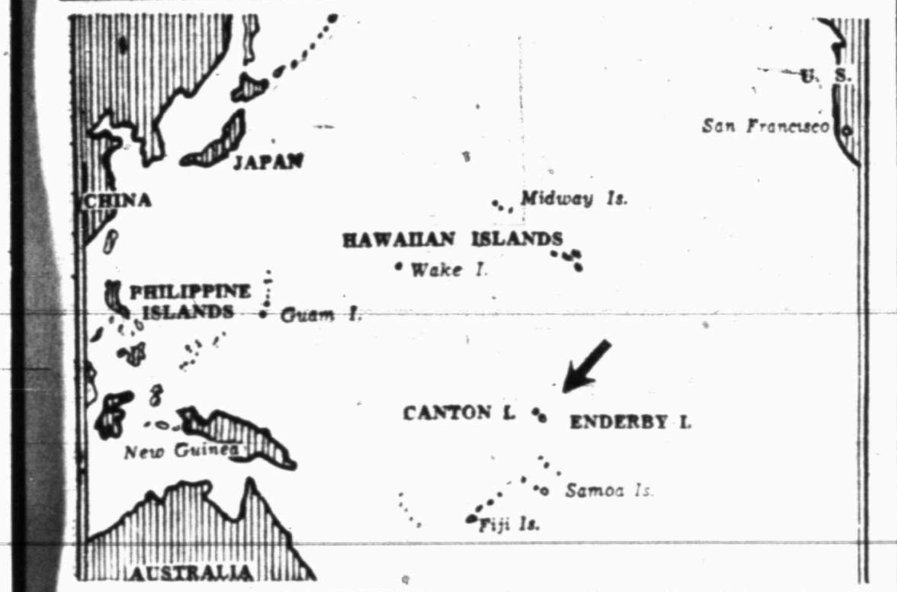
Great Britain Balks At U.S. Claim Of Pacific Islands; Joint Control Is Indicated



PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S recent executive order claims American sovereignty over two obscure spots in the Central Pacific, Canton and Enderby Islands, shown on the map above. The development of aviation and particularly trans-Pacific air routes has given new importance to scores of neglected Pacific Islands which were discovered by American whaling vessels years ago.

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The United States and Great Britain eventually may exercise joint control over the little mid-Pacific islands of Canton and Enderbury, some officials indicated tonight.

President Roosevelt has taken over the islands for commercial air bases, but Britain has balked. Neville Chamberlain, British prime minister, told the house of commons today the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsey, had been instructed to inform the United States Britain "reserves her right over the islands."

Hopes To End Controversy

He also announced "proposals will be submitted in the hope of ending the controversy."

The British claim did not surprise Secretary of State Hull. He told reporters it added nothing new to what he had said yesterday and repeated that each government has a fairly accurate idea about the attitude of the other.

Not Adverse To Plan

The proposals Chamberlain has in mind, officials thought, might refer to joint control. They did not appear adverse to the suggestion.

State department geographers and historians, however, are of the opinion the United States has a better right to the islands because of prior discovery and use.

Mrs. Kershner Illness Victim

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the First Christian church for Mrs. LaVerne Kershner, 48, who died at 1:10 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at her home from heart disease and attending ailments. She had been critically ill for eight days.

Mrs. Kershner, the former Miss Ada Lois Randal, was born November 10 in Palo Pinto county. She married LaVerne Kershner August 13, 1905. She is survived by the husband and four sons, Randal, John, Horace Virgil and Bobby. A son, LaVerne, jr., died in 1910.

Moved Here In 1923

The Kershner family moved to Lubbock in 1923 and eight years ago Mrs. Kershner established a floral company which she managed until ill health prevented active participation. She has been an active member of the First Christian Women's council, a number of study clubs, interested in parent-teacher association projects and had assisted in the women's division of the Panhandle-South Plains fair for years.

Rev. H. G. Gantz, pastor of the First Christian church, will officiate at the service and burial will be in the Lubbock cemetery with Rix Funeral home in charge.

Out-of-town survivors who will attend the funeral include: Mr. and Mrs. Randal Kershner; a sister, Mrs. J. B. Eckert of Brownfield; an aunt, Mrs. J. L. Randal of Brownfield; an aunt, Mrs. Clay Melton, and a cousin, Mrs. Preston Campbell, of Roby; a cousin, Mrs. Percy Spencer of Austin; a cousin, John Spencer of Abilene; a brother, Gibson Randal, and Mrs. Randal of El Paso, and a sister, Mrs. Wallace Gould of Ysleta.

Full Responsibility Assumed By Whitney

NEW YORK, March 9. (AP) — Richard Whitney, five times president of the New York Stock exchange, assumed full responsibility today for failure of his brokerage firm and admitted to wrongdoing in the actions which led to the firm's collapse.

His statement followed testimony of Robert J. Rosenthal, the firm's cashier, who declared Whitney, without authorization, so far as he knew, had caused to be turned over to him large blocks of securities belonging to others, without notification to them.

Attorney General John J. Bennett, after being apprised of Whitney's statement, said the investigation by his office would be pushed to the fullest limit. Public hearings will be continued tomorrow, with further examination of Whitney's partners by Assistant Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall.

Norwegian Steamer Leaves For Japan With Scrap Iron Cargo

HOUSTON, March 9. (AP)—The SS Fernlane, Norwegian steamer loaded with scrap iron, sailed for Japan today after being held up temporarily by the refusal of the crew to sail the ship to that country. Eleven of the crew were paid off and left "on the beach."

Some of the crew demanded a bonus of $250 before sailing the vessel into the waters of an "aggressor nation" and some of the others refused to aid Japan by sailing a ship that contained scrap iron presumably for war purposes, Herman Rasmussen, business agent for the Inland Boatmen's union here, said.

Twenty-Eighth Birth Recorded For Texas Woman; 14 Living

AUSTIN, March 9. (AP)—Eyebrows were raised in the health department today.

Officials thought it was an error when they received record of the 28th birth in a family which had been a regular "customer" of the bureau of vital statistics.

But when Dr. W. A. Davis, registrar, questioned the mother, the report was confirmed. The mother, 44, has given birth to at least one baby yearly since the first was born in 1916. Of the 28, 14 have died.

Moreover, records disclosed another branch of the same family had 28 children, 25 of them boys.

Schuschnigg Pushes Independence Fight

Austrian Leader Plans Test Of His Strength

National Plebiscite Is Called For Sunday; Nazi Minister May Resign His Position

(By The Associated Press)

INNSBRUCK, Austria, March 9.—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg carried his fight for Austrian independence to the people tonight by calling a national plebiscite for Sunday to test his government's strength.

Leaders of the fatherland front—the only legal political organization in Austria—gave Schuschnigg what probably was the greatest ovation of his political career after he declared in an address:

Not Slightest Concession

"We shall observe the agreements reached at Berchtesgaden, but we shall make not the slightest additional concessions."

Thus, the chancellor reared a definite barrier in front of national socialist (Nazi) ambitions loosed by his conversations with Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany at Berchtesgaden last month.

Unconfirmed reports immediately were heard in Nazi quarters that Arthur Seysz-Inquart, the interior minister taken into the cabinet with Hitler's approval, contemplated resigning as a protest against the plebiscite.

Neither Consulted Or Informed

Friends of the minister said he was neither consulted nor informed by Schuschnigg before announcement of the plan.

Pointedly striking at Nazi agitation for more power, Schuschnigg declared "there must be a clear demarcation, once and for all, between the legal and the illegal."

"We shall not tolerate nationalist threats," he warned. "I cannot ask my supporters to remain quiet if the other side does not do so."

In the plebiscite Austrians will be asked to vote on whether they are satisfied with the government's program.

Fertility Of Soil In Area Cited

(By The Associated Press)

PLAINVIEW, March 9. — M. K. Thornton of the Texas Extension Service at College Station, told delegates to the second irrigation conference which opened here today that the soils of the Panhandle were comparatively young and were fertile to a great depth.

"The soil has a great resilence due to profound changes in general soil formation in the short grass area. Short grasses had most of their growth underground, in contradiction to the tall grass area, where most of the grass was above the ground," Thornton said.

Tells Of Potash Deposits

He said lands in this section had enough potash to last for several generations.

Among speakers was Victor H Schoffelmayer, agricultural editor of the Dallas News, who discussed irrigation methods of Europe.

The conference studied reports of the underground water supply of the High Plains of Texas and New Mexico. W. N. White, U. S. geological survey senior hydraulic engineer, said there had been little change in the water table of wells measured by Dr. C. L. Baker of the University of Texas in 1914, and the same wells measured in recent studies.

REA Project To Start

A. P. Thompson of Hereford, told the meeting, that a rural electrification project there planned to have current turned on by June 1.

The program tomorrow, last day of the meeting, will include talks by L. E. Foster, superintendent of the Carlsbad, N. M., irrigation project; Richard Christensen of Brush, Colo., who will speak on growing sugar beets for seed; L. E. Brooks, superintendent of the experiment sub-sta-

High Winds Sweep Coast City; Only Slight Damage Is Done

CORPUS CHRISTI, March 9. (AP) Winds estimated at the municipal airport as high as 70 miles-an-hour, swept Corpus Christi today, but caused no extensive damage.

Trees were blown down, garage doors lifted off, and at the airport, a fire extinguisher house was lifted over a fence. Official records in downtown Corpus Christi showed 55 miles an hour as the top velocity there.

Several derricks were blown down in the nearby Saxet oil field.

Disaster Is Seen In Another Conflict

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 9. — Secretary of War Woodring said tonight another World war would "prove universally disastrous—to victor, to vanquished and to neutral."

The United States, like other nations, he told members of the Commercial club, is building its defenses but at the same time is moving to preserve peace by rebuilding world trade.

"We are witnessing a swift increase in international political tension," he said in a prepared address. "We observe a recrudescense of military spirit, which sees no goal in life except triumph by force. We see a rapid expansion of armies and navies, and a sharp increase in armament expenditures. Armed conflict involves one-fourth of the world's population.

"The clouds that gather on the international horizon are a threat not only to our own peace but also to our own economic and political security. Another World war would endanger civilization."

The United States is engaged in a major program designed to strengthen national defenses, the secretary stated, in the hope a powerful army and navy would discourage any military attack. He added:

"However, our national defense is not confined to our military and naval establishments. A major factor in the preservation of peace and security is the maintenance of cordial business relations with all the world.

"Viewing the world scene, I am deeply convinced that the renewal of excessive trade barriers and the restoration of nor-

Mothers-In-Law Are Paid Glorious Tribute In Amarillo Celebration; Crowd Is Estimated At 125,000

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, March 9.—The high cattle country paid a glorious tribute to that much-maligned member of the American family—the mother-in-law. Nothing was barred but a mother-in-law joke in a resplendant all-day celebration dedicated to the innocent victim of a thousand and one cruel jokes.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, by virtue of her position the nation's No. 1 mother-in-law, was the center of the Southwest's greatest spectacle in years.

Reviews 12-Mile Parade

Five states joined in staging a twelve-miles-long parade which Mrs. Roosevelt reviewed after she was presented the world's largest bouquet, 5,000 matched roses which, with their framework and irrigation system, weighed a ton.

Addressing Gene Howe, Amarillo newspaper publisher who originated Mother-in-Law Day five years ago, Mrs. Roosevelt said, "I am happy to be honored in this manner. I am afraid I haven't been a very good mother-in-law because I have never thought a great deal about it.

"My relations with relatives have been somewhat on a frendship basis, but I feel I shall think more about mothers-in-law after this."

Should Eliminate Jokes

Later at a press conference, Mrs. Roosevelt said mother-in-law jokes had never bothered her. "I think, though," she said, "if such things make people unhappy the jokes should be eliminated. As to the matter of making the movement national, I think that should be left up to the various cities. I have seen few such impressive parades, and I am sure I have never before received quite so large a bouquet."

