

$16.9 million swindle in oil deal claimed

Iowa millionaire sues Clements' company

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A Dallas oil drilling firm headed by Texas Republican gubernatorial candidate William Clements has been named in a $42 million lawsuit filed by an Iowa millionaire who claims he was swindled out of $16.9 million in a Persian Gulf oil deal.

A copyright story in today's San Diego Union says Iowa businessman Roy J. Carver's suit contends that in late 1975, acting on advice from an executive of Clements' SEDCO Inc. drilling firm, he paid a "commission" to Ali Jaidah, then oil minister of the Persian Gulf emirate of Qatar, for permission to drill for oil off the Qatar coast.

Clements, a former U.S. under-secretary of defense, is in a tight race with Texas Attorney General John Hill for Texas governor.

SEDCO lawyers, according to the Union story, sought and obtained a delay in the deadline for filing a reply to the suit until Nov. 15 — one week after Tuesday's election.

SEDCO President B. Gill Clements, son of the gubernatorial candidate, told the Union his father, then serving as undersecretary of defense in Washington, had no active involvement in SEDCO activities during the period of the Qatar project. The elder Clements, his son said, relinquished his corporate post when he went to Washington, although he retained ownership of $100 million in SEDCO stock.

B. Gill Clements denied that the firm played any part in the payment of Carver's alleged commission to Jaidah. Such commissions were not specifically outlawed by Congress until 1977.

Although Carver's suit does not specify the amount of the alleged bribe to Jaidah, the Union reports it was told it was $1.5 million, and that the money was deposited in the Swiss bank account of a Jaidah relative.

Efforts to reach Jaidah at OPEC headquarters in Vienna were unsuccessful as of late Thursday and a spokesman at the Qatar embassy in Washington, D.C., said Qatar officials would respond only to written inquiries about the alleged payment.

Carver's suit was filed July 20 in federal court in Davenport, Iowa. Details in it outline a complicated scheme by which Carver contends he was victimized.

Carver, who amassed a $250 million fortune with his Iowa-based Bandag tire recapping company, claims in the suit he was persuaded to become involved in the oil venture by former Georgia state Sen. Eugene Holley.

Carver and his attorneys have refused comment on the lawsuit. But it reportedly contends that Carver became involved in the oil venture because he was told he could reap extraordinary profits from a $2 million investment, plus a commission to Jaidah.

The oil wells involved were abandoned in 1971 by a Japanese oil concern after being drilled by Clements' SEDCO Inc.

Holding out that promise to Carver, the suit says, were top executives and consultants employed by SEDCO, and Carver's new partner, Holley.

Just before January 1976, Carver alleges, he paid the commission to Jaidah, and in partnership with Holley, embarked on the drilling project for which they hired various SEDCO subsidiaries.

Eight months later, SEDCO and its subsidiaries had been paid millions in drilling and consulting fees, the suit said. Holley, a non-paying partner in Carver's oil venture, is reported to have used the paper assets of their partnership, Holcar Inc., to hold off a group of Georgia bankers demanding repayment of $30 million in personal loans to Holley.

Carver said that in the same eight-month period, he invested nearly $10 million of his personal fortune into wells that produced no saleable oil — only low-grade, high-sulphur crude.

After Carver's attorneys tried for a year to extricate him from the predicament, a negotiated takeover of the troubled project by a Pakistani-based company was prohibited by the Qatar government.

Carver's suit says he was banished from Qatar without compensation for his investment, for non-performance on the oil concession.

SEDCO continued to pursue a December 1977 lawsuit against Carver for $232,000 in back drilling fees, and after losing nearly $17 million and his property, Carver filed his $42 million countersuit.

$70,000 for renovation of local library requested

Only two people appeared 1 p.m. Thursday, at a proposed use hearing for city revenue sharing funds, and one of them is an assistant city manager.

The meeting had been scheduled to allow Big Springers to offer suggestions about what to do with $71,000 in unbudgeted revenue sharing funds. The city has received approximately $306,000 in revenue sharing funds, and all but the monies involved in Thursday's meeting have been committed to various projects, according to Tom Ferguson, city finance director, who monitored the meeting.

The first to appear was John Deats, Howard County librarian, who requested $70,000 for renovation of the library. According to Deats, proposed renovations of the library basement would cost between $135,000 and $140,000.

Deats hopes that if the city provides $70,000 for renovations, the county will pick up the rest of the tab.

The only other request was made by Paul Feazelle, assistant city manager. Speaking for the city, he asked for the entire amount for purchase of equipment for the City Sanitation Department.

"The flatbed trucks that should be used for tree clipping and jobs like that are now being used for garbage pickup. I would like to use the money to buy three truck chassis for the sanitation department," said Feazelle.

Both proposals will be discussed at a budget hearing to be held within 30 days. The exact time and date of the hearing will be made in the near future.

"It will be an open meeting, and the public is invited again to make further suggestions as to how the money is to be spent," said Ferguson.

Charges filed against youth for rape of local woman

A suspect has been arrested and charged with the aggravated rape of a local woman which occurred early Tuesday morning.

Willie Ray Myles, 17, 1501 B Wood, was arrested, 3:30 p.m. Thursday, by Detectives George Quintero and Robert Sims, and Officers William Price and Roy Osborn. Charges were filed later in the day in the office of Justice of the Peace Bob West.

According to Lt. Claude Morris, Myles was arrested at the site of the new K-Mart Store, where the suspect had been employed.

"A lot of people worked on this case, but special credit should go to Detective Quintero. He put in some long hours on this when he could have been at home with his family," said Morris.

The rape occurred just after midnight Monday in the victim's apartment. According to reports, a man in his late teens armed with a rifle walked into the apartment, forced the victim's two teenaged daughters into one room, and raped their mother in another room.

Bond for the defendant was set by West at $50,000.

'Tax relief amendment' heads list of proposals

AUSTIN — If Texas were an open gambling state, the smart money would be on the "Tax Relief Amendment" to pass easily in the Nov. 7 general election.

Who, after all, would vote against something with such a name?

House Speaker Billy Clayton predicts that only one in three voters will.

Clayton, a prime mover behind the constitutional amendment in the special legislative session last summer, hardly is an unbiased observer.

Rep. John Bryant, a young liberal Democrat from Dallas, calls the amendment a political hoax that won't produce any real tax relief. But he admits he's fighting the odds. It's hard to overcome the reflex to vote for tax relief, he says.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who called that special session, supports the amendment, as do the men running to replace him, Democrat John Hill and Republican Bill Clements. But Briscoe has done little other than mention the amendment in routine speeches, and the candidates are concentrating on beating each other.

A bipartisan group, Texans for Tax Relief, is working for the amendment, backed by wealthy interests such as banking and savings executives.

Construction lags during October

Five new residential projects provided the bulk of the construction costs in the city during October.

Four of the five will be townhouses constructed in the new Village at the Spring complex by Jerry Worthing. Two of the units will cost $47,365; the others, $56,656.

The only other new residence will be built by Home Town Builders at 2516 Ann. Cost is estimated at $42,500.

Total costs for the month were down slightly compared to the same month last year. Costs came to $372,595.50 for October 1978, as opposed to $551,200 for October of 1977.

Despite the drop in October, costs have soared for the year-to-year date. Costs so far for 1978 come to $6,760,569.75, compared to $3,220,468.50 for the same period in 1977.

Proponents say the amendment will save property owners more than a half billion in taxes over three years.

But co-chairman Ray Hutchison of Dallas says the group will have only $30,000 for media advertising. Most political money is going into the campaigns, he says.

Amendment opponents apparently have no advertising money.

Some big-city legislators, such as

Shriners map parade route for Saturday

The Fall Cerebral for the Suez Temple of the Shrine will be held in Big Spring beginning today and lasting through Sunday morning.

The best chance for the public to view the Shriners will be at their parade at 10 a.m. Saturday, which will include motor patrols, clowns and funny cars.

The parade will begin at 1st and Goliad at the local Shrine Headquarters. They will go west on First Street by the railroad to Scurry and proceed south to Sixth Street by the Heritage Museum where they turn east and go to Main Street. They then go north in front of the post office and down Main to Second at the corner of the State National Bank where they turn east on Second Street and go back to Goliad.

The public is urged to bring children and come view the parade. It is not the traditional downtown parade route.

Absentee voting increases to 434

On the final day of absentee voting, County Clerk Margaret Ray said she didn't think as many voters will turn out as did for the Democratic primary earlier this year.

Mrs. Ray said 434 ballots had been cast in the office through Thursday evening, with 67 of 150 mail-out ballots returned.

The pre-election voting ends at 5 p.m. today. Those voters who will be out of the county on Nov. 7 or who fit into certain other categories may cast ballots in the county clerk's office on the first floor of the Howard County Courthouse.

Bryant, are speaking out against the amendment, but it is an unorganized effort.

School officials applauded Bryant recently in several cities, but few of them are working openly against the amendment.

Organized labor opposes it as a sham that will benefit the wealthy more than the poor, but it isn't putting any money into the campaign.

Harold Tate, Texas AFL-CIO Legislative director, says: "I think it's going to pass. It holds a few carrots out to everybody."

A handful of carrots is a good description of the amendment — a compromise product that includes pet items of various interest groups. Any one proposal might have trouble getting both legislative and voter approval.

But legislative leaders decided to lump everything together in an all-or-nothing proposal. That and considerable pressure from the leaders got the required two-thirds approval of the House and Senate. Supporters hope it also will bring the needed majority of votes in the Nov. 7 election.

They make up about one in three voters in Texas and should give significant support to the amendment, which holds out the possibility of a $10,000 exemption and a freeze on their school property taxes. The amendment always the legislature to grant these benefits, but does not require them.

The Texas Senior Citizens Association executive board opposes the amendment as having too many loose ends — leaving too many tax relief decisions up to future legislators.

One such decision is who could take advantage of a provision to tax agricultural land on its productivity rather than its real estate value.

Proponents say the change is necessary to protect family farmers from inflated property values in booming Texas.

But the proposal leaves open whether corporate-owned farms and the timber industry will get the tax break. Including everyone could significantly cut tax revenues in some school districts, such as in East Texas timber areas.

Undoubtedly the biggest plum for Texans is the provision to liberalize the homestead exemption.

Every homestead would receive a $5,000 exemption of market value from school property taxes.

Sizable victory for Hill, poll (cats) predicting

Atty. Gen. John Hill said figures just released show him leading Republican opponent Bill Clements in the governor's race by a 16 percent margin.

Hill said figures supplied by workers for Democratic senatorial candidate Bob Krueger show 51 percent of the voters favor him while only 35 percent of those polled favor Clements.

"We're going to win, and win big," Hill said.

Hill also addressed the problem of excess government spending at the state level.

"I'm not talking about taking 25,000 state employees and putting them on the street," Hill said. "But everyone has to do a part in cutting down on wasteful spending."

Hill pledged to work toward returning a $3-billion anticipated surplus in state funds to the people, one-third in the form of a tax cut, one-third in state aid to education and one-third in the form of other human services.

Hill reaffirmed his position that education and law enforcement will be two main priorities in office.

"These are the traditional roles of government," he said.

One of his first steps, he said, will be to initiate an emergency proposition in the state legislature on school finances to rectify what he called the "inadequate support for education at the state level."

He said he also believes that upgrading the status, pay and training of state troopers will have a ripple effect and by the example — state, and local government would benefit from a similar upgrading.

In contrast to the latest poll, Hill leads Clements by an 11-point margin in the Texas Monthly Poll, with Hill trailing Clements narrowly in his native Harris County but leading in the rest of the state.

Hill's lead, however, is qualified by the fact that as of the end of the first week of October, 21.5 percent of registered voters hadn't decided whom to support for governor.

But if the survey of 1,000 voters is accurate, Hill yields only a tiny lead to Clements among Anglo voters (Clements by 39.4 to 38.4) and has overwhelming majorities with blacks, Mexican-Americans, self-described Democrats and even a majority of persons who say they voted in the Raza Unida Party primary.

Clements' main hope, according to the survey, is that more than one out of five Texans hadn't decided whom they favor for governor. Those results, conducted without any leading or backing, are at variance with both Hill and Clements poll results.

Hill claims a greater lead, according to his last "inside" poll, and Clements claims the race is dead even. But the Texas Monthly Poll indicates that Clements' biggest strength is among high-income Anglos who identify themselves as Republicans or conservatives and who live in either Houston or Dallas-Fort Worth. But he does pick up about one in five persons who call themselves Democrats.

Clements makes almost no dent in the black vote (less than 9 percent) despite his extensive and expensive attempt in that community. But he gets almost one of five Mexican-American on his side.

Clements is far behind Hill among self-described moderates (Hill 50.5 to 28.9 percent) and among liberals (Hill 73.7 to 11.5 percent).

By income category, Hill holds a solid lead among families earning $15,000 or less per year, a slight lead among $15,000 to $25,000 per year and a 38.6 to 42.8 percent deficit among high-income families.

Hill, who unseated incumbent Gov. Dolph Briscoe in the May Democratic primary, and Clements, who mounted a multi-million-dollar campaign for the GOP nomination, are locked in the closest fight for the state chief executive job since 1972.

In that year, Republican Hank Grover of Houston came close to becoming the first elected GOP governor since Reconstruction.

But Clements has raised more money — $3 million, roughly, boosted by more than $3 million in loans — than Briscoe and Grover spent combined. The Dallas millionaire oil-driller has vowed not to "run out of gas in the fourth quarter" of the race.

The Texas Monthly Poll was taken, in fact, before Clements began his current media blitz, so the impact of that massive spending was not measured by the survey. Neither, obviously, was Hill's major media program taken into account.

But surveys by non-Hill and non-Clements sources, since that advertising hit full scale, tend to support the Texas Monthly Poll's conclusion that Hill has a big lead that could only be overcome by Clements' taking a disproportionate share of the undecideds.

Of the undecideds, 22.3 percent lean toward Hill, with Clements taking 10.9 percent and the rest saying they were absolutely undecided when the poll was completed Oct. 7.

Clements' only metro-area lead was in Houston, where he got a 38.0 to 33.2 percent margin. But Hill is ahead by 38.1 to 36.6 in Dallas-Fort Worth, 52.1 to 29.6 in Travis County (Austin) and 46.1 to 35.3 percent in Bexar County (San Antonio). And the statewide margin, excepting the metro areas, is 49.3 percent for Hill to 32 percent for Clements.

Voters for Hill say most often that they favor him because he is a Democrat, while Clements backers most often cite his qualifications, which include drilling oil wells and managing the defense department under the Nixon-Ford administration.

Interestingly, since Clements has made a big pitch for Briscoe voters, he is not much better off with those folks than Hill is among people who call themselves Republicans.

Republican John Tower, seeking re-election to the U.S. Senate, said Thursday in Austin that he has consistently opposed the imposition of wage and price controls.

"The record shows that in 1974 I led not one, but two, battles which successfully ended wage and price controls. The experience we gained with those controls illustrates the unworkable nature of these controls in combating the real economic sickness of excessive government spending," Towers said.

Tower's opponent, Democrat Bob Krueger, said Thursday in Midland-Odessa that Tower is a "DeSota" that's been around a long time, but that he is a "Mustang" full of new ideas and life.

"At worst, the polls show us tied or significantly ahead in the race," Krueger said, exuding confidence.

In Austin, Secretary of State Steve Oaks predicted Thursday that heavy absentee voting in metropolitan areas — particularly in Republican strongholds — indicate some tight races Tuesday.

