Theater Magnate Is Charged With Assaulting Dancer

Millionaire Held Under Arrest On Girl's Complaint

Alexander T. Pantages Is Said To Have Attacked Seventeen-Year-Old Girl In Private Office

Denies All Charges

Frame-Up Is Claimed After Californian Is Taken Into Custody; Screams of Dancer Are Heard

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—Alexander T. Pantages, millionaire theatre magnate, tonight was held under technical arrest by order of Police Captain Louis Canto for investigation of an alleged assault upon Eunice Pringle, 17, a dancer who had gone to Pantages private office to arrange a vaudeville appearance.

Pantages flatly denied the charges of the girl that he had attempted to attack her. Miss Pringle was turned over to juvenile authorities for questioning.

Taken In Custody.

The millionaire was taken into custody shortly after 6 o'clock by a patrolman who answered calls from the theater. He and the girl, together with several witnesses, were taken to police headquarters.

Pantages told Captain Canto he had booked Miss Pringle in a dancing act two weeks ago, but she had proved a failure. He said for two days she had frequented his office begging for another chance.

Wanted Interview.

At 4:30 p. m., today, Pantages said, the girl came to his office and asked for an interview. After preliminary conversation he asserted she leaned over close to him and said "I'll make you take my act." He said she then pushed him into another office and into the hall.

Fred Weise, who was in the hall, said police he heard the girl screaming, and saw Miss Pringle come from the office with Pantages following her. Weise told police the clothing of the girl and the man was in disarray.

Two Billion Lost In Stock Market

Speculative Structure Is Rocked To Foundations As Higher Rediscount Is Given By Federal Bank

By STANLEY W. PRENOSIL
Associated Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. (AP)—The top heavy speculative structure, created by the securities markets of the United States by the wild speculation of the last few months, was rocked to its foundations today by the bomb shell of a higher New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate hurled into the financial district after the close of business yesterday.

Prices of active issues on the New York stock exchange tumbled $5 to a share, with one inactive stock dropping $46. Similar recessions took place on the New York Curb exchange and in the stock markets of Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles and other large cities. The repercussion was felt in the bourses of Europe.

Billions Wiped Out

Two billion dollars in the quoted values of American securities was wiped out during the day. Measured by the leading stock market index, the reaction was the severest on record, although in percentage it probably fell short of the drastic break which followed the first Federal Reserve warning six months ago when prices were considerably below recent high levels.

Conductor Takes Fire To Station

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 9. (AP)—J. Taylor had a fire today so he took it to the fire department.

Taylor is a street car motorman, and when dangling power lines started a blaze on the roof of his car, he stepped on the gong and broke all records to a fire station several blocks away. When firemen conquered the blaze behind the passengers learned there had been a fire.

Living In Clash Over Their Dead

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. (AP) — A clash between the living over the dead resulted today in the fatal shooting of Stanley Zasadzinoski 26, a striking grave digger of Calvary cemetery.

Zasadzinoski was shot by Philip Nunziato, cemetery foreman, when a group of pickets charged a bus loaded with substitute workers, being transported within the cemetery's walls.

As strikers advanced, throwing bricks and stones, Nunziato fired into them. He was arrested on a charge of homicide after Zasadzinoski fell, fatally wounded.

This incident, along with reports that three substitute workers were drunk Sunday when they attempted to enter the Queens burial plot, moved peace makers today to hurry efforts to end the strike.

The services of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, who offered to serve as arbiter in the controversy, were refused by the strikers who called him a "financier."

Meeting Of Farm Bureau At Idalou Attended By 100

Prof. H. J. Bower Of Tech College Principal Speaker At Monthly Session Held On Friday Night

Prof. H. J. Bower, of the agricultural department of Texas Technological college, Lubbock, was the feature speaker before the regular monthly meeting of the Lubbock County Farm Bureau held Friday night at the Idalou community house and attended by 100 members. Prof. Bower chose as his subject, "The Value of County Organizations in Cooperatives."

"At present the cooperative movement promises to bring about the greatest organization of farmers that the world has ever seen," said Prof. Bower. "It is very certain that this is on its way but somewhat undecided whither it is going and how it will be done.

Organization Essential

"That a county organization is essential is true because most of our problems are first educational in nature and then they later proceed from that to the practice of what that education teaches.

"The first problem is for each cooperative to have working units within itself, who, with their untiring efforts, have built a permanent organization for a permanent agriculture, and what better can do this than a county unit organization?"

Showdown Likely Today In Demand For Plan Change

British Request For Revision Of Young Method For Distribution Of German Reparations To Come Up

(By Associated Press)

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Aug. 9.—A showdown on the British demand for revision of the Young plan's distribution of German reparations payments is expected tomorrow morning at a meeting of the financial committee of the Hague conference to put the plan into effect.

Philip Snowden's resolution providing for the appointment of a sub-committee to study revision of the Young plan to meet British requirements will then come before the committee.

Says Britain Alone

Premier Briand of France tonight issued a statement declaring that Britain was alone and aligned against five nations in opposing the Paris changes in the Spa percentages for distribution of reparations among the allies. He did not believe the conference could fail because of this British stand but emphasized that the whole hope of the peace of Europe depended on the outcome.

It was rumored tonight that Mr. Snowden declared he would return to London Monday if British claims were not granted before that time.

No Change In Stand

Apparently there was no change in the lineup of the powers on adoption of the Young plan, with France, Italy and Belgium determined on integral adoption. If Snowden demands a vote tomorrow on his resolution as it stands, Great Britain is certain to be the only big power to vote for it, and perhaps the only power.

There was an impression in British circles tonight that smaller powers discontented over their shares, might swing to the British side. This could not be confirmed.

The British chancellor has said "the Young committee had no right to interfere with the Spa percentages for the distribution of reparations. The British delegation must have a decision on these questions before it can proceed any further. I have laid all my cards on the table."

He added "we cannot compromise."

H. F. Whitley, of Lubbock, last night had failed to make $1,500 bond after his arrest shortly before noon Friday when he arrived in this city for the purpose of taking his four children away with him, following an absence of several days. Whitley was lodged in the county jail on a charge of wife desertion.

The complaint, filed by Whitley's estranged wife, alleges that he sold household furniture valued at $250 for only $12.50 to get enough money to leave this city with another woman.

Ages of the children are 2, 5, 7 and 9.

Snook, former Ohio State University faculty member, is shown above in the courtroom, listening to the testimony of witnesses. The opening days of the trial drew numerous young women spectators, some of whom waited for hours for the courtroom to open, hiding their time by playing bridge on improvised card tables, as shown in the lower picture.

Lubbock Fire Department Celebrates Twentieth Anniversary; Hectic Early Days Are Recalled

FRIDAY afternoon at exactly 4 o'clock, the Lubbock Fire Department celebrated the twentieth anniversary of its organization. Twenty years ago, August 9, 1909, a group of interested nd progressive citizens, met, and the first fire fighting organization came into being. The town at that time was not incorporated and a collection was made to purchase equipment.

"Yes, we had some great old times in those days. Every man was a member of the department and no one was barred, but it was tough sometimes when we had to go a long way. Lots of the fellows' tongues would be lollin' out before we got there," said Chief W. E. Twitty.

Charlie Frederick was hailed as the first chief, and under his direction the first year, a supply of hose was bought together with a cart. The only water available, there being no water works, was from three large tanks on the court house square and this supply was drained by the use of a horse drawn wagon with a gas pump attached.

"Guess we only fought about two fires with that equipment," stated the chief. "In those days if a fire didn't break out in reach of our hose from the tanks we just let her burn and chalked it up to profit and loss.

Had Wheezy Whistle

"Alarms? Yea—we had a wheezy old steam whistle on top of the old Lubbock Ice company plant and when she popped loose —well, you could hear her anyhow."

The election was made at the meeting of the board of directors of Texas Technological college held in Fort Worth on Thursday, July 25. He has a wide acquaintance among members of the senate and the house of representatives and other state officials. His term of office is to begin on September 1. He expects to move from Austin to Lubbock before that time. He succeeds E. W. Provence, who has accepted the presidency of the Montezuma Baptist college of Montezuma, New Mexico.

ACTORS INJURED

Second Violence Outburst Caused By "Equity"

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 9. (AP) A second outburst of violence in the campaign of Actors Equity association to establish "equity shop" in the motion picture industry today put two men in hospitals, the victims of beatings allegedly given by six members of equity, and the arrest of three of the accused assailants.

The injured men, Frank Goddard, actor and boxer, and Harry Deck, actor, charged the sextette with attacking them late yesterday as they left a studio because they refused to support equity's campaign.

The association branded the action as "entirely voluntary" on the part of the accused men and denied any connection with the affray.

Ban Against Pro Rifles Is Sought

Commissioner Doran Makes Effort to Reduce Number Of Prohibition Fatalities By Forbidding Guns

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—A ban against the use of rifles by federal prohibition agents, except in sparsely settled or mountainous sections, is planned by Commissioner Doran in an effort to reduce the number of prohibition fatalities.

In announcing the plan today Doran said it was intended as a safety move to keep down the number of deaths in enforcing the law and to prevent possible killing of innocent persons from long range rifles. Under this decision, enforcement agents in settled communities will have to depend for protection upon service revolvers, but in mountainous and sparsely settled regions they will continue to use rifles.

Dry Agents Killed 142

Reports to the prohibition bureau show 142 persons have been killed by prohibition agents and 55 enforcement officers have lost their lives. These figures do not include fatalities among the border patrolmen, who are not under the prohibition bureau.

Doran and Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, both said rifles were necessary for protection of the agents in the mountainous sections.

"If agents went into mountains to enforce the prohibition law without rifles," Lowman declared "they might as well throw up their hands

Farm Relief Is Called Football

UNIVERSITY, Va., Aug. 9. (AP) —Declaring farm relief remains a "gloomy generality," as well as a "political football," United States Senator Tom Connally of Texas, told attendants upon the institute of public affairs of the University of Virginia here tonight that the export debenture plan is the one plan that can help both to dispose of the exportable surplus of the farmer, and at the same time place him somewhat upon a plan of equality with industry.

This plan, Senator Connally explained, is based upon the theory that since the farmer must sell his goods in a world free competitive market, he should, in theory, be allowed to exchange in that market manufactured goods and bring them back into this country duty free. This plan, he said, provides that when he exports his products, the treasury will issue him a certificate, and he can tender that certificate at the customs house in payment of tariff duties upon imported goods.

Snook Witnesses Deny Charges Of Planned Killing

Medical Experts Discredit State's Theory Of Premeditated Murder After Defendant Testifies

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—Four medical experts were introduced by attorneys for Dr. James H. Snook in his first degree murder trial here today to discredit the charge he premeditated the killing of his co-ed mistress, Theora K. Hix.

When Dr. Snook ended three days of testimony, in which he denied any remembrance of slashing the girl's throat after beating her with a hammer the night she was killed June 13, the experts were called.

Death Cause Uncertain

Each testified as to a description of the hammer wounds on the girl's head and the knife wound on her throat. They said they could not tell which of the wounds had caused her death. Their opinions were an attack on the allegation that Dr. Snook deliberately severed the jugular vein of his young mistress to put her out of misery. The witnesses were doctors Jonathan Ferneau, I. B. Harris, L. H. Vanbuskirk and Eugene McCampmell, all Columbus pathologists.

Snook repudiated nearly every detail of a confession obtained from him one week after the girl's mutilated body was found on the New York Central rifle range and ad-

4-Year-Old Girl Burns At Austin

Child Seared While Asleep In Home As Relatives Scurry To Safety; One Other Burns To Death

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 9.—While her mother and seven brothers and sisters scurried to safety, little Ernstine Bashara, four, slept on, as fire destroyed their modest home on the second floor of a fram building in the downtown section early today.

When firemen found her, she was dead. Cupped hands over her face, indicated that she had suffocated.

Another Is Burned.

Joe Guerrero, another occupant of the building, was burned fatally. He died at a hospital several hours later.

Joe Daywood, who lived across the street, pulled Guerrero from the burning building. He saw him standing at the head of the stairs on the second floor, his clothing afire. He rushed through the flames and carried him out.

Others Uninjured.

Other occupants escaped uninjured.