Howe's mother-in-law, Mrs. Nellie Donald, whose objections to a joke he wrote in his column led to inauguration of mother-in-law day, said, "This is the happiest day of my life. I am not as lonesome as I once was."

The five governers present—All-

Farmers Urged To Cast Votes

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 9. —Agriculture department officials appealed today to all eligible farmers to participate in an election Saturday on proposals to invoke marketing control provisions of the new farm act.

Growers of cotton have the right to say whether they favor application of a marketing quota system to keep surplus yields off the market this year.

Requires Two-Thirds Approval

The quota proposals, made by Secretary Wallace under terms of the new farm law, will require approval of two-thirds of the farmers voting.

M. L. Wilson, undersecretary of agriculture, said today that "if a big vote turns out, then everyone will agree that the referenda is a true expression of the wishes of the farmers."

AAA officials said that if a light vote were cast, it would be possible for less than a majority of the affected growers to impose quotas on all the growers.

Would Limit Sale

If approved, the quota system would limit sale of 1938-grown cotton to about 11,000,000 bales, compared with last year's record yield of 18,746,000.

Growers selling more than their shares of the national quotas would be subject to a penalty of two cents

Fred H. Schmidt Named Head Of Slaton C.-C. And B.C.D.

SLATON, March 9. (Special)—At a regular meeting Tuesday night of the board of directors, Fred H. Schmidt, business man here for many years, was elected president of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development.

Webber Williams was chosen vice-president and Fagan Genn re-elected secretary. A. J. Payne recently was re-elected manager.

Schmidt, past vice-president, succeeds Claud F. Anderson as president.

Youngster Is In Deep Sleep; Sixty-Five Tablets Missing

ONE LUMINAL tablet is an ordinary dose for easing an adult patient or putting him to sleep, but Frederick Meyer, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer of Slaton, route 1, disposed of 65 shortly after noon Wednesday and at midnight he still was in a deep sleep.

The youngster was rushed to West Texas hospital here from his home for treatment. Stomach pumps were applied and the boy was given other treatment so that at midnight his condition was not considered critical. Authorities at the hospital said his pulse was satisfactory.

From his farm home, young Frederick was sent to the mail box shortly after noon and on the mail was a container with 100 1 1-2-grain luminal sedative tablets. Frederick returned the quarter of a mile to his home with only 35 of the pills and soon after his arrival he lost consciousness. Whether he ate all of the 65 missing tablets or lost part of them was a matter of conjecture.

It was not known when the youngster would regain consciousness nor what other effect the tablets would have, but without medical aid, physicians agreed, that many pills would kill an adult.

Raising Of Level Of Prices Being Sought

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP) — Informed persons said today the administration is seeking to lift the general price level sufficiently to give the nation's goods an added value of $65,000,000,000.

These persons said the administration would like to raise the price level from 79 per cent of the 1926 average, where it stands at present, to 92 per cent.

With each increase of 1 per cent in the general level economists said, the aggregate value of the country's goods and properties would rise $5,000,000,000.

British Efforts Are Bolstered By Concession

France To Meet Demands From Italy On Nonintervention In Spain; Replies Awaited

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, March 9. — Great Britain's efforts toward European appeasement were bolstered today by a concession from France to meet Italian demands on nonintervention in Spain.

The government informed Italy and Germany of the concession and awaited their replies in the hope the nonintervention deadlock might be broken, removing this obstacle from the path of Anglo-German and Anglo-Italian agreements.

This development came as Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain invited German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop to talk with him across a luncheon table today.

Von Ribbentrop, former ambassador to Great Britain, arrived here this afternoon ostensibly to take leave of that post. He already had arranged to talk with Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, tomorrow.

To Determine Time

Chamberlain told the cabinet he and Lord Halifax would try to determine in the conversations with von Ribbentrop whether now is the best time for negotiations with Germany.

Informed quarters, however, had no hope for an immediate Anglo-German settlement since Reichsfuhrer Adolf Hitler does not want to talk now.

The principal hurdles standing in the way of an accord between London and Berlin were:

1. Germany's insistance on her

Two Are Killed At Clarendon

(By The Associated Press)

One of Blanks' daughters, Mrs. Lelia Mae Ayers, resided at Amarillo.

SAN ANTONIO, March 9. (AP) — Cattlemen here for the Texas and Southwestern Cattlemen's association convention today voted approval of a one-cent a head assessment or 50 cents per carload on their cattle for a national meat advertising campaign.

Jay Taylor of Amarillo, advertising committee chairman of the National Livestock and Meat board, in leading a discussion of beef advertising, stated the principle that "if consumers are educated through advertsing the cost of meat becomes secondary to the desire to eat meat."

Two Hundred Million Dollars Earmarked For Slum-Housing

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP) — Administrator Nathan Straus announced today the United States housing authority would use the remaining $200,000,000 of its funds to "earmark"—loans for slum clearance and low cost housing projects.

The move, he said, would permit the housing authority to put all of the $500,000,000 authorized by congress behind the housing program.

March Permits Setting Pace

Building permit totals Wednesday climbed briskly with the issuance of permits by Jim Reid, city building inspector, for construction, alterations, and repairs estmated to cost $30,860.

Lester Reischman obtained a permit for construction of a $14,400 bakery building at 1502 Avenue Q. Jess Williams was named contractor for the brick and tile, one-story structure.

May Set New Record

The week's total shot to $45,785, the month's to $74,181.32 and the year's to $375,293.07, according to releases from the inspector's office. Reid said indications were that March's total would exceed February's, the highest for the new year and higher than all but two months in last year.

Among the other larger permits were: W. B. Powell, owner, and A. M. Hensley, contractor, to build a one-story frame and siding residence at 1210 Avenue N, $5,000; Clyde Foster, owner, and W. E. Amendment Offered To Farm Act To Pay For Fire Losses

WASHINGTON March 9. (AP) — Rep. South (D-Tex) introduced today an amendment to the 1938 farm act to provide for payment of the 3-cent subsidy to farmers even though their cotton was destroyed by fire after it had been turned in for government loan.

The loss of 1,140 bales in a warehouse fire at Eden, Tex., Jan. 18, prompted introduction of the amendment, South said, because the agriculture department ruled no provision of the new farm act protected the farmer's subsidy payment from such destruction.

Bill Sidetracked After Criticized Provision Killed

Surtax On Family-Owned And Closely-Held Corporations Eliminated On Wednesday

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 9. — A house revolt against the administration slashed from the tax bill today its most widely criticized provision — a surtax on family-owned and closely-held corporations, perhaps for several days.

These were the immediate results: The house sidetracked the revenue bill at least until tomorrow and

Roosevelt Is Notified

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the ways and means committee rushed away to notify President Roosevelt of the 180 to 124 teller vote by which the house knocked out the surtax and to discuss its implications.

Democratic committee members met in an emergency session to try to figure out some way of making up the estimate $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 in revenue which the so-called "1B" tax on closely-held firms would have yielded.

Republicans suggested the bill had been laid aside to give administration forces an opportunity to whip balky Democrats into line and try to reinstate the "1B" levy on a roll call vote.

But Doughton said that while he probably would have to demand such a vote, he had little hope that the tax would be restored.

"This is a good bill without 1B," he said. "I have no criticism to make of the house or any individual member of the house."

Democratic Ranks Split

The vote against the levy split Democratic ranks wide open and took party leaders by surprise. They had predicted retention of the tax on a close ballot.

The sharpness of the rebuff to the administration—both the president and treasury have been represented as backing the "1B" tax—was emphasized by the confusion which followed it.

Veterans said they could recall no instance within recent years of a tax bill being taken from the floor after it had progressed almost to the point of a final vote.

Suggested By White House?

Some legislators suggested that the sidetracking of the bill might have been the result of a White House suggestion.

Doughton had told the house elimination of "1B" might lead to presidential veto of the entire bill. Later, he told reporters:

"About the only thing the president has insisted on was raising the same amount of revenue as under existing law. We must provide this revenue or there is a chance of a veto.

"There is nothing in the bill that business can object to now and there is no reason why business should not go forward."

Her breakfast Wednesday morning consisted of a double order of orange juice, orange marmalade and hot poppy seed rolls, butter and coffee diluted with half a cup of hot milk. She used very little sugar, if any, George said.

MRS. LaVERNE KERSHNER

THROUGH the death of Mrs. LaVerne Kershner, Lubbock has lost a devoted mother, a loyal church member, a nature lover and a civic worker. Until her health waned several months ago, Mrs. Kershner gave untiringly of her time and money to aiding in the causes to which she was so genuinely interested.

We believe she was one of the most enthusiastic mothers we have known. She realized she literally worshipped her four sons and tried to restrain herself. What a wonderful heritage she has left to her boys!

Women were always asking Mrs. Kershner how it was she had such success in raising flowers and she scoffed at her "luck" with plants and said it was just because she loved them. If we wanted to give anyone the key to her wonderful life, we'd say it was just that: "She loved."

She Is Showing What Love Can Do

Trudi Schoop, above, is showing what love can do in one of the serious sequences of her new tragi-comic dance-pantomine, "All For Love," that will be presented at 8 o'clock tonight at Senior High school auditorium under the auspices of the South Plains Civic Music association. Members who join the association will be permitted to attend this program, sitting in a reserved section in the balcony.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM

Trudi Schoop and her Daincing Comedinans presenting "All for Love."

Place and time, Senior High school auditorium, 8 o'clock.

Coming to Lubbock from a successful run in West Coast cities, Trudi Schoop and her 22 Dancing Comedians will be presented in a tragi-comic pantomimic dance "All For Love," under the auspices of the South Plains Civic Music association.

Described as the "Charlie Chaplin of the dance," Miss Schoop is described by one critic as having "most expressive arms, hands and shoulders and a mobile face. She not only is funny, she is witty, shrewd and a pantomimic caricaturist of purest ray serene."

"All For Love" is said to be a satiric comedy on the human at the street intersection, in school, at the night club, under the Christmas tree, at a masked ball, in court and, finally, in a super-colossal Diamond Star Revue.

On her first visit to America in 1935 the critics named Miss Schoop the rival of Mickey Mouse. Walt Disney could not but admit that she was really an animated cartoon in the flesh. Even so, her critics have said there is no way of truly describing her. Her $300,000 insured hands, her troll's face and her talking legs elude description.

Lothar Perl and Max Fickel will be at the two pianos tonight.

Inter-Club Council Is Planning Dance

Members of the Inter-Club council at Texas Technological college are making plans for an inter-club dance which will follow presentation of a Tech Artists Course next month.

Plans of the Artist Course committee are to engage an out-of-town orchestra for a program in April; the Inter-Club council will try to engage this orchestra for their dance in the auditorium after the Artist Course performance, George Carrithers, council president, said.

An orchestra for the Artist Course program has not been engaged, according to R. A. Mills, head of the Artist Course committee. An engagement with Anson Weeks was cancelled because of conflicting dates.

In accord with student preference, the committee will try to engage an orchestra that is "sweet and hot," Mills said.

Values In Leather, Gloves Discussed At Club Meet

"Getting Our Money's Worth" was subject of a program directed by Mrs. J. F. Martin at a meeting of the Hurlwood Home Demonstration club Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. W. W. Mansell, near Lubbock. Discussions included:

Discussing "Leather Goods and Gloves," Mrs. Ernest Marquis said "Fine leather has a long life if well cared for. Oil preserves and lengthens the life of leather. Water has a tendency to harden and crack it. Thickness is not a sign of strength, but strong leather feels alive and pliant when drawn through the fingers. In buying gloves, a good fit means longer wear. A loose fitting glove will wear longer than one that fits tightly."

