Republican among them, paused in the doorway and laughed sardonically. "It may help long enough to renominate a president, not long enough to re-elect him," he said, and departed.

Chairman Norbeck chuckled.

ON THE BLANK back cover of the committee report to the senate urging "upon congress the necessity of making all possible speed with such relief as may be rendered by the enactment of the proposed measure," Senator Norbeck penciled a line from the page's upper left-hand to its lower right-hand corner.

"Let that line," he said, "represent our tendency—downward."

Atop of the line, well to the leftward, he sketched a hillock. "That," he said, "represents the original presidential credit corporation—a bulge upward, but lower down the graph where it stops than where it began."

THEN Senator Norbeck sketched a second hillock still farther down the main line, about the center of the page.

"That," he continued, "is the moratorium. See, it's nearly as high at its peak as the first upward bulge, but it starts farther down the graph than the first one and ends still lower.

"Now we are going to have quite a pinnacle—the Reconstruction Finance corporation—but it starts at the lowest point yet and heaven knows how far down it will be at its finish. Anyway, each bulge finds us worse off than ever, before the end arrives."

SOME CRITICS insist that the new corporation will boost securities to such a point that holders will be enabled to unload them at pre-crash figures, transferring their present losses to the general public.

"It won't prove as effective as that," answered Senator Norbeck.

"Securities today are below a fair normal. I doubt that the corporation will lift them to normal. It certainly will not lift them above it, and if it reaches that level it can't hold them there long."

"FOR AWHILE it will have a stimulating psychological effect," he continued, "and psychological stimulation is all right if something substantially nourishing goes with it to prevent it from wearing off and being followed by a bad reaction.

"The plan provides nothing substantially nourishing.

"The substantial nourishment which we need is renewed earning power to create renewed buying power. Credit will take care of itself then.

"Credit is built on earnings not earnings on credit. The trouble with our economics today is too fundamental to be cured by mere financing."

"UNEMPLOYMENT must be ended—not partly, but wholly," answered the senator. "My own suggestion would be reforestation of that part of the area of the United States which will grow trees that are not required for other purposes.

"It would be hand work and a longtime job. Road building is insufficient. Roads are built now mainly by machinery.

"Tree planting would furnish work for indefinite numbers and, paid for at about half the rate of private labor, speedily would take up the unemployment slack and give ample opportunity for readjustment to new conditions. Meanwhile no one need suffer.

"Credit relief at best is a temporary expedient."

AWAKENED GENIUS

There are signs that American brains are waking up from a period of hibernating. It is a bad quality of prosperity that it is fattening, druggy. Filled up and satisfied with the fruits of high prices and eager markets, the genius that creates is likely to slump down and go to sleep on the job.

Radios and automobiles showed the effects of this tendency during the late lamented "good times." Both the makers and the trade got the notion that good enough had been achieved. Radios would get music and talk out of the air; what more could be asked? Of course, they got various other things, too,—squeals and roars and snaps and bangs and mixed programs from two or more stations—but, on the whole, they were pretty good.

And the automobiles reached a sort of short-of-perfection stagnation point. New models came out that looked like the old models and performed not much better. And all models were so much alike that the phrase became general to describe a new car—"just another automobile." But what did it matter; anything would sell?

Then came the time suddenly when not everything would sell. Everybody had something that served the purpose, and anyway, the new wasn't much better than the old; what was the use of buying? Maybe some day the statisticians and economists will figure out the influence that such a public frame of mind has in bringing about a depression.

Certainly business has heard the alarm clock. The new automobiles appearing at the motor shows and in the sales rooms are different. They look as if thought had been put into the making of them. They look "smart." They are smart. They have got rid of the hang-over from the horse-and-buggy days; there are no whip-sockets on their dash boards. They are slicked-off from stem to stern so that the air that used to resist them now slips over and gives them a boost. And how perfectly entrancing is their performance.

And the radios have been toned down and toned up; they boom or they whisper, but they transmit with subtle delicacy and faithfulness the marvelous, rhythmic vibrations which art sets up in the ether.

No product any longer is good enough that can be made better. And that these new offerings and others in many departments of human activity are better, soon must be recognized by the buying public. That recognition means demand and demand stimulates supply. These are the two things that oftenest have been mentioned as lacking to the restoration of prosperity.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE TOWN CLOCK OF JILEMNICE:

The reason for the curious striking arrangement of the old Town Clock at Jilemnice (Starkenburg), Czechoslovakia, was to enable the inhabitants to tell the exact time at intervals between the hours at night. This system was quite customary with Central European town clocks of an older age.

