134 Airplanes Seeking Lost Army Cadet

Hundreds Of Men Also Stage Land Search In Wide Area Over Eastern Texas Today

(By The Associated Press)

GRAPELAND, Sept. 1—Army airplanes—more than a hundred of them—criss-crossed East and Central Texas today in Texas' greatest aerial search.

Their goal was to learn the fate of Cadet Guy W. Edgerton of Kenly, N. C., who became lost two nights ago while flying with 12 other planes from Barksdale field, Shreveport, La., to Kelly field, San Antonio, Texas.

Formation Is Broken

A thunderstorm over this section caused the planes to break formation, and seek a haven in widely scattered places in East and South Texas.

Yesterday 72 planes from Kelly and Barksdale fields scanned hundreds of miles of territory without finding a trace of the missing flier. Likewise, land parties, including 300 CCC enrollees, trudged through piney forests and over rugged terrain without results.

Today 48 planes from Kelly field, 45 from Randolph field, also located at San Antonio, and 41 from Barksdale field continued the search, interferred with somewhat by bumpy weather over part of the area searched.

Elaborate Plans Made

Elaborate plans were formulated at Barksdale field for today's search. Col. Ira Rader, commanding officer of the third attack group, and Col. Robert E. M. Goolrick, commander of Barksdale field, were in charge.

It was planned to center activities for the present in the territory around Rusk, Texas, 100 miles from Shreveport, on calculations based on yesterday's search and reports from civilians.

Farmer Sees Plane

Army officials said a farmer, whose name was not learned, reported seeing a low flying plane in the Rusk vicinity Monday night about the time the planes were in the air.

Barksdale field also sent to Rusk five trucks, five reconnaisance cars, six motorcycles and 30 troopers, carrying tents, rations and a portable radio transmitter, to direct land searchers from that point.

Army flying officials discounted reports of dropping flares leading to the missing cadet since reports from Barksdale field indicated Edgerton's plane carried none. Other members of the formation who landed safely at various airfields admitted dropping a number.

The officials said the cadet could have landed anywhere in the eastern half of Texas and might be trying to find his way out if injuries had not incapacitated him.

Opening Of Chicago Schools Being Delayed By Disease

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (AP) — Chicago health authorities, faced with the largest number of August infantile paralysis cases in the city's history, postponed reopening of school for 619,000 children today "until the peak of this disease has been reached and the sickness is definitely on the wane."

Public and parochial schools were scheduled to reopen next week. Postponement was ordered after the board of health found 109 cases of the disease were reported last month. The previous peak was 90 cases in August, 1916.

Port Arthur Man Is Shot To Death In Road House Row

ORANGE, Sept. 1. (AP)—J. P. Simms, about 30, was shot to death at a Lousiana border road house, just across the Sabine river from Orange early today.

The shooting followed an altercation with an officer. Three other men were arrested and held for Sheriff Henry Reed of Lake Charles. Companions said Simms was a Port Arthur, Tex., electrician.

PI—TEXAS' JOBLESS J3

AUSTIN, Sept. 1. (AP)—Texas' "jobless fund" passed the $14,000,000 mark today.

Orville S. Carpenter, director of the unemployment compensation commission, announced $14,010,000.10 had ben received from 11,900 employers on the wages of 750,000 employees.

Flier Sought In Salt Lake

(By The Associated Press)

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 1—Spurred by reports of a reserve army pilot who swam ashore after his ship plunged into the great salt lake at sundown last night, men on land, water and in the air searched today for Henry Pearson, army mechanic, passenger in the plane, who is missing.

Lt. Lucian Powell, who swam two miles to shore, told his commanding officer, Capt. D. W. Goodrich, that Pearson escaped being plunged under water in the crash and that the mechanic had elected to remain aboard the plane.

Did Not See Planes

That Pearson was swimming shoreward was borne out when Powell said he had not seen searching planes during his eight hour swim. Lt. J. J. Thompson, who sighted the wrecked craft, saw a man swimming away from it. Goodrich was certain the man was Pearson.

Powell, naked and thickly caked with salt, reached shore at 1 a. m. He hitch-hiked a ride to a highway checking station from where he was brought to army flying headquarters at Salt Lake City airport.

Aside from fatigue and a few bruises, Powell was uninjured. He said the crash occurred when the motor quit and he didn't have sufficient altitude to glide to land.

Powell was returning from Wendover, Nev., on a flight with two other army reserve planes.

Virtual Rain Of Federal Cash Will Hit Southern States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—The government will sprinkle only a few of its dollars over mid-west states in its first effort to curtail farm tenancy, but a virtual rain of federal funds will hit the south, where tenancy is more prevalent.

The $10,000,000 set aside by congress for this purpose has not been allocated yet. Secretary Wallace has said he will announce the administrative board on tenancy soon, possibly next week.

Texas heads the list of preliminary estimates with a possible allocation of $920,723. Of al lthe states, Nevada would receive the least, $1,531.

Navy Guns And Aerial Bombs Spout Death

Terrifying Series Of Great New Fires Roar Throughout Shanghai; Chinese Firm

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, Sept. 1 — A terrifying series of great new fires roared in Shanghai tonight, kindled by the naval guns and aerial bombs of Japan's big offensive against all of China.

The blazes, one in the Soochow area facing the American-defended sector of the international settlement, formed a magnificent and awful background for the military drama.

Shells Rain In Area

Twenty-one Japanese destroyers and cruisers pumped shells into the Chapei and Kiangwan sectors of Shanghai's north end. Japanese warplanes rained bombs on Chinese positions.

Woosung already was in Japanese hands. But the hard-pressed Chinese were fighting on with unmatched courage and tenacity, holding firmly to many important positions.

The Shanghai curtain raiser to the Japanese offensive which is to extend all over China found American and British naval commanders considering the possibility of uniting their protective strength to force a way to the sea for their refugees.

Warnings Are Given

That consideration was the result of Japanese naval warnings to all shipping to steer clear of Japanese warship concentrations cramming both the Whangpoo and the Yangtze.

They discussed a convoy plan to force an open and safe path down the Yangtze and Whangpoo rivers—both choked with Japanese warships—after Japan had warned all foreign shipping to steer clear of her naval concentrations.

Only Hope Of Escape

With the international city hemmed in by fighting, the Yangtze and Whangpoo are the foreigners' only hope of escape.

Japanese threatened meanwhile to accelerate spread of the undeclared war, steadily engulfing all China, Japanese naval commanders

Spangled Cabaret Girls Are Replaced By Men in White

SHANGHAI, Sept. 1 (AP) — Men in white replaced spangled cabaret girls in all of Shanghai's Chinese-owned night spots today.

Every such cabaret was ordered converted into a hospital.

This followed angry threats from indignant patriots to blow up pleasure resorts which, in the midst of terrible suffering, have been going full blast each night.

FLIER SHAKEN UP

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP) Mal Alexander P. New Crop For Area Looms

Possibilities of production of a new money crop in West Texas, malt barley will be investigated with funds which were allocated by the state legislature and became available today for research under the supervision of the division of agriculture of Texas Technological college.

Texas brewers are using approximately 2,000,000 bushels of barley this year and the Texas Brewers institute has expressed confidence that barley can be grown in West Texas, said State Representative J. Doyle Settle.

Forced To Import

With the United States forced to import much barley and the climate in West Texas agreeable to production of a crop about two months earlier than in Wisconsin and other barley-producing states, West Texas possibly will develop another major crop in addition to cotton, said Settle.

Dr. A. W. Young, associate professor of agronomy at Tech, will be in immediate charge of the research. He is returning from Wisconsin, where he has studied production and harvestnig of the crop.

Allotment Of $3,000

The legislature allocated $3,000, of which $2,000 will become available today and the remainder in a year. The research is to cover two years. It will include planting of barley and study of it growth.

Settle spoke of possibilities of the crop at a luncheon of the Pythian Luncheon club Tuesday.

Malt barley sells retail at approximately $1.75 per bushel.

The crop has been grown under direction of D. F. Bredthauer, Floyd county agent, with some success, he said he had been informed.

Destroyers On Trail Of Sub After Attack

Flotilla Of Eight Ships Is Concentrated Off Spanish Coast By Great Britain

(By The Associated Press)

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 1 — Great Britain's admiralty concentrated a flotilla of eight destroyers today in a Mediterranean area off the Spanish east coast to bring to strict account a submarine which fired a torpedo at H. M. S. Havock.

Other warships were nearby awayiting orders. The entire Mediterranean fleet, now engaged in maneuvers off Italian and Dalamatian coasts and in the lower Mediterranean, was available for instant duty.

Depth Charge Set Off

The Havock, it was disclosed, set off a depth charge after the torpedo had missed its mark. The results of the charge were not known. Other destroyers searching day and night for the mysterious submersible were equipped with similar depth charges capable of blowing up the submarine if heavy guns were unable to sink it on the surface.

The Havock was not hit. Simultaneously, Spanish insurgent planes bombed and forced ashore the Greek cargo steamer Tsepo 20 miles north of Barcelona. The helmsman was killed and one sailor wounded.

Hope For Action

French quarters in London said they hoped the attack on the destroyer would spur Britain to "take action" and added that "exchanges with this in view are proceeding between London and Paris."

The Havock was the eighteenth ship to be involved in submarine or air attacks in the Mediterranean since Aug. 1.

The Greek freighter was carrying ammunition to government Spain and was being escorted by two government planes, which were driven off by the attackers.

Outstanding Figure In Medical Profession Taken By Death

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (AP) — Dr. George H. Simmons, 85, editor and general manager emeritus of the Journal of the American Medical association, died in St. Luke's hospital today.

He failed to rally from an abdominal operation performed last Wednesday.

As general secretary of the American Medical association from 1899 to 1911, and as editor of the association's Journal from 1899 to 1924, Dr. Simmons was regarded as an outstanding figure in the medical profession.

Original Field Of Claimants To Huge Fortune Narrowed

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP) — The original field of 1093 claimants to the $877,000 fortune left by Mrs. Ida Ellen Wood, the little old lady of Herald Square, was narrowed to 131 today.

Surrogate James A. Foley reduced the number drastically last night by disallowing the claims of 406 members of the Mayfield clan in Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi and other southern states. He said their attempts to prove kinship were "preposterous."

Dreams Are Interrupted When Two Officers Change Places

Chickens—" . . . not the kind I'm used to"—bothered Jas. P. Posey, chief deputy sheriff, and Mrs. Posey early today when they tried to sleep.

A street sweeper made sleep near impossible for "Big" Jim Robinson, jailer, and Mrs. Robinson.

The two county officers and their wives had made changes in living quarters. Four years and eight months ago today, Posey moved into his ground floor apartment at county jail, where he had assumed the position of jailer. He got used to the sounds of night traffic. Robinson lived with his wife at 1628 Fifth street and was not bothered with traffic.

Last night their positions were reversed. Mr. and Mrs. Posey were at 1909 Avenue R, the Robinsons in the jail.

Posey moved from his jail quarters late Tuesday. He had jailed approximately 6,000 persons, and lost only one prisoner.

"A negro trusty with 20 days left to serve ran off one day," he said. "It was Sunday and a

Britain Offers Inducement To Join Colors

Thousands Of Vacancies Are Reported In Army; Youth Of Land Opposed To War

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 1—Great Britain, confronted by youths who have been taught to hate war, started her trooping season today with 23,000 vacancies in the army.

Britain has done practically everything possible with ingenuity and taxes to bring the army up to its quota of 205,000. But with the foreign battalions marching home today, some of them to retire for good, no one pretended to know how they would be replaced.

Reforms Instituted

A whole series of reforms has been instituted to overbalance the heritage of World war memories and preachments against war in countless books and educational institutions. The reforms admittedly have not been tested thoroughly but there still are no sidewalk jams outside the recruiting offices.

To interest young men in the army as a career, Britain has offered:

Four meals a day, counting tea; uniforms designed to flutter the most pacific feminine heart; steam heat in barracks; three pence (six cents) extra spending money per furlough day, and free shaving mugs and canes.

Besides all these, she has offered to let reservists come back to the colors and, with soldiers now in the ranks, qualify for pensions of 14 shillings ($3.36) a week for the remainder of their lives after 21 years of service.

The latest scheme to fill the quota was the boosting of the upper age limit for recruits from 25 to 28 years.

Observers believe the British youth will be won. Where else, they reason, could a young Briton be sure of a steady job for 21 years—not to mention free shaving mugs and canes?

In the 19th century the British army was recruited partly by hunger and partly by the scarlet coats issued when the men signed up. In the 20th century an assurance of an extra meal a day may help.

Damage Suits To Be Filed

By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 1. — The first of more than 200 suits seeking damages in New London school disaster deaths will be filed in Henderson county district court today, O. A. Cargill, attorney here has announced.

Cargill said the suits would be filed by J. M. Burns, jr., late this afternoon against an oil company whose pipelines allegedly were connected with the heating system at the time of the explosion which took hundreds of lives on Mar. 18.

Large Sum Asked

The first two suits, he said, would ask $2,999.99 in the deaths of Naomi Bunting, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bunting of Overton and Neomi Jewell Smith, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith of Talco.

Meanwhile, work started on a $250,000 building to replace the one razed.

The school football team, its numbers reduced by death, worked out diligently in Fort Worth in anticipation of the coming season.

Decision On Sugar Bill Will Likely Be Given Today

HYDE PARK, N. Y. Sept. 1 (AP) — Prospects of imminent action on the sugar quota bill vied for chief interest at the summer White House today with a luncheon conference between President Roosevelt and Robert W. Bingham, ambassador to London.

The fact that this was the last full day the president had before embarking on a five-day fishing cruise led some officials to believe he would announce his decision on the sugar bill late in the day.

Motorboat Speed Record Is Added By Malcolm Campbell

LOCARNO, Switzerland, Sept. 1 (AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell, famed British sportsman, added the world's motorboat speed record to his international automobile speed standard today.

The 52-year-old Briton piloted his speedboat, Bluebird, over Lake Maggiore's smooth waters at 126.795 miles per hour to eclipse Gar Wood's five-year-old mark of 124.86 m.p.h.

Year's Fiscal Deficit Being Expected To Show Decline

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP) — Treasury officials expressed confidence today this fiscal year's deficit will be under the predicted $410,000,000 despite a $357,923,000 red ink balance for the first two months.

They said the July-August deficit would be offset by economies and increased repayments of federal loans during the remainder of the year ending next June 30.

Little Dummy Is Blamed In Broken Love

By The Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1—Judy Canova, hillbilly singer, today broke her engagement to Ventriloquist Edgar Bergen, blaming dummy Charlie McCarthy for the cooling of a three-year romance.