Mesdames G. K. Horton, J. F. Martin and T. A. McClure were elected to attend a district meeting and luncheon in Lubbock, March 12. Mrs. Horton directed playing of games.

Others attending were Mesdames A. G. Payne, J. H. Campbell, A. M. Lane, L. V. Preston, Martin, R. C. Wright, R. L. Arnold, L. L. Peach, Jim Bailey, McClure, W. A. Martin and a guest, a Mrs. Feagans.

The club will meet March 22 in the home of Mrs. W. A. Martin for a demonstration of baking angel food cake by Miss Clara Pratt, county agent.

FDR's New Advertised Policy Of Passiveness Engenders Chuckles In Capital

Congress Given Right Of Way

By MILO THOMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 9.—President Roosevelt's advertised new policy of passiveness engenders a chuckle or two on the part of disinterested Washington observers. It makes them smile in anticipation at the bewilderment of congress and the embarrassment of business.

A congress which has mumbled about dictation from the White House is given its head just when all members of the house and a third of the senators are planning election campaigns.

Controversies Make Enemies

It is told "you've asked for it. You know the objectives. See what you can do." But the objectives are controversial. Controversies make enemies. Congressmen have no yearning just now to stir up controversies.

Business, both "big" and "little," has let it be known that governmental interference and the spectre of further reforms are one cause of its troubles. It is told a new breathing spell is on, in a "haven't you noticed?" tone.

At What Is Hoped Bottom

This reaches it at what it hopes is the bottom of a recession, in a moment of great uncertainty about which way to jump. Part of business wants to work things out with government help. Part wants to go it alone. Part would like to do its own organizing if the anti-monopoly hazards would permit.

It is interesting to find in Washington little suggestion that the president picked his time for such a gesture with these things in mind.

Nor is it much argued that he picked the time for publication of certain introductions, notes and comments on his state papers, with their emphasis on reforms and objectives, to coincide with the time of his use of the soft pedal on music in the reform key.

Needs Defensive Technique

The New Deal has just passed its fifth birthday. That makes it old enough to have need of a defensive technique. The president has admitted that some methods proved wrong while emphasizing his belief that the objectives were right.

In any regime, a time of active advocacy of reforms is followed by practical application of those reforms. Then the regime becomes vulnerable.

Defending increases in volume as the regime grows older.

The political enemies of the administration are expressing pleasure at this state of affairs. Politicians like their opponents on the defensive. But the more interesting current phenomenon to report is the eagerness with which some of the administration group themselves welcome the opportunity.

The argument advanced in leadership circles at both ends of Washington is that nothing will be lost by directing attention just now to the ideals and objectives expressed five years ago, the steps taken and the results gained.

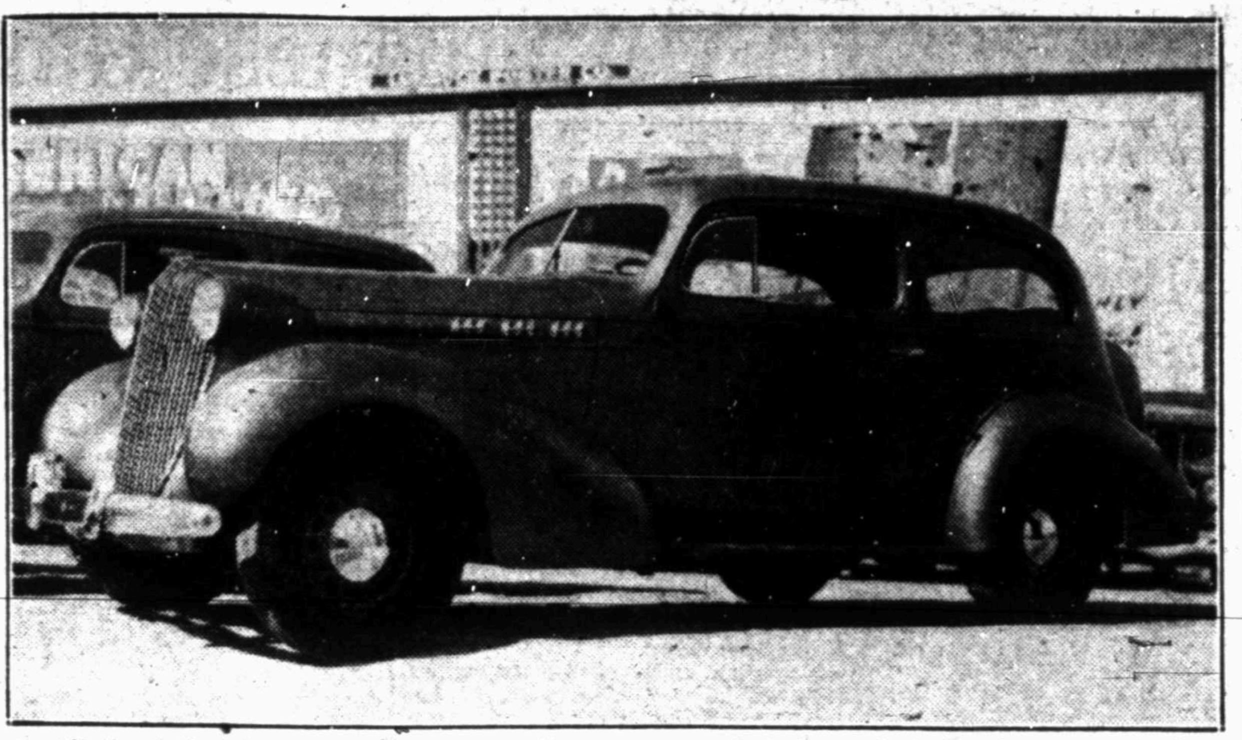
In other words, pro-administrators assert the five-year view is better to emphasize than the current view.

WACO INVALID BURNS

WACO, March 9. (AP)—M. L. Ford, 55-year-old invalid, was burned to death in bed at his home here today.

Fire Chief Jim Meers said the fire, in which only the mattress was destroyed, probably was caused by a cigaret.

Dealer Commends National Used Car Exchange Movement



"National Used Car Exchange week is a fine movement factories and dealers have started," Lester Grimes of Grimes Motor company said yesterday, "and we are cooperating 100 per cent. We have the best selection of used cars ever, and now can quote lowest prices ever. Due to good business in all trades, we have received many late model cars as trade-ins which we are putting on the market. Buyers should profit from low prices offered this week."

Special Issues In One Suit Decided; Another To Jury

It was indicated by officials of the 72nd district court of Judge Daniel A. Blair that a jury would receive the case today of O. C. Davis against Panhandle and Santa Fe Railway company, suit for damages. The action was begun in that court Monday afternoon.

A jury answered 13 special issues in the damage action in the 99th district court of Judge E. L. Pitts of B. E. Atterbury against Fort Worth and Denver City Railway and attaches of the court and attorneys interpreted the verdict in favor of the defendant. Attorneys said that since the jury found contributory negligence on the part of both parties, the plaintiff would not be given a judgment against the railroad.

The suit had grown out of a collision involving a train and a tractor.

Judge Pitts excused jurors for the week.

A 15-year-old boy of near Lubbock was lectured by Judge Pitts who also conferred with boy's parents when the juvenile appeared on a charge of aggravated assault on a four-year-old girl.

"Two or three" juvenile matters are scheduled for hearing today in Judge Pitts' court, it was reported.

Woman Gives Up Her Right To Alimony When She Divorces Husband, Oklahoma Judge Says

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 9. (AP)—A woman gives up her right to alimony when she divorces her husband, Judge Frank P. Douglass held today in an interpretation of Oklahoma alimony laws.

"When a wife elects to get a divorce and severs herself from her husband she elects to support herself," he said.

The opinion was delivered in granting the request of W. M. Turner to set aside an alimony award. Judge Douglas said the principle did not hold in cases involving child support.

Oklahoma City Man Is Held Up And Robbed Of $800 By Pair

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 9. (AP)—Two young men held up C. A. Qualls, manager of a laundry, and robbed him of $800 here today.

Qualls told Detective Emmett Drain one of the robbers held him up as he was entering his office with the weekly payroll, and that he scuffled with his assailant until the second robber drove up in a car.

"Let him have it," Qualls said the man in the car shouted, and fearful that he might be shot, the manager quit struggling. The pair then made off with the payroll in the car, later found to have been stolen from Charles B. Stuart, a bond broker.

The car later was found abandoned.

Boy's Father Says No Ransom Has Been Paid To Kidnapers

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 9. (AP)—Murray Levine, whose son, Peter, 12 disappeared 13 days ago, said flatly today that no ransom had been paid in the apparent kidnaping.

The New York lawyer was asked whether rumors $30,000 ransom had been paid were true. He answered: "That is incorrect. There is nothing new."

Police said they still were staying away from the Levine house to facilitate contact with the supposed kidnapers.

(By The Associated Press)

CAIRO, Egypt, March 9.—The International Olympic committee, sole judge of where and how the Olympic games are staged, will open a nine-day conference tomorrow to consider threatened boycott of the 1940 Tokyo games.

Also on the agenda is a motion to eliminate women from future Olympic competition.

It is believed generally the suggestion that Japan, because of her present war with China, is not a suitable place for the games, and the motion for the elimination of women's events both will be defeated.

Visit With Royalty

Delegates will spend the first three days seeing the country. Young King Farouk and Queen Farina will receive them at the palace tomorrow night.

Even the I. O. C. cannot change the venue of the 1940 games without the consent of Japan, and there is little to indicate Japan is willing to give them up.

Notwithstanding recent Japanese army sentiment against staging the games, Dr. Jigoro Kano, Japan's I. O. C. delegate, said on his arrival here that Japan might agree to a transfer of the winter sports, but no more.

Brundage Supports Japan

Avery Brundage of Chicago, United States delegate, repeated his announced intention of supporting the Tokyo games and Lord Aberdare of Great Britain, perhaps the most influential single delegate, said upon his arrival "I have no doubt the games will be held in Tokyo, but they be delayed until 1944 . . . Japan has found it difficult to align her internal sports regulations with the Olympic rules."

Dr. A. F. Poritt, delegate from New Zealand suggested London as an alternative site if Japan should decline.

Japan Organizing Committee Disregards War Minister

TOKYO, March 8. (AP) — The organizing committee for the 1940 Olympics today answered War Minister General Gen Sugiyama's recommendation that the games be cancelled by announcing a 5,000,000 yen ($1,500,000) building program.

The war minister told a diet committee studying the government's national mobilization bill that the games scheduled to be held in Tokyo should be cancelled if the war in China continued. He was joined by Admiral Nobumasa Suyetsugu, home minister.

Paid No Attention

But an authoritative source said the Olympics organizing committee "paid no attention" to his remarks.

The president of the committee, Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, disclosed that the huge building program provided for construction of an "Olympic village" which was a Los Angeles innovation for housing athletes, as well as a huge swimming arena to accommodate 30,000 spectators, football field, bicycle course auditorium for indoor games and a new main stadium.

Ousted Catcher Pegs Dresser Drawers At Press Cameraman

NEW ORLEANS, March 9. (AP) — Rollie Hemsley, the Cleveland Indians catcher who was pitching bureau drawers last night, was still "out" today as far as Manager Oscar Vitt was concerned.

Hemsley was ordered to his home near Vienna, Mo., yesterday by Vitt after Rollicking Rollie broke training and showed up with two black eyes.

He was given a one-way train ticket to Dixon, Mo. His club mates said today he was gone. Vitt said, "the last time I saw him, he was headed toward the railroad station. I don't know anything more about him."

Irked at a press photographer who appeared at his hotel room last night, Rollie bounced a dresser drawer off the young man's head and tore the sights and reflector off his camera.

