'Tapes' In Court's Hands

The SDN Column

The sudden re-activition of the Neighborhood Youth Corps last week is enabling the city to do some additional clean-up and improvement work it had hoped to accomplish prior to the billionth barrel of oil celebration this fall.

Like a lot of federal programs, the Youth Corps was here, it disappeared suddenly and then even more suddenly it re-appeared following the release of some "frozen" funds in Washington, D.C. Meanwhile, the City of Snyder had been participating in a Summer Youth Employment Program administered through the West Central Texas Council of Governments.

Now, with the Youth Corps back, crews from two sources have been available to work on summer maintenance and improvement projects. Both programs are designed to provide summer jobs for youths who need them.

The billionth barrel of oil celebration continues to attract attention and will even more so as the dates draw nearer. Inquiries have been received from several sources concerning exhibit space at the exhibition which will be held at the coliseum in connection with the celebration, according to Mickey Nunley, Chamber of Commerce Manager. Also requests for reservations for the closing banquet are being made at a steady clip, and no ticket sale promotion has even been launched.

Thirty-six states now have laws banning bald tires on automobiles, the Tire Industry Safety Council reports. Nevada put its ban on treadless tires into effect this month. They set the minimum tread depth at a sixteenth of an inch, like others.

You'll recall that a quick check with a penny can determine whether your tires are legal. Insert it into a tread groove upside down and if you can't see the top of Lincoln's head, your tires qualify, since it is about a sixteenth of an inch from the top of Lincoln's head to the edge of the cent piece. It is one of the few things a penny is good for during these days of inflation. — WACIL McNAIR.

Says Pair Aware Of Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman testified today that both former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover knew that the White House "plumbers" unit planned to conduct an independent investigation of the Pentagon Papers case.

That investigation resulted in the burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office Sept. 3, 1971. Ehrlichman denies he approved the break-in, but defended it as a legal exercise of President Nixon's power to protect national security.

Ehrlichman, who was Nixon's chief domestic adviser, said he had been reluctant to conduct a White House investigation, "but the President was really keeping the pressure on to get results."

Ehrlichman told the Senate Watergate committee that his own aide, Egil Krogh, told him the FBI was not being cooperative in investigating Ellsberg, who had admitted publicly that he copied the top-secret Pentagon Papers and gave them to newspapers.

In his third day of televised testimony, Ehrlichman said that Atty. Gen. Mitchell confirmed to him that Hoover was not investigating the case vigorously. He said Hoover had threatened to punish a top FBI staffer for requesting that agents interview Louis Marx, Ellsberg's father-in-law. Ehrlichman said he was told Marx was a friend of Hoover.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., challenged that point. He said he had personally interviewed Marx and the FBI man involved, and said Marx actually had been interviewed by the FBI before the "plumbers" was set up.

Ehrlichman said he hadn't been aware of that, but had relied on what Mitchell and Krogh told him. He said the idea behind sending out the plumbers investigators was to prod the FBI to step up its own efforts to investigate the affair.

"The attorney general and the director of the FBI knew that the White House was going to send out investigators," he said.

The investigators were E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy, both later convicted in the Watergate wiretapping.

Ehrlichman said Wednesday Hoover was inflexible and uncooperative and should have retired as FBI director early in the Nixon administration.

Nixon To Abide Ruling

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today rejected subpoenas from investigators demanding Watergate-related White House tape recordings. His action joined an historic constitutional battle with Congress and another battle with the special Watergate prosecutor.

Both the Senate Watergate committee and the special prosecutor, Archibald Cox, moved immediately to take Nixon to court in confrontations certain to climax before the Supreme Court. Nixon promised that he would abide by a Supreme Court decision and expressed confidence that such a decision would uphold his position.

The President did turn over to Cox two of the documents the prosecutor's subpoena had sought but refused to turn over any documents to the Watergate committee unless the committee would be specific about what it wanted.

The chairman, Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., said that was an impossible condition; how could the committee specify what it wanted when it didn't know what exists?

In briefing newsmen, Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said:

"The President is very confident of his constitutional position as outlined in the letters (to the committee and to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica). The President fully expects his position to be upheld in the courts.

"The President, just as in other matters, would abide by a definitive decision of the highest court."

Until today, Nixon had declined to say flatly that he would honor a Supreme Court decision.

Following announcement of Nixon's decision, Cox moved immediately to obtain a court order requiring Nixon to comply with the subpoena and Sirica set a 10 a.m., EDT, Aug. 7 deadline for the White House to respond.

Cox told newsmen he believed Nixon's position was quite wrong and said the legal clash involved "grave constitutional issues ripe for consideration."

The Senate committee's two top lawyers predicted that it would be early next week before the panel files its action in federal court. They said no action was likely today and probably not Friday.

Ervin said the committee wanted to be careful not to leave any technical grounds for dismissal of the case.

The seven senators of the Watergate committee voted to take Nixon to court as the day's nationally televised committee session opened.

At issue are Nixon's contention that executive privilege permits him to withhold the tapes and documents, and the committee's insistence that its charter from the Senate permits it to subpoena White House material relevant to the Watergate investigation.

The Scurry County Farm Bureau Queen's Committee is composed of Mrs. C.D. Gray Jr., Mrs. Morris Light and Mrs. Dwain Williams.

Master of Ceremonies will be Bob Etheredge, director of farm and ranch news for Channel 28 television in Lubbock.

US Trade Deficit Sharply Improved

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. foreign trade almost was in balance during June and there also was a sharp improvement during the second quarter of the year, the Commerce Department reported today.

The administration has said a favorable trade picture is vital to helping stabilize the U.S. dollar in world financial centers.

The trade deficit for June was $15.5 million, a big improvement over the May deficit of $157.9 million.

For the second quarter, the Census Bureau said its seasonally adjusted figures show a surplus for the April, May and June of $22.9 million of exports over imports, the first quarterly surplus since the first quarter of 1971.

But by another measurement, the so-called U.S. merchandise trade balance, the U.S. recorded a second quarter deficit of $300 million, which also was a substantial improvement over the first quarter deficit of $1 billion.

The trade figures reflect the value of all trade, while the merchandise trade balance is computed on a balance of payments basis and excludes military trade of defense agencies.

The Commerce Department said imports during June totaled $5,793.6 million and exports totaled $5,778.1 million. It was the second month in a row that the country set new records both for exports and for imports.

During May, exports totaled $5,602.8 million and imports $5,760.7 million. The United States had recorded a trade surplus in April of $196.3 million, the first monthly surplus since September of 1971.

The Commerce Department said the bulk of improvement in U.S. trade during the second quarter was with Japan.

It said Japan accounted for about $400 million of the overall $700 million in trade improvements in the quarter and said Japanese stockpiling purchases of U.S. products was a major factor.

It said the cumulative trade deficit for the first half of 1973 totaled about $2.5 billion at a seasonally adjusted annual rate compared with a deficit of $6.9 billion for all of 1972.

Revisers Discuss Possible Changes

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas' Constitutional Revision Commission starts today putting together their tentative decisions on what the state's next constitution should look like.

However, the four-day session of the blue ribbon 37-member group was expected to be almost entirely talk and argument, with final policy decisions saved until other meetings in August and September.

The commission must make its recommendations to the legislature by Nov. 1, about two months before the 181 legislators meet Jan. 8 as a constitutional convention.

The schedule calls for a briefing late today for editors and publishers of daily newspapers throughout Texas by the seven subcommittees that have worked separately on constitution changes. Gov. Dolph Briscoe will lead off the discussion.

For the next three days the various subcommittees, composed of five commission members each, will present their ideas to the full commission for discussion.

The scene for the meetings was the plush Lakeway resort hotel, 30 miles northwest of Austin on Lake Travis.

However, there was no indication from the 8:30 a.m. to 6:15 p.m. schedule that members would have much time for the scenery.

Numerous provisions were expected to cause controversial debate. In some instances there were indications the commission would make alternate recommendations leaving it to the 1974 convention to make a final decision.

One of the alternate recommendations involves legislative pay. If the tentative proposals are approved by the full commission the 1974 convention will decide if legislators should pass laws setting their own salaries or if a special salary commission should do the job. Meanwhile, Texas voters will decide Nov. 6 whether to change the old state Constitution with a provision that would set legislative pay at $15,000 annually, instead of $4,800, and call for annual legislative sessions.

Other tentative recommendations by subcommittees likely to spark controversy include:

—Let the legislature call itself into special sessions and not limit the length of any special or regular session. Currently the governor is the only one who can call a special session of 30 days. Regular sessions are limited to 140 days.

—Give the governor more power by naming him chief budgetary officer with power to reduce legislative appropriations for state boards and agencies.

—Let either the Senate or the House originate a tax bill. At present, only the House has this power.

Nixon, McGovern Meet At Dinner

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon met his 1972 Democratic opponent, Sen. George McGovern, at a formal dinner party Wednesday night, courtesy of the Shah of Iran.

The visiting Iranian leader and his empress invited the Senator and his wife, Eleanor, but McGovern showed up alone at a dinner honoring the President and Mrs. Nixon.

As Nixon and McGovern met in the receiving line, both smiled broadly and the Senator said, "You look good."

Laughing, Nixon responded that he was "glad to be up and around" after his hospitalization last week for viral pneumonia.

Cambodia Ruling Appeal Readied

NEW YORK (AP) — The federal government has filed a notice of appeal to overturn a court decision that calls the U.S. bombing of Cambodia unconstitutional and orders it halted.

Hours after the ruling was announced Wednesday, U.S. Atty. Robert A. Morse said appeal papers were being prepared and that he would seek a stay of the order that takes effect Friday. He said the case would be carried to the Supreme Court if necessary.

In Washington, the White House had no immediate comment.

The permanent injunction against bombing and other military activities in Cambodia was issued by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Orrin G. Judd in a suit brought by Rep Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y. and three Air Force fliers.

Judd said that because Congress had never voted its approval, the government lacked the necessary authority "to order military forces into combat in Cambodia or to release bombs over Cambodia."

Rep. Holtzman, a freshman Congresswoman, said in Washington that she was "extraordinarily pleased" by the decision.

"It reasserts the constitutional requirement that no American lives can be risked and that no American taxpayer's dollars can go to a military effort that has not been approved or authorized by Congress," she said.

The unprecedented decision came exactly three weeks before the Aug. 15 date by which President Nixon previously agreed to stop the bombing raids after both houses of Congress voted to cut off funds.

One effect of Judd's order, according to a lawyer for the American Civil Liberties Union, which represented the plaintiffs, might be the dismissal of cases against persons facing courts-martial for refusing to bomb Cambodia.

US Planes Bomb Near Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (AP) — American B52s and F111 fighter-bombers pounded areas west and south of Phnom Penh from which insurgent gunners fired rockets and cannon shells that killed 20 persons and wounded about 100 others on the outskirts of the Cambodian capital.

The American planes dropped their bombs within 10 miles of the city. They concentrated on the Tuol Leap area to the west and the Prek Thnot sector to the south, from which the rockets and 75mm shells were believed to have been fired Wednesday night.

