Possible West Nile case in Colorado City

BLOOD SUCKER — Mosquitos, like this one, are known to carry the West Nile virus and transmit it to humans. A recent case at Mitchell County Hospital District is suspected as being the first case in the county.

Colorado City workers were spraying for mosquitos Friday after a suspected case of the West Nile virus was reported at Mitchell County Hospital District this last week. MCHD CEO Robbie Dewberry said the hospital was still waiting on confirmation from the state, but there was a case in the Emergency Room which they felt could be the county's first case of the disease.

This comes on the heels of three reported cases, also still not confirmed at this point, in Abilene. According to the Medicinenet.com, this year's outbreak is the worst in history, with 85 deaths and more than 1,000 cases of severe disease, and the numbers of severe cases are expected to continue to rise in October, according to Lyle Petersen, MD, MPH, director of the Center for Disease Control's division of vector-borne diseases. Every state except Alaska and Hawaii has reported pools of mosquitos carrying the virus. There have been human cases in 44 states.

"This week's numbers show about a 25% increase over last week," Petersen said. "The cases reported so far are the highest for the first week of September since the virus entered the U.S. in 1999."

About half the case reports have come from Texas, notes David Lakey, MD, Texas state health commissioner.

"Unfortunately, those numbers will continue to go up," he said. "We know there will be additional deaths and, sadly, more folks diagnosed with West Nile neuro-invasive disease."

Most people infected with the West Nile virus have no signs or symptoms and only about 20 percent of people develop a mild infection called West Nile fever. Common signs and symptoms of West Nile fever include:

- Fever
- Headache
- Body aches
- Fatigue
- Skin rash (occasionally)
- Swollen lymph glands (occasionally)
- Eye pain (occasionally)

School bond election focus of town meeting

Want to help the kids, plan for the future or just gobble down a hamburger? Then Colorado Middle School cafeteria is the place to be Tuesday, September 18. An informal hamburger dinner has been arranged to allow people to talk about the CISD Bond Election and ask any questions they may have on the subject.

Colorado ISD Superintendent Reggy Spencer will give a presentation, showing why the new school is needed. He will also explain how the bond issue is developed.

The CISD Bond Election will be on the ballot in the November election and has quickly jumped to the foreground in the minds of local voters. A large turnout is expected at the cafeteria Sept. 18. The event starts at 5:30 p.m.

At the board of trustees meeting Monday night, a preliminary drawing for the new school was introduced to the board members, outlining different drop zones for the smaller kids and the middle school kids, as they will be in different wings of the same building if the new school is built.

In addition, a preliminary schedule of events was outlined, which begins with a Geo Tech Survey September 17, 2012. With the passing of the bond in the November 6 election, architectural and civil plans would begin to be drawn up November 19.

May 17, 2013 is a date picked for all the plans to be finished and publication for bids to begin, with bids being opened June 18. The bids would be presented to the board of trustees July 2, 2013 and construction would actually begin July 15, 2013. The entire project is expected to be finished in 17 months, roughly by December 15, 2014, allowing the transition to the new building to be completed over the holiday break.

If the bond does pass in November, renovations to the high school, which are included in the plan, would mostly take place during the summer of 2013, while the kids are out of school.

Westbrook mud bog Saturday

With all four barrels sucking gas like it still cost a nickel, the Westbrook Volunteer Fire Department's mud bog is scheduled to kick off this weekend. The fourth annual event will be held at Mitchell County Rodeo Arena Saturday and according to Mindy Hale, should draw 30-35 drivers.

"We do not preregister, so I cannot tell for sure until the day of the event," Hale said, "but we should get between 30 and 35 drivers, like we did last year."

The fundraiser is used to raise funds for WVFD, to buy and repair trucks and equipment. The department has already purchased two new trucks and Jaws of Life equipment with money they raise at the event.

"The community has been really good in their support of us and this event," Hale said.

The drivers' registration will begin at noon on Sept. 15 and will last until 4 p.m. It cost $30 to enter either of the three classes: Street, Modified and Open (all determined by tire size).

To get into the mud bog, it is $5 for adults and $2 for kids 12 and under.

Hale said the department would be selling t-shirts again this year and they have added something extra as well. Koozies will be offered as well for sale at the event.

In addition, the local 4-H program will be running a full concession stand for the event, with all the proceeds going to the 4-H club. They will have barbecue sandwiches, drinks and much

CISD gets glimpse of new school building at meeting

The Board of Trustees of Colorado ISD met Monday evening in the school's administration building. In the spotlight at the meeting was the presentation of a preliminary drawing of the new school building the district is hoping to build for the K-8 students, if the bond is successful in November.

