QUANAH 'MAIL ORDER BRIDE' GIVEN LIFE TERM FOR MURDER

Widow Of Officer Slain At Henrietta Sues Accused Man For $75,000

STRICKLAND TO FACE TRIAL IN FRIEND'S DEATH

Double Hearing Scheduled In Slaying of R. L. Williams

Special to The Record News

HENRIETTA, Texas, June 4.—Naming her eight children with herself in the suit, Mrs. Mary Williams, widow of R. L. Williams, shot to death in the kitchen of the R. P. Strickland home near Henrietta on March 15, has filed suit against Strickland, now under indictment for murder in connection with the shooting. The suit was filed with T. H. Wynne, clerk of the 97th district court at Henrietta.

Trial Set June 17

Judge Vincent Stine Monday set the trial of Strickland on the murder charge for June 17. The civil suit is to follow immediately, C. O. Taylor, attorney for Mrs. Williams, announced Tuesday afternoon.

Alleging that Strickland shot her husband "without provocation" the widow asks for $50,000 actual damages; $25,000 punitive damages, and $1,100 to cover court and incidental expenses. The petition declares that four of the Williams children are under age, and prays for damages for the loss of the support and consolation of a husband and father and for mental suffering resulting from his death.

Strickland was charged with murder after he took a friend to a spot in one of his pastures, five miles southwest of Henrietta, where the body of Williams, shot through the stomach, was discovered. According to the story told by Strickland at WASHINGTON, June 4. (UB)—Amid a general outburst of scathing denunciation of the Wall street orgy of speculation in the senate today, a demand was made to tax stock bought for speculative purposes to curb the national gambling fever. More than a dozen senators joined in the flood of denunciatory invectives hurled at the federal reserve board and Wall street financiers and even former President Coolidge was a target for the senatorial shafts of criticism.

MOODY GIVES BOXING VIEWS

Personally Opposed to Fight He Wires Dailey

A measure that would legalize boxing in Texas would find no favor from Dan Moody. This is indicated in a telegram sent by the governor to Larry Dailey, sports editor of The Record News, in response to a wire asking for the chief executive's personal stand on boxing.

Gov. Moody has recently stopped several boxing shows in Texas, after the ring sport has been thriving more or less in some cities of the state, including Wichita Falls, for several years. Boxing is not legalized in Texas.

The governor not only has stopped boxing in Texas in fulfillment of his oath to uphold the law, but he personally is opposed to prize fighting, as he prefers to call it.

Dailey's wire follows:

Governor Dan Moody,
State Capitol,
Austin, Texas.

Are you personally opposed to boxing or are you stopping boxing in Texas because it is against the law. Would you oppose legislation to legalize boxing in Texas. Would appreciate answer.

LARRY DAILEY,
Sports Editor, The Record News.

Governor Moody's reply follows:

Larry Dailey,
Record News,
Wichita Falls, Texas.

Your wire received. I am in favor of the enforcement of the law prohibiting prize fighting in this state. I am personally opposed to prize fighting. DAN MOODY.

GOVERNOR ASKS TAX ON INCOME AND GASOLINE

Moody Advocates New Revenue Laws in Talk To Legislature

AUSTIN, June 4. (UP)—A state income tax, four cents a gallon gasoline tax, taxes on mineral resources of the state, and if possible a reduction in the state property tax were advocated by Gov. Dan Moody in a two-hour address to the Texas legislature today.

Coupled with these changes in revenue raising, Governor Moody called for retrenchment in proposed expenditures.

Citing the senate bills which appropriate $37,000,000 for the 1929-31 biennium, Governor Moody said: "There just ain't that much money."

He contrasted with it the expenditure of $10,673,157 by the legislature in 1909, when the state had 2,896,000 people. In 1921 with 4,663,000 population the appropriations were $24,419,868. Latest estimated population was 5,397,000.

A plea for a public utility commission to protect the people from the utility trust was urged as the most important topic for the second called session.

The governor urged examination of students before they enter the university and other state advanced schools. At present they are admitted on credit records from high schools. Appointment of the state school superintendent by a state board of education was urged, with the suggestion that the schools offer the opportunity for building up a great political machine for an elected officer.

Other steps advocated by the governor were: keeping courts open at all times instead of having terms; reasonable reduction in automobile registration fees; additional highway safety regulations, and adequate laws to protect the state's citrus industry from pests.

Willingness to compromise on prison legislation was announced by the governor. He declared that if the legislature is unwilling to

State Farm Tests at Iowa Park Pave Way to Profit for Farmers

Tests to determine what crops can be most profitably grown in this section and what varieties of those crops are best adapted to local conditions, constitute the routine of work at the state experiment station south of Iowa Park. This station was established five years ago with a view to making it a clearing house for the agricultural ideas in the irrigated valley.

With 300 varieties of barley, 40 of wheat, 30 of oats, 32 of cotton, and many of grain sorghums and legumes, the station staff is studying out the farm program best suited to this region. In addition, there are scores of experiments with vegetables and fruits.

A very important phase of the station's work has to do with root-rot, the soil disease which causes considerable loss in this section.

The station work is concentrated on agronomy, horticulture and plant pathology, with special work in the study of root-rot. Agronomy deals with field crops and soils, and more especially the growing in variety tests of all kinds of field crops.

Small Grain Tests

At this time there are more than 200 varieties and strains of barley, both winter and spring plantings, growing at the station. Several of the barleys are very prolific and promise high yields. There are about 40 varieties of wheat, all planted last fall. Oats are represented with approximately 30 varieties and strains of both winter and spring planting. The seed from these cereals will be carefully saved

Dignified Name of Convention Quite Misleading, Lang Writes

By HARRY LANG

LOS ANGELES, June 4. (UB)—Golly, what a party!

They say it's a convention—the "fifty-fifth annual session of the Imperial council, Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine," is the name they give it when they get formal and official. But don't let that fool you. It isn't as serious and dignified as that sounds.

What it really is, as a matter of fact, is 90 or a 100 thousand Shriners raising the dickens—and all Los Angeles helping them do it.

Grain Prices Soar As Congress Assures Aid

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—Assurance was given by responsible leaders in congress today that they would support a recommendation to make a half billion dollars available for the stabilization of agriculture as soon as the farm relief bill becomes a law. SOUTH'S VETS OPEN REUNION

Gray-Clad Patriarchs Hear Addresses

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 4. (AP)—The thirty-ninth reunion of the United Confederate veterans opened formally here tonight amid a blaze of color, music and oratory and the valiant efforts of thousands of gray-clad patriarchs to resurrect the rebel yell.

Reunion officials estimated late today that 20,000 visitors were in the city with the number mounting hourly.

On the rostrum tonight at the armory-auditorium, erected especially for the occasion, were Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi and Gov. O. Max Gardner of North Carolina. A concert by the United States Marine band opened the reunion program.

Senator Harrison, devoting his address largely to a defense of the Southern cause in the war between the states, told the veterans that the principle for which they had fought was states rights and not slavery. He called for a re-baptism of the South in that principle and warned against the sacrifice of Southern sentiment to industrialism.

"We of the South must never permit Southern glories to be forgotten in the maelstrom of industrial strife," said the senator. "We must not allow those principles for which our fathers sacrificed to be supplanted by yielding to the commercial exigencies of the hour."

EVA RABLEN PLEADS GUILTY TO POISONING

Parole From San Quentin Not Recommended In Verdict

SONORA, Calif., June 4. (AP)—Mrs. Eva Rablen who today pleaded guilty to the murder of her husband, Carroll Rablen, at Tuttletown April 27, was this afternoon sentenced to life imprisonment in San Quentin prison with no recommendation for parole.

The court asserted the only reason the death penalty was not imposed was because of the testimony of an alienist that the woman had the mentality of a ten-year-old child.

When Judge Warne pronounced the life sentence to San Quentin prison, the only indication given by the defendant that she heard was the clenching of her hands.

Mrs. Rablen pleaded guilty to murdering her husband by poisoning his coffee.

SOUCEK HITS CEILING AGAIN

Naval Officer Believed To Have Set Record

WASHINGTON, June 4. (US)—A quiet young naval officer who refused to be licked flew out of sight up in the sky this afternoon to an indicated height never before reached by a man in a seaplane.

In the tiny wisp of a plane in which he recently cracked the world's altitude record, Lieut. Apollo Soucek soared upwards for more than an hour until he reached between 38,500 to 39,000 feet, as shown by his altimeter. The plane was equipped with pontoons.

Whether Soucek actually smashed the seaplane record of 37,995 feet, established two years ago by Lieut. C. C. Champion of the navy, will not be known definitely before tomorrow when experts of the bureau of standards finish calibrating the barograph carried on the plane. The calibration must show that Soucek climbed at least 38,823 feet, or 100 meters higher than Champion, before he can be credited officially with a new world's record.

If Soucek failed to crack the old record it will be the fault of the plane and not the man, because for half an hour he kept the ship at the top of the ceiling, trying ever to gain just a few more feet. The temperature was 50 below. The earth was more than seven miles below and the ship's nose pointed upward in the rarified air, until the plane would go no higher. Then he had to come down.

No ill effects were felt by the young flier.

He Meant Well?

"What? Is this you, Jones! I was told you were dead."

"No, it is my brother who is dead."

"Oh, I am sorry to hear that."—Buen Humor, Madrid.

MacDonald Takes Helm in England

MACDONALD TO FORM CABINET

Labor Leader Expected To Appoint Woman

LONDON, June 4. (US)—Ramsay MacDonald, England's vigorous Labor leader, tomorrow will be instructed by Britain's ailing king to form a Labor cabinet to take over the reins of the empire's government from the defeated Conservatives. MacDonald's cabinet will probably for the first time in history include a woman.

Although King George was reported to have passed a comfortable night, Henry L. Martyn, apothecary to the household at Windsor castle, said tonight that His Majesty was unable to stand the strain of two political interviews in one day. For this reason, the royal audience for MacDonald was set for tomorrow.

Situation Reversed

When King George accepted the resignation as prime minister of Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, this morning, the situation reversed that of October, 1924, when Baldwin was instructed to form a cabinet after MacDonald had been forced to resign after he failed of a confidence vote in parliament. MacDonald's victory in the elections on Thursday brought to an end the five years of uninterrupted rule of the Conservative party.

That either Susan Lawrence or Margaret Bonfield would be assigned a place in the Labor government was forecast after the meeting of MacDonald with the big four of the Laborites at his Hampstead home. All of the big four—Phillip Snowden, Arthur Henderson, J. H. Thomas and John R. Clynes—are practically assured cabinet portfolios.

Much speculation has been aroused over the appointments to be made by MacDonald, all forecasts including mention of Thomas, Henderson and Sir Oswald Mosley as candidates for foreign secretary. Lord Cecil, a non-Laborite, and Lord Dabernon also have been assigned tentative places by speculation.

Interview Granted

Baldwin, in tendering his resignation, was granted this interview shortly after the official announcement was made at Windsor that "the king has passed a good night." The Conservative whip left his office at the famous "number 10 Downing street" by the back entrance, avoiding a crowd and the early announcement of his departure for Windsor.

At 10:30 a. m., Mr. Baldwin was received at St. George's gate, main entrance to the castle, by Lord Stamfordham, and was then conducted to the king's room, where the British monarch was abed. It was fully an hour later before the announcement was made that King George had accepted his prime minister's resignation and commissioned MacDonald to visit Windsor tomorrow. Baldwin was with the British ruler for about half an hour.

Supreme Court Justices Go Home With Work About Clear

WASHINGTON, June 4. (UP)—The nine justices of the supreme court today dispersed to their summer homes for a vacation until October, having closed their annual term with a number of decisions of importance and cleared their docket to a record degree.

Four Pilots Split Prize Money for Endurance Flight

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 4. (INS)—Division of the $15,000 fund raised by the association of commerce for the pilots of the world record endurance plane, "Fort Worth," was announced here today. Reg L. Robbins will receive $6,187.50 and Jim Kelly will receive $5,062.50. Robbins is owner of the "Fort Worth."

K. K. Hoffman and H. S. Jones, pilots of the refueling plane which assisted Robbins and Kelly in their record-smashing flight, will divide $3,750 between them.

In addition to their share of the $15,000 fund, Robbins and Kelly also earned more than $2,100 between them as a bonus for remaining aloft 21 hours longer than the "Question Mark." This offer was made them by a number of the leading aviation firms of the country on the basis of $100 per hour over the then record.

WHEELER WILL VOTE ON BONDS

Modern Water System Is Being Planned

Special to The Record News.

WHEELER, Texas, June 4.—With the completion of a survey of the town and estimates of cost, a bond election will be called by the city of Wheeler to vote on a modern water system, according to A. B. Crump, mayor. The survey of the town is now being made and it is expected that the election order will be issued during the next two weeks. Fifty-five property owners signed a petition presented to the city council recently, asking that the election be called.

Another proposition for providing the city with adequate water facilities is before the city governing body. A private enterprise has proposed to build and operate a water system, according to Mr. Crump.

Within the next few months property owners in the business district, fronting the square, will be called upon to express their opinion upon the paving of four blocks of streets, the mayor said. It is thought that the commissioners court will agree to pay its share of the project.

Tribute Will Be Paid Soldiers Of Frontier at Mobeetie Celebration

Special to The Record News.

MOBEETIE, Texas, June 4.—Plans have been completed for the opening of the Fort Elliott celebration, to be held here June 5 to 8, according to J. W. Mayfield, president of the Mobeetie chamber of commerce and head of the local chamber of commerce committee in charge of arrangements.

The Fort Elliott celebration will commemorate the establishment of the United States army post here in 1875. The four days' picnic will be opened with a free barbecue to be given by the Mobeetie chamber of commerce. Fitting tribute to the frontier soldiers will be paid during the course of the exposition, according to F. P. Reid of Pampa, who is actively engaged in a movement for the marking of the historic fort with a suitable manument. Mr. Reid is being assisted in formulating a program by Mrs. Billy Dixon of Miami, Texas, widow of one of the soldiers quartered at the fort during its existence.

A baseball game will be staged at the fair grounds in the north part of Mobeetie during each day of the celebration. The carnival atmosphere will be furnished by the S. B. Williams shows, engaged for the entire four days.

During the past few years efforts have been made to make the Fort Elliott an annual celebration, according to Mr. Mayfield. Due to the movement inaugurated by the Panhandle Historical society to properly mark the site, interest in the project has been on the increase during the past two years. Many old settlers of the Panhandle have indicated that they will visit Mobeetie this year during the celebration, committeemen said.

Assisting Mr. Mayfield in arranging for the event are H. L. Flanagan, Jack Miller, N. M. Hunt, and O. W. Elliott, all of Mobeetie.

TIME COUNTS

Sinclair's Lawyers Want Jail Terms to Run Concurrently

WASHINGTON, June 4. (US)—Attorneys for Harry F. Sinclair were debating today whether to ask the trial court to permit his two sentences for contempt to run concurrently.

Should the court grant such a motion, Sinclair might find himself a free man again around next Thanksgiving. The probability is, however, that the court would refuse such a motion because the offenses were wholly different.