The state's chief elections officer predicted there would be about 2.3 million voters Tuesday, 37 percent of those eligible, to vote for governor and U.S. Senate at the top of the ballot. But only about 1.8 million are expected to vote for the proposed constitutional amendments on the bottom of the ballot.

Oaks said he based his estimate on the theory that general elections produce about 125 percent of the votes cast in that year's primary. There were about 2 million primary votes last May.

Painting value increases

NEW YORK (AP) — A charcoal drawing that an American professor bought 40 years ago in a London junk shop for two English pennies — then the equivalent of a nickel — has been sold at auction for $5,250.

The professor, who was not identified, reportedly discovered the drawing by German expressionist Lyonel Feininger on a table with a sign that read: "Everything on this table, tuppence." The professor paid his tuppence, then brought the 1914 drawing, entitled "The Village of Neppernin," to the Tate Gallery, where it was authenticated. He held it until it was sold Thursday to an unidentified art dealer at the Sotheby Parke Bernet auction house.

Oregon to be the first

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Oregon will be the first state in the nation to allow non-dentists to fit false teeth, if voters approve an initiative on Tuesday's ballot.

The measure would allow persons who make false teeth to fit them as well. Supporters of denturism, as it is called, say it would cut the cost of false teeth. Opponents, the biggest being the American Dental Association, which has contributed $290,000 to defeat the measure, say passage of Ballot Measure 5 would lead to poor dental care.

Montreal man sentenced

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — A Montreal man who pleaded guilty to helping Kristina Berster enter the United States has received an 18-month suspended sentence.

Michael Diterlizzi, 22, also was placed on probation Thursday by U.S. District Judge Albert Coffrin. Diterlizzi pleaded guilty to charges of conspiring to help Miss Berster enter the United States from Canada on July 16. Miss Berster, whom the FBI labeled as a suspected West German terrorist, was convicted last week of violating U.S. immigration laws.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A $1,500-a-plate affair at which dinner guests sipped the world's most expensive wine, netted $34,171 for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, a hospital spokesman says.

Memphis restaurant owner John Grisanti, the mastermind behind the dinner, and 30 blacktie guests dined on pheasant, lobster, wild duck and venison Saturday, which Roman Catholics traditionally observe as the feast day of St. Jude. But the highlight of the evening was the opening of a 114-year-old bottle of wine that Grisanti bought for $18,000, which experts say is the most paid for a bottle of wine.

Crane accident probed

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The federal Occupational Health and Safety Administration is investigating a crane accident at a first-aid station in which a young nurse was crushed to death.

Judy Condon Wilson, 24, of Maysville, died when a toppling crane dropped a load of steel through the roof of the station Thursday morning, according to a spokesman for the Eastern Kentucky Power Cooperative, which is building a power plant at the site, near Maysville. The spokesman said the crane was shifting reinforcement steel when it overturned.

LAMESA — Collections in the 1978 Dawson County United Way campaign have now passed the 77 percent mark. In dollars and cents, the total comes to $38,081.66.

The drive recently benefitted from a basketball tournament, staged by the Special Events Division. Collections totaled $107.75.

The School Division has collected $1,195, or 111 percent of its goal.

The Advance Division is almost there, with 98 percent of its $28,266 goal already collected.

Police beat

Check forgers ripped off the Radio Shack, 1009 S. Gregg, for nearly $200, it was reported Thursday.

According to store officials, two women wrote a check for $199.45 for a compact stereo using a forged name. The check was from the Texas State Bank of San Angelo, and the forger produced a driver's license and a VISA credit card to prove her false identity.

Roy Martinez, Southland Apartments, was working on his motorcycle Thursday morning, and when he took a break from the chore, he left his tool box and tools in the driveway. When he returned, the $350 worth of equipment was missing.

A Sand Springs woman called police, 12:15 p.m.

PRIZE WINNERS IN CONTEST — These unusual costumes resulted when merchants staged a raiment contest in the Highland Shopping Center coinciding with Halloween. First in the event, and winner of a $30 savings account provided by First Federal Savings and Loan, was Shad Melton (left), who dressed as Pooh Bear. Second was the giraffe, containing Scott Stone and Shawn Eason. They won a $25 E bond from First National Bank and Citizen's Credit Union. Third from the left is Randy Sparks with his "Mommy" get-up. He was awarded a $10 gift certificate by T Shirts. Little Mary Jo Greenwood (right) was fourth with her Wonder Woman costume. She also won a $10 gift certificate from the same firm.

Hopefuls conduct low-key campaigns in RRC race

EDITOR'S NOTE: Reporters from Harte-Hanks Communications, Inc. newspapers traveled with major candidates to compile a series of stories about the statewide races.

By BILL MCGEE
Harte-Hanks Communications, Inc.
AUSTIN — With millions being spent on Texas' higher visibility races this year, Railroad Commission candidates are trying to figure out how to buy some attention with only $200,000.

Both Democrat John Poerner of Hondo and Republican Jim Lacy of Midland are running low-key, shoestring campaigns: Each expects to spend less than $100,000 on the election. Getting voters interested isn't easy.

Campaigning in Dallas, Poerner repeatedly was asked who his opponent was — information Poerner wasn't anxious to divulge. Poerner, even though the incumbent, frequently found himself spelling his name and reminding questioners which office he seeks.

"People don't care about the Railroad Commission race," Poerner said.

"They're just interested in the bigger races." Educating people about what the RRC does also can be a problem.

"I spent a long time one day explaining how important the Railroad Commission is in oil and gas matters, trying to go over its various functions," Lacy told an oil and gas group in Houston.

When I had finished, a lady came up to me and said, 'We've sure got to get on these railroads.'"

Neither man has paid full-time campaign staff. Each handles his own scheduling, with family help.

Lacy early in the campaign traveled with his wife throughout the state in a mobile home. Now they spend most of their time flying between cities with commercial air service, "wherever they will let us speak." They take brief stops now and then at home to recuperate.

Poerner said his RRC work restricts the amount of time he has to campaign, but he will visit as many places as he can in the closing days of the campaign.

Part of Poerner's campaign is what Lacy calls "courthouse campaigning," visiting county officials and their staffs and shaking hands with as many people as possible.

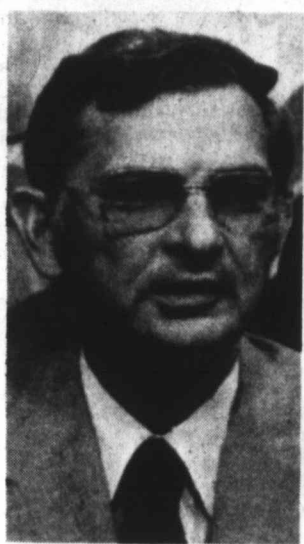

Perhaps Poerner's biggest advantage is that he is a Democrat in a Democratic state in a race where voters seem to show little interest in issues. Lacy knows he is in an uphill battle but hopes to benefit from GOP coattails if Republicans run well in other races.

Ironically, Poerner may be doing too well.

"I've talked to a lot of people who helped me in the primary and the runoff and asked them what needs to be done. They assure me everything is okay, and I can't seem to interest them in doing some of the same things for me now that they did then," Poerner said.

Both candidates try to work crowds at gatherings, shaking hands, passing out cards and brochures and, above all, repeating their names as often as possible.

Poerner was plagued by lack of name recognition in the May primary and came in second to veteran campaigner Jerry Sadler. In the runoff election, which Poerner now calls a "blessing in disguise," Poerner overcame Sadler's lead.

The name problem still hinders Poerner, but Lacy, who had no primary opponent and was not involved in a runoff, has even less name recognition.

Both candidates agree a key question — perhaps the key question — is whether an oil and gas man should serve in the RRC, which regulates the oil and gas industry.

Lacy says his 30 years of experience in the oil and gas business give him an advantage no other member of the RRC has. There are "subtleties" in the industry which only someone directly involved can fully understand, he said.

Poerner says an oil and gas man is exactly what the RRC does not need. "My opponent is running on the issue of representing one segment of the population," Poerner said. "But the Railroad Commission should not be an advocate either for industry or just for the consumer."

Poerner, who is a farmer, rancher and surveyor, feels his background makes him more qualified to look after the interests of all Texans. He noted that the RRC regulates transportation, surface mining and gas utilities, in addition to oil and gas operations.

Lacy says Poerner,

although an "honorable man," is an "on-the-job trainee" in oil and gas matters which Texas and the industry cannot afford, considering the major role of the industry has in the state's revenue base.

Poerner says few commissioners have had direct experience in oil and gas.

Both candidates support a planned suit by Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana challenging the new federal Energy Act.

But they believe a stronger suit should be filed based on the treaty under which Texas became part of the United States. Under the treaty, Texas retained the mineral rights on public lands for use of its citizens. Allocating gas from those lands to other states would violate that treaty, the candidates said.

Such issues don't set voters on fire. Audiences listen dutifully, applaud politely and sometimes promise support to one of the candidates.

Both men seem to realize that they are unlikely to be swept into office on any particular issue. Instead, they must keep repeating their names and hoping their listeners have good memories.

With agriculture land buying

Law won't interfere

WASHINGTON — Farmers will soon be able to get detailed, official information on ownership of agricultural land in their communities by foreign individuals and corporations. But a new law requiring foreign owners and purchasers to file reports with the Secretary of Agriculture "is not designed to interfere with these purchases or to set up some kind of federal controls over who can buy land," Chairman Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., of the House Agriculture Committee said.

"What Congress has done is create a system which will help us find out, for the first time, whether foreign citizens are — or are not — buying up alarming amounts of U.S. farmland. After we find out what the real facts are, we can then make some informed decisions about what — if anything — should be done," Foley said in a statement.

President Carter signed the new foreign land ownership reporting Act into law Oct. 14 after it cleared both houses of Congress with bipartisan support.

"There has been a great deal of concern about the extent to which foreign corporations and individuals are purchasing American agricultural lands, but we don't really know the extent of the problem," Foley said. "Now we will be able to get the necessary data and report it to the states ... I think it (the new law) is an important and necessary first step, and I'm delighted the President has approved the bill we passed," Foley said.

Rep. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, said he was particularly pleased by passage of the bill "because there is no other agricultural issue on which we are so short of reliable information as the amount of foreign purchases of our farmland."

President Carter, in signing the bill, noted that recent government surveys indicate that foreign ownership of American farmland is still very low. But he said farmers are concerned that increasing foreign purchases are driving up prices, and he "recognized that we need more information before we reach definite conclusions."

Under the new law, the Agriculture Department has three months in which to issue regulations covering reports to be filed by foreign citizens who currently own or later buy or transfer farmland. After the regulations are issued, current foreign owners will have to file reports on their holdings within 180 days, and future buyers or sellers will have to file reports within 90 days of their transactions.

The reports, which will be filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, will be available to the public. Here is a step-by-step outline of how the new law will work, and the kind of information it will produce:

1. Within 179 days of the time regulations become effective, reports must be filed by all foreign persons who hold any interest (except a security interest such as mortgage in any land used for agricultural, forestry or timber production purposes. The report must disclose the name and residence of the owner, the price paid for the land, and the agricultural use which the holder is currently making of the land and intends to make in the future. The "persons" required to file reports also include corporations and other entities, and the law includes provisions for obtaining the names of the owners of such land holders. Reports would not be required from citizens of other countries who have been admitted to the U.S. as permanent residents.

2. In the future, if a foreign person acquires or transfers any interest in agricultural or forest land, the person involved must file a report within 90 days of the transaction.

3. Not later than 10 days after each foreign land ownership report is received by the Agriculture Department in Washington, it will be open to public inspection at the USDA headquarters.

4. Six months after the reporting requirements take effect, the Secretary must prepare a review analyzing the information he has received and determining the effect of foreign ownership on American family farms and rural communities. Similar analyses would be issued periodically in the future and sent to Congress and the President.

5. Every six months after the new program takes effect, the Secretary must send each state copies of all reports filed during the period on foreign ownership and acquisition in the state.

6. Penalties for violations of the new program by foreign land owners would include civil penalties ranging up to 25 per cent of the value of the land interest held by the offender.

Lacy, Poerner share similar viewpoints

By BILL MCGEE
AUSTIN — John Poerner and Jim Lacy share similar views on many issues in the Texas Railroad Commission race, but not similar backgrounds.

Poerner, 45, the incumbent Democrat, is a farmer, rancher, bank director and surveyor from Hondo.

His military service was with the U.S. Air Force. Poerner served in the Texas House of Representatives from 1969 to 1975 and made an unsuccessful bid for Congress in 1974. In 1975 Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed him executive director of the Governor's Committee on Aging, and he later was named director of the governor's Office of Educational Resources.

Briscoe appointed Poerner to the RRC in January following the resignation of Jim Langdon.

Poerner and his wife, Jo Ann, have five daughters.

Lacy, 54, a Midland Republican, was born in Bowie but grew up in Roswell, N.M. He served in the U.S. Army Air Corps in World War II and received his bachelor's degree in petroleum engineering from Texas Tech in 1949.

After 19 years with Kewanee Oil Co., Lacy became executive vice president and director of Adobe Oil & Gas Corp., a position he held seven years.

He then spent three years as president and chief executive officer of Hytech Energy Corp. He now is an independent oil operator.

Lacy and his wife, Juandelle, have a son and a daughter.

Alaska looking to Far East markets

Alaska is looking to the Far East as a place to sell its oil, Jay Hammond, governor of the state, is button-holing people throughout the lower 48 in efforts to get approval from Congress to import Alaska's Prudhoe bay oil to Japan.

This oil was developed under the congressional restraint that it should fuel Americans and Americans only and never wind up in foreign gas tanks.

THE HARSH facts of oil economics and logistics, are catching up with this red, white and blue outlook on oil export policy. Alaska can't get rid of all the oil it would like to ship because the West Coast is glutted with supplies.

Delivering it on to refineries in Mexico poses a problem, too, because it involves the Panama Canal tanker bottleneck. The backup of oil, in turn, deprives the state of Alaska of its maximum possibilities for collecting oil severance taxes.

It is not difficult then to understand why Gov. Hammond is crusading to permit the impermissible by letting Alaskan oil leave the United States in exchange for the delivery to the East Coast and the Gulf of Mexico ports of Middle East oil under contract to Japan.

The need for sending Alaskan oil into export would, of course, vanish if Long Beach, Calif., would permit big tankers to enter its harbor to transfer their cargoes to a California-Midland, Tex., airline.

THE PIPELINE would move the oil on through West Texas to mid-continent and eastern markets. Long Beach is to vote in a few weeks on a referendum on this trans-shipping arrangements worked out between the state of California and Standard Oil Co., of Ohio.

If the citizens of Long Beach vote it down, and they may very well do just that, Gov. Hammond will presumably be all the more desperate to look to the Tokyo connection.

That would likely be an arrangement with which some Texas refiners could live. Some say the Alaskan oil is inferior in quality and Japan is welcome to it.

If you don't like this town or area, why don't you go back to where you came from?
Thanks, Texas

Around the rim

Bob Burton

I can remember, several times during my youth, people turning to me and saying, "Well, if I told you to jump off a bridge, would you do that?"

The longhand above this Rim was sent in by an unknown admirer a while back on a column I wrote about allergies.

Let it never be said that we at the Herald don't aim to please. After diligent months of searching, I have found a job "back where I came from" and I'm departing Saturday.