She said she didn't like "playing second fiddle" to the wooden-headed little fellow that Bergen made into a radio favorite.

"It's an obsession with Eddie," she added. "He thinks and talks of nothing else."

He's Almost Human

"I've heard Charlie this and Charlie that, until I've begun to think of him as a human being.

Their estrangement came to light when Miss Canova balked at plans for posing with Bergen for a studio photographer.

"Eddie can stuff his old dummy in his old trunk and get in with him," she announced, apparently on the verge of tears.

The ventriloquist was not immediately available for comment.

Several Hours Pass Before Aid Arrives

Paul Fuqua Of Fort Worth, And R. H. Martin, Lubbock, Most Seriously Hurt Of Group

Five injured men awaited help several hours on a lone road about 12 miles southeast of Brownfield after their automobile overturned several times at a sharp curve and struck on its top an estimated 50 feet from the highway about 2 o'clock this morning.

R. H. Martin, 54, of 2712 Avenue U, Lubbock baker for 28 years, and Paul Fuqua, about 50, of Fort Worth, former president of the Texas Bakers association were in Lubbock sanitarium this morning for treatment of severe injuries and three other men were released after emergency treatment.

Thrown 30 Feet

Thrown approximately 30 feet from the automobile, Fuqua suffered a long deep scalp gash, fractured left leg below the knee, chest injuries and bruises. He was the more seriously injured. Martin suffered a fractured collar bone, bruises and shock.

Others injured were C. N. Cantrell, driver of the car, and Quince Haney, both bakery truck drivers employed by Martin, who suffered minor injuries and returned to work this morning, and Ronald Travis, independent bakery truck driver, who was treated for minor injuries in Brownfield and in Lubbock. Cantrell suffered a head gash and Haney, cuts.

None Critically Injured

None was believed critically injured. The men waited an estimated 1 1-2 hours before driver of a passing automobile was asked to send an ambulance from Brownfield. They reached the sanitarium at 6:50 o'clock. It was difficult to estimate time, said Martin. All were in shocked condition. The other men remained with Fuqua, who was in deep pain, while the driver who had been accosted went to Brownfield for aid. Travis was brought to Lubbock by relatives of Wellman.

The men were returning from a sales meeting of bakery employes in

Accurate Aim Saves Child

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 1. — Hurling a heavy vase with accuracy, Mrs. C. C. Cristarella frustrated the attempt of a lone intruder to kidnap her 4-year-old daughter last night when the vase crashed against his head, causing him to release the child.

Mrs. Cristarella said today that the child was asleep in a bedroom of her home. The mother was in a front room and was aroused by the child crying "mama, mama, it's the bogey man."

She Throws Vase

The mother rushed to a hallway in time to see a man with a cap pulled far down over his eyes carrying her daughter toward the rear door. She picked up a vase that was on a table and threw it at the man, who dashed the child to the floor and fled through a rear door.

The child was uninjured but badly shaken. The mother notified police and then collapsed but was quickly revived by a neighbor.

Mrs. Cristarella said she could give no reason for the attempted kidnaping.

Death Penalty Given Negro For Assault Upon Woman

LIVINGSTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—The death penalty was assessed here today by a jury which found Bob White, 27, negro, guilty of assault on a white woman.

The verdict was reached at 2:35 a. m. after the jury had been out one hour and 50 minutes. The convicted man showed no trace of emotion.

The courtroom was still packed with spectators when the verdict was read before District Judge W. B. Broadres. The court indicated formal sentence would be passed Friday.

Woman Who's Dub At It Gets Rich In Sewing Business

BY KEN WHITE

HARDINSBURG, Ky., Sept. 1. (AP)—This county seat town of 800 people cradles a million-dollar needlework industry which caters to royalty, movie stars and millionaires. It was founded 16 years ago by a woman who can't sew a stitch to this day.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Beard, back in 1921, were pondering what to do with their wool. Beard ran a general store here and raised sheep on the side. The current wool price was 10 or 12 cents a pound; they didn't want to sell for that.

Eleanor Beard

Mrs. Beard had an idea. "I'll get it made into some comforters," she said. "We need some."

"Good," said Beard.

She did.

"Maybe I could sell some of them at a profit," said Mrs. Beard.

"Go ahead and try," nodded Beard.

She went to New York.

Business Mushrooms

"Can't you get them hand-stitched by some women down there?" suggested a department store buyer. "We can get machine-made ones at a hundred factories. Make something distinctive."

Mrs. Beard came back to Hardinsburg, hired three women to do the sewing and went into business.

For two years she "farmed out" her comforters. Each week-end housewives who did the work delivered the finished product to the Beard home and the Beards packed and shipped it.

Suddenly, the mushrooming business was crowding the Beards out of their home. They built a studio in the back yard.

Five years later Beard sold his store, bought the frame building where he had attended school years before and went into the wholesale needle-work business.

Mrs. Beard retained the back yard studio, organizing Eleanor Beard, Inc., and employing her own personnel distinct from that of her husband. Her business is all retail; his is all wholesale, known as Kentucky Cottage Industries, Inc.

Mrs. Beard now divides her time between Hardinsburg and her main office in Louisville.

"Mr. Beard sells to many stores that compete with me," Mrs. Beard laughingly explains, "so I guess that makes us competitors. But the friendliest of competitors, mind you."

Old Italian Process

Hundreds of women in Breckinridge and three or four adjacent counties work for either Mr. or Mrs. Beard. They take the material into their homes and work on it when they are not milking, washing or ironing. When it is ready they bring it back for the finishing touches, which are applied in the studio or the Industries' factory.

The friendly competitors both employ a process known as "trapunto" (between the stitches), originated in Italy in the 15th century and little used in America.

The design follows a double line. After it is stitched, it is "stuffed," giving the exterior an embossed appearance.

"You know," sighs Mrs. Beard, "I wish I could do that. Surprises some people, but I never have been able to pull a stitch."

Unusual Business Deal For Store Space Is Reported

CROSBYTON, Sept. 1 (Special)—An unusual business deal made here recently left one of the parties to a lease contract uncertain of the names of two men who had told him they would rent store space in his building for a year and take an option for two more years.

B. W. Ellison, owner of the storeroom which is the second door on the south side of the square, said rain started falling and the men left saying they would return in September. They will put in a dry goods establishment, Ellison said he was informed.

Escalators capable of handling 8000 persons an hour have been installed in the Interior building of the U. S. federal government, the first government building to be equipped with escalators.

Cowpuncher Of The Old Days Holds Revival In Lamesa

LAMESA, Sept. 1. (Special)—Preacher, sportsman, cowpuncher of the old days—that is Rev. B. B. Crimm who with his Indian pianist and party is conducting a series of revival services in Lamesa.

The minister, who since quitting the range except for his regular forays against the wily coyotes, has preached in 25 states. He has a tent that seats 2,000 persons and, on a platform that accommodates a large choir, are 150 persons nightly.

Mr. Crimm has one of the finest packs of hunting dogs in the country and takes them with him wherever he goes. He is accompanied by Rev. Harlan M. Powell, director of music, and Jewel Spencer, the pianist.

The revival here is under union sponsorship.

TEACHER IS ELECTED

CROSBYTON, (Special) — Mrs. Rozelle (Work) Horn has been elected English teacher in the Crosbyton school system, to take the place of Ellis Mills, who resigned to accept a place in the Plainview system. The schools will be opened Monday.

TAX SUIT SETTLED

LITTLEFIELD, (Special) — Suit for delinquent taxes due the Littlefield independent school district, against Union Compress Co., was dismissed in district court by the district after back taxes, amounting to $1,100, were paid. E. A. Bills is the district's attorney.

Contrary to general belief, extremely cold weather has little effect on the hordes of insects wintering below the surface of the soil, and especially is this so if there is a blanket of snow. Caterpillars, frozen hard as stones, have become active a short time after being thawed out.

Musical Dress

Society women are seldom too much on their dignity to have fun among their friends. Which is why wealthy Mrs. Margaret Emerson, sports the very informal apron above at a society charity event. She'd hardly need to don it just to announce that "My Mother Was a Lady."

Mrs. Raymond Cone Is Party Hostess Honoring Visitor

Mrs. Raymond Cone, 905 College avenue, entertained Tuesday night with a bridge-supper honoring Miss Frankie Cocke of Liberty.

Miss Cocke, a sister of Mrs. Gordon Cone of 3109 Twentieth street, plans to enter Texas Technological college this fall.

Guest prize was given to the honoree. Miss Beryl Duff won high score.

Others attending were Misses Duff, Wynefred Warren, Marian Hurmence, Joyce Craven, Eunice Cone, Marjorie Scott, Louie Wright, Lenora Shaffer and Opal McMahon.

NEW SCOUT PACK

LAMESA, (Special)—Cub pack 17 was reorganized here after a picnic at the city park. Dr. J. M. Harrington is chairman and others on the committee are Bob Kirk, Russell Clark, G. M. Roberts, Dr. McIlroy, and J. D. Dyer. A successor to Charles Dial, former cubmaster, will be named.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seeley, 1505 Broadway, have as their guests Mrs. Seeley's sister, Miss Sud Hudgins of Wharton, and Pierce Withers of Pierce. Mr. Withers is a grandson of the late Shanghai Pierce, well known for his cattle and oil interests.

"When I eat the wrong kind of food, or when my stomach turns sour, I often have the worst colic pains. And do I yell! But my mama is a smart mama and she gives me Teethina, because Teethina is a mild, gentle laxative. It cleanses my tiny bowels of irritating waste. This relieves my pain and relaxes me too, and I'm all set to go back to sleep. Teethina tastes good and you get twelve powders for only 30c. All little babies like me also need Teethina for temporary constipation and for loose bowels caused by a faulty diet." TEETHINA.

Mrs. Grayam George Is Party Honoree

TAHOKA, Sept. 1 (Special)—Mrs. Grayam George, the former Miss Floya Ben King, was honored at a miscellaneous shower given Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. L. Lockwood by Miss Rose Wood of Tahoka and Mrs. Earl P. Wilson of Littlefield.

Mrs. Terry Noble presided at the bride's book, which was the gift of Mrs. Grady Wilson of Slaton. Mrs. Noble and Mrs. Lee R. Wood of Los Angeles, Calif., poured tea.

Out-of-town guests attending were Mesdames Grady Wilson, E. E. Wilson, Cleo Lamar and H. Allen Ferrell of Slaton; Mrs. G. E. Lockhart and Mrs. Clarence Wigirton of Lubbock and Miss Kathryn Black of Canadian.

High Crown Hat Predicted For Fall

Fifth Avenue forecasts popularity for this Fall design, a new felt with a new high crown. It is worn at a 45 degree angle. The brim is rolled smartly in the back, and the hat is a perfect companion for a tailored sport coat. Fay Wray, one of the beauty aces of Columbia Studios, models it for you. It's called "Fifth Avenue I."

HEPLER TRANSFERRED

PLAINVIEW, (Special)—Captain Guy Hepler, in charge of the Salvation Army here the past two years, has been transferred to Dallas to take command on the Dallas No. 1 corps. He has been succeeded by Lieutenants Robert Moore and James Nabors, from Beaumont. Captain Hepler and Miss Clarice Gordon, also an Army captain, will be married in Houston Sept. 8 at the Salvation Army hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Peek of Burnett visited with friends Tuesday. They were en route to New Mexico for a vacation.

Centennial Of The Co-Ed Highlights Contrasts Of Campus Life

Co-Eds Of A Century Ago Were Considered A Daring Group

By NEA Service

OBERLIN, O., Sept. 1. — Just one hundred years ago America's first co-eds packed their campus clothes and set out for Oberlin College, the first school in the country to allow men and women to sit together through college courses.

There was no sleeping through eight o'clock classes for those first co-eds. The Young Ladies — as they were called in 1837 — were required to rise at five in the morning, and have their rooms in order by eight. Midnight bull sessions were not yet the style, for ten o'clock was the prescribed and enforced bedtime.

Food Was Plain

Food at Oberlin was more plain than fancy, and a good thing, too, for it was served by the co-eds. Bread was the staff of life—bread with milk, bread with gravy, bread with salt, and bread and water. If a young lady preferred a more hearty diet than bread she paid an extra charge and sat at a table where meat was served.

Waiting tables was only the beginning of the duties of those first co-eds. The young ladies also scrubbed floors, kept their rooms and the rooms of the men students clean, and washed and mended the young men's clothes. Pay for this valet service was two and three-quarter cents an hour.

Under A Strict Regiment

These and other regulations that governed these petticoated pioneers of co-education have come to light through the centennial celebration of Oberlin college, set for September 6.

Church was not the co-ed's choice in those days. She went whether she wanted to or not. And religion was not confined to Sundays. A prayer began every class, whether it was Cicero, the Acts of the Apostles in the original Greek, anatomy, physiology, or trigonometry. No co-ed served meal began without grace, and there were prayer meetings, religious lectures and chapel hours for the young ladies to attend. They were also allowed a half hour each morning for private devotions.

College life for the co-eds of 1837 did not include fraternity and sorority dances, rumble seats, football games, or complicated campus politics. Their outside interests were limited to literary societies, the Female Moral Reform Society, and the Musical Union. The Reform Society's most earnest endeavor was to adopt a resolution "that the disgrace of the gentleman who takes improper liberties with a young lady shall be as great as that of the young lady who permits such liberties."

"Lady Students" Were Bashful

Even though they were eager for the kind of education that had heretofore been offered only to men, the first co-eds could not always take it. There was the time when a corpse was exhibited in anatomy class and four co-eds grew faint. There was also the faculty plan to combine the men's and women's English composition classes, and a subsequent petition from the ladies that either from modesty or delicacy they felt reluctant to read their compositions in the presence of men. By means of the petition and tears, the ladies won their point, and they continued to read their written thoughts before a strictly female audience.

In 1840, Oberlin fas given a telescope, but it was reported that the lady principal was "a bit hesitant about allowing the lady students to stay up after hours to look at the heavenly bodies."

Once every week the co-eds were given a lecture by the Ladies' Principal on engagements, marriage, hygiene, politeness, dress and the qualities essential for a minister's wife. One student described the lectures in these words: "She holds up before us the great laws of life and health, teaches us that we are fearfully and wonderfully made and not guiltless if we trample on these laws."

Denounced By Some

Charges of laxness in morals among college students is not entirely a new complaint. Oberlin had to defend just such criticisms a hundred years ago. In 1837, a student who had been dismissed from the school wrote a pamphlet accusing the leaders of Oberlin of "wild fanaticism." He declared that "joint education" was very similar to free love, and that undue intimacy was common between the students of opposite sex. The pamphlet, just as anything written on the subject today, enjoyed a wide circulation.