The Bashara girl was one of a family of 10. Her father, John Bashara, was away on a business visit to Weatherford. Mrs. Bashara thought her eight children, ranging in age from one to 16, had followed her from the burning building. The children had scattered in the confusion and excitement. When she did miss Ernestine it required the strength of several firemen to keep her from entering the roaring flames.

Dr. Hugo Eckener Hopes To Reach Home Hanger Today on First Leg of Flight Around The World

(By Associated Press)

PARIS, Aug. 10.—(Saturday) —The Graf Zeppelin passed over Paris at 6:31 a. m. French summer time (12:31 A. M. E. S. T.) en route to Friedrichshafen from New York.

Paris is about 395 miles east and slightly south of the Scilly Islands, where the Zeppelin was sighted at 12:05 a. m. G. M. T. (7:05 p. m. E. S. T. Friday.) The distance was covered with an average speed of just less than 75 miles an hour.

From Paris to Friedrichshafen is about 350 miles. If the dirigible maintains its speed it might expect to cover the distance in less than five hours, arriving over the German city at about 11:30 a. m., mid-European time (5:30) a. m. E. S. T.

The giant dirigible was making a bee-line for home. It was flying fairly low and was easily distinguishable from the bureau of the Associated Press, although too high for passengers or those aboard to be visible.

The sighting took the city by surprise as the Zeppelin had not been expected in this district for hours.

The weather was fine, cloudy with patches of blue sky showing here and there. The great airship furnished a superb spectacle as it glided overhead to the cheers of early risers going to work on the streets below.

It circled the principle quarters about the center of the city and then speeded up and vanished in the east.

In reaching Paris at 6:31 a. m.

Italians Escape Fascist Prisons And Reach Paris

Members Of Italy's Suppressed Political Organization Give Inspiration To Movement

PARIS, Aug. 9. (AP)—Francesco Nitti, nephew of the former Italian premier, and two other prominent members of Italy's suppressed political opposition, have escaped the fascist prison Isle of Lipari, and have made their way to Paris.

Anti-Fascist circles here today acclaimed the escape, related in widely published stories, as the greatest inspiration given their movement in months. Accounts of their imprisonment were welcomed in these circles as revealing tactics employed by the fascist regime in checking growth of opposing elements.

War Hero Escapes

Escaping with Nitti were Carlo Roselli, former professor of political economy at the Genoa Institute, and Emilio Lussu, war hero, four times decorated by the Italian government.

Roselli's account of the escape, made to Paris newspapers, said they eluded 400 guards which the Italian government placed on the small isle, off Sicily, to watch 500 political prisoners, and swam along the shore of the island to a secluded spot where friends awaited them with a small sail boat.

Remains Silent

He refused to tell how the aid was arranged or even where they landed but it was believed they reached the shore somewhere near Tunis and came from there to Paris.

Roselli said he and Lussu arrived at the island twenty months ago, and Nitti eight months ago, after imprisonment in connection with the escape from Italy of Filippo Turati, aged chieftain of the Italian socialist party. The three began at once to plan escape, and sought to inspire confidence in their guards by the regularity of their lives.

Liberty Given

Lussu, for instance, would take a half hour to walk around within the limits of the little town of Lipari—a liberty all political prisoners were allowed—at exactly the same hour every day so that the guards would become lax.

On the night of the escape they waited until the guards' inspection was over and then left their homes disguised as natives.

The three entered the water, fully clothed and with their shoes on, reaching the sailboat and running the gauntlet of torpedo boats. They apparently never were traced.

(Special To The Avalanche)

SPUR, Aug. 9. (AP)—Spur has the largest delegation of any town represented from Oklahoma, New Mexico or Texas at Camp Mary White, Cloudcroft, New Mexico, according to word that has just been received here. Many of the mothers of the girls from Spur are enjoying the outing and scouting with the girls, and this training with the girls will mean much in keeping the Scouts interested, as additional effort will be made by the mothers to see that their girls learn the real merits of the Scout program throughout the coming year.

Mrs. T. W. Wigham, captain of Spur Scouts, has charge of a division of the camp this summer. With this added experience she will be able to accomplish much more with the Scouts another year.

The postponement, effected through an agreement between republican and democratic leaders, was arranged after it became apparent that the majority members of the Senate Finance committee who are rewriting the House tariff bill could not complete their work in time to submit their report on the earlier date.

Sunday-School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR AUG. 11, 1929

General Topic: Daniel Among the Lions.

Scripture Lesson: Daniel 6:10, 11, 16123.

10. And when Daniel knew that the writing was signed, he went into his house (now his windows were open in his chamber toward Jerusalem); and he kneeled upon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime.

11. Then these men assembled together, and found Daniel making petition and supplication before his God.

16. Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel and cast him into the den of lions. Now the king spake and said unto Daniel, Thy God whom thou servest continually, he will deliver thee.

17. And a stone was brought, and laid upon the mouth of the den; and the king sealed it with his own signet, and with the signet of his lords; that nothing might be changed concerning Daniel.

18. Then the king went to his palace, and passed the night fasting: neither were instruments of music brought before him: and his sleep fled from him.

19. Then the king arose very early in the morning, and went in haste unto the den of lions.

20. And when he came near unto the den to Daniel, he cried with a lamentable voice, the king spake and said to Daniel, servant of the living god, is thy God, whom thou servest continually, able to dcliver thee from the lions?

21. Then said Daniel unto the king, O king, live forever.

22. My God hath sent his angel, and hath shut the lions' mouths, and they have not hurt me; forasmuch as before him nnocency was found in me; and also before thee, O king, havie I done no hurt.

23. Then was the king exceedingly glad, and commanded that they should take Daniel up out of the den. So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and no manner of nurt was found upon him, because he had trusted in his God.

Time: Perhaps B. C. 538 (Beecher).

Place: Babylon.

Golden Text: The angel of Jehovah encampeth round them that fear him, And delivereth them.—Ps. 34:7.

Introduction

"Through all the interval from the days of Nebuchadnezzar, Daniel had lived in Babylonia; and now, at the change of dynasty, was an old man of eighty, if not more. His fame, as the mouthpiece of the higher powers, must have been soon known to Darius; so that it is only what might have been expected when we read that on the division of the empire into a hundred and twenty provinces by the new king, the prophet was appointed one of the three presidents, to whom superintendence of these was committed. It was inevitable, however, that the elevation of a foreigner, of a conquered race, to so high an honor, should rouse the jealousy of the native ruling class, and lead to a plot for his destruction. Intrigue and conspiracies have, in all ages, been part of the public and private life of the East."—Cunningham Geikie.

The Plot Against Daniel. 6:4-9

The jealous officers scrutinized eagerly all the public acts of Daniel, examining them minutely to discover, if possible, any flaw in them, any pin on which to hang a charge of disloyalty or even any trifling carelessness or neglect in his many duties; but they found none, they were obliged to confess that his record was absolutely clean.

The plot took for granted a most absurd vanity on the part of Darius, and the officers doubtless knew that they might count on that. They went to the king and said that all the various officers of state had decided on a decree which they desired promulgated from the throne, a law for thirty days requiring that no petition should be made to any god or man during that time, save only to the king. The law was to have the fixedness of the statutes of the Medes and Persians; and whoever transgressed it was to be cast into the well-known den of lions kept for the royal chase. The weakminded king was silly enough to yield to the suggestion and sign the decree. The enemies of Daniel were secretly jubilant, and precisely that happened which they had foreseen.

Daniel's Habit of Prayer. v. 10.

"And he kneeled upon his knees three times a day." Thus David, Ps. 55:17: "Evening and morning, and at noonday, will I complain, and moan; and he will hear my voice." Having a regular time and place for prayer adds greatly to our fidelity in this most important matter. We are to pray at all times and in all places and should maintain some "closet of prayer," some spot so consecrated to prayer that its very atmosphere surrounds us with the spirit of prayer when we enter it. "And prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime." There was no parade of pity, and no flaunting of disobedience to the royal order: Daniel simply held quietly to his ordinary schedule in a self respecting, modest way. He does not change his habit, but goes upstairs, though he might have known that it was like climbing the gallows. Brave old man! Remember, it was not the sudden impulse of youth who felt the flushe of youth, but it was the calm decision of one who was venerable with age, having performed deeds of public service that might have well entitled him to garrison duty for the rest of his days."

Daniel In the Lion's Den. v. 16

"And they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions." There must have been great excitement in the city then. All Babylon knew that this man was not going to swerve. They knew full well that that old old statesman was a man of iron will, and that it was not at all likely he would yield. The lions' den had few terrors to him. He would rather be in the lions' den with God, than out of it without him."—D. L. Moody.

"Now the king spake and said unto Daniel, Thy God whom thou servest continually, he will deliver thee."

"Heathen as he was, he knew little of the distinction between Jehovah and false gods. But he could see the difference between Daniel and other men. And he inferred that the Being adored by so excellent a man must be a good and powerful Being. Thus God is glorified by his true servants." Bishop Alfred Lee.

The Seal of the King and of His Lords. v. 17.

"And the king sealed it with his own signet, and with the signet of his lords." The king's seal remaining unbroken would render it certain that the royal officers had not broken in to murder Daniel if the guard placed over it by the Romans was insisted upon by the royal officers, Daniels foes, who would pretend to fear that Daniel's Jewish friends would rescue him. For a similar reason the stone that closed Christ's tomb was sealed and a firm resolution to undo the evil done? He had better have sprung to rescue his favorite counsellor. We may be sure that this precaution at the desire of our Lord's enemies, who expressed the suspicion that Christ's disciples would steal his body and pretend that he had risen from the dead. Thus the truth is confirmed even by its foes.

vs. 19, 20.

The Troubled and Anxious King.

"Then the king arose very early in the morning, and went in haste from his bed and gone with his guards to open the den in the dark. Feeble lamentations are out of his penitence had moved him to a unto the den of lions." "Why should Darius have waited for morning, if sels of the officers would assure them that the king had not sought lions spared him, and the unbroken place when it is still time to act."—Alexander Maclaren. The weak king did not dare face his officers with less than one night in the lions' den given Daniel as punishment; but he hastened to the den on the first glimmer of dawn.

"The king spake and said to Daniel, O Daniel, servant of the living God, is thy God, whom thou servest continually, able to deliver thee from the lions?" A remarkable expression to come from the lips of an idolatrous king: "servants of the living God." We know not how, but in some way Darius had learned that the God whom Daniel served was alive, and, probably also, that the gods whom he himself served were dead.

Divine Deliverance. v. 22.

"My God hath sent his angel." When Daniel's three friends were cast into the fiery furnace because they would not worship Nebuchadnezzar's golden image, a fourth was seen walking with them through the fire, "And the aspect of the fourth (was) like a son of the gods" (Dan. 3:25, 28). Here again God wrought a wonderful deliverance by means of his messenger (for that is the literal meaning of the Greek word, angelos). We are encouraged by the Scriptures to believe that the angels watch over all of God's children, saving them from many perils, seen and unseen; Ps. 34:7; Gen. 28:12; 48:16; 2 Kings 6:17; Isa. 63:9, etc. "And hath shut the lions' mouths, and they have not hurt me." Suppose the lions had killed him. What then? He still had won. 'They never fail who die in a great cause.' If you are whole-hearted towards God, there is no defeat. Down is up and black is bright. If the lions had killed him, it would have been just the carrying out of God's programme just the same. I think it was Henry Ward Beecher who put it, 'To kill a good man is very much the same as if one would try to spite a ship by launching it.'"—Rev. John McNeill, D. D.

Second Decree of Darius. 6:24-28

Moved by this miraculous event, Darius issued another edict which, we may be sure, compensated Daniel for all that he may have suffered from the first edict of the king. This proclamation was made to all the vast kingdom, and ordered universal worship of Jehovah, the God of Daniel, "the living God, stedfast for ever," whose dominion shall never end. Similar edicts were issued by Nebuchadnezzar, Cyrus, and Artaxerxes. They must have served to check idolatry, to encourage and exalt the Jews and to maintain faith in the one pure and true religion until the temple could be rebuilt and to Jerusalem restored.