LADY, IT TOOK me a while, but I kept at it. Long hours poring over fine-print ads, writing tedious form letters, xeroxing resumes. But it paid off. I'm going "back where I came from."

So much for the last half of her vintage commentary. Werrell and I did come here from the north, we are (or were) Yankees. And it seems every time we tread on a toe down here, someone turns and delivers a long-anticipated Yankee line. I'm a Yankee, you're a Yankee, he's a Yankee, she's a Yankee, wouldn't you like to be a Yankee, too?

But for the first half of the note, I reserve undiluted contempt. Unfortunately for me, I like this town and area all too much. They told me that after I wore out my first pair of shoes or got some grit in my craw I'd be a Texan. Well, one pair of shoes and much grit later, I'm not considered a Texan by most, but I consider myself firmly entrenched.

My Tony Lamas are not quite sufficiently down-at-the-heel, but my jeans are well-worn and my drawl will get me by anyone north of the Mason-Dixon.

PROBABLY BETTER for y'all, I'm going to Yankeeeland armed with arguments for the deregulation of natural gas, and supporting the pumping up of anything found lodged under the continental shelf.

I have only one plea. As you go around muttering, "Freeze a Yankee" this winter, just remember that I'm shivering up there along with the rest of them and pity me my frost blisters.

Beyond that there isn't much else to say. Big Spring is a great town, even if all the transportation systems are collapsing. You need industry here, and you need it badly. But that kind of thing runs in bunches; if you get one business, you might get a dozen.

For my thank-you's, everyone at the courthouse and the school district knows who helped me and who didn't. At the paper, I owe my eyeteeth (or my firstborn) to Tommy Hart and Marj Carpenter for their advice and guidance, and to Walt Finley and Danny Valdes for their sharp eyes and inquisitive minds.

Thanks also to the back shop for their help and patience.

If you're ever in Connecticut (I feel really safe about this) just holler for me. The state is so small, I'll hear you for sure.

Aussie fretfulness

William F. Buckley, Jr.

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA — The leader of the Labor opposition party in Australia is William Hayden, but the leader most frequently referred to as "the other Prime Minister" is not even a member of Parliament. He is Robert Hawke, the highly ideologized militant and eloquent president of the Australian Council of Trade Unions, with which, via their own unions, 50 per cent of Australian workers are affiliated.

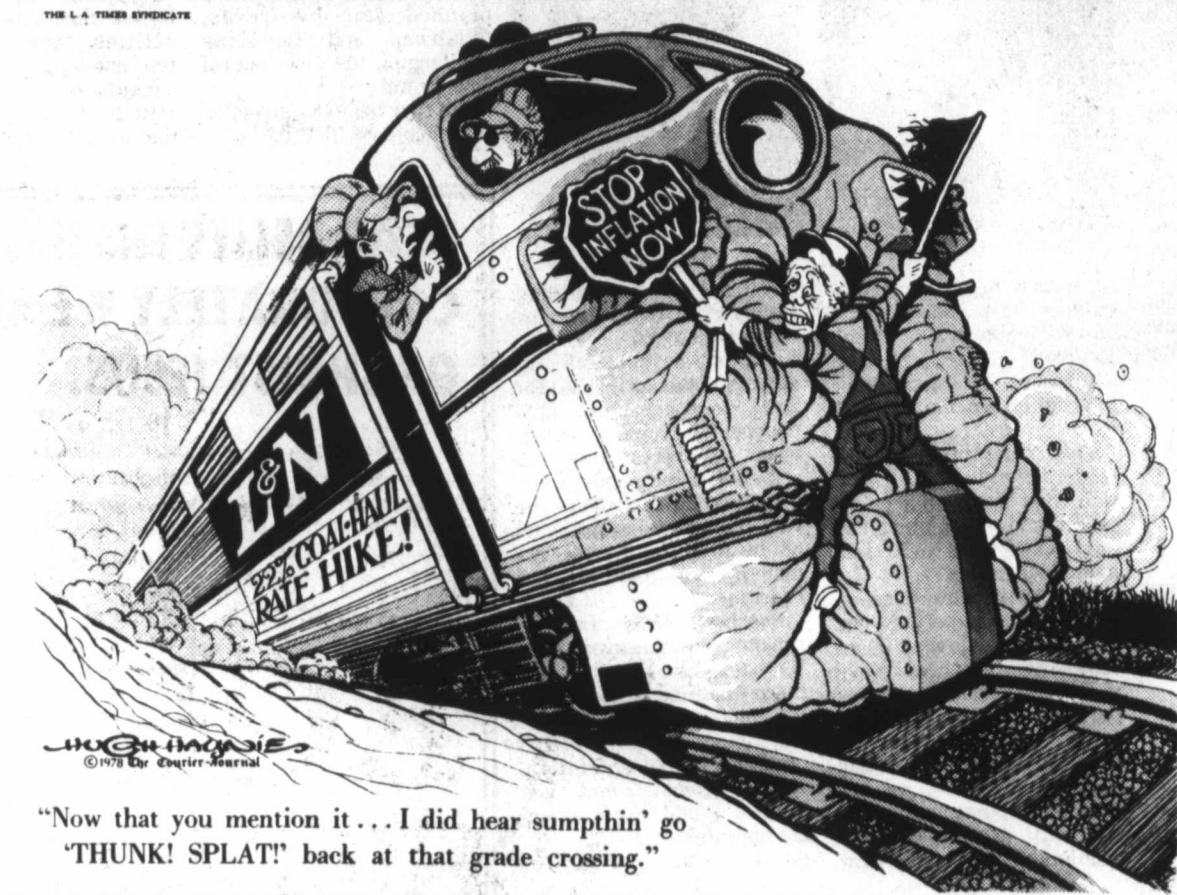

The ACTU, although militantly Labor, delivers only about two-thirds of its constituents to that party, the balance going to the Liberal Party which, like Labor, gets about 40 per cent of the vote but which forms a coalition with the Country Party (representing rural interests) in order to govern. Although reelected as recently as a year ago, the popularity of the governing party is down in the polls owing in part to austerity measures that have brought inflation down from 17 per cent to seven per cent, but owing also to a certain fitfulness in the national temper which is the result of severe disorientation.

THERE IS, for one thing, the ambivalence, about America. During the earlier days of the Vietnam War, most Australians backed their country's participation in Vietnam, but even as the capitulationists in the U.S. grew in strength, so did they in Australia, and with the election of Labor's Gough Whitlam in 1972 it was generally agreed in centers of culture that it had all been a dreadful mistake. SEATO, of course, was rescinded. But ANZUS, binding New Zealand, the United States, and Australia in a mutual defense treaty, survives, and it is a source of frustration particularly to the Australian left that Great Britain having retreated from east of Suez, there is nobody around to protect Australia except the United States.

Just last week there was a considerable flurry in the volatile Australian press on the question whether Carter's proposed pact with the Soviet Union to keep nuclear-powered vessels out of the Indian Ocean might not be interpreted as releasing the United States of its obligation to western Australia, inasmuch as the ANZUS pact speaks of the "Pacific" not the "Indian" Ocean. While serving as ambassador to India Patrick Moynihan suggested that the impasse over a U.S. naval base in the Indian Ocean's Diego Garcia be resolved by the simple expedient of renaming the Indian Ocean, a suggestion greeted by Indira Gandhi about as warmly as the young White House executive's suggestion, having been instructed in 1953 to calculate the cost of renaming the Boulder Dam to the Hoover Dam, that it would be cheaper to persuade the old man to change his name to Herbert H. Boulder.

But by such symbols are whole peoples aggravated. One of the persistent rumors in Australia is that the deposing of Gough Whitlam by the Governor-General Sir John Kerr in 1975, when a Parliamentary stalemate was reached, was — a CIA operation. The CIA, you see, has a facility in central Australia linking up its worldwide Omega system which serves up to its satellites in the skies the coordinates necessary to keep them on course so that they can do their duty and inform us if our friends at the other end of detente should decide to send over a nuclear missile.

INASMUCH AS Whitlam, though he never tired of saying Yankee-Go-Home in behalf of Southeast Asians, never quite got around to suggesting that Australia should be inhospitable to such intelligence operations, it is conceivable that the CIA, assuming that it had leverage over Sir John Kerr, would have used it. "Why," said the young lady reporter at a press conference, in much the same accent she'd have used to ask why I had once joined the Ku Klux Klan, "did you join the CIA?" "Because I am a patriot!" I replied, trying as best I could to sound like Victor McLaglen answering the question, Why did he serve in the Bengal Lancers.

"Now that you mention it... I did hear sumptin' go 'THUNK! SPLAT!' back at that grade crossing."

Middle-age sex two-way street

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have tried writing this in language suitable for your column, but unsuccessfully. I fear, so please edit. I suspect many people have torn up inquiries on this subject.

My doctor told me I have completed menopause. I am 48 and had no estrogen production in the last year. I am grateful to think I will not go through any of the problems of menopause, but I am perplexed that I still have a most overwhelming sex drive. I thought menopause would give me relief from that.

I have a very happy marriage, except that my husband seems to have forgotten the joys of sex. His interest has been minimal for the last eight years. Before that we had a very active sex life.

I have tried the usual feminine wiles. Is there something that could be done for him medically? He is in good health. — C.C.

Let it be noted that your letter required the very minimum editing. As a matter of fact readers' letters seldom require it, although on sexual matters I sometimes have to sacrifice explicitness for printability.

As to your question, interest in sex is pretty much determined by attitude. It is a case of mind over matter. This might apply to both you and your husband at this stage of your lives.

For example, it is not unusual for women in or past the menopause to have increased sexual desires, chiefly because of the absence of a fear of pregnancy. Also, it is not unusual for men at this age to lose interest in sex because of concern about business or financial security. No medicines help.

The best "therapy" could be a vacation for both of you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me what alkaline phosphatase is and what can be done for it? My brother writes me that he has this, but doesn't know what it is. He is 72. — Mrs. L.B.

The "ase" means it is an enzyme. More specifically, it is one that helps the body use phosphorus. While important as an indicator of various diseases (liver, bone, kidney chiefly), having a higher than normal level in the blood doesn't always mean a person has these ailments. A high level might raise suspicions. As an example of how this enzyme acts, it can rise during the last three months of pregnancy, be higher in adolescents, or rise as we get older. It can also indicate overactivity of the parathyroid glands, which are important in bone quality. Only your brother's doctor can assess the importance of his alkaline phosphatase level.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 16 and think I may be pregnant. If so, not more than two months. I have not missed a period. Is it possible to be pregnant and not miss a period? — J.J.

I don't probably know by now. You must have "periods" when pregnant.

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor:

The current campaign by the Republican party has a distinct Nixon odor. Unfounded accusations are made by Tower and Clements at the end of a campaign they are spending millions to buy in an attempt to divert the voters' attention from the real issues. John Tower alleges reflection on his family by certain columnists, but I am sure the truth is the reflection is on John Tower personally and his morals. Anyone who has followed the Washington scene should be well aware that the recent charges of alcoholism and girlie habits are well founded. Why did his first wife leave him? That has been a well kept secret from the press or they have refused to print it. Of course Tower denies these charges but he has never invited an investigation and his record can't stand it.

Recently on his visit to Big Spring he denied saying he had ever said that the recent Labor Reform Bill would have killed Texas Right-to-Work law. I heard him say it over TV from Midland and Odessa a few weeks ago and also I received numerous mailings from his campaign headquarters saying the same thing and asking for money. I returned each form and told them it was a lie and to take me off their mailing list, but I have received at least a half dozen since then.

He told Big Springs Webb would only be closed over his prostrate body. Well, it's closed and he has not appeared prostrate but quite the contrary, he wants to stay on the public payroll another 6 years. In addition to Webb, there have been 11 military bases closed in Texas during Tower's tenure, but he says he loves Texas. It's only the votes and salary he loves.

It is more of the deceit of Nixon whose high living the tax payers are supporting because Gerald Ford pardoned him and Tower brought Ford to Texas to support him. Nixon pardoned Jimmy Hoffa of the Teamsters after Robert Kennedy had sent him to prison. The Teamsters supported Nixon throughout.

Tower talks conservatism but voted to give New York City millions of your tax dollars to bail them out. Why? Bob Krueger voted against this give away. The whole thing was Republican sponsored through Ford and Company.

Clements is another Watergate refugee. He talks as though he is a conservative, but he learned and practiced waste in the Pentagon. No government department wastes money like the Pentagon, and that has been its habit since their origin.

Tower's new wife says they love Texas. How does she know? She is an Easterner and only has a legal residence in Texas where she has spent very little time.

Tower in one of his ads said,

There may be some slight bleeding the first month or two, but if the menstrual cycle is really interrupted from pregnancy this slight blood flow stops. More certain signs are increased breast size, a darkening of the areola of the breast and morning sickness. Let me add, nervousness and anxiety about possible pregnancy can also disturb the menstrual pattern in a young girl.

Mailbag

"Integrity is one Texas tradition you can count on me to uphold." That is a phony statement itself. Integrity is only a word to him to get votes. Look at the military base closings in Texas while he was on a committee directly handling these matters.

Bob Krueger was selected by his own members of Congress as the outstanding freshman Congressman. He introduced the first Oil & Gas deregulation bill in Congress as a freshman. Tower had been there years and done nothing but draw his check. He has never authored a bill since becoming a Senator. Ralph Nader's Political Committee rates Tower a zero in representing the public.

I hope Texas will not let out of state politicians and out-of-state money buy this election for the Republicans. Let's keep control of our own candidate by voting for and supporting the election of John Hill and Bob Krueger. They have outstanding records in representing Texas. Let's promote them Nov. 7. We need them.

Dear Editor:

I very much enjoyed attending the conference last week. It was a great learning experience for me and I hope that the few comments I made will be constructive to the future activities of the National Association of Installation Developers.

I was truly surprised and most appreciative of the service award presented to me Wednesday evening. The united front of the community through this entire matter made the Senator's task, and mine, much easier. We came to realize early that there was a cohesiveness among those who were selected to lead the area through the "dark days." When contact was made to this office from Big Spring, it was recognized that the request had been thought out in advance and represented the best possible course in the mind of the community.

As I had the opportunity to talk with individuals from around the country, one thing was very evident. It was probably best said by a representative from South Carolina when he indicated that not even the Old South could touch the hospitality shown by Big Spring, last week. That dedication to a job well done, evident to me for quite some time, was displayed to the visitors last week. My thanks go to the city, the county, the chamber, the Industrial Foundation, and to the citizens who have worked to put together a record to which each of you can point with pride.

I am proud to have been a small part of these activities.

Sincerely,

Tremors felt

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Over the past decade, Nicaraguan dictator Anastasio Somoza — whose family was put in power by the United States 46 years ago — has survived riots, general strikes and even an earthquake that virtually destroyed the capital city of Managua.

He recently survived a severe political earthquake as well: a brief armed rebellion and accompanying general strike that, for a time, threatened to depose him. He put down the popular uprising with typical cold-blooded ruthlessness, but the aftershocks continued to shake his regime to its foundations.

The Nicaraguan economy, which provides the base for Somoza's vast wealth and power, is in shambles. Sales tax collections are 10 per cent of normal; customs collections are a third of what they should be. Some of the cotton and coffee crops, essential to Nicaragua's economic survival, were destroyed in the recent fighting. Those that remain will have to be harvested under the protective guns of the National Guard.