The rough drawing was presented to the board with the understanding that everything still hinges on the November 6 election. The proposed building would have separate drop off spots for the younger students from the middle school students. The students will be separated in different wings of the building, separated by common areas in the center. The cafeterias and gym would be among the common areas used to separate the wings.

The members also received a preliminary schedule of events which would take place, if the bond passes.

The architect would begin making the actual plans as early as November 19, expecting to have them finished by May 17, 2013 when the district would publish a request for bids.

After the bids were opened on June 18, they would be presented to the board of trustees July 2.

If all was up to par, the actual construction would begin July 15, 2013 and is expected to be finished by Dec. 15, 2014, allowing the transition to the new building to take place during the holiday break.

Renovations to the high school would take place during the summer of 2013, while all students were out of the buildings.

In other business, Colorado High School Principal Dalton West gave a summary for the high school, with student's driving privileges being listed as a top priority. Principal West said he had been in a meeting with Mayor Carol Sue Dakan and the Colorado City Police Department. West said he had been asked to

Frontier Days set for Sept. 29

The Colorado City Chamber of Commerce and Main Street are teaming up to return Frontier Days to the city this month. But things will be a bit different, as the event is being reduced to a one-day event, Sept. 29 only.

With the weekend falling the same weekend as homecoming, Main Street and the Chamber of Commerce decided to do away with the annual parade. In addition, the arts and crafts vendors have been excluded this year as well, hoping to stimulate better turnout for the upcoming Petticoats on the Prairie and Railhead Trade Days events.

"We thought it best not to hold a parade less than 24 hours from the homecoming parade," Amie Wood said, "but we may crash the parade and have some of our floats in the homecoming parade."

The county fair side of the event will return in full force again this year with several different categories. Crafts, breads, cakes, pies, cookies and canned food are just a few of the events Mitchell County residents can enter, along with modern quilts (made in the last 36 months).

Under the antiques category, there are subdivisions of magazines, handmade and store-bought dolls, quilts, household or agricultural tins and toy tractors. According to Amanda Jo Ritchey, in order to qualify under the antiques division, the displays have to be 50 years old or older, made in 1962 or before. "There will be plenty for the kids to do, as well," Ritchey said. "We will have bounce houses, the Chamber Choo-Choo and of course the dog costume contest."

Ritchey added that the Chamber of Commerce and Main Street were still working on some details, trying to add more events to the festival.

There will be live music again this year with performances from Lake Bottom Trollers, Da Boyz and the Dusty Creek Band. In addition, the 5K run is still on, along with the Western Stroll. Wood said there would be plenty of activities for the kids as well as the ever-popular weiner dog races and ice cream freeze off will be held.

Across town, the Heart of West Texas Museum will be unveiling their new gun exhibit for those wishing to get a better understanding of what it meant to "carry iron."

More information can be found on the city's and chamber's websites. They are www.coloradocitytx.com and coloradocitychamberofcommerce.com, respectively. Or interested parties can contact the Chamber of Commerce or Main Street by phone by calling 728-2072.

Boer cook-off set for Oct. 5-6

The 17th annual World Championship Boer Goat Cook-off is accepting applications for 3-man teams. The entry fee for the boer goat is $150, with a $100 non-refundable deposit. With the field being limited to the first 55 teams who sign up, cooks are encouraged to enter quickly.

The event itself will take place October 5-6 at Ruddick Park, with a first place prize of $1,500, sponsored by Fuller Foods. Belt buckles, provided by Wood's Boots, will also be distributed at the event. Second place will pay $750, sponsored by Ace hardware and Neff's Crane and Rigging is sponsoring the third place prize of $500. But none of that compares to the bragging rights which go along with winning.

Fourth and fifth places in the goat division will each receive $125 and all those placing between second and tenth will receive a plaque.

Goat not your cup of tea? There is still plenty to cook and eat at the event. Jackpot cook-offs for beans, brisket, pork ribs and dessert will be available for an entry fee of $15 each. Entrants can enter as many jackpots as they want to pay for. Registration and jackpot deadline is 7 p.m. on Friday, October 5. All entries must be cooked on site. Applications must be turned in at or mailed to:

Colorado City Volunteer Fire Department
620 East 11th Street
Colorado City, Texas 79512

In an effort to make the event safe for everyone, no one without a valid driver's license is permitted to operate any of the following in the park during the cook off dates: 4-wheelers, ATV's, golf carts, motorized scooters, Mules or any other motorized vehicle.