Quarter past twelve was announced by a stroke of one, followed by twelve strokes. Half past twelve the booming voice of the clock was heard twice, followed by twelve strokes, indicating the hour. An initial stroke of three followed by twelve, indicated the hour to be 12:45. At the hour of one, the gong struck four to indicate the passage of four quarters (after twelve), following with two single strokes indicative of the hour. In all the voice of the gong was heard 510 times within twelve hours.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSY McBRIDE, 19 - year - old typist, is miserable and lonely when she finds that ALAN CROSBY, just returned from a year and a half in Paris studying art, no longer cares for her. Grosby is infatuated with a MRS. LANGLEY, wealthy divorcee, who considers herself a patron of art. Gypsy becomes disgusted with her job and when she is criticized for carelessness impulsively resigns.

She accepts an invitation from her wealthy cousin, ANNE TROWBRIDGE, to take the place of another guest at a formal dinner. The party is a bore. She leaves to get her wraps and go home, hears a noise in the next room and opens the door to see a man climbing in the window. He is JAMES WALLACE, guest of the Trowbridges, who has entered by the fire escape to avoid the dinner party guests. Wallace tells Gypsy he has just been jilted by his fiancee. She admits she has had the same experience. To spite the girl he cares for, Wallace asks Gypsy to marry him. She refuses but later accepts. They are married next morning.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

It was Anne Trowbridge who exclaimed, "Heavens, Jim! Aren't you going to kiss the bride?" Anne had relented in her disapproval sufficiently to come with Phil to see the couple married.

James Wallace bent his head and dutifully saluted Gypsy's cheek. She heard the magistrate saying something in his hoarse voice about wishing them a "long and happy life." Phil was talking—apparently what he said was a joke because the others smiled.

Gypsy looked about her and the others seemed figures in a dream. This could not be really she, Gypsy McBride, beside the tall young man with blue eyes who was holding her arm. Another moment and she would wake and know she had imagined the whole thing. On the second finger of Gypsy's left hand gleamed a circlet of diamonds. They were very bright. They caught fire from the sunlight and shot it back in dazzling radiance. The diamonds were real. She had not imagined them. Then she knew she had not imagined any of it. It was all true. James Wallace was her husband.

There was no time for a wedding breakfast. Wallace was anxious to make the 11 o'clock train. He had the tickets in his pocket. They went out of the building to where Trowbridge's car was waiting.

Phil glanced at his watch. "Plenty of time," he assured them. "We'll make it and have 15 minutes to spare."

The car was a sleek dark-blue coupe. Gypsy and Anne climbed inside. Wallace was muttering about "confounded traffic" as he followed them. He had experienced one unfortunate tie-up in New York streets and never forgotten it.

"Darling, you're looking pale," Anne said to Gypsy as they started. "Didn't you sleep well?"

Gypsy smiled. She did look tired. "I'm all right," she said. "After I got home last night I packed. And I was up at seven this morning."

"Never mind," Anne reassured her. "Brides are supposed to be pale anyhow. I remember at my wedding—"

She chatted on but Gypsy was not listening. Whenever she heard that word "bride" she wanted to turn and look for another person. It seemed impossible that she was the one referred to.

Young Mrs. Trowbridge had done her best to give the hasty marriage conventional touches. She had seen to it that there were flowers for Gypsy—bought by Wallace at a corner florist's shop just before the ceremony. There was a cluster of gardenias pinned to the lapel of Gypsy's suit coat. White flowers, sweet and fragrant, for a bride.

In one old and bulky suit case stowed away in the rear of the car were all of Gypsy's belongings. The suit case was not crowded. Half a dozen dresses comprised the girl's wardrobe. The other things had been so worn she was ashamed to pack them. The old tweed coat, an insult to any trousseau, she had given to Mrs. O'Hare to be handed down to her niece. Besides the dresses the suit contained the few things Gypsy had saved when she disposed of the household possessions after her father's death. A clock that had belonged to her mother. A small, old-fashioned photograph album bound in yellow plush, containing pictures of her grandparents. Her father's copies of "David Copperfield" and "Tristram Shandy." Packing these things had seemed a sacred rite.

Anne's voice broke in on Gypsy's reverie: "I'm so glad the sun is shining," she said. "It's a good omen, you know—means good luck."