SAMMY'S IN SEMI-FINALS

DALLAS, March 9. (AP)—Sammy's All-Stars, Dallas city champions, became the first team to reach the semifinals of the Southwestern A. A. U. tournament when they eliminated the strong Ashburn Ice cream company quintet of Fort Worth, 45 to 40, in one of the best games of the tournament tonight.

Neighboring Towns Holding AAU Boxing Eliminations

Interest in neighboring towns over the district AAU boxing tournament to be staked in the Auditorium March 18 is gaining momentum at every turn with tourneys being conducted and planned in several centers.

With Lubbock and Texas Tech scrappers already lined up for competition by Director Milton "Killer" Coffey, Tech boxing mentor, addition of "neighbor" boys should intensify interest past the Golden Gloves stage of last month. Entries will be held to four in each division since only one night of activity will be allowed.

Golden Glovers Back

Several of the Golden Gloves champions will be back on hand to add AAU laurels to their string. However, competition is likely to be much stronger with other lads sharpening their slugging eyes more thoroughly.

Coach Stumpy Hamilton of Slaton High school already has begun eliminations for a complete team to bring here. First of a series was held in the high school gymnasium Tuesday night. Another round will be staged March 15.

Four Already Named

Hamilton had nominated four boys for the district prior to the Tuesday night tiffs. Lloyd Henry, 148-pound demon of the Tiger football team; James Stotts, 136, who made quite a hit with local fans last month; Dick Bell, 110, and Billy Joe Lucado, 126, have received the coach's nod.

Winners at Slaton Tuesday night were Herbert Lamb, 195; Jack Summerford, 100, James Sideman, 110; Horace Lee Altman; Teague, 125; Lucado; Ray De Busk, 133; Jack Porterfield, 154; Harry Bell, 115; Walston, 168, and Henry.

Tribe Hits Another Snag In Dealings With Youngsters

NEW ORLEANS, March 9. (AP) — Farm-hand trouble has bobbed up again to plague the Cleveland Indians.

Two years ago the Tribe gots its wires crossed in signing Bob Feller but finally emerged with his contract after Commissioner K. M. Landis ordered the American league club to satisfy Des Moines' claim to the Van Meter, Ia., speed ball artist with a $7,500 payment.

Today it appeared likely the Cleveland management was in for another contract tussle, this time involving a rookie second baseman named Bill Nowak.

Switches To Tribe

Nowak, a 20-year-old Detroit sandlotter, had been working with the Giants at Baton Rouge. Overnight he switched his training activities to Cleveland's camp here.

Col. Bill Terry lost no time in charging the Indians with "stealing" his prize rookie and laid his case before Judge William Bramham, minor league czar.

Manager Oscar Vitt of the Indians said he was somewhat in the dark about the whole argument, but stoutly asserted that Nowak wouldn't be working with his squad "unless he belonged to us."

Georgia Hurdler To Compete In University Of Texas Relays

AUSTIN, March 9. (AP) — World Titleholder Forrest (Spec) Towns, University of Georgia's swift hurdler, has been added as a special performer for the University of Texas relays April 2, Track Coach Clyde Littlefield announced today.

The Georgia Flyer, now freshman track coach at his alma mater, will oppose some other ranking timber leaper who has forsaken the amateur ranks, Littlefield said.

Official entry blanks have been mailed to more than 500 colleges and high schools and officials expect an entry list of better than 1,000 athletes. The University of Minnesota already has entered a team.

East Texas Field Trials To Open At Tyler Saturday

TYLER, March 9. (AP) — Famed field dogs and some 500 sportsmen are expected here for the East Texas Field Trial association's third annual trials March 12 to 16.

Frank Hill, president, said abandonment of the National Field trials this year would lure some of the nation's finest dogs here for the event on the preserve 11 miles south of here on the Jacksonville highway.

Umps Also Train

Even umpires are subjected to the rigors of spring training. George Magerkurth, National League arbiter from Moline, Ill., is shown getting in some roadwork at Black Hawk State Park, in an effort to get his weight down to 200 pounds. He scaled 232 when this picture was taken.

Smith Leads In Open With 66

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., March 9 (AP) — Horton Smith of Chicago, who dropped out of the winter golfing caravan for a physical check-up, rejoined it today in a big way—with a five-under-par 66 for the first-round lead in the $3,000 Hollywood open.

His 66 was good enough for a two-stroke lead over the veteran Wiffy Cox of Washington.

Doc Says He's Okeh

Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del., moved into the third slot with a 69 while ten others, including an amateur, Frank Strafaci of New York, bettered par with 70's.

Smith said his physician at Springfield, Mo., told him he was in excellent condition.

Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., and Harry Cooper of Chicopee, Mass., top money winners this winter, shot 70, along with Denny Shute of Boston, P.G.A. Champion; Felix Serafin of Scranton, Pa., Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., Jack Patroni of Shawnee, Pa., Herman Barron and Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., and Walter Work of Eagle's Mere, Pa.

Defender At Par

KNOTT SIGNS CONTRACT

SAN ANTONIO, March 9. (AP)—The practice grounds were wet and the sun didn't shine much but Manager Gabby Street sent his St. Louis Browns through limbering up exercises today and then warmed up several pitchers.

Jack Knott, holdout pitcher, signed a 1938 contract after a brief confab with Vice-President Bill DeWitt.

Sampson Needs Plenty To Cop Main Battle

Dapper Dick Sampson entwined his limber legs amongst those of Jack Mandell last night, fixed the "Sampson special," and won himself another main event wrestling match at the Auditorium.

Mandell, semi-bald Bostonian, disported himself quite capably, gave Sampson a "leg" battle that was worth the money, and might have won the contest had he been a little quicker on the draw and a bit more accustomed to Sampson's style. As it was, Mandell had to be satisfied with one fall of the three. He took the middle setto with a backward kick like your Uncle Henry's mule, bowling Dick over and settled down upon him with a body cradle.

You Name The Hold

Sampson took the first fall in 17 minutes with something new in the way of holds. In the dressing room afterward, even Sampson couldn't describe it or identify it. First, he got a hammer lock with his leg. Mandell stuck out his other arm in an effort to break, and Sampson fixed another hammerlock, with another leg. Thus, with a double hammerlock—with his legs, mind you—Sampson brought the Bostonian's shoulder blades together and there was nothing for the helpless Mandell to do but give it up.

Mandell did some fine maneuvering to elude Sampson's devilish attack, and mixed in a pair of good drop kicks and a "spinning" headlock to baffle the Denton lad.

Mandell needed 9 minutes to win his fall, and Sampson took 13 to take the final with his "special," the reverse stake hold. Earlier, he had punished Jack with a cruel arm scissors, holding it for 6 minutes.

The fight was clean all the way, just as middleweights can go, and minus any intentional scampering for the ropes.

But Jack and Dick had to do some all going, which they did, to take the honors last night.

Bill Hall Pleases

One of Promoter Sled Allen's new boys, 24-year-old Bill "Rubber" Hall of Hollywood goes down in the books as a "find" and he can wrestle here for some time. He wrapped his long, muscular legs around Gorilla Pogi like a shoestring, got a standing arm stretch, with one foot under Pogi's chin, the other on the floor. He broke all manner of holds by merely swinging his leg above his head and bringing it down, but hard, on Gorilla's arms. He had the crowd in an uproar from the start, and he seemed capable of pinning Pogi at any time, but didn't. It went to a draw.

For the Gorilla, working on Slim Hall's legs was like pulling taffy—the longer he worked and pulled, the harder the work got. Pogi never held an offensive hold more than 10 or 15 seconds, so severe was Hall at breaking the attack. Hall, aggressive, strong, wiry and smart, put on nearly every hold in the books, Pogi escaping sure defeat by rolling under the ropes.

The two other newcomers gave the fans a treat for 7 minutes of the curtain raiser, but that was as long as the Hungarian Horror, George Hartay, chose to work last night. At the end of that time, he had a standing surfboard on Basanta Singh, turbaned Hindu, a dark and dangerous looking person who may be seen some more.

The short, fast Hartay is pretty sure to be back.

MEETING AT BISBEE

BISBEE, Ariz., March 9. (AP)—The playing schedule for the coming season will be adopted at a meeting here Sunday of members of the Arizona-Texas baseball league, R. E. Souers, president, announced today.

Representatives of the El Paso, Albuquerque, Tucson and Bisbee clubs were to attend, and the Globe-Miami district, which is considering applying for a franchise, will be represented. It will be the league's final pre-season meeting.

AGGIE PILOT NAMED

COLLEGE STATION, March 9. (AP)—Curly thatched Owen (Slick) Rogers, letterman quarterback of Mart, today was appointed the 1938 Texas Aggie football captain.

He Was First --Best Too-- Of Holdouts

JOE CORBETT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9. (AP)—Baseball, as well as boxing, learned strategy from the Corbetts. Boxers absorbed pointers from Jim Corbett, heavyweight champion in the nifty nineties. And Brother Joe was the first diamond star to use the "holdout" technique as a salary-raising leverage. The baseball moderns, with their two- and three-month strikes, are just fiddling around. Joe held out for five years. Top pay for John McGraw and others in 1898 was $2,400. Joe, an ace pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles, demanded $3,000. The Orioles replied succinctly: "You're crazy." So Joe borrowed an unwritten leaf from twentieth century labor methods and went on a "sit-down." He never rejoined the Orioles, but in 1903 played minor-league ball. His advice to salary dissenters: "If you think you're right, stick to it. But don't forget it's pretty hard to beat those hours."

Stagehand Is Listed As Favorite To Cop In Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 9. (AP)—Stagehand, whose name has gone up in lights after two spectacular performances, is the winter book favorite to capture the Kentucky derby on May 7.

The pre-race price on Col. Maxwell Howard's colt was announced today by St. Louis betting commissioners simultaneously with release by Churchill Downs of the entry list for the 64th running of the nation's premier turf classic.

103 Nominations In

Derby nominees this year total 103, and include the cream of the crop of America's three-year-olds. Approximately only a fifth of them will go to the post, however.

Stagehand's dazzling successes in the Santa Anita derby and Santa Anita handicap in which he won about $130,000, led Charles Burke to make the mighty mite a 4 to 1 favorite and James J. Carroll, the other commissioner, to fix the opening quotation at 6 to 1.

From that point, the St. Louis bookkeepers are far apart on choices.

EX-STEER RETIRES

TACOMA, Wash., March 9. (AP)—Jimmy Moslof, outfielder purchased by Portland of the Pacific coast league from the Dallas, Texas, league club last month, today announced his retirement from baseball and the acceptance of a position with a business firm here.

Buffs Fade Out Of Cage Tiff; Aggies Win

KANSAS CITY, March 9—(AP)—Four teams, including two highly regarded quintets, faded from the National Intercollegiate Basketball tournament picture in afternoon second round games today which saw three contests won by margins of four points or less.

Jordan college, of Menominee, Mich.; New Mexico State, of Las Cruces, Roanoke college, of Salem, Va., and St. Ambrose college of Davenport, Ia., were the teams to advance to the quarter finals, and only the potent New Mexico cagers had things pretty much their own way.

Aggies Beat Idaho

The New Mexicans, wizards under the basket and at driving down the floor for quick flip shots which they seldom muffed, defeated the University of Idaho, Southern branch, 56 to 40.

Jordan had its second scare in as many games. It edged out Simpson college of Indianola, Ia., 31 to 29, today after turning in a 32 to 31 win over Ottawa, Kas., university in the first round.

The towering West Texas Teachers, one of the teams considered a title contender, fell before the smart play of the smaller Roanoke college team, 33 to 34, and the rangy Central State Teachers of Edmond, Okla., another highly favored quintet, was ushered out of the tournament picture by a surprise 38 to 36 defeat at the hands of St. Ambrose.