No one today knows why the four young women who enrolled at Oberlin College on September 6, 1837, chose to be America's first co-eds. Oberlin admitted them to "bring within the reach of the misjudged and neglected sex, all the instructive privileges which hitherto have unreasonably distinguished the leading sex from theirs."

Whatever the motive of those four Young Ladies in going to school with men, the end was matrimony, 100 per cent. If matrimony is indeed the aim of most co-eds, the beginners were more successful than their modern sisters. For through the years the percentage of marriages of Oberlin's women graduates has dropped from 100 to 60 per cent.

Woman Who's Dub At It Gets Rich In Sewing Business

BY KEN WHITE

HARDINSBURG, Ky., Sept. 1. (AP)—This county seat town of 800 people cradles a million-dollar needlework industry which caters to royalty, movie stars and millionaires. It was founded 16 years ago by a woman who can't sew a stitch to this day.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Beard, back in 1921, were pondering what to do with their wool. Beard ran a general store here and raised sheep on the side. The current wool price was 10 or 12 cents a pound; they didn't want to sell for that.

Eleanor Beard

Mrs. Beard had an idea. "I'll get it made into some comforters," she said. "We need some."

"Good," said Beard.

She did.

"Maybe I could sell some of them at a profit," said Mrs. Beard.

"Go ahead and try," nodded Beard.

She went to New York.

Business Mushrooms

"Can't you get them hand-stitched by some women down there?" suggested a department store buyer. "We can get machine-made ones at a hundred factories. Make something distinctive."

Mrs. Beard came back to Hardinsburg, hired three women to do the sewing and went into business.

For two years she "farmed out" her comforters. Each week-end housewives who did the work delivered the finished product to the Beard home, and the Beards packed and shipped it.

Suddenly, the mushrooming business was crowding the Beards out of their home. They built a studio in the back yard.

Five years later Beard sold his store, bought the frame building where he had attended school years before and went into the wholesale needle-work business.

Mrs. Beard retained the back yard studio, organizing Eleanor Beard Inc., and employing her own personnel distinct from that of her husband. Her business is all retail; his is all wholesale, known as Kentucky Cottage Industries, Inc.

Mrs. Beard now divides her time between Hardinsburg and her main office in Louisville.

"Mr. Beard sells to many stores that compete with me," Mrs. Beard laughingly explains, "so I guess that makes us competitors. But the friendliest of competitors, mind you."

Old Italian Process

Hundreds of women in Breckinridge and three or four adjacent counties work for either Mr. or Mrs. Beard. They take the material into their homes and work on it when they are not milking, washing or ironing. When it is ready they bring it back for the finishing touches, which are applied in the studio or the Industries' factory.

The friendly competitors both employ a process known as "trapunto" (between the stitches), originated in Italy in the 15th century and little used in America.

The design follows a double line. After it is stitched, it is "stuffed," giving the exterior an embossed appearance.

"You know," sighs Mrs. Beard, "I wish I could do that. Surprises some people, but I never have been able to pull a stitch."

Sew-A-While Club Party Is Given By Mrs. McCullough

Mrs. Vernon McCullough, 1616 Ninth street, entertained for the Sew-A-While club Tuesday afternoon at her home.

Names for new "rosebud sisters" were drawn and gifts were exchanged.

Watermelon was served to Mesdames Marvin Casstevens, Melvin Copp, Clyde Rogers, Raymond Land, Curtis Bond and Cliff Elliott. The club will meet with Mrs. Land, 1620 Ninth street, on September 14.

Children's Council Supper To Be Served Thursday

There will be a covered dish supper for the council of the children's division of the First Methodist church Thursday night at 7 o'clock at the church, Mrs. I. F. Kennedy said this morning. This is to be a regular monthly meeting of the council and all members are urged to attend.

Luncheon Will Be Courtesy To Mrs. R. B. Carter

Honoring a new resident, Mrs. R. B. Carter, formerly of Fort Worth, Mrs. D. N. Leaverton and her daughter, Mrs. Robert Crawford, will entertain with a one o'clock luncheon Thursday at the Leaverton home, 1812 Thirteenth street.

Unusual Business Deal For Store Space Is Reported

CROSBYTON, Sept. 1 (Special)—An unusual business deal made here recently left one of the parties to a lease contract uncertain of the names of two men who had told him they would rent store space in his building for a year and take an option for two more years.

B. W. Ellison, owner of the storeroom which is the second door on the south side of the square, said rain started falling and the men left saying they would return in September. They will put in a dry goods establishment, Ellison said he was informed.

Escalators capable of handling 8000 persons an hour have been installed in the Interior building of the U. S. federal government, the first government building to be equipped with escalators.

Miss Hardberger Is Breakfast Honoree

Miss Mary Geniece Hardberger, who will become the bride of Pleas L. Childress of Ozona on Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at a service read at the First Presbyterian church, was honored with a morning party given in Slaton this morning.

The breakfast was given by Mrs. K. L. Scudder and her daughter, Miss Crystelle Scudder, at their home. The house was decorated in a colorful fall motif. Brown, yellow and green were featured in flowers and pottery.

Guests were Misses Billie Bob Jones, Katherine Klett, Mary Ross Edwards, Elizabeth Anne Price, Frances Snyder, Catherine Jameson, Fay Brown, Billie Bloom, Henri Sue Boone, Lois Watson, Catherine Howell, Betty Smith, Jane Wilson, Nancy Ruth Leaverton, Kathryn Weaver, Minnie Will Wootton of Slaton, Katrina Brewer of Slaton, Doris Minor of Slaton, Ellen K. Clapp and Mesdames Robert Crawford, Aubrey Edwards, Oscar Slaton, J. Lowell Littleton of Ozona, R. E. Harberger, Tom Cammack, George Walton, Sim O'Neal, Roger Pierce, jr., and Francis Blair of Austin.

Mr. And Mrs. Roy Bird Are Hosts To Forty-Two Club

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bird, 3106 Avenue H, entertained for the New Happy Twelve Forty-Two club Monday night. High scores in the games were made by Mrs. H. P. Summers and R. C. Mann. Refreshments were served at the end of the games.

Attending were Messrs. and Mesdames Ed Harvey, Hub Hicks, J. D. Teague, Marshall Jackson and E. M. Carter and four guests, Messrs. and Mesdames Summers and Mann.

The club will meet next Monday night with Mr. and Mrs. Hicks, 1622 Fifteenth street.

Lawn Party Given At Burt Home By Two Children

A lawn party was given by Billie Bob Cordwell and Audrey Lee Bell Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Burt, 1905 Fifth street. After a series of games, Mesdames Burt and M. K. Bell, mothers of the hostesses, served refreshments.

Guests were Lois and Florene Pattillo, Gladys Jeffers, Bartee Haile, Georgia Neal Harris, Katherine Duke, Bobby and Charlie Goeth, Josie Lee Harris, J. A. Hall, Mildred Lane, Mayone Cordwell, Teddy Drake, Roland Stanley, Barbara Jean Hall, James and Kenneth Pharr and Arthur Luck.

Cowpuncher Of The Old Days Holds Revival In Lamesa

LAMESA, Sept. 1. (Special)—Preacher, sportsman, cowpuncher of the old days—that is Rev. B. B. Crimm who with his Indian pianist and party is conducting a series of revival services in Lamesa.

The minister, who since quitting the range, except for his regular forays against the wily coyotes, has preached in 25 states. He has a tent that seats 2,000 persons and, on a platform that accommodates a large choir, are 150 persons nightly.

Mr. Crimm has one of the finest packs of hunting dogs in the country and takes them with him wherever he goes. He is accompanied by Rev. Harlan M. Powell, director of music, and Jewel Spencer, the pianist.

The revival here is under union sponsorship.

TEACHER IS ELECTED

CROSBYTON, (Special) — Mrs. Rozelle (Work) Horn has been elected English teacher in the Crosbyton school system, to take the place of Ellis Mills, who resigned to accept a place in the Plainview system. The schools will be opened Monday.

TAX SUIT SETTLED

LITTLEFIELD, (Special) — Suit for delinquent taxes due the Littlefield independent school district, against Union Compress Co., was dismissed in district court by the district after back taxes, amounting to $1,100, were paid. E. A. Bills is the district's attorney.

Contrary to general belief, extremely cold weather has little effect on the hordes of insects wintering below the surface of the soil, and especially is this so if there is a blanket of snow. Caterpillars, frozen hard as stones, have become active a short time after being thawed out.

Musical Dress

Society women are seldom too much on their dignity to have fun among their friends. Which is why wealthy Mrs. Margaret Emerson, sports the very informal apron above at a society charity event. She'd hardly need to don it just to announce that "My Mother Was a Lady."

Mrs. Raymond Cone Is Party Hostess Honoring Visitor

Mrs. Raymond Cone, 905 College avenue, entertained Tuesday night with a bridge-supper honoring Miss Frankie Cocke of Liberty.

Miss Cocke, a sister of Mrs. Gordon Cone of 3109 Twentieth street, plans to enter Texas Technological college this fall.

Guest prize was given to the honoree. Miss Beryl Duff won high score.

Others attending were Misses Duff, Wynefred Warren, Marian Hurmence, Joyce Craven, Eunice Cone, Marjorie Scott, Louie Wright, Lenora Shaffer and Opal McMahon.

NEW SCOUT PACK

LAMESA, (Special)—Cub pack 17 was reorganized here after a picnic at the city park. Dr. J. M. Harrington is chairman and others on the committee are Bob Kirk, Russell Clark, G. M. Roberts, Dr. McIlroy, and J. D. Dyer. A successor to Charles Dial, former cubmaster, will be named.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seeley, 1505 Broadway, have as their guests Mrs. Seeley's sister, Miss Sud Hudgins of Wharton, and Pierce Withers of Pierce. Mr. Withers is a grandson of the late Shanghai Pierce, well known for his cattle and oil interests.

"When I eat the wrong kind of food, or when my stomach turns sour, I often have the worst colic pains. And do I yell! But my mama is a smart mama and she gives me Teethina, because Teethina is a mild, gentle laxative. It cleanses my tiny bowels of irritating waste. This relieves my pain and relaxes me too, and I'm all set to go back to sleep. Teethina tastes good and you get twelve powders for only 30c. All little babies like me also need Teethina for temporary constipation and for loose bowels caused by a faulty diet." TEETHINA.

Mrs. Grayam George Is Party Honoree

TAHOKA, Sept. 1 (Special)—Mrs. Grayam George, the former Miss Floya Ben King, was honored at a miscellaneous shower given Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. L. Lockwood by Miss Rose Wood of Tahoka and Mrs. Earl F. Wilson of Littlefield.

Mrs. Terry Noble presided at the bride's book, which was the gift of Mrs. Grady Wilson of Slaton. Mrs. Noble and Mrs. Lee R. Wood of Los Angeles, Calif., poured tea.

Out-of-town guests attending were Mesdames Grady Wilson, F. E. Wilson, Cleo Lamar and H. Allen Ferrell of Slaton; Mrs. G. E. Lockhart and Mrs. Clarence Wigington of Lubbock and Miss Kathryn Black of Canadian.

Tahoka guests were Mesdames L. C. Haney, W. O. Henderson, G. M. Stewart, Jess Gurley, Oscar Roberts, W. B. Slaton, E. E. Calloway, D. Nowlin, J. M. Noble, A. J. Edwards, S. W. Sanford, Earl George, Elton George, J. H. Edwards, jr., W. S. Swan, W. I. Clinton, E. S. Evans, Maurice Small, Terry Noble, Joe L. Nevill, Levi Noble, Robert Noble and Miss O'Bera Forrestor.

New Sunrise Program Over KFYO Is Started Today

A new sunrise program over Radio Station KFYO was begun this morning by the Coaden dealers of the South Plains. Termed the "Git" program, it will be presented each week-day morning at 7:10 o'clock.

The program will offer plenty of time signals, much noise, and amusing chatter that does not tax too heavily the newly awakened listeners' concentration.

Announcers plead with listeners to "Git up, git going—git breakfast, git out, and don't for-GIT your wallet."

GIRLS' COACH NAMED

PATTON SPRINGS, (Special)—Miss Achsah Morris, Cee Vee, Texas, has been employed as coach of a girls' basketball team here. She is a graduate of Mary Hardin-Baylor college, Belton, with a major in physical education.

More than 5,000,000 young trees are being planted in Missouri for erosion control and reforestation.

High Crown Hat Predicted For Fall

Fifth Avenue forecasts popularity for this Fall design, a new felt with a new high crown. It is worn at a 45 degree angle. The brim is rolled smartly in the back, and the hat is a perfect companion for a tailored sport coat. Fay Wray, one of the beauty aces of Columbia Studios, models it for you. It's called "Fifth Avenue I."

HEPLER TRANSFERRED

PLAINVIEW, (Special)—Captain Guy Hepler, in charge of the Salvation Army here the past two years, has been transferred to Dallas to take command on the Dallas No. 1 corps. He has been succeeded by Lieutenants Robert Moore and James Nabors, from Beaumont. Captain Hepler and Miss Clarice Gordon, also an Army captain, will be married in Houston Sept. 8 at the Salvation Army hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Peek of Burnett visited with friends Tuesday. They were en route to New Mexico for a vacation.

Centennial Of The Co-Ed Highlights Contrasts Of Campus Life

Co-Eds Of A Century Ago Were Considered A Daring Group

By NEA Service

OBERLIN, O., Sept. 1. — Just one hundred years ago America's first co-eds packed their campus clothes and set out for Oberlin College, the first school in the country to allow men and women to sit together through college courses.

There was no sleeping through eight o'clock classes for those first co-eds. The Young Ladies — as they were called in 1837 — were required to rise at five in the morning, and have their rooms in order by eight. Midnight bull sessions were not yet the style, for ten o'clock was the prescribed and enforced bedtime.

Food Was Plain

Food at Oberlin was more plain than fancy, and a good thing, too, for it was served by the co-eds. Bread was the staff of life—bread with milk, bread with gravy, bread with salt, and bread and water. If a young lady preferred a more hearty diet than bread she paid an extra charge and sat at a table where meat was served.

Waiting tables was only the beginning of the duties of those first co-eds. The young ladies also scrubbed floors, kept their rooms and the rooms of the men students clean, and washed and mended the young men's clothes. Pay for this valet service was two and three-quarter cents an hour.

Under A Strict Regiment

These and other regulations that governed these petticoated pioneers of co-education have come to light through the centennial celebration of Oberlin college, set for September 6.