This rule has been in place before, but will be enforced unsympathetically this year, for the safety of the entrants. There will be no excuses accepted during the Boer Goat Cook-Off weekend.

Enrollment numbers soar in county

Mitchell County schools had started the year with a small increase in enrollments for the 2012-13 school year and some have continued to grow through the Labor Day holiday.

Colorado ISD began the year with 1071 students, up from 1048 they had started 2011 with. Currently, there are 1,114 students enrolled at Colorado ISD.

Loraine ISD began the 2012 school year with 145 students, up from the 138 they started with last year. At the close of school last year, LISD showed an enrollment of 150. Today, Loraine has fallen to 139 students. But Superintendent Travis Edwards is still optimistic the numbers will be much better once the new school is built.

"Loraine ISD graduated one of our larger classes last year," Superintendent Travis Edwards said. "Hopefully our numbers will go up some this year. We are looking forward to seeing what the new school will do to our numbers next year."

Westbrook ISD started almost exactly where they left off last year. At the end of the 2011-12 school year, the district showed an enrollment of 230 and began this year with 225. They were still at that same number when Labor Day came.

Superintendent Todd Burleson said, "We started pretty close to last year. We are pleased with our numbers this year. I feel like our enrollment will stay where it is at and perhaps climb a little."

OPINION & COMMENTARY

TUMBLEWEED SMITH Conoco gave Daron some good advice

Daron Norwood is a musician who lives in Muleshoe. He talks best when he is holding a guitar. "I've been playing it since I was ten years old," he says with a twinkle in his eye. "Music has been my life since I was about three. I've only had one job outside of music. That was in 1985 when I graduated from high school in Tahoka. I got a job at the local co-op where they busted flats and changed tires. It was during the old filling station days when you actually washed windshields and swept out the car while you were filling it with gas. I worked with a black man called Conoco. We were washing a car one day and a George Strait tune came on the radio and I was singing along with it. Conoco held out his hands to me and said, 'Daron, you see these old hands I got right here. With a voice like you got, there ain't no reason that your hands have to look like these in fifty years.' He said he knew of a place in Lubbock that pays good money to singers. That's how my music career got started."

Daron left the service station the very day that Conoco held out his hands. "I came to a little hole in the wall called Adolph's. It was so dark inside you couldn't even see when you went in off the street. I walked up to the bartender and said 'you don't know this, but you need me today. If there's one thing in this world I can do it's sing. He told me I could play for tips. I made $85 a day for the next three months. I played there from noon to three. I got a cold beer and a hamburger after I played. One day the bartender told me there was another place where I could play from 4 to 7. I picked up that job. One of my musician friends told me he was quitting his gig at a honky-tonk on the other side of town and he got me that job. It was 9 to closing. I was soon making a thousand dollars a week playing music when I was 19 years old."

As a youngster, Daron sang with his Dad. "He looked a lot like Johnny Cash and he sang a lot of Johnny Cash. We sang gospel songs. He'd sing 'Daddy sang bass' and I'd come in with my high voice and sing 'Mommy sang tenor.' I was kinda his sidekick. I'd wear a hat and turn up the brim in front. Daddy let me sing a whole song at the end of the performance to let the audience know I could really sing. His name was Hugh Jack Norwood and was an evangelistic preacher. Our family had some funny names. There was Hugh Jack and Billy Jack and Betty Faye and Betty Jo. They had so many kids they started using the same ones over 'cause they ran out of names. My daddy was the baby of eleven kids. It was a musical family. When you turned ten years old they handed you an instrument. Let's say if somebody had graduated from school and they used to play mandolin. Well the mandolin was still at the house. Papa Norwood would hand you the mandolin and say 'learn to play this.'"

Daron went to Nashville and had some hit tunes. He had a bus and performed all over the country. One time he had a gig in Lubbock and he was in his bus with some of his band members and one of them told Daron there was a man outside named Conoco that said he knew the singer. Daron said, "You better let him in. He's the one that started all this mess. He told me to put the chamois down and follow my dreams."

I'll take all the credit

By Robert Griffin

Another birthday came and went this weekend without me feeling any older...or younger. I was asked, "Do you feel - insert number here" - to which, I replied that I had no idea what it was supposed to feel like. It seems most of my life I have felt either 18 or 81, so I really do not know how I am supposed to feel at...whatever age I am at now. I either felt older than my years or younger than I was.