EVEN MORE ominous for the Nicaraguan freebooter, perhaps, is the threat posed by a report prepared by investigators for the human rights commission of the Organization of American States. When it is released it may well strip Somoza of what little international support he still retains.

The commission's final report is still secret. But with the assistance of Laury Birns, director of the Council of Hemispheric Affairs, plus other sources in Nicaragua, we have ferreted out the major conclusions. They will make it difficult for President Carter, the self-proclaimed champion of human rights, to continue the all-important U.S. support for Somoza.

Here are some of the findings: — During the September civil war, Nicaraguan officials routinely tortured political prisoners and summarily executed street fighters and suspected rebel sympathizers in the city of Leon.

The recent rebellion claimed between 2,000 and 2,500 lives; only 52 of those killed were National Guardsmen.

— During the bloody seige of the city of Esteli, civil leaders who did not flee for their lives were either killed or thrown in jail. Somoza's son, Anastasio III, incidentally, was promoted to lieutenant colonel for his "heroic action" in the conflict.

— At least 500, probably thousands, of Somoza opponents are languishing in jails all over Nicaragua. This figure does not include hundreds who were classified as "common" criminals rather than "political" prisoners.

Footnote: Our reporter, Bob Sherman, recently returned from an investigative trip to Central America. His reports on the situation in Nicaragua will be published in a series of future columns.

FORSOKEN WIZARD: Martin Kaiser is an electronics wizard who for years was the federal government's major supplier of bugging and de-bugging equipment.

But after he blew the whistle on shady practices that were costing the FBI thousands of dollars in over-priced equipment, his sales to Uncle Sam dried up and blew away.

Even worse, the FBI expressed its gratitude for the money Kaiser saved the agency by instigating criminal and civil suits that may ruin him.

Kaiser made his first government sale in 1967, and his merchandise was so highly regarded that his customers soon included virtually every federal intelligence agency. At one point, his annual sales to the feds totaled $150,000.

BUT IN 1975, Kaiser testified before the House Select Committee on Intelligence that the United States Recording Company, the middleman between Kaiser and the FBI, was marking up his equipment as much as 238 per cent. The General Accounting Office confirmed the ripoff.

Disclosure of the mark-ups evidently embarrassed FBI officials who had sanctioned the arrangement. Kaiser was visited by two G-men who tried to get him to change his story. He refused, and, within a year, Kaiser's sales to federal agencies had dropped to almost zero.

He was told by two members of an interagency technical committee that at the FBI's urging, no intelligence agencies would buy from him. A highly placed Army intelligence official told Kaiser he was "taboo" in the spy community.

'Save the Eyes of Texas' campaign launched by TSPB

University of Texas Coach Fred Akers, sight saving chairman of the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness (TSPB), launches the "Save the Eyes of Texas" campaign with David Wells, TSPB's "Sight Saving Child".

After screening and referral by TSPB's Preschool Vision Screening Program, David was diagnosed as having amblyopia or "Lazy Eye", an eye problem that must be treated as early as possible for full restoration of vision. David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Wells, 4000 Silverspring Drive, Austin, and one of the 40,000 Texas children screened annually by volunteers trained by the Society to detect children's eye problems.

Organized in 1955 as an affiliate of the National Society to Prevent Blindness (NSPB), the Texas Society is a voluntary health agency devoted to sight conservation through a total program of research, public and professional education and community blindness prevention programs.

In addition to its Preschool Screening programs, TSPB also sponsors free glaucoma tests for people over 35 years of age.

Also under TSPB sponsorship is the Texas Wise Owl Club, which is a nationwide safety program to promote the use of safety eyewear in schools and industry. Any school or company may apply for a charter in the Wise Owl Club. Membership is awarded to individuals whose sight is saved because of wearing safety eyewear at the time of a potentially blinding accident.

To obtain more information on any of the Society's sight-saving programs, please write Prevent Blindness, P.O. Box 13400, Houston, Texas 77019 or call (713) 526-2559.

SUNSET SYMMETRY — Jim Napier, of Bowling Green, Ky., and his high-flying balloon are silhouetted as they float by the setting sun here Wednesday. Jim was just passing through Florida's capitol and decided to stop long enough to take a friend from Tallahassee for short ride.

When Howard Jarvis talks, politicians listen

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There's a new variation of an old joke: A short, old man in a rumpled suit is speaking with the pope on a Vatican balcony. Below, a young Italian boy looks up and asks his father:

"Who's that man in robes up there talking to Howard Jarvis?"

Not a true story, of course, but Howard Jarvis, author of California's Proposition 13, has become a celebrity since the victory of his property tax cutting measure in June.

Jarvis, though he was not a candidate, was the big winner in the last election and figures to be an important factor in Tuesday's election, too. All this has changed Howard Jarvis' life.

The victory of Proposition 13, which cut property taxes in California an average of 57 percent, put Jarvis on the cover of Time magazine and in the political spotlight. Candidates in every state seek his endorsement — "They line up like damned lemmings," said the blustery, often profane Jarvis.

Almost overnight Jarvis became a national hero to many Americans, and he says people cheer him all over. "Everywhere I go," he said. "Even in restaurants

I've never been in before. We walked into one in New York the other night, and everybody in the place stood up and clapped before I even got to sit down.

"Damndest thing you ever saw."

And don't think the 75-year-old Jarvis isn't having the time of his life as he flits around the country at breakneck pace, spreading his gospel of tax reforms.

"I'm enjoying it," he said. "When one old guy can create this kind of stir, that is something. All over, I don't care whether it's Montana or Louisiana or where. I get on the plane and all the pilots come back and say hello and all the stewardesses come up and kiss me on the cheek.

"All the guys on the plane come up and introduce themselves. I'll have a hundred introductions between here and Chicago."

Jarvis no sooner climbed down from the Proposition 13 victory podium than he was off on a nationwide tour, generating similar measures in other states and calling for cuts in federal taxes.

He has been to 45 states, is going on a speaking tour in England next month and has done radio and television broadcasts in Italy, France, Belgium, Holland and West Germany.

"Do they know him in all those places?"

"Oh hell, yes," he roared. "And in Canada, Argentina, Japan, Australia and New Zealand."

Wherever he goes, he said, people come to hear him speak.

"I was in Long Island the other night and drew 6,500 people. I was in a couple of college towns and drew 4,000. The politicians are running around drawing 45, and 40 of those are their relatives."

Jarvis has formed a new group called the American Tax Reduction Movement and has managed to get a bill introduced in the House of Representatives that would cut federal spending $100 billion over the next four years and federal income taxes $50 billion over the same period. It was co-sponsored by dozens of congressmen.

"Those two things will bring a balanced budget," Jarvis said.

Jarvis, who admits to being "half a millionaire," sold his business, which made aircraft and appliance parts, and retired 15 years ago — just about the time he became active in tax causes.

About four years ago he took a job as director of an apartment owners' association, but since Proposition 13's win he has another source of income — the lecture circuit.

He signed with the William Morris Agency — which also represents former President Gerald Ford, actress Jane Fonda and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin among others, and collects up to $4,000 per speech. His staff says he is heavily booked well into next year.

He also does many free speeches and appears with candidates.

After Proposition 13 won by a 2-1 margin, Jarvis stormed Washington like a conquering general. He signed in at the press club in the nation's capital as "Howard Jarvis, tidal wave."

He met the leaders of Congress, including House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill. "The first thing he said to me was 'Do you have any idea how badly you've shaken this Congress?' I said, 'I hope so.'"

To hear Jarvis tell, he's doing more good for more people than anyone ever has.

"I found a way to appeal to both sides of the political spectrum and it comes down to one word — money."

ITT accused of million-dollar bribes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is accusing International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. of paying millions of dollars in bribes abroad and is demanding fines of $100,000 a day until ITT surrenders subpoenaed documents.

The Securities and Exchange Commission complaint also asks the appointment of new directors to the firm's board and a special master to investigate the giant conglomerate.

The complaint — filed in May but unsealed only Thursday — charges the "illegal, improper, corrupt and questionable" payments went to foreign government officials and employees of commercial customers

"to obtain business for ITT and to improperly influence governmental action."

It alleged $8.7 million in payments were made in Indonesia, Iran, the Philippines, Algeria, Nigeria, Mexico, Italy, Turkey and Chile among "numerous countries."

The payments "relate to contracts and transactions aggregating hundreds of millions of dollars which involve business operations of major subsidiaries of ITT, including its subsidiaries in Belgium and Germany," the complaint said. The charges cover the years 1970 through 1975.

ITT had fought release of the charges on grounds that they identify the nine specific countries and detail the alleged transactions. The Supreme Court on Monday refused to consider ITT's plea. U.S. District Judge George L. Hart then ordered the unsealing after listening to renewed arguments.

In a statement Monday, ITT insisted most of the payments were "consistent with the laws of their jurisdictions, but may have been applied in a manner contrary to current corporate policies." It said the questioned practices were stopped two years ago.

The statement called the amount involved immaterial "since it represents two-hundredths of one percent of sales of $50 billion during the period in question."

After Hart's action, ITT said it would not go beyond the Monday statement.

The government asked for a court order directing ITT to produce documents of four subsidiaries in Germany, Belgium, Spain and Switzerland "and fining ITT no less than $100,000 per day for each day on which ITT fails to produce all documents."

It also asked "a final judgment appointing new directors to ITT's board who have had no prior affiliation, association or financial dealings with ITT." It wasn't clear whether that meant replacement of the entire board.

The names of the recipients of the illegal payments were dropped from the complaint months ago.

The improprieties were concealed through "false and fictitious entries" made on the books of ITT and its subsidiaries and affiliates in Belgium and West Germany, the SEC charged.

In Chile alone, the complaint said, ITT paid at least $400,000 between 1970 and 1972 to Chilean politicians opposed to the socialist government of then-president Salvador Allende.

A WALK WITH AUTUMN — John Bueschler and his wife Belinda of nearby McLean, Va. take advantage of a warm autumn afternoon to take a stroll on the leaf covered Capitol grounds.

Convention adjourns

Baptists avoid debate

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Messengers to the 93rd annual session of the Baptist General Convention of Texas have adjourned after avoiding debate of a Houston minister's resolution condemning oral sex between husband and wife.

In a basically issue-free convention, the oral sex resolution drafted by the Rev. Glynn Little of Langwood Baptist Church in Houston was about the only controversy to arise.

Little defused the issue Thursday by reading the messengers a letter he had sent newly re-elected convention president Milton Cunningham, pastor of Houston's Westbury Baptist Church.

Cunningham had told a news conference the oral sex matter was a "satellite concern."

He said the convention should be remembered not for the issue raised by Little but for its commitment to the "Bold Mission Thrust" goal of starting 830 new churches by 1982.

Little accepted a mildly worded resolution on human sexuality in lieu of his proposal outlining 15 biblical passages that he said condemned oral sex in marriage — something Little referred to as "heterosexual perversion."

The resolution was adopted unanimously.

"We tried to be heard through the proper channels of communication, and apparently there was lackadaisicalness expressed. At least that is the way I felt and interpreted the manner in which my concern was handled. I have never been a person who gives up easily. We have accomplished our goal at this point and we know that we have been heard in our matter of concern," Little said in his letter to Cunningham.

Still to be decided is whether the Rev. Charles Shedd, a Presbyterian minister and popular religious writer, will remain a speaker at the Baptists' family life conference in Dallas next March. Little has contended that Shedd condoned oral sex within marriage in a series of marriage enrichment tapes that Little heard some three years ago.

Shedd was quoted by the Dallas Morning News on Thursday as saying Little's interpretation of scripture with regard to oral sex is "a perversion of the scripture."

"It's not a perversion to enjoy a nice part of love, if you like it," Shedd was quoted as saying.

Shedd, who lives in Georgia, is author of several books, including "Letters to Karen."

The "human sexuality" resolution adopted by the convention says married couples "have the right, under God's authority, of intimacy between themselves in the privacy of their own lives and shelter." It observes that "society today faces a constant barrage of perverted understanding of healthy sexuality."

The resolution calls on Texas Baptist agencies to "exercise caution to assure that the emphasis of speakers who address the issue of human sexuality is positive and biblically sound."

Pipeline explosion in Mexico

COLONIA BENITO

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Sobbing survivors of a natural gas pipeline explosion that practically wiped out this tiny southern Mexican truck stop held a midnight requiem Mass in its church — one of the few buildings still standing.

"What good has the pipeline done us?" a woman at the service asked a reporter. "It's killed all our people."

Fifty-two persons were killed and 11 were severely burned, officials said, when the crossroads village of roughly 100 inhabitants was almost leveled late Wednesday. The blast left a crater about 300 feet across and 20 feet deep.

Authorities speculated gas seeped from a faulty weld in a pumping station valve, moved 20 yards into a residence and was ignited by a cooking fire or a cigarette. The pipeline was 21 inches in diameter.

The resulting explosion was heard nine miles away and sent up a huge fireball that consumed most of the crossroad's flimsy wooden structures in seconds.

Victims were so badly burned that officials had a hard time identifying them. Charred timbers and an occasional foundation were all that was discernible among the rubble, still smoldering many hours after the explosion.

"There was a flash," said a survivor. "It spread like wildfire through the village."

The national petroleum company PEMEX, which operated the pumping station, said the facility served four pipelines, two for natural gas, one for refined petroleum and one for unrefined oil. All were shut down, but Adolfo Arroyo Villaseñor, chief security officer for PE-MEX, said service would be restored today or Saturday.

About 200 men were working around the clock with bulldozers and cranes to restore service.

Arroyo said the line that ruptured carried 15 million cubic feet of gas daily to Mexico City, 360 miles to the northeast of this petroleum district in Tabasco state. He said the flow was cut off at pumping stations along the line.

Officials said another, larger line in the area was providing gas service to Mexico City.

Tabasco state Police Chief Capt. Jose Serna Garcia said the flames destroyed about a dozen huts and some small restaurants and taco stands that served bus and truck drivers and the village residents.

He estimated 100 persons worked or lived at the truck stop.

Walk A Mile In His Shoes

They say you don't really know a man until you've walked a mile in his shoes.

Maybe it's impossible to know our own children because we can't fit into their shoes.

Our sons and daughters at every level of growth need which depend for fulfillment on our awareness. One of these is their need for early and continuing religious education.

The Church is your ally in providing your youngsters moral and spiritual training. The initiative must come from you. And the example. But the Church's educational program can be a decisive factor in fashioning your child's future.

Bring your child to church this Sunday!

First Methodists eye Pony Express campaign

More than 525 members of First Methodist Church will become saddlebag-carrying "trail bosses" and "route riders" within the next few weeks in their church's Pony Express stewardship campaign.

The Rev. Weldon Butler, pastor, said the campaign this year is based on the same concept as the Pony Express of more than a century ago—a teamwork.

Charles Bell, general manager of the campaign, said that 56 leaders of the church have been designated trail bosses, to supervise the relaying of the saddlebags to each of the church's families on Pony Express "run" routes.

Each saddlebag bears the names of 10 church families on the run route, he said. A family fills in an "estimate of giving" card, seals it in an envelope and inserts it in the saddlebag, which then is hand-carried to another family on the route.

"We decided to use this unique approach because we believe stewardship campaigns should be exciting and pleasurable, in addition to having their serious moments," he said.

"And, many dedicated members of the church are hesitant to solicit pledges from their friends and neighbors. With this Pony Express program, there are no solicitations and no pledges."