"I'm glad too," Gypsy agreed.

She wasn't thinking about propitious omens. She was thinking that the last spring suit which was her bridal costume would look much appropriate so long as the day was warm. The brown suit had been an extravagence, even though Gypsy had bought it late in the season. It had been irresistible because it was exactly the shade to make her brown eyes seem more lustrous and velvety than usual and because it had tricky pockets she could sink both hands into. When she did this Gypsy looked like a rather naughty small boy.

Anne knew the suit was last season's but she complimented her on its becomingness. There had not been time to shop for a new hat. Gypsy wore the close-fitting

Sudan Cattle Feeders Plan To Put Herds Out This Year

(By Staff Correspondent)

SUDAN, Jan. 15.—There are in the Sudan territory half a dozen cattle feeders this year who will feed out about 3,000 head of cattle.

Two of the largest are P. E. Boesen and Furneaux and Furneaux, who will feed out about 750 head each.

Besides these two, at the Whaley and Lewis feed yards Mr. Whaley and another man named Mitchell are reported feeding 600 to 700 head.

Paul Brothers and Tom Kent west of town, have about 250 head of full feed. They also have another 250 head on grazing land.

G. W. Benton had 200 head left shipping out two car loads.

Arnold and Poore, west of town, have now about 150 head.

Besides these there will be another 500 to 1,000 head of cattle in small lots on farms and in dairy herds. The latter are mostly steer calves being fed for home butchering.

Druggist Gives New Formula To Stop Headaches

Realizing that no one drug can conquer even ordinary headaches, as they come from so many causes, a North Carolina pharmacist has developed a combination of several ingredients, used by many physicians, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time.

You can get this formula wherever drugs are sold under the name "B.C.", 10c and 25c packages, and when you have one of those violent nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes, "B.C." will give you soothing relief in three minutes.

"B.C." should also be used for the relief of muscular aches and pains, common colds and neuralgia, reducing fever, and for quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit forming drugs. (Adv.)

felt she had bought last June and thanked heaven the summer had been so warm that she had given it scarcely any wear. Her blouse was white and the gardenias did a good deal for the entire costume.

Wallace and Trowbridge were talking about the car. Phil boasted about the mileage he had covered. Wallace described the roadster he had purchased two months before. He said it could do 90.

"Say, Gypsy," Phil called back over the wheel, "ever drive with this fellow? Know what a speed demon he is?"

"No-no, I haven't"

"Well, believe me, you've got something to look forward to!"

Wallace protested. He said it was safer to drive fast than slow. Anyhow, he wasn't reckless, never took chances. What this country needed was a minimum, instead of maximum speed law.

The conversation was cut short as they reached the railway station. Amid a hub-bub of barking taxi horns and snorting vehicles they arrived at the passenger entrance. Three red caps ran forward to get their baggage. Wallace helped Anne and Gypsy out and Phil drove away to park the car. He called after them that he would return immediately.

"Made it all right," said Wallace with relief in his voice. The big station clock pointed to 10 minutes of 11.

They waited near the gate until Trowbridge rejoined them. A station attendant, with sonorous voice, was calling out the departure of a train.

"Not ours", Wallace hastened to assure Gypsy.

The whir and bustle of the great waiting room roused the girl. "Oh, Anne," Gypsy said, "I'm sorry I'm not going to see you any more—"

She was saying goodby, not to Anne Trowbridge, but to all she was leaving behind, to New York, to those, crowded days at MacNamara's to memories of her father, to Alan Crosby. Gypsy laughed and no doubt the others thought the tears in her eyes were tears of happiness.

"You're going to like it where you're going," Anne reassured her. "What's the name of the place? Forest City—that's right. Write to us, darling. We'll be waiting to hear from you!"

Of course she would write. Gypsy clung to Anne's arm. This cousin whom she had thought of so casually had suddenly become the last remaining link between the new life and the old.

Phil Trowbridge's big hand fastened itself over Gypsy's in a grip that was almost painful. "Wish you every happiness!" he told her grinning. "Deserve it. Think Jim's damned lucky! Nobody's told me I could kiss the bride but I'm certainly going to!" He planted a quick kiss on Gypsy's lips. In the confusion and laughter that followed the girl found herself beyond the train gate, waving one gloved hand at Anne and Phil across the barrier. The colored boy with the baggage was ahead leading the way. Gypsy tried to match her short steps to Wallace's great striding ones.