The Open Window

"The inner life demands it for its own self-realization. If the soul looks out upon nothing better than the streets of Babylon, rich and gay though they may be; if the mind reads only the newspaper and hears only the talk which reflects the sentiment of Babylon; if the heart finds its chief pleasure in places of light amusement or in the more frivolous forms of social contact; if above the smoke and soot of these commonplace pursuits, then inevitably the best that is in a man grows small, thin, and anaemic. If he prizes moral vigor, stamina, and endurance, he must have the windows of his life open continually upon teh superb sources of strength."

"Ars your windows open toward Jerusalem,
Though as captives here 'a little while' we stay?
For the coming of the King in His glory
Are you watching day by day?"—P. P. Bliss.

The loftiest capital in the world is La Paz of Bolivia, which stands on a mountain top 12,470 feet above the sea.

The Woman's Day

By Allene Sumner

Allene Sumner

Though he chose to be buried in the Potter's field, "Old Man" Louis Morgan was exhumed from that spot of charity in a Bridgeport, Conn., cemetery the other day and reburied in a handsome casket by a daughter who was found by authorities. There was a son, too, but the daughter assumed the responsibility

HALF 'N HALF

That part of the story is like life. Daughters almost invariably assume more responsibilities to parents than sons. The unlifelike part of the story is that even the daughter would do it. Observation teaches us that most children of aged parents are conspicuously absent when things are to be done for their parents. Or is that too cynical?

PETTING SPOTS

Bank safety vaults are becoming veritable "lover's lanes," according to a large Chicago bank official in charge of this department. He says that the cool vaults are as thronged with lovers as the old-time lane in horse and buggy days.

In some ways, "petting" is getting to be more and more of a problem, what with policemen charged to stop the practice in parks and along roadways; on the other hand, our modern petters do not demand the privacy they once did when it was axomatic that "no nice girl kisses a young man until she is engaged to him."

YOUTH WINS

It takes youth to attempt, and sometimes get away with, that which sober age would never dare attempt.

Here's Miss Mary Van Renselaer Cogswell, of New York, who decided to visit Soviet Russia on the spur of the minute. She offered a calling card instead of a passport. They let her in, too.

Sometimes a fresh nation is less bound with fol-de-rol red tape than an older one, too.

"WOMAN OF IT"

Here's a little story for ambitious secretaries and stenogs. When Clare Ogden Davis was secretary to Governor "Ma" Ferguson of Texas she kept her eyes and ears open. Now she has published "The Woman of It," which is a novel based on the oil well scandals, clan fighting, high pressure politics, and other political phenomena that she observed in her own niche, which was a dandy deep hole to all that was going on.

THE "IT" GIRL

Well, here's this new woman problem with a vengeance. The New York night clubman whom Clara Bow may wed announces that he doesn't want his wife to continue her screen career.

Strong men who have always opined that wives should stay at home, and who have never cared a dash of paprika for all this "woman question," may blanch and quail at that.

Given a few more "it" girls who decide to make their "itness" a monopoly for one, and we may get somewhere with this question of working wives.

Delicate New Modes Bloom At Newport Flower Show

Miss Isabel D. Thacher

Miss Olive Whitman

By BETSY SCHUYLER
NEA Service Writer

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 9.—Just as I was about to make a sweeping statement that soft, feminine sports things and exquisite, trailing, regal evening things were dividing honors along came the Flower Show and the majority of smart women attending came in delicate, fluffy printed chiffons and crepes and established formal afternoon frocks as necessities.

The show was a beautiful thing, with the inner courtyard of the Casino all green trellis work, tea tables, large parasols with the women's frocks colorful as fine flowers against it all.

Mrs. Hamilton Fish wore a charming print, green and white small flowers against white, that dipped all around until it skirted the ground. Anna Sands wore a blue and brown geometrically printed crepe that featured a jumper that hugged the hips. Mrs. William F. Whitehouse, always so chic, looked stunning in a chiffon of vivid blue flowers against light blue. It had long, tight sleeves and was topped by a natural bakou hat with medium brim. Incidentally there were more medium brims than large.

Mrs. William Beebe is another who has a sweet green and white printed chiffon this summer. It has one of the new long tunics with the skirt floating out from beneath it.

Plaids are making headway in sports things. Muriel Vanderbilt Church wears a gay orange, tan and brown plaid topcoat that is tremendously jaunty, topped by yellow felt hat banded in orange. With her at Dudley Place one day Princess Miguel de Braganza wore a beautiful white cloth coat with all-over silk polka dots in hand stitching. Her smart purse was white, with black handwork.

Shoes grow gayer and gayer and increase in numbers daily. I have seldom seen the same person in the same pair of shoes more than once. Mrs. Bradford Norman, jr., is one who steps smartly. One pair that is distinctly customs-made in its originality has stripes of dark brown inserted across the whiteness of its antelope vamp and counter. The heel and tips are brown.

Intriguingly "Different"

Short sleeves, sometimes caps, sometimes almost elbow length, have quite a following in Newport. Mrs. Jay Gould prefers them to sleeveless things and one of her very stunning outfits that she wore to the country club the other day is a gaily printed silk in a whole Chinese scene, has no collar, short sleeves and is almost to shoe-top length, creating an entirely different and intriguing look from last season's things.

Nervures and fine hand work identify many a smart frock as Parisian as it approaches the Casino or Bailey's Beach. Mimi and Natalie Kountze both have many of this type of costume. Mimi has one pale pink crepe frock with the waist portion entirely covered with a floral pattern worked out in fine handtucks, the skirt plain. It has a stitched belt.

Wide, colorful suede belts accent the whiteness of some silk frocks nowadays. Marian Gray, hurrying to lunch on the beach, wore a vivid green one and her white shoes had green heels, tips and ties.

Chic In Long Tunic

Long tunics, with very full flounces, supercede the straight up and down with many a smart young deb now. Olive Whitman wore a charming outfit en route to Bailey's Beach, white frock with fine handwork and a colorful printed flounce. The collar and cap sleeves of the frock were of print, too. She wore her big brimmed hat quite off her face, a becoming style to the young.

Society dots its way to chic in innumerable instances this year. Alexandra Gardiner has one white jacket frock that has a red and white polka dotted belt and narrow edging to its open front jacket and cuffs.

Little warm reefers of soft sports wool take the place of silk ones of an early morning. Isabel Thacher has a neat little double-breasted one in a warm gold beige that is very youthful looking and smart. She wore a beige flannel skirt, a soft jersey blouse with fancy dots in yellows and brown, and this reefer. Her scarf took the colors of her sweater. Virginia Thayer wears a neat little quilted jacket of fine silk print that is quaint, youthful and very chic.

LIBERTY, Aug. 9. (AP)—Hundreds of begrimed workers who for three days and nights had fought to smother the burning Dolbear No. 68 oil well near here saw fresh hope today.

They had everything in readiness to pour the combined steam force of 16 boilers on the high roaring flame in the belief that perhaps it at last would be beaten down. Thousands of barrels of oil from the well had gone to make thick black smoke.

SCHOOL TO CLOSE

Summer Session Terminates At Big Spring

(Special To The Avalanche)

BIG SPRING, Aug. 9.—The 10-week summer session of the Big Spring high school will terminate Saturday, August 10, according to George Gentry, principal.

Seven students will complete high school work and receive diplomas, namely Yuda Teague, Mary Wolfe, Vannag Belle Horton, Ed Settles, Frank Griffith, Hazel Grant and Thelma Gay.

The fall term of school will open on September 3, according to W. C. Blankenship, superintendent of City schools.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 9. (AP)—Denied use of either the roof of Broward county jail or the court yard, federal authorities today were without a place to erect a scaffold and gallows for the hanging of Horace Alderman, convicted slayer of three government officials in a sea fight off the Florida coast in 1927.

Under an order of Federal Judge Halstead L. Ritter, Alderman must hang August 17 on the roof of the county jail. County officials, however, have remurred on the grounds that the roof of the jail is bonded by a roofing company and that use of it in this manner would cause the bond to be voided. The government, as second choice, asked if a scaffold and gallows could be erected in the court house yard, and this request was turned down.

Meanwhile, two county commissioners have interposed objections to the hanging on county property when two government reservations, one the coast guard base and another an Indian reservation, are nearby.

Pink Parrish Is Invited To Tell Of Proposed Bill

Tax Collectors Association Of Texas, Meeting In San Angelo, Wants Local Senator To Explain

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 9. (AP)—An urgent invitation today was extended by the Tax Collectors association of Texas, in twenty-fifth annual convention here, to State Senator Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock, to explain to the collectors details of the bill he proposes to introduce in the legislature in an effort to banish the "hiring out" of tax collections.

The senator accepted the invitation and notified the convention that he would arrive today or tomorrow unless business in Austin took such a turn that he must remain there.

Discussion of the proposed legislation was scheduled for today, but at a conference last night the collectors decided their information was two vague and decided to ask the Lubbock senator to explain it in person.

Health Official Weds As Surprise

HOUSTON, Aug. 9. (AP)—Surprising friends and relatives, G. N. Holton of Austin, former state treasurer and fire insurance commissioner and now with the pure food division of the state department of health, was married here last night to Mrs. Edna H. Peel, also of Austin.

Only a half dozen close friends witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Dr. E. P. West, pastor of the Second Baptist Church here. Holton filed his intention to marry in Galveston Monday. He and his wife will honeymoon there for a week or ten days.

The white haired former state official is the father of Barry Holton, former Notre Dame football star and now coach at Trinity University, Waxahachie. Mrs. Peel worked under Holton when he was state treasurer.

Jewish Agency Of Zionists Ratified

Two Conflicting Sides In Biennial Congress Get Together In Plan For Agency At Palestine

ZURICH, Aug. 9 (AP)—By a final vote of 230 to 30 the sixteenth Zionist Biennial congress in session here today ratified the compact between the Zionists and non-Zionists for the formation of a joint Jewish agency for Palestine.

Four members, including the presiding chairman, Dr. Leo Motzkin, abstained from voting. Forty-six delegates were absent during the final roll call.

Dr. Stephen S. Wise, who declared his readiness to approve the plan provided certain stipulations are made, voted in the negative. The delegation representing the American Zionists voted for the Jewish agency plan.

Possibilities of further friction between the Zionists and non-Zionists were seen when the Zionist congress amended the paragraph in the constitution providing for the manner and method of selecting an executive.

Under the constitution draft as agreed upon between the Zionist and non-Zionist leaders, the executive of the Jewish agency is to be chosen in the future by the council of the Jewish agency, while the Zionist congress insisted that one-half of the members of the executive always be elected by the congress.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 9. (AP)—That old drama of baseball, "Cast Off's Revenge," broke Fort Worth's winning streak at eight straight here Friday afternoon. It was Denny Burns, sold down the river to Beaumont this season, who twirled the Cats into submission. A home run by Manager Claude Robertson furnished the margin for a 1 to 0 victory.

Fonken To Oppose Lamesa Tomorrow

Hubbers' Chances To Stop Rampaging Loboes Looms Brighter With Promise Of First Class Hurling

Word was received here late yesterday from Lefty Konken that the southpaw hurler who pitched the Hubbers to victory on two occasions at the Amarillo tournament will be here Sunday to oppose the slugging Lamesa Loboes in their return engagement at Merrill Park against the local baseball aggregation.

With the announcement that Konken will be on the mound for the Hubbers, the Hubbers are given a slight edge over the visitors. Playing great baseball behind the effective hurling of Fonken in the News-Globe tourney, the locals downed Pampa and Canyon in rapid succession.

Manager H. B Wilson announced last night the lineup that will be sent against the Loboes Sunday afternoon. On the infield will be Taylor at first, Rigney at second, Ater at shortstop and Galther at third. Brothers, Marshall and Waller are the starting outfielders. Gailey and Hill will do the catching.

Jamison Is Favored To Win Singles Title

AMARILLO, Aug. 9. (AP) — J. D. Jamison, who hitch hiked all last night through mud and rain to reach here from Wichita Falls, tonight was favored to win the singles championship of the Tri-State open tennis tournament from the field of 96. He defeated Bob Alenius of Amarillo, 6-1, 6-2, today in his first match.

No one knew until this afternoon that Jamison would enter. He walked the last 14 miles of his trip, came on the courts and requested tournament officials to register him. With his partner Tom McCarty, he appeared likely to go far in the doubles.