The Rev. Butler explained that each member is asked simply to estimate the amount he or she will be able to give to the church during the coming year.

"Each family makes their decision in the privacy of their home, without any over-the-shoulder 'supervision' of someone from the church," he said.

He said the Pony Express theme was chosen because of the example set by the highly dedicated riders of the original Pony Express.

"In addition to their personal commitment, the secret of their success lay in their ability to work as a team — each rider dependent on the other to make the relay system work and speed the mail on to its final destination," he said.

Likewise, he said, the success of the church depends on the dedication, commitment and teamwork of each member.

Gospel singers due

The Singing Jordan's Jerry, Marilyn, Colleen and Bruce come from their headquarters at Brownfield, and will sing at the First Assembly of God at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Annually the singers share their ministry in the New England, midwestern states. They have a unique way of relating to people in all denominations.

As a result, people from all walks of life apparently enjoy and receive inspiration from their singing and testimonies. They have a youthful appeal, and old fashioned dedication which has been the ingredients for a most unusual success among gospel recording artists.

The Jordan's recorded "The Phone Call from God." This is a very humorous conversation between God and man, and yet a very spiritual message, that will be presented in the service.

The Jordans will be at the First Assembly of God, 4th and Lancaster for one service only. Sunday evening, November 5. The evening service begins at 6 p.m. Rev. W. Randall Ball, the pastor, invites the public to attend the special one night service.

Cardinal lauds choice of Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Long ago in trying to elect a new leader, a religious organization became deadlocked between a "holy man" and an "intelligent man." At that point, a wise, old priest advised:

"A holy man will pray for us. An intelligent man will teach us. But it is the prudent man that will lead us."

The story was told by Roman Catholic Cardinal Basil Hume of England last week in an oblique response to questions about factors leading to the election of former Cardinal Karol Wojtyla of Poland as pope.

know what is ahead," said Cardinal Terence Cooke of New York.

However, the early indications are that the new pope plans to continue firm but prudent persistence in trying to enlarge church rights in repressive areas, a policy pursued by the Vatican in recent years, involving negotiations with communist regimes rather than confrontation.

It also was the pope's approach while in Poland. "Maybe he can find the means of opening the door to evangelism in communist countries."

United Church Women hold covered dish luncheon here

The regular meeting of the Board of Church Women United was held Friday Oct. 27, at the home of Ione McAlister and Florence Lenox. The occasion was also a covered dish luncheon.

The board consists of the Church Women United Officers, the presidents and C.W.U. Representatives of the following churches: First Christian, St. Mary's Episcopal, First United Methodist, Immaculate Heart of Mary, Wesley Methodist, Baker's Chapel Methodist, Salvation Army and the First Presbyterian.

The board meetings are held three times a year, to plan the activities of Church Women United. Mrs. Darrel Fellows, retiring president presided at the business meeting.

The following officers for 1979 were elected — and will be installed Dec. 1, 1978: President, Mrs. Ben boadle; 1st vice president, Mrs. Albert Davis; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Paul Kionka; secretary, Mrs. Florence Lenox; treasurer, Mrs. Ted Hatfield; representative to West Side Center, Mrs. Darrell Fellows; and publicity, Mrs. Lee Porter.

Mrs. Boadle, incoming president, directed work on the new yearbook, and made tentative plans for a tasting tea in the spring.

The next board meeting will be Feb. 23, in the home of Mrs. Lee Porter, 1919 Parkwood Dr.

Witnesses attend conference

Jehovah's Witnesses claim they had a very successful convention in Carlsbad over the weekend. Delegates from 20 congregations in West Texas and Southeastern New Mexico were in attendance.

The highlight of the assembly was the public discourse, "Meeting the Test of Christian Loyalty." A total of 1,686 in attendance heard F. Maes, special representative of the Watchtower Society of New York, speak. He pointed out that tests of loyalty each day involves applying God's law in our family, dealing with others, and zeal in talking to others about God's purpose.

Harvey Correa, presiding overseer, said that another of the assembly's highlight was the baptism of 14 newly trained witnesses.

Anyone interested can contact the local congregation of Jehovah's witnesses.

Revival set

Revival services will begin Sunday morning at 11 a.m. Nov. 5, at the Salvation Army, and will run through Nov. 9.

The evangelist will be Rev. O.G. McKinney who has been conducting revival meetings for many years, and is now scheduled for several cities in Texas doing meetings for the Salvation Army.

Rev. McKinney will be accompanied by his wife who will also assist in the services. The public is cordially invited to attend the meetings, beginning at 7 p.m. nightly.

WHY WE DO NOT SUPPORT THE NATIONAL AND WORLD COUNCIL OF CHURCHES
For the second time in recent years, it has been revealed that the World Council of Churches is giving money to terrorists, this time to the guerrillas in Rhodesia. This is almost unbelievable since these same terrorists have murdered a number of missionaries. It means that contributing denominations have been paying money to kill their missionaries. The Salvation Army has already withdrawn from the World Council in protest.
People have an obligation to give money to the church, but people have the right to know where it is going and what it is going to be used for.
In their Program to Combat Racism, launched in 1976, World Council in their Program to Finance terrorist movements in Africa and the United States. They launched an effort to raise $210,000 to support American draft-dodgers and deserters in Canada and Sweden.
The overall purposes of the World Council amounts to a call for world socialism, and it has been their track record to bring it about by revolution, if necessary.

Big Spring Turkey Walk will start Saturday

The area around Scenic Mountain, Big Spring State Park will be bustling with exercise enthusiasts Saturday morning. An estimated 75 young and old walkers will gather for the beginning of the annual Turkey Walk, and fund raising event to win support for programs of the American Heart Association.

Joan LaFond, chairman of the Big Spring Turkey Walk, said that the volunteers who have organized the activity are encouraged that this will be the most successful event of its type in this area.

Mrs. LaFond said that a flurry of requests came in the last several days for extra sponsor sheets, suggesting that participants are getting quite a number of backers for their walk. Mrs. LaFond explained that each participant in the Turkey Walk is sponsored by friends or relatives who agree to pay an amount of money to the Heart Fund for every mile the walker completes on the official route.

Although walkers will begin signing in Saturday as early as 9 a.m., there will be heart volunteers at the starting point until 4 p.m. Mrs. LaFond anticipated that most participants will cover the 1 1/4 mile route several times in their efforts to raise at least $25 and there by win a Thanksgiving Turkey.

The chairman emphasized that the Turkey Walk is an event not only for children. In some cases, whole families are taking part, with plans for picnic time out. Adults who decide at the last minute to take part can be their own sponsors by setting an amount they themselves will contribute to the Heart fund for each mile they walk. Last minute entry information can be obtained from Mrs. LaFond by calling 267-5615.

COSMONAUTS SET SPACE FLIGHT RECORD — Soviet cosmonauts Vladimir Kovalyenko, left, and Alexander Ivanchenko are shown after returning to earth on the steps of Soviet Central Asia Thursday, ending the longest space flight in history, the Tass news agency reported. The longest American space flight, which had stood as a record for four years, was set in early 1974 by the American flight of Skylab.

Sickle cell can be detected safely during pregnancy

NEW YORK (AP) — An inherited blood defect that dooms one in 500 American black children to suffering and early death can now be spotted safely during pregnancy with help from the tools of DNA research, a doctor says.

The defect, sickle cell anemia, afflicts as many as 50 million people worldwide and an estimated 70,000 in the United States. Nearly all its victims are black. About half die before age 20, and few others live past age 45.

Parents who are carriers of the recessive gene that causes sickle cell anemia are not affected by the disease, but can pass it on to their children.

Dr. Yuet Wai Kan, developer of the new sickle cell test, said it offers hope that similar techniques could be adapted to detect other inherited defects, such as hemophilia.

The test, which is done on the amniotic fluid surrounding the fetus, replaces an earlier and more risky procedure requiring a blood sample from the fetus, Kan said. The new test can be done as early as the 15th week of pregnancy, when an early abortion is still possible.

"Prenatal diagnosis will allow couples who otherwise wouldn't have wanted to risk having children to plan families," he said in a telephone interview from San Francisco Thursday night.

Sickle cell anemia gets its name from the characteristic C-shaped or sickle-like appearance of the red blood cells of its victims.

Victims lack the proper genetic instructions in their cells to make hemoglobin, the iron-rich substance which carries oxygen in the blood. The result is that body tissues are slowly choked to death for lack of oxygen. Sickle cell children often are poorly developed and have a short trunk and elongated extremities and skull. Death is usually caused by tuberculosis, heart failure, stroke or other complications.

Kan said he and coworkers at the University of California at San Francisco discovered the sickle cell test almost by accident as they used enzymes to slice up human DNA — deoxyribonucleic acid, the basic chemical of heredity — in an investigation of the hemoglobin gene.

They noted that after the slicing, which produced many fragments of varying but characteristic lengths, the DNA from some blacks had one gene fragment that was twice as long as the same fragment from whites or Asians.

Steers visit Cooper Cougars

By NATHAN POSS

Two teams with nothing to lose go to battle tonight in what will probably be a wild affair when the Big Spring Steers meet the Abilene Cooper Cougars. Game time is 8:00 in Shotwell Stadium on the east side of Abilene.

Both teams are coming off trouncings. Midland Lee spoiled the Steer Homecoming by bruising to a 33-0 win. The Mighty Mojo put the Cougars out of the District 5-4A race by a score of 31-13.

According to the Harris Rating System, the Cougars are a four-touchdown choice over the Bovines. Elsewhere around the league, Odessa is an 11-point choice over Midland, Abilene a 12-point pick over Midland, and Permian a one-touchdown favorite over the Lee Rebels in the spotlight game.

Cooper was the pre-season choice to win all the marbles in the district, but as usual in this loop, teams didn't pay attention to the script. The Cougars breezed through their first two tilts in non-conference play before stumbling to Haltom City. However, Cooper was forced to forfeit all three contests for the use of an ineligible player.

They rallied to win their next two contests before falling prey to Lee and Permian in their last two outings.

The Steers, meanwhile, have not been able to crack the win column in the 1978 season. A coaching change one month before fall practices brought in a new system, and the locals have never been completely on par with their more polished opponents. They have had a couple of chances to pull out a victory, but have been frustratingly denied.

The Cougars are a young team with an explosive offense. They rank second to Permian in team offense, averaging over 350 yards per contest, which is only three yards behind the Panthers.

The potent offense is led by senior Tracy Thomas. Thomas leads the district in total offense and has completed over 60 per cent of his tosses. He also is a swift runner, utilizing the bootleg to either run or pass.

When the Cougars run the pigskin, the man they usually go to is powerful Terry Orr. An all-district performer last year, Orr is averaging 90 yards rushing per game this year. He is also a most capable pass receiver coming out of the backfield.

The Steer pass defense has been victimized in the last two outings, so Thomas will probably try to exploit them, also. He will usually either throw to split end David Williams or tight end Joel Harris. Williams leads the district in pass receptions.

Last week, the Steers did a good job of stopping the Lee workhorse, Jeff McCowan. The Rebel tailback took advantage of this to rush for over 140 yards. The Cougars, however, have not shown to have the luxury of having two good running backs. This could work in the favor of Big Spring.

The Big Spring offense has not been able to score in the last two outings. The Steers have shown signs of being a good offensive crew at times, but have not been able to put together a full 48 minutes thus far. The past two weeks the Bovines have simply been outclassed, but they did play with intensity in the loss to Lee. Cooper's defense, which starts eight juniors, is ranked fifth in the district, so this could help generate the Big Spring attack.

The Steers have been the victims of the turnover disease in district play. They lead the league in throwing interceptions, with nine, and are second to San Angelo in total offensive turnovers. In order to have a decent chance at winning tomorrow night, they must avoid the lapse of concentration that leads to the turnover.

Campanella joins Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hall of Fame catcher Roy Campanella will join his old batterymate, Don Newcombe, on the community relations staff of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Campanella, 56, will assist Newcombe in working with groups on Dodger-related programs, President Peter O'Malley said Thursday.

Newcombe, a former Dodger pitcher, heads the community relations department.

The Brooklyn Dodgers' starting catcher from 1949 through 1957, Campanella was paralyzed following an automobile accident in 1958.

He played in five World Series and was the National League's Most Valuable Player three times.

Goliad V-ballers split matches

The Goliad Junior High Mavericks got off to a slow start in their volleyball game last night and couldn't overcome it as they lost to Seminole 6-15, 12-15.

Paula Spears and Linda Eddington scored seven points each and Andrea Burns scored four.

The Mavericks now have a record of 5-3.

The Goliad Dogies made their record 6-3 last night with a win over Andrews.

The score was 15-13 and 15-7. Debra Lewis had nine points. She was followed by Sheri Rodgers with seven, Vicki Halfman and Sandra Tercero with five each.

Beverly Tubb and Debbie Donnellson were cited for their good floor play by volleyball coach Wilda Novice.

Forsan JHS wins over Robert Lee

Forsan Junior High avenged its only football season loss with an 8-0 win over Robert Lee Junior High Thursday evening at Forsan.

The junior Buffs limited Robert Lee to one first down and only 52 total yards in the season rematch, while managing to pile up some 150 yards offense.

The Forsan score came on an interception by Lewis

Booker, who ran the ball 25 yards for the touchdown with the help of a block from Jerry Price.

The defense was outstanding, noted Coach Ronnie Taylor, adding that he was very proud of the 17 players who suited up for this year's games. The junior Buffs completed their season with Thursday's win, bringing their record to a very respectable 6-1.

COAHOMA HALFBACK Ronald Sundy (20) eludes the grasp of an Anson defender on the way to the Big Red Machine's 35-6 Homecoming win.

Hangin' Out

by Nathan Poss

One thing a person from Texas can say for sure is that most Aggies are of a different breed. Whether this is good or bad could be argued on both sides from now until people stop making fun of the Aggs, which is not in the foreseeable future.

The Aggies, both fans and athletes, have been known to be very emotional. Especially the fans. I remember distinctly my freshman year at Rice. We had beaten the Aggies, knocking them out of a berth in the Peach Bowl. I talked to a couple of their players that were personal friends after the game, and although they were down, they understood that there would be a tomorrow. But leaving Rice Stadium, I noticed hordes of Aggie fans in tears. Many of them were in total grief, like it was a sad funeral. That's when I began to really understand why Aggies are the favorite topic of jokes in the Southwest. Some of them simply take life too seriously!

The serious nature of some of their alumni made some very interesting news last week when Emory Bellard resigned as the Head Coach and Athletic Director. Although the Aggies had lost two in a row after humiliating their first four opponents, it didn't cross my mind that what happened would happen so quickly.

One of my best friends is a former Permian and A&M linebacker, Grady Wilkerson. We met on a recruiting trip during the winter of our senior year in high school, and have been good friends since. Through Grady, I became friends with many of the Aggie football players. We would part friendship for a couple of hours every year in late October, but they were all really good people. Not to mention outstanding athletes. During my four years in the conference, the Aggies undoubtedly had the best material in the league on three seasons. The reason for the outstanding performers was the recruiting of Emory Bellard. (Of course, those A&M sugar daddies, or alumni, help. But that's cool.)

I remember on two occasions all the Aggies had to do was win the final game and they would be in the Cotton Bowl. But Texas and Arkansas upset them convincingly on both occasions, and they had to settle for a lesser bowl or no bowl at all. My senior year, the U of H and Tech surprised them early, but A&M rallied to win the remainder of their games, including a rout of Florida in the Sun Bowl.