They reached the car, entered it, and the girl's eyes widened. There were great, comfortable armchairs in place of stiff train seats. A half dozen passengers were already in the car. Beside each chair there were little tables for magazines or books.

The white-coated porter led them to the other end of the car. He helped Wallace out of his coat, and hung it away. Gypsy sank into her big chair. She closed her eyes for an instant, opened them again.

Wallace was watching her. "Everything all right?" he asked.

Gypsy nodded.

Her husband glanced about at the other passengers. A woman directly ahead of Gypsy was throwing off a handsome mink coat. She was a tall woman. Her features were not beautiful but they were distinctive. As she moved Gypsy sensed the odor of spicy, elusive perfume.

Suddenly Wallace jumped up. "Newspapers!" he exclaimed. "Forgot about 'em. Be right back!" He reached for his hat and hurried out of the car.

In a few minutes he was back. Under his arms were two bulky morning newspapers and several magazines. He handed the magazines to Gypsy.

"Thought you might like something to read," he explained. "Didn't know what you care for. I hope these are all right."

Cosmopolitan, Harper's and Liberty. Gypsy thanked him, opened the Liberty and turned through the pages. Presently she felt the train moving out of the station.

Across the aisle Wallace was lost to view behind his newspaper. Gypsy dropped the magazine and stared out the window. There was nothing much to see. She turned back to the article she had been reading. The words blurred.

This was a honeymoon. Gypsy McBride—no, Gypsy Wallace now—and her husband departing on their honeymoon.

The newspaper across the aisle drooped. She heard her name and looked up. Wallace, from behind the folds of print paper, was peering at her. "Gypsy," he said, "there are some things I suppose we ought to talk about."

"All right."

Wallace discarded the newspaper. "First of all," he began, "everybody calls me Jim. I suppose—if you don't mind—you'd better call me that too."

"Jim's a nice name," the girl agreed. "I like it. We used to have a swell office boy named Jim."

"Bright boy?"

"I don't know. He only stayed two weeks. I think they missed some money from the office expense after."

Both of them smiled. So long as they were on trivial subjects everything was all right.

"Is Gypsy really your name?"

The girl nodded. "Don't you like it?"

"Yes, of course. It's just—sort of unusual. I never heard it before. For a real name I mean."

"I've never been called anything else. My father named me Gypsy before I was old enough to walk or talk or anything. They did christen me Mary Elizabeth—it was written in the Bible Mother used to have—but I like Gypsy better."

"Then that's what I'll call you—Gypsy."

"All right, Jim."

There was a pause before she asked: "What time do we get to Forest City?"

"Oh, not for quite a while." He looked at his watch. "About 6:30 this evening to be exact. Anxious to see the place?"

Gypsy said she was. "You haven't told me much about yourself," she said. "What do you do? I mean your business—you haven't told me anything about that."

"I'm a lawyer," he told her. "That is, I'm supposed to be. Practice with Mark Harrison, who used to be my father's partner. He's one of the finest old fellows in the world. Smart, too! There's another fellow in the firm named Blaire Mills. I'm the youngest. Been with the others three years."

"Being a lawyer ought to be interesting."

"It's all right," Wallace agreed. "Have you known Phil Trowbridge a long while?"

"Ever since we were in law school. Phil's never practiced, has he? Seems to know how to make dough, all right. New York's been good to him."

Wallace stirred restlessly. His embarrassment was contagious and Gypsy said no more.

"Mind if I go smoke?" He asked.

She said she did not. It was half an hour before he returned. There was a furrow between Jim Wallace's eyebrows as he resumed his seat.

"Gypsy," he said, leaning forward, "There's something you ought to know."

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15. (AP) — The cotton market was comparatively quiet today and prices fluctuated within a moderate range. After advancing 3 to 7 points in the early trading prices declined 9 points in sympathy with rather easier stocks and on hedge selling, but recovered to within 3 points of the highs on the late afternoon owing to a rally in stocks. The close was steady showing net gains for the day of 1 to 4 points.

The close was 3 points under the best of the day with March at 6.65 and May at 6.84, up 2 points net for the day while July closed at 7.02, up 4 points net.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP)—A further advance in cotton at the opening today on continued trade buying and covering but increased offerings, which were attributed largely to realizing and local selling.