I did take some time - between naps - to reflect just a bit and take a little time to weigh what I have done. Let's see, I wrote that novel, like I always said I would. In fact, I wrote three more after it. Of course, they were never published, but I can live with that. I know a while back I pulled the older two out and looked them over. It was very evident why they were never published. Great stories...just bad writing, again, I can live with that.

I have managed to build a pretty good marriage. We will mark 19 years in December...yes, I know the date, honey. Of course, I may be taking credit for something here I had nothing to do with. Forget what everyone tells you about the secret to a long and happy marriage. It is really rather simple: marry a good woman and the rest will take care of itself, or perhaps more precisely, she will keep you in line, so you can look back years later and think you actually did something great. Well, I was smart enough to marry her. That has to count for something.

The kids seem to like me, so perhaps I was never too bad of a parent. They never had to call 911. That doesn't mean they have not sat in their room, with 9-1-1 already dialed, just waiting on that final straw. Heck, the older two will actually hug me in public. That has to say something, doesn't it?

Forget what everyone tells you about being a good parent. The secret is to have good kids. The rest will take care of itself.

Ok, so looking back now, I see I really haven't done all that much. It would appear I have received far greater than I have ever - or will ever - deserve.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor:

In reference to our city beautification program, I wish to commend our demolition crew for a job well done so far. Of course, there are many, many eyes that need to come down. It is obvious to anyone that looks that headway is being made. Our city is looking a lot better all the time. Keep up the good work.

Our animal control wardens are doing a very fine job of controlling stray and loose dogs. Stray cats, skunks, opossums, raccoons, snakes, etc. are pretty much a lost cause in any small west Texas community, but they are doing the best job that they can and we can't ask for more than that from them.

Most of our property owners are keeping their property looking as nice as can be expected during a hot and dry west Texas summer. There are a few exceptions of course, some just don't give a darn and let their property become an eyesore. To these few I say, "Shame on you."

The construction of the new jail and law enforcement center and the new Family Dollar store are definite pluses for our community.

Our Public Works Department is doing an excellent job of repairing our numerous water leaks in an antiquated water main system. Hats off to them!

Our streets department is doing a good job of street repair and keeping most of the potholes filled. Some progress has been made in improving the appearance of our roadways and streets, as evidenced on E. 10th St. east of Austin St., but they are lacking in maintaining the appearance of our city streets as a whole. When a person (anyone) drives into a town or city, the first thing that person sees is the street. Sometimes they even feel it in the seat of their pants!

If the street is clean and well-maintained, you assume that the rest of their infrastructure is also well-maintained. Coming into or driving around in Colorado City, you see, in the curbs and gutters, and on the side of the street, weeds, grass, grassburrs, trash etc. Some of this growth is two to four feet into the street and can be seen on almost any street you care to drive on. One of the worst examples is at the intersection of 9th and Elm.

I cannot advise our Public Works Director on how to correct this city-wide eyesore since that is outside my expertise. I only know that hit and miss scraping every year or so is not the solution.

Last, but by no means least, I wish to express my humble opinion of our law enforcement agencies. I am completely convinced that we have the very best police department that any city, town or community could ask for. They do a great job, and we are blessed to have them. Our judges and justices of the peace are people of unsurpassed integrity. Our sheriff's department, led by Sheriff Patrick Toombs, is one of the best departments in Texas and possibly the U.S. They are courteous, efficient, well-organized and just good people.

One parting word that you have heard before, but please don't forget it, "If you want good neighbors, be a good neighbor."

what our country is all about is getting involved in something like that to make a difference. I wish more people could have that experience."

Similar to the Democratic Convention, with its last second platform changes, Beckmeyer said there were some late rule changes among the republicans which she felt were not in the best interest of the party.

"John Boehner did not call for the vote three times. He just went whatever direction he wanted," she said. "There were people yelling 'point of order', but he just ignored them and kept going."

Beckmeyer talked about the nullification of the president's health care plan. It is law now and there is nothing which can be done about that, but she said what they intended to do was nullify it in the state of Texas, and other states if they can get them to join the campaign. What that would mean is that the laws would still be on the books, but the states would not enforce it within their borders.

"We have a resolution already drafted which says we do not approve of it and we do not want it in Texas," she said. "The bill is already drawn up and we just need the sponsors to get it to the floor."

Beckmeyer is a member of the San Angelo Tea Party and said she also goes to meetings in Abilene.