In the event Sinclair will probably serve until just before Christmas or even until next January.

Was LOVE worth such a PRICE?

The pent-up passion of ten years flared forth into lurid flame—come what might she would have her man—But there, at the rainbow's end, sat Fate . . . beading a pair of tiny moccasins—

"YVONNE! I want you so!" his whole starved soul leaped to his lips in the cry—yet even as he spoke Arthur Duncan strode into the night—and what lay beyond—

For how was this shy backwoods boy to know that the mighty Fur King's daughter whom he loved was his woman—loved him in return, had always and would always be his—yearning with every fevered fibre of her being for his embrace?

She ran to the door and called after him—but the night wind blew her words back into her teeth—

Then she forgot the world! Forgot her home—her parents—the patient, pleading Armand whose adoring hands held forth a fortune for his future bride—forgot all save a lonely log cabin somewhere out there beyond the horizon's rim—

Into the wilderness of the forbidding fur-country she followed Arthur—through tortuous miles of angry white water—through endless dreary days and wakeful nights of waiting—while old Indian Charlie's paddle marked the slothful seconds—dip—dip—dip. And there, at the rainbow's end, Fate sat in the cabin door—Fate—calm-eyed—merciless—beading a pair of tiny moccasins!

Was ever woman faced with such a crisis? What should she—what could she do? Was she, then, to fight this Indian maiden for the man she loved? Fight her with tooth and nail—primitive—passionate—deadly—a mate-mad killer from some dim, distant age?

Or should she face the years to come—the deadly, aching years—a living dead woman—a smirking, soulless shadow in Armand's eager arms? What could she do? What would you have done?

But read in her own frank words what was her decision! Read—and feel between the lines the throbbing of a woman's heart—bleeding and bruised—read on, breathless, to a smashing climax such as no fictionist in all the world could invent!

AGED INVENTOR HONORED HERE

Lights to Illuminate City Buildings Oct. 21

A proclamation concerning the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the production of Edison's first incandescent lamp has been prepared by Mayor J. W. Akin and submitted to W. E. McBroom, city clerk, to be brought up at the proper time, it was announced Tuesday.

Prepares Proclamation

The proclamation reads:

"Whereas, 1929 marks the 50th anniversary of the perfection of the incandescent lamp by Thomas A. Edison, and

"Whereas, this invention and subsequent ones in the field have influenced the whole course of the nation's life, proving a boon to mankind and a major factor in the progress of America, both socially and ecenomically, and

"Whereas, it is fitting that this fact be celebrated by a grateful people who have reaped the benefit of this invention, and

"Whereas, it is fitting that tribute be paid to the man responsible for the invention, and

"Whereas, a Light's Golden Jubilee is being sponsored by the Edison Pioneers, a group of Edison's friends and associates, and a nation-wide committee of distinguished men and women, headed by Herbert Hoover, and

"Whereas, Oct. 21 has been set aside as the date for the final celebration of this Light's Golden Jubilee,

"Therefore, I, J. W. Akin, mayor of the city of Wichita Falls, do hereby set aside and proclaim Oct. 21, 1929, as the time for the official celebration of Light's Golden Jubilee, and do call upon all citizens to co-operate to make it a fitting and memorable occasion."

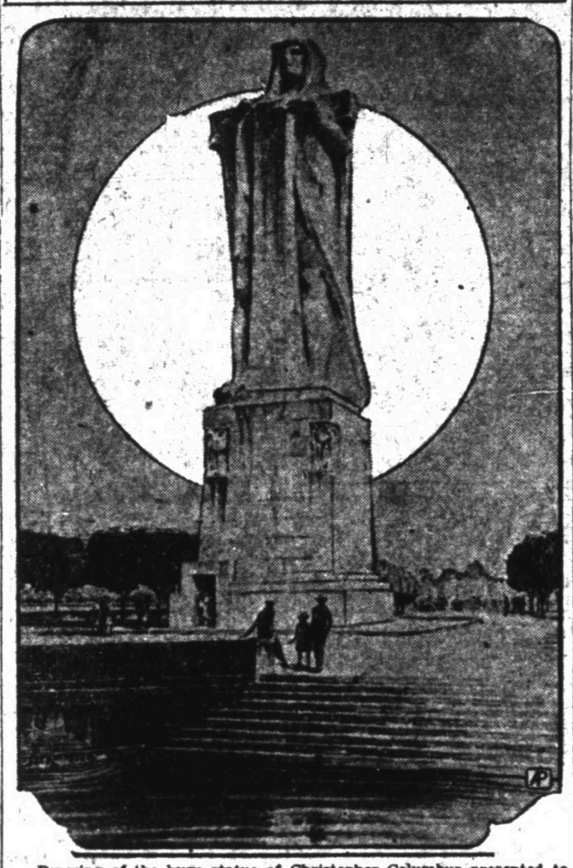

The jubilee, which is to culminate on Oct. 21, will take the form of light festivals throughout the nation, a testimonial dinner to Thomas A. Edison, to be given by Henry Ford at Dearborn, Mich., and which is to be attended by America's most distinguished citizens. Another feature of the celebration will be the dedication, at Dearborn, of the completely restored Edison's Menlo Park laboratories, which will permanently preserve for the people a record of the life and invention of Mr. Edison.

Flags to Fly

President Herbert Hoover is honorary chairman of the general committee for Light's Golden Jubilee. The committee also includes such names as Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, Dr. Nicholas Murry Butler, Rev. S. Parker Cadman, John W. Davis, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, George Eastman, Harvey Firestone, Henry Ford, James W. Gerard, W. S. Gifford, Will H. Hays, Charles Evans Hughes, Dr. C. H. Mayo, Andrew W. Mellon, Dwight W. Morrow, John D. Rockefeller Jr., Charles M. Schwab, and many others.

As a proper manifestation of cooperation in the movement, the flag will be flown from all municipal buildings by day, and will be illuminated on the night of Oct. 21. Educational material is being planned to be distributed throughout the nation during the celebration, according to the letter received by Mayor Akin from J. F. Quinlan, representing Light's Golden Jubilee.

Judge Cook Sets $31,000 Tax Suit Against County for Trial June 8

Trial of the $31,200 suit brought by W. R. Anderson against Wichita county, seeking payment under the terms of an alleged contract for delinquent tax collections, was set down for the week beginning July 8 when the 78th district court appearance docket was called Tuesday morning.

Judge W. W. Cook also announced settings for every day of the next six weeks. Among the cases docketed is the re-trial of the $18,000 suit entered by Guy C. Raley, county tax collector, against the county for delinquent tax commissions, set for June 17, as previously announced.

Meantime attorneys on both sides of the collector's suit are prepared for arguments on a special motion for judgment to be offered this week by T. R. Boone, representing Mr. Raley. The attorney claims that a recently enacted law, forbidding the county to plead limitations in this instance, makes complete a partial verdict rendered by the jury in the original trial, and gives judgment to the plaintiff. The question to be argued with the presentation of the motion is unique in the history of legal jurisprudence in the county, attorneys say.

WRIGHT TRIAL SET JUNE 24

State Seeks Conviction As Habitual Criminal

Trial of C. A. Wright, charged with a third burglary offense, conviction for which carries a life term prison sentence, heads a list of criminal cases set for the week one June 24, Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney, announced Tuesday afternoon.

Others Sentenced

The Texas habitual criminal act, which makes a 99 year sentence mandatory after a third conviction for burglary, will be invoked by the state in the trial of Wright, Sam Spence, district attorney has already announced. Certified copies of court records in Louisiana and in Oklahoma, showing prison sentence imposed upon Wright in both those states, will be offered in evidence, Mr. Spence declared. The indictment returned here names the defendant under a double alias as Wright, alias J. C. Wilson, alias Claude White.

Wright was arrested in Oklahoma City following the recovery of a large quantity of goods stolen from Wichita Falls homes two months ago. T. O. Cagle, named with Wright in one indictment, has already begun the serving of a 20-year sentence on four counts, and Mrs. Mae Hart, charged with receiving and concealing stolen property in connection with the same series of burlaries, is under a five-year suspended sentence.

Both cases against Wright are set for the week of June 24, Mr. Anglin said, but the separate indictment specifically charging a third offense is to come up first.

Third Nichols Trial

A third trial for R. B. Nichols, charged with the robbery of the Spoonts Drug store last Christmas night is also set for the week of the 24th, according to the docket made public Tuesday. Two former trials have resulted in hung juries. A trial called two weeks ago in the 89th district court was postponed because of the illness of the defendant.

Other settings for the same week are announced as follows:

J. T. Reynolds and Lloyd Hooker, transportation and possession of whisky for sale; Douglas Harvill, automobile theft; F. W. Bentley, alias Curtis York, theft; Curtis York alias F. W. Bentley, forgery; A. D. King and Jack Stewart, burglary; Noah Caldwell and C. D. McWilliams, burglary; Ed Riley, failure to stop and render aid; Mitchell Dooley, driving while intoxicated; and Henry Marshall, disposing of mortgaged property.

BAR URGES LARGER COURT

Wichitans to Support Amendment

Members of a committee representing the Wichita County Bar association will attend a state association meeting in Austin on June 12, called for the purpose of outlining a campaign in favor of the proposed amendment to the state constitution which would triple the present membership of the state supreme court. The committee was appointed by Tarleton Morrow, president of the local organization, in a special meeting in the 78th district court room Tuesday morning. Its members include J. T. Montgomery, R. E. Huff, H. C. McBride, W. N. Bonner, A. H. Carrigan and Roy J. Daniel.

The proposed amendment is to be submitted to the people in an election to be held on July 16. It calls for nine members of the state supreme court instead of the three now on the bench. The change has been proposed in an effort to relieve present congestion, attorneys explained.

The Wichita county association voted its endorsement of the movement in authorizing the appointment of the committee and requesting its attendance at the preliminary meeting next week.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

In Scotland, after 93 years of schism, the assemblies of the Church of Scotland and the United Free church voted recently for a union, effective in October. Unity in doctrines would be real religion for in true Christianity, names mean so little. We think the heathen become confused when worshipers of one God teach they must be Baptist or Methodist or Presbyterian, etc., to be saved.

The opening of the sarcophagus of Peter the Great must have been, in spite of a seeming scarelgiousness, a deeply interesting occurrence. Did his treasures lie buried with him?

MOTHER YIELDS TO SON'S WIFE

Dorothy Dix Warns Against Show of Jealousy

Any Woman Who Preserves the Same Kindly Relations That Exist Between Hostess and Guest In Her Dealings With Her Daughter-in-Law Will Insure Her Own Peace and Popularity.

A woman writes to me: "My son, who is my only child, is going to be married and it is necessary that I should live with them. I want to get on harmoniously with his wife and not be a disturbing factor in his household. Can you give me any points about how to be a good mother-in-law?"

Well, the main factor in being a good mother-in-law consists in taking the right attitude toward it. The reason that most women fail as mothers-in-law is because they are so surcharged with jealousy that it colors all their actions toward their sons' wives. They look through green spectacles at the poor little brides their sons have brought home and take a bilious and distorted view of everything they do.

It is a funny thing that women want their daughters to marry and that they welcome their sons-in-law with open arms, but it is nearly always the bitterness of death to them to have their sons marry, and they hate, sight unseen, the scheming minxes who, they feel, have literally robbed them of their guileless little boys. There is never any difficulty in telling which is the bride's mother and which is the bridegroom's mother at a wedding. The smiling, triumphant lady who has the air of one who has just pulled off a good thing is the bride's mother. The poor, tear-sodden creature, who looks as if life was a total loss, is the groom's mother.

Begin, then, by taking a sane and safe outlook on the situation. Don't pity yourself and feel that fate has dealt you a sinister blow because your son is getting married. Don't talk about its being hard to have to give him up. Don't wail out that it tears your heart in two for him to put another woman above yourself and love her better than he does you.

Recognize that it is perfectly natural for him to marry and found a family and that he will be a better and a more useful man for doing so and it is the thing that you should want him to do. Realize that his marriage won't separate you from him unless you quarrel with his wife. In fact, men nearly always appreciate their mothers more after marriage than they did before, because marriage gives them a more plognant understanding of what wifehood and motherhood really cost a woman. Don't resent his love for his wife, because the affection that a man has for his wife and his mother don't clash. They are two entirely different brands of love, as any woman knows who has been married herself.

So begin by giving your new daughter-in-law the glad hand. Make her feel that you regard her as an agreeable addition to the family and not as an interloper, and then set yourself assiduously to work to vamp her. Use every art and wile and blandishment in your repertoire to win her heart, for on your making friends with her depends whether you keep your son or have him alienated from you.

Take the initiative in doing this because you are older and more worldly wise than your daughter-in-law and you should have, at least, more self-control and tact in meeting difficult situations than she has. Also, because it is far more important to you for her to love you than it is to her for you to love her. She could get along very well without you, but life would mean nothing to you if she put a barrier between you and your son. So study her weaknesses and learn to play up to them instead of knocking them. Learn to dodge her angles and respect her "Keep-Off-the-Grass" signs. Jolly her along and "sell" yourself to her as if she were a million-dollar prospect.

If your daughter-in-law has to live in your house, regard her as an honored guest. If you go to live in her house, never forget that you are a guest and that you must adapt yourself to the ways of your hostess and refrain from interfering in the management of her household.

You must remember how cocksure you were of your judgment on every point when you were a bride, what stress you put on trifles and how jealous you were of your authority. Every young married woman feels the same way, and the chief reason she hates having mother-in-law around is because not one woman in a million can see another woman making a pie without putting her finger in it.

Treat your daughter-in-law as if she were your daughter. If you had a daughter you would want her to have all the pretty things her husband could possibly give her. You would want her to have all the pleasures that came her way. Then show your daughter-in-law that you are pleased when she gets a new frock instead of looking sour and making a few caustic remarks about wives who waste their husband's money in extravagance. Urge her to go to places of amusement and to keep up with her clubs and her bridge and suggest to her husband that he take her out at night now and then instead of grumbling about wives who gad too much every time you see her put on her hat.

Don't give your daughter-in-law an overdose of your society. Don't be an old woman of the sea who is always hanging around the necks of her son and his wife. Every young couple who love each other want to be by themselves sometimes. They have things to say to each other that they don't want even their mother to hear.

So don't always sit with them of an evening. Go off to your own room and read a book or go visiting or go to the movies with a crony. Don't always fill up the back seat when they take a ride. If you possibly can, go off somewhere now and then on a visit or to some pleasure resort. There is nothing like judicious spaces of absence to make the heart grow fonder of an in-law.

Don't criticize your daughter-in-law. Her ways may not be your ways, but such as they are she has a right to them. Possibly they are a modern improvement that are better than your own. If she makes mistakes let her find out her error for herself. Don't tell her of her faults. None of us loves the bearer of ill-news or enjoys having our vanity stabbed.

Bite your tongue off rather than make suggestions. No human being is more aggravating to live with than the chronic adviser, and don't always be telling your daughter-in-law how you used to do everything, from making coffee to housing a husband. There are an entirely new set of rules for the game now.