Judge Landers, West Texas State Teachers college, got a good start in the competition by beating E. H. Templin, 6-0, 8-6. Playing in the quarter finals of the women's doubles, Catherine Darnnall of Dalhart, state junior college champion had her opponent 5-1 on the first set when she fainted in the middle of the court after making a try for a high return.

Cubs Open Eastern Invasion With 12 To 6 Victory Over Legging Phillies

Great Hands Losing Cunning?

PENNOCK'S

UHLE'S VANCE'S

The fine right hands of Dazzy Vance, Brooklyn, and George Uhle, Detroit, and the mighty left flipper of Herb Pennock of the Yanks, which have fashioned many baseball victories in the past, seem to have temporarily lost their power. Vance has just broken even on the season's wins and losses and the other two have been able to do but little better.

Pirates Hold Pace With 12th Win Over Cards

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9. (AP)—The Cubs opened their final Eastern invasion with a 12 to 6 victory over the Phillies in a one game stand. Observes Birthday

Veteran Of Texas League Is 71

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 9 (AP)—Harry E. Smith, one of the few surviving ball players of the first Texas League of 1888, observed his 71st birthday anniversary here Friday as night watchman for a 30-story building in course of construction.

Marry, who used to pitch for the old Cleveland National league club, came to Texas when John J. McCloskey organized the first Texas league and played with the Galveston Sandcrabs.

Smith was a member of the San Antonio team in 1892 and has been making his home in this city for many years.

Smith played against Pop Anson on the latter's tour of Texas with the Chicago White Stockings in 1895.

The years have dealt lightly with Smith, who is apparently in robust health, stands six feet in height, straight as an arrow and weighs about 200 pounds.

New Commission To Begin Duties Of Office Monday

Retirement Of Old Group Hastened By Exposure of "Ticket Grab" At Recent Fight In Chicago

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Aug. 9. (AP)—A millionaire coal operator, a regimental commander in the World war, and a banker, all Chicagoans, are the new members of the Illinois State Athletic commission.

Gov. Louis L. Emerson at Springfield today named Gen. John V. Clinnin, lawyer, soldier and ardent devotee of athletics as chairman.

George F. Fetz, coal operator and big game hunter, who was associated with the late Tex Rickard in the promotion of the Dempsey-Tunney battle at Soldier Field two years ago and Frederick Gardner, banker were appointed members.

Hailed As New Era.

Governor Emmerson's appointments were hailed as the beginning of a new era in boxing. The new commissioners represent the highest type of sportsmen and business men. The new chairman, Clinnin, with an insight into the machinations of boxing and wrestling, has a reputation of being a strict disciplinarian.

"I insisted," Governor Emmerson said, "that the commissioners be well known business men, and I am sure that we have that in our group. We are extremely fortunate to secure this trio, who will gain new confidence for boxing in Illinois."

Assume Control Monday.

The new commissioners assume control next Monday. They will succeed Paul Prehn, Al. Mann and Samuel Luzzo, whose resignations were requested by Governor Emmerson. Their retirement was hastened after the expose of the "ticket grab" of choice seats for the Canzoneri-Mandell lightweight championship match at the Chicago Stadium last week. The outgoing commissioners got a block of 959 choice seats without paying for them at the time.

Prehn, the retiring chairman, praised Governor Emmerson's selections of the new commissioners.

"I am glad to see the sport in such capable hands," he said. General Clinnin knows the game from the group up and is fearless. He is in a class by himself.

Farmers Of South Get First Farm Board Slice

Loss From Menace Of Mediterranean Fruit Fly Is Seen

Agriculturalists Of Southern States Aided Rather Than Farmers Of Wheat Section In Middle West

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. (AP)—Agriculturists of the south, rather than those of the great wheat regions, are the first to get a share of the federal farm board's $500,000,000 revolving fund.

Recognizing the menace of the Mediterranean fruit fly and the need for emergency aid to minimise the loss from its depredations, the board's first loan has been allotted to the Florida United Growers and the Florida Citrus Growers exchange to help those cooperatives in the preparation of this year's crop so it can be marketed.

To Equip Plants

The money is to be used to equip distribution plants of the organizations with heating and pre-cooling facilities to meet government requirements for treatment of fruit which has been exposed to the fly to prevent spread of the larvae into unaffected regions.

The request of a group of Florida citrus marketing association for several million dollars for organization purposes, meanwhile, has been held up pending the working out of a permanent, more unified cooperative program by them, and the board turned its attention today to the problems of cotton organizations which have asked for financial aid.

Marketing Problem Urgent

The cotton growers' marketing problem is regarded in many quarters as urgent in view of the 15,543,000-bale crop indicated in the agriculture department's August 1 condition report. After considering the cotton growers' appeals, the board plans to take up the problems of wool producers.

Would Keep White House Free From Propaganda Plots

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. (AP)—Announcement was made today by George Akerson, secretary to President Hoover, that one inviolate rule of this administration was that the White House should not be used for propaganda purposes if it could be prevented.

Akerson's statement was in reply to Mayor Spencer M. de Golier of Bradford, Pa., who after a four-day stay in Washington returned home last night with an expression of regret that the President had declined to see him and other officers of the National Association opposed to blue laws.

Mayor de Golier, who is a republican, said the President had received Bishop James Cannon, jr., the Reverend H. L. Bowlby of the Lord's Day Alliance, Canon Chase and other advocates of Sabbath observance laws for the district of Columbia.

Enexpected Shifts Brought During Year In National Political Scene

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. (AP)—A year's play of politics has brought some startling switches in the lineups of the national parties.

Herbert Hoover has ascended the party throne to find his former enemies his friends and his friends of the campaign among his opponents today.

It was Senator Watson of Indiana and Vice-President Curtis who led the stout-hearted drive of the coalition against the Hoover presidential candidacy in the party battle last year. Today the President counts them as his two trustworthy advisers.

Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator Brookhart of Iowa waged the valiant Hoover campaign in the doubtful farm areas of the middle west and south last Fall. But they were the first to break with the President and they "broke" on the all important issue of farm relief.

Over in the democratic ranks, the outstanding candidates for the presidency in that party's futile campaign—Alfred E. Smith, of New York and James A. Reed of Missouri—have retired to the sidelines of private life, temporarily, at least.

Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas, democratic leader in the senate and vice-presidential nominee last year, has taken up the task of uniting the minority band for the four-year contest with the Hoover administration. He led with considerable success, too, in the first test, as he twice had the senate insist upon the export debenture principle of farm relief over the strong opposition of Herbert Hoover.

The surprising changes lead to the question of what the new years will bring. Are the rifts between President Hoover and Borah and Brookhart politically serious? Will Senator Robinson's leadership in the senate be a significant point when the democrats cast about for presidential timber?

Borah and Brookhart are in dead earnest for the export debenture farm relief proposition, which Mr. Hoover was successful in having eliminated from the agricultural measure passed in the extra session. They are going on with their fight to have the debenture added to the pending tariff bill. Brookhart has called for a presidential candidate who will support the debenture.

Vice-President Curtis and Senator Watson are of the school of the "regulars." Once they were defeated at the republican national convention last year, they were among the first to offer their services in the party's campaign. They are practical politicians, and are among those who contend that the party must stand four years hence on its record of this administration.

The eruption in the democratic fold resulting from the Smith candidacy is declared by the hard working party leaders to be responding to treatment. Although a running mate of Governor Smith for democracy last year, Senator Robinson was unchallenged as his party's leader in the senate by those southerners who did bolt the Smith candidacy.

So there are some of those who are given to long time prophecies who see in the southern senator the possibility of a link between the warring Smith factions of the north and the revolting democrats of the southland.

Further Slashes In House Tariff Bill Are Okeyed

Senate Finance Committee Republicans Approve Restoration Of Levy On Raw Wool To 31 Cents

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. (AP)—Further slashes in the duties proposed in the house tariff bill were approved by the senate finance committee republicans today. One would restore the levy on raw wool to be the existing rate of 31 cents a pound. The bill increased this to 34 cents.

The revisers virtually completed work on rates proposed in the bill on manufactured wool of all kinds, but if any changes were voted upon, they were not announced. The measure as it passed the house provided higher duties all along the line on processed wool to compensate for the higher raw wool rate.

Consider Wage Scale

The committee had before it for discussion a proposed wage-scale tariff evolved by Henry Scheel, vice-president of the Botany Worsted Mills, of Passaic, N. J., which would base the rates on differences in cost of labor in converting raw woolen materials. The duty would be high as foreign wages were low.

Senators Bingham, of Connecticutt, and Sackett, of Kentucky, republican members of the woolen subcommittee, were understood to be giving serious consideration to the proposal which was considered unique in tariff making.

Besides acting on wool, the committee majority completed rewriting the free list. Such important commodities as raw cotton, jute and crude gypsum were said to have been left free as in the house bill.

Chrysler Showing New Models Today

Joe Hilton Company Offers New "77" and "70" For Display At Local Show Rooms This Morning

The Joe Hilton company, local Chrysler dealers, today announce display of new Chrysler models of which the "77" and "70" are features.

A multiplicity of improvements are included in the makeup of the new car. Multi-range gear shift, down-draft carburetor, synchronized power system, larger engines, architonic bodies, new spaciousness, new beauty, new interior luxury, new riding comfort and new driving ease—all assembled into one compact form for the public. Officials of the company state that the new cars are even more sensational by today's standards than was the first car ever produced.

Four of the models are on display today including a "77" sedan, "70" sedan and "66" coupe and sedan. Others will be received in the near future but the demand at this time is greater than production, stated Mr. Hilton.

Result Has Been Amazing Says Lubbock Farmer

"Orgatone Has Restored My Health After 16 Years of Suffering."

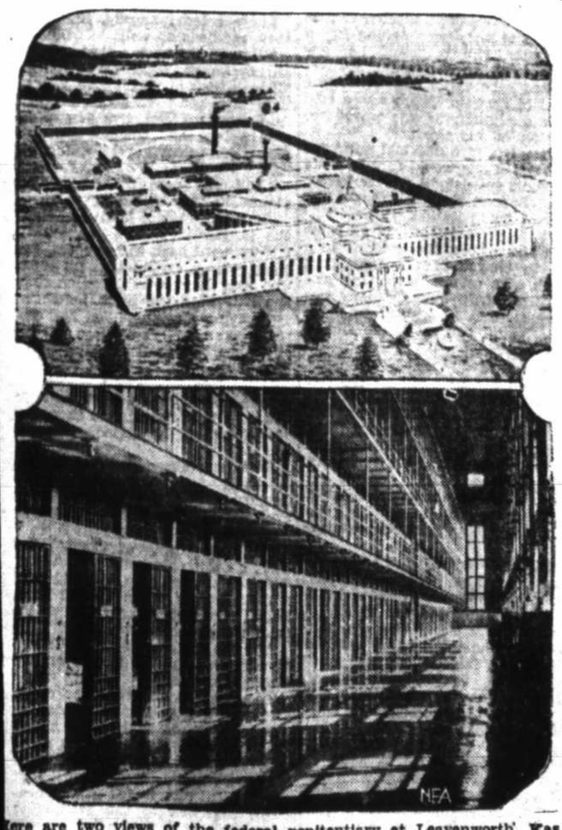

It is not what the manufacturers claim for it, but the testimony of the multiplied thousands who have been benefitted by it that has made Orgatone the most famous medicine, of its kind, in the world today. W. W. Murrell, of 1614 Ninth street, Lubbock, Texas, a well known farmer, who has been a resident of this district for several years, in relating his experiences with Orgatone, said:

'For several years I have had an awful lot of trouble with my stomach. Everything I ate disagreed with me and after meals I would have that puffed up, bloated feeling and belch up my food sour and undigested. I got to the point where I was afraid to eat anything because of the suffering I knew it would cause me. I was constipated had terrible headaches and my sleep was very poor. My system seemed to be all run-down, I was losing weight and felt tired and worn out all the time. My condition grew gradually worse and I felt that unless I got the right medicine my troubles would soon become critical.

"A friend recommended Orgatone to me, and it has not only relieved me of my troubles, but has built me up amazingly. I have taken one bottle and my stomach is now in good shape. My appetite is fine and I eat what I want without feeling a sign of indigestion and the gas does not form on my stomach anymore. My heart seems to be back to normal, my constipation and all that tired, worn-out feeling is gone. Orgatone has been a great thing for me and I don't think anybody suffering like I did can make a mistake by giving it a trial. It has started me on the road to health after suffering 16 years and I think it is one of the best medicines in the world."