"The Tea Party is the grassroots in this country," she said. "That's what our country is founded on. If you do not have the grassroots, then it is very difficult to get anything accomplished."

signs and symptoms

In less than 1 percent of infected people, the virus causes a serious neurological infection. Such infection may include inflammation of the brain (encephalitis) or of the brain and surrounding membranes (meningoencephalitis). Serious infection may also include infection and inflammation of the membranes surrounding the brain and spinal cord (meningitis), inflammation of the spinal cord (West Nile poliomyelitis) and acute flaccid paralysis — a sudden weakness in your arms, legs or breathing muscles. Signs and symptoms of these diseases include:

- High fever
- Severe headache
- Stiff neck
- Disorientation or confusion
- Stupor or coma
- Tremors or muscle jerking
- Lack of coordination
- Convulsions
- Pain
- Partial paralysis or sudden weakness

Signs and symptoms of West Nile fever usually last a few days, but signs and symptoms of encephalitis or meningitis can linger for weeks, and certain neurological effects, such as muscle weakness, may be permanent.

When to see a doctor

Mild symptoms of West Nile fever usually resolve on their own, but if you experience signs or symptoms of serious infection, such as severe headaches, a stiff neck or an altered mental state, seek medical attention right away. A serious West Nile virus infection generally requires hospitalization.

So how can you protect yourself? Dewberry agrees with the experts:

"Use insect repellent which contains DEET, picaridin or oil of lemon eucalyptus," he said. "Dress in long sleeve shirts and long pants and try to stay indoors at dusk and dawn, when mosquitoes are most active."

Hale said there would also be a 50-50 raffle at the mud bog this year, stating last year, the winner actually walked away with over $400.

Currently, the department is accepting reserved parking sales. Anyone interested in reserving their spot can contact Stacy Goswick at 728-2100. The cost of reserving a spot is $2.

soring the town meeting, said she hoped there would be a lot of people show up at the event.

"I would love for those who are against the bond election to come and see Mr. Spencer's presentation," she said. "There were several on the committee who felt the new school was not needed until we saw it up close and personal. It changed our minds and I think if people would just come see the presentation, it might change theirs as well."

Robben said the hamburgers, chips and a drink would be absolutely free of charge, though donations would be accepted to help defray the costs.

West said he had been asked to help curb dangerous driving by suspending the driving privileges of students who receive a traffic ticket on 17th street. West said he really had no way of knowing if the kids had tickets or not, but had agreed that if the students came to him and told him they had received a ticket, the school would make the students turn in their keys during lunch time.

West said he was told of residents on 17th Street wishing to start a petition of some sort to stop the traffic, which had sparked the concern and the meeting between himself and city officials on the issue.

Colorado City Police Chief

Roy Owens said he believed the area was being patrolled very well during peak driving hours and believed the situation would be under control soon.

"Mr. West does a great job out there with those kids," Chief Owens said. "I believe he got his message across pretty good."

In other business, the board accepted bids from Ismael and Custodia Silva in the amount of $150 for properties located at 621 and 629 Pine Street. The board also accepted a $1,200 bid from Amy Pritchard for property located at 617 Cypress Street, while rejecting as bid of $800 from Charlene Morris on the same property.

Wall of Honor honorees listed

With homecoming week just around the corner, Colorado ISD is busy preparing celebrations, dinners and a really impressive homecoming float. Among the festivities will be the honoring of former students, as they will be inducted into the CISD Wall of Honor next week.

This year's honorees are Holly Neff, C.A. Wilkins, Tony Jones, Charles Haines, Jose Luis Rios and Mattie Hines. The honorees will attend the high school pep rally at 12:20 p.m. Friday, Sept. 28, before making their way to the Colorado Middle School cafeteria for the induction ceremony.

This year's honored guests will be a part of the parade downtown at 4:30 before heading to the Kiwanis Park on 2nd Street for a dinner. The honorees will then be honored in a pre-game recognition ceremony at Wolf Stadium before kick-off of the Wolves-Reagan County game.

Devyn DeLoera battles on The Voice

Devyn DeLoera, granddaughter of Eddie and Ann Gregory, performed on NBC's The Voice Monday, September 10th and she survived the first round.