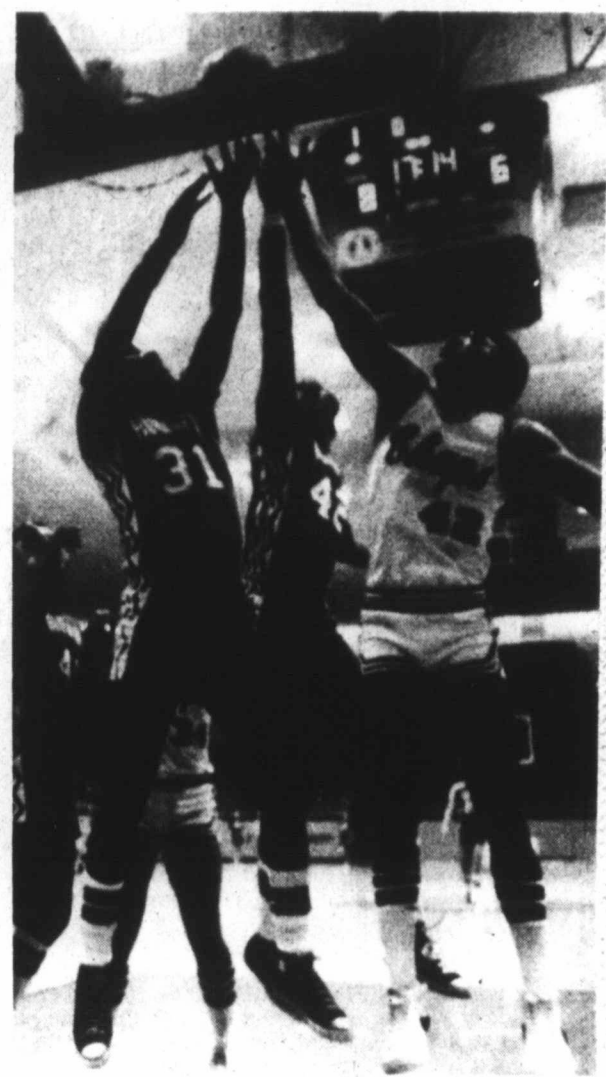

Without a Cotton Bowl entry however, Bellard was always the scapegoat. Never mind that the team was ranked in the top ten at the end of the year. That was forgotten. Many of the alumni I knew only remembered that Bellard, and/or the team, choked. Or that his offense was too conservative. Maybe it was too conservative. But when you're winning over 80 per cent of the time it's hard to complain. At least it seems that way.

This past weekend I was at the A&M-Rice game. After the game, I followed the Aggie offensive line coach Bob Stanley and his wife to their home after the contest. He had coached here under Spike Dykes when I was in the ninth grade, and we became friends then. Grady was there, along with a few more Aggies. We sat around, socialized about what had been happening to everyone in the last year. But naturally, with the resignation of Bellard and hiring of Tom Wilson in the same hectic week, much of the conversation away from the ladies centered on the state of the A&M athletic program.

Much of the conversation I was asked not to print. One thing that can be said was that Bellard was under undue pressure long before his resignation. Everyone close to the situation said that they had become concerned over Bellard's physical health, which was obviously caused by the pressure to win. His family was concerned, and they had also been exposed to exterior torment in the small town of Bryan. Listening to how Bellard broke the news to his staff was both chilling and very sad. I had never had feelings for the man one way or the other, but it seemed like an injustice.

The victory over Rice brightened up all the Aggie spirits, especially Coach Stanley's. He said that in a situation such as this, a person or team has to believe that everything happens for the best. The Aggies opened up their attack under Wilson in the Rice game. With the talent they have, a varied attack could very easily be a most definite plus in limiting the opponents' tendencies to key on the run oriented attack. I think from grasping the mood of some of the A&M team at the dorm after the game, that a little change in what they were doing will serve to inspire them through the rest of the season successfully. For my friends associated with the Aggie football program, I really hope so. They are extremely fine people. (Although you have to give them a little flack every now and then.)

I just hope the too serious segment of the A&M alumni give Wilson a chance before freaking out over a loss. There is just so much a coach can do! There are sometimes, no matter at what level, that a team just can't get up for a game or period of games. At times like these, alumni or fans need to swallow their pride and look at the situation with some rationality.

POSITION — Howard College Hawks Allen Bonds (31) and Michael Wallace (42) exhibit good rebounding position on the defensive backboards in last night's 113-92 win over Lubbock Christian JV's.

Howard College bombs LCC

The Howard College Hawks rode the hot shooting of Robby Randolph in the first half to take twelve point halftime advantage, then relied on some promising balance from the rest of the squad to take an easy 113-92 victory over the Lubbock Christian JV's in their home opener at the novel Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Randolph's early bombs propelled the Hawks to an 18-10 lead, but first game mistakes of defensive transition allowed the Chaparrals to ease to within one point at 31-30 with eight minutes remaining in the first half.

Then Randolph and fellow sophomore Allen Bonds led an eight minute scoring assault in which the Hawks outscored their opponents by a count of 29-18 to take a 60-48 halftime lead. Freshman guard Rocky Rawls was also instrumental in the surge, contributing some nifty passes that led to easy buckets.

Howard College used some very unselfish execution in the first ten minutes of the second half to put the game out of reach. The Chaparrals moved to within seven at 72-65 with 14:33 remaining, but the Hawks used a very effective fast break and controlled the backboards over the next two minutes to raise their lead to 85-69.

Coach Harold Wilder substituted freely in the second half with no adverse effects, as his crew played good team basketball. The biggest lead of the night was at 107-85 with two and a half minutes remaining.

Coach Wilder expressed pleasure in the first game victory. "I was pleased with the effort of everybody. Everyone showed a positive attitude. I was very happy with the balance we showed. A lot of guys played well, which means we should have good depth."

The Hawks did have their moments of first game sloppiness at times, and Wilder acknowledged this. "We were disorganized in moments, but I was encouraged in that the things we were emphasizing we did well."

Howard College returns to action this Monday, November 6, when they host Texas Wesleyan JV's.

Scoring: HOWARD COLLEGE: Randolph 15 (2-2) 32; Bonds 10 (1-3) 21; Wallace 7 (0-0) 14; Rawls 3 (0-0) 6; Tolliver 1 (1-2) 3; Hines 2 (3-3) 7; Turner 6 (0-0) 12; Green 1 (2-4) 4; Satcher 0 (0-0) 0; Melton 2 (0-1) 4; Cornett 0 (0-0) 0; Patterson 4 (2-2) 10; Nickle 0 (0-0) 0; TOTAL 51 (11-17) 113.

AREA SCHEDULE

Coahoma at Ballinger

BALLINGER — The undefeated Coahoma Bulldogs travel to Ballinger tonight to meet the Ballinger Bears.

Ballinger, with a record of 4-6, is coached by former Coahoma boss Bernie Hagens. Despite their record, the Bears have played stingy defense at times. Ballinger also boasts the speedy Ellison Portis, who went to the state track meet last year in the 100 and 200-meter dashes.

Anton at Stanton

STANTON — The Stanton Buffaloes, with a must win needed every week in order to stay alive in the District 5-A race, play host to Anton.

The Buffaloes took an easy win over O'Donnell last week to raise their season record to 4-2-1. They are 3-0-1 in district play. Anton, on the other hand, is having it's difficulties. They lost last week to Forsan, and have a lowly record of 0-7.

Stanton Coach David Thompson will start an offensive line consisting of ends Paul Sparks and Ben Bowlin, tackles Mark Luna and John Parker, guards Steve Maker and Keith Hull and center Miles Tollison. The backfield will be headed by quarterback Tommy Morrow, with Mitch Elmore at fullback, Todd Smith at tailback and Ernie Boyd at the wingback position.

Cotton Center at Grady

GRADY — The Grady Wildcats, already boasting their most successful season in history, face the Cotton Center Farmers in a battle that will most likely decide the district championship.

Grady, after losing their opening game, has rallied to win six in a row. Cotton Center owns an impressive record of 7-0. The game will be played in Grady at 7:00.

Grady Coach Richard Gibson will start an offense consisting of center Leland Kay, tight end Leandre Gonzales, split end Larry Key, quarterback Jimmy Mitchell, and halfbacks Ronald Chee and Ruben Gutierrez.

Seagraves at Forsan

FORSAN — The Forsan Buffaloes will meet their toughest foe to date tonight when the Seagraves Eagles come to town.

The Buffaloes, fresh from their first win ever in District 5-A, are heavy underdogs against the always powerful Eagles. Forsan beat Anton last week to raise their season record to 2-5. Seagraves is undefeated.

Forsan Coach George White has experienced injury problems all year, and this has forced many underclassmen into action. White's starting lineup will feature tight end David Tarbet, tackles Dayton Robertson and Todd Underwood, guards Kevin Lowe and D.F. Stanley, center Randall McDonald, quarterbacks Ernie Strickland and Angel Miranda, fullback Rusty Henderson, halfback Randy Cregar and Joe Kinder, and messenger wide receivers David Bates and Tim Decker.

Garden City at Jayton

JAYTON — The Garden City Bearcats of Coach Jesse Smalley take the road tonight to face the Jayton Jaybirds.

The Bearcats have suffered from erratic play all year. Their 14-10 win over Borden County last week evened their record at 4-4. They are 1-2 in District 3-B play.

The Jaybirds are 6-2 on the year and 3-0 in district action. They decided on Lorraine last week by a score of 20-14.

Coach Smalley will start an offense consisting of quarterback Kevin Hirt, fullback Brad Caverly, halfbacks Dale Hillger and Pete Trevino, ends Wes Overton and Alan Yansa, tackles Jorge Patino and Peppe Garza, guards Mark Halfman and Hugh Covert, and center David Rudin.

Sands at Dawson

DAWSON — The improving Sands Mustangs go for their second win in a row tonight when they travel to Dawson to play the Dawson Dragons.

The Mustangs, fresh from a 32-8 victory over Meadow, are 1-2 in district play and 2-5 on the year. The Dragons are 0-3 and 3-5.

Sands mentor Dickie Lepard is enthusiastic at the progress of his squad. He will start an offensive line featuring ends Steve Parker and Frank Garfias, tackles Danny Peugh and David Hull, guards Dennis Martin and Scott Robinson, and center David Calivo. The backfield will be led by quarterback David Mosley, fullback David Long, and halfbacks Van Gaskins, Bill Wiggington and Jesse Ybarra.

C-City hosts Merkel

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Wolves, fresh from an important and rugged 3-0 win over Stamford, host the Merkel Badgers tonight.

Colorado City, with a district mark of 4-0 and a season record of 6-1, are a team-point choice in the Harris Ratings to defeat Merkel. Merkel carries a record of 2-2 and 3-4. They beat Ballinger last week by a score of 15-8.

Japanese All-Stars blast Seaver, Reds

TOKYO (AP) — Two-run homers by Koji Yamamoto and Daisuke Yamashita and a solo roudtripper by Masayuki Kakefu powered the Japan All-Stars to a 6-4 exhibition baseball victory over the Cincinnati Reds and Tom Seaver today.

The defeat was the second for the Reds against two wins and one tie so far on their 17-game exhibition tour of Japan.

Seaver, Cincinnati's 33-year-old right-hander, allowed eight hits, including two home runs, struck out eight and walked three before turning over the mound to Pedro Borbon in the eighth inning.

Playing before 50,000 spectators at Tokyo Korakuen stadium, the Reds jumped to a 2-0 lead in the top of the second inning. After two outs, shortstop Ron Oester tripled to score Champ Summers and Junior Kennedy, both of whom got on base on singles.

But the Japanese overtook the Reds in the bottom of the third with three runs, including a two-run homer by Yamamoto of the Hiroshima Carp into the right field bleachers. Yamamoto had 44 homers last season.

AP gives Dallas edge

Picking the pros has become no challenge this wacky National Football League season. All you have to do is study the past performance charts, examine the statistical matchups, take a long, careful look at the injury lists and then...flip a coin.

Stay with the favorites and you're likely to choke on chalk this season. So you pick the upsets and the wrong teams get upset. It all comes with the territory.

But if the Pro Picker has nothing else working for him, he can still call on his supply of tenaciousness. Week after week, he comes back, sticking out his chin and asking for more punishment.

Last week's 8-5 ran the season's mark to 72-53 and

.576.

The picks:

Dallas 23, Miami 20
Those extra days off following last week's Thursday night game give the Cowboys the edge. Come to think of it, after that game, they need an edge.

Pittsburgh 31, New Orleans

14
The Steelers learned their lesson in last week's close call against Kansas City. They won't let up against the Saints.

New England 34, Buffalo

13

Everything went right for the Patriots against the Jets last week. It will be almost as easy against the Bills.

Green Bay 17, Philadelphia

14

Banged-up Eagles will make this one close but the Packers should prevail by the distance of a Chester Marcol field goal.

Denver 20, N.Y. Jets 13

The Jets have lost linebacker Greg Buttle for the season and that's good news for the Broncos attack, which can use good news.

Houston 24, Cleveland 21

One vote for the home field edge. There's little else separating these two in-and-out clubs.

Los Angeles 27, Tampa Bay

14

Isn't it time the Rams stopped kidding around? If they don't, those Tampa Bay kids could surprise them.

Minnesota 17, Detroit 7

There is great temptation to pick the Lions since the Vikings rarely do what you'd expect. We'll give form another chance here.

N.Y. Giants 20, St. Louis 14

The Cards have won their game. The Giants learned last week not to sit on a lead. Now if they can just get one...

Seattle 31, Chicago 21

The Bears are in a shambles and that condition can be compounded by the ambitious young Seahawks.

Oakland 24, Kansas City 17

Did you know that Ken Stabler has thrown 20 interceptions, the second highest total in the NFL?

Archie Griffin

faces surgery

CINCINNATI (AP) — Archie Griffin may face post-season toe surgery, but has decided to play out the season with the Cincinnati Bengals despite the pain.

Griffin, after seeing a specialist in Columbus, said he has a calcium buildup on the toe that will require "scraping."

The two-time Heisman Trophy winner from Ohio State said surgery might be required if other treatment is unsuccessful.

The running back suffered an injury in a game with the New Orleans Saints five weeks ago, which resulted in the calcium buildup. He has continued to play, but was not used Sunday against Houston.

Naber stresses positive thinking

NEW YORK (AP) — The power of positive thinking is an important ingredient for an athlete, particularly one with Olympic aspirations, and American athletes need a dose of it, maintains 1976 swimming medalist John Naber.

"We must convince our athletes that they can be the best in the world," the towering Naber said Thursday at the first of a series of Olympic Reunion Breakfasts, scheduled throughout the country between now and the 1980 Games.

To help impart that confidence into American athletes and "prepare for the onslaught of Olympic competition," Naber suggested a four-point program.

"We need to have better athletic facilities," he said.

"We need to improve our sports medicine program."

"We need better coaching and training in sports psychology."

"And we need more international competition, so that young Americans will have the opportunity to compete against the best in the world more than once every four years."

Unfortunately, according to Naber, not enough is being done along these lines.

At present, there are only two Olympic training sites in the United States — at Squaw Valley, Calif., and Colorado Springs, Colo.

Colorado Springs was the site of the first National Sports Festival earlier this year, an enthusiastically received event that attracted some 2,000 young athletes.