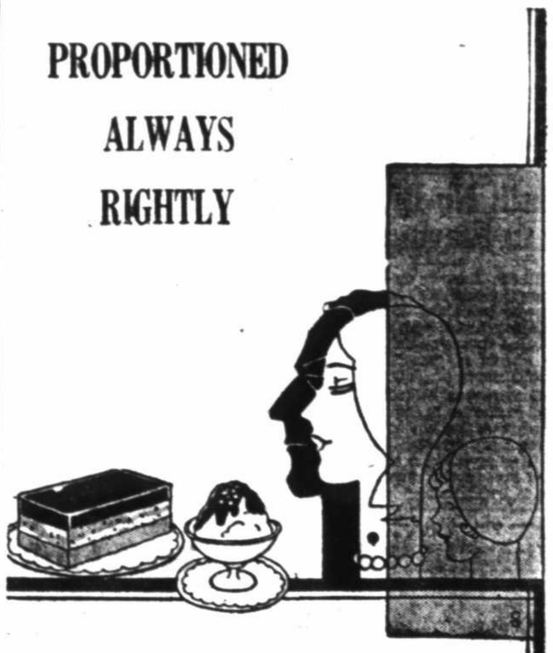

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowens Drug Store, who are direct laboratory agents.—Adv.

I cried with my whole heart; hear me, O Lord: I will keep thy statutes.

I cried unto thee; save me, and I shall keep thy testimonies.—Psalm xxix, 145, 146.

FOIBLES FOR MEN

SOMEHOW, or another, The Morning Avalanche isn't able to get interested in those two new extremes of fashion—the wearing of pajamas in public by both men and women, and the campaign to change men's styles to "give more comfort and freedom of movement".

News-pictures of recent weeks have been full of men and women who should have better sense, strolling about streets and thoroughfares clad only in pajamas. The thing can hardly be called a "style" for it is really nothing less than a "fad" but even so is enough to get under the hides of people who have more to think about and more to accomplish than mere monkey-business.

As far as this "emancipation of men" through the wearing of sleeveless and collar-less shirts, shorts and sandals is concerned, The Avalanche is moved to disgust. What this country needs is more men who talk straight and shave blue and this newspaper doubts seriously if the new mode lends any weight to the essential type of manpower.

The he-man—and may his dwindling tribe increase—is not going to fall for feminine facs of dress. There isn't room in the world for any more foolishness of this type and those who choose to follow idiotic leaders should be curbed by a public curling of the lip. A man can be a man without wearing wool shirts, corduroy pants and boots but we doubt seriously that he can while attired in girlish garments.

To sum up the whole matter, as The Avalanche sees it, the male of today needs more honest sweat and less perfume. Aping the women in the foibles of fashion and dress doesn't bespeak a glowing future for the race as a whole.

PROGRESS OF PEACE

President Hoover's response to the disarmament move of Ramsay MacDonald appeals to the idealism and the will to peace of the American people. From no quarter of any consequence has there come any dissent to the presidential policy of matching the halt called on British naval construction by action equally expressive of the two greatest naval powers to end competitive building in every class of fighting ships.

There naturally will be opposition, in and out of the services, in both countries to actual reduction, as distinguished from limitation, of naval armament on which the heads of the two governments are mainly bent. There was such opposition at the time of the Washington conference ratio agreement on capital ships, to the bold proposals of Secretary Hughes, but it was powerless against the weight of instant approval of public opinion in both countries.

Current criticism of the presidential policy on the ground that parity with the British navy must be obtained is not now in order. President Hoover has not abandoned the principle of parity. He has done only what congress authorized him to do to keep clear the way for the most sensible means of attaining that parity.

It is already evident that the action at London and Washington has immensely improved the chances of an Anglo-American naval understanding and the agreement of the two chief naval powers assures the success of the general conference to be called thereafter.

Halting of the work on the three cruisers is only a start; the president anticipates concessions as to the other ships on the 15-cruiser program. That is entirely in accordance with the will of the country, and of congress, which wrote into the cruiser bill a provision for suspension of construction in the event of an international agreement.

The Anglo-American agreement will be on the basis of acceptance by both sides by the principle of parity in the non-capital classes. But, as Mr. MacDonald says, it will be applied with a measure of elasticity which will take account of the special requirements of the two nations. The president, in suggesting a new yard-stick, was evidently minded to get away from the old rigidity which saw no factor other than tonnage.

Not the least promising indication of success is the multiplying evidence of the careful and thorough nature of the preparatory spade work now being done to enable the foundations to be laid deep enough for enduring agreement. The heartening exhibition of perfect team work on both sides of the Atlantic is the best earnest of the success now dearly in sight.

THE SENATE ON ICE

When the senate convenes on August 19 it will find its main workshop mechanically cooled to a temperature equal to that enjoyed by the house of representatives during the last session. To each senator and visitor is allowed the equivalent of 350 pounds of ice per day, which would seem to be sufficient to temper the natural heat of congressional debate to quite a tolerable level.

The legislative halls are equipped also with apparatus which wrings the surplus moisture from the air. There is to be no more humidity in congress and not too much temperature. If the coddling of congressmen continues, Washington will be losing its summer reputation as a tropical city transplanted to our eastern seaboard. More visitors than ever will come from afar to sit in the galleries where cool, crisp breezes blow and bracing mountain air comes out of every ventilator.

Now that capitol hill can advertise a climate that is cool, dry, equable, free from insects and undefeated by sunspots, summer sessions may lose some of their terrors.

A man isn't licked until he begins to complain about the rules.

Most of the work is done by people who are too nervous to loaf.

Hoover informs his critics that he's for peace and shows that he's willing to fight for it.

One way to solve the problem of prison congestion would be for people to keep out of jail.

Backbone won't get you anywhere, however, if the kind at the top is made of the same material.

STEWART DOUBTS IF FOREIGN DIPLOMATS REALLY BELIEVE WAR IS NOW OUTLAWED AFTER ATTENDING PEACE CEREMONY

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. — Diplomats are a cynical gang.

Not Americans, to be sure. But we have no diplomats, in the opinion of the suave, hard-boiled gentry who represent the older world's powers in Washington.

Of the 41 of these latter who attended the Kellogg peace pact's recent "promulgation" — as the ceremony was called — I doubt if there was one who entered the White House east room without a sly grin behind his hand.

War really outlawed?

Senator Borah may believe so. Ex-Secretary of State Kellogg, maybe. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of England, as a laborite and altruist, quite likely. And perhaps President Hoover has his hopes.

But those professional old connubiators from overseas? Tell it to Sweeney, so far as they are concerned.

• • • •

From each embassy and legation in the capital, if desired, a beautiful expression might be had of that particular foreign headquarters' faith in a brighter, happier international future, by virtue of the Kellogg pact.

However, if you are well acquainted at a few of them, drop in and get an earful of their honest-to-goodness personal views.

The pact amounts to just this:

The present generation is dead sick of war. It is practically a world-wide feeling, because practically the whole world got a tremendous overdose of it in 1914-18. To the present generation, then, the treaty means something.

But wait until the rising generation reaches fighting age.

Unquestionably this is overwhelmingly the trend of opinion among the diplomats who sat, seemingly so serious, through the peace ceremonial at the White House not many days ago.

• • • •

Plenty of Americans in public life—unsophisticated as Americans are supposed to be—certainly think the same thing.

The Kellogg pact was ratified by a big majority in the United States senate, but most of the senators who voted for it frankly did so on the ground that, while they did not believe it could do any good, nevertheless did not see how it could do any harm.

The vital weakness which all recognized in it was its failure to renounce defensive warfare.

Of course no nation can make a promise like that, but, at the same time, what nation ever admitted, in taking up arms, that it was doing so otherwise than in self-defense.

• • • •

It was a weakness which Secretary Kellogg himself mentioned when Foreign Minister Briand, of France, originally proposed the treaty to him.

The former was not at all strong for it then.

When the idea finally was sold to him he liked it so well that he gobbled most of the credit on his own account, but everybody seems to have forgotten that the state department openly considered it as a mere "holiday gesture" for quite awhile.

• • • •

It is not so easy to re-stimulate peace confidence after the last war.

Plenty of people who had imagined another large scale conflict impossible up to that time can still recall how previously professed pacifists jumped into that struggle like the veriest jingoes. Naturally they are hard to convince that the diplomatic cynics are mistaken in predicting that the same thing would happen again.

The Kellogg pact assuredly was given the acid test before the senate approved it last spring.

"Complete nothingness," was Senator Hiram Johnson's verdict on it, as he finally gave the treaty his support, and, in one for or another, most of his fellow lawmakers echoed his words.

Complete nothingness cannot very well injure anyone, but it can be over-advertised.

HERE'S A SAFE DIET THAT SHOULD TAKE OFF TWO POUNDS A WEEK

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN,
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The only thing necessary to reduce weight successfully in the large majority of cases is to realize that not more than fourteen to fifteen hundred calories per day should be taken, that the foods selected should have proper amounts of proteins, carbohydrates, fats and mineral salts, that all of the vitamins should be included, and that the diet should be sufficiently varied to make it appeal to the taste and the appetite.

When most of us went to school these things were never taught to us. Modern children learn a great deal about these facts in their courses in physiology and in home economics.

For the adult who wants to learn about foods there are a half dozen books available that provide the necessary information. However, most people will not even look in a book or make the slightest effort to acquire the necessary information. For them it is necessary to supply a standard list by which they can regulate their conduct and their appetites.

Suppose one wished to take twelve hundred calories in a day. It could be accomplished and all the body needs guaranteed by the following arrangement:

Breakfast: One half orange, two eggs, one thin piece dry toast, coffee sweetened with saccharin and two tablespoonfuls of thin cream, and one small cube of butter.

Lunch: A slice of lean meat, peas or string beans to the amount of two tablespoonfuls, one half head lettuce with a little French dressing.

Dinner: Clear bullion, two slices lean meat, spinach or carrotts, one half head lettuce with French dressing, one half orange, tea sweetened with saccahrine, one fourth of a cup of milk, a slice of thin bread toast and a small cube of butter.

In the diet that has been given almost innumerable substitutions may be made for the sake of variety. One half grapefruit may be substituted for the orange. One egg may be substituted for the meat. Cucumbers, asparagus, radishes, turnips, cabbage, spinach, watercress, may be used as vegetables or several may be taken at one time to make up about four ounces of vegetables cooked, or as a salad.

Occasionally berries or tomato may be substituted for the orange or the grapefruit. The calories will average about twelve hundred to fourteen hundred per day and on that diet the person will lose about two pounds per week, if he keeps up his daily work, provided there is nothing constitutionally wrong with him.

The wife doesn't hold his arm because she loves him, but because that is the easiest way to stop him when she sees a shop window worth while.

RUSSO-JAPANESE TREATY

On Aug. 10, 1905, the Russian and Japanese peace commissioners met at Portsmouth, N. H.

At the instigation of Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, representatives of both the belligerents attended the Portsmouth conference and concluded a peace treaty, which was ratified Oct. 14 by the emperors of Russia and Japan.

The war, which started Feb. 10, 1904, grew out of Russia's attempt to make herself the most powerful nation in the Far East, and her share in the curtailments of the conquests Japan had made at the expense of China in 1885.

The immediate cause of the conflict was Russia's attempt to extend her methods of Russification and exploitation to Korea, which Japan considered her special sphere of influence.

Under the treaty of Portsmouth Russia transferred Port Arthur and adjacent territory to Japan; Russia recognized the paramount interest of Japan in Korea; Manchuria was to be restored to China; the port of Sakhalin south of the fiftieth parallel of latitude was ceded to Japan.

Today's Poem

Row gently here,
My gondolier,
So softly wake the tide.
That not an ear,
On earth, may hear,
But hers to whom we glide.
Had Heaven but tongues to speak, as well
As starry eyes to see,
Oh think what tales 'twould have to tell
Of wandering youths like me!
Now rest thee here,
My gondolier;
Hush, hush for up I go
To climb yon light
Balcony's height,
While thou keep'st watch below.
Ah! did we take for Heaven above,
But half such pains as we
Take, day and night, for woman's love,
What angels we should be!