March contracts after selling up to 6.74 at the starte, reacted to 6.65 or about 9 points from the best, but stiffened in the late trading on renewed covering and closed at 6.68. The general market closed steady, net unchanged to 3 points higher. May contracts which had sold off to 6.81 on the decline or about 2 points net lower, closed at 6.86, while July rallied from 6.96@7.03 at the close.

More hogs went to market by motor truck in 1930, than any other animal, according to the Chicago Motor club. The number thus transported was 11,045,914.

Market Draws Fresh Support And Is Undismayed Through Early Declines

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP)—Undismayed by early declines of 1 to 3 points, the stock market drew fresh buying support during the later dealings today.

Although there was some irregularity at the close, final prices on the average showed an even balance between small gains and losses and bullish converts felt that the stronger tone of the current week had been maintained.

United States government bonds turned reactionary, as was to have been expected; there was also some selling in rail loans, but the market hardened toward the end. Trading in both stocks and bonds slackened, turnover in the former dropping to 1,628,326 shares, or roughly a million shares less than on Thursday.

Pennsylvania, and Linthicum, Democrat, Maryland. They seek a vote at this session.

To Go To Mat

Meanwhile, from Bishop William F. McDowell, president of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, came a statement that "we are willing to go to the mat with the west on any clear cut issue; we shall continue to emphasize that we want no sham vote."

On the floor of the senate, prohibition was brought up by Senator Kendrick, a Democrat. He presented a petition from more than 4,000 Wyoming citizens asking repeal of the prohibition amendment and the substitute of a plan of federal control.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 15. (AP)—Brisk upturns of grain prices today went hand in hand with a fresh advance of the New York stock market.

Quick recovery shown by wheat values contrasted strikingly with bearish foreign developments and in particular with an unexpected big increase of shipments of wheat from southern hemisphere countries. Only a straggling export business in North American wheat was noted, but the overseas takings embraced at least some United States hard winter wheat and durums.

Wheat closed firm at the day's top, 1-4 to 3-8 above yesterday's finish, corn and oats each 1-8 to 3-8 up, and provisions unchanged to 8 cents off.

Grain School Is Ended On Friday

The first annual Texas Technological college grain school was closed here Friday, with farmers and grain men of West Texas hearing discussions of plant breeding, the work of the experiment farms, certification of seed and grading of grains.

"You cannot over-emphasize the importance of the skill and judgment of the plant breeder in knowing what he wants," said Dean A. H. Leidigh of the Tech agriculture school. Dean Leidigh pointed out that proper selection is only a part of plant breeding. How the state experiment stations back up the work of farmers and breeders in discovering proof concerning the productivity of seed was explained by Don L. Jones of the state experiment farm. Improved varieties and seed selections and the field certification work of the state was outlined by R. V. Miller, secretary of the state board.

Ross R. Stuard, federal grain inspector here, conducted a laboratory demonstration Friday afternoon on grain grading. Marketing problems were discussed by County Agent D. F. Eaton.

mission member, testified at the court of inquiry. A subpoena was issued for D. K. Martin, another commissioner, but he could not be located in Austin.

At the conclusion of Johnson's testimony, Johnson promised Allred that no action toward settling the claim of the Gainesville bridge company would be taken at the coming meeting of the commission. He also promised that if any attempt was made to settle it, the attorney general would be notified.

Contracts Invalid

Judge Robertson invalidated two contracts entered into by members of the highway commission and the Red River Bridge company concerning arrangements for settling a controversy over construction of the Denison-Durant free bridge.

The Red River Bridge company claimed that the Texas highway commission promised to pay it $60,000 for its toll bridge when the parallel free structure was opened. It also presented in court a purported agreement of the Texas commission that the toll bridge would be permitted to operate 114 months from and after February 7, 1931, free of state competition for in lieu thereof Texas would pay the bridge company $10,000 for each month it was not permitted non-competitive operation over this period.

Proviso Attached

Judge Robertson held the claimed promise to pay $60,000 for the toll bridge was void because Governor Sterling, at the time chairman of the highway commission signed the agreement with a proviso that his acquiescence was conditional the two other highway commissioners ratified it by attaching their signatures. W. R. Ely of Abilene, one of the commissioners, refused to sign.

He decided the agreement to permit the toll bridge to operate 14 months free of competition was invalid because he held the highway commission did not have authority to enter into a pact of this kind.

A campaign for new members for the American Business club was talked in the club's luncheon at the Hilton Friday noon. The campaign is expected to get under way in the near future.