Another Sports Festival will be held next year, at a yet unannounced site, and will be an annual event except in Olympic years.

Hawk Queens rally past Ranger, 78-54

The Howard College Hawk Queens survived a lethargic first half to rally and take a 78-53 decision over the Ranger Junior College Rangettes. It was the season opener for both teams.

Coach Don Stevens crew got into foul trouble early, and the visiting Rangettes took advantage to sneak to a 31-30 halftime lead. Fifteen of their points in the opening half were from the charity line.

The Queens overcame their foul troubles to dominate the second half. Three Queens fouled out, and two others had four infractions, but the play of Joann Lefridge, a freshman from Victoria, and Ackery's Susan Martin proved to be too much for the outclassed Rangettes. Lefridge was the high point lady for the Queens with 16. Martin added 11 points and was the rebounder with 13 caroms.

Coach Stevens described the first half play as lousy, but was encouraged with his team's performance in the final 20 minutes. His team will be in action again this Monday in the new Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at 6:00 when they play host to Hardin Simmons.

Scoring: HAWKS: Martin 4-11; Strickland 4-9; Coalson 3-6; Lefridge 6-10; Phillips 4-11; Young 1-0; Jones 3-7; Freeman 3-4-10; Smith 1-3-5; Meyer 0-1-1; TOTAL 35-14-78.
RANGERS: JV: Everett 2-0-4; Hight 2-1-5; Morrow 3-15-21; Olivares 3-4-10; Moss 3-4-10; Skipworth 1-2-4; TOTAL 14-26-54.

WORKING ON CEREMONIAL — Dan Hutchinson of Big Spring is First Ceremonial Master for the fall ceremonial, with Charles M. Godwin as potentate and George Bair as special honoree. The announcement of Dan's arrival in Big Spring as Liquor Control Agent here was announced in a Shrine edition of the Big Spring Herald during the last ceremonial held here in May 1973.

Suez stresses four big events

The Suez Temple meets regularly and most of its Shrine clubs meet once a month. There are four major events each year.

One is the annual meeting in which officers are inducted and the business session is held, and new candidates inducted.

Another is the ceremonial, usually held in the home town of the potentate or a city designed by him.

Since this year's potentate, Charles Godwin, is from Colorado City, he designated Big Spring for the fall meeting. The state Shrine meeting is held in the summer and the Imperial Shrine meeting in the summer.

The operation of 22 hospitals and burns centers, all dedicated to providing free care to crippled, burned and disabled children, is their main project.

Shrine cloaks in pagentry

Clothed in pageantry and mystery of the Orient, the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine is strictly American in origin.

The Shrine is the brainchild of Billy Florence, an actor and Dr. Walter M. Fleming, a Civil War surgeon and amateur juggler and magician.

Florence stumbled across the idea for the new society in Marseilles, France, when he was invited to a party given by an Arabian diplomat.

The entertainment was an elaborately staged musical comedy, climaxed by an invitation to guests to be initiated into a secret society.

Florence concocted his own version of the ceremony, confided it to Dr. Florence and together they created the Shrine.

That was in 1872, and in 1972 in Callas, the Shrine observed the beginning of its second century.

Today it has around one million members in 1970 temples and more than 2,500 Shrine clubs.

The pool of Scottish and York rite Masons, from whence the Shrine draws its members, exceeds a million and a quarter, so the growth in Shrine membership continues to grow.

The average age of Shrine members has declined from the mid 60s to the early 50s.

Members delight in the fun, frolics and pageantry of the order.

Special club backs projects

One of the many projects of the Shrine is the 100 Million Dollar Club, which celebrates the second 50 years of Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children and Burned Children.

To become a charter member of this club, Shriners must have included a bequest in their wills for the Shriners hospitals to have added codicil to the will to do so, or make a minimum cash contribution $100.

Through this program and other support from all Shriners, the Shriners hopes eventually to endow all its hospitals.

George Bair honored at Shrine event here

The program for the fall ceremonial here Friday and Saturday honors George W. Bair, former potentate of the Suez Temple.

Bair, a long-time worker for Masonic and Shrine causes held the top spot in the temple's divan in 1973.

Since 1950, Bair has operated a welding supply business in Big Spring and at one time owned and operated as many as six of these stores in West Texas and New Mexico.

His is one of the few individual owned and operated such businesses in the state. He is a member of the American Welding Society and the Texas Transport Association.

Born in Berryville, Ark., he attended college in Oklahoma on an athletic scholarship and worked in oil field supply stores until 1941 when he moved to Fort Worth to enter defense work.

The following year he enlisted in the Armed Force and served until 1946 spending 17 months overseas and earning a field commission. For two years after the war, he was field representative for an oil construction company and then became district sales representative for an industrial welding supply company until 1950.

The Suez Temple potentate is a member of Staked Plains Lodge No. 598, Big Spring, also Big Spring York Rite bodies, Waco Scottish Rite. When he was initiated into the Shrine in December 1956, he was a ring candidate — "the Mad Matador."

He has served the Big Spring Shrine Club as president, secretary, circus chairman and as a member on organization of the motor patrol.

A permanent contributing member of the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children, he also is a member of its 100 Million Dollar Club. Three times he served as first ceremonial master for the Suez Temple.

Bair's activities extend to other areas. He is a past deacon and building and finance chairman at St. Paul Presbyterian Church.

He also is past patron of the Order of Eastern Star and has received the outstanding citizen award from the Order of DeMolay. He has also served on the Salvation Army Advisory Board.

Shriners Hospital aid crippled, burned kids

While the first Shrine Temple was organized in 1872, it was not until the Imperial Session in 1920 that a resolution was passed calling for the establishment of Shriners Hospital for crippled children. Prior to that time the Shrine contributed to relief of communities struck by national disasters. They raised and donated thousands of dollars to the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, and other organizations that were helping the war effort, but there was no established Shrine charity. A proposal to establish a home for friendless, orphaned and crippled children was opposed at several sessions. It remained for Forrest Adair, who had assisted in the establishment of the Scottish Rite Crippled Children's Hospital in Atlanta, to step to the podium. "I arise, unlike my friend, Past Imperial Potentate Melish, without reluctance, but with enthusiasm," he said. A hush fell over the auditorium as Adair continued:

"I was lying in my bed yesterday morning about four o'clock and some poor fellow who had strayed from the rest of the band — and he was a magnificent performer on the baritone horn — stood down there under my window for twenty-five minutes playing 'I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles.' And after awhile when I dropped back into peaceful sleep, I dreamed of a little crippled children's hospital, run by the Scottish Rite Fraternity, and I thought of the wandering minstrel of the early morning, and I wondered if there were not a deep significance in the tune he was playing for Shriners — 'I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles.' We talk from year to year; we talk about our great order; we read the report of the hundreds of thousands of dollars we have accumulated ... we visit the oasis of many Temples, and we hear the Nobles brag of the cost of their Temples ... they point out the wonderful hospitals and schools built by the Catholic churches ... then we come here and we hear the baritone player. That fellow told us what we are doing."

Adair went on to deliver an inspired message, a message that was to become known wherever Shriners gathered as the "Bubbles" speech. The vote was unanimous. It was decided at the outset that the hospital would be open to all children, regardless of race, or creed, whose parents were unable to pay for the needed surgical, medical and hospital facilities. The first hospital was constructed in Shreveport, Louisiana, and received its first patient, a little girl with clubbed feet, on September 16, 1922. During the following years 9 orthopedic hospitals were constructed. Since that first little girl was admitted, more than 250,000 children have been cured or materially helped in our 22 units and out-patient services and more than 6,000 new cases are being handled each year.

The Shrine wanted to expand its facilities and services so in 1958 a study of disaster burns was started. It was found in these studies that this was a field of service that was being bypassed, that the only burn center in the United States had been established by the Government at Brooke Medical Center. After several years of study, the burns committee was ready to report its recommendations to the representatives at the Imperial Council session at Toronto in July of 1962. The representatives, by a unanimous vote, adopted a resolution to authorize the building of three special units to be known as Shriners Burns Institutes. The plans called for each of these special units to be fifteen-bed emergency intensive care units, and fifteen-bed reconstructive care units, with all of the modern facilities available in the care, treatment and research in burns. The first of the Shriners burns institutes was opened March 20, 1966, at Galveston.

Well over $75,000,000 has been spent in the construction of Shriners Hospitals and all by the Shriners of North America.

Since Shriners Hospitals were established, a total of approximately $300,000,000 has been spent by the Shriners for operating Shriners Hospitals, including burns institutes and research. The current operating budget is in excess of $35,000,000 per year. The five-dollar annual hospital assessment provides only a small portion of our operating funds, the balance being provided primarily by income from endowment funds. This endowment fund comes from requests, gifts and Temple fund-raising activities such as circuses, football games and paper sales, to name just a few. We have from the beginning promised our benefactors that we would never use the corpus of their estates given our work, only the income it produces will be used for operating expenses. We urge you to assist us in these activities.

FORMER POTENTATES — These two claim that's the name for has-beens but George Bair and Ted Groehl still direct one of the most successful Shrine Circuses in the entire state here each September.

Hughey is recorder of Suez Shrine Temple

His first assignment was Assistant Administrative Officer at Naval Security Group Command Headquarters in Washington, D.C. He was then ordered to the U.S. Naval Security Group Activity, Keflavik, Iceland where he served as Executive Officer, Operations Officer and Personnel-Administrative Officer.

His next assignment was to the Chief, Bureau of Naval Personnel, Washington, D.C. where he served as Assistant Detail Officer in the Enlisted Order Writing Department. Noble Alexander served as scout Master for two National Jamborees, at Valley Forge, Pa. in 1964 and in Idaho in 1969. He also served as Medical Officer in the 1963 Jamboree in Pennsylvania. He became involved with scouting when his two sons were boys. Since then his aim has been to make scouting available to more boys.

Noble Alexander and his wife, Janie live at 1401 Woodridge in Abilene. They have two sons, Dr. Joe B. Alexander, a pediatrician in Tulsa, Ok., and Dan who recently graduated from McMurray College. They also have two daughters, Eunice and Betsy.

Mayor Welcomes Shriners

Mayor Wade Choate welcomes Shriners to the City of Big Spring today and urges local citizens to roll out the red carpet for the visitors.

"We have many fine leaders among our local Shrine who have contributed much to the growth of our city," Mayor Choate stated. He also welcomed them to attend the Gala Friday night, with profits to go to the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. "This is in keeping with Shrine objectives," one local leader stated.

The Shriners help with Crippled Children Hospitals and Burn Centers. We think they will enjoy the Gala because Shriners like both a good time and a good project.

Focus on family living

Holidays call for altered eating habits

By JANET ROGERS
County Extension Agent

Special holidays mean special meals — and extra calories.

These special holidays — Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's — involve altered eating habits.

The holiday season brings extra guests, specialty recipes, less regular eating patterns and special holiday parties and drinks.

To control calories during this extended holiday season, try to slack off from your weight reduction program and work toward maintaining your weight.

Advanced planning of the day's total caloric intake can help prevent overeating.

Recognize holiday food which are lower in calories and try to incorporate some lower-calorie special foods into the menu.

Experiment with some new herbs and spices that add a unique flavor — but very few calories — to certain foods.

Refrain from adding rich sauces and gravies to holiday meat, vegetable and fruit dishes.

Also, brooding and leaving fat on meat or skin on chicken add extra calories.

Alcoholic beverages add calories without adding nutrients, so go easy on ordering those extra calories.

Use lower-calorie mixes such as water, diet colas, or fruit juice instead of rich, creamy, dessert-type beverages.

Never treat yourself to second helpings even though it may be difficult to refuse urgings from well-meaning relatives. Simply comment on how delicious the food was, but say that you are no longer hungry.

Use skimmed milk or buttermilk made with skimmed milk for drinking and cooking where appropriate. You'll save 90 calories per cup.

Use oil and vinegar or other low-calorie dressings for salads.

For dessert, select lower-calorie desserts such as those included in various low-calorie cookbooks or make your own sugar-free relishes or jellies at home.

For example, try this recipe for low-calorie Holiday Cranberry Chutney:

HOLIDAY CRANBERRY CHUTNEY
1 pound canned, peeled tomatoes and liquid

1 pound fresh cranberries
1 cup seedless raisins
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground ginger

Enough sugar substitute equal to 1 cup sugar.

Cut up tomatoes into large pieces. Place tomatoes, juice and all other ingredients in a large saucepan.

Cover and bring to a slow boil over medium heat. Simmer for 10 minutes.

Cool to room temperature and refrigerate in an airtight container for two days before serving. Recipe makes about five cups.

Each one-fourth cup serving contains 30 calories. Serve as you would regular cranberry sauce or as a meat condiment.

Halloween skit staged

Members of John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge No. 153 met at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the I.O.O.F. Hall with Elizabeth Beck, noble grand, presiding.

Sick members and visits to the sick were reported on by the 21 members present.

Pauline S. Petty, lodge deputy, presented Mary Leek with a Certificate of Perfection.

Pat Kilmer and Ms. Leek, program hostesses, presented a Halloween program, including a Halloween skit staged by Edna Smith and Ms. Leek.

Ms. Smith was judged to have the best costume, and games with a Halloween theme were played.

The refreshment table was decorated with fall flowers and Halloween motifs, and refreshments were served by Odelle LaLonde and Melba Sutton.

Dear Abby

Religion Is Deeds As Well as Words

DEAR ABBY: We don't go to church. Instead, my husband and I and our three children sit down to a hearty breakfast on Sunday morning and afterwards have a friendly discussion around the breakfast table.

We talk about school problems, family gripes and relations with relatives and friends. We support each other in overcoming bad habits and faults and come to an understanding about allowances, TV watching, homework and chores. Then we seek ways to improve family life and ways to contribute to our community and our nation.

We believe that God's spirit is within us (all) and that ours are helping hands which can be used to make this spirit evident here on earth.

Recently, some of the neighborhood children have been calling our children "atheists" because we don't go to church. They are shocked and upset and don't know what to answer. Do you in your wisdom have an appropriate answer?

AT A LOSS

DEAR AT: How is this: "We are NOT 'atheists.' We accept the existence and influence of God in our lives. But to us, God's spirit is within all of us, and we offer helping hands which can be used to make this spirit evident here on earth." (P.S. In my opinion, yours is a stronger religious commitment than many church-goers make. But that, too, is their business.)

DEAR ABBY: SHELDON'S WIFE couldn't understand why her husband came home with red smudges on his shirt and red hairs on his coat. Don't jump to conclusions, Abby. He may have been feeding strawberry jam to a cocker spaniel!

CHATTANOOGA DOG LOVER

DEAR LOVER: True. But there is always an outside chance that he had been feeding a line to a redhead.

DEAR ABBY: I have been invited to an evening wedding at 6 p.m. A friend of mine tells me that I must wear a long dress. I do not own a long dress, and I have no intention of buying one. If I must buy one for this occasion, I cannot afford to buy a wedding gift.

Please tell me if you think I absolutely must get a long dress, or would a dressy short dress be acceptable?

NO NAME PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Wear what you have, and don't give it a second thought. What's a few inches of fabric more or less?

Black liner best left to history

Thousands of years ago Egyptian women rimmed their eyes with kohl to give them a sultry look.

In recent years American women have gone from black to blue — from the black eyeliner in the 1950s to the blue eyeshadow of the early 1970s, says Merle Norman make up specialist Mari Nuckles.