Church was not the co-ed's choice in those days. She went whether she wanted to or not. And religion was not confined to Sundays. A prayer began every class, whether it was Cicero, the Acts of the Apostles in the original Greek, anatomy, physiology, or trigonometry. No co-ed served meal began without grace, and there were prayer meetings, religious lectures and chapel hours for the young ladies to attend. They were also allowed a half hour each morning for private devotions.

College life for the co-eds of 1837 did not include fraternity and sorority dances, rumble seats, football games, or complicated campus politics. Their outside interests were limited to literary societies, the Female Moral Reform Society, and the Musical Union. The Reform Society's most earnest endeavor was to adopt a resolution "that the disgrace of the gentleman who takes improper liberties with a young lady shall be as great as that of the young lady who permits such liberties."

"Lady Students" Were Bashful

Even though they were eager for the kind of education that had heretofore been offered only to men, the first co-eds could not always take it. There was the time when a corpse was exhibited in anatomy class and four co-eds grew faint. There was also the faculty plan to combine the men's and women's English composition classes, and a subsequent petition from the ladies that either from modesty or delicacy they felt reluctant to read their compositions in the presence of men. By means of the petition and tears, the ladies won their point, and they continued to read their written thoughts before a strictly female audience.

In 1840, Oberlin fas given a telescope, but it was reported that the lady principal was "a bit hesitant about allowing the lady students to stay up after hours to look at the heavenly bodies."

Once every week the co-eds were given a lecture by the Ladies' Principal on engagements, marriage, hygiene, politeness, dress and the qualities essential for a minister's wife. One student described the lectures in these words: "She holds up before us the great laws of life and health, teaches us that we are fearfully and wonderfully made and not guiltless if we trample on these laws."

Denounced By Some

Charges of laxness in morals among college students is not entirely a new complaint. Oberlin had to defend just such criticisms a hundred years ago. In 1837, a student who had been dismissed from the school wrote a pamphlet accusing the leaders of Oberlin of "wild fanaticism." He declared that "joint education" was very similar to free love, and that undue intimacy was common between the students of opposite sex. The pamphlet, just as anything written on the subject today, enjoyed a wide circulation.

No one today knows why the four young women who enrolled at Oberlin College on September 6, 1837, chose to be America's first co-eds. Oberlin admitted them to "bring within the reach of the misjudged and neglected sex, all the instructive privileges which hitherto have unreasonably distinguished the leading sex from theirs."

Whatever the motive of those four Young Ladies in going to school with men, the end was matrimony, 100 per cent. If matrimony is indeed the aim of most co-eds, the beginners were more successful than their modern sisters. For through the years the percentage of marriages of Oberlin's women graduates has dropped from 100 to 60 per cent.

Cubs Fight Back And Regain Lead In National League Scramble

Giants Trounced By Cards As Brooklyn Loses To Chicago

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bill Terry long since has discovered that, when his ball club is in thick of the pennant scramble, it can look for little or no assistance n its neighbors on the far side of the Brooklyn bridge.

Three years ago Terry had the bitterest proof of that credo. In the few games of the season, with the Giants and Cardinals in a "he's he's down" scrap for the bunting, the Dodgers invaded the Polo unds and won the undying gratitude of their constituents by easing the nts out and the gas-housers in.

Now he's had a fresh example.

His own outfit, of course, dropped an 8-1 verdict to the 16-hitting dinals yesterday. But even that wouldn't have wiped out their two- t first place margin if the Dodgers had hog-tied the Cubs.

he Dodgers, however, lost, 4-2, the result that both series were med today with the standings sed thus:

Just what dividends ays in player morale is prob- hile the Cubs and Giants con- e to go up and down on their onal see-saw, the American ue has turned over the job of ing its own doings interesting Rudy York, the back-stopping an.

couldn't obviously have been to anyone better. Rudy's lat- reworks display set off in the rined faces of the Senators sisted of two homers and two les that accounted for seven sufficient to wallop Washing- 12-3.

rk thereby not only put himself behind DiMaggio, Foxx and ig in the home run race at 30 also bettered by one Babe Ruth's d of 17 homers in one month. Bam got that high on the way s record 60 in September 1927. eanwhile several neat pitching rmances were written on the rds. Danny MacFayden with a -hitter that stopped the Reds, and Bucky Walters with a 3-0 hit shutout of the Pirates, ed the list.

mp Hadley aided by Gehrig's bagger with the bases full, beat Indians for the Yankees, 7-3; White Sox edged out the Red 7-6, and the Browns and Ath- split a double-header, St. winning the first 2-1 and he night-cap by 7-3.

Watkins Back In Ring Here

Just at the opportune time, in comes swaggering old Sailor Tex Watkins again to see what can be done about calming down the cantankerous Buck Lipscomb.

It was done once before, this bringing in of Watkins by Promoter Allen, to settle the Hoosier Hotshot down, and old Tex did it up brown. Buck has been back for quite a spell now, roughing everybody up and making a monkey out of the "gentlemen."

But Brother Watkins is here, and he's booked against Lipscomb in the main event of Promoter Allen's weekly show at the Auditorium. It is not surprising, though highly gratifying, to find the old master of maul and ringpost punches back in town at this time.

To support the Watkins-Lipscomb scrimmage, Promoter Allen has lined up a couple of good boys for his semi-final and a pair of lesser lights for the prelim. Gus Johnson, who at times has pleased local congregations, tackles the big bad Wolff from South Africa — Frank Wolff, who subdued Jack Hagen in last week's main spot.

Tex Hager, a likeable fellow, meets John Nemanic, who looks worse than he actually is, in what may be an interesting curtain raiser.

Guess Who Drags Down Most Cash In Majors

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 — Guess who's the highest paid manager in the majors? . . . No, not Joe McCarthy of the Yankees ($36,000 per) nor Bill Terry of the Giants ($27,000) . . . The lucky guy is Mickey Cochrane of Detroit . . . We can't tell you what he draws down, but it's tops . . . Further, "Black Mike" is so solid with his bosses he can lead the Tigers as long as he wants to . . . And doesn't have to sign a contract.

We figure Mike Jacobs cleared $50,000 for himself out of the Farr-Louis brawl . . . Jimmy Johnston, the Garden maestro, took one good look at Farr bobbing and weaving against Joe Louis in the first round Monday night, then bet $10 on Tommy to last at 3 to 1 . . . Also induced former Mayor Jimmy Walker to do same . . . Both collected . . . Johnston said a week ago if the Welshman would only keep his head against Louis he'd turn in a big surprise.

You can hear Tommy Farr on the air with Jim Tully tomorrow night. . . . (Tommy consented to be interviewed only if the agency which arranged the broadcast would waive its customary commission) . . . Texas Christian Frogs will average 212 pounds per man . . . This corner is two years old today . . . Whoops. . . . New York sight writers are buffaloed at Referee Arthur Donovan (one of the best in the country) giving Louis 12 rounds against Farr . . . That's one that doesn't make rhyme nor reason . . . Donovan said Farr wasn't getting out of the way of Louis' left jabs . . . Haw? They didn't hurt him, did they?

Three-Day Softball Tourney Opens At Galveston Today

GALVESTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—Play in a three-day tournament for the Texas title of the American Softball association will start here this afternoon among 13 classy girls' teams.

Teams from San Antonio, Austin, Galveston, Beaumont, Longview, DeLeon, Eastland, Houston, Wichita Falls and Denton are entered.

The Wichita Falls Red Jackets, last year's champions, and the Alamo Jewelers, Texas Amateur Athletic federation titlists, are among favorites.

Excellent phonograph needles can be made from cactus spines.

College Squad Is To Tackle Green Bay

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (AP)—Green Bay's Packers will clash with selected college talent tonight before 85,000 fans at Soldier field in the fourth annual all star gridiron spectacle.

The Packers will defend the prestige of professional football against the collegiate brand. The all stars, 65 huskies selected by more than 5,000,000 fans as the brightest stars of the 1936 college season, will be defending only their individual reputations.

Baugh To Lead Attack

Charles E. (Gus) Dorais of the University of Detroit who was selected by the fans to head the all star coaching staff, has drilled his squad for 17 days, with most of the offensive sessions devoted to an aerial game built around "Slingin' Sam" Baugh, Texas Christian's great sharpshooter.

Dorais will start the first eleven men named by the fans—a lineup which did not inclued Baugh—but after the opening kickoff will be at liberty to send in anyone on the squad, and Baugh is expected to make his appearance without much delay.

In case of rain, the game will be postponed until tomorrow night.

Fred Haas Leading Western Amateur

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1 (AP)—It may be the Western Amateur golf championship but a slender lad from New Orleans, Fred Haas, jr., carelesaly left the impression today in the second round of qualifying play that it belonged to the deep south.

Haas handed a tough par 71 on the Los Angeles country club course a fine lacing with a 68 yesterday.

Today the field of 250 starters struggled to get into the match play bracket of 63. Paul Leslie of Joplin, Mo., title holder, stood by yesterday as the field blazed away.

Nate Marshall of Los Angeles and Howard Ernest, Culver City, were a stroke back of Haas.

On their heels came Tommy Barnes and Charley Yates of Atlanta, Ga., with 70s.

Three were deadlocked at par. These were Bob Drasier, Omaha, Neb., Chick Harbert, Battle Creek, Mich., and Ed Kingsley, of Magna City, Utah.

Barbers Hill And Brenham Sun Oilers To Tangle Tonight

HOUSTON, Sept. 1, (AP)—The Barbers Hill Gushers, champions of the 1936 Houston Post tournament, and the Brenham Sun Oilers, 1935 titlists, tangle here tonight for the leadership in the Post's third annual tournament. The victor will have two victories and no defeats.

The first round was completed last night. Baytown outpointed the favored Mount Pleasant Cubs in 10 hectic innings, 10 to 8.

The Halliburton Cementers of Duncan, Okla., walloped Cameron Iron Works of Houston, 13 to 3.

After the Barbers Hill-Brenham game tonight San Augustine plays Pasadena. The loser in that tilt will be eliminated from the meet.

Quarterfinal Matches In The State Junior Tourney On

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 1 (AP) — Quarterfinalists blazed away in the state junior golf tournament here today.

Matches were as follows: Lee Brandt, jr., of San Antonio vs. Iverson Martin of Fort Worth; Arthur (Buck) Luce of Austin vs. John McCook of Georgetown; Simon Alexander of Corpus Christi vs. Billy Thurmond of San Antonio; Jack Burke, jr., of Houston vs. Jack Thurmond of San Antonio.

There is almost 50 per cent water in a wheat grain.

SIGNING OF THE Forsan Oilers for a ball game here Sunday means that another strong diamond outfit is coming to town. It also means that the baseball season isn't over, although football is rising threateningly over the horizon and soon will attempt to take over its domineering position.

You've heard of Forsan baseball for some time. A major oil company operates a large camp in the little town, which is near Big Spring, and it specializes in oil workers who can play baseball.

Checking up with Manager Ford last night via telephone, we learned that his club has played a pretty tough schedule of 22 games this season, and that it has won 18 of them, which isn't at all bad.

We have at hand communications from Clyde McDowell, of the Fort Worth ball club of the Texas league who has been placed in charge of arrangements for a post-season barnstorming tour. The Cats generally make a sashay over the countryside at the conclusion of their season, and this time they want to come West. It has been two years since they came this way and they didn't play here then because Lubbock wasn't prepared.

There's still some preparation to be made before the local park and the local team can take care of a game of such proportions but local baseball officials will make a stab at entertaining the Panthers if Mr. McDowell succeeds in lining up a schedule for this section.

McDowell has asked for our help in arranging a schedule through this part. He would like to play here at Amarillo, Borger and Pampa, and at any other station willing to offer a suitable guarantee.

It occurs that the Littlefield team might be interested in fostering an exhibition game. If that should be the case, we would welcome communication from officials of Littlefield's baseball club.

Now it is by no means certain that the Cats will come this way, or that they will make a barnstorming trip of any kind. If they win the Texas league playoff series—and it appears they will certainly be in the big middle of it—they can not come this way, since they'll be occupied in the Dixie Series. But if they do not participate in the Dixie Series, they're pretty sure to pay us a visit, probably around Sept. 16, or maybe earlier.

Another communication comes from the Western Booking Agents of Kansas City, Kansas. It announces that the A. A. All-Stars of California will play exhibition games on the way home from the East, and would consider playing here after September 12.

It's the plan now to bring the Borger Hubers back here for a game on Sept. 12, and to try to arrange for the Californians to play here the following Sunday, which would be Sept. 19.

There'll be more about that later, this just to announce that the ball season isn't over yet.

SHORT, SHORT STORIES: College football publicity departments are on the job, and they're getting smarter . . . sending stuff of actual value to the noospeppers . . . Here's a sheaf of facts about University of Montana, the third marker on Tech's schedule . . . There's a heavy envelope from Centenary—also a personal letter from Coach Curtis Parker, enclosing a season press ticket to all of the Gents' home games this season . . . University of Arkansas sends a package of information . . . and Baylor has a paid publicity man for the first time . . . We'll be needing some dope from down Austin way ere long . . . Wonder if there'll be a special train running from here about Sept. 24?

Coach Doug Fessenden at Montana has 40 men around the fall training table—and 24 of them are veterans, sixteen from last year's undefeated frosh team. . . . The entire varsity line of last year returns. . . . and the 1936 Grizzly team was good enough to win six of its nine games. . . .

Congratulations to Bert "Mama" Williams for landing the Hot Springs, N. M., head coaching job . . . He'll make 'em a hand if he can get enough to eat. . . . Add coming popular sports for Lubbock sportsmen and women: motorboating . . . May sound strange to those who have seen only the pictures of West Texas, but there are numerous outboard motor owners in Lubbock . . . and they use 'em, too. . . . One of the sweetest jobs we've seen anywhere is the sixteen-footer owned by the Auburn boys, Glenn, Jesse, Leonard and Raymond. . . . On a specially constructed trailer, they haul it out to the City reservoir northwest of town, where the water is deep and the distance sufficient for a nice spin. . . . and to Buffalo Springs Lake Kemp, etc. . . . Another neat job is Harold Humphries' speedster . . . The Ausburns are agents here for a popular outboard motor . . .

Another Gilmore of the Olney Gilmores, is to play at Arkansas this fall. He's George, younger and heavier brother of the well-known Wilson and Braxton.

He's listed on the Razorback roster as a 190-pound guard . . . Coach Pete Cawthon got so stuck on his vacation in New Mexico that he missed the train for the Northwestern coaching school, sending Bert Huffman instead . . . But business'll start picking up out at the College Avenue plant right away . . . The Westerners are due home today from the Kerrville camp . . . Olney High school's gridders are still drilling at Tech, and will be for the rest of the week . . . Coach Pattison has some nice looking boys out there . . .