Possible New Evidence That World Is Exploding Given To Astronomers When Two Distant Star Groups Are Located

BY F. B. COLTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP) — Two distant star-groups, speeding away from the earth at 15,000 miles a second, today gave astronomers possible new evidence that the universe is "exploding."

Discovery of this terrific velocity, the greatest so far found among the giant star-groups or nebulae that seem to be rushing away from the earth, was announced by the Carnegie institution at Washington. The discovery was made at the institution's Mount Wilson observatory, Pasadena, California.

The two new star-groups, apparently breaking all previous speed limits of space, are expected to shed additional light on the problem of whether the universe is actually "exploding" or expanding at great speed.

This very problem is now being studied at Pasadena by world-famous scientists including Dr. Albert Einstein, Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of Mount Wilson observatory and Dr. Willem De Sitter, of Holland.

One of Einstein's theories of relativity suggests the universe is expanding. Another astronomer, Dr. Richard C. Tolman, holds that the universe may be alternately expanding and contracting. Still others do not accept either view and declare the star-groups are not actually receding but only seem to be doing so.

The two new nebulae or "island-universes" were found by Dr. Milton Humason in a faint cluster located by Dr. Edwin P. Hubble in the constellation of Gemini. They are so distant that their light, travelling more than 186,000 miles per second, takes 135,000,000 years to reach the earth.

The highest apparent speed among nebulae previously discovered was about 12,000 miles per second.

The nebulae are believed to be receding because the light waves coming from them to the earth are distorted much as the sound of a locomotive whistle is distorted when it reaches a man watching a train move away from him.

Light waves from a moving nebulae do not appear the same as if the nebulae were standing still. When the light of the nebulae is separated into its different wave lengths in a spectrum, the lines that represent the different lengths are shifted farther toward the red end, or long-wavelength end of the spectrum, than normal. Speed of the nebula is calculated from the distance the lines are shifted from normal. Astronomers call this effect the "red shift."

The grandchildren probably won't hear about airplanes which made ready to drop food to snowbound Indians in northern New Mexico. Snow in New Mexico was the only normal accomplishment of that old fakir, Mr. Winter.

The best Dr. Charles F. Marvin, chief of the United States weather bureau could say was —"it's a freak warm spell in a warm spell," which spelled exactly zero to Mr. John Doe.

Late in the day just as Charles L. Mitchell, United States forecaster for the Washington area started mumbling about "queer weather moods," he began to get telegrams from his scouts in the far places. One of them from Lake Placid, N. Y., incidentally, read:

"Rain changing to light snow; much colder tonight. Saturday snow, clearing by night. Drop in temperature. Near zero Sunday."

That didn't spell anything to John Doe "on the memorable Jan. 15, either.

Politically Bound Police Force In Honolulu Probed

HONOLULU, Jan. 15. (AP) — Already facing two investigations into Honolulu's crime situation and its climax in attacks on women and a resort to lynch law, the territorial administration moved today for a quick reorganization of the city's allegedly inefficient and politically crippled police department.

A bill designed to purge the department of politics and provide it with an appointive instead of an elected head was prepared for presentation to the special session of the territorial legislature Monday.

Meantime the police are having their troubles with Mr. Gandhi's "money army," a sort of boy scout organization whose young members are doing their bit to advance the boycott sponsored by the little man in the cloth who is their George Washington.

They go about, naked and dirty, shouting "Gandhi's government is coming soon; Boycott British goods!"

The authorities have found that these six-year old patriots are more defiant than their elders and several have been sentenced to the reformatories.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP) — Through a specially designated spokesman, Secretary Mellon denied flatly today any conversation with bankers or state department officials concerning loans to Columbia or with President Olaya of that country regarding a concession to the Gulf Oil company.

It was part of a sweeping disavowal to the house judiciary committee of every charge made against the treasury chief by Representative Wright Patman, Texas Democrat, who is seeking his impeachment. Alexander W. Griggs, youthful and quiet spoken attorney, was Mellon's spokesman.

Credit Bill

agriculture committee, alloting $200,000,000 of the total capitalization to agriculture through intermediate credit banks, agricultural credit and livestock credit corporations and agricultural associations, was approved.

Two amendments by Representative Rayburn, Democrat, Texas were accepted unanimously. One would prohibit the payment of any fee or commission by any applicant for a loan to any representative or attorney; and the other would impose heavy penalties for violations of that section.