The Cambodian military command said it thought the insurgents were trying to hit a radio station and the Pochengtong airport. However, the brunt of the attack hit a densely populated slum area on the western edge of the city about 2½ miles from the airfield.

One government official said he feared such shelling attacks on Phnom Penh might now become daily. It was the first such attack in more than a year.

Earlier field reports said 10,000 insurgent troops were moving toward the city along a 10-mile front and were only four miles away at some points. Government workers were being given small-arms training, and the U. S., Australian and British embassies advised their citizens to leave the city if they had no pressing business.

The curfew in Phnom Penh was extended two hours to cover the period from 9 p.m. to 5 a.m.

In Saigon, the South Vietnamese command accused the Communists of 98 cease-fire violations in South Vietnam in the 24 hours ending at dawn today. It was the highest number in one day since 104 were reported June 18, but government spokesmen said this didn't seem to be significant. They pointed out that the daily total fluctuated widely for no apparent reason.

Sharp fighting was reported 25 miles north of Saigon, in the central highlands near Kontum and along the northern coast about 100 miles south of Da Nang. The Saigon command said 45 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and seven government troops were killed, and 33 government men were wounded.

Weak Cool Front Hits Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A weak cool front brought cool, dry air to Northwest Texas today and showers fell near Midland and Paris.

The front stretched roughly along a line from south of El Paso to San Angelo to Texarkana at dawn.

Skies north and south of the front generally were clear with only scattered reports of high-level cloudiness.

Temperatures before dawn ranged 66 degrees at Dalhart and Amarillo up to 82 degrees at Galveston.

Heavy thunderstorms, hail, heavy winds and at least one tornado pounded Southeast Texas late Wednesday.

The funnel cloud was reported at Silsbee, north of Beaumont, but no injuries or damage was reported. Other severe storms lashed the Kountze-Evadale area, Sam Rayburn Reservoir and Toledo Bend Reservoir.

Scattered thunderstorms fell from near College Station, Houston and Victoria, and moved southeastward.

Wednesday's maximum temperatures ranged from 100 degrees at Mineral Wells to 84 at Amarillo.

Forecasters predicted scattered thundershowers and a few thunderstorms predicted in the unstable air south of the cool front.

Five Are Dead In Collision

WELLS, Tex. (AP) — Five persons, including four elderly sisters, were killed Wednesday in a two-car collision near this East Texas community.

Investigators identified the dead as Arnem Lefevere, 59, of Tyler; Ruby Culbertson, 61 and Blanche Culbertson, 66, both of Lufkin; Mary E. Culbertson, 69, and Lillian Culbertson, 63, both of Freeport.

The crash occurred on Texas 69 some three miles north of here.

Burglary, Theft Probed By Police

Burglars stole several rings and watches, a camera and a pair of binoculars from the Henry Tolleson residence, 3115 Avenue T, Tuesday night, according to a City Police report. The loss was placed at $855.

Police also are investigating the theft of a case of cigarettes from Merchants Fast Motor Lines, 2101 Avenue T. The theft occurred between 11 p.m. July 18 and 2:15 p.m. July 24. The loss was set at $216.

Earl Butz Fears Panicky Buying

DALLAS (AP) — Panicky grocery buying is more dangerous to the current national food situation that the destruction by food processors of poultry and other commodities, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said here Wednesday night.

"The producers responded only as any reasonable people would under the circumstances," Butz said at a news conference prior to his remarks to the 38th annual convention of the National Association of Counties.

He was referring to the killing of thousands of young chickens by producers who said it would cost more to raise the chicks than they could get for selling them.

"The thing I fear more ... is panicky buying by housewives," Butz said. "Some black markets already are developing."

He said food prices, exempted last week from the prize freeze, will continue to go up until the hoped-for increase in crop production begins to come in.

"But the big rise is behind us," Butz said. "I think the American people got the message that they don't get more by paying less."

Phase III, which replaced rigid price standards with voluntary guidelines, ended up "causing the pressures" that resulted in the June 13 announcement of a 60-day price freeze and the Phase IV program unveiled last week, Butz said.

In his remarks before the convention, Butz called Phase IV "an historic step. Phase IV moves us away from government paying God in the economy," he said. "It recognizes there is no amount of wisdom in Washington sufficient to regulate the economy as the recent price ceilings attempted to do."

Butz's speech was the climax of the three-day NACO convention which drew representatives from many of the organization's 1,133 member counties.

Earlier, urban counties prevailed in carrying a resolution that would break up the long-protected Federal Highway Trust Fund.

Service For Crash Victim

Funeral service was set for 3 p.m. today at the Monterey Church of Christ in Lubbock for Rhonda Sue Burney, 19 who was killed early Wednesday in a one-car mishap nine miles northeast of Snyder on U.S. Highway 84.

Nat Cooper, minister of the church, was to officiate. He was to be assisted by the Rev. Morris Sheats. Burial was to be in Resthaven Memorial Park under direction of Sanders Funeral Home.

Surviving are the parents, Mrs. Wayne DeVaney and Joe Rue Burney, both of Lubbock; two sisters, Joyce LaRue and Marcie Joe of Lubbock; a stepbrother, Dennis Mack DeVaney of Lubbock, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burney of Portales, N.M., and C.B. Leard of Cisco.

Skylabers Conclude Training

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Their training completed, Skylab 2's astronauts fly from Texas to Cape Kennedy today to make final preparations for their launch Saturday on a marathon 59-day space mission.

Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma planned a midday flight in T38 jets from the Johnson Space Center near Houston.

They concluded 18 months of training for man's longest space journey with a daylong session on Wednesday in a spaceship simulator at the Johnson center.

They rehearsed the launching and the 8½ hours of rendezvous maneuvers they must execute to catch up with the orbiting laboratory Saturday afternoon. They also practiced abort procedures in case of trouble with the Saturn 1B booster rocket during its 10 minutes of powered flight.

The control center began the final phase of the countdown Wednesday night, aiming for a liftoff of the Saturn 1B at 7:11 a.m. EDT Saturday.

Crews will start pumping tons of fuel aboard the 22-story rocket late today.

The wives and children of the three astronauts flew here from Houston Wednesday. They'll watch the launching and then return to Texas.

Bean, who walked on the moon during the Apollo 12 flight in 1969, and space rookies Garriott and Lousma hope to more than double the 28-day space endurance record set last month by the Skylab 1 crew aboard the same laboratory.

Mission control officials reported the Skylab station, orbiting 270 miles high, is in very good shape. They saw no barrier to a 59-day mission.

But because of the major extension of the flight past 28 days, the medical conditions of the astronauts will be observed closely during the mission.

During their lengthy stay in space, the astronauts will continue the medical, solar astronomy, earth resources and other experiments started by Skylab 1.

Woman Unhurt In One-Car Mishap

Deniece Marie Conrad, 20, Arlington, escaped serious injury when her 1967 Model Volkswagen overturned two and a half times off U.S. 84 two miles southeast of Snyder at 8:10 a.m. today.

She was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder Ambulance Service and later released. She only had a few minor scratches.

Investigating Highway Patrolmen said she was traveling southeast and took her eyes off the road to look at a map. The car went off the highway to the left. She was wearing a seat belt, according to patrolmen, who said there was heavy damage to the car.

US Casts Fifth UN Veto Today

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States cast its fifth veto in U.N. history today to kill a Security Council resolution strongly deploring Israel's failure to withdraw from territory won in the 1967 war.

The vote was 13 to 1 in favor of the eight-power resolution that also expressed "serious concern at Israel's lack of cooperation with Gunnar V. Jarring of Sweden, the U.N. secretary-general's special representative on the Middle East."

A negative vote by one of the five permanent members of the 15-council nullifies a resolution approved by a majority of nine or more. China did not vote, saying it would not participate.

The veto was Ambassador John A. Scali's third since he took over as head of the U.S. mission last February. It climaxed the council's first comprehensive debate on the Middle East since the 1967 war.

The debate, held at the request of Egypt, was spread over seven weeks with a break for the meeting between President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The resolution was introduced Wednesday by the eight nonaligned countries on the council — Yugoslavia, India, Indonesia, Panama, Peru, Guinea, Kenya and Sudan — acting as a group for the first time.

The resolution asks Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, who is planning a visit to Egypt, Israel and Jordan in late August, and Gunnar V. Jarring, his special representative for the Middle East, to resume efforts for a Middle East solution.

Scali did not object to that. But he refused to accept parts of the resolution (1) deploring Israel's continuing occupation of the territories it seized in the 1967 war, (2) calling for "the rights and legitimate aspirations of the Palestinians" to be an element in any settlement and (3) supporting a 1971 memorandum from Jarring calling for an Israeli pledge to withdraw from all occupied territory.

County Court Pleas Heard

Several pleas were entered in county court this morning.

Randy Davis Hays pleaded innocent to a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was arrested July 21 by City Police. A jury trial was set for Sept. 11.

Freddy Baker pleaded guilty to giving a check with insufficient funds. The offense occurred May 7. He received a $10 fine plus court costs and a 30-day jail term.

Jimmy Lee Brandon pleaded guilty to carrying a prohibited weapon. He received a $100 fine plus court costs. He was arrested July 20 by City Police.

Donald R. Brown pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. He received a $100 fine plus court costs and a 30-day jail term that was probated for six months. He was arrested July 21 by City Police.

David Lee Sellars pleaded guilty to making alcohol available to a minor. He received a $100 fine plus court costs. He was arrested by City Police.

Yesterday, two pleas were entered in county court. Domingo Palacio Tijerina and John Leamuel Seaton, Jr. both pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. Each received a $100 fine plus court costs and a 30-day jail term that was probated for six months. Both were arrested Tuesday by City Police.

Weather Delays French Test

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — The frigate Otago reported today that weather conditions around the Mururoa Atoll still were not suitable for the second explosion in France's 1973 nuclear test series.

The Otago, sent to the test area to call attention to New Zealand's opposition to the radioactive contamination resulting from the French tests, was replaced today by another frigate, the Canterbury.

Navy headquarters said the Canterbury was patroling just outside the 12-mile limit around tha toll 800 miles south of Tahiti, awaiting the second blast.

The test program started Saturday with a small atomic blast, believed to be a test of the atomic trigger for a hydrogen bomb.

Official sources in Paris reported Wednesday that the test series would include explosion of a one-megaton H-bomb, 50 times more powerful that the bomb the United States dropped on Hiroshima.

CONTINUING EDUCATION—Mrs. Nola Fenter, left, and Mrs. Gail Anderson have taken leaves of absence from Cogdell Memorial Hospital for an advanced study program at Lubbock's Methodist Hospital School of Nursing.

School Days Begin Again

It's school time again for two Snyder women. Mrs. Gail Anderson and Mrs. Nola Fenter, both licensed vocational nurses, have begun advanced training at Lubbock's Methodist Hospital School of Nursing.

They are scheduled to graduate as registered nurses in June, 1974.

Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Fenter are among 10 nurses chosen for the advanced training from a group of 24 applicants. This is the third class to enter the program, and officials of the school of nursing said previous graduates had "excellent passing records in the state board examinations."

Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Fenter attend classes in Lubbock five days each week. Both are on leave of absence from Cogdell Memorial Hospital, and plan to return to work there after graduation.

The Hospital Auxiliary voted to provide financial assistance through its scholarship fund to help the two nurses further their education.

Duo Win Title

DOUGLASVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Bryant Kovacs and Vicki Berry, both of Detroit, won the intermediate dance title Sunday as the U.S. Amateur Roller Skating Association opened its national championships at the C C Skate Ranch.

Kovacs and Miss Berry edged David Brown and Frank Monk of Cleveland for the top spot.

Tacky Dance To Be Held

The Sparkle City Squares are having a Tacky dance at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Scurry County Coliseum.

The callers will be Benita Smith and Pat Miller.

Petitions Court To End Marriage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rep. John H. Rousselot has petitioned Superior Court here to end his 22-year marriage. The California Republican cited "irreconciliable differences."

Rousseot, 46, and his wife Marilyn, 46, have three children: Craig, 18; Robin, 17, and Wendy, 15.

According to the petition filed Wednesday, the Rousselots were married in Pittsfield, Mass., on July 29, 1950, and now live in San Marino, Calif. Mrs. Rousselot is a teacher.

NAP TIME—Miss Laurie Donelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mal Donelson of 2304 Forty-third Place, is putting her baby to bed for an afternoon nap. This particular bed, however, is no ordinary piece of furniture. It is an artifact of the Snyder County Museum and will be on display in the new building in January. This hand carved baby bed was loaned to the museum by Mr. and Mrs. J.V. January of Nigeria, former residents of Snyder.

Returns To Greek Theatre

NEW YORK (AP) — After an absence of nearly a decade, the New York City Ballet will return to Los Angeles Aug. 13 for a two-week engagement at the Greek Theater.

From 1953-64, the company danced eight summer engagements at the Greek Theater.

After the company's spring season in New York ended July 1, it opened July 3 its annual month-long engagement at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center, Saratoga Springs, N.Y. On Aug. 28 the ballet will open a week of performances at the Wolf Trap Farm Park, Vienna, Va., its second appearance there.

Women

Do It Yourself, Together

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

That age old advice to brides — "if you can read, you can cook" — might be updated to, "and you can also do it yourself."

Fortunately more new books are telling how to build, mend, saw, putty, measure and mortar in the easiest manner. Even if you can get a workman, you can't always afford this fee, so the advice is needed.

Obviously intended for men — the publisher offers a 48-page household emergency booklet dividend for the homemaker — one new do-it-yourself manual should have as much appeal for women, who might even take on some of the jobs described in the book. More than 2,000 color and black and white photographs and sketches, schematic charts and graphs make it easy to follow the most involved task.

The lady of the house may not want to undertake installation of an electric garage door opener or build a new staircase, even with the well-defined plans and illustrations offered in the book. But chances are she could install her own gutters and downspouts with the simple pictorial directions offered and a good ladder. She might even get around to patching the blacktop driveway.

Power tools need not be a fearsome mystery. This book shows how to use the various saws, planes, sanders and routers. From this knowledge a woman might consider building a wall-to-wall closet as outlined in the book. Women, who are so successful with sewing patterns, often resist big home jobs that involve cutting wood because of the figuring involved. In the book, building projects include lists of parts with dimensions and suggestions for materials in step-by-step illustrations.

Such projects as the casting and laying of concrete slabs outdoors, repairing a chimney or building a brick barbecue unit, outdoor furniture or a tree house might be left to the man of the house. Ditto the building of new kitchen cabinets and maybe a dropleaf table with laminated top.

But what is to prevent an energetic woman from laying a ceramic tile floor after she reads the directions? Nothing, maybe, but time and materials.

If it is a house addition the family needs, she might be the one to wade through advice given on whether the man wants to be his own contractor, when to call the architect and how to finance the whole thing. It's all included in this complete Do-It-Yourself Manual (Reader's Digest.)

An instructive chapter on joints, which includes mortise and tenon, and four ways to miter, should intrigue any woman, even if she uses the knowledge only to contrive picture frames. She can also learn how to upholster furniture or repair and care for fabric. There are directions for covering walls with paper or other materials. Refinishing furniture also is explained.

Learning about heating systems and their maintenance may be valuable information. And there is a good deal about wiring codes, safer electric service and an electric repair guide with illustrations of switches, outlets, and fixtures. Wattage readings on various appliances are given. And one can learn, too, how door chimes work.

The man of the house can bone up on waterproofing the basement walls, installing plumbing pipes and repairing everything from damaged shingles and storm doors to shower doors and rotted window sills. Knowing how to install one's own door lock should save money too.

If a man wants to work outdoors, he can learn to make house repairs to stucco or shingles and how to lay a brick walk. If she decides to build a garden frame, he might even get around to installing the heat for it as shown in the book — a nice dual project.

In fact there are a great many projects that might be labeled hers, his and theirs. To start, a woman might build a workbench for a reluctant do-it-yourselfer. She can do it with some 2-by-4s and ¼-inch plywood. It might be the thing that gets him into the do-it-yourself act.

She Trains To Earn Engineer's Cap

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Gentlemen! Start your model railroad engines. Dream about sitting in the cabs of powerful locomotives, pushing and pulling multiton cars surrounded by the magic noises.

Then eat your hearts out.

There's a wisp of a woman — a girl really — in the Santa Fe Railway yards in Albuquerque who's doing it for real. She's alone in the cab, her hands on the throttle of a 20-ton switch engine, doing what yard hostlers do with switch engines. The pretty, dark-haired hostler's face shows a wide smile when she talks about her place in a tough man's world.

"I like it and they seem to be taking it pretty good. I'm glad. They give me my share of work," says Christene Gonzales, 20, who is a hostler in the roundhouse yard and on her way to earning an engineer's cap within the year.

She's to be in the yards for another five months, after which she will go through several weeks of simulator training school before receiving engineer assignments.

Will she make it?

"I expect to be an engineer before too long," Christene says.

She already appears to be at home in the cab of the switch engines, shifting her 130 pounds on a 5 foot 7, 36-27-36 frame into the driver's seat as easily as the women in the Sante Fe business offices find their places at their desks. Her long hair is tied in a knot for safety purposes. She works in blue jeans.

The men in the yard smile and wave friendly greetings when they notice the attention "Chris" gets from outsiders.

"She was carefully screened," a Santa Fe spokesman said. "She's the first woman engineer trainee in the Santa Fe System. I've been told there's a woman running an electroliner or something back East but I don't know of any others."

Women's lib had little to do with her decision, Chris says, although the challenge of becoming a woman railroad engineer was part of the motivations.

"I decided I wanted a railroad job. I didn't think I could be a brakeman...so...An engineer's pay is very good and it's better than sitting behind a desk.

"If I thought I could have stayed in school, I had thoughts about becoming a veterinarian. I come from a railroad family and I always thought about railroading but I never really dreamed about becoming an engineer until a couple of months ago."

Her railroading family includes her brother Frank A. Gonzales, of El Paso, Tex., who is a conductor on the Southern Pacific run between El Paso and Lordsburg. Her mother, Betty Jo, is secretary to Santa Fe trainmaster William Orr in El Paso. Her mother's father was a conductor on the Southern Pacific until he retired a couple of years ago. Her father's mother was one of the Santa Fe's famed Harvey Girls.

Her father's father was a pullman conductor, and an uncle is a conductor on the Santa Fe run between Belen and Winslow, Ariz.

Miss Gonzales is an only daughter, with a younger brother and an older brother, neither of whom indicates any plans of becoming a railroader.

"My mother was excited about it. My dad was kind of shocked. Mr. Orr, my mother's boss, had confidence in me," Chris says.

She was graduated from the Loretto Academy high school in El Paso, and spent one semester each at Houston, Tex., Community College and the University of Texas at El Paso.

She started railroading early this month, one of three persons accepted for recent openings in this area of the Santa Fe system.

"I don't know how many applicants there were. They put me in a train from El Paso to Belen as a fireman," Chris explains.

After a couple of introductory runs Chris was assigned to the Albuquerque yards for the hostler work and training.

What's the reaction from her girlfriends and the boy in El Paso she's been dating?

"They think it's fantastic."

PEACH PRESERVES

9 cups sliced peeled medium-ripe fresh peaches
5 peach pits ½ cup orange juice
1 pound plus 1 cup packed light brown sugar (3¼ cups)
4 cups granulated sugar
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
2 teaspoons ginger

Turn peaches, pits and orange juice into a large kettle. Cover and cook over low heat for 10 minutes. Add sugars, orange rind and ginger. Stirring constantly, bring slowly to a boil. Cook over moderate heat, stirring often, until syrup thickens and peaches are translucent. Remove from heat. Ladle at once into wide-mouth jars. Fill to within ⅛ inch of top; add caps and screw bands on evenly and tightly. Invert for a few seconds and stand jars upright to cool. Makes eight 8-ounce jars.

People Are Lonely Sometimes

ALL YOU LONELY PEOPLE ALL YOU LOVELY PEOPLE. By John Killinger. Word Books, Waco, Tex. 153 pages. $4.95.

John Killinger takes as his theme that all persons are lonely sometimes. And he tells in this book of a number of people formed into a "caring group" which sought to relieve loneliness.

The group met in Nashville, and Killinger and his wife found a great deal in it to help them.

Some others never seemed to find strength from the individuals present to cope with their problems.

Eventually the group died as members went on to other things.

It is essentially a life story of such sessions.

TO EARN GOP CREDENTIALS

Connally Expected To Hit Hustings This Fall

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — John B. Connally is expected to hit the hustings to earn his credentials as a Republican this fall, his political popularity apparently undimmed by a short and frustrating stint as presidential adviser.

He's been getting 10 to 60 requests to speak a week and he promises to start accepting at least some of them, a Texas GOP official said.

Connally's friends are delighted he's out of what they considered an unwanted job as a public, rather than private, adviser to President Nixon.

"He's got the best of two worlds now—loyalty to the President and distance from him," said one confidant.

When Connally switched from the Democratic to the Republican party last spring, his plan was to keep out of the limelight until fall, when he would start making political appearances.

He accepted a part-time, unpaid job as an adviser to Nixon. Connally reportedly blames White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler for fouling up this arrangement by making a public announcement of it.

Ultimately, according to his friends, he was frozen out of intimate access to Nixon after he told the President bluntly he ought to speak out on Watergate and make more appearances around the country.

The brief White House notice about Connally's resignation Wednesday said nothing about differences between the Texan and Nixon, noting only that he was leaving to take a postponed round-the-world trip.

And Connally wasn't talking, having had his say a month ago when, in a White House news conference, he acknowledged he had given all the advice he had.

"He came out with a net plus from this," one friend said.

Nixon and Connally apparently terminated their official relationship still close personal friends and, as GOP Chairman George Bush said Wednesday, "I think people in the GOP respect Connally for his standing by the President."