In a word, be kindly. Be human. Be affectionate and sympathetic. Keep your hands off and you will be a good mother-in-law.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Madam—I am a man who is a crank on personal cleanliness. My best girl is what they used to call in the Pinafore "a very imperfect ablutioner." She thinks it more or less a waste of time and soap and water even to take a daily bath. Her hands are often in need of a manicure and her hair of a shampoo and she camouflages her lack of neatness with cosmetics. Had I better veer off?

—PERTURBED PETE.

Answer: I should think so. Cleanliness is not only next to godliness, it is first aid to love. I can think of nothing that would so quickly disillusion a neat man as to be doomed to live with an untidy wife. Slovenliness is bad enough in a man. It is the unpardonable sin in a woman. —DOROTHY DIX.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, June 4. (US)—A kindergarten teacher asked the head of her school if her husband might come to the school every noon and eat lunch with her in the school cafeteria. The request was so unusual that it was granted. "because," said the superintendent, "there is no danger of a request like that being run to death. It's the first time I've encountered anything like it."

The lady used to nurse John D. Rockefeller. She said he gave her the best business advice she ever had. It was, never to close doors in business. "He meant," she said, "never to shut the door against your return in case you wanted to go back for any reason whatever, and never to have doors closed against someone who wanted to talk to you. The more I've thought of it, the better it sounded."

"And he told me," said this intelligent woman, "that if one could concentrate and want a thing enough, he could almost invariably get it. Concentrate and not be impatient."

"I'm Scotch," said a snappy young thing, "and I don't believe they are tight. I think they don't deserve that reputation. I can't enjoy Scotch stories, because they make me mad. But I heard one today that did make me laugh. One of the girls at school said she heard of an Englishman, an American and a Scotchman who were going to have a party and each was to bring something. The Englishman brought a bottle of Scotch, the American a bottle of gin, and the Scotchman brought his brother."

"Well you know," said her companion, "I'm partly Jewish, but I resent Jewish stories because I don't like to hear my people poked fun at. But I guess there are jokes on all kinds of people, so I'm rather silly. I did laugh yesterday when one of the girls at school told me about the three men to be executed at dawn, who were told they could have anything they wanted for their last meal.

"The Irishman wanted corned beef and cabbage. The Englishman wanted plum pudding. The Jewish boy wanted fresh strawberries and cream. The guard said: 'It's all right, the offer was made in good faith, but strawberries are out of season, we can't possibly give you strawberries!'

"The Jewish boy said—Oh that's all right, that's all right, I can wait!"

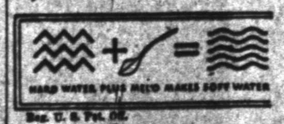

A Massachusetts institute has a professor who instructed his pupils to "marry the daughter of the boss and not his stenographer if you want to be a success."

Someone should enlighten the professor. Evidently he doesn't know how very little men have to do with their getting married. The best they can do is hope that the stenographer won't decide to marry them, and that the boss' daughter will.

There's a dirty ring around your washtubs

IT COMES from the hard water you use to wash clothes in. Soap and hard water combine to make scum. The scum collects dirt. Part forms a dirty ring. Much gets into the fabric of the clothes. It makes them hard to wash snowy white.

But soften the water with Melo and no scum forms. No dirty ring. No grayish white clothes. Melo and water is a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap. It saves soap, too, from ½ to ⅔ the amount ordinarily used. It makes soap more effective. It makes clothes white. Get it at your grocer's.

Lilyan Tashman tells how to attract

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Opinion is unanimous among the 39 foremost movie directors that no girl can be fascinating unless she has lovely skin. As Alan Dwan puts it: "Smooth skin is a perpetual attraction. Rose-petal skin gets the American public every time."

Lilyan Tashman says: "You just can't 'get by' on the screen without smooth, beautiful skin." Like 98% of the important actresses in Hollywood, she is enthusiastic about Lux Toilet Soap. "This fragrant white soap is such a wonderful help in keeping my skin blooming!" she says.

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap, and all the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms. It is made by the famous French method

So that all may enjoy healthful vegetables

Cook with sugar in only a little water

A GROUP of cooking experts recently made extensive tests in New York on the correct way of cooking vegetables. They made a discovery so simple and yet so far-reaching that every woman interested in good foods should know about it.

The vegetables were cooked in various ways. The various dishes were numbered. Then the experts tasted them and voted. In every case the vegetables prepared with sugar and little water won unanimously.

Try, for example, this delicious Corn Pudding. Use either fresh or canned corn. To 2 cups of corn add 1 canned pimiento and 1 small green pepper shredded coarsely, ½ small grated onion, 2 well-beaten eggs, 2 level tablespoons of sugar, 1 teaspoon of salt, ⅛ teaspoon of pepper and paprika, 2 tablespoons of flour, 1 teaspoon of baking powder and 1 cup of milk. Mix all ingredients together, add 2 teaspoons of melted butter. Drain into a well-buttered casserole and bake half an hour. Then remove cover and delicately brown.

Try this new discovery every time you cook a vegetable. Note how much more both children and adults like vegetables cooked in this way because the added sugar develops and brings out all the natural, tasteful flavors of the foods. Sugar restores the flavor of freshness to vegetables that are wilted and to canned vegetables. Add a dash or more of sugar, depending on quantity, when cooking peas, lima beans, string beans, corn, carrots, beets, parsnips, sweet potatoes, squash, onions and tomatoes. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

EDITORIALS IRK SENATE COURT

Biting Articles Have Impeachers on the Go

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 4. (UP)—The senate impeachment court today considered remaining in recess rather than adjourning to maintain jurisdiction in case "editorials become warmer and warmer and opinion too biting."

The question was placed before the court by Senator W. M. Gulager who had with him a letter written him by William J. Loe, Socialist orator. The letter charged the senate with "being the greatest bunch of judicial acrobats that was ever assembled under one roof."

Gulager also declared that a group was preparing to issue a free-thought magazine within a week called the Maverick which would attack the court with articles "that should not be printed."

Senator W. G. Fidler moved that the court only recess instead of adjourn but Stigler based his motion on the ground that the court should remain in session to determine what action the county attorney and the attorney general take in the court's resolution asking an investigation of testimony given before the court in the trial of Chief Justice Charles W. Mason.

Senator Jo Ferguson, Republican floor leader, ridiculed Gulager's action and declared:

"You fellows missed the big game and now you're shooting at rabbits."

Loe's letter to Gulager, which was read on the floor of the senate, follows:

"Dear Sir: Since writing you last week the state senate, sitting as a court of impeachment, has acted in a manner that has astounded the intelligent citizens of this state.

"You are the greatest bunch of judicial acrobats that was ever assembled under one roof.

"You vote to acquit Justice Mason on the testimony of a bunch of witnesses and then adopt a resolution directing the county attorney to prosecute these same witnesses for perjury. But you leave out of your resolution the names of the three most contemptible perjurors of them all, and I will leave it to you senators to guess who they are.

"This proceeding will cause a complete revamping of the campaign I wrote you about in my former letter, consequently I would consider it a personal favor if you would inform me if there is to be any more horseplay or side-stepping, so that we may include the whole show in the above named magazine.

"(Signed) W. J. Loe."

Senator John A. McDonald asked if Stanley J. Clark was not the same Stanley J. Clark sent to the Leavenworth penitentiary during the world war for obstructing the draft and Gulager answered that Clark is.

Gulager declared that this supreme court question has been passed on five times, once in the district court of Oklahoma county in the Riley libel suit, once in the district court of Atoka county in the Clark libel suit and three times in the senate in the impeachment trials of Mason, Riley and Clark.

Gulager declared that when the highest courts in the land have passed on a case that the newspapers should not be permitted to keep referring to the case unless there was corruption in the court passing on it.

Sherlock Holmes Irrevocably Dead, Sir Arthur Says

LONDON, June 4. (INS)—Sherlock Holmes is dead—absolutely, irrevocably dead. Never again will poor Watson murmer his bewilderment.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of the most famous character in detective fiction, is authority for this statement. In an interview with International News Service on his seventieth birthday, Sir Arthur declared the world must expect no further Sherlock Holmes fiction.

"No, Holmes is dead this time," the famous author said when asked whether he might be tempted to put pen to paper again and recount further adventures of Sherlock.

"If he came back," Sir Arthur added, "it would be a very inglorious resurrection, although, mind you, if he were alive today, he would more than hold his own.

"I've got plenty to do apart from Holmes. I have not given up writing somebody said I had. That's nonsense. I have another ambition. It is to wind up my work for what I consider to be the most important thing in the world, by going round all the European capitals lecturing upon spiritualism."

Sir Arthur is one of the leading exponents of spiritualism in Britain.

He is survived by his widow and three children. Poor health and a declining earning capacity were given as reasons for his suicide.

Much of the Southwest's growth in the next 20 years will come from the industrial utilization of this rich fuel resource, and the Lone Star organization will continue to play a big part in this development.

As we reach the 20th milestone, we pause an instant for a brief backward glance at the trials and triumphs of the past . . . then we face . . . FORWARD!

Is New York America's Most Important City?

THE director of the New York Welfare council, issuing some sort of statement about the work of his organization, speaks of New York as "the biggest, richest and most important city in the world."

Very likely it is the biggest, although a Londoner might be disposed to start an argument about it. Surely it is the richest; never in all history has there been such a concentration of wealth in one place. But most important? That's something else again.

We have always worshipped bigness in this country. It is instinctive for us to feel that the largest thing must be the best. And it is easy to be dazzled by New York. Stay there for a while and you get the feeling that nothing that happens anywhere else really matters. You speak of other places as "the provinces," and feel sorry for the luckless mortals who cannot experience the subway jams, cramped living quarters and eternal confusion of the metropolis.

Yes, New York is very big and dazzling. But most important? It is foolish to call it that. There isn't any "most important" city—or, if there is, its identity is different for each man on earth.

Your own most important city may be the town you live in. It may be the place where you were raised, made important to you now by the haze of old memories that has settled about its unforgotten outlines. Or it may be some distant town where something important once happened to you; a town in which you got one of those momentary, elusive experiences that life sometimes offers, in which the heavens were parted and you could see, for a space, your own divinity.

Things like that happen unexpectedly. They are not explainable. They come without being asked, and they cannot be made to come back on demand. Yet all of us, at one time or another, experience them.

A man goes on his daily round, as he has gone on it for years, unsuspecting. Then, one day, there comes a moment in which things are transfigured, and the world wears a new aspect. His familiar home street, perhaps, appears to him in a new light. It is no longer an ordinary roadway flanked by ordinary houses and apartments; it is an enchanted lane, about which are grouped the temporary stopping places of tired and groping men and women who are making the universal pilgrimage from imperfection to perfection, from ugliness to beauty, from selfishness and cowardice to heroic self-sacrifice.

After that the old routine returns. But it is never quite the same again. The man knows, now, that the world is not what he had supposed it, but far better.

The place where that sort of thing comes to you is, to you, earth's most important spot. Statistics of size and wealth do not count. Every town can be a window through which unseen things can be glimpsed. And life can hold no more important experience.

The Tariff and Our Exports

A TRENCHANT bit of comment on the tariff bill which recently passed the house of representatives is to be found in an article in the current Magazine of Wall Street.

Reviewing the manner in which duties have been raised the magazine remarks:

"Our foreign trade will be placed under handicaps at a time when we are in special need of expanded outlets for our over-production factories. Our imports will be relatively if not actually reduced, and consequently it will become more difficult for the United States to play the role of a creditor nation, a role which it cannot escape.

"Economic evolution drives us to increased imports as well as exports, but our politics drives us in the opposite direction."

A nation that depends on its foreign trade as much as ours does might give that some earnest thought.

Let Lindbergh Alone

WERE glad that Lindy and his bride managed to slip away from everybody, for the first part of their honeymoon at least.

Newspaper reporters and photographers are, in the main, estimable chaps; yet no young man wants to take a gang of them along when he goes honeymooning. Lindy's eagerness to shake them is quite understandable—and for all that he is still the most interesting young man in the country, we're glad he succeeded.

After all the young aviator has been in the public eye for two solid years now. It's time he had some privacy. Let's let him completely alone for a while. We owe it to him—now above all times.

Disregarding Their Safety

THE department of commerce requires all men who would get licenses as commercial airplane pilots to take extremely strict medical examinations.

The doctors who give these tests, it seems, have to be constantly on their guard. Scores of men, who know they are not physically qualified, try to hookwink them and get passing marks that they do not deserve. Few, if any, succeed; yet the doctors have to be exceedingly vigilant.

This represents a rather queer quirk in human nature. The strict physical examination is as much a safeguard for the pilot himself as for anyone else. If a man isn't properly equipped physically he can't fly in safety. Yet many men disregard this and try to become pilots anyhow. They seem to overlook the fact that by doing so they are simply jeopardizing their own lives.

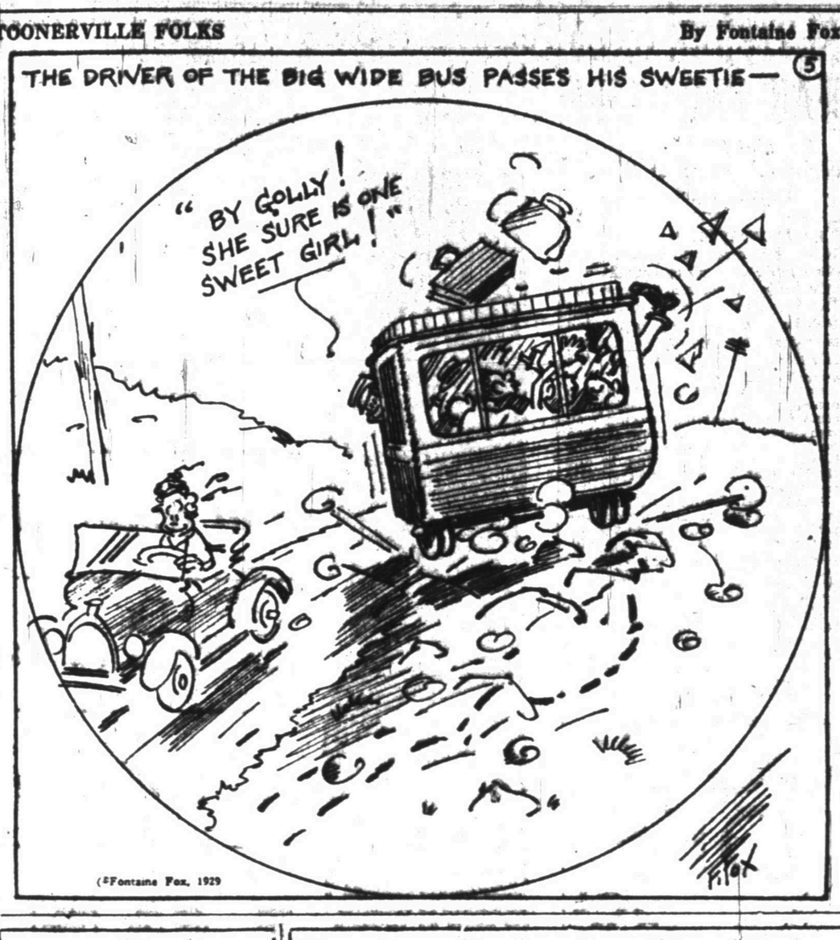

Quotations Worth Noting

"We are on the threshold of a rapid expansion in air traffic. The law throughout the 48 states and the federal government is in the making. The aviation corporation proposes to become active in securing uniformity and stability of law and procedure to safeguard life and the streams of capital flowing into aviation and allied enterprises."—Mabel Walker Willebrandt.