OLTON, Aug. 9.—The new high line of the Texas Utilities company will come in by Hart, thence south to Olton into the main plant, dropping back one mile north to Lee highway and on into Plainview, tieing up all their plants in this part of the country into one huge system.

The advantage of this system is clearly apparent, giving continuous service without a break. When there is a temporary break a heavier load on the other plants until the break is repaired.

Fear For Safety Of Fliers Held

LE BOURGET, France, Aug. 9. (AP)—Fears for the safety of three Swiss aviators who left here yesterday for Lisbon on the first leg of a trans-Atlantic flight to New York were felt among officials at the airfield today.

Pilot Kaeser, navigator Tschopp and Mechanic Luscher, who have been flying only since 1927, planned to dare the difficult westward crossing of the Atlantic despite their few years of experience in flying.

Nothing has been heard of the Swiss aviators since they left late yesterday for Lisbon, which they should have reached early this morning.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MOLLY BURNHAM, young and lovely playwright, receives reporters in her suite at the Plaza. The night before, witnessed the premiere of Molly's startling play, "The Death of Delphine Darrows." It was an exciting and tumultuous night for Molly—beginning with the glorious reception of "Delphine," and followed by a violent scene with her disapproving mother. After that, came a part. Then Molly spent a few hours with her father, who had waited at the hotel to see her privately.

In the morning, when she had slept scarcely an hour, reporters came, clamoring for interviews. They ask her what her plans are for the future, and Molly says she does not know. As a matter of fact, she is in love with JACK WELLS, and has some vague notion of marrying him shortly.

But the reporters do not know that. When she hints at romance, they assume that RED FLYNN, a police court reporter, is the lucky man. In no time, the next editions are on the street. "Molly Burnham Engaged," they scream. "Girl Playwright to Wed Newspaper Man."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV

The following story, typical of many, appeared that afternoon on the front page of a New York evening paper.

"Molly Burnham, hinting mysteriously at romance, received reporters today in her palatial suite at the Plaza.

"When Dopey Dan fired the shot that made Miss Burnham famous, George Flynn, police court reporter in Boston, conceived an idea that should make her rich, as well. As an ex-press agent, Mr. Flynn appreciated the value of Dopey Dan's erring aim. A victim as pretty as Miss Burnham should never be shot in vain. George knew his stuff, and proceeded to turn the spectacular assault into a dramatic flier.

"Miss Burnham admits that the plot for 'The Death of Delphine Darrows' originated in the fertile brain of the police court reporter. It was she who wrote the script. And last night a wildly enthusiastic audience welcomed the premiere of their join efforts.

"Today Mr. Flynn (otherwise known as 'Red') is back on the job. While Miss Burnham, famous over night as the youngest and prettiest playwright on Broadway, holds court in Gotham.

"Looking more like a debutante than a seasoned newspaper woman, Miss Molly admitted today a hankering for romance. But, pressed for details, she refused to make a statement.

"'I don't know whether I am engaged or not' she declared, and declined to corroborate rumors that Mr. Flynn was the lucky man.

"Mr. Flynn, covering police court in Boston, also refused to talk. Friends of the couple expect formal announcement of the engagement within a few days. . . . "

After the reporters left, Molly had dressed leisurely, expecting a telephone call any moment from Jack. But her line was busy a great deal of the time. Mr. Wharton, her city editor in Boston, had called to congratulate her, and to say that he was forwarding a number of wires and special deliveries.

"I don't suppose you'll be coming back?" he surmised.

"Why, of course I will," she insisted, "if my job's still there. I know I've been away an awfully long time."

"Your job's here all right," he assured her. "But you'll have other irons in the fire now."

Her mail came up shortly, a great bundle of it. And presently she knew that Mr. Wharton was right.

A firm of book publishers wished to know if she would write a novel from the script of the play. They would guarantee the sale of 100,000 copies. A well-known typewriter firm wrote that they are sending her a typewriter, and requested her endorsement. Tobacco manufacturers solicited approval of their particular brand of cigarets. There was a cold cream manufacturer who craved her sanction of his product.

The editor of a national magazine wondered if she would care to write an article entitled "A Career Versus Love." Several studios besought the favor of an invitation sitting.

But the greatest thrill of all came when she opened the letter from a man in charge of the New York branch of a celebrated moving picture firm. Mr. Sydney Dunsany was his name, and he wanted to know if she would consent to be filmed for a talkie.

Molly rushed to the telephone. She could not wait any longer. She must share the thrill of her success with Jack. Probably he had tried to reach her, and found the line busy. Or maybe he though she was still resting, and did not want to disturb her.

The telephone operator thought he had gone to lunch, but she would see. Molly waited impatiently.

"Oh, Jack—hello. I was afraid I'd missed you. The roses were lovely. Thank you so much. I've been waiting and waiting for you to call. I should think you'd be just dying to take me to luncheon." She laughed excitedly. "A famous lady like me!" she cried.

"I didn't know a famous lady like you would want to go anywhere with a poor man like me."

"Oh, Jack, I'm simply famishing for the sight of you!"

"Isn't Mr. Flynn around?"

"No, he went back to Boston this morning. Why, Jack, what's the matter? You know I'd rather be with you than Red."

He laughed shortly.

"You're getting very modern aren't you, Molly?"

"What do you mean?" she demanded.

"Well, I suppose it's ultra-modern to announce your engagement to one fellow, and be seen dining with an old beau. Sort of proving your independence from the kick-off? Is that it?"

"Jack Wells, what are you talking about?"

"Oh, gosh, Molly, haven't you made a chump out of me long enough?"

"Jack!"

"I've just seen the afternoon papers," he told her.

"But I don't know what you're talking about, honey!"

"Then you didn't mean to let it out so soon?" he questioned, "Your engagement to Flynn? Well, somebody's spilled it. Better get the last editions, Molly, and treat yourself to the news."

He broke the connection abruptly, and Molly sat for a moment, with the receiver dangling limply, gazing foolishly at the telephone. When she recovered her composure, she asked that the afternoon papers be sent to her room. And there it was, screeching at her from the front pages.

It was like a nightmare. Her picture and Red's, taken on the sands at Don Ce-Sar in St. Petersburg.

The telephone rang, but she scarcely heard it as she scanned sheet after sheet. And it rang, and rang.

"Boston is calling, Miss Burnham," the operator told her. "Mr. George Flynn."

For interminable minutes she held the line. What should she say to him? What must he think of her?"

"Molly, this is Red. What's it all about, Molly?"

"Oh, Red, it's terrible! They say we're engaged!"

"Yeah, I know. The office had a flash."

"But Red I never said so. You know I didn't. How could I? I've just this second seen the papers. Heavens, I don't know what to do! I'm all upset. I phoned Jack a minute ago, and he's furious. He shut off. Oh my goodness, Red, this is terrible."

"But Molly you must have said something! They don't make things up out of whole cloth. They have to have something to go on."

"But I didn't."

"Well, what are you going to do about it? They're trying to get me to say something. Naturally I can't deny it. Not when it looks as if you had announced it."

Molly's voice hardeped, and she britled defensively.

"You needn't act so darn insulting, George Flynn."

"Molly, it's not that. You know better than that."

"You act," she informed him icily "as if I'd simply ruined your reputation. Well, you needn't worry. I wouldn't marry you, Red, if you were the last man on earth."

"I know it, Molly," he acknowledged humbly. "But you don't understand how things are, girlie. Listen—I'm writing you now. I'll get in on the air mail. You'll have it first thing in the morning. Will you get those news hounds to lay off, till you've heard from me? It means a lot to me, dear."

"I don't know what you're talking about," she declared, mystified. "But I'll deny the engagement over the radio, if it will make you feel any better."

"Don't do anything" he besought, "until you get my letter. I can't talk over the phone."

"All right," she promised.

There were reporters in the lobby, waiting for her. But she sailed by them frigidly.

"I've nothing to say," she announced coolly. "I was misquoted this morning, and I shall not give any more interviews of a personal nature."

"Mr. Durbin says your fiance's name is Wells," broke in one of the men. "Do you wish to deny the rumor of your engagement to Mr. Flynn?"

Molly colored angrily. She knew their methods so well.

"Please," she begged them. "We're all newspaper people. Can't you lay off a little while? I'll give you all the stories you want about the play. And maybe I can give you a romance story later. But not now. And please don't deny anything. Just kill it."

"Will you pose for some more pictures?" they clamored.

"If you'll promise to do as I ask," she bargained.

They went back to her room, and Molly put on various hats for them. She even changed to the green gown she had worn the night before.

"That's a lovely one you had on," remarked a girl. "I suppose you get all your frocks in Paris, Miss Burnham?"

Molly laughed.

"I've never been in Paris, or anywhere," she declared. And then, her eyes sparkling, she cried, "But I'm going!"

She'd run away, she decided impulsively, from everything. From Snodgrass and her mother. From Boston and Red. Yes — from New York even—and Jack.

"I'll have plenty of money," she was planning happily. "And I've been working so hard, I really need a rest. Besides, when I come back, they'll all be glad to see me—mother and Jack—and everybody."

And that afternoon she made reservations to sail for Naples on the Conte Biancamano.

The next day Red's letter came. And also a note from the dean at college, who had advised her not to try to combine marriage with a career. The dean wondered politely if Miss Burnham would be kind enough to return for commencement, to speak to the graduating class.

There was a letter, too, from Rita, begging Molly to go to see her. Rita was ill, and worried. She hadn't been herself since the baby was born. Besides, Molly had never seen

MAURETANIA IN PORT

Speediest Voyage Of Boat Sets No Record

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. (AP)—The 21-year-old Cunarder Mauretania came to port today after her speediest westward crossing of the Atlantic, but even that was not sufficient to reclaim the record now held by the new liner Bremen.

Retarded by bad weather and a curtailment of speed for an operation aboard, the Mauretania passed Ambrose lightship, the "tape" at this side, at 10:30 a. m. (Eastern Daylight time) four days, 21 hours and 44 minutes, after leaving Cherbourg breakwater Saturday on a voyage of 3,078 miles.

The time was four hours and 50 minutes better than its own record, but four hours and two minutes behind the time of the Bremen. The average speed for the voyage was 26.90 knots as compared with the 29.06 average on the recent maiden trip of the German vessel.

her little daughter. She was the loveliest baby in the world. Having a child was quite as satisfying as having a career, declared Rita. But she was overjoyed for Molly, and so proud of her success.

"I'll run up to Boston to visit Rita and go to commencement," decided Molly. "There'll be plenty of time before I sail."

She had saved Red's letter until the last. Now she opened it slowly, fearful of what it might tell her.

Edison Winner May Be "Nation's Smartest Youth," But He's Just A Pal To His Episcopal Bishop Dad

By NEA Service.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 9.—Wilbur Huston, the 16-year-old son of an Episcopal bishop who won the Edison scholarship, may be a boy wonder to the rest of the world, but he's just a pal to his dad.

"His mother and I think he's just the kind of a boy anyone would like to know," says Bishop S. Arthur Huston of the Episcopal diocese of Olympia and father of "the smartest boy in the United States."

"Wilbur is studious, but not to the extent that he would not lay down his books to go fishing with his father," the bishop smiled. "Bill and I are just pals. We both love the great outdoors and we were always happy when out in the open studying nature."

Marine Life Study His Hobby.

Like his famous grandfather, Wilbur Brotherton, plant hybriding expert, Thomas A. Edison's new protege is interested in plant life. He also likes research work in marine biology and the walls of his den in the Huston home here are covered with star fish, a large octopus, sea anemones and other sea life he has collected while tramping along the shores of Puget Sound at low tide. He likes to gather specimens of marine life and dry them.

His favorite sports are tennis and fencing.

The youth won honors at the Moran Lakeside school here for excellence in scholarship, fellowship, character and athletics. He entered the school at 12 and graduated four years later. He was studious, but did not shine as an outstanding figure, according to his teachers.

"Wilbur didn't really expect to win and when I look at some of Mr. Edison's questions I don't see how he did it," says the Rev. Mr. Huston.