In a recent Harris poll, Connally ranked only behind Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., as a strong challenger to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the leading Democratic presidential candidate for the 1976 elections.

Connally was well ahead of California Gov. Ronald Reagan, vice President Spiro T. Agnew and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in the poll.

His friends are convinced he will seek the nomination, with the fall speech-making the first effort toward it.

They also are urging him to set up an informal campaign organization, which he has refused to do.

This doctor is too busy to care for own family

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My mother used to say, "The shoemaker's children always go barefoot." Now I know what she meant.

My husband is a doctor, but he is too busy to take care of his own family. I've begged him to spend a little time with our son so they can build a good father-son relationship, but he's too busy. If it's not his patients, it's hospital meetings, medical conventions or the American Medical Association.

I have complained of feeling nervous and tired for over a year now, but do I get any comfort from my husband? Not on your life. He tells me to take two aspirin and get some rest. [How can I "rest" when I have to be both mother and father to three children?] Meanwhile, he spends hours listening to other women's complaints, and they tell me how "lucky" I am to be married to such a wonderful, sympathetic, understanding man!

I have considered calling his office and scheduling an appointment with him under an assumed name just so I can talk to him for half an hour. Better yet, print this, it might help.

He reads "Dear Abby" every day, but he never has time for me. THE DOCTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I hope your husband has time for ME today, or we're both out of luck.

DEAR ABBY: After our child started pre-kindergarten, his teacher said Dickie was a terrible discipline problem—he ignored her when she spoke to him, talked while the other children were talking, and she even suspected him of being retarded, or emotionally disturbed.

We took Dickie to a pediatrician who recommended that we have his hearing tested. And would you believe this child had a serious hearing problem! We never knew it until then.

We have now learned that the earlier parents are aware of a child's hearing loss, the better his chances are of responding to treatment, and-or learning to cope with his disability.

Abby, please let other parents know of our experience. I am sorry we didn't find out sooner. DICKIE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I'm glad you wrote. Hearing loss is THE most common physical disability in the United States. For a free booklet, write to HEARING ALERT, WASHINGTON, D. C. 20007; it alerts parents to the possibility of a hearing loss in young children, and offers guidelines including what to look for, what to expect, and where to go for help.

DEAR ABBY: Your column about those rude people who sit in a restaurant, reading while others are waiting for a table was mailed to me—anonymously.

Yes, I read in restaurants while dining alone. What else is there to do while I wait to order? Or wait to be served? Or wait for my check?

I suppose I could ogle the other diners, but that's rude. Or I could watch the waitresses. But that's rude, too. The other alternative is to stare into empty space, which is a waste of time. So I read. But I never tie up a table any longer than is necessary. I think anonymous letters are cowardly, so I'm signing my name. LIKES TO READ

DEAR LIKES: I agree, anonymous letters ARE cowardly, but there are obviously cowards aplenty because many others wrote to say they had also received that column in the mail, anonymously. Now, all you lone readerdiners will have the last word for dessert. And as long as you don't tie up a table while others are waiting, bon apetite!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WORRIED ALL THE TIME IN VICTORIA, TEX.": If you are never sure where he was last night, have absolutely nothing to do with him tonight—or any other night!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

School Districts Need Aid

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Chairman Dan Kubiak of the House Education Committee said Wednesday he fears many Texas school districts will go bankrupt by the September 1974 school year if the state does not boost its aid.

He said he had found in visits with about 300 school districts that many are having to raise their taxes by 10 to 40 per cent.

"If the state continues to study and not act, I am afraid that many districts will be bankrupt by the September 1974 school year. Some school districts will have difficulty opening their doors this coming school year," Kubiak said.

Kubiak repeatedly has urged Gov. Dolph Briscoe to call a special legislative session to change the system for allocating state aid to local districts. Such aid now averages 80 per cent of the total cost of basic educational programs.

Briscoe has insisted on a two-year study of taxable property values throughout the state before the legislature attempts to change the school finance system.

Kubiak said there were a number of reasons why school district expenditures were on the increase. Included were reduced federal funding, new tax exemptions for persons over 65, higher transportation and maintenance costs due to the energy crisis, an expected increase in the minimum wage, a statewide teacher pay raise of 10 per cent that will take effect this school year and new legislation requiring school districts to buy liability insurance.

"Many school districts have reached the maximum tax rate allowable under the laws, and many school districts have not been able to raise taxes enough to meet the rising costs. Therefore, I think it is imperative that the state play a larger role in financing public school education," Kubiak said in a statement.

TO KEEP WILLIE ALIVE
Master Clown Performs At 74

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I need to keep Willie alive," said the great clown Emmett Kelly, whose wistful, tattered character brought laughter to nearly two generations of children of all ages.

At 74, Kelly admits his craggy face is still most at home beneath greasepaint. But even without makeup, the master clown cannot help but peer out of the sad eyes of Weary Willie, the bulb-nosed tramp.

He has been gone from the circus sawdust for 18 years. He now spends winters at his Sarasota, Fla., home and summers performing at a Lake Tahoe casino.

Last year, Kelly performed in five scenes in the Boston Opera Co.'s "Bartered Brides" costumed as Weary Willie.

"It was an accomplishment for me," Kelly said in an interview Wednesday. "I never dreamed that I could ever be in an opera because I don't sing and I don't talk .... It was a big challenge to me."

Kelly said he created his Weary Willie character originally as a pen-and-ink cartoon which he briefly considered doing for the newspapers. But he said he decided to become Weary Willie instead. He joined the Howes-Great London Circus. Kelly decided to "feel myself, act it, never try to sing, never do acrobatics, and never talk. Anything aggressive I stayed away from, and it took about 10 or 15 years for it to catch on."

Kelly found he could strike some mysterious chord in audiences by shuffling around in the spotlight in his tattered clothes and size 20 shoes.

"The thing I just like to do is look real downtrodden," he said. "I was sad and worried. I looked out on the audience and admire their nice clothes, the way they were well-dressed."

Kelly said he would then, perhaps, extend a hand out of a ripped, threadbare sleeve and finger someone's nice shirt or jacket, "then I'd look down at my own clothes and seem to make a comparison.... This Willie, he has got nothing."

Kelly has a middle-aged son, Emmett Kelly Jr., who performs as a clown and uses the same Weary Willie makeup and garb.

Kelly said he'll keep going as long as his health permits—"I need to keep Willie alive."

White House Fund Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special $1.5 million White House fund was eliminated by the House Appropriations Committee Wednesday, after the committee questioned the uses to which the money was put.

The Special Projects fund has long been included in the White House budget for use at the discretion of the President. It is normally funded at $1.5 million.

However, the committee deleted the entire sum from the fiscal 1974 budget after the White House refused to give detailed information on how the money was spent and who got it.

Committee members had asked specifically whether convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt was being paid out of the fund at the time of the Watergate break-in.

Army Worms Damaging Meadows

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Fall army worms have been reported damaging hay meadows in some areas of Texas, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service announced here Tuesday.

The Service said the army worms are normally most active in late summer and fall, but favorable moisture and temperature have allowed populations to build up a month early.

Battalion In 'Black Cat' Division Plans Reunion

DALLAS — The 135th Armored Ordnance Maintenance Battalion Association, WW II, of the 13th "Black Cat" Armored Division is looking for 400 "AWOLs."

The search has been on for more than three years for the 400 missing men. The objective, to find them and invite them to the association's third reunion, Labor Day weekend in Dallas.

The World War II unit served in Germany from January to June, 1945, finishing up the war in Lt. Gen. George Patton's Third Army. The division was preparing to ship to the Pacific when Japan surrendered.

Today the former members of the 135th are scattered from Alaska to Puerto Rico, and finding them is not an easy chore.

Seven hundred of the 1,200 in the battalion have been located and contacted about the reunion.

One hundred have been located but will not be going to Dallas. They survived the drive through the Ruhr Valley and the Danube Basin only to meet death as civilians before they reached retirement.

The remaining 400 are some of the most wanted men in America today, at least in the eyes of Leland H. Cooley, Sr., and D. Wayne Evans of Dallas.

Beginning with yellowed copies of the discharge orders and the unit's history, put together at the war's end, the former first sergeant of the headquarters company and Evans of "A" Company have searched the county seats and great cities of the land for the missing men.

They have pleaded with understanding long distance information operators and hassled with the U.S. Postal Service, trying to locate the men so they can contact the reunion committee at P.O. Box 18536, Dallas, Texas 75218.

Many of the old addresses have changed, and more than one veteran's wife has answered a long distance dall, "What's this about? My husband doesn't know anyone in Dallas."

The best clue to finding the men has been the origin of the unit.

Sponsored by a national car dealers association, the 135th originally was made up of volunteers from Texas and Oklahoma. Most of the officers were owners and managers of dealerships in the two states, and many of the noncommissioned officers were auto mechanics. Many of them are still in the same business today.

The real problem has been finding the replacements who joined the unit after it was sent to Camp Perry, Ohio; Camp Beale, Calif., and back to Texas for training before crossing the Atlantic.

The later "Black Cats" came from everywhere, from California to Appalachia, and from all walks of life to "sharpen their claws in California and Texas then scratch hell out of the Nazis," as the unit history recalls.

And that they did.

They were awarded the Meritorious Unit Citation by Gen. Patton for keeping 90 per cent of their vehicles in action at all times.

Legislators Hit UT Fee Hikes

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Two local legislators accused University of Texas regents Wednesday of misleading them by failing to reveal plans to raise students fees while the legislature was in session.

Four days after the session ended, regents took advantage of a new law and raised the building use fee from $41 to $97.50 per semester for students taking the usual 15-hour class load.

The bill included a provision for prorating student fees for part-time students.

Reps. Larry Bales and Sarah Weddington, Austin Democrats, were joined at a news conference by Rep-elect Ronald Earle.

"The Travis County delegation cooperated closely with university officials on several matters, including fiscal concerns. Never was any mention made of the proposal to drastically increase the cost of attending the University of Texas," their joint statement said.

They also criticized plans to spend $279,000 to renovate the West Mall of the Austin campus, including construction of a new fountain and raised planters for azalea bushes.

Bales said he questioned the political wisdom of the West Mall renovation, which will be paid for out of income to the permanent university fund.

He explained that the Texas constitutional convention next year will face a decision whether to keep the fund in the constitution and whether to continue reserving it only for UT and the Texas A&M system.

"When I see examples like this (the renovation program), I am inclined to remove the fund completely from the constitution and make it subject to the appropriations process in the House of Representatives," Bales said.

He also said he intended to sponsor a bill in the 1973 session limiting state university regents' authority to set building use fees. "This is a blanket delegation of authority which I don't think the legislature intended," he said.

Ms. Weddington said that if lawmakers had known of the regents' plans to raise the building use fee, which will be used to pay for current and future construction, they would have amended the fees bill to impose a limitation.

"That increase was not even hinted to during the last session of the legislature," she said.

Lamb Production Declining Steadily

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says lamb production this year will be about 11.4 million head, down nine per cent from 1972 output of 12.5 million.