"The supreme court is very much like Hamlet following the ghost of his father. The court follows that ghostly thing we call the will of congress. It follows it as did the Prince of Denmark follow the ghost, with timidity and trembling, because it never knows how far the congress is going or into what abyss of unconstitutionalism the ghost may lead it."—Representative Beck, Pennsylvania.

"The door is wide open, not only to cooperative associations, but associations or corporations actually engaged in marketing of agricultural commodities, owned or controlled by cooperative associations, or by individuals engaged as original producers of agricultural commodities."—Representative Haugen, Iowa.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Summer Place

Chapter I

After six weeks of answering advertisements, you select a cottage that would be quite livable if it had four or five more rooms, a decent kitchen and a chair or two. You have a long argument with the real estate agent over the price and finally decide to take the place if the landlord will clean the gas range and put in a new icebox.

PHILLIPS

Chapter II

You run up the following week for a more minute inspection and inventory. You discover all the cooking utensils are rusty, the dishes incomplete and that there are no bulbs in the electric light fixtures. Also that the bed in the guest room has only three legs, that there are three broken windows upstairs and that the doorknob on the front door is missing. You call up the real estate agent who announces that the cottage was rented "as is" and that he doesn't think Mr. Winterbottom will be willing to expend any money on the place. You find the gas, electricity and water are off and that you will have to take care of these matters personally.

Chapter III

Having written the gas, electricity water and telephone companies and had replies assuring you the service will be turned on "at once," you decide the following Saturday to run up over night and do a little settling. You discover the gas, electricity and telephone service still disconnected. You call the gas company and are told that the office is closed Saturday afternoons and that nobody is there who knows anything about anything. Ditto for the electric light company. You phone the telephone company and are told there is no record of any application for renewal of phone service. A thunderstorm comes up and you find there is a bad leak in the roof. You find the old ice-box has been taken out but that no new one has been put in. You phone the real estate man again. He comforts you with the statement that he can't understand it.

Chapter IV

You come up the next week-end with the family flivver loaded with pots, pans, bric-a-brac, dishes, chairs, tennis equipment, fishing outfits, golf bags, etc. The gas and electricity have been turned on, but a fuse blows out when you monkey with some new floor lamps. You go to the phone to get an electrician and find the line is still dead. You run to the corner store, call the telephone company, ask why the telephone hasn't been looped in and are asked, "Are you sure you notified us?" You develop a mild headache, which is succeeded by a heart attack when you return to the cottage and find the new icebox, just installed, is apparently a nursery toy. You decide to put up the screens and discover there is no netting in them. Another complaint to the agent again brings the statement that Mr. Winterbottom can't see his way to put out any money on the property in view of "the low rental of $1,800 for the season of six weeks." You build a fire in the open fireplace and are driven out by the smoke. It seems it isn't any good.

Chapter V

You move in for the season and develop a nervous breakdown trying to make the place look cozy and comfortable. The roof continues to leak. You find your days are taken up largely between painting porch furniture and running around back to answer doorbell calls from Armenian shawl-peddlers.

Chapter VI

You get comfortably settled and discover it is Labor day. You realize it was all a great mistake.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, June 4.—This story concerns Princeton, but it is quite possible you may come across it. That is because universities, like all great corporations, have gone in for press agents. My reason for telling the story here is the possibility that university press agents are too much concerned with announcing undergraduate contests for the handsomest man, the man most likely to succeed, the most popular man and the man most likely to fall in the lake if somebody doesn't get up enough gumption to push him in.

Well, in this case, it seems that the late Colonel William Libby of the class of 1877 was in Cambridge, England, and noticed in a window a yellow and black ribbon which read, "The Duke of Nassau's Colors." So he suggested similar colors for Princeton. The idea, once adopted, yellow was ordered. The mill, however, sent back orange, and because there wasn't enough time between receipt of the banners and a certain race to correct the error, orange was adopted.

Once when very young, I had dreams of shooting all teachers of reading, writing and arithmetic. They seemed unnecessary, superfluous, tyrants of the worst sort. And now, a little sadly, I read that New York educators—the members of the local board of education, to be exact—have cut down on the requirements of English and are going to cut down, also, on the requirements of arithmetic for grade school pupils. Reading, also, I suppose, will be limited.

Of course, I've forgotten all the rules of grammar and even rudimentary arithmetic is foreign to me, my wife being forced to figure out all mathematical matters for me. And still I regret the passing of these things in the lower schools. I always wanted to be able to meet a teacher and say to him: "Huh! Think you're smart with all your knowledge of English. Well, I owe nothing to English studies in grammar school. I don't even remember what it's all about."

And whereas, once the school teacher would have looked upon me with shocked eye, now, I suspect, he will whisper in my ear: "The same here. All these rules are Greek to me, that's why we want them abolished."

Judging from all the advertisements in the New York papers, as well as the inducements held out by the railroads, New Yorkers are looking forward this summer to brief interludes in the west—on ranches.

The popularity of dude ranches suddenly has attracted general attention and, from inquiries, I learn that professional vacation promoters and advisors are swamped with inquiries concerning them. Young ladies and young men are going west, temporarily, to enjoy a new form of "whoopee." Some of the ads, indeed, have to go so far as to advise prospective dude ranchers not to bring along evening clothes.

That mighty play of Eugene O'Neill, "Strange Interlude," leaves New York at last. Since January, 1928, it has occupied major attention in New York, not only so far as the critics are concerned but, oddly enough, the attention of the public.

The play, in many respects, has been a "strange interlude." Here was a production, forceful, unusually lengthy and, what our forefathers used to call, "deep." But it was not too deep nor too long to intrigue the interest of modern playgoers. Although it started at something like 5:30 o'clock and continued until well past 11 o'clock, saturated with the solemn philosophy and convictions of a great observer of human life, it attracted attention, in spite of all the oppositions ballyhoo of musical comedy and jazz stage productions.

The producers may say that the past season has been a failure, but the fact that "Strange Interlude," with all its strange disregard for the formalities and conventionalities of theatrical enterprise, has kept above the water, is, to some of us, a happy proof that the season was a success.

With courage enough to carry out his convictions, Abraham Vogel, organizer of the league for sensible clothing, walks into court when he must appear in the capacity of attorney without a necktie, vest, coat, or hat in summer months.

The judges don't seem to object, and why should they? Mr. Vogel feels that hot weather calls for the abolition of such things.

And then, according to our friend, the New Yorker, there's Charles De Zemler, who has a barber shop in the New York Central building. The walls, we learn, are of solid walnut. At one end of the room is a sofa, soft chairs, a writing table. Old prints and engravings line the walls.

Once, it seems De Zemler was head masseur of the Royal Massieur institute of Stockholm—they really have such a place over there—and has practised in most of the world capitols. He was private barber to the Earl of Ypres, the late W. K. Vanderbilt and—

Well, it seems to me Mr. De Zemler is entitled to solid walnut walls, anyhow.

EQUAL RIGHTS 10 YEARS OLD

Watson Praises Results of Woman Suffrage

WASHINGTON, June 4. (INS)—Commemorating the 10th anniversary of the passage of the woman suffrage amendment through the senate, Senator Watson, Republican of Indiana today praised the results of equal suffrage on the welfare of the country.

"Twenty-three men who are now members of this body have the distinction of having voted for the suffrage amendment in the senate when it was passed on June 4, 1919, and I believe I can say that every one of them will gladly bear testimony to the splendid results achieved by granting to women political equality with men," said Watson.

"Many indeed clearly see that the rights of women to complete equality is convincingly demonstrated by the manner in which American women have borne their part in our national life since the suffrage amendment was adopted in the senate 10 years ago today.

"I congratulate women on their achievements in paractically every line of endeavor and wish to say I am proud of any service I may have been able to render them in their advance toward full equality with the male citizens of this country."

MECHANIC HAS NEW AIR IDEA

But World Is Slow to Accept Plan

WASHINGTON, June 4. (UP)—Arthur A. Nero, an automobile mechanic, believes he has given to the world a discovery worth millions of dollars and wonders at the world's reluctance to accept his gift.

For more than three years he has been trying to convince aviation experts and government officials that he has discovered the secret of the albatross's soaring powers of flight and can revolutionize aviation by its mechanical application.

"They have poked fun at me," he said, forcing a smile. "They have talked about fuelless motors for my benefit. One professor at New York university told me I was getting close to perpetual motion. They have all tried to show that my theory cannot be applied.

"Won't they feel a little foolish when my invention comes into use?"

Nero's faith in his invention has never faltered. He is positive that eventually it will make the airplanes now in use as obsolete as the horse and buggy. And all he wants for himself is recognition and enough money to continue his work.

Nero' invention is an airplane with screw-form wings, one the left hand the other the right hand section of a screw-form. His theory is that the action of air pressure on such wings will produce a threefold reaction—pressure on the bottom, top and sides.

This, he said, will give the plane inherent balance so it will be impossible for it to turn over. There will be no need for either ailerons or rudder. The only control apparatus will be in the tail. Furthermore, he said, his plane will require but little space for taking off and landing—almost a helicopter.

The present theory of flight takes into account air pressure from the bottom only and planes are constructed on this principle. In descending and in slow flight, Nero's plane would operate on the same principle but in rapid flight the air pressure would be applied to the upper surface of the wings and it would be sustained by pressure on the lower surface of the tail.

"That's the way a bird soars, Nero said. "It's the principle aviation has been searching for but now they won't accept it."

TWO INDICTED FOR KILLING

Man Believed Killed for Insurance Money

MACON, Ga., June 4. (INS)—Mrs. Sarah Powers and Earl Manchester were indicted by the Bibb county grand jury today for the death of James Parks, slain, it was alleged, for the $14,000 insurance Mrs. Powers held on his life.

Earl Manchester, 21, was charged with the murder. Mrs. Powers, 71-year-old boarding house proprietor, was charged with being accessory before the act. Either charge can carry the death penalty. Solicitor General Chaffin H. Garrett said the pair will be tried within a month.

It was not indicated whether the grand jury will go further into other mysterious deaths and fires over a period of 15 years, in many of which Mrs. Powers was said to have collected insurance.

Manchester, a boarder of Mrs. Powers, is alleged to have made a signed statement claiming, police alleged, Mrs. Powers promised him $1,000 to kill Parks. Mrs. Powers held an insurance policy for $14,000 on Parks' life, investigators declared.

The bullet-pierced body of Parks was found last week near the Ocmulgee river.

'SNOB' ADVICE CALLED IRONY

Reaction to Unorthodox Talk to Students Varies

NEW YORK, June 4. (UP)—Prof. Robert E. Rogers' advice to seniors at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to "be snobs if you want to succeed" was characterized by one educator here as in line with the modern trend.

The reaction to Rogers' advice varied, some of the educators being indignant while others thought the professor probably was speaking ironically.

Some of the comments follow:

Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, president of the College of the City of New York: "No one loves a snob; no one with brains can try to be a snob and feel comfortable; don't be a snob, be a gentleman."

Dean Adelbert C. Fridenburgh of Brooklyn City college: "I think a student can get by better if he puts up a good front. At the same time he can overdo it."

CHICAGO'S OPINION SLIGHTLY DIVIDED

CHICAGO, June 4. (UP)—Advice to "be a snob and succeed", propounded by Prof. Robert E. Rogers of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was received with adverse criticism by Chicago educators.

Modesty and hard work, rather than a bold front and a better-than-you attitude, were advocated by several educators, representing a cross section of faculties in Chicago.

The comment:

Frederick Woodward, acting president of the University of Chicago: "Professor Rogers' speech sounded like irony. I'm old fashioned enough to believe young men can forge ahead on their merits."

Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university: "I never have known a great man who was a snob."

Chinese Logic

He had employed a Chinese cook for many years, and one day, after a particularly good dinner, decided to raise the man's wages.

When the Chinese received the increased money at the end of the week, he was very surprised. "Why are you paying me more?" he asked.

"Because you have been such a good cook," the master replied.

"Oh!" the Oriental frowned. "Then you've been cheating me for years, eh?"—Answers.

And Here's Way to Woman's Heart

Beauty Greatest Appeal, Says Expert

"If you can convince a woman that something you have to sell will make her more beautiful, she will probably buy it, no matter what the cost or how long it will last," said Mrs. R. E. Davis, advertising director of the P. E. M. company, in an address on "Good Copy" before the Advertising club at the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon.

"But," Mrs. Davis said, "the average woman also will buy anything which she thinks will protect the health of her home and family. Advertisements must be specific, giving price, style, materials, uses and colors. They must appeal to women because women comprise about 80 per cent of the department store patrons, it was stated.

Mrs. Davis declared that an ad must be compelling in its interest to secure its being read.

Silverton to Have New Mail Routes

Special to The Record News

SILVERTON, Texas, June 4.—A new mail service for Silverton and Quitaque will be inaugurated July 1, according to A. E. Friese, local postmaster, who has received information from the postal department that bids are open for an overland carrier between the two points.

The new service will give Silverton an earlier receipt and dispatch of mail by several hours. Under the new plan no mail originating here will be routed over the train via Sterley as at present but will make connection with the railroad mail cars at Quitaque over the truck mail line which will be in operation the first of next month.

In dispatching the outgoing railroad mail line and in arranging for the new line to pick up the Silverton mail at Quitaque, closer contact and quicker communication will have been established with Fort Worth, Wichita Falls and other eastern points. The daily papers from these large centers to the east will be received here early in the morning instead of at noon.

They bought everything new EXCEPT THEIR CAR

EVERY YOUNG COUPLE must buy new curtains, new carpets, new chairs, new kitchen utensils, new linen. But, thanks to the used car market, they can have dependable transportation for even less than the lowest priced new car.

Of the cars you see on the road today, three out of five have been purchased by their owners as "used cars." Many of them are serving as "second cars" for a family which needs two or more cars to meet the requirements of all its members. Many others are affording satisfactory transportation to families who otherwise would be denied automobile ownership.

A used car is unused transportation

We invite you to visit the stores of General Motors dealers and see the cars which they have accepted in trade. Their unused transportation may be enjoyed at very low cost. For the purchase of used cars, as well as new cars, General Motors extends the convenience of the GMAC Purchase Plan.

RAMSEY FACING PRISON, SAYS 'FAITH IN GOD' RENEWED

DIVORCED WIFE GIVEN PRAISE

Former Bible Leader Hopes To Make New Start

Brought back to Wichita Falls to have five years added to the two-year penitentiary sentence he received in Abilene last week, E. G. Ramsey, 52-year-old former Sunday school superintendent, Tuesday afternoon leaned for strength upon the devotion of his divorced wife and his own returning religious faith.