Eagles Trail Throughout

The Mississippians, whose rally to defeat Drury college in an overtime game was the sensation of the first round yesterday, grabbed a half-time lead of 28 to 19, and increased it to 40 to 23 before the Texans connected with a series of goals to cut it to 41 to 33.

Mississippi then dug in, checked the assault, and was going strong at the finish.

Barney Ross And Armstrong To Meet For Title In May

NEW YORK, March 9. (AP)—A 15-round bout for the world's welterweight title between Champion Barney Ross and Henry Armstrong, featherweight champion, was announced today by Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Sporting club. The fight will be held May 26 at either the Garden bowl on Long Island or the Yankee Stadium.

TRACK SEASON OPENS

COLLEGE STATION, March 9. (AP)—Home season of the Texas Aggie track and field team will be opened here Saturday in a triangular meet with the Sam Houston State Teachers' college of Huntsville and the Southwest Texas Teachers' college of San Marcos.

Big Ten Cage Coaches Are Satisfied

CHICAGO, March 9.—The super-streamlined basketball game of 1938 has fulfilled its promise to keep Big Ten halls packed with customers and thrills.

Calm once more after a conference season which produced all kinds of new scoring records, brilliant battles and high excitement, Big Ten coaches, with one exception, agreed today elimination of the center-jump has added much to the game. The fans have been given about 20 per cent more action, and more players have had opportunities to show off because of the necessity for greater man-power under the speeded up conditions.

Cappon Only Dissenter

Only Franklyn Cappon of Michigan, who will move to Princeton next season, declined to credit the center-jump change with improving the sport. Said Cappon:

"Elimination of the center-jump has failed to bring about changes claimed by its proponents. The game has resolved itself into a shot-trading type of play in which the team with the best sharpshooters usually wins. The value of team-play and ball-handling has been lessened.

"Leave It Alone, Now"

Most pleased with the situation were Harold (Ole) Olsen of Ohio State, Doug Mills of Illinois and Arthur (Dutch) Lonborg of Northwestern. None of the trio could see any reason for further fooling with the rules.

"Let's leave the rules alone," Olsen said flatly. "The season was the best in history from the fans' viewpoint. The players liked the game, so why not let the rules stand and please everyone?"

Raiders Finish In Fourth Slot In Cage Chase

TUCSON, Ariz., March 9. (AP)—The New Mexico Aggies, champions of the Border conference, received official recognition for a perfect season of 18 victories today when Emil L. Larson, conference commissioner, announced final standings.

Although the University of Arizona dropped its last two games to Arizona State Teachers college at Tempe, whose squad went on to close the season with a pair of victories against its sister institution at Flagstaff, the Wildcats held on to second place by a narrow margin.

Arizona won nine games and lost seven, Tempe won 10 and dropped eight. Texas Tech finished fourth and Flagstaff sixth.

The lowly Muckers of Texas Mines appeared in the win column for the first time in three years but trailed the field.

The official standings:

Antelope, Prairie Chickens To Be Subjects In Wild Life Programs Of Area

AUSTIN, March 9 (AP)—Increase of wild antelope, on which the season was closed 20 years ago in Texas, and steps to further protect the prairie chicken, nearing extinction, will be topics of discussion for wild-life week programs in West Texas, Will J. Tucker, secretary of the game commission, said today.

Game department authorities said antelope hunting was a remote possibility for Texas hunters "who could wait 15 years." The legislature has closed the season on the rapidly disappearing prairie chicken species for five years.

President Roosevelt has proclaimed the week of March 20 as "wild-life week."

President T. O. Walton of Texas A. & M. college, state wild-life week chairman, named West Texas county chairmen to arrange programs as follows:

Andrews—Tom Ellison, Andrews;
Martin — Luther Gathey, Stanton;
Howard—Lee Hanson, Big Spring;

Ruling Is Given On Wednesday

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, March 9.—Director I. W. Duggan, of the government's southern division of the AAA, said today he had been informed by Washington sources that producers could not receive two cents per pound on cotton under the federal loan until the full amount due them under the cotton price adjustment program had been determined.

A ruling by the comptroller general settled that issue, Duggan said.

Provided Quotas In Effect

Section 381 of the Agricultural Adjustment act of 1938 provided that producers with cotton under the loan could transfer title to the Commodity Credit corporation and receive two cents per pound, Duggan said, provided that quotas were in effect for the 1938 crop. The two cents would be deducted from the cotton price adjustment payment due producers on their 1937 crop.

"In 1937," Duggan said, "congress appropriated $130,000,000 to be paid on the 1937 crop to producers who cooperated with the 1938 AAA cotton program. The payment was based on the difference between the average price on the 10 spot markets on the date of sale and 12 cents, up to three cents per pound.

Money Not Sufficient

"The money appropriated, however, was not sufficient to pay on all the 1937 crop. Consequently, the program provided for payment on approximtely 65 per cent of a producers' 1937 base production.

"If the two cents were paid now, a producer with all his 1937 production in the loan might receive more than he would be entitled to under the cotton price adjustment payment plan. Other producers, in turn, might not receive money due them. This situation, as I understand it, was the basis for the comptroller's ruling."

Goodwin and William Curry Holden of Texas Technological college who recently were made deans. Harold Griffith was program chairman. Dr. Holden gave a resume of the history of the West Texas Museum association.

Five juveniles ranging in ages from 13 to 16 and an 18-year-old boy Wednesday night were held in the county jail pending action today or within a short time of authorities. All were held in connection with thefts of gunnysacks, copper, lead, and automobile tires, said Bill Mabray, police identifications officer, who with Aubrey Fawver, also of the police department, and Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff, investigated. The 18-year-old boy and two of the juveniles were arrested Wednesday after a stolen purse and about $20, contents of the purse, were found. Mabrady said $16 of the money was found at one of the boys' homes and the purse was hidden in the attic of the First Methodist church. The purse assertedly had been taken from a grocery store at Nineteenth street and Texas avenue. Foy Boren, operator of the store, reported the theft. The three arrested Wednesday all had been paroled from the state reform school for boys, Mabray said. It was indicated no charges would be filed against them, but their pardons revoked and re-committed to the reform school.

Elsie Feigenspan, junior student from Roxana, was elected secretary-treasurer of the Association of Women Students at Texas Technological college in a run-off election Wednesday. Miss Feigenspan and Lois Marie Daniels of Post received the same number of votes in an election last week. Three hundred and eighty-five ballots were cast in Wednesday's election.

C. L. Brown, 81, retired farmer living near Ahson, died Monday after an illness of about a year. He was the father of J. W. Brown of Lamesa. Burial was Tuesday afternoon at Funston after services in the Baptist church there. Two other sons, three daughters, 28 grand children and 23 great grandchildren survive.

A mistrial was declared in the case of Haskell Ford, charged in county court with establishing a lottery, when a jury called Wednesday was unable to reach a verdict. Bond forfeiture was asked when Ezel Raney, charged with carrying a pistol, failed to appear, said Judge J. J. Dillard of that court. A charge of establishing a lottery against David Martin was postponed, officials of the court said. On today's docket in Judge Dillard's court are charges of liquor law violation against L. E. Walker, Ruby and Clifton Hereford, and Bascom Allen, and theft against Robert Johnson.

Much building is in prospect for Levelland this spring and better conditions are seen, said Carl Ratliff, city attorney, who was here yesterday. He said farmers were optimistic over prospects at this season.

Several Slaton Rotarians came yesterday to make up attendance at the Lubbock Rotary club. Among them were: J. D. Holt, Claude Anderson, Rev. J. O. Quattlebaum and Dr. G. C. Loveless.

The Ralls school system is in excellent shape and the year will be the most successful in the history of the school, Superintendent James M. Rankin said yesterday. He is closing his school work July 1, having resigned effective that date, to devote his time to personal matters.

The board of directors of the YM-YWCA of Texas Technological college will meet at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon in room 210 administration building. J. I. Kilpatrick is chairman. A speaker who will come here under auspices of the association is to be selected, committee reports heard, and purchase of a piano for use in "Y" programs considered.

Mrs. J. M. Lyle of Ralls Wednes-day night remained in a critical condition, according to authoritative reports from Lubbock sanitarium where she is receiving treatment for an attack of pneumonia. Miss Ella Mae Lyle, a student in Columbia university in New York, flew here to be at the side of her mother and a son, Clay Lyle of the Mississippi State Teachers college faculty, is en route here. Another son, Dr. Judge J. Lyle of Fort Worth and other members of the family also are here.

Funeral services for H. T. Stewart, about 57, of Vernon were held Wednesday afternoon in Rix chapel and burial was in Lubbock cemetery. Rev. Perry J. Ausmus, pastor of the First Primitive Baptist church, officiated. Stewart, who died Monday, was a brother of Hill Stewart, Lubbock attorney.

C. C. Jobson, Lubbock county agent, announced yesterday that he and Homer E. Thompson, assistant county agent, had complete contouring, terracing and irrigation preparation work on 72 farms since January 1, and that 57 persons are on the waiting list for the same service.

Most rural schools of Lubbock county will be closed Friday in order that teachers may attend the district meeting of the State Teachers association at Big Spring, according to Joseph R. Griggs, county superintendent. Griggs' office in the courthouse will be closed also. The Big Spring session will continue Saturday.

Otto Stehlick of Wichita Falls, past grand commander of the Texas Grand commandery, will make an official visit Monday night at an annual inspection of the Lubbock Commandery No. 60, Knights Templar, H. J. McClellan, secretary, said Wednesday.

Capt. W. W. Legge of this office of the Texas Highway patrol and several members of the office here Wednesday assisted in traffic direction at the annual Mother-In-Law celebration at Amarillo and the occasion of an address by Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Other members of this office who attended were B. Johnson, L. P. McCasland, L. W. Wilnite, W. C. Alder, J. H. Jackson, and B. L. Wooddell.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Measure Of 'Big' People

ONE of the first things a newspaper reporter learns is that the really important people are the easiest and most pleasant to interview.

Truth of that fact was strikingly demonstrated to several members of the Avalanche-Journal staffs Tuesday when Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Governor James V. Allred were among the several distinguished visitors whom Lubbock entertained.

Mrs. Roosevelt without doubt is one of the world's busiest and most important women. Governor Allred, by the very fact of his position, is politically the most important personality of the day in Texas. Both literally must dole their minutes. Even then it is physically impossible for them to give personal attention to more than a fraction of the call upon them.

Neither can be engaged in a task with the thought that nothing remains after the task is done. Whatever they may be doing is accompanied by the knowledge that the sooner the undertaking of the moment is completed, the sooner will they be able to start on something new.

It is to be expected, under the strain they necessarily have reduced to a minimum, that they might be irritable with newspaper reporters in such small cities as Lubbock and Amarillo. Getting their name and picture in the newspapers means nothing to either. They know and others know that, except under most extraordinary conditions, they will withhold any announcement of news of nationwide or statewide moment for the larger population centers.

Yet both were graciousness personified in their dealings with the press. If they were rushed to reach another task, they concealed it so successfully as to convey the impression they were almost entirely at leisure. They interviewed while being interviewed. They asked questions about the personalities and the topography of the area they visited. They were genuinely interested in adding to their knowledge. Finest of all, it wasn't a pose with them. They merely were displaying the reality of themselves which undoubtedly has played its important part in lifting them to the positions they occupy. Mrs. Roosevelt's attitude toward the press and that of Governor Allred was and is dictated by fine inner qualities of humanness which marks them as "big" people in the real sense of the word.

That attitude contrasts sharply with that of many occupants of positions of sufficient importance that newspapers may, on occasions, seeks opinions, facts or statements from them. Some—relatively few, fortunately—seem to be under the impression that impatience and brusqueness are necessary to conveying the correct idea of importance. But in that line of reasoning, he is wrong. The press evaluation of him as a swell-headed egotist who would be expensive at two bits a dozen usually isn't far from wrong.