Lamb production has been declining steadily for many years, along with wool output. The report said 1973 wool production would total about 144 million pounds on an uncleaned basis, also down nine per cent from last year.

Restrictive Monetary Policy Enrages Wright

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Interest rates continue to rise, and those who believe this is the way to kill off an inflationary boom and restore stability continue to forecast and advocate even higher rates.

And this, mildly stated, enrages John Winthrop Wright, portfolio manager and investor adviser to large institutions, including bank trust departments.

It is, he maintains, "a disgraceful substitute for national fiscal responsibility and international monetary stability." And then, sounding like an old-fashioned Populist, he restates his position so that anyone can understand.

"It is, in fact," he argues, "nothing less than a form of unregulated taxation of the have nots by the haves, without public benefit of any kind." It prevents the growth of new wealth; it thwarts initiative, he says.

Monetarists wouldn't exactly use those words, but they do maintain that a restrictive monetary policy is an antidote for inflation because it reduces the amount of money available to fuel demand for goods and services, and for investment.

But to Wright, that kind of thinking is unsophisticated, sort of like saying that everything is either stop-go, right-wrong, off-on, forward-backward, black-white

"Excessive monetary expansion can cause inflation," he concedes, "but excessive monetary restriction does not cure it."

Instead, "it increases inflation by raising costs and reducing production until, finally, declining production causes recession and rising unemployment kills consumer demand, reduces tax revenues, and renews the inflation budget deficits which began the awful cycle in the first place."

And yet, he laments, this is what some leaders advocate. Without mentioning names in his latest commentary sent to banks and other investors, he was especially critical of remarks by Andrew Brimmer, a Federal Reserve Board member.

Speaking this week before a meeting of the Michigan Savings and Loan League, Brimmer said restraint must be continued as long as it is required, although he didn't specify what that time period might be.

But to Wright, a critical distinction must be made between restraint and destruction, and in his view Brimmer and others are now advocating such a harsh monetary policy that considerable economic destruction is bound to ensue.

Why not, he submits, restrain demand by reducing government expenditures and indirectly by temporarily raising tax withholdings and thereby reducing consumer spending?

This, you may discern, is one of the basic disputes between fiscalists and monetarists. Fiscalists believe in government taxing and spending powers; monetarists tend to think in terms of the amount of money in circulation.

Corn Crop Is Making Strides

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said Tuesday in its weekly weather bulletin that the corn crop is making rapid strides in most of the Corn Belt although development generally is behind last year.

By last weekend, the report said, corn in Iowa was 40 per cent in the silked stage, compared with 44 per cent last year. The Missouri crop, however, was only 25 per cent silked compared with 59 per cent in 1972.

The crop in the South was generally one to two weeks behind normal development. Silking ranged from 40 per cent in Tennessee to 91 per cent in South Carolina, the report said.

Photonovel Popular In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Photonovels — a hybrid of comic books and movies — are rapidly becoming a multimillion-dollar industry in Brazil, Latin America's biggest country.

Fotonovelas, as the Brazilians call them, are photographed soap operas with comic book-style dialogue superimposed on each frame. They are published here in magazines with names such as Seventh Heaven, Caprice, Tenderness and Girl Friend. Their stock theme is that True Love is immutable, eternal and capable of overcoming all obstacles.

Brazil got the idea of photonovels from Italy, where they became popular after World War II. Most Brazilian photonovels still use imported Italian photographs and stories. The names are Brazilianized, and the dialogue is translated into Portuguese, this country's national language.

Home-grown photonovels, written by Brazilians and starring Brazilian actors, are winning an increasing slice of the market, however.

Brazilian censorship laws require the words "Not Advisable for Minors under Sixteen" to be written on the covers of most photonovels. But publishers say at least 30 per cent their readers are girls between 12 and 16.

Editora Bloch, a major Brazilian publishing company, recently started putting photonovels in its TV and movie magazines. Bloch says it now sells a total of 1 million magazines containing photonovels a month.

An average-length photonovel of 150 pictures can be filmed in one day. In the battle to build an all-Brazilian photonovel industry, publishers here are going after top movie and TV stars, offering $350 a day.

Brazilian actors and actresses who appear in photonovels don't hesitate to admit that they like the pay. But they also say the magazine work provides a fun break from the grind of a TV serial or serious theatrical acting.

"It doesn't take any time or require preparation," said Dina Sfat, one of Brazil's most famous TV soap opera heroines and now also a star of photonovels.

Miss Sfat's husband, equally famous actor Paulo Jose, also does photonovels. But he doesn't think they're so great. "My eyes are glassy and the poses look wooden," he snorted, noting it's difficult and frustrating to have to freeze for the photonovel pictures.

A survey showed that girls in Brazil from all economic and social levels read photonovels in their teens. But only women from the working and lower-middle classes keep reading them as adults.

People with little education have no trouble understanding photonovels. The words and ideas are extremely simple.

Junior Editors' Quiz on THE BLACK SEA

QUESTION: How did the Black Sea get its name?

ANSWER: The Black Sea is a large body of water situated between southeast Europe and Asia Minor. The present name of Black Sea comes from its dark appearance in the winter when it is shrouded by heavy fog. The Black Sea is an inland sea with no tide and is bounded by the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Rumania and Turkey. It is connected with the Mediterranean Sea by the Bosphorus Strait, the Sea of Marmara and the Dardanelles Strait. It was originally called Pontus Euxinus or Friendly Sea by the ancient Romans.

The Black Sea is 750 miles long and 380 miles wide. It covers an area of about 170,000 square miles and at some points it reaches a depth of 7,360 feet. It is not as salty as the Mediterranean because it receives fresh water from the Danube, Dnieper and Don Rivers. There is no animal or plant life below a depth of 300 feet because the deeper and especially the bottom waters are devoid of oxygen. This condition of stagnant bottom water leads to the deposit of a rich layer of organic material on the bottom.

Brown Happy To Rejoin Redskins

BY ANDY LIPPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I'm happy to be here and Coach George Allen is happy that I'm here," concluded running back Larry Brown who rejoined the Washington Redskins Wednesday.

And while the news got better and better in the Skins' training camp, it got worse for the Minnesota Vikings who learned that defensive back Karl Kassulke has slipped into "very critical condition" as the result of an motorcyle-auto accident.

Brown Wednesday ended an 11-day holdout which cost him about $300 in fines per day while he was attempting to negotiate a multiyear contract which he said would provide him with added security.

He refused comment on whether the Redskins had given him any such assurances, but at one point during a team workout, he went over to shake the hand of the man who may have brought Coach Allen a lot of extra security for the coming season—Duane Thomas, obtained last week from San Diego.

Allen said he was not sure how he would deploy the one-two offensive punch of Brown and Thomas. He said that definitely Brown would be at halfback, while the rest of the offense would be played "by ear."

A hospital spokesman said Kassulke's condition had worsened following three hours of surgery. One of the physicians attending the popular Viking player said Kassulke will probably never regain normal use of his legs.

Kassulke, 32, was a passenger on a motorcycle which was involved in a collision with a car Tuesday. He had been listed in serious condition prior to Tuesday's surgery.

"The players are avoiding talking about it...because of the uncertainty," said Viking Coach Bud Grant who greeted the 73 players who reported for the opening of the team's training camp.

The Vikings traded a high 1974 draft choice to the Oakland Raiders for 3-year-veteran Greg Slough. The Vikings said Slough would be tried at all three linebacking positions.

Coach Don Shula of the Miami Dolphins announced the signing of running back Mercury Morris, wide receiver Howard Twilley and cornerback Curtis Johnson.

Veteran offensive guard Ed Budde returned to the Kansas City Chiefs after walking out of camp on the first day of practice Monday.

The Pittsburgh Steelers reported 12 players currently unable to participate in practice because of injuries. Quarterback Terry Bradshaw missed passing drills for the second straight day due to a slightly pulled stomach muscle.

Cincinnati Bengal veteran wide receiver Bob Trumpy has been sidelined with a cracked or fractured rib, suffered when he ran into a teammate during football practice. There was no word on how long Trumpy would be sidelined.

Offensive tackle Walter Johnson got back into action for the Cleveland Browns, after being out with a pulled leg muscle since last Saturday.

Miami Favored By 17 Points

CHICAGO (AP) — "I assume they can play," Coach John McKay says of his College All-Stars. "The pros paid $10 million because they believe these prospects can play."

The talent-rich collegians will get their chance Friday night to prove if they can play against the best in the National Football League, the record-perfect Miami Dolphins. One thing is for sure: the All-Stars haven't had much of a chance to play against themselves.

"I told my players, 'I'm not going to mess up your chances to make $40,000 or $50,000 a year by getting you injured in camp.'" Practicing under McKay's non-contact system, the 51 All-Stars have had only one real scrimmage since reporting to their Northwestern University camp July 7.

"They already know how to block and how to play," explained McKay, making his AllStar coaching debut after producing his third national championship team at Southern California last season.

The Dolphins, first unbeaten team in regular and post-season play in NFL history, are rated 17-point favorites in this 40th All-Star Game, which will be played at Soldier Field. It will be televised nationally by ABC beginning at 9 p.m., EDT.

The All-Stars, however, seem to be in much better physical shape than the Dolphins.

Both of Miami's 1,000-yard rushers of last season, Larry Csonka and Mercury Morris, and linebacker Mike Kolen, have been injured in practice. Morris and Kolen were declared out of the All-Star Game by Coach Don Shula.

"We'd hate to be one of the few pro teams ever to lose to the All-Stars. There is prestige on the line," said Shula.

The last All-Star triumph came a decade ago when Otto Graham's 1963 squad defeated the Green Bay Packers 20-17.

McKay has the brawniest squad in All-Star history—averaging 254 pounds in both offensive and defensive lines—two strong passers in quarterbacks Bert Jones of Louisiana State, and Joe Ferguson of Arkansas and a bevy of fine runners and receivers.

Conceding he ran an easy camp, McKay commented: "We probably won't win. But this is the only way to do it—to run an All-Star camp."

Cards Making Great Comeback

By PAUL LeBAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "These guys never doubted themselves," said Red Schoendienst, unfolding comfortably into a chair. "Why should I have doubted them?"

A dramatic rise by his National League club notwithstanding, the manager of baseball's St. Louis Cardinals admitted Wednesday he has high hopes and growing anticipation for 66 games remaining in the 1973 season.

"I always hate to compare clubs and I don't like to compare players either," said Schoendienst, who has guided the Cardinals to two National League pennants and a world championship.

"But I'll tell you one thing," he added with a gleam, "for real spirit and real stick-to-itiveness this club has it as much as any of the others I've had.

Schoendienst's upstart Cardinals, themselves unable to believe a 1-12 start, have soared at a 50-33 pace since April. 22 and have been even more spectacular since the first week in May.

With 5½ weeks of the lengthy season gone, the club, fourth last year in the East Division, languished in last place at 5-20.

The once-impossible target—the .500 point—was reached June 23 in a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs and the Cards moved over the barrier for good July 4.