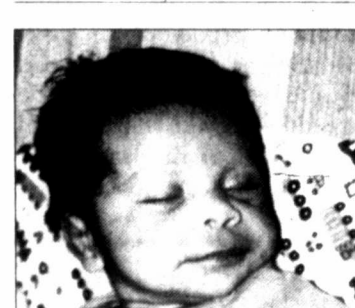

The Voice has three levels of competition, beginning with the "blind auditions" at which DeLoera excelled. She now faces the "battles" and "live shows" parts of the contest. Following Monday's blind auditions, DeLoera was picked by "coach" Christina Aguilera, after performing one of Aguilera's songs. The pop star made mention of how difficult the song is to perform, clearly impressed with DeLoera's performance.

DeLoera graduated from Snyder High School in 2010 and from Western Texas College in May. While attending SHS, she was also active in choir, earning honors on the regional area and state levels. Always the performer, she was active in school musicals, drama productions and One Act Play, where she won district and area awards.

DeLoera is the daughter of Albert and Darla Gregory DeLoera, a graduate of Colorado High School and Miss CHS in 1989.

FFA named Superior State Chapter

School may have been out for most of the summer but for Colorado FFA members and advisors, there has been much to do after a long, busy year. Activities accomplished and the planning that allowed those activities throughout the school year was put together.

Colorado FFA officers and advisors had committed to completing an award application for a National Chapter Award that had only been discussed in previous years. Requirements: five activities in each of three categories (student, chapter, and community) had to be briefly summarized; nine of the 15 activities were then selected as goals were written along with plan of actions, and results for each of these nine goals. The lengthy application was submitted.

The announcement came out via email as Colorado FFA received news that members were part of a State Superior Chapter, had made the top 10 in the state with a 4th place gold ranking and would need to be present at the awards presentation for the National Chapter Award at the State FFA Convention held in Corpus Christi July 11th.

Students and advisors were extremely excited as this award represents and recognizes FFA chapters that successfully complete an annual Program of Activities (PoA) which includes a series of activities designed to encourage its members to grow as individuals, to work as part of a team, and to serve others.

Not only did Colorado FFA receive a plaque and recognition for their hard work and effort, but the state's top ten percent are eligible to compete for the National FFA Star Chapter Awards.

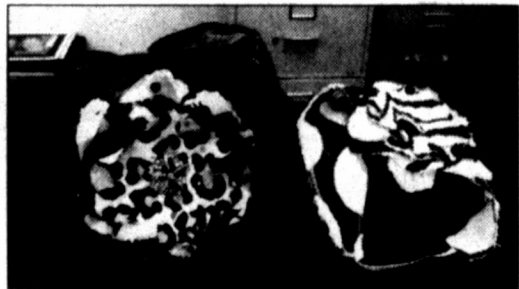

Chapters that receive a national 3-star chapter rating at the National level will be eligible to compete for the National Model of Innovation and Model of Excellence Awards. These awards are awarded at the National FFA Convention held in October in Indianapolis, Indiana.

As Colorado FFA hasn't traveled to the national convention in many years, both students and advisors look forward to the trip they will take October 23-27 to Indianapolis, Indiana and are excited to see how their activities and community service efforts rank with other chapters across the nation.

Thank You Mitchell County

The American Cancer Society would like to thank Mitchell County for all of your support of this year's Relay For Life. The event was held Saturday morning, August 11th at Hutchinson Middle School. It kicked off with a speech by survivors, Jim Baum and Ed Blake then a Survivor Lap celebrating those that have beat cancer. It was immediately followed by a Kid's Fun Run and a 5K with over 50 runners racing through the streets of Colorado City. After the 5K, a Luminaria Ceremony was held to remember and honor those that have fought cancer. Rhonda Roark shared the emotional story of her cancer journey of losing her mom to cancer, her son's victory over cancer, and now her own courageous battle for the Fight Back ceremony. The morning commenced with a hamburger lunch and medal ceremony honoring all of the 5K finishers.

This year's Relay For Life raised over $18,000 for the fight against cancer, which was $3000 over goal! The money will now go to life-saving cancer research, education, advocacy and local patient services. The American Cancer Society would like to thank all of the committee, teams, sponsors, runners, and community members that helped to make this year's Relay so successful.

Defeat blows into Wolf Stadium Friday night

The Wolves walked into a firestorm Friday night at Wolf Stadium in the form of the Golden Cranes of Crane, falling 40-18 in their home-opener.

"I don't know how you don't get fired up for a home-opener," Head Coach Frank Johnson said. "There were some signs of good defense at times, but it was just not consistent enough."

The Wolves, who managed only one score in the first three quarters, grabbed some momentum late in the game. David Sanchez took a fumble recovery 82 yards for a touchdown and Mark Henderson scored his second of the night, giving some faint hope of a comeback, but they would fall short of the mark.