Gasoline Gus Burleson Is Still Going

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Sept. 1 — Aging "Gasoline Gus" Burleson, dean of semi-pro pitchers, lists six no-hit games in his nearly two decades on the mound. . . . Still hurling, currently in the Houston Post's tournament, Gus recalls his only truly perfect game . . . In 1922, while in Childress uniform, he struck out 22 batters and threw out the other five. . . . Not a ball hit past the pitcher's box.

Maybe it isn't cricket, but here's inside stuff on "Slingin' Sam" Baugh, recently signed by the St. Louis gashouse gang management in a moment of extremely good judgment . . . His own coach confides Sammy is a positive sucker for an outside pitch; couldn't hit one in a week . . . He murders inside heaves, and did in the Denver semi-pro tourney, scene of the contract signing.

He Makes Mistake

Curly-thatched Homer (Lard) McMurrian, Mount Vernon high school tackle, made a mistake the other day . . . He balked when the rest of his teammates voted to shave their heads before start of football practice . . . Six burly teammates carried him to a beauty shop, held him thirty minutes while attendants gave him a "finger wave." He's exhibiting coiffure of the well-dressed tackle this fall.

The Schoolboy Rowe-Daffy Dean "ailing arm" act is catching on. Now plans are being made to pit the two lame major leaguers in a Sherman-Denison game . . . Old Guy Sturdy, recently with the Baltimore Orioles, is behind the game . . . List this one as Texas golf's best comeback of the season. Fred Bedford of Brady five down at the 27th hole of a 36-hole match for the Brownwood invitation title cut down A. G. Harrell of Pioneer one up at the 36th green.

Unique is the Port Worth Star-Telegram's "football fiesta" billed for Sept. 10 at TCU stadium . . . Questions of fans pertaining to plays, formations, blocks, punting, passing and other phases of the game, mailed in, will be answered by practical demonstrations of the TCU and high school football teams.

Grey Downs To Be In Parade

MIDLAND, Sept. 1 (Special) — An extra added attraction for the opening day festivities at the annual Midland cowboy contest here Saturday afternoon, September 4, was announced Monday when arrangements were made by the local rodeo committee to bring four outstanding celebrities of the Casa Manana revue at Fort Worth here to appear on the opening day program, the group from Fort Worth to include Miss Grey Downs, Texas Sweetheart No. 1; Everett Marshall, celebrated vocal artist; Bess Coughlin, noted composer and singer who is featured on the Melody Lane program; and Stuart Morgan, manager of the famous adagio dancers. The famed quartet will ride in the horsemen's parade opening the three day and night rodeo and will appear at the Saturday afternoon rodeo performance.

George McEntire, jr., Midland pilot will fly to Fort Worth Saturday morning, starting back here with the party at 9 o'clock. They will appear in the parade and at the matinee rodeo and will start back to Fort Worth in McEntire's ship at 5:00 p. m., arriving there in time for the evening performance of Billy Rose's Casa Manana.

Delegation Expected

A large delegation from Fort Worth is expected to arrive here in special cars on the morning train.

Governor James V. Allred will also arrive by train Saturday morning, he told Clarence Schartbauer, president of Midland Fair, Inc., in a telephone conversation Monday, and Chairman C. V. Terrell of the Texas Railroad Commission will arrive on the same train. Governor Clyde Tingley of New Mexico announced Monday that he is making every effort to be here and if possible will accompany a delegation of Hobbs oil men here Saturday morning.

All of the visiting notables will ride in the opening parade which will be one of the most colorful ever staged in the southwest.

Missions On Skids In Texas Battle

(By The Associated Press)

San Antonio's Missions who a few days ago were flying high in second place in the Texas league today found themselves on the fourth rung and just within the bracket for the Shaughnessy playoffs.

The Padres, though still a notch or so ahead of the Beaumont club, failed to help their cause last night by splitting a double bill with the bottom-of-the-list Dallas Steers. The cellar-dwellers took the first, 3-1 behind Jelly Sorelle's four-hit performance and dropped the nightcap, 2-1.

Fort Worth extended its winning streak to nine by defeating the Beaumont Exporters twice taking the opening 10-inning affair 3-2 and the second 5-2. The wins established the Cats in second place.

The third-place Tulsa Oilers also found things to their liking and annexed a pair from the Galveston Bucs by 8-3 and 12-2.

Houston and Oklahoma City postponed their tilt because of wet grounds.

Long Beach Rider Is Crowned As Motorcycle Champion

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 1. (AP)—Bo Lisman of Long Beach, Calif., was crowned eastern states motorcycle racing champion today after winning a ride-off of a first place tie from Crocky Rawding of Bloomfield, N. J.

Don Smith of Texas and Lou Wilson of California finished in a tie for third place.

One Hundred Fifty Students Transferred To Crosbyton

CROSBYTON, Sept. 1 (Special)—One hundred fifty students have transferred into high school from rural districts, but Crosby county rural schools are employing more teachers than ever, according to reports made to R. H. Nowlin, county superintendent of schools.

All schools will open Monday with exception of Robertson, Lorenzo, Cone and Leatherwood, which have been started.

Alexander Bain, English physicist, made the initial step in the transmission of pictures by electricity in 1842.

Bids For Construction Of New Building Are To Be Opened

Bids for construction of a new building for Coca Cola bottling works, to be erected on Texas avenue will be opened Friday, according to announcement late Tuesday by F. L. Lindsey, manager.

The structure, of fire proof construction, will be two stories high and 50 by 125 feet. It will be modern and will house the entire plant, office and factory, and provide space for expected expansion.

Location will be in the 1600-block on Texas avenue, on the east side of the street.

Present location, Texas and Fourteenth street, is crowded, said Lindsey. The building is owned by the company and will be retained as an investment after the new home is completed and occupied. The firm has been at its present location for 10 years, Lindsey said.

Growth of business in the past several years has been steady and additional space is needed for present needs, to say nothing of expected increase in the next few years, Lindsey added.

CARDUI

In this modern time something wonderfully worth while can be done for practically every woman who suffers from functional pains of menstruation. Certain cases can be relieved by taking Cardui. Others may need a physician's treatment.

Cardui has two widely demonstrated uses: (1) To ease the immediate pain and nervousness of the monthly period; and (2) to aid in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food. Adv.

FLASHES OF LIFE

(By The Associated Press)

One Snake-Power

CHERAW, S. C.—A six-foot snake halted power service to a brick factory here by detouring 22,000 volts of electricity through its body.

Repairmen found the reptile had climbed a 12-foot pole and wrapped around two wires, causing a short circuit.

Just In Time

SEATTLE, Wash.—The burglar alarm didn't work, so grocer Perry Biggs decided to fix it. He puzzled with the apparatus until he felt a pistol thrust against his back.

The bandit robbed him of $270.

In The Way

MUSKOGEE, Okla.—One column of the state highway patrol daily report is reserved for the number and kinds of obstructions removed from highways. Sergeant Leonard Fox made this notation:

"Obstructions removed—two drunks."

Jail Mule

LURAY, Va. — Jesse Knight's mule wasn't as stubborn as his owner—but both went to jail.

The animal was confined over night with Knight after officers said Knight insisted on leading the mule up and down main street in heavy traffic despite their warnings.

Invisible Clock

WHEELING, W. Va. — The aged town clock will be heard but not seen.

City Manager Harry J. Humphrey ordered the top of the clock tower containing the faces, dismantled. The lower part, housing the works, will remain and the hourly chimes will ring as usual.

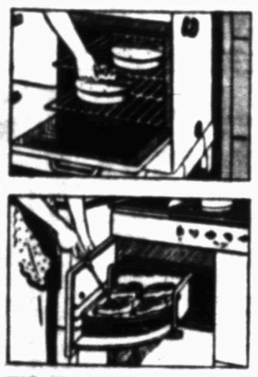

Walks To Fame

HAWTHORNE, Calif. — Because he walked in his sleep, Verle Gaston, 12, is envied by the members of his Boy Scout troop. Verle went to sleep in a tent adjacent to the Indian encampment of Hawthorne's third annual pow-wow. When he awoke, he was in a tepee surrounded by snoring braves.

Three Brothers Burlesque Crime In Their Toy Newspaper And They're Finding It Pays Them

(By The Associated Press)

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 1 —Three brothers are coining money here with a journalistic toy.

Their monthly, tabloid newspaper has 500 readers, gets more advertising than it can handle.

Earl Pettit, 16, editor, prints the eight-page sheet on a home press, cuts ads and headlines in linoleum.

He's earning money to go to college; wants to be a newspaper man. His paper, now clearing $18 an issue, was founded on this idea:

"The other papers were so full of crime we decided to put out a sheet that would give the people a laugh."

So the "Clarion" burlesques crime. A recent issue screamed "VICE" across the front page, promised "Hot Stuff Inside." It was filled with humorous neighborhood gossip.

The business brains and columnist is freckled David, 10. Journalism is a passing fancy.

"I really want to be an aviator," David confides.

Richard, six, earns his cut as desk man and press inker.

Editor Earl has a policy. Every now and then he ribs the Niagara Falls traction company.

Drink Of Water Leads To The Capture Of A Crazed Man

DRUMHELLER, Alberta, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press)—A drink of water led to the capture of a crazed blacksmith who ran amuck near here.

For five hours the police besieged Louis Nirobec in his shack, the six-foot blacksmith threatening to kill anyone who entered. He was armed with an axe.

Finally someone got the idea of asking him to pass a cup of water through a small window.

When he did, a policeman snapped handcuffs on his wrist and others dashed inside to complete the capture.

James B. Atlee Transferred To Office At Plainview

PLAINVIEW, Sept. 1 (Special)—James B. Atlee of Houston has been transferred to the Texas Old Age Assistance commission district office here, succeeding W. R. Dorsey as worker in charge.

Dorsey was transferred to Amarillo. No further changes in personnel are planned, it was announced.

Formal Dedication Ceremonies Staged At Lorenzo Tuesday

LORENZO, Sept. 1, (Special)—Formal dedication ceremonies for the new city park and library, attended by approximately 200 persons, were held here Tuesday afternoon.

Park equipment consists of two shower houses, three barbecue pits, three tables and benches, two fountains, and flower beds, all of stone, and two caliche-top tennis courts.

Among the many on the program were: Roy Terrell, city secretary, presiding; Fred Robb, member of the school board; J. O. Jones of the district Works Progress administration office at Lubbock; Mrs. F. B. Hoople, president of a study club and Mrs. E. F. Smith, president of a woman's club.

"Folks ask me where is OUR TOWN'S MILEAGE MERCHANT"

'Atta cop!... sending people right where you should—here to my station. Because the only real official Mileage Merchant is a CONOCO Mileage Merchant like me. I sure appreciate half a dozen cars from different states driving in this morning already. But let me tell you. Being in business for myself here, my surest living is from always pleasing the homefolks. And they're just as sold as any long distance tourist, on having the engine Oil-Plated by my Conoco Germ Processed oil. You know the way Oil-Plating is altogether different from anything else. It holds on like a leech, where all the worst wear used to come in the engine. Can't drain off the working parts. Then it can't leave any spots without oil... not even while the car is standing still... nor all the while it's spinning along on the hottest day. This Oil-Plating is really like a long-lasting part of the engine. Then where's any chance for too much wear, or needing more oil all the time? And there you are... people notice all their mileage and the way the engine keeps quiet and cool from Oil-Plating. That's how I've got them picking me out for their Mileage Merchant.

One of those important fair visitors happened to be Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt and Mrs. Doan was detailed to play hostess to the President's busy wife throughout a whole day at the exposition.

Further, Mrs. Doan says Mrs. Roosevelt has the most boundless supply of energy she has ever seen in any person, which is all the more remarkable since Mrs. Roosevelt is certainly nothing short of middle-aged.

A VISITOR to The Journal office yesterday was S. E. Barnett who undoubtedly has the most unique job of any printer in all of Texas.

He is the foreman of the prison print shop at the state penitentiary at Huntsville.

He was in Lubbock visiting his brother-in-law, H. A. Clark, of 303 Avenue R.

According to Mr. Barnett, 25 prisoners work in the print shop behind the great walls but only a few of them are printers when they first start out.

Occasionally a good linotype operator will show up; once-in-awhile a competent makeup man will "get a rap."

But most of the men have to be trained after they get there.

THE prison print shop has some mighty fine equipment and Mr. Barnett had with him some samples of the penitentiary newspaper and also some job folders done to advertise the coming prison rodeo, carded for October 3, 10, 17 and 24.

Incidentally, the best printer in the penitentiary shop is in for a bank robbery and Mr. Barnett says he is convinced that the man is innocent of the charge. Efforts are being made now to double-check his alibi which thus far appears airtight.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JOY — Heroine, hostess in smart Maine tearoom.

ROGER — Joy's fiance; rising young designer.

ANGELA—Joy's rival in love.

DICK — Wealthy young playboy, Roger's rival in love.

Yesterday: Joy gets a job in Maine for the vacation period. One night she is alarmed when a strange man asks to telephone from the summer house. Suddenly she remembers who he is.

CHAPTER IV

Tuesday: "Ever hear of a man called 'Jigger' around here?" I asked Cal when he came into the kitchen this morning to fix the stoves and fill the ice boxes.

"'Jigger'?" Cal repeated in a questioning voice. Then he laughed, though not before I caught a flicker of anger in his old blue eyes. "That ain't no name, Miss Joy. What are you trying to put over on me this morning?" and, pulling his tobacco pouch from his hip pocket, he shoveled a handful of rough cut into his almost toothless mouth.

"Oh, but it is," I replied. "He was here last night."

Cal's jaws dropped, and again, for a second, I caught a look of anger in his eyes when he said, "What have you got up your sleeves, Miss Joy? Better spill the beans . . . I guess you're up to some city game . . . trying to put something over on us."

"Not at all, but when every one was at the movies, this man came to the door and wanted me to let him in to call a number."

"Ain't Mrs. Penwick told you yet she don't let folks come in and use the phone, less they put up their money first. You see lots of trucks get in trouble after coming up the long hill and as there ain't no telephone nearer than a mile away they often want to use hers."

"Well, that's just what happened to his truck, but I wouldn't let a man like that in here unless I had a battalion of the National Guard here to meet him. He looked like a thug, with ferret-like eyes. If Rowdy hadn't been with me, I might have been scared. Wonder if you know the number he called. I wrote it down. Here it is."

"That don't mean anything to me, Miss. In the summer there's a lot more telephones in use with all the visitors around. Reckon this ice box can hold another hundred pounds," and Cal left the kitchen, while Tess, the head waitress, said:

"What was that you were telling Cal? Had burglars here last night?"