"I pondered for a long time over that question of what should be done if you were on a desert island and wanted to move a 100-ton boulder 1,300 feet horizontally and 15 feet vertically. That question, in particular, looked pretty tough to me."

There are three children in the Huston family. Wilbur is the oldest. His sister, Ann, is eight and his brother, John Arthur, is five.

When the news of Wilbur's victory reached the Huston's summer home on Puget Sound, the bishop came to Seattle to answer the flood of congratulatory mail and telegrams that poured in, while Mrs. Huston remained at the Sound home.

Father Ordained In 1904.

Bishop Huston is 52 years old and possesses a Phi Beta Kappa key. He was ordained in 1904.

The bishop was born in Cincinnati. He graduated from Kenyon college and the Bexley Theological Seminary in Gambier, O., and married Dorothea Josephine Brotherton of Detroit, Mich., in 1911.

He was curate of Trinity church, Columbus, O., from 1903 to 1907, and of St. Paul's Cathedral in Detroit from 1907 to 1913.

For the next five years he was rector of St. Mark's church in Cheyenne, Wyo. Then he went to the Christ church in Baltimore, Md., for two years and served in St. Mark's church in San Antonio, Tex., from 1921 until 1925.

When the Rev. Mr. Huston was consecrated as a bishop of Olympia in Texas in 1925, Wilbur Huston served as crucifer at the ceremonies.

Bishop Huston is a democrat a 33rd degree mason and is a member of the American Economic association.

hered persistently to the story he told yesterday when he said his mind went blank after he struck Miss Hix four times with a hammer.

Hammer Introduced

J. J. Chester, Jr., prosecutor, handed Dr. Snook the bloodstained hammer that was used in the killing and told him to demonstrate on the arm of the witness chair the force of the first blow he said he inflicted to loosen the firl's grasp on him as they sat in his automobile on the darkened range. The defendant toyed with the murder weapon and answered that the blow was so light he could not demonstrate it.

At Chester's command he stood up before the jury and illustrated the "hard blow" that landed on the girl's head just behind the ear as they struggled outside the car. This was the wound which the defense claims caused the co-ed's death, and not the throat slashing, of which Dr. Snook said he had no recollection.

With an unimpressive swing of the hammer the defendant remarked:

"That was the blow that knocked her flat."

ings then, however, were turned in by the city marshal firing his pistol in the air, the chief continued. "One day about noon, old Charlie Fry, he was city marshal then, spotted a fire and went for his gun. He started shooting about the time he got it out of the holster and sent a continuous stream of bullets from the ground at his feet until he finally got it elevated. He was standing across the street from the old Lubbock Mercantile and sent three bullets through the plate glass windows, one of them going into the store, its flight coming to a spattering end in a wax dress model."

Organizing as a volunteer department, the first paid man was hired in 1916. Now thirteen men are regularly on the job 24 hours out of each day.

The first station was in a stuffy little wooden shack 10 by 18 feet, located at what is now the corner of Broadway and Avenue J. Chief Twitty was elected to head the department three years after its organization and has been in that office now for about 17 years. He has seen the department grow from a struggling "almost nothing" to a modern force boasting equipment at near $75,000.

"She's a pride to me now," declared the chief.

Hubby Says Wife Health Detriment

Declaring that the treatment received at the hands of his wife was detrimental to his health, a Lubbock man Friday filed petition for divorce in the 99th district court here.

Shortly after marriage, the defendant began a course of cruel harsh and unkind treatment that caused him much worry, he charged. He further alleged that she had an ungovernable temper and that she often railed out at him and remained angry for extensive periods of time. That all of this treatment combined to endanger his health if he had not left her and made living together insupportable.

He asks the court for judgment dissolving the marriage together with other such relief as it may deem just.

Musical numbers were given by the Sowder Boys of the Idalou community while Mrs. Eugene Payne, of the Becton community, entertained with a reading.

Last night's meeting was heralded as one of enthusiasm and of benefit to each in attendance. The next program is scheduled for the Hardy community the second Friday night in September.

Cotton Still Declines; Stock Market Drops

Beneficial Rain In Texas Causes Continued Drop

Relatively Easy Cables In Friday's Market Are Aid To Further Fall In Cotton Prices After Report

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. (AP)—A continuation of yesterday's selling movement promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and reports of beneficial showers in Northwest Texas was reflected by further declines in cotton today. December contracts sold off to 18.29 or 30 points net lower and 96 points below the high price of Thursday morning. Moderate rallies followed on covering, with December closing at 18.38 and with the general market closing steady at net declines of 18 to 28 points.

Opening Barely Steady.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of 8 to 14 points.

Prices worked off to 18.02 for October and 18.53 for March contracts during the afternoon, making net declines of about 27 to 31 points and in December contracts a decline of about 148 points from the high price touched late in July. Offerings tapered off somewhat at these figures, and the market showed indications of an improved technical position during the last hour, with prices showing rallies of about 7 to 10 points on covering.

Liverpool cables reported local and continental liquidation. Port receipts today 9,959. U. S. Port stocks 517,706. Exports 9,102 making 53,669 so far this season.

Cotton Prices Drop $1.50 Bale

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9. (AP)—Cotton again declined today in moderately active trading. At the lowest, values showed losses of approximately 1.50 a bale from yesterday's close. Selling on the weakness in stocks and reports of relief in the Texas drouth section forced the decline with October contracts dropping to 17.93, or 32 points net down. The option rallied and closed at 18.01, for a net loss of 24 points.

Liverpool cables were 7 to 9 points lower than due. First trades here showed losses of 15 to 16 points. The advance in the re-discount rate from 5 to 6 per cent by the New York Federal Reserve bank added to the initial weakness which carried October to 18.09, December 18.30 and January 18.35, or 15 to 17 points net down.

Market Turns Steadier

Towards the end of the first hour the market became steadier, but after recovering 5 to 10 points, considerable selling developed. December traded at 18.17 and January 18.18, or 30 to 32 points below yesterday's close.

Shorts covered in final trading and last prices showed recoveries of 7 points from the lows. December closing at 18.24 and January 18.27.

and say to the moonshiners: 'Come on boys. Here I am, shoot me'."

Doran added that revolvers would afford little protection to the officers against the long range rifles carried by the mountaineer moonshiners.

In commenting upon the liquor situation around Detroit the commissioner said it was "well in hand." He denied a report that he planned to equip the agents in that section with machine guns to combat rum runners.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 9. (AP)—Federal Prohibition Officer Charles Stevens, whose rifle killed Tom Chandler, a farmer near here, recently in what the officer described as an accident, will continue to carry the weapon "until official orders are received to the contrary," George Hammons, deputy prohibition administration here, said today in connection with Prohibition Commissioner Doran's contemplated ban against the use of rifles except in sparsely settled or mountainous sections.

Stevens, after a preliminary hearing of Chandler's death, was released under bond on a murder charge. He is the only officer in the San Antonio federal force who uses a rifle, Hammons added.

KIDNAPPER SOUGHT

Girl Claimed To Have Been Taken In Airplane

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 9. (AP)—Police here today were asked by the father of Janet Rogers, 16, of Cleo Springs, Okla., to seek an airplane No. 61651, in which the girl was alleged to have been kidnaped from Kiowa, Kan.

Miss Rogers was said by her father to have accompanied Bob Browning and Jimmy Owens, aviators, and rodeo entertainers, from Cleo Springs to Kiowa, where a rodeo was being held. Browning, Owens, the girl and the airplane then vanished.

Baldwin Rogers the father, is reported to have broadcast telegrams seeking the aviators and his daughter.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 9. (AP)—Miguel Garcia Granados, Guatemalan army aviator, arrived at Valbuena Field at 1:05 p. m., after a non-stop flight from Brownsville, Texas, in five hours and 35 minutes. He is returning home from a good-will tour to Havana and Washington. He was escorted over the last portion of his flight today by Mexican army planes.

Wheat Rallies In Market Friday After Set-Backs

Grain Traders Are Impressed More By Liklihood Of Stimulating Crop Report Than By Price Break

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

CHICAGO, Aug. 9. (AP)—Grain traders appeared more impressed today by likelihood of a stimulating crop report from Washington than by effects of price breaks in the stock market. Evening-up transactions to prepare for the government's August crop summary due after the close helped wheat and corn values to rally from early setbacks. The summary, when issued, proved bullish as to corn, showing 13,000,000 bushels less yield than the average of private estimates, but the official figures on wheat were 7,000,000 bushels above the unofficial forecasts.

Closing quotations on wheat were steady, 1-8c off to 1-8c up compared with yesterday's finish. Corn closed at 3-4c decline to 3-8c advance, oats unchanged to 1-4c setback, and provisions a shade to 12c down.

Start With Decline

In the beginning, wheat prices here underwent a material downturn but made a quick re-bound.

Independent strength was shown by the corn market, with the east outbidding Chicago for corn at country stations. Rural marketing of winter wheat let up decidedly, arrivals of wheat at primary points today totalling but 3,981,000 bushels against 5,186,000 bushels a week ago.

Oats production was officially reported as 9,000,000 bushels under the average of private estimates.

Provisions although firm declined later on account of scattered selling.

Farm Production Indicated Below Average By U. S.

Expected Decrease Shown In August Crop Outlook Of Department Of Agriculture Issued Friday

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. — The crop outlook for this year was reported by the department of agriculture today to indicate a production below average on American farms.

In its August crop outlook report the department said indicated yields of 34 important crops combined is 4.8 per cent below last year's harvest and 1.4 per cent below the average of the last 10 years.

Improvement was shown in the last month for corn, tobacco, sweet potatoes and rice, but there was a decline in the prospects for wheat, oats, barley, rye, flax, hay, potatoes and most fruits.

"The decline in the prospects for various crops in the spring wheat area as a result of high temperatures and drought," the department's crop reporting board said, "was partly offset by more favorable moisture conditions in most of the corn belt and in much of the cotton belt."

Corn prospects improved materially throughout the country generally. The total indicated production now is 2,740,514,000 bushels, or about 79,000,000 bushels more than a month ago.

One Is Killed As Tanker Explodes

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. (AP)—With a blinding, lightning-like flash and roar that shook the harbor, the giant oil tanker William Rockefeller exploded and caught fire at its pier in Bayonne, N. J., today. One man was killed, eight were injured and another is missing. The cause was undetermined.

Great blotches of flaming oil were thrown out of the ship, some of them striking the pier and threatening millions of dollars worth of oil stored in the two-mile long Standard oil tank farm on the Jersey waterfront.

The danger to the pier and the nearby tanks was checked, however, when the blazing tanker was pulled out into the water, and further damage to the ship itself was averted through Edward Coulson, a boatswain's mate, who remained aboard after the explosion in one tank compartment and drained some others. Coulson later was taken to a hospital, his left hand mangled.

Three Killed In Train Collision

WADSWORTH, Ill., Aug. 9. (AP)—Three persons were killed and four were injured, two seriously, here tonight when a Milwaukee-Chicago train of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad hit an open switch at 60 miles an hour and plowed through a string of freight cars on an adjoining track.

The dead are:

John Lormier, 60, engineer of the train, of Milwaukee; Nick King, 40, fireman, also of Milwaukee, and an unidentified negro, believed to have been stealing a ride on the tender of the train.

The injured are

William J. Sedden, 61, baggageman, Chicago, may die; A. G. Sons, Maywood, Ill., also seriously injured; John Lenenes, Milwaukee, body injuries, and Miss Bessie Malina, Chicago, shoulder injured.

Killing Classes Of Cattle Find A Moderately Active Outlet Friday

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 9. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Killing classes of cattle found a moderately active outlet at most points around the 11-market circuit. Choice 1,444 pound Missouri fed steers at Kansas City scored 16.35, indicating a fairly broad demand for highly finished heavy steers. Improved conditions at eastern dressed beef markets and much needed rain at various sections of the corn belt have given the cattle market brighter aspect. A few grass cattle were received out of the northwest this week.

Receipts Increase

Receipts were estimated at 9,900 against 7,148 a week ago and 11,159 the corresponding day last year.

Demand was fairly broad for fat lambs at firm to 25c higher prices. Closely sorted native lambs in Chicago scored 14.10, and best westerns went at 13.85. Several points on the river obtained 13.60 for range lambs. The supply approximated 28,260 a decrease of 10,500 from last Friday and 6,500 short of a year ago.