As the more robust Cubs began a nosedive, Schoendienst's club snapped a three-game slump of its own and whipped the West Division's front-running Los Angeles Dodgers twice to move into first place.

The Cardinals' ascent, spectacular by itself, is the more astounding because of apparent, non-disguised deficiencies in power and team speed.

Always near last in home runs, the team's batting average is a meager .248 compared to a league-leading .275 in 1971, when they finished second to the Pittsburgh Pirates, and .260 in 1972.

Compensating areas have been steady starting pitching, a fortified infield and the sturdiest bullpen the Cards have had since winning successive pennants in 1967 and 1968.

Schranz Sees Little Change

NEW YORK (AP) — Austria's Karl Schranz expects little change in the attitude of the International Olympic Committee even though Avery Brundage has stepped down as its president after 20 years.

"Most of those on the Olympic Committee are like Mr. Brundage—they are very conservative and opposed to change," the 34-year-old skiing star said during a quick in-and-out visit to New York.

"I had a long talk with Lord Killanin at Munich," Schranz said of Brundage's Irish successor. He seems to be a very nice man, anxious to do away with some of those old-fashioned ideas.

"But he told me it was not easy. He said he had to be like a symphony conductor keeping various groups in harmony."

Schranz, winner of the prestigious World Cup in 1969 and 1970, was expelled from the 1972 Winter Olympics at Sapporo, Japan, on charges of commercialism and for critical remarks made about the IOC. The Austrian said at the time that he felt that the IOC was an autocratic ruling body which had no regard for the common people.

He said if the ideas of Brundage and the IOC were fully complied with, only the rich would be able to compete in the Olympics.

Mighty Bruins To Have Depth

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the last decade, sports writers have done countless stories about the UCLA basketball team with the theme: "John Wooden has problems: Too Much Material."

Nine times in the last 10 years, the coach has solved the dubious problem of too many good players, winning the national championship. In that span the mighty Bruins have 285 victories and 15 defeats, this despite an 18-8 season one year.

The story is just about the same this year—Wooden has too much material. But this year the situation is ridiculous. The Bruins' second five boggles the imagination.

The starting lineup is nearly set, Wooden says, with two-time Player of the Year Bill Walton at center, Keith Wilkes at one forward and rugged junior Dave Myers at the other corner spot.

Wooden can choose his guards from among starters Greg Lee and Tommy Curtis or Andre McCarter, a redshirt last year. Wooden says picking a guard to run his system will be his big problem.

"Curtis was our sparkplug last year, but the point man has to be a steadying influence. Lee was that sort of influence but he wasn't as explosive as Tommy. And Andre McCarter may be more physicially talented than either Tommy or Greg."

Wooden said he may even use a freshman, 6-foot-6½ Gavin Smith of nearby Van Nuys, at guard in some instances.

As Walton's backup center, 7-foot sophomore Ralph Drollinger fills the bill. "He's not as agile, but he's worked awfully hard," said a team spokesman.

The reserve fowards include 6-6 Casey Corliss, a soph and one of only two freshmen on scholarship last year. There's also a freshman named Richard Washington, a Portland, Ore., product who was the goal of hundreds of recruiters. Another forward possibility is Pete Trgovich, a 6-5 speedster who was Indiana player of the year in high school three years ago and the freshman team's leading scorer two seasons ago with a 23.4 average.

"Yes, we have good depth," Wooden admitted.

The coach also said that complacency may be a problem this year, but he added: "No positions on the team are firm except for possibly Walton's, so the competition for starting spots should prevent too much complacency."

The closest games the Bruins' starting five may face next year are in scrimmages with the second team.

King's Husband Against Match

CLEVELAND (AP) — At least one person rooting for Billie Jean King when she faces hustler Bobby Riggs in a $100,000 tennis match this fall says she should have declined the challenge.

That's Mr. King—Billie Jean's husband of eight years, Larry.

"I don't think she should play Bobby, and I told her so," King said. He was in Cleveland to announce draft rounds in the newly formed World Team Tennis League, of which he's a co-founder.

"There's little to be gained from this from a women's tennis standpoint," King said. "This just clouds the issue. It could be possible setback for women's tennis. It has nothing to do with winning or losing."

WTC Fund At $1,275

Cleveland In Net Association

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland will be the 16th and final city to have a franchise in the newly formed World Team Tennis Association, says team owner Joe Zingale.

Zingale said Wednesday he paid about $60,000 for the franchise. Zingale is an owner and on the board of directors of baseball's Cleveland Indians of the American League the Cleveland Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association and the Cleveland Crusaders of the World Hockey Association.

Caller Gets Wrong Number

DALLAS (AP) — A caller asked telephone "information" for the Texas Rangers' number and then made his call.

"I want to know who's pitching for the Rangers tomorrow," said the caller.

"We ain't got no pitchers," came the gruff reply, "just some gunslingers."

Yep, he had the wrong number—the storied Texas Rangers who ride herd on law-breakers, not the Texas Rangers of baseball's American League.

All-Stars Seek District 5 Title

The Snyder Little League All-Stars will meet Abilene Dixie at 8 p.m. tonight in Redbud Park in Abilene for the District 5 Little League championship.

The Snyder All-Stars have won three playoff games enroute to the district title game. They beat Colorado City 4-3, Ballinger 22-5, and Stonewall-Kent 8-3. Abilene Dixie beat Abilene Southern 7-3 in their last game.

Ted Crenwelge is manager of the Snyder team, and Mickey Sterling is the coach. The roster includes Randy Hodges, Sid Everton, Bobby Ford, Jay Hammond, James Davis, Bobby Frank Roemisch, Richard Crayton, Greg Sullenger, Zane Sterling, Gerald Snyder, Ronnie Wooldridge, Mitch Mackey, Mark Davis and Bryan Vincent.

Flames Beat Lamesa, 22-8

The Snyder Flames beat Lamesa 22-8 here last night to boost their season record to 16-8.

Martha Braziel, Evelyn Wesley and Helen Rios each got three hits. Martha and Evelyn each hit a triple. Regina Lewis, Jan Kruse, Barbara Moffett, Kathy Weber and Karen Weber each got one hit. Kathy's was a home run.

Kathy Weber was the winning pitcher, twirling the first five innings. Jan Kruse pitched the last two.

The Flames host Big Spring at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Northeast Park. Then, they meet Odessa's Sidewinders at 8:30 p.m. Friday in the first round of the Monahans fast pitch tournament.

Yonkers Hires Security Chief

YONKERS, N.Y (AP) — Melvin S. Goldberg has been named director of security at Yonkers Raceway, succeeding Robert Reinertsen. Goldberg, 32, a former FBI agent has been, since July 1971, the assistant chief of security at the harness track. Reinertsen is returning to American University in Washington, D.C., to complete graduate studies.

Rankin Is Top Money Winner

ATLANTA (AP) — Judy Rankin of Midland, Tex., has taken over as top money winner among Ladies PGA players from Kathy Whitworth following her fifth-place finish in the U.S. Women's Open at Rochester, N.Y., last Sunday.

Miss Rankin won $1,400 in the Rochester tournament to boost her earnings to $47,844. Miss Whitworth, who won $520 at Rochester, is in second place with $47,541 among top money winners.

What do CAROL CHANNING, BILL COSBY, JANE FONDA, STEVE MCQUEEN, JOE NAMATH, PAUL NEWMAN, GREGORY PECK, TONY RANDALL, BARBRA STREISAND, and DICK GREGORY have in common? They all happen to be on this year's most important list, "Enemies of The White House." It was supplied to the Senate Watergate Committee by JOHN W. DEAN. With an all star cast like that it would make a great show called, "The Watergate Follies."

There's rumors all over town that JACK PAAR and his bosses at ABC will soon come to a parting of ways over the low ratings of his late night talkathon...Asked V.P. FRED PIERCE whether PAAR was in touch with the times, he commented, "He has to find his own groove. On a number of shows he was right on it. Once he finds the right combination he'll be O.K." Let's hope that PAAR finds his groove because he's one of the best parts of ABC's late night world of entertainment. We kid you not!

Whatever became of FRANK SINATRA, JR.? Well the last we heard he was playing all the big time spots in Rocky Hill, Connecticut. He was appearing at the Hu Ke Lau which is in a shopping plaza there. Next thing you know he'll really be playing the big time when he starts singing at MCDONALDS hamburger drive-in stands across the country.

ANNE MEARA of the comedy team of STILLER and MEARA will be back on television when her program The Corner Bar premieres on Friday, August 3rd.

Divorced. Actress EDY WILLIAMS, whose most startling credits are her 39-23-37 measurement, Tuesday ended her three-year marriage to director RUSS MEYER, once known as "king of the skin flicks."

MICHELLE PHILLIPS who stars in the new motion picture Dillinger gives an outstanding performance. She told me over breakfast in her hotel suite about the time she was singing with the rock group The Mamas and The Papas and she pierced MAMA CASS ELLIOTT's ears with an ice cube and a sewing needle. She added you wouldn't believe all the blood. Well, you ain't seen nothing yet till you see the movie, Dillinger.

ORSON WELLES, the 300-pound balloon who resembles a man, is floating these days. Bearded and beaming he arrived in London the other day to sign a $100,000 contract. It calls for him to host a 26-week TV series of mystery plays.

Who could ever forget the voice of such characters as BETTY BOOP, POPEYE and OLIVE OIL? The lady who brought delight to so many is none other than MAE QUESTEL who will open on Broadway next season in the show Enter Laughing. Recently on a train returning from Philadelphia, a gentleman was sitting next to her with tattooes on both arms. One of his tattooes was of BETTY BOOP. MAE upon seeing it went into her BETTY BOOP dialogue. Now there will be one less drinking passenger on Amtrak.

Before ELIZABETH TAYLOR left Hollywood to return home to "hubby" in Rome, RODDY MCDOWELL threw a party for her with some of the entertainments biggest personalities. What did he serve for dinner? Fried chicken of course and cole slaw, and jello. Glad I wasn't invited. When the door bell rang, MAE WEST answered it took one look at LIZ and said, "I don't know how old you are, honey, but you sure look like 28." Remember the expression flattery is fools' food; and I bet it tasted better than that chicken.

ZSA ZSA GABOR met MARLON BRANDO at her dentist's office and said, "I heard you made a very dirty picture." BRANDO said "You're old enough to go and see it."

Soviets To Probe Mars

MOSCOW (AP) — Two unmanned Soviet space probes are speeding toward Mars to study the red planet and space conditions around it.

Tass said the second unmanned interplanetary station, called Mars 5, was launched Wednesday from a satellite orbiting the earth. The first ship, Mars 4, took off last Saturday.

The Soviet news agency said equipment was working normally on both spacecraft and that the space stations would reach the vicinity of Mars in mid-February.

Kenneth Gatland, president of the British Interplanetary Society, predicted the vehicles would try to drop television cameras and scientific instruments into the planet's cratered deserts. But Tass said only that "by means of the scientific equipment installed on board the station, Mars and its environs are to be explored and the characteristics of the interplanetary medium along the flight path are to be measured."