"At first I was bitter, thinking God had forsaken me after all my years in his service, but that's all past now," he admitted, smiling through the bars at the Wichita county jail. "My faith is secure again, although I have woefully back-slidden. I've come back to myself after a nightmare which began last fall."

Wife Was Witness

Ramsey was given a five-year suspended sentence here on charges of swindling by check several weeks ago. He was taken at once to Abilene where forgery charges were pending. His conviction there, carrying a two-year sentence, automatically revoked the suspension here and made his sentence total seven years.

During his trial here and in Abilene, the former Mrs. Ramsey sat at his side. She appeared as a witness in his defense in the hearing here. Her faith and loyalty are unshaken, the prisoner declared.

"While I was in Abilene she brought my supper to me every night in the jail," he explained, "cooking the things I liked best. We are the same friends we have always been, and she still comes to me for advice about managing the estate. We agreed upon a divorce. She inherited a great ranch in Knox county from her first husband and I have helped operate it.

The prisoner, wearing a fresh-high-collared white shirt and newly laundered blue overalls, stood erect, his hands pressing against the jail bars, as he talked. He said he had been superintendent of the First Christian church at Benjamin for a period of three years and declared that he had never had any trouble before last fall.

"I have done wrong, I know, but I was all mistaken. I can see clearly again now and I am through with my doubting."

Former Wife Faithful

Ramsey said that whisky, taken during months of worry, led to his troubles. He said he had no memory of the transaction which resulted in his conviction in Abilene, and that he expected funds from his wife's account to meet the $110 hot check for which he was convicted here.

"I'm sorry I asked for a suspended sentence," he declared. "I would never have been convicted if that jury hadn't felt I would go free. But I've got to learn to face it now. It will all come in time, and I'm glad I'm through with that other life."

The prisoner expects the former Mrs. Ramsey, whom he still calls "my wife," to be waiting for him when the sentence shall be served. He hopes for a parole and a new life, with a return to his old religious activities.

"I was disheartened and bitter when I first realized that the next seven years of my life had been demanded of me, but while I have the devotion of my wife and the love of God to sustain me, I can find peace again," he declared.

Mrs. Donaldson Gains Daily Taking Orgatone

"I've Never Found Anything to Equal It," Declares Wichita Falls Woman

"If I could speak with everybody personally who has stomach and gall bladder trouble," said Mrs. M. T. Donaldson, of 2407 Pennsylvania Ave., Wichita Falls, Texas "I would advise them to take Orgatone, for I have tried it myself, and have never found anything to equal it. I have suffered with a pain in my right side caused from my gall bladder for the past six years until I thought I would go distracted. The pain would extend from my gall bladder down to my side, the muscles and leaders felt like they were drawn, and many a night the pain was so severe that I could hardly keep from crying. My appetite was very poor and my stomach was so out of order that what little I did eat made me miserable. I suffered terribly from indigestion and would bloat up so badly from the gas on my stomach that I could scarcely breathe, and there was always a dull, aching pain in the pit of my stomach.

"But Orgatone has been a wonderful blessing to me and no one could see the change that has taken place in me during the past few weeks and doubt it being a great medicine. All my gall bladder and pains in my gall bladder and pains in my side are gone now, and you may know I feel like a new person. My appetite is splendid. I am never bothered with indigestion or gas any more, no matter what I eat, and my color is much better. Now these are my reasons for thinking so well of Orgatone and I will gladly tell anyone who cares to call on me what I have found out by experience about it."

DR. WORK QUITS AS CHAIRMAN

Former Cabinet Officer Turns in Resignation

WASHINGTON, June 4. (UP)—Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, resigned today a few hours after a conference with President Hoover at the White House.

Reports that Dr. Work's resignation was imminent had been current in political Washington for several weeks.

Work will relinquish his post formally at a special meeting of the national committee which willl be called for early fall. At that time a successor will be selected.

Correspondence between Dr Work and members of the national committee and also a letter from President Hoover expressing his appreciation of Work's service were made public after it had been formally announced that Work would resign.

The text of President Hoover's letter to Dr. Work follows:

"I intensely regret your determination o resign the chairmanship of the Republican national committee. I am, of course, aware that when you accepted the chairmanship last June you made it conditional on your retirement soon after election, and I deeply appreciate your willingness to continue at my urgent request. I fully realize your desire that someone else should undertake the increasing burdens and anxieties of the party chairmanship which are imposed by each new campaign.

"Beyond my own appreciation of your great services, the Republican party owes you a deep debt for its accomplishments under your direction, for there has never been a campaign conducted with greater success or upon a higher plane, or one that has proved itself so far above all criticism.

"You have given many years of distinguished public service and I know your reluctance to undertake further burdens but I am in hopes that you will some time in the future be willing to again return to public life."

Work, native of Pennsylvania and resident of Colorado, held two cabinet posts before he became chairman of the Republican national committee last year. As secretary of interior in the Coolidge cabinet, he became known as one of the original Hoover men—perhaps the first in high office.

He was educated as a physician and practiced extensively at Greeley and Pueblo, Colo. He was named first assistant postmaster general at the opening of the Harding administration. A year later he became postmaster general, and in 1923 he became secretary of interior, succeeding Albert B. Fall. He was continued in office by President Coolidge.

Dr. Work will be 69 years old July 3. He is a Presbyterian and a Mason and his home is at Pueblo, Colo.

His retirement, following so quickly upon the heels of that of Mabel Walker Willebrandt, thus removes from the public picture two of the outstanding figures of the Hoover campaign, and two who were the center of fire.

Work gave no reason for his resignation in his letter to the committee made public today, except to say that he had prepared his resignation for the committee meeting March 5, had been dissuaded from presenting it, and did not then and does not now desire to continue through the approaching congressional campaign, which would be inaugurated next winter.

Work dropped from the political picture soon after the inauguration, going west to his Pueblo, Colo., home, and it was reported then that he had been thwarted in his plans for handling patronage in the Hoover administration.

Mr. Bralley was forced to leave his office last Thursday afternoon. At that time he was suffering from cold and an attack of tonsillitis. Complications have kept his fever high during the past few days, leading to his removal to the hospital Tuesday.

delegate power to a board to concentrate the prisons, the next best thing is to have the prison board report a plan back to the legislature. A bill to have such a report in four months was later offered the senate.

The governor announced he will have protographs of the flood situation at present prison farms ready for the legislature to view in a day or so. The senate voted to send a committee to make a flood inspection of its own.

Fate of the public bill advocated by the governor was left undecided when the senate adjourned [illegible] at 7 o'clock. Opponents of the bill broke a quorum at 6 o'clock and prevented a vote on sending the bill to a committee.

An hour was spent in bringing back missing senators. They then voted to adjourn until Wednesday without acting on the bill.

Mrs. Eva Rablen Assessed Life

part of a suicide pact. Mrs. Eva Rablen, "the mail order bride from Texas," pleaded guilty at Sonora today to killing her husband, Carroll, with poison. She was sentenced to life imprisonment. Previously she had denied the charge.

In a statement to Sueprior Judge J. T. B. Warne, before whom she entered her plea, Mrs. Rablen admitted she bought the poison with which her husband was killed. She said she bought it at her husband's request and that he told her where to get it. She also declared that she had promised she would take some of the poison after administering it to him.

Rablen died in agony early last April 27 at a dance at Tuttlestown. His father, Steve Rablen, was playing in the orchestra.

Young Rablen, a disabled war veteran, did not dance but remained outside in his car. Shortly after midnight Mrs. Rablen brought him a cup of coffee and some sandwiches. Before a doctor could be summoned he died, saying the coffee was bitter.

Mrs. Rablen and her husband became acquainted through a matrimonial agency. She came to Sonora about 15 months ago from Quanah, Texas. She had been married before.

Former Farm Owner

Strickland is the former owner of a 400 acre farm in Clay county, his home for many years. He is named the defendant in another suit pending before the 97th district court in which H. M. SHRINE HAVING WHALE OF TIME

Los Angeles Crowded By 100,000 Nobles

(Conutined on page eight)

vied with our California sun. And with a series of events that ranged from circus to banquets and a little, tiny bit of serious meeting thrown in. This was an early afternoon meeting of the Imperial council at the Biltmore—and they didn't let business interfere with pleasure any more than they could help.

You see, today was officially the first day of the Shrine convention. As a matter of fact, some 20,000 Shriners got here Sunday and pried the lid off right then. Then, on Monday, another 50 or 60 thousand more came in, and found the lid properly thrown away. By today, there were fully 90,000 Shriners in town, and the families they brought with them brought the number of out-of-towners well beyond the 100,000-mark—and every single one of them intent on having a good time.

Sunday and Monday, they made various kinds of whoopee. That was just preliminary stuff. Today they really got busy.

Trying to tell about it in ordinary words is like trying to bail out the Pacific ocean with a dessert spoon. You couldn't measure it in rods or miles, for one thing. That's because it was mostly in the coliseum, and the coliseum is a lot of seats around an elliptical track. The Shriners filled the track, and 50,000 Los Angeles sightseers more than half filled the seats.

There were the Cincinnati Shriners, tooting and singing songs about California; the 100-piece band of Medinah temple from Chicago, and not a machine gun among them; and Medinah's yellow-clad Oriental band with their squealing flag-o-lets or what-do-you-call-'em? Imagine an Oriental band playing "California, Here I Come!"—one can't moochee-kooche to that!

And then, as long as we've really started mentioning names, there was El Maida from El Paso, with 16 drums whanging away, and Tripoli of Milwaukee, without a single keg of what made Milwaukee famous. Not in the parade, that is! Mollah, from St. Louis, had a bass drum with them that was so tall a man would have to have a step-ladder to look over the top of it. And Ismailah, 3,000 miles from home—that's Buffalo, New York—with their drum major wielding a positively wicked scimitar instead of a conventional baton. The Morocco outfit from Jacksonville, Fla., knocked 'em cold with a colorful procession headed by two motorcycle cops of their own on white cycles. Maybe they don't think we have motorcycle cops in California. But that must be because they haven't been in room 1120?—

El Kalah from Salt Lake had as snappy a drill patrol as anybody has seen yet. They just drilled all over the coliseum! Indian temple, from Oklahoma City, put on a bit of dog. It was a buffalo with a Shrine uniform on.

Then along came Oasis temple from Charlotte, N. C. One of the temples in the parade had a lot of white horses.

Well, there were plenty other temples and patrols, each with their own particular stunt. One really can't begin to tell them all.

And after the parade was over, there were other things.

Now let's see—what else is there to tell about concerning today? Oh, yes; the Hawaiian banquet in the evening. That was at the Biltmore hotel. The hula dancers made every Shriner there forget all about eating. The circus performed again at the coliseum in the evening, and at 9 o'clock there was a formal ball at the Shrine auditorium.

Rev. R. L. Cotnam preached on "The Second Coming of Carist," and declared that according to the prophecies of Nahum, Daniel and John, the date of His descent is not far distant.

Rev. George Gray will speak on Thursday night, illustrating his sermon with charts prepared to show the various ages of the world.

GRAHAM JURY INDICTS 16

Young County Body Files Court Report

In a report made to Judge Allan D. Montgomery in Graham late Tuesday afternoon, the 30th district grand jury for Young county returned 16 true bills of indictment, 11 charging felonies and 5 naming misdemeanors.

Five of the bills returned charged violation of the liquor laws; four named defendants in theft charges; and two alleged swindling, according to George Berry, assistant district attorney. The misdemeanor bills charged adultry, aggravated assault and swindling, the attorney said.

In its written report to Judge Montgomery, the grand jury, headed by D. P. Ford of Loving, praised the work of the district attorney's office and of other officers of the court. They reported that 70 witnesses had been examined during the two day session.

Settings for criminal cases already on the docket will be announced Wednesday, the trials to begin on June 7, Mr. Berry announced. The new cases will be called during the same week as soon as the docket can be cleared, he explained.

Picture at Strand Wins Theatre Patrons' Approval

If outbreaks of genuine laughter, unconscious exclamations of amusement and excited, fragmentary "exit" chatter may be accepted as a crowd's verdict on a show, the Strand is offering one of the real hits of the year this week in "The Duke Steps Out."

William Haines is always exhilarating. Utilizing a very timely story, admirably adapted for the screen, he packs a knockout wallop as a college freshman as well as a first-rate fighting man. Against college atmosphere which—how rarely so!—is not ridiculously overdrawn, his "Jimmy Smith" has the contagious humor and chivalry that sets the girls agog, and a sporting blood that turns the pockets of the surprised professor at the ringside inside out in loyal support.

Joan Crawford runs a close second in a complimentary role as Sue Corbin.

Endeavor Society To Give Benefit Supper

To raise funds for sending a delegate to the Texas State Christian Endeavor convention at Houston June 12 to 17, the Intermediate Christian Endeavor society of the Floral Heights Presbyterian church will hold a box supper at the church Thursday night, June 6, according to Curtis Young, who will be in charge of the affair.

A program of songs, skits and readings will be given by members of the society before the boxes are sold.

FARM STATION BIG AID HERE

State Experts Solve Many Problems of Area

and that of the most productive and generally desirable strains will be planted in the increase blocks next season. It is anticipated that in a few years the station will be in a position to furnish farmers with seed of strains and varieties of cereals best adapted to this section.

Cotton Variety Tests

As cotton is the leading cash crop of this section, variety tests will embrace work with approximately 32 varieties. Care and management tests in growing cotton under irrigation have been inaugurated this year. This test should furnish valuable information as to the best methods and proper time to apply irrigation water. Fertilizer tests with cotton, which commenced two years ago, will be continued until information as to best methods of applying the fertilizer and the kind of fertilizers to use in this section is more conclusive. The fertilizer tests embrace work with more than 20 different combinations of fertilizer treatment.

Grain Sorghum Varieties

Each year tests with grain sorghums are conducted and corn is planted in these tests in competition with the grain sorghums. One season the tests showed corn with an average yield of little more than 20 bushels per acre, while hegari produced 60 bushels per acre and the average for all grain sorghums was 45 bushels per acre. In addition to the variety tests, this year tests will be conducted, to secure data that will determine the proper spacing of the three principal varieties of grain sorghums.

Sugar Beets and Root Crops

Tests with six varieties of sugar beets are being continued this year. Seed was furnished the experiment station by one of the largest manufacturers of beet sugar, the varieties being highly recommended for production and sugar content. Sugar beets have so far indicated that they can be grown in the Wichita valley with profitable yields and a promising sugar content.

This year tests will be started to determine the most profitable varieties of Mangels and rutabagas for Northwest Texas and their adaptability to this section. The growing of root crops for dairy cattle is most profitable in the North.

Legumes

Studies with various legumes, including alfalfa, clovers, cowpeas, soy beans and several rare varieties of legumes will be continued. Plats of Austrian winter peas and winter vetch, planted last fall in both broadcast plats and in rows, came throug the winter excellently and indicate their worth as forage crops and as soil building plants.