"No, only a man waiting to use the phone; but the funny thing about him is that just before I came up here, I saw him as we crossed the Queensborough bridge. He was driving a swell car then, but last night he had a big truck, covered with tarpaulin."

"Gee, maybe he was a bandit making away with his swag," Tess suggested. "Bet Cal will make it his business to find out all about him. He's better than a newspaper," and she laughed.

"Yes," I agreed, realizing that Cal is quite a character—"a native." Mrs. Fenwick calls him, which I suppose accounts for his queer ways, though she declares he's the mainstay of the tearoom. Well, if being able to fix electric appliances, repair furniture, raise flowers and vegetables, is the rating of "a native" I guess that's not so bad. Anyway when things go wrong here—no matter what—the cry is, "Get Cal!"

I'll remember what Tess says. Maybe I'll tackle Cal again about "Jigger" . . . he seems out of place here . . . looks like a crook.

Can't get over the idea of how perfectly ridiculous it is for a woman as rich as Mrs. Fenwick to wear herself to a frazzle running this show when she really doesn't need to do it. Cal says she has a fortune of her own, besides, whenever she goes into some new venture, her husband always puts up a wad of dough.

"He must think a lot of her," I remarked while I arranged the flowers for the tearoom.

Cal threw back his head and laughed. "Dunno about that. She's always talking about expressing herself. Well, if I know the old man, he'd rather pay for her to express herself on something else than bother himself listening to her harangues."

Laughed when Peter said it was so clean up here he wouldn't need to wash his neck more than once a week! Kids are funny; but he's right. The air is crystal clear. We're so far from neighbors we don't get any smoke and factories are unknown near. The Golden Anchor as Mrs. Fenwick calls the tearoom. Guess it was so named because some of her husband's ancestors were connected with the sea.

I really love it here. My bedroom window looks right across the winding lake that lies below the little hill on which The Golden Anchor is built. No one would ever imagine that the tearoom was once a barn where the warm, sweet breath of the cattle filled the air, and in the loft, now removed, great loads of hay were stored against long, cold winters, for it has been glorified so with old leaded windows and frescoed walls.

Wish Peter had some youngsters to play with. I must ask Cal if there are any in the neighborhood. Quite glad Cal doesn't seem to mind having Peter around; but he should be with children.

Cal evidently seems to feel responsible for the welfare of everyone connected with the tearoom. When I looked in at his workshop in the afternoon, he said, "Take a tip from me—never open the door at night when you're alone in the house. There's things going on in this country that would scare the daylights out of you."

I laughed. "I'm not afraid. You can't scare me."

His blue eyes twinkled and he looked hard at me for a minute, then he said, "Guess I can't. All the same, better watch out for strangers . . . you can't always trust some of the summer folks."

"Like Jigger?" I said in a low tone, as Mrs. Fenwick appeared.

He nodded. So Cal does know my strange caller after all.

While life seems to run along here very smoothly on the surface with charming people as our guests, special dinners for the young folks who are in the swell camps that abound in the neighborhood, I have a hunch that there's something sinister, too. I don't know yet what it is. I told Tess how I felt when we went for a short walk in the woods.

"Oh," she said, "You're all wet. Guess I know what gets you. It's those hemlock trees . . . so tall . . . so dark . . . with their branches sweeping the ground as though shielding some mystery . . . and then when the wind blows . . . the eerie sounds might suggest ghosts, but there's nothing to it."

Maybe she's right, for the Maine woods present quite a contrast to Fifth Avenue, New York. Lovely, of course, and so fragrant, but I could hardly see myself spending my life in such surroundings. Still it's healthful and the air's like wine. No wonder Peter's cheeks are rosy, and what an appetite he has!

Mrs. Fenwick has given orders he should sleep as late as he likes in the morning, so he'll be thoroughly built up before we go back to town . . . bet that was inspired by Miss Pegler. I hate the thought of having to send him to one of those huge city schools in fall. Perhaps Roger was right . . . why did I resent his suggestion to send him to boarding school? Oh, it's so easy to see what you should have done after you've cast the die.

There, a tear's fallen on my diary . . . made a horrid blot . . . I wonder what Roger's doing now . . . wonder if he's really interested in Angela.

Just mopped my tears when Tess stuck her head around the door of my room. "Here, catch this," she called. "Sorry I forgot it before." Then dashed along the corridor while a letter fluttered to the ground.

"IT IS LATER THAN YOU THINK"

Of course we all know that the calendar doesn't lie, but it just doesn't seem possible that September, 1937, has already rolled around.

To The Journal, it seems that last January 1st is only a month or so behind us, instead of eight months into history. It hardly seems any time at all since we were looking out into a full year and wondering what it was going to bring. Now that full year has shrunk until three-fourths of it has gone, never to return.

We are reminded, in this regard, of a very famous sun dial somewhere in the world—possibly in China or elsewhere in the Orient—by which great crowds are daily wont to pass. Under the sun dial there is inscribed the legend "It is later than you think", which naturally pulls up short many a thoughtful person who immediately realizes the truth of the statement.

This year, likewise, is later than we think.

Our span of years, whether we be in the first flush of youth or well into old age, is running out more rapidly than any of us may suppose.

Today is September 1 of a year which is rapidly drawing to a close, albeit happily for most of us since it has brought better times.

It's hard to believe, yet we recall that passage in the Book of Books, which reads:

"The days of our years are threescore years and ten; and if by reason of strength they be fourscore years, yet is their strength labour and sorrow; for it is soon cut off, and we fly away."

Yes, "It is later than you think."

A Thought . .

And, behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed: and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy: Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee.—Matthew 9:2.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

This is the seventh and last of a series of stories by Paul Harrison on Hollywood's ranking comediennes and their lives.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1. — When Adolph Zukor, the little Big Boss of Paramount, visits a set where Martha Raye is working, she says, "Hello, Cutie Pie!"

And that is the most significant single fact in the brief but eventful history of Hollywood's top comedienne. Two years ago she was humble in the presence of night club managers and vaudeville booking agents. A year ago, in talkietown, she addressed assistant directors as "Sir." Today she calls Zukor "Cutie Pie."

The first time this happened everyone's mouth dropped open so widely in horror and astonishment that Martha's own mouth seemed prim by comparison. But Zukor didn't mind. Miss Raye is one of his pets, and he has full-fledged stardom in mind for her. Indeed, he recently bought screen rights to the musical, "Linger Longer Letty" as her first top-billing vehicle.

She Breaks Old Records

Quite recently, too, some other important things have happened. She has acquired a husband, a crisp new contract, and at least $40,000 in pin money—the latter through a five-week personal appearance tour made between pictures.

Her net minimum wage was $7500 a week—which is 30 times larger than the best salary ever paid her as a vaudeville performer in those same theaters in New York, Boston, Chicago and Detroit. At two theaters attendance records established years ago by Mary Pickford and Al Jolson were broken by the crowds who came to see and hear Martha Raye.

I happened to have been the first correspondent to interview her. That was in July, 1936, on the morning after the preview of "Rhythm on the Range." She was still shaky, incredulous at her triumph, and a little scared. She was 20 years old then, but a veteran of 17 years of trouping.

Born in a theater dressing room, cradled in costume trunks, Martha was doing a song and shimmy-dance at the age of 3. She never knew a home, or more than a few months of formal education. But she learned all about adversity — being stranded, going hungry, getting fired, rinsing clothes in the washrooms of railroad day coaches, begging for bookings, being cheated of her salary.

When I saw her, Martha was just beginning to think about the substantial rewards which would come with her new success. For the first time in her life she could have something genuine—a real silver fox scarf, a real diamond, maybe a real home.

It was not many months before some people in the movie colony were snickering at the way she had "gone Hollywood" with a prodigal display of gowns and jewels and furs. Miss Raye didn't bother about defending herself; she was having too much fun buying things.

It Always Snaps Back

These furs and jewels and gowns were more than symbols of triumph; they were balm to the vanity of an attractive girl whose mouth had been stretched, by the studio, into a comic monstrosity. True, it is a generous mouth, and mobile. It is mobile because she began mugging at 7 and has been making faces ever since.

She said, "My mouth isn't really so big; it's just that I can twist it and stretch it. But it always snaps back into place. Doesn't it? Huh?"

She was a good sport about it. She didn't complain when the studio lengthened it with makeup, or when it was enlarged by the retouching of still pictures, or when the publicity department issued scores of jokes about it.

But on the personal appearance tour, from which she has just returned, Miss Raye's mouth began to grow a little grim. In every city battalions of photographers would yell, "Hey, Martha — open your mouth!" When she played at the Paramount in New York a huge poster head of Miss Raye decorated the front of the theater, and the open mouth was the box office! She said, "That was almost more than I could swallow."

Hollywood Buzzes Again

During four of the eight pictures in which she has worked almost continuously, Hamilton (Buddy) Westmore, youngest of five brothers who make up most of the stars at various studios, attended Miss Raye. Dutifully he accentuated the size of her mouth, but he will not have to do that again. Zukor and other Paramount executives have decided that a shorter line should be drawn between comedy and grotesqueness. Hereafter, Miss Raye is to be made beautiful. By the time cameras begin turning on "Linger Longer Letty," the star will be a glamor gal!

During a party at the Biltmore Bowl about three months ago, Buddy Westmore and Miss Raye decided they were in love and left forthwith, evening clothes and all, for Las Vegas, Nev. There they were married. For weeks afterward Hollywood buzzed with talk of her mother's bitter opposition to the match, and gossip columns still carry rumors of a split.

There seems to be very little foundation for such reports. Right now Miss Raye is basking in the luxury of a new house which Westmore completely furnished during her absence on tour. She hopes to make it a real home.

In two or three years, at the peak of her career, she wants to retire and have a lot of kids.

Embarrassing Moments

Donald Richberg Still Trying To Revive NRA, Dutcher Says; Sectional Enmity Described

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—It seems impossible to get this thing settled—whether there should be another NRA or whether we should have a straight wage-hour bill.

That man Don Richberg, former "assistant President" and still a close Roosevelt confidante, is back again with his beguiling words just when nearly everyone thought there just wasn't any more argument about it.

Dutcher

Wage-hour legislation, Richberg says publicly, must be supplemented by a law to preserve fair competition in business and industry if the interests of labor are to be protected.

This would mean, according to those who wish Richberg would please stop, a return to NRA days when industrialists promised to observe various wage and hour schedules in return for exemption from the anti-trust law and the right to fix prices, stifle production and otherwise restrict competition.

There is a widespread impression here that NRA, among other things, served admirably as a device by which big fellows squeezed out little fellows whose price competition, beneficial to consumers, had prevented monopolistic price fixing.

When the administration turned to thinking of a wage-hour law early this year, Richberg fought behind the scenes for a virtual revival of NRA. He lost before he started because the President had decided on a straight wage-hour bill, with standards to be fixed by government, no precious privileges to would-be monopolists in return for compliance, and plenty of punishment for non-compliance.

Senator Hugo Black, now a Supreme court justice, wouldn't listen to Richberg at Labor committee hearings on the wage-hour bill and had him file the statement presenting his views.

Richberg loves the wraith of NRA and believes in the theory that big business, small business, labor, government and consumers can sit down as one happy family without anybody's throat being cut. The administration, for the time being, at least, scouts that theory. But Don is mighty persistent.

Factional Strife Aroused

Further notes on Congress.

The court debate, anti-lynching act and the struggle over confirmation of Senator Black to the Supreme court drew the largest crowds, in the order name.

In the House, members reported privately, no such cloakroom rage had ever been observed as that exhibited by Northern urban and Western farm state congressmen when the Southern cotton bloc put over the $65,000,000 authorization of customs receipts for subsidies supplementing the loans to guarantee 12-cent cotton. This last-day outburst of sectional feeling—based on the idea that cotton prices were no more important than other farm prices and the wage-hour bill—probably will carry over to the next session. Only the combined appeals of the Southern leadership kept it from tying up adjournment.

Most Washington correspondents were surprised at the number of private confessions from members of all parties and factions that they wanted "to get home and find out what's going on." Pro and anti-administration members alike seemed unwilling to trust reports from friends at home or the consensus of office mail, insisting they must go out and mix with the rank and file before they could be sure how the bulk of their constituents felt about their own performances and national issues.

Apparently the mystery has been settled as to whether Congressman Edward E. Cox of Camilla, Ga. ex- of the Democratic rules committee men who kept the wage-hour bill off the floor, actually bet $50 in advance that the bill wouldn't come to a vote.

Hearing reports that Cox had offered to make such a bet, certain indignant members complained to Majority Leader Sam Rayburn. Rayburn returned, reporting Cox had said it was "a windy," meaning a rhetorical bet made with no thought of an actual wager.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

The PTARMIGAN of ALASKA A BIRD THAT TURNS WHITE IN WINTER, BLENDS SO PERFECTLY WITH THE SNOW THAT ITS SHADOW IS VISIBLE AT A GREATER DISTANCE THAN THE BIRD ITSELF!

The SUN'S DISTANCE FROM THE EARTH HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH THE SEASONS! THESE ARE CAUSED BY VARIATION IN THE ANGLE AT WHICH THE SUN'S RAYS STRIKE THE EARTH.

SINCE the orbit of the earth is not a circle, the sun is not always the same distance from us, but this has no effect on the seasons, as can be seen from the fact that the northern hemisphere is closest to the sun when it is having its winter. The distance varies from about 91.5 million miles in January to 94.5 million in July.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 5 to 9 lower on large private crop estimate and under active foreign and hedge selling. Oct. 9.11; Dec. 9.08; Jan. 8.1; March 9.19; May 9.26; July 9.36.

Overnight consideration of the cotton loan terms failed to attract more active buying.

In addition to increased southern offerings, other selling came through commission houses and Wall street.

A decline to within 4 points of the 9-cent level for Sept. attracted a little more support and that delivery, which had eased from 9.10 to 9.04, was quoted at 9.08 shortly after the first half hour, when the list was 4 to 10 points net lower.

One private report pointed to a crop of 16,457,000 bales, against its estimate of 15,721,000 last month, while another placed the crop at 15,790,000 against 14,980,000. The August 1 government estimate was 15,593,000.

The market moved irregularly later in the morning with Liverpool and the trade supporting the market.

By midday Dec. which had recovered to 9.13, was selling at 9.11 and the list was 1 to 4 points net lower.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 1 (AP) — Execution of a few overnight selling orders caused an opening decline of 3 to 6 points in cotton here today.

Oct. opened at 9.09, Dec. 9.17, Jan. 9.28, March 9.28, May 9.38, and July at 9.44, all new lows for the current season.