"Unfortunately, powdery blue eyelids neither enhance a woman's appearance nor complement the current fashions," she says. Fall and winter fashions tend to be in the smoky earth tones of berry, gold, beige, brown and rust or in heathery pastels, says Nuckles.

"Smudged, subdued eye shadows and crayons should pick up the colors of a woman's outfit. Light blue eye shadow and jet black kohl represent the two extremes, both of which are best left to history."

Liquids good for cold, flu

Drinking plenty of liquids and bed rest are recommended for cold or flu sufferers, advises Carla Shearer, health educational specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The pill is no cure-all

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: Please answer this question to the best of your professional ability. Please don't lecture me.

I am 15, going steady and sexually active with my boyfriend. My question is this: Should I put myself on the Pill?

Thanks for your opinion, — L.K., Scranton, Pa.

L.K.: I don't have a simple yes or no answer. The matter is too personal, too complex. Moral values and peer pressure are involved.

Let's be honest. Sex without birth control can create big problems — unwanted pregnancy, family disgrace, terminated schooling, unwisdom.

But the pill is no cure-all either. There can be hazards to health as well as damage to self-esteem and personal relationships. The experience can leave ugly emotional scars.

Please allow me to make two suggestions:

First, keep the lines of communication and trust open between yourself and mature adults.

Get professional guidance. There is help from the clergy, teachers, family, doctors, family friends and official health agencies.

The next decision is yours.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 27 and would like to share my experience with your teen readers. When I was 15, I fell in love with a 17-year-old boy. To this day I know I loved him. Well, back to my story. One thing led to another and I became pregnant. We married and I became a mother at 16. We had a lot of support and help from my parents but the stress of maintaining a family was overwhelming.

We had another child and our problems became unbearable. The hurt and conflict was terrifying, so we got divorced.

When I was 15 I thought love was enough to solve all my problems. I found out the hard way that it just wasn't true. I'm really concerned when I hear about teens getting married. I don't doubt they love each other, but love isn't enough. Respect, trust and maturity are also necessary.

I quit school when I got pregnant. To this day I have deep regrets that I didn't graduate from high school.

Teens, if you think you are in love and plan to marry, wait. Love is lasting and you will have a long life together. There should be no rush. If it wasn't love you could have the pain and trauma of a broken marriage. — Nicki Conteras, La Habra, Calif.

Farm Achievement award winners for 4-H named

The 1978 J.T. Rutherford 4-H Achievement Award Winners were selected at the District VI 4-H Record Judging in Fort Stockton from sixteen entries.

Former U.S. Congressman from the 16th Congressional District of Texas, J.T. Rutherford, has sponsored this 4-H Achievement Award Program since 1955 to honor the three outstanding 4-H club boys and girls based upon their 4-H records. Each of the winners receives a 4-H achievement medal, and a large rotating trophy is presented to the high achieving 4-H girl and boy.

The county that gets three different 4-H members' names on a trophy retains permanent possession of the trophy.

The first place winner in the boy's division of the 1978 J.T. Rutherford Achievement Program was Walter Campbell, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kewey E. Campbell of Fort Stockton, Pecos County. Walter has been in 4-H work eight years with projects in lambs, foods & nutrition, junior leadership, money management and home gardening. He is chairman of the Pecos County 4-H Council, chairman of the District VI 4-H Council, a member of the State 4-H Council, a Pecos Gold Star recipient and an Eagle Scout.

Other winners in the boy's division of the J.T. Rutherford Achievement are as follows: Second — Russell Kent Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Robinson, Howard County; Third — David Lee Schweitzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Schweitzer, Midland County;

Haechten, Ector County; Sixth — Robert Hall Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cox, Martin County; Seventh — Brad Lance Bufkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bufkin, Reeves County; Eighth — Jody Naron, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Naron, Crockett County.

The first place winner in the girl's division of the 1978 J.T. Rutherford 4-H Achievement Program was 17-year-old Rebecca Joann Everett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Everett, Jr. of Ozona, Texas, Crockett County.

Miss Everett has been in 4-H for nine years and is very active in junior leadership, clothing, foods and nutrition, lamb feeding, horse, home environment and method demonstrations. Becky has been honored with the 4-H leadership and achievement medals, the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers' Medallion and the Mother Davidson Award for the top 4-Her's of the year in Crockett County. She has held many county 4-H offices, is an officer on the District VI 4-H Council, and a member of the State 4-H Council.

Prices for Thanksgiving turkeys will be higher

Although the supply of turkey is lighter this year, U.S. Department of Agriculture marketing specialists say there will be enough of the traditional birds to meet consumer needs for Thanksgiving.

Turkey production has been above year-earlier levels all of this year. However, consumers bought more turkey when red meat prices moved higher. This increased consumption has caused cold storage stocks to remain below year-earlier levels, and is the main reason for the lighter-than-normal supply.

An expected 4 to 6 percent production increase over last year's fall quarter should help offset the impact of the lower cold storage stocks.

Because of the unusual supply and demand conditions, prices to consumers this Thanksgiving are expected to be higher than last year. The upswing in the price of turkey reflects the lighter supply of turkey and the higher prices of competing meat products.

Consumers will find other food items in plentiful supply that are traditionally part of the Thanksgiving menu, including cranberries, potatoes, sweet potatoes, rice, frozen corn-on-the-cob, apples, winter pears, peanuts, dry beans and split peas.

Screwworm cases noted in Howard

Screwworms have invaded potential overwintering areas of South Texas and northeastern Mexico warned an apprehensive Dr. James E. Novy.

The acting director of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Screwworm Eradication Program is alarmed by the appearance of lab identified screwworm cases as far south as Dimmitt County and in Mexico near both Laredo and Eagle Pass.

The quickening pace of screwworm strikes in Texas was emphasized during the month of September, when the Lone Star State for the first time this year had more outbreaks than New Mexico and even began closing in on the leader, Arizona.

"Screwworms have been identified throughout the Hill Country and the Edwards Plateau area. They appear to be moving from the heavily infested area west of the Pecos River," said Novy.

Releases of sterile flies have been stepped up in the newly threatened area. The program has begun dispersing flies from a temporary distribution center at Uvalde.

"One good thing," observed Novy, "is that the Gulf Coast ear tick season is about over." Only one case has been reported from ear tick wound; that one in Zavala County, he said.

Novy expects screwworms to continue to be a problem in the Trans-Pecos and Edwards Plateau regions until cold weather reduces the parasite throughout the area.

The screwworm spread in Texas during September brought the year's first positive cases from Comanche, San Saba, Mason, Kimble, Gillespie, Crane, Kendall, Val Verde, Kerr, Kinney, Uvalde, Zavala, Dimmitt, Winkler, Gaines and Yoakum counties. In all, 64 Texas counties are known to have had screwworm infested animals this year.

Livestock raisers in Glasscock County reported 13 confirmed screwworm cases this year while Borden County had 11. Scurry County sent in nine positive screwworm samples, Mitchell County, eight, and Howard County, three.

Despite Novy's fears about the overwintering areas, the principal region of infestation continues to be the area along the Rio Grande River from the Trans-Pecos to El Paso.

The only two Lone Star counties with more than 100 cases — Jeff Davis with 141 and Pecos with 101 — are found in this far southwestern region. Other leading recipients of screwworm attention are also there: Brewster with 69 cases, Terrell with 66, El Paso and Presidio 44, Hudspeth 37 and Reeves and Crockett 29.

Outside this vast region only Irion County has had as many as 20 cases confirmed in 1978.

By way of contrast, in Arizona and New Mexico where the attacks have centered all year, the former has one county (Yavapai) with 504 cases and two others over 400 (Santa Cruz and Cochise). New Mexico has four counties with more than 100 cases, topped by Eddy with 285.

Colorado, which hadn't had an outbreak in several years, came up with two in Montezuma County during September. Nevada, another state seldom bothered by screwworm depredations, had an earlier case in Nye County, its first in some years.

Case counts for September were Arizona 611, Texas 453, New Mexico 429 and California 35. It was the worst September for Arizona since 1973 and the worst for New Mexico since '72.

Texas has several grimmer Septembers than this one, including five of the last six years.

Through the first nine months of the year Arizona has suffered 3,332 cases, New Mexico 1,172, Texas 817 and California 98.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

CLEMENTS

Bill Clements: Is a businessman and manager. He started with nothing and built a successful world-wide drilling company. Because of his outstanding management skills, he was appointed Deputy Secretary of Defense for four years and was responsible for a $125 billion a year budget and 3 million employees. He cut the civilian payroll of that bureaucracy by 85,000 people this year.

Bill Clements: Is a conservative. He publicly stands for less government and less federal interference. And for more local control.

Bill Clements: Is concerned about education. He was Chairman of SMU Board of Governors and head of Defense Dept. Committee on Excellence in Education. He's for "back to basics," competency testing and classroom discipline. He has made no promises to special interest groups.

Bill Clements: Plans a "Taxpayers' Bill of Rights" to provide for citizen Initiative and Referendum; ban state income taxes, and require a record two-thirds vote of the legislature to pass any tax bill. It would also allow local taxpayers to ratify or reject tax increases by local governments. He will reduce taxes. Not just "freeze" them.

Bill Clements: Is for complete and immediate natural gas deregulation. And for increased production of all energy sources. He favors expanded research into solar, fusion, biomass and other energy-producing forms. He is against Carter's energy plan which will give the federal government power to allocate Texas' resources.

HILL

John Hill: Is a professional politician. He first ran for governor ten years ago and has been running ever since. He is a claims lawyer who was appointed to a government position. Later, after becoming State Attorney General, he used that office to further his political career.

John Hill: Is a liberal. He stands for big government and federally controlled assistance. He supported a proposed new Constitution which would have centralized power in Austin. He has increased the State Attorney General's staff by 300% and its budget by 600% during his term of office.

John Hill: Received a teachers' union endorsement in return for promising to raise all teachers' salaries regardless of performance. (At a taxpayers' cost of over $1 billion.) He has no education-related experience in his background.

John Hill: Is for a billion dollar giveaway to increase state government and centralize bureaucracy. During the recent special session, he worked to defeat measures in the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights. He fought against tax relief so he could afford to finance his promised giveaway programs. He will freeze taxes, not reduce them.

John Hill: Is closely tied to the policies of his national party and its liberal leaders and will support them. No matter what the cost to Texas taxpayers. Is responsible for a liberal takeover of the State Democratic Party in Texas.

Ridin' fence — They call it Anson

with Marj Carpenter

OMAR BURLESON
...has bronze bust in court yard

Anson became known around Big Spring after Big Spring was placed in the 17th Congressional District and their Congressman was Omar Burleson, an Anson native. Prior to reshifting of the Congressional Districts, George Mahon was the Congressman for Big Spring. He was from Lorraine in Mitchell County and had started out his political career as District Attorney in Big Spring.

Ironically, both men retired this year. Anson, the home of Burleson, is the county seat of Jones County. One of the two candidates for his Congressional post is also from Jones County — Charlie Stenholm of Stamford. He is the Democratic nominee. The Republican is Bill Fisher of Abilene, largest town in the district.

Mahon, in the meantime, had established Lubbock as his home and no longer lives in the area in which he started out. Opponents for his seat are Kent Hance, Democrat from Lubbock and George Bush Jr., Republican from Midland.

But back to Anson, where a bronze bust of Burleson was dedicated and placed in the courtyard back in 1972, the county was established in 1881. Long before a post office was approved, there was mail brought to a settlement called Jones City.

The mail was brought from a nearby fort, Fort Phantom Hill, to a few hardy ranchers that lived in the area. In April 1881, a post office was started in Jones City in a store belonging to William Boyer. Then they ran into a snag. They applied for the name Jones City for a post office and found out there was another Jones City in Texas.

OMAR BURLESON
...has bronze bust in court yard

The county had been named for President Anson Jones, born in Massachusetts Jan. 20, 1878. He was licensed in New York to practice medicine but he wasn't making a living at it. He practiced and taught school in Philadelphia to put food on the table. In 1827, he qualified for a degree from Jefferson Medical College.

Then he went South for some reason and was a New Orleans commission merchant in 1832. He moved to Brazoria, in East Texas in 1833.

During the Texas Revolution, Anson Jones served as an army surgeon. Then he was elected a Congressman, and a minister to the United States and then became Sam Houston's Secretary of State. It's kind of interesting that Jones County was named for a Congressman since it had such a long term (32 years) Congressman in Burleson.

Many of the counties in West Texas were named for army career officers — but not Jones County, it was named, of course, for a politician. Jones went on to become the last president of the Republic of Texas.

Also in 1835, Jones and four others established the first Masonic Lodge in Texas and he was the first Grand Master of Texas. He died Jan. 9, 1858 in Houston.

When they couldn't name the town Jones City, Martin Duval, county surveyor, suggested they use the first name of the former Republic president and call it Anson. The county itself was organized the following year. Three courthouses preceded the present $300,000 structure, which was a lot of money to spend on a courthouse back when it was constructed in 1910.

As you drive into Anson, the courthouse is in the middle of the street with a statue of Anson Jones on one side and a bust of Omar Burleson on the other.

The nearby town of Stamford, the only other town of any size in the county, was established by Swenson Ranches and Texas Central Railroad. Elizabeth Towne of the Yale and Towne locks family was the daughter of S.M. Swenson.

In 1900, the town was a rail center for a wide frontier. It had at least 60 wholesale concerns and had a fine hotel, built by the Swensons and called the Stamford Inn. That's probably where the town got its name. The Post Office there was established in 1900.

From the beginning there have been many Swedish families in and around Stamford, including Stenholm, one of the two Congressional candidates for the district.

There are only two West Texas counties that I can think of that bear the first and last names of their namesake.

I'm talking about Gail, county seat of Borden County for Gail Borden and Anson, county seat of Jones county for Anson Jones.

And I well remember a flying trip I took up there to the dedication of the Burleson marker along with several local city and county officials — out where I ride fence.

813,000 elderly vets to get questionnaires

representative of any county service officer if they national veterans have any questions about the organization or veterans reporting form.

Among some 2.3 million Veterans Administration pension beneficiaries who will receive VA annual income questionnaires this year will be 813,000 elderly veterans and nearly half a million children of deceased wartime veterans who have never before been asked to fill out the forms, Jack Coker, Director of the Waco VA Regional Office, said today.

The questionnaires must be completed and returned to the VA to prevent loss of pension in 1979.

Coker said pending legislation makes it necessary for the VA to gather income information on children receiving pension benefits and pensioners age 72 and older who have previously been exempt from completing the income questionnaire after being on the VA rolls for two successive years.

Pensions are paid to wartime veterans with non-service-connected disabilities that are permanently and totally disabling who meet income limitations, and to their eligible widows and children.

Currently, the annual income cutoff point for veterans or widows without a dependent is $3,770. Veterans or widows with dependents cannot have a countable income of more than $5,070 and still be eligible for a VA pension. The annual income limitation for dependent children is $3,080.

Annual income limitations also apply to parents of veterans who died of service-connected causes.

The annual income questionnaires being sent this year to previously exempt elderly beneficiaries and to eligible children will enable us to be certain that these individuals receive the maximum possible pension in 1979," Coker said.

The income questionnaire will be mailed with the VA's November 1 pension checks and must be returned to the agency by January 1, 1979.

Coker urged all beneficiaries over 72 and dependent children of deceased veterans who receive the annual income questionnaire for the first time to contact the nearest VA regional office or a