Considerable uneveness prevailed on hogs. Shippers purchased freely of the lighter weights at steady to 15c higher prices. Packers were bearish at values barely steady with Thursday's average. The day's extreme top of 12.10 was paid at Chicago. Total offerings were around 51,100 as compared with 63,108 a week ago and 37,886 a year ago.

Zeppelin

French summer time the Graf Zeppelin made the quickest transoceanic airship crossing, needing but 48 hours and 52 minutes to negotiate the 3,522 miles airline from Lakehurst, N. J., to the French capital.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 9. (AP)—The trans-Atlantic air liner Graf Zeppelin tonight appeared making good progress as it neared the European coast on the first leg of its round the world flight. The ship probably will reach Friedrichshafen by tomorrow night or early Sunday.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, hoped to reach his home port tomorrow. In a message to the ministry of communications, he said he would be unable to fly over Berlin on Sunday, Germany's constitution day, as he expected to land Saturday.

Progress Satisfactory

The Graf's progress thus far has been satisfactory to Dr. Ludwig Duerr, chief constructor of the Zeppelin works.

"By Saturday morning we will know pretty definitely whether our expectation is justified that the Graf will return to her home hangar in the course of the night of Saturday to Sunday," he said. "Judging by the progress which has been quite fast, the airship should be able to make it by then."

Once safely home, forces hope to have a sufficient reserve for her to take off for the jump to Tokyo within three days.

Can Build substitute

"Should any motor prove defective on examination here, we can build a substitute within half a day," Dr. Duerr said, "we have sufficient reserve motors ready for all emergencies. Blau Gas (the fuel used by the dirigible) is here in sufficient quantities while the manufacture of hydrogen gas at our plant is proceeding with all speed.

"Within two or three days after landing here, all should be ready for the start for Tokyo."

Carry Only Mail

No freight except mail will be taken on the journey from Friedrichshafen to Los Angeles according to the Hamburg American booking. Dr. Duerr pointed out that it was preferable to take along the greatest possible amount of oil and gas.

The Graf's possible route after she reaches Friedrichshafen and leaves for Tokyo has not been decided upon definitely as yet, since weather conditions will govern the decision.

The general impression here, however, seems to be that the stretch across Russia after Moscow will be more difficult even than the flight over the Pacific as the weather reports there will be meager.

ZEPPELIN LOG

Friday:

Gunmen Kill One Man, Get $3,000

CHICAGO, Aug. 9. (AP)—A collector was killed, passengers were terrorized and $3,000 was stolen tonight by three gunmen who boarded an Illinois Central suburban train at the Randolph street terminal and fled after forcing the motorman to stop at 23rd street.

Delbert Suds, 53, the victim, had been making collections from local station agents along the railroad's suburban electric line, which runs from the downtown district, along the lake shore, to the southern suburbs.

Just before the train reached 23rd street station, two of the robbers arose, approached the collector and displayed revolvers. Suds made a move to reach for his gun and was shot through the right eye, dying instantly. The robbers seized the money and fled.

Rediscount Rate Increase Friday Causes Wash Ou

Floodgates of Liquidatio Kicked Open Resultin In $2,000,000,000 In Va ues Being Lost

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER,
Associated Press Financial Write

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. (AP) — Th Federal Reserve bank's increase its rediscount rate kicked the floo gates of liquidation wide open the stock market today, and mo than $2,000,000,000 in quoted valu was washed away in the deluge.

Associated Press price indices r corded the most precipitous dro since these records have been com piled.

Active Issues Lose

Most more active issues lost fro 2 to 20 points. Laclede Gas, a com paratively inactive stock, recorde a maximum loss of 46 points. Som support came into the market dur ing the forenoon, but renewed weak ness appeared in the early after noon, and again in the last hal hour. The list closed around th lowest levels of the day. The pric index of 50 industrials lost 7.2 points of 20 rails, 4 points and of 20 utili ties, 14.4 points.

The only mitigating feature of the decline was the fairly orderly pace of trading, after a hectic opening. The turnover of 5,022,360 shares, was below the record of more than 8,200,000 established in the break of March 26, but was the first 5,000,000 share day since March.

Rate Is Increased

The increase in the rediscount rate from 5 to 6 per cent met with varied reactions in Wall Street, but traders unanimously acknowledged that the Federal Reserve had caught them slumbering. It has been pointed out for some time that a rediscount rate far below prevailing credit merely encouraged member banks to borrow from the Reserve when borrowing was unnecessary.

Call and time money were somewhat firmer today, the former at 8 per cent. Call loans were kept at 8 per cent only by the quick action of one of the large banks when a shortage appeared and the rate threatened to go higher. Time loans commanded a flat 6 per cent for all maturities. The Bank of England was quoted as stating that no immediate change would be made in the bank's 5 1-2 per cent discount rate. No changes were reported in the 5 per cent rates of the Federal Reserve banks of Chicago or Philadelphia, although directors met today.

Investments Dumped

Gilt edged investment stocks were dumped overboard in heavy volume and in general lead the decline in values. That the utilities developed the most conspicuous heaviness was logical, in view of their violent advance in recent weeks.

asked inquirers to leave him alone until tomorrow.

Bills on his desk total $42,792,935. They include the judiciary, departmental, educational, eleemosnary and claims and accounts measures. He approved the $5,000,000 rural aid bill. He announced his intention of cutting not less than $2,000,000 from the appropriations in order to bring them within the available revenue with an ad valorem tax rate not to exceed 25 cents. The present rate is 22 cents and the constitutional limit 35 cents.

Measure Approved

The Governor approved today the measure requiring the automatic tax board to levy for public school purposes a rate that will assure a per capita apportionment of $17.50 for scholastics. The present apportionment is $16. However, the levy shall not exceed 35 cents, the constitutional limit.

He approved the bill giving the state authority to take over and maintain the Dickson Orphanage for negroes at Gilmer. He struck from it an appropriation of $7,500 to support the orphanage until September 1, when the new biennium begins.

Bill Awaits Action

Another bill awaiting action is the Small measure taking off the market all unsurveyed public lands and river beds and channels. He has been petitioned to sign as well as to veto it.

He approved and filed with the secretary of state a bill appropriating $85,028.85 out of the state highway fund to pay claims of persons, firms and corporation for money erroneously paid for license fees on seating capacity of motor vehicles.

3 Youthful Swiss Aviators Missing

LE BOURGET, France, Aug. 9. (AP) — Three young Swiss aviators flew away from this field yesterday, and, as far as this vicinity is concerned, vanished into thin air. They had stated that they were going to Lisbon, Portugal, preparatory to an attempt to fly across the Atlantic.

There has been no news of them from any source and there was much speculation as to whether their plane had cracked up or had landed near some small town without wire communications with the capital.

When they arrived here Monday from Zurich, they said nothing about their plans for a trans-Atlantic flight. Curiosity of custom examiners was aroused by the large fuel tanks, and the aviators admitted they intended to fly to New York from Lisbon. They gave little other information and most of the French newspapers have seemed not to have taken the project seriously.

Wireless telephone calls in England have increased by nearly 400 per cent during the last year.

'Air-Mindedness' Dallas Aviation Committee Tested

Proposed Aerocade To City Of Sweetwater Called off When Only One Signs Up To Make Booster Trip

DALLAS, Aug. 9. (AP)—Some doubt as to the extent of the "air-mindedness" of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce's aviation committee, as well as that of other local business men, as it applies in the first person singular was seen here today.

It developed yesterday that the chamber's proposed aerocade trip to Sweetwater Saturday for airport dedicatory ceremonies had been called off, and a reservation for a 14-passenger airplane cancelled, because only one man, and he anonymous because he feared his wife might object, had asked for a place in the ship.

Committeemen Aloof.

The aviation committee has 17 members, at least 16 of whom had remained aloof and unresponsive in this instance to the beauties of whirling along in the clouds.

Homer D. Wade, general manager of the chamber of commerce, was out of town. But C. J. Crampton, executive secretary, said "The business men of the city are supporting aviation all right, but they can't be blamed if their business prevents them from making this Sweetwater trip. There will be a number of planes going from Love Field to Sweetwater for the celebration, anyway.

Pleads Guilty To Fight On Reporter

HOUSTON, Aug. 9. (AP)—R. White, 24, employe of the Houston Natural Gas company, pleaded guilty to an assault charge and paid a fine of $5 today as an aftermath of at attack yesterday on Ed Rider, reporter for the Houston Chronicle.

Rider said he was knocked down after a brief argument in front of the home of Mrs. Frank W. Meyers. Mrs. Meyers had asked for a Chronicle Reporter to interview her concerning a complaint against the gas company for damage to her property in laying mains. The news writer told police that the other man claimed he owed an apology for interrupting White's conversation with Mrs. Meyers. Rider denied that he should apologize.

Mythical Army Of "Reds" Falls Back

CAMP PALACIOS, Aug. 9. (AP)—The mythical "red" army which has been menacing the whole of Texas was falling back today before the "paper" attack of the 36th division, Texas national guard, which is holding annual summer encampment here. The retreat was expected to turn into a rout before dusk.

The Texans began bending back the invaders' line at 7 o'clock this morning. They went into the front line trenches after an all night enveloping movement. The artillery of the 36th had been pounding away since before midnight.

Floyd County Tax Rate Will Not Be Increased, Claim

Boost Of $2,000,000 In Valuations Gives Additional Funds To County Commissioners Court

(Special To The Avalanche)

FLOYDADA, Aug. 9.—There will be no increase in tax rates, although considerable additional money will be available for the use of the commissioners court of Floyd county, according to a statement issued by County Judge Wm. McGehee. An increased tax valuation in the county which will amount to more than $2,000,000 will provide sufficient funds to take care of the county's obligations and as a result the commissioners have set the total count rate at the same amount as last year which was 50c.

The following tax rate was fixed on the $100 taxable values—First class rate, two and one-half cents second class, or road and bridge fund, rate 12c; third class or general fund, rate 25c; fourth class or building fund, 10 1-2c. In addition to this a special road tax of 15c was levied on all taxable property in each of the commissioners precincts of the county.

School taxes were also levied for the common school districts of the county. These average 95c, divided as follows — 67c for maintenance purposes and 28c for bond purposes.

Filling Station At Shallowater Looted Thursday

Burglars Crash Window To Obtain Auto Accessories Valued At $30; No Clue Found By Officers

A filling station at Shallowater Thursday night was burglarized of auto accessories, valued at $30, while another was broken into but nothing was taken. Officers are of the opinion that ourglars, who Tuesday night looted three service stations in Floydada and Petersburg, when $300.75 in cash and merchandise valued at $75 were stolen, are the same.

Tearing a screen from its hinges, the burglar or burglars crashed a side window to the K. F. Vance service station and stole six inner tubes.

Similarly the R. Q. M. station at Shallowater was entered but nothing was found missing Friday. Deputy Sheriff O. B. Conley, of Lubbock, made an inspection of the buildings early Friday morning but no clues were obtained.

Second Wife Of Third Husband Of Peggy Hopkins Joyce Asks Divorce

CHICAGO, Aug. 9. (AP) — James Stanley Joyce, the third of Peggy Hopkins Joyce's millionaire husbands, was sued for divorce yesterday by his second wife, the former Mrs. R. N. Vail of New York. As in his first divorce, the bill charges cruelty.

Joyce and his second wife were married Nov. 20, 1926, five years after his marriage to the former Peggy Hopkins had been dissolved. The first marriage lasted a little over a year.

Cruelty Charged.

The second Mrs. Joyce charges that Joyce's cruelty began when they were on their honeymoon in Nice, France. Joyce struck her then, she charges, and a few months later in Paris he kicked her on the ankles and struck her on the back while they were eating in a cafe.

Other cruelties listed in the bill included: throwing drinks in her face, throwing her across a dance floor and spanking her with wooden sandals at parties at Miami, Fla., lighting a match to her lips, burning them and elaving a permanent scar; throwing food in her face at a restaurant in Louisville.

The climax came, Mrs. Joyce alleged, in their Chicago apartment when Joyce struck, choked and beat his wife so that she was forced to spend a month in the hospital. Her bill stated that Joyce was usually drunk when he was cruel to her.