Variety tests with corn will be carried on again this year. To date, the corn growing tests have not been very encouraging.

Horticulture

The station has 600 fruit trees growing in the orchard. All important varieties and strains grown in the South are included in the orchard plantings as well as a number of hybrid fruits. Work is being conducted with grapes, berries, and with truck crops. Truck crop investigations have been limited owing to lack of funds for this work. Cantaloupe plats have been grown the past four years, and indicate that this crop might be grown commercially. Cabbage also has commercial possibilities.

Truck growing and horticulture have been hampered not only because of lack of funds, but for the reason that, so far no appropriation has been made for the employment of a horticulturist. It is hoped that a horticulturist will be added to the station staff this year.

Plant Pathology

The root-rot studies at this substation consist of work on the development of resistant varieties of alfalfa, and other legumes, nursery stock and ornamentals. The greatest work along this line is with alfalfa. Some 70 strains of alfalfa are now grown on the station farm and these are being subjected to every test imaginable. The legumes include ornamental shrubs and flowers as well as most of the varieties of cow peas and soy beans grown anywhere in the world.

Many crop rotations are being studied with reference to the control on root-rot. There are two general types of rotation, one with cotton as the principal crop, and one where alfalfa is being used extensively in the work. Another control method that is being tested is the flooding of land for various periods of time to see if it is possible to kill the root-rot fungus by flooding. Fertilizers have been tried as a means of controlling this disease in cotton but no control has been obtained through the use of fertilizer.

Root-Rot Experiments

In addition to this work on control, work is being carried on to determine the cause of certain forms of the fungus that are being found in great numbers. An attempt is being made to find out what part this stage of the fungus plays in the spread and infection of this disease.

The Wichita Valley Experiment station is in charge of Earl J. Wilson, superintendent, a graduate of the New Mexico Agricultural college. Mr. Wilson has had years of experience in farming on irrigated lands, as he was connected with the New Mexico college and in extension work in New Mexico for several years after he graduated.

Plant pathology and the study of root-rot is in charge of J. Paul Lusk, who is a grandaute of Cornell university. Mr. Lusk has had advanced work in plant pathology at Chicago university and was an instructor in plant pathology department at Texas A. & M. college, previous to being transferred to the Wichita Valley station.

Repairs on Old City Hall Nearly Complete

Remodeling work in the old city hall building is progressing rapidly and will be completed in part within the next few days. The north side of the lower portion of the building has been completely changed and will provide space for a police court room with a seating capacity of between 70 and 80 persons.

New office furniture and seats for the police court have been ordered and will be placed in the room as soon as work on the new floor has been completed. Painting of the outside hall and of the new court room has been finished. With the removal of the court to its new quarters, the south side of the building will be remodeled to provide new office space.

CITY OPENS DRIVE ON BIG "CROP" OF SNAKES, TARANTULAS

RAINS BRING MANY PESTS

Farrell Urges Wichitans To Cut Weeds

Residents of Wichita Falls were urged in a statement made by Dr. J. M. Farrell, chief city sanitary inspector, Tuesday night to cut all weeds and grass growing in back yards, along alleys, or any where else around the various properties, not only for the purpose of beautification, but as a means of minimizing the danger to children from possible insect or snake bites.

Many Insect Pests

The usual prolific development of bugs, gnats, worms, mosquitoes which accompanies a prolonged period of rainy weather has included this spring an unusual crop of tarantulas, smaller spiders, and hundreds of snakes in this community, Dr. Farrel stated. Fallen or dense vegetation affords the favorite hiding places of the tarantula and spider, it was said, while rank growth of high grass or weeds materially enhance the probability of snakes being present.

Danger of insect or reptile bites to which children of the city may be exposed was brought to the attention of city officials by the case of J. H. Russell, 3104 Kemp boulevard, who has been confined to his home for several days with a serious infection attributed to spider bite, and by the poisoning of two valuable dogs, presumably from snake or spider bites.

Weeds Must Go

A police dog belonging to Mrs. Frieda van Emden, and a Boston bull belonging to C. A. Everts, were treated at local animal hospitals for bites which caused enormous swelling. Both animals appeared to have been bitten near the nose, it was said, the unusual swelling and corruptive action developing within a very short period in each case.

Dr. Farrell stated that the city will insist upon weeds and grass being cut, and that within a few days city employes will begin clearing excessive growth from any remaining spaces, the work to be charged against the properties concerned on the tax rolls.

Christner and Von Porat Fight Should Rival Max-Paolino Bout

Runyon Looks for Knockouts to End Both Heavyweight Battles on Milk Fund Card June 27

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, June 4.—In the rub-a-dub-dub over the Schmeling-Paolino affair, popularly known as "the battle of the big biff," another event on the same card the night of June 27 that is apt to produce as much action as the star bout, is being overlooked.

This is the matter between K. O. Christener, the rubber worker from Akron, Ohio, and Otto von Porat, the sorrowful looking Norwegian, who now makes his home in Chicago. Schmeling and Paolino are booked for 15 rounds. Christner and Von Porat are carded for 10 rounds in the semi-windup. I doubt if either bout will go the distance.

Christner and Von Porat are accounted the greatest right hand punchers of all the heavyweights just now. They may lack finesse, but they both can hit. For all Christner's threatening name and long line of K. O.'s I think Von Porat is the better puncher of the two.

Von Porat is a peculiar looking bloke for a gladiator. He is tall and gangling, and has sad eyes, and a long chinsky. He doesn't seem to throw his right hand punch. He apparently just drops it, and it comes down like a thousand o' brick.

Had Paolino Groggy

He had the old beezark of the Basque tottering from that right hand one night in Madison Square garden, but Otto didn't know how to finish his man. Later the tall Norwegian came back to the garden to stiffen Jack Gagnon, of Boston.

He went to Boston not long and made a punk fight with rubbery blubbery Jawn Risko. Otto was a red hot favorite over Jawn, who had just been knocked out by Herr Schmeling, but the rubbery one came back with one of his good fights, and Otto didn't know what time it was.

He had been signed up before going into the Boston ring to fight Christner in the semi-windup of the milk fund show by Tom McCardle, matchmaker of Madison Square garden. McArdle was feeling first rate about that signing, because a dozen other matchmakers were at the Boston ringside to grab Von Porat.

You can imagine the noble McArdle's feelings as he sat there viewing the disaster of Von Porat. But the McArdle feelings were nothing compared to the feelings of Mr. Ed Stevenson, the manager of Von Porat.

Mr. Stevenson is a wealthy coal dealer, or something to that effect, out in Chicago, and he pursues the fight racket largely as a matter of diversion. He got interested in Von Porat because they are fellow countrymen, he became Von Porat's manager only because he couldn't give the solemn looking Norseman away to a professional manager in the early days of Otto's career.

"Bum!"

It is related that Mr. Stevenson went to his gladiator's dressing room after the Risko battle, took one look at Otto, squatting there in an attitude of dejection, and said one word.

"Bum!" roared Mr. Stevenson.

Well, it covered as much territory as a long speech, at that.

But one thing about Mr. Stevenson as a manager. He never gets discouraged. He took Otto home and had him flatten Jack de Mave, and then matched him with Jack Renault for June 7.

Now Renault, like De Mave, isn't the man he used to be when Mr. Leo Pisen Flynn used to pose him in the uniform of the Northwest mounted, but he is a crafty old boy. He knows how to box. Moreover, he is in pretty good condition right now. Mr. McArdle called up Mr. Stevenson in some perturbation.

"That's a tough match for Von Porat," said Mr. McArdle. "You know if he gets licked again we can't use him. He's got to outpoint Renault to stay on this card."

"Outpoint him?" repeated Mr. Stevenson, as if amazed. "Why, Otto'll knock him out. If Otto don't knock him out, you can take $2,500 off my price for the Christner match."

Mr. McArdle quickly grabbed that one. So Mr. Stevenson is betting $2,500 that Otto knocks out a guy who has been knocked out but once in a long fighting career, and that time years ago, and who but recently gave Paolino a tough spluttor.

You know what the price would be here against anybody knocking out Renault?

Ten to one!

Von Porat is right now the greatest card in the Middlewest. He has been decisively beaten in Chicago but once, which was when the luckless Napoleon Jack Derval outfooted him in a terrific battle. Von Porat is one of those fellows who can always put up a great fight on his home grounds, though he may not look so good at times away from home.

He has apparently developed a left hand lately, as I note that he knocked out De Mave with a left to the heart. Lack of a left was Von Porat's weakness. He could always punch with his right from the days when he won the Olympic heavyweight title as a representative of Norway.

I wouldn't be surprised to see him tilt Christner over in their milk fund bout. The old rubber worker is strictly a one handed fighter, and easy to smack with a right. He uses his left largely for waving purposes. He is rough and tough and dead game, but he is pretty lucky to be making money at his age on his style of fighting.

As a top line bout in either New York or Chicago, Christner and von Porat would draw at least $50,000. You don't often find gladiators of that caliber fighting preliminary bouts.

VESUVIUS' LAVA BURIES HOMES

Stream of Molten Rock Irresistible

NAPLES, June 4. (AP)—Mount Vesuvius burst into a new and more violent eruption tonight after a brief period when the disturbance seemed to have come to an end. For an hour the eruptive cone sent a gigantic wave of lava into "the valley of hell" and shot a barrage of red hot stones high into the air over the crater.

A number of tourists who had ventured dangerously close were sent scurrying for safety, but no injuries were reported.

Previous to the unexpected eruption the volcano poured out columns of smoke three miles high and belching great stone masses weighing more than 100 pounds. The grand crater filled with lava.

NAPLES, Italy, June 4. (UP)—A molten stream of lava which burst from cracks in the eruptive cone of Mt. Vesuvious engulfed houses in the village of Torsigno tonight as the inhabitants fled from their homes.

The lava stream increased in force as it rolled over the outskirts of Terzigno and spread out in the small Cuppaccia valley at the rate of more than 450 feet an hour.

The front of the stream, which ripped through the old lavic wall at the base of the eruptive cone, was about 200 feet wide and more than 30 feet high.

It smouldered and steamed violently, on its relentless march forward, with unquenchable fury of destruction.

The stream divided into two parts early in the afternoon, one branch moving slowly towards the hamlet of Campitello, which is a section of Torsigno, and the other flowing majestically down the southwestern slope between Torsigno and Boscoreale. The second branch was subdivided into four parts, two of which followed the path of previous eruptive streams.

A second main stream from the eruptive cone was threatening the Logge district as it moved down the Vico Valley. The Mauro country, above the mountain town of Boscoreale, was also threatened by the stream although it had not yet done great damage.

BUENOS AIRES, June 4. (AP)—Dispatches from Mendoza today said the volcano Nevado near there had begun new activity, spouting a great quantity of lava, fire and mud.

Near Villa Atuel, greatly damaged in the recent earthquakes, streams of boiling water have weakened the consistency of the soil, giving rise to fears of caving.

(AP)—Directors of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad company today formally adopted resolutions approving expenditures of $2,200,000 for construction of an extension line from San Angelo to Sonora and $3,300,000 for construction of the extension which will close the gap in the company's line from Alpine to Presidio. Approval of the interstate commerce commission has been granted.

SHOOTING OF WOMAN TOLD

Four Witnesses Heard In Stallworth Trial

AMARILLO, Texas, June 4. (AP)—Four eye witnesses to the shooting to death of Mrs. Grace Morrison here May 13 testified to the affair this afternoon as testimony got under way in the trial of Mrs. L. P. Stallworth on charges of firing the fatal shots.

Testimony started this afternoon after a jury was completed from 300 veniremen.

Mrs. Ethel Roper, operator of a rooming house where Mrs. Morrison lived, temporarily, testified Stallworth had come to her home to visit Mrs. Morrison. Mrs. Roper said Mrs. Morrison received a telephone call from Stallworth immediately before she left the house, a few minutes before the shooting.

Kyle Brumley, an eye witness to the shooting, said Stallworth introduced him to Mrs. Morrison a short time before she was killed.

Another witness testified Mrs. E. M. Stallworth, mother-in-law of the woman on trial, was holding Mrs. Morrison until within an instant before the shooting started. He said he saw the first shot fired while standing in the door of the hotel, and that Mrs. Morrison never did recover her balance from the time she allegedly was shoved away from the older woman until the younger Mrs. Stallworth opened fire.

Other witnesses testified Mrs. E. M. Stallworth and Mrs. Morrison scuffled immediately before the shots were fired.

MRS. CASSLER FACES CHAIR

Former W. C. T. U. Leader's Son May Be Charged

VALPARAISO, Ind., June 4. (US)—Mrs. Catherine Cassler, 60, who escaped the gallows on April 30 last after a two-year legal battle, tonight faced the electric chair for the death of a 23-year old "butterfly girl" Camcela Soutar, of Chicago.

Her adopted son, Edward Cassler, 19, may also have charges filed against him but at this time is held as a state witness against his mother.

Warrant for Mrs. Cassler's arrest was obtained late today by state's attorney W. W. Bozarth, of Porter county, through Justice of the Peace George Barnhold.

Mrs. Cassler was served while on the stand at an inquest being conducted by Coroner E. H. Miller and immediately after she had sworn:

"So help me God, I did not kill 'Cammie'."

At the inquest were many persons who knew Mrs. Cassler when she lived in Hebron, Ind., and was a leading worker in the W. C. T. U. That was before her conviction for violation of the prohibition law in 1925. That was also before her arrest and conviction on charges of slaying William Lindstrom for a $1,000 insurance policy.

Mrs. Cassler was taken into custody late Sunday, after the girl's body which was found in a swamp near Hebron, on Friday had been identified as that of Miss Soutar. It was known that Mrs. Cassler had resented the relationship existing between her husband and the girl during her imprisonment for the Lindstrom murder.

The son, Edward, today fought desperately to clear himself and his mother from connection in Miss Soutar's death. But when he stepped down from the stand he realized that he had been trapped in a lie in an important part of his alibi.

Compromise Ends Debt Controversy

PARIS, June 4. (AP)—Ten years of controversy over the payment by Germany of reparations for damages caused during the world war to the allies ended today in a compromise.

From a formidable total of $125,000,000,000 claimed in the original allied demands filed with the peace conference at Versailles in 1919, the new settlement agreed upon today scales down what Germany must pay to approximately $8,000,000,000.

This sum is between a third and a fourth of the $33,000,000,000 fixed by the reparations commission in 1921.

STEERS REGAIN LEAGUE LEAD BY POUNDING TABER FOR 4-1 WIN

TAUSCHER AND GALERIA DUEL

Dallas Scores All Runs In First Inning

By LARRY DAHLEY
Record News Sports Editor

The Dallas Steers went back into first place by defeating the Spudders yesterday at Athletic park, 4 to 1, and breaking even in the two-game series. A disastrous start, for the Spudders, in which the Bovines tallied all their runs in the first inning and drove Ed Taber off the hill, gave the hostiles more than an adequate lead, in view of the superb pitching of their Walter Tauscher.