Provision Approved

An amendment by Chairman Steagall of the house banking committee that drafted the bill eliminating a provision that Speaker Garner and President Hoover each appoint two members to the board of directors of seven was approved. As passed, the bill authorizes the president to appoint the four members while the secretaries of the treasury and agriculture departments and the governor of the federal reserve board are to serve ex-officio.

In this the bill differs from the senate measure which places the farm loan commissioner on the board instead of the agriculture secretary.

Another Steagall amendment approved makes obligations of the corporation lawful investments in order that they may be accepted for all fiduciary, trust and public funds.

Home Training Value Is Told

Mrs. Maggie W. Barry, Of A. & M. Extension Service, Is Firm Believer; Results Of Work Described

Out of the thousands of families that were given relief by the Red Cross in Texas this year, only three families had had the training given by home demonstration agents, according to a report received by the state home demonstration council, Mrs. Maggie W. Barry stated Thursday in discussing the work of this latter organization.

Compared to this were the hundreds of Texas women who took their training to non-club members and made it possible for rural families to have plenty to eat in a time of depression, she said. In some of the counties that were the worst hit by drouth, rural club women planted gardens to supply more food than they needed for their families in order that they might help supply the needy this winter. In the late summer, these club women assisted others with their canning and in many instances supplied the foods to be canned, thus preventing much hunger that might have been felt in the state, she said.

In Extension Service

Mrs. Barry is with the A. and M. extension department now, working particularly with the county and state home demonstration councils. She has long been identified with club work and is one of Texas' best known women. She originated the department of the American home in the General Federation of Women's clubs and was chairman for four years. She is a past member of the board of directors of the General Federation and is a lecturer of note.

There are about 104 clubs represented in the state home demonstration council, representing 23,000 rural club women of the state. The county council, made up of the chairman and one elected delegate from each club, is the governing body for county clubs and sends delegates to the state organization, she said. In this system, which was recommended to the state by Mrs. Barry in 1924, the home demonstration agent is a specialist who advises with the rural women and gives them assistance with their problems. She teaches the demonstrators and co-operators, representative women from the clubs, who teach the other women.

According to the present regulations, the county agent is striving to serve 85 percent of the rural women of the county, she said.

The whole aim of the extension work is to develop independent, responsible home-makers and citizens, Mrs. Barry explained. She is to remain in Lubbock today.

Politics

to him at the dinner as a possible presidential nominee.

The fact that in his speech he urged his fellow-Democrats not to "blame all our present troubles on the president" and also discussed state and national taxation was construed by some as an indication of the sort of campaign he might make if nominated.

Enthusiastic supporters for former Governor Smith made it plain in Boston last night they wanted him to announce himself a candidate right then and there, but his only comment was that he was "too old for the draft."

The movement to renominate President Hoover moved forward rapidly. Secretary of war Hurley predicted the Oklahoma delegation would be pledged to him. James Frances Burke, general counsel of the Republican national committee, conferred with Republican leaders on methods of entering President Hoover in the various state primaries. He said Mr. Hoover would be entered in Pennsylvania.

The president himself, however, was not talking politics. Burke said he had "put the ban on political talks of every kind" and was "devoting himself entirely to his reconstruction program."

The arrangements committee of the Republican national committee will meet in Chicago Friday, January 22. Thousands of Democratic workers all over the country were out today on the "victory drive" for $1,500,000.

Flood Danger

hatchie river region.

This city itself was the center of one of the most serious flood theats, with the main dyke protecting the town from the raging Tallahatchie leaking in a dozen cracks between sandbags over a front of three hundred yards. From the rear the city was menaced by the rain-swollen Black Bayou. The latter stream had almost isolated the town, cutting off convict aid and putting the task of saving the main levee up to the citizens.

At Greenwood the Yazoo river today reached a stage of 38.7 feet, three tents of a foot above the 1927 flood level and the highest stage recorded since 1912. It was rising fast with 40 feet expected. More suburban residents were forced into the city proper.

The Tallahatchie rose about an inch today.

Charleston was a refugee center, with every vacant house in use, and more flood sufferers coming in hourly.

The situation in the Ouachita valley around Monroe, La., was unchanged with West Monroe mostly under water.

Clovis Profits $1,000 Per Month On Texans Paying Visits During 1931; Estimate Couples Spend $10 Average

CLOVIS, N. M., Jan. 15. (Special)—Texans who left their home state to come to New Mexico in order to marry without having to wait three days for a license after filing an intention to wed, are estimated to have left approximately $1,000 a month during 1931 in this city.