"Crane does have a good football team," Coach Johnson said, "but I am not sure how good exactly. Right now, I see it was more of us playing poorly than them playing well."

The Golden Cranes scored on a 63-yard punt return in the first quarter to open the scoring. They also scored on a pick-six interception in the second quarter and then on another, one in the fourth. Remove those three scores, along with the two point-after tries which were converted, and it is a 20-18 ball game. But there was more to the loss than just those three mistakes.

"I thought we tackled poorly," Coach Johnson added. "We missed more tackles in this game than we did in two scrimmages and the Breckenridge game combined. We just did not play well."

Coach Johnson said he expected the play to improve dramatically over the next week, as he and the coaching staff would be "turning up the intensity level in practice."

Henderson went 10-22 in the pocket for 128 passing yards and three interceptions. Most of his passes went to Rylan Gardner, who caught five for 84 yards.

On the ground, the Wolves were led by Nathan Jackson, who picked up 54 tough yards on 18 carries.

The players of the week, according to Coach Johnson, were Olivar Sosa defensively, Rylan Gardner offensively and Josh Sutton for the Monster Hit.

Coach Johnson said Sosa played a really tough game Friday night, making a great contribution on the defensive side of the ball.

On offense, Gardner's 84 yards on five catches led the team to earn him a spot on Johnson's top-three list.

Coach Johnson added that Josh Sutton put a huge hit on a Crane player right on the sideline which drew groans from the crowd.

Coach Johnson said there would be no special teams' player of the week this week.

The Wolves will play Coahoma Friday night in Coahoma. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

SECC Golf tourney scheduled for October 17th

The TDCJ Wolfcamp complex will hold the 10th Annual SECC Golf Tournament benefiting Christmas in Action and Correctional Peace Officer Foundation again this year. Only the top 18 teams will be accepted.

The tournament team schedule is set for Friday, October 12th at Wolf Creek Golf Course, with registration beginning at 8 a.m. The tournament will begin with a shotgun start at 9 a.m.

Now this year will be a free Dodge Charger to the first person making a hole-in-one on #18.

The fee to play will be $60 per player and includes green fee, cart and lunch, along with two Mulligans.

Gold prizes will be awarded for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place. Door prizes will be given with tickets, and additional tickets can be purchased.

Beverages and lunch will be available for non-players for a small donation.

For more information, contact Ronnie Wagner at 325-242-4295.

Wolves to face Coahoma

This week, the 1-1 Wolves will travel just up the road a bit and take on those old familiar rivals, the Coahoma Bulldogs. The Bulldogs, looking to get past the Bi-District round of the playoffs this season are off to a 1-1 start, with their loss coming in a close 30-27 slugfest with tough former district rival Forsan. Last week, the Bulldogs dismantled Coleman to the tune of 27-8.

"Coahoma is a real, good team," Wolves head Coach Frank Johnson said. "Tanner Ruiz gives them plenty of options under center and the whole team plays extremely hard. The Wolves, still stinging from the 40-18 loss to Crane in Friday night's home-opener, will be hoping to get back on track."

"It's going to be a tough game with Coahoma. It always is," Coach Johnson said. "I cannot guarantee a win, but I will guarantee a better performance than we gave last week. That was our wake up call. Hopefully, we are awake now."

Homecoming this Friday night

The Loraine Bulldogs jumped out to a 36-22 lead at the half Friday night but were unable to hold on as things got wild in Imperial. The Indians fought back, outscoring the 'Dogs 22-7 in the final two frames to claim a 44-43 win and sending the Loraine boys home with a loss.

The Bulldogs were an absolute force on the ground, out-pounding the Indians with 290 rushing yards, compared to Fort Davis's 137.

The air attack of Fort Davis was impressive with 172 yards on 30 attempts and four touchdowns in an incredibly strong wind.

Overall, Loraine had a total of 395 yards in comparison to Fort Davis's 309.

Tim Garza scored on runs of two, 65, 24 and four yards from scrimmage. He also added a 79-yard kick return for a score and hit Tristan Mosher on a 22-yard crossing route for another Loraine score.

Ricky Cantu scored just as the second half ended to pad the halftime lead on a short pass from Cody Haltom.

Garza amassed 197 rushing yards in the game on 25 carries, scoring four times. Under center, he went 5-17 for 104 yards with a touchdown and one interception. Most of the passing yards were scooped up by Cantu, who managed to grab 75 yards on four catches, scoring once.