Taber, who has yet to turn in a workmanlike and efficient piece of chucking for the Spudders, allowed four runs, three hits, one a triple, and gave up two bases on balls and two were out when Skipper Galloway allowed that was enough for Edward. Chick Galeria followed his bespectacled brother southpaw on the hill, and stopped the Steers cold.

Only five hits were made by the Stockmen the rest of the route, and thanks to his own excellent hurling and glittering support, Chick turned back the foe runless the rest of the route.

Hurls 5-Hit Ball

Tauscher limited the Spudders to five hits, which except for two blows in the second, after two were out, were scattered. Remarkable control and a varied assortment of hooks, speed and change of pace, was shown by Walter.

It might have been a different story, this about the ball game, if Lapan's liner to Jefferies in the second with two comrades on base had been a foot or so to the right or left of the Dallas third baseman. Or, if Lapan's two-base smack in the fifth had been hit with mates on the lines. Or if Bennett's double in the ninth had found more than one white-uniformed athlete running base. But it wasn't to be the Spudders' day after such a start and in view of Tauscher's splendid work and able help from his comrades.

Jefferies and Sullivan, sprightly rookies of the rival nines, were batting leaders of the day, with two hits each. Red Bennett roamed around the gardens to haul down five smacks and Hap Moore flashed some nifty fielding around the keystone, as did Pete Turgeon.

Cats Here Today

Jake Atz' Fort Worth Cats open a three-day stand today at the orchard, including a double-header tomorrow.

Yesterday's defeat which stopped the Spudders' winning streak at three straight, sent the Spudders to seventh place, but thanks to the hectic pennant race, within striking distance of anywhere they can get.

How Dallas Won

The Steers scored four runs in the first inning. After one was out, Morse walked and J. Moore singled to center and both advanced on R. Moore's foul lift to Sullivan. Davis strolled, filling the bases. Jeffries tripled to the far right field foul line, cleaning the base lines. Bischoff hit sharply through Swenson, scoring Jeffries. Galeria replaced Taber. Johnson forced Bischoff, Andrews to Turgeon.

Swenson and Sullivan got the first Spudder hits in the second after two were out but Lapan lined to Jeffries.

The Spudders tallied their run in the ninth, when Fitzgerald was passed after two were out and scored on Bennett's double to right.

MR. DEMPSEY IS UNDECIDED

To Fight, or Not to Fight, Jack Ponders

NEW YORK, June 4. (AP)—The great guessing game is on again, livening up the dull season for fisticuffers and their faithful followers, and featuring as usual the big "will and won't" man from California, Jack Dempsey.

With a snort that ruffled the lather of his morning shave in tiny wavelets, the one-time ruler of the heavyweight roost told the Associated Press just a few days ago that he had no idea of ever fighting again. He appended a couple of reservations, neither of which seemed important at the time, but developments have brought those reservations back into the picture with new significance.

Jack May Start Work

Dempsey today ended up by flying to Los Angeles and word drifted back from the coast, supposedly dropped unintentionally by his wife, Estelle Taylor, that the next few weeks will find the big slugger training again in the Ojai hills for his second comeback. Jack prepped there for his first return to the leather wars, the campaign that ended in the $3,000,000 spectacle of the long count in Chicago two years ago.

Working along the lines that "where there is smoke there is fire," diagnosticians of the knuckle mart have decided that Dempsey had something in mind when he tagged two reservations to his articles of retirement.

His Reservations

"If some responsible party offered me a million dollars, I'd have to consider it," was reservation No. 1.

"If someone would guarantee me training expenses, say $50,000, and not consider it a binding promise for me to fight again, I might try to get in condition for another fling at the title," was No. 2.

Add to this Dempsey's private belief that Schmeling will be knocked out by Paulino. That Paulino is just "made" for him, that Sharkey is past his peak and could be knocked out again and you seem to have all the ingredients for another Dempsey comeback.

Golf in June

In this rare month I do not care
Whether my drive is good or not,
Now where the fickle ball may fare
When I have struck my mashie shot;
For green and gold, or white and red,
The friendly trees now show their hoods,
I cannot help but lift my head
To see the glory of the woods.

I came upon a dog leg hole
And saw my untrapped drive careen,
Whereat I strode with buoyant soul,
To play my mashie to the green;
But just around the curving bend
With shining dress and stylish hat,
I saw an oak of summer blend—
And what was par compared to that?

Why should I look upon the ball
When I can see the flaming trees,
Whose radiant branches rise and fall
Before the whisper of the breeze?
For long and gray was winter's cold
And bleak and brown was winter's scene,
And who can put the bunkered fold
Above the glory of the green?

The Best Heavyweight

The winner of the Paulino-Schmeling affair is booked to meet Jack Sharkey in September, to decide the final elimination. But in the meanwhile there are two other entries to be considered. One is Jack Dempsey, who is still dangerous against a certain type of fighter—the type that will crowd in to exchange punches at close range. The other is Tommy Loughran, who has had far more success against heavyweights than against others who are smaller and faster. Dempsey was always more effective against ring giants than he was against smaller men, such as Gibbons and Tunney. He couldn't bother Gibbons a lot in 15 rounds as far back as 1923. And he had no success at all against Tunney, outside of one round, from the 20 they fought.

Harry Greb had far greater success against Gibbons, Tunney and other big men than he had against Tiger Flowers, Walker and other smaller men who had much more speed.

Tommy Loughran has swarmed all over such fighters as Johnny Risko and Ernie Schaaf. His speed has made the bigger men look foolish. Loughran would be close to an even money bet against any heavyweight today, for most of those around couldn't hit him with a double handful of shot.

The question has been frequently asked as to whether the Muldoon-Tunney trophy will be awarded to the winner of the September bout. This will probably depend a lot upon how things work out. If either Schmeling or Paulino can put over a one-sided victory this June and then knock out Jack Sharkey or whip him decisively, he will then probably get the nomination. But unless the final winner comes through with a big margin to spare—a decisive victory—there is small chance that any such award will be made. For it would mean nothing at all under these conditions if it was made. The point is that the next heavyweight champion should be made to prove his place with more than a few steps to spare. And if Jack Dempsey decides definitely to come back, and sticks to his decision, he will undoubtedly have to be considered in any final summing up.

Football Coaching

There is a case being presented a certain football coach that goes beyond the matter of winning or losing. It involves the morale of that part of the student body which goes in for the game. This is always something to be considered—and if it is proved, is a heavy indictment.

The nature of football is such that there is bound to be a tendency toward hard driving and drudgery. But this can be over done, and often is. It is easy enough to take the fun out of football and to kill the spirit of a team or a squad.

Years ago there was a certain big university team that had been driven to the breaking point. This team was losing game after game. A hurried call was sent to another coach, who saw at once what had happened. In place of bawling out his squad, his opening remark was about as follows:

"This is the best looking material I've seen in a long time. You fellows have run into some bad breaks, but it will be different from now. You're too good to be beaten again."

And it so happened this team lost no more games that fall. There are times when it is necessary to kill over-confidence and a touch of the swell head. But there are also times when encouragement and a praise are more important than constant riding and driving.

Pessimism in football is frequently overdone. Few coaches want to have the word spread about that they have great material, because if a slump comes and the material doesn't pan out, the coach then takes it on the jaw. And there are times when "great material" isn't as great as it seems.

There are also great morale makers and in this class there are probably none any better than such coaches as Knute Rockne, Dan McGugin and Hill Alexander, to mention only a few from a lost list who might also be included. There are many coaches who do an incalculable amount of good, outside their ability to devise plays and teach winning football. There are others who could be much more useful along the lines of character building and morale making.

Alexander and Cochran Among Leaders in State Amateur Golf

Bob Shoots 76 and Tommy Scores 77; Payne and Guldahl, Dallas Youngsters, Lead With 71s

DALLAS, June 4. (AP)—A pair of Dallas youngsters, showed a clean pair of heels to 206 of Texas strongest amateur golfers in the first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round for the twenty-third annual state tournament at Brook Hollow course here today.

Gibson Payne, playing his home course, and Ralph Guldahl, who holds the state high school crown, rounded the course in 71 strokes, one over par, while others of the golfing elite were soaring far above these figures.

Grouped tonight with 73's for half of the qualifying test were Gaston Peek, Galveston; L. L. Atwell, Houston; Alvin Herold, Dallas; and F. G. Chrisman, Orange. None of the first six scorers were listed among favorites before the meet opened.

W. C. Hunt, Houston vet, snared a 74 to lead the favorites brigade, while Jack Speer, Houston's defending champion; Ossie Carlton, 1926 titleholder; and Fred Golding, another favored bayou city star, were grouped with Neil Smith, George Aldridge, Jim McGonigill and Eugene Pittman, all of Dallas, with 75's.

Jack Dold, Houston, state muny champion, placed himself well in the running by shooting a 76 along with seven others, including Bob Alexander of Wichita Falls, two former champions, Charlie Dexter, Dallas, and Tommy Cochran of Wichita Falls were well up with 77's.

With 30 players shooting 77 or better today and 48 cracking 80, the battle to place among the 32 who will qualify for the title bracket is the stiffest in the history of the tournament. Had it not been for the decision to play 36 holes in the preliminary round this year, such acknowledged stars as Lewis Levinson, San Antonio, 1927 titleholder; Dennis Lavender, Abilene, West Texas champ; Clarence Hubby of Waco and Hap Massingill, Fort Worth's former state king, would already have been shoved out of the chase.

Other scores included:

Morris Norton, Wichita Falls, 81; F. L. Lebus, Electra, 94; W. B. Holcombe, San Angelo, 106; H. H. Shaffer, Wichita Falls, 84; J. B. Harmond, Paris, 88; Dudley Golding, Wichita Falls, 82; J. F. Maxwell, Wichita Falls, 103; Ralph Wynne, San Angelo, 105; Bob Alexander, Wichita Falls, 76.

First National Nine Nips Wichita State

In another Banker's contest, First National took a big lead over the Wichita State in the first inning and won 18 to 11.

The First National's hitting could not be stopped. The State's first pitcher allowed 10 hits, before Taylor was put in, who allowed 11 hits and 10 runs during the remaining innings. Base stealing was the specialty for the evening, 17 bases being netted by both sides during the game.

The leading batter for Wichita State was Taylor, who out of five times at bat netted a home run, a triple, and a single. The leader for the First National was Staples who netted two double, a triple, and a single out of five times at bat.

Baer Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, June 4.—We cannot claim that the cochineal bug is responsible for the red flag of Communism nor that the invention of Chinese fireworks started the world war.

But we do know that gasoline is the father of a superiority complex which is making our luxurious landscape a shambles-and-a-half.

The justice in his tribunal, the lion in his den and the monarch on his throne are three bums compared to the chauffeur on the perch of his ten-ton truck.

When he swings that wheel and steps on the juice you had better do the same with him as the Pullman porter did with President Taft when Bill was in all the glory of his avoirdupois.

Give him a wide berth.

The driver of the ten-ton truck is the tyrant of traffic. Trying to compete with him is just as sensible as starting your daily dozen when the barber has his razor on your most important chin.

The truck engineer doesn't care any more for traffic rules than a chimney does for its smoke.

He starts with the red lights, stops with the green and skids with the spectrum.

He knows that his licensed car of Juggernaut has the weight and the power with it. When he smacks you between the fenders you have about as much chance as a soap bubble on a mandarin's finger nail.

Did you ever try cracking your delicate flivver up against the back of a monster truck? It is one time when the right of way is the path of doom.

The balance of power is with the man on the ponderous vehicle. And he knows it like a bee knows his buzzer.

It wouldn't be so bad if the drivers didn't think a truck was a pleasure car. It is their pleasure to sideswipe limousines and to ditch roadsters.

What is sauce for the goose is persimmon jelly for the gander. But don't try to prove it. The truck has no fenders to bend, no paint to be scratched or no doors to be twisted.

The turmoil and strife of war would have been more terrible if Napoleon had been the driver of a ten-ton truck.

If you don't believe it, how about 1918? Those tanks were merely ten-ton trucks that had enlisted for the duration.

Hawks' Plea Tabled For 'Consideration'

CHICAGO, June 4. (UP)—Iowa university's plea for reinstatement in the Western conference, petition for which was considered by the Big Ten faculty sub-committee today, was set aside temporarily with the statement that the present time was "premature" to act upon the request.

The sub-committee adjourned with the announcement the Iowa petition would be "taken under consideration."

Inasmuch as the order expelling Iowa from conference athletics does not become effective until January 1, 1930, the committee's decision was construed as creating a probationary period to allow Iowa time to correct practices which caused the expulsion.

Petrolle-Miller Victor May Get Mandell Fight

DETROIT, June 4. (UP)—The winner of the Billy Petrolle-Ray Miller ten-round fight to be held here Thursday night probably will get a chance at the lightweight crown of Sammy Mandell, according to plans announced by Scotty Monteith, Detroit matchmaker.

Eddie Kane, Mandell's manager, Jack Hurley, manager of Petrolle and Hal Hixon, manager of Miller are to meet with Montieth Thursday.

THE SPUDDERS should arise some night at midnight and go out in search of the "hex" which has wished evil to them. Ever since the Texas league championship season got under way, the Wichita Falls athletes have been victims of an unprecedented run of illness and injury. Indeed, the jinx started getting in its deadly work before the barrier dropped.

There hardly has been a day, with the season nearing its second month of completion, that Jim Galloway has been enabled to present an intact array. This will explain in a large measure the failure of the Spudders to be at or near the top.

FRED STIELY, now with Beaumont, and Brick Eldred suffered injuries a few days before the pennant race got under way that prevented them from playing baseball. Then Jack Crouch fell ill. But the worst was to come. Bud Stapleton and Pete Turgeon were injured, and so severely that they were out of the lineup several weeks.

Hardly had that right side pair of the infield again donned diamond regalia, than Wally Swenson was injured, and was out several days. Then a couple of days after Swenson got back, Rabbit Benton was injured, and the starry shortstop probably will be forced to view several games from the grandstand.

That string of mishaps, the failure of some of the Spudder veterans from whom much was expected and who probably will eventually deliver, and atrocious weather here all spring with hardly a decent day for the grand old pastime whenever the Spudders have been at home, have been severe trials for J. Alvin Gardner.

It's great to own a ball club when days are fair and your team is winning. But it's a nerve-wracking and unprofitable business when things go as they have with the Wichita Falls club this year.

Houston Drivers Enter Race Here

100-Mile Stock Car Event To Be Held Sunday

Among the entries for the 100-mile stock car speed race scheduled for Sunday is B. D. Williams of Houston. Williams has won many stock car races, and until May 5 he had never been defeated on the Houston track and his records show many victories in long grinds as well as shorter speed dashes. Williams pilots a DeSoto roadster and holds the track record of Houston, having turned the mile and one-half in the speedy time of 1:16. Among his performances recently in Houston was first in a 15-mile event with the time of 13:45, first in a 24-mile event in the time of 21:11, first in a 15-mile event turned in 13 minutes flat besides second place in two events.