Some covering in near positions developed but after a rally of a point or two the market weakened again under renewed selling and toward the end of the first half hour active positions were 6 to 9 points net lower.

said they were prepared to launch air raids against all Chinese airdromes and military bases. Yesterday, Japanese planes bombed such bases in the far south, around Canton.

Japanese advices from the north indicated an imminent major battle at the important Yellow river barrier to central China. An irregular Chinese army was reported to be waiting with overwhelming numbers for two Japanese columns, pressing south from Tientsin and Peiping, with superior armaments and equipment.

Still On Defensive

Chinese reports, however, declared the highly mobile Japanese army was bogged in rainy season mud and still in the defensive.

Off The Record Answers Given

EDITOR'S NOTE: What Washington officials are saying these days is largely off the record. Here is another article in which the Washington chief of bureau outlines the nature of that talk without hazarding any guesses as to the legitimacy of the arguments being presented or what the consensus might be.)

By MILO THOMPSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 — The question "Who lost face in the session of congress just ended?" is asked today nearly as often on the tongues of Washington people who like to speculate about things political as the question "What is happening to the Democratic majority in congress?"

Those who ask it usually are ready to answer it. But there is no unanimity in these answers.

Some Blame Congress

Those who look ardently upon the Roosevelt administration program say it was congress.

Those who stress the portion of that program which failed of adoption or was postponed, including the Supreme court matter, say it was the president.

Those who say they feel the Supreme court was influenced by attacks upon it and became something less of a bulwark for the constitution (as these commentators interpret it) say it was the Supreme court.

Believe Court Injured

So also do some who deplore the things that were said about the nation's highest court in the heat of debate. They feel certain it will take a long time to restore old time respect for that court.

It is not for a reporter of news to say who is right: it is, however, his task to report what the wagging political tongues are saying even though much of this is quite off the record.

And the tongues are saying two things about congress. If the speakers believe that the Roosevelt cause and the need for action "now" was something of a holy crusade, they condemn congress for having sidetracked or postponed essential parts of that program.

Rayburn Stand Is Told

But others take a position similar to that voiced by House Majority Leader Rayburn in his farewell speech to the recent session. He said:

"When anybody, foreign or domestic, says that this session of congress has been a sit-down congress, that it has not worked and that it has not enacted a great program of legislation, they either are ignorant of the facts, or they want to distort them."

Supporters of this position assert that a congress which appropriated more than seven and a half billion dollars to continue or start actions intended by their sponsors to improve national conditions, was scarcely a do-nothing congress. They also assert that it is only in comparison with what the president outlined that congress failed to produce. They add that the thing which caused much delay and postponement of measures was itself a virtue, a desire to look carefully at both sides of each matter.

Period Has Ended

Congress has not lost face either in the opinion of those who are asserting a rubber stamp period has ended. The last-named group will tell you that congress has gained importance.

What has happened to presidential prestige, is similarly a matter for difference of opinion. One hears failure to obtain his court reform objective gave the president a black eye. Some say it disclosed he is less the brilliant startegist his supporters acclaimed. Many say a president who had to compromise after he had said he would not compromise, who had to take delay after promising more action with a resounding "now," and who had been forced to interrupt preaching his political gospel to aim epithets like "Tory" and "America's Lord Macauley's" at his opponents is not so powerful a factor as in his first term.

Strength In Driving Ahead

No less emphatic are those who see the opposite picture. They say the president is playing a long range game and expects to lose a few tricks. They say meeting an emergency to join any program promising action and relief was simpler than the present task: deciding what part of the emergency program should be made permanent policy. They say that is bound to stir up opposition, even inside the president's party. Every step, they go on, must be won in battle and therefore the president has shown his strength in driving ahead.

Some Roosevelt supporters insist the president has become stronger in that he has kept all eyes on him during the battles and, has learned where his strength lies.

How the Supreme court emerged from the controversy in which it had no part is obviously not so easy for the volunteer analyzers. Both friends and foes of the present court set-up have been saying it is "too bad" a branch of the government so austere, so dignified and so final, should have become a figure in a political squabble.

But the friends are quick to add that the court has not been sedulously affected. As they put it, it got a vote of confidence.

The contrary view expressed is that prestige has suffered to an extent which will hound some of the justices to their retirement or their graves.

Auto Crash

Hobbs, N. M. Cantrell had taken the driver's wheel of the Martin car a short time before the accident, Martin said this morning. They left Hobbs about midnight.

Road Turns Sharply

The road turns sharply across a railroad at the place the car overturned near Wellman, between there and Seagraves, said Martin, who said he often had traveled the road but was dozing when they reached the turn. The vehicle went through a fence.

Fuqua, a friend of Martin, was spending a short time in Lubbock and decided at the last minute to accompany the group to Hobbs, where Martin also owns a store.

Fuqua was the only occupant thrown from the automobile. The car was considerably damaged.

Dallas Auditor Only Needs 3 Bullets For His Big Game Hunting Trip, He Says

DALLAS, Sept. 1 (AP) — Dallas County Auditor John L. Crosthwait leaves higher mathematics behind when he goes hunting.

"I'm taking three cartridges for my .300 rifle" he boasted. "One shot each for a moose, a bear and an elk."

He was on his way today to the Jackson Hole region of Wyoming.

More Taxes Are Collected

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 — The treasury reported today it collected 69.8 cents in taxes for every dollar spent during the first two months of the current fiscal year.

This was a better ratio than in the first two months of the last fiscal year, when collections averaged 65.3 cents.

The government's account books showed a larger deficit for the period this year than last, however.

Deficit At $357,923,000

With only two business days of August unreported, the treasury listed the two months' deficit at $357,923,000, or $31,000,000 more than the red ink entry for the corresponding months a year ago.

Officials expressed some satisfaction that the $108,539,000 deficit for August was $95,000,000 under that of August, 1936.

In July, spending topped revenue by $249,000,000, of $126,000,000 more than the July, 1936, deficit.

Less Than Prediction

The two months' spread between income and outgo this year was only $53,000,000 less than the $410,000,000 deficit predicted by President Roosevelt for the entire fiscal period ending next June 30.

Officials expressed confidence however, that the deficit for the full year will fall substantially under Mr. Roosevelt's forecast.

Officials said they are counting on administration economy efforts and increased repayments to lending agencies during the remainder of the year to offset a 21 per cent increase in spending for ordinary government purposes during July and August.

It may be possible, they said, to effect some reduction in the public debt, now at a record peak of $37,011,000,000.

little negro girl from Houston showed up and induced him to run away with her. The negro was not recaptured.

The only other misfortune he had when living in the jail was when six thugs "jumped" him and gave him somewhat of a drubbing with handkerchief-enclosed soap and improvised clubs about three years ago. "I've been lucky, I suppose," he said.

Posey became chief deputy when Bedford F. Carpenter resigned that position to become associated with the tax assessor-collector's office, and Robinson was named jailer to replace Posey.

Aerial Photography Provides Evidence Against Fishermen

PORT LAVACA, Sept. 1 (AP) — Aerial photography provided evidence against three commercial fishermen shrimping in closed waters, Capt. W. A. H. Bauer, deputy state game, fish, and oyster commissioner, said today.

A coast guard plane swooped over the offenders in Espiritu Santos bay, beating the fishermen's "grapevine telegraph," and its occupants took pictures and noted boat numbers, said Bauer.

As a result, fines of $25 and costs were assessed in Justice Bill Hunt's court at Port O'Connor, against J. C. Rogers of Corpus Christi; Stanley Wilburn of Sea Drift, and Bill Lane of Port O'Conner. Bauer related.

Congress Is Shut Down But The Melody Lingers On; S45 A Page

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP) — Congress has shut down but the melody lingers on.

From the public printer today came that posthumous paper of the first session of the 75th congress—the appendix of the congressional record—the verbal swan song of the deliberations.

It includes some of the best examples of the silent political speech—which means orations that were prepared but never delivered.

This appendix is 86 pages long, but wait until the final edition comes out next week—it ought to break all records.

Each page, incidentally, costs about $45.

Driver Assists Passengers To Safety After Mishap

WICHITA, Kas., Sept. 1 (AP) — W. O. Sanders of Elorado broke the windshield on his burning, overturned bus near Wichita today and assisted 24 passengers to safety, none suffering critical injuries.

Most seriously injured were Mrs. C. W. Clark, her daughter, Dolores Clark, both of Augusta; Mrs. L. E. van Ranken of Wellington, and Dorothy Weirshing of Moline, Ill. They suffered first degree burns, hospital attendants said.

Sanders said a front spring on the Wichita-bound Southern Kansas Stage lines bus apparently broke, locking the steering gear. The machine skidded in the middle of the slab, turned over, and was destroyed by fire.

More Machines To Be In Test

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 1—Fewer men and more machines will be used for the test of the proposed new infantry division here Sept. 15. The vanguard of troops from 15 other posts are scheduled to arrive at Fort Sam Houston Wednesday, in preparation for the test.

Approximately 6,000 officers and men from other posts, coupled with 6,000 at Fort Sam Houston, are to participate in the maneuvers, which will continue through Nov. 15.

The tentative tables of organization for the proposed division envisages a modern unit of about 13,500 officers and men as compared with the post world-war division of some 900 officers and 20,500 enlisted men, at war strength tables.

More Mobile Force

The new division is mechanized and motorized and constitutes a more mobile fighting force with great fire-power.

The first group to arrive will be approximately 15 officers and 195 enlisted men from the first cavalry division, Fort Bliss, Texas, who will form the reconnaissance squadron of the test division.

Sixteen officers and 492 enlisted men from the second engineers at Fort Logan, Colorado and the 8th engineers at Fort McIntosh, Texas, will arrive here about Sept. 8.

Other Contingents To Follow

The sixth infantry of Jefferson Barracks, Mo., a force of approximately 800, is scheduled to arrive about Sept. 9. On the same date about 750 men from the 29th infantry, Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and 440 from the 82nd field artillery, Fort Bliss, Texas; four truck companies composed of about 350 men from Fort Bliss, Fort Brown and Fort Clark, Texas, and one quartermaster service company composed of 125 men from Fort Bliss.

The anti-aircraft battalion composed of 500 members of the 69th coast artillery, Fort Crockett, Texas, will be the last unit to arrive, scheduled to be here on September 11.

All units are traveling overland in automobiles and trucks and will be quartered after arrival at Fort Sam Houston, Dodd field and Camp Bullis, 20 miles northwest of San Antonio.

The 51st signal battalion of 355 men arrived here on August 2.

Oklahoma Plans Prison Reform

(By The Associated Press)

PONCA CITY, Okla., Sept. 1 — Dr Henry G. Bennett, president of Oklahoma A. & M. college, has been designated by Gov. Marland to direct a new state prison reform program which includes an "honor farm" with neither bars nor armed guards.

A seven-point program in the chief executive's drive to rehabilitate trustworthy prisoners by teaching them a trade, was mapped. It provided for:

To Construct "Honor Farm"

1. Construction of housing and shops for a bariess "honor farm" at Stringtown, home of the present sub-prison.

2. Construction of a hospital and receiving ward at McAlester penitentiary.

3. Development of an education program at both the penitentiary and Granite reformatory, first classes in academic subjects to open Sept. 6.

To Develop Education

4. Development of an agricultural and mechanical vocational education program at Stringtown.

5 Construction of a shoe factory at Granite to give training to inmates and provide shoes for children of needy parents.

6. Classify new prisoners in a program which eventually would include complete mental and physical tests.

7. Appointment of a farm manager by the state board of agriculture to coordinate crop production at penal and eleemosynary institutions.

U. S. Traffic Death Toll 3,420 In July

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (AP)—A total of 3,420 persons lost their lives on the nation's streets and highways during July, the National Safety Council has reported.

The deaths—160 more than in the same month last year-boosted the traffic toll 5 per cent for the month and 12 per cent for the seven month period. The gain, however, was counterbalanced, the council's statisticians said, by a 12 per cent increase in the month's motor mileage.

The increased mileage reduced fatalities per 100,000,000 vehicle miles 7 per cent in July compared to July, 1936.

Further Reduction In Pension Rolls Made For September

AUSTIN, Sept. 1 (AP)—September old age pension checks will reflect a further reduction in the rolls but not as large a one as in July and August.

W. A. Little, state director, said he would start mailing warrants tomorrow to 114,455 pensioners. They will total $1,570,832, or an average of $13.73. August checks went to 116,443 persons and aggregated $1,602,490.

French Railways Nationalized

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Sept. 1 — The second people's front government tonight completed preliminary reorganization of France's economy by nationalizing French railways a few hours before expiration of the cabinet's emergency financial powers.

The nationalization decree, banding six rail systems of more than 26,000 miles into a single national railway company, rounded out the three-month financial dictatorship of Premier Camille Chautemps' government.

Powers Used Strongly

The emergency powers were used so strongly that politicians wondered whether the government might not be strong enough to continue after parliament reconvenes at the end of September even though it was considered merely a "summer cabinet" when parliament recessed.

The series of emergency measures, including rail nationalization which places railroads in the same position as armament industries, must be submitted for parliament's approval.

The base now has been laid for Financial Minister George Bonnet's entire program to reform the national economy.

Financial measures already put into effect include the depreciation of the franc to approximately its old relation to the dollar, paring down expenditures, increasing taxes on tobacco and other luxuries and raising communication, transportation and postage rates.

FDR Is Invited To Visit At El Paso

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP) — Representative R. E. Thomason of El Paso, Tex., invited President Roosevelt today to visit El Paso if he should make a western trip.

"Should Roosevelt accept," said Thomason, "I will then ask the state department to extend an invitation to President Cardenas (of Mexico) to come up to El Paso. It will be the first meeting of presidents of the two countries on the boundary since Taft and Diaz met on the international bridge in El Paso I believe."

"If President Roosevelt does go to the Pacific Northwest," said Thomason, "I think it quite probable he might come back by way of El Paso."

Lamesa City Commission Has Passed New Milk Ordinance

LAMESA, Sept. 1, (Special)—The city commission at a regular meeting passed a milk ordinance in conformity with the request of the state department of health. It will become effective within six months.

Another ordinance, relating to car dealers, was passed. All dealers must secure a permit, pay a $25 tax and post bond of $6,000. A mad dog ordinance also was passed, requiring dog owners to have a tag on the collar of the dog, showing he was vaccinated. Fine is from $5 to $100. Other dogs will be killed, it was announced.

Dr. And Mrs. Selecman Return From 7-Months World Tour

DALLAS, Sept. 1 (AP)—Dr. C. C. Selecman, president of Southern Methodist university, and Mrs. Selecman returned Monday from a seven-months tour around the world.