The news agency said at 7 p.m. EDT Wednesday the two space ships were 907,200 and 41,010 miles from the earth.

The Soviets achieved the world's only soft landing on Mars in 1971 when Mars 3 dropped an instrument package into a Martian dust storm. Television signals from the surface were received on earth for only 20 seconds, but the Russians said the package sent radio signals for three days.

Tyler Church To Organize New Presbytery

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — The Fifth Presbyterian Church of Tyler has announced that it will organize into a new presbytery with the First Presbyterian Church of Paris, Tex., and Oak Lawn Presbyterian Church of Houston and Join the Continuing Presbyterian Church.

The announcement by the Rev. Dan. H. McCown said that the Tyler church had rejected invitations to meet with representatives of the Presbyterian Church U.S. as proposed at a PCUS meeting in Dallas Tuesday.

The Continuing Presbyterian Church is a new denomination to be organized later this year by the Tyler, Paris and Houston churches which recently severed their ties with the Presbyterian Church U.S.

The Presbytery Covenant of Northeast Texas of the Presbyterian Church U.S. met in Dallas Tuesday and voted 56-43 to hire lawyers to advise it and announced there would be hearings on the problems in Paris and Tyler July 30 and Aug. 6.

McCown said that his church will not be represented at the meeting.

"If we did it would recognize their jurisdiction and authority, something we have denounced already," he said.

In Dallas, the PCUS drafted a letter to send to the Paris and Tyler pastors taking jurisdiction away from the churches and their sessions and suspending the elders from their positions.

McCown said he and his elders had received notice of the forthcoming meeting but would ignore them.

Gladney To Head Sheriffs

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Sheriff Robert Gladney of Brazoria County is the new president of the Texas Sheriff's Association, elected Wednesday as the group closed its 95th annual convention here.

Houston was selected by the law enforcement men for their 96th annual meeting next year.

Tarrant County Sheriff Lon Evans of Fort Worth, outgoing president of the association, received the Bill Decker Award, named for Dallas County's late sheriff and humanitarian.

A special award for cooperation with law enforcement agencies went to Ralph Johnson, news director of Station KLTV in Tyler. Johnson also is president of the Texas Associated Press Broadcasters Association.

Holtzman Wins First Round

By MIKE WATERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman has been in Washington less than seven months but already has taken on The White House and won the first round.

The freshman Democrat from New York City brought suit against the Nixon administration's bombing in Cambodia. Wednesday a federal judge ruled in her favor, granting an injunction against further military operations there.

"I'll probably buy at least one bottle of champagne" to celebrate the decision, said the 31-year-old Brooklynite in an interview. But, she remarked, "the decision is not surprising in that no court has found the president has the right to start a war without congressional approval."

U.S. District Court Judge Orrin G. Judd ruled that without congressional approval, the bombing was illegal.

The government has announced it intends to appeal the order, set to take effect on Friday.

"The only way I see the court (2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals) can rule in the government's favor is that this is a political question on a part of the Indochina war," she said.

Miss Holtzman won her congressional seat by defeating powerful incumbent Emanuel Cellers twice—once in a primary and again when he ran as an independent in the election.

When she came to Washington she set her sights on the Cambodian bombing.

"I felt very strongly about this and it (the suit) was not a decision made lightly. I wanted to satisfy legal questions about it first before I brought it," she said.

She was joined in the lawsuit by three Air Force men based in Guam.

If she does buy a bottle of campagne to celebrate the ruling, it would be a considerable break in her normal routine, she said.

"My day begins around 9 a.m. when I get to the office, I spend the morning in committee meetings and the afternoon either on the floor or here (in the office) and I usually don't leave until 9 p.m.

"When I relax I like to go to the beach—I got 45 minutes in last weekend, the first time in six months."

She likes to play tennis, go riding and to movies, but now she spends most of her weekends at home taking care of matters affecting her district.

Finland has more lakes than any other European country.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

★★★

Q. Is it true that many students with summer jobs may qualify for exemption from Federal income tax withholding?

A. Yes, many students with summer jobs, retired persons, and others working part-time, may be able to qualify for exemption from withholding by filing a Form W-4E with their employer. These forms are available from employers and many IRS and school placement offices.

Individuals who qualify for exemption from withholding are those who did not have to pay income tax for the previous year and do not expect to have to pay tax for the current year. These eligible taxpayers generally will be in one of three categories:

1. Single persons with an annual gross income for both the previous year and the current year of less than $2,050 (2,800 if 65 or older).

2. Married individuals entitled to file jointly with a combined income of less than $2,800 ($3,550 if one is 65 or older, or $4,300 if both are 65 or older) for each of the two years;

3. Individuals with unearned income (such as interest or dividends) who may be claimed as a dependent by another taxpayer, but have gross income of less than $750.

Those who have a question about whether or not they are eligible should contact their nearest IRS office.

Q. Will IRS publications tell you about court decisions that take a position on tax matters more favorable to the taxpayer than the IRS position?

A. Explanations and examples in Internal Revenue Service reflect the official IRS interpretation of tax laws enacted by Congress, regulations issued by the Treasury Department, and pertinent court decisions. There are certain matters in these publications on which some courts have taken a position more favorable to the taxpayer than the official IRS position. Until these varying interpretations are resolved by higher court decision or otherwise, the IRS must necessarily continue to state the Service viewpoint.

Q. My maid is quitting next month. Is it true that I'll have to give her a W-2 Form?

A. Yes. Under new IRS rules, you must report total wages paid (whether or not income tax was withheld) and social security tax withheld from maids, gardeners and other household employee her W-2 form and for filing a copy with the IRS along with your Form 942 fourth quarter report of social security tax withheld. But if the employee leaves before Jan. 31, as in your case, you must give her the W-2 form within 30 days after her last payday. Include a copy of the W-2 with your final Form 942 return for that employee.

For more details, see the instructions on your Form 942. Forms W-2 will be mailed to you along with your fourth quarter return. Extra copies can be obtained from any IRS office.

Q. When will I receive my refund check?

A. It normally takes 6-8 weeks, but it may take longer if you mailed your return near the filing deadline. Delays will also occur if the return is incomplete or inaccurate.

If you have not received your refund or a letter explaining the delay within 10 weeks after mailing your return, contact your local IRS district office.

Packers Facing Black Market

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Meat industry leaders are predicting that the retention of the price ceiling on beef will create soaring prices in pork and poultry and spur black market buying of cattle.

A Brooklyn, N.Y., wholesaler who claims he will run out of meat by Monday says, "The slogan in our business has become 'black or broke,'" referring to black market sales.

A Texas meat packer who can't find steers to slaughter says, "We have three choices: close our doors, buy on the black market or continue losing money by taking a loss on dressing beef."

A representative of the nation's food chain stores declares: "We are swamped with calls about beef."

An industry spokesman defined the black market as the sale of beef "out of the normal distribution channels."

About 100 representatives of producers, packers, processors and wholesalers met Wednesday in Chicago at a conference called by the American Meat Institute, a trade association of 350 packing houses.

The group asked for an immediate meeting with Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and officials of the Cost of Living Council in an attempt to dissuade the administration from continuing the beef ceiling to Sept. 12 as announced last week by President Nixon.

Most of the representatives argued that consumers are uninformed about the problems of raising, processing and retailing beef and are naive when they claim they would rather see empty shelves than higher prices.

"All the women's groups saying they would like to see empty shelves don't remember what it was like when there were empty shelves in groceries," said Frank Riccio of New York City.

Riccio, who spent the early part of the week in the Midwest trying to buy beef, added, "I had the money ready but I couldn't find beef anywhere. If I can't get supplied by Monday, eight meatcutters and 16 luggers will be laid off. What do they do?"

The packers and wholesalers said they fear that cattle producers will not ship steers to slaughterhouses until the Sept. 12 termination date of the ceiling, creating a shortage before that date and skyrocketing prices afterward.

Public Notice

THE STATE OF TEXAS
TO: B.W. HAMPTON and ELMO WALL, if living and if deceased, the legal representatives of each of said named defendants, and the unknown heirs of each of said named defendants, the legal representatives of the unknown heirs of each of said named defendants, if the unknown heirs of said named defendants are dead, the unknown heirs of the unknown heirs of said named defendants, if the unknown heirs of the unknown heirs of said named defendants are dead; and the unknown owners or claimants of interest in the property described hereafter. GREETING: You are commanded to appear by filing a written answer to the plaintiff's petition at or before 10 o'clock A.M. of the first Monday after the expiration of 42 days from the date of issuance of this Citation, the same being Monday the 10th day of September, A.D., 1973, at or before 10 o'clock A.M., before the Honorable 132nd District Court of Scurry County, at the Court House in Snyder, Texas.
Said plaintiff's petition was filed on the 24 day of July, 1973.
The file number of said suit being No. 10,828.
The names of the parties in said suit are:
HARRIE WINSTON as Plaintiff, B.W. HAMPTON and ELMO WALL as Defendant.
The nature of said suit being substantially as follows, to wit:
A trespass to try title suit regarding the following described property:
Being a portion of the Southwest One-fourth (SW ¼) of Section No. 181, Block 3, H&GN Ry. Co. Surveys, Scurry County, Texas, and being 150 feet square in the Northwest corner of what was formerly known as the West Side Public School site, and said tract of land is described by metes and bounds as follows:
BEGINNING at a stake which is 60 feet East of the Northeast Corner of Block 13 in the COLONIAL HILL ADDITION to the Town of Snyder, and 60 feet South of the Southwest corner of Block 1 in said Colonial Hill Addition;
THENCE East 150 feet to a stake for the Northeast corner of this tract;
THENCE South 150 feet to the South east corner of this tract;
THENCE West 150 feet to the South west corner of this tract;
THENCE North 150 feet to the place of beginning.
That defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiff therefrom and unlawfully withholds from him the possession thereof. Plaintiff prays for judgment for title and possession of said land and other further relief to which he is entitled as is more fully shown by Plaintiff's petition on file in this suit. If this Citation is not served within 90 days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.
Issued this the 24th day of July A.D., 1973.
Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Texas, this the 24th day of July A.D., 1973.

Energy Bank Is Planned

LONDON (AP) — Six banks of four nations announced today that they are providing the capital to set up an international energy bank. The bank would provide financing for development of power around the world.

Headquarters of the new bank, to be called the International Energy Bank Ltd., will be in London. The announcement did not disclose the amount of its capitalization, but it said executive officers would be named later in the summer.

The six banks and the percentage of the capital they will supply are Societe Financiere Europeene, 30 per cent; the Bank of Scotland, 15; Barclay's Bank International, 15; Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, 15; Republic National Bank of Dallas, 15; and Banque Worms, France, 10.

The total resources of the sixbanks and their associates amount to more than $175 billion. They have more than 12,000 branches in 90 countries.

The energy bank's first efforts, the announcement said, will be in oil and gas developments on the Scottish, English, Irish, Norwegian and other European continental shelves, together with developments in Canada, the United States and Alaska.