Such people are small by nature, and it would be extremely difficult in their case to improve on nature. Even if they, for reasons of policy, should acquire the qaulities of courtesy and graciousness, their inherent deficiencies probably would place a sharp limitation on their advancement. But even though emulation of Mrs. Roosevelt or Mr. Allred might never make them a first lady or a governor, it at least would improve their prospects.

With Our Contemporaries

"We are informed that a new postoffice to be known as McAdoo has been granted by the Washington authorities and will soon be established in the Lee county settlement on the Plains," Mrs. Oran McClure clips from a 23-year ago issue of the Texas Spur. "B. F. Hines will be the postmaster and the office will be located near the Valley View school." (And, 23 years later McAdoo is an important community in Dickens county.)

"Joke on the city hall gang: when the Boy Scouts took over the city during scout anniversary week, the first function of the boys was to play a game of checkers. Heh, Heh!" Vic Lamb reports in the Hale Center American.

* * *

"If Mr. Allred would quit trying to be governor, attorney-general and the whole push down there at Austin, I imagine the affairs of the state will get along just about as well," A. E. Richards buzzes in the Ropes Plainsman.

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

SHOT FOUR TIMES WITH ONE BULLET

On Friday, November 5th, about noon, a unique drama was enacted on Third Street, San Francisco, when the police were called to investigate some minor trouble in the vicinity. When their quarry tried to break away, the police fired, and bystadners fled in all directions. One innocent victim was shot through the arm, the bullet lodging in his chest. Jones, hastening around the corner, was hit a glancing blow just below his shoulder blades, the bullet piercing the flesh four distinct times. The fact that Jones had played football many years and had very large back muscles, made this possible.

Empire For A Lady

By Alan LeMay
C. By The Associated Press

SYNOPSIS: Savage Dyak tribes are on the wild loose at war with the Malays on Sumantang island. Christine Forrester, a beautiful young English girl, is behind the revolt, completing a plan for her dead father. James Clyde, my uncle, and master of the gun-running Linkang, is blamed by his client, Rajah Mantusen, and imprisoned. Although he escapes, Clyde quixotically refuses to sail from Balingong bay while Christine remains. (I am Paul Thorne.)

Chapter 24
Two Stubborn People

Christine looked at Clyde a long time. "I like that—in a way," she said. "We are two very stubborn people, you and I."

"And you wish I would go away," Clyde said with a shadow of a grin. "Well, I wish I could. I don't see how things can go on much longer, or get much worse. Mr. Thorne has probably already eplained to you what I expect from the Malays. It just adds on to what I already expected from the Dyaks. Now we'll probably get them both. I don't know why they haven't struck already."

"I know why," Christine said levelly. "Didn't Mr. Thorne tell you anything about—about what my father has done here?"

"He said something about some Dyak gun clubs of some sort."

"Of course you don't believe any of it."

My uncle stirred restively, and his eyes cast up and down the shoreline. "I didn't at first," he admitted. "It isn't an easy kind of story to believe. But I'm beginning to believe it now. Part of it, at least."

"Polite of you," Christine murmured.

He shook his head. "Mantusen knows something that I don't. If he didn't know any more than I know, he would have come boiling down that river before now. Granted that he would rather work by treachery where he can, this is no time for it. His chances of dealing with me are so slim they're ridiculous, and he ought to know it. But apparently Mantusen has decided that the river can't be forced. Something has happened to that jungle. Your father's rifles may or may not be holding the river; but it begins to look to me as if Mantusen believes that they are."

I thought Christine Forrester angered a little then, for she said, "I'm flattered. It seems that I am not to be believed until I am corborated by a Malay!"

Clyde wilted a little at that, but he didn't answer it.

There was a long silence between them then.

"What has Mantusen offered?" Christine asked at last.

"Well—in a sense it's a kind of extension of a deal I had with him before. Clyde faltered, as if he were trying to translate something pretty difficult out of some native tongue. "You see, my original deal with Mantusen called for a five year trade monopoly in the Siderong. It was a good proposition. It was good for us both." He went on to explain what sort of thing he had expected of it, in a general way.

In effect, he wants to revive that deal; offering better terms if I will let up on him now, but still trying to save something for himself."

"Let up on him? How can you let up on him?"

"You're forgetting something. None of the natives are able to believe that there is a split between these two white ships. Your Dyaks probably think that I'm working for you. Mantusen thinks you're working for me, and your father too. That's what got me into trouble in the first place."

"But if you already have an alliance with Mantusen, why does he suppose you would attack him?"

"He always knew I distrusted him. Probably he admired me for distrusting him. Certainly he knew best that I had good cause."

"He thinks you tried to make sure of your monopolies by taking Balingong—with Dyaks?"

"Well, it's reasonable. Suppose I really had armed the Dyaks, simply to hold them over Mantusen as a threat. White traders have always tried to keep their balance by holding certain natives hostile to certain others."

"The Dyaks would have got out of your hands," Christine said shortly.

"Exactly," Clyde said. "That is just what Mantusen believes happened."

"But—but—" Some of the assurance seemed to have been knocked out of Christine. "Why, of course," she said at last. "Of course that is just what he would think."

"So now he wants me to pull 'my' Dyaks off him, and make a peace that will save something for himself. He's full of apologies and big offers. I'm to be military governor of the port. I'm to run things as I want to. If he gets his annuities, and the Sultan of Saremba gets his, I can run tht rest of the show."

His eyes had been shuttling back and forth along the shore, restlessly watchful; and now as he looked at Christine Forrester again he was startled.

"What's the matter?"

She was staring at him with wide, intense eyes, and her words were breathless. "But—this is surrender!"

"I can't use it."

"If he'll concede that much, he'll concede more. Don't you see it? If you negotiate this properly you can virtually take over Balingong."

"Coudn't hold it if I did."

"But you could. I tell you, you could! You would have the tribes to hold over him—the same tribes that have him helpless now."

"All my imaginary tribes," Clyde said drily. "I haven't got a single Dyak—you know that. He just thinks I have."

She started to speak, but stopped, and pressed her fingers against her eyes. When she talked to him about the Tenyalang riflemen she was against a blank wall of disbelief, just as he was against a blank wall of a different kind whenever he argued with her. He admired her now because she saw the futility of trying to tell him again that the Dyaks were as good as her own.

Instead, she said, "What did you tell Lundok?"

"What could I tell him? Of course it gave me a chance to fight for time. I sent him back with a counter proposition—one that Mantusen could not possibly accept."

"What was it?"

Clyde grinned apologetically. "I told him I would seriously consider his proposition only if he would first make an unconditional surrender. That's ridiculous, of course. But maybe he'll try to send me a compromise; and that will keep them off us a few more hours."

Christine Forrester stared at him along while. "Captain Clyde," she said at last incredulously, "you've drifted into the greatest opportunity that has ever come to any man in these islands! No one has ever had such a chance—unless possibly the Rajah Brook."

"Who—me?"

"The turn of events has played squarely into your hands. Captain Clyde, you could make anything out of this—anything! You could be the next rajah of Balingong."

He stared at her a moment and then idly began to eat his cold fish.

Suddenly Christine leaned forward again, and her words came very fast. "The Dyaks don't know my father is dead. They need never know. His Tenyalang will stand fast, and do what they are told. We can make them hold truce—at least for a little while. Go ahead with your negotiations. Promise Mantusen his annuities, and the indemnity for the loot he must leave behind. Save his face before his sultan—manage it so that he can take this thing home as a triumph. But—force him to terms that will give you full control! I tell you, you can have the raj of Balingong!"

Clyde moved wearily. Several times he started to speak. Very plainly he was looking for a way to evade. "No doubt your father could have worked it out," he said without belief. "This sort of thing is not for me. Many a better trader than I am has lost his ship and his crew and his neck, fooling with a monkey-business like that. Mantusen is desperate, as you say, but he's as dangerous as a trapped tiger. I don't want any part of him."

"Captain Clyde," said Christine, "you're being offered something no scheming could have got you. You have a chance to get a genuine legal claim upon Balingong—and that was the one thing missing from my father's plans. If Mantusen can be forced to sign over the raj of Balingong, Massin Ali or Sarembe can be forced to confirm it. Sumantang is recognized by both the British and the Dutch as independent under Massin Ali of Saremba. Once your raj is confirmed by Saremba, nothing can ever take it away from you."

"I have to get back to my ship," my uncle said uncomfortably. "We had a bad ballast shift, about a forthnight ago, and I have to see that—"

"Mr. Thorne," said Christine, "I am sure you are very efficient in matters of ballast. I am sorry this takes you away from us; but Captain Clyde and I have a great deal to say to each other."

I stood watching Clyde, while he wavered. It was a curious sight, for I know of no one more unaccustomed to being put at a loss. I could not imagine that anyone could dominate him at this girl was trying to do.

Yet, in the end, she held him there; and it was I who went back to our ship.

Can Christine change Clyde's mind, tomorrow?

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE most powerfcl influence on the President these days is his own family—Mrs. Roosevelt, James and Elliott. More and more they utilize moments at dinner and in the upstairs sitting room to get their ideas across to the head of the family and the government.

F. D. R. himself gave them the opportunity by spending less after-hours time with his conflicting sets of advisers—the radicals and conservatives in his political household. James has been around long enough now to develop confidence and knowledge, and he doesn't hesitate to speak up. On his recent visit, Business Man Elliott submitted reports and suggestions based on his observations in the Southwest. For the most part, their counsel tends toward moderation and cooperation with private industry. Mrs. Roosevelt does not always agree with their pacific proposals.

The President is still the autocrat of the dinner table, but the boys have introduced a new note into White House talk. They frequently remind father that he must begin to think about his place in history—a suggestion likely to have a sobering effect on one who bears the name of Roosevelt.

* * *

TEMPT: The ordinarily resilient Marriner Eccles has suddenly grown bearish over business prospects. He has been quietly pleading with the White House for a more aggressive recovery drive by the administration.

The Federal Reserve board head figures that the current decline will cost the country a billion dollars a month in national income unless it is checked. At that rate the 1938 income would sink to around $55,000,000,000—12 billion less than last year's. This would amount to only a little more than half the figure F. D. R. has predicted—and which he has calculated is necessary to operate the economic plant at full blast. When Uncle Sam's chief banker talks so pessimistically, it's an earful.

Mr. Eccles' latest pump-priming scheme involves the grant of direct federal subsidies—to railroads, corporations, the housing industry. Past relief projects, he argues, have plunged the government into competition with business, sapped the spirit of enterprise, driven working dollars under cover. He thinks that his program would tempt them back to market.

* * *

PRUDENT: The President has privately discarded—in fact, smothered—numerous fantastic suggestions for furnishing jobs and stimulating industry. A recent proposal that never even reached the blueprint stage contemplated construction of small houses with government funds.

Aubrey Williams, who once urged that the administration buy shoes and overcoats for the needy, was the author. The acting W. P. A. Administrator advanced a plan under which 150,000 homes costing about $6,000 each would have been built with W. P. A. labor, Uncle Sam furnishing funds for the material. These would have provided shelter for the population of a city about as large as the capital. Mr. W.'s argument was that other housing agencies—U.S.H.A. and F.H.A.—were not swinging into large-scale building rapidly enough to dent the unemployment problem.

F.H.A.-er Stewart MacDonald purpled and sputtered when he was consulted by F. D. R., and the matter was quietly dropped—at least for the present. More than most people realize, the Chief Executive is pursuing a prudent and cautious policy in striking contrast with 1933-1935 days. Then he accepted almost every remedy his aides poured on his desk.