Out of the 1,359 marriage licenses issued in 1931, at least 1,200 are said to have given Texas as the home state of one or both of the contracting parties. Business men here estimate a couple spends about $10 for the visit here.

Payments include the marriage license fee, minister's fee, hotel bill or cafe bill, automobile supplies or railroad fare. In many instances the total is more than $10, but a conservative estimate is $10 per couple.

Licenses issued in 1930 were 56 more than in 1931. For several months, according to George Barrows, county clerk, the 1931 monthly figures exceeded those of 1930. The past several months the total has dropped.

December 1931 had 160 licenses issued, compared to 170 the same month in 1930.

Since the operation of the Texas 3-day notice marriage act, in June of 1929, it is estimated approximately $35,000 has been spent in Clovis by out of the state couples who came here to get married.

Good Gains Are Registered By Calves From Lamb County

(By Staff Correspondent)

SUDAN, Jan. 15.—Gains of better than two pounds a day were made by two car loads of heifer calves which P. E. Boeson, local feeder, shipped and sold at Fort Worth recently.

The heifers were on feed 63 days and averaged 720 pounds per animal at the market. They brought $6.25 a hundred.

Gain was estimated at 2.2 pounds per day for the feeding period.

Mr. Boesen has two other lots, one with 38 and the other with 28 steers, that have gained about as much.

The larger lot went into the feeding pens the last of September and weighed 710 pounds. On January 10 they averaged 1,030 pounds or a gain of 320 pounds in about 135 days.

Amherst Post Is Without A Home

AMHERST, Jan. 15.—All dressed up to go home, and no home to go to because the occupants of their home have no place to go.

This is the situation in which the local post of the American Legion finds itself, with the recent purchase of a store building on Main street, two blocks from the business center of town.

A couple of weeks ago the post bought a building, 48 feet wide by 40 feet deep, in which two families were living. The structure was used for a business location in the early days, but scarcity of houses made it possible for the owner to rent it for a residence.

"They don't have a place to go, so the two families in it do not know when they will move out, M. L. Payne, a member of the post and former adjutant, said.

"We had arranged to tear out a partition and make two rooms, a large hall and a smaller one for a kitchen. The ladies home demonstration club wanted to use it for their meeting place. They were to get busy on the kitchen, but we can't get into the building."

H. L. Phelps, a successful farmer near here, is post commander and P. H. Doolittle is adjutant. The post membership is increasing.

Home Butchering To Be Sponsored

(By Staff Correspondent)

SPUR, Jan. 15.—Dickens county this winter will see an unprecedented number of milk fed farm calves butchered and dressed by farmers according to Dewey L. Granberry, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

That organization last summer staged a campaign to secure a large number of pledges of killing and canning of calves. More than 550 farmers pledged the slaughtering of over 600 animals.

"We have had eleven calves canned in our kitchen here at the chamber of commerce," the secretary said. "There have been many times that number killed. Farmers who own canning outfits, pressure cookers, and sealers, are loaning them to their neighbors who do not have such outfits. The kitchen is not used nearly as often as it was during the vegetable canning time."

Mr. Granberry estimates that at least 1,000 calves will be canned before spring. Many farmers were not reached in the campaign for pledges.

The value of a calf that is slaughtered on the home place is more than double that of a live animal, he pointed out. Farmers who have steer calves in their dairy herds instead of selling the calf at six or eight weeks for $5 to $10, often make three or four times that by canning the animal and using or selling the meat.

Snyder Sets A Record; Fire Loss Is Small

(Special To The Avalanche)

SNYDER, Jan. 15.—Not a fire alarm was sounded in Snyder during four of the months of 1931, according to a report just made to the city council by Chief N. W. Autry. During the other eight months only 19 alarms were sounded, and damages for the year were less than $15,000, including two fires of more than $5,000 each.

H. G. Towle, mayor, and the councilmen credit not only the good work of the fire department for this exceptional record, but say the fire prevention board, appointed in 1930, created a public sentiment that nipped many fire hazards and possible cases of incendiarism.

February, April, May and November were the fireless months. Only two fires were reported during December, which is ordinarily a month of many blazes.

Only one paid fireman is on the local department, the remainder of the "boys" being volunteers. Snyder is credited by the state insurance department as having one of the best equipped departments among the smaller cities of the state.