The only man to ever beat Williams, W. H. Poyser, also of Houston, will be here and attempt to turn the trick on the smaller oval. Poyser pilots one of the vivid red Auburn speedsters and is well known in racing circles as a heady pilot and having the nerve to get the limit from his car. Poyser's best performance was in finishing second in a 75-mile event in the time of 66 minutes. During the race he was forced to the pits twice with tire trouble and once for water. Had it not been for his tough luck he would have easily copped first place. "Mule" Whitehouse of Temple has also signed the entry blank and is set to duplicate his win of the race in Temple. The entry list is open to anyone and will remain open until Saturday night. Entries now listed will qualify in time trials Saturday while late entries will qualify Sunday morning. Only 30 starters will be presented to the public at starting time. The drivers who have already registered represent practically every state in the union and nearly every car on the market is represented with one or more entries. This is the second event of this type here and is one of the longest race ever presented on a one-half mile oval for stock cars. "Wingy" Williams was the winner of last year's event in a Whippet.

Health And Diet Advice

The Alkaline-Acid Balance

An easy method of distinguishing the alkaline-forming foods is to consider that all vegetables and fruits are alkaline-forming with the exception of plums, rhubarb, prunes, and cranberries, which contain organic acids not readily oxidized by people suffering from acidosis.

The cereals and meats, while they contain valuable elements for body metabolism are slightly acid-forming, and their acidity should be counteracted by large quantities of alkaline-forming foods, being careful, however, not to combine the acid fruits with any of the starchy foods. The alkaline-forming foods, listed in the approximate order of their abundance of alkaline end products, are:

Dried figs, olives, dried lima beans, garbanzos, soy beans, spinach, watermelon, raisins, swiss chard, fresh lima beans, chestnuts, almonds, carrots, dates, parsnips, rutabagas, beets, celery, cucumbers, lettuce, cabbage, potatoes, muskmelon, evaporated milk, apricots, string beans, cherries, orange juice, pineapple, sweet potatoes, molasses, currants, lemons, oranges, tomatoes, bananas, peaches, squash, grapes, canned string beans, turnips, buttermilk, milk, pumpkins, green peas, onions, asparagus and other fruits and vegetables.

The acid-forming foods include all of the cereals, meats, cheese, fish and eggs, and this does not mean that these foods are harmful. They do contain very valuable elements. If one limits the amount of acid-forming foods to about one-third of the diet, and the alkaline-forming foods to about two-thirds, there will be a sufficient leeway so that a healthy body can take care of the balance.

Sometimes patients who suffer from acidosis avoid the citrus fruits because they are acid in taste, but this is a mistake, as experiments have definitely proven that they make the blood more alkaline. In fact one of the best cures for acidosis is an exclusive citrus fruit diet for a time.

It is possible to change the alkalinity of acidity of the urine at will, according to the type of food used. This knowledge becomes valuable in treating high blood pressure patients as it is often possible by means of limiting the acid-forming foods and increasing the alkaline-forming foods to bring the blood pressure down to normal. In experiments upon rabbits and guinea pigs it has actually been possible to develop high blood pressure and Bright's disease by feeding the animals upon highly acid-forming foods and these diseases were avoided by balancing the diet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Broken Capillaries

Question: A. J. L. asks: Please advise what treatment to use for broken capillaries in the face and neck, skin very fine, without pimples or blackheads.

Answer: Twice daily treat the face by rubbing it with ice. Hold the ice for 15 or 20 seconds over the place where the capillaries are broken, then move it to the next location, and so on, using about a five minute treatment in all. The cold of the ice will strengthen the capillaries and make them grow smaller.

Callous on Finger

Question: Mrs. J. H. D. writes: "I have a little ring-formed callous on my finger which I at first thought was ringworm, as it keeps spreading. Have you any idea what it is and how I could get rid of it?"

Answer: It would be impossible for me to diagnose the callous-like circle on your finger without examining it. It is possibly some sort of fungoid infection and if you can obtain the exact diagnosis I will be pleased to give you my advice.

Spinach

Question: Mrs. A. C. H. asks: "Will you kindly let me know if the medicinal properties of spinach are in any way damaged or destroyed by cooking in an aluminum utensil?"

Answer: I do not believe that there is any injury to the spinach when cooked in an aluminum utensil. I use this type of utensil, and recommend it to all of my patients.

Pneumonia

Question: R. A. B. writes: "I have recently had my second attack of pneumonia, and I would be very grateful for a list of precautions to prevent another. Do you advice a flannel pad on the chest? I am taking one teaspoonful of olive oil every morning. Do you think I will receive any benefit from it?"

Answer: An attack of pneumonia often leaves one especially susceptible to a future attack. I can only suggest that you endeavor to build up the general health by proper dieting and exercising. Diathermy treatments often prove beneficial. I do not believe the olive oil is of any special benefit. Keeping the chest warm with flannel is undoubtedly beneficial in protecting the chest.

Gypsy Oil Crew Maps Oklahoma

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., June 4.—A crew of physio-geologists, assistants and helpers, 10 in number, who have been mapping this region for the Gypsy Oil company, have departed for Altus and similar work will be done in that locality. Part of their equipment consists of two torsion balances used in ascertaining the rigidity of the earth. This data enables the engineers to determine which points are the most favorable for the drilling of oil wells.

Some of the crew came here seven months ago from Snyder where south Kiowa county was mapped. From Frederick the country north of Red river for a distance of 25 miles was gone over. After finishing mapping at Altus, Otto Wendenburg, leader of the crew, said he presumed he would be sent to Mangum and Hollis. This will enable the Gypsy Oil company to have valuable information regarding the substrata in all southwest Oklahoma.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 4. (AP)—After selling off early on more favorable weather reports, the cotton market steadied up under renewed firmness of grain, the better tone in the stock market, and reports of progress in the direction of farm relief. October contracts sold up from 18.35 to 18.92 and closed at 18.86 with the general market closing very steady with net advances of 28 to 36 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 points to a decline of 11 points with near months relatively firm on the reports of an active spot demand in Liverpool, while the later months reflected the better weather outlook.

Much of the selling was attributed to liquidation or reselling by recent buyers, however, and offerings became comparatively light after decline of 18.20 for July and 18.55 for December.

This left the market more sensitive to buying orders and prices turned upward during the afternoon on encouraging reports from Washington regarding the prospect for farm relief, a strong turn in the wheat market, and the improved tone of the stock market.

The close showed reactions of several points from the best under realizing. While much of the demand on the afternoon advance was attributed to covering by recent Western and Wall street sellers, local brokers reported some broadening of commission house demand.

Bullish crop advices came in for some attention on the late advance and there may have been a little buying on expectations that the weekly weather report tomorrow would make a bullish showing on conditions in Texas.

Port receipts today 11,995. U. S. port stocks 1,057,656. Exports 1,966, making 7,722,755 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 4. (AP)—Cotton prices advanced over $3 a bale today in readjustment with New York and on prospects of passage of the farm relief bill. Considerable offerings were absorbed at moderate setbacks and in late trading October sold up to 18.86, and closed at 18.79 or 66 points net up. The general market closed steady at net advances of 65 to 68 points.

Liverpool cables were relatively steady, and as New York showed a substantial gain over the holiday here, initial trades were 35 to 43 points up. Profit-taking and short selling made active positions trade off to 27 points below the highs, with July selling at 18.39, October 18.30 and December 18.44.

Around mid-session the market started upward, the advance gaining momentum on talk of boll weevil depredations and an announcement that at least $200,000,000 would be made available immediately after passage of the farm relief bill to sustain grain markets. Western buying added to the general purchasing and covering carried July to 18.87, October 18.86 and December 19.00. A flurry of selling in late trading carried active positions a few points off from the best and July closed at 18.79 and December 18.92.

Oil and Rail Shares Most Attractive As Industrial Stocks Stage Rally

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 4. (US)—Industrials rallied vigorously as shorts rushed to cover today. Advices from Washington indicating the reserve authorities would lift some of the pressure from the money market and further recovery in the wheat market were the dominant bullish influences.

Sears-Roebuck jumped 9 points, Montgomery-Ward 5⅞, Radio 6⅝, American Can 3⅞, Chrysler 2, Wright Aero 5⅞, and Curtiss 6⅜. Steel gained 2, General Motors 1⅜ while other standard industrials moved from 1 to 2 points higher. Railroads met profit taking after further advance early in the session but were well taken throughout. Coppers displayed a better tone with Greene Cananea gaining 4 and Kennecott 2¾. Standard Oil shares moved over a point higher while Independents held strong.

Turnover held near the 3,500,000 share level. The money market appeared tighter but the call rate was held at 7 per cent.

Utilities and power stocks continued their advance. The new high price level reached by electric investors was due to expectation of developments in the near future along the lines forecast here several months ago. Recapitalization that is expected, it is stated, will be along the lines of that followed by Superpower corporation which was split on a five for one basis. Recapitalizations, however, are not the only bull factor in the move of the group, as current reports indicate that several important merger deals are being discussed. In addition there has been a progressive increase in earnings shown by waterworks, American Power and Light and others that has been reflected in recent demand for the shares.

Signing of the reparations conference was the signal for better demand for the copper shares. Cerro de Pasco was the subject of the most favorable advices. Paying $6 a share and earning well over double that amount, it was pointed out, the stock is in better position than most others in the group. It is forecast that earnings this year will break all records with the copper metal at current price. Should demand for the metal from Europe show the expected increase the market for the red metal should improve. Some of the rubber shares were, regarded with more friendliness also. Goodrich should earn $15 a share at least this year, it was forecast, while Goodyear's net should run up around $17 a share.

Oils and rails remained the most attractive as groups. Simms group work continued coincident with estimate that net was running at the rate of $2 a share. Pan American buying resulted from advice that the Standard of Indiana would make offer for more stock soon. Bankers for Pan American, it is stated, also have merger plans regarding Sinclair and some other companies. Erie was the subject of special analysis pointing out that $9 a share should be shown for the common stock this year and if expected gain is experience net in 1930 would run as high as $12 a share. Forecast of such earnings for Erie a year or so ago would be looked upon as absurd but the results of the first five months of this year apparently warrant such expectation.

Washington is very satisfied with the stock market and business in general was the word sent through to several prominent brokerage firms. It was meant that the federal reserve was pleased at the manner and extent of the correction of the market. Strong inference was made that the reserve board had the support of the administration. It was felt that the reserve would do all possible to ease the string of the huge money turnover this month. Should conditions remain as favorable as at present, it was felt, the reserve would purchase bills and government securities, thereby easing money conditions and paving the way for a good bond market after the end of this month.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 4. (AP)—Lightning from Washington today set the grain markets ablaze, and wheat prices rose 6⅛c a bushel. Corn soared a maximum of 5½c. And rye exactly 5c. Immense expansion of buying followed instantly upon receipt of dispatches telling of administration plans to put into immediate use not one million or two million of dollars for farm relief but a full half billion, the entire appropriation to be authorized by congress.

Closing quotations on wheat were excited at the day's top 3⅞ to 6⅛c above yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3⅞ to 5⅛c up, rye 2⅞ to 5c advanced, oats at 1⅛ to 1⅞c gain, and provisions varying from 2c decline to a rise of 5c. Complete effects of the day's news from Washington apparently were yet to be witnessed. Enough was known however to bring about general recognition that farm relief measures swiftly were being made ready for the president's signature.

Announcement of this from Washington came dramatically at a moment when about half an hour before grain trading would cease, the wheat market was fluttering indecisively whether to advance or decline. Previous to arrival of the Washington news, wheat values had tended downward a good share of the time, influenced chiefly by unresponsiveness which the Liverpool market displayed regarding yesterday's advances on this side of the Atlantic and also by assertions that Argentine wheat could be obtained cheaper than wheat from the United States.

Commission houses, though, were prompt to take advantage of the early downturns in wheat prices, and purchasing orders from this source brought about rallies which however, until the final half hour were of a more or less transient character. Then came a storm of buying that overwhelmed opposition, and the market sped forward like a cannon-ball. During the onward rush of prices that ensued, many stop loss orders were forced into execution. On the other hand, the great majority of traders joyfully congratulated each other as they trooped out of the exchange.

Corn, rye and oats acted in thorough sympathy with the advance of wheat. Frost reports from some Illinois points also tended to strengthen the corn market.

Despite downturns in hog values, provisions turned upward with grain.

PRICES FOR POULTRY GAIN

Wichita Company to Ship Car of Hides Today

Poultry prices were given a slight increase in figures quoted by the Wichita Poultry and Egg company Tuesday, hens of four pounds or more moving from 24 to 25 cents, broilers of two pounds or heavier advancing to 30 cents, those under two pounds to 26 cents.

Approximately 1,000 cowhides will be shipped from this plant to Fort Worth Wednesday, totaling about 40,000 pounds. These hides do not represent the kill at local slaughter pens, but are the accumulation of about two months deliveries from individuals in this section, it was stated.

The largest daily receipts of milk for the year 1929 were reported Tuesday by the Kraft cheese company's local plant, approximately 27,000 pounds having been received by noon. The route recently established in the northern portion of Montague county was said to be developing regularly into one of the best producing sources for the local supply.

Cotton gained another 20 points Tuesday, making a total rise of 50 points in two days.

REALTY FIRM GIVES BANQUET

Rabbit Industry Boomed By Gilliam Company

Members of the Wichita Falls Real Estate board, the agricultural committees of the two chambers of commerce, and several other men will be guests of the Gilliam Realty company at a banquet to be given at the Kemp hotel Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock in the interest of the rabbit industry in Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma.

Attention will be given in the meeting, it was said, to the general development of rabbit production in this section, and specifically to the development of a 110-acre tract just outside the city on the Petrolia road. This tract, which is in charge of J. M. Gilliam, head of the Gilliam Realty company, has been divided into tracts of one acre each. A model rabbitry with a capacity of 100 does and 600 young is being completed this week, Mr. Gilliam stated. Stocking of the farm is in charge of Charles Winfrey, one of the leading rabbit growers in this community. Unless delayed by unfavorable weather, the management of the tract plans to hold a formal opening of the model rabbitry Saturday, June 8.

A lady's coat, made in Wichita Falls from 30 skins taken from New Zealand rabbits raised by Mr. Winfrey, is now on display in the Ninth street window of the Perkins-Timberlake store. A valuation of $25 was placed on the garment by the fur department of that store, it was said.

A program of concert music and other entertainment will be given at the banquet Wednesday night, it was announced, and will be broadcast through station KGKO.

BUSINESS AREA OF CITY GROWS

17 1-2 Acres Added Here In Last Decade

Wichita Fall's business section has increased by 17½ acres in area during the last 10 years, according to growth charts shown by C. Y. Tully before the weekly meeting of the Wichita Falls real estate board at the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon.

Special maps prepared by Mr. Tully not only showed the spread of the business district from 21.9 acres in 1918 to 39.46 acres in 1928, but reflected the general expansion of the entire city during the same period.

The board selected J. N. Prothro as delegate to the National Association of Real Estate boards' convention which will be held at Boston June 25-28.

Realtors were invited by J. M. Gilliam of the Gilliam Realty company to attend a rabbit banquet as guest of his company at the Kemp hotel Wednesday night.