* * *

SHARPENS: The more White House scouts uncover the details of the stage-setting for Bernard M. Baruch's anti-New Deal critique, the hotter they get. Off the record they characterize it as a Baruch-Garner-Harrison-Byrnes conspiracy to drive F. D. R. far toward the right—and keep him there.

The Democratic financier simply repeated before the Senate committee what he has been saying privately to his senatorial pal—and it's that realization which irks the Rooseveltians. Chairman Byrnes not only knew in advance what the New Yorker would spread on the record for everybody to read, he even afforded plenty of time for preparation of a calm but cutting analysis of policies blamed as undermining confidence and recovery. In downtown officials' minds, it savored of a frameup.

It discloses, too, Mr. Baruch's apparent abandonment of personal efforts to convert F.D.R. to a permanent conservative course. The former used the same arguments with the President only a few days before the latter delivered his opening message to Congress, but it was no dice. After waiting two months for signs of conversion, the "Baruch crowd" on Capitol Hill decided to tell their fears to the world. The incident sharpens the controversy between the head man and the Senate.

* * *

STAGED: Mr. Roosevelt's March 4 anniversary statement satisfied neither the radical nor moderate wings of his rambunctious family.

To the Cohens and Corcorans it was too mild, almost defensive in tone. Except for a second-thought reference to "special privilege", it sounded more like a Roper paean than a Jackson or Ickes outburst. Those with sharp ears noted that, for the first time, the President seemed to despair of forcing New Deal measures through Congress—especially wages and hours. But the Garnerites detected no willingness to scrap White House demands or to agree to drastic revision of taxes which burden business. They had hoped for an utterance that would tend to dissipate economic uncertainty.

The President's sought to give a casual air to his reiteration of New Deal aims, explaining that he "had prepared nothing". But it was as deliberately staged as his horse-and-buggy lecture, and for that reason both tone and substance may have deep significance. The question which provoked the 1938 inaugural speech was one of those things that doesn't happen accidentally.

MESSAGES: Irreverent friends of Ambassador Kennedy sent him off to London with tart telegrams instead of a basket of the fruit he dotes on.

"Bon voyage," read one, "and don't come back till I balance the budget." It was signed "Henry the Morgue"—the President's joshing nickname for the sad-eyed Secretary of the Treasury.

From "Fanny Perkins", who bristles whenever she thinks of Mr. Kennedy's views on waterfront and shipboard discipline, came this message: "I hope you stay in London."

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE recent dearth of business-baiting statements from the White House is understood to trace largely to the influence of son James.

James rather prides himself on being a business man and having a business viewpoint. He has managed to persuade his father that continued diatribes against business would only pin the onus of the recession more definitely on the administration in the public mind.

Many Congressmen classed as New Dealers earnestly hope that the President will continue this latest breathing spell until after election. They figure that the resultant psychological lift to business, plus federal spending, will assure at least a modest recovery by fall that should help to put them over the top. They are much more interested in being reelected than in further reforms.

DISTRUST: The American Federation of Labor did very well for itself in the past two years by cooperating with employers who were afraid of the big bad C. I. O. A. F. of L. organizers were kept available to rush anywhere on a moment's notice to unionize employes before the C. I. O. could get at them. This sort of thing ended with the recession, which terminated the C. I. O. "menace". But the Federation evidently feels that continued teamwork with industry is worthwhile.

This explains the widely publicized statement by Matthew Woll—veteran A. F. of L. vice president—attacking government for interference and competition with business and suggesting drastic modification of tax policies. Mr. Woll also urged labor and industry to make a common effort to protect each other "against autocratic usurpation of power over their destiny by governmental agencies."

"Now listen, we were out late last night and we need a little more sleep. Won't you please pipe down?"

The Plainsman Says:

That Girl on Broadway says before 30 a man needs advice to quit risking his health and after 40 he needs advice to quit thinking about it.

* * *

"Man, Married Nine Times, Goes Insane," reads a headline in a contemporary newspaper.

Say, how can a crazy man go insane?

* * *

SPEAKING of crazy people, probably nine out of ten readers will think The Plainsman is nuttier than a fruitcake when they hear that Tuesday afternoon he had the opportunity to spend two full hours with Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt and did not avail himself of it.

And maybe they'll think his reason for not availing himself of the opportunity is even crazier.

* * *

It is undoubtedly a rare privilege to have a two-hour visit with a First Lady—especially a very charming and unusually famous First Lady.

From what The Plainsman has heard of Mrs. Roosevelt from friends who have entertained her, the President's wife is one of the most likeable and personable people in the whole country.

And he didn't pass up his chance because he failed to realize the honor and the possibilities of an enjoyable chat. Instead, he forewent the pleasure because he felt sorry for Mrs. Roosevelt, who must be nearly a nervous wreck as the result of people's trying to be near and with her everywhere she goes.

* * *

HAD The Plainsman taken those two hours, all the value of the contact would have been his. It would have meant nothing to Mrs. Roosevelt.

Because of her position, not only now but for many years, Mrs. Roosevelt has been thrown with hundreds and thousands of personable and intelligent and charming people and to expect her to enjoy being with a common, ordinary, run-of-the-mine country editor was just too much.

As much as The Plainsman would have enjoyed the chance of being with and talking to this remarkable lady, he felt that to do so would be unfair to her.

Mrs. Roosevelt graciously gave interviews to three Avalanche-Journal reporters and her stay in Lubbock was "covered", as newspapermen say, "like a blanket."

The Plainsman had not one iota of an excuse for foisting himself off on the First Lady, hence he—and he hopes thoughtfully—dodged the temptation to bore her stiff.

* * *

Another reason was that Mrs. Roosevelt was in the hands of two of the most personable and pleasing young men in West Texas—Parker Prouty, of The Avalanche-Journal, and Dorrance Roderick, formerly of The Avalanche-Journal and now of The El Paso Times.

They met the First Lady when she climbed from a Santa Fe chair car Tuesday morning and took her and her secretary to the Hilton hotel. She liked this pair and immediately accepted their invitation to "show her around", which they offered without the slightest idea that she would want to be "shown around." Of course, they were glad to be of service to her, but when they first made the suggestion it was to be polite, because they had no idea she would take them up. When she did, they were tickled pink.

They were not the only ones to "get a break," however. Mrs. Roosevelt has never been better attended and The Plainsman can't think of any pair who could better represent West Texas before the First Lady than these two. If he'd gone along when invited he doubtless would have spoiled Mrs. Roosevelt's opinion of our people as a whole.

* * *

MESSRS. Prouty and Roderick, like everyone else, were under Mrs. Roosevelt's spell from the moment they met her at the depot until they left her.

Neither is what you'd call a rabid New Dealer, Mr. Roderick being sort of a halfway Roosevelt fan and Mr. Prouty being thoroughly and entirely opposed to the Roosevelt administration.

Yet both of them fell for Mrs. Roosevelt like a ton of bricks and literally sang her praises. "Unaffected, Democratic, interesting, highly intelligent, agreeable to the nth degree"—these are only a few of the terms those two young men applied to Tuesday's honored guest.

And Messrs. Roderick and Prouty were not the only ones. Everyone who came into contact with her felt the same way.

Vernon Herndon, the Hilton manager, said the First Lady was a wonderful type of guest who demanded nothing, yet who seemed to thoroughly enjoy every courtesy extended. George Zarafonetis, who was detailed to see that Mrs. Roosevelt's every wish was carried out at the hotel—and to anticipate her needs and wishes whenever possible—was simply wild about her.

The reaction to Mrs. Roosevelt here was the same as it has been in the other places she has been—100 per cent for her.

And The Plainsman believes that the Lubbock and South Plains public, which patronized the First Lady's lecture so generously, ought to know it.

THE Plainsman can't forego the opportunity to commend the elevation of Dr. R. C. (Bob) Goodwin and Dr. W. C. (Curry) Holden to deanships. The choice is indeed a good one in each instance.

The only fly in the ointment, of course, that the reorganization was made necessary largely through the untimely death of Dr. W. J. Jackson last fall. We still can't think of Bill without a lump in our throat—and we doubt that we'll ever be able to.

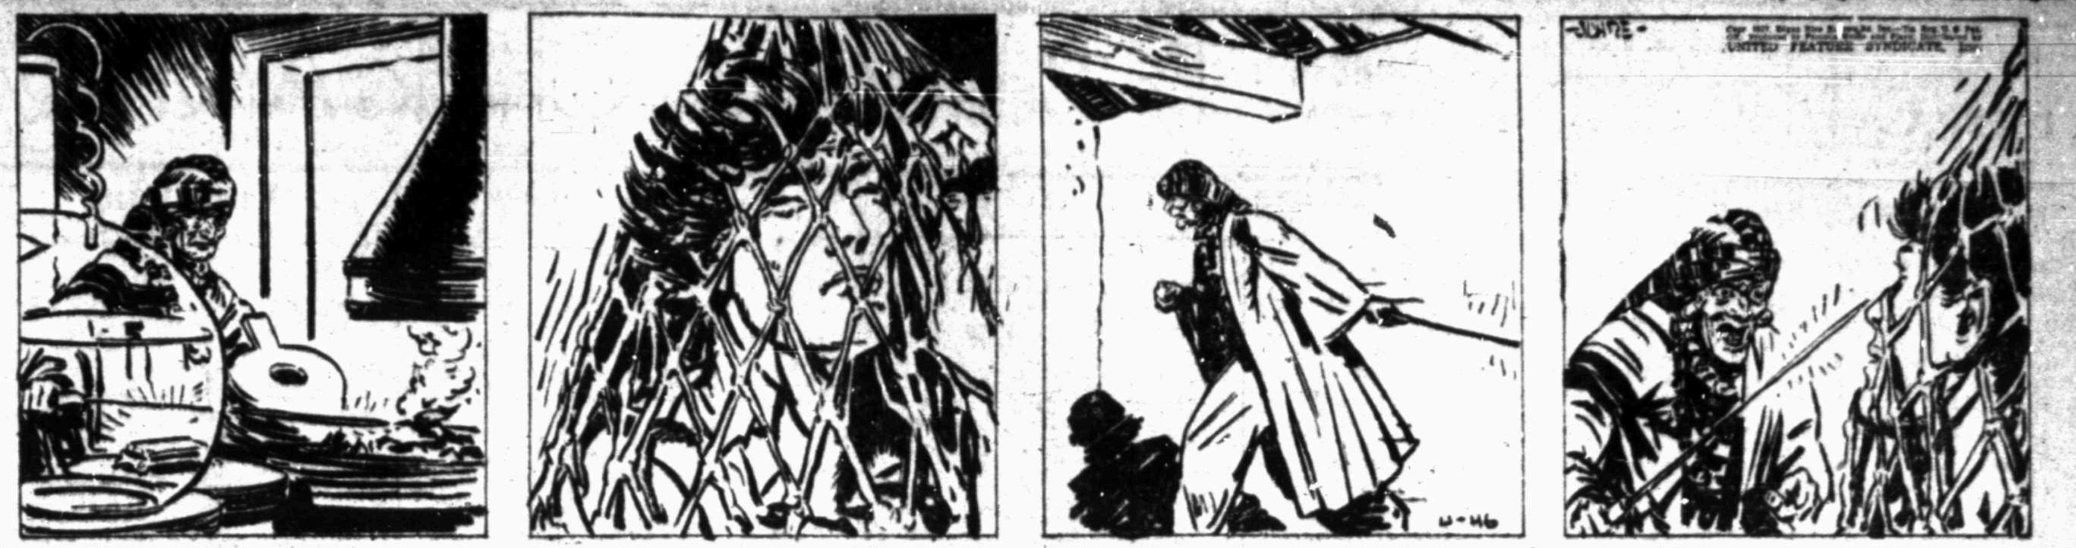
TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT No. 46 By Edgar Rice Burroughs



Tarzan fixed his level gaze upon the repulsive figure of the old magician and the weird setting in which he wrought his villainies—all bathed in the unholy green light of the mystic emerald. His jungle-trained brain was exploring all avenues of escape.