About the Sino-Japanese trouble, Doctor Selecman said that even last February, when they were there, "everyone was tense and there was some scattered shooting at that time." He said there was "much discontent" in Palestine. The German church situation, he said, "is not at all clear, the longer you stay the less you understand."

Political Developments Are To Determine Crowley's Candidacy

FORT WORTH, Sept. 1 (AP) — Political developments in Texas during the next 90 days will determine whether Karl Crowley, solicitor for the postoffice department in Washington, will enter the race for the governor, he said here.

The earliest patent on the forerunner of linoleum was taken out in England in 1636.

Georgian Scores Sen. McKellar

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Sept. 1 — Congressman Robert Ramspeck of Georgia today told members of the United National Association of Post Office Clerks that Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee was blocking their legislation and declared he would so infrom the Tennessee electorate when McKellar seeks re-election.

The demonstrations touched off by the Atlanta congressman's bristling attack were in sharp contrast to the tense silence in which the delegates to the U. N. A. P. O. C.'s thirty-fifth national convention here heard C. B. Utley, superintendent of postoffice service, asserted that "drinking, shortages and bad debts" among clerks comprised some of the department's worst problems.

Has Concealed Legislation

In opening his attack on McKellar, chairman of the senate postoffice committee, Ramspeck said that the Tennessee senator had concealed "in his ample bosom" progressive legislation beneficial to clerks and other federal employes.

Charging that McKellar was preventing the making of "a real career service out of the postal service," Ramspeck, chairman of the house civil service committee, asserted, "I don't believe any one senator or any one congressman has the right to bury bills which have the approval of the president, the postmaster general, 85 per cent of the people of this country and every clerks' organization."

Holds Post Through Patronage

He said he intended to "build a fire so hot under McKellar that he can't hold those bills."

"The facts are," he said, "that he (McKellar) interferes constantly with your affairs. He admits he holds his post through patronage, and I say to you that it is not healthy for Tennessee or the government to allow such a situation to continue. I intend to let the people of Tennessee know about it when he comes up for re-election.

"In Jim Farley," Ramspeck continued, "we have the finest postmaster general ever known and the greatest soldier. He has been painted as the master spoilsman and dispenser of patronage. No man has as little to do with it. He has taken it on the chin for his chief and has built up a department of career men. We have in the department today fewer men who didn't come up from the ranks than ever before."

Ramspeck brought many of those in the convention hall to their feet when he said, "some groups of federal employes are advocating picketing, striking and collective bargaining. No such thing can be done with the government and congress won't permit it."

Home Loan Bank Says Savings In Texas Show Big Increase

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—The The Federal Home Loan bank board announced savings on deposit August 1 in 89 Texas affiliates totaled $22,211,514, an increase of $5,610,314 over August 1, 1936.

The federal associations, the board said, brought their total direct reduction mortgage loans for construction purchase, reconditioning and refinancing of homes to $18,276,194.

New Move Begun For Hero's Medal For Courageous Lad

(By The Associated Press)

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 1—They started a new move today for a hero's medal for courageous Billy Epperson, 14.

Stricken with infantile paralysis, Billy can't walk and he can hardly breathe but he twice has risked his life in unsuccessful efforts to save other patients who needed the "iron lung" he has occupied.

Today Bill saw his second sacrifice come to naught with the death of Robert Clarence Hicks, 19, victim of a diving board accident that paralyzed his respiratory muscles.

Billy readily offered to give his place in the Morningside hospital iron lung Saturday night when they told him about Hicks. He had made such progress since mid-July that he could be taken out of the respiratory for several hours at a stretch. Then Billy himself weakened and had to be hurried across town to a second iron lung at St. John's hospital.

On Aug. 5 Billy told his physicians he would give up his iron lung for Billy Hackler, 13, Muskogee boy desperately ill with infantile paralysis. The change was made but the Hackler boy failed to revive. Billy Epperson himself was weakening fast when they put him back in the mechanical breather but he said he'd try an oxygen tent if the iron lung would help the other boy any more.

On the basis of his first effort a Tulsa newspaper nominated Billy Epperson for a Carnegie hero award.

This business was founded on the idea that a sound, honest, practical operation was the best policy in the long run. We still believe that.

We believe in offering legitimate merchandise at moderate prices. But we believe that we are entitled to a normal profit, too.

Most of all, however, we believe in offering our customers merchandise that they know and trademarks that they can trust. That's why we carry the well-known branded lines of merchandise that we do. That's why we are proud, particularly, of the fact that this year we bring to you the Fiftieth Anniversary values of Hart Schaffner & Marx.

It would have been easy enough to introduce inferior merchandise at lower prices, or the same prices of a season ago, into our stocks this season . . . but we don't believe in that kind of a hypodermic. Al Smith Back In Politics And Is Just A Cold-Eyed Warrior

BY CHARLES NORMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 1. — Al Smith, "the happy warrior" of another day, sits in a leather-covered chair behind a massive desk in his Empire State skyscraper office, chews on a half-smoked cigar, and says little.

Purple Shirt And A Pearl

The man who was governor and presidential candidate has doffed his coat in the heat, and his vest is unbuttoned over a purple shirt and a tie with a pearl stickpin. Before him on the desk two terra cotta tigers, with delicate stripes, stand as though sniffing the air.

His greeting is friendly, but once it is over he clamps down on his cigar and demands: "How long is this going to take?"

"As long as you care to make it," he is told.

"Fire away, then," he says. "Politics is out."

That gives him one strike on his visitor, for interviewing Al Smith, with politics out, is like talking about Atlas without his burden.

That's One Strike

But there is no question that the walker and talker of the last presidential campaign is in his element again. There is something alive and nervous in his movements, in his manner. For sweeter than the strains of "The Sidewalks of New York" is the battle din of politics to the man in the brown derby. Therefore it seemed safe to ask him: "How does it feel to be back in the political arena?"

"Didn't know I'd ever been out of it," he barks through his teeth.

The illness and death of Tammany Leader Dooling brought Smith back to the council tables of New York's embattled democracy and he emerged with his man, Christopher D. Sullivan, long a congressman but never an orator, as chief of the wigwam, and his choice, Senator Royal S. Copeland, as candidate for mayor.

Political observers saw in this personal victory for Smith the injection into local politics of his and Mr. Copeland's opposition to President Roosevelt's New Deal administration.

There's LaGuardia

Although President Roosevelt has made it known, "for the thousandth time" that he is staying out of New York city politics, the Democratic primary here apparently will be fought out on the New Deal issue since four New York burrough leaders have designated a pro-New Deal candidate, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, to oppose the senator. Should Copeland emerge victorious, he will face Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, friend of the administration, up for re-election on his record of good government.

Will local history repeat itself? Once every twenty years the New York electorate, exhorted into action by reform groups, has risen in wrath against Tammany domination of City Hall. Once ever twenty years the Tiger has gone into hiding, only to emerge, leaner but snarling fiercely before proudly ascending the front steps of the mayor's mansion as though to the manor born. This year it will have a fierce fight on its hands, because of LaGuardia's prestige.

What does Smith think about all this?

"When this campaign gets going, and we are organized, I'll probably have a daily session with the press," he says.

Biding His Time

That statement must dispel any doubt that he plans an active role in the coming mayoralty battle.

In his 32nd story office, surrounded by mementoes in the form of scrolls, diplomas and autographed pictures, Al Smith sits in the leather-covered chair he occupied in the governor's mansion at Albany and lays his plans.

He never will run for office again, he says; but he is bringing into the local arena the alarum of national issues, and he puffs on the stub of his cigar and bides his time.

Prior to the ice age, Yosemite valley was a V-shaped canyon more than 2000 feet deep, but glaciers ground it into abroad U-shaped valley.

Contract Is Given On College Cottage

Jess Williams, Lubbock contractor whose bid of $12,747 was low, Tuesday was awarded contract for construction of a cooperative cottage to be used in experimentation in cheaper housing at Texas Technological college.

Four bids were submitted to W. T. Gaston, business manager, and were opened Tuesday morning.

Original plans to construct a cottage which would house 14 girls were changed after it was found possible to construct sufficient rooms, within the financial limits set, for 18 girls.

Construction will be started within 10 days and will be completed within 90 days after construction begins.

O. R. Walker was architect. The building, which will be set far back on the campus directly north and in line with the president's home, will face College avenue at Sixteenth street.

Appropriation Of $14,999 Made

An appropriation of $14,999 made in the last session of the legislature will cover cost of construction, furnishing, and architect's fee.

Manner of selection of the girls and rules governing the house will be made by the board of directors. Expenses will be on cooperative basis.

Other contractors who submitted bids and the base amounts were: J. B. Maxey, $12,938; J. C. Mytinger & Co., $14,229; L. D. Sanders, $13,190.

Meeting Of Tech Directors Has Been Called Sept. 11

Meeting of directors of Texas Technological college has been called for Sept. 11, according to information given late Tuesday by W. T. Gaston, secretary.

The meeting, called by Chairman Clifford B. Jones of Spur for 10 a. m. in the office of President Bradford Knapp, will be the second called session of the board since the annual meeting in June, at which some business was postponed since the education appropriations bill had not been passed. The bill allowed additional funds for maintenance and construction.

Research Into Early History Of Oklahoma Is Conducted

Dr. O. A. Kinchen, of the history department at Texas Technological college, has returned from a vacation spent at Erick and Oklahoma City, Okla., during which he devoted most of his time to research into early Oklahoma history.

When in the Sooner state, Dr. Kinchen said he visited the "ghost" city of Prisco, once billed as the probable capital city of Oklahoma. There is nothing at the townsite now to remind one of its former glory.

Dr. Kinchen said he spent much time searching early newspaper files for data on pre-statehood history.

Man Freed In Boy's Death

BELZONI, Miss., Sept. 1 (AP) — A legal compromise today officially cleared Henry Barnett of a charge of murdering his son, but failed to reunite his divided house.

The compromise sends Barnett, a half-deaf tenant farmer who admits he has two wives, to the state penitentiary for eight years — not for the cotton patch death of his 11-year-old son, but on a bigamy charge.

Affairs Are Tangled

The court's decision today, abruptly ending Barnett's scheduled trial for murder, cleared the strange case from the official records, but it left Barnett's family affairs as tangled as before.

"God in Heaven knows I didn't have any more to do with the boy's death than the judge on the bench," Barnett sobbed after the "compromise" had been announced.

Levoid, the 15-year-old daughter, who accused her father of unmercifully whipping his children, left today with her mother for Huntsville, Alabama.

Levoid's mother told officers Barnett deserted her about seven years ago.

Tightened Liquor Regulations In Effect In Texas Today

Druggists in Lubbock and through the rest of Texas operated under tightened liquor dispensing regulations today, but without apparent effect so far as patrons were concerned.

Principal effects of the new act will be to forbid issuance of more than one prescription for more than one pint of liquor on any one day at the same store; to forbid issuance of prescription or liquor to any person who has given a fictitious name; and to require presence of a registered pharmacist at all times when liquor is dispensed.

Requirement that a registered pharmacist be on duty at all hours will in many cases increase expenses by requiring an additional man. Lubbock druggists had indicated that prices would not be increased, however, and that principal effect will be in keeping of records.

Suave Gambler Prepared Today For Attempt To Recoup Riches

BIARRITZ, France, Sept. 1 (AP)— Suave Amleto Battisti, Uruguayan gambler who lost a fortune playing baccarat eight years ago, said "voila!" last night to another whirl at fortune.

Biarritz casino attendants got out the "big table" at which Battisti today intends to take on all comers in a game to recoup the $1,000,000 loss which broke him in 1929.

Plans For Comeback

Ever since his fortune was wiped out Battisti has been planning for the day when he could take on the same players again. He has been slowly building up his comeback stake in the casinos of Cuba and other Latin American cities, and in Europe.

He has watched his two agents play here against "small fry" gamblers but, so far, the group of men who cleaned him out years ago has held him off.

Casino attendants disclosed, however, that Battisti, since returning here, already has lost 1,000,000 francs (about $37,000) through the play of his chief agent, Antonio Abecassin, against a Frenchman.

Resurfacing Of Highway From Seagraves To Loop Starts

(By Staff Correspondent)

SEAGRAVES, Sept. 1—Resurfacing of the county highway from Seagraves east to Loop, 10 miles distant, is under way.

Recently a $10,000 bond issue was voted to pay for the work. An asphalt topping is being laid.

The Appian Way, a road connecting Rome and Capua, is in use today, although the paving was laid 2250 years ago. It was paved with blocks of volcanic lava.

Check-Up On Music Drive Is To Be Made This Afternoon

Receipts of membership sales in the South Plains Civic Music association drive are being turned in today and a check-up will be made at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at headquarters, room 301 at Hilton hotel.

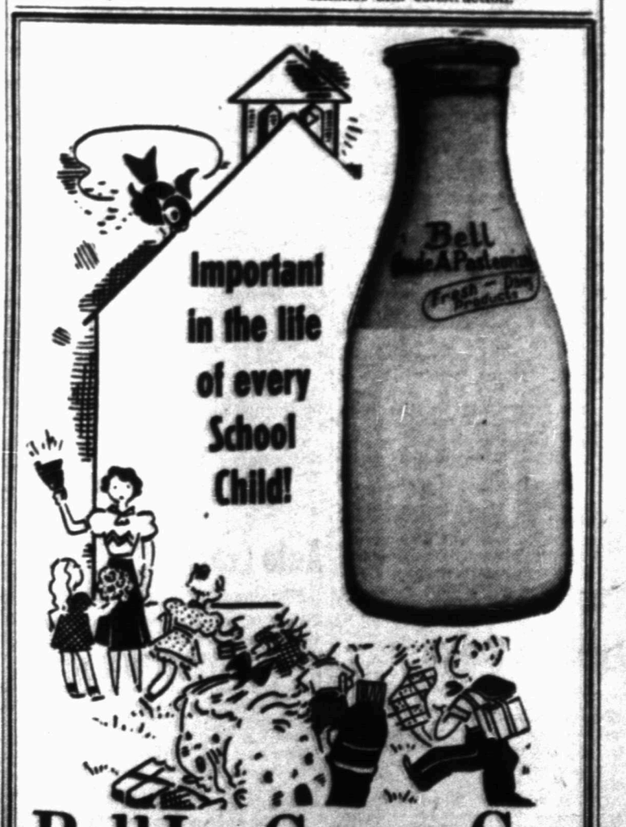

The campaign got underway satisfactorily Tuesday morning, according to the Rev. W. R. Vivrett, president of the association.

Memberships may be purchased at local headquarters or from a number of workers in Lubbock and surrounding towns.