The treasurer and general manager of the Bank of Scotland, T. W. Walker, told a news conference the new bank is being set up because of the worldwide importance of the energy industries and their constantly growing financial requirements.

The executive vice president of the Dallas bank, Edward E. Montieth added: "One feature which has captured the interest both of the industry and the financial community has been the Scottish and European North Sea scene, where estimated exploration and development costs are now being put at $8.75 billion to about $12.75 billion."

Iran, US Firm Ink Oil Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iran and Ashland Oil, Inc., have agreed to share 50-50 in production, refining and marketing oil from the wells to the gasoline pumps.

The agreement, announced Wednesday by Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, Shah of Iran, means Iranian participation in the marketing of 150,000 barrels daily in the United States.

The United States formerly refused such agreements with oil producing countries. However, administration officials now say the agreements will give producing countries an incentive in maintaining stable oil supplies.

The arrangement with the Ashland, Ky.-based firm "might be repeated" with other U.S. companies, the Shah said.

Under the contract, Iran will invest in Ashland, paying with oil and gaining equity participation in the U.S. firm, an American expert on oil policy said.

VERNON STORY LIKE ESTES CASE?

Daring Cotton Scheme Unveiled

By ROD DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

VERNON, Tex. (AP) — The failure of an obscure North Texas bank 11 days ago has led to the collapse of a huge Southern cotton operation that may have existed for years based on a daring, near-perfect scheme involving millions of dollars in phony bank drafts and bogus cotton receipts.

The financial debacle, likened by some to the Billie Sol Estes fraud of the 1960s, has sparked extensive governmental investigation and has created alarm in banks in Mississippi, Oklahoma and other parts of Texas. The Estes fraud centered on the borrowing of money against mortgages on non existent fertilizer tanks.

An Associated Press investigation has shown that, among other things, the crisis came despite a desperate eleventh hour attempt bo secure a $9 million loan to shore up the First State Bank of Vernon, the collapse of which touched off the downfall of the cotton empire of Vernon brokers R. E. Huntley and G. F. Hemphill.

The two men were partners in a number of cotton-related ventures affecting an estimated 11 banks in three states.

Despite determined efforts this week to protect creditors and banks from a loss estimated at between $4 and $8.8 million, the financial outlook for this troubled area is still uncertain, according to insiders.

Still to be seen is whether a federal receivership can reorganize Huntley and Hemphill interests to meet their debts and whether criminal charges will be filed.

The chain of events began with the Vernon bank's closing July 16, one week after federal examiners found serious discrepancies in its records.

The closing was apparently linked to loans made to Huntley and Hemphill, secured by receipts for cotton that did not exist. Then, investigators ran across the blockbuster: a complicated check routing scheme through Texas, Oklahoma and Mississippi, also hinged on cotton receipts.

Estimates of the value of the phony paper deal range from $4 million to nearly $9 million, for which the Huntley-Hemphill partnership is liable. But if the pair cannot produce those assets, the losses would be shared by the Vernon bank and five other banks.

When Huntley and Hemphill became aware, about July 12, that the First State Bank was going to fold, they began a series of last ditch moves to save it, both in order to preserve the bank, and, logically, to save themselves from financial disaster.

Between July 12 and July 16, Huntley and Hemphill attempted to transfer to the bank all the assets of their major partnership, the R. E. Huntley Cotton Co.

In addition, it has been learned, an attempt was made to secure a $9 million loan from the G. E. Credit Union in Dallas. The attempt failed, but a spokesman at the credit union refused comment.

"As soon as the shortage was discovered, we made every conceivable effort to prevent the closing of the First State Bank," a statement by the two men said.

"We damn near pulled out of it," said Ney Sheridan, attorney for the two men, in recounting salvage efforts.

But they didn't pull out, and the bank failed with about $14.9 million in assets. Small creditors were quickly paid off by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC), but, as one source said, "somebody is still going to have to eat that money."

The Associated Press was told the bank collapse centered on two key issues: a $1.3 million loan to Huntley and Hemphill anchored on bogus warehouse cotton receipts; and the interstate check kiting scheme, which may have figured as high as $8.8 million.

FDIC liquidator James Duvall refused to say just how heavily the Vernon bank depended on the artificially-created money.

"They're going to be short. The bank is insolvent, but just how much I can't tell you," he said.

Ben Gilbert, federally appointed receiver for reorganization of the Huntley-Hemphill interests, said he expected to find out his clients liabilities in about a week. In the meantime, a bankruptcy schedule filed in federal court shows that Gilbert figures liabilities at about $5 million, with assets of $13 million.

But if the check kiting scheme is as broad as believed, liabilities could soar much higher.

The check kiting consisted of a complex interchange of bank drafts and cotton receipts through a maze of Southern banks.

Although it has not been determined which banks were deeply involved, it is known that Huntley-Hemphill had accounts in: the First National Bank, Altus, Okla.; the National Bank of Frederick, Okla.; the First National Bank at Greenwood, Miss.; the First National Bank at Harlingen, Tex.; and the Vernon bank.

Other accounts were in banks in Olton and Quanah, Tex. and Rainesville, Ala., attorneys for the men said.

The check and bank draft plan apparently worked like this:

Using the Vernon bank as a base, the two men or their agents could have drawn, say, a $500,000 draft on account in bank "X." In return for the $500,000, the men sent either real or fake cotton receipts to Bank X.

That would leave the Bank X account $500,000 short. To fill the loss, a cohort at Bank X could repeat the procedure with a Bank Y, which could pass it on to Bank Z. The process would continue until it returned to the Vernon bank.

Essentially, the process was a never-ending rob-Peter-to-pay-Paul-to-pay-Peter, etc. Once the chain was created, any amount of paper money could be raised, simply by taking from one account and adding to another before the banks could catch on.

"It could have gone on indefinitely," an observer explained.

But how could the deal have gone on for years? Apparently there was "inside" help, at least in some banks, sources said.

One legal action involving drafts had been filed, but was called off because of the federal bankruptcy action, which is designed to prevent a barrage of individual suits.

A special task force of Texas investigators has been set up, headed by Wilbarger Co. Dist. Atty. Bill Neal, to probe criminal charges. In addition, the FBI and FDIC are involved.

It is expected that it will take at least a month before any state or federal charges are taken to grand juries. Nearly all parties in the case say they think some criminal proceedings will result.

So far, only the Vernon bank has failed. Federal and state officials are eager to caution that there is no reason to believe any other banks may be in danger.

But the future of many banks and many individual depositors may now hinge on the receivership operating Huntley-Hemphill concerns.

The anticipated $13 million in Huntley-Hemphill assets depends chiefly on real Estate, oil and gas leases, and $5 million in outstanding cotton contracts with small farmers on about 125,000 acres in Texas, Oklahoma, Mississippi and Alabama.

"The receiver expects prompt fulfillment by all growers," Gilbert said Wednesday.

But the contracts were originally settled for 28 cents a pound. Cotton now sells for over 60 cents a pound.

If the receivership can get the cotton under previous contract prices and sell high, more potential money to Huntley-Hemphill creditors will be made.

But if farmers balk, and try to avoid the contracts, or if there is a crop failure, or boll weevils, or flooding...

But few creditors, or bankers, care to discuss that now.

ON PROGRAM—State Representative Renal Rosson (center) was guest speaker at the noon luncheon meeting of the Snyder Kiwanis Club yesterday at the American Restaurant. He was introduced by program chairman Hubert Cargile (left). E.T. (Pat) Patterson (right), incoming president, presided over the meeting.

Zap Informed On Watergate

By JIM WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

ZAP, N.D. (AP) — Albert Beck works for a coal mining company on a dirt road 1,500 miles from the Watergate hearings in Washington.

He likes the hearings.

Ralph Brenner repairs automobiles.

He is sick of the whole Watergate story.

Norman Fuchs is a politican.

He says he has lost money because of Watergate.

They all live in Zap, a dot in the middle of the North Dakota prairie, about 60 miles from Bismarck.

But regardless of their feelings, the 270 people who live in Zap are well aware of what's going on in Washington these days.

"I watch every minute of the hearings I can," Beck said. "I feel there's nothing wrong with the truth. I think they should get to the truth no matter what."

"I'm tired of hearing about it," Brenner said, from under the pickup truck on which he was working. "We're wasting a lot of money. I don't think there's anything to be gained if Nixon's involved and they put somebody else in there."

Larry Aipperspach leaned on a tractor in Brenner's garage.

"Oh, the Republicans just got caught this year," said the ranch hand. "The way it sounds, the press is out to get him. Still, they did something wrong, so something's got to be done."

Fuchs, mayor of the community and also its postmaster, said the hearings should never have been public.

"If it went to a jury now, how could they get a fair trial?" he said. He said his investments and stocks had dropped in value since Watergate became a national issue.

Some of Zap's residents said they kept track of the hearings by television, but several housewives said they had stopped watching them and had gone back to soap operas.

HONORED—Ramona Littlefield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oran Thompson of Snyder has been named for honors in the 1973 edition of Outstanding Elementary Teachers of America. She received her degree from the College of the Southwest in 1966 and has been a special education teacher in the Hobbs Schools for six years.

Gen Bradley Steps Down

NEW YORK (AP) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley has retired as chairman of Bulova Watch Co. Inc., ending 20 years affiliation with the company.

Bradley said age and a desire to enjoy his remaining years prompted his decision to step down.

Bradley is 80.

Legislative Report Is Given Kiwanis

State Rep. Renal Rosson told Kiwanians yesterday that the legislature was fortunate to get through the recent session without a tax bill. He spoke at noon Wednesday at the regular luncheon meeting of the club.

Rosson said the state budget for the next two year period is 9.7 billion dollars. About 47 per cent of each tax dollar goes for education, according to Rosson, who said 25 cents of each dollar goes for highways and public roads. Another 15 to 16 per cent goes for welfare and 4 to 5 per cent go for hospitals. Rosson said education, highways and public roads, welfare and hospitals account for 90 cents of each tax dollar.

Rosson said he served on three busy committees during the recent session of the legislature—the appropriations committee, the judiciary committee and the insurance committee. He said 440 hours were spent in appropriations committee hearings. The appropriations bill was debated for two weeks before it passed, he said.

The state representative said there were 388 bills passed in the last session, including several of statewide interest.

"The Texas House has a good system," declared Rosson, "...because everyone has an opportunity to debate a bill."

He said the house uses electronic equipment to record their votes but that the senate doesn't.

Also, debate in the house also is over a microphone, but it isn't in the senate.

Rosson said the legislature passed a new penal code, a family code revision, a bill for 18 year old voting rights and, 29 insurance bills.

Concerning the new penal code, Rosson said it has a major weakness in the area of proof of insanity. Concerning the 18 year old voting rights bill, Rosson stated that, in his opinion, it should have been presented as a constitutional amendment so that all of the people could vote on it.

Rosson was introduced by Hubert Cargile, program chairman. E.T. (Pat) Patterson presided over the meeting.

Other guests included Van Tarver of Memphis, Tenn., Bill Stone, Jim Armstrong and Rick Hall.