With all the power of his mighty muscles he tested the strength of the enveloping rawhide net. It gave, but it did not break. Woora saw him and laughed. "You might as well spare yourself the effort. A bull elephant could not escape from that mesh. Woora is wise."

With his grotesque head cocked to one side, he stared intently at his victim. The laugh died on his lips, giving place to a snarl. He was angry because his strange prisoner showed no fear. Bitterly he turned to inspect the iron, muttering and mumbling to himself.

The devlish instrument had grown hot; the point glowed. "Take a last look, my guest," Woora cackled; "for after a moment you will never see again! I am ready to burn out your eyes!" From the coals he drew the red-hot iron, and stepped toward the captive!

To obtain your heart's desire, see the World's greatest Psychologist, Reader and Healer—gives advice on business and personal affairs. Tells what business or profession best adapted for; teaches mental science, personal magnetism, how to control, fascinate and get the desire of your heart; how to make a person at a distance think of you.

Tells you when and whom you will marry and how to win the man or woman you love even though miles away. Settles lovers quarrels, reunites the separated. Has brought about more marriages, reunited more separated, than any other Psychologist in America.

MARKET IS ERRATIC

NEW YORK, March 9. (AP)—The stock market dipped, rallied and dipped again today and at the end losses about balanced gains.

The financial community wasn't exactly sure how to take the Interstate Commerce commission's freight rate increase, and the rail issues, after fair recovery, slipped backward in the final hour.

Carrier circles felt the boost in tariffs inadequate, but many traders held certain roads would benefit mildly. Equipment shares pushed ahead on the theory replacement of outworn rolling stock might begin soon.

Steels, aircrafts, some of the motors and a number of miscellaneous industrials joined the rails on the weak side. Farm equipment, rubber and metal shares, the latter after a dip, were resistant and small advances were the rule.

Repercussions of the insolvency of the brokerage house of Richard Whitney and Co. failed to move the market much one way or the other, although traders said possibly buyers here and there appeared to have refrained pending a clearing of the charges against the house.

Transactions were at a slow pace, transfers numbering only 561,800 shares against 737,590 yesterday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 40.2.

TO INSTALL RADIO BEAM

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP)—The Bureau of air commerce will begin installation of a low powered radio beam at the Gavleston, Texas, airport early in August, officials said today.

Equipment for the four-way beam, which will have a radius of approximately 50 miles, will cost about $10,250. Officials were unable to estimate the cost of the building which would house the apparatus.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, March 9. (AP)—Trading was quiet on the exchange here today and prices moved within a range of five points. The close was steady at net advances of two to three points.

A little selling near the close, induced by the comptroller-general's ruling on the Smith amendment to the cotton bill, was readily taken.

The ring was deserted for long periods during the day as traders, lacking incentive, apparently awaited developments, principally the vote on marketing quotas Saturday. The belief was general that farmers would approve the marketing restrictions.

The March option closed at 9.21, May at 9.22, July at 9.26, Oct. at 9.32, Dec. at 9.34 and Jan. at 9.35. The close was at or within a point of the highs.

The comptroller-general's opinion was interpreted as meaning that farmers would have to prove compliance with the average and soil conservation program before becoming eligible for the bonus payment.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 9. (AP) — Cotton fluctuated irregularly today over a narrow range but the tone was steady. May, which had eased from 9.10@9.05, recovered to 9.10 at the close with final prices 2 to 4 points net higher.

The market opened about steady but prices turned steadier by the end of the first hour on a little foreign trade and scattered buying. In midafternoon the list reacted to a point or so below the previous close when the Agricultural Adjustment administration announced it will be impossible for a producer to obtain any cotton price adjustment payment by surrendering title to his loan cotton earlier than he would receive payment under the old program.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, March 9. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 9.14 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 9.01 cents a pound.

Grains . .

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, March 9. (AP)—Eclipsing season low-price records, the Chicago wheat market plunged downward 2¼ cents today, largely owing to widespread beneficial rains southwest, the best in weeks.

In addition to timely general moisture for Kansas and Oklahoma in particular, disappointing action of the Liverpool wheat market gave impetus to downturns of values here.

Export business in North American wheat today, however, showed some increase, the estimated total being upwards of 50,000 bushels, principally wheat from the United States.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1¾ to 2¼ cents under yesterday's finish, May 88⅛@88¼, July 83⅜@83½, corn ⅛ to ⅜ off, May 58⅞, July 60⅞, oats unchanged to ⅛ lower, rye 1¼ to 1⅝ down, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 7 cents.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, March 9. (AP)—Demand for grain here today was slightly improved. Estimated receipts were wheat 17 cars, oats 1 and sorghums 1.

Meetings Are Conducted In Lubbock Communities

Three meetings of a series were held in Lubbock county Wednesday night to inform farmers of the cotton quota as proposed in the new farm bill. The referendum will be held Saturday.

The meeting at Shallowater was conducted by Homer Thompson, assistant county agent, aided by Robert Gibson and Miss Nellie Mae Morris. Approximately 128 persons attended.

Walter Johnson, an assistant in the county agent's office, conducted the Slaton meeting at which 150 were present. Johnson was assisted by Jack C. Smith.

The Monroe meeting was held by C. C. Jobson, county agent, with A. W. Bingham and Mrs. Charlotte Wright as assistants. Approximately 81 attended.

mal processes of international commerce offer the most satisfactory basis for a return to a stable structure of business, of peace, and of democratic government itself. World trade supplementing domestic commerce offers a means to raise the standards of living throughout the world to a level which will discourage recurrent international rivalries and imperialistic aggression."

The lowering of tariffs and encouragement of trade between nations, he asserted, would increase business and lessen the impetus toward conflict.

Secretary of State Hull is attempting to restore international commerce, he said, through reciprocal trade agreements.

Rice Professor, Reading How To Improve His Memory, Fails To Show Up For His Class

HOUSTON, March 9. (AP)—Dr. Frank A. Pattie, assistant professor of psychology at the Rice institute, came back to school after his class took a holiday when he failed to show up.

The assistant professor explained that he was so immersed in an absorbing book that he forgot to attend his class.

The book, he said, was a work on the improvement of the memory.

Mother-In-Law Day

red of Texas, Tingley of New Mexico, Ammons of Colorado, Marland of Oklahoma and Huxman of Kansas—said the parade was the most colorful and appropriate they had ever seen.

Visitors from all over the nation joined in the celebration, which attracted by far the largest crowd—an estimated 125,000 persons—ever to assemble in Amarillo.

Feature of the parade was a ship-shaped float hauling nearly 600 mothers-in-law. Mrs. Roosevelt rose with the crowd as the official mother-in-law float passed the reviewing stand.

Parade Is Colorful

Fifty bands, dozens of army officers and enlisted men, highway patrolmen from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma, fifty plains sheriffs, schools, neighboring cities, indians and hundreds of cowhands—the real sort—joined in adding color to the parade, which was so long several hours were required for it to pass.

After reviewing the parade, Mrs. Roosevelt retired to her hotel to rest for her night lecture here. She will go from here to Albuquerque, N. M.

While here Mrs. Roosevelt inspected several WPA projects and visited the local home for tubercular children.

Four Especially Honored

The celebration was a big day in the lives of four mothers-in-law. The two oldest, the youngest and the "most" women with married children.

Mrs. Martha Rogers, 95, who came to Texas in an oxcart, and Mrs. Mary E. McClure, 95, shared honors as the oldest mother-in-law.

The "most" mother-in-law was Mrs. Iona Bell Bowles. She said that having sixteen married children had drawbacks, the chief one being the visiting problems. "We are separated somewhat," she said, "but we are just one big family. The visiting gets to be a pretty big job, though." Mrs. Bowles is 72.

The youngest mother-in-law was Mrs. Edd McCormick, 33, who was a mother-in-law at the age of 32.

The celebration was hailed officially as a success—with the exception of the horsemanship contest between Governors Tingley of New Mexico and Allred of Texas. They rode paint horses in the parade with the intention of settling the question of who was the better rider. Governor Ammons of Colorado, drafted as judge because he was a former cowpuncher, took the liberty to withhold his comment and decision indefinitely.

England imposed a tax in the tenth century to provide money for buying off the Danish invaders.

Hitler May Control U. S. Trade Pact With Czechs

Nazi's Policy Is Decided Barrier

By DEWITT McKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Writer

NEW YORK, March 9. — When the new trade pact was signed between big United States and little Czechoslovakia, pioneer Cordell Hull and his much traveled covered-wagon arrived at a new port of the world in his persistent search for universal goodwill through the lowering of tariff barriers.

This is the seventeenth nation to be won over by Mr. Hull since he risked adverse criticism by adopting the role of evangelical prophet and started to preach peace and plenty via the trade-route. It is, however, the first country in that part of Europe to subscribe.

Decided Obstacle Appears

The Czechoslovakian coup was to have been the entering wedge for similar agreements with other small nations in that region. Maybe it still will be, but a decided obstacle has appeared in the shape of Dictator Hitler's plan to take over control of Czechoslovakia and Austria, and extend Germany's influence in the Balkans.

The German economic policy of self-sufficiency and barter decidedly doesn't fit in with the American scheme of operations. The Hull trade pacts, for instance, are based on the favored nation principle.

Under those circumstances America cannot do business with countries which Hitler has in his pocket. Thus it would seem that the trade-balm in this particular Gilead would take a bit of finding.

So far as Czechoslovakia is concerned, the last thing the sturdy and self-reliant little republic would do at this moment would be to bow to any orders from Hitler. This sole remaining democracy in her part of Europe is living under the threat of losing her sovereignty to her powerful neighbor and she has signified her intention of fighting to the death for her rights.

Irvin Is Named On Committee For National School Session

Announcement of appointment of W. B. Irvin, superintendent of Lubbock city schools, as chairman of the transportation committee for Texas to arrange for participation in the 1939 convention of the National Association of School Administrators was made Wednesday.

In that capacity, he will be in charge of arrangements for at least one special train in which most of the Texas delegation will be taken to the national convention next year. Place of the convention is yet to be selected by the association executive committee, but San Francisco and Detroit were reported to be chief contenders for the event.

The notification followed the return of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin and A. C. Jackson, manager and tax assessor-collector of Lubbock independent school district, from the 1938 convention held last week in Atlantic City. They went by automobile to Dallas and were among 140 Texas educators aboard the special train which took them to Atlantic City. Total attendance there exceeded 15,000, they reported.

Irvin announced that he will make a detailed report concerning the convention at a special meeting of city teachers and any others who many wish to attend at Senior High school auditorium at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, March 19.

Work Is Progressing On Dickens Projects

Dirt is being moved and several bridges are nearing completion in road construction extending nine and one-tenth miles east from Dickens on Texas State highway 24, according to County Judge Marshall Formby of Dickens county.

"The total drainage contract amounts to $177,000," said Formby, "and several of the 26 bridges called for, five of them major structures, are nearing completion. Work will probably be completed in the early fall and we hope to get a hot top on the road by 1939."

According to the Dickens report it was necessary to build several bridges before dirt work could start. A number of Dickens county men are employed, which relieves somewhat the unemployment situation.

James Spencer and Sons have the dirt-moving contract and Oran Speer is building the bridges.

"Approximately 70 per cent of current collections have been made for 1937," said Formby. "All bond funds are in excellent shape. A large per cent of delinquent taxes have been paid during the past 12 months, and a good many warrants are being paid which had been issued against road and bridge funds."

Explaining further that other funds are in good shape, Formby said that the county is in the finest shape in several years.