Defensively, it was a three-way tie for the top spot among the Bulldogs, as Patrick Tillis, Cantu and Mosher each recorded eight tackles each.

This week, the Loraine Bulldogs will be back in the friendly confines of Bulldog Stadium, hosting Highland in Loraine's homecoming game. The Hornets are looking at an 0-2 start to their season as well, falling to powerhouses Motley County and Sterling City by scores of 60-12 and 50-0, respectively.

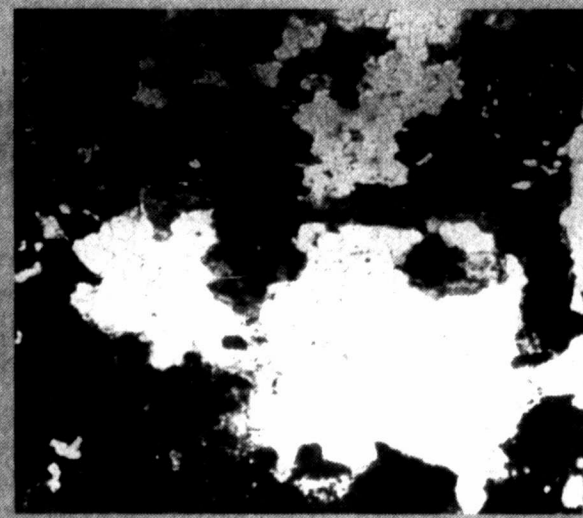

The game starts at 7:30 p.m. in Loraine.

Greetings! Hope everyone had a good week.

"Judge not that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again." Matthew 7: 1 and 2

Here I would like to share a quote from my mom: "If you look for bad in someone that's all you'll find; but, if you look for the good you might make a friend."

On Labor Day weekend, Pam and Danny Butler hosted her family reunion at their lake house. Those in attendance were her mom and dad, Marion and Verna Hughes from New Mexico; her daughters, Drs. Krystal and David Barrera and their daughters from Lubbock; and Dawn and Paul Kropp and daughters from Temple.

Also, in attendance were people from Texas, New Mexico, Arkansas, and Missouri. Pam said there was a lot fun, food, and fellowship. A good time was had by all.

This week Inez Stewart has her son, Frankie, visiting with her. They have made plans to go to Wichita Falls on Friday to visit James and Billie Parker.

Hope ya'll have a great time!

I can't believe it's already homecoming. The school students will be celebrating all week: Monday- put the Hornets to bed (wear pajamas); Tuesday - hats off to the Bulldogs (wear caps); Wednesday - outsmart the Hornets (dress like a nerd); Thursday - tie up the Hornets (wear tie-dye shirts); and, Friday - extreme black and gold day.

September 21st will be hunt the yellowhammers (wear camouflage) for the school students.

There's a lot going on in Loraine right now. The city was just awarded another $275,000

Next week they plan to set the new playground equipment in the park.

For those of you who don't know: Just-E-Nuff 121 Pacific, Loraine phone 325-737-2570, is now taking debit cards. Go by and visit and check out their merchandise.

We are being asked to pray for Maxine and Garland Hagood, and their family. Their daughter, Melissa, is fighting cancer.

Huff back from missionary trip

Colorado City resident Jimmy Huff, of Jimmy Huff Ministries, returned to the city this week from a missionary trip to Greeley, Colorado. Huff, along with 13 others from the Kansas City, Missouri area, went to Colorado to raise awareness for the missionaries their ministries support.

"I preached at three churches while I was there," Huff said. "I preached on Matthew 5:4, reminding them they are expected to be the light of the world."

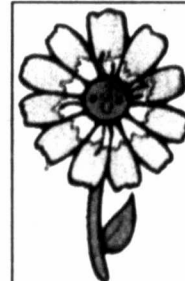

Huff said he asked them to make a commitment, a pledge to support the missionaries by providing Bibles for them to distribute in prisons and overseas. Jimmy Huff Ministries supports five missionary groups and two prison ministries, along with four churches in the United States. The ministry sends Bibles to Finland, Afghanistan, Iraq, Canada and parts of South Africa.

Locally, Huff is better known for his support of veterans and those suffering with diabetes. He was ordained a minister in 1978 by Matt Matlock at the Christian Temple.

"The trip was a great success," Huff said. "They all agreed to make the commitment I asked them to make."

While in Colorado, Huff took the time to go to the top of Pike's Peak, a mountain in the Front Range of the Rocky Mountains. He described the mountain as being "like nothing I have ever seen."
